

CATV Delay Advised For City Project

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

"Our basic conclusion is that until the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) makes new rules, you defer construction and operation of a cable television facility in Greenville," Martin Smith, representative for a consultant firm, advised officials of the city and the Greenville Utilities Commission at a noon meeting yesterday.

Smith, discussed the Greenville feasibility study and market survey prepared by Malarkey, Taylor and Associates, a management and engineering consultant firm of Washington, D.C.

Meeting with Mayor Frank M. Wooten, Jr., City Manager Harry Hagerly, Greenville Utilities Commission director Charles Horne, Utilities Commission board chairman Ed Waldrop, city councilmen and other officials, Smith conceded that the outlook for eventual installation of cable television (CATV) was very good despite his firm's recommendation for the proposed waiting period.

"I certainly recommend that the city hold on the franchise it now holds," Smith stated.

One of the points Smith emphasized is that a general feeling exists throughout the nation that FCC is in the process of changing rules, which, as stated in the report, will "permit importation and carriage of additional television services." Smith believes that within a period of 12 to 18 months, conditions will be much more favorable in Greenville for renewed consideration of offering CATV services to subscribers in the community.

The feasibility report, copies of which were given to officials, furnishes a coverage of existing interest for CATV in the community; approximate costs entailed in the project and expectation of profits for the city; franchise considerations; existing and possible television services; system potential and projected subscriber growth; and several other factors which form a part of the total outlook for a local CATV system.

Some of the highlights of the feasibility report show:
—An estimate that Greenville could attain approximately 45 percent subscriber saturation over a five year term.

—A need for a capital commitment of approximately $900,000 with two-thirds for plant costs and one-third for pre-opening expenses, operating deficits during the first year of operation, and interest deficiencies for the first four years.

—A projected period of 20 years for total retirement of the $900,000 costs.
—Due to substantial fixed costs inherent in a cable system a higher degree of subscribers — more than 50 percent — would greatly improve the financial return.

The report also shows that it is the conviction of the consultant firm that "the Utilities Commission is the logical, natural owner and operator of a cable system in Greenville," and that "it would seem advisable that the Commission and the city retain the Greenville CATV franchise, looking to the realistic prospect for future construction and operation at a propitious time."

The portion of the report dealing with the possibilities of expansion of programs in the area by the addition of other stations elicited a number of queries from officials.

Basically, three stations now in existence are in the Grade A, of immediate area of the proposed system. These are WNCN-Greenville, WITN-Washington, and WCTI-New Bern stations. Three other existing stations — WTVD at Durham - Raleigh; WRAL, Raleigh - Durham and WUND, Columbia, an educational station, are Grade B within the area.

These stations would be first to be included within a Greenville CATV system. In addition, it is pointed out that television station construction permits are outstanding for Fayetteville, Jacksonville and an additional station for Greenville on Channel 25. The Greenville station is an educational station licensed to the University of North Carolina with a scheduled completion date of September 1970, and as a local station, its inclusion in the Greenville CATV would be obligatory.

City officials asked about programming of specialized programs on non-allocated channels — for example, agricultural, stock market programs, weather programs and closed-circuit programs for the public schools. They were informed by Smith that all these could be conceivably included as a part of a CATV system.

The consultants are recommending as a beginning, that an approved Greenville CATV system should provide capacity for 12 services (or channels). Later the total service could be expanded as conditions for such expansion warranted additions.

Smith noted that the basic reason for the firm making such a strong recommendation for Greenville going into CATV after a waiting period despite the basic recommendation to delay, is the unusual case of Greenville, where public facilities are owned and operated by the city. "If it were not for this situation," he commented, "we would not be in favor of making the favorable recommendation we have made. This is the first time I've seen a set up like this."

FIREMEN . . . fight a blaze at the H.L. night. Extensive damage resulted Tetterton and Sons firm in Bethel last from the fire.

Bethel Fire Controlled

BETHEL — A major fire destroyed by old office and the front part of the storage area of H. L. Tetterton and Sons, a building contractor and building supply firm last night.

Bethel Fire Chief Delton Perry said the firm, located on N. C. 11 north of the railroad tracks, was reported on fire at 9:30 p.m. last night. Two trucks from Bethel and one from Robersonville reported to the scene.

"The firemen were able to keep the fire from spreading to warehouses at the rear of the Tetterton storage area," Chief Perry stated, "and from setting fire to the drug store across the street."

In commending the fireman for their successful efforts to keep the fire from spreading, Perry commented, "They were hampered by intense heat and extremely heavy smoke, probably due to the large amount of paint and other construction material in the storage area."

Origin of the fire and estimate of damage was unknown. Perry noted that one fireman suffered exhaustion due to the heavy smoke and heat.

Drug Abuse Said Commonplace In Business World

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Drug usage is so widespread among both white and blue-collar workers that it does little good to fire them, two researchers say. Their replacements may have a similar problem.

"Drugs are often a way of life for young executives," Carol Kurtis, a New York drug expert, told a workshop for representatives of 90 San Francisco area firms Wednesday.
She and Dr. Stephen Pittel of San Francisco's Mt. Zion Hospital, who has done three years of drug research in the Haight-Ashbury district, said companies must set up programs to help employees.

Attending the seminar were representatives of such corporations as Pacific Gas and Electric Co., Bank of America, Pacific Telephone and Southern Pacific.

"Any company that hires a large number of young employees, and has a high turnover rate, will have this problem," Miss Kurtis said.

Miss Kurtis said her work in New York with 80 major corporations and further research throughout the eastern United States revealed a 20 per cent impairment of employee efficiency because of the use of such drugs as marijuana, LSD, heroin, amphetamines and barbiturates as well as nicotine and alcohol.

She is an editor and researcher for Research Institute of America, a New York consulting firm, and the author of "Drug Abuse as a Business Problem."

Pittel estimated 30 to 50 per cent of San Francisco business employees between the ages of 18 to 30 have tried marijuana.

He said drug usage is a crutch that often results in "permanent deferral of problems."

"It is a turning away instead of developing inner strength to handle problems," he said.

He suggested that each company department should have a "supervisor with good objective knowledge of drugs, whom people can come to, without fear, for help."

Voter Registration Books To Close October 5

Voter registration books for the November 3 general election will close October 5, in Pitt County.

Pitt Election's board chairman I. Bruce Koonce explained today that persons wishing to transfer their voting records from one precinct to another, may do so each week-day from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. at the Board of Elections' office at the Court House.

Persons not now registered and who have been residents of North Carolina for one year by the time of the November 3 election and who have lived in "their respective precinct for 30 days and are 21 years of age," will be eligible to register to vote in the election, Koonce explained.

"Persons who have moved from the precinct where they last voted must have a transfer of their records made to the precinct where they now live..." in order to be eligible to vote, Koonce emphasized.

"You must be registered in the precinct where you presently live. You can not live in one precinct and vote in another. If you are in 'doubt' about your being properly registered, contact the election Board office... and be sure," Koonce said.

He warned, "If you are improperly registered, you will be denied the privilege of voting." According to Koonce, "Persons should avail themselves of the opportunity to get properly registered between now and October 5 at 5 p.m."

Pitt voters will have an opportunity to cast ballots for three Supreme Court Justices, three judges for the Court of Appeals, 22 Superior Court judges, (all of whom are running without opposition) as well as for their choice of candidates for the First District Congressional seat and seven North Carolina constitutional amendment proposals.

On the county ballot, voters will have an opportunity to vote on a district solicitor, two State Senators, two members of the state House of Representatives,

Report Israel To Probably Boycott UN Peace Talks

By MARCUS ELIASON
Associated Press Writer
TEL AVIV (AP) — Informed sources reported today that the Israeli government probably will boycott the Middle East peace talks at the United Nations until the United States takes a firm line supporting Israel's charges of Egyptian cease-fire violations.

Premier Golda Meir and her Cabinet met again today to consider the question as Israel issued its ninth complaint charging more Egyptian movement of anti-aircraft missiles into the Suez Canal cease-fire zone.
The sources said continued abstention from negotiations would be aimed at appeasing Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, who some Israelis believe will quit the Cabinet if Ambassador Yosef Tekoah returns to the talks with U.N. envoy Gunnar V. Jarring before the United States gives public support to Israel's charges.

"The defense minister is not making it easy for Golda," wrote columnist Yoel Marcus in the newspaper Haaretz. "He has given to understand that this is for him a matter of principle, and that if his stand is not accepted he can no longer bear responsibility for defense policy."

Tekoah returned to Jerusalem last week after only one day of the talks, and so far there has been no sign of his returning to New York.

It was reported in Washington that the United States today told the Soviet Union and Egypt to stop violating the cease-fire. And American officials were preparing a statement which would acknowledge public evidence of the Egyptian missile buildup.

Elsewhere in the Middle East, Syria joined Iraq today in threatening to send its military forces against the Jordanian army to defend the Palestine guerrillas.

Observers in Beirut considered the Syrian threat, like the similar one Iraq made Tuesday and Wednesday, to be largely psychological. Although the bulk of the Syrian army is deployed along the southern frontier 70 miles from Amman, the Syrians have been markedly reluctant to fight the Israelis, either during the 1967 war or since. And while they finance the Al Saika guerrilla organization, they make it use Lebanon and Jordan as the springboards for its raids on Israel to minimize the threat of Israeli retaliation against Syria.

The Jordanian government rejected the Iraqi threat, but the fighting in Amman between the guerrillas and Jordanian troops subsided Wednesday after five days of shooting.

Saw Their Son In POW Film; Looked Healthy

By CAROL TYLER
Reflector Staff Writer
ROBERSONVILLE — Mr. and Mrs. Bill Robinson spotted their son, Billy, on a film shown on a Monday night television news show of American prisoners in North Vietnam participating in an apparent Christmas religious service.

"We knew it was Billy as soon as we saw a closeup of him singing," his father said. "He looked exceptionally well, as if he were holding his normal weight, a fact that makes us feel much better about him."

"He had a pleasant expression on his face, too, Mrs. Robinson said. "This delighted us because the last picture we had seen of him was taken over there and used in a Life Magazine article in 1967. It was just an individual head shot, but to us he looked dejected. And he appeared so thin at that time, too."

This film reportedly was made during the 1969 Christmas season and Billy's looking so healthy at this time was especially comforting to his parents. "He had written us earlier that year that he had undergone an appendectomy and, although he assured us he was fine, we have been fearful ever since that he had not received good care. The way he looked eased our minds somewhat."

The U. S. government had notified the Robinsons that the film would be shown nationwide Monday night. It had been officially screened earlier and the notice indicated that it was believed that Airman Robinson was included in the footage.

"I just can't describe the wonderful feeling having seen it gives me," his father said. "See, I get chill bumps every time I think or tell about it. We just have more hope than ever that he will get home, yet."

The Greenville television station invited the Robinsons to go to the station and view the film as many times as they wished. "Seeing it at slow speed, we were able to pick Billy out of the group several times," Mrs. Robinson said.

"We really believe that this opportunity was a result at all the effort that has been made lately to use worldwide public opinion to prevail upon the North Vietnamese. We urge everyone to sign the petitions that will be circulated later this month by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and to write letters to anyone who has any influence. We want more assurance of the humane treatment of our boys, and the release of all their names, and

Tobacco Market Generally Firm

The market for Eastern North Carolina flue-cured tobacco held generally steady Wednesday, reports the Federal — State Market News Service.

The few fluctuations in grade average amounted to chiefly $1 per hundred pounds when compared with the previous day's levels. Practical top price was $81 per hundred pounds. Little change occurred in quality of marketings, with leaf grades making up around two-thirds of today's heavy volume.

The Greenville market Wednesday averaged $73.46 per hundred pounds when 1,495,626 pounds of leaf went for $1,098,765.

The Farmville market yesterday averaged $74.01 per hundred pounds. That market sold 622,840 pounds of tobacco for $460,994.

"Offerings were mostly leaf, smoked leaf and cutter grade," reported Louis Williams, sales supervisor for the Farmville market.

The top company price paid was $85 per hundred pounds on the Farmville warehouse floors. Stabilization receipts accounted for 5.51 percent of gross sales in Farmville.

To date, 7,319,472 pounds of tobacco have been sold in Farmville for $5,464,918, for an average of $74.66 per hundred pounds.

Ambassador Bruce' First Meet Futile

By STEPHENS BROENING
Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — U.S. Ambassador David K. E. Bruce had his first session with North Vietnam's chief envoy in the Paris peace talks today and appealed for a conciliation to break the long deadlock.

But Xuan Thuy declared the only way the talks can progress is for the United States to renounce "its policy of prolonging and widening its war of aggression" and abandon what he called its neocolonialist aims in South Vietnam.

Thuy, in his first appearance since December, asserted that North Vietnam remains firmly behind the Viet Cong's peace proposals which include a unilateral withdrawal by the United States from Vietnam and to abandon the South Vietnamese government of President Nguyen Van Thieu. The United States has rejected these proposals.
Bruce said in his statement at the meeting that the single essential condition for a negotiated peace is for South Vietnam to determine its own future without outside interference.

"Our respective views—yours and ours—have differed widely on how to achieve this one essential condition," Bruce said.

Then the new American envoy stated, "Let us avoid propaganda and harsh language. Let us set aside preconditions to serious discussions. Let us set aside demands for one-sided action."

Thuy said before the meeting — the 82nd — he had come to listen, ready "to discern if there is anything new" in what Bruce had to say.

If there was anything new in Bruce's statement it was the tone. The American proposals have not changed.

The ambassador's appeal for using "all the means available to us" appeared as a bid for secret talks with Thuy.

AT HOME ON THE RANGE—The first year she only knew the difference between a cow and a bull. Now Stella Johnson, 34, owns and runs a 1,200-acre cattle ranch with the help of her four children, ages 6 to 14.

A Woman, Four Children, Hired Hand Run 1,200-Acre Ranch

By STELLA ROBERTS
Associated Press Writer
MILL CREEK, Okla. (AP) — If you think running a 1,200-acre cattle ranch is strictly a man's job, guess again ... and meet Paula Johnson, lady rancher.

