

Burger Asks Updating of U.S. Courts

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Chief Justice Warren E. Burger proposed today creation of a council representing all branches of the federal government to bring the nation's court system up to date.

"In the supermarket age," he said, "we are like a merchant trying to operate a cracker barrel corner grocery store with the methods and equipment of 1900."

Burger proposed updating of the judicial system and warned of expecting too much of the federal courts in his first state of the judiciary message to the American Bar Association.

The white-haired jurist said the courts need more money, judges and trained administrators and a streamlining of their trial and appeals processes to retain public confidence.

He questioned the priorities of a nation that spends $200 million to develop the C5A airplane and $128 million on its federal judicial system.

For at least 50 years, he said, the federal court system has had steadily increasing burdens.

"Some of this," he said, "is because of new laws and decisions and some because of a tendency that is unique to America to look to the courts to solve all problems."

At the same time, Burger said, much of the judicial machinery has grown obsolete.

Burger told the lawyers and judges they should give urgent consideration to asking Congress to create new judiciary council which would report to all three branches of the federal government on a wide range of matters affecting federal courts.

For example, he said, it could report on caseloads in particular districts, propose creation of temporary judgeships to meet urgent situations and study the present jurisdiction of federal courts.

Burger said the council could have six members, with two appointed by the president, two by Congress and two by the U.S. Judicial Conference, which he heads.

But while advancing his and other possible reforms, Burger also cautioned that the federal court system "is for a limited purpose."

"People speak glibly of putting all the problems of pollution, of crowded cities, of consumer class actions and others in the federal courts," he said.

"We should look more to state courts familiar with local conditions and local problems."

The chief justice, whose address was broadcast and telecast nationally, said there is a widespread public complaint that the present system of criminal justice does not deter criminal conduct.

"That is correct," he said, "so far as the crimes which trouble most Americans today... If ever the law is to have genuine deterrent effect on the criminal conduct giving us immediate concern, we must make some drastic changes."

"The most simple and most obvious remedy is to give the courts the manpower and tools—including the prosecutors and defense lawyers—to try criminal cases within 60 days after indictment and let us see what happens."

"I predict it would sharply reduce the crime rate."

Nixon Environmental Report Recommends Land Use Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today sent Congress a State of the Environment report urging the development of a national land use policy.

The report, prepared by the Council on Environmental Quality, may well be a preview of things to come, although too late for legislative action this year.

It recommends federal encouragement of planned and controlled land development, protecting areas of scenic and recreational value.

Economic incentives emerge throughout the wide-ranging report as one of the major tools to be used by the federal government in attacking environmental problems.

The costs of cleaning up environmental pollution, it emphasizes, must be allocated throughout society in the prices charged for products and services.

The report warns that man's activities are already altering the world's climate in ways that could bring on a catastrophe.

So little is known about this, however, that the Council was undecided whether it might emerge as a man-made ice age or—just the opposite effect—a melting of the polar ice caps and flooding of large land areas.

In sending the report—the first of its kind—to Capitol Hill, Nixon reminded Congress of the major environmental proposals he has already submitted, which still await Congressional action.

But the Council, only half a year old and in practical operation scarcely four months, also offered some new proposals, giving special attention to the problems of land use.

It said the federal government should:

- Direct federal sewer and water grants and open space acter zoning and timed development.
- Direct federal sewer and water grants and open space acquisition "toward communities or project areas which will use them to control development rather than to those which merely respond to uncontrolled growth."
- Use home mortgage and interest subsidy programs "to encourage the proper siting and environmental compatibility" of new residential subdivisions.

- Emphasize acquisition of small parks and natural areas near cities.
- Protect "Areas of special ecological significance."

Such recommendations, the report said, are only "aspects of a strategy" requiring broader development.

"Land use is still not guided by any agreed upon standards," it said. "It is instead influenced by a welter of sometimes competitive overlapping government institutions and programs, private and public attitudes and biases, and distorted economic incentives."

Nixon told Congress that "We have treated our land as if it were a limitless resource... Today, we are coming to realize that our land is finite, while our population is growing... Society as a whole has a legitimate interest in proper land use."

Nixon added, "I believe we must work toward development of a National Land Use Policy to be carried out an effective partnership of Federal, State and local governments together, and, where appropriate, with new regional institutional arrangements."

Nerve Gas Shipments To Suez Canal Coast Will Start Today Front Quiet

By WILLIAM CHAZE
Associated Press Writer

The Army plans to embark today upon what it says will be its last mission to ship lethal nerve gas by rail for dumping in the Atlantic Ocean.

Trains carrying 418 concrete and steel jacketed vaults of nerve gas rockets—30 to the vault—were to leave Blue Grass Army Depot near Richmond, Ky., and Anniston, Ala., Army Depot for North Carolina to be loaded aboard a barge. It will be scuttled in waters 16,000 feet deep 282 miles east of Cape Kennedy, Fla.

The Army kept the routes secret but said the shipments would move through thinly populated areas. By highway, it is about 540 miles from Anniston and about 645 miles from Richmond to the North Carolina coast.

The Army said there is no danger of leakage from the vaults.

Army chemical experts will accompany the shipments and their mechanical gas-leak detectors will be backed up by 12 rabbits and 12 pigeons, highly sensitive to gas.

Army spokesman said similar shipments in the future will be unnecessary because the Army is developing a method of decomposing the gas at the military bases where it is stored.

It said detonation of a 60-pound charge of dynamite beneath a vault would not damage it enough to allow gas to escape. The vaults are encase in quarter-inch armor plating.

Congressional sources said the Anniston train will pass through the Georgia cities of Bremen, Griffin, Macon and Athens before angling up through the Carolinas to an ocean terminal at Sunny Point, N.C.

The train is to move no faster than 35 miles per hour. A check of the rails was completed Saturday.

Few mayors have raised objections to the shipments and Gov. Lester Maddox, of Georgia offered to ride atop the train to demonstrate his confidence in the Army's safety precautions.

The Army said it had no orders permitting him aboard.

But Rep. Tim Lee Carter, R-Ky., says he will be on the Blue Grass Depot train until it leaves Kentucky "to help allay fear among the residents" of his southeastern Kentucky district. He said he had Army authority to ride the train.

However, dissent has been expressed by a number of persons, among them Florida Gov. Claude Kirk, three congressmen from his state and U Thant, secretary-general of the United Nations.

Thant said disposal of the gas in international waters would violate a U.N. General Assembly resolution on pollution of the high seas. The State Department denied this.

Kirk and the congressmen appealed to Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird to halt the dumping, opposed by environmentalists who fear pollution of the ocean.

The Army contends that the ocean, will render the gas harmless by dilution if salt water or pressure ever cracks the vaults.

Israeli planes attacked Arab guerrilla bases in Lebanon over the weekend, and ground forces battled infiltrators on the Israeli-held Golan Heights. But quiet prevailed along the Suez Canal for the second day of the Egyptian-Israeli cease-fire.

The air attack Sunday on the southwest slopes of Mt. Hermon was in retaliation for guerrilla raids on Israeli frontier settlements and military positions over the weekend, an Israeli spokesman said. A Lebanese army spokesman said the raiders burned crops and knocked out electrical power in three villages known to be guerrilla strongholds—Kfar Shuba, Shaaba and Jersa.

Arab guerrillas in Lebanon fired mortars at an Israeli border settlement in Northern Galilee Sunday night, wounding one of the settlers, the military command in Tel Aviv said today. Israeli troops returned the fire, he said.

Guerrillas from Jordan claimed killing or wounding 20 Israelis in an attack Sunday on military positions five miles north of the Dead Sea. But a military spokesman in Tel Aviv said no Israeli casualties were reported in the incident.

The Israeli command said two guerrillas were killed and eight others captured Saturday after a small force from the Syria-based Popular Front General Command infiltrated into the occupied Golan Heights. A spokesman said the guerrillas were carrying explosives, mines and weapons and apparently were intercepted on a sabotage mission.

In Amman, the Jordanian capital, machine-gun battles broke out between the Arab Palestine Organization, which supports Egypt's acceptance of the cease-fire, and the Marxist Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, which opposes it. Both sides said one child was killed and nine other persons were wounded, and each blamed the other.

Commandos from the Popular Front clashed twice last week with guerrillas from Action, another pro-Egyptian command group in Jordan. Two men were killed and 10 wounded in those clashes.

The Israeli cabinet met for more than five hours Sunday amid reports of strong government feeling that the United States had failed to guarantee Israeli interests in its campaign to put over the American cease-fire proposal.

A government announcement said only that the Cabinet "reviewed various aspects of Israeli-U.S. relations." But official informants said Israel was angered because the U.N. announcement of the start of new peace efforts did not make clear that Israel would not withdraw from any occupied territory without the recognition of secure frontiers in a peace treaty with the Arabs.

Crash Kills 49 U.S. Students

LIMA, Peru (AP) — A Peruvian airliner returning tourists from a visit to the Inca ruins at Machu Picchu crashed Sunday, killing 99 of the 100 persons aboard, including 49 young American exchange students. It was Peru's worst air disaster.

"They were typical United States high school students, the best that their communities could offer," said Mrs. Mildred M. Brown of Buffalo, N.Y., president of the International Fellowship, Inc., which sponsored the Peruvian visit by the youths.

Fifteen other youths decided to remain in Lima with the families with whom they had spent the summer, rather than make the trip to the ruins.

Several other Americans were aboard in addition to the students spending the summer in Peru under the sponsorship of International Fellowship Inc. of Buffalo, N.Y. But their exact number was uncertain.

International Fellowship received from the State Department a list of 49 of its students 14 to 19 years old aboard the plane. But the airline, Lansa, issued a list of 54 Americans aboard which included three other teen-agers, a 21-year-old and four older tourists. The airline listed two of the students on International Fellowship's list as Peruvians, and it was thought some of those listed as American might be Peruvian.

The airline said the Lockheed Electra carried 91 passengers and seven crew members, but later the Aviation Department said there were two more crew members aboard.

One man, the copilot, survived. He was found in the wreckage of the cockpit.

