drop to a reduction in the nation's birth rate. The office, a division of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, said more than 30 per cent of the U.S. population will be involved in education. This would include 2.9 million people engaged in teaching and school administrative positions.

The report said more students are receiving more education each year and this year will find new records in the number of high school, college and graduate degrees conferred. An estimated 3.1 million students are expected to graduate from high school—the largest class in history. Last year's graduates numbered almost 3 million.

There will be 815,000 bachelor and professional degrees conferred, 244,000 masters, and 31,000 doctorates. The report predicted that about 77 per cent of all persons in their middle and late teens eventually will graduate from high school. About 45 per cent will enter a college or university and 22 per cent will earn a bachelor's degree.

criteria for putting them on," Bishop said in an interview. He noted that Miss Davis and Wisconsin bombing suspects Karleton L. and Dwight A. Armstrong, Leo F. Burt and David S. Fine all are wanted in connection with murders.

Miss Davis is charged with interstate flight to avoid prosecution for her alleged role in the kidnapping and murder of a California judge during an abortive attempt to free three black men serving criminal sentences at Soledad prison.

Bishop is sought for allegedly dynamiting power transmission towers in Colorado in January, 1969. Bishop has one conviction on his record—for a sit-in demonstration at Colorado State University.

Of the other seven most wanted fugitives, John W. Clouser is an escaped mental patient and Benjamin H. Paddock is an escaped bank robber.

Taylor M. Teaford is accused of killing his 74-year-old grandmother, Marie Dean Arrington. He is wanted in connection with the murders of her husband and her lawyer's secretary and Warren D. Reddock is accused of murdering his business partner.

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) - Lebanon. The United Nations Security Council told Israel Saturday to immediately withdraw its troops from Lebanon where they have been fighting Arab guerrillas for the last two days.

The vote, which in effect was a condemnation of Israel's intrusion into Lebanon, was adopted 14-0 with only the United States abstaining.

Israeli deputy Ambassador Shabtai Rosenne described the intrusion as a "minor patrolling incident" and said that the Israelis had already withdrawn their troops from Lebanese territory.

Council President Davidson Nicol of Sierra Leone convened the session upon an urgent request by Lebanese charge d'affaires Yahya Mahmassani who charged that Israel had launched large scale military action against his country Saturday morning and penetrated 4.5 miles into its territory.

The resolution adopted said the Council "demands the immediate withdrawal of Israeli armed forces from Lebanese territory."

Name Christmas Seal Chairman

Roland L. Garrett of Elizabeth City, known as the number one citizen of the Albemarle, has been named Chairman of the annual Christmas Seal Campaign of the Eastern Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association.

ROLAND L. GARRETT

Dr. Karl Van Horn of Washington, president of the Eastern Association, said that Garrett will take over his duties immediately for the campaign. "The Christmas Seal Campaign will be launched on November 10th," Garrett stated, "and this year we promise a real surprise when the Christmas Seal letter is opened."

The Elizabeth City Cosmopolitan Club, joined by other organizations and citizens, honored Garrett recently as "Mr. Albemarle." A retired postmaster, he is on the board of directors of the Economic Improvement Council, which serves 10 counties, a director of the Industrial Bank, chairman of the Board of Deacons of the First Baptist Church, a member of the Salvation Army Advisory Board, and is active on many other boards and commissions.

Headquarters for the Eastern District was established in Greenville on April 1, 1968. This district serves the largest area of any in North Carolina, according to James E. Sims, State Public Relations Director in Raleigh.

Sims, in Greenville for a couple of days coordinating the opening campaign with Mrs. Ruth Peterson, executive director of the Eastern District, said "the Eastern District covers 22 counties in eastern North Carolina."

The annual Christmas seal campaign supports the continuing fight against respiratory diseases through research and direct assistance to victims, with 80 percent of funds going into the area from which collected.

"Many people think of tuberculosis as a disease of the past," Mrs. Peterson said. "However, it is still one of the major communicable diseases found among our population." She noted that 197 active cases in the Eastern District have been diagnosed.

The Greenville office, headquarters for the 22 county area, is located at 112 South Pitt Street, across from the Post Office, and adjacent to the Cherry View Cemetery.

Pitt County citizens serving on the Executive Committee of the Board of Directors are Miss Carolyn Fulghum, Dean of Women at East Carolina University, secretary; and J.T. Snowden, Jr., Greenville, treasurer.

John Bizzell of Greenville serves as member-at-large; Mrs. Ann de la Mater is an honorary member; and board members from Pitt are Sam Bundy, Farmville; Dr. Dan Jordan, Bethel; Mrs. Lib Eagles, Dr. Earl Trevathan, Dr. Allen Taylor, and Dr. Donald Tucker, all of Greenville.

The mailing lists will be completed during the next two months with the assistance of volunteers. Mrs. Peterson says additional volunteers can always be used.

Going To NATO

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon sources say the Air Force will begin next week using the trouble-plagued F111 fighterbombers to modernize and bolster NATO forces in Europe.

A squadron of 24 planes is expected to be delivered to the U.S. 3rd Air Force at Upper Hayford, England, by the end of the year.

The Air Force has delayed the movement of F111s for a year because of troubles with the swing-wing plane. The 352-plane fleet has been grounded since December because one of the jets crashed in Nevada after a wing fell off.

Radicals In Philadelphia

By ERIAS HYMAN PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A convention of black and white radical groups sponsored by the Black Panthers officially opened Saturday night with a keynote address by Panther "Defense Minister" Huey P. Newton, alleged to have received telephone threats on his life since his arrival here from San Francisco.

The alleged threats prompted officials of the "Peoples Revolutionary Constitutional Convention" to tighten security with double frisking of delegates, visitors and news reporters.

The estimated 4,500 delegates were searched for weapons when they registered for the convention at the Church of the Advocate, four blocks from the Temple University campus. After the phone calls, they were made to submit to frisking when they moved into rooms of the church and several other buildings where sessions were held. Black Panther organizer Eddie Carroll said Newton, whose whereabouts here were known by only a few top members of the party, was informed of the phone calls but did not speak to the persons making them.

Carroll, said several other calls were made to the Church of the Advocate, warning the church would be dynamited. Police security was inconspicuous. Few uniformed policemen could be seen in the area of the convention.

Controversial civil rights attorney William Kunstler arrived on the scene Saturday afternoon with his wife. He said he was attending the convention "only as an observer."

Newton, free under $50,000 bond while awaiting retrial in the fatal shooting of an Oakland, Calif., policeman, arrived here Friday night with Panther "Chief of Staff" David Hilliard and the party's white legal counsel, Charles Garry.

Duke Policy Letter Sent

DURHAM, N. C. (UPI)—Duke University President Terry Sanford said he sent a policy letter on the use of drugs to incoming freshmen and their parents because he didn't want the lack of an official statement to "damage the lives and careers of Duke students."

In the letter Sanford noted, "possession, use or distribution" of illegal drugs, "except for legally authorized medical purposes and scientific research" is prohibited.

The former North Carolina governor said he decided to write the letter "because I do not want the lack of a decisive official statement to be contributing cause to the damage to the lives and careers of Duke students."

"Without dwelling on the moral implications," he said, "it is sufficient to know that involvement with such drugs is illegal and can lead to severe court penalties. Also, I have seen enough examples to know that the danger to health, both mental and physical, is not inconsiderable."

Marxist Next Chile President

By MARTIN P. HOUSEMAN SANTIAGO (UPI)—Chileans reacted calmly Saturday to the prospect of the world's first freely elected Marxist government. Foreign and domestic businessmen expected the worst.

Dr. Salvador Allende, 62, a Communist-backed Marxist who has pledged to socialize Chile during his six-year term, won the three-way popular vote, it was announced Saturday morning, with 1,075,616 ballots (36.3 per cent) to 1,036,278 (34.9 per cent) for rightist Independent Jorge Alessandri, 74.

Christian Democrat Radomiro Tomic polled only slightly more than his own Populist party's strength, 824,849 (27.8 per cent). Congress, sitting as an Electoral College, must choose between Allende and Alessandri on Oct. 24. It was extremely unlikely that Congress would dare attempt to overturn the popular vote, an action that might automatically trigger violence. Constitutionally, Congress could elect the runner-up, but it has always awarded the presidency to the popular plurality winner. Besides, Alessandri said earlier he would accept only the popular vote verdict. Barring surprises, Allende will succeed Christian Democrat Eduardo Frei on Nov. 4 to become the first freely elected Marxist chief of state in the world.

Chile's army has been apolitical since 1932. Observers felt it probably would not move against Allende, unless the Marxist doctor violated the Constitution or tampered unduly with the command structure. Allende, a rotund man with a walrus mustache and a patent dislike for neckties, which he considers "antipopular and decadent," said he would ask the outgoing president to take immediate steps to halt any capital flight that might be sparked by the "people's victory."

Record Crowd For Expo '70

OSAKA, Japan (AP) — The largest number of people ever to visit any world's fair in history in a single day, 835,832, mobbed the fairgrounds of Expo '70 today, officials said.

The previous single day world record, they said, was 703,664 on a Belgian special day on July 21, 1958, at the Brussels World Exposition.

Expo '70's biggest one-day turnout had been 693,364, set on Aug. 15, also a Saturday. Fair officials said a turnout of 400,000 to 500,000 a day is usual and is enough to fill the 815-acre fair grounds near Osaka.

Expo closes its six-month run Sept. 13.

Plan Drama On Lumbees

PEMBROKE, N. C. (UPI)—The Robeson Historical Drama, Inc., begins a campaign Sunday to raise funds for the creation and presentation of a play depicting the life of the Lumbee Indians.

The group has already raised $750 and hired Paul Green of Chapel Hill and associate Randy Umberger to write the drama which will be staged outdoors similar to Green's "Lost Colony" production at Manteo.

Co-chairman of the campaign is former State Sen. Hector MacLean, the president of Southern National Bank, and English E. Jones, president of Pembroke State University.

Green is supervising the preparations for the production and Umberger is doing the research and writing. The drama is to depict the Lumbees' claim as descendants through intermarriage of the unsuccessful English settlement at Roanoke Island.

MacLean and Jones hope to enroll 1,000 persons in the Robeson Historical Drama during September by selling membership tickets at $5 each.

Driver Charged In Wreck Here

Ernest Edward Baker, 22, of Rt. 1, Winterville was charged with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident here Saturday after police investigated a traffic mishap at the intersection of Memorial Drive and Dickinson Avenue.

Officers said the Baker car collided with a vehicle operated by Thadious Sherald Cutter, 31, of 13th Street, Washington.

Police set damage for the Baker car at $25, and estimated damage for the Cutter car as $200 in the 2:27 p.m. accident.

ALL THUMBS

PORTAGE, Mich. (UPI)—An 18-year-old hitch-hiker was given a ride by two men with long hair and beards Friday night while he was walking along Center Street. Out of gratitude he offered them some free marijuana. The occupants, both undercover agents for the Kalamazoo County sheriff's office, accepted the gift and took him into custody.

Experts All Dead

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The commander of an Army bomb disposal unit says there are no "experts" in his business.

"The only experts are dead; they learned the ultimate truth when the bomb they were working on blew up," Maj. Carl R. Hitchcock, commander of the 548th Ordnance Detachment at the Presidio of San Francisco, said Friday.

Hitchcock has some 60 men in his command in eight Western states.

He has been trained to disarm anything from a homemade pipe bomb to a nuclear device, and he has trained thousands of military men, civilians and policemen in rendering a bomb harmless.

In an interview, Hitchcock said the number of bomb calls his men handle is increasing.

During 1969 the total was 964, but already in 1970 there have been 1,163 calls.

Light Damage In Fire Here

A local home suffered light damages in an early morning fire here Saturday, firemen reported.

Fire of undetermined origin caused minor and moderate damage to the attic of a home owned and occupied by Walter Perkins, 1605 Henry St., according to firefighters.

The 1:20 a.m. fire also caused smoke damage to the remainder of the wood frame structure.

An Old Problem Of Leaf Mart

It comes as a little of a surprise to us that a one week sales holiday has already been declared for flue - cured tobacco markets.

However, it is no surprise that the week's layoff comes because of the age old problem of a glut in marketing and redrying operations.

At any rate the holiday was declared by the Flue - Cured Tobacco Marketing Committee following a subcommittee report. The subcommittee heard reports that a number of buying firms had been unable to obtain sufficient labor to handle purchased tobacco on warehouse floors. There were also reports of overloaded redrying facilities and transportation problems.

The committee's action actually eliminated only three selling days next week, since Monday was a Labor Day holiday and sales on the Eastern and other belts are currently running only through Thursday.

We are sure the farmers are not happy to see the one week holiday, since they are obviously anxious to sell their tobacco as rapidly as possible. At the same time if the tobacco had continued to pile in there was the danger of weakening prices since companies are not going to buy tobacco which they cannot handle. Thus there was little alternative to the sales holiday.

Someday it can be hoped that the industry will find some formula which will pace sales to that the tobacco can be handled smoothly by the redrying plants. When this comes about the necessity for halting sales will finally come to an end.

Bit Of Reassurance In Seeing Them Alive

It has to be heart-rending and at the same time a hopeful thing for families in the United States to see their loved ones on North Vietnam pictures released to American television.

For most of these families it was the first glimpse they had had of their captured relatives in many months. While it must be agony to see them in captivity it must also be reassuring to see that they are still alive and well.

These captured young Americans are one of the great tragedies of this war and we should redouble our efforts to see that they are soon freed. The nation owes them and the loved ones all our energies in gaining their freedom.

Golda Facing Great Strains

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

JERUSALEM — Even without the presence of the right - wing Gahal party, which walked out of the government last month, Prime Minister Golda Meir's cabinet is dangerously split between hawks and doves over the U. S. Mideast peace plan and the apparent Egyptian military buildup.

Thus, the decision at a six-hour cabinet meeting on Aug. 23 not to boycott the New York talks until the Suez missile crisis was resolved followed the bitterest cabinet debate since the climactic days just before the 1967 six-day war.

Mrs. Meir, playing the role of cabinet peacemaker, voted with the majority on Aug. 23, but even had she sided with the hawks and opposed sending United Nations Ambassador Yosef Tekoah to New York with authority to begin the peace talks, she probably would have been overruled by a small majority.

Then, at last Sunday's cabinet meeting, the whole question of how to deal with the missile crisis came up again. The hard - line faction was led by Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, whose reservations about starting the talks were based far more on doubts about Soviet - Egyptian good faith than on any intrinsic reluctance to negotiate.

What agonized Dayan was his deepening fear that some cabinet ministers did not perceive the danger of the Egyptian military build-up and how, as he put it, it could make his job as defense minister impossible. Dayan won a delay in Tekoah's departure to New York, a partial reversal of the Aug. 23 decision.

That policy shift shows how precarious the balance is in Mrs. Meir's cabinet. At the heart of the cabinet torment is how best to safeguard the security of Israel, but the two sides have fundamental and conflicting definitions of "security." To the Dayan hard - liners, backed in a far more extreme way by some very hawkish reserve generals, security means only one thing — military security.

But to those who feel Israel must get on with the peace talks, led by Deputy Prime Minister Yigal Alon, the military hero of the 1948-49 war, at least as important as military security is the security of the unwritten U. S. - Israeli alliance.

No matter how correct Israel was in unmasking Egyptian violations of the Suez Canal standstill, this group of ministers argues that Israel's basic security lies in Washington. Any Israeli action which endangers that relationship, such as prolonged boycott of the peace talks, could be even more dangerous than a temporary Egyptian military advantage of uncertain dimension.

The hawks are also aware of the vital importance of the link to Washington, without which Israel could never have amassed its awesome military power. But they are willing to take the risk on the theory that, if the peace talks fail and war starts again, public opinion in the U. S. will force President Nixon to come down hard on Israel's side and open the military pipeline wide, including F-4 Phantom aircraft.

But even this risky assessment falls far short of the extreme position taken by Menahem Begin, the leader of the right - wing Gahal party, which has 26 seats in

Strength For Today

SPIRITUAL BEINGS
"In the beginning God..." Put Him there and keep Him there, and through light and darkness, good cheer and sorrow life will be found worthwhile. Living at times becomes a chore for everyone, but God never intended that living be a gloomy journey through a dark valley. The Jews were designated God's Chosen People for through them God revealed His nature and purpose. We can put money first, or pleasure first, or indulgence first, and we come to the end of a day and the end of a life with nothing in it to give real satisfaction and pride.

Putting God first and keeping Him first does not mean that one has to spend all his time at some definite type of religious activity. If we can't carry God into the work we are doing, then we are in the wrong kind of work. If a sense of the divine presence is not in our lives as we perform the most ordinary duties of life, then we can be sure that God is not put first and kept first even through a brief church service. We are spiritual beings and as such the spiritual side of life needs always to predominate. When the physical aspects of life get the upper hand we are on the road to trouble. One does not need to be a religious fanatic in order to be a religious person.

Just remember—we are primarily spiritual beings. In the beginning, God. At the end, God. All the years between, God.

Sunday Morning Notes

Your columnist is not much of a bird watcher, but a couple of weeks ago I saw a huge bird with long legs and long neck flying alongside the U. S. 13 bypass near the Memorial Drive bridge. The sight was so unusual, I slowed to take a close look. There was some skepticism around The Daily Reflector office when I described the bird to my co-workers.

However, I proved it to myself last Friday when I rode by the Fieldcrest plant on the Dail site. There in the pond beside the plant were several of the longlegged birds, apparently herons, standing in the shallow water.

Did anyone else see them? No, there was no one with me at the time.

A few years back when we slowly receiving reports that seagulls were moving into this area and feeding at the city dump and in corn fields, there was skepticism.

It soon became a common sight to see the ocean birds in this area, however. They had followed the water right up the Tar. Try as we might, though, our photographers could not get a close up picture of the gulls. Any time any of them approached, the birds flew away.

Actually Tommy Forrest did verify the herons, however. He was assigned to visit the pond area and try for a telephoto shot.

When he arrived, one of the birds was still there. As Tommy tried to sneak within picture taking distance, the heron took flight and soared. We'll try again, however.

Other Editors Say A Memorial

(Jacksonville Daily News)
The 25th anniversary of the Japanese surrender in World War II was, quite properly, much observed around the nation a few days ago.

Little notice was taken of the 25th anniversary of an event which was the sequel to the first and which was to prove to be fully as significant.

August 14, 1945, marked the ending of a war; Aug. 30, 1945, marked the beginning of the building of a peace. It was on the latter day that Gen. Douglas MacArthur landed at Atsugi air base near Tokyo.

To this one man was handed a wardevastated nation of 90 millions to do with virtually as he wished. Probably no man in history ever wielded such absolute power over so many human beings. Certainly no man ever exercised such power so wisely.

Helped by the peculiar psychology of the Japanese, who accepted conquest as resolutely as they had attempted to conquer others — MacArthur imposed sweeping reforms which revolutionized Japanese life.

He instituted a land reform program, one of the most successful ever undertaken, liberating peasants from their rural landlords and giving them their own property.

He transformed Japan's ancient divine emperor into a constitutional monarch and, for the first time, a human being.

He presented Japan with a written constitution which gave her a parliament-cabinet government patterned on European lines and established in law an array of civil liberties that went beyond even the U. S. Bill of Rights.

For instance, Japanese women were given legal equality; the right of unions was affirmed; the right of teachers to voice their opinions was recognized, and was banned except in self-defense.

Japan today, with one of the smallest defense budgets in the world, is the third largest industrial nation and is out-Yankeeing the Yankees in many global markets.

MacArthur cannot be credited with this prosperity, of course. The energetic Japanese had something to do with it.

The best memorial to MacArthur—and to the nation which produced him—lies in the fact that Japan has never amended his constitution. As UPI correspondent Robert Crabbe notes, Japan remains one of the few countries in the world whose basic laws were largely written by foreigners.

Many Americans took the 25th anniversary of the surrender as an occasion to voice repentance over our dropping of the atom bomb on Japan.

If confession is good for the soul, we ought to remind the world of what we did after bomb.

Consumers Given A Backseat

By ELMER ROESSNER
In this Age of Aquarius, this was to be the Year of the Consumer. It isn't. Despite all the marches and countermarches, florid statements by politicians, the bleeding by Consumers Union, the demands of consumer groups and the gripes of Ralph Nader himself, very little consumer legislation will be enacted.

The victimizers are too smart, or else they have been able to hire better lobbyists and press agents.

One of the most important pieces of legislation is proposals to permit class action suits. Such suits permit a plaintiff to sue a manufacturer on behalf of himself and all others similarly wronged.

Costly For Manufacturers
It would make manufacturers toe the line. If Joe Doakes sued a detergent maker because the skin came off his hands when he washed the dishes, he might collect $1,000 for his doctor bills and his suffering.

But if the law permitted him to file a class action and he won, every person suffering similar effects from the same detergent could demand similar balm. This might run into the millions.

President Nixon proposed that Congress authorize class action suits, but only after the Attorney General has won a suit against the offender.

This would sharply limit the number of class - action suits. The Attorney General of this and previous administrations have not initiated many suits on behalf of consumers.

Meanwhile, lobbyists have been saying that class - action suits are bad and even some federal judges have declared they would jam the courts. This is another way of saying there isn't enough justice to go around.

Off To The Hustings
Congress is now adjourning for the elections and after it returns, there will be the usual end-of-the-session jam, worsened this year by budget and appropriations troubles, and it is doubtful that more consumer legislation will be passed. So far Congress has passed only one bit: an extension of the cigarette labeling law. A new Congress takes over in January.

President Nixon's air pollution bill has been passed by the House and now faces time - killing revision in the Senate. His water pollution proposals are hung up in a dispute over whether should be more or less spending by the government.

Laws to increase aid for local sewage and garbage disposal may fail to pass.

Victory Of One Radical

By Encyclopaedia Britannica—UPI
"Whether you work by the piece
"Or work by the day,
"Decreasing the hours
"Increases the pay."

That jingle expresses the views of a group of "radicals" who about 100 years ago were making demands then considered outrageous.

As the nation celebrates another Labor Day this Sept. 7 it offers occasion to consider the life and hard times of one of these radicals—Ira Steward, leader of the movement for an eight-hour work day.

The battle for shorter hours, according to Encyclopedia Britannica researchers, began almost with the formation of labor unions. For years men had worked from sunup to sundown, or longer, and change came hard.

A Long Struggle
For example, in 1791 Philadelphia carpenters resolved that a day's work should not exceed 12 hours. American workers of 1850 put in an average workday of 11.5 hours. In 1860 the average was down to an 11-hour day. Three years later Steward began his then radical crusade.

Steward, born March 10, 1831, at New London, Conn., was at 19 an apprentice machinist in Boston under the 12-hour system. He began agitating for shorter hours and was fired because of his "peculiar views."

It was in the autumn of 1863, at a machinists' convention in Boston, that Steward secured passage of a resolution that, for the first time, demanded an eight-hour labor law. From that moment Steward and the eight-hour movement became one.

An Average 12-hour Day
He crusaded and campaigned and became obsessed with the idea. He lectured and badgered and, in a heavy style, wrote of the laboring man's fate, as in this description of an "average mechanic" of 100 years ago in an American city:

"His labor commences at half-past four in the morning and does not cease until half-past seven p.m. How many newspapers or books can be read? What time has he to visit or receive visits? To take baths? To write letters? ...What is his opinion good?...His life is work...He is debased by excessive toil! He is almost without hope!"

Steward preached that workers need not fear a wage reduction under an eight-hour day because a reduction of hours, if general, would actually increase wages. This doctrine was described by one historian as "nearly as revolutionary as that of Karl Marx."

Victory For Cause
Steward sought legislation, reasoning that an eight-hour law would be superior to trade union action because it would cause weaker workers to increase their wants and demand higher wages.

