

Another BOAC Jet Is Seized By Sky Pirates

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A British jetliner with 76 persons aboard was hijacked in the Middle East today. Palestinian guerrillas threatened to blow up the aircraft when it landed at Beirut airport unless it was provided with fuel to fly on to another destination.

The plane later left Beirut amid speculation it was headed for the Jordanian desert airstrip where two other captive planes were under guerrilla guard.

This was the fifth hijacking attack this week by Palestine guerrillas. The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine assumed responsibility for today's incident, as it had for the others.

British Overseas Airways Corp. VC10 airliner was hijacked and ordered to fly to Beirut shortly after it took off from Bahrain in the Persian Gulf. The airline said 66 passengers and 10 crew members were aboard.

Representatives of the International Red Cross were negotiating for the freeing of two other Western airliners and 178 hostages held by guerrillas on a desert airstrip in Jordan.

BOAC officials said Arab guerrillas captured the control tower of Beirut airport and instructed the British jet "to land, refuel and fly on to a further destination."

Later a fuel truck drove up to the plane, which had been on a Bombay-London flight.

It was believed in Beirut that the Popular Front grabbed the British plane to put pressure on the British government for the release of Leila Khaled, the 24-year-old guerrilla held in London since she and a male companion failed in their attempt to take over an Israeli airliner Sunday. The man was killed by Israeli security agents aboard the plane.

Before the BOAC hijacking, the British government had appeared to be preparing to release Miss Khaled, joining Switzerland and West Germany in meeting the demands of the hijackers holding the planes in Jordan. Political sources in London said the girl would be shipped out of Britain as soon as the Popular Front released the two planeloads of hostages held at the El Khana airstrip 25 miles northeast of Amman. The Popular Front had said it would blow up the two planes at 10 p.m. EDT today unless the British released Miss Khaled and the Swiss and West German governments freed six other guerrillas arrested for terrorist attacks involving planes.

A spokesman in Amman for the Front said today that his organization was demanding that all seven captive guerrillas arrive in Jordan together on a chartered plane before the ultimatum expires. He said the Red Cross had asked for an extension of the deadline and the Front was studying the request. Switzerland agreed to release the three serving prison terms in Zurich, and the Bonn government said it would free three others awaiting trial in Munich. Britain at first refused to consider releasing Miss Khaled, but the British Cabinet met in emergency session Tuesday and gave the demand more study.

Long Line On Campus

STUDENTS REGISTER — Returning students and freshmen line up in front of the Memorial Gym on 10th street this morning registering for the 1970-71 school year. Anticipated enrollment for the year is expected to reach 10,200 as compared to last year's figures of 9,687. Students were still standing in line late this morning, and at times the line grew as long as two blocks in length. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Moyewood Social Center Bids Approved; Target Dates Set

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
Bids totaling $105,674 have been approved toward the renovation of the school bus garage in Moyewood into a Social Services Center, Housing Authority commissioners were informed last night.

Reporting in the absence of architect Cameron Dudley of Dudley & Shoe, executive director A E Dubber noted that the bids had been opened on Aug. 12 at City Hall following a similar procedure on July 14 when all bids were too high for the available budgeted funds.

J. H. Hudson Inc. of Greenville submitted the low bid for the general contracting. The final contract price approved amounted to $63,700.

A contract price of $7,463 was approved for the electrical work at the center. Another Greenville interest, Stuart Shinn, submitted the low bid.

W. M. Wiggins of Wilson offered a bid on the plumbing work and a final contract price of $14,914 was approved. Electrician of Kinston has been contracted to handle the heating and air conditioning installations with the final price agreed set at $19,597.

Dudley said this morning that he had sent contracts to the four firms for signatures and two had already been returned. Technically, the companies could begin work now on the Social Services Center but most prefer to wait until the contracts have been signed, he added. Mayor Frank Wooten's signature is needed for final certification.

Contract timetables call for the renovations to be finished within 180 working days, Dudley noted, but various factors could alter the final target date.

For the most part, exterior remodeling of the former garage facility will be centered around painting the structure and putting on a new roof. In addition, new windows and doorways are called for in the plans and a large porch on the east end of the building will be built for the convenience of the day care center.

The building will serve a two-fold function when remodeled. One section will be utilized for the social services activities and the other will house the day care center.

Also, an assembly room, lounge, health room, several offices and a kitchen to serve both centers will be included in the interior make-up.

Dudley added that interior and exterior work should begin any day and hopefully be completed by the 180-day target date.

In other business before the commission last night, Dubber gave a report on the resident occupancy situation as submitted by the director of tenant affairs, Mrs. Sallye C. Streeter.

According to Mrs. Streeter, all units in the N.C. 22-1 section (Meadowbrook) were occupied at the end of August and approximately two-thirds of the annual re-examination of housing units in the project completed. Average rent paid by residents during the month was $37.76.

The N.C. 22-2 sub-division (Kearney Park) was completely occupied, Mrs. Streeter reported, and average monthly rent totaled $40.55. Three hardship cases were cited during the period and help was given to relieve the situation, she said.

The N.C. 22-3 Moyewood project had 186 of the 187 units occupied and average monthly rent was $42.85. Re-examinations are going at a much slower rate in the project, it was reported.

Moyewood section N. C. 22-4 had all 40 units occupied and residents paid an average of $42.20 in rent. Approximately two-thirds of the Re-exams have been completed.

Dubber reported that laws had been inspected on both Moyewood projects and some problems were encountered. Several cases of serious erosion were reported, he said, and resodding had to be done in some of the spots.

Commissioners approved an amendment to the annual contributions contract with the City which stipulates that the Housing Authority will pay all interest on federal loans up to six per cent and the City will pay the excess.

Currently, the federal interest rates are six and five-eighths per cent and the law says that the Authority can not pay over six per cent.

Dubber said that auditors had completed their work on the Housing Authority and Redevelopment Commission books and found no problems.

Bond Referendum For New Hospital Is Given Go-Ahead

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt Commissioners yesterday made the county's bid for a completely new hospital complex official when they approved a resolution calling for a referendum on whether to issue up to $9 million in bonds for construction of a new medical facility to replace the present Pitt Memorial Hospital building.

If approved in the November 3 election, bonds would be sold to construct a new hospital to replace the present Pitt Memorial Hospital building which is presently overcrowded and in need of expansion.

Last month, commissioners approved a referendum on the question of issuing $9 million in bonds to fund renovations and additions at the hospital. That step was taken after it was thought no additional funds could be obtained for construction of a new facility.

Since that time, officials have been told that additional money may be secured through federal grant programs and hospital and medical officials requested the change.

Commissioners yesterday afternoon also approved a new long distance telephone policy and new policy on motor vehicle operations.

Basically the telephone policy approved limits long distance calls to times when letter-writing will not suffice. It also provides for a log of each long distance call to be kept giving information such as time, date, person making the call, and the purpose of the call. The log also has to be approved by the department head.

Basically, the vehicle operation policy limits use of county - owned vehicles to official duties only, and prohibits use of county vehicles for "any private purpose whatsoever . . ."

The policy specifically forbids carrying other family members or friends to other places of work, carrying children to and from school, and doing personal shopping on a county vehicle. The policy also provides that each county vehicle shall be marked with a decal, except in the case of vehicles used by the Sheriff's Department.

Commissioners gave their approval for the sale of right - of - way to the State Highway Commission along property owned jointly by the county and the City of Greenville at the intersection of Fifth and Tenth Streets. The right - of - way will be used to widen both Fifth and Tenth Streets. The city - county owned property is leased to the state as a site for the Highway Patrol Troop A headquarters building. The sale of the right - of - way will not affect the use of the property by the Highway Patrol.

In other business, commissioners rejected a proposal to sell a lot at the County Home for construction of a home and discussed the possibility of hiring a physician to head the Pitt County Health Department. Dr. R. E. Fox retired as director of the department at the end of the fiscal year.

Commissioners discussed the possibility of sharing a health department director with the School of Allied Health Professions at East Carolina University. No action was taken.

Utilities Board Talks Possible Safeguards In Area Electrical Storms

Utilities Chairman J. Ed Waldrop last night expressed concern about recent power outages caused by severe lightning storms and suggested commissioners might want sit in on meetings with the Utilities consultants.

"We could sit back and say we had an electrical storm and forget it, but I think we owe it to our citizens to go just as far as we can," Waldrop said at last night's Utilities meeting.

Severe electrical storms have caused power outages her recently, with one involving the main power station at the Venco tie-in.

Assistant Director Malcolm Green said there had been more lightning than usual here this year. Damage to control circuits caused some circuit breakers to malfunction. These were taken out of service until a check can be made with the manufacturer to make certain that it will not happen again.

Director Charles Horne said the present electric system was built so that it is exposed to lightning damage. Protection could have been built in but it could have been "extremely expensive."

Horne said short range steps would be taken to provide whatever protection possible against lightning damage and meetings will be held with the Utilities consultants to study the situation.

Long range, Horne said that some of the construction projects now planned will help in making the system less vulnerable to lightning.

Horne reported that bids are to be taken Sept. 17 for the Meadowbrook sewer outfall line.

The commissioners approved a motion to defer the beginning of CATV system construction here but to retain the franchise pending further developments.

Sale of $225,000 in Utilities revenue bonds is planned on Sept. 22.

RUMOR DENIED

JERUSALEM (AP) — El Al Airline officials denied rumors that an El Al airliner was hijacked today.

A spokesman said the company was in contact with all its aircraft.

"I'm white and I'm proud of it."

It was the first Miss America parade in four years to be held at night. Albert A. Marks, Jr., chairman of the Pageant executive committee, said public sentiment caused the switch back to night festivities.

Almost 40 brands and about 35 floats took part in the parade.

Boardwalk Sees Beauties Parade

By G. G. LABELLE

Associated Press Writer
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Fifty Miss America contestants waved and smiled their way through more than three hours of a traditional boardwalk parade here Tuesday night.

Police estimated the crowd at about 200,000 and said all the seats along the boardwalk had been sold.

Leading the parade as grand marshalls were master of ceremonies Bert Parks and Miss America of 1924, Ruth Malcomson Schaubel.

The Miss America float was built on a theme of American flags, and the reigning queen, Pamela Eldred, wore a gown of beige lace.

There were several minor disturbances along the parade route. In one incident a crowd gathered after a teen-age white girl claimed she had been kicked by Negro youths. Police also separated about a dozen black youngsters from a middle aged white woman who shouted,

B-52 Pullout

BANGKOK (AP) — The United States is considering withdrawing its Thai-based B52s, Prime Minister Field Marshal Thanom Kittikachorn said today.

Thanom, speaking briefly with newsmen after a parliamentary session, did not elaborate on this beyond saying that the United States would however, need to maintain the facilities at the B52 base at Utapao, 90 miles south of Bangkok.

The U.S. mission would not comment. Commenting on Tuesday's announcement that 9,800 American servicemen would be pulled out of Thailand by July 1971, Thanom said his government had asked the United States "to leave some arms and equipment behind for us."

He said he had discussed this Tuesday with Adm. John S. McCain Jr. commander in chief of U.S. Pacific forces.

Lumbee Children Continuing Defy Desegregation Efforts

PEMBROKE, N. C. (AP) — About 500 Lumbee Indian children, defying a school desegregation plan drawn by the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, continued today to show up at their old schools instead of schools where they are assigned.

The plan was implemented to integrate the Indians in schools with white and Negro pupils.

The Lumbees feel the integration will herald the beginning of the end of Indian isolation that they feel has maintained the race of the Lumbee band.

The Robeson County Board of Education held a closed meeting Tuesday and the chairman, Albert McCormick of Rowland, later told the county board of commissioners the school board cannot change the school assignments.

McCormick said it was only under the threat of court action by the federal government that the board abandoned a freedom-of-choice pupil assignment plan. Meanwhile, the school board's attorney, I. Murchison Biggs, was in Washington conferring with HEW officials.

McCormick said he does not know what the school board can do to force the Indian children to attend the schools to which HEW assigned them.

He noted officials of the agency have flown to Robeson County at the school board's request, and some Indians talked with them. But some of the Lumbees were not convinced the school desegregation plan was good for them.

News Digest

WASHINGTON (AP) — Diplomats from 10 Arab countries have promised the U.S. they will press for the release of airline passengers held hostages by guerrillas in Jordan. They indicated, however, that their government had little influence on the guerrillas.

In key primary elections Tuesday: Dale Bumpers, a political unknown, gas upset former Gov. Orval E. Faubus for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, and will face Republican Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller for the post in November; William C. Cramer has trounced spurned Supreme Court nominee G. Harold Carswell for the Republican senatorial nomination in Florida.

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces have stepped up their attacks in the northern sector of South Vietnam, and are reported waiting for a chance to move up to 15 regiments into the populous coastal lowlands.

Martin County To Organize Ten-Man Recreation Board

WILLIAMSTON — Martin County Commissioners for the first time in the history of the county approved the formation of a County Recreation Commission to be composed of ten members.

At yesterday's meeting, eight members were named. When the remaining two are named, the members of the new commission will meet to elect a Recreation Commission chairman.

Martin County will join other eastern North Carolina counties in sending representatives to Myrtle Beach, S.C. on October 9 to a meeting designed to draw up plans for the Virginia border - Florida border highway. This plan basically relates to Highway U.S. 17, which is now being four - laned in the Williamston vicinity.

Further discussions were held on plans for county recreation programs and county zoning codes. Workshops for these fields are to be conducted.

Under the provisions of the new registration law, the commissioners voted to secure the services by January 1, 1971, of a full time secretary to take registrations each Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

Commissioners were asked to form a study group to make efforts to determine what can be done to improve the safety of N.C. Highway 25, between Williamston and Hamilton. This stretch of road has been the scene of increased fatalities in the past year.

An authorization of $2,600 was approved for planning purposes by the Planning Commission. Claude Wilson was elected to the Beaufort - Hyde - Martin Library Board to succeed the late Charlie Gray.