Most of the passengers had flown to Cuzco, the ancient Inca capital 365 miles southeast of Lima, for an excursion to the Inca ruins at nearby Machu Picchu. After the day of sight-seeing, the plane had just taken off from Cuzco for Lima when one of its four turbo-prop engines failed and the pilot, Capt. Alejandro Calegari, requested permission to return to Cuzco.

The plane crashed into San Jeronimo Hill six miles south of the Cuzco airport and exploded, scattering bodies over a wide area.

Lansa officials said the airline was sending a plane to Cuzco today to bring the bodies to Lima.

International Fellowship said the students, among 400 Americans spending 45 days with Peruvian families, were accompanied by 14 Peruvian youngsters, including Marisel Bedoya Vivanco, 16, daughter of a former Lima mayor.

Officials said the tour was an optional part of the vacation program during which students participate in organized activities while staying with their host families. The company president, Mildred Brown of Buffalo, left today for Peru.

The student victims were from Ne. York, New Jersey, Indiana, Ohio, Maine, Wisconsin, Georgia, Maryland, North Carolina, Illinois and Pennsylvania, the company said.

Tractor 'Saves' Itself In Fire

FRANKLIN, Ky. (AP) — A tractor rescued itself from a burning barn near here Sunday when it backed through a closed barn door and away from the flames.

Firemen said heat from the blaze in the barn owned by Mrs. Susie Taylor caused a short in the tractor's wiring that activated the starter. The tractor gear-shift was in reverse so the machine backed through the closed door and stopped when it hit a post outside.

Kidnaped Judge Had No Chance

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — A state prison official says a kidnaped judge "was sentenced to death, no matter what happened" in a courthouse escape attempt which ended in the deaths of the judge, two convicts and an accomplice.

Associate Warden James W. Park of San Quentin Prison told newsmen Sunday his opinion is based "primarily on knowing the extreme anger the convicts had expressed" against Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley.

Sheriff's officers said an investigation of the shootings was continuing.

Parks reported two prison guards had guns drawn and returned fire as a van attempted to leave Marion County Civic Center Friday. The van carried three convicts attempting to escape, an accomplice and five hostages—Haley, Asst. Dist. Atty. Gary Thomas and three women jurors.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said Thomas, who was critically wounded, told his wife Maureen that he shot three men. He said he used a pistol he grabbed from the driver of the van after Judge Haley was killed.

Park said: "We have John Matthews that as the van was opposite him, he felt weapons were aimed at him, that one went off and he returned the fire."

The abduction and shooting came after Jonathan Jackson, 17, whipped out a pistol in Haley's Civic Center courtroom and shouted: "Everybody freeze!" Jackson then passed out weapons to James McClain, being tried on a charge of assaulting a San Quentin guard, and to William Arthur Christmas and Ruchell Magee, convicts waiting to testify.

Officers, backed away by the weapons, reported a sawed-off shotgun was taped to the judge's neck. They said a blast from the weapon killed him when the deadly exchange began in the parking lot.

McClain, Christmas and Jackson also were killed and Thomas, juror Maria Graham and Magee were wounded.

Park said San Quentin has a policy of "not letting any prisoner go free because of a hostage."

"This would be the context in which our officers looked at the situation," he added.

"It is explained to all new employees at San Quentin. If they were captured, every effort will be made to rescue them, but no inmate will be allowed to get away."

"Once you allow a hostage situation to work, then you'll be plagued with it, like the airliner hijackings."

There also had been some mud and rock slides set off by the heavy rains, but not enough to close roads, the SHC office said.

James Mason, of the U. S. Corps of Engineers and manager of the W. Kerr Scott Reservoir, said that he had recorded 10 inches of rain in a 48-hour period ending this morning.

The reservoir, which backs up the Yadkin River, is believed to have prevented a major disaster such as the one in 1940 when the mountains and foothills were struck by flash floods that caused millions of dollars worth of damage.

Flooding this morning in North Wilkesboro has closed a main thoroughfare—Wilkesboro Avenue—and high waters from the Reddies River has forced a handful of businesses to move merchandise out of stores.

Secondary roads also were reported closed in Catawba, Burke and Rutherford counties.

U.S. Hostage Is Murdered

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP)—The Tupamaro guerrillas executed American police expert Daniel A. Mitrione during the night because the Uruguayan government refused to release an estimated 150 political prisoners as ransom for him and two other kidnaped foreign officials.

Mitrione's body was found bound and gagged in a blood-stained car parked on a city street. He had been shot twice in the head. A bandage covered the chest wound he suffered when he was kidnaped July 31 while driving to work.

Police sealed off the area, removed the body from the car and declined to say where they had taken it. They refused to give official confirmation that it was Mitrione's, but police officials told newsmen there was little or no doubt.

Unconfirmed reports circulated that a second body had been found, but the police said nothing.

The car in which the body was found was left parked at an intersection in a poor worker's residential section. The car was an old American-made model which had been stolen Sunday. Police closed off the intersection, declaring it a "military zone."

People living in the area said they had heard two shots about 1:30 a.m. They did not hear a car driving off, indicating that the Tupamaros had departed on foot. Apparently, no one investigated immediately, and the police said a passing police patrol car made the discovery a few hours later.

Witnesses who saw the body before police rushed it away said the hair was black. This apparently made first identification uncertain. Mitrione, a tall, heavy-set man, had white hair. The Tupamaros apparently dyed it to facilitate hiding Mitrione during his 10 days of captivity.

Mitrione apparently was killed more than 12 hours after the Sunday noon deadline set by the Tupamaros for his execution.

Plant Ordered End Antiunion Activity

FARMVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A National Labor Relation Board trial examiner has ordered Collins & Aikman Corp. to halt what the examiner said were anti-union activities at the firm's Farmville plant.

The examiner ordered Collins & Aikman to rehire Fred Dixie Wilson after ruling that Wilson had been discharged from his job in the plant because of union sympathies.

He also ordered the plant's manager, Lamar Oxford, to refrain from any attempts to intimidate employees or discourage their joining a union and to halt what he found were interrogations of employees on their union sympathies.

The ruling was the result of a complaint by the International Union of District 50, United Mine Workers of America. The union complained of company actions during an organizing drive at the Farmville plant.

The examiner found Lamar had made a speech whose effect was to menace employees with unfavorable treatment if they signed union cards. The official also found plant supervisors had questioned workers on their feelings toward the union.

The examiner's ruling, disclosed today, can be appealed to an NLRB review board by the company.

GOP Governors Hope Nixon Popularity Catching

By WALTER R. MEARS
LAKE OF THE OZARKS, Mo. (AP) — Republican governors generally rate President Nixon's popularity high among the voters, and they hope some of it will rub off on their own campaigns in an autumn race against state house gains.

Democrats forecast inroads into the 32-18 majority the Republicans now enjoy among governors, and the chairman of the house comeback as dramatic as that achieved by Republicans after their landslide defeats six years ago, when Lyndon B. Johnson swept to the White House.

The odds on are for the Democrats to make some gains," he said Sunday. Harnes appeared on the NBC radio and television program "Meet the Press."

With elections three months away, the state executive branch three days of business sessions at the 62nd National Governors conference in the guarded luxury of a lakeside resort.

Extraordinary security precautions gave a garrison atmosphere to their secluded retreat. Harnes said there had been no threats of disruption, and called the picket duty and patrols of National Guardsmen and police simply "the old ounce of prevention."

The first controversy facing the governors is a proposal that they recommend broadening of the federal highway trust fund so that the money could be spent for subways and other modes of transportation, as well as for roadbuilding.

Hurray interests aimed a barrage of telegrams at the governors, urging rejection of a proposed policy statement asking Congress to let the states make transfers from the transportation fund.

Asians Trust Vietnamization

By WILLIS JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — Saigon's Asian allies have shown little willingness to increase their military efforts in Indochina despite expansion of the battle fields and the start of U.S. withdrawals.

The Asians, like the United States, seem inclined to place their trust in Vietnamization. Thailand, a major exponent of the domino theory that once was used to explain the United States' presence here, has been reluctant to go the aid of its neighboring domino, Cambodia.

At one point the Thais have threatened to pull out of Vietnam in a flap over remarks attributed to a South Vietnamese general. The South Koreans have spoken about reducing their strength in Vietnam if the Americans carry out plans to reduce theirs in Korea.

The Filipinos last year pulled out most of 2,000-man military civic action group. The Australians, who with New Zealanders are the only allied troops in Vietnam not subsidized by the United States, will withdraw one of their three battalions this fall.

Not counting 406,000 U.S. troops, the allied nations have nearly 70,000 men in Vietnam. There are about 50,000 Koreans, 8,000 Australians, 550 New Zealanders and 100 Filipinos. The Thais have 11,500, minus a brigade that is supposedly in the process of being replaced.

Sunday Saw Series Of Five Accidents

More than $3,800 property damage was estimated by police in a series of five traffic collisions here Sunday that saw two persons injured.

The heaviest damage reported resulted from a 1:25 p.m. collision at the intersection of N. C. 11 and the Belvoir Road and involved cars driven by Bobby S. Ambrose, 35, of Lewiston and Magnolia Tripp of Tarboro.

Mrs. Tripp, who was reported injured in the collision, was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety.

Damage was set at $500 to the damaged vehicle and $1,500 to the Tripp car.

Don Paul Evans, 73, of Route

1, Greenville was reported injured and an estimated $800 damage done to his car when the vehicle crossed railroad tracks at the intersection of 14th and Pitt Streets about 2:05 p.m. and the front suspension buckled.

A car driven by Leonard R. Ragsdale Jr., 20, of 1306 West Ragsdale Rd. struck the railroad about 1:30 p.m. and broke the front suspension of his auto also. Damage to the Briley car was set at $400.

No charges were placed when a car driven by Lloyd Wilson, 36, of Ayden struck a median at the intersection of N. C. 11 and U.S. 264 about 2:20 p.m.

Two False Fire Alarms Sound

Greenville firemen reported this morning that two false alarms were turned in during the night.

