New Arms Route

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — An extreme leftist Arab guerrilla organization reported today Communist China has opened a route for arms supplies to Palestinian guerrillas through the Persian Gulf.

The Popular Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine made the claim in a press attack on the Iraqi government. Through its Beirut newspaper, al-Horriya—freedom—PDF denied claims by Baghdad that Iraq supplied arms to the guerrillas. "The arms shipments guerrillas have been receiving through Iraq are from Communist China," the paper said. "Iraq's role is only one of allowing the shipments to be transported to guerrilla bases across Iraqi territory."

PDF is headed by Maoist Nayef Hawatmeh, who has a $14,000 price on his head in Jordan.

Rap Unruly Students

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Presidential task force has denounced both the violent actions of some students at Kent State University and what it described as indiscriminate shooting by the Ohio National Guard. The Commission on Campus Unrest termed the actions of some students last May 4 as violent and criminal and the action of some others as dangerous, reckless and irresponsible.

The commission denounced the guard's fatal shooting of four students and wounding of nine others as "unnecessary, unwarranted and inexcusable," and said the confrontation "was not a danger which called for lethal force."

Fires Surrounded

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Brush and timber fires that have scorched a half-million acres in California since Sept. 25 were surrounded by firefighters today as the death toll mounted to 14.

The latest three victims were found near the San Diego County community of Jamul. Authorities said they may have been Mexican nationals caught in a fire that blackened 200,000 acres.

The first fires broke out after gusting desert winds parched forests and hillsides. More than 1,000 homes were destroyed or damaged and destruction was estimated at $175 million.

Firemen continued to work today in the San Bernardino Mountains about 45 miles east of Los Angeles where a blaze had swept over more than 40,000 acres. A U.S. Forest Service spokesman said the fire was contained.

Looks To Next March

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Rev. Carl McIntire, the radio evangelist whose two Vietnam victory marches have drawn far under his predictions, says he'll stage a third demonstration sometime in the future.

"We did not get our 500,000 which we had fully expected. But there will be a day when we will have them there," said the Rev. McIntire in a telephone interview from his Collingswood, N.J., home.

U.S. Park Police estimated

15,000 to 20,000 persons either joined in the march Saturday or the later rally at the Washington Monument.

McIntire, however, insists "we had twice as many as last time. We estimate somewhere in the neighborhood of 200,000 to 250,000 people."

At the April 4 demonstration, McIntire estimated the crowd's size at 50,000 while Park Police said 40,000 and District of Columbia police trimmed it to 10,000 to 15,000.

Demonstrators Amidst Cheers

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — President Nixon came to Dublin today to wind up his European tour and in the midst of an otherwise friendly welcome his car was splattered with eggs.

Witnesses reported two eggs hit the windshield of Nixon's limousine as it rounded a street corner just before entering the gates of Dublin Castle.

Another demonstrator crushed an egg against the side of the car, witnesses said.

Nixon was standing in the open rear end of the car at the time, waving acknowledgment to the applause of a crowd gathered thickly on both sides of the street.

He sat down briefly when the eggs started to fly, but then stood up again.

In the throng at the turn in the motorcade route was a small group of demonstrators shouting their opposition to U.S. Vietnam policy and making derisive gestures.

They apparently came from the small group of Maoist Communists which has established itself in Dublin over the past year.

Also in the car with the President were Mrs. Nixon and Dr. Patrick J. Hillary, Ireland's foreign minister, and his wife. Police quickly grabbed the egg throwers. One was a woman in a raincoat. The other two were men.

Otherwise the President had received nothing but cheerful Irish welcomes from groups of villagers as he drove and helicoptered across the country to the capital.

The purpose of tonight's meeting is to coordinate activities of the different schools within the city wide PTA Council.

General Abrams Back To Duty

SAIGON (AP) — Gen. Creighton W. Abrams has returned to duty as commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam after hospital treatment for what a spokesman described as a "heat-induced dizzy spell."

The general, 56, was suffering from a virus infection when he collapsed during a military ceremony last Wednesday at Australian forces headquarters at Vung Tau.

