

Ten Police Are Shot In Three Cities

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ten policemen in three cities were shot over the weekend, five of them in Philadelphia, where one died. Outbreaks of urban violence also occurred in Los Angeles where one person was killed in Mexican-American rioting and in Washington, D.C. where two foreign missions were bombed.

The latest shooting in Philadelphia came after dawn today when police raiders exchanged gunfire with barricaded occupants of what police said were a headquarters of black militants. Police said Patrolman Frank Eckman was hit in the leg when he and others crashed through the door of a Black Panther community information center in the North Philadelphia area. Fourteen arrests were made. Philadelphia police Sgt. Frank VonColln, 43, was shot to death Saturday night while talking on the telephone in the guard house at Cobbs Creek Park. Earlier, park guard James Harrington, 39, was shot in the mouth while patrolling in an emergency wagon.

Sunday night, two highway patrolmen were shot and one was critically wounded in an incident in the same area, but Police Commissioner Frank Rizzo said he did not think the two shooting incidents were connected.

Rizzo blamed what he called a band of organized revolutionaries for the Saturday shootings. Four men were arrested and two others are being sought. "These men set out to—as they say—kill pigs," he said.

Rizzo said that highway patrolmen Thomas J. Gibbons, 25, and Frank Nolan, 28, were shot Sunday night as they approached a car with two men after chasing and curbing the vehicle. They shot back and wounded one of the men who was apprehended.

Gibbons was reported in critical condition and Nolan as satisfactory.

Four policemen in Riverside, Calif., 65 miles southeast of Los Angeles, were shot from ambush Sunday night during a search of a Mexican-American neighborhood for persons suspected of throwing firebombs earlier. None was reported seriously injured.

Police said they did not know what precipitated the throwing of firebombs and rocks in a city park. Four persons were arrested but none was charged in the shootings, police said.

Trouble also erupted Sunday night in the Wilmington section of Los Angeles.

Police said about 500 Mexican-Americans touched off several fires in a 12-block area, threw rocks and hurled bottles. Some arrests were made.

Saturday night, one person died, more than 60 were injured and 185 jailed. Property damage estimates ranged up to $1 million with 178 businesses vandalized or looted.

Killed was Ruben Salazar, 42, a Mexican-American newsman covering the parade as news director of a Spanish-language television station and columnist for the Los Angeles Times. He was hit by a police tear gas projectile.

In New York City, a Bronx patrolman was hit with a shotgun blast in an unprovoked attack early Sunday. Two hours later, the police department ordered foot patrolmen to walk all night beats in pairs.

The patrolman, Pio Rizzo, was in fair condition following the assault, the latest in an increasing number of attacks on police in the city this year.

Washington, D.C., authorities found an unexploded bomb near a Portuguese office building Sunday. The discovery came less than 16 hours after the nearby Portuguese Embassy and the Rhodesian Information Officer were damaged by separate blasts.

No one was injured in the two blasts. The Associated Press received a letter from an underground "Revolutionary Action Party" which said it was at war with all white nationalistic governments. An anonymous caller said the letter was related to both blasts.

In Wichita, Kan., a band of black youths chopped down the door of the Kappa Sigma fraternity house near Wichita State University early Sunday and fought with the 15 white residents.

Police broke up the melee and held 20 of the youths overnight for curfew violation. The fraternity president said the trouble began with a fight between two members and some blacks in front of the house.

Police in Springfield, Mass., arrested 72 persons and seized an estimated $3,000 worth of drugs during weekend disturbances at a park. A window was broken on one police cruiser and a patrolman slightly injured when it was dispatched to check reports of a crowd blocking a roadway.

Order 2 Extra Weeks Of Court

Two additional weeks of Superior Court have been tentatively scheduled for Pitt County this fall in order to handle an unusually large number of capital cases awaiting trial.

After conferring, District Solicitor Luther Hamilton Jr., Resident Judge Robert D. Route Jr. and Presiding Judge Joshua S. James indicated that tentative plans have been made for the two additional weeks of court and consideration is being given to additional terms if it appears that they will be required.

According to Pitt County Clerk of Superior Court H.L. Lewis, one of the additional weeks has been scheduled for October 12, while the second week has been tentatively set to begin November 30.

The October 12 week will make a two-week session of a sitting of the court scheduled for October 5, while the November 30 week will add one week to the December 7 term previously scheduled.

According to Pitt County Sheriff Ralph Tyson, six individuals are awaiting trial on capital crimes including murder, rape and first degree burglary.

The court concluded a two-week term last Friday. That entire term was taken up with a rape-burglary trial.

FUEL HEARINGS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas McIntyre, D-N.H., warned today of an impending critical shortage in the Northeast's low-cost fuel supply and announced his small business subcommittee will conduct hearings on the matter.

Band Of Gunmen Raid And Loot Navy Arsenal

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Gunmen invaded a Navy arsenal about two miles from a nuclear weapons storage point and escaped with firearms and ammunition while five sailors they had tied up watched helplessly, the FBI reports.

The robbery Sunday at the Cecil Field Naval Air Station was pulled off by raiders armed with pistols, the FBI said. The exact number of raiders has not been determined but at least three were involved, a FBI spokesman reported.

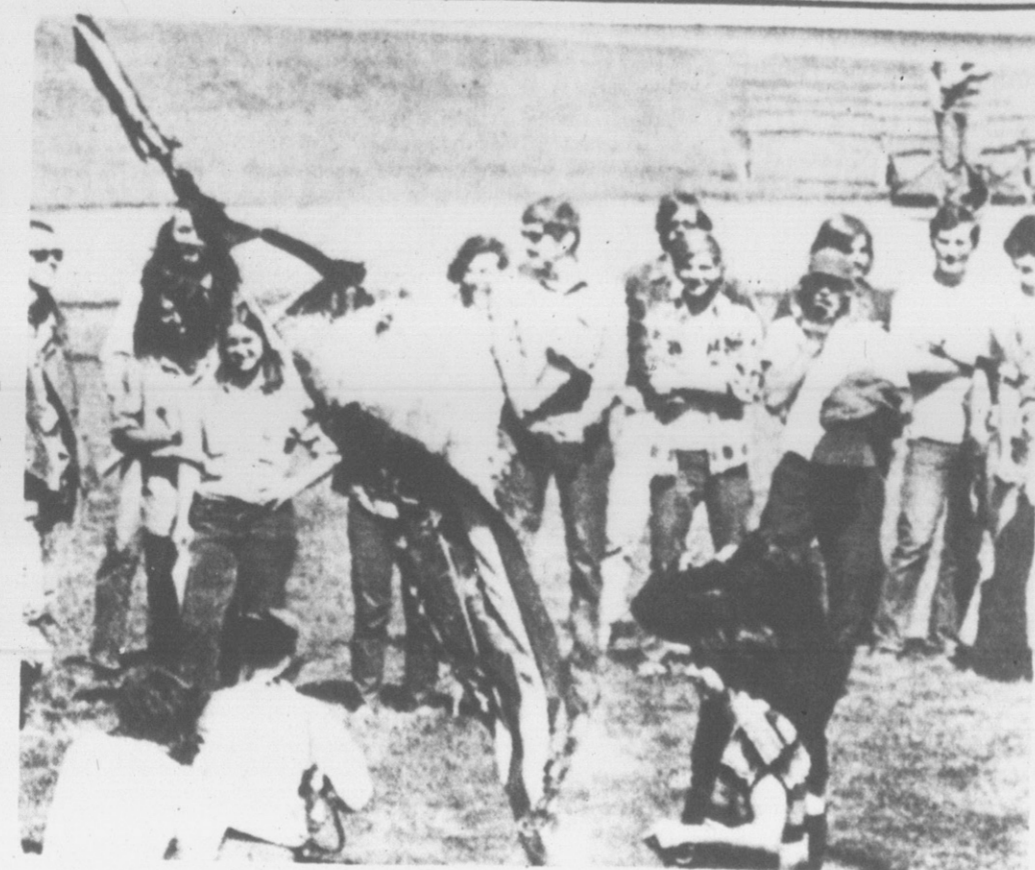

An investigation revealed that the intruders remained for 90 minutes at the arsenal, located about two miles from the Cecil Field storage point for nuclear weapons.

Authorities said the arsenal is guarded by a civilian security force employed by the Defense Department.

An FBI agent said none of the sailors saw all of the early morning Negro intruders. Investigators said one of the group may have been a woman or a man wearing a wig.

"Numerous hand guns and small arms weapons were taken including seven carbines," the FBI said.

Israeli Dispute With U.S. Over Ceasefire Violations 'Strenuous'

TEL AVIV (AP) — Prime Minister Golda Meir said today Israel is engaged in a "strenuous dispute" with the United States over Israeli charges of Egyptian violations of the Middle East cease-fire along the Suez Canal.

"As initiator of the proposal, the United States promised that neither side would be allowed to improve its position through the cease-fire," she told a meeting of the Histadrut, Israel's labor federation.

"Only a few hours passed (after the shooting halt took effect Aug. 7) and already the Egyptians began violating the agreement, and these violations are still continuing," she said.

"Israel cannot concede on this point and agree to become weaker if fighting is renewed on the canal."

Israel claims Egypt is moving missiles into the so-called forbidden zone—a 30-mile-wide strip along both sides of the canal where, according to the cease-fire agreement, no military materiel may be moved up at least for the 90-day duration of the truce.

Mrs. Meir denied Israel accepted the cease-fire because its air force could not stand up to Soviet missiles in the canal zone.

This was a rebuff to Foreign Minister Abba Eban, who said Saturday that had Israel rejected the cease-fire, it would have lost its air superiority against Egypt.

In Jerusalem informants said the Israeli Cabinet appeared in a crisis, with doves and hawks in sharp dispute on whether to continue with the peace talks in New York in the light of the Israeli charges of Egyptian violations.

The Israeli delegate to the talks at U.N. headquarters is staying in Israel at least until the middle of the week, awaiting the outcome of the Cabinet debate.

The Jerusalem informants said some of the Cabinet ministers were seeking to close the

Counting Votes

SAIGON (AP) — A moderately pro-government slate and one backed by the opposition An Quang Buddhist faction were leading today in first returns from South Vietnam's senatorial elections.

The three top 10-man tickets will win election, making up half of the 60-member senate. Sixteen slates made the race.

In first place was the pro-government ticket headed by Sen. Huynh Van Cao, a former general, with 708,607 votes. The An Quang ticket, headed by Vu Van Mau, had 629,288. In third place was the slate of Sen. Nguyen Van Huyen, the senate president, with 549,682 votes.

Despite more than 60 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese rocket and mortar attacks which killed 55 Vietnamese civilians and wounded 140, the government said 4.3 million votes were cast. That was two-thirds of the registered voters.

The An Quang faction boycotted the 1967 elections which brought in the present government of President Nguyen Van Thieu and the current senate.

Traditionally, the An Quang Buddhists have been militantly anti-government. In the campaign, the slate demanded "instant peace," and the abolition of "illiteracy, corruption, hunger, disunity, and dictatorship," which it said tends to encourage the growth of communism. Its leader, Vu Van Mau, was foreign minister under President Ngo Dinh Diem.

