

Re-Writing Applications For Bond Issue

Call For New Hospital And New Site

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Acting on mandates from the Pitt Memorial Hospital trustees and the medical staff of the hospital, County Attorney W. W. Speight began this morning making changes in the applications for a bond issue, not for additions and improvements on the old hospital plant, but for an entirely new building on a new site.

The trustees unanimously went on record as favoring a new hospital at a joint meeting of the County Commissioners, the Hospital Trustees, and the executive committee of the medical staff last night.

The doctors, who had recently sent the trustees a letter saying they "would not oppose" a new building on a new site, said last night they favor a new facility over renovations and additions.

The proposed new building will be built on a site as yet un-picked. The Medical Care Commission encourages buying at least 100 acres to provide for sufficient parking and room for expansion.

The trustees indicated they will ask their architects to plan a hospital with 350 all-private rooms and sufficient ancillary for even more beds. The foundation will be such that bed room can easily be added.

"This appears to be the cheapest for the people of Pitt County in the long run," Dr. Howard Gradis, chief of the medical staff, said. "If we try to renovate the old building, we will lose beds and will have to add even more to the new section. Then within a few years as the mechanical systems, etc. of the old section would deteriorate further, we would have to be tearing out again.

"The big change in our thinking came when the executive committee of the hospital trustees, several physicians, and several commissioners attended a meeting with representatives of the North Carolina Medical Care Commission in Raleigh August 6," Woodrow Wooten, trustees chairman, explained. "We had been convinced until that time that we would be able to get no Hill - Burton money, that all funds would have to be local, so we decided on the least immediate expensive method of getting better facilities. This led us to choose a plan of adding rooms over the emergency wing of the present hospital and building an annex which would house the bulk of the ancillary facilities like operating room, labs, and x-ray rooms, and most of the bedrooms, also.

"At the August 6 meeting, however, Bill Henderson, executive secretary of the Medical Care Commission, told us he was confident we could receive an outright grant (He hinted at not less than $2 million). He urged us to change our plans — to build a facility that would be adequate for many years. Hill - Burton funds, once they are allocated, are usually not available again to the same area for at least 15 years, he said.

"Why, he asked and we asked ourselves, should we spend $9,000,000 on additions and renovations, when for $11 million we can have a new facility, extra land, and a building to either sell or use to boot," Wooten said.

"We have to consider the imminent possibility of an eastern regional medical school at East Carolina University, also," Dr. Gradis said. "By sheer accident of geography, we will be involved."

Commissioner Vance Perkins said he has been in favor of a new facility ever since he attended the August 6 meeting.

County Commissioner Bob Martin said facts brought out at last night's meeting had changed his mind and that, if the doctors and trustees would put their advocacy of a new hospital plan in writing, the county attorney would be instructed to begin work at once.

"The bond election presumably will still be held in conjunction with the regular election November 3 and the amount in bonds the voters will be asked to approve will be the same — up to $9,000,000. All the sources thought available to provide outright funds so fewer bonds will actually have to be issued, will be the same," Hospital administrator C. D. Ward said.

Hillsdale-Carolina Heights Restraint Motion Dismissed

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Superior Court Judge Joshua James last night dismissed the case of a plaintiff representing citizens of the Hillsdale - Carolina Heights area seeking to have the North Carolina Superior Court issue a preliminary injunction which would have restrained the city school board in implementing the school plan as it applies to students in that area of town.

"I believe I have to allow the motion to dismiss and let the plaintiff seek a remedy with the Federal court," Judge James said in concluding his decision following the hearing in the Superior Courtroom last night.

His decision came at the end of 45 minutes of presentation of their cases by Laurence Graham, attorney for the plaintiff, Barry C. Henderson, a minor; and W. W. Speight, attorney for the defendant Greenville City School Board of Education.

The school board, in an answering action to the plaintiff's request to have a hearing in Superior Court, had requested the motion be dismissed.

Graham based his argument on several grounds, the first being "the contention of the plaintiff that the school board acted in a manner which violated constitutional rights, that their action is without discretion, and was capricious and careless."

He further stated, "It is our belief the Federal court is not concerned in how you carry out the plan, but that you do it. It seems to me the present plan is a nebulous plan, one designed to permit maximum flexibility."

"It is also my contention," Graham said, "that Judge Larkins (Federal District Court Judge John Larkins, Jr.) in signing the order, leaves the implementation up to the school board. Any amendment is in the discretion of the board."

Graham argued it would be proper for the state court to review the complaint, as the Federal Court's primary concern was the maintenance of the court ordered ratio, not administrative details. Speight countered this argument with an opinion that "there is no question but that assignment of pupils of District 3 to Sadie Sautler is part of the approved plan. To say otherwise is begging the question." (District 3 is the designation on the school plan map for the area from which children are assigned to Sadie Sautler School for the coming school year.)

Speight informed Judge James that a hearing for a motion to intervene had been filed by the plaintiff and that a hearing was scheduled on Friday in the Federal court before Judge Larkins.

In his decision to dismiss the motion for a preliminary injunction to restrain implementation of the school plan, Judge James said "I am satisfied it is true the Federal Court has jurisdiction in respect to the broad plan, seeing that it is submitted and approved. How much in detail that would be, I don't know. I do not think a Federal court would undertake to decide every little detail of school administration, that it would be primarily concerned in bringing about the racial balance referred to."

"At the same time," Judge James continued, "this particular plan has been submitted and approved. Whether you disagree on the extent of exactly what the plan consists of, or whether the board retains freedom of action to modify details and still comply with the Federal Court order, my slight acquaintance with this case would not permit me to intelligently decide which is correct."

Moscow Is Summit Site

MOSCOW (AP) — The top leaders of Communist East Europe opened a summit meeting in Moscow today, apparently to hear a Kremlin report on the new Soviet-West German non-aggression pact and to discuss what it means for East-West relations in Europe.

Informed Communist sources said the meeting might last only one day, with the leaders returning home tonight or Friday.

The party chiefs attending the summit meeting are Walter Ulbricht of East Germany, Nicolae Ceausescu of Romania, Gustav Husak of Czechoslovakia, Wladislaw Gomulka of Poland, Janos Kadar of Hungary, Todor Zhivkov of Bulgaria and their host, Leonid I. Brezhnev.

It was their first summit meeting since last December, when the main topic was how to deal with West German Chancellor Willy Brandt's overtures to East Europe.

As tobacco markets in the Eastern Belt settle down after the initial excitement of opening day on the 17 markets, total sales dropped a little more than half a million pounds—from 11,514,567 pounds on opening day, to 11,006,975 pounds yesterday.

Average prices dropped too, from $73.38 per hundred pounds to $72.56 per hundred. Six markets had higher averages, with 11 registering lower averages than realized on the first day of sales. Two markets, Rocky Mount and Wendell, dropped to below the $70 per hundred mark.

Greenville led all markets yesterday in total pounds sold and in total dollar realizations. Three other markets, Wilson, Kinston and Rocky again sold more than a million pounds. Wallace led the 17 markets in top averages, with a $73.83 per hundred tally. Farmville and Wilson were next highest, both at $73.75 per hundred pounds.

The market at Wendell registered the lowest average sale price, going from opening day averages of $72.50 to $67.64, a drop of $4.86 per hundred pounds.

Carlton Dail, president of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade, noted that "tobacco from the lower part of the stalk is still selling very good. Some grades of leaf tobacco are not selling quite as well as opening day, but the overall sale picture is strong."

From the Farmville market, Sales Supervisor Louis Williams reported that "Stabilization receipts yesterday accounted for only 7.16 percent of gross sales compared to 19.14 percent on opening day."

Williams said yesterday's market consisted of "mostly low and fair grade primings, with long leaf and a small volume of non-descript and color grades included."

Individual market figures are shown in the table below. This table is prepared for daily distribution by the Market News Service in Wilson.

City Manager Asserts Action Was Premature

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

A Greenville police officer, returned to work Wednesday after being suspended following a shooting incident at Pitt Memorial Hospital July 6, was not at work today.

City Manager Harry Hagerty said yesterday afternoon that the action taken by Police Chief T. W. Gladson in scheduling officer Barley F. Phillips for reinstatement was "premature."

Ptl. Phillips was suspended after he wounded a 21-year-old Negro during a fight at Pitt Memorial Hospital. The fight erupted after the officer placed Julius Stewart Summrell under arrest for disorderly conduct. Phillips himself was badly beaten.

Hagerty said Ptl. Phillips "will not be restored to duty until I have reviewed this thing," apparently referring to a report from the State Bureau of Investigation of their investigation of the case. That report is expected sometime this week.

According to Hagerty, Phillips was scheduled for reinstatement by Chief Gladson "prior to his vacation, based on the assurance that the SBI report would be in hand the first of the week. That report has not been received and the reinstatement was premature."

Chief Gladson has been out of town for the past several days on vacation and has not been available for comment.

"My review of the facts in the SBI report prior to final action still stands," Hagerty noted.

Phillips was first suspended with pay as a "non-disciplinary" measure by city officials pending investigation of the case.

Later, members of the City Council agreed to suspend the officers pay pending an investigation by the SBI after a group of Negro leaders held a late-night meeting with the council and demanded the officer's pay be cut off.

Last week in District Court, Summrell was found guilty on charges of disorderly conduct, resisting arrest and assault on an officer which stemmed from the incident with Ptl. Phillips. Summrell gave notice of appeal to Pitt County Superior Court.

Gather To Hear How To Share

RALEIGH (AP)—Local school officials from over North Carolina met here today to learn whether they can share in $1.5 billion in federal school aid proposed by President Nixon.

The local officials came to hear officials of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare outline the President's program.

Also attending the session were members of the recently appointed North Carolina Advisory Committee on Public Education.

Twelve Of Jury Chosen

Twelve jurors had been chosen by 11 a.m. today in the rape - burglary trial of Elmo Barber, 21-year-old Negro charged in connection with a April 27 incident at Brook Valley.

The beginning of testimony in the case hinged on the selection of alternate jurors.

Selection of the jury began Tuesday. By 5 p.m. yesterday, 11 persons had been seated, including two women. The 12th person was chosen just before 11 o'clock this morning. One of the 12 persons seated is Negro.

Among the jury members, one is a minister, two are employees of the North Carolina State Highway Commission; one a barber and one a stock clerk.

Barber and Thomas Earl Stocks are both charged with rape and first degree burglary after the two allegedly forced their way into a Brook Valley home and assaulted Mrs. Ann Baker Barry, Mrs. Barry, 23, and her 13-month old daughter were alone in her father's Windsor-Road home at the time of the alleged attack.

Tar River Oil Slick Surveyed

An oil slick on the Tar River now extends from its point of origin where Town Creek enters the river at the Shore Drive Project to the bridge near Grimesland.

A.C. Turnage, regional engineer with the Industrial Waste Section of the N.C. Department of Air and Water Resources office in Greenville, reported that he and Bill Riley of the Federal Water Quality Administration Office in Charlottesville, Virginia, this morning surveyed the slick this morning.

"We made the trip by a Coast Guard helicopter which came in from Elizabeth City," Turnage stated.

"Just now, we are trying to make effective plans to eliminate the slick and are studying methods to do this. We have assurances of whatever assistance we need," Turnage added. City Manager Harry Hagerty commented, "The oil slick began to develop in the river yesterday afternoon. Turnage and his assistant were called in and asked what to do."

Noting that state and federal agencies were contacted for advice and assistance, Hagerty added, "The city became involved in efforts to combat the slick last night."

"We put a barrier across the entrance of Town Creek, after deciding this was the best action we could take to contain the growth of the slick until the source could be determined," Hagerty said.

He said members of the Rescue Squad and personnel of Greenville Utilities Commission collaborated in putting the barrier up, with the work completed about 10:00 p.m.

Propose 'Amnesty' For GIs Trying Kick Drugs

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Pentagon task force recommended today establishment of a trial program to grant amnesty to U.S. servicemen who voluntarily stop using illegal drugs and seek help in kicking the habit.

The massive report, made public as it was submitted to a Senate subcommittee probing the extent of drug abuse in the armed services, stressed the trial nature of the program which already has been instituted in parts of South Vietnam where it is reported "having a salutary and beneficial effect."

"The task force deliberated long and hard on this recommendation," said Vice Adm. William P. Mack, head of the group, "because there must be a balancing of seeking to rehabilitate an individual with the equally important and necessary precept of military life which is discipline."

In testimony prepared for the subcommittee, Mack said the country's drug abuse problem "has grown radically ... in the last few years, and particularly in the high school age group from where the majority of armed forces recruits and draftees are obtained."

The extent of such abuse in the armed forces, he added, probably is "not more widespread than in the civilian population." It can be "characterized as very serious," he said, but does not currently endanger the nation's military readiness.

Although efforts are being made to keep such drugs from the servicemen, he said, "for the foreseeable future we must continue to anticipate an atmosphere in which dangerous drugs ... are relatively easy to obtain."

The report called for a carefully planned educational effort to be expanded to cover the armed forces, Defense Department workers and their dependents.

The report also said a person should not necessarily be precluded from serving in the armed forces if he has experimented with dangerous drugs.

Burroughs Wellcome Is Now Incorporated As N.C. Firm

Fred A. Coe Jr., president and chairman of the board of Burroughs Wellcome Co., announced that the company has been duly incorporated as a North Carolina corporation.

Coe said that articles of incorporation were filed Monday in the office of the Secretary of State and Tuesday the new board of directors held their organizational meeting.

Burroughs Wellcome had been originally incorporated in New York State in 1924. "It is our sincere desire to participate to the fullest extent in the business and scientific life of North Carolina, Coe added in making the announcement. The best way to accomplish this is by becoming a corporate citizen of the state."