The Jordanian army chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Mashour Haditha, announced today he has assumed full powers under King Hussein, and ordered an immediate cease-fire between guerrillas and Jordanian troops.

In a statement broadcast by Amman radio, the general said he had taken "all powers" in Jordan at the request of Hussein.

"In my new position I order all army units throughout the country to cease fire at once," he said. "I will mete out the severest punishment on violators."

Palestinian commandos and Jordanian soldiers earlier were reported battling for a second day in northern Jordan, following the collapse of a brief cease-fire concluded Tuesday between the Amman government and guerrilla leaders.

The Central Committee of the Palestine Guerrilla Organizations repudiated the cease-fire early today, charging that after it was supposed to have taken effect, Jordanian troops attacked commando outposts near Irbid, killed 40 guerrillas and wounded many more.

In retaliation, sources in Amman said, the guerrillas laid siege to tee Jordanian army garrison at Irbid. Heavy fighting raged through the night and continued this morning, the informants said.

Tanks and heavy artillery of the Jordanian army's 40th Brigade intervened at dawn to relieve the besieged garrison.

The Guerrillas' central committee claimed Jordanian troops mutilated the bodies of commandos killed in the fighting. Sources in Amman said the guerrillas paraded the bodies through the streets of Irbid sparking wild public demonstrations.

One group of demonstrators reportedly stormed into the city's police headquarters and killed the police chief. Scattered shooting also was heard in downtown Amman and in the area of the Jordan Inter-continental Hotel, the temporary home of the 125 women and children released by the guerrillas holding two hijacked airliners and 178 hostages at a desert airstrip northeast of the capital.

Young Moderns: Design A Bash In The '70s

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

In the seventies, you DESIGN a bash. You don't just GIVE a party.

For your next shindig you might take some party cues from one of New York's most popular young decorators, Angelo Donghia.

He designed one of the four rooms where parties were given at the recent Centennial Ball of the Metropolitan Museum of Art. The chairman, Mrs. Vincent Astor, and her committee provided the themes.

Donghia's room depicted a roof garden supper club of the thirties as it might have been set in an Egyptian temple. The setting, made in the museum's Egyptian Sculpture Court, included an inner area surrounded by columns where tables were placed and the band played, and an outer area that was supposed to make one visualize a moonlit Egyptian garden. The atmosphere was provided mainly by lighting effects and low-cost decoration.

Handsome tiered architectural columns made of corrugated board—32 feet high, 5 feet wide at the base and 8 feet at the capitals—had been sprayed by a vacuum cleaner attachment with a turquoise iridescent paint. The object was to make the columns look luminous, Donghia explained. Like glass with lights playing on it. He used the same treatment on an enormous fan-shaped backdrop behind the band.

A thirties color scheme in the room—turquoise, red, blue and green—was combined with gold and silver in gauzy draperies that hung between the columns and in starts and glittering borders on the dark red tablecloths.

The outdoor area was punctuated by huge statues of Egyptian figures, such as King Hat-Shepsut, surrounded by many plants borrowed from a botanical garden and set on white pedestals. Blue and green light from the ceiling highlighted the statues and plants, and special lighting effects played on the walls gave the impression of rippling water as seen from a garden overlooking the Nile.

On the high ceiling, in the dance area, opaque masonite was coated with iridescent paint so that black light shining on the squares would give the effect of translucent colored glass.

Donghia's ingenuity kept down the cost of the project. He visualized the room as being bathed in romantic Egyptian light "and highlighting the archaeological discoveries in Egypt during the twenties and thirties," which fit into the thirties theme he was portraying for the ball.

Three other rooms provided themes. New York in the 1870s was a ballroom in Viennese style that enhanced the classical statues in corners of the room.

New York of 1910 depicted the end of the Victorian era. Inspired by ices, pastries and the fruits buffet, the fabrics were chosen in dessert colors that included Paris Pink and a chocolate and vanilla striped lightweight duck material.

A fourth room, decorated by well-known designer Billy Baldwin and his staff, was a discotheque of the seventies that was covered with three patterns of a new design inspired by paintings of Austrian art nouveau artist, Gustav Klimt. Wild reds, blues, blacks, greens and metallic colors provided the intrigue. Huge bird-cage light chandeliers resembled Japanese lanterns. It was the late party room of the ball and the place where early breakfast was served to the dancers.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is 50 and I am 66. Leonard looks his age, but thanks to good health, exercise and proper diet, I look younger than Leonard. We are still happy together after 30 years of marriage, and nobody knows my real age. [They assume I'm about Leonard's age.] Now my husband wants to reveal my real age in order to help his beloved nephew, who is 20 and wants to marry a 30-year-old woman. The family is strongly opposed to this marriage because of the woman's age, and they're telling him the marriage is doomed to failure. Leonard wants to point to our successful marriage to show them how wrong they can be. I do not wish to disclose my real age after 30 years. I would feel embarrassed and humiliated, especially before my 68-year-old mother in law who would suddenly learn that this devoted daughter in law is practically her own age.

I love our nephew and respect his lady friend who is a fine person, but I feel the cost to me for such a revelation would be too high. What do you think? DAZED

DEAR DAZED: Feeling as you do, stick to your guns. To reveal your true age at this stage of the game probably wouldn't help your nephew's cause anyway. The family would probably say, "Yours is the exception to the rule"—which it very well could be.

DEAR ABBY: My two sisters and one sister in law have eight kids among them, which is fine. I haven't any, which is also fine, since that's the way my husband and I want it.

I've got a great marriage and do lots of things the other girls can't do because of their kids, such as volunteer work in a hospital.

The problem is, they keep trying to stick me with their kids. I've told them that in case of an emergency [I don't consider an appointment at the beauty shop an emergency] I would baby-sit for them gladly. Today one of the girls dragged her two youngest over here, knowing I was home, and she asked me to watch them for an "hour." [Her hours have turned into whole afternoons.] It so happened I had plans of my own that day, and she was plenty put out when I turned her and her kids away.

I've suggested that the girls put their kids together, and take turns sitting for each other, but my suggestion fell on deaf ears. Their excuse, "Our kids don't get along with each other."

Abby, the girls read your column faithfully. Will you please inform them that some couples choose a childless lifestyle because they don't want to be tied down with children, and certainly not with somebody else's.

HARD HEARTED HANNAH

DEAR HANNAH: You've put it very well. Now all you need is the continued toughness to stick with your lifestyle.

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to "NEAT," the man who shaved his chest and legs because he was tired of all those hairy ape jokes.

Tell him to keep his hairy chest and legs because that is what most women look for in men. I am a young lady and speak from experience. When a group of us girls get together and discuss men, one of the first things we mention is whether he's hairy or not. Just look around at the beach and you will notice that the most popular boys and men are the hairiest. I personally can't think of anything more romantic than running my toes thru the hair on a man's chest!

Practicing Attorney 'Wonder Woman' Making Congressional Bid

By CAROLYN A. BOWERS
NEW YORK (UPI) —Tornadoes are rare on Capitol Hill, but a watch has been called for next January. Most observers predict the impending storm will take its shape in feminine form.

They say it will hit in the guise of a vociferous congressional hopeful named Bella Abzug, a lawyer, 49, referred to by her supporters as the "Wonder Woman."

"I plan to shake Congress up or there wouldn't be any reason for me to go," Mrs. Abzug said in an interview. "I believe in a new style of politics—activism and leadership."

"Anybody can make a speech but, the people want someone who will understand their problems, organize, fight and stay with them and not wait for them to write a letter."

"I'm an activist. I really believe in the role of leadership. I don't just talk about it."

Mrs. Abzug, a practicing attorney since 1947, is a founder and member of both the New York state and national executive committees of the New Democratic Coalition, a reform democratic organization.

She began her congressional bid with a hard hitting Democratic primary campaign in Manhattan's conglomerate 19th district. Campaigning against the war and for total equality for women, she beat incumbent Leonard Farbstein, 67, for the nomination by a vote of 17,341 to 14,642, thus ending liberal Farbstein's 14-year tenure in the House of Representatives.

The 19th district is heavily Democratic so that the primary victory is considered tantamount to election, which means the house will get its first women's liberation spokesman.

However, Mrs. Abzug—the wife of a stockbroker and the mother of two teen-ager daughters—does not associate herself with the radical side of the women's "lib" movement.

"I'm very sober in my approach to women's liberation," she said. "I'm not interested in replacing men, but I do think they can be changed a little."

"Women should be able to lead full lives and realize their total capacity, which society does not fully allow. Women are not encouraged to reach the levels men are allowed to reach."

"I will take the cause to women—America's oppressed majority—to the halls of Congress. I will fight in Washington against the discrimination that condemns most women to low-paying jobs, gives women welfare instead of income, keeps them out of the professions, denies them day care facilities, mis-educates their children, gives third rate health care to black, Puerto Rican and poor women, and forces them to risk their lives by submitting to illegal abortions."

Mrs. Abzug, national legislative director of Women strike for Peace, said that the Vietnam war and "archaic" congressional rules will be her first targets.

An outspoken opponent of the war, she believes America is going in the direction of militarism.

"The Pentagon is still running the country," she said. "People want jobs and decent housing, but they can't get them because all the money is being used for the war."

"The war is robbing us of our maternal resources."

Of congressional rules, she said, The "archaic" rules don't

Tokyo Sees R&R Role Ending

Thousands of U.S. servicemen who remember Rest and Recuperation leaves in Tokyo will be nostalgic at a recent Army announcement. Tokyo, the world's largest city and certainly one of the most interesting, is being eliminated as an R and R center.

The stiff command announcement said, "The redeployment of U.S. forces from Vietnam has necessitated a realignment of the R & R program to meet adjusted requirements."

Tokyo probably reached its heights as an R & R center back in the days of the Korean Conflict. At that time it was considered a prime objective of U.S. servicemen in the war zone to spend their R & R time there.

No doubt there will still be plenty of servicemen to be seen in Tokyo—those stationed in Japan. However, it won't be those taking time away from remote areas, and it ends an era.

Partisan Zeal Took Backseat

By BRYAN HAISSLIP
WRIGHTSVILLE BEACH
—Southern chavinism rather than partisan zeal keynoted than the second annual Governor's Luau staged here this weekend by the North Carolina Democratic Party.

A Republican from any state below the Mason-Dixon line could have applauded as enthusiastically as did the Tar Heel Democrats for the address by Governor John McKeithen of Louisiana.

The theme of his folksy, joke-y speech was that the South is the whipping boy for the nation, imposed upon by population percentage mixing of the races in schools under standards not applied in the North.

Party officials rated the Luau a success, now set to become a fixture on the Democratic calendar as a fund-raising event in the East comparable to the Vance-Aycock dinner in the West. Arrangements had been made for 600 and a sell-out was announced. At $50-a-head, that should mean upwards of $15,000 for the treasury once receipts are collected and bills paid.

Remarks on the dinner program included a couple of reminders for county chairmen to remit promptly. Candidate-Shy Campaign Starter As a campaign curtain-raiser, the Luau showed a noticeable absence of General Assembly candidates from the East and a paucity of issues to mark out the party position in the coming general election effort.

The explanation given for the relatively few legislative candidates attending was either that the Labor Day weekend timing was bad as a conflict with family plans, or that candidates were too busy with their own campaign activity. Disaffection with the party organization was discounted as a factor, although it is known that a number of Eastern legislative candidates were not happy with the platform adopted at the State Democratic Convention this summer.

As for issues, the only one which got more than passing attention was busing of students to meet integration requirements. There was consensus that this, more than the drooping economy, Viet Nam, or any other issue, has Tar Heel citizens concerned.

Governor Bob Scott took a swipe at the Republican national administration on the score. He recalled attending the inaugural of President Nixon, and hearing his avowal of purpose "to bring us together."

"I didn't know he was going to bus us to do it," Scott commented to the glee of the dinner audience. The nation today, he went on, is more divided under Nixon than ever before.

Tar Heel Origins
McKeithen, who identified with the Tar Heels by remarking that his ancestors migrated from this state to Louisiana, also implied criticism of President Nixon and his administration on the matter of school integration and denigration of the South in order to gain votes in the North and East.

However popular his thesis that the South has failed to get its due recognition, it is an idea difficult for Democrats to convert to a partisan issue. The same proposition has been as thoroughly worked over while Democratic administrations were in power in Washington.

While the dinner was the main event, the Luau also gave the opportunity for Democrats to mix and mingle and exchange information and rumor. A study commission's recommendation that a presidential primary be authorized by the General Assembly was a topic of conversation. The recommendation must first be acted upon by the party's state executive committee.

Primary Decision Delayed
That will not come until after the general election. It had been said the committee would meet in September but it has been decided to move the date back to late November.

State Chairman Gene Simmons has not expressed his feeling on the idea. Governor Scott has indicated no strong opinion. Simmons is inclined to be wary of party positions which might put Democratic legislators on the spot, or stir controversy at this critical time.

Prospective candidates for '72 were in evidence. Lieutenant Governor Pat Taylor, Attorney General Robert Morgan, State Senator Hargrove (Skipper) Bowles, and President Leo Jenkins of East Carolina University were among those mentioned as contenders for the nomination as governor who mingled in the crowd. Not as conspicuous were C&D Director Roy Sowers and Highway Chairman Lauch Faircloth, members of the Scott administration regarded as susceptible to gubernatorial fever.

State Senator Hector McGeachy of Fayetteville and Rep. Ike Andrews of Chatham County talked seriously about consideration of the lieutenant governor's race two years hence.

Discouraging Report On Business Drug Trend

It is disturbing to hear a drug expert report that drug usage is so widespread in business and industry that it does little good to fire those caught.

It seems that the replacement would often have the same problem.

"Drugs are often a way of life for young executives," Carol Kurtis, New York drug expert, told a workshop.

Dr. Stephen Pittel, was quoted by the Associated Press as telling the group, that drug usage is a crutch which often results in "permanent deferral of problems."