The favored Cao slate includes representatives of numerous religious and ethnic factions—men from the Hoa Hao and Cao Dai sects, a Montagnard mountain tribesman and a Cambodian. The Cambodian is the brother of Son Ngoc Thanh, leader of the anti-Sihanouk Khmer Serei movement and a close adviser to Cambodia's Premier Lon Nol.

Final results were expected late today, but the official results will not be declared until Sept. 14.

gap of disagreement between the doves and Defense Minister Moshe Dayan over whether to continue the talks in the light of the Israeli charges against Egypt.

Yosef Tekoah, the Israeli ambassador to the United Nations, who flew to Jerusalem last week after a day of Arab-Israeli meetings with the U.N. Middle East special envoy, Gunnar V. Jarring, reported to the seven-hour Cabinet meeting in Jerusalem on Sunday. A spokesman said later Tekoah would remain in Israel for another Cabinet session Tuesday.

Dayan met twice with Mrs. Meir during the weekend, then was joined by the Israeli military chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Haim Bar-Lev in presenting to the Cabinet the military's position on the alleged violations.

'Intrepid' Will Defend The Americas Cup
NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Intrepid, a sleek 12-meter yacht, and its crew have realized Bill Ficker's thrill of a lifetime—the right to defend the America's Cup.

"This is a great thrill to be selected..." Intrepid's skipper said Sunday after being named to defend the Cup against Gretel II of Australia beginning Sept. 15.

The America's Cup Committee of the New York Yacht Club announced Intrepid's selection after she beat Valiant for the sixth straight time in the final trials. The margin of victory in Intrepid's ninth straight triumph and 22nd in 27 races since July was 1 minute, 51 seconds.

Intrepid will be the first to defend the cup twice in succession since Columbia in 1899 and 1901. Intrepid beat Dame Pattie of Australia 4-0 in 1967.

President Asserts U.S. War Role In Vietnam Ending

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer
SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon said today that "so far as the United States involvement is concerned in Vietnam, peace is certain."

He referred, in a taped television interview for today's CBS Morning News, to the program of withdrawing U.S. troops and replacing them with South Vietnamese.

The President also expressed the view that there is "some hope" for the Middle East situation now that a cease-fire has been called. He played down suggestions at this time for a U.S.-Soviet peace-keeping force in the area.

Nixon said he would predict nothing and expect nothing as Hanoi's chief negotiator Xuan Thuy returns to the Paris peace talks Thursday.

There are no new U.S. initiatives, Nixon said, but "we are in a very flexible negotiating position" and "now we shall see whether the other side is interested in one too."

The interview was filmed at the Western White House Saturday.

Asked whether he thought chances for peace were better in the Middle East or Southeast Asia, Nixon declined to speculate.

Before the cease-fire, Nixon remarked, the Middle East situation "had no hope, since the cease-fire, it has some hope." He cautioned against being overly optimistic, saying differences and passions going back thousands of years "are not settled quickly."

"However, as far as we are concerned, we believe we have made some progress," he said. "Because, after all, there is a cease-fire. People aren't being killed now. And as long as that goes on, it looks better than it was." Nixon was asked about a suggestion mentioned by high administration officials at a Western White House briefing for news executives last week of the possibility of a U.S.-Soviet military force under United Nations auspices to keep the Middle East peace.

"I would not comment on it at this time," the President said, adding:

"I do not believe that suggestions of that type, well intentioned as they are, are going to be particularly helpful at a time when the Jarring mission is going forward."

He referred to the Israeli-Arab talks being conducted at the United Nations by Ambassador Gunnar Jarring.

Nixon has scheduled a general review of the Middle East situation at the Western White House Tuesday with State and Defense departments, Central Intelligence and military chiefs represented.

In the interview with John Hart and Bernard Kalb, Nixon also discussed his practice of leaving Washington from time to time to stay here, in Florida or at his Camp David retreat in Maryland.

"It changes the perspective, so that you aren't in a rut, you don't think in a way that is non-creative," he said, adding:

"A beautiful place is a place to, well, to clear the mind but when it comes to making important decisions or it comes to writing something that has to be precise, there is no substitute for just sitting in a bare room."

Nixon turned aside as "pre-mature" a question whether he could conceive of anyone but Spiro T. Agnew as a running mate in 1972.

But he added, "I would say the vice president was a great asset to our ticket during the campaign. He has been a very strong vice president. He has done a very effective job in his travels abroad and in the United States."

Riot Followed Demonstration

By BILL KOSMAN
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The first full-scale riot in this city since the Watts holocaust of 1965 has left one person dead, more than 60 injured, 185 jailed and 178 businesses vandalized or looted.

Property damage estimates range up to $1 million.

Authorities and spokesmen for the peaceful Mexican-American antiwar parade and rally that preceded the violence Saturday disagreed on how and why the trouble started.

Chanting "Chicano power" and "Viva la Raza" (long live the people), a cheerful crowd variously estimated at 7,000 to 20,000 had marched three miles on a hot afternoon through East Los Angeles, a rundown community where one million Mexican-Americans live.

Mexican-Americans had come from many states to protest the war and make public their claim that proportionately more Chicanos die in Vietnam than members of other groups, spokesmen said.

Trouble erupted Sunday night in the Wilmington section, 20 miles south of downtown Los Angeles. Police said about 500 Mexican-Americans touched off several fires in a 12-block area, pitched rocks and hurled bottles. Some arrests were made.

At Riverside, 65 miles southeast of Los Angeles, four policemen were shot Sunday night in an ambush during a search of a Mexican-American neighborhood for persons suspected for throwing firebombs earlier in the day. None of the officers was seriously injured, authorities said.

For 4½ hours small hit-and-run groups ranged down the main street, Whittier Boulevard, smashing windows, looting and burning. Authorities said fire damaged seven buildings.

Most of the injuries, including those of 28 law officers, were minor.

Two persons were reported in critical condition.

Killed was Ruben Salazar, 42, a Mexican-American newsman who had been covering the parade as news director of a Spanish-language television station and columnist for the Los Angeles Times.

Sheriff's spokesmen said a 10-inch long bullet-like tear gas projectile fired into a bar hit Salazar in the head.

Officers said they went to the bar after receiving a report that there was a man inside with a gun.

In Washington today, the director of the National Mexican-American Anti-defamation Committee asked President Nixon in a telegram "to order... an FBI investigation of the East Los Angeles riot and the murder of Ruben Salazar."

The riot released long-standing Mexican-American frustrations at being at the bottom of the economic and social heap, said Gonzalo Javier, a parade organizer.

Miss Jacquelyn Moye Weds Lt. Alexander

Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church was the setting Sunday at four-thirty p.m. for the wedding of Miss Frances Jacquelyn Moye to Lt. Steven Loftin Alexander.

The bride is the daughter of Lt. Col. (Ret.) and Mrs. Macon Jasper Moye Jr. of Greenville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Loftin Alexander of Greenville.

The Rev. Troy J. Barrett, pastor of the bride, and Dr. Joyce V. Early, former pastor of Jarvis, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Paul Alden Toll, organist. Mrs. Ivan W. Nicholson, soloist, sang "Be Thou With Them," "Entreat Me Not To Leave Thee" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The church altar vases were filled in a line arrangement with tuberoses, gladioli and mums flanked by tall standards of emerald greenery. On either side of the altar flickered spiral brass candelabras. Directly in front of the altar stood a prie-dieu where the couple knelt for the closing prayer. Proceeding to the altar were nine branch pyramidal candelabras with greenery. Pews were marked with bridal satin and baker's fern.

A three branch candelabra was used during the ceremony, with the bride and bridegroom lighting the two outside candles before the ceremony. The lighting together of the center candle by the bride and bridegroom, after they exchanged their vows and extinguished the two outside candles, symbolizes their union in marriage.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white formal A-line gown of angleskin peau de soie, fashioned with a panel of satin thread Shiffli embroidery down the front and Bishop sleeves, and cuffed with tiny satin buttons. The waistline was highlighted with a small satin bow centered with an heirloom cameo pin. The butterfly bustle was enhanced with tiny satin buttons and a built-in chapel length train, accented with Shiffli embroidery.

She wore a Camelot styled headpiece embellished with sequins and seed pearls which was attached to an imported silk English illusion chapel length veil. She carried a prayer book with phalaenopsis and white orchids, showered with tuberoses and English ivy.

Miss Susan Leona Moye, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a formal length shirtrwaist style gown with a white silk organza bodice and a full pink chiffon skirt. The empire waistline was belted with a navy satin sash, and tiny navy satin buttons trimmed the bodice and cuffs. White crocheted panels extended down the bodice front and bishop sleeves.

Her headpiece was tiered silk illusion attached to a pink satin bow, accented with white and pink daisies. She carried a cascade bouquet with shades of pink pixie carnations, rubrum lilies, florets of white tuberoses, and tied with azalea pink satin bows and streamers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Mary Elizabeth Norman of Greenville, Mrs. Bobbie Warren Denton of Kinston, cousins of the bride, Mrs. James Lawrence Holt of Utica, N.Y., Mrs. Donnie Wayne Brewer of Chapel Hill, and Mrs. William Joseph Eastman of Greenville.

They wore gowns and headpieces identical to the maid of honor in contrasting colors, with a navy chiffon skirt and pink satin sash and buttons.

Miss Amanda Holliman, cousin of the bridegroom, was flower girl. Her dress and headpiece was styled after the attendants. She carried a nosegay of pink miniature carnations and sweetheart roses.

William Joseph Eastman Jr. served as ring bearer. He carried a white satin pillow with a spray of pink carnations.

Serving as acolytes were David Woodard Moye, brother of the bride, and Christopher Allen Moye, cousin of the bride.

The father of the bridegroom served as best man. Ushers were Michael Warren Alexander, brother of the bridegroom, Sidney Macon Moye, brother of the bride, Dennis Warren Alexander of Lillington, cousin of the bridegroom, James Lawrence Holt of Utica, N.Y., Frank Marchant Christopher of Grifton, Keyma D. Harris and William Allan Jackson of Greenville.

The mother of the bride wore a dress and coat ensemble of Dior blue silk featuring a jeweled neckline with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother selected a pale yellow silk Desiric costume. The collar of the jacket was accented with beads and crystals. She wore matching accessories. Both mothers wore Georgiana Orchids.

Mrs. Macon Jasper Moye Sr., grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Rommie H. Alexander and Mrs. Benjamin W. Everette of Stokes, grandmothers of the bridegroom, wore white orchids.

The bride was a graduate of Greer Senior High School, Greer, S.C., and attended East Carolina University, where she is a rising junior.

The bridegroom is a graduate of East Carolina University where he received his masters in business administration. He is a member of Beta Gamma Sigma and Omicron Delta Epsilon, honor fraternities, and the Graduate Business Association, and Arnold Air Society.

He was a member of AFOTC and has been assigned to Malstrom AFB. The couple will reside in Great Falls, Mont., following temporary schooling in California.

For a wedding trip, the bride changed into a two-piece red, white and blue ensemble.

Reception Immediately following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a reception in the church parlor. Mr. and Mrs. William Gilbert Norman introduced guests to the receiving line, consisting of the wedding party.

The refreshment table was centered with a candelabra and an arrangement of mixed pink and white flowers. The bride and bridegroom cut the traditional slice of wedding cake.

