

UN Envoy Begins Arab-Israel Peace Talk In New York

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
U.N. envoy Gunnar V. Jarring scheduled his first talks with Arab and Israeli representatives in New York today on the U.S. peace proposal for the Middle East.

Libyan leader Muammar Kadafi was in Baghdad trying to smooth out differences between Egypt, which accepted the plan, and Iraq, which denounced it. A strategy conference of Arab defense and foreign ministers was postponed, awaiting the outcome of Kadafi's peacemaking.

In Tel Aviv, the right-wing Gahal party voted Monday night to quit Premier Golda Meir's coalition government in protest of Israel's acceptance of the plan. The walkout was not expected to affect Israeli policy since the other coalition parties still control 72 of the 120 seats in Israel's parliament.

Jarring, who returned to New York Sunday to resume mediation between the Arabs and Israelis, arranged separate meetings today with chief U.N. delegates—Abdullah El-Erian of Egypt, Muhammad El-Farra of Jordan and Yosef Teoah of Israel. He also planned to meet with the U.N. ambassadors from the Big Four nations—the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union—who have been trying for months to agree on a peace formula for the Middle East.

The meetings with the Arab and Israeli diplomats were considered preliminaries. Talks to set up the 90-day cease-fire proposed by the United States are not expected to start until Israel follows up its announcement of acceptance of the U.S. plan with an official statement setting forth its reservations and conditions, as Egypt and Jordan have done.

Jarring met Monday afternoon with U.N. Secretary-General U. Thant and Secretary of State William P. Rogers, who presented the American proposal to Jordan, Israel and Egypt on June 19.

Celia Shatters Corpus Christi, Nearby Towns

MOVED BY CELIA — This trailer house was moved from its blocks by the winds of Hurricane Celia as it moved inland Monday afternoon with winds over the 115 MPH mark on the Texas Gulf coast. (AP Wirephoto)

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Hurricane Celia, smashed this city and nearby towns with a devastation a senator said hasn't been equalled in an urban area since World War II, battered its way into Mexico today, still virile and destructive.

Celia's winds were clocked at 89 miles an hour at Del Rio today — well over hurricane velocity of 75 m.p.h. But the Weather Bureau refused to maintain the label of hurricane because the wind was not sustained.

Damage at Del Rio and Eagle Pass was extensive with severe winds continuing into the morning.

At least 22 persons died as Celia swept from Cuba into Mexico. No one could count the injured here, and the shocked Corpus Christi survivors made no immediate effort to assess the huge monetary losses.

Some towns were virtually wiped out in the 145-m.p.h. winds here, buildings were destroyed, and show windows popped slivers of glass into the streets like shrapnel.

Four were known dead and a fifth presumed drowned here. Celia caused one death in Cuba while she still was only a storm. On Florida's coast, 12 persons drowned because of undertows and rough waters spawned by the hurricane.

With weapons, briefcases and tools, rescue, repair and relief experts headed for Corpus Christi and its environs—whenever they could get in.

State patrolmen locked all roads and even relatives of residents were barred. Another 200 National Guardsmen poured into the region at dawn.

There was an almost complete blackout of communications and power in Corpus Christi and surrounding areas. There were unconfirmed reports of up to 200 persons injured in Aransas Pass and another 200 hurt in Corpus Christi.

The storm struck Corpus Christi at the height of the vacation season. Thousands of windows were blown out, and shattered glass littered the street. Palm trees were smashed, light standards toppled, power lines felled and autos were overturned. Boats were blown out of the marina.

"It's a shambles," said Mayor Jack Blackmon.

The communities across the bay were hurt worse.

"Ninety per cent of the buildings are gone," said City Manager Gay Walker at Aransas Pass, a town of 7,000.

From Ingleside, Municipal Judge Troy Kizer said: "This place is practically wiped out."

Ninety-eight per cent of neighboring Rockport was "totally demolished," said civil defense worker Dick Hawkins.

Celia hit Corpus Christi Bay squarely as she roared over the coastline in mid-afternoon at Aransas Pass. Tides boiled over Padre Island.

City officials said looting started in Corpus Christi before the winds had died down. A small detachment of national Guardsmen sent into the raindenched city was quickly enlarged to 200 men.

Blackmon declared a 24-hour curfew. As darkness fell and the rain subsided, the city that described itself as the Sparkling City by the Sea was without electricity, telephones and water.

Hundreds of business buildings including banks, stood windless and vulnerable.

Pficher said 3,000 persons were staying in 14 shelters in various parts of the city.

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., who arrived just before the hurricane struck, requested President Nixon to declare the Coastal Bend section a disaster area.

Nixon Slip-Up To Spur New 'Mistrial' Appeal

By LINDA DEUTSCH
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Defense attorneys in the Sharon Tate murder trial say they'll ask again for a mistrial today because President Nixon said defendant Charles M. Manson is "guilty, directly or indirectly, of eight murders without reason."

One of the lawyers, Paul Fitzgerald, said of Nixon's comments: "We know this is unprecedented in the history of jurisprudence. Seldom if ever has a president taken an interest in a state murder trial."

"I am shocked and bewildered," Fitzgerald said. "If the President of the United States is going to say this, then the ball game is over."

Nixon issued a statement later in Washington saying that he didn't intend to speculate about Manson's guilt or innocence.

"The defendants should be presumed to be innocent at this stage of their trial," he said.

Nixon's original remarks, made to newsmen at Denver, reached the courthouse at lunch recess Monday. When court resumed, all attorneys approached the bench for a conference with Superior Court Judge Charles Older. Court sources said Manson's attorney, Irving Kanarek, made a motion for a mistrial on the basis of prejudicial publicity. He was joined by attorneys Daye Shinn and Ronald Hughes.

The motion, Fitzgerald said later, was "denied without prejudice," meaning it could be renewed at a later date.

"The judge was alarmed," said Fitzgerald, "and the judge's main concern was to verify what the President had said. The judge said he wasn't sure that the President had said that."

He said the judge—who had no public comment—indicated he would rather rule on the matter after studying the President's statement.

Fitzgerald said the defense fears the jury, although sequestered, may be "tainted" by the comments, and possibly the judge as well.

He said that although the jury doesn't read newspapers or see television accounts of the case, "there are many possible leaks." Among them, he said, are visits from jurors' spouses on weekends and the chance a juror might glance at a newsstand headline while riding to and from court.

County Plans $10,000 Loan To Watershed

Pitt County Commissioners, in their afternoon session Monday approved a $10,000 loan to the Little Contentnea Creek Watershed project, and were told that the 33-county area to be served by the proposed state rehabilitation center here has the lowest per capita income of any area in the state.

The $10,000 loan, which carries a three per cent interest charge was made to the watershed after Farmville attorney Robert D. Rouse requested assistance for the project.

Similar loans have been made by the board to other watershed projects in the county, including Tranters Creek, Chicod Creek and Swift Creek watershed projects.

Rouse told commissioners detailed land ownership maps prepared by the watershed will be made available for use by the county.

Currently the Pitt County Tax Supervisor's office is in the process of mapping the county and the watershed maps may save the county workers much time.

The Little Contentnea Creek project includes some 115,000 acres of which about 75,000 acres are in Pitt County. That area in Pitt includes about all of Farmville and Arthur townships, half of Fountain Township and part of Winterville and Ayden townships.

The federal government will fund about 80 per cent of construction costs for the project while the state will fund about 80 per cent of the remaining 20 per cent of the costs.

The remainder of the expense, including right of way charges, engineering and legal fees is financed through assessment of land owners in the watershed area.

R.T. Brinn, development specialist with East Carolina University's Regional Development Institute told commissioners that a study of the 33-county area designed to be served by a proposed Eastern Regional Rehabilitation Center to be located in Pitt County has the lowest per capita income of any of the four areas served by rehabilitation areas in the state (based on N.C. Department of Administration figures).

According to Brinn, the Asheville area, with 15 counties, has per capita income of $2,452 while the Winston-Salem area which includes 16 counties has a per capita income of 2,597. The Charlotte area, with 15 counties, has a per capita income of $2,639 as compared with the Greenville area's $1,786 income figure.

Of the 33 counties in the Eastern Region, Brinn's report indicated, 24 rank in the bottom

Addresses Grads

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott expressed optimism today that the General Assembly will appropriate the funds needed "to raise our correctional systems to the level of the best."

In a talk prepared for delivery to the first graduating class of an Institute of Correctional Administration at East Carolina University, Scott said "The searchlight of public interest should reach into our prisons."

Dr. Leo Jenkins, president of ECU, also spoke and presented certificates to the graduates. Members of the state Board of Correction and Correction Commissioner Lee Bounds and members of his staff attended the ceremony held in the governor's conference room.

The governor recalled that he recently called on North Carolina's lawyers to become "concerned and involved in the improvement of the correctional system of our state."

"I have asked them to visit the prisons and see how poorly designed they are for correctional purposes," Scott added, and noted that he had urged the lawyers to lobby for better prison facilities.

Bids Rejected On 2 Projects

Architect Cameron Dudley of Dudley & Shoe told Greenville Housing Authority commissioners last night that bids on the N.C. 22-5 Moyewood project and N.C. N-16 (Social Services Center) had been opened on July 14 but all were rejected as being too high for the allotted funds.

Dudley informed commissioners that the lowest bid on the N.C. 22-5 (17 units) project was $75,000 over the funds that have been budgeted for the housing units.

The bids on the renovation of the school bus garage in Moyewood as a social services center were $35,000 over the budgeted funds, he said, and adjustments on the planning of the renovation will have to be made in order to obtain a bid within available funds.

Commissioners discussed the feasibility of making changes in planning for the exterior additions to the building.

Dudley explained that the felt the interior of the building should be renovated with priority over the completion of exterior remodeling since the function of the facility would deal with the interior.

The funds for the renovation are a joint investment by the city, the Authority, and neighborhood facilities. An effort, possible upward adjustment of the budget has been rejected.

