Proposed Improvements Reviewed

No Objections Heard At Local Highway Hearing

No objections were voiced yesterday at a public hearing held by the North Carolina State Highway Commission on proposed improvements to Cotanche and Tenth Streets here, and a proposed corridor for the location of the Eastern Bypass of Greenville.

The Charles Street project would include improvement of Charles Street from the U.S. 264 Bypass to Twelfth Street; relocation of Charles Street from Twelfth Street to Cotanche Street at Eleventh Street; and improvement of Cotanche Street from Eleventh Street to Tenth Street.

Widening of Tenth Street from the Norfolk - Southern Railroad Crossing to Cotanche Street was also proposed.

The proposed corridor for the location of the Eastern Bypass would run from the intersection of U.S. 264 Bypass and Tenth Street northerly to U.S. 13-N.C. 11, near the Burroughs - Wellcome and Co., plant north of Greenville.

According to Arthur Tripp, Highway Commissioner from Greenville, "it is our responsibility to move traffic, and that is what we intend to do."

He noted that it is his hope that most of the projects would be under contract by February, 1971.

Officials explained that the projected cost of the Charles Street improvement amounts to between $900,000 and $1 million. That project includes widening Charles, from U.S. 264 Bypass to Twelfth Street to five lanes (four travel lanes and a center left turn lane) and constructing a new overpass at the Norfolk - Southern Railroad Crossing. Then a four lane section would link Charles Street, from Twelfth Street to Tenth Street.

The project will be done with 50 percent federal matching funds.

The Tenth Street project would provide a tie-in with the proposed improvement of Tenth Street from the railroad crossing eastward to the U.S. 264 Bypass intersection. Hearings have already been held on that project and the Highway Commission is in the process of acquiring the right-of-way.

The proposed tie-in project will cost an estimated $20,000, not including right-of-way costs.

The Eastern Bypass project, estimated to cost about $3,350,000, would include acquisition of a four-lane right-of-way, and construction of a four-lane road and bridge across the Tar River to N.C. 30, then a two-lane road on a four-lane right-of-way to N.C. 11-U.S. 13.

The Eastern Bypass corridor is the first phase of a proposed $14 million project to construct a bypass to Washington.

All of the projects are part of Greenville's thoroughfare plan and have been under construction for the past few years.

'Drastic Action' Up To Scott In Welfare Revolt

RALEIGH (AP) — The Social Services Board has agreed to let Gov. Bob Scott decide which of two "drastic" actions the state should take to force unwilling counties to ante up sufficient funds for welfare programs.

Board Chairman John Jordan said the only two steps open to the state in order for it to keep $275 million in federal funds are (1) taking court action against all the recalcitrant counties, or (2) cutting off their state welfare funds.

The board's meeting Wednesday came only a day after a Health, Education and Welfare review team visited Raleigh and warned the state it could lose all federal welfare funds if the counties did not come into compliance.

"We have reached the point now where we have to do something extreme in order to safeguard the federal money for counties that are willing to put up their share of the funds," Jordan said.

"Losing $275 million is a right big risk to run for a state of our limited resources. I think the governor is going to be extremely concerned when he sees this money for needy North Carolinians in jeopardy."

Jordan said to keep the federal money the state will have to take more drastic action than in the past. He noted that a case the state brought against Jones County last September has not yet come to trial. Jones and three other counties refused last year to put up money for a work incentive program (WIN) to train welfare mothers and find them jobs.

"The federal investigating team asked 'some right embarrassing questions' about the delay in the Jones case, Jordan recalled. He urged Deputy Atty. Gen. Robert Weathers to seek a special court term to expedite the case.

"The delay here has made the situation much worse with a number of counties following Jones' example because that county got away with it," Jordan said.

Instead of four counties out of 11 refusing to participate in the WIN program, six have refused to participate this year. They are Beaufort, Craven, Forsyth, Gaston, Guilford and Jones.

Seven other counties have not appropriated sufficient funds for welfare programs this fiscal year. They are Beaufort, Ashe, Chatham, Franklin, Mitchell, Sampson and Yancey. Another 23 counties have failed to submit their budgets, which were due April 15.

"This is the most serious situation this department has ever faced," Welfare Commissioner Clifton Craig told the board. "The entire social services program is literally on the point of collapse based on the refusal of a few counties to provide their share of funds."

Coroner's Jury Rules Shooting 'Unintentional'

A six-man Coroner's jury last night after deliberating for 40 minutes, said a 19-year-old Negro killed July 9 was "shot unintentionally" and recommended that no criminal action be taken against an Edgecombe County deputy sheriff who fired the fatal shot.

Pitt County Coroner E. W. Harvey said Fred Jasper Gardner Jr. of Pinetops died of a bullet wound in his left side about 9 p.m., July 9. Testimony indicated that Edgecombe deputy sheriff Henry G. Norris, 24, had been involved in a high-speed chase of the Gardner car, and had stopped the vehicle about eight miles West of Greenville on N.C. 43, after beginning the chase at Pinetops in Edgecombe County.

Johnnie L. Harrell, chief of East Carolina University's campus police force, witnessed the shooting.

Harrell, who said he was off duty at the time, testified that he was traveling eastward on N.C. 43 when the car driven by Gardner sped past him, followed by Norris' sheriff's department vehicle. Both cars then stopped, Harrell added, with the police car stopped in front of the Gardner vehicle. Harrell noted that he stopped about 20 feet to the rear of the Gardner car.

"I saw the deputy sheriff get out of his car and start walking back toward the Gardner car... gun in hand. When he was about 10 feet from the Gardner car, he said 'get out of the car'."

Norris asked Gardner to "bend down over the hood... he asked two or three times, and Gardner made no motion to bend down," Harrell continued.

"I took his (Gardner's) right elbow and left shoulder and asked him to bend down," the ECU officer continued.

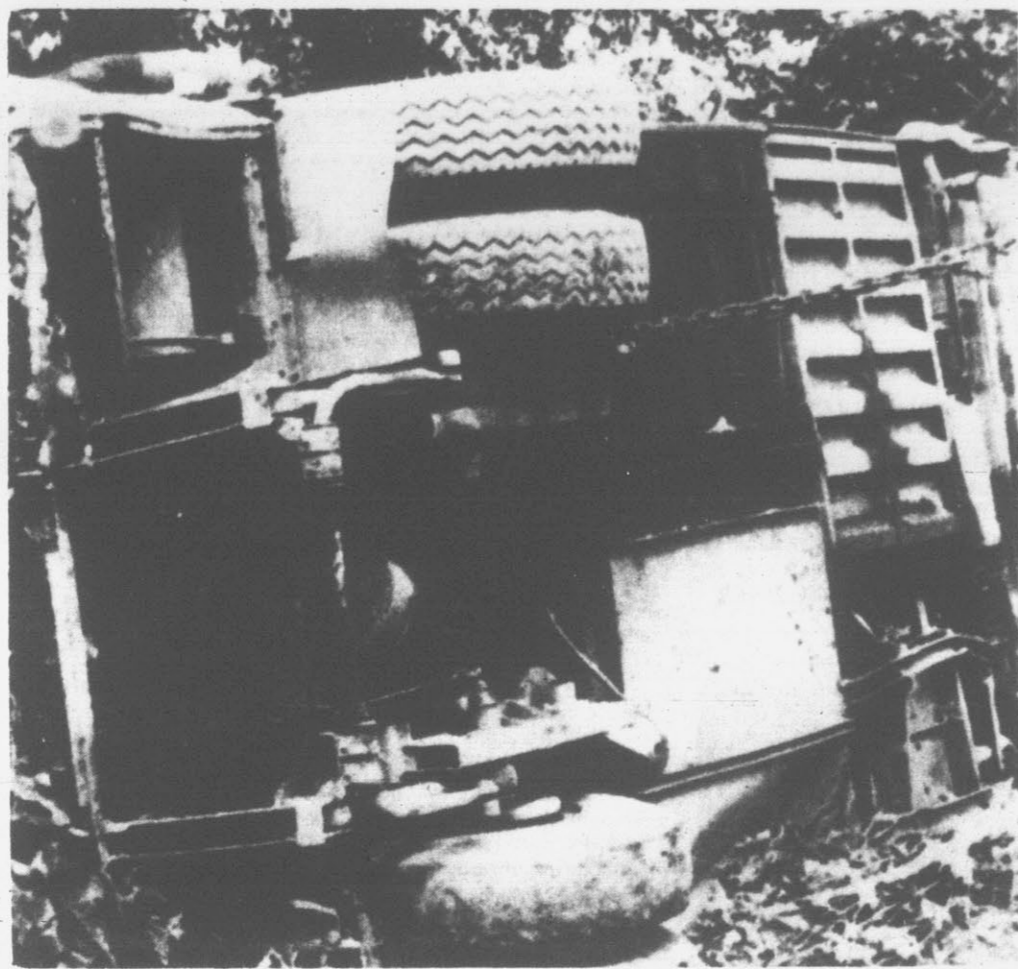

Norris, Harrell said, took one step back after Gardner bent over the hood of his car, and asked for Gardner's drivers license.

Gardner, according to Harrell, "started to raise up off the hood. His hand went to the rear... not quickly but fast. That's when the gun went off."

Gardner said "Oh hell" and fell on the hood of the car," Harrell testified.

"The deputy stood there for a second or two, put his gun in the holster and walked to the rear of the car and back," Harrell continued.

"He asked me, 'go to my car and get the handcuffs, which I

Seven Children Die As Chartered Bus Wrecked

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Comic books, a baseball cap and other personal belongings scattered across a roadside gulch were stark reminders of a bus crash that killed seven children and injured 52 persons Wednesday.

The victims were riding in a bus chartered by the Hillel Country Day School of Lawrence, N.Y., when it skidded off a wet highway.

Screaming youngsters were thrown from the bus as it pitched end over end down an embankment. Some were pinned beneath it when it came to rest off U.S. 22, a four-lane highway.

Forty-nine children and 10 adults from the wealthy Long Island community of Lawrence and nearby towns were aboard. They were headed for an overnight outing at the chocolate capital of Hershey and the Pennsylvania Dutch country.

Authorities said the dead ranged in age from 11 to 16.

Three of the injured were listed in critical condition.

"When I looked up, I saw the bus just spinning off the road," said Philip Gaar, a Hillel representative. He said he climbed from the wreckage through a window and started helping others out. "There were people on the top of the banks and you had to yell and scream at them before they would come down to help."

A trooper, who asked that his name not be used, said, "When this road gets a little wet, it is like a grease stick."

There have been two truck accidents in the same spot in the past two weeks. The road forms an "S" curve between two bridges.

Anthony L. Schmiege, chief highway safety officer with the National Transportation Safety Board, was en route to the site. The board is an independent federal agency with responsibility for safety in all modes of transportation.

Baffled

COLUMBIA (AP)—The South Carolina state Law Enforcement Division (SLED) is baffled.

After three days of searching, SLED admits its two best bloodhounds are lost.

The two female dogs, Belle and Queen, disappeared Monday while tracking several escapes from the Riverside Reform School for Girls—with barking distance of SLED headquarters. The girls were found—but the dogs were not.

A search involving men on foot, more bloodhounds, airplanes and cars so far has failed to locate the wayward animals, which are presumed to be somewhere in heavily wooded areas along the Broad River north of Columbia.

Israeli Go Into Lebanon

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli troops entered Lebanon early today, destroyed three buildings in a border village and withdrew without suffering casualties, the Israeli military command announced.

