

Pitt Schools Will Ask Federal Funds Aiding Integration

By BLANCHE HARDEE
Reflector Staff Writer
The Pitt County Board of Education last night approved the application for some $400,000 to $500,000 in federal emergency school assistance program funds to aid in the desegregation of the county's schools.

school districts in meeting their needs and solving problems caused by desegregating the schools.
In order to be eligible for the emergency desegregation funds, a district must be implementing the terminal phase of a desegregation plan ordered by a court or a voluntary plan approved by the office of Health, Education and Welfare.
According to Arthur Alford, superintendent of the Pitt County Schools, Pitt's application contends that the use of funds here would be designed to achieve successful desegregation and the elimination of all forms of discrimination in the schools on the basis of students or faculty being members of a minority group.

Meeting with Pitt County school principals and members of the local advisory councils last night, Alford told the group, "Under the proposed plan, the special funds would be used to enlarge and enhance extracurricular activities such as band, chorus, drama, team and individual sports and arts and crafts. The money will also be used to add personnel such as teacher aides, bus monitors and persons to work with student activities, used to provide materials to enrich and revise special curriculum programs, and to expand vocational offerings for girls and provide for minor repairing and remodeling, among other things."

The special funds, if granted, would be in addition to some $1.4 million the Pitt County Schools receive under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act Title I program.

Included in the Title I budget for the coming year are the following items: Administration, $66,000; instruction salaries, $800,000; instructional materials, $100,000; medical and social services, $125,000; transportation, $25,000; operation of plant, $55,000; maintenance of plant, $13,000; fixed charges $143,000; food service, $51,000.

Approximately $850,000 worth of equipment has been purchased with Title I money since 1966. The equipment includes the following: furnished 10 libraries; modernized 12 lunchroom cafeterias; slide projectors, film projectors, record players, film bus, vocational equipment, variety of classroom furniture, and equipment items for all types of occupational programs being taught in the schools.

"In the past, the Title I money appropriated went primarily to the poor and the blacks," Alford said. "Now as we move toward desegregation, there is money available to appease the white element."

Alford added, "These monies now make it easier for whites and blacks to go into desegregation and will hopefully help eliminate some of the problems."

"There are some 75 people here tonight who will be involved in the desegregation of our schools," said T.G. Worthington, chairman of the Pitt County Board of Education. "It will depend largely on the way we feel as to how the situation will be in the fall."

"Let's make every effort this year to make the Pitt County School system one of the best systems anywhere," Worthington said.

He continued, "I feel the schools will operate without any major problems. We can make this possible if we work under the proper attitude and consider what is best for the students and the community."

Blount Is Sworn In As Superior Court Judge

Marvin K. Blount Jr. was sworn in today as Special Judge of Superior Court. The oath of office was administered by Superior Court Judge Robert D. Rouse.

Blount was appointed earlier this month by Governor Bob Scott to fill the unexpired term of George Ragsdale who resigned.

Blount, who was 31 Aug. 21, is possibly the youngest man ever appointed or elected to the Superior Court bench in North Carolina.

Blount will serve the remainder of Ragsdale's term which expires June 30, 1971.

The Greenville attorney received his law degree from Wake Forest University School of Law in 1966.

Blount is a member of the Greenville Rotary Club, vice chairman of the Salvation Army Advisory Board, director of the Boys Club of Greenville and chairman of the administrative board of Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church. He is a former Jaycee.

He is married and has three children.

Phillips Reinstated At Monday Council Meet

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Greenville police officer Barley F. Phillips was reinstated with full pay and the way cleared for his return to duty during an unannounced special meeting of the City Council at 4 p.m. yesterday.

The council's action came as a group of Negroes picketed the police department carrying placards saying Phillips should be fired and protesting "police brutality."

Ptl. Phillips was suspended following a scuffle with a Negro at Pitt Memorial Hospital July 6 during which the Negro was wounded. The fight erupted after Julius Stewart Summrell was placed under arrest on charges of disorderly conduct.

Summrell was convicted of that charge and of resisting arrest and assault on an officer charged in District Court August 12. He appealed the conviction.

Reporting on the council's action yesterday, City Manager Harry Hagerty said "It was the decision of the city councilmen to review the status of the Phillips case. They accepted the review of the investigation and the recommendations made by me and Police Chief Tommy Gladson to approve reinstatement of his pay."

Hagerty added, "It's now up to the chief (Gladson) to put Phillips back on duty."

Phillips was suspended by Hagerty under a recently enacted ordinance which provided that the City Manager may suspend an employee when considered in the best interest of the employee or the governmental unit.

"When the suspension shall be terminated by full reinstatement of the employee, the City Council may authorize the full or partial recovery of pay and benefits for the period of the suspension," the ordinance concludes.

The investigation Hagerty referred to is a report by the State Bureau of Investigation into the case, made at the request of city officials.

The SBI report, according to Hagerty, is confidential and cannot be reviewed by anyone other than city councilmen, the city manager, the chief of police and the city attorney without the approval of the SBI. "This restriction is not something of our making," Hagerty noted. "but we are bound by this requirement on the part of the SBI."

The SBI report was received last Thursday.

Chief Gladson said this morning that Phillips has been returned to duty with the shift he is normally assigned to.

In other action taken at the meeting — items originally scheduled for the special session — the councilmen approved a 47 day extension of $400,000 in electrical and $300,000 in natural gas anticipation notes.

The extensions are from September 4 to October 21, 1970, with the notes going to North Carolina National Bank at an interest rate of 5.67 per cent.

"This facilitates long-term financing of the bonds," Hagerty explained, "which are to be put up and advertised for sale shortly."

He noted, "we already have the notes and the money" in the final item on the agenda, Hagerty reported that the council approved a municipal agreement with the North Carolina State Highway Commission for construction and improvement of the U.S. 264 by-pass from the city limits eastward to the intersection of N. C. 11.

"This portion is all within the city limits," Hagerty said, "and thus had to have the municipal agreement."

Middle East Peace Talks Open Today

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Gunnar V. Jarring, the United Nations go-between, opened Middle East peace talks today with Israel, Jordan and Egypt.

Israeli Ambassador Yosef Tekoah had the first appointment with Jarring here at 9:30 a.m. Tekoah, smiling, arrived two minutes late.

Tekoah declined to reply directly to a newsman who asked whether he will leave later today after his discussion with Jarring to report to the Israeli Cabinet in Jerusalem.

"I'll speak to you later," Tekoah said, indicating he might have something to say after meeting with Jarring.

Ambassadors from the three Middle East adversaries had appointments in succession at U.N. headquarters with the Swedish mediator who for nearly three years has been trying to nudge the Arabs and Israelis toward a peace agreement.

This procedure of talking to one government and then to another is the one Jarring has followed in the past, and this procedure will continue. The Arabs refuse to negotiate face-to-face with the Israelis, and while Arab agreement to talk in the same place with their foe was some concession on their part, there was no indication that Egypt and Jordan would ever agree to sit down at the same negotiating table with Israel.

Jarring told newsmen he feels sure the three governments have "the firm intention of finding a solution."

U.N. Secretary-General U Thant expressed "cautious optimism."

Jarring was meeting today with Israel's chief delegate to the United Nations, Yosef Tekoah; Jordan's ambassador to the United States, Abdul Hamid Sharaf, and Egypt's chief U.N. delegate, Mohammed Hassan El Zayyat.

Sharaf was filling in for Muhammad H. El Farra, Jordan's chief U.N. delegate, who is in Amman for consultations.

Tekoah was sitting in for Foreign Minister Abba Eban, who was named Sunday as Israel's representative at the negotiations. Israel wanted the talks held at the foreign minister's level but made a concession to the Arabs by appointing Tekoah as Eban's alternate and giving him the go-ahead to start negotiating.

Israel said it still hoped the talks could be upgraded, however, and Jarring said he also hoped they "will be elevated to the foreign minister's level." Eban and the Egyptian and Jordanian foreign ministers, Mahmoud Riad and Anton Atalla, are all scheduled to come to New York for the U.N. General Assembly opening Sept. 15, and Jarring pointed out that when a foreign minister arrives, he supersedes a chief delegate "automatically."

Enemy Assaults Driven Back In Cambodian War

By T. JEFF WILLIAMS
Associated Press Writer

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — South Vietnamese and Cambodian warplanes drove back attacking North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces to the north and south of Phnom Penh today, military spokesmen reported.

The enemy assaults were launched overnight against the battered village of Prek Tameak, nine miles northeast of Phnom Penh, and against the frequently attacked town of Saang, 19 miles south of the capital.

