

Talks U.S. Role In Rome

Pres. Nixon Meets Released Hostages

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

ROME (AP) — President Nixon discussed war and peace in the Mediterranean with Italian leaders today and made an unscheduled trip to Rome's airport to greet freed American skyjack hostages flying home from Jordan.

Nixon flew to Fiumicino Airport by helicopter and met the Americans on the tarmac as they walked off a special Trans World Airlines plane that is taking them back to the United States.

Such was the crush around the smiling President that authorities herded the 28 hijack victims back into the plane. Nixon followed and addressed them inside.

The Americans had arrived an hour earlier from Nicosia where they had spent the night after being freed by Palestinian guerrillas in Amman. They were to continue on to New York after refueling, but the surprise decision by Nixon to greet them held them in Rome a little longer than scheduled.

Nixon said afterward: "I think I feel as happy as they do." He told reporters that what the hostages went through may mean "the possibility of this happening again in the future has been substantially reduced."

He referred to measures that include armed guards aboard aircraft and security at airports.

"It sometimes takes an incident like this to bring world attention," Nixon said, adding that the reaction was one of "outrage" and one of compassion for the victims.

Before visiting the hostages, the President told Italian leaders the United States is committed to a strong presence in the Mediterranean, which he called the "southern anchor of NATO."

He made the reaffirmation to President Giuseppe Saragat at the beginning of talks seeking means of a lasting peace in the Mediterranean.

He later talked with Premier Emilio Colombo, who accompanied Nixon on the trip to meet the hostages.

Nixon said the hostages were "very proud of being Americans. They never lost their spirit." Their slogans were "thumbs up" and "they had no complaints about what happened," he added.

The President spoke to reporters briefly on the ramp of the plane that was to take the hostages nonstop home to New York.

Nixon spoke of what he said was a dilemma faced by his administration and other officials trying to gain release of the hostages. He said that while helping to obtain their release, it was not possible to move in "with massive force" for fear of hurting them.

"While we showed great power, we also showed great restraint," Nixon added. He called this a "landmark case" that would influence American foreign policy in the future.

His meeting with Saragat began only hours after cars belonging to U.S. military men at two Italian bases were set afire, a remainder of the scattered violence that accompanied Nixon's second visit to this NATO nation in 18 months.

Reporting on the Nixon-Saragat talks, U.S. presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon "reaffirmed to the meeting that the United States is committed to a strong NATO."

He said Nixon praised Saragat for Italy's efforts toward social reforms and stated, "This is one of the ways for Italy to contribute to the strength of the alliance and defense of the Mediterranean."

Two cars were burned in Verona and two at the NATO base in the Naples suburb of Bagnoli, which Nixon is scheduled to visit Wednesday after spending a day with the U.S. 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean.

The attacks on the cars followed a night of hit-and-run battles between police and roaming bands of leftist youths in Rome.

SET FOR BALANCING ACT — Chairman Tom White of the state's Advisory Budget Commission, is shown during a budget hearing recently. The commission soon will weigh the needs of state agencies and make its recommendations. (AP Wirephoto)

Budget Commission Set For Great Balancing Act

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — Under the guidance of Gov. Bob Scott, North Carolina's powerful Advisory Budget Commission is getting set for the balancing act it undertakes every two years.

The first move comes several weeks from now when the commission sits down to draft its budget recommendations for the 1971 General Assembly.

The legislature will use these recommendations as the starting point in making appropriations to operate state government during the 1971-73 biennium.

The balancing begins when the commission seeks to weigh the needs of all state government agencies and decide how much each agency should receive from the state's assets. These are substantial, but they seem small when measured against the demands of the people for increased services.

When the commission's recommendations are conveyed to the General Assembly in January, the report will complete a process that began early this year when state agency heads presented their "A" budget requests outlining what they will need to operate at present levels of service during the next two fiscal years.

Last Thursday, the commission completed hearings at which the agency heads presented their "B" budget requests outlining what they would like to have for new or expanded programs. In between, the commission received the agencies' requests for permanent improvements.

The state is a lot like the man who has to run as fast as he can to stand still. Because of the state's growth and the desires of the people for increased services, the budget requests are always increasing.

This year, the "A" budget requests totaled more than $2 billion. The "B" budget requests were more than $595 million, and the requests for permanent improvements amounted to more than $450 million.

The budget commission's problems in preparing its spending recommendations is illustrated by the state Board of Education's requests. The board is spending $972 million during the present biennium to operate the public schools. It told the budget commission it must have $39.7 million more during the next biennium to maintain operations at the present level.

The board said that it needs an additional $295 million during the biennium in "B" budget spending. This included $61.3 million to employ teachers 10 months instead of 9½ months a year and $59.5 million to boost teachers' salaries by 5 per cent each year.

Dr. Craig Phillips, state superintendent of public instruction, told the budget group that without more money North Carolina's schools may be "on the threshold of disaster."

Requests for similar increases came from other state agencies.

In addition to hearing the agency heads outline their needs for funds to maintain services and their hopes for appropriations to expand services, the budget commission went on a tour this summer. It visited and inspected virtually every state agency and institution. It also has conferred constantly with officials of the budget division of the state Department of Administration.

One commission member, State Rep. Sam Johnson, D-Wake, said that as a result of all the hearings, visits to the institutions and advice from the budget division staff, the commission will be "very well informed" when the time comes to make decisions.

Asked if he thinks the state agency heads generally ask for more than they expect to receive, Johnson said they do not pad their requests and that they "feel most everything they ask for is worthwhile."

Even so, a state agency seldom receives all the appropriations it asks. In making its recommendations, the budget commission must weigh the relative needs of all agencies and keep its recommendations within the state's expected revenues.

The commission's task this year will be complicated by the slowdown in the economy. The governor said last week he expects state revenues to decline in the months ahead and the state's surplus to be less than it has been in the past.

"I guess what we will have to do is to make conservative recommendations in keeping with the economic forecasts," Johnson commented. If the economic outlook improves, he said additional recommendations might be in order.

Scott Reminds Aid Depends On State Economy

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott told county commissioners today the condition of the economy in North Carolina will largely determine the amount of financial aid the state can give to its 100 counties during the next two years.

"We know that the economy in North Carolina is not as strong as it was," Scott said in a speech prepared for the 63rd annual convention of the North Carolina Association of County Commissioners.

"If the downturn that we now have in the economy continues, then there is every reason to expect that the credit balance next June 30 will be less than it was last June 30," he said. "It may well drop below $100 million."

Scott listed requests that various state agencies have made to the Advisory Budget Commission for funds to aid counties.

The Department of Mental Health has asked for $6 million for support of community mental health centers, he said, and the Department of Water and Air Resources wants $20 million to provide state aid to local governments for waste treatment facilities.

"Now, just because these state agencies have asked for these funds does not mean that they will get all, or even any, of their requests," Scott added. "I recognize the current plight of county governments and the needs that confront you," he added. "Some way must be found to provide additional relief to counties, especially on programs over which the counties have little control. The state is going to have to do something about meeting those needs."

Earlier today, the director of the state Department of Local Affairs, G. Irvin Aldridge, told the county commissioners his agency will seek $600,000 from the next legislature to set up 17 regional planning groups in the state.

The victim, Sgt. Gregory Clark Amerson, 23, of Cherry Point, cried, "Help me, help me," after the shooting, witnesses told police: An ambulance was called to the service station, but Amerson was dead in a short while.

Police Chief L. M. Toler said witnesses saw three of four men running from the scene after the shots were fired.

Detective Capt. Preston Bratcher said Amerson was driving from Cherry Point to his hometown, Wilson, for a family reunion when he experienced car trouble.

He said persons inside the all-night service station on U. S. 17 saw the Marine push his car into the station's lot, raise the hood and begin working on the car. Shortly afterward they heard the shots, followed by Amerson's cries. They found him in a pool of blood.

Amerson's home was on Rt. 3, Wilson.

He said the three or four men were seen by persons down the street. He said they apparently had been hiding in bushes near the station.

The police chief said he knew of no motive for the shooting, but he said it could have been a robbery attempt.

He said the bullets were believed to have come from a powerful rifle.

Amerson's home was on Rt. 3, Wilson.

Policemen Shot

CLEVELAND (AP) — Two men in a car stopped for speeding early today on the East Side, stepped out of their car and opened fire on two policemen, killing one and seriously wounding the other, police said.

Killed was Patrolman Joseph Tracz, 27, who was shot in the back of the head, back of the neck, in the back and in a leg.

In serious condition at Mount Sinai Hospital with mouth, chest and abdominal wounds was Patrolman Fred Fulton.

Inspector Patrick Gerity said Tracz apparently had been shot while lying on the ground.

Police took six persons into custody, but Gerity said it was not known if the assailants were among the six. He said a search for suspects was continuing.

Gerity said the two officers apparently were getting out of their car when they were shot at about 2 a.m. Shots were fired through the windshield of the police car and neither officer had time to return fire, police said.

Gerity said Fulton was able to get back into the car and call for help.

ECU Sets New Student Record

East Carolina University has topped its 1969 fall quarter record enrollment with a total of 10,057 on-campus students and 1,899 off-campus continuing education enrollees.

Some 9,799 on-campus and just under 1,400 off-campus enrollees were reported last fall.

Of this year's on-campus students who attend daytime classes, 4,870 are men and 5,006 are women.

According to figures released by Registrar Worth Baker's office, there are some 3,506 freshmen; 2,114 sophomores; 1,691 juniors; and 1,643 seniors. Graduate students attending day classes number 896 and special students (those taking less than 12 or auditors of classes) total 26.

Figures released by the Continuing Education office show 181 persons enrolled in the Undergraduate Evening College on campus. Enrolled at other points are the following numbers: 331 at Cherry Point; 342 at Camp Lejeune; 153 at Seymour Johnson in Goldsboro; and some 1,073 in various extension programs throughout the area.

Housing Director Dan Wooten said the 5,750 rooms in the University's seven dormitories are 99 percent filled. These include 2,500 rooms for men and the remainder for women.

No Big Drought Losses In Pitt

Rain yesterday and today, which ended a long dry spell for the Greenville-Pitt County area, apparently will have little effect on crops remaining in the fields.

According to Leroy James,

Lebanon On Guard

Lebanon guarded against renewed guerrilla attacks against Israel today after King Hussein of Jordan, Palestinian commando leader Yasir Arafat and eight Arab nations signed an agreement in Cairo ending the Jordanian civil war.

Observers at Tiberias, Israel, reported that Lebanese troops were out in force along their border Sunday, apparently anticipating increased guerrilla activity.

The peace agreement, signed Sunday by Hussein and Arafat, set up a three-man committee to ensure that its provisions are carried out and to report any violations to the eight cosigning states.

Foremost among the agreement's 14 points is that Hussein's army and the Palestinian forces will withdraw from Amman, almost destroyed by 10 days of fighting.

Neighbors Stop All-Night Piano

WOKINGHAM, England (AP) — The neighbors have had enough of Timothy Rose's moonlight serenades — he's been banned from playing his piano between 11 p.m. and 7 a.m.

Rose, a 51-year-old bachelor, found he got his best musical ideas late at night, when "I can really come to terms with the great classics of our times." After hearing a public health officer's testimony about the midnight serenades, magistrates ruled that he should come to terms with his fellow apartment-dwellers instead.

farm agent with the Pitt County Agricultural Extension Service, only peanuts, soybeans and corn remain in Pitt County fields now.

"Peanuts," James explained, "suffered slightly from the dry weather but soybeans and corn did not suffer to any great extent."

Soybeans, he said, would benefit some from the rain, but indicated no real problems existed with the crop due to dry conditions.

"The largest problem we are having with soybeans is that of worms, but the dry spell had nothing to do with this," the farm agent said.

"The rain will be a great help to planned fall crops and will be very good for lawns and other small grain crops," stated James.

The rainfall for Pitt County totaled 1.32 inches by eight o'clock this morning, according to the Greenville Utilities Commission weather station.

The high temperature for the 24-hour period ending this morning at eight o'clock was 92 degrees, while the low for that same period was set at 57 degrees.

Holdup Tried By 9-Year-Old

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Police arrested a 9-year-old boy armed with a cap pistol after he tried to hold up a store.

"Give me all the money," he said, pointing the toy weapon at a saleswoman Saturday.

"If you want the money, open the cash register," she replied. The boy fled after failing to open the register. He was still carrying the pistol when police arrested him soon after the incident and turned him over to the Juvenile Bureau.

Sullivan Is Named Chairman Of UF Professional Div.

James G. Sullivan, certified public accountant with the John C. Proctor Company in Greenville has been named chairman of the Professional Division of the Pitt County United Fund.

