Assigning Of Teachers & Pupils OK'd

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

The Pitt County Board of Education last night approved the assigning of teachers and pupils for the coming year, and named a half-dozen new principals including W.C. Wiggins as principal of the Ayden-Grifton High School.

The board also initially approved, then later rejected a plan to charge $15 per year tuition for residents of the Greenville School District who attend Pitt County Schools, and approved the closing of Bethel Union school.

The assignment of teachers was made upon the recommendation of county school superintendent Arthur S. Alford who told the board members that his recommendations were based on guidelines established by the Federal Court in that about one-third of all teachers assigned to any school are black. Assignment of students, he indicated, was made as directed by the court.

New principals approved last night included: David Plummer at W. H. Robinson High, Bernard Haselrig at Bethel Primary; Ethridge Ricks at Falkland Primary, Eugene Morris at Ayden High, and Nelson Baldree at Grifton High.

The board officially approved Wiggins as principal at the Ayden-Grifton consolidated high school which is scheduled to open at mid-year. W.C. Latham, as announced earlier, will serve at principal at the new North Pitt consolidated high school which will open at the beginning of the coming school term.

Board of Education members also approved a pay policy for principals in the county.

Principals of the four consolidated high schools will be hired on a 12-month basis and will receive five per cent of their state-allotted salary from the county as a supplement for travel. Other principals, who are hired for a period ranging from 10 1/4 to 11 1/4 months will also receive five per cent of their salary from the county for travel, with the exception of those principals living in county-owned houses. Those men, according to board action, will receive no supplement other than the rent-free home. Under the approved pay plan, Latham will receive about $15,950 in state funds as principal of the North Pitt school, while Wiggins' projected salary would amount to about $15,120 in state money. As presently projected, Russ Cotton will assume the principalship of the new Farmville High School when completed and his state salary is projected at $14,212, while as principal of the D. H. Conley school Robert Carraway (now principal at Winterville High) would receive an estimated $15,120 in state funds.

State pay for principals is based in part on the number of teachers in a school. On motions from Robert Pierce of Farmville, the county board first approved, then rejected a plan to charge students transferring from the Greenville City to the Pitt County school district $15 per year tuition.

Pierce, in making his original motion, said more than 300 city district children attend county schools as compared with about 85 county children attending school in Greenville. This, he indicated, places a burden on county facilities, in that special district levies are expended on the city children attending in the county. The city system, he noted, charges a $60 fee to county students to off-set the special Greenville district tax levy.

Sinking

ABOARD THE USS HARTLEY (AP) — Water poured into the hold of the dilapidated Liberty ship LeBaron Russell Briggs today and the hulk began sinking with its controversial load of nerve gas.

An eight-man team of specialists spent about two hours aboard the ship preparing it for scuttling. Then they turned wheels on the deck opening seven valves deep in the hold of the rusting vessel.

Sea water began flowing in at 11:45 a.m., EDT, and the slow sinking process began.

Heavy Sales On Eastern Belt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heavy volume and prices ranging from $71 to $75 per hundred pounds were reported today as sales of flue-cured tobacco began on North Carolina's sprawling Eastern Belt.

The Federal-State Market News Service at Wilson said a check of some of the belt's 17 markets showed top tobacco going at prices up to $81.

Farmers were expecting a record opening-day price of about $73.50, compared to last year's figure of $73.21.

The prediction of the record price came from John H. Cyrus, tobacco marketing specialist for the North Carolina Department of Agriculture.

Cyrus said prices by grades should run from $1 to $5 higher than last year, with government support prices up 4 per cent.

"They've got a good crop down there," Cyrus said in Raleigh. "It's comparable to last year's good smoking crop. They got the rains in time to produce a good medium to thin-bodied crop."

The belt's 17 markets were allotted 4 1/2 hours of selling time, beginning at 9 a.m.

Because of the reduction in selling time from last year's 5 hours, Cyrus said, the day's total sales would probably be down from that year's 12.5 million pounds.

Tobacco experts were keeping a close watch on the amount of leaf being sold under government price supports to the Flue-Cured Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corp.

Farmers, warehousemen and officials all expressed satisfaction on prices realized in the opening hours of the 1970 tobacco sales in Greenville.

Prices per pound ranged generally from 74 to 81 cents per pound, with the better leaf bringing higher prices. A sampling of the first row sold in one warehouse, showed 47 piles of tobacco averaging out to 78 cents a pound. A later sampling in another warehouse showed the average price per pound to be holding at 75 cents per pound.

If the trend continues throughout the first day of sale, prices could average somewhat higher than the expected $73.50 per pound predicted for the opening day.

Fred Royster, managing director of the Bright Belt Warehouse Association, said the "quality of tobacco is exceptionally good. It is the best I've ever seen on opening sale."

Royster, since 1957 managing director and from 1945 to 1957 president of the association, added, "Competition between buyers is good. Only a small percentage of tobacco is going to Stabilization."

Noah Raynor, a local warehouseman stated "it is one of the smoothest openings I've ever seen. We have a good grade of tobacco on the floor. Farmers seem well pleased with the prices."

Raynor added that "common grades of tobacco are high today."

Another tobacco official making the rounds of warehouses on opening day was J. N. Bryan, newly appointed sales supervisor for the Greenville Tobacco Market.

"The way tobacco looks today we have an excellent quality crop. Prices should be real good. Tobacco farmers can rest assured that we in Greenville are working for the top dollar for them."

Bryan, former district director for the Agricultural Stabilization Conservation Service, noted, "I have been working with farmer since 1933. I've always felt they should get top dollar value for all their commodities."

Warehouseman W. Arthur Tripp commented that "the opening looks real good. It is a good crop of tobacco. People from the Georgia and border areas who have come to look at our crop here say it is the best grade of thin smoking tobacco they have seen."

Typical of comments from farmers is that expressed by Dallas Rogers, who lives on the Pactolus Highway. "I think prices are doing mighty well. From what I've seen on the floor, prices for tobacco that is no better than average tobacco are really good."

Indicating his tobacco which had just been sold, Rogers commented, "I had 1,188 pounds which sold for 76 to 82 cents a pound, and that's not bad at all. I'm pleased with the results."

At one warehouse the first 18 piles sold went for more than 80 cents — 16 piles at 81 cents, one each at 80 and 82. After the first flurry of excitement prices leveled out and began to range from 74 to 81, with the darker, shorter tobacco bringing the lower prices.

Men, women and children all eagerly followed the auctioneers and expressed pleasure as prices of 75, 76 and 77 cents became the standard, with the better grades commanding 78, 80 and 81 cents per pound.

Investigate Cause Of Fish Kill Here In Drainage Canal

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Representatives from the State Water and Air Resources Department and the Division of Inland Fisheries are trying to determine the cause of a fish kill that was discovered Sunday in a drainage canal just off the Stokes Highway north of here.

Tuesday morning, members of the two state divisions and wildlife protectors were on hand to gather the dead fish from the approximately one mile stretch in an effort to determine the origin of the kill.

According to Don Tobaben, fishery biologist with the Division of Inland Fisheries the pick-up of dead fish will be followed by a count weighing and identification of the species and tests on the water will be conducted by the Water and Air Resources Department.

Tobaben noted that most of the dead fish recovered were small, with very few running over six inches in length. He added that many of the dead species which totaled approximately 150 in count, were of the non-gamefish variety.

So far, redbin pickeral, perch, catfish, and various other varieties of fish have been picked up by biologist, he said.

Selecting Jury For Capital Case Here

The selection of a jury began this morning in the case of Elmo Barber, of Greenville charged with rape and first degree burglary — both capital cases — at a Brook Valley residence April 27.

Barber, Negro, and a white man Thomas Earl Stocks of Greenville, have both been charged with assaulting Mrs. Ann Baker Barry in her father's home Windsor Road home after allegedly forcing their way into the dwelling while Mrs. Barry and her child were asleep. Both Barber and Stocks were arraigned on the charges in Superior Court before presiding judge Joshua S. James yesterday.

District solicitor Luther Hamilton said the State had elected to try the two defendants separately.

After about an hour's questioning, the first prospective juror, the Rev. John A. Moore of Greenville was rejected by the defense.

Hamilton said selection of the jury is expected to take several days.

City School Board Refrains From Considering 'Amendment'

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Members of Greenville's Board of Education last night acted on the advice of their attorney not to go into details or take further consideration at the time on the issue of a proposed amendment offered by residents of Hillsdale-Carolina Heights prior to the forthcoming hearing in Superior Court.

William Brewer, attorney representing school board members, and Laurence (Larry) Graham, attorney for citizens seeking consideration of the proposed amendment, were each given an opportunity to present a report on the matter. "It is not proper for the board at this time to consider the amendment," Brewer informed board members in the presence of more than 100 interested persons attending the meeting held in the District Court Room of Pitt County Courthouse. "Today the board has filed an answering action to the complaint asking that the complaint be dismissed by the Superior Court since jurisdiction would pre-empt the U.S. District Court," Brewer said. "The board takes a stand the Superior Court has no jurisdiction at this time."

Brewer revealed that "the same plaintiff, on the same grounds, today entered a motion asking Judge Larkins to intervene in the case already in the U.S. District Court, asking Judge Larkins to consider whether their constitutional rights had been violated."