In addition to the president, the board members are: Arthur H. Clark, comptroller; William F. Dowling Jr., vice president and general counsel; George H. Hitchings, vice president - research; Charles H. Pressel, vice president - production; Garth H. Quinn, vice president - organizational development;

Dr. Fred Wrigley, deputy chairman, The Wellcome Foundation Ltd., London, England.

Burroughs Wellcome is a part of an international group of companies associated with the Wellcome Foundation in London and manufactures over 80 medicinal products, including analgesics, antihistamines, cardiovascular drugs, muscle relaxants, and drugs used in the treatment of diabetes, gout, leukemia, and certain forms of cancer.

Not All Women Are 'Centerfold Material'

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am 23, married with a five-year-old son. My husband brings home Playboy magazine, which is not unusual for a man, but yesterday I saw our son sitting quietly, looking at the pictures.

I didn't yank the book away from him, I just told him that the book was "new" and his father hadn't read it yet, so he had better give it to me, which he did, but reluctantly. [He said he liked looking at the pictures.]

Abby, I am not old fashioned. When my son asks a question about sex, I try to answer him the best I can for his age with the truth. This is hard for me to do because I never heard one word from my mother about sex.

I know some women don't like for their husbands to look at Playboy, but I really don't see anything wrong with it. But how about my son? WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: I can't see anything wrong with a five-year-old boy looking at Playboy. It could, however, lead to disappointment and frustration when he reaches manhood and discovers all girls are not built like those he has seen in the centerfold.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is shy about disrobing in front of me. He covers up fast if he hears me coming. He sleeps in the altogether, but he never takes all his clothes off until the lights are out. I have never seen all of him, except for an occasional accidental glimpse. We have been married for 19 years, and believe it or not, we have a family.

After so long, I wonder if there is something wrong with him for being that way? Or is there something wrong with me for wondering? CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: The only thing "wrong" with your husband is his attitude about nudity. It's the way he was reared, no doubt. Since it doesn't seem to hamper your relationship, don't let it bother you. Maybe he's saving "all of himself" for your 25th wedding anniversary.

DEAR ABBY: I don't know who started that silly rule of etiquette that one should always leave "something" on his plate. To me, it's wasteful and sinful. If someone is served more than he can eat in a restaurant, it's understandable, but when I see people pile up a plate full of food and then leave half of it, I think it just shows their ignorance and greediness. What do you think? HATES WASTE

DEAR HATES: Agreed. Anyone who helps himself, and then leaves half of it on the plate, may as well tell his hostess that her food wasn't nearly as good as it looked.

DEAR ABBY: Here is one secretary who really saw red when she came across that letter from "THE BOSS' WIFE" who was "jealous" because her husband "honored" his secretary during National Secretary Week.

She said the bosses send their secretaries flowers and take them out for lunch and dinner. Where did this happen? I didn't get any flowers, and as for the lunch and dinner treat—my boss didn't take me, I took him, along with about 30 other secretaries who took their bosses. And by the way it was a luncheon for secretaries who wanted to honor their bosses. And it came out of our pockets, not theirs.

So if you want to be jealous, all I can say is, "Eat your

Barbara Feldon Says Affluence Isn't Her Bag

By DONALD MADDEN
WEST HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (WNS) — Barbara (Agent 99) Feldon lives in what she calls a "witty" house in the Hollywood hills. She says it's "witty" because, looking around in it, she sometimes wants to laugh. It has so many clashing, provocative furnishings — pop posters, black and white prints, a long yellow couch banked with print pillows, a set of Eames chairs, her self-painted florals, and one very good oil of a Victorian house by Robert Cottingham.

The house is a rented one, at the end of a long communal drive, and Barbara is staying there until she finds just the right one at the beach to buy.

Barbara says she likes to travel light in life. "I don't want a lot of expensive possessions. I don't have an affluence hangup. Maybe my days as an out-of-work actress are too vivid for me. I buy what I can instantly replace. I don't spend a great deal of money on things — then I'd have to think of their value, what if they get broken, how to replace them.

"I saw a very 'personal' house recently that a family had owned for 80 years, and it made the decorated houses I've seen look like motel rooms. It's the memories, the living, that give a house its atmosphere, not the decorator touches. I once had a decorator do an apartment for me and it turned out beautiful — but I always thought I was living in someone else's apartment."

Barbara's favorite sitting spot is in front of the Cottingham painting. "I love Victorian houses, and having a painting of one fulfills a romantic fantasy of mine. It also takes me back to my childhood in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. My grandmother used to live in a house that looked just like this painting.

"I put different flowers, in pots, in front of the painting every few days. It's like changing the front garden."

15 Percent Of Women Want To Be Men

LUCERNE, Switzerland (WNS) — The Lucerne Institute asked 1,039 women if they would prefer to be men. Fifteen per cent answered yes. Most of them were over 45 years old. Many of them were widows, divorcees and old maids. The majority were stout. Their prime reason: men seem to have more money than women.

OPEN NIGHTS TIL 9 P.M.

A Good Day For Pitt Growers

It has been a good opening for Eastern Belt tobacco markets with a belt average of $73.38 per hundred pounds for 11,514,567 pounds bringing a total of $8,449,178.

Greenville had a particularly good day with an average of $74.03 for 1,744,922 pounds of tobacco sold for $1,291,827.

Farmville exceeded the belt average at $73.55 for 694,296 pounds which brought $510,690 and so did Williamston with a $73.88 average. Robersonville had a good average at $72.96.

All-in-all Tuesday was a day of smiles for producers who have struggled through a season with the highest costs ever and with the labor shortage as acute as it could be. The weather this year also seemed to be a constant threat with dry weather at the beginning of the growing season and wet spells later in the cycle.

Fortunately the crop which farmers have produced this year seems to be the kind of tobacco that the companies want and with the high opening day average, we can look forward to a strong market throughout the season.

Tobacco is still a major part of the economy for Pitt and surrounding counties. How the crop sells affects most of us in Greenville and neighboring towns. Thus it is with a feeling of satisfaction that all of us observe the high opening day averages.

Housing Corp. Is Gearing Up

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — The North Carolina Housing Corporation, one of the ambitious and innovative projects birthed during Governor Bob Scott's term, is gearing up for action.

Its success could make the present governor's name as synonymous with improved housing as his father's became with black-topped roads to meet transportation needs in rural areas.

That there is a similar urgency in tackling the problem of adequate housing for some 400,000 Tar Heels, particularly those of limited income levels, is a theme of the Scott administration. The 1969 General Assembly headed the governor's request in setting up the Housing Corporation to make a start.

Now, after a one-year delay while the act's constitutionality was tested in the courts (a Superior Court decision said no; a recent State Supreme Court opinion reversed it, and said yes), Executive Director Joe E. Eagles is taking steps to get the corporation operational.

October Target Date
"We hope to be able to buy some mortgages in late October," Eagles said. Through the purchase of mortgages, the corporation will make available to lending institutions the funds to ease the money pinch for low income homebuyers.

First, Eagles must clear up with the federal Internal Revenue Service the corporation's tax-exempt status, recruit a staff, and establish contracts with lenders throughout the state.

The IRS negotiations may take 45 to 60 days, Eagles speculated. Applications are being studied for 10 to 12 staff positions, including personnel knowledgeable in housing and building, and with expertise in finance and mortgage banking.

As soon as the field force is on board, they will begin calling on lenders, banks, mortgage bankers, and the large number of local savings and loan institutions throughout the state. These contacts will produce the arrangements through which the corporation will work with lenders in channeling funds for purchase of homes.

Bonds to Import Capital
The corporation is authorized to issue up to $200 million in revenue bonds which will be sold on the national bond market, serving to import that much capital into North Carolina for private housing. The first sale of bonds, Eagles said, will depend on the recommendations of financial advisors as to market conditions. The corporation will generate its initial supply of funds through the sale of bond anticipation notes.

A nine-member Board of Directors sets policy and gives guidance to the corporation.

Five serve by virtue of their official position: State Treasurer Edwin Gill, Local Affairs Director G. Irvin Aldridge, Director of Administration William L. Turner, State Health Director Jacob Koomen, and Conservation and Development Director Roy G. Sowers.

The four directors appointed by Governor Scott are: R. Peyton Woodson, III, Raleigh insurance executive; Claude E. Pope, Raleigh mortgage banker; Roy A. Southerland, Winston-Salem banker; and John W. Winters, Raleigh realtor and builder.

While the court test held off an active start, Eagles and his assistant, Luther C. Hodges, have not been idle. They have traveled across the state for some 18 meetings with builders, lenders, Chamber of Commerce and community leaders to tell the housing story. "The response has been very favorable," Eagles said. "I think there is a real awareness of the need here, and a willingness to cooperate in getting something done."

Cooperation, Not Competition
One of the points made is that the corporation will not compete with the private sector, but will seek to fill a gap where needs are not being met.

Tight money supply and resulting high interest rates have made it impossible for builders to do much in providing housing in the $9,000 to $21,000 range, Eagles said. New construction has been concentrated in apartment complexes and higher-price residences.

The goal of the corporation is to stimulate building for families in the $6,000 - a year and below income bracket. The target. The target is 10,000 homes a year at peak operational level; the aim is 1,000 for the first year.

Criteria for homebuyers to share the benefits of the corporation's programs will be fixed by the Board of Directors, taking into account the amount of family

Public Should Know Buses Safe To Ride

Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe has said inspections of interstate buses has been stepped up. In light of recent bus accidents this is certainly an action that should be taken.

Volpe said that at least 5,000 buses will be inspected with special emphasis on charter buses. "This effort is designed to assure that buses in unsafe conditions are taken off the highways until all necessary repairs are made," Volpe said.

All bus accidents are not due to faulty equipment; however the public has a right to know that buses on which it rides are in safe condition. All buses should be inspected at frequent occasions to assure that their equipment is in good working order.

Apprehension At Ann Arbor

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — The apprehension with which a considerable portion of the University of Michigan faculty awaits the autumn term here stems from deep misgivings about the way President Robben Fleming handled last winter's student crisis.

By profession a labor mediator attuned to compromise, Fleming has been widely praised by press and politicians for peacefully settling a campus strike at Michigan last March. But those professors most concerned about Michigan's survival as a great university (sadly, a minority of the faculty) privately contend that Fleming's tactics have encouraged more politicization here and set dangerous precedents harmful to academic freedom.

Nobody knows what white radicals and black militants have in mind for this fall. A rumor running through faculty circles — sharply denied by the administration — points to a campaign seeking amnesty for black militants who still face criminal charges resulting from the March strike. Everybody expects another confrontation of some kind in October.

What makes some faculty members pessimistic about a new confrontation is Fleming's record the past year. Thus, though Michigan's mood does not approach the demoralization at Berkeley or Harvard, the theme is depressingly familiar: a great university where the concept of liberal education is threatened with suffocation.

A major complaint against Fleming by his faculty critics concerns his speech against the Vietnam war last Sept. 19. "You can't ask men of integrity and conscience to be enmeshed on all issues," he told us, adding that his speech was intended to capture the peace issue from radicals. That's just the point. Many professors who fully share Fleming's opposition to the war saw the speech as a long and unnecessary step down the road toward politicizing the university, particularly in the context of turbulent anti-war sentiment on the campus last fall.

More serious, however, was Fleming's acceptance of a 10 percent Negro enrollment goal, the major demand of the March student strike.

Substantive arguments against the 10 percent quota, swept away by emotional support from a majority of students and faculty, are formidable. To raise black enrollment from the present 3.5 percent would leave precious little in scholarship funds for poor white students. Moreover, the attrition rate of black students now is close to 50 percent; with a threefold increase in Negro enrollment, the attrition rate probably would soar.

Similar arguments were voiced by Fleming himself when black militants first made their demands. He reversed his stand, Fleming told us, when he saw how much the university community supported the 10 percent quota.

But that is not the full story. "It's foolish to deny there was intimidation and coercion (in the student strike)," Fleming conceded to us. Indeed, faculty members recall with foreboding the oppressive taste of violence last March — students coerced into boycotting classes and professors intimidated into not holding them. For instance, two chemistry professors cancelled their lectures outright following bomb threats. The message to the campus community: the rewards of disruption can be considerable.

In less dramatic ways, academic freedom is being undercut here. Black graduate students in the psychology department have demanded that no psychological formulations about Negroes be made here without their consent. Incredibly, instead of being summarily rejected, the demand was generally accepted by the department head.

The naivete of the Michigan administration is typified by Fleming's dismissal of the burgeoning Afro-American (Continued on page 6)

Strength For Today

LIFE IS A PRIVILEGE

One of the most solemn and arresting stories in the entire Bible is the account of how Cain rose up against his brother Abel and killed him. When Cain realized what he had done he declared that his punishment was greater than he could bear, that he would be a fugitive on the earth with everyone seeking to capture and slay him. But the Lord "set a mark upon Cain, lest any find him should kill him."

At the very end of the Bible (Revelation 22:3, 4) we read that the servants of God will look into the very face of God and that God's name shall be in their foreheads.

The mark of Cain. The mark of God's protection written across the foreheads of those who trust Him.

Life is a strange combination of circumstances and situations about which we apparently know very little. But this we do know, that human life with all its mystery is not hopeless. The mark of Cain is upon us all. The approval of God, his encouragement, his assurance is found in the lives of all who are ready to look up and reach up for divine help.

A Christian believer who was asked the meaning of the so-called doctrine of divine election replied that God is always casting his vote for us and the devil is always casting his vote against us and it depends on the way we vote as to which way the election goes.