The architect said that the N-16 project will be readvertized for bids on Aug. 12 with N.C. 22-5 to be readvertized at a later date as a scattered site project.

Dudley also told commissioners that the lawns in the N.C. 22-3 and 22-4 Moyewood projects had been inspected and it was found that too many of the lawns were not settling properly.

Landscapers have been informed to call inspectors when the lawns are ready, he said.

Assistant director J.C. Lamm reported that annual reexaminations and audits have been underway in the various housing projects. Auditors arrived here July 20 for the yearly look at the books, he said.

According to a brief report submitted by the director of tenant affairs, Mrs. Sallye C. Streeter, 450 of a total of 453 units in the housing sub-divisions were occupied during July.

Real estate officer Lawrence Holt told commissioners that a party in Danbury, Conn. had inquired about the possibilities of buying the 316 Roundtree Drive home currently being used as the Housing Authority central office.

Holt said that he would be in contact with the interested party today and would furnish them more information concerning the purchase of the house.

Holt also reported that, as part of a program discussed earlier concerning the possibility of selling one of the housing units to a qualified low income family, a pilot family is now living in a single-family unit and is considering buying the unit.

The real estate officer explained that the authority will take the amount of rent the family has paid into consideration toward the actual purchase of the house in the event it is sold as a part of the program.

Winterville OKs Paving Project

WINTERVILLE — The Winterville Town Board Monday night approved the paving of approximately 3,700 feet of unpaved streets within the Winterville town limits.

The project, costing an estimated $6,000 for asphalt, will include the paving of Cooper Street from Mill Street (N.C. 11) to Cross Street, paving Church Street, from Main Street to Depot Street and from Depot Street to Mill Street.

The board also received cost estimates for curbing on Forbes Avenue, Lee Street, Hamill Street, and Jones Street.

Town Clerk Elwood Nobles said the residents living on these streets will be sent bills shortly for $1.50 per lenial foot.

Work will begin on the project as soon as a large portion of the money is received by the town, Nobles added.

The board also approved an increase in benefits in life and hospitalization insurance for town employees. The insurance is with the North Carolina League of Municipalities.

Mayor Walter Dail was given authority to sign a contract with William F. Freeman Associates of High Point to apply for a grant for a new water well and water tank for the town.

City officials said looting started in Corpus Christi before the winds had died down. A small detachment of national Guardsmen sent into the raindenched city was quickly enlarged to 200 men.

Blackmon declared a 24-hour curfew. As darkness fell and the rain subsided, the city that described itself as the Sparkling City by the Sea was without electricity, telephones and water.

Hundreds of business buildings including banks, stood windless and vulnerable.

Bank To Build In Robersonville

NEW BUILDING . . . this is how new Wachovia building will look in Robersonville.

ROBERSONVILLE — Wachovia Bank and Trust Co., N.A. will construct a new two-level office building to serve the Robersonville area, Wachovia vice president Claude R. Wilson announced today.

The building, which will feature a beige brick exterior and precast white stone panels, will be constructed across South Main Street from the present office. It will contain 8,000 square feet of floor space, evenly divided between the two floors.

Work on the site will start within 10 days, according to Wilson. The new facility "will enable Wachovia to continue providing the best in banking services for the people of Robersonville and Martin County. This office will increase the pleasantness of the surroundings to go along with a full range of services Wachovia offers," Wilson said.

Architect for the project is Little, Lee & Associates of Charlotte and the general contractor is D.W.C. Co. of Fayetteville.

The building, of contemporary design, and recessed five feet from the sidewalk, will house a conventional teller line with eight teller stations, a banking platform, a vault and lock box area and a drive-in teller window on the lower level. On the upper floor will be a staff lounge, board room and mechanical area. A 21-space parking lot will be in the rear of the building.

Ask $49 Million From Assembly

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is asking for $49,813,000 for capital improvements during the 1971-73 biennium.

UNC officials outlined the requests Monday to the Advisory Budget Commission which will make recommendations to the 1971 General Assembly.

Earlier, the commission was in Raleigh and heard manager Art Pitzer of the North Carolina state fair request $990,000 for the biennium to improve the fairgrounds.

State Police identified the two as William G. Conner, 19, and his brother, Alvis Lee Conner, 18.

Postal Reform Bill Gets Senate Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — A reform bill turning management of the nation's mails over to a corporation-style agency, and providing an 8 per cent pay raise to mailmen, was passed Monday by the Senate, 57 to 7.

Final congressional approval, sending the landmark measure to President Nixon, is likely Thursday in the House.

The labor chamber could have acted by Wednesday but the leadership agreed to give members more time to study it before the final vote, said Rep. Thaddeus J. Dulski, D-N.Y.

Terms of the measure were worked out in negotiations with the House.

Under the measure, an independent postal service would be run by an 11-man board of governors. The bill would end nearly all aspects of 181 years of congressional control of the mails.

Provisions for a congressional veto of mail rates were eliminated in the compromise version. The rates will be set by an independent five-man rates commission.

They're Hooting About Alimony

By CAROLYN A. BOWERS
NEW YORK (UPI)—"Send us $1 to help get your ex-wife a job. Or a husband. The kind of unmarried, childless, able-bodied ex-wife who believes her ex-husband is obligated to support her for the rest of her life."

These words are part of a brochure distributed by a citizen's group to "rehabilitate" former wives. The organization is called the Other Woman, Ltd. (OWL), founded in August 1969, "to make alimony socially unacceptable by demonstrating its absurdity."

Behind it all is the belief of its founders, two men and two women in advertising, that divorced men should be free financially to remarry. The name, Other Woman, Ltd., referred to single girls dating divorced men, women married to divorced men and women who wanted to date divorced men. All faced the same problem—financial limitations because of the men's alimony payments.

Most of the founders felt that alimony was of special interest to the advertising community since "probably 20 per cent of all men are divorced and paying alimony," and John Zeigler, one of the organizers.

OWL grew out of a New School for Social Research summer workshop: "Social Change Through Issue Advertising." Zeigler—divorced and paying alimony—was a workshop teacher.

"The question of alimony came up, and an ad was done to educate the public about the injustices of a little known problem—alimony," said Deborah Zeigler, an OWL member and John Zeigler's second wife.

Campaign strategy included the circulation of leaflets and brochures with registration forms, headed by, "I agree with your aim to get ex-wives self-supporting and remarried."

The forms also included check boxes for $1 reprints of the ad, a request for help in getting an ex-wife a job or a husband and contributions for $10 to $99.99, with $100 or more guaranteeing charter membership in OWL.

The group—men and women—held informal meetings. Penny Thompson, a divorcee who refused alimony payments, was elected president.

As time passed the women decided they wanted to meet separately. "While they were opposed to alimony, they wanted to address the problems of why women felt entitled to and needed it," Mrs. Zeigler said.

From this developed a workshop, "Alternative Life Styles for Women," dedicated to the elimination of alimony through self-development. The meaning of the "other woman" was changed to the other woman you can become through a new and improved life style.

Workshop leaders were Mrs. Zeigler, a training consultant formerly with the New York Youth Services Agency, and Mrs. Thompson, also a training consultant and a former assistant director of the Addiction Services Agency's school program.

Mrs. Zeigler, in an interview, said that, "The payment of alimony to an ex-wife is the continuation of a contract after it has been legally terminated. It is the only legal contract that is binding in this way. It is very degrading in that the woman depends on a source of income that is not lovingly given or given for the wrong reason, such as a tax break."

"At the workshop, we try to redirect women and keep them from feeling they have to receive alimony in order to eat or that they get some type of gratification from punishing a man they no longer care for. We try to show them that they can use the energy for themselves."

"Women have fears about being someone other than a wife and mother, and we encourage them to develop their whole selves. We ask each woman to outline what she thinks are some goals for herself and use a problem solving technique to see how she can realize those goals."

Mrs. Zeigler said the workshop is conducted through role-playing situations, with the women using each other as resources. She cited the example of one woman who wanted a job. She already knew what kind of job she wanted, but her weakness was the interview in which she failed to sell her abilities.

At the workshop, through "feedback" from the other women and practice at "the scary thing" she overcame her fears and was able to get the job, Mrs. Zeigler said.

She said although the workshop was started initially for women receiving alimony, it now is open to any woman who has problems making plans for her personal life—be it the elimination of alimony, a career choice, friendships with other women, a relationship with a man or men.

DEAR ABBY: I caught your radio program and heard you rattle off a long list of things a person stands to lose if he is arrested for possession of marijuana. I'd like to show them to a few kids I know. Thank you very much. Sign me...

"SIXTEEN AND NO DOPE"

DEAR SIXTEEN: He stands to lose: The right to vote. The right to own a gun. The right to run for public office. The right to become a licensed doctor, dentist, C. P. A., attorney, architect, realtor, private detective, pharmacist, school teacher, barber, or any of a number of career job opportunities.

He may be forbidden the opportunity to work for the city, state or federal government. He cannot be admitted to West Point, Annapolis or the Air Force Academy. He would be permitted to enlist in the military service, but would not have a choice of service.

Not to mention the loss of approval of family, friends, potential friends and society at large.

This is a high price to pay for "trying grass" . . . or even agreeing to "hold it for a friend," which is often the case. Think about it.

DEAR ABBY: First off, let me explain that I am no kid. I am a 23-year-old college graduate, female type. After being engaged since last winter, my fiance and I decided to go off by ourselves and get married. [It was a religious ceremony.] My brother was best man, but that was all the "family" I had at the ceremony.

To be honest about it, the wedding plans became so complicated, nerve-racking and ridiculously expensive we decided to skip all the frills and get it over with.

My problem is my mother. She wants to send out engraved marriage announcements and "at home" cards to the 368 people we had on our wedding invitation list. I told her I didn't want to do that, but her reply was, "Your father and I have been giving wedding gifts for 30 years, and these people owe us a gift for you." Furthermore, she says the parents [she and Dad] announce the marriage, and the bride [me] has nothing to say about it. Is she right?