Serving cake to the wedding guests were Mrs. Earl Claiborne Pate of Burlington and Mrs. Charles Marston. Mrs. Howard Waldrop and Mrs. Vernon William Thomas poured punch.

Couple Speaks Vows In Double Ring Ceremony

Miss Dorothy Ann Hooks gown of silk organza and alencon became the bride of John Keith lace trimmed with seed pearls. Evans in a 3:00 p.m. ceremony. The bodice featured a beau Sunday in Reedy Branch Free neckline and full bishop sleeves. Will Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest J. Hooks of Winterville. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Stacy J. Evans of Greenville.

The Rev. Willis Wilson officiated at the double ring ceremony. A program of wedding music was presented by Tommy Manning, organist, and James Ray Stocks, soloist, who sang "Because," "One Hand, One Heart" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The church was centered with a flower decked fifteen branched candelabra flanked by two spiral candelabra and tall standards of emerald greenery.

Proceeding to the altar were pyramidal candelabra with bouquets of white gladioli, mums and standards of bridal greenery. At the altar was a profile prie-dieu where the vows were taken, rings exchanged and the couple knelt for the closing prayer, and the benediction. Pews were marked with bridal satin and greenery.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal Her headpiece was a tiered bow with flowing silk illusion. She carried an azalea pink colonial bouquet of shaded pink miniature carnations, florets of tuberoses and rubrum lilies tied with light pink velvet with long streamers.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. John G. Weathington of Winterville, sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Michael W. Mills of Greenville, Miss Debby Hooks of New Bern, both cousins of the bride and Miss Debby Hines of Winterville. They wore gowns identical to the honor attendant and carried similar bouquets.

Miss Tammy Evans of Mount Olive, cousin of the bridegroom, was flower girl. Her dress and headpiece were identical to that of the bridesmaids and she carried a miniature bouquet.

Honorary bridesmaids were Miss Bonnie Kinsaul of Greenville, Miss Frances Carroll and Miss Sue Corey, both of Winterville. They wore identical light pink dresses of polyester crepe and carried nosegays of pink pixie carnations tied with azalea pink bows.

Stacy J. Evans served his son as best man. Ushers were Steve Evans and Philip Evans of Greenville, brothers of the bridegroom, Ashley T. Hooks of Winterville, brother of the bride, John G. Weathington of Winterville, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Wendy Evans of Magnolia, cousin of the bridegroom, and Randy McCullen of Mount Olive.

The mother of the bride wore a mauve pink silk and worsted dress designed with a sweetheart neckline, enhanced with a beaded jewel trim and trimmed sleeves and matching accessories.

The bridegroom's mother wore a blushing pink worsted silk dress featuring a front lace

Couple Exchanges Vows Saturday Miss Martha Jean Moore Weds Sunday

In a candlelight ceremony, Miss Nannie Grey Woolard and Samuel Carroll Whitehurst were married in the Tranters Creek Church of Christ, Rt. 3, Washington, Saturday afternoon at four o'clock.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Lemuel Hardison, minister. A program of wedding music was presented by Miss Donna Lynn Chauncey of Rt. 5, Greenville, organist. Mr. and Mrs. Onnie Boyd of Washington, soloists, sang "Whither Thou Goest" and the "Wedding Prayer."

The church was decorated with floral baskets of white gladioli, pom poms, palm branches and magnolia, flanked by seven branch candelabra holding burning white tapers. The couple pledged their vows before an open Bible centered on the linen covered Communion table. A single long-stemmed red rose accented the pages of the Bible opened to the Book of Ruth.

At the close of the ceremony, the couple together lighted a single taper. Family pews were marked with white satin bows. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Woolard and Mr. and Mrs. Sammie Whitehurst, all of Rt. 5, Greenville.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of white peau de soie designed with a round neckline and long chantilly lace belle sleeves. The full skirt, appliqued with lace, had a back pleat and was gathered at the waist on either side. Her gown was created by Mrs. Cassie Chauncey. The bride wore a cameo necklace that was her grandmother's.

Her shoulder length bouffant veil was of imported silk illusion and fell from a two tiered crown of bridal pearls and crystals. She carried a lace covered Bible centered with an orchid tied with love knots.

Mrs. Linda Whitehurst of Rt. 5, Greenville, was matron of honor. She wore a pastel yellow formal dress of dotted Swiss designed with an A-line skirt, round neckline and short sleeves. She wore a scalloped veil of matching illusion attached to a bow of peau de soie and carried a long-stemmed green mum with matching ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Miss Kaye Woolard of Rt. 5, Greenville, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Deborah Linton of Chocowinity. Their dresses of emerald green all of Rt. 5, Greenville.

were styled identical to the honor attendant and they each carried a long-stemmed yellow mum.

The mother of the bride wore a pink polyester dress, white accessories and a white mum corsage. The bridegroom's mother selected a peach polyester knit dress, with black patent accessories and a white mum corsage.

Leonard Whitehurst of Washington, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Ray Woolard of Rt. 5, Greenville, brother of the bride, and Steve Ausbon of Rt. 5, Greenville, cousin of the bridegroom.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. Dallas Rogers and Mrs. Levy Dixon.

For a wedding trip to the mountains, the bride changed into a gray and shrimp crepe dress with black patent accessories. She wore the orchid lifted from her prayerbook.

The couple will reside on Rt. 5,

Greenville. The bride is a graduate of Stokes-Pactolus High School and is presently employed by Carolina. Telephone and Telegraph. The bridegroom is a graduate of Washington High School and Beaufort Technical Institute, where he received a degree in business. He is employed by Moore's Building Supply.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Warren, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Warren Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tripp, aunts and uncles of the bride, entertained at an after-rehearsal party on Friday night in the educational building of the church.

The bride's table was covered with a white linen cloth and centered with an arrangement of yellow summer flowers, fern and yellow tapers. Mrs. Warren and Mrs. Tripp assisted in serving.

Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Rogers said good-byes.

Miss Martha Jean Moore, daughter of Mrs. John William Moore Jr. and the late Mrs. Moore of Greenville became the bride of Cecil Gerald Whitehurst, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Garrington Whitehurst of Robersonville, on Sunday at 4:00 p.m.

panel with matching accessories. Both mothers wore white cattelya orchid corsages.

Mrs. Lena Hooks of Winterville, grandmother of the bride, Mrs. J. F. Baker of Teachy and Mrs. J. W. Evans of Magnolia, both grandmothers of the bridegroom, wore white orchid corsages.

For a wedding trip to unannounced points, the bride chose a white and brown knit dress, matching accessories and the orchid lifted from her bridal bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of Winterville High School and is a senior at East Carolina University. The bridegroom is a graduate of Winterville High School and attended Lenoir Community College. He is employed with Evan's Used Cars in Mount Olive.

The couple will reside in Mount Olive.

Reception Following the ceremony, a reception was given by the bride's parents at the Greenville Moose Lodge.

The refreshment table, in a T-formation, was covered with white satin cloths with a bouquet of white snapdragons flanked by two hurricane lamps. The corners of the table were caught up with wedding bells and improved smilax. On the register table was a bouquet of white snapdragons.

Assisting were Mr. and Mrs. Linwood Hooks of Winterville, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Hooks, Miss Betty Rice, all of Greenville, Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Evans, Mrs. Randy McCullen of Mount Olive, Mrs. Charlie Hooks of New Bern, Mrs. James Mills of Winterville.

Following the rehearsal Saturday night, Mr. and Mrs. Stacy J. Evans, parents of the bridegroom, entertained the bridal party and guests in the fellowship hall of the church.

Mrs. Ashley T. Hooks and Mrs. Robert N. Merritt entertained Miss Hooks and her attendants at a luncheon on Friday at noon. Guests included mothers of the bride and bridegroom.

Houston officiated at the double ring ceremony at St. Paul's Episcopal Church. A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Robert E. Irwin.

The church altar vases were arranged with all white gladioli mums and pom poms. The family pews were marked with white satin bows.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Harry Lee Moore, wore a formal length white organza gown designed with an empire waistline and long sleeves. Iridescent sequins and chantilly lace panels trimmed the neckline, bodice, and A-line skirt. The detachable watteau train was also edged in the lace panels.

The bride's elbow length imported veil of silk illusion fell from a headpiece of peau de soie, lace, pearls, and crystals. She carried a cascade bouquet of white butterfly roses centered with a white hybrid orchid.

Mrs. Billy Carroll Brann of Snow Hill, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. She wore a formal length willow green gown of chiffon over linen. The modified empire waistline was accentuated by a band of matching green satin which tied in a bow in the back. Cream Venise lace circled the high neckline and extended in a panel down the bodice front to the waistline. Tiny green satin buttons trimmed the lace panel. The long, sheer chiffon sleeves also featured cuffs of the cream Venise lace with the satin button trim. The headpiece was of willow taffeta loops with matching illusion veil edged in cream Venise lace. She carried a nosegay of white daisies with yellow ribbons.

Miss Gina Whitehurst of Robersonville, sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. William E. Dunn Jr., and Miss Sharlene Allen, both of Greenville, were bridesmaids. They wore gowns and headpieces styled identical to the honor attendant in mimosas with the cream Venise lace trim and carried identical nosegays with green ribbons.

The father of the bridegroom served as best man. Ushers were Roy Peaden of Farmville, Hoke Knox of Robersonville, and Harry A. Shorter Jr. of Benedict, Md. Maryland.

The mother of the bride selected a pale gold coat and dress ensemble of worsted silk with matching accessories. She wore a white rose corsage. The bridegroom's mother selected a mint green dress of silk linen with matching accessories. She also wore a white rose corsage. The grandmothers wore white carnation corsages.

For a wedding trip to Myrtle Beach, S.C., the bride changed into a pink coat and dress ensemble with white accessories. She wore the orchid lifted from her bridal bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of J.H. Rose High School and is presently employed at the Pitt County Department of Social Services. The bridegroom is a graduate of Robersonville High School and Hardbarger Business College, Raleigh. He is presently associated with C & C Used Cars, Robersonville.

The couple will reside in Robersonville.

Following the rehearsal on Saturday evening, the wedding party, out-of-town guests, and friends were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Cecil G. Whitehurst at the Robersonville Golf and Country Club.

Good Influence Can Help Unfortunate

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: A mother boasted that when she told her little four-year-old son that she didn't want him to play with the neighbor boy because "Billy wasn't nice," [he used bad language and his mother had a shady reputation] her son said, "But, mother, how will Billy ever learn to be 'nice' if no nice boys play with him?"

Sweet letter, but it's a sad fact that when good and bad associate, it isn't the rotten guy who gets good, it's the good guy who gets rotten. In scientific language, each entity seeks the lowest energy level. It is related to the concept of "entropy," which is fact, not theory.

So, if parents want their nice boys to grow up to be decent adults, they shouldn't let them associate with hoodlums. And of course, the same holds true for girls.

Very truly yours,
S. A. S.

DEAR S. A. S.: I don't know much about "entropy," but I do know something about people.

It is virtually impossible to keep one's child from "associating" with neighbors and schoolmates—rotten and otherwise. All parents can do in an effort to rear wholesome, moral children, is to teach them honesty, fairness and decency and to give them moral examples to follow.