We think too often of life as a struggle. Let us think of it as a divine privilege.

The Soviets Build On

A nice little crowd trooped down to Newport News this past Saturday to applaud the laying of the Eisenhower's keel. It was a fine occasion—dress whites, gold braid, brass trumpets gleaming, and later on, mint juleps on a shady lawn. But when the caravans rolled back to Washington that night, a melancholy question lingered in the summer air: When shall we come this way again?

The Eisenhower will join the fleet in 1975 as the second nuclear-powered carrier of the Nimitz class. There may never be a third. An economy-minded Senate has knocked out a $152 million request to maintain our carrier program. In the field of national security, a greater folly scarcely could be imagined; but there it is — and when it is said that we must live with this decision, one might respond, with equal fatalism, that perhaps we die with it too.

Defense Secretary Laird summed up the situation in a sentence: "If our nation is to assume any responsibility for international peace and security, it cannot allow its naval forces to deteriorate." But that is precisely what the Congress is allowing. Ten years ago, even five years ago, the United States had the greatest navy in the world; we cannot make that claim today.

Our combat fleet is down to some 750 vessels now. Over the next 18 months, another 100 warships, all of them over-age, will have to be retired. A handful of new destroyers are coming on; Nimitz will join the fleet in 1973, Eisenhower two years later. We have 63 submarines authorized, but the pace of construction is pitifully slow. This is not the story of a navy holding its own; it is the story of a navy in decline.

Meanwhile, what of the Soviet Union? The stunning picture of Soviet expansion has been painted often enough on Capitol Hill, but the facts seem never to sink in. The Soviet navy now numbers more than 1,700 combat ships, and the great bulk of these are new ships. Nearly 60 percent of our own naval vessels are 20 years old or older; less than one per cent of the Soviet Union's ships are that old. The Communists' new Kashin class destroyer, propelled by gas turbines, is swash-buckling about the Mediterranean now; a top U.S. admiral describes it enviously as "one of the great ships of the world."

The Kashing destroyer is only one of a dozen new Soviet warships already operational. The new "Charlie class" of Russian submarines carries a short-range missile, capable of being fired underwater at surface targets 25 miles away. Still more awesome is the Soviets' Echo II. This nuclear submarine is the last laugh on Cuba; it is patrolling the Atlantic and the Caribbean today with 350-mile missiles presumably more powerful than the land-based

Other Editors Say Shift In Power

(The Wilson Times)

There is much more in the switch in political power than meets the eye. According to the coming census report, the balance of political power in the next General Assembly will be in the Piedmont.

This means that the Democratic East, which has held the balance of power in the General Assembly since the memory of man runs not to the contrary, will be losing this power to the shifting political influences of the Piedmont. In other words this state may go Republican on the state level before long. For the Piedmont is the stronghold of the Republicans.

Whether this is for good or not remains to be seen. But there is certainly value in constancy, and the East has consistently voted Democratic, so much so that possibly its Democratic strength has been taken advantage of, for the East has not grown as has the Piedmont. The roads have all gone to the Piedmont, industry has moved in that direction, and the industrial progress is there.

Industry would do well to look to the East, for here is where the trainable labor is located, the lower land prices and the better labor relations. But industry has elected to develop the Piedmont so that is where the population is located, and that is where the representation will come from. The steady, conservative East, with its agricultural background, has given the state excellent government. We do not know of a state in the Union where state government has been carried on as high a plane as here. And we are not saying this will change. We do say that the East has proven its dependability.

As to the future, according to Bryan Haislip, writing for the Afternoon Daily, under the new census count, if it is anywhere near the estimated figures, dividing of the state's population by 120 — the number of seats in the House — the East should have 40 members in the House and 16 2/3 senators, the Piedmont 63 1/2 House seats and 26 1/2 senators and the West should be represented by 16 1/2 House members and 6 1/2 senators.

If the line-up remains as above the Piedmont can carry any legislation it desires. But the line-up is not likely to remain constant. The Republicans are making headway in the Piedmont, and the votes will be divided there. And when the state goes Republican it is likely to be because of the vote in the Piedmont. So the East may retain some of its political power for the Democrats of the Piedmont may find their friends in the East of inestimable value in putting

Did It In Six Months

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Theodore Lamont Cross has had a rare and enviable experience. Called to Washington last December to devise a new program, he not only shaped it, but saw it accepted and funded, all in just six months.

Now the nonprofit Opportunity Funding Corp., having received an initial grant of $7.4 million, is embarked on studies aimed at attracting private capital to low-income areas.

It will seek to learn, for example, if existing institutions can be enticed, perhaps with government guarantees, to accept allegedly high risk investments in ghetto areas.

The story behind the corporation contains a lesson for all those people who casually dismiss the problems of minority groups as little more than an attitude of mind rather than formal discrimination.

Cross, 46, former editor of the Harvard Law Review and now editor and publisher of the Bankers Magazine, officer in a publishing company and treasurer of the Sheraton Corp. of America, has suffered a little discrimination.

He is, as can be suspected, a solid member of the establishment. He not only understands it but, so to speak, has always had his foot in the door. The system worked for him and his clients, chief of which was the Sheraton hotel chain.

For 15 years Cross had worked with Sheraton's developers, Ernest Henderson and Robert L. Moore. He had seen how they made money grow, how they had parlayed a $25,000 investment during the 1930s into a half-billion dollar empire.

"They did it all with other people's money," said Cross. "They were masters of leverage."

Cross already had been applying some of his time to problems of the Negro community. Although Negroes made up 11 per cent of the population, he learned, they controlled only one per cent of the nation's capital.

In the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn, for example, there are only two small banking units, although the population exceeds that of the city of Cincinnati, Ohio. The establishment didn't lend to Negroes. They were unable to obtain bonds, insurance, loans. For them, leveraging was impossible.

The explanations sounded good enough. Casualty insurers said ghetto businesses were overly risky. Life insurers said Negro mortality was too high. Bankers thought of them as poor businessmen. Too much talent was being frustrated by the establishment, Cross felt. "I just wonder," he said this week, "was there a black Edwin Land lost to us in this manner?" Land invented the Polaroid camera.

Cross' thoughts eventually became a highly praised book, "Black Capitalism," subtitled "Strategy for Business in the Ghetto."

It's thesis is this: "We need a national scheme to make it possible for insurers, bonders, leasing companies, life and fire insurers and banks to do business in the black community. It should be a national vehicle."

Cross dismissed the notion that new institutions were needed and that the solution should be through handouts. The existing system, however, should be changed so as to serve rather than oppress.

New Importance In Money Role

By ELMER ROESSNER
The dip in business is altering many business practices as corporations try to conserve assets, reduce outlays and improve balance sheets.

Among the developing trends are:

• An increase in leading of autos, trucks, machinery, airplanes, computers and other equipment. Some of the new 747 planes are not owned outright by the lines that fly them; they are owned by banks and other institutions who lease them. Leasing, while it may cost more over the long run, reduces capital outlays when capital costs 8, 10 or more per cent. Furthermore, costs of leasing is immediately and fully deductible, while purchases must be amortized over periods of years.

• Postponement of new construction. Programs are not being dropped, merely delayed. However, delays are being carefully evaluated. Construction costs are still rising and postponing the start of a new plant until 1971 or 1972 may add to its cost. Collections And Inventories • Collection efforts are being intensified. Unpaid bills cost the creditor 8 per cent or more per year, which may be more than the profit margin.

Grace periods are being cut, warnings of legal action become sharper. This applies to both consumer and business indebtedness.

Delays in collection can be costly. Either an individual or a company can get into financial trouble or go into bankruptcy.

Conversely, many individuals and companies are delaying payments when possible. More installments are being paid on the last day before penalty; more 30-day discounts are being taken on the 29th day.

• Inventories are being kept low and those on hand are being revalued on the books in light of rising prices. As noted previously, an inventory written up at current prices may change a balance sheet from red to black.

The Department of Commerce reports that inventories increased only $350 million in June. That not only reflects caution in stockpiling but suggests the increase may be less than the rise in book value in the month.

So Long, Od Pal!

• Retirements are being encouraged in many companies. Old Joe may be a nice fellow to have around, but it may save a company money to retire him on part pay, especially when retirement pay comes out of retirement funds.

At the same time, some companies are filling fewer vacancies. When an employee retires, quits or dies, there is usually a determination of whether it is necessary to fill the old job, and whether it can be handled by a lower-priced body.

• Fewer mergers. The merger fever has subsided somewhat. Some take-over prospects have lost their glamor. Furthermore, the cost of raising funds for take-overs is not only high, but many institutions are less willing than ever to loan funds for that purpose.

Success Began Following Stay In San Quentin

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Until he spent three years in San Quentin, Fred Arnold was an ex-Marine adrift.

A serious young man with a family and some college education, he worked as a postal clerk in San Diego, then went home to St. Louis as a data clerk for the Army. He tried his hand at real estate.

The change in his fortune came with a conviction for drug possession and a $3,000 store robbery that sent him to prison. "That did it," he says. "When I got out, I was ready to do it right."

Released last Jan. 22 with $29.45 in his pocket, Arnold, 30, took his idea for a special kind of home cleaning service to friends for backing.

His plan: Make certain the work is satisfactory. If not, do it over free.

A buddy in the Marines, Henry Jackson, president of a San Diego finance firm, lent him $1,300. With his wife Zella and their 11-year-old son Fred, Arnold went door to door. As housewives bought his service, he began to advertise, with the help of a friend on the San Diego State College faculty.

From a corner of a rented office with a single desk and a single girl working part time, Maid-For-A-Day expanded by summer to 40 employees and Arnold says $130,000 income monthly.

In training classes, he tells his staff to ask a housewife if she wants the cleaning started in a special place or done a special way.

Arnold calls the housewife back later, asks if the cleaning was good and if she will tell her neighbor. Dissatisfaction brings an instant repeat.

The Better Business Bureau made Arnold a member four months sooner than usual.

The firm moved into new, large quarters this month, and Jackson talked directors of his Brokers Financial Corp. into making Arnold's office into a wholly owned subsidiary with potential backing for major growth.

Precautions For Cholera

GENOA, Italy (AP) — About 80 merchant ships sailing in from the Black Sea, Turkey and the Middle East have been stopped outside this harbor city and barred from docking until all persons were checked for cholera, a communique issued by harbor authorities reported Tuesday.

It said that up to now no trace of the disease has been found and all vessels were permitted to dock, after animal furs and rags were disinfected. The checks were made over a period of eight days.

All passengers embarking were for the Middle East and the Soviet Union are being inoculated against cholera before departing, the communique added.

Israeli health authorities also inaugurated a program of vaccinations Monday for persons wishing to come into the country from Jordan or for persons in occupied territories crossing into Jordan.

income available for housing, family size, cost and condition of available housing, and the family's eligibility for federal housing assistance when this is appropriate.

In addition to the revenue bonds which it will issue, the corporation will set up a Housing Development Fund to receive gifts, grants and loans from industries, foundations, government, individuals, and other sources. It will be able to provide seed money loans to developers to cover pre-construction costs; assist qualified families in financing down payments on a home; and make available uninsured loans, in participation with private lenders, to builders and developers for land development and residential construction for lower income families.

missiles removed from Cuba in the great uproar of 1962.

What is the Soviet Union's purpose? The fantastic development of Communist naval vessels is matched by expansion of the Soviet merchant marine. While our own shipyards languish, Russia's are booming. Once the Suez Canal is reopened—and this prospect holds the key to a Mideast settlement—the Soviet Union will dominate the seaborne commerce of the world.

None of this is new. Our most respected naval spokesmen — Moorer, Rickover, McCain—have been crying at the top of their lungs for modernization of our Navy. They have gone unheard. House and Senate committees have filed reports; the reports have gone unread. The strategic case has been made time after time. This was Rickover, a year ago:

"The United States, being an island, has no contiguous land masses whence we can conduct military operations to protect our national interests or from which we can obtain the fuels and materials necessary to sustain a large-scale war effort. From our island position the only way we can project our national power beyond range of our land bases is through the Navy."

Rickover was at Newport News on Saturday. It was, to repeat, a happy occasion; but his sad, impassive face masked a sense of depression that the bravest, brightest band could not dispel.

studies program as similar in kind to the university's Slavic languages center or its Far Eastern center. In fact, Frank Yates, a tough young administrator of Afro-

American studies, openly calls it a potential "university within a university" with frankly political goals.

The program at Ann Arbor is national in scope. President Fleming can best keep his support from politicians, students, and probably a majority of the faculty by continuing to compromise with any demands made this fall and thereby prevent a holocaust. What worries Fleming's faculty critics is the price that must be paid for such peace in terms of Michigan's erosion as a great university.

District Governor To Visit Rotarians

The Greenville Rotary Club will be host to the Governor of District 773, Rotary International, on his Official Visit to the Greenville Club, August 24 according to club President Joe Pou.

Prior to the regular weekly meeting at which the governor will deliver an inspirational and informative address, the Club Assembly will be held, including all officers, directors and committee chairmen, for discussion and presentation of reports of projected activities during the current Rotary year. President Joe Pou and Secretary James Sullivan urge that all officers, directors and committee heads to attend the Club Assembly at the Rotary Building at 5:30 p.m.

Governor of District 773 of Rotary International is Robert L. Stallings, Jr., prominent business and civic leader, of New Bern, who was nominated at the District Conference held in Kinston in April, and elected by the 61st Annual Convention of Rotary International. A native of Craven County, he was educated at N. C. State University at Raleigh; the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, and did graduate study at the University of Illinois at Urbana. He is a former Associate Professor in Business Administration at UNC, and is a veteran of four years Navy service during World War II.

