Tobacco Is Witnessing Downtrend Hussein And Arafat Announce Agreement To End Conflict

By DON KENDALL AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tobacco farmers could be in for stormy weather down the line because of a continued decline in American cigarette habits and rising competition for lucrative world markets.

Total production this year, including Puerto Rico, is estimated at 1.86 billion pounds, slightly more than the 1969 crop. A gain in per-acre yields more than offset a two per cent cutback in 1970 acreage.

Agriculture Department officials say in a tobacco situation report that the outlook for the current 1970-71 marketing season calls for combined domestic and export use to be slightly less than the 1.95 billion pounds in 1969-70.

"Little change is expected in cigarette output," the report said, "but the gradual downturn in tobacco used per cigarette seems likely to continue. Exports may be down."

The old-crop tobacco carryover going into the current season was 3.7 billion pounds for all types, the smallest reserve since 1953.

However, the report said, the new crop means a total supply this season of more than 5.5 billion pounds. This is "heavy in relation to disappearance," officials said.

Cigarette smoking on a per capita basis has dropped steadily since health warnings began in earnest during the early 1960s. But the downturn may be slowing, according to the report.

Preliminary estimates show Americans 18 years and older will smoke an average of 3,960 cigarettes in calendar 1970, a one per cent drop from 1969.

Last year the per capita average was 3,993 cigarettes, down sharply from 4,186 smoked in

Heartened At Kansas

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — President Nixon says the "tremendous reception" given him when he spoke at Kansas State University Sept. 16 was "immensely heartening to me personally."

In a letter to Dr. James A. McCain, the university president, Nixon said in part:

"Your students demonstrated dramatically that the mindless disrupters are not the voice of America's youth, and not the voice of the community. They showed that decency and courtesy are still cherished. By their example, and by their massive response to the few who did attempt to disrupt the meeting, they showed that there is a responsible majority and that it, too, has a voice."

Tobacco Prices Slipped Again

The Greenville tobacco market yesterday averaged $74.69 per hundred pounds when 1,483,902 pounds of leaf was sold for $1,108,377.

A total of 592,327 pounds of leaf was sold on the Farmville tobacco market yesterday for $444,619, yielding an average of $75.06 per hundred pounds.

Most grade prices declined Thursday for tobacco auctioned in the Eastern North Carolina

"Consumer incomes have surged ahead," the report said, "so the large increases in cigarette prices and the smoking-health publicity are not reducing cigarette use per person as much as last year."

The export situation is a different matter. Shipments totaled 572 million pounds of leaf during the year ended June 30 but are expected to decline this season.

"Many non-traditional foreign suppliers are increasing exports," officials said, "and U.S. tobacco prices are up."

Just what the situation may mean next year is not entirely settled. National marketing quotas and acreage allotments for leaf-cured will remain about the same as for 1970, the report said. However, officials said, individual farm quotas and allotments next year "will reflect overmarketings and undermarketings in the current crop."

Marketing quotas and acreage allotments for burley and other kinds of tobacco will be announced by Feb. 1, the report said.

No Vote Charges

GOLDSBORO, N. C. (AP) — Authorities say there is no basis for charges in connection with accusation that someone pilfered votes that had been cast for the Democratic candidate in the Goldsboro mayoral election.

District Solicitor Archie Taylor said Wednesday that in his opinion ballots seized in the office of a former GOP official, C. P. Lentz, were not authentic votes.

Goldsboro Mayor Tommy Gibson had led police to Lentz's office after reporting that Lentz had showed him a sheaf of marked ballots.

Gibson, the first Republican mayor in Goldsboro for years, upset Democrat Tom R. Robinson, a longtime favorite with the town's voters.

Stolen Twice In Three Hours

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) — Linda Barnett had quite a shopping trip. Her car was stolen twice in three hours.

Mrs. Barnett told police that after doing some shopping, she returned to where she had left the car and it was gone.

Police found it 90 minutes later in a parking lot around the corner.

Mrs. Barnett left it there and continued shopping. Then she returned to the parking lot, again no car.

By HARRY DUNPHY Associated Press Writer BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — King Hussein of Jordan and Palestinian guerrilla leader Yasir Arafat today announced agreement to end the civil war in Jordan. The announcement followed word from army commander Habis Majali that 15 of 54 hijacked airline passengers held hostage by Jordanian guerrillas had been freed.

Seize Arms After Policeman Is Killed

BOSTON (AP) — Police have seized two rifles, ammunition, and military equipment and papers in the apartment of a coed wanted with three other persons in the slaying of a policeman during a bank holdup which detectives say involved students of two colleges.

Police Commissioner Edmund L. McNamara said that while he had no firm evidence the robbery-killing was the work of any specific campus militant organization "when a group springs up from our colleges that robs banks, its revolutionary."

Officers forced a door on the Back Bay apartment of Katherine A. Power, 20, of Denver, lowed word from army commander Habis Majali that 15 of 54 hijacked airline passengers held hostage by Jordanian guerrillas had been freed.

Released were eight Britons, five Swiss and two West Germans. All but one of the 39 hostages who remained in the guerrillas hands were believed to be Americans. Majali said arrangements would be made quickly to get the freed passengers out of Amman.

The agreement between Hussein, Arafat and Arab mediator Jaafar el Numairi, president of Sudan, was announced over Amman Radio. It was the first time Arafat, head of the Palestine Liberation Organization, agreed to stop fighting in nine days of bloody civil war.

The agreement followed reports on Cairo Radio that Numairi met with Arafat early today. On Wednesday Arafat had spurned a cease-fire reached between Hussein and two captured guerrilla leaders.

Field Marshal Majali said the freed airline passengers "are now in army hands preparatory to their delivery to their home countries."

He did not say how they were freed from the guerrillas. Originally, there were some 400 hostages from three planes hijacked to the Jordanian desert Sept. 6 and 9. Most of the hostages were released earlier. The planes were blown up.

The guerrillas have demanded the release of Palestinian commandos jailed in Britain, West Germany, Switzerland and Israel as ransom for the hostages.

Majali and Hussein both issued orders over Amman Radio for their troops to abide by the cease-fire after reports of more fighting around Irbid in northern Jordan.

Arafat said the guerrillas would abide by the cease-fire as long as the army did the same. Arafat has not agreed to any of the previous cease-fires announced by the Jordanian government, and each one has Hussein accepted Daoud's resignation and asked the present Jordanian military government to stay on until a new cabinet is formed.

Arafat has been saying all along the guerrillas will not stop fighting until the military government is toppled or Hussein dismisses it.

Guerrilla broadcasts from Damascus and Baghdad said the army was making tank and artillery assaults on Palestinian positions in Amman and in Irbid through the night. Several thrusts at Irbid were halted, according to the guerrillas.

Fifty-eight foreigners, 32 of them Americans, were evacuated from Amman to Beirut Thursday, and three planes stood by for further evacuations of foreigners today. The communique said the shells "hit the assigned targets" but did not say the palace was hit. The king reportedly has spent most of his time at the palace 12 miles northwest of Amman since the outbreak of fighting Sept. 17.

Daoud disappeared from his hotel room in Cairo, and informants in the Egyptian capital said he left a note indicating he intended to form a civilian government aimed at restoring peace in his strife-torn country.

The semi-official Cairo newspaper Al Ahram quoted the message as saying: "I prefer to keep silent now awaiting developments in the situation in Jordan. My keenness on Jordanian-Palestinian unity is one of the reasons that necessitates my silence."

Al Ahram said Daoud was found by Egyptian authorities seven hours after he vanished, but did not indicate where he was found or where he had gone.

Daoud apparently was a figurehead in the military government, with the regime's real power in the hands of Habis Majali, the military governor appointed by Hussein Sept. 23.

Daoud, 55, was one of the three Palestinians in the military government. Hussein sent him to Cairo for the meeting of Arab heads of state on the Jordan crisis.

President Nixon Leaves Sunday On Five-Nation European Tour

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, who leaves Sunday for a nine-day trip to five European countries, will meet in Ireland with U.S. representatives to the Paris peace talks.

The White House announced Thursday the President will discuss the Vietnam peace talks with chief negotiator David K.E. Bruce at Kilfrush House, 12 miles west of Tipperary.

Mrs. Nixon will accompany the President through most of the trip, but will stay in Rome

Monday while he and Secretary of State William P. Rogers visit ships of the 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean.

Mrs. Nixon plans to visit Boys Town in Rome and inspect an adult literacy program. She will rejoin her husband in Naples Wednesday where he will meet with NATO's southern European commanders.

From Naples, the Nixons will fly to Belgrade — the first visit by an American president to communist Yugoslavia.

The presidential party will fly to Spain Oct. 2 where Nixon will be welcomed by Gen. Francisco Franco, his wife and high Spanish officials.

The Spanish Foreign Ministry announced today that Nixon will confer with Franco in El Prad Palace. Accompanying the Spanish leader will be Prince Juan Carlos de Bourbon, Franco's eventual successor as king; the Spanish vice president, Luis Carrero Blanco, and Foreign Minister Lopez Bravo.

The Nixons will be entertained at a dinner in the royal palace and leave for England the following morning. President Nixon will have lunch with Queen Elizabeth and British Prime Minister Edward Heath at Heath's country estate.

The presidential party will spend only a few hours in England, flying in midafternoon to Shannon, Ireland, for a motorcade to Kilfrush House.

While Nixon discusses the future of the Paris peace talks, Mrs. Nixon will tour County Mayo to sightsee and look for kin bearing her maiden name of Ryan.

She and the President will tour County Kildare on Monday and drive to Dublin where they will have lunch with Ireland's President Eamon de Valera.

The party plans to return to Washington the night of Oct. 5.

Extra 2 Weeks Scheduled For Superior Court

By STUART SAVAGE Reflector Staff Writer

An additional two-week term of Superior Court has been scheduled for the weeks of November 2 and November 9 in Pitt County in order to help dispose of a backlog of cases on the courts docket.

Two weeks were added to the schedule several weeks ago when it was determined that a large number of capital cases awaiting trial were creating a buildup of other cases.

With the two weeks added in early November and the two weeks scheduled earlier, the Superior Court will be in session eight weeks between now and Christmas.

Originally, terms of Superior Court had been scheduled for the weeks of October 5, October 26, November 16 and December 7. After conferring, District Solicitor Luther Hamilton Jr., Resident Superior Court Judge Robert D. Rouse Jr., and Presiding Judge Joshua S. James during the last week of August scheduled two special sessions, for the weeks of October 12 and November 30.

The October 12 week would make a two-week session of a sitting of the court scheduled for October 5, while the November 30 week will add one week to the December 7 term.

About 360 cases are currently on the courts docket and are awaiting trial. Included in this number are a half-dozen individuals awaiting trial for capital crimes including murder, rape and first degree burglary. These cases are causing the problems.