Mrs. Johnson, 34, operates the MC Charolais Ranch, two miles west of this little Johnston County town in the hilly pastureland of southern Oklahoma.

She does it with the help of five "hands," four of them under 15.

Mrs. Johnson, a divorcee, took over the ranch from her father, Tol Dickinson, a Norman businessman, in 1966, moving here with her four young children.

Working almost single-handedly—and starting out with no knowledge or experience in the cattle business—she has built the ranch into a going concern. She runs some 200 head of cattle, mostly mixed Charolais and Angus. Hopefully, within the next three years, she says, she'll have a purebred Charolais herd.

For the first year, Mrs. Johnson relied for help almost entirely on her four youngsters, then aged 10 to 4. The second year, she hired a man, but says she still does all chores concerned with the cattle. Her single employe, she says, mostly builds fences and does other jobs around the ranch.

How did an attractive young mother get into the ranching business?

Mrs. Johnson says her father bought the MC Ranch back in 1962, mostly as "a playground for the grandkids." His four daughters' have supplied him with 13.

Not long afterwards Mrs. Johnson left her husband, an Army career man in Germany, and returned to Norman with her children.

She took a job, but was unhappy being away from the children too much.

Then one day, she said, her father said, kiddingly, "Why don't you move down to the ranch and keep an eye on things?"

Although her only previous experience with animals was with a horse she had as a child, Mrs. Johnson moved to the ranch and learned about the cattle business—quickly.

Her father had stocked the ranch with two herds of Angus, looked after by a hired hand. However, shortly after Mrs. Johnson settled on the ranch, the man quit.

* She greets each bull, cow and calf by number, feeding them by keeping up with the cattle operation.

"I had 25 heifers that started calving in September," says Mrs. Johnson, recalling how she delivered those calves, doctored sick animals and rode the pastures.

"We fed the cattle in the afternoons in the winter. As soon as the kids got off the school bus, we started out ... mud or snow, we looked after those cattle."

Originally most of the help came from the two older children, Larry Tol, now 14, and Calvin Eugene, 12. Today, however, Brenda Lynn, 9, and Thomas Page, 6, are becoming good ranchhands, Mrs. Johnson says.

Those first years were rough, says Mrs. Johnson, but at least the family was together—and they still are.

"The first year I was down here I didn't know a thing. I knew the difference between a cow and a bull and that was about it."

To make matters worse, she broke a finger that first year while roping a calf.

"And before I got the cast off, a cow stepped on my foot and I had to go to crutches."

But despite the hardships she stuck it out. She bought a cow, planted a garden, learned to can vegetables and to make jelly for her family ... all the time

Parents Get K. P. Duty From Their Daughter, Friend

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Our 19-year-old daughter, Caroline, has started going with a guy named Angelo. He never takes her any place. He just comes over every night to watch television and wear out our sofa.

When Angelo comes over, the wife and I have to go sit in the kitchen so he and Caroline can have their privacy in the living room. I suppose we could go in our bedroom, but who wants to go to bed at 7 o'clock?

So, every night lately the wife and I sit in the kitchen like a couple of cockroaches trying to watch television on a dinky little portable.

The wife is so happy that Caroline finally has a boy friend she doesn't say a word. I am getting tired of this setup. What should I do?

KITCHEN SITTING

DEAR SITTER: Send me a picture of Caroline and I'll tell you what to do.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have only one child, Ellen, who is now 7. Since we aren't able to have any more we have decided to adopt a child, but here is our problem. We want a little girl Ellen's age not so much for ourselves but for Ellen. She is a shy child and has never made friends easily. Being an only child, she's inclined to be a little spoiled and, therefore, not easy to get along with. We feel that if Ellen had a sister her age it would relieve her loneliness and give her someone to keep her company.

We've spoken to several adoption agencies and they haven't been very encouraging. They seem to think we should adopt a younger child, and possibly a boy. But Abby, what kind of a companion would that be for our lonely little daughter? Also, isn't it true that when a new baby comes into a home, the older child becomes jealous and resentful? Can you give us some advice?

ELLEN'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: You appear to be more concerned with the needs of your own child than with the needs of an adopted child. To foist a "twin" on Ellen in order to provide her with a companion and relieve her loneliness could be a sad mistake for all. Why not take a foster child for a while and see how it works out? Or perhaps the Lord in His infinite wisdom intended for you to have only one?

DEAR ABBY: My gripe is my landlady. She had a key to my apartment, saying she needed it in case of an emergency. I know for a fact that this landlady has gone into my apartment and looked thru my drawers, closets and my desk.

I asked a friend of mine who is a private detective if my landlady had the right to go into my apartment without my permission, and he said absolutely not! He also said if I suspected that mine did, I had the right to change the lock on my door and refuse to give her the key. Well, this is exactly what I did. And I told her that in case of an emergency she could break the door down with an ax and I would pay for a new one. Needless to say, no emergency ever came up and I've been living there for two years. Of course when she sees me, she turns her head, but I like it better that way.

KNOWS MY RIGHTS

DEAR KNOWS: "Rights" differ in different buildings, cities and even states. It's amazing how few landlords know their rights. And even fewer tenants know theirs.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WAITING AND HOPING: A man who would cheat on his wife would lie to his girl friend. And if he did divorce her and marry you, what would you have? A husband who cheats on his wife.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

The helping hands: Larry Tol, 14; Thomas Page, 6; Brenda Lynn, 9, and Calvin Eugene, 12.

Treat Guests To Elegant Snack: Sponge-Cake Roll

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Here's a new version of an elegant hors d'oeuvre. It's a sponge-cake roll (using only 1 tablespoon of sugar), a savory ham filling and a cream-cheese frosting. Parsley and nuts are plastered on the frosting to add to the roll's flavor and to make it look particularly attractive.

When we made this roll in our test kitchen, we had tasters from California, North Dakota and New York. Visitors from the three states thoroughly approved it.

HAM HORS D'OEUVRE ROLL
4 eggs, separated
1 tablespoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1/2 cup sifted flour

Ham Filling, see below
15 large pimiento-stuffed olives, if desired
Cream Cheese Frosting, see below

1/2 cup coarsely chopped parsley
1/2 cup coarsely chopped toasted filberts or slivered toasted blanched almonds

Grease a 15 by 10 by 1-inch jelly roll pan; line bottom with wax paper; grease paper well. In large mixing bowl beat egg whites until foamy. Add sugar and salt; beat until straight stiff peaks form when beater is slowly withdrawn.

Without washing beater, in small mixing bowl beat egg yolks until thick and lemon color; fold into egg whites with minced parsley. Gradually fold in flour. Turn into prepared pan, spreading evenly.

Bake in preheated 400-degree oven until cake tester inserted in center comes out leaven—8 to 10 minutes. Immediately turn out onto tea towel. Remove wax paper; roll up in towel from 15-inch side. Cool about 20 minutes.

Unroll; spread with Ham Filling; if used, place olives along 15-inch edge; tightly roll up. Wrap in foil or wax paper and refrigerate for 2 hours.

Frost roll with Cream Cheese Frosting. Mix together coarsely chopped parsley and nuts; roll frosted roll in parsley-nut mixture, patting it in gently. Chill at least 2 hours. Cut in 1/2-inch slices.

Makes about 30 hors d'oeuvres.

NOTE: The ham hors d'oeuvre roll may be made ahead and stored in the refrigerator overnight. Or it may be frozen for as long as two weeks; do not add the olives if roll is to be frozen.

HAM FILLING
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup finely chopped onion
1 cup firmly packed ground cooked ham

3 tablespoons commercial sour cream
3 tablespoons real mayonnaise
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1/2 teaspoon white pepper

In an 8-inch skillet melt butter. Add onion and cook gently stirring often, until tender and transparent—about 5 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in ham, sour cream, mayonnaise, parsley and white pepper. Chill. Makes 1 cup.

She Makes Beautiful Batik Scarves In Old Dairy Truck

By ANNETTE STEC
News Tribune Magazine Editor
SOUTH AMBOY, N.J. (AP)—
Amidst the crushed and mangled hulks of cars in a junkyard here stands an old dairy truck—the kind that delivers milk at your home. This one, however, is a studio for Leora Korb, a tiny blonde with a long pony tail who spends her days transforming white silk into filmy, colorful batik scarves.

Her studio, which has a window, door, skylight, interior spotlights, shelves and worktable, sits in the junkyard owned by her husband's parents.

Mrs. Korb, who was born in South Africa, moved to Israel where she studied fashion design. She came to New York City in 1967 to work for an Israeli manufacturing concern and met and married Lewis Korb.

Her suburban New Jersey apartment, she found, was too confining for her batik work. "I was too inhibited," she recalled. "It's messy work, and I was afraid the dye would splatter." So she set up the studio.

There, on rainy days, you'll find her bent over her work table, drawing designs with hot beeswax on sheer silk. On sunny days she's outside dyeing the scarves, which range up to six feet in length. The colors are magnificent. Think of the Negev desert at sunrise, midday and sunset—subtle, earthy, striking and vibrant. The designs are fascinating: simple and subdued—the merest tracings of line and color—or bold and geometric, but never harsh. And she's done well with them—they are popular in New York City stores, and are quickly spreading to better stores across the country.

MAKING BATIK—Leora Korb converted an old dairy truck in the middle of a junkyard into a studio because her work's "too messy." Here, using a tjanting, she applies hot beeswax to the areas of the scarf she doesn't want dyed. Then she hangs the scarves up to dry on clotheslines strung throughout her studio. Next she dips them in kerosene to remove the wax.

Asian Women Are Branching Out, Reaching For Freedom

By ROBERT CRABBE
TOKYO (UPI)—An old Confucian proberly put Asia's traditional view of women in a nutshell:

"The woman obeys her father before marriage, her husband after marriage, and her son when widowed."

But "as Confucius say" doesn't always hold any more. World War II saw the budding of a revolution in the Asian woman's way of life that has only begun.

In non-Communist and in Communist Asia alike, women are branching out from their traditional roles as humble wives and mothers and reaching boldly for freedom and self-identity.

Ceylon gave the world its first woman prime minister, Mrs. Solomon Bandaranike. India, one of the largest nations, now has a woman prime minister—Indira Gandhi.

An all-woman team of Japanese mountain climbers is toiling up Mount Annapurna III, one of the most dangerous peaks in the Himalayas.

Such events would have been unthinkable 30 years ago.

In old Asia, most famous women were queens or royal mistresses. Achievers such as Japan's classic novelist, Shikibu Murasaki, got to do their great work only by lucky accident. Murasaki's husband died when she was 22, leaving her in comfortable circumstances with plenty of time to write.

In the progress of women, it is hard to compare countries. Japan's high standard of living and its constitution giving women legal equality with men lend an appearance of progress, yet women in the economically backward Philippines are far more active in law and medicine. And Japanese women never have scaled the political peaks reached by their sisters in India, Pakistan and Ceylon.

In all Asian countries, material life has changed faster than social attitudes. Television and autos are adopted more quickly than new viewpoints on marriage and careers.

Theoreticians of the American feminist movement like Roxanne Dunbar might well consider Asia a continuing disaster area.

Many Asian women still think small when confronting the new opportunities. For these, emancipation means little more than an education lightly pursued, and a chance for a sexual fling or two before settling down in a conventional marriage.

Here is a look at the status of women in some Asian nations:

—Japan. Nine years after Japanese women got the vote in 1947, they abolished the centuries-old system of legalized prostitution. However, old attitudes of male superiority die hard. There are only eight women in the 486-seat lower house of parliament. Girls accounted for only 3.5 per cent of the freshman class admitted recently to Tokyo University.

Women comprise 9.5 per cent of the doctors and 11 per cent of the dentists.

—China. Since the Communist takeover, many women have gone to work in fields and factories. Others serve in government and the armed forces. However, women's resistance to communal living frustrated Mao's efforts to deemphasize family life. The sexless look is in. Once-glamorous Chinese women now shun makeup and hairstyling.

—Philippines. One-third of the doctors are female. The same for one-sixth of the nation's lawyers. The country's top taxpayer in 1967 was Mrs. Mercedes McMicking, a real estate tycoon. The Madrigal sisters, daughters of industrialist Vincent Madrigal, have vast holdings in construction, banking and real estate. The foreign service has seven female ambassadors or career ministers. Benefits of emancipation, mostly have gone to upper class women.

—Burma. Here the feminist movement is weak. No women are cabinet ministers but women staff government offices. Burma allows divorce by mutual consent. Husbands and wives hold property in common. Polygamy is legal but frowned on by moderns.

—Indonesia. Legally, men may take up to four wives. Increasingly young women are unwilling to enter such marriages. Since independence they have had equal access to the universities. There are hundreds of women doctors, lawyers, university teachers.

—South Korea. Legal equality for women came in 1948. Thirty thousand females graduate from college each year. Distinguished Korean women include Dr. Louise Yim, president of Seoul's Chungang University.

—Pakistan. Feminism in Pakistan is fighting an uphill battle against the orthodox Moslem religion. The majority of women still observe purdah, not associating freely with men and veiling themselves before leaving home. The feminist movement is mostly a city affair, spearheaded by the All-Pakistan Women's Association of 10,000 members. Politics? Still mostly a man's game.

—India. A woman governs as prime minister—Mrs. Indira Gandhi. Her aunt, Mrs. Vijayalakshmi Pandit, is a former president of the United Nations general assembly. One quarter of India's doctors are women, and 45 women sit in the national Parliament. In contrast, millions of women in the rural parts still are fettered to the traditional way of life.

Women have the right to divorce and also may inherit property. Women make up 31.5 per cent of the labor force but the majority hold unskilled jobs.

Fourteen-Year-Old Is House-Sitter

FRANKFURT (WNS)—Marta Dollmann, 14, couldn't stand being a baby-sitter any longer so she invented a new part-time profession. "I'm a house-sitter for couples who want to go out for the evening," she said. "People need somebody at home to guard the place, and I answer telephone calls, too," she explained.