He served as Director, North Carolina Department of Conservation and Development, by appointment of Gov. Terry Sanford, and as President of the Neuse Area Development Association. He formerly served two terms as Mayor of New Bern.

Farm Tractor Kills 2 Youths

SPRINGFIELD, S. C. (AP) — Two 14-year-old Springfield youths were killed Wednesday by an overturning farm tractor.

Raleigh Board To Reconsider Bus Service

RALEIGH (AP) — The Raleigh school board is expected to reconsider a decision to discontinue bus service to school pupils.

The board had voted Monday to eliminate 25 buses it now operates because it was unable to come up with $333,000 to purchase 46 new buses. The board said the new buses were needed to meet a court requirement that North Carolina school systems bus all or none of their city pupils.

Three members of the board said Wednesday they were unaware that the state has surplus buses available for the cities.

The State Education Department sent out memorandums to city school superintendents June 18 notifying them of the transportation problem and the availability of about 400 used buses, free.

Linda Kasabian Ends 18 Days Of Trial Testimony

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I'd like to go into the wilderness with my children and get down to nature and closer to God," said Linda Kasabian, pale but smiling as she ended 18 days as the state's key witness in the Sharon Tate murder trial.

But no matter where she goes, the petite blonde said she'll always remember the murders: "It is deep within my heart what happened and I could never forget it."

Speaking softly, Mrs. Kasabian made her remarks at a news conference an hour after she left the witness stand.

Asked what she now thinks of Charles M. Manson and his three women followers on trial for the slayings, Mrs. Kasabian said: "I'd like to see them fall down on their knees and beg forgiveness."

Mrs. Kasabian, 21, once a member of Manson's hippie-style "family," was charged with murder-conspiracy in the killings of Miss Tate, and six others but was granted immunity from prosecution for her testimony. She told how Manson ordered his followers to kill. She said she went along as lookout on two murder missions, but did not enter the houses where victims were slain.

Of her future, she said, "I want to do my own thing." She said she doesn't plan to live with her husband Robert, although they'll "always be together" spiritually. She said she does not plan to live with her mother, who has been caring for her children in Milford, N.H. But she said she'll take the children—Tanya, 2, and Angel, 5 months—with her. She declined to say where she will live.

Asked if she feared reprisals from Manson's followers, she paused, then said: "I'm not going to worry about it."

In the last moments of her testimony, Mrs. Kasabian said she fled to New Mexico to see her husband after August 1969 and told him: "Charlie flipped out and had a whole bunch of people killed." But she said she did not consider telling police.

The next witness called by the prosecution was Timothy Ireland, who was a counselor at a day camp near the actress' home. He said he heard a man's screams for about 15 seconds the night of the slayings.

He said that after the screams at about 12 o'clock a.m. He drove around the neighborhood but saw nothing and went to sleep without calling police.

Rudolf Weber—who lived in a house at the bottom of Benedict Canyon, an area near the Tate residence—said he was awakened about 1 a.m. on the murder night by the sound of running water. He said he saw a young man and three young women washing themselves with a hose.

Mrs. Kasabian had testified that members of the murder party were spotted by a man as they stopped at a home to wash blood off their bodies and clothes. Weber said he made a note of the license number of the group's car, but did not report it to police.

Later, he said, he threw away the note but he remembered the number when police contacted him in December. It was, he said GYY-435, the plate number which the state says was on the car used on the murder missions.

Patrolman Is Shot To Death

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — A patrolman writing a traffic citation was shot to death today in the third similar San Francisco area police slaying in two months.

Ronald T. Tsukamoto, 28, on the force 11 months, died two hours after an unknown assailant fired two shots, one striking the officer in the head.

Richard Berger, police spokesman, said the slaying "resembles a San Jose shooting death and a San Francisco one in that police were on traffic stops during early morning hours when the assailant came up."

Police said Tsukamoto, traveling alone in his police car, pulled aside a motorcyclist who made an illegal U-turn on a main thoroughfare.

While Tsukamoto wrote a traffic ticket near the cycle, Berger said, a man walked up to the policeman, pulled a revolver from a pocket and fired. Then he fled in a car nearby.

The cyclist, whose name was withheld, used the police car radio to call police, officers said.

Concluded 2-Week Camp

A two week summer camp program for mentally retarded children sponsored by East Carolina University and three county school systems was concluded last week at White Lake.

In a combined effort with the Sampson, Bladen and Pitt County school boards, the ECU program provided recreational and training activities for approximately 200 retarded children.

In addition, 43 special education teachers were enrolled in one of two university courses offered at the Future Farmers of America Camp at White Lake.

Dr. William Martin of the university's School of Education was Camp Director. Mrs. Martin, who is a professor in the School of Nursing, was the Camp Nurse. Administrative coordinator of the camp program was Charles F. McKiever, Director of the Goldsboro Center of East Carolina University.

Suspects Gas Treaty Motives

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A senator who hopes to outlaw the use of defoliants in Vietnam says President Nixon may be using a 45-year-old treaty barring gas and germ warfare to scuttle his proposal.

Administration officials said Wednesday that use of defoliants, tear gas and napalm would be permitted under the 1925 Geneva Protocol. President Nixon sent the treaty to Senate for ratification on Wednesday. Most observers expect it to be approved.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., said his amendment to ban the use of herbicides may be the reason the President acted this week—nine months after he announced he would seek Senate ratification of the treaty.

"I think their point is to get an administration position in opposition to the amendment," the Wisconsin Democrat said. "They want to exert the pressure of having their position clearly delineated." Although he favors the treaty, Nelson took sharp exception to the administration view stated by Secretary of State William P. Rogers, in a letter accompanying Nixon's message, that tear gas and defoliants could still be used in Vietnam.

Why the Foreign Relations Committee can't hold hearings and approve the treaty next month. The President asked for one reservation to Protocol permitting the retaliatory—but not first-strike—use by the United States of chemical weapons and agents. Biological weapons would be barred entirely. The treaty was originally sent to the Senate in 1925 but never approved and returned to the White House in 1947 during a general housecleaning of old documents at the Foreign Relations Committee. There are 85 parties to it and Nixon noted in his message that "the United States has always observed the principles and objectives of this Protocol."

Bicycle Safety Day Program Saturday

All area fourth-, fifth-, and sixth-graders are invited to a Bicycle Safety Day at Guy Smith Stadium from 9 to 11 a.m. Saturday.

Children participating will be tested on riding skills and safety knowledge and their bicycles will be safely inspected.

Larry Stox, director of the Greenville Modern Woodmen Junior Club, said any youngster scoring 80 or better on each of the three tests will receive a large embroidered sweater emblem. All participants will receive free reflector strips. Safety inspection decals will be placed on all bikes passing mechanical safety standards. Administering the mechanical inspection will be a member of the Safety Council. The written test for knowledge of safety laws and basic bicycle safety will be scored by a group of Ambassador Boys. Judging and scoring the skill test for riding will be members of the Safety Council and parents.

Once Designated State Mid-Point

DANVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The first survey of Kentucky during the early 1800s by the U.S. Geodetic Survey located the center of the state at Danville.

The land on which the center marker was placed later became the campus of Centre College.

Addition of the Jackson Purchase area in 1818 moved the center of the state farther west.

Dick Contino Today Is Recapturing His Roots

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Dick Contino is one of those household names of yesteryear, catapulted overnight into America's most famous accordion player in the last hurrah of national radio show broadcasts.

They called him "the Yankee Clipper of the accordion," comparing his skill in musik with that of baseball's then Yankee Clipper, Joe DiMaggio.

For week after week he stole the show on the old Horace Heidt Talent Show, a coast-to-coast Sunday night broadcast which ran in the same class for popularity as "Your Hit Parade" and "Stop the Music," and claimed audiences as fiercely loyal as Lawrence Welk does today.

It may come as a shock to those who think of the pre-television era as long in the past, but Contino has only just turned 40. And he still makes a living at squeezing the accordion.

But after years on the whistle-stop entertainment circuit, or playing in and out of Los Angeles' Contino has returned to his hometown, Fresno, with his pretty wife, three children and pet mouse Josephine.

"I suppose it sounds phony, but what I'm trying to do is recapture the roots," the long wandering minstrel said in an interview at his new $30,000 stucco home in this inland California city. "My home is Fresno, I was born here, and there are all those relatives ..."

He's taken to longish, almost shaggy hair and mod clothing including beads, boots and trim trousers—a contrast to his fresh-faced conventional teen-age appearance of the late 1940s.

That public image first changed in the Korean War when Contino refused to be drafted into the Army, asserting he was too nervous to adjust to military life. Convicted and jailed as a draft evader, Contino thinks he redeemed himself by deciding to serve and enlisting in the Army—in which he entertained troops with his accordion.

Today, he says, it's his long locks that affect his image with some.

"The hair? Oh yeah, I get an awful lot of guff from people who remember the older image. It's funny, if I'd tell them about giving up drinking and smoking, they'd pass that right up. All they think is that the hair is repulsive."

Sees Need For Plastic Coffin

GLENEALY, Ireland (AP) — An Irishman who feels that in today's "plastic society" even wooden coffins are out of date has applied for a world patent for the manufacture of rot-proof, hygienic, unbreakable plastic coffins. Des Kinsella says the coffins are ideal for transporting bodies by air and sea because they are so light. Also, the coffin lid can be made of transparent material, if desired.

Drop Charges Of My Lai Role

FT. McPHERSON, Ga. (AP) —The Army says it has dropped charges against S.Sgt. Kenneth L. Hodges in connection with the alleged massacre at My Lai because "available evidence was insufficient" to bring him to trial.

The action, taken after the Army's equivalent of a grand jury investigation, reduced to 11 the number of men charged in connection with the incident. Five have been ordered to court-martial.

Hodges, 25, had been charged with rape and assault with intent to murder in connection with events at or near Son My in South Vietnam in March 1968.

My Lai was a village in the area of Son My.

Lt. Gen. Albert Connor, commanding general of the 3rd Army, said Wednesday in a statement that he dropped the charges after reviewing a report by an Article 32 investigating officer and his own legal staff.

Hodges, assigned to a headquarters unit at Ft. McPherson, was the second soldier to have charges against him dropped in the case. The first was Thomas K. Willingham, 25, of Allenhurst, N. J.

Hodges entered the Army in June 1963 and was a member of an infantry company commanded in Vietnam by Capt. Ernest Medina, one of the 11 still charged.

In Hodges' home town of Dublin, Ga., his mother, Mrs. Pauline Hodges, said her son's current Army enlistment ends in April 1975. Hodges is not married.

Minister To Speak Here

Foster L. Reynolds, minister of Salter Path Methodist Church, will speak at the Saturday night meeting here of the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship International.

Rev. Reynolds, a graduate of Emmanuel College at Franklin Springs, Ga., will speak

Convict Fatally Hurt In Mishap

Alman began a one-year sentence in April for his third conviction of driving while his license was revoked, the department said.

Stockyards Still Handle Cattle

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Stockyards have closed, but its world-famous market will continue to handle cattle.

Chicago became "hog butcher to the world" when most livestock was produced in small lots and shipped by rail. Chicago was the hub of the nation's rail system, strategically located between the corn-hog country and the Eastern population centers. At its peak, the Chicago market received more than 100,000 hogs a day.

Closing the hog market, traders say, will have no measurable effect on the average prices received by farmers for hogs. But it probably will speed the collection and distribution of more and better information about prices at other points of sale where transportation is by truck.

Opening lead: Ace of ♠

West engaged in a high level duel of wits with the declarer in defending against South's four spade contract and it required a nimble performance by the latter to expose his opponents' tactics.

It may appear to the reader that West was in an experimental frame of mind when he chose to open the ace of hearts, inasmuch as the prescribed lead from a holding including the ace-king of a suit is the king.

His selection was deliberate. West could take only three tricks on his own. In order to defeat the contract, therefore, it is necessary for East to hold some key high card. It was to protect his partner's holding from declarer's scrutiny that influenced West to embark on a deceptive course.

He reasoned that in the normal course of play, his own high cards could be quickly identified. Once it was revealed to the declarer that he held ace-king, ace, South was apt to place any other missing high cards with East inasmuch as West failed to open the bidding as dealer.

When the dummy was spread, West observed that a heart continuation was not attractive and in order to further mask his strength, he shifted to the deuce of diamonds. South won the trick in his hand with the king.

The loss of two hearts and one club appeared inevitable. The fate of the contract, therefore, hinged on the location of the king of spades. Holding 10 cards of a suit, the percentage play is to finesse for the missing honor. South decided to do a little detective work first before he made a play in spades. There appeared to be little risk involved and the location of the other high cards might provide some additional clue.

The king of clubs was led at trick three and West played the ace. He now feared that if he did not cash his high heart, declarer might obtain a discard on North's clubs. West, therefore, played the king of hearts and then shifted back to diamonds.

The cat was now out of the bag. West had shown up with 11 high card points. If he had the king of spades in addition, he could hardly have failed to open the bidding. Since the high trump appeared to be clearly marked in East's hand, the finesse could not succeed. South, therefore, led over to the ace of spades. When the king dropped, the contest was over and declarer had earned a well deserved triumph.

Stockholders Turning To Courts To Recoup Losses

By CAROLE MARTIN
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — More and more stockholders are turning to the courts in an effort to recoup some of the losses they've suffered during a 21-month bear market, legal experts report.

"The fact that they've taken a beating in the market during the past year and a half definitely has led to the increasing number of suits against brokerage houses and corporations," said Stanley L. Kaufman, a New York attorney who has handled many stockholder actions.

