Jump On Bandwagon

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
North Carolina banks jumped on the bandwagon as banks throughout the country began dropping interest rates in response to moves by Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York City.

Later in the day, the Bank of Asheville, Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., First Union National Bank and Northwestern Bank did so.

Other banks are expected to follow.

The banks dropped their prime interest rate from 8 to 7½ per cent. That is the rate they charge the most credit-worthy borrowers.

North Carolina National Bank was the first to follow the lead Monday.

Addison H. Reese, chairman of NCNB, said the change was made because of recent reductions in the money market rates—reflecting a possible easing in credit demand. He also cited the easier monetary policies of the Federal Reserve Board.

Not Very Effective

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A three-year prison sentence against a teen-age boy for a 10-cent robbery was affirmed Monday by the Arkansas Supreme Court.

William Young Radcliff of Little Rock, who was 17 when the robbery occurred last year, had appealed his conviction from

Pulaski County Circuit Court. "It is immaterial of what value the thing taken is," the high court said. "A penny as well as a pound thus forcibly extorted makes it robbery."

Radcliff allegedly took the dime at gunpoint from another youth after a high school football game.

3 Years For 10 Cents

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — "The U.S. nuclear program is only two per cent effective," says Edward Teller. "The remaining 98 per cent of its effectiveness is lost because of unfounded fear of nuclear explosions."

Teller, often called the "father of the H-bomb," told a conference of nuclear scientists Monday that the Atomic Energy

Commission's plan to use nuclear explosives to free natural gas trapped in rock formations is under attack from ecologists even though it is still in an experimental stage.

He blamed "radicals and extremists among the ecologists who fear an increase in the radiation levels that is entirely unfounded."

Hold Man Here For Theft Of Truck And Its Load Of Tobacco

A Rt. 3, Washington man is being held in Pitt County Jail today following his arrest Monday on charges of larceny of a truck and approximately 6,000 pounds of tobacco.

According to Greenville Police reports, the truck and contents belonged to Harvey M. Norris of Rt. 1, Swansboro who was in Greenville to sell his tobacco at a local warehouse. Police said that the truck was left unattended at the Clarks Department Store parking lot prior to a sale and was reported missing at 5:27 p.m.

After a state-wide alert was issued to the Highway Patrol, a short time later a Washington-based patrolman arrested Donnie Ray Mutherspaw, 25, on the, larceny charges.

The truck and tobacco, valued at an estimated $5,700 total, were recovered and returned to the owner, reports said.

Mutherspaw, who also listed a Knoxville, Tenn. address, is currently being held under $10,000 bond.

Pitt County Sheriff Ralph Tyson this morning urged persons having tobacco to sell to remove their truck keys when leaving their vehicles.

Sheriff Tyson said that he felt the removal of the keys may help eliminate the costly thefts of tobacco and personal property.

Wins Point, It Is His Street

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — For three years truckers refused Marion J. Cobb's request that they quit using the street in front of his house at all hours as a shortcut to a nearby warehouse.

"One driver hit me with a tire tool," Cobb said.

But they can't use the street anymore. Cobb built a fence across it, leaving only about enough room for a motorcycle.

The truckers summoned police who looked at city and private surveys showing Cobb's property line extended 25½ feet into the street and at a building permit he had obtained. The officers just ordered lighted barricades to protect the fence.

Syrian, Jordanian Tanks Battle Jordan's War: 10,000 Slain

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Jordanian and Palestine guerrilla forces battled in Amman and in northern Jordan today in the sixth day of a conflict that Cairo radio declared had cost 10,000 lives.

Syrian and Jordanian tanks slugged it out on the rocky stretches of northern Jordan in the area where Jordan as charged—and Damascus denied—that Syria had intervened. Syria says the tanks are manned by Palestinian guerrillas.

Arab leaders assembled in Cairo to consider methods to stop the conflict in Jordan, with some advocating military intervention.

While the summit conference opening was ostensibly set for noon EDT, it more or less began at 4 a.m., EDT, with a series of private informal discussions among the leaders of Egypt, Sudan, Libya and Kuwait, followed by a joint meeting with Syrian President Neureddin Atassi.

Egypt warned against any American intervention in Jordan as a "hostile action against the whole Arab people."

Information Minister Mohammed Hassanein Heikal told a news conference in Cairo that U.S. action in the midst of the Jordanian strife would have repercussions far beyond the Middle East.

Warning against any American action in Jordan, Heikal said this could not rescue the 54 hostages—38 of them U.S. citizens—held by Palestinian guerrillas since multiple plane hijackings Sept. 6 and Sept. 9.

"Instead," he said, "it would only threaten their lives. It would push those holding these hostages into desperate action and nobody will be able to protect them."

The Soviet Union formally advised Britain it opposes foreign intervention in the Jordanian conflict, informed diplomats reported in London.

Cairo radio quoted Heikal as saying at least 10,000 persons were dead in Jordan, including 7,000 in refugee-crowded Wahdat camp southeast of Amman.

Heikal said guerrilla leader Yasir Arafat reported the camp was 80 per cent destroyed. Its population was believed to be about 31,000.

Heikal also said he did not believe the two principals in the Jordan Drama, King Hussein and Arafat, will attend the emergency Arab summit conference in Cairo.

The United States continued to reinforce its military power in the eastern Mediterranean, but officials in Washington said President Nixon was still searching for a diplomatic solution to the crisis and that U.S. warships were standing by only in case they were needed to evacuate the 400 or so Americans in Jordan.

The U.S. ships were stationed less than 100 miles off the Israeli coast, within short fighter range of Jordan, and the Pentagon alerted troops in the United States and Germany to prepare "to support an evacuation operation for Americans in Jordan should that be necessary."

However, there were fears in Arab and other quarters that President Nixon was considering using troops to protect Jordan's monarchy if it became apparent that the guerrillas and Syrian tank forces would succeed in toppling it.

King Hussein accused Damascus of sending in two tank battalions during the weekend, and U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers demanded that they be removed. The Syrians contend the tanks are from units of the Palestine Liberation Army stationed in Syria and not units of the regular Syrian forces.

The alleged Syrian intervention was certain to be a major topic at today's Arab summit meeting.

Building Up U.S. Forces

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — Although President Nixon is steadily reinforcing U.S. military power in the eastern Mediterranean, officials say he still is searching for a diplomatic solution to the Jordanian crisis.

At the same time Nixon apparently has run into opposition from two key allies, Britain and France, to his contingency plans for intervention in Jordan. Diplomats here also reported deep uncertainty over whether King Hussein himself has clearly signaled a need to Nixon for assistance in saving his regime.

The administration and the Jordanian ruler, whose regime is beset by Palestinian guerrillas opposed to his peace policy, have been exchanging messages but informants said Hussein's preferences for action were not clearly defined.

A State Department spokesman Monday refused to say whether Hussein had asked U.S. intervention. Other authorities later indicated the State Department and White House should be able to interpret the latest Hussein messages any way they wish—depending on what they consider the wisest course to follow.

At the United Nations, diplomats reported Jordan might ask for protective action by the Security Council, a possibility complicated by the fact Syria is a member of the council and Jordan is not. Syria stands accused by Jordan and the United States of sending some army units into Hussein's country.

France's attitude toward intervention—in wording which implied slaps at both the United States and Russia—was expressed Monday by President Georges Pompidou who warned against any further foreign involvement in Middle East warfare. He said intervention is already creating a dangerous situation for world peace.

Diplomats said Britain feels a U.S. thrust into Jordan for any purpose might well make the situation worse and cost more lives.

Parents' Group Brings Suggestions, Queries To School Bd. Session

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer
"If ever we have quality education," Dr. E. B. Aycock commented, "it will not be because of HEW or the federal courts, but because of good people like you."

Dr. Aycock, chairman of the Greenville City Board of Education was speaking to W. O. Powers, assistant moderator of the Southwest Greenville Community Association.

Powers had appeared in the absence of Ray Corbett, a spokesman for approximately 60 parents of school children from the Hillsdale-Carolina Heights, Greenbriar and adjacent areas to present "specific requests" to the school board at their monthly meeting last night.

"In requesting we be heard again tonight," Powers said, "we have specific issues about which we are vitally concerned in public education."

"We lost the first rounds of our efforts, not only from you, but from the courts," Powers told the school board members. "Our group must in reality abide by the decision of the courts to stay within the confines of law. We are not going to place ourselves or our children in jeopardy."

"What I'm really saying is that we are going to cooperate in your plan, to support your efforts," Powers commented. "Our original purpose was to try to convince you we had a suitable plan, one with merit."

Bulletin

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon urged Congress today to authorize immediate federal intervention in cases of bombings or arson on virtually any college campus and recommended the hiring of an additional 1,000 FBI agents to do the job.

Powers then explained that many of the group had visited Sadie Sautler, had found it a nice school, but that the group was seriously concerned "about conditions prevalent around the school."

The things he enumerated as "specifics to be considered by the board," and asked the board to give attention to, were a request to enclose the school grounds with a fence, to take action to relieve the congestion of traffic, to prohibit parking on the school side of Fleming and Pennsylvania Streets, and to request the city to study action for one way traffic in the area, and to furnish increased control of crossings for school children.

Harding Sugg made a motion for the "school board to go on record to question the city officials about one way traffic and to work with the administration for safety of crossing streets." This motion was approved.

Dr. James Bearden introduced a motion that action be taken to complete the fence around the school from available funds. This too was approved, with Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, superintendent of the city schools, saying "we will move on that right away."

Dr. Cleetwood also reminded the parents that the present location of Sadie Sautler was originally approved with a stipulation that if and when adjacent land becomes available, "this board has a strong commitment to acquire additional land for the school."

The remainder of the meeting was devoted to routine reports on school opening, and to actions on school finances, facilities and personnel. These included:

—an enrollment report for the school system, (including 130 in the new kindergarten program at Agnes Fullilove which shows a total of 6,192, with a teacher-pupil ratio averaging

Two Meetings

Agendas for two city meetings scheduled this week have been posted. The Planning and Zoning Commission meets tomorrow night in the Police Assembly Room at City Hall at 8:00 p.m. On Thursday night, the Board of Adjustments will meet in the Mayor's office at 8:00 p.m. The agendas show:

- PLANNING AND ZONING:
- Presentation of Development Plan—for the L. S. Hardee property at the intersection of the 264 By-Pass and 14th Street.
  - Discussion of proposed design for the traffic signal at 10th Street, Dickinson Avenue, and Albemarle Avenue.
  - Preliminary study for annexation to the City of Greenville.
  - Thoroughfare plan of the Advance Planning Division of the N. C. State Highway Commission with goals and purposes to be stated.
  - Oakdale Subdivision, Section No. 1, final plat approval.
- BOARD OF ADJUSTMENTS:
- Public hearing on request for variance by Moore-King-Sullivan, Inc. to add additional storage space to their business at 2102 Dickinson Avenue.
  - Public hearing on request for variance by Dr. Robert Lee Humber to make additions to his residence at 117 West Fifth Street.

2-Day Drive

Tomorrow is the final of a two day drive for blood donations as the Bloodmobile makes a second appearance this week at the Moose Lodge.