Marshmallowed Meatballs: Yecch! But Now The Bride Knows Better

By TOM HOGE/
Associated Press Writer

By now most of us have chuckled, or winced, over that television commercial titled "Groom's First Meal." That's the one which depicts the tribulations of a young husband who has dutifully consumed the better part of a massive dumpling made by his loving bride.

The camera records the groom's exquisite agony as his helpmate brightly discusses possible future menus, such as Sweet 'n Sour Snails and Poached Oysters.

Believe it or not, the commercial has triggered an avalanche of letters asking for the recipes for these monstrosities. Mercifully, such recipes don't exist and one devoutly hopes they never will.

Recently we ran into the author of this unique commercial, an affable 34-year-old writer named Marvin Honig. We were surprised to learn that the episode is based on a memorable experience he had when sampling the first meal prepared for him by his own 23-year-old bride, Ellen, whom he married last January.

"It was while we were still engaged. Ellen invited me up to her place for dinner and cooked up something she called Squash Surprise," Honig recalled with a slight shudder.

"It was a pretty big squash, and Ellen asked me to cut it in half. But, what with one thing and another, it came out two-thirds and one-third.

"Ellen then proceeded to stuff the two pieces of squash with some stewed apples, cinnamon, sugar and other seasonings she had about the kitchen. Then she popped it in the oven and let the mixture bake a while.

"Finally she sat me down at the table and gave me the two-thirds sized piece of squash, plus two rather leathery pork chops. I could see her watching me, so I gritted my teeth and ate everything on my plate."

The following day Honig showed up at the office with a king-sized case of indigestion and little urge to be creative.

"Then suddenly it hit me," he said. "I was doing the commercials for this anti-acid medical preparation and what better way to present it than to re-enact my own experience.

"It fitted perfectly with the product," he went on. "And also I felt it might serve as a lesson for other young brides. When you are trying to impress your loved one with your cooking prowess, don't overdo it."

Did Ellen see the commercial?
"She saw it all right," said Honig, "and I might add she got the connection right away. All she would comment was 'mildly amusing.'"

The story has a happy ending. Today, Ellen knows a lot more about cooking on the gourmet side. One whose tastiness we can vouch for, is called Stuffed Crab Surprise. As Marvin says, it's a lot nicer surprise than the one he experienced the night of the Big Squash.

Big Step In Recreation Plans

The purchase of 25 acres of land on Hooker Road for an all-purpose recreational park is a big step toward providing the kind of recreational facilities that Greenville so badly needs.

The land was purchased from Mr. and Mrs. Amos Evans, with part of the total acreage being a gift from the Evans family.

Mrs. Clay Burnette, chairman of the Recreation Commission, expressed delight that the area has been obtained for recreational development.

Boyd Lee, Recreation director, said, "This is the greatest thing to take place in Greenville in a long time. We are all excited about plans for the multi-program recreation facility which will be at this park."

We share the excitement that Recreation officials feel about the development of the Hooker Road park. It is anticipated that development will proceed rapidly since to qualify for the federal grant which is expected, work must be completed within a year.

We feel, too, that the park will be ideally located so that it can be of service to underprivileged sections of the city, as well as serving more affluent areas.

Greenville has lagged in providing the parks and playgrounds which a growing city needs. The development of this park on Hooker Road, however, can go a long way toward providing the facilities we might have been lacking. Everyone concerned with this project can take pride in the fact that they are doing something that will benefit every Greenville citizen.

Something Learned In Apollo 13 Experience

Trial and error in space is an expensive and dangerous way to discover deficiencies in our space hardware, as our perilous Apollo 13 voyage has proven.

However, what was learned on that trip has resulted in design changes which will make the journey a little safer for future astronauts.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has added an emergency power supply and 20 pounds of drinking water to Apollo 14 command and service capsule. These and other changes were made after the near disastrous explosion which nearly destroyed the Apollo 13 mission last April.

Thus we benefitted by the Apollo 13 experience, but it could have had tragic consequences.

Plans Return To Dairy Farm

By JOHN KILGO
RALEIGH — North Carolina Gov. Bob Scott — who has been mentioned prominently as a possible candidate for the U. S. Senate in 1972 — has virtually taken himself out of that race, saying: "So far as I can see it, I'll be Bob Scott the dairy farmer again after this (the Governor's term) is over."

Gov. Scott emphasized that he will not close the door to any future political race, but he added: "As of this moment I can honestly say I do not picture myself getting into the Senatorial race in 1972. Sen. Everett Jordan has indicated that he will be a candidate again. He is from my home county. I think Sen. Jordan is doing a creditable job and I would not run against him."

In a far-ranging interview with KQ Syndicate, Gov. Scott predicted there would be no repeal of the state's controversial gasoline tax, and he said he would not try to get the 1971 Legislature to grant veto power to the Governor, even though he strongly favors such authority for the chief executive.

Gov. Scott says he is keeping his political options open, but at the same time he indicated a strong desire to return to the more serene surroundings of his dairy farm in Haw River.

Gov. Scott's ranch - style Haw River home is located on about five acres of tree-shaded land with a huge fish pond nestled on the property. He and his family visit there on weekends when they can and quite often they take the hour's drive from the Governor's mansion to attend services at Hawfield Presbyterian Church.

The Governor says he might work in some educational capacity or for some business when his term is over, even though he says

"there's nothing on the horizon in that respect right now."

"But if something like that does arise," he said, "I would want to keep my home base in Haw River. I have a very strong attachment to my community. Traditions go deep there and I feel very strongly about it."

There is no question that the Governor's five children — four girls and a boy, ranging in age from seven to 14 — yearn for their father to return to the dairy farm. And the Scotts are a very close family.

"This is kind of a fish bowl existence for my children," Gov. Scott said, "and they don't care for it at all. They detest the publicity. But they've been very understanding in knowing it's part of the job... I encourage them to keep up their friendships in Haw River, because that's where they'll be graduating from high school."

How about Bob Scott, could he go from the frantic pace of being Governor to return to the slower pace of dairy farming?

"Yes," he says. "It's an appealing life to me. I wouldn't have any great problem making the adjustment. There would be plenty to keep me busy."

Scott says he likes being Governor, because the job offers an opportunity to put new ideas into being.

"Like any other job," the Governor says, "it has its exhilarating moments, times when there is a genuine feeling of accomplishment. But there are discouragements and frustrations and I guess by the nature of the job, there's a feeling of frustration more than anything else."

Scott said the most frustrating aspect of being North Carolina's chief

"AND IT'S ALL UP HILL!"

By JAMES KILPATRICK

Its Time Hadn't Come

By J. J. KILPATRICK

It was an unhappy Senate that adjourned a little before 6 o'clock one afternoon last week, having voted 52-35 against an effort to get started toward an all-volunteer armed service. This was one of those questions on which both sides were right; neither side can be faulted; but it is a pity, all the same, that the vote turned out the way it did.

The effort, embodied in an amendment to the Military Procurement Act, had been launched by an odd couple — the dove Hatfield, the hawk Goldwater. The rollcall that killed their proposal reflected the same paradoxical alignment of liberals and conservatives for and against.

The Hatfield - Goldwater plan, at bottom, was no more than an effort to provide major increase in pay and benefits for members of the armed services. The two sponsors had in mind a boost of 50 per cent for first-term enlistees, 28 per cent for second-term officers, 9 per cent for second-term personnel, and so on. They also proposed proficiency bonuses for certain specialists, improved retirement, and better pay for reservists.

In point of fact, as everyone agreed, the amendment would not have "ended the draft." The Selective Service Act does not expire until June of next year; meanwhile it would have remained in effect. Yet the whole purpose of the Hatfield - Goldwater incentives was to induce so many voluntary enlistments that the draft could have been reduced to a stand-by basis. In practical effect, the amendment would have shifted the whole concept of military service from draft-based to all-volunteer. Most senators — Javits of New York is a notable exception — agree that the concept is desirable. (The New Yorker's argument, and it is not a bad one, is that the draft is so widely hated that it functions in itself as a deterrent to war.) Both major parties have endorsed the all-volunteer idea; a blue-ribbon commission has found it feasible; a long national tradition supports the structure of a small standing army supplemented in times of crisis by volunteers.

Yet last week the idea failed. Its time simply had not come. And it is important, it seems to me, that young men who were disappointed by the effort's defeat should understand the reasons why the Senate acted as it did.

A primary reason, of course, is that the U. S. remains in a state of war. Until the conflict in Southeast Asia finally is wound down, only the pressure of the draft — even if relatively few men are drafted — will guarantee the manpower demanded for combat duty.

A secondary reason, and it cannot be dismissed as merely procedural, is that the Hatfield - Goldwater amendment was the wrong vehicle for a policy shift of this magnitude. No hearings had been held on prospective costs, and no qualified witnesses had been heard on the plan's probable effectiveness. John Stennis of Mississippi described the $3 billion amendment as a "plucked chicken in a hail storm," without the protection of White House sponsorship or committee approval.

Yet the proponents, even in defeat, made some highly

Other Editors Say Out Of This World

(Henderson Dispatch)

So far the Advisory Budget Commission has scarcely more than scratched the surface in visiting State institutions and hearing request for appropriations for the 1971-73 biennium. Proposals that have been presented, however, are out of this world in scope, as if no other unit of State support existed.

One of the smaller branches of the Consolidated University, for example, put in a bid for almost $24 million for capital improvements alone. The greater the capital expenditures, of course, the greater will be the current expense budget for operation and maintenance. greater will be the current expense budget for operation and maintenance.

Fortunately, the Budget Commission does not recommend nor does the Legislature appropriate funds in the full amount requested. Probably none expects to get all that is asked, so that what is actually provided will meet essential requirements.

To scan these requests, no one would suppose that taxes are heavy, that money is tight and scarce, and that the country as a whole, including North Carolina, is caught in the grip of a recession of sorts. It would seem that the institutions are obsessed with the idea that money grows on trees or that all that is necessary is to reach up and pull it down out of thin air. It's as simple as that.

To examine into some of the requests gives the impression that each feels its status to the extent that the roof will cave in or the sky will fall unless cash is laddled out as requested.

What is happening now is no different, of course, from other years, and that the State possesses a bottomless barrel of cash to be tapped to the heart's content by all agencies. If all that is sought were granted, taxes would skyrocket out of sight. But that phase of spending seems never to be a concern at all.

Hoffa Ouster Builds

By NEIL GILBRIDE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Early maneuverings for the Teamsters convention next year indicate the union's imprisoned president, James R. Hoffa, may finally be squeezed out.

Acting Teamsters President Frank E. Fitzsimmons, Hoffa's hand-picked stand-in, is letting it be known that he will run for the $100,000-a-year presidency of the 2 million member union—the world's largest—if Hoffa is "unavailable."

Hoffa is not likely to be available. He is serving an eight-year sentence for jury tampering in the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., still appealing a five-year mail fraud conviction, and already has been turned down once for parole.

The betting in the union is that Hoffa will have a slim chance of succeeding when he comes up for parole again in March, probably his last chance to win freedom before the Teamsters presidential election at their convention in Miami Beach next July.

Two of the most powerful of the union's 12 vice presidents have already pledged Fitzsimmons their support for him to run for president in his own right, inside sources said. The two are Einar Mohn, who heads the union's West Coast division, and Murray W. (Dusty) Miller, head of the Teamsters Southern Conference.

Some sources speculate that Hoffa could win reelection even if he is still in prison, but Mohn and Miller are reliably reported to be opposed to letting him run. A source close to Fitzsimmons said either Hoffa or Fitzsimmons could easily win election, but the decision on who the candidate will be is most likely to be made among the powerful vice presidents on the union's ruling Executive Board.

A move to nominate a still jailed Hoffa is likely to split the board and turn the election into a wide-open fight, a prospect that Teamsters leaders are likely to want to avoid.

Fitzsimmons reportedly has been well received by most other Teamsters leaders since he took over when Hoffa went to prison in 1967, because he reinstated the union's chain of command, which Hoffa often short-circuited to confer special favors and attention on some union members.

Hoffa retained the union's presidency when he went to prison but forfeited the $100,000 a year salary in lieu of an undisclosed financial arrangement to take care of his family.

Most sources agree that Hoffa could win reelection if he were freed on parole before the convention with no restrictions on running for office again, but other Teamsters leaders are reportedly planning on the basis that he will still be behind bars.

Strength For Today

NOT BUTTERFLIES
"Hold the line!" This is the command of the officer in charge of troops. This is the command that a football coach gives his players. This is the quiet command one gives himself as he confronts the confusion of present-day living, the temptations we all encounter, the situations which stand before us and ask with a sneering smile what we intend to do about this situation or that.

There has to be lot of determination in life if we are going to get anywhere. The person who hopes for business success and works hard to achieve it has to take his stand frequently and say both to himself and others: "Hold the line!" We may not like the fact that life is a struggle, but it is just the same, and from the time we kicked and squealed in the nursery until the moment when we know the end is at hand we have to be severe with ourselves and with the situations that make our lives.

We may dream all we want to about a butterfly variety of living in which we flit about and get nowhere — but this is not life. It may be all very well for the butterflies but it is not the type of living through which most of us have to pass. We will continually be opposed — and generally to our betterment. We will be disdained by some and perhaps even hated by others. But what of it? We are bipeds not butterflies. We are given brains and will power and are supposed to use them.

IRS Pokes Nose Under Tent

By ELMER ROESSNER

A new proposal by the Internal Revenue Service could open a Pandora's box of trouble for individuals and business. It is to require the reporting of deferred interest when earned instead of when received.

Banks and savings and loan associations have been offering deferred interest savings plans. People are invited to deposit money or buy savings certificates.

Interest becomes payable only after a term of years. These plans have been a boon to persons approaching retirement, since they avoid paying taxes on the interest at their current rate, postponing payment into the future when their income, hence their tax rate, will be lower.

The new regulation may go into effect in September, but will apply only to deposits made after the effective date. Seeds Of Trouble

While banks and savings and loan associations are protesting the proposed rule and may demand a public hearing, the danger is not in the rule itself but in the reasoning behind it.

As it stands, it will hit only a few thousand people and involve only a few million dollars. But once adopted, the theory could be extended to cover countless situations.

become liable immediately for a tax on his capital gain, even though he had no money with which to pay it.