Judge Larkins will later this week make a ruling on whether to permit the request made by the plaintiff for intervention.

Brewer explained that the suit brought by Christopher Henderson for a minor, Barry C. Henderson, constitutes a class action on behalf of about 200 students, who "essentially are alleging they are being assigned to Sadie Sautler School for the 1970-71 school year in violation of their constitutional rights."

Graham, speaking for his clients, praised the school board, saying "it takes a great deal of wisdom to put together a plan that would not in some way affect the feelings and actions of some groups seriously. "It was impossible for you to see all the problems as the plan is too encompassing, too far reaching," he observed.

On the complaint against the school board, Graham stated, "Our thinking is that the plan renders them (residents of the Hillsdale-Carolina Heights area) a great injustice for two reasons."

The two reasons he noted were — most of the students of this group had to make the change from Agnes Fullilove to South Greenville and are now being asked to make another change to Sadie Sautler; and that the plan takes a group of white students out of the area and brings in other white students to take their place.

Graham told the school board, "These reasons distinguish our group from any other group in town."

Referring to a talk he had with Federal District Court Judge John Larkins, Jr., Graham remarked "Judge Larkins mentioned if any action is taken by the board relative to amending the plan he would review such action within 24 to 48 hours."

Telling board members he could understand they might feel an amendment on their part might subject them to contempt of a federal court, Graham added, "If you vote on an amendment subject to approval of a federal court, I feel there can be no contempt of court."

Attorney M. E. Cavendish, stating he represented the Brook Valley Homeowners and 91 school children, said, "It seems strange you ask the board to admit they are wrong, that the plan is unfair. "If the board listens to every group, they are open to more trouble than can be imagined." "I'm at a loss to see how anyone can appear before the board with a club in one hand and a cone of ice cream in the other," he noted.

Cries of "no", "not true" came from a number of those present when Cavendish made that statement.

Brewer again reiterated his advice to board members not to discuss or consider the issue (Continued on page 10)

Tots Learn ABC's From Fashions

By CAROLYN A. BOWERS
NEW YORK (UPI)—ABC's take to fashion in clothes that teach as well as adorn.

The concept of educational clothes comes from Ruth Sharf, a children's wear designer, who feels that now is the perfect time to put the clothes on the market. "Everyone's so education conscious these days," she said in an interview. "Parents want to buy things that will teach their children something."

Miss Sharf's educational clothes include a manipulation group with big buckles, zippers, buttons and snaps to teach a child how to dress himself.

Another group with letter appliques teaches the alphabet. The letters are upside down so the child looks down on them. Clothes with red and green "stop" and "go" signals teach the fundamentals of traffic safety. Pre-schoolers can learn basic directions such as left and right or up and down with following directional arrows.

Miss Sharf said her fall collection will include a group to teach word-letter association, such as a denim pants set with the letter "R" and a picture of a rooster. She said she also planned to make more extensive use of snaps and laces.

"Although we have to keep giving the children something new, there are still certain basic functions that will remain, such as the manipulation and safety group," she said.

The educational clothes come in separates so they can be mixed or matched. All are for ages two to four, but Miss Sharf plans a new line that will go to age six. Prices range from $4 to $12.

Colors are bright and basic, styles simple but flattering. "Everyone has gone so fashion conscious," Miss Sharf said. "Children's clothes have become too complicated. We try to make these clothes simple, yet appealing."

"I stay with basic colors like blue, green and yellow and never use high fashion colors like purple," she said she has found that children react better to bright colors.

To the clothes in general, she said creations varied. "Each child reacts differently, but most are eager to learn. The important thing to get them interested in learning at an early age and to continue with it."

Miss Sharf, an avid fan of television's Sesame Street and Romper Room, said she found that little girls learn faster than little boys.

She's a former knitwear designer and a stylist for an underwear firm and says her idea for the educational clothes came from a young mother who remarked that since so many things were being done to educate children, why not clothes?

After doing some research on what children were capable of doing and not doing at certain ages, she added the educational clothes to her already existing children's wear company, Ruth Sharf, Ltd.

In January of this year, she decided to set up a separate firm, Educational Clothes, Inc. "Sales almost tripled the first season," she said. "The New York area was the first really to get in it, but the clothes are on the coast now and doing very well."

"If they're put in with everything else they just become another item," she said. "I would like to see them set up in separate departments and promoted that way."

Mrs. Wallace Serves On S. C. Staff

Mrs. Marie Wallace of Greenville was one of the teachers on the staff for the Dansorama by the Sea held at the Ocean Forst Hotel, Myrtle Beach, S.C., recently.

She is national vice president of the NADAA and president of Carolina Dixie Chapter No. 48 of NADAA.

Other noted persons who taught there were Ursula Stuart, a native of Germany, who at the age of 16 was accepted as a member of the Corps de Ballet, Dulce Anaya, who is guesting with the Miami Ballet Concerto, Buddy Sherwood, president of the Jacksonville, Fla., NADAA Chapter, Ray Hollingsworth, who is teaching on the national faculty in Los Angeles, Chicago, New York and New Orleans.

Mrs. Wallace also taught ballroom dancing at the dansorama. She is a member of the national faculty and national board of NADAA. She owns and operates four studios in eastern North Carolina. She taught tap and jazz at the New Orleans, La., convention in July.

Several of Mrs. Wallace's students attended the Dansorama and were given awards. They were Kim Johnson and Johnny Finkle of Farmville, Paige Levey and Tammy Levey of Greenville, and Paula Presley of Winterville. Mrs. Wallace's secretary, Miss Barbara Stocks, also attended.

PNB PLANTERS NATIONAL BANK

What Would It Cost To Replace Your Home?

Periodically, we have indicated the fact that your present insurance coverage on home and furnishings might not be adequate to cover their replacement in case of loss by fire or other insurable risks. As a reminder, we are pointing up some of the factors to consider and act upon—if necessary.

It is a natural tendency for people to be careless about matters that could become extremely important to them. This applies, particularly, in the matter of insurance coverage on their homes and household effects.

Generally, speaking, fire insurance policies are written for a period of three years. At expiration, we receive notice of renewal along with the bill and automatically, we renew the existing policy for another three years.

If this has been a routine procedure for the last couple of renewals, it is time to sit down and review the changes that might have bought or older pieces you might have replaced with newer and, invariably, more expensive items.

For instance, did you have a color TV set when the fire insurance policy was renewed the last time? If not, consider its replacement value if it was destroyed. The same thought should be given to the refrigerator-freezer or hi-fi stereo equipment or the new living room furniture or power tools.

Companies writing fire insurance policies follow this general pattern. The total replacement value of your property equals 100%. If you insure the property for 80% of its total value, then, in case of total destruction, the policyholder would receive the face amount of the policy. However, if through oversight or neglect or habit your policy only represents 50% of the full value of the property, you would only receive half the face amount of the policy.

As you can see, automatic renewal of a policy without giving thought to the appreciation in value of your property or the addition of new items could be costly.

The casual or thoughtless renewal of property insurance policies is probably due to a psychological quirk. For, nobody anticipates a fire or other disaster. It couldn't happen to them. Don't you believe it! Last year, fire losses, alone, amounted to over $1.7 billion and for the first five months of this year, they exceed $649 million.

If you have been treating the matter of your insurance coverage lightly, now is the time to sit down and take an inventory of your possessions. Do it physically, room by room and item by item so that nothing will be overlooked. You can get an estimate of their replacement costs by checking current prices for comparable items in the newspaper or local stores. Homeowners can determine the value of their property by comparison with houses of comparable construction in similar neighborhoods. Or better still, check values with your banker. He would be familiar with property values in the area.

When you have finished your appraisal, prepare yourself for a surprise. If averages hold true, you will find you are underinsured. The question to ask yourself, then, is "Can I afford the risk?" The chances are that the average family can't. It never anticipated the extraordinary expenses that crop up at a time of disaster. If we believe, as the old song says "There's no place like home", we should also realize there's nothing more valuable than our home.

Fiance Has Some Growing Up To Do

By Abigail Van Buren

(c) 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Joe and I are engaged to be married soon. He's intelligent, treats me good and I'm sure he loves me. However, we have this one argument every time any of my family calls, comes over or invites us to their home. Joe can't stand them, and he makes it obvious.

If he comes over and they are already here, the room gets silent and the atmosphere becomes tense as soon as he walks in the door. My family knows Joe doesn't like them.

He won't go to their house unless practically dragged by the hair, and when he does, he never talks. Joe is a shy person to begin with, but after two years, don't you think it's time he felt a little more at ease with them?

I make an effort to get along with everybody in HIS family, and there are a few I don't care for.

Abby, how can I get him to accept my family like I've accepted his? This really bothers me. JOE'S FIANCEE

DEAR FIANCEE: Joe may be "intelligent," but he has a lot of growing up to do. Any grown man who refuses to make an effort to be at least "pleasant" to his fiancée's family shows himself to be immature. He may be "naturally shy," but that's no excuse for rudeness. And if you're a sensitive girl who likes to see a lot of her family, you'd better recognize a king-sized threat to your marriage before it engulfs you.

DEAR ABBY: There is a young woman in our crowd who makes a habit of caressing the hand of the gentleman who is lighting her cigaret. In fact, I have observed that when she wants attention she will put a cigaret in her mouth and helplessly look around for a light until someone notices her.