Quotas for today and tomorrow have been set at 141 units for each collection. The change in quota for each day from the previous 125 unit requirement is due to two of the scheduled visits for the season being cancelled—those of January 28 and June 2, 1971.

Douglas Morgan, chairman of the Pitt County Bloodmobile, urges all eligible citizens to make a special effort to make a donation. Hours for tomorrow's collection are from 10:00 a.m. until 4:00 p.m.

When the current two day collection began, the Pitt County Bloodmobile unit was 138 units behind in its quota.

'Many' Try To Cheat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has been asked to close a loophole through which many physicians apparently try to cheat on federal income taxes by failing to list all money received from government health programs.

A Treasury Department official told the Senate Finance Committee Monday an audit revealed about half the physicians surveyed who received $2,000 or more from Medicare and Medicaid in 1968 failed to list all such income.

Meade Whitaker, tax legislative counsel for the Treasury, urged the committee to write into a pending Social Security bill a provision requiring all persons to report payments of $25 or more to the Internal Revenue Service. This, he said, would permit the use of data processing to search out those who fail to include such payments on tax returns.

Prices, Quality Improve Monday

Grade averages and quality of offerings improved Monday as the fifth week of tobacco auctions began in the Eastern North Carolina flue-cured area. The Federal-State Market News Service reports around one-half the averages up mainly $1 to $2 per hundred pounds over the previous sale. However, a variegated orange leaf grades showed gains of $5 to $7 per hundred pounds.

Volume of sales was heavy and the floors contained a larger percentage of good and fair grades. The ratio of low, poor and nondescript marketings decreased.

Gross sales in the area last week totaled 40,109,693 pounds and averaged $74.92 per hundred—up 52 cents from the previous week. The season figure reached 168,864,575 pounds for an average of $74.92.

A tabulation of sales on the individual markets in the Eastern Belt as reported by the Federal-State Market News Service includes:

State Aid Sought For Private Medical Schools

RALEIGH (AP) — The Board of Higher Education wants the 1971 General Assembly to appropriate $1.5 million in aid to the two private medical schools in North Carolina during the next biennium.

Dr. Cameron West, director of the board, outlined the request Monday to the Advisory Budget Commission, which makes recommendations on spending requests to the legislature.

The money would be used, West said, to encourage the enrollment of more North Carolina students at Duke and Bowman Gray medical schools.

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill has the only state medical school.

West said the 1969 General Assembly appropriated $350,000 for the 1969-71 biennium to aid the schools.

"In the fall of 1969 the two private schools enrolled 41 North Carolinians as first year students, an average increase of eight over the three preceding years," West said.

He added the program provided payments of $2,500 per year for each entering student. Of this, $250 went toward tuition.

The number of North Carolina students entering the two schools this fall is expected to be 66, West said.

The Board of Higher Education also requested an average 8 per cent increase in faculty salaries for each year of the next biennium at all state-supported institutions of higher learning.

In addition, the board recommended equalization of the base salary at 12 of the 16 institutions within the state system to reduce variance in pay from school to school.

The cost for these two requests would be $20 million for the next biennium.

William Friday, president of the Consolidated University of North Carolina, proposed an 8 per cent salary hike each year of the biennium for the university's six campuses. He asked the commission to recommend library improvements totaling $6.3 million for the two-year period.

In addition, Friday requested $2.3 million for the biennium for continuation and expansion of the university's special education projects in urban studies, maritime science, nutrition and environmental science.

Other requests included: President Leo Jenkins, East Carolina University, $4.5 million over the next biennium for establishment of a two-year medical school and to expand the university's allied health professions school.

The Department of Archives and History, $1.66 million for construction of a department annex to house state records, and $789,478 for an expanded budget.

The Tryon Palace Commission, $31,475 for 1971-1972 and $31,871 for 1972-73 to hire additional employees.

Greenville's Population Count Trailing Preliminary Figures

Greenville's population count in the preliminary stages is 28,522. This count is 1,394 less than the first preliminary figures announced by Jerry Scott in early June.

At that time, in an announcement sent to City Manager Harry Hagerty, Scott reported the preliminary figure for Greenville as 29,916.

The 28,522 figure was confirmed by Frank Bateman, a regional technician in the Office of the Census Bureau in Charlotte. "This count is taken from a publication released by the Department of Commerce," Bateman stated, "and as such is the official figure we use in reports of preliminary population figures."

Bateman noted that the officially confirmed census counts will be published later in the year, most likely in December. Scott, who was District Manager for the Census Office last spring for a 17 county district in northeastern North Carolina, stated, "The figure change I can only attribute to one of two possibilities." He noted these "as the possibility that we counted people outside the city limits, or an error in compiling the student count at the university."

Harold Creech, manager of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce and Merchants Association, said "the 28,522 figure is the one I've encountered frequently in recent reports. The only place I've noted mention of the 29,916 count has been in local reports and newspaper coverage."

Creech cited the 28,522 figure in the September bulletin issued monthly by the chamber. This figure in turn was reprinted from the September edition of "The North Carolina," a monthly publication of the North Carolina Citizens Association.

Based on the lower of the two preliminary figures, Greenville is now the 14th most populous city in North Carolina, following 13th place Wilson, with a population of 29,325. In the ten year period since the 1960 population count, Greenville, according to the preliminary figures, passed Kinston and Goldsboro in population count.

Both Goldsboro and Kinston were among a number of Eastern North Carolina towns for which the census shows a loss in population. Goldsboro dropped from 28,873 in 1960 to 26,332 in 1970 for a 8.8 percent loss. Kinston had a 12 percent loss, going from 24,819 to 21,840 in the ten year span.

Other Eastern North Carolina cities with losses were: Elizabeth City, 2.1 percent, from 14,062 to 13,772; New Bern, which dropped from 15,717 in 1960 to a 1970 count of 14,041 for a 10.7 percent loss; and Roanoke Rapids, dropping slightly less than one percent from 13,320 to 13,199.

Of cities in eastern North Carolina making population gains, Greenville's 24.8 percent gain was the sixth highest upward spiral in the state and compares to Jacksonville's 16.2 percent increase; Rocky Mount's 3.6 percent; and Wilson's 2 percent gain.

Bateman pointed out that all figures are subject to change with the release of the final report at the end of the year.

Soon after the announcement of the first preliminary figure of 29,916 by Scott, the city, in conjunction with the Chamber of Commerce, provided supplementary forms to citizens who claimed they were missed in the original census taken in April and May. These forms have been furnished the national census office in Indiana. It will not be known, however, until the final figure is released, whether any of the supplemental figures will be valid as additions to the census taken in the spring.

Communications Course To Begin

A comprehensive course in Oral Communications—the art of conversing cogently and clearly, of giving verbal reports and accounts of and of public speaking to large or small groups—begins Wednesday evening on the East Carolina University campus.

The non-credit course sponsored by the ECU Division of Continuing Education proved highly popular among area industrial and commercial firms and their employees when first offered last Spring. It is conducted by James Rees, assistant professor of Drama and Speech at ECU.

Registration for the course may be completed at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Nursing Building. The course will be conducted two hours weekly for 10 weeks.

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP)—Insurance Commissioner Edwin Lanier says the market for auto liability insurance in North Carolina shows signs of drying up. Some insurance industry spokesmen agree.

That's another way of saying that some companies are cutting back on the number of policies they are writing in the state.

One industry spokesman said he had heard that "some companies that heretofore have written quite a bit of business in North Carolina have discontinued writing any new business."

Insurance spokesmen say the reason is economic. They say they are losing money on their

North Carolina operations, and have asked for a 14.1 per cent rate increase.

Paul Mize, general manager of the North Carolina Auto Rate Administrative Office, says the tightening up in the liability insurance market dates back to the first of the year.

"I think it probably coincided with the underwriters having a look at 1969 results which were pretty bad," Mize added.

Dick Brantley, executive secretary of the North Carolina Association of Independent Insurance Agents, says the troubles include inflation and the tight money situation which has cut down on the amount of capital available to the insurance companies.

Mize said he has heard reports that some of the companies have stopped writing new business but have continued to renew their existing policies.

This makes it more difficult for persons seeking to purchase their first liability policies in North Carolina.

"This doesn't mean that can't get insurance," Mize stated. "It just means they have to shop around a bit more."

Mize said one reason the companies have stopped writing new business may be to avoid having to issue more policies under the assigned risk program. The amount of assigned risk business a company must write is based on the amount of business it did in the state two years previously.

"This is one consideration," Mize said, but it wouldn't be the only consideration by far."

Lanier told a liability insurance rate hearing last week there were indications the drying up of the market was a move by the industry to "sandbag" him into approving a rate boost.

Lanier said he has received complaints of companies refusing to renew policies in addition to halting the writing of new business.

Lanier said that when "the companies say they are losing money and when they say the rates are too low, they are ignoring." He said some companies have earnings other than the premiums they receive from the policy holders—such as earnings from premium finance firms and income from investments.

Offer Computer Course At ECU

The Computing Center of East Carolina University is offering a non-credit short course entitled "Communicating with the Computer via the FORTRAN IV Language," Dr. F. Milan Johnson, director, has announced.

The course will be conducted by Dr. Robert Morrison and will meet in Austin—109 at 7 p.m. Monday, Sept. 28 through Thursday, Oct. 1, and Monday, Oct. 5 through Thursday, Oct. 8.

Will Speak At Ecology Rally

Dr. Clifford Burnham Knight, professor of biology at East Carolina University, is scheduled to address an ecology rally of members of the Future Homemakers of America next month.

The rally, to be attended by FHA members in the Beaufort County Public Schools, will take place at Pantego High School, Oct. 7.

Organize New Senior Citizens Club Last Week

A new Senior Citizens Club was organized last week at Kearney Park.

Mrs. J. B. Spilman, coordinator of the Governor's Council on Aging, and Mrs. Alice Brewington, social worker for the Redevelopment Commission, met with 21 senior citizens at the recreation center of Kearney Park to form a senior citizens club.

The following officers were elected: Mrs. Alice Brewington, president; Mrs. Leatha House, vice president; Mrs. Reverta Sutton, secretary; Sim Chapman, treasurer; and Mrs. Tiny Reddick, chaplain.

The group will meet again Oct. 7. The Governor's Council on Aging will act as advisor and co-sponsor for the new club.

Astronauts Will Appear In TV Documentaries

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The nation's 50 astronauts and their wives have agreed to appear in a series of television documentaries on the U.S. space program, a film production firm says.

Part of a $100,000 fee for each program will go to the widows of astronauts who have died, with the remainder shared equally among the living astronauts and their wives. They also will share in the profits from the series.

The agreement was announced Monday by David L. Wolper, president of Wolper Productions Inc., and Louis Nizer, New York attorney for the astronauts.

The Great Wall of China runs for more than 1,500 miles along China proper's northern border.

Burlington Is Convention Site

Jehovah's Witnesses of Circuit No. 36 have chosen Burlington as the site of their next semi-annual circuit convention to be held Friday, Saturday, and Sunday at the Sellars - Gunn School Gymnasium.