When one person or company buys a business, the buyer invariably tries to get a deal whereby part of the price is paid out of future profits.

But if the IRS projects its theory into such situations, the seller would have to pay a tax on his gain not as he received future payments but in the year of sale.

Could Hit Salary Contracts

The theory could be extended to include salary and similar contracts. If a man signs a contract not subject to cancellation, to be an executive for five years at $200,000 a year, he might become immediately liable for taxes on $1 million.

New York State runs off a lottery this month with $1 million as the top prize, to be paid in 20 annual instalments of $50,000. The lottery is getting big play because at current tax rates the winner would have to pay only around $400,000 in taxes over the 20 years.

But if the new IRS theory is extended to such deferred income, the big winner, assuming he is married with other income equal to his deductions, would have to pay a tax of $670,980, plus state and city income taxes. But he would have only $50,000 to pay them with.

The IRS could get a deficiency judgment against him and take all his winnings for the next 13 years, plus a few more years to pay off interest and penalties.

The idea that a ruling on bank interest could be extended to all situations is not as strange as may seem at first glance. Federal income taxes began with a 3 per cent rate but over the years have been increased to the present top of 70 per cent.

Four Charged In Wis. Bombing

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A nationwide search has been launched for four young men charged in the bombing of the Army Mathematics Research Center at Madison, Wis. One man died and three were injured in the blast.

The FBI said the university's Sterling Hall, in which the government research center was located, "for several years has been the target for demonstration activity by radical groups led by the Students for a Democratic Society which protested it as a link of the University of Wisconsin with the federal government. The FBI identified Fine as a former staff member of the "Heterodoxical Voice," published by SDS at the University of Delaware.

One of the four charged in the Aug. 24 bombing was linked by the FBI to Students for a Democratic Society. Three had attended the University of Wisconsin where the research center was located. The fourth was identified as a high school dropout.

The FBI said fugitive warrants and charges of sabotage, destruction of government property and conspiracy have been filed against Karleton Lewis Armstrong, 22; his brother, Dwight Alan Armstrong, 19; David Sylvan Fine, 18, and Leo Frederick Burt, 22.

An FBI agent investigating the blast filed an affidavit Wednesday in Madison, saying the Armstrong brothers had told a friend they had a large cache of explosives and planned a series of bombings.

In the affidavit, agent George P. Baxtrum Jr. said the Armstrongs told the friend they were responsible for the Jan. 1 bombing of the Badger Army Ammunitions Plant. Authorities said an undetonated bomb was found on the grounds of the ammo plant.

Karleton Armstrong rented a trailer and bought 100 gallons of gasoline Aug. 16, the agent quoted a Madison service station employe as saying. According to the document, another man reported the elder brother purchased 1,700 pounds of nitrogen fertilizer three days later.

The fertilizer and gasoline could be combined to make an explosive device.

Baxtrum said the four men charged were stopped by police shortly after the research center was bombed, but were allowed to pass. A friend of the four received a letter post-marked Aug. 28 in which they said they were in New York City en route to Canada.

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Safeway Stores, Inc., the nation's second largest grocery chain, has begun explaining to customers how to read the freshness codes on its products.

The campaign drew an immediate and hearty nod of approval from Virginia Knauer, the White House assistant for consumer affairs.

Opening a project which could spread to Safeway stores across the nation, the firm told newspapers readers in four states and the District of Columbia Wednesday how to determine the freshness of milk.

An advertisement said, for example, that "9-5" inscribed atop the carton means the milk shouldn't remain in the dairy case beyond Sept. 5.

Safeway Vice President Basil Winsted said succeeding ads will explain codes for other products. Meanwhile, he invited customers to ask store employees how to read the codes.

The ads are being carried initially in localities served by 250 stores in Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Delaware and the District of Columbia.

Mrs. Knauer said that Safeway "should be commended for its educational efforts to teach consumers how to use the system." She urged other food manufacturers and retailers to follow suit.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Highway traffic may be somewhat lighter this Labor Day weekend than last year, when 612 persons were killed, says the National Transportation Safety Board.

Board Chairman John Reed said Wednesday that the fact that many schools already have opened, rather than waiting until the day after Labor Day, could help ease the congestion.

Reed passed along to motorists these tips to avoid fatigue:

- Remember that sun and exercise make for drowsy drivers.
- Plan to make extra rest stops—15 minutes in every two hours of driving, particularly on turnpikes.
- Take turns at the wheel when there are other drivers in your car.
- Don't beat the traffic by leaving after the rush—leave before the rush to beat fatigue.

—Make sure you as well as your car are in shape for the trip.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Post Office Department says packages weighing more than five ounces no longer will be accepted for mailing to Israel.

A spokesman said Wednesday the policy is the result of airlines' refusal to accept the packages for fear they might contain bombs.

Postal Holiday

The Greenville Post Office and East Carolina University Station will close Monday in observance of Labor Day.

Services to be provided by the postal facilities on Monday include: delivery of special delivery mail within the city; city-wide collection of street letter boxes beginning at 5 p.m.; outgoing mail dispatched on regular schedule.

There will be no window service and no city or rural deliveries on Monday.

The self-service postal unit located in the lobby of the main post office will supply most customer needs for postal supplies, said Lloyd Mills, officer-in-charge.

executive is the "endless red tape you must go through to get action on something."

When asked about the future of the state's controversial two-cents-a-gallon gasoline tax, Gov. Scott predicted that it would not be repealed, not even in part.

"I don't doubt that there will be an effort made to repeal it," the Governor said, "but too much is being accomplished with this money. We are meeting too many needs with that revenue, and there are needs yet to be met beyond what we're able to provide with the gasoline tax."

Scott said if the gasoline tax were reduced by one cent, it would cost the state $50 million, or reduce the highway program by 16 per cent.

"I don't know many legislators who would be willing to go back and face their constituents and say he voted to reduce the road building program by 16 per cent," he said. "When you get down to it, legislators are going to look to the projects in their area, and they would have a hard time explaining why a certain project in their county or district had to be knocked off the list because they voted for repeal of the gasoline tax."

persuasive arguments in return. The present draft system is a mess. It is cruelly unfair to youths who cannot escape the risk of service by college deferment. The system is especially bad in its effect on the underpaid riflemen—the grunts—who make up 16 per cent of the men in Vietnam and produce 54 per cent of the casualties. Nine out of ten of these men are draftees.

The situation cannot just drift along. During the debate, Stennis promised to begin comprehensive hearings, possibly before the end of the year, on every aspect of military manpower. The senator is a realist: He now sees no way to avoid extension of the Selective Service Act next summer. But between now and then, if the Hatfield-Goldwater coalition presses hard for the all-volunteer concept, perhaps the clock can be moved ahead. Within two years, at most, its hour must come.

Teamster Union Pension Fund Seen Aided By FHA

Editor's Note: The operations of a huge Teamsters Union pension fund has been under steady federal scrutiny for several years. But, apparently unbeknownst to the government, the fund is benefitting from Federal Housing Administration programs, as detailed in this dispatch from the AP Special Assignment Team.

AN AP-NEWS SPECIAL
FHA—Teamsters Fund Bjt. 3 takes

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Writer
SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The Federal Housing Administration has made more than $30 million worth of transactions in the past two years involving a giant and oft-investigated Teamsters Union pension fund. The government official who approved the arrangements—including one of the largest loan guarantees ever made by the FHA—since has become president of a subsidiary of a corporation partly owned by the pension fund.

The transactions, all involving the FHA's San Diego office, came to light during an Associated Press investigation. The FHA in Washington says it does not believe it knew at the time of the transactions that they involved the Teamsters Union's Central States, Southeast and Southwest Areas Pension Fund—the nation's largest labor-management pension fund.

The transactions include:
—Insuring a $16 million land development loan to a company whose stock is held by the pension fund. The guarantee constitutes 70 per cent of an entire federal program. It is among the 25 largest guarantees ever made by FHA under any program, the agency said.

—Arranging at least $11.8 million in 3 per cent subsidized loans to San Diego corporations ultimately one-fifth owned by the pension fund.

—Insuring a $3.26 million loan at market interest rates for another such corporation.

This Teamsters' pension fund, commonly called the Central States fund, has been the subject of numerous government investigations.

Teamsters president James R. Hoffa was convicted of mail fraud in connection with Central States fund dealings. A federal grand jury is probing the fund's financing of a massive Los Angeles land development project. A lengthy series of federal court trials in New York concerns alleged kickbacks paid to get fund loans.

Despite this attention from government investigators, the fund was able to benefit from FHA programs.

An FHA official in Washington said there is no prohibition against the agency dealing with a union, a pension fund or a firm whose stock is held by either.

The San Diego transactions were approved by E.L. Tagwerker, director at the time of the FHA office here. Tagwerker took early retirement last February and went to work as president of Great Western Mortgage Co., a wholly owned subsidiary of Penasquitos Inc., a land development firm.

The president of Penasquitos is Irvin J. Kahn, a major San Diego builder who, FHA officials said, negotiated the various loans and guarantees. Penasquitos is 20 per cent owned by the Central States fund.

Tagwerker said in an interview he selected the job with the Kahn organization from among "quite a few proposals I was considering with various organizations."

Asked if he had contemplated or received a job offer from Kahn while processing the loans, Tagwerker said "absolutely not."

In answer to questions, Tagwerker said: "I don't know whether FHA at that time (when the transactions were approved) knew anything about Central States, what their ownership position was. I think everybody was aware that Central States had made a loan to Penasquitos."

Leslie Carson, associate general counsel in the Department of Housing and Urban Development, said routinely information on Central States ownership "would not have come to our attention in Washington. But it would be virtually impossible for anybody to certify that nobody knew about it when those transactions took place."

Charles L. Dempsey, deputy director of HUD's Office of Investigations, was told a reporter wished to ask about some transactions in San Diego involving the Central States fund, but he said flatly: "I can't comment on it at all."

Kahn could not be reached for comment.

Public records show that in early 1968, in exchange for fund loans which now total about $33 million, the Central States fund acquired a 20 per cent stock interest in Kahn's Penasquitos Inc. The stock ownership entitles the fund to 25 per cent of the firm's dividends.

Penasquitos Inc., in turn, owns a number of subsidiaries with which the FHA has dealt.

The largest deal dates back to July 1968, when Penasquitos Inc. began conferring with the FHA about Bay Terrales, a project that would be bulldozed out of 820 hillside acres in San Diego to accommodate 23,000 residents.

Under the FHA's Title 10 program, a land developer gets his loan from a private lender to prepare the land for construction, but the government insures the lender against loss. Money for construction is not involved.

After studying the project, estimated to eventually cost $200 million, the FHA issued on Feb. 25, 1969, a formal invitation to apply for the $16 million loan guarantee under the Title 10 program.

The loan and FHA insurance papers were signed, not by Penasquitos, but by Southern California Terraces Inc., which was incorporated March 5. Papers filed March 11 with the California corporations commissioner show that Southern California Terraces had one share of stock outstanding. It was held by Penasquitos, Inc.

An application from Penasquitos dated March 11 sought permission—which the corporation commissioner granted—for all the stock of Southern California Terraces to be turned over to the Central States Fund as security for a separate $5.4 million loan. Thus, the fund held all the stock in the firm when the firm got the FHA-insured loan.

Ted A. Guilliams, deputy director of the FHA's San Diego office, said in an interview: "We know very little about Central States and the pension fund. We have become aware Mr. Kahn had some of his financing through this pension fund, but his dealings beyond that we didn't know."

Deryl Gift, chief underwriter at the office, said it is standard procedure to check an applicant's credit, but not the corporate structure.

FHA Title 10 land development loan guarantee program has been little utilized since it went into effect in 1967. As of April 30, 14 guarantees totaling $22.7 million had gone into force. The guarantee to the Central States-linked firm was eight times larger than any other, and constituted more than 70 per cent of the entire program in effect. These are other FHA transactions involving the Central States fund:

—In September 1968, the FHA approved a $4,244,000 loan for Penasquitos Village Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of Penasquitos Inc. During its 40-year life, the 3 per cent interest rate loan is held by the Government National Mortgage Association, a government organization which helps generate mortgage monies.

The difference between the 3 per cent the government collects in interest and the amount it must pay to borrow money—now at least double that—is a subsidy. The program is designed to stimulate construction of low and moderate-income housing, such as the 332 units Penasquitos Village is building.

—In June 1969, FHA approved a similar deal for $7,555,500 with Penasquitos Gardens Inc., another wholly owned Penasquitos Inc. subsidiary. This project involves 504 units.

—Also in June 1969, FHA insured a $3,260,700 loan to Penasquitos Hills Inc., yet another Penasquitos Inc. subsidiary. This guarantee, under a different program, carried no interest rate subsidy.

Adjusting To Lunar Flight Cut

By VERN HAUGLAND
AP Aerospace Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The decision to eliminate two Apollo moon missions confronted the National Aeronautics and Space Administration with a series of readjustments today. Four lunar flights remain.

First, NASA will mothball a couple of giant Saturn 5 moon rockets.

These launch vehicles, costing $185 million each, will become a part of "a national resource of heavy lift rocket capability," NASA administrator Thomas O. Paine told a news conference Wednesday.

Secondly, some mighty disappointed astronauts—including six who would have taken a moon flight on the Apollo 15 and 19 missions, now cancelled for budgetary reason—will have to be reassigned.

"The astronauts have been very unhappy, along with the scientific community, about the reductions in flights over the past several years," said Dale Myers, associate administrator for manned space flight.

"Many of these men have dedicated themselves to development of the space shuttle."

There are 49 on the astronaut rolls. The U.S. has launched 26 of its astronauts on space trips, some two or three times, and one, James Lovell, four times.

Astronauts David R. Scott, Alfred M. Worden, Jr., and James B. Irwin had been assigned to Apollo 15, the mission now cancelled.

NASA also must now revise its list of moon landing sites.

"We still need to get to the lunar highlands, the rill areas, and we still must get a wide variety geologically to make sure of our passive seismic network," said Dr. John W. Findlay, chairman of the Lunar and Planetary Mission Board.

