Moiseyev Dancers And Audience Tear-Gassed

CHICAGO (AP) — A tear-gas grenade hurled from a balcony in the Civic Opera House forced evacuation of an audience of 3,500 Wednesday night and canceled a performance of the Moiseyev Dance Company. Five persons in the opening-night audience were treated for inhalation of fumes. A woman who said she was struck by the thrown canister just before it landed on the main floor also was treated and released. The Chicago Tribune reported shortly after the incident that it received a telephone call in which the caller said that if the Russian dance troupe did not leave, "the next one will not be a smoke bomb." Several dozen members of the Community Council of Jewish Organizations had picketed outside the theater to call attention to the plight of Jews in the Soviet Union. Abbot Rosen, Midwest director of the Anti-Defamation League of B'Nai B'Rith, said he was "morally certain that anyone in the group sponsoring the picketing could not possibly be responsible for this act." Opera House officials said the company's six remaining performances scheduled through Sunday would be held as planned. Witnesses said the bomb was thrown into the orchestra area about 40 minutes after the performance began. The audience filed out in an orderly fashion and without incident, officials said. Police recovered the grenade canister, which they said ap-

Want Troops

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Thailand has told the Saigon government it wants to withdraw "as many as possible" of its 12,000 troops in South Vietnam, Premier Thanom Kittikachorn told newsmen today. The premier said the situation in Thailand and neighboring Laos and Cambodia is becoming more tense, and Thailand wants its "battle-tested" troops to protect its frontiers. Thanom said his government has not yet fixed a date or number of troops for the pullout. He said this would be discussed with Vietnamese officials. Thanom, who also is defense minister, said he would ask the United States to increase aid to Thailand as more U.S. troops are pulled out of his country. About 6,000 were withdrawn during the past year.

The apparent boycott of Sadie Sautler School continued today as attendance figures revealed 338 on hand, a drop of 9 from yesterday's figure of 347. With a projected student body of more than 450, the absentee figure represents about one quarter of the student body. At Wahl-Coates, Dr. Rexford Piner noted that attendance seems "lower than expected." He stated that 499 were on hand today, about the same as yesterday, but that the student body is anticipated to reach about 575. "Much of the absenteeism may be due to students having moved away and failed to notify us, and also some of the university families are not yet in and established," Dr. Piner noted. Principal Robert Alligood at Rose High said buses arriving late is "something of a problem," and stated "it is absolutely essential that students be at bus stops on time. Otherwise the driver will simply have to leave them, there is no other choice." He commented that other than this school beginning was going smoothly. Both Alligood and Aycock Junior High principal John Jones revealed that data processing has not been altogether effective in schedule planning, but that students were cooperative and patient in getting assignments worked out. Jones said "we're getting this matter just about straightened out today." Other elementary schools in Greenville all reported normal attendance, with no problems other than the normal ones always encountered in the first two or three days of settling into a routine.

Charged With Written Threats

RALEIGH (AP) — Wake County's collector of delinquent taxes is to be arraigned in U.S. Eastern District Court Sept. 14 on charges that he wrote letters threatening to kill two university officials. John Alfred Robertson was indicted by a federal grand jury Wednesday. The indictment charges that Robertson wrote signed letters last May to Dr. William Friday, president of the Consolidated University of North Carolina, and Dr. John Caldwell, chancellor of North Carolina State University.

Building Permit Decline In July

The value of permits issued then dropped 8.7 per cent compared to the corresponding month last year. Believe 32 Dead In Helicopter's Wreck

By GEORGE ESPER Associated Press Writer SAIGON (AP) — Thirty-two Americans were believed dead today in one of the worst helicopter crashes of the Vietnam war, but the U.S. Command announced that American battlefield casualties last week dropped to their lowest level in 4 1/2 years. The weekly casualty report said 52 Americans were killed in action last week and another 358 were wounded. A spokesman said it was the lowest casualty total since the week ending March 5, 1966, when 61 Americans were killed and 177 wounded. Enemy and South Vietnamese casualties also were down. The U.S. Command said allied forces killed 1,055 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong last week, the lowest in more than three years, while the Saigon government reported 247 of its troops killed, the lowest in a month, and 745 wounded. The American report did not include the casualties in the shooting down Wednesday of the 50-foot-long, 14-ton Chinook helicopter. Two bodies were recovered, seven men were injured, and 30 other Americans were listed as missing and presumed dead. The big U.S. Army helicopter was hit by an enemy rocket grenade as it was coming in for a landing at Fire Base Judy, in the northern part of the country. It was transporting troops being withdrawn from Kham Duc, a base 13 miles east of the Laotian border which allied forces abandoned Wednesday. The chopper crashed just outside the artillery base, spraying wreckage in several directions. A rotor blade hurtled into the base, killing two soldiers stationed there and wounding five others. There were 32 Americans aboard the twin-rotor transport, and only the copilot and one passenger, an infantryman, were rescued. Both were injured. Late today no word had been received on recovery of missing bodies. In the worst helicopter crash of the war, 41 Americans were killed on Jan. 8, 1969, when a CH53 troop carrier crashed into a mountain. On May 7, 1969, two Americans and 38 South Vietnamese troops were killed when a CH47 hit a tree while taking off near Khe Sanh. The Kham Duc base is a former Special Forces camp which was abandoned in 1968 under heavy enemy attack.

New Health Insurance Bill Offered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation to create a comprehensive national health insurance program, with benefits effective in mid-1973, was introduced today by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

The program would cover all citizens, without individual limit, over the entire range of health services except for certain nursing home care, mental and dental treatment and some medicines and equipment. Kennedy estimated it would pay 70 per cent of all health expenditures in the nation, roughly twice the amount now paid by the Medicare and Medicaid programs for the elderly and indigent, which would be terminated.

Joining Kennedy as principal sponsors of the plan were Sens. Ralph Yarborough, D-Texas, John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio. Kennedy, in prepared remarks for the Senate floor, said the program would be financed through a trust fund similar to that for social security.

Forty per cent of the income would be derived from federal general revenues, 35 per cent of it from a 3.5 per cent tax on employers' payrolls, and 25 per cent from a 2.1 per cent tax on individual income up to $15,000 a year. Based on 1969 figures, said Kennedy, the plan would have paid out $37 billion. Kennedy emphasized that his bill would not create a national health service of government-owned facilities and government-employed doctors. "On the contrary," he said,

"the program proposes a working partnership between the public and private sectors." It would replace, he said, "the large amount of wasteful and inefficient expenditures already being made by private citizens, by employers, by voluntary private agencies, and by federal, state and local governments."

"Only in this way can we begin to guarantee our citizens better value for their health dollar." Kennedy said "with only four exceptions, there are no restrictions on needed services—no cut off points, no coinsurance, no deductibles, and no waiting periods."

The senator declared that "America faces many serious and critical domestic problems, but none is more pervasive or more difficult than the deterioration of our once proud system of health care."

The Nixon administration so far has shunned notions of a national health plan for all citizens. However, the President has indicated he will propose legislation next year—in connection with his welfare reform plan—to scrap Medicaid for a new program aimed at doubling the number of poor persons for whom health services would be available.

Youth Disorders

ROYAL OAK, Mich. (AP) — Police say more than 500 teenagers have been arrested in three nights of disturbances that led to the imposition of curfews in two Detroit suburbs.

The rock and bottle-throwing rampages began Monday night after police closed Memorial Park, a popular gathering place for youths in Royal Oak. Police said they had received reports of disturbances and open drug use and sales there. James Soule, assistant police chief of Royal Oak, said at least 400 youths were arrested Wednesday night after a clash with police in Royal Oak and adjacent Birmingham. Soule said most of the 400, and 100 others arrested Monday and Tuesday, were charged with curfew violations. Several arrests were made for suspicion of narcotics possession, he added. Two policemen and an undetermined number of youths were reported injured Wednesday, none critically. Witnesses said windows in nine stores were broken, and four or five gasoline bombs were thrown but did no apparent damage.

Tobacco Prices Remain Steady

percent of gross sales on the Farmville market yesterday when 707,578 pounds of tobacco was sold for $531,100, giving an average of $75.06. The Wilson market yesterday averaged $75.74 per hundred pounds of leaf sold. A total of 1,761,733 pounds of tobacco was sold for the amount of $1,334,367. A tabulation of sales on the various markets in the Eastern Belt as reported by the Federal State Market News Service includes:

Prices were relatively steady on the Farmville market yesterday, according to Louis Williams, sales supervisor. "About 60 percent of the volume was leaf grade," Williams said. "Primings and lugs accounted for less of the volume yesterday than on Tuesday's sale." Stabilization received 6.93

Ask To Picket Daily Reflector

A group of Negroes have applied for a permit to "parade, picket, or demonstrate" at the Daily Reflector offices on Cotanche Street, according to Police Chief T. E. Gladson. Gladson said the application lists the reasons for the request as: "to make the public aware of the injustices of the Daily Reflector towards black citizens in news reporting and employment and to call for a broad change in policy that seem to exist especially to keep blacks suppressed."

The objective of the request, according to the application was

Alleged Confession Ruled Admissable As Trial Evidence

By STUART SAVAGE Reflector Staff Writer

According to Deputy Sheriff D. D. Respass, Elmo Barber, on trial in Pitt County Superior Court on charges of rape and burglary, admitted to officers on May 2 that he and another man took part in an assault on Mrs. Ann Baker Barry on April 27. Deputy Respass testified before the jury yesterday after Judge Joshua S. James ruled that Barber's alleged confession was admissible.

Barber replied: "That's the first time I ever heard my voice on a tape, but I reckon it is." Respass related to the court how Barber told officers he and another man went to the home where Mrs. Barry was asleep, forced their way in, and assaulted her. State Bureau of Investigation agent Dan Gilbert, also testified yesterday. The agent said Barber, riding in a car, directed the (SBI agent Gilbert) and other officers along the route Barber said he was driven on the way to the Windsor Road home prior to the attack. Gilbert said Barber told investigators that the car in which he was riding was parked on Dundee Lane, some 1,800 feet from the home where Mrs. Barry was asleep and that Barber and his companion walked that distance to the home. Before lunch today, Myron T. Scholberg, a hair and fiber examiner with the Federal Bureau of Investigation in

Southside Planning Resolutions Voted

By JERRY RAYNOR Reflector Staff Writer

Two resolutions were approved by Planning and Zoning Commission last night — both dealing with the "E" designated area of Greenville, commonly called Bama and Mill Village, now being termed "Southside" in city project plans. The first resolution, or preliminary one, declared the area as one suitable for public housing, in consonance with the overall plan of Greenville. The second resolution, describes the area as the first development project approved several years ago under the General Neighborhood Rehabilitation Program (GNRP).

The area is bounded on the north by the Norolk - Southern Railroad, on the east by Forbes and Evans Streets, on the south by the back property lines of Deck Street and the Kearney Housing Project, and on the west by Perkins Avenue. In approving the two resolutions, both jointly requested for consideration by the Redevelopment Commission and Housing Authority, the Planning and Zoning Commission does not commit this area to any immediate plans. In certifying the area as one meeting the criteria for rehabilitation, the commission makes it possible for the City Council to take the next step in working up a plan and slating further action on the road to eventual realization. It was pointed out the recognition of this area does not in any way tie up any of the projected work down to this area alone. There are five designated areas, A through E, any of which could become the subject of eventual action in connection with plans. Colonel A E Dubber, chairman of the Redevelopment Commission, pointed out that more than $2,000,000 in reserve funds have been earmarked by the federal government for eventual use in continuing work on urban renewal, and that last night's action is but one small part of the total chain of events. The possible use of scattered housing sites entered the discussion of the preliminary resolution. Scattered housing envisages building individual or small apartment units on lots and areas now occupied by sub-standard buildings or where no building exists at all. Citing some of the advantages of eventual rehabilitation of the approximately 180 acre area, City Manager Harry Hagerty noted this area "is the last hold-out in dirt streets." Noting that much can be done to the area, he concluded that "people in the area desperately need help to improve their homes." Philip E. Carroll again made a presentation on Section One of the proposed development plan of the area between South Evans

Carroll's proposal hinged primarily on plans to begin work on a section of street which will eventually form part of the long-range connection street from Greenville Boulevard, across South Evans and on to Arlington Street at Hooker Road and then to Memorial Drive. The portion of the overall plan presented last night was approved by the Planning and Zoning Commission members with a stipulation that the location of a ten foot easement be worked out with the Utilities Commission. Dr. Benj. Fountain To Head Dept. Of Community Colleges

RALEIGH (AP) — The president of Lenoir Community College at Kinston, Dr. Benjamin E. Fountain Jr., will become director of the North Carolina Department of Community Colleges Jan. 1.

Since then, $3 million has been provided for land and buildings, enrollment has grown to 1,400, and there are 65 fulltime teachers. In a recent interview, Fountain said that he believes in the community college system and in its sometimes criticized "open door policy" that admits students other institutions may find scholastically unacceptable. "It's a policy of opportunity, not a policy of guaranteed success," Fountain said. "It is a very commendable effort on the part of the state to open up educational opportunity."

The department announced Wednesday that Fountain, 41, will succeed the retiring Dr. I. E. Ready, who has held the $24,500-a-year post since its creation in 1963. Fountain, a native of Rocky Mount, has headed Lenoir Community College since it was established five years ago. Ready recently referred to the college as one of the fastest growing of the 54 institutions in the state system. When Fountain went to Kinston in 1965 he found a technical institute which had been approved for expansion to a two-year college. There were 18 acres, one building, an enrollment of 250 and 10 fulltime teachers.

Fountain took the job at Kinston after serving as superintendent of schools in Elizabeth City and as professor of education at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, his alma mater. Earlier he had been a teacher in Nash County schools, principal of a Rocky Mount elementary school and executive secretary of the North Carolina State School Boards Association.

Herring-Rogers Vows Said Visit Turns Into A Soupy Tale

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd. Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Last month I started to work in a large insurance office, and right off the bat I became attracted to a good looking young department head. Not bragging, but I've got a lot going for me, too. I'm 24, single, and a well-built redhead who never lacked for attention.

Well, "Department Head" and I started seeing each other a lot, but always at my place. [He was sort of secretive about where he lived.]

Yesterday he called in sick with a chest cold, so I decided to surprise him with some chicken soup. [I got his address from the office files.]

When I rang his bell, I was the one who got the surprise! A tall, skinny blonde about my age answered his door in a bath towel. At first she wasn't going to let me in, but I pushed her aside and went right to the bedroom to see my sick friend. He was sick all right, and he got sicker when he saw me. The bedroom looked plenty "lived in," if you know what I mean. Her stuff thrown all over the place along with his.