Johnnie Tucker, presiding minister of the South Unit congregation here, said more than a thousand delegates from 16 cities and communities are expected to attend. Interested persons wishing to share the spiritual benefits of this three-day seminar may contact Tucker at Route 1, Box 390-AA, Bethel for final arrangements, he said.

The convention will be a climax to a regular weekly service meeting at the Kingdom Hall. It is sponsored by the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of New York. All sessions are open to the public, Tucker said.

TARBORO — The First Baptist Church here was the scene of the wedding of Miss Rebecca Ruth Rott and Edgar Leroy Bass Jr. on Sunday at 3:00 p.m.

Parents of the couple are the Rev. and Mrs. Ralph R. Rott of Lansdale, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar L. Bass Sr. of Tarboro.

The father of the bride and the Rev. J. Monte Bishop officiated at the double ring ceremony.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Ola Mae Nobles, organist, and Stephen McKibben, soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal length white satin organza gown styled with an empire bodice, high neckline and an A-line skirt. A wide panel of chantilly lace and seed pearls edged in Venise lace extended down the front of the gown. The long full sleeves featured deep cuffs with chantilly lace appliques and Venise lace trim. The detachable chapel length train was designed with lace appliques and Venise lace edging.

She wore a bouffant illusion veil attached to a Camelot headpiece of chantilly lace and seed pearls. She carried a nosegay of white roses and pom pons.

Miss Jane M. Cade of Greenville was maid of honor. She wore a pants suit of silver panne velvet with a tunic top. She carried a single red rose.

The bridesmaid was Maryann Howard of Greenville. She wore a pants suit of silver panne velvet with a tunic top and carried a single red rose.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were William Piper of Burlington, Alden Hull, Johnathan Franklin Havens Jr., John Latham Jenkins II, Lucius Grigg Sheffield Jr., Thomas Barron Ferrell and Edgar Benjamin Gammons Jr., all of Tarboro.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the friendship hall of the church.

The bride is a graduate of East Carolina University and is employed as a rehabilitation therapist at the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center.

The bridegroom is a graduate of East Carolina University and is administrative assistant at the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center.

The couple will reside in Greenville.

Salad Bowl
Layer Cake with Butterscotch Frosting

BUTTERSCOTCH FROSTING

1 package (6 oz or 1 cup) butter-scotch-flavor morsels

2 tablespoons water

1 package (8 oz) cream cheese, at room temperature

1 tablespoon light cream

1/4 teaspoon salt

1 teaspoon vanilla

1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Melt butterscotch morsels over hot (not boiling) water.

Add water; stir until blended.

Remove from heat and cool to lukewarm. Beat cream cheese, light cream and salt until smooth; blend in melted butterscotch and vanilla; fold in whipped cream. Use as filling and frosting for two 8- or 9-inch cake layers.

2 to 4 fresh nectarines

In a paper or plastic bag shake together the flour, salt, pepper and paprika; add chicken and shake to coat. Save remaining flour mixture. In a large skillet brown the chicken in the butter; transfer to a 2- or 3-quart shallow baking dish. Pour off excess fat from skillet. Blend reserved flour mixture into drippings in skillet; heat to brown slightly, stirring constantly; gradually stir in broth, then catchup and rosemary. Cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until thickened and boiling; remove from heat; stir in sour cream. Pour sauce over chicken; cover and bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until tender—about 45 minutes. Slice enough nectarines to make 2 cups. Add to baking dish and bake uncovered for 10 minutes longer. With a spoon, skim off as much fat as possible. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

DEAR ABBY: My sister has a beach front summer place on a lake. She also has two boys, ages 8 and 10, and two girls, 9 and 12. When the weather permits, she lets the boys play on the beach and in the water completely nude. However, she has the girls wear swimsuits.

We have two children, a boy 9 and a girl 11, who would enjoy a vacation at the lake, but I don't like this nude boy bit. My husband says I am wrong.

When I discussed it with my sister, she said it was good to bring up boys without secrets from their sisters, and I should do the same. I half jokingly asked her if she thought Dear Abby would agree with her and she bet you would because you had a pliant sense of fundamental realities. I agreed to write to you and show her your answer. I also agreed to concur with it. What do you say? MASS. MRS.

DEAR MRS.: I'm sorry to disappoint your sister, but my sense of fundamental realities isn't as "pliant" as she thinks it is. Ask your sister how come if it's "good" to bring up boys without secrets from their sisters, it isn't equally good to bring up girls without secrets from their brothers.

DEAR ABBY: You advised "NEW YORKER," who picked up a $5 bill on the street, to give her companion half, since they spotted it together and she had promised to do so. That may have been socially correct, but it was legally wrong.

I don't know how it is in other states, but in Utah, one who finds lost property and keeps it, or diverts it to his own use is subject to arrest. Found property must be turned over to the police who make an attempt to locate the owner. If after a reasonable amount of time, the owner cannot be located, the property is then turned over to the finder who then becomes the legal owner. This law is found in the larceny statutes, and is called larceny by finder.

LT. EDWIN HYMAS
POLICE DEPARTMENT, OGDEN, UTAH

DEAR LT. HYMAS: Thanks for wising up this naive columnist. There goes another long-held illusion, namely:

"Finders keepers Losers weepers."

Readers hear this: The finder who becomes a keeper without first attempting to locate the loser can become not only a weeper himself, but a loser as well.

DEAR ABBY: A friend has asked my advice on a matter, and I am asking you. Six months ago this friend lost his wife of many years. He is 64. He met a widow in church. She is 60. They are planning to be married around Thanksgiving.

The lady wants a church wedding, which my friend thinks is fine, but thinks she is going overboard with the wedding plans. She wants to walk down the aisle as first-time brides do, and have her son give her away. She also wants attendants—only "a few," she says, but she would like to wear a long, white, lacey gown with a veil. My friend thinks that under the circumstances and because of their ages, the less "fuss" involved the better. He prefers a quiet church wedding with only a few of the immediate family on both sides present. Your advice is solicited. HIS FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: I'm inclined to agree with your friend. But he and his lady had better get together on a definition of "fuss"—or there is apt to be a large one.

DEAR ABBY: I laughed with tears in my eyes when I read that letter from the girl who unhooked her bra to let her pre-med boy friend give her a backrub. Many years ago, when I was a pre-med student, I used that old backrub technique. I soon learned that if I could get a girl to unhook her bra, even though she was lying on her face, I'd have no trouble after that.

NEW YORK (AP) — Granny crocheted dollies for armchairs.

Today her granddaughter whips up crocheted bikinis and needlepoint pillows espousing "Love" and "Peace."

Needlecraft has come a long way from its "Home Sweet Home" sampler past. Women of all ages today are stitching, hooking, crocheting and weaving with a fervor that has caused department store needlecraft centers to enlarge and small needlecraft boutiques to sprout up all over the city.

For the young, the needlecraft renaissance offers a chance to create something of their own and a cheap way to have up-to-the minute fashion.

All last winter, girls sat on city buses and subways crocheting an almost endless variety and number of wool vests. With the warm weather, the needles began turning out bikinis.

The scant suits take only a few hours, a couple of ounces of yarn costing about $3, and a basic crocheting skill. To do it with a kit costs about $6, but the finished product in a department store or boutique goes for up to $40.

Other women are stitching bright wool flowers into crewel work that can be fashioned into a pillow, a chairback or a wall hanging.

—Or knotting, seafarer style, what appears to be venetian blind cord into macrame belts, bracelets, chokers and vests.

—Or learning florentine embroidery, Bargello, which dates back to the time of the Crusades.

—Or weaving straw on miniature looms for skirts, handbags, and hats.

Crewel work with an emphasis on bright colors and geometric designs is the frontrunner in popularity, says Elizabeth Cromwell, needlework buyer for Altman's Department store here.

Many women depart from the traditional flower needlepoint patterns to sew more contemporary designs fashioned with love or peace or a dove or peace sign—many from original hand-painted canvases.

Mrs. Cromwell explained it was necessary for the industry to modernize to keep the new booming generation of needleworkers happy with bright colors, exciting designs, and heavy yarns. The results, she said, is that stores cannot keep the shelves stocked with enough materials.

Altman's reports that needlework sales are growing at a rate three times that of the store in general, that the sale of crewel kits has doubled in 1970 over last year, and that the sale of yarn and canvas, for original work, has tripled over the same period. The store expects an even greater yarn-sale boom this fall and winter.

"Needlecraft is not too expensive and people like to say 'I did it myself—it's something I created,'" said Mrs. Cromwell, who added she has done needlework since she was five years old.

"Why it even appeals to people's interest in what is around them—ecology," Mrs. Cromwell said. Animals, frogs, bugs, and beetles are all popular subjects for a needlework canvas, she said.

For beginner, needlecraft kits for pin cushions or eye glasses cases cost under $2. For the more adept or ambitious, there are kits for elaborate tapestry-like wall hangings or rugs which can sell for several hundred dollars.

Others, such as Marsha Kaplan, 18, a physical education major at Adelphi University, shun commercial kits. Miss Kaplan, who also makes her own clothes, said she purchased only linen napkins and thread and yarn and created her own patterns. "Animals or just designs," she said.

The long-haired college student said her latest project was a sampler with a favorite quotation. "Be still and let the wind speak; hush the world is talking."

Garden Club Hears Program On Wildflowers

"Wildflowers of North Carolina" was the program topic used by Mrs. Herschel Williams for the Dig 'N' Delve Garden Club held Thursday at Oakmont Baptist Church.

Mrs. Barry Shank and Mrs. Charles Stevens were co-hostesses for the meeting.

Mrs. Williams used slides to illustrate her discussion of wildflowers. The speaker showed slides giving an overall view of each flower narration on the names as well as the habitat of each flower shown.

At the conclusion of the program, Mrs. Herbert Paschal, president, conducted a business meeting. Plans were made for club members to attend a workshop on "Table Techniques" on Oct. 16 in Rocky Mount sponsored by the Rocky Mount Garden Clubs.

Mrs. Shank was commended for her selection of programs for the year and Mrs. Max Ray Joyner, chairman of the yearbooks, presented the yearbook to each member.

Endangering Chances Of Peace

The events that are unfolding in Jordan are greatly jeopardizing the chances of a Middle Eastern peace.

What is going on there cannot help the United States' position in this seething section of the world. Our country is firmly committed to the survival of Israel despite the fact that we are proceeding carefully in negotiations between the Israeli and Arab worlds in hopes of keeping the cease fire going and preserving the possibility of getting the peace talks underway.

For Israel it probably does not make a great deal of difference if Hussein retains his powers. With all the fighting in the neighboring country and considering its own vulnerability Israel may decide that it must strike along the Jordanian border to take advantage of the confusion. This will mean an end to the cease fire which is still in effect and it may never be possible again to end the shooting.

The United States, has remained on fairly friendly terms with Hussein and if he were to fail there would be more trouble for our nation in the Middle East.

Meantime, as the strong Arab ally the Soviet Union stands to gain no matter what happens in Jordan, assuming, that is, that the Soviets are not brought into direct conflict with American forces.

There can be little doubt that what is going on in the Middle East now constitutes the greatest direct threat to world peace that we have seen in some time. It is a dangerous situation and the United States seems to be particularly vulnerable to coming out the loser in this matter.