"People had a way of forgetting when everything was going well and all kinds of young sideburned tycoons and genkies were putting corporations together, building empires and conglomerates, making irresponsible statements and, in fact, violating the laws," Kaufman said.

"The public paid no attention as long as they were making money, but when the bubble burst people said: 'Here are these laws to protect me, so and regulations by the courts is cited by some as an important contributing factor.

In Houston recently, a judge held that the trustee for a company reorganizing under the federal bankruptcy laws has the authority to sue the principals on behalf of all the stockholders.
"I think you're going to see much more of this where the trustees are trying to recover for the shareholders and the company when the insiders have manipulated the stock," Bromberg said.
Recently a New York man sued a brokerage house for "churning" his account. Churning, or excessive trading in order to earn commissions, has been illegal for many years but legal sources said recovery in the past usually was limited to the amount of commissions.

In this case, however, the judge observed that "bourses would have given the plaintiff a fairer opportunity to realize on his investment," and the man was awarded the full amount of his losses.
A growing number of suits are being brought under a section of the 1934 Federal Securities Act, which provides for forfeiture of profits realized on the "short swing," that is, the purchase and sale of securities by company insiders in a period of less than six months.

Under this section the insider who makes a profit on "in-and-out" transactions in his company's securities is assumed to be using corporate information that hasn't been disclosed to the public and the profit, therefore, belongs to the corporation. A "sale" might simply be the exchange of shares in a corporate merger.
New stockholder suits also are being generated by a 1966 addition to the Supreme Court's federal rules of civil procedure which permits class actions, including those bringing suit under the securities law. In a class action, one person can sue on behalf of the whole group in the same category.

The laws, however, aren't always an investor's answer to a downturn in the market.
Kaufman said one man called him Wednesday to report that he was worth $500,000 in stocks last year and now was worth nothing. He wanted to file suit, but his lawyer concluded that the broker had done nothing illegal—he had merely given the investor half a million dollars worth of bad advice.

Bond Issue Plan Voted

FARMVILLE — Ordinances providing for the issuing of bonds for water and sewer improvements were passed by the Town Board in a call meeting yesterday subject to the approval of the voters.

The application for permission to issue bonds for $100,000 for water improvements and $50,000 for sewer improvements will be sent tomorrow to the Local Government Commission, Town Clerk Carl Beaman said.

The election is expected to be held around the middle of October. Improvements needed include a new well, a new half-million gallon water storage tank, and water and sewer line extensions. The revenue derived from the line extensions should offset the cost of the bonds, Beaman said.

"Taxes will not be increased by the contemplated bond issuance," he said.

Red China Opposed To Cease-Fire

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China has made it clear it opposes the Israeli-Arab cease-fire and supports continued resistance by Palestinian guerrillas. But China faces a dilemma how to exploit its position in the Middle East in face of the acceptance of the cease-fire by Egypt and Jordan. In backing the guerrillas, Red China plainly runs the risk of alienating Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser. On the other hand, if the U.S. peace plan breaks down, it will be in a position to say "we told you so."

The fact remains that though the Chinese have long insisted they—and not the Russians or the Americans—are the true friends of the Arabs, their hearts have been with the guerrillas who espouse Mao Tsetung's philosophy of protracted war.

Hsinhua quoted approvingly on Aug. 13 the words of an Al Fatah guerrilla: "As taught by Chairman Mao, our principle is to fight 'a strategically protracted war and campaigns or battles of quick decision.'"

One of the leaders of a training camp for guerrillas was quoted by Hsinhua as saying: "U.S. imperialism is stepping up its plot of 'peaceful solution' of the Middle East question. Our reply is to enlist and train more Palestinian and Arab youth as guerrilla fighters and conduct more battles. Chairman Mao, the great leader of the Chinese people, has taught us: 'U.S. imperialism, which looks like a huge monster, is in essence a paper tiger, now in the throes of its death-bed struggle.'"

One Injured In Accidents

One person was reported injured and almost $300 property damage reported in two traffic collisions investigated here yesterday.

Police said Sandra Elizabeth Rollins, 21 of 305 Davis St. was charged with failing to stop for a stop sign following investigation of an 8:50 a.m. collision at the intersection of Fourth and Davis Streets that also involved a car driven by Sarah White Hardee of 404 West Village Dr.

Police, who reported Mrs. Rollins was injured in the collision, placed damage to the Rollins car at $50 and set damage to the Hardee vehicle at $150.

Carl Thomas Knott, 47 of 1108 Ragsdale Rd. was charged with failing to yield the right of way in a 2:59 p.m. collision at the intersection of Memorial Drive and Maxwell Street.

Investigators reported the Knott car collided with a vehicle operated by Donald Jack Wren, 44 of Garner and caused an estimated $50 damage to the Knott car and about $95 damage to the Wren auto.

Ensemble At Pitt Church

GRIFTON — A program of sacred music will be presented by the Bob Jones University Ensemble at the Grifton Methodist Church Friday at 8 p.m.

Edward Dobson, who is in charge of the group, will bring a brief gospel message. A native of New Jersey, Dobson is a senior majoring in Bible in the School of Religion.

Other members of the male quartet include Edward Highman and Alan Blackwood of Hoi, Stephen Thomas of Texas, Stephen Perkins of Arizona and Charles Hulsey of Colorado. The musicians offer a combination of vocal selections including quartets, trios, duets and solos.

The public is invited to attend the program and there is no admission charge.

Food Spoilage Costs Mount Up

NEW YORK (AP) — Poor harvesting methods and spoilage of what is harvested because of lack of refrigeration and inadequate transportation contributes to wastage of at least 60 per cent of the food produced in underdeveloped countries, according to R.L. Hold Man On Charges

A 20-year old migratory worker from Aberdeen, Miss. is in Pitt County Jail today following his arrest Wednesday on charges of rape and breaking entering and larceny. Pitt County Sheriff Ralph Tyson said this morning that deputies arrested Sam Pargo Wednesday at 4:45 p.m.

following investigation of the alleged rape of a 14-year old girl and also a break-in and larceny. Sheriff Tyson said the incident, reported at 1:58 p.m. reportedly occurred Wednesday on a farm near Cannons Crossroads on Rt. 2, Ayden.

Officials withheld the name of the girl due to her age. Pargo, whose address was listed as Rt. 3, Aberdeen, is being held without privilege of bond, Sheriff Tyson added. A probable cause hearing on the charges has been set for Sept. 1 in district court here.

Ford Unveils Subcompact

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Ford Motor Co. unveiled its subcompact Pinto today as American automakers step up their challenge to Volkswagen and other imports for the growing small car market.

Henry Ford II, board chairman of Ford Motor Co., said 400,000 of the sporty Pintos will be sold the first year and that it will outsell Volkswagen during that time.

The Pinto is the third American subcompact to challenge the imports that racked up over a million sales last year, mostly with cars smaller than American compacts.

American Motors got a five-month jump when it introduced its Gremlin in April. All 25,000 of the original Gremlins have been sold, and American Motors is readying a new model.

General Motors has taken the wraps off its subcompact Vega and will put into Chevrolet showrooms Sept. 10, a day before the Pinto goes on sale.

Prices for the Pinto and Vega have not been announced, but spokesmen said they will be near the $1,850 price of a Volkswagen. The Gremlin sells for $1,879.

The Pinto has a longish hood and short afterdeck fashioned after Ford's Mustang. It is available in only a two-door model.

Ask Permit To Picket

A group of blacks, have made application to picket the Greenville Police Department beginning Friday "to call public and police department attention to acts of police brutality and injustice towards poor citizens." According to City Manager Harry Hagerty, the application to demonstrate was received Wednesday afternoon. Hagerty this morning said, "The application has been returned to the originators on the ground it does not meet the 72 hour advance notice requirement."

The application requested a permit to picket beginning Friday from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., "go indefinite," and indicated that the protestors would march from Albemarle Avenue up Fifth Street to the Police Station as part of their protest campaign.

The group making the application was listed as "Concerned Citizens" and included nine names.

Signing the application were Benny Rountree, John Taylor Jr., W.B. Moore and C.B. Grey.

No College 'Furloughs'

RICHMOND (AP)—If Virginia college students plan to take part in this fall's election campaigns they'll have to do it in addition to fulfilling their academic responsibilities.

This was the decision Wednesday of the State Board for Community Colleges.

The board, with no dissent and little discussion, turned thumbs down on requests for a two-week college vacation before the fall general election to allow college students to work full time on campaigns.

The idea of political "furloughs" for students had been advanced by students at Princeton, where the two-week vacation has been planned. A similar proposal has already been turned down by the University of Virginia.

Board member Carrington Williams, commenting on the political vacation, said the concept was "ridiculous... it makes me wonder about Princeton."

Ervin, Jordan Supported ABM

WASHINGTON (AP)—Both senators from North Carolina Sam J. Ervin Jr. and B. Everett Jordan, Democrats, voted with the majority Wednesday as the Senate rejected an amendment to limit expansion of the Safeguard antiballistic missile system.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell says "one of our gravest problems" in the Nixon administration is the chance that the Supreme Court would decide midway through the school year that massive busing is needed to achieve racial balance.

He said Wednesday he is concerned that the court not "tear up the peapatch" by such a decision.

Mitchell declined comment, however, when asked if the Justice Department would argue for a delay in hearing cases in

Says N.C. Must Spend More On Education

WISCONSIN DELLS, (AP)—Dr. Cameron West, director of higher education in North Carolina, says the state must provide more financial support for higher education.

West said Wednesday that Colleges face a dilemma of increased expenditures and less revenues.

"Sources of support simply are not meeting the cost of higher education," West told the annual meeting of the National Association of State Budget Officers.

He noted that tax support for higher education has "risen to unprecedented heights in the past few years, but still not at a rate fast enough to keep up with the rising costs and legitimate requirements."

Choose New Prexy To Head Up School

BELMONT, N. C. (AP)—The Very Rev. John P. Bradley, a native of Scotland who has been a philosophy professor at Belmont Abbey College, has been named the school's president, the first non-Benedictine to head the school.

He succeeds the Rev. Jude Cleary, who will become his assistant. Father Cleary commented that he was pleased the school had gone outside the order for a successor. One real tendency in a college such as ours is to become inbred," he said.

The changes were announced Wednesday by the Rt. Rev. Edmund F. McCaffrey, chairman of the board and chancellor of the Roman Catholic institution.

Father Bradley, who has a graduate degree from Oxford University, came to the United States in 1952 as an assistant to Archbishop Fulton J. Sheen. Later that year he came to Belmont Abbey, but in 1955 he resigned to become a book editor.

Since then he has written 11 books and has been editor-in-chief of Goodwill Publishing Co. of Gastonia, which deals with religious works.

Father Bradley said in an interview that campus unrest must be accepted as part of the new age in which we live. "Instead of getting panicky, we must accept it as a part of history, look at it, analyze it, and must be very reasonable about it," he said. "It's a sign of life and vitality."

Four Baseballers Sign With Bucs

An All-Conference third baseman from Wingate Junior College and three standout high school players have signed baseball grants with East Carolina University in the past two weeks.

Ralph Lamm, the starting third sacker for Wingate the past two seasons, offers immediate help at a position which was a trouble spot for Coach Earl Smith's Pirates last season. He is originally from Charlotte where he starred for Garinger High.

Two of the three high school signees are righthanded pitchers — Bill Godwin from Wilmington (New Hanover High) and Billy Ware from Richmond, Va. (Huguenot High). Godwin post a 10-0 record for New Hanover last spring and is 9-1 in American Legion ball this summer.

The other signee is first baseman Phil Stout of Siler City. Smith feels that Stout's booming bat may put him in the starting lineup as a freshman next spring. Stout is especially valuable because he is a left-handed batter with power — something ECU has not had in recent seasons.

These four signees brings to six the total number of scholarship players Smith and his assistant, George Williams, have signed this summer. The first two players to sign with the Pirates were pitcher Jeff Abernathy of Newton and catcher Rick McMahon of Vienna, Va.

Marichal Takes Fourth Straight

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
Juan Marichal had just staggered to his fourth straight victory, stalling Pittsburgh's chances of picking up ground in the torrid East Division race but still likes the Pirates chances of winning it all.

"The Pirates have a great infield and are a great hitting club but man they have to score too many runs to win," the San Francisco right-hander said Wednesday night after giving up 13 hits to the hard-hitting Pirates, but coming out with a 7-4 victory.

"If their pitching is okay, they have the best chance to win," said Marichal after increasing his record to 7-9, after being slowed earlier in the season with an ear infection.

In other National League games, Houston trounced the New York Mets 9-4, Chicago bombed San Diego 12-2, Los Angeles downed St. Louis 4-2, Atlanta edged Philadelphia 3-2 and Montreal tripped Cincinnati 8-6.

In the American League, Baltimore nipped Milwaukee 3-2, Minnesota blanked the New York Yankees 3-0, Kansas City edged Washington 2-1, Chicago routed Boston 13-5, Oakland stopped Detroit 7-0 and Cleveland beat California 2-0.

Marichal was supported by a 10-hit Giants' attack, including a two-run homer by Willie McCovey, the big first baseman's 32nd of the year as the Pirates remained 2½ games ahead of the Mets with the Cubs only four back.

Pittsburgh left-hander Luke Walker, 10-4, had a six-game winning streak snapped, giving up a pair of runs in the opening inning on a run-scoring single to Ken Henderson and a bases-full walk.

McCovey then slammed his homer in the fifth, giving the Giants a 4-0 edge.

The Pirates got two runs in the fifth but San Francisco put the game out of reach in the eighth with three runs, including a two-run double by Bobby Bonds. Matty Alou stroked five straight hits off Marichal.