"Department Head" said Blondie was a childhood chum who had come to town to hunt a job, was low on funds, so he was putting her up temporarily. Now, Abby, how does this story sound to you? RED

DEAR RED: Fishy. "Department Head" could have helped the blonde by giving her a few dollars for a pad of her own. [P. S. Too bad you didn't know in advance that you were going to cook his goose. You could have skipped the chicken soup.]

DEAR ABBY: I know a woman who goes to "A. A." meetings all the time, and she's not an alcoholic. This is the truth, Abby. She told me so herself, but she asked me not to tell anybody. She has never had a drinking problem, but she says she goes there because she's "lonesome" and nobody asks her any questions.

She says she has met a lot of very nice men that way—and women, too. What do you think of such a person? JUST WONDERING

DEAR JUST: She must be very lonesome. [And clever, too.]

DEAR ABBY: My mother in law isn't really a mean person, she's just ignorant. How else can you describe a person who introduces me and my children this way?

"This is my daughter in law and her two adopted children."

Abby, I have to bite my lip to keep from crying when I hear her say this.

My children are only one year old and two and a half—still a little too young to know what "adopted" means, but as soon as they are old enough to understand, I intend to tell them. But in the meantime, what can be done about such a stupid woman? YOUNG MOTHER

DEAR YOUNG: Someone should tell her in a nice way to disengage her mouth until she's sure her brain is in gear.

DEAR ABBY: My heart goes out to that poor mixed up teen-aged girl whose father called her a tramp because she slept with different boys. I was in that girl's shoes when I was in my teens and my father never called me a tramp. He helped me all the way because he knew I was a troubled, mixed-up kid.

I am now a happy wife and mother and I hope my father is proud of me now because I am very proud of him.

Girls who are called tramps by their fathers usually stay tramps all their lives. God bless my dad. DADDY'S GIRL

LA GRANGE — In a candlelight ceremony on Saturday at the La Grange United Methodist Church, Miss Vicki Sue Rogers became the bride of Lewis Whitfield Herring Jr.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. Billy Newton Rogers of Jacksonville, Fla., and Mrs. Hazel LoMurro of Germany. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Lewis Whitfield Herring of Greenville and the late Mr. Herring.

The Rev. John Smith officiated at the double ring ceremony.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. B. C. Langston, great aunt of the bride, organist, and Mrs. M. C. Boone, aunt of the bride, soloist. She sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer." Both aunts are from Kinston.

Michael Abbott, acolyte, lighted the altar candle and wedding candles.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an original empire A-line silhouette gown of white imported peau de soie enhanced with snowflake lace and halo neckline. The fingertip sleeves and neckline were designed with inset pieces of sheer net and bordered with snowflake lace. The empire waistline was trimmed with the lace and the train was attached to the lace. The flowing train was styled with inset net and bordered with lace on each side.

Her shoulder length veil of veilette illusion was attached to a halo crown of sheer net petals and seed pearls surrounding her forehead. She carried a Bible centered with a bouquet of white rosebuds and pink sweetheart roses tied with satin ribbon and showered with tuberoses.

Miss Billie Jean Rogers of Jacksonville, Fla., sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaid was Miss Karen Underwood of Jacksonville, Fla. They both wore identical harvest green satin peau de soie floor length gowns designed with round necklines and short ballerina sleeves accented with empire bows.

They wore headpieces of miniature bows placed throughout their hair. They carried yellow mums tied with yellow ribbon.

The best man was Henry J. Abbott Jr. of La Grange. Ushers were Richard Douglas Rogers, both of the bride, of Jacksonville, Fla., and James P. Anderson Jr. of Raleigh.

After the wedding, the couple received in the church foyer.

For her granddaughter's wedding, Mrs. Jessie L. Rogers selected a lavender silk crepe dress with purple accessories.

Mrs. Herring, mother of the bridegroom, chose a long-sleeved mint green silk crepe dress with mint green accessories.

Following a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside in La Grange. The bride graduated from Mitchell's Hair Styling Academy of Kinston. She is employed at J. C. Penny's Hair Styling Salon. The bridegroom is presently engaged in farming.

On Friday night in after-rehearsal party was held at the Woodmen of the World Building in La Grange honoring the bridal couple, wedding party and guests by the bridegroom's mother. A pink and white color scheme was used.

The bride's table was covered with a cutwork imported cloth. Mrs. Dennis Wilburn poured punch from a cut glass bowl and Mrs. Billy Newton Rogers of Jacksonville, Fla., served wedding cake.

Portrait Painter Tells About Families He Often Lives With

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Summer is a great time to have your portrait painted. People are more relaxed, and artists are available at many resorts where they set up their easels. Some artists are in demand as house guests. They may be invited to spend a vacation at a home as they paint the family scene—children, animals, house—and they can earn a fee, even as they enjoy.

The itinerant artist of the 18th century who painted the family scene as he moved across the country, may have blazed the trail, but he surely could not have been more pampered than today's artist.

"There's only one problem with being a house guest artist," explains Paul Longenecker of New York City, who was born in Greensboro, N.C. "It is difficult to persuade a family that you didn't really come to their home for a good time. You actually want to paint ... right away."

Longenecker has painted actresses, society figures and friends, and in many instances he has been transported to posh homes by the jet set's own planes. His paint box folds to suit-case size, but it can accommodate a five-foot painting.

He wastes no time in setting up his temporary studio in the house, often in a corner of the family room, and he is soon part of the family picture. There usually is a small party to introduce him to friends—artists from New York are considered very glamorous, he points out. Before long, he has become a pal to the children and animals and he has determined what the family's special interests are—sometimes it is the house, he says.

One problem about painting in a home is that everyone wants to peek at the artistic work while it is in progress, and this stymies the creative effort. If it is a portrait, he is likely to "pull a haughty act" and become adamant that it cannot be seen. No adult is ever satisfied "with the cruel likeness of a painting in the rough stage," he says. Pleasing a family is the biggest problem any artist faces, even when the painting is finished.

"Some people identify their own looks with another person's. People don't really know what they look like. One woman was shocked at the heavy eyelids in her portrait. She had always covered them with makeup and hadn't really seen them in their true light," he says.

Mothers often are disappointed in their children's portraits—one or another feature may suddenly loom large in the painting. And if there is a complaint about a portrait, it is usually a mouth, he says.

"People seldom notice anyone's mouth until they examine it in a picture. They will look at the picture and comment that 'the eyes are fine, the nose is good, the ears aren't bad, but there is something about the mouth' I always keep people talking when I paint them because the mouth must be relaxed. It's the way I can tell whether they part their lips normally or which side curves up more."

Getting people in the mood to be painted is another task of the artist. He must tell mother that he cannot paint the little girl in a party dress or the little boy in shirt and tie that will make them feel uncomfortable. He prefers children in casual clothes that will make them feel relaxed. The same is true of adults—he doesn't like to paint a woman who has just come from a beauty salon, and he doesn't like to paint a man who is wearing a tie or has just had his hair cut.

People should avoid the artist's easel when they are under emotional stress—they can make them look 20 years older, he says. And a good night's sleep is really essential before a portrait sitting. Longenecker is noted, too, for his beautiful florals, and he often does gardens of homes. After a successful show at the Lobster Pot Gallery in Nantucket, he was invited to live at the home of the director, George Vigouroux, where he painted the family's waterfront home. He also used the studio at the gallery to paint local color and people.

Cookbooks Tell Of Foods And Fads

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Cookbooks tell the story of America's favorite foods, fads and cooking habits, says collector A. H. Perrin.

That's why Perrin, a retired New York business executive who now lives in Berea, Ky., began collecting firsts among American cookbooks.

Some of the volumes he owns are curiosities, compiled by or for home cooks in unique situations.

"Operation Vittles" is one. It was published in 1949 by a group of American women in Berlin during the blockade. It's a mish-mash of homey American dishes such as cornbread, spoonbread and brownies, some foreign recipes from military missions and governments and a few improvisations whose contents are most inventive. Heave-knows-What Chicken starts out sensibly enough with chicken and celery. Then you add—among other things—pork sausage, mushrooms, chili sauce, parsley, shrimp and oysters.

Perrin also has a copy of the first American temperance cookbook, published in 1900 by the Women's Christian Temperance Union (WCTU). Its drinks chapter, two pages long, includes two recipes for "unfermented wine"—a euphemism for fruit beverages.

But don't write the WCTU off as unimaginative. One sandwich recipe calls for a filling of butter, anchovy paste and a layer of nasturtium leaves.

Three years before the WCTU book was published, a vegetarian cookbook had suggested, among other things, a sandwich of buttered bread filled with two-thirds nasturtium blossoms, one-third nasturtium leaves.

The same year, Anna K. Eccles wrote what really was the first American hamburger cookbook, although the ground meat patties she gave directions for were called Salisbury steak. Her book was based on a health diet advocated by a Dr. Salisbury. It was built around simple fare, including finely ground lean meat, cooked in 1-inch thick patties.

The first American military cookbook, also in the Perrin collection, was "The Soldier's Health Companion," by Dr. J. Walter Scott, who interspersed medical advice with recipes and menus in his Civil War publication. Cookbooks often were compiled or translated by doctors, as early as the 17th century, reports Eleanor Lowenstein, a New York book dealer who specializes in out-of-print and rare books. It was through Miss Lowenstein that I learned of the Perrin collection.

The Perrin collection also contains a copy of the first American cooking school textbook, called "Cooking School Text Book and Housekeepers' Guide," its author was Juliet Corson, who in the late 1800s taught in a New York training institution for women, then opened her own cooking school with classes for well-to-do women, domestic servants and the wives and daughters of working men, children and men and women "interested in high class cookery possibly for professional reasons." Eggs were selling then for a penny each, milk was 4 cents a pint and ribs of beef 16 cents a pound. Miss Corson's book, like her classes, provided shopping information as well as meal-planning and cooking guidance.

Pitt Schools Really Qualify

There is no question that Pitt County schools should share in the funds which Congress has made available to aid in school desegregation.

Thus the Pitt County Board of Education made application for $400,000 to $500,000 in federal emergency school assistance program funds to aid in the desegregation now being carried out.

The funds were included in the education bill which was passed over the president's veto. It is designed to assist school districts in meeting their needs and solving problems of desegregation.

To be eligible a district must be carrying out the final phases of a desegregation plan. Since this is what is underway in the Pitt County schools, then Pitt should be eligible for the funds.

Supt. Arthur Alford told the board of education

Wants Larger Voter Turnout

By BRYAN HAISLIP
 RALEIGH — Two million Tar Heels, in round numbers, will be registered and qualified to vote in the November 3 general election.

If local campaigns stir up enough interest, and the weather's nice on election day, perhaps 900,000 of them will do so.

The rest will simply let it slip their minds, just be "too busy to vote," or stay away deliberately as a protest or for other reasons.

Alex Brock figures he can't do much about the last group, but he's busy working on the first two.

As executive secretary of the State Board of Elections, Brock is asking county boards and election officials to actively initiate programs to inform the public and encourage them to vote. Not how to vote, Brock noted — the election process is scrupulously non-partisan, and by statute specifically bipartisan — but to exercise the privilege of the ballot.

Informing the public will be one of the themes when elections officials from the 100 counties meet in Greensboro on September 11 for a pre-general election seminar. Brock takes the view that the duties of those in charge of elections is not only to provide and operate the machinery, but to encourage its widest possible use.

Information Aids
 "We are asking local elections officials to contact news media in their communities for assistance," Brock said. "I find that the news media is not only willing but eager to help."

He is convinced that an energetic effort to inform the public could be a factor in boosting the total vote.

A turn-out of 45 per cent would be typical for an off-year general election, Brock agreed. That statewide percentage likely will vary from as low as 25 per cent in counties without spirited local contests to as high as 60 per cent in counties where there are lively races.

In the last off-year election, 1966, the total vote in the 11 Congressional districts was 916,449.

By comparison, the 1968 Presidential election drew a total North Carolina vote of 1,587,493.

November 3 may seem a long way off, but not to Brock. Preparations already have him up to his ears — literally, with a daily barrage of telephone calls. Registration procedure, proper form for local ballots, printing and distributing Congressional district and statewide ballots are among the details which must be attended to.

Ballots Readied
 Three ballots will be provided by the state board to local election officials. The first is for the vote on seven amendments to the state Constitution. The second is the statewide judicial ballot for Supreme Court justices, Court of Appeals and Superior Court judges, a total of 29 offices. The third is the Congressional ballot, a different one for each of the 11 districts.

Working with Owen G. Dunn Printing Company of New Bern, for many years ballot printer to the state, Brock must smooth out the logistics for an ample supply of ballots and their timely distribution. Enough ballots are printed for the state's 2,228 precincts plus a reserve for emergencies.

By itself, the printing and distribution is a big job. "Invariably something happens," Brock said. Once shipments to 33 counties went astray, and highway patrol and other emergency transportation was called on to meet the deadline.

A first supply of ballots must be on hand for county elections boards by September 1, the earliest date to accept requests from military personnel for absentee ballots.

Registration
 For the neophyte voter — reaching their 21st birthday by November 3, or filling the one-year residence requirement by that date — the first step is registration.

Sixty-two counties have full-time or modified full-time registration, which means citizens may register any time during office hours of the county board of elections. In these counties books will close on Monday, October 5, and registration must be accomplished by that deadline in order to participate in the general election.

The 38 counties not now on full-time registration will open books at polling places on Saturday, October 10, and the two following Saturdays. During the week-day, voters may register at the home of the precinct registrar.

Effective January 1, all 100 counties will go on the full-time registration plan.

that the special funds would be used for extracurricular activities such as band, chorus, drama, team and individual sports, arts and crafts.

Since a vital part of Pitt's desegregation plan is the building for four entirely new high schools, some of these activities have not been available to many students before.

Funds are also being requested to add personnel including teachers aides, bus monitors and individuals to work with student activities. Funds would also be used to purchase materials for special education and for other purposes.

Certainly in anything so major as completely reorganizing a school system as Pitt County is doing now, unusual expenses are going to be encountered and it is proper that Congress has had the wisdom to vote funds for assisting affected school districts.

Long Way To Go For A Negotiated Peace

There may be some small hope for world peace in the announcements that Middle East peace talks have gotten underway and Hanoi's representative has returned to the peace talks in Paris.

The quest for peace in both of these negotiations may be long and frustratingly elusive. However, as long as talks are underway there is hope for settling two of the most vexing problems facing the world today.

Both the Vietnam and the Middle East wars can be settled at the conference table. In both cases, however, the way will be difficult.

Welfare Plan At The Brink

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
 WASHINGTON — In a late desperate move to save President Nixon's welfare reform from Senate suffocation that will insure unpleasant political consequences well into the future, the White House is turning to an idea by liberal Democratic Sen. Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut as its last best hope.