MARRIED IN CONN.

DEAR MARRIED: The parents do "announce" the marriage of their children, but rarely without the approval of the bride. Since you don't want announcements and "at home" cards sent, I think your mother should respect your wishes.

DEAR ABBY: I've been married only a few months and already I have a very serious problem. My husband divorced his first wife because she had an affair with another man. Believe me, now I can understand why she did, because even though he has many good qualities, this man has got to be the world's worst lover!

I have tried to make him think he's great, because I know how hurt his pride was when he found out about his first wife's unfaithfulness. But, Abby, I don't know how I can stay married to him with this constant frustration.

I have considered seeing some old boyfriends. I really think it could save our marriage, because we get along so well in every other department.

I'm in my mid-thirties and this is my first marriage. I know it won't be easy to find another husband as good as this one at my age, but marriage with no sexual satisfaction is worse than being single.

FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: Since you get along so well in every other department, I suggest you initiate a truth session with him. As long as you keep telling him how "great" he is, when he's the "world's worst lover," why should he improve? There are plenty of excellent books on this subject. Your doctor can recommend several. So can your public library. And so can I. If you're interested, please send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DEAR ABBY: My name is Isabelle and I am 7 years old. I have two friends and I hate both of them. What should I do?

FRIEND-HATER

DEAR FRIEND-HATER: If you go to Sunday school you will know that in the Bible it says that we should "love our

By Miss Addie Gore

Packing for the trip of your dreams? Don't spoil it by overburdening yourself with excess baggage, or by arriving at your destination with a suitcase full of crumpled clothing. Start with a "packing plan" to insure a carefree vacation.

Begin your packing with paper and pencil. First, jot down all the things you expect to do while you're away. Then, next to your anticipated schedule, make a list of all items you could possibly need (including clothing, accessories, shoes and cosmetics).

Take out everything you plan to pack and place it in neat piles next to your luggage. Now, survey the scene! Too much? Eliminate some . . . like that extra pair of shoes or that dress you want "just in case." Check all garments for needed repairs; be sure everything is clean and pressed. Button all buttons and zip all zippers. The neater your clothing goes into your suitcase the neater it will come out.

Now you're ready to pack. You are probably taking two pieces of luggage . . . a small tote bag or overnight case, which you will carry with you, and a large suitcase for the bulk of your clothing. These two pieces should be sufficient for the average trip, but you can add a third small suitcase, if necessary, and still be within the luggage allowance.

Your small piece of hand luggage should hold awkward items (cosmetics, camera, books) things you need enroute (a change of shoes, hosiery, pajamas and a light robe, travel slippers, a foldup plastic raincoat). Transfer spillables into tightly closed plastic containers.

Pack your large suitcase comfortably tight . . . if you have to sit on it to close it, your clothes are being mercilessly crushed. Pack in layers; cut out cardboard dividers the size of the case to lift out one or two layers to reach things without disrupting the entire suitcase and repacking each time. Your first layer should consist of the heaviest, bulkiest items. Pack shoes (stuffed with anything from hose to toothpaste, and slipped into plastic bags) and handbags at the bottom near the hinges . . . stack blouses and sweaters in even piles . . . roll up uncrushables (swim suits, knits) and tuck into empty spaces. Dresses, skirts and slacks make up the second layer. Each fold is a potential crease, so aim for as few as possible. Place each garment into the suitcase filling up the entire area; fold dresses and skirts at the waistline, rather than at the hem; fold sleeves in a V across the back. (If you are using a wardrobe case or garment bag, hang up the dresses first, toward the back of the bag; then hang jackets and skirts in front.) The third and top layer is for sleepwear, a raincoat, a sweater . . . anything that must be easily accessible. Finally slip jewelry, scarves, gloves, and stockings into pockets or empty corners, and you're set to go!

Representatives Named By Martin To Mid East Div.

WILLIAMSTON—The Martin County Board of Commissioners, at their regular monthly meeting yesterday, approved the appointment of four special representatives to the Mid East Law Enforcement Planning Division.

Named as representative were Brad Bagley, representing the minority race factor; Jerry Beach, representing the County Commissioners; and two lay members, Mts. Oswald Stalls and Jamesville High School student Phil Blount. County Clerk C. M. Cobb noted the special appointments are subject to acceptance by the individuals. Bagley and Beach are both professional law enforcement members.

The County Commissioners also approved payment of $400 per month as compensation fees for garbage disposal by county citizens using the Williamston disposal plant. This amount was agreed on to help the town offset expenses of processing the garbage.

A resolution was passed to accept Hertford County as a member of the Mid - East Economic Development Commission. Cobb noted that the

Hearing Held As Required

The Pitt County Board of Education held a public hearing last night to discuss the opening of the new North Pitt High School.

However, there was no representation of the areas affected by the opening or closing of the schools in the Belvoir, Pactolus, Bethel and Stokes areas.

The hearing is required by law before the discontinuance or consolidation of high schools.

A county board of education must hold a public hearing, conduct a thorough study with the state board of education on the discontinuance or consolidation plan before approving same, and must have the plan formally approved by the state board of education.

Board members attending last night's hearing were William House, Mark Owens, Beverly Congleton, Robert Pierce and T. G. Worthington.

Similar hearings will be held for the three other new high schools in the near future.

status of membership of Hyde and Washington Counties, both formerly active in the Mid - East set up, was in doubt. Hyde County has taken steps to associate with the Albemarle group, while Washington County is still considering which group to associate with.

Paul M. Barber presented an administrative report on the Tideland Mental Health project, in which five counties, Martin, Hyde, Beaufort, Tyrrell and Washington are participating members. Budgets for this project are furnished by the participating counties.

The commissioners agreed to an expansion of the recreation area of Kehukee Park, located outside the town limits west of Williamston. Present recreation facilities include only a ball field.

A report on the Civil Defense Community Shelter program was approved by the commissioners.

Managing Your Money

PNB PLANTERS NATIONAL BANK

Educate Tomorrow's Consumers Today

Educators are striving to upgrade the curricula and teaching methods in our school systems. They realize the youngsters of today are more mentally alert than their parents were at the same age. Teaching them the 3 R's, important as it is, is not sufficient.

Around the turn of the century, reading, writing and arithmetic were the basics of a grade school education and adequate preparation for a life of work. Banks in those days would require new employees to have handwriting that was neat and legible. Being able to add long columns of figures was also a requisite.

But today's crop of kids — children of better educated parents — find these subjects are a drag. Radio and TV, for good or bad, has contributed to the child's education.

The lunar landing is no Buck Rogers fantasy to them. They saw a man-made vehicle land on the moon, men probe the moon's surface and send TV pictures back to earth.

Obviously, these almost miraculous achievements of science and technology are proof to the average youngster that education is much more than being able to add a column of figures — or write neatly or diagram a sentence.

How to prepare these children and young adults is the problem facing educators today. But in attempting to improve teaching methods and broaden the range of subjects, schools should not overlook one of the most important subjects — consumer education. For, regardless of their role in later life today's students will always be consumers.

To appreciate the need for consumer education, we must realize these youngsters have led a sheltered existence during their childhood. Parents provided for their needs. They also provided luxuries to the extent they were able. Money wasn't a problem. If they needed money for a date or — in some cases — a car, mom and pop, somehow, seemed to be able to supply it.

From these relatively secure surroundings, they are thrust into a complex, financially-oriented society where they will spend the next forty-plus years literally battling to achieve some material success.

They will become the young-marrieds of the future. They will be raising families, using consumer credit to buy cars, major appliances and furniture. They will be buying homes, insurance and investing money in stocks and bonds.

The ability to act intelligently in this environment is not instinctive. It has to be learned. It has to be cultivated.

This is a problem that should be shared equally by parents, educators and banks. Parents should discuss family finances and plans with their children. After all, they will benefit or suffer from the decisions that are made. Educators, with the help of business, should develop courses to familiarize students with the financial facts of life.

Banks are investing more time and money in consumer education — both for adults and youngsters. They provide educational films for school use. They conduct bank tours and offer the services of speakers to discuss family finances.

Stop in at your bank and check on the amount and variety of material available to you without cost. If you are concerned about some financial problem, feel free to discuss it with your banker. Remember — he is also a consumer.

Brave Decision On Ceasefire

Israel has taken the sensible approach in approving a three-month cease fire along the lines proposed by the United States. Israel's government decided to accept the proposal last week after some agonizing appraisal of the situation. Previously the plan had been accepted by Egypt and Jordan. It has been recognized by the world powers that the boiling Mid-East situation represented a grave threat to world peace. It is almost certain that the Soviet Union brought pressure on Egypt to accept the cease fire and the United States used strong persuasion with Israel.

Israel, of course, has everything to lose if the cease-fire and negotiations do not accomplish their purpose. The little country's defense plan calls for keeping constant pressure on its adversaries. However, there is much reason to believe that if the war continues indefinitely Israel will eventually be overwhelmed by its Arab neighbors with the Soviet Union's help. In the process there is always the danger of a direct confrontation between the U. S. and the USSR.

A negotiated settlement — one which will allow Israel to survive in peace — must be worked out in the Middle East. There is no other way to resolve the matter without a great disaster.

Israel's government has made a brave decision in accepting the cease-fire. Now it is up to the world powers to see that Israel is treated fairly in the upcoming negotiations.

Bloodmobile Had Good Showing Last Week

Although it was slightly under its quota, the Bloodmobile had a fine showing on its first visit of the new fiscal year at the Moose Lodge last week. Chairman Douglas Morgan announced that 112 units of blood were collected on the 125 unit quota. The voluntary blood program is vital to Pitt County. It is essential that there be a good turnout for each visit during the year. We have a good start; let's continue in this way.