The Cubs drilled seven home runs including two by Jim Hickman to help Ferguson Jenkins gain his 15th victory.

Jenkins added one while Billy Williams, Johnny Callison, Joe Pepitone and Glenn Beckert had the others matching the league's season high for a game set April 21 by Cincinnati against Atlanta.

Hickman drove in five runs while Jenkins had 11 strikeouts to go over the 200 mark for the fourth successive season with 207. Clarence Gaston homered for the Padres.

The Cubs also re-activated Ernie Banks, who hadn't played since July 30.

"I'm glad to get him back," said Leo Durocher, the Cubs skipper. "I'll use him as a pinch-hitter. Banks is still dangerous and if any pitcher makes a mistake, he can hit it out of the park."

"With Banks back and pitcher Ken Holtzman finished with his military duty for the summer, we figure to be in pretty good shape," Durocher said.

The Astros rocked Tom Seaver and three relievers for 14 hits in their rout of the Mets.

A pair of triples, a bases-loaded belt by Denis Menke and a two-run shot by Jesus Alou accounted for five of the Houston runs. Seaver, 17-8, left in the sixth inning, his earliest exit in 28 starts this year.

Bud Harrelson, New York's shortstop, tied a major league record with his 54th consecutive errorless game set last year by the Cubs' Don Kessinger.

Rusty Staub triggered a six-run Montreal fifth inning as the Expos dropped the Reds for the second straight game, giving Montreal the distinction of becoming the first club this season to take a series at Cincinnati.

The Expos jumped on loser Gary Nolan, 15-5, for six singles and Ron Brand capped the big fifth inning with a two-run triple. Tony Perez slugged a two-run homer for the Reds, his 38th. Bob Bailey had a solo shot for the Expos.

William & Mary May Be Dark Horse Team

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(Third of a series)

The William & Mary Indians seem poised on the edges of the Southern Conference like a vulture. Coach Lou Holtz and his footballers appear to be waiting for one of the pre-season teams to falter.

Then, the Indians will sweep down and maybe walk off with the prize — the conference title and a trip to the Tangerine Bowl in December.

"Our program is on a sound basis," Holtz said. "We know where we want to go, but we realize that we are going to have to take our time getting there."

There, apparently, is the top of the conference, plus a fine inter-sectional record.

"We'll be improved this year," the coach promised. Last year William & Mary, with Holtz in his first year, was 3-7, and 2-2 in the loop. So about anything would be improved.

"We won't be 'good' however... at least, not in my definition of good," Holtz added.

The coach added that the Indians have had a good year recruiting so things are definitely brighter for the future.

"We signed seven Virginia players. We wish we could have signed more, but it is hard to find real outstanding players who can and will attend William & Mary. We want more Virginia athletes," Holtz said. This is more economical than anything else, since in-state athletes go to school cheaper than out-of-staters. Holtz also believes they are closer to the school as students, closer as alumni.

Trevino Wants Back On Top

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Lee Trevino, his slump snapped and his game back in gear, took aim on Jack Nicklaus' leading money-winning spot today.

"I've had my vacation and Jack has to skip a week here and there," Trevino said before setting out in the first round of the $160,000 Avco Golf Classic.

The flamboyant Mexican-American was shut out in his quest of a major championship this year and obviously wants the consolation of the No. 1 spot on the money-winning list.

He won two titles, the Tucson and National Airlines opens, early this year and stopped the money list most of the season until Nicklaus caught him last month.

Trevino has about $122,000 and trials Nicklaus by about $8,000. But Nicklaus, along with Arnold Palmer, is skipping this tournament and Trevino is one

Rampants Small, Look To Speed For Victory

Rose High School's Rampants wound up their first week of drills yesterday, with some 45 candidates working out for varsity positions.

Coach Bud Phillips said that most of the 45 would be retained on the varsity squad, but he expected to move a few, mostly sophomores, down to the junior varsity next week.

Candidates for the junior varsity have been requested to meet at the field house at 2 p.m. Monday by Phillips.

"Some of the players are in pretty good shape," Phillips said, "but some of them aren't. We've worked a lot on conditioning, and our strength index test showed an improvement over last year."

The strength index test combines two different types of weight lifting with 50 and 100 yard dashes, and is worked out to provide a score. "We figure a score of 40 is very strong," the coach said. "Last year, the best we had was 41. This year, we already have a 49 and we've got several others to complete who could go better than that."

Phillips went on to say that he thought the weight machine purchased by the school last year has had a great deal to do with the improvement in the conditioning of the players.

"We've been trying to fit our personnel around," Phillips said. "We've moved Bill Whiteford from end to guard, and Dave Bullock from back to guard. The Taylor twins (Ronald and Donald) have been moved from the backfield to ends. They have good speed, and have been catching the ball fairly well."

The coach said the staff has one or two other moves in mind, but these were not firmed up.

The Rampants currently have 18 seniors, and 12 juniors on the squad. "We'll probably keep three of four of the sophomores on the squad at the start," Phillips said.

The coach also feels that the Rampants have a good nucleus back from last year to build around. "We have no experience at center, and none of our quarterbacks have a lot of game time at the spot." There are three candidates out for quarterback, all juniors. They are John Conway, Robbie Cox, and a transfer from New Bern, Bob Barrett.

Two returning backs help give experience to the backfield, Johnny Smith at halfback, and Bubba Rawl at fullback. Neither saw fulltime duty last year, however, due to injuries. Both missed the last half of the season. Others include Charlie Speight with some halfback experience, and speedy sophomores Al Hunter and Mike Harris.

At the ends, the Rampants have the Taylors and Bob Forbes who played a lot at defensive end last year. He may also handle the kicking duties for the Rampants.

Jay Hagans and Tim Leith return at offensive tackles, while Ernie Adams and George Harris had experience on defense.

Whiteford and Bullock are experienced, but not at the guard slot they are slated for. Willie Barnhill returns as a defensive starter, while Steve Roland may be either a guard or a center.

"We're going to try to platoon as much as possible," Phillips said. "But there will be some who'll go both ways some."

The coach feels that the passing game, used as the key to the Rose offense last year, will be adequate this year. "We'll still throw a lot. We like to use the pass-run option, and we hope to continue this."

In the Division Two race of the Eastern 4-A Conference, Phillips feels that Rocky Mount is the team to beat. "We have a chance," he added. "We'll have to avoid injury. I'm not predicting we'll take the title, but if we stay healthy, I don't think they can out us out."

Last year Rose posted a poor 1-8 record, but Phillips feels this didn't indicate the true picture of the team. "There were at least four or five other games we could have won. A little more enthusiasm and morale would have helped out here."

Rose lost close games to New Hanover, Jacksonville, Rocky Mount and New Bern, and led Goldsboro most of the first half of play last year.

"We're lacking in size this year, so we're going to have to be quick," Phillips said. Only Hagans (210) and Leith (230) are over 200 pounds. "We'll have to use our speed and finesse, and hope that we're just hungry enough. We've worked on conditioning and technique, and I think we're further along than we were last year at this time."

Because of the small numbers, Phillips doesn't want to do too much hitting. "We're working mostly on the sleds to develop technique. We'll be doing some one-on-one work by Friday, and some half line scrimmages. We'll probably have only one full scrimmage, on the 28th before we open."

Rose opens the season on September 4 against non-conference foe Washington in Ficklen Stadium.

Griffin Set For AAU Finals

Jim Griffin, East Carolina University's sensational junior swimmer from Norfolk, Va., has qualified for five events in the AAU National Swimming Championships to be held in Los Angeles, Aug. 20-23.

Swimming under the banner of the Philadelphia Aquatic Club, Griffin won the 100 meter freestyle in 55.0 at the Eastern AAU Championships at Lancaster, Pa., last week. It was the second year in a row he has won this event.

placed second in the 400 meter freestyle in 4:15.7 and third in the 200 meter freestyle in 2:01.4.

Earlier in the week was one of 12 East Carolina swimmers named to a 25-man All-Southern Conference Swimming Team selected by the coaches.

Bears Show Signs Of Comeback During Year Two Players Join The Team In Row Over Mad Yanks Twins Pick Up Third

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
RENSSELAER, Ind. (AP)—
The Chicago Bears have overcome the numbness of their worst season in history and show signs of making a spirited comeback in 1970.

Despite Gale Sayers leading the National Football League with 1,032 rushing yards and the devastation by linebacker Dick Butkus, the Bears went down the drain with a 1-13 record in 1969.

To regain self respect, an overhauling job was mandatory. The old Tiger, George Halas, began growling and the Bears' facelifting began.

Trades involving the Bears' first two draft choices and several players corralled eight established players, five of whom are likely starters.

Linebacker Lee Roy Caffey, center Bob Hyland and running back Elijah Pitts came from the Green Bay Packers; running back Craig Baynham and strong safety Phil Clark from the Dallas Cowboys; defensive tackle Bill Staley and defensive end Harry Gunner from the Cincinnati Bengals and tight end Jim Hester from the New Orleans Saints.

Also going into the blender are such rookies as wide receiver Linzy Cole of Texas Christian, flanker George Farmer of UCLA, and offensive linemen Jeff Churchin of Florida State and Glen Holloway of North Texas State.

"The most encouraging thing is the newfound spirit, not only on the part of the players but also the coaching staff," says 75-year-old Halas, who turned over the head coaching reins to Jim Dooley two years ago.

The new team captains are Sayers, Butkus, offensive guard Jim Cadile and cornerback Bennie McRae.

"They want to be leaders and they are confident we can turn things around this season," says Dooley. "They appreciate the added bench strength we have and the competition it has created."

Adding to the reshuffling was the hiring of two new coaches for Dooley's six-man staff—Perry Moss, former college and pro head coach, and Don Shinnick, 13-season linebacker for the Baltimore Colts.

As quarterback coach, Moss will have as his priority second-year Bobby Douglass, a hefty, towering lefthanded slinger who can run with the power of a water buffalo. Douglass, who was shined in as a starter during the weird 1969 campaign, has a lot to learn—like dropping back faster, reading defenses, absorbing plays and handing off with finesse.

He is willing and eager. When, and if, he masters the prerequisites he could become one of the league's most exciting players.

Until Douglass reaches the projected level, there seems to be the annual Bear guessing game of starting quarterback. Veteran Jack Concannon still is very much in the picture.

Competition among the troops in training camp shows that the Bears are aroused and is openly encouraged by Dooley.

Willie Holman is giving Ed O'Bradovich pressure at left defensive end. Staley is battling George Seals for left tackle and received the game ball for his aggressive pass-rushing in the Bears' 23-13 opening exhibition victory over the Houston Oilers.

Gunner is pushing Dick Evey at right defensive end with Marty Amsler ready to start shooting. The linebackers are solid with Butkus, Doug Buffone and Caffey. McRae and Joe Taylor, now on the injury list, own the cornerback jobs.

If leg injuries to Howard Mudd and Wayne Mass heal properly, tackle to tackle offensively will set with Hyland, Cadile and Randy Jackson.

There is a hot match at wide receiver between Bob Wallace and Dick Gordon with Farmer thrown in. The main fight for tight end involves Hester, Ray Ogden and Austin Denney.

Finding backfield mates for Sayers keeps the running back warfare alive. Baynham probably will be Sayers' sideman. The rest depends on how well Ronnie Bull recovers from knee surgery, if at all; how much work can come out of 31-year-old Pitts, and the choice among Mike Hull, Ross Montgomery and Ralph Kurek.

Walt Sweeney might have returned to the San Diego Chargers empty-handed, but at least he has a job waiting for him. Dennis Shaw, on the other hand, comes to the Buffalo Bills with a fist full of dollars and only a seat on the bench assured.

Shaw, who had been asking a reported $375,000 to sign with the Bills, finally settled Wednesday for a reported $100,000 in salary and bonuses over three years. That assured him a place on the team, and probably on the bench.

Buffalo, desperately in need of a good and healthy quarterback in recent years, has five of them now from which to select —Jim Harris, Dan Darrah, Tom Sherman, Virgil Carter and Shaw.

Sweeney, however, lost his case for retirement and came back to the Chargers without the no-cut clause in his contract he was demanding.

"I need protection in case I would go and break my leg and couldn't play again," he had argued, the eight-year veteran and All-Pro guard ended his two-day retirement, although he still has yet to sign his pact.

"I made a rather hasty and emotional decision," Sweeney said, expressing regret at his brief retirement. "I was acting selfishly without thinking of my family or my teammates."

However, he was fined an unknown amount by General Manager Sid Gillman, and then returned to his starting position on the offensive line.

There were several other retirements Wednesday that could stick longer than Sweeney's. Fringe players Paul Feldhaus, an offensive tackle with Boston, and George Youngblood, a defensive back with the Chicago Bears, announced they were leaving football.

A few others switched teams. New Orleans picked up guard-place kicker Justin Canale, a five-year veteran, on waivers from Buffalo, and Minnesota obtained defensive back Seth Miller on waivers from Atlanta.

Shaw, scheduled to arrive in Buffalo from San Diego today, has been working out with San Diego State the past three weeks, but was not expected to see action in Buffalo's exhibition game Friday night against Philadelphia. In fact, he might not see too much action this season.

Despite his mark of leading the nation in yardage last season with San Diego State, the 6-foot-2 Shaw, Buffalo's No. 2 draft pick, is likely to spend much of the season on the sidelines. Currently, the Bills plan to start with Harris, who was out almost all of his rookie year last season with injuries.

However, Shaw was described as "pleased" at the money he got for signing, and so were the Bills.

Sweeney's brief absence, however, lingered with the Chargers, who still are missing All-Pro receiver Lance Alworth, who retired in a dispute over money.