A spokesman said the attack on the village of Qala was in retaliation for attacks on Arab guerrillas using Lebanon as a springboard for raids on Israeli border towns. It was the first sizable Israeli crossing into Lebanon since May 12, when a massive antiguerrilla sweep was made.

The Israelis claim that during June and July Lebanon-based terrorists have attacked 15 border towns, killing one Israeli civilian and wounding 22.

Israeli jets continued their daily raids today on Egyptian military positions along the Suez Canal, and a spokesman said all planes returned safely. He gave no details.

Seven Israeli soldiers were wounded Wednesday in an exchange of gunfire with the Egyptians across the canal.

BUS ACCIDENT

BALTIMORE (AP) — A bus carrying members of a religious group from Winston-Salem, N.C. crashed through a guard rail on the Harbor Tunnel Slidway Wednesday night and slid down an embankment, injuring all 36 persons aboard.

Wonders Over Sudden Blame

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — City Manager John Gold of Winston-Salem said today he cannot understand how his city could cause sudden fish kills in the Yadkin River because it dumps about the same amount of waste in the river's tributaries each day.

He noted, however, the city will open bids Tuesday on facilities that will double its capacity for treatment of wastes before they are dumped into creeks feeding the Yadkin.

Earl Hubbard, assistant director of the North Carolina Department of Air and Water Resources, said Wednesday Winston-Salem's dumping of inadequately treated wastes — plus excessive natural runoff of wastes into the creeks — caused 5,000 to 10,000 fish to die last week.

The increased natural runoff, he said, was caused by torrential rains.

Together, Hubbard said, the two factors added enough organic matter to the water to result "in the depletion of oxygen in the Yadkin" and kill the fish.

Gold and other city officials were to meet today with Hubbard and other state officials.

Hubbard said, "We're going to talk turkey. We're going to take down our hair and talk about all possible ways to prevent a recurrence."

Last week's fish kill was the third in a month on the Yadkin downstream from Winston-Salem. Similar kills occurred June 11 and 14. State officials said the first killed about 30,000 fish and the second 5,000 to 10,000.

Hubbard indicated Winston-Salem was also responsible for the earlier kills.

He said Winston-Salem's growth had overloaded its waste treatment system. He noted the city and the Department of Air and Water Resources have been working for years to organize a plan to expand the system to meet the city's needs.

Bar Involving In Political Action

BOSTON (AP) — Boston University has notified its students that they must not involve the school in political activity.

Acting President Calvin B.T. Lee said in a notice printed Wednesday in the university gazette that the school is forbidden by tax law from being involved in political action.

Brandeis University in Waltham issued similar guidelines last week after the city's tax assessors levied an estimated $10,000 in taxes on a Brandeis building that was used last spring by the Student Strike Information Center, a national clearing house on campus protests.

The building's tax exempt status was restored this week after Brandeis advised the assessors the information center had been moved out.

Vote Emergency Assessment

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks adopted a resolution Wednesday authorizing emergency assessment of $1 a member in the event of a national disaster or for national defense.

The fraternal order, holding its 106th national convention in San Francisco, has 1,508,000 members.

Critical Summer

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Utilities Commission said today the electrical power supply situation in the state "has become more critical" this summer as a result of delays in additions to power plants capacities.

"While we do not necessarily expect any brownouts or blackouts," the commission said in a prepared statement, "the possibility of some such problems occurring during time periods of peak power usage has increased significantly."

The state agency said it had been advised by Carolina Power & Light Co., Duke Power Co., Virginia Electric Power Co. and South Carolina Electric and Gas Co. that they are experiencing unexpected delays in scheduled additions to their generating capacities.

The companies are members of the Carolinas-Virginia Power Pool.

"Instead of a projected 8.1 per cent power generating reserve for this summer," the commission said, "a reserve of only approximately 5 per cent will be available until the re-scheduled plant additions are made in the middle of August."

Texas School Districts Offer Key Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — Forty-eight Texas school districts may blast a hole in the Nixon administration's claim that Southern-style school segregation will virtually be wiped out by this fall.

With classes due to resume in most schools in six weeks, the administration must decide how to proceed against the districts, which make up the bulk of systems below the Mason-Dixon Line, that retain separate schools for blacks and whites.

Jerris Leonard, assistant attorney general for civil rights, says the districts were called to the attention of the Justice Department only a few weeks ago. Since then, Texas school administrators have been sent letters warning of suits against state education officials if the districts resist adopting unitary systems.

The number of holdout districts in Texas is more than twice the 19 that prompted, after much agonizing by, department officials, suits against the State of Mississippi and its state education officials.

The press of time almost rules out individual suits against each district. In Florida, South Carolina and Arkansas, the department got around this by consolidating action against all segregated districts within the jurisdiction of a U.S. District Court into a single suit. The multidistrict suits, with the state suits in Mississippi, went after 46 districts when filed last Thursday.

But in those districts, the 10 more that have been sued in the past week and 18 of the 66 still facing court action, state and local officials had known since March they would be sued if the systems were not desegregated voluntarily.

Texas officials, however, received their official notice only last week.

Told Highway Funds Reduced

RALEIGH (AP) — The federal government has notified the North Carolina Highway Commission of a 20 per cent cutback in federal funds for road construction.

The commission was notified Wednesday that its allocation for the quarter beginning July 1 is $14.2 million. This compares with $17.7 million the previous quarter and a third quarter allocation for the past fiscal year of $19.1 million.

South Carolina also has been cut back, to $11.4 million in the July-September quarter.

Highway Administrator George Willoughby said he was confident North Carolina would get the remaining 20 per cent before the quarter ends. The reduction will have no immediate effect on road projects, he said.

Notification of the 20 per cent cutback, which was reported unofficially by Washington last week, was contained in a letter from T. J. Morawski, division engineer for the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads. He said he had been directed to make a "temporary" cutback of 20 per cent in the federal aid funds.

The use of the word "temporary" apparently caused Willoughby to expect that the 20 per cent will be restored within the next several months.

Morawski gave no reason for the fund reduction. However, the Nixon administration last year asked the states to cut back their road programs voluntarily as a means of checking inflation.

Gov. Bob Scott refused to go along. He said North Carolina needs the roads too much. He said he would oppose such a cutback as "false economy."

Woman Auctioneer Followed Trade 'Bad' Films Rarely As 'Good' As Hoped

By LOREN H. OSMAN
Milwaukee Journal Writer
MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — "I want five and five and five and who will give me five ... all right, two and a half; we will do it the hard way ..."

The chant of the auctioneer fascinates many persons, moves some to raise their bids and reach for their wallets. It always has the same ending:

"Sold!"

One Wisconsin auctioneer puts extra variety into the singsong style—a woman's touch.

"Col." Hope L. Waldecker, 42, of Caledonia is one of the few women in the business of bidders, bombast and bargains. She bills herself, with the typical unrestraint of her trade, as "America's Foremost. Lady Auctioneer." She puts over sales not with female wiles but the no-nonsense use of voice—pleading, cajoling, even entertaining, but always to get "a raise."

For Mrs. Waldecker, climbing into the auction ring wasn't hard. She was raised with the chant of her father, Arthur Tounsignant, ringing in her ears, and her grandfather also was an auctioneer.

"I just followed their footsteps," she declared. "But following footsteps for me meant being a boy, because I had no brothers. Dad had a livestock auction at Provincetown, Mass. I was running errands for him as soon as I could walk and I was calling sales by the time I was 15."

Mrs. Waldecker's specialty now is auctioning antiques. She is confident she could handle selling livestock, too, and points out she is a qualified livestock judge. She recalled, with a smile, how her father would rush through piles of personal belongings he called "junk," so he could get on with selling cattle.

Homemaker's Haven By Mrs. Sue May Pitt Home Agent

Trunks can not only give interest and beauty to your home but also add extra storage for linen, blankets, out-of-season clothes, mementos, silver, and of course toys. Flat-top trunks are perfect for end and coffee tables, night stands, etc. Doll trunks make lovely jewelry, glove and scarf cases.

For your first venture, select a trunk that is in as good condition as possible and make all repairs. Have a cabinet maker make new runners for the bottom to replace those that might be missing. Replace casters if they are missing. Check handles, hinges and locks for necessary replacement. You can dress a trunk up or down with the handles. Leather works well for handles. Brass chains are most effective. Gold or white rope with tassels on the ends and used through brass rings add glamour. If there are chips or tears in the wood, use wood putty to fill the space.

Remove old finish if you wish to finish the wood parts in a natural or stained wood finish.

To remove paper lining, sponge it with warm water until saturated. Use a scraper or knife to remove wet paper. Remove leather with a single-edge razor. If the inside has an odor, air it or wipe it down with a cloth wet with vinegar. Sand with medium sandpaper to smooth up. After sanding, the next step is undercoating. Wipe off dust thoroughly with a rag wet with paint thinner. If trunk is rusty, use a coat of metal primer to keep rust from coming through; also paint a semi-circular area on the inside where the trunk hinges, as you will not be able to cover this area with fabric. After drying 24 hours, add top coat, using semi-gloss enamel. Use two coats, drying 24 hours between each coat. Wipe each time with paint thinner to remove dirt particles before painting. If you have rough spots, sand lightly.

Antiquing is the fun part. Antiquing is applying a glaze over a previously painted surface and then wiping off most of the glaze before it dries. Antique only a section at a time. To make antiquing glaze:

Mix: 1 part color varnish or penetrating sealer (do not use the quick-drying kind). Use a satin finish.
3 parts paint thinner
1 part linseed oil

To the above add oil color in the amount desired.

On light colors (white ivory, etc.) try one of the following colors: raw umber, burnt umber or raw sienna. On dark colors (red, blue, green) use lampblack. Color on color can be used very successfully, also. Example: dark blue antique might be used over pale blue paint. A coat of varnish must be used after each coat of antiquing, when more than one color of antiquing is used; otherwise, the colors may "lift."

To apply glaze or antiquing use a brush or cloth on one section at a time. Start in a less conspicuous area until you get the knack of the best effects. Be sure to have rags, a clean nylon brush and a can of paint thinner handy before you start the glazing, as it will start to set up in about 15 to 20 minutes.

Now try your hand at getting interesting or unusual effects. Try wiping in a circular motion or wiping in one direction. Try wiping with a steel wool pad instead of a cloth. If you wish a striped effect, dab it with burlap or a crushed newspaper. It seems to work best to wipe it first with one cloth to get most of the liquid off, then change to a cloth or steel wool for the final glazing. If you are not satisfied with the effect, take paint thinner and wipe it off and start again. Do not try to patch up after the antiquing has set. Use dry paint brush to get at corners. Let dry 24 hours. For further information call (758-1196) or write your Home Economics Extension Office, Box 1427, Greenville, North Carolina 27834.

"There were 360 men and me. For the first days, I didn't talk to anyone—and that's something for me. I took exercises for speech. Then I stood up to demonstrate and I guess I surprised them."

The secret of a good auction, says Mrs. Waldecker, is keeping control. That means having an abundance of patience, sometimes feigning anger, sometimes humor. "You've got to be a bit of an actor," she added.

There is plenty of plain hard work. For a recent auction that started in a tavern dining room, at 1:30 p.m., she was on the scene at 7 a.m. She kept cleaning up chores with the clerk of the sale.

Like all good auctioneers, Mrs. Waldecker has developed her own style. She keeps herself and the crowd relaxed by morsels of wit and insists "they will arise, they don't have to be contrived."

She has a weakness and it has added to the fun of her career. With fervor, she collects fine old pieces. Her kitchen is a forest of strange pots, cheese dippers, chestnut roasters, a sausage suifer, weather vanes, and coast guard ship lamps, all in copper and most hanging from the ceiling.

