Nixon's D.C. Anti-Crime Bill Clears Congress By 54-33 Vote In Senate
School Attendance Plan Voted By 5-2

By JOHN CHADWICK Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's anticrime bill for the nation's capital, complete with the controversial "no-knock" and pretrial detention provisions, has become the first of the White House's crime fighting proposals to clear Congress.

vote Thursday climaxed a week of debate marked by charges that parts of the bill are repressive and violate constitutional rights. Most of those against passage were liberals, but Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., a strict constitutionalist, led the fight against the bill, passed by the House last week 332 to 64. Ervin called passage "a victory for repressive criminal procedures." Chiefly in dispute were sections permitting pretrial detention of defendants judged likely to endanger community safety and authorizing police to enter homes without knocking while executing some search and arrest warrants. Opponents also protested provisions for expanded police wiretapping under court orders.

adult trials for juveniles charged with violent crimes such as murder and rape, and mandatory minimum sentences for second offenders convicted of crimes of violence while armed. Other parts of the bill providing for a reorganization of the local courts, more judges, an expanded bail agency, and a public defender system were not disputed.

Members of the Greenville Board of Education last night voted five for, two against and one abstaining, in adopting Plan Four for the coming school year.

In the second three hour meeting this week, the members heard Associate Superintendent Glenn Cox explain in detail arrangements and pupil distribution of the four plans before taking action to vote on a choice to be submitted to Federal District Judge John Larkins for a ruling of acceptance or non-acceptance.

Plan Four basically calls for generally maintaining the present geographic attendance zones with necessary variations to achieve the proper racial ratio within each elementary school. Other features of this plan will convert Agnes Fullilove School into a kindergarten and a school for special programs; maintaining the current curriculum based on grades one through six in the remaining six elementary schools; and accomplishing the required racial ratio of two to one (two white students to each black student) by satellite bussing to each school.

Dr. Badger Clark made the motion for acceptance of this plan. Harding Sugg and Mrs. Robert Kittrell voted against plan four. In abstaining from voting, Dr. James Bearden stated his action was based on the fact he did not "consider the meeting a duly called public meeting." He made reference to the story in Tuesday's Daily Reflector which stated the board "will meet again tomorrow night". It should have ready that the board would meet again Thursday night.

William Crosby, one of the approximately 15 persons at last night's meeting, commenting on Dr. Bearden's reason for abstaining, said: "I feel the meeting was made public enough. It seems to me people who were concerned knew of the original meeting the first of the week."

"The general public can't make the decision," board member John Bizzell commented. "This is our job."

Plan Four calls for elementary students to attend the six elementary schools in the approximate proportions of black and white students shown below with an estimate of the number of pupils needing transportation shown in the final column of the table. All schools encompass grades one through six:

Table with 5 columns: School, White, Negro, Total, Transport. Rows include Eastern, Sadie Sautler, South Greenville, Elmhurst, Third Street, and Wahl-Coates.

This gives an estimated total of approximately 1044 school children in the elementary grades who will need to be bussed to school next year.

N.C. Directs Election Boards Not To Comply With New Voting Law

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP) — North Carolina has made the first move toward a court test of the federal Voting Rights Act of 1970 by refusing to make plans to allow 18-year-olds to vote and by refusing to abolish its literacy test.

The state board of elections voted unanimously Thursday to instruct county boards of elections not to comply with the act.

A letter from U. S. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell to Gov. Bob Scott had stated that North Carolina must decide by Aug. 31 if it will comply.

Under the federal act 18-year-olds would not be eligible to vote until Jan. 1, 1971. But local election boards would be required to register the young voters after Aug. 6 this year.

Two separate motions passed by the board instructed local boards to continue to comply with sections of the state Constitution which prescribe that a person be 21 years of age or older to vote and that "every person presenting himself for registration shall be able to read and write any section of the Constitution."

Board executive secretary Alex Brock noted that several persons under 21 had already tried to register with county boards of elections. Scott's office must now notify Mitchell of the decision, and the outcome is almost certain to be federal court action against the state.

Board chairman J. Brian Scott of Rocky Mount made it clear that the board's decision "is of course subject to judicial review."

Brook asked the board, "Does North Carolina want to await a strict ruling of the court or take an act of Congress?"

In taking its action the board made it clear that it does not believe Congress had the authority to supersede sections of the U. S. Constitution giving states the right to set voting qualifications and sections of the state Constitution setting these qualifications.

In the past three sessions, the General Assembly has turned down constitutional amendments to lower the voting age to 18. North Carolina voters will be faced in November with a proposed constitutional amendment abolishing the literacy test.

Cereal Makers Defend Products' Food Value

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cereal makers have defended their breakfast foods as nutritious and wholesome in the face of Senate testimony of a nutrition expert who said most cereals contribute little to good health.

Most leading dry cereal makers defended their products against the accusations of Robert B. Choate, 40, a Washington based citizen-lobbyist. Some major producers indicated he didn't know what he was talking about.

Choate appeared before the Senate consumer subcommittee armed with results of a study he made that showed 40 out of 60 types of cereals lacked enough nutritional value to rate as half a complete meal.

A spokesman for Kellogg Co.

said "leading nutrition authorities in the nation just do not agree with Mr. Choate."

Dr. John J. Hopper, Kellogg's director of research, said "civil engineer Choate's theories and so-called formula might be meaningful or applicable if you are digging a mineshaft, but they are completely valueless as a yardstick for measuring the nutritional values of any type food—not just a cereal."

Choate, a former consultant to the White House, Department of Health, Education and Welfare and several congressional committees, said his ranking of the 60 cereals oversimplified the interaction of nutrients. But "it does portray what cereal companies are boasting about on their own boxes."

General Foods, makers of Post cereals, said Choate's study and testimony included "a great many technical errors," one of which it said was the condemnation of presweetened cereals on the grounds they may lead to the consumption of too much sugar.

"In our opinion, exactly the opposite is true," the company said. "Presweetened cereals provide a measure of control over sugar intake that is not present when the young consumer sweetens his own."

Nabisco, maker of the bottom-ranked cereal, Shredded Wheat, defended its product as "an excellent source of nutrition," which is recognized as such by "experts in the field, the medical profession and dieticians."

The cereal makers will get their chance to rebut Choate's testimony Aug. 4, subcommittee aides said.

Leaf Prices Hold Level

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP) — The federal-state Market News Service reports that grade prices on the Georgia-Florida flue cured tobacco market Thursday generally held the high level set opening day.

Quality was a little lower than the previous day. Larger percentages of low primings and nondescript were sold.

Sales volume continued heavy, although several markets were not blocked. This happens when more tobacco is ready for sale than can be sold during the five hours the market is open.

Opening day sales Wednesday averaged an unprecedented $73.22 per hundred pounds for 13,464,705 gross pounds. It was an increase of $2.22 over the opening day average set in 1969.

Auction bid averages per hundred pounds on some representative grades and changes from previous day:

- Cutters—Low lemon, C5L, 81 unchanged. Lugs—Good lemon, X3L, 81 unchanged. Fair lemon, X4L, 78 unchanged. Fair orange, X4F, 78 unchanged. Low orange, X5F, 74 unchanged. Primings—Good lemon, P3L, 77 unchanged. Fair lemon, P4L, 75 unchanged. Low lemon, P5L, 71, up 2. Fair orange P4F, 74 unchanged. Low orange, P5F, 70 up 1. Nondescript—Best priming side 64 down 2.

Chapin Elected To Head Commission

H. T. Chapin Jr. was elected Wednesday night to succeed Frank Little as chairman of the Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission.

The election of a new chairman was necessary due to Little's recent move outside the city limits. Chapin, elected as a member of the commission last year, will continue in his present three year term, serving as chairman until June 1972.

President of Chapin Construction Co. Inc. of Greenville, Chapin is a native of Raleigh and is married to the former Helen Tucker of Greenville. The Chapins have five children — Debbie, Cathy, Tommy, John and Verna.

A graduate of North Carolina State University at Raleigh with a B. S. degree in civil engineering, Chapin served in the Army during World War II with an overseas tour in the European Theater of Operations.

He is a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Greenville and is a member of the Board of Managers of the Planters National Bank. He is also an active member of the Associated General Contractors.

Comb Underground Haunts For Bomb Plotters

DETROIT (AP) — Federal agents search underground haunts today for 10 of the 13 members of the radical Weatherman organization indicted on charges of conspiring to build a nationwide revolutionary network to bomb and kill.

Some may have already sought sanctuary in Communist countries, said Asst. Atty. Gen. Will B. Wilson, head of the Justice Department's criminal division.

"If they are in the country, we'll catch them eventually," Wilson said in Washington after the indictments were made public Thursday.

Three of the accused were arrested Thursday. Heading the list of seven women and six men charged with the plot were Mark Rudd, 23, who led a campus revolt at Columbia University three years ago, and Bernardine Dohrn, 27, former national secretary of the Students for a Democratic Society, both missing.

The Weatherman faction broke away from the SDS a year ago.

The indictment charges the defendants conspired to "use bombs, destructive devices and explosives to destroy police installations and other business and educational buildings throughout the country and to kill and injure persons therein."

Wilson said only one alleged bombing attempt was carried out—at the Detroit Police Officers Association building.

Detroit police said a package containing 10 sticks of dynamite was thrown through a rear window of the building March 6, but failed to explode.

In the far-reaching case, 15 persons were named conspirators but not defendants in the indictment, returned by a federal grand jury in Detroit.

Five of the 13 named defendants Thursday and four named coconspirators were among 12 persons indicted in April on charges of conspiring to cross state lines to incite a riot during the Weatherman's so-called "Days of Rage" in Chicago last Oct. 8-11.

The indictment centers around the Weatherman's "war council" at Flint, Mich., at the end of December, when leaders met to plan national strategy.

The scheme allegedly called for the organization of a "central committee" to direct underground bombing operations with headquarters in Berkeley, Calif., Chicago, New York, and Detroit.