"It is a turning away instead of developing inner strength to handle problems." This has to be a most discouraging assessment of our society.

Israeli Build Peace Posture

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
JERUSALEM — Despite the precarious Middle East cease-fire and Israel's brinkmanship over Egyptian missile movements, top planners of the Israeli government are hammering out bargaining postures in case peace breaks out.

The problem is vastly complex, involving passions embedded in this country's political psyche. The men and women who run Israel know that, in withdrawing from the lands captured in the 1967 war, nothing approaching total security is going to be possible — certainly not immediately, probably never. Consequently, the tentative plans now being laid for partial withdrawal from the hottest geographic flash points clash violently with Washington's edict barring all but "minor" border rectifications from the pre-war 1967 lines.

Contrary to the Nixon administration's plan, for example, there is no chance of Israeli withdrawal from the heights of Sharm El-Sheikh which control the Strait of Tiran, the entrance to the Gulf of Aqaba and the Israeli port of Eilat. The decision to keep Israeli arms at Sharm El-Sheikh is holy writ at all levels and among all political factions here because the sea route to Eilat is vital to Israel's economy.

Under United Nations guarantees, the Israelis were forced off Sharm El-Sheikh by President Eisenhower after the first Israeli Suez invasion in 1956. Closure of the strait by Egypt in May 1967 led to the six-day war. "Let them put an Egyptian flag up if it will make them feel better," one highly-placed political leader told us, "but we're not going to leave there for a long time."

That remark suggests what the Israelis have in mind: a leasing agreement with Egypt giving Israel special rights, possibly extraterritorial, at Sharm El-Sheikh for a specific time, perhaps five years — just as the United States has special rights over the Guantanamo Naval Base in Cuba. In exchange, Israel will withdraw its forces now dug in along the Bar-Lev Suez Canal line to a point well back toward the old Sinai border between Israel and Egypt. Israel would insist on demilitarization of the intervening space, with an international force placed between the Israelis and the Suez Canal. That arrangement would permit the Egyptians to reopen the canal and run it the way they want, while Israel controlled the Strait of Tiran. The Israelis are now completing a paved road from Eilat south to Sharm El-Sheikh — a land bridge, as they call it, all the way down the eastern edge of the Sinai for their force at Sharm El-Sheikh. International guarantees that this road would remain open at all times would be part of the deal. This possible arrangement is seen here as a first-stage settlement of the two outstanding maritime issues between Israel and the Arabs — the canal and the Gulf of Aqaba. If, after a period of perhaps five years, the arrangement was found to work well, Israel then would agree to complete its withdrawal from the Sinai Peninsula on condition that it be wholly demilitarized, turning the security problem at Sharm El-Sheikh over to an international force, with both an Egyptian and Israeli presence. On the surface, this would seem totally unacceptable to Egypt, which demands complete withdrawal from every square inch of the captured territories. But it has one highly attractive feature: the early opening of the Suez Canal is a central goal of the Soviet Union. Conceivably, then, the Russians might exert pressure on Egypt to accept this plan, or some variation, while Egypt itself might find it a possible interim solution in view of the canal's vast money-making potential.

THE DUBIOUS BRIGHT SIDE----

By ART BUCHWALD The VADL Movement

MARTHA'S VINEYARD, Mass. — There have been so many groups formed lately to protect their sexual freedoms that little attention has been given to a new activist organization called the Virgin Anti-Defamation League. The organization was started a few years ago by a small group of people who were sick and tired of virgins being the butt of every joke, every salacious comedy and every tired sexual cliché.

Sidney Pimpledown, the president of VADL, told me the response to the organization has been heartwarming. New chapters are springing up all over the country. Pimpledown said "We estimate that there are approximately 1,980,543 virgins in the United States at the present, including at least 1,200 women. The people have been led to believe that there is some sort of shame attached to being a virgin. We want virtuous people to be proud of their heritage. We point out that some of our greatest writers, poets and artists have been virgins. Even today, in some primitive cultures, there is a premium placed on virtue." "Then one of your goals," I said, "is to bring virginity out in the open and get people to accept it for what it is?" "That's correct. Until

Other Editors Say Dollars On Gridiron

(The Charlotte Observer) Football is in the air again. The pros opened their exhibition schedules and on campuses throughout the country college and high school boys will soon be at heavy labor against blocking sleds, tackling dummies and each other. Yet, within the sport itself, all is not well. As the professional players' strike and the holdouts of Joe Namath and Joe Kapp demonstrate so clearly, the dollar mark looms even larger over the gridiron.

Indeed, money has become more important than touchdowns or sportsmanship or discipline or whatever else football's intrinsic worth is supposed to include. And it's not all the pros. There are football coaches and athletic directors and college presidents today quietly worrying over how to pay the bills this fall when the season is over and the books don't balance.

These are not necessarily the weak-sister schools, either. An institution with the football reputation of a Duke University, where costs for a season can approach a half million dollars, are as squeezed as the Davidsons, the Woffords and the smaller schools. The concern is enough to warrant Bo Hagan of Rice University to talk about it out loud, which is a kind of heresy among the athletically inclined. Hagan predicted over the weekend that a crack-down was coming from the faculty side of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA).

"Even schools like Nebraska which fill the stadium ever Saturday are having trouble making ends meet," he said. Imagine the troubles of a school that doesn't have a winning tradition of a large alumni to hit-up for contributions. Hagan suggested two ways of reducing costs: (1) Return to one-platoon football; (2) Limit the number of scholarships a school can award for a particular sport. The two-platoon system, adopted by colleges to help their games compete against the appeal of the pros, requires an enormous reservoir of talent. So schools award more and more scholarships to put together the right specialists on each platoon to create a winner. This talent is more and more expensive to feed, house and educate.

Hagan suggests a limit of 40 scholarships a year ought to be imposed. He said many schools now award 50 a year. Those two steps might help, but from what we hear they wouldn't solve many schools' problems, which are hit with inflated costs amidst indications of declining interest and declining attendance for the college game.

"We have been lobbying for equal treatment for virgins. Do you realize a virtuous secretary makes 20 percent less salary than any other kind of secretary? # Not Happiest Of Labor Days

By ELMER ROESSNER
It was not the happiest of days for labor.

More than 4.5 million are unemployed, 1.5 million more than a year ago. The cost of living is still going up, almost 6 per cent a year. Employers, hit by drops in sales and declines in profits, are becoming tougher in union contracts. There is still a threat of automotive strike, which would spread unemployment in a score of other industries and the lower demand for labor would make it difficult for strikers to find other jobs. Brighter Side However, there are some beams of sunlight breaking through the clouds. The administration, in its moratorium on efforts to halt inflation, is easing the money supply and this may restore some business activity. The annual fall pickup is about to begin. A million or so travelers are back in America and will resume buying American goods, wrecking American autos and otherwise contributing to the demand for labor. Manufacturing for the holiday trade will perk up and beyond that is the annual Christmas surge of more spending and more employment. The Big Problem Unemployment, of course is the biggest problem. To the man with a job, it may be only a statistic. To the man out of work it is both a physical and psychological tragedy, softened only slightly by unemployment insurance and welfare. Close to unemployment problems is that of the worker who has scant hope of increasing his income to meet the rising cost of living, either because he is not organized, because his pay is fixed by law or an inflexible union contract, or because he can find fewer opportunities. In past years, employers have been raising the pay of nonunion workers because of the competition for good employees, because it was necessary to keep employees content, because it was necessary to prevent the unorganized from organizing. The fact that there were profits made it easier. But today, pay rises for the

Moscow Traffic 'Curse'

By DAVID NAGY
MOSCOW (UPI)—"This is the most terrifying sight in Moscow," an automobile passenger remarked recently to the driver as the car nosed through a herd of persons jaywalking across a main boulevard — "Pedestrians converging on you from all sides."

Moscovite authorities and an increasing number of private citizens agree. They are cranking up a major publicity campaign in the press that could lead to much stiffer legal action against one of Moscow's biggest public nuisances—the jaywalker and his traffic-marking cousin, the public drunk.

"In Moscow during the first six months of this year, there were 760,000 cases of traffic violations by pedestrians," the trade union newspaper Trud lamented. "Of these, only 1,480 violators were subjected to fines."

Spirited Bravado
The statistics summed up a situation well known to every driver in the Soviet capital—the most humdrum short ride to the grocery store can hatch a hair-raising game of try-and-stop-me with some pedestrian or a mob of them.

Lone strollers or mothers with children threading their way across eight-lane boulevards are common sights, but Muscovites are especially fond of forming great phalanxes to bull across en masse between crossings or against a light. Foreign drivers, especially those without diplomatic status, react timidly, often stopping in midstreet.

Russian drivers seem to relish the challenge, however. A Russian car will roar toward a crowd of jaywalking pedestrians. At the last second they will pirouette out of harm's way. It is a maneuver that seems to be admired by both sides with the mutual respect of matador for bull, and vice versa. There is, admittedly, a temptation to jaywalk due to the sheer dimensions of Moscow's streets. Many of the main streets run six to ten lanes wide.

At one intersection near the Kremlin the expanse of pavement is several hundred yards across, and a breathtaking adventure it is to winkle through it, whether in a car or on foot. Moscow authorities have provided admirably for pedestrian safety. Pedestrian crossings are marked boldly with huge white cross-strips. There are more tunnel crossings under Moscow's thoroughfares than most western cities can boast, and many more uniformed militiamen directing traffic and traffic police than in London and New York.

The People's Campaign
Signs warning against jaywalking dot the streets and police in blue-and-yellow prowls cars below warnings through loudspeakers. But the distances to cover being what they are, Muscovites seemingly much prefer to cross over catch as catch can. The current maximum fine for jaywalking is 50 kopecks (55 cents). The guilty one also risks a reprimand from a comrades' court, the disciplinary groups organized at places of work. But the discouragements obviously aren't enough. Lately, letters to newspaper editors have been calling for fines of up to three rubles ($3.33) for those who cause accidents.

Strength For Today

THE SOUL SIDE OF LIFE
There are probably millions of people in the world who pay no attention to the health and welfare of their souls. If they have enough to eat, a good job, plenty of things to amuse them and a pet indulgence to brighten up life and fill it with laughter — this is enough. Some people know nothing about their souls and care less. "We only live once," they say with a solemn shake of their heads. "Get away and let me alone. The soul stuff is for ministers and pious old ladies."

The Man who has influenced human life more than any individual that ever lived on this planet derives his distinction largely from the fact that his chief interest was in the human soul and its destiny. Both the Gospel according to Matthew (16:26) and the Gospel according to Mark (8:37) raise the question: "What shall a man give in exchange for his soul?" "What is a man profited," said Jesus on one occasion, "if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul? Or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?"

We are primarily spiritual beings and such being the case the destiny of our souls is the most important matter with which we ever deal. It is not something that can be dealt with one day a week and forgotten. The people who pay no attention to the soul side of their lives are asking for trouble. First things first to put first and kept first if we are to live happily and effectively.

Four Collisions In New Elm Is Today In Washington Greenville Tuesday 'Resistant'

Greenville police estimated more than $4,600 property damage resulted from four traffic collisions investigated here yesterday.

Heaviest damage resulted from an 11:30 a.m. collision at the intersection of Ninth and Washington Streets.

Police reported cars driven by Tony Ernest Medlin, 18, of Durham and Henry Donner, 54, of Route 2, Ayden collided. A parked car owned by James Shelton Wells of 1501 South Elm St. was also damaged in the collision.

Damage was set at $600 to the Medlin auto, $2,900 to the Donner car and $70 to the Wells vehicle.

Donner was reported injured in the mishap. Medlin was charged with failing to stop for a stop sign.

An estimated $250 damage resulted to each of two cars involved in a 10:49 a.m. collision on U.S. 264, 200 feet West of the Evans Street intersection.

Drivers involved in the mishap were identified as Earl Sanderson, 23, of Route 3, Fairmont and Lenwood Scott Heath, 44 of Route 2, Robersonville.

Heath was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of the crash.

David Harold Finch, 18, of Route 1, Sims was charged with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident following investigation of a 4:05 p.m. collision on 10th Street, 500 feet East of the Anderson Street intersection.

Officers reported the Finch car collided with a vehicle driven by Culon Carr Cole Jr., 30, of Route 3, Sanford, causing an estimated $150 damage to the Cole car and $200 damage to the Finch auto.

Cars driven by Clarence Lee Mitchell of Route 1, Ernul and Mary Tucker Hammond of Winterville, were involved in an 8:10 p.m. collision at the intersection of 10th and Evans Streets.

Police, who charged Hammond with failing to stop for a red light, placed damage to the Hammond vehicle at $150 and estimated damage to the Mitchell car at $100.

Bing's Youngest Trio Shaken Up

REDDING, Calif. (AP) — Bing Crosby's three youngest children and their maternal grandparents were shaken up in a two-car accident en route to the airport in this Northern California town.

The children, grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Emery Grandstaff and the driver of the other car, Lila Tahti, 40, were treated for cuts and bruises Tuesday at Mercy Hospital. Mrs. Grandstaff, 68, also suffered broken ribs.

The children—Harry, 11; Mary Frances, 10 and Nathaniel, 9—are the children of the singer's second marriage, to the former Kathryn Grant. Crosby, 66, also has four grown sons.

Mrs. Crosby flew to Redding from Beverly Hills after the accident. Crosby was in Vermont, making a movie.

OTTAWA (AP) — A new strain of elm tree, nursed along for 13 years by Canadian scientists, could eventually replace the stately American elms being decimated throughout North America by Dutch elm beetles.

The new strain, known as Quebec elm from its origins at l'Assomption, north of Montreal, resists the blight that threatens to wipe out the American elm.

A. R. Buckley, chief of horticulture at the Ottawa experimental farm, says the Quebec elm could be on the market within a year.