The collection came naturally because of opportunities to buy in the business of selling, and in doing antique appraisals—for which she often takes an antique instead of cash payment.

Her childhood venture into auctioneering didn't lead to a career until years later. Proficient in French—her parents were French-Canadians—and knowing German from high school, she took a job, at 18, with the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration as an interpreter at refugee centers in Europe.

Marriage followed. When that didn't pan out, she tried her hand at "free lance" import and export business. She explained that most of the American antiques already were in collectors' hands. She capitalized on the shortage and the heightened interest in rare items that the war had created.

In 1956 she returned to the

DEAR ABBY: I can't understand why people go to a movie and then afterwards tell everybody how filthy and disgusting it was!

Movies are rated, so they surely must know what kind of movie they are buying a ticket to see. They know in advance whether there will be nude scenes or rough language, so if that sort of thing offends them, why don't they stay home? Right or wrong?

SICK OF HYPOCRITES

DEAR SICK: You're right of course. [Such movies are rarely as "good" as expected—and by that I mean as "bad" as the viewer hoped they'd be.]

DEAR ABBY: We have a long-haired son. He is of age and was married in college. He wrote and asked if he could bring his bride to our home until he finds suitable work. We feel that his hair style is hurting his chances of getting a job. One prospective employer said he'd hire him if he cut his hair and shaved off his beard. Our son refused on the grounds that he didn't want to compromise his principles.

Abby, should we welcome him home with his bride when he has that attitude? We are undecided. We want to help him, but we don't want to go along with something we feel is hindering him. We don't support this long hair look and feel it may be a long stay at home if the hair stays. Please advise?

MONTANA PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: If you really want to help your son, don't offer him bread with a hook in it. Let him bring his bride home to you, and don't tell him how to comb his hair. Also, a man who's old enough to shave is old enough to decide whether he WANTS to or not. If your son is actually unemployable because of his hair, he'll find out—which is the best way to learn.

DEAR ABBY: I resent your remark, "Save your Confederate money, the south will rise again. Maybe."

What do you mean, "Maybe?" The south IS rising again! And now!

If you Yankees would realize the war is over and accept the south back into the Union, instead of continuing to chastise it, this good ole U. S. A. would be a far better place in which to live.

Why don't you bleeding hearts start demanding that the "laws of the land" be applied equally to all sections of the country instead of just the south?

Well, it sure is strange, but in 99 per cent of the cases, it is the Yankee who brings up the subject of the Civil War. Also the majority of the visitors coming to Richmond, Va., to learn more about the Civil War history are Yankees. Don't get me wrong. I'm glad to see all those Yankees invading Richmond to spend their American dollars here. We can sure use them. Especially if we are ever going to rise over the likes of you.

Very truly yours
X. M.: Richmond, Va.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the lady who wrote saying her husband loved to buy her clothes but had terrible taste.

I, too, used to have this problem, but rather than hurt his feelings, I gently steered him away from dresses, coats and clothes to be worn in public to nightgowns and lounging attire, and he can be as wild and extravagant as he wants to be. I am genuinely thrilled as I would never spend that much money on a nightgown, and he now feels that it takes a special talent to buy sexy, expensive clothes to be worn "just for him."

This way, everybody wins. And why hurt feelings when you don't have to?

COOKING IS FUN!

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Food Editor
SATURDAY DINNER

This recipe produces one of the best of chocolate cakes.

- Roast Leg of Lamb with Potatoes and Carrots
- Salad Bowl Mint Jelly
- CHOCOLATE SPONGE CAKE
4 squares (4 ounces) unsweetened chocolate
1 cup milk
1 cup sifted cake flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
4 large eggs, separated
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Break chocolate squares in half and place in a small saucepan with the milk. Over low heat, stirring constantly, heat until chocolate melts and mixture is smoothly combined. If there are any flecks of chocolate use a whisk to beat smooth. Remove from heat and set aside.

On wax paper sift together the cake flour, baking powder and salt; return to sifter and set aside. In medium mixing bowl beat egg whites until frothy. Beat in 1/2 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time. Continue to beat if necessary until mixture forms stiff straight peaks when beater is slowly withdrawn; set aside. Without washing beater, in large mixing bowl beat egg yolks until thickened and lemon color; gradually beat in remaining one cup sugar and vanilla until very thick and ivory color. Add chocolate mixture; beat gently to blend. Gradually sift in flour mixture, gently beating it in as you do so. Add egg whites; With a rubber spatula fold in.

If there are any blobs of white that don't fold in easily, gently break them up with the spatula. Turn into two ungreased nine-inch round layercake pans. Bake in preheated 350-degree oven until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean—20 to 25 minutes. Let stand in pans for 10 minutes—cake will shrink from sides of pan; turn out on wire racks; with another rack turn right side up. Cool completely. Fill and frost with chocolate-flavored whipped cream.

Exercise does It

NEW YORK (UPI)—If you're fat but flabby and you want to lose inches around your waist, cut down on food intake and exercise regularly, suggests the Better Business Bureau of metropolitan New York.

The recommendation was coupled with a caution: a waistline reducing belt will not miraculously melt the inches away. The announcement was in response to queries from consumers interested in claims made by the manufacturer of a so-called sauna belt.

Majority Should Be Pleased

Most Pitt County taxpayers have reacted affirmatively to action of the Board of Commissioners in holding the county-wide tax rate at the $1.52 level for the new fiscal year.

In doing so the Commissioners have approved a budget of $5.6 million, representing an increase of some $600,000 in authorized expenditures by county agencies during the current fiscal year. While the adopted budget is considerably less than initial requests from various agencies, it does represent an increase of almost 12 per cent over the total budget approved by the Commissioners for the fiscal year just ended.

Obviously there are areas of operations — particularly the schools — where authorized expenditures are considerably below that which officials responsible for those operations felt were necessary for the new fiscal year. Only time will tell whether operations of schools and other agencies can be maintained on a satisfactory basis this year

Lt. Governor Looking Ahead

By BRYAN HAILSIP
WADESBORO — The lieutenant governorship is a hybrid: in the executive branch in theory, in the legislative branch in practice, and without a clearly defined role in either.

As the only part-time statewide elective office, its occupant must serve the public while making a living in private business.

It also is a political anomaly — a stepping stone to higher things, or a dead-end street.

Hoyt Patrick Taylor, Jr., knows the dimensions of the office well. His father filled it 20 years ago, and he holds it today.

By one of those nice historical coincidences the senior Taylor served with Governor W. Kerr Scott, father of present Governor Bob Scott.

"I've reached the conclusion the office of lieutenant governor ought to be up-graded. There are a lot of ways in which he could be used more effectively," said Taylor, who practices law in his hometown of Wadesboro when he's not away attending to duties as lieutenant governor.

"I expect to talk to Governor Scott about it. He's been lieutenant governor. I'm going to suggest that he name a committee to study the office and make recommendations."

Many in state Democratic party circles look for Taylor to run for governor in 1972, in a bid for the same kind of promotion Scott won in 1968. He hasn't discouraged the expectation, although so far he hasn't gone beyond the point of acknowledging interest in the possibility.

"I'm going to be giving a lot more serious thought to my political future," he said.

While Taylor himself does not set a timetable, it is highly unlikely that he would reach a firm decision until the adjournment of the 1971 General Assembly. It would be characteristic of him to avoid even the seeming conflict of impartial presiding officer of the Senate and avowed candidate for the governorship.

A public announcement of candidacy, and formal launching of a campaign, probably would not be forthcoming until late summer next year.

Taylor, a boyish 46, is a small town practicing lawyer and looks the part. A natural affability makes it easy for everybody to call him "Pat."

He is modest to a degree uncommon in politicians. His official biography in the state manual takes up a mere dozen lines. That lists his graduation — from the University of North Carolina Law School (1948), service in the U.S. Marine Corps (1945-46) (1951-52), and Anson County representative in the General Assembly for six straight terms, beginning in 1955. He was House Speaker in 1965.

The Taylor political style is relaxed and personal. He writes his own speeches and delivers them with more sincerity than polish.

Any future bid for office would be in that vein. He is realistic about the cost and techniques of contemporary campaigning, but he said, "I still hope that in North Carolina the most important fact in an election is the personal relationship between the candidate and the people, not who spends the most on advertising or who's got the most elaborate public relations program."

Presiding in the Senate is the one duty the Constitution gives to the lieutenant governor. It provides also, of course, that the lieutenant governor shall become governor upon the "death, resignation or removal from office" of the governor.

He stands by as acting chief executive upon the Governor's absence from the state, an assignment Taylor has twice filled for Governor Scott. He is called on often for speaking engagements and participation in formal occasions as a representative of the state.

Altogether, demands of the office have reached the point where Taylor is thinking seriously about maintaining an office in Raleigh. Space is available in the State Legislative Building, and funds are available to staff it with a secretary.

"As it is now, people call the Legislative Building to get in touch with me. They have to be told that I'm not in, and nobody knows when I'll be in, or where I am," he said. "It looks bad."

With the office open, he'll spend more time in Raleigh as the next General Assembly session approaches.

Events of the session will have important bearing on his decision regarding the race for governor. His performance will be watched closely for a reading on his position on issues.

with the funds that have now been appropriated. There can be little doubt, however, that the Commissioners in holding the line on the tax rate responded to the sentiment of the vast majority of Pitt Countians. Here, as elsewhere across the state and nation, there has been a growing sentiment against the heavy tax burden at all levels of government. The greatest amount of pressure has been brought where the lightest part of the tax burden really exists, but at the level most accessible to the public — the local government level.

The new budget with a tax rate at the same level as last year will mean that County officials and employes have to tighten operations and stretch dollars to an even greater degree than has been done in the past.

It may also mean that citizens of the county may find before the year is over that they will have to be content with county services at a level slightly lower than they have been accustomed to in the past when budget figures may have been more in line with the need for services.

More Than Arguing An Issue Is Involved

U.S. Attorney General John Mitchell's views on the 18-year-old voting bill so recently signed into law by President Nixon, come into direct conflict with opinions of the executive secretary of the North Carolina Board of Elections, Alex Brock.

Brock knows whereof he speaks when he says the voting rights act violates the state constitution and election laws which set legal voting age at 21. He also says the act violates five Articles of the U.S. Constitution, and points specifically to Article One which leaves up to the states the question of the establishment of voting age.

The Attorney General made plain his doubts all states will go along with the act and is anticipating court fights.

President Nixon's qualms on signing the bill were dismissed by the observation that any good attorney can capably argue either side of a case.

But arguing isn't winning.

Preparing For Hoffa Release

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — In what Congressional committee aides describe as a "highly unusual" call, the Justice Department telephone both House and Senate Labor Committees recently to check progress of a bill that would release James Hoffa, imprisoned since the legal right to run for reelection of the Teamsters Union — thereby easing the way toward his release from jail.

The bill, which the Justice Department drafted last spring and quietly sent to Congress, is regarded by politicians as the first step toward Hoffa's possible parole next spring, just before the national Teamster convention elects a new president.

Hoffa's present term as Teamsters president ends in July, 1971. Under present law, he could be reelected either in or out of jail. Political speculation among those close to the affair is that President Nixon, a beneficiary in the 1960 Presidential election of heavy contributions from Hoffa, would like to help him get out of jail. But Mr. Nixon does not want to risk a hot political backlash if Hoffa stepped from a jail cell back to his old desk in the union.

Hoffa is now in the fourth year of a five-year sentence for jury tampering. His eight-year sentence for Teamster pension-fund manipulations, which Hoffa's lawyers are now appealing, will start after the five-year jury-tampering sentence if Hoffa is not freed first on parole or by commutation.