Fighter-bombers and Cambodian gunboats on the Mekong River came to the defense of Prek Tameak, which was overrun last week by a strong enemy force. The village is on the eastern side of the Mekong, while Phnom Penh is on the western bank.

A Cambodian spokesman said the Viet Cong were held back at Saang by a South Vietnamese AC47 gunship that circled most of the night, dropping flares and spraying the attack routes with rapid fire from its three 7.62mm miniguns.

There were no casualty reports from either Prek Tameak or Saang. Some observers believe the attacks are part of an enemy attempt to establish a foothold to harass the Phnom Penh area.

The South Vietnamese air force reported that its A1 Skyraider bombers flew 24 sorties in the past week within a 6 to 15 mile radius around Phnom Penh, strafing and bombing North Vietnamese and Viet Cong positions.

In Phnom Penh action continued generally light. In one clash in the Mekong Delta 110 miles southwest of Saigon, South Vietnamese forces claimed killing 23 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops with the help of air and artillery strikes. South Vietnamese casualties were reported light.

The U.S. Command said North Vietnamese troops fired on a reconnaissance patrol of the 101st Airborne Division three miles northwest of the base, killing one American and wounding five. Two miles south of O'Reilly, seven enemy were killed in a clash with South Vietnamese forces, which reported light casualties and no dead.

At the other end of the country, five rounds of Viet Cong mortar fire slammed into the Ba Chuc village market 115 miles southwest of Saigon. A government spokesman said 10 South Vietnamese civilians and a soldier were killed and 42 civilians were wounded.

An American OH58 observation helicopter was shot down Monday 20 miles northeast of Saigon, killing a crewman and wounding three others.

The monthly report on pacification from the computerized Hamlet Evaluation System estimated that 92.4 per cent of South Vietnam's population was living under relative government control during July. This was an increase of 1.3 per cent over June.

Boycott Ended By Hanoi

PARIS (AP) — Xuan Thuy, North Vietnam's chief negotiator at the Paris peace talks, will return to the capital Wednesday, his office announced today.

Thuy's arrival may be a sign of more serious negotiations at the so-far stagnant conferences, observers said.

Thuy left for Hanoi last May, officially to report to his government. But it was believed he wished to boycott the talks because he felt that the acting chief U.S. negotiator, Philip C. Habib, was too low-ranking a substitute for ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

The United States named a full ambassador to the post in July, David K. E. Bruce, who returned from retirement to take the job. Bruce came to Paris Aug. 3.

Bruce stayed in his office, sending Habib to represent him, apparently to show his discontent with Hanoi's slowness to send back Thuy.

Hanoi announced (Monday) that Thuy had actually started back to Paris the day before that session.

The Last Full Day Of Summer Freedom For 6,000 Youngsters

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

For nearly 6,000 Greenville young people in the six to 18 age bracket, today has a special meaning — the last full day of summer freedom before being back in school — or facing school for the first time in the case of the very youngest.

With plans just about fully firm for each of the city's eight schools to open their doors tomorrow, teachers, principals, and other staff members are today putting last minute touches to schedules and assignments to insure a smooth flow of a student body estimated by Associate Superintendent Glenn Cox to be in the neighborhood of over 5,800, possibly near 6,000.

For the first time in Greenville, seventh, eighth and ninth graders will all be together in a totally integrated single junior high school. And according to principal John Jones, the junior high student body of about 1,600 will boost the school to the "largest single junior high school in the state of North Carolina."

Other first — some minor some major, are noted for the school opening this year. This is the first time that something like 1,000 elementary students and 1,500 junior and high school students are expecting to be utilizing a total of 22 school busses for the trips to and from the schools.

The increased use of busses in itself is a direct result of a school plan directed by the Federal Court ordering the school board to effect a ratio of two white to one black student in each of the elementary schools. Based on the court order, the Greenville School Board drafted and approved a plan which the court subsequently approved — and the approved order creates another first for the Greenville elementary schools — that of totally racially balanced schools in all parts of the city.

Under this new plan, the neighborhood concept used last year, which basically assigned children to schools in their neighborhood, has been modified extensively with many children being bussed across town to achieve the prescribed ratio.

This will also be the first year that a kindergarten program is planned on a public basis, with Agnes Fullilove dropped from the status of an elementary school to become the pilot school for the kindergarten as well as for special programs for trainable children, to open after Labor Day.

At Rose High, construction this year at the beginning of school is something the students need to live with for a while, but not to the extent of last year's major construction. Cox pointed out that work is near completion on the two new brick buildings out back — which will house Industrial Arts in one and the Art Room and classrooms in the other. "There's only some last stage touch-ups which can be taken care of on week-ends," Cox remarked. Work will be going on in replacing the gym floor until about mid-October.

This, according to principal, Robert Alligood should create no major problem as PE activity, he noted, "will mostly be outside in the early part of the school season."

Alligood, who tomorrow begins his first day as Rose High principal with teachers and pupils on hand, said "We have a little adjustment which might possibly occur on the opening day." He mentioned that the assembly for all students would be held as planned and that each student would report to his home classroom.

The adjustment he referred to "is due to the inability of the data processing to give us all the schedule procedure we had planned on." But Alligood noted this might simply be a matter of delaying run through exercises for changing the six classes on the orientation day only.

Alligood also noted the high school students have the use of the recreation gymnasium near the school on Elm Street in event it's needed.

At Aycock Junior High, the only unfinished construction is completion of the covered walkways.

Principal John Jones at Aycock, Alligood at Rose, and other principals spent Monday at staff meetings with their faculty members and expressed satisfaction with progress made at these meetings.

Some things remain unsettled for the school year. At the moment, the Federal court has granted a plaintiff from the Carolina Heights-Hillsdale area a motion for intervention in the approved school plan and is also taking under advisement a request for an injunction to restrain the school board from implementing the plan insofar as it concerns children in the Carolina Heights-Hillsdale area. Action taken on this matter by the Federal court could conceivably change the internal pattern of assignment of a certain number of school children, but the basic requirement of the two to one ratio is not expected to be affected by the outcome of this case.

All in all, school administrators and staff members contacted have expressed the belief that with firm plans ready to go into effect, the new school year ahead should not present obstacles that cannot be overcome.

$75.79 Day On Tobacco Mart

Greenville sold 1,801,696 pounds of tobacco yesterday for $1,365,585 for an average of $75.79.

According to J. N. Bryan, secretary and supervisor of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade, the quality of tobacco on the warehouse floors yesterday was very good. Sales were running smoothly, he reported.

Bryan said stabilization received a small percentage of the gross sales on the Greenville market yesterday.

The Farmville market yesterday averaged $75.74 per hundred pounds when 708,313 pounds of tobacco was sold for $536,492.82.

"Increase in more quality tobacco yesterday was responsible for the sharp increase in average," said Louis

Williams, sales supervisor of the Farmville market.

The volume on the Farmville market consisted of mostly leaf, primings and lugs. The volume of nondescript grades showed a decrease as compared with last Friday's sale.

"Grade per grade prices were steady as compared with Friday's sale with the exception of some grades of leaf that showed an increase of two to three dollars per hundred pounds," Williams explained.

The top company price for tobacco on the Farmville warehouse floors yesterday was 82-cents per pound for grades of leaf and lugs.

Stabilization received 10.33 percent of gross sales on the Farmville market yesterday.

Feminist Liberators Lay Final Plans For Strike

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rallying round the goals of equal job opportunity, free abortions and 24-hour child care centers, women made final plans today for a Wednesday "strike for equality." One liberationist predicted "this nation will no longer be the same," after the demonstrations.

The National Women's Strike Coalition—with representatives of diverse feminist groups—planned to announce the names of four major corporations whose advertising, the women say, is offensive and degrading, and whose products should be boycotted.

The feminist cause got a boost

Monday when Philadelphia Mayor James Tate proclaimed Wednesday "Women's Rights Day." Pittsburgh Mayor Peter Flaherty issued a similar proclamation earlier.

Tate acted after five women surrounded him in the hallway of a city building and complained that other city officials had turned down their request.

"I'm all for women's rights," said the mayor. "I'm all for women. I used to be pretty good with them when I was younger."

The proclamation reads, in part, "The cradle of liberty is apparently fearful of being rocked and is currently only willing to formally acknowledge that women may vote."

The Aug. 26 date of the strike was chosen to coincide with the 50th anniversary of final ratification of the 19th Amendment, which gave women the right to vote.