Plant scientist C. E. Ouillet, who was in on the early development at l'Assomption experimental station, says a possible danger is that the new strain's present immunity could break down in time.

One drawback is that the new tree grows at about half the pace of the American elm's 15 feet in six years. Buckley believes later generations will grow faster.

The strain was started from WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson has announced that $25 million in job training funds will be distributed immediately among seven states and Puerto Rico, the nation's hardest hit areas of unemployment.

California and Michigan will get approximately $8 million each; Washington $5 million; Oregon, Rhode Island and Puerto Rico $1 million each and Alaska and Maine $500,000.

Hodgson said Tuesday the money would expand existing on-the-job training programs among private and public employers and also would finance new programs to prepare the unemployed for jobs.

The national unemployment rate is 5.1 per cent, highest in six years, with the areas selected for special aid suffering even higher rates.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation which would direct the Transportation Department to determine the best way of allotting funds between water, rail, highway and air transportation was introduced today by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis.

"How are we to know how our funds can best be spent if the Department of Transportation is prohibited by law from comparing investment in highways with investment in other forms of transportation?" Proxmire asked in a speech for the Senate.

He said his amendment to the 1966 act that established the department would not only remove the prohibition but instruct the department to present its studies to Congress.

policy. It took time, but now all major advertisers include two virgins in their budgets.

"That is a breakthrough," I said.

"Our main function is education," Pimpledown said. "We go on television and give our side of the story. For years the talk shows refused to book virgins on their programs. But there is a more enlightened view now. We even had a virgin on the Johnny Carson show last week, and they only received 150 protest calls. Three years ago, if Carson had interviewed a virgin, the whole board would have lit up."

"You've come a long way," I told Pimpledown.

"We're starting to fight back. The militant arm of our organization is called Virgin Power. We've picketed movies with the word 'virgin' in the title. We've burned pornographic books that show virgins as weak, cringing people. And we've held sit-ins at city halls demanding virgins be permitted to get married."

"Mr. Pimpledown, what do you consider your biggest success so far?"

"Without doubt," he said, "the biggest success we've had so far was getting the Department of Interior to stop referring to Alaska as 'virgin territory.'"

We know you have questions about anti-pollution gasolines.

1. Will taking lead out of gasoline help clean up the air?
Yes, although it won't do the whole job. But it will get rid of the lead particulates that escape from your exhaust. That's why we've taken most of the lead out of new Big Plus.
2. Why not take out all the lead?
We could have made a totally lead-free gasoline, of course. But engine testing shows that some lead is needed to prevent possible valve damage. So we left half a cc of lead per gallon in Big Plus.
3. Do you have to settle for low octane in an anti-pollution gasoline?
Not necessarily. Big Plus has a research octane of 96, high enough so that 9 out of 10 drivers can use it without worrying about engine knock.
4. What about the other kinds of pollution?
To reduce hydrocarbon emissions and other pollutants, we doubled the amount of engine-cleaning detergent in our new gasoline. So Big Plus cleans up your carburetor and helps keep your engine running clean.
5. Is an anti-pollution gasoline expensive?
Not Big Plus. We priced it below premium. And since it cleans deposits from your carburetor, it cuts fuel waste and improves your mileage, too. That's another money-saver.
New Big Plus from Esso. It's the lowest-lead, highest-octane gasoline for the money, anywhere. Ask for it where you see the Esso sign. And help your car run clean.

Trying Subliminal Education On TV

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (UPI)—Subliminal education is just one facet of a unique television project initiated by the Bowling Green University television station this summer to reach English to Spanish-speaking children of migrant farm workers.

The project, by WBGU-TV, an educational television station, is aimed at teaching the children numbers, letters, basic English, grooming and health habits through puppets, cartoons and such programs as "Sesame Street."

The northwestern Ohio television station uses television sets which usually stand idle during summer months in area migrant school districts for the program.

One program is called "Avienda de Ingles (English Avenue), taught by a young man and two large animal puppets.

The program teaches children who know no English various inflections and a few simple phrases. Children who do well with the language benefit by hearing the correct pronunciation.

Alerted: Oil Slick Is Coming

SUMMERSIDE, P.E.I. (AP)—Premier Louis J. Robichaud said Tuesday night the oil slick from a sunken barge in the Gulf of St. Lawrence was headed toward New Brunswick's north shore.

He said personnel were standing by at the Gagetown and Summerside military bases for operations to protect the coast.

The 2,300-ton barge Irving Whale sank in 250 feet of water Monday while being towed from Halifax to Bathurst, N.B., with 875,000 gallons of oil aboard. The oil formed a slick about 15 miles long and 8 miles wide.

Open House At Wahl-Coates

The PTA of Wahl - Coates Elementary School will sponsor an open house at the school Thursday at 8:15 p.m.

A bus will pick up interested parents at 7:30 p.m. between Third Street School and White Street.

Russians Begin Produce Fiats

MOSCOW (AP)—The first Russian Fiats have rolled off the assembly lines at the huge new plant in the new Volga River town of Togliatti, Pravda reported today.

The Communist party newspaper hailed the milestone in a long front-page article with pictures. It said the plant is expected to produce more than 20,000 cars this year, nearly 50 per cent less than the quota of 30,000 cars announced last December.

tion as well as the "rhythm" of the language.

All the children benefit from the program by hearing Spanish spoken correctly. Many of the youngsters may never have heard even their native language in its correct form, officials of the project said.

"Sesame Street" was designed originally for pre-school children in disadvantaged homes. The coordinator of the university television station, Burt Benefiel, suggested the show be run as "background noise" during playtime to act as subliminal education.

Another program used by WBGU-TV in the project is called "Cover To Cover". It presents, in brief forms, novels and classics, introducing the youngsters to good books.

Greensboro Native O. Henry Used Other Names

By H. G. JONES
N.C. Dept. Archives & History
Written for the AP
RALEIGH (AP)—The names Howard Clark, T. B. Dowd, S. H. Peters, and John Arbuthnot are known to few North Carolinians, though they are all pen names or aliases used by one of our most famous native sons. The man, born in Greensboro on Sept. 11, 1862, was William Sidney Porter, better known to the world as O. Henry.

One of the best-known story writers of his day, Porter generated considerable mystery about himself by the use of so many different names and the distance at which he held most of his associates—a distance apparently designed to hide his darkest secret, a prison sentence for embezzlement.

"Will," as he was called as a boy and young man, was reared in Greensboro under the hand of his father, who was said to be one of the best-hearted men in town, had "taken heavily to drink" and abandoned his medical practice in favor of such pursuits as building a perpetual motion machine and finding a way to make peach brandy out of sawdust.

Porter worked in his uncle's drugstore and became a registered pharmacist by the time he was 19, but he is said to have felt himself to be an "alien" in Greensboro. In 1882 he accepted an invitation from Dr. and Mrs. James K. Hall to join them on a trip to Texas where he was welcomed as a permanent guest in the modest home of the doctor's son, Richard Hall. He remained there for two years.

Will Porter moved to Austin in 1884 and took up residence with the Joe Harrells, another former Greensboro family. He once wrote home to a friend, "I wish I could come back to live in N.C. I know it's a better place than Texas to live in, but I've left it and I'm not going to crawl back; if I come it must be in a coach and four so I guess I won't have the pleasure for sometime."

In Austin he courted and in 1886 married Athol Estes, whose mother and stepfather, P. G. Roach, initially objected strenuously but later came to be among Porter's most loyal supporters—an association which continued long after Athol's death.

Though working as a bookkeeper, he continued writing and drawing as he had done since childhood in Greensboro, and by 1887 he was publishing narrative skits and jokes and verse, consistently if not profitably. Two stories were sold that year to a New York periodical called "Truth," but it would be 10 years before his first real short story was accepted by a national publication. The dark period in Porter's life, which he later so diligently attempted to hide, began in 1891. He accepted a job in Austin as teller at the First National Bank which was operated "with the free and easy informality of the old west." Reportedly, overdrafts were allowed freely, and officers of the bank simply helped themselves from the cash drawer—informing the teller of their action only if he happened to be standing there. Under such conditions balancing the books would have been a monumental task even for one who did not, as an acquaintance said, "neglect his duties at the bank because of a constantly itching pen." Though always maintaining his innocence, Porter was charged with embezzling, fled the country, returned when his wife's health began to fail seriously, was convicted, and sentenced to prison. Many friends, including officials of the bank, stood by him during his trial and conviction, and many felt that the charges would not have been pressed except for the insistence of the federal examiner. Some theorized that at most he was guilty of juggling the books to protect someone else, or that if he did take any money he surely planned to repay it. Such, at least, was the confidence of his closest associates. The chief physician at the prison, who later became Porter's friend and benefactor, said he had never seen a man "so deeply humiliated by his prison experience." It was during this three-year period, however, that he "found the leisure," as he later put it, to begin writing short stories, and he turned out 14 of his best-known ones from within the Ohio State Prison. It was here too that he finally adopted the name O. Henry—signing it at first as Oliver Henry. Where the name came from is not perfectly clear, though there are several possibilities. In his early days in Texas his hosts had a cat named "Henry the Proud" which was often called to as "Oh, Henry." Both a Negro porter and an elderly patron of the bank in Austin had been addressed in that same manner. A watchman at the prison was named Orrin Henry, and the list goes on. Porter himself once said that he "picked Henry out of the society column of a New Orleans newspaper, and the initial O. out of the air." Released from prison on July 24, 1901, he went to Pittsburgh for a reunion with his daughter, then 11 years old, who lived there with her grandparents.

Porter moved the next year to New York to continue his writing and rise to fame. The colorful O. Henry, whose birthday we note this week, died in New York on June 5, 1910, and was buried in Asheville, none of his second wife. His last words, spoken as a nurse dimmed the lights in his hospital room, were, reportedly, a paraphrase of a 1907 popular song. "Turn up the lights, I don't want to go home in the dark." Stolen Dowry Plot Uncovered

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (UPI)—Egyptian sailor Mohamed Khamis was too poor to get married so he decided to rob his wife-to-be of her dowry. Police said the sailor persuaded his fiancée to bring her $185 dowry to a local park where the couple was held up and robbed by two accomplices of Khamis. Khamis planned to use the stolen dowry as his contribution to the marriage but the plot was discovered.

TV Sets Join Donation Lists

NEW YORK (UPI)—Clothing, bedroom furniture and television sets, in that order, lead the list of salvage items donated to the Volunteers of America in cities across the nation, according to General John F. McMahon, commander in chief of the social welfare organization. The recent increase in used black and white television donations during salvage campaigns has been attributed to the high cost of repairs and the popularity of color televisions.

Masons Honor Thomas Moore

Greenville Lodge No. 284 A.F. and A.M. honored Thomas I. Moore on his fiftieth anniversary of becoming a Master Mason Monday night at the Masonic Temple.

THOMAS I. MOORE

Moore was made a master mason on Aug. 16, 1920 in Greenville Lodge No. 284 A.F. and A.M.

He has been active in all branches of the fraternity and is well versed in all phases of the teachings of the different branches of masonry.

He served as the presiding officer of the bodies of which he is a member. He served as Master of the Greenville Lodge in 1937, High Priest of Greenville Chapter No. 50 R.A.M. in 1954, was Illustrious Master of Hiram Council No. 18 R. and S.M. in 1955, and was Eminent Commander of Bethlehem Commandery No. 29 K.T. for the years 1938 and 1953. He is presently Watchman of Shepherds in Greenville Shrine No. 7, O.W.S.J. He received the honor of K.Y.C.H. in 1955.

The meeting was preceded by a dinner in the Temple dining room for Moore and his family. The ceremony of the presentation of the 50 year veteran emblem and certificate was open for friends and relatives of Moore. M.W. Charles A. Harris, P.G.M. and Grand Secretary, participated in the ceremonies.

After the close of the meeting, refreshments were served in the Sugg-Whichard dining room.

Sixth Arrest In Last Four Days

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—Vice squad policemen in Winston-Salem have made their sixth drug arrest in the last four days.

Carroll Woods, 19, was arrested Tuesday night on charges of selling heroin. His bond was set at $20,000, pending a hearing in District Court Sept. 30.

Three Disturbances At High School Reported

Disturbances have broken out in the form of fights between male students at Rose High School on two different school days.

Yesterday, fights erupted in the hallways during school hours between male students. A total of three separate incidents, one of which resulted in three students being sent to the hospital to check on injuries, was reported by Allgood. "One of the three required several stitches to close a cut on his face which was reported to have been caused by a belt buckle," Allgood remarked.

The student fights yesterday have resulted in six male students being suspended pending a continued investigation, according to Allgood.

Last Thursday, fist fights erupted which resulted in the suspension of eight students. "After conferences with those involved, the students are back in school today," principal Robert Allgood stated. "Hopefully, we've settled this particular incident which was a matter of kids who could not solve their differences without getting into fist fights."

Allgood called a meeting last night of the PTA Sounding Board to ask them to send representatives to be present in the school. He noted this hopefully will serve to help calm the situation, pointing out that last year's policy of parents in the school seemed a useful contribution.

Dudley Flood, Assistant Director of Human Relations from Raleigh was present this morning to talk to students. Also, the Student Government body was meeting to form committees to help on the situation.

"I hope the community will reaffirm its attitude of being helpful by instilling in their children an attitude that they must not get involved in a situation like this. It may take some perseverance, but it has to be done," Allgood states.

COURTESY PATROL

RALEIGH (AP)—An estimated 150 North Carolina motorists were helped by a "courtesy patrol" operated by a group of truck drivers over North Carolina highways during the Labor Day weekend.

One Passenger On First Flight

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—After more than four years of efforts for better air service, Omaha finally has nonstop North Central Airlines service to Minneapolis-St. Paul.

But the inaugural flight Tuesday from Omaha carried only one passenger and 97 empty seats.

The airline said it wasn't worried. Reservations indicated traffic would pick up considerably by the end of the week, said Gilbert Neumann, district sales manager.