The Justice Department bill, now ready for markup by a Senate labor subcommittee, gets to the Hoffa problem by a route so indirect that only a legal expert would know that Hoffa is the target.

The bill specifically adds "kidnapping, perjury, forgery" and other offenses to the present list of felonies which are a bar to labor union office. Jury tampering is not specifically listed. That offense is covered in the bill by an obscure reference to "any violation of Chapter 73 of Title 18 of the U.S. (criminal code) — jury tampering. That would take care of Hoffa.

Despite the extraordinary Justice Department interest in the bill, however, it has no chance of passage this year. The House Labor Committee has not even held hearings.

A footnote: Journalist Clark Mollenhoff, whose investigative reporting helped put Hoffa behind bars, has told friends that the possibility of Hoffa's release is one reason among many others why he quit as a White House aide.

Public Forum

To The Editor:

Is there nothing we, the citizens of the Greenville area, can do about our utilities? Don't you think it is outrageous, at the high prices we are paying, that we lose an average of 30 minutes of electricity per week?

Do you realize that this spasmodic service is most harmful to all appliances, especially air-conditioners?

If the people of Greenville own the utilities, why do they have no voice in it?

Sincerely,
June M. Ficklen

Strength For Today

HE REMEMBERED

There was a British officer who, a generation ago, was sent to a distant outpost in the Empire. His station was in the very center of the jungle. With characteristic British toughness of mind, this officer decided that he would not allow his surroundings to get on his nerves, and especially that he would not allow himself to forget that he was a Britisher and so go native. Accordingly, he continued religiously certain customs which had punctuated every day of his past life. He took tea in the afternoon, and he never failed to don a dinner coat every evening precisely the same as if he had been at his home in Kent.

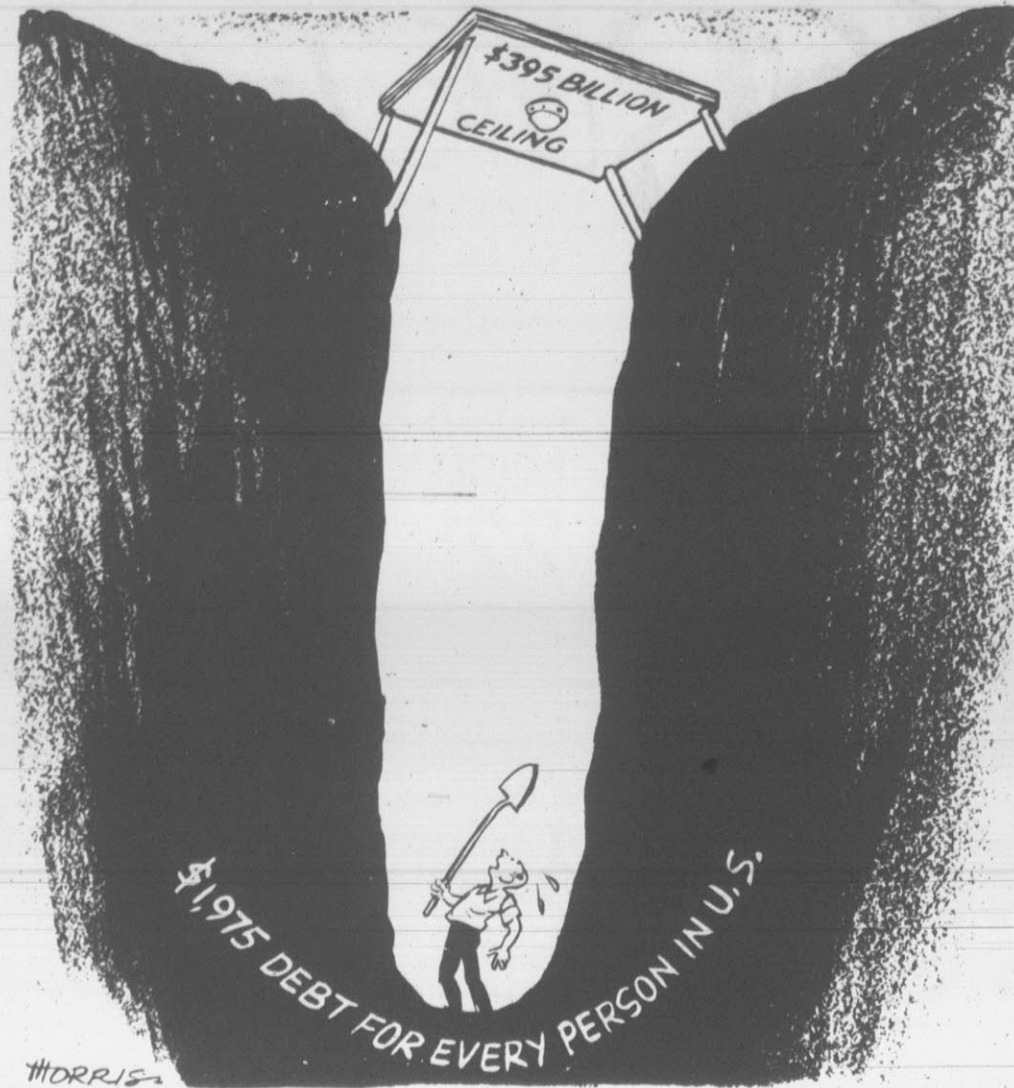

"Nobless oblige" is the name given to that inner quality of heart which impels men to live up to the best they know. The Britisher in the jungle determined that he would never forget that he was a Britisher. He was not going to let debasing circumstances debase him. He would meet the jungle and its influence with all those refinements of living that civilization had built up through the centuries. He would live among the beasts of the jungle — those who walked on four feet and those who walked on two — but he would not go down to their level.

The best way to fight the degrading influence of anything is by remembering our background, our best moments, our good name and our religion.

HOW THE DEBT CEILING REALLY LOOKS!

By JAMES KILPATRICK

Another Crack At Topic

A couple of weeks ago I wrote a column dealing with the phony "Dusseldorf Rules for Revolution." The piece churned up such a flood of angry mail that I am minded to have another crack at the topic, if only to remark what might be termed the Credulity Wed.

The Credulity Wed is the opposite of the Credibility Gap. Those who have toppled into the Credibility Gap tend to doubt everything; they do not believe their mothers under oath.

At the other extreme are those bonded together by the Credulity Wed. Given the least inducement, they will believe anything. They are the original snake-oil suckers. They will believe in wrinkle creams, potency pills, and ten-dollar cures for baldness. They will buy roof repairs from any gypsy who knocks at their door. Generations of carnival barkers have taken these rubes to the cleaners, and still the rubes come back for more.

So it is with some of my good but gullible friends of the anti-Communist Right. They have been royally Dusseldorfed by a piece of transparent fakery. But such is the glue-like power of the Credulity Wed that nothing will shake their unbreakable faith. They will not be moved.

The "Dusseldorf Rules," for those who came in late, purport to be nine rules for "bringing about a revolution." In the abridged version, the rules were simply "captured by Allied forces in Dusseldorf, Germany, in May, 1919." Since I wrote my earlier column, at least titty readers have provided me with an enlarged version, gold-leafed and deckle-edged, bound in genuine simulated Morocco. This version begins:

"On a dark night in May, 1919, two lorries rumbled across a bridge and on into the town of Dusseldorf. Among the dozen rowdy, singing 'Tommys' apparently ready for a gay evening were two representatives of the Allied military intelligence. These men had traced a wave of indiscipline, mutiny, and murder among the troops to the local headquarters of a revolutionary organization established in the town.

"Pretending to be drunk, they brushed by the sentries and arrested the ringleaders, a group of thirteen men and women seated at a long table. In the course of the raid the Allied officers emptied the contents of the safe. One of the documents found in it contained a specific outline of 'Rules for Bringing About a Revolution.'"

The purported "rules" follow: Corrupt the young; get them away from religion; get them interested in sex — and so on, right down to "cause the registration of all firearms on some pretext,

Other Editors Say The Tardy Congress

(Christian Science Monitor)

This is the time of year — with the United States Congress returning from its long Fourth of July weekend — when editorial pages carry a lament concerning how little work the legislators have done, and how late Congress will be in adjourning, come autumn.

There are always excuses, some valid. This year, the Senate consumed long hours in two virtual, if undeclared, filibusters. One, by Southern senators, concerned school desegregation provisions. The other swirled around the nomination, finally defeated, of G. Harrold Carswell to be Associate Justice of the Supreme Court. These roadblocks surmounted, the Senate then consumed days and weeks debating Cambodia and the Cooper-Church resolution.

The second session of the 91st Congress is not precisely a "do-nothing" aggregation. It has completed action on several major measures, including reduction of the voting age to eighteen, water pollution, and federal employees' pay. It has overridden the President's veto of the hospital construction bill. The House has approved the proposed constitutional amendment calling for direct election of the president, and a Senate committee has approved it. The House has also voted postal reform. But other measures, some proposed by President Nixon and a few left over from 1969, await action. Among them:

The big welfare reform proposals, providing a welfare payment minimum and benefits for the working poor.

The controversial District of Columbia crime bill and another measure aimed at controlling organized crime.

Education proposals, one to give extra funds to schools in process of desegregating.

Consumer protection measures and a package of seven bills aimed at cleaning up the environment.

An omnibus farm bill, rewriting federal land retirement and price support programs.

Much left to do! Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield began evening sessions June 23, to make up for the delay occasioned by the Cambodia debate. He estimates the Senate probably will carry on until two weeks before the November election — with no summer vacation — and reconvene briefly after the election. The House is in somewhat better shape. Surely Congress could do better, if legislators kept aware of how time consumingly tedious some of their practices are. We say that every year.

Adults Lose Selves

By BOB HARING
Associated Press Writer
NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — At some point in life, a man loses his identity.

No longer is he Sidney Glutz, captain of industry, magnate of merchandising, molder of men, maker of millions.

He is Aaron's daddy. Or Susie's. Or whatever the names of his children might label him.

It must be humbling to be board chairman of a giant corporation and be known for a brilliant career in business, a startling innovation in automobiles or a daring leap in finance, but because you are "Jimmy's daddy — and he's the best somersaulter in the block."

It is humbling enough for humbler men, returning from the 6:07 or a long day at the office, to hear the cry of a neighbor child: "Bob's daddy, Bob's daddy, come see what we made."

The triumphs of the workaday world are submerged somehow to being the father of the maker of a sandpile rocket ship imagined from three old tires and a broken toy piano.

When the real world does intrude, it is backwards.

To the rising middle-class executive, the cry of a forlorn son: "Billy's daddy is just great — he drives a truck and he let me drive the wheel."

The loss of identity is a peculiarity of parenthood.

Bachelors, regardless of age, don't have it. A childless couple may be Bob and Jo to grandparent age. Given children, they are reduced to Bobby's daddy and mommy.

Children identify instantly with parents, as a cat arches instinctively at the smell or sight of a dog.

Adults big enough to be parents — that is, too old to be baby sitters, too young to be grandparents — pose a puzzle when they are childless. They are big kids.

The first squawl of the infant starts the change. It is accelerated with walking and attains light speed with group play.

A child once asked your wife, "Can Bob come out to play?" Now, he asks a 4-year-old's mother, "Can Bobby's daddy get our ball?"

What must save the corporate chairman — assuming that chairmen and such magnates do have children — is the rise to the top.

The identity problem is one of youth, or at least, of relative youth, '20s and '30s. Board chairmen, even in today's youth-accented world, tend to be olders.

Board chairmen rarely have toddlers to identify them as, "Brian's daddy." By the time a man reaches the top, his children have grown and passed from his nest and with them has fled the identity crisis.