A Triple-Play At Top Level

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — A top-level triple play that would put Robert Finch in as Republican National Chairman after the 1970 election is under quiet discussion within President Nixon's political high command.

The contemplated switch depends on many unpredictable, most important of which would be a decision by Secretary of Interior Walter Hickel to resign.

Hickel, whose mini-revolution inside Mr. Nixon's Cabinet just after the Cambodian intervention made him something of a hero, definitely won't resign before the election. But Hickel now has on his desk a fat contract from a major East Coast publisher who wants him to relate his experiences inside the Nixon administration.

The fact that he has not yet said no to the publisher is seen by Hickel intimates as a clue that he will decide to quit the Cabinet around the new year. He definitely will not sign any book contract while still working for President Nixon.

Hickel's resignation would open the way into the Cabinet for Rep. Rogers Morton of Maryland, now Republican National Chairman, who wanted the Interior job after the 1968 election. With Morton out at the National Committee, the President's close friend Bob Finch would be asked to take over with broad political powers looking to a Finch-directed 1972 Nixon Presidential campaign.

Finch already has charge of all Cabinet-level political operations in his new role as Presidential counselor. But Finch intimates say he is skeptical about becoming National Chairman. In 1960, when he managed the losing Nixon Presidential campaign against John F. Kennedy, Finch persuaded Mr. Nixon not to make him party chairman, on grounds that he would be more valuable without the distraction of operating the National Committee.

Political insiders deny that ideology would play any part in a Finch move to the National Committee. Rather, the point of the move would be to put Mr. Nixon's oldest confidant in position to organize the party and the Administration for 1972.

A footnote: Hickel is under no pressure from the White House to quit. In fact, some top Republican politicians feel he is the President's single biggest political asset in the Cabinet. But Hickel remains in fundamental disagreement with some Nixon policies and is not happy that the Interior Department has been stripped of major environmental functions.

Burton vs. Lowenstein
The intricacies of California Democratic politics are building up an increasingly open feud between two aggressive, charging anti-war Congressmen: Reps. Allard K. Lowenstein of New York and Philip Burton of California.

Talking to colleagues in the House Democratic cloakroom, Burton has not concealed his irritation with Lowenstein for coming to California to endorse Rep. John V. Tunney, Democratic nominee for the Senate.

The reason: Burton wants California liberals to withhold their endorsement of Tunney until he openly endorses Cesar Chavez's grape-worker strike. With Chavez nearing success, Burton felt Tunney might be ready to break his neutral stand. Now, he grumbles, with a prestigious liberal like Lowenstein coming west to endorse Tunney, his strategy has been undercut.

Moreover, Burton is furious over Lowenstein's intentional snub during his California visit. Speaking in Burton's home town of San Francisco, Lowenstein lauded two Congressmen from the bay area — Democrat Jerome K. Waldie and Republican Paul N. (Pete) McCloskey — as particularly outstanding. Burton's name was not mentioned.

Approaching Lowenstein on the House floor after his return to Washington, Burton made his displeasure known in animated language.

A footnote: Lowenstein's aid to Tunney is invaluable. At the Los Angeles home of Democratic National Committee men Steve Reinhardt, Tunney was attacked by liberal firebrands who backed Rep. George Brown in the primary. Lowenstein lectured them effectively on the need to beat Republican Sen. George Murphy.

Strength For Today

TO BE USED WITH CARE
Is it ever a good thing to take a vow?

There are some who say No. To do so, they maintain, indicates that we do not have will power enough to make ourselves do what is right unless we are bolstered up by much solemn swearing. They point out furthermore that oaths, like good resolutions, are easily broken and when once a person has vowed to do a thing and has not done it his character is seriously impaired.

But there are others who maintain that there is nothing which supports one in a course of right action so effectively as to make a public avowal of the course of action he intends to take. By so doing he puts himself on record. Not only is he supported thereafter by a sense of pride, but those who have taken vows and found it beneficial to do so declare that the solemn declaration to do a thing, either privately or publicly made, releases unlimited powers within one which contribute to ultimate achievement.

A vow is a very solemn thing, and what the Book of Common Prayer says about marriage holds good in the case of all solemnly taken vows. They are not to be entered into unadvisedly or lightly but reverently, discreetly, soberly and in the fear of God. When they are, they frequently constitute powerful support in the achieving of good ends.

Dirty Cities Ranked

By G. C. THELEN Jr.
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The small Ohio community of Steubenville and metropolitan New York City have one thing in common: the federal government says each leads the nation in a category of air pollution.

Tentative 1970 pollution ratings show Steubenville has the dirtiest air—clogged with dust, smoke, soot and the like—while New York's air is worst in content of sulfur oxides.

However, the National Air Pollution Control Administration—NAPCA—can't say yet—as it did three years ago—which metropolitan areas are most plagued by air pollution in all its forms.

The reason is that 1970 statistics are not ready on the hydrocarbons, nitrogen oxides and carbon monoxide that pour from motor vehicles.

Reaction to the report came quickly from the metropolitan areas named.

Steubenville Mayor Andrew W. Miller said much of the pollution in his area comes from plants in West Virginia.

Two West Virginia metropolitan areas—Huntington and Charleston—were high on the lists and Carl G. Beard II, director of the state Air Pollution Control Commission commented, "We are trying to ascertain as quickly as possible the source of the misinformation."

And in Syracuse, N.Y., which tied for No. 5 on the particulate list, the county public health engineer said, "It can't be true, probably 50 others are dirtier."

The NAPCA working report says nationwide particulate levels—visibly dirty air—gradually have declined in the past decade. But the sulfur-oxide load is expected to increase by three million tons this year to a total of 33 million tons.

"National average levels of ambient urban air concentrations for both particulates and sulfur oxides are close to levels that have been observed to have an adverse effect on our environment," the document says.

Particulates collect on windows and homes and coat the exterior of cars. Sulfur oxides form corrosive sulfuric acid in the air and attack clothes, corrode statues and building exterior, and dull paint.

The burning of coal and fuel oil is the major source of particulates and sulfur oxides.

The industrial Northeast is hardest hit by sulfur oxide. But oil refineries and ore smelters account for pockets of high oxide readings in Texas and Arizona.

The top 10 cities in composite particulate levels are: 1. Steubenville, 2. Charleston, W. Va. 3. Scranton, Pa. 4. Niagara Frontier, N.Y. (Niagara Falls-Buffalo area) 5. (tie) Bakersfield, Calif., and Syracuse, N.Y. 7. Johnstown, Pa. 8. Louisville, Ky. 9. Milwaukee 10. Pittsburgh.

The top 10 in sulfur oxides are: 1. New York City 2. Chicago 3. Huntington, W. Va. 4. Philadelphia 5. Pittsburgh 6. (tie) Cleveland and St. Louis 8. Washington, D.C. 9. Detroit 10. Providence, R.I.

Campus Unrest: A Drag

Ninety-nine times out of one hundred, as every newsman knows the reports of governmental study commissions are little more than exercises in futility. The forthcoming report of the President's Commission on Campus Unrest, sad to say, will be one of the ninety-nine.

That pessimistic prediction is not intended as criticism of the Nixon administration, which sorely wants to cool the campus fevers, or of Pennsylvania's former Governor William Scranton, who heads the commission to tell him how. It is simply that the Scranton commission is charged with an impossible task.

Impossible in two ways: Time is too short; and the topic too vast. Mr. Nixon asked for a report on the causes of campus unrest by mid-September, or by October 1 at the latest, so that some remedial measures might be tried in the coming school year. Even if the subject were simple, it is hard to imagine that much of value could be assembled so soon.

And the subject is not simple. The disorders that have afflicted American campuses, climaxed by the Kent State and Jackson killings in May, constitute a phenomenon unlike anything ever witnessed in our higher education. As Dr. Edward Teller reminded the commission during its hearings last month, the phenomenon is not peculiar to America. England, France, Italy, and Japan have experienced the same kind of violence — a fact that suggests the causes may lie in something more than "Vietnam!" or "racism!"

The commission's quest for understanding and solution is made all the more difficult by communications barriers. Things that seem obvious to young people are not nearly so obvious to their elders. This became poignantly clear in the testimony of Eva Jefferson, president of the student body at Northwestern.

"It is almost in a sense ludicrous to me," she said, "that someone would have to appoint a commission to find out why college people are protesting and why there are disorders on the college campuses. If you are that far out of touch with what is going on, then I do not think you are really going to get to the crux of the problem, because you are really too far behind to get to it."

Miss Jefferson was a fascinating witness. She wants to become a lawyer, she said, but she looks upon legal education as a bore. She gazes upon society and finds it crummy. The system is crummy. The system is ludicrous. The school structure is a big drag. The Puritan ethic is really a drag. Petitions for the redress of student grievances when

(Henderson Dispatch)
July has gone, and with it half or more of the summer. There have been hot days already and long periods without rain or prolonged moderation in the temperature. But this is only August, and there will be more hot days yet, as is characteristic of this month of the waning season.

With the passing of July, thoughts begin to turn to the fall of the year, with milder weather in sight and the busy season of the calendar just around the corner. The autumn months often spell the difference between profit and loss in many business establishments. It could and probably will be that way in the remaining five months of 1970.

Summer thus far has passed quickly. No one knows that better than youngsters who will start back to school at the end of this month, a few days earlier than usual. Nearly every one likes summer and for many it passes all too soon. One wonders sometimes where it went.

It's that time of the year when mom and dad and the youngsters start looking around for school or college clothes. To that extent it will stimulate trade. Both buyer and seller are alert to the necessity that is experienced each year about this time.

There are five months of the year, all in a row — March to July — which usually are not abbreviated in writing. For 1970 they are all now gone. September is the longest month in spelling, with nine letters. Three, February, November and December, have eight letters. The others range from three to seven. It's an interesting facet of the calendar for those inclined to take that view.

