

Nixon 'Suggests' Demos Sidetracked Vital Legislation

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, in a document widely viewed as his indirect entry into the 1970 election campaign, suggested today the Democratic-controlled Congress has piggybacked vital legislation for political purposes.

In a lengthy message to the Senate and House, Nixon generally was restrained in his language. But, in ticking off 59 of his proposals that await final action, he made his message clear:

"Time now slips away. The Congress is coming to a close. Its work is not done. The issues I have asked to be considered have not been considered. And yet matters press. We cannot wait for politics. We must seek a record of achievement all can share."

Investments In N.C. See Good Upturn

NAGS HEAD, N. C. (AP) — The North Carolina Board of Conservation and Development was told today that investments in new and expanded industry in the state for April, May and June totaled $142,541,000.

The Commerce and Industry Division of the Department of Conservation and Development said investments in new and expanded industry for the first six months of the year totaled $248,032,000.

"This indicates a decided upturn for the second quarter," the division said in a report to the board, "But it should be noted that the period January-March has traditionally been a little slower than the remaining quarters of the year."

ties across the state are in the process of organizing an industrial development team.

The new and expanded industries for the April-May-June period, the division said, will provide employment for 6,283 persons and a payroll totaling $31,144,000.

The division also said a file on industrial advertising indicates North Carolina is not getting the prospects it should from the state's advertising effort. It added methods to improve prospect leads will be implemented.

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the solid support of Republican and Democratic leaders of Congress, President Nixon moved today to place armed guards aboard international and some domestic flights of U.S. airlines, starting Saturday, to counter aerial piracy.

Birds Return

SCOTLAND NECK, N. C. (AP) — More than 100,000 birds have returned to Scotland Neck, which was plagued last spring by an estimated 4 to 6 million starlings, blackbirds, grackles and cowbirds.

Mayor Fred Harrison said Thursday the town is unable to cope with the problem and needs help. He predicted there will be more birds than ever before in the community; 75 miles northeast of Raleigh.

A 40-acre forest became a mecca for the birds last spring. The ground was covered with up to two inches of droppings, creating an odor for nearby residents.

Apparently, no agency is willing to help the town's bird battle. "It's not a health problem. It's a problem for the county," Dr. Martin P. Hines, director of the epidemiology division of the state Board of Health, said Thursday.

"It should be handled by the U.S. Interior Department," said Robert Hazel, assistant state commissioner of wildlife resources.

Halifax County or the state should handle it," said John Harke, state supervisor of the Wildlife Services Division of the U. S. Interior Department.

Quality Education Said Not The Goal

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The federal judge whose ruling put into effect a school desegregation plan that requires massive busing for Charlotte-Mecklenburg County pupils said the courts are not trying "to assure quality education for all children but equality of opportunity to get an education."

He noted that the U.S. Supreme Court in 1954 ruled "separate facilities are inherently unequal" and asked his audience, "What Christian can deny it?"

He praised the school board and school officials for a "magnificent job" in opening schools this week and declared, "We ought to put our attention on supporting the schools."

McMillan said busing was a "side issue" and added that laws that forbid busing to bring about integration put no restrictions upon the courts or school boards in regard to providing pupil transportation.

Hijackers Said Balking Guerrillas Argue Over Moving Their Hostages

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Moderate leaders of the Palestine guerrillas tried today to take over more than 280 hostages held at a desert airstrip in Jordan, but the hijackers holding the passengers, crewmen and three airliners balked at turning them over immediately.

The Central Committee of the Palestine Liberation Organization announced that it had decided to move the hostages to Amman for humanitarian reasons. It said they would "remain in its charge and protection" until their fate was decided.

Baghdad Radio said the Iraqi government had called for the release of the hostages on "humanitarian grounds" and was using its good offices, with the leadership of the Palestinian guerrillas, to secure the release.

The broadcast said the Iraqi government wanted to "eliminate grounds of possible military intervention by foreign countries."

Syria, the other ultraleftist Arab country, condemned the hijackings as "irresponsible and unrevolutionary acts" in an editorial in the Beirut newspaper Al-Raya, which speaks for Syria's ruling Baath Socialist party.

Andre Rochat, the International Red Cross representative who has been negotiating for release of the hostages, told newsmen all of them would be brought to the Jordanian capital.

"We will announce our position later today," said an official of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, the extremist group whose members hijacked the three jetliners earlier this week and which has frequently flouted orders from the Central Committee.

"The passengers won't be moved anywhere until the Popular Front decides to move them," said a spokesman for the group in Beirut.

He added that the Palestine Liberation Organization could not speak for the Popular Front.

Meanwhile, the Popular Front called together the 147 non-Israeli women and children it had brought to Amman earlier in the week from the hijacked planes, returned their passports and told them they could leave Amman. But many of the women's husbands are still held as hostages.

Rochat said he hoped all the passengers including Israelis would arrive in Amman later today. He said he was making preliminary arrangements for them to stay at the Intercontinental Hotel, which already was crowded with the passengers released earlier and foreign newsmen.

Earlier today the leftist Arab governments of Iraq and Syria joined the West in the campaign to secure the release of the approximately 280 airline passengers and crew members. Four Western governments and Israel meanwhile rejected the Palestinians' plans to trade the Israelis among the hostages for Arab commandos held in Israel.

The five governments demanded that the guerrillas free all the passengers and crew members.

Front said his organization would reply to the rejection of its demand "with deeds, not words." He implied action would be taken against Western property.

Guerrillas Report New Jordan Peace Accord; Amman Is Quiet Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Arab guerrillas announced a new peace agreement with the Jordanian government Thursday, and the fighting in Amman subsided.

The guerrillas said both sides had agreed "to remove the causes" of clashes that had been going on in Amman for three days. This seemed to indicate a government capitulation to the guerrillas, since it is the guerrillas who have been setting conditions under which the fighting might end.

Even this was no assurance that the agreement would last. A similar pact was announced Tuesday, but it broke down and the fighting resumed before the day was over.

Soon after Amman Radio broadcast the news of the latest agreement, the Jordanian capital gradually began to come alive again. Thousands of persons who had spent the previous 24 hours in basements to avoid the shells and bullets began to come out.

But sporadic shooting could still be heard hours afterward, and shops and bazaars remained closed. Guerrillas continued to man road blocks in various parts of the city.

At least 30 civilians were killed in the fighting Wednesday, unofficial sources in Amman said. The guerrillas say 40 commandos were killed the previous day.

Earlier Thursday the Palestinians demanded that King Hussein "purge the royal palace, the army and the government" of enemies of the commandos. Guerrilla broadcasts declared that such a purge was a prerequisite for a "genuine and durable" peace between the Jordanian army and the Palestinian fighters. They also called for dissolution of a "reactionary clique of CIA agents around the king which acts as a government within a government."

The broadcasts mentioned no names but the chief targets were Hussein's uncle, Nasser ben Jamil, and the king's cousin, Zeid ben Shaker. Hussein dismissed both from key army posts to appease the guerrillas after fighting in June in which about 1,000 persons were killed or wounded. Later he reinstated Ben Shaker as assistant army chief of staff, and the guerrillas claim Ben Jamil has returned secretly to Amman from Europe and with Ben Shaker is trying to foment an army crackdown on the guerrillas.

The bill was introduced in the 1970 legislature by Rep. Jack N. Turner, R-Wichita but was not considered. It was given to the council to study before the 1971 session.

Cleaning Woman Is Charged With Setting 3 School Fires

HICKORY, N. C. (AP) — A Lawndale Negro cleaning woman has been charged with setting three fires at a school in Hickory where she works. The town has been under curfew since Tuesday.

Fire Capt. Larson Moore said Mrs. Annie Pearl Sims, 32, of Rt. 1 Lawndale, in neighboring Cleveland County, was arrested Thursday night and charged with setting the fires at Kenworth school on three separate days this week. The fires were extinguished and there was little damage.

Mrs. Sims, a cleaning woman at Kenworth school, was released under $5,000 bond. A preliminary hearing will be Sept. 21 in District Court at Hickory.

Police reported only two curfew violation arrests Thursday night and early today. Thirty-nine were reported Tuesday night, the first night of the 9 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew, and four on Wednesday night.

There was no indication when the curfew and state of emergency proclaimed by Mayor Julian Whitener would be lifted. The curfew followed a weekend of violence sparked by a dispute over Negro membership on the cheerleader squad at Hickory High School. As a result, tonight's West Mecklenburg at Hickory football game has been postponed indefinitely.

Those High School Football Girls Learn First To Smile

EDITOR'S NOTE: The author of this piece about drill teams recently transferred from London to the Texas bureau of The Associated Press in Dallas. The halftime entertainment in England at sports events is group singing of hymns and patriotic songs. Thinly-clad, high-kicking teams were a wonder to him. He decided to find out where they come from.

By GODFREY ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer
DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The music shrilled, "Hey look me over." The girls swung and dipped, twisted and whirled. Light glittered on satin tophats, white cowboy Stetsons, pom-poms of red, white and blue.

SMILE, GIRLS, SMILE — They begin smiling at 6:30 a.m. and keep smiling until lights out at 10 p.m. They are the thousand plus girls who this summer studied at and graduated from the All American Drill Team and Pep Squad School at Southern Methodist University in Dallas. Their goal: to entertain during college football halftimes.

But this wasn't show business — it was academic business. The All American Drill Team and Pep Squad School was ending its summer camp with graduation exercises at Southern Methodist University.

More than a thousand girls from states as far from Texas as Montana and Wyoming were competing for All American ratings and glittery trophies so as to be ready for the coming football season.

You might think that all a girl needs to high-kick in a football stadium is flexible muscles and plenty of stamina. Not so. They also come here for lessons in good grooming, travel etiquette, how to stand, how to sit, how to walk, how to apply makeup and how to style their hair. And always they must smile, smile, smile.

They start the day's smiling at 6:30 a.m. when they are called from sleep, and they don't wipe that smile off their faces until 10 at night when they call it a day. Often they even use their breaks for practicing. "It's just like being a Marine," one of the faculty explained — with a smile.

"It's not easy to project yourself across a football stadium and into the top of the stands on the other side," explained Gussie Nell Davis, their chief instructor in poise and projection. "A girl's got to have a lot of poise to do that."

Miss Davis, a slight, red-haired fireball with plenty of poise and projection herself, says she doesn't have to recruit girls for the classes. They just come flocking to the smiling life. Like some of the 200 pounds-plus footballers, a few of the girls flunk out from summer training camp. It just about breaks their hearts.

Most of those that come through are outfitted in fancy cowboy costumes or in spangled Uncle Sam outfits.

These American drill teams with names like the Apache Belles, the Rangerettes or the High Steppers wore miniskirts before the mini was popular.

At halftime they put on a diverting leg show, marching and swirling across the field to the thumping of a band. An English soccer crowd in Wembley Stadium, mournfully singing "Abide with Me," never had it so good.

How do the girls stand the mid-winter cold up north? "They just turn blue," says Gussie, adding with a smile: "Beauty knows no pain."