Highway 264 Plans OK'd

Preliminary engineering has been approved by the primary roads committee of the state Highway Commission for the relocation of Highway 264 from Wilson to Greenville, according to an announcement by area Highway Commissioner, W. Arthur Tripp.

Approval of the preliminary studies, the first official step in the Wilson to Greenville four-laning foremat, came Wednesday at a committee meeting in Raleigh.

According to Tripp, preliminary engineering and surveying will be completed and then presented to the Federal and State planning boards in Raleigh.

Preparation of maps and other vital information will be the next formal step in the project and a corridor public hearing will be held either in Greenville or Wilson. A date for the hearing has not been set.

Public hearings are required by the government in order for the state to obtain the 50-50 matching funds for the highway work. The commissioner added that project approval by the full commission is expected at its regular meeting on Aug. 6.

The studies involving the relocation of 264 from Wilson to Greenville tie in with the projected plans to eventually make 264 a four-lane, full control of access facility from Zebulon to Greenville.

The Committee on Wednesday also gave its approval to the extension of four-laning on US 13-NC 11 in the vicinity of the Tar River north to NC 903 as an approved highway project. In addition, approval of projects involving the improvement of state road 1530 (Air Port road) from Greene Street to US 13-NC 11 and the improvement of Field Street (state road 1225) in Farmville from Wilson Street to the corporate limits was also given on Wednesday.

Commissioner W. G. Cark III of Tarboro announced that a project dealing with the construction of a new bridge from the junction of US 13 and 258 north of Snow Hill to the Snow Hill bypass to include a crossing on the Contentnea Creek has been approved.

The announcement of the Greenville to Wilson four-laning involves a project of approximately 35 miles and will probably be broken up into three or four segments. Road improvement projects normally cover from 10 to 11 miles at a time.

Avers Harmony Is Key Factor

MARS HILL, N. C. (AP) — Rep. Norwood Bryan of Fayetteville told an environment workshop Thursday "we will be a very short-lived species" if man doesn't realize "harmony is more important than domination."

Bryan spoke at a news conference during a visit to the workshop at Mars Hill College for 20 public school teachers. Bryan, a Democrat, is chairman of the legislative Task Force on Environment and Natural Resources, which is considering proposals to add environmental studies to the public schools' curriculum.

State Grant Assures Chapter Of Second Year's Operation

The Greenville-Pitt County Chapter of the Governor's Council on Aging has been assured of a second year's operation with a state grant of assistance in the amount of $12,753.00.

J. Eddie Brown, executive director of the Governor's Council on Aging and R. E. Timberlake, Jr., administrative assistant, came to Greenville to present the check for the grant to Mrs. J. B. Spilman, chairman of the Greenville-Pitt County Chapter.

Present for the occasion were Dr. Clinton Prewett, president of the local chapter, Mrs. Graham Flanagan, committee member, and Boyd Lee, director of Greenville Recreation Department.

"We have been very pleased with the first year's operation of the Greenville-Pitt chapter," Brown stated. "We feel the work has gotten off to a good start, especially in working relationships with other agencies and organizations."

Brown added "This chapter is providing outstanding services for elderly citizens. They have carried services to out regions throughout the county."

"We are certainly extremely pleased with Mrs. Spilman's services in establishing a worthwhile program for elderly people," Brown concluded.

Noting future plans, Mrs. Spilman commented: "We hope to open our center on Greene Street in conjunction with the Recreation Department as soon as possible."

Mrs. Spilman enumerated services to be offered in the center — these will include a reading room, a TV room, an arts and crafts section and a number of other useful services in making later years of citizens more meaningful.

"Beginning in October," Mrs. Spilman added, "we hope to transfer our information referral service to the Recreation Department which will be in a better position to put people in touch with varied programs."

Some of the accomplishments during the first year of operation of the local chapter include establishment of 11 clubs throughout the county. Trips for senior citizens too played a large part of the initial year's program. Mrs. Spilman indicated that for many of the elderly citizens, these trips were their first outside the immediate area. She noted future plans include a trip to Lake Junaluska near Asheville.

Recreation Department Director Lee told Mrs. Spilman "we think you have done a truly wonderful job in bringing in a segment of the population in and around Greenville who have had limited facilities and activities to participate in."

"The things you have planned in the past and for the future give these older people something they can feel they are a part of," Lee stated.

Work is progressing on converting the two story house on Greene Street which has been made available to the Council on Aging by the owner of the home, Mayor Frank M. Wooten, Jr. This building, located near downtown Greenville, will be the

Will 'Flush' Boys Home Choir Will Sing Here At Services

RALEIGH (AP) — The U. S. Army Corps of Engineers has agreed to the discharge of up to 97 million gallons of water a day from the W. Kerr Scott Reservoir to flush out the polluted Yadkin River.

A spokesman for the North Carolina Department of Water and Air Resources said Thursday that the District Corps Engineer in Charleston, Col. Burke W. Lee, formally approved the release of the water in a letter to the state agency this week.

The department requested the authority to accelerate the spill from the reservoir as an interim measure to increase the flow of the Yadkin River and dilute the pollution that caused three major fish kills in June and July.

The department put the responsibility for the kills on improperly treated sewage being released into the river by the city of Winston - Salem.

The sewage, combined with a heavy run - off of surface wastes following torrential rains, put enough organic matter into the river to deplete the oxygen supply and kill the fish.

The department spokesman said, "the release will be made on an interim basis as needed and we are trying to determine whether the city of Winston-Salem must reimburse the federal government for the water."

Winston - Salem is in the process of doubling its sewage treatment facilities, which have been overloaded by the city's rapid industrial and population growth.

The discharge from the reservoir near North Wilkesboro is intended as a temporary measure to prevent more fish kills while the waste treatment plant expansion is being completed.

The 40-member Boys Home Choir, under the direction of Ed Miller, will sing at the morning worship services Sunday at St. James United Methodist Church.

The choir will perform at both the 8:30 and 11 a.m. services at St. James and will be accompanied by Mrs. Ed Miller on the piano. In addition to hymns by the entire choir, Miller will sing a solo.

Sunday afternoon, the group will be treated to a swimming party and cookout by Greenville Kiwanians at the Tar River Estates pool. On Monday morning, WNCT-TV's Carolina Today program will feature the choir at 7:30 a.m.

The group will then be the guest of the Greenville Boys Club prior to traveling to Edenton for a performance Monday evening.

On Aug. 1, the young men will return to Greenville to perform at half-time ceremonies at the Eighth Annual Boys Home All-Star Game. New proceeds from the North Carolina Jaycee sponsored event (the Greenville Jaycee Chapter has served as hosts for all eight games) go to Boys Home.

Tickets to the game may be purchased from any Jaycee at $2.00 or at $2.50 at the gate. Children under 12 are admitted free when accompanied by an adult. The choir, in heavy demand throughout the state and recognized as one of the top boys choirs in the southeast, represents only 40 of the 106 boys who reside at Boys Home.

North Carolina Civitans, Lions, Jaycees, Kiwanis, Rotarians, and Optimist have all built cottages at the Home for the boys. The Home has an on-campus school for younger boys while older boys attend Hallsboro High School. All the boys participate in church activities at any of the local churches in the area in addition to regular devotions on the campus.

Confronted with the apparent loss of one trick in each suit, South managed to salvage his four heart contract by making one of those losers disappear.

West opened a diamond and East covered dummy's king with the ace. With the appearance of declarer's jack on the trick, East decided that a shift was indicated so as not to present his opponent with a ruff and discard. He accordingly led the eight of spades at trick two and South put up the ace.

A heart was led to the queen and East was in again with the ace. This time he exited with a trump and declarer played a third round to draw West's remaining heart. A club was led to the king and a spade returned from dummy. East followed with the deuce, and South, after a moment's reflection, refused the finesse, going up with the king. The queen remained outstanding.

Declarer was in position to establish the spade suit by leading a third round, however two sluffs would not help him materially because he still must lose a club trick. In order to eliminate one of his black suit losers, he would have to find the long cards in spades and clubs located in separate hands, in which case an end play can be affected.

In order to strip out all safe exit cards, South cashed the ace of clubs as both opponents followed suit. Now a spade was led. West was in with the queen and he had nothing left except diamonds. On the forced return, declarer ruffed in the dummy as he discarded a club from his hand. South's hand was high, consisting of a trump and two good spades.

South claimed his contract, having lost one spade, one heart, and one diamond.

Marriage Broker Tells Of Clients

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Some marriages may be made in heaven, but at least 15,000 of them have been made in the Bond Street Marriage Bureau of London.

That's the number of men Heather Jenner, who has run the agency during its 30 years of existence, has introduced to the women they eventually married.

"The pressure is off now for a girl to get married, and for the first time it's the man more than the woman who is anxious to marry," said the tall, willowy Miss Jenner, who was in New York in connection with the publication of her new book, "Men and Marriage."

When she began the business the proportion of women to men seeking mates was about 3-to-1, but now she has more men than women under 35 applying. Looking back over three decades of helping Cupid, she talked about some of the other changes that have taken place.

"Men are more able to accept a working wife than they used to be," she said. "Where once they insisted on being the sole support, now they want a woman who is capable of holding a job."

One rather startling development, she reported, is that a large percentage of younger men have no objection to marrying an unwed mother. In general men are more tolerant, less class conscious today, while 30 years ago they might be more concerned with a girl's social standing than with her education.

"On the whole girls like men to have the same standard of education as they do, if not better, but men who have gone to university don't insist that their wives have also," the marriage broker said.

"Men used to want a classical beauty and one who was fashionable," she continued. "Now the woman doesn't have to be a beauty, but must have vitality, be intelligent and practical and have sex appeal."

Men usually demand that the girl be shorter and younger, though. As for the girls, they want someone with stability, a man who is kind, taller than themselves and not bald.

Citing another change through the years, she noted that men are not as dictatorial as they once were. "They haven't got the power to be—women would shriek with laughter if a man tried to dictate. The strong silent Englishman who dominates the household is out of fashion."