According to Hamilton in the past "we have been able to pare the docket down to a few active cases." He said usually 30 to 40 cases are carried over at the end of the year. "It will likely be a whole lot more than that this year."

About half of the cases on the docket now are "active cases," the solicitor explained. "Half are old cases there for different reasons... appeals, bond forfeitures, post-conviction hearings. The numbers don't really mean much. The number that are active are far less than what the total shows."

Red Faces

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — Railroad executives are still red-faced today over a train derailment. It occurred during a Chamber of Commerce excursion train's tour of local business.

"Oh, God, no," said a Seaboard Coast Line vice president when he heard the news.

"What happened? What have you done to our train?" cried a Southern Railway executive to another employee.

The mishap occurred Thursday to a Seaboard train on Seaboard tracks during the run of "Charlotte Rail-Industry Tour Special." And along to record the embarrassment was a full complement of reporters and cameramen.

Housing In Ayden

AYDEN — Word has been received from the Department of Housing and Urban Development that 125 units of low-rent housing will be constructed in Ayden, First District Congressman Walter B. Jones, announced today.

Jones said construction costs will be in the amount of $2,357,301. The units will include 25 specially designated units for use by the elderly.

The housing projects will be at two locations, one on Juanita Street Extension and the second at Planters and Snow Hill Streets.

Jones said the contract obligates the federal government through annual contributions to pay the principal and interest on bonds as issued by the local housing authority in 100 percent of the development cost.

Clay Stroud is executive director of the Ayden Housing Authority which will direct the new housing units.

Bond Opines Americans Need A 'New Attitude'

By CAROL TYER Reflector Staff Writer

"The ever-widening gap between the white and black races will only be closed by a change of attitude among American people," Georgia legislator, Julian Bond, told a capacity audience at Wright Auditorium last night.

Bond said he is not optimistic about this change's ever taking place. However, this is what he works for, he said.

"The racial problem in this country is not a 'black problem' as some like to call it, but an American problem. Frederick Douglas, a black newspaper editor of the 19th century expressed the same idea and it applied then, too. He added, 'Americans, your politics and religion are flagrantly inconsistent with the way you treat others.'"

"Freedom means live and let live, not domination of one people over another. Christianity means treating your fellow man as your brother. Most Americans do no practice what they say they believe in."

Bond named the changes in the situations Negroes face now as opposed to those in Douglas' day; they are no longer slaves, they can register and vote, they can go to better schools than they once did, and they can sit where they want at lunch counters, on buses, and the like.

"But we still have the ghettoes," he said. "Two times as many black babies as white babies die before their first birthday. Twice as many are retarded because of early deprivation."

Bond says he still thinks life can be made better for all Americans through "The System," but he said the system will have to drastically change. He is extremely critical of most politicians.

He called the Georgia legislature "the finest men money can buy." In seriousness, though, he went on to say that he thinks many of these men may be highly motivated themselves, but they have to say what they think their constituents want to hear.

Asked by a student if he thinks Nixon can be defeated in 1972, he said he does not know, that it would take, beginning now, much work and a strong opponent to turn him out of office.

He told students they should vote if they think either candidate has any merit, but that, if not, they should work to put on the ballot candidates they do believe have high principles and the people's interests at heart. Asked about the separatist movement among some Negroes, he said he sees nothing wrong with this desire — that when Irish Americans or Italian Americans band together they are admired. "What's the difference when it's self-consciousness among black Americans?" he asked.

No-Nonsense Man For Stanford Univ.

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Richard W. Lyman, who called police to the Stanford University campus for the first time last year to end what he called a "tyranny of coercion," has been named the university's seventh president.

The 46-year-old historian has served as Stanford's acting president since the resignation of Kenneth S. Pitzer last June after 18 months on the job.

Pitzer quit after a turbulent spring in which radicals disrupted the palm-lined, 11,000-student campus and did half a million dollars' property damage. He said one main factor in his resignation was that wealthy alumni were cutting Stanford out of their wills. Lyman's unanimous appointment was announced Thursday by W. Parmer Fuller III, president of the Board of Trustees, and received immediate endorsement of faculty, student leaders and alumni.

Lyman was the first Stanford official to call police on campus May 1, 1969, when militants were sitting in at Encina Hall, a main administration building, and ransacking records.

At the time, Pitzer was out of town, and Lyman acted in his capacity as vice president and provost.

Polio Victim Uses Her Teeth To Design Lovely Ceramics

By DORIS EASTMAN
Fargo Forum Women's Editor
FARGO, N.D. (AP) — Terese Jast, 23, never tires and "unless my teeth wear out" she's going to keep on a schedule which would challenge anyone with a body that moves. Terese's body doesn't move. Since the age of 6 she has been paralyzed from the neck down.

There were 11 children in her block in Winnipeg, Man., Canada, who had polio in 1953. One of them was Terese's younger sister. Only Terese was paralyzed. Only she had to struggle through the years, seeking for something that would enlarge her scope of living.

for herself, and have helped her to be able to say, "I'm never left out of things."

One uncle made the heavy lazy susan on which the item she is working on can be placed. Terese can move it around as needed.

As a child, she learned to write by holding a pencil in her teeth. But she wanted to be doing more. Her mother, Mrs. Edmond Jast, says one of Terese's most frequent phrases is, "What are we going to do next?"

Nine years ago she found what she was seeking. She was in a special education class which Ellen McQuaker, a home economics teacher, planned to teach to cook. That was out for Terese. But Mrs. McQuaker had an idea. She started Terese and some other girls on ceramics.

Working slowly, but steadily, Terese developed techniques. She and a girl friend bought a kiln which Mrs. Jast learned to operate. Now Terese and her friend have a small shop in Winnipeg.

The friend, who also had polio, is supplied with a care attendant under the Care Service of the Canadian government and so the partners don't need Mrs. Jast during the day. But all the items made at the shop during the day are taken to the Jast home at night for Mrs. Jast to fire.

Cooperation of the family and friends have helped Terese maintain the pace she has set

In addition to working at the shop, Terese teaches two nights a week at another studio. She enjoys teaching and hopes to do more of it and less of the actual making of ceramics. Her classes are not limited to the handicapped.

Her things sell well and she has won a number of prizes, including a blue ribbon for a decoupage ceramic book at the Regional Ceramic Show held in Fargo recently.

Terese and her mother also were busy recently with the Winnipeg Art Fair where artists sell their creations. It is an important event where Terese has found a ready sale for many of her items. Last year she sold around $600 worth of her ceramics.

Terese, who has so many people concerned with her well being, does her share for others too. For the past five years she has been designing Christmas cards for the Ellen Douglass School for the physically handicapped. The first year only 2,000 of the cards were printed, because those in charge weren't certain of how they would sell. An extra 3,000 had to be ordered, and last year 35,000 cards were sold.

"Unless my teeth wear out," Terese Jast says she'll never tire. Terese, a polio victim at age 6, makes and sells ceramics.

Is Elderly Widow's Reputation Ruined?

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a man in my sixties who should know the score, but fear I am about to be taken. Please don't laugh.

After a long illness, my beloved wife of more than 40 years passed on to her reward, and after she had been gone only a few months, I was besieged by all the stray widows and old maids for miles around.

The first one to knock on my door was a very proper old widow from my church. She brought me a daily parade of casseroles, cakes, cookies, etc. So when she asked me to chauffeur her to her cousin's funeral 200 miles away, I gladly agreed in order to reciprocate for her kindness to me. She said her car was in the shop. Since she intended to remain a few days, I arranged to stay with an old friend nearby. All was perfectly proper.

Well, last Sunday, she waited for me after church and insisted we talk privately. She had tears in her eyes, so I sat in her car (which I later learned had never been in the shop) and she told me that her neighbors had seen her getting into my car with her suitcase, and they noted that she had been gone for several days, and her reputation would be ruined if I didn't marry her!

Abby, she is a kind old soul, but she is about the last woman I would care to marry if I had marriage in mind, which I do not.

I don't want to damage her reputation, but I certainly don't want marriage with her. How do I get out of this without being misunderstood? TRAPPED IN OHIO

DEAR TRAPPED: You just pat her on the hand and say, "Madame, the evil minds and clacking tongues of busybodies shall not decide my destiny—nor yours. Let us see no more of each other from this day on, and prove the rascals wrong!" Then run like blazes!

DEAR ABBY: A while back you had a letter from a wife whose husband never called her when he knew he had to work late. His excuse: "I don't want to appear henpecked."

Well, I don't blame him. I wouldn't want my husband to appear henpecked either, but here is how one smart man solved that problem:

He said, "If a man says, 'I have to call my wife,' he gives the impression that he's henpecked, and if he doesn't report in to his wife she will chew him out when he gets home. But if he says, 'I want to call my wife,' that makes him look like he is the boss, and he does only what he wants to do."

Puts a whole different light on it, doesn't it? GABBY

DEAR GABBY: Yup. And thanks for enlightening a lot of men who could use it.

DEAR ABBY: I just turned 20 and I thought free love was okay. I got a venereal disease twice and it cost me my right to bear children the last time, because I had to have a hysterectomy. Some price to pay for being the most popular girl around.

The guys will tell you there is nothing wrong with them and then you find out too late there was. I suppose some guys don't know they have a disease, but any guy who goes from strange girl to strange girl should know there is a chance he is infected.

I just wish I could tell every girl what a foolish chance she takes when she acts like I did. There would be a lot more virgins. I started at age 14.

I sure wish my parents would have listened to me when I asked questions about sex. They said I was "too young" to know about such things. LEARNED TOO LATE What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

PARIS (WNS) — The Household Employees Union has asked French housewives to call their servants "household employees" instead of "maids" or "cooks." Schools for such employees already refer to them as "hostesses" and "technicians." The union also recommends that live-in servants become "exterior employees." "Disagreements between employers and employees are less frequent when they do not live in the same house," reported an official. "Independence is necessary in this age of smaller houses and apartments."

Wrestling Matches Slated To Benefit Local Boys Club

Wrestling is coming to Greenville beginning in October. The initial match, on Thursday, October 8, will be followed by a monthly Thursday night match every month until at least June. Matches will be staged at the Memorial Gymnasium on 10th Street at East Carolina University.

Last month, at a board of directors meeting of the Boys' Club of Greenville, the financial problems of the struggling club were discussed and suggestions made for fund raising activities. At that time, W. M. (Booger) Scales introduced the idea of raising funds by giving people something in return for their money.

Scales was appointed to head a committee to come up with a firm idea. Regular wrestling matches in Greenville with proceeds going to the Boys' Club became the focal point for planning.

"Let me tell you," Scales commented yesterday at a noon meeting of the directors of the Boys' Club, "that the local Jaycees really went all out to help us. They promised, when I approached them, they would do everything possible to help us, and I cannot praise them enough for what they have done to get this project started."

The Jaycees, who had already scheduled the October 8 wrestling match to raise funds for their organization, readily agreed to set aside their own plans in favor of the series for the benefit of the Boys' Club. "What more can you ask of anyone," Scales remarked.