"I'm happy to be appointed to this position," Sullivan noted, "and I earnestly solicit the support of the professional people I'll be calling on."

Sullivan, whose appointment was announced by campaign manager Joseph O. Clark, said that he will be working with lawyers, teachers, vets, ministers, architects; with personnel of the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center and Greenville Nursing Home, and people in similar employment categories.

A native of Wilson County, Sullivan is married to Eleanor O'Neal of Middlesex. They are the parents of three children, Don, Rebecca and Greg. The Sullivans came to Greenville in 1962.

Sullivan, a graduate of East Carolina University, served two years in the Army in the mid 1950's. In Greenville, he is active in church and civic affairs, serving as treasurer of St. James United Methodist Church, on the advisory board of the Salvation Army, and is secretary-treasurer of the Greenville Rotary Club.

JAMES G. SULLIVAN

"The United Fund is truly the united way to give," Sullivan noted, "and I feel certain those I call on will respond to the needs the fund represents."

California Fires Spreading

DESTROYED HOME — Cat returns to his home in Jamul, near San Diego, today to find it destroyed by one of several fires raging out of control in the San Diego County area. Residents of Jamul were evacuated safely before the fire swept through the community destroying 25 structures. (AP Wire-Photo)

Organist Balks At Choice Of Wedding Music: Hit Bottom

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a church organist who has been intending to write to you about church music for some time, but what happened yesterday was the last straw.

A bride-to-be requested that I play "Aquarius" and "Let the Sunshine In" at her wedding. Naturally, being a conscientious church musician, I refused. She complained to the pastor who brought the matter before the church council. Believe it or not, the pastor and council agreed with her!

Now, don't get me wrong, I have nothing against the two songs mentioned above, but they have no place in a worship service, which is what a wedding is. It's bad enough when we have to play the traditional wedding marches by Wagner and Mendelssohn, or those sentimental love songs such as "I Love You Truly" and "O Promise Me," but I think when they approved "Aquarius" and "Let the Sunshine In," they hit rock bottom.

Thousands of serious church musicians will thank you for printing this. And if you do, please use my real name because I would like for people to know where I stand.

Very truly yours,
THOMAS L. SCHECK, ORGANIST
ST. JOHN'S UNITED CHURCH OF CHRIST
MANSFIELD, OHIO

DEAR ORGANIST: It might interest you to know that "rock bottom" was hit a few years ago when another organist wrote to tell me that she had been requested to play "What Kind of Fool Am I" at a church wedding. And she played it.

DEAR ABBY: Four months ago my beloved husband died suddenly of a heart attack. We had been happily married for 40 years. He was 63 when he died.

Soon after his funeral I visited his grave and saw a vase of fresh flowers there. I asked friends and relatives if they had put them there. No one I asked had. On several other occasions I visited his grave. Again, fresh flowers, with no sign of the giver. I have no idea who is doing this as we were a very happy couple. My husband was always home nights with me, so I doubt that he was seeing someone else.

I wrote a note, thanking the unknown donor for the lovely flowers and asking her to please identify herself, and I put this note under the vase. On my next visit, there were fresh flowers, and my note was gone.

I have visited the cemetery at all hours hoping to run into this person, but thus far, I've seen no one.

I am just heartsick over this, but have kept it to myself. Losing my husband was difficult enough to bear without this added burden. Can you help me, Abby? — NO NAME

DEAR NO NAME: Don't let your imagination run wild. The unknown flower donor need not be a woman with whom your husband was romantically linked. It could be a devoted, but shy person—possibly a man. Or even someone who admired your husband from afar, or one whom your husband did not even know. Don't torture yourself with frequent visits to his grave. Stay away. And most important, retain those memories of a faithful husband.

DEAR ABBY: I want to tell your readers what will power can do. A year and a half ago, I weighed 326 pounds, and today I weigh 179, and I'm still going down.

I have been eating everything I want, but only 1,000 calories a day. If I can do it, anybody can as I love eating next to God and mankind. I feel like a new woman, I look 25 years younger and am 100 per cent easier to get along with. I lost the last 40 pounds after I joined TOPS.

I hope to be down to 155 by the end of the year. I am absolutely bursting with joy and want to tell the world that will power pays off. — CAROLINE IN MARENGO, OHIO

DEAR CAROLINE: Congratulations! Your letter could inspire others who are planning to go on a diet "tomorrow" to start today.

DEAR ABBY: Between Syracuse, N. Y., and Auburn, on the New York State thruway there is a sign which says, "Watch Out for Deer." Some clown added "Abby" after "Deer." Evidently the vandals know you, too.

Very truly yours,
C. R. VAN WAGENEN

Slightly Insane Over Moving

KLINHURST, England (WNS) — Elizabeth Burton, 33, and her six daughters watched for two hours as movers emptied their home of all belongings and piled them in the garden. Then Mrs. Burton signed a new lease for the premises, and the workmen left. It took eight hours for the Burton women to carry all their belongings back into the house and restore order. Roland Benton of the local housing committee sympathized. "This seems a case of bureaucracy gone mad. I shall certainly mention it at our next meeting."

Five ounces of cheddar or American cheese supplies all the calcium and protein of a quart of milk.

Several Problem For Italian Town

BIELLA, Italy (WNS) — Local industry and family income doubled here when women agreed to work day shifts at the factories while husbands worked night shifts. But the birth rate dwindled and broken marriages soared 60 per cent within a year. The mayor, who is determined to halt the rage for legal separations (divorce is forbidden in Italy), said, "We must find a way for couples to go to bed together more than twice a week."

Cultural exchange programs between young folk in the United States and foreign countries has been very successful in acquainting youth with neighbors overseas.

A great idea too might be an exchange program for city and country youths—east and west, north and south.

City teen-agers might go to farms where they could rise early to help milk cows, feed chickens and learn about animal husbandry. Farm youths might live in the big cities, working at city jobs or volunteering in social welfare work.

A city girl who lived and worked on a farm a few years ago, advises that it was an unforgettable experience. She learned "what work really means, and how there can be satisfaction in it," she told her friends. At home, she had rebelled at boiling eggs, making toast or even loading the dishwasher. But, when she was on the farm, she often fried two dozen eggs at breakfast and got a lot of satisfaction "making the chores come out even," so there was time for everyone to enjoy relaxation.

"I really didn't understand how much effort goes into putting a glass of milk on the table—feeding cows to getting the milk to market," she said.

She learned a great deal about values from her experiences with the farm family, she says. She learned hard work paid off and that achievement may be realized in the simplest tasks.

"There was so much enjoyment in simple things... watching the cat smack his lips when the cow was being milked... being afraid of a tough Rhode Island red rooster, who was really out to get me, I was convinced, and with those horrible spurs he wore... pretending that we were having a real rodeo and inviting the neighbors to watch us ride... a funny horse who would act as if he wanted a drink from a water hole and then throw you into the drink..."

Here are other things that made farm life a great experience for this city girl:

She learned to bake a pie and says the utter satisfaction of taking a rhubarb pie out of the oven, putting it on the table and having people praise your culinary achievement was overwhelming (she has been a pie baker ever since—and she makes her own crust).

She fell in love with the land, and she is sure she never noted it before in her world of tall buildings and concrete. She learned to drive a tractor and to appreciate the creatures of nature—horses, mules, cows, other dumb beasts. "They had personality," she says.

Recreation can be inexpensive. They had fun sitting on the farm porch and listening to the sounds of the tractor, and the lowing of cattle while children played cowboys and indians in the hay loft using bales of hay as forts.

A moving picture was a great event and they would plan it for a week. And on Sunday, they would go to church services in "dress-up clothes," sit on the porch drinking lemonade or they would listen to records. Their tremendous Sunday dinner was unforgettable for its richly churned butter, homemade preserves, and every kind of farm-grown vegetable.

She began to think about her own city family when the farm family would ask her to describe them, and suddenly they became more important to her. "I saw them in a new light. I began to understand that they too had commitments in their different way of life. They were trying to do their job as they saw it, just as the farm family was doing. You begin to see that each person has a role to fulfill so that he can find inner peace, and that we can serve humanity in many ways..."

In Malaysia's Capital: Fashions International

By CAROL SIMONS
KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Girl-watching in this Malaysian capital is definitely an international affair. The variety of parading samples dressed in colorful sarongs, flowing saris, form-fitting cheong-sams or skimpy minis add Asian spice to any casual walk along the city streets. This fashion parade is rarely missed by any tourist who, head swiveling, camera clicking, is quick to comment that if he didn't know what country he was in, he surely wouldn't guess it from the girls. Because Malaysia is an obvious combination of races and nationalities—roughly 45 per cent Malay, 40 per cent Chinese, 12 per cent Indian and the rest

"others"—the country shows its character beautifully in the dress of its women, most of whom still cling to their costumes of national origin. Undisturbed by the fashion world for hundreds of years, these costumes demonstrate a grace plus practicality that lasts for years. And, in many cases, these classical styles have outmoded the modish. Old Chinese women have been doing their peddling and their bargain shopping for centuries clad in trouser suits—but here they look more like baggy pants and blouses. The Sikh Indian women look trim and stylish in Punjabi outfits which feature slim trousers, knee-length tunic dresses and long, colored neck scarves. The Malay women wear two types of dresses, either the Muslim loose-fitting skirt and long blouse, called baju kurong, or the more form-fitting sarong and kebayah. The kebayah is a long-sleeved, waist-hugging blouse and many wearers are themselves hugged by old-fashioned stays. The degree of cover-up is important in the Islamic religion, but the conservatism doesn't seem to affect the shape. Young women often sport super-tight sarongs and compete famously with their Chinese colleagues in miniskirts.

Reports Given At Meeting Of VFW Auxiliary

The Ladies Auxiliary of the VFW met Thursday night at the Post Home. Reports were made on the aid given to the patients at the Greenville Nursing Home, in arts and crafts and personal assistance. Plans were completed for a birthday party at the VA Hospital in Fayetteville on Sept. 30 and prizes for the patients will be taken by the members.

Members Of Wedding Party Are Announced

Miss Linda Quinn Moore and Barry Lee Ingalls are announcing members of their wedding party. The wedding will take place Sunday, Oct. 4, at three o'clock with Rev. Ernest Bass officiating.

The bride is to be escorted by her father, with her sister, Pam Moore, as maid of honor.

Bridesmaids are Mrs. Lacey Boyd Jr. of Pinetown, Miss Opal Woolard of Washington and Miss Linda La Grange of Rocky Mount.

Flower girl will be Leisa Moore, a cousin of the bride, and Terry Ingalls, the bride groom's brother, will be ring bearer.

Garry Ingalls will attend his brother as best man, and ushers are Coy Ingalls and Tommy Hardison, cousins of the bride groom, and Stanley Norris.

Wedding music will be presented by Miss Gayle Edwards, pianist, and soloist, Mrs. Joseph B. Wall Jr., cousin of the bride.

Mrs. Coy Ingalls will register wedding guests, and Miss Betty Edwards and Mrs. Plum Mills will assist the wedding party.

President Myrtle Meeks reported membership was 100 per cent for the coming year and announced that the Buddy Poppy sale will be on Nov. 7. Proceeds from the poppy sale is used for veterans in hospitals and for widows and orphans.

The auxiliary donated Patriotic Holiday Cards and Flag Etiquette Booklets to H.B. Sugg School and plans are to give these to all schools in the county.

Post Commander L. E. Meeks and Auxiliary President Mrs. Meeks and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Joyner attended the Council of Administration in Greensboro Sept. 26-27.

The Auxiliary will solicit signatures to a petition urging that those holding United States servicemen as prisoners of war adhere to the agreement of the Geneva Convention providing for humane treatment of the prisoners, on the streets of Greenville on Saturday.

UNC-G Alumni Association Selects New President

GREENSBORO — Mrs. H. H. Walston III of Wilson has been named to succeed Miss Ruth Clinard of Greensboro as president of the Alumni Association of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. Mrs. Walston was elevated to the post of president after serving for the past year as second vice president and chairman of the association's nominating committee. The appointment was made by the Board of Trustees of the association. Miss Clinard resigned as president due to the press of her responsibilities as executive director of the Greensboro Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Mrs. Walston, who is a former first vice president and trustee of the association, has served as chairman of the Katharine Smith Reynolds Scholarship Committee in Wilson County. She is a life member of the Junior Woman's Club and has held major offices in her church and in the American Field Service organization in Wilson. She and her husband, secretary-treasurer of Barnes Motor and Parts Co., are the parents of a son and two daughters.

has been chairman of her church's children's activities and its Commission on Missions. She and her husband, a professor of history at East Carolina University, have two daughters. Meanwhile, Mrs. James L. Hobbs of Dover in Craven County has been named to fill a vacancy on the Association Board of Trustees. The mother of three daughters, she is active in the Church Women United. Her husband is a Methodist minister.