Ribicoff's scheme, unveiled in the Senate last week just before the summer recess, is simple enough. He would delay for a year the effective date of Mr. Nixon's revolutionary family assistance plan making income maintenance payments to the working poor, the heart of the welfare reform. For 1971, he would test the plan in three pilot projects before going into effect nationwide.

Since Ribicoff's speech, top officials in the White House and Department of Health, Education, and Welfare have started looking toward his scheme as possible salvation from their misery. George Schultz, powerful head of the Office of Budget and Management (OBM), paid a visit to Ribicoff's Capitol Hill office to talk it over.

The Administration is hoping against hope that Ribicoff's one-year delay might be enough to win over the recalcitrant Republican minority on the Senate Finance Committee, including their unyielding leader, Sen. John Williams of Delaware. Everything else, so far, has failed.

Unless Williams and his Republican friends are neutralized by something similar to the Ribicoff plan, prospects for the reform package are poor as time runs out in this Congress. And if the program is not passed by this Congress, it surely will not be passed in the new Congress elected in November. The House simply would not go through another welfare reform fight.

That would mean Mr. Nixon would be deprived of his one landmark piece of social legislation. But it also promises more concrete trouble. If the welfare reform dies in the Senate, the Nixon administration's problems in the House the next two years will be grotesquely magnified.

The reason is that many conservative Republicans and some moderate Democrats in the House voted for the welfare reform on April 16 against the wishes of business lobbyists and perhaps their own inclinations only because the White House pleaded with them. If the bill now dies in the Senate, they will be left on the hook with a politically unappealing vote for naught. When the White House comes around to secure their votes on other difficult measures, the reception will be frosty.

Such practical considerations have led Mr. Nixon to make a vigorous, though belated, fight to save family assistance payments in the Senate. Two weeks ago, Williams and other Republicans on the Finance Committee were summoned to the White House for a Presidential sales pitch — commonplace in Kennedy-Johnson days but a rarity in the Nixon era.

Williams opened the meeting by reciting in his high-pitched voice a complaint that Administration officials have memorized by now: the President's plan amounts to a disincentive encouraging the poor not to work. The President replied that, though the bill was not perfect, it did improve the existing mess and must be passed this year.

He convinced nobody, and the bill remains buried in the Finance Committee. That's why the Administration has seized on Ribicoff's proposal as a way out of the impasse. Word has seeped into the White House that Williams, about to retire to his Delaware chicken farm after 24 uncompromising years in the Senate, might just accept a one-year delay.

At this writing, no Administration official had

Strength For Today

The Riches Of Laughter
 A friend of mine died last year, and my word to his widow was, "I wish he could have left me his laugh." He had a way of throwing back his head and laughing until the hearts of those round about him tingled with delight and took on new hope. He was a man of very serious purpose. Few men I know had suffered more than he. The last twenty-five years of his life constituted a brave struggle against adversity, and he died well before the three-score-years-and-ten because the fight got too much for his heart. Through it all he trusted God, lived his life from day to day — and laughed.

The animals cannot laugh. Man alone, made in the image of God, can laugh. It is part of his divine-human equipment. When he fell from his state of perfection in the Garden of Eden, God mercifully allowed man to keep his capacity to laugh. He might not need it in the Garden, or in Heaven, but he certainly would need it amid the sad and mixed-up affairs of the world. Abraham Lincoln once said that if he could not laugh once in a while at a good story or an amusing circumstance, he would never be able to carry the grave responsibilities which were his.

Christianity lays its great emphasis on joy, and while joy is vastly more than laughing, it frequently involves laughing. Happy the person who has a good laugh which he unleashes a hundred times a day until it floats over the heads and hearts of his friends to cheer them and beguile them to new hopes.

A 'Plastic Jungle Bill'

One of the bills that will be waiting for the House, when its members troop back from vacation, is known as the "plastic jungle bill." Its purpose is to ban the unsolicited mailing of credit cards. The Senate already has passed such a measure; the House is likely to add its approval.

Now, this is one of the season's less important bills. Pass or fail, it will bring the New Jerusalem no closer. Yet the luxurious growth of the plastic jungle, which impels this bill belatedly into law, is a phenomenon that merits reflection. It is one more measure of our changing times that Congress should be acting to prohibit a practice that five years ago, only 197 banks offered credit card plans. At the end of 1967, they had $600 million in charges outstanding. By the end of 1969, more than 1,200 banks were offering such plans; their billings were up to $2.6 million. No one seems to know how many Americans actually are using bank credit cards, but the number is well into the millions.

This astonishing growth has resulted largely from mass mailings by the banks of unsolicited credit cards. These plastic tickets to instant indebtedness have turned up in remarkable places. Tony Benitez of Tampa, age 5, received a Master Charge card with an invitation to take a trip to Europe: Buy now, pay later. In Chicago, one affluent citizen received no fewer than 18 credit cards from the same bank; his three sons, 9, 11 and 13, shared in the jackpot.

The cards have created a headache for postal inspectors. Thousands of cards are stolen annually from the mails, before the prospective recipients even know of their existence. In the underworld, hot cards sell for $25 to $100. They travel across country at jet speed; it is commonplace for a resident of Los Angeles to find himself billed for good purchased in his name in Florida or New York. One consequence is that every participating bank has to maintain a staff of tactful appeasers whose job is to soothe the angry victims.

The illegal use of credit cards is a serious and growing problem; of greater concern to House and Senate committees is the role of the credit card in personal finance and in monetary policy.

Other Editors Say Return The Crown

(The Charlotte News)
 "Of all royal crowns, none is more renowned than the holy crown of St. Stephen and none has a like history of falling into the oddest hands and disappearing." — History of the Crown Jewels of Europe.

While Hungarians this week celebrate the 1,000th anniversary of the birth of their first king, St. Stephen, his crown remains in perhaps the oddest hands of all: Those of the U.S. State Department which presumably has the priceless artifact stashed away in Fort Knox. Precisely how it got the crown, the department refuses to say. It also declines to say precisely where the crown is, and precisely what it intends to do with it.

"The crown is the property of the Hungarian nation and Hungarian national treasure," a State Department spokesman admitted to Los Angeles Times reporter Robert C. Toth, investigating the matter. The official added the crown is in U.S. "trust and safekeeping" because "unsettled conditions in Hungarian-American relations" make its return "inappropriate and inopportune."

Holding hostage a 1,000-year-old royal crown in a vault where it cannot be seen by historians and art-lovers in hopes of improving relations with a Communist regime with which the U.S. trades and maintains diplomatic relations is childish. Fears expressed by Hungarian emigres and Hungarian-Americans that the crown's return might "legitimize" the Budapest government are misdirected. The State Department should return the crown and be done with it.

In Lexington, Ky., a referee in bankruptcy was startled to see that a nurse had run up a $1,500 bill on a BankAmericard. Among her purchases were six transistor radios, one with a white-carrying case for work, one for her blue outfits, one for her red outfits, and so on. Her card had a $300 limit, but apparently no one noticed.

The total number thus indirectly employed by the government cannot be ascertained, but it runs into the millions.

In addition, there is the United Nations and a host of other international organizations, supported in generous part by the federal government, that employ thousands more.

Reds Test Multiple Warheads

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird says the Soviets have test-fired multiple warheads on their basic SS11 intercontinental ballistic missile for the first time.
And his top Pentagon scientist says at the present pace the Soviets could not only outstrip the United States in strategic and tactical weaponry by 1976 but in secret technology as well.
Laird announced Wednesday an American destroyer saw three objects drop in the Pacific near Midway Island last Friday from an SS11, the Russian equivalent of the U.S. Minuteman.
It is not known, he said, if the objects were weapons or if they were aimed and not simply dropped.

"If (they) do deploy this system and it does have three weapons," Laird told a news conference, "(they) accelerate the number of warheads by three times."
This would be more than 2,100 warheads using Laird's figure of "well over 700" Soviet SS11s, or 2,400 using the figure given congressional committees, this spring of 800 Soviet SS11s as of February this year.
The Soviets previously tested multiple warheads on their giant SS9—more than twice the size of the SS11 and the Minuteman—but have not deployed them. Deployment of multiple warheads on U.S. Minuteman III missiles is under way.

The United States has about 1,000 Minuteman missiles, of which 10 have been outfitted so far with three warheads each that can be targeted independently on enemy points.
Dr. John Foster, the Pentagon's top scientist as director of defense research, said, meanwhile, he is concerned not with the present U.S.-Soviet "rough parity" but with the momentum of the Soviet weapons buildup while the United States stands still.
"The time is right to try to work out something with the Soviets," he said, referring to the current U.S.-Soviet arms limitation talks. "But they still have the momentum." Foster told 300 students.
Foster, admitting "I'm a research man," said he is particularly concerned with what he called the intelligence lead the Soviets could have in 1976. He said it would leave America not only behind in strategic and tactical weaponry but unable to catch up if the Soviets were suddenly found to have some new decisive weapons.

Foster said most people, including scientists, who have taken strong stands against the Safeguard antimissile system "don't know a damn thing about it."
He said the system has consistently proved workable in tests since 1961 and said that is why the administration asked expansion of two additional sites this year rather than await tests at the first two sites approved last year.

contacted Williams himself. Most likely, however, Williams would insist that, after Ribicoff's three pilot projects in 1971 are completed, the Congress consider the whole matter again — a formula that would accomplish nothing and, as such, is unacceptable to the Administration. Whether the White House could sell Williams on Ribicoff's automatic 1972 starting time is dubious.

It is the virtually unlimited potential of bank card credit that troubles both Congress and the Federal Reserve Board. In terms of total consumer credit for non-durable goods, the credit card liabilities are not yet large — about 2.6 per cent of the $100 billion outstanding. But if all the credit card holders suddenly decided to charge to their permissible limits, or beyond, the finest tuned monetary policy could be thrown into confusion.

The bill that passed the Senate in April, sponsored by Proxmire of Wisconsin, would flatly prohibit the mailing of unsolicited cards; it would limit a consumer's liability for unauthorized use to $50; and it would create a new Federal crime, punishable by a year in prison, for fraudulent use of a credit card. The pending House bill follows generally the same lines. Neither measure would exactly tidy up the plastic jungle, but the regulations would provide a little safer path for the wary.

Vandalism Charged 3

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Three teen-agers were arrested by Mecklenburg County police Wednesday and charged in vandalism that heavily damaged two public schools last weekend.

Charged with store-breaking, a charge that applies to school break-ins, and with larceny and damage to property were William Miller Harris Jr., 17, a student at Central Piedmont Community College, John B. Walters Jr., 16, a South Mecklenburg High School pupil, and John Douglas Southworth, 17, a pupil at Myers Park High School.

Harris and Walters were being held in jail in lieu of $10,000 bond and Southworth was released after posting $5,000 bond.

Vandals struck last weekend at the newly completed Carmel Road Junior High School and at Quail Hollow Junior High School. School officials estimated damage at Carmel at $10,000 and at Quail Hollow at $10,000 to $15,000.

"No Forced Busing" was scrawled on walls in both schools apparently in reference to Charlotte's court-ordered desegregation plan.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A teen-age boy was near tears at the Sharon Tate murder trial as he told of finding the bloody body of his stepfather, Leno LaBianca, in a crouching position.

Frank Struthers, 16, the son by a former marriage of LaBianca's wife Rosemary, who also was slain, took the stand Wednesday as the state turned to details of the double slaying the night after Miss Tate and four others were killed.

Descriptions of the Tate murder scene ended with a police chemist telling how trails of blood through the mansion and outside marked the paths taken by victims trying to flee their killers. He said the word "Pig" on the front door of the house was scrawled by someone using a towel dipped in the slain actress' blood.

Charles M. Manson, 35, and three women members of his hippie style "family" are on trial charged with murdering Miss Tate, four visitors at her home and the LaBiancas in August, 1969.

The LaBiancas, slain about 10 miles from the Tate place were found amid bloody scrawlings. A carving fork was stuck in LaBianca's stomach and the word "War" was carved on his chest, police have said.

Struthers said his mother and stepfather had spent part of a weekend with him and family friends at Lake Isabella, a central California resort, then returned home ahead of the others the night of Aug. 9.

The following night, when Struthers returned, he said he got no answer when he knocked on the door. He summoned his sister, Susan, 23, who lived nearby, and a friend, and they searched for keys.

"I got the keys out of my mother's car and opened the back door," said Struthers.

"When we got to the living we saw Leno LaBianca ... in a type of crouched position." He added, "We came out right away."

Struthers said he checked the house days later to see if anything was missing. His mother's wallet was gone, he said. The state's star witness, Linda Kasabian, has testified that Manson entered the LaBianca home before the killings, then came out with the wallet which he told her to discard.

The wallet, later found in a gas station rest room, was identified by Struthers. The youth, whose eyes were red and puffy, appeared near tears as he viewed a color photograph in the wallet. "It's a graduation picture," he said, "of me."

On cross-examination of a defense attorney, Paul Fitzgerald, Struthers said the LaBiancas often left doors unlocked. His mother had a habit of leaving house and car keys in the ignition of her car, he said.

Educated Women Cheated In Job Department

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The educated woman is being cheated in the job department. No, this is not a woman's liberation movement spokesman sounding off. It is the National Education Association (NEA). One of NEA's experts refers to discrimination against women as a "crippling" process. Fifty years after women won the vote, they still suffer "from discrimination because of their sex, and many educators and public officials are charging that the American public school and university systems are largely to blame," says an NEA release.

Dr. Donald Klein, behavioral scientist with the National Training Laboratories Institute for Applied Behavioral Science, associated with NEA, puts the problem this way: "It does seem to me the university trained women of the last generation are badly crippled in terms of what many of them are able to do with their lives, the way they use their skills and talents." U. S. Department of Labor statistics show that nearly 30 million women in this country work outside the home. One in 10 is head of a household. Yet, says NEA, the median income of a white woman with a high school education or better is $4,100 (per year) compared to a black man with less than a high school education who earns $4,500. Black women with a high school education or better average $3,000 annually compared with white men with less than a high school education who earn $7,000. Fewer than two per cent of the working women make over $10,000 a year. Many educators are taking a look at discrimination against one-third of the working population.