Scales told fellow directors that under the auspices of the Jaycees, the wrestling matches would see all proceeds, including concession earnings, going to the Boys' Club fund.

Director J. Richard Ullom noted that "on Monday we expect to have the names of the first slate of wrestlers, and will publicize them at that time."

R. W. Howard, president of the Board of Directors, said that "you can be assured that the matches will feature top quality wrestlers, and will provide solid entertainment for all wrestling fans, including families."

Howard and Scales, in reply to a query from Rev. Russell Davis, assured him that the matches will be clean, honest entertainment, suitable for families as well as adults.

In addition to ticket sales by individual members, Howard announced that tickets are expected to be sold by a number of firms, organizations and agencies.

Those already lined up include North Carolina National Bank, Wachovia Bank, H. L. Hodges Company and Ward Machine Shop.

All tickets sold in advance at $2.50 each are ringside tickets. There are 600 such tickets. Additional tickets will be sold at the door prior to wrestling time. It was stated that the Memorial Auditorium will handle approximately 2,000 spectators. "If necessary, later on we'll move to larger quarters for these events," Scales remarked.

ECU Dean of Men James B. Mallory reported that a group of ECU students would be selling tickets.

Henry Morris, finance chairman, reported on results of the recent community drive to raise funds for the Boys' Club. "We have to date $4,900," Morris told the board members. "We all know there is more money which can be raised, it's a matter of having to work to get it."

Part of the $4,900 is in pledges, but Ullom noted that "about $1,000 of this amount has been unsolicited funds received through the mail and by volunteers bringing in funds.

"It's amazing," he noted, "how people will react when they understand a need." Ullom cited the receipt of a $300 check, one for $325, and a donation of $50 from a Sunday School class as examples of contributions received without anyone having to solicit.

"This is the type of thing," Howard remarked "that makes us realize that people are willing to give when they know there's a good cause."

Other efforts mentioned is a proposed bazaar by the First Christian Church with a percentage of proceeds going to the Boys' Club and a project where Carolina Leaf will match any contributions put up by their employees.

Ullom commented it is a relief to be able to begin paying bills. "We now have a little money in the bank, plus $150 in a building fund," he reported.

Crafts Fair Is Slated Tuesday

The Greenville Recreation Department, Pitt Technical Institute and Pitt County Home Economics Extension Service are co-sponsoring the second annual Greenville Crafts Fair.

The fair will be held on Tuesday. This year's fair is entitled "Creative Crafts Carousel."

The exhibits will include: copper tooling; decoupage; copper enameling; silk screening; picture framing; eggshell craft; chair caning; truck decorating; china painting; wood carving; macrame; knitting; weaving; crewel embroidery; canvas embroidery; Danish cross-stitch; and run hooking.

The public is invited to attend the Craft Carousel at the American Legion Building from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. Demonstrations of various craft techniques will be held throughout the day.

Exhibitors hail from Greenville and throughout Pitt County. Visitors come from any areas of Eastern North Carolina.

The American Legion Building is located off U. S. 264 By-pass near Hooker Road.

Judge Asked Force Indian Compliance

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. (AP) —The Robeson County school board has asked a federal judge to force the Lumbee Indians to comply with a federally imposed school desegregation plan.

Attorneys for the board filed a brief in U. S. Dist. Court Wednesday answering a suit brought by the Indians. The Lumbees claim the desegregation plan violates their rights and will rob their children of their Indian heritage.

About 500 Indian children attended their former schools in violation of the plan's new assignments during the first week of school. But school officials say all but a few holdouts have now reported to the schools to which they were assigned.

The board asked Judge Algeron Butler to issue a declaratory judgment defining the rights and duties of the Lumbees who oppose the plan. Butler has set hearings for Oct. 1.

The board also asked that the court make Secretary of the Interior Walter Hickel a defendant in the suit. It contended he was involved in his capacity as head of the bureau of Indian Affairs, a division of the Department of the Interior.

Another request by the board was for a preliminary injunction barring the Department of Health, Education and Welfare from ending or slowing federal aid funds for the schools until the suit is resolved.

HEW imposed the current plan on Robeson County. To desegregate the county's schools, attendance districts were redrawn and many Indian parents lost the right to send their children to traditionally Indian schools which lay out of their attendance zones.

Honor Teacher's Lengthy Service

Mrs. Kara Lynn Fennell, for 35 years a teacher in elementary schools, was honored recently with a certificate of service in recognition of her long and devoted years of teaching.

Mrs. Fennell, a native of Greenville, is the former Kara

Lynn Corey, and is the widow of the late Robert Fennell. Before her retirement in June, she taught the fifth grade at Wahl-Coates Laboratory School.

Previous teaching assignments have been in other schools within the Greenville City School system, in Pitt County Schools, and also in Wilmington schools. She is a graduate of Greenville schools and East Carolina University.

Mrs. Fennell has long been active in professional and church services. She is a member of St. James United Methodist Church, and of Delta Kappa Gamma, the education honorary sorority.

Professional organizations in which she has been active and at various times held officer posts include the Classroom Teachers Association (CTA); and the North Carolina Education Association (NCEA).

Presentation of the certificate was made to Mrs. Fennell at Pitt Memorial Hospital, where she is now a patient.

Fire Course On Bulk Fuel

A course on special fire problems will be taught at the Greenville Fire Department next week and fire officials said representatives of local oil and gas bulk plant operators may benefit from attending the first six hours of the special course.

Taught by instructors from the North Carolina Department of Insurances Fire and Rescue Service Training Division, the course will cover problems faced by firemen in combating special types of fires.

The first segment of the course, fire officials explained, deals with problems encountered in handling fires at bulk storage facilities, such as bulk gasoline storage and bulk propane gas facilities.

Attendance at the first segment of the course, which begins Monday afternoon, can give bulk plant operators information leading to the safer handling of bulk-stored fuel.

Any bulk-plant operator in the Greenville area may attend the class sessions. For information about the course call the Greenville Fire Department at 752-2554.

House Votes Drug Control Bill

By ROBERT A. HUNT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has passed a broad narcotics control bill giving agents and judges more power while reducing the penalty for possessing a drug for personal use.

The bill eliminates all mandatory minimum sentences for controlled drugs and brings in rehabilitation and research features under a $403 million, three-year program.

A 340-6 vote Thursday sent the measure to the Senate which last January passed a more limited version.

In some instances the bill exceeds Nixon administration proposals in the drug portion of its anticrime package. However, the no-knock authority for narcotics agents and the new judicial authority both had administration backing.

The no-knock section, which allows agents under some circumstances to enter a home unannounced, was in the Senate bill. Similar language giving judges power to boost penalties after conviction in certain cases is included in separate pending crime bills.

The House bill also includes a spending ceiling of $6 million in each of the three years to hire an additional 300 narcotics agents. The administration hadn't sought it nor was it in the Senate bill.

The package covers barbiturates, amphetamines, hallucinogens, tranquilizers and marijuana and includes a section to control imports and exports of such hard narcotics as heroin.

It would reduce from a felony to a misdemeanor illegal possession of controlled drugs by an individual for his own use.

Otherwise, possession would remain a felony.

A sentence of 10 years to life would be mandatory for organized pushers.

But, with solid Republican backing, Rep. Richard H. Poff, R-Va., added authority for the judge to levy sentences up to 25 years for special dangerous offenders even though lower terms were imposed after conviction. His amendment was approved on a 147-61 non-record vote.

The bill also: —Authorizes $75 million over three years for community mental health centers, expanding the scope for special facilities to rehabilitate drug-dependent persons.

—Authorizes $39 million for drug abuse education.

—Requires registration of those engaged in handling of drugs including manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers. Doctors also would have to keep records on certain drugs dispensed to patients.

—Gives the Department of Health, Education and Welfare veto authority over Justice department recommendations that a drug needs to be controlled.

—Requires first-offense punishment to be twice that otherwise prescribed if a person over 18 sells drugs to one below 21.

—Creates a presidential commission to report to Congress within one year on problems of marijuana use and in two years on causes of drug abuse.

Objective Of U.S. Was More Than Obtaining Moon Sample

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — From the beginning, the U.S. objective in reaching the moon was more than just bring back samples. Otherwise, the United States might have sent an unmanned ship—just as the Russians did this week.

"I think the achievement of the Russians with an unmanned vehicle is exciting and shows a high degree of technology," Dr. George M. Low, acting administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said in an interview.

He did not go as far as Dr. Ivan F. Obraztsov, head of Moscow's Aeronautics Institute, who called the Luna 16 experiment "no less an important event from the point of view of technology" than America's placing men on the moon.

"The main thing to keep in mind is that the principal and first purpose of Apollo was not in bringing back lunar samples, but to build a space capability for the United States; to build space power and space exploration capability and to demonstrate it," Low said.

"To meet these objectives we selected manned lunar landings which would require very large booster capability, very high technology of manned flight, guidance, heat protection and environmental control systems."

Science and exploration was a secondary objective when plans were being made nine years ago, Low said, and that involved bringing back lunar material.

"It certainly wasn't the principal purpose of Apollo," Low said. "Had our sole objective in 1961 been bringing back lunar samples we might well have also chosen the unmanned route."

In retrospect, said Low, "I still say the 1961 decision was absolutely correct, because it built the space capability we set out to do. We stated in 1961 what we were going to do, we did it in the eyes of the world, on time and within the funds that we told Congress it would be."

With a demonstrated capability of landing on another celestial body, scooping up samples and returning them to earth, the Russians seemingly have some advantage for exploration of the planets. The United States plans to launch a spacecraft called Viking in 1975 to land on Mars a year later. Viking will have a sample analysis laboratory—biochemical laboratory which will analyze Martian surface material and send back the information.

Beginning with Apollo 15, probably in July next year, U.S. spacemen will carry a small rover vehicle to the moon for much greater exploration than has been possible on the previous short walks.

"Once we had decided to go to the moon with man," said Low, "man also demonstrated he was capable as an explorer in space. There's a good example on Apollo 12 when Pete Conrad called out to Al Bean, 'Hey, look at that interesting rock over there.'"

"He saw something he'd been trained to look for. No machine can do that."

Cuba Returns Hijacker, But No 'Thaw' In Policy

By GEORGE GEDDA
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — State Department officials express doubt the return of an alleged U.S. hijacker by Cuba foreshadows a thaw in the decade-long diplomatic estrangement between the two countries.

Official sources say the action has not been accompanied by any softening of the anti-American rhetoric of Cuban policy statements.

"If anything, anti-American statements coming out of Havana have been on the increase lately," one official said. "We noticed a change for the worse starting about last April."

Nonetheless, officials were clearly pleased that Cuba for the first time in some 70 hijackings over the past 10 years had at last consented to the direct return of an accused hijacker.

The United States repeatedly has made known to Cuba through independent channels its desire that hijackers be returned for prosecution. About a dozen have been allowed to leave the island and have returned to the United States through various routes.