Succeeding Mrs. Walston as second vice president is Mrs. Henry C. Ferrell Jr. of Greenville, a member of the association's Board of Trustees. A registered medical technologist, she works part-time in that capacity at Pitt County Memorial Hospital. She construction bricks, wear saris at work.

As for the Western women of this city, they're still in minis and modest knee-lengths and wondering what to wear next. There's probably a subconscious envy of the stability of the cheong-sam, sarong-keayah, sari or punjabi dress.

There is no doubt that for centuries these styles have flattered the women and pleased the men, and they still are among the best sights to see in town. Ask any girl-watcher!

Engagement Announced

MISS SHARON STOCKS . . . is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Stocks of Greenville, who announce her engagement to Edwin A. Little Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Little of Ayden. The wedding will take place in December.

Greenville Native Named To Outstanding List

BURLINGTON — Miss Nancy Howell, principal at Maple Avenue School, has been selected to appear in the 1970 edition of Outstanding Young Women of America.

The announcement was made by the Alamance Branch of the AAUW. Nominated earlier this year, Miss Howell has been chosen for the awards publication on the basis of her achievements.

Miss Howell, who has been associated with the Burlington School System since 1957, is a native of Greenville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Yank Howell. She received a B. S. degree in grammar grade education from East Carolina University and the M. A. degree in elementary education and administration at ECU. She has also done advanced graduate work at ECU and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

She began her teaching career at Broad Street Junior High School, Burlington, and taught classes for academically talented students as well as other classes at Turrentine Junior High School before being named principal at Maple Avenue School.

In 1964, Miss Howell received the Outstanding Teacher Award at Turrentine Junior High School and awarded the Outstanding Young Educator's Award sponsored by the Burlington Jaycees in 1965. She is a member of Delta Kappa Gamma, society for women educators.

She is now in competition for the state's Outstanding Young Woman of the Year Award. This fall, 50 of the young women included in Outstanding Young Women of America, one from each state, will be named as their state's Outstanding Young Woman of the Year.

Child Abuse A Serious Matter

For the majority of us, the most natural thing in the world is to assume that parents, no matter what their other faults, will look after their children as best they can.

Yet, cases of child abuse are not at all rare right here in Pitt County. The problem is ranked as a serious one by Miss Dorothy Bolton, director of the Pitt Department of Social Services. She reports that her office receives about five calls a week concerning child abuse and perhaps two of these will prove to be legitimate.

Here in Pitt County an infant has been found with fractured skull and burned legs. After the child was returned home it came back to the hospital with two broken legs.

A three year old girl was beaten unmercifully and hit against a wall. When investigators got to her, she had dark bruises on her face and finger marks on her arms.

Another child was so neglected that a very low IQ resulted.

Fortunately the overwhelming majority of adults have built into them whatever it takes to give children the best care that they can. Even in the poorest of families there is usually love and what there is in the way of food and money is willingly shared.

Still there are those who for some reason are incredibly cruel to their offspring—and it is a pitiful situation, indeed, when an innocent child is a part of such a family.

Whatever the home situation a child is almost always better off with his natural parents where ever possible. Such is not the case, however, when a child is brutally beaten and abused by one or both parents.

Authorities should be especially alert to finding these situations and they are justified in taking whatever action is necessary for the child's best interest.

State Will Miss Its Accustomed Surplus

The recession of the past year and a half is going to have its effects on the state surplus apparently.

Gov. Scott discussed this at a press conference last week. He said the surplus of next June 30 may be lower than this year. It could drop below the $100 million mark.

The surpluses sound huge, but the Legislature uses the carried over surplus each time it meets for the next biennial budget. Thus, if the surplus is less than expected, some pet projects will go wanting in order to balance the budget.

It is not a critical situation for North Carolina, but it will squeeze the budget making process somewhat. It will be a factor in determining what will be included in the 1971-73 budget.

Reassessing Radical Profs

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
BERKELEY, Cal. — The fact that University of California administrators are quietly calling in radical professors to discuss their conduct during the wild days of last spring is one reason for nurturing slender hope about the school year ahead.

The administrators, to be sure, contemplate no disciplinary action for the professors' contributions to "reconstituting" the university's eight campuses in the hysterical aftermath of Cambodia - Kent State. But these professors are being asked pointed questions about their springtime assault on academic standards in sympathy with radical political activity, opening their classes to late registering radical students who then received a full semester's credit. In this fashion, one psychology class on Berkeley campus ballooned from about 150 to over 600 last spring just before semester's end.

That the university's administrators are now reassessing last spring with a critical eye reflects a remarkable transformation in less than four months. When we were here in May, administrators openly rejoiced that violence had been averted through the new spirit of "reconstitution" and winked at academic abuses.

Now, thanks to pressure from the public, from the university's regents, and most significantly, from some faculty members, these same administrators are conceding that avoidance of violence is not the sole criterion for saving the university and that educational processes had teetered to the brink of chaos in May.

Consequently, those concerned faculty members who last spring could only despair for the future of their university and for higher education in America now, at least, dare to hope.

On the Berkeley campus, incubator of student revolution for the rest of the university and the nation, there are superficially hopeful signs. The summer session passed with scarcely a word about "reconstitution." There is no visible planning for the fall semester by campus extremists, contrasting with feverish activity a year ago. The Daily Californian, the radicalized student newspaper, has requested an interview with Gov. Ronald Reagan — seen by the governor's office as a conciliatory gesture.

But such signs constitute only the calm of temporary emotional exhaustion which always has followed convulsions since the campus revolution started here in 1964. The new factor this time is that responsible faculty members finally have found their voices.

Through the summer on all eight campuses, they have been organizing and conferring with each other. They feel the administrators, swayed by raucous agitation of radical students and faculty the past five years, can now be moved by equally militant defense of academic standards.

Such responsible professors have become particularly aggressive on the San Diego campus, calling upon the university to undo the damage done by chancellor William McGill before he left San Diego a few weeks ago to become president of Columbia University.

They complain that, by giving black and brown students veto power over faculty appointments and promotions in their new Third College at San Diego, McGill not only subverted academic standards but beckoned radical students nationwide to what until recently had been a quiet campus. Less well organized than their San

Jeanne Is The Liberated One

By KATHY WOESTENDIEK

Goldsboro News-Argus
GOLDSBORO — Imagine being the only woman in a group of 403 people

And in a sub-group of 11, imagine being the winner of the American Hot Rod Association's H-optional stock races.

That's a liberated woman for you.

Jeanne (Mrs. Bob) Johnson, stationed in Goldsboro with her Air Force husband, has loved cars as long as she can remember. Her husband races cars, too, but lately Bob has moved aside to give Jeanne the limelight.

"We've always been interested in cars," Jeanne said, "even back when we were dating. Then we got married, and when Bob got back from Vietnam, we just fell back into cars."

Jeanne started driving for other people in showroom classes. Her first day in competition was May 3 of this year at Kinston Drag Strip. Since then she has won the Powder Puff Races at Wilson Speedway, several over-all eliminations at Kinston, and boasts eight straight weeks in winnings at Highway 258 in Jacksonville.

The family racing car, a '68 Nova II named Boss A Nova, has been maintained by husband Bob and Troy Dennis, a racing acquaintance. Bob left a couple of weeks ago for 13 months in Korea and turned his responsibilities over to Dennis.

Informal Fashion
Jeanne wears regular old men's racing apparel which she alters to fit — but when it's really hot she sometimes wears shorts.

She said the men get excited about having a girl competitor. "Around here they look forward to running against me," she said. "I guess they think it's kind of a challenge." And, in turn, she prefers racing men to participating in Powder Puff races with other women drivers. "It's harder competition," she explained, "and it makes you try harder."

Mrs. Johnson is known by drag racing enthusiasts as a consistent driver whose trips through the quarter-mile usually hold the same speed and a close elapsed time — a mark of a good driver.

Women don't look down on Jeanne for racing cars. In fact, she thinks most of them are impressed — maybe even a little envious.

"I think more women should get into racing," Jeanne said. "I believe a woman can out-race a man. It's been proven that a woman's reaction time is faster..."

She's not sure what it is she likes so much about racing cars, but she said she even enjoys watching people work on them.

"I don't know much about working on a car, but—" "You know more than most men do!" her husband interrupted quickly.

Mother Worries, Hubby Calm
Jeanne, a native of San Rafael, Calif., said her mother worries about her daughter's vocation, but as long as Jeanne is happy she can do as she likes.

Johnson said he doesn't worry about his brunette fireball. "My only worry is about her winning," he said confidently.

Though Jeanne has done nothing but improve since the start of her racing career, it was not until winning the AHRA Drag Championship that she really hit the big time.

Jeanne completed the quarter-mile run in 12.88 seconds — at a speed of 106 MPH — the national record being 12.85.

She has been asked to join the Greenville team of Edward, Dennis and Edwards, also known as the Hobo Racing Team. This means she has graduated from stock class to modified production.

The team will keep two cars, Little Hobo No. 4 and Lady Hobo, which Jeanne will drive. Lady Hobo will really be Boss A Nova in a disguise of higher horsepower and an increased speed of at least 120 mph in the 11-second bracket.

Jeanne and her team will be running for national point standing and money. They will be racing at Kinston Drag Strip, Fayetteville, Highway 258, Benson, New Bern, Rockingham and Bristol, Tenn.

Little Hobo is currently second in point standing and street eliminator class in AHRA.

John And Martha Show

WASHINGTON — Washington has become the setting for several new television programs. The Bold Ones, starring Hal Holbrook, features a U.S.

senator dealing with the problems of legislating for the country. Nancy is about a President's daughter who lives in the White House and is in love with a veterinarian.

Another one in the planning stage and written by a Hollywood friend of mine is titled John and Martha, the story of a simple attorney general of the United States named John and his simple fun-loving wife, Martha.

My friend said in John and Martha he hopes to answer the question of whether a man and woman who hate students, professors, educators and Sen. J. William Fulbright can find happiness in Washington.

"We're working on the pilot now," my friend said. "It's really a lot of laughs. We open with the Atty. Gen. John attending his fourth cocktail party of the evening. He's talking to a woman and tells her professors are 'stupid bastards' who are ruining the educational institutions. He calls Henry Kissinger, the President's assistant, an 'egocentric maniac' who likes to have his picture taken with Jill St. John, and he blames the Democrats for all the woes in the country."

"Well, what John doesn't know is that the woman he's talking to works for Women's Wear Daily and everything he's told her is printed in the paper. John reads it in bed the next morning with an ice bag on his head.

"You can imagine the flap," my friend said, chuckling on the phone.

"The first thing John decides to do is deny he spoke to the reporter. But Martha has a better idea. While John is putting more ice in his ice bag, Martha sneaks to the upstairs bathroom of their Watergate apartment duplex and telephones a United Press reporter and tells her

Other Editors Say Clean Air?

(Christian Science Monitor)
It isn't really surprising that in cities like Detroit, air pollution laws seem to have been written for the horse and buggy era. Detroit's regulations exempt auto emissions from controls, despite the fact that two-fifths of the total of the five worst air foulers come from autos. After all, the clean-air law pattern across most of America, as well as in Washington, was set in an earlier day. There not only weren't many cars. But local fathers were also trying to woo big industry to town — when bread was of greater moment than air.

But that day is passing. And there is no clearer sign of this than the passage in the Senate, Tuesday, by a 73-0 vote, of a stiff and comprehensive clean-air bill. The bill provides that:

—Nationwide standards would be set for the 10 major air contaminants, including auto emissions. The states will have the task of preparing plans to meet the standards, or can set stiffer standards for themselves. The plans must take effect in five and one half years — within the time framework for reducing auto emissions by 90 percent.

—Penalties of up to $25,000 a day and two years in prison could be meted out under the Senate proposal. Government contracts will be withheld from polluters.

—$465 million of the $1.19 billion the bill would authorize over the next three years would go into research on ways to abate auto and other emissions.

This is a promising proposal. Most of the credit for it accrues to Sen. Edmund S. Muskie (D) of Maine. He is chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on Air and Water Pollution. And for many years he had carried the antipollution banner when it was thought an upright, but inconsequential cause.

The Senate bill, however, does include many suggestions of a milder clean-air proposal sent to Congress last winter by President Nixon, and to an earlier passed House bill. But the Senate bill is tougher.