I really wouldn't mind so much, but she does this to my husband. I trust my husband, Abby, but I don't trust her. How should I react to this tricky little maneuver without appearing jealous? And what do you suppose she's after?

GREEN EYES

DEAR GREEN: She's probably after a cheap thrill. Don't let it throw you. You have the bonfire. She's getting only the sparks.

DEAR ABBY: I was startled to discover some love letters from several men to my wife's closest friend. I thought my wife was merely secreting them for her until further discovery forced me to conclude that these extramarital games must be "contagious." Secreted in the same place was a large cache of birth control pills with my wife's name on the prescription. My wife should have no use for these pills since I have had a vasectomy 10 years ago when we both decided our family was complete.

When I asked her for an explanation, I was told I needed "psychiatric" help to cure me of snooping and to help me accept this changing world.

She did offer me an "excuse" for the pills. [They weren't necessarily for "birth control"—her doctor prescribes them for another reason.]

Do you think I am square to object to her continued close friendship with this woman friend?

SUSPICIOUS IN HOUSTON

DEAR SUSPICIOUS: Square, no. Fighting a losing battle, yes. It's hard to know who's corrupting whom—if indeed extramarital games are contagious. But women, like men, choose their own friends for their own reasons, which is their privilege.

DEAR ABBY: Copper bracelets for relieving the pain of arthritis have become a big business—400 million dollars a year! As healers, they are absolutely worthless.

Your recent comment, "copper bracelets may not do any good but they can't do any harm," was somewhat misleading, since prompt and correct medical treatment can prevent crippling in many cases. So, if victims of arthritis wear copper bracelets, hoping for a miraculous cure instead of seeking medical attention, much time is wasted, which is not only harmful, but tragic.

WARREN BENSON, TUCSON, ARIZ.

DEAR MR. BENSON: Thank you for your letter which was one of many urging me to set the record straight. And I hereby do so.

Dog's Fleas San Antonio Rallies To Curb Diphtheria Threat

By LARRY CALLOWAY
Associated Press Writer
SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Gov. David F. Cargo says fleas infected with bubonic plague have been found on his family's mongrel dog, Snoopy.

But Cargo said the dog had been completely defleaed and health officials said there was little chance of the governor's family contracting the dread disease.

Cargo acknowledged reluctantly Monday that Snoopy had been found harboring fleas infected with the scourge that decimated the population of Europe in the Middle Ages.

"He's been completely defleaed," Cargo said. "They've had some trouble with the plague in the neighborhood and took some precautions on it."

The affluent residential area in the hills north of Santa Fe, site of the governor's residence, produced last week New Mexico's fifth case of the plague this year. The unidentified 20-year-old woman was reported recovering.

Health officials were edgy Monday about saying whose dog had the plague.

Neil Weber, director of the vector control unit of the department, would say only that the dog was tested during a "routine surveillance."

He saw no danger to the family where the dog was found but acknowledged: "If the fleas hop off and bite a person, there's a chance the person will be infected." He said a medical check of the Cargo family was negative.

Asked if the dog was his, Cargo acknowledged that Snoopy's fleas were less than ordinary.

Weber said bubonic plague in its early stages, if diagnosed correctly, is easily cured with antibiotics. Dogs, he said, have a built-in immunity. He said there was nothing to connect the Cargo dog with detected cases of the plague.

No other state has had more detected cases of bubonic plague among humans in the past two years than this sparsely populated Southwestern state.

Health officials say the five cases so far this year in New Mexico and the five last year don't represent the entire incidence of the disease because many cases are cured by random doses of antibiotics before they are diagnosed.

All the New Mexico cases have resulted from contact with wild rabbits and rodents or their fleas, Weber said.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Health officials knew suspected cases of diphtheria in this epidemic city Monday and sent out an urgent appeal for all residents to be immunized.

More than 5,000 children and adults, some of them fainting as they lined up in mid-90 temperatures, received diphtheria shots Monday.

If formally confirmed, the new cases will hike to 28 the number of diphtheria patients recorded here since Aug. 1. Two children have died.

Officials declared an epidemic last week in this city of 750,000. So far, more than 10,000 have been immunized.

"It is foolhardy for anyone to go beyond a five-year period for obtaining his booster immunization," said Dr. William Ross, head of the Metropolitan Health District.

The five-year limit for adults marked an increased requirement, up from the 10-year repeat booster recommended for adults in normal circumstances.

Ross renewed his call for school districts here to require diphtheria shots. He said as many as "two-thirds of the school-age children are classified as susceptible to the disease."

The largest school district here announced a drive to provide free shots and spokesmen for two others indicated similar action may be considered.

He said healthy, immunized individuals can be carriers of the disease, "so we will continue to have cases of diphtheria and can expect to have them as long as there is a susceptible individual in the county."

Dr. Marthaly Green, head of the communicable diseases division for the health district, called for more volunteer nurses. She said about 45 would be needed. More than 40 registered nurses had volunteered by late Monday, officials said.

Dr. Green predicted 30,000 persons would obtain free shots this week.

The fainting and fatigue in the long lines Monday prompted health officials to move the main immunization center to the air-conditioned municipal auditorium, beginning today.

Rains And Low Clouds Curtail Battle Action In South Vietnam

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — More than 100 North Vietnamese attacked a South Vietnamese night camp before dawn today in northern South Vietnam, but the South Vietnamese drove the attackers off, said they killed 38 of them, and reported only one defender wounded.

It was the only significant ground action reported as heavy rains and low clouds blanketed the northernmost provinces. But the U.S. B52s were out as usual, with 50 of the big bombers flying raids, mostly on the Laotian side of the border.

The North Vietnamese attacked a South Vietnamese unit in night bivouac eight miles west of Fire Base O'Reilly, one of seven allied artillery bases guarding the approaches to the populous coastal lowlands. Planes were called in to illuminate the attackers with flares as the men in the camp fought back.

In addition to the 38 enemy killed, the South Vietnamese captured one prisoner, three heavy weapons, seven rifles and

Spark Touched Off Spectacular Whiteville Fire

WHITEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — A static electricity spark apparently touched off a spectacular oil terminal fire Monday which burned out of control for three hours.

Men from six fire fighting units brought the blaze under control after spilling oil had endangered several houses nearby.

W. Crowell Black, owner of Whiteville Oil Co., just outside the city limits, said he believed the blaze was ignited by static electricity from an oil tanker which was being loaded with fuel. He estimated the damage at tens of thousands of dollars.

Three firemen were taken to a hospital for treatment of smoke inhalation. Two were released and one was held for observation.

Inspection Of Buses Is Stepped Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Citing recent accidents which resulted in several deaths and scores of injuries, Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe says the government has stepped up its inspections of interstate buses.

His announcement Monday said the program would involve at least 5,000 buses in the next 60 days, with special emphasis on charters.

Early results show many buses already ordered to garages for repairs, he said.

The inspection drive is being concentrated at national and historic points of interest, since the tourist season is in full swing.

"This effort is designed to assure that buses in unsafe conditions are taken off the highways until all necessary repairs are made," Volpe said.

A charter bus Monday plunged down a mountainside at Hillsville, Va., killing one occupant and injuring 41. A group of young Chicago-area drum and bugle corps members were aboard.

Volpe pointed to another recent crash, at New Smithville, Pa., in which seven children were killed and 39 others injured.

In Cambodia, the Viet Cong ambushed a large rice convoy on its way to Phnom Penh Monday afternoon and a military spokesman said a great deal of rice was taken. He said he did not know what happened to the Cambodian troops escorting the convoy. The ambush occurred 45 miles north of Phnom Penh.

The spokesman also revealed that Cambodian Premier Lon Nol made his first visit to a battlefield Monday. A helicopter took him 80 miles north of Phnom Penh to Kompong Thom, which has been under siege for more than a month.

While he was there a brief fire-fight took place on the edge of the town. The premier returned to Phnom Penh before lunch.

Japan's biggest newspaper, Asahi Shimbun, reported today that Prince Norodom Sihanouk, the deposed Cambodian chief of state, told it that Chinese Premier Chou En-lai and North Vietnamese Premier Tran Van Dong have discouraged him from returning to Cambodia at the present time.

Sihanouk, in a written reply to questions submitted by the newspaper's correspondent in Peking, said the two premiers told him "the conditions for safety are still inadequate in the liberated area" meaning the part taken over by the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese. It includes most of the northern half of Cambodia.

Asked about reports that Mao Tse-tung has promised Sihanouk's supporters Chinese military and financial aid to overthrow the Cambodian government of Premier Lon Nol within three years, Sihanouk replied: "China promised aid to win the war, whether it takes one or 20 years."

The Practical Way To 'Protest'

Some 60 youths took a 125-mile hike from Wilmington to Raleigh picking up tons of litter in a protest against pollution.

This strikes us as a practical way to illustrate a commitment to cleaning up our environment.

There are too many people among us who like to rail at the oil industry and fuss about auto fumes, and then ride down the highway and toss out their trash.

There is no question that industry must clean up its air and water pollution and vehicles must be developed which don't foul the air. These things can only be brought about by an aroused public.

However, concern about ecology extends to

The Counties Alive & Well

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH — North Carolina's counties are alive and well, thank you, all 100 of them.