"The next guy that says he's retiring and walks out of camp is through," said Coach Charlie Waller. "I'm going to take his word for it and put him on the retired list and then he won't be able to work."

Ralph Houk was kicking up a dust storm. Ralph Houk was flailing his arms. Ralph Houk was, well, mad.

What's it all about, Ralphy? "I hope somebody got a picture of the tag," the New York Yankees' skipper snapped after Minnesota's Killebrew was called safe on a critical bang-bang play at home Wednesday night.

See, Houk thought he was out—and let umpire Larry Napp know about it demonstratively. To no avail, though. The Twins followed with another run and later added an insurance tally to take a 3-0 victory behind Jim Perry's four-hitter.

The triumph was the third straight for the Twins after a nine-game tailspin and jumped their American League West Division lead to 5½ games over California, which lost 2-0 to Cleveland.

Third-place Oakland kept within six games of the front-running Twins by blistering Detroit 7-0; East Division leader Baltimore turned back Milwaukee 3-2; Chicago ripped Boston 13-5 and Kansas City downed Washington 2-1.

In the National League, Montreal bounced Cincinnati 8-6; Atlanta took Philadelphia 3-2; Houston smacked New York 9-4; Los Angeles beat St. Louis 4-2; Chicago whacked San Diego 12-2 and San Francisco defeated Pittsburgh 7-4.

Although Houk praised Perry's performance that cooled the Yankee bats, he was still hot long after the fourth-inning play at home that broke a scoreless tie. With two out, Killebrew raced home from second on Rich Reese's two-out single. As Napp waved the safe sign, catcher Jake Gibbs and Houk argued heatedly that the throw from right had beaten the Killer.

"When the catcher turned to make the tag, his glove was behind the plate," said Napp. "The runner slid across the plate and into the glove. I call them like I see them."

"I think that's ridiculous," said Houk. "An easy-going guy like Jake doesn't get that mad about every play. You could see the slide marks where he didn't make it."

And Killebrew? "I was safe ... I was in there," said Charmin' Harmon.

That opened the door for another run on Leo Cardenas' RBI single. And the Twins shut off all post-game debates when Killebrew doubled to score Danny Thompson with an insurance run in the eighth.

Dennis Higgins bailed Rich Hand out of a wobbly eighth inning and pinch-hitter Chuck Hinton delivered a run-scoring double in Cleveland's victory over California. It was Hand's fifth victory of the year, and his third straight over the Angels.

Diego Segui mystified Detroit on four hits as the A's halted a four-game slide that had dropped them from second to third in the West. Don Mincher hit a two-run homer, his 21st, for the winners.

Merv Rettenmund rifled a two-hit, run-scoring single in the eighth to snap a 2-2 tie and give the Orioles their victory over the Brewers. It made an 18-game winner of Mike Cueller and boosted Baltimore's East lead to 11 games over New York. The White Sox, losing by three going into the ninth, shelled Red Sox hurlers for 11 runs on 10 hits. The cluster tied an American League record held by the New York Yankees for most runs in the ninth inning.

Paul Schaal rapped a leadoff homer in the seventh, snapping a 1-1 tie, and powered Kansas City over Washington. Dick Drago, who hadn't won a game in nearly two months, pitched a four-hitter.

On A Clear Day You May Even See Kites In New York City

By LINDA KRAMER
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The rain stopped, the skies cleared and the sun began to shine. The delighted beach-goers emerged from their shelters to return to tanning, swimming and playing. Some looked skyward and found unexpected entertainment.

Stretched across the blue and gray expanse was a 102-foot silver streak, an Indian dragon kite made by Surendra Bahadur of Bombay, India. Bahadur and local kite buffs were gathered at Coney Island for the second annual Go Fly A Kite Festival.

"I never thought that one day I would be making my living this way," said Bahadur, a kite flier from childhood, who demonstrates and sells kites from different countries.

As he spoke, 20 girls and boys, members of a local Police Athletic League (PAL), ran along the beach with the giant kite to help get it in the air. Then, as it came down, they scurried to retrieve it.

"This ain't the way I usually spend my days," said a smiling 11-year-old, King Thomas, from PAL. His friends agreed happily that this was an unusual and fun experience.

One surprised woman, sunning on her towel, said, "I never saw this before." And she looked up at the long glimmering silver kite as it flew between the remaining wisps of cloud, twisting and undulating in an aerial snake dance.

When the demonstration was over, the members of PAL were given plastic kites to fly. They lined up, and with Bahadur's help, launched their kites, decorating the sky with a patchwork of color.

"We don't get this on the block," said one little girl, at the beach with her day camp. "I wish I could have brought one, but that's for boys."

The local kite fliers, who had been waiting impatiently on the sidelines, had their turn next. The oldest kite flier was Carl Napolitan, who will be 74 in December. Pointing to his professional looking kite, he said, "I made that in 1953 and I've rebuilt it four times. I've been flying kites for 68 years."

"It's a hobby of mine," he continued, readying his entry for the competition. "Since I retired I can't do much. This is my main enjoyment."

The youngest kite enthusiast, 2-year-old Kim Thomasevich of Brooklyn, didn't have much to say for herself and required the aid of her mommy and daddy to get her kite off the ground.

A group of youths in their teens and early twenties joined the fun. Robert Kant, a young man from Coney Island, said he had decided to enter the contest "because there wasn't anything else to do this afternoon, and it's the only legal way to get high."

HILLTOP FIREBASE — Once covered by jungle, this hilltop vest of Hue is now Firebase Kathryn and manned by 101st Airborne Division troops. The area, where several such American and South Vietnamese firebases are located, was the scene again Tuesday of more enemy action. The bases are intended to stem enemy infiltration into coastal lowlands to the east. The hill's steep sides are fortified with barbed wire and mines. (AP Wirephoto)

Homecoming Plans Set

AYDEN — The annual celebration of homecoming day at the Mt. Olive Baptist Church includes a two-feature program of worship services Sunday.

The 11 a.m. worship hour is planned with the sermon by Rev. T.J. Boyer, pastor.

The main feature of the celebration will be the second worship service at 3 p.m. Rev. Cleveland M. DeLoatch, pastor of the Shiloh Baptist Church, Scotland Neck, will deliver the sermon.

The bachelor of arts degree in religious education and history was earned by Rev. DeLoatch at Shaw University. He has addressed numerous church leadership training groups, minister's gatherings, youth and freedom-fighting groups.

A fellowship dinner is planned.

DATING SERVICE

HULL, England (AP) — Girls at this port recently took advantage of a "dial-a-sailor" service and got blind dates from the crew of the HMS Ajax, here for a six-day stay. Local girls got dates with members of the 260-man crew simply by dialing a local telephone number and registering with the service.

Gold was discovered in California on Jan. 24, 1848.

Wandering Elk is Missing In Wyoming With Costly Collar

WYOMING, Wyo. (AP) — One female elk in east Wyoming. Wearing a collar valued at $25,000 to name "Monique." If you please notify the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The 500-pound cow elk fitted April 1 with an electronic collar, hasn't been in contact with space scientists since shortly after 1.

The collar is packed with intricate electronic gear, designed especially for twice-daily contacts with an overhead satellite. Among other things, the project is to demonstrate how an animal could be tracked from summer to winter range with a satellite.

Marble Dome First In U.S.A.

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — The marble dome on the Rhode Island State House was the first in the United States and one of four in the world. It was completed in 1899.

Minnesota's capitol, also with a marble dome, was finished in 1905. The other marble domes are on the Taj Mahal and St. Peter's in Rome.

PROFESSORS LEAD FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — University of Kentucky professors lead their profession in the state in average annual compensation—$15,190 during 1970. Pennsylvania led private colleges with a $12,314 average.

Dr. Frank Craighead Jr., directing the experiment from his science laboratory at Moose, Wyo., said he believes the loss of contact is from a malfunction in the electronic collar.

Dr. George Jacobs of the Goddard Space Center in Greenbelt, Md., said the short-lived experiment proved that electronic tracking is possible and now wants to expand the experiment to animals other than elk.

After months of planning, space scientists went into the National Elk Refuge north of Jackson and "livetrapped" two cow elk nicknamed "Red" and "Fleetfoot." Dummy collars weighing 25 pounds were placed around the necks of each elk in anticipation that one of them later would become "Monique."

That was in early February of this year. On Feb. 19, more than four dozen space scientists, elk refuge officials and newsmen were on hand to witness the actual collaring of an elk for the tracking experiment.

However, at the well-attended collaring ceremony, University of Montana graduate student Harry Reynolds missed his target and the five-inch tranquilizer dart shot past "Fleetfoot" and hit another unsuspecting cow elk.

When space scientists determined the $25,000 electronic necklace would fit the accidentally drugged 500-pound female elk, she was immediately dubbed "Monique II."

Less than five days later, Monique II died of pneumonia. Although refuge officials are quick to explain that elk frequently catch pneumonia, they were admittedly upset that it struck Monique II and consequently attracted worldwide publicity and many letters from conservationists who blamed the death on the experimental tracking project.

The 25-pound electronic collar was removed from the dead elk and, in an unpublicized move, space scientists tranquilized "Fleetfoot" (still wearing a dummy collar) on April 1 in a second attempt to carry out the experiment.

This time the experiment was more successful.

The new "Monique" was tracked nearly 30 miles through twice-a-day contacts with an orbiting Nimbus-3 weather satellite.

When the Nimbus-3 passed overhead, it made contact with the electronic collar. Information received from the collar was transmitted from the satellite to a ground station in Alaska and then relayed to the Goddard Space Center in Maryland where it was routinely recorded and analyzed by computer.

"That month of twice-daily transmission provided even more information than we anticipated," Dr. Jacobs said. "But most important, we proved that animals can be tracked with satellites."

"Now that we have achieved success in tracking elk," he said, "we plan to move on to the green marine turtle off the South America coast, the caribou of Alaska, the polar bear in the Arctic Circle, plus continued work with elk and possibly the black and grizzly bears."

HE DIDN'T MOVE ON — Police arrest an unidentified youth when he refused to move on. The action took place Wednesday afternoon when demonstrators moved into the downtown area after attending a rally before the San Francisco City Hall in support of defendants in two murder cases and Angela Davis, former instructor at the University of California at Los Angeles, now wanted on warrants charging her with murder and kidnap in connection with a San Rafael, Calif. shootout in which four persons died. (AP Wirephoto)

Welfare Appeal Begun For Ex-Soldier Gurkhas

By PETER J. SHAW
LONDON (UPI) — No British battlefield ally has been more loyal than the Gurkhas, the Nepalese mountain men renowned as jungle warriors. The Gurkhas are among the most feared fighting men in the world. They smile as they decapitate their enemy. They routed Nazi Panzer units without firing shot. They now guard the frontier between Hong Kong and Communist China and the Chinese give them no lip. But the Gurkhas today have troubles their razor-honed kukris cannot solve. Money is the problem and Britain is rallying to help. The money is needed to look after the 125,000 Gurkha veterans and dependents in Nepal who are barely getting by on army pensions ranging from $40 to $60 a year. The average individual income in Nepal is about $65 a year. The pensions have been supplemented by a welfare fund into which every serving officer and soldier in the Gurkhas annually contributes a day's pay. This extra income barely has been adequate and will become insufficient because Britain is reducing the Gurkha Brigade from 15,000 to 6,000 men by 1972. Led by former commanders of Gurkha units, Britain has launched a $2.4 million Gurkha welfare appeal to improve the ex-soldiers' plight. Maj. Gen. Arthur Patterson, recently general commander of the Gurkhas and who has traveled frequently through Nepal, said "There has been a tremendous rise in the cost of living in Nepal. "But the pensions of our men have not gone up. Many of the old soldiers from the First World War are dependent on the charity of their villages for their next meal." The Gurkhas' motto is: 'It is Better to Die Than to Be a Coward. Their role in British military history is legendary. They have been awarded the Victoria Cross—Britain's equivalent of the Congressional Medal of Honor—26 times. "The Gurkha soldier is second to none of the fighting men of my experience and none have given Britain more loyal and distinguished service," said Brig. Sir John Smyth, president of the Victoria Cross Association. Scores of stories are told about the Gurkhas. One of the most famous is their raid on a German Panzer position at Medinine during World War II. Not a shot was fired by the Gurkhas and the Panzers fled into the night. The Gurkha patrol left no trace—except for the bodies of German troops,

Large Area Said Contaminated

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
WASHINGTON (AP) — Two-hundred-fifty square miles of the Atomic Energy Commission's Nevada test site—or an area nearly the size of New York City—are contaminated with plutonium, a radioactive element which can linger 24,000 years or more. In addition, 49 separate areas on the site have been fenced off because the radiation level is too high to permit human access. These so-called RADEX or radiation exclusion areas total 12 square miles. The extent of contamination left by 19 years of tests is disclosed in a draft statement the AEC prepared for submission to the Environmental Quality Council.

The plutonium is harmful only if it is inhaled into the lungs or if it gets into the bloodstream through an open wound. The amount of element picked up by the wind and blown around is not dangerous, the AEC says. Contaminated areas comprise about one-fifth of the desert test site 65 miles northwest of Las Vegas.

The AEC's environmental statement notes that radiation levels over most of the facility remain quite low, about double normal background levels.

The statement said there are 49 areas where the radiation level is high. But an AEC spokesman said the number of these RADEX areas can vary, depending on the type of tests being conducted and the life of the radioactive material involved.

Radioactive elements have life spans that range from minutes to years, with plutonium having one of the longer life spans. Since the Nuclear Test Ban Treaty was signed in 1963, all 210 announced explosions at Nevada have been underground and designed to be fully contained.