American officials were per-

To some sophisticates, Muskie's inspirational rhetoric and call for the "politics of hope" sound distressingly similar to Hubert H. Humphrey's disastrous "politics of joy." But most politicians who heard Muskie last week were impressed and many were moved.

Addressing a $100-a-plate dinner at Chicago's Conrad Hilton Hotel, for example, Muskie mended some broken fences in Mayor Richard J. Daley's organization. Daley men, who for two years have harbored resentments over Muskie's criticism of the 1968 Chicago convention, were finally reassured by his stolidly middle-road speech—particularly when contrasted with a militantly reformist speech in Chicago last spring by Presidential hopeful Sargent Shriver.

The low-keyed Muskie style was equally effective in California. Steve Reinhardt, California's left-of-center Democratic national committeeman, was making Muskie noises. Joe Allbritton, a real estate and funeral magnate active in both Texas and California Democratic politics, left the Chasen's party telling friends he had been deeply impressed by Muskie and would work for him.

mitted into Cuba Thursday to escort to Miami Robert Labadie, a former U.S. Army private who is charged with hijacking a Trans World Airlines flight on Aug. 24. Labadie was returned shortly before noon on the second of the daily refugee flights to Miami and placed in the custody of Justice Department officials.

Officials here noted there was no immediate explanation by Cuba for the unprecedented action.

They observed, however, that Labadie's return coincided with a commentary by Prensa Latina, the official Cuban news agency, which characterized most American hijackers as either spies for the Central Intelligence Agency or common criminals. The report made no direct reference to the return of Labadie.

The officials said Cuba has given no indication it plans to return any of the more than 50 hijackers of American aircraft still believed in Cuba. They said most have not found Cuba to their liking and have expressed a desire to return to the United States.

"We're pleased by Labadie's return," one official commented, "but I guess we'll have to treat this as an isolated incident for the time being in the absence of any evidence that Cuba is planning a major policy switch."

Labadie was indicted in South Bend, Ind., Sept. 10 on charges of aircraft piracy and kidnapping.

Cutoff

RALEIGH (AP) — An official of Nationwide Insurance Co. says that automobile insurance has been unprofitable, and his firm will stop selling it to new customers as of Oct. 1 until further notice.

E. J. Weimer, vice president and regional manager of the big insurance firm, confirmed Thursday the cutoff on new policies.

"The basic problem is that automobile insurance has just been unprofitable and we have had to dip into surplus to pay claims," Weimer explained.

"We plan to take care of the insurance needs of our present customers," he said.

"We will also be taking care of the sons and daughters of our present policy holders. We will not take on customers new to Nationwide."

Weimer said this would apply to both auto liability and collision insurance. He said the firm would reexamine its situation at the end of the year.

No Charges In Traffic Mishap

No charges were made in an 8:20 p.m. mishap yesterday on Cotanche Street, 158 feet South of the Fourth Street intersection that involved cars driven by Daniel Joseph Dunne III, 22, of Butner and Steven Alexander Maronic, 19, of 803 East Third St.

Police, who reported no injuries, set damage to the Dunne car at $5 and placed damage to the Maronic vehicle at $350.

Holding Man On Burglary Count

Bill Dale Jones, 39, of 422 West Fifth St. has been charged with first degree burglary by Greenville police following investigation of an incident at the Alpha Delta Pi sorority house early Wednesday morning.

According to Chief T. E. Gladson, Jones allegedly entered the 1407 East Fifth St. dwelling and took about $9 in one-dollar bills from three handbags. Entrance was gained through a window, officers noted.

Jones was taken into custody several blocks from the scene shortly after the 3:20 a.m. incident on unrelated charges.

Nuclear Power To Be Major Source Of Electricity

AT TRAINING SESSION — Pictured at the Durham headquarters of the North Carolina Regional Medical Program are Mrs. Trula Bennett and Mrs. Lily Richardson of Pitt Memorial Hospital, and Mrs. Sarah Hedrick of Valdeese General Hospital, as they discuss the recent expansion of the N. C. RMP-funded

Central Cancer Registry. The three women were among 13 secretaries representing eight newly-participating hospitals in the Registry at a three day school for secretaries that ended Thursday. The session was designed to instruct the secretaries in reporting vital information about patients with cancer.

By HARRY STEINBERG
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Nuclear power, which now supplies enough electricity for more than five million Americans, is expected to become a major source of electric power by the end of this century.

"We anticipate that 30 years from now nuclear power plants will be generating over one-half the nation's total electric power," Atomic Energy Commission Chairman Glenn T. Seaborg said in a recent speech.

Currently, only two per cent of the nation's annual 321.4 million kilowatts, comes from nuclear-powered generators.

There are now 16 such generators operating and they produce over 5.1 million kilowatts annually, according to the AEC. A kilowatt—1,000 watts—is the amount of electricity one person uses at any given time.

The future of atomic energy for generating electricity seems bright. The AEC reports that 55 reactors, with a capacity of 44.5 million kilowatts, are now under construction. Thirty-seven more, with a capacity of 35.9 million kilowatts are on order. Nine more plants, with an eight million kilowatt capacity, have been announced.

The problems facing the continued growth of nuclear energy are: cost, construction time and the ability to meet environmental controls.

The AEC reports that a large nuclear-powered station—one with a capacity of one million kilowatts—can cost up to $40 million more than a similar fossil-fuel plant.

Among the reasons for the greater cost of a nuclear-powered plant are the added costs of reactor safeguards and the fact that there is virtually no standardization in the manufacturing process. They have to be built to specification.

A special year-long period of AEC licensing review means that nuclear plants take longer to construct. The AEC reports that while a fossil-fueled plant takes about four years to build, a nuclear plant takes up to six years to build. This extra construction time also adds to the cost of financing a project that can cost upwards of $200 million.

But the scarcity of fossil fuels, and their rising prices may yet make nuclear-powered plants more economical than they appear now.

While nuclear plants give off no particulate or gaseous pollution, some critics charge that they overheat surrounding bodies of water.

However, Dr. James H. Wright, director of environmental Systems Department at Westinghouse Power Systems says that raising the temperature of water may actually help some forms of marine life.

As an example he cites a shellfish agricultural program being run by the Long Island (N.Y.) Lighting Co. which is growing shellfish on reactor-warmed water that would normally be too chilly for the shellfish.

"We're beginning to find that changing the temperature of the water by one degree can effect not only the fish life, but also and biological growth, plant life and fish hatching for many miles around," says Peter Borrelli, East coast representative of the Sierra Club, a conservation group.

Army Cutting Its Manpower

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army will cut its troop strength by next June by 45,000 men to the lowest level in 10 years.

Robert C. Moot, Defense Department controller, said three divisions will be dropped from combat forces by mid-1971, leaving Army strength at 1.2 million, a 12-month decrease of 125,000 men.

Moot disclosed the cutback Thursday during a panel discussion before the National Security Industrial Association, a group of defense contractors.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird has established a goal of 2.9 million men in uniform by next June. The armed forces now have slightly more than 3 million men, compared with the Vietnam war peak of 3.5 million in 1968.

While Moot did not say how the cuts will be made, the Pentagon has followed a policy of inactivating Army units as they are withdrawn from Vietnam.

Moot said the cutbacks will come as a result of President Nixon's doctrine of reducing U.S. commitments abroad, thus requiring a smaller standing army and a greater reliance on the form of equipment and training, rather than armed troops.

With the exception of the three 15,000-man divisions to be eliminated by next June, most of the Army cutback will be made through phasing out support units.

The Army combat force is composed of 4 2-3 infantry divisions, 4 mechanized divisions, an airborne division and 5 independent brigades of about 3,500 men each.

Forum Held At Ayden Center

Twenty-five members of the Ayden Community took part in a community forum on Tuesday night at the Ayden Community Center. Mrs. Nicey Williams was chairman for the group.

At the meeting, members of the group marked questionnaires that will be used for informational purposes during the National White House Conference to be held in Washington, D. C. in 1971.

All through the third week in September older Americans are expressing their needs in order to help in planning and developing recommendations to the president.

The Pitt-Greenville Governor's Council on Aging sponsors the forums being held in September.

Complaints Grow Over Mini-Bike Violations

Greenville police officials and members of the North Carolina Highway Patrol are concerned about the growing number of mini-bikes in the Greenville and Pitt County area.

Chief of Police T. E. Gladson and Highway Patrol Troop A Commander R. F. Williamson said their departments are receiving an increasing number of complaints about the little vehicles being operated on streets and highways.

Both law enforcement officials agree that when the small vehicles venture onto a public street or highway, they become a full-fledged motor vehicle and as such are subject to all motor vehicle laws.

According to Capt. Williamson, the operator "must be a licensed driver and the vehicle must carry a license plate and an inspection sticker and be fully covered by insurance.

"Our primary concern," according to Chief Gladson, "is the safety of the children. They cannot be seen on the streets by other drivers and in many instances the children don't realize the dangers involved."

Agreeing that the solution to the problem lies in the area of parental responsibility rather than in wholesale arrests, the officers said the children may not even realize they are breaking laws.

"But their parents do know the law and should take the responsibility for the actions of their children," Chief Gladson noted.

By allowing their children to violate the law, they are not only jeopardizing their lives, but are encouraging them in disrespect for law that can carry over into later life, according to the enforcement officers.

Chief Gladson also cautioned parents about allowing their children to drive mini-bikes or other such vehicles on property belonging to others without permission.

He indicated that the local department has had several complaints from home-owners saying mini-bikes and motorcycles have been driven across their yards by children not licensed to drive on the streets.

Thanks Folks

You were wonderful!

Because of your generous and immediate response to our request to cut down the nonessential use of electricity during the recent hot spell, we were able to continue to supply our customers with the power they needed without interruption.

The unusually extreme heat caused a huge demand for electric power at a time when we were faced with serious generating problems in our system. But thanks to you we made it.

It's nice to know that when emergencies occur we have your understanding.

Sincerely,

N.C. Prisons Dept. Asking Additional Facilities

RALEIGH (AP) — The Carolina Prison Department wants to provide additional facilities for women inmates who are nearing probation or parole. It is asking $340,000 in the next two fiscal years to do this. The request is part of an extra $8.4 million for improvements in the prison system during the 1971-73 biennium which Correction Commissioner Lee Bounds sought Thursday.

leigh, many female prisoners are unable to participate in work release programs in their home communities. Bounds presented the department's expansion budget requests to the Advisory Budget Commission. The department's first priority, he said, is $41,099 for continuation of its vocational rehabilitation office. The office works with the Department of Public Instruction in providing vocational training for inmates. The department is also requesting $1.5 million to begin phasing out the program under which inmate labor is supplied to the highway commission.

Will Lecture On Nature Of Early Christian Art

Michael Flinn, former instructor of art history at East Carolina University will offer the first in a series of exploratory lectures in the history of art and art appreciation Sunday night at 8 o'clock at the Wesley Foundation, 501 East Fifth Street.

