

Misunderstanding And Confusion At Public Meeting

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Misunderstanding and confusion marked the first hour of last night's meeting of the Planning and Zoning Commission.

Prompted by a handbill urging residents of Cherry View to fight to keep urban renewal out of their section of town, more than a hundred citizens, some white, most of them Negro citizens, were on hand in the City Council Chambers as the town clock chimed eight o'clock.

The fact that the chambers are currently under reconstruction added to the general atmosphere of confusion. Members of the Planning and Zoning Commission, members of the Redevelopment Commission and representatives of the State Highway Commission had started their meeting in the conference room behind the partially completed chambers. Cherry View residents were seated in the main chambers, evidently waiting for commission members to appear there.

Several times one of the persons seated in the council chambers went into the room where the commissioners were meeting and then returned.

"They have Pearlle Moore back there trying to sweet talk him," J. Perkins remarked. "What did he say?" a number of people in the rear asked. "He said they had Pearlle Moore back there trying to sweet talk him," Sidney Skinner repeated Perkins' remark.

H. T. Chapin, Jr., newly elected chairman of the Planning and Zoning Commission asked commission members to recess the regular meeting to talk to the Cherry View residents seated in the main portion of the chambers.

State Manager Harry Hagerty was the first to speak to the group. "You have been misled as to the purpose of the discussion tonight on the General Neighborhood Renewal Program (GNRP)," Hagerty said.

"This is the third workshop on a city wide plan. We are here to discuss many things prior to a plan for the further development of Greenville. You must understand rehabilitation is not slum clearance," he continued. "There are no plans for Cherry View except to provide right of ways. As you know, streets have already been improved in that area, and we have no intention to tear down buildings." Hagerty told them "You are welcome to stay, or to have spokesmen stay to represent you. All our meetings are public and anyone in Greenville is welcome to any of them."

Robert Anderson, architect for the Redevelopment Commission explained to the group several methods of getting aid for neighborhood development — such as code enforcement projects and rehabilitation programs involving loans at low interest rates (three percent) and outright grants. "The central idea in either program is to make available loans and grants to fix up property," Anderson remarked.

"There are no plans approved this year," commission member Louis Clark noted. "We are simply in the process of gathering information and data for the improvement of Greenville overall. There are five areas in the General Neighborhood Renewal Program under consideration. We have no decision to make tonight."

"We are interested in improving our homes," Pearlle Moore stated. "We are not interested, regardless of how it's done, of urban renewal coming into Cherry View. It's uncalled for. We are going to fight at as

Thoroughfare Possibilities Are Outlined

Following more than an hour of discussion with more than 100 Cherry View residents, members of the Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission last night heard William Riggs, of the N.C. Highway Commission and Robert Anderson, architect for the Greenville Redevelopment Commission, outline a series of possibilities for the tie-in of thoroughfare plans with the General Neighborhood Renewal Program (GNRP).

Anderson told commission members, "The State Highway Commission has been studying in detail a thoroughfare plan for Greenville. Ideally, this plan would have preceded the GNRP, but now it's a matter of timing." Anderson outlined two basic plans for land usage and thoroughfare routing within the general downtown and west Greenville areas. Most of his discussion was concentrated on possibilities for the western part of town with eastern sections forming part of the subject plan.

Proposals mentioned for consideration by Anderson included pairing of several street as one-way pairs. Mentioned in this connection were Dickinson Avenue and Chestnut Street; Pitt and Greene Streets; and Fourth and Fifth Streets. Another possibility is widening and extension of Howell Street and 16th Street as a combination to provide a flow route for traffic.

In land usage, it was stated that two general alternatives were possible. One would be based on recommended Planning and Zoning land usage — the other entails commercial designation for the area between 10th and 14th streets.

"At this point we are looking for discussions on ideas for future one-way streets," Anderson commented. "We need to come up with a general plan."

City Manager Harry Hagerty noted, "There is a large concentration of residential structures between 10th and 14th Streets. Street work and paving has encouraged property owners to improve their property, and it occurs to me that treatment of this area in any way as a commercial one is not realistic."

Riggs told commissioners "We are at the point where we are projecting this (the thoroughfare plans) to a design year. That is, to plan and design for 25 years in the future."

"Right now," Riggs continued, "we must take the traffic now existing in Greenville and put it on existing streets. "We can show you deficiencies, perhaps show you where future problems will be."

Riggs detailed the work already accomplished by the Highway Commission study team, explaining that two approaches had been basic in their study. One is based on map planning, using air views and maps to show feasible routes, which could be made with least disturbances to existing buildings. The other is the ground plan, where counts of traffic have been conducted to determine the flow and intensity of traffic now existing.

"Another consideration is that of desire lines," Riggs noted. "This takes into account where people want to live and where they want to go. This is the basic approach we want to take in making any recommendations."

As the presentation of the GNRP and the relationship of thoroughfare plans does not at this time require a specific decision, commission members asked that this discussion be continued at the next meeting in August.

Another item on the agenda, that of rezoning of the M. B. Massey, Jr. property and West Haven Subdivision, was tabled until next month's meeting in order to give commissioners more time to study requested plans for rezoning.

Three Persons Arrested Narcotics Seized By Raiders

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

A joint city-county-state drug investigating team arrested three men and confiscated some $1,500 to $2,100 worth of illegal narcotics, including marijuana and LSD, following a raid on a Forbes Street house late yesterday morning.

Officers from the Greenville Police Department-Pitt

County Sheriff's Department-State Bureau of Investigation drug team conducted the raid on the 1103 Forbes St. home about 11:25 a.m.

Two men, Charles A. Capillary, 22 and David S. Overman, 22, both residents of the house, were arrested at the scene. A third man, Larry M. Ellis, 23, who also lives at the dwelling, was taken into custody about 2 p.m.

Each of the three was charged with illegal possession of marijuana and illegal possession of LSD and bond was set at $2,500 on each of the counts. A preliminary hearing was scheduled for August 12 in District Court.

Drugs confiscated included more than five pounds of marijuana and 302 tablets (tabs) of LSD. Also found at the home were 77 capsules believed to contain another type of hallucinatory drug derived from mushrooms.

Value of the marijuana was set by drug squad investigators at about $1,600 wholesale. The officers said the LSD would sell for from $3 to $5 per tab.

Part of the marijuana was found in an ice chest in a closet while more of the illegal weed was found on a pallet on the floor of one of the rooms where it was in the process of being manicured (prepared for sale). The LSD tabs were found in a desk.

Both Ellis and Overman are from the Burlington area and are students at East Carolina University. Capillary is from Graham and is a former ECU student, according to investigators.

DRUG HAUL . . . Part of the drugs confiscated by drug squad agents are displayed. In foreground is manicured marijuana, LSD tabs and capsules containing another hallucinatory drug. Most of bags in background contain marijuana.

Gov. Scott Hopes For Interstate Cooperation On Pollution Problems

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott says he hopes interstate cooperation "will enable our states to solve many of our environmental problems without sitting back and waiting on the federal agencies to do the job."

Scott spoke at a public hearing Wednesday on interstate environmental pollution problems. The hearing is sponsored by the Southern Regional Environmental Conservation Council. Similar hearings were held throughout the area covered by the Southern Governors Conference.

Other speakers at the Raleigh meeting also stressed interstate cooperation. Asst. Atty. Gen. Bernard A. Harrell suggested that an interstate compact could serve as a device for solving environmental problems that plague adjoining states.

"It permits the states to act effectively in an area which is of interstate or national concern but without the province of the federal government," Harrell said. He said such a compact is restricted only by the authority of Congress to approve its creation.

"The interstate compact is a mechanism which could be employed by the states to assert their sovereign powers in fields where they are fully competent to do so," he added. "We have only begun to explore the possibilities of this useful and intriguing tool."

Another speaker, director Roy Sowers Jr. of the State Department of Conservation and Development, said southern states should develop uniform environmental criteria that would govern the activities of the states so that protective standards would apply to each.

Gov. Scott told the hearing he's concerned that state officials could get so involved in planning for the state's future that "we might lose sight of the democratic process."

"We must, in our planning efforts, develop and improve the framework for involving the citizens and their designated and elected representatives in the planning process," he said.

Find Some Dry Cereals Have Poor Food Value

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some of the most heavily advertised cereals—including Wheaties, Cheerios and the top brands of shredded wheat and corn flakes—have about as much nutritional value as a shot of whisky, Senate investigators were told today.

"In short, they fatten but do little to prevent malnutrition... They have calories and little else," Robert B. Choate, a Washington nutritional specialist, told a Senate consumer subcommittee.

"If a family likes dry cereals and can afford them, there are several with respectable nutritional content," he said in a prepared statement accompanying a detailed study of 60 cereal brands on the market.

"But," he added, "it is apparent in this first of several food industry analyses that we humans are viewed not as beings to be nourished, but as suckers to be sold."

Armed with charts, graphs and samples of television ads programmed for the nation's young, Choate presented a sweeping indictment of the cereal industry and called for a congressional investigation. The industry already is the subject of a Federal Trade Commission probe.

Cereal makers will be given a chance to respond later, subcommittee aides said. Choate said a frequent defense of the dry-cereal industry takes the form of describing a cereal's nutrient value in combination with sugar and milk.

But, Choate said, his studies showed "the average cereals—those outside of the top 20—fail as a complete meal even with milk added. Even if the amount of cereal were doubled while the nutrient value of these meals would still be inadequate."

Choate, a citizen-lobbyist who runs a small consulting firm, has studied the nation's food policies for the past three years. He told the subcommittee that he had worked during that period with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, with the Senate Select Committee on Human Needs and on last year's White House nutrition conference.

Submitting a chart ranking 60 popular cereals, Choate said "three of the cereals—Kellogg's Product 19 and General Mills' Kaboom and Total—seem clearly the best from a nutrient standpoint."

He listed six others which he said seem nutritionally meritorious. They are Nabisco 100 per cent Bran, Quaker Oats Life, General Foods Fortified Oat Flakes, Kellogg's Special K, General Foods Super Sugar Crisp and Kellogg's Sugar Smacks.

340 Housing Units Go To Mid-East Authority

WASHINGTON, N.C. — The Department of Housing and Urban Development has notified the Mid-East Regional Housing Authority of approval of 340 units of low rent leased public housing.

The Mid-East Regional Housing Authority was formed by the Mid-East Economic Development Commission and five of the six Mid-East Counties: Beaufort, Bertie, Hyde, Martin, and Washington. The Mid-East Authority may build in any town or rural area not already served by a housing authority.

The Mid-East Authority is the second regional housing authority to be organized in North Carolina. The first, the East Carolina Authority, was organized in 1942.

Worth Chesson, Chairman of the Mid-East Authority said, "I have the feeling that many people, both local and official, thought we were kidding. Far from it! We at Mid-East are determined to aid the development of the Mid-East District and intend to attempt to build all 3,000 of the low rent units we have applied for as soon as possible after HUD approval. This brick and mortar project will keep the Mid-East name alive for years to come. We are dedicated to the idea that every person in our area deserves to live in adequate housing, to have livable wages and to enjoy freedom from want."

Frank Kivett said he is elated at the announcement of 340 units of public housing. "This is a big housing authority from the beginning," he stated "340 units of housing, at average investment cost amounts to nearly four and three quarter million dollars.

Because these units will be privately owned they will be listed and taxed as any other privately held real estate. Their construction can mean stimulus to local business and can provide local jobs. They represent a sizable local industry," Kivett, Secretary to the Authority, says.

The 340 units are pro-rated to the counties as follows: 85 to Beaufort, 110 to Bertie, 35 to Hyde, 75 to Martin, and 35 to Washington Counties.

Commissioners to the Mid-East Regional Housing Authority are John H. Oden, Jr. of Beaufort; Charles B. Cousins, of Bertie; W. J. "Dick" Lupton, of Hyde; Mrs. Christine B. Farrior, of Martin; and Worth Chesson of Washington.

Pitt County did not enter the Mid-East Regional Housing Authority with the other Mid-East counties. The Pitt County cities of Greenville, Farmville, and Ayden are served by housing authorities. Many smaller towns and rural settlements could have been served by the Mid-East Regional Housing Authority.

Bonds Vote In Farmville

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

FARMVILLE—Town Commissioners here will ask local voters to decide whether bonds for water and sewer system improvements should be issued.

The Board has already applied to the Local Government Commission for permission to issue the bonds. The referendum will be in mid-September. The town has a federal grant of $151,700 to make these improvements but the town needs to match these funds.

Town Clerk Carl Beaman said if the town issues the bonds, they can be repaid over a 15-20 year period "without any significant effect on the tax rate and budget." The Town of Farmville is retiring $45,000 in bonds each year with the interest and payments declining. The Commissioners believe the anticipated growth in revenue will be sufficient to take care of the payments on the proposed bond issue.

There are nine projects within the proposed improvements to water and sewer systems. These include extending sewer lines to the Westwood subdivision; extending water and sewer (two projects) southward to the Marlboro section of town recently annexed; erecting a half-million gallon water storage tank; extending water and sewer on Perry Street to Fields Street; extending water and sewer to the new consolidated school site; and drilling a new well east of town beyond the area of present wells to augment the town's water supply and serve the eastern section of town including the new school.