According to the environmental statement, about one in 12 has leaked radioactivity detectable beyond the boundaries of the test site. But in no case, the AEC said, have dangerous levels of radioactivity gone beyond the site boundaries. The plutonium scattered over 250 square miles within the Nevada facility was left from tests conducted in 1958 to make certain that the crash of a U.S. bomber would not trigger a nuclear explosion.

Nuclear bombs carried on Air Force planes are unarmed. Unless the electronic steps are taken to arm a weapon, its high explosive charge will simply destroy the bomb—without triggering a nuclear explosion. This is what happened in the 1958 tests, scattering the plutonium on the desert.

Father Saved By Scout's First Aid

MANILA (AP) — A 12-year-old American Boy Scout applied his first aid training and saved the life of his father, the U.S. Air Force said today.

Tech. Sgt. Albert Mitchell Sr. of High Point, N.C., and his son, Albert Jr., were attaching a long bamboo pole television antenna to the side of their quarters at Clark Air Base Sunday when it accidentally touched an overhead power line, a base spokesman said.

The spokesman gave the following account: The shock of the 3,300-volt power line knocked the boy to the side of the house and free from the electrical current but Mitchell maintained contact.

Young Albert immediately knocked the pole clear of the wire, breaking his father's contact. While Mitchell lay unconscious on the ground, his son kept him from swallowing his tongue.

Then the boy rushed into the house, told his mother to call an ambulance, and grabbed blankets and a pillow.

He administered first aid to his father until medical personnel arrived about 10 minutes later. Mitchell was hospitalized and treated for severe shock and burns, and authorities said the "quick action and exacting treatment" given by the young Boy Scout saved his life.

many with their heads sheared off by kukri slashes.

A first class Scout, young Albert has had several years of first aid training. He is a member of Troop 336 on the base, 45 miles north of Manila.

Five Asked To Briefing

Five people from Greenville have been asked to attend a briefing in Raleigh today on their roles as members of advisory councils to aid the Department of Public Instruction in planning various programs and services.

Dr. Robert Lee Humber is called an "arts mover" on the Arts Advisory Council.

Dr. Tom Johnson, a professor in the East Carolina University Department of Physical Education is on the Health Education Advisory Council. Dr. Edgar Hooks, a professor of physical education at ECU and chairman of the College Conference for Health and Physical Education, is on the Physical Education Advisory Council.

Mrs. Virginia Merson of the ECU English Department is a member of the English Advisory Committee and Mrs. Marguerite Perry of the ECU Foreign Language Department is serving on the Foreign Language Advisory Committee.

A home modernizing plan for people who hate to give up a beautiful 5½% mortgage.

The home you bought five or ten years ago may not be the carefree, modern beauty you'd like to buy today. Maybe the kitchen doesn't have all those up-to-date conveniences. And it doesn't have a panelled family room (which you didn't need then because you didn't have a lot of family). And the laundry room is two floors away from the laundry. And there aren't enough bedrooms.

But there is one thing about your home that looks more beautiful every year. The old mortgage. It may have cost you around 5½%. A bargain compared to today's high mortgage rates.

How to move up without moving out.

If you've decided that this just isn't the time to buy your dream home, at least you can make the most of what you've got. With a plan that creates new space within old walls. That makes adding space easier.

Modernizing with electric heat.

Consider, for example, your old furnace and fuel tanks. They could be eating up a lot of valuable space that might be turned into a cheerful family room or den.

Perhaps bulky radiators or floor furnaces are taking up valuable space that could be used to make rooms larger. (Aren't uncluttered walls and floors one thing you love about today's new homes?)

Maybe you'd like to add an extra bedroom and bath. But you know your present heating system won't handle the extra load.

Electric heat. The problem solver.

Today's modern electric heating systems can solve all of these space problems. And give you cleaner, safer year-round comfort as well.

Consider all the options available with electric heat. If you want to use existing pipes and ducts, you can change your fuel-burning furnace to a space-saving electric furnace or boiler. No fuel to burn, no fuel tanks, no smoke, no air pollution.

Or you can put a "heat pump" outside to save more space. And enjoy heating and cooling for year-round comfort.

Or you can replace everything—especially bulky radiators and floor furnaces—with modern electric baseboards. And enjoy clean, uncluttered rooms that open up all kinds of decorating possibilities.

Electric baseboards also simplify adding extra rooms—and give you another feature of total electric living: room-by-room temperature control.

With every free Idea Book, a free expert.

If you've read this far, you probably have more questions than answers. Questions about cost, time, insulation, materials, wiring, and other ways to modernize electrically. We have three ways to give you the answers. A home modernizing idea book that shows you lots of ways to live better electrically. It's yours free, without obligation. Just mail the coupon below or call Vepeco.

A Vepeco Live-Better-Electrically expert who can answer specific questions about your home and help you plan the electric phase of your modernizing project. He too is free, without obligation.

Or a Vepeco-recommended Reddy Kilowatt Electric Heating Contractor will be happy to give you complete details on electric heat modernizing or additions. He's in the Yellow Pages under "Heating Contractors."

We're here to prove it's possible to move up without moving out.

Room For More In City Kindergarten

"There is still room available in the 1970 public kindergarten program," according to Dr. Cleet Wood, superintendent of city schools.

"We can handle approximately 120 children ideally, and up to 150 as a maximum," he said in speaking of the program which begins on September 8 and runs from 8:30 until 12:00 each day.

"We now have about 60 children who are pre-registered, and will have others, but we will take all applications as long as space is available."

The program, the first public kindergarten school in Greenville, is being conducted at Agnes Fullilove School with bus transportation and lunch provided for the youngsters.

"Lunch will be free to those needing it," he noted, "but will of course not be free to every child."

Dr. Cleetwood noted that the material and teaching aids, plus the eight teachers assigned to the kindergarten, promises a fine first-year program.

Migrant Jailed In Murder Case

ALLEGAN, Mich. (AP) — A Jackson, Miss., migrant worker was jailed Tuesday charged with the murder of William Hefner, 27, of Sylva, N. C., a fellow worker with whom he shared a farm cabin.

Floyd O. Seal, 37, stood mute at his arraignment Monday and a plea of innocent was entered on his behalf by Allegan Circuit Judge Wendell Miles. No trial date was set.

BOURNEMOUTH, England (AP)—The accident prevention subcommittee of the Bournemouth Council has turned thumbs-up on a French idea for getting children across the road safely. The idea is that drivers would stop if a child gave the thumbs-up signal at the roadside.

The Worry Clinic Women Follow Pace-Setters

Sue's case is unusual. For most women are easily stampeded according to the latest styles, even if the latter detract from their maximum physical appeal. Thus, bow-legged and knock-kneed girls often adopt the shortest skirts, thereby accentuating their defects. Most women are not sexy but merely two style conscious.

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph. D., M.D.

CASE 0-508: Sue G., aged 20 is a popular coed.

"Dr. Crane," her boy friend began, "I have dated several girls but Sue is the most attractive of all."

"For she has personality and spunk."

"Thus, she adapts fashions to bring out her greatest charms instead of blindly following the added, "why do women's styles change so radically?"

"For example, after the miniskirt fad we now find maxicoats and long skirts."

Well, there is often an ulterior commercial reason for this extreme shift in skirt lengths. Thus, the textile mills grow gleeful at the new trend toward long coats and skirts.

For that demands millions of yards of new fabrics!

When fashions shift from long skirts to short ones, the smart housewives can cut off part of those long dresses and still remain in style.

But you can't conveniently lengthen a miniskirt, so 50,000,000 adult women then must bankrupt their budgets by buying several new outfits.

This is obviously a boon for the textile mills and dress shops.

"Dr. Crane," I am often asked, "didn't women adopt the miniskirts just to pander to men's sexual passions?"

Well, it might seem so, but that is not true.

Women merely follow the pace-setters, without considering the romantic implications of their apparel.

In fact, they often adopt fads and fashions that actually rebuff men and kill romance.

For women are more like peacocks! They preen their feathers in self-deelight with their own reflections in the mirror, with little thought about men's erotic emotions.

Like Narcissus, women want to admire themselves.

They even react like sheep and stampede uncritically after the latest hats or frocks which the pace-setters have foisted upon them.

Naive as children in the realm of sex, women will thus wear bikini bathing suits and sexual creatures!

They seldom tell erotic stories unless they are cynical divorcees who have been taught such tales by ex-husbands and male tavern companions.

miniskirts, yet in all innocence express shock that men are so sexually motivated.

"He is more interested in my body than in the real me," they often tearfully exclaim.

Yet they stimulated such sensual and lustful attitudes of the male by their dress, but not with the deliberate motives of the prostitutes.

Male fashion designers usually concoct feminine styles, often to excite men, but the women wear them just to keep in style.

For women are basically not

Once Big-Earner Eddie Fisher Is Broke, Says Bankruptcy Petition

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A former aide estimates that Eddie Fisher made more than $700,000 annually in his peak years. Now the belting baritone has filed a bankruptcy petition in Puerto Rico. What happened?

Longtime Fisher watchers and associates speculate: "I don't think he's kept his repertoire as up to date as Sinatra does. Or Andy Williams, who has kept developing with the times." "The public got tired of him. He was the former Mr. Elizabeth Taylor too long."

"Eddie's always been a giver. Any time you admired anything of his he gave it to you. More people are wearing old Eddie Fisher suits than any other entertainer's."

"The pressure of debt kept him from caring about how good he can be. The bankruptcy may help him put his mind to his career again."

In the petition the 42-year-old singer listed debts of nearly $1 million against assets of $40,000.

The debt total of $916,300 includes $41,069 in U.S. taxes, $43,327 to the state of California, $58,000 to Paramount Pictures, $34,000 to Bank of America and $40,980 to a jeweler.

The shocked-haired, 5-foot-8½ "little kid with the big voice" reached a popularity and money peak in the first half of the 1950s. Eddie Cantor had discovered the Philadelphia-born Fisher singing at a Catskill resort and introduced him on a tour and on radio.

In a newspaper contest, Eddie outdistanced Frank Sinatra and Perry Como as "King of the Ba-rrones."

For RCA-Victor he recorded 23 straight hits, including the million-plus sellers "Any Time," "I'm Walking Behind You," "Oh, Mein Papa" and "I Need You Now."

For five years he had his own television shows. He starred in two movies—"Bundle of Joy," with Debbie Reynolds, when she was his wife, and "Butterfield 8" with Elizabeth Taylor, while married to her.

His third wife, actress Connie Stevens, divorced him in June 1969. They had two daughters.

Miss Reynolds and Fisher were married in 1955 and had two children. Tearlessly divoring Eddie in 1959, Debbie testified, "My husband became interested in another woman."

Fisher married Miss Taylor and during the next three years his career lapsed. He sang little, devoting his time to being her companion. He was at her bedside when she nearly died of pneumonia in London in 1961.

She began seeing British actor Richard Burton as they co-starred in "Cleopatra."

In 1964 Liz obtained a Mexican divorce and was married to Burton.

A Fisher friend says, "One time he had a big gambling loss in Las Vegas after the break-up with Liz. I personally think he's

Carve Railroad In Zulu-Land

STOFDORP, South Africa (AP)—Giant earthmoving machines are carving a 127-mile railroad out of the virgin wilderness where Zulu warrior chieftain Chaka once reigned supreme.

A self-contained village with its own airstrip has sprung up in four months amid the heat and dust of the remote Zululand countryside 40 miles inland from Empangeni, the nearest town of any size. Italian-born construction boss Pieter Mattioda rules as self-styled mayor over the hamlet he created and named Stofdrop—Afrikaans for "dust village."

Stofdrop exists because Mattioda won $2.1 million government contract for a five-mile slice of the longest railroad to be built in South Africa this century. It will link coastal Richard's Bay with Vryheid in the northern Natal Province interior at an estimated cost of $112 million, opening up Zululand to industrial and commercial development. Government planners believe tiny Richard's Bay eventually will outgrow the Indian Ocean harbor of Durban, 100 miles south, and become

South Africa's biggest port. Mattioda's share of the project is relatively small but it is a tough job. His 10 white and 200 African workers must blast more than a million cubic yards of rock and dirt out of the rugged countryside and build three viaducts, a huge culvert ana station at a spot called Ulundi. They started four months ago and have 14 months more to finish the job.

Mattioda is confident they will make it. He is a likeable extrovert with a big booming voice and an infectious laugh. He never stops praising his men and machines.

"They get nothing but the best," he says. "The best food and every modern convenience such as fridges and stoves." When they need a haircut he has them flown to Empangeni in his personal plane, a craft he bought to speed delivery of essential spares and supplies for the job. The plane also enables the men to take a break in Durban now and then when bush boredom sets in.

Mattioda laid out Stofdrop for maximum self-sufficiency and comfort.

Public Notices

NOTICE OF SALE FOR TAXES

Under and by virtue of the power vested in me by the laws of the State of North Carolina, particularly Chapter 310 of the Public Laws of 1939, as amended and pursuant to an order of Pitt County Board of Commissioners, I will offer for sale and will sell at public auction for cash to the highest bidder at the Courthouse door in Greenville at 12 o'clock noon on Tuesday, the 8th day of September, 1970, liens upon the real estate described below for the nonpayment of taxes owing the year 1969. The name of the owner or of the person who listed the real estate for taxes, the real estate which is subject to the lien, and the amount of the lien being set out below. Reference is made to the records in the Office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County and in the Office of the Tax Supervisor for more particular description of said real estate, and notice is hereby given that the amount of the liens set out below are subject to the addition of penalties as provided by law, and the cost of sale.

This 6th day of August, 1970.