Not all people who are exposed to the rottenness of others become rotten. Some have been known to exert their good influences on those less perfect, and make them better.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a woman who on her deathbed made her husband promise that after she died he would never marry? The husband is 58.

I honestly don't think this kind of promise holds water. What do you think?
HIS LADYFRIEND

DEAR LADYFRIEND: Perhaps not. But it seems to be "holding" HIM.

DEAR ABBY: May I say a few words to all those slob who agreed with the woman who said that a man should be able to come to the dinner table bare-chested in his own home if he so chooses?

I suppose in his own home a husband has the right to go around without bathing, shaving or using a deodorant? He may also eat with his mouth open, belch, curse, use foul language and dispense with all courtesies—and of course, come to the table naked from the waist up if he wants to. But in the interest of self-respect and respect for his family (not to mention the example he sets for his children who know only what they see and hear) wouldn't you think he would forego those "rights"?

Ladies, if the repulsive type appeals to you, you may also sit across the table from him in a soiled bathrobe with curlers in your hair. You deserve each other! MRS. R. C.

DEAR MRS. R. C.: Everyone should enjoy a degree of informality in the privacy of his own home, but you make a valid point.

DEAR ABBY: I sit opposite a boy at work who I am gradually falling in love with. He is, I am sure, unaware of my obsession as he thinks he is totally unattractive to girls.

I find him most attractive, though he is only 5 feet 3 and is slightly built. He only weighs eight and a half stone. I am well-proportioned myself, all ten and a half stones of me. We are also of different religions, which means so much here in Ulster, Ireland.

How can I get him to ask me out? Or do I do the asking?
JENNY IN ULSTER

DEAR JENNY: Ask him. If opposites attract, you'll have yourself a beau.

Plans For State Session Discussed

The Ladies Auxiliary of VFW were informed Thursday night by President Myrtle Meeks of the State Council of Administrators of VFW in Greensboro Sept. 26 and 27.

Lt. Governor Pat Taylor will be the banquet speaker and the officers are planning to attend.

Gifts were sent to O'Berry Center, a project of the auxiliary for a number of years. Members will assist in arts and crafts two days each week at the Greenville Nursing Home and will spend several hours each Wednesday night assisting the patients in letter writing and personal aids.

The Auxiliary voted to donate a flag to the cafeteria at E. B. Aycock Junior High School. Two new members were enrolled, Eunice House and Olive Stokes.

Marriage Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Hoyle of Tarboro announce the marriage of their niece, Pamela Louise Hender, to George Henry McLain Burnette, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ricks Burnette of Fountain, on Aug. 5 in Halifax.

Vice President Agnew's tour of Asian nations may help assure the people of that area that the United States does not plan to completely abandon the area.

However, it is clear that the U.S. is cutting back our forces in Asia because of our experiences in the Vietnam war.

The vice president has had to remain firm about the United States' intention to withdraw some forces from South Korea in his visit there. In Cambodia Agnew made it clear that he "made no commitments whatsoever."

"My conversation was extremely guarded in that respect," he said.

What he was referring, to, of course, was any possibility of the U.S. becoming militarily involved in Cambodia, although he said this country is willing to give arms and economic aid.

Even though the vice president made no troop commitments to Cambodia, his visit was regarded as a boost for the Phnom Penh regime.

In Vietnam the vice president had kind words for the progress of South Vietnam fighting forces. This was said, however, against the knowledge that further troop withdrawals by the United States are certain to take place.

All-in-all it is clear that the United States is entering an era when its military forces will be less in evidence in friendly Asian countries. Our government will depend more on furnishing modern arms to native military forces.

Since we cannot keep the huge standing armies needed in Asia forever, this may be the best way. We can withdraw some of our forces there while transferring the burden of defending themselves to our Asian allies.

Boys' Club Needs To Have YOUR Support

Certainly Greenville Boys' Club has proven its value here by providing activities for hundreds of boys.

Now it appears that the Boys Club work may be threatened by a severe lack of funds and the club's directors have made plans to raise emergency funds so that the work may be continued.

We feel the Boys Club has shown that it is filling a need here and therefore the community should see that it has the funds to continue operating. Director Richard Ullom told the board members, "If you don't keep the Boys' Club in Greenville, you are going to penalize a lot of kids."

The worthwhile work done by this organization should not come to an end. The needed funds must be raised.

Hanoi Stands Against Peace

By ROWLANDE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The intensity of North Vietnamese opposition to any negotiated settlement of the Vietnam war short of unconditional Communist victory has been pointed up by Hanoi's remarkable though generally overlooked attacks on the Mideast cease-fire and the Soviet-West German treaty.

The North Vietnamese party paper, Nhan Dan, has warned that trends toward peace in both the Mideast and Germany are really imperialist plots cooked up in Washington. Hanoi's unmistakable implication: the Soviet Union has been duped into agreements undermining the world Communist struggle.

Apart from again revealing their ideological differences with Moscow, the North Vietnamese are venting the morbid premonition in Hanoi that the Kremlin may yet forcibly end the Vietnam war short of total victory. Specifically for the immediate future, Hanoi is making clear it has no intention of being cooperative in the Paris negotiations.

Accordingly, although peace advocates in the U.S. are pressing for a U.S.-proposed cease-fire, the Communists can agree to nothing as long as their military situation is so unfavorable. Moreover, if they were to improve their battlefield status this autumn, they probably would demand a unilateral, immediate U.S. pullout rather than any cease-fire.

Just how fiercely Hanoi objects to the cease-fire device was pointed up in Nhan Dan of Aug. 12. The article calls the 90-day cease-fire a "perfidious" U.S. scheme "to help the Israeli aggressors grab part of the Arab territory and strengthen their position for securing a position of strength in negotiation."

Thus, North Vietnam declares what it fears would result from a Vietnamese cease-fire. Besides strengthening the Israelis for negotiation, says Hanoi, the cease-fire is intended to enable "an eventual renewed attack on the Arab countries" if negotiations fail and would "divide and weaken the resistance of the people of the Arab countries."

In the same article, Hanoi identifies itself with the Palestinian guerrillas who defied both Cairo and Moscow and ignored the cease-fire—confirming ties welded last April when guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat visited Hanoi. "Standing on the forefront of the struggle against U.S. imperialism," the article says, "the Vietnamese people fully support the just stand of the Arab people."

A second Nhan Dan article three days later is equally revealing. After damning the Bonn-Moscow accord with faint praise, it unleashes body blows on the West German government of Chancellor Willy Brandt. Hanoi's warning to Moscow: the West Germans are not to be trusted.

"Brandt's collusion with the United States (was) revealed when he promptly came out in support of Nixon's policy of prolonged war of aggression in Vietnam," says Hanoi. By implication, the North Vietnamese are asking: why, then, has the Kremlin embraced Bonn? Moreover, the articles warn against the "peaceful evolution strategy" of West Germany in collusion with the U.S. imperialists.

The attack on "peaceful evolution" is the tipoff. Hanoi fears a global detente between the U.S. and the Soviets might result in a Vietnamese settlement as an ancillary issue. They dread any such settlement today because the presently unhappy military condition of the Communists in Vietnam precludes negotiation from strength. Thanks to President Nixon's Cambodian operation, Communist forces in the Mekong Delta and the Saigon area are weakened

Basic 'Facts' Less Impotent

By KATHY WOESTENDIEK

Goldboro News-Argus
GOLDSBORO — The new thing in education is responsiveness and relativity.

Rather than emphasis upon memory work — lists of presidents, capitols, and so forth — children are taught to relate to the world and its problems as an individual. Facts are not forced on them, but offered for their acceptance.

An experiment in responsive environment teaching, which takes the desk as well as failure out of the classroom, this fall enters its third year in Goldboro city schools.

"It's no longer important to teach basic facts," said Mrs. Doris Shaw, the director. "What's important is to teach the children how to think and solve problems first. Then they won't become frustrated when the facts they've learned are no longer true."

Each year the program has expanded to another grade; third grade students will be included this year.

Success for Each Child
The teachers follow the motto, "success breeds success, failure breeds failure," with activities geared to each child. "The children love what they're doing, so they end up loving learning," Mrs. Shaw said.

A two-week demonstration workshop was held this summer with area children, age four to nine, participating. Teachers met first with the large group, then separated for special interests — problem solving, language — and the demonstration class — and later went on to a free choice period.

"Children can be taught to be self-directed," Mrs. Shaw said. "They need an opportunity to interact with each other and teachers on an individual basis as well as the opportunity to make decisions."

The follow through program in Goldboro is a pilot program sponsored by the Far West Laboratory for Educational Research and Development. All teaching material is tested by the laboratory before release.

Language is taught with this principle in mind: if a child can think, he can speak; if he can speak, his words can be written; once his thoughts are on paper, he can read them.

Teachers in the follow through program take dictation from their students at least once a week. They write the sentences spoken by the student just as he says it. Through individual attention the child is helped to better construct or standardize his language.

Problem solving places emphasis on the process of elimination with the goal of developing adults who are able to meet and solve problems.

If a child is asked to look at three words — cat, dog and alligator — and choose the word that says alligator, he can do so with the process of elimination.

Teachers Learn, Too

Teachers in workshop training attempt to apply the learning process to themselves as well as their students. They sit in tiny chairs, and answer the instructor's questions such as a small student might respond.

The classroom atmosphere is one of freedom. Children are not required to sit stiffly with eyes focused on the teacher. They are permitted to sit, walk and talk freely in order to avoid unnatural situations.

"If we just let children be children they're wonderful," Mrs. Shaw said, "but often we force them to be adults."

Goldboro is only one of 15 school districts throughout the country participating in the program. Its follow through experiment has received much attention.

Barry Barnes, assistant to the director of Far West Laboratories, is in Goldboro for a six-week study of Goldboro's follow through system.

He told Mrs. Shaw he was not coming to Goldboro to help with the program, but merely to see how it was conducted since Goldboro's follow through program is more advanced than that of other districts.

While here, he will take notes and tapes of the Goldboro program to benefit other programs across the country. A national Follow Through Conference is scheduled to be held in Goldboro late in October.

Health Food Faddists

HOLLYWOOD — "Hollywood is on a new kick," said Larry Gelbart, a TV writer who was filling me in on the latest American fads. "First it was psychiatry, then it was dieting and now the health nuts have taken over. Many of those motion-picture stars and comedians, having done everything to their heads and the outside of their bodies, are now turning inward to help themselves. As part of the campaign for self-improvement, they have become organic food specialists. Instead of food, they're eating dandelion hearts, roots of moss and eucalyptus bark. It's very dangerous to be invited to someone's house for a meal. For one thing, you can't walk on the lawn because that may be your dinner. For another, it isn't enough that your friends are health nuts; they spend the whole evening trying to convert everyone else. "I was invited to the house of a Hollywood couple a month ago. They had a little girl, aged 5. Unfortunately, I had a cold and I was sniffling. "The father turned to the little girl and said, 'You see what happened to Uncle Larry because he ate lamb chops?'"

Other Editors Say Soft On Drunks

(Raleigh News & Observer)

The Breathalyzer is a reliable instrument that measures the alcohol in a person's blood by analyzing his breath. State law presumes that an individual is drunk if his Breathalyzer test produces a reading of at least .10 per cent. North Carolina invested in these machines hoping to make strides against the peril of drunken drivers. But the machines are absolutely worthless if the courts want them to be.