ALMOST HOOKED

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP)—Mrs. Anna van Rensburg was hooked on salmon—almost literally. A large fish hook was inside a can of salmon she opened recently. She felt the hook before swallowing the mouthful. "I was in pain for an hour," she said, and salmon is no longer her favorite seafood.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices continued mixed this morning in active trading.

At 11 a.m. the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 2.40 at 770.74. However, on the Big Board, advances held a 3-to-2 margin over losers.

Analysts said the market was drifting uncertainly amid conflicting investor concerns. On the one hand, the prospects of an auto and rail strike, plus the uncertain international scene, brought on by the recent wave of air hijackings, were depressing confidence, analysts said.

Farmville Peaceful Following Disorder

FARMVILLE — Tuesday night was quiet here following some disorder the night before.

Three arrests were made yesterday afternoon in connection with bottle-throwing and other disorderly conduct at a carnival and later on South Main Street here Monday night.

Those arrested and later released on bond were Freddie Foreman, 22; Miss Peggy Barrett, 16; and Miss Sandra Fay Joyner, 17. All three are Farmville residents and all were charged with disorderly conduct. Foreman was also charged with resisting arrest.

David Harper, a 17-year-old alleged probation violator, is still at large. The fracas Monday night began when Ptl. Mack Boney of the Farmville Police Department attempted to arrest Harper at a carnival here at 9:05 p.m. for violating his probation stipulation that he be at home by 6 o'clock each evening. After being put under arrest, Harper allegedly ran from the police station while being booked. He is now charged with resisting arrest, disorderly conduct, and escape as well as violating certain conditions of his probation.

Arrested Monday night for disorderly conduct and damaging town property was Bernard W. F. Esty, 22, of New York. He allegedly threw objects at the town police car.

The carnival, which was being sponsored by a local Veterans of Foreign Wars chapter, did not open last night. A temporary permit to operate had been given them the night before by Mayor Will Joyner subject to the approval of the Board of Commissioners. In a meeting yesterday afternoon at 5:30 p.m., the Board denied the request.

Tax Lien Sale Set In Grifton

GRIFTON — The Grifton Town Board of Commissioners last night set Sept. 14 as the date for the tax lien sale in Grifton.

The sale, scheduled to begin at 12 noon, will be held in front of the Grifton Town Hall.

Board members also approved an amendment to the trailer ordinance which states a permit must be signed by the building inspector before a trailer can be parked in Grifton. The trailer must meet certain requirements.

Money, Checks Said Missing

Pitt County Sheriff's Department officials are continuing their investigation into the disappearance of approximately $1,200 in money and checks from a business at Hanrahan.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said this morning that Doc Cannon, operator of a service station at the Hanrahan crossroads, reported that the currency and checks were discovered missing yesterday and said the incident happened between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Sheriff Tyson added that Cannon reported the money and checks had been kept in a bag under a counter at the station.

Approve Buying Speed Signs

WINTERVILLE — The Winterville Town Board last night approved the purchase of speed zone signs to be placed at Winterville High School and W.H. Robinson School.

The board also approved the hiring of Mrs. Betty Anderson to work the school crossing in front of W.H. Robinson School.

Board members handled routine business matters and accepted the auditor's report for the town records.

Farmville Eleven In Rebuilding Season

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(One of a series)
FARMVILLE — The 1970 football season must be listed as a rebuilding one for the Farmville Red Devils.

Despite this, the Red Devils captured a victory in their first game Friday night, and ended up with an early share of the Eastern Plains Conference lead.

In Friday night's results, Farmville dumped Hobpton, 22-6, and Charles B. Aycock nipped Southern Nash, 13-12, in a game postponed until Monday.

Brewer feels that inexperience is his biggest problem. "Next comes the lack of quickness and overall speed. We're not nearly as fast as last year."

Brewer feels that he has a couple of sophomores who can help the team out with some experience. One is Jimmy Langley, a probable starter at halfback, and the other is Chuck Finklea, who is battling with Danny Moore for a starting job at guard.

"We are going to have to have a lot of boys pick up a lot of experience quick if we are to be successful," Brewer said.

Earl Moore or either Jeffrey German or Harry Smith will probably handle the offensive and positions for the Red Devils.

"We were supposed to have all three of our receivers back this year. Two of them, Connie and Robert Tripp have been moved to the backfield, and the other, Cloyce Wilson, is out for the year with an injury."

At the tackle slots, it'll be Roger Eason and Columbus Davis. Both have good size, but Davis is inexperienced.

"Roger is a pretty good blocker, and Davis has a lot of agility for his size," Brewer added.

Kenny Dunn, one of the starters back, will be at one of the guard spots, while Moore and Finklea will alternate at the other.

Wainwright returns at center and is the only one playing in the same place as last year.

Mark Oglesby and Connie Tripp are working in the quarterback position. Oglesby has a little more experience there, and does a smoother job in handing off, while Tripp is the better passer.

At running back is Langley, while Robert Tripp is at fullback. He will also spell Langley some with Allan Wilkes filling in at fullback.

Either Connie Tripp or David Sutton will work in the slot position.

"We hope our running game will be adequate. It has come along in the last week or so. We have good speed in the backfield, but none of the breakaway speed we had last year with Dickie Newton."

Brewer feels his defense hasn't come along as well as he has hoped for. "We have some people who'll hit you, but they just lack experience. All phases of the game have looked good at times, however."

Smith, or Robert Tripp and Moore will handle the defensive ends, while Davis and Eason will be the tackles.

Dunn will be in the middle guard position, and is rated as the best lineman for the Red Devils.

Robert Tripp or Greg Taylor, along with Finklea will handle the linebacking, with Lewis Spell at Monster. Langley and Charles Sutton will be the halfbacks with Connie Tripp at safety.

"We lack experience in the line, but have a little in the secondary."

Brewer feels that Northern Nash should be the team to beat in the conference, but notes that North Lenoir could repeat. Southern Wayne also is rated strong, and Aycock should be improved.

But for Farmville, it appears to be a wait-and-see situation, with the emphasis on the future.

This week, three games are scheduled in the Eastern Plains conference battles, with two teams going outside the loop.

Conference tilts send Southern Nash to Farmville, Hobpton to North Lenoir, and Northern Nash to Aycock. Greene Central hosts Pamlico County, while Southern Wayne, after an open date, hosts James Kenan.

Farmville suffered no injuries in its game, and Brewer feels that his defense was stronger than he had expected it to be. The punting game was also better.

Southern Nash has a new look this year with a new coach. "They did a good job of rallying against Aycock," Brewer said. "They didn't give up."

Greene Central Coach Stewart Smith said he was pleased to some extent by the showing of his Rams in their 6-0 loss to Ayden. "The defense did a good job, and we've worked some more on our offense. It wasn't too bad since we practiced only five times together."

Smith said the team came through the game with no injuries.

"Pamlico County is a big team, and will outweigh us at every position. They are a straight ahead club that grinds out the yardage. We hope our defense does as good a job against them as they did against Ayden. We're going to start scoring sooner or later. It's just a question of getting in good condition to make everything click."

Robersonville, Grifton Seeking First Wins In Tobacco Belt Conference Games

Both Grifton and Robersonville got off on the wrong foot Friday night in their 1970 season opener. Grifton fell to Saratoga in a conference game, 12-0, while Robersonville took an 18-0 shutout at the hands of Williamston.

Elsewhere in the conference, Elm City snapped a long losing streak with a 14-8 win over Louisville, Chocowinity topped Mattamuskeet in a loop battle, 12-6, Camden County topped Belhaven, 14-0, defending champ Vanceboro popped Aurora, 36-16, in another loop game, and Bath rolled to a 42-6 win over Pantego. "There are two things you have to have in football," Grifton's Claude Kennedy said, "Blocking and tackling. "Friday night, we failed to have either."

Thus he summed up his team's loss to Saratoga. "We are just going to have to work on it. We have a young team, and we thought they

Women Hold Golf Meeting

The organizational meet of the executive board of the Pitt County Ladies Golf League was held Friday. Plans were discussed for the coming year. Members of the league include Greenville Golf and Country Club, Brook Valley Country Club, Ayden Country Club, Grifton Country Club and Farmville Country Club.

worked hard last week and were looking good. Maybe the rain hurt us, but it rained on them too."

Kennedy felt that Grifton made mistakes that hurt them. "We had 120 yards in penalties. That's like signing your own death warrant. We got within scoring distance one time, and we had a penalty for piling on. Have you ever heard of an offensive team piling on? That's the kind of stuff we did."

Kennedy praised his quarterback, Mike Jackson, for the fine job he did in his first effort at the helm of the team. "He stayed backed up in his own territory most of the game, and really didn't get a chance to operate."

One bad note in the game was the loss of fullback Mike Coles, who'll miss a couple of games because of an injury.

This week, Grifton will face Aurora in another conference battle, but this time at home. "They're larger than us in size. They started out with a 5-4 defense against Vanceboro, but injuries forced them into a 6-2. They like to run off - tackle and off - guard, and they like to pass to the slotman."

"I think it'll boil down to who hits the hardest," Kennedy said. Robersonville's Coach Noland Respass feels that his Rams performed well in their 18-0 loss to Williamston. "I was real pleased in some ways," he said. "We moved the ball well, and our defense looked real good. We played a good game. Our passing was hurt by the rain, and with a dry field, it would have been closer."

Respass pointed out that all three Tiger scores came on bombs. "We played well and I hope we don't have a let-down because we got beat."

The Rams go into conference action this week, playing

Chocowinity. "I don't know much about them," Respass said. "They had a good team last year, but I understand they don't have many boys out this year."

Murphy Up In Money

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Murphy, who collected $20,000 in winning last weekend's Greater Hartford Open, climbed from 20th to 14th place Tuesday among golf's money winners.

Murphy boosted his 1970 earnings on the tour to $97,251. Billy Casper, with four tournament victories, continues to hold first place with $144,468, the Professional Golfers Association announced.

Jack Nicklaus, winner of two tournaments, was second with $139,544; followed by Bruce Carmpton, with $134,344; Lee Trevine with $125,004 and Dick Lotz, $122,041.

Rounding out the top ten are Frank Beard, $120,182; Arnold Palmer, $113,205; Bruce Devellin, $109,733 and Dave Hill, $104,805.

It was one year ago today that the New York Mets swept a two-night doubleheader and, for the first time in their adventurous young lives, moved into first place in the National League's Past Division. A combination of circumstances, some of it their own doing and much of it Pittsburgh's and Chicago's, has placed the Mets in a position to celebrate that anniversary on top of the heap again—provided they can sweep another two-nighter. New York moved to within one-half game of the first place Pirates Tuesday, whipping Montreal 10-5 while third place Chicago, only one game behind, walloped Pittsburgh 10-3.

The Mets, who've won four straight and seven of the last nine, play a two-night doubleheader against Philadelphia tonight while Pirates entertain St. Louis. A sweep by the Mets would assure them of at least a share of the lead, regardless of what the Pirates do. Chicago played an afternoon game against Montreal.

Elsewhere in the National League Tuesday, St. Louis whipped Philadelphia 6-3, Houston outlasted San Diego 8-7, Atlanta edged Los Angeles 3-2 and Cincinnati tripped San Francisco 5-2.

In the American League, Kansas City bombed California 12-0, Milwaukee nipped Minnesota 3-2, Baltimore downed Detroit 6-3, New York took Washington 7-3 and Boston nipped Cleveland 4-3. Chicago and Oakland had the day off.

The Mets exploded for six runs in the eighth inning against the Expos with Ken Boswell's bases-loaded double driving home three and reliever Tug McGraw's bases-loaded single producing three more.

McGraw worked five strong innings of relief to nail down the victory but needed ninth inning help from Ron Herbel after Bob Bailey tagged a three-run homer for Montreal.

The Pirates, meanwhile, who've been out of first place only two days since July 11, absorbed another whipping from the Cubs.

Bill Hands scattered eight hits and Chicago collected 15 including three each by Randy Hundley, who drove in three runs, and Ron Santo, who drove in two. Joe Pepitone had a two-run triple and the Cubs also took advantage of 10 bases on balls issued by Pittsburgh pitchers. The Pirates have dropped nine of the last 14 while Chicago has seared into contention by winning eight of the last 11.

Steve Carlton pitched a four-hitter and contributed two timely hits to St. Louis' attack as the Cardinals hung on to third place in the east by whipping Philadelphia. Carlton doubled and scored the Cards' go-ahead run in the seventh and then singled home an insurance run in the ninth. Rich Allen homered for St. Louis while Deron Johnson and Joe Lis connected for the Phillies.

Doug Rader and Bob Watson drove in three runs apiece as Houston hung on to beat San Diego. Rader had two singles and his 21st homer and Watson ripped two singles.

Nate Colbert and Clarence Gaston on each tagged two-run homers for the Padres.

Orlando Cepeda ripped a three-run homer in the first inning and that was all George Stone needed as Atlanta bested Los Angeles.

Cepeda's homer was his 34th of the season and Stone made the runs stand up with a seven-hitter for his 11th victory. Bill Grabarkewitz homered for L.A.

Bobby Tolan's bases-loaded double drove in three runs in the second inning, leading the Reds past the Dodgers.

Ray Washburn picked up the victory with seven innings of sharp relief after taking over for Jim Merritt, who strained his pitching elbow in the first inning. Merritt is not expected to miss a pitching turn.

How Johnny Unitas Killed The Single Wing
From its glory days at Tennessee, Princeton and UCLA until its final breath here at East Carolina, the single wing offense in football was predicated on the all-round athlete who was a great runner and a pretty good passer and could play tailback plus a number of small, quick linemen who could angle block, double-team block and trap.

What happened to the single wing? The answer is simple: the National Football League.

In the 1950's when kids all over the country started tuning in on Sunday afternoons, it didn't take them long to figure out who the hero was. He was the quarterback—the guy who threw the bomb. Soon every crewcut youngster on the block was emulating Otto Graham, Norm Van Brocklin, Bobby Layne, Y.A. Tittle, Charlie Connerly and Eddie LeBaron.

