Senate Expected To Join House In Overriding Veto Of Education Money Bill

By JOE HALL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is expected to follow the lead of the House and override President Nixon's veto of a $4.4 billion education bill. It would be Nixon's second such defeat this year.

But in a history-making day of considering two presidential vetoes, the House sustained Nixon's rejection of an omnibus $18 billion appropriations bill carrying funds for housing, veterans, the space agency and a score of other programs.

The vote on that one was 203-195, a majority but 63 short of two-thirds.

The second House vote ended any chance for the omnibus measure and made it necessary for the Appropriations Committee to go to work to draft another one.

There is some sentiment at the Capitol for deeper cuts in the space program to preserve the extra funds provided in the original bill for veterans and for such programs as urban renewal.

Republican leaders noted the Senate passed the education bill 88-0 in agreeing privately with Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield that the measure would be enacted into law over Nixon's objections.

Nixon objected to the bill because it exceeded budget recommendations by $541 million. The bulk of the increases are for two programs which the Senate long has supported.

One is the Elementary and Secondary Education Act designed to improve education for children from poor families. The other is the impacted areas program which provides federal grants for school districts overcrowded because of nearby federal installations.

Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough, D-Tex., chairman of the Labor and Public Welfare Committee which handles education bills, said he believes the action of Congress on the vetoed measure will show its determination "to meet the domestic needs of this nation."

"It is not inflationary to meet the domestic needs of this nation," he declared.

If the President wants to fight inflation effectively, he should use the veto "on some of the wild spending for unproven weapons and on wild spending for his enlarged and expanding war in Southeast Asia," the Texan said.

Nixon has exercised his veto power four times this year. Of these, two were sustained and two overridden. He was upheld in January on the veto of an education appropriation but overruled in June when he rejected a hospital construction measure.

In Thursday's House vote on the education measure, 77 Republicans joined 212 Democrats in voting against the President's veto. Supporting him were 101 Republicans and 13 Democrats.

Heroin-User's Blood Accepted

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Army and a commercial blood bank accepted two pints of blood from a heroin-using Ft. Bragg, N.C., soldier infected with malaria, the U.S. Center for Disease Control reported today.

blood, but he has shown no symptoms of malaria. Military authorities were notified about the blood the Army accepted, said the center.

Army medical authorities treating the soldier said he admitted the use of heroin for the six months preceding donation of the blood. The soldier said he had not shared needles with companions who also used heroin, but the center said two of them had contracted malaria in Vietnam. The soldier had never been there, said the army.

"He had never traveled to Vietnam or to any other malarious area and he had never received a blood transfusion," said the report.

SCARES SPEEDERS

KYOTO, Japan (UPI)—Police erected a life-sized model of a traffic cop near a bridge on a major highway in an attempt to scare speeders into slowing their vehicles. The eyes and Sam Browne belt on the dummy were covered with luminous paint to attract night drivers.

The center's weekly morbidity and mortality report says the commercial blood bank shipped its pint to New York where it was soon given a patient undergoing treatment for a fractured hip.

The second unit, reports the center, was sent to Vietnam by the Army. The 20-year-old soldier donated the blood June 22 and 23 and the next day he reported to sick bay with the symptoms of a malaria.

The center said the blood bank was able to trace the New York recipient of the soldier's

Gus Hewlett, executive director of the North American Association of Alcoholism, was the featured speaker at a banquet last night for the representatives to the Eastern Regional School of Alcohol Studies held here this week. Howard Dawkins, regional alcoholism program coordinator, welcomed those attending the banquet.

Don Dancy, regional program director introduced the guest speaker for the evening, Gus Hewlett.

Dancy stated in his introduction, "We need a training program for more people to help alcoholics and a program to prevent people from becoming alcoholics."

Hewlett told the group, "The attitude toward drinking depends on the location and the national attitudes or policy - the do's and don't's of drinking."

MacDonald Defense Lawyers Prepare To Wind Up Their Case

By RICHARD DAW
Associated Press Writer
FT. BRAGG, N. C. (AP) — Defense attorneys prepared to wind up their case today with further testimony by Capt. Jeffrey MacDonald at an Army hearing into murder charges against him.

MacDonald, 27, a Green Beret physician from Patchogue, N. Y., denied tearfully as he began his testimony Thursday that he killed his pregnant wife and two children last Feb. 17.

"Did you kill your wife and two children?" MacDonald's voice choked, he began to cry and after a moment, said, "No," the attorneys said.

The attorneys said they then asked him: "Did your wife kill your children?"

They said he gripped the witness table tightly, fought back more tears and replied: "No." MacDonald faced cross-examination by the prosecution after completing his testimony for the defense. There was no indication whether the prosecution would seek additional time to present rebuttal evidence before the close of the hearing.

Once the proceedings close, the hearing officer, Col. Warren V. Rock, will review the evidence and decide whether to recommend trial for MacDonald at a general court-martial.

Before MacDonald began testifying Thursday, his father-in-law Alfred Kassab of Stony Brook, N.Y., had testified he was convinced of MacDonald's innocence, the attorneys said. They said Kassab testified: "If I had another daughter, I would want the same man for my son-in-law."

The hearing had taken testimony earlier Thursday from a mystery witness whose defense attorney said identified by name some of the persons MacDonald contends attacked him and slew his family.

The attorneys said the witness, whose identity was kept a secret because he reportedly feared for his life, identified a sketch of one of the alleged killers as a man he knew in a Fayetteville hippie section.

The sketch was drawn for the defense by an artist from MacDonald's description.

The attorneys also said the witness could identify a girl similar to the one MacDonald described as among the alleged killers. The attorneys refused to say whether authorities had begun looking for the persons the witness mentions.

The Army also declined to say whether any search was under way.

The attorney said the witness told of seeing the man who matched the sketch and the girl who matched MacDonald's description getting out of a car near the witness' home in Fayetteville early on the mornings of the slayings. The witness placed the time as between 3:45 and 4:30 a.m., the attorneys said.

Military police came to the MacDonald home after he had called a telephone operator for help between 3 and 4 a.m.

When they arrived at MacDonald's Ft. Bragg home, the military police found him suffering from several stab wounds and his wife, Colette, 26, and daughters Kimberly 6, and Kristen, 2, dead.

Squalls

MIAMI (AP)—An intense tropical depression lashed the Atlantic with dangerous squalls today, posing a threat to ship lanes 100 miles north of Puerto Rico.

"The depression may become better organized during the day and intensify into a tropical storm," said the Weather Bureau at San Juan.

Ship reports told of strong squalls with winds of 60 miles an hour in the north quadrant. An Air Force plane flew into the disturbance during the morning.

The depression was centered near Latitude 20.0 north, Longitude 65.5 west. It was moving west-northwest at about 18 miles an hour.

No threat was posed to Puerto Rico or the Virgin Islands, but interests in the northern Dominican Republic and eastern Bahamas were alerted to later bulletins.

"Ships in the vicinity of the depression should take precautions against rough seas and occasional strong and dangerous squalls," said a Weather Bureau bulletin.

Harder Parley Stance

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel will take a harder attitude toward peace negotiations with the Arabs as a result of Egypt's reported movement of missiles closer to the Suez Canal, authoritative sources said today.

The sources indicated, following a day of consultations among top government leaders, that the Israeli government feels no progress can be made in the talks until the missile issue is cleared up.

There were indications that the government might not name a representative for the talks until it got satisfaction on the missile issue. Asked about this, Foreign Minister Abba Eban said the government considers it "most important" to clarify the matter with the United States.

The government received information earlier this week, and passed it on to Washington, that the Egyptians had moved several SAM antiaircraft missile batteries to sites 12 and 18 miles from the canal soon after the current cease-fire began last Friday night. Egyptian officials in Cairo denied the report.

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan told the Knesset, Israel's parliament, that the United States bears a "heavy responsibility" because it proposed the 90-day cease-fire so that indirect peace negotiations might be held again. These had been expected to start soon, in Cyprus or New York, with the special U.N. envoy for the Middle East, Gunnar Jarring, as go-between.

Dayan said Israel has demanded that the United States see to it that the missiles are withdrawn to their previous positions. He also made the text of the truce agreement public for the first time and said the Egyptians violated the "key clause," calling for no change in the military status for 30 miles on either side of the canal, and for neither side to "introduce or construct any new military installations in these zones."

He later sent a formal complaint to Maj. Gen. Ensis Siilvasuo, the Finnish chief of the U.N. observer team in the Middle East, claiming the Egyptians had introduced a "significant number" of missiles as close as 12 miles to the canal.

MUNITIONS SHIP READY TO SCUTTLE — An old World War II liberty ship, the SS LeBaron Russell Briggs, will carry to sea deadly nerve gas rockets that will be sunk off the coast of Florida next week. This is one of several flood valves on the deck of the ship that will let in sea water that will scuttle the old ship. (AP Wirephoto)

Judge To Decide Today Whether To Halt Army Dumping Of Nerve Gas

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A judge was to decide today whether to halt the Army's destruction of surplus nerve gas as workers loaded the concrete-encased rockets aboard a rusty ship for a final voyage to the bottom of the Atlantic.

Army officials said the loading at Sunny Point, N.C., might be completed late today, allowing the ship and the 2,675 tons of deadly nerve gas to begin the final ocean trip Saturday, a day ahead of schedule.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge June L. Green of Washington promised a decision today on a suit by an environmental group seeking to halt the dumping operation.

Plans call for sinking of the LeBaron Russell Briggs and its cargo Tuesday, 282 miles east of Cape Kennedy, Fla.

The suit, contending there are safer ways of disposing of the gas, asked a delay in the operation until alternatives are studied.

Lola Lea, lawyer for the Environmental Defense Fund, argued Thursday that the Army erred in determining the ship will not break up before reaching the bottom of the ocean.

The suit said the ship and concrete coffins containing the gas might break up before reaching bottom, 16,000 feet down. This would allow the gas to escape and contaminate the environment, the suit said.

The Army theory is the ship will sink slowly and ocean pressure will cause the coffins to break up gradually, allowing the gas to escape slowly without harming marine life.

The suit, in which Florida Gov. Claude Kirk joined, also questioned the dumping of 10 1/2 pounds of VX nerve gas contained in a land mine in the shipment.

This gas is a more persistent type than the GB gas which makes up most of the cargo, the suit noted. If released into the water prematurely, it would retain half strength more than 12 years.

Once the GB gas escapes into the water, the Army says, chemical action will render it harmless within 10 hours.

A droplet of either gas can kill in minutes.

Britons See Little Risk

LONDON (AP) — The British government said today its study of U.S. plans to dump obsolete stocks of lethal nerve gas in the Atlantic showed little pollution hazard.

A team of British experts said American plans for dumping nerve gas rockets three miles deep in the ocean, 283 miles off Cape Kennedy, Fla., "seemed satisfactory."

The experts said they expected the dumping "will cause no appreciable harmful effect."

The conclusions of the experts, accepted by the British government, were disclosed by the foreign office.

