Four Western Governments Want Red Cross Negotiate With Arab Guerrillas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Four Western governments delegated the International Red Cross today to negotiate with the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine for the release of the 180 passengers still held captive from four of the planes involved in Sunday's hijacking plots.

Britain in working through the Red Cross. Citizens from all five nations were reported aboard the two planes in Jordan. As the move was disclosed in London, Sir Alec Douglas-Home, the British foreign secretary, summoned envoys of six Arab countries for discussions on the hijacking crisis. The four-nation move was prompted by an ultimatum from the PELP, an Arab guerrilla organization, that a woman hi-jacker, Miss Leila Khaled, being held in London and six other commandos imprisoned in Switzerland and West Germany be released by 11 p.m. EDT Wednesday. Otherwise, the ultimatum said, the Swissair DC8 and the Trans World Airlines Boeing 707 being held at a small Jordanian airfield would be blown up with the passengers still aboard. "The front has put boxes of explosives inside the two planes in order to blow them up in case there is no reply to its warning," a spokesman said in the Jordanian capital of Amman. Switzerland and West Germany at first agreed to the demand, but London sources said both governments were reconsidering. Britain said no, but the Cabinet met today to discuss the ultimatum. The Arab envoys summoned by Douglas-Home were from Jordan, Egypt, Iraq, Lebanon, Saudi Arabia and Kuwait. In Bonn, the West German Foreign Ministry called on the Jordanian ambassador to express concern for the safety of German hostages. An Amman hotel where 120 women and children from the two airliners are staying was hit by mortar fire during the night. There were no casualties, and the blasts appeared to stem from continuing clashes between Jordanian troops and guerrillas. The third plane hijacked to the Middle East Sunday, a Pan American World Airways Boeing 747, was blown up eight minutes after landing at Cairo but its passengers escaped through emergency chutes. A substitute Boeing 707 returned to New York Monday night with 137 of the jumbo jet's 188 passengers and crewmen aboard. A Pan Am spokesman said three passengers, two of whom were hospitalized for minor injuries, were still in Cairo. All three planes were hijacked en route to New York. Miss Khaled was seized by Israeli security guards Sunday during a fourth hijack attempt. Her male companion was fatally shot when they tried to take over an Israeli El Al Airlines DC8 on a flight from Amsterdam to New York. She was jailed by Scotland Yard when the plane landed at London's Heathrow Airport. The other guerrillas whose release has been demanded are also in jail on charges involving attacks on airlines. Three of the prisoners are awaiting trial in Munich and the other three have been sentenced in Zurich to 12-year prison terms. In Geneva, the International Red Cross said it had dispatched a special mission to Amman to try to negotiate the fate of the hijackers' hostages.

Faculty Told The Taxpayer Will Not Finance Disruption

"The American taxpayer will not indefinitely finance higher education in chaos or confusion," Dr. Leo Jenkins, president of East Carolina University, told faculty members this morning in an opening address to the faculty convocation.

"even a small number of students, strike and are allowed to disrupt education, then we should not be surprised if legislators balk at providing what the consumers themselves reject." Several times in his opening speech, Dr. Jenkins sounded warnings on issues which will face East Carolina this coming year in common with colleges and universities across America. On the subject of participation in politics, Dr. Jenkins said, in connection with the question of suspending classes during the fall political campaign, "We should continue to encourage faculty and students to be involved in political activity during their free time — after class and on weekends."

Pitt Center Made Eligible For New Funds

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
Pitt County Commissioners this morning designated the Pitt County Mental Health Center as the agency responsible for educational and treatment programs dealing with the problems of alcoholics and thus made the county eligible for $10,800 in state matching funds. Commissioners took their action after hearing Dr. Walter Savage, Pitt County Mental Health Clinic director explain the advantages of such a move. Earlier, approval had been given for the Pitt ABC board to turn over about $10,800 to the county's schools to fund educational programs dealing with the problems of alcoholism. These funds formerly had gone to the Alcoholic Information Center which has since become inactive. Through action taken this morning, the $10,800 will go to the Mental Health Center where it will be matched by allocations from the State Department of Mental Health. In turn, the Pitt Mental Health center will provide the funds for the educational programs in the schools.

In addition, the Mental Health Center will use the matching grant to employ an alcoholism coordinator to work with alcoholics and their problems in Pitt. Dr. Savage termed alcoholism "a major problem in Pitt County" and indicated a need for "someone to treat the alcoholic out side of the schools." He said such a program as approved this morning would aid in the solution of the problem. In other business this morning, Commissioners heard reports from various county agencies and departments.

Reduction

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — U.S. military strength in Thailand will be reduced by 9,800 men within a year, a joint Thai-U.S. announcement said today. The announcement said the cutbacks, which will bring total U.S. troop withdrawals in Thailand to 15,800 men since September 1969, were the result of talks held between the U.S. mission and the Thai Foreign Ministry. The rate of withdrawal would be "consistent with operational requirements related to the Vietnam conflict and the security of this area," the announcement said.

Plan Withdraw 6,000 Troops

BANGKOK (AP) — Thailand plans to withdraw half of its 12,000-man Black Leopard division from South Vietnam as soon as it discusses the withdrawal timetable with South Vietnamese and American officials, Vice Premier Praphas Charusathien said today.

Saying that the university cannot depart from the academic framework, Dr. Jenkins called for a university which "will employ our intellectual potential, rather than our sentiments in trying to solve the problems of this region and the world. "Recent increases in confrontation politics suggest that we may be in more serious trouble than we realize."

Senate Begins Argue Reform

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate starts debate today on a Constitutional amendment, approved by the House a year ago, to provide for the election of the President by direct, popular vote.

It is the first of many controversial issues confronting senators on their return from a five-day Labor Day recess. Its chances of winning the necessary two-thirds majority are in doubt.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., chief Senate sponsor of the proposed amendment, contends 55 to 60 senators now support the proposals. He predicts the measure will pick up enough additional votes to pass.

But he told newsmen before the debate got underway that it is going to be a tough, uphill fight and made plain that he would welcome White House efforts to line up senators behind the amendment.

President Nixon endorsed the direct election proposal after its approval by the House by a vote of 339-70.

He previously had recommended overhauling the present electoral college system of choosing the president, expressing doubt that discarding it altogether would be approved by Congress and the states—at least in time for the 1972 election.

Bayh said "the odds are now rather heavily stacked against the plan being put into effect for the next presidential election." Under the Senate version, ratification by three-fourths of the states would have to be completed by April 15 of next year for the direct election plan to apply in 1972. The House set a deadline of Jan. 20 when it approved the amendment a year ago.

Bayh said 46 of the 50 state legislatures will meet next year and that an all-out effort to obtain ratification promptly will be launched if the amendment clears Congress.

Opponents have indicated that, if necessary, they may mount a Senate filibuster against the direct election plan, but they hope to persuade colleagues to ditch it in favor of other proposals to remedy what they concede are defects in the electoral college system.

"The electoral college is so intimately involved with the two-party system, federalism, and the separation of powers that we do not see how these institutional arrangements can possibly survive under direct election in the long run," the minority report of the Senate Judiciary Committee said.

Pitt Schools Open Today

An estimated 11,400 students returned to their classrooms today as the Pitt County Schools began another term.

most effective returns possible to us," Alford said. "We are looking for approximately 12,500 students but it is too early to know what the enrollment will be. There were approximately 99 students who attended private schools last year and this number could increase this year," the superintendent noted.

Only one of the county's schools failed to open today. North Pitt High School students will begin classes next week. The delay in opening that school was scheduled in order to give workmen time to complete painting and other work at the new building before classes begin.

"It appears that several of the school districts may pick up additional students over last year to offset any loss in total enrollment," he explained.

The 1,100 students at North Pitt will begin their classes on Sept. 16.

Alford said work is being done to get the roads and parking areas stabilized at North Pitt in order to begin school there next Wednesday.

For the students-attending the county's other 22 schools, it was an uneventful and normal opening day.

"A complete calendar for the year cannot be adopted at this time by the board of education because of so many uncertainties in the school year and all of these revolve around the exact date of readiness of North Pitt and the other three new high schools," Alford stated.

Returning to school for high school students meant giving up summer jobs — for some relief from the hot tobacco fields.

He added, "By law, the board is required to have 180 days of instruction for students and we will get these days in some time during the school year."

For the elementary students, it meant giving up playing in the yard and doing all the things children do.

"Patience is requested on the part of all motorists as the 176 buses operating on the highways and roads in the county will be carrying some 9,000 students and the bus drivers have their hands full," Alford said.

Arthur Alford, superintendent of county schools, said some minor adjustments will be made in scheduling as well as adjustments in some of the bus routes which will have to be provided today and possibly tomorrow.

All Pitt County schools reported a smooth opening day. Pactolus Elementary School Principal Bryant Tripp said his school opening was very smooth.

"We will work to distribute the children in each classroom and on each bus in order to insure the Tripp said a large number of parents were at the school and that everybody seemed to be satisfied with the opening.

Ervin Inc. of Kinston, $217,540. Town officials and others participating in the ground-breaking ceremony included Mayor Will Joyner, Rev. Marion Lark, Housing Authority Chairman Tom Anderson, Executive Director Lloyd Englehardt, members Harry Byers, Dr. Charles Fitzgerald, W. A. (Nick) Norman and James Taylor. Also in attendance were town commissioners Lum Wooten, Robert Lee Smith and William Garner, and former mayor Frank Allen.

Leroy Morris, principal of Stokes-Pactolus Grammar said there was the usual confusion of students not knowing where to go but no problems were reported.

Kompong Thom has been surrounded for three months by troops of the North Vietnamese 20th Division, which also controls Highway 6, the only accessible land route to the city. Two Cambodian brigades are trapped there.

H. B. Sugg, Principal Frederick Graham stated he hoped the entire school year would be as smooth as opening day at his school.

North Viet Commandos Score Two Victories

SAIGON (AP) — More than 200 North Vietnamese commandos blasted their way into a South Vietnamese military district headquarters and a ranger camp south of Da Nang today and rampaged through the two installations, killing at least 34 government soldiers and wounding 42. Sources in Da Nang said the government casualty toll was still incomplete and might rise later.

Twenty-six North Vietnamese soldiers were reported killed in the three-hour battle. It was the worst setback for government forces in a single action since last June, when 46 South Vietnamese troops were killed and 84 wounded by North Vietnamese who overran a government artillery base northeast of the A Shau valley. Striking a few hours before dawn under the cover of darkness and a heavy mortar barrage that pinned government defenders down, the North Vietnamese simultaneously attacked the Tra Bong district headquarters and a ranger frontier defense camp 3½ miles away. North Vietnamese sappers broke into both the district headquarters and the camp and ran through them, hurling dynamite bombs and firing Chinese Communist-made AK47 assault rifles and rocket-propelled grenades.

Reports from Cambodia said government troops had seized the initiative for the first time in the Cambodian war, starting their biggest operation to date to relieve Communist pressure on their nation's heartland. The offensive comes at a time when North Vietnamese and Viet Cong activity in Cambodia is comparatively light. Military sources said the government had caught the enemy troops apparently resting and regrouping between drives of their own.

Associated Press correspondent John T. Wheeler reported from Phnom Penh that Cambodian troops by this morning had met only light resistance while moving six miles north of Skoun, 40 miles north of Phnom Penh. More than 500 South Vietnamese rangers keeping the main Phnom Penh to Saigon highway open clashed with North Vietnamese troops Monday 65 miles southeast of Phnom Penh just across the border. South Vietnamese losses were three dead and seven wounded, spokesmen said, while 21 enemy troops died.

The aim of the Cambodian offensive, as outlined by military sources in Phnom Penh, is to clear Highway 6 from Skoun to Kompong Thom, a provincial capital 80 miles north of Phnom Penh.

$196,464 Grant For Schools

The Pitt County Board of Education today received a $196,464 grant in federal emergency school assistance program funds to aid in the desegregation of the county schools.

Arthur Alford, superintendent of county schools, said $50,000 of the grant is being processed now and will be made available immediately to the board of education.

The federal money was approved by Congress over President Richard Nixon's veto last month and is designed to aid school districts in meeting their needs and solving problems caused by desegregating the schools.

The Pitt County Board of Education applied for some $400,000 in federal money.

"The amount received represents a drastic reduction in the amount requested and will require an evaluation of the project since there will have to be some items cut back or cut out completely," Alford said.

In order to be eligible for the emergency funds, a district must be implementing the terminal phase of a desegregation plan ordered by the court or a voluntary plan approved by the office of Health, Education and Welfare.