When all is said and done, the years seem to roll along with greater speed the older one gets. Every one can remember when it seemed Christmas would never come. For some, it seems to come now almost every month. And that's the way of life. The three score and ten years, and often more than that nowadays, are but a tiny speck in the aggregate of time as it comes and goes. More and more people are becoming conscious of that fact.

One of the outrages of World War II was the Nazi practice of tattooing identification numbers on concentration camp inmates. This degrading act, as much as anything, incensed and united the peoples of the Allied countries.

Yet, today, almost all of the 200 million Americans, while not tattooed, are just as indelibly marked.

Social Security numbers are used to keep track of people who obtain a driver's license, buy insurance, apply for a credit card, pay taxes, seek a job, have babies, go into the military, apply for unemployment pay, run a business, or fill out a census form.

S. S. numbers are required on numerous other occasions. But the above list takes in just about everybody over 16 years of age and will suffice. Most of those under 16 can be pinpointed anyway because of relationships with others who do have S.S. numbers.

Computer Ogre
In the past, numerization was not a burden to the individual. The information available on a given person was scattered willy-nilly in dozens of places across the country.

Mr. 000-00-0001's insurance agent, Mr. 100-00-0000 in New York, had no way of knowing the contents of 000-00-0001's driving record filed with 000-01-0000 in California. Nor could Dr. 999-99-9999 find out if 000-00-0001 had welched on a bill from dental technician 888-88-8888.

But now a number of large data banks are being compiled from smaller ones. They are being hooked up to "talk" to each other. Before long, 000-00-0001 will find himself magnetized on tape next to 000-00-0002.

Suppose 000-00-0001 is recorded in the computer because he is an honest, prosperous businessman applying for an FHA loan. 000-00-0002 is there because he is wanted by the FBI for a string of felonies. And suppose the computer burps, someone fills out a form wrong or a data processor pushes the wrong key?

Creeping Peril
A bigger danger is that despite protests and misgivings, the United States appears to be moving towards a national data bank that would compile all of the data available on everybody. Mr. 000-00-0001 would not only be categorized as to his ancestry, financial status, legal standing, personal life, dimensions and characteristics, but also by what other people have said about him and how the government views his politics.

The misuses and abuses possible with such information are staggering. And an individual's defenses are limited.

If the situation becomes critical then malcontents on computer staffs could be relied upon to erase or destroy tapes. College students might be rallied to attack computer centers. Or we could all lie outrageously, confusing the machines until they blew a fuse.

But short of such drastic action, we can only holler our heads off at every attempt to numerize the population, and fold, spindle and mutilate computer punch cards that come our way.

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH — A dull hearing which droned on before the State Board of Assessment last week may produce a thunderclap for North Carolina counties in fixing ad valorem tax valuations.

Attorneys for Wilson County and for Ernest Deans Hackney, a realtor and citizen of the city of Wilson, questioned and cross-examined a parade of witnesses in a detailed review of the process by which the county arrived at its 1968 valuation of real property for tax purposes.

The Wilson board of commissioners set valuations for urban property at 90 per cent of a uniform system of values for all real estate in Wilson County specifically that all real property be appraised at its true and actual value in money as evidenced by the sales of said real property when sold in such manner as such property is usually sold.

To put the issue in a nutshell, it is this: did the board's action meet the constitutional requirement for uniform treatment of all property of the same class, i.e., real property?

The tedium of the hearing overshadowed the critical importance of the matter at hand. For while the instant case specifically involves Wilson County, the resolution will vitally affect the revaluation process in many Tar Heel counties.

Although a court decision is likely for an ultimate settlement, the case could lead to the striking down of the time-honored practice in agricultural counties of setting farm land valuations at levels well below those placed on non-farm, urban property.

The mere thought is enough to make a farmowner pale. Farm land prices have climbed steeply in recent years. Property tax valuations on the basis of market value, comparable to that borne by his city cousin, would hit the rural landowner hard. The problem is by no means new, nor is a solution close at hand.

Henry W. Lewis wrote in the April-May, 1968, issue of "Popular Government," publication of the Institute of Government at Chapel Hill:

"Responsible and concerned North Carolina officials are generally agreed that farm land in this state is valued for taxation below the standard used for valuing commercial, industrial and residential land — not merely farm land lying in the path of urban expansion but all farm land."

He added: "... the wonder is that litigation has been so slow to develop."

The increasing tax load on the urban property owner, and his rising irritation at seeing the favored treatment for the farmowner, undoubtedly has been a factor in bringing the issue to a head.

"Why should the $125-a-week working man in town pay taxes on 90 per cent of the value of his home, while the man who owns a 300-acre farm pays on 50 per cent or less value?" asked Hackney.

Several actions seeking and answer to that question have been initiated by urban taxpayers in the past couple of years.

In one of these, a group of Nash County taxpayers won from Superior Court Judge Howard H. Hubbard an order to compel the county board of commissioners to revalue all real property in the county at true value in money. However, on the county's appeal to the State Supreme Court the order was reversed.

Associate Justice Susie Sharp said in the opinion handed down last spring that the matter was improperly in court. The taxpayers had not exhausted administrative remedies, she said. The proper course, she added, was an appeal to the State Board of Assessment.

Hackney and his attorney took note of the high court's action, and filed their appeal with the board. There is no doubt, in the event the board upholds the Wilson County valuation, that he will pursue the case in the courts.

The timetable is likely to run into months, a year, or longer. Chairman Thomas W. Alexander of the State Board of Assessment said the board will render its decision after a thorough consideration of the case. The bulky record makes it evident that will take some time.

Nutritionist Defends Food Value Of Dry Cereals

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The dry-cereal industry defended its product before a Senate subcommittee today and said an earlier witness who testified cereals have almost no nutritional value didn't know what he was talking about.

"Breakfast cereals are good foods," declared Dr. Frederick J. Stare, a Harvard nutrition professor and syndicated newspaper columnist who testified on behalf of Kellogg Co. and National Biscuit Co.

"A breakfast of cereal and milk," said Stare, "any kind of milk, along with some fruit, a couple of pieces of toast, some polyunsaturated margarine, a little jelly of jam, is just as nutritious as a bacon-and-egg breakfast with fruit, toast and something to put on the toast." Stare, one of four industry witnesses to appear before the Senate consumer subcommittee, said in prepared testimony that he had been shocked to read of a report given the panel last week by Robert Choate, a Washington citizen lobbyist who has spent the past three years studying national food policy.

Choate said most cereals on the market offered only empty calories and presented a chart ranking 60 dry cereals. He said his studies showed only the top nine "nutritionally meritorious." The remainder—including such old standbys as Wheaties, Cheerios and top brands of shredded wheat—he ranked least beneficial, most costly and most heavily advertised on children's television.

Stare called Choate's chart meaningless and presented one of his own which he also promptly labeled meaningless. He urged the subcommittee chaired by Sen. Frank Moss, D-Utah, to disregard it, too. "It is meaningless," Stare said of Choate's chart, "because it ignores the way 95 per cent of breakfast cereals are consumed, that is, with milk. It is meaningless because it ignores a basic contribution of any cereal, energy value or calories. It is meaningless because it ignores the concept of the protein quality of the combination of cereal and milk, which is the way breakfast cereals are consumed."

Stare and J. P. MacFarland, chairman of the board of General Mills, Inc., took issue with Choate's charges that the industry, through massive advertising of low-nutritional products, is educating American children away from nutrition.

"Historically, our efforts have been designed to persuade consumers to eat a nourishing breakfast including cereals," said MacFarland.

"Cereals," he said, "were never intended to be, nor are they promoted as, a complete meal."

MacFarland contended that cereals are an excellent nutritional buy.

"The cereal, milk and juice breakfast provides more nutrients for the price than any other of the breakfasts," he said.

The other breakfasts included varying—and somewhat complex—groupings of combinations ranging from eggs, bacon and orange juice to one cup of coffee, which MacFarland said was the most popular breakfast in the country.

A. S. Clausi, vice president and director of technical research for General Foods Corp., said: "Fortifying foods with nutrients requires moderation and must be related to the total diet."

Frustrated Spy Ship's Effort

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Navy officials feel they prevented a Soviet spy ship from obtaining vital information about the first submarine firing of a Poseidon missile, even though the Russian vessel made a daring dash that almost resulted in collision at sea.

"We don't know for sure what they were after but they sure didn't get much," a Navy presented through orderly channels, fail to get results. "The only thing that is going to move the administration, is blow up a building."

Erwin Canham of the Christian Science Monitor, senior member of the commission, remarked mildly that all the causes of student unrest couldn't be cured overnight. He asked Miss Jefferson if she thought the students might respond cooperatively to a gradual approach.

"That philosophy just bothers me," said Miss Jefferson. "Because every time I am in a situation where I am with adults, or with people—they say things take time, it takes 20 years. We know it does not. How can anyone possibly say it takes time to do things?"

In this childlike pool of unreason, reason drowns. The students begin with an absolute certitude that blocks discussion from the start. Their grievances always are valid. Their demands always are just. Charles F. Palmer, president of the National Student Association, had a neat shopping list. The students want their elders to end the war, solve the race problem, get equal rights for women, abolish poverty, stop pollution, and improve the life of the working man. And until this is done, "we will continue to make life uncomfortable and at times unlivable for the men in positions of power and influence in this country. That I can promise you."

If the Scranton commission can fill that bill by mid-September, or by October 1 at the latest, perhaps the campuses will calm down. Somehow it hardly seems likely.

spokesman said. The incident occurred Monday when the nuclear sub James Madison launched the Poseidon while submerged in the Atlantic 30 miles east of Cape Kennedy.

The Soviet trawler Laptev was kept 3,000 yards from the sub by the U.S. destroyer escort Calcaterra until the Poseidon darted to the surface.

Twenty minutes later, the Laptev suddenly cut in front of the destroyer and raced full speed toward the bow of a support ship, the USS Observation Island.

The support ship's commanding officer, Capt. William C. Dotson, twice sounded a warning signal and ordered his engines reversed. The ship stopped dead as the Laptev zipped across the bow.