Miss Jenner said she won't undertake spouse-hunting for a male seeking a mate 25 years younger. ("Girls wouldn't consider it.") She also refuses obvious fortune hunters, obvious neurotics, divorced people until they have their divorce papers and anyone for whom she feels she can't provide a reasonable number of introductions.

Prospective clients fill out a form, and are charged $25 for registration and an additional $50 if a marriage takes place. An interviewer talks to the client to learn how he is living, how he wants to live, his views on life, why he has never married or, if he is divorced, why the marriage broke up. It's this personal assessment, Miss Jenner feels, that spells success and precludes using a computer approach to matching.

Of those on the register 60 per cent are single, while the remainder are widowed or divorced. Men prefer an older girl to have been married before, she explained, since they find the older unmarried girl too eager.

Average age of the clients is 34 for men and 27 for women. But Miss Jenner once made wedding bells ring for a couple of octogenarians. "An 80-year-old woman wrote that she lived a lonely life and wanted to meet someone," she recalled. "I wouldn't have taken her on because I couldn't hope to give her any introductions, but by coincidence at just that time a man of 82 wrote. They met and married and I got Christmas cards from them for five years."

People, especially younger ones, are much less shy now about telling their friends that they met at a marriage bureau," she said. "If they go to a marriage bureau it means they are really serious about marriage and that contributes to its success."

While she has no exact figures on the thousands of unions she has been responsible for, she remembers that after 20 years in the business she wrote to 1,000 couples and got 800 answers. Of these only three couples had been divorced.

Miss Jenner, a good looking strawberry blonde in her 50s, has been married twice herself. Her first marriage was ended by divorce and her second husband, the English author and humorist, Steven Potter, died last year.

Oh, yes, said Miss Jenner—gentlemen no longer prefer blondes. These days they go more for brunettes.

Homemaker's Haven

By Miss Jane Holloway

Now is the time to capture the zest of summer vegetables to enjoy the rest of the year. While the garden gets its annual vacation this winter your freezer works to keep the garden goodness in the vegetables.

Take our North Carolina sweet bell peppers for example. Jack Frost need not rob your meals of sweet bell peppers with their high rating of vitamins A and C. Freeze your own bell peppers for use during the winter months. According to Dr. C. H. Miller, associate professor of horticultural science at N. C. State University, the most popular types to freeze are the many strains of California Wonder, Keystone Resistant Giant and Yolo Wonder.

Dr. Miller tells us we can judge the maturity of a pepper by slightly squeezing it—but be gentle because a bruised pepper isn't good to freeze. If the pod is firm it is mature enough to harvest. This mature stage, when the pepper is dark green, is the best time for freezing peppers.

Freeze peppers as soon as you can after they are gathered. Wash them and cut them in half or if you wish to freeze some to stuff, slice the tops off and remove the insides.

According to research done by Dr. Ivan Jones, N.C. State University, peppers should be blanched or scalded before freezing. To blanch, use a gallon of vigorously boiling water to a pound of peppers. Keep the heat high so the water continues to boil after the peppers are added. After adding the peppers cover and boil for two minutes. Then remove and plunge into icy water. Blanching prevents flavor changes from taking place in the pepper and makes them pliable so that they can be packed easily.

As you pack the peppers for the freezer do so according to the intended use.

The halves that you have prepared to be stuffed may be nested. If you plan to stuff the peppers before freezing them, use either freshly cooked or uncooked ingredients—never use leftovers.

Be sure to use good freezer containers or packaging materials. If you use polyethylene bags, use those which are 1 1/2 mils thick. These aren't easy to find but ask for them. Freezer foil of .0015 thickness is excellent for nesting peppers because when you mold the foil to the peppers you chase away air which is an enemy of frozen foods and also of vitamin C which is in the peppers.

Frozen peppers whether sliced, chopped or minced give characteristic flavor and color to soups, chicken a la king, meat loaves, gravies and many other dishes. Because frozen peppers aren't crisp and crunchy as fresh ones are, they aren't appropriate for salads and other dishes in which you want a texture contrast.

If you want to give interest to your winter meals, save the cost of high priced, out-of-North Carolina-season fresh peppers and add needed vitamins to your family's diet, follow these recommended practices and use some of your freezer space for sweet bell peppers.

A Farewell To Boyfriend's Arms

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I have gone with one man for the past 10 years. He couldn't marry me for the first 5 years because he had to support his mother. Well, his mother died, so he found another reason. He wanted to be clear of all his debts. Next he wanted to buy a boat! [I let him have $1,400.]

Anyway, he says I'm the only one for him and in the meantime he is getting awfully hard to find. Last Friday night he rushed me home [he said he had a "headache"] and said he wasn't going to do much on the week-end. I didn't hear from him, and his car was gone. He still owes me $1,400 which he never even mentions. I have cried my eyes out, Abby, and I can't eat or sleep. He knows how much I love him. What should I do now?
ONE MAN WOMAN

DEAR ONE: Collar the heel and ask him what [and who] is new? If it's the end of the romance, it's better to know it now than to kid yourself for another 10 years. Also be prepared to write off the $1,400 as "tuition in the school of experience." And finally, brace yourself for a farewell to arms. His.

DEAR ABBY: I am 20 and my girl friend is 19. She's a beautiful girl and a very nice one, but her pucker power is zero. In other words, she doesn't know how to kiss. I don't want to hurt her feelings, but maybe if you put this in your column she'll see it.
JACK THE LIPPER

DEAR JACK: Maybe the "power failure" is yours. Check your transmitter. You could have a dead battery.

DEAR ABBY: This is for that nurse who complained because whenever she appeared in her uniform in a supermarket, cafeteria or while waiting for a bus, strangers would ask her for medical advice: To wear the uniform in such places, not only degrades its symbolization, but it also renders the cost of such uniforms ineligible as a tax deduction.
A NURSE IN TUTTLE, IDAHO

DEAR NURSE: You are correct, of course. And I imagine no one gets away with very much in Tuttle, Idaho.

DEAR ABBY: A letter appeared in your column from a bride, asking whether to invite her father and his "new" wife to her wedding. The bride said that since there had been ill feelings about her parents' divorce and her father's remarriage, the "new" wife would probably have the good taste to decline.

You said, "And what if she doesn't? Don't risk inviting anyone anywhere hoping they'll decline. They just may accept."

That's exactly what happened to me. My father remarried shortly after he and my mother were divorced. Not wanting to do anything in poor taste, in planning my wedding my mother and I sent an invitation to my father and his wife. They accepted promptly. Thus, the day that should have been the happiest in my life was ruined. The tension at my wedding could have been cut with a knife. My stomach was so tied in knots that I thought I was going to throw up on the way down the aisle. If I had it to do over again, I wouldn't even have invited my father. I would have asked my brother to give me away. Keep up the good work, Abby.
TOO LATE FOR ME

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Luncheon Honors Miss Barrett

Mrs. Thomas Eli Joyner Sr. and Mrs. Thomas Eli Joyner Jr. of Farmville entertained at a bridesmaids luncheon on Sunday honoring Miss Jo Betts Barrett, bride-elect of James Van Taylor III.

Upon arrival, guests were greeted by Miss Eleanor Ann Joyner, Miss Lee Joyner and Miss Joy Joyner. Roses varying in shades of pale pink to deep rose were used throughout the Joyner house.

In the dining room, the bride's table was covered with a white linen embroidered cloth and centered with a silver epergne arrangement of Queen Elizabeth roses. From the centerpiece, pink ribbons extended to the places of the bride-elect and to those of the bridesmaids, which were marked with nosegays of pink roses.

On the buffet stood a bride doll surrounded with the bride-elect's gifts for her honor attendants.

In the living room and library, auxiliary tables held arrangements of pink roses similar to those in the dining room.

Special guests included Mrs. Alton Russell Barrett, mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. James Van Taylor Jr., mother of the bridegroom - elect, and Mrs. James Van Taylor Sr., grandmother of the bridegroom - elect.

Her 'Speak Up' Stopped Robber

HAMBURG, West Germany (WNS) — Mrs. Marta Wiedemayn, 83, was taking care of her daughter's candy shop here when a masked thief with a revolver entered and demanded the day's receipts. Mrs. Wiedemayn, hard of hearing, told him "You'll have to take that handkerchief off your mouth because I can't understand a word you say." The thief fled without taking even a candy bar.

Fingernails Lost In Woodsy Prank

LONDON (WNS) — Elaine Ringwood, a 23-year-old teacher, has sued Scoutmaster Andrew Perry because his troop of Boy Scouts chased her through the woods and hoisted her into a tree on a rope. "I suppose that it was meant as fun, but it went wrong," she told Justice Waller in the High Court. Miss Ringwood lost two fingernails and now has to use the stick-on falsies that will cost her $75 a year. Scoutmaster Perry said that he would have intervened if the lady has protested. "I thought she wanted to have her picture taken," he testified.

Auspicious Start For Tobacco

Georgia tobacco markets have opened on a good tone with a $73.22 per hundred pound average for the first day. Sales on the 28 markets Wednesday totalled 13,364,705 pounds to post the average which was $2.22 above opening day last year. The record opening day average was posted despite poor weather conditions which delayed sales on some markets—when federal inspectors declined to grade leaf because of the lighting conditions.

A good opening on the Georgia - Florida market generally means that the high prices will hold when sales move on up to the Border Belt and then to the Eastern Belt. There is no guarantee of this; however a good Georgia opening is usually a reason for optimism.

The age old cycle of selling tobacco has begun with the opening of markets in Georgia and Florida. In less than a month the auctioneer's chant will be heard once again in Eastern Belt tobacco warehouses. If the quality of tobacco being grown here this year holds up, there is much reason to believe that growers will receive good prices for their tobacco on the Eastern markets.

Appointment Of Rouse Was A Logical Move

The appointment of Robert D. Rouse, Jr. of Farmville to fill the unexpired term of the late Judge William J. Bundy was the proper course. Gov. Robert W. Scott announced the appointment Wednesday.