Instead of the Apollo 15 spacecraft with its limited lunar stay and lunar orbit capability, an advanced version including a lunar rover vehicle will be used, and thus another Apollo 15 site must be selected, Findlay said.

Paine said NASA intends to do everything possible to include a scientist astronaut on at least one mission.

Myers said there are no plans to reduce the size of the astronaut team.

He said NASA is running some "master facilities" studies to determine suitable locations for space shuttle work.

The space shuttle will be a vehicle that takes off rocket-like but returns to earth like an airplane. A part of the shuttle will separate from the launching craft, in orbit, to carry astronaut crews to and from the three-man orbiting Skylabs.

Tangled Web By Busy Agenda To Drugged Spiders Face Councilmen

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Spinning busily, the spider produced a web that was a tangled, patternless wisp.

The reason: The spider was drugged.

Dr. Peter N. Witt, director of research at the North Carolina Department of Mental Health, regularly gives spiders doses of LSD, amphetamines, tranquilizers and other drugs.

His goal: to observe in the spiders' web-spinning the effects of drugs, separating innate behavior from behavior which is learned.

"At the nonhuman level, it is one of the more sensitive and reliable methods to differentiate drug effects," Witt said in an interview.

just where their next thread should go.

A "lack of drive" seems to produce the small webs spun by spiders on tranquilizers, Witt said.

Witt said the effects of drugs on human are more complicated because mood, situations and expectations enter into the picture.

But in spiders, he said, the effects can be seen in an easily measurable way.

The agenda facing the City Council for their September meeting at City Hall tonight continues the recent trend of being a heavy one. A total of 13 items have been placed on the list as issues to be discussed.

These are:

OLD BUSINESS:

- Appointments to boards and commissions.
- Public hearing on request for placement of a trailer by Asa Waters.
- Consideration of an ordinance amending the charter of the City of Greenville to increase the number of city councilmen from four to six members.
- Discussion of status of the R. S. Pollard property in Newtown.

NEW BUSINESS:

- Rezoning of the M. B. Massey Jr. property and Westhaven Sub-division.
- Scattered site public housing in the Mill Village and Clark Town areas of Greenville.
- Designation of Project Number 1 in GNRP area and recommendations for redevelopment.
- Request by Disabled American Veterans of Wayne County to sell forget-me-nots during the month of October.

—Payment of interest in excess of statutory limits in the case of the Central Business District (CBD) project.

—Request by W. H. Tyson for placement of mobile home in a R-6 residential area.

—Discussion of Ordinance 341, Section 13, relative to city employee regulations; and —Refund of city taxes to George Hood.

LBJ Said Pleased By His Indochina Briefing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson has been briefed on the situation in Southeast Asia by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, and a vice presidential spokesman indicated Johnson was pleased with what he heard.

Agnew spent nearly three hours with the former president at the LBJ Ranch near Johnson City, Tex., Wednesday evening before flying to Washington to end a 27,000-mile, five nation Asian journey.

Earlier in the day, Agnew addressed the American Legion convention in Portland, Ore.

"The President (Johnson) didn't indicate he was unhappy about anything," an Agnew spokesman said on the flight back to Washington. Newsmen were not permitted to cover the session at the LBJ Ranch.

Agnew, meanwhile, was quoted as saying "the experience accumulated by presidents of the United States is a precious commodity." He was expected to convey Johnson's reaction on the briefing to President Nixon. The vice president plans to go Ocean City, Md., later today for a weekend rest before launching political campaigning next Thursday in Casper, Wyo.

Johnson, reportedly looking tanned and relaxed, greeted Agnew and other members of the vice president's party on arrival at the ranch airstrip after a flight from Bergstrom AFB near Austin.

After a 10 minute talk inside the main ranch house, Johnson and Agnew spent more than an hour driving about the ranch and discussing the impressions gathered by Agnew in South Korea, Nationalist China, Vietnam, Cambodia and Thailand.

Later, the two chatted with other members of the vice presidential party. Agnew's spokesman said the former president described the session as pleasant and cordial and Agnew agreed.

The visit to the ranch was delayed by Agnew's trip to Portland, Ore., an assignment Nixon handed him only late Tuesday when the President decided against going himself. No announcement of the Portland visit was made until minutes before Agnew took off Wednesday morning from El Toro Marine Air Station, California.

He called for "mutual respect and mutual forbearance" as the cornerstone of a civilized society, and said "the real advocates of peace" are those who seek accommodation rather than confrontation.

Some 300 antiwar demonstrators, chanting slogans and carrying placards, circled in front of the main entrance of Memorial Coliseum while Agnew spoke. The 12,000-seat hall was only about one-third full.

Witt said the reasons for the differences "can only be guessed at."

But, he said, his guess is that the near-perfect webs produced under the influence of LSD are the result of the spider paying less attention to outside influences such as wind, light and noise.

In the same way, he said, spiders on amphetamines don't seem to be able to use the information they have gathered on

Barber Vows Patton Talked, Dreamed, Loved War

By DALE PERRY
Greenville News Staff Writer
GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — "Patton was some soldier."
"He was the only soldier in World War II who could fight a month's war in one day. He talked war, ate war, slept war, praised war—and loved every minute on a battlefield."
"I guess you could say Patton's life was war."
That's what Oney Jaynes said. If you talk to Jaynes, who was Gen. George S. Patton Jr.'s barber for 11 months during World War II, there is one thing you recognize right off—Patton's soldiers thought he was the greatest general in history during war or peace.

Jaynes, a native Greenville who operates a barber shop here, can recall verbatim almost every conversation he had with the famous general. He can give vivid accounts of the first and the last times he cut Patton's hair.
"You better believe the first time was very shaky. All I'd ever heard about the man was blood and guts," Jaynes recalled, while clipping away the lock of an interested customer.
"War! That's all he talked about. The only time I remember him not talking about war was when he might have lost a battle—then he was quietly planning a winning comeback."

Jaynes, who began serving with Patton's Third Army six weeks after the Normandy invasion, said the greatest and most admired thing a soldier could receive from Patton was a commendation on a job well done in battle.
"Patton loved nothing better than a good soldier," Jaynes said, pausing, then grinning. "That's excepting war. Patton did love war."
Owner of one of the German P-

38 pistols which Patton gave to soldiers and civilians as souvenirs, Jaynes described the controversial general as a man who liked to wave to crowds in military parades better than Santa Claus liked to greet kids at Christmas.
"He would always come for a haircut before any kind of parade. He always wanted to look his best. Every hair, what little he had, he wanted in place," Jaynes said.
Did Patton really curse as profusely as he was played in the movie? "He sure did. He couldn't get through one sentence without using s.o.b.," Jaynes said.

Jaynes then told a story about Patton's dog.
"You know I have never seen a dumber looking dog. But I sure never would have told Patton that."
Anyway, the dog's name was Willie—until Patton called him s.o.b. so much that the dog thought that was his name.

"All of us soldiers then started calling the dog s.o.b. and just called him Willie for a nickname," Jaynes chuckled.
Following the Allied entry into defeated Germany, thousands of soldiers looked forward to coming home. And most knew it would not be long before the war would be over.
Jaynes was one of those soldiers.
But before returning to the U.S.—"I wanted to cut Patton's hair one more time," he remin-ised.

"You know the whole time I was cutting the general's hair the last time he tried to get me to reenlist."
The barber said he told Patton it was an honor to serve under his command, but explained he preferred civilian barbering to military.
"Ah, hell, Jaynes. Go home. Stay a month or so. And come back. You know, you can't do without the Army," Patton told him.

"I really have enjoyed cutting your hair, general. And you're a soldier to be admired. But I'm a civilian at heart," Jaynes replied.
With that the general thanked Jaynes for "being the good soldier you were."
"And you're a pretty good barber, too. I'm a s.o.b. if you ain't."
The corporal and general shook hands, saluted and parted, not as Old Soldiers but "as two friends."

High Sierra Pack Trip: Treat For City Slicker

By STEVE MOORE
Associated Press Writer
HIDDEN CAMP, Calif. (AP) — Its 20 million persons and massive urban problems aside, California still offers a man the chance to ride into the rising sun along ...
Free of besmudged skies ...
Hiking to 11,200-foot-high Hell for Sure Pass ...
Fishing in myriad lakes, or in streams winding toward the Pacific Ocean ...
Camping here in the John Muir Wilderness among the lodgepole pine of the High Sierra, a craggy mountain chain separating the nation's most populous state from its eastern neighbors ...
"There's not much meat in the air up here," said Andy Anderson, 63, of San Luis Obispo, as he panted his way into camp following a 14-mile horseback ride.
Anderson and 10 others, mostly city slickers, spent three days here near the shores of Fleming Lake and within a short hike of a dozen other lakes: Rae, Upper Indian, Lower Indian. All would yield fresh mountain trout in large numbers for anglers with the yen and the fortitude to battle man-eating mosquito hordes.
From Dave and Dean's Pack Station at Dinkey Creek, about 70 miles east of Fresno, past talus slopes and around bald granite domes they drove, rode horseback and sometimes walked when saddles wore through jeans.
"Tell 'em it was a wild bronc, never before ridden," Greg Pappas pleaded while the others laughed until they ached. The Greek bartender, cook for the trip, had fallen from his horse but felt no immediate pain. He would later use bourbon whiskey mixed with blue cheese to make a salad dressing.
The Sierra was beautiful. Few people. Lots of fish. A stream within 10 feet of camp.
It didn't last.

grapher and avid backpacker, brought a 3½-pound nylon tent. He needed it.
At 11:45 the first night the skies opened. "It'll pass over," Jim Forbes said from his sleeping bag. But everyone skurried for cover beneath an 18x24-foot tarp spread above the eating area.
It hailed. It rained and rained some more. Lightning painted the black sky a splotchy white, sometimes striking close.
Forbes' new goose down-filled sleeping bag was sopped. He awoke the next morning with only his jean jacket dry. Temperatures hovered in the "you could see your breath" range.
Nineteen head of animals were gone, pushed up the valley of Red Mountain Basin by the storm and in search of grass. Anderson didn't mind.
Rubbing sore spots, he said: "I couldn't keep that horse from trottin'." Fish caught and fried the night before were eaten at breakfast with eggs and ½-inch thick ham slabs.
The Sierra-Nevada probably is the most heavily used mountain region in the nation. Horse and foot paths are gouged deep in the meadows. And they're getting deeper as more and more people strap on backpacks or ride horses into the backcountry, seeking sanctuary away from the congestion, noise and pollution of urban areas.
Sixty hikers were coming out as the horseparty went in. But 15 miles off the main roads there were few others. Only six persons in three camps.
"Isn't this beautiful country," said Rose as he and three others crossed the meadow to Rae Lake, there to catch brook trout by the dozens. Most were returned to the water. Anyone willing to work at it could catch a limit of 10 fish in an hour. The best caught scores during two days of fishing.
Camping wasn't all that tough. One man brought a cot. Another a pillow.
Pappas complained because his air mattress went flat and he forgot his pillow. But all were dressed warmly. It had snowed heavily in the area two weeks before, refreezing some of the lakes.

Delayed slightly by a horse hunt, the trip out came too quickly—three days seeming like two. The party's litter and garbage was put in gunny sacks and strapped to mules.
On the way out, as the party wound past the wilderness marker beyond which no motorized mechanisms are allowed, Rose turned in his saddle and said:
"It's a wonder there's still country like this."

Rampants Host Washington In Opener

Rampants Open Season

Tim Leith and Donald Taylor are two members of the Rose High School football team which will open the 1970 season Friday night in Ficklen Stadium against Washington. Leith, a 6-5, 230 - pound senior, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Leith. He is a starter at tackle on offense and defense. Taylor, a 5-10, 170-pounder, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Taylor. He is a starting offensive end. Game time for the opener is 8 p.m. (Reflector Photos)

Rose High School's Rampants get their baptism of fire Friday night at 8 p.m. in Ficklen Stadium as they entertain the Washington Pam Pack.

It will be the curtain-raiser for the Rampants, but the second contest for the strong Pack. Washington ripped Bertie in a Northeastern Conference game last Friday, 42-8.

"They are very good," Rose coach Bud Phillips said of the Pack. "They have two real good backs in William Guilford and Larry Smithwick. Both are fast, and the whole team has good completely destroyed Bertie's spirit.

"We look for them to run the same thing at us. They may add a few more things that they didn't have to show last week, if they need to.

"We are going to have to avoid mistakes. They have played a game and this is quite an advantage. We'll have to find things out during the game that they already know."

Injuries will not be a problem for the Rampants going into the game. While there have been some minor ones, no one is expected to miss the game.

Eastern 4-A

Guilford was the star in last Friday's game with Bertie. He scored several touchdowns, including the first two, and caught the only pass of the game, another scoring play. He finished up with 175 yards in 10 carries. On the first play of the game, he went 80 yards for the opening score.

Bill Keyes, the quarterback, handled the ball well, according to Phillips, but didn't throw much. There were only two passes in the game. One was a 58 - yard scoring toss to Guilford that was called back when Washington was off-sides. So after the five yards were marked off, Keyes called the same play and this time it went 63 - yards for the same result, but this time it was good with no penalty.

In the line, Addison Bass, a senior guard, is a mainstay.

"They have a good defense, too," Phillips said. "But it was mostly untested, since Bertie was unable to do much against it and didn't look good at all." Phillips felt that the early play in the game, which saw Washington score on the first play, then get the ball back on an interception to set up another score, and then get a safety

Diggs at center, John Conway at quarterback, Johnny Smith and either Charlie Speight or Al Hunter at halfback and Bubba Rawl at fullback.

On defense, the Rampants will start Bob Forbes and Harold Lloyd at ends, Leith and Hagans at tackles, David Bullock and Harris at guards, Rawl and Diggs at linebackers, Speight and Mike Harris at halfbacks, and Hunter at safety.

Goldsboro got the jump on the other members of the Eastern 4-A's Division II last week, opening its season. The Cougars took a 21-0 victory over Southern Wayne.