The Russians were after 10 cushion-sized pieces of a plastic membrane that had covered the launching tube in the deck of the Madison to prevent water from flowing in before the missile was fired.

Although the Soviet crewmen tossed out nets and used grappling hooks, American sailors in a whale boat quickly salvaged all 10 pieces.

The Navy said the segments were not classified and did not know why the Russians were so eager to get them.

No Recreation Meet In August

The Greenville Recreation Commission will not meet in August. The next meeting will be the regular monthly meeting for the month of September.

The August meeting is being cancelled due to the fact that commission members' vacation schedules does not permit a quorum during the month.

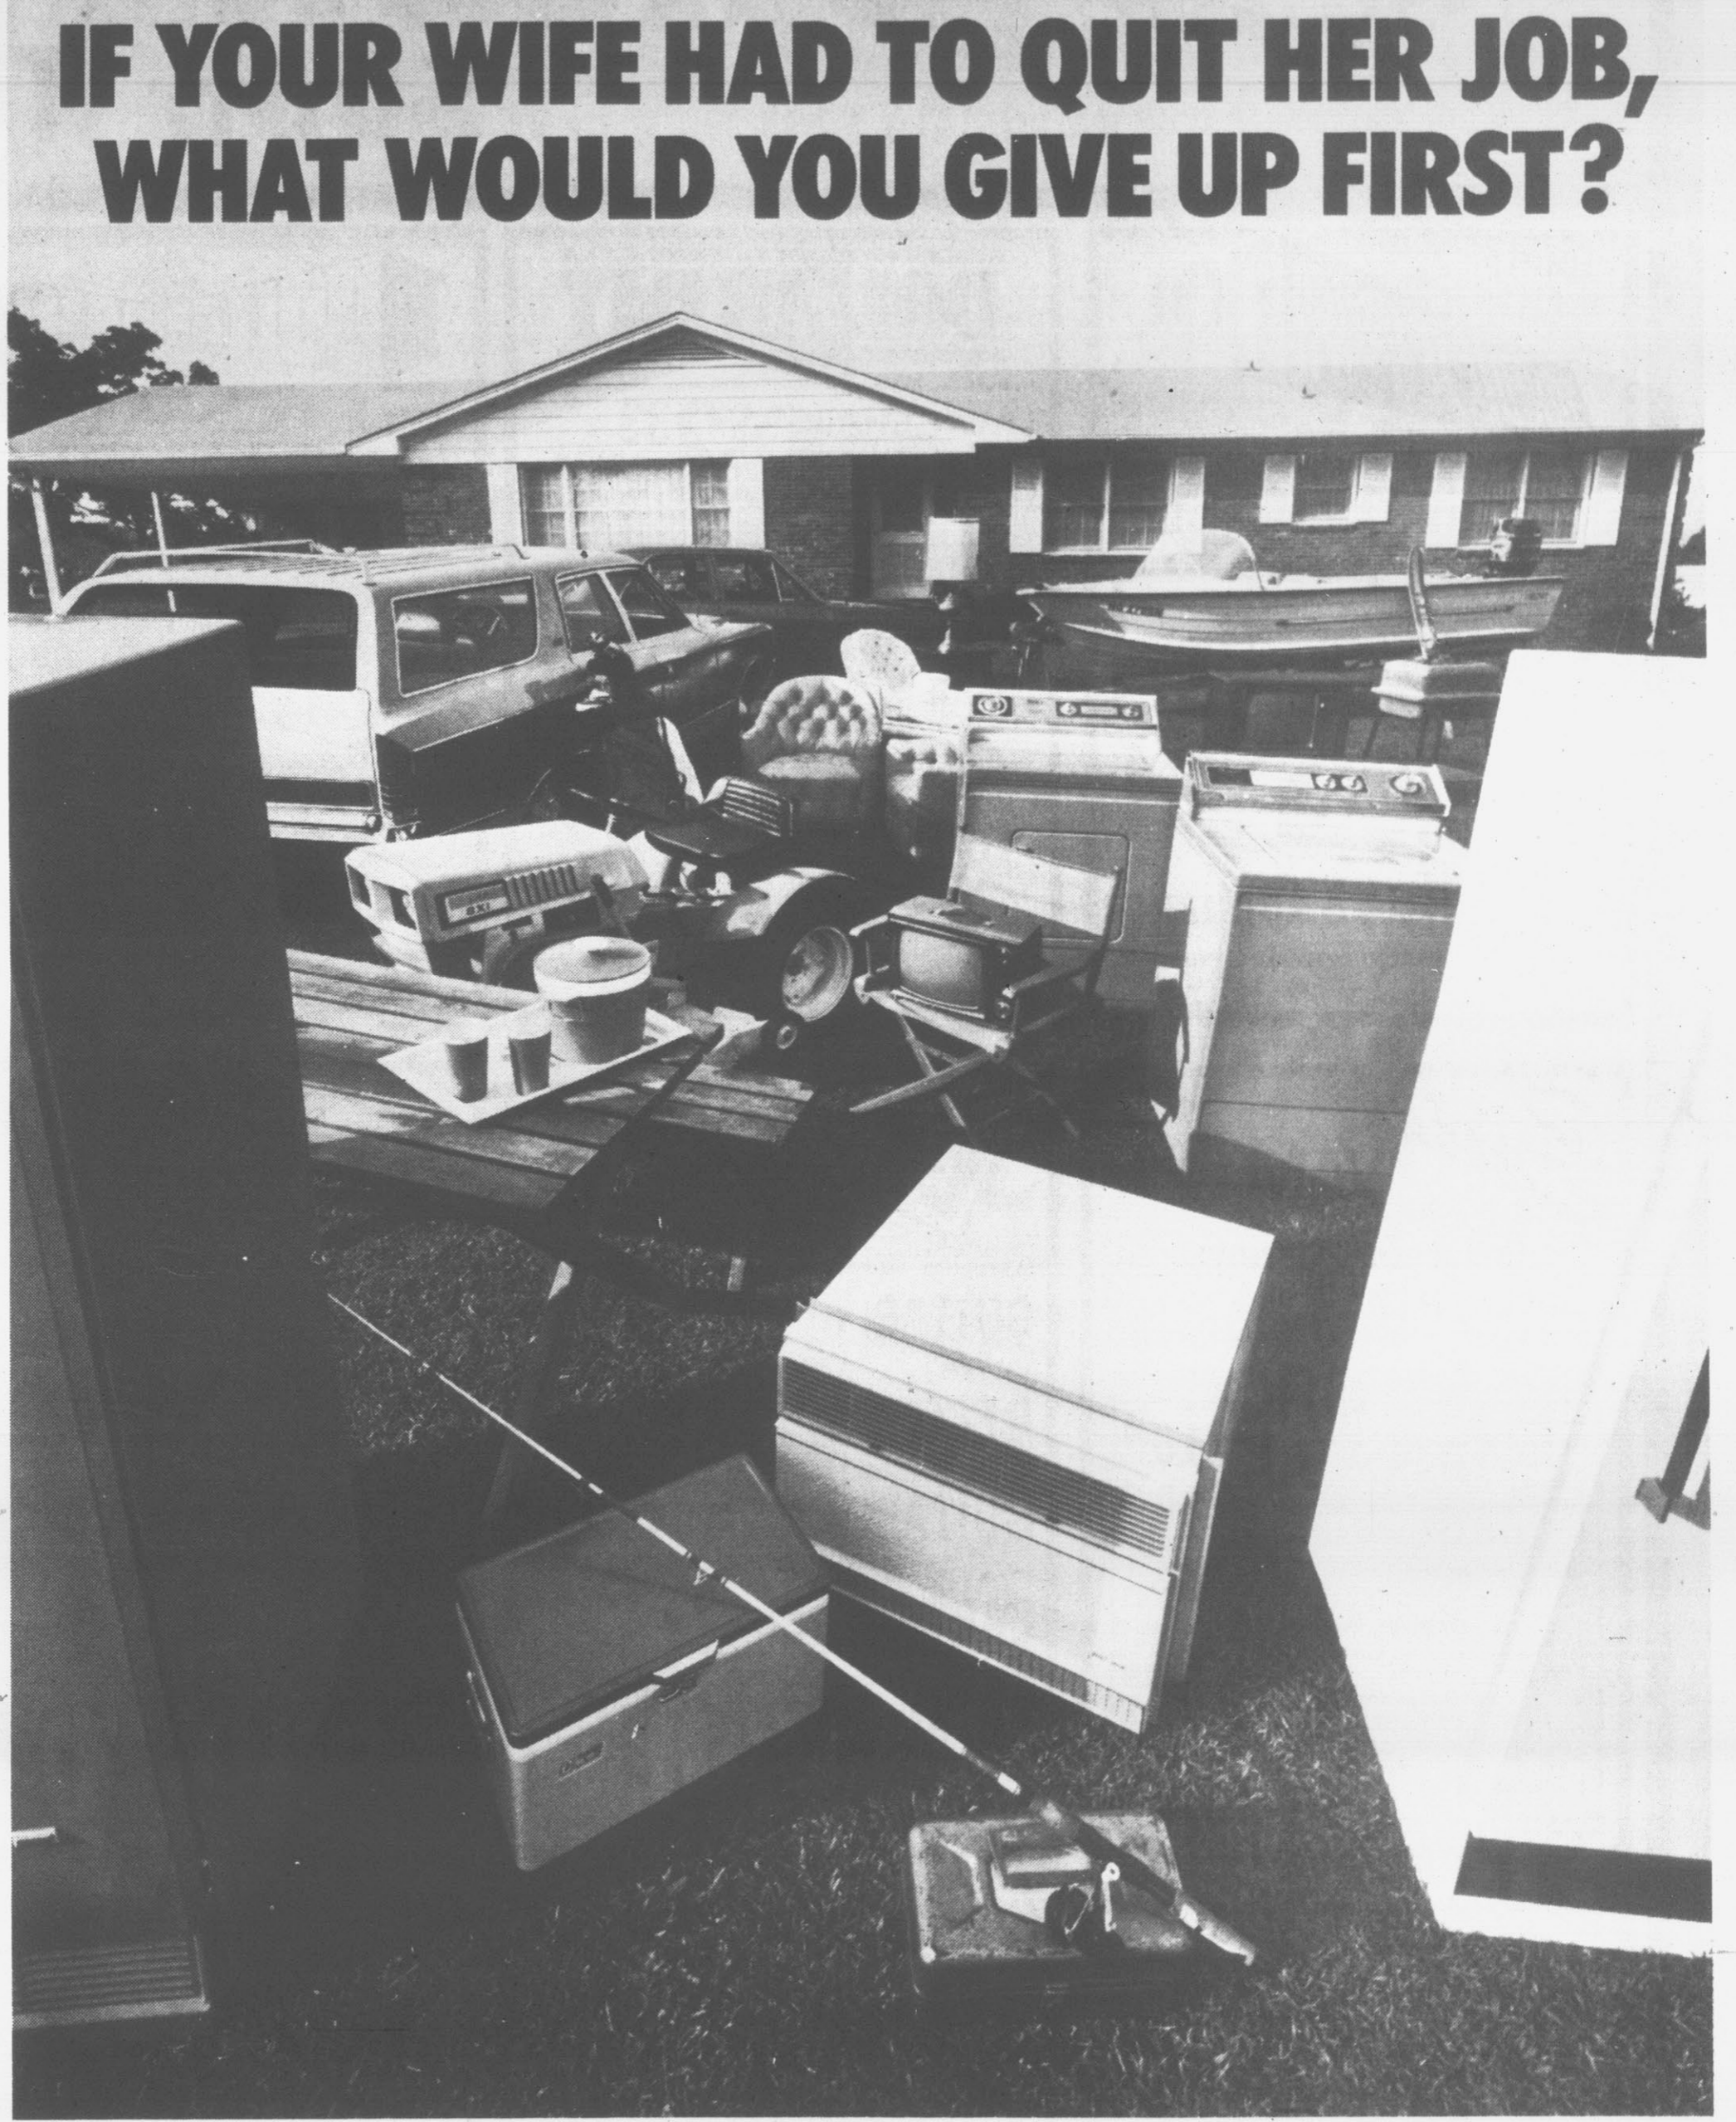

Catfish ponds are big business in Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas, says National Geographic.

Twins Still Score, But Pitchers Being Disabled

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Minnesota Twins barely managed to keep their run-scoring streak alive, but still found it easier than keeping their pitcher's healthy.

After putting Dave Boswell on the 21-day disabled list earlier in the day, the Twins lost ace Jim Perry to a pulled groin muscle in the ninth inning before they completed a 2-1 victory over Milwaukee in the opener of their two-night doubleheader Monday.

In the nightcap, the Twins pushed across two runs in the ninth inning before losing 4-2, but managed to keep intact their string of having scored in 120 straight games, including the last 18 in 1969.

Elsewhere, the California Angels managed to retake sole possession of second place in the American League West behind the Twins by dropping Oakland to third with a 5-0 victory over the A's, Washington blanked Detroit 4-0 and Kansas City beat the Chicago White Sox 7-2. No other games were scheduled.

with a shoulder injury May 28. The Twins also lost reliever Stan Williams for several games and rookie Bert Blyleven for two starts with arm trouble earlier this season.

Angels, who rode Rudy May's four-hitter to a one game lead over Oakland, which suffered only its third loss in 14 games.

The Angels jumped on Jim Hunter, 15-9, for four runs in the fourth inning as Jim Spencer drove in one run with a triple and two more came in on doubles by Jay Johnstone and Bill Voss.

Dick Bosman, 11-8, scattered eight hits—two of them to start the seventh inning—and Joe Grzenda came on and allowed only one more as Washington dropped the Tigers into third place, a half game behind idle New York in the American League East.

The Senators scored their four runs on five singles in the third inning off Mike Kilkenny, 5-2.

Mike Epstein singled in the last two.

Kansas City broke a three-game losing streak with a 15-hit attack behind Bob Johnson, 4-7, who silenced the White Sox on four hits. Cookie Rojas had a single, double and a triple and scored three runs, Lou Piniella had four singles, one run scored and one RBI and Bob Oliver crashed a three-run homer.

Everyone Happy Over NFL Pact

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League was back in business today with everyone happy about the settlement of the game's first strike and getting in shape for the start of preseason play.

Quarterbacking the action at the league's Park Avenue office was Commissioner Pete Rozelle, who finally stepped out of his role as a supposedly neutral observer, brought both sides together and kept them there until they reached agreement.

The most serious labor dispute in the history of American professional sports—which even unprecedented federal mediation failed to resolve—ended Monday following a marathon 22-hour session involving executives of all 26 clubs and the entire seven-man players' committee.

The four-year, $19.1-million package involves $4,535,000 a year in owners' contributions to the players' pension fund—the amount the owners had offered at the start of the dispute—plus $250,000 a year in disability, widow, maternity and dental benefits—the owners' apparent compromise since their previous offer.

Ladies Tourney Held Tonight

The second round of the Ladies Softball Tournament starts tonight with Little Mint Meeting Food Mart at 8:00 and Bob's play NPC at 9:00. The tournament will be played at Guy Smith Stadium.

Within minutes of the announcement of the agreement, players began checking in at training camps, mindful of the heavy schedule they face to prepare for this weekend's opening of the exhibition schedule.

Tony Jacklin Singled Out

LONDON (AP) — The British Professional Golfers Association singled out Tony Jacklin today for a unique honor.