The Course Is To Benefit You

By BRYAN HAISLIP
CHAPEL HILL — Who will be the most important person to the Course for Practicing Newsmen which begins September 28 at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill on the theme of the administration of justice? You, dear reader.

Oh, you won't be there. A dozen or so earnest news reporters and writers with varying degrees of experience will be the students. Thirty-five men and women with particular insights and skills in law and related fields will be the faculty.

For the 17 days of the course, spaced between derstand the events they were covering," Byerly recalled.

"In the fast-moving world we live in today problems are changing, issues are more complex, and it is impossible for the newsman to stay abreast without in-depth study, either on his own or in a directed program such as this," he added.

Recognition of the need and the course as a remedy came from within the ranks of practicing newsmen. The Piedmont chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity including press, radio and television newsmen, conceived the idea of a program of study which could be followed while still holding down a news job.

One of the leaders was Pat Kelly, executive news editor of the Winston-Salem Journal and Sentinel, and chairman of the advisory committee for the course.

Foundation Grant Secured
The group took the idea to the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and the Mary Reynolds Babcock Foundation in Winston-Salem. Both were receptive, and the initial course was held last spring with the cooperation of the University's extension division and under a grant from the Foundation. Endorsement and support came also from the North Carolina Press Association and the North Carolina Association of Broadcasters.

That first course was on the theme "Urban-Rural Growth Problems and Opportunities in North Carolina and the Nearby South." It produced a batch of testimonials from the 20 or so press, radio and television newsmen participating.

Sufficient funds remained for a second session, and for a theme the advisory committee selected "The Administration of Justice in North Carolina and the Nearby South."

Its design is broader than simply the day-to-day beat of the police and court reporter.

"So many issues lead to court these days," said Howard White, editor of the Burlington Times-News and a member of the advisory committee. "There is hardly any subject you can write about without an understanding of the courts and judicial procedure." Education, civil rights, consumer protection, pollution and environment, prison reform, drug abuse — all are touched by legal questions involving society's system for administering justice.

Higher Board May Be Opening Door To Aid

One can't very well quarrel with the Board of Higher Education's desire for state appropriations to aid two private medical schools in North Carolina.

The need for more medical students, physicians and experts in health fields have been emphasized for years on these pages.

But at what point does one draw a line for providing state aid at the private school level? Basis for the present recommendation is that it is in the best interests of North Carolina. But where, at what level in education does that factor of "best interests" stop?

Conceivably, that factor could reach all the way down the strata of education to level of kindergarten.

State aid to private educational institutions is almost a necessity sometime in the relatively near future. Those private schools are an integral part of the state and national scene; and, generally speaking, they are hurting.

Adlai Displays 'Ambivalence'

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
CHICAGO — The ambivalence of Adlai E. Stevenson III's campaign for the Senate is shown by his overriding of his advisers in enacting the prosecutor of the Chicago conspiracy trial at the same time that he is shying away from law-and-order rhetoric prepared for him.

Stevenson's dilemma is faced by liberal Democrats across the country: to satisfy the public's concern over crime and disorder without betraying liberal principles. Stevenson, in particular, is politically schizophrenic—at times the super-pragmatic politician intent only on victory, at other times the liberal idealist who would rather be right than Senator.

What makes this critical here is that Stevenson's underdog Republican foe, Sen. Ralph T. Smith, is burdened by no such ambivalence. His carefully planned strategy is to depict the front-running Stevenson as a coddler of terrorists and enemy of the police. Any hesitancy by Stevenson in dodging that label could quickly dissipate his lead.

Stevenson, however, showed no hesitancy whatever in recently naming Thomas Foran, the former U.S. attorney here who was the hard-boiled prosecutor in the uproarious Chicago conspiracy trial, as a vice-chairman in his campaign.

Contrary to a widely circulated rumor, Foran's appointment was not dictated by Mayor Richard J. Daley. It was Stevenson's own idea as a way of avoiding that anti-police image. Moreover, he was advised against it by his principal campaign aide: Daniel Walker, the Mon-gomery Ward executive who earned the Daley machine's everlasting enmity by heading a commission that described a "police riot" at the 1968 Chicago convention. When Stevenson insisted upon Foran's appointment, Walker concurred in it. But lesser Stevenson campaign workers, including scores of young volunteers, were traumatized.

In fact, Stevenson's supporters on the left have been sliding into progressively deeper disillusionment since Sen. Everett McKinley Dirksen's death created a vacancy in the Senate a year ago and Stevenson instantly sought after it. Until then, Stevenson had been moving leftward as an anti-Daley Democrat. Since then, he has made his peace with the Daley organization, attacked last November's anti-war demonstration, refused to blast the conspiracy trial, and, most recently, criticized school busing.

But if Stevenson is more the practical politician than was his father, he also wrestles periodically with his conscience. For instance, some of his more conservative advisers would like Stevenson to scrap completely his student-volunteer operation on grounds that they cannot conceivably help him and might well hurt him badly. Stevenson has insisted he will not shut his doors to students.

He also frets about stressing law-and-order, grumbling that he feels like a candidate for sheriff and rejecting the most trenchant law-and-order phrases dreamed up by his staff. A television commercial depicting a burly policeman's endorsement of Stevenson as

Norman Cousins' Reply

A couple of weeks ago I ordered an "open letter" to Norman Cousins, editor of Saturday Review, following a provocative talk he had made before the Association for Education in Journalism. His theme was the urgent need, as he sees it, for the development of new international institutions with power to halt the disintegration of our planet and to shape a better world.

Mr. Cousins is an old friend. By the generally accepted definitions of our day, he is a liberal, a conservative. One trouble with his idealism, I said, is that liberals tend to start with a view of men and nations as they ought to be — generous, peace-loving, tolerant and wise — while we conservatives start with men and nations as they are, which is not that way at all.

The column stirred up a gratifying mail, including a long and thoughtful letter from Mr. Cousins himself. He wrote me:

"I am not sure I know how to define liberalism. In any event, here goes: the essence of the liberal philosophy is a belief in the perfectability of man. But the upgrading of the human condition is nothing that proceeds out of drift. It calls for the finest expression of the human spirit and the most strenuous exercise of the human intelligence. It must be nurtured by hope and all the affirmative gifts and energies within human capability. It calls for the development of those conditions which foster and make human freedom possible.

"Now, having said this, it is also necessary to say that, under certain circumstances and conditions, otherwise decent men can become knaves. Human spirit can turn sour.

"Therefore, the question for all of us — liberal or conservative — is not whether man is basically good or evil, but how best to bring out the good and cope with the evil.

"I am sure you agree that no men understood this problem more thoroughly than the remarkable group of young men who founded the United States. In setting up a government, they wanted to make it possible for good men to hold office, but they also wanted to make life as difficult as possible for bad men in office. They felt that good men become bad when it is too easy for them to conceal their errors. Hence the emphasis on checks and balances. Hence the emphasis, too, on creating

Baby-Sitter Lament

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that young baby sitters get tired of hearing:

"When I baby sat at your age, Linda, I only charged 50 cents for an entire evening."

"I'm sorry there's nothing in the refrigerator to snack on but a couple of chicken wings, and they've been there for almost a week. If you don't eat them, would you mind feeding them to the cat?"

"You're five minutes late, Linda. Why is it that no one in the younger generation feels it is important to be prompt anymore?"

"Of course, it is none of my business since I'm not your mother, Linda, but if I were I certainly wouldn't let a daughter of mine go out at night wearing a dress that short."

"The kitchen is a total mess, and the sink is simply stacked with dirty dishes. If you don't mind neatening up the place while we're gone, I'll pay you an extra quarter."

"You should have no trouble with Alyce; she's a real angel. Little Jimmy is the one you have to watch. He likes to pretend he's a dog and sneak up behind you and bite your ankles."

"I hear you also baby sit for the Joneses, the family that just moved into the next block. They're supposed to be real weird. Tell me, what really goes on in their house?"

"Hi, kid, are you the baby sitter? Say, you're a knockout. Maybe I'll have my wife take the children out and stay home and let you sit me."

"Why do we have to have her, Mama, instead of our regular sitter? She looks mean. I'll bet she'll pinch us or make us go to bed early if we try to have any fun."

"I know you read me Cinderella three times, but then you read me about Red Riding Hood and the wolf and that scared me wide awake again. So it's all your fault. But I'll close my eyes and really fall asleep if you read me about Goldilocks and the Three Bears just once more."

"At the very last moment our neighbors decided to go along also, Linda, so they brought their two kids over. That means you'll have four to watch, but that shouldn't be too many for a big strong girl like you, should it, dear?"

"Oh my, I don't have any change left in my purse and all my husband has is a $20 bill. I'm afraid you'll have to charge it and let me pay you double the next time I call you."

"Hello, hello, Linda? Honey, I know I promised you we'd be back by 11:30 p.m., but something came up and we'll be a teensy-weensy bit late. Why don't you get a blanket and lie down on the sofa, and I'll wake you up when we finally make it home?"

Other Editors Say Changes Needed

(The Raleigh Times)
America needs reform in the way it elects its president — but that change shouldn't include direct election of the nation's chief executive. For that reason, it is to be hoped that Senate opposition to the direct-election proposal will be able to kill the proposal, which has already passed the House.

Another change would be to give each presidential candidate the same percentage of a state's electoral vote that he received in popular vote. This would come closer to reflecting the actual popular vote, without running the danger of a last-minute scramble which could be brought on if the election were by direct popular vote.

The present Electoral College method of picking a president is cumbersome, and could well produce a real crisis if it became necessary to put the election decision in the House of Representatives. It is possible for the Electoral College method to result in election of a president who received a minority of the popular vote.

There have been incidents in our own state, for example, of voting precincts where announcement of official returns was held up until it was determined how many popular votes a candidate needed to win. Such a situation could be multiplied many times over across the nation if there were direct popular vote for the president.

But, these objections could be cured by making some changes in the Electoral College itself. One major change would be the requirement that an elector vote for the candidate who carried his state. In 1968, President Nixon carried North Carolina, but one North Carolina elector wouldn't vote for him.

The Senate had a test vote last week on whether to shut off debate on the measure to provide for direct election. Whether the Senate will finally approve the amendment, and then submit it to the people, is still in doubt. It would be best, however, if the Senate killed the direct-election proposal and then moved on to the changes in the Electoral College system.

Today's Vogue Word: Eclectic

By ELMER ROESSNER
The vogue word today is "eclectic." It is getting more usage than "synergistic" or "uptight." In fact, one writer on interior decoration wrote that "the eclectic decor of a living room can be defines it as "composed of elements drawn from various sources" which is how the word is getting a work-out today.

Today fashions, interior decorating, furniture and menus are eclectic. The idea is not completely new; many a youth has put together an eclectic auto; many a lad has been sent off to school in eclectic clothes contrived from his brothers', father's and uncle's cast-offs.

Eclectic Decor
The word and the idea behind it are immensely popular in interior decoration. Decorators are taking delight and building reputations on placing Napoleonic pyramids in modern rooms and royal rugs on the floors of traditional rooms.

These are usually accompanied by squeals and statements such as, "How imaginative!" "How fabulous!" and "It just MAKES the room!" And it solves the problem of what to do with an ugly piece of furniture that doesn't go with the rest.