Mrs. Elizabeth D. Koontz, director of the Women's Bureau of the labor department and former NEA president, has urged educators to examine curriculum at the secondary level, if not earlier, which tends to segregate the boys from the girls even before they join the labor market. Mrs. Koontz calls for opening doors to new vocational opportunities in high schools, in technical institutes, on the job and in apprenticeship programs. Don't put the label "women's work" on a job and keep women in the traditional occupations — secretaries, nurses, teachers or assistants. NEA says that clearly the schools are not preparing girls for lucrative jobs. But the boys are introduced to the sciences, business management and the top professions of law, medicine, engineering and politics. Teaching is open to women, but even here "discrimination rears its ugly head," says NEA. It quotes from the report of the President's Task Force on Women's Rights and Responsibilities published last April: "Discrimination in education is one of the most damaging injustices women suffer. It denies them equal education and equal employment opportunity, contributing to a second-class image." The report says discrimination is even more noticeable in graduate and professional schools which may account for the fact that only 5.9 per cent of America's law students and 8.3 per cent of its medical students are women. NEA stresses that even in education, the lower paying jobs are the ones open to the girls. Men constitute only 12 per cent of the elementary teaching force, but account for 78 per cent of the principals. On the high school level, 96 per cent of the principals are male. And a 1968-69 Higher Education Directory notes that almost no women are college presidents outside of Roman Catholic women's colleges. In a survey of 2,841 colleges, only 211 are headed by women. NEA adds that there are only two women school district superintendents out of 13,000 and of the 50 chief state school officers, only one is a woman. Discrimination carries over to salaries, NEA says. The median income for women teachers in higher education, for instance, is $1,000 below that of men.

U.S. Embassy's Auctions Draw Indian Acclaim

By MYRON BELKIND Associated Press Writer NEW DELHI (AP)—The U.S. Embassy in New Delhi is gaining some unexpected public acclaim—not for ideological or political reasons, but because of its growing reputation as a popular appliance and furniture store.

At least four times a year, the embassy auctions off its vast inventory of worn-out refrigerators, air conditioners, hot water heaters, duplicating machines, ovens, drapes, rugs, furniture and a variety of miscellaneous items, including toilets. Appliances, especially air conditioners and refrigerators, are generally imported from the United States. Most furniture and carpets are Indian-made. Irrespective of their national origin, however, the items fetch good prices.

Once, an embassy official recalls, an Indian-made carpet was sold at an auction for more than its original cost to the U.S. government. Balak Ram, the managing director of an Indian firm that conducts the auctions, estimates that the embassy makes about $20,000 from one day's sale. Except for an undisclosed commission paid to the auctioneers, all the money goes to the embassy and is used for refurbishing the homes of American diplomats and the embassy itself.

The embassy holds the auctions beneath a huge tent erected outside a warehouse belonging to the U.S. Agency for International Development.

An inconspicuous newspaper advertisement announcing the auction of "obsolete items" is the signal for hundreds of Indians to flock to the AID building, where the center of attention is 49-year-old Balak Ram, who has been conducting auctions for the embassy for nearly 25 years.

Waving his gavel, Ram recites in Hindi the traditional words of an auctioneer. "Ek ... do ... then ... chaley gaya (once ... twice ... three times ... gone)." The toughest bidding generally takes place for air conditioners, especially when the auctions are held in the summer, with the temperature hovering around 110 degrees. At one recent sale, used air conditioners sold for $250 each—the same price of a new air conditioner in the United States.

One air conditioner dealer who bought four of them said later that only one was in working condition, two others required $200 each in repairs to make them serviceable and one was a total loss. Nevertheless, the dealer said he would continue to buy air conditioners at the embassy auctions.

"Because of the shortage of second-hand air conditioners and the high cost of new ones (the cheapest Indian-made air conditioners sell for $700), the embassy is the only main place to buy them," the dealer said. In New Delhi, air conditioners rent for as much as $200 a season, and so a dealer can get his investment back in two or three years.

The value of some other embassy products is more questionable.

Carpets, some with large holes in them, bring almost as much as it would cost to buy them new.

Used imported typewriters sell for $180—the same price that a new Indian typewriter made with foreign collaboration costs.

"Somehow, there is a myth that if something comes from the American embassy or an American family, it is better made, and better cared for," said one young Indian who attended the last auction. "It's also a status symbol to be able to say you have something in your house that was used at one time by an American."

Still another factor is that there is only a small secondhand furniture market in India.

Persons who cannot afford new furniture find it more economical to buy a used sofa or bed at the embassy auction.

The embassy takes precautions to insure its sales do not violate any Indian government regulations.

All imported items, for instance, must be used three years before they can be sold.

Age doesn't seem to matter, though, and the buyers don't discriminate between the newer and older items.

As long as they've been used by the U.S. embassy or an American family, they're popular.

Ate Breakfast Atop Garbage

PASADENA, Tex. (UPI)—Pasadena Mayor Clyde Doral countered criticism of a new city dump by being host to 50 guests for breakfast at the landfill site.

The guests ate scrambled eggs, sausage and biscuits atop a week's supply of garbage. The mayor pointed out that six inches of soil is spread over the refuse daily and informed his surprised guests that they were sitting on 1,000 tons of garbage.

Prexy's Praise Came Too Soon

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI)—Dr. Otis Singletary, president of the University of Kentucky, told a Louisville civic group that college students are "worthy of respect ... in fact, if one word fits them, it is that they are admirable." Two weeks later, three days of student demonstrations at the Lexington campus forced cancellation of commencement exercises.

By 1929, every state and the District of Columbia had a gasoline tax, says the National Automobile Club.

Your Optician

In Cooperation with the North Carolina Opticians Association

(Men's Proper Eyeglass Frames)

Do you know what shape or style eyeglass frame a man should wear? The shape of a man's face is the guide.

If you have a thin face, a rectangular frame should be worn. This type would give the effect of filling out the face and adding shape.

An individual with a square jaw should wear a frame that is heavier in the corners. This will emphasize the eyes. A medium to heavy size frame should be selected.

Facial roundness is subdued by wearing a frame that creates a straight line across the top.

Your optician should be consulted for proper frame selection whenever a person's hair is worn long with sideburns or a crew cut. He is professionally trained to guide you in your selection.

Corn Crops In Pitt Also Threatened By Epidemic

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Corn crops in Pitt County as well as in most other areas of the state are facing a serious fungus epidemic that could have a critical effect on the 1971 seed corn supply.

According to county agricultural extension agent, Sam J. Weeks, the fungus that is sweeping through much of the nation's corn production belt is a new strain of the diseases that causes southern leaf blight.

In actuality, the corn leaf blight has been evident in area corn fields for years but in relatively insignificant degrees and in another strain of the fungus, Weeks said. Only this year has the disease threatened to have damaging effects on future supplies.

The current spread of blight evidently began in the corn belt of Florida, he added, and made its way up through Georgia, South Carolina and in to North Carolina and well beyond to other areas of the nation.

The first signs of the fungus in this county were reported some three to four weeks ago, Weeks said, and since that time the "majority of corn being grown in Pitt County has become infected with the disease."

"The disease, although in this area for some time, is new to us as far as details are concerned and we are trying now to find out more about it," the extension agent continued. "We just do not know very much about it yet."

The fungus, which appears as spots on corn leaves and continues to infect the plant to the extent of damaging the ear and kernel and weakening the stalk, apparently has the greatest impact on corn that is not hand-pollinated or detasseled.

Weeks explained that there is no way of estimating the severity of the blight in this area but added that most corn crops in the county probably are affected.

One of the hazards of the fungus, aside from the fact that it could cause a shortage of seed corn for next year, is the immediate danger to this year's crop and the effects it could have on this year's grain and livestock situation.

Unless the corn is harvested quickly, Weeks noted, the weakened stalks will yield to the wind and much of the crop will be on the ground, a situation referred to as lodging.

In a notice that is being sent out to county farmers, Weeks and extension chairman Edwin L. Yancey point out that there will be some interest in hogging off corn that lodges badly.

"Either hogs or cattle may be used for this purpose," they note, but "larger animals (75 pounds or heavier pigs, and 600-800 pound feeder calves or mature cows) should be used if this method of harvest is followed."

The extension officials caution that if large amounts of the corn lodge and the hot, humid weather continues, it is quite possible to have a mold or fungus growth which may be toxic to animals.

In view of the possibility of this situation, farmers are urged to use a few test animals on questionable fields for seven to ten days before putting in large numbers of livestock.

Weeks said that the secondary fungus that could exist after the corn falls may have effects on the digestive tracts of the animals but pointed out that this was not a proven fact here but a possibility.

In order for farmers to salvage the maximum amount of their 1970 corn crop, he said, it is suggested that harvesting be started as soon as the grain moisture is down to 25-30 per cent of moisture.

"When moisture is above 30 per cent, the corn should be dried at a commercial dryer or in a batch farm dryer, Weeks continued. Drying high moisture corn in the bin is subject to blocked air flow and spoilage," he cautioned.

Because of the frequency that would be necessary if fungicide spraying were used and the cost of the procedure, chemical treatment probably will not be feasible, Weeks said.

The prospects for 1972 look good as far as the seed corn supply is concerned but the critical year will be 1971, it appears.

The situation is much too new to the area for local agents to recommend immediate courses of action, Weeks said, but as soon as more is learned about the disease it will be passed on to farmers.

The thing that is certain now, he said, is that the disease is prevalent in Pitt County and North Carolina in general. An economic loss for the 1970 year is almost certain.

Only speculation could give any indication as to the effect the blight may have on the animal feed situation. That aspect and others that depend on the corn crop will be affected in 1971 but the extent remains to be seen.

Now 104 Tobacco Barn Fires For 1970 Season

The number of tobacco barn fires reported to date this season now number 104, according to Pitt County Fire Marshal Mike Worthington.

Worthington noted this includes fires ranging from those where damage was practically non-existent to ones which resulted in a total loss.

Although the harvest season is in its final stages, 16 barn fires have been reported since the last tabulation furnished August 18.

The listing shows the date and time of the fire, the general location, the name of the owner when known, and the extent of damage. A listing of $2,000 represents a total loss of barn and tobacco.

The fires reported for the past week are:

August 19 — 12:13 p.m., the Tull Worthington farm east of Winterville, $2,000.

August 20 — 7:00 p.m., a barn south of Ayden, $2,000 (no further details available). 9:30 p.m., name of farmer unknown, Hugo Road, east of Grifton, $800.

August 21 — 4:38 p.m., the Blanche Kittrell farm near Joyner's Store, northwest of Ayden, $2,000.

August 22 — no fires reported.

August 23 — 5:30 a.m., farmer unknown, Highway 258, north of Fountain, $2,000; 5:01 p.m. Ray Humbles farm, Frog Level, $2,000; 5:05 p.m., Carl Crawford farm, Road 1123, Red Oak Community, $2,000; 7:30 p.m., three miles east of Fountain, farmer's name unknown, $2,000.

August 24 — 8:21 p.m. Mayhugh Gaskins farm, south of Ayden, $400;

August 25 — 8:02 a.m., Wilbur Hart farm at Ballards Cross Roads. Only smoke damage was reported from burners which flared up. At 1:51 p.m. the same day, however, Worthington said the same barn caught fire again and was a total loss at $2,000;

2:00 p.m., John G. Cherry farm east of Stokes, $2,000; 4:01 p.m. the James Hardee barn west of Pactolus, damage held to $50.

August 26 — 6:52 a.m. the James Brown farm, Belvoir, $1,000; and at 10:40 a.m., the Rudolph Harris farm, west of Winterville, $2,000.

August 27 — 8:02 a.m., Wilbur Hart farm at Ballards Cross Roads. Only smoke damage was reported from burners which flared up. At 1:51 p.m. the same day, however, Worthington said the same barn caught fire again and was a total loss at $2,000;

Man Arrested 2 Hours After Bank Is Robbed

ASHEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — A man was arrested two hours after a bank robbery in his hometown of Asheville and charged with the $9,844 theft.

The FBI said the 36-year-old man, Robert M. Driggers, was arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Lawrence Stoker and placed in the custody of a U.S. marshal under $20,000 bond.

Police Chief J. C. Hall said $8,512 was found in a paper bag in Drigger's automobile following Wednesday's holdup of a branch of the Northwestern Bank.

A bandit waving a pistol scooped up money from cash drawers after forcing two women tellers and a woman customer into a restroom.

The name Winnipeg comes from the Cree Indian word "Win-nipi," meaning murky or muddy water.

Agnew In Saigon After Visit In Formosa; Thailand Next

SAIGON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew arrived in Vietnam today for his second visit of the year and declared that the success of the Cambodian venture has insured that U.S. troop withdrawals will proceed as planned.

"We will go forward with it," Agnew told newsmen accompanying him on his flight to Formosa. The present program calls for U.S. forces in Vietnam to be reduced to 284,000 men by next April.

The vice president spent most of the afternoon in conference with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu and Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, reviewing the progress of the war in South Vietnam and neighboring Cambodia. They last met when Agnew was here at the beginning of the year.

Agnew was maintaining a fast pace on his current Asian visit, with 48 hours in South Korea, 24 in Nationalist China and now 24 or less in South Vietnam. He goes to Thailand Friday, and although he said again today he would not visit Cambodia, officials in Phnom Penh were making plans for him to stop there for lunch en route to Bangkok.

In his remarks to newsmen during the flight from Formosa, the vice president said the Vietnam policy advocated by Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and an opponent of U.S. participation in the war, is "very, very wrong and dangerously wrong" and is being exploited by the Hanoi government.

The newsmen asked Agnew if he was referring to antiwar senators on Wednesday when he attacked "a few opportunists who may wish to see us bug out." "I would not cite any members of the Senate as being opportunists," Agnew replied, then added:

"I think there is a great diversity of opinion as to what we should be doing in Southeast Asia, and I find myself in violent disagreement with people such as Sen. Fulbright.

"I don't impugn his motives and I don't think he is less patriotic for expressing his convictions, but I think he is very, very wrong and dangerously wrong and that since he is, he, in my opinion, is in a position where he must be disagreed with and on very firm terms . . .

"I find a great desire on the part of the North Vietnamese in their English-language newspapers to exploit statements by Sens. Fulbright, (George S.) McGovern, and people who are consistently talking against our involvement there and raising inferences of impropriety of the existing South Vietnam government."

Agnew said that during his visit to Formosa, President Chiang Kai-shek gave him a confidential message for President Nixon and expressed concern about Formosa's vulnerability to attack from the Chinese Communists because of the reduction in U.S. patrols in the Formosa Strait.

"I attempted to reassure the president that this would be a very nonproductive exercise for the Communists," Agnew said. "I told him I didn't believe with the much less risky exercises the Communists were engaged in other parts of the world, for example in North Vietnam and places of that type, that this would represent a very worthwhile undertaking."

Uncover Athens Site Where Socrates Believed Sentenced

ATHENS (UPI)—In 399 B.C. the Athens supreme court condemned the philosopher Socrates to death on charges he corrupted the city's youth.

Socrates was offered the choice of exile, but drank the poison hemlock rather than leave Athens, where he was a central figure in the debate over whether children should be educated only in the home, or in schools run by professional educators.

Plato, in his "Dialogues," quotes Socrates on the day of the trial as saying: "And now I must go to the Stoa of the Basileus to answer to the suit which Meletus has brought against me."