These historic local units, pressured by contemporary change and urgent citizen demands for government action, are responding by taking on new functions, developing multi-county cooperative programs, and examining seriously their own structure.

The suggestion that counties are a survival from feudal times and may be obsolete in the late 20th century drew a quizzical smile from John T. Morrissey. "Counties are indispensable. They are the building blocks," he said. "I should think you could do away with cities easier than counties."

He said it from the background of his present position as executive director and general counsel for the North Carolina Association of County Commissioners, and past experience as general counsel for the North Carolina League of Municipalities.

Evolution in Progress

If counties are not faced with extinction, they certainly are deep in the process of evolution.

Suburban growth patterns have created the need for urban services outside municipal limits. Water and sewer systems, garbage collection and solid waste disposal, land use and zoning, housing and recreation — counties today are involved in all of them, although not many years ago none would have been regarded as their responsibility.

Regional councils of government, in which the individual county is only one of several units, appears to be the wave of the future for grassroots implementation of state and federal programs.

Redistricting to make representation more nearly reflect population will diminish the political significance of county lines. Once each county had at least one representative in the General Assembly; in the 1969 session, 24 of the 100 counties had no resident House member of Senator but were represented as part of a district.

By no means least, counties are struggling with the need for tax sources adequate to finance their expanding revising our own personal habits so that the litter created by individuals doesn't contribute to pollution. There are too many of us who seem to feel that pollution is something the other guy ought to clean up.

These young people have shown that they recognize that preserving our natural wonders includes a personal commitment. Once we have done this then each of us has a right to turn our attention to what other people are doing.

Arms Limitation Can Be Promising Subject

It is encouraging that the administration sees reason for renewed optimism concerning a slowdown in the weapons race.

Curtailment of antiballistic missiles has been a key issue in the Arms Limitation Talks with the Soviet Union. Spokesmen say that the Safeguard ABM system has been a major talking point at the Vienna talks, with the Soviets expressing an interest in stopping development of the ABM.

The Arms Limitation Talks are due to resume in November and the United States should do all that it can to reach an accommodation with the Soviet Union. Neither nation should continue to expand spending in the arms race when both nations have domestic problems that need solving.

Agnew Shuns 'Committee'

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Vice President Spiro Agnew, fearful of smudging his image as the Nixon administration's star attraction in the South, has completely removed himself and his name from all involvement with the Agnew Cabinet Committee on school desegregation.

Set up by President Nixon last February, the Agnew Committee — now revealingly restyled the "Cabinet Committee" — still has Agnew's name on its letterhead stationery, but except for that one lingering piece of evidence, Agnew has disappeared entirely from the committee's work.

Thus, the several score letters from the committee inviting various educational and community leaders in the South to join bi-racial desegregation advisory committees now sprouting in each Southern state are not signed by Chairman Agnew. They bear the signature of George Shultz, former Labor Secretary and now head of the new Office of Management and Budget. Shultz is vice chairman of the Agnew Committee.

Some Administration officials claim that Agnew's vanishing act is strictly a matter of overwork. Having gotten the committee off the ground, they argue, he has now turned to more pressing affairs.

But Administration insiders — joined by Republican politicians in the South who want to preserve Agnew's political standing there — ridicule that explanation. To sign his name to letters setting up the state advisory committees, they note, would scarcely be time-consuming.

Rather, Agnew discovered that as chairman of the Agnew Committee he was unavoidably moving into the position of strong advocate of desegregation. Whatever his inner views on that volatile issue, a posture of strong advocacy would inevitably reduce the political magic of his name in the Southern states. Thus, by avoiding all White House sessions of the state bi-racial advisory groups on whom Mr. Nixon himself has been making an excellent impression) and by keeping his name off all committee business, Agnew preserves his political purity in the South.

Reflecting lack of enthusiasm inside the Democratic party over leading prospects for the 1972 Presidential nomination, still another dark horse is now being talked about privately: Supreme Court Justice Byron (Whizzer) White.

A member of the High Court since 1962, White has never run for office. His political dossier has only one entry — running John F. Kennedy's national citizens group in the 1960 campaign. Nevertheless, the former All-American, all-pro football player is under serious consideration by some prominent Wall Street Democrats thoroughly disenchanted with President Nixon and apprehensive about the leftward drift of major Democratic Presidential possibilities. They view Justice White's moderate court record and non-political image as ideal for a campaign against Mr. Nixon.

These Democratic money men have gone so far as to ask a prominent Midwestern Democratic politician close to White to feel him out about a Presidential bid. Although the politician declined to serve as go-between, other avenues are being explored.

Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird is about to score a coup by putting a Southern Democratic moderate with excellent Capitol Hill credentials in a top Pentagon post.

The Southerner is former Rep. Armistead Selden, edged out in Alabama's 1968 Democratic Senatorial primary by Wallace James Allen (who took the Senate seat in January 1969).

WHAT A HANGOVER!

By JAMES KILPATRICK

Slavery In Vineyards

The conventional liberal suffers a puzzling blind spot: However vigorously he may defend personal freedom in other areas, when it comes to the union shop his eyes glaze over. And nowhere is this blindness more evident than in the liberal view of the farmworkers of California.

Within the past few weeks, the five-year "strike" of the United Farmworkers Organizing Committee (UFWOC) has been called off. In point of fact, this was no strike in the usual sense; the AFL-CIO union, headed by Cesar Chavez, never could muster enough voluntary members to get up a good picket line. Nevertheless, the strike is over; the growers have capitulated; and every day brings word of new contracts picked up by Chavez.

Here in the effete East, this is hailed as great news. My liberal friends, who some months ago were throwing benefit cocktail parties for Chavez, are crowing at this triumph of "la causa." In local supermarkets, crates of table grapes bear union labels now. "Next comes lettuce," says one of my gleeful friends, rubbing his hands. "Then melons, vegetables, fruits..."

It may be so. But perhaps there would not be quite so much psalm singing if the process of settlement were more widely understood. These glorious contracts reek of the docks — the docks of Charleston and New Orleans 120 years ago. Like slavetraders and plantation owners, Chavez and the growers are buying and selling human beings.

Consider. If this were any other field of industry in interstate commerce, the affected workers would be subject to all the procedural protections of Taft-Hartley and the National Labor Relations Board. But farmworkers are not covered by Taft-Hartley. If they were, they would be entitled to an election, by secret ballot, in which they could vote for the UFWOC, the Teamsters, or for no union at all. Before and after such an election, the workers' rights would be protected by Federal law.

The poor chattels who are the victims of these California contracts have no such protection. On the record — the record of the UFWOC's own reports to the

Other Editors Say Bargaining Chip

(Christian Science Monitor)

There have been too many high-flying statements on both sides of the antiballistic missile (ABM) debate. To put things in immediate perspective let us note that:

The Soviets have been installing a limited antiballistic missile system around Moscow and Leningrad, to defend these key cities. And the United States has constructed two Safeguard ABM sites in Montana and North Dakota, to protect the Minuteman intercontinental missile complexes there.

No expert is sure how effective any antiballistic missiles can be in knocking down incoming missiles aimed at cities or sites. Defense is at a disadvantage here.

The realistic Soviet negotiators at the strategic arms limitation (SALT) talks in Vienna know all this. So do the American negotiators. But they also know that in the chess-match business of reaching a missile standstill, these ABM emplacements are "bargaining chips." (And maybe they are a slight defense against a limited Chinese nuclear threat.) If the ABM sites exist on each side, they can be negotiated away equally.

It would be better for the SALT talks, which have been making real progress at Vienna and will be resumed later at Helsinki, if no ABM and no multiple warheaded missiles ever existed. But they do exist. President Nixon, and the Senate in its current debate, must cope with conditions as they are. Washington must not provocatively boost its missile threat, but it must also counter the Soviet SS9 giant missiles aimed perhaps at the American Minuteman complexes.

With Moscow and Washington fairly equal in strategic arsenals, the time is ripe to agree on an overall standstill and then to proceed, selectively or across the board, to cut back on the fearsome aggregations of overkill. Reportedly the standstill agreement is a hand.

The Nixon administration appears at this writing to have the Senate votes to keep the Safeguard ABM system from being halted. The American negotiator at Vienna, Gerard C. Smith, has apparently affirmed to doubting senators that Safeguard's existence is useful to the success of the negotiations. But the real necessity is to get on with the arms control talks, while Washington maintains a heads-up missile research and evaluation program, to guard against any surprise technological developments by Moscow.

Chain food stores now have an estimated 69.1 per cent of the United States food market, compared with 45.9 per cent in 1961, according to a 10-year survey by Chain Store Age.

Top in total sales in 1969 was the A & P chain, with sales of $5.8 billion, followed by Safeway with $4.1 billion, Kroger with $3.5 billion, Food

Next was DeMoules Super Markets, Inc., Chelmsford, Mass., with $5.5 million sales in each of its 12 stores. Foodarama Supermarkets, Inc., Freehold, N. J. and Village Supermarkets, South Orange, N. J., shared fourth place with sales of $5 million average in a total of 42 markets. Fifth was Giant Food, Inc., Landover, Md., with a $3.85 million average in 90 stores.

Supers Ascendant The survey also showed that while the total number of food establishments of all kinds dropped from 339,877 in 1960 to 282,300 in 1969, the number of supermarkets rose from 26,732 to 40,213.