Other unions joined the machinists in this cause.

AND ONE MORE THING

By the year 2000, predicted Arthur Clarke, man will have ended wars, wiped out smog, cleaned up the waters, solved the population problem, developed push-button access to all news and knowledge through a global electronic library, and devised ways for humanoid machines to wait on him hand and foot.

The major problem, the British scientist and science-fiction writer told a Governor's Conference in Honolulu on the Year 2000, is that man won't have anything left to do.

Well, he can rest, can't he? - Norfolk (Va.) Virginian-Pilot

WHERE IT GOES

We are always happy to pass along information about where your tax money goes. It might even take your mind off the weather.

In fairly recent years the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has allocated $64 million to seven schools with which to establish and operate primate centers.

We are not opposed to the study of apes and their behavior. Some clues just might be found to help us understand why humans act as they do.

What one school - the University of California - did with a $465,000 chunk of its federal money was novel, to say the least. A routine inquiry by the General Accounting Office revealed that the university has used the money to buy 300 acres of land for the center, but used only 11 acres for the primate establishment.

The remaining land was used for the university's own agriculture research program not exactly primate related. Maybe now they can get a federal subsidy by agreeing not to plant anything on it. - Birmingham (Ala.) News

CONCERN FOR POWS FATE

One of the more agonizing aspects of the Vietnam war is the dread of uncertainty, of having a person one loves missing in Indochina and being unable over months or years to learn whether he is dead or alive. This grief is shared by hundreds of American families. About 1,500 servicemen have been reported missing in Southeast Asia, of whom about 500 have been confirmed as prisoners. Nothing is known as to the fate of the others and Hanoi thus far refuses to provide a list of names or any information.

Wives and mothers of some of these men have travelled to Paris and Laos to talk to North Vietnamese authorities. Their entreaties have been ignored. Further, talk of the Geneva Convention which governs the release of information as well as the humane treatment and exchange of prisoners of war also has been ignored by the Communists.

Publisher John S. Knight of the Knight Newspapers has been gathering ideas from readers on how to deal with the previous problem.

A typical answer was from a woman who wrote we should "set a date when Hanoi will release every prisoner or bombs will rain down on them." Her response is understandable. Others suggest North Vietnam may respond to a show of indignation from ordinary people in America and elsewhere. Others feel Hanoi will not be swayed by world opinion. Perhaps the variance shows how little we understand the minds of Vietnamese Communists.

President Nixon is trying a personal approach. He is sending former astronaut Frank Borman to 13 nations to discuss what can be done to break the prisoner of war deadlock.

This effort will be carried out in low key. It has the blessing of Pope Paul VI and surely carries the prayers of millions of Americans. No one knows what the response may be, but the nation as a whole must let it be known that the cause of the prisoners and their families is uppermost in the public mind. - Huntington (W. Va.) SNAP, CRACKLE, POP

There was a time when, after polishing off a particularly tedious editorial, we could lean back in the chair and crack our knuckles contentedly. But never again.

According to Tony Ullsworth, a young researcher at England's Leeds University, the cracking sound is caused by carbon dioxide gas escaping from fluid around the finger joints and "popping" under the strain. As we interpret, the crack a knuckle is really an explosion - and frankly that's kind of scary.

So, another of life's little pleasantries falls under the axe of science. Thanks a lot, Mr. Ullsworth. - Roanoke (Va.) Times

A Conservative View

We're Seeing Old Values Replaced By Change

By J. J. KILPATRICK

SCRABBLE, Va. - No matter what the almanacs say, Labor Day weekend is summer's end. Here in the Blue Ridge mountains, it is autumn's beginning also. Dark leaves are falling from the gum tree, and a cool wind brings the snarl of power saws. Men are cutting wood for winter fires.

I have been sitting on the porch, listening to the quail with one ear and to a Beethoven concerto with the other, watching the leaves and reading Alvin Toffler's "Future Shock." It is all true - shockingly true, depressingly true - what Toffler says of the thrust of change in our lifetime; but there are offsetting truths also, and it does no harm to mark them.

Toffler's thesis is sound and his stimulating book ranks among the best of the year. If the past 50,000 years of man's existence were divided into lifetimes of 62 years, he notes, we might measure man's progress in terms of 800 lifetimes. Some 650 of these lifetimes, he observes, were spent in caves.

"Only during the last seventy lifetimes has it been possible to communicate effectively from one lifetime to another - as writing made it possible to do. Only during the last six lifetimes did masses of men ever see a printed word. Only during the last four has it been possible to measure time with any precision. Only in the last two has anyone anywhere used an electric motor. And the overwhelming majority of all the material goods we use in daily life today have been developed within the present, the 800th, lifetime."

This "accelerative thrust," in Toffler's view, has impelled us into a society in which changes occur with bewildering speed - too swiftly for man to adapt to them. If we are the beneficiaries of amazing inventions, we are their victims also. And it is the pit-of-the-stomach impact of cumulative change that Toffler has termed "future shock."

If the changes were merely technological, from a kerosene lamp to a three-way bulb, few problems of adaptation would arise. But Toffler's point is, that the thrust goes deeper. What leaves us confused, half-blinded and stumbling, is a change in values.

One such value is, or was, permanence. The chair I am sitting in was hand-crafted 150 years ago by some New England artisan. He pegged it lovingly together, fitting its spokes precisely in their sockets; he meant that chair to last. Michelangelo with his chisels, Rembrandt with his brush, Beethoven with his pen - they created for the centuries.

What has become of that value? We have traded it, says Toffler, for a "throw-away culture" based upon an utterly different value - the value of transience. Paintings disintegrate, "sculpture" collapses into kindling, hit tunes leave no residue behind.

Another great value was place. Conservatives, especially, have tended to honor place - home, village, region, deep roots, old trees, familiar scenes. No more. We have become a restless people, incessantly moving, packing bags, meeting planes; we are citizens of nowhere. What are the symbols of our age? The no-return bottle, the mobile home.

Yet I cherish a notion, and offer the thought for what it may be worth, that the terrifying trends of Toffler's book are not necessarily irreversible. My own guess is that the values of permanence, stability, and place are not dead, but only stunned. They will revive. The wonders of instant communication may make it possible, indeed, for men of the 21st century to work at home. A revulsion against the temporary may create a vast market for things that endure. A society gorged upon sex may rediscover love.

If I am not mistaken, some such counter-trends already are in motion. The whole movement against pollution stems from an insistent demand to put our lakes and rivers back the way they were. A great part of the young people's rebellion is a rebellion against a faceless technology. The easy rider may be searching, in his heart, for a place to stop. Summer ends but autumn always comes along. The record player may not last, but Beethoven will.

Lessons Of The Past Applicable Today In Living Americanism

(An address to the Weldon-Halifax School staff)

By Rev. W. Donald Moore

The usual devotional by a clergyman at a school district staff meeting consists of a formal pious prayer, a reading from the scripture, and then some irrelevant remarks. This morning, however, I shall do no formal praying - because to me religion is life or it is nothing. I like the dictum of the Benedictine Monks "to labor is to pray." Therefore, in this sense every word that I utter this morning is prayer. The usual pious prayers uttered by clergymen during school meetings might be all right for prayer meetings, but aren't worth a darn for life's realities and "bear meetings" - and there is the possibility that there may be some "bear meetings" in this school system this year.

May I indulge your receptivity to a definition of education by the late Phillip Weaver who was Superintendent of the Greensboro City School System. With a chuckle Mr. Weaver told me that he used this definition right often on the members of his staff.

Education is the incomprehensible into the ignorant by the incompetent. This morning I can agree with Phillip Weaver's definition of education with one exception. The exception lies in the word "incompetent", because I believe that the leadership, staff and teachers of the Weldon-Halifax School System are the most well trained, most responsible and most competent group of educators that we have had. Considering your degree of competency and ability, I need not tell you that we may be in for a year that will "try men's souls." It will not be easy - There will be problems - But I am confident that if we work together we can meet the obstacles that might turn mold hills into mountains if mismanaged.

In my later years I have become profoundly interested in the underlying meanings of children's literature. The "Wizard of Oz" is one example, but for this morning's purposes let's take the character Humpty Dumpty. Humpty Dumpty was a character who sat on a wall. He was the man in the middle. He was the man who talked out of both sides of his mouth at the same time. He was the man without commitment, dedication and adherence to principle. He was a man who could not make decisions and abide by them. Because of his fence straddling, like Adam and Eve (or John and Mary if you choose) - he took a great fall - and as a result "all the king's horses and all the king's men" - and even God himself - "couldn't put Humpty Dumpty back together again." In the words of the great psychoanalyst Erich Fromm, he had "escaped and abide by them his self destruction was eminent. T.S. Eliot's "Prufrock" is another example.

As I see it in 1970 there is no room in the Weldon-Halifax School System for Humpty Dumpty. To me education, psychology, philosophy, religion, politics and life are one. As I have said to my Bishop that when the time came that I could not remain fundamentally committed to the principles of my church, I would not stand aside, criticize, gossip - and maliciously slander, but I would have guts enough to get the hell out of the church. This is not to say that I agree with everything in my church, but whatever criticisms I have are made directly to the proper authorities and my intent is to renew, build up, improve or help, and not to hurt.

I feel that this same analogy should apply to you in this school system. If you are going to straddle the fence; if you are not committed to public education; if you are going to stand off and do nothing but criticize; for God sake have guts enough to get out of public education now. The times are just that crucial.

It is of profound significance that I speak to you in hysterical Halifax (Freudian slip - two persons I can't get rid of and they are Freud and God - So, let's try again). It is of profound significance that I speak to you in historical Halifax which takes great pride in the fact that the famous "Halifax Resolves" which preceded the Declaration of Independence from April 12 to July 4, 1776 were signed here. The author of that revolutionary document was the immortal, brilliant, free-thinking, religious liberal Thomas Jefferson.

I began my research on the Halifax Resolves over two years ago when I walked into Constitution House in Halifax and viewed the leather bound volumes of Hobbs, Locke, Hume, Voltaire and Rousseau and almost wept as I could not help but feel that we were celebrating something whose background we did not fully understand. My research led me through these philosophers and into North Carolina by way of Dr. Hugh Lefler, the North Carolina historian, at the University and your own Halifax County history. What are my findings?

Those of us who today rally so loudly for "Americanism" (Whatever that is Spanish, Negro, Irish, Jewish, Italian Americans) need to realize that the Halifax Resolves, the Declaration of Independence and finally the Constitution were primarily a synthesis of great European philosophers and the Biblical faith. As I viewed those leather bound volumes, I could imagine Wiley Jones and his associates sitting in the Eagle Tavern enjoying their ale, discussing Rousseau, Locke, Hume, Hobbs and theories of government. The Eagle Tavern, according to the state historical marker here, a center of social and political activity, was visited during those revolutionary times by such famous men as President George Washington and the French General Lafayette. I could not help but chuckle with Congressman L. H. Fountain on Monday during his visit to Halifax that Halifax had not been visited by such famous men since we had ale by the drink. The Congressman chuckled back "are you sure it was ale?" Well, it wasn't necessarily just ale as George Washington, Lafayette, Wiley Jones and other eminent of the revolution thought no more of entering the Eagle Tavern and drinking an alcoholic beverage than you and I would think of drinking a coca cola at the service station. Indeed, something has happened when our present state senator prefers a continuation of a system which by implication requires that "a man must buy a drunk to get a drink."

We need to emphasize and re-emphasize that the men who wrote those declarations were children of The Enlightenment. Prior to this time there was never any indication that any people had natural, inalienable, or rights to revolution. The philosophical synthesis is easy to see. The philosophy of Hobbs, who saw man as innately evil, found its expression in a man like Alexander Hamilton who wanted a strong central government to keep man pushed down. There were firebrand radicals such as Thomas Paine who would follow the philosophy of the French philosopher Jean Jacques Rousseau. But most of all it was the English philosopher John Locke who influenced our Declaration of Independence. The English literature of the 17th and 18th centuries is steeped in the philosophy of the natural rights of man. The Americans did not borrow it, they inherited it. The lineage is direct: Jefferson copied Locke and Locke copied Hooker. We ought to know more about Richard Hooker. He was a lawyer and a Bishop of the Church of England. He wrote The Laws of Ecclesiastical Polity from which Locke and Jefferson drew their thought.

Locke and Jefferson also drew upon Montesquieu and Voltaire. In political theory and in political practice the American Revolution drew its inspiration from the parliamentary struggle of the 17th century.

The right of man to revolution, and the right of man to natural and inalienable rights is never found in any philosopher prior to The Enlightenment. It is not found in Luther; it is not found in Calvin, nor Aquinas, nor Augustine, nor any of the classical Greek philosophers. The right of revolution is only hinged at in the Holy Scriptures and there both positions are found, each depending upon the situation. St. Paul wrote in one situation "let every man be subject to the governing powers." In the 29th verse of the 5th Chapter of Acts St. Peter declares in another situation "we must obey God and not man." Here then, at Halifax in 1776 were men who were saying in effect, "we must obey God and not man."

The men who designed the government of the United States related their spiritual beliefs to political action.

which will be sounded by most GOP candidates.

One is taxation. Republicans in the 1969 session generally took the position that new taxes proposed by Governor Bob Scott and enacted by the Democrat - controlled legislature were not needed. the 120 member Knesset. Begin, who opposes withdrawal from lands captured in 1967, predicted to us that the several religious parties (which have 18 seats in the Knesset) would follow him out of the government if Mrs. Meir shows the slightest weakness in the New York negotiations.

Should that happen, Mrs. Meir's majority would become dangerously thin, so thin it might depend on the votes of a handful of Arabs and Arab sympathizers in the Knesset. No government so fragilely based could last.

That is the measure of the present political crisis.

And to fully cover the bird scene we noted that flocks of birds settled on the property between Reade Street and Town Creek after the redeveloped land was seeded.

Our Daily Reflector bird watchers debated for a time just what they were. Some thought that they were sea gulls which had made their way up the river. Closer examination revealed, however, that they were just ordinary courthouse type pigeons.

So goes the bird scene.

A Ghost At The Democratic Luau: Who's For 1972 Campaign?

By GEORGE BRYANT, JR.

Even from this distance, an unwanted shadow could be detected hovering over Governor Bob Scott's feast for North Carolina Democrats down at Wrightsville Beach.

The ghost at the luau was the very real prospect that 1972 will again produce a Democratic presidential nominee which the Southern wing-of-the party will find difficult, maybe even impossible, to swallow.

It was not the purpose of the Labor Day weekend gathering to get down to any serious business of politics some two years hence. Rather, the object was to try to bring about a little more harmony in state ranks by healing some of the wounds, especially in the East, left by the recent action of the party convention which adopted a platform which is too liberal for many.

But even in advance of the beach weekend, word had been passed that the featured speaker, second-term governor of Louisiana John J. McKeithen, wanted to do a little feeling out on how North Carolina Democrats view the 1972 Presidential outlook.

There is no doubt that Governor McKeithen came with a fairly certain knowledge of the sentiment he would encounter. Like North Carolina, Louisiana no longer can be considered a sure thing for just whoever the Democratic convention may pick for the top of the ticket.

Right now, it can be said with considerable certainty that none of the most-mentioned possibilities set the woods on fire with enthusiasm below the Mason-Dixon line. What's more, there is nothing in sight at this time which promises a change in the situation.

Hubert Humphrey will have a new lease on his political life if he wins a return to the Senate from his home state. He may well consider this something of a local vindication, at it will be. But he can't count on this to win him many delegates to the next convention and certainly not in the South.

Senator Ted Kennedy seems certain to hold his Senate seat. But his unfortunate accident which resulted in the drowning of a young woman is proving harder to overcome, nationally, than many of his backers expected. In Washington the feeling is strong that Kennedy is out of the 1972 picture. But in Kennedy, as in Humphrey, most Southern leaders have seen little they could support anyhow.

Senator Edmund Muskie of Maine, the vice presidential candidate on the 1968 ticket with Humphrey, is being given credit by both Democratic and Republicans for playing a pretty smart game, aiming at 1972. On most issues, he stands a bit to the right of liberals Humphrey and Kennedy. And it is hard at this time to pin and "anti South" tag on him.

There can be no doubt that Humphrey, Kennedy and Muskie came in for their fair shares of the discussion at Wrightsville Beach. But there is another Senator who may well have come in for much more attention in the talking, not because he is seen as a new hope for the South, but because he is a new threat.

That Senator is Brich Bayh of Indiana. There is a real prospect that before 1972 rolls around he will emerge as the candidate of the big unions which today constitute the financial backbone of the Democratic party. The thought of having a man of their "own" at the head of the Democratic ticket, rather than just one who owes them a big debt, has strong appeal to the union chiefs.

It was Bayh who served as ax man for labor, racial and leftist groups in knocking off two nominations of Southerners by President Nixon for the Supreme Court. The campaigns against the elevation of Judges Clement H. Haynesworth, Jr., of South Carolina, and G. Harrold Carswell, of Florida, was headed in the Senate by Bayh.

While Bayh denies that he is anti-South, there is no question about his fronting for forces that are anti-South. Bayh, like the other Senators, has made no announcement. But those who know him well see him as the union contender.

Obviously, the party faithful at the Wrightsville shindig found the seafood much more to their liking than anything that could be offered them on the menu of 1972 Democratic presidential politics.

Expectant Parents Enthused Over Course

STUDENT NURSE . . . Miss Diane Aldridge Surlis III demonstrates bottle technique to Mr. and Mrs. J. B.

By BETTY CASEY
"I'm recommending the 'Preparation for Parenthood' course to friends who are starting a family," declared C. C. Rowe whose wife, Sandra, recently presented him with a daughter, Alissa Shannon.

Another young father said, "Attending the course with my wife and other expectant couples made the entire event very real to me — made me feel more a part of 'the proceedings.'"

These new fathers were referring to a 10-session, non-credit evening course which they attended at East Carolina University last spring, along with their wives and other "expectant" couples. Couples, 10 in all, who were each anticipating the happy and exciting but somewhat mysterious and scary prospect of becoming

"first-time" parents. All but one of the couples have since welcomed their "bundles from heaven."

Instructors for this course, officially called "Preparation for Parenthood" and taught by junior level nursing students, are Mrs. Therese Lawler, B.S. and Mrs. Lona Ratcliffe B.S., M.N. The instructors are registered nurses who teach in the ECU School of Nursing, and — both are slim, attractive mothers themselves. Mrs. Ratcliffe has one child and Mrs. Lawler has four.

The course is designed for expectant couples desiring a better understanding of the maternity cycle, the newborn, and its care. It dispels misinformation and assists both husband and wife in establishing confidence in their roles as parents. The study provides information about the characteristics of the newborn, home preparation, and infant care.

Use of a life-sized baby mannequin, whom someone nicknamed "Baby-doll," gives the students an opportunity to practice correct methods of baby-bathing, diapering, holding, feeding and cuddling.

Popular Features
"Popular features of the course," explained Mrs. Lawler, "includes a fashion show of maternity garments, and exercise class for the mothers-to-be, aimed at relaxing and strengthening the muscles used during labor, and a tour of the hospital."

"For some," Mrs. Ratcliffe pointed out, "it was their first visit to the hospital." A new father, J. B. Surlis III said, "The tour of the hospital and the advance step by step knowledge of what labor would be like for my wife Julie, when our son, J.B. IV, arrived this summer, prepared me for my role in helping and encouraging her."

The expectant mothers preparing "to deliver the goods" so to speak, are most enthusiastic about the course also.

"It was reassuring to me," said one pregnant wife, "to compare notes with others who were undergoing the same new physical and emotional experiences."

Near the end of the course, another woman said, "Before the class started I was terrified, now I feel so confident that I can handle everything that I'm not worrying too much about making it to the hospital in time." Training in the basic skills involved in the birth process in this case certainly accomplished the claims of its teachers that, "knowledge alleviates fear."

The couples studied together, compared notes on weight gain, progress on nursery furnishing and laughed together over first attempts to bathe and diaper "Baby-doll." Some of the questions brought up by the couples and answered in class were:

"How much do maternity undergarments cost?"
"Is the use of seat belts recommended for pregnant women?"

"How late in pregnancy may I play golf?"
"About drinking while pregnant — is it bad for the baby?"

"Why is swimming restricted during the last months?"
"Are habits developed in-utero retained? For instance — do very active babies come on as active individuals after birth?"

"What are some good non-fattening snack foods?"
"What is the RH factor?"
"How long will it take me to get my figure back?"
"Will my wife still have time for me — after the baby comes?"

New Course
Both husband and wife are urged to attend, although either may come alone, to the classes which utilize lectures, discussions, audio-visual demonstrations, and practice sessions.

Meetings for the fall session will be held 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., Tuesdays, Sept. 22 through Nov. 24 at the School of Nursing, Room 101 and is now taking registrants. There is a fee of $8 per person or $10 for both husband and wife — and expectant mothers will be required to provide a medical clearance from their physician.

Although the course is open to any expectant parents, local doctors especially recommend the course to first-time parents-to-be. "The expectant parent program offered by the nursing school," said Dr. Edgar Douglas, "gives helpful basic preparation to these young couples, not only for the birth event itself, but for their entire role as young parents."

"Our study," said Mrs. Ratcliffe, "covers the first year of life. It emphasizes both the physical and emotional — the love, trust and security which needs to be developed between the baby and his parents."

This includes discussions of the many adjustments which must be made by a carefree young couple in order to accommodate and care for the third dimension created in their home by the addition of a helpless and demanding, but precious and lovable first baby.

Miss Brenda Creech Is Bride

On Saturday at 5:00 p.m., Miss Brenda Joye Creech became the bride of Bruce Wellington Gray in a ceremony solemnized in St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

The Rev. Lawrence Patrick Houston officiated at the double ring ceremony. Dr. Robert E. Irwin presented a program of wedding music.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lee Creech of Rt. 5, Greenville, was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal length white chantilly lace gown styled with a silhouette A-line skirt and full bishop sleeves. Sequins trimmed the empire bodice and high neckline. The attached cathedral train featured panels of chantilly lace and organza.

Her bouffant illusion veil was attached to a tiara shaped headpiece of organza roses and orange blossoms. She carried a white prayerbook nestled in white French-knot carnations centered with an orchid.

The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Wellington B. Gray of Greenville.

Miss Naomi Heath of Greenville was maid of honor. She wore a formal length apple green organza gown styled with long sheer sleeves. Matching apple green satin trimmed the mandarin collar, empire waistband and cuffs. Satin buttons accented the bodice front. She wore a headpiece of apple green taffeta loops with green illusion veil.

Bridesmaids were Nancy Ensor and Sally Hardee of Greenville, Debbie McLendon of Stow, Ohio, and Vicki Jones of Mobile, Ala., both cousins of the bridegroom.

The bridesmaids wore gowns styled identical to the honor attendant in orange organza with orange satin trim and headpieces of orange loops with veils.

The attendants carried yellow gold chrysanthemums pom-poms and yellow daisy chrysanthemums in a cascade form with yellow streamers.

The father of the bridegroom served as best man. Ushers were Ronnie Nett, Brian Gray, brother of the bridegroom, Ricky Creech, brother of the bride, all of Greenville and James Creech of Kinston, uncle of the bride.

The mother of the bride wore a rose pink linen coat and dress ensemble trimmed in Venise lace. She wore a rose pink bow headpiece with matching illusion veil.

The mother of the bridegroom selected a mint green coat and dress ensemble of silk worsted with jeweled neckline. Both mothers wore white orchids.