Housing Project Is Begun

FARMVILLE — Congressman Walter B. Jones this morning led the ground breaking ceremony for a 150 unit public housing project for which application was originally made by former Mayor Frank Allen.

After dedicating the project, Jones said that "housing projects represents the best cooperation between the federal government and local citizens."

"It is not a giveaway program, but represents a loan of $2,200,000 with sound business principals with the money ultimately to be repaid."

The Farmville project, to be located on the east side of South Main Street, will be adjacent to the Farmville Coop, a manufacturing firm.

Thirty-six of the 150 units are to be constructed with special safety features and other conveniences especially designed for elderly citizens.

Designers of the project are Sheetz and Bradfield, architects of Atlanta, Ga. Low bidders for construction of the project include: general contractor W. H. Weaver Construction Company for $1,338,000; plumbing, Riddick Co. of Sanford, $156,121; and electrical work, Gardner

A Girl's Tale Of Hippie Odyssey Don't Keep Feelings Hidden From Mate

EDITOR'S NOTE: Jessica is a teen-ager and a habitual runaway. She has used drugs and spent time in the State School for Girls. She's an easy talker and perhaps a prodigious fantasist. The stories of drugs, instantaneous alliances, panhandling, and circulating among crash pads are not new, and Jessica swears it all happened to her. Whether it's true or not, her story gives an insight into the alien world of the "cool freak" kids and their "value" system.

By MARGO HARAKAS
Sun-Sentinel Writer

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — It's difficult to tell whether or not Jessica is typical of the hippie-style runaways who hide away in places like Greenwich Village. She dresses like the "cool freaks," raps in the same super-hip language, and seems to get high just talking about drugs and the free, impromptu life style of the teen-age nomads.

An attractive, mature 17-year-old, Jessica was involuntarily returned to Ft. Lauderdale last October after a frightful five-month odyssey.

She tells a tale of rape and abduction, of witnessing a fatal stabbing and of attempted strangulation. She tells it all with a marked lack of emotion.

"It's finding out about life," she said casually. "When I came back and told people about what had happened, they thought I'd flipped out. They still think so. But I don't care. I wouldn't say it if it wasn't true."

Jessica is an easily likeable young lady who has run away about 18 times in the last four years, the first time when she first used drugs—namely marijuana.

It was her last flight that was the farthest and longest. It began, she said, in June 1969 when she decided to bum down to Miami. There she met a couple of fellows on their way to New York who invited her along.

When the trio reached the "Big City" Jessica panhandled for herself and the boys for a few hours. Then she decided to strike out on her own. She wanted to find Greenwich Village. Instead, she stumbled into Central Park and began looking for somebody "I could trust."

Spotting a friendly, cool-looking type, Jessica said, "I walked up to him and said I have a problem. I need a place to crash."

So home she went to a basement apartment in the Village with two male roommates. It was the first time of a long list of addresses she would have in the Village. The arrangements varied from "I'll stay here as long as no one touches me" to more "meaningful" arrangements with boy friends.

Looking back on it all, Jessica said that most of the people she met were really beautiful. "They share their drugs with you, their food, their clothes, their apartment. And they wouldn't expect anything from you."

This hippie group, Jessica said, doesn't feel guilty about the way its members live. "If it doesn't harm anyone, and it's pleasurable, then it's okay," she explained.

Asked if the girls engage in prostitution, Jessica said that "the majority of the prostitutes were older women downtown. The girls didn't need money. If they were decent, cool people the others would help them out."

What about sleeping around, she was asked? "Most of the chicks in the Village would go to bed with anyone," she said, adding that, "If I felt the person was really beautiful inside as well as out and that he wasn't some kind of creep or something, then I'd go to bed with him."

Life in this Village community, she continued, is far from easy. On at least three occasions, Jessica claims, members of a motorcycle gang grabbed her on the street and dragged her off to their apartment where they raped her.

One time, she said, they sold her to another boy for a cigarette.

Why, Jessica was asked, if all she says is true, didn't she go to the police? "Because I was wanted for jumping out on after-care (counseling ordered by the Broward County juvenile courts). I prize my freedom very highly. If I got busted, I'd go back to the state school."

On another occasion, she said she went to Central Park with a group of kids to welcome some fellow back to town. Suddenly an argument broke out between the returned hippie, a guy named Tony, and one of Jessica's companions. The fellow with her, she said, whipped out a knife and stabbed Tony in the chest.

The young man died on the way to the hospital, she claims. When the police arrived everyone had cut out, including Jessica.

A constant part of the whole strange scene is drugs, said Jessica who claim to have used marijuana, hashish, mescaline, LSD, amphetamines, barbiturates, crystal methadrine, and heroin.

She never had to buy any of it, she said. "If you have it, you share it—that's the message."

Jessica said she likes drugs but doesn't use them now because "I'll get busted and sent back to state school."

"Drugs make you see things in a way you never did before. They bring you closer to reality, because when you come down you see what things are really like," she said.

Jessica regrets nothing about her five-month odyssey, though she admitted, "Sometimes I thought I was going to flip out." "I'm searching to become a better person," she said of her experience. "I know a lot about people—the good and the bad. You learn so much more than you do from books or in school."

She said she'd do it all again even though she spent six months in Forest Hills, the state training school, when she got back last fall.

Jessica said she has eight more months of after-care. When it's finished, she said, she'll marry a local "who knows all about me."

Rummage Sale Is Scheduled

President of the Junior Woman's Club of Greenville, Mrs. Robert Dean, has announced that the club will sponsor a rummage sale.

Mrs. Richard Ullom is serving as chairman of the sale.

The rummage sale will be held on Saturday, Sept. 12, at the NCBN Drive-In Branch on the corner of Fifth and Washington Street. The sale hours are from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m.

All types of clothing and some household items will be for sale. Persons interested in donating items may bring them to the drive-in bank on the day of the sale.

Operation Reshape For Less Than Perfect Legs

By AP NEWSFEATURES

Don't despair if your legs are less than perfect. Now you can redesign your legs the same way you do the rest of your body—through regular routine exercises.

"Operation Reshape," a three-to eight-week leg fitness program, has been designed to overcome common problems in leg architecture.

Women are no longer fated to thick ankles, heavy thighs or otherwise unattractive leg attributes, say the manufacturers of Roman Stripe hosiery, the program's sponsor. All it takes is daily dedication to a simple exercise routine—Operation Reshape must be followed to the letter.

Warm-Up Is Essential First
A minimum one-week "warm-up" period is essential at the start. This both wakes-up unused muscles, and develops the correct toe movements and tempo essential to successful leg reshaping.

Begin with 10 repetitions and gradually increase both the tempo and number until you reach a maximum of 100 faster-paced repetitions by week's end.

For the first warm-up exercise: Hold a mop handle or stick with both arms extended at shoulder height. Keep one foot firmly balanced on the floor. With toes turned up and back, raise the other leg to a near-horizontal position and swing it toward and away from the stick. Alternate legs, then repeat the exercise with toes pointing down.

For your second exercise, face sideways and support your body with one arm against a wall, table or sturdy chair. Swing outside leg to front and then to rear with toes turned up and back. Repeat with other leg, and also with toes pointing downward.

After a week, you should be ready for the main part of Operation Reshape. But continue to do the "warm-ups" daily throughout the entire length of the program.

Three Exercises Reshape Entire Leg
Three exercises are involved, and should be done daily in loose fitting clothing.

The first, a horizontal knee-bend, is effective in thigh-reshaping. Lie on your side, resting your head on your arm. Bring one knee up to touch the chin and repeat 10 times with toes turned up, and then 10 times with toes pointed down (Figure 1a). Repeat on other side. Then, bring both knees up at once, first with toes up, and then with toes down. Repeat 10 times (figure 1b).

The second exercise helps reshape the entire leg (Figure 2). Lie down with your back flat on the floor. Place a pillow, ball or other object under your ankles, then raise both legs as high as possible. Lower legs slowly, and repeat 10 times.

The final exercise is probably the most difficult of all, but the best in reshaping both calves and ankles. Standing on one leg, bend down from the knee as far as possible, then straighten up slowly (Figure 3). Repeat 10 times for each leg.

If all of this brings on a little stiffness during the beginning phase, soak yourself in a warm bath of epsom salts for 10 to 15 minutes after each workout, then spray yourself with cold water.

If fresh fruits need to ripen, leave at room temperature until ripe, then refrigerate.

Boots For Her Wedding

THE BRIDE WORE BOOTS and the bridegroom didn't know it. It wasn't until the former Linda Pfalzgraf hoisted up her flowing wedding gown that her brand new spouse, John Hyatt, discovered she had worn her beloved cowboy boots for the ceremony in Loveland, Colo. Linda's girlfriends at the local electronics plant where she works had bet her $50 that she wouldn't dare wear the boots to her wedding even though she'd rather ride horseback than do almost anything else. She won her bet and said she would use the money to help set up her new home. (Photo by Fred L. Jones, Loveland)

International Body Warns U.S.

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A faltering, inflation-ridden U.S. economy was a sore spot for world business through the early part of the year and will continue to be unless efforts to restore domestic stability take hold, says the International Monetary Fund.

The 116-nation fund released its report Monday, covering the fiscal year that ended April 30.

The IMF's 215-page report said the world's economy was mixed during the period, marked both by severe inflationary pressures and by improving balances of payments and a strengthened international monetary system.

"Crucial to any assessment of the world economic outlook is the United States," the report said. "At this juncture the domestic stabilization plan developed by the authorities early in 1969 is clearly behind schedule in slowing the pace of price and cost increases and, at the same time, it has had a more severe impact on the real economy than was expected or hoped for."

"The importance of arresting the U.S. inflationary spiral and restoring price and cost stability can hardly be exaggerated," the report added. "At stake are the checking of the inflationary trend on a world-wide basis, the long-run stability and efficiency of the U.S. economy, the much-needed strengthening of the U.S. balance of payments ... and the sound functioning of the international monetary system."

The report said the volume of world production went up 5 1/2 per cent in 1969, an increase diminished by the slower U.S. growth rate of less than 3 per cent. Excluding the United States, real growth was 7 per cent for both developed and undeveloped countries.

"It is especially noteworthy that the rate of increase ... of the less developed countries from 1968 to 1969 matched that of the developed countries on a per capita basis, in contrast to the considerable lag for the 1960's as a whole," the report said.

Inflation was widespread among industrial nations, averaging 5 per cent in 1969—double the yearly average for the period 1958-67—and swelling to an annual rate of nearly 6 per cent in the first half of 1970, the IMF said. The report also noted a "calming" of the world's financial markets, due to realignment of European currencies, the IMF's new "paper gold" or special drawing rights, an increase in the size of the IMF and an agreement on 'Sout African gold sales to the fund.

Miss America Pageant Labor Dispute Solved

By G. G. LABELLE
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTIC CITY (AP) — The 50 Miss America contestants got on stage for the first time Monday night amid work noises the pageant's officials were probably happy to hear.

The roar of machinery and the banging of seats being put in place had been stilled earlier in the day by a labor dispute.

Frank McCue, manager of the Convention Hall where the pageant is held, said about 30 laborers had walked off the job in a demand for higher pay.

Members of the Teamsters Union had been hired to take over the job, McCue said. He said he did not yet know how much the Teamsters would be paid, but that the non-union laborers who walked out had been earning $2.25 an hour.

McCue said the dispute would not interfere with the pageant show, which will be televised nationwide Saturday night.

The contestants were introduced to everyone who will be involved in the show and also met a dozen former Miss Americas, among 18 who are expected to attend.

The former queens, ranging from 1969's Judith Anne Ford to Ruth Malcomson Schaubel of 1924, had attended a dinner earlier at which they were presented with medals struck to mark the pageant's 50th anniversary.

The pageant is not technically 50 years old since it was not presented for several years during the Depression.

Mrs. Schaubel, whose husband is president of Pennsylvania Military College, said that being Miss America didn't contribute a great deal to her life, although she enjoyed it. It did take away privacy, she added.

Another Award For Bob Hope

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bob Hope has been named "Entertainer of the Year" by the 10,000 members of the American Guild of Variety Artists.

He will be presented with a "Georgie," a golden statuette named for the late entertainer George M. Cohan, on a special Ed Sullivan television show Sept. 20, AGVA president Danny Thomas said Monday.

Team Hit By Lightning

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — A bolt of lightning which flashed out of the darkening sky over a practice high school football game killed two players and injured 20 other youngsters, two critically.

The bolt Monday centered on a huddle of the Gibbs High School offensive team, working on plays to be used in the season opener Sept. 18.

Killed were senior Robert Newton, 17, an all-Pinellas County Conference tackle last year, and sophomore quarterback Vincent Williams, 16.