"After the vote," says Betty Friedman, one of the leaders of the National Organization of Women—NOW—"we haven't come such a long way baby. But we do have a movement. When those 24 hours (of Aug. 26) are over, this nation will no longer be the same. No one will be able to think the women's movement has been turned off, subverted or laughed away."

The demonstrations will take Stock Issue By Nat'l Gas Firm

GASTONIA, N. C. (AP) — Plans to issue $4 million in stock to reduce short-term bank loans used to finance construction were announced Monday by the Public Service Co. of North Carolina, a natural gas distributor.

Brinson Zeigler, president and board chairman, said the company will register plans with the Securities and Exchange Commission around Aug. 28 to issue 160,000 shares of cumulative, convertible preferred stock at $25 a share par value.

a variety of forms. There will be the traditional rallies, speeches, marches and workshops in many areas, including New York, Washington, Detroit and Boston.

In addition, however, women are being urged not to perform household chores they consider menial—"don't iron while the strike is hot,"—to bring their children to their husband's offices and to reject the role of consumer and stop buying for one day.

Counter-demonstrations were planned by some women who said they're liberated enough. A group called MOM—Men Our Masters—dubbed Wednesday "Preserve Femininity Day."

In St. Louis, Mo., Mrs. Jean Cordes, a business executive, asked women to ignore the strike and make Wednesday "be nice to a man day."

In Santa Barbara, Calif., Mrs. Helen Andelin urged women to be "charming, angelic and kitten-like" and serve their husbands breakfast in bed.

There were these other developments Monday:

—Mayor John V. Lindsay signed executive orders putting a formal end to discrimination on the basis of age or sex in New York City employment and in the execution of contract work for the city.

—The Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee said that despite the ban on sex discrimination in the 1964 Civil Rights Act, women still faced "blatantly disparate treatment" that is worse now than it was five years ago.

—And in Chicago, Carol Moore, a research chemist at Northwestern University, filed a $100 million sex discrimination suit in U.S. District Court charging two brokerage houses violated her civil rights by refusing to sell her commodities futures. She named Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith and the firm of Smith & Lalston Co., Inc.

Two Victims In Tate Slaying Said Under Influence Of Drug

By LINDA DEUTSCH

Associated Press Writer — LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two victims in the Sharon Tate murders were under the influence of a hallucinogenic drug similar to LSD when they were stabbed to death, the coroner says.

The two—coffee heiress Abigail Folger and Polish playboy Wojciech Frykowski—had taken the drug MDA, autopsy reports showed. But their wounds indicated they put up a violent struggle against their killers.

Coroner Thomas T. Noguchi, testifying as a state witness, discussed the autopsy findings Monday at the murder-conspiracy trial of Charles M. Manson, 35, hippie-type clan leader, and three girl followers—Susan Atkins, 21, Patricia Krenwinkel, 22, and Leslie Van Houten, 20.

Miss Folger and Frykowski were houseguests at Miss Tate's mansion the night of Aug. 9, 1969, and were slain along with the pregnant actress, hair stylist Jay Sebring, and Steven Parent, a friend of the caretaker.

Noguchi said Miss Folger, who shared a bedroom at the Tate home with Frykowski, had 2.4 milligrams of MDA in her blood and a .05 per cent alcohol.

Frykowski, he said, had .6 milligrams of MDA.

A narcotics officer said outside court that 2.4 milligrams of MDA probably would put a person fully under its influence. He said the drug often causes hallucinations similar to the effects of LSD.

No drugs or alcohol were found in either Miss Tate or Sebring, Noguchi said. Tests on Parent showed .2 per cent alcohol.

An officer said the amounts of alcohol found in Miss Folger and Parent probably would not cause intoxication.

Noguchi said Miss Folger and Frykowski, who both died of multiple stab wounds, had "defense wounds" on hands and arms, indicating they tried to fend off the killers.

He said Miss Folger obviously was "trying to guard herself from further injury" and Frykowski put up a long, violent struggle.

The coroner said Miss Folger was stabbed 28 times in the face, neck, breast, abdomen, back, shoulder, left thigh and both arms and hands. Frykowski, he said, was stabbed 51 times, any seven of which could have been fatal, and was shot twice and hit on the head 13 times, perhaps with a gun butt.

Noguchi said Sebring bled to death after being shot once and stabbed seven times.

Noguchi said last Friday that Miss Tate was stabbed 16 times, and rope burns indicated she also was hanged.

The coroner said none of the Tate victims was sexually molested or dismembered.

He said the same type of weapon inflicted all 102 stab wounds and added: "I would say it was a strong stabbing weapon ... it had to be very strong."

He said the weapon or weapons would have been at least five inches long and 1½ inches wide.

In a hearing with the jury absent, the trial judge refused Manson's request for a "cease and desist" order against the sheriff, saying Manson is not being harassed in jail as he had contended.

Phone Service Expansion Begun

A construction project totaling more than $210,000 was begun this week to expand telephone facilities in the southeastern section of Greenville.

L.R. Langley, local manager for Carolina Telephone, stated today that an underground conduit will be placed along N.C. Highway 43, beginning at U.S. 264 Bypass, to Red Banks Road; then along Red Banks Road and 14th Street Extension to the entrance of Brook Valley Subdivision. Approximately one and a half miles of four inch conduit will be placed and a total of 12 access manholes will be dug.

Langley said the conduit will be filled with various size feeder cables to serve the southeastern section of Greenville. "This area of Greenville is developing rapidly and the present facilities are filled nearly to capacity," Langley said. At present several business, two new schools, and three subdivisions are under construction in the area.

Langley said, "There may be some inconvenience to residents and drivers along the construction site as the manholes and trenches for the conduit are dug. We will attempt to keep the inconvenience to a minimum, however, and hope that the weather will be good and our progress quick."

Bill Cosby Eyes Teaching Field

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — Comedian Bill Cosby has been accepted at the University of Massachusetts as a graduate student in the school of education.

Cosby has said he would like to quit show business and teach school. His current television series casts him as a high school gym teacher.

A university spokesman said Monday it was not certain whether the comedian would register and attend classes.

A member of the education faculty said Cosby did not want publicity about his application because "he doesn't want people staring and saying, 'Oh, there's Bill Cosby, the comedian.'"

Good Food Is Where You Find It, Husband Likes Them 'Well-Preserved'

By TOM HOGE
Associated Press Writer

We all know that gourmet cooking isn't confined to the capitals of the world. But you'd hardly expect to find a sample in a little dirt village perched on the slope of a West Indies volcano.

The hamlet is Morne Rouge, a mountainside community on the island of Martinique. The volcano, 5,000-foot Mt. Pelee, blew itself apart in 1902 killing 30,000 people. Now it is extinct, or everyone hopes so.

It was in this village that Nort Wyner, president of the Vintage Society, a much traveled man who likes to cook and fancies fine wines, encountered a dish that he still rhapsodizes over.

"I was hardly prepared for any French haute cuisine cooking, when I walked into this little restaurant where we had to pass through a kitchen with a sod floor to get to our table," Wyner told us recently over a glass of wine.

The meal started ordinarily enough, with a pate and a soup one would have found in most any village in France.

"But then came a delicious fish steak cooked in the most superb court bouillon I have ever tasted," said Wyner fondly stroking his beard at the memory.

Court-bouillon is a highly aromatic broth that seems simple enough, but which requires much time and patience to make properly. The preparation is important because it insinuates its flavors into every part of the fish or shellfish cooked in it. "I questioned the chef," said Wyner, "and found that, other than the use of local vegetables, the dish was prepared from a recipe handed down to him from his parents and grandparents."

Court bouillon is an all day chore to prepare, so you had better get started early in the day. But you will wind up with the basis for a perfect mild weather meal which is suited to virtually any fish.

COURT BOUILLON
1/2 lime sliced
1 teaspoon coarse salt
12 whole peppercorns
1/2 tspn dried thyme
3 medium onions sliced
4 leeks chopped
4 sprigs parsley
4 bay leaves
4 cloves
1/2 tspn tarragon
5 stalks celery
1/4 tspn mustard powder
4 oz. white wine (our own addition) four swordfish or salmon steaks with skin and bones still attached

Partly fill a shallow pan with cold water, leaving ample room for the fish and other ingredients. While bringing water to a boil add all the above ingredients except the fish. Cover pan and let simmer for one hour. Then uncover and let bouillon cool to room temperature.

Wrap the fish steaks in cheesecloth leaving enough extra cloth for hand grips. Place fish steaks atop the vegetable bouillon mixture and bring slowly to a simmer, but do not boil, for 20 minutes. Cool again to room temperature and gently remove the fish.