Mrs. Lizzie Moore of Greenville, grandmother of the bride, wore a blue linen coat and dress trimmed with blue braid on the front of the dress and sleeves. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Mrs. Clara K. Wallace of Akron, Ohio, and Mobile, Ala., grandmother of the bridegroom, chose a dress of aqua silk shantung with jeweled neckline and matching accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

For a wedding trip to the mountains of North Carolina and Tennessee, the bride wore a white and navy knit ensemble with navy accessories and the orchid lifted from her bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of J. H. Rose High School and was employed by Dr. James Williamson. She plans to continue her education at Central Piedmont College, Charlotte.

The bridegroom is a graduate of J. H. Rose High School and Pitt Technical Institute. He is presently associated by A. G. Odell Jr. and Associates, Charlotte.

The couple will live in Charlotte.

Reception Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was given by the bride's parents at the church.

The refreshment table was covered with a white lace cloth and centered with a bouquet of yellow and white flowers.

Mrs. M. E. Cavendish served the four tiered cake and punch was poured by Mrs. Philip Coleman.

Miss Sue Hagan of Greenville presided at the church register and Miss Barbara Narrison presided at the reception register.

Good-byes were said by Malcolm Gray of Norwalk, Conn., uncle of the bridegroom and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McLendon of Stow, Ohio, aunt and uncle of the bridegroom.

On Friday night, Dr. and Mrs. Wellington Gray, parents of the bridegroom, entertained at a rehearsal dinner at the Candlewick Inn. Guests included the wedding party and out-of-town guests.

A rehearsal party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Flanagan Friday evening. The wedding party and out-of-town guests were invited. Hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Flanagan, Mrs. Dorothy Johnson, Mrs. Margaret Greene, Miss Lela B. Stancill and Mr. and Mrs. Angus Blue.

On Thursday night the bridesmaids were honored at a party by W. W. Brickhouse and Joe Garris.

Boss' Friendship May Lead To Divorce

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I don't have a problem, but my boss' wife does. I am a widow with small children and have a part-time secretarial job to supplement my income. We have a small office, my boss and I. It is only natural that we go to lunch together, sometimes to my place which is close to the office, or to a little restaurant nearby. My boss' wife cannot understand that there is nothing wrong with it.

I feel that I need some adult company in my life, occasionally, just as a friend.

I know his wife is jealous, and I am afraid it might break up their marriage, as it is on shaky ground right now. Please say something to make her see how wrong she is, and hurry before it's too late.

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: If your boss' marriage is on "shaky ground" right now, I am not sure his wife is "wrong." I can't fault you for wanting some "adult company" in your life. Just be sure you don't go fishing off somebody else's dock.

DEAR ABBY: There is an attractive young mother in our church who steals money from the purses of her friends and those in attendance at meetings where she can do so. She has been caught in the act several times. The family is not poor and this has become a real problem to those in our community.

Our minister refuses to counsel with her, and we can't keep watching her whenever she is at church or in our homes. Please keep our names and town confidential.

LONE STAR STATE

DEAR LONE: You have options: Ask your minister again to talk to her. If he still refuses, someone else should. (She could be a kleptomaniac and in need of treatment.) Eliminate her from the group whenever possible. Warn those who may not know about her and "remind" those who do. Watch your purses when she's around.

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of a 19-year-old daughter. Like so many girls in college, no one can tell her a thing.

Have times changed so much that a girl can accept expensive gifts and costly transportation from a young man she doesn't love, and has no intention of marrying? She excuses it with, "Oh, he knows how I feel about him. I've told him."

Back in neolithic times, such girls were called "gold diggers." Is this acceptable now? The young man cares for her deeply.

ANOTHER "WHERE HAVE I FAILED?" MOTHER

DEAR "WHERE?": You haven't "failed" anywhere. Your daughter has "failed" to realize that by accepting expensive gifts from a man for whom she cares nothing, even tho she "tells" him the truth, she's cheapening herself.

DEAR ABBY: I have a son I'll call Dickie, 10, and a daughter, 8, and all of a sudden something has become a constant point of argument over which my husband and I have had harsh words.

Dickie has become quite modest about being seen by any member of the family in anything but complete dress. I've gone along with this as I believe everyone should have privacy while dressing, if they want it.

My husband says that when he and Dickie go swimming with their "V" group, the boy won't even change clothes in front of the boys, and attempts to cover himself.

My husband and I don't believe in jumping into the closet if one of the children pops in while we're dressing, neither are we exhibitionists.

Abby, please tell me if our son is normal or not. My husband thinks maybe we ought to take him to a doctor.

WORRIED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I certainly wouldn't rush him to a doctor from what you've told me in your letter. It's "normal" for some children to be more shy about their bodies than others. Don't make Dickie feel "ashamed" of his shyness. But do watch him for other signs of inhibitions as he matures.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Less Shut-Eye Is Predicted

CHICAGO (UPI) — Parents who'd like their children to get to bed earlier and sleep later are fighting a losing battle, says one mattress manufacturer.

Spring Air's experts predict that by the end of the 20th century, children (and adults too) may be getting along on as little as three hours sleep a night and thriving. The prediction is based on the growing endurance of humans, more reasons for staying awake, and the long-term trend of human evolution.

Young-Martin Vows Exchanged Couple Says Vows In Saturday Ceremony

MRS. CLAIBORNE CLARK YOUNG II

On The Young Side

By MARGARET STEVENS

Rose High students begin their second full week of school tomorrow and clubs and activities are now getting underway.

Varsity cheerleaders served dinner to the varsity football team Thursday after practice. The first varsity football game was played Friday night in Ficklen Stadium with the Rose Rampants meeting the Washington Pam Pack.

The first school-wide assembly at Rose met Aug. 26, the first day of school, at 10 o'clock. Student body president Ernest Adams made the introductions, and new assistant principal Rev. Clarence Gray gave the invocation. Principal Robert Allgood spoke of plans for the upcoming school year.

Spirit of '71, the Rose High pep club, had its organizational meeting Wednesday afternoon with about 100 students present. Senior Janet Whitehurst was elected president of the group. Other officers will be chosen at a future meeting.

Rampants Chosen

Four junior girls have been chosen to act as Rampants to aid the cheerleaders in promoting school spirit. These girls will dress up as Rampants for each athletic event. The Rampants will be Melinda Deyton, Lisa Glidewell, Marti Monroe, and Mary Margaret Morton.

Coach Bud Phillips introduced the Rose football team for this year and spoke of future plans at a Pep Rally Friday. The Varsity cheerleaders led the school in team yells.

Miss Kathleen Flanagan and Mrs. Alice Chapman, girls' physical education instructors, have initiated a new program for their classes this year.

Every six weeks each class will be able to choose between two activities for the marking period. Juniors may choose between a team sport and a lifetime activity.

Both "Rampant Lines," Rose newspaper, and the "Visa" Rose yearbook, are now conducting ad drives for their publications.

The "Visa" has presently sold $825 in ads, though they are trying to surpass last year's total of $1400 sold in ads.

"Visa" editor Nancy Clemens says the ads this year are open to any club that would like to support the annual. The group may be represented with a picture or other design of their choice.

Juniors may order class rings Thursday or Friday of this week. A $10 deposit will be required on the rings.

School Pictures

School pictures will be taken Sept. 15 during study halls, and before and after school.

Representatives for the Student Government Association were elected in homerooms Wednesday. The first SGA meeting will be sometime this week.

Ernest Adams, president of the Rose High SGA says,

Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church was the setting of a formal candlelight ceremony at five o'clock Saturday when Miss Miriam Guthrie Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Carlyle Martin of Greenville, became the bride of Claiborne Clark Young II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wharton Young of Burlington.

The Rev. Troy J. Barrett, pastor of the bride, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Paul A. Toll, organist, rendered a program of nuptial music. Dr. O. M. Derryberry of Signal Mountain, Tenn., uncle of the bride, sang "I'll Walk Beside You," and "The Lord's Prayer."

On the altar were sweeping arrangements of white gladioli, fujii mums and tuberose. Coronet and spiral candelabra with tall standards of emerald greenery flanked the altar. The couple knelt on a profile prie-dieu for the closing prayer and benediction. Marking family pews were bridal satin and greenery.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in a formal length dress of silk faced peau de soie and re-embroidered alencon lace. The gown, fashioned with an empire waist, colonial neckline and bishop sleeves, was encrusted with seed pearls and appliques of alencon lace.

Her imported silk mantilla fell from a Spanish crown and was outlined and accented with appliques of re-embroidered alencon lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of phalaenopsis and cattleya orchids accented with a touch of ivy leaves tied with bridal satin. She wore a sixpence in her shoe, a gift of the bridegroom's mother.

Miss Elizabeth Lynne Stallings of Danville, Va., served as maid of honor. She wore a long gown of romance blue chiffon, trimmed with matching Venise lace entwined with satin ribbon. Her gown was fashioned Rose Rampants will play the second game of the season Friday night when they meet Raleigh Sanderson. The game will be played in Raleigh.

Opening of dove season Sept. 2 at noon was enjoyed by many Rose High boys. Seen carrying guns were Drew Rumbley, Bill Whiteford, Randy Batts, Roaford Garrett, Mitchell Cobb, Bubba Rawl, Coach Dave Bumgarner, Mike Stephenson, Mark Miller, Rob Whitley and Jimmy Paige.

A cookout honoring newcomers Jean Trevathan was given by Sue Trevathan last Sunday at Bath.

Those attending were Jan Durham, Sally Boyette, Peggy Weimer, Laura Ebbs, Sandy Downing, Mickey Jones, Annie Young Clark, Melinda Deyton, Debbie Dausmann, Val Hooper, Lynne Petterson, Jackie Welch, Michelle Simko, Margaret Stevens, Josie Rawl, Chip East, Morti Marti Monroe, Helen Moseley, and Vicky Vultor.

Miss Deborah Moore and Miss Susan Moore, cousins of the bride, and Miss Doris Monroe, all of Charlotte assisted in serving.

Good-byes were said to Mr. and Mrs. W.Z. Morton Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Edwards.

Assisting in receiving throughout the club were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Alford, Mr. and Mrs. John Biggs, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Brody, Mr. and Mrs. W.C. Clark Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Lacy Harrell, Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Kittrell Jr.

AYDEN — The wedding of Miss Berniece Braxton and LeRoy Corbett Jr. was solemnized in the Liberty Free Will Baptist Church on Friday at 8:00 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernice Braxton of Ayden, and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest LeRoy Corbett Sr. of Bell Arthur.

Presenting a program of wedding music was Mrs. Roy L. Turnage Jr., organist, and Miss Sue Gaskins, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a dress of white peau d'ange lace fashioned with a high neckline, modified empire bodice, A-line skirt with accent of silk organza, silk-covered buttons to the hemline and long traditional sleeves.

She wore a matching mantilla with a border of peau d'ange lace mounted on a small cap. She carried a prayerbook bouquet of a cattleya orchid with streamers.

Mrs. Bobby Teal, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Miss

MRS. LEROY CORBETT JR.

Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Powell, Judge and Mrs. J.W.H. Roberts, Dr. and Mrs. James Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Snell, Mr. and Mrs. Mack Stocks, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. William Watson.

For a wedding trip to an unannounced destination, the bride changed to a beige and white silk suit with matching accessories and an orchid lifted from her wedding bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. The bridegroom attended Duke University, Elon College, and is a graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Upon returning from their wedding trip, the couple will be at home in Raleigh.

The rehearsal dinner, held at Brook Valley Country Club, was given by Mr. and Mrs. P.E. Guthrie of Pineville, Ky., aunt and uncle of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. W.M. Moneymaker of Knoxville, Tenn., aunt and uncle of the bride, and Dr. and Mrs. W.N. Bennett of Louisville, Ky., cousins of the bride.

The wedding breakfast was held at the Candlewick Inn for the wedding party and out-of-town guests by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth W. Young, parents of the bridegroom, William Young, brother of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Reid Brawley, aunt and uncle of the bridegroom, and Claiborne Sellars Young, cousin of the bridegroom, all of Burlington.

Mrs. Stokes Entertained

Mrs. Roy Stokes was honored at a house warming shower Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Leon R. Hardee.

Mrs. Karl Hardee was co-hostess.

The honoree was presented a white carnation corsage.

The refreshment table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of white snapdragons with yellow candles. Mrs. Linwood Branch, granddaughter, poured punch.

Approximately 500 guests were present for the event.

Woman Crime Reporter Travels In Spain To Write 'El Caso'

By HELEN GIBSON
MADRID (UPI) — The tiny blonde woman in the go-go lace dress leaned back and puffed her pipe.

"I'm neither taken aback nor afraid any longer," she said. I don't think anything can ever disgust me again."

It is hardly surprising. For 13 years, Margarita Landi has carved herself a career in that male bastion of tough professions—crime reporting.

In a country of traditionalist attitudes where women are concerned, this zealous diminutive blonde has won friendship with the police, and readers, rich and poor alike.

High society calls her "Margarita" and at its parties besiege her for all the news not fit to print in her latest murder story.

Police affectionately have named her "sub-inspector Pedrito" (little Pedro) and let her interview their most notorious prisoners.

And when the black sports car zips to the scene of some remote village crime, the inhabitants simply say "La Landi is here."

Margarita Landi took up pipe smoking because she liked it, but turned to journalism because she had no other alternative.

She was left a widow with a small son to support. So she started to write. Now she wouldn't do anything else.

"I've been enslaved by the whole business," she said between sips of Scotch.

After her first crime story about an old woman and some macabre goings-on in a cemetery, Margarita Landi never looked back. She dropped her fashion and high society reporting like hot bricks. She started to travel the ends of Spain for the weekly "El Caso", covering the latest clubbing, shooting or poisoning.

"What makes me laugh is that everyone denies they read 'El Caso,'" Miss Landi said, her brown eyes sparkling and giant silver earrings swinging emphatically. "They say only servant girls and hall porters read it, but I know for a fact that several of our most aristocratic families take it to their breakfast tables."

"El Caso" is Spain's version of the pulp crime magazines in the United States. It probably lacks some of their zest, however, since a Catholic priest and a lawyer pay a special visit to censor each weekly edition.

Thus, writing for the weekly demands a kill for innuendo. A recent murder case involved a jealous father who killed his daughter when he suspected she had a boyfriend. The reason for the father's violent reaction was an alleged incestuous relationship with his daughter. Margarita Landi had to convey this murder motive to her readers without ever spelling out incest.

With 700 or more case behind her, this mother of a 28-year old merchant mariner confided it is often the criminal's family that saddens her most in her work.

"If a father or son has committed a crime, the family is not only desperately sad but also humiliated, terrified and disbelieving that one of their its could do such a thing," she said.

She has found that crime in Spain is as regional as the food.

In rainy, northern Galicia, where strange plants grow wild in the wet hills, poisoning is a common form of murder. Here the farms are minute. Since the law demands a father divide his property equally among his sons, they get tinner and the temptations to kill for extra acreage greater. And, in remote villages, a more sinister motive is fear of the evil eye, for this is the land of witches or "meigas."

On the other hand, in neighboring Asturias, killings are quick, passionate affairs with the nearest weapons at hand.

North of Barcelona lies Catalan country and here brooding, Sicilian-style family feuds trigger murder. But, among the country Basques, Miss Landi said, assassinations are rare affairs.

The Madrid-born journalist's favorite reading is, of course, detective novels. The bookshelves in her neat modern flat are filled with authors such as Simonon, Agatha Christie, the odd book on vampires or witches and one on death in the name of the law.

The latter greatly interested Miss Landi.

"Terrible killings have been done in the name of justice and religion," she said. "To me, the machinery of the death sentence is a far more ghastly killing than any murder can be, aside, of course, from the pre-meditated, slow-poisoning type. The agony of the condemned man is surely never justified. A murderer should die as he killed in the Bible tradition of an eye for an eye."

Margarita Landi, who would have been a detective if Spain allowed female policemen, has finished a novel and an anthology on witches. She is writing another novel, but reflected:

"I have found that the elegant and distinguished are immoral, the lower classes amoral and the middle-classes hypocrites. I'm putting it all in a book."

"But really, I am just a journalist. Life is far more interesting and complex than any story I can ever imagine."

On The Local Scene by Rosalie Trotman

"A lot of people think that being an airline hostess is an all glamor job. I agree, there are glamorous moments but we work hard," said Pace Swindell of Greenville.

Pace has been a hostess with Trans World Airlines for seven months. She graduated in March from Breech Training Academy, Kansas City, Mo., which qualified her as a TWA hostess.

During her five weeks of training, she had courses in such areas as safety, personal grooming, meal service, aircraft equipment, basic first aid and passenger psychology.

Based now in New York City, Pace flies to all parts of the United States and within the next two-three months will probably start flying worldwide. She likes her career because its "not an 8-5 job." "You see many different places, meet all types of people and it's very exciting," said Pace.

"The main thing we are on planes for is safety of passengers. We fill many roles — if a passenger is lonely, we talk to them, if they are first time passengers, we reassure them. They look to us for reassurance and guidance.

"Hostesses are highly trained to consider the safety of passengers first. We are constantly on the alert to this fact," she added.

"One thing TWA is very strict about is weight — both while in training and then on the job. Also, the pay is not as glamorous as some people might think.

"There is no age discrimination. We have hostesses in their 50s or 60s. You can be either single or married but without dependents," she remarked. "Being an airline hostess affords a great opportunity to travel and see other parts of the world. A lot of my passengers have commented on how pretty the state of North Carolina is and this really gives me a proud feeling," she concluded.

Pace's parents are Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Swindell.

The wedding of Judy Van Dyke and Eddie Egg will take place in October in Germany where he is serving as a lieutenant with the United States Army.

Judy attended Salem College for two years and graduated with a B.S. degree in nursing from UNCC. She made her debut at the 1966 Terpsichorean Club Ball in Raleigh.

Her fiancé graduated from The Citadel and the couple met in Dallas, Tex. where Judy was a staff nurse at Baylor University Medical Center and Eddie was stationed at Fort Walters near Fort.

The wedding will take place at the post chapel in Sweinfurt, Germany.

Cuna Indians Design Molas For Home, Abroad

By WILLIAM F. NICHOLSON
Associated Press Writer

PANAMA CITY (AP) — For thousands of years, the tiny Cuna Indian women inhabiting the San Blas Islands off Panama, have been making molas—panels of intricately-designed cut-outs of colorful cloth—for blouses.

Now, the molas are finding their way into art collections and a folk art has become a big business.

The molas are rectangular in shape and are created by a unique reverse applique process. Normal applique work begins with a piece of cloth. Then, other pieces are sewn on to make a design.

The Cuna women place several differently colored cloth panels on top of each other. Then they cut out designs, beginning with the top layer, and work down. They stitch the remaining pieces together as they go along. Each cut reveals the color of the cloth panel underneath. Two molas, with the addition of sleeves and a collar, make a blouse.

The seemingly abstract patterns portray religious themes as well as the people and animals that inhabit the 365 islands of the San Blas chain. Some contemporary subjects also pop up and one local collection has a mola depicting a helicopter in flight.

Nobody is sure how the Cuna Indians, a friendly people who rarely reach 5 feet in height, started their mola making, but some of the intricate designs on the panels are similar to those found on the coins minted thousands of years before Christ in the Euphrates Valley.

Circulation of the molas was pretty much limited to the Panama area until about two years ago when they were exhibited at the Center for Inter-American Relations in New York City.

John Canaday, art critic for The New York Times, saw the exhibition and wrote: "What I don't quite understand is how this material can have remained undiscovered or at least unexploited, during the 40 or 50 years during which so many so-called primitive arts, including the sculpture of tribal African have been taken away from the anthropologists by the estheticians."

He needn't have worried. Depending on its quality, a mola can still be purchased for about $2.50 in the islands, but they now fetch $25 to $30 in the states.

Dealers regularly comb the islands, which are accessible only by chartered plane or boat, to buy up molas for resale, with some picking up 1,000 at a time.

Because the molas have been traditionally hand-sewn, a good one requires several weeks of painstaking work, so production is limited. But the Indians, knowing a good thing when they see it are keeping busy.

SUNDAY SUPPER

Cornstarch helps to make this spongecake tender and moist.

Fish Chowder Crusty Rolls Salad Bowl

ORANGE-BANANA SPONGECAKE

7 large eggs, separated
1 cup sugar

1/4 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon grated orange rind

1 cup mashed rip banana
1 tablespoon frozen orange juice concentrate

3/4 cup sifted cornstarch
In a large mixing bowl beat egg yolks until thickened and lemon color; gradually beat in sugar—mixture should be very thick and ivory color. Add salt and orange rind. Stir in banana, undiluted orange-juice concentrate and cornstarch. In another large mixing bowl, with clean beater, beat egg whites until stiff; fold into banana mixture.

Turn into an ungreased 10-inch angelfood cake pan. Bake in a preheated 325-degree oven until cake pulls away from side of pan and springs back when lightly touched—50 to 60 minutes. Invert pan on wire rack until cold; remove cake from pan. Cover with orange frosting. Store in refrigerator.

Basic cream sauces made with milk can be seasoned with dill, curry powder, dry mustard or pimento to add zest and color to vegetables, meat or fish.

Sociologist Tells Why Woman Aren't On Top

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) —

The reason American women, even the best educated and qualified, rarely make it to the top in the professional world is the subject of a new book by a Queens College sociologist.

"Our best women—those in whose society has invested most heavily — underperform, underachieve and underproduce," writes Dr. Cynthia Fuchs Epstein in "Woman's Place" (University of California Press).

"We waste them and they waste themselves."

Dr. Epstein notes that American women's participation in the prestige professions — law, medicine, science, engineering and university teaching — has been minimal throughout American history.

"No matter what sphere of work women are hired for or select, like sediment in a wine bottle they seem to settle to the bottom," the author observes.

A man can look to his family or peers for support for his work, she writes but a woman's career inevitably conflicts with the traditional image of her place in society.

Dr. Epstein believes, however, that the possibility of women working equally with men in all levels of the occupational hierarchy is imminent.

Women successfully filling prestige positions in other countries are setting an example for American women and studies show college-educated women are more likely to use their training now than before.

Married Woman Is Better Bet

NEW YORK (UPI) — A married woman over 25 years old when she enters a practical nursing school is a better bet for remaining in the health labor force than the younger, unmarried woman, reports the National League for Nursing.

A league report gives this composite picture of the practical nurse apt to be the most stable in the health labor force. She was over 25 when she entered nursing school, is married to a semi-skilled or unskilled worker, and comes from a modest or low-income family.

Garage Not Responsible For Perils Of The Road

COLOGNE, West Germany (WNS) —

The 41-year-old salesman was driving home from Frankfurt to his wife and two children here when a young lady hitched a ride in the rain. En route, the car broke down. The man phoned for help, but the mechanic did not arrive for two hours. Now, a year later, the young lady demands support for the baby that resulted from the long wait. The salesman wants the garage to pay because of its tardy service, but the court has ruled that the garage is not responsible since it is not part of the highway patrol.

Canada produces about $10 million worth of apples a year.

Empress Of Iran Heads Art Show

DOUE LA FONTAINE, France (WNS) —

Empress Farah of Iran, who studied painting as a girl at the Beaux Arts School in Paris, was invited to sponsor the annual art show at LaPalette, the children's painting school here. She not only accepted but also contributed "Flower Garden In The Sun," her own painting of children of all creeds and colors. Then she sent paintings done by her three children, too — Prince Reza, Prince Ali Reza and Princess Farahnaz. "The Shah, my husband, has not yet learned to paint," she apologized.

Honey production last year reached a record 283 million pounds.

An editorial cited by the father of the Kienast quintuplets as having appeared in a Greenville, North Carolina newspaper was published in the Greensboro Daily News March 2.

The Daily Reflector began receiving inquiring calls Wednesday morning after Bill Kienast of Liberty Corner, N.J. said on NBC's nationally televised "First Tuesday" the night before that he had been sent several copies of an editorial condemning him and his wife for having the quintuplets after they already had a son and a daughter.