In the long run, we believe that industry — the electrical power companies as well as the run of manufacturers and processors — will gain from a nationwide clear-air effort. One could foresee the phasing out of many facilities that may be too costly to modify to meet the standards. This will be a tough problem to handle.

will be layoffs of steel workers.

Retail Sales Hit
Perhaps the hardest hit are retailers who have been selling to auto workers and their suppliers. Not only the small enterprises that cluster around every GM plant, but larger merchants in GM cities are beginning to feel less of business and layoffs are on the way.

The matter is worsened by the fact that many large corporations not involved in the auto industry, have been closing down unprofitable plants. Motorola has closed its color television-tube plant in Illinois, and General Electric has announced its intention of laying off 500 workers at Syracuse, N. Y., because of Japanese competition.

Even before the strike, Budd began phasing out its brake drum operation in Detroit because of the trend toward disc brakes. Key Co. has closed a mobile homes plant at Clearwater, Fla. Standard Pressed Steel is closing its Worley plant at Whittier, Calif. Burlington Industries has closed a weaving plant in Greensboro, N. C.

LTV Aerospace has closed a plant at San Antonio, and the Seattle area has been hit hard by plane building cutbacks. Wearaver is phasing out a Wearaver plant at Chillicothe, Ohio. There are a score more closings affected or planned.

Many of the closings are because of obsolete facilities. In some cases, production will be increased at other plants. Some analysts calculate the GM strike will end within eight weeks. In that period strike funds will be depleted and GM will have sold off its inventory of completed cars. However, even an eight-week strike could send the unemployment rate above 6 per cent.

Strength For Today

CHILDREN OF LIGHT
"While ye have the light, believe in the light, that ye may be the children of light" (John 12:36).

We may not always have the light — that is, the light of free untrammelled religion. If communism gets its way, we shall certainly not have it. Our Lord, on one occasion, is reported to have asked the question, "When the Son of man comes, shall he find faith on the earth?" (Luke 18:8)

Sometimes we wonder how the Church continues to exist. Although both the United States and Canada were settled in the beginning by religious people bent on implanting their ideals and perpetuating them, nevertheless there is a strange disregard for things religious on the part of many people in both countries. In the United States ten times as much money is spent to restrain crime as to promote religion; vastly more is spent for liquor than for the Church. If most children received no more education in arithmetic than they do in religion, they would not be able to make change or count to fifty.

What are we really doing to keep the light? Do we have the idea that in some way or other it will persist, regardless? Do we think that just as we have been lucky in the past we shall be lucky in the future? There are many tragic possibilities which might leave us a barren and unbelieving people. Harry Enjoys Power

By JEFFREY D. ALDERMAN
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — During the recent power crunch along the Eastern Seaboard, many conscientious citizens began thinking about ways in which they were wasting electricity. But not my friend Harry.

Perhaps he should have because I suspect that if he had the power, the emergency would have been avoided.

Harry, a bachelor, wakes in the morning via an elaborate electrical system that at one time activates his FM tuner, vibrates his bed gently and starts warming his coffee.

Rising after a comfortable air-conditioned night (he has an air-conditioner in every room of his 12-room house—each left on full blast at all times), Harry clicks on his bedroom television for the morning news and heads for the bathroom. Once there he clicks on the bathroom television so as not to miss any important announcements—such as a report on an impending power crisis—and begins his toilet.

A man who enjoys being tanned year-round, he switches on his overhead sunlamp and puts his tooth paste on his electric tooth brush. Meanwhile his electric lather machine is heating up his shaving cream for later use.

After shaving and showering (he dries himself under a special heat lamp), he moves to the kitchen to make breakfast. Clicking on the kitchen television, he pours some coffee and begins breakfast preparation. The sausage goes in one pan on his electric stove while his scrambled eggs are made in an electric frypan. His toast, meantime, is crisping in his eight-slice toaster.

His orange juice is squeezed by an electric squeezer and further treated in an electric blender. Before cooking his scrambled eggs, he transforms them into a uniform fluid via an electric egg beater.

An electric timer, of course, tells him when each part of his repast is ready.

He adjourns to the dining room, turns on his 24-bulb chandelier, clicks on the dining-room television and eats breakfast—each part of which he kept warm until he's ready for it in an electric food warmer.

It's back to the bedroom again where he cleans off his business suit with an electric air brush and brushes up his shoes with an electric shoe polisher.

What happens next is a phenomenon Harry is most proud of. He's the only one on his block to have this particular gadget. He presses a button near the hallway light, activating an automatic electrical starter in his garage which starts his car. The purpose: to allow his car to sufficiently warm up before Harry goes to work.

Harry takes an elevator to his air-conditioned garage—his house is split-level—and gets in his car, its air conditioning already running.

He presses a button on the dash and the garage door opens automatically and Harry's is off to work.

To suggest to Harry that he might be using a great deal of electricity needlessly, particularly during a power shortage, is to no avail.

"I can't do without life's essentials," he retorts.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN
(c 1970: By The Chicago Tribune)
ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ
Q. 1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠AQ ♠A6 ♠AK8432 ♠QJ3

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ 2 ♣ Pass Pass
Dble. Pass 2 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Three no trump. True, partner has promised nothing since you forced him to bid, but possession of four diamonds will no doubt enable you to run the suit and a club lead or the favorable location of the king of spades would give you a ninth trick.

Q. 2—Both sides vulnerable, and as South you hold:
♠AJ72 ♠2 ♠KJ6 ♠AJ932

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♣ 2 ♣ Pass Pass
1 ♠ 2 ♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Pass. Altho West's overcall is preemptive, your partner was unable to compete freely and there is no safe course of action available to you. A pass, at least, is apt to produce a small profit.

Q. 3—Neither side vulnerable, and as South you hold:
♠AQ3 ♠KQJ87 ♠3 ♠KQ87

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
Pass 1 ♠ 2 ♣ Pass
1 ♠ Dble. ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Four hearts. Your partner is most likely close to being broke since East has announced possession of a very good hand, so the burden of the bidding lies squarely on your shoulders. Since both the ace of clubs and the king of spades appear to be favorably located for your side, all partner requires is some fair distribution or the jack of clubs to make four hearts a virtual laydown.

Q. 4—Your side is vulnerable with an 80 part score, and as South you hold:
♠KJ10643 ♠K92 ♠73 ♠K10

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ 3 ♠ 3 ♣ Pass
4 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Four spades. No serious thought should be given to bidding four hearts as that call could only serve to inflame an already clamorous partner. You had barely enough for your free bid and a simple rebid in your suit is called for at this point to slow down the pace.

Q. 5—Both sides vulnerable, and as South you hold:
♠Q65432 ♠J10 ♠A83 ♠32

The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North

What do you bid now?
A.—Three spades. No more drastic action than this could be justified on such a relatively balanced holding. Unless partner can proceed over three, no game will have been missed. A leap to game by you might invite a double that could prove surprisingly costly.

Q. 6—Neither side vulnerable. As South you hold:
♠A8543 ♠62 ♠10852 ♠73

The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
4 ♠ Dble. Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Pass, for a sure profit. A double at this level, while it still may be taken out, should be passed with anything but a highly unbalanced holding.

Q. 7—Both sides vulnerable, and as South you hold:
♠86 ♠A983 ♠J63 ♠A1054

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
2 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Three diamonds. Your hand does not technically qualify for a second constructive bid. However, partner appears to have a very good diamond holding, since on his rebid he skipped by spades, no trump and clubs. If he can stop spades, there may be nine tricks available at no trump.

Q. 8—Both sides vulnerable, and as South you hold:
♠AK109 ♠AQJ73 ♠9865

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ 2 ♣ Dble. Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Pass. True, you are void in clubs and that is always a deterrent against leaving a penalty double in, but your defensive values, otherwise, are all of the gilt-edged variety your partner will be counting on.

Four Collisions In City Listed Sunday

Almost $3,600 property damage resulted yesterday from four collisions investigated here by Greenville police.

Heaviest damage resulted from an 8 p.m. collision at the intersection of 11th and Charles Streets which involved cars driven by Larry Richard Lykins, 28, of Norfolk, Va., and Deborah Joyce Lewis, 19, of Morehead City.

Police, who charged Lykins with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety, placed damage to the Lykins car at $500 and damage to the Lewis vehicle at $600.

George Wallace Fields, 36, of Monticello, Ky., was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 7:26 p.m. collision on Memorial Drive 25 feet North of the South Village Drive intersection.

Officers said the Fields car collided with a vehicle operated by William C. Mallory, 18, of Plymouth.

Damage was estimated at $350 to the Mallory car and $700 to the Fields vehicle.

Cars driven by Jenifer Hoard Hodges, 25, of 311 Lewis St. and Sallie Satterthwaite Parker, Cotton Hall, were involved in a 5:30 p.m. collision at the intersection of First and Harding Streets.

According to officers, damage to the Hodges auto was estimated at $600 while damage to the Parker vehicle was set at $400.

Mrs. Parker was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety.

James Edward Boone, 50, of Kinston was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 10:45 p.m. collision on U.S. 264, 103 feet West of the Evans Street intersection.

Investigators said the Boone vehicle collided with a car driven by William Randy Dixon, 21, of Route 2, Grimesland.

Diego colleagues, Berkeley's faculty moderates are similarly outraged by eroded academic standards in the black studies program.

President Nixon's incessant public prodding that university administrators and faculty must put their house in order is important in this process. California administrators generally resent White House intervention, arguing it only provokes the students. But faculty moderates, including many an anti-Nixon Democrat, believe pressure from the President is paying off.

the Women's Wear Daily story is ridiculous."

I started to chuckle myself. "Now here is where it really gets funny. After denying what John said, Martha makes matters worse by saying the academic society is responsible for all the troubles in the country, and is destroying the United States. She tells the reporter that professors make her sick to her stomach, and they're a bunch of sidewalk diplomats and they don't have any right to say anything."

"It's pretty funny so far," I admitted.

My friend continued. "In the next scene Martha has the ice bag on her head and she's reading what she told the United Press. John doesn't know what to do, so he sneaks up into the bathroom of Watergate and he calls his office and tells them to deny everything."

But while John is on the telephone in the bathroom, Martha starts calling other reporters confirming what she said.

"The next day John has the ice bag on his head and he reads all the things Martha has added to the story.

"Here's where the thing really takes off," my friend said. "Guess who comes to visit John while he's in bed?"

"John Kenneth Galbraith?" I asked.

"No stupid. Henry Kissinger and Jill St. John! They announce that, thanks to John, they're going to get married. Martha gets so excited when she hears the news that she rushes upstairs to her bathroom and calls the Associated Press."

"That's great," I said truthfully. "But what are you going to do for the next episode?"

"I don't know yet," my friend said. "But John and Martha will think of something."

207 EVANS ST. GREENVILLE, N.C. PHONE 752-3736

1. The First Grand Ville. A completely new Pontiac that never existed before. A luxury car with a sensible price. The most luxurious Pontiac ever. The softest seats. The richest upholstery. The most distinctive appointments. More head room. More shoulder room. As much rear-seat leg room in the 2-door hardtop as in most 4-doors.

Twice the money won't buy a smoother, quieter ride. Compare for yourself. It starts with a wider Wide-Track. A new suspension. And some new ways to marry body to chassis. Sensational.

Even response is luxurious. The steering is variable-ratio power. The brakes are power with front discs. The power is a 455-cubic-inch V-8 that performs on low-lead or no-lead fuel.

2. Firebird Esprit. Our 1971 Firebird Esprit will be making a few new waves. It couples the handling of a sports car with the smooth ride of a big car.

Molded foam front seats. A new process we discovered. They won't lump. So they stay comfortable for the life of the car.

Front disc brakes and more. A dent-resistant Endura front end. Long-wearing, bias-belted tires. A 350-cubic-inch V-8 (low-lead or no-lead fuel). Knit vinyl upholstery. All standard.

3. GTO. Legendary. But we made it better. In honor of our enthusiast fans. New scoops that really scoop. Order them functional with a new 455-CID H.O. V-8. Which is also very efficient on the new no-lead or low-lead gasolines. Lower exhaust emissions. Plus longer life for spark plugs, exhaust system and other engine components. If no- or low-lead gas isn't available, use any leaded regular-grade gas with a research octane number of at least 91.

The new Endura front end fights back. It looks like painted sheet metal but isn't. Much tougher. It resists dings, dents, chips. Won't rust.

The power train's tough, too. 400-CID V-8. Dual exhausts. A Hurst-shifted 3-speed transmission (order a 4-speed if you prefer).