Drain the bouillon into separate container and reserve, then place fish back into the pan and pour bouillon through a strainer over the fish. Cover the pan with the lid and refrigerate for several hours.

When you're ready to serve, remove the fish from the cheesecloth and carefully trim off the skin and remove the larger bones.

Place the trimmed steaks onto a platter and garnish with a "macedoine" (gourmet talk for mixture) of vegetables.

"In Morne Rouge," Wyner recalled, "the macedoine, or mixture, consisted of a bouquet of somewhat exotic local vegetables. Since I don't have access to such vegetables here in New York City, I have modified this part of the recipe and frankly, I prefer my version to the original."

Sun Worship Thru The Ages

By AP NEWSFEATURES
NEW YORK (AP) — The sun today is a symbol of golden beauty and a deep tan. And at no time in history have people been so devoted to sun worshipping in such a personal way. Women have sacrificed their complexions, men have suffered the pain of sunburn and small children have succumbed to burns and sunstroke.

But in a recent study, human preoccupation with the sun was traced throughout history and analyzed, with some results that appear to be changing our attitudes about the sun and how we should live with it.

The sun is composed of hydrogen, the simplest of all elements. Always raging with temperatures from 4,000 degrees Centigrade on the surface to 13,000,000 degrees Centigrade in the center, the sun is possessed of a past, a future and a definite life expectancy. It rose in the universe four-thousand-million years ago, and the last sunset will occur five-thousand-million years from now.

If the earth survived the last gasp of the sun, it would change beyond all recognition. The tropics would be snowbound within one week, the winds would stop and the oceans would freeze to their depths.

In ancient times sun worship was strongest in lands where the sun was a scorching tyrant. In early Egypt, the sun became the one and only true god of mankind.

Americans eat about 43 million pounds of whole dates a year, and another 15 million pound as ingredients in such products as cookies and date nut rolls.

"I cover the fish with cold mayonnaise studded with cooked peas, carrot rounds, diced potatoes and green beans in colorful designs. I then add wedges of tomatoes, around the fish interspersed with parsley.

The perfect accompaniment to this dish, said Wyner, is Meursault, a dry, crisp white Burgundy. Serves four persons.

Play Wigs For Little Girls

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The lollipop and soda pop set now have their very own play wigs, but don't be surprised if the little girls wear the fun wigs to parties.

Playing in mom's clothes is an age-old pastime, but the image has changed rapidly in recent years, with false eyelashes, wigs and glossy makeup part of mom's beauty since.

Stumbling about in mom's shoes, wigs and evening dress, her face heavily rouged, a little girl couldn't be happier—but there have been times when the family has rebelled at the trail of broken lipstick or runs in panty hose. And when mom's expensive perfume emanates from the family's little actress, the lid is likely to be closed on the play scene.

In recent years, play kits of makeup and perfume have been available for small fry, but they have continued to raid mother's dressing table.

The new wigs may turn the tide. At least they will fit little heads. The originators designed the educational play wigs so little girls could shampoo and set the play hair without harming their own tresses.

In curly or long styles, blonde, black, brunette, the wigs of synthetic fibers are washable and restyleable with stretch foundations. One wig comes on a wig block in a see-through case. Another one, a curly version, comes with its own built-in black bow.

There are small-fry styles for girls 4 to 9, and curly and flip styles for the 11 to 15 age group.

DEAR ABBY: I know a lot of men go for young girls, but my husband is just the opposite, and that's my problem.

There's a woman in town with one of those long-legged, slim-waisted figures, and she has to be at least 45 years old. Well, my husband can't keep his eyes off her, and he is only 30.

Even tho it's out of his way, he drives by her house every morning on his way to work, hoping to get a glimpse of her. Abby, I'm ashamed to tell you some of the things I've thought of doing to try to get her to move. I know it's not her fault, but I could explode every time I think of how my husband drools over this old lady.

How can a person her age be so well preserved?
CURIOUS IN TOPEKA

DEAR CURIOUS: I don't know what kind of "preservative" she uses, but I'm sure she isn't pickled in alcohol.

And what makes you think a woman past 45 is ready for the glue factory? The world is full of women who will never see 60 again who have more pizzazz than dollies one-third their age.

DEAR ABBY: After reading the letter from the woman whose husband wanted her to put on sheer black underwear, high heel shoes, and let him tie her up with ropes, I got the courage to write in with my problem.

You see, my husband likes me to get completely undressed, except for my shoes, and put on a dumb trench coat, and then go riding around town with him for about half an hour. He says that just knowing I have nothing on underneath the trench coat "arouses" him. Of course, he is fully clothed. He says it will "arouse" me, too. Well, I did it once, and it didn't arouse me. It scared me half to death.

Abby, I just hate that idea, but he keeps fighting with me to go along with it. I keep thinking, "If we should have an accident, what would the police and the people at the hospital think of a girl riding around with nothing on but a trench coat?"

My husband claims I am childish and inhibited. I don't think I am, Abby. I love him, and this is the first plan for arousal I've refused to go along with. Is there something wrong with me?
TRENCH COAT

DEAR TRENCH: No. Your husband likes to live dangerously. Tell him he'd better come up with another plan for "arousment"—but to keep it within the privacy of your four walls.

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column you mentioned that 15 minutes ought to be long enough to wait dinner for tardy guests before going ahead with a meal.

A few years ago we invited my brother and his wife to a family dinner on Christmas Eve. Since they have a reputation for always being late, we told them the dinner would be at six o'clock, and we invited everyone else for seven.

At EIGHT o'clock they telephoned, saying they were still downtown shopping and had some presents to wrap yet, so they'd be detained a little longer, and we had better go ahead and start eating without them. Of course we did.

Well, they arrived FIFTY-FOUR hours later! What I would like to know is, is this some kind of record?
REYNOLDSBURG, OHIO

DEAR OHIO: Probably not—but close!

DEAR ABBY: I read in your column that Sweden and the United States have exactly the same attitude toward deserters and draft dodgers. This is true as long as you don't look upon the reality. Because in the papers it says just what you said, but if you think of what really would happen to a United States deserter or draft dodger versus a Swedish one, there sure is a difference.

An American fellow who escapes to Sweden would be able to stay there for seven years without even thinking about being drafted. After those seven years he would become a Swedish citizen and get drafted for the Swedish army, which hasn't been in any war for over 150 years!

But a Swede staying in America for more than six months could get drafted into the fighting United States Army.

If I had to make the choice, that would be easy for me.

Mrs. Johnny Sheppard Stokes

The Rev. Gilbert Mister officiated at the double ring ceremony. A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. John Blackwell. "The Theme from Romeo and Juliet" was played through the wedding ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a street length dress of pale crepe with lace on the yoke, collar and sleeves. The collar was trimmed with teardrop pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white chrysanthemums and an orchid with streamers of lace and ribbon.

James Edwin Hice of Greenville was best man. Ushers were Rodney Hill, brother of the bride, and Jerry Stokes, brother of the bridegroom.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was given by Mr. and Mrs. Odell McLawhorn in the fellowship hall of the church.

After a wedding trip to the mountains of North Carolina, the couple will reside in Greenville.

Far From Campus In Greenville

One of the more interesting things now being undertaken by East Carolina University is not even underway on the Greenville campus.

Instead on faraway Roanoke Island, the University Marine Science Center will be headquarters for six new research projects designed to develop the state seafood industry.

Recognition Of Tax Collector

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — North Carolina's friendly tax collector is top man in the profession for the U.S. and Canada.

Revenue Commissioner Ivie L. Clayton last June assumed presidential duties for the National Association of Tax Administrators, a year-long position that makes him a leading spokesman on matters of taxation.

This week he is in Chicago, where NATA maintains headquarters and an extensive research staff, for committee meetings to reconcile differences on proposed legislation dealing with taxation of multi-state businesses. Later in the fall he likely will appear at Congressional hearings to expound the NATA view.

It represents peer recognition for Clayton as one of the country's bright professionals in the tax field. It also acknowledges North Carolina's forefront rank in efficient, up-to-now administration and collection of taxes.

The emphasis is upon professional. Clayton started as an auditor with the revenue department in 1946. He was moved up from assistant commissioner by former Governor Dan K. Moore in 1965. His reappointment to a four-year term was an early decision in Governor Bob Scott's administration.

Time was when the revenue commissioner was a political plum of first magnitude. Each governor filled it from his own coterie, with astuteness in politics high among criteria.

It was a route which brought distinguished men to the office — and it may be reverted to in the future — but it has been outmoded by the complexity and sophistication of contemporary tax administration.