Now archaeologist Leslie Shear Jr. and a party from the American School of Classical Studies have unearthed remains of a small stone building they are sure is that Stoa in the market place of ancient Athens.

Shear, of Princeton University, cited Socrates' statements as proof the philosopher was sentenced at the Stoa of Basileus. He referred to a description by the 2nd century traveler Pausanias as proof the newly discovered building is indeed the Stoa.

Pausanias, who left detailed accounts of the places he visited, wrote that he entered the Agora (market place) through the dipylon (double gate) and saw the Stoa of Basileus on his right. Where Shear's team is working, traces of roads described by Pausanias can be seen with their marble gutters on either side. Only the foundations and part of the north wall and eastern pavement remain of the Stoa, where cases involving religion and murder were heard.

Pillars Found
In the courtyard, Shear found the foundations of six stela (memorial pillars) to Hermes, the Greek god of commerce.

Socrates' friend Alcibiades was tried in absentia 16 years before Socrates and convicted of mutilating the pillars. The mutilation took place on the eve of the Athenian fleet's departure for Sicily, where it was destroyed. Alcibiades escaped death by defecting to Sparta.

Shear said the Stoa of the Basileus is one of the oldest and longest-used buildings of ancient Athens.

"It was built in the sixth century B.C., destroyed by the Persians in 480 B.C. when they sacked Athens and rebuilt soon after. This building was used continuously until the barbaric invasion of Greece in the 4th century A.D.," Shear said.

During the invasion the building was damaged and left outside the new walls built around the shrinking city.

The Stoa was discovered about 20 feet below the present street level under a maze of byzantine ruins, in a stretch of land alongside the AthensPireaus electric railway track.

Shear is confident if excavations are continued to the north, archeologists will find the Stoa of Herms, built in 470 B.C., and the Painted Stoa, which dates to 460 B.C.

The Greek government paid for the expropriation of land where digging now is going on, with the archeological work financed by a $1 million grant from the Ford Foundation.

Leslie Shear of Princeton has been digging in the Agora on and off since 1931. The first professor Shear died in 1945 and his work later was taken over by his son.

"In view of my family, it is not surprising I became an archaeologist. I've been coming here for 15 years now," Shear said.

Model Cab Helps Train Engineers

TOPEKA, (AP) — Just like the Super Chief hurtling across the Kansas Prairie, the locomotive sways and the rails click past in rapid staccato.

The engineer "sees" the curve ahead and "feels" the cab lurch as he applies the brakes.

Only this "engine" doesn't go anywhere.

It's a cab of a modern diesel engine built for the Santa Fe Railway by the Link Division of the Singer Co. of Silver Spring, Md., complete with sound, motion, moving pictures of the "track" ahead and all the gauges and dials of a real locomotive.

With it, the Santa Fe can simulate all the situations and conditions an engineer might encounter in a real run.

Link gained fame in World War II with its airplane trainers and has since branched into automobile simulators and now the locomotive simulator.

"We believe it will be a great educational tool for us," said John S. Reed, Santa Fe President, when the simulator first went on tour.

The purpose of the locomotive simulator will be to help train new engineers for the Santa Fe and to give veteran engineers refresher courses. It will not replace on-the-job training for new engineers, however.

The Santa Fe simulator is the first of its kind because it is built into a railroad car and can be moved from city to city. Another American railroad is working on a stationary simulator and Santa Fe officials said in England now a stationary simulator is in use.

The Santa Fe's reason for having its Link simulator put on wheels is to move it around to the railroad's division points. That way, the railroad can train engineers and refresh veteran engineers without having to bring them to the simulator. It will not be permanently located, but will travel to where it is needed.

Presently, the simulator is on tour for employees to view. It is not open to public scrutiny.

Frank Tye simulator instructor, said the engineer trainees will sit in the cab, feel the movement of the train, hear the wheels click, work the brakes, turn the dials and see the curves and bridges ahead.

The simulator is computer controlled, programmed to create all situations an engineer faces, including the dangers and emergencies.

It is in the area of emergencies that the simulator may have its greatest value because of the difficulty in simulating them in the past.

Previously, virtually all the engineers' training was in on-the-job situations with veteran engineers. "Sometimes they picked up bad habits with the good," a Santa Fe spokesman said.

Enginemen trainees will receive 248 hours of instruction, including 38 hours on the simulator. Veteran engineers will be introduced to new situations, such as new combinations of power and tonnage, or to upgrade skills in situations in which they have had difficulty.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets steady Wednesday, supplies barely adequate to short, demand good. Prices paid producers and handlers for consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets:

Grade A large whites: 51 1/2 to 52; medium whites: 40 to 40 1/2; small, whites: 26 to 27.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Supplies on the North Carolina poultry market were fully adequate today for no better than fair, ready - to - cook demand. Weights heavy at some points. Live, at-farm based valuation 12 cents per pound. Hens, market generally steady, supplies fully adequate for slow to fair demand. Heavies, at farm, 9 cents; lights, too few to report prices.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina hog markets were mostly steady today. Tops of 17.50-19.00 at Tarboro; 19.00-19.25 Wilson; 18.50-19.00 Siler City, Denton, Rocky Mount, Aberdeen; 18.00-19.00 Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Newton Grove, Albertson, Lumberton; 17.50-18.50 Bethel; 19.50 Salisbury, and 19.00 Greensboro.

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock prices continued to drift lower today in moderate trading. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 2.39 points to 758.08 at 11 a.m.

Declines on the New York Stock Exchange led advances by a small margin.

Analysts said that the market was caught in a cross current of selective buying and some profit taking on recent gains. Brokers say that despite improved investor psychology about the market some were remaining on the sidelines until the market starts setting a clear trend again.

Morrison Award Is Presented To Andy Griffith

MANTEO, N. C. (AP)—Andy Griffith, a North Carolina native and star of stage, screen and television, has won the 1969 Morrison award for excellence in the performing arts by a North Carolinian.

The award was presented to Griffith Wednesday night by William C. Friday, president of the Consolidated University of North Carolina, at the intermission of the 1,600th performance of "The Lost Colony."

Griffith starred as Sir Walter Raleigh during the 1949-53 seasons of the drama and performed with the UNC "Playmakers" while in school there. The award is presented annually by the Roanoke Island Historical Association. It is named for the donors, Dr. and Mrs. Fred W. Morrison of Washington, D. C., and Kill Devil Hills.

Duke Power Co. Acquires Coal Mines

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Duke Power Co. announced today it has acquired two coal mines and agreed to joint financing of a third mine in an effort to guarantee coal supplies for its power plants.

Duke's executive vice president for power operations, B. B. Parker, said the two mines purchased outright by the company were the High Splint Coal Co.

and Harlan Collieries. Both mines are in Harlan County, Ky. A Duke spokesman declined to say how much the new acquisitions cost or give the name of the company with which Duke is financing the third mine. The location of the jointly financed mine was not disclosed.

The announcement said the two mines bought by the company would be operated by a new Duke subsidiary, Eastover Mining Co. The method of financing the subsidiary or the purchase was not revealed.

Duke has asked the North Carolina Utilities Commission and the South Carolina Public Service Commission for an 18 per cent rate increase for retail customers, including most homeowners and businesses.

In addition, it has asked the Federal Power Commission for an average 17 per cent rate increase to wholesale customers, chiefly cooperatives and city-owned power systems.

The principal arguments proffered by Duke executives in seeking the rate increase were the high cost of capital needed for additional facilities and the high prices and scarcity of coal to fuel power plants.

The announcement quoted Parker hailing the purchases as "a positive move by the utility to keep abreast of the constantly increasing demand for electricity in its Piedmont Carolinas service area." But Parker added the mines would supply "only a small portion of the coal needed by Duke Power."

Duke serves the Piedmont areas of North and South Carolina.

The two Eastover mines will provide coal for generating stations in the southern half of the Duke system — Lee Station in South Carolina and Marshall, Allen and Riverbend stations in North Carolina.

The coal from the unidentified jointly financed mine will go to the utility's Belevs Creek Steam Generating Station, a 2,286,000 kilowatt plant now under construction northeast of Winston-Salem.

Youth Struck By Car In Mishap

David Lamont Whichard, 13, of 904A Bancroft Ave. was injured last night when struck by a car on Dickinson Avenue about 7:55 p.m. at the intersection of Skinner Street.

Officers said the youth was hit by a car driven by James Paul Comer, 23, of Arlington, Va. Whichard, police reported, was standing on the street attempting to cross to the other side at the time of the mishap.

No charges were placed in the 9:55 p.m. mishap, and no damage resulted to the Comer vehicle, investigators reported.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Barber of Grimesland; five sisters, Miss Elanor Barber and Mrs. Bertha Jones, both of Washington, D.C., Christine Barber of Grimesland, Mrs. Sarah Blount of Aurora, Miss Elnora Barber of New York; four brothers, James Oscar Barber of New York, N.Y., Redmond E., John L. and Charles Barber, all of Washington, D.C.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N.C.

Quite warm, Saturday through Monday, with a chance of showers in west portion Saturday and across the state on Monday.

Might Resume Secret Parleys

PARIS (AP)—North Vietnam's chief delegate to the Paris peace talks, Xuan Thuy, failed to show up today for the 81st session of the talks, continuing an 8 1/2-month boycott. But his deputy told newsmen he would be present next Thursday.

Thuy returned to Paris Wednesday after a 3 1/2-month trip home. His deputy, Nguyen Minh Vy, said: "After a long trip, he is taking a little rest."

The American delegation was represented by Ambassador David K. E. Bruce, who missed last week's session, and the South Vietnamese chief delegate Pham Dang Lam: The Viet Cong sent their delegation's third man, Nguyen Van Tien.

Thuy on his return to Paris indicated he brought no new peace proposals. But he said he would consider resuming secret talks with the Americans now that the United States is represented by a chief delegate instead of the previous acting delegation chief, Philip C. Habib.

Vy, the first speaker at today's session, said the American delegation spoke one way while ranking officials in the Nixon administration contradicted them.

The Viet Cong delegate repeated his side's "irreducible" demands: "the immediate and total withdrawal from South Vietnam of American troops ...

without posing any conditions whatsoever (and) the abandonment of the administration" in Saigon.

The South Vietnamese ambassador countered by charging that "your unchanged position boils down to two extreme demands. You consider these demands as preconditions which must be accepted by our side before genuine negotiations could begin."

Bruce, the last speaker of the day, displayed a low-keyed approach.

In a brief address, Bruce said, "I have expressed the view that if genuine negotiations are to begin we must find a way for all the parties concerned to consider the basic issues in a manner which permits differences to be narrowed through reasonable discussion and compromise."

"Unfortunately, your remarks today continue to offer little encouragement that you are yet prepared to do so," he said, indicating that no progress had been registered at today's session.

"We will continue to await the time when you are ready to abandon the language of propaganda and begin the process of serious negotiation."

Washington, D.C. testified that Negroid pubic hair found on bed clothing was "microscopically identical" to hair samples which came from Barber.

Scholberg said two Negroid hairs were found.

Those hairs, he testified, "could have come from the suspect in this case."

He noted that hair comparison is "not an exact science", explaining that the hairs could not be identified as coming only from Barber to the exclusion of all other members of the Negroid race.

Earlier this week, an FBI fingerprint examiner said latent prints found on Mrs. Barry's bedroom door and inked impressions made of Barber's left index, left middle and left ring fingers were "made by one and the same fingers."

can be closed and put in a different spot on the plan."

A third far-reaching item on last night's agenda concerned the rezoning of the M. B. Massey Jr. property and Westhaven Subdivision. After a presentation by City Engineer C. A. Holliday with maps to show the proposed zoning, the members approved recommending to the City Council the rezoning of certain areas, some to highway commercial (C.H.) and others to residential R-9. The area in question is two large tracts of land on N.C. 11 south of Greenville below the Club Pines Sub - division.

Bill Beddingfield of the Advance Planning Division of the N. C. State Highway Commission in Raleigh gave a report of a proposed thoroughfare plan which visualizes traffic conditions in Greenville 25 years from now, in 1995.

Stating that the proposal is based on population projections of about 57,000 at that time, Beddingfield mentioned that possibilities included a new southern by-pass south of the present U. S. 264 by-pass and other perimeter plans. He noted a proposal for an eastern by-pass would be the subject of a study to be ready for presentation in October or November.

William M. Nobles, new member on the Planning and Zoning Commission, was welcomed to the board by chairman H. T. Chapin, Jr.

Clarence Tugwell was elected vice-chairman of the commission, replacing chairman Chapin, who was recently elected chairman to fill the unexpired term of Frank Little.

Tom Ramsey of the Community Facilities Program was introduced to commission members by Hagerty, who explained that Ramsey will be working on comprehensive city plans for the next year. Ramsey briefly outlined the duties assigned him for the year study.

Raynez Swim Team Members Hold Awards Day; McGlohon Top Winner

Don McGlohon, Raynez swim team's 8 year old star, was awarded the team's top trophy for most valuable swimmer, Wednesday afternoon at the annual awards ceremony at the Raynez swimming pool. Don had accumulated more points for the team during the season than any other swimmer, boy or girl in any age group.

Winners of the best team spirit trophies were: girls, Keila McGlohon and boys, Tom Adams.

Two other coveted trophies, those for most improved swimmer went to: girls,

Jane Elam was the winner of the most valuable girl swimmer trophy for winning the most points for girls. Don Tucker was winner of the trophy for most valuable boy swimmer.

Suzanne Martinez and boys, Tom Johnson.

In the age group awards a gold medal for first place in girls 8 and under went to Suzanne Martinez.

For 8 and under boys Don McGlohon was recipient of the gold medal. The silver medal for second place went to Bill Dawson and the bronze third place award to Jamie Sheldon. Ribbons were awarded to John Dawson for fourth place, Michael Tucker for fifth place and Kevin Richards for sixth place.

In the 9 and 10 boys age group the gold medal was won by Karl Topper. The silver went to Mack Stocks and the bronze to John Farley. Tom Johnson won the ribbon for fourth place and John Richards that for fifth. Scott Carson and Steve Lawler were fourth to Barbara Bond, fifth to Lynn Tucker, sixth to Selene Wheless and seventh to Jane Farley.

Linus Martinez won a gold medal in the boys 13 and 14 age group.

In the boys 15 and 17 group first place went to Arthur Fahrner, second to Tom Adams and third to David Bowman.

Jane Elam was awarded the gold medal for girls 15 to 17. The awards ceremony was preceded by a period of recreational swimming and a picnic.

Picture Day Set By Bucs

If Mike McGee is looking for a way to beef up his East Carolina University football team, he won't have to look far come Sunday afternoon.

That's because the Pirates will have a special guest at their 1970 Picture Day — a 1,000-pound steer.