While the girls sit in class, watching TV playbacks of what the faculty calls "uncontrolled movements," they hear stories of the pluck past graduates have shown. Like the girl who once turned up in the Dallas downtown Cotton Bowl parade with two left boots. ("It about killed her but she smiled all the way.")

Some of the girls have washed cars, helped in supermarkets or delivered newspapers to help raise the $20 fee for their week's tuition at the Pep Squad School.

For their trips to football fields around the nation, the girls usually get their costumes from their schools and their expenses from the team inviting them. What they're all striving for is a ten-second spot on national television between halves of a football game. Sometimes it happens.

When they got their awards recently, the floor of the university auditorium looked like a political convention. Girls, grouped according to their team costumes, jumped up and cheered, squealed and embraced, smiled and cried with joy as the names were announced. It was amazing they had so much lung power left after the week they had been through.

"Why do you do it," one girl was asked.

"For kicks, I suppose," she smiled.

DEAR ABBY: If you could see my home, my clothes closet and my car you would probably think me the luckiest woman in the world, but here is my problem: I am so hungry for a reassuring word and a little affection, I could just die. John doesn't kiss me "hello" or "good-by."

I know he loves me, but he doesn't show it. Our sex life is satisfactory, but it's routine and wordless.

We have a little poodle which John cuddles and plays with. When he reads the newspaper the dog snuggles in his lap while he scratches his neck and pets him. That pup gets more affection than I do. Tell me, Abby, is it normal for a wife to be jealous of a family pet?

Sometimes I get so hungry for a little sweet talk, a compliment, the feel of his arm around my waist while I'm cooking—or a chance to sit in his lap, I'd trade all the material things I have for one affectionate squeeze.

When he's asleep he wraps his long arms around me and I enjoy it so much I hate to fall asleep. He's so good and dear, and I'm so frustrated.

IGNORED

DEAR ABBY: Don't sit around waiting for your hormones to dry up. Make your husband notice you. You may have to shove the poodle out of his lap, but you can make it up to him [the dog] come "Be Kind to Animals Week." Greet him at the door with a kiss that has a future in it. Compliment him. Be aggressively affectionate and if nothing happens, well, you haven't lost anything. But I'm betting you wake him up.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a minister who stands outside the girlie shows during the week of a local fair to see how many people he knows go in? DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: He's not very bright. Some of the people might see him standing there and think he just came out.

DEAR ABBY: After 15 years of a basically sound and seemingly happy marriage, my wife has decided she would like to sleep with another man. She says she hasn't anyone particular in mind, but, of course, he must be "special."

Apparently this idea has been simmering for several years and has only just come to light recently.

My wife is a bright woman and believes in total honesty. She says she hates to grow old never experiencing anyone but me.

Now I am confused. Is this kind of honesty necessary? And if so, should I be able to accept it, laugh it off, or would you say our marriage is in serious trouble.

ANONYMOUS

DEAR ANONYMOUS: I would say your marriage is in serious trouble. Your wife wants more than "total honesty," she wants "permission." No matter how she slices it, it's still baloney.

DEAR ABBY: Our next door neighbor is a relatively pleasant person, but on two occasions recently, when he was high, he came over here and got belligerent and profane toward my wife and children.

I am entering my dotage [54] and abhor violence. However, I was boxing champ of my World War II outfit. If this neighbor acts up a third time, I may find the overpowering urge to skip over there and give him the "old one-two." Should I?

RETIRED CHAMP, BERKELEY, CAL.

DEAR CHAMP: A man of your obvious intelligence shouldn't have to resort to the old "one-two."

Tell your neighbor [when he's not high] that you resent his vulgarity toward your family, and tell your family to stay away from him. That failing—sign a complaint charging him with invasion of privacy [or worse, if possible].

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

At serving time remove any fat; add bouillon cubes and heat, stirring often; make sure cubes are dissolved; add salt and pepper. Serve with croutons. Makes about 2¼ quarts.

Agnew Says Issue Is Whether Power Ceded To Irresponsible

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer
CASPER, Wyo. (AP) — President Nixon sent Vice President Spiro T. Agnew out on the Republican campaign circuit with a word of advice: Stress the issue of disorder in the streets and campuses because Americans don't want "a bunch of radicals" using violence as a path to power.

Disclosing this at political rallies in Illinois and Wyoming Thursday, Agnew said:

"The issue is whether a free people operating under a free and representative system of government will continue to govern the United States, or whether they will cede that power to some of the people, the irresponsible people, the law-breakers on the streets and campuses and their followers, their sycophants, and the people who subscribe to their activities behind the scenes, the radical liberals."

So, denouncing "the radclibs" in a newly coined name for the faction he said has taken control of the Democratic party, Agnew heads today for San Diego to urge support for the reelection of Republican Sen. George Murphy of California.

In Casper, Agnew plugged for votes for Rep. John Wold, challenging Wyoming's Democratic Sen. Gale W. McGee; in Springfield, Ill., he did his bit for Sen. Ralph T. Smith, who faces a difficult contest against Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson III, state treasurer.

Recalling his White House sendoff Thursday, Agnew said he and the President discussed radical violence and its campaign impact, relating:

"... and the President said to me 'That's the issue. And in my judgment the people of the United States like this free system we have. They like the idea that the people who are governing this country are to be elected and not designated by a bunch of radicals in the streets or in the campuses, and that's the way they want to keep it.'"

In an address to some 3,500 people at a rally at the Casper Fairgrounds Agnew said "radical congressmen ... have begun a mad scramble to the center" because they found their views at variance with those of the voters.

He quoted Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien as criticizing "extreme and irresponsible statements" by some Democrats.

"He realizes that when it comes to weakness and permissiveness, that dove has turned into an albatross," the vice president said.

"Don't ever let this stamped toward the center fool you," he said. "This new election-time patriot is still our old dependable friend, the radical liberal; the old overnight hard-liner on crime is still the old bleeding heart, not worried about his heart, but about his seat."

"These men—these sheep in wolves' clothing—are trying to pull the fastest switcheroo in American politics," Agnew said.

"But I intend to blow the whistle on them from Maine to California—and they're not going to get away with it."

Preliminaries Are Moving Into Finale

Suzanne Dennie, an Alabama blonde who got a "C" in conduct in the first grade because she couldn't stop singing, sang her way to victory Thursday night in the second round Miss America talent competition.

The winner of the night's swimsuit competition said she can't swim.

Meanwhile, pageant officials announced the traditional questioning of the five finalists will be dropped Saturday night. Instead Bert Parks, the emcee, will talk informally with the girls. One official said the questioning usually comes out "inane."

The 20-year-old Miss Alabama sang "Alfie," a song which Hal David, one of the nine judges, composed with Burt Bacharach. Asked if she knew David would be a judge when she chose the song, she said no.

"I've been preparing it for a year and a half," the blue-eyed lass added. "I sang it in my state pageant."

The swimsuit winner was Claudia Carmen Turner, Miss South Carolina, who displayed her 35-24-35 form in an aqua blue suit.

"I can't swim a stroke," the Spartanburg, S.C., lass said backstage after her victory. "I float."

The 19-year-old brown-eyed blonde had said before the competition that she favored eliminating the swimsuit contest.

"I'd have to make an exception for tonight," she giggled when asked about her earlier remark.

The talent, swimsuit and evening gown competitions will be repeated tonight, allowing each girl to appear in all three.

The winner of the first night talent contest was Judy Adams, Miss Oklahoma. Miss Hawaii, Kathleen Puanani O'Sullivan was the first swimsuit winner.

The evening gown winners traditionally are not announced.

Assures Slip Of Tongue Noted

CASPER, Wyo. (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, here to boost Republican congressional candidates for the November election, got the name of one of them wrong.

During a speech Thursday night he referred to Harry Roberts, who is running for the House of Representatives, as "Harry Taylor."

The vice president described it as the kind of lapse that occurs at least once in every campaign and commented: "I promise you that will be the headline story tomorrow."

Army Psychiatrist Concludes No Deliberate Lying By MacDonald

By RICHARD DAW
Associated Press Writer

FT. BRAGG, N. C. (AP) — An Army hearing drew toward a close today after a psychiatrist testified Capt. Jeffrey MacDonald was not "deliberately lying" when he said mysterious intruders killed his wife and two children.

The proceedings, aimed at determining whether the 26-year-old Green Beret physician should be tried on three counts of premeditated murder, were expected to end about midday.

There was no indication when the hearing officer, Col. Warren V. Rock, would issue his recommendation.

The testimony about an Army psychiatric examination of MacDonald came Thursday from Lt. Col. Bruce Bailey, chief of psychiatric services at Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington, D. C.

Details of his testimony were relayed to newsmen by MacDonald's civilian attorney, Bernard L. Segal, the sole source of information since the Army decided to close the hearing shortly after it began last May.

The Army continued its policy of refusing to comment on the reports by MacDonald's attorneys.

Segal said Rock asked Bailey whether there was evidence that the captain "was trying to hide the facts from you."

Segal said Bailey replied: "I have no impression of deliberate distortion or contriving of events. If there had been, I would have confronted him with it. I entertained the possibility that Capt. MacDonald might be lying about the facts but I did not conclude that there was any evidence he deliberately lied."

Bailey testified he and two other Army psychiatrists examined MacDonald several times during a two-week period and found he was "free from mental disorder, defect or derangement," Segal said.

Rock ordered the Army examination after a civilian psychiatrist, Dr. Robert L. Sadoff of Philadelphia, Pa., testified for the defense that MacDonald was incapable of having killed his family.

Segal said Bailey disputed Sadoff's testimony by contending that a psychiatrist could not reach such a conclusion.

Bailey also testified, Segal said, that while he found no evidence that MacDonald was lying about events of the slayings, there is no infallible way of determining whether he was telling the truth.

MacDonald told investigators at the time of the bizarre slayings in his Ft. Bragg home Feb. 17 that they were the work of mysterious intruders.

Military police who responded to MacDonald's telephoned plea for help found him suffering from several stab wounds and his wife and children dead. Mrs. Colette MacDonald, 26, and Kimberly MacDonald, 6, had been repeatedly stabbed and bludgeoned. Kristen MacDonald, 2, had been repeatedly stabbed. The house was in disarray and the word "pig" had been scrawled in blood on the headboard of the MacDonald's bed.

MacDonald said he was sleeping on the living room couch and was attacked there by three men accompanied by a blonde girl in

No Comment On N.Y. Job Offer

NEW YORK (AP) — City Hall sources say Mayor John V. Lindsay has offered the job of New York City police commissioner to Patrick V. Murphy, who now holds a similar post in Detroit.

Lindsay said "no comment" Thursday when asked at a news conference whether he had picked a successor to Commissioner Howard R. Leary, who quit last weekend.

Murphy, who was in New York Thursday, told newsmen: "I haven't accepted any job as police commissioner of New York City. There's not much point in speculating."

The senator said he would like to hear more scientific evidence about the danger of marijuana but believes present penalties are too stiff for users and too light for peddlers.

Wartime Security Measures?

There is no doubt that the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, like any other fanatical group, could care less about the innocent lives it endangers; however someday these people should be called upon to account for their misdeeds.