This week, all six members of the league are in action. None are loop games, however. Besides the Rose - Washington affair, the slate shows Goldsboro at New Hanover, Northern Nash at Rocky Mount, Tarboro at Kinston, Chapel Hill at Wilson Fike and Hoggard at New Bern. The current Division II standings:

Cassius Clay Returns To Ring, Breezes Past Three Opponents

ATLANTA (AP) — Cassius Clay is back.

The former heavyweight champion, returning to the ring for the first time in more than three years, breezed through eight exhibition rounds Wednesday night and soundly defeated three opponents in the process.

"I came here expecting to see nothing and I saw it all," said Clay's trainer, Angelo Dundee of Miami, Fla. "All the bricks are in place; it's all there to work on and nothing is missing.

"His legs were perfect; his timing was there, it was beautiful. He's just amazing."

Clay, although 10 pounds above his last fighting weight of 211, was unmarked and only slightly winded as he decided opponents Rufus Brassell of Lima, Ohio, Johnny Hudgins of Miami, Fla., and George Hill of Philadelphia, Pa. There were no knockdowns. "I got a little tired out there, but I was satisfied to last eight rounds and be about 80 per cent active all the way through," Clay said. "I'm not in shape yet, but in eight weeks I'll come into the ring at 210 (pounds) and be ready."

The eight weeks mark a significant date in Clay's comeback plans. As it now stands, the former champion is scheduled to fight a major bout here Oct. 26, and nothing is missing. Mike Malitz and Bob Kassell of Sports Action in New York said Clay's Oct. 26 opponent will either be Joe Frazier, the current heavyweight champion, or contenders Jerry Quarry of Bellflower, Calif., or Oscar Bonavena of Argentina. It appears, they indicated, that the opponent will be Quarry. Clay, who prefers to be called Muhammad Ali, was stripped of his title after being convicted on a federal charge of refusing induction into military service.

His last bout was a three-round exhibition at Detroit, Mich., in June 1967 and his last title fight was in March the same year.

Buc Freshmen Begin Practice

East Carolina University began its look to the future this morning when some 40 freshmen reported in for the start of fall practices.

Coach Henry Trevathan and his staff put the group through its first workout this morning at 8 p.m. and expect to have twice daily drills.

Working with Trevathan are several former East Carolina players, including Ed Hargrove, Worth Springs, Paul Weathersbee, George Wheeler and Stu Garrett.

Among the backs reporting for duty were All-American Carlester Crumpler, Kenny Moore, Ron Hunt, Joe West and Carl Summrell. Among the receivers were Rusty Markland and Ivey Peacock.

Linemen included Dan Killebrew, Gary Jakob, Lester Walker, Ned Cheely, David Dadisman, Robin Hogue, Greg Burke, Joe Tkach, Greg Troupe, Dennis Worek, all of whom tip the scales at over 200 pounds.

They open their season in Ficklen Stadium on September 25, playing host to the N.C. State Wolfcubs.

Cancer Takes Life Of Lombardi

Death Claims Vince Lombardi

By TOM SEPPY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Vince Lombardi, Washington Redskins coach and onetime ruler of a football dynasty with the Green Bay Packers, died today of cancer. He was 57.

A spokesman at Georgetown University Hospital said Lombardi succumbed at 7:12 a.m. Lombardi, the only man in the history of the National Football League to win three straight championships, had undergone two operations within a month in his battle with the disease.

Mrs. Lombardi had confirmed Wednesday the gravity of the ailment. She said the cancer was "extraordinarily virulent."

His name became legendary for the feats he accomplished at Green Bay, a small city in Wisconsin.

His motto: "Winning isn't a big thing. It's the only thing." "He had a covenant with greatness, more than any man I have ever known," said Redskins President Edward Bennett Williams in a statement. "He was committed to excellence in everything he attempted. Because he was so committed, he was able to lead other men to commit and discipline themselves to reach heights of which they had never dreamed."

"Our country has lost one of its great men. The world of sport has lost its first citizen. The Washington Redskins have lost their leader. I personally have lost a beloved friend."

Bill Austin, interim Redskins coach, added in a statement:

"Words are inadequate to express my deep sorrow and regret at the passing of Coach Vince Lombardi, a great leader and a greater man." The New York native arrived in Green Bay in 1959, one year after the Packers posted its worst record, 1-10-1. He forged a 7-5 season his first year, won the divisional championship in 1960, and then proceeded to capture NFL titles in 1961, 1962, 1965, 1966 and 1967.

His Packers won the first two Super Bowls which pitted the NFL against the AFL.

Lombardi retired from coaching in 1968 to serve as general manager of the Packers but he was later to describe the one year off the field as the most miserable of his life.

He came to the Washington Redskins in February 1969 as head coach, general manager, executive vice president and part owner—the latter post, he said, one of the prime reasons for switching from Green Bay.

In his initial season, he posted a 7-5-2 record to give the Redskins their first winning season in 14 years.

His 10-year coaching record was 96 victories, 34 losses and 6 ties. Only Los Angeles Rams coach George Allen, with a record of 40-13-3, had a better winning percentage — .755 to .738.

Lombardi played his collegiate football at Fordham University where he was one of the famed "Seven Blocks of Granite." After attending law school at Fordham, he coached and taught chemistry, Latin and physics at St. Cecilia High School in Englewood, N.J.

In 1946, he became the line coach at Fordham University where he served until 1948 when he was named assistant to Earl "Red" Blaik at West Point.

Sudden Sam Fails In Bid For 20th Victory

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
Sam McDowell, one of the most feared pitchers in the major leagues, has yet to win 20 games in a season so Cleveland Manager Alvin Dark decided to give his ace southpaw a helping hand.

Odom, 7-5, went seven innings, giving up two hits with Jim Grant finishing up. Odom had scored the A's first run in the third when he doubled, stole third and came home on catcher Duane Josephson's throwing error.

Dark devised a scheme, but as has happened so often with the best of plans, this one went awry and instead of picking up victory No. 20, McDowell came away with his ninth loss Wednesday night, dropping a 4-1 decision to the Washington Senators.

But the Indians' skipper has four more weeks to go in the season to think up more strategy and McDowell should have five more starts in quest of his goal.

The Senators however foiled Dark's strategy and used infield hits and botched plays to stop the Indians while Dick Bosman limited Cleveland to four hits.

McDowell walked Washington slugger Frank Howard three times intentionally, twice as a leadoff hitter. The second time, Howard moved to third on infield hits by Rick Reichardt and Aurelio Rodriguez and scored on a wild pitch.

"My job is to win ball games," Dark said. And Howard will prevent me from doing that."

In the sixth inning, McDowell moved to first base with two on and one out and Howard the hitter. Dean Chance came on to pitch and Howard beat out an infield dribbler as first went uncovered, loading the bases.

Two runs then scored when Reichardt bounced into a force-out as Wayne Comer scored from second on the late throw to McDowell at first base, trying for the double play. Chance pitched 2-3 of an inning and McDowell returned to finish the game on the mound.

"He's the only batter in the league I concede to," said McDowell of Howard.

The 27-year-old left-hander gave up 11 hits and walked six while striking out six. McDowell, who in six full seasons and parts of three has won 119 and lost 89, came closest to winning 20 games last year when he compiled an 18-14 mark.

In other AL games, New York edged Baltimore 3-2, Detroit split with Boston, copping the day half of a doubleheader 6-4 before losing at night 10-1, Oakland trimmed Chicago 2-1, California defeated Kansas City 3-1 and the Milwaukee at Minnesota game was called by rain.

Horace Clarke drilled a bases-loaded double in the seventh inning, capping a two-out, three-run rally against 21-game winner Dave McNally, for the Yankees' victory.

McNally, who had won nine straight, got his eighth loss—his first since July 18. Gene Michael had knocked in the first New York run before Clarke delivered his two-run blow against the East Division leaders.

Cal Koonce tossed a three-hitter and drove in a pair of runs with a single as the Red Sox slammed the Tigers in the nightcap. Carl Yastrzemski rapped his 36th homer for Boston while Gene Lamont of Detroit became the 39th player in major league history to hit a homer in his first time at bat, connecting in the third inning.

In the opener the Tigers tied it with a pair of runs in the seventh and capitalized on George Scott's costly error for a pair of unearned runs in the eighth.

Campy Campaneris drilled a run-scoring, two-out triple in the seventh inning, giving the A's "Blue Moon" Odom the victory over the White Sox.

Mets, Cubs Win, Close NL Battle

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Chicago Cubs and New York Mets have started taking a positive approach to the National League's East Division race—a most unhealthy situation for the Pittsburgh Pirates, who are still in a negative rut.

The Cubs and Mets both closed in on the first place—rates by winning Wednesday while Montreal was tagging Pittsburgh with its seventh loss in the last eight starts.

Chicago exploded for a 17-2 romp over Philadelphia and moved within one game of the lead. The Cubs have won four of the last five.

The second place Mets won their third straight over St. Louis with Tom Seaver ending a personal four-game losing streak 7-3. That moved New York within one-half game of the top.

The Pirates, meanwhile, frittered away a five-run lead, battled back to tie the score on Bob Robertson's pinch homer with two out in the ninth and finally bowed to Montreal 10-7 when John Boccabella unloaded a three-run homer in the bottom of the ninth.

In other National League action, Atlanta topped Los Angeles 4-3, Cincinnati shut out San Francisco 2-0 and Houston shaded San Diego 2-1.

Joe Pepitone and Randy Hundley both polled three-run homers and Cleon James and pitcher Milt Pappas also connected as the Cubs routes Philadelphia.

Pappas worked eight innings and ran his record to 11-6. He is 9-4 since coming over to the Cubs from Atlanta. Pepitone's homer was his 21st—seventh for Chicago after being unloaded by Houston.

Donn Clendenon and Cleon Jones drove in two runs apiece and the Mets, usually stingy with runs when Seaver is pitching, gave their ace right-hander plenty of offense to work with against St. Louis.

Allison Leads Shot For Pole

By DEL BOOTH
Associated Press Writer
DARLINGTON, S. C. (AP) — Bobby Allison of Hueytown, Ala., was among drivers favored to qualify for the pole as trials began today for the Labor Day $137,600 Southern 500-mile stock car race.

Allison ripped off one lap of 148.2 miles an hour Wednesday, the fastest run before rain interrupted practice. His Dodge was way behind the record 153 m.p.h. lap for the 1 1/2-mile Darlington Raceway.

Fred Lorenzen, coming out of retirement this season, brushed the wall on one of his 144 m.p.h. circuits and said "that felt like old times."

He has taken over the Junior

WINTERVILLE — Boys, ages 9-12, attending Winterville school, who are interested in Little League Football are invited to attend the first practice session.

The practice will be held at Winterville School Friday at 4 p.m.

Clendenon, Jones, Joe Foy and Tommie Agee had two hits each, pacing an 11-hit Met attack against four Cardinal pitchers.

Gene Alley walloped an inside-the-park grand slam homer to highlight a six-run Pittsburgh rally in the sixth inning, wiping out Montreal's early lead.

But the Expos battled back, picking up two runs in the bottom of the sixth and then busting loose for four more to take the lead with two out in the eighth. Boots Day's double and a single by Bobby Wine were the big hits in that rally.

The first two Pirates went quietly in the ninth but Robertson tied the score with his pinch homer. Then in the bottom of the ninth reliever Joe Gibbon walked two men and Bruce Dal Canton came on to face Boccabella, who tagged his fifth homer of the year.

Hal King's first inning grand slam accounted for all of Atlanta's runs and the Braves ended a six-game losing streak by whipping Los Angeles.

Ageless Hoyt Wilhelm earned the victory with six scoreless innings of relief after the Dodgers kayoed Jim Nash with five consecutive hits including Tom Haller's three-run homer in the fourth inning.

Gary Nolan used last-out help from Wayne Granger to nail down a three-hitter as Cincinnati ended San Francisco's five-game winning streak.

Nolan, 16-5, drove in both Reds' runs with an infield single and a sacrifice fly as Cincinnati beat Juan Marichal, 9-9, and ended the Giant ace's personal six-game winning streak.

Jimmy Wynn's two-run homer in the first inning was enough to carry Houston past San Diego.

Wade Blasingame earned his third victory with Fred Gladding coming on in the ninth to wrap up the victory after Ollie Brown had homered for the Padres.

Johnson Ford normally driven by Leroy Yarbrough.

Lorenzen, Elmhurst, Ill., speedster, has had engine failures in his four starts this season after three years off the tracks. Yarbrough passed up the Southern 500 to drive Sunday at Ontario, Calif., in an Indianapolis-type race.

The 12 fastest of the 26 driver who drew starting times for today's two-lap qualifying runs will line up in the first six rows Monday for this 21st running of the event. Another dozen places will be filled Friday, and the final 16 will be parceled out in trials Saturday.

Along with Lorenzen and Allison, favorites for the fastest times today were Charlie Glotzbach of Georgetown, Ind., in a Dodge, and Cale Yarbrough of Timmonsville, S.C., in a Mercury.

30 MOS. GUARANTEE WITH 9 MOS. 100% ALLOWANCE

Foremost Protection Guarantee. Your Foremost tire protection guarantee covers all Foremost passenger tires (except our special application tires with separate guarantees) against all road hazard or defect failures. You are protected for the entire stated months of guarantee. If your tire fails during the guarantee period, return it to us and we will, at our option, repair your tire, or make an allowance based on the original purchase price excluding applicable Federal Excise Tax, toward the purchase of a new tire. We will allow 100% of the original purchase price, excluding applicable Federal Excise Tax, during the 100% allowance period. Thereafter, we will allow 50% or 25% of the original purchase price, excluding applicable Federal Excise Tax, toward the purchase of a new tire. (See chart below). Federal Excise Tax adjustment allowance will be made on the basis of the percent of the original tread remaining.

FOREMOST PROTECTION GUARANTEE CHART.