Four players remained hospitalized, two of them—Bruce Chapman and Alfonso Black, both 16—listed in critical condition. Sixteen other persons were treated for shocks and burns.

Coach Al Campbell said practice usually is suspended when there is lightning around, but that the bolt hit without warning.

"I heard a loud clapping noise and everybody was knocked down—players, coaches and everybody on the field," Campbell said.

Robert Jenkins, who was refereeing the game, said he saw "flashing way off in the distance like it was on the Gulf beaches and then boom! The noise brought both my jaws together."

Reconsiders Trip To U.S.

SAIGON (AP) — Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky is reconsidering his scheduled trip to the United States next month, a government spokesman said today.

Ky has accepted an invitation to attend an Oct. 3 rally in Washington by supporters of U.S. policy in Vietnam. A government spokesman said Ky was reconsidering the trip but had made no decision yet on whether it should be canceled.

A spokesman for Ky confirmed the announcement and said he expected a final decision soon. He said "new facts" had been brought to Ky's attention by the South Vietnamese ambassador to Washington, Bui Diem, and by Dang Duc Khoi, a top Ky aide now in Washington.

Ky's spokesman would not go into detail. It was reported, however, that Khoi and possibly others had been advising Ky against the trip, fearing it could touch off protests by anti-war groups and damage relations between Washington and Saigon.

The U.S. mission said there had been no contact between its officials and Ky about the trip and that he had not begun any formal preparation for it.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N.C.

Chance of showers Friday, ending from the west on Saturday. Warm Friday, turning a little cooler Saturday.

"Would you believe it doesn't look as big as I thought it would," Cynthia Bostick, Miss Kentucky, said as she looked at the huge hall which will seat more than 20,000 for the Saturday night show.

The 18-year-old Miss Bostick hopes for a career on Broadway and will attend the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York. Acting experience.

Reorganization Means Changes

If North Carolina is going to achieve the goal of state government reorganization as visualized by the 1969 General Assembly, few, if any, of the existing agencies, boards and commissions will retain their present independent status. It's just not possible to reorganize the 300-plus boards, agencies, departments and commissions now reporting directly to the Governor into a maximum of 25 departments and leave many in the independent status they have for years enjoyed. The General Assembly recognized the complexity of such reorganization when it passed legislation last year calling for a constitutional amendment and outlining a five-year period in which the reorganization could be effected. At the same time the General Assembly recognized the unrealistic situation which exists in North Carolina's government today with more than 300 individual agencies or bodies reporting directly to the governor. As governor Scott recently pointed out, it is virtually impossible in a four-year term for a governor even to meet the 300-plus agency heads who are supposed to be reporting directly to him... much less keep in touch with the work assigned to their respective agencies.

It is entirely possible that the preliminary grouping of agencies, boards and commissions into 20 major divisions may need review and revision before any final recommendations are made on reorganization. At the same time it is completely unrealistic for a large number of these bodies to demand to retain independent status within the framework of reorganization outlined by the General Assembly.

At a series of hearings being held by a subcommittee of the reorganization body, a parade of spokesmen for various groups have appeared presenting reasons satisfactory to themselves why their particular function should remain in its present position in state government organization. Some of the arguments have merit, others appear to have little.

But if North Carolina is going to streamline its government organization, and put its 300-plus agencies, boards, departments and commissions into some sort of sensible arrangement, the status of practically every state government office—from the governor's on down—is going to change.

The reorganization is essential if the growing state government is not to get completely out of hand from an administrative standpoint. It will not be accomplished easily, nor will it be accomplished without changes.

These changes being opposed from some quarters in the state government are the key to changing an unwieldy, sprawling organization into one which can operate with greater efficiency, at less expense, with more service to the taxpayers and with a greater sensitivity to the needs and desires of the people of North Carolina.

Resources Are Complementary

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH—Conservation and development are heads-and-tails on the coin of a region's resources.

They are activities which should complement rather than compete. Their mutual objective must be the constructive use of all that nature and man give to a community, a state, the world.

North Carolina's most able expositor of the proposition is

BRYAN HAISLIP
Roy G. Sowers, Jr., director of the department whose name is the combination of the two.

"It's big 'C' for Conservation as much as big 'D' for Development," he said. "That's real important. Maybe it hasn't always been so in the past, but for the last two years certainly there has been as much concern for conservation as for development."

The dynamic tension between the two—conserving natural resources relates directly to their use, and developing resources must depend upon wise conservation—demands that they be housed under one roof in the same state agency, Sowers argued.

Keep C&D Together

A recent audience for the Sowers' point of view was a subcommittee of the Governor's Committee on Reorganization of State Government which has proposed that C&D be split and its functions divided between two new departments, Natural Resources and Economic Development. Discussion of such a division began before the reorganization study made its suggestion, and dates roughly from the start of the current preoccupation with environment and pollution. Governor Bob Scott has indicated a favorable attitude on the split, a fact which underlined Sowers' negative position.

He is a Scott man. He managed the governor's 1968 fall campaign. He came into the administration as C&D director not simply to fill a bureaucratic slot but as a key team member. He is one of three or four close in to the governor as confidante and advisor on the whole range of state government and politics.

When the Scott program hit bumpy going in the 1969 General Assembly, Sowers was one of the lieutenants in the behind-the-scenes persuasion which brought it through. The assignment is certain to be repeated at the 1971 session.

His opposition to the C&D division is a point of principle, not a personal matter, Sowers said. "This is not a career position. There is no precedent to suppose that I'll be here two years from now," he pointed out.

Governorship Possibility
If it is unlikely he will remain in his present office, there is at least the possibility he will hold a higher one. He is mentioned as a prospective 1972 Democratic candidate for governor.

He smiled at the speculation. "It makes you feel mighty good. It's an intriguing idea," he admitted.

"Right now I'm working for the present governor. I signed on with Bob Scott because I felt he had a program for the people of North Carolina. He's fulfilling that in a real courageous way. I have no plans other than to give him all the help I can."

Once the dust settles after the '71 legislature, he can be expected to contemplate his political future and reach more specific conclusions.

Sowers, a Methodist who graduated from Wake Forest University, came to state government from private industry. He kept his residence in Sanford, where he was vice president of a textile machinery manufacturer, and commuting to Raleigh often has him on the road early and late.

His style is that of the new Tar Heel business executive, cosmopolitan with a down-home flavor. He wears colored shirts and wide ties, and talks with a molasses drawl. He's at home in the corporate board room or down at the barn with a chew of tobacco.

A Horseman's Manner

He has the firm rein and quiet voice that comes from handling fine horseflesh, a manner evident both at the office and when he's showing quarter horses. It's his theory that authority exercised fairly and with clear purpose can be understood by man or beast.

"A friend once told me that if you always tell the truth you don't have to remember what you say," he explained. "When we sit down and reason together we can resolve what seem to be conflicts in points of view."

Conservation and development for the future must concentrate on efforts to secure for the state industry which will provide opportunity for skilled workers while respecting the environment, he said.

In long sessions with the Public Works Committee last Monday and Tuesday, the bill was smothered in over-attention. Prolonged questioning by committee members, while short of outright filibustering, prevented much action. Sen. Everett Jordan of North Carolina was particularly time-consuming in demanding a short course on air pollution. "Now, I'm just an ol' country boy," the deceptively shrewd conservative would explain, then pose another question.

When supporters of the bill tried to hurry along the proceeding, the chairman of the full committee—Sen. Jennings Randolph of West Virginia—would have none of it. "Everett is fully entitled to have the answers to these questions," Randolph would say, then deliver a little speech himself. Sen. Edward Gurney, a conservative Republican from Florida, next would follow with more pointed questions.

The result was the committee got to only one tough provision: a three-year deadline for states to reduce air pollution to healthful levels. The other key aspects of the bill—including a requirement that automakers produce car exhausts 90 percent cleaner by 1975—have not yet been discussed.

Such delay is precisely what the business interests are after. Taken by surprise by the severity of the Muskie subcommittee's bill, they immediately brought up their big guns. In the week intervening before the full committee met, the fourth floor of the new Senate Office Building (location of the Public Works Committee) swarmed with captains of industry.

WASHINGTON—Inability of the Senate Public Works Committee to make much progress on the air-pollution control bill last week testifies to the effectiveness of the year's most intensive business lobbying campaign and to the controversy still embedded in the environmental issue.

The lobbying campaign was hurriedly begun after a Public Works subcommittee headed by Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine unanimously approved a tough bill requiring American industry—particularly auto manufacturers—to spend money now to fight air pollution.

A week later when the full Public Works Committee met to consider the bill, the lobbyists had done their work. Unanimity was gone. Very little was accomplished during three closed-door sessions, and Muskie's efforts to get the bill out of committee before the week-long Labor Day recess failed.

This means air-pollution control is confronting the clock ticking away the end of this Congress. Even if Congress convened a lame-duck session after the election, chances are increasing that the bill will be compromised down closer to the innocuous House-passed bill. Thus, the environmental question, on the surface as non-political as motherhood, is in fact a gut economic issue steeped in conflict.

Strength For Today

THAT VACATION

Have you had your vacation? If not, you had better hurry and take one. The Bible tells us that even the Creator rested after He had finished his creation. Yet there are a lot of human beings who think they can go straight through every year without vacations and suffer no harm. As a matter of fact, nature instructs us to take a vacation under the blue sky, and if we do not we can be pretty sure that eventually we will have a good long vacation under a red blanket.

Hard to get ready? Yes. There is nothing more disturbing than setting the house, the office, the store, in order before we leave. Packing clothes is a dull experience. We may meet new people on our vacation, but the ones we had at home are very precious to us. All these arguments can be brought up against taking a vacation. As the word indicates, we vacate the mind of its ordinary responsibilities when we take time off for rest and play. The British call this period a holiday, which also has many connotations.

So, get down the old suitcase, have the car oiled and greased, take along books—mystery stories and amusing tales about nothing at all. Give the little gray cells a rest. The Lord will undoubtedly forgive you if you become a sun-worshiper for a while.

But hurry. Time is slipping by fast.

The Machinery Tested

The United States Senate launches itself this week into one of the most fateful debates in American constitutional history. By the end of this month—by early October at the latest—the Senate will have voted up or down a resolution proposing the direct national election of Presidents.

"I think a case can be made," Yale's Professor Charles Black has said, "for the proposition that direct election, if it passes, will be the most deeply radical amendment which has ever entered the Constitution of the United States."

That assessment is shared by many others, both lawyers and non-lawyers, who see in the direct election proposal a fundamental alteration in the structure of American federalism. Yet the resolution has passed the House already; it reportedly commands strong popular support; and the action to be taken by the Senate has this unrecognized meaning: If the Senate approves, and the resolution goes out to the States for ratification, any further effort at electoral reform would be effectively blocked for seven years. That is the period allowed by the resolution in which three-fourths of the States must ratify or fail to ratify.

Consider, for a moment, the changes that would occur in the whole business of nomination and qualification for the ballot. Under existing law, political parties hold national conventions and nominate their presidential and vice presidential candidates. Then State parties, acting under State law, undertake to get those tickets listed on State ballots.

It is at this point that the machinery of federalism begins its delicate braking action. Major parties ordinarily have no trouble in getting their candidates on the ballot in every State. The petition process makes it more difficult for third parties. George Wallace, it will be recalled, had a terrible time in 1968 before he could get his American Independent Party qualified. When Strom Thurmond ran in 1948, he made it to the ballot in 15 States only.

The machinery of State-by-State qualification, coupled with electoral voting by States, has worked to inhibit the power of third parties. Only four times in this century has a minority party won electoral votes. The Socialists, Progressives, (Continued on page 5)

Other Editors Say Handling Hijackers
(Henderson Dispatch)
In all the orgy of airliner hijackings, little is ever heard of what, if anything, happens to the hijackers themselves. They appear after the plane is well on its way on the scheduled run, and order the pilot to fly to destinations indicated, on penalty of personal injury or damage or even destruction of the plane and its passengers and crew. The plane then proceeds to the point required by the intruder, which is usually Havana in Castro's Cuba.

A Trans World jetliner was hijacked early in the week, and when the plane landed in Havana the hijacker left the flight and has not been heard of since, at least not as this is written. What became of the man, who wore an Army uniform and traveled on a soldier half-fare ticket, was not indicated.

Why do most of them want to go to communist Cuba? And what do they do when they get there? It is not immediately recalled that any hijacker has been tried in court and sentenced for his crime.

One wonders if serious efforts are being made to deal with those who threaten the lives of passengers and crew. If so, very little is heard about procedure.