The recent series of hijackings has caused considerable agony for several world powers, including the United States, and so far the affected nations have acted responsibly in not sending in troops to retrieve their captured planes.

In years past nations have gone to war to protect their ships from pirates of another land. Of course in the days of old, pirates grabbed off seagoing vessels for the wealth they could obtain. These modern day air pirates hijack airships mainly for the innocent people on them so that they can be used as hostages for whatever purposes the pirates choose.

In this series of hijackings hundreds of lives have been endangered, the elderly, the young and those not in good health. They have been people with no involvement whatsoever in the Middle Eastern problems.

Now we must enter an era when every plane will have to be guarded and passengers carefully searched if we cope with the fanatics who so wantonly endanger the safety of innocent people.

The world should hold accountable the countries who harbor these types, and international sanctions should be invoked against these countries. All commercial flights should be halted to any nation harboring hijackers.

Wartime security measures will pose a burden on the public traveling by air, but for their safety this is the sort of thing that will be necessary.

Martin County Taking Major Forward Step

Martin County commissioners have taken a forward step in approving its first County Recreation Commission to be composed of ten members.

The action was taken at the county commissioners September meeting.

Rural residents have been left pretty much on their own so far as organized recreational programs are concerned, while their urban cousins have long had the advantages of planned recreation programs through established commissions.

There is no reason why a similar service should not be developed for rural and small town residents where organized recreation does not now exist.

Lowenstein's Race Is A Test

By ROWLANE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

FREEPORT, N. Y. — When Rep. Allard K. Lowenstein arrived to address the Massapequa chapter of the Cancer Society last week, he confronted an unpleasant scene that embodies his major bedevilment in seeking reelection to Congress from this suburban Long Island district.

Some 20 pickets blocked Lowenstein's car. Shouting "Commie" and "traitor" at him, they carried signs urging him to "go back to Hanoi." There was no violence, but Lowenstein's aides were sufficiently alarmed to summon two officers from the Nassau County police department.

Having survived that excursion into hostile territory, Lowenstein expected a more cordial atmosphere in his next stop — a coffee session in a heavily Democratic, heavily Jewish area. But as Lowenstein walked in the front door, a Democratic worker in the kitchen was insisting that the Congressman inspires alleged black militant plots to dynamite synagogues.

Such exchanges mean that Lowenstein, principal architect of the 1968 dump-LBJ movement, is confronting head-on the paranoid politics of 1970. If Lowenstein is indeed perceived by his constituency — white, Catholic, middle-class — as a New Left revolutionary, his Congressional career will end after just two years.

The defeat of Lowenstein Nov. 3 would be important in itself by removing from office one of the Democratic party's few dynamic new figures. But beyond personalities, this increasingly bitter campaign is a test of the ability of a liberal to survive in a middle-class constituency.

Actually, any Democrat other than Al Lowenstein would have had little chance in this new district, surgically carved out in Albany to insure a Republican Congressman. Although the 20,000 edge in registered Republicans is not greater than it was in the district where Lowenstein won two years ago, he is the victim of ethnic gerrymandering. Liberal Jewish Democrats in the Five Towns area have been replaced by conservative Italian Democrats in Massapequa.

Moreover, Lowenstein this time does not enjoy his 1968 luxury of facing a bumbling right-wing ideologue. His 1970 foe, state Sen. Norman Lent (at 39, two years Lowenstein's junior), is a moderate conservative, well respected in Albany as both a legislator and political tactician.

The reason why Lowenstein has any chance at all is that, by providing good service to his constituents over the past two years, he has won over some suspicious Long Islanders. "I still don't agree with him," one businessman told us, "but I think he's worked hard enough for the district to deserve another term."

To overcome this mellowed image, Lowenstein's foes must paint him as a left-wing troublemaker. Apart from noisy picket lines and planted rumors about dynamiting synagogues, unsigned literature warning of "invading hordes of leftist students attempting to shove a so-called 'peace' candidate down your throats" is being distributed.

Lent disclaims responsibility for such broadsides. But his own organization is sending out fund-raising letters denouncing Lowenstein as "the darling of the New Left" and "probably the single most polarizing force in Congress."

In truth, Lowenstein's great value on the political scene is his ability to defuse violence-prone students and

Strength For Today

TRY IT Sometimes in our dreamier moments we regale ourselves with the pleasant thought that it would be wonderful if we didn't have to work so hard. Some advocate a three-or four-day week and a six-hour day. How wonderful it would be to stretch out and take our ease, leaving the heavy tasks for others.

If this "wonderful change" took place, our country would probably not be turned into hell immediately but it would be eventually. The simplest rule for happy living is to do the best we can every day whether that involves great effort or little. There are some people who appear to work altogether with their minds. A wealthy manufacturer used to boast that he spent practically all his time figuring out ways that he could increase his profits by persuading certain firms to reduce the prices of raw materials. Thomas Edison as a child gave no indication whatsoever of greatness, but his capacity to do little things in a big way causes him to be regarded as probably the greatest inventor of all time. Mere rhytmsters have sometimes kept at their rhyming until they produced real poems. A woman whose first and only novel sold a million copies wrote a little bit on scraps of paper over the years. Some artists daub at their canvases for twenty years and then some day produce a picture that calls forth the acclamation of the world.

Divorce Insurance Plan

MARTHA'S VINEYARD, Mass. — The British are now considering a plan to provide women with divorce insurance. The idea is that since marriage is getting more hazardous all the time, women should be protected in case their husbands can't support them and the children after the marriage is dissolved.

Other Editors Say Save The 'Brains'

(Jacksonville Daily News)

Chagrin of the space-science community at the latest cutbacks in funds and programs is understandable enough.

The elimination of two more moon landings — down three now, not counting unsuccessful Apollo 13, from the original 10-mission schedule — will mean a savings of some $42 million, but also a rejuggling of lunar exploration priorities and the inevitable canceling of some treasured experiments.

But there are still four landings on the schedule through mid-1972, plus Skylab, the prototype space station in permanent orbit. And even after the congressional cuts, the space budget is still $3.2 billion for the current fiscal year, scarcely a starvation diet when a mounting federal deficit is going no one knows how high.

But there is more than projects and hardware to the space story. Viewed in human terms, the situation should be very disturbing indeed, and not only to the spacemen.

NASA chief Dr. Thomas O. Paine says the cuts mean 700 of his own people will have to go plus some 2,300 employees of the agency's civilian contractors.

No one, apparently, is immune from the ax. At least seven, and possibly more, of the German rocket experts brought to the United States a quarter of a century ago — the famed Wernher von Braun team, the naturalized founding fathers of the American space effort, so to speak — are among those being let out.

In a generally ailing aerospace industry — mid-summer employment down more than a quarter of a million from the 1968 high of 1,418,000 — the purely space segment stands out as a disaster area.

With NASA now down to about 30,000 and its civilian associates dropping to 142,000, according to Paine's estimate, total space employment has been cut in half. At Cape Kennedy, two out of every five jobs are gone. All in a short three years.

One wonders what the reaction would be if a slump of similar scale hit a major industry such as auto or steel. It is difficult to imagine government or public showing so little urgency.

We have been brilliantly successful in placing men on the moon. We must be able to do better than this in utilizing the brain and muscle power that got them there.

Pride Goes 'Boom'

By JEFFREY D. ALDERMAN

Associated Press Writer NEW YORK (AP) — James Joseph O'Connell was about to embark on a leisurely trip across the United States and figured he ought to have a camera.

But because his trip was going to be extremely low budget (with knapsack and two changes of underwear and in a '53 Ford), he didn't want to tie up much of his capital in photographic gear.

"Don't go to a camera store," cautioned a friend. "They'll charge you an arm and a leg. ... Try a drug store or something like that."

James Joseph thought that was good advice and started out for downtown and a drugstore where a friend of his ran the soda fountain.

Walking along a back street in Denver, he glanced in a pawn shop window.

"Wow," he thought. "A pawn shop. They're always loaded with cameras. Ought to get a real bargain in there."

The shop was dingy, dimly lit and filled with tables cluttered with merchandise—one with old umbrellas, another with radios, another with clocks. But there, in the corner, was the table James Joseph was after; it was overflowing with cameras of all shapes and sizes.

He came upon a small, simple camera—the aim and snap kind—just what he wanted. The tag read: "$45-$25."

"Excuse me, sir," he asked the shop owner. "What does this tag mean?"

The owner replied: "Means you'd buy it in a store for $45, but we're offering it for $25."

James Joseph did some quick figuring in his head to see how much he would be saving and muttered: "Hmmm, 20 bucks."

"Twenty-three and not a penny less," the owner said immediately. James Joseph was confused for a second, but suddenly realized the man thought he was trying to bargain with him. O'Connell didn't know you could do that in a pawn shop.

"If I could knock the price down two bucks here without knowing what I am doing," O'Connell thought. "In another shop I could really score."

He thanked the man and headed for another shop. After considerable bargaining he got one for $16.

O'Connell headed for the drugstore to buy some film and brag about his bargaining abilities to his friend.

"Hey, Harry, look what I just got for a steal at a pawn shop," he told his friend. "Got some film for it? I want to try it out."

Harry got the film and then asked: "How much you pay for that thing, anyhow?"

"Sixteen bucks," James Joseph said proudly. "Talked him down from $20."

Harry pointed to a camera display at the end of the fountain counter. There was the same camera, brand-new. Price: $8.95, with a leather case and flash attachment included.

Unrest Not Due 'Congestion'

By ELMER ROESSNER A professor who shall be nameless here (I have mislaid the citation) declared that the violence in the world is due to the population explosion.

ELMER ROESSNER

This is a curious conclusion.

One of the first countries to be troubled by violence was France, where students seized universities, fought with police and raised l'enfer. Yet the government's estimate of the population in 1953 was 42,700,000 and in 1968 was 49,800,000.

That's hardly an explosion; more like un son faible. Trouble can hardly be food, either. The United States has been exporting billions of dollars worth of food since World War II and comparatively little has been called for by the nations that, like the U.S., have been torn by rioting.

On top of this, the U. S. has spent billions to pay farmers not to grow things. Canada's Operation Lift has cut wheat acreage from the 1969 total of 24.4 million acres to 12.0 million acres in mid-July this year.

Surge To Cities The professor blamed congestion. It is true that America's farms are being deserted as millions move into the cities, where TV reception is better. The farm population was 32 million in 1920 and 10.5 million in 1968. This year's census may show a further drop, according to indications so far.

Despite the rush of minorities to cities where living conditions including welfare benefits, are better than in Southern states, Puerto Rico, the Caribbean and Mexico, the final census figures will probably show moderate if any urban growths. Preliminary estimates indicate New York will have a decline of 10,000 people since 1960.

The biggest growth is in suburban areas. Somewhat like the professor's lemmings, the people flee crowds. Woodstock was only a passing phenomenon. City dwellers — leave the congestion, the garbage, the poisonous air and other discomforts of urban life and move to the pleasanter ecology of the suburbs where, incidentally, many of them have space to grow a few carrots or eggplants in case there should ever be a food shortage.