Johnston County offers a prime example. District courts there are notorious for going easy on drunken driving defendants, frequently allowing them to plead guilty to lesser charges for which they get little or no punishment. A Monday incident may have reached a new plateau in judicial laxity.

The case involved a man charged not only with drunken driving, but with resisting arrest, damaging property and illegally possessing tax-paid whisky. He underwent a Breathalyzer test when arrested. The reading was .20 — twice the level of presumed intoxication. The state trooper who arrested this man was in Johnston District Court on Monday to testify. He was called away on an emergency, and returned the find the defendant had been acquitted without trial.

Whether this took place during the court's noon recess, as one court official said, or in open court, as the defense lawyer said, makes no difference. Judge Woodrow Hill must have known that the patrolman was coming back to testify, because the trooper had so informed court authorities. Judge Hill should have simply continued the case until the prosecuting witness returned. It's done time and again when busy officers of the law must testify. And when the defense attorney moved for dismissal of the case on grounds that the witness was absent, Solicitor Clyde Atkins should have objected — as a matter of routine, if not of determination to perform his public duties vigorously. He didn't.

Cases such as this must discourage even the most optimistic highway safety people in government. They do everything they can think of to curb the drunken driving menace, and then they have to watch irresponsible court officials undo it all. The only answer is for citizens to elect responsible court officials.

Boyle's Look At Life

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

It is a mistake to assume that all people suffer in this life to the same degree. There are those who would rather see a murder than watch a sunset — and a fortunate few who have more trouble with hangnails than heartaches.

Women have a greater tendency than men to paint themselves into a corner. For example, you have often heard a vexed woman exclaim: "I wouldn't marry him if he were the last man on earth!" But rarely, if ever, have you ever heard a man say of a woman, no matter how homely or exasperating she might be: "I wouldn't marry her if she were the last girl on earth." The truth in any case, of course, is: if he was, she would; if she was, he would.

HAL BOYLE

We will have taken quite a step on the way to cultural integration when at least one out of every 10 white Americans can quote from memory two lines written by a Negro poet.

It is amazing how few men wear argyle socks when they go to the bank to borrow money.

I feel like crying whenever I see a single woman over 40 wearing a white hair ribbon in her long tresses. I get the same feeling when I hear a bugler sounding "Taps." Gallantry is always stirring.

An optimist is a guy who drinks three vodka martinis at lunch, goes back to the office, grabs his boss by the lapels, and asks for a merit raise. The depressing truth, however, is that sometimes that's as good a way to go about it as any.

The girl in the office who would make the best wife is usually the one who keeps a small sewing kit in her desk and has a safety pin to lend if you need one to keep pencils and small change from leaking out of a hole in your pants pocket.

No person, however intelligent, is utterly free from foolishness. Sometimes the bigger the brain, the easier it is for someone else to wash it.

There are two basic types of people: those who believe the label — and those who sample the contents before evaluating. The first kind have more fun; the second kind have better health.

An old-timer is a man who can remember when you got more respect from a salesman by paying for something in cash than telling him to charge it.

Anybody who can call more than three restaurant headwaiters by their first name either owns his firm or has a helluva fine expense account.

God is probably lonelier than the devil. But, on the other hand, He is certainly less bored.

Strength For Today

SUMMERTIME
How can we best spend our summers? Certainly not by lazing about doing nothing. People of mature years have duties in home, office, store and shop. Many parents make the great mistake of worrying over the fact that they can't keep their children interested during the summer months.

The most interesting-thing they could do would be to learn something of value and interest during the summer months. They cannot be driven into this sort of activity and if they could then the activity would not do them any good. But everyone can learn to use a typewriter skillfully in one summer of diligent application. It is amazing how much artistic ability can be cultivated in one summer if people set themselves to the task of cultivation. The fields are green in summer months. What makes them so? Would you like to be a sculptor? A few diligent and fascinating weeks with mud and cement might open out a new life for you.

Or a course of reading in some area of knowledge which you find particularly interesting. Gardening, if you like to see things grow. Elementary astronomy, if you are fascinated by the mystery of the stars.

It is not so much what one does in the summer months as the fact that he or she does something. To laze away three months of a year while one is full of the vitality of youth is a mistake no one should make. New interests mean new outlook on life. We will be wiser and happier if we make summer months count for something.

All TV, Radio Will Be Obsolete

By ELMER ROESSNER
Giant strides are being made in the electronic entertainment field.

Movies and special television shows will soon be available in cassettes which can activate both picture and sound on TV sets so that users can put on their own shows, sans commercials.

ELMER ROESSNER

Norelco promises to have high-fidelity cassettes and playing equipment on the market. From these, it will be only a step to stereophonic cassettes. Considerable progress is being made on several systems to produce three-dimensional television, without those red- and-green glasses which made three-dimensional movies possible, but not very good.

Work is still proceeding on projected television which will show pictures up to life size on screens or even walls.

Prediction: In the next few years, every television receiver, every recording and playing device and every radio in the country will be obsolete.

Cool Winter Ahead
The shortage of natural gas is becoming serious. Many utilities are declining new industrial customers; some are warning present customers that gas supplies will be low when demands peak this winter.

Prediction: There will be scattered shutdowns of plants that depend on gas for production or that rely on that fuel to heat plants.

The gas shortage, the lowering of oil supplies by the war in the Mideast, and the stricter enforcement of coal mine safety laws are driving up the prices of fossil fuels.

Prediction: There will be a wave of increases for utility services. These fuels are used to generate electricity as well as provide energy by combustion in plants. Wage increases will also be a factor.

Trouble For Brokers
Despite the recent upsurges in the stock market, many brokerage houses are in trouble. Some are desperately trying to arrange new financing. Furthermore, many branch offices have been closed and so many employees have been dropped that should stocks begin a real recovery many houses would be unable to handle another boom in orders.

Prediction: There will be many more mergers between brokerage houses and a few more failures. Because the New York Stock Exchange fund for protecting investors against losses through failures is dangerously low, there will be new pleas for a government insurance corporation, similar to the Federal Deposit Insurance Co.

The decline in inventory buying and industrial production is hurting railroad earnings. Demands for higher wages and threats of strikes are exerting another squeeze on America's railroads.

Predictions: There will be fresh applications for higher freight rates and a few more railroads will be thrown into reorganization.

Legislation Requiring U.S. Troop Pullout Appears Doomed

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
 Associated Press Writer
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation to pull all U.S. troops out of Vietnam by 1972 appears doomed in a long-awaited Senate vote Tuesday. But win or lose, backers proclaim strategic dividends.

The so-called "Amendment to End the War" looks to fall several votes short in a roll call.

But doves say they'll show enough strength to reflect the sharp divisions throughout the nation over the war, and view the precedent-making chance to make their formal stand a major moral victory.

Whatever the outcome, they add, the Nixon administration must regard a significant show for the amendment as a profound portent that Congress will insist upon a fuller role in shaping war and peace.

It is noted by most observers, however, that whatever the enthusiasm the amendment may stir in the Senate, it likely would be overwhelmed in the more hawkish House.

"The vote on this amendment forces each senator to face squarely his own responsibility for either continuing or ending the involvement of American forces in the Indochina conflict," said Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., Sunday in an article written for The Associated Press.

Assistant Republican Leader Robert P. Griffin said passage would disrupt the Vietnamization program, undercut President Nixon's efforts to end the war and could prolong rather than shorten the conflict.

"The adoption of such an amendment would trumpet loud and clear to the Asian Communists that they need not negotiate seriously, that they could attain by default what they could not win on the battlefield," Griffin said, also in an article written for The AP.

"If the Senate should approve this resolution, which it won't, it would be a signal to our friends and foes alike that we, as a nation, are unwilling to measure up to the responsibilities we have assumed," Griffin said.

McGovern, however, said adoption of the measure would restore a lost constitutional balance between the White House and Congress in the conduct of foreign affairs.

In South Vietnam, he agreed, adoption of the amendment would probably lead to a coalition government.

The amendment calls for reducing U.S. troop strength to 280,000 by the end of next April and for barring the use of funds after that date for any purpose other than winding down combat and withdrawing all U.S. military forces by the end of the year.

The President would be given one 60-day period in which he could suspend withdrawal and resume active combat to thwart a "clear and present danger" to U.S. troops. Other extensions could be granted after first obtaining congressional approval.

Fayetteville Park Curfew Results In 22 Added Arrests

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Twenty-two youths were arrested early today by Fayetteville police after a second night of protests over a curfew for city parks. One policeman was slightly injured.

Seven youths had been arrested Saturday night after city police used tear gas to force about 100 young persons from Rowan Street Park an hour after the 10 p.m. closing time.

In the confrontation today, the 22 youths were charged with failure to disperse. Only a few posted $200 bond or had their parents sign property bonds for their release from jail, officers said.

City police and sheriff's deputies all wearing helmets and some carrying tear gas, shotguns and automatic weapons—had ringed the park about midnight Sunday before the disturbance. Assistant city police chief Maj. Emerson Hall conferred with leaders of a group of about 50 youths that had remained in the park after 10 p.m., and got an agreement for the youths to leave.

As the young people marched the three blocks to the downtown area, officers said some became boisterous, tossed clods of dirt and other objects as the police escort and vandalized traffic signs.

The policeman injured was couldn't eat any more, but the hostess seemed very upset. She said the druggist had been preparing the meal all day and he would be very hurt if I didn't eat everything.

"After dinner, we went into the living room to hear the little girl play the piano. She played very well, and her father said 'That was very good, dear. You can now have a piece of candy.' And, so help me, he went to a bin and handed her a raw potato.

"One of the big things for the health nuts is tiger's milk. I made the mistake one night of asking a comedian who drinks it four times a day 'How do you milk a tiger?' I suggested. But he didn't think it was very funny.

"The health addicts don't laugh much, and I can understand why. They figure they'll be around for 150 years, and you've got, at the most (if you keep eating steak and apple pie), four years. So they feel, 'How can we laugh at another man who is just about to die?'

"The only thing worse than going to a health addict's house for dinner is his coming to yours. He arrives with his little plastic bag of super-nutritional cereal, tiger's milk and tea herbs and says to your wife, 'Just give me a bottle of hot water.' Then, while the rest of the guests sit transfixed, their turkey getting cold, he starts mixing it all into a soup plate, tastes it, smacks his lips and says, 'I just signed a contract to do a film for MGM in AD 2960.'

"It's kind of tough on the kids. They don't really understand about health foods, and I know one kid who used to hide advertisements for cake mixes under his mattress. His mother caught him and had his father give the kid a licking for keeping dirty pictures."

and without logistical support. The ballyhooed Red offensive in the north has yet to get untracked. The Cambodian offensive of the Vietnamese Communists has not achieved the dramatic victory — the capture of Phnom Penh — that Hanoi has wanted.

If the Communists cannot pull off a military triumph, they may try to capitalize at the negotiating table on civil dissent in South Vietnam's urban areas. But any such Communist overture at Paris likely would involve harsh new demands, not to be confused with anything so reasonable as a cease-fire. As Hanoi's polemics on the Mideast and Germany show, the day when Ho Chi Minh's successors are ready to make real concessions lies far off in the mist-shrouded future.