Ed Yoder associate editor of the Greensboro Daily News, said the editorial has prompted many irate letters from readers and been widely circulated by population alarmists.

David Schmerler, the producer of the Kienast Quint segment of "First Tuesday," apologized for the error and explained how it happened. "I asked Mr. Kienast right after his interview with Sander Vanocur was taped in July if he was sure the editorial was from Greenville, N.C. and if he had a copy of it. He said he was sure, since he is originally from Virginia and has traveled quite a bit in the South. He had no copy of it, however, since he said he makes it a practice to keep none of the hate mail sent him and his wife. "I talked to him yesterday, however, and he agreed that he must have been mistaken. He is a nice man and I am sure he is sorry if the error has upset anyone. NBC and I personally certainly apologize," Schmerler said.

Counted 7 Traffic Accidents In City

Damages totaling over $2,200 in personal and property losses resulted here this weekend in a series of seven individual traffic accidents.

Heaviest damages resulted Friday in a 4:10 p.m. mishap at the intersection of US 264 and NC 43.

Investigators reported that cars involved in the accident were driven by David Mayo Bullock, 17, 2108 N. Village Drive and Mary Anderson Kelso, 19, 1311 E. Walnut St., Goldsboro. Officers charged Bullock with failing to see his movement could be made in safety and set damage for his car at $500. Damage for the Kelso car was set at $300.

Allan Andrews Lanche, 16, 1729 Forest Hill, was charged with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident following investigation of 10:10 p.m. mishap Friday at Elm St. Police, who set damage for the Lanche car at $150, said the accident caused only $10 in damages to the other car involved, driven by Howard Stewart Daniels, 25, 309 W. 16th St., Washington.

Daniels and a passenger in the Daniels car, Bonnie Sue Daniels, 17, of Rt. 3, Washington, were reported injured in the mishap.

No charges were placed in a third accident here Friday involving cars operated by Joyce McFarland Buck, 23, 1402 Ragsdale Road and William Albert Harrison, 16, Hooker Road, investigators reported.

The accident, which occurred at the intersection of Sylvan and Memorial Drives Friday at 1:39 p.m., caused an estimated $100 in damages to the Harrison car and none to the Buck car, police said.

Other traffic mishaps here Friday included one in which Billy Joe Riggs, 16, 2112 S. Village Drive, was charged with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident. The charges followed investigation of the collision at Watauga Avenue.

Investigators, who said the Riggs car collided with another vehicle driven by Patricia Staciou Forbes, 508 Watauga Avenue, set damages in the 7:12 p.m. accident at $100 for the Riggs car and at $250 for the Forbes car.

An estimated $235 in damages resulted here Friday in a 4:32 p.m. mishap at S. Pitt St., involving cars operated by Earl Samuel Simmons, 54, P.O. Box 359 and Beverly Johnson Quick, 21, Glendale Apts., according to police.

Officers charged Simmons with failing to see his movement could be made in safety while setting damage for his car at $35 and placing damage for the Quick car at $200.

A sixth traffic accident here Friday occurred at the intersection of Pitt and Dudley Streets and involved cars driven by Terry Eugene Hall, 17, Rt. 4, Washington, and Joseph Carlton Fleming, 49, Rt. 4, Greenville, police reported.

Officers charged Fleming with failing to stop for a stop sign in the 5:23 p.m. mishap and estimated damages for the Hall car at $125 while setting damage for the Fleming car at $20.

Floyd Watson, 42, 1020 Pennsylvania Avenue, was charged with improper lights and failing to yield the right of way following investigation of an accident at Fifth St. Saturday at 2:45 a.m.

Police, who said the Watson car collided with another automobile driven by John Paradise Reaves, 25, 1304 Colonial Avenue placed damage for the Reaves car at $300 and set damage for the Watson car at $150.

Child No. 18 For Couple

OXNARD, Calif. (AP) Booker T. Lee, one of 34 children, and his wife, one of nine, have become parents of their 18th child.

Ethel Mae Lee, 39, said from her hospital bed Friday: "The Lord has been good to us, but enough is enough."

Her husband, a 48-year-old carpenter, agreed.

Their latest child, Alisa Collette, is three days old.

The first child also was a girl, Shirley Diane, 21.

Lee said the family has had some "rough times" because of instability in the construction business.

The parents and their 11 girls and seven boys live in a four bedroom house. His salary, he said, ranges from $90 in bad times, to $200 weekly when work is plentiful.

The three eldest girls have joined the Youth Corps. Each earns $22 a week while in training. "That helps a lot," said Lee.

MUSIC LOVER

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Harold Haney, assistant director of the Colorado Advertising and Publicity Department, is so fond of the harpsichord that he owns three, which he made himself.

Washington Rallies To Nip Rampants

Smith, Conway Pick Up Rose Touchdowns

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Washington's Dick Cherry reached into his bag of tricks and came up with a couple, and it was all the Pam Pack needed to hand Rose High School a 21-13 defeat Friday night. It was the season's opener for the Rampants, who played the better game of the two teams.

Washington, handicapped by the absence of their star runner, William Guilford, out sick, used a fine punt return, and a tricky pass-option to work their magic on the Rampants, who had been in complete control of the game until late in the first period.

Rose had moved ahead in the opening seconds of the second period, when Johnny Smith cracked over from 10 yards out for the opening score. Paul Carr added the extra point for a 7-0 lead.

But minutes later Hilliard Wollard brought back a punt 53 yards to tie it up, and it stayed that way until late in the game, when Rose quarterback John Conway pushed over from two yards out, putting Rose back up on top.

Cherry then pulled out a pass-option for halfback Wollard, and it clicked twice, once each way. The first time, he hit end, John Rodman to set up the play again, this time from the Rose 18. Instead of passing this time, however, Wollard ran, scoring the go-ahead score.

Late in the game, Washington scored again, after recovering a Rose fumble, as Larry Smithwick went 31 yards for the clincher. Ray Lilley added extra points after each score.

It was a bitter disappointment for the Rampants, who had outplayed Washington most of the evening. They only allowed the Pam Pack two first downs in the first half, and only six in the game.

But it was first game mistakes, mistakes that Washington didn't make with their one game of experience, that spelled the difference.

Rose fumbled three times, each time at crippling times. They had one interception, on the final play of the game.

But worst of all, they picked up 90 yards in penalties, erasing one sure touchdown, and possibly several others, potentially.

Twice in the first half, they were within easy striking distance, at the Washington 30, and then again at the 21, when penalties hurt them. Another time, they reached the eight on a fine kickoff return of 71 yards by Smith, only to lose the ball on a fumble.

Early in the second half, Rose pushed over the midfield stripe again, only to suffer another penalty that stalled the drive. Minutes later they got the ball back at the 31, but were unable to move the ball. Late in the quarter, they got the ball in pack territory again, only to misfire one more time.

Three more mistakes, all in the final period, put the finishing touches on the Rampants. Two were fumbles, and one set up the final Washington score. The final turnover came on an interception on the last play of the game, as Rose struggled to get back and attempt at least a tie.

Rose showed they have a good defense this year. The Pack was unable to move on them, for most of the game. Only once in the first half did Washington reach into Rose territory, when Smithwick carried the ball from the Pack 30 to the Rose 39. But they got no further than there.

In the second half, they drove only once, with the tricky quarterback lateral toss to Wollard for his 48-yard aerial to Rodman, setting up the ball at the Rose 19. After a yard gain, they used the lateral again, but this time, Wollard kept and ran for the score.

In the closing minutes, they got the ball back twice in Rose territory, both times on fumbles, the second time, setting up the final score.

After their first drive had failed, Rose held Washington and took over on its own 36. Al Hunter went wide for nine yards, and Bubba Rawl added five more in two carries. Smith swept for 12 to the Washington 38, and Hunter broke loose for 14 more to the 24. Smith got loose again to move the ball to the 10, but Hunter was trapped for a three-yard loss. Smith made that up on the next play, ending the first period. He went in for the opening touchdown on the first play of the second quarter.

Rose was backed into a hole on their next possession, but Bob Forbes got off a fine 40-yard kick to the Washington 47, where Wollard hauled it in, and took off across the field for the sidelines, and went all the way as the Rose defense was wiped out by Washington. That tied it up and it stayed that way the rest of the half.

Rose did take over on the Washington 21 after a fumble recovery late in the half, and Conway hit Hunter for an apparent score, but a holding penalty nullified it.

Rose backed Washington into a hole in the early minutes of the third period with another fine punt, and on the first play, Tommy Diggs picked off a Pack fumble at the 11. Smith picked up seven and Hunter added two more yards to the two. Conway then pushed over on fourth down to move Rose back up again.

But it wasn't to be. Washington took over on its own 34, but was thrown for a five yard loss. On third and 11, the razzle-dazzle halfback pass took over, and Washington was on its way.

Rose tried desperately to come back, but after a pass completion, the Rampants fumbled at the 42. They got the ball back on a punt, and another pass completion also ended up with a fumble, and this time, on the next play from the 31, Smithwick scored, wrapping it up.

The Rose backfield did a fine job of moving the ball throughout the game, getting Crisp blocking in the line. Smith finished with 76 yards in 19 carries to lead the field.

On defense, Diggs and David Bullock led the way in the line, with Hunter and Mike Harris shining in the secondary.

The Rampants, hoping to have gotten over their mistakes, travel to Raleigh next Friday, to meet Sanderson High School.

Rose High School's Al Hunter breaks loose from a potential Washington tackler on a 14-yard scamper in the late minutes of the first quarter Friday night. The gain was one in the series which led to the first Rampant touchdown. In the background on the ground is Jim Douglas. Washington rallied in the final period to win, 21-13. Tarpaulin Causes Bucs Chance To Up The Lead

By HERSCHEL NISSENON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Rain, rain, go away ... and take that ornery tarpaulin in Pittsburgh with you.

With the Pirates leading 4-1 Friday night, Philadelphia's Don Money walked to open the seventh inning when the rains came. The automatic tarpaulin, which rises out of a trench along the third base line in Pittsburgh's new Three Rivers Stadium, was set in motion.

Up went the lid, out came the tarp a few feet and then ...

Bang!

With a loud crash, part of the cover fell back on the roller, wedging it. When repairmen failed to get it going, Pirate officials contacted Charles Peeney, president of the National League, and received permission to suspend the game and continue it before tonight's regularly scheduled contest.

Pending the final outcome, the Pirates remained .0004 of a percentage point ahead of the Chicago Cubs in the National League East. The Cubs beat the

Twins Win To Open Margin

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

The California management waited an extra 15 minutes until all the fans got to their seats before starting the game. But once it began, Minnesota's Brant Aleya didn't wait very long to do in the Angels.

With two out and two on in the first inning, Aleya drove a first pitch from Rudy May over the left field fence for his 13th home run and the Twins went on to a 4-0 victory that opened up a four-game lead over the second-place Angels in the American League West.

Aleya's homer which gave him eight runs batted in in only 14 at-bats against Angel pitching this year was enough to back the combined pitching of Bert Blyleven and Ron Perranoski who gave a California crowd of 38,199 little to cheer about.

Oakland blanked Kansas City 5-0, Baltimore outlasted Boston 8-6, New York nipped Cleveland 3-2, Detroit took Washington 6-3 and Milwaukee edged the Chicago White Sox 3-2 in 10 innings in other AL games.

The 19-year-old Blyleven, who lives in Anaheim retired the first 11 men he faced and had a two-hitter until he ran into trouble in the sixth. With one out, Tony Gonzales singled, Jim Fregosi walked and Alex Johnson beat out an infield hit to load the bases.

But Perranoski then came in to strike out pinch-hitter Billy Cowan and get Tommy Reynolds on a force play.

Tony Oliva rapped four straight hits for the Twins.

Don Mincher and Gene Tenace clouted homers and Jim Hunter, 16-12, pitched a five-hitter as Oakland beat Kansas City for its sixth straight victory to remain six games behind the Twins. It was Hunter's ninth try for his 16th victory. He had last won on July 30.

Brooks Robinson slammed five straight hits, including a solo homer and a three-run shot to key Baltimore's victory over Boston. Tony Conigliaro hit his second grand slam in four days, his 28th homer of the season, in the first when Boston chased Mike Cuellar, Baltimore's 21-game winner.

Steelers, Atlanta Win

In a pair of Friday night games, the Atlanta Falcons edged the Buffalo Bills 10-7 and the Pittsburgh Steelers routed the Boston Patriots 31-3.

Kenny Vinyard's 26-yard field goal was Atlanta's victory margin over the Bills. Atlanta got a touchdown on a 27-yard Randy Johnson-to-Paul Gipson pass while the Bills' touchdown came on Max Anderson's one-yard run.

It was homecoming night for rookie quarterback Terry Bradshaw as he led the Steelers to a touchdown the first time Pittsburgh had the ball. Bradshaw capped a 72-yard drive with a one-yard plunge. Dick Hoak ran for another and Terry Hanratty tossed for one and ran for another as the Steelers won their third straight exhibition.

A's Capture Fifth In Row

OAKLAND (AP) — Felipe Alou singled home the tie-breaking run in the eighth inning Saturday and Reggie Jackson followed with a pinch grand slam homer as the Oakland A's defeated Kansas City 8-3 for their fifth victory in a row.

Don Mincher started the uprising with a one-out double off loser Dick Drago and Alou singled him home. Sal Bando's single brought on Ted Abernathy, who struck out Gene Tenace but walked Dick Green to load the bases.

Jackson then greeted reliever Tom Burgmeier with his 17th home run of the season.

Trailing 3-1, the Royals knotted it with a run in the sixth on Ed Kirkpatrick's 15th homer and another in the seventh on singles

Yankees Slip By Cleveland, 3-1

NEW YORK (AP) — Gene Michael singled home one run and scored another and Bobby Murcer homered Saturday as the New York Yankees downed Cleveland 3-1.

Jim Lyttle singled with one out in the second off loser Steve Dunning, 3-9, took second on an infield out and raced home on Michael's ground single to right. The second run came in the fifth on Michael's leadoff single, Dunning's wild-pickoff throw, a bunt single by Bahnsen and Frank Baker's infield hit. Murcer homered in the eighth.

Stan Bahnsen, 13-10, allowed seven hits but needed help from Lindsay McDaniel after Graig Nettles and Eddie Leon opened

Johnson's Homer Leads Orioles

BOSTON (AP) — Dave Johnson's ninth-home run of the season with two out in the eighth inning lifted the Baltimore Orioles to a 3-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox Saturday.

Johnson connected off Ray Culp shortly after right fielder Tony Conigliaro robbed leadoff batter Ellie Hendricks of a homer with a spectacular leaping catch.

The Orioles, who led 1-0 on Paul Blair's first-inning homer, tied the score at 2-all in the seventh on a walk and singles by Hendricks, Terry Crowley and Johnson.

Boston scored in the first on two walks, a hit batsman and George Scott's single and

Field Is Set

By DEL BOOTH
Associated Press Writer
DARLINGTON, S.C. (AP) — A field of 40 cars for the 21st annual Southern 500 stock car race was completed Saturday as 16 more qualified in final time trials.

Dave Pearson of Spartanburg won the pole at 150.555 miles an hour in initial trials Thursday for the first 12 places. Another dozen qualified Friday for the $137,600 purse.

The qualifying runs were followed by a 10-lap consolation race for those who missed the cutoff point. Roy Turner of Lake View, S.C., led all the way in a Ford for $200.

Farmville Returns Set Down Hobbton

FARMVILLE — The Farmville Red Devils kicked off their season Friday night with a 22-6 victory over Hobbton in an Eastern Plains Conference football game.

The Red Devils took advantage of two long punt returns, one coming after a kick was blocked, to take the win.

Hobbton scored first in the game, moving ahead 6-0 in the first period. The score came on a 30-yard pass from Hugh Carr to Ricky Daughtry.

Later in the period, Carr, from his own 17, was chased down as he attempted to pass, and finally pulled down by Harry Smith of Farmville in the end zone, giving the Red Devils a safety.

Not long afterwards, Robert Tripp pulled in a punt on the 33, and carried its back 67 yards for the go-ahead score, making it 8-6.

It stayed that way until the third period, when Farmville picked up its second two scores. The first came on a seven yard run by Jimmy Langley, and was the only score from scrimmage by Farmville.

Robert Ripp cracked over on the run for the two-point conversion, running the score to 16-6.

The final touchdown came later in the period. Earl Moore raced through the Hobbton line on a punt, blocked the kick and picked up the ball to race 42 yards for the closing score.

Farmville thus finds itself in an early tie with the winner of the Aycock-Southern Nash game for the Tobacco Belt lead. The Red Devils get another test next week, playing host to Southern Nash. Hobbton goes to North Lenoir for its next contest.

Saratoga Nails Grifton By 12-0

SARATOGA — Saratoga Central got off to a good start in the Tobacco Belt Conference race with a 12-0 victory over Grifton Friday night.

It was the opening game for the Bulldogs. Saratoga had opened last week with a loss to North Duplin and thus evened its record at 1-1 for the year.

Saratoga picked up all the scoring it needed in the second quarter of play. Terry Little picked up the touchdown on a one-yard plunge, giving Saratoga a 6-0 lead for the first half.

In the final period, Saratoga added its insurance touchdown. This time, it was star Jimmy De Ratt that did the honors, also going in from a yard out.

Grifton, hampered by a lack of depth this year, was unable to get much of a drive going in the game. They threatened only once, driving down to around 20 before penalties hurled them back. The Bulldogs picked up only 60 yards in total offense, and ended up with twice that much in penalty yardage.

Saratoga offered one other threat, also reaching the 20 before a fumble turned the ball back to Grifton.

Saratoga plays host to Elm City next week in another conference battle, while Grifton opens its home season with Tobacco Belt foe Aurora.

Clay Set For Bout

ATLANTA (AP) — Former world heavyweight champion Cassius Clay will return to the ring in earnest Oct. 26, meeting either No. 1 contender Jerry Quarry of Bellflower, Calif., or second-ranked challenger Oscar Bonavena of Argentina in Atlanta, promoters say.

Slate Sen. Leroy Johnson of Atlanta, head of House of Sports, Inc., and the man instrumental in arranging Clay's first bouts in more than three years, said Friday that negotiations for the fight "are about 90 per cent completed and we hope to sign a contract no later than Thursday of next week."

Men's Flag Football League
 The Greenville Recreation Department is sponsoring a Men's Flag Football League this fall. There will be an organizational meeting on Tuesday, at 7:30 p.m. in the Elm Street Gym. All participants must be 18 years old or older and a high school graduate. Groups that plan to enter a team should have a representative attend this meeting.

Ken Cleaton Picks Up Lone TD For Tornadoes In First Quarter

By BILLY EVANS
 Reflector Sports Writer

AYDEN — The Ayden Tornadoes scored early and then survived a 30-minute rainout against Greene Central Friday night, taking a 6-0 victory. It was the opener for both teams.

The game was tight after the Tornadoes scored halfway through the first quarter. Not long afterwards, the game was called to a half when a downpour forced a break in the action, which lasted 30 minutes.

The Tornadoes and the Rams were about evenly matched. After the Tornadoes got their only score, a two-yard plunge by quarterback Ken Cleaton, it was defense all the way.

Ayden relied heavily on their strong running game led by Mike Griffin. Neither team passed much until the end of the game when Greene Central realized that they had to score through the air if they were to pull out a victory.

Ayden's defense proved to be strong and that was one of the key factors in the victory.

Ayden was in trouble early in the game when a punt went out of bounds on their own 36, but the tough Tornado defense held the Rams and Ayden took over on the 35 on downs.

Mike Griffin ground out the yardage on the ground while Cleaton was using long gaining aerial plays. Ayden ground out four first downs in 13 plays before Cleaton pulled the quarterback sneak from the two yard line to give the Tornadoes the 6-0 lead. The conversion attempt was off to the right, but the six-point lead proved to be enough for the Tornadoes to come out with the victory.

Greene Central threatened late in the final quarter, but a pass was picked off by Harry Kinlaw to end the scoring hopes of the Rams. Greene Central got the ball one more time and was moving it up field well but ran out of time as Ayden took the win.

The Tornadoes play host to Columbia next weekend in their opening Tidewater Conference game. Greene Central hosts Pamlico County in their home opener.

Pirate Runners Set For Season

With only one letterman lost from last year's squad, East Carolina University cross country coach Bill Carson is very optimistic about the Pirates' chances in the Southern Conference this fall.

ECU opens its cross country season Sept. 19 when it hosts strong Baptist College of Charleston, S.C.

The Pirates will also run against the University of North Carolina and North Carolina State at home this fall, but the big one Carson and his thinclads will be pointing for is the Southern Conference Championship Meet, to be run at Lexington, Va., on Nov. 16.

Carson believes his men can better last fall's fourth place SC finish. The main reasons for optimism are such top returnees as Jim Kidd, Neill Ross, Joe Day and Lanny Davis.

Still, East Carolina faces an uphill battle if it hopes to dethrone perennial conference champ William & Mary.

Williamston In Win Over Rams

ROBERSONVILLE — Williamston's Tigers took advantage of three lapses in the Robersonville defense and broke open a defensive struggle, 18-0, Friday night. It was the opening game of the season for both teams.

The two battled to a scoreless tie in the first period of play, but Williamston quickly jumped ahead as the second half opened. Raymond Andrews hauled in the kickoff to start the second half on his own 15. He sped downfield, broke into the open and raced 85 yards for the first Tiger touchdown.

The game stayed that way until the final period, when Williamston scored twice more. The first came on another breakaway play, as Donald Lee got away, this time for 65 yards on the scoring run.

Quarterback Jimmy Raiford wrapped things up in the closing minutes of the game, as he hit Mike Williams for a 55-yard scoring bomb, making the final 18-0 total.

Robersonville had only one scoring threat in the game, moving to the Williamston-15 yard line before being hurled back.

Without the scoring run of 65 yards, Williamston managed only 91 yards on the ground, while Robersonville could get only 50. The Rams hit on nine of 10 passes, but they were for short yardage, and netted 67. The Tigers hit on only one of three, but it was for paydirt.

Williamston plays host to Swansboro next weekend, while Robersonville goes to Chocowinity for a Tobacco Belt tilt.

Rod And Gun: A New Name For Idea On Duck Hunting

By ROD AMUNDSON
Under the American system of government there has been a long-standing tenet that laws and regulations shall have three basic qualities; they must be reasonable, understandable, and enforceable. It is not always possible to follow these basics to the letter, but over the years the Wildlife Resources Commission has made every effort to do so. Whether the U. S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife makes this same effort is subject to debate. For example, it is hard to convince waterfowl hunters south of the Virginia-North Carolina line that the provision in this year's waterfowl regulations allowing only one Canada goose per day is reasonable and understandable. As to enforce-ability, you either have one goose in the bag, or more than one—or none. This situation lends itself to enforceability. Certainly, the effort on the part of the Service to manage waterfowl by species is reasonable and understandable. Tighten up the restrictions on shooting birds that are scarce, relax restrictions on those that are more plentiful. But the enforceability is something else. Few duck hunters on a stormy day can tell the difference between a female redhead and a female bluebill when they come busting over the blind. The hunter has a choice between shooting and taking a chance, or missing what may be the only opportunity of the day. There is talk of setting up a "point" system whereby each hunter is allowed a given number of points per day. Scarce birds would be worth the most points, plentiful species fewer points. This system would require a great deal of skill on the part of the hunter in identifying his birds, plus a good bit of honesty. For example, a hunter with 100 points knocks off a 90-point female mallard with the first shot. Unless he fails to pick up the bird, and just lets it drift away, he is through for the day. One way to prevent such a situation, of course, would be to refrain from shooting at any dull-colored bird that is apt to be a female. The point system, if put into effect, will cause a great deal of grumbling on the part of waterfowl hunters. But maybe the idea is worth a try. The dove season is already well underway, and the next major season opens October 12 when squirrels, grouse, deer, bear, and wild boar become legal targets. For the past several years Tar Heel hunters have been finding it increasingly difficult to find private lands opened to hunting. Most farmers will allow hunting on their property if hunters will do them the courtesy of asking for permission. To encourage farmers to allow hunting on their land, and equally important, to encourage hunters to ask for permission, the Wildlife Resources Commission has printed up thousands of posters that read "Hunting By Permission Only." These are available free of charge to landowners who are willing to allow hunting, but who want to know who is doing the hunting on their land. A card or a letter addressed to "Hunting By Permission," Box 2919, Raleigh, N.C. 27602, will get you an application form which, when completed and returned, will get you the number of posters you need. The posters are on heavy cardboard, size 9 x 12 inches, and can be tacked up on trees, fence posts, etc. The Wildlife Commission's Jim Dean, who is over 30, thinks the generation gap isn't so wide after all. Here are his interpretations of some of the words the youngsters have added to the language. MEANINGFUL RELATIONSHIP—Making friends with the guy who owns the farm pond you'd like to fish in. ROCK FESTIVAL—An annual gathering each spring down east when the rockfish start running. HANGUP—Lure or fly caught in a bush or tree due to a lousy backcast. UPTIGHT—What you must be sure to pull the knot when you tie on a fly. HAIR—An off Boradway musical about tying trout flies, the theme song of which is "Some Hair Over the Rainbow." GRASS—Green stuff that grows around fish ponds and along streams. POT—A modern convenience that is miles away from where you are fishing.