First of the false calls came from Box 85 at the intersection of Davis Street and Fairfax Avenue while the second false alarm was turned in from Box 222 at the intersection of 12th and Greene Streets about 1:10 a.m.

The Greenville City Code provides for a $100 reward to be paid to anyone giving information leading to the arrest and conviction of a person turning in a false alarm.

Couple Exchanges Vows Elderly Romeo Is A Bird To Watch

In Saturday Ceremony

WINTERVILLE — Miss Judy La Verne Lupton, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. James Lupton of Winterville, and Garland Wayne Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Boice Williams of Greenville, were married Saturday evening at 8 o'clock in the Winterville Free Will Baptist Church, with the bride's father officiating.

lime worsted silk with matching accessories and a corsage of tinted mums.

The bridegroom's father was best man and ushers were Bruce Gray, Charles Oakley, Wayne Nobles, Seth Cayton, and Jepp Stox.

For a wedding trip, the bride wore an aqua polyester double knit dress with beige accessories and the corsage lifted from her bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Pittman Hines directed the wedding.

The couple will reside at Rt. 1, Winterville.

The bride graduated from Winterville High School and Mitchell's Hairstyling Academy and is now employed at Williams Beauty Shop, Winterville. The bridegroom attended Winterville High School and is now attending night school at Pitt Technical Institute. He is employed by Silverthorne Electric Co.

After - Rehearsal Party

The bride's parents entertained at an after - rehearsal party and cake cutting Friday evening in the Winterville Community Building.

The bride's table, covered with a white cloth overlaid with an organdy and lace cloth, was centered with a five branched candelabra holding lighted tapers and epergnettes of mixed flowers.

The tiered wedding cake was at one end of the table. After the bride couple cut the first slice of cake, Miss Patsy Avery served the cake and Miss Kay Gooding poured punch.

Mrs. John Everington of New Bern presided over the bride's book. Mrs. Durwood Lawrence and Mrs. Juanita Tripp greeted the guests.

MRS. GARLAND WAYNE WILLIAMS

The chancel of the church was arranged with a background of wedding palms. Standing baskets of white mums and gladioli accented with blue were placed on each side of the altar. A fifteen branched arched candelabra holding white cathedral candles centered the altar. Standing brass candelabra on each side of the altar completed the background. Blue and green satin bows marked the family pews. The couple knelt on a silhouette prie-dieu for the blessing and benediction.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Tommy Manning of Ayden, organist, and Wayne Vincent of Winterville who sang "Wither Thou Goest," "One Hand, One Heart" and "The Wedding Prayer" as the benediction.

The bride escorted by her grandfather, James C. Hartley, of Ernul wore a formal gown, fashioned by her mother, of white bridal satin designed with an empire bodice, with a alencon lace mandarin collar and yoke with lace appliques embroidered with single and clusters of seed pearls. Lace appliques accented the skirt of the gown. It had full lace bishop sleeves and deep lace cuffs.

Her chapel length veil of silk illusion, edged with bands of lace and enhanced with appliques of lace and seed pearls, was attached to a two - tiered fingertip veil of silk illusion which fell from a crown of flower petals of lace and pearls. The bride carried a cascade of pixie carnations, Marguerite daisies with tips of English ivy, tied with streamers of matching satin and tulle.

Mrs. George Allen, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a spring green voile flocked daisy formal gown designed with an empire bodice, full bishop sleeves and deep cuffs edged with lace. She carried a bouquet of yellow Marquerite daisies and tinted pom pons in shades of blue and green with streamers of matching satin.

Bridesmaids were Miss Gail Williams, sister of the bridegroom, of Greenville, and Miss Linda Hartley, cousin of the bride, of Williamston, who wore gowns identical to the honor attendant. Miss Debby Hines, Miss Merry Hines and Miss Susan Williams, sister of the bridegroom, wore navy voile flocked daisy gowns. They carried bouquets similar to the honor attendant.

Honorary bridesmaids were Miss Kay Gooding, Miss Patsy Avery, and Miss Irene Williams. They wore pastel formal gowns and carried long - stemmed white mums with streamers of multi-colored satin.

Flower girls were Miss Evelyn Martin, cousin of the bride, of Ernul and Miss Phyllis Williams, sister of the bridegroom. They wore white voile flocked daisy gowns fashioned similar to the bridesmaids' and carried small nosegays.

The mother of the bride wore a street length dress of ice blue crepe with matching accessories and a corsage of tinted mums.

The bridegroom's mother chose a street length dress of

DEAR ABBY: I cannot remain silent after reading about that 67-year-old man making a play for his 88-year-old sister-in-law. This man needs help all right. What he needs is a woman who is ready, willing and able. I'd guess that his wife is able, but she is neither ready nor willing. The fact that the object of his affections is an 88-year-old woman is perhaps unusual, but it sets no precedent.

And I'll tell you something else, too. Eighty-eight-year old Mamma may not be as dismayed by his attentions as is her daughter. I was a good man at 67, and still lack a lot of being dead at 79, and I resent your inferring that a 67-year-old man is a doddering old dodo.

Your answer, "Speak to the man as you would to a 'naughty boy,'" irked me.

Dear Abby, just wait until you are 67 and see if you want some patronizing person talking to you as if you are a 10-year-old "naughty girl." Very truly yours,

STILL ALIVE AT 79

DEAR ALIVE: Thanks for writing. I am aware that Cupid doesn't work with a calendar, and I know that a 67-year-old man [or woman] can have a lively interest in romance. But when a man that age tries to take improper liberties with his 88-year-old sister-in-law, I say, he is neither healthy nor normal, and this bird needs help—and watching!

DEAR ABBY: I am a hairdresser in one of the better shops in town. The tips here run a dollar for a shampoo and set, so you know our clientele isn't exactly cheap.

We have a money-hungry operator here I'll call "Susie" who talks her customers into "conditioners," treatments and color, whether they need it or not. She brags that she sells her customers haircuts, then a perm, followed by another haircut [cutting half the perm off], followed by another perm, and so on. She pulls every trick in the book to run up the customer's bill. She makes the rest of us look like a bunch of pikers.

Bridge Winners Are Announced

The Faculty Duplicate Club held a North State Unit Tournament Friday at Planters Bank.

Mrs. Robert Barnhill of Tarboro and M. G. Creath placed first. Mrs. Zeb Cummings and Mrs. Leonard Nobles, both of Tarboro, were second, and C. J. Goodman and David Proctor placed third. Fourth place winners were Dr. and Mrs. Walter Thompson.

Also in the scoring column were Mrs. George Martin and Lewis Newsome, Mrs. Frederick Sorensen and Mrs. S. M. Woolfolk, Mrs. Irvin Adler and J. B. Green of Tarboro.

War On Poverty Is Expensive

There is room for criticism of many federal programs intended to help the poor. But the most telling point (and it has been made before Rep. Edith Green echoed the theme) is that a staggering amount of funds allocated to multiple problems facing the underprivileged goes to the "privileged".

Consultants' fees, administrators' salaries and expenses, research grants, the financing of a whole new bureaucracy is an integral part of the whole scene.

Sometimes it seems the costs of the overhead out-run sums of money that actually get to where it is needed.

As the congresswoman warns, "Our most enduring monument to poverty has been the creation of a 'poverty' industry".

No one really expects in their lifetime to see a nation in which there are no "poor", for the term is relative. Indeed, we are told America's poor have GREENSBORO — Life is something of a blast for E. B. Setzer.

For most of it (life, that is), he's been blowing up things. He does it for a living (E. B. Setzer Grading and Construction Co.) — a building here, a smoketack there, boulders and such.

It all began when he was about 13 and he was helping his father break up land for a garden.

"I wiped out the pear tree," he said, "but I cleared out the garden."

He enjoys using dynamite, studies its properties constantly and is fanatic about safety. His safety mania also began about age 13.

"I was working on a crew clearing the right-of-way for a state highway," he recalled, "and I got my first lesson and I've never forgotten."

The lesson came from a dynamite handler who insisted upon applying blasting caps to fuses with his teeth rather than crimper pliers.

"I found out quickly that by doing that you don't grow very old or have very many teeth," he said grimly.

In the 30-odd years he's been a demolitions man, there have been some frightening incidents.

The worst was on a job in western North Carolina.

"We were breaking a boulder about 10 feet in diameter and about eight foot thick," he recalled. "A piece went about a half-mile, went through the roof of a man's house and through his dinner table."

Super Trees

In an age when much of the news is bad, we note with pleasure the report just issued by the Southern Forest Resource Council, which indicates that the South's forest industry is on the threshold of a major new period of growth. New super-trees — genetically superior specimens of pine and hardwood — will provide increased production for land devoted to tree farming.

The South is uniquely suited to the growing of trees, for it has, in comparison with some other areas, less industry, more undeveloped land and a longer growing season. At present, 198 million acres are covered by forests in 12 Southern states. Even with this vast acreage, the Council report says, more land will be needed if markets are to be satisfied. The demand for wood products continues to grow. The South's pulp and paper industry, now a $10 billion a year business, plays a principal role in supplying the Nation.

In the years to come, the South, because of its unique advantages, apparently will carry the main responsibility for filling the Nation's need for timber. The new super-trees are part of the answer to the problem of how best to meet the increased demand. If the Nation's expanding wood requirements constitute a problem, it is the sort of problem which the tree-growing South needs more of. — Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle

Industrial Wastes Are Factor In Our Future

The North Caroling Board of Water and Air Resources is correct in establishing a policy of letting industries know their obligations to protect air and water quality in the state.

The board last week rebuked municipalities which welcome any industries without regard to the effect on the environment.

Both municipalities and industries should be frank with each other on waste control before any plant is built. Too often, it appears that plants are built without adequate waste treatment because each party thinks the other will do it.

We are entering an age where industrial wastes are going to have to be controlled regardless of where the industry is located.

Municipalities negotiating with industries should make it clear at the outset that they expect adequate safeguards for the environment. The desirable industrial prospects will be willing to cooperate.