The pontiff expressed this wish during his regular Sunday blessing from the window of the papal summer villa.

Preparing Farmville Day Care Center

No Action Is Taken Against C.S. Edwards

RALEIGH — A federal grand jury here last week took no action against Charles S. Edwards, former Economic Development Council.

Attendance Edging Up

Attendance figures at Sadie Sautler Elementary School are 41 higher today than on Friday, when only 335 students of an enrollment of approximately 450 were in school.

Today's figure of 376 is the highest yet reported for Sadie Sautler, which has been the target of an apparent boycott by parents of white students from the Carolina-Heights-Hillsdale area since the opening of school last Wednesday.

Principal Johnson E. Spruill stated, "Several of the parents bringing their children came by to talk to me. They expressed concern for their children, and said they can't let the children suffer any longer by keeping them out of school."

Today's attendance shows that about 75 to 85 students of the total expected enrollment are not in school. Of this number, however, some would be normal absences encountered in any school day.

Edwards, former Economic Development Administration official and Tom Willis, head of East Carolina University's Regional Development Institute mentioned in connection with two beach development water projects at Emerald Isle in Carteret County.

The grand jury was looking into the possibility of conflict of interest charges in the controversial water projects at the beach resort. Their report indicated that "a true bill" of indictment was not returned in the case. However, the jury also failed to report "not a true bill" following its probe.

U. S. Attorney Warren Harding Coolidge indicated that the jury's failure to return a "true bill" for "not a true bill" could mean that the Justice Department is continuing its investigation.

The EDA for which Edwards worked, funded construction of water tanks and distribution lines in the Emerald Isle area. Edwards allegedly purchase two tracts of land in the developments shortly before the EDA loan was requested.

Willie allegedly owns lots adjoining Edwards land. Edwards if a former Mayor of Farmville while Willis formerly served as head of the Farmville

Economic Development Council. Edwards was quoted by a Morehead City newspaper, The Carteret County News - Times, as saying "I have nothing to hide, my friends have nothing to hide, and I was anxious to answer any question they asked me."

W. B. McLean of Red Springs is owner of the beach development. McLean, Edwards and others including Charlie Coss, executive director of the Coastal Plains Commission testified at the Tuesday session.

Edwards, according to the Carteret County News - Times, said the purpose of the investigation "was to determine whether Tom Willis, Charlie Coss or I have received any favors as far as lots were concerned in connection with the Emerald Isle water system."

Expansion Permit For Phone Co.

The Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company has been issued a building permit to begin work on an addition to their building at Hooker Road and U.S. 264 By-pass.

J. W. Wilson, Greenville City Building Inspector, noted that the total contract, for which D. J. Rose and Son of Rocky Mount is general contractor, amounts to $113,260.

A spokesman for the telephone company noted that when completed, the addition will permit two changes in telephone operations in the area. One is that Bethel, which now receives long distance service from Rocky Mount, will have this service transferred to Greenville.

The other change, expected to be placed into effect in August of 1971, will be ANI, or automatic number identification. With equipment to be installed in the planned additional construction, one and two party subscribers dialing long distance numbers direct will have their numbers automatically identified. This will eliminate the familiar "your number please" personal query which currently follows direct dialing.

Special Week Of Services Begun

A week of special services is now underway at Christ Temple Prayer Center.

There will be guest speakers for the services which begin each night through Friday at 8:30 p.m. The Rev. David L. Payton will be in charge. The public is invited.

The Prayer Center is located in the Mount Pleasant Christian Church vicinity.

CO-STARS SIGNED

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Dyan Cannon and Martin Balsam have been signed to co-star with Sean Connery in Columbia's film version of the best-selling "the Anderson Tapes."

FARMVILLE — A community day care center for retarded children here is being prepared for an early October opening date.

Licensed by the Department of Social Services and approved by the Department of Mental Health, the day care center will be the first of its kind in this area according to Buss Cotton, chairman of the Board of Directors made up of several Farmville citizens.

"The center is designed to serve mentally retarded children from three to nine years old, with some exceptions," Cotton said. "The daily program should provide stimulation and help develop self - help skills to prepare each child either for special or regular education

House Damaged In Sunday Fire

Heavy heat and smoke damage resulted to the upstairs of a two-story home at 307 Paris Ave. about 10:35 a.m. Sunday according to Greenville firemen.

Officers said a fire erupted in a second floor bedroom and burned its way into the attic of the home before it was extinguished.

Firemen said a television set may have been the cause of the fire.

Fire units also responded to a false alarm yesterday. Box 227 at the intersection of Pitt and Arthur Streets was turned in at 5:55 a.m.

The Greenville City Code provides for a $100 reward to be paid to anyone giving information leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone turning in a false alarm.

classes later on. "Ten children have already been enrolled. The center can accommodate 15, so we are still taking applications."

The staff of the Development Evaluation Clinic of East Carolina University and Mrs. Sarah Allen, area coordinator of services for the retarded, were instrumental in bringing the idea to Farmville. The local Ministerial Association promoted the project and the Catholic Diocese of Raleigh provided a house for an indefinite period of time.

Payment of the staff has been provided by a federal grant. Miss Elaine Murphy has been hired as teacher - director and Miss Grace Hamm and Mrs. Joyce Letchworth as teacher assistants. All three are being given two weeks of intensive training at East Carolina University prior to the opening.

"We have been delighted with the enthusiastic response of the Farmville community from the planning stages onward," Mrs.

Allen said. "Just recently we asked for contributions locally to fix up the house and grounds. "The Rotary Club, the Kiwanis Club, and the First Baptist Church each gave $100 and more has been pledged. Many others have given time and material to the project."

Greenville School Menu

Lunchroom menus for the coming week announced for the Greenville schools are as follows:

Tuesday — beef stew with potatoes, carrots and onions, steamed cabbage, rolls, milk, cake;

Wednesday — barbecued chicken, rice, peas, celery and carrot sticks, sliced peaches, rolls, milk;

Thursday — meat loaf, whipped potatoes, turnip greens, biscuit, cake or cookie, milk;

Friday — tuna salad, tomato wedges, buttered corn, cheese biscuit, jelled fruit with topping.

Hush Puppies Tales
By Larry Averette

Noah's Ark
"And it rained for forty days and forty nights". Poor old Noah never knew what hit him.
The rain wouldn't have been so bad if he'd had a pair of HUSH PUPPIES casuals to wear. They have lifetime water repellency.
Noah probably never heard of Breathin' Brushed Pigskin, but he would have appreciated HUSH PUPPIES anyway. Those endless walks around his boat looking for land would have been much more comfortable. With HUSH PUPPIES there wouldn't have been a bark on the ark.
Noah also would have liked how HUSH PUPPIES keep their smart look. The captain of a vessel should always look dignified and well dressed. Unfortunately, Noah was 4,000 years too early for HUSH PUPPIES casuals. Maybe it's just as well. The pigs on the boat probably would have felt a little uneasy.

Saints Rally Twice To Win Over The Patriots

By BEN THOMAS Associated Press Sports Writer It was quite an exhibition... even if it was an exhibition.

The Minnesota Vikings, playing as if they sought revenge not only for themselves but for the Baltimore Colts as well, humiliated the New York Jets 52-21 Sunday night in a nationally televised National Football League preseason contest.

It marked shaggy-haired Joe Namath's 1970 debut, too. Broadway Joe was anything but auspicious.

Earlier Sunday night, also on national television, the Green Bay Packers, intercepting seven passes, thrashed the Oakland Raiders 37-7.

The Philadelphia Eagles play the Lions at Detroit tonight to wrap up the fourth weekend of exhibition football. The Jets certainly didn't look anything like the team that upset the Baltimore Colts in the 1969 Super Bowl. And the Vikings didn't play like the team which was upset last January by the Kansas City Chiefs in pro football's world championship game. It was the worst exhibition licking ever administered to the Jets, even when they were Harry Wismer's Titans. The Houston Oilers scored 56 points and the Dallas Texans ran up 52 in regular season games, both in 1962, against the Titans.

Combing his shaggy locks in front of a dressing room mirror, Namath said of the Vikings:

"They're good. They're better offensively this year. They've got a good defense, but I don't know if it's better this year."

Namath, a holdout himself this year for the first two preseason games, may not have intended his comment as a slur on Joe Kapp, the quarterback who guided the Vikings to the NFL title a year ago. Kapp hasn't come to terms with Minnesota this season and Gary Cuozzo is running the offense.

Cuozzo, onetime Phi Beta Kappa from Virginia, threw three touchdowns passes, completing 9 of 16 for 203 yards. Namath, who got in for 10 plays in the second quarter, missed his first four throws, winding up with two completions in six attempts for 42 yards.

In Saturday's exhibitions, the New Orleans Saints rallied twice to defeat the Boston Patriots 26-20; the Cincinnati Bengals beat the Cleveland Browns 31-24; the Miami Dolphins won their fourth straight, beating the Colts 20-13; the Oilers, with Jerry LeVias providing a one-man offensive show, thrashed the Dallas Cowboys 37-21; the St. Louis Cardinals humbled the Chicago Bears 24-3; the Los Angeles Rams edged the San Diego Chargers 16-14; the Atlanta Falcons upset the Chiefs 22-17; and the San Francisco 49ers whipped the Denver Broncos 23-7.

In Friday night games, it was Pittsburgh Steelers 21, New York Giants 6; and the Washington Redskins 27, Buffalo Bills 0.

White Sox Score 11 But Still Lose By 10

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON Associated Press Sports Writer When the Boston Red Sox and Chicago White Sox got together it's more like the Boston Red Sox and Chicago White Socks, with the pitchers coming out black and blue.

The American League rivals wound up their bizarre season series Sunday with the Red Sox sweeping a doubleheader 21-11 and 4-1. Imagine scoring 11 runs and losing by 10. Well, why not? After all, back on May 31 the Red Sox scored 13... and lost by nine.

Things were relatively peaceful until Aug. 19, when the White Sox poured 11 runs across in the ninth inning for a 13-5 victory. The Pale Hose provided a taste of what was coming Saturday with an eight-run inning and a 13-9 triumph.

Manager Eddie Kasko of Boston termed the battle of the Sox "most ridiculous" and said he had no explanation for the scoring outbursts. "It seems that when one club gets rolling, the other can't stop them," he said.

"You have two clubs that don't have the pitching," was the way Don Gutteridge of the White Sox put it. "Right down the line the Red Sox have power. But their pitching is not that good that our club can't hit them. Good pitching stops our club. Imagine scoring 29 runs in four games and only winning one," he sighed.

George Scott, Reggie Smith and Mike Andrews each had four hits and four RBIs in the opening game and Carl Yastrzemski added a three-run homer. Andrews and Rico Petrocelli homered in the nightcap.

Roy White hit the first grand slam of his career and the Yankees' first since early last season to help rookie Steve Kline turn back the Twins and trim their lead over California in the AL West to three games.

Jack Gibbs also homered for the Yanks, who were celebrating the return of Mickey Mantle as a coach.