There must be other reasons for trouble in North Ireland (with a stable population), Bolivia and Chile (with no great urbanization), Japan, the Caribbean, England, Holland and Italy.

Perhaps an international communist plot. Perhaps sunspots.

Cigarettes Cheaper Than They Were In 1939 Since the relationship between cigarettes and cancer, heart and other diseases has been publicized so heavily, the federal government, states and localities have laid over larger taxes on them. The public, including smokers, has gone along with the taxes, hoping higher taxes will cut smoking and thereby save lungs and lives.

But cigarettes today are cheaper than they were in 1939.

In that year, the typical pack of 20 cigarettes cost 20 cents. Today, a 20-pack, with added length, filter and instructions of what to do until the doctor comes, costs around 52 cents. That's the price in New York state, where there is a 10-cent tax; the price varies from state to state and city to city, depending on the levies.

According to Labor Department figures, today's dollar is worth only 35.7 per cent of the 1939 dollar. Thus a pack of cigarettes costing 52 cents today costs only 18.7 cents in terms of 1939 dollars.

"Forever? Are you so certain?"

"Of course I'm certain. We're madly in love, hopelessly, enduringly, unforgettably."

"Miss Philpott, for your sake I truly and sincerely hope that everything you say is true. But our statistics, kept up to date by our own computers, show that your marriage has one chance in three of being dissolved in the next seven years."

"Not my marriage, Mr. Bienstock. Not with a wonderful man like Seymour."

"But you're only seeing the good side of Seymour now. Wait until you're married. Miss Philpott, in every Seymour Rocks, there's a Joe Namath screaming to get out: a Seymour who will spend his evenings with the boys, a Seymour who will sit every weekend watching football on television, a Seymour longing and yearning for his carefree bachelor days. This divorce insurance policy was written for that Seymour, not the one who put a diamond ring on your finger."

Miss Philpott is almost in tears.

"Seymour is forever," she cries.

"That's what Liz Taylor said about Eddie Fisher, Miss Philpott, that's what Zsa Zsa Gabor said about Conrad Hilton, and that's what Jean Peters said about Howard Hughes."

"But how can I buy divorce insurance before I'm even married?" Miss Philpott asks.

"That is what your Niagara Falls Casualty agent is here for. To help you plan ahead. Now, we have some very good all-inclusive policies, including one in case you break up in a foreign country."

"How much divorce insurance should I get?" Miss Philpott asks, sobbing.

"Well, from what you've told me about Seymour being such a swinger and scoundrel, I'd advise you to take the maximum."

channel them toward conventional politics — a fact he repeatedly hammers home to audiences. Otherwise, however, Lowenstein gives his suburban constituents a rich diet of liberal doctrine. In a recent speech to the Freeport chamber of commerce, Lowenstein attacked farm price supports, defense spending, the supersonic transport plane, and the Congressional seniority system. The businessman audience's enthusiasm was well contained.

Although some Lowenstein supporters have advised him that the Vietnam war has lost emotional appeal, he continues to import battalions of students from throughout the country.

That makes the test clear - cut. Lowenstein is trying to avoid the deadly left-wing extremist label without going underground on either the war or the even more volatile student question. His degree of success may well set the pattern for how liberal Democratic candidates in the suburbs can now afford to be.

Mystery 'Contribution' Source

By JAMES R. POLK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A mysterious fund-raising group set up 2,450 miles away in California gave $3,500 in campaign contributions for a Baltimore congressman who heads the House committee on ship subsidies.

No trace of the special campaign group could be found at the address given for it in downtown San Francisco.

The contributions were given to a campaign committee for Rep. Edward A. Garmatz, D-Md., chairman of the House Merchant Marine Committee.

Indians Turn To District Court Appeal

PEMBROKE, N. C. (AP) — Lumbee Indians fighting a desegregation plan have turned from a sit-in at Indian schools to U. S. District Court at Fayetteville.

A group of the Indians, whose children had been attending formerly Indian schools in defiance of a new desegregation plan, filed suit Thursday asking the court to block execution of the plan and to order a new set of attendance lines.

Robeson County School Supt. Young H. Allen said few Indian children showed up at schools to which they were not assigned Thursday. Their parents had posed questions about district boundaries, Allen said.

About 400 Lumbees agreed at a meeting Wednesday night to stop sending their children to the formerly Indian schools and to seek relief in the courts instead. About $2,200 was raised to back the court fight.

Some 500 Indian children had been showing up in schools where they were not assigned since schools opened last week. They were allowed to remain but not to register. The county school board ordered an end to the sit-in Wednesday, making it clear the children would no longer be admitted to the schools.

The protesting Lumbees contend the plan will result in a loss of their Indian schools and the heritage the schools fostered.

Many Indians have attended Robeson County schools even when their parents lived within one of the five city school districts that dot the county. But under the new plan, the boundaries became rigid, and the Lumbees were no longer allowed to send their children to the Indian schools in the western part of the county.

The plan is designed to encourage racial integration between the whites, Negroes and the Lumbees.

Sees No Food Shortage If Corn Blight Spreads

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A high-level Agriculture Department official has predicted no nationwide food shortage will result from the widespread corn blight.

"The idea is fantastic," the official said. "There is no chance of a food shortage in this country because of the blight."

The official made the statement Thursday. The Agriculture Department will release late today its closely guarded monthly report on crop production which is expected to shed the most definitive light on the 1970 corn situation.

The corn crop has been damaged severely by dry weather in key growing areas. But it is a fungus disease called Southern leaf blight that has sent grain markets into a frenzy and fanned rumors the nation may face a food shortage.

No one knows for sure how much damage has been done to the nation's most important crop, worth $5 billion a year simply as grain. But today's report should help.

The monthly crop report is one of the most carefully guarded secrets routinely distributed in Washington. It is prepared behind locked doors and then delivered under armed escort to a room where at a given signal it is released to the news media.

The security measures are taken to prevent leaks which might affect markets or give an advantage to speculators.

No farm commodity approaches corn for its impact on the life style demanded by today's Americans. It sets the pace for all feed grains used in producing livestock, poultry and dairy products.

Should this year's crop be devastated by the blight as much as first suggested by scientists and grainmen meeting in Athens, Ga., on Aug. 14—some thought up to half the crop might be lost—the country could be in serious trouble.

But more recent estimates by private traders and others point to a blight damage of less than 10 per cent nationally.

Dry weather has reduced expected yields considerably already. In July the department expected a record large crop of more than 4.8 billion bushels.

Last month, before the blight reports gained national attention, the estimate was reduced to less than 4.7 billion.

Recent private estimates have been in the range of 4.2 billion to 4.4 billion bushels.

Despite the attention focused on today's report, experts say the truest picture of blight damage and drought effects will not be known until the fall corn harvest is in full swing throughout the midwestern corn belt.

It is there that the blight has caused the most apprehension.

OVER ESTIMATE
FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Despite an economic slump elsewhere in the nation, this state reports it collected $557 million for its general fund last fiscal year—$1.5 million above the estimate made 18 months ago.

'Abbie' Protests Customs Ordeal

TORONTO (AP) — Abbott "Abbie" Hoffman, 33-year-old leader of the Youth International party, claims he was stripped and struck by customs officials during a two-hour detention at International Airport.

Hoffman, one of the Chicago 7 riot trial defendants, was on his way to make a speech at Edmonton University. He said the customs men manhandled him Thursday and seized a film about the trial and a number of Yippie posters.

G.E. Watts, a customs official, said Hoffman's detention was for "reasons of his own making" and that some of his possessions were confiscated because he had not declared them.

The mystery committee did not file reports in either Maryland, California, or Congress. Various loopholes in reporting laws exempted it in each case.

The donors to the committee remain unidentified.

The office building at 311 California St. in San Francisco's banking district includes a number of firms associated with shipping. But all of these denied any knowledge of a campaign committee set up for a Baltimore congressman.

The 1966 report of the campaign treasurer for Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Calif., who is the top-ranking Republican on Garmatz' House committee, also listed a contribution from a "Maritime Good Government Club" at 311 California St.

It could not be located at that address, either. No amount was given for the Mailliard donation.

Mailliard, from San Francisco, was also on the list of 16 congressmen and senators named in Justice Department files as benefitting from illegal contributions of the two shipping firms, American President Lines and Pacific Far East Lines.

These contributions, made through a special bank account set up in the name of a public

Private School Question Seen

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott feels state government one day will probably be faced with whether to extend aid to private secondary schools.

Some future North Carolina governor is going to have to concern himself with this issue, Scott told a news conference Thursday.

"But I don't think the state ought to get involved in it at this point," he said.

His comments came in reply to questions about the prospect of state aid to students at public and private colleges.

Scott told newsmen the state should make college education available "for all students who desire it and can benefit from it."

Future legislatures, he added, will also have to face the need, for some kind of state aid to private colleges and universities.

Scott said the state would probably want to require some type of academic accreditation of private schools if it gave them public funds.

But the governor did not give a direct answer when asked whether the state should require some type of antidiscrimination policy at the schools if aid was extended to them.

In reply to another question, Scott said he could not tell whether he would support a resolution criticizing school desegregation if one were presented at the Southern Governors' Conference.

He said he would have to see if the resolution was "meaningful and pertinent."

Later Thursday at a meeting of the state's Good Neighbor Council, Scott said citizens should "work together on common problems" during the opening of schools under desegregation plans.

"I call for calm and restraint. This is something essential and paramount."

"I ask the people of the state ... to exert all efforts to give leadership to this transition, consider other people's points of view and work together on common problems," Scott said.

He expressed the belief that "the worst of our problems in this state are about over."

"During the past 16 years there have been far too many curfews," the governor said in reference to the period since the 1954 Supreme Court school desegregation decision.

"There have been too many instances," he said, "of calling out the National Guard and relying on stepped-up law enforcement to deal with difficulties on the campuses and in the schools."

Scott commended the council and local human relations groups for their work in dealing with school integration problems.

Cites Progress In Curbing Pollution

RALEIGH (AP) — A Winston-Salem official says that in the past two months his city has reduced its pollution of the Yadkin River by 38 per cent. Several fish kills occurred on the river this summer.

Norman Budding, environmental assistant to the mayor of Winston-Salem, said Thursday the city has reduced the overload on its present sewage treatment facilities from 157 per cent to 32 per cent.

Budding cited the figures before the Water and Air Quality Control Committee of the state Board of Water and Air Resources.

Earlier this summer, the Department of Water and Air Resources blamed Winston-Salem's inadequate sewage treatment facilities for killing thousands of fish in the Yadkin.

The department ordered the city to take interim measures to reduce the pollution until the city's expansion of sewage treatment facilities is completed.

Budding told the committee the expanded facilities will double the treatment plant's capacity from 18 million gallons to 36 million gallons a day and will treat the waste at 95 per cent efficiency. The expanded facilities are expected to be completed in two years.

Budding reiterated Winston-Salem's contention that it is not the sole source of pollution on the river.