The steer along with all the ECU coaches and players will give amateur photographers plenty to click their shutters at when the Ficklen Stadium gates are open to the public at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Football fans of all ages are invited to take part in the free Picture Day, which will run from 2 to 5 p.m.

"We want to give the people of Eastern North Carolina a chance to meet the Pirates, take their pictures, get their autographs," says McGee, ECU's now head coach. "This day will belong to the fans."

Bissette's of Greenville will award a prize to the best picture taken by an amateur photographer during the fun-filled afternoon.

The steer fits into the show because he is the gift of Texas Gulf Sulpher Company of Aurora to the ECU team. This is part of the Pirates' "Steer-a-Year" program, started by McGee, in which area cattlemen donate beef on the hoof which will eventually end up as steaks on the team's training table.

Compton New Pirate Trainer

Rod Compton, a 23-year-old native of Ohio, has been hired as head athletic trainer for East Carolina University. It was announced this week by Clarence Stasavich, the school's athletic director.

Compton assumed his duties immediately, working closely with the football team which began fall practice Monday.

A native of Newark, Ohio, Compton graduated from Ohio University in 1969 with a B.S. in health and physical education. This past year he served as assistant trainer at Bowling Green State University while working on his Masters in education which he received in June.

"We look forward to working with Rod," said Stasavich. "We realize that this is his first head trainer job, but he has seven years experience in preparing himself for this work and we received very good reports on him from both Ohio University and Bowling Green, two fine schools. We have the utmost confidence that Rod will do the job for us here at East Carolina."

Compton is single.

Skipper Not Looking Ahead

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Intrepid vs. Gretel II for the America's Cup?

Skipper Bill Ficker of the Intrepid says that's the last thing from his mind right now.

"I haven't even thought about that, I'm just thinking about one race at a time," Ficker said Wednesday after whipping Valiant for the third time in four meetings of the final trials to determine the U.S. defender for the famed yachting cup.

Gretel II of Australia, meanwhile, defeated the French yacht France to take a 3-0 lead in their best-of-7 meeting to determine the challenger for the cup.

The American defender will be chosen between Intrepid and Valiant by the New York Yacht Club's America's Cup Committee.

How many victories does Ficker think it will take to make

Merritt Captures 20th Victory For Cincinnati As Phils Nipped

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
Jim Merritt must have known something. Why else would the slick Cincinnati southpaw stash away nearly a case of champagne in his locker ... before the game?

"You don't win 20 games every day," said the 26-year-old hurler, referring to the 10 bottles of champagne, after he became the first left-hander in 45 years to win 20 for the Reds.

Merritt didn't last all the way, going 6 2-3 innings before Wayne Granger came on to save the memorable victory as the Reds edged Philadelphia 6-5 Wednesday night.

"It was a nice win," said the slender Merritt. "I would have liked to have gone all the way but I got tired. Wayne came on through and slammed the door for me." It was Granger's 29th save of the year.

Merritt, who has lost 10 decisions, became the National League's first 20-game winner this season although he gave up 15 hits before Granger bailed him out. Dave McNally of Baltimore has 20 victories in the American League. The last Cincinnati lefty to win 20 was Eppa Rixey, who was 21-11 in 1925.

In other NL action, Atlanta dropped New York 9-7, San Diego edged Pittsburgh 2-1, Los Angeles beat Chicago 8-5, Houston topped Montreal 5-4 and San Francisco edged St. Louis 8-7.

Merritt, 17-9 last year after being obtained during the winter of 1969 from Minnesota for Leo Cardenas, was given a 6-2 edge before the Phils unloaded for three runs in the seventh, knocking the lefty out.

Tony Perez slammed his 39th homer of the year and Bernie Carbo had a three-run shot for the Reds, his 21st. Don Money cracked a two-run homer for the Phils.

Hank Aaron slammed his 35th homer of the year, triggering a three-run Atlanta ninth inning that overcame a 7-6 Mets lead. Aaron's two-run shot and No. 589 of his career capped an uphill battle by the Braves, who at one time trailed 7-1.

Orlando Cepeda, Clete Boyer and Bob Tillman added homers for Atlanta while Art Shamsky and Wayne Garrett had two-run blasts for New York.

Ed Spiezo drilled a two-run homer in the seventh inning, sending the Padres to their second straight victory over the Pirates. Despite the loss Pittsburgh still remains three games in front of the Mets in the East.

Freddie Patek fumbled Ivan Murrell's leadoff bounce before Spiezo connected for his 10th homer of the year off rookie right-hander Fred Cambria, spoiling his major league debut.

Pat Dobson, 10-13, allowed 12 hits but the Pirates scored only in the sixth on John Jeter's single, stolen base and Roberto Clemente's run-scoring single.

Jim Lefebvre clouted a three-run homer and Claude Osteen captured his 14th victory with relief help from Jim Brewer as the Dodgers stopped the Cubs, who trail the Pirates by 4½ games. John Callison had a two-run homer for Chicago.

Denis Menke drilled a three-run homer in the ninth inning, helping the Astros to their triumph. Cesar Cedeno added a homer in the ninth for Houston. Jim Gosger had put Montreal ahead 3-1 in the eighth with a three-run shot.

Jim Ray Hart greeted reliever Frank Linzy with a run-scoring single that gave the Giants their victory over the Cards. Lou Brock, who stole three bases, slugged a homer for the Cards while Willie Mays had a two-run shot and Willie McCovey ripped his 33rd of the year.

Injuries Hurt Pirates Again

Injuries continue to be a problem for the East Carolina University Pirates in the early days of fall football practice. Tuesday, they learned of the loss of Ron Douthit, a defensive end expected to start, due to a knee injury which has not properly responded.

Then, yesterday, another defensive end, third-stringer Tim Iderton, was pronounced out for the year with a similar injury.

Dwight Flanagan, slated to battle with Dick Corrada for the flanker spot, injured an ankle this summer, and still has not returned to playing form. This leaves the flanker position with only Corrada, since Will Mitchell has been switched to the defensive secondary.

"Corrada has been impressive so far," Coach Mike McGee said. "He has been catching the ball real well."

At the other wide receiving position is Carl Gordon and back-up man Bob Millie. With the exception of Corrada, however, most of the receivers have not warmed up, and are not yet catching well.

The Bucs will continue their three-day workouts today, but will drop the night session for Saturday McGee is expected to decide sometime Saturday whether to continue the three-day drills through the next week.

On additional loss to the team has also been reported. Mike Aldridge, a wide receiver, has decided to devote all of his time to baseball, where he was a starter last season on the Pirates' Southern Conference championship team.

Murphy Feels Chances Good

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) — Two years ago, Bob Murphy climaxed a summer hot streak that won him $70,000 in three weeks by cruising over the Upper Montclair Country Club course to the final Thunderbird Open title.

The portly 27-year-old is back at the scene of that victory, without a tournament victory since, but confident that his chances are as good as anyone's in the $300,000 Dow Jones Open, which opened today on the 7,085-yard Upper Montclair course. He says that despite the challenge of a Who's Who of Golf, attracted by the $60,000 first prize.

"I guess anybody who can afford a plane ticket is here," Murphy said after shooting a one over par 73 in the pro-amateur Wednesday. "But I'm playing well, and when I am, I can play with anyone."

Murphy's triumph here two years ago came during a three-week period in which he had two firsts and a second. It put him on the way to the PGA's Rookie-of-the-Year title.

Bengals Pick Up Pair Of Quarterbacks

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Virgil Carter, who recently shuffled off to Buffalo, has been shuffled on to Cincinnati.

The Cincinnati Bengals, sorely in need of quarterback help, picked up the signal caller from the Bills for an undisclosed future draft choice Wednesday.

Carter, a Brigham Young star, played two years with the Chicago Bears before going to Buffalo during the off-season. The Bengals, who lost No. 1 quarterback Greg Cook to injury recently, also picked up Bob Davis from the New York Giants. Davis, placed on waivers by the Giants, had been a reserve quarterback for the Houston Oilers for three years.

Carter completed 36 of 71 passes for 343 yards in a little-used role last year. In 1968, he passed for 769 yards while starting seven games.

Elsewhere in the National Football League, the Detroit Lions traded rookie guard Bob Parker to the Philadelphia Eagles for veteran receiver Chuck Hughes. Hughes, a four-year veteran, was a fourth-round draft choice of the Eagles in 1967.

The Baltimore Colts acquired running back Eugene Moore from San Francisco on waivers and announced the retirement of reserve linebacker Butch Riley.

The Minnesota Vikings cut defensive back Seth Miller, wide receiver John Spinks, kicker Les Perry and tackle Andy Koldstad.

Washington asked waivers on veterans Carl Kammerer, a defensive end, and Tom Brown, a strong safety, and named Floyd Peters as player-coach on the defensive line.

The Atlanta Falcons later claimed Kammerer.

The Dallas Cowboys traded an undisclosed draft choice to the New Orleans Saints for veteran safety Bobby Thompson.

Boston placed two players on the injured waiver list—quarterback Aaron Marsh and Ed Toner, a defensive tackle.

Receiver Willie Richardson returned to the Pittsburgh Steelers camp after three days' absence because of a contract dispute.

Red Parker Is Hoping For Rain

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Imagine a football coach praying for rain.

But it could happen in the case of Red Parker of The Citadel, a favorite in the Southern Conference race whose Sept. 12 opening-game opponent is Clemson of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

"I sure hope it rains the day we play Clemson," Parker said Wednesday after the Bulldogs had gone through their third pre-season day of practice—in the rain, as usual. "We won't know how to play on a dry field."

Highlight of the drills was completion of the installation of the veer offense for the season. The defense appeared to be ahead of the offense because of the wet weather and a battle for the quarterback spot.

"All we need now is a lot of work," said Parker. "We are having to think before every move and will have to work until we start to do things on instinct."

Contact work is on tap today for the first time at Furman after three days of work without pads. Coach Bob King said the Paladins had accomplished what they set out to do. "We wanted to get our physical conditioning off to a good start," he said. "I think we have done that."

Defensive ends Ron Douthit and Tom Ilderton were declared out of action for the season at East Carolina because of knee injuries. Both had been hurt in spring practice and had undergone surgery, but it was not until Wednesday that it was learned they would have to miss the campaign.

Quarterback Charlie Richards and split end Jim Livesay were impressive as Richmond's Spiders continued work on basic fundamentals. The Spiders are a little behind because some players still are in summer school, coach Frank Jones said.

Scott Miller was praised for his work at linebacker in Virginia Military Institute's new "bomb squad" defense, but coach Vito Ragazzo expressed concern at the Keydets' sluggishness.

Center Bob Herb, guard John Bilbo and tackle John Yonusonis were standouts in a 15-minute goal line scrimmage at William and Mary in which Wes Meter and Bubba Hooker were the top runners.

solve the problem in camp, a Steeler spokesman said.

Richardson, obtained by the Steelers from the Colts last week, had left the Colts, Pa. site over the weekend when he asked to have his contract renegotiated and the club refused.

Seven players with the flu missed their second straight day of practice at the San Francisco 49ers' camp. Coach Dick Nolan said he expected the sick players, including starters Dick Witcher and Charlie Krueger, to be ready for Saturday night's game against Denver.

Chicago announced that Jack Concannon would be the starting quarterback Saturday night against St. Louis. He supplants Bobby Douglass, who started the first three pre-season games.

Another Big League Bomb Scare; Orioles' Buford Likes Catfish

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
Tangling with Don Buford at 60 feet, six inches isn't Jim Hunter's idea of nocturnal bliss—especially on an August night in Baltimore.

Buford cuffed Hunter for a two-run homer Wednesday night, propelling the Orioles to a 5-1 victory over the fading Oakland A's.

It was the Baltimore mini-sluggers' 13th base hit in 21 at-bats against the Catfish over the past two years. And it was the Oakland right-hander's ninth loss in as many August decisions in those two seasons.

Elsewhere, a bomb scare in Cleveland failed to rattle Steve Hargan, who pitched the Indians to a 7-2 victory over Milwaukee; Minnesota blanked Boston 7-0 on rookie Bert Blyleven's four-hitter; the New York Yankees topped Kansas City 3-0 behind Stan Bahnsen; California beat Detroit 6-3 and the Chicago White Sox downed Washington 3-1.

Buford's 14th homer of the season, a third-inning shot over the right center field fence, gave Jim Palmer all the impetus he needed to gain his 18th victory. Buford also singled off reliever Bob Locker in the seventh and boosted his season batting average to .275. His two-year mark against Hunter is .619.

Palmer, who has lost seven, scattered six hits, including a homer by Felipe Alou in the fourth, as the Orioles breezed to their ninth win in 10 games.

Hunter, 15-12, has lost four in a row while the A's have dropped five straight and nine of their last 10 starts.

Home runs by Ted Uhlaender and rookie Roy Foster broke up a close game at Cleveland and gave Hargan his sixth straight victory since being recalled from the minors early last month.

A telephone report that a bomb would explode in Cleveland Stadium at 8 p.m., EDT, failed to halt the game and the deadline passed without incident. Police, however, made a search of the stands before the start of the game.

A similar bomb threat forced evacuation of Metropolitan Stadium in Minnesota during Tuesday night's game between the Twins and Boston.

Blyleven hurled the Twins out of a three-game tailspin by taming the Red Sox for his first major league shutout. Cesar Tovar drove in three runs with a single and double off Ray Culp, a longtime Minnesota nemesis, as the Twins protected their 3½-game West Division lead over second-place California.

Bahnsen stopped Kansas City on five hits and the Yankees jumped on Wally Bunker for three first inning runs to hand the winless right-hander his eighth loss.

California's Clyde Wright picked up his 18th victory with relief help from Ken Tatum as the Angeles beat Denny McLain on homers by Roger Repoz and Ken McMullen.

ACC Teams End Light Workouts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Most Atlantic Coast Conference football teams completed light workouts Wednesday and planned to don heavy equipment today for more strenuous practice.

Six University of North Carolina players drew praise from coaches for their performance. They were tailback Don McCauley, ends Bill Bradford and Ken Taylor, tackles Bud Grissom and Paul Hoolahan and linebacker Tom Cantrell.

At Clemson, Coach Hootie Ingram worked Wednesday on correcting individual mistakes that showed up in a controlled-type scrimmage the day before. He put his first units against the reserves in a full contact workout. He planned another scrimmage today.

Virginia's Cavaliers spent the day preparing for a closed scrimmage today.

Coach George Blackburn singled out two-year letterman

Andy Minton for praise in the defensive secondary. He also praised juniors Robbie Gustafson, Bob McGrail and Russ Bauda.

Duke Coach Tom Harp said he was pleased with his players' attitude and physical condition as the Blue Devils wound up three days of light workouts.

Senior defensive back John Cappellano suffered a severe sprained ankle and will miss anywhere from a week to 10 days of practice. In his absence, sophomore back Bill Nanenberg will be elevated to the first defensive unit.