Rouse won the Democratic nomination for judge of Superior Court of the Third Judicial District in the May primary. Judge Bundy did not seek reelection.

Rouse's full eight year term does not begin until Jan. 1, 1971 and he still has to be formally elected in November although he has no opposition in the general election.

Thus it was entirely logical that Gov. Scott appoint Rouse to fill the unexpired term, and make it officially Judge Robert D. Rouse, Jr.

Nixon's Dixie Wing Revolts

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The White House received advance warning nearly two days before last Friday's attack from Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina when Nixon administration officials gathered at Washington's Mayflower Hotel for a reception given by Southern Republican state chairmen.

While violins played and whisky flowed, the overriding mood was tense. The Southern politicians were suddenly discarding their good-natured patience of the past 18 months in dealing with the Administration — particularly Clarke Reed, Mississippi state chairman and leader of the Southern Republican chairmen.

The usually gracious Reed made no secret of his anger over Internal Revenue Commissioner Randolph Throwing's decision revoking tax exemptions for private whites — only "academics." "If you're such a civil rights man," Reed told the Georgian Throwing as bystanders gaped, "why don't you go over to HEW (the Department of Health, Education and Welfare) with the rest of the revolutionaries?"

Reed was not alone. Other state chairmen were even more stinging in talking to Administration officials that night. One Border state chairman — John Kerr of Kentucky — matched the chagrin of his Deep South colleagues. Backing up the chairmen in haranguing Nixon men there were two Southern Republican Senators, Edward Gurney of Florida and Thurmond himself.

What went on at that reception directly contradicts explanations for Thurmond's attack on the Administration now seeping out of official circles: that Thurmond's view is isolated, that it has nothing to do with Throwing's tax decision, that it was provoked by a story in Friday morning's Washington Post about 100 Justice Department lawyers going South to push integration.

In fact, the Southern rebellion had been building for weeks. "We began to feel," one Southern Republican explained to us, "that we were losing more decisions than winning them." The triggering device was Throwing's decision on school tax exemptions, shattering Republican arguments down South that the courts — not President Nixon — are to blame for quickening school integration.

Following the tax decision, Southerners made the calculated decision days before Thurmond's speech to move into open criticism on grounds that quiet loyal support of Mr. Nixon was bearing diminishing returns. Their campaign will intensify Sunday in Atlanta with an emergency session of Southern Republican chairmen and Southern Republican members of Congress.

Moreover, many Southern politicians and Administration officials agree that a showdown is at hand, a time of choosing for Mr. Nixon on desegregation after 18 months of flipping back and forth. Having pleased nobody with ambiguity, he is being pressed to say where he stands.

In pressing Mr. Nixon to stand for the South, Dixie Republicans argue he must run well in their region to win in 1972. In no possible way, they add, can he cut into the Negro vote by moving leftward. Furthermore, the President's strongest Southern supporters are warning that the White House may cripple the party in the South this autumn.

Thurmond has been privately scolding the Administration that its school integration stance may torpedo Rep. Albert Watson's bid for governor in South Carolina, informing Nixon men that late 1970 Justice Department school desegregation suits in his state may blight golden Republican prospects.

On the surface, Commissioner Throwing — a moderate Republican from Atlanta — has been made the scapegoat. During a private session with the state chairmen last week in Washington, he was battered unmercifully. State Chair-

Strength For Today

LIFE AND ITS LUGGAGE

Some people when they travel worry so much about their luggage that they never enjoy the journey. After they have taken all possible precautions and have tucked their baggage checks into their wallets, they are unwilling thereafter to leave the responsibility with the proper parties. As they recline on the deck of a steamer or sit in the chair car looking out of the window, the beauty of sea or landscape is marred with the anxious thought that perhaps after all something may happen to the luggage.

Many people go through life worrying more about its luggage than they do about life itself. They cannot enjoy the beauties of the world in which they live or the cheerful fellowship of the people round about them who are eager to be friendly, because they keep thinking all the time about the luggage of life. Whether they have much or have little, they worry about money. Whether they wear fine clothes or shabby, they worry about their appearance. Whether they be in exalted station or humble, they worry about their position in life. They cannot enjoy the journey because they spend so much time thinking about the luggage.

Take no thought for such things, said Jesus. Seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and secondary matters will be attended to by a hand higher than our own. If we take care of life, God will take care of its luggage. By Earl L. Douglass

Secret Burial Ground

WASHINGTON — This is a government of reports and studies. No matter what happens in this nation, the first solution is to appoint a commission to study it. The commissions take one year, two years, some even longer, and then they make their report to the President. If the President agrees with the report, it's released to the nation. If he or his staff disagrees with it, it's buried. But where?

Other Editors Say Detroit Dance

(Christian Science Monitor) The negotiating ceremony between the auto union and automakers started up last week, much as it does every three years.

It is a courtly dance. After all, it may take place in an industrial town, but the parties comprise the nation's largest single industry and its most progressive union. They're both respected citizens in Detroit, supporting its charities and social betterment programs. Yet for all its sophistication and courtesy, one hopes the 1970 negotiating dance won't prove crippling, as well. For neither the union nor the companies nor the nation would gain if a bitter, protracted fight were to develop over the issues at stake.

For its part, the United Automobile Workers may ask eventually for about 10 percent a year more in pay and benefits. First they want to get back the 26 cents an hour they say they lost in past inflation. They want a full cost-of-living escalator clause (three years ago they settled for an 8-cent-an-hour cost-of-living ceiling). A $500 minimum pension after 30 years service, instead of $400 at present. And a substantial wage boost.

The automakers point out that this isn't a good year for the secret burial grounds of reports and studies made by presidential commissions. The cemetery is located on a hill overlooking the upper Potomac. It is quiet and deserted, and only the chirping of birds or the call of a hoot owl can be heard. Mt. Gottfried Snellenbach has been caretaker of the burial area for government reports since the Harding Administration, and after I assured him I would not dig up any of the graves, he let the union to push hard. Sales are down. So are profits. Furthermore, they say, auto workers already are doing well. They're among the top third of wage earners in the country. While the average American worker saw his pay envelope "fatten" from $86 to $104 since 1965 but its actual buying power decline by a dollar and a half, auto workers gained 16 percent in real wages and benefits in the same period. And automakers want wages to escalate more in terms of productivity advances than by moving in lock-step with the cost-of-living index.

Apart from the basic economics involved, there are other troubling signs that the negotiations could prove rough going. General Motors may be the strike target when the present contract is up in mid-September. The union may feel it has to prove itself under its new leadership in taking on the most formidable of the auto giants. And word has it that GM may be shoring up for a siege that could last until past Christmas.

Nothing would be gained from all this. And much lost. The economy is in enough of a slump as it is, without having to endure the cumulative depressing effects of an auto strike.

me enter the large well - kept grounds. "We've got some of the great reports of all times buried here," Mr. Snellenbach said. "We've got reports that cost $20 million, and we've got reports that cost $2,000, but in the end they all wind up here, buried six-foot under."

"Sir, what kinds of reports are resting here?" "It might be better to ask what kind of reports aren't buried here. We have reports on violence, studies on black, students, unemployment, the economy, the Communist threat, housing, health care, law and order. You name it, and we've buried it."

"How does a report find its final resting spot in this well?" "Well as you know, the President is always appointing a commission to study something or other, and after the study they're supposed to hand in a report. Now, lots of times the President has no intention of paying any attention to the report, and it's dead before it's even written. Other times someone on the President's staff reads a report handed in by a commission and says 'This stuff is dynamite. We have to kill it.'"

"In some cases the President says 'Let's release this report to the press and then bury it.' Occasionally a report will just die of heartbreak because nobody pays any attention to it. "In any case, after the report is dead, it has to be buried, because if you're President you don't want someone finding it at a later date and using it against you. "So every week each report that has died is placed in a pine box and loaded on a government hearse and brought up here, where we have a simple ceremony before lowering it into the ground."

"If it's a blue ribbon panel report that's been killed in action, we give it a 21-gun salute." (Continued On Page 5)

Your Years Show—

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — No matter what your birth certificate says, you are middle aged if—
Your doctor calls you by your first name.
Everybody within hearing distance sighs when you start to tell a story.
It is your considered opinion that no hotel room in the world is worth more than $5 a night.
You still kind of miss not seeing Robert Benchley on screen or in print.
Somewhere in the attic you still have an old mah jongg set, a broken-stringed ukelele, and a ouija board.
Some days you feel like you

can keep one of your chins up but not both of them. You don't actually sit down in a chair anymore. You just kind of sag into it.

It takes you longer to put your shoes on in the morning, and after you do, you rest for a moment or two brooding whether it's really worthwhile to get up. The only tune you still remember all the words to is "It's a long way to Tipperary," but after two Martinis you are willing to sing them any old time and any old where. You vaguely suspect there isn't as much fun in the world as there used to be—but if there is, the wrong people are having it.

The dentist warns you that if you don't let him do something about them this year, next year may be too late. You conclude that from now on your life will be full of more dentures than adventures.

That second cup of coffee makes you feel a little bilious. Half the girls in the office stay home on your birthdays so they won't have to give you a kiss; those who do come in only peck you on the cheek.

No matter how you comb it the bald spot shows. It seems to you that in the old days newspapers had more interesting stories on the front page—and not just all this crime and disaster stuff.

It begins to dawn on you that you'd probably won't become head of the firm unless a miracle happens—and you're not too sure you want the miracle to happen. Responsibility can age a man quicker than anything. You can still do practically anything you ever did, but half the things you used to do no longer seem worth doing.

All this blather about the youth revolt annoys you. If youth knows what it wants, why doesn't it get it, and if it doesn't know, then why doesn't it shut up?

Each day seems a little longer, each year a bit shorter.

Ingenious Ideas Not Fool-Proof

By ELMER ROESSNER
Some ideas, no matter how ingenious and appealing, just never get off the ground. The much ballyhooed air bag safety restraint system for automobiles may well be one of these.