Then along came a fellow with the strange name of Johnny Unitas (How many people do you know named Unitas?). He not only threw the bomb, he threw lots of short passes to people like Raymond Berry. Pop-pop-pop with the short passes, then just when the defense was looking for another short pass, ole Johnny U. would fake short and throw the bomb and look cool as a cucumber doing it.

Johnny Unitas made a big impression on young football players. The best athlete in the sixth grade no longer wanted to run with the football. He wanted to pass like Johnny U. Just as in baseball, where the best athletes were pitchers, in football the best athletes were quarterbacks. Or if they couldn't throw the ball, they wanted to catch it, so they became receivers.

It took awhile for this change to reach fruition on the college scene, but it was inevitable. With the best athletes learning the skills of the quarterback trade, the proficiency of the passing game increased. Thus, college coaches started throwing the ball more. The single wing simply is not designed as a passing offense. It is a running offense, in particular the tailback sweeping end. And the supply of eligible tailbacks had diminished because the emphasis was on producing passing quarterbacks.

This, of course, is an oversimplification. There are still many fine running backs around who can fit either a single wing or pro-T set attack. For example, Billy Wightman was a fine single wing tailback who could have easily been a pro set running back. Butch Colson, a very good single wing fullback, would be just as good this year in our pro set offense.

However, increasingly the running game in college football is being used to set up the pass. This is where the philosophy of the single wing differs greatly from the philosophy of the pro set which we will use this Saturday night when we open our season against a great Toledo team (11-0 last fall).

Basically, there are three things any offense tries to do: (1) run inside; (2) run outside; and (3) throw the ball.

Now, nearly every football fan knows that most long gains are made outside, either by running wide or throwing. However, there are still three very important reasons for running inside. They are: (1) to keep the defense honest, make them anticipate the run inside so you will have a better chance of succeeding outside; (2) to get a mismatch on their linebackers by having your guards or tackles, who are usually bigger and stronger, block straight ahead on the linebackers; and (3) to utilize a particularly strong inside runner you may have, such as Billy Wallace is for this year.

While the principles are very similar in the single wing and the pro set when it comes to running inside, the techniques of running inside are completely different. In the pro-T set, the quarterback stands close to the center and takes the snap directly from him. He then hands off to his fullback an instant before the fullback hits the hole. It all happens so much quicker than in the single wing, where the tailback stands six yards behind the center, takes the long snap and then runs forward. In the line the pro-T set requires strength and height for straight-ahead blocking, whereas it requires more speed and agility for angle blocking, and trapping in the single wing. This is why we have so many new faces in our offensive line this year. You see, strong straight-ahead blockers like Steve Davis and Mike Kopp aren't nearly as well suited for the single wing as they are for the pro-T set.

Finally, why is the pro-T set offense better for passing the football? Simply this: the single wing is usually run with an unbalanced line, the wingback and the wide end on the same side of the ball. Thus, you can not spread your receivers equally across the field as you can with the pro set. It is also easier to get your set backs coming out of the backfield to catch passes, then it is to spring both your blocking back and your fullback into pass patterns in the single wing.

The big difference is the nature of the quarterback versus the nature of the tailback. The latter is primarily a runner, while the pro-set quarterback is most often a passer first and a runner second. A lot more passing—that's the big difference the fans will notice between the single wing and the pro-T set. And you can thank people like Johnny Unitas for the change.

Didn't Think About No-Hitter

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer

Pitching a no-hitter crossed Jim Rooker's mind for a brief instant but the Kansas City left-hander quickly dismissed any such notion when he remembered the night of June 4.

The 27-year-old fireballer retired the first 16 California batters before Joe Azcue snapped the string with a single and Rooker had to settle for a neat three-hitter as the Royals trounced the Angels 12-0 Tuesday night.

"The no-hitter came to my mind but I didn't let myself get concerned by it," said the Royals' second-year man.

"I had a no-hitter for eight innings on June 4 and not only didn't I get it, I wound up losing the game. Tonight I wasn't going to worry about it," said the 6-foot, 190-pounder, who upped his record to 9-15.

On June 4th at New York, Rooker held the Yankees hitless until Horace Clarke opened the ninth with a single. The Yankees tied it in that inning and eventually won it 2-1 in 12 innings.

Rooker, in his last start, dropped a 1-0 decision to the Angels but said the difference this time was his control. "Everything was working."

He didn't walk a batter and struck out seven. The Royals backed him with a 17-hit attack, including four hits apiece for Bob Oliver and Lou Piniella as the Angels fell to their fifth straight loss.

In other American League contests, Baltimore topped Detroit 6-3, Milwaukee edged Minnesota 3-2, New York tripped

Washington 7-3 and Boston nipped Cleveland 4-3. The Oakland A's and Chicago White Sox were idle.

In the National League, the New York Mets ripped Montreal 10-5, Chicago slammed Pittsburgh 10-3, St. Louis downed Philadelphia 6-3, Houston nipped San Diego 8-7, Atlanta topped Los Angeles 3-2 and Cincinnati took San Francisco 5-2.

Boog Powell drove in three runs with a two-run homer and single and Frank Robinson slugged a homer in the Orioles, triumph, sending Mickey Lolich to his 17th defeat. The left-hander has won 12.

Phil Roof clubbed a two-run, two-out homer in the ninth inning, giving the Brewers their victory and stopping the Twins winning streak at five. Tony Oliva had his 21st homer for the Twins.

The Yankees drilled 16 hits, including three by Roy White and Ron Nansen as the New Yorker's took their fifth straight. White drove in three runs with a pair of triples and a single and scored twice.

Pitcher Ken Brett slammed a sole homer in the eighth inning, snapping a 3-3 tie in the Red Sox victory. Rice Petrocelli and Joe Lahoud also homered for Boston while Buddy Bradford had a three-run shot for the Indians.

The highest point in Kentucky is 4,150-foot Big Black Mountain.

Annual coal production in West Virginia is about 150 million tons.

CHEVY'S NEW LITTLE CAR IS OPEN FOR BUSINESS.

We call it Vega. We also call it "the little car that does everything well." Because it does.

Everything? Everything. Vega moves well, stops well, steers well, rides well, handles well, responds well, passes well, travels well, parks well, wears well, and is priced well under what you'd expect to pay for such a talented little car.

In our highway tests, Vega has been getting gas mileage in the neighborhood of the little imports, which isn't a bad neighborhood.

Yet unlike your average little car, ours steps right out when you step on the gas.

The engine is a specially designed overhead cam four with a lightweight aluminum alloy block. It turns slowly and quietly at turnpike speeds, with power to spare.

Disc brakes are standard in the front. So are bucket seats, except on the truck.

How we doing so far?

Numbers speak louder than words. The wheelbase is 97 inches. Total length is just under 170 inches, or nearly four feet shorter than a full-size Chevrolet.

Height of the coupe is just 50 inches, nine inches lower than the leading import.

Width: a nice stable 5½ feet. Weight: 2,190 lbs. for the sedan. Engine displacement: 140 cubic inches.

Fuel economy: about 25 mpg, with the standard engine and transmission, in our highway tests.

Horsepower: 90. You can order 110. (80 and 93 hp, SAE Net.) Seating capacity: 4 adults. What it all adds up to is a lot of little car.

Three cars and a truck. Vega turned out so well that we couldn't turn out just one.

So we're turning out four: the sporty little hatchback coupe shown open and closed in the foreground below; the sedan, on the right; the Kammback wagon, on the left; and the little panel truck, in the rear.

Oh, and a special GT version of the coupe and wagon which we'll show you later on.

September 10th is Opening Day. All 6,300 Chevrolet dealers are handling Vega, so you shouldn't have to go very far to see and drive one. Chevy's new little car is open for business. Look into it.

Isaac Ups Point Lead

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Bobby Isaac has jumped to a 27-point lead over James Hylton in NASCAR's Grand National competition, thanks to a second place finish in Monday's Southern 500.

Isaac, driving a Dodge, finished behind Buddy Baker and brought his season point total to 3039. Hylton, in a Ford, was seventh and raised his total to 3012.

Bobby Allison who came in 10th in the race raised his points to 2,944 for 10th place.

In the Grand American challenge series, Jim Paschal and his American Motors Javelin won their fourth straight race, beating Wayne Andrews' Mercury Cougar at Kingsport, Tenn.

The win moved Paschal closer to Tiny Lund's lead in the Grand American standings. Lund, who failed to finish the race, has 1,566 points and Paschal 1,512.

Hospital Improves Meal Routine; A Disposable System Is Paying Off

BALTIMORE (AP) — In the midst of rising hospital costs across the nation, patients at a forward-looking Baltimore hospital soon may be enjoying wine with dinner.

The wine won't be served in crystal, however, because Franklin Square Hospital has entered the age of the disposable.

"Everything goes into the incinerator," said Gary Thompson, director of food services. "We save a lot of money that way."

Dinner plates, trays, forks, spoons and knives all get thrown away at the hospital's new facilities.

Another casualty of the disposable age is the kitchen.

When the hospital moved, all the stoves, dishes, and tableware were sold. The hospital saved an estimated $500,000 in construction costs by not installing a regular kitchen.

Food now comes to the hospital cooked and frozen in small trays. At the hospital the servings are placed on patient's trays, put into a micro-wave oven and heated in less than a minute.

Patients select meals from a menu and if they don't want to eat at the regular times their food can be prepared later.

The food is more nutritional now, Thompson said, because it is warmed immediately before serving and doesn't lose vitamins sitting in a steam-operated warmer.

Each precooked meal costs the hospital 98 cents, according to the food director. In the building, meals prepared the usual way cost 67 cents each.

"But we're saving money because we've cut our food preparation staff to 17 people. At the old hospital where we had 171 beds, we had 42 people in the kitchen. We have 300 beds in the new hospital and if we were preparing food in the conventional way, we would need 65 people in the kitchen."

The hospital also saves money on operation and maintenance of kitchen equipment, air conditioning of the kitchen — there is no excess heat in the new food center — and on such things as water and dishwashing detergent.

Service also is more sanitary because all plates and tableware are disposable and never used by more than one patient.

The only thing Thompson thinks is lacking is a wine list and he hopes he'll get that soon.

"There is no reason," he said, "why a patient with a broken leg or something like that shouldn't be able to enjoy his hospital stay a little."

Work Is Fun For Bird-Bander

IRVING, Ill. (AP) — Mrs. C. J. Bird, 53, is a licensed bird-bander, trapping and banding all varieties of birds for no pay, but a wealth of pleasure.

She said she began watching birds more than 20 years ago "because I was nosey."

"I saw a little bird down in Missouri and asked many people what the name was but nobody knew," she said.

She began investigating birdlore on her own, and from the one bird—an indigo bunting—she went on to others.

"Until I see every bird in the world, I'll never give up," she said.

TEDDY NADLER, the quiz show phenomenon, reminisces about the days when his uncanny knowledge won him $264,000 on the now notorious quiz shows. (AP Wirephoto)

Terry Nadler's Big Winnings Almost Gone

By DALE SINGER
ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — There are a million things Teddy Nadler can tell you.

But there are some things he would rather not talk about.

In 1956 and 1957 St. Louis post office worker Teddy Nadler's uncanny knowledge of opera, history, baseball, battles and royalty won him $264,000 on the quiz shows "The $64,000 question" and "the $64,000 challenge," which later came into disrepute. His success made him a national celebrity.

Today Teddy Nadler still has the knowledge he had then, if not more.

He also has something else — a curious mixture of pride and hurt, caution and bravado, a distrust of the press which he believes maligned and exploited him. He has a desire to make people realize he is not some sort of freak, that his mind's tremendous store of facts and the money it earned him are not unmingled blessings.

Unemployed Encyclopedia
There is a third thing he has, or rather does not have. He doesn't have much left of that $264,000.

Packed into Nadler's 60-year-old, 5-foot-4-inch frame is an immense store of facts and figures — from the War of the Roses to baseball star Mel Ott's lifetime averages, from the symphonies of Handel and Mahler to the battle strategies and general of the Civil War, from the size of the Island of Tasmania to the vital statistics on the illegitimate children of Louis XIV.

Nadler is all too eager to demonstrate his knowledge. He becomes a little wary, however, when the subject turns to him personally — what has he been doing the last 13 years, how has he been living, what did he do with the money, how does he feel about the television quiz show scandal?

He Was Cleared

He fiercely defends himself, saying he was never one of those contestants — most of them better looking and more glamorous than he — who, it subsequently became known, sometimes were tipped off beforehand to the questions.

"There're not just going to give that much money to an ugly guy like me," he said. "I earned that money because I know a million facts and figures."

In the middle 1950s the big-money quiz shows were the hottest things on television. The drama of the isolation booth and the mysterious computer-sorted questions fascinated audiences throughout the country. Of all the big-winning know-it-alls, no one seemed to know more than the little, raspy-voiced postal employe from St. Louis.

Almost A Career
"I've had some people write me that all they had to look forward to was my appearance on television," Nadler said with pride. "I've got a whole closet full of nice letters."

The categories in which Nadler competed were as varied as the facts which he still can recite off the top of his head. Nadler took on and beat musicians on music, sportscasters on sports and history scholars on kings and queens.

Before the bubble burst, he signed a contract to star against various experts on a television show to be called "Beat the Genius" — no need to ask who the genius was to be. But the real feel through.

Wary Of Reporters

When the quiz show investigation came along, Nadler was given a clean bill of health. Persons connected with the shows said Nadler had been shown some questions before airtime, but it didn't matter when he saw them — he knew the answers anyway.

Nadler once made a statement — "the quiz shows didn't even scratch the surface of my knowledge" — and has been sorry ever since for what the press made out of it.

"Newspapermen are treacherous, deceitful, perfidious," Nadler said. "They would sell their own mother down the river for a nickel. After being unknown for so long it was a nightmare for me to see myself written up in the paper."