"The approach has got to be professional today," said Clayton. "Tax work is so complex and changing. So many lawyers and accountants are involved. And the public itself is more tax conscious."

It demands a high standard of competence, and a constant effort to stay abreast. "The amount of reading it requires is terrific," said Clayton, gesturing to a foot-high stack of reports and documents.

All ten division heads in the revenue department are career men who, like Clayton, worked their way up through the ranks.

Conversation with Clayton abolishes the dour and flinty caricature of the tax collector.

He comes on friendly and voluble. He likes his job and works at it with shirt-sleeve energy in surroundings reflecting his enthusiasms and interests.

Art ranging from his six-year-old son's papier-mache dinosaur to abstract oil paintings and framed covers from "Opera News" decorate his office. A table on one side of the conference rooms holds a stereo record player and a stack of recordings.

"Background music for the time I spend here evenings and weekends," he explained. Opera is his choice, with a current favorite the Joan Sutherland-Marilyn Horne version of Bellini's "Norma."

Bel canto may seem a high-amp accompaniment to tax administration, but it demonstrates the intensity of Clayton's involvement in the assignment of garnering the money to support state government.

His department embraces around 1,000 employees, including some 350 in 70 field offices from Manteo to Murphy (literally). It supervises the administration of tax laws which produce more than one billion dollars a year.

The philosophy that guides the operation is simple and people-oriented. "We're here to help the tax-paying public," said Clayton. "Our job is to administer the tax laws fairly and equally, to collect what is due the state. We don't want any more than that, or any less."

He accepts readily and with good humor that nobody likes to pay taxes. He chuckled as he displayed a friend's reminder of the fact in the form of a poster reading: "Taxation With Representation Is No Damn Good Either."

It is more palatable when there is assurance of efficiency and equity in the collection process.

That calls for qualified personnel trained in dealing with the public and the use of the best available methods and equipment.

"We have 30 vacancies right now in our staff for auditors," Clayton said. "We won't fill them until we can find persons to meet the qualifications. I'd rather have a vacancy than an unqualified person."

North Carolina was a pioneer in the use of data processing to speed up and promote efficiency in tax collection. It was the first state to put sales tax collection on data processing, and with New York the first to put income tax on data processing. The department acquired its first computer in 1959.

"If we didn't keep up with modern methods we would have inundated Raleigh with paper a long time ago," Clayton said.

Using National Science Foundation funds the marine scientists will seek to learn, improve and teach ways of lifting the coastal fisheries economy. They will examine ways of growing, catching, processing and marketing seafood through the departments of Geology, Biology, the School of Business and the Division of Continuing Education.

Herman Phelps, associate dean of the Division of Continuing Education said most commercial fishing units on the North Carolina coasts have not expanded beyond a single-family size.

"Newly developed methods of harvesting, processing and marketing seafoods products need to be explored and made known to these hundreds of independent fishermen in the seven counties to be served by this project," he said.

This is, indeed an exciting program now being undertaken by East Carolina University. Since we are entering an era when Man may obtain much of his food from the sea there is the likelihood that these research projects can be the beginnings of a great industry on our seacoast. East Carolina is ideally located to serve these coastal people and it is logical that the university's resources be turned toward the development of the seafood industry.

Criminal Cases Call For Prompter Trial

More and more those connected with our legal system are recognizing that court backlogs are obstructing justice.

Atty. Gen. Bob Morgan warned last week that delays are "The most effective tool of the guilty."

One answer to reducing the case load might be to take drunkenness cases out of the courts.

Morgan said in a Charlotte speech, "We need to look to see whether it should continue as a criminal offense."

North Carolina's court system should be studied to see what can be done to bring about prompt trial of criminal cases. This could be society's best protection against a rising crime rate.

Kidnap Fears At The U.N.

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — In the wake of the abduction-murder of Judge Harold Haley in San Rafael, Cal., law enforcement officers are taking extraordinary security precautions for the 25th anniversary session of the United Nations General Assembly in New York Oct. 14.

With at least 50 heads of government and heads of state in attendance, the commemorative session provides a golden opportunity for radical activists to seize a president or prime minister, South American-style, and demand the release of hundreds of convicts—described by the radicals as "political prisoners"—in U.S. prisons.

Actually, certain radical groups have been fitfully plotting the abduction of foreign diplomats in Washington for months, and police have been on the alert. But the danger has been magnified many fold by the San Rafael incident, which titillated the imagination of white radicals and black militants. At least two courtroom abduction plots in widely separate parts of the country have since been hatched but not executed.

The abduction technique has endorsement of Black Panther leader Huey Newton (though there is no evidence that he had any part in planning the San Rafael caper). Newton, free on bail awaiting a new trial for the killing of a police officer, has told friends that the San Rafael affair—while costing the lives of three brothers—escalated the "political action" of black revolutionaries another notch and was therefore successful.

A footnote: Law enforcement authorities have lost the scent of ex-UCLA professor Angela Davis, charged with the murder in the San Rafael shootout. Like most of the Weathermen terrorists now being sought, Miss Davis could be almost anywhere, shielded by the hippie subculture.

Led by Louisiana's Democratic national committee chairman, Marshall Brown, a full-scale Southern revolt is brewing against the appointment of liberal Mary Lou Burg of Wisconsin as the National Committee's vice-chairman, in charge of women's activities.

Brown's first choice for the job: Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy. Lawrence F. O'Brien, the national chairman, named Miss Burg July 11 to succeed Minnesota's Geri Joseph. But the appointment is subject to National Committee ratification at its next meeting in October.

That will be the forum for the anti-Burg Southern revolt, which as of today seems assured of mustering up to 20 votes against Burg even without an alternative candidate. Of course, O'Brien will win Miss Burg's election, but the debate will again rub raw the party's North-South split.

Brown will do nothing publicly about Ethel Kennedy if, as he strongly suspects, she turns thumbs down on the idea. But he and National Committee members from most of the Southern states are adamantly against Miss Burg for one basic reason: she opposed seating former Rep. Albert Rains as Alabama's national committee chairman in 1969. Rains, a highly respected anti-George Wallace moderate, was elected over a Negro opponent.

Strength For Today

SUCCESS AND FAILURE

A few days ago the father of a soldier whom I know quite well told me that the son who hoped to become a pilot had been "washed out." Along with many others, he had failed in some way to measure up to the high requirements. Long before he left home the boy's heart was set on this achievement, and when he failed to reach it he was so downcast that he did not communicate with his family for several weeks.

This young man had written home saying that he was a failure. The first thing to be said to such a statement is that no one at his age has lived long enough either to be a failure or much of a success. We spend the first thirty or forty years of life getting ready for the harvest. Occasionally a young man damages his life almost beyond repair by some act of violence or dishonesty, but even under such circumstances life has much to offer, even though he may always have to limp along its pathways.

But to say because some one thing upon which we have set our heart is denied us, that therefore we have failed and that life has lost all its relish is to speak out of the depth of inexperience and folly. We make a mistake when we set our hearts too much on anything. It may not be the Lord's will that events turn out that way. But if He denies us in one way, it is that He may work His will through us more perfectly in another. By Earl L. Douglass

OUR BAD GENIE!

By JAMES KILPATRICK

Note To Norman Cousins

Dear Norman:

We have been friends a long time now, you and I, almost from the time you took over as editor of Saturday Review; and from opposite poles, liberal and conservative, we have shattered some goodly lances. Let me saddle up and take aim on the speech you made last week here in Washington.

Other Editors Say About Majorities

(Jacksonville Daily News) With President Nixon's performance as a friend; the cause of law and order would appear to be in no pressing need of enemies for the time being.

Apart from whatever effect it ultimately may have on the Los Angeles trial directly, the President's comment on the Manson case is certain to be around as a public topic for some time. Editorialists will see to that. And delivered in the context of a critique of the press, it—or the flak raised—is not going to improve his relations with the media.

But apart from the press and jurists, a distinct minority, handwringing over the widely advertised presidential gaffe is likely to be limited. The vast majority of the public is more likely merely puzzled by the fuss, or ignoring the business altogether. To those uniformed on the fine points of the law, concern over Manson's rights to trial free of prejudgment may seem exaggerated and the Nixon slip must appear a natural enough reaction to what may superficially appear an open-and-shut case.

All of which prompts some thought on other events, unrelated but also concerning rights and majorities.

In Cleveland, two young men have been cleared of charges of double murder during a holdup. Evidence, including identification by a witness, had appeared to make it an open-and-shut case — until a much-later arrested suspect revealed others as the true killers.