4. Grand Prix. Until now, no new car ever started out a classic. The look of a classic. An all-new front end. Classic. A sensational new sculptured rear end. Equally so. A new cockpit interior that puts every new control and gauge at fingertip command.

There's more to a classic than ogling. It has to move. Grand Prix has a 400-cubic-inch V-8. Power brakes, front discs. Variable-ratio power steering. An available 455 V-8. Grand Prix moves.

A new maintenance-free battery. It never needs water. And it holds a higher power reserve throughout its life. Standard on Grand Prix "SJ" model.

Farm Scene

Hay Feeding For The Calves

By EDWIN L. YANCEY
For the second time in this year a single case of hog cholera has resulted in part of Pitt County being placed under State and Federal quarantine for the disease. This move is required under regulations in effect as a part of the hog cholera dication program. All farm to market and farm to farm movement of feeder and breeder swine is prohibited without or from the quarantined area. All slaughter animals must be inspected on the farm and paint marked before being moved to market.

The small area in quarantine lies north of Belvoir Road and Pactolus Highway (N. C. 30) from a point about halfway between Sally Branch and Belvoir to just beyond Parker's Chapel Church. It extends north on either side of N. C. 11 highway to its intersection with State Road 1426.

Any producer in the quarantine area who plans to market hogs should contact a Vocational Agriculture teacher well in advance of expected movement so they will have an opportunity to schedule around their regular work load.

Cholera Precautions

The fact that Pitt County has only one farm affected with hog cholera indicates that the disease is not widespread. It is however a persistent problem in the state. All producers can observe a few simple rules that will help prevent the disease. Breeding stocks and feeder pigs should be purchased only from farms and sales that indicate good sanitation and careful attention to disease prevention. All such animals are required to be accompanied by an official inspection certification. In the case of purebred breeding stock a bill of sale with the certificate number listed is satisfactory. Another good preventive measure is to control traffic. You stay away from your neighbor's hog lots and ask people to stay away from yours. Move hogs to market on your own trucks if possible. If not, require haulers to bring clean trucks on your farm. When you do go to a market change clothes and disinfect shoes before going back around your hogs.

Hog cholera is being reduced by the Eradication Program. As long as the disease continues to occur, however, every hog producer has a stake in trying to stamp it out. Observing all the rules of the program will make that happen faster.

Consumers Protected

Consumers need have no fear about the wholesomeness of pork and pork products. There is no known connection between cholera in swine and any human disease. More important, however, the meat processors make a special effort to eliminate any animals from slaughter if they show symptoms of disease. Federal and state inspectors inspect each carcass to further determine if it meets all the standards of a wholesome product.

N.C. Counts 20 Weekend Road Deaths

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
At least 20 persons were killed in accidents on North Carolina's highways this weekend, raising the toll for 1970 to 1,211.

The State Highway Patrol said the death count compares with 1,313 killed on the state's highways in a similar period last year.

At least one traffic death this weekend was partially blamed on the rain which washed the state Sunday after a long dry spell. Mrs. Anna Brown, 50, of Fayetteville, was killed when the car she was riding in crashed into a ditch near Dunn as it tried to pass another car in heavy rain.

The patrol said 57-year-old Lennie Flythe Vinson of Conway was killed on a two-car crash on U. S. 258 about six miles north of Woodland. The car the victim was driving skidded into the path of another vehicle, the patrol reported. Troopers said Jasper Julius Roberson, 32, of Rt. 2, Hurdle Mills, was killed when the car he was riding in overturned near Roxboro on U. S. 501.

A 47-year-old Asheboro man, Hardy Griffin Lassiter, was fatally injured when his car crashed on a rural paved road four miles south of his home town and rolled over.

A Camp Lejeune Marine Thomas J. Hermes, 19, was killed when he was run over while lying in a road in Pender County, the patrol reported.

A collision on a rural road about two and a half miles east of Mooresville killed 48-year-old Susan Burgess McClain of Mooresville. Four other persons were injured in the head-on crash.

Glenn Henry Lakins, 22, of Greensboro was killed when his car veered off a rural road about six miles east of his home town and rammmed into a utility pole.

George William Henry Davis, 50, of Fayetteville was killed when he was struck by a car while he was riding a bicycle. A 35-year-old Yadkinville man was killed in a three-vehicle crash on U. S. 421 about 14 miles east of Wilkesboro. He was identified as Donald Bruce Badgett, 35.

Edward Fison, 41, of Charlotte was killed in a head-on crash four miles north of Mount Holly on N. C. 16. A 26-year-old Greensboro woman was killed when her car overturned on a rural road near her home town. She was Betty Irene Hontz.

Troopers said Tenney Imgalls Deane, 76, of Safety Harbor, Fla., was killed north of Henderson when he was hit by a motorcycle on U. S. 1.

Levonne Campbell, 22, of Rt. 3, Faison, was killed in a two-car collision on N. C. 403 near his home town. Frederick Earl Wagener, 30, of Aberdeen was killed near Pinebluff on U. S. 1 when the car he was riding in crashed out of control.

Two brothers, Hezish Reid, 30, and Carl Reid, 19, were killed when their car ran off a rural road two miles north of Mount Holly. Both were from Rt. 1, Mount Holly.

A 20-year-old Winterville woman died of injuries suffered in a two-car collision a mile east of her home town. She was identified as Bessie Edwards Willoughby.

Johnnie Lee Maple, 24, of Charlotte and O'Neal Young, 31, were killed when the car they were in collided with a tractor-trailer truck in Charlotte. Young's address was not immediately available.

A 19-year-old Zebulon man, Charles Randolph Pretty, was killed on a one-car accident about three miles south of his home town on N. S. 39.

Tobacco TIPS

By SAM J. WEEKS

As the 1970 crop of tobacco is being sold, it is not too early to begin considering ways and making plans to produce the highest net return from your 1971 crop. There are many production practices to consider as you formulate your tobacco production program. The first and one of the most important steps in a good tobacco production program is the plant bed.

Experimental results have shown that a good supply of quality plants at transplanting time will increase the net profit from the tobacco crop. In order to have a good supply of strong, healthy plants, reasonably early in the transplanting season, a well planned plant bed program based on sound and proven production practices must be followed.

Careful attention should be given to the location of the plant bed site. Select a deep, fertile, loamy soil that warms up quickly. The soil should be well drained, but not one that dries too quickly. Avoid using soil that bakes or crusts easily. It is a good idea to locate the bed near a dependable source of water whenever possible, such as a pond or stream. Having plenty of water handy in dry weather may determine whether you have plants ready for an early setting.

Cold and drying winds can cause very serious damage to stands and earliness of plants; therefore, it is a good idea for all beds to have some type of windbreak on the north, northwest, and northeast sides, especially on the north side. Woods, hedgerows, buildings, and fences covered with vines, make good windbreaks. Avoid locating beds in shaded areas.

If you have a permanent plant bed site established and have a cover crop growing, it should be disced immediately. By discing in the cover crop now the organic matter will be decayed in time to treat the soil for weed and nematode control in the fall or early winter.

It is very important that you start planning your plant bed program for the 1971 tobacco crop now by selecting your plant bed site, and beginning proper soil management.

If you have not already plowed out your tobacco stubbles, plan to do so "right now." OPERATION R-6-P (Reduce 6 Pests) will help produce a better crop.

Will Open New Exposition Hall

GREENSBORO (AP) — Greensboro's new million-dollar Exposition Building was to officially open today. The building is part of the Greensboro Coliseum-Auditorium complex.

The opening ceremonies coincided with the start of the 71st annual Greensboro Agricultural Fair, which is being held on the coliseum grounds through Saturday.

The Exposition Building will house all exhibits of the fair except livestock.

Theme Chosen PTA Convention

ASHEVILLE (AP) — The theme "PTA—A force for Quality Living and Learning in North Carolina" has been adopted for the annual convention of the state's Parent-Teacher Association Oct. 1-3.

Among speakers at the Asheville gathering will be Mrs. J. M. Herndon, secretary of the national PTA, and state Superintendent of Public Instruction A. Craig Phillips.

Mrs. Carlton Watkins of Charlotte is the state president.

Arrest Man For Killing Brothers

WILSON, N. C. (AP) — A 24-year-old Wilson man has been charged with shooting two brothers to death near Wilson Saturday night.

A spokesman for the Wilson County Sheriff's Department said Hayward Ellis Jr. was charged with killing Nathan Edwards, 28, and his 27-year-old brother, Johnny Wade Edwards, both of Elm City.

The spokesman said the two men were shot to death at a residence just outside the Wilson city limits.

Ellis was being held in Wilson County jail without bond.

Independent Schools Ass'n Will Gather

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The North Carolina Association of Independent Schools will hold its first meeting Oct. 12 at Charlotte to discuss strengthening private schools in the state.

The organization has about 16 member schools, according to Dr. A. Emerson Johnson, headmaster of Country Day School at Charlotte. He said the group's members are not dominated by schools set up to avoid public school desegregation.

Two sessions are scheduled at the Country Day campus Oct. 12, Johnson said. One will be for representatives from the private schools which are members of national or regional accrediting bodies. The other will be for headmasters of all private, state-approved schools in North Carolina.

Science Now Creates Any Kind Of Pretend World

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Scientists now can create any kind of pretend or toy world that they want—in order to learn what is really going on in the environment of the real world.

They can jiggle the toy worlds around to dig out facts that can replace some guesses about what is causing pollution or trouble in man's environment.

And they can study, in advance, whether some proposed remedy would actually work, or whether it might backfire with unexpected upsets in the intricate balance of nature.

Furthermore, the experimental worlds may lead to discovery of unsuspected phenomena or forces affecting man, plants and animals.
These are some of the promises from a unique new research facility, the Biotron at the University of Wisconsin here. It contains 48 rooms, ranging from closet-sized to a two-story room, in which almost any environment can be produced, and kept under control by individual computers.

temperatures can be prescribed from arctic cold to desert heat. A room may be kept bright with continuous daylight, or black with 24-hour night, or any proportion of each. Air may be kept mountain-pure or intentionally tainted with ingredients of smog or other chemicals.

Humidity comes at order. A wind tunnel can produce slight breezes and winds of hurricane force. You can prescribe cycles of daily or seasonal change for growing things.

The $4.8-million Biotron Laboratory was dedicated recently with scientists stressing that an essential requirement for solving complex problems of environment is first to learn what is really going on in the interactions of man, his land, air, water, climate, plants and animals. The ability to simulate different environments and to set up and alter experimental conditions becomes a powerful tool.

Eight years in planning and construction, the Biotron was paid for by the National Science Foundation, the National Institutes of Health, the Ford Foundation, and State of Wisconsin.
It is available for scientists from United States and foreign universities, government and industry—with a cost of 10 cents per square foot per day, or 15 cents if the chosen climate runs below freezing.

Some research began in May three years ago, with a smog-gasbord of projects either completed, now in progress, or scheduled.

They include the effects of extreme heat or extreme cold on the growth of cancers in animals; how to keep germs out of sausage during the curing process; the effect of acute cold and prolonged exhaustive work on humans; hormonal control of plant growth and development;

causes of Asian flu; the improvement of protein content of cowpeas; a search for better methods of garbage disposal and sanitary landfill, and the effects of different levels of DDT in the body at different temperatures.

Maybe bean plants could become a kind of environmental canary, warning of some pollution or stress in the environment at a very early stage, much like canaries were taken into coal mines to detect any presence of dangerous gases.

This is a project of Dr. Thodore W. Tibbitts, University of Wisconsin horticulturalist, who's growing bean plants now under 24-hour illumination.

Ordinarily bean plants follow a 24-hour cycle of dropping their leaves to "sleep" and raising them again when the plants
"awake." Under constant lighting, they follow a 27-hour cycle, and in 4 movies taken under time-lapse photography, the plants resemble birds in flight with flapping wings.

He is trying to establish exactly what bean plants ordinarily do, on the premise that variations in their behavior could supply clues to environmental stresses. They might supply indications of yet-unidentified pollutants, for example.

American Party Feud To Courts

RALEIGH (AP)—The American Party in North Carolina has taken its feud with First District congressional candidate Clarence Gene Leggett to the courts.

Byrd Hinshaw of Craven County, chairman of the American Party in the First District, filed suit in Wake County Superior Court last week in an attempt to overturn a Sept. 21 ruling by the state Board of Elections that Leggett was entitled to run under the American Party banner.

Leggett's candidacy had been challenged by the existing party leadership. Walter Green, leader of the party faction now in power, told the state Board of Elections at a hearing Sept. 10 that Leggett was not a party member.

But a Sept. 21 ruling by the board upheld the decision of the Craven County Election Board that Leggett had registered as an American Party member and was entitled to run under its banner.