His Powers A Mystery
Because of his wariness, it is difficult to get Nadler to answer a direct question. When he does, he gives the impression of a man who is, as he often says, "swallowed up in my knowledge."

Where does his mental card file of knowledge come from? How does it work?

Nadler doesn't have the answers to those questions. Doctors have studied him, but they merely were able to confirm that Nadler really knows all he says he knows.

Nadler was raised in an orphanage and doesn't know if any of his ancestors had a mind like his. He does know that none of his children do.

He never went to high school and says he hasn't read anything of consequence since he was 22. "Why should I?" he reasons. "I know too many things now I have no use for."

"I've been called the eighth wonder of the world," he said proudly. "One newspaper columnist wrote that St. Louis is famous for the Gateway Arch and for Teddy Nadler."

Nadler does not belittle the money his memory earned.

Maj. Ray Collins, (above, right) son of Mrs. Irene B. Collins and R. L. Collins of Ayden, was presented the Bronze Star Award with combat "V" device by Lt. Gen. H. W. Buse Jr., commanding general of the Fleet Marine Force Pacific. Collins received the award for meritorious performance of duty while serving in Vietnam as logistics officer for Force Logistics Support Group Alpha in Phu Bai and later at Red Beach, Da Nang. The major, a graduate of the University of North Carolina, is married to the former Ann McLohon of Ayden.

M. Sgt. Wesley R. Cannon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Cannon of Ayden, has been transferred to Nellis AFB, Nevada. Cannon has been selected to serve as a member of the Air Force Demonstration Team Thunderbirds. He and his wife, the former Peggy Buck, and three sons departed Aug. 20 for Nevada for a two year tour of duty.

2Lt. Larry G. Elks, (above) son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester E. Elks of Rt. 2, Grimesland, has been awarded Air Force silver pilot wings upon graduation at Laredo AFB, Tex. Elks is being assigned to Langley AFB, Va. for flying duty with the Tactical Air Command which provides combat units for air support of U.S. ground forces. A 1965 graduate of Grimesland High School, the lieutenant earned a B.S. degree in 1969 from East Carolina University where he was commissioned through the AFROTC program. His wife is the former Willa Dixon of Rt. 3, Greenville.

Sgt. I.C. Clarence J. Wade Jr., whose parents live on Rt. 2, Grifton, recently reenlisted for six years in the Regular Army while serving with the 1st Infantry Division near Augsburg, Germany. Wade, a communications chief with Headquarters Battery, 5th Battalion of the division's 32nd Artillery, was last stationed at Ft. Benning, Ga. He holds the Bronze Star Medal.

Ernest B. Whichard Jr., whose parents live in Robersonville, was commissioned an Army second lieutenant recently in the Adjutant General Corps upon graduation from the Army Engineer Officer Candidate School, Ft. Belvoir, Va. The lieutenant received 23 weeks of instruction which included training in mechanical and technical equipment, topography, and military science and engineering. Emphasis was placed on developing leadership capabilities and increasing physical proficiency. His wife, Jane, is living in Greensboro.

David T. Cox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic L. Cox of Grifton, is one of 1410 freshman cadets who have entered the Air Force Academy class of 1974. Cox was accepted into the cadet wing after completing seven weeks of basic training, including field training at a simulated frontline combat base near the academy, strenuous physical conditioning and survival instruction. He now begins a four-year course of study leading to an Air Force commission and a bachelor of science degree with an academic major in one of 27 fields of interest provided in the curriculum. Cox is a 1970 graduate of Oak Ridge Military Institute where he was named valedictorian of his class.

Richard Kay Lockhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond K. Lockhart of Greenville, departed recently for Parris Island, S.C. where he will undergo Marine Recruit Training. Lockhart, who attended Rose High School here, enlisted in the Corps and elected to report for immediate induction rather than take the optional 180-day delay. Gunnery Sgt. John L. Webster, local Marine representative, who maintains an office in the Edwards Building each Thursday, said that he is now authorized to interview qualified young men who are interested in either two, three or four year enlistments with either immediate enlistments for active duty or delays up to 180 days.

Pvt. Richard Reid, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Reid of Williamston, completed nine weeks of advanced infantry training recently at Ft. Polk, La. His last week of training was spent in guerrilla warfare exercises. During his guerrilla training he lived under simulated Vietnam conditions for five days, fighting off night attacks and conducting raids on "enemy" villages. He was taught methods of removing booby traps, setting ambushes and avoiding enemy ambushes. Other specialized training included small unit tactics, map reading, land mine warfare, communications, and firing the M-16 rifle, M-60 machine gun and 3.5-inch rocket launcher.

Spec. 4 James Joyner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Joyner of Farmville, recently departed the Republic of Vietnam and following leave at his home will be reassigned to Ft. Riley, Kan. Joyner served with the Army's largest division, the Americal, as an Infantryman. The Americal Division headquarters is located in Chu Lai, 50 miles south of Da Nang, along the coast of the South China Sea. The division's 24,000 soldiers operate from the sandy coastal plains to the inland mountains of southern I. Corps.

Pvt. Michael L. Oakley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Oakley of Rt. 2 Robersonville, has completed nine weeks of advanced infantry training at Ft. Polk, La. The last week of AIT was spent in guerrilla warfare training. In addition to specialized training that included the firing of several weapons, Oakley was trained in small unit tactics, and mine warfare, communications, and map reading. Five days of simulated Vietnam conditions including fighting off night attacks and conducting raids on "enemy" villages highlighted the guerrilla training.

Sgt. John A. Joyner, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Joyner of Farmville, is currently on duty at Y-Tapao Airfield, Thailand. Joyner is an air operations specialist with the 6003rd Combat Support Squadron, a unit of the Pacific Air Forces, headquarters for air operations in Southeast Asia, the Far East and the Pacific area. The sergeant, who previously served at Grand Forks AFB, N.D., is a 1967 graduate of H. B. Sugg High School. He is married to the former Brenda Tyson of Farm-

ALLOCATED FUNDS ATLANTA (AP) — North Carolina has been allocated $7,690,720 in emergency desegregation funds for 125 districts involving 371,247 pupils. The Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare's office of education says.

The Worry Clinic
Four Reasons For Obesity

"Sex and the Fat Woman" was Arnold Zenker's theme for a recent TV show in Baltimore. So scrapbook this case. Many plump wives are unfairly accused of overeating due to frustration and neuroticism. Although often true, that is not always the case, so read the 4 "normal" reasons for obesity.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE Q-527: Arnold Zenker recently invited me to Baltimore to participate in his one-hour TV show.

"Dr. Crane," he telephoned me in advance, "the theme is to be 'Sex and the Fat Woman.'"

"We have invited Dr. Eugene Scheiman, another Chicago physician, to be on the program with you."

Dr. Scheiman wisely pointed out that obesity is often due to frustration and neuroticism of its victims.

But I then mentioned the fact that it may also be merely a normal means of "stalling" or "imitation" or "economy" or a "stimulus-response" reaction.

For when a woman (or man, too) has several disliked chores staring her in the face, she may decide to sit down and have another cup of coffee or piece of pie, merely to delay tackling the work ahead.

And overeating can likewise be based on imitation.

Thus, the usual housewife may prepare her husband's breakfast and sit down to eat a bite with him before he leaves at 7 or 8 o'clock in the morning.

Then her kiddies may dine a little later, so she sits down with them again for a second breakfast.

And if the kiddies leave a desirable portion of food, uneaten, she thinks of the starving Biafrans, and thus swallows it herself, to avoid letting it "go to waste."

Alas, it then merely "goes to waist."

Having a dog or cat may thus be of value in keeping your figure more trim, for then you can legitimately feed the leftovers to that pet.

Otherwise, millions of mothers will devour those scraps of food. And that's especially true of us adults who were taught to clean our plates in our childhood.

Or who have experienced hunger and poverty in our own youth, so now was are goaded into "saving everything."

But there is another type of overeating, also not due to frustration.

It is based on what we call the "stimulus-response" habit mechanism.

For example, you have been taught in school to use a pencil or pen and write on a sheet of white paper.

Thus, when you are gayly chattering away on the telephone, where a scratch pad and pencil are also in front of your eyes, you may start doodling.

For while your conscious attention is focussed on your dialogue over the phone, subconsciously that pencil tempts you to launch upon the familiar habit of writing.

Prof. Bayer, a German scientist, even found this to be true when experimenting with hungry hens.

If he fed a hen till she was full and refused to eat any more, he would sweep the rest of the wheat away; then return it.

And she'd start eating all over again!

He also observed that if he placed a hungry hen in front of a 100-gram pile of wheat, she'd eat till she had consumed about 50 grams; then stop.

But if she were placed in front

Opening lead: King of ♠ South, declarer at four spades, was unwilling to rely on mere percentages to locate the queen of clubs in today's hand, and he devised a campaign that reduced the issue to a certainty.

West opened the king of hearts and continued with the ace and queen, declarer ruffing the third round as East discarded a club. South crossed over to the queen diamonds to put the jack of spades thru for a finesse. West won the trick with the king and got out with a trump. South drew West's remaining spade as East parted with another club.

Inasmuch as the declarer's had their book in, declarer's objective was to avoid losing a club trick. If the diamond suit divided evenly, he could obtain a discard on North's long diamonds. If that failed to materialize, then he must locate the queen of clubs.

Declarer tested diamonds first by cashing the king and then returning to his hand with the ace. If both opponents followed to each round, he could reenter dummy with the ace of clubs and cash the long diamond. However, when West showed out on the third round of diamonds, South was obliged to fall back on the club suit.

East had shown up with two spades, two hearts and four diamonds by actual count. He was therefore known to have started with five clubs. The odds favored his holding the queen. However, South observed a surer method for resolving his problem. By playing off his last trump first. He could force his opponent to make a revealing discard.

The ten of spades was led and the six of clubs was discarded from dummy. East was obliged to keep his jack of diamonds as protection against North's remaining card in that suit, the eight. East therefore parted with the four of clubs. With both opponents down to two clubs, it became routine for declarer to lead a club to dummy's ace and then return to the king in his hand, dropping the queen and establishing the jack of clubs for the game fulfilling trick.

New System For Tax Notices

This year's Greenville tax notices, sent out last month, represent an entirely new system of billing for taxes, according to William Moore, Clerk and Treasurer.

In prior years, citizens have received their tax notices on one bill, no matter how many separate properties they were paying taxes on.

This year, with the assistance of the Pitt County IBM system, located in the Pitt County Courthouse in Greenville, tax notices were prepared for each individual piece of property.

Thus, if a person is the owner of his home, plus five rental properties, he would be the recipient of six separate tax notices.

This new system of billing resulted in a total of 11,574 tax notices being dispatched for Greenville city taxes. The advantages of this system, Moore noted, are well worth the extra time and effort required.

Moore pointed out that the separate notices did not break down real estate and personal property, but that the two were combined for each individual property for which a tax notice is sent.

GAS FIELD
MIDLAND, Ky. (AP) — The Midland natural gas field, reputed to be one of the largest and most important in the nation, was created by an ancient river 30,000 years ago.

The river eroded a gorge and laid down a bed of sandstone 11 miles long, averaging 1.3 miles wide, at the time of the first reptiles.

Today, this porous sandstone sediment lies 2,000 feet beneath relatively poor farmland and the natural gas resides in microscopic airholes between the grains of sand.

The more than 11,000 notices cover a total property valuation of $81,865,196, for which city taxes of $1,260,725.02 are slated based on a $1.54 per hundred dollar valuation. Of this, 96 percent total tax collection has been projected, which gives a total of $1,210,295.00 expected to be received for the fiscal year in city taxes.

More Vets Widows Qualify Under Pension Law

Effective January 1, 1971, a new law contains a major revision of the definition of the term "widow" for the purposes of receiving benefits from the Veterans Administration.

Walter Tucker, of the local office of the North Carolina Department of Veterans Affairs, suggested today that women who can qualify should make their applications well before the January 1 date.

The old law pertaining to veterans' widows barred further payments from the Veterans Administration to any widow who remarried.

The new law provides that a widow who has remarried following death of the veteran, and whose second marriage is subsequently dissolved by either death or divorce, may re-apply for widow's benefits based on her first husband's service.

Tucker noted that it was impossible to identify the widows who might be eligible under the re-defined provision from the records in his office; he suggests that any widow who felt she might be entitled to benefits under the liberalized legislation visit his office in order that a formal request for reinstatement of widow's benefits could be made.

Although the law is not effective until January 1, eligible persons are urged not to wait until that date to submit their claim; as nearly all claims folders are in storage at a government records storage center and will have to be returned to the Regional Office in Winston-Salem before any action can be taken. Tucker noted that as it usually takes from one to two months to have a file returned from storage, eligible widows should initiate action without delay.

Public Law 91-376, signed by the President on August 12, 1970, provides for increases in compensation payments for service-connected disabilities, effective July 1, 1971.

In connection with this law, Tucker said the Veterans Administration was unable to adjust the payments with the September 1 check, but did plan to send an adjustment check covering July and August some time before September 15.

Tucker said this adjustment will be automatically made by the Payment Center. Checks received by disabled veterans on October 1 will reflect the increase.

The increase applies only to veterans drawing disability compensation for service-incurred disabilities. No increases were authorized by the law for veterans pension payments for non-service connected disabilities, nor in compensation or pension payments payable to widows' children or dependent parents.

A comparison of payment schedules:

Disability	Old Payment	New Payment
10 percent	$23	$25
20 percent	43	46
30 percent	65	70
40 percent	89	96
50 percent	122	135
60 percent	147	163
70 percent	174	193
80 percent	201	223
90 percent	226	250

Court To Decide Housing Query

ROBERSONVILLE — Town Commissioners in Robersonville hope soon to know what they can officially call a modular home.

For some time the commissioners have tried to reach a decision on what category this type of structure falls into — whether a permanent resident or a mobile home. The matter will soon be decided by a scheduled Superior Court hearing in Washington.