"If an elevator fell in an old building and passengers were injured, no fair-minded citizen would prosecute the biggest passenger," he said. "I think Winston-Salem is the biggest passenger in the Yadkin elevator."

The committee voted to accept the city's report and study the matter before making any recommendations to the full board.

Meanwhile, the full board met prior to the committee session and voted to:

—Grant Charlotte $1,485,000 for expansion of its waste treatment facilities on two creeks.

—Grant Buncombe County $363,000 for the enlargement of its waste treatment plant.

—Approve a budget request hike to add 32 people to the water and air resources staff in 1972 at a cost of $340,913; and another 52 people in 1973 at a cost of $660,591.

—Authorize Raeford and Selma to issue bonds for sewage works improvements in excess of the 8 per cent statutory limitation.

Trans-Atlantic Job-Swap Thrills Two Secretaries

By GODFREY ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer
DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Martha, secretary to Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., is back at her old job after nearly seven weeks in London as Mrs. Smith, secretary to Peter Emery, a Conservative Member of Parliament.

"They're so formal over there in England," she said. "They kept calling me Mrs. Smith. I'd look round to see who they meant. Over here I'm always Martha."

Martha Smith, who runs the senator's office here in Dallas, went to London to take the place of Emery's secretary, Elizabeth Monnington, who worked in Tower's office at Washington during the exchange period. She found quite a few things were different.

"Englishmen were much more efficient than I'd expected," she said. "They're very articulate and they're very polite. But there is a language barrier. You ring someone on the telephone instead of calling them—that kind of thing."

Martha found office conditions different, too.

In Dallas she drives her car to a downtown parking lot near the senator's 18th floor office in the federal building. She is one of a staff of 36-35 in senator's Washington office, seven in Austin, the state capitol, and four in Dallas.

In London the brown-eyed, reddish blonde Martha commuted by subway—underground to the English—from Miss Monnington's Paddington apartment to her English boss's office at the Institute of Purchasing and Supply in York House, across the Thames from the Houses of Parliament. Emery, besides being a legislator, is a director of the institute, from where he conducted political correspondence.

Emery's staff? Elizabeth

Monnington, as personal aide, and Helen Frederick as her stand-in. And that's all.

Martha Smith found his legislative district correspondingly small, however. While the senator shares with Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., representation of some 11 million Texans, Emery only represents 72,000 in the South Devon tourist area of Honiton.

"The senator gets about 12,000 letters a month and they all have to be answered," she said. "Mr. Emery got less than a hundred a week, I should think. He sees every letter that comes in himself and has time to run a business, too. So the work load on his staff is very different."

Martha was in England just at the time of the last general election which brought the Conservatives back to power in June.

"That made the work more manageable," she said. "You work yourself to death for a month in an English election but then, at least, it's all over. It doesn't go on and on like it does over here."

The idea Tower and Emery, friends since 1961, should swap secretaries came up when the Texan was in London after a NATO conference last February.

Martha enjoyed working in England but she has a few reservations about taking any permanent assignment there.

"First, I wouldn't want to live on an English secretary's salary," she said. "That would be quite an adjustment. Although many things cost less over there, the difference is not enough to make up the difference between what an American and an English working girl can make."

"And then, those tiny refrigerators! Here I do my marketing every two weeks; over there I had to buy my supper every evening. And the stores close so early—5:30, just imagine."

friend, Sen. John Tower, R-Tex.

"The life of a senator is so completely different from that of a Member of the House of Commons," 29-year-old Elizabeth said in an interview back at Emery's office across the Thames River from Parliament.

"There is much more of a community in the Senate—baseball games and this sort of thing. Capitol Hill in Washington is a world of its own, a self-sufficient community."

One striking difference the tall, coolly poised English girl noted was the leisurely reaction of senators to calls for votes on legislation.

"In contrast," she said, "over here we have a thing called the Division Bell. Here it is." She pointed to a black box behind Emery's desk, under an eight-floor window.

"When that rings it makes a terrifying noise. It means Mr. Emery has six minutes to get across the bridge and into the House of Commons to vote."

"It's quite frantic. I sometimes drive him the half-mile or so, and he jumps out of the car and runs into Parliament."

Another difference she noted was the freedom of senators from the same party to vote differently on issues.

Elizabeth, a brunette who lives by herself in a London flat, said she also had to get adjusted to different working hours in Washington.

Whereas MPs in London meet in the afternoon and late evening, "the Senate meets from about 10:30 a.m. to 4 or 5, usually. If it meets as late as 10 p.m., everyone says how late it is." She laughed and added: "Here, late means going all night and up to breakfast."

Elizabeth noted that American politicians, avoiding the possibility of conflict of interest charges, do not hold outside jobs, but British politicians often do. For instance, Emery is a director of Phillips Petroleum Co.

After four weeks in Washington, Elizabeth accompanied Tower to Texas for work in his offices there.

"The highlight for me, I think, was in Livingston, north of Houston, where the senator was made an honorary member of an Indian tribe," she said. "It's something that's hard to believe over here."

Would she like to swap jobs with Tower's secretary again? "Very much," she said. "The people were so hospitable and kind."

VOA TALK . . . Thomas Collins, James Alley, Harwene Tyee and John Moss, all part of the world-wide Voice of America personnel group, talk about the Liberian operations. Collins and Tyee are Liberian citizens.

Two VOA Technicians From Liberia Are Here

Two young Liberian Voice of America technicians, Harwene Tyee and Thomas Collins, both of the capital city of Monrovia, yesterday had a chance to see something of Greenville.

The two, both young bachelors, were accompanied on this leg of their American trip by John Moss of Washington, D.C. Moss is Assistant Area Officer for the European Area, which he commented, "includes Africa as well as Europe."

Tyee and Collins are the first of several world-wide VOA technicians who will be taking special training in the U.S. at the Teletype Corporation in Chicago. Tyee is a teletype technician in charge of operations and maintenance at Brewerville, five miles from Monrovia. Collins, a transmitter technician, is assigned to the transmitter site at Careysburg, 24 miles outside the capital.

"Their set-up is similar to ours in Greenville," James Alley, director of the Greenville VOA facilities, said. "The only difference is the Liberian complex does not have a receiving site."

For Collins this is his first American trip. Tyee visited America once before, and was trying to recall having been to Greenville before. "My friend from Hartsville took me there," he commented. It was pointed out to Tyee that he must have visited Greenville, South Carolina.

At the Chicago school, both men learned new procedures and methods in operations and maintenance of the Model 28 teletypewriter, a newer model teletypewriter.

English is the common language for the majority of Liberians. "In VOA operations in Liberia, many of the programs are in English," Tyee said. "We also handle programs in French, various European languages, and in African languages, such as Swahili and Urdu."

The VOA site in Liberia is a major transmitter site for programs picked up from the U.S. and retransmitted to other countries.

Collins mentioned that within Liberia, dialects are numerous and citizens of one section do not always understand the language of other sections of the country. "That is why English is our common denominator," he commented.

Tyee is a native of Buttae, in the Webbo District, about 400 miles from Monrovia. "My tribal dialect is Grebo," he said, "and I still speak it when I visit my home there."

Gollins comes from the Kepelleho tribe. Both men explained that 28 tribes are officially recognized in Liberia.

Grant Benefits Pre-Schoolers

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Department of Health, Education and Welfare grant will provide preschool training for about 400 poor children in Yadkin County.

Rep. Wilmer Mizell, R-N. C., said Thursday the grant totals $207,262. It will be administered under the HEW Head Start Program through the Yadkin Valley Economic Development District at Booneville.

The eight-month program will care for children on a half-day basis, Mizell said.

Lake Superior is the largest fresh water lake in the world.

Will Rule By Sept. 21

GREENSBORO (AP) — The state Board of Elections says it will rule by Sept. 21 on whether Gene Leggett of New Bern may run for Congress from the 1st District as an American party candidate.

The board heard testimony Thursday night from the state chairman of the American party, Walter Green of Burlington who contended Green violated state law when he filed for the office. Green said Leggett is a Wake County resident who filed to run in Craven County.

And Green said a Superior Court judge has ruled that Leggett is not a bona fide party member.

Leggett has been certified as the candidate by the Craven elections board. His position was defended by William DeLoatch of New Bern, who accused Green of trying to intimidate Leggett.

DeLoatch said such intimidation is a violation of state law.

Two PTAs Plan Merge

An agreement was reached last night to merge the PTAs of Sadie Sautler and Agnes Fullilove Schools. This agreement included an approval to consolidate funds of the former Agnes Fullilove Elementary School with those of Sadie Sautler in order to extend the current Sadie Sautler program.

A decision was also reached to have PTA officers previously elected to serve the Agnes Fullilove School serve at Sadie Sautler. It was pointed out that officers elected to serve Sadie Sautler at earlier elections are people who now zoned into a school other than Sadie Sautler.

The first level class of Mrs. Nannie B. Hyman received the PTA banner for having most parents in attendance.

Burned By 7,200 Volts

A Greenville Utilities Commission employee was back at work this afternoon after coming in contact with 7,200 volts of electricity about 10 a.m. today.

Charles Horne, GUC director said Billy Braxton of 1017B Chestnut St. was "burned slightly in two places" when a boom of a line truck hit a primary wire while workmen were installing a service off the Washington Highway near Simpson.

Braxton was standing on the ground, Horne explained, working on a cable that was lying across the truck. When the truck boom struck the 7,200 volt primary line, this "energized the truck" and the cable on which Braxton was working.

Horne said the mishap knocked out a circuit breaker and caused a power failure on the circuit going out the Washington Highway for a short period until the breaker could be replaced.

Brief Visits By Parents

For the third day, a number of parents are paying brief visits to Rose High School. These visits, prompted by a Tuesday night invitation extended by the PTA Sounding Committee, has resulted in several parents coming by the school each day since Wednesday.

"We are most appreciative of the interest the parents have shown, and their willingness to do their part to help create a good atmosphere," Robert Alligood, principal of Rose High said.

"I personally feel that with the determination being shown by the majority of student to make this a good school year, and with the concerned interest being shown by parents and the community in general, that everything is going to work out all right."

No new incidents have been reported at Rose High since the Tuesday ones which involved several male students in fights in the school.

Stiff Sentence For Desertion

CAMP LEJEUNE, N. C. (AP) — A court-martial board has sentenced a young Marine to a year at hard labor and a dishonorable discharge following his guilty plea to desertion charges.

Pfc. Raymond Sansiviero, 21, of Huntington, N. Y., spent 18 months in Sweden after fleeing Vietnam by ship and traveling to Stockholm via the Soviet Union. He decided to return to the United States after attending school for 18 months, a Marine spokesman said.

The board of field-grade officers also reduced him in rank and ordered him to forfeit all his military pay in the sentencing Wednesday. The maximum sentence would have been two years at hard labor.

Claim Process Solves Problem

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Dravo Corp. says it has developed a process to remove 80 per cent of the phosphates and 90 per cent of the nitrates from domestic sewage.

The company said it had completed six months of tests at its Indian Lake sewage treatment plant near here and was applying for patents on the deep-bed filters used in the process.

Phosphates, found in many household detergents, and nitrates can create excessive growth of algae which uses up vital oxygen needed by marine life.