Pushing Ahead & Backing Up

By ROWLAND EVANS and
ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — With President Nixon's climactic school desegregation drive in the South now only weeks away, the deep contradictions marking the Administration's erratic course on this issue are still to be resolved, no matter how many "clarifications" are put out to sugar-coat basic splits within the President's official family.

A year ago these splits had brought the Justice Department and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) to the edge of civil warfare. That warfare abruptly eased after the White House fired Leon Panetta, HEW's civil rights chief.

Now, however, with HEW and Justice comfortably together and equally determined to enforce the new batch of Federal desegregation court orders, the split is between White House politicians, on one side, and Atty. Gen. John Mitchell and HEW Secretary Elliot Richardson on the other.

Thus, it was White House pressure that compelled Mitchell, in the role of "good guy" committed to seeing the law carried out, to publicly back off the plan for sending several score Justice Dept. attorneys into the South as an enforcement task force.

Mitchell, reacting to front-page stories of July 17 about his enforcement task force, issued a statement that no final decision had been made and that the stories were "premature." But in truth, Mitchell and Jerris Leonard, Assistant Attorney General for civil rights, had given final approval to the plan to set up five regional centers in the South to give the Justice Dept. attorneys easy and quick access to trouble spots.

But Presidential aides, wanting to throw a protective political cloak over Mr. Nixon and worried about Southern anger over an invasion of the "feds," arbitrarily cancelled this eminently fair and sound Mitchell-Leonard plan right out of existence. One of the lamer excuses given was that it would cost money to hire space and the Federal budget would suffer. Another was that Mitchell himself had not finally approved the plan.

But that was only the beginning. On July 30, President Nixon used his San Clemente televised press conference to coolly state that the number of Federal officials sent to the South "will be based on whether those Southern districts or states... ask for help" from Washington.

Early the next day, testifying before a House subcommittee, Leonard was asked to explain that Presidential remark and found himself utterly unable to. He told the amazed Congressmen that he would have to check with his boss.

Leonard's embarrassment was understandable, for despite the Southern attack on the invasion of the feds (led by South Carolina's Sen. Strom Thurmond) and despite Mitchell's "clarification" backing away from that show of Federal force, Leonard knew that Mitchell was totally committed to doing whatever is necessary to desegregate the public schools in the South.

Indeed, the White House itself was compelled to issue a "clarification" of the President's press conference remarks the next day, admitting that "there will be extra Federal personnel" in the South to see that the law is obeyed.

Moreover, Southern Republican leaders less emotional than Thurmond have been quietly but forcefully told by Mitchell himself that "if it takes five divisions to enforce the law that's what it'll be." Many of these Southern Republicans have accepted that statement. Accordingly, the backing and filling by the White House, designed to make Mr. Nixon look like a benevolent Southern ally on school desegregation, has

A GREAT AGE

Hall of Fame. There are few in this place of honor. If we go back over the past four or five thousand years we find a comparatively small number set aside for this honor. Some have been men of military distinction. Others have been writers, musicians, artists, philosophers. And when all are gathered together they would constitute but a small handful of human beings that have lived and achieved through the centuries.

But think of what they have done for the human race. Great liberators have arisen and called their fellows to come out of servitude and into freedom. Galileo was compelled to kneel and disavow a scientific fact which is now everywhere accepted. Socrates, centuries before, had been put to death because his reasoning had caused many young people to change their ideas, and this, according to the adult leaders, was an infamous crime. Columbus sailed out over the horizon with great groups of his contemporaries believing that he would plunge himself and his fellow sailors into an abyss. Alexander the Great turned the world upside down in its thinking and acting, yet died at an early age as the result of a drinking bout.

Today the astronauts and those who stood upon the moon have established truths from which future generations will begin their reasoning.

Now are we going to Mars? Many of us believe that if we do we will learn secrets that may benefit humanity to an immense degree.

What about the year A.D. 2000 and beyond? We shake our heads and wonder. With all its problem this is indeed a great age in which to live.

Kid-Swapping Prevails

WASHINGTON — Nobody likes to talk about it, but there is a lot of kid-swapping going on in the United States. It isn't going on just in the suburbs or the small towns, but in the larger cities as well.

I hadn't realized how prevalent kid-swapping was until moved to Washington. One night I came home from the office and instead of finding my dark-haired little beauties I discovered a 7-year-old blonde stranger doing the twist.

"Who's she?" I asked my wife.

"That's Ann Lindsay She's staying here for the night with Connie."

"Where's Jennifer?" I asked.

"She's sleeping at Priscilla's house because Ann Lindsay doesn't like fish, so I had to go out and get her a steak. Then when Connie saw Ann was getting a steak she wanted one, too."

"I wouldn't mind having a streak myself," I said.

"You can't. Somebody's got to eat the fish."

friend's, B.J. He said if Jennifer can sleep somewhere else so can he.

"Where does that leave us?" I asked my wife.

"Well, we had three to start with, we got rid of two for the night, and we gained one, so we're only short one."

"It saves on food," I agreed.

"Not really," my wife said. "We had fish tonight, but Ann Lindsay doesn't like fish, so I had to go out and get her a steak. Then when Connie saw Ann was getting a steak she wanted one, too."

"I wouldn't mind having a streak myself," I said.

"You can't. Somebody's got to eat the fish."

Other Editors Say Is France Right?

(Jacksonville Daily News)

Those who advocate a schedule of financial rewards and penalties to persuade Americans not to have too many children might take a look at France, which has long had exactly the opposite system.

For every 100 francs of a French worker's wage or salary, his employer pays into the National Social Security Fund 11.5 francs for "family allowances." These allowances are direct, regular and progressive cash payments to any person with at least two dependent children.

They rise when children are between 10 and 15 years old and continue to be paid up to age 18 if the children are learning a trade and up to age 20 if they are continuing their school education.

For instance, a family with two dependent children is given an automatic $35 in cash every month, an amount of money which has a greater purchasing power in France than it does in the United States. If there are five dependent children, and two of them are over 10 years old, the social security automatically pays the family $130 a month.

Besides family allowances, practically all childbirth expenses are defrayed by social security. There is a prenatal allowance, paid in three installments during pregnancy; then a maternity allowance, with one installment paid at birth and the other six months later.

These benefits are all payable, incidentally, to any woman resident in France at the time of pregnancy and delivery, regardless of her nationality.

It pays, literally, to have children in France, yet that country has one of the most stable populations in the world. This would seem to suggest that there are many factors other than money involved in whether people have or do not have children, and how many they have.

The next weekend when I came home Connie was missing, but Jennifer had two friends and Joel had B.J.

At 8 o'clock I ordered them all to bed.

"B.J.'s father lets him watch television until midnight every night," Joel, who is 9 years old, said.

"Is that true, B.J.?" I asked.

"Sometimes later," B.J. said without batting an eye.

"When I stayed at B.J.'s last week," Joel said, "we didn't go to bed until two in the morning."

"My parents don't like me to go to bed early," B.J. said, "because then I wake up early."

"Well, why don't we just call up your parents and ask them what time you go to bed?"

"Oh, you don't have to do (Continued on page 5)

They Want What?

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Curbsome comments of a Pavement Plato:

What is it women really want?

This question has created a great deal of honest male bewilderment in the wake of the new women's liberation movement.

Among the stated aims of the movement are these: child care centers, equal pay for equal work, an end to job discrimination, abortion on demand, equality with men at every level, and a refusal to be treated as mere sexual objects.

While some of these aims are laudable, and some debatable, others probably aren't even desired by a majority of women themselves.

"I don't want to be put on a par with men," said a practical unmarried young lady of my acquaintance. "Then I'd have to do everything myself. I like the system as it works now. If I need something done, I can get some guy to do it for me."

What puzzles the average man most, however, is why women should want to be equal with men when he already feels he is unequal to them. Do they want to turn the clock backward?

The liberation-seeking ladies protest the chauvinism of the American male, but to the men of the rest of the world the American man is an object of ridicule for what they feel is his abject servility to women.

While he is still waddling around in his diapers, a little boy is able to punch a toy-stealing little girl in the mouth as if she were just another ordinary human being.

But in kindergarten he is taught that little girls are superior and extraordinary human beings made of delicate fibers, spanked into saluting them, and he goes on saluting them until the end of his days. The female sex gains an edge on him it never loses.

It is not men but women who have the better union in America.

A man is expected to light a woman's cigarette for her, leap to his feet when she enters or leaves a room, push both his and her way through revolving doors, buy her lunches.

A man is also expected to marry a woman when she wants him to, name his kids after her side of the family, and work himself to death earning the money to buy her a bigger car, a nicer home, more expensive vacation trips, and a better hair dryer than the wife next door has.

When he does die, it is further expected of him that he will have had the gallantry and foresight to leave her enough money so that she can spend comfortably, if not luxuriously, the seven or eight years of widowhood she will enjoy before joining him in his tomb—the one she chose, not him.

Does all this sound like he treated her like a mere sexual object?

Greenville Leaf Market Set For Aug. 18 Opening

When the tobacco market opens on August 18, representatives of all the major tobacco buying companies in the world will be here in Greenville awaiting their chance for competitive bidding for the world's finest bright leaf tobacco to be offered for sale during the 1969 tobacco season.

These tobacco companies have invested millions of dollars in factories and storage warehouses located in Greenville to process the tremendous volume of quality leaf which is annually sold here.

Carlton Dail is president of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade. A.A. Forbes Jr. is vice president and J.N. Bryan serves as secretary and supervisor of sales.

The following buying companies are located in Greenville (also listed is the president and branch managers): American Supplies, Homer Compton branch manager; Export Leaf Tobacco Company, Joe Gaston branch manager; Carolina Leaf Tobacco Company, Inc. (E.B. Ficklen Tobacco Company Di vision), William B. Glenn president; Greenville Tobacco Company, C. W. Howard Jr., president; Imperial Tobacco Company, Ltd., Jess R. Moye Jr., area supervisor, Paul Dupree buying supervisor; International Tobacco Company Inc., P.K. Andresen, president; Liggett and Myers Tobacco Company, Luther Pittman branch manager; J.P. Taylor Company, Person-Garrett Company, Inc., W.S. Bost, president; and R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Gene Averette, branch manager.