Fortunately, no major tragedy has occurred in all the long list of incidents. But by the law of averages, as it were, one will occur sooner or later. The public, as well as officials, will then be shocked into some positive action. How much better it would be to make an example of all the hijackers, in the possibility that they might know the truth of their heinous crime before catastrophe actually strikes. Authorities seem to be content with the hope and the chance that nothing serious will happen. But one day it just might, and that should not be forgotten.

Business Needs U.S. Census
By ELMER ROESSNER
Voltaire wrote in 1770, "If God did not exist, it would be necessary to invent Him." If he were alive today, he could have written, "If there were no U.S. Census, it would be necessary for business to take its own."

drifting. There is nothing more important to any business, whether it makes steel or sells Southern fried chickens, than where its customers are. The Census is spelling out answers. Facts For All That's true for nationwide mail-order houses, inventors of new products, sellers of mutual funds or small-town bakers who don't know which side of the tracks on which to step up advertising.

The new Census findings may not show the streets on which the richest people live, nor where investors may be most interested in mutual funds, but they will be loaded with facts that will help advertisers, sales departments, enterprises and corporations to determine where to establish new plants, where to seek new sales.

The 1960 Census changed the patterns of business in the United States; the 1970 Census will alter it for the next decade.

Escape Is Not In Book

By JOY STILLEY
NEW YORK (AP)—Well, I've managed to get through another birthday with no more trauma than that caused by making the acquaintance of the new gray hairs that have joined the old ones I'm already on familiar terms with.

Not so last year. On that occasion my husband decided that the only kind of celebration befitting the great event was dinner out, complete with champagne cocktails.

All went well during the meal. An attentive waitress hovered over us. The food was so much better than what I can cook I suspected my husband's motives in insisting that I should not play chef on my birthday.

But trouble came, along with the coffee. So did our waitress bearing a small cake with a lighted candle. So did a platoon of waitresses, waiters and busboys.

They circled the table and proceeded in full voice to serenade me with two choruses of Happy Birthday. I was too chagrined to notice whether there was a spotlight but one might as well have been trained on me. Every diner paused and stared, soup spoon suspended, salad fork dangling lettuce, steak knife poised for the coup de grace.

When the last off-key note died away all hands applauded so vigorously I feared there might be an encore. As the choristers finished their brief operatic career and went back to more mundane pursuits I turned in fury to my dinner companion.

"You know how I hate scenes like this," I hissed. "How could you embarrass me so?"

"Honest, I had nothing to do with it—believe me, I didn't," he pleaded. "You've been with me every second since we got here."

"You must have told her with sign language," I fumed, retreating into huffy silence. When the waitress presented the check my suspect spouse insisted she tell me he had no part in the proceedings.

"Of course he didn't," she said. "I heard him making a birthday toast and thought you'd enjoy the little surprise."

Back in the same restaurant with another couple a few months later, I recounted the tale of horror. Our friend Chuck excused himself ostensibly to make a telephone call and soon after he returned to the table I saw the brave little band of instant singing stars enter with a lighted cake.

"I wonder what poor soul is going to get it tonight?" I said sympathetically.

"You," announced Chuck with a diabolical grin. "I told them it was your birthday!"

Find Non-Whites Are Principal Victims Of Crime

By JANET STAIHAR
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A government study says the rate of violent crimes by urban blacks is higher than for whites, and the majority of those offenses involve Negroes attacking Negroes. The report, originally prepared by a three-man staff for the now-defunct National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence, also recommended the legalization of marijuana for persons over age 18.

"There is no reliable scientific evidence of harmful effects, nor is there evidence of marijuana's being a stepping-stone to hard narcotics," said the report. The voluminous study was written by Donald J. Mulvihill, a Washington attorney, Melvin

M. Tumin, a sociology professor at Princeton University, and Lynn A. Curtis, a doctoral candidate in urban sociology at the University of Pennsylvania. The report had been intended for the now-expired commission which was headed by Dr. Milton Eisenhower, but a lack of funds delayed publication until now.

The report, to be released publicly Wednesday, states that the rates for nonwhites proved to be higher than white rates for each of the four major violence crimes—rape, homicide, assault and robbery. But the majority of homicides, assaults and rapes committed by Negroes involved black victims, the report said.

Robbery was the one major crime in which there was a larger percentage of Negroes whose victims were white. In its comments on marijuana, the panel said that it should be legalized "in an effort to restore the respect of youth for our laws." "Through our harsh criminal statutes on marijuana use and in light of evidence that alcohol abuse accounts for far more destruction than any known psychoactive substance today, we have caused large numbers of our youth to lose respect for our laws generally," the panel said. "We have also criminalized untold numbers of young people. The scientific data do not support harsh treatment," it said.

"Marijuana has relatively mild effects on the user, and there is no evidence that it leads to the use of more dangerous drugs or that it causes aggressive behavior," the report said. "Quite to the contrary, it makes many users more relaxed. On the other hand, hallucinogens such as LSD have often caused extreme reactions and even psychosis."

The full 13-member commission did not endorse the recommendation for relaxing legal bans on marijuana. The commission earlier called for further medical study to determine possible harmful effects of marijuana before taking any substantive legal action.

As a means to solving the problems of blacks and the hard-core unemployed, the panel said that unless "creative new actions" are taken, "it is logical to expect the establishment of the defensive city or the modern counterpart of the fortified medieval city."

Under the so-called defensive city, there would be an "economically declining central business district in the inner city protected by people shopping or working in buildings during daytime hours and sealed off by police during nighttime hours."

For the most part, the three researchers blamed social conditions, unemployment and inadequate school systems. "Seventy-one per cent of all Negro workers are concentrated in the lowest paying and lowest skilled occupations. They are the last to be hired and the first to be laid off," the report said. While one-third of the Negro families in cities lived on $4,000 a year or less, only 16 per cent of the whites did," it said.

"The urban school system often fails to counteract those influences that draw individuals toward crime and violence." Among the recommendations the panel made to the commission, named in 1968 by President Lyndon B. Johnson, was tighter federal and local laws regulating the sale of firearms.

To end unemployment it suggested assisting the black, the young and the hard-core unemployed through more private and public job-training programs. Among other recommendations were experiments in subsidized scattered relocation of poor ghetto families in middle class white communities where integration with its accompanying opportunities would break cultural patterns that sustain poverty and violence. "The most serious general problem is the concentration in urban ghettos of Negroes and other minorities caught in a vicious subculture of poverty and violence," the report said.

Local Youth Is Cadet Lieutenant

CHATHAM, Va. — The Promotion Board of Hargrave Military Academy here recently appointed George A. Weimer Jr. of Greenville, N. C. to be Cadet 2nd Lt.

Weimer is the son of Dr. G. A. Weimer of 1031 E. Rock Spring Rd., Greenville, N. C.

Hargrave Academy, a Baptist preparatory school, is organized into a battalion of seven companies and 17 platoons. There are 48 commissioned and 101 non-commissioned officers which have the responsibility for the internal administration and discipline of the 600 cadets who form the corps.

Each year outstanding young men are selected from the senior class as commissioned officers. Their selection is based on academics, leadership, knowledge of the military, discipline, loyalty and cooperation.

Weimer has been assigned to "C" company.

Soldiers In Vietnam Receive Many Medals; Reasons Cited

By JOHN LENGEL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Medals for soldiers symbolize achievement, build morale, look good on a man's record and tell of heroism.

And soldiers in Vietnam have received more medals than GIs in Korea. In certain areas, U.S. soldiers in Southeast Asia have received more medals than were issued to troops in World War II.

There are plenty of reasons for the increases and the services feel the awards are richly deserved.

"There's no stated policy that awards should be given out more frequently," says Maj. Frederick Vollrath, who watches these things in the Army adjutant general's office. But, in the case of the Army's bronze star, the fourth highest medal for heroism, the decoration also can be given for achievement.

A bronze star can be awarded to a rifleman who takes a bunker single-handedly or to a man who moves paper a bit more swiftly than the fellow at the next desk. The only distinction in appearance is a tiny "V" on the medal.

Further, in some units, division commanders can award a bronze star to everyone in a rifle company. This was standard procedure at one time in the First Air Cavalry Division in Vietnam.

As it is, the Army alone has given out in Vietnam 317,670 bronze stars in all, compared with 73,464 in Korea and 395,379 in World War II.

The first and only medal in the Army for several decades was the Purple Heart, created by George Washington. Several times it faded in use and had to be revived by special order.

The only medal in the Civil War was the Medal of Honor and there were abuses. When the honor gained in stature, thousands of names were purged from early lists.

The third highest gallantry award, behind the Medal of Honor and the distinguished service cross, was the silver star. It began going to men "mentioned in dispatches" in World War I. The rest of the Army's 10 decorations followed soon after.

A Vietnam veteran, Marine Brigadier General Herbert Beckington, accounts for the hike in leatherneck awards by pointing out the Vietnam conflict has been a long and often bloody war.

More men have fought in it, and there is more to day to day fighting, he said.

A distortion in the figures comes in one category, the Air Medal. It was given out less frequently when helicopters weren't around. But in Vietnam everyone rides in helicopters and for the Marines alone this has accounted for 80 per cent of the decorations.

Here's some comparative award categories for the Army: Medal of Honor, 293 in World War II, 78 in Korea, 73 in Vietnam; silver star, 73,651 in World War II, 10,064 in Korea, 17,178 in Vietnam; air medal, 1.1 million in World War II (when the Air Force was in the Army, 8,504 in Korea, and 647,334 in Vietnam.

Prohibitionists, Constitutionalists and others have sputtered ineffectively within their State compartments. And because each of the two major parties has been compelled to make a broad appeal, the United States has benefited from political stability and proud compromise.

Under the pending resolution, this machinery would be junked. No matter what its sponsors say, the direct election amendment would require (and its language so permits) that ballots be uniform throughout the United States. Nothing else would make sense. An entire new system would have to be created by which any group calling itself a political party filed the names of its candidates with a Federal Board of Elections.

We could reasonably expect a Black Peoples Party, a Peace Party, a Revolutionary Party, a Young Americans Party. I am myself a Whig, and might run. In a nation so large and so passionately diverse, a dozen "parties" surely would bid for a footnote in history.

Then what? State lines no longer would matter. We are now thinking of cumulative votes, across the nation as a whole. It requires no great work of the imagination to conceive that such an aggregation of States Righters, New Leftists, Anti-Fluoridationists, and Ban-the-Bombers could drain enough votes to prevent either of the major parties from winning 40 per cent of the total.

In 1968, even with the machinery of federalism working, it was Nixon 43.5 per cent; Humphrey 42.8; and Wallace 13.5, with two-tenths split among Gene McCarthy, Eldridge Cleaver, a Communist named Mitchell, the Prohibitionist Munn, and others. Given a similar situation, under the pending amendment, a run-off would be held between the top two — probably the first week in December — amidst wild cries of "deal" and "sell-out."

Is this what we want? Is this prospect of chaos truly better than the "obsolete" but functioning system that now exists? The questions are squarely before the Senate now.

Julian Urges End Stupid Patriotism

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — State Rep. Julian Bond of Georgia has urged delegates to the Congress of African People to "reject this stupid idea of patriotism."

"We must re-affirm that we are first and foremost black nationals," Bond told the organization Sunday at the closing session of its five-day meeting. "And we must reject this stupid idea of patriotism that has made us first in war, last in peace and last in the hearts of our countrymen."

Bond, who gained national prominence during the 1968 Democratic National Convention, also described the meeting here as "an historic occasion.

"We have done a black thing in the heartland of the beast," he said.

Bond was nominated for vice president during the 1968 Democratic National Convention. However, he withdrew from contention because he was too young to meet the age requirements for the nomination.

About 1,000 Negro leaders from 33 states attended sessions of the congress.

Also button-holing Senators and staffers were the auto industry's two prestigious lobbyists — Thomas Mann, former Under Secretary of State, and Lloyd Cutler, a high-priced Washington lawyer. Other organizations represented on the fourth floor were the National Lead Assn., the American Mining Congress, the Manufacturing Chemical Assn., and elements of the aviation industry.

Their impact is reflected in Chairman Randolph's changed attitude. As a subcommittee member, he voted for the Muskie bill. Since then, he has expressed concern about its regulations on pollution from electric-power generating plants — regulations opposed by Randolph's coal industry friends.

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) — A London society wants all public signs in the Scottish Highlands to be printed in Gaelic as well as English.

In a letter to all Highland authorities, the Gaelic Society of London deplored the rapid death of the Gaelic language, spoken by less than 100,000 of Scotland's 5 million population, mainly in the Western Hebrides.