About 3,000 tons of nerve gas rockets sealed in steel and concrete containers are to be dumped in the Atlantic Aug. 18, loading Loading of the containers is now under way at Sunny Point, N.C.

Britain had expressed concern over the dumping plan, after colonial governments in Bermuda and the Bahamas voiced fears of pollution in nearby waters.

Opponents in the United States, including Florida Gov. Claude Kirk, are seeking a court order to stop the scuttling operation.

Test Case

RALEIGH (AP)—A preliminary hearing is scheduled in Duplin County Superior Court Aug. 26 on three motions in a case growing out of the refusal of Jones County to participate in the Federal Work Incentive Program (WIN).

The case is the first in North Carolina to test a county's right to refuse allocating matching funds for a welfare program.

Jones refused last year to appropriate its share of funds. A suit was filed against the county last November by Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan and state Social Services Commissioner Clifton Craig.

Jones and 10 other counties were selected to participate in the WIN program this year, but it again refused along with five other counties.

One of the motions to be argued before Judge Joseph Parker at Kenansville Aug. 26 was filed by the state. It asks the court to file a supplemental complaint requiring Jones to allocate funds for the WIN program.

Two motions filed by Jones County challenge the authority of the Social Services Department and the U.S. Department of Labor to include the county in the WIN program. The motions also ask that certain portions of the state's complaint be altered.

Doctor Needs Self-Therapy

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: The advice you give, "seek professional help," is good, except for one hitch. One should check on any prospective therapist first.

I went to a kook whose office walls are festooned with degrees but he must have left his ethics behind in grade school. Three years and thousands of dollars later, I wound up with a divorce. The grounds? Adultery. The man? My therapist. [And I'm not even good looking.]

Therapy often causes women patients to "fall in love" with their doctors, but the competent [and ethical] psychiatrist knows how to handle this situation.

A little investigating later turned up the facts that my doctor was known for tom-cating around. He is still sitting around "helping" people, raking it in and no doubt putting out.

Me? I have a ruined marriage, two fatherless children and no money. Please print this. It might save some unsuspecting woman from my fate.

BITTER

DEAR BITTER: Most therapists wouldn't touch a patient with a 10-foot pole. You just happened to get the local Lochinvar. However, YOU are in a better position than I am to "save some unsuspecting woman from the same fate." Report your doctor to the county medical society. He desperately needs therapy himself, and shouldn't be permitted to practice.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have been married for 9 years. We have four daughters, 7, 5, 4 and 2. We own our own business, own an average home, and drive an average late model car.

My wife is just about the most wonderful woman in the world. She's a great cook, an excellent housekeeper and a fine mother. She loves to work in the yard, seldom raises her voice or loses her temper and we get along beautifully.

Our children are exceptionally well-behaved and we have wonderful friends. My wife loves my folks, and I love hers.

My problem, Dear Abby, is that I am about to go completely out of my mind trying to figure out how a bum like me ever got into such a wonderful situation. Should I accept the fact that I am the luckiest guy in the world, or should I just keep trying to figure this thing out?

DAVE IN EUGENE, OREGON

DEAR DAVE: Accept it. And also knock on wood and bite your tongue.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were eager to entertain at home after our marriage last year. We have invited friends for cocktails, brunch, foreign meals, buffet dinners and after-theater suppers. We were pleased with the high number of acceptances, and our guests always seemed to have a good time. As newlyweds we live in a small apartment in a new high-rise building in the "city." But in spite of the limited area of entertaining, we have opened our doors to about 150 guests—some of them four or five times.

However, sadly, we must admit, only three couples have reciprocated thus far. The rest are still repeating meaningless phrases, like "drop in sometime," or, "we MUST get together soon."

Of course we don't intend to "drop in." We are dropping OFF—their names from our list of future guests. Isn't that the only answer?

DISAPPOINTED

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: Yes, I think in your "eagerness" to get into the social swim, you may have "gone off the deep end." To invite the same people four and five times without a reciprocal invitation from them appears to me as "social climbing." Stick with those who have returned your invitations. If you have only three couples who appreciate your company and hospitality, you're doing well.

DEAR ABBY: What is all this commotion about fat women? My wife is 30 pounds heavier than she was when we were married, but for crying out loud, she is also 30 years older? She is stylish and immaculate and she always looks beautiful because she has sense enough to wear the proper foundation garments.

She doesn't LOOK as heavy as she is because she is never bouncing, sagging or bursting at the seams. Just because a woman is "fat" doesn't mean she has to be sloppy.

Attitude Clearly Spelled Out

The new policy toward campus disruptions adopted by the executive committee of the University of North Carolina Trustees spells out much more clearly than ever before for students, faculty, administrators and for the public the University's attitude toward disruptive activities. It is an important, timely, and in our judgment, a most constructive document that should serve the best interest of every segment of the University community and the state as a whole.

The policy makes it amply clear that authority for dealing with campus disruptions is now placed in the hands of the chancellor on each campus. It spells out in sufficient detail what is expected of students, faculty and administrators.

Perhaps most important of all, it makes it amply clear that disruptive practices will not be tolerated on the campuses of the University, and that direct action will be taken against those who participate in such activities.

The new policy statement does not muzzle minority views nor does it move toward silencing voices of dissent. At the same time it clearly says that disruption and violence will not be tolerated and that the University function of education will not be brought to a standstill by those who engage in such activities.

The policy is fair and forthright as well as firm. It preserves the rights of those who would protest that which they dislike in this society. It also protects the rights of others on the University campus as well.

The policy statement deserves the support of every segment of the University community and the support of the rest of the people of the state as well.

Dissent About Streamlining

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — State government reorganization is taking on the aspect of an iceberg for the study committee named by Governor Bob Scott to chart out the course.

The submerged dimensions of the task are being explored by four subcommittees as the 50-member group works to prepare its report to the Governor and the 1971 General Assembly.

They are discovering beneath the visible surface accord for the reorganization principle a body of disagreement on how to shuffle North Carolina's 300-plus agencies, boards and commissions into 25 or fewer administrative departments. They are finding, too, that implementation is a far more extensive undertaking than meets the eye.

Discontent, at some levels of state officialdom with the preliminary grouping of agencies under reorganization will come to light August 21 at hearings before subcommittee No. 1, concerned with the structuring of agencies.

Mercer Doty, who heads the staff for the committee study, said a dozen or so agencies are expected to appear. They will present their case for leaving their position in state government undisturbed, or for an assignment different from the one given them as the result of the one-year study which preceded the appointment of the Governor's Committee.

"Some of their arguments are very sound," said Doty. "Their point of view should be heard."

The agenda for the hearings was made up on the basis of responses to a questionnaire sent to all state agencies, asking their appraisal of their place in the reorganization scheme. John Morrissey, general counsel of the N. C. Association of County Commissioners, is chairman of subcommittee No. 1.

Meanwhile, subcommittee No. 4 which deals with implementation has been advised that making reorganization a reality will take longer than had been at first supposed.

Jim Bullock, assistant attorney general, told a recent meeting of the subcommittee that up to two years of legal research and drafting will be required before a full plan of reorganization can be adequately presented to the legislature.

'73 Will Be Crucial
This means that the crucial session would come in 1973, rather than 1971 in looking towards implementation by 1975.

It will be up to the subcommittee, and the full study committee, to decide the timetable on which to move:

whether to proceed with a selected area of reorganization in 1971, or to wait until the full plan is drafted and submit the package in 1973.

David J. Whichard of Greenville, editor of The Daily Reflector, is chairman of subcommittee No. 4.

The other subcommittees are: No. 2, dealing with duties and responsibilities for the heads of reorganized state departments, chaired by State Rep. Dwight Quinn of Kannapolis; No. 3, concerned with staff support for the Governor's office under reorganization, chaired by Ralph Biggerstaff of Mebane.

State Senator John T. Henley of Hope Mills, chairman of the Governor's

BRYAN HAISLIP
Committee on State Government Reorganization, has expressed confidence that a plan can be developed which will win legislative approval.

No firm target date has been set, but it is expected that the subcommittees will complete their work by early fall. Then the full committee will draw together and prepare its report for submission to the governor by December 1.

An earlier hurdle is the November general election, when voters will be asked to approve the enabling constitutional amendment. As unanimously adopted by both houses of the 1969 General Assembly, it would provide for a reduction in the number of state administrative departments to 25 with authorization for the governor to reorganize the departments subject to legislative approval.

Campaign For Approval
Coming
Doty said plans for a campaign in support of the amendment are not yet fixed. However, the committee is aware that a positive presentation of the case must be made to assure its passage.

So far there has been no overt opposition to reorganization — it ranks with motherhood as a subject for universal approval. At the same time, there are negative currents that may influence the outcome: among state employees who fear reorganization as a hazard to their jobs; among the cynical who see it as simply adding another layer of bureaucratic cost to government; among minor state officials or agencies who would rather not be reorganized out of existence.

United Fund Agencies Deserve Full Support

The United Fund board of directors has adopted a $126,387 budget for the year and it strikes us that the budget is reasonable.

Soon the drive for funds will be getting underway and the county should do what was done for the first time last year — that is meet the quota which will support this adopted budget.

Hopefully this year's drive can be completed quickly. All of the participating agencies in United Fund deserve the community's full support.

Science Hunts More Protein

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scientists are rummaging through trash cans, sifting the sea and harvesting fungi and germs in the quest for cheap, plentiful sources of protein, the body's most important tissue builder.

Their search, reported at the Third International Congress on Food Science and Technology now underway here, is fueled by the realization that in the standing-room-only world of the future—and in already crowded countries—space is at a premium for the animals which provide men with protein.

Protein deficiency is a vital factor in the 10,000 deaths the United Nations estimates occur daily from hunger or malnutrition.

In the United States, according to an Agriculture Department survey, most people get more than enough protein. North Americans on the average eat 66 grams of animal protein a person per day, supplemented by milk, eggs and cereals.

But the individual consumption of animal protein in the Near East averages 14 grams, in Africa 11 grams and in Asia 8 grams.

It is in the animal-poor countries where scientists are pressing hardest to extract the proteins directly from grasses, grains and other substances.

South Africans, Colombians and Guatemalans are already drinking beverages endowed with the exotic-sounding names of "Pro-Nutro" and "Incaparina" and fortified by protein extracted from soybeans. Indians enrich biscuits and candies with peanut flour. And even in the United States, firms are test-marketing protein-enriched flour and noodles.

The products being tapped for protein depend on what's available: corn tassels at Kansas State University, sugar cane waste in Colombia, coconuts in The Philippines, weeds in Portugal, "junk fish" in Seattle, fungi and bacteria in England, seaweed, algae and microbes in Japan.

C.R. Gatellier of the French Petroleum Institute reported on plans in France, Japan and Russia to produce protein from a yeast culture grown in a petroleum medium. He estimated the protein will be ready for feeding to animals in the decade and to humans by the next.