A public hearing on whether the 30 acres of land on which the Pine Grove Apartment public housing project will be built should be annexed, was set for the Board's regular meeting August 4. The local Housing Authority has petitioned for the annexation.

An ordinance was written to make it unlawful for through trucks to come through town except along designated truck routes. The only route already designated is from West Wilson Street (which is 264 from the west) along Turnage Street (which is U. S. 258 from the north) to Pine Street, then along Pine to Fields Street extension which goes to U. S. 264 outside the city limits. This route will take care of truck traffic from 264 going north, from 264-A going north and to 264 east, and from 258 going west and to 264 east. Little truck traffic enters Farmville from any other way. The tentative budget for 1970-71 was adopted. The tax rate is $1.20 per $100 evaluation, the same as last year's.

$73.22 Leaf Price On Opening Day

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP)

Opening sales on the Georgia-Florida flue-cured tobacco markets averaged $2.22 a hundred pounds more than last season's record high of $71 a hundred, the federal-state Market News Service reported today.

Sales on the 28 markets Wednesday totaled 13,464,705 pounds at an average of $73.22 a hundred.

On opening day last season, 11,187,766 pounds brought an average of $71.

Sales at Nashville, Ga., totaled 807,594 pounds at an average of $75.08 a hundred, and the Baxley, Ga., market reported 397,194 pounds at an average of $75.06.

On the Florida markets, Lake City reported the highest average of $73.51 a hundred on sales of 357,050 pounds.

Tropical storm Becky played a hand in the activities, forcing a delay of sales of some markets because the heavy gray clouds so hindered visibility inside the warehouses that federal inspectors declined to grade the leaf.

Grading determines the price of tobacco, and inspector Walter Thomas said at Moultrie, "In fairness to the people who put so much sweat and effort to raise the crop, we fell we should grade it with every advantage."

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Our regular minister left town and another one came to replace him. The replacement was 65 years old, and quite attractive.

My mother, a divorcee, was having personal problems, so I suggested she talk to the new minister. Well, his counseling went beyond the call of duty and they had an affair which got all over town. His wife found out about it, and filed for divorce and left him. She's a lot younger than he is and I don't think she'll have much trouble finding someone else, but I am sick with guilt to think that I sent my mother to this hypocrite in the first place.

As soon as the whole town knew what happened, the minister "resigned" for "health reasons." Mother remarried again (for the third time) shortly after, but I know she is still seeing this minister. Should I switch churches? Or should I continue to tell everyone there is nothing between them as I have been doing?
EMBARRASSED DAUGHTER

DEAR EMBARRASSED: Why switch churches? The "Lochinvar of the Pulpit" is no longer there. Don't discuss your mother's affair with anyone, and don't feel guilty for having sent her to him. You meant well, but you are not your mother's keeper, altho from your letter, I think she needs one. P. S. Time will solve your problem. An unemployed minister is not about to hang around your town much longer.

DEAR ABBY: I am a male, mid-thirties, and I have an excessive amount of body hair. I've had my share of "hairy ape" jokes. Lately in warm weather I have been shaving my chest and legs for comfort's sake.

What would a psychiatrist say about a man who shaves his chest and legs?
NEAT

DEAR NEAT: Nothing. But he might say something about a man who shaves his chest and legs and asks what a psychiatrist would say about such a man.

DEAR ABBY: The son of a very dear friend of ours is being married soon. On the invitation was a request that instead of a wedding gift, they would like donations sent to the settlement house where the bride works!

We would prefer to send a nice wedding gift, but since they made a "request" for donations, we hate to go against their wishes. What would you do if you were us?
UP A TREE

DEAR UP: I would send a "donation." It seems to be a very thoughtful and unselfish request.

DEAR ABBY: In reading Juliet's letter re probing questions, I thought of myself and my self-consciousness over a particularly ugly scar on my throat due to a tracheotomy.

For a long time I wore a pearl choker to cover the scar, but removed it one evening at my husband's insistence that I was being overly sensitive. That very evening, at a party, a total stranger came up to me and said, "Wow, that's some scar! Thyroid?"

I replied, "No, I had a very serious SOCIAL DISEASE." The shock on his face was replaced with embarrassment when I added, "It's called foot-in-mouth disease. When are you going to have YOURS taken care of?"
Sincerely,
ANOTHER NEW YORKER

Mother Of Three Kept Studying

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — "I'm not saying it's easy, but it's possible," says Jennie Blumenfeld about her long quest for learning. Mrs. Blumenfeld, the mother of three grown children, graduated this spring from the University of Wisconsin Milwaukee.

She started her college education at the Milwaukee State Normal School, a predecessor of UWM, and received a teaching diploma from there in 1924. From 1928 to 1944 she took courses from the Extension Division of the University of Wisconsin. Then in 1968 she entered the UWM School of Social Welfare. She graduated with 100 more credits and hours than actually needed for her bachelor of science degree in social welfare.

At the same time, Mrs. Blumenfeld worked to support herself and her children for 19 years as an office manager, and for the past five years as a clerk typist for the Milwaukee County Courthouse, Family Support Division.

"I don't know how to take it easy," says Mrs. Blumenfeld, who hopes to start graduate work in the fall. "I never did."

Meeting Its Responsibilities

The local Chamber of Commerce - Merchants Association is meeting its responsibilities to the community in offering its services toward supporting the upcoming hospital bond issue.

Chamber - Merchants Association officials met with the Pitt Memorial Hospital Board of Trustees Tuesday night and offered to do all possible in supporting the referendum in November.

The trustees assured Manager Harold Creech, President Gene Skinner and Bill McDonald that the Chamber's aid would be needed and appreciated.

It is certainly desirable that organizations like the Greenville Chamber - Merchants Association give their full support to this important bond election for hospital expansion. Other organizations throughout the county should give consideration to offering support.

Too often, citizens and organizations who recognize the need for improvements depend on someone else to sell the project. This is not the way it should be. If there is a need in our communities or county then every organization and individual who recognizes it should do all possible to see that the need is met.

What it all boils down to is the fact that no outside force is going to meet our needs for us. We have to do it ourselves and that means all of us should concern ourselves with solving our problems.

The Greenville Chamber - Merchants Association has come forward in ample time to actively support the hospital bond issue. Other organizations throughout the county should follow this example. We believe the hospital expansion will need maximum support from among our county leaders.

Whatever The Number, It's Worth The Effort

Farmville has reported that 216 extra names have been turned up in the follow - up census, while Greenville reported finding 276 people who feel they weren't counted.

While these are not astronomical figures, there is a good chance that many of these people were not counted in the official census.

For both municipalities, whatever number is added by the extra effort, it will be worthwhile. Powell Bill funds for municipal street work includes in the formula a provision for population and the official census figures affect other things.

The extra population which is being added by special counts going on in Eastern North Carolina cities will be helpful when it comes time to reapportion the Congressional districts and the Legislative districts.

Thus the civic efforts should prove worthwhile.

Wonder Over Young Voters

By JOHN M. PEARCE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The 11 million young people enfranchised by the controversial 18-year-old vote law have the greatest potential impact in the South and West, but the tendency of young voters to stay home on election day could dilute their influence significantly.

ineligible - 18-to-21-year-olds, after Alaska and Hawaii, six are in the South and five in the West or Midwest.

Three of those states voted for third-party candidate George C. Wallace in 1968, while the other eight went for President Nixon.

Cooper said lowering the voting age could result in increasing support for Wallace or a candidate of his persuasion.

"Wallace's strongest support came from youth," he said.

Scammon, on the other hand, cited a Gallup Poll which showed that if 40 per cent of the 18-to-21-year-olds had voted for President in 1968, Nixon's plurality over Hubert H. Humphrey would have been cut slightly but the outcome would not have been changed in a single state.

A simple examination of how many voters will be eligible when the law takes effect Jan. 1 could be misleading, however.

Census Bureau figures show only 51 per cent of eligible voters 21 to 24 years old went to the polls in 1968, lowest of any age group.

Voters between the ages of 45 and 65—those most likely to be the younger voters' parents—turned out 75 per cent.

And Scammon said the turnout for those under 21, as measured in the four states that already allow them to vote, was about 33 per cent.

Even that likely is high, he said, because people tend to remember they did the "socially acceptable" thing when interviewers question them later.

Cooper, the Democratic analyst, predicted the younger voters will become more active as they come to understand the political system better.

"The kids are beginning to understand the tremendous potential they have," he said. If 90 per cent of the voters between 21 and 35 years old turn out in 1972, while their elders vote about like they have in the past, he said, they would comprise 40 per cent of the electorate.

Curry, his Republican counterpart, said the political and ideological chasm between college students and working "blue-collar" youth might split the new voters even more than age differences separate the views of youth and their parents.

In addition, he said the vote of independent 20-year-olds might be offset by the votes of 18-year-olds still living at home and more likely to be influenced by their parents.

Not even partisan political analysts say the new voters will line up overwhelmingly on one side or another when the law takes effect Jan. 1. David Cooper, director of political research for the Democratic National Committee, says his analyses come up "with a huge, fundamental question mark."

"The cumulative effect, in my guess, will be a low percentage in favor of the Democrats," Cooper said in an interview. His view was echoed by Richard M. Scammon, the former Census Bureau director and compiler of the authoritative "American Votes" series, who thinks the 18-to-21 set leans more toward the Democrats than the rest of the population, "but not enough to make a difference."

The Republican National Committee's director of special projects, Richard Curry, didn't venture a guess about his party's potential gain or loss from the new law.

"Turn out, I think, is probably going to be the critical factor," he said in an interview. "There aren't any good bench marks for anyone to go on."

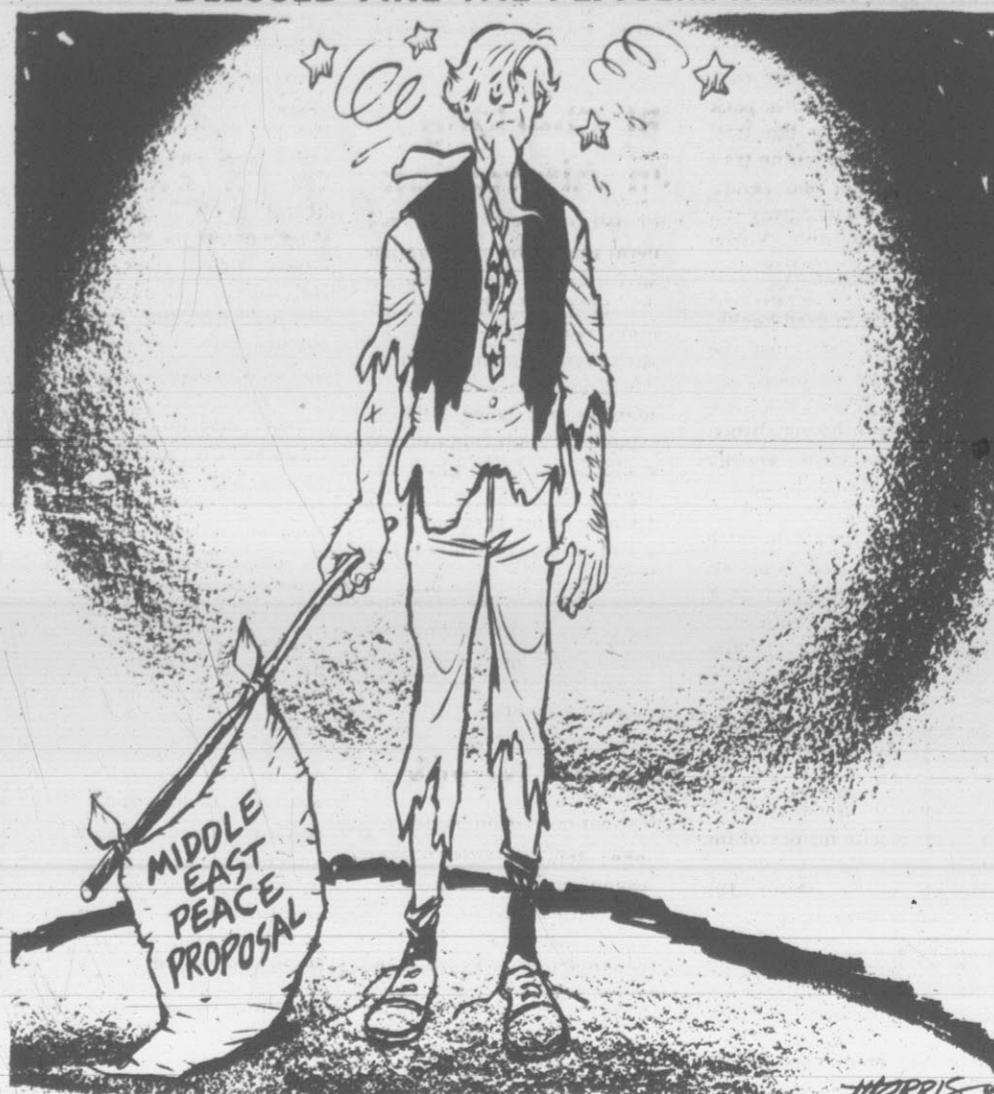

Curry and Scammon predicted the law may have considerable impact on local elections in university towns. Curry said in his view students will have to be allowed to vote where they go to school because the Census Bureau considers them residents.