Twenty teams will be in action, all on Saturday. The Cleveland Browns' game in Los Angeles against the Rams, originally set for Friday night, was moved back 24 hours to give the teams an extra practice day. Regular-season play begins Sept. 20.

Winner of the 1969 British Open and the 1970 U.S. Open, Jacklin was nominated by the PGA to be an honorary life vice president.

Major James Bywaters, secretary of the PGA, said: "Tony's twin achievements inside the space of 12 months is something that has never been achieved in the history of our association and is not very likely to be repeated in a long time."

Big Chance For Young Golfers

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — Young golfers with their eyes on the PGA tour will participate Sept. 22-24 at Tanglewood Golf Club for the school for tournament players.

He is the first professional accorded this honor in Britain where not too many years ago the pros weren't even allowed in the clubhouse.

Some 25 to 30 golfers will be trying for four or six places. Dugan Ayecock, a district vice president of the PGA of America, will be in charge, assisted by Grady Shumate, professional at Tanglewood.

Placed High In Pistol Matches

CAMP PERRY, Ohio (AP) — A state trooper from Charlotte, N.C., was the top policeman Monday in the national pistol championships.

Lawson grabbed the world title by ousting Henry Cribbs of Albertville, Ala., in overtime, having broken 99 of 100 skeets in the regular rounds.

Trooper Allen Arrington fired 883 points out of a possible 900 in four 22-caliber matches.

Another North Carolinian, Sgt. I.C. Sam Hunter of Warrenton, was a member of the winning Army team. The team won with 1,175 points out of a possible 1,200.

Elmer Myers of Fayetteville, N.C., tied the match score record with 299-19x.

The trotting mare Fresh Yankee, now 7 years old, was purchased as a yearling for $900 by Canadian Duncan Macdonald and has won in excess of $580,000.

Relieved By Strike's End

Settlement of the National Football League players strike brought sighs of relief from at least two organizations in North Carolina Monday — The Raleigh Jaycees and Wake Forest University's sports department.

Col. Keith Tester, business manager at Wake, said ticket sales for a game there between the New York Jets and the Atlanta Falcons Aug. 15, had already begun to pick up Monday.

Tester said he believed interest in the game had been "held in abeyance" pending outcome of negotiations.

"We were glad to hear about the settlement," he said. "We're looking forward to having a real great game."

The Raleigh Jaycees are sponsoring an exhibition game between the Baltimore Colts and Detroit Lions in Carter Stadium Sept. 5.

Richard Petty won the Dixie 500, his first victory in the mid-summer event at Atlanta International Raceway. Petty won by a one-lap margin over Cale Yarborough, pushing his season earnings to $95,125 and giving him second place in the NASCAR dollar derby. His Plymouth team mate, Pete Hamilton, is first in money won for the season with $95,520.

Jim McMillan, general game chairman, said Monday the settlement "certainly will boost ticket sales" for the fourth annual Jaycee charity game.

In the Grand American Challenge series, Tiny Lund, winning at Bowman-Gray Stadium in Winston-Salem, N.C., Saturday night, increased his point lead.

He said the organization was "elated" about the settlement.

Hylton Takes Standings Lead

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — James Hylton, an independent Ford driver from Inman, S.C., has recaptured the lead in NASCAR's Grand National Championship point standings.

Hylton regained first place Sunday in the Dixie 500 at Atlanta when Bobby Isaac fell victim to engine failure after 83 laps.

Hylton finished 10th and Isaac was 35th. Hylton goes into this week's series of three short-track races with a lead of 31 points.

Reed Pitches Six Hitter To Houston

A six-hitter is what happened. A real, honest to goodness six-hitter, and it was a complete game too. That, in case you haven't been paying attention, hasn't been routine around the pitching before the rest of the

Elsewhere in the National League Monday night, Chicago whipped New York 6-1, Montreal blanked Pittsburgh 8-0, St. Louis trimmed Philadelphia 4-1, San Diego battered Cincinnati 10-3 and San Francisco beat Los Angeles 5-2.

Reed, whose broken collarbone made a mess of Atlanta's pitching before the rest of the National League got around to it, throttled Houston and got all the runs he needed on consecutive second inning homers by Orlando Cepeda and Hal King.