The idea calls for large, folded bags that pop out and inflate the instant a car hits something, cushioning passengers from the impact. Simple sounding in concept but an engineering nightmare.

To begin with, the bags would have to inflate within a twenty-fifth of a second in order to absorb the shock in time. Then it would have to deflate quickly so as not to entangle the passenger.

The explosive power needed for such rapid inflation roughly equals a shotgun blast. In the limited space of a closed car, this would probably wreck an individual's hearing.

Then, the system must be foolproof. It must always operate when needed and never when not needed.

Hard Knocks

If the system malfunctioned and was activated when there was no collision it would probably startle the driver enough to cause an accident. Therefore, it would have to be proof against stray electrical currents, bad chuck holes, hard braking, vibration, moisture seepage and many other factors.

It would also need its own triggering device in case the car's electrical system failed. And it would have to withstand tampering by vandals, curious auto owners and clumsy mechanics.

The device should not injure a child standing in front of it or an adult bent forward when it went off. Nor should installation weaken the structure of the car, especially the dashboard.

In general, air bag systems would have to have a reliability equal to, or better than, that required by spacecraft systems. Yet they must be adaptable to mass production assembly by the millions.

Unlikely Prospect
Stuart M. Frey, chief body engineer for Ford Motor Company, pointed out these and a number of other problems in a surprisingly candid talk recently.

Ford began working on air bag restraints more than a decade ago but is still dubious about their practicality. Frey said that development of such a system was in its infancy and it will be a long time, if ever, before it is perfected.

He also chided the Department of Transportation for its approach to the subject. The National Highway Safety Bureau has eagerly proposed regulations requiring air bag systems in all cars by 1973. But the Bureau's $11 million test program to determine the system's suitability won't have results until 1977, four years after it expects air bags to be installed in all new cars.

And it all may be for naught. Firestone is working on a "security blanket" system that uses a fabric sheet restraint instead of an air bag. This approach solves some problems but Firestone concedes, "There's a great deal of practical engineering left to be done."

Meanwhile, buckle up those safety belts.

Collided At Intersection

Approximately $900 in damages resulted from an accident Thursday at 6:25 p.m. at the Jarvis Street-Fourth Street intersection.

Greenville Police, who investigated the mishap, said that cars driven by Thomas Wilhelm Schucker of 211-2 N. Elm Street and Joseph Ray Hardee of Rt. 1, Maysville were involved in the accident.

Officers reported that the drivers of the two vehicles informed them that their vision into the intersection was hindered by a truck parked on a corner near the intersection.

James Edwin Smith of 701 E. Fourth Street was charged with parking his truck in a "no parking zone" following investigation.

Damages were estimated at $400 to the Schucker vehicle and $500 to the Hardee car. No charges were preferred against the drivers of the two vehicles and no injuries were reported.

Eric Lloyd, a letters editor for The Wall Street Journal in New York, termed the response to an article written by Dr. John P. East and published in the July 2 edition "a very good response . . . in fact larger than usual."

Commenting by phone Thursday morning, Lloyd noted that the Journal received "about 15 letters all together" in response to Dr. East's article headed, "Why So Few Conservatives on Campus?"

The July 22 edition of the Journal published seven replies to the article with responses coming from readers in Rochester, N.Y., Bethesda, Md., Beatrice, Neb., and Pomona, Calif., among others.

The editor pointed out that he expected more letters in the future in response to the article but doubted that they would be published, saying later publications might tend to "drag out the issue."

Dr. East, an associate professor of political science at East Carolina University sent the article to the Journal with an explanatory note pointing out that it was excerpted from the May, 1970 issue of the New Guard, magazine for Young Americans for Freedom.

The July publication brought replies commenting, "Your article was very comforting," from one reader and Dr. East's article . . . "is an excellent and accurate account of the sorry state of affairs in academe," from another.

"Many articles have been written regarding campus unrest and the questionable education is a factor in North Carolina's improving highway safety record. "We are fortunate in that our state has a multi-phase highway safety program — enforcement, education, engineering," he explained. "All of them work together. While you cannot separate out the specific contribution of any one, you know that each shares the credit for the total success of the program."

Association, had arrived Dr. East said, concerning an August publication of the article.

In addition, the editor of the United Feature Syndicate has requested that Dr. East submit material for a "three or four part series" to be used in the Syndicates Spotlight Services to approximately 50 newspapers across the nation. Dr. East recalled that he had sent the article to the Journal initially and had received a reply indicating they would like to reprint the article but would have to edit according to space. Actually, he said, the editing left approximately two-thirds of the original article that appeared in The New Guard but the main points of the discussion were retained.

"I'm working right now on the series of articles for the United Feature Syndicate," Dr. East commented. Also, he added that he plans to submit further articles to the Journal for possible publication.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)— North Carolina egg markets were steady Thursday. Supplies were adequate, demand fair. Prices paid producers and handlers for consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets:

Grade A large whites: 49½-50; medium, whites: 37-38; small, whites: 26-27.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)— North Carolina hog markets were mostly steady today. Tops of 23.50 to 24.00 at Rocky Mount; 23.25 to 23.75 at Siler City, Denton, Aberdeen; 22.25 to 23.75 at Tarboro; 23.25 to 23.50 at Wilson; 22.50 to 23.50 at Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Newton Grove, Albertson and Lumberton; 22.25 to 23.25 at Bethel; 24.25 at Mount Olive; 24.00 at Salisbury.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)— North Carolina live poultry offerings today were adequate for fair ready to cook demand. Weights desirable to heavy. Live at farms 11 to 11½ cents per pound, mostly 11½. Hens, trading limited, too few sources reported to quote prices.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market drifted downward today in slow trading.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was off 3.56 to 729.12 at 11 a. m., an hour after the opening of trading.

Advances, which had led declines earlier, ran slightly behind losers among the issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said the downturn was to be expected because of profit taking on recent gains.

Some brokers said investors also were disappointed in the latest second-quarter earnings reports, which tend to be more discouraging than those reported earlier, which were better than expected.

He's Home After 3 Years In Hospital

ELECTRICAL FOOTBALL... is a playing it at home with his brother, game Carlton Staton (seated in Clayton (standing) than it was in the wheelchair) likes. It's more fun hospital, he says.

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Eleven-year-old Carlton Staton went to church with his family Sunday.

"In fact, we took him to our church, Brown Chapel Holiness Church, three times during last weekend — Saturday night, Sunday morning, and Sunday night. We had a lot of thanking God to do. Our boy is home with us after three years in the hospital," his father, Oscar Staton, said.

Carlton came home to 925 Legion Street here last Saturday after having been a patient at North Carolina Orthopedic Hospital in Gastonia for 36 months.

"From the time we put him in the car, he was looking for Greenville," his mother said laughing. "He didn't want to stop for lunch or anything. He just wanted to get home. And when he saw our trailer beside the old house, he was the most delighted boy I've ever seen. We hadn't told him about moving into the trailer because we knew it would make him want to come home worse."

Although he is confined to a wheelchair now, he is happy to be able to sit up at all because much of his time in Gastonia was spent lying prone while recovering from an operation to correct a severe curvature of the spine.

"Carlton was perfectly all right when he was born and, as far as we knew, until he was four and a half. Then he began to weaken," his mother recalled. "During 1964 he was in and out of North Carolina Memorial Hospital at Chapel Hill four times. The doctors there said he had a spinal tumor that they could not remove.

"His condition was arrested for a while and he entered the first grade at Sallie Branch Elementary School near Belvoir. We were living in Greenville, but I was working as a teacher's aide at Sallie Branch then and I could take him every day. He completed the first and second grade in a wheelchair before he had to go to Gastonia. At the Orthopedic Hospital, he continued his schooling, but he necessarily fell behind his classmates back home because he had extended recovery periods from operations and other treatment.

"Incidentally, the surgeons at Gastonia said they could find no tumor when they operated. We believe the Lord removed it," his parents said.

All his family — his father, mother, and his two brothers, Clarence, 16, and Clayton, nine, traveled to Gastonia at least every other Sunday to visit him. Often other relatives and members of the family church went with them. "If we received word his morale needed boosting, we would go two Sundays in a row," Mrs. Staton said. "At Christmas we went up on Christmas Eve and stayed overnight, but on the other visits we had to make the 500-mile round trip in one day because of our work.

"God was good to us during this time. My husband and I were always able to work and meet our responsibilities and get to see Carlton, too," she said. Staton is an employee of Carolina Leaf Tobacco Company and Mrs. Staton works on second shift at Fieldcrest Mill. Clarence is working in tobacco.

Clayton loves his new job — entering Carlton. Carlton loves having him with him, too. He confided he does not miss the other boys in his ward at the Orthopedic Hospital much because "I'd rather play with my brother."

"We can't allow Clayton to sleep in the bed with Carlton," his father said. "Do you know what he does? — he takes a quilt into his brother's room and sleeps beside his bed on the floor."

We want all the people who have expressed concern for Carlton during these trying years to know he is home at last," his mother said. So many were always asking about him, sending him cards and letters, and remembering him on his birthday and holidays.

"One day we'll always remember was June 21, 1969. Children's Day at Brown Chapel was held in honor of Carlton and the offering taken up that day — about $100 — was a gift to him," she said.

Officers Named By Testify No N.C. Press Ass'n Clear Prints

WRIGHTSVILLE BEACH, N. C. (AP)—L. T. James, editor of the Montgomery Herald at Troy, was elected president today of the North Carolina Press Association, succeeding David Whitchard of Greenville.

Howard White, editor of the Burlington Times - News, was elected vice president, and Mrs. Margaret Harper of Southport was reelected secretary-treasurer at the 98th annual convention.

Three new directors were elected. They are Betty Huckle of Concord, William D. Snider of Greensboro and Dick Wynne of Asheville.