Researchers cite this comparison: A 1,000-pound steer makes about a pound of useful protein in a day, while 1,000 pounds of yeast can make 4,000 pounds of protein in the same period.

There are problems. Swiss researchers reported their soybean flour produced stomach gas. Researchers are being careful to scan their substances for any toxic or cancerous elements.

But the problems will be solved, say scientists. Dr. Philip Handler, president of the U.S. National Academy of Sciences, notes that synthetic food research is one reason why old predictions of eventual famine are piling.

"It need not, and probably will not, be the food supply which limits our future populations or the quality of our civilization," he said.

Strength For Today

CERTAINTY
A little tyke trudges along the street at his mother's side. He gives us an impish grin. Maybe he thinks he owns the earth and maybe he doesn't. If he gets plenty of food, plenty of play and not too repressive discipline he will apparently pull through without too much injury.

But with all his apparent self-sufficiency he keeps hold of his mother's hand. This is a true indication of how he feels—childhood and youth are not periods of confidence and self-sufficiency. They are periods of haunting anxiety. The average kid isn't exactly sure what is going to happen, but he holds on to mother's hand just in case.

No matter what the voting age turns out to be we shall find that the longer we live the more we reach up for a sustaining hand. Over the centuries people have found that when the hand that leads them is divine and self-sufficient they can go through their daily tasks, tribulations, anxieties and frustrations with a sense of security.

The impish grin gets us nowhere. A hand from heaven reaching down and grasping our hand gives the confidence and self-sufficiency we need. Nothing else can do this.

And this is a day when we have to be certain and trustful regarding truth — especially religious truth. — Earl L. Douglass

TAHITI — If I had my life to live all over again, I'd live it as the CIA man stationed at Tahiti. You get up in the morning and see if there are any ships in the lagoon. If there are, you write down their names on a piece of paper in code, stick it in an envelope addressed to an old lady in Salt Lake City (who forwards it on to Washington), and you have the rest of the day to snorkel, spear fish, water ski, sail and drink slow rum punches with lovely schoolteachers, airline stewardesses and the daughters of French Planters who were born during World War II.

I met one of these chaps at the bar in the Hotel Tahara which is set in a mountain overlooking the Lagoon of Papeete. I immediately knew he was a CIA man because at exactly 9 o'clock he faced the sea and started striking his Zippo lighter on and off, despite the fact he had no cigarette in his mouth.

When the bartender confirmed he did this every night, I decided the man was either a CIA agent or had just given up smoking.

He was surprised I had been seen through his cover so easily. "Most people think I work for the Encyclopaedia Britannica," he said.

"Whom are you trying to signal?" I asked him.

"Our man over there on the Island of Moorea. We haven't heard from him in over a year. I'm beginning to suspect foul play."

"How could that be?" I asked him.

"Emile Debecque, that's his name, was a French planter who knew Moorea like a book. We needed a coast-watcher who would station himself there and report to us on any Japanese ships trying to sneak into the lagoon."

"But why?" I said. "The war with Japan has been over for 25 years."

"Every Japanese ship going East that pulls into Papeete is carrying television sets, portable radios, cameras and

Other Editors Say Toughen The Rules

(Christian Science Monitor)

At the outset, we should say that we don't think much of games of chance in principle — we believe provenance comes from a source other than luck, or fortune, and it is a cruel deception to support practices which lead people to think otherwise.

Games of skill may be another matter.

But as the evidence comes in that promotional games of chance and skill are deceptive in practice as well as principle, we are deeply concerned. Especially when it appears that companies using questionable games techniques are regularly let off by the Federal Trade Commission with a promise not to mislead the public game.

What troubles us are "games" like these:

A bingo game sponsored by a soft-drink company last year, in which the entrants weren't told that some questions required more than one answer.

A hamburger chain sweepstakes advertised as worth $500,000 but which paid out only $13,000.

A gas station game, involving 20,000 retail outlets, in which winning and non-winning drawing entries weren't randomly mixed.

This is deception. And it must be ended.

It could be ended in several ways. First, the FTC could require the host company to make a settlement with those who entered a contest, on the basis of which answers might have met a reasonable interpretation of the rules. The FTC is threatening this in the case of the soft-drink company.

Second, the FTC could encourage the writing of a set of really effective rules for such games by Congress. The danger here is that the companies might merely work out craftier games to subvert the new rules.

And third, most drastic of all, outlaw such games entirely. There are strong arguments for this latter measure. According to testimony in Congress last year, only 10 percent of prizes advertised are ever awarded. The cost of games pushes up prices an average 7 percent, for which the consumer gets nothing at all of value.

On what grounds can the misleading giveaway gimmick be justified? That to abolish it would be to discriminate against industry's right to gain competitive advantage? But advantage against whom? Others in the industry or against the consumer?

Boyle Views Life

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

While age fears youth today, youth fears age somewhat too. Young people are particularly distrustful of older people who can compete with them in any field and who refuse to "act their age." They prefer old people who submit tamely to life and have one foot in the grave. Such oldsters are no threat to them.

The average bowler is shorter, heavier and more congenial than the average golfer. He is also more likely to drink beer, smoke a cigar, and have more trouble keeping his shirttail in while he plays. Think twice before lending money to a guy who habitually wears a tie clip. Anybody who is that neat and orderly in his dress ought to have his financial affairs in order also—and therefore have no need to borrow.

Most of the people who are sentimentally clamoring for the government to save the nation's long-distance passenger trains haven't taken a trip on one in the last 10 years.

It is hard to understand why women are so stoutly resisting the efforts of some fashion designers to get them out of mini-skirts and into maxiskirts. After all, Whistler's mother wears a maxiskirt in her son's famous painting—and looks real nice.

An old-timer is a fellow who can remember when folks didn't think much of a medicine unless the label claimed it could cure not only the specific ailment they had but also half a dozen other diseases they might acquire later.

Something good can be found in every dirty movie—but that isn't why people stand in line to see it.

Our values do change with time. Can't you recall when a man thought his date was a gold digger if she ordered the $2 steak a la carte in a restaurant instead of taking the $1 blueplate special like a lady?

The trouble with going to a baseball game anymore is that by the time the game is over you need another shave.

If you jump when the phone on your desk rings, you need to get another job, take a long vacation—or quit dipping into the office ready cash fund.

Life is getting more interesting with each passing generation. The man who used to kill time by going over to the barbershop to watch a haircut now has a grandson who does the same thing by going to the beach and watching a girl in a bikini get a sunburn.

Now Everybody Wants A Gift

By ELMER ROESSNER
Banks have mucked things up for many businesses.

The recent spasm of so-called gifts for new accounts in many cities in the country irritated many retailers. They figured that banks were giving away the same items they were trying to sell.

There is still some doubt how much good the giveaways did for banks as a whole. Some banks claimed substantial increases in deposits. Others admitted that some people simply drew money out of one bank and deposited it in another. There were some cases in which depositors withdrew money from one branch and then deposited it in another branch of the same bank, picking up a gift in the process.

Now the give-away gimmick is spreading to other fields. A New York clothing chain offers free radios, watches and other "free" gifts with purchases of $100 or more. (It features men's suits at $99.) Other clothiers are meeting the competition.

Credit Card Demands
Ford recently gave $24 children's wagons for a penny to purchasers of station wagons. Amana Refrigeration is offering a golf club with the purchase of its refrigerators. A Columbus furniture store offered a used car or a pony with every purchase of $129 or more but gave it up. Used cars cost too much and while kids loved them, parents didn't want a pony around the house.

The entrance of banks into the credit-card field, with multi-million-dollar promotions focused public attention on the costs of store and restaurant participation.

Now consumers are well aware of the fact that those establishments that accept credit cards pay from 5 to 8 per cent for the collection of the deferred charges, and that card carriers pay at the rate of about 18 per cent a year on their charges after 30 days.

This is causing many customers to ask for discounts for cash. Some vendors will grant a discount; others won't.

ELMER ROESSNER

However, when a customer says, "All right, I have a Such-and-Such credit card," vendors will usually grant a discount.

And some cash buyers pass by stores and restaurants that display signs saying credit cards are "honored," believing that prices have been pushed up 5 to 8 per cent to recover the costs of credit care services.

Little People Get Break; S&L's Raise The Dickens
Fat interest rates are largely for the rich, the loansharks and the savings institutions. Small savers are limited by law and Federal Reserve Board action to 6 per cent or less on their money.

But last week the Treasury offered $2.75 billion in 18-month notes priced to yield 7.54 per cent in denominations as low as $1,000. The minimum is usually $10,000. The offering was oversubscribed tenfold; people bid for $30 billion in the notes.

And today every Congressman is in receipt of vigorous protests from savings and loan associations. The bid money of small savers was largely withdrawn from S&Ls. Banks didn't like it, either.

Back To Saigon To Work For Vietnamization Goal

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

One who has been active in America's role in the Vietnamization program is Greenville resident Rush Sawyers, Sr.

Now visiting his wife and children in Greenville, his mother in Virginia, and friends in both states, Sawyers will be returning to Saigon on Saturday to begin the final phase in transfer of radio operations to his Vietnamese counterparts. He terms himself a man happy in the work he is doing.

Sawyers, a radio engineer with the Program Liaison Division of the Joint U.S. Public Affairs Office (JUSPAO) in Saigon, feels positively that Vietnamization will work.

"The big thing, I believe, that is working for Vietnam today is its military strength," Sawyers commented. "These people are fighting to live. They have been taught that the Viet Cong can't be trusted. The people are beginning to refuse to harbor the VC because of coercion and force. They are giving them away."

For a moment Sawyers paused and then added what he terms is his own opinion of the American role, and its degree of success. "We have made good progress," he noted. "We are winning in Vietnamization. Someone had to hold these people up till they got going and we've done that."

"That's why I believe," Sawyers continued, "we should withdraw once the Vietnamese people prove they can hold their own. They will of course still need our support in some ways, in munitions, in foodstuffs, and our moral support. But I am convinced they are gaining a new confidence in their own ability which will be their biggest asset."

One event he feels that pinpoints the success is "the growing trend for people to leave Saigon and other large urban centers to return to their homes in the hamlets and villages."

"This is particularly true of Vietnamese returning to the Mekong Delta area," he noted.

As a radio engineer, Sawyers is on loan to JUSPAO from the Voice of America. "Actually, the U. S. Information Agency (USIA) is our parent organization," he remarked.

"Two years ago, in August 1968, I was asked to go to Vietnam to help on a $10 million construction project for Radio Vietnam. I've been working on this project since then, and will be in Vietnam for about another year."

"By next summer," Sawyers observed, "when American technicians like myself have finished their assignments, the radio system in Vietnam will be all Vietnamese operated. This should be the last full year they will operate with our direct assistance."

Sawyers related that previous to the bloody Tet offensive of 1968, the Vietnamese radio system had 12 regular stations of up to 50,000 watts power in operation.