The two youths were promptly set free — after a year in prison. The point is that for all the built-in guarantees of the rights of the accused, our legal procedures are not infallible. There may well never be a case so open and shut that a tragic mistake cannot result.

Another of those periodic street-corner polls recently revealed that the citizens in the street overwhelmingly reject the basic concepts of the Bill of Rights. The majority reaction to the constitutional guarantees, as paraphrased, was that they were undesirable, unnecessary, possibly even dangerously subversive.

The only thing really surprising about this that it should be found surprising. The majority has no great interest in or need for the rights in question. The majority conforms, which is why it is the majority. It is the minority, the rare individuals, who want and exercise the right to be different. Freedom can, in fact, be defined as the majority's guarantee of the minority's right to be different.

At another point in his law-and-order comments, President Nixon mentioned a recent viewing of a Western movie and ascribed continuing popularity of Westerns to public desire to see "the good guys out ahead; the bad guys lose."

Life, unfortunately, is not so easily scripted. Good and evil are not always outlined clearly in blacks and whites; good guys and bad guys are not so easily distinguished. It is only human, of course, to wish that it were otherwise.

Squirm Over Proposed Rules

By ELMER ROESSNER
Congressmen are under considerable pressure to do something about the proposed new rules and regulations for savings and loan associations. Despite the fact that many Congressmen are S & L officials, lawyers and consultants as well as investors, if Preston Martin, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, which regulates the S & L, sticks by his guns, the rules can go into effect. Congress may hold a few committee meetings on the S & L protests, but there is not enough time before adjournment to enact new legislation. Congress is eager to declare a recess so members can get back to the hustings (and television) in time for successful campaigning before the November elections.

The new regulations are scheduled to go into effect Sept. 15, although the two leading associations of S & Ls are asking for a three-month postponement.

What Regulations Do The proposed regulations are based on a study by Prof. Irwin Friend of the University of Pennsylvania, in association with Prof. Edward S. Herman of the same university.

There are two major thrusts to the proposed rules. One is to eliminate conflicts of interest among S & L officials.

This has brought a mixed reaction. While most S & L officials agree that the industry should be above suspicion, they also feel that the regulations are an insult. They say that they have kept their industry clean and that the regs are uncalled for.

However, the board points out that a recent court decision required directors of a District of Columbia S & L to turn over the association commissions they had received from insuring properties on which the association held mortgages. Why Riles Directors

The second thrust of the laws has stirred real opposition of S & L officials. This is intended to give depositors a stronger voice in association affairs.

Every depositor in an association with more than $10 million in assets would be required to give detailed information about annual meetings and voting rights; proxies would be revocable at will; and depositors would have the right to com-

Reform Is Not Likely

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — A girl should never marry a boy with the hope of reforming him into something nearer to her heart's desire. Oh, there'll be some changes all right. But reformations? They're about as likely as telephone talks with the man in the moon.

HAL BOYLE

For Example:

Once he promised he would do anything for her—go to the ends of the earth if necessary. Now if the telephone rings he looks up and says, "You answer it."

Before they were married he used to like to hear her talk on any subject under the sun. Today if she starts to give her opinion on anything he demands, "For Pete's sake, what are you yakking about now?"

There was a time when he would hardly let her perform any task alone for fear she would hurt herself. "You're just a little girl—and little girls aren't very strong," he told her tenderly. But recently whenever she wanted to move the sofa, she had to do it single-handed—with the big lunkhead lying on it.

Ere he led her to the altar, he assured her she was the best cook that ever lived, and even praised the way she boiled water for soft-boiled eggs. When he comes home from work now and she starts to tell him the wonderful dinner she has planned, he gives her the brushoff: "Oh, throw anything on the table tonight. I'm not hungry. I had a great lunch with the guys at the office."

"Honey, it doesn't make any difference what you wear—you'd look beautiful in a flour sack." That's what he told her during their courtship days. But what did he tell her only last week when she showed him the new miniskirt she had scrimped up the money to buy? "Take it back. It won't do. You aren't a kid anymore. Miniskirts are for single girls with good legs."

How they enjoyed playing any kind of game together! That was before the marriage. Now if he gets stuck while working a crossword puzzle and she offers to help, he growls: "I'd rather do it myself, mother. After all, I went as far through school as you did."

Before the wedding ceremony, he used to laugh at the quaint antics of her relatives, and say: "They're all such characters." Now he dismisses them with the remark, "The trouble with your folks is that they're all nuts."

When he was only her suitor, he loved to have her run and leap in his lap. Now he's her husband, and the last time she sat in his lap, he groaned, "Take me to your orthopedist."

Reform him? As his wife, she now realizes it would be easier to dig up the Rock of Gibraltar with a hairpin.

"Don't you think we've changed?" she sometimes asks her hero tentatively.

"Changed? I guess so. Marriage changes everybody," replies her husband, comfortably convinced that, if anything, marriage has made him more sensible. "That's life."

Diphtheria Outbreaks Possible

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Government disease detectives say limited outbreaks of diphtheria, the ancient child-killer, could spread across the United States, with ghettos especially vulnerable.

They implied that any city in which half the children are not immunized could face an epidemic such as the one sweeping San Antonio, Tex.

A recent survey showed San Antonio had immunized only about half its children, compared with 70 per cent for comparable cities of 700,000 population. The city has listed 66 cases of the vicious disease this year—30 of them this month.

Experts of the U.S. Public Health Service's Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta say 75-85 per cent of the nation's children are immunized against diphtheria, but they rate this as only fairly good.

The experts said in an interview that 23 states do not require pre-school shots with the triple DPT vaccine against diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus or lockjaw.

Those states are Alabama, Alaska, Arizona, Colorado, Delaware, Florida, Idaho, Indiana, Iowa, Maine, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, North and South Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

They said that for maximum safety against all three maladies, children should get three shots of the triple vaccine a month apart, beginning at about 3 months of age—followed by a booster shot at age 1; another booster upon entering school; and a booster every 10 years thereafter.

Diphtheria is named for the Greek word "diphthera," meaning hide or leather.

That's because the ancient malady is characterized by formation of a thick, somewhat leather-like false membrane on the lining of the throat and other areas of the respiratory tract.

The poison of the bacteria that cause it also can spread

Claim Flaw In Riot Law

COLUMBIA (AP) — A group of University of South Carolina students and some nonstudents, charged with rioting and conspiracy in the May 11 takeover and ransacking of the Administration Building, are seeking to have the state's riot law under which they are charged declared unconstitutional.

Witnesses testified Monday in U. S. District Court why they believed 30 of them should not be charged with violation of the statute.

They said the law is unconstitutional because it deprives them of their constitutionally guaranteed freedoms of assembly, due process and equal protection under the laws.

The Richland County Grand Jury has indicted 35 persons on charges of rioting and conspiracy in connection with the building takeover at the state's largest school. The takeover touched off several days of campus disorder in which more than 100 persons were arrested.

The human brain can retain 10 million bits of information and pull them out at random.

throughout the system, affecting even the heart. Death can occur in an agony of choking.

Many thousands of cases occurred annually in the United States and all other countries prior to 1923 when a toxoid—something like a vaccine—became widely used.

An over-all downward trend has been noted since 1960—with national totals down to about 200 reported cases in 1969.

Prior to the advent of the preventive toxoid—made of a toned-down version of the deadly toxin produced by diphtheria bugs—the only weapon against the scourge was an antitoxin which was developed late in the 19th century.

It was—and still is—highly effective, but it's a treatment for people already stricken, not a preventive.

Picketing

A group of Negro protesters began picketing the Greenville Police Department on Washington St. about 1:15 p.m. yesterday.

The group carried signs saying police should "stop police brutality", "be concerned about human rights as well as property rights," and saying the department needs "better screening of police," among others.

Seven pickets at a time marched in front of police headquarters until 5 p.m.

The permit under which the pickets were operating was granted yesterday.

and valuable exercise to serve as architect of a world as it ought to be, filled with stately temples, but some of us ask: How do you work the plumbing? What holds up the walls? These are practical questions: How do you demolish the existing structures of sovereignty?

The answer, in my own view, is that you don't. Norman, you are like the Man from La Mancha; you dream the impossible dream. Oh, it is all very well to say, abstractly and metaphysically, that ours is one world, populated by a single air-breathing species, the land-based mammal, Homo sapiens. Right. But the commonality that unites mankind, for good or ill, is much less than the differences that divide us. The tribal instinct is fixed in the genes; and there is no such thing as "one tribe."