Summer school final exams stripped the South Carolina squad to a bare majority as Coach Paul Dietzel directed the final light workout.

Fourth-string quarterback Jackie Young got a chance to work with the backfield as the first three were tied up with exams. The squad worked on on-sides kickoffs and field goal and kickoff coverage.

49ers Must Put A Lot Together

By ERIC PREWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers must put a lot of things together to keep their 25th season from becoming another frustrating football experience.

As usual, the team looks like a contender on paper—at least on one side of the page.

Returning quarterbacks John Brodie and Steve Spurrier gave the 49ers the most productive passing game in the National Football League last season. The team had 3,379 yards passing, and the total offensive yardage, 4,694, was second in the league.

But the 49ers' 277 points ranked 10th among the 14 teams. Despite outgaining their opponents by almost 500 yards, the 49ers were outscored 277-319 and had a 4-8-2 record.

How were all those offensive yards wasted?

"They say kicking and kick coverage is 25 per cent of football," says Coach Dick Nolan. "Last year, it was about 75 per cent for us. I hate to think of the games we could have won."

The placekicking this season will be done by Bruce Gossett, acquired from the Los Angeles Rams in a trade for cornerback Kermit Alexander. Gossett kicked 22 field goals in 1969, compared to the six the 49ers got from the since-departed Tommy Davis and Mornico Gavric.

There will be a new punter, too, because Jon Kilgore didn't report to training camp. Spurrier and rookie running back John Isenbarger are the most likely candidates.

Bruce Taylor, a first round draft pick from Boston University, should give the 49ers a strong kick return threat. He's also trying to win the cornerback job vacated by Alexander.

The 49ers have one of the best stockpiles of young talent in football, with two first round players from each of the last four college drafts. Nine rookies were on last year's squad.

Ready To Consider Peacekeeping Role

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — High administration officials say the United States would seriously consider agreeing to have U.S. and Soviet units join in a peacekeeping force for the Middle East.

The concept was outlined to 48 newspaper and broadcast executives from 13 Western states Monday. Release of the information was withheld for 48 hours. Ground rules of the session forbid direct quotation and identification of the sources.

The officials said Israel, in particular, wants on-the-ground security arrangements for assurance it is agreeing to a real, not a paper peace. They said U.N. involvement would not mean mere recourse to the Security Council, which the United States considers loaded against Israel.

Administration strategy for the Middle East is being built around the possibility that the United States and the Soviet Union may be embroiled there indefinitely in on-the-scene peacekeeping, the briefers said, and that both powers will have to agree to any settlement terms.

Whether the two would have to become involved in practical details of peacekeeping activities is still an open question, they said, but the United States never has precluded such an assignment and apparently does not intend to do so now.

Rural Electric Rates To Rise

RALEIGH (AP) — A federal rural electrification administration official says rural power rates will probably rise in the next few years.

Edward F. Wilson, deputy assistant REA administrator, made the prediction Wednesday before representatives of North Carolina's electric power cooperatives.

Wilson's prediction was reinforced by another speaker, Charles Robinson, special counsel of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association, who said both wholesale and retail rates are certain to go up.

"The only question is how much ... and who will bear the major portion of any increase," Robinson said.

The two addressed a joint meeting of the Tarheel Electric Membership Association and the North Carolina Electric Membership Corp.

Wilson said, "I think most (power) systems of North Carolina, either now or very soon, will have to make an upward adjustment of their rates to preserve their financial integrity. The consumer is going to demand of you a more constant voltage supply and this is going to cost more money.

Robinson, cited rising cost factors as certain to produce higher electricity rates.

Also addressing the meeting was North Carolina Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan. He said that if consumer interests are not protected on the state level, nationalization of electric power companies is possible.

Morgan said government regulation of utilities "must be vigorous to protect consumers" in the absence of normal market competition found in other businesses.

"If the public in this state and this country feels that its interest is not being protected, we may see some of the power companies nationalized," Morgan said.

He pledged that his office "will continue to take a very forceful role" in rate cases.

Perot To Speak At Charlotte

CHARLOTTE (AP) — "Just 1,500 Men" will be the subject of a talk by H. Ross Perot, the Texas millionaire working for better treatment of American prisoners in North Vietnam, during a Charlotte visit Oct. 27.

The Dallas businessman has worked for several years to generate public concern for the United States prisoners of war. He made a highly publicized but unsuccessful trip last year to Laos in an attempt to gain admission to North Vietnam to bring Christmas gifts to the prisoners.

The briefing was the third in a series of five that will cover all regions of the country. In large measure it was repetitive of one earlier in the month at New Orleans for the South.

On other points, the briefers said: —Vice President Spiro T. Agnew is underscoring the "Nixon Doctrine" on his current Asian trip, promising support but encouraging Asian nations to help themselves.

—As a result of the Cambodian sanctuary operations, the chances of survival of the current Lon Nol government in Cambodia are better than 50-50, compared to about one in four before that move.

—The strategic arms limitation talks, viewed with continued cautious optimism, are considered to be the best arms control negotiations the United States has ever engaged in with the Soviet Union. And, the Russians are described as taking a more sober approach than ever before. —On dissent in the United States over Vietnam policy, the administration was described as conscious of the concern of some of the country's most dedicated people. But one of the briefing officials commented that the people do not forgive leaders if they produce disasters—even if these disasters carry out the wishes of the people.

N.C. Foresters Fly To Help Northwest

RALEIGH (AP) — Twenty-five North Carolina foresters flew across the country Wednesday night to join in a U. S. Forest Service effort to control several major fires raging in the Pacific Northwest.

Roy Sowers Jr., director of the state Department of Conservation and development, said that the volunteer crew from the North Carolina Forest Service's regular and reserve units was expected to remain in the Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana area for two to three weeks.

Most of the fires are on national forest lands and the volunteers will be in the employment of the U. S. Forest Service during their stay in the northwest. The emergency assistance was requested by the federal agency's co-operative forest fire control division in Atlanta.

State Forester Ralph Winkworth, who organized the volunteer crew, said that although it is not unusual for North Carolina foresters to help fight blazes in other states, this is the first time a Tar Heel state crew has been called on to fight a fire west of the Mississippi River.

Gov. Bob Scott said "this will not leave our state in any fire danger. The potentially disastrous fire season for us occurs in the spring and late fall of each year."

Julie Watches The Boxoffice

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ordinarily you wouldn't expect Julie Andrews to be the kind of star who reports theater receipts on her movies.

But when we met, she cheerily told how "Darling Lili" is doing at the Radio City Music Hall in New York, America's largest film house: $280,000 in the first week for a nonholiday record, $282,723 in the third week.

Why this burst of immodesty? "I'm not so interested for myself," she explained, "but I'm happy for Blake. He has been so maligned about this picture that I am delighted that he is receiving some vindication."

She referred to Blake Edwards, the man who directed and cowrote "Darling Lili" and who since has become her husband. "During the making of the film there were reports of extravagance and scriptlessness. "Lili" proved to be an expensive girl—some say $20 million worth.

Edwards has said the film was plagued by rotten luck—bad weather in Ireland, riots in Brussels, etc.

"But I think he managed to make a vastly enjoyable film," said Julie, who rarely praises her own movies. "People are entertained by it; the Music Hall figures seem to prove that."

Elsewhere the grosses have ranged from fair to good, and the actress had mild reproof for the releasing company, Paramount, over its handling of the film.

"Three weeks before the opening, there was no advertising campaign. None whatsoever. Paramount didn't seem to know how it was going to sell this picture—or if, I simply can't understand an attitude like that." Miss Andrews is accustomed to bad reviews: "The Sound of Music" drew some of the harshest knocks in recent film history and still became the all-time No. 1 moneymaker. Compared to the earlier musical, "Darling Lili" has been rather well reviewed, especially Julie's work in it.

"Many of the critics couldn't decide what Blake was trying to do," she analyzed. "Some thought he was playing it seriously, some believed it was a spoof. They couldn't see that he was actually trying to do both. That's why it can be enjoyed by audiences of all ages."

Julie finished "Darling Lili" 15 months ago and hasn't made a movie since.

Personal considerations had something to do with her inactivity: her marriage to Edwards, her desire for some rest after four steady years of film making.

Also, the expensive film, with which she has been associated, is out of favor in the industry; inexpensive, "relevant" movies are in.

Julie remarked that none of the scripts she has read lately has convinced her to go back to work. She had been scheduled for "She Loves Me" at MGM and "I Do! I Do!" for the Mirisch Brothers, but both were canceled because of costs.

"I'm hopeful that the producers will go back to the inexpensive musical, but no one seems to be trying that now," she said.

Concerning the current film trend: "I think audiences will always want the so-called 'blockbuster' kind of film."

The human heart does enough work each day to lift the human body a mile.

Pollution Claim Filed

ALBEMARLE, N.C. (AP)—A group of Stanly County residents have posted a $200,000 claim with the city of Albemarle alleging the city sewer system has polluted Long Creek.

The 26 residents are property owners along the Long Creek drainage area southwest of Albemarle.

They called on the city to "pay for the losses these citizens have suffered for the past five or more years from the poisonous, polluted, nauseous fumes in waters flowing continuously from the faulty, inadequate and neglected sewage system of the City of Albemarle."

Mayor Elbert L. Whitely Jr. said Wednesday, "We welcome this claim because we feel that it will alert the people of Albemarle to the need for proceeding with our plans for a new sewage plant."

The city plans a bond referendum for sewage plant improvements. About $300,000 has been spent on the plant in the last two years, Whitely said.

To Study Tract For Zoo Use

RALEIGH (AP) — A 1,000-acre tract in the Research Triangle area will be studied to determine its suitability for a North Carolina state zoo.

The Central Zoological Parks Committee is trying to get the Triangle area chosen for the proposed zoo. A committee spokesman, Robert Upton, said Wednesday that the land has been offered at no cost.

Upton declined to identify the person offering the land or to specify exactly where it is situated.

The site would have to meet U. S. Department of Agriculture standards before it could be considered for a zoo.

Favors A Ban On Parathion

RALEIGH (AP) — A North Carolina health official says that despite a dispute over whether parathion caused a death in the state, he feels the insecticide should be banned.

Dr. Martin P. Hines, director of the Board of Health's division of epidemiology, also expressed disappointment that agriculture officials have chosen to dispute that it was parathion which caused poisonings.

Hines' comments came after two investigators issued conflicting opinions Wednesday on the death of a Pink Hill farm boy, Daniel Boyette, 7.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Boyette, died July 31. His parents said he suddenly became ill after working in a field where they had sprayed parathion several weeks earlier.

The chief medical examiner, Dr. Page Hudson, ruled that the boy died of organic phosphorus poisoning from parathion.

The child's brother, Curtis, became ill Aug. 5 and was rushed to a hospital, where he was treated for six days before being released. Curtis' doctors said he had been poisoned by parathion.

Dr. William Cobb, state chemist, said Wednesday that Daniel may have come in contact with parathion that was spilled in the yard of his family's home, rather than having been infected in the tobacco fields as originally believed.

But Dr. Cipriano Cueto, chief staff officer of pesticide safety evaluation of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, said he doubted that parathion was even involved.

Cueto said he based his opinion on clinical findings, specifically the absence of excretions of parathion in the victim's urine.

"In all cases of such poisoning this is present, particularly if it terminates in death," he said.

Cobb's revelation was the first mention that parathion was present in the Boyettes' yard. Cobb said a gallon of the chemical had been spilled in the trunk of the family car around the middle of July and that it was allowed to drain into the yard.

"If anybody walked through that stuff barefooted it would be pretty rough," Cobb said.

The boy's death brought demands that the pesticide be banned, but agriculture officials have opposed such a move.

Hines said in a statement that he was "disappointed that officials of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, North Carolina Department of Agriculture, and the North Carolina State University Extension Service have chosen to dispute the cases of parathion poisoning which have been diagnosed by the chief medical examiner, Dr. R. Page Hudson, and physicians at the North Carolina Medical Center.

"These are only two of numerous diagnosed cases of parathion poisoning that have occurred and have been diagnosed by physicians throughout the state, including several at Duke University Medical Center.

"... cases of apparent parathion poisoning continue to be reported in North Carolina. Until it can be used in a safe manner and stored in a safe place where children and workers will not be exposed, it is my opinion that parathion should not be used."

See Unrest On Campuses

NEW YORK (AP) — Campus unrest will continue during the coming school year, with its intensity depending on the political and social climate at home and U.S. involvement abroad, a group of college presidents predicts.

Ten campus heads were asked by the Ladies Home Journal whether they believed the institutions would "cool down" or whether protest actions would continue to disturb the traditional routine.

The replies printed in the magazine's September issue included the presidents of the University of Notre Dame, City University of New York, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, University of California at Berkeley, San Francisco State and Fordham University.

KEEPING WATCH — A bust of President Lincoln stands watch at the entrance to the U.S. Capitol rotunda in Washington. During the course of a day many visitors pass by, but few ever see this angle which was photographed by AP photographer Bub Daugherty who used a wide-angle "fish-eye" lens. (AP Wirephoto).

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Thomas O. Paine is pondering a big decision before he bows out as head of the nation's space agency—how many more times America will go to the moon aboard Apollo.

Paine is expected to decide late this week or early next on whether there will be six more Apollo moonflights as scheduled or just four.

If he decides on four, the other two launch vehicles—already paid for and delivered—would be used for a Skylab orbital flight in 1973 and possibly a space station program in 1976.

Paine's resignation as chief of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is effective Sept. 15.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has approved a 10 per cent increase, effective next month, in passenger fares on 22 railroads.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scientists plan to begin testing convict volunteers soon with a new type of preventive serum for cholera, says Dr. John Seal.

Seal, director of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases, said it is hoped the new vaccine will offer protection for at least two years, compared with just six months for present serums.

Seal added, however, that even if it proves a success, it will not be available in time for use in the current outbreaks overseas.

Public Notices
NOTICE OF SALE FOR TAXES
Under and by virtue of the power vested in me by the laws of the State of North Carolina, particularly Chapter 310 of the Public Laws of 1939, as amended and pursuant to an order of Pitt County Board of Commissioners, I will offer for sale and will sell at public auction for cash to the highest bidder at the Courthouse door in Greenville at 12 o'clock noon on Tuesday, the 8th day of September, 1970, liens upon the real estate described below for the nonpayment of taxes owing the year 1969. The name of the owner or of the person who listed the real estate for taxes, the real estate which is subject to the lien, and the amount of the lien being set out below. Reference is made to the records in the Office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County and in the Office of the Tax Supervisor for more particular description of said real estate, and notice is hereby given that the amount of the liens set out below are subject to the addition of penalties as provided by law, and the cost of sale.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force has awarded $191.3 million to General Dynamics Corp., Ft. Worth, Tex., as final payment for cost overruns on production of the troubled swing-wing F111 fighter-bombers.