The idea is even more prevalent in fashions. A girl may wear an African shawl, a French blouse, American Indian leather slacks, with her hair done up in Reynolds Aluminum curlers. Her male companion may wear sandals from India, levis from out West, a pink shirt, a blueberry scarf and hair from God-knows-where.

It's not confined to hippie fashions, either. The swank designers are borrowing from every civilization, every age. One of these days we'll see a Grecian gown with a hobble skirt.

In Other Areas
The idea is prevalent in other areas. It is considered smart to fix goulash with Chinese snow peas, or chili pepper sauce with quiche. A Chinese restaurant feature

Boeuf Bourguignon. At this very moment, probably a dozen girls are rushing work on books to be called, "The Eclectic Cook Book," or "Eclectic Cooking Made Easy."

Advertising writers are deriving joy from inserting a few words from some ancient type font in a modern ad. Any day now expect to see some auto described as the "most successful, fastest car on the road."

And in the nineteenth century there was a system of herbal medicine known as Eclecticism.

Worker Benefits Figured
At 98¢ An Hour In 1969
The U. S. Chamber of Commerce calculates that workers' benefits were worth 98 cents an hour last year, and that for every $100 earned in wages, benefits averaged almost $28. The calculation was based on a survey of 1,115 companies.

Strength For Today

WHAT'S AHEAD?
"You can preach a better sermon with your life than with your lips."

This seems, does it not, to be a self-evident truth and a very good principle to follow day by day in even the most trying situations of life. The people who really influence their contemporaries are those who gain the respect of their fellowmen by the way they live their lives day by day.

Very often parents have little influence on their children because the children do not admire their parents or have much respect for their point of view. Politicians have the reputation of making big promises and then when they are in office forgetting what they have said. Usually such an accusation is unjust.

Politicians are about the same as any other group of people. They are not hypocrites. Sometimes they make certain promises which they find after taking office cannot be met. That person would be a wonder indeed who could say with confidence that six months from now he would do a certain thing. The world may turn upside down within the next six months, although we have got so used to its turning upside down that we feel pretty sure that the end of an era or the end of the world's life is not at hand.

So it would seem by all odds the best policy not to promise too much or expect too much. We more often get ourselves into trouble by talking too much than by keeping silent.

Bond Campaign Leaders Named

Pitt Memorial Hospital bond issue campaign leaders for area divisions and committees were announced today by general campaign chairman, Dr. Joe Pou, at a breakfast meeting at the hospital.

The goal of the campaign is the passage of a bond issue of up to $9 million to construct a new hospital facility for the county. The bond referendum is set for November 3 as part of the general election.

Dr. Pou said each area division will seek volunteers during the next week. "We owe full information about the new hospital plans and the old one to every voter who asks a question," he said. "Providing these answers will be the sole duty of many hundreds of Pitt Countians between now and Election Day."

The bond drive, which has been dubbed the "Bonds for Your Life" campaign is being sponsored by a Citizens' Committee made up of interested citizens from throughout the county.

Dr. Pou said those who wish to volunteer their service or who wish to contribute monetarily to the hospital effort to contact the Citizens' Committee campaign headquarters in the Person-Garrett building at the corner of Tenth and Greene Streets, P. O. Box 3454, or call 758-4192.

Area vice-chairmen already named are Linwood Langley for Greenville; David Speir and C. W. Everett for Bethel, Belvoir and Falkland; and Thomas E. "Sparky" McCaskill for Winterville.

Other committee chairmen are Harold Creech, public information; Henry Morris, industry; Curtis Hendrix, business; F. D. Duncan, education; Bill McDonald, clubs; Father Charles Mulholland and the Rev. James Arnold, co-chairmen, clergy.

J. H. Moye will serve the committee as treasurer.

system that can sustain life. Human life on earth is now endangered by war and preparations for war, by the poisoning of air and water, by depletion of natural resources, by overcrowding, by constrictions on human freedom.

"These dangers are real. These dangers transcend national boundaries. These are world dangers but we lack the world institutions to deal with them."

"What I urged in my Washington talk was that we fix our attention on these dangers and their implications. I am opposed to anarchy in all its forms. I do not think that mankind will solve its present problems in a dominant condition of world anarchy."

"Therefore, I have been urging the development of world institutions to meet world problems. I do not believe that the individual nation is capable by itself of

Everett Is Progressing

Republican candidate for Congress R. Frank Everett is reported to be making good progress, according to Jerry Scott, campaign manager for Everett.

"The doctors said they are well pleased with his progress," Scott stated. "He ate two full meals yesterday, including a steak dinner, and is in a good mood."

Scott said the doctor's report which had been expected to be completed yesterday was delayed and is now expected to be received by Everett's wife sometime today.

"We are all very optimistic at this point, but still cannot say at this time how long Mr. Everett might be hospitalized," Scott commented.

Everett was hospitalized at Pitt Memorial Hospital last Friday following what has been termed a mild heart attack suffered Thursday night.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — North Carolina egg markets steady to weaker Monday, supplies adequate, demand fair to good. Prices paid producers and handlers for consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets:

Grade A large whites: 52½ to 53; medium, whites: 45 to 46; small, whites: 29.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — North Carolina poultry supplies generally were in balance with fair to good ready to cook demand. Live at farms 14 cents per pound. Hens, firm on weights, steady on lighter weights. Supplies generally adequate. Demand fair to good. Heavies at farm 9 to 9½ cents. Light type too few to report.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — North Carolina hog prices today were steady to 25 cents higher. Tops of 19.25 to 19.75 at Rocky Mount; 18.00 to 19.75 at Tarboro; 19.25 to 19.50 at Wilson; 18.75 to 19.25 at Siler City, Denton; 18.00 to 19.00 at Bethel; 19.50 at Greensboro 19.00 at Salisbury.

NEW YORK (AP) — A flood of profit taking and concern about the Middle East set stock market prices awash in moderately active trading.

At 11 a.m. the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks slid 6.78 points to 745.11.

Declines led advances on the New York Stock Exchange by almost 3 to 1.

Analysts attributed the weakness in the market to concern over possible U.S. involvement in the fighting in Jordan. They also said investors were worried about the potential economic effect of a protracted General Motors strike.

In most brokers' view, however, the course of the stock market over the near term would depend on the Middle East situation.

Days Numbered For Automobile

BOSTON (AP) — Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe says, "There is no question in my mind that the automobile's days in the center city are numbered."

"I'm not proposing that it be outlawed—it is too vital for our mobility for that—but I suspect that it will have to be regulated to a certain extent," Volpe told the American Transit Association Monday.

He said the alternative must be "clean, fast, efficient and safe public transportation."

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — Chief Justice Warren E. Burger is under treatment at the Maine Medical Center for a back injury.

An aide said Monday Burger wrenched his back last week but that it was "not a serious situation" and that he planned to return to work shortly. The aide gave no details of the accident.

Balloon Is Down In Ocean

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. Coast Guard and Canadian air force joined today in a search for three balloonists believed down in rough Atlantic seas some 500 miles southeast of St. John's, Nfld.

The three, two men and a woman, were last heard from at 7:05 p.m. Monday when they radioed: "Six hundred feet and descending. Signing off. Will try contact after landing."

No further messages were received, leaving in doubt the fate of the crew which was attempting the first transatlantic crossing in a balloon.

Three Coast Guard cutters were ordered to the scene. The cutter Dallas arrived in the area at 1:30 a.m. EDT and began a search. Expected later were the Duane and the Ingham.

In Halifax, N.S., Canadian Air-Sea Rescue Service officials reported that a long-range patrol aircraft was being dispatched from Greenwood.

The huge orange balloon, christened "the free life," lifted off from a Long Island cow pasture Sunday afternoon. Aboard were Rod Anderson, 32, a New York commodities broker; his wife, Pamela Brown, 28, a television actress, and Malcolm Brighton, 32, of Farnham, England, an aeronautical engineer.

In the early stages of the flight the balloonists maintained an altitude of from 3,000 to 6,000 feet and all appeared well.

The balloon used both helium, in an inner sac, and hot air, supplied by a propane gas heater, for its lift.

Trouble began after the balloonists reported Monday that they had abandoned the heating system, making them dependent solely on the helium to stay up.

At the last report the balloon had run into a severe cold front and rainstorm that combined to cause it to lose altitude.

The gondola—12 feet in diameter and four feet deep—was made of buoyant material. And the adventurers carried a rubber life raft, parachute flares, medical supplies and a radio.

The balloonists had planned a 3,000-mile flight to "somewhere in France" that would have eclipsed the present balloon distance record of 1,896 miles set by an eight-man German crew in 1914.

The first attempt at a transatlantic balloon crossing took place in 1873. Most recently, two Canadians tried in 1968 but ran out of wind about 50 miles off Nova Scotia.

Dry Weather Helps And Hurts

RALEIGH (AP) — Dry weather, which has prevailed over North Carolina for the last several weeks, both helped and hurt Tar Heel farmers last week.

The Federal-State Crop Reporting Service said today that "soybeans are now at the critical stage and need rain badly."

But, the news service said, the hot dry weather enabled farmers to hold down boll weevil infestation of cotton. The state's cotton crop has improved and now is in "mostly good" condition throughout the state, the service said.

The news service said the dry weather "had allowed farmers to make good progress in their harvest activities."

TO CONFERENCE
RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott plans to be at Myrtle Beach, S. C., Oct. 19 to attend citizens-sponsored East Coast Highway Conference to promote support for a coastal freeway.

'Ducks Unlimited' Sets Decoy Show Sept. 30

The area Ducks Unlimited chapter has scheduled its annual dinner and decoy show for Sept. 30 at the Greenville Moose Lodge.

Area chairman John Farley pointed out that everyone interested in waterfowl hunting and conservation is invited to attend the meeting, set to begin at 6:30 p.m.

Roy Sowers, Director of the North Carolina Department of Conservation and Development will attend the annual session and give a brief talk.

One of the popular Ducks Unlimited movies on waterfowl activities will be shown.

George Bryant Jr. of Greenville will again prepare a decoy show for viewing and will arrange a selected combination of commercial and local, old and new, shooting blocks and decoys.

Farley noted that refreshments will be served at 6:30 and guests will have an opportunity to view the decoys and prizes. The dinner will begin around 7 p.m.

In an effort to get an early idea of the attendance expected, several local members are selling tickets in advance for $5 adult and $3 children. Persons interested in attending the dinner and meeting are urged to get their tickets in advance although they will be available at the door for those unable to get their tickets early.

Everyone wishing to purchase tickets in advance may contact a local DU member or mail a check to John Farley and a ticket will be returned.

The area chairman also pointed out that wives of hunters and others interested in conservation are welcome.

Ducks Unlimited Inc. is a private, non-profit membership organization dedicated to the conservation and propagation of North America's waterfowl.

With headquarters now located in Chicago, Ill., the organization was founded by a group of sportsmen and incorporated by them in 1937 in Washington, D. C.

This year alone, Ducks Unlimited, through funds furnished by its members, is spending $2,000,000 in Canada for rehabilitation and construction of some 63 quality waterfowl conservation projects.