Dravo said the system is compact enough for use in small municipalities, schools, shopping centers and hospitals.

Opines Murder And Suicide In Gun Deaths

BURLINGTON, N. C. (AP) — Alamance County Sheriff John H. Stockard says the shooting death of a woman and her infant son apparently was a murder and suicide.

Stockard said 25-year-old Barbara Roney and her eight-week-old son Keith were found shot Thursday afternoon in their home about six miles south of Burlington.

Mrs. Roney had been mortally wounded in the head with bullets from a .25-caliber pistol, he said, and her son was shot in the chest with what appeared to be the same weapon.

The sheriff said the child was pronounced dead on arrival at a Chapel Hill hospital and Mrs. Roney died shortly after her arrival.

Stockard said the husband Gene Roney, and the couple's other son were away from home at the time.

Bucs Open Gridiron War Saturday Night In Toledo

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Saturday night at 8 p.m., the East Carolina University football Pirates will kick off the 1970 season in the Glass Bowl in Toledo, Ohio.

It will be the start of a new era in Pirate football, but the tough Toledo Rockets will try to make sure it is not a joyous one.

Toledo, which finished No. 20 in the nation last year, comes off an 11-0 season, including a Tangerine Bowl victory over Davidson. This year, the Rockets are heavy favorites to get a return trip to the bowl game as the Mid-American representative.

The Rockets also ranked as the number one team in the nation in total defense, and it looks this year like they might be even better. "They lost only three men off their defensive unit," ECU Coach Mike McGee said, "so it's almost certain that they'll be improved."

McGee said that Toledo is unique in one respect. "They have linemen on both their offensive and defensive unit with exceptional speed and quickness. They are possibly the quickest team we'll see this year. West Texas may have better speed in some of their skill positions, but nobody can match Toledo overall."

Toledo also has one of the top quarterbacks around in Chuck Ealey. "He is exceptionally fast, a less than 10-flat sprinter. Their tailback, Bob Vickers, has done a 9.5 hundred in track, so there is plenty of speed in the backfield."

The Rockets like to mix it up, however, and will go to the air about as much as they stay on the ground. They run out of the pro-I and slot-I formations, but they also give a number of other looks.

Their fullback, Joe Schwartz, likes to take the ball up the middle, but they also use their great speed to get outside. "They keep their line tight to bunch you up," McGee said. "And Ealey is one of the most capable quarterbacks I've ever seen and can make them go."

The Toledo line is good sized, but not exceptionally so, McGee noted. "Again, it's just their tremendous overall speed. They run with a lot of athletic ability. They do a lot of things well with a diversified offense." McGee calls tight and end Al Baker one of the best of the linemen.

Defensively, the Rockets use a 5-2 lineup. "They slant and deal on every play," McGee said. "They have real good pursuit with strong and quick linebackers and a secondary with real great speed." The top people on defense include safety Tom Duncan, middle guard Steve Schmitker and corner back John Saunders.

"They really have no weakness," McGee said.

The Pirates will be bothered somewhat by some injuries. Mike Mills is listed as only possibly being ready to go on defense. Will Mitchell, Bob Hileman and Billy Wallace all have nagging injuries, but are expected to be able to play. Tony Maglione will be in Washington, D. C. Saturday morning due to surgery in his family, and hopefully, will be able to join the team by game time.

"We plan to use a balanced approach to the game," McGee said. "We will throw the ball quite a bit, but I'm not saying we'll throw most of the time."

McGee said the Pirates have had two problems bothering them this fall in getting ready. "We have come as far as I had hoped in many ways, but we don't have a large number of players, and this has made it difficult in working against one another. Also, we have had a number of injuries, and this has made it impossible for us to scrimmage as much as I would have wanted to. This is going to cause us some problems in the game, we know."

McGee feels, however, that the Bucs will be able to move the ball on the Rockets.

"They'll be up for the game, you can be sure. If they win this one, it'll set a new school record for the most consecutive victories. And I know they'll want to get this."

backfield, it'll be John Casazza at quarterback, Billy Wallace at fullback, Les Strayhorn at tailback and Dick Corrada at flanker.

Woody's Ramblin's

By WOODY PEELE

The old crystal ball nearly got cracked last weekend, but it managed to survive almost intact.

Of the slim five games for the weekend, four came out as predicted. But they were all close to disappearing before the dust, or as it happened to be, mud, settled.

This week, the collegiate ranks get underway, with nearly a full slate of activity in the area.

First, however, a look at the high school scene.

Rose travels to Raleigh Sanderson. The Rampants looked quite strong in their opening game against Washington. Only first game mistakes cost them the contest. Sanderson also lost its opener, to tough Millbrook and it should be a fine game. This time, however, I'm going to pick Rose to come through with the win.

Aurora visits Griffon in a Tobacco Belt game. The Bulldogs got off to a bad start too, with penalties costing them a chance to beat Saratoga last week. Aurora is licking its wounds after losing hard to Vanceboro. But Aurora should be the team to rebound and win.

Southern Nash visits Farmville. The Nash men are improved from the past, and this could be their chance to break away from their losing string. Farmville is still a young team. Southern Nash to win this one.

Robersonville travels to Chocowinity for another conference contest in the Tobacco Belt. The Rams looked good in defeat against Williamston. They'll be the choice here.

Swansboro visits Williamston. The Tigers look like they might be ready to claw up the rest of the Albemarle. It's a non-conference game, but Williamston is picked here.

Ayden plays host to Columbia in the Tidewater opener for the Tornadoes. Ayden got away to a good start despite the low 6-0 score in its win. Columbia lost to Manteo in its opener. I'll stick with Ayden.

Rounding out the slate, Greene Central opens its home slate with Pamlico. Greene is going to be tough before it is over, but I'll go with Pamlico in this one, simply on experience.

On the college scene, the Pirates of East Carolina travel to Toledo for their opener. The Rockets are coming off a year of losses and a coaching switch.

Everybody is picking Toledo to win this one, and who am I to rock the boat. I'll go with them till we see what the Pirate crew has.

Elsewhere in the Southern Conference, the choices are: Clemson over The Citadel, Furman over Virginia Military Institute, Richmond over N. C. State, and West Virginia over William & Mary.

In the Atlantic Coast Conference, other games include Florida over Duke, North Carolina over Kentucky, Villanova over Maryland, Georgia Tech over South Carolina, Nebraska over Wake Forest and Virginia Tech over Virginia.

And in a couple of others, Southern Cal over Alabama and Arkansas over Stanford.
Season's results: 4 right, 1 wrong, 80.0 per cent.

Albemarle Conf. Buckling Down

The Albemarle Conference didn't get away with a good opening last Friday night, as only three of the seven teams came away with victories. All played outside the conference.

Only Williamston, Gates County and Edenton picked up wins. Williamston got by Robersonville, 18-0, Gates beat Murfreesboro, 22-0, and Edenton downed Bertie, 22-12. The win was the second for Edenton, which opened a week earlier.

In the losing column were Plymouth, Perquimans, Ahoskie and Northampton. Plymouth fell to East Carteret, 26-12, Kapp downed Perquimans, 6-0, Ahoskie lost its second game, falling to Roanoke Rapids, 20-0, and Oxford Orphanage beat Northampton, 14-0.

Coach Dinkey Mills of Williamston said that it was difficult to judge how his team looked in the game against Robersonville. "It rained so hard, I thought the game might runners in tailback Leo Chadwick and fullback Billy Hibbs. Both are good carriers."

Both of the Swansboro touchdowns came, however, from defensive plays, and Jones outruled their opponent.

Elsewhere in the Albemarle Conference, two loop games are set. Perquimans will be at Northampton and Ahoskie will visit Gates. Other non-conference games send Manteo to Plymouth and Greensville County, Va., to Edenton.

The current Albemarle standings:

Yarbrough Will Drive A Ford

GAINESVILLE, Ga. (AP) — LeeRoy Yarbrough says he will drive a Ford-powered GTA Group 7 machine in Sunday's $75,000 Can-Am at the new Road Atlanta course near Gainesville.

Yarbrough, a $200,000 winner in stock car racing last year, will be making his first start in the Canadian-American series for sports cars.

His car, owned by the Agapiou brothers of Van Nuys, Calif., is powered by a 496-cubic inch engine, the largest on the circuit. Its regular driver, John Cannon of Montreal, will be running a Continental Formula A race in Mosport Park, Canada, a Road Atlanta spokesman said.

be called," he said. "The intensity of the rain threw off our timing, and I know it hurt both teams offensively."

Mills said that he also was not pleased with the blocking of the Tigers, and felt that the rain had nothing to do with that.

"Robersonville has a good team. But we managed to get three big plays and that was it. I don't think either team drove over 25 yards in the game. It could just have easily been 0-0."

Mills reported that all of his players came out of the game okay and ready for this week's contest with Swansboro.

"They beat Jones Central, 14-0, last week," Mills said of his opponent. "They run from the I-formation and have two good

Banks And Pappas Examples Of 'Try, Try Again' Saying

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
Ernie Banks and Milt Pappas might not have said it but the pair of veteran Chicago Cubs are perfect examples of the familiar saying: If at first you don't succeed, try, try again.

Banks, thwarted twice attempting to sacrifice bunt, swung away and crashed a three-run homer that snapped a 2-2 tie and sent the Cubs flying to a 9-3 triumph over Montreal Wednesday.

While Pappas, acquired late in June from Atlanta, after failing to win consistently with the Braves and the Cincinnati Reds before that, hurled six innings as he won his 10th game as a Cub.

Walker, 12-6, struck out nine and only walked one as the left-hander helped snap the Pirates losing streak at three games. The only hits Walker gave up were singles by Dal Maxvill in the third inning and Jim Beauchamp in the fifth.

Lee May poled a grand slam homerun and Johnny Bench cracked his 44th homer and two singles for four more RBIs to pace the Reds' assault at Los Angeles. The victory gave the Reds a 14-game bulge over the second-place Dodgers in the West and reduced their title-clinching magic number to five.

The Padres spotted Atlanta a 2-0 lead on Oscar Brown's first major league homer, then rallied for three runs in the fifth, the last two on a double by Al Ferrara, to snap left-hander Dave Roberts' personal losing streak at 10 games.

A two-run homer by John Briggs had tied it at 2-2 in the sixth for the Phils. The Mets got their two runs in the third as Bud Harrelson stole home and Art Shamsky had a run-scoring single.

Right-hander Gaylord Perry tossed a four-hitter for his 20th victory and Willie Mays slammed a two-run homer, his 27th, as the Giants routed Houston.

Perry, 20-13, joined his brother Jim Perry of the Minnesota Twins in becoming the first brothers in major league history to capture 20 games in the same season. The Twins' righty is 22-11.

Baseball History Made By 2 Gaylord Brothers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—When Gaylord and Jim Perry were starring on the same high school and semi-pro baseball teams in Williamston, N.C., it never dawned on them they would some day make baseball history.

But they did Thursday when Gaylord blanked the Houston Astros on four hits in an 11-0 San Francisco Giants' romp.