The lecture is free to the public and anyone interested is urged to attend.

The first lecture will investigate the nature of early Christian Art.

According to Flinn, it is hoped that there will be enough interest so that a number of non-credit, no-grade courses might be organized outside the university for townspeople and students who would like to better understand and enjoy the artistic achievements of mankind.

Bounds hopes to reduce the number of prisoners working under the program each day from 2,500 to 1,400 by the end of the biennium. The $1.5 million would be used to make up for the funds the Highway Commission pays the Corrections Department for the workers. Bounds said his department would like to see more prisoners working under the work release program, through which they would be paid wages by the Highway Commission.

The Department of Mental Health presented additional requests totaling $32 million. Dr. Eugene Hargrove, mental health director, assigned first priority to $4.6 million to correct "existing deficiencies." He said this included paying working patients at a competitive rate, based on their productivity.

The largest single item requested is $11.9 million for development of area programs. "We can give better service to people by unifying the various components such as the community mental health programs, the psychiatric hospitals, mental retardation centers and alcoholic centers," Hargrove said.

Two Are Named To ARC Posts

Two members of the Pitt County Association for Retarded Children have been elected to offices of the North Carolina ARC.

Henry Dunn of Greenville, who was state president-elect last year, has assumed the presidency and Mrs. W. P. Shelton of Ayden is the new vice president in charge of the Eastern Region of the state.

Dunn is a member of the Board of Directors of the East Carolina Sheltered Workshop which his retarded son, Gerald, now attends. He was instrumental in having the regional workshop located here.

He serves as a Ruling Elder and a teacher of the Adult Bible class of Ballards Presbyterian Church and is a member of the Pitt County Mental Health Association, the American Legion, and the Greenville Moose Lodge. He is employed by the U. S. Post Office here. Besides their son, he and his wife, Pennie, have three daughters, Judy, Sharlene, and Jamie.

Mrs. Shelton has been active in work on behalf of retarded children for about 20 years. She has served on the Board of Directors of the State ARC several times and has helped several other eastern North Carolina counties organize ARC chapters. She has also served on the Governor's Commission for the Study of the Handicapped.

Like Dunn, she was active in locating the Sheltered Workshop here and has served as a Director. She also has worked to promote the Special Education program, now located at Aycock Junior High School. Her retarded daughter, Nancy, is a student there. She does some volunteer work for the East Carolina University Development Evaluation Clinic, too.

A member of the Ayden Christian Church, she has a son, Sydney Britt of Greensboro and a grandchild.

RETIREE DRIVER DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Capt. Dale High, who retired from the Colorado State Patrol this year, was the chauffeur for three Colorado governors over a 12-year period.

The Agriculture Department requested an expansion budget of $824,819 and a capital improvements budget totaling $5.1 million.

The expansion budget included $167,558 for new programs in soil testing and $76,169 for improvement of the food, drug and cosmetic inspection program.

The capital improvements included $770,000 for a new state soil testing laboratory, $2.6 million for a new museum of natural history and $930,000 for a new exhibition hall at the State Fairgrounds.

State Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan presented a request for an extra $218,109 for the next two years, most of it for increased clerical and secretarial personnel and office equipment.

The Insurance Department asked for $485,918 in additional funds to increase manpower.

Everett Reportedly Continues Improve

Congressional Republican candidate Frank Everett continues to make good progress at Pitt Memorial Hospital, following admittance there a week ago after suffering a heart attack.

Jerry Scott, campaign manager for Everett, said the doctors report on the evaluation of his condition showed "no permanent damage, with results better than expected."

According to Scott, doctors have attributed the attack to "hereditary causes." Everett's father and a brother have both suffered heart attacks but have been able to continue normal lives after recovery.

Doctors have also informed Everett they feel that with proper treatment his condition will permit him to continue his campaign. In view of this, Scott reported Everett as saying if he had been incapacitated, he would have withdrawn, but with assurance from doctors, he would actively continue his campaign.

Scott said that "Doctors normally keep a patient in Everett's condition for three weeks, so that after two more weeks, with continued good improvement, we can expect to see Everett released, perhaps even sooner."

Everett is able to be up some each day, and is reported to be resting and eating well.

Trash Grows In Charlotte

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Charlotte residents are faced with mounting piles of trash and garbage because of a strike by sanitation workers and the resultant firing of 411 of the city's 500 men sanitation work force.

City officials said Thursday no collections would be made before Monday. With a week's backlog of garbage, housewives and businessmen began to look for some way to dispose of the problem.

Enterprising teen-agers moved through some areas Thursday offering to haul the trash to the city's landfill—for a fee. Most residents, however, either let the piles get a little higher and made use of car trunks to haul the trash away.

Will Discuss Hospital Needs

"A Review of the Issues that Culminated in the Hospital Bond Proposal" will be presented at a public meeting sponsored by the League of Women Voters next Tuesday at 8 p.m. at St. Paul Episcopal Church.

Leading the discussion will be Dr. Earl Trevathan, a local pediatrician who is a member of the executive board of the Pitt Memorial Hospital staff, and Jack Richardson, assistant hospital administrator. A question-and-answer period will follow their presentation of background material.

This meeting is one of several Voters' Service activities planned by the League to encourage informed and active participation of all citizens in government and politics. Whether to issue bonds worth up to $9 million for building a new county hospital will be voted on during the general election November 3.

All interested persons, as well as League members and prospective members, were urged to attend this meeting. The hall to be used at St. Paul Church may best be reached by the East Third Street entrance.

It's No Joke

WASHINGTON (AP) — Next time you have a good joke about hijacking an airplane, don't tell it at an airport, or on the plane, or even on the phone to a reservations clerk.

False information, given maliciously, about hijacking a plane can bring you a $5,000 fine or five years in prison. But even joking around about it can be nearly as costly — up to a $1,000 fine or a year in jail.

In Minneapolis recently, someone called to get tickets on a flight already booked solid. When he learned a seat couldn't be guaranteed, the caller jokingly said it had better be made available "or I'll hijack the plane."

The clerk then said the man could come to the airport and standby for a possible vacancy. When he appeared, the FBI was waiting.

The Air Transport Association Thursday asked for public help at the nation's airports. Hijacks, which now total 255 since the first was recorded in 1930, have put air crews and airport personnel on edge, and the ATA has asked that the joking be put aside.

The FAA Thursday released a statistical survey of hijacks, which showed there have been 255 documented hijacks since 1930. Of these, 64 were unsuccessful.

Of the remainder, 123 involved aircraft hijacked to Cuba, and 68 to other countries.

Bond Opines Reject Plea For Variance

Dr. Robert Lee Humber's request for variance to make additions for library space to his home at 117 West Fifth Street was denied by the Board of Adjustments in their monthly meeting last night.

No reason was advanced by board members for denying the request. Dr. Humber's residence is the only remaining residential structure in the immediate area of his home. This area is zoned downtown commercial.

Moore-King-Sullivan, Inc., an oil company, had its request approved to add oil tanks on property adjacent to Dickinson Avenue at 2102 Dickinson. The company has options on land now used by Frank Harrington, and will utilize this space to add oil tanks to those already in place. The company also announced plans to open an access road to the area from Line Avenue to relieve congestion of traffic from their property to Dickinson at the Hooker Road entry point.

Knowledgeable landscapers pick PENNINGTON GREEN COATED grass seed

The proof is in the picture...taken two weeks after planting.

The top row of untreated seed are slower to germinate, adding to the possibility of the seed and seedlings being attacked and destroyed by soil fungus before they emerge from the seedbed. Root systems are weak — stands may be thinned or "spotted".

Each of the Pennington Green Coated® seed in the lower row has germinated faster sending a strong root system — free from disease damage due to soil fungus — deep into the earth. This means a faster lawn, a healthier lawn.

Bounds Rejects 'Opinion'

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina Corrections Commissioner Lee Bounds says he doesn't give any credence to the opinions of a nationally-known criminologist who criticized the state's penal system last weekend.

Sol Rubin, the chief counsel of the National Council on Crime and Delinquency, told a meeting of Gov. Bob Scott's Penal Study Commission on Saturday that only about 100 of Central Prison's 800 inmates should be confined there.

"In general, confinement is a hopelessly useless attempt at criminal rehabilitation," Rubin said.

Members of the advisory Budget Commission asked Bounds about the remarks Thursday.

"This man (Rubin) admitted that he has never visited any of our correctional institutions," Bounds replied. "I assert that no man who claims to know without seeing should be given any credence in his opinions."

"He has never operated a prison, he has never been in my prisons, he has not seen what we are trying to do in the areas of rehabilitation and evaluation, he has no direct knowledge of our situation," Bounds added.

"Consequently, I refuse to accept his evaluation of what we are trying to do," he said.

Winless Pirates, Bulldogs Collide

Neither Team Has Managed To Pick Up Touchdown This Year

Pirates Take On The Citadel

East Carolina University's Pirates and The Citadel battle Saturday night in Charleston, S. C., in the first conference game for each team. Both are still looking for their first win of the year. Among the Pirates on hand will be Grover Truslow, left, and Billy Wallace. Truslow, a 6-4, 250-pound junior, is a starting defensive tackle for the Bucs. Wallace, a 6-0, 200-pound junior, is the starting fullback.

Saturday night at 8 p.m. in Johnson Hagood Stadium in Charleston, S.C., two teams clash in a Southern Conference game. They have a lot in common.

Both have played two football games this year. Neither have won. And neither of them have managed to score a touchdown.

They are East Carolina University's Pirates, and the home-standing Bulldogs of The Citadel.

There, however, the similarity ends.

East Carolina has managed to score. They have a safety to their credit, picking it up against Toledo. The Citadel has a veteran offensive unit. East Carolina has not, with most of the players either junior college transfers or relative newcomers.

Across the Pirate front line, there are three junior college transfers, tackle Mike Kopp, guard Paul Haug, and center Mark Pohren. Ends Carl Gordon and Bob Hileman played but little last year; Gordon in only two plays. Tackle Steve Davis saw only limited duty, although he was a starter from time to time. Guard Tim Tyler also saw little duty.

In the backfield is junior college transfer John Casezza at quarterback, sophomore Les Strayhorn at tailback. Billy Wallace, who played some of fense, but mostly defense, is the fullback. Dick Corrada, the flanker, is the only man whose qualifications could be really classified as experienced.

In fact Strayhorn, in his first game, gained more rushing yardage than anyone else on the team had in all their previous games.

The Citadel, however, has a veteran offense, with only three losses. One of them could have been a key one, as quarterback Tony Passander, graduated. But Coach Red Parker feels that he has a good man in new quarterback John Rosa, a junior college transfer. And in Parker's "Veer" offense, the quarterback is indeed a Very Important Person.

The veer, a version of the Houston Option, relies on the quarterback reading the defense, then either handing off to the fullback on the dive, or keeping, later to run, pass or option off to another back.