An Associated Press analysis of the potential impact of the new law provided it is not overturned by the Supreme Court shows it will swell the voting-age population by at least 6.6 per cent in every state; and as much as 10.1 per cent in New Mexico and South Carolina.

Two states, Georgia and Kentucky, already allow the vote at 18. Alaska allows it at 19 and Hawaii at 20. Alaska has the nation's highest percentage of 18 to 21-year-olds with 13.2. In Hawaii the percentage is 10.6 per cent. Georgia and Kentucky are further down the list.

Mass Transit A 'Must'

A great blow for progress might have been struck this past weekend, if only it had been possible to send the Congress, by private automobile, to the Chesapeake beaches. Their eminences would have struggled back to their chambers on Monday and roared a mass transit bill to immediate enactment.

As it happens, members of the House and Senate have too much sense to get on the highways headed east out of Washington, especially on a Saturday morning in July. This past Saturday produced a traffic jam that was stalled bumper to bumper on Route 50, over a stretch of 12 steaming miles, for upwards of three hours.

Consider that monumental jam. It offers a spellbinding picture of America the affluent, America the adde-headed. Here were a quarter of a million human beings, more or less, shoe-horned into their cars with inner tubes, beach umbrellas, bath towels and bathing suits. They were plunging like lemmings toward the sea.

Only they weren't plunging. They were inching along, mostly in low gear, with tempers and radiators boiling. Two-thirds of these people were little people, and they all had to go to the bathroom. They finally made it to the beach by mid-afternoon. The bulk of them stayed overnight. Then they fought their way back on Sunday afternoon. These are presumptively intelligent people, not idiots, and most of them will try it this weekend again.

But this is lunacy, and the same lunacy obtains across our land. For want of a balanced transportation policy, we have become captives of our own machines, hostages to a national obsession that sees a net thousand automobiles added to our clogged highways every day. In the process of building ever wider freeways, we have ravished the country and ripped up our cities. And every day it gets worse.

When do we come to our senses? On June 30, a House committee finally reported the administration's new mass transit bill, authorizing $3 billion over the next five years in loans and grants for improving public transportation systems. It is a useful sum — it is about double what the Senate has proposed — but it is only a little more than the Federal government provides for highway construction every 12 months. It is only a patch on what needs to be done.

Yet there is no assurance the House bill will finally prevail. Incredibly, most of what we hear on Capitol Hill is that the Highway Trust Fund must be kept inviolate, limited to highway building only, and that the answer to urban traffic congestion lies in building more highways still. Well, this is not the answer — it cannot possibly be the answer — and a moment of truth is at hand.

An answer has to be sought in a complete reversal of transportation policies, by which mass transit comes first and private autos come second. Such a shift in emphasis won't be easily achieved — the idea has little popular support — but it has to come. Otherwise we are caught on an expressway to chaos.

The picture is not wholly bleak. Over the past five years, the Urban Mass Transportation Administration has provided $685 million in capital grants, and another $105 million for technical studies. With local matching money, this has meant a billion-dollar shot in the arm. Some interesting (Continued On Page 5)

Wrong Things 'First'

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — It isn't much fun being popular. The trouble with being popular is that the more popular you become the less you trust yourself—and the less people really think of you.

At one time the desire to be popular was part of the American dream. Everyone not only wanted to be rich — he also wanted to be well-liked.

It turned out, however, that this mass attempt at popularity was self-defeating.

For one thing, it was too easy. To be popular with another person all you have to do is smile at the right time when he tells a joke, always give him good news, have a lower income, a smaller car, and a homelier wife than he has, reach in your pocket when he wants to borrow money, and never interrupt him with laughter while he is giving his opinion about anything.

While everybody knows what to do to become popular, few know anymore what to do to become unpopular. You have to learn how to say or do the wrong thing at the right time.

For example, here are a few remarks guaranteed to make you memorably disliked and therefore interestingly unpopular:

"No, it's not your turn. I was here first."

"These are nice snapshots of your children. Have any of them graduated from reform school yet?"

"Well, it's nice that you took off the 30 pounds, but personally I thought you looked healthier when you didn't have that gaunt look."

"You can see my hole card anytime you're ready—but it'll cost you another twenty bucks."

"Let's have lunch together sometime when you're back on an expense account."

"For you to get a merit raise, two things will have to happen that haven't happened yet—this firm will have to start making some money, and you'll have to start showing some merit."

"It's not a bad painting for a beginner. Did you do it with your left or your right hand?"

"Here, let me pour in another double dollop of vermouth. It's only gin we're short of."

"Of course, if you feel better that's the main thing, but frankly I don't know anyone who's going to that psychiatrist this year."

"We thought we could stay with you only a couple of days, but we're having so much fun I guess you'll get to put up with us for the rest of the week."

There's talk afoot to the effect that some food retailers may turn away from sales gimmickry and attempt to lure customers on a hold - the line price basis. Most folks, we imagine, are willing to be lured on these grounds any time — Birmingham (Ala.) News.

Opinions In Brief

Public Forum

To The Editor,
I read with great interest the article in the News and Observer (July 14) that the Greenville City Manager Harry Hagerty, Police Chief T. E. Gladson, met behind closed door with leaders of the black community to discuss the incident that occurred at Pitt Memorial Hospital, also concerning the racial unrest in Greenville at this time.

This concerns all citizens of Greenville, both black and white; so then, why behind closed doors? Aren't the citizens of Greenville entitled to know what is going on? I think it is time that the citizens of Greenville took a long hard look at our City Manager and City Council. They have bowed down to demands by mob action. This mob didn't go to the City Council asking—they told the City Manager and City Council "If you don't meet our demands we will burn your town down."

Miss V. C. Dillman
Greenville

I feel Chief Gladson should have stopped this march in front of the police station that night, and was neglectful in his duty by not doing so. I feel that the City Manager, City Council and Chief of Police should not run scared, so to speak, every time something goes wrong.

They should stand up and do their duty and not be intimidated by anyone, black or white. If they can not do this then they should not be in public office. They should also stand behind the police officers one hundred per cent.

A full scale investigation should be made and all facts made public. If it is found the officer is wrong, he should be given a hearing. The disposition of the case should be acted upon by the City Manager and City Council and the Chief of Police; not by mob action or mob intimidation.

Whatever The Number, It's Worth The Effort

Farmville has reported that 216 extra names have been turned up in the follow - up census, while Greenville reported finding 276 people who feel they weren't counted.

While these are not astronomical figures, there is a good chance that many of these people were not counted in the official census.

For both municipalities, whatever number is added by the extra effort, it will be worthwhile. Powell Bill funds for municipal street work includes in the formula a provision for population and the official census figures affect other things.

The extra population which is being added by special counts going on in Eastern North Carolina cities will be helpful when it comes time to reapportion the Congressional districts and the Legislative districts.

Thus the civic efforts should prove worthwhile.

Purgers In The Palace Guard

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Hard-driving John G. Veneman is working double-time as Under Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) to push President Nixon's welfare reform through the Senate, but that hasn't stopped Presidential aides from inscribing him on their purge list.

"A lot of people here feel Veneman must go, and must go soon," one Nixon administration insider told us. The crimes attributed to him by his foes — including Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, ever the strong man of the Cabinet — are overly liberal views about race and insufficient loyalty to President Nixon.

In truth, Veneman has refrained from public or private criticism of the President. But less significant than the injustice of his indictment is what it betrays about the curious illogic permeating the Nixon administration: In an administration notorious for its poor Congressional relations, Veneman has done an excellent job on Capitol Hill and is particularly needed now for the battle over welfare reform.

Moreover, Veneman purge talk oddly coincides with Veneman's attempts by Mitchell and other key Nixon officials to move the Administration a bit back toward the center. Thus, the drive to purge Veneman must stem less from ideology than from the sometimes vicious fighting which has been the trademark of the Nixon administration.

Jack Veneman, a tough, 44-year-old peach rancher from Modesto, Cal., forsook his perch as a Republican power in the State Assembly — and Robert Finch's top political lieutenant — to come to Washington 18 months ago. From the beginning, some super-pragmatists in the White House felt Under Secretary Veneman was too committed to the cause of racial integration and was pulling Secretary Finch to the left.

Veneman was collecting enemies inside the Administration. He clashed with Harry Flemming, the White House patronage man, over the Republican credentials — or lack of them — of low-level appointees at HEW. His confrontations with conservative Californian Robert Mardian, formerly HEW's general counsel and now Vice President Spiro Agnew's school desegregation adviser, have been memorable.

As long as Finch was at HEW Veneman's job was safe. But when Finch was rescued from HEW the gossip in the White House mess took an anti-Veneman tone. He was blamed for leading Finch down liberal byways and causing all his troubles.

Among Presidential aides, Flemming is the one most interested in replacing Veneman. But Veneman's enemies are not limited to the White House mess. The interest of Gov. Ronald Reagan in having a new under Secretary at HEW has been made thunderingly manifest.

Conservative Reagan clashed repeatedly with liberal Veneman in Sacramento days, opposed his appointment to HEW, and now would like to see him liquidated (recently describing him privately as a "bureaucratic type"). What (Continued on page 5)

Strength For Today

Power Comes From Balance

An automobile engine which because of some mechanical difficulty is shaking itself to pieces has no power to pull a load. Likewise, human beings who are torn with inner conflict, especially worry and undue preoccupation with thoughts about self, are never able to do their best. A constant state of tension exists. They never give themselves completely to the issue at hand because of a state of emotional unbalance causes part of their attention to be directed within their own lives. They are like the defective automobile engine, the whole power of which is directed toward shaking itself to pieces rather than pulling a load.

Perfection in engineering consists in bringing all the power to bear upon the driving shaft, cutting down friction and bringing about balance between all the parts. Every bit of energy directed to the engine itself other than what is absolutely necessary to keep it going is waste energy. A smooth-running engine is one in which by the working of all engine parts all engine parts all the power the engine has is directed to its driving shaft.

And a good life is one in which the energy flows out. Mental illness occurs when for one reason or another the flow of energy is turned in. Objectivity is the unflinching sign of mental and spiritual health. One is not able to bear the burdens of life who is already bearing the burden of himself; nor is anyone able to exert power on circumstances who is dissipating his power continuously in the futile enterprise of inner conflict.

The United States appears to be heading toward an international trade war with the other exporting nations of the world.

If we get into it, we will surely lose.

Our wage costs aren't

competitive in the world market.

Even the vaunted American efficiency in both industrial and agricultural production can't offset the enormous wage differential.

Congress appears to be headed toward restrictive legislation that would limit imports into the United States of goods that are highly competitive with American products. The House Ways and Means Committee has voted in favor of quota restrictions on textiles and shoes. Many Congressmen favor higher tariffs to block cheaper foreign goods. There is strong sentiment for making the American selling price (ASP) the basis for tariffs. There is a move to strengthen anti-dumping laws, laws which bar the import of goods at prices below the foreign cost of manufacture.

There are other proposals, including one to encourage American exporters by creating a Domestic International Sales Corporation (DISC) which would enable exporters to defer taxes on profits from exports. There are also demands for the imposition of more quotas under existing laws.

Perhaps these measures are necessary to protect American wage scales. We have already exported thousands of American jobs. That is, many corporations are having components or complete products made by cheap foreign labor in Japan, Hong Kong, Taiwan, Mexico, and Caribbean countries.

Other companies are investigating possibilities of using cheap labor in Thailand, Malaysia and Indonesia.

Importers argue that if the work were done in the United States, the costs would be so high that there would have to be enormous price increases, worsening inflation.

What War Would Mean
For many years the U.S. has been working to liberate international trade. Twenty-three years ago it was a prime mover in the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT), under which quotas were outlawed and tariffs have been reduced.

If we raise high barriers against foreign-made products, we force foreign nations to seek other markets. And these markets will be the ones we are selling in now.

Already our restrictions on Australian meat has cut our potential sales of American products to those countries. And our proposed quota barriers on Japanese textiles is driving the Japanese and Australia into each other's arms. Japan - Australian trade is increasing, largely at our expense.

America now exports in the order of $5 billion a year. And if we force other nations into a war with us, we will win larger shares of our markets.

We have already lost the battle for chicken exports. European nations, adopting our techniques and using tax and other trade barriers, have all but cut off this once big export market, and soon may be selling chickens in other countries in competition with us.

Old Chilkoot Trail Awaits

SKAGWAY, Alaska (UPI) — Hikers with a real yen for adventure can follow the famous Chilkoot Trail that carried tens of thousands of gold-hungry miners north to Alaska in the Klondike gold rush of 1898.

The six-day hikes over the historic trail are under the direct supervision of woods-wise Alaskans who have made the journey themselves many times.

The 30-mile hiking adventure begins at Dyea, near Skagway, and ends at Lake Bennett, B.C. The trail that carried thousand of miners to the gold fields has been restored and is well-marked.

The trail crosses rippling streams and skirts deep blue lakes. There are plenty of opportunities to visit ghost camps still intact and climb to the top of Chilkoot Pass itself.