"In that Tet offensive," he said, "four of the stations and the Saigon studios were destroyed. We have replaced them, one by one, supplying new equipment, parts and technical assistance."

Now stations operating in Vietnam range from Hue in the north to Can Tho in the south. These are located at Hue, Da Nang, Quang Ngai, Quin Nhon, Nha Trang, Tuy Hoa, Dalat, Ban Me Thuot and Can Tho.

"There was also a large 55,000 watt station, equipped and furnished by the Australians, which was destroyed," Sawyers commented. "It too is back on the air. In fact, it was only in May of this year that it became operational again."

In comparing the importance of radio in many countries of the world today as contrasted to its more or less secondary role in the U. S. in recent years, Sawyers said it was understandable that Americans have somewhat forgotten the importance of radio as an effective instrument of communications to the general public.

"Radio is truly an effective means of reaching people in Vietnam," he said. "With radio the South Vietnamese Government can reach the millions of people living in hamlets, villages and the rural areas of lowlands and mountains."

"The impact of radio has been great. With small transistor radios readily available people in many remote areas are hearing and learning more about their own government and can feel in touch with others in their country."

"The use of radio is only one of many ways efforts have been made, and are being continued, to influence the minds of people," Sawyers commented. "That basically is what all media are trying to do in Vietnam."

Sawyers observed that before the destructive 1968 Tet attacks, South Vietnam had radio coverage in 75 percent of the country. In the wake of setbacks suffered because of heavy destruction and damages to the radio stations, "the U. S. government sent people from Washington to survey the entire situation. These people decided what was needed were several big stations strategically located instead of many small stations."

This decision led to developments resulting in the present program of building facilities, which, among other things, have less vulnerability to attacks.

"The new stations are all hardened sites," Sawyers stated. "They are being built to withstand small arms fire and indirect rocket hits. Each site is self-contained."

Citing examples, Sawyers referred to replacement stations at Da Nang, Quin Nhon and Nha Trang, which he said are self contained to the extent of having their own power plants.

"Each of these sites have two 50,000 watts transmitters and are manned by about 30 people."

In the Saigon area, two complexes, somewhat similar to VOA Sites A and B near Greenville, have been constructed and are in operation. One is at Phu Tho, six miles from Saigon, and the other at Quan Tre, 15 miles from the capital. "The Quan Tre site has been updated to a hardened site with seven transmitters, including a powerful 100,000 watt transmitter."

Following the destruction of the former studio complex in Saigon, in which some 30 people died, a temporary studio complex was erected. "A new modern studio complex is being constructed to replace the temporary one," Sawyers commented. "The cost will amount to an estimated $2.5 million. This is all part of the total $10 million project for radio in Vietnam."

Sawyers mentioned, "The cost of the studios is not funded by the U.S. Government. It is part of the country agreement with South Vietnam to supply these funds."

Programming is accomplished at the Saigon studios. "We use medium wave for local coverage and short wave, along with tropo, to relay to other stations," he noted.

"The new studios will have high quality microwave and tropo to link all the stations together with Saigon," Sawyers spoke of this as the Integrated Communications System, or in short, ICS.

In South Vietnam, the radio system is known as VTVN, or National Radio Vietnam. "The South Vietnamese Government," Sawyers explained, "is in the process of planning a telecommunications system similar to ATT or Bell for toll programs so that South Vietnam can make money for national revenues."

Sawyers serves on a USAID (United States Agency International Development) planning committee which is working to help formulate the transfer of nearly half a million dollars worth of telecommunications equipment to the South Vietnamese Government.

"At the present time, radio as well as other media comes under the Ministry of Information in Vietnam. This includes the growing television industry in Vietnam, which now has three stations . . . at Saigon, Hue and Can Tho."

Sawyers also stated a fourth station is being constructed at the city of Quin Nhon.

JUSPAO has been instrumental in past years in supplying TV sets to province chiefs for them and their people. "Although this program is being terminated," Sawyers commented, "I understand something like 360 standard sets are kept in operation for the chiefs. This is all part of JUSPAO's efforts to assist the South Vietnamese government in their information program."

"Sometimes there's difficulties in keeping these sets operational, as the VC take a delight in locating these in the villages and breaking them by throwing rocks or by shooting the sets," Sawyers said.

Another important JUSPAO sponsored activity mentioned by Sawyers is the Cultural Center at the Vietnamese-American Association in Saigon.

"The Joint U.S. Public Affairs Office, or JUSPAO (pronounced somewhat like juice-pow), was founded in 1965 to provide overall control for the public information program being conducted in conjunction with the host government," Sawyers explained. "There were so many agencies, each with their own programs to assist Vietnam, that the consensus was these had to be combined."

Among the agencies active in individual programs were United States Agency International Development USAID; United States Information Services (USIS) — which dealt mostly with printed matter; the Military Assistance Command Vietnam (MACV);

HOME AGAIN . . . in Greenville before leaving for Saigon, Rush Sawyers, Sr., is with his wife, Fay, and the youngest of their five children, Myrna. Sawyers is a radio engineer working in Vietnam.

Department of Defense (DOD); and Defense Communications Agency (DCA).

Sawyers' references to his field, radio, were made with obvious pride. "It's work I like and feel qualified in," he said. "All these other fields of communications I've mentioned to give an idea of the tremendous scope of activity in communications going on in Vietnam."

One of the requirements of his job is rather extensive traveling to radio sites outside his home office in Saigon. "Really, that is the most dangerous part of my assignment," he commented. "All travel is by air, the only practical and the safest way to travel around the country now." He visits the outlying stations periodically to advise and assist engineers and other staff members on broadcasting activities.

A downtown hotel, or billet, is home to Sawyers in Saigon. "In Saigon, my hotel has been bracketed by rockets on two different occasions. Fortunately, we've not been hit."

A native of Carroll County in Virginia, Sawyers married a local girl, Ila Fay Bedsaul. "I'm home for our 25th wedding anniversary," he noted, "and my wife and I celebrated by returning to the scene of our honeymoon in Roanoke, Virginia." He added with a smile, "without the children."

There are five Sawyers children. Rush, Jr., the oldest, is now in the Air Force at Goodfellow Air Force Base in Texas. "He has just finished a long Vietnamese language course in El Paso and is being assigned to Vietnam in December," Sawyers stated.

"Our oldest daughter, Sandra, is in the Army, a member of the Women's Army Corps. She is a pharmacist in the Medical Corps at Fort Hood, Texas." Debra, the second daughter, is married to an Army man. They are stationed at Fort Devons, Massachusetts. Only the two youngest, teenagers Michael and Myrna remain at home in Greenville. Both are rising juniors at Rose High School this year.

Before working for the government as a civilian, Sawyers saw active military service in the Army during World War II for a period totaling six years.

Although the Sawyers regret they cannot be together in Vietnam, they have been together on previous overseas assignments, most of them in the Philippines, where they knew the Casey family (Mr. and Mrs. John Casey), a VOA family now living in Greenville. Hawaii is another place the Sawyers called home for more than five years.

"When we left the Philippines after our last tour," Sawyers recalled, "I asked for an assignment to Dixon, California, but was sent here instead. I'm glad it happened this way, as we have all learned to like Greenville very much."

Sawyers leaves Greenville on Saturday to return to Saigon. It will be his 17th flight across the Pacific. "I'm looking forward to competing the job there," he said, "and then returning to Greenville and my family."

automobiles. We can tell by the tonnage of the ships just how hard hit the American Economy will be. We have to know before the ships reach Hawaii and San Francisco, so we can adjust our domestic production schedules. It is more important to know where the Japanese ships are now than it was during World War II.

"So we sent Debecque into the hills to watch for us. But we haven't heard from him, and I'm starting to think the worst. Every night I come up here and signal him, hoping he will signal back."

As we were talking, a girl came in the bar with shampoo in her hair singing "I'm gonna wash that man right out of my hair." Two little native children followed her singing "Dites moi, pourquoi."

"What's going on?" I asked Jack.

"That's Nelly Forebush. She was a Pan American stewardess who met Debecque one enchanted evening at the Bali Hai Hotel and fell in love. Nelly was from Little Rock, Arkansas. After she fell in love with Emile, she discovered he had two native children by a Tahitian wife. Nelly at first was horrified, as it was against everything she stood for. But finally she became so enraptured with the children that she quit her job with Pan American and promised Emile she would look after them until he came back."

"What an idea for a musical," I said. "But why the shampoo?"

"That's the sad part of the story. Nelly didn't know Emile would be gone this long, and she went bonkers three months ago when the two kids drove her up the wall."

British Losing Their Doctors

LONDON (AP) — One in three of Britain's new doctors leaves the country each year to settle abroad permanently, a study in St. Bartholomew's Hospital Journal says.

The survey of major embassies here showed that more than 700 of the 2,000 doctors Britain trains every year leave to practice medicine abroad. Canada is the most popular destination.

Many British doctors earn more in private practice overseas than they would here in the state-run national health service.

New School Principals Laying Groundwork For A Good Start

Opening of schools in Greenville is only a little more than two weeks away. As the time draws near, principals are officially in place at their desks preparing for the arrival of teachers and students.

In Greenville schools, two new principals — one here for the first time, the other on a second tour at the same school — are busy mapping out plans and laying the groundwork for what both feel will be a good school year ahead.

"The first thing I plan for the students on opening day is an assembly," Robert Allgood, new principal for Rose High School commented.

"I feel this is a good procedure, and is one I've used at other schools where I've been principal. This is a good way for all of us to get together and set our position for the year. We need to see each other."

Allgood, who has already settled in Greenville in preparation for his assignment here, said he considers two priorities utmost in his approach to the job at Rose.

"First, we must all learn to get along with each other. The second priority is the academic preparation for all students." Allgood noted, "Academics may be disturbed by my placing academic preparation in second place, but I'm convinced that without a relaxed atmosphere which comes from working together and getting along, the process of learning cannot be as rewarding as it should be."

For the next couple of weeks, administrative details will be taking his time, including the publication of revised student and teachers handbooks. "We had hoped to be able to mail these out to students and teachers," Allgood said, "but the printers will not have them on time. They will be given out the first day of school."

In concluding his remarks about his intentions for the coming school year, Allgood emphasized that "I will be completely honest with the public. If anything happens, the public will know about it."

"There are problems we are going to have to face, and we must recognize and be prepared for this. Nevertheless, I have great faith in the young people. In the final analysis, they will perform if they are given an opportunity. It's important to let them know what you expect from them, and to let them know what they can expect from you."

At Wahl - Coates Elementary School, Dr. Rexford E. Piner, newly appointed principal there, is making a return engagement after an absence of five years. A graduate of ECU, Dr. Piner is back in Greenville from his most recent assignment in Columbia, S.C.

"As I was here for four years", Dr. Piner recalled, "everything seems familiar, pretty much the same. I see familiar objects, some which I placed here myself."

Dr. Piner said at the moment he is involved mostly in "the mechanics of getting records of school children transferred to other schools because of the change in school plans."