The victory boosted Gaylord's record to 20-13 and, coupled with Jim's 22-11 mark with the Minnesota Twins, gave them the distinction of being the only brother team in major league history to win 20 games the same season.

"When we were youngsters," Gaylord recalls, "we never thought about winning games in the majors—we were just hoping we'd have a chance to get here."

Jim was a senior, and Gaylord a wild-throwing freshman when they led the Williamston High team to the state championship. The two lanky righthanders alternated between the pitcher's mound and third base.

"I'm very proud of the fact I've been able to have two 20-win seasons," says Gaylord, who was 21-8 in 1966.

"But it's even more important to be consistent and to be able to help your club.

"I only won 19 games last year, but I helped the club because I was out there every fourth day doing my best," he added. "Today, I didn't have all my good stuff. My shoulder was stiff—I was fortunate."

Gaylord, who will be 32 Tuesday, allowed only two hits after the first inning while recording his second straight shutout and his 20th complete game in 35 starts. He has had three shutouts this season.

Baylor, Missouri Open Grid Season Tonight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Bears of Baylor and the Missouri Tigers kickoff the 1970 college football season tonight, while the armchair fans get their baptism of fire Saturday night when Stanford plays Arkansas.

Missouri, which posted a 9-1 record in 1969 before losing to Penn State in the Orange Bowl, will take a No. 11 ranking in the Associated Press preseason poll into its game against Baylor at St. Louis. The Bears were winless in 10 games last season.

Senior tailback Joe Moore, third in the nation in rushing with 1,312 yards last season, will lead the attack for the Tigers, who appear set at every position except quarterback.

Either Chuck Roper or Mike Farmer will start tonight in place of the graduated Terry McMillan. A prime target for their passes will be sprint champion Mel Gray.

Left-handed quarterback Laney Cook, a senior who is considered as much of a runner as a passer, and sophomore tailback Matthew Williams are being counted on to help lead Baylor back.

Has Divided Loyalties

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP)—It's a case of divided loyalties.

Lanny Wadkins plays golf for Wake Forest University at Winston-Salem, N. C. But since he's from Richmond, the new U. S. amateur golf champion will be playing against his school's state this weekend in the annual Carolinas vs. Virginias tournament.

And, one of the Carolinas stars, Loge Jackson of Roxboro, is Wadkins' teammate at Wake team.

Heading the Carolinas team will be Jack Crist of Charlotte. Dr. Jose Davila will captain the Virginias team.

The Carolinas hold a 16-8 winning margin in the series, to be played this year at the Cascades Country Club course. Each team fields 16 golfers and eight seniors.

The Nassau scoring plan will be in use, meaning teams will play four-ball Friday, with each of 12 matches worth six points. Singles are for Saturday, with each of 24 matches worth three points. Sunday the play reverts to four-ball.

Saturday—No. 9 Nebraska and third-ranked Southern California.

Wake Forest will play at Nebraska in the afternoon, while Jimmy Jones will lead Southern Cal into Bear Bryant country for a battle with 16th-ranked Alabama at night.

Other openers include Utah State at 14th-ranked Kansas State, Duke at No. 14 Florida, 17th-ranked South Carolina at Georgia Tech, 18th-ranked UCLA at Oregon State and William & Mary at No. 20 West Virginia.

Cassius And Jerry Quarry Bout Signed

By ED SCHUYLER JR.

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—It will be a nontitle fight scheduled for 15 rounds, but as far as Jerry Quarry is concerned it will be for the heavyweight championship of the world.

Why? Because Quarry's opponent on the night of Oct. 26 in Atlanta will be Cassius Clay.

"I feel I would be the champion if I won," Quarry said Thursday as he and Clay formally signed for the fight at a packed news conference at a midtown hotel Thursday.

"Nobody ever took the title away from him (Clay) in the ring," added the Bellflower, Calif., fighter.

"I regard myself as the retired champ; Joe Frazier is the active, recognized champ," said Clay who was stripped of his title after being convicted of refusing induction into the Army—a conviction that still is being appealed. Should Clay beat Quarry and Frazier get by light heavyweight king Bob Foster in November, the road would be open for a Clay-Frazier fight.

But right now it is Quarry and ring rustiness that face Clay. "I don't think any human can be the same after laying off for three years," said Clay whose last fight was a seven-round knockout of Zora Folley March 22, 1967.

However, he did spar eight rounds in a recent exhibition in Atlanta.

Clay, who lives in Philadelphia and still wants to be known as Muhammad Ali, called the very fact that Atlanta has granted a license for the fight "a victory for justice."

He also pointed out that during his exile from the ring, "I never tried to get a fight. It was the promoters. I never pushed. I said 'If you get one, I'll take it.'"

White House 'Listening Posts' On 27 Campuses

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
WASHINGTON (AP) — On a spring day this year, shortly after U.S. troops moved into Cambodia, a young man was stopped as he tried to enter the campus of the University of Washington at Seattle.

A policeman, doing his duty to keep unauthorized people off the campus during that nervous time, demanded the man's identification. He had none from the college—but he had one that gave him entry into the White House.

"That cuts no ice here," said the policeman. But after some checking, Chester E. Finn, a member of the White House "kiddie corps" was allowed in.

The minor incident served to illustrate a mission, performed without fanfare, by eight White House staffers on 27 college campuses across the nation in those troubled weeks.

Their mission was to find out for President Nixon what really was going on and, if possible, to tell the administration's side.

It was carrying one step further an administration objective to dispel the notion that the President is too isolated to get the mood of young people.

During the presidential campaign in 1968, Nixon had said, "Far too few of us really listen to what young people are saying. We defend their right to speak up and to dissent, we smile self-righteously at our own tolerance, and then we pay no attention to their message."

His campaign people set up "listening posts" at various places—small recording stations that invited the public to express views.

"We considered carrying it over to the White House," says Herb Klein, Nixon's director of communications. "But we discovered the cost over a period of years would be quite expensive."

Smarter over criticism that protests went unheard in earlier demonstrations, the White House arranged during the May 9 peace gathering in Washington, for administration officials to meet with young people in small groups.

Soon afterward, the staff assistants aged 23 to 29 made their tour of campuses. Like Finn's, their visits were largely unannounced and all were informal—conducted in student unions, cafeterias, dormitories and on lawns.

"It wasn't an attempt to sell a program," says a 26-year-old staffer. "The students found out that the White House assistants who went out were really bright young people who were interested in talking to them. And the people who went out found the students were not a band of wild young revolutionaries, but people concerned about issues."

Each staffer visited three campuses, including—except for Finn—the one they graduated from only a few years ago. Their report was summarized and brought to the President.

Primarily, says one staffer, "we learned that students were deeply concerned over the issues, but in addition there was the second problem of communication. If it wasn't for Vietnam and Cambodia there still would be this problem."

Another White House assistant, 28 years old, walked up Bascom Hill, at his alma mater, the University of Wisconsin, to chat with a Quaker-offspring group holding a peace vigil.

"In that and every other case, I didn't want to be in the position of standing up and giving lectures—why the Cambodian decision was made or debating the situation. That was not the purpose. The purpose was to gauge the intensity of the situation, the base people had for their objections—I was cordially greeted. I tried to convince everyone I was there to listen."

Later he walked into a meeting of an organization actively engaged in getting political action into the community.

"There were about six of us. I talked with them about the activity on the campus, what plans they had, what they thought produced the energy for the type of work they do.

"Halfway through I said who I was. There was a degree of apology for having been as strong as they were about some of their statements. Or they took the other tack: 'Here is a chance to really tell the White House off.'"

One staffer said he sometimes takes this approach: "I say to them, if I could take you this minute, and you sit down and express your concern and spell them out 1-2-3. Then the President restates your concern and says he understands but there is more. And he lists them 1-2-3 saying 'here I have the job and I must weigh between all these things. I go to a lot of different sources and weigh for and against certain things. Would you understand that?'"

"They invariably say they would," he added.

Senior staff members also help in the communications effort. It reaches to the very top—people like John D. Ehrlichman, assistant to the President for Domestic Affairs; H.R. Haldeman, assistant to the President; Robert Finch, a Presidential counselor and Klein.

All have invited young people to their offices and have gone to the campuses to engage in the dialogue.

"You get the feeling for trends," says Klein. "A year ago, people on campuses were more concerned with civil rights than ecology. Then you could see it building to ecology. The last three times I went out I haven't been asked anything on the economy. Very few college students seem to be interested in that. They are mostly concerned with Vietnam, the draft, the environment, funds for education, narcotics laws. Repression is a building thing."

"The end result, of the drive, Klein says, "is to build an awareness of what people are talking about."

A young staffer puts it differently: "I hope," he says, "people walk away and, if nothing else, say 'that guy's not a fascist pig.'"

Waves Of B52s Pound North Viet Attackers

SAIGON (AP) — For the fifth day the U.S. Air Force today flew heavy raids against North Vietnamese forces intensifying their attacks on a South Vietnamese base near the Laotian Border.

Three waves of big B52 bombers dropped nearly 300 tons of bombs on bunkers, base camps and storage and staging areas within seven miles of Fire Base O'Reilly.

Other B52s hammered North Vietnamese supply depots and transshipment points on the Laotian side of the border.

Smaller U.S. fighter-bombers also kept up attacks closer to O'Reilly, trying to hit mortars, rockets and recoilless cannon that this week have pumped about 500 rounds of shells into the base and South Vietnamese patrols operating around it.

Military spokesmen said the fighter-bombers had flown more than 100 missions since Monday around the base, and that this was about 20 per cent of the Air Force's entire operation in Vietnam during that period.

South Vietnamese military headquarters said its forces with the help of American bombers had killed 530 North Vietnamese in operations around O'Reilly since July 1.

A spokesman said the South Vietnamese forces also had captured 157 enemy rifles, 33 heavy weapons such as mortars, and 300 mortar rounds and rocket grenades.

The spokesman said 57 South Vietnamese had been killed and 92 wounded in the operations.

O'Reilly is one of a cluster of firebases in the northwestern part of the country blocking an enemy advance from the jungled mountains near the Laotian border into the populous coastal lowlands around Hue and Quang Tri City, about 25 miles to the east.

Field reports reaching Saigon today said that on Thursday North Vietnamese troops mounted their second ground assault this week against a South Vietnamese infantry battalion less than two miles south-east of O'Reilly.

North Vietnamese artillerymen fired about 200 mortar shells into the South Vietnamese positions to cover the pre-dawn assault of the infantrymen.

But they were beaten back, leaving eight bodies and an assortment of munitions on the battlefield, including 150 dynamite blocks and 50 rounds of rocket grenades.

Field reports said one South Vietnamese was killed and 10 wounded.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Command reported that 10 Americans were killed and 34 wounded across South Vietnam in small skirmishes, rocket and mortar attacks, and by booby

Smoking Viewed Self-Destruction

By JOHN PHILIP SOUSA
Associated Press Writer
SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The nation's chief health officer says cigarette smoking is a kind of self-destruction and urges movies, television and the stage to quit giving it "glamour appeal" for the young.