Moon Rock Like A Swiss Cheese

DURHAM, England (AP) — Scientists studying moon rocks brought back from lunar missions by American Apollo astronauts have found that "the nearest thing on earth to the moon, so far as the transmission of seismic waves are concerned, is cheese."

British geologist professor George Malcolm Brown told the British Association today that he had analysed some moon rocks and found they had a lot in common with a cheese called Swiss emmentaler.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina poultry offerings today were adequate for a generally good ready-to-cook demand. Live at-farm prices 10½ cents per pound. Hens, offerings all weights adequate, demand fair. Heavies, at farm, 9 cents. Light type, at farm 4½ cents.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices continued falling lower this morning in moderately active trading. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at 11 a.m. was off 6.50 at 764.65. Declines held an almost 2-to-1 lead over advances on the Big Board.

Analysts continued to ascribe the downturn to profit taking. They pointed out that investor psychology appeared still to be firm, adding that selling was selective and orderly.

The possibility of strikes in the rail and auto industry loomed in the background, putting a damper on investor exuberance.

"We do not anticipate any problems," Graham noted. "I hope the public will cooperate with us in every respect."

Grimesland Elementary, Ayden Elementary, Ayden High, Bethel Primary, North Fountain Elementary and Farmville High School reported smooth opening today. Other than the usual confusion of the first day, opening was very orderly, the school principals reported.

Winterville High School Principal J. R. Carraway commented, "Other than having an additional 60 students we did not expect, things went fine."

Gaston Monk of South Ayden High School reported a very fine opening day. "Things were very orderly this morning and we had about the number of students we expected," Monk explained.

"I see no difference in this morning and the opening day in the past two or three years," stated Sam Bundy, principal of the Sam D. Bundy School in Farmville. "I think we will have an enrollment of about 700 students in grades one through six."

Normal openings were also reported at Grifton High School, Chicod and Belvoir Primary.

The students were dismissed before lunch today. The first full day of school will be held Wednesday. The cafeterias will be open to serve lunch.

Carnival Closed Internship By Disturbance For Student

FARMVILLE — A disturbance by young people last night in Farmville resulted in the early closing of a carnival and breakage of windows in downtown businesses.

According to Police Chief Graham Creel, the incident began at 9:05 p.m. when Patrolman Mack Boney attempted to take 17 year old David Harper into custody at the corner of South Walnut and Railroad Streets.

Boney recognized Harper, now on probation with one of the terms being that Harper be in his home after six p.m., the chief said. When Harper refused to go with Boney, Boney placed handcuffs on Harper in an effort to take him out of the carnival area.

Police Chief Creel and Patrolman Clifton Lee Anderson, on a routine patrol, came on the scene. Creel said when Anderson got out to assist Boney, "about 50 to 75 youngsters began throwing bottles." Harper was placed in the police car to be taken to the station.

While being booked, Harper broke and ran and has not yet been apprehended.

Chief Creel and Auxiliary Policeman Bill Oakes closed the carnival at 10:00 p.m. The group of young people moved to Main Street. Police attempted to arrest one member of the group, but this unidentified person broke and ran.

Chief Creel said it was at this time that the bottle throwing was intensified, resulting in broken windows at Hylean Market and Lee's Warehouse. City officials were taking under advisement the possibility of keeping the carnival closed tonight in view of the disturbance last night.

Seward Selby, a teacher at H. B. Sugg High School, and a community worker, came on the scene last night to help calm the situation.

"I was able to talk to parents of some of the children and get them to get their children off the street," Selby said.

Selby commented that in situations of this kind, he feels if parents do their job and if police are cautious in dealing with the young people, bad situations can be averted.

U.S. To Stand By SEATO Pact

BANGKOK (AP) — The United States will continue to support its allies in the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization—SEATO—as they work to maintain peace and security within their borders, Secretary of State William P. Rogers said today.

In a telegram to SEATO headquarters marking the 16th anniversary of the pact signed by the United States, Britain and five Asian nations, Rogers said, "The rapid development of the Southeast Asia region in the years since 1954 owes much to the protective shield provided by SEATO."

"The United States will continue to give the organization our strong support and encouragement."

Prince To Get No Favoritism

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Crown Prince Vajiralongkorn of Thailand started studies at Kings School here today "and will be treated like any other boy," said the headmaster, the Rev. Stanley Kurrle.

"His father has been very insistent on this and far as possible this is way it will be," the headmaster said.

The 18-year-old prince, who has been studying in England for the past four years, is expected to remain at Kings about a year before entering the Australian Royal Military College in Canberra.

Nixon Tries Wine And Dine Gambit On Unions

By FRANK CORMIER WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, an unlikely candidate for an election year love affair with organized labor, left some union chiefs wondering today why Democrats hadn't discovered his wine-and-dine gambit years ago.

Nixon invited more than three score top union officials and their wives to a White House dinner Monday—the first time any chief executive had held such a soiree on Labor Day.

The normally Democratic unionists seemed impressed. After the business-suit event—a departure from Nixon's preference for formal attire—at evening social events—a significant number echoed the sentiments of AFL-CIO official Sol Barkin, who proclaimed: "It's a political 10-pin strike. I don't know why the Democrats didn't think of it years ago."

The Nixon get-together almost seemed to belie persistent AFL-CIO criticism of the administration's stewardship of the economy, even though the federation has steadfastly backed Nixon's Southeast Asia policies. An exchange of toasts between Nixon and AFL-CIO president George Meany gave rise, in fact, to a jest that television might find a fall season winner in the

"Dick and George show." When Nixon introduced son-in-law David Eisenhower, summertime statistician for the Washington Senators of the American baseball league, Meany interjected loudly, "that don't seem to make 'em win." Then when it came Meany's turn to toast the President of the United States, Meany noted the presence of George P. Shultz, first director of the new office of management and budget.

Sorrowfully, it seemed, Meany explained that Shultz had taken a substantial pay cut from his former position as secretary of labor, adding, "that don't happen in the labor movement." It was Nixon's turn to interrupt with, "Maybe he should join a labor union."

In a more serious vein, Nixon lauded Meany as a "labor statesman" and asserted that "when the chips are down," the unions are on the side of the U.S. President, be he Democrat or Republican.

Meany allowed as how all six chief executives he has been associated with—starting with Franklin D. Roosevelt—always tried to do what was best for the country.

Mrs. Belle McLawhorn Croom, 75, died in Craven County Memorial Hospital in New Bern Tuesday morning following a few days of illness. Funeral services will be conducted at two o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Vanceboro Christian Church by the Rev. Joe E. Devine, the pastor. Burial will be in the New Bern National Cemetery. The body will be taken from the Wilkerson Funeral Home to the Church one hour prior to the time of services.

Mrs. Croom was a native of Craven County and lived most of her life there. She was a charter member of the Vanceboro Christian Church. Her husband, Ersell J. Croom, died in 1959.

Surviving are a son, James R. Croom of Charlotte; a daughter, Mrs. S. L. Gaskins of Vanceboro; five grandchildren; four great grandchildren; a brother, B. O. McLawhorn of Vanceboro; and a sister, Mrs. R. R. McGlohon of Ayden.

Funeral services for Mr. Miles Otho Minges, 76, will be held at the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock by his pastor, the Rev. Richard R. Gammon. Burial will be in Pinewood Memorial Park. Mr. Minges died Monday morning at 9:45 following six weeks of critical illness.

Mr. Minges was born and reared in Catawba County near Newton, and came to Greenville in 1923. He operated the Orange Crush Bottling Company which later became the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company of Eastern North Carolina with plants in Greenville, New Bern, and Kinston, and served as president until he retired in 1960. He was a pioneer in the bottling industry and was one of the oldest Pepsi-Cola Bottlers in North Carolina.

The Minges Coliseum at East Carolina University was named in honor of him and his family for their support of the athletic program at the school. The Minges training tower used by the Greenville Fire Department was given by him and named in his honor. He was a supporter of all community affairs.

A member of the First Presbyterian Church, he had served on the Board of Deacons, and was a member of the Greenville Elks Lodge.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Myrtle Morrow Minges; five sons, Max E., John F., and Dr. Ray D. Minges, all of Greenville, Forrest E. Minges of New Bern, and Hoyt A. Minges of Kinston; a daughter, Mrs. Martha Minges Bass of Farmville; 19 grandchildren; two great grandchildren; and a brother, L. L. Minges of Rocky Mount.

She is majoring in political science.

Toll Is Slightly Below Estimate

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Traffic accidents across the nation claimed 568 lives during the three-day Labor Day weekend.

The National Safety Council had estimated that 570 to 670 might die in traffic during the period that began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight, local time, Monday.

The record number of traffic deaths for any Labor Day weekend was in 1968 when the toll hit 688. The count for the same holiday period last year was 609.

Managing Your Money

PNB PLANTERS NATIONAL BANK

We Are Getting Younger Every Year

What sounds like a biological impossibility is actually taking place. As each year goes by, we—that is the population of the United States is getting younger.

At the present time, according to census figures, the median age of the nation's population is 27½ years. That doesn't mean you are going downhill if you are 29 or 30 years of age. It means simply that the Post World War II baby boom is growing up.

This trend will continue. It is estimated that, in the early 70's, the median age of the population will be 25 years. In other words, by that time, half the population of the United States will be 25 years of age or under.

One might wonder what this has to do with "Managing Your Money." It has a great deal to do with the subject. In fact, it is a matter of growing concern to banking and bankers and the concern is not economic, it is social.

Economically speaking, at this level, family formation is at its peak and the material requirements of the "young-marrieds" are almost endless. They will require housing, furniture, appliances and a host of other products deemed essential nowadays in setting up their home.

Manufacturers and retailers are looking forward to supplying these necessities. During the next several years, mother nature will create a built-in boom for their products. Banking, of course, will provide for their financial needs but bankers are concerned about teaching them sound financial management. You might have noticed the amount of stress that is being placed on consumer education, money management and the wise use of credit.

These subjects are as essential as a technical education. They are even more essential because the young adult will be living for the next 40 or more years in a complex, financially-oriented society. Our educational facilities make little provision for indoctrination in such matters. Whether it's ego or thoughtlessness, parents do not take the time to discuss the family finances with their children. As a result, there have been upwards of 175,000 personal bankruptcies annually.

Parents should take time to discuss family finances with their young children. Have their young adults stop in at their local bank. An officer will be pleased to tell them how a checking account works; why it is necessary to save; the advantages of financial planning. Don't consider it an imposition. Banks are anxious to educate young people.

"We Are Getting Younger Every Year"

This column is published by Planters National Bank as a community service. For full-service banking you are invited to contact Eugene M. Brown, PNB's Assistant Vice President in Greenville.

Ward Captures Moyer Tourney

Jim Ward captured the 18th annual W. S. Moyer Golf Tournament held Saturday through Monday at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

Ward fired a 54-hole total of 222 to take an easy victory in the tournament. He beat out second-place finisher Trent Hill by nine strokes.

Hill finished with a 231.

The victory in the tournament gives Ward his second major championship at the club this year. Earlier this year, he won the Club Championship.

Al Ward took top honors in the first flight, firing a 243. He was followed by Carl Pierce, who had a 245.

Second flight went to Doug Jones with a 249, while Paul Evans was the runner-up with a 250.

Bob Abbott captured the third flight, placing a 54-hole total of 256. Second place went to Barney Barrett, who had a 258.

In the fourth flight, Joe Ward took top honors with a 264, a stroke ahead of Lawton Nisbet, who had a 265.

Kenneth Hite won the fifth flight with a 289, while J. B. Kittrell was second with a 301.

Moyer Golf Winners

Baker Takes Southern 500

By ED SHEARER
Associated Press Writer
DARLINGTON, S.C. (AP) — It's about time somebody else got the lightning bolt," said auto racing hard-luck guy Buddy Baker after he breezed to a one-lap victory Monday in the 21st Southern 500 stock car race.

The burly driver from Charlotte, N.C., put his 1969 Dodge, built by Cotton Owens, into the lead on the 303rd lap and held it the rest of the way as his two nearest challengers were victims of accidents in the final 50 miles.

Veteran Cale Yarborough of Timmonsville, S.C., winner of this event two years ago, was only three seconds behind on the 332nd lap of the 367 lap race when he attempted to pass three cars on the low side of the back straightaway.

Yarborough, running without brakes, closed in too quickly on slower traffic and bounced off the inside guard rail, spinning back on the track. The wreck sent him to the sidelines for a 20th place finish in the 40-car field.

This left only Donnie Allison of Hueytown, Ala., as a serious contender. But Allison, who led the 110 laps near the middle of the race, saw his hopes shattered when he slid into the wall coming out of the first turn on the 347th lap, only moments after he had stopped for tires.