The complete trail tour package has been put together by Skip Burns, an experienced trail guide from Juneau.

The tour includes lodging in Skagway prior to departure, a tour of the famous gold rush town and its museum, a pack and sleeping bag on the trail trip, all meals while on the trail and a meal ticket and return transportation to Skagway on the White Pass and Yukon Route.

The trip is open to persons, over eight years in good health. Children under 12 must be accompanied by an adult.

The only supplies hikers must bring are good hiking boots, rain gear and warm enough clothing for chilly north country nights.

There are six trips scheduled between July 10 and Sept. 11. The number of persons on each trip is limited to 15. The cost of the trip from Skagway is $180 for each adult and $120 for each child.

The guides on the trip handle all details, including making and breaking camp, cooking and serving the food and will relate the colorful history of the area.

(More details about the Chilkoot Trail hiking trips can be obtained from Klondike Safaris, P.O. Box 4, Juneau, Alaska, 99801).

FBI Checking On Altercation

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation is investigating an altercation at Ft. Bragg Monday between military policemen and the civilian lawyers of Capt. Jeffrey R. MacDonald.

Hearings are being held on the post for MacDonald, 27-year-old Green Beret physician charged with fatally beating and stabbing his pregnant wife and two young daughters last February.

A spokesman in the Charlotte office of the FBI confirmed today it is investigating to determine whether MacDonald's lawyers were assaulted.

makes this significant are Reagan's numerous pipelines into the Nixon administration, including his ripening friendship with Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

The Veneman incident is not isolated. Richard Blumenthal, the 24-year-old ex-White House aide who decided last week not to take the job of domestic Peace Corps boss, was attacked for his non-Republican liberalism by Fleming and other elements of Mr. Nixon's palace guard. The 100-odd Republican Congressmen who signed a letter opposing Blumenthal's appointment had quiet support from inside the White House.

This adds up to a fatal impulse for homogeneity among high Administration personnel. With such non-Republican figures as Daniel P. Moynihan and James Farmer soon to leave, the Administration is taking on a gray standardization in the personality, ideology, and style of most of its top officials.

Whatever this loses in creativity, it certainly will do welfare reform no good if the result is Veneman's sacking. Veneman helped save the bill in the House Ways and Means Committee by a cordial courtship of Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, who never took to Finch. White House aides who are most knowledgeable about Veneman's work give him the highest grades in legislative liaison.

With their support and his still intimate ties with Finch (now Mr. Nixon's counselor), Veneman is not dead yet. Furthermore he is a cool battler not likely to be frightened into quitting.

possibilities are taking shape. In September, the UMTA will receive the results of a 15-month intensive study of mass transit prospects in Dallas, Denver, Atlanta, Seattle and Pittsburgh. Such cities as Cincinnati, Dayton, Los Angeles, Minneapolis, New Haven and Philadelphia recently obtained grants to experiment with new ideas in their urban corridors. Here and there, in bits and dabs, a good deal is being done.

Yet the situation does not really improve. The transit industry is in deep trouble. Its profits before taxes have dropped from $313 million in 1945 to a loss of $31 million in 1968. Passenger volume this year is running nearly 6 percent below 1969 levels. Ten years ago only 48 systems were publicly owned; now there are 127. The more fares are increased, the more riders are lost.

Maybe the House bill will help. Maybe. But nothing of significant value will be achieved until we get our priorities straight, which is to say, until we decide that life has to hold more than five broiling hours on the road to Rehoboth Beach.

A revealing series of discards by West provided South with the information he needed to bring home his six heart contract.

West chose to open the jack of diamonds and South won the trick with the ace. A small heart was led to the queen and West discarded a diamond. This was a bit of bad news for declarer, for if the trumps had divided evenly it was his intention to strip out his diamond and spade holdings and then—while each hand retained a heart—lead the jack of clubs and pass the trick around to East who would be forced to make a favorable return.

South proceeded to revise his plan of campaign and since he no longer needed an extra trump in dummy, he led out six rounds of hearts in order to apply maximum pressure against his opponents. West was forced to make six discards and he chose to give up two diamonds, one spade, and three clubs. Dummy discarded two spades and with six cards to go, this was the situation:

South cashed the queen of diamonds on which East discarded a spade. Now the jack of clubs was led. When West discarded a spade, the ace of clubs was put up from dummy. North played the king of diamonds and then a small diamond putting West in with the king as South disposed of his remaining club.

West was obliged to lead away from the king of spades into declarer's ace-king. In all, South took six hearts, three diamonds, one club, and two spades for 12 tricks.

West could have complicated matters for declarer by retaining one club, for if he follows suit when South leads the jack of clubs, the latter has the option of taking a finesse—playing West to have an honor in the suit, either the king or queen. When West showed out on the club lead, all guess was eliminated and declarer had a sure thing.

Ambassador Leaves For Saigon Consultation

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — Ambassador David K.E. Bruce headed for Saigon today and consultations with South Vietnamese leaders before taking over as chief U.S. peace negotiator in Paris.

Bruce and Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, U.S. envoy to South Vietnam, left Washington Wednesday following discussions with President Nixon and other officials on projected new U.S. peace proposals at the stalled Paris talks.

These tentative new proposals reportedly are designed to offer Communist elements in South Vietnam an opportunity to share post-war political power in Saigon as part of an over-all agreement for ending the war and getting both U.S. and North Vietnamese armies out of the country.

Such proposals, implying some kind of future coalition government, are a sore point between the Nixon administration and Saigon.

Bruce presumably wants to form a first-hand impression of President Nguyen Van Thieu's stand on this issue and what proposition Thieu is prepared to accept.

Nixon reportedly has decided to move slowly in presenting new proposals to the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese at Paris.

They may not be formulated and introduced before September.

Meanwhile, Ambassador Philip C. Habib returned to Paris Wednesday to continue as acting head of the U.S. team until Bruce takes over. Habib has been chief U.S. negotiator since Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge resigned last December.

The issue of how to form the peacetime government in Saigon, and particularly what assurances might be given the Communists in advance of elections, is regarded by many well-informed diplomats as the central issue of the peace talks.

Nixon said earlier this week the United States is flatly against an imposed coalition government for South Vietnam and favors post-war elections in which the Communists could participate—a proposal on which he and Thieu agree.

But the President kept the door open to some other means of political settlement saying if the present parties in the South Vietnamese legislature "should negotiate a settlement with other political parties (meaning the Communists and others in opposition) that is certainly something that is a decision for the people of South Vietnam."

The administration's strategy in peace-seeking obviously is to hold out the prospect of a share in post-war power to the Communists in an effort to get them to negotiate seriously in Paris—or in some other larger Indo-China peace conference if that should prove feasible.

Officials here say they detect no evidence of any movement in the Communist position, although spokesmen continue to demand changes in the Saigon government as part of a peace agreement.

7 Terrorists Will Be Released

By PATRICK O'KEEFE.
Associated Press Writer
ATHENS (AP) — The Arab hijacking of a Greek airliner ended with the arrival of the hijackers in Cairo, the safe return of the plane and its crew to Athens early today, and a promise of freedom for seven Arab terrorists held in Greece.

The hijackers, five men and a girl, released the plane's 47 other passengers and one of its eight crew members after the Greek government agreed to free two Arabs accused of bombing an Israeli airline office in Athens and five others serving terms of two to 17 years for two attacks on Israeli airliners at the Athens airport.

Authorities said the seven would be turned over to the International Red Cross one month after the two charged in the airline office bombing last November stand trial. The trial is scheduled to open Friday, and the two men are charged with murder, a Greek child having been fatally injured.

The hijackers commandeered the Olympic Airways Boeing 727 shortly after it took off from Beirut on a flight to Athens and Rome. After it landed at Athens, the Arabs rebuffed a number of offers, including one by the airline's owner, Aristotle Onassis, to become their hostage in return for the passengers' freedom.

Onassis also offered them an undisclosed sum of money, but the hijackers insisted on freedom for the seven Arab prisoners. The government finally agreed to the demand.

The plane flew to Cairo with the hijackers, seven crew members and an International Red Cross representative aboard as a hostage for the arrival in Egypt. The hijackers were met by Egyptian officials and driven away on a bus, and the plane returned to Athens. The Red Cross representative remained in Cairo.

The Popular Struggle Front, a small leftist organization of Palestinian guerrillas, announced in Damascus that it was responsible for the hijacking. The two Arabs who go on trial Friday are members of the Front.

While the plane sat on the runway at Athens, the ambassadors from Egypt and Jordan went to the control tower and argued with the hijackers by radio. Onassis rushed to Athens from his private island, Scorpios, where he was vacationing with his wife, the former Jacqueline Kennedy, and joined in the negotiations.

Five hundred policemen and soldiers with armored cars and machine guns stood by 500 yards from the plane but out of the passengers' sight.

Israeli newspapers denounced the Greek government for capitulating to the hijackers.

Surveying Of 'Bald Head' Is To Begin Today

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP) — Surveying of Bald Head Island was scheduled to begin today as the first phase of turning the semitropical island into a tourist area.

William R. Henderson of High Point, chairman of the Carolina Cape Fear Corp., said the surveying will begin despite Gov. Bob Scott's belief that the state can block access to the controversial island.

Henderson said the corporation, which purchased the island for $5.5 million last week from Frank Sherrill of Charlotte and Hendersonville, has "the best lawyers in North Carolina, and we've done our homework."

He said the first phase of development will take about 30 months to complete. He said complete development of the 12,000-acre island could take 10 to 20 years.

Conservationists and the State of North Carolina want the semitropical island in the mouth of the Cape Fear River near Southport preserved in its natural state. Scientists say it offers a unique laboratory for the study of semitropical aquatic and plant life.

Henderson said the Carolina Cape Fear Corp. will preserve a portion of it, but he does not know how much.

Henderson said the first phase of construction will include the building of roads, a water and sewer system and golf course, and the beginning of residential sites.

Scott said Wednesday, "I don't see any way" developers of the island can provide adequate access to their property.

He said the building of a bridge would require state permission and the state won't grant it. Erection of a ferry slip on the island presumably would involve disturbing the marshlands around it, which the state claims.

Lawyer Group Asks Restraints

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —

Prominent trial lawyers recommended today that judges combat courtroom disturbances by knocking unruly lawyers out of the case or suspending their right to appear in the court for six months.

In a report, the American College of Trial Lawyers also encouraged contempt action and disbarment proceedings against lawyers who engage in disruptive trial tactics.

The report said such tactics post a "new, direct, jocular threat to the judicial process."

To arm judges with suspension powers, the 2,000-member group's committee on disruption of the judicial process recommended passage of new authorization laws where they don't already exist.

"Disbarment would continue to be the function of traditional disciplinary proceedings in appropriate situations," the report said. "While they were getting under way, however, suspension of the right to appear in court would prevent an evil from continuing or spreading."

The committee, headed by a New York City lawyer Whitney North Seymour, said disruptive tactics—by defendants, their attorneys and sometimes by prosecutors—"threaten to become systematized and popularized among small but militant segments of the profession and the general public."

The report added: "Recently lawyers responsible for courtroom disturbances have been warmly welcomed by university students—even law students—as if, somehow, their conduct was responsible and heroic."

"Little thought seems to have been given to the fact that aside from the violation of traditional standards of professional duty, such conduct prejudices the interests of the clients, however much they may encourage and

Chewing Gum Saved The Day

BANCHORY, Scotland (AP) — Twenty-five Brownies (Junior Girl Scouts) from here thought they wouldn't make it to the Kincaidine Girl Guides (Girl Scouts) diamond jubilee celebrations when their bus radiator began to leak.

But they found a solution. The chatter stopped and they started chewing gum which the driver used to plug the radiator hole. The girls reached their destination gumless, but on time.

ly in courage and self-respect where the Arab states are concerned," said the semiofficial Davar. "We can only wait and see if the Greek rulers are capable of degrading themselves to the extent of releasing detainees accused of murdering a Greek child."

Another Tel Aviv daily, Haaretz, said in an editorial that if terrorist acts had been committed against the Greek military regime, "the huge police machinery at the disposal of the colonels would have shown more efficiency."

Quizzed In 1965 Killing

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — A man sought by police for five years is being questioned about his disappearance from the Chapel Hill area about the time a coed was murdered there in 1965.

Chapel Hill police are questioning the man in connection with the stabbing death of Sue Ellen Evans, a 21-year-old University of North Carolina coed who was murdered in broad daylight on the campus July 30, 1965.

Police estimate that more than 100 persons have been questioned in the last five years, in connection with the Mooreville girl's murder.

Chapel Hill police chief William Blake said the man being questioned had been on parole the day of the murder and that he was working that day on a construction job a few blocks from the murder site.

The man was extradited to North Carolina from Connecticut recently on a parole violation charge.

"Furthermore, it prejudices others who may be tried in the future, because members of the public are revolted by this degradation of the courts and the precious right of fair trial."

Do you know who invented the first pair of glasses? Don't feel badly if you don't. No one else knows; either. Modern glasses and contact lenses cannot claim a "father." The man who first invented a lens to aid vision is unknown.

Most authorities believe spectacle lenses probably originated between the tenth and thirteenth centuries.