The magazine lists 150 chains that were not in existence 10 years.

The survey also disclosed changes in patterns of American life, such as:

Snack sales have increased 300 per cent in the last three years.

More people must be living alone because sales of single-portion food products are booming, especially in metropolitan areas.

Supermarket sales rose $2.7 billion last year to $56.7 billion.

Pasta sales shot up in the last half of 1969 as more families were pressured by the rising cost of living to eat cheaper foods.

Foreign Foods Boom Sales of all kinds of foreign and ethnic foods are increasing. Health food items are increasing, notably fat-free milk, cottage cheese and yogurt.

Sales of gourmet frozen dinners and prepared desserts are rising.

Pet food sales have shot up, with many people buying gourmet foods for their cats and dogs.

Cheewing gum sales are increasing, as they do in times of national tension.

One of the reasons life is more comfortable in this country than in Russia is that 60 per cent of U.S. workers are engaged in service occupations compared with only 30 per cent in the U.S.S.R. Only 5 per cent of the U.S. labor force is required to provide food for the nation. In Russia the figure is 27 per cent.

CRACKPOTS?

Many of us were among the crackpots who believed that man would some day reach the moon. Those who called us crackpots are quite sure now of our lunacy when we talk about reaching the planet Mars.

A distinguished scientist said recently that the universe is crawling with life. Our galaxy alone contains a hundred thousand million billion bodies, and some of us believe that if the Creator made all these heavenly bodies and put life only one of the most insignificant of planets named Earth then He wasted a considerable amount of real estate.

Mars undoubtedly cooled millions of years before the planet Earth. If life is introduced on planets at a certain definite time in their history, then the planet Mars has probably had life existing there for million of years and the assumption would be that the people of Mars know vastly more than we do. Wouldn't you like to live until someone either discovers life on Mars or proves that it cannot possibly exist there? We have been overwhelmed in recent decades by scientific discoveries, yet the more discoveries we make the more are we sure that we know very little of the whole truth about the universe. What is life that can be snuffed out in a little instant? What is time? What does this whole vast universe exist for anyway? When Albert Einstein discovered that energy equals mass multiplied by the square root of the speed of light (186 thousand miles per second) he was not a cloistered scholar but an employee going to his office every day and returning home in the evening to read the newspaper.

Kill Suspect At Break-In

MOUNT AIRY, N. C. (AP) — A man was shot to death Monday by a policeman investigating a reported break-in at a supermarket.

Police Chief Joe Simmons gave this account:

Policeman J. O. Miller and D. J. York arrived at an A&P grocery after a complaint and saw a man running from a door and around the side.

The policemen gave chase in their car and saw the man standing beside another car. The man pulled a pistol, pointed it at Miller, and began walking towards the police car.

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., who says he wants to give women the best of both worlds, is leading an attack against the House version of a constitutional amendment to guarantee women equal rights with men.

The North Carolina Democrat, considered one of the Senate experts on the Constitution, has no quarrel with the portion of the House-passed amendment that invalidates laws discriminating against women.

But he plans to introduce Wednesday a substitute that also would retain laws designed to protect women. This provision, for example, would continue to exempt the fairer sex from the draft.

He said in an interview that if the amendment passed by the House last week by a 350-15 vote should be approved by the Senate and ratified by the states, it would create chaos in the field of constitutional law.

He said constitutional lawyers with whom he has consulted say the proposed amendment—which has been pending in Congress 47 years—either means nothing or would have the effect of invalidating all federal and state laws making any distinction between men and women.

"I don't know which is the correct position," Ervin said.

But if the latter interpretation is correct, adoption of the amendment "would leave a vacuum that only could be filled by subsequent acts of Congress and the state legislatures."

On Ervin's motion, the Senate Judiciary Committee voted last Wednesday to take testimony from constitutional authorities and explore all legal ramifications of the House-passed amendment.

But Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., had it placed on the Senate calendar without being referred to the Judiciary Committee for consideration.

The job: Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for International Security Affairs (ISA) — the Pentagon's foreign policy shop. Selden has close ties with both the House Foreign Affairs Committee (where he served) and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, whose second-ranking Democrat, Sen. John Sparkman, is his political godfather.

Pentagon officials hope that Selden may ease the acute political split between Democratic Vietnam doves and the Nixon administration.

The Democratic National Committee may give an early acceptance to Miami Beach's strong bid for the 1972 nominating convention, putting pressure on Republicans also to select the Florida resort city.

That increases the prospect of both conventions being held in Miami Beach, the first time for a mutual convention city since 1952 in Chicago.

U.S. Department of Labor — the grapeworkers, by and large, wanted no part of Chavez' union. They simply would not join of their own accord. The few "elections" that were conducted were a travesty, wholly lacking in the safeguards demanded by the NLRB in bargaining unit elections elsewhere.

Now the workers have no choice. The agreements that are being signed are contracts between the growers and the UFWOC, by which "Company does hereby recognize Union as the sole labor organization representing Company's agricultural employees (herein called 'workers'), and recognizes and agrees to treat and negotiate with Union as the sole and exclusive bargaining agent for and on behalf of such workers on properties owned or leased by Company, and all over workers employed by Company."

The contract continues: "Union membership shall be a condition of employment. Each worker shall be required to become a member of Union immediately following seven (7) continual calendar days of employment, and to remain a member of Union in good standing. Union shall be the sole judge of the good standing of its members.

"Any workers who fails to become a member of Union within the time limit set forth herein, or who fails to pay the required initiation fees, periodic dues or regularly authorized assessments as prescribed by Union shall be immediately discharged upon written notice from Union to Company. The preceding sentence is not intended to limit the grounds for determination of good standing."

Beautiful, is it not? The UFWOC and the vanquished companies now are summoning the workers to meeting halls. There forms are passed out authorizing a payroll deduction of $10.50 at the outset, covering "unpaid past due membership fees," with $3.50 to be deducted at unspecified intervals thereafter.

The workers sign, or else. Those who refuse to sign are being evicted from company-owned housing. In a single stroke last week, when he snatched 40,000 head from the Teamsters, Chavez picked up nearly half a million dollars for the UFWOC. The workers themselves had not a word to say.

This is, for liberals, "la causa." And what a harvest of tyranny it is!

"When your wife works, it's nice to have that extra money. But it can give you a false sense of security. I remember when Billy was born. We didn't have any savings and we just weren't prepared to live on one paycheck. Especially with the extra bills. Now that Betty's back at work, we salt away $50 every month at Wachovia Bank. We use their Save-O-Matic plan to put the money aside automatically. Next time, we'll be ready..."

The Pack Will Be Back, Bench Leads Richmond Fans Spoiled, But Not During 1970 Cincinnati Win But After Title Again

By BOB GREENE
Associated Press Sports Writer
GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — The "Pack will be back," but 1970 probably won't be the year.

Coach Phil Bengtson has almost completely rebuilt the famed Green Bay Packers who swept three consecutive National Football League titles and two Super Bowl championships in 1965-66-67. Retirements forced most of the changes, while trades accomplished the rest.

The green-and-gold-clad warriors still around who were vital parts of those "Golden Years" include quarterback Bart Starr, now in his 15th NFL season; wide receiver Carroll Dale, center Ken Bowman, guard Gale Gillingham; defensive end Lionel Aldridge, linebackers Dave Robinson and Ray Nitschke and defensive backs Willie Wood and Bob Jeter.

Gillingham is the youngest of the group at 26, while Aldridge and Robinson are 29 each. Bowman is 27, Dale 32, Nitschke, Wood and Jeter, each 33 and Starr 36.

While Green Bay might have improved itself with trades and the college draft, it is not believed the Packers can catch either Minnesota or Detroit who they finished behind in the Central Division last season.

Starr is a proven leader, but injuries have cut deeply into his playing time the last two seasons. Don Horn, a fourth-year man out of San Diego State, could provide the Packers with a more exciting attack if he takes over for Starr. Horn also is more erratic.

One spot Phil Bengtson is not worried about is running back, where he can call on five veterans with impressive credentials. The most explosive are speedsters Travis Williams and Dave Hampton, while Perry Williams, Donny Anderson and Jim Grabowski are only a step behind.

The running back spots are so well fortified that Bengtson traded veteran Elijah Pitts along with offensive lineman Bob Hyland and linebacker Lee Roy Caffey to the Bears for Chicago's No. 1 draft pick.

Aldridge is still one of the best in the business at right end, while sophomore Rich Moore, 6-6, 285, is at left tackle and Bob Brown, 6-5, 270, is at left end, giving the Packers one of the biggest front lines in pro football.

Nitschke is flanked at linebacker by Robinson, recuperating from a cracked rib suffered in practice, and Fred Carr, the Packers' top draft choice in 1968 who has taken over for the departed Caffey.

The unexpected retirement of Herb Adderley has left a big hole at left cornerback. Bengtson will fill the post with Leon Harden of Texas-El Paso, who was on the taxi squad last season, or rookies Ken Ellis of Southern, a speedster, and Alvin Matthews, the second round draft choice from Texas A & I.

The rest of the defensive backfield remains intact: Wood at the other corner and Jeter and Doug Hart at the safeties.

Ken Bowman hasn't been ousted from the center job since halfway through the first super bowl game in 1967. He's flanked by guards Bill Lueck and Gillingham and tackles Francis Peay and Dick Himes.