"This is a very difficult offense to defend against," ECU Coach Mike McGee said. "Every time they run it, you have to assign one man to cover each individual who might take the ball. This is difficult and takes a real team effort to make it succeed."

The Citadel comes into the game after being downed by Clemson, 24-0, and by Vanderbilt, 56-0. "Against Clemson, they could have won," McGee says. "Clemson scored twice on broken patterns that turned into bombs. The Citadel actually beat them in the statistics."

Against Vandy, however, The Citadel left five starters at home due to injuries, including last year's Southern Conference rushing champ, tailback Bob Duncan. All five of these are expected to be ready to go against the Bucs.

"When you read down their list of pre-season credits," McGee said, "it's impressive. They were co-favorites with Richmond for the title."

And McGee noted that Parker has been quoted in the newspapers as saying the first two games were not that important. "The word is that Parker says that everything has been based on getting ready for the East Carolina game."

The Citadel also lost a big defensive player in All-American John Small, but "they say Charlie Baker is just as good, if not better, than Small," McGee added.

The Citadel also returns Jim Lee, rated as one of the best in the conference, while sophomore defensive tackle Norman Seabrook is supposed to have All-American potential.

The Pirates are expected to get a boost with the return of two players to action, both of whom missed games because of deaths in their families, Terry Johnson and Tony Maglione.

Maglione and Gerald Wrenn are expected to handle the punting game this week, which McGee believes will be improved.

"Our problem is to get consistency on offense," McGee said. "We also have to eliminate the fumble." Twice against East Tennessee, the Bucs picked up good yardage on runs, only to fumble when tackled.

"Defensively, we've got to have a real good team effort to stop their veer and the dive." McGee said that the Bucs have some nagging - type injuries, but that everyone is expected to be ready to go Saturday night.

"Defensively, we've come about as far as I had hoped we come to now. Offensively, our outside running game and the passing are up to par, but we need to improve on our inside running. We've worked on this this week."

But it all boils down to this: to win, you must score. And unless this game is to be a scoreless tie, somebody is going to have to put some points on the scoreboard. A touchdown would be a new thing for either team.

Beside the offensive starters, given above, the Bucs will field Ted Salmon and Wes Rothrock at defensive ends, Rich Peeler and either Grover Truslow or Steve Zadnik at tackles, Ralph Betesh at middle guard, Don Mollenhauer and Monty Kiernan at linebackers, George Whitley and either Mike Mills or Will Mitchell at the corners, and Tom Threlkeld and Tom Pulley at safeties.

Defensive Player Of The Week Gives 100 Per Cent For Pirates Rampant Cubs Beaten, 36-8

With a shy smile, yet a very determined look, East Carolina's George Whitley enjoys intimidating opposing pass receivers. He enjoys his job so much, in fact, he was named the Southern Conference Defensive Player of the Week simply for doing what he enjoys. "Very surprised" — that was Whitley's reaction when he was told he had received the honor. This was the first time the Pirate co-captain had been named player of the week, although he was runner-up once last season. Whitley, a three-year starter at cornerback, like good wine, has improved with age. His teammates voted him co-captain this year and his play has been greatly influenced by his honor. His accomplishments against East Carolina's first two opponents — Toledo and East Tennessee — are no less than outstanding. He has intercepted three passes in two games, returned six kickoffs for 149 yards, almost breaking into the clear on three of those, and returned three punts for 30 yards. "In the Toledo game, George graded out 100 percent," said ECU coach Mike McGee. "That's the first time I've seen that in eight years of coaching." Still the senior from Huntersville, N. C., has not been extremely pleased with his play. "I still need work on my tackling," he admitted. "But overall I can't be too disappointed in my play. Three interceptions really surprises me this early in the year." Where Whitley has been truly dazzling is in the kick return department. Twice against Toledo he almost broke open returning kickoffs — only one man between him and the end zone. And twice against East Tennessee he almost scored — once on a kickoff and once on a punt. Against East Tennessee, the Pirates' home opener, Whitley brought a crowd of over 13,000 to its feet when he returned a punt with ECU 10 points behind. Only the punter was between George and the end zone. The punter made the tackle. "I enjoy returning kicks," said Whitley. "That's the only way I'll ever get a chance to score unless I take an interception all the way. And what football played doesn't like to score touchdowns." Whitley has been returning kickoffs for three years now and still looking for his first TD. He admitted, secretly, that to score one is one of his ambitions for the season.

Whitley, who is married and the proud father of a baby boy, has been lauded by his coaches for his outstanding play and inspiration. "You give George an assignment and he carries it out 100 per cent," says Jerry McGee, twin brother of Mike and the Pirates' defensive coordinator. "Whitley possesses one of the finest attitudes of any football player I have ever been associated with," says McGee. "If we had 10 more like him on the field at the same time, we would really be hard to beat." Whitley came to ECU as a "walk-on", which means he came on his own, without a scholarship. Today he is rated by his coaches as pro material. That's quite an improvement.

Jacksonville's Junior Varsity took advantage of five Rampant Cub fumbles and rolled to a 36-8 victory yesterday. It was the second straight loss for the Cubs. Rose grabbed the initial lead in the game, however, scoring on a 60-yard interception return by Harding Sugg. Rusty Purser caught a pass for the two-point conversion to give Rose an 8-0 lead. Seconds later, however, Jacksonville closed the gap as Palamero returned the kickoff 70 yards for a touchdown. Their conversion attempt failed, however, and Rose still led, 8-6. But in the second period, a fumble on a punt attempt in the Rose end zone resulted in a safety when kick Bill Shelton was dragged down, tying the score.

In the third period, Jacksonville pulled away, scoring twice. Brewington scored on an eight yard pass from Tolley, and Duncan went in from the seven to make it 20-8. Then, in the final period, Johnson returns a fumble seven yards for one score, while Manford went five yards for the other score. Duncan and Johnson each scored two-point conversion to wind up the scoring. Rose coach O. A. Meteye singled out the play of J. C. Daniels, Maurice Sheppard, Randy McKinney, Sugg, John Calhoun and Seth Jones in the game.

Aycock Green Team Routed

WILSON — E. B. Aycock's Greenies lost their opening game of the season yesterday, falling to Wilson Junior High School's Red team, 40-0. The Aycock team was unable to offer a threat in the game that saw them gain only 50 yards in total offense, while Wilson was piling up 354 yards. Wilson scored twice in the first period, then added touchdowns in each of the remaining three to account for the scoring.

Pittsburgh Ups Lead Half-Game

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
The whacky National League East title fight resumes tonight with all three contenders looking, for a change, like contenders.

New York, tied for second place with Chicago 2½ games behind Pittsburgh, opens a three game series with the Pirates. The Cubs, meanwhile, will be watching the numbers on the scoreboard and the Philadelphia Phillies on the field.

The Pirates prepared for their showdown with New York by whipping Montreal 8-0 Thursday night as Luke Walker scattered seven hits and Gene Alley drove in four runs with a triple and two singles.

Chicago moved into a second place tie with the idle Mets by whacking St. Louis 7-1 on Ken Holtzman's seven-hitter.

In other games Thursday, San Diego shut out Atlanta 5-0, Baltimore took Detroit 7-4, Boston edged Washington 4-3 and Milwaukee dropped California 7-3.

Pittsburgh and Chicago, both staggering lately, looked solid for a change Thursday. And the idle Mets, trying to pump some life back into their pennant hopes, rallied in the late innings for a pair of victories against Philadelphia earlier in the week.

The Pirates, who had dropped two of three to the Expos before Thursday, gave Walker plenty of offensive support, battering four Montreal pitchers for 15 hits.

Alley was the key man, singling home one of three runs the Pirates scored when they bunched five hits in the third inning. He singled another home in the sixth and then tripled for two more in the seventh.

The Mets would need a three-game sweep to catch the Pirates this weekend. New York and Chicago each have seven games to play and the Pirates have six.

The Cubs, who play three games in Philadelphia before finishing the season with four in New York, kept their hopes healthy by whipping the Cardinals.

Chicago shattered a 1-1 tie with four runs in the sixth inning with a bad-hop single and a juggled grounder playing key roles in the rally.

Glenn Beckert opened with a walk and raced to third when Tommy Davis' bouncer hopped through the Astro turf infield for a single. Ron Santo bounced to Dal Maxvill but the Cardinal shortstop juggled the potential double play ball and had to settle for a forceout as Beckert scored.

Jim Hickman doubled one run home and Randy Hundley's single and a wild throw by Lou Brock resulted in two more. Billy Williams' 200th hit of the season helped Chicago's two-run rally in the seventh.

Dave Roberts pitched a six-hitter and Clarence Gaston and Nate Colbert powered home runs as San Diego blanked Atlanta for the second straight night.

A pair of two-run homers in his first two swings by Tony Conigliaro carried Boston past Washington.

Paul Blair had four hits including a pair of homers as Baltimore tagged Detroit. Mike Cuellar won his 24th game.

Tommy Harper hit his 31st homer and Ted Savage drove in four runs on three hits as Milwaukee ripped California.

Woody's Ramblin's

By WOODY PEELE

On the collegiate scene, things couldn't be going better. But as far as the high schools are concerned, a little better record would be appreciated.

Last week, four of six misses occurred on the high school level. This week, we'd just as soon not have any misses.

Opening things up, the Rose High School Ramblers travel to Jacksonville to meet the Cardinals. Jacksonville hasn't been beaten, while Rose hasn't won. Last year, the two played an exciting game with Jacksonville winning in the last 15 seconds of the game on a flea-flicker pass play. It could prove to be a very exciting game this year, but the Ramblers probably will not come out on top...again.

Farmville's unbeaten Red Devils play host to Charles B. Aycock in their third Eastern Plains Conference game. The Falcons of Aycock have been improving, but so have the Red Devils. It should be Farmville's game to win.

Vanceboro is the guest of Grifton in a key Tobacco Belt Conference game. The Bulldogs would like nothing better than to win this one and project themselves into the title picture. Vanceboro, however, wants revenge for their lone conference loss last year. The choice is Vanceboro.

Robersonville, shocked last week, travels to Bath. The Rams should be sufficiently awakened this week to take this one.

Williamston travels to meet Tarboro in a non-conference contest. It will be the battle of the unbeaten, although Williamston has a tie on its record. Tarboro, however, will come out with its record intact.

Ayden goes on another long trip, this time to Camden. The Tornados need this one badly to have an outside hope at the Tidewater title. They should win.

Winding up the high school slate, Hobbton visits Green Central. The Rams barely lost out to Aycock last week, and should come through with a win this time out.

The East Carolina University Pirates, who have scored two points in two losses, travel to Charleston, S. C., to meet the Bulldogs of The Citadel, who have been scoreless in two losses. Something has got to give.