Many years of satisfactory business dealings with the tobacco trade over the entire world has built up for the four independent companies in Greenville an enviable reputation of being the finest purchasers, graders, handlers and processors of leaf tobacco in the world.

"Knowing the world's finest smoking tobacco is grown in Pitt County and the area served by the Greenville Tobacco Market, Greenville's tobacco companies have taken advantage of fact," said Bryan.

He continued, "By constant improvement, over a period of many years, they have succeeded in adding perfection in tobacco purchasing and processing to an already perfect natural product."

Greenville operates five sets of buyers simultaneously, every sales day, over its warehouse floors.

There are 20 tobacco warehouses and seven warehouse firms in Greenville, with the largest one of these warehouse floors covering over 11 acres.

The floor space in Greenville devoted exclusively to the sale and processing of leaf tobacco is well over three million square feet.

The names of the owners and operators of these warehouse firms are as follows:

Cannon's Warehouse, W.T. Cannon, Carlton Dail; Farmers Warehouse, W. Arthur Tripp, Jack Warren, T.P. Thompson, Harold L. Watson and Willie Edwards, sales manager; Keel's Warehouse, J.A. (Buddy) Worthington, J.B. Worthington, Fenner Allen;

New Carolina Warehouse, Laddie Avery, Larry Hudson and C. C. Harris; New Independent Warehouse, J.B. Belcher, W.A. Pruitt, T.W. Pruitt, W.E. Pruitt and Harold Forbes; Raynor-Forbes and Clark Warehouse, Noah Raynor, A.A. Forbes, and Billy Clark; Star - Planters Warehouse, B.B. Sugg Sr. and Harding Sugg.

"It has not been uncommon in the past few years for the Greenville market to pay out over a million dollars a day for the purchase of tobacco upon its warehouse floors," Bryan noted. Bryan said this year buyers will be looking for a larger amount of standard, mellow, flued - cured tobacco with a rich clear color and outstanding flavor and aroma.

N.C. Traffic Sees At Least 12 Dead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Traffic accidents, including two double-fatality wrecks claimed at least 12 lives on North Carolina highways this weekend.

The deaths pushed the toll for 1970 to 942, the State Highway Patrol said. The count compares with 1,023 deaths at the same time last year.

A Danville, Va., man and his wife were killed Sunday when their car crossed the center line and hit three other vehicles on U.S. 29 about 16 miles north of Yanceyville, the patrol reported. The victims were identified as Robert Leonard Burlingame and his wife Helen.

The second double fatality occurred early Saturday when Rufus C. Collins, 68, and his 64-year-old wife Lois drowned in Lake Summit near Hendersonville. Police said the couple from Greenville, S.C., apparently were driving to their home on the lake when their car ran off the road and plunged into 15 feet of water.

Police reported that Charles Alexander, a 48-year-old Charlotte resident, was killed when his car crashed into a concrete bridge in his home town.

A 23-year-old Supply, N.C.

Daily sales in Greenville have been as high as 2,353,592 pounds per day bought by Greenville's five sets of buyers.

Most of the warehouses have further mechanized in recent years to speed up getting tobacco on the sales floors.

Pitt County's official government tobacco allotment for 1970 is 23,036 acres, the largest in the nation, Bryan said. The poundage produced in the county is only part of the total volume sold at the local market during the season.

The Greenville tobacco market is equipped to sell and process during the 1970 season over 100 million pounds of choice, bright leaf tobacco.

With keenest competition from five complete sets of buyers and with highest prices anticipated on every grade of tobacco sold on the Greenville Tobacco Market, 1970 should be one of Greenville's best years.

A Reminder For Brides

Traditionally, a bride should have "something old, something new, something borrowed, and something blue".

Well, we can't help with the "borrowed and blue", Jack Tatem, Manager of the Greenville Social Security District Office stated. But, all new brides upon visiting their nearest Social Security District Office will be issued a new social security card with the old social security number. "Something old, something new".

Employers, Tatem said, would be doing their female employees a great service if, in addition to changing the bride's name on their records, they also advised the bride to change her name on her social security card. Social Security numbers, Tatem stated, are used to keep a special personal and confidential record of earnings. To keep these earning records correct, a "Miss" who becomes a "Mrs." must have her name changed on her social security card and have the change of name recorded with the Social Security Administration.

Later that evening I said to my wife, "We've got to put a halt to this kid-swapping. Everyone on Cleveland Ave. is starting to talk."

"Oh, it's harmless," my wife said, "and they get so much fun of it."

But I knew what I was talking about. A few weeks later I came home and found three kids at the dinner table. None of them mine.

"What happened?" I asked. My wife was rather embarrassed. "There's been a dreadful mix-up. Joel invited Francis over to sleep with him, but he forgot he'd accepted an invitation to sleep at Butch's Jennifer and Connie were invited over to Karen's, but after they left, Veronica and Mary Elizabeth showed up and said they had been invited over here. I didn't have the heart to send them home."

"So now we've got three kids that don't even belong to us," I said.

"Yes," my wife said, "and guess what? They said their mothers let them stay up until midnight to watch television."

Young Choir Sings In Moscow Church

MOSCOW (AP) — The Good News Singers of America sang hymns in Moscow's only Baptist church Sunday night.

The 137 high school and college students from North Carolina were the first foreign choral group to appear in the church in several years. They drew an overflow crowd of 2,000 Muscovites to the church.

The Rev. Van Ramsey of Shelby, N.C., said he had been unable to arrange the appearance officially through Intourist, the official Soviet tourist agency. So he said he went ahead and arranged it on his own.

Ramsey said the congregation was "just like a typical Baptist church—babies, children, teenagers, young married couples and old folks."

He said the congregation had requested that the group sing

"We Shall Overcome," a well known American civil rights hymn.

The choral group made a stop in London before flying to Leningrad for four days and Moscow for three days.

The young people were invited by the Soviet Ministry of Culture, with three concerts arranged for them—two in Leningrad and one in Moscow. All were to be before small audiences.

The Moscow concert fell through so the church appearance was hastily arranged.

"They just didn't provide us with an opportunity to get before the people," Ramsey said. "We would have liked to sing more."

The group flies to Paris today for concerts in the Luxembourg Gardens, returning to Charlotte Friday.

UNC Policy Is Reviewed

RALEIGH (AP) — The executive committee of the University of North Carolina Board of Trustees planned to consider revisions in its policy on campus disruptions today.

Action on a number of proposed changes in the policy was deferred at the committee's last meeting in July.

Jay Jenkins, assistant to UNC President William C. Friday, said the group would also take up personnel matters and discuss budget requests for new programs for the 1971-73 biennium.

The disruptions policy was passed last summer after trouble on the university's Chapel Hill campus. It was passed with the provision that it be reviewed after a year.

Included in the proposed revisions is the elimination of a section of the policy under which UNC-Charlotte Instructor David Blevins was found guilty of failing to meet his classes during a Vietnam moratorium day.

The proposal would leave the responsibility for disciplining faculty members up to the normal faculty courts.

Other recommendations include provisions for electing members of the board of inquiry and the hearings committee, defense attorneys for persons charged under the policy, a statute of limitations and clarification of some vague language.

Two special committees of trustees, student leaders and faculty members have been studying since July the proposals made by a special consultative committee.

Crossing State On Horseback

HANCOCK, Mass. (AP) — Some 130 horseback riders are on a 312-mile, 12-day trip across the state in hopes of demonstrating feasibility of creating a statewide network of trails.

The riders left Berkshire Downs race track Sunday and planned to arrive in Plymouth Aug. 20.

The state Department of Natural Resources and the Massachusetts Horsemen's Council are sponsoring the ride.

Red Strength In Phnom Penh Talked Of Bank President And Area Is Increasing Steadily Cuban Stop Wife Found Slain

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — One Communist attack was reported five miles north of Phnom Penh today, while other Viet Cong and North Vietnamese forces hit Saang, 24 miles to the south, for the second straight day.

In South Vietnam, 10 Americans were killed and 41 wounded in two ground attacks, mine and booby trap incidents, and two aircraft crashes.

The attack just north of Phnom Penh appeared to be only a minor skirmish, on an outpost at Prek Leap on the Mekong River. A government spokesman said the attackers were driven off with the help of naval boats on the river. But the attack, coupled with another Friday at Prek Luong, slightly less than five miles from Phnom Penh, indicated that the enemy has moved within rocket and artillery range of the capital.

The spokesman said enemy concentrations around Phnom Penh were not as large as they were a month ago, but he said the enemy strength was increasing steadily. For the moment, however, there was no solid indication that the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were about to launch an offensive against the city.

The spokesman claimed 10 enemy killed at Saang and said fighting continued there today. The district capital, on the Bassac River, has been hit repeatedly since it is on one of the main enemy infiltration routes from Vietnam to the base camp area the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese are building up near the Kiri Rom plateau.

New fighting also was reported at Kiri Rom, 55 miles southwest of Phnom Penh. The Cambodian command said a large government patrol was ambushed and suffered heavy casualties, with five killed and 39 wounded. He said the enemy left 39 bodies on the battlefield.

Most of the action in South Vietnam was reported in the northern provinces.

The U.S. Command also announced that the total number of U.S. forces in Vietnam dropped by 350 last week, to 406,350. President Nixon's timetable for withdrawal of American units calls for the total to be reduced to 384,000 men by mid-October.

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Eastern Airlines flight from New York to San Juan, Puerto Rico, made a precautionary landing at Dulles International Airport here today after a passenger reportedly commented that the plane might wind up in Cuba.

The passenger, identified as Angel Devilla, Jr. 34, of the Bronx, New York City, was taken off the DC8 at Dulles for questioning by the FBI.

An airport spokesman said Devilla "said something like 'maybe we'll be landing today and maybe we'll never make it to San Juan.'" The comment, he said, was made to a passing stewardess and several passengers.

The stewardess reported the remark to the pilot.