Of any man, Roger Bacon deserves the title of "father of spectacles." As early as 1268 he wrote of concave and convex lenses.

Ironically, Bacon played down his discoveries. He was a scientist ahead of his time. Consequently, he spent periods in jail for encouraging and practicing so-called black magic. Possibly, his invention of spectacles could have led him to the stake! Today we know that glasses really are a sort of magic. They're good magic, so to speak, that help millions of people to see correctly.

Discouraging Data Given Rosy Glow

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — This wayward economy might begin to straighten itself out quickly if ordinary Americans shared the Nixon administration's interpretation of current events.

In recent days the President and his aides have begun talking it up, assuring the citizenry that the worst has been reached and past, and that now we may raise our sights and concentrate our efforts on the new expansion.

The most encouraging interpretations are being put on some pretty discouraging facts: —Prices are 6 per cent higher than a year ago, but we are reminded that they rose at only a 4.8 per cent annual rate in June.

—Unemployment continues to rise, perhaps to 5 per cent, but we are told this is as much from expansion in the number of available workers as it is from layoffs.

Interest rates should start declining, we are told, but the fact is they are at century-high levels. Mortgage rates, too, may have reached their peak, it is said, but that peak is still Everest-like for prospective home buyers.

The economy has, by many measures, reached a very depressed state. But why look down when the sky is above? We are told, therefore, that the economy "has bottomed out," that we "will definitely see the economy turning up."

Perhaps this outlook really isn't a subjective interpretation made by men who must prove their policies are working. Maybe this is really the way things are. Could this really be the watershed?

A lot of consumers don't think so. Polls show them in a saving rather than a spending mood, pessimistic about the general outlook and concerned about their investments, their jobs, their ability to cope with inflation plus recession.

So? What does a psychological disposition on the part of ordinary Americans have to do with the economy's future? How is a mood related to the financial fortunes of business and government?

In this way: The expected upturn is to a great extent predicated on the assumption that consumer spending is due to increase sharply for a great range of products and services. But maybe the consumer isn't ready to spend.

Why not? His rate of savings has risen lately to more than 7 per cent; he's got the money — the elimination of the surtax has added a few more dollars to his paycheck. And some of those wage increases have been pretty hefty, too.

True. But studies of consumer behavior in recent years, mainly by Dr. George Katona of the University of Michigan, have demonstrated that the consumer may have the ability to buy but not the desire to buy.

In other words, depending upon many factors, he may stuff his mattress with dollars or he may spend them. He may even be willing, if he feels the future is bright, to buy when he doesn't have money, to borrow on his future.

What determines his willingness? So many factors that all cannot be listed. But among the major ones are his job security, his earnings outlook, his confidence in economic policy, the state of the war.

Raleigh Schools Said To Fail HEW Standards

RALEIGH (AP) — A top official of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare says Raleigh's schools don't meet federal integration standards because "there are still racially identifiable schools within the system."

The comment came from Stanley Pottinger, head of HEW's Civil Rights Division, after a two-hour closed meeting with Raleigh school officials Wednesday.

Pottinger suggested that the school board ask the U. S. Office of Education to help it draw an acceptable school attendance

More Time Lost Due Diseases

LONDON (AP) — Arthritis and rheumatism cost British industry $456 million a year in lost production, the Arthritis and Rheumatism Council reported. It said absences resulting from the diseases have increased 27 per cent in the past six years with men losing an average of nearly three workdays a year in some parts of the country.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has denounced as a hoax a memorandum, allegedly written on his stationery, which calls for repeal of the Bill of Rights and postponement of the 1972 elections.

Agnew said Wednesday he learned the memo would be printed in the next issue of Scanlan's Monthly magazine. "This is a totally spurious document and an irresponsible action of the editors in not checking my office as its authenticity," Agnew said in a statement released by his office. "I unequivocally denounce this hoax and whatever motives that may lie behind it."

Sidney E. Zion and Warren

Hinkle III, editors of the West Coast magazine, said in a statement: "The vice president's denial is as clumsy as it is fraudulent. The document came directly from Mr. Agnew's office and he knows it. We do not hesitate to submit our credibility against his."

'Slowpoke' Not First Possum Served At Mansion

By RICHARD MINOR
Henderson Daily Dispatch
Written For The AP
HENDERSON, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott may establish a "first" when he serves guests the possum (o'possum) that won a beauty contest, but it won't be the first time in modern history that possum has been on the menu of the state's official mansion.

life. In November of 1950, with the opening of hunting season near, someone tipped the governor that the fields and woods around huge Caledonia prison farm in Halifax County, were abound with bouncing bunnies. The governor decided he would go hunting at Caledonia on Thanksgiving Day, and he spread the word to a few friends whom he thought might be interested, mostly from Raleigh and his home county of Alamance. As plans jelled, the official word was for the group to meet at the governor's mansion at 5:30 in the morning for breakfast, then travel in a caravan to Caledonia for a day of shooting. This was to be an event for hunters, not for politicians and publicity men. Some of the breakfast guests were a little late arriving, but shortly before 6 o'clock Gov. Kerr Scott, clad in well-worn hunting togs, broke up a fire-side talk session with his announcement that it was time to eat and get on the road. The dining room scene would have horrified a fashion expert: there were loud wool shirts, sweat-shirts, a myriad of sweaters, brown hunting pants and dungarees, and various types of boots. But the theme was rabbits—not fashion. The official breakfast menu was bacon, sausage and eggs, normal almost everywhere. But just about the time all plates had been served a waiter brought in a somewhat strange appearing dish, and the governor invited everyone to add possum to the bacon and sausage already on hand. There were a few refusals, as might be expected. But most of the guests tried only a few bites; it was not to be outdone by others at the table. In a few minutes the breakfast was all over, a possibly historic event went largely unrecorded except in memory, and everybody headed eastward for a successful day of rabbit hunting. As a sidelight, it can be noted that Gov. Scott was one of the first in the field that day, and only a farther friend from Burlington was still with him at the finish.

Hunting season this year is months away, and Gov. Bob Scott probably come up with something different from a pre-dawn possum breakfast. But his possum's fame and "beauty" will gain social attention never attained by the unidentified country possum served in royal style to some 15 hungry hunters Nov. 23, 1950.

Scott's and possum seem to go together at Raleigh. This time the possum destined for a roasting pan has a name, Slowpoke, and the fun-loving residents of Spivey's Corner say it is the "prettiest possum in the world."

Slowpoke acquired its title during recent "Hollerin' Day" activities which brought the little Sampson County community widespread recognition, and so far no possum challengers have made themselves heard.

Twenty years ago Gov. Bob's dad, the late Gov. W. Kerr Scott, was master of the mansion, and he too, served possum in the elegance of the state's formal dining room, but under different circumstances. Nobody bothered to explain the background of Gov. Kerr Scott's possum, and the guests didn't know it was coming until a white-coated waiter walked in with the golden-brown little animal on a silver tray. That was in keeping with Gov. Kerr Scott's way of springing surprises.

Gov. Bob Scott hasn't made public his plans for serving Slowpoke, but whatever the occasion it is certain to be far different in many ways from the fete put on by his dad. To begin with, the present governor, through so much advance publicity if for no other reason, will probably pick a more reasonable time for his possum meal than 5:45 a.m., even though he will run the risk at any other time of having guests so wide awake they might insist on some other meat.

Now before the folks at Spivey's Corner raise an outcry, let it be said there is nothing undesirable about eating a possum that has been penned up and fed the proper diet for a couple of weeks. For gourmets who enjoy wildlife and who don't mind a little extra grease, possum makes a tasty dish. Yet is seldom, if ever, listed among this state's popular native delicacies.

One might wonder about serving possum at 5:45 a.m. Gov. Kerr Scott was a farmer and a rabbit hunter long before he became a politician, and in private life he never "outgrew his raising," which means he was an early riser throughout his entire

Riverboats 'Available'

By ERIK VAN EES
SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI) —If you're not interested in getting from place to place at high speed—like on jet planes—page Salisbury salesman Roland Eith.

He has three paddle-wheel riverboats for sale—in working order. They won't make more than a dashing nine knots.

The stern-wheelers were part of a fleet of nine introduced in 1890 for service on the lush, palm-fringed lower reaches of the Zambezi River. For the past 80 years the paddle-wheelers hauled 120,000 tons of sugar annually from the Sena sugar estates on the river to the Mocimbeque port of Chinde 35 miles away.

But six months ago a modern railway line opened to link the sugar plantations with Beira, a bigger harbor south of Chinde, and the boats became surplus.

They weigh 90 tons each, are 90 feet long and 30 feet wide, with a draught of three feet. Passenger accommodation is limited to a double cabin but below decks there is room for 23 deckhands, an area which should be simple to convert to more living space.

Already Eith has had inquiries from Switzerland, Germany and America for the wood or coal burners.

Anyone fancying himself as a Zambezi riverboat gambler can set himself up as one for a mere 7,000 pounds ($19,600) "or thereabouts," said Eith.

PLAY WAR

SYDNEY (AP) —The boy and girl, about 6 and a little bored, were sitting on the steps of their house.

"What will we play now?" asked the girl.

"Let's play war," said the boy.

"OK, let's play war," said the girl. "You go off and be a soldier and I'll stay home and worry."

Lost 8 Fish To A Sewer Line

SALISBURY, N. C. (AP)—There was a fish kill in Grant's Creek near Salisbury Tuesday, but it probably won't draw a barrage from conservationists.

Salisbury sanitation superintendent Don Duncan said a sewer line broke by accident and then was repaired. State officials investigated the dead fish which resulted.

Total known loss in the kill: eight fish.

America's farm population declined from 32 million in 1920 to 12 million in 1965.

long as we can."

Cries of "right, right," followed Moore's statement.

A map outlining the five basic areas being considered in the preliminary workshops for future improvement plans was shown by Anderson.

"The idea of GNRP is a general plan covering a large area," Anderson observed in explaining the concept and background of such a program.

"There are a series of complex problems involved, such as thoroughfare plans which we are to be briefed on tonight.

"The thoroughfare plan itself is in support of collected information on land usage, building conditions and other factors — in other words, an overall view."

Anderson outlined the series of studies, approvals, public hearings and other factors involved before any definite action is taken on any phase of a general plan.

Chairman Chapin asked for a show of hands of those opposed to urban renewal in the Cherry View area.

Nearly every hand went up in response to Chapin's request. But confusion again developed when one man made a remark about the distinction between urban renewal and rehabilitation.

Sutherland commented. "This is a democracy, but we work under a Republican form of government. You have elected officials to run the city government for you. We can't intelligently discuss any plan with a situation like this. This is not a secret deal."

"We must close this discussion and get on with our meeting," Chapin stated. "We will be glad to have your representatives, as many as can possibly fit in, to listen."

"You are going to, as I understand it, going to make plans. It's up to us to come back and fight," Ella Harris, one of the audience members, remarked.

"All our meetings are public ones," Hagerty replied. "We are sorry we were not set up tonight because of construction. But why not have some representatives come on back with us and listen in?"

Laird Predicts Draft Call Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said today draft calls for the rest of 1970 will average below 10,000 a month, a return to pre-Vietnam levels.

Laird made this forecast in a speech for about 550 students working as summer interns with the government.

"In the remaining months of this year," Laird said, "I anticipate that draft calls will average below 10,000 per month."

In the past, he has predicted that total draft calls this year will fall between 150,000 and 170,000, young men compared with the 290,000 drafted in 1969.

You want to move up to a modern home. But you don't want to move.

The home you bought five or ten years ago was probably all you needed at the time. It had just enough bedrooms, a reasonably up-to-date kitchen, and a cold basement with "possibilities." As the world turned, your family grew larger and your home grew older. You now have too few bedrooms, a cramped, inefficient kitchen, and a cold basement—still with possibilities.

This might have been the year you planned to move up to a bigger, more modern home. But you didn't plan on the high cost of home financing.

You want to move up to a modern home. But right now you don't want to move.

More room and comfort with electric heat.
We can show you how today's modern electric heating systems can give you more living space and more year-round comfort with far less problems and maintenance than your present system. Often with existing ducts and pipes.

We can also show you how electric heat simplifies adding extra rooms such as a bedroom, bathroom, or den—and gives you a new feature of total electric comfort: room-by-room temperature control.

That cold, dark basement with your old furnace can be made roomier and cozier by tearing out the furnace and fuel tanks and installing radiant panel ceiling heat. More room, an attractive new ceiling, and today's modern electric heat.

One of our Veeco-recommended Reddy Kilowatt Heating and Cooling Contractors can handle the whole job, including insulation and storm windows if needed. The Reddy Kilowatt Contractor is listed in your yellow pages under "heating contractors."

A modern, work-saving kitchen.
Perhaps the most dramatic modernizing can be done in the kitchen. With the latest work-saving electric appliances and the kind of space planning that saves steps and work. Veeco's staff of home economists will consult with you and help plan the kind of kitchen you've always wanted. Without charging you a cent.

Our staff of Live-Better-Electrically experts wants to help.

Whether you're interested in moving up to clean flameless electric heat, planning a new wiring system, or modernizing your kitchen, we want to help. With free information. With free advice and planning.