He previously had been in the hospital this year for gall bladder surgery and treatment of pneumonia.

Secret Power Struggle?

BACKSTAGE POWER STRUGGLE — The backstage power struggle over who will succeed United Arab Republic president Gamal Abdel Nasser began less than an hour after his death, according to reports in Beirut. Sources said the immediate power struggle seems to lie between Air Marshal Ali Sabry and Zakaria

Mohieddin, a relative moderate, since Provisional President Anwar Sadat is in dubious health. But Egyptian sources did not rule out the possibility of the military stepping in to name a dark horse candidate, such as Gen. Mohammed Sadek, army chief of staff. (AP Wirephoto)

Scott Will Oppose Any Revenue Loss

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott has made it clear he will fight any tax proposals during the 1971 General Assembly that would reduce state revenues.

"I would strongly oppose reducing the tax revenues coming to the state," said the governor in a recent interview with the Greensboro Daily News.

Scott said if the General Assembly "chooses to readjust the present (tax) system by adding here and taking some away there, then okay. That's up to the legislators."

The governor reiterated he will not propose any new taxes to the General Assembly.

"We can get along very well (without any more taxes) although the slowdown in the economy won't let us do all we want to do," Scott added.

There has been talk among politicians about the possibility of eliminating the one-cent soft drink tax and lopping one cent off the state's gasoline tax.

"Candidates talk a lot about cutting back," Scott said, "but when they get here and face the hard realities, they'll see they can't cut taxes and continue to have services."

In answer to other questions, the governor: —Said he plans to return to his family's Haw River dairy farm when his term as governor ends.

—Indicated he feels the General Assembly will treat rural and urban children alike in providing funds for school busing.

—Said he would accord Vice President Spiro Agnew the proper courtesies including, possibly, an official greeting, when the vice president comes to Raleigh later this month to campaign for Republican candidates.

—Made it clear he does not plan to take action in a dispute between two officials of the state advertising program because he does not feel it is hurting the state.

In saying he plans to return to Haw River after the end of his term as governor, Scott did not shut the door to running for public office in the future.

When asked about running for the United States Senate, he said:

"I really see no opportunity for me to run. It looks as though Sen. (B. Everett) Jordan will run and I would not oppose him."

Guerrillas Withdrawing From Jordan's Cities

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jordanian army sources say Palestinian guerrillas have begun withdrawing from cities in the northern part of the country, but a new agreement allows their militia and supplies to remain, threatening a renewal of the friction that led to the recent fighting.

Under the agreement reached Sunday between guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat and Tunisian Premier Bahi Ladgham, head of an Arab truce team, the commands will withdraw quickly from Jordanian cities, but their militia and supplies will stay.

Arafat and Ladgham reached the agreement during talks in Ramtha, five miles from the Syrian border, and Irbid, Jordan's second largest city, 10 miles to the west.

According to one of Ladgham's aides, the guerrillas will move their military forces to a base in the mountains near Jarash, close to the Israeli border. But the guerrilla militia, estimated at 25,000, and supply bases and offices in cities will remain. Observers said it would be easy for the guerrilla military forces to filter back after a suitable cooling off period.

The armed guerrillas' defiance of the Jordanian government's control was the underlying cause of the strife which has torn Jordan for months. After the cease-fire which ended the 11-day civil war last month, King Hussein's government said it would permit the guerrillas' militia only if they were disarmed or combined with army forces under army control.

Ladgham said his talks with Arafat, whom he described as "a leader of stature," were frank and cordial. He said Arafat "was exerting his will and emerging as a leader of all tendencies in the guerrilla movement who has his troops in hand."

Ladgham's praise of Arafat's new role ties in with a state-

Held In Murder

A Rt. 2, Farmville man is in Pitt County Jail today following his arrest Sunday afternoon on charges of murder.

According to Sheriff Ralph Tyson, deputies arrested Leroy Best Jr., following investigation of a shooting that was reported Sunday at 4:15 on a Rt. 2, Farmville farm.