HERE'S HOW YOUR GUARANTEE WORKS:

Entire guarantee period	30 months
100% allowance period	1-9 months
50% allowance period	10-17 months
25% allowance period	18-30 months

Tread Life Protection. We build into every Foremost tire safe traction indicators. They signal when your tire should be replaced. If your tire wears out (except for incorrect alignment) we will make an allowance based on the original purchase price, excluding applicable Federal Excise Tax, toward the purchase of a new tire. We will allow 1/2 during the first half, or 1/4 during the second half of the stated months of guarantee. Federal Excise Tax adjustment allowance will be made on the basis of the percent of the original tread remaining.

This guarantee is not transferable. It is only for private passenger cars or passenger station wagons.

Principals And Assistants Named To Pitt Schools

JAMES R. CARRAWAY

The principals for the D. H. Conley, Farmville and Ayden-Grifton Schools and assistant principals for the four consolidated high schools have been named by the Pitt County Board of Education.

James Robert Carraway, named to head the D. H. Conley School, graduated from Richland High School in 1957. He received his A. B. degree in mathematics from the University of North Carolina in 1961 and his M.A. degree in education from East Carolina University in 1966.

The 31-year-old educator has served as principal of Winterville High School for the past two years. Prior to that time he was principal at Belvoir-Falkland for two years and at Pactus for two years.

Carraway is a member of the Greenville Ruritan Club, the Greenville Moose Lodge, Phi Delta Kappa professional education fraternity, the Pitt County branch of the North Carolina Association of Educators, the North Carolina AE and the National Education Association.

He is married to the former

FARNEY MOORE

Mary Elizabeth Taylor of Jacksonville and they have two daughters, Kimberly, age four, and Karyn, age three.

A Smithfield native, Russ Cotton will serve as principal of the new Farmville High School.

A graduate of Red Springs High School in 1956, Cotton attended preparatory school at Randolph-Macon Academy where he received a post graduate high school diploma. He received his A. B. degree in history with a minor in education from Davidson College. He received his masters degree in educational administration from East Carolina University in 1969.

Cotton has taught in Taylorville, was head football coach and assistant baseball coach at Carolina Military Academy in Maxton, head baseball coach and social studies teacher at Rose High School, assistant principal at Southern Wayne High School, and principal at Farmville High School.

He is a member of the North Carolina Association of Educators, National Education Association, and National Association of Secondary School

ERNEST MCNAIR JR.

Principals. A member of the Board of Directors of the Farmville Kiwanis Club and chairman of the Board of Directors of Farmville Child Developmental Center, Cotton is also chairman of the Farmville Mayor's Council on Human Relations, member of the Farmville United Methodist Church, vice president of Methodist Men, Sunday School teacher, and a member of the administrative board of the Farmville United Methodist Church.

He is a member of Phi Delta Kappa educational fraternity for men at ECU, and a member of Kappa Delta Pi at ECU. He is married to the former Sandra Brinson Harper of Arapahoe and they have two children, Kimber Leigh, age eight, and Rusty III, a first grader at Sam D. Bundy School.

Appointed to the position of principal at the Ayden-Grifton School, William C. Wiggins received his B.A. degree in social science from Wake Forest University and his M.A. degree in education from ECU.

The Bertie County native has served as principal of Grifton

LeROY REDDEN

High School for the past five years. He was principal at Fountain Elementary for four years, taught in Forsythe County Schools and was High School Supervisor in Pitt County for one year.

Past President of the Pitt County AE and past president of the Pitt County Athletic Conference, Wiggins is vice chairman of the Tobacco Belt Football Conference and chairman of the Pitt County Athletic Conference.

Wiggins is a member of the local and state Associations of Education, a member of the First Baptist Church, Grifton, and a member of the local Board of Directors of Lions International.

He is married to the former Shirley Willoughby of Ahoskie and they have three children, Deirdra, Bill Jr. and David.

Ernest Roy McNair Jr. and Farney M. Moore were named assistant principals at the North Pitt School.

FREDERICK PARKS

degree from A & T in 1965. He has taught at Bethel Union School for seven years and was assistant county agent of Martin County for two years.

He is married to the former Rosa Carney and they have one son, Eric.

A graduate of Washington High School, Moore received his B.S. degree from Elizabeth City State College in 1944.

He has taught in the Washington City Schools and at Bethel Union. He taught and served as principal of Nichols School from 1955 until 1968.

He is married to the former Sudie Monk and they have six children.

LeRoy Redden, a resident of Farmville, has been appointed assistant principal at the new Farmville High School.

A graduate of South Greene High School, Redden received his B.S. and M.A. degrees from A & T State University, Greensboro; attended Calcutta Business College, Calcutta, India; North Carolina State University, Raleigh; and East Carolina University.

Serving 26 years as a vocational agriculture teacher, Redden was one of four recipients of the "Teacher of Teachers Silver Award" in 1968, given by the National Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association at North Carolina State University.

Redden is active in civic, religious and educational programs. He is superintendent of Sunday School and the pastor's steward of St. Stephen's AME Zion Methodist Church; chairman of Bigger and Better Business Committee of the Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, Inc., of the Beta Kappa Sigma Chapter; assistant adjutant of American Legion Post No. 372 and a member of the Mayor's Citizens Committee.

Redden is married to the former Bessie Joyner of Wilson and they have one daughter, Debra.

Melvin W. Rountree, a native of Grimesland, will be an assistant principal at D.H. Conley High School.

A graduate of the Pitt County Training School, Rountree received his B.S. degree from Elizabeth City State University and his master's degree from

RUSS COTTON

New York University. Rountree has been employed in the Pitt County School System for several years as a teacher and for the past five years, has worked as assistant principal at G.R. Whitfield School.

Rountree is a member of the Grimesland Community Development Club, secretary of the Masonic Lodge, chairman of the Boy Scouts Committee, member of White Oak Baptist Church where he serves as secretary, member of the Deacon Board and superintendent of the Sunday School.

He is married to the former Eva Councill and they have two daughters.

Appointed assistant principal at Ayden-Grifton, Frederick Parks has served as a teacher with the Pitt County Schools for three years. Before assuming his duties as assistant principal at Ayden High School, he taught biology and chemistry at H.B. Sugg High School and South Ayden High School.

Parks received his B.S. degree from A & T State University and has done graduate work in science and administration at A & T University and Howard University. He has attended National Science Foundation Institutes at North Carolina Central University and Hampton Institute.

A member of the NCTA and NEA, Parks is married to the former Jackie Outerbridge of Greenville, who is a primary teacher in the Pitt County School System.

Ray Bolger Is Brain Behind Plan To Outshine Disneyland

By GENE HANDSAKER Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ray Bolger, who played the scarecrow in quest of a brain in "The Wizard of Oz," is the brain behind a project to out-Disney Disneyland.

Its tentative title: The Wonderful Wizardland of Oz.

Such an attraction already exists on a North Carolina mountaintop, Bolger said. But his goal is to bring bigger and better ones to the Los Angeles area and probably Florida. "Disneyland has characters — Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck and so on, but we have a theme; that everyone has a heart, brain and courage—the qualities sought by the tin man, the scarecrow and the cowardly lion in "The Wizard of Oz."

"And that by using them properly you'll reach the pot of gold, which is home"—to which Dorothy (Judy Garland) wanted to return in the movie.

Bolger sees Wizardland as including contented communal living areas in an era of "people retiring at 55."

In the amusement park itself, the yellow brick road would lead to—

"Scarecrow Land, a farm land with petting animals ... the Tin Man's Land, mechanical attractions, tin hats, tin suits ... the Cowardly Lion Land, wild animals ... Dorothy's House in Kansas, with a cyclone effect ... the Wizard's Castle ... witches' castles."

Bolger said the project is in only preliminary stages but that a San Francisco contractor and a Utah construction company are associated with him.

Wizardland is but one of various activities buying the still-able 66-year-old stage and screen veteran. Bolger, whose latest movie was Walt Disney's "Babes in Toyland" in 1961, recently played "a swinging grandfather" on a segment of Shirley Jones' new fall television series, "The Partridge Family."

On his beautifully landscaped acre in Beverly Hills, where he lives with his wife of 41 years, he grows figs, peaches and other fruit.

In a back yard studio, crowded with piano, sound gear and music files, he practices dance steps for occasional appearances with a hilarious routine in night clubs and concert halls.

Bolger additionally is a paid lecturer around the country on his recollections of "Oz," on patriotism and on the dance as the barometer of world trends.

Increasingly frenetic dancing portended both world wars, he said.

You Can Send Letter, By Air, Through Sewers, Across Paris

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — For 30 cents you can send a letter across Paris by air—via the sewers.

It's a special delivery system that reaches any point of the city within an hour.

The mail moves in pneumatic tubes, so a special delivery letter is called a pneumatique.

More than 250 miles of tubes connect virtually all Paris post offices, and each has motorcycle messengers waiting to deliver arriving letters.

The system is the same as that once used in department stores to bring back change. Letters are rolled up and inserted in a cylinder which is sucked through the tubes at speeds up to 30 miles an hour. No surface vehicle can do better in Paris traffic.

Other cities, notably in Germany, have similar systems, but none is as large or as highly developed. The first mail tubes were laid in the Paris sewers more than a century ago. Ever since the eerie silence of the sewers has been shattered day and night by the rattle of the mail containers.

Special engine houses were built for steam engines that once powered the system. Old prints show post office engineers in top hats and frock coats supervising the machinery. The engines were still pumping away during World War II, after 80 years' service, but more efficient electric air pumps do the job now.

Telegrams also move this way, but a letter has some advantages: No clerk need count the words, and the messages are safe from prying eyes. This aspect appeals to lovers as well as businessmen.

A pneumatique costs 1.60 francs. This is four times the price of an ordinary letter which can take 36 hours to reach its destination. There are certain restrictions on size and weight to allow the letter to fit into cylinders three inches wide. And you must expect your letter to arrive slightly crumpled. Oil from the machines and dirt from the sewers occasionally seeps into the pipes, and a pneumatique is not always spotless on arrival.

Maintenance teams work permanently in the sewers, replacing worn tubes and occasionally releasing jammed containers. When the Seine floods and the water level rises above the level of the tubes a breakage can have dramatic results. Many a post office sorter has been showered with sewer water forced through a broken tube, but such incidents virtually stopped with the introduction of specially resistant plastic tubes.

Last year the system handled nearly 10 million transfers. There are about 25,000 shipments a day.

The farthest distance the tubes reach is just over seven miles, between the Port de Saint Cloud in chic southwest Paris and the Porte de la Villette, the northeast's stockyards district. But through motorcycle extensions the service can cover about 19 miles, from Versailles in the west to Pavillon-sous-Bois on the east.

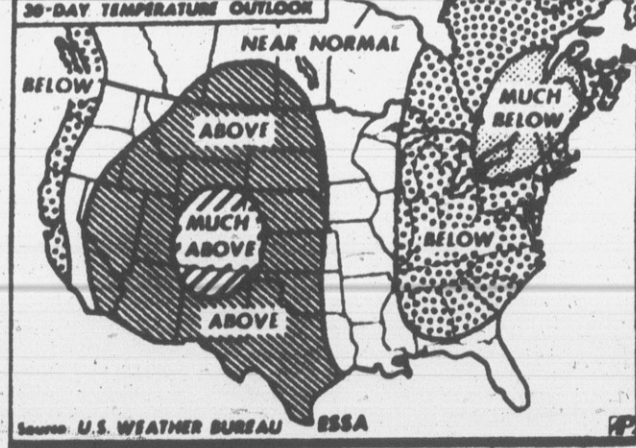

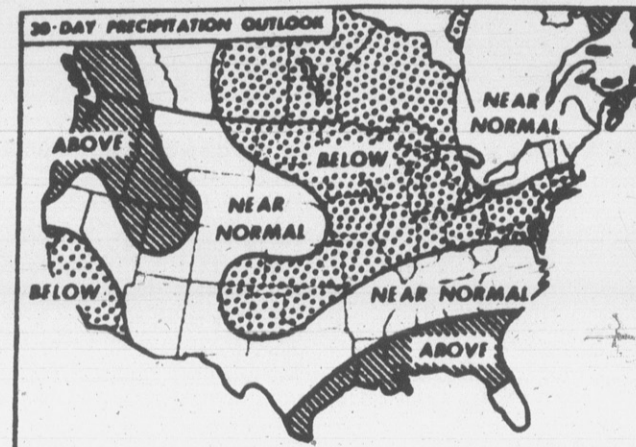

The post office is shy about disclosing what the system costs to run. In fact, pneumatique letters account for only about one-third of the traffic, the remainder being telegrams and government mail moved free of charge. The annual income from pneumatic traffic was $1.73 million in 1969—probably little more than one-third of the total cost.

"If we didn't have such a system since 1866, we'd have to build one," a post official said. Post office engineers from the United States and other countries have studied the Paris system recently.

Only the maintenance crews ever go near the sewers. The pneumatique sorting offices are models of efficiency and cleanliness.

Once at the Paris-Bourse post office a dead rat shot out of the incoming tube into the hands of a sorter. His colleagues suspect that it was a practical joke from somewhere along the tube, rather than a genuine sewer rat.

Participating In Orientation

ROCKY MOUNT — A Stokes student, Juanita Dolores Glisson, is expected to arrive here Friday to participate in a five-day orientation program at N. C. Wesleyan College.

Miss Glisson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Glisson of Stokes, is serving on the 27-member Orientation Committee which will welcome about 225 new students, including freshmen and transfers. The committee will direct a varied agenda of activities and social events to acquaint new students with all phases of campus life.

Miss Glisson, a sophomore, is a recipient of a Memorial Award for the 1970-71 academic year.

Acquire Monkey On Their Back

CHICAGO (AP) — Police who raided a Near North Side apartment looking for drugs wound up with a monkey on their back.

A quantity of drugs was found in the apartment officers said, but the only inhabitant appeared to be a monkey. The policemen brought the monkey back to the station, where they notified the animal care section.