"The time is ripe for government and voluntary groups to mount a more vigorous program on all fronts to portray smoking as what it really is—a dirty, smelly, foul, chronic form of suicide," Surgeon General Jesse L. Steinfeld said Thursday.

He told the first National Conference on Smoking and Health that the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the Veterans Administration and the Department of Defense have adopted a new policy on smoking in federal hospitals.

"Under this policy we are restricting the sale of cigarettes to canteens, eliminating free distribution of cigarettes, limiting smoking areas and strengthening our educational efforts to both staff and patients," Steinfeld said.

HEW and other government agencies want to encourage smokers to quit, he said, and nonsmokers, particularly the young, not to start.

"One thing we can be sure of," Steinfeld said, "is that when we discourage cigarette smoking among our youth we are not driving them to smoke marijuana or take up other drugs."

Evidence currently available, he added, points to the opposite conclusion.

Steinfeld said Hollywood is partly responsible, together with the advertising business, for the fact that smoking has become an integral part of the American social scene.

"How often in the movies have we seen a cigarette held to the lips of a dying man?" he asked. "Cigarettes have also become useful as a bit of stage business, lighting up or crushing them out being used to underscore an actor's mood."

He suggested motion pictures, television and theater use cigarettes less frequently in dramatic situations to "lessen their glamour appeal particularly to impressionable youth."

War Legality Ruling Slated

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal judge says he has decided to rule on the constitutionality of the Vietnam war because he believes it is time the courts stopped avoiding the issue.

Judge William Sweigert made the statement in U.S. District Court Thursday in refusing to dismiss a lawsuit filed by four University of California students seeking to have the war declared illegal and unconstitutional.

Sweigert said the U.S. Supreme Court has been "resourcefully ducking" the issue on the grounds it is "political" and a question of "sovereign immunity."

He said that although the war was never declared by Congress, President Nixon and former presidents "continued, nevertheless, to conduct the war without receiving or even requesting a congressional declaration."

The question of whether the Constitution says the power to declare war lies with Congress and not the president "should rest upon something better than the ambivalences of congressional inaction," Sweigert said.

"The Supreme Court has demonstrated its resourcefulness in finding ways and means of eliminating or minimizing undesirable, practical consequences that might otherwise follow major decisions charting new requirements in the field of constitutional law" in connection with the Vietnam war, he declared.

The judge said he would withhold a decision until government attorneys have filed an answer to his denial of their motion to dismiss the suit by Garry F. Motola, 23, James R. Schwartz, 23, Irving M. Gross, 22, and Roy Olson, 24, all of Berkeley.

Sweigert reviewed various arguments proposed to justify U.S. action in Vietnam, such as self-defense and treaty obligations, and said those arguments "merely purport to explain why, for various reasons of expedience, the Constitution has not been complied with."

The Summer that Was

Simonsen

It's been a great summer. What if the mosquitoes did bite, and the hot sand stung, and the lawn never stopped growing, and a thunderstorm flooded the cookout . . . ?

When Labor Day comes round again, it is still too soon. Instant nostalgia softens the retrospective view of summer and, as September sidles in, the country seems to gather itself for one last glorious celebration of the golden idyll—before turning away from it back to the city, to business, to school.

Then there will be the moments of humor to remember, a part of the season's afterglow, helping to warm the cold months to come.

Here is AP cartoonist Al Simonsen's view of—the summer that was.

"Now . . . on to the petunias!"

HOT DOGS

"You knew the sand was hot . . . Why didn't you wear your sneakers?"

"Nerves of steel!"

"AHHH . . . that's better . . . see if there's any more cubes in the freezer!"

"You were right . . . end of the season . . . privacy . . . beach all to ourselves!"

The Worry Clinic

An Old Taboo Shapes Tastes

Arnold Zenker's TV show brought out the fact that most young men don't associate romance with fat girls! Arnold asked me why, and I explained the "incest taboo" that subconsciously can make an adult male platonic. You plump wives can still excite your mates, but you better understand the problem and use the tactics outlined in the medical booklet below.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M.D.
CASE O-529: Arnold Zenker is EMCEE of the popular CON-

TACT television show at Baltimore.

Dr. Scheiman and I had been invited from Chicago to discuss "Sex and the Fat Woman."
"Dr. Crane," Arnold turned to me, "why is it that most men seem to link romance only with slender girls?"

"Shouldn't fat girls be just as appealing, romantically?"
Whereupon, I mentioned that the usual male has his very first romance with a plump woman! She is his mother!

For it starts when he is a baby in arms, since the typical mother is generally a bit overweight.

And by the time the little boy is of kindergarten age, he will calmly proclaim:

"I'm going to marry Mamma when I grow big."

Likewise, the typical little girl states:

"I'm going to marry Daddy when I grow up."

But it isn't long till such toddlers are politely informed that such unions are not permissible.

The old incest taboo is thus rigidly ingrained in most kiddies by the time they enter school. And this taboo is part of the sexual "brainwashing" that youngsters routinely experience.

So that little boy's original love attachment for his plump mother is taken out of the romantic realm and placed in a respectful, filial devotion to Mamma.

If he then reaches the age of 18 or 20 and begins to experience romantic stirrings, they are not as likely to be directed toward a plump classmate!

For the subconscious "incest taboo" rules her out of consideration as a sweetheart type of female.

Instead, she is catalogued as a "motherly type."

And this same hazard is what often produces a platonic husband a few years after he selects a slender girl for his bride.

For when women relax happily in marriage, and are around a cook stove much of the time, they tend to add excess upholstery around their equator.

This is even more likely if they have a child or two, for then they not only become psychologically "maternal" but also "anatomically maternal," as per their plump waistline.

But their husbands now undergo a subconscious conflict, for the old "incest taboo" that they acquired at the age of 5 regarding their mother, now reasserts itself and curbs their romantic ardor for their wife.

Such a plump woman seldom realizes this dangerous change in her husband's attitude.

And he is seldom conscious of why it occurs, but after 10 or 15 years of marriage, he may find it quite difficult to become sexually aroused by his plump mate.

Yet other slender sirens may stimulate him as of yore!

Such platonic men may thus try to anesthetize this "incest taboo" via whiskey.

Others conjure up pornographic pictures in their imagination, to help arouse their own passion.

Some actually hide such pictures or magazines out of their wife's sight, but persevere them for half an hour before they enter their boudoir.

Send for my medical booklet "How to Prevent Platonic Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents. Wives, wake up!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

West opened the five of hearts, a small heart was played from dummy. East put up the ten and South won the trick with the jack. The dummy was entered with the ace of diamonds to lead the ten of clubs. East rose with the ace to return the three of hearts. South played the queen and when West covered with the King, he was permitted to hold the trick. A third round of hearts cleared the suit as East discarded a spade.

South had only eight tricks at this point — two spades, two hearts, three diamonds

"WILLY THE WAITER" OF BRIDGEPORT, CONN., SAYS HE CAN COUNT ON THIS TYPE AT EVERY MEAL —

BUT WHEN SHE FINALLY GETS TO THE JAVA —

Keep Your Cool If You Find Child Using Drugs

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

If you discover your son or daughter is using drugs, don't turn the youngster over to police or go into a rage and order him out of the house.

"Keep your cool and don't panic."

These tips were offered at a conference on the drug crisis and the church at Glorieta Baptist Assembly grounds near Santa Fe, N.M., last week, sponsored by the Southern Baptist Christian Life Commission.

Dr. Barnette, of Louisville's Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, said one of the first things a parent should do is to talk openly with their youngster about his problem—and to listen, as well as give advice.

"The victim of drugs needs to be heard rather than harranged and harassed," he said.

"Scar tactics" to try to frighten children off drugs won't work, he added, saying it would only cause them to "turn a deaf ear" because they usually know more about drug effects than the parents.

Such tactics, he said, simply cause "further alienation."

"If the youngster has become a pusher—a drug peddler—and won't voluntarily seek help, the parents may have to notify authorities," he said, adding:

"If he is a junky and will not seek help, about the only thing parents can do is to kick him out." Dr. Barnette said that for parents to continue to support a pusher would merely feed his habit, which would get bigger.

It would "keep him an infant, a baby, and this is what he wants. He must give up drugs, or leave." But Dr. Barnette said before taking such drastic action, every effort should be made to get the youngster into a hospital or rehabilitation program.

He said the church, in order to deal effectively with the drug problem, must develop special ministries within the drug culture and a "fellowship of sharing" to help the addict break the chemical walls separating him from others. He added:

"Wherever men stand in need of help and healing, this is where the church is to be."

Talking it over

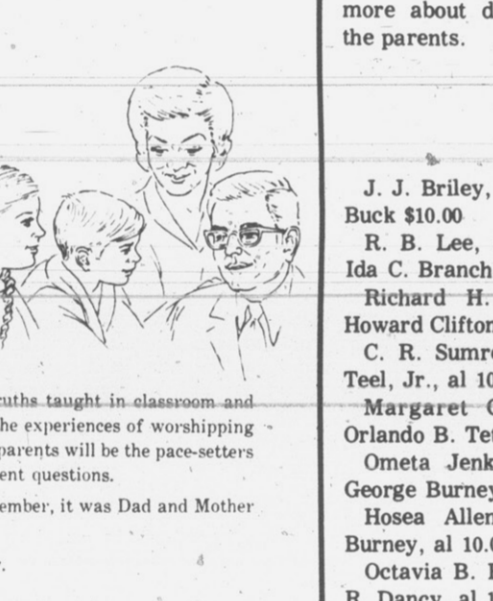

Some of the key moments in our education are those times when we discussed with someone older the interesting things we learn.

But, to speak frankly about religious education today, one of the serious handicaps facing boys and girls who are sent (not brought) to church is that they have little opportunity to "talk it over" at home.

Moral and spiritual growth is nurtured by family discussion of the truths taught in classroom and pulpit. But this presumes that parents and children together are sharing the experiences of worshipping God and studying the Christian Faith. Candidly, too, it presumes that the parents will be the pace-setters—advanced enough in their own religious growth to answer many, urgent questions.

It was always fun to tell "Sis" what we had learned at school. But, remember, it was Dad and Mother we counted on when we couldn't find the answers!

For your children's sake — and your own — attend church regularly.

More Firms Eye Moving Away From Downtown

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Rent, parking availability, commuting time and nearness of public transportation were rated the most important office selection factors in a recent survey of 1,000 presidents.

The survey, sponsored by Seay & Thomas real estate firm, Chicago, and Connecticut General Life Insurance Co., Hartford, revealed that 46 per cent of those downtown firms planning to relocate in the next two years will move to outlying areas while only 18 per cent of those already in outlying locations contemplate a return downtown.

Only five per cent listed high rental rate as a major disadvantage and most said they were willing to pay increased rates for buildings that offer additional services. Biggest single complaint of in-city companies: lack of parking space.

You've got a lot to live
Pepsi's got a lot to give

What we mean is this: living isn't always easy, but it never has to be dull. There's too much to see, to do, to enjoy. Put yourself behind a Pepsi-Cola and get started. You've got a lot to live.