Best is charged with the murder of Peggy Ann McCotter, of Holly Springs, who was visiting in the county at the time of the incident, the Sheriff said. Sheriff Tyson added that the victim had been shot in the stomach with a blast from a shotgun.

Best is being held without privilege of bond pending a hearing on Oct. 13 in District Court here.

ment Saturday by the Jordanian government which asserted it will deal only with Arafat's group, Al Fatah, and not with "banned opposition parties who are armed but are masquerading as guerrillas."

Amman radio said Sunday night that Jordanian troops and Arafat's guerrillas had agreed to these additional measures to further reduce tension: dismantling of roadblocks throughout the country; establishment of checkpoints at which government troops and guerrillas could search vehicles; and abandonment of house-to-house searches, which the army recently accelerated.

A Marine fighter attack squadron not designated in the message will be moved to Cherry Point to replace VMA-513.

Wichita Cancels Classes

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Classes were canceled today to allow Wichita State University students to take part in a series of memorial services for 13 WSU football players and a trainer killed in a plane crash in the Colorado Rockies.

The toll in the crash climbed to 30 today with the death of trainer Tom Reeves in Lutheran Hospital in Denver. Reeves had suffered severe burns over most of his body. Ten survived the crash.

The observances will be climaxed tonight by a public memorial service in Cessna Stadium, the school's 28,000-seat football arena.

Meanwhile, heavy tractors headed for the crash scene on Mt. Bethel near Silver Plume, Colo., to try to drag out the twin engines from the Martin 404 which carried the players and 16 other persons to their deaths last Friday. The team had been scheduled to play Utah State the following day. The game was canceled.

Laboratory tests proceeded on samples of the fuel the plane, bound for Logan, Utah, took aboard at Denver shortly before the crash.

Investigators of the National Transportation Safety Board said they hoped examination of the engines and fuel would provide clues to the loss of power by the plane which apparently preceded the crash.

One survivor, split end John Taylor, 21, remained in critical condition from burns.

Arrest Man On Marijuana Count

Pitt County deputies arrested a Grifton man here Sunday afternoon on charges of possession of marijuana.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that Randy Harker of 312 Church Street, Grifton, was apprehended Sunday at 2:25 on Dickinson Avenue and charged with having a small quantity of marijuana and seed on his person.

Sheriff Tyson said that bond on the marijuana charges had been set at $500. A hearing has been scheduled for Oct. 28, he added.

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP) — Fire officials estimated damages would reach $500,000 in a fire that destroyed a warehouse full of Beaknit Textile products Sunday.

Final Okay Given Bond Referendum

By STUART SAVAGE

Reflector Staff Writer
Pitt County Commissioners this morning gave final approval to a bond order calling for a referendum on whether or not to issue $9 million in bonds for construction of a new county hospital.

The final adoption of the bond order came after no one appeared at a public hearing to protest the move. The order amended an earlier one approved by commissioners which called for the $9 million in bonds to be used for renovating and adding to the present hospital building.

Since that time, officials have learned that they may receive an estimated $2 million in grants to construct a new facility which would better serve the medical needs of the county's residents.

In other action the commissioners approved a resolution consenting to the withdrawal of Hyde County from the Mid-East Economic Development Commission, and approved three road petitions.

Hyde County is seeking to withdraw from the Mid-East development area in order to join the Albemarle development region.

Road petitions approved included one to add Cedar Drive off N.C. 30 to the state system and another to widen, and surface road 1778 in the Black Jack area. The third highway matter handled was approval of a request from the State Highway Commission that a short section of 1558 at Pactolus be removed from the state system. That short section has been left unused since the old Grindell Creek bridge at Pactolus was removed and relocated several years ago.

Also approved by commissioners at their morning session today was a list of basic duties of the county manager.

The duties of the manager include serving as the administrative head of the county government with the responsibility of general supervision of the affairs and activities of the various county operations.

The manager is also to serve as agent of the board in coordinating activities of the board with other boards and agencies of the county and under the general policy, is to recommend for appointment and when necessary the removal of department heads and other employees.

Commissioners also heard from Mrs. Anna Fleming of the Tax Collectors office who reported that collections for the month of September totaled $1,067,689, some $164,964 more than for the same period last year.