Object To Age Policy

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Harness racers Clarence Hansen, 76, and Andy Van Vanten, 69, say they've got lots of good races in them yet and are asking Superior Court to order Hollywood Park to permit them to drive during its next harness racing season.

In a suit filed Tuesday, they asked for an injunction forbidding Western Harness Racing Inc. from enforcing its policy of barring drivers over 65 from competition. The suit contends such a policy violates equal protection provisions of the U.S. Constitution.

A spokesman for Western Harness Manager Preston H. Jenuine said the new policy was formulated because "this is a strenuous business in which you have to handle a horse weighing 1,300-1,400 pounds."

"Just like when you're driving on a freeway, you have to be quick," the spokesman said. "And we feel it's very difficult for drivers over 65 to compete with the younger, more agile ones."

Hansen and Van Vanten raced during the previous Hollywood Park harness season, which ended in December 1969.

Holding Revival Through Sunday

Revival services are being conducted at St. Paul Pentecostal Holiness Church, located on the Washington Highway.

The new pastor, Rev. R.H. Bradford, is the evangelist for these services, which begin nightly at 7:45. Services will continue through Sunday.

The public is invited to attend.

Announcement of the award was made Tuesday. It will be presented at the association's annual meeting here Sept. 23.

Will Confer On Carriers

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Utilities Commission will confer Sept. 28 with Tar Heel merchants who have had trouble collecting from motor carriers for goods lost or damaged in transit.

Thompson Greenwood of Raleigh, executive vice president of the North Carolina Merchants Association, said Edward B. Hipp, Utilities Commission attorney, had requested the conference.

Hipp wrote Greenwood the conference "will be to examine the evidence available upon which to issue a formal order against the motor carriers as requested in your letter of Aug. 27."

Last month Greenwood asked the commission to cite the truckers in a formal proceeding to show cause for failure to serve the public in handling loss and damage claims.

Greenwood said unpaid claims by North Carolina merchants amount to an estimated $1 million.

Mosquitoes Need Better Controls

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — The chances are looking better for future control of mosquitoes by non-chemical methods, according to a University of California research progress report.

But the scientists say that in the meantime the mosquito problem is growing worse and better chemical controls are also needed. The report said some strains of mosquitoes are successfully resisting chemical larvicides now in use. But discovery of a bacterial mosquito-killer and other natural compounds holds promise for the future.

Conference On Smoking And Health Opens Today

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The National Conference on Smoking and Health opens today with the host city scheduled to report on a unique project designed to help people quit cigarette smoking.

Billed as the first of its kind in the world, the experiment was carried out by the San Diego County Council on Smoking and Health involving 13 county and city organizations under the chairmanship of Dr. Ralph Grawunder.

"What it has done," Grawunder said in an interview, "is simply help people to be free to choose not to smoke."

He said the federally-funded project began in 1966 and it involved more than 2,500 San Diego County families whose cigarette smoking habits were noted and checked regularly for four years.

The emphasis of the San Diego campaign, he said, has been to involve people in the program one way or another and, once involved, by helping them "to reinforce non-smoking behavior."

As an example of the type of "involvement approach" used, Grawunder said a sign reading "for your health's sake and the comfort of others — no smoking please" in a doctor's office would involve its reader.

Such signs, he added, would particularly involve a cigarette smoking person and help him or her decide to quit cigarettes.

Other tools used in the project, he said, included billboards, radio and television messages, letters to the families actively in the programs and meetings and seminars.

"The changes are very subtle," Grawunder explained, "but the social acceptability of smoking in the community changes. Many people begin behaving in a way that is nonsupporting of smoking."

He predicted that when reported in detail Friday the San Diego project will be hailed as a success and a possible model for helping with other health problems such as alcoholism, obesity, drugs and heart disease.

It is only a matter of time, he added, until cigarettes go the way of cuspidors and snuff.

"In the smoking and health campaign," Grawunder said, "we are about where our counterparts were in the anti-spitting campaigns in 1920."

More than 300 leaders in the fight against smoking are attending the conference, sponsored by the National Interagency Council on Smoking and Health, a group of 32 government and private agencies concerned with cigarette smoking as a health hazard.

More Funds For Lunches

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina school officials are hopeful an expanded federal school lunch program will solve the problem of hungry pupils.

They said Tuesday that federal aid funds for school lunches are expected to rise from $20 million to about $35 million a year next January and enable the addition of 50,000 to 75,000 children to the list of those receiving free or reduced-price lunches.

The new policy is designed to provide assistance for every child whose family earns less than the national poverty standard of $3,720 annually for four persons.

A survey last year showed that an estimated 42,000 school children in the state go hungry at lunchtime because they don't have money to buy food and are not covered by the free lunch program.

The Yalta Conference of Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin was held Feb. 4-11, 1945.

Talk Changing State Program

RALEIGH (AP) — Sweeping changes proposed in the state's mental health program were discussed Tuesday at a meeting of officials of the North Carolina Mental Health Association and the state Department of Mental Health.

A special task force set up by the state Board of Mental Health drafted the proposals which would place control of mental health programs in 41 regions of the state under regional mental health boards and directors.

The state board will consider the proposals in October before presenting them to the 1971 General Assembly.

The local directors and boards would be responsible for general mental health problems, mental disabilities, alcoholism, drugs abuse and mental health education.

Facilities of the state's psychiatric hospitals, centers for the mentally retarded and alcoholic rehabilitation centers would be available to treat patients sent in by the regional agencies. The regional authorities would determine programs for patients from their areas.

The state and counties would share costs of the program, but the task force said it was studying a plan under which a county's contribution would depend on its ability to pay.

"A complex formula could be developed which would give a financial incentive to those counties which lack the adequate resources," said Dr. William Thomas, psychological consultant for the Mental Health Department.

Spain Seeking To Salvage Its Religious Art

By HELEN GIBSON MADRID (UPI)—The religious statues once stood proudly in Spain's finest churches and cathedrals. Now they rest sadly on their broken sides, propped against one another—dozens of them.

Half-eaten by generations of woodworm, smashed and desecrated in the agonies of the 1936-39 Civil War, disfigured by layers of paint, the carved figures once seemed fit only for the junkyard.

But a Madrid's Center of Conservation and Restoration of Art, the fate of many such treasures has been changed.

Organized in 1961, the center is manned by a team of artists-restorers in numerous fields—painting, sculpture, ceramics, glassware, mosaics, murals, illuminated manuscripts, embroidered cloth.

Together they fight the blight of termites, fungi, woodworm, damp, polluted air, the destruction by one civilization or religion damp, polluted air, the destruction by one civilization or religion replacing another, and the effect of the passage of centuries.

This small band of craftsmen, however, cannot keep up with the deteriorating and decay that soundlessly grind hundreds of priceless treasures to dust every year.

The battle is a losing one. On a non-commercial basis, only five men in the country are employed in the restoration of Spain's vast heritage of wood carvings. Four of the men are brothers and all work at the center.

"We come from a long generation of sculptors and woodworkers," one of the Cruz brothers said. "I love every one of these statues we work on. Our sons, however, will probably turn to repairing cars in revolt."

Cruz held a small wooden bishop tenderly and pointed his scalpel at the carved folds of the gown.

"See this? We couldn't ebone. They were full of paint this little fellow had seven coats, each uglier than the last. Every 50 years since the 16th Century, someone thought they could go one better on the decor. But under all these dark olive and Grey layers, you can see the original gold-rose."

At the center the restorers of paintings take up most of the floor space. Hundreds of canvases lie stacked on easels, against walls and on benches.

Use Ultra-Violet Rays
In this section, ultra-violet light is used to probe paintings for earlier ones beneath.

One of the white-coated workers hunched over a large oil, as he had done for the past seven months.

"It takes me an hour to clean 10 inches," he said. "I had to remove a thick layer of brown varnish and then this entire atrocious 18th Century painting to get at the 16th Century one beneath."

The sculptures and fine art sections push the murals, mosaics and metallurgy men into one end of the hall. They work almost unnoticed.

Jeronimo Escalera specialized in mosaics for seven years before being hired by the center. A few months ago he was handed six lumps of stone bearing a crumbling, faded mosaic and told to make it into one tombstone covering, just as the artist had done 16 centuries before him.

Proud Artist
Now he stood proudly before the glowing paving as it sat firmly in its new plaster base. He was even prouder of the innovation he had incorporated.

"I put special colored plastic chips instead of marble ones into the destroyed areas. These cannot be distinguished from the original at a distance but only when one looks closely. This way museums can show mosaics as they were originally, but anyone can tell exactly where they have been restored," he said.

The salvage of carvings, paintings and mosaics forms only a small part of the process of protecting Spain's art heritage. Crumbling murals are being eased from old walls and remounted, parchments pieced together, bronze and ironware from pre-Roman days cleaned before they are eaten by inch-thick layers of rust.

Yet in countless little villages around the country, treasures of unreplicable beauty are daily disappearing into dust.

Over 700,000 Private Pilots Flying In U.S.

By NILS WESSEL
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — More Americans are flying these days than ever before—in their own airplanes and as their own pilots.

Private pilots, who now number more than 700,000, include a 65-year-old grandmother who has crossed the Atlantic, a 30-year-old secretary with a helicopter license, and a raft of 16-year-olds not yet out of high school.

"Flying attracts everyone from machinists in aircraft factories who build their own planes to the rich with their jets," says James Gilbert, senior editor of Flying magazine. Half of all pilots with private licenses earn less than $10,000 a year, said a spokesman for the Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association.

Members of the association convene annually for their Plan-tation Party—lectures in the daytime and socializing in the evening. Last year, 6,000 pilots, a third of them flying their own planes, converged on Atlantic City, N.J., for the event, named 15 years ago when the first party was held in Biloxi, Miss. This year they will gather at Holly-wood-by-the-Sea, north of Mi-ami.

Last year alone, 150,000 stu-dents signed up for flight in-struction, and private planes, ranging from antiques of the Sopwith Camel era to sleek jets, have sold at an annual rate of more than 13,000 in the past two years.

Altogether some 135,000 light planes are registered in the U.S., only a small percentage of which are used strictly for busi-ness.

Experts say that an enthu-siast with the time, money and skill can get his license in a month, while it may take a year for someone who flies for only an hour or two on weekends.

Learning to fly is an expen-sive venture. Lessons, at about $20 an hour for 40 to 60 hours of in-flight training, can cost as much as $1,200.

With small planes costing about $15 an hour to rent, the aviator who flies 100 hours a year often buys his own plane. A 1940s vintage Piper Cub, with a leisurely cruising speed of 80 miles per hour, costs about $2,000. But unlike a new small car costing the same amount, the Cub's value has increased 30 per cent over the last few years. A little more money, between $3,000 and $4,500, will buy a four-seat Cessna, that cruises at 120 miles per hour.

Marge Champion's Work Is In Watts

By GENE HANDSAKER
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Sweat runs in rivulets from strands of her brown hair. "Kick! ... Kick! ... Kick!" she com-mands, and 30 black youngsters kick along with her.

This is Marge Champion, whom Walt Disney talent scouts plucked as a child from her father's dancing school to pose as the model for Snow White.

Later she was half of the famed married dance team, Marge and Gower Champion.

Gower is now a director-cho-reographer, with such stage hits to his credit as "Bye Bye Birdie," "Carnival" and "Hello Dolly!" He directed the musical film version of "Goodbye, Mr. Chips" and is now preparing two movies, a stage show and a television special. And Marge?

Mondays and Wednesdays she makes the 45-minute drive from their handsome Hollywood Hills home—built by California Gov. Ronald Reagan when he was an actor, married to Jane Wyman—to conduct dance classes—in Watts.

A Negro youth raps eloquent time on two 3-foot-tall congo drums and Marge leads her tight-clad pupils in kicks, bends and weaving exercises. The summer days are hot, and the old building ventilation is poor.

Mrs. Champion has been doing this as an unpaid volun-tee for a year and a half—eight hours a week, plus more time at board meetings and fund-raising events. She was interested in the project by Marie Bryant, a Negro dancer friend and a coin-structor whom Marge met in 1946 when both were in the cast of Broadway's "Beggar's Hol-iday."

The scene is the Mafundi In-stitute, once a department store on East 103rd Street, called "Charcoal Alley" when Negro riots razed many buildings in 1965. Mafundi in Swahili means "artisan-craftsman."

Supported by donations, the institute's free classes include drama, modeling, music and film-making. Raymond St. Jacques teaches drama when his acting assignments permit. Raymond Burr and Don Mit-chell taught acting before going back to work on "Ironside." Marge's pupils range in age from 3 to 18. Accomplishments?

"About 40 worked as extras in two films, 'The Halls of Anger' and 'The Great White Hope,'" she said in an interview later at her home.

"Several have been used as fashion models. Large groups have been taken to concerts at the Greask Theater, UCLA and the Music Center.

"My satisfaction is in seeing these kids grow, seeing girls lose their baby fat, seeing mus-cle tone improve."

Rabies Count In Canada Is Down

OTTAWA (UPI) — There were 2,388 confirmed cases of rabid animals in Canada in the year ended March 31, compared with 2,463 cases in the previous 12 months, the Canada Depart-ment of Agriculture reports.

Among the cases were 942 rabid foxes, 239 skunks, 19 bats, 22 wolves, 13 raccoons, five groundhogs, two deer, two coyote and one porcupine. Among domestic animals there were 613 rabid cattle, 159 dogs, 124 cats, 64 sheep, 50 swine, 40 horses and one goat.

Kentucky Saving Mighty Pin Oak

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The state has decided to spare a mighty pin oak tree in North-east Kentucky although the change of road engineering plans will cost $9,000.

The tree on Ky. 10 near Vanceburg has a circumference of 16.2 feet and would have been in the middle of right-of-way for a new highway. Instead, one mile of the road will be re-de-signed to save the tree.