"This is a new problem for me, of course," he commented, "but this is a task all the school principals and staff are facing now in getting ready for the change in assignment of students."

On the matter of his opinions about the chances of the new school plan for the elementary schools working out, Dr. Piner expresses optimism. "We don't anticipate any real trouble," he said. "There's going to be some dissatisfaction, some minor problems, but I believe it will work out well."

Dr. Piner remarked, "Surprisingly, ten of the teachers I had here before are still here, so that's another reason I feel very much at home. The ones new to me I'll be meeting soon, either by their coming in informally within the next few days or at a teacher's meeting we're having city wide on August 21."

While these two newcomers to the principalship scene are busy with plans for their individual schools, the pattern is repeated in all the other schools in Greenville. These men and women are at their desks, back in their familiar routine. Next it will be time for teachers to begin their first work day of a new school year, and soon after that comes the day of mixed emotions for some six thousand Greenville children — the first day of school.

Visitor Is Greeted In Joint Assembly

On Monday night, the Greenville Assembly No. 67 with Wilson Assembly No. 28, Wayne Assembly No. 46, and New Bern Assembly No. 65 met jointly at the Greenville Masonic Temple for the official visit of Miss Karen Fristoe of Jacksonville, Grand Worthy Advisor of the Grand Assembly of North Carolina, the Order of the Rainbow for Girls.

Prior to the meeting, Miss Fristoe and other distinguished guests were honored by a banquet served at the temple. The banquet table was decorated in the Grand Worthy Advisor's colors of red, white and blue, featuring the red rose and her chosen emblems, the eagle and the dove.

Miss Sandra Tharp, Worthy Advisor of the Greenville Assembly, extended the welcome and introduced the honored guests: Mrs. Etrulia Taylor, Supreme Inspector; Miss Fristoe; Mrs. Sadie Starling, State Mother Advisor; The Co-Hosting Worthy Advisors, Joyce Boyette of Wilson, June Narron of Goldsboro and Ann Disosway of New Bern; and the Mother Advisors of the Co-Hosting Assemblies, Mrs. Josephine Jones of Wilson, Mrs. June Kaylor of Goldsboro, Mrs. Libby Register of New Bern and Mrs. Pearl Hartsell of Greenville.

The 7:30 p.m. meeting was called to order by Mrs. Hartsell, Mother Advisor, and presided over by Miss Tharp.

Formal introductions were extended to: Mrs. Etrulia H. Taylor; and Grand Deputies, Mrs. Myrtle Goforth, Mrs. Ophelia Woody and Mrs. Karen Fristoe, Grand Worthy Advisor; Miss Debbie Hartsell of the Greenville Assembly, Grand Charity; other appointive officers; Grand Representatives of Rainbow; Past Grand officers of Rainbow; Mrs. Julia Bardin of Wilson, a member of the State Executive Committee; Fourth Worthy Advisors; Five Mother Advisors; several Past Worthy Advisors; one Past Mother Advisor; and Three Miss Services.

Flowers and greenery decorated the assembly room, with the emphasis being on red roses. The Grand Worthy Advisor's own heritage emblems were displayed in the east. These included life-size replicas of the American eagle and a white dove, as well as a full size, folded American flag, on a bunting - draped platform.

Miss Fristoe, made a speech about patriotism and high ideals, after which she was honored by a program presented by the New Bern Assembly.

Miss Fristoe was presented a small American flag for her heritage collection and an honorary membership from each of the four assemblies.

A medley of her favorite songs was sung by Greenville members Cathy Wilson and Jo Anna Paul, who played the accompaniment on her guitar. A sterling silver charm bracelet with four charms was presented to her by June Narron of the Wayne Assembly, on behalf of the four assemblies.

Miss Fristoe's corsage was of greenbacks to be applied toward her special project, the Rainbow Scholarship Fund.

Immediately following the meeting, a reception was held in the Sugg - Whichard dining room. The refreshment table was covered with a white dotted Swiss cloth with a miniature white dove and American flag above red and white ribbons at each corner. A red, white and blue floral arrangement and silver candelabra holding red tapers centered the table.

Approximately 150 were in attendance, coming from as far as Winston - Salem, Greensboro, Fayetteville, Raleigh, Jacksonville, New Bern, Goldsboro and Wilson.

The promoters added that while cooperation from city police and other municipal officials was good, "it's just the wrong time to hold this thing."

NEW YORK (AP) — Favorable economic reports were just what the doctor ordered as the ailing stock market took at least a temporary turn for the better in early slow trading this morning.

At 11 a.m. the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 2.33 at 709.68 after a short burst of early buying.

Analysts said investors were reacting to news released Thursday that suggested there was some real economic growth in the second quarter and in July.

Most prominent was the news that the gross national product had shown some real growth in the second quarter after adjustments to discount inflation.

Industrial production and personal incomes also were up last month after previous monthly declines, and this was another stimulative factor, analysts said.

To Sponsor Program Of Aid To Local Govm'ts

GREENSBORO (AP)— Director Irvin Aldridge of the state department of local affairs said today his office will support a program of state grant-in-aid assistance to local governments in the 1971 General Assembly.

"If North Carolina is to continue its program of assistance to the cities, we must back them with state resources," Aldridge said in a prepared talk to the Summit Rotary Club at Greensboro.

"In working with local governments on financing projects and providing technical services necessary to progressive development, we are repeatedly faceted with local government's inability to produce matching funds and initial financial self-help," Aldridge stated.

"If a program of this type can be created and appropriations made by the General Assembly, it would be used for the promotion and stimulation of new approaches to local problems without being tied to federal program requirements," he continued.

Aldridge said the state funds could be used for various purposes by the local governments such as emergency construction of a water main, purchase of right-of-way for a bypass, es-establish public day nurseries, operate teen centers or re-train unemployed farm workers.

Aldridge said the Scott administration also backs some form of revenue sharing of federal funds with state and local governments.

He said under a plan now before Congress, North Carolina would receive $120 million a year of which state government's share would be $83 million and the Greensboro area would receive "some $3.5 million."

"This money must be used not to simply reduce taxes and replace local expenditures but to increase state and local efforts in critical areas—housing, transportation, poverty, education, environment protection," Aldridge said.

Youngsters To Challenge Vets

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)— The American Legion and thousands of young people who don't like its stand on the Vietnam war are coming to Portland this month and massive efforts are under way to keep them apart.

About 14,000 Legion delegates are expected, and officials anticipate an influx of 40,000 to 50,000 young people.

"They say they know the best for America," said a spokesman for a youth group calling itself the People's Army Jamboree. "We are going to tell them they are wrong."

Gov. Tom McCall has ordered 6,000 National Guard troops into the Portland area for a training exercise on Aug. 28, opening day of the convention. He said they might be held into the next week.

Portland area police and firemen's leaves have been canceled for the convention.

Michael P. McCusker, 28, Portland, a former Marine who says he speaks for the People's Army Jamboree, said the governor's order to the National Guard was itself a threat to the peace.

Peter Fornara, another jamboree leader, said, "It is not our intention to provoke violence."

Robert H. Hazen, head of the local committee arranging the convention, said jamboree representatives had asked for a place on the convention program.

"As far as I know, there is no space available," Hazen said Thursday.

Hazen was asked if delegates from distant points were aware of the potential for trouble. He said he thought not but they would be and "the national commander will tell each legionnaire to keep his cool."

At its convention in Atlanta last year, the Legion adopted a resolution calling for an all-out U.S. offensive in Vietnam if withdrawal of 100,000 troops by the end of 1969 "failed to obtain active cooperation on the part of North Vietnam in terminating the conflict."

Vote Split In Veto Test

WASHINGTON (AP)— North Carolina congressmen split on party lines Thursday as the House overrode President Nixon's veto of a $4.4 billion appropriation for the Office of Education. The roll call vote was 289-114.

The state's seven Democrats voted with the majority and the four Republicans were in the minority.

Voting to override the veto were Galifianakis, Fountain, Henderson, Jones, Lennon, Preyer and Taylor. Voting to uphold the veto were Jónas, Ruth, Mizell and Broyles.

Ten North Carolina congressmen voted to uphold President Nixon's veto of an $18-million independent offices appropriation bill.

The veto was sustained, despite the fact that the House voted 203-195 against it, because a two-thirds majority was necessary to override the President.

Democrat Nick Galifianakis voted against Nixon's action.

Co-Sponsors House Bill

First District Congressman Walter Jones Friday joined with 61 of his colleagues in co-sponsoring legislation which would entitle a serviceman returning from a combat zone maximum consideration for assignment to a military base near his legal residence.

Jones stated that although the Department of Defense attempts to make near home assignments for combat veterans he felt the present system could be improved and a legal requirement of maximum entitlement for such an assignment will better insure proper consideration of a serviceman's preference.

Such preferential treatment, Jones concluded, is not only fair but will to some extent alleviate the anxiety that such separations have caused so many American families.

Unable To Raise Matching Funds

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP)— Assumption College is returning $500,000 in matching funds to the federal government because it was not able to raise enough to pay its share of an expansion program.

The Roman Catholic college announced its action Thursday, and also announced a freeze on faculty salaries and hiring for the next academic year.

Fear River Mishap Fatal To Canoeists

GOLDSBORO, N. C. (AP)— A canoe accident on the Neuse River near Goldsboro has claimed the life of an assistant scoutmaster and apparently that of a 13-year-old scout, both from Newport.

The Goldsboro Rescue Squad dragged the river unsuccessfully Thursday night for the body of Danny Veals, 13. Earlier, the body of Sam Reeves, about 22, a biologist for the North Carolina Department of Conservation and Development, was found by members of his group, Troop 61. The search for the body of Veals resumed today.

The scouts said Reeves drowned while trying to save Veals, who with another youth was in a canoe that overturned. The companion, Kyle Brown, 12, reached shore safely.

The scouts said Reeves and a 10-year-old scout took their canoe over a two-foot waterfall into a 12-foot deep pool to test the current. Both wore life preservers.

Body Found In Car Trunk

WILSON, N.C. (AP)— Police are investigating the death of a man whose body was found in the blood-stained trunk of his car Thursday afternoon.

Dr. R. E. Gaudy, the Wilson County coroner, said his examination of the dead man, Jack Daugherty, revealed no wounds. Gaudy was unable to account for the bloodstains in the trunk.

The doctor said he had sent samples of the blood, along with some liquor bottles found near the man's car, to a laboratory at Chapel Hill for analysis.

The Wilson County Sheriff's Department said witnesses reported seeing the man climb into the trunk and close the lid on himself shortly before he was discovered dead.

Identification found on the body indicated Daugherty was from Smithfield in neighboring Johnston County. But other identification papers showed a Norfolk, Va., address, deputies said, and the car carried Virginia license plates.

Greenville Is Eliminated From Tourney

Greenville's state champions were eliminated from the Babe Ruth regionals by Tennessee in Huntsville, Alabama last night. The local All-Stars won the first game, but they needed to claim two straight to win the tournament.