General Dynamics received an overrun payment of 127 million last June.

The Air Force said last spring that the cost of the original $3.6 billion contract for 493 of the planes had risen to $4.2 billion.

The announcement Wednesday on the final payment did not disclose whether the $193.3 million was part of the previous estimate of overrun.

Find A Laugh In Golf Clubs

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Terence Cardinal Cooke of New York got a laugh when he told President Nixon about his new golf clubs inscribed with the motto in Latin: "Lord, have mercy on me."

The President responded that comedian Bob Hope suggested that the same motto should be on his clubs.

The Roman Catholic cardinal was visiting the Western White House Wednesday to report on his recent tour of U.S. military bases in Europe. A third golfer, orchestra leader Lawrence Welk, also was there to discuss the problems of youths and drugs.

24 HOURS ONLY!

FRIDAY AUGUST 28 9 to 9 Convenient Terms

HERE'S AN IMPORTANT MESSAGE FOR YOU! If you need Furniture, Bedding, Carpet or Appliances Now IS THE TIME TO BUY! And Brown's is the place to buy them at the lowest prices you'll find anywhere around. It's going to be just ONE BIG DAY, tomorrow (FRIDAY, AUG. 28) from 9 in the morning until 9 at night. All our employees have been off SLEEPING yesterday and today, so there ain't a soul that really knows what all is going to be on Sale. This will be our SURPRISE PARTY as well as yours, like opening Christmas packages early. So let's get started, here's HOPING that you'll come in and join the fun, tomorrow at Brown's West End Circle.

For openers let's pick a really good'un. How about a MAPLE ROUND TABLE with 4 MATES CHAIRS that retails for $139.95. We've got one set for the smashing low price of $99.00. That's a bargain in anybody's language and the table has a mar-resistant plastic top, too. If that didn't hit you, how about a Bassett 4 pc. Spanish BEDROOM SUITE. We've tried to sell it for $299 for a year or so, but now we wheel and deal at only $199 complete with large dresser framed mirror (a mirror is part of the dresser in our figuring) roomy chest and full size bed, and we found some tables. It's been said that occasional tables are the Costume Jewelry of the Home... We have some Gems. There's one group of Athens SOLID MAPLE TABLES that would retail from $49.95 to $59.95 each — they're Big Heavy Ones! We're gonna let 'em go at $34.00 EACH. Up near the door there's 2 BIG BEAUTIFUL DOOR STYLE COCKTAIL TABLES that sell for $119.95 to $139.95. We'll sell them for $68.99 EACH. There's 2 OCTAGON SHAPED DOOR STYLE COMMODO TABLES that sell regularly for $119.95 — OUT THEY GO at only $99.95 EACH. There's also several MARBLE TOP TABLES that are too much at home here... COME GET 'EM AT LESS THAN HALF PRICE. You say "SOME OF THESE PRICES SOUND LESS THAN WHOLESALERS" — THEY ARE! Many items in this ad will be sold at LESS THAN FACTORY COST and we've only room on this page for a handful of the SPECTACULAR BUYS YOU'LL FIND. While still in the living room section check on this beauty. A FINE QUALITY TRADITIONAL STYLE 2 piece LIVING ROOM SUITE IN GOLD... It's been on our floor too long — Regular $439.95... This one's going FOR ONLY $319.00! While you have the chance there's 2 MORE SUITES that we're tired of looking at... they're good'un's too! Both good values at the Regular Price of $399.95, they're gonna be sold for only $248.00 Each. THIS NEXT BUY IS GUARANTEED TO BE AN EYE OPENER! A $399.95, HIDE-A-WAY BED SOFA FOR ONLY $155.00. RIDICULOUS??? YES BUT TRUE! THERE'S ONE MORE IN TRADITIONAL STYLE, REGULAR PRICE $329.95... SALE PRICED $158.00. O. B. Townsend and Bob Long our Buyers are blaming each other for ordering these sofas... We don't know which one is telling the truth, but we know there's gonna be two HAPPY CUSTOMERS that buy these sofas for MUCH LESS THAN WHOLESALERS! That's the way this Sale is — you'll think somebody at BROWN'S has "GONE OFF THEIR ROCKER" — maybe we have, but we feel that good furniture that is taking up valuable space we may as well "PITCH A REAL DOSEY OF A SALE." Here's a couple of "REAL DOOR BUSTERS" — Take it easy on our doors we aren't finished paying for the place yet! OK BARGAIN HUNTERS, 60 PC. SETS OF GOLDEN ROYAL DINNERWARE, Regular $49.95 — Price $29.95 (Four Sets Only) Two ROUND HASSOCKS — $12.95 Value Only $4.99 EACH. WANT MORE? How about a tall Zodiac waste basket for only $1.00. HURRY! QUANTITY IS LIMITED... Let's get some "REAL GOODIES" in home furnishings... BEDROOM? Oh Yes! A LENOIR HOUSE 3 PC. FRENCH PROVINCIAL SUITE. Triple dresser, Framed Mirror, Chest and Shaped Headboard that sells at $399.95. We're gonna let one HAPPY SHOPPER BUY IT FOR $298.00. And here's another real dandy... A BIG TRIPLE DRESSER 3 PC. SUITE with Mirror, Bed and Large Chest, Modern Style, regularly $299.95 — there's a small dent in the dresser Only $189.00 — WOW! That one will really break O. B.'s Heart! If it didn't this one will! A BEAUTIFUL MEDITERRANEAN 3 PC. SUITE BY BERNHARDT — Fruitwood finish Smooth as Silk. A GOOD VALUE AT $599.95, one only for $418.00 — the Dresser Alone IS WORTH MORE! It's a mystery why our salesman B. J. Wright hasn't sold these bedroom suites! He's a whiz at that kind of thing. Speaking of Salesman, if you've read this far, take a break, have a coke and we'll dig up some "REAL SALESMAN'S SPECIALS!" Leroy Smith is our best TV salesman and he has a COLOR TV that he's just itching to "give away!" It's a big Curtis Mathes home entertainment center 23-color TV FM-AM radio BSR Record Changer!! The regular price was $999.00. Leroy says he'll let it go for $795.00. There are several good pieces of furniture here that ole smooth-stepping B. J. Wright is eyeing the SALE TAGS on. We don't blame him either... Five Pc. Living Room Group by Fox — Reg. $399.95 — ONLY $279.00. Early American LOUNGE CHAIR BY JOHNSON — CARPER. Print cover, Regular $99.95 Sale Price $44.00! ONE 54" GREEN VINYL SLEEPY HOLLOW STYLE LOVE SEAT, Regular $119.95, Sale Price $88.00! One SOLID MAPLE EARLY AMERICAN CABINET by Casard, Regular $79.95 Sale Price $49.00. 4 BIG COMFORTABLE RECLINING CHAIRS, Regular $99.95, sale Priced $58.88. TWO QUEEN ANNE STYLE WING BACK CHAIRS — Regular $159.95, Sale Price $109.00! No wonder Larry Greene is eyeing these prices, he'll probably try to buy some of it for himself. Our Mr. Hollingsworth is vacationing this week (Boy do we envy him)... before leaving he asked us to mention the following OUTSTANDING BARGAINS, that he's sure some of his friends will be interested in... 2 Big DESKS, one Traditional and one Mediterranean style, Regular Price Tags of $29.95... Mr. Hollingsworth says let 'em go for $12.00 each. No wonder he went on vacation. (Joe Doaks) AND (Frank Hoolihan) say that any salesman offering our best quality merchandise at these prices is overdue for a vacation. Opening lead: Four of ♠
 In order to put something over on the defense, a declarer must make his move early in the play—before his opponents have an opportunity to anticipate the course of events. An apt illustration of this principle is provided in our current offering, taken from a recent team of four match.

A contract of six hearts was reached at both tables on the sequence of bids given in the diagram. Although the respective declarers, seated South, adopted the same basic plan of campaign, their psychology and timing were poles apart.
 West feared that a lead from one of his kings might cost him a trick. He therefore adopted a passive course by opening a trump. At one table, South won the trick in his hand and promptly led a small spade. West followed with the eight and the queen was successfully finessed.

Trumps were drawn in two more pulls. Three rounds of clubs were cashed followed by the ace of spades. South had now completed his stripping arrangements in the black suits and exited with a spade. West was in with the king and his forced return of a diamond into declarer's ace-queen, eliminated the latter's remaining concern and South claimed his contract—having lost one spade trick.

At the other table, declarer began by drawing three rounds of trumps on which East discarded the deuce of diamonds and the four of spades to indicate a lack of interest in either suit. Next came the top three clubs ending up in the closed hand. When South finally got around to leading a spade, West was fully tuned in on his opponent's intentions.

It was clear to West that if he adopted a passive course, South would take the spade finesse and then throw him in on the third round. East's discouraging discard in diamonds provided a clear-cut indication that the declarer held both the ace and queen of that suit. Desperate measures were in order therefore if West was to avoid a fatal enplan.

When the three of spades was led, West played the jack. North covered with the queen which won the trick. The ace was cashed next and West completed his unblocking maneuver by dropping the king. On the next lead, East put up the ten of spades to win the trick. A diamond return by East assured West of scoring the setting trick with the king.

Hereafter.

One of my major reasons for launching this "Worry Clinic" column was to help give you laymen the basic facts for happy, healthy living. If you apply your common sense, and have access to a few basic medical or psychological laws, you can free yourself from hypochondria.

Recently a medical friend of mine got so irritated at a young mother that he ordered her to get rid of her fever thermometer at once!

For this mother would rush to the doctor every time her child had even one degree of temperature above 98.6. Thus, she harassed the physician till he tried to save her money and soothe his own ragged nerves. Whenever the child bumped its head, she would demand to go to the hospital 35 miles away for head X-ray and a stay in bed. Use more common sense! And urge your high schools to teach a few basic facts about physiology, as well as everyday medicine.

If a child or adult suffers a severe head blow, keep the patient in bed. And look at his eyes to see if the pupils are unequal, for internal hemorrhaging often shows up first by the unequal pupils.

If after 24 hours he has no abnormal twitching or paralysis of arm or leg, and no unequal pupils, then you have saved yourself both a medical fee and a hospital visit! (Always write to Dr. Crane enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Falconer Keeps Fearful Family

By HOWARD A. TYNER
BELLSTEIN, West Germany (UPI)—When Claus Fentzloff lets his pets out to play, everyone else in the neighborhood calls their in.

Fentzloff is a falconer and his feathered legions consist of half a dozen falcons, 10 eagles, 17 vultures, 8 giant eagle-owls and another 40 or so smaller birds of prey.

He keeps his fearsome family in the ruins of an 800-year-old castle perched above the lush green vineyards tended by residents of this village in southern West Germany.

Townfolk dismayed at the thought of an eagle breakfasting on the family cat console themselves with the knowledge that falconry annually draws more than 100,000 visitors.

"I really receive very few complaints," said Fentzloff. Falconry, the sport of hunting with birds of prey, flourished in Germany during the Middle Ages. It became popular again at the beginning of his century and today there are more than 400 registered German falconers.

Fentzloff is no ordinary falconer. The castle above Beilstein also serves as a clinic for injured birds. "Only about half our birds are full-time," he explained while supervising training of an Asian vulture in the castle's grassy courtyard. "The rest have been brought here injured or as abandoned young. We treat them, sometimes put them on display, and eventually turn them free."

A walk around the crumbling castle's vine-covered outer wall reveals an astonishing array of meat-eating birds—each securely tethered with tough leather thongs.

There is Florian, the 25-pound vulture Wong, the giant fish owl; Leif and Tabu, the golden eagles and a scattering of snowy owls. They came from Asia, Africa and South America as well as Europe.

On weekends Fentzloff puts some of his "full-timers" through their paces for the public. First come the falcons. Streaking round the castle tower they snap dummy pigeons out of the air as fast as Fentzloff can toss them over his head.

Prefers To Aid People

NEW YORK (AP)—Kathleen Kennedy, 19, eldest of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's 11 children, says she would "much rather work with Indians or Eskimos—with people—than with ecology."

Because of environmental pollution, "slowly everything's dying out," the Radcliffe College freshman said in an interview in the current issue of Seventeen magazine. "But I think the people suffering and dying right now are awfully important."

Interviewed before the end of the spring semester, Miss Kennedy spoke of her plans to work with Eskimos this summer. She worked with Indians on a reservation two summers ago.

She said that by continuing to work "in the system" she is keeping faith with the ideals of her father, who was slain June 1968 in Los Angeles.

Robbs Move Into $59,500 House

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP)—Charles Robb and his wife, former President Lyndon B. Johnson's daughter Lynda Bird, have moved into a 10-room, $59,500 house so Robb can be nearer the University of Virginia where he will begin law school this fall. Real estate sources said the Robbs signed a contract to buy the home June 23.

The Worry Clinic Hypochondria Can Be Costly

Eva's boss has long been a "Worry Wart" about his health. Now he is "steamed up" about his psychoanalyst, who may be helping him considerably. But Eva says he wants to coerce all his office force to take a year's seances on the psychoanalyst's couch.

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph. D., M.D.
 CASE 0-516: Eva D., aged 22, is worried.
 "Dr. Crane," she began, "my boss has been a hypochondriac all his life, I guess.
 "But recently he consulted a psychoanalyst.

"Now he is such a zealot for psychoanalysis, that he is trying to force all of us in his personal office, to take a long series of treatments.

"He goes 3 times per week and the seances are supposed to continue for at least a year or more.

"But I am happy and well adjusted, so why should I spend my hard earned money lying on a couch and reminiscing about my private life to a psychoanalyst?"

Eva has "horse sense" or gumption.

The basic aim of medicine is really to free humanity from the need to consult physicians.

So the more you can learn to handle your own problems, the more money you can retain out of your pay checks! And the lower will be taxes!

For Medicare and the current mad stampede to hospitals, is zooming our tax rates dangerously high.

Yet many people are such "Worry Warts" about their health that they squander literally BILLIONS every year on needless drugs, vitamins and medical consultation!

Indeed, in Hollywood, it has now become a fad to have your own personal psychiatrist!

That's ridiculous!

By 1972, the average cost per day per hospital room has been predicted at $100.

And that doesn't include X-ray, or your medicines, sleeping pills, etc.

If Americans would stop being such "fraidy cats about their health and realize that 85 per cent of ALL medical cases get well IN SPITE OF WHAT WE DOCTORS DO FOR YOU, they'd save money!

Alas, millions are more concerned with making sure they can get into a hospital than to be admitted into Heaven!

This mad stampede for medical treatment is a direct evidence of the decline in religion and belief in a