The Angels swatted five home runs and the Indians four—six of them would not have been homers before the fences in Cleveland were moved in this year—but it took Alex Johnson's two-run single in the sixth and Sandy Alomar's dash home on a wild pitch in the eighth to insure the triumph.

Johnson, Alomar, Jay Johnson, Bill Voss and Ken McMillen homered for the Angels and Chuck Hinton, Graig Nettles, Vada Pinson and Ray Fosse for the Indians.

Catcher Bill Freehan, playing his last game before undergoing a back operation, touched off a two-run Detroit rally in the eighth as the Tigers came from behind to beat Oakland, ending a five-game losing streak. The A's had gone ahead in the top of the inning on Reggie Jackson's two-run homer, one of four Oakland pinch hits.

McLaren Team Disqualified

By BLOYS BRITT AP Auto Racing Writer Close observers of the Canadian-American road racing series have said for months that the only way the orange McLaren-Chevrolts can lose a trace is to break completely, or be disqualified.

And that's the reason the late Bruce McLaren, who built the team into the biggest winner in motorsports, always ran twin cars in all of the Can-Am events.

At Elkhart Lake, Wis., Sunday, No. 1 driver Denis Hulme crossed the finish line first in the sixth race of the season. Right behind him was Peter Gethkin of Britain in the No. 2 McLaren.

Two hours after the finish, Sports Car Club of America officials announced that Hulme had been disqualified. They said his car had stalled and was given a push by course workers to restart the engine.

You aren't allowed to receive such help in Can-Am racing—or any other type, for that matter. Hulme was credited with 37 laps and wound up 15th.

That gave the victory to Gethkin, a 31-year-old open-cockpit specialist who replaced American Dan Gurney on the McLaren team a month ago. Gurney had taken the place of McLaren, who was killed testing one of the cars before the season opened in June.

Chicago Moves Into Second And One Game Behind Pirates

By HAL BOCK Associated Press Sports Writer Welcome to the National League East and the division championship nobody wants.

Well, almost nobody. The Chicago Cubs, who flirted with the flag for most of last season before getting jilted in the final month, are showing a revived interest. It's a good thing. Neither the New York Mets nor Pittsburgh Pirates seem to care particularly about it.

The Cubs used Joe Pepitone's ninth inning homer for a 3-0 victory over San Diego Sunday and took over second place in the division, one game back of the staggering Pirates. Pittsburgh dropped both ends of a doubleheader, 7-3 and 2-1 to San Francisco.

The Mets dropped their third straight to Houston, 9-5. It was New York's sixth loss in the last seven games but over that stretch, the Mets have actually gained one-half game in the division race.

New York was 2 1/2 games behind when they started their slide last Sunday and today the Mets find themselves two games behind. The difference is that the Cubs have slipped past them into second place.

Long-shot specialists are advised that fourth place St. Louis is 5 1/2 behind and Philadelphia, in fifth place, is 7 1/2 back. Don't count Montreal out either. They're only 12 1/2 out.

Elsewhere in the NL Sunday, St. Louis shaded Los Angeles 2-1, Montreal Clipped Cincinnati 5-1 and Philadelphia defeated Atlanta 4-2.

In the American League, California hung on to nip Cleveland 10-9 and moved within three games of first place Minnesota in the West when the New York Yankees topped the Twins 5-2. Detroit edged Oakland 6-5, Kansas City edged Washington 4-3, Milwaukee took Baltimore 5-2 and in a wild doubleheader, Boston outslugged Chicago 21-11 in the first game and completed the sweep 4-1 in the nightcap.

Bill Hands of the Cubs and San Diego's Dave Roberts were locked in a scoreless duel through eight innings. Then, with the appealing Pirate first game and Met losses posted tantalizingly on the scoreboard, Chicago pulled it out.

Jim Hickman and Ron Santo drew walks and Joe Pepitone ripped his 20th home run of the year and sixth since moving from Houston to the Cubs. That was plenty for Hands, who scattered seven hits and won his 15th game. Roberts, 5-12, has dropped nine straight decisions.

The Mets got off to a three-run lead on Donn Clendenon's first inning homer but it was all downhill after that. Jimmy Wynn and Denis Menke rattled two homers apiece for the Astros, who took their third straight from New York.

Don Wilson went six innings and got the victory with Jim Ray and Fred Gladding finishing up. Nolan Ryan absorbed the loss.

The Pirates continued to cooperate with the Mets by losing too.

U.S. Wins The Davis Cup Again

By GEORGE STRODE Associated Press Sports Writer CLEVELAND (AP) — The United States has won tennis' Davis Cup again, even though the series doesn't wind up until today.

Ferdinand Henkel, whose West German squad lost the first three matches—giving the United States an insurmountable 3-0 lead—thinks the structure of the Davis Cup playoffs needs a change.

"Four Davis Cup rounds in six weeks—that's too much for the players," the German's non-playing captain said Sunday after Americans Stan Smith and Bob Lutz whipped Wilhem Bungert and Christian Kuhnke in doubles, 6-3, 7-5, 6-4.

"There should be at least three weeks break before the challenge round," Henkel said. "We had only 11 days. It's a war of nerves."

Ed Turville, rookie captain of the American team, didn't agree.

"Two weeks rest between rounds should be enough," the St. Petersburg, Fla., attorney said. "After all, the Germans had the advantage of playing in this type of competition. Our boys hadn't seen this pressure for nearly a year."

"I followed the boys at Wimbledon this year," Turville said, "and they weren't shaking like they were here when they took the court."

Meaningless singles matches were scheduled today. Arthur Ashe Jr., of Richmond, Va., faced Kuhnke and Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., took on Bungert.

The doubles' triumph pulled the United States into a tie with Australia with 22 Davis Cup victories, a record for the world competition. It was also the Americans' third decision in a row.

Lutz and Smith, who took the 1967-68 NCAA doubles crowns as Southern Cal students, ran their Davis Cup record to 8-0, including a 3-0 in challenge rounds.

Turville called Lutz and Smith the best doubles team in U.S. history.

PAYS A VISIT . . . Maj. Gen. Thomas J. Thorne, commanding general of the 120th Army Reserve Command (L) is greeted by Lt. Ivey C. Gentry, commander of the 398th Supply Co. of Greenville. (U.S. Army Photo—Jack Elkins)

Supply Co. Trains At Atlanta Depot

The Greenville headquartered 398th Supply Co., under the command of Lt. Ivey C. Gentry Jr., is currently undergoing its summer training at the Atlanta Army Depot.

The 150 men of the 398th are taking on the job training in supply and storage at the Atlanta facility, recognized as one of the largest of its kind in the nation.

Members of the unit reside within an area of some 150 miles of Greenville and regular monthly training sessions are conducted at the Greenville Army Reserve Center.

So far in Atlanta, the local unit has been visited by the Commanding General of the 120th Army Reserve Command, Maj. Gen. Thomas J. Thorne, and

Hearings Slated For Two Shootings

THOMASVILLE, N. C. (AP)—Two persons faced preliminary hearings today in district court on murder charges growing out of two separate shooting incidents Saturday night.

Juanita Young, 33, of Thomasville was to appear to answer charges stemming from the shooting death of Major Marshall, also of Thomasville. Police said Marshall was found in a ditch outside his apartment with a pistol wound in the chest.

William Taft Goss, 33, of High Point faced a hearing in the death of George Tuttle of Thomasville. Tuttle had been shot once with a pistol police said.

Leif Ericson, an Icelander, visited Canada and New England in the year 1000.

Sgt. I.C. Charles L. Mangas, whose wife, Noretta, lives in Greenville, recently received the Army Commendation Medal while serving with the Americal Division near Chu Lai, Vietnam. Mangas earned the award for meritorious service as a heating specialist in the division artillery's Headquarters Battery. The sergeant entered the Army in 1950 and was stationed at Ft. Belvoir, Va. prior to his arrival in Vietnam.

Airman Willie L. Coffield, nephew of Mrs. Idell Ore of Rt. 3, Williamston, has graduated at Keesler AFB, Miss., from the Air Force administrative specialist course. Coffield was trained in the preparation of Air Force correspondence and reports. He is a 1969 graduate of E. J. Hayes High School.

P.O.2.C. Jerry R. Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Acy Lee and husband of Mrs. Dorothy J. Lee, all of Rt. 1, Grimesland, was scheduled to depart the Puget Sound Naval Shipyard, Bremerton, Wash. on Aug. 24 aboard the combat support ship USS Detroit for Long Beach, Calif. Upon completion of training in Long Beach, the newly commissioned ship will steam around South America for its homeport of Newport, R. I.

Capt. Stencil L. Dilda Jr., son of Mrs. Ora H. Dilda of Rt. 1, Fountain, has been decorated with the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service while engaged in military operations. Dilda distinguished himself by his outstanding performance as chief of maintenance for the 1973rd Communications Squadron at Udorn Royal Thai, AFB, Thailand. The captain, a 1958 graduate of Farmville High School, received a B. S. degree in 1963 from North Carolina State University where he was commissioned through the AFROTC program. He is married to the former Suzanne Cato of Clearwater, Fla.

Richard L. Wade, (above), son of Mr. and Mrs. David C. Wade of Greenville, was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army on Aug. 13 upon successful completion of a six-week Reserve Officer Training Corps' training program at Indiantown Gap, Pa. Wade participated in the ROTC program at the College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Va., from which he graduated in May with a bachelor of arts degree. His wife, Cheryl, is living in Martinsville, Va.

Cpl. Jackie B. McKeel, husband of the former Kathy Wells of Rt. 2, Greenville, was awarded the Navy Achievement Medal with Combat "V" during recent ceremonies at the Marine Corps Base, Camp Lejeune. He was cited for outstanding performance of his duties while serving in Vietnam.

Cadet Rex D. Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert H. Roberts of Greenville, was one of 1,082 cadets who graduated from the Army Reserve Officer Training Corps' basic summer camp Aug. 6 at Ft. Knox, Ky. The six-week course qualified Roberts for acceptance in the advanced ROTC program. During the basic camp, he received a solid foundation in basic military skills with emphasis placed on leadership, tactical training, map reading, drill and ceremonies, and physical training. Roberts is a student at the University of Georgia, Athens, Ga.

Lance Cpl. Michael J. Lecher of Rt. 2, Greenville has reported for duty with the First Marine Division in Vietnam.

Spec. 5 Willie O. Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse E. Taylor of Rt. 2, Williamston, was recently assigned as a tank crewman with the Americal Division near Chu Lai, Vietnam. Taylor has received the Bronze Star Medal.

Airman apprentice Walter B. Hall, son of Charlie E. Hall of Greenville, has completed basic jet flight instruction at Naval Air Station, Meridian, Miss. During the five to six weeks of training, he mastered the techniques of jet acrobatics, night and formation flying.

Pfc. Jesse L. Dixon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen L. Dixon of Rt. 1, Chocowinity, received the Combat Infantryman Badge in Vietnam on July 22. The CIB can be awarded only to a member of an infantry unit of brigade, regimental or smaller size unit who satisfactorily performed in active combat against a hostile force for a period of time. Dixon received the award while assigned as a rifleman with the 101st Airborne Division (Airmobile) near Phu Bai. He entered the Army in 1969, completed basic training at Ft. Bragg and was stationed at Ft. McClellan, Ala. before arriving overseas. His wife, Joan, lives in Chocowinity.