Sen. Herman Moore of Mecklenburg County is serving as state chairman and Dr. Edwin C. Clement of Greenville is the eastern North Carolina sponsor chairman.

Cause Of Death Awaits Inquest

LONDON (AP) — What killed Jimi Hendrix, 27-year-old American rock guitarist, will be kept officially confidential until there has been an inquest.

Authorities said a postmortem examination was completed Monday but that the results would be withheld pending a coroner's hearing still to be set.

Hendrix was found unconscious at the home of a friend Friday and pronounced dead on arrival at St. Mary's Abbot Hospital. He came to Britain Sept. 6 for a series of appearances.

British fans had voted him top pop musician of the year in 1967.

Ky Receives Visa For Visit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam has received a visa for a projected trip to Washington which has aroused controversy in Congress.

Ky has been invited to address a "Victory in Vietnam" rally Oct. 3 being organized by the Rev. Carl McIntire, a fundamentalist radio preacher.

The State Department said Monday visas for Ky, his wife and a small part of aides were issued in Saigon Saturday, but that there still was no official information whether the trip to the U.S. capital would be made. Ky left Saigon today for Tokyo on the first leg of the trip.

Accepting Bids For Demolition And Salvage

Bids for demolition and salvage of three buildings of the Greenville City School system are now being accepted for opening on October 1.

Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, superintendent of the Greenville City schools, states that sealed bids for tearing down and salvaging materials from two buildings at the former Eppes Junior High School (not including the gymnasium and a residence on the school property), and for a storage building behind Third Street school, are now being taken.

Parties interested in the possibility of making bids are asked to contact the administrative office on West Fifth Street for details of specifications of the work to be accomplished in connection with the planned demolition and salvage.

Cougars Meet Condors In Minges Game

Manteo Grabs Tidewater Lead

Manteo knocked the Ayden Tornados off the top of the East Tidewater Conference last Friday night, but the Indians may not be comfortable there. They have to face the threat of being knocked off by Knapp's Knights later in the year.

Tidewater

Manteo, with a 1-0 loop record, is now in the lead but Knapp hasn't lost yet in non-conference play, while Manteo has. The two have their first meeting, non-conference one, in two weeks.

Ayden, meanwhile, has to hope for some fancy happenings if they are to get a piece of the title. And this would have to include a pair of losses by Manteo in conference action.

"I feel we had the better club," Ayden coach Nelson Gravatt said. "We just made too many mistakes. We have too many fumbles and interceptions to keep our drives alive. We had a lot of our passes hit the ends, but they either dropped them or tipped them into the hands of Manteo."

Gravatt also noted that two big 15-yard penalties helped out Manteo's first scoring drive.

"Injuries also hurt us. We had to move a lot of people around, and this threw us off. It just wasn't our night, I guess."

Despite the fact that some of the linemen are pretty sore and that Willie Stewart has an ankle injury, all are expected to be ready to go this Friday night.

"Manteo has a good team, but I don't feel like they are as good as we are — but they won, didn't they? They made good on the breaks. Nothing we did was right"

This week, Ayden plays their third straight conference game, another must affair, as they travel to Camden. "They have some real good players and they like to throw the ball a lot," Gravatt said. "They had a lot of trouble with Knapp. They're not bad, but they lack depth."

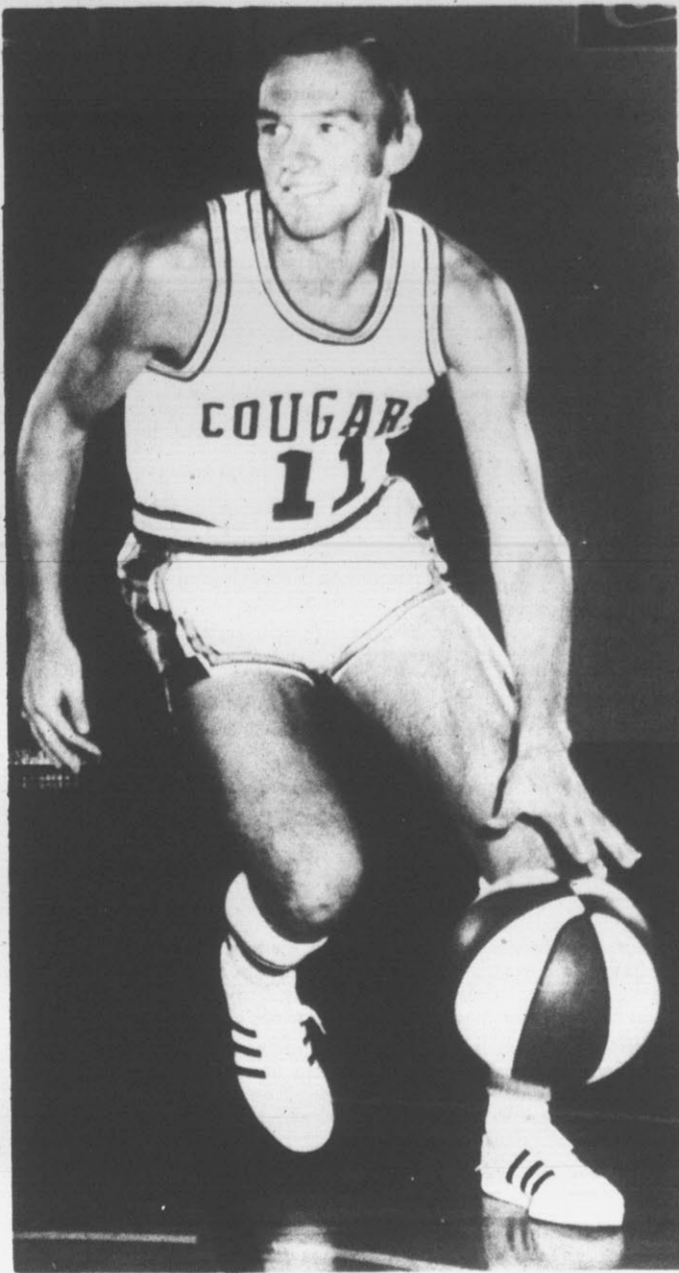

Gravatt said he expected to make some changes in his offense this week, including the end positions, and the offensive line. "We've got to get better receiving and blocking."

In addition to Manteo's 20-14 win over Ayden, Knapp beat Camden in a non-conference meeting, 36-6, and Columbia rolled over newcomer Pantego, 64-8.

This week, besides the Ayden-Camden meeting, Manteo hosts Barry Robinson, and Columbia is at Knapp in a non-conference game.

The current Tidewater standings:

	Conf.	Overall
Manteo	1 1 2 1
Ayden	1 1 2 1
Knapp	0 0 3 0
Camden	0 0 2 1
Columbia	0 1 1 2

Leads Cougars

Bob Verga, a 6-1 guard with the Carolina Cougars, and a former Duke University star, is one of the players who will be in action tonight at 8 p.m. in Minges Coliseum. The Pittsburgh Condors will be the opposition for the Cougars.

It's "Show Time" tonight when the Pittsburgh Condors and the Carolina Cougars meet in an American Basketball Association exhibition game at Minges Coliseum on the East Carolina College campus in Greerville.

"This is what I've been looking forward to," admits Condors Coach Jack McMahon who is starting his first season in the ABA after a decade of success in the NBA with the Chicago Zephyrs, the Cincinnati Royals and the San Diego Rockets.

"These kids have impressed me in practice but you have to see them under actual game conditions before you can make a firm evaluation."

The man who may steal tonight's spotlight is rookie center Walker Banks, a 6-10 phenom from Western Kentucky via Clifton Forge, Va. "He has to be the biggest surprise in camp," Jack feels. "He wasn't a star in college but I just can't say enough good things about him and if he does as well against the Cougars as he has looked in practice, I'd have to say we have ourselves a real find."

Banks must be considered a leading candidate for the Condors' starting center position along with 6-9 Ken Spain of Houston and 6-8 veteran Mike Lewis of Duke.

Lewis, the club's leading rebounder last year with a 13.5 average, easily could be moved to the corner if Banks continues to sparkle. And McMahon would consider that move a plus for the team.

Another rookie who figures to get a lot of work tonight is 6-7

Mike Maloy, the All-American from Davidson who was the Condor's No. 1 draft pick this year.

"Maybe Mike needs game action," McMahon says hopefully. "He has a lot of ability and we're counting on him for big things this season."

Jack wouldn't be pinned down to a starting lineup. "You look at

Williams Is Winner

Andy Williams of 2614 Tryon Drive in Greenville captured the first of the 1970's season of The Daily Reflector Football Contests for last week.

Williams correctly picked the winners of 27 of the 32 games in the contest.

Second prize will be shared by Gloria Fletcher of 106 N. Warren St., and I. L. Cockman Jr. of 22 Carriage House. Both picked the winners in 26 of the games. Each of them picked 74 as the most points that would be scored in any one game. Actually 69 was the total.

One other person picked 26 right, but was further away from the point total.

The second weekly contest appears on the following two pages.

your personnel and it's a case of going with the established veterans or giving the rookies a good workout under fire. John Brisker has to be a starter. But I know what he can do. I'm really more concerned to find out of the rookies can do it, too."

Brisker, Banks, Lewis and Maloy will see plenty of action, however, because "the object of the game still is to win," McMahon added.

Among the more exciting new faces for the Condors will be 6-7 Simmie Hill who was obtained in a summer trade with the Miami Floridians and 6-6 Charlie Hentz of Arkansas AM & N who McMahon bills "as the world's greatest leaper."

Charlie Williams, the team's all-league guard, also will see his first game action since undergoing knee surgery last February.

Whitley Gets Southern Honor

George Whitley, East Carolina University's defensive standout, was named today as the Southern Conference Defensive Athlete of the Week.

Whitley was honored for his play in the East Carolina-East Tennessee game, won by ETSU, 10-0.

The 5-11, 180-pound senior co-captain, is a native of Huntersville and graduated from North Mecklenburg High School. During the game, he was the defensive standout for the Pirates, intercepting a pass, and running back three punts and two kickoffs.

The interception was the third of the year for him; he had picked off two against Mid-American Conference Player of the Year Chuck Ealey in the opener with Toledo.

The three punt returns were for 30 yards, but one of them, which went for 24, almost saw him break loose. Only the last defensive man was able to put the tackle on him. His two kickoff returns went for 56 yards, and the last, of 33 yards, again almost saw him break away. Again, it was the last man who stopped him.

Bob Herb, William & Mary's center, was named Offensive Player of the Week for his work in the Indians' game with Miami's Hurricanes on Friday night.

No Frosh Ball For Crumpler

Highly touted East Carolina University back Carlester Crumpler will be held out of football participation this year, it was announced Tuesday morning by ECU Head Coach Mike McGee.

"Rather than arouse any questions concerning his eligibility, we have decided to keep Carlester out of active participation with the freshman team this fall," said McGee. "This will allow Carlester to concentrate on his studies and will benefit both our football team and this young man in the long run."

"Carlester was in the upper half of class at Fike High School in Wilson, and we are confident he will acquire himself well academically here at East Carolina," said McGee.