Although, come to think of it, it could be even more humbling to be a step further removed in the identity chain — to be "Jimmy's granddaddy."

Opinions In Brief

"In New York City, the towing charge for illegally parked cars is now $50. It's a nice place to visit but you wouldn't want to park there." — Knoxville (Tenn.) News-Sentinel.

No Dull Moments In Fun City

By ELMER ROESSNER

NEW YORK — This is an interim report on New York, the city that everybody talks about but does anything about.

Savings banks are jammed with long lines of people. They are drawing money out of one bank and depositing it in another to gain all sorts of gifts are ending. But it was fun while it lasted and the remaining newspapers were enriched by the added full-page ads, estimated to yield around $100,000 a day, while the give-away season was at its peak.

Books, Rags Hit
Two of the city's biggest industries have been hit by recessionary influences. The garment industry, known as the rag trade, has been doubly hit. First because garment buying is usually postponable, a lot of demand has been weakened; second, because the girls can't agree on skirt lengths, stores are limiting orders to immediate needs.

The related fur industry is suffering too. For 50 years the conservationists have been calling on women not to buy furs because killing the fur-bearing animal speeds the end of species.

Now, for some reason, the appeals are getting through. Nobody has pinpointed the cause, but racial tensions and campus unrest, blamed for everything else, are not held responsible.

Publishing has also been hit. Higher costs of labor and materials have forced book publishers to raise the average price from $4.95 to $6.95, where they are meeting price resistance.

Magazines, squeezed by rising costs, have slashed their free lists.

"I feel like a heel," one magazine editor told me, "calling up a book publisher for a free copy of a $6.95 book on the chance there might be an article or condensation in it for us, when we have cut him off a free subscription for our $5-a-year magazine."

Restaurants, Abortions
Newspapers have been hit by unions and practically all of them have been slowed down by meetings called during working hours to discuss new union contracts.

Hospitals are booming. The new law permitting abortions almost on request is giving them 200 more operation a week. Blue Cross and Blue Shield are picking up part of the tab.

It is now possible to get seats in most of the swank East Side restaurants without reservations. Expense account business has been halved. Apparently ad agencies and corporations have signaled employees to cut down on entertaining unless it leads to closing deals.

The weather has been cool and rainy so far this summer. This has added to appliance dealers' woes, cutting down air conditioner sales.

Shea Stadium, home of the Mets, is prospering mightily. Sixteen consecutive games packed in crowds of 30,000 or more.

ELMER ROESSNER
gifts for new deposits. Some people are so loyal to some banks that they withdraw deposits from one branch and deposit it in another branch, picking up a clock radio in the process.
The rush is now easing off as the 30-day period in which banks are allowed to offer

Local Students Attend Pre-Registration Day

CHAPEL HILL — Several Greenville students have just completed a day-long pre-registration session at the University of North Carolina here.

The students include: Cindy Worsley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard K. Worsley of Churchill Drive; Katrina Jolly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Hayes of 1802 Sulgrave Rd.; Ernest Carraway, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Carraway of 1605 Beaumont Dr.; William Armistead, son of Mrs. D. B. Armistead of 1603 E. Sixth St.; Joshua Hines Weeks, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Weeks of 141 E. Longmeadow Rd.; Clifton Edwards, son of Cliff Edwards of Memorial Drive; Will Corbitt, son of W. S. Corbitt of 608 Oak St.; Bryant Kittrell, son of J. B. Kittrell Jr. of 600 S. Elm St.; and Donald Jackson Edwards, son of I. J. Edwards Jr. of 205 Windsor Rd.

Entering students are encouraged to participate in pre-registration prior to their coming to the University in the fall.

During pre-registration students take placement tests, prepared their course study, and familiarize themselves with the campus. It is co-sponsored by the Office of Undergraduate Admissions and the General College.

The University is composed of 14 colleges and schools and more than 70 departments. The student body enrollment is expected to approach 17,000 in the fall — more than 3,000 of these, freshmen and new students. There are nearly 1500 faculty members.

Evans, Novak

This living-color version appeared in a now-defunct publication of the Moral Rearmament Movement, known as "New World News," in February, 1946. Reporter Donald Janson of

The New York Times, checking back, found a former MRA employee who hazily recalled that the "rules" first appeared in some German paper "in the Twenties or Thirties," and later were translated into English in Great Britain. The reference to "lorries" might suggest a British genesis.

To my own fishmonger's eye, the purple prose suggests no more than the gifted con-artist at work. The "dark night," the two lorries "rumbling," the precisely "thirteen" conspirators seated "at a long table"—these gorgeous details have the filigree splendor of a share of bogus stock. You find the same touch in the false bottoms of old Spanish trunks.

My right-wing friends, I say, will not be misled. The FBI, and the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee dismiss the Dusseldorf Rules as spurious. Staff members of the Library of Congress Slavic and Central European Division searched the papers of Henry T. Allen, commander in Germany in the spring of 1919, as well as contemporary American, British and German newspapers, without finding a trace of the document. Archives of the Chief of Military History disclose nothing. James K. Anderson, editor of the Veterans of Foreign Wars magazine, describes the "rules" as "nonsense." Yet credulity persists; and so long as men and women are willing to be Dusseldorfed, new hoaxes will come along. The late Phineas T. Barnum, believe me, knew his trade.

Defecting Democrats
California Democrat Jess Unruh's campaign for governor is on the verge of a calamitous setback: an outright endorsement of Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan by tycoon Eugene V. Klein, one of the state's most important Democratic money men.

Multimillionaire Klein, chief executive officer of National General Pictures Corp., was both a generous contributor and a formidable fund-raiser for Democratic campaigns through the 1960s. Like many such money men, Klein feels Unruh played the spoiler's role by failing to fully support Democratic candidates — Pierre Salinger for Senator in 1964, Edmund

G. (Pat) Brown for governor in 1966, and, most particularly, Hubert H. Humphrey for President in 1968 — all of whom lost.

Consequently, Klein tells friends he is seriously considering supporting Reagan as a man of integrity, preferable to Unruh, despite their ideological differences. That prospect was bolstered last week when Frank Sinatra, a strong Humphrey Democrat, endorsed Reagan.

Klein won't raise funds for Reagan (who has plentiful money sources of his own), but his defection would further dry up contributions for the money-starved Unruh campaign.

The Unruh campaign has been bombarding former National Committeeman Eugene Wyman, once Unruh's close comrade and later his bitter foe, to stave off the defections. But Wyman has done nothing to influence either Sinatra, who is represented by Wyman's law partner, or Klein, who is Wyman's client. Nor has Humphrey lifted a finger to dissuade potential defectors from Unruh when they ask his advice.

Disorders Push College Insurance Rates Up

By LINDA RUBEY
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's colleges and universities report a phenomenal rise in insurance costs in the wake of student disorder and unrest.

Even schools that have not experienced student turmoil say they are no longer getting the preferred rates they once enjoyed for property insurance and damage from fire and vandalism. Many schools are covered by blanket policies which lump these categories together.

"My complaint is that insurance companies are not looking at the universities individually. They are setting higher rates for everybody to make up losses for a few," says John Beumer, business manager at Xavier University, a Jesuit school in Ohio. Although it has not been hit by student violence, Beumer says Xavier's insurance rate increased by 33 per cent this year.

W. M. Carr, insurance manager at Pennsylvania State University, estimates that for many schools insurance costs now account for almost 1 per cent of their budgets. He adds that Penn State's insurance costs have risen 42 per cent since November 1969.

Other university officials report that along with a general boost in insurance rates has come a doubling of deductibles for fire and vandalism. A deductible means that the insurance company pays for any damages above a specified amount. For example, under a $5,000 deductible for fire, the insurance company would pay for any damages over $5,000.

Insurance companies, however, take a different point of view.

"The predictability has gone out of college insurance. It's kind of like selling a man a home-owners policy when you realize he's going to start making dynamite in his basement," says Donald H. Garlock, senior vice-president at Insurance Company of North America—INA—which insures 300 colleges and universities.

While rates differ from campus to campus, an Associated Press sampling turned up these examples of rising insurance

Three Hurt In Collisions

Three persons were injured and an estimated $3,400 property damage caused in two collisions here yesterday.

Police reported Preston Travis King, 24, of Drum St. and Johnny Wesley Phillips, 22, of 305 Raleigh Ave. were injured when the vehicles they were driving collided at the intersection of Memorial Drive and South Village Drive about 10:55 p.m.

Officers set damage to the King car at $1,200 and placed damage to the Phillips vehicle at $1,300. Phillips was charged with driving under the influence and failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety.

Ola Thomas Reel, 21, of Ayden was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety after his truck collided with a car driven by Alton Rudolph Vincent, 60, of 209 Paris Ave. about 8:06 a.m. at the intersection of N. C. 43 and Red Banks Road.

Officers, who reported Vincent was injured in the wreck, set damage to the Reel vehicle at $400 and estimated damage to the Vincent car at $500.

School Lunch Study Is Set

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina State University has received $167,984 from the Office of Economic Opportunity for a research into school lunch programs.

Dr. William M. Roberts, head of the NCSU department of food science, said Wednesday that schools in Rocky Mount and Edgecombe and Nash counties are cooperating in the research.

He said the study could affect lunch programs across the state and nation. He noted that the state's public schools serve 800,000 children meals on an average day, a $70 million a year operation.

A study will be made of possible innovations in the school lunch program that would assure the highest quality of meals at the least possible cost. The study also will look into nutritional value of foods, costs and food acceptability. And it also will involve the old problem of getting children to eat proper diets.

Approve Study On Assuming Welfare Costs

RALEIGH (AP) — The Social Services Board has authorized a study of the state's assuming the counties share of welfare costs — if funds for the study are available.

The low bidder at $34,000-$36,000 was Booz, Allen and Hamilton of Washington, D.C.

The board Wednesday also said the state Purchase and Contract Division must approve the study.

The chairman of the board, John Jordan said, "We believe the funds can be made available to us. Time is of the essence" if the study is to be completed in time for presentation to the 1971 General Assembly.

YIPPIE SENTENCED
NEW YORK (AP) — Yippee leader Abbie Hoffman has pleaded guilty to resisting arrest during a Columbia University sit-in in 1968 and has been sentenced to a $1,000 fine or a year in jail.

—Columbia University reports its fire insurance cost jumped from $117,000 a year with a $1,000 deductible in 1969 to $140,000 with a $100,000 deductible in 1970.

—The University of California reports its premium went from $200,000 for three years to $344,000 for one year and its deductible from $250,000 to $1 million.

"Insurance rates are not rising because of past experience of large claims from student disruptions, but because of future expectations of what these claims could be," argues Stanley R. Tarr, insurance manager at Rutgers University.

"Even with all the turmoil at the University of California, there has been only one loss involving insurance," Irvin Nicholas, insurance and risk manager, says. That loss was for a fire in 1969. He says that it still has not been settled but it is expected to run around $650,000 after applying a $250,000 deductible.

And Robert M. Beth, insurance manager at Stanford, says Stanford paid $1.3 million in insurance premiums over the past 10 years and collected about $550,000.

Beth claims that even small schools, with minor or no damage from student disturbances, must now take a deductible of at least $100,000.

Insurance companies say that campus losses from student disorders, a loss almost unknown a few years ago, exceeded $8 million for the first eight months of 1969 while total property losses on campuses, not necessarily related to student disorders, exceeded $15 million in the same period. However, the amounts paid to the universities was less than these amounts.