The Federal Aviation Administration said that Devilla, speaking with a Spanish accent, said: "Maybe we go to Cuba today." The FAA said he was unarmed.

The flight, No. 923 from New York to San Juan, carried 112 passengers and 8 crew members.

After the plane landed at Dulles, airport authorities and police officials went on board and asked Devilla to leave the plane which, they said, he did willingly.

Devilla also gave a San Juan address. Officials said he was traveling alone and apparently was returning home to San Juan.

ORANGEBURG, S.C. (AP) — The bludgeoned bodies of the president of the First National Bank of Orangeburg and his wife were found in their home today.

Acknowledge Cambodians

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command acknowledged today for the first time that Cambodian aerial spotters are flying aboard American-piloted observation planes to help in bombing strikes in Cambodia.

In response to a query whether Cambodian observers are flying with American forward air controllers a command spokesman replied: "Yes, when their (the Cambodians) knowledge of the terrain is helpful to the mission."

The question of American air support in Cambodia came into the open last week after correspondents reported seeing U.S. planes flying bombing strikes in direct support of Cambodian troops.

Until that time, the United States maintained that its air strikes in Cambodia were intended only to destroy communist troops and supplies that would threaten American and other allied troops in South Vietnam.

slain in a robbery. Police said the J. W. Pickens Automobile Sales Co. next door to the Burns' home had been broken into during the night.

The fully clothed body of Mrs. Burns was found on the first floor of their home, slumped over a chair. She apparently had died from blows inflicted by a brass table lamp.

The pajama-clad body of the bank president was found upstairs. He also had been fatally beaten.

Police theorized Burns had retired for the night and his wife had stayed downstairs to watch television when they were surprised by an intruder.

The bodies were discovered after a maid came to the house this morning and could not get inside. The maid called a neighbor, who, in turn, notified the bank. Two men sent from the bank broke into the home and discovered the bodies.

Burns and his wife were both in their late 50s or early 60s.

My Lai Case Left In Military Hands

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A three-judge federal court refused today to dismiss the military charges against two soldiers charged in the alleged massacre at My Lai and, at the same time, declined to remove the cases from military jurisdiction.

Attorneys had asked the federal panel to enjoin the Army from trying Sgt. Esequiel Torres, 22, of Brownsville, Tex., and Spec. 4 Robert W. T'Souvas, 21, of San Jose, Calif.

The decision said the contention of the soldiers "failed to overcome the strong policy reasons for requiring exhaustion of military remedies in these cases."

"The traditional manner of seeking relief in the federal courts from constitutionally-effective court-martial action is by habeas corpus," it continued.

"Should plaintiffs be convicted in the military courts this course will be available to them."

Attorneys for the two soldiers had contended that a trial by court-martial would violate their constitutional rights on about 15 grounds.

Torres is charged with the murder of four Vietnamese civilians—including one by hanging—and the attempted murder of at least three others. T'Souvas is charged with two counts of premeditated murder.

Both were members of Company C, 1st Battalion, 20th Infantry when the American Division company made a sweep through My Lai in March 1968.

Arrest Five For Disorder

FARMVILLE — Five males, three of them teenagers, were arrested shortly after midnight Saturday in a bout of fighting and brick and rock throwing which resulted in Sergeant Coy Taylor receiving a cut on his wrist.

Arrested and charged with disorderly conduct were Victor Joyner, 16; Geaman J. Fields, 17; Vincent Williams, 17; Vincent Williams, 18; Nathaniel Ellis, 30; and Bill Tyson, 40.

The two men, Ellis and Tyson, were also charged with engaging in an affray. They had been placed in the police car to be taken to the station when someone threw a brick, which entered the open window, smashing Taylor's watch and cutting his wrist.

When police officers got out of the car to investigate, rocks were thrown, and the three teenagers were arrested and charged with disorderly conduct.

This was the last night of duty for Taylor, who is leaving the Farmville Police Department to accept a job with the State Highway Patrol.

PRISONERS FREED

ATHENS (AP) — The Greek military dictatorship today announced the release of 500 political prisoners and said it was part of a "new liberalization policy."

Pennant Fever Is Beginning To Spread

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
"We have to do it right now," said Roberto Clemente.
"These games aren't crucial," said Willie Stargell.
When players on the same baseball team—the Pittsburgh Pirates in this case—start talking in opposite directions it generally means one thing:
Pennant fever is spreading.

It was running rampant in the Bucs' clubhouse—although no one would admit it—after they took advantage of New York's pitching problems Sunday to turn back the Mets 8-3 and regain a 3½-game lead in the National League East.

The teams wrap up the four-game series tonight with the Mets sending their ace, 16-game winner Tom Seaver, against Dock Ellis, 12-8.

In Sunday's other games, San Diego turned back Atlanta 4-2 in the only other single contest. In doubleheader action, Philadelphia beat Chicago 6-1 after the Cubs won the opener 4-1; Montreal nipped St. Louis 7-6, then lost to the Cardinals 4-0; San Francisco ripped Houston 6-1 after the Astros grabbed the first game 7-5 in 10 innings, and Los Angeles shellacked Cincinnati 7-3 and 13-3.

In the American League, the New York Yankees split a pair of 11-inning games with Baltimore, winning the opener 6-4 and losing the nightcap 12-9; Cleveland divided a twin-bill with Washington, dropping the first game 7-3 and capturing the second 6-3; California beat the Chicago White Sox twice, 5-0 and 6-3; Oakland swept two from Minnesota 3-0 and 6-3; Boston topped Detroit 7-4 and Milwaukee defeated Kansas City 4-2.

The Pirates, shooting for their first pennant in a decade, wouldn't permit themselves the luxury of thinking too far ahead in the season—they've got 48 games to play—but they're not above speculating about the opposition.

"It's too early to say what's going to happen," Clemente insisted, "but we have to do it right now. We have to get into a good position for that last month." The Mets and Pirates play seven of their final 10 games this year against each other.

Nolan Ryan was nursing a 3-2 lead when the Bucs opened the seventh inning with a walk and put runners on second and third as Ryan threw Matty Alou's sacrifice bunt past first base.

In came Ray Sadecki who proceeded to give up three more walks—one of them intentional—plus a pair of run-scoring singles and a sacrifice fly and the Pirates led 6-3. They added two more in the eighth on Clemente's triple, a sacrifice fly and Stargell's 23rd homer.

San Diego's Nate Colbert and Ed Spezio cracked solo homers off Pat Jarvis as the Padres beat the Atlanta right-hander for the first time in six decisions.

Beard Looks Ahead To PGA

By BOB GREEN

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Frank Beard took a look ahead to this week's PGA National Championship after picking off the $30,000 first prize in the American Golf Classic.

"No", the soft spoken technician said, "I've never won two consecutive tournaments. I've come close, but I've never won two in a row." Then he paused, smile, and added, "until now," "actually, I'll go to the PGA just like this week never happened. I won't be overly elated and I won't be going in there feeling like I've used it all up."

Beard, who almost didn't come to Akron for the $150,000 classic, fired a conservative 71, one-over-par, on the demanding 7,180-yard Firestone layout in the final round Sunday.

He had a 276, two less than Jack Nicklaus, Bruce Crampton and Tommy Aaron, each tied at 278.

Of the players who had a chance to challenge Beard, only Nicklaus could break par. He had a 69. Crampton, winner the week before, took a 71 and Aaron, who had a share of the top spot until he double bogeyed the 13th, finished with a 72.

George Archer, leader through the first two rounds, had a 73 and was alone at 279.

Tom Shaw, tied with Beard for the No. 1 position going into the final round, double bogeyed two of his first three holes en route to a 75 for 280. Defending champion Ray Floyd had a 75.

Gary Player managed a 69 but was too far back to challenge and finished at 281.

The big check boosted Beard's bankroll for the year to $119,446, the fourth consecutive year he has gone over the $100,000 mark. Nicklaus got $11,600 for his share of second and took over the top money-winning spot at $127,860, passing idle Lee Trevino.

The victory was the 10th of his career and second of the season for Beard, who didn't arrive from Louisville, Ky. until Wednesday night, just hours before the tournament's start, because he and his wife became the parents of their fourth child a day earlier.

"I really didn't decide to come until the baby was born and I knew everything was all right at home. Actually, it was my mother who urged me to come." Beard, last year's leading money winner, said a clutch putt on the first hole was the key. He was in a trap and had to sink a 20 foot putt for par.

"When the ball disappeared in the hole, a big lump in my throat disappeared, too," he said.

Beard Chopping — Frank Beard, who won the $30,000 top prize in the $150,000 American Golf Classic here Sunday, chips from the edge of a trap on the 15th hole. Beard fired a four-under-par 276 on the demanding Firestone Country Club course.

Steelers Have Great Hopes For Bradshaw

By BEN THOMAS

Golden-haired Terry Bradshaw, pro football's No. 1 rookie, has had his baptism of fire in the play-for-pay ranks. Individually, he was a winner, although his team, the Pittsburgh Steelers, lost.

"What an arm," said Coach Don Shula, whose Miami Dolphins beat the Steelers 16-10.

It was one of the 10 exhibition games—first this season—in the National Football League. Collectively, the games Saturday attracted 450,674, more than twice the crowds for 11 major league baseball games the same day.

All 26 teams have games for the upcoming weekend of exhibitions, which runs from Friday night to Monday night. A feature will be a nationally televised, by NBC, game at Kansas City Friday night between the Chiefs and the Baltimore Colts.

The Steelers earned the right to pick Bradshaw, last season's Little All-American quarterback from Louisiana Tech, as the No. 1 rookie after posting a 1-13 record in Chuck Noll's first year as head coach.

Bradshaw—they called him the Blond Bomber in his college days—directed the Steelers on their only touchdown drive, something which veterans Kent Nix and Terry Hanratty couldn't accomplish. Bradshaw threw 19 passes, completing nine for 92 yards.

"Considering it was his first professional game, Terry did a remarkable job," Noll said.

"We have great hopes for Terry and we do think things are getting better with the Pittsburgh Steelers."