The Worry Clinic Psychology In Everyday Life

Dr. Hulse is an excellent example of a "dynamic" clergyman instead of the "stodgy" type. See how he applies the "Compliment Club" strategy in lauding the clever advertisement mentioned below. Superb advertising should render a 3-fold function. Send for that "Advertising Booklet" and give it to your pastor. For Jesus used 70 advertising men!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.
CASE O-521: Dr. E. Duane Hulse is a dynamic clergyman. By that, I mean he dramatizes his sermons, often using sleight-of-hand devices to intrigue youngsters during his 5-minute children's sermonette.

So he has doubled the membership in his famous Madison, Wisconsin church, though many other churches are showing a decline in both money and members.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "here's an advertisement that ran in our Wisconsin State Journal.

"Since you formerly taught 'Advertising Psychology' at Northwestern University, what do you think of it?"

The ad occupied one quarter of a newspaper page.

At the top and in the center was a 5-inch capital letter "A".

And the heading said, "Show us your 'A' and Get a Free McDonald's Cheeseburger.

The body of the ad contained 3 short paragraphs, the first of which ran as follows:

"We've reversed things. Instead of an apple for the teacher, it's a cheeseburger for the students with a final 'A' on their semester report cards."

The 3rd paragraph added this wholesome compliment:

"We think it's great when students make the top grade. It means perseverance, hard work and a desire to succeed... attributes that deserve a reward. So, show us your A's."

Maybe 1,000 clergymen saw that ad, but I doubt if even 10 sat down to commend its sponsor! But Dr. Hulse did so! For he is a dynamic pastor.

So he sent a letter complimenting McDonald's and added this final paragraph! "It is time we began rewarding the over-achievers, instead of spending all our time praising and coddling the under-achievers!"

Then he applied the Compliment Club principle on me, too! "Dr. Crane," he added, "I use your college textbook, 'Psychology Applied,' in my dealings with parishioners and our Religious Education Department.

"Therein I remember you mentioned the former President of the University of Wisconsin, namely, Dr. Glenn Frank, as saying that advertisers and salesmen are the real spark plugs of our great economic system.

"And I've often heard you explain that advertising, to rate 100 percent, should not only sell good merchandise and make its sponsors a fair profit.

"But to 'ring the bell,' it should likewise offer a constructive social service, as a fringe benefit.

"Well, don't you think this McDonald ad fills the bill perfectly in that respect?"

Yes, it deserves a score of 100 percent.

And I have previously mentioned the Danville, Illinois firm that offered a soft drink to everybody who would present a Sunday church bulletin as proof of attendance that Sabbath day.

And in West Virginia, a roller skating rink likewise offered free passes for top school marks.

These are just a few of the many examples where topnotch advertising performs that 3-fold function cited by Dr. Hulse.

So send for my booklet "Psychology of Advertising and Selling," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20c. Churches could use it profitably, too!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Dr. Crane, he added, "I use your college textbook, 'Psychology Applied,' in my dealings with parishioners and our Religious Education Department.

Chrysler And GM Yippie Leader Are Strike Target Uses 'System' He's Fighting

By LOWELL MCKIRGAN
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — The president of the United Auto Workers takes his union's new contract demands today to the Chrysler Corp.—designated along with General Motors as a strike target—after announcing Ford Motor Co. is free of a walkout threat this year.

that their contract offer—which included a wage hike the company claimed totaled 13.5 per cent over three years—was a virtual insult. Similar offers were made by GM and Ford.

By JEAN HELLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Yippie leader Jerry Rubin, using the laws of "the system" he seeks to destroy, has set up a tax-exempt foundation to shield a major portion of his income from federal tax collectors.

conspicuous service to the community."

The foundation, however, is 3½ months delinquent in filing a mandatory tax statement with IRS.

The foundation was incorporated in New York in May 1969. The sole trustee is Nancy S. Kurshan, identified in the past as Rubin's wife.

How much money Rubin and other benefactors have shoveled into the foundation could not be determined. The tax statements of tax-exempt foundations are public records, but Rubin's foundation has not filed any tax statement.

And his literary agent and lawyer aren't saying how much he's made.

"We have a normal setup," Carl Brandt, Rubin's New York literary agent said in a telephone interview. "Simon & Schuster (publishers of 'Do It!') send over the proceeds, I take my fee off the top and forward the rest to the foundation's mailing address." Brandt would not divulge the address.

Rubin's lawyer, Abraham L. Wax, would say even less.

Arrest 22 In Raleigh Area Drug Crackdown

RALEIGH (AP) — Hearings are scheduled in Wake District Court Sept. 23 for 22 young persons arrested Wednesday as state, county and local officers cracked down on illegal drugs in the Raleigh area.

SBI Director Charles Dunn said the arrests climaxed several months of investigation by an undercover officer who allegedly purchased drugs from some of the accused.

Those arrested included two girls who were attended classes in Sanderson High School in a well-to-do section of the capital city.

Those arrested were placed under bonds ranging from $1,000 up to $9,000 for Carl Kutz, 18, who was charged in nine felony warrants. All but four of those arrested were charged with felonies.

President Leonard Woodcock said Wednesday the union will strike either GM or Chrysler—possibly both—unless a contract settlement is reached before current three-year pacts expire at midnight Sept. 14.

A strike at GM would give Ford a great marketing edge with its subcompact Pinto which goes on sale Sept. 11. The Chevrolet Vega goes on sale the day before, but a strike would quickly dry up the supply of some 25,000 GM subcompacts, perhaps within a day or two.

Woodcock said at a news conference one reason Ford—object of the last UAW strike in 1967—was excluded as a target was so that at least one American automaker would be building subcompacts in numbers to meet the challenge of imported cars. Chrysler does not presently produce a subcompact.

Woodcock said he would tell top Chrysler negotiators today

If General Motors is struck, the union's strike fund of $120 million would be exhausted in about seven weeks. For a strike at Chrysler, the fund could last some 30 weeks. Current strike benefits are $30 to $40 a week, depending on family size.

Some industry observers saw the union maneuvering as a pressure tactic aimed primarily at Chrysler, which has been operating in the black for the last five months after two losing quarters.

GM has not been closed by a nationwide strike since 1946.

Woodcock explained that GM was a target this time because it was "the chief architect" of the proposals made to the union Tuesday.

Among other things, the Rubin book calls on young people to leave their homes, burn their schools and create a new society.

Legal papers filed with the Internal Revenue Service say the foundation would, among other things, use its funds for "relief of the poor, distressed and underprivileged ... Lessen the burdens of government ... defend human and civil rights secured by law ... and make awards to citizens who render

See Court Test Of State Buses

RALEIGH (AP) — A Raleigh attorney says "court action is definitely possible" to test the legality of using state funds and state-owned school buses to carry out court-ordered school desegregation.

The lawyer, George Ragsdale, a former Superior Court judge said Wednesday night that a Winston-Salem law firm representing a group of taxpayers there had retained him "to look into the legality of the expenditure of the tax money and use of these buses."

Asked if he expected to bring a court action, Ragsdale replied, "court action is definitely possible, but we're just looking into it right now."

Ragsdale said in an answer to a question that his study will cover a law enacted by the 1969 General Assembly forbidding the expenditure of public funds for involuntary busing of school children. The law has been declared unconstitutional by a three-judge federal court, and the state has appealed the decision to the Supreme Court.

Gov. Bob Scott was briefed Wednesday on the busing situation by Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan and Supt. of Public Instruction Craig Phillips.

Morgan said the governor had been brought up to date on several school matters, including the threat of a suit aimed at blocking state plans to lend buses to local school districts confronted with the necessity of busing children to comply with desegregation orders.

Morgan had said earlier that the possibility of a suit had been raised after he was asked to rule on the legality of an offer by the State Board of Education to provide 200 used school buses to the Charlotte-Mecklenburg school system.

Morgan had said Tuesday he was delaying a ruling on the Charlotte request for at least a week because of the possibility of a suit.

The Charlotte - Mecklenburg Board of Education called off a meeting scheduled for Wednesday afternoon because of uncertainty on the availability of buses.

Administrators had intended to give board members a report on prospects of opening schools by the Sept. 9 deadline officials are working toward. But they said their report would be meaningless without information on the buses offered by the state.

About 30 white youths picketed the Education Center in Charlotte for more than an hour Wednesday to protest busing to achieve school desegregation.

The youths, ranging from elementary to high school age, had come to the center to voice their protest to the Charlotte-Mecklenburg school board.

But when the board cancelled its afternoon meeting, they marched along the sidewalk in front of the building carrying signs with slogans such as "Delay School Opening," "Integration Yes, Busing No," and "Students For Freedom."

A group of about 10 black NAACP Youth Council members stood close by with signs reading "Give Change a Chance."

You Should Have A New Directory Now

Delivery of Carolina Telephone's new Greenville directory began August 26, according to L. R. Langley, local manager for the company.

Subscribers should have had their directories by August 28. If they were not received the telephone business office should be notified.

"When you get the new directory, please throw away the old one to avoid using the old directory and possibly getting a wrong number," Langley said. He also suggested that subscribers can save time by consulting the directory before calling directory assistance (information). The cover of the new directory features farm and industrial scenes of eastern North Carolina. The directory has listings for Greenville, Ayden, Farmville, Fountain, and Snow Hill.

Approximately 28,000 directories will be delivered, according to Langley. This is about 3,000 more than were delivered last year. In addition, the alphabetical and yellow page sections of the new directory have more listings than ever before.

"You won't find a better yardstick of Greenville's progress than the new directory," Langley said. "It shows just how fast this area is growing."

Homecoming At Church Sunday

AYDEN — Homecoming services will be held at the Community Baptist Church here Sunday. Bill Bednar, pastor, will be the speaker at 11 a.m.

Lunch will be served at the Ayden Community Center. The afternoon service will begin at 3 o'clock and will include special music by the Elida Home For Orphanes, Asheville, with guest speaker, Arch Cameron.

The evening service will start at 7:30 and will include the Lord's Supper and the special guest speaker.

Secret Visit By Tricia Nixon

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Tricia Nixon has left the Western White House for a visit with friends at a place described only as "outside the state."

Asked by reporters where she was going when she went away Wednesday, the President's daughter replied, "Oh, someplace."

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — North Carolina egg markets unchanged Wednesday, supplies adequate, demand fair to good. Prices paid producers and handlers for consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets:

Grade A large whites: 54½ to 55; medium, whites: 39½ to 27.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — North Carolina poultry market undertone was unsettled today. Supplies fully adequate for plant running time, weights desirable at most points. Ready-to-cook demand, generally good.

Live, at-farm based valuation, 10½ cents per pound. Hens: markets generally steady, supplies fully adequate for fair demand on heavy type, trading limited on light types. Heavies, at farm, 8½ to 9. No light type sales reported.

RALEIGH (AP) — (USDA) — North Carolina hog markets prices were irregular today. Tops of 19.25 to 19.50 at Wilson; 19.00 to 19.50 at Rocky Mount; 17.50 to 19.50 at Tarboro; 18.75 to 19.25 at Aberdeen; 17.75 to 18.75 at Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Newton Grove, Albertson and Lumberton; 17.50 to 18.50 at Bethel; 19.50 at Greensboro; 19.25 at Salisbury.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market climbed steeply today in moderately active trading.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was ahead 7.39 to 764.03 at 11 a.m., an hour after the opening of trading. Gainers outpaced losers by nearly 4 to 1 among issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said there appeared to be an underlying vitality to the market which was bringing out some fresh money for investment. They said the market was building up underlying strength Wednesday for a surprise gain.

Other brokers said continued short covering, especially in the glamor stocks, was helping the market.

Ice Cream Bingo Set

A back-to-school Ice Cream Bingo is being sponsored tonight by the Greenville Recreation Commission. The affair, now an annual event for first through sixth graders, will be held both at South Greenville Recreation Area in the gymnasium and at the Elm Street Recreation Center, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Mrs. Linda Burrell, who will be in charge of the event, says that winners of Bingo will be permitted to fix their own banana split, making it to their own specifications.

She noted that merchants of Greenville have made this popular children event possible by contributions of material to put in the banana splits.

There is no charge for playing Bingo, and all children in the city in the first through the sixth grade are invited to attend and play Bingo.

Plan Pep Rally At Rose High

A pep rally will be held tomorrow afternoon on the front lawn of J. H. Rose High School, according to principal Robert Alligood.

"We normally would hold this in the gym, but cannot now, so are holding it outside," Alligood said. "It will possibly be on the front lawn, as there's two levels, which makes it ideal for this purpose."

The rally is in connection with the game here tomorrow night with Washington, the first of the season for Rose High.

$1,400 Damage As Cars Collide

Mirta Elena Germone of Greenville, Pa., was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 5:01 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Memorial and South Village Drives yesterday.

Police reported the Germone car collided with a vehicle driven by John Price Jr., 21 of Route 1, Greenville.

Damage to the Germone car was set at $1,000 while damage to the Price vehicle was placed at $400. No injuries were reported.

DOESN'T SMELL LIKE SNOW — A Florida Marine Patrol boat cruises through millions of dead menhaden and other fish coating the eastern shore of Escambia Bay. More than 30 fish kills have occurred in this area since June and this was one of three investigated Wednesday. Industry and the city of Pensacola (Fla.) have been blamed for pollution that also caused 21 fish kills in 1969. (AP Wirephoto)

Your Optician

In Cooperation with the North Carolina Opticians Association

(Your Eyes Are Very Much A Pair)

Did you know you have two eyes? Of course you know that! But do you have any idea how true it is that you are the owner of a pair of eyes?

Eyes can be used one at a time! You can cover the left while looking through the right. And you can reverse this system. But you want your eyes to work with maximum visual benefit to you. To do so, they must both be seeing at the same time.

Each of your eyeballs has six muscles to control it. When one eye goes unused, the muscular coordination of the other will not be one hundred percent efficient. Using only one eye also reduces the ability to accurately judge depth, size and distance. The eyes are like teammates in a ball game. They work best when they work together.

Watch Next Week For (What Are Contact Lenses)

Have you often wished you had prescription sun glasses? Wish no more! Bring your regular prescription to HOLLINGSWORTH OPTICIANS and choose some attractive frames. We can grind your sun glasses to your exact prescription. Plenty of parking at HOLLINGSWORTH OPTICIANS, open daily 9 till 5:30.