Curtis B. Lilly, Inc., a management advisory firm that did a survey of the higher education insurance situation in 1969 reached this conclusion: Insurance companies are panicking over isolated instances of student violence which do not provide a true picture of the risk situation on campuses in general.

According to the Lilly figures, campus losses in 1968 were the same as the annual average during the previous five years.

Insurance spokesmen deny this and say the loss ratio for 1967, the latest figures available, was 50 per cent more than the average for the previous five years.

$40,000 To ECU Dept.

Awards totaling $40,190 have been approved for the East Carolina University Department of Special Education by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

According to Walter N. Creechmore, director of the Remedial Educational Activity Program (REAP) on the Greenville campus, two awards were given at the same time, one a continuation grant and the other a new grant.

The continuation award, a grant of $26,042, will be used for a remedial educational program for pre-schoolers with learning difficulties because of emotional disturbance or mental retardation.

The program involves a series of related instructional projects, work with parents of the children, and recommendations to their teachers during the primary grades. The program is carried through the third grade.

The East Carolina Remedial Educational Activity Program is one of two of this kind in the nation.

Suit Filed By Truck Drivers

GREENSBORO (AP) — Eighty-six drivers for Central Motor Lines have filed suit for $200,000 apiece on the allegation that Central's drivers in Charlotte have "super-seniority" over those based in Greensboro.

The U. S. District Court suit asks $100,000 actual damages and $100,000 punitive damages for each of the plaintiffs.

Announce Wheat Program Details In Preparation For Referendum

Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin today announced 1971-crop wheat price-support loan levels and other program details necessary for producer participation in a July 27-31 mail referendum on marketing quotas proclaimed earlier.

The referendum is mandatory under current law in the absence of new legislation for the 1971 wheat crop.

All persons who have a legal interest in the 1.6 million wheat allotments of record will be eligible to participate in the referendum.

If two-thirds or more of the producers voting in the referendum indicate "yes" to marketing quotas, the national average price-support loan rate will be $1.15 per bushels and the domestic marketing certificates will have a value of $1.39 per bushel making the total price support on that portion of the crop $2.54 per bushel or 90 percent of parity as of July 1, 1970. Domestic certificates will be issued on 535 million bushels. Production in excess of quotas will be subject to penalty.

State acreage allotments for 1971-crop wheat are listed below.

County acreage allotments are in process of being released to the States. Individual farm allotments, in addition to program information leaflets, ballots and voting instructions, will be mailed to producers prior to the start of the referendum. Signed ballots need to be mailed or delivered to the county offices by July 31.

Preliminary results of the referendum will be compiled and announced by USDA on or shortly after August 5.

If the referendum fails to carry, the loan rate is mandatory at 50 percent of July, 1971, parity. This would be $1.41 per bushel based on current parity.

If marketing quotas for the 1971 crop are approved by a "yes" vote:

- domestic wheat marketing certificates will be paid on 47 percent of the projected production on the allotted acres of participating producers;
- required diversion will be 36.5 percent of the producer's 1971 allotment. This diversion of land to non-crop use is required by applicable law;

- substitution between wheat and feed grain acreages, which has been in effect under the 1970 and earlier programs, will not be in effect for 1971 since there is no legislation making this possible;
- marketing quota penalties will be applicable on wheat produced on acreage in excess of the farm allotment, amounting to 65 percent of May 1, 1971, wheat parity plus a seven percent loss of allotment in 1973 and subsequent years.
- export marketing certificate payments will be made to producers if the total value of export certificates collected by Commodity Credit Corporation from the exporters exceeds the total export subsidies paid by CCC to exporters.

If marketing quotas for the 1971 crop are not approved:

- the national wheat allotment of 43.5 million acres will remain in effect.
- price-support loans at 50 percent of parity will be available to producers who stay within their allotments and comply with applicable terms and conditions;
- there will be no marketing quota or land use monetary penalties;
- wheat acreage harvested in excess of 1971 farm allotments will result in a seven percent loss of allotment in 1973 and subsequent years;

The North Carolina wheat allotment has been reduced from 346,292 acres in 1970 to 307,624 acres for 1971. The national allotment is reduced from 45,500,000 acres in 1970 to 43,500,000 acres for 1971.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — NCDA— North Carolina egg markets steady Wednesday, supplies adequate, demand good. Prices paid producers and handlers for consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets:
Grade A large whites: 51½ to 52; medium whites: 40 to 41; small, whites: 28 to 29.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)— North Carolina hog markets today were mostly 25 to 75 cents lower. Tops at 24.00-24.50 at Rocky Mount; 23.50-24.50 at Kingston, New Bern, Benson, Newton Grove, Alorton and Lumberton; 23.25-24.50 at Tarboro; 23.75 to 24.25 at Aberdeen; 23.25-24.25 at Bethel; 23.75 to 24.00 at Wilson; 23.50-24.00 at Siler City and Denton; 24.25 at Salisbury; 24.00 at Greensboro.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)— North Carolina poultry markets today had a weak undertone but were adequate for fair trade requirements. Weights were generally adequate. Live, at-farm based valuation 12½ cents per pound. Hens—market stronger with offerings barely adequate but occasionally short of trade needs. Too few sources reporting to quote prices.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices continued to skyrocket ahead today, topping the recovery highs set in the rebound from the year's market lows registered in May. Trading picked up with moderate volume.
At 11:30 a.m. the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 9.52 or 1.33 per cent at 721.18.

Advancing issues held a commanding lead over decliners. Analysts said the gain was a continuation of Wednesday's upsurge which began as a reaction to second-quarter earnings reports. These reports have been higher so far than expected.

Shooting . . .

did, then he asked me to put them on him (Gardner). I said 'I don't think you need any.' Then he said 'What have I done?'

"I said, 'Son, you just shot a fellow. He (Norris) went all to pieces.'

"I did not think he was in any shape to be carrying a gun" Harrell said, so he asked Norris for his weapon and Norris gave the pistol to Harrell.

Upon questioning by attorneys representing Norris at the hearing, Harrell said "In my opinion, he (Norris) didn't mean to shoot him (Gardner)."

Pitt County Deputy Sheriff Tommy Burney told the inquest that a .22 caliber blank pistol was found inside the car in the console between the two front seats, along with $3.90 in change and two $1 bills.

The officer also testified that the car driven by Gardner had been reported stolen from a Washington, D.C., parking lot on June 30.

The deputy also quoted Norris as saying Gardner reached for his rear pocket in a quick motion "as if to go for a weapon", but reported, Norris said "he did not intentionally pull the trigger" of his pistol.

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The bomb-throwing terrorist, a figure rarely seen in recent U.S. history, has re-emerged in the spotlight of separate Senate and House probes.

The result may be new federal laws regulating the explosives industry and controlling the sale and shipment of dynamite, nitroglycerin and other bomb components.

Another possibility, included in a bill already proposed by President Nixon, is a set of new stringent federal criminal laws providing the death penalty for persons convicted of the illegal interstate transportation of explosives used in fatal bombings.

That proposal has aroused some members of Congress who say they fear opening a legal door to government repression of all political and social dissent, not just that which veers toward violence.

Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., and Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., members of the Senate Investigations subcommittee, cautioned Wednesday against measures so repressive "they could end up by destroying the freedoms we are trying to preserve."

Javits said the current rash of bombings may well subside with the end of the Vietnam war, adding, "All too often we have adopted laws that were right and proper at the time but have returned to haunt us when the immediate problem no longer exists."

Will Wilson, an assistant attorney general, told the House Judiciary Committee the Nixon administration has formed a Cabinet-level task force to respond to the recent plague of bombings and may change course—from punitive measures toward an endorsement of strict regulation and licensing.

A bill with that goal has been introduced by Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., Judiciary Committee chairman.

The Senate Investigations subcommittee was told the scope of recent bombings—particularly on college campuses—is far greater than most officials had believed.

Eugene T. Rossides, assistant secretary of the treasury, said reports from state and local police indicate there were at least 4,330 bombings—both explosive and incendiary—1,475 attempted bombings and 35,129 bomb threats in the 16-month period beginning Jan. 1, 1969.

He said bombs killed 40 persons, injured 384 others and caused more than $21.8 million in property damage.

Wilson told the House panel that in the last 12 months bombs caused $612,000 in damage to federal buildings alone.

But he said a far greater loss—estimated at $2.2 million—occurred from time lost on 130 occasions when federal employees were forced to evacuate buildings because of bomb threats.

Rossides said his statistics indicate that 56 per cent of bombings in which the perpetrators were identified by police can be traced to campus disturbances.

Ask Farmville Census Inquiry Cards' Return

FARMVILLE — Farmville residents who have not returned the census inquiry cards sent out by the Town of Farmville are urged to do so immediately.

Carl Beaman, town clerk, said about 500 of the 1475 cards sent out are still out. The unofficial count has already turned up approximately 140 persons who were not included in the Census Bureau's survey.

Census forms must be carried to those who say they have not been counted and the tally must be reported to the Census Bureau office in Charlotte by Saturday, Beaman said. It is suggested that anyone who still has not been counted go into the town hall to have a short census form filled out immediately.

(Eyes and Closework)

Modern man is subject to much closework. Some men, such as writers, perform closework for a living. Practically all men must do some amount of fine work. They must write checks, fill out forms, etc.

This type of closework requires excellent vision. For some, undistorted vision is a natural gift. For others it isn't. Fortunately, most persons with vision impairments can be helped by glasses. They enable visually hindered persons to perform vital closework.

Early man was not as fortunate as his descendants. If he hadn't the vision for closework craftsmanship, he had to find another means of livelihood.

Conversely, the nearsighted hunter had to develop a closework craft.

Thanks to modern optical technology, man's profession today is not a slave to his vision.

Greenville Gets 1st Tourney Loss
Pitt County Takes Favorite Role;
Greenville Must Win Two Tonight

Checking Times

Alec Allen, right, checks times with Aycock Junior High School track coach Gil Moore, who is helping out in the workouts for this weekend's Junior Olympics three-state regionals.

Allen Trying For Nationals

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(Third of a series)
In the period of just a few months, Greenville's Alec Allen has become the premier half-mile runner in North Carolina.

Gil Moore, track coach at E. B. Aycock Junior High, who is working with the Junior Olympic group, says that Allen does have a plan, even though he may not feel it.

The Pitt County All-Stars grabbed the favorite's role in the District Seven Babe Ruth Tournament here last night with an 8-5 victory over previously unbeaten Greenville.

The win left Pitt County as the only unbeaten team in the field. For Greenville to win, the team would have to win three straight contests, including two tonight.

In yesterday's other game, Havelock won a slugfest with Cartaret, 22-10, as 10 home runs were cracked during the contest.

Havelock thus plays Greenville at 6 p.m., with the winner meeting Pitt County at 8:30. Pitt County can wrap it up with a victory, but should they lose, the final game would be played Friday.

Pitt grabbed the opening lead in the first inning of play as Bobby Daniels knocked a one-out solo home run to left field. Greenville came right back in their half of the inning, however, to tie it up.

to pay off. Jack Jones walked with two outs, and moved to second on a wild pitch. Cobb reached on an error, and that allowed Jones to round third and score for a 4-1 lead.

Pitt County put on a rally in the fourth inning, coming up with four runs to take a 5-4 advantage. Chuck Finklea led off the inning with a walk and stole second.

In the bottom of the inning, Greenville tied it up. That came as Wayne Bailey cracked a home run with one out.

But Greenville could do no more, and Pitt County came up with three more to wrap up the victory. It came in the sixth inning. With one out, Dywer reached on an error and Moore walked.

Raymond led off with a single to short and stole second. Tom Frazier brought him home with a single to center and he moved up when Robert Keeter reached on an error.