The Bulldogs, however, have some players back in shape who missed last week's game, and who can be a problem for the Pirates. East Carolina needs to score badly. The Bucs have a good record for The Citadel's home field, and there is a good chance they might keep up this record. I'll go along with them to pull this one out.

Elsewhere in the Southern Conference, it'll be Richmond getting revenge on Davidson, Wofford over Furman, West Virginia over VMI, and Cincinnati downing William & Mary.

In the Atlantic Coast Conference, Duke will nip Virginia, North Carolina will down Maryland, South Carolina will take N. C. State and Georgia will beat Clemson, with Florida State downing Wake Forest. Also, Auburn over Tennessee, Boston College over Navy and Brigham Young over Texas, El Paso.

Season's record: 30 right, 14 wrong, 68.2 per cent.

Greenville Tennis Club Sparks Interest In Sport In The City

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
Last spring, Recreation Director Boyd Lee found himself on the horns of a dilemma. He found that he was constantly getting complaints from the tennis lovers in Greenville.

"There weren't enough courts," Lee said of the complaints. "The lighting was bad; and most of the time, people couldn't get on the four city courts because of so many East Carolina University students using them."

Lee admitted to the complainants that these were all legitimate gripes. And then, he and some of the interested players came up with a plan that has solved many of these problems, and given a boost to tennis in the area.

Through Lee's efforts and those of the interested citizens, headed by Mrs. John East and Mrs. Charles Williamson, a group of tennis players got together last May to hold an organizational meeting to form the Greenville Tennis Club.

In just a short time, there were 60 members on the roll, and tennis as a major force in recreation in Greenville was on the way.

"Anyone in Greenville can join the club," Lee said. "And being in guarantees that members will have use of the courts at certain times." This currently includes Monday and Wednesday mornings and Thursday nights. Non-members of the club are not permitted to use the facilities at these times.

The club set up a dues basis for joining. This was set at $5 for an individual adult membership, $10 for a family membership, or $2.50 for an individual junior (under 18) membership.

From the income of the dues, membership cards, a newsletter, trophies for tournament and a party for trophy presentation is paid.

Other money has also gone into a backboard for the Elm Street courts, and for a bulletin board. The bulletin board was built by George Hamilton and his son, members of the club.

The club immediately began to show that it could have an effect," Lee said. "They wanted more courts and better lighting. We agreed that this was necessary and put it into our budget request for this year."

"The club members went to the budget meeting when the request came up and showed their strength. This impressed the city council, and they approved the new lights, and the construction of two new courts at Elm Street."

This, coupled with four courts to be built in the Hooker Road area by the city, will bring to 10 the number available in Greenville. "And these lights are really going to be something," Lee said. They are now being installed at Elm Street Park.

"It's hard to say how many people are using the courts daily," Lee said. "But I'd say that 45 is probably very conservative." That doesn't include students from Rose High, who have tennis in their physical education program.

To help get more people onto the courts, the club has set up several rules. These include a one-hour time limit when people are waiting. East Carolina University students are also asked to defer to Greenville citizens when they are waiting, since the college has courts available at the men's dorm and at Minges Coliseum.

"The opening of the new courts at East Carolina really helped the situation," Mrs. East said. "Most of the college students use these now."

The club has held six tournaments this year, and winners were awarded their trophies last night at a party held at the Tar River Estates.

These winners included: Men's singles, Wes Hankins, champion; and Jack Stoughton, runner-up; women's singles, Carolyn Kannan, champion; and Nancy Powell, runner-up; junior girl's singles, Chip East, champion; and Josie Rawl, runner-up; mixed doubles, Howard and Nancy Powell, champions, and Wes and Diane Hankins, runners-up; women's doubles, Nancy Powell and Carolyn Kannan, champions, and Sis East and Janet Stoughton, runners-up; and men's doubles, Norm Rosenfeld and Wilkins Winn, champions, and Ron Hignite and Wes Hankins, runners-up.

"We now have 90 members," Mrs. East said, "and we hope to have more in the future. Tennis in the East has been slow coming on, but I think it is ready to make a real boom now."

"We want to get involved in matches with other clubs. We probably will join the East Carolina Tennis Association this year, and be competing in their meets. The club will also join in with the present Greenville team in the Roanoke Tennis League."

A number of tournaments are being planned for the coming year, and this was one factor under discussion at last night's meeting.

"Until we became organized, it was hard to impress on people the amount of participation involved in tennis in Greenville," Mrs. East said. "We found that it would give us the ability to ask for more courts and better lights. We want to have much more interest in the tennis program, and welcome any new members at any time."

Among other business last night was the election of new officers for the coming year. The outgoing officers included Howard Powell, president, George Coffman and Lawton Nesbitt, vice-presidents; Hans Graman, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. John East, tournament chairman; and Mrs. Kitty Joyner and Mrs. Charles Williamson, publicity chairmen.

The newly elected officers include: Jack Stoughton, president; Mrs. East, vice-president; Mrs. Joyner, secretary; Mrs. Williamson, publicity chairman; and Graman, treasurer.

Named to the tournament committee were Harriette White, Lib Proctor, John Childers and George Hamilton.

Dooley Worried About Terrapins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
North Carolina has won its two football games and Maryland has lost its pair, but that doesn't make Tar Heel coach Bill Dooley happy about their game Saturday.

"We know Maryland is certainly going to be hungry for a victory," said Dooley after Thursday's practice. "And they should be even tougher since they're playing at home."

One of Maryland's losses his Tar Heels - with two wins behind them - was by a single point to Duke.

ham, N.C. Saturday. Duke lost to Florida 21-19 and beat Maryland 13-12.

The Cavaliers ran through an hour-long workout Thursday in 90-degree-plus heat.

Georgia coach Vince Dooley is faced with the prospect of playing the Clemson Tigers without Charley Whitmore, the leading pass receiver last year, and tight end Mike Green.

Whitmore is out for at least two weeks with an ankle injury and Green is lost for the season with a knee injury.

Clemson Coach Hootie Ingram said he thinks the ACC is stronger this year, and thanks to that fact, his Tigers aren't as ready for the game at Georgia as he would like.

Ingram said his players took a lot of bruising in the game with Virginia last week, which Clemson was 27-17.

North Carolina State is home to South Carolina in a league game Saturday, and Wake Forest is at Florida State that night.

The Tar Heels will hold a short workout in Chapel Hill today and then fly to College Park.

Elsewhere in the Atlantic Coast Conference, Virginia coach George Blackburn was bemoaning his game with Duke.

"Tom Harp (Duke coach) has a much improved team over a year ago," he said. "And Virginia will have to be at its best both offensively and defensively to stay in the game."

"In their first two contests they have been very impressive," Blackburn said of the team his Cavaliers face at Durham.

Lions, Browns And Rams All Get Non-League Record For Southern Nod In Weekend Pro Grid Slate Has Little Chance Of Improvement

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Detroit, Cleveland and Los Angeles should win the National Football League's three interconference games Sunday as the clubs settle down for the long pull after a splurge of opening week upsets.

Thanks to the Minnesota Vikings and the Cleveland Browns, who knocked off the last two Super Bowl champs, the old Hand picker barely made it over .500 for the first week with a 7-6 record. Let's try again.

In contrast to last weekend's long schedule, the action will be confined to Sunday and Monday. Twelve games will be played Sunday and Kansas City will be at Baltimore for the nationally televised Monday night contest.

Sunday
Detroit 30, Cincinnati 14—Joe

Schmidt's Lions ran the ball right down the Packers' throats last week and set the boo birds on Bart Starr. Bengals will find Detroit defense tougher to crack than Oakland's.

Cleveland 24, San Francisco 17—Browns should reverse opening exhibition loss after beating Jets Monday night. John Brodie may find Cleveland secondary vulnerable but the Browns carry too many guns on offense.

Los Angeles 30, Buffalo 10—Rams showed perfect blend of offense and defense in opening win over Cards. Bills tougher than expected against Denver but they will be over their heads in this one.

Minnesota 24, New Orleans 10—Vikings haven't forgotten what happened the last time they played in Sugar Bowl and may take it out on Saints who played Atlanta real tough in opener. Unless Minnesota shot the works against the Chiefs they should be able to handle this one.

New York Jets 23, Boston 14—Joe Namath showed he could move the ball in losing effort against Cleveland and Weeb Ewbank will see to it that Jets don't make all those mistakes again. Pats sky high after upsetting Miami will try to work on Jets' green secondary.

Houston 17, Miami 14—Defense is Oiler strength plus new td combine of Charley Johnson and Jerry LeVias. Dolphins, deflated by Pats, figure to come back strong with big effort in Astrodome.

Denver 21 Pittsburgh 17—Home opener for Broncos and lure of Terry Bradshaw should draw full house of 50,000. Broncos' Floyd Little off flying to greatest pro season. But if Bradshaw ever finds the range, watch out.

New York Giants 28, Dallas 27—Cowboys' big favorites but Eagles gave them tough time in opener despite Calvin Hill's running. Roger Staubach vs. Frank Tarkenton in greatest scramble of year. Giants must avoid second half sag to score upset.

Washington 31, St. Louis 28—Redskins couldn't stop John Brodie last week while 49ers climbed all over Sonny Jurgensen. Jury should find mark against Cards' defense while Jim Hart fills the air with footballs.

Green Bay 28, Atlanta 14—Packers, still reeling from 40-0 bombing by Lions, should come back before home folks although Falcons are much improved with Tommy Nobis back in lineup.

Oakland 24, San Diego 17—Darlyle Lamonica-Fred Biletnikoff combo figures too much for Chargers who almost upended Baltimore in opener. Loss of Dickie Post and Lance Alworth's leg pull hurt San Diego.

Chicago 20, Philadelphia 10—Jack Concannon came into his own in second half against Giants after faltering start. Eagles scared Cowboys but still sad on offense and vulnerable in secondary.

Monday
Kansas City 16, Baltimore 13—Chiefs, stung by Vikings, get even for 17-3 loss to Colts in exhibition season. Loss of Tom Matte could be fatal blow to Colt ground game.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Southern Conference football teams, who've gone 2-9 against outside opposition thus far, start a new weekend Saturday afternoon with three more nonleague games—but the real fun begins after dark when the clubs ranked in the top four have at one another in two conference encounters.

There isn't likely to be much improvement in the nonconference department as Virginia Military Institute's Keydets, 1-1, go to West Virginia; William and Mary's Indians, 0-2, play host to Cincinnati; and Furman's Paladins, 1-1, entertain small college toughie Wofford.

But the first firm line on how the league standings will look at the end of the season may be determined in the two 8 p.m. contests sending Davidson's Wildcats, making their season debut, to Richmond, 1-1, and East Carolina's Pirates, 0-2, to The Citadel 0-2.

Preseason predictions put Richmond's Spiders No. 1 by a shade over The Citadel's Bulldogs with East Carolina rated third and Davidson—which tied with Richmond for the title last year—fourth.