Daniels Gets No-Hitter In 13-0 Win

KINGS MOUNTAIN — The Greenville Babe Ruth All-Stars got no-hit pitching from J. C. Daniels and rolled to a 13-0 victory over host team Kings Mountain yesterday to take a giant leap toward the North Carolina Championship.

For Daniels, it was his second no-hitter in tournament competition. He earlier weaved a no-hitter against Havelock in the area playoffs as Greenville went on to claim their state berth last week.

That game, however, didn't give the speedy right-handed a shutout however, as this one did. Only two baserunners reached during the seven innings of play. Daniels walked one, and the other reached on an error. He struck out six on the way to the win.

Greenville is now one of three unbeaten teams left in the tournament, and could wrap it up with two straight victories. Concord and Mt. Holly, two of the remaining unbeaten were scheduled to play this morning, with the winner meeting Greenville at around 2:30 p.m. The winner of that game would be in command in the tournament, as the only one left without a loss.

Rain, however, still was a problem in the tournament, and was falling this morning and threatening to continue to delay play.

The winner of the tournament will advance to the regional tournament two weeks away in Huntsville, Ala.

Greenville got all they needed in the first inning of play, picking up a run. Herb Wilkerson, who went four-for-four in the game, led off with a walk, but was picked up when John Barwick grounded back to short. Barwick stole second, and scored when Daniels helped his own cause with a double.

After failing to score in the second, Greenville came back with one in the third. Wilkerson doubled and Barwick drew a walk. Bill Lee reached on an error, loading the bases. Daniels then provided the spark again, this time with a sacrifice fly to center, scoring Wilkerson for a 2-0 lead.

In the fourth, Greenville came up with four runs. Wayne Bailey led off with a walk and Seth Jones singled to center. Both advanced on a ground out, and Wilkerson brought in both runners with a triple. Barwick followed with a walk, and Lee also got a walk, loading the bases again. Daniels picked up his third RBI with a walk, scoring Wilkerson for a 5-0 lead.

Greenville continued to pour it on in the fifth, pushing over four runs. Bailey walked and moved up on an out. Wilkerson drove in across with his third extra-base hit. Barwick singled and moved to second unheeded with Wilkerson on third. Lee singled in both Wilkerson and Barwick and Daniels got a hit, scoring

Lee.

In the sixth, Jones walked and moved up on an out. Wilkerson doubled him across and stole third. Barwick got a hit to score Wilkerson and Barwick then stole both second and third. Lee walked, and also stole second. Daniels then singled to score both Barwick and Lee with the final Greenville runs, for the 13-0 score.

Wilkerson finished up with four hits, three doubles and a triple, and accounted for four RBI's Daniels, with three hits in three trips, drove in six runs.

Long Battle Seen In Owner-Player Squabble

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BALTIMORE (AP) — "Days and possibly weeks apart" is how the owners of the 26 National Football League teams describe their stalemated and acrimonious negotiations with the striking NFL Players Association.

And, George Halas, the 75-year-old patriarch of the Chicago Bears and one of the NFL's organizers a half-century ago, says the owners "would be willing to do without pro football for one year to retain our management position."

John Mackey, NFLPA president, said, however, his group hopes "all NFL teams will be in camp by Saturday."

The owners agreed late Wednesday to accept federal mediation in the contract dispute but refused to go to Washington, D.C., for any negotiations.

So, Baltimore, 30 miles from the nation's capital, is the site today for a scheduled 1 p.m., EDT, Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service meeting on what the owners say is an "impasse with no immediate solution."

"Our negotiating committee will be in Baltimore and is anxious to commence negotiations with the NFL owners in around-the-clock efforts to solve all issues under discussion," Mackey said.

The owners weren't saying if they'd show up.

At one point Wednesday the NFLPA said it wouldn't budge from Washington.

FMCS' first session on the dispute was held Wednesday night in Washington. Mackey and a dozen or so players showed up. The owners didn't and the NFLPA said the failure of the owners to appear was "typical of the type of ridiculous and costly delay that has prevailed throughout these negotiations."

The owners, who ended a two-day closed-door session in New York late Wednesday, said the NFLPA had promised a reply sometime this afternoon about a proposal to save the July 31 College All-Star Game at Chicago.

Halas and Lamar Hunt of the Kansas City Chiefs, presidents, respectively, of the NFL's National and American conferences, said the Kansas City camp "will be opened immediately" if the NFLPA directs Chiefs' veterans to report and play the College All-Star Game.

Coach Hank Stram has said his "world-champion Chiefs would be ready to meet the all-star rookie aggregation in the annual charity affair if he can begin drills by Friday."

Mackey commented on the College All-Star Game situation in a statement released later Wednesday night in Washington but it was not determined if it constituted a reply to the owners.

"As active players we are fully aware that the Kansas City Chiefs will need at least one week to prepare for the All-Star Game... however, we feel it is basically unfair and not in the best interest of all NFL players who we represent to allow one team to practice while 25 others remain idle," Mackey's statement said.

Theodore M. Kheel, the noted New York attorney and labor arbiter, joined Halas and Hunt at Wednesday's New York news conference. He has been engaged by the NFL for some time, it was disclosed, but hadn't participated in any previous negotiating sessions.

Kheel said Washington was unacceptable as a mediator site because "there are some indications that efforts might be made to involve people in political life in Washington." Other than to say some unnamed congressmen, Kheel wouldn't amplify this comment.

Most of the 26 teams have begun practices for rookies but the experienced players have been locked out of training camp by the owners and barred from reporting by the NFLPA.

Pair Ink Buc Baseball Pact

East Carolina University baseball recruiting got off to a good start this week with the signing of an outstanding catcher from Virginia and a top pitcher from North Carolina to grant-in-aid scholarships.

The two new Pirates are Ricky McMahon, a 5-9, 175-pound catcher from Madison High in Fairfax, Va., and Jeff Abernathy, a 6-0, 180-pound left-handed pitcher from Ford High in Newton, N. C.

Coach Earl Smith, whose Pirates have won the Southern Conference baseball championship three out of the last five seasons, was extremely pleased with the signings.

"Jeff Abernathy should be one of the top southpaws on our pitching staff for the next four years," said Smith. "He has a real good curve and better-than-average speed. He's also a very hard worker and a dedicated athlete. His father was in pro ball as a pitcher a few years back."

Smith pointed out that when you have a chance to sign a good catcher — which is not often — you sign him.

"Ricky McMahon should follow in the line of good catchers we've had here at East Carolina the past five or six years. He is a sound defensive catcher and has a good bat, which is an added plus."

Freshman are eligible for varsity competition in baseball in the NCAA, so both Abernathy and McMahon will join the defending champions when fall practice begins in September.

Hastings Tops NCAA Hurling

It's official. East Carolina University's ace righthander, Ron Hastings, is the No. 1 pitcher in the nation in major college baseball statistics announced this week by the NCAA.

The Connelly Springs junior led the Pirates to the Southern Conference Championship and on to Gastonia for the NCAA District III playoffs this season. He finished with a record of eight wins and two losses and an earned run average of 0.56, the lowest in the land of college baseball.

The stocky, bespectacled hurler allowed only five earned runs in 81 innings on the hill for the Pirates this season. He gave up 51 hits and struck out 43 while walking only 22.

Hastings started 10 games for ECU this season and went the distance in eight of them. He had three shutouts, beating Dartmouth 1-0 early in the year and blanking George Washington twice, 2-0 and 7-0, the second time on a brilliant one-hitter in the conference playoffs.

This summer Hastings is pitching for the Broyhill Chiefs of Lenoir in perhaps the toughest semi-pro league in North Carolina.

It was at Lenoir last summer that Hastings had his baseball career abruptly ended or so it looked. He was struck in the jaw by a bat that almost demolished his nose and caused his eye to hemorrhage.

He was in the hospital for two weeks, but never gave up. He went on to become the No. 1 pitcher in college baseball less than 10 months after the freak accident.

Finally, a fact that makes ECU Coach Earl Smith smile, Ron Hastings will be back on the mound to defend that No. 1 ranking next spring.

Recruiting Is Good For Quinn

East Carolina University has completed its basketball recruiting for 1970 with the signing of five players to grant-in-aid scholarships.

The five are: Steve Close of Lake Worth, Fla.; junior college transfer Terry Davis of Louisburg Junior College and Tillery, N.C.; Barry Pasko of Irvington, N.J.; Steve Steinburg of Freehold, N.J.; and Nicky White of Kinston.

Close and Pasko probably will become point-guards in the 1-4 yo-yo offense that ECU Head Coach Tom Quinn employs.

Close (6-1, 180) averaged an 25 points and 7.2 assists per game for Lake Worth Leonard High and was named to the All-Region team in South Florida which includes all of the Greater Miami area. Pasko (5-11, 170) is considered one of the top prospects to come out of New Jersey this year. He averaged 25.6 points a game for Irvington High.

Davis, Steinberg and White all are wing forwards. Davis, of course, will step right in with the varsity for the 1970-71 season. The 6-4, 185-pounder averaged 17.1 points and 11.4 rebounds for Louisburg last season and was named to the First Team All-Conference for the Cavalier-Tar Heel Junior College League.

Steinberg (6-7, 225) averaged 23 points and an amazing 25 rebounds per game for Rutgers Prep in New Brunswick, N.J., last season. White, the tallest of the signees at 6-9 and 205 pounds, scored at an 18.2 clip and averaged 16 rebounds a game as he led Kinston Woodington High to the NCHSAC state semifinals last year.

Legion Is Rained Out

The opening game between Kinston and Greenville in the Area American Legion Playoff finals, set for last night in Kinston, was rained out.

The two teams will attempt to get their best-of-five series underway tonight at 5 p.m. The game will be played at East Carolina University field.

The winner of the series advances to the state playoff's first round.

Tankers Signs With Pirates

A National Junior College Champion backstroke has signed a swimming grant-in-aid to attend East Carolina University next year.

Bill Parritt of Peoria, Ill., who won both the 100 and 200-yard backstroke in the National Junior College Championships last year was named in the signing by swimming coach Ray Scharf.

Parritt was named to the Junior College All-American Swim Team and also received the same honor in high school. He comes to East Carolina from Lincoln Junior College in Lincoln, Ill.

"I expect that Bill will fill a big gap on our team," said Scharf in making the announcement. "The backstroke was our weakest event last year."

The much sought-after swimmer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Parritt.

Reliever Turns Starter To Aid Pittsburgh Through Rough Spots

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
Bruce Dal Canton came through with a key relief job for the Pittsburgh Pirates—as a starter.

"I'd rather be a starter but I know I'll be back in the bullpen," Dal Canton said Wednesday night after working 72-3 innings and getting the victory in the Pirates' 5-3 triumph that boosted to two games their lead in the National League East over the New York Mets, who lost to San Diego 5-4 in 10 innings.

Dal Canton might go back to the bullpen, but his starting and winning performance was sorely needed by the Pirates, who have three starters out with injuries. Bob Veale, sore arm, is expected back Saturday or Sunday, but it is not known when Bob Moose, sore elbow, will return and Steve Blass is on the disabled list after being hit on his pitching arm by a line drive.

In other NL action Wednesday, Houston hammered St. Louis 13-9, Los Angeles outlasted Montreal 12-10, the Chicago Cubs clubbed Cincinnati 10-2 and Philadelphia topped San Francisco 5-3.

Milwaukee downed the New York Yankees 4-1, Boston took California 7-4 and 8-3 in a day-night doubleheader, Oakland edged Washington 4-3, Cleveland downed the Chicago White Sox 6-2, Minnesota edged Detroit 2-1 and Baltimore shaded Kansas City 4-3 in 13 innings in the American League.

"I was happy to get four or five innings, anything else was a bonus," Manager Danny Murtaugh said following Dal Canton's second major league start. He started against Los Angeles in 1967 and lost.

The 28-year-old right-hander, 5-11, had a five-hitter and a 5-1 lead before running into trouble in the eighth and being saved by bullpen colleague Dave Giusti.

Ivan Murrell's RBI single with two-out in the 10th off Nolan Ryan got San Diego by the Mets, who had taken a 4-3 lead on Bud Harrelson's sacrifice fly in the ninth only to have the Padres tie it 4-4 on Nate Colbert's leadoff homer in the bottom of the ninth. Murrell followed with a single to knock out Tom Seaver for the first time since May 6.

Ed Spiezio socked a two-run homer to give San Diego a 3-3 tie in the seventh.

Bob Bailey drove in four runs with a homer and two-run double, Ron Fairly smacked a two-run homer and John Bateman cracked a two-run single as Montreal built up a 10-4 lead, but Los Angeles came back to win on an eight-run seventh inning. Big blows of the inning for the Dodgers were a grand slam homer by Ron Fairly and a solo shot by Von Joshua.

St. Louis took a 6-3 lead with five runs on two hits in the third, but Houston came back to go ahead to stay in the fourth with seven runs on three hits, four walks and an error as the Cardinals lost their fourth straight game and for the 13th time in 15 games.

Jim Wynn homered for Houston and Richie Allen and Jose Cardenal connected for St. Louis.