In the bottom of the frame, Havelock came up with two to cut the gap back to one. With two outs, John Lee singled to center and moved on to second when the ball got by the fielder.

Then came the second, when Havelock came up with 10 runs, five of them homers. With one out, Bill Richards doubled and John Zauboni started things off with a home run to left.

In the third, Havelock collected three more. Brown doubled and Nienstedt reached on an error.

The first game, in the losers' bracket was one that had to be seen to be believed. Cartaret took the lead in the first inning with three runs. Joe and Brown raced home with another run. Lee then cracked a homer to drive in Nienstedt ahead of him for a 15-3 lead.

Cartaret came up with two in the fourth inning. John Stanley led off with a single and moved up on a passed ball.

In the bottom of the fifth, Havelock came up with six more runs. Brown led off with a single and stole second.

Then came the freak play of the game. Zauboni lined to center, but the ball was dropped, allowing both Beaver boys to score.

That ran the score out to 21-5. But it wasn't over yet. In the sixth, Cartaret picked up another run as Raymond hit his second homer of the game.

The final inning saw Cartaret rally, if only somewhat. Frazier walked and Mitchell Lawrence doubled.

Pension Plan Amount Is Big Difference

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — A difference of $7.8 million in pension benefits emerged today as the major stumbling block to a settlement between National Football League players and owners.

rights for the use of their names, faces or uniforms in commercial enterprises. This right was granted them during 1968 negotiations.

The player's source said the $18-million figure would cost each club about $40,000 a year, while the $25.8 figure would be about $140,000 a year.

He pointed out that the owners have negotiated a television contract of about $40 million, an increase of about $13 million from the previous one.

Answering owners' fears that television revenue and attendance might not remain at its present level, he said the players were willing to reduce their demands accordingly should that happen.

as saying the owners were making an $18 million offer, but that the players had countered with a $29 million "must-take-all" demand.

"The $29 million figure never came into the discussions," the player's source said. "It is a piece of incorrect arithmetic. They (the owners) must be adding together everything.

However, the players are asking for increased shares in post-season games, including the Super Bowl, and these increases possibly could be the difference between $25.8 million and $29 million.

The player's source said the owners also made two qualifications to their figure—that payments to players on losing teams in divisional playoff games be eliminated, and that players give up their financial

Allen says that in a tense race, he does glance back although he admits that this is not good to do. "It makes you lose your stride. But I like to know where the opposition is. So far I've been pretty relaxed during the races. I'm not sure how I'd react if it was shoulder-to-shoulder in the stretch."

Moore feels he has the answer, however. "The more he's pushed, the more he puts out. Anybody who beats him is just simply going to have superior speed all the way."

Moore feels that a 1:56 will take the regionals this weekend. "Alec should be able to do this, and could easily win. If he does, I think he can do at least a 1:55 in the nationals."

Allen must finish in the top three in the regional to qualify for the Nationals, to be held in Knoxville, Tenn., in early August. "I really want to do it if I can," he said.

Next year, however, Allen may give up his specialty. "I'm not sure I could get down fast enough to be a college runner in the 880, so I may switch back to the mile. I'm going to run cross-country in the fall, and try to get into some meets as a one-man team for Rose. I'd like to get into the state high school meet in cross-country."

"This will help me in the mile run during the spring. (His best mile time was 4:35 during his sophomore year.) After running cross-country, I think I can cut this down right much."

So the future for Allen is somewhat clouded. But right now the focus is on Sumter Saturday. A win would put him in an excellent position to become a national champion, and maybe change his mind about next year's performances.

Reportedly, he is one-tenth of a second slower in best time than the fastest entrant in Sumter so it may be just a step toward the nationals.

Griffith Wins, Batters Having Banner Year In The Majors

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Emile Griffith still dreams of another shot at Nino Benvenuti's world middleweight title and Madison Square Garden officials are ready to pay top dollar to close the match.

"Nino is still my dream," said the 32-year-old Griffith Wednesday night after winning a unanimous 10-round decision over slow, ring-rusty 40-year-old Dick Tiger of Nigeria.

"I keep on beating all the contenders and I still can't get Nino," said Griffith. "I fight them all in their home towns and I win. They tried to get me bumped off in Copenhagen but I beat Tom Bogs. I'm still here."

Although Benvenuti is supposed to make his next defense against Carlos Monzon of Argentina in November, Garden officials still hope to make the Griffith match.

"Whatever they offer you to go to Italy," Garden Matchmaker Teddy Brenner told Gil Clancy, Griffith's manager, "we'll match it here."

Harry Markson, the Garden's boxing director, said he had in mind a January or February date for a middleweight title bout.

Getting Benvenuti may be a problem. He won the title here, lost it back to Griffith and then won it again. In his last New York appearance, the handsome Italian was beaten by Tiger in an over-the-weight match in May, 1969.

Tiger showed his age and the affects of an eight-month layoff while Griffith did a little showboating and taunted him during the fight.

"Come on, Tiger," said Griffith. "Let's fight. You know I'm beating you."

It was after Tiger finally replied in the 10th round and said, "I didn't know you were that kind of a man," referee Pete Della warned them both for talking.

Referee Della and judge Al Berl scored it 7-2 and judge Harold Lederman had it 8-2, all in favor of Griffith.

It was unanimous when they fought four years ago, too, but much closer as Griffith won the middleweight title for the first time.

Wednesday night Tiger had a 10-pound edge, 167 to 157 pounds.

Abdulakr Gadu, the consul general from Nigeria, visited Tiger's dressing room after the fight. Tiger told him he was sorry he let him down.

Tiger bristled when it was suggested that he might be through.

"I fought in Nigeria in 1949," he said. "I turned pro in 1952. I came to England and then to America. I won the middleweight and the light heavy-weight title. I have no other business."

The crowd of 8,071 that paid $46,972 came to cheer Tiger but booed the slow bout. They still cheered Tiger when he left, having been turned off by Emile's showboat tactics.

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Only two years ago hitters were moaning loudly and pitchers smiling quietly as the men on the mound dominated the game. Now who's grinning and who's groaning?

Whether it was because of the lowering of the pitching mound, a shortening of the strike zone, expansion, the new artificial fields or a livening of the baseball, 1970 has become the year of the hitters—at least as the second half of the season began today.

In 1968, there were only six .300 hitters in the major leagues —only one in the American League—and just 1,995 home runs, bringing a cry that low run games were turning off the fans.

Things picked up last year when there were 18 .300 hitters and more than 3,000 homers, and by the first half of this season, bats were booming more than ever. And the way hitters like Pete Rose and Carl Yastrzemski talked at the All-Star game Tuesday after playing on Cincinnati's new AstroTurf, the second half of the season will bring more of the same.

As play resumed today with 12 games, there were 39 hitters batting .300 or better and already almost 2,000 home runs in the majors.

The Cincinnati Reds, keeping in tune with the times, are the top hitting team in the majors with 123 home runs and a team batting average of about .277. Those figures, along with improved pitching over last year, have made the Reds the only runaway leader going into the last half of July.

The Reds have surprised everyone by taking a 10-game lead at the All-Star break in the National League West, a division that had a tight four-team race last season when the Reds finished fourth.

The biggest surprise in the American League has been the California Angels, who were in last place, 22 games back, at this time last season in the West. The Angels presently are second to Minnesota, five games behind.

Cincinnati's pitching staff has been perhaps the biggest surprise of all. The Reds added rookie Wayne Simpson and Jim McGlothlin and Gary Nolan returned from arm trouble to join holdover Jim Merritt, and all four have a chance at 20 victories—no team has ever had four 20-game winners in one season.

Merritt has 14, Simpson 13 and McGlothlin and Nolan 11 each, joining nine other National League pitchers who have 10 or more victories. The American League has nine.

In 1969, there were 15 20-game winners with a number of them certain not to repeat. Denny McLain of Detroit, after sitting out until July, is without a victory after consecutive seasons of 31 and 24 triumphs; Dave Boswell of Minnesota and Juan Marichal of San Francisco have only three each, and Bill Singer of Los Angeles, sidelined earlier by hepatitis, has five.

Phil Niekro of Atlanta has only seven and Mel Stottlemyre of the New York Yankees and Larry Dierker of Houston have eight each.

Baltimore has a crack at three 20-gamers in Jim Palmer and Dave McNally, 12 each and Mike Cuellar, 11.

Greenville's American Legion team evened up its best-of-five series with Johnston County at one game apiece last night with a 4-2 victory at East Carolina University field.

The series now returns to Smithfield tonight for the third game of the series. The fourth contest will be played in Greenville on Friday.

Greenville led all the way and was in a 3-0 lead when Johnston finally got into the action.

They threatened, however, earlier in the game. In the second inning, leadoff batter Robert Wheelless singled and moved up on a passed ball, only to die at second. That was the only threat of the game, except for the scoring inning.

Greenville went to work in the bottom of the first and pushed over two runs. Russ Smith walked to open the frame, fouling off six pitches before drawing the final ball on the 12th pitch. Then, with one out, Tony Whitehurst doubled to center, moving Smith over to third, Jimmy Paige's grounder to short was muffed, and both runners came over to give Greenville a 2-0 lead.

In the third, they had a chance to score, but failed. With one out, Joe West tripled to center, but the next two batters were unable to bring in across. In the fourth, Greenville had another threat, as Tommy Durham walked and moved to second on a passed ball, but could advance no further.

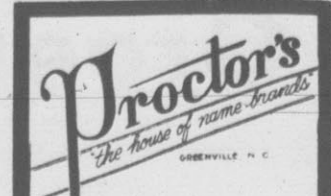

In the fifth, Greenville got what proved to be the winning run. Smith singled into the hole between first and second, and beat the play to first. West was hit by a pitch, moving Smith up. Paige then lined through the middle, bringing in Smith for a 3-0 lead.

Johnston County then came up with its rally in the sixth. Jimmy Dean led off with a single to center. With one out, John Narron tagged one out of the park, cutting the lead to 3-2. Johnston went on to put two more men on base on singles, but the rally died there and they never threatened again.

Greenville picked up its final run in the seventh. Smith opened the inning with a double down the first base line into right, and moved on to third when the relay was errored. He scored on a sacrifice fly to right by West.

One final chance came in the eighth. Ronnie Leggett singled and stole both second and third. He was caught at home, however, trying to score on a ground out.

All-Stars To Return To Work

CHICAGO (AP) — The College All-Stars have made their sympathies known for locked out National Football League veterans and they're ready again to prepare for their scheduled battle with the world champion Kansas City Chiefs.

The collegians decided Wednesday night to return to supervised drills after a one-day strike.

There's still the possibility that the July 31 All-Stars' football classic won't come off, since the Chiefs, along with the other National Football League clubs, have locked out veterans from training during management's dispute with the NFL Players Association.

Nonetheless, All-Star spokesman Steve Tanner said the collegians would train with the squad's coaches today "while still endorsing the Players Association demands."

Most of the 53 All-Stars worked out on their own at Northwestern University's Dyche Stadium Wednesday while Coach Otto Graham and his staff remained in seclusion. John Mackey, president of the Players Association, said in New York that that decision to return to supervised practice was made jointly by the All-Stars and the association.

"We recognize that the All-Stars need more time than Kansas City to train before the game," Mackey said. "Therefore a decision was made ... to hold these players out of camp while other rookies are being allowed by the NFLPA to practice would be unfair."

A spokesman for the players added that the fact that the All-Star game is played for charity had some bearing on the decision.

"No one wants to hinder a source for a charity," the spokesman said.

The game is sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities Inc.