John Spilis, a second-year man from northern Illinois taking over for the retired Boyd Bowler, is a perfect partner for Dale at the wide receiver spots.

Veteran John Hilton, obtained from Pittsburgh, and sophomore Ron Jones will battle for the tight end spot with Rich McGeorge, the Packers' other No. 1 draft choice, who just got out of the Army last weekend.

The field goal kicking, which will be handled by either Booth Lusteg or Joe Runk, can't help but be better. Last season, the Packers only connected on 6 of 21 and had seven blocked.

A good-hitting bench doesn't hurt when you're going for a pennant.

It's even better when your Bench catches. Johnny Bench, Cincinnati's phenom-in-residence, does both the hitting and catching for the Reds—good reason why they're atop the National League's West Division race by 13 games.

Bench laced a three-run homer among his three hits, lifting his league lead to 41 round-trippers and 121 RBIs, as the Reds squashed Philadelphia 9-3 Monday night.

The homer also tied him with Roy Campanella for most hits by a catcher in a season, although Lou Gehrig's 2,130 and Everett Scott's 1,307.

San Francisco gave East Division-leading Pittsburgh the Willie Mays and Willie McCovey. Mays singled and McCovey slammed his 31st homer off Bruce Dal Canton in the eighth to give the Giants a comeback victory.

McCovey, who beats the famous right-field shift against him with the long ball, said he's not about to change his style. "I'm not a Matty Alou-type hitter," said the broad-beamed first baseman, "and I'm not going to be ... it (my style) worked last year when I hit .320 against the shift."

them 130 in their last nine game—but three were losses.

Milt Pappas stymied San Diego on six hits and Don Kessinger's single keyed a three-run fourth for Chicago. Billy Williams played in his 1,104th straight game and moved into third place on the all-time durability list. The Chicago outfielder, replacing Joe Sewell of Cleveland, now ranks behind Lou Gehrig's 2,130 and Everett Scott's 1,307.

According to University of Richmond head football coach Frank Jones, folks at UR are beginning to get a little spoiled.

In the past three years, the Spider football team has won or shared the Southern Conference championship twice. They have won 16 of their last 17 games, and 16 of the 19 over the span.

"You have to come back to reality sometimes," Jones said. But it doesn't look like that will come this year. The Spiders again are favored to take the loop title.

One of the chief reasons is the return of All-Southern quarterback Charlie Richards. Last year, the 6-3, 198-pounder from Miami, Fla., was fifth in the nation in total offense, with 2,665 yards. He was ninth in passing with 175 or 356 for 2,556 yards, defensive linemen who are gone were All-Southern.

"We won't be as tough defensively," Jones says. "Really, this is a rebuilding year for us," Jones says. "We lost 19 lettermen, including seven offensive and seven defensive starters. We have only one starter back in the offensive line, Bill Fazioli (6-1, 235)." Jones pointed out also that five of those defensive linemen who are gone were All-Southern.

"We won't be as tough defensively, and we won't have the same type of offensive line, but we're not going to be hurting either."

"We have an excellent quarterback to start with in Richards. And we're going to have a good football team. We won't be as good, but we'll still be good."

"I expect us to throw the ball a lot," Jones continued. "This seems to be the thing in college football today."

Jones also feels he has an outstanding end in Jim Livesay. Last year, in the shadow of All-American Walker Gillette, Livesay pulled in 49 passes for 699 yards and six touchdowns, a record many number two ends would like to have. "He's a little faster than Gillette, and was 26th in the country last year even though he was behind him," Jones added.

Jones said that the Spiders are going to be bigger defensively this year. "And I hope we are going to be aggressive. We had great defensive ends last year, and they will be hard to replace. "We've also got a lot of backs coming back. (Wayne) Tosh and (Ray) Easterling will be the key men in our defensive secondary. A few sophomores will start, but we don't have a real top knotch sophomore group. We got behind that year because of the Tangerine Bowl."

Running down the probably starters on offense, Jones expects to have Livesay at split end with Ken Popovick (6-4, 225) at tight end. The tackles will be Brian Britton (6-2, 230) and Fazioli. At guards will be Harry Norris (6-1, 217) and Mark Skinner (6-3, 235), while Bob Conrad (6-1, 200) will be at center.

The backfield will have Richards at quarterback, Frank Olejack (5-10, 185) at tailback, Jerry Haynes (5-11, 175) at flanker, and Jerry Mauro (6-0, 190) at fullback.

On the defense will be Pat Morris (6-2, 190) and Kenny Davis (6-1, 186) at ends, Bruce Kasarda (5-10, 20) and John Barelli (6-0, 204) at tackles and Russ Croom (6-3, 225) at middle guard.

In the linebacker slots will be Larry Pochucha (6-0, 210) and Chuck Hall (6-0, 200). Cornerbacks will be Easterling and Tosh, while safeties will be Pete Roscia (6-0, 180) and Bobby Duch (5-11, 175).

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
NEW YORK (AP) — Larry Mahan, of Brooks, Ore., won the All-Around Cowboy title with a total of $2,267 in three events at the Madison Square Garden Rodeo that ended Sunday night.

Jerry Olson, of Sturgis, S.D., set a Garden record by winning $2,279 in steer wrestling.

MONTICELLO, N.Y. (AP) — Dave Stallworth of the champion New York Knicks of the National Basketball Association, was named the winner today of the Maurice Stokes Memorial Award. He will receive the award at the annual charity game Tuesday night.

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Bruce Devlin and Dick Lotz, each already a two-time winner on the 1970 PGA tour, are the latest pros named to compete in the $160,000 Avco Golf Classic at Pleasant Valley Country Club starting Thursday.

Joe Is Set To Report
HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — The welcome mat is out for Joe Namath.

The controversial star quarterback of the New York Jets was scheduled to report to the Jets' training camp today.

The colorful quarterback who led the Jets to their stunning Super Bowl victory over the Baltimore Colts two years ago, has been AWOL from the camp at Hofstra University, but underwent a physical examination Monday and a Jet spokesman announced he would report today.

"We're happy to have Joe coming," said Coach Weeb Ewbank, whose Jets split its first two exhibitions without Joe. They play the rival New York Giants Sunday in the Yale Bowl at New Haven, Conn.

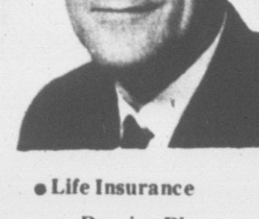

"We have a lot of work to do to make up for lost time," Ewbank continued. "We'll have to see how Joe's legs react to setting up this week."

"He started his motion and then stopped," Goetz said. "He claimed he had stepped off the rubber, but I didn't have a chance to ask anybody. If they (the Tigers) had asked me, I would have checked with the first base or third base umpire."

"But he came in with some choice words about my ancestry. I ignored it at first, but he repeated it and I said 'You've got to go.' It's the first time I've had to throw a pitcher out of a game."

McLain's account of the incident differed from the umpire's on all points except one. "I know I was off the rubber," he said. "I waited for him to check with somebody. We asked him to check. Then I ran in and questioned his ancestry."

Denny also insisted that Fox's organ antics hadn't been a factor in the flare-up. "I couldn't care less about the organ," he said. "If Finley (A's boss Charlie Finley) wants a three-ring circus, which is what he's got here, he can have it."

Bengals Lose Cook For Year

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
There were good news for the New York Jets and bad news for the Cincinnati Bengals in pro football today.

Joe Namath, the colorful and controversial star quarterback, was scheduled to report to the Jets' training camp after missing the first two exhibition games of the season. The Bengals lost their star QB, Greg Cook, for the entire season.

Namath, the Super Bowl hero of two years ago, passed a one-hour and 45-minute physical examination Monday and a happy Weeb Ewbank, Coach of the Jets, said: "We're happy to have Joe coming back."

Cook, a standout passer for Cincinnati as a rookie last season, hurt his right shoulder in a pick-up basketball game this spring. He underwent a two-hour operation Monday and physicians reported there was "no way" he could play this season.

Another quarterback, Ken Stabler of Oakland, was in the news. He connected for three touchdown passes of 49, 22 and 60 yards, to lead the Raiders to a 30-19 exhibition victory over the Philadelphia Eagles Monday night.

A former Alabama star like Namath, Stabler's three TD aerials made up for a fumble that almost made him the goat before 50,853 at Franklin Field.

He bobbled the snap from center on an Oakland field goal try. Ray Jones as the Eagles picked up the ball and ran 77 yards for a touchdown that tied the score at 16-16 late in the third period.

The Eagles went ahead at 19-16 before Stabler came through with the last two of his touchdown passes. Rod Sherman caught the 60-yarder that ensured victory for the Raiders.

Al Atkinson, who announced his retirement from the Jets several weeks ago, changed his mind and reported to the Jets' camp Monday. The star middle linebacker is expected to see limited action, like Namath, when the Jets played their rival New York Giants in the Yale Bowl at New Haven, Conn., Sunday.

Safety Eddie Meador, an 11-year veteran with the Los Angeles Rams, changed his mind about retirement and said he would report to the Rams later this week.

In a contrary development Walt Sweeney, an eight-year veteran offensive guard with the San Diego Chargers, said he was quitting football over the wording of his contract other than salary terms.