Allison was almost one mile behind Baker at the time. He finished 11th, one place behind his brother Bobby.

Another Dodge driver, Bobby Isaac of Catawba, N.C., came in second, one lap and three seconds behind Baker. Isaac may have been in a neck and neck finish with Baker had he not taken a pit stop under a green flag. The other leaders made pit stops under caution flags, which went up nine times for 50 laps.

"The things that happened to the other guys today could have happened to me," said Baker, winning only his third time in 286 career starts. Both other wins came at Charlotte — the National 500 in 1967 and the World 600 in 1968.

"I've wanted to win this race since I was about nine years old," Baker said. "I was aware of every move that I made for a change."

Baker almost took himself out of the race with 11 laps to go when he appeared headed for a spinout on the fourth turn.

"But I told myself this is the biggest day of my life and there's still a long way to go. So I settled down," he explained.

Baker, who won $27,450, covered the 500 miles at 128.871 miles per hour, third best time in Southern 500s but well off the record 130.423 mark set by Richard Petty in 1967.

Isaac's second place earned him 147 points toward the NASCAR point championship for 1970, running his total to 3,039 for the year. The second place driver in the standings, James Hylton of Inman, S.C., placed seventh and received 132 points for a 3,012 total.

The Petty racing team of Pete Hamilton and Richard Petty finished third and fifth respectively, easing memories of a treacherous 400 last May when the team crashed up three cars.

David Pearson of Spartanburg, S.C., who won the pole in Thursday's qualifying, finished fourth.

Ayden Faces First Tidewater Challenge

The Tidewater Conference got away to a good start, posting as many victories as possible Friday night in the season openers for all five teams.

Four recorded victories, one of them coming over another member of the conference. Manteo, the defending Tidewater champion, beat Columbia, 20-0, but the game does not count in the standings.

All members of the conference play each other twice, except for Ayden. Only the second game with each school counts in the standings.

Other results showed Ayden taking a 6-0 victory over Greene Central, Camden downing Belhaven, 14-0, and Knapp beating Perquimans, 6-0.

Conference play will get underway this weekend, however, as Ayden meets Columbia in the loop opener. The winner will take an early lead in the race. Coach Nelson Gravatt of Ayden was generally pleased with what he saw Friday night, despite a deluge of rain which halted the game for about a half-hour.

"We looked pretty good on defense, but our offense was sloppy," the coach said. "We had some discipline problems, and several of our starters weren't in there. These problems should be over by the next game, however."

Gravatt said that he was disappointed with the timing and blocking, calling it ragged. "But our kicking game was about 200 per cent better than it was last year."

Gravatt, turning to the scouting report on Columbia, noted that Manteo is going to be tough to dethrone from the championship. "They got away to a good start against Columbia. They're going to be tough."

Columbia runs from the straight-T and uses a 6-3 defense. They may be hampered by the loss of one of their top football players, Gravatt pointed out. "Their fullback did most of the passing for them, with the center snapping the ball to him through the quarterback's legs. He also was the key to their running game, and was a defensive star at linebacker. But with him out, they may have trouble."

Ayden also will be hampered by injuries. Fullback Debro Blount may miss this week's game. "Losing him will definitely hurt us, especially on defense," the coach said.

Quarterback Ken Cleaton was also injured, but he is expected to be ready for the game.

Elsewhere around the league, Manteo will travel to Plymouth, Camden and Pantego will meet at Belhaven, and Knapp goes to Barry Robinson.

The current Tidewater standings:

Conf.	All Games	W	L	W	L
Ayden	0	0	1	0	0
Manteo	0	0	1	0	0
Camden	0	0	1	0	0

Brant Aleya keeps making his point and it keeps coming up 7.

Monday—Sept. 7, of course—being Labor Day, Aleya belabored Milwaukee pitchers for seven runs batted in as Minnesota edged the Brewers 7-6 in the first game of a doubleheader. He drove in two more in the Twins' 8-3 nightcap victory.

Exactly five months earlier—April 7—Aleya made his debut in a Minnesota uniform by knocking in—what else?—seven runs in an opening day rout of the Chicago White Sox.

Monday's outburst helped keep the Twins six games in front of Oakland in the American League West since the A's swept the White Sox 7-4 and 7-5. The California Angels, who had been tied with Oakland, lost to Kansas City 4-1 and dropped 7½ games back.

Elsewhere, Detroit—downed Baltimore 5-2, the New York Yankees nipped Washington 4-3 and Cleveland trounced Boston 8-2 after losing 4-3.

Aleya started his heroics early with a grand slam homer in the first inning of the opener. He added a three-run shot in the third, his 15th of the season, then singled and reached on an error. In the nightcap he singled a run across in the first and hit a sacrifice fly in the seventh.

On opening day, his seven RBI came via two homers and two singles.

The point Aleya really likes to make, however, is that he's a better hitter than Ted Williams thought he was. Williams traded the husky outfielder from Washington to Minnesota shortly before the season.

"I just think Ted underestimated," Aleya said. "I said if he traded me he would regret it. Ted used to needle me, embarrass me and insult me. I knew he was trying to get me to play harder or something, but what he really was doing was hurting my confidence."

Ron Perranoski nailed down the opener for the Twins with his 28th save and Hal Haydel, making his major league debut, won the second game with five strong innings in relief and also homered and doubled.

The hitting of Joe Rudi, Sal Bando and pitcher Vida Blue powered Oakland past Chicago twice, giving the A's an eight-game winning streak and the White Sox a losing skein of similar length.

Rudi socked a homer in the opener and drove in three runs with a homer and double in the second game. Bando, who also homered in the first game, drilled a three-run double in the nightcap. Blue got his first major league hit in the opener, a three-run homer.

Fast-balling Bob Johnson hurled a three-hitter, fanned 10

Aleya Leads Twins To Doubleheader Sweep

and also stroked a two-run single as the Royals handed the slumping Angels their fourth setback in a row. Ed Kirkpatrick homered for the winners.

Jim Northrup knocked in four runs with a double and single to pace the Tigers over the Orioles and thwart Jim Palmer's bid for his 20th victory.

Boog Powell's two-run homer in the eighth ruined Joe Niekro's shutout bid. The Orioles lead the AL East by nine games over the Yankees, who shaded the Senators on the hitting of Jake Gibbs and Lindy McDaniel's clutch relief pitching.

Gibbs had two doubles and singled home the winning run in the seventh inning. McDaniel relieved winner Mike Kekich in the last of the seventh and worked out a bases-loaded, one-run jam.

Larry's Brown's bases-loaded triple and Vida Pinson's three-run homer paced the Indians over the Red Sox after Cleveland's Sam McDowell missed a shot at his 20th triumph in the opener. Boston scored the winning run when Buddy Bradford dropped a short fly ball in center field. Pinson also homered in that game.

Ragazzo Feels Like He's Watching Reruns

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Virginia Military Institute football coach Vito Ragazzo will be forgiven if some of his remarks are beginning to sound like a broken record.

By this time, however, Ragazzo—beginning his fifth year as coach of the Keydets—must feel as if he's been watching too many television reruns. The story is beginning to get all too familiar.

Ragazzo had reason to believe things were looking up when VMI posted a 6-4 record his second season, which was climaxed by a 12-10 victory over arch-rival Virginia Tech engineered by sophomore quarterback Russ Quay.

Instead of returning to school, however, Quay got married—which was against VMI regulations—and the Keydets in 1968 were 1-9 over-all and 1-3 for eighth place in the Southern Conference.

Before the start of last season, Ragazzo lost 30 players—including 12 starters—for reasons other than graduation. The Keydets went 0-10 and hit the conference basement with Furman at 0-4.

This year's blow came Monday when Ragazzo learned that sophomore halfback Dorsey Smallwood, listed as a starter, had left school because he is married. There are replacements—sophomore Mac Bowman and junior nonletterman Phil Clayton—but it's the pattern that bothers Ragazzo.

Asked before preseason drills began whether he had difficulty getting athletes to attend a military school, Ragazzo said the problem wasn't recruiting them but keeping them.

Coach Lou Holtz got some better news at William and Mary when it was learned that fullback Wes Meeteer suffered only a slight knee injury in last weekend's scrimmage and apparently will be ready for the Indians' season opener Saturday at West Virginia.

Flanker Jerry Haynes was praised for his work by coach Frank Jones at Richmond, which opens at home Saturday night against N.C. State. As a sophomore last year, Haynes was used mainly on punt returns but he was one of the stars of last weekend's scrimmage against the freshmen.

Coach Bob King promoted Mike Sabian to a starting cornerback post at Furman as the Paladins drilled for Saturday's opener at VMI. Moved to the second unit backfield were John Wolford from running back and Mike Johnson at fullback.

Tailback Bob Durican and defensive end Jim Lee, both bothered by leg injuries, were listed as doubtful starters Saturday when The Citadel opens its season at Clemson. Coach Red Parker said sophomore John Rosa had won the starting quarterback spot.

Jones Shines As Mets Sweep Two From Expos; Bucs, Cubs In Splits

BY TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
Clean Jones disclaims any knowledge of the impostor that played left field earlier in the season for the New York Mets. He only recognizes the fellow that's out there now.

"This is the real Clean Jones coming out," said the Mets left fielder after he clouted a two-run homer in the opener and added a key single in the nightcap as the New Yorkers swept a Labor Day doubleheader from the Montreal Expos, 5-4 and 5-1.

"I don't know who that other fellow was," said Jones, referring to himself after he started out poorly and was still only hitting at a .237 clip on Aug. 6. "I didn't know what I was doing wrong then and now I don't know what I'm doing right," said Jones, after hitting in his 14th consecutive game and lifting his average to .273. "All I know is that this is the real Clean Jones."

The pair of victories enabled the Mets to edge into second place in the torrid National League East battle, 1½ games behind Pittsburgh and one-half game ahead of Chicago.

The Pirates and Cubs split their doubleheader, Pittsburgh winning the opener 8-3 before dropping the nightcap 9-2.

In other NL action—all doubleheaders—San Francisco beat Cincinnati 6-3, 4-3; Houston trimmed San Diego 10-5, 9-4; Philadelphia stopped St. Louis 5-1, 3-2 in 13 innings and Los Angeles swept Atlanta, 4-3, 6-1.

Jones, a 340 hitter last year when the Mets were world champions, led a late comeback in the opener, drilling his ninth homer in the eighth inning to tie the score at 4-4. A pair of walks followed and Gerry Grote ripped a tie-breaking single for the victory.

The Mets backed Jim McAndrew, 9-11, in the second game with a five-run second inning as Jones contributed a single to the rally. Tommie Agee drilled his 23rd homer—a three-run shot—and McAndrew scattered six hits.

Ron Santo clubbed a tie-breaking homer in the seventh inning and hit another in the eighth helping the Cubs to their second game victory.

Nine home runs were hit in the two games. Bob Moose won the opener for the Pirates—his first complete game in a month—and Richie Hebner keyed an 11-hit attack with three, and drove in four runs with a pair of homers. Bob Robertson added a homer for the Pirates and Willie Smith and Joe Pepitone cracked for the Cubs.

Ferguson Jenkins tossed a five-hitter in the nightcap for his 19th victory and also clubbed a homer, as did Billy Williams.

The Giants rallied for three runs in the seventh inning to overtake the Reds in the nightcap. Tite Fuentes drove in the first two with a bases-loaded, two-out hit off shorts top Don Chaney's glove and Bobby Bonds sped home when Chaney's throw to the plate went wild.

Bobby Tolan had a two-run homer for the Reds.

In the opener, Juan Marichal, 10-10, survived 11 Cincinnati hits while Bonds and Willie McCovey homered. McCovey also drove in a run with a sacrifice fly and Hal Lanier added a two-run double for the Giants.

Joe Morgan ripped five hits in the second game, including a key two-run double that put the Astros ahead to stay and the little second baseman added a pair of hits and scored two runs in the opener.

Bob Watson triggered a six-run Houston sixth inning in the first game victory over the Padres as Larry Howard added a pair of homers. Ramon Webster had a pinch grand slam for the Padres.

The Phils jumped out for four first inning runs in the opener as Larry Bowa opened with a triple and Denny Doyle and Deron Johnson added run-scoring hits as Philadelphia ended a five-game losing streak.

Bowa won the nightcap for the Phils with a two-out, run-scoring single in the 13th inning after Philadelphia had loaded the bases with none out. Bowa also drove in an earlier run with a single.

Willie Crawford celebrated his 24th birthday with a two-run homer in leading the Dodgers to their opening game victory. Orlando Cepeda slugged a two-run shot for the Braves.