By JACK WOLISTON NEW YORK (UPI)—From the ditty bag:—America's oldest ocean powerboat contest, the Hennessey Miami-Key West race, has been officially renamed the Hennessey Key West Race with a new course that runs 186 miles through the Dry Tortugas. This year, the race, to be run Nov. 6, will be part of a multifeature Sea Feature Week. It will be the last 1970 event on the international circuit for world championship points. —Statistics from Seattle: The Puget Sound area claims the title "Boating Capital of the World" with a population of some 200,000 boats. Boating expenditures in the area are estimated at $50 million annually and projections indicate that by the year 2000 the area will boast half a million pleasure craft. —At the age of 16 Robin Lee Graham of Long Beach, Calif., set sail on a solo, five-year voyage around the world. When he returned home in his 22-foot craft recently, Brown, now 21, had this to say: "I've had enough sailing for awhile, at least by myself. I think I'll get a job digging ditches." —The ultimate in nautical shopping convenience will become available this fall when the first shopping mall on the East Coast sporting its own marina opens in Brooklyn. The 150-slip marina will also have a 15,000-square-foot boat showroom and accessories department. —Officials report an alarming increase in the rate of marine thefts. Among the preventive steps a boat owner can take: Don't leave valuable property in an unattended boat; Don't leave the key in the ignition; Don't moor in a lonely, unguarded or poorly lighted area; Put a lock and chain on an outboard motor when it is left unattended. —Like high speed and luxury on the water? Take a look at the new 30-foot Fino built by Fino Marine of Miami, Fla. It has a teak-decked cockpit seating six, aft of which is a cushioned sundeck. A swimming and ski platform is molded into the transom. The forward cabin contains velvet-upholstered V-bunks. Standard features include refrigerator, ice-maker and built in bar. Standard power is twin 427 cubic inch Holman & Moody Ford or Kiekhaefer MerCruisers. —More than 100 outboard speedsters are expected to go after $10,000 in cash and other prizes at Lake Tahoe, Calif., Sept. 19-20, in the first Indian Summer Six-hour Enduro. There will be three hours of racing each day over a triangular four-mile course. —Start of the next Miami-Montegeto Bay Yacht Race has been set for March 17, 1971. Sponsors report about 35 sailing craft are expected to compete in the five-day, 811-mile race, a classic reach and run route from Florida through the Bahamas and down through the Windward Passage between Cuba and Hispaniola to Montego Bay. —One of the worst of this summer's storms was the one that suddenly swept Lake Pontchartrain on July 4. Scores of boats capsized and at least six persons drowned. A 25-year yachtsman reported: "The wind was blowing so hard the froth on tops of the waves was like fog." —Phil Goyette, veteran center for the St. Louis Blues of the National Hockey League, won the Lady Byng Memorial Trophy for his clean play last season.

Public Hunting Areas Set Up For Dove Time

The poet Shelley once wrote a poem about birds called "Hail To Thee, Blythe Spirit."

September 2 at noon when the dove season officially opened across North Carolina, hunters greeted large flocks of migrating mourning doves with another kind of hail—principally No. 7½ shot.

Those hunters who commonly swap two or three boxes of expensive shotgun shells for half a dozen doves and a few puffs of feathers will probably not be calling them "blythe spirits" either, but never mind.

The point is that the dove hunting season is once again upon us, and the first part of this year's split season opened at noon on Wednesday, and will close October 10. The second session will open at noon on December 16 and close January 15. Shooting hours each day are from noon to sunset, and you can legally shoot 18 doves daily (if you can hit them), and have as many as 36 in possession. The possession limit allows for those who like to freeze some for later feasts.

The opening of the dove season always poses at least two problems for hunters. The most obvious one concerns hitting the shifty critters as they wheel and zig-zag across a cut corn field just ahead of a sea of misguided pellets. It takes a considerable amount of shooting to sharpen your reflexes after the long summer layoff.

The other problem—one that seems to be on the increase—is finding good places to hunt. This problem is particularly acute for the urban dweller or the man who doesn't know any farmers who permit hunting.

Fortunately, the North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission has set aside some 32 areas across the state for public dove hunting. Many of these areas have been developed for dove hunting, which means that they have been planted with crops like millet which attracts doves.

Fifteen areas have been set aside only for dove hunting. These 15 public dove hunting areas are scattered across the state from near Asheville all the way to the coast, with most being concentrated in the Piedmont. On these areas where only dove hunting is permitted, hunts are scheduled on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons only.

The Commission has also set up dove hunts on 17 of its small and migratory game areas. Some of these areas have been planted to attract doves, while some have not. The days you may hunt these areas also vary, although most hold afternoon hunts on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday afternoons.

For more detailed information on these areas, you may check the recent August issue of WILDLIFE IN NORTH CAROLINA. A map and directions to these areas appear in the magazine.

All of these areas, both the dove hunting areas and the small and migratory game areas, require a special $5.50 season game lands permit in addition to your hunting license. You may pick these up at license dealers in sporting goods and tackle shops across the state.

Dove Hunting Areas
All of these areas allow hunting on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons, and all have been planted to attract doves.

Small And Migratory Game Areas
The following areas allow dove hunting on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday afternoons, but the areas have not been planted to attract doves.

Wake County—Barkley Farm, south from New Hill two and a half miles on SR 1135.

Lenoir County—Bizzell Farm (Mewborns Crossroad's Area) Located north of Kinston on Rt. 91 about seven miles at Mewborns Crossroads.

Lenoir County—Bizzell Farm (Dupont Area) Located about seven miles northeast of Kinston on Rt. 11.

The following small and migratory game areas have been planted to attract doves and allow hunting on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday afternoons.

Stokes County—Sauratown Plantation, three miles east of Walnut Cove on US 311 at Dan River.

Davie And Davidson Counties—Coolseeme Plantation, accessible from US 64 west of Yadkin River in Davie County, and also from SRs 1176, 1178 and 1185 south of US 64 in Davidson County.

Soccer Team Sees Good Year

East Carolina University soccer coach John Lovstedt can't help being optimistic about the 1970 season. The Pirate mentor has his top scorer, Steve Luquire, back for one more year and the ECU booters are confident they can better last fall's fourth place Southern Conference finish and a 3-4-1 overall record.

Luquire, a senior from Durham, is the Pirates' ace center forward and a sure bet for post-season honors. Another seasoned veteran is halfback Eric Schandmeier, a senior from Baltimore, Md.

The Pirates open their season Sept. 30 when they play North Carolina Wesleyan on the road. Two days later, Oct. 2, they meet NC State in Raleigh. The first home match is Oct. 10 against Campbell College.

The Schedule
S.30 NC Wesleyan (away); 0.2 NC State (away); 0.10 Campbell (home); 0.13 Methodist College (away); 0.17 Pembroke (home); 0.21 The Citadel (away); 0.23 North Carolina (home); 0.25 Furman (home); 0.28 UNC-Wilmington (away); 0.31 Davidson (home); N.3 Duke (away); N.6 William & Mary (away).

The Roster

Leper Colony In Africa Offers Treatment, Hope

By C. C. MINICLIER

BALUBA, Uganda (AP) — The small sign on the Jinja-Nairobi road indicates the turnoff to Baluba, but does not say what is here.

Many of those who have been here prefer not to admit it. Baluba is a leprosarium, or leper colony, as they were once known. Improper burial of a grandparent, a witch doctor's curse and other superstitions are locally accepted as reasons for acquiring the disease.

Indeed, even educated patients sometimes flee when confronted with the laboratory diagnosis. Others accept it with resignation. Since Biblical days lepers have been feared and scorned. Here there is hope.

All of the 300 to 500 resident patients have some sort of job, and all receive free medical treatment as well as education, training and specially built shoes or artificial limbs, depending on need.

The 100-bed hospital treats leprosy symptoms and all the other ailments and diseases which befall residents or outpatients.

"In the old days they used to come here and stay until they died. Now, if we catch it early enough and start treatment, some may leave in 12 to 18 months," says Sister Aelred of the Irish-based Franciscan Missionary Sisters for Africa.

Founded in 1934, by the Franciscan Missionary Sisters, Baluba began with three mud huts. Sister Felicity, who runs the pharmacy today, remembered the early years when patients and sisters dug ditches to keep hippos out of the vegetable patch on the shore of Lake Victoria.

Now there are more than 50 buildings including cheerful communal dining halls and quarters for families.

Baluba's only doctor, Wanda Blenska, of Poland, arrived in 1951, found she was needed, and stayed on to become one of Africa's unsung bush doctors.

She performed nine operations one day recently; cares for all resident patients and sees perhaps 300 outpatients a week; lectures visiting medical students and handles the "unexpected" in her spare time.

Greeted as "Mama" by many patients, her easy manner helps those confined for long periods. One such patient, an elderly woman, has lost her sight and is losing her voice due to leprosy. Her toes and fingers have disappeared. Drugs to help her were discovered too late.

But today such cases are unusual. Modern drugs can stop leprosy's progress, and physical and psychological therapy can teach its victims to lead normal lives.

The World Health Organization estimates that there are three million registered leprosy patients in the world. But spot surveys by WHO suggest that more than 10 million persons have leprosy.

WHO's figures, from 1966, list 177,000 registrations in the United States, with a guestimate of 358,000 actual cases; 1.7 million in Africa with at least that many more unregistered; 915,000 in Asia with a guestimate of 6.4 million and 16,000 registered in Europe out of a guestimate of 33,000 with leprosy.

Leprosy victims lose all sense of feel in the infected areas and horrible burns and cuts are frequent, painless injuries. Victims are unable to safely hold objects with their fingers because they don't know how tightly they are gripping. Doctors estimate that five persons in a thousand are susceptible and the incubation period may range from 3 to 20 years.

Aid from OXFAM and private British and German foundations, the Uganda government and a self-help spirit at the Baluba farms keeps Baluba going. Its sparkling laboratory is one of dozens of research centers around the globe searching for better medical treatment.

None of those who have worked here have ever contracted leprosy, according to the sisters.

Small Railroad Has Passenger Service That Others Can Envy

By JAMES O. CLIFFORD
FORT BRAGG, Calif. (UPI)—Some of the nation's biggest railroads may be having trouble with their passenger service, but not one of the nation's smallest — The "Skunk."

Properly, it is the California Western Railroad and every year an estimated 120,000 persons travel over the 40 miles of CWR rails through the heart of redwood country between this northern California coastal town and the inland town of Willits.

The "Skunk's" secret of success is a combination of beautiful scenery along the ride, interesting trains and good service.

The California Western is known as the most crooked railroad route in the world, providing a two-hour journey of twists and turns. One 8.5 mile section of serpentine track, including a section that winds right back over itself, covers only 1.5 air miles. The tracks also cross 32 bridges and trestles, go through two long tunnels and curve around a horseshoe bend.

With each turn of the track the passenger can look out on the many moods of the forest. One minute the skunk is following the sleepy Noyo River, the next it is in the shadows of towering redwoods. Suddenly the scenery changes to sunlit fields of wildflowers, grazing cattle and apple orchards. Deer abound in the area, often bounding across the tracks as the train approaches.

To see all this means a two-hour drive from San Francisco, then the train ride. The CWR also is the main link to the outside world for the 10 or so people who live along its route.

The line was started in 1885 when Charles R. Johnson brought the little engine "Sequoia" in by ship to haul redwood logs out of the forest. Gradually he extended the rails until they hooked up with Willits in 1911.

On holidays the trains took loggers, millmen and their families on excursions and picnics. But increasing use of the auto in the 1920s cut down on the line's passenger service. In 1925, as an economy move, the line brought in jaunty little cars nicknamed "Skunks" for their original gas engines.

Smell 'Em First
"You can smell 'em before you can see 'em," the few people living along the line would say.

Americanism

There were no walls in their minds separating their religion or their philosophy from their concepts of government or education. There no thought-tight compartments, religious beliefs in one and political convictions in another. They were whole men. Those of us who are constantly calling for a return to the constitution and the Declaration of Independence and the Halifax Resolves need to be reminded of how revolutionary these documents are. For example: a few years ago on a Fourth of July an enterprising reporter went out on the streets with a copy of the Declaration of Independence and interviewed passers-by. He sought the signature of the people who would endorse the views of the Declaration.

We hold these truths to be self evident that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, and among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness - that to secure these rights governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that when every any form of government becomes destructive of these ends it is the right of the people to alter or abolish it—

The reporter approached 112 of whom only one would sign his name to this basic document that appeals out the rights of all people and was supported by the Halifax Resolves and the Declaration of Independence. A hasty glance by most people was enough for most to declare these lines "too radical." Many thought it was communist propaganda. One declared him an out and out communist. As I have implied we have taken for granted basic documents that are so existential that we have either denied them or missed them altogether.

The philosophy of Locke, Jefferson, the early fathers of this country was essentially Empiricism. The basic tenet of Empiricism is that "nothing is in the mind that does not come thru the senses." Learning theory psychology merely reinforces the founding father as its basic tenet is "all behavior is learned." Therefore, it is not surprising that there are cultural differences in the public schools because the learning experience of these two cultures have been different. We are really paying for the Southern white man's lie to the Negro — "separate but equal." The public schools were separate all right, but they have not been equal as cultural differences will show. We have sown the wind, and are reaping the whirlwind.

As one with considerable experience and training in psychological testing, — different learning experiences, different cultural conditioning makes your entire testing system invalid. You can not have tests devised by one cultural group and apply them universally and think that the results of such tests measure validity. They don't.

The genius of the founding fathers was that they combined the spirit of The Enlightenment, the theory of natural rights, the theory of the natural goodness of man, — with a healthy Biblical faith. The religious backgrounds of the founding fathers are interesting. Twenty were Episcopalians, 8 were Congregationalists, 7 were Presbyterians, 2 were Roman Catholic, 2 were Quakers and 1 was a free thinking liberal religious agnostic — the immortal Thomas Jefferson. This Biblical faith declared that "God is no respecter of persons — there is no Jew, no Greek, no bond, no free, no slave, but all are one in Christ Jesus — God so loved the world," and as we sing in church school "red and yellow, black and white they are precious in His sight."

Have we been deceiving ourselves all these years, or are we prepared to accept and responsibly meet the revolution of the 1970's as were the founding fathers in of the 1770's? Whether you realize it or not, we in Halifax County like to think like the ancient Greeks. We want permanence — keep things as they are. Change or revolution always comes hard — especially to those who are still saluting Confederate flags. We, like the ancient Greeks, want to find permanence and keep it that way. The Greeks saw time as a destroyer of permanence.

In contrast to the Greeks was the ancient Hebrews who knew that reality was constantly changing — therefore, they sought their salvation not in permanence, but in time. Upon them our holy faith was built as when Moses asked God his name; the reply was "I am that I am" which may be translated "I will be what I will be" in time. There was, however, one pre-Socratic Greek philosopher who saw this. His name was Heraclitus. After spending a life of study of reality he came to the conclusion that the only thing that is permanent in life is the fact of change. His famous dictum was "you can't step in the same river twice." The water you stepped in has moved on — change. The Post-Socratic Philosopher, Plotinus, the New-Platonist saw this also, as have Hartshorne, Whithead, Fromm, Allport, May, Jackson, Pittenger, Fletcher and finally James.

In conclusion, all of you know Washington Irving's story of "Rip Van Winkle." He happened upon a jug of mountain dew but this was not Halifax County moonshine, it was New England moonshine and according to the legend Rip Van Winkle drank the jug of liquor and slept for 20 years. Upon awaking he wanders back into the village and looks for the King George IV Tavern. The name George was there all right, but it was a different George. It was the George Washington Tavern. Poor Rip Van Winkle had slept through a revolution. My dear people, the leaders of Halifax County did not sleep through that first revolution, and I trust with all my heart that you in education will not sleep through this revolution, but you will meet it responsibly, respectfully and with the integrity that I feel to lie within each of you. So be it.

SMALL RAILROAD, known as the "skunk", is not one of those transportation companies having trouble with passenger service. Every year an estimated 120,000 persons travel its 40 miles of rails. (UPI Telephoto)

For Those Who'd like to save a dime on eye care . . . there's always the dime store.

Which is not a holier-than-thou attitude. What is sacred, however, is the sense of sight. We don't think you can haggle when it comes to protecting it. That's why we won't stint on quality of materials, equipment, or craftsmanship.

It may cost a little more, but isn't it worth it?

Steelband Will Give Concert September 13

From the island of Trinidad on the northern coast of South America, the Trinidad Tripoli Steelband is coming to East Carolina University for Parent's day, Saturday, September 19.

The free concert, sponsored by the ECU Student Government Association, will be held that day at 2:00 p.m. on the mall. Like previous open air concerts, the public is invited and can claim seats on the grass as they arrive.

Just a little over 30 years ago Trinidad's steel bands were social outcasts in the British island off the coast of Venezuela. Centered in the capital city of Port of Spain, the early players of Pan, the name given to the steel drums, were interested only in creating a metallic beat as background for festivities of the Trinidad Carnival season immediately preceding the Lent season. The purpose of the rhythm was to keep masqueraders "jumping-up" in time with the music. Melody at that time never entered the picture.

Pan music makers in the late 30's were considered a wild group of music makers. It has been pointed out that things were so bad socially for these pioneer groups of steel bands that many people got their hands broken, their teeth knocked out, or put out of their homes for associating with these early music pioneers.

All that has changed completely in a short 30 years. Beginning about 1940, the first melodic notes were produced and simple melodies played. From this basic beginning, the musical development of steel bands has been phenomenal — until today the 120 steel bands within the National Association of Trinidad and Tobago Steelbandsmen has become by far the greatest cultural asset of Trinidad and Tobago Islands.

The general public, and even trained musicians, still find it hard to believe that music performed by natives of Trinidad and Tobago on steel drums is not supplemented by some hidden devices. The explanation lies in the shape and arrangement of the cut down steel drums, and above all in the tuning. In all, there are eight different drum sections and a supporting rhythm section making up a steel band.

These are — the high and low tenors; a second group of high and low tenors; the double tenor; the double second section; the double guitar; the cello section; the high bass player; the high and low bass; and the supporting rhythm section which covers a wide range of percussive instruments. The names, of course, refer to the approximate function certain shaped and tuned steel drums produce in contrast to a conventional band.

After winning social acceptance on their home territory, steel bands became a major tourist attraction. From there it was a logical step to outside tours.

The Trinidad Tripoli Steelband coming to Greenville is but one of many steel bands, but it has for the past several years been a consistent winner in music festivals. This is the band chosen to play for Queen Elizabeth II on her visit to Trinidad, and on its initial tour in 1967 played in major cities on the U.S. east coast and put in six weeks at Expo '67 in Montreal at the Trinidad and Tobago Pavilion.

Individual names of bands reflect their heyday of low prestige, when they were known locally as "Bad Johns". The Trinidad Tripoli Steelband took its name from a popular American movie showing locally at that time, "The Shores of Tripoli." Others are named "Desperadoes"; "Invaders"; and "Renegades". A complete listing would reveal a regular catalogue of similar names.

The repertoire of The Trinidad Tripoli Steelband, like that of other major steelbands now an established part of the island life, covers a wide range of music. Christmas music, old popular songs, selections from "Die Fledermaus" and "The Hallelujah Chorus" are musical items likely to be offered in the course of one concert.

The appearance of The Trinidad Tripoli Steelband at 2:00 p.m. on September 19 is the only scheduled performance here. Interested persons are invited to attend the concert, which although planned to mark Parent's Day, is open to all members of the public.

Songs Of Ayden Composer Are Now On Record

AYDEN — Two new songs, "Civilian Soldier", and "Our Way of Life", were recently released under the Munitemen Label of Washington, N.C.

Both songs were written by young Ayden composer Tom Braxton. "Civilian Soldier" is a song about the National Guard; and "Our Way of Life" is about young men who leave their loved ones to go anywhere to protect and defend the country.

Jim Watters of Washington is soloist for "Civilian Soldier." On "Our Way of Life," Watters is joined by Mariana Rodgerson, a native of Bear Grass. Miss Rodgerson was Miss Martin County 1969.

Will Produce, Star And Direct

NEW YORK (AP) — Academy Award winner Cliff Robertson has been signed to star in and produce and direct "I Shot Down the Red Baron—I Think."

The film is a comedy about an American pilot who is captured by the Germans after he shoots down the Red Baron, and who is forced to fly for a South American revolutionary general. The film is an American International Pictures release.

By GENE HANDSAKER Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — After starring in 60 films, Stewart Granger admits he still has a goal: "making a movie I was really proud of."

The tall, handsome Englishman, who at 57 jokes that he's in a contest with Lorne Greene "to see who can grow the biggest white sideburns," explains:

As an actor, he's not proud of his films. Actors don't act to please the audience but to impress other actors. They're called actors' actors.

"They wish another actor to come to them and say, 'You were wonderful in that part.'"

"When an audience says, 'I loved you in that part,' they're not criticizing you as an actor. They liked you as the person — as Scaramouche, as the hunter in 'King Solomon's Mines,' the 'Prisoner of Zenda'—a few of Granger's roles.

"I don't think I ever made a film where other actors came and said, 'My gosh, you were great in that film.'"

Granger, turning to series television this fall in NBC's "The Men from Shiloh," remarked that his late friend Spencer Tracy made many films to be proud of.

"His performance in 'Inherit the Wind' was fantastic. If I'd made one film like that I think I could relax and say, 'All right' I made a good film."

"Spence was an actor's actor. Everybody thought he was great. Marlon Brando is an actor's actor—or was an actor's actor. Richard Burton is an actor's actor."

"I don't try to be cruel, but Alan Ladd was not an actor's actor but a very successful film star. Stewart Granger was quite a successful film star, but I don't think he was an actor's actor." Granger said he might have become an actor's actor in the theater.

"I was a very serious theater actor at the Old Vic. Shakespeare, Shaw, Restoration comedies and all that."

Go back to the theater? "Too lazy. The theater's hard work."

TV Notes

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Words and Music" is a new game show NBC will introduce Sept. 28 in the 1:30-2 p.m. spot, Monday through Friday. It will replace the Art Linkletter program. Contestants get song clues to answer questions.

One of the October guests on Dick Cavett's late night program on ABC will be Fred Astaire, who will take up the entire 90-minute show. Cavett, incidentally, will be seen as himself in one of the episodes of ABC's new "The Most Deadly Game" drama series this fall.