Pat Kelly, executive editor of the Winston-Salem Journal and the Twin City Sentinel, was elected president of the Associated Dailies. Other officers elected were Perry Morgan of Charlotte, vice president, and Miss Huckle, secretary - treasurer.

James H. Parker, editor and publisher of The Sampsonian at Clinton, was elected president of the Associated Weeklies. Eugene Smith of Havelock was chosen vice president and Ike Riddick of Kenansville, secretary-treasurer.

The new directors of the Associated Weeklies are Sam Ragan of Southern Pines and Clifton Metcalfe of Waynesville.

Whitchard told the association North Carolina has the capacity now to produce the best newspapers in history, "but we must give more thought to more thorough coverage and better coverage."

He said newspapers should reevaluate themselves in response to criticism made on various levels in recent months.

Whitchard added the state has never had a more responsible press than it has today.

Variance Request Is Withdrawn At Adjustments Meet

Opposition to B. C. Branch's request for a variance to remodel a service station at the corner of Fifth Street and Ash Street resulted in a withdrawal of the request.

Meeting last night to consider this and other requests for special use permits and variances, the Board of Adjustments heard attorney Louis Singleton present the request for Branch at the public hearing scheduled for last night.

Ed Griffin, spokesman for the opposition, presented a petition signed by 38 residents in the area. The petitioners opposed on the grounds they understood that the service station would be allowed to remain until it deteriorated and was torn down. The station is located in an R-6 (residential) zone.

Singleton withdrew the request for variance because of the opposition. Thus no action was required by the Board of Adjustments.

A request for variance submitted by Mrs. Doris Grubbs to construct a two-car shelter at 407 West Fourth Street was approved. There was no opposition to the public hearing on this request.

In the case of a special use permit and variance request by D. G. Nichols, the special use permit was granted to allow Nichols to construct a service station in the Southside Commercial Center. The request for variance, asking for permission for the operator to live on the premises, was withdrawn.

No action was taken on Frank Harrington's request to make an addition to his present structure at 2020 Dickinson Avenue. This action by the board was based on the fact Harrington has not complied with Section 15-3 of Ordinance 322, which requires making an application with properly drawn plans for a structure.

Celanese Corp. Earnings Down

NEW YORK (AP)—Celanese Corp. earnings for the second quarter were 26 cents a share lower than those during the same period a year ago, according to a statement Thursday.

President and chief executive officer John W. Brooks said the 1970 figure for the textile firm reflected earnings of $15.8 million on sales of $259.5 million, or earnings of $1.11 per share of common stock. A year ago earnings were $19.4 million or $1.37 per share.

Favors Textile Quota Efforts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur F. Burns said Thursday he favored continued efforts to work out voluntary quotas restricting the growth of textile imports.

He noted that retaliatory measures are already being planned abroad, Burns told the Senate - House Economic Committee the President has committed his prestige on behalf of voluntary quotas.

Statisticians predict the U.S. population will reach 225 million by 1975.

Over 3 Inches Of Rain During Week

Greenville and Pitt County residents have seen some rainy days this week with the precipitation for the area reported a 3.2 inches.

According to the Greenville Utilities Commission weather station, the rainfall for the 24-hour period ending this morning at eight o'clock totaled .91 inches while the amount for the 24-hour period previous to that was 1.1 inches. The rainfall for recorded Wednesday at 8 a.m. reported as .9 inches while Tuesday's totaled .29 or an inch.

"The rainfall has possibly helped to mature some crops of tobacco which had not received any rainfall until the first of July," reported Sam Weeks, Pitt County agricultural extension agent.

"In some of the poor drain soils, the amount of precipitation has almost reached the point that it could soon cause some drowning of tobacco," Weeks explained. "However, as of now, I have not seen any drowning of tobacco here."

Weeks said, "If the rains discontinue now, it should not affect the quality of the crop to any great extent. The present outlook for yield and quality of the tobacco for Pitt County is good."

The high temperature for the 24-hour period ending this morning at eight o'clock was reported as 86 degrees while the low for that same period was 70 degrees. The temperature today at 8 a.m. was 72 degrees.

Heavy Fire Damage To Home Of Late Judge

SNOW HILL — An early morning fire Thursday caused several thousand dollars damage to the homeplace of the late Superior Court Judge J. Paul Frizzelle.

Firemen from three Greene County fire departments fought the blaze which started about 1:30 a.m.

The house, located on West Greene Street, is estimated to be some 40 to 50 years old and is occupied by Mrs. Connie Callahan and Mrs. Ninna Louise Edwards. No one was home at the time of the fire.

Units from Snow Hill Hookerton and Shine brought the blaze under control and kept the fire from spreading to adjoining buildings. Firemen also were able to save several pieces of antique furniture from fire damage.

Fire Chief Horace Moore had no explanation as to how the fire was started but noted that the most extensive damage was centered around the electrical switch box in the back of the house.

Rain Hits Stars, Legion Contests

Rains again washed out sports activity involving Greenville teams from mountain to the coast yesterday.

The Babe Ruth All-Stars, playing in the State Tournament in Kings Mountain, were washed out in their attempt to move on to the finals of the tournament. The locals were scheduled to play Concord at 11:30 a.m. today. A victory would send them into the finals of the tournament as the only unbeaten team left. A loss would send them into the losers bracket and put Concord into the favored position.

Greenville's American Legion team, trying to get in its first game in the best of five series against Kinston for the area championship, was rained out again last night. The two teams are scheduled to try again tonight at 7:45 p.m. in Kinston.

The winner of the series advances into the semifinals of the state tournament, playing the winner of the Hamlet-Wilmington series.

Elsewhere, the Church Softball League's tournament was again postponed. The league will try to get underway Monday at 7:30 p.m. with its game between Black Jack and Presbyterian.

The Women's Softball League did attempt to get underway last night, and it resulted in Foodmart taking a forfeit victory over National Products Co. before the rains resumed. One remaining game, between Coca-Cola and leader Little Mint is scheduled for Tuesday.

North State All-Stars

The North State Little League All-Stars open play next week in the district tournament in Robersonville, seeking a berth in the state playoffs the first week in August. Members of the team are, first row, left to right: Jeff Barber, Carlton Wall, David Dixon, Kelly Heath, Chris Garrett, Ashley Bass, Harry Pair,

Home Players Arrive Sunday

Fifty-four of 1969's best football stalwarts arrive here Sunday to begin preparations for the Eighth Annual Boys Home All-Star Game to be played in Ficklen stadium on the campus of East Carolina University, Greenville, Saturday, August 1, 1970.

The players represent the cream of last year's seniors from throughout the state. They hail from forty communities from as far East as Elizabeth City and as far West as Brevard.

Upon arrival the young men will undergo physical examinations and immediately set about the task of being molded into a team. A steady diet of individual workouts and study of formations and plays have been going on for the past two months.

The game is sponsored annually by the North Carolina Jaycees for the benefit of Boys Home at Lake Waccamaw. Initially the funds derived from the game were used to pay for the sixteen boy cottage built by the North Carolina Jaycees at Boys Home in 1962. Since fulfilling this obligation in 1966 the funds have been used to support the sixteen young boys who reside in Jaycee Cottage. Total cost of maintaining the cottage, the boys, and their resident house mother is $25,000 annually.

Sam Keel, State Chairman of this year's game from Greenville, states that pregame interest is running at an alltime high. Numerous Jaycee chapters throughout the state have made firm commitments to buy at least one ticket per member. Many chapters are making arrangements to send their local high school team to see the game. Tickets may be purchased from any N. C. Jaycee in advance at $2.00. Tickets at the gate will be $2.50. All children under twelve years of age will be admitted free when accompanied by an adult. Game time is set at 8:00 p.m.

Head coach for the North squad is Dick Kemp of Elizabeth City. He will be assisted by Ken Morgan from Lenoir. Head coach for the South team is Cameron Little from Jacksonville.

Pepitone Wants New York Team

By KEN RAPPOPORT
 Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Pepitone hit the high note of his career as a singer—but there was nothing wrong with his punchline delivery, either.

Joe "I Won't Go Back To Houston" Pepitone slammed out a swinging rendition of "Around The World" and threw in one-liners in the best top banana tradition while appearing on the Merv Griffith Show Thursday night.

The AWOL Houston Astros' outfielder-first baseman appeared along with actresses Eva Gabor and Peggy Cass and singer Julius LaRosa on the CBS-TV show taped for national television tonight.

Pepitone, under suspension by the Astros after jumping the team Tuesday, appeared in a giddy mood before and during his performance.

It was billed as Pepitone's singing debut—but the shaggy-maned Pep corrected an inquiring reporter:

"That's not altogether true," he said, "I sang once on the Mike Douglas Show—but that was impromptu."

Would he consider singing for his supper if his baseball career was washed up?

"Not really, I still want to play baseball," he said, "just not in Houston. I'm not going back to Houston."

Where would he prefer to go? "New York is where it's at," said Pepitone, "I wouldn't mind coming back to New York—either with the Yankees or maybe the Mets."

Pepitone had similar troubles while playing for the Yankees before his trade last year to Houston. He was fined several times for leaving the team without permission.

The 29-year-old player returned to his Brooklyn home Wednesday after several clashes with Houston Manager Harry Walker. In so many words, Pepitone said he was accused of lying about an elbow injury which kept him out of action.

"My arm just doesn't feel right," said Pepitone, "and I'm not going to play with it in this condition. I wanted to give my best to the Houston fans. The fans are just great there. They even applaud when you're not doing well."

"My New York doctor told me I could ruin my career by playing in my condition. I'm only 29, I've still got some way to go."

Pepitone received a $5,000 raise when he went to Houston—but he said that's all been eaten up in fines and lost pay since his suspension.

Owners Appeal To Players, But Say They'll Sit Down To Talk

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Pro football's owners have appealed directly to the players in the contract impasse but say they'll sit down at the bargaining table today with the National Football League Players Association.