Cambodia Plans To Be Republic

By JOHN T. WHEELER

Associated Press Writer
PHNOM PENH (AP) — Cambodia's national assembly and senate voted unanimously today to end their country's ancient monarchy and replace it with a republic.

The legislators at a joint session said the republic would be proclaimed Oct. 9 and would go into effect Nov. 1. Chief of State Chen Heng leaves Oct. 9 to speak to the U.N. General Assembly in New York.

The switch to a republic is designed chiefly as a blow against Prince Norodom Sihanouk, the deposed chief of state and head of the royal house, who has set up a government-in-exile in Peking. Western political observers said that while the constitutional changes that would result were not yet clear, they doubted that there would be any immediate change in Premier Lon Nol's government or its operations.

Chen Heng is expected to remain as chief of state. He was elected by the parliament when it deposed Sihanouk in mid-March.

By proclaiming a republic, the government, undoubtedly hopes to undermine Sihanouk's claims that he is still the rightful chief of state. The government also hopes that abolition of the monarchy will help wipe out the loyalty to the prince and his family that lingers among the peasants in the countryside.

Special Call Meeting Set

A special call meeting of Greenville's Board of Adjustments will be held tomorrow at noon in the mayor's office in City Hall, for consideration of a special use request by Union Carbide.

The firm is seeking to have a tract of land, now zoned highway commercial, rezoned to U.C., unoffensive industrial — commercial. The parcel of land is that adjacent to the Union Carbide plant, bounded on the north by Sherwood Acres, on the south by Union Carbide cast by Evans Street and on the west by the Seaboard Coastline Railroad.

A spokesman for the firm indicated that Union Carbide is considering purchase of this tract of land, and is seeking approval of the rezoned status prior to purchase. He said there is no immediate plan for use of this land, but that the firm wants to be assured it would be able to use the land for unoffensive industrial purposes at a later date.

Lon Nol, who headed the government under Sihanouk, began promising to proclaim a republic soon after he deposed the prince last March 18. For the past month the government press agency has been publishing constitutions of Asian and western democracies and republics to stir up public interest.

Sihanouk in a recent broadcast from Peking noted Lon Nol's plans and said Cambodia has been a de facto republic since 1960, when he refused to take the throne of his dead father and had himself named chief of state instead. Sihanouk said the present constitution could serve for a republic if it was amended.

In the war, Cambodian troops beat back a heavy 11-hour attack on a base on Phnom Penh's highway to the sea, but enemy forces cut the highway to Battambang and the Thai border.

New York City Jail Inmates Release Hostages

NEW YORK (AP) — Prisoners at the last city jails in the hands of inmates bowed to an ultimatum by Mayor John V. Lindsay today and released three hostages they had held since the disturbances broke out there Thursday.

The hostages at the Long Island City jail were released 13 minutes after a deadline set by Lindsay in a broadcast in which he threatened the prisoners with "other courses of action" if they hesitated.

An earlier Lindsay ultimatum obtained the release without incident of 17 hostages held in the Tombs prison in Manhattan. Jails in Brooklyn and Kew Gardens, Queens, were retaken by authorities early Sunday. Three hostages were freed at the Brooklyn facility. Prisoners held no hostages in the Kew Gardens jail.

Lindsay met separately with representatives of the prisoners at the two jails to hear their grievances.

While he held talks with prisoners at the Long Island City jail, about 200 of the 300 inmates filed into the prison yard and were ordered to sit down with their knees drawn up and facing a rear wall.

Prison guards dragged other inmates out of the century-old jail, pushed them to the ground, kicked and beat six of them with nightsticks. Some were forced to lie on the grass with blankets over them.

One holdout prisoner shouted through a bull horn from the top floor of the six-story red brick building that, "Mayor Lindsay has lied. The guards are beating inmates mercilessly in the courtyard. He said if they came down peacefully, the inmates would not be beaten, but they're getting beaten half to death." Newsmen perched on the roof of a nearby warehouse were able to see over the prison wall and view the courtyard scene.