P. O.3.C. Haywood R. White of Greenville, was graduated recently from Electrician's Mate School, Naval Training Center, San Diego, Calif.

Tobacco TIPS

By SAM J. WEEKS

Mosaic, a virus disease, caused considerable damage in many tobacco fields throughout Pitt County during the 1970 growing season. The highly contagious virus which causes Mosaic spreads by mere contact. It is believed that this virus over-winters in the soil on un-decayed roots and stems.

Farmers can reduce the virus by making sure that all of their tobacco stalks rot as quickly as possible. To make sure the stalks will rot, they need to be destroyed as soon after harvest as possible.

Once cold weather sets in the decaying process slows down or stops. Stalks which have not fully decayed will help the mosaic virus survive the winter. The pest will then be ready to hit the new crop early in the spring. Research has shown that about one-fourth of the tobacco crop can be destroyed by mosaic when it strikes just after transplanting.

Mosaic is only one of the pests that can be reduced by cutting the stalks immediately after harvest and plowing out the roots. Other pests that can be reduced are brownspot, nematodes, flea beetles, hornworms, and budworms.

The Pitt County goal in 1970 is to get 100 percent participation in the R-6-P (REDUCE 6 PESTS) Campaign.

Since the insect moths and fungi spores spread from one farm to another, it is important for every grower to clean up his fields. In that way, he will not be harboring insects and diseases for his neighbors and himself.

An ordinary bushel basket lined with an old plastic tablecloth makes an ideal clothes basket.

GET YOUR CONTACT LENSES NOW FOR BACK-TO-SCHOOL

If you are thinking about CONTACT LENSES to start this school year, now is the time to make your appointment! The ideal situation is to allow four to five weeks for your doctor's eye examination, your contact lens fitting, and follow-up visits or check-ups. This is normal time required for your wearing time to progress properly so that you adapt to your new contact lenses before going off to school. Don't put it off . . . Call your eye doctor for an appointment and ask him about the many advantages of contact lenses. If your doctor recommends contact lenses or eye glasses, bring your prescription to us for prompt, accurate service!

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN
 (c 1970: By The Chicago Tribune)
ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ
 Q. 1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
 ♠AQ1043 ♥Q6 ♦A1093 ♣72
 The bidding has proceeded:
 South West North East
 1♠ Pass 2♣ Pass

What do you bid now?
 A—Two spades. This is a mini-opening and the simple bid in spades is preferred to a diamond raise which would denote a stronger holding at least 16 points in support.

Q. 2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠75 ♥K9643 ♦KQ3 ♣872
 The bidding has proceeded:
 North East South West
 1NT Pass 2♣ Pass
 2♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
 A—Two no trump. You must not bid three hearts for that would be forcing to game. This hand contained the elements of a two no trump raise initially but with a five card major and a worthless doubler you chose to explore suit possibilities by instituting the two club inquiry. Since partner has bid spades you are forced to return to no trump. He can still show hearts in the remote contingency that he has them or proceed to three no trump if his opening was not a minimum.

Q. 3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠KQ10865 ♥9 107 ♣A13
 The bidding has proceeded:
 North East South West

What do you bid now?
 A—Pass. You have no reason to disturb partner's bid. It will be time enough to think of bidding spades if West takes the double out to five hearts. In the mean time your hand should make a perfectly suitable dummy.

Q. 4—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠AQJ64 ♥A754 J832
 The bidding has proceeded:
 East South West North
 1♠ Dble. 1NT Dble. Pass ?

What do you bid now?
 A—Two spades. Since your double was based somewhat on the trump rather than high card strength your hand may prove a disappointment.

Q. 5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
 ♠742 ♥A10 ♦8763 ♣Q1094
 The bidding has proceeded:
 South West North East
 Pass 1♥ Dble. Pass
 2♣ 2♥ 3♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
 A—Four diamonds. Partner has made a vulnerable take-out double and then bid voluntarily at the three level which marks him with a very good hand. Your hand is more than he could have counted on and, consequently, it is worth a try for game. With but a single heart stopper we would not recommend a bid of three no trump. A possibility, however, might be three hearts which could enable partner to bid six trump, with some secondary heart stopper.

Q. 6—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠KQ3 ♥J5 ♦KJ1086 ♣K93
 The bidding has proceeded:
 West North East South
 1NT Pass Pass ?

What do you bid now?
 A—Double. This is a trifle tight for a double, but East has confessed to a mediocre holding. If partner has most of the missing points, you can severely damage the one no trump contract. If he has to take the double out the consequences shouldn't be too dire.

Q. 7—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
 ♠A Q13 ♥A98643 ♣J95
 The bidding has proceeded:
 South West North East
 Pass Pass 1♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
 A—Three diamonds. This is somewhat of an underbid but there is no other convenient call available. A leap to five diamonds may get you one too high if partner has a shaded third seat opening.

Q. 8—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠K986 ♥J105 ♦652 ♣A54
 The bidding has proceeded:
 North East South West
 1♠ 2♥ 2♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
 A—Pass. Partner's three spade bid is an inquiry as to whether you have any surplus values. Actually you have just about made the grade for a free raise. Had your two spade bid come in the other context, then you would be justified in carrying on.

The Worry Clinic

Churches Need Good Singing

Rev. Tom Paino, Sr., led part of the congregation singing when I occupied his son's pulpit Homer Rodeheaver and Billy Sunday would have relished this superb demonstration of "contagious music." Alas, many pastors are hampered by stodgy choir leaders who want to show off their own musical pyrotechnics instead of working up audience enthusiasm.

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph. D., M. D.
 CASE 0-518: Rev. Tom Paino, Jr., invited me to occupy his pulpit at Indianapolis recently. For I donate my Sundays to churches, if they are within 100 miles of our summer home in Indiana.

Mrs. Crane acts as my chauffeur, and we usually stay for dinner with the pastor and some of his church members. Our fee is only our dinner, so instead of "singing for my supper," I speak for my dinner! And we have spent many wonderful Sundays the past two years in this manner.

But we doubly enjoyed our visit to Tom Paino's Assembly of God congregation. His father, formerly the pastor, led the singing. And the music was contagious! That congregation not only used the stirring hymns that are basic to revivalists like Billy Sunday, Billy Graham and such. But the members sang till literally even the visitors got infected by the melodic zeal. Alas, far too many modern churches don't use "contagious music."

I have spoken before hundreds of Catholic, Jewish, Mormon and other Protestant denominations. But rarely has a congregation sung like this one at Indianapolis.

In fact, several of the visitors, including some from 3 leading Methodist churches, told me afterwards:

 "Dr. Crane, I just wish our church folks could have been here to see what real congregation singing should be."
 My son David has met us at the church and he was so captivated by the music that he wanted to go back that same evening just to hear more of the singing!

Yet he has visited all types of churches and witnessed the Army Chaplain's programs while he was serving in Vietnam for a year as roving psychiatrist with the 25th Infantry Division.

In this column from time to time I have criticized the choice of songs of our fancy modern church choirs. But technical musicians often lose sight of the practical purpose of church music. They lack the orator's viewpoint!

For they become enamored of special choral arrangements, that often almost totally unfamiliar to 95 percent of the congregation. And they pride themselves on their modulated voices, gentle harmony and occasional laryngeal pyrotechnics.

Yet the audience meanwhile is often daydreaming or thumping through the church bulletins or whispering. The primary purpose of church music is to prepare the entire congregation, not merely a dozen in the choir, so the pastor will have a polarized audience that is already uplifted and religiously enthused.

It thus takes "contagious music" to benefit the clergyman! The modern, sissy type of choir singing leaves the audience "flat," uninspired and often even irritated at the waste of the 10 minutes required for that "special number."

If any of you parishioners with a ritzy brainwash re fancy choir

W.C. Reed Rites Today

KINSTON, N. C. (AP) — The retired general superintendent of the Baptist Children's Homes of North Carolina, the Rev. Weston C. Reed, 77, died in a Kingston hospital Sunday after suffering a heart attack at his home.

Funeral services for the widely known church leader were to be held at First Baptist Church in Kinston this afternoon and at First Baptist Church in Sylva at 4 p.m. Tuesday.

The Jackson County native served as superintendent of the Kennedy Home from 1943 to 1950, when he was named general superintendent. He also served six years as chairman of the Lenoir County Welfare Board.

After his retirement in 1958, pyrotechnics, still doubt my word, just watch your own congregation get the fidgets during next Sunday's choir singing!

Instead, pick surefire numbers that inspire 100 percent audience participation and that almost burst the stained glass windows outward with volume! And let the crowd join in the chorus!

For it requires "contagious music" to polarize an audience properly for the speaker!

Reed continued to serve the homes as a consultant and for a year was co-pastor of the First Baptist Church of Kinston.

He was a former first vice-president of the Baptist State Convention and was one of the founders and first presidents of the Child Care Executives of Southern Baptists.

He is survived by his widow; a son, Olin Reed of Kinston; two daughters, Mrs. Ted Huguilet of Cullowhee and Mrs. Charles Mason of Winston-Salem; one sister, Mrs. George C. Snyder of Sylva; and seven grandchildren.

Nine Arrested As SBI Stages Gambling Raids

ASHEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — The State Bureau of Investigation swooped down over the weekend on persons suspected of gambling at Asheville and arrested nine.

SBI agents struck four establishments simultaneously early Saturday—Speedy's Grill, Woodsin Phillips 66 Service Station, Smoky Mountain Motors and Riverside Recapping Co. Asheville police participated in the raid on the grill.

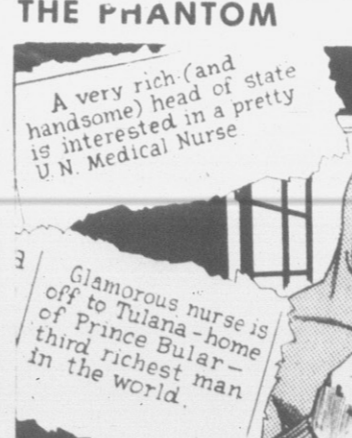

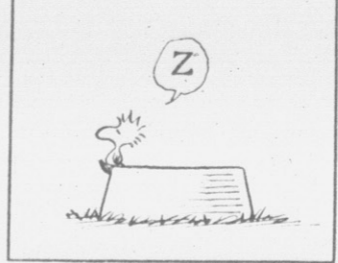

All nine were charged under statutes that prohibit ownership, operation or participation in a lottery.

All were released under $100 bond pending hearings.

See Carrier TV Log Losses Rise

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Merchants Association says the problems of collecting claims from intrastate carriers for lost or damaged cargo "has finally become so critical that action should be taken at once."

The association announced Sunday it has filed a request with the state Utilities Commission for an investigation of "the failure of intrastate common carriers of freight to settle loss and damage claims."

Thompson Greenwood, executive vice president of the retail organization, said if the request is granted, every franchised motor carrier in the state would be required to appear before the commission to "show cause why it should not be cited for failing to serve the public properly in the handling of claims for lost or damaged cargo."

Greenwood said the association's board of directors in a meeting Aug. 22 asked him to request the investigation.

Bartholomew Diaz, a Portuguese, discovered and named the Cape of Good Hope in 1487.