Hinshaw's suit contends that Leggett is a resident of Wake County and that when Leggett filed as a candidate for the Democratic congressional nomination in the First District in 1968 he was registered in Wake County as a Democrat.

Hinshaw contends that Leggett did "under the false and fraudulent pretense that he was a resident of Pitt County," register as a Democrat in that county.

Hinshaw said after Leggett's 1968 defeat he continued to reside in Wake County.

The party official contends further that on Jan. 15 Leggett went to Pitt County and by "false and fraudulent pretense" as a resident of Pitt, had his party affiliation changed to the American Party "for the sole purpose of running as a congressional candidate."

On Feb. 18, Hinshaw said, Leggett went to the Board of Elections and filed notice of his candidacy for the American Party nomination in the First District, giving a New Bern address.

Hinshaw said in the suit that on Feb. 18 Leggett was not reg-

Course Speed-Up

KANSAS CITY (AP) — On their first day as college freshmen this fall, 13 men and two women selected as prospective medical students saw their first patients.

Before the school year is out, the 17- and 18-year-old students are expected to witness their first autopsy, be introduced to some details of X-ray examinations, and visit a pathology laboratory for scrutiny of a heart and liver.

The 15 are enrolled at the University of Missouri-Kansas City for a new study program designed to turn out medical doctors in six years instead of eight.

Medical students traditionally do not see patients until after they have been graduated from college and are in their third year of medical school. Some university medical schools have developed six-year programs, but students generally do not see patients until the third year.

Until the University of Missouri's new medical school begins functioning—building funds have been provided by state and federal appropriations and a bond election—the introductory medical course is offered as an elective, taught by two professors whose salaries are drawn from private gifts.

"This program has tremendous potential," said Dr. Nathaniel Winer, in charge of interns, residents and post-graduate education at Menorah Medical Center. "If the rest goes as well as the first week, this could set a pattern of medical education throughout the country."

The 15 students would be the medical school's first class in September 1972.

The plan provides for those completing the two years satisfactorily to enter the first year medical school program and eventually graduate with a combined A.B.-M.D. degree four years later.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—The North Carolina hog markets were steady today. Tops of 19.00-20.00 at Kenly; 19.25-19.50 at Wilson; 18.00-19.50 at Tarboro; 18.50-19.00 at Siler City and Denton; 18.00-19.00 at Bethel; 19.00 at Salisbury and Greensboro.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—The North Carolina poultry market was steady today. Price of live poultry at farms was mostly 12 cents per pound.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices were lower today in active trading.

By 11 a.m. the Dow Jones Average of 30 industrials had slipped 4.79 points to 756.98.

On the New York Stock Exchange, declines overtook advances to hold a 5 to 4 advantage.

Analysts said the basic atmosphere of the market was positive but that prices were being smothered by selective profit taking on the gains of last week.

A larger than average number of block trades, analysts said, indicates that institutions and portfolios were shifting investments prior to the end of the quarter.

Following are selected 11 a.m. stock market quotations furnished by Interstate Securities Corp.

Report Everett Campaigning From Hospital

Republican candidate for Congress R. Frank Everett continues to make good progress in his recovery from a heart attack a little more than a week ago, according to Jerry Scott, campaign manager for Everett. "He is in fact running his office from his hospital room," Scott commented, "and is busy dictating letters." Scott noted that Everett is now spending much time "sitting up, and is getting back into the swing of things real quickly."

There is no report from doctors, according to Scott, which indicated a definite date, which may be released from Pitt Memorial Hospital, but Scott expressed a belief that it would be announced soon.

Two Christmas Stamps Offered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The annual flurry over Christmas stamp designs may be averted this year. Postal officials plan to offer two stamps to the public — one religious and the other nonreligious.

Sheets of stamps carrying a Nativity scene will be available for the religious-minded.

Camera Crew Making Recruiting Film Here

Pelican Films, New York City movie company, was in Greenville Friday to shoot campus and town scenes for a Marine recruiting film.

Featured in the various places they visited was Lieutenant Bert Butler, who is enrolled in the ECU Data Processing Center.

The object of the film, according to Marine spokesman Gregg Cornute, is to portray a Marine officer in a campus environment. The Marine Corps hopes that such a presentation will appeal to college students who will be exposed to their officers procurement program.

Cathy Dunford, Pelican Films official, said that local and campus persons who were involved with the film-shooting were very cooperative and that they were pleased with the "Southern hospitality" in evidence here.

Winning Southern Conf. Coaches Share Mistakes

City Golf Champ

"We made a lot of mistakes." That could have been the comment of the five Southern Conference football coaches whose teams were beaten Saturday. It was, however, the observation of the two who won — Red Parker of The Citadel, Dave Fagg of Davidson.

The Citadel's Bulldogs smashed East Carolina's Pirates 31-0 and Davidson's defending champion Wildcats shocked Richmond's heavily favored Spiders 14-5 in a pair of night league games that boosted the winners into a tie for first place with Virginia Military Institute's Keydets.

With tailback Bob Duncan, the conference's leading ground gainer last year as a sophomore, picking up 199 yards rushing on 24 carries and scoring twice, The Citadel bolted to a 24-0 lead at halftime over East Carolina in a battle between two teams which up to then hadn't scored a touchdown.

"I thought we played extremely well for a while," said Parker. "Then we seemed to lose our momentum after we got ahead. East Carolina didn't play the defense we expected or practiced against, but it didn't seem to give us a lot of trouble."

Parker said the Bulldogs had "way too many fumbles (six, of which they lost four), but we seemed to move the ball when we needed to and we had the ability to make the big plays."

Duncan scored on runs of 31 and 15 yards as the Bulldogs rolled up 480 yards in total offense.

Quarterback John Casazza set school records by throwing 41 passes and gaining 183 yards (on 13 completions) for East Carolina, which reached the Bulldogs' 6 and was repulsed—the eighth time this season the Pirates have gotten inside the opposition 20 without scoring.

It had been figured Richmond, which tied Davidson for the top spot in 1969, would get even for last year's 37-7 shocker that sent the Wildcats to the Tangerine Bowl instead of the Spiders.

But Davidson — playing its first game — drove 64 yards in eight plays the first time it had the ball with Mark Thompson throwing the last 21 to Mike Mikolayunas. Then sprinter Rick Lyon reeled off a 73-yard punt return to the Richmond 7 in the third period to set up the Wildcats' second touchdown.

The Wildcats put good pressure on Richmond quarterback Charlie Richards, who hit on 15 of 37 passes for 143 yards but had three intercepted. But that wasn't the worst that happened to Richards.

He hit Jim Livesay on an apparent 33-yard scoring pass in the second quarter, but a penalty wiped it out. Seven plays later, Livesay dropped a pass in the end zone and Richmond had to settle for Keith Clark's field goal.

Twice in the second half Livesay got behind the Davidson secondary and Richards hit him with what should have been scoring passes — one for 72 yards, the other for 48. Livesay dropped the ball each time.

The three other teams went outside the conference and took whippings for their troubles as the record against nonleague foes fell to 2-11.

VMI became the third conference team in a row to fall before West Virginia, bowing 47-10; William and Mary fumbled away a scoring chance in the final seconds and lost to Cincinnati 17-10; and Furman was beaten for the fifth straight time by small college power Wofford 28-13.

All seven teams take on non-league foes Saturday.

The afternoon schedule has William and Mary entertaining Ohio Wesleyan, Richmond at Southern Mississippi, VMI at Boston College, The Citadel at Arkansas State, Davidson playing host to Trinity and Furman at Carson-Newman. East Carolina has a night date at West Texas State.

West Virginia failed to hit the 600-yard mark in total offense for the first time but rolled up 554 yards against VMI as Pete Wood gained 158 yards and scored twice and Bob Gresham scored three times. The Keydets' only drive was a 61-yarder directed by reserve quarterback Randy Kinsey with Kinsey scoring from a yard out.

A 24-yard pass by Wes Meterer to Doug Helies and Bill Geiger's 23-yard field goal had William and Mary even with Cincinnati, but the Bearcats paraded 59 yards late in the fourth quarter to pull it out.

Meterer, who hit 8 of 22 passes for 122 yards, then took the Indians to the Cincinnati 2, but Meterer then fumbled on first down with one second left.

Fullback Clifford Boyd rushed for 81 yards and scored three times in Wofford's triumph over Furman. Boyd scored the tie-breaking touchdown in the third period, and the Terriers got two more in the fourth.

Eisenhower Cup Retained

MADRID (AP) — The United States boasted its fourth straight Eisenhower Cup title today, emblematic of the world amateur golf team championship.

Lanny Wadkins and Marvin Giles, both of Richmond, Va., Allen Miller of Pensacola, Fla., and Tom Kite Jr., of Austin, Tex., powered the Americans to a 12-stroke victory over New Zealand.

The U.S. squad wound up with a 72-hole score of 857 and New Zealand finished with 869 Saturday.

Team scores were based on the top three scores of the four players.

Wadkins and Giles posted final-round 72s and Miller, a Georgia University student, carded a 73. Kite, suffering from fatigue, pulled out before the 11th tee after shooting a 38 for the first nine holes Saturday.

Giles wound up with a 289 for the four rounds over the hilly, 7,043-yard course.

Wadkins totaled 286 and Miller 287. Kite entered the final round with 215.

Dale Hayes of South Africa was the individual winner, by one stroke with a 283 after a final-round 74.

Tar Heels, Blue Devils Sharing In ACC Glory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
North Carolina continues as top dog in the Atlantic Coast Conference this week after trouncing Maryland, 53-20, Saturday.

But Duke is still sharing the glory. Each team claims two victories: Duke pulled out a 17-7 win over Virginia Saturday.

South Carolina, preseason co-favorite with North Carolina, trails in second place after recording a 7-7 tie with North Carolina State.

Lund Aims At Record

ROCKINGHAM, N. C. (AP) — Tiny Lund will attempt to break the world speed record for a one-mile closed course Tuesday at North Carolina Motor Speedway near Rockingham.

The 42-year-old veteran driver from Cross, S. C., will make the attempt in the 1970 Camaro he has driven to an unprecedented 17 victories on NASCAR's Grand American circuit this season.

His target for the run will be the mark of 139.048 miles per hour set last March by Bobby Allison in a Grand National Dodge.

Lund, who leads veteran Jim Paschal by 54 points in the Grand American driver standings, will be a favorite in a 100-mile race for the pony cars at Rockingham Oct. 24, the day before the annual American 500 for Grand National machines.

Point Championship

ROCKINGHAM, N. C. (AP) — A 137.75 mph run Sunday gave Ronnie Sox of Burlington the American Hotrod Association's Super Stock point championship.

olina State. In other games Saturday, Wake Forest fell to Florida State, 19-14, and Clemson was battered by Georgia, 38-0.

South Carolina coach Paul Dietzel felt his team was "lucky to come out with a tie" against State.

"Fumbles really killed us and the interceptions certainly didn't help," he moaned, "but at the same time North Carolina State really got after us and deserved the ball game."

He added: "We were outplayed, out-hit and out-hustled." State Coach Earle Edwards agreed: "I'm not pleased with a tie but we deserved at least that."

Up in College Park, Md., UNC coach Bill Dooley said, "McCaughey played well again." Play well Don McCaughey did, carrying 22 times for 123 yards. With a total of 454 yards in three contests, he's likely to retain the title of top rusher in the nation.

But McCaughey wasn't the only one who looked impressive Saturday. His replacement, tailback Ike Oglesby, rushed for 76 yards and ran his season ground gaining total to 209 yards.

Duke had a harder time downing Virginia. The Blue Devils blew five good scoring chances before finally going ahead on the passing of Leo Hart.

Duke got its first points on a 39-yard field goal by Dave Pugh in the second quarter and a touchdown by Steve Jones in the third period. Virginia got its touchdown in the first quarter on a pass from Larry Albert to Dave Sullivan.

Clemson coach Hootie Ingram knew what was wrong with his Tigers against Georgia Saturday:

"Our offensive team couldn't move the ball and our defense couldn't stop Georgia, but I don't think we could have lined up any better than we did."

The passing of Georgia sophomore quarterback James Ray and a strong running attack led by fullback Robert Honeycutt was the cause of Clemson's undoing.

Spunky Wake Forest held the lead over Florida State for a third of that contest, but the barefoot toe of Frank Fontes gave Florida State 13 points, enough for the victory.

Wake Forest jumped to a 14-6 halftime lead, but fell behind when Florida State scored in the third period on a run by Arthur Moore. Fontes' field goals in each quarter insured the victory.