Can you imagine — seriously imagine — the Soviet Union, Red China, and the United States of America entering into some "new institution" that demanded the abandonment of sovereignty? The men and women who must make such urgent decisions — the decisions of the next thirty years — already are born. Can you believe they will be impelled, by fear or by nobility, to reverse the human currents of ten thousand years? For my own part, I cannot imagine or believe such things.

Two prospects occur. The first is that over the next 50 to 100 years, man will render himself extinct here on earth, by famine, by nuclear war, or by such gross pollution of the ecosystem that the species cannot survive. This would be regrettable, but our planet is a mustard seed in the universe and God surely has planted His interesting species somewhere else.

The second prospect, which seems to me more likely, is that men and nations will modify old institutions just enough to muddle along. Wars will continue, but not to Doomsday. Hunger, poverty and sickness will continue, but not in unbearable proportions. Pollution will continue, but not fatally. Fifty years hence, they still will be hurling bricks in Belfast, for this is how men are, and will be. You and I won't be around, in any event, but perhaps we can break another lance somewhere else.

Winterville Board Enacts Ordinance

WINTERVILLE — The Board of Aldermen last night enacted a city ordinance regulating parades, picketing and group demonstrations as a group of Negro citizens waited with a list of grievances they wanted discussed.

The special meeting, Mayor Walter Dail said, was called last Thursday. He said he refused to discuss the list of grievances with the group of blacks last night because it was not on the agenda of the special session.

A group of about 50 Negroes gathered briefly at the Winterville Town Hall about 6:30, then dispersed. About 75 blacks returned at 7:30 when the town board held its special session.

Some 25 Negroes were admitted to the board's meeting room and sat while the ordinance was passed. The remainder of the group waited outside the Town Hall.

Basically, the ordinance approved last night requires persons wishing to parade, picket or demonstrate apply for a permit 24 hours in advance of such activity.

The black citizens, terming themselves the "Winterville Action Committee" handed Mayor Dail a list of grievances.

Included in the list were requests that the town endorse public housing, better law enforcement on the public streets, reduce high electric and water rates and give citizens more time to pay their utilities bills, appoint more black representation on committees, establish a housing code and appoint a building inspector, and provide more money for improvement of North Winterville.

Propane Gas For Wilmington Cars

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Seven vehicles owned by the City of Wilmington have been using propane gas fuel for three months and the city manager says their performance has been the same as gasoline-powered vehicles.

City Manager E. C. Brandon Jr. announced the experimental project Monday. He said the city might convert to propane power on a larger scale in the future.

Two police cars, four garbage trucks and a utility truck are using propane in the interests of economy and ecology.

Aware of Brown's incipient revolt, Texas national committeeman Robert Strauss, the most powerful Southerner in the National Committee's top echelon as treasurer and finance director, has been trying to line up Southerners for Miss Burg by appealing for loyal support of O'Brien.

But Southerners such as Florida's Hazel Talley Evans, Alabama's Ruth Owens, and South Carolina's Barbara Sylvester remain highly skeptical if not outright opposed to Miss Burg.

Lack of partisan combativeness by Democratic officeholders, a plague for Lawrence F. O'Brien since his return as Democratic national chairman six months ago, reared its head when he visited the National Governors Conference at Lake of the Ozarks, Mo., ten days ago.

O'Brien brought a briefcase of statements blasting the Nixon administration for ignoring the governors, pointedly attacking Vice President Spiro T. Agnew for boycotting the conference, and predicting that former Gov. Nils Boe of South Dakota would be eased out as Mr. Nixon's liaison man with the governors. These statements would have been eagerly devoured by news-hungry reporters, hard put to find news at the dull conference.

But the 14 (out of 17) Democratic governors whom O'Brien lunched with at Tan-Tar-A resort were less than excited about big political news coming out of their conference — particularly Gov. Warren Hearnes of Missouri, the host governor. Set to be elected chairman by the overwhelmingly Republican Governors Conference the next day, Hearnes was skittish about partisan rhetoric.

Nor did O'Brien get encouragement from either Gov. John Dempsey of Connecticut, outgoing chairman of the Democratic Governors Association, or Dempsey's successor, Gov. Robert Scott of North Carolina. They told O'Brien that the governors really weren't very upset about White House inattention and that the prevailing tone of the conference was blandly non-partisan.

Pirates Open Football Drills

East Carolina University's Pirates opened the 1970 practice season yesterday with three workouts, and immediately started work to get ready for the tough Toledo Rockets.

The Pirates face the Rockets on September 12 in the first game of the season. Toledo is coming off a perfect 11-0 season which included a 56-33 victory over Davidson in the Tangerine Bowl last December.

The Bucs made their first major switch in positions right away. Will Mitchell was moved from the flanker spot to the defensive backfield.

Assistant Coach Jerry McGee is working with the secondary, and is trying to put together a group which works well and effectively together. Head Coach Mike McGee believes that this part of the game is one of the key factors in the hopes for a successful season. "We know we have to face several top quarterbacks this year, including Toledo's Chuck Ealey right away."

A total of 67 players reported to the ECU staff for the three-a-day drills. They began the workouts with a performance test which included a mile run. That was won by Ron Konrady, a 208-pound linebacker.

McGee said that he was quite pleased with the physical condition of the players. "I thought three of our best players—Carl Gordon, Bill Wallace and George Whitley—looked in great shape."

The Bucs worked last night under the lights, at Guy Smith Stadium, where another workout is planned tonight.

The three-a-day workouts will continue as long as McGee feels they are necessary to prepare for the tough Toledo contest.

Pirate Drills Open

East Carolina University Assistant Football Coach Henry Trevathan gives instructions to a group of players yesterday as the Pirates opened practice for the 1970 season. The Bucs worked out three times yesterday, and will continue this schedule for some time, preparing for their September 12 opening date at the University of Toledo. Workouts yesterday, and for the next two days will be in light gear. (Reflector Photo)

There Are Some Good Races For 2nd Place

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
Baltimore and Cincinnati, sitting on fat leads in the American League East and National League West races, hardly ever peek over their shoulders these days. But they ought to. There are some pretty good races going on back there.

The New York Yankees, a huge 11½ game back of the Orioles, are only one-half game up on Detroit in the battle for second place in the AL East after losing to Kansas City 8-7 Monday night. It was the first victory for the Royals in 10 games against the Yankees this season.

In the NL West, the Reds hold a hefty 12-game bulge over Los Angeles following the Dodgers' 4-2 loss to Chicago. But the action is a notch lower where just one-half game separates San Francisco and Atlanta in the jockeying for third place. The Braves tightened it up by blanking Montreal 6-0 on George Stone's three-hitter Thursday night.

All other teams had the day off.

The Yankees hadn't lost to the Royals all season but Kansas City made up for lost time by pounding Mel Stottlemyre and four relievers for 14 hits including three by Paul Schaal, who drove in four runs.

Schaal tripled home two runs in the third against Stottlemyre, then singled two more across as the Royals took the lead for keeps with three in the fifth. Tom Matchick also pitched in with a three-run double in the second.

Bobby Murcer delivered a pair of sacrifice flies as well as his 21st homer of the year for the Yankees.

Stone throttled Montreal, ending the Expos' five-game winning streak and moving the Braves within one-half game of idle San Francisco.

Leadoff man Mike Lum tagged Bill Stoneman for a first-pitch home run and Stone protected the narrow lead until the seventh when the Braves busted loose for five more runs — four of them unearned. Rico Carty, Clete Boyer and Gil Garrido all contributed RBI-singles to that rally.

Stone struck out seven and evened his record at 9-9.

The Cubs moved within 4½ games of first-place Pittsburgh and only 1½ back of New York in the tightening NL East race by knocking off the Dodgers.

Ferguson Jenkins won his 16th game, scattering eight hits. Joe Pepitone drove in Chicago's first two runs with his 19th homer of the year.

Competing with other members of the East Carolina Swimming Association, he helped in a sixth place finish in the medley relay and a eighth place slot in the freestyle relay. McGlohon competed in the eight and under boys category.

Margaret McGlohon, in the 9-10 year old group, was on the fifth place freestyle relay team and the seventh place medley relay team.

Duck, Goose Dates Are Set

RALEIGH (AP) — The 1970-71 duck hunting season in North Carolina will run for 60 days, opening Nov. 18 and closing Jan. 16.

The Wildlife Resources Commission approved the dates Monday and set a three-duck daily bag limit. No hunter may have more than six ducks in his possession.

The commission also set these seasons:

Geese, Nov. 18-Jan. 6, Daily bag limit one, possession limit two.