It was only the fourth complete game in the last month for the Braves' pitching staff which was shredded for 30 runs in two games against the Pirates Saturday and Sunday.

It looked like more of the same when the Astros bounced from behind to overtake Atlanta in the first game of the doubleheader. Bob Watson drove in three runs with a single and a home run and pitcher George Culver's two-strike bunt single started the winning rally in the seventh inning. But Reed turned the tables in the nightcap.

The Pirates' one-game lead in the NL East remained intact when New York bowed to Chicago and Ferguson Jenkins on a three-hitter.

Jenkins held the Mets hitless for six innings and Johnny Callison tagged a homer for the Cubs.

 South, holding 26 points in high cards and distribution and a six card suit, opened with a demand bid of two hearts. North properly raised to three hearts with eight points in support. With the trump fit confirmed and holding the controls in every suit, South proceeded without further ado to a small slam.

West opened the deuce of hearts and South won the trick in his hand. He cashed the ace of hearts next and when West discarded a club, declarer switched to the ace of diamonds before leading a third round of trumps to North's jack.

The queen of spades was led and finessed. If West wins the trick with the king, South is in position to claim, for he can discard one club on the king of diamonds and the other on dummy's long spade. West realized, however, that it would not be prudent to release his spade control too quickly, and he followed suit smoothly with the three.

The king of diamonds was cashed, declarer discarding the five of clubs and then the jack of spades was led to repeat the finesse. West produced the king and exited with a spade, placing the declarer back in his hand. At the end South was obliged to surrender a club for the setting trick.

Declarer's timing was faulty. He should be willing to give up a spade trick early in the play in order to retain full control of the proceedings. It is suggested that the five of spades be led at trick two. If West puts up the king, it is the only trick he can take. South draws trumps when he regains the lead and discards his clubs on the king of diamonds and North's long spade.

If West plays a small spade at trick two, dummy's ten will win the trick. A club is returned and declarer finesesses the queen, losing to West's king. South wins the return, cashes the ace of diamonds and the ace of clubs and then ruffs a club in dummy. The six of spades is discarded on the king of diamonds, trumps are drawn and declarer claims his slam, having lost only one club.

Worry Clinic Ego-Inflation Out Of Giving

Zelma was confused by the "rush" which a rich playboy gave her, though she had been dating a quiet school teacher for over a year. Both men proposed marriage. Which one did she pick for a husband? Study this case with care for it shows the difference between true love and sexual infatuation:

By GEORGE W. CRANE,
 Ph. D., M. D.

CASE N-582: Thelma T., aged 26, is a school teacher.

"Dr. Crane," she exclaimed, "I think I am in love with two men."

"One of them is a teacher and has been dating me for a year. But the other is a wealthy playboy whom I met a few months ago when I spent a week's holiday in Florida."

"The playboy swept me off my feet and took me to the dog races; then deep sea fishing, and to exotic restaurants to eat."

"Both men have asked me to marry them, so what should I do?"

Cupid uses various types of strategy and often confuses a girl because she mistakenly thinks physical magnetism is true love.

Zelma is thus thrilled by the big "rush" which this playboy has given her.

But she needs to analyze her situation with care.

Is she exhilarated by the playboy himself or by the novel and exciting experiences which he is giving her?

Conversely, is her fondness for the teacher based on the more meager case investments he has made in their dates or in him, personally?

In winning sweethearts, as well as friends, you should visualize this vital tattoo which is branded across everybody's chest:

"I WANT TO FEEL IMPORTANT."

Which one of Zelma's suitors thus makes her feel more important?

Thus, if she were marooned on a desert island with both these men, where outside lavish entertainment and exotic restaurants were not involved, which man would cause Zelma to feel more important?

Actually, Zelma felt delighted and inflated in her ego when with the playboy, but not just because of his varied dates.

For it also tickled her ego to think she thus rated the attention of a handsome young fellow who was decidedly above her social status.

Yet the school teacher also made her feel more important though in a different way.

For she felt that he needed her more than did the playboy.

The teacher wasn't as smooth a talker nor as glib at making love, for he was a quiet science teacher in the same high school where Zelma taught English.

"Dr. Crane," she added, "I don't know what would ever become of him if I eloped with the playboy."

"For he is the silent type but I know he loves me with all his heart."

"And he depends on me in many ways, so he'd feel more helpless if I ran off with the other man."

Since I have often warned you readers that a woman's major love interest is 75 percent maternal and but 25 percent of the erotic or sweetheart type, a suitor can often defeat the greater wealth of his rival by "leaning" on the girl for advice, suggestions and even the sewing out of buttons!

"Where your treasure is, there will your heart be also," the Bible tells us.

Which is why the man who

Williamston Board Holds 4 Hearings

WILLIAMSTON — Public hearings were held on four separate items by members of Williamston's Town Board at their monthly meeting yesterday.

Approval was granted on three of the items — rezoning of an area of land surrounding the new hospital site from R-15 residential to residential and office zones; rezoning of property on Washington Street from neighborhood commercial and R-6 residential to highway commercial, extending from Carolina Avenue to Morrison Street; and amendment of sections of the zoning ordinances to clarify, update and correct the ordinances for better understanding.

The fourth public hearing, one which required considerable time, concerned a report presented by Marion R. Poole, a planning engineer for the State Highway Department. Poole's report outlined long-range future plans for thoroughfares in and adjacent to Williamston.

Objections to the proposals were voiced by farmers owning land on the Hamilton highway outside Williamston on the grounds that such plans would cut through the center of their farms. No action was required on this long-range plan, but was a matter of presentation as a public hearing to get a consensus of opinion.

In other actions, the town board — agreed to renew for five years of a lease agreement of the Martin Memorial Library for a fee of $1.00 per year; J. O. Perry was reappointed to the Williamston Planning Board; and the board agreed to proceed on final plans to study a request for paving of an off-street parking lot. David Hughes, representing the merchants of Williamston, presented a petition asking the town to consider paying the parking lot area behind downtown businesses located on Main Street. The area lies between North Smithwick and North Horton Streets.

Oregon, Texas File Suit On Voting Age

WASHINGTON (AP) — The states of Oregon and Texas have filed suits directly with the Supreme Court questioning the constitutionality of a new law lowering the voting age in all elections to 18.

The two contend Congress has no authority to change the minimum voting age of 21 set by the constitutions on Texas and Oregon.

The petitions, the first questioning the 1970 Voting Rights Act to reach the Supreme Court, were filed Monday, the deadline set by Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell for states to assure compliance with the law.

The Justice Department said it has no count of the number of states planning to comply with the law. Indiana and North Carolina have said they will not comply, at least for the time being, and Oregon has filed a challenge in a lower court.

The law, which grants the vote to 11 million young people next Jan. 1, was signed by President Nixon June 22. At that time, the President expressed questions about its constitutionality and directed a court test.

Act To Hike Bonds Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted the Treasury Department authority to raise the interest on U.S. savings bonds to 5 1/2 per cent.

The proposal, still subject to House approval, would raise the rate from 5 per cent, effective last June 1. Such action by the Treasury would be subject to approval of the president.

Sen. John Williams, R-Del., tacked the provision onto an unrelated House-passed bill. He said the boost would help the average American who cannot get higher yields available to wealthy investor in the bond and real estate markets.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., suggested raising the savings bond rate to a level equal to or higher than that paid by savings and loan associations might further reduce the availability of money for new housing.

The provision passed on a voice vote.

Pollution Advice For Everyone

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — There are many simple ways Americans can help fight pollution, Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., has told a Republican convention.

"Get your car tuned. Don't race the engine," advised Murphy. "Be thoughtful about this. This is everybody's problem."

The report by Brinn was made at the suggestion of commissioners who indicated that state and federal funds may be available to help defray the county's portion of the cost of establishing the rehabilitation center here if ample evidence of the need could be documented.

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., called today for a 25 per cent reduction in station changes by military personnel. He said the savings would total $140 million in fiscal 1971.

By a lengthening of duty tours, Percy said, "the military families would have the opportunity to enjoy a greater degree of stability."

Percy noted the military's budget provided $1.3 billion for permanent change of station moves.

Of that amount, an estimated $460 million will go for rotation of servicemen after 12 months of duty in Southeast Asia. Percy's proposal would not affect tours in combat areas.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five justices of the Supreme Court have reported that they had no outside earned income in the first half of the year. Statements were expected but not yet filed by the other four justices.

Although not legally required to do so, the justices joined some 440 federal judges in submitting the reports, ordered last March by the Judicial Conference of the United States.

Filing before the Friday deadline were Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Associate Justices William J. Brennan Jr., Harry A. Blackmun, Potter Stewart and Thurgood Marshall.

One item on the form—positions held in business or charitable organizations—brought sparse entries from all but Blackmun, the newest member, who listed membership or office in 10 groups. But he noted he had resigned from seven during the six-month period.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Careless laboratory procedures by some unlicensed, commercial producers of blood-plasma products have subjected donors to disease and, in a few cases, death, says the National Research Council.

The report Monday said that the victims include prisoners, skid-row delinquents and drug addicts who sell their blood for just a few dollars.

A special committee which prepared the report recommended new guidelines for safeguarding donors of blood plasma in so-called "plasmapheresis" programs.

Plasmapheresis is a process by which whole blood is withdrawn from the donor and separated into its liquid and formed elements—red and white cells and platelets.

The plasma, about 55 per cent of whole blood, is retained by the laboratory, while the formed elements are returned to the donor. Frequent donations by the same individual are possible without waste of red blood cells.

Environmental action, a group headquartered in Washington, has named Rep. Durward G. Hall, R-Mo., as one of several congressmen "most unresponsive to the necessity of cleaning up our environment" and says it will name the others later.

FEAR FOR SAFETY
MONTEVIDEO (AP) — The U. S. Embassy says it fears for the safety of two kidnaped foreign officials (one an American) because of the Uruguayan government's refusal so far to negotiate with their guerrilla captors.