Jack Gaver

National Educational Television is producing a 90-minute special entitled "Helen Hayes — Portrait of an Actress, American School." This 70th birthday tribute to the great stage star is scheduled for airing Oct. 8 on 180 public television stations. As well as being a review of Miss Hayes' career, it will be a sort of history of the American theater during the last 65 years. She touched all bases in that time, starting at age five.

The Ed Sullivan CBS hour devoted to the "entertainer of the year" awards of the American Guild of Variety Artists will be taped Sept. 7 at Caesars Palace in Las Vegas for a Sept. 20 viewing. Winners in various categories, by votes of 10,000 AGVA members, are Barbra Streisand, Tom Jones, Flip Wilson, Carol Burnett, Melba Moore and the Blood, Sweat and Tears musical group. Stage presentations of Radio City Music Hall were cited as the outstanding productions of the year.

CBS knows when it has a good thing. The new season will provide rebroadcasts of three of the animated cartoons based on

Belhaven's Young At Heart Gallery

Mrs. Effie Raye Bateman of Belhaven is one of those fortunate persons who has a lot of fun in making a living. A young grandmother, she has the energy and enthusiasm of a teenager. The love of her work is a dominating force in her life.

Owner-director of EEii's Little Korners of The World, she notes that "EEii's is not a name everyone understands. It comes from my first grandchild saying E I for grandmother, so I named my gallery that and added Little Korners of The World."

Art galleries and centers in eastern North Carolina seem to spring from odd beginnings. EEii's is no exception. After the death of her husband, Mrs. Bateman decided on opening an art gallery, and purchased a closed service station.

"I began planning around the grease pit," she commented, "and went from there." Letting her natural flair be her guide, she decided to keep the pit intact, lining the walls with beautifully pocked cypress planks in natural color. A small oblong garden in the floor is filled with pebbles, covered with water and highlighted with a couple of pieces of ceramics and a tree plant.

Short flights of stairs lead to irregularly shaped overhanging galleries. Black painted walls frame niches of lighter walls for display of small items.

EEii's is an all embracing type of art gallery. "I wanted it to be a place where artists and craftsmen could have a place to show," Mrs. Bateman said. "There are so many lovely things being done here in our area and all across the state, and so few places where the public can see their work."

Anne Jenkins, colored stripes paintings; Patricia R. Turlington; abstract paintings; and Clarence T. Sanders and Neva Boyd, carvers of birds in wood. Some space is devoted to the work of Mrs. Bateman and her pupils.

These are only some of the artists whose work can be discovered among passages, nooks and corners of EEii's.

From time to time Mrs. Bateman includes authors in conjunction with receptions for artists. Within the past year she has honored two authors at autograph parties — the Rev. Alex C.D. Noe of Bath and Resthaven, author of "Above The Rim"; and Dr. B. W. Wells, on the occasion of the reprinting of his book of the early 30's "The Natural Gardens of North Carolina."

One of the real pleasures of a visit to EEii's is an opportunity to talk to Mrs. Bateman. "I love people, and love to talk," she said. A firm believer in promoting local causes, Mrs. Bateman boosts the soybean growers by serving plain and barbecued roasted soybeans along with the piping hot coffee always waiting for her visitors.

For good companionship, a warm cup of coffee, and an exciting place to browse among a fine representative cross section of North Carolina art, EEii's in Belhaven is the ideal place.

Book News

From Sheppard Memorial Library

By MARGARET REID

In the year since man first set foot on the moon, writers of fact and fiction have turned their attention to fascinating new possibilities in the field of science.

Willy Ley was the foremost reference source in the field of rocketry and space flight. He was also a gifted story teller, as one of his last books, EVENTS IN SPACE, proves. Called the "Most comprehensive history of space for the layman," this book describes satellites and rockets, and even space junk. Included is a careful log of all known satellites launched from 1957 to 1969. Through the entire narration, Ley pointed out the international quality of new ideas in space exploration.

The newest book in the Random House 'Landmark' series is, appropriately, AMERICANS TO THE MOON. Written by Gene Gurney, author of several other books on America's space program, this is a fast-moving account of the Apollo missions, with full details of the moon landings and many excellent photographs.

A gifted young artist, Erich Fuchs, has designed a picture book about the flight of Apollo 11. JOURNEY TO THE MOON begins with two pages of line sketches and captions describing the moon mission briefly. The rest of the book consists of a dozen full color, double-page illustrations of the historic events from blast-off to splashdown. Fuchs' imaginative geometric designs will make this a book fascinating to grownups as well as children.

FIRST FLIGHTS TO THE MOON, edited by Hal Clement, is a collection of science fiction accounts of man's first flight to the moon. Written by some of the best known authors in the field, they provide a colorful spectrum of the speculations that presaged the reality of the lunar landing. A 'must' for science fiction fans, this book will also be entertaining and informative to anyone interested in scientific space exploration.

With moon landing a reality, interplanetary space travel does not seem so far away from fact. Fred and Geoffrey Hoyle deal with just such a possibility in their novel, ROCKETS IN URSA MAJOR. In the early twenty-first century, all exploratory space ships from earth have been unsuccessful and only the last ship launched offers even a cryptic clue as to the approaching danger from outer space. Earth becomes accidentally involved in a cosmic battle against an alien power in a story suspenseful and exciting from cover to cover.

CALLING ALL CAMERA FANS

By ROSS BRYANT

TAKING A LONG LOOK

If you have graduated to a better camera that enables you to use interchangeable lenses for special picture-taking situations, this season's sport scene provides a reminder that the "long look" is the best way to capture the action.

Sitting way up in the stands with an average length lens for your camera is something like watching the action far up field from the end zone. A long lens becomes a must.

For general use, a lens in the 300mm range is the most popular, with an aperture in the f-4 to f-5.6 range. This lens may look clumsy to you if you've never tried one, but it is small enough and light enough to carry around easily. And it is easy to hand hold when you want to follow the action quickly as you shoot.

Moving into the field of long and wide angle lenses opens up a whole new world of photography. Are you ready for it? If you are, you can step into that world in our store, where you'll find fine quality lenses and accessories for your camera and every picture-taking need. Come in!

SHELTER FOR LARGE FAMILY — The Pomeroy, designed by the Associated Architects, has four bedrooms and an option for a fifth. Three baths, a sunken living room, dining room and family room, foyer, modern kitchen, double garage and two patio areas. The basement is optional.

Flexible House Design Offers Happy Options

By GERRY BISHOP

The Pomeroy was designed for fun and full family living.

It has many extras such as a sunken living room with a sloped beamed ceiling, two separate patio areas and a large upstairs room that could be used for entertaining or a fifth bedroom.

And there's flexibility, too. The Associated Architects arranged the floor plan to provide an option on the basement. The Pomeroy could be built with or without a cellar.

This model's vital statistics are impressive. There are four bedrooms and an option for a fifth, three baths, a living room, dining room and family room, modern kitchen, foyer, double garage and plenty of storage and closet space.

The living room has a fireplace and is isolated from the regular traffic pattern. Sliding glass doors connect with a patio, a convenient arrangement for entertaining.

Adjacent to the living room is the dining room. A decorative screen serves as a divider.

Strategic Location

Nearby is the kitchen, just across the foyer. A homemaker would be impressed with the handy arrangement of cabinets and appliances. A washer and dryer are closeted around the corner from the kitchen.

The family room is strategically located near the kitchen, permitting informal dining and partying. Sliding glass doors connect with the second patio.

Three bedrooms are clustered around two baths on the ground level. The master bedroom, approximately 15 feet by 12 feet, has its own bath and is connected to one of the patios by sliding glass doors. Also, the master has two closets.

The other bedrooms are large and are positioned across from the second bath. All three baths incidentally are grouped for plumbing economy.

Alternative Choices

The roof's steep pitch provides a long party room on the second floor. Or it could be used as a bedroom.

Another bedroom is on the second floor as is the third bath.

The furnace and water heater are closeted on the first floor. However, the plans provide for stairs to a basement if one should be built.

The Pomeroy has a handsome exterior. It is T-shaped, with the living room-dining room wing jutting out from the center section.

The exterior is a combination of frame and brick which complement the colonial lines.

Outside dimensions are approximately 68 feet by 54 feet and the living area totals 1,844 square feet.

Here's How To Do It

Q.—Are those new self-sticking resilient floor tiles as good as the kind you install with a liquid adhesive. And is the installation procedure any different?

A.—The manufacturer of a vinyl-asbestos tile, when questioned, assured me that the same ingredients are used in his adhesive-backed tile as in the other kind and that the quality and durability are the same. The installation is easier, of course, since all you do is remove the protective paper from the back of the tile and press it down. Follow the same method as for regular tile: Make sure the floor is clean and smooth, find the center of the room and start laying the tile from there, one quarter of a room at a time. Be sure the tile is correctly placed before you press it down because, once down, it is difficult to shift.

Q.—Removed the varnish finish from a table, but a reddish stain remains. Since I am going to paint the table, is it necessary to get out the stain, which doesn't seem to yield to sanding?

A.—You'd have to bleach the wood if you were going to give it a clear finish, but since you are going to paint it, coat the surface with aluminum paint. When that is dry, apply an undercoat, preferably of the same brand as the paint to be used as the finish coat. Then go ahead with the final coat.

Despite its resistance to corrosive attack, aluminum exposed to the weather may lose its brightness and take on a dull and often mottled effect.

While there are several methods of cleaning aluminum (one of which involves nothing more than the use of mild soap and water), many home owners might take on the job of painting it—if they thought they could get good results. There seems to be an erroneous impression that painting aluminum is an especially difficult project and that it is only done well at the factory. Actually, it is no more difficult than painting any other exterior surface, although new aluminum does require a special pre-paint washing.

Some persons who like the advantages of aluminum are not too thrilled by its silvery, glossy surface. Painting then would take on the double chore of decoration and protection. And if they preferred the shiny coat but still wanted the metal to have a new appearance, exterior aluminum paint would be the answer.

If the old coating is in good condition and is adhering soundly, remove the surface dirt and other debris and same as, though you were preparing to paint any other material. Where there is extreme gloss, better adhesion will be obtained by roughening it with steel wool or sandpaper—again the same as with other metal, wood or plaster. If the old coating has been chipped, sand it, prime the bare spots and go ahead with the painting.

New aluminum may have on it oil or grease applied in the factory to protect it during shipment. If you intend to paint it, this coating must be washed off with a phosphoric acid compound available at most paint and hardware stores. When the aluminum has dried thoroughly, it should be primed with an exterior metal primer. The most commonly recommended primer is zinc chromate, especially where corrosive conditions exist. After that, one or two coats of finish paint are applied.

What kind of paint? Any kind that you would use on exterior wood or metal, although a check of the directions on the rear label of the container is always advisable.

Lacking Social Acceptance

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state Education Department says preliminary reports give approval to its experimental program of letting girls participate with boys in noncontact high school sports such as tennis, golf and bowling.

The department said the only negative result was in the social acceptance of the idea.

Capital Spending Plans Point To Hesitation On 'Turnaround'

NEW YORK (AP) — Pessimists got a little more fuel for their arguments that the economy is not yet ready to make a turnaround with the news this week that business was continuing to trim 1970 capital spending plans.

The new estimate for plant and equipment expenditures by business this year is $80.52 billion, the Commerce Department and the Securities and Exchange Commission said. This is up 6.6 per cent from last year, but below the 8 per cent originally forecast by the President's Council of Economic Advisers and below the 9.8 per cent suggested by the same survey last March.

Administration economists said they weren't overly concerned by the downward revision because it was consistent with the effort to achieve a moderate level of economic growth with less inflationary pressures.

One administration economist noted that a recent National Industrial Conference Board study showed manufacturers were increasing their appropriations for future outlays. He said the present slowdown in spending would be a positive factor in helping corporations to rebuild their cash liquidity positions which had been generating some concern recently.

Most economists felt the report was consistent with recent forecasts for a slow-moving recovery in the second half of 1970 with investment outlays rising by only about $1 billion a quarter.

Economists at a major New York City bank reiterated the belief that the economy is showing some firm signs of recovery and that it should be really growing again by next year.

"An increase in industrial production, a sharp pickup in new orders for durable goods, a significant slowdown in the rate of increase in consumer prices, a rise in the stock market—all these are indications that the tone and tempo of the U.S. economy have been changing in recent weeks, and for the better," economists at First National City Bank said.

They added that the first clear signs of response to the moderate fiscal and monetary expansion policies initiated last winter would continue to be more apparent in the financial markets than in the economy itself for some time to come.

The bank predicted that capital spending by industry would grow less rapidly than the rest of the economy, a fact substantiated by the Commerce Department and Security and Exchange Commission report. But increases in capital spending on housing and state and local government projects can be expected, it added.

Figures released by McGraw Hill showed that although total construction contracts for July, 1970 were below the total for July, 1969, housing construction made considerable gains over the past year.

Everyone concedes that the biggest force in moving the economy is consumer spending, which means a lot of economists have been looking that way recently waiting for the consumer to make his move. Most agree that no big boom in consumer spending is likely to develop, but other factors would seem to suggest that the consumer has enough cash to put him in a little more of a buying mood soon.

The big question in most economists' minds is when. The answer, they admit, most will probably be found in another question: Will high prices continue to make the consumer leary of excessive purchasing and induce him to save rather than spend? Positive factors on the consumer spending scene are the $3.6 billion rise in July in personal income, the removal of the remaining 5 per cent surtax withholding charge, the increase in personal tax exemption, and a big retroactive pay boost for Federal employees. Altogether this adds $10 billion or more yearly to potential purchasing power.

Still, most economists are taking the view posited by General Electric's economists in its quarterly economic review: "We think that consumers will remain uncertain for the next six months. Confidence will not revive until price gains slow and signs that the Vietnam war will definitely end."

In one of the most optimistic notes struck yet, Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans predicted interest rates would decline to 6 per cent in the near future.

The prime interest rates have been above 6 per cent since April 1968, and currently are running at 8 per cent. The prime rate is the amount banks charge their best customers.

Substantiating evidence for this optimism was also found in banking data presented this week. This data showed the Federal Reserve System had pressed its policy of monetary expansion during the last two weeks. The availability of funds in the economy grew at a much more rapid rate than has been characteristic recently, the data said.

Chrysler, General Motors Await UAW 'Price' For Peace

By A. F. MAHAN
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — General Motors and Chrysler today awaited delivery of "the dollars and cents" price which the United Auto Workers Union says it will take to buy a new three-year wage settlement.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock said he would lay down the price, first at Chrysler and then at GM—twin targets for a settlement before a Sept. 14 strike deadline.

Douglas A. Fraser, a UAW vice president and its chief negotiator at Chrysler, said the union would present its demands in dollars and cents, but added that the price might be withheld from newsmen.

Ford Motor Co., which was struck for seven weeks in 1967, was given strike immunity by the union when it picked GM and Chrysler Thursday as its targets for winning a pattern-setting contract by the expiration of three-year agreements at midnight, Sept. 14.

The UAW said it will strike one or both of its twin targets if no new contract is on hand at that time.

The union rejected as "woefully inadequate" contract offers the companies made Tuesday.

The companies complained later that the union had couched its demands in language too vague for them to figure precisely what it would take to meet them, and asked that the UAW be more specific.

The union has said it is seeking a "substantial" wage increase, but has declined to specify what it means by substantial.

The companies said their initial offers represented a 7.5 per cent hourly wage increase in the first year of a proposed three-year contract. The UAW rejected that claim, saying the increase amounted to 1.1 per cent at best.

The average hourly rate UAW member at the Big Three automakers earns $4.02 an hour. The companies say fringe benefits add $1.75 more to the hourly cost for each worker.

The companies said their initial offers represented a 7.5 per cent hourly wage increase in the first year of a proposed three-year contract. The UAW rejected that claim, saying the increase amounted to 1.1 per cent at best.

The average hourly rate UAW member at the Big Three automakers earns $4.02 an hour. The companies say fringe benefits add $1.75 more to the hourly cost for each worker.

The union has said it is seeking a "substantial" wage increase, but has declined to specify what it means by substantial.

New Minister Is Welcomed

Members of the official board of the First Pentecostal Holiness Church of Greenville, N.C., welcome their new minister, the Rev. M.D. McPherson, and his wife, Mrs. McPherson, at an open house at the parsonage, 204 Brinkley Road.

The official board is composed of J. Melvin Moore, Eugene Adams, Mrs. McPherson, the Rev. Mr. McPherson, K. O. Radford, H.L. Austin, Daneel LeRoux, and H. M. Gardner.

The Woman's Auxiliary of the church held the open house. Heading the hostesses arranging the event were Mrs. David Wiseman, president; Mrs. Dan Byrum, chairman of the social committee; and Mrs. H.L. Austin, co-ordinating chairman.

Took Action On Sidewalk

Sidewalks, safety plans for school children, and city-county garbage disposal were non-agenda subjects of action by members of the City Council Thursday night.

A motion was approved for the city to foot the bill to construct a sidewalk on the north side of West Fifth Street, beginning at Eppes High School site and continuing to Memorial Drive.

Cost of this project, $1,048.60, will be borne exclusively by the city. A sidewalk on the west side of Memorial Drive from 5th Street to Moyewood Drive was also discussed.

Cost for such a project would amount to $2,350.68. A petition from property owners will be sought to provide for payment of $1.00 per foot to assist in construction cost. If property owners will agree to participate, action will be taken on this project.

An agreement was reached to contact the Safety Committee to look into the heavy junior high school student pedestrian traffic on Fairway View. Councilman Johnnie Edwards noted that students walking from Ingewood, Elmhurst and Brook Green Subdivisions resulted in a real safety hazard.

City Manager Harry Hagerty said that action can be taken to paint a yellow stripe pedestrian area on the east side street to provide a safety zone in which school children can walk.

On the matter of the county using the Greenville dump for solid waste disposal, the councilmen approved a motion to inform the county that cost share participation is expected.

A deadline of January 1, 1971 was established for the county to pay a sum of $22,750, which is retroactive to July 1, 1970, as their part of the solid waste disposal.

A further stipulation was made that the Greenville facility would take in only county people, and not another municipality in Pitt County.

Curtail Use Of No Pest Strips

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has continued the registration of No Pest Strips with new labels, it was announced today by E. L. Kilpatrick, sanitation supervisor with the Pitt County Health Department.

The strips are not to be used in kitchens, restaurants, or areas where food is prepared or served, Kilpatrick explained.

Kilpatrick said the food inspectors of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture have been notified to advise operators of establishments under their jurisdiction that it is no longer an accepted practice for these strips to be used in and around food preparation areas, and that the strips will have to be moved out.

Kilpatrick said restaurants and food establishments which continue to use this insecticide are violating this regulation.

The current strip label reads: "Do not use in kitchens, restaurants or areas where food is prepared or served."

The old label read the strip should not be used to contaminate food, water or feedstuffs.

According to the agriculture department, the FDS found DDVP residues as high as .5 ppm in exposed foods, thus showing that contamination does occur, Kilpatrick explained.

Ministerial Meeting Set

The Greenville Ministerial Association will meet at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church Monday, Sept. 14, at 11 a.m.

A coffee and social time will be held prior to the meeting at 10:30 a.m.

Charles Mulholland, the new chairman, will conduct the meeting. He replaces Tim Henry who moved away from Greenville to a new appointment.

The meeting, previously held the first Monday, was changed because of Labor Day.

The program will deal with the clergyman's participation in the political affairs of the community, and a discussion will be led by one of the local elected officials.

MASONIC NOTICE
Greenville Lodge No. 284 A.F.—A.M. will have a stated communication Monday Sept. 7th, at 7:30 P.M. Supper will be served at 6:30 P.M. This is designated as Tom Moore night. All Master masons are cordially invited.

Court Backlog . . .

January, the solicitorial district will be changed to coincide with the judicial district.

At present, Hamilton serves Pitt, Craven, Carteret, Jones, Greene and Pamlico Counties. After January 1, he will have only four counties, including Pitt, Craven, Carteret and Pamlico.

But the help will not be in time to reduce the load of cases now facing the court in Pitt this year.

In addition to the number of capital cases before the court, Hamilton said three other factors have had an effect on the number of cases pending and indicated "those three elements are what is going to cause chaos in the courts in the next few years."

Due to changing laws and changing criminal procedures, Hamilton said solicitors are forced to try many defendants separately when in the past, "two or three defendants involved in the same case could be tried together."

"Another thing is happening," he explained. "Lawyers are appointed in all felony cases where defendants are indigent, which is by far most of the cases."

"Appointed lawyers are afraid to plead a man guilty even though he is guilty because the defendant will invariably come back for a post-conviction hearing, saying the lawyer sold him down the river or was incompetent, and so on."

According to Hamilton, appointed lawyers "to prevent this from happening, try cases out." The third factor: "In any capital case now, it is impossible for a man to plead guilty," the solicitor explained.

"Add those three things, and dockets are going to get impossible in the future," Hamilton theorized.

Ask Them Yourself

FOR FRANK J. MCGEE, defense attorney,
My Lai Massacre Trials

Is it true that the soldiers accused of participating in the alleged massacre at My Lai in Vietnam cannot get a fair trial under present conditions?—Mrs. J. Catlin, Austin, Texas

● When the Pulitzer Prize committee gave a journalist (Seymour Hersh, Dispatch News Service) a prize for his work on the story, they as much as said that there was a massacre—just as the reporter wrote it. He is currently on a lecture tour telling his version of the story. Because of the climate created in the U.S., I can't believe the defendants will get a fair trial.

FOR JACKIE GLEASON

How come you are not smoking any more during your show? Did you kick the habit?—Eugene L. Licois, Fairfield, Calif.

● I still smoke. It's just that I don't feel I should set an example one way or the other for youngsters by smoking in front of the camera.

FOR MISS MILDRED ALFORD,
Director, American Airlines
Stewardess College

What are the main changes in habits that must be made when becoming a stewardess?—Mrs. A. R. Dunn, Lowell, Mass.

● We do not change the habits of young ladies who become stewardesses. Rather, our training enhances the personal attributes they already possess. When they leave our college near Ft. Worth, Tex., they have acquired the knowledge and skills that make them gracious, efficient stewardesses.

FOR DR. H. BOSLEY WOOLF,
Managing Editor,
Merriam-Webster Dictionary

Approximately how many new words are added to the dictionary annually?—Rose Delia, Trenton, N.J.

● In the 1966 printing of Webster's Third "New International Dictionary," we included an addenda that contains nearly 2,000 entries. That averages out to about 400 words annually since the initial publication of the book in 1961.

FOR DON SAMUELSON, Governor of Idaho

How serious is the timber loss due to insects and disease?—Del Lai-ceps, Burien, Wash.

● Quite serious. In Idaho we harvest about 1.5 billion board feet of timber per year, and we lose approximately the same amount because of disease and fire.

FOR EDITH HEAD, fashion designer

What is the greatest mistake American women make when they buy clothes?—Mrs. Ernest Ross, San Bernardino, Calif.

● They do not always know where they are going to use an item of clothing purchased or whether it goes with the rest of their clothes. Women should shop for clothes as carefully as they shop for groceries. They should only buy what they need and should definitely know the purpose for which they are buying.

FOR GEORGE C. SCOTT, actor

What was your biggest difficulty in portraying Gen. George S. Patton, Jr. in the movie, "Patton"?—B. L., Green Bay, Wis.

● My biggest difficulty was to avoid the popular impression of him—to show him not as a swaggering bully with a gun but as he actually was—a complex, multifaceted man.