In the nightcap, Wes Parker lashed a two-run double and two singles as Los Angeles completed its sweep. Alan Foster, 9-11, gained his fifth victory in six decisions against Atlanta. Clete Boyer homered for the Braves.

Oakland Seen As One Of The Top Teams In Conference

BY ERIC PREWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Raiders begin life as a National Football League team with everything but a Super Bowl trophy to prove they were the best team in the American Football League's last days.

In the last three AFL seasons, the Raiders were 34-4-1. Last year's 12-1-1 record was the best in pro football.

But the 1969 Raiders won the wrong two games with the Kansas City Chiefs, bowing 17-7 in the third and last game and sending the Chiefs on to Super Bowl glory.

Coach John Madden's team should again battle Kansas City for a divisional title. The two teams, along with Denver and San Diego, make up the Western Division of the American Conference. The 34-year-old coach, in his second season, has a veteran line-up returning.

Quarterback Daryle Lamoni, the AFL's Most Valuable Player last year, has thrown 89 touchdown passes and gained almost 10,000 yards passing in his three seasons with the team. Lamoni completed 101 passes last year to wide receivers Fred Biletnikoff and Warren Wells for an average of 20 yards per completion.

The veteran line, with such standouts as guard Gene Upshaw and Center Jim Otto, provided great passing protection.

Charlie Smith, the lead runner last year with 600 yards, and Hewitt Dixon figure to start again as running backs. But Dixon has been bothered by leg injuries, and the fullback spot may have to be filled by Pete Banaszak or Marv Hubbard. On defense, the only 1969 starter missing is outside linebacker Chip Oliver, who gave up football to join a hippie commune.

Bill Laskey, a part-time starter last season, has moved into Oliver's spot. Gus Otto is a six-year starter at the other outside position.

Dan Donners, the regular middle linebacker, broke his right arm Sunday and will be sidelined at least six weeks.

The defensive front four of Ben Davidson, Tom Keating, Art Thoms and Carleton Oats led a pass rush that spilled opposing quarterbacks 47 times last season.

Safety Dave Grayson and cornerback Willie Brown were All-League players. Nemiah Wilson and George Atkinson were the other starters in the defensive backfield.

George Blanda, at 43, may lose the No. 2 quarterback job to rookie Ken Stabler but is expected to continue as the team's place kicker. Mike Eischeid is in his fifth season as the punter.

Lombardi Given Final Services

RED BANK, N. J. (AP) — Vince Lombardi was buried near here Monday with a wreath of white and yellow flowers at the head of his grave.

The Burial at Mt. Olivet Cemetery followed a Requiem Mass at St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York.

More than 1,000 were present as Lombardi's coffin was placed in its final resting place.

Lombardi, who reached legendary stature as coach of the National Football League's Green Bay Packers, died of cancer last Thursday in Washington at 57. For the past year he had been coach and executive vice president of the Washington Redskins.

The floral offering at the head of the grave was from President Nixon, who attended a memorial mass in Washington at the same time the funeral mass was being conducted at St. Patrick's by Terence Cardinal Cooke, Roman Catholic archbishop of New York.

At a White House dinner Monday night, Nixon spoke of Lombardi, calling him a "man of very great character."

Lombardi, the President said, "was a man who in a time when so many people seem to be turning away from religion was devoutly religious and devoted to his church; at a time when the moral fabric of the country seems to be coming apart, he was a man who was deeply devoted to his family; at a time when it seems rather square to be patriotic, he was deeply and unashamedly patriotic; at a time when permissiveness is the order of the day in many circles, he was a man who insisted on discipline ... discipline and strength."

Lombardi was described by Cardinal Cooke as a man of deep faith and hope, in addition to being a successful professional football coach.

Drills Begin To Ease Off

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Labor was short Monday, that is shorter than normal, for Atlantic Coast Conference football teams. Most of the preseason work slacked off as the first games for the eight teams neared. All play Saturday.

Coach Cal Stoll said Wake Forest has had some ball-handling problems that he wants to get straightened out before Saturday. "We will continue to work on our kicking game and also on our passing," Stoll said. "We looked good statistically in our passing in the scrimmage but we lacked finesse."

Stoll said he intended to stage a two-hour workout today and then lighten up. In a light workout Monday, North Carolina State concentrated on its game plan for the University of Richmond Saturday.

Coach Earle Edwards said, "We came out of our scrimmaging with nothing more than the usual bumps and bruises and are fortunate in that respect."

The Gamecocks of South Carolina staged goal line work Monday for their opener with Georgia Tech.

The defense concentrated on goal line stands against a simulated offense as run by reserves. Coach Paul Dietzel had the squad behind closed gate for the practice. The University of Maryland staged a light workout Monday in preparation for its first game against Villanova.

The team is off today to register for classes. Coach Roy Lester said. He plans no more heavy contact drills before the weekend opener.

University of North Carolina Coach Bill Dooley put his squad through a drill Monday that didn't please him. He said the team wasn't mentally alert, adding: "We certainly better be alert when we go against a fine team like Kentucky."

Funny Year For Winner Murphy

BY BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — "It's been a funny kind of year," Bob Murphy mused after taking down the $20,000 first prize in the Greater Hartford Open Golf Tournament.

"I've been in position to win six times this year, finished second once, third twice and just kicked the rest away. "I guess I've finally adjusted to my new clubs."

It's been a long fight for the 27-year-old Murphy, whose clubs were stolen from his car in Philadelphia a year ago. He offered a reward of "$100 a stick" to get them back, but they were gone for good.

And Murphy, who scored consecutive victories in the Philadelphia and Thunderbird Classics of 1968—his rookie season on the tour—hadn't won since.

"I guess I was finally ready," he said Monday after shooting a final 69 for 267 and scoring by four strokes over Paul Harney, a 41-year-old club pro from Sutton, Mass.

Harney, playing partner of the 27-year-old Murphy, had a final 67, four-under-par on the 6,568-yard Wethersfield Country Club course, for a 271.

Tom Weiskopf, with a 67, was alone in third at 272, followed by Jim Grant and Steve Opperman at 273. PGA champion Dave Stockton and Doug Sanders tied at 274.

Harney was the only man to make a run at Murphy, whose total matched the low 72-hole total on the tour this year.

Murphy had a whopping, four-stroke lead starting the cool, cloudy day, but took consecutive bogeys on the 10th and 11th. He three-putted the 10th and missed the green on the 11th. Harney closed within two strokes on the 14th with a bird.

But the 215-pound Murphy knocked in a 12-foot birdie putt on the 16th and put it out of reach with a 15-footer on the next hole.

"I had a kind of lucky week," Murphy said. "That's what you have to have to come out on top. I played fairly consistent golf, I'm proud to say, and hit the ball real good."

Murphy donated $1,000 of his purse to a local charity benefiting mentally retarded children.

The victory pushed his earnings for the year to over $97,000, compared with the $56,000 he won a year ago while adjusting to the new clubs.

Pro Grid Teams Make More Cuts

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Brian Dowling, a noted Yale man, and Lane Howell, who learned his stuff in the school of hard knocks, were among the notable cuts by National Football League teams Monday.

Dowling, a record-breaking quarterback at Yale, was cut by the Boston Patriots after failing to beat out Kim Hammond as the backup man to Mike Taliaferro.

Howell, 26, a six-year veteran tackle who played with the New York Giants and Philadelphia, was cut by the Eagles.

Boston Coach Clive Rush, however, left the door slightly ajar in Dowling's case. He indicated he may be carried on the Patriots' taxi squad if not claimed by another NFL team.

Dowling teamed with Calvin Hill, Dallas' extraordinary runner, to give the Elis one of their best scoring punches ever during the 1966-68 seasons.

Howell, a Grambling product, was the Giants' 15th round draft pick in 1963.

Dowling was among five players cut by Boston. The others included defensive end Karl Henke, a two-year veteran.

The Buffalo Bills raised a few eyebrows by dropping safety man George Saines, one of their steady regulars in recent years. Saines was waived along with veteran center Al Bemiller and middle linebacker Harry Jacobs.

Harry Theofilides, who gained some glory while filling in adequately for AWOL quarterback Joe Namath during the early exhibition season, got the ax from the New York Jets; who also trimmed veteran wide receiver Richard Trapp and tackle Paul Seiler, a No. 1 draft pick in 1967. Defensive tackle Ray Haynes was put on the Jets' injured waiver list.

Voters Of 8 States At Polls In Primaries Today

By JANET STAIHAR
Associated Press Writer
Voters in eight states go to the polls today to nominate party candidates for November elections with a key race being waged in Florida where squabbling Republicans hope to capture a Democratic Senate seat.

Holland.
The GOP victor will square off against the winner of today's four-man primary race for the Democratic billing. Former Gov. Farris Bryant, considered the front-runner, is closely challenged by Fred Schultz, speaker of the Florida House.
Florida also offers a hotly contested battle for governor with Republican Claude Kirk seeking renomination against millionaire chain drug store operator Jack Eckerd.

The Democrats have a tight four-way fight for their nomination for governor and it appears headed for a Sept. 29 runoff.
In Vermont, former Gov. Philip H. Hoff is expected to win the Democratic primary over State Sen. Fiore L. Bove and former U.S. Rep. William H. Meyer in the bid for a U.S. Senate seat held by unopposed Republican Sen. Winston L. Prouty.

Vermont's Gov. Deane C. Davis is favored to win Republican nomination over Lt. Gov. Thomas L. Hayes, a liberal running as a peace candidate.

Democrats will choose between former Lt. Gov. John J. Daley and State Sen. Leo O'Brien Jr. In New Hampshire, Republicans will decide between Gov. Walter Peterson, who is seeking renomination in a battle against Meldrim Thomson, a law book publisher.
Arkansas will hold its runoff between former Gov. Orval E. Faubus, who is trying for a comeback, and Dale Bumpers, a lawyer. Faubus is rated the probable winner and would face Republican Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, who is seeking a third term.

In Utah and Wisconsin, Republican and Democrat senatorial candidates have no primary opposition. Utah Republicans are pitting Rep. Laurence J. Burton against Democratic Sen. Frank E. Moss.

Democratic Sen. William Proxmire, unopposed in the Wisconsin primary, will be matched against John Erickson, former University of Wisconsin basketball coach, who has the GOP nomination for the Nov. 3 election.
In Arizona, Republican Sen. Paul J. Fannin and Gov. Jack Williams are unopposed for renomination. Sam Grossman, millionaire shopping center owner, appears the leading candidate in a three-way contest for the Democratic nomination to oppose Fannin. Jack Ross, a Phoenix area auto dealer, is likely to win the Democratic nomination for governor.

In Colorado, GOP Gov. John A. Love is unopposed for renomination, and will face Lt. Gov. Mark A. Hogan, Democrat, in November.
In the Georgia primary Wednesday, a nine-candidate race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination pits front runners former Gov. Carl E. Sanders against former State Sen. Jimmy Carter. The crowded field makes a Sept. 23 runoff between the two top finishers almost certain.

Seven of the states hold gubernatorial primaries—Arizona, Wisconsin, New Hampshire, Florida, Vermont, Arkansas and Colorado. Georgia follows with its gubernatorial primary on Wednesday.
Nominations for the House are up in all eight states and five are choosing Senate candidates.

Cairo Joining War On Noise

CAIRO (UPI)—Egypt's capital city has started a noise abatement drive, including the banning of firearms weddings and restrictions on the use of loudspeakers.
City security director Maj. Gen. Zaki Elag said anyone caught firing pistols or rifles at city wedding ceremonies will be imprisoned. Jail also awaits owners of loudspeakers than can be heard more than 200 yards away or are used after 11 p.m.

Study Slumber Pattern Of Pregnant Women

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Dr. Ismet Karacan is paying pregnant women $10 a night to sleep in a laboratory so that their brain waves and slumber patterns may be analyzed.
Purpose of the project is to seek ways of predicting cases of "postpartum blues," a form of severe depression which overcomes some women after they have given birth.
The federal government has provided $80,000 for the study by Turkish-born Dr. Karacan, director of the Psychophysiology of Sleep Laboratory at the University of Florida.

"In my first year of psychiatric residency my first six patients had postpartum blues," Dr. Karacan told an interviewer. "One mother killed the baby. Those things made a heavy impact on me."
"From a blue sky the person can become like this. They have the first baby, the pregnancy is normal, now the woman has the fruit of nine months waiting.

"Within a week or two she becomes incompetent emotionally, quite disturbed and depressed with severe crying spells and so on."
Each night the subjects come to the laboratory to be wired to machines which electronically read brain waves and record sleep patterns on graph paper.
"Already we are finding that in later pregnancy sleep is quite a bit disturbed despite the fact that the woman is clinically normal," the doctor said. "There is no sign of depression or the blues but she sleeps not so soundly."