Elsewhere, John Small, the No. 1 draft choice of the Atlanta Falcons from The Citadel, was shifted from linebacker to defensive tackle.

McLain Hears Monday Blues

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
Denny McLain knows how to face the music, but he's no match for Lloyd Fox' melody and Russ Goetz' lyrics in the same earful.

McLain lost a battle of nerves with Oakland organist Fox and a war of words with Umpire Goetz Monday night before the Detroit Tigers rallied to topple the A's 5-3 on Norm Cash's three-run homer in the eighth inning.

The controversial Detroit pitching ace, who sat out the first half of the season under suspension for 1967 gambling activities, was serenaded by Fox between pitches during a fifth-inning Oakland rally, then was charged with a bases-loaded balk and ultimately was banished by Goetz for disputing the call.

In other American League games, Washington ripped Kansas City 7-0 on Jim Hannan's one-hitter; Baltimore edged Milwaukee 3-2 on Boog Powell's eighth-inning homer; California blanked Cleveland 3-0 behind Tom Murphy and Boston trimmed the Chicago White Sox 7-2.

In National League play, the Chicago Cubs downed San Diego 7-0; San Francisco nipped Pittsburgh 5-4; Cincinnati slugged Philadelphia 9-3 and St. Louis beat Los Angeles 11-8.

McLain, making his 12th appearance for the Tigers since being reinstated by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn on July 1, pitched hitless ball until the fifth, when Felipe Alou cracked a leadoff single.

Fox, whose clarion chords during a 1969 Tigers-A's game rattled McLain into a run-costing balk, picked up the tempo

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN (c 1970; by The Chicago Tribune) North-South vulnerable. South deals.

NORTH ♠ K Q 10 4 ♥ 9 8 5 ♦ Q 10 9 2 ♣ A Q WEST ♠ J 3 ♥ Q 10 7 2 ♦ K 8 7 3 ♣ 9 8 2 EAST ♠ A 8 7 6 5 ♥ K 4 3 ♦ 5 4 ♣ K J 10 8 7

The bidding: South West North East 1♣ Pass 1♠ Pass 1NT Pass 3NT Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Deuce of ♥ Insufficient planning led to South's downfall and kept him from discovering the line of play most apt to produce nine tricks at this three no trump contract.

West opened the deuce of hearts, East put up the king and South won the trick with the ace. Declarer had seven top tricks—five clubs and the red suit aces. He observed that at least two more tricks could be established in diamonds by finessing for the king. There was the further consideration that if West had that card and regained the lead, he would be unable to launch a direct attack against South's guarded jack of hearts without surrendering a trick.

The dummy was entered with the ace of clubs and the ten of diamonds was led for the finesse. West was in with the king and in an attempt to put his partner in for a heart play, he shifted to the jack of spades. North covered with the queen and East played the ace and returned a heart thru declarer's jack. West proceeded to cash out the setting tricks—in all, the defense took three hearts, one spade and one diamond.

South could have improved his chances by playing spades first, for assuming that the opening lead is honest, the defense will be able to cash at most four tricks. Observe that if a spade is led at trick two and East covers dummy's queen with the ace to make a heart play for his partner, West can run the heart suit to complete book for his side. When South regains the lead, however, the spade jack drops under the king and North's ten becomes established for a ninth trick—thereby eliminating the necessity for taking a diamond finesse.

East can complicate matters for the declarer by holding off on the first round of spades, however the temptation to gain the lead and make a play for partner is very strong—and East should at least be offered the opportunity to provide South with an assist.

The Worry Clinic The Wrapping Isn't Enough

Polly has the more expensive "wrapping paper" but she has failed to develop the attractive merchandise inside the package. That's why she loses boy friends to girls with much less money! So learn the secret of carrying on gay repartee. It beats a classy chassis and a slick paint job!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph. D., M.D.

Case 0-505: Polly R., aged 19, is heartbroken.

"Dr. Crane," she moaned, "my roommate at college always steals my boy friends away from me."

"Yet I have more costly clothes and spend far more than she can afford on cosmetics and beauty parlor treatments."

"So what is wrong with me?"

"Don't I look as pretty as she does?"

"Then what makes men so attracted to her?"

Girls, you should realize early that your cosmetic beauty is merely like the wrapping paper around a department store parcel.

It may catch the eye of a prospect and thus make him focus on you for a few minutes. But it is then your use of psychology that will make him want to stay at your side and seek a second date.

The trouble with too many coeds nowadays is their excessive emphasis on cosmetics, eye shadow, false eye lashes, etc., at the expense of their psychological strategy.

Men soon realize whether the attractive wrapping paper is covering an empty package. For example, how many of you girls know how to carry on gay repartee with a new boy?

"Beautiful but dumb" is still a common tragedy, but the "dumb" part of that phrase pertains not to a low I.Q. but to lack of skill at maintaining spritely conversation.

Remember, men are usually inept at making small talk and generally very awkward at getting gay dialogue flowing smoothly.

The usual male supply of conversation "starters" consists of the weather and the latest ball game. "It's been a nice day, hasn't it?" inquires your typical new male escort.

How do you girls reply? If you answer with an "Unh huh!" you have already trumped one of his two aces.

Desperately he then struggles to think of something else with which to break the ensuing pause.

Every second of silence increases his panic to the point where he becomes almost tongue-tied.

Then he may start to mention the weather, again, only to realize he has already talked about that.

With a hopeful sigh, he finally remembers there was a ball game yesterday so he brightly inquires, with fingers crossed: "That was surely a great game we had, wasn't it?"

His fingers are meanwhile crossed in the hope that somehow the girl will pick up the dialogue and get the conversational machinery rolling in high gear, so its momentum will carry it along.

But even a pretty coed, with expensive clothes and the latest beauty parlor treatments, may miff her cue.

Remember, easy conversation, plus cheery smiles and verbal compliments, will far exceed all your modern party cosmetic aids! So send for the booklet "Formula for Being an Interesting Conversationalist,"

Says American People Failed To Persevere

WASHINGTON (AP) — Failure of the American people to persevere handed Ho Chi Minh a victory in Vietnam, former White House aide George Christian said in a book published today.

Christian, press secretary to President Lyndon Johnson, said that by late 1968 the question facing the administration was no longer a choice between hawk and dove, or military and civilian.

"The question was how to resolve a war that no longer had enough support, in the Congress or abroad in the land, to carry it to a conclusion through the established strategy."

Christian's book "The President Steps Down," concludes: "Ho Chi Minh had won the battle of perseverance."

"The greatest misjudgment in Washington was not in military tactics," Christian wrote, and "not in underestimating the enemy, but in over-estimating the American people."

New Lebanese President Chosen

Cyrus, head of the tobacco marketing section, State Department of Agriculture. The menu consisted of ten gallons of cole slaw, 50 gallons of Brunswick stew, 20 bushels of collards and 50 pounds of cornbread. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

By ELIAS ANTAR
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Suleiman Franjeh, elected Lebanon's fifth president by one vote at a violent session of parliament, today promised a regime of "democracy, economic expansion and national reconciliation."

Franjeh, a 60-year-old moderate, made his statement to the newspaper Al Nahar. He was unable to deliver a victory speech after his election Monday night because of fistfights inside the parliament chamber.

Newspapers ranging from the extreme right to the extreme left echoed the president-elect's call for reconciliation. It was a bid to both the conservative Christians who want a crackdown on Palestinian guerrillas raiding Israel from Lebanon and to the Arab nationalists who want the government to give the guerrillas free rein.

Franjeh opposes guerrilla raids from Lebanon because they bring retaliatory Israeli attacks. But the presence of 300,000 Palestinian refugees in camps in Lebanon will force him to take a moderate approach to the problem, or a bloodbath probably would result.

President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt, who has a large following among Lebanon's Moslems, was said to have favored Franjeh's chief opponent, Elias Sarkis, governor of the Central Bank of Lebanon. But political insiders say Franjeh and Nasser are likely to get along without friction.

Franjeh's election also is not expected to change Lebanon's traditional pro-Western foreign policy.

The election in Parliament Monday night was the most violent in the 26-year history of the Lebanese republic. The deputies traded punches and political partisans massed in front of the building opened up with bursts of machine-gun fire.

More than a dozen persons were injured in the shooting and victory celebrations after Franjeh's election. Gunfire from jubilant supporters cracked throughout the city all night.

Franjeh, finance minister in the present government, was backed by right-wing Christian parties and pro-Western former President Camille Chamoun. He defeated Sarkis 50-49 on the third ballot.

Fighting broke out in the chamber after Speaker Sabri Hamadeh declared Franjeh's 50 votes insufficient and ordered a fourth ballot. He said the constitution required 51 votes. Franjeh rushed to the podium and began shoving the speaker, Hamadeh left the chamber, and Deputy Speaker Michel Sassin took the chair and declared Franjeh the winner.

Deputies battled on the floor, there was fighting in the gallery, and some men walked the chamber with guns drawn. Police disarmed one man with a hand grenade.

No-Fault Plan Study Included

RALEIGH (AP) — A commission studying how to improve the automobile liability insurance situation in North Carolina has decided to consider the controversial no-fault plan which is strongly opposed by Insurance Commissioner Edwin Lanier.