FOR MARLIN PERKINS, tv's "Wild Kingdom" host

What sounds do skunks make? How do they communicate with one another?—Doris J. Carrier, Canton, Ohio

● Ernest Thompson Seton describes the various sounds that skunks make as a cooing whistling that ends in a soft purr, as well as snarls, growls, churrs, squeals, and twitterings. They also sniff and stamp the ground with their four feet. Among all these sounds there is communication.

Want to ask a famous person a question? You can through this column, and we'll get the answer from the prominent person you designate. Send question, preferably on a post card, to Ask Them Yourself, Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We cannot acknowledge questions, but $5 will be paid for each one used.

What in the World!

Parks and Pickets Bert Parks, who has been singing, "There She Is, Miss America," for the past 15 years, is aware that he's not on the "hit parade" of the Women's Liberation Front, which pickets outside Convention Hall, in Atlantic City, N.J. every year, during the annual Miss America pageant. "They've been doing it for years, but few people knew it," Parks told us. "They didn't get the notoriety they sought until they began burning their bras on the boardwalk."

"There she is," moans Bert Parks, "picketing me!"

What does the emcee think of Women's Lib? "My evaluation is that they have no personal appeal of their own. Unfortunately, they have been short-changed by life. Miss America, however, is not to blame for their inadequacies." Will the Lib gals be back picketing this year? "Yes," Parks predicts. "They'll be doing their thing." The Pageant's 50th-anniversary presentation will be telecast this Saturday night, Sept. 12.

The Active Aged California, Illinois, Pennsylvania, and New York have the largest senior-citizen populations in the country. This has inspired a trend in homes for the aged toward providing nonresident services. Many citizens who are over 65 are continuing to live in their own dwellings but go to aged homes for such things as medical care and social and recreational activities. When independent status is no longer possible, they move into the home, which is already familiar to them from their regular visits. At New York City's Morningside House, where 80-year-olds are in the majority, some residents are, of course, frail and chronically ill. But there are also some rugged octogenarians, like these ladies, who still enjoy bowling, horseshoe pitching, and gardening.

Time Is Money For just $175 a half hour, a consultant in San Francisco advises businessmen how to save money. One of Alan Lakein's suggestions, according to The Wall Street Journal, is: "There's always enough time for the important things." That includes family, even if it means scheduling a luncheon appointment with the wife. Some of Lakein's own time-savers are: he reads a book a day by reading only the first sentence of each paragraph, never waits for anyone, and limits his clients to a 10-block radius of his office.

on exhibition at the Smithsonian in Washington. The four-foot "hard" styro-foam cube was part of the fifth annual Armco Student Design Program, "Concepts for Tomorrow's Leisure." What's new about it is three cuts through the cube create seven sections, which in turn form beds, chairs, stools, hassocks, lounges. "I could furnish a small apartment with just a single cube," says Olsen, "or a large outdoor recreational area with several of them."

living

"We're looking for people to write children's books."

If you ever wanted to write...for pleasure or profit...here is your opportunity.

by John Ledes

WE need writers. There are over 200 publishers of books for children and more than 400 magazines for young readers . . . that need writers.

And there are so many — men and women — who should be writers. Are you one of them? Uncertain of your ability . . . or unable to get professional training . . . tied to your home or job?

Once you know the basic techniques, writing for children is easy. Any occupation, hobby, new idea, personal experience, or special interest can be written about — plainly and simply — and be published.

But you must have a restless urge to write and really want the rewards and satisfaction that go with this career.

A new kind of school

The Institute of Children's Literature was founded for the purpose of encouraging more and better writing for children. Five years have gone into preparing this professional writing course. We have assembled the top editors, educators, and writers in the field. People like Dr. David Bryson of the Westinghouse Learning Center, Roberta Miller of Golden Books, and Hardie Gramatky, author of Little Toot, worked together to create this course. And I am proud that my own publishing firm is associated.

A course to help others

We have written and published more than one hundred books and magazine articles for young readers. We know how to write . . . how to teach . . . and how to help you get your writing published.

Regardless of your formal education, we will show you how to use your own feelings and interests to write for children — at home and in your spare time.

This course will train you step by step, from writing a sentence to writing a finished manuscript.

Only you and your instructor

Writing is a very personal profession and teaching writing must be personal also. In addition to writing materials, text books, instructions, and assignments, you will also receive close personal guidance from your own instructor.

You will learn writing by writing. First about yourself. Your instructor wants to know your goals, interests and desires. He wants to know you.

And a writing career is best learned at home, during your free time, when you feel like writing. Teaching this course by mail allows more time for each student than is possible in a classroom. There is no bell to end the class, no interruption from other students. The instructor and the student work together at the pace and depth desired. A writer must work individually and independently, and this is the way this course is taught.

You do your assignments at home and mail them to your instructor. When your instructor has carefully read and edited an assignment, he writes you a long personal letter explaining in detail his corrections and comments. You receive his exact professional advice and guidance.

The rewards and fulfillment

Writing is a career you can pursue whenever you want, wherever you want. A profession with challenge, excitement, security and satisfaction. When you complete this course you will be a qualified writer with a future. And what a future!

The market is unlimited. It is the constant cry of all editors and publishers, of both books and magazines, John Ledes, the distinguished president of Astor-Honor Book Publishers, is also a lawyer and writer. His company has published many outstanding award winning books for young readers. He is one of the founders of the Institute of Children's Literature and faculty consultant.

that they need more good manuscripts for young readers. And never before has so much been published.

More than 200 publishers of children's books produce over 3,000 books each year with total sales of $170,000,000! And over 400 periodicals for young readers have a combined circulation exceeding 80,000,000. Books and magazine articles for children are made into TV shows and movies. And there are twenty-four children's book clubs and a rapidly growing children's paperback market.

Writing is only satisfying when your work is published, and for writers of children's literature it is easier now than ever to find a publisher.

In fact, many of these writers earn $10,000 to $15,000 per year working only in their spare time. A best seller or a book that is sold to the movies can earn over $100,000.

First step to a new career

You may have a routine job, be taking care of your home, or be a concerned grandparent. But if you want to be an author, you will be judged only by your writing ability, not your sex, age, or education.

Women writers are on the best seller list as often as men. And among children's book publishers, and in the children's magazine field there are as many women editors as men.

To find qualified men and women with writing aptitude worth developing, the Faculty and Consultants of the Institute have prepared a special Aptitude Test. It is offered free and will be graded free by a member of our staff.

If you really want to be a writer, send the coupon below for our Test and free brochure which fully describes the Institute, course, faculty, market and a new future for you. If you have writing aptitude you will be eligible to enroll. Of course there is no obligation.

'What Our Family Is Doing About

In this exclusive article, an Academy Award-winning actress reveals her concern over one of the world's most sobering problems—so great she's considering giving up her career

One of the most serious problems facing American families today—and for the rest of their lives—is the pollution of our natural environment. Everyone should become concerned with trying to preserve what's left and restoring what's lost. It's the family unit that will accomplish this best.

I believe this so strongly that I've been telling Paul [her husband, actor Paul Newman] that I've got to retire from my film career. I'm finding it increasingly difficult to spend time making movies when I can do something as vital as this.

Paul and I have three daughters, Eleanor Theresa (called "Nell"), 11, Melissa Stewart (called "Lissy"), eight, and Clea Olivia, five. I feel that one of our best hopes of solving the problems of ecology is through our children. The sad fact is that the environmental problem will be worse for them than it has been for us. My generation, for the most part not realizing the dangers of some of its practices, has contributed enormously to the problem. But we can still do something to reverse the tide of destruction, and, hopefully, our children can do the rest.

I have taught my girls to be very much aware of the world around them. They know, for instance, that many lakes and rivers are so polluted they are already dead or dying, no longer able to support fish or plant life; that safe drinking water can no longer be taken for granted; that almost no community can claim really clean air; that farm and woodland are eroding; and that our increasing population is suffocating in litter, garbage, and sewage.

They are also aware of some very basic principles behind this terrible trend: the fact that overwhelming population forces overwhelming pollution—and we are caught in the midst of both.

In 1650 the world had a population of about 500 million people. In 1850 it was a full billion, doubling in about 200 years. Today we are over three billion, doubling almost every 37 years. Soon it will be four billion, and if the rate continues, in 900 years there will be 60 billion people on earth—100 persons to share each square yard of the earth's surface, including the sea. Of course, there is an unhappy escape. According to Dr. Paul Ehrlich, the Stanford University scientist who wrote the terrifying book, "The Population Bomb," the world would have died long before we reached that figure because we would simply have run out of air to breathe.

So I have brainwashed my children not to have children, or no more than one. If they want more, to adopt some of the many unwanted children already born. I realize I'm a fine one to preach on this subject, what with three of my own and three stepchildren, and I love being a mother to all of them. But the facts of overpopulation were not general knowledge when we started our family.

I teach my girls to treasure what ecological pleasures we have now, and to try to preserve them. We live on acres of woods in Connecticut, with a stream—which we are trying to keep unpolluted—and many animals. At last count, we had three dogs, five cats, five fish, some baby chickens, a sparrow hawk, turtles, and a horse.

The children have always been hooked on ecology. I started them off when they were very little with visits to nature museums so they could learn and appreciate. I believe in teaching children at home what they should know about the world they live in, without depending entirely on schools.

At breakfast, I read the news to them so they know what's going on. For somewhat affluent children, they are remarkably self-sufficient. They make their own beds, keep their rooms neat and clean, and can all make breakfast when called upon. They have to learn now because when they grow up there just won't be the affluence as we know it today. Too many people and not enough space, housing, air, or any of the necessary things of life—not unless we make incredible changes. And nothing proposed so far is enough.

Children are marvelous saviours. They can be so kind. They want to save the world. They are very much impressed by the drama of it all, if nothing else.

Lissy, for instance, dreamed up her theory of what she called Manhattan Park. One day when we were walking in New York City, she noticed how dirty and littered everything was. She was very young but bright and perceptive. She had just learned about the ecological example of green plants taking in carbon dioxide and giving off oxygen for humans to breathe, who in turn give off carbon dioxide for the plants.

"Mommy," she suggested, "I think they should get all the people out of Manhattan, level it, then take away all the rubbish and just plant grass all over. In Manhattan Park, no cars would be allowed, just walking. And nothing to contaminate this beautiful garden. Nothing could be brought in that isn't organic and could be absorbed into the earth. Paper sacks would be okay but not glass bottles. No one could smoke—just walk and picnic."

I have stopped smoking myself. In fact, I made a recording, with some others with the same problem, called "How to Stop Smoking Without Using Will Power" (RCA Victor). It has worked for many of my actor friends, Richard Basehart and Carol Burnett, among them, and I try to convince others.

I have also revised some of my living habits, and my family's, in the interest of ecology. As much as possible, I serve them organically grown foods (bought from a health-food store), foods which are grown naturally without synthetic chemical fertilizers. I really unnerved the group of workers who came to clean up our yard and plant some bushes when I told them not to use anything on the lawn that wasn't organic or natural.

The trash problem is another terrifying one. As part of my contribution, since you can't destroy plastic, I try not to use it. I use decomposable detergents, and I buy only returnable bottles. There is one automobile gasoline on the market which contains no lead, and I use only that. If there's ever an electric car made, I'll be among the first to buy one.

Except for some wine with dinner, I don't drink. I don't approve of it. Perhaps I'm old-fashioned, but I just don't approve of anything that turns you on artificially. I'm organic!

These things are only a beginning. You do what you can on an individual and family level, but pollution control will have to be attacked on a much larger level. We'll need legislation and a lot of letter writers to get that legislation. (If you don't know the name or address of your Representatives, your public library can tell you.) I know that letters and telegrams are truly effective in Washington. I've been there several times lobbying for the Department of Peace bill, and I asked the men who get letters. And I know, from my own experience, that teen-agers love to collect signatures.

I myself work for almost every ecology group there is. I started, years ago, with SMOG in Los Angeles. Since then, I've joined the Sierra Club, Clean Air, and Friends of Earth.

How am I most effective? As a shill! I'm not ashamed to admit it's the most effective way a movie star can serve. At least I have finally reached the point where I can do more than just stand around and have my picture taken hosting a luncheon. I am now knowledgeable enough to lead discussions, and, yes, do interviews. But it serves a worthwhile purpose, and I feel useful.

I am able to recruit volunteers for these organizations I believe in, to help the cause of ecology, or to help them start an organization of their own. Being a movie star offers a wider audience entrée—like tv talk shows. Say I'm asked to speak about my latest movie. Well, forget about the film. Here's an opportunity to get the message across.

All over the country there are organizations that need volunteers. There's a Planned Parenthood Clinic in most communities. Workers with skills are useful, but everyone can help in some way—answer the phone, give out literature—and Planned Parenthood gives small training courses to volunteers. My mother became a receptionist for the organization.

Of course, many women will protest, "How can I find the time?" I have no patience with that. I say, how can you find the time to live? Support the environment you're taking from. Otherwise, no one will be around to enjoy the environment. What these women are really saying is, "I can't find the time to preserve a world for my children to grow up in."

They can find time to go to the beauty parlor. Why not cut that out and do your hair at home? That's what I do. The style I sometimes wear is what's known as "what to do with your hair when it's growing out."

It's a matter of priorities. If life is important to you and your children, you will find the time.

If you think you have no skills, no time, or whatever—just remember anyone can pick up trash and put it where it belongs. I do. My children do.

Pollution fighter Woodward

One day I drove my own three, plus three of their friends, to our small apartment in New York City. I seldom drive in from Connecticut, and I was surprised to see how the skyscrapers were crowding out into the countryside already. We spent the night, some of the kids sleeping on the floor and talking all night. The next day, we all went to Central Park and picked up trash.

Nell is already a dedicated ecologist at 11. She's trying to decide between that as a career and being a veterinarian. (I tell her she could perhaps combine them.) Lissy is very concerned with pollution. With even five-year-old Clea joining in, we all picked up litter and put it into the litter baskets, hoping we'd serve as an example. And, to the people we saw actually dropping trash, we walked up to them and very ostentatiously said, "Litterbug!"

My children are, by now, so dedicated to saving our world from pollution that I know they can continue in their own ways. They speak of it to their friends and classmates, for instance. Ecology is as natural to them as any other little-girl subject of conversation—of playing, or of favorite teachers, or of "when I grow up."

I'm pleased that my influence with my own three has, in turn, influenced other children to care and to help. And that's what it's all about. My whole point is that each family member has the responsibility to understand the problem and do something about pollution of our environment. In so doing, they are bound to teach and encourage others as well.

As for continuing my career, one type of movie I would certainly like to consider is one on the subject of the environment, if I can figure a way to do it that would still be commercial enough for Hollywood to buy. I could reach so many more people that way.

Meanwhile, everyone who cares about life can help our world to live, and one of the best places to start is within your own family. ♦

Joanne relaxes on the set of "They Might Be Giants," with husband Paul Newman, the coproducer. Film will be released in late fall, may be one of her last, if she opts for ecology instead of acting.

start with him

Let TIME-LIFE BOOKS show you pre-revolutionary Russia and the powerful effect it still has on Soviet people and politics

Today's Russian citizen is as much a product of Peter the Great as of Marx, Lenin or Kosygin. He embodies a thousand years of history and tradition that no revolution can legislate away. At heart, he's a Russian first and a Communist second.

That's why it's impossible for you to understand today's Russian without knowing his past. And that's why Rise of Russia—the rousing story of that past—is being offered to you now by TIME-LIFE BOOKS' GREAT AGES OF MAN series.

Rise of Russia shows you a country torn between East and West...medievalism and modernity. A country made forever mistrustful by incessant Mongol invasions...and by its European neighbors' selfish attempts to keep it in a state of "cannibalism."

Russia before this century was a land of devout religion, romantic impulses, grandiose gestures, and larger-than-life personalities. These qualities formed the character and the art of Dostoevsky and Tolstoy, Chekhov and Tchaikovsky. And, in spite of party or policy, this traditional side of the Russian spirit still shines through in writers like Yevtushenko, Solzhenitsyn, Voznesensky—even in a dancer like Nureyev.

The GREAT AGES OF MAN Series

Rise of Russia is your introductory volume in TIME-LIFE BOOKS' GREAT AGES OF MAN—a series that brings you the triumphs and disasters, the inventions and ideas, the people and places, the arts and sciences of those eras that changed the world's course. Written by Robert Wallace, Rise of Russia uses TIME-LIFE BOOKS' famous photo-essay approach to show you what this rich and turbulent culture actually looked like while you read about it.

You'll see a special portfolio of paintings by an artist who spent fifty-three years studying 17th century Moscow's history and archaeology. You'll see 300-year-old mosques that are masterpieces in wood...icons and mosaics that blend the best of Oriental and Western art.

You'll meet Ivan the Terrible, "as capricious a madman as has ever occupied a throne." A talented and farsighted leader in his lucid moments, Ivan was capable of having people decapitated if he happened to dislike their faces...and he even ordered the execution of an elephant because it wouldn't kneel to him.

You'll be fascinated by Peter the Great, one of the most remarkable rulers of any country. A giant in stature and energy, Peter westernized Russia almost singlehandedly...learning ship-building, stone-masonry, cannon-casting, type-cutting—even dentistry—so he could teach them to his people. His zeal went so far, in fact, that he prescribed the behavior patterns of his subjects...the cut and color of their clothing...the design of their houses...even of their gravestones.

Among other volumes in GREAT AGES OF MAN:

145 illustrations, 83 in color

The format of Rise of Russia is typical of the series. Clothbound, stamped in gold leaf, it is art book size: 8 $\frac{3}{4}$ " x 10 $\frac{3}{4}$ ". Nearly 200 pages, the book contains 145 illustrations, 83 in color. Despite all these lavish features, it costs you only \$4.95 (\$5.25 in Canada) plus shipping and handling, thanks to TIME-LIFE BOOKS' large printings. And with your order you receive free a specially-written 5,200-word introduction to the series by Jacques Barzun.

Leaf through Rise of Russia at your leisure. If it doesn't win you over within 10 days, send it back. If you keep it, you pay only $4.95 ($5.25 in Canada) plus shipping and handling. And you'll then receive other volumes in GREAT AGES OF MAN at two-month intervals—for the same free 10-day trial and at the same price.

Sending the coupon commits you to nothing more than a free browse through a fascinating book, in the comfort of your own home...so why not mail it in now? If the coupon is missing, write to TIME-LIFE BOOKS, Dept. 1401, Time & Life Building, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

A Famous Writer Recalls His School Days

By GOODMAN ACE

Although my ties are narrow, and my coat lapels are narrow, my mind is wide open on the subject of the revolution of our youth. True, my hair curls back over my coat collar but that's only because I've been playing hooky from my barber.

But with what I've been reading for some years now about the chaos on our campuses and how it has spread to the high schools and onto the playgrounds of the elementary schools. I have become, as the kids would put it, uptight. Especially when I look back at my own early school days.

I admit that takes a lot of long, long looking back. But I recall it as if it were yesteryear—fill in your own date—when the three R's stood for "reading, 'riting, and 'rithmetic." And there was an extra, and unspoken, R, which stood for Respect for my teachers.

Today the three R's seem to stand for "reading, 'riting, and rioting." And according to the news media, too many kids are majoring in the last.

Take my hand and come back with me to that time, when I was a young man courting a girl. I was 10, she was 11. I had an affinity for older women.

We attended the same school in a Midwestern town. She was the woman whom I had decided I for the rest of my life would carry her schoolbooks for. (And that's why I never learned how to construct a better sentence than that one).

Anyway, she would never let me carry them because in those days carrying a girl's schoolbooks was the equivalent of today's being pinned. She wasn't ready for that. So it was my wont, whenever I saw her walking across the school ground at recess, to attract her attention by turning, what I thought, were graceful handsprings in her path.

They were handsprings which, more often than not, found me lying prostrate on my aching back. She would look down and giggle. And I was ecstatic.

On that same school ground, during recess, there constantly strolled the tall, gaunt figure of Mr. Arnold, principal. Mr. Arnold, I have come to remember in my nostalgia, was a direct descendant of that Army officer who surrendered West Point to the British. I recall he was 10 feet, six inches tall. His hands clasped behind his back, he surveyed with jaundiced eye the behavior of the school's two or three hundred pupils. And those of us who did not conform to his standard of gentlemanly or ladylike behavior were publicly punished.

The punishment consisted of the offending pupil walking the grounds with his fingers holding onto Mr. Arnold's coattails, for all to see.

One day, after one of my more grotesque handsprings, I looked up from my reclining position on the ground, and there, with his head in the clouds, was Mr. Arnold. And for the next 10 minutes there was I, walking the grounds holding onto his coattails and wishing fervently that I were dead.

If Mr. Arnold was Enemy Number One, Mrs. Studebaker, my arithmetic teacher was definitely Number Two, if not tied for first place. She was a stickler for perfection. When she sent me to the blackboard to multiply 46×57 (I recall the figures exactly), I came up with the answer of 2,604. Thereupon, Mrs. Studebaker angrily snatched the chalk from my computing fingers and proved for all the class to see what a dummy I was. The answer she got was 2,622.

To have even come up with the 2,600 seemed to me Herculean enough. But not to Mrs. Studebaker.

"When you multiplied 7×6 ," she shouted at me, "you got 42. But then you put down the 4 and carried the 2. You should have put down the 2 and carried the 4."

When I muttered something like the equivalent of "big deal," she ordered me to sit on the stool in the corner.

Well, that ancient historical bit of teacher brutality sometimes swims into focus in my polluted nostalgia, and I find myself empathizing with students in their struggle against teachers in the Establishment.

But on the other hand, I realize that as the student rebellion keeps on, and as whole schools are closed, what are we left with? I shudder to think what we're left with. We're left with millions of students, who, when they multiply 7×6 , will in the new generations to come, write the 4 and carry the 2! How are we ever going to land a man on Mars that way? •

CUSTOM MADE

New $2.98 Dress Form Duplicates Your Body More Exactly Than Any Standard Form

MAKES PATTERN ADJUSTING EASIER!

Adds $25 to $50 value to each dress you make. Gives custom look to each dress you alter. More precise than $60 forms—or no cost!

Even beginners can now avoid that home-made look and achieve custom fit.

Because pattern adjusting (the hardest part of sewing) is easy on a form shaped exactly like you. And we've discovered a dress form more precisely you than any other . . . down to each fraction of an inch of your curvature.

Unlike standard dress forms it's custom made for you. It gives custom fit you never had by allowing for your smallest figure variation. It becomes exactly you—life size—with your neck, shoulders, bust, waist, hips . . . and everything in between including the curve of your tummy and derriere.

This custom form costs $2.98. Here's why.

WORLD'S SIMPLEST—AND MOST INGENUOUS

A dress form designer stumbled on this ingenious way to make your own custom form. It's the most fun yet in home sewing. Only trying it can show you how easy and simple (and more precise) the process is.

You slip a cotton stretch jersey foundation over your body. A friend first applies measured cellulose stays with an applicator included. She finishes with gummed sculpture tape. She's actually TAPEMOLDING your dress form right on you yet it cannot touch your skin. Your slightest measurement differences from standard patterns are being precisely duplicated to the smallest fraction of an inch of body surface. It's easy. It's so firm and strong, she scissors it down the back, you step out, tape it together and PRESTO there's your DUPLICATE YOU down to your tiniest differences and even posture.

You can even varnish it as in the drawing. It fits any bust to 42 inches.

Only trying can show you how this TAPEMOLD Custom Fit Dress Form saves hours of adjusting patterns and fitting materials—up to 50% of sewing time.

It's amazing how this simple form saves struggling, twisting, turning—trying to get the right fit. It saves ripping out seams for a simple alteration or just because your skirt didn't hang properly the first time. Now you'll save the $3 to $5 paid before to fix a shoulder line—shorten a hem—take in a waist. Too large or too small dresses altered on this form quickly fit again. You easily alter, redesign, remodel your own dresses, coats, skirts, blouses.