—Brant, No. 18 — Jan. 16, daily bag limit six, possession limit six.

Scap ducks, Nov. 18-Jan. 16, Daily bag limit two, possession limit four.

—Blue winged teal, Nov. 18-Nov. 26, daily bag limit two, possession limit four.

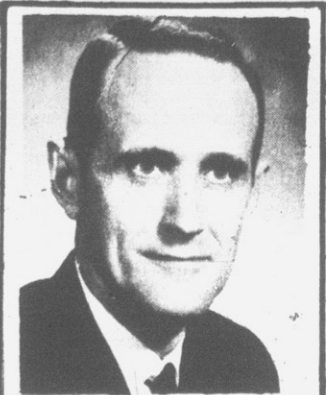

The commission also approved a schedule of public hearings for proposed either-sex deer hunts in 11 areas across the state.

The dates and locations of the proposed hunts will be announced later.

"The proposed either-sex deer hunts have been suggested either by our biologists, or in some cases by farmers and hunters in an area who feel that the local deer population is getting too high," said Frank Barick, chief of the division of game.

The schedule of hearings is as follows, each set for 7:30 p.m.:

Sept. 1 — Northampton County — Courthouse in Jackson; Currituck — Courthouse in Currituck; Gates, Hertford, Perquimans — Gates Courthouse; Montgomery, Stanly — Montgomery Courthouse; Bladen—Lake Creek Community Center.

South would netted the defense a quick decision inasmuch as West can trump the third round, the latter was not inclined to seek a ruff—holding three clubs headed by the queen-jack. He, therefore, made the natural lead of the jack of hearts against five clubs.

A small heart was played from dummy and South ruffed in his hand. The king and ace of clubs were cashed and when East showed out, declarer's prospects nosedived since the loss of the ace, king of diamonds as well as a trump trick appeared inescapable.

South resolved to single in as many tricks as he could before surrendering the initiative. The ace of hearts was cashed on which the deuce of diamonds was discarded and a heart was ruffed in the closed hand. Dummy was reentered with the king of spades to trump another heart.

The ace and queen of spades were cashed and a spade ruffed with the six of clubs for South's 10th trick as West continued to follow suit helplessly. Now when the last heart was led from dummy, declarer scored with his remaining trump the ten of clubs as West played the king of hearts.

South cheerfully conceded the last two tricks to the opposition. In all, he took three spades and a spade ruff, two top clubs, the ace of hearts and four heart ruffs in his hand.

When West failed to find the killing lead against South's five club contract, the latter uncovered a neat method for telescoping three losers to only two.

The real culprit on the deal was, perhaps, East for failing to open the bidding with one diamond. While he lacks the normal requirements for a bid, in third seat a player is permitted to shade his call somewhat—in an attempt to compete for a part score or else, to secure a particular lead. In the present case, it was not difficult for East to foresee the desirability of inducing his partner to open a diamond in the event that South became the declarer. Altho a diamond opening

The Worry Clinic Two Nervous Systems Serve

Henry's logical question disturbed ancient Aristotle, who thus decided the heart was the seat of our soul. But there are two distinct nervous systems in the body which operate almost independently, except in a crisis. Then the "central" signals the "autonomic," which produces our heartache, as well as peptic ulcer, etc.

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph. D., M.C.
CASE 0-514: Henry R., aged 20, is a college senior.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "if the brain is supposed to be the seat of consciousness, as well as our personality, then why do we talk about heartache?"

"And a cute girl is often described as a 'heart throb' not a 'brain throb.'"

"Besides, when I see a thrilling play that reaches a high point of pathos, I feel a dull ache around my heart."

"But the only ache I ever get in my head is after much eyestrain at reading or viewing TV."

"So why is the heart involved in emotions if it is the brain that runs the show?"

Aristotle actually taught that the heart is the seat of the soul, for everybody has experienced the same reactions that Henry mentions.

Adam and Eve doubtless felt severe heartache at the funeral of their son Abel.

And mankind even yet tends to follow Aristotle's views, as shown by many words in our vocabulary, such as tenderhearted, hardhearted, warmhearted, etc.

Aristotle thus decided that it must be the heart that serves as the seat of the soul, for he figured it was in direct contact with every square inch of our body.

And he argued that the soul had to be located at some central spot where it could be aware of what went on at every distant point of our anatomy.

Since the heart is connected via blood vessels to every spot of the body, he used that argument to clinch his decision that the soul must reside in the heart.

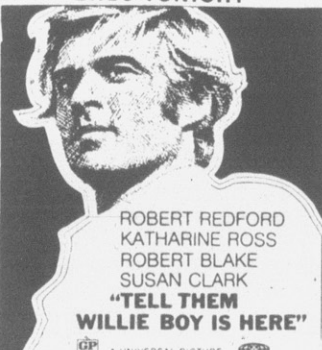

Actually, the brain is also in similar direct contact with all regions of the body.

But Aristotle dismissed the brain as being only a cooling chamber for the blood.

He figured that the brain, since it was gray and cool when taken out of the skull, must be

NO JUDGES
PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — For a short time in 1935, Rhode Island had no justices to sit on its Supreme Court. The general assembly, in an all-night session, declared vacant the seats on the court and that of the sheriff of Providence County. It later named new justices and another sheriff.

'Liberated Woman' Asks Deeds Be-Nice-To-A-Man Day

By ROY MALONE
Associated Press Writer
ST. LOUIS (AP) — A 42-year-old business executive who calls herself a "liberated woman" is asking other members of her sex to forego the strike called for Wednesday by the National Women's Strike Coalition and instead make it "be nice to a man day."

"You get more with sugar than vinegar," said Jean Cordes. As head of the Aunt Mary Division of Lisle Ramsey Portraits, Inc., Mrs. Cordes supervises about 350 women in some 100 cities.

While she supports some of the movement's goals for equality of the sexes, Mrs. Cordes said she can't go along with "their abrasive methods and their self-destructive bitterness."

"I'm afraid they're going to make all of us—the silent majority of women included—victims of a male backlash that is certain to result from their tirades," she said.

Strike activities include marches, rallies, seminars, and a boycott of products the movement contends insult women in their advertisements.

Mrs. Cordes, who has a son 16 and daughter 15, was divorced last fall. She said the breakup was not due to her years as a working wife.

She began with the firm 12 years ago, selling family portrait plans part time.

Mrs. Cordes says women should be paid the same as men when they do similar work, but women should "get ahead on their own without expecting special consideration."

Some jobs are just not for women, she contends.

"I have never quite understood what is bugging the women's lib leaders except that a lot of them really don't like men or probably feel that they are not getting ahead in the world as fast as they should," she said.

Despite her fast climb to the executive offices, Mrs. Cordes says, "I still want to be treated like a woman—for a man to open the door, notice my perfume, notice me." On Wednesday, she will treat "a pretty special man in my life" to dinner.

For others not manning the barricades she suggests a few ways of being nice to their men: dress up, use a good perfume, make a special dinner and keep the kids quiet.

Toclay In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Eleven senators and 30 representatives have signed a letter praising President Nixon for the U.S. effort to settle the Middle East conflict.

The letter terms the initiative a "landmark step toward world peace." The signers belong to a group called Members of Congress for Peace through Law, which has criticized the administration for its course in Southeast Asia.

Meanwhile Monday, a State Department spokesman said the Mideast proposals advanced by Sen. J. W. Fulbright would receive careful study.

The Arkansas Democrat said in a lengthy Senate speech Monday that the United Nations should move to restore and then patrol pre-war borders. The United States, he said, should guarantee Israel's security after she withdraws from occupied territories.

Meade Whitaker, tax legislative counsel, told a group of trade association executives Monday that the department might have solid proposals ready for the House Ways and Means Committee next spring.

Whitaker said that most tax-exempt groups—with the exception of foundations—received little scrutiny when the Tax Reform Act of 1969 was being debated in Congress.

The act imposed stern restrictions on foundations' political activities and their "self-dealing," or doing business with sponsors and affiliates.

Whitaker said Treasury is considering whether the self-dealing provision should be applied to all tax-exempt groups.

Set Hearing On N.C. Gas Needs
RALEIGH (AP) — A preliminary hearing is set for Sept. 15 before the Utilities Commission to determine natural gas needs in North Carolina next winter.

The firms are Public Service Co. Inc. of Gastonia, North Carolina, Natural Gas Co. of Fayetteville, Piedmont Natural Gas of Charlotte and United Gas Co. of Hendersonville.

The commission plans to establish guidelines to regulate any curtailment of service the companies might propose.