Another rookie quarterback who showed well was Bill Cappelman of Florida State, who went the distance for the Minnesota Vikings.

Jim Paschal Made It Big

By BLOYS BRITT

Ernie Derr never made it to the big time of auto racing—at least on the scale of Indianapolis, Darlington or Daytona Beach. He simply had no desire to race at those places.

Jim Paschal not only made it to Darlington and Daytona, but he made it big—$242,000 in winnings in 18 years as a pioneer driver on the South's big ovals.

Both elder statesmen of stock car racing are still around and winning. Paschal, now 45, drove a 1970 Javelin to a lap victory over Mustang's David Pearson in the Blue Hen 200 at Dover, Del., Sunday.

Derr, now pushing 50 and a grandfather twice around, preferred to knock down the fences in his own backyard—the Midwest—and spend most of his time at home with his wife and two sons. Today, he is probably the biggest race winner the sport has ever known. His victory chart shows more than 350 wins in 25 years.

Occasionally he gets beat, as he did last Friday night in a 50-lapper at Burlington, Iowa. Fred Horn, a solid performer himself, handed Derr his fourth defeat in 22 races this year in a neck-and-neck joust on a half mile dirt track.

The loss, however, did little to slow Derr's march toward his 11th straight driving title in the International Motor Contest Association.

Meantime, rain washed out a pair of NASCAR 100 milers. A Grand National event at Kingsport, Tenn., was reset for Aug. 26 and one at Winston-Salem, N.C., for Aug. 28.

The Grand National drivers thus will be idle until this weekend, when they go to Michigan International Speedway near Jackson for a 400-mile event that pays $100,000 in prize money.

On this trip, however, they must conform to a new NASCAR rule designed to reduce the speeds of the huge stockers. Bill France, who heads the NASCAR circuit, ruled that a special plate must be fitted under carburetors to limit the flow of fuel to the engines. The plates are expected to slow the race cars as much as 10 miles an hour.

United States Wins Curtis Cup

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — The United States had the Curtis Cup back in its usual showcase today after continuing domination of the British Isles in the biennial trans-Atlantic competition begun in 1932.

The Americans won the trophy for the sixth straight time and the 12th since its inception by overwhelming their amateur counterparts from overseas 11½-5½ Saturday at Brae Burn Country Club.

The British team, considered one of the strongest in years, was bitterly disappointed. It thought it had a chance of regaining the cup won by the British just twice. Two matches have been tied.

"We did our best, but it wasn't enough," said non-playing captain Jeanne Bisgood of the British team. "We're only sorry we couldn't have done better. We'll just have to try harder in 1972."

The United States collected seven victories and two ties in the 12 singles matches. They won three and halved one in scotch foursome matches.

The Americans were led by western amateur and former national intercollegiate queen Jane Bastanchury, 22, of Whittier, Calif., who won two singles, including one against English amateur champion Dinah Oxley.

Other standouts were Shelley

Hamlin, 21, of Fresno, Calif., Cynthia Hill, 22, of So7th Haven, Mich., nine-time Indiana state champion Alice Dye, 43, of Indianapolis, and Tish Preuss of Pompano Beach, Fla., a five-time Curtis Cup player.

Johnson's Military Hitch Must Have Helped

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

When Alex Johnson and Don Mincher came marching home, the California Angels and Oakland A's each did an abrupt about-face and headed back into the American League's West Division title chase on the double.

Johnson, back from a two-week military reserve hitch, smacked a home run and three singles Sunday as the Angels took a doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox 5-0 and 6-3.

Mincher, a former Minnesota slugger, socked two homers, a double and two singles against his old teammates, delivering six runs in Oakland's 3-0, 6-3 twin killing.

The two sweeps cut the Twins' lead in the West to seven games over the runner-up Angels and eight over the third-place A's.

Elsewhere in the AL, Baltimore and New York divided 11-inning struggles, the Yanks taking the opener 6-4 and the Orioles winning the nightcap 12-9. Washington split with Cleveland, bowing 6-3 after a 7-3 victory; Boston downed Detroit 7-4 and Milwaukee beat Kansas City 4-2.

In National League play, Los Angeles won a pair from Cincinnati 7-3 and 13-3; Pittsburgh whipped the New York Mets 8-3; Philadelphia topped Chicago 6-1 after a 4-1 loss to the Cubs; Montreal nipped St. Louis 7-6, then fell to the Cardinals 2-0; Houston shaded San Francisco

L. League Leaves Wed.

The Little League State Champs leave Raleigh-Durham airport Wednesday for Tampa, Florida. From Tampa they will travel by bus to the ten acre Little League complex.

There will be four teams playing in the divisional tournament and the pairing will be decided Wednesday night. The games will be held at 6 and 8 on Thursday and Friday.

Although the 3 alternates will not be allowed to stay on the site with the team, Ronald Vincent wants them to go. Donations can be sent to Dan Gordon before the team leaves and after they leave the donations can be sent to the Thunderbird Motel in St. Petersburg, Florida. The parents and fans that are going with the team will be staying at the Thunderbird Motel.

The Regionals will be played at the same site, if our team should win the divisional tournament they might be held over or the Little League will fly them back to Greenville and then fly them back to Florida. The Regionals will be held on the 19th and the 20th of this month.

Dixon Takes Singles Crown

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — Tommy Dixon of Raleigh, seeded No. 1, won the boys 18-under singles crown Sunday in the State Junior Closed Tennis Tournament by defeating Randy Merritt of Lexington 6-4, 8-6.

Dixon also won the boys sportsmanship award in the tournament, which drew 357 357 competitors.

The girls 18-under singles title was taken by Beth Hamilton of Cullowhee, who defeated Jane Preyer of Greensboro, 8-6, 4-6, 6-3. Miss Hamilton also won the girls sportsmanship trophy.

Rain caused postponement of seven of the 10 doubles finals. They were rescheduled for today.

7-5 in 10 innings but dropped the nightcap 6-1, and San Diego defeated Atlanta 4-2.

Johnson teamed with fellow reservists Tom Egan and Clyde Wright to engineer the Angels' double victory at Chicago. His run-scoring single and eighth homer of the season gave Wright, pitching on a weekend pass, an early 2-0 lead in the opener and the slender southpaw went on to nail his 15th victory with relief help from Mel Queen.

Johnson stroked two more singles, boosting his average to .322, and scored twice in the nightcap. He trails league leader Carl Yastrzemski of Boston by three points in the AL batting race.

Egan, who completed his two-week Air Force stint with Johnson, caught both games and poled an eighth-inning homer in the opener.

Chuck Dobson, who had a 6-11 lifetime mark against the Twins, handed them their first shutout setback in 126 regular season games to trigger Oakland's sweep before a season-high Minnesota crowd of 41,339. He fired a four-hitter for his seventh consecutive victory since the All-Star break.

Mincher, discarded by the Twins four years ago, drove in two runs in the first game, then delivered four in the nightcap with his 19th and 20th homers.

Roy White powered the Yankees past Baltimore in the first game, tying it with a two-out, two-run single in the ninth and poling a two-run homer in the 11th.

Frank Robinson, out of the Orioles' starting line-up with a shoulder injury, pinch-hit a double in the 11th inning of the nightcap to trigger the deciding three-run volley after the Yanks had fought back from an early 6-0 deficit.

The Senators scored five runs on one hit—Rick Reichardt's two-run single—five walks and an error in the sixth inning of the opener to beat Sam McDowell despite a Cleveland triple play.

The Indians bounced back to earn the split as Tony Horton drilled a two-run homer and Vada Pinson doubled home two more runs.

Yastrzemski beat out an infield single with two out in the first inning and the Red Sox strafed Mickey Lolich for six more hits in succession for a commanding 5-0 jump. Ray Culp blanked the Tigers until the eighth and received ninth-inning relief help from Gary Wagner.

Gus Gil stole home for the deciding run in the seventh, and Dave May drove in two runs with a single and double as the Brewers came from behind to whip Kansas City. Ed Kirkpatrick hit a pair of homers for the Royals.

Roche Is New U.S. Pro Tennis Champ

By DAVE O'HARA

Associated Press Sports Writer
BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP)—Tony Roche of Australia is the new champion of the U.S. Pro Tennis Tournament, but don't write off the king, Rod Laver is dethroned, but still the world ruler.

Roche, 25, spoiled his countryman Laver's 32nd birthday by rallying for a stunning 3-6, 6-4, 1-6, 6-2, 6-2 victory Sunday in the championship windup of the $50,000 event at Longwood.

"All I have to say is that Tony doesn't have any respect for age," Laver said after failing in a bid for his fifth straight U.S. pro title and sixth in seven years.

Laver appeared en route to an easy victory after winning the third set. However, he elected to take a brief rest and, after a 15-minute intermission, Roche bounced back to virtually chase him off the synthetic court baked by a hot sun.

"I don't know what happened to Rod," Roche said. "I played well after the first set, but he just fell away. His game went to pieces. If you are not serving well, you are going to be in trouble. And he had trouble serving."

Despite his victory, Roche warned against writing off Laver, the undisputed king of world tennis who is the all-time top money winner.

Traversers Will Decide Champ

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer
More and more it appears as if the outcome of the $100,000 Traversers at Saratoga a week from Saturday probably will determine the 3-year-old colt champion of 1970.

The results of the Monmouth Invitational Handicap and the Whitney Stakes over the weekend made it evident today that the divisional crown is up for grabs.

At the start of the year Silent Screen, the 2-year-old champion of 1969, was considered the most likely candidate to be voted the 1970 champ in the annual year-end balloting by racing secretaries and sports writers.

Then along came My Dad George, Dust Commander, Personality, Corn Off The Cob, Well Mannered and now Twice Worthy and Judgable.

Twice Worthy, who raced only once in 1969, made his 1970 record four-for-four with an impressive four-length victory in the $100,000 Monmouth handicap that closed out the Monmouth Park meeting.

The son of Ambioipose, ridden by Johnny Ruane, went the 1 1/4 miles in the track record time of 1:48 2-5 and beat a field that included Dust Commander, Well Mannered, Roman Scout, Admiral's Shield and Corn Off The Cob.