Both sides in the prolonged stalemate, which has virtually doomed the annual College All-Star Game in Chicago, agreed to meet here with representatives of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

It's the third site for a FMCS session with the warring owners and players but the first where it appeared both sides would show up.

John Mackey, Baltimore Colt tight end and NFLPA president, said his group was ready for round-the-clock negotiations.

The presidents of the 26 NFL teams sent to each of their players Thursday a lengthy memorandum summarizing the clubs' positions on the negotiations.

The so-called position paper accompanying letter from each team were virtually identical.

"Unless existing differences can be resolved, the game as we know it...may well be destroyed," said Max Winter, president of the Minnesota Vikings. "The situation is extremely serious."

And, Art Rooney of the Pittsburgh Steelers, called the stalemate "extremely grave with no visible solution to the impasse."

Mel Kennedy, one spokesman for the NFLPA, said in Washington that the organization was aware of the position paper. "The guys get in touch with us as soon as they get one."

In Washington, Tom Vance, another NFLPA spokesman, telephoned New York at midnight, asked that the 1,600-word position paper be read to him and said the NFLPA would issue a formal statement on it sometime today.

Wellington T. Mara, president of the New York Giants, told his players: "The demands of your

Viking Vets Take Physicals

Minnesota Viking veterans showed up at training camp for physical examinations but stressed that they had no intentions of actually starting preseason training until the National Football League contract negotiations are settled.

Mick Tingelhoff, Viking center and spokesman for the veterans, said he was hopeful the negotiating session today in Philadelphia would produce a settlement.

New Orleans Saints veterans, however, apparently aren't as optimistic. A dozen first-stringers, who've been holding rump sessions near the Saints' Bowling Green, Ohio, camp, decided to go home and await the end of the strike-lockout.

Tingelhoff, player representative of the Vikings, said many of the veterans voluntarily showed up for Thursday night's examinations "so we can save a day later." Photographers were barred and Tingelhoff said the veterans didn't want any publicity.

The New Orleans veterans had been working out at a high school football field at their own expense. Al Dodd, acting as a spokesman, said most of the men decided it was getting too costly since the end of the squabble doesn't appear in sight.

Elsewhere around the training camp scene, where only rookies are drilling:

The Baltimore Colts ordered another physical exam—without saying why—for barefooted kicker Don Curran, a walk-on who booted 45-yard placements when he showed up Wednesday. On Thursday, however, he wasn't as spectacular. Some kicks were shanked and many were short.

Phil Olsen, No. 1 draft pick of the Boston Patriots, underwent knee cartilage surgery and the word was that the Utah State rookie may be lost for the season.

The Atlanta Falcons opened rookie camp and 48 were on hand.

Bernie Babcock, a free agent tackle from Dartmouth, was cut by the Dallas Cowboys, who also had running back Tom Broadhead, acquired in an off-season trade with New Orleans, and free agent defensive back Steven Brown from Idaho, leave on their own.

Pappas Hands Reds First Shutout Of Year As Cubs Win 3rd In Row

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
Milt Pappas zeroed in on his former teammates and came through with his fourth straight victory, aided by a home run pitcher's dream.

Pappas, a 31-year-old right-hander, scattered four hits Thursday in blanking the Cincinnati Reds 1-0 as the Chicago Cubs rolled to their third straight triumph. It was the first time this season the West Division leaders had been shut out.

Pappas, a 14-year major league veteran, has now hurled four complete games and raised his record to 6-3 since coming to the Cubs from the Braves on June 25. He is 4-1 in his new uniform.

The former Baltimore Oriole, who was traded to the Reds in 1965 for Frank Robinson, said "I feel I'm starting a new career at the age of 31."

He said the turning point in Thursday's game was in the sixth inning when the Reds had the bases loaded with only one out.

"I'm up against Johnny Bench and this is the key situation in the whole game," Pappas said afterward. "My first pitch is a high, hanging slider—a home run pitch—but Bench swung too hard, just grazing it."

Pappas got another strike and "Then I whizzed a fast ball, knee high on the outside corner—a pitcher's dream pitch—and it's a called third strike. Pappas then got the third out on a fly ball."

The Cubs got the only run of the game in the eighth on shortstop Woody Woodward's throwing error after reliever Clay Carroll had issued successive walks to Don Kessinger and Glenn Beckert.

In the only other National League game, Pittsburgh moved 2½ games ahead of the idle New York Mets in the East with a 6-5 victory over Atlanta and Houston edged St. Louis 3-2.

In the American League, California whipped Boston 4-1, Cleveland downed Chicago 5-2, Minnesota nipped Detroit 2-1 and Baltimore edged Kansas City, 5-4.

Dave Cash capped a three-run eighth inning with a sacrifice fly in the Pirates thrilling victory.

With the Pirates trailing 5-3, Richie Hebner opened the Pittsburgh eighth with a single, moved to second on an error and scored on Al Oliver's single. Roberto Clemente ripped a pinch hit double and Manny Sanguillen drew an intentional walk, filling the bases.

Bob Robertson was then hit by a Don Cardwell pitch, tying the contest and Cash followed with his fly. Robertson drove in another Pirate run in a three-run third with a single while Cash tripled in another.

Bob Tillman capped a five-run Atlanta sixth inning with a two-run single as the Braves knocked out starter Luke Walker who had pitched hitless ball for five innings.

Jack Billingham limited the Cards to six hits and John Edwards cracked a fifth inning homer, snapping a 2-2 tie. The loss went to Bob Gibson, 12-5, who also gave up six hits.

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — He has the quiet, refined speech of a college English professor.

His suits might have been designed for a stock broker.

But 31-year-old Claude Gibson has solid credentials as a pro football player and currently is stepping into what must be one of the toughest head coaching jobs in the college football.

Gibson—who answers to the nickname "Hoot"—although he doesn't really care for it—was named Wednesday as interim football coach at the University of Tulsa. He succeeds his friend Vince Carillot, who resigned during a National Collegiate Athletic Association probe of recruiting activities.

Gibson talked quietly Thursday in his own small office—he hadn't moved into the head coach's office yet.

He made one thing clear quickly: He and Carillot are "very good" friends and that it was Carillot's request for loyalty to him that kept some of the staff from quitting. "If he had asked me to quit with him, I would have," Gibson said.

Gibson, a native of Asheville, N.C., played his college ball at North Carolina State. In those years—1957 to 1961—everyone

Baltimore Within One Of Tying Record With 'Cousin' After Win

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
As a new comer, Kansas City had a fine first meeting with the Baltimore Orioles, but then they got to know each other like "cousins," and the relationship has been deteriorating ever since for the Royals.

That first meeting was back on May 9, 1969, and after the usual introductions, the expansion Royals and Dick Drago went out and beat the powerful Orioles.

The Royals must have been happy to see the Orioles again the next night, but it wasn't the same, and hasn't been since. Baltimore won that game and went on to win the next 19 after that, including a 5-4 decision Thursday night in Kansas City.

The Orioles' 20 straight victories over the Royals pulls them within one of the firmest "cousin" relationships ever in the major leagues. "Cousin" is a term used in sports for a team that is a pushover for another club, and only the New York Yankees of 1927, who beat the St. Louis Browns 21 times in a row, ever had a better relationship.

Elsewhere on a light baseball night, Minnesota beat Detroit 2-1 and Cleveland upended the Chicago White Sox 5-2 at night in the American League and California stopped Boston 4-1 in the afternoon.

In the National League, Pittsburgh edged Atlanta 6-5 and Houston nipped St. Louis 3-2 at night and the Chicago Cubs trimmed Cincinnati 1-0 in daylight.

The Orioles beat Kansas City

11 consecutive times last season after that opening loss, and their victory Thursday night was their ninth this season—and it came against Drago.

It's not that the Royals don't have their chances against Baltimore—they lost in 13 innings Wednesday night and left 10 men on base Thursday night.

They had runners on second and third with one out in the first inning against Jim Palmer, 14-6, and managed only one run—on a balk. In the fourth, they loaded the bases with none out, but needed a walk to force in their only run.

Doubles by Al Oliver and Billy Sorrell gave them a 3-3 tie in the sixth and Cookie Rojas singled in a run in the eighth to pull them within 5-4, but, with two on, reliever Pete Richert got pinch-hitter Bob Taylor to hit into a double play.

Finally, in the ninth, they had runners on first and third with two out, but Eddie Watt came in and retired Oliver.

Meanwhile, Frank Robinson was busy keeping Baltimore's streak intact. He hit the first homer off Kansas City pitching in 135 2-3 innings, a blast with one on in the third inning, his 18th, for a 3-1 lead. Then, he hit a sacrifice fly in the seventh for a 4-3 lead.

Rookie Bob Grish stroked a run-scoring decisive triple in the eighth.

The victory also increased Baltimore's Eastern Division lead to six games over Detroit, which bowed to the Twins on George Mitterwald's eighth homer that broke a 1-1 deadlock in the seventh.

Rookie Bert Blyleven, 4-3, won a duel from Joe Niekro, 10-9, yielding only four hits.

Vada Pinson hit a two-run homer in the fifth for a 3-2 lead after Eddie Leon slammed a solo shot in the third as Cleveland backed Sam McDowell, 15-4, who became the second pitcher in the league to win 15. He spaced 10 hits and struck out nine.

California rallied for three runs in the ninth inning, the tie-breaker on Billy Cowan's pinch-hit double after Jarvis Tatum opened with a double. Jim Spencer singled for another run and Ken McMullen smashed a double in the third.

All-Stars Are Continuing Work

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — The College All-Stars are grinding through twice daily workouts wondering if their July 31st meeting with the world champion Kansas City Chiefs will ever take place.

"We're cutting down on the rough stuff because we don't want anyone injured for nothing," Coach Otto Graham said Thursday night, "but we'll continue to practice until the game, officially is called off."

As the collegians rambled through drills on Northwestern University's training fields, representatives of the NFL Players Association declared Thursday that they would not allow the Chiefs' to report to training camp because of the NFLPA's dispute with club owners.