West Virginia, which already has routed William and Mary 43-7 and Richmond 49-10 while rolling up 1,263 yards in total offense, "has to be the toughest team we'll face this year," says VMI coach Vito Ragazzo. But he says he feels the Keydets "are in the right frame of mind for the game."

Cincinnati spoiled Lou Holtz's debut as William and Mary coach by beating the Indians last year—especially defensively.

Although Furman provided the conference's only victory last week by beating Presbyterian 19-7 and holds a 31-11-3 edge over Wofford in their series, the Paladins have lost the last four games between the two teams—two each last year and the year before.

The Davidson-Richmond encounter could be a real shootout with the Spiders seeking revenge for last year's 37-7 defeat that kept them out of a second straight Tangerine Bowl appearance even though they eventually tied the Wildcats for the conference championship.

Richmond coach Frank Jones thinks Saturday night's game could settle the title again this year but professes to be apprehensive because it's the Wildcats' opener while "they've had an opportunity to scout us twice."

Several Tough Games On Tap

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
Penn State's fourth-ranked Nittany Lions could be at one disadvantage when they play Saturday at Colorado—the hosts will be in charge of the halftime show.

The Lions won the first football meeting of the two schools, 27-3 at Penn State last year, and afterward Colorado Coach Eddie Crowder protested the halftime show had lasted too long, giving Penn State an advantage.

The Penn State-Colorado meeting is the nationally televised game, ABC at 4 p.m. EDT, on a day when No. 1 Ohio State opens its season at home against Texas A&M and second-ranked Texas plays at Texas Tech, a rival from the unpredictable Southwest Conference.

In other games involving the Top Ten teams in The Associated Press poll, No. 3 Stanford is at Oregon; No. 5 Mississippi plays Kentucky at Jackson, Miss.; Purdue is at No. 6 Notre Dame; No. 7 Southern California is at Iowa; Army is at No. 8 Nebraska; No. 20 Air Force plays No. 9 Missouri at St. Louis and No. 10 Michigan is at Washington.

Penn State opened this year with a 55-7 thrashing of Navy last Saturday to run its winning streak to 23 games and its unbeaten string to 31.

The Penn State offense counts heavily on the running of fullback Franco Harris and halfback Lydell Mitchell. With such starters as All-America tackle Mike Reid graduated, the defense looks to such as linebackers Jack Ham and Gary Hull.

No. 18 Colorado, a 16-7 winner over Indiana last weekend, counts on running back Ward Walsh to help take up the slack left with the graduation of All-American Bob Anderson. End Herb Orvis keys the defense.

In putting its No. 1 ranking on the line for the first time, Ohio State will be meeting a team that has won its first two games and already has tasted the sweetness of an upset.

Texas A&M opened the season by beating Wichita State and then upset Louisiana State 20-18 at Baton Rouge, La.

Fourteen regulars, seven each on offense and defense, are back from last year's Ohio State team that posted an 8-1 record. Rex Kern and Ron Maciejowski once again will handle the quarterbacking duties. Kern has been hampered by injuries in practice. Defensive leadership again will fall to rover man Jack Tatum.

Texas A&M will count heavily on sophomores. They came through big for the Aggies in their first two games.

Other big games Saturday include Oklahoma State at No. 11 Houston at night, Tulsa at No. 12 Arkansas, No. 13 Florida at Alabama, Oregon State at No. 14 Oklahoma, Northwestern at No. 15 UCLA, Virginia Military at No. 16 West Virginia, No. 17 Tennessee vs. Auburn at Birmingham, Ala., and Miami of Florida at No. 19 Georgia Tech.

Old Dominion Setting Field

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP)—A field of 49 drivers seek to qualify today at Martinsville Speedway for Sunday's $52,750 Old Dominion 500 stock car race.

The fastest 20 cars earn starting positions in the 30-car lineup today, with the remaining 10 starting positions to be decided Saturday.

Plymouth pilot Richard Petty of Randleman, N.C., and NASCAR Grand National point leader Bobby Isaac of Catawba, N.C., in a Dodge turned in identical practice lap times Thursday as they established themselves as contenders for front row seats on the pole positions.

Studio's Future Staked On Film

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — With simultaneous premiers in New York, Hollywood, Honolulu and Tokyo, 20th Century-Fox unveiled this week its recreation of the Pearl Harbor attack, "Tora! Tora! Tora!" The company's fate is closely tied to the reception of the film.

An estimated $25 million was spent in reproducing the events leading up to Dec. 7, 1941, and the financial burden helped sink Fox's fortunes to a low ebb. But once before the company was buoyed back to prosperity with the impetus of a film about a monumental war episode, "The Longest Day." It could happen again.

Upon first viewing, "Tora! Tora! Tora!" would seem destined for prosperity. It is as swiftly paced as the air attack itself, although a road show, the film has been cut to a lean two hours and 20 minutes.

The movie was made entirely under American supervision—producer, Elmo Williams, veteran of "The Longest Day." But half was filmed in Japan with a native cast and crew and half in America by Americans. The result is neither a tirade against the perfidy of the Japanese, nor a jingoistic tale of American heroism.

The balance is remarkable. Courage and folly abound on both sides.

Those who lived through the American entrance to World War II will be surprised at how some of the famous figures are portrayed. One of the most sympathetic characters is Adm. Yamamoto, commander of the Japanese navy, convincingly played by veteran actor Soh Ya-mamura.

The naval commander in Hawaii, Adm. Kimmel, is enacted with vast sympathy by Martin Balsam. Yet the Army commander, Gen. Short, is shown as an irascible commander with faulty judgment. He is portrayed by Jason Robards, who, incidentally, was a radio operator on the USS Honolulu in 1941 and witnessed the Japanese attack.

The battle scenes are probably the best ever filmed; only a few miniatures are detectable. And there is only one lapse of taste: a speed-up "Star-Spangled Banner" by a battleship band as the Zeroes bombed.

Rap Sentenced To Five Years In Absentia

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Wherever he is, black militant H. Rap Brown is under federal sentence of five years in prison on a 1968 conviction for illegally transporting a firearm across a state line.

Brown, missing for about a year and included in the FBI's "Ten Most Wanted" list, was sentenced in absentia Thursday by Judge Lansing Mitchell of U.S. District court.

The day before, Mitchell had forfeited Brown's $15,000 bond when he failed to show up for sentencing. Brown also failed to appear for his trial in Maryland last May on charges of arson and riot.

William Kunstler, Brown's chief attorney, told the court his client has been staying out of the public eye because he fears for his safety. The New York attorney said he didn't know Brown's whereabouts, but added that the fugitive was "all right."

Durante, 78, Is Back At Work

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Comedian Jimmy Durante, 78, is back at work after a three-month recuperation from a collapse he attributed to exhaustion.

Durante, starring in a show with a bevy of girl dancers at the Desert Inn Hotel, said in an interview Thursday:

"What the hell am I going to do if I don't work? Stay home? I've been to Paris. So what is there left for me to see? I'm just happy I'm able to work."

"The people," he concluded, "will tell me when to quit. When they don't come no more, I'll retire."

Durante is doing two shows a night but said "I take it easy now."

He has been in show business for 58 years.

Enzyme Detergent Makers Summoned

By D. MARK BROWN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Representatives of the enzyme detergent industry, already stinging from federal charges of false advertising, have been summoned to Washington to discuss possible harmful effects to users of their laundry products.

Citing a number of complaints that enzyme-laden detergents may cause skin irritations or allergies, heads of the Federal Trade Commission and the Food and Drug Administration today asked the industry to appear Oct. 8.

In a letter to the Soap and Laundry Detergent Association, FTC Chairman Miles W. Kirkpatrick and FDA Commissioner Charles D. Edwards said there is rising public concern over use of enzymes in laundry products.

"Under these circumstances, we believe it would be mutually beneficial for the FTC and the FDA, your representative and perhaps those of one or two companies, to meet as soon as possible to discuss this and other questions," the letter said.

The letter was made public by the FTC only a day after the agency issued a proposed complaint against the three major enzyme detergent producers, charging false advertising.

The FTC complaint, which named Procter and Gamble, Lever Brothers and Colgate-Palmolive, said FTC tests disproved advertising claims that enzyme additives would remove all stains from laundry.

While enzymes, a catalytic agent, might be of some value in cleaning, they do not perform the washday miracles claimed in advertising, the complaint said.

Procter and Gamble has announced it will contest the FTC complaint.

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader, in a petition filed with the FTC last summer, saw even less value in enzyme ingredients and a great deal more harm than government agencies have mentioned.

Nader contended responsible studies have shown enzymes cause severe skin irritations to persons using them and to persons coming in contact with fabrics washed in enzyme detergents.

In addition, Nader said, workers in foreign plants that manufacture enzyme products have suffered lung ailments.

The early October talks are expected to result in a decision on an appropriate group to conduct a study of enzyme detergents.

An all out attack on the dummy's trump holding earned the victory for East and West in defending against South's four spade contract.

In light of the strong bidding from the opposition, West was reluctant to lead from one of his high cards and he decided to open a trump. South played the three of spades from dummy and East won the trick with the king.

East switched to the jack of diamonds, declarer played the three and West signaled a mild encouragement with the four. The ten of diamonds was continued and South played low again, ruffing in dummy with the seven of spades. The king of hearts was led and West was in with the ace.

Observe that if West adopts a passive course and exits with a spade, declarer is in position to draw the trumps, ending up in dummy and then run the heart suit for the rest of the tricks. West realized that the only chance for the defense was to force North's trump holding again. He therefore led the ace of diamonds—despite the fact that by so doing, he established declarer's king.

South ruffed in dummy with the jack of spades. He cashed the queen of hearts discarding a club from his hand and then led a club—putting in the queen from his hand. If the club finesse succeeded, declarer hoped to make his contract by cashing the ace of clubs and trumping his last club with the ace of spades.

West captured the queen of clubs with the king to score the setting trick, and then exited with a spade. Dummy was in with the ace and cashed a high heart, on which declarer discarded the ten of clubs. West was unable to ruff inasmuch as he had no more trumps and South claimed the balance.

'Smoke' Proved To Be Insects

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Six fire engines rushed to City Hall Wednesday after a report that smoke was rolling out of the building's clock tower.

Finding the inside tower stairway door locked, Fire Capt. Theodore Pontrich ordered a 100-foot aerial ladder raised outside the tower.

"Hold everything!" a fireman shouted from atop the ladder. The "smoke" was thousands of small bugs flying around the recently installed tower floodlights.

The Cheering Squad

Energy and exuberance are trademarks of youth. You can see it clearly when a group of cheerleaders go into action.

Quick reaction is a mark of youth. If the team wins, these girls will be on top of the world. If it loses, they will go home with shoulders slumped. They haven't really learned "to take it". Withstanding both success and failure is a mark of maturity, and finding the strength to go on becomes an act of faith.

Have you grown up? Do you have that kind of faith? If not, the first steps toward finding it might be a walk to the church door.