In the first game Greenville scored all of their runs in the third, Barwick reached on an error and Lee sacrificed him to second. Sugg walked and scored on Lee's grounder. Daniels got on off an error and Barwick scored off this play. Cobb hit a two run homer to end the scoring for the All-Stars.

Tennessee scored one, Birdsong doubled and Carpenter singled, the play was errored and Birdsong scored.

In the second game Tennessee defeated Greenville 9-3.

In the third Wilkerson walked and then stole second. Lee walked and he stole second, the throw to second was errored and Wilkerson scored. Clifton hit a triple to score Lee.

The fifth brought one more run for the All-Stars. Wilkerson doubled and then scored on a ground out.

Tennessee scored three in the second Birdsong walked and Morgan homered. Goodwin got infield hit and then scored on Dean's hit.

In the third Lattimer, Birdsong, and Morgan walked and Carpenter singled in two runs.

Morgan stole home to end up the scoring.

In the fourth Thomas doubled to left and Lattimer walked and then advanced on a passed ball, Thomas scored on the passed ball. Carpenter came up and he singled Lattimer in.

They scored their final runs in the sixth. Morgan reached and when Goodwin's ball was errored he scored with the final run.

Join Salute To Lombardi

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, with a phone call and Congress with a special tribute, took time out this week to honor Washington Redskins Coach Vince Lombardi, hospitalized since a second major operation July 27.

The President called Lombardi at his room in Georgetown University Hospital Tuesday night and wished him well, the Washington Post said in today's editions. The call lasted several minutes and the President thanked Lombardi for what he had done for the country, particularly young people.

"You are very kind. What you have said is very flattering," Lombardi replied.

Alvarez Upsets Zan Guerry

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. (AP) — Elio Alvarez, a bearded student in film making and theater arts at UCLA, is excellent at playing the role of victorious tennis underdog.

The 22-year-old Argentine's last performance took place Thursday, when he upset top-seeded Zan Guerry of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., 7-5, 4-6, 6-3, and advanced to the semifinals of the U.S. Men's Amateur Grass Court Championships.

Alvarez, a UCLA senior, is the No. 4 foreign seed in this tournament.

Joining him in the semis Thursday were 21-year-old Australian John Gardner. The unseeded Gardner upset Marcelo Lara of Mexico, the second foreign seed, 6-3, 6-4.

The other two semifinalists were to be decided today when Bob McKinley of St. Ann., Mo., the third seeded American, played top foreign seed Hiroom Rahim of Pakistan and unseeded Fred McNair of Chevy Chase, Md., met unseeded Rich Bohrnstedt of Redlands, Calif.

Merritt Pitches Cincinnati Reds By New York Mets

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
It's been nine years since baseball made "asterisk" a household word — but the little character may once again star in the record books the next time Cincinnati's Johnny Bench unloads a homer.

The biggest cog in the Big Red Machine smacked a two-run shot in the fourth inning Thursday night and Lee May and Tony Perez added solo blasts as Cincinnati overwhelmed the New York Mets 6-1 to give Jim Merritt his 17th victory of the year.

It was back in 1961 when Roger Maris hit 61 homers in 162 games that baseball decreed the record should carry the little star to show it was separate but equal to Babe Ruth's 60 roundtrippers in 154 games. Now along comes Bench with 40 home runs, one shy of Roy Campanella's 1953 record for most homers in a season by a catcher.

The problem is the Bench isn't exclusively a catcher. He has hit 33 of them in games in which he worked as the receiver, four when he was a left fielder and one each as a center fielder, right fielder and first baseman.

Officials say only the 33 are being counted in his quest for Campy's record. What the record book will look like when Bench finishes the season is best left to statisticians and computers. Bench apparently isn't giving it much thought.

"Sure I'm thinking about homers," he said after the game, "but the Campanella record is the last thing on my mind."

"I started the season hoping I'd hit 30 and, as things are going now, I'd like to hit 50. But I'm also looking for hits that can help the ball club," Bench said.

In Thursday night's other National League action, Houston surprised Philadelphia 4-3, San Diego outlasted St. Louis 9-7, Atlanta topped Montreal 4-1, and, in an afternoon contest, the Chicago Cubs beat San Francisco 6-3.

In the American League, Washington's Dick Bosman one-hit Minnesota 1-0, Milwaukee edged Detroit 3-2, Kansas City clobbered Boston 11-3, the New York Yankees nipped the Chicago White Sox 4-3, California edged Baltimore 3-2 and Cleveland topped Oakland 4-3.

Jesus Alou rapped a two-run single that capped a three-run eighth inning in Houston's victory over the Phils.

Ollie Brown, with his 20th homer, and Jose Arcia each drove in three San Diego runs while St. Louis got four-baggers from Rich Allen, Joe Torre and Lou Brock.

Atlanta's Rico Carty belted his 25th home run and Hoyt Wilhelm contributed ninth-inning relief pitching against Montreal to enable George Stone to pick up his first victory since July 6.

Ron Santo, Billy Williams and pitcher Milt Pappas homered against San Francisco ace Gaylord Perry as the Cubs moved within four games of first-place Pittsburgh and within two of the Mets in the Eastern Division.

Chiefs Play Colts Tonight Isaac Battling With Hylton

By BEN THOMAS
Associated Press Sports Writer
The millions of fans who spend autumn Sundays watching their favorite pro football teams clash get a chance tonight for their own version of preseason training.

They can get in shape for the regular season by watching the Kansas City Chiefs, 1970 Super Bowl champs, take on the Baltimore Colts in a nationally televised preseason game. It's on NBC-TV and the kickoff is 8:30 p.m., EDT.

There was gloom, meanwhile, today in the camp of the Cincinnati Bengals, youngest of the 26 National Football League teams. Star quarterback Greg Cook is scheduled for surgery early next week and probably will be out of action for the entire campaign.

The game at Kansas City is one of two tonight as the second weekend of exhibitions get underway. The Detroit Lions are at Buffalo in the other.

There are nine scheduled Saturday night, one Sunday and one Monday night.

Bengal head coach and general manager Paul Brown disclosed the likely loss of Cook, offensive Rookie of the Year in 1969 for his first season in the American Football League.

"After examination, Greg decided he should undergo surgery," Brown said. The exploratory surgery on his right shoulder will be performed Monday or Tuesday at the Cleveland Clinic.

Doctors believe a sheath of muscle may have broken loose in Cook's arm, Brown said. The quarterback has complained of constant pain and has not been able to throw a football. He hurt the arm during a pickup basketball game last winter.

"Doctors feel he will be lost for the season," Brown said.

Both Baltimore and Kansas City are plagued with injuries. The Chiefs will play without linebacker Bobby Bell, sidelined with a spinal injury, and cornerback Jim Marsalis, who scored last week with an intercepted pass, is doubtful.

CAMBRIDGE JUNCTION, Mich. (AP) — To charge or not to charge is the problem facing race driver Bobby Isaac.

"I have to decide in every race whether to go for the win or hang back and go for the points," the 33-year-old stock car veteran from Catawba, N.C., said Friday.

Isaac is locked in a close battle with James Hylton, Bobby Allison and Richard Petty for the lucrative driving title in NASCAR's Grand National Division. The title this year will be worth at least $75,000 to the driver and car owner who win it.

The four are among 58 entries for Sunday's Yankee 400, one of the key money and points events on the NASCAR schedule. Isaac, Hylton and Allison were among prime favorites to win the pole position in time trials today.

But the quest for the driving title presents problems of a different nature to Isaac—and Hylton.

Isaac is known as a short track specialist who isn't at his best on courses like the two-mile, 18-degree-banked Michigan International Speedway. In fact, of the 22 wins he has recorded in his NASCAR career, only one has been on a track of a mile or longer.

Isaac has nine victories this season and already has banked $73,500. Hylton, who does not profess to be a charger, has only one victory but has been a consistently high finisher. His chart shows 24 finishes in the top ten in 31 races this year.

Petty, who will be among Sunday's top favorites is equally expert on either short or long tracks. He has won ten times this year, two times on major speedways.

Clay's Bout Has Been Accepted By Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) — Promoters say only the lack of signatures on a contract—something they view as a formality—stands between a heavyweight championship fight between Joe Frazier and Cassius Clay in Atlanta Oct. 26.

The proposed bout has been rejected by a number of cities because Clay, stripped of his heavyweight crown when he refused induction into the Army, has been unable to secure a license. But the Atlanta Athletic Commission has issued him a license.

And Clay said at a news conference Thursday that he is willing to fight Frazier, the champ, in the 5,000-seat City Auditorium. Announcement that Clay has a license and is ready to fight caught the Frazier camp by surprise.

"It's a lie," said Yank Durham in Stateline, Nev., where Frazier is appearing with his rock music group. Durham, who manages the fighter, said "there is no truth to it at all."

He said he could not believe that Clay had a license, but that if he does, Frazier will fight him.

"But he doesn't and that is all there is to that," he said.

However, Durham left the door open for a possible bout with Clay next year.

"We have a commitment to fight Bob Foster," Durham said. Clay will not be fought until we fulfill our obligation to Foster.

"If Clay has a license, then we'll fight him next year. Let him fight someone else and prove to me he has a license. If he has a license, we'll fight him next year. There is no fight in sight with Clay until next year."

Georgia State Sen. Leroy Johnson arranged the fight. He said at the news conference that all Georgia law requires is a city boxing license and Clay has that in his possession.

"We have done what the law requires us to do," said Johnson. "We feel we are now in the running. There is no state law which would prevent the fight."

There were published reports that the fight has the endorsement of Gov.

Nicklaus Is Surprising Everyone With His New Look

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus was strolling through the lobby of the club house when he was approached by a middle-aged woman wearing dangling earrings and a look of hero worship.

"Oh, Mr. Nicklaus," the lady cooed. "Tell me, is it true that you are going to Hollywood to make a movie? I've heard that talent scouts have been after you."

Jack, who shared the first-round lead in the PGA championship, blushed.

"No, ma'am," he replied politely. "I play golf. That's my career."

Shortly afterward, a man strode up to a press photographer and asked the name of the young player whose picture he had just snapped.

"That was Jack Nicklaus," the photographer answered.

"No, I know Nicklaus," the questioner persisted. "I mean that kid with the blond hair."

"It was Nicklaus," the cameraman repeated.

The man walked away, scratching his head.

The new Jack Nicklaus is puzzling everybody. He is trim and handsome. He looks 10 years younger. He has a pleasant new personality. And he's playing the best golf of his life.

The 30-year-old belter from Columbus, Ohio, who has won more than $60,000 in his last four tournaments which include his second triumph in the British Open, goes into the second round of the PGA Championship today tied with San Francisco's young John Miller for the lead with two-under-par 68.

Everybody's predicting Jack will walk away with the $40,000 first prize, thus completing an unprecedented second sweep of the four major pro championships. He already holds three Masters, two U.S. and two British Open crowns. He won the PGA in 1963.