Chiefs Coach Hank Stram has said that his team would need at least a week to prepare for the game with the All-Stars at Soldier Field.

As the deadline closes in, however, The Chicago Tribune Charities Inc., the All-Star game's sponsor, continued as usual promotional procedures and ticket sales for the 37-year-old classic.

"Right now we're just getting ready to play and we're selling tickets," George Strickler, president of Tribune Charities, Inc., said.

Graham, who is coaching his 10th All-Star team, forecast that his squad would practice into next week unless the game is officially called off.

The All-Stars pulled a one-day boycott of drills last week in support of the NFL Players Association in its stand against the owners.

Aside from that, however, the collegians have shown enthusiasm since they hit the practice fields July 9th.

Despite the overall effort by the players, linebacker coach, Stan Springer, admits that the NFL player-owner dispute has made mental preparation difficult.

Arnie, Jack Wreck Course

By BYRON YAKE

LIGONIER, Pa. (AP) — Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus nearly embarrassed the National Four-Ball Tournament officials.

That is, Palmer nearly embarrassed himself, on his home course at Laurel Valley Golf Club.

"They made shambles out of the course," said Laurel Valley President George Love.

Palmer and Nicklaus teamed Thursday for a brilliant 10-under-par 61 on the 7,045-yard Laurel course, nestled on a former pheasant preserve owned by the late Richard K. Mellon in the hills of western Pennsylvania.

The Palmer-Nicklaus round was relaxed and near perfect.

The two golfing greats had no bogeys. Palmer reeled in six birdies and Nicklaus four as they soared to a three-stroke lead over their nearest rivals, Dave Eichelberger and J. C. Gosie and the Jim Colbert-Dean Refram team, which both scored 64s.

Howie Johnson and Chris Blocker, Joel Goldstrand and Harry Toscano, Pete Brown and George Johnson, and Bob Charles and Bruce Devlin all had six-under 65s.

George Archer and Bobby Nichols, the champions in 1968, the last time the tournament was played, had a 67.

But it could have been disastrous and embarrassing to Palmer at the dogleg 18th.

The greying Palmer hit his second-shot short of the green, then chipped to within three feet of the pin.

Nicklaus' second shot, a five iron, hit above the pin and rolled back to within 15 inches of the cup.

Palmer marked his ball and his caddy, thinking Nicklaus had a sure birdie, stuck the ball in the bag.

It was impossible for the nearby Latrobe native to distinguish between the balls in his bag, so he picked up, putting all the pressure on Nicklaus.

"I was praying Jack wouldn't miss," said Palmer, "I could just see him miss, then three putt."

"I was thinking about the same thing," said the slimmed-down Nicklaus, decked in a pink and black outfit.

"It would have been easy to miss. There was a big break and if it would have lipped it would have gone six or seven feet past."

The 60 teams play the second round today after which the field will be cut to 40 teams for the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday.

PITCHING—Milt Pappas, Cubs, tossed a four-hit shutout over Cincinnati, the first time the Reds had been blanked this season, as Chicago edged them 1-0.

BATTING—Frank Robinson, Orioles, crashed a two-run homer and drove in another run with a sacrifice fly in Baltimore's 5-4 victory over Kansas City.

Gibson Doesn't Look Like Football Coach

played both offense and defense. He played wingback offensively although his skills, he said, were primarily on defense.

Although drafted by the Chicago Bears as a third-round choice, he signed with the San Diego Chargers in the then-American League. As a pro player, he had two years as defensive cornerback for San Diego and three years with the Oakland Raiders as a cornerback and safety.

For two years he led his team in interceptions and was second in the league. His record for punt returns stood until last season and included three returns for touchdowns.

He joined the commissioner's office in the American League but found himself without a job when it merged with the National Football League.

"I got into coaching by accident," he said.

Gibson was in North Carolina when his former college coach, Earle Edwards, hired him as an assistant. The next year, 1968, he joined the Boston Patriots as an assistant coach and last year held a similar job with the Buffalo Bills.

But he had always wanted to be a college coach and when Carillot had an opening last February he came to Tulsa. He will coach offensive back this season, in addition to his head coach duties.

The staff will hold its first formal meeting Monday. "So far there have been informal talks but that's all," he said.

Practice for Tulsa, a member of the Missouri Valley Conference, begins Aug. 20 and the first game is Sept. 12 against Cincinnati.

Besides the problems from the coaching change, Gibson is caught with a lot of young players without experience. "Some of them look good, but they hadn't been tested," he said.

In three years, Gibson says, Tulsa should be able to play anyone in the country a good game.

Good Oratory Needs 'Doing'

Marsha and some of her classmates took charge of the church service on a recent Sunday morning. They handled the Responsive Reading, plus the Offertory and furnished the choir music. Perhaps churches would zoom faster if laymen alternated Sundays with the pastors in all the pulpits of America!

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph.D., M.D.
CASE N-500: Marsha McDonald is an attractive high schooler.
"Marsha," I began, "I wish to congratulate you and your Sunday School classmates.
"For you did a splendid job of conducting the church services on this 'Student Recognition Sunday.

"Your voices were also clear and loud enough to be heard on the rear rows."
Marsha thanked me for the compliment.
Later, when I met her mother outside the church, I again praised Marsha.
"Dr. Crane," her mother replied, "Marsha accepts all such public platform opportunities.
"For she wants to become more poised when speaking to groups.
"That's why she enjoys school debating, too."
Oratory and swimming are much alike, for you can't become adept at either, merely by reading books thereon.
No, indeed! For you can memorize an entire manual on the famous crawl stroke, yet you may still not be able to keep afloat in the water.
For you must get into the actual swimming situation in order to learn how to swim. Same goes for public speaking!

You can profit a great deal from textbooks on this subject, but you will still shake with stage fright and feel like collapsing behind the lectern unless you have spoken in public on many occasions.
William Jennings Bryan was probably America's greatest orator of the 20th Century.
But he once told me this reassuring fact:
"Dr. Crane," he said, "I have made literally thousands of public speeches.

"But if I am off the platform for a couple of months, I again suffer from a lot of stage fright the next time I deliver an address."
So I wish to congratulate Marsha and all of you teen-agers who rule your life by your brain and thus make your unruly emotions obey the dictates of your will.

For when you realize what is the right path to success and then force yourself to follow the road map thereto, you are halfway to your goal, even if you are still only in grammar school.

Jesus was thus only 12 years old when he stayed behind at the Temple to ask questions of the professors and wise men of his day.
Abraham Lincoln was a gangling boy who never went beyond the 2nd grade in any public or private school, but he became his own professor and thus set himself educational problems and assigned himself lessons.
So Lincoln's fame as a lawyer exceeded that of all the college graduates of Harvard, Yale and Princeton!

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N. C.—Friday, July 24, 1970—9
Remember, the best way to acquire platform poise and also learn, is to teach a Sunday School class or lead the meeting of your Young People's Church Society.
Many of our outstanding members of Congress gained their oratorical skill largely from such church talks.
So send for my booklet "Public Platform Strategy," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.
Follow its instructions; then "get in the swim" as often as possible.
(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

DO YOU WANT TO KNOW SOMETHING?

I CONSIDER IT VERY IMPOLITE TO WEAR DARK GLASSES WHEN YOU'RE TALKING WITH SOMEONE BECAUSE YOU DON'T GIVE THAT PERSON A CHANCE TO SEE YOUR EYES AND THUS JUDGE YOUR REACTION TO WHAT HE IS SAYING...

DID YOU HEAR ME?

Z

WOULD YOU LIKE TO APPLY FOR THE JOB?

ARE YOU KIDDING? NOBODY WANTS A GIRL WORKING ON HIS WHEEL

DARN AND I JUST MADE MYSELF SOME MINI OVERALLS.

...NOW THIS IS CALLED A LUG WRENCH...

BLONDIE

IT SAYS HERE IN THE PAST TEN YEARS THE COST OF LIVING HAS GONE UP 65%

I DON'T SEE WHY PEOPLE MAKE SO MUCH FUSS ABOUT THE COST OF LIVING

NO MATTER WHAT IT COSTS YOU STILL HAVE TO DO IT

THAT MAKES SENSE IF YOU DON'T THINK ABOUT IT

NUBBIN

HOLD THIS KITE TILL I GET BACK, THAM. IF YOU HAVE ANY QUESTIONS, JUST HOLLER!

YETH, THIR.

MITHTER NUBBIN!!

WHAT IT'H HOLLER?!

BEEBLE BAILEY

BIG PARADE TODAY, OTTO. I WANT YOU TO LOOK YOUR BEST

WHEN THE GENERAL PASSES BY YOU KNOW WHAT TO DO

THE PHANTOM

MAJOR GORSA—ONE OF EX-DICTATOR BABABU'S MEN. I PARDONED WHAT GOES HERE, PREZ?

AN ATTEMPTED COUP BY OLD ENEMIES. WITH ME GONE, THEY WOULD TRY TO TAKE OVER THE COUNTRY, CORRECT, MAJOR?

I HAVE YOU TO THANK FOR SAVING MY LIFE—TWICE!

THE THIRD TIME MAY BREAK OUR LUCK. BETTER NOT FORCE IT.

THAT MASKED MAN AGAIN!

JULIET JONES

A PERSONAL NOTE, MIKE—LESTER LOVES YOU ALL-TIME FAVORITE D.J. MET A GAL TODAY—SHE HOPPED INTO MY CAB, CALLED ME "JOHNNY" THEN FOUND OUT MY NAME WAS MIKE

...WELL, I FOUND OUT HER NAME AND BELIEVE IT OR NOT I'VE BEEN CLOSETED WITH A TELEPHONE BOOK TRYING TO FIND HER... BUT HAVE YOU ANY IDEA HOW MANY JONESSES THERE ARE IN THIS YAST MEGALOPOLIS OF OURS?

THOUSANDS!! SO—MISS JULIET JONES... IF YOU'RE LISTENING... PLEASE CALL ME. PLEASE??