Scoring for Wake were Larry Hopkins on a 24-yard jaunt and quarterback Larry Russell on a 14-yard keeper.

Pittsburgh Defeats Mets To Win Divisional Crown

GOOD GRIP — Packers' Ken Ellis (48) has a good grip on Atlanta Falcons' Paul Flatley and his face mask yesterday at game in Green Bay. Flatley had just taken a long pass from quarterback Bob Berry when Ellis climbed on Flatley's back. Packers won, 27-24. (AP Wirephoto)

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Two short weeks ago, the National League's East Division championship was a prize catch nobody seemed willing, or able, to make.

Today, the Pittsburgh Pirates hold the prize in their hot hands ... and the twinkle in Danny Murtaugh's Irish eyes is brighter than it's been in a decade of treasure-hunting.

The swaggering Bucs scuttled the New York Mets 2-1 Sunday to capture the elusive division crown ... their first title since Manager Murtaugh steered them to a World Series conquest of the New York Yankees 10 years ago.

"This had to be more exciting, because it was nip and tuck all the way," said the jubilant skipper, who returned to the Pirates' helm this season following a two-year hiatus ... to find himself embroiled in one of the most desperate races in NL history.

In completing a three-game weekend sweep, the Pirates mathematically eliminated both the Mets and the Chicago Cubs, whose hopes expired despite a 5-3 victory over Philadelphia. The Pirates have a 4½-game bulge over Chicago with three to play.

Cincinnati's West Division champs, who will take on the Pirates in the pennant playoffs beginning Saturday at Pittsburgh's new Three Rivers Stadium, beat Los Angeles 8-5. Elsewhere, Montreal nipped St. Louis 1-0 in 11 innings, San Francisco topped San Diego 3-2 and Houston bombed Atlanta 10-7.

In the American League, Baltimore shaded Cleveland 4-3, the New York Yankees defeated Detroit 4-2, Milwaukee drubbed the Chicago White Sox 9-3, Boston walloped Washington 10-1, Kansas City edged Minnesota 4-3 and California slammed Oakland 9-4.

The Pirates, hobbled by injuries to key players and without either a 20-game winner or 100-RBI man, earned their half-pennant by winning 10 of 14 games down the stretch ... including six of seven against the defending champion Mets.

After seizing the division lead last Aug. 2, they plodded along at a 19-20 clip for the next six weeks. But neither New York nor Chicago could win often enough to dislodge them.

On Sept. 13, the Cubs rallied for two runs after center fielder Matty Alou dropped a two-out fly ball in the ninth inning and stunned the Pirates 3-2. But the Mets, with a chance to grab the top spot, bowed to St. Louis 5-4 in 13 innings. That left Pittsburgh clinging to a one-half game lead, with the third place Cubs just one game off the pace.

Obviously, the critics declared, it was a race nobody wanted to win.

The Pirates have been disproving that theory ever since. Pittsburgh's much-maligned pitching staff allowed only 33 runs in the decisive 14-game stretch run. Their vaunted attack dropped off, due in part to Roberto Clemente's nagging back ailment, but they continued to hit in the pinches.

Sunday's clincher was their fifth one-run decision in the seven games against New York ... and third in as many days.

"Everybody says we don't have any pitching," said Dock Ellis, the winner Sunday with late help from relief ace Dave Giusti. "But that's just not true. How can anybody knock our pitching now?"

The Mets nicked Ellis, 13-10, for their lone run in the first inning, ex-Pirate Donn Clendenon driving it home with a one-out, bases-loaded single. But Ellis got Ken Boswell to bounce into a double play to end the damage and worked out of a none-out, bases-loaded jam in the fifth.

In the eighth, he gave way to Giusti, who picked up his 26th save.

A record Pittsburgh crowd of 50,469 saw the Pirates tie the game in the third on Dave Cash's single and a run-scoring double by Clemente. An inning later, they pushed over the winning run against Jim McAndrew on Richie Hebner's double, a walk, Matty Alou's single and Cash's bases-loaded sacrifice fly.

The Mets stranded 66 base-runners and hit into 16 double plays in the seven critical games against Pittsburgh.

"I feel we didn't deserve it," said Clendenon, who had picked the Pirates to win the division before the season started. "We just didn't play good ball when we had to."

In Philadelphia, the Cubs paid tribute to the new champs after salvaging the finale of a fatal three-game set. "They didn't win it by sitting back and letting others do it for them," said Joe Pepitone. "They won the big one. We gave it our best, but it wasn't enough."

Cubs' ace Ferguson Jenkins nailed his 21st victory with a four-hitter and doubled home a seventh inning run before scoring what proved to be the winner on a single by Don Kessinger.

Gary Nolan, Cincinnati's probable starting pitcher in the playoff opener, broke a 4-4 deadlock with a two-run single in the fifth, leading the Reds past the Dodgers and gaining his 18th victory. Lee May clubbed his 34th homer for the Reds.

Carl Morton, Montreal's rookie pitching flash, also won his 18th, scattering nine St. Louis hits before the Expos broke a scoreless knot in the 11th on Adolfo Phillips' run-producing single.

The Giants moved one game ahead of Los Angeles in their battle for second place in the West as Gaylord Perry scattered seven hits for his 23rd triumph and Alan Gallagher's double keyed a two-run comeback in the sixth.

Cesar Cedeno's three-run homer and bases-empty blasts by Jim Wynn and Bob Watson powered Houston past the skidding Braves, whose fifth straight setback dropped them into fifth place in the West.

Inducting Four In Hall Of Fame At Wake Forest

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—The first members inducted into the Wake Forest Sports Hall of Fame will be three former coaches and a football player.

The ceremony will be Oct. 12 at the Wake Forest homecoming football game with Clemson.

The four posthumous honorees will be D. C. (Peahead) Walker, Jim Weaver, Murray Greason and Brian Piccolo.

Walker was football coach at the school from 1937 to 1950. Weaver was football coach from 1933 to 1937 and athletic director from then until 1954, when he became commissioner of the Atlantic Coast Conference. Greason was basketball coach for 23 years.

Piccolo was an all-America fullback who played for the Chicago Bears until his death this summer.

Market Goes International

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — When Sony Corporation of Japan joined the list of 1,317 stocks on the New York Stock Exchange earlier this month it underscored the growing internationalization of both the market and the business world.

Sony is the sixth large foreign company to be listed on the Big Board in 1970, joining the Plessey Company and British Petroleum, of Britain; Northgate Exploration and Northern and Central Gas, of Canada, and Norlin Corp., of Panama.

It brought to 33 the number of foreign stock issues on the Exchange—there are also 43 foreign corporation bonds traded—and quite likely will help push foreign stock volume toward 100 million shares. In 1969 the total was 96 million shares.

"International listings," said Phillip L. West, an exchange vice president, "present very tangible evidence that share ownership has overcome the boundaries of geography, language and national customs."

Akio Morita, Sony executive vice president, gives two good reasons for seeking a listing. First, nearly 35 per cent of his company's sales are in the United States. Second, about 28 per cent of its shareholders are Americans.

If Americans think that highly of the company's products, then shouldn't they also be inclined to rate shares of the company as good buys? It makes sense.

British Petroleum, which was listed on March 23, decided there was a greater interest in its shares because of several factors, including the company's involvement in Alaskan oil and its purchase of a 25 per cent interest in Standard Oil of Ohio.

"We have more than 30,000 shareholders in America," a BP spokesman said, "and we felt it was as important to meet their needs as we do those of investors in Britain."

Northgate Exploration felt much the same way when it was listed Feb. 3. Said A. Garfield Hayes, vice president, "The listing reflected the fact that 60 per cent of our shareholders are U.S. citizens."

Norlin Corp., a June 1 entrant, was concerned with maintaining a market for its stock—with keeping its shares available for buying and selling.

Said George H. Strong, vice president: "An exchange listing is like a good bond rating. It improves the marketability of the company's shares by providing shareholders with greater liquidity."

Another reason, which is common among American-based corporations, might be the potential advantage offered by a Big Board listing in merger and acquisition discussions.

The price of a company's shares on the exchange is often the basis for the beginning of merger negotiations.

Salesmanship Won A Reprieve

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — Salesmanship got 49 seniors at Baptist High School out of writing a term paper for English assignment.

One of them asked the teacher, Jane Davis, if they might escape the assignment by selling $10,000 worth of magazine subscriptions instead of the $4,500 worth needed to help finance the annual trip of the senior class.

Mrs. Davis recalled Friday: "Since I knew that $4,500 would be hard to reach and $10,000 was impossible, I felt safe in saying yes."

The pupils sold $10,000 worth in two weeks, an average of just over $200 worth apiece.

BABY WEIGHTS
DENVER, Colo. (AP) — The Colorado Health Department reports that 9.9 per cent of infants born in the state in 1968 weighed 5½ pounds or less, compared to the national average of 8.2 per cent.

In Lake County, with a mean altitude of 10,152 feet, 15.7 per cent were low-weight babies that year.

Texana Relies On Community Projects

By LEWIS W. GREEN
Asheville Citizen-Times Writer
Written for The AP
MURPHY, N. C. (AP) — Negroes in the Texana community in Cherokee County aren't like blacks in ghettos. They have the same problems faced by other hardy and self-reliant mountaineers.

Their speech is Appalachian, not deep south, and their way to life is casual, with a great concern for their old folks and the children.

One thing that helped make life easier is the Western North Carolina Community Development Program, now closing out its 20th year. Texana has participated since 1965.

Texana is a nonfarm community despite its rural setting. The residents hold down jobs in and around Murphy. The men work in plants and other business concerns, and the women work mostly as domestics or keep house.

The Community Development Program is competitive in nature, though not fiercely so. The competition provides a certain motivation.

Several community projects have been completed. The most significant was a water system for Texana.

Texanans used to get their water as most back-mountain families did. Water buckets were taken to a nearby spring of clear, cold water, filled and returned to the house.

It was particularly difficult on the old folks. Often they had to wait until one of the youngsters came along to do it for them.

Candidate Is Found Shot

BRENTWOOD, Mo. (AP) — John W. Peters, Republican candidate for Congress from Missouri's 2nd District, was found shot to death in the basement of his campaign headquarters Sunday night. Robert C. Ryan, deputy county medical examiner, said Peters, 49, apparently shot himself.

Peters, district sales engineer for the Borg-Warner Corp., more than doubled the vote total of his nearest rival in the August primary.

Police said a 16-gauge shotgun was found beside his body. No note was found.

Peters was to have faced the Democratic incumbent, Rep. James W. Symington of Clayton, in the November general election.

The Republican district committee is expected to name a candidate to succeed Peters.

The 2nd District is comprised of the country and a portion of St. Louis.

The hardship on the old folks troubled Frank Sudderth. He became a prime mover in the WNC Community Development Program.

Sudderth is a World War II Coast Guard veteran. Now he is a maintenance man at Murphy's only hospital. He and others of the community began working on the water system five years ago.

According to Sudderth, a non-profit water corporation had to be formed so the community would qualify for grants. The Economic Development Administration gave $45,800 and the Farmers Home Administration came up with $20,800.

Round Up Fire Truck Chasers

FRANKLINTON, N.C. (AP) — Police were fed up with ambulance and fire truck chasers so they cried wolf.

Some 300 motorists flocked to what looked like a fire and rescue scene. Many others turned away when they saw that the police had staged the scene and were handing out citations rapidly.

Officers say they issued about 40 citations for violations ranging from blocking fire trucks to following too close behind an emergency vehicle.

When the formerly all-Negro school closed on integration orders, Sudderth looked toward the well which had supplied water for the school.

Tests on the 455-foot-deep well showed 38½ gallons a minute of flow. Ultimately a high storage tank of 10,500 gallons was built and recently dedicated. Local political, civic and governmental leaders attended the dedication ceremonies.

Sudderth said 56 families have signed up for the water service, including two white families at the edge of the Texana community.

The subscribers must buy their own inside systems and fixtures. The water lines run only to the edge of their property.

A flat $4 monthly fee will be charged for the first 3,000 gallons each family used. The rate then is 75 cents for each 1,000 gallons.

Texana also has completely refurbished the old school building and made it a community meeting place. The roof cost $600, and that money was raised through the residents' efforts. At present, community labor is being used to underpin the building.

The Texana residents also have begun renovating their church. Brick is being laid around the old wooden frame. For the young people, programs in 4-H work and other projects have been added to scouting activities.

And since the old folks are now getting some of the comforts added to life, programs in recreation and hand-crafts are springing up throughout the community.

Adults are beginning continuing education classes at the high school level and getting training in home economics and other crafts.