Chicago rode over Cincinnati as Jim Hickman hit a three-run homer and an RBI single, Billy Williams added a two-run homer for the Cubs.

Jim Bunning drove in two runs and got ninth-inning relief help from Dick Selma as Philadelphia beat Francisco and ended a West Coast swing with seven victories against one loss.

Perranoski Saves 15th Victory For Jim Perry; Baltimore Wins

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
Reliever Ron Perranoski made his brief stay a perfect one for the West leading Minnesota

Twins while the Baltimore Orioles, kings in the East, have been perfect for over a year against their Kansas City cousins.

Perranoski, the veteran southpaw, picked up his 24th save of the season Wednesday night, nailing the last four Detroit batters in preserving Jim Perry's 15th victory of the season—tops in the American League—as the Twins edged the Tigers 2-1.

Meanwhile the Orioles streaked to their 19th consecutive victory over the Royals and 11th straight at Kansas City, winning 4-3 in 13 innings.

The triumphs increased the Twins lead in the West Division to five over California while the Orioles lead the Tigers by five games in the East.

In other AL games, Boston swept a day-night twinbill from the Angels, 7-4; and 8-3, Oakland edged Washington 4-3, Milwaukee topped New York 4-1 and Cleveland belted Chicago 6-2.

In the National League, Chicago bombed Cincinnati 10-2, Pittsburgh trimmed Atlanta 5-3, Houston ripped St. Louis 13-9, Philadelphia rolled over San Francisco 5-2, San Diego shaded the New York Mets 5-4 in 10 innings and Los Angeles out-slugged Montreal 12-10.

"Ron came in and did the job," said Twins' manager Bill Rigney. "Perry, Perranoski and Killebrew, that's an act I'd like to have for three or four more seasons," he added.

Perry, 15-7, pitched five perfect innings and allowed only two hits before Perranoski came to the rescue in the eighth with one Detroit run in and the tying run on second with two out.

Don Wert had both Detroit hits while Harmon Killebrew drove in both Twins runs off loser Mickey Lolich, 9-11, with a third inning single.

The Orioles kept their string alive when pinch-hitter Chico Salmon drove in the winning run with a two-out infield hit in the 13th inning.

Baltimore dropped its first game to the two-year old expansion club on May 9, 1969 and hasn't lost since. It was their 11th straight victory in Kansas City without a loss.

The Royals had pushed across a pair of runs in the eighth to tie it at 3-3 on singles by Pat Kelly, Lou Piniella and Bob Oliver and walks to Ed Kirkpatrick and Cookie Rojas.

Carl Yastrzemski collected three hits in each game, increasing his average to .323 to move into contention for his fourth batting title in the double victory over the Angels.

Yaz, hitting at a .523 clip, increased his hitting streak to 12 consecutive games with 23 hits in 44 attempts. Yastrzemski had three singles in the opener while Boston teammate Reggie Smith drove in three runs with a double and triple. In the nightcap, the Boston slugger had a pair of singles and a double while John Kennedy had a homer and George Thomas a two-run double. Tom Egan and Roger Rizzo had homers for the Angels.

Oakland erupted for three eighth-inning runs, the last coming of Washington reliever Darold Knowles' throwing error to overcome the Senators.

Felipe Alou opened the A's eighth with a homer and after a walk, Knowles came on. Joe Rudi ripped a pinch double to tie it at 3-3 before Knowles got the next two hitters. The lefthander then walked Dick Green intentionally. Then with Dave Duncan at bat, Knowles' pickoff throw to first went wild and the winning run came across.

Paul Casanova had a homer for the Senators.

Consecutive fifth inning homers by Ted Savage and Bob Burda snapped a 1-1 tie and sent the Brewers on their way to their first triumph over the Yankees this season. Bob Bolin tossed a six-hitter for the winners.

Cleveland got three runs in the third inning on run-scoring doubles by Buddy Bradford and Eddie Leon and a RBI single from Jack Heideaman in coasting to their victory over the White Sox.

Greene Going With Casper

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
LIGONIER, Pa. (AP) — "I've got me a horse, man, good as Nashua," said Bert Greene. "All I've got to do is just ride him."

Greene, a hard-hitting youngster who has yet to score his first official victory on the pro tour, has Billy Casper as a partner in the $200,000 National Four Ball Championship.

The event, last played in 1968, started a 72-hole run today on the plush, 7,045-yard, par-71 Laurel Valley Golf Club, Arnold Palmer's home course. It's a team championship in which 60 teams of two players each kept their score on the better ball.

Players picked their own partners, with the duo of Palmer and Jack Nicklaus the heavy favorites. Nicklaus, the recently crowned British Open champion, had business commitments in New York and Michigan early in the week and did not arrive in time for a practice round.

Some other top teams include George Archer and Bobby Nichols, winners of the last Four Ball, Ken Still and Gene Littler, winners of last year's team CBS Classic, brothers Dave and Mike Hill, Bruce Devlin and Bob Charles, Miller Barber and Don January.

Greene, a lean, 26-year-old with thinning blond hair, got paired with Casper almost by accident.

"I had a long-standing agreement with Gary Player to play with him the next time we had the Four Ball," Casper said. "Then Gary decided to go home to South Africa after the British Open."

"Well, back in January, Bert had asked me to play with him. I told him I would if something happened that Gary didn't play. So when he dropped out, I went with Bert."

Greene has been out of action for two weeks with a torn muscle in his left shoulder.

"I wasn't supposed to play this week," he said today before starting out in his first round. "But I told the doctor, man, I've got to go with that horse I've got."

"Besides, it feels pretty good. I'm swinging okay and it doesn't hurt."

Greene, one of the hardest hitters on the tour despite his slim build, has won about $31,000 this season, his third year on the tour. Casper, of course, ranks as one of the giants of the game, with Palmer and Nicklaus.

Although the tournament is a national championship, Casper said he did not believe it would ever rank with the game's Big Four, the Masters, the PGA and the U.S. and British Opens.

"Not as a team event," he said. "I don't think a team event could get in that company. Maybe a match play championship, but the Big Four are so firmly entrenched that it would be very difficult for a new tournament to break into that category."

Hearings Near End On Umpires

By STEVEN A. COHEN

BOSTON (AP) — The American League planned to call its witnesses today at a National Labor Relations Board hearing into the firing in 1968 of umpires Bill Valentine and Al Salerno.

Atty. James Gerner, counsel for the league, said he thought one day would be sufficient to present his witnesses, thus ending eight days of hearings before board Examiner David Davidson.

Davidson then will give both sides several weeks in which to file briefs before he offers an opinion—one that can be overruled by board officials in Washington, and one that requires Federal Court concurrence if either side refuses to implement his decision.

Atty. Henry Kalleher, counsel for Valentine and Salerno, rested his case Wednesday, following two days of testimony by American League President Joe Cronin.

Salerno, a major league umpire for seven years, and Valentine, a six year veteran, contend in an unfair labor practice suit that they were fired for trying to organize a collective bargaining unit for American League umpires.

Cronin said Wednesday that "I still maintain that negotiations of contracts with league umpires) are individual matters..." but said the two were fired because of "arrogance" an failure to keep an even temper. "An umpire must exercise patience and judgment," said Cronin, who also said he had been unaware at the time that Salerno and Valentine were involved in any un organizational activity.

Kalleher said Cronin was in Chicago Sept. 12, 1968—four days before the umpires were fired—and at a time that Salerno attended a Chicago meeting of the National League umpires organization.

Cronin had testified earlier that he often knew of his umpires' whereabouts and activities, but said he was in Chicago to attend a meeting with the television commissioner's office, and he had no idea that Salerno was at the umpires' meeting.

Cronin further tol Davidson that between 1960 and 1968, four major league umpires had been returned to the minors. When asked why Salerno and Valentine had not been optioned to the minors, Cronin said Salerno had an offer from the International League but turned it down.

Cronin said he met with league umpires at least twice to discuss benefit and expense demands.

Precautions On Marketing Cards Urged

With flue-cured tobacco markets opening soon, there are a few pointers farmers need to consider in the handling of their marketing cards. A few simple precautions in the use of the card can save the farmer time, trouble, and possible payment of penalties for misuse of the card.

"When the marketing card is issued to the farmer, we suggest that he use the following guides to assure proper handling of his tobacco," said Stacy Evans, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office manager.

—upon receiving the card examine it carefully to see that it is correct. Check to see that the name, address, farm serial number and quota is correct.

—take the card to the warehouse when tobacco is to be weighed in. The card is to be left with the warehouseman until the check is issued to the farmer. Do not leave the card at the warehouse or with a trucker between sales.

—after each sale check the card carefully to see that the entries for that sale agree with the sale bill. Also check to see that the balance is correct.

—report any error immediately to the marketing recorder at the warehouse or to the county ASCS office. The farmer is subject to penalty on any tobacco sold over 110 percent of his quota. It is his responsibility to see that any error is corrected so that his balance is correct.

Enrollment Runs High

East Carolina University expects a record enrollment for its second session of summer school which began last week.

A student count at present reveals some 3,143 enrolled in activities on campus. These include full-time and part-time students and those enrolled in workshops. Expected enrollment in workshops throughout the remainder of July and August should cause the enrollment to top the 1968 record of 3,236 students enrolled, Registrar Worth Baker said.

An "average" enrollment was reported for the first session of summer school — 4,105. The largest first session ever was also in 1968 with about 4,600 students taking classes.

Breakdowns of the summer school enrollments as to full-time, part-time, and special classifications will not be done until the end of the second session, Baker said.

Church Program By Youth Group

Street Academies For Slums

By WILLIAM CHAZE
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) —
"We've got a built-in advantage in reaching the people out there," said C. T. Martin, jerking a thumb at the thoroughfare that cuts through Summerhill, a predominantly black Atlanta slum area.

that will help the U.S. Post Office Department bring high school dropouts back to school and perhaps eventually to department jobs.

Atlanta is one of six cities in which the department, with a $1.04-million grant from the Department of Labor and the Office of Economic Opportunity, is establishing street academies in slum areas. The others are in Newark, Detroit, San Francisco, Chicago and Washington.

Their mission is to get "unreachable" slum youths hooked on education through an unorthodox, highly flexible curriculum taught by postal workers who have no teaching experience.

The academies do not seek to place dropouts back into public schools, but rather to get them to pass tests that will qualify them for high school equivalency certificates. If enough pass, the postal department plans to set up schools such as New York's Harlem Prep where they could study for college entrance exams.

About 250 dropouts are enrolled in the program nationwide and the goal is to get 90 high school certificates per year.

The school in Summerhill, which has about 9,000 residents, opened May 1 with high hopes and 55 students persuaded into giving education another chance. Three of the students promptly dropped out.

The students attend the academy six hours each day, Monday, through Friday, and work four hours nightly at the post office, which pays them $2.38 per hour.

It is too early to gauge the program's success—or failure—but Martin says the students are responding to a curriculum worked out by the teachers, none of whom has ever taught professionally.

One teacher devised a way to teach simple mathematics with a pair of dice.

Another teaches trigonometry on a pool table "with astounding results," says Martin.

"The thing is that we can use these things to show them how to learn mathematics because these items are part of their lives," says Martin. "They are comfortable with these things. Reading is the same way. You don't force him to read things that he doesn't relate to—he reads material that interests him."

Public school officials indicate the academy may be duplicating their programs. The Fulton County School Board says its more traditional and structured programs, which include one that allows a dropout to study and work, have sliced the dropout rate by 50 per cent in the past 10 years.

They are also skeptical of the government pumping $1 million into a teaching program that does not rely heavily upon trained teachers.

Song Writer To Test His Lyrics

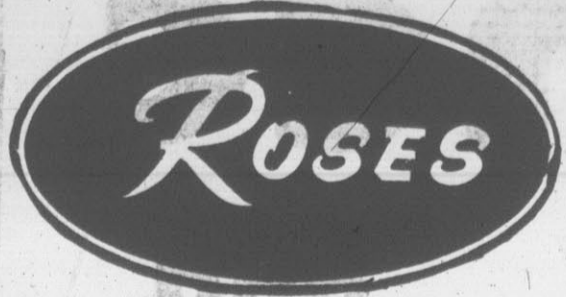

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Sammy Cahn, whose hit songs include "Love is Lovelier" and "The Second Time Around," says he plans to test its lyrics by marrying Tita Curtis Aug. 2. "I'll have to write a new song about this," Cahn 56, told newsmen Tuesday in announcing the wedding. But first I want to figure out if the lyrics about the second time around thing really work."

He and Miss Curtis, 32, are both once divorced.

Worry Clinic Good Speakers Started Early

Philip's superb public speaking skill may have started in such childhood situations as the table incident mentioned today. So send for the "Introvert vs. Extrovert Tests" and use them even as party games. You can thus become a clever "social detective" and predict your guests' jobs by their rating on these tests!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE N-579: Dr. Philip Crane, former American History professor, is now a U. S. Congressman from the 13th Illinois district.

"Everybody does it this way," he pontificated and in order to further intimidate me, he added, "TWO people do!"

Please note his emphatic "TWO," for that was the highest number he knew at that time.

So Philip was figuratively telling me "Billions of people do it my way."