The ECU freshman team opens its season here Friday night against the North Carolina State frosh. Kickoff time for the Ficklen Stadium encounter is 7:30 p.m.

Crumpler was one of the most sought-after running backs in the nation last spring. He won High School All-American honors in 1969 after leading Fike to an unprecedented third straight state 4-A championship. He signed a National Letter of Intent with ECU last May.

Blue No-Hits Minnesota Club

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer Only recently Vida Blue said, "You don't try to pitch a no-hitter." Somehow it's hard to believe the 21-year-old Oakland rookie left-hander, who only 18 days ago was pitching in the minors.

Monday night the A's fastballer tried and did it. He stopped the Minnesota Twins without a hit, giving up only one walk—a fourth inning pass to Harmon Killebrew on a 3-1 pitch—in missing a perfect game.

The A's won the game 6-0 as Bert Campaneris scored the first Oakland run in the opening inning after cracking a triple and then drilled a three-run homer in the eighth off loser Jim Perry, 23-12.

In other American League action, Baltimore nipped Detroit 4-3 in 12 innings, Boston edged Cleveland 2-1, New York stopped Washington 5-2, California nudged Milwaukee 7-6 and Chicago and Kansas City split a doubleheader. The White Sox winning 8-4 before losing 8-2.

In the National League, Cincinnati blanked Houston 2-0 and San Francisco trounced Los Angeles 7-0.

Blue, a 6-foot, 187-pounder from Mansfield, La., tossed a one-hitter only 10 days ago, beating Kansas City 3-0. He had a no-hitter for 7 2-3 innings before the Royals' Pat Kelly stroked the only hit.

After that game, Blue, now 2-0, after his fourth start for the A's this season, said:

"You don't try for a no-hitter. If you did, you'd be second guessing yourself. You'd be shaking off pitches you ought to throw."

Apparently he didn't learn his lesson as he struck out nine Twins, including the first two batters in the ninth before getting Cesar Tovar for the last out on a foul pop to first. He became the first rookie no-hit pitcher since Don Wilson of Houston did it in 1967.

A crowd of 4,284 was on hand in Oakland as Blue's masterpiece prolonged the West Division clinching for the Twins, who need only a victory over the A's to win their second successive crown. "I don't want the Twins to open their champagne in Oakland," Blue said.

"Pitching a no-hitter is lucky," said the youngster, who was 1-3 at Des Moines of the American Association.

He was more than lucky Monday as the Twins managed only three balls to the outfield and the closest Minnesota came to a base hit was in the fifth when catcher George Mitterwald lined to shortstop Campaneris, who made a leaping, backhanded catch.

Other no-hit gems this year were thrown by Clyde Wright of the California Angels in the AL and Bill Singer of Los Angeles and Dock Ellis of Pittsburgh in the NL.

Blue's best pitch is his blazing fast ball but, "his breaking ball came along good this year," said A's Manager John McNamara. "He's got a chance to

Ohio State Is Still On Top

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ohio State's Buckeyes, still awaiting their 1970 debut, continue as the No. 1 major college football team in the nation but the Texas Longhorns have served notice of their intention to claim and keep the top spot.

Ohio State drew 14 first-place votes and 645 points in this week's Associated Press poll while Texas, 56-15 winner over California in its opener last Saturday, closed to within 13 points of Ohio State and outdrew the Buckeyes in first-place votes with 16.

Stanford ripped San Jose State 34-3 and moved from fourth to third, Penn State advanced from seventh to fourth after trouncing Navy 55-7 and Mississippi remained fifth after mauling Memphis State 47-13.

Notre Dame, 35-14 conqueror of Northwestern, held on to sixth, while Southern California, No. 3 the previous week, found itself in seventh after a 21-21 tie with Nebraska which moved from ninth to eighth.

Missouri, which crushed Minnesota 34-12, advanced from tenth to ninth while Michigan fell from eighth to 10th after struggling past Arizona 20-9.

be a real outstanding pitcher."

Rookie John Oates cracked a leadoff triple in the 12th inning and scored on Mark Belanger's single as the Orioles sent the Tigers to their fifth straight loss. Boog Powell had a two-run homer for the Orioles, his 35th.

Carl Yastrzemski and Rico Petrocelli drilled homers in the Red Sox squeaker, their sixth consecutive victory. It was Yastrzemski's 40th and Petrocelli's 28th of the season.

The Second Ten, in order, are Houston, Arkansas, Florida, Oklahoma, UCLA, West Virginia, Tennessee, Colorado, Georgia Tech and Air Force.

Louisiana State, Kansas State, Georgia and Arizona State all fell from the rankings.

EXPLANATION - The Dunkel system provides a continuous index to the relative strength of all teams. It reflects average scoring margin combined with average opposition rating, weighted in favor of recent performance. Example: a 50.0 team has been 10 scoring points stronger, per game, than a 40.0 team against opposition of identical strength. Originated in 1929 by Dick Dunkel.

Pres. Tito Planning Step Down

By BORIS BOSKOVIC
Associated Press Writer
BELGRADE (AP) — President Tito has announced that he will step down after ruling Yugoslavia for 25 years and turn the country's government over to a collective leadership.

Tito, 78, did not indicate Monday what his position would be, but it was believed in Belgrade, the nation's capital, that he would remain head of the Communist party and would run the new presidium, at least in its initial phase.

Further details will be announced later, Tito said.

"I am quite long in this post and I would like to have more possibilities to work on some other projects," he said in a speech Monday in Zagreb, the country's second largest city.

Tito, who broke from Moscow in 1948 and was named president for life in 1963, said reorganization of the country's Communist government was necessary to preserve Yugoslavia's unity. He gave no timetable for the changeover. But he said speculation on who might succeed him could provoke a crisis, and that to avoid it, governmental restructuring was necessary.

He explained that he initiated the change because "if someone else did, it would look as if they wanted to remove me."

Tito said he would be replaced by a presidium that would be "a form of collective president of Yugoslavia." The body would consist of representatives from the country's six republics and its main social and political organizations, including the Communist party.

Tito was a partisan leader against the Nazis in World War II and maintained close ties with the Soviet Union immediately following the war. But in 1948 his country became the first Soviet satellite to break

Use Of State Funds For Busing City School Children 'Illegal'

RALEIGH (AP) — The use of state funds for busing city school children in North Carolina is illegal, Superior Court Judge James H. Pou Bailey said in a preliminary ruling Monday night.

Bailey said, however, he would give the Board of Education time to appeal to the State Supreme Court before enforcing a preliminary injunction to halt the city buses.

The transportation of 111,500 city pupils in 114 school systems throughout North Carolina hinges on the decision.

In many school units desegregation is dependent upon state-funded transportation.

Bailey's ruling came in a suit challenging the right of the state to loan used school buses to school districts to transport children under desegregation orders. George Ragsdale, a Raleigh lawyer and former Superior Court Judge, brought the suit on behalf of three Winston-Salem residents. It charged that state education officials are illegally loaning used school buses to dozens of North Carolina cities and towns, and asked for a temporary injunction to halt the practice.

Sixty-six of the buses are in use in Winston-Salem and 185 in Charlotte. Others are being used in school units throughout the state.

Underwriters Hold First Fall Meeting

The Pitt County Association of Life Underwriters held its first fall meeting on Friday at the Greenville Golf and Country Club with 22 members and four guests present.

Several reports were given during the session including a summary of the business of the last meeting held in June before the summer break. Secretary-treasurer "Ike" Pollard presented the data.

Association president William C. Smith reported on the board meetings that were held during the summer. Smith told members that directors had voted to continue having the Life Underwriters Training Courses this fall for all eligible underwriters.

A report on the Life Underwriters Political Action Committee was given by Johnny Spencer and association members voted to pay a small amount individually towards support of the organization.

Spencer, chairman of the Mr. Achievement Awards Committee, presented a plaque to Bob Lawhead for his services as moderator of the LUTC sessions for the 1969-70 year.

The chairman also presented Leon Smith a diploma for completing part one and two of LUTC. Smith will serve as moderator for part one of the LUTC course for this year.

It was announced that the deadline for applying to attend the course has been set for Oct. 10 with the class scheduled to begin on Oct. 26 at Pitt Technical Institute.

Classes for the Certified Life Underwriter's course (part one) will begin on Sept. 24 at Pitt Tech and CLU (part five) will begin the same day at Bill Strouds office.

Yugoslavia's relations with Moscow and Washington alternately warmed and cooled.

Tito's announcement was not expected to affect President Nixon's planned visit to Yugoslavia next week. However, any U.S. intervention in the Jordanian civil war could force cancellation of the trip because of Tito's close ties with Arab leaders.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Andrew Vanore argued that none of the four individuals "has been vested by law with control over any of these discarded buses."

Vanore contended that title to the buses rests with the local boards of education rather than the state.

Ragsdale brought the suit on behalf of J. O. Styers, R. C. Pfaff and Robert G. Schultz.

"We have not sued the state," Ragsdale argued. "We have sued four people. Ed Gill is in fact the treasurer of the state of North Carolina and has all the money. And George Lambert is the disbursing officer and disburses all the money."

Ragsdale said it is necessary to sue "no other party" to stop the expenditure of state funds to operate the discarded buses.

Smog, Soundwaves Destroy Parthenon

By JOHN RIGOS
ATHENS (UPI) — Smog and jet aircraft sound waves are slowly destroying the Parthenon, Greece's most famous ancient monument.

On hot, humid days a light bluish gray cloud of smog lingers over Athens. It blurs the Acropolis, the majestic hill rising from the city center.

Millions of tourists trodding on the ancient floors take their toll on the Parthenon and other temples on the Acropolis. But ecologists and archeologists say the real dangers are jet aircraft sound waves and erosive car exhaust fumes.

"In a relatively few years, through misuse of the environment, man is about to do what no one has been able to do in more than 2,000 years—destroy the Parthenon," William J. Scott, Illinois' Attorney General, said. Scott was calling for a world crusade against pollution during a recent Greek-American convention.

Most Beautiful
The Parthenon, built during Greece's "golden age" 2,500 years ago, is considered the most beautiful example of ancient Greek architecture.

Partly destroyed by an explosion during the 17th century when it was used by the Turkish Army as a powder magazine, the Parthenon was also threatened with destruction during the 1821 Greek war of independence.

Tradition says the Turkish garrison, besieged in the Acropolis during the first year of the revolution, ran short of ammunition and considered breaking up the parthenon's marble columns to extract and melt the lead used to join the sections.

When Greek attackers heard this, they pleaded with the Turks to leave the marble alone and supplied their adversaries with bullets.

Now Greeks are again rallying to the Parthenon's salvation.

"Within a few years the Acropolis will be hidden from our eyes behind a cloud of smog," a recent report by the Greek Technical Chamber warned. The Chamber includes all branches of technology, including physicists, chemists, engineers and architects.

More Damage in 25 Years Than 2,500
The report said the Acropolis monuments "during the last 25 years have suffered more damage than during the previous 25 centuries."

Such ominous forecasts have led to the recent emergence of a Greek society for research and control of air, water and ground pollution.

The society is headed by an Athens University professor, Stavros Triantafyllidis. It says it will measure pollution in Athens and other cities, develop methods for its prevention and combat it.