BRANDS HATCH, England (AP) — The British Royal Automobile club's Segrave Trophy was awarded today to the late Bruce McLaren, New Zealand winner of the 1969 Can-Am auto racing series. McLaren was killed last month during a test run.

No Army Of Youthful Campaigners Has Shown Up

By EDWARD CODY
A Associated Press Writer

The surge of antiwar protest that swept many North Carolina students into demonstrations and offices of congressmen this spring has failed so far to produce the army of youthful campaign workers, some expected for the state's congressional election.

Most campaigns, however, are just getting off the ground. Resumption of college classes in the fall may still catalyze political effort by the students who marched and traveled to Washington.

But an informal survey of major party candidates showed virtually no concrete plans to recruit student campaign support different from that of traditional North Carolina congressional races.

The reason seemed to lie partly in a lack of clear-cut fights between strongly hawkish candidates on the one hand and outspokenly dovish candidates on the other.

Candidates appeared to believe economics and local issues were more powerful campaign tools than Vietnam or Cambodia for most adult voters. They have so far shunned any opportunity to become antiwar champions.

James G. White of Winston-Salem, the Democratic challenger to Republican Rep. Wilmer Mizell in the 5th District, has, however, taken a Vietnam position to the left of his Republican opponent, calling President Nixon's decision to send U.S. troops into Cambodia a "serious error."

Mizell has consistently supported Nixon's foreign policy. He could be considered a likely target for an antiwar campaign bolstered by student help from Wake Forest and other 5th District colleges.

But White said that while he has had a few volunteers from Wake Forest, he has no plans to emphasize the war issue to attract more students to his campaign. He believes economics—not war—will be the telling issue in his district.

In the 4th District Democratic incumbent Rep. Nick Galifianakis, said to be one of the most dovish members of the North Carolina congressional delegation, faces a tough challenge from Jack Hawke, a Republican who backs Nixon's war policy down the line.

Galifianakis' district embraces three of the state's largest and most prestigious universities—Duke, the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and North Carolina State. Himself young, he has followed a foreign policy course that would tend to draw antiwar support.

Galifianakis voted in the House in support of the Senate-passed Cooper-Church amendment. Moreover, he introduced a resolution in May that would cut off funds to support U.S. troops in Vietnam after June 30, 1971, barring specific congressional authorizations.

Several student groups have declared their support of his candidacy. But the congressman's aides in Washington and Raleigh said they have no plans to mount an antiwar student drive.

Marijuana Field Destroyed, Man Charged By SBI

PANTEGO, N. C. (AP)—State Bureau of Investigation agents arrested a man Wednesday after finding a field of marijuana.

It was the second field of marijuana to be found and destroyed in eastern North Carolina by the SBI in three days.

Charged with possession and growing marijuana was James Mackel Spender, 42, of Rt. 2, Pantego.

Officers said the marijuana was found growing in a cornfield that covered about half an acre. They said they also found three to four pounds of marijuana in a barn behind Spender's house, as well as approximately a pint of marijuana seed.

On Monday, near Enfield, officers seized a field which contained 87 marijuana plants.

Approves Trying New Mail Ideas

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Postmaster Gen. Winton M. Blount has named Charlotte among 23 key city post offices in a program to improve postal services.

Postmasters in the 23 cities will be free to try new ideas in their areas. If the ideas prove successful, they will be extended to other post offices in the nation.

sade against Hawke — whose name would make him the ideal butt of student rhetoric.

Howard Jones, a Galifianakis aide in Raleigh, said some students had inquired about helping in the campaign. But Jones said the volunteers were not basing their support solely on Galifianakis' Vietnam votes.

"I don't think that any called because of ideological differences between the two candidates," he said.

A Washington aide told the same story. "We've had some students come to us and volunteer their services, just like we've had other people," he said.

Hawke suggested Galifianakis' apparent reluctance to become the students' candidate might stem from fear that some kinds of student support could do him more harm than good. The Raleigh and Durham antiwar demonstrations that followed the Cambodian incursion this spring left a sour taste in many 4th District voters' mouths—a taste Galifianakis appears hesitant to identify with.

Rep. Alton Lennon, the Democratic 7th District incumbent from Wilmington, said he had no plans to recruit student help and thought the unregistered students couldn't get out many votes anyway.

"I think it's good that they're interested but unless they're registered to vote..." he said. "Those people can't be of much help to you."

Rep. Richardson Preyer, through aides said he supported the basic administration foreign policy, was Galifianakis' lone companion in the North Carolina House delegation to uphold the Cooper-Church amendment last week. The vote could be expected to earn student campaign support in his 6th District race against Republican challenger Clifton Barham.

But despite the presence of five major campuses in the Greensboro-High Point area, a Preyer aide said in Washington that the congressman planned "essentially the same campaign as two years ago."

The aide said students had worked in Preyer campaigns in the past and that some were expected again this time, working mostly through local Democratic machinery. But again, no antiwar army is building.

"I would say during the last six months we've probably had between 100 and 150 people volunteer that they want to work for the campaign," he said,

"and about one third of them were students."

Preyer's opponent, who said he backs the Nixon Vietnam policy "155 per cent, all the way," made no attempt to conceal his disdain for the student activists who made headlines in the spring.

"If you want student help in the campaign this summer, you might as well forget it," Barham said. "They're too interested in going to the beach and that sort of thing."

But, as they have been in the past, some students also are interested in helping candidates who support the country's Southeast Asian policies, including the Cambodian incursion.

A Washington aide for Mizell said several students from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and North Carolina State University had offered their help.

"Many students in North Carolina are not so radical, or whatever you want to call it," he said. "And Congressman Mizell is popular in his own right."

Similarly, Hawke has several law students at work this summer researching "white papers" he will present as the campaign progresses.

Other candidates whose Vietnam positions generally follow the line set by the White House reported they had some students working in their campaigns and expected to step up recruiting when classes begin in the fall.

Clifton Blue, an Aberdeen Democrat challenging Republican Rep. Earl Ruth in the 8th District, said for example he had found supporters at Pfeiffer and St. Andrews colleges willing to go along with his moderate Vietnam position.

"It was not a radical, long-haired group," he said. "They're not interested in it because I'm way out in left field or anything."

The bidding:

Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Ace of ♠. A substantial swing was in the offing when today's hand was dealt during an important National Team-of-Four championship. Yesterday we presented the result at one table where North and South ended up in a contract of six diamonds doubled. In an all-out effort to make his bid, declarer was unable to cope with the adverse distribution and he ended up three tricks short for an 800-point deficit.

East and West were pleased with the result, inasmuch as their opponents can fulfill a slam contract in clubs — taking all 13 tricks with ease. They were in for a surprise when they compared results later with their teammates who held the North-South cards when the hand was replayed at the other table.

The bidding proceeded as depicted in the diagram, and it will be observed that neither North opened the bidding in second position — which proved to be a costly decision. If North does open with one club, the partnership can hardly fail to reach at least a game contract in that suit and thereby assure a profit.

East's two-spade bid is a specialized convention employed by some partnerships to act as a mild preemptive measure against the opponents and at the same time announce possession of a good six-card suit to partner. It shows less high card strength than an opening one bid and is, of course, not forcing.

South's two no-trump overcall was made in an effort to compete — his hand is not suitable for a take-out double because of the shortage in hearts. West raised to three spades and North carried on to three no trump, a decision open to question inasmuch as partner figures to have support for clubs.

When West persisted to four spades, North had an opportunity to show his suit by bidding five clubs. He should not have passed the decision around to partner and even after South doubled, it is doubtful whether North should let it stand.

South opened his singleton ace of hearts against the final contract and then shifted to a small diamond in a desperate attempt to get his partner in for a heart ruff. North put up the ace of diamonds, however, he did not read South's purpose and continued with a diamond which East ruffed.

The king of spades was driven out and when East regained the lead, he drew trump, ruffed one club in dummy, and discarded the other two on West's long hearts. His losses consisted of one spade, one heart, and one diamond. The doubled contract was worth 790 points and the result on the deal was a mere 10-point swing — a virtual standoff.

The Worry Clinic

A Simple Test Of True Love

Jane and her college sweetheart are infatuated but definitely NOT victims of true love! For the simple test below will quickly show which romances are based chiefly on sexual infatuation. These are the ones that soon end in divorce. So learn to rule your heart by your brain! Don't let your erotic emotions muddle!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE N-565: Jane D., aged 18, wants to elope.

"Dr. Crane," her college boyfriend began, "Jane and I are freshmen at the university.

"And my folks expect me to go on through Dental College, so I really don't feel I dare elope with her.

"Yet I am crazy about her to the point I can't concentrate on my college courses.

"Last term I dropped from straight 'A' to a 'B' average.

"When I am with Jane I feel emotionally intoxicated and seem inclined to O.K. whatever she wants to do.

"But now that I have been away from her for a few days, I know I should not elope. Can you give me some ammunition to bolster my decision?"

John Barleycorn makes his addicts drunk with ethyl alcohol. But Cupid uses perfume and kisses.

Yet both of them produce intoxicated people who may then "park" their brains and act like thoughtless children.

"Look not on the wine while it is red," runs the Biblical advice to those victims of John Barleycorn.

That shrewd counsel applies equally to Cupid's inebriated followers.

Which means, stay away from your sweetheart until you can go through a psychological "sobering up" period!

Then re-enforce your judgment by using the 200-point "Tests for Sweethearts" which I developed from interviewing 1,144 unmarried men and 1,187 single girls, about their sweethearts.

When you are engulfed in a wild romance, yet vaguely feel you are not equipped for happy marriage, stall for time!

To puncture the hypnotic spell of your sweetheart, use the "Sweetheart Tests" just mentioned.

For they help "objectify" your romantic idol and thus restore you partially to the vantage point of the neutral bystander. For in emotional intoxication, you fail to pay attention to details. Instead, you are easily engulfed by the total image of your loved one and thus ignore his or her faults.

In such a situation, these 200 points (100 Merits and 100 Demerits) will permit you to dissect that romantic image and tear it apart more logically.

In an overwhelming infatuation, this is almost your only hope of avoiding disaster, divorce and even disgrace.

Remember, true love and sexual infatuation give you the very same emotional thrills, pulse pounding sensations, tremors and butterflies in your tummy.

In both, you feel as if you will literally die if you don't get to marry your heart's desire.

But physical magnetism (sexual infatuation) can evaporate in just one night, which is why we have a 50 percent divorce rate nowadays among teen-age marriages.

In true love, you are most concerned with the future best interests of your sweetheart, even if you must wait a few years to marry, even if it is proved best that you NEVER become man and wife!

Jane's boy friend obviously has no trained talent capable of supporting a wife or family, so this romance is definitely unwise.

Send for those 200-point "Tests for Sweethearts," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope.

Drugs For Ruritans

The Winterville Ruritan Club was presented a program Tuesday night by Lt. John Kerr of the Greenville Police Department Lab and Deputy Sheriff Kenneth Evans.

Kerr explained the dangers in the frequent use of amphetamines and barbiturates and also told about the rising use of Marijuana, especially on college campuses across the nation.

The speaker disagreed with those people today who do not consider marijuana dangerous. Kerr also stressed the fact that its use may lead to the formation of a narcotic habit. He said that he favored the passage of a state law requiring the registration of heroin addicts.

Evans showed slides dealing with most of the dangerous drugs and narcotics in use today. He described the growth of the opium poppy in Turkey where it is raised legally for use by the medical profession.

The deputy said that some of the over-production of opium finds its way into the black market and some is eventually smuggled into the U.S.

The speakers were presented by Ruritan program chairman, Leck Keeter.