Philip's older brother, George, who later was killed as a Marine jet pilot, overshadowed Philip in muscular prowess.

So Philip, being the second child, thus began to rely on words to win his battles.

And this technique is typical of the 2nd child in a family.

That's why the Biblical Prodigal Son was a gifted talker, whereas his older brother was a glum, taciturn introvert.

Since 2nd children (especially if the firstborn and 2nd are of the same sex) tend to be extroverts, they gravitate toward positions where they can deal with people.

Thus, they seek jobs where they can talk, as in teaching, salesmanship, preaching and politics. Or they may become YMCA or YWCA secretaries.

Married couples should thus try to have several children so the youngsters will help educate each other and thus "whet our wits on each other's," as Dr. William James phrased it.

The eldest child will thus differ greatly from the next youngster, yet this is not due primarily to heredity.

It reflects a radically different home situation! For psychological environment is tremendously altered, if you arrive 2nd on the family stage!

If you don't believe that fact, send for my "Tests for Introverts vs. Extroverts," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20c.

Use them as party entertainment, too, for you can often "spot" where your guests were in the sequence of children in their homes.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Restraints Relaxed For Miss America

By RICHARD L. STERN
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP) — Miss America 1971, unlike her predecessors, will be allowed to give her opinions on marijuana smoking, the Vietnam war and other controversial issues. But sex remains taboo.

In revealing a major departure from pageant tradition, Miss America officials emphasized Wednesday that questions of a "distasteful personal nature" such as, "Do you use the pill?" would remain on the taboo list during the contest here in September.

Albert Marks, chairman of the pageant executive committee, said he had lifted the prohibition against controversial topics because "I took a good look at the whole picture."

"We were always afraid youngsters with no prior background would put a foot in their mouth, but today's youthful society doesn't need over-protection," Marks said, however, that contestants would not be required to give their opinion.

Recently, Katherine Huppe of Helena, Mont., resigned as Miss Montana, citing restrictions on what she could say and do about politics and other current events.

Miss Huppe, 18, said that after she won the title she had to sign a contract forbidding her to write anything not approved by the sponsoring Billings Jaycees and to campaign for any political candidate or cause.

Marks said a prohibition against support of political candidates and parties would remain.

"The Miss America Pageant is not politically motivated or politically oriented," he said, but added that the lifting of prohibitions on other controversial topics may not have filtered down to state and local pageant levels.

Prohibitions against the contestants socializing during the week-long pageant with any men, including their fathers, will remain, Marks said.

"We don't want to give the public the impression of any wrongdoing here," Marks said.

LAST DAY: "BENEATH THE PLANET OF THE APES"

'Becky' Brings Flood Warnings

The remnants of tropical storm Becky moved slowly northward today, bringing warnings from the Weather Bureau of possible flash floods in the western portions of the Carolinas.

Becky, who once roamed the Gulf of Mexico as a minimal hurricane with winds of 75 miles per hour, lost her punch early Wednesday before reaching the northwest Florida coast. The storm dumped more than eight inches of rain on Tallahassee, Fla., during a 24-hour period and gave several other southern cities a good drenching during the day.

The storm, now only a small low pressure area, moved west of the Appalachians early today and the Washington Weather Bureau issued flash flood watches for portions of north Georgia, the western Carolinas, southeastern West Virginia and southwestern Virginia. The bureau said these areas could expect locally heavy rains.

Becky's winds had dropped to around 15 to 25 m.p.h. north of the center, but locally gusty winds have occurred in thunderstorms to the east of the center.

The bureau warned that, depending on Becky's movement, the flash flood watches may have to be extended northward today.

The storm touched off tornadoes in Georgia near Swainsboro and Folkston and in Macon-Augusta area. Mrs. Thelma Lamb was seriously injured Wednesday when a twister overturned her house near Swainsboro, the Georgia State Patrol said.

Becky drenched an area near

West Palm Beach, Fla., with three inches of rain in one hour.

August, Ga., was hit with 2,089 inches during a 12-hour period and during a six-hour period, Chattanooga, Tenn., received 1.70 inches, Mobile, Ala., 1.40 inches and Muscle Shoals, Ala., 1.15 inches.

Charlotte, N.C., received an inch and Atlanta 1.16 inches during a 24-hour period.

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew won't get the chance to take over an ABC radio program for a day. But other options are being considered.

After the vice president mentioned several days ago that he might like to become a political columnist or commentator after leaving office, ABC broadcaster Paul Harvey offered to let Agnew take over his program for a day.

Harvey later announced that Agnew had agreed—but the vice president's office said he had agreed only to consider the offer.

And Elmer Lower, president of ABC News, said Wednesday Harvey's offer had been made only in a light-hearted vein. He said ABC policy restricts network commentary to professional newsmen.

"There are other options that are still in negotiations," said Joan Keenan, an aide to Harvey. She noted Harvey also has a newspaper column and a syndicated television program.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon says he understands the frustration of young people who see their ideals being rejected.

Speaking to 100 members of Boys' Nation here Wednesday, Nixon urged the young to believe in the system and not butt out.

"Win or lose, you know that there is a great, free democratic process where if you happen to lose you can come back to fight again and perhaps prevail. I know," he added, referring to his loss in the 1960 presidential election.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government will attempt to win the war against the $50-billion-a-year organized crime racket within six years, says Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

The job may not be ended in 1976, Mitchell said Wednesday after the first meeting of the President's Council on Organized Crime.

"Hopefully, six years will be sufficient," he added. "If we don't finish it in six years, I have no doubt the federal government will continue it."

He promised a massive, new push against crime and said recent efforts are beginning to pay off. He credited federal strike forces in 12 major cities with helping to bring to justice one-fourth of the top 5,000 major figures in organized crime.

Mitchell is chairman of the council which was named by President Nixon June 4.

RALEIGH (AP) — The civil disorder premium surcharges on fire insurance in North Carolina will be continued until July 31, 1971.

Insurance commissioner Edwin Lanier Wednesday granted the extension requested by the N. C. Fire Insurance Rating Bureau. He noted that property losses continue "intermittently" with the incidence of civil disorders and that the proposed surcharges are identical with those allowed in 1968.

The surcharges are $1 per year per policy for homeowners and farmowners; 1 cent per $100 of extended coverage insurance for dwellings; and for all other properties except farms a 2 per cent surcharge in all counties except Mecklenburg and Guilford counties, where the surcharge will be 4 per cent.

Nuclear Power Industry Uneasy Witness To Fight

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Two California scientists who say federal standards allow people too much exposure to radiation are locked in a bitter, name-calling battle with the Atomic Energy Commission while the nuclear power industry watches uneasily.

Radiation exposure limits are ten times too high, say Drs. John Gofman and Arthur Tamplin of the AEC-financed Lawrence Radiation Laboratory in Livermore, Calif. They have more support in the scientific community than the AEC likes to admit.

Gofman and Tamplin say if every American got the maximum permissible dose of radiation, cancer deaths would increase by 32,000 a year.

Unfounded and incorrect, says the AEC. The maximum dose is so small it's impossible to single out any harmful effects it might have, contend AEC scientists.

"These people ask you to produce human corpses," says Gofman of the AEC. "No corpses, no action."

"This is the third time Gofman's taken off on a wild tangent," responds Dr. John Totter, head of the AEC's division of biology and medicine.

Totter dismisses Tamplin, who came up with the 32,000 figure, as "a biophysicist with no experimental background in biology... It's very common for physical scientists to make mistakes in biology."

But Gofman and Tamplin have support from scientists including Joshua Lederberg, winner of a Nobel Prize in Medicine; Linus Pauling, only man ever to win two Nobel Prizes; Dr. E. B. Lewis, expert on the effects of low doses of radiation, and Dr. Karl Z. Morgan, director of the health physics division of Oak Ridge National Laboratory and a member of the National Council on Radiation Protection.

Watching this debate from the sidelines with a multibillion-dollar interest is the power industry with its 17 nuclear plants now generating electricity, 47 under construction and 48 more proposed.

What role should the AEC, as both regulator and promoter of atomic energy, play in such controversies?

The Gofman and Tamplin controversy started in 1969, when Tamplin was asked by the AEC to examine claims by Dr. E. J. Sternglass, director of radiology at the University of Pittsburgh, that fallout had caused 400,000 prenatal or infant deaths.

Tamplin said he determined that Sternglass was way off in his estimate. Tamplin came up with the figure of 32,000 deaths and then wrote a rebuttal to Sternglass' findings in which he included his own calculations.

Totter telephoned Gofman and Tamplin Aug. 13 and said he thought Tamplin's rebuttal to Sternglass' findings was just fine. But he saw no reason for including Tamplin's own calculations in the same article. Gofman and Tamplin disagreed.

From then on the debate became more heated.

Proponents of the AEC position that the radiation standards were more than adequate fanned out to give their views.

Dr. William Bibb, a biologist at AEC headquarters in Germantown, Md., and frequent pro-AEC speaker, said "The public is scared of radiation and anyone who reinforces their fears is going to get a damn solid audience."

Gofman and Tamplin were getting a solid and widespread audience.

But the reins began to tighten. Early in May, Tamplin was notified he was being charged vacation time for days spent in March and April at a conference at the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, a session of the American Cancer Society and an environmental teach-in for members of Congress and science writers.

His appeal was denied on the grounds that "in all cases the trip and your involvement in the meeting was beyond the scope of your laboratory assignment."

Soon after the start of the new fiscal year July 1, Gofman complained he had lost two people from his 12-member staff. Tamplin's staff of 12 was cut to one research assistant.

The AEC responded that the staff reductions were part of budget cuts forcing elimination of 4,000 lab jobs.

The AEC is locked in the radiation standards battle even though all today's nuclear plants operate well within the stricter standard proposed by Gofman and Tamplin.

Why doesn't the AEC adopt the more rigid standard which apparently would change nothing?

"We think it would be just as wrong for us to arbitrarily lower the standards that have been set by experts not only in this country but all-over the world as it would be to go above the standards," says AEC chairman Glenn T. Seaborg.

According to Seaborg, the standards are under study and if the experts conclude they should be revised, "we would be happy, of course, to comply."

Some companies with nuclear plants under construction reportedly plan to announce they will voluntarily adhere to a much lower release of radiation than the standards require.

Westinghouse Electric Corp. has built nine nuclear plants and says their radiation leakage is rarely more than one per cent of the existing standard.

The debate over the effects of low doses of radiation centers around this question: If a given dose of radiation can be shown to cause 100 cases of cancer within a population sample, will a dose one-tenth as large result in ten cases, and will a dose one hundredth as large result in one case?

Gofman and Tamplin contend this sort of direct, straight line or linear, relationship exists.

Many researchers such as Dr. John Storer of the Oak Ridge National Laboratory, disagree. Storer believes that evidence shows that with exposure to very small amounts of radiation, the harmful effect drops off sharply.

Pauling, a veteran of battles with the AEC over nuclear weapons tests and radioactive fallout, says of the Gofman and Tamplin estimate: "I don't think they've exaggerated at all. My own estimate is two or three fold higher."

All the figures are estimates because no one knows. As Lederberg put it, there is a "threshold of visibility"—a dose below which scientists can't be sure whether cell damage was caused by the radiation or something else.

Lederberg cited this uncertainty as reason enough for adopting a stricter standard, coupling it with intensive research.

According to AEC projections of power use, nuclear plants now generate one per cent but by the year 2000 will generate 69 per cent.

Seaborg and other AEC officials predict breeder reactors will be operational in the 1980's and because they produce their own plutonium fuel might, in Seaborg's words, "lead to the production of electricity at costs that would be spectacularly low by today's standards."

The AEC does not treat power plants lightly. Surveillance is intense during construction and afterward. All safety systems are multiple so if one doesn't work there is a backup.

The AEC so far has refused to permit construction of a plant in a city.

But Dr. Edward Teller, father of the hydrogen bomb, said he believes "a big nuclear plant 700 feet underground on Manhattan Island is safer than one 70 miles away on the surface."

The AEC contends the chances of any accident that would release radioactivity are so slight as to be virtually nonexistent.

So far the power industry's safety record is perfect. But there aren't many plants and few have been operating more than a year or two.

In 1957, an AEC-commissioned study estimated that if a power plant released a large amount of radiation, loss of life would be in the thousands and dollar loss would be in the bil-ions. One expert now with particularly strong misgivings is David E. Lillenthal, first chairman of the AEC. Says Lillenthal:

"Once a bright hope shared by all mankind, including myself, the rash proliferation of atomic power plants has become one of the ugliest clouds hanging over America."

MBABANE, Swaziland (AP) — Radio Swaziland is boosting its broadcasting hours by 1 1/2 hours daily to 9 1/2 hours daily and will use the extra time to tell the Swazi people about their tribal background. Old people will describe events of the past and customs that now are dying out. Young people will be quizzed on what they know of the traditions and customs of the Swazis. GIANT SNAILS
PORT MORESBY, New Guinea (AP) — In 1942, Japanese troops brought giant snails into New Guinea for food, and they continue to be a problem. The snails originally were brought into only three areas, but they have spread to other districts. Moving in scores of thousands, they eat out New Guinean food gardens. The only control is to pick the snails from plants and kill them.