"Brainwaves of these patients are like those of sick, depressed patients and we find they are occurring two weeks or a month before birth."
"When the changes occur early and more severely we find the patient is not as apt to recover so fast after birth as the normal patient who snaps back in about two weeks."

N.C. Counts 14 Holiday Deaths

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Six Brooklyn, N. Y., residents died in two wrecks as North Carolina counted a Labor Day weekend traffic death toll of at least 14.

This compared to the 24 deaths recorded in the holiday period last year and the 21 which had been predicted by the North Carolina State Motor Club.

The deaths brought North Carolina's traffic toll for the year to 1,088. This was 99 less than were killed in the same period last year.

Four of the Brooklyn residents died in a wreck on N.C. 32 12 miles east of Roper in Washington County when their car struck a bridge railing and caught fire after colliding with another vehicle. The dead were identified as William Fenner, 40, Barbara Fenner, 25, Derick Fenner, 12, and Ronald Cooper, 14.
The two other Brooklyn residents were killed in a head-on collision on N. C. 43 near Vanceboro in Craven County. They were identified as Gerald Walker, 44, and Willie Walker, 48. The Highway Patrol said the Walker's car was struck by a vehicle traveling on the wrong side of the road.

Two other persons were killed in a head-on collision on a rural paved road eight miles south of Lumberton in Robeson County. They were Paul Bethea, 46, of Rt. 1, Orum, and Odell Mack Floyd, 53, of Lumberton. The patrol said one of the cars involved was on the wrong side of the road.

Other weekend traffic victims were Faye Whited Parker, 34, of Statesville; Donald R. Jones, 42, of Gaffney, S.C.; Randy Robert Cox of Rt. 2, Troy; Roy Deane Maness, 31, of Monroe; Willie Thomas Williams, 22, of Winston-Salem and Randolph Arthur Umphlett, 16, of Ahoskie.

Record Pledge In Lewis Telethon

NEW YORK (AP)—The annual Jerry Lewis Labor Day telethon for the Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America brought a record $5,093,385 in pledged contributions, a spokesman for the group said.
The program, which ended Monday night, was carried by 65 television stations and lasted 20 hours.

Belvoir Group Participants

DURHAM — The students of Belvoir Elementary School will be among more than 8,000 grade-school pupils in three Southern states who will participate in low-cost mathematics curriculum this fall.

The curriculum, developed and produced by the Regional Education Laboratory for the Carolinas and Virginia, is being used in grades one through six at 22 cooperating schools in North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia.

Called the Individualized Mathematics System, the new curriculum is not a textbook or workbook, but a series of about 7,000 brightly colored, sprightly illustrated "instruction pages."

Each page is laminated plastic. Pupils mark on the pages with special marking pens and, when through, erase their marks with a damp paper towel. Because the curriculum is reusable, many pupils can use the same set of materials, and the cost is reduced.

J. W. Knight, director of RELCV's elementary and secondary school division, which developed the program, lists these advantages for the curriculum over the traditional mathematics textbooks:

- it allows each pupil to proceed at his own pace and at his own level, and to exercise some direction over how he learns;
- it contains about 400 "behavioral objectives", skills and concepts the pupil must master which go beyond the material presented in traditional mathematics textbooks;
- it can be made available to schools for about one-third the cost of similar individualized curriculum;
- it does not require a high degree of verbal ability for pupils to use it successfully.

The program separates the elementary school mathematics curriculum into 10 topics: numeration, addition, subtraction, multiplication, division, fractions, mixed operations, money, time and measurement. These topics are taught at nine levels of difficulty.

RELCV developed the new curriculum with federal, state and local school funds. The laboratory plans to develop a junior-high school version from grades seven through nine.

RELCV, established in 1967 under federal legislation, is an independent, non-profit organization working cooperatively with schools and colleges to get the results of educational research into practice. It is headquartered in Durham.

NEW BUILDING

DENVER (AP) — Construction of a $6 million building for the Denver Art Museum is scheduled to be completed in the spring of 1971.

Off List

Greenville City Schools are officially off the federal deferred list. On September 2, the Reviewing Authority for the Civil Rights division of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), dismissed deferral action.

This action followed an August 27 recommendation for dismissal by the General Counsel of HEW, as the school system was found to be in compliance with the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

With this action officially approved and confirmed, Greenville City Schools are eligible for federal funds for new programs. Heretofore, the schools could only receive continuation funds for projects initiated prior to being placed on the deferred list, but could not be considered as a recipient for any new programs offered which involved funding by the Federal government.

MacDonald Recess Ends

FT. BRAGG, N. C. (AP) — A three-week recess was scheduled to end today at Ft. Bragg where the Army is conducting a hearing into murder charges against Capt. Jeffrey MacDonald. The 27-year-old Green Beret physician is charged with the murders of his wife and two children last Feb. 17.

The lengthy recess was ordered by Col. Warren Rock, the hearing officer, so Army psychiatrists could observe MacDonald. The tests were conducted at Walter Reed Hospital in Washington.

Rock ordered the tests after a civilian psychiatrist testified for the defense.

MacDonald's attorneys, the only source of information since Rock closed the hearing said Dr. Robert L. Sadoff, a forensic psychiatrist at Temple University in Philadelphia, Pa., testified he did not feel MacDonald was mentally capable of slaying his family.

The slayings occurred at the MacDonald's family apartment at Ft. Bragg.

YANKS LIKE VIENNA

NEW YORK (UPI) — The American tourist is No. 1 in Vienna. Of more than 123,000 visitors to the Austrian capital in June, the largest segment, 28,000, came from the United States, says the city's Press and Information Service. West Germans were second, with 23,000 visitors.

Auto Parleys Appear Stalled

DETROIT (AP) — With less than a week to go before contracts expire, bargaining between the United Auto Workers and the Big Three automakers appears stalled today while the union awaits a second offer from its twin strike targets, General Motors and Chrysler Corp.

With pacts at GM, Chrysler and Ford Motor Co. ending at midnight next Monday, negotiations continued through the Labor Day weekend, but little progress was reported.

The companies' initial offer, which the firms said included a wage increase of 7.5 per cent in the first year but which the UAW said amounted to no more than 1.1 per cent, was quickly rejected by the union last week.

Over the weekend, the UAW completed presentation of its contract demands at GM and Chrysler.

Details of the UAW wage demands were not made public. The current average hourly wage for UAW-represented auto workers is $4.02, with fringe benefits averaging an additional $1.75 hourly, according to company estimates.

Irving Bluestone, codirector of the union's GM department, said Monday there had been no indication whether or when GM might make a revised offer.

GM's chief negotiator, Earl

Bramblett, indicated when the original offer was made that a second offer might be forthcoming later.

Bluestone said: "If we are going to have a bargaining posture in which we can negotiate to a settlement rather than a strike, we would anticipate another offer."

In addition to reaching agreement on a national contract, negotiators for the union and the companies must also settle thousands of local plant issues.

Worry Clinic

Musical Taste Is Conditioned

Note Hilda's interesting question! For the effect that any musical composition exerts upon you NOW, is not due to the tonal melody affecting your ears! No; it depends on your PAST brainwashing. The same melody may thus cause one person to cry, another to tremble with fear and a third to feel romantic! Church choirs, please note well!

mother was a student at the Northwestern University School of Music.

"And she says you then taught the Introductory Psychology courses for all the music students.

"She tells me you stressed the emotional aspects of music, apart from its sheer melodic effect on the ear.

"Could you explain that more fully?"

At birth the newborn infant doesn't like anything except sugar, plus a mild salt solution and warmth.

Please notice that fried chicken isn't in that category, nor is music.

In order for him ever to like anything else, those new items must be tied-in with his early generalized happy mood.

In psychology, we call this "conditioning" but the modern term of "brainwashing" is a good synonym.

For example, protein can be served in dozens of ways at the dinner table, but the reason for your specific enjoyment of one protein dish vs. another, usually harks back to your mother's cooking.

Same goes for music! The Italian immigrant's delight in opera is merely a sign that when he is homesick here in America, the familiar music carries him back emotionally to his former fatherland. You would feel much the same way if you were imprisoned in the salt mines of Siberia and then heard our modern favorite, "God Bless America."

Opening lead: Jack of ♠
Altho the minor suit kings were unfavorably located for the declarer, South was able to rescue his six heart contract by isolating his opponents so that they were never in position to cash out.

When South responded with one heart to North's opening bid of one diamond, the latter's holding was worth 19 points in support and he therefore jumped to three hearts. South held the equivalent of an opening bid himself and he made a slam try by cue bidding the ace of clubs.

Having an excellent fit including top trump honors, North designated his willingness to cooperate with partner's efforts by showing the ace of spades. South proceeded without further ado to six hearts.

West opened the jack of diamonds which had all the earmarks of a singleton. The ace was played from dummy. Trumps were drawn in two rounds ending up in the North hand.

The five of diamonds was led in the hope that East would put up the king and establish South's ten as well as North's queen—thereby providing a club discard for declarer on the fourth round of diamonds. East however played the eight and South put up the ten of diamonds to hold the trick as West showed out.

There was no future in continuing diamonds in a suit as East retained two stoppers in the suit with the king-nine located behind North's queen-seven, so declarer shifted his attentions to another suit.

A spade was led to the ace and the queen of clubs was returned for a finesse. South was not at all concerned when West won the trick with the king, for the latter was unable to reach his partner since West had no more diamonds. The club return was taken by the ace. South played the king and another spade, ruffing in dummy and then he discarded the ten of diamonds on the jack of clubs. His only loser on the deal was the king of clubs.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer crusader Ralph Nader has attacked the Civil Aeronautics Board for what he terms "a classic abdication of responsibility" in approving a $50 million-a-year airline fare boost.

Nader's comments, in a letter Monday to Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, were aimed at the plan to eliminate small change by making all fares, including tax, roundout to the next higher dollar.

"Hidden, inflationary and illegal," declared Nader.

"Some passengers certainly will have their fare increased by as much as 99 cents," he said, adding that the public was excluded from "any participation in or even notice of what was going on."

Nader urged that the Senate Commerce Committee, of which Magnuson, D-Wash., is chairman, consider in hearings this month whether to give the CAB "a more clear perspective of its mandate and responsibilities."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Assistant Treasury Secretary Eugene T. Rossides says the administration has gained the initiative in the struggle with drug abuse.

Rossides, Treasury's chief enforcement officer and the man responsible for keeping illegal drugs out of the country, cited recent diplomatic efforts and stepped-up border watching.

"But no matter how successful we are," he said, "a certain amount of drugs and pills will slip through."

Mindful of ruffled feelings that some past antidrug efforts have stirred in foreign capitals, Rossides was careful to praise Mexico, France and Turkey for cooperation.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A retired Army colonel suggests that young men who desire to keep their long hair or beards be assigned to separate units and compete with crew-cut regulars in training and combat.

Robert B. Riggs advanced the proposal in Military Review, the publication of the Army's General Staff College.

"Morale is built and maintained on both small and large items," Riggs said. "Since hair is a current issue, perhaps it is not a matter of lowering standards but just altering them."

LAST DAY: "EL CONDOR"

Americans thus shed tears when bagpipes are played. Yet you may not have relished such music at all. Why?

Because you were not brainwashed favorably to the bagpipes in your childhood!

Same goes for the unusual music of the Chinese, who will sit enraptured, though most Americans don't find it very harmonious.

The first time you hear any musical composition played, it is relatively barren of emotional aspects.

But the mood you are in will soon begin to dress that bare melodic skeleton with wonderful emotional "clothing."

And it is not your ears that account for most of this result but the generalized "affective" or emotional state you are in.

Thus, a dozen bars of familiar old church hymns may bring tears to your eyes because they have been linked with funerals.

Another type of music may cause you to be overwhelmed with a rush of romantic memories but may leave me relatively cold.

In my own case, "Marqueta" was just coming into vogue when I was organizing our Northwestern University Alumni for our finance drive to erect our downtown Chicago campus.

And I was escorting a charming blonde to dinner at the Blackhawk Hotel dining room in Davenport, Iowa. A splendid quartette and orchestra in the dining room "brainwashed" me then.

Now, if you start playing "Marqueta," I get a quick emotional throwback.

Same goes for two new songs that came out while I was stationed at Smith College.

And my children think I am "low-brow," for I can turn out more typewritten copy by loading my record player with "Mocking Bird Hill" than by drinking a dozen cups of coffee!

In fact, they are nauseated by that song, because I played it for 4 solid hours one afternoon when I was late in getting my newspaper copy finished.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Caedmon was the earliest Christian poet.