Actor Rob't Vaughn A Doctor Of Philosophy

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Robert Vaughn, once known as the Man from UNCLE, can now be addressed as the Doctor from USC.

The 37-year-old actor became a doctor of philosophy in mass communication at the last commencement of the University of Southern California. But he doesn't insist on being addressed as Dr. Vaughn.

"About the only time I hear it is on television talk shows when members of the audience address me as 'Dr. Vaughn,'" he commented. "I must say, it sounds pretty good."

Vaughn said he went to work on the doctorate after he got his master's degree in 1964. "During half of those six years I was in the UNCLE series, and it was a major task to get to classes after a day's work at the studio," he said.

Vaughn's dissertation: "A Historical Study of the Influence of the House Un-American Activities Committee on the American Theater, 1938-58."

His treatise has been snapped up for general publication by Putnam's, and Vaughn is now trimming the 600 pages to more readable length. He has supplied the more manageable title: "Only Victims."

"It comes from a speech made by Dalton Trumbo when he received an award from the Writers Guild last spring," he said.

"Trumbo reviewed his own experience as a blacklisted writer. During that period, he remarked, 'there were no heroes and no villains-only victims.'"

To gather his material, Vaughn sent questionnaires to 300 friendly and unfriendly witnesses before the Red-hunting committee. Only one friendly witness responded. "The others had cop-out excuses," he said, "like, 'It happened too long ago,' or, 'I want to forget about it.'"

Those who became victims of the blacklist seemed eager to discuss their experiences, Vaughn added. The screen writers were able to continue working, although they submitted scripts under aliases and were paid perhaps 10 per cent of their normal fees.

"Some of the actors were able to continue their careers on the Broadway stage, which was the only major media which did not succumb to the blacklist," Vaughn said. "Many others went into the physical trades, such as carpentry. They seemed to want to do something with their hands, rather than occupy their minds with a new line of work."

Vaughn's conclusion about the committee's influence: "A lot of words were not written during that period-words that would question the issues of the time. Even those writers who bootlegged their scripts steered clear of controversial subjects."

He admitted that the Ph. D. gave him "an enormous feeling of accomplishment." As to any other benefits, he isn't certain.

He has had offers to teach, "and I'd be happy to, but I'm never in the country long enough." His film assignments, from "The Bridge at Remagen" to the current "Julius Caesar," have mostly been abroad.

The Worry Clinic That Presence Of 'Something'

Dr. Robinson is a main sparkplug of the "Presidential Prayer Breakfast" plan. It is spreading all over the world. Even the Russian lawyer at Moscow mentioned feeling a unique "Something" in a group meeting which produces a result far greater than the sum total of the combined individual thoughts! What is that "Something?"

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE 0-543: Clarence Elbert is a famous Hoosier banker who devotes much of his spare time to civic and religious causes.

Recently he invited me to a little luncheon for 11 men at Indianapolis to hear Dr. Clifton J. Robinson, who has sparkplugged the "Prayer Breakfast" idea all over the world.

After 7 years as a Quaker missionary in the small villages of India, Dr. Robinson was urged to see if he couldn't promote greater spiritual union by getting the heads of the government to sit down to a "Prayer Breakfast."

And the idea caught on fire from the start.

For Muslims, Buddhists, Jews and Christians seemed to welcome this chance to meet as brothers in a non-belligerent fraternal atmosphere.

"Even in Russia," Dr. Robinson told us, "a member of the Presidium also asked to see me about this 'Prayer Breakfast' idea."

"But the day I was in Moscow, he was tied-up with his legislative duties, so he sent a brilliant lawyer over to my hotel."

"And this young man wanted me to explain my mission."

"So I told him I didn't know how to begin. Although I said this plan had worked in Korea and Japan and Southeast Asia, as well as in several European nations, I was a bit doubtful if it could do so in Russia."

"Perhaps my humble attitude was a challenge! For he pounded the table and exclaimed, 'If it can work in other countries, why do you think we can't make it work here!'"

"So I replied that I had heard Russia was a Godless nation, yet my plan for a brotherhood breakfast of political leaders was predicated on the idea that we were all sons of God, regardless of our different religious outlooks."

"And I mentioned that in these breakfasts, new insights seem to evolve that are greater than the sum total of all the individual thoughts of the separate diners."

"To explain this unique result, I mentioned that Jesus said where two or three are gathered together in His name, then He would be in the midst."

"Sometimes we literally feel as if a Divine Visitor has thus joined our 'Prayer Breakfast' group," I added.

"And this Russian lawyer admitted that he had even been in conferences where it also seemed that something additional had produced new concepts, much to the surprise of the individuals themselves."

"Then he paused momentarily in surprise and asked: 'This Something — could it be the same as that outside Personality which joins your group?'"

"And I assured him that maybe a Divine Influence adds this unique effect which often melts down former ideological and political barriers that had previously set off various groups into combative segments."

"For all over the world we have witnessed a mellowing of the previous hostile spirit and an eager request by Muslims, Buddhists and other faiths to have our breakfasts terminated in prayer."

Dr. Robinson is such a sincere and eloquent speaker, even at small breakfast table groups, that you soon feel prejudices melt away.

Men who come to these breakfasts in a Doubting Thomas frame of mind, or with political chips on their shoulder, readily develop a friendly, brotherly attitude.

They smile; shake hands warmly and sense the presence of that "Something" which the Russian lawyer mentioned.

Arrested 12 Drag Racers

YADKINVILLE, N. C. (AP) — The State Highway Patrol says 12 persons were arrested on charges stemming from an alleged illegal drag race on a Yadkin County highway.

A trooper, Sgt. W. E. Kreeger, said the race occurred on Old U. S. 421 several miles east of Yadkinville near the Forsyth County line.

Kreeger said two Yadkin County men, John Monroe Miller and Gerald Gray Hutchins, were arrested on charges of participating in a prearranged race on a highway.

The other 10 were charged with aiding and abetting a prearranged race on a public highway, he said. The trooper said four patrolmen and two members of the Yadkin County Sheriff's Department had observed preparations for the alleged race and closed in about 5:15 Sunday morning.

Kreeger said most of those arrested were soon released on bond.

Rain Helps N.C. Crops

RALEIGH (AP) — A cold front moved through North Carolina Sunday, bringing cooler temperatures and alleviating drought conditions in parts of the state.

The weather bureau at the Raleigh-Durham Airport reported .39 inches of rain fell there, the first rainfall in 23 days, and that showers were general throughout the state.

Dr. Guy L. Jones, chief agronomist with the state Department of Agriculture, said the rain benefited peanut and soybean crops.

He said it will enable farmers to speed up harvesting of peanuts, which had been held back because the ground had been too hard.

"The soybean yield is still going to be down," he said. "The rain won't benefit the early maturing soybean crop, but the late maturing variety will benefit."

SCUBA Course Slated To Begin On October 8

A SCUBA (self-contained underwater breathing apparatus) certification course, sponsored by the Division of Continuing Education at East Carolina University, is scheduled to begin October 8.

The 27-hour program — a non-credit course — is designed to train the swimmer in the sport of skin and SCUBA diving.

Material covered in the classroom and during practical sessions in the Minges Coliseum pool trains the diver to react favorably under both normal and adverse condition, and to recover from emergency situations.

The course will consist of nine three-hour sessions with the first devoted to an introduction to SCUBA diving and a swimming test. The final session will be a deep dive test to be arranged by the student and instructor. Most deep dives will take place off Radio Island near Morehead City.

Instructor for the course will be John L. Snow, a certified instructor of the National Association of Underwater Instructors and a U. S. Navy-qualified SCUBA diver.

Snow, a Marine Corps lieutenant stationed at the Cherry Point Marine Air Station, took his military diving training at Subic Bay, The Philippines. He has had numerous dives as a member of the First Marine Division's First Reconnaissance Battalion, including one combat dive, in Viet Nam.

The classes meet from 7 p.m. until 10 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays (beginning October 8) in Room 144 of Minges Coliseum, and students must be available for all classes.

Tuition for the course is $30 and is payable upon successful completion of the swimming test.

Students must supply their own flippers, mask and snorkel. The remainder of the equipment, including the air, may be rented from the instructor for $25 for the duration of the course.

Persons enrolling in the class must be 16 years of age or older and the class size is limited to 20 persons.

Persons wishing to register for the course or seeking additional information may contact the Division of Continuing Education at ECU by writing P. O. Box 2727 or calling 758-6321.

Now He Has Met All Obligations

DETROIT (AP) — Thirty years ago Orel Lingle received what he says was his first, and only, speeding ticket.

This week, Lingle sent a $20 bill to the Detroit traffic court with a letter that read:

"This is the only obligation that I have failed to meet. So in order for me to have a clear conscience, I am sending you the payment. That was the first and last traffic ticket I have ever received."

Lingle gave no return address but his envelope was post-marked at St. Charles, Ill.

NOTICE OF SALE UNDER DEED OF TRUST
Under and by virtue of the powers of sale contained in deed of trust executed by D. Woodrow Worthington, through and by his attorney-in-fact, C. Worthington, and his wife, Inez Worthington, to Irma Fleming, Trustee, on the 3rd day of December, 1969, recorded in the Public Registry of Pitt County in Book W-38 at Page 458, default having been made in the payment of the notes there secured and the Trustee having been called upon by the holders of said notes to exercise the powers of sale contained in said deed of trust, the undersigned Trustee will offer for sale and sell at public auction for cash before the court-house door in Greenville, Pitt County, North Carolina, on WEDNESDAY, THE 14TH DAY OF OCTOBER, 1969, AT 12:00 NOON the following described lands: FIRST TRACT: that certain tract or parcel of land situate in Swift Creek Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, bounded on the west by SR 1917, on the north by the Agnes Rollins land, on the east by the canal and the Ruth Couch share of land, and on the north by SR 1918, more accurately described according to survey made by Jos. M. Dresbach, RS, in June of 1968, as follows: BEGINNING at a point in the intersection of SR No. 1918 with SR No. 1917, corner of the M. B. Hodges and Agnes Rollins lands, and running thence along the centerline of SR No. 1918, N 75-30 E 1270.4 feet to the center of a canal where it crosses the road; thence along the center of the canal, which is Ruth Couch's line, to the corner of Share No. 4 allotted to Agnes Rollins, thence with the dividing line between Share No. 4 and this share of land, S 55-02 E 222.4 feet to the center of SR No. 1917, thence along the center of SR No. 1917, which is the line of the Agnes Rollins share of land, N 25-55 W 1239.6 feet to the point of beginning, containing 28.93 acres, more or less, and being a portion of what is known as the Barrington Farm.

SECOND TRACT: Known and designated as the eastern portion of the Gaskins Farm, situate and being in Swift Creek Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, bounded on the north by the Hardy lands, on the east by a ditch, on the south by SR No. 1910, and on the west by Share No. 6, more accurately described according to survey made by Joe M. Dresbach, RS, in July of 1968, as follows: BEGINNING at a point in the center of a ditch, a corner in the Hardy land, and running thence along the center of the ditch, S 22 W 132 feet; and S 40-30 W 315 feet to the center of SR No. 1910, thence along the center of SR No. 1910, N 63 W 593 feet to a stake, corner of Share No. 6 in this division; thence along the line of Share No. 6, N 22 E 455 feet to a corner between the Gaskins land and the Hardy land; thence along the Hardy land, S 64 E 793 feet to the point of beginning, containing 8 acres, more or less.

The two tracts above described being the same land which was allotted to D. Woodrow Worthington in the division of the R. L. Worthington land as shown by Report of Commissioners recorded in the Register of Deeds office of Pitt County in Book H-38 at Page 705. Sale is being made under a deed of trust in Book W-37 at Page 93 of the Pitt County Registry. The old deed price will be applied first to payment of any unpaid taxes and the indebtedness secured in the senior deed of trust; and then to the payment of notes in the junior deed of trust. Purchaser will be required to deposit ten per cent of amount bid at sale pending final adjudication, and sale will remain open ten (10) days from report thereof to the Court for sale of bid.

This the 10th day of September, 1970.

Selected Best In The Nation

Mike Brocato, Advertising Manager of The Daily Reflector and Jack Minges, President of Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company of Greenville are shown here admiring a copy of a Pepsi-Cola advertisement published in The Daily Reflector on April 24, 1970. This ad has been selected in nationwide competition as the best reproduction of a full color ad for offset newspapers under 100,000 circulation. The Annual Color Awards Competition, honoring craftsmanship and creativity in color, is sponsored by Editor and Publisher magazine.

The award winning advertisement was prepared for the Pepsi-Cola Company by Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn Agency. The Daily Reflector is proud to receive this most coveted award, and offers its congratulations to Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company.