Only three other players have won the four major titles once around Gene Sarazen and Ben Hogan, no longer active, and Gary Player of South Africa, three away from a second sweep.

Trailing Nicklaus and Miller after the opening round over the 6,962-yard, par-70 Southern Hills Country Club course are Larry Hinson and Charles Coody, tied at 69 and a half dozen bracketed at even par 70.

They are Arnold Palmer, Jacky Cupit, Dick Hendrickson, Homero Blancas, Dave Stockton and Sam Snead. Hendrickson is an obscure club pro from Marlton, N. J. Everybody knows Sam

Snead. He's 58 and winner of more than 100 tournaments, including three PGAs, in a fabulous 30-year career.

Defending champion Ray Floyd, blaming a patch of red sand for two of his bogeys, had a 71 and Bill Casper, the Masters king, fired 16 straight pars and two bogeys for a 72, a score he shared with Lee Trevino.

Tony Jacklin of Britain, the U.S. Open champion and Player had 74. Jacklin took a triple bogey six on short 14th, where he hit his tee shot against a fence.

Nicklaus, once the 210-pound fat boy of the tour, now is hard to distinguish from a couple of his young pursuers—Miller and Hinson, two blond stringbeans who look so much alike they often are mistaken for each other.

Jack went on a diet after coming home last fall from the Ryder Cup matches in England.

"We had a friend who followed the weight-watcher's program," said Jack's wife, Barbara, mother of his four small children. "Jack told me he was determined to reduce. And he went about it like a martyr."

"He called up the manufacturer who makes his suits and told him to come over in two weeks and make him some new clothes. He was that serious about it."

Skipping breads and sweets,

Nicklaus lost 15 pounds the first two weeks and shaved off a total of 20 pounds in three weeks. He lost eight inches around his hips.

"I thought it was a family characteristic and that I'd always be big around the hips," Jack said. "I lost only an inch around the chest and a half-inch around the waist."

He let his hair grow, effecting a mod look. He became a new man. People who watched television couldn't believe their eyes. With his weight loss, Nicklaus also seemed to gain a new maturity, and a sense of humor that he had previously lacked.

Now he's stealing recruits from Arnie's Army.

He's a delight at the press conferences.

Describing his round Thursday, he moved through five holes and then said, "on the seventh..." He puckishly skipped the sixth, where he took a double bogey five.

Asked to comment on young Miller, who called Nicklaus' swing the best in golf, Jack praised the reed-thin youngster and then added:

"He will get bigger. Some people put on weight sooner than others."

Jack formerly Fat Jack—laughed loudest at himself.

Seth Jones of N.C. looks a little startled as the kickoff game of the 1970 Division 3 Southern Region Little League Tournament.

Sox Over Peninsula

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Carolina League-leading Winston-Salem Red Sox made things unhappy for a Kids' Night crowd of 5,078 at Hampton, Va., Thursday night.

The Red Sox shoved across a run in the ninth on two errors, a stolen base and a wild pitch to edge Peninsula 2-1.

Peninsula had staked Craig Scramuzzo to a 1-0 lead in the fifth on a walk, sacrifice, a single by Rick Gialella and an error. The Red Sox tied the score in the sixth when they got three of their six hits off Scramuzzo.

The Raleigh-Durham Triangles exploded for five runs in the third and pulled off their second triple play of the season to defeat Lynchburg 7-4 at Durham.

The Triangles made their triple play in the seventh when the Twins loaded the bases. Bob Bonalewicz hit a grounder to the third baseman, who stepped on third for one out, then tossed to second baseman, who fired to first to complete the rare play.

Kinston broke loose with five runs in the eighth to defeat Burlington 6-1 at Kinston behind the effective eight-hit pitching of lefty Bill Olsen.

Rocky Mount defeated Salem 9-4 at Salem.

Minnesota Wishes Bosman Had Stayed At The Track

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
Dick Bosman gave up drag racing in favor of throwing a speeding baseball much to the regret of the skidding Minnesota Twins.

The hard-throwing Washington right-hander mowed down the Twins on a measly bunt single—Cesar Tovar's leadoff hit—in handing the West Division leaders their sixth loss in succession Thursday night, a 1-0 beating as Minnesota's once-comfortable lead dwindled to five games over Oakland as the A's lost 4-3 to Cleveland.

Bosman, a husky 6-foot-3, 210-pounder, issued a walk to opposing pitcher Jim Katt in the sixth, after retiring 16 straight Twins, then got Tovar on a double play bouncer before retiring Minnesota the rest of the way, facing only 28 batters, one over the minimum.

The 26-year-old from Kenosha, Wis., who has driven drag racers at 215 miles per hour gave up driving a couple of years ago "because I realized the dangers of auto racing and you must drive consistently at those speeds to react properly. You just can't play ball then jump into a car and win a race."

So Bosman, who is now 12-8 and was 14-5 last year with an American League leading ERA of 2.15, switched to owning and fixing snowmobiles in the winter and winning games for the Senators in the summer.

Bosman, lowering his 1970 ERA to 3.02, got the only run he needed in the first inning when Wayne Comer bunted for a single and went to third on Harmon Killebrew's wild throw. Rick Reichart's grounder got the run in, sending Kaat, who issued only five hits to his ninth loss against 10 triumphs.

In other AL games, California ripped Baltimore 3-2, Milwaukee edged Detroit 3-2, Kansas city slugged Boston 11-3 and the New York Yankees topped Chicago 4-3.

In the National League, Chicago downed San Francisco 6-3, San Diego outthit St. Louis 9-7, Atlanta downed Montreal 4-1, Cincinnati ripped the New York Mets 6-1 and Houston edged Philadelphia 4-3.

Sam McDowell, 17-7, struck out nine and gave up three hits in stopping the A's winning streak at five games.

The left-hander was touched for the three runs—all unearned—in the third on Tommy Davis' two-out bases-loaded double. Davis got to bat when Cleveland's Duke Sims dropped a foul fly off the bat of Blue Moon Odom, who eventually walked.

Vada Pinson homered for the Indians in the first and Cleveland won it in the fifth with three runs. Graig Nettles and Roy Foster had run-scoring hits and another came in on a wild pitch.

Roger Repoz snapped a 2-2 tie with a leadoff eighth inning homer off Orioles' reliever Moe Drabowsky for the Angels' triumph.

Jim Fregosi had a homer for the Angels while Frank Robinson drove in both Baltimore runs with a ground out and double.

Dave May's solo homer in the fifth inning snapped a tie and gave the Brewers their thriller over the Tigers and Denny McLain, 2-4.

Campbell Relieved

MONTREAL (AP) — Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, said Thursday he was "greatly relieved and very gratified" with a court decision turning down baseball star Curt Flood's anti-trust suit filed against baseball's reserve clause.

In an interview, Campbell said:

"I feel greatly relieved about the improved stability that all professional sport now finds itself in.

"The decision will tend to stabilize all professional sport for the time being... since a decision against the clause would have left all sport in a chaotic position."

Judge Irving Ben Cooper rejected a suit in New York Tuesday filed by Flood asking for an injunction and for damages of $1.4 million after he was traded by the St. Louis Cardinals to the Philadelphia Phillies.

Judge Cooper upheld the legality of the controversial reserve clause and suggested any change should be made through player-owner negotiations.

Campbell said he felt negotiation was not the answer "but rather I feel it essential that legislation be passed on the matter to guarantee confidence and assurance for both the players and management."

Garcia Wins For Tampa, Florida

ASHEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — Carlos Garcia singled with two out in the 10th inning to give West Tampa, Fla., a 1-0 victory over Norfolk, Va., Thursday night in the Southern Regional Little League Baseball Tournament.

In a losers bracket game, Winston-Salem scored a 4-2 triumph over Brenham, Tex., knocking the Texans out of the double-elimination tournament.

The Floridians, now 2-0 in the tournament, were to play the winner of this forenoon's Winston-Salem-Norfolk game later today.

John Tagliarino pitched the entire game for Tampa, giving up six hits and striking out 14.

In the first game, John Turner pitched a three-hitter for Winston-Salem and also got two hits. Teammates Mickey Lyons and Drew Schuett also had two hits.

Edwin Morrow got two of the Texans' hits.

The third sign of the zodiac is Gemini, the twins.

This pesticide will start to self-destruct in seven days.

After destroying the bugs, it destroys itself. In a week it begins breaking down into harmless parts.

Developed at Union Carbide, Sevin carbaryl insecticide gets rid of bugs without harming anything else. Like birds, fish, or people. (Sevin doesn't build up in living tissue.)

Which is why it's one of the most widely used bug killers in the world.

In America, it's the one used to combat the gypsy moth. A creature of the Northeast who thrives on oak and shade trees. But will take on an entire forest if he's in the mood.

The first year he feeds on a tree, he strips it bare. If he goes for seconds, the tree will likely die.

Because of Union Carbide, trees that are properly treated will continue to have leafy arms and be an inspiration to poets.

As for the gypsy moth.

His first meal is his last.

L. League Loses

The Little League State Champs were defeated yesterday in St. Petersburg by the score of 2-0. The Little League will play today at 5:30 against Belmont Heights who defeated by Georgia. Mike Mills pitched a perfect game yesterday in defeating the Florida team, in the other Little League game. In the first inning was the only time that Greenville really threatened the Florida team. Weeks walked and Moye walked then both of them stole second and third.

In the first inning Florida led off with Cutts getting an infield hit and then he went to second on a passed ball. Thomas came up and he singled Cutts in with the first run for the Florida team.

The third brought in the final run for the Florida team. Tinsley got an infield hit and then advanced to second when the ball was errored. Tinsley stole third and then scored on an infield hit by Cutts.

The game with Belmont Heights will decide the third place team and the last place team. The championship will played at 8:00 tonight.

Conspiracy Plea Fails

CHICAGO (AP) — A motion to reverse the conviction of five persons found guilty of crossing state lines to incite rioting the week of the 1968 Democratic National Convention has been denied by a federal appeals court.

Still pending is their appeal on grounds other than the electronic surveillance cited in the rejected motion.

Defense attorneys had argued in their motion that illegal electronic surveillance of telephone conversations was used to obtain the convictions.

The 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled Thursday that surveillance logs submitted to it contain no evidence of eavesdropping on the defendants, their attorneys or their staff.

The defendants convicted in a five-month U.S. District Court trial are David T. Dellinger, Rennie C. "Rennie" Davis, Abbott "Abbie" Hoffman, Jerry C. Rubin and Thomas Hayden.

Motorcycle And Car Collided

Dennis Frank Turner, 21, of Route 7, Winston-Salem was charged with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident yesterday following an 8:30 p.m. collision on 10th Street, 150 feet east of the Rock Springs Road intersection.

Officers said the motorcycle driven by Turner collided with a car operated by Scott Buck of Route 3, Greenville, causing an estimated $500 damage to the motorcycle and no damage to the car.

Turner was reported injured in the collision.