Judgable, a fugitive from the $15,000 claiming ranks, scored a decisive three-length triumph over older horses in the $60,400 Whitney.

Just as he did in winning the Dwyer Handicap at Aqueduct as a 39-1 long shot, jockey Bobby Woodhouse took Judgable right to the lead and stayed in front all the way in scoring again at long odds. This time he went off at 28-1.

The son of Delta Judge ran the 1 1/4 miles in 1:48.2-5, the same as Twice Worthy, and humbled a field that included Hydrologist, Dewan, Pleasure Seeker and Verbatim.

Distinctive took the $55,650 William DuPont Jr. Handicap at Delaware Park, Office Queen the $57,500 Cotillion Handicap at Liberty Bell, Pass The Drink the $32,300 Round Table Handicap at Arlington, Cougar II the $22,050 Escondido Handicap at Del mar and L'Aiglon the $21,020 Gen. John Green Handicap at Rockingham.

25 years in the making.

We'd like to thank the makers of the other new economy cars for giving us such a nice head start.

It gave us time to develop an inspection system so ridiculously scrupulous that it expects every VW to pass 16,000 examinations.

It allowed us to find out (at a reasonably scientific pace) how we could double our horsepower without doubling the cost of your horsepower. (The VW still gets about 26 miles to the gallon and requests only a smidgen of oil.)

It permitted us to work on things that didn't even have to do with the actual making of the car. Medi-car, the Volkswagen Diagnosis System, for example. Electronic equipment that can spot trouble in a car before it gets to be trouble. When you buy a new VW, you get 4 free Medi-car checkups.

Of course, it took great fortitude to resist squandering our time on phony styling improvements.

The beetle looks just as good (or bad) as it did 25 years ago.

Tobacco TIPS

By S. J. WEEKS

Tobacco insects that could attack the 1971 tobacco crop can be greatly reduced now by cutting your tobacco stalks and plowing out the stubbles immediately after harvest.

By destroying the stalks, you can reduce the food and breeding places for the hornworm and the flea beetle. Over 90 percent of the hornworms that live through the winter are produced after August 1.

Hornworms and budworms in the pupae stage overwinter in the top two inches of soil, and it is believed they overwinter mostly on the row rather than in the middle. Therefore, many of these pupae could be destroyed by thoroughly plowing out the old stubbles.

In addition to helping reduce the population of insects destructive to tobacco, there are three diseases that can also be reduced by destroying the stalks and plowing out the stubbles. These diseases are brown spot, nematodes and Mosaic.

Several farmers in the county have already completed the harvest of their tobacco crop. Others are completing harvest each day.

If you have finished harvesting your tobacco crop, the time to destroy the tobacco stalks and plow out the stubbles is "right now."

First, cut the stalks. See that they are cut in small pieces to speed up decay. Reduction in brown spot and Mosaic is dependent upon the old crop

Farm Scene

Costly Corn Pest
By HENRY C. RIDDICK

The Southern corn rootworm costs Pitt County peanut growers thousands of dollars each year in damage to peanut crops. Therefore, it would seem a very good management practice to follow a few recommended practices to control this costly pest. The total problem stems from the Spotted Cucumber Beetle. The Spotted Cucumber beetle produces eggs that hatch into larvae which are then called the Southern corn rootworm. It is this larvae that causes the damage.

This insect has been taken from a very large number of plants including more than 200 of the most common weeds, grasses and cultivated crops. The peanut plant seems to be a favorite food. A lot of peanut farmers say it is the number one food for this insect pest. The injury to the peanuts by the larvae is caused principally by boring into the pod. Even where the feeding of the larvae may not be serious, the pods are left to decay by soil organisms. Also, when root worms chew on the peanut hull they allow entrance of pod rot organisms and fungi.

residue rotting and decaying before the next crop. A rotary mower would do an excellent job of cutting the stalks.

Next, the old root system should be completely destroyed for the most effective reduction of nematodes. This can be done effectively with either a bottom plow or a "middle buster."

Each day you delay this practice after the harvest is completed will mean more disease and insect damage to the 1971 crop.

But pod rot can develop without root worm injury, but if you have had pod rot problems they might be complicated by rootworm damage.

Often the tip of the shoot of the peg will be attacked or killed before they start enlarging to form the pod and many pods are caused this way, thus reducing yield and income.

Southern corn rootworms seem to be more of a problem on heavy soils than on light soils, therefore, not as much insecticide is needed to control this pest on these soils. Also, if your field has had a history of light infestation, the rate can also be reduced. By using the proper insecticide, this pest can be controlled through the early part of August.

One should remember to never use more insecticide than the recommended rate. Not only does this increase cost of control, but increases danger from the insecticide or chemical.

Insecticides that control rootworm are Diazinon, Thimet, and Dyfonate. Check with your local dealer or county extension agent for the recommended rates.

One word about the safe use of insecticides. Insecticides are poisons, they are poisonous to both insects and humans. Give due consideration to the safe use of any farm chemical. Before application, read the label — it takes only a few minutes and these few minutes may save you a few years. When you have finished the application of insecticide, destroy all containers, don't leave them hanging on a fence post, or thrown in a pile — bury them.

ECU Political Science Group On Tour Of Europe

By FRANCEINE PERRY
Who travels in Europe for six weeks, conferring with nearly 50 important political leaders, enjoying the world's great capitals and meeting interesting people from half a dozen foreign countries — all for a mere $750?

In Western Europe) and their professor, Dr. Hans Indorf. The course — a concentrated first-hand study-analysis of European politics — is an innovation in American education. No other college or university has such a program. This is the third year that East Carolina has offered the course-tour, and as a result of this, ECU has become quite well-known among European political institutions — a highly gratifying side-effect. The idea behind the course, says Dr. Indorf, is to allow the students to escape the textbook and "really get involved" in the actual processes of government. "There is a need in our field, and in others too, to go out and ask questions of the people who make things happen; it is more informative and more interesting than merely reading about them," he explained.

The knowledge gained by the students is primarily the product of their "field research" — interviews, observation and reading the publications of various institutions concerned with the European political situation. Since the information is mostly available from direct confrontation with government personnel, the students must learn to take notes rapidly, ask pertinent questions and generally be on guard for important facts.

The ECU group interviews a variety of political notables, such as government advisors, members of parliaments and other legislative assemblies, diplomats, news commentators, labor leaders, political party officials and officers of student organizations. This summer's course-tour involved personal contact with the Swedish Vice-Consul in Germany, an economic advisor to the Danish Trade Union Federation, officials of all four of Britain's political parties and a member of the central committee of the French Communist party. Information acquired from the interviews and other forms of field research is incorporated into a comprehensive term paper concerned with a specific topic which each student must complete by the beginning of the fall quarter. And, at intervals during the trip, the students take written examinations on their background reading, given oral progress reports on their research projects, hear lectures by their professor and visit libraries.

"Overseas response to our requests for interviews and general cooperation is quite good," says Dr. Indorf. "Governmental and political organizations in Europe seem very sympathetic to students; they are actually delighted to talk with us." The day-to-day events of the tour are recorded in a "European diary," an annual production compiled from personal impressions of the students.

It gives an informal account of the various activities of the tour, ranging from a drink-and-song fest in a German Biergarten to a surprise birthday party for Dr. Indorf to a ferryride from Calais to the White Cliffs of Dover. Obviously, the educational value of the trip is not confined to opportunities of studying European government. Dr. Indorf emphasizes the fact that the group makes a point of trying to know the people of the countries they visit. They stay at inns and at student hostels rather than large hotels, and they always use public transportation. "The tour is a 24-hour education," says Dr. Indorf. "Even sitting at a table in one of the sidewalk cafes in Paris, or going to the theatre, or attending

Don Ho Works For $24,500 Per Week

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Waikiki commuter Don Ho has one of the sweetest deals in show business — $6.5 million for the next five years — but little time to enjoy it.

when you figure I was making $2,500 a week three years ago and paying the band out of that, too." The Cinerama contract goes beyond singing "Pearly Shells" nightly for the visitors in the Aloha shirts. "It also includes films and development projects," Ho said. "Cinerama will help promote my records, and will run a short film I'm making in its theaters. Not just here, but in theaters in Europe, where I'm known."

"I'm not too keen on doing a movie. Maybe I could do one where I'm not an actor. I might just do one movie and quit." Ho was in Hollywood to record his next album, his first with such Hawaiian standards as "Sweet Leilani," "Blue Hawaii," "Beyond the Reef", etc. He has long eschewed such island trade marks in favor of newer, more pop Hawaiian tunes "Tiny Bubbles," "One Paddle, Two Paddle," etc.

"I waited until I could find someone who could give those old songs a kind of Bacharach feel," said the singer. His arranger is Don Costa, who has worked with Andy Williams and Frank Sinatra. The recordings have to be done here — "there just aren't enough good musicians in Hawaii." That has meant regular flights on his Sunday off from Duke Kahanamoukous, where he is finishing up his contract. Twenty times this year he has spent 24 hours in Hollywood, then has flown back for the Monday night show in Waikiki.

Don Ho is a low-key entertainer who could make Perry Como seem as nervous as Don Knotts. But there's a lot of wit and considerable talent in the easy-going performances for Hawaiian tourists. Money, too. Recently Cinerama, which has branched into the hotel business in Hawaii, announced a five-year contract with Ho that will pay him $24,500 per week eight months a year — or 12 months, if he chooses to stay at home instead of playing Las Vegas and other mainland spots.

Cinerama is so high on its new box that it will build a million-dollar night club for him at the Reef Hotel on the beach at Waikiki. "It's all kinda hard to believe," says Ho, "especially

One student this year, after having surmounted the language barrier in Brussels, Hamburg, Stockholm and Copenhagen, was compelled by the force of habit to inquire of a passerby in a London street, "Do you speak English?" He was quelled by a frosty British stare and the reply, "Yes. Fluently." John B. Clark, son of Sarah F. Clark of 304 Moore St., Greenville, was among those on the tour.