It was learned Monday that the Governor's Study Commission on Auto Liability Insurance and Rates has decided to carry on its work through subcommittees, one of which will look into the no-fault plan. Under this plan, insurance companies pay each motorist in an accident, without a court case.

The chairman of the committee, State Sen. Clyde Norton of McDowell County, named the subcommittees. The one which will look into the no-fault plan will be headed by Fred Morrison, Gov. Bob Scott's legal assistant.

Lanier told the commission that he is opposed to the no-fault plan because it limits the amount of protection for accident victims and ignores the question of who was at fault in an auto wreck.

Under a no-fault plan which has been passed by the Massachusetts legislature and sent to the governor, insurance companies would pay insured drivers up to $2,000 of the cost of any accident, regardless of who was to blame.

Another of the commission subcommittees, headed by Eugene A. Phillips of Winston-Salem, will study insurance rates, including the possibility of a competitive insurance rate setup.

Lanier last week spoke strongly in favor of retaining North Carolina's present plan, under which the insurance commissioner hears rate requests by the insurance industry each year. The rates approved by the commissioner must be uniform throughout the state.

One Killed, 41 Injured As Bus Goes Over Cliff

HILLSVILLE, Va. (AP) — A young member of an Illinois drum and bugle team has been killed and 41 other members of his group hospitalized as their chartered bus plunged off a winding mountain highway and tumbled down the face of a cliff.

Killed was 18-year-old Charles Guider of Chicago. Injured were teen-agers from Chicago area high schools, who were members of the Imperial Drum and Bugle Corps, and five chaperones. The group, sponsored by the Skokie, Ill., VFW, was en route to a drum and bugle corps show in Miami.

Thirty-two of the injured were treated at the Northern Surry Hospital in Mount Airy, N. C. Eleven were admitted.

State police said the brakes on the chartered bus carrying 42 persons apparently failed as the vehicle was making its way down the side of 3,000-foot Fancy Gap Mountain on U. S. 52 near the Virginia-North Carolina line.

As the driver tried to steer through hairpin curves, the bus slammed into an embankment, veered back across the road and tumbled through 50 yards of guard-rail before hurtling off the highway and plunging 55 feet down the side of the mountain, coming to rest in a grove of trees.

State Police said occupants of the car, residents of West Virginia, were uninjured. Damage to the car was minor.

Don Michaels, one of the youths who escaped serious injury said "we were taking all the curves on the opposite side of the road, weaving in and out around the mountainside.

We hit the side of the mountain and, like flew across the highway, through a guardrail and down the side of the mountain," he said.

The injured were taken to hospitals in North Carolina and Virginia, but only one was reported to be seriously hurt.

Larry Schlenker, 15, of Chicago said he was asleep when the bus began picking up speed. "I woke up when everybody started screaming," he said.

"The bus just flew through the air and I guess it turned over a couple of times. My hand went through a window. I helped a couple of people out and then my hand started to bleed real bad."

"Everybody was just sitting there talking," said 15-year-old Marie Grenna of Chicago. "Some kids were singing and, back in the back some were playing cards. Then we started going faster and faster and somebody said, 'the brakes are out.' Then it went over. The next thing I remember was climbing up the hill and everybody was just sitting there in the highway.

The bus was operated by the Davidsmeyer Bus Service of Elk Grove Village, Ill., but had been leased by Mid-American Coach Lines of Madison, Wis.

The youngsters reportedly were planning to fly home today with aid from the Hillsville VFW Post.

The injured were taken to hospitals in North Carolina and Virginia, but only one was reported to be seriously hurt.

Bank Holdup Charged 4

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Two men and two women have been charged in Monday's robbery of a Fayetteville bank and face arraignment later today before U.S. Commissioner C. W. Jackson.

Leon Blocker, 25, of Washington, D.C., was arrested as he stepped off a bus in Richmond, Va., Monday night, Robert Murphy, special agent in charge of the Charlotte FBI office, announced.

Jailed earlier Monday were Leonard Lee Watson, 21, of Washington; Garnett Greene, 20, of Washington; and Carolyn Delores Cross, 20, of Fayetteville.

All are charged with robbing the First Union National Bank's main Fayetteville office late Monday morning.

The amount of money taken has not been announced. Police said three men, each armed with a pistol, robbed the bank and made their getaway in a white Cadillac bearing Canadian license plates.

The three persons arrested were apprehended in the car in Bunnlevel, about 18 miles north of Fayetteville, police said.

Coastal Storm Is Moving Away

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Normal late summer weather is returning to North Carolina in the wake of high winds and heavy rains that a severe tropical depression brought to the south coast and the Outer Banks Monday.

The storm system was moving rapidly away from land and at dawn today was some 270 miles southeast of Boston. It intensified during the night as it became a north Atlantic type storm with winds of 50 miles an hour in squalls in a small area near the center.

The storm, packing winds of near hurricane force, dumped 3½ inches of rain on Wilmington Monday, lashed the Atlantic Beach area and then moved into Pamlico Sound and across Hatteras Island.

Water from the sound rose onto Hatteras near the village of Salvo, rising three feet in the National Park Service's Salvo campgrounds and sending campers scurrying.

K. A. Wing, superintendent of the Cape Hatteras National Seashore, said tents and camper trailers were flooded and a number of campers turned over. Winds were clocked at 74 miles an hour at Atlantic Beach, 69 at Ocracoke Island and at about 50 further up the Outer Banks.

Some utilities at Atlantic Beach were knocked out for several hours after poles were felled. At Morehead City, the headboat Danco was damaged when she broke from her moorings in the turbulent waters.

Skies will be partly cloudy across the state for the next two or three days, with a chance of afternoon and evening thunder-showers. Daytime temperatures will be in the mid and upper 80s in the mountains and upper 80s to around 90 elsewhere. Overnight lows will be in the low 60s in the mountains, ranging to the low and mid 70s along the coast.

Study Grant For Eye Disease

DURHAM (AP) — A $170,313 grant for a three-year study of an eye disease has been received by the Duke University Medical Center from the John A. Hartford Foundation of New York.

The grant will fund a study of the eye disease, which is a leading cause of blindness in the United States. The study will focus on the genetic and environmental factors that contribute to the disease.

City Schools . . .

following a number of specific questions asked by persons concerning the manner in which the board arrived at the zoning and other matters resulting in the plan approved by the board on July 23.

"It is for the court to ascertain if you are in violation of constitutional rights," Brewer said. "I feel it is not proper, ethical or appropriate to make statements while a lawsuit is pending."

"In effect I'm being sued," Dr. E. B. Aycock, chairman of the Board of Education told the packed audience. "I can say I was prepared to open the floor for a motion, but Brewer says I shouldn't."

"Whether in court or not, you have an opportunity to take action, whether for or against the amendment," Graham stated.

Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, superintendent of the city schools, in reply to a question as to why Brook Valley residents did not pay city taxes, explained that "every citizen supports the public schools to the same extent. We do not get one penny from city taxes."

Dr. Cleetwood noted this was a "common misunderstanding", on the part of a number of citizens.

Graham asked the board about the possibility of a meeting with the Hillsdale-Carolina Heights residents in the event the Superior Court acts favorably on the school attorney's answering action asking that the complaint be dismissed.

No decision was given this request until the end of the four hour long meeting, when Mrs. Robert Kittrell entered a motion that the board meet with the group following the Superior Court hearing. The motion was defeated, with only the two women members, Mrs. Kittrell and Mrs. Lucille Gorham, voting in favor of such a meeting.

School Hearing Is Postponed

The hearing in Superior Court of the complaint filed against the Greenville City School Board has been postponed. Originally scheduled for a hearing at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow in Superior Court, the hearing will be heard at a later time or date.

William Brewer, attorney for the board members, stated "No definite time had been set, but it is expected to be soon, possibly tomorrow night."

When attorney Laurence Graham informed school board members last night that a change from the originally scheduled time would likely develop, the board members expressed a preference, if possible, to have the hearing conducted during an evening hour.

School-Related Activities Set

Beginning tomorrow night with the 8:00 p.m. meeting of the City-Wide PTA Council at Wachovia Bank Building, round of school related activities are scheduled for the next few days.

On Thursday night, at 7:30 p.m. an open house is being conducted at all six elementary schools for interested parents. The open house is especially designed for new parents in the community, but Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, Superintendent of Schools, notes all parents are welcome to attend these events.

The next day, Friday, an orientation will be held at 10:00 a.m. for new teachers and teachers new to a particular school. This program will be conducted in all schools, elementary and secondary.

Also on Friday, each Rose High School student will be mailed a letter from the Student Body president which will include the homeroom assignment and a copy of the revised and reprinted student's handbook.

Next week, on Monday, a general session for the professional staff will begin at 8:30 a.m. at the cafeteria of Aycock Junior High. Staff meetings will be held at 1:00 p.m. Monday at the individual schools.

At 8:00 p.m. Monday the Rose High School PTA meeting will be held.

Littered Road With Marijuana

STATESVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A 21-year-old Newton man was in Iredell County jail Monday charged with littering the highway—with marijuana.

State Trooper J. L. Stanley said he was behind a car driven by Thomas Michael Johnson near Statesville and turned on his blue light for a routine check.

When the trooper saw something fly out the window of the car he decided to see what it was. He said it was a packet of marijuana.

Stanley charged the driver with possession and transportation of marijuana and with littering and placed him under $10,100 bond.