Ballet Troupe Sees Rebellion

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — The allocation to guest star Rudolf Nureyev of some of the most coveted solos during the Australian Ballet Company's coming American tour has set off a rebellion among the company's stars.

Three of the troupe's eight principal dancers have resigned, and two more are expected to quit. One of the rebels, Warren de Maria, said the resignations had been brewing for some months and were triggered by announcement that Nureyev would dance his version of the Don Quixote Act 3, the Raymonda Variations and the Australian ballet "The Display."

MENTAL HEALTH CARE LAGGING

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A shortage of trained health experts is hindering effective care in mental disease, according to a panel of psychiatrists. Dr. Irving Phillips of the University of California's Langley Porter Institute says there are about 1.4 million children who need psychiatric care but less than 50,000 are getting it.

McKeithan Will Speak At Luau

RALEIGH (AP) — Louisiana Gov. John J. McKeithan will speak Sept. 5 at the second annual Governor's Luau at Wrightsville Beach to raise funds for the North Carolina Democratic party.

Gil Horton of Wilmington, luau chairman, said tentative plans call for McKeithan to arrive at Wrightsville Beach Friday afternoon, Nov. 4 and participate in a "shrimperoo" sponsored by the Lower Cape Fear Democratic Men's Club that night.

Salty Perspective By A Veteran Jurist

Come to Church

By LOU NEAL
Shelby Star Writer
Written for The AP
NEWTON, N.C. (AP)—From a vantage point of more than 50 years in the courtroom—with more than 40 of those years on the bench—Judge Wilson Warlick, U.S. District Judge for Western North Carolina, views the evolution of the judicial system in the state and in the nation with a unique perspective.

A dignified southern gentleman with craggy features and a mane of neatly swept back white hair, Warlick speaks with both authority and humor, with sympathy and legal insight into the changing court philosophy. Informally, his conversation is salted with mild, harmless profanity and homely dialect.

A strong adherent of capital punishment, Warlick says, "There is no question that the death penalty is a strong deterrent to crime. That's the reason there's so much hell-raising today and everything is turned upside down. The death penalty is not used as it once was. The criminal thinks he can get by."

Of judges as persons, Warlick says, "Every judge is human. Now a lot of appellate courts don't think so. But judges are human. They (defendants) think because you give a defendant two years when maybe six months seems to have been enough, you are obtuse as hell. As a matter of fact, your heat is a damn sight bigger than theirs, probably. And you'll do more and speak kinder and more courteously than they would."
"I'm not critical of appellate courts, but I've seen some of them walk and look neither to the right nor to the left, but straight down the line. If they would look to the side a time or two, they would better see where they are going," he said.
Warlick said he thinks there are "basically sound reasons" for liberalizing court rules, but that the appellate courts are taking too much time to "decipher what they ought to do."
"After all, the criminal is smart," he continued. "They often overlook that. As a matter of fact, he is smart as hell. The fact of the matter is that sometimes he has got a lot more sense than a lot of the judges. And he can come up with some of the most extraneous things you ever heard."
He then alluded to a case where a group of forgers were caught with counterfeit bills in the state, were investigated by the FBI, pleaded guilty and were later sent to federal prison.
For the price of two cartons of cigarettes, a writer, himself a convict, was able to get a new trial by implying that a court-appointed lawyer had taken money from the defendants illegally and made a "deal" with the judge for a suspended sentence.

"Now, a charge that could not stand. The lawyer was a fine, upstanding citizen, a former member of the General Assembly," the judge said. "I had never heard of the damn thing. I compelled them to come to court. They came in and told us not a word of it was true. Someone had told them that this writ writer might get them a suspended sentence on the grounds a judge would be afraid to hear it (malpractice charges against the lawyer) . . . Now, all that is just ridiculous."
"Sometime, the court of appeals, and I'm not critical of them, is going to find out that in some instances, they bring a lot of work on themselves."
A judge's prerogative in sentencing a defendant has a wide range of latitude under the law, he pointed out. "I think we have to consider the defendant, his record, his home background, how he can benefit from counseling and they'll help him get a job."
"Warlick was graduated from Catawba College and then went to the University of North Carolina Law School at Chapel Hill where he finished in 1913 at 20 years old too young for the bar exam—which he took later in the year. He then opened an office in his hometown of Newton.
A long-time friend, the late Gov. Clyde Hoey, appointed him to the Superior Court bench in 1929.
The Superior Court judgeship was an elective office with eight-year tenure. Against three contenders he won at the end of his first term, but he never faced opposition again in 26 years.
In 1955 Warlick was appointed to the federal bench.
Now semiretired, Warlick said, "It has been a rich and rewarding experience."

Social Security Marks Birthday

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Social Security, subject of raging controversy in its infancy, is 35 years old today.

Some of the chief architects of the Social Security Act are holding a little party in Ann Arbor during a break in the 23rd annual Conference on Aging.

"It was a great day," recalled Wilbur Cohen, who was a 22-year-old researcher in the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt and helped draft the act. "Everybody was elated about it."

Cohen later worked for the Social Security Board and years later supervised Social Security operations as secretary of health, education and welfare under President Lyndon B. Johnson. He is now dean of the College of Education at the University of Michigan, which is host to the Conference on Aging.

Cohen recalled the sharp attacks on the act by Alf Landon, Roosevelt's 1936 opponent for president, who called it "a cruel hoax on the working man."

When Roosevelt signed the act Aug. 14, 1935, even some in the Democratic administration were concerned that it would be overturned by the Supreme Court, Cohen said. The court up-

Says Racism Was Factor

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—The head of President Nixon's Commission on Campus Unrest says racism was involved in the police fusillade at Jackson State College when two black youths were killed.

William W. Scranton, former governor of Pennsylvania and commission chairman, summed up his views after a three-day hearing on the May 14 shooting at the predominantly Negro college.

"I think it's very clear that racism is the major problem involved in the Jackson State incident," he said.

"I don't mean to insinuate that there is no racism anywhere else . . . but it seems to be outstandingly so here, from the testimony we have heard," Scranton added.

Some others on the nine-member commission were outspokenly critical of the police volley, which sent some 250 rifle and shotgun rounds into a girl's dormitory.

Inspector Lloyd Jones, the ranking highway patrolman on the scene, testified that officers opened fire because they were under sniper fire from the dormitory.

"I am absolutely convinced there was no sniper fire," said Dr. James E. Cheek, president of Howard University and a commission member.

The commission will hold a similar hearing next week at Ohio's Kent State University, where four students fatally wounded during an outburst of gunfire by National Guardsmen.

10-FOLD GAIN
TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—State tax officials say all property in Florida including tax-exempt listings is worth $50.7 billion, a 10-fold increase in 18 years.

held it in 1937.
Cohen attributed the Supreme Court decision to Roosevelt's overwhelming victory over Landon and to his efforts to enlarge the court. Cohen said "the Supreme Court got the message and began changing."
"That is why I say Roosevelt's effort to pack the court was successful."
Arthur Altmeyer, 79, first commissioner of Social Security, was invited for today's ceremonies in Ann Arbor. He is the only surviving member of the original Social Security Board, Cohen said.

He said Roosevelt would surely be surprised to hear that some of his old Republican foes had come to support Social Security. He said life insurance now in force under the act equals all the private life insurance in effect—or $1 trillion.

Blue Collar Needs Cited

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ten million blue-collar workers have problems that could make them listen to the "demagogic appeal" of politicians like George Wallace, says a report to President Nixon.

The six-week-old report was released Thursday but its author—Asst. Secretary of Labor Jerome M. Rosow—denied the delay had been caused by controversy over its findings, which had leaked earlier.

It covered 10 million workers earning $5,000 to $10,000 a year. "They are overripe for a political response to the pressing needs they feel so keenly," it said.

Their income peaks when their family expenditures are heaviest, they suffer the most from inflation and their jobs lack status, the report said.

Many get no paid sick leave, pension plans or life insurance and most never expect a promotion to a better job.

'Too Early' To Talk Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP)—It is too early to say whether President Nixon might meet with Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin during 25th anniversary ceremonies at the United Nations this fall, the White House says.

The heads of all U.N. nations have been invited to the ceremonies, and both the United States and Soviet Union have reserved time during the opening debate of the General Assembly session.

However, presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Thursday, "It is premature to discuss the President's schedule for that time." And Washington informants say the Russians have given no sign who will represent them.

KILLED IN ACTION

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department has announced that Army Sgt. Herman V. Sturm Jr. of Kannapolis, N.C., has been killed in action in the war in Southeast Asia.

VISITS AGNEW — On a recent visit to Washington, R. Frank Everett, candidate for Congress, was in conference with Vice-President Agnew. Everett said he was "very optimistic" as to the chance of getting the Vice-President to visit the First Congressional District before November. Everett was accompanied by Kenneth Roberson.

Stronger Leaf Prices Noted

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Flue-cured tobacco prices were mostly steady to higher Thursday on the Border North Carolina and South Carolina belts.

Increases were mostly $1 to $3 per hundred pounds, the Federal-State Market News said. Most gains were $1.

A large percentage of non-descript and less fair lugs lowered quality of offerings. The biggest gains in prices were for some unripe leaf.

Most sales were of low and fair leaf, low and fair primings, fair lugs and nondescript. Light to heavy volume was reported.

Sales Wednesday averaged $71.74 per hundred, down 25 cents from Tuesday. A total of 10,563,629 pounds were sold.

Kennedy's Auto Now Scrapped

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's auto in which Mary Jo Kopechne drowned has been scrapped.

The senator's administrative assistant, David Burke, said Thursday a dealer was asked to junk the auto after Massachusetts state police requested that it be removed from their property because all legal proceedings have ended.

Burke said no money was received. "It was of no value to anyone."

He said the car was disposed of "a month or two ago" because of the possibility its existence could lead to further speculation about the 1969 accident on Chappaquiddick Island, Mass.

He declined to name the scrap dealer or say how the auto was disposed of "because it might just turn into a hunt for it."

Burke denied published reports the auto was sunk at sea.

Priests Endorse Nixon Program

RALEIGH (AP)—The North Carolina Priests Association has endorsed the Nixon administration's family assistance program which seeks to assure a minimum level of income for poor families.

The Catholic Association, in approving the program Thursday, said it will encourage the Tar Heel congressional delegation to support the legislation.

A spokesman for the association said the legislation is a first step in a complete revision of the nation's welfare laws.

WHEREVER WE LIVE

Harold assured Dave and Tommy that moving day did not mean the end of life for us. In fact, we were not going to the end of the earth. Many people would still be around us. Of course, not our same favorite people . . . whom we will keep on loving even though we don't see them . . . but new friends who would find places in our lives.

And that's the way it happened. Our new neighbors opened their hearts to us. Our boys brought school friends home with them to play and sometimes to eat dinner.

Best of all, our family found a new church home — among people we welcomed us because they loved God. Anywhere we go in our country, there is always a church where we can worship with other people.

You, too, can find one wherever you move—and right where you are now.