A founding member, mechanical engineer Dimitrios Nikolaou, said pollution in Greece was not yet acute "but steps must be taken now to cope with it."

Nikolaou said air pollution in Athens had in the past been averted because strong north-east winds kept the air moving.

"But soon Athens will be a city of three million inhabitants and it will cost about $60 per

LWV Plans Two Socials

The Greenville-Pitt County League of Women Voters will begin its fall activities with two socials—a morning coffee and an evening party—both for members and women who are interested in joining or learning more about the League program.

Both events will be held Wednesday at the St. Paul Episcopal Church fellowship hall. (The entrance is on Third Street.) The coffee is set for 10:30 a.m. and the evening party for 8 p.m.

Refreshments are being donated by members, according to Mrs. Joe Paulk, membership chairman.

The League of Women Voters is a non-partisan organization designed to promote informed citizen participation in local, state, and national government. The local LWV has provisional status with the national organization at present. It is putting finishing touches on a report of its study of city and county governmental procedures to be published soon. This report will be submitted as part of the requirement for gaining regular LWV status.

Sexauer Art In 3 Shows

Donald Sexauer, faculty member at East Carolina University's School of Art and printmaker, has 13 prints and two complete folios currently on exhibit in three shows.

Images on Paper, an invitational traveling exhibition sponsored by the Mississippi Art Association in Jackson, Miss., has three of Sexauer's intaglio prints in their current show which will be traveling to 25 colleges, universities and libraries in Mississippi.

Two other intaglio prints, "Need for A Moses" and "With Strings Attached" are part of a traveling exhibition sponsored by the Old Borgen Art Guild of Bayonne, N. J. This exhibit, an invitational one entitled "Contemporary American Graphics 1970-1971," will tour for ten months and will be shown in art centers, museums and educational institutions in approximately 12 states.

Eight prints and two complete folios by Sexauer are included in a print exhibition at the Gallery of Contemporary Art in Winston-Salem. This exhibition also has work by Tom Hammond, an ECU graduate.

Sexauer is Chairman of the Department of Printmaking in the School of Art.

To Try Girl For Set Fire

HICKORY, N. C. (AP) — A 17-year-old girl accused of setting a fire in a trash can at her school during racial disorders has been bound over to Superior Court for trial.

State Dist. Court Judge Livingston Vernon heard probable cause in a hearing Monday for Elizabeth Wright. She was released on $5,000 bond.

Miss Wright and several other Negro girls were suspended from Hickory High School early this month when they led cheers during a football game to protest the lack of Negroes on the cheerleading squad. The suspensions were followed by scattered fighting and vandalism that prompted a dawn-to-dusk curfew for the city.

Earlier Monday, 16-year-old Robert C. Caldwell was sentenced to six months in prison for breaking windows in a coin laundry the night before the curfew was imposed. He also was given 30 days for curfew violation and 30 days from illegal possession of alcoholic beverages in violation of curfew rules.

Pitt County

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain deed of trust executed by J. C. Smith and wife, Virginia T. Smith, dated the 3rd day of September, 1957, and recorded in Book V-29, page 385, in the office of the Clerk of Deeds of the County of North Carolina, default having been made in the payment of the indebtedness thereby secured and said deed of trust being by its terms subject to foreclosure, the undersigned trustee will offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder for cash at the courthouse door in Greenville, North Carolina, at 11:00 A.M., the 25th day of September, 1970, the property conveyed in said deed of trust lying and being in the County of Pitt, Bethel Township, State of North Carolina, more particularly described as follows:

1. Lying and being situated in Bethel Township and in the Town of Bethel between Pleasant Street or U.S. Highway No. 64, and Railroad Street and beginning on Railroad Street at the northwest corner of Roy Craft running thence westerly along said Railroad Street 237 feet, thence southerly in a straight line to Pleasant Street or U.S. Highway No. 64, at a point 190 feet west of D. T. Hooper's southwest corner, thence northerly along said street 190 feet to D. T. Hooper's southwest corner, thence northerly with the line of D. T. Hooper and Roy Craft to the place of beginning, and being the residence house and lot of J. C. Smith and Virginia T. Smith, his wife.

But this sale will be made subject to all outstanding and unpaid taxes and municipal assessments.

The successful bidder at the sale will be required to make a 10 percent deposit of the purchase price pending the confirmation of the sale by the Court.

This the 24th day of August, 1970.

The Worry Clinic

Not All Need Be Childless

Mavis began to feel inferior because of her apparent sterility. Yet physicians found her to be a normal, healthy wife. And her husband was likewise O. K. Yet they were childless after 10 years of marriage. Then she sent for the simple medical booklet below and now has had two children within 3 years.

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph. D., M. D.

CASE 0-537: Mavis T., aged 32, wanted a baby.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "my husband and I have been married for 10 years.

"And although we hoped and prayed for children, I never could get pregnant.

"So we were both thoroughly checked by medical specialists and pronounced normal.

"Still I never got pregnant.

"Then we even tried fertility hormones but to no avail.

"Finally, I read one of your columns on this subject and sent for your 'Pregnancy Booklet.'

"Well, I was pregnant within a month!

"And I have now had a second baby without any trouble. Isn't it marvelous?"

Science is usually very simple. It is based on elementary rules, which used to be called "horse sense" or "gumption." Fancy surgical techniques are wonderful — when needed!

reports on 6,248 womb removal operations (hysterectomy) and says that 40 percent were unwarranted and unnecessary!

Which illustrates in this supposedly scientific modern age, the magical worship of the scalpel!

In fact, the Voodoo Doctors by chance alone would have rated at least a 50 percent batting average on those 385 appendectomy cases, as contrasted with only 42 percent by our modern surgeons!

Since the male sperm may deteriorate so fast within even 6 hours that it cannot impregnate a wife's ovum, then chance alone can explain the lack of children throughout a wife's entire child-bearing years.

Excessive vaginal acidity, easily neutralized by a teaspoonful of baking soda in a quart of warm water, can also stop sterility in may wives who are otherwise healthy, normal females.

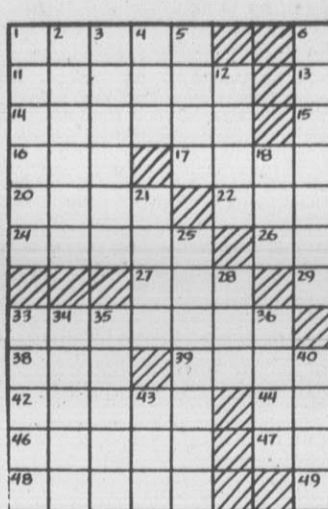

And the 15th day before the next expected menstrual onset, is the usual pregnancy date in a wife's calendar.

So send for my medical booklet "Facts About Pregnancy," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

LOURENCO MARQUES, Mozambique (AP) — Authorities plan to resettle 14,000 people as part of a project to double the size of Gorongosa National Park nature reserve to 2,450,000 acres.

Free Concert By Organist

Paul Quarino, popular young organist, will be in Greenville to give a free concert September 30 at 8 p.m. at the Music Shop located at 207 East Fifth Street.

Quarino, who is equally at home on the large pipe organ as well as the new smaller electronic organs, began his musical training when he was seven years old. At 13, he was playing as a church organist.

He studied music at the University of Wisconsin, and at the Mac Phail College of Music. For the past three years he has been an organ instructor at North Central Bible College of Music.

In recent years he has been giving a number of recitals in the Midwest. His concerts include interpretations of every type of music from the classics to modern jazz.

The public is invited to attend the free concert, which will be Quarino's only one in the Greenville area at this time.

Kosteck Works To Be Performed Here

First performances of three compositions by East Carolina University's composer-in-residence, Dr. Gregory Kosteck, have been announced for the Fall.

The music ranges in media from woodwind-ensemble to piano duo. Kosteck noted that each piece is of substantial length.

The duo-piano team of Veri and Michael Jamanis will present "Music for Piano-Duo on a Note-Row by Alban Berg" in Alice Tully Hall of Lincoln Center, New York, on October 8. On October 9, the Temple University Orchestra, under the direction of Keith Brown, will premier "Clouds for String Orchestra and Fifteen Percussionists" in Philadelphia.

Brown was conductor for the first two performances of Kosteck's "Music for Organ and Four Trombones" last November, which won the $1,000 prize of the American Guild of Organists in Philadelphia.

Two Tar Heels Killed In Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department says two North Carolina soldiers have been killed in action in the war in Southeast Asia.

They were Sgt. Dennis L. Daves of Lincolnton and Spec. 4 Curvin Clayton of Durham, both Army men.

Statewide Alert For 2 Suspects

ASHEBORO, N. C. (AP) — A statewide alert has been issued for two men who police say shot another to death and wounded his companion.

Sheriff Lloyd Brown of Randolph County said intruders fatally shot Charles Ray Conner, 40, at his home Sunday and wounded Raymond Holland, about 40.

The assailants were described as between 20 and 25 years old. The sheriff said an undetermined amount of money was taken from Conner's wallet.

On October 23, the University of Michigan Faculty Woodwind Quintet will feature Kosteck's "Magic Music for Woodwind Quintet" on the first in the series of Contemporary Music Festival concerts scheduled at the University in Ann Arbor this Fall.

"Music for Piano-Duo on a Note-Row of Alban Berg" received the Prix Musical F. Busoni de Perugia (Italy), an international award, last January.

Opening lead: Queen of ♠ South had the equivalent of game in hand and he was pleasantly surprised to hear his partner make a positive response to his demand opening bid of two hearts. Repeated bids in the black suits by North convinced South that a distinct misfit was present. He should probably have pulled in his horns completely and settled for a game contract, however, he chose to proceed to six hearts.

West opened the queen of spades, the deuce was played from dummy and declarer ruffed in his hand. The A-K-Q of hearts were cashed, North discarding two clubs and one spade and on the third round, East showed out—shedding a spade.

West was given his trump trick as the dummy discarded another club and East—a club. The jack of spades was led, the six was played from dummy and South ruffed. He led his last trump and West discarded the eight of spades as the dummy threw the nine of spades and East the four of diamonds.

The eight of clubs was led to dummy's king. The ace was cashed and East had to make another discard. Here is the end position that developed:

NORTH
♠ K
♦ A 10 9

EAST
♠ 10
♥ 10 3
♦ Q 9 8 5
♣ Void

SOUTH
♥ Void
♠ A K J 7 6
♦ Void

The play of the ace of clubs placed East in an untenable position. He actually chose to save the ace of spades and give up a diamond. A diamond was led from dummy and South finessed the jack, cashed the ace and king—picking up the remaining cards in that suit and took the final trick with the seven of diamonds. If East had discarded the ace of spades, dummy cashes the king and follows with the diamond finesse for the last three tricks.

West could have broken the squeeze and thereby assured South's defeat by shifting to either a diamond or club when he is in with the jack of hearts. Declarer's line of communications is thereby severed before he is able to exert pressure against East.

Jones Joined In Policy Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Walter Jones, D-N. C., presented a resolution to President Nixon Monday in support of the President's position on Vietnam.

Jones was one of 23 members of the Senate and House presenting petitions, letters, resolutions and other tokens of support to the President.