It's a boon for beginners. You start to make your own simple dresses, then more complicated ones, later even design your own styles on this form. Each dress you alter or make on this $2.98 form now wins praise for its custom fit look.

So if you've felt that a dress form custom made to your measurements was "too expensive"—if you've held off investing in a high cost form because it only approximated your measurements—NOW YOU CAN GET A DRESS FORM FOR ONLY $2.98 GUARANTEED TO BE MORE EXACTLY YOU THAN $30 TO $60 FORMS—OR NO COST!

Incidentally we recommend for best results the wood simulated stand that swivels, raises, lowers. It stands firm on a cross bar base. It assembles and takes apart easily. It's $1.98 extra. Just try both form and stand and see why you'll find custom fit easier and surer than you ever before dreamed possible.

AMAZING NO RISK OFFER

Instead of a bulky, heavy metal frame and body with expensive shipping charges your TAPEMOLD Custom Fit Dress Form comes to you as a kit with cellulose stays, gummed sculpture tape, cotton jersey tubing, adhesive, applicator and easy instructions. We recommend the $1.98 wood simulated adjustable stand. Neither costs one cent unless you are delighted.

Will you try it? Only after you make and alter dresses on it and subject it to every pattern adjusting test need you definitely decide anything.

"Your 'Mummy' form is the best ever. My dresses fit so much better."
Mrs. H.V.C., Missouri

"We altered three dresses on your tape dress form already. Never so easy. Now I make each dress . . . Maxi, Midi, Mini. So I can change it to whatever women finally wear. Thanks."
Mrs. F.C.B., Oregon

"I felt funny looking at my little pot on your form, not to speak of my rear. No dress form adjusted to things like that. My dresses do fit much better. Yesterday I was asked if I have a dress maker."
Mrs. J.M.C., Illinois

"Will inflation ever end? And what will I do with the first two dresses I made myself. They look so 'home-made' I'm too embarrassed to wear them. Thank goodness I made the third one on your form. What a difference. I got compliments."

THIS DIAGEM IS NOT A DIAMOND!

But You Can't Tell The Difference!

Imagine paying under $125 for a perfect two-carat ring . . . under $125 for fabulous one-carat earrings . . . $60 for a full carat tie-tac!

Impossible?

Since diamond prices are so closely controlled by the international cartels, of course that likelihood is extremely remote, but now thanks to an incredible space-age breakthrough, you can do practically the same thing!

Now, for a fraction of what you would pay for a genuine diamond, you can purchase a man-made jewel so perfect only an expert can tell it from the real thing for sure.

Imagine! Magnificent man-made Diagem so perfect that only experts can tell them apart positively . . . So beautiful that many jewelers — and even pawnbrokers — are fooled! So flawless that few genuine diamonds can match their perfection . . . and for less than one twentieth the cost!

These magnificent jewels are called Diagems. They are identical to diamonds in appearance.

THE ONLY DIFFERENCE

Genuine diamonds are produced under tremendous heat and pressure. So are Diagems! Genuine diamonds have a cubic molecular structure. So do Diagems! Genuine diamonds have a fire and brilliance measured by the refractory scale as 2.4. So do Diagems! Genuine diamonds are cut by expert diamond cutters. So are Diagems!

What is the difference then? Simply this . . . A diamond, which is the hardest substance in the world, is harder than a Diagem. This is the basic difference between a genuine diamond and a Diagem.

Even the woman who wears a Diagem can't tell the difference. Diagems pass for real diamonds in looks anywhere, in the most knowledgeable and most sophisticated company!

100 years ago, 50 years ago, even 20 years ago, there was no substitute for diamonds. There were paste, zircons, and a few laboratory-made stones of uncertain quality, but nothing that could actually pass in appearance as a genuine diamond. Diagem, the most magnificent man-made jewel can't be told from a diamond and knowledgeable people everywhere are taking advantage of that fact!

Those magnificent diamond earrings your friend's wife was wearing the other day may actually have been Diagems! The beautiful ring your best friend was wearing may have been a Diagem as well! More people—especially among the wealthy—are wearing Diagems than you would begin to suspect, but they're not telling, and unless they do, there is no way you could possibly know.

WHY NOT YOU?

Unless you are buying purely for investment, Diagems make perfect sense because: 1. They cost only a fraction of what diamonds cost, yet they are just as beautiful and often more so. 2. They pose no expensive insurance problems. If one should be lost, strayed or stolen, the event is not the calamity it might otherwise be. 3. Only an expert can tell them from the real thing for sure.

If you are wondering what kind of a gift to get for that special occasion . . . why not a Diagem? If you have an anniversary coming up, what better way to go all out than with a gift like this? If you're about to purchase an engagement ring, how much more sense to invest in a Diagem! You get a bigger (and since diamonds are judged by size), a far more lovely and impressive ring for a fraction of what you would expect to pay, and the huge savings can go towards furnishing the house or towards that new car.

Or, if you are simply trying to impress or win over a friend, what better way than this? If diamonds are a girl's best friend, so are Diagems because she can't tell them apart!

No matter what kind of gift, no matter what the occasion, certainly Diagems make good sense, and if you have any doubts, you can actually see for yourself without risk. We are so confident you will be impressed with Diagems once you actually examine one, that we make this

FREE EXAMINATION OFFER

Diagems are available only in a few smart outlets in several of our larger cities and nowhere else. Now, for the first time, they are being offered by mail!

We are a highly reputable and well-financed organization. You may deal with us with complete confidence. No one will ever know you are our customer. If Diagems sound intriguing to you, simply indicate your choice below. When your Diagem arrives, look it over for 10 full days at our risk. Have it examined by whomever you like. If, at the end of that time, you are not completely satisfied in every way, return for an immediate refund, no questions asked! Your friends must be convinced you are wearing a magnificent genuine diamond, or you pay nothing!

Don't Compare

these Diagems with zircons, white sapphires, paste or any of the "synthetic diamonds" you may have seen or heard or read about. Diagems are different! The product of years of research and development, they are virtually identical to and indistinguishable from genuine diamonds in appearance. . . . Same basic cubic molecular structure, same light refractive index (2.4), same clarity and brilliance.

PAWNBROKERS BEWARE (TWO TRUE STORIES)

When Diagems were first introduced, a man we know approached a pawnbroker with a one carat Diagem ring. The broker examined it through his glass and said, "$750". Look again, smiled our friend expecting the pawnbroker to recognize his error. "O.K., 800," he replied, "but no higher."

The prospective mother-in-law was unimpressed by her daughters choice of a beau. When the young couple showed her the magnificent engagement ring, Momma softened a bit. After all, anyone who could afford an $1,800 ring couldn't be all bad. The actual cost of that ring? Less than $80, but to this day Momma hasn't the slightest inkling! Diagems simply cannot be told from real diamonds positively except by an expert jeweler!

MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE

When your Diagem arrives, examine it for 10 days at our risk. If you aren't convinced it is everything we claim, indistinguishable from a genuine diamond in appearance, don't keep it. Simply return for full and immediate refund, no questions asked!

MELANIE DE PROFT Food Editor

Chilled Macaroni Supper Salad makes a quick entrée.

■ Macaroni blended with creamy cheese sauces and vegetables—hot or cold—is a favorite supper dish.

Chilled Macaroni Supper Salad

- 2 cups (8 oz.) elbow macaroni, cooked, rinsed, drained
- ¼ cup Italian salad dressing (bottled or prepared from a mix)
- 1 can (12 oz.) luncheon meat
- 1 cup mayonnaise
- 2 tablespoons cider vinegar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon seasoned pepper
- 1 teaspoon fennel seed
- 1 can (8½ oz.) green peas, drained
- 1 canned pimiento, diced
- 1 can asparagus spears, drained

1. Turn macaroni into a large bowl, add the Italian dressing, and toss lightly. Set aside.
2. Cut thin strips of luncheon meat to alternate with asparagus spears (see photo); dice remainder and set aside.
3. In a small bowl, mix the mayonnaise with vinegar and a blend of salt, pepper, and fennel seed. Add to macaroni.
4. Blend in diced luncheon meat, peas, and pimiento; toss.
5. Turn salad mixture into a shallow 2-qt. dish. Alternate the luncheon meat strips and asparagus spears lengthwise on salad mixture (see photo). Brush meat and asparagus generously with additional Italian salad dressing. Chill. About 6 servings

Hot Macaroni Supper Salad with Kabobs

Follow recipe for Chilled Macaroni Supper Salad except: cut luncheon meat into 12 cubes (about 1 in.) and dice remainder; omit asparagus. Mix in 4 oz. shredded sharp Cheddar cheese before turning into a 2-qt. baking dish. Prepare the kabobs and arrange diagonally in opposite directions across top of macaroni. Brush kabobs with a mixture of ¼ cup Italian salad dressing and 1½ tablespoons corn syrup. Set in a 350°F oven about 30 min., or until thoroughly heated. Occasionally turn and brush kabobs with dressing mixture.

Kabobs

Luncheon meat cubes (see Hot Macaroni Supper Salad with Kabobs)

- 12 small canned onions
- 1 red apple, rinsed, quartered, cored, and cut in 12 pieces
- 1 firm pear, rinsed, quartered, cored, and cut in 12 pieces

Thread alternately onto each of six 9-in. skewers 2 luncheon meat cubes, 2 onions, 2 apple and 2 pear pieces.

Note: If desired, set shell-shaped ramekins (½- or ¾-cup capacity) onto a baking sheet. Fill each with the macaroni-cheese mixture. Prepare a blend of 1 cup herb-seasoned stuffing croutons, crushed, and 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted; use to top six ramekins. Heat thoroughly in a 350°F oven about 15 min. Garnish with parsley sprigs.

Denture Invention

For People With "Uppers" and "Lowers"

For the first time, science now offers a unique plastic cream that holds dentures—both "uppers" and "lowers"—as they've never been held before. It forms an elastic membrane that helps hold your dentures to the natural tissues of your mouth.

It's FIXODENT[®]—a revolutionary discovery for daily home use. So different it's protected by U. S. Patent #3,003,988.

FIXODENT not only holds dentures firmer, but it holds them more comfortably, too. It's so elastic you may bite harder, chew better, eat more naturally.

The special pencil-point dispenser lets you put FIXODENT exactly where it's needed. Resists oozing over and gagging.

Just one application may last for hours. Dentures that fit are essential to health. See your dentist regularly. Get easy-to-use FIXODENT Denture Adhesive Cream at all drug counters.

Formula for relief of Bronchial Congestion, Bronchial Asthma.

Helps Rid Lungs of Excess Mucus

relieve distress...coughing and wheezing.

This clinic-tested preparation is called BRONKAID[®]. In one tablet, Bronkaid combines an expectorant and bronchodilators to attack the two major causes of congestion and wheezing.

Bronkaid Tablets quickly start acting to soften and loosen excess phlegm. This direct action helps rid your air passages of sticky, stringy phlegm. At the same time, Bronkaid helps relax tightened bronchial muscles and eases the distress that results from stagnant air trapped in the lungs.

With Bronkaid Tablets, you enjoy amazing two-way help in one combination tablet. Bronkaid helps you cough up phlegm, clear clogged air passages, restores free breathing. You cough less; you breathe more freely, easily. For rapid relief of coughing and wheezing of bronchial congestion and bronchial asthma, for relief that lasts for hours, get BRONKAID[®] TABLETS today. No prescription required. Available at your local drugstore. Drew Laboratories, Div. of Sterling Drug, Inc., N.Y., N.Y. 10016.

How Many Break the Law in Marriage?

By FLORA RHETA SCHREIBER

How much do you know about the legal aspects of marriage? It may come as a surprise that your rights and obligations are something more than a matter of personal inclination or private ethics—they are also a matter of law.

Moreover, the answers the law provides run the breadth of your life, encompassing not only practical matters such as a wife's right to support or the handling of joint bank accounts but even your most personal intimacies. This true-false quiz will test your law-in-marriage I.Q.

Be careful—some of these quiz questions are tricky. If you get all right, you are that rare phenomenon—a husband or wife who knows the law that governs your marriage.

1. A husband must support his wife even if she has money of her own.
2. Sexual relations are a legal requirement of marriage.
3. A husband's sex demands cannot be legally unreasonable.
4. A wife cannot sue her husband for blacking her eye.
5. A wife must follow her husband to a foreign country even if his reason for going there is only the pursuit of pleasure.
6. A mother can legally be "boss" in her daughter-in-law's home.
7. In all 50 states, a wife who works in her husband's business has a legally enforceable right to be paid for her services and to receive workmen's compensation.
8. Unless a joint bank account held by husband and wife contains a "survivor thereof clause," the survivor, in the case of death of either spouse, is unable to touch a penny of the savings until long and complicated legal technicalities are untangled.
9. When a husband or wife dies intestate (without leaving a will) and the disposition of his property and money is dictated by law, the family can count on a sensible distribution in terms of need.
10. In the case of the death of both parents, the absence of a carefully drawn will puts the responsibility of choosing the guardian of their minor children upon a judge.
11. Even though a husband is unable to earn a living, a wife is never required to support him.

12. In most states the law requires a wife to supervise the family, make beds, cook meals, and run the household.

13. A married woman has, in most states, the same control as a man over the property she brought to the marriage, inherits, or otherwise acquires after marriage.

ANSWERS

1. True. In all states the law requires a husband to support his wife. He must do so even if the wife owns property, has a lot of money, or earns good wages. He must see to it that she has food, clothing, shelter, and medical care—what the law calls "necessaries"—and he cannot make her use her own money to pay for them.

2. True. In all 50 states, cohabitation is regarded as an indispensable part of marriage—an essential marital right and duty for husbands and wives to enjoy and to provide for each other.

3. False. The law in most states protects a wife against a husband's unreasonable sex demands. One wife, for instance, considered her husband cruel because during her last months of pregnancy he forced her to have intercourse every night. A lawyer advised that this was grounds for divorce. Threatened with court action, the husband, for the duration of the pregnancy, let the wife decide when they would have intercourse.

4. True. Even though a husband (or wife, for that matter) who can't control temper or hands is a lawbreaker, a wife in most states cannot sue her husband for blacking her eye or for other violence against her.

5. False. It is true that in most states a wife is legally obliged to live where her husband wishes, provided that his wish is based on economic necessity, career interests, or the like. Even if following her husband means changing her citizenship, a wife must follow him if he has good reason to move. But she is not legally bound to do so if the change of place is motivated by sheer whim.

6. False. When a husband invites his mother to join the household, his wife is required to accept that fact. If, however, the husband transfers ownership of the house to his mother, gives her the housekeeping money, and in fact makes her the real mistress of the house, the law generally is on the wife's side.

QUIZ

7. False. Some states do not recognize the validity of contracts between husband and wife. In such states, a wife who works in her husband's business has no legally enforceable right to be paid for her services or to receive workmen's compensation.

8. True. Joint bank accounts held by husband and wife may lead to problems. When a husband is out of town, the wife cannot draw funds if they have the kind of joint account in which the signatures of both the wife and husband are required. More seriously, unless this type of bank account contains a "survivor thereof clause," the survivor, in the case of the death of either spouse, is unable to touch the money, until legally permitted.

9. False. Many complications result from wills or lack of wills. The lives of countless families are plunged into confusion because a spouse dies without leaving a will, and the disposition of his property is dictated by law, not by need or sentiment. These intestacy laws recognize the claims of wives (or husbands), children, parents of the deceased, and his brothers and sisters, in that order.

10. True. In case of the death of both parents, only a carefully drawn will insures that the mother and father—not a court—choose the guardian of their minor children. Parents dying without having made wills relinquish all voice in the matter and leave the decision to the court, sometimes with unfortunate and unanticipated consequences.

11. False. In most states a wife can be required to support her husband when he is unable to earn a living and would otherwise become a public charge. She also is obligated to support the children if he fails to, even if it's due to shiftlessness.

12. True. A wife may think that general housework is something she does because she wants to. The truth is that in most states the law requires her to do so. The law in most states clearly says that a husband has a right to his wife's services both in the house and in his business. There are limits, however. One wife took care of her invalid mother-in-law for a year and then demanded payment from her husband and his brothers and sisters. They refused to pay. A court supported her claim.

13. True. A married woman has, in most states, control over the property she brought to the marriage, inherits, or otherwise acquires after marriage. Her property cannot be attached by her husband's creditors or used by him without consent. Of her own free will she can give her property to her husband or his creditors to ease a financial crisis. No matter how great the crisis, however, the law in most states does not require her to do so.

The states with community property laws are exceptions. In those states—California is one of them—the wife is equal partner with her husband to everything they own. These laws mean that what the wife amasses is her husband's just as what becomes his is also hers. ♦

even for thousands who perspire heavily

A different formula has been found to keep underarms absolutely dry—even for thousands who perspire heavily. A formula so different it has far more anti-wetness agent than it is possible to put in any aerosol can. By anybody. After decades of common "deodorants," it took a chemical invention to make this truly effective protection possible—with the same skin mildness as popular "deodorants." Called Mitchum Anti-Perspirant, it is the product of a trustworthy 57-year-old laboratory and guaranteed by Good Housekeeping. By the thousands, women with problem perspiration are finding the protection they need—and never could find before. And fully effective as a deodorant, too, of course. If you perspire more than average—even heavily—get the positive protection of Mitchum Anti-Perspirant. Your choice, liquid or cream. Ninety-day supply, each $3.00. Civil War "General" Train Working Train Goes Forward and Backward and Belches Real Smoke as it Chugs Along!

This is a replica of the famous train captured by 22 Union army men from the Confederate army during the Andrews Raid, April 12, 1862. 23" replica includes locomotive, tender, 2 passenger cars, battery-operated transformer and 14 HO gauge curved and straight track sections. This nostalgia loaded "Iron Horse" will provide hours of thrills and excitement as the smoke pours from stack and the train chugs along in the most realistic way, forwards and backwards. A solid buy for only $7.98 (batteries not incl.)

I KNEW YOU WERE BUSY, MR. BUMSTEAD, SO I SENT OUT FOR YOUR LUNCH

OH, THANK YOU MISS NARLEY

GEE, THAT TASTED GOOD-- I ATE EVERY BEAUTIFUL EVER-LOVING BITE OF IT

DAGWOOD, COME SEE WHAT MY DEAR CORA BROUGHT

LOOK AT THIS DELICIOUS LUNCH SHE PREPARED FOR US... ISN'T SHE A DOLL?

HAVE MORE POTATO SALAD AND MORE IMPORTED SAUSAGE

BURP

DAGWOOD, OUR BIGGEST CLIENT HAS JUST ARRIVED IN TOWN AND HE'S INVITED ME TO LUNCH

I CAN'T GO-- YOU'LL HAVE TO GO WITH HIM AND EAT AS THOUGH YOU HADN'T HAD YOUR LUNCH

IT WOULD BE A CRIME TO LEAVE A SINGLE BITE OF THIS DELICIOUS FOOD... EH, MR. BUMSTEAD?

BURP

I HAVE A SURPRISE FOR YOU, DEAR... I SPENT ALL DAY COOKING YOUR FAVORITE DINNER

THERE HE GOES AGAIN, MAMA

I WONDER WHY HE KEEPS SLIDING UNDER THE TABLE?

AND DO YOU KNOW WHO YOUR GREATEST FAN IS? OUR NEW ROOKIE POLICEMAN, GROOVY GROVE.

AND HERE IS ANOTHER BIG FAN OUR GIRL TINKY, FROM THE COMPUTER DEPARTMENT.

I JUST LOVE "INVISIBLE TRIBE" BECAUSE, BEING BLIND, I CAN SUPPLY MY OWN CHARACTER IMAGES.

I LAUGHED SO HARD THE OTHER DAY WHEN THE COLOR-BLIND INDIAN CALLED HIMSELF A "PURPLE MAN."

TRULY, MR. ALLDID, YOU'VE DRAWN THE FIRST COMIC STRIP FOR BLIND PEOPLE.

I NEVER THOUGHT OF THAT BEFORE. A COMIC STRIP FOR BLIND PEOPLE.

PROVIDED, OF COURSE, A VERY KIND PERSON LIKE LIZZ READS IT TO THEM.

BOLD HORSE GIVES HIS VERSION OF WINTHROP'S MURDER.

WELL, AFTER I GOT THE PILOT UP HERE, OUT OF THE SUN...

"JULIA AND I ARGUED, COULDN'T CONVINCE HER IT WAS NO HONOR FOR AN INDIAN BRAVE TO MISTREAT A SICK WHITE MAN. SHE INSISTED HE WAS DESECRATING THE SACRED PLACE."

WHEN HE ASKED FOR WATER, I PICKED UP MY EMPTY CANTEEN AND CAME BACK HERE TO THE OLD ONES' SECRET WATER SUPPLY.

THE ANCESTORS HID THEIR SPRING WELL. OF ALL THOSE WHO HAVE POKED AND DUG HERE, I ALONE FOUND IT... SEE? THE ROCK SEEMS PART OF THE SOLID STONE...

... BUT IT IS BALANCED TO MOVE EASILY ASIDE.

JUST WHERE YOU DROPPED IT WHEN YOU HEARD WINTHROP'S SCREAM! THAT'S HOW IT WAS, JUDD?

SO HE WAS TRYING TO HELP MY STUDENT, SHERIFF. MUST'VE PANICKED WHEN HE SAW JULIA'D KILLED HIM. NEVER GONE INTO THE DESERT WITHOUT HIS CANTEEN OTHERWISE.

SHE JUST STOOD THERE, RIGID, HOLDING THE SHAFT OF THE SPEAR WE'D MADE. COULDN'T THINK OF ANYTHING BUT GETTING HER AWAY.

I'M IMPRESSED ENOUGH TO WANT A LONG TALK WITH THAT YOUNG LADY. LET'S GO SEE HER.

SHE'S HIS GIRL, AIN'T SHE?

WRITTEN AND ILLUSTRATED BY HAROLD R. FOSTER

Our Story: PRINCE ARN AND HIS HUNTING COMPANION TRACK DOWN THE WILD BOAR AND BRING IT TO BAY. ARN ADVANCES, SPEAR AT THE READY, AND WITH GROWLS AND SHOUTS TRIES TO INFURIATE THE DANGEROUS BEAST INTO CHARGING.

WITH A SCREAM OF RAGE IT CHARGES. ARN KNEELS ON THE BUTT OF HIS SPEAR AND MEETS THE IMPACT. THE FIERCE BEAST WOULD HAVE CHARGED RIGHT UP THE SPEAR BUT FOR THE STOUT CROSSPIECE.

WITH A MIGHTY HEAVE ARN TURNS THE TUSKER OVER ON ITS BACK AND DELIVERS THE FINISHING STROKE.

IT IS GROWING DARK AND A RISING WIND WARNS THAT THE DAY'S HUNT IS OVER. A BLAST ON THE HORN SHOULD BRING THE SERVANTS TO CARRY IN THE GAME, BUT NO ONE RESPONDS.

THEY FOLLOW THEIR TRAIL BACK, BUT DRIFTING SNOW SOON OBSCURES THEIR TRACKS. "WELL, WE ARE LOST," ARN REMARKS CHEERFULLY. "THE STORM IS INCREASING, AND IF WE DON'T FIND SHELTER BEFORE NIGHTFALL WE ARE IN A BAD WAY."

"LOOK, A CASTLE!" CRIES ARN AND, SETTING SPURS TO HIS WEARY HORSE, GALLOPS DOWN THE HILLSIDE. HIS COMPANION SHOUTS A WARNING THAT ARN DOES NOT HEAR.

HE WATCHES IN HORROR AS ARN GALLOPS ALONG THE CAUSEWAY. SILENTLY THE GREAT GATES OPEN, HE ENTERS, AND THE GATES CLANG SHUT LIKE THE JAWS OF A TRAP.