Corrections officials had no immediate knowledge of any beatings but that the allegation was being investigated.

The Tombs prison was retaken peacefully after Lindsay's broadcast to the inmates, in which he said he was aware of their grievances and promised to meet with them only if they released their hostages.

When the mayor emerged from the meeting with the Tombs' prisoners, he said they had "real grievances" and traced them to delays in the judicial system.

The Tombs' hostages had been held since Friday, the second day of a series of jail disorders that affected five detention houses.

Agents For Loyalty Fund

Three persons from the Greenville area will serve this year as class agents for the 24th Anniversary Loyalty Fund Drive of Duke University.

They are Dr. C. C. Cleetwood, Larry R. Norwood and Dr. Melvin J. Williams.

There are 445 such agents serving in the 1970-71 campaign.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—Neither side vulnerable. As South you hold:

AK6 ♠AJ872 ♦KQ85 ♣63

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 3 ♥ Pass
4 ♥ Pass Pass 4 ♠

What do you bid now?

A.—Double. A pass by you would serve as a slight inducement to partner to go on to five hearts. Since you have a near minimum with a value in the adverse suit, the double would be better strategy.

Q. 2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

AK92 ♠AK962 ♦1063 ♣KQ

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ Pass
2 ♥ Pass 2 ♠ Pass
4 ♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—That the partnership possesses sufficient trick-taking power to produce a slam there can be little doubt. The only deterrent to making the bid is the possibility that the opposition can cash two diamond tricks. Bid five clubs and, if partner has second round control of diamonds, he should bid six hearts.

Q. 3—Both sides vulnerable, as South you hold:

AK2 ♠AK1083 ♦75 ♣63

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West
1 ♠ 1 ♠ 2 ♥ Pass
3 ♠ Pass 3 NT Pass
4 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Since partner has overriden your three no trump bid, he is either interested in a slam or is seeking a safer contract. In either case a four spade by you will best serve the purpose. A big demerit if you went on in no trump.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

AJ64 ♠AJ1073 ♦5 ♣KQ2

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West
Pass 1 ♠ Dble. 1 ♠ Dble. Pass Pass 2 ♠ Dble. Pass Pass 2 ♠

What do you bid now?

A.—Three spades. West has obviously made a bluff bid in spades. North was of the opinion he could defeat a contract of one spade, and East was willing to play such a contract, so West could not have more than two of this suit. Spades are your partnership's best trump so showing the hearts is not recommended.

Q. 5—East-West vulnerable, and as South you hold:

AK93 ♠J4 ♦AJ986 ♣AJ5

Your right hand opponent opens the bidding with three clubs. What action do you take?

A.—Three diamonds. If you double, an awkward situation will develop if partner responds three hearts.

Q. 6—Neither side vulnerable, as South you hold:

AJ1043 ♠K1062 ♦K ♣AKQ8

Partner opens with one heart; what is your response?

A.—Three clubs. The big bid should be made at once, and partner permitted to carry on from there. If you respond with three hearts and partner goes to four, you will have failed to make a proper slam effort. If you bid two clubs, you will have no satisfactory call over a rebid of two hearts.

Q. 7—Both sides vulnerable, as South you hold:

AK643 ♠Q105 ♦10964 ♣75

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South
1 ♠ Dble. Pass 1 ♠ Pass 3 ♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four hearts. True, you haven't very much, but partner's bidding has indicated that he can probably take close to nine tricks in his own hand. The queen of trumps is a sure winner and the doubleton club should produce a trick for him.

Q. 8—You are South, both vulnerable, and you hold:

AK105 ♠64 ♦Q6532 ♣J942

The bidding has proceeded:

East South West North
Pass Pass 1 ♠ Dble. Pass 2 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Dble. Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—This cannot be construed as a second take-out double by partner. You have already bid. Therefore, the double is for penalties. Partner is saying, "I can beat two spades, regardless of your holding." You should pass.

Gardner Blasts Increased Taxes

DUNN, N. C. (AP) — In his first political speech since losing the 1968 gubernatorial race to Bob Scott, Republican Jim Gardner has blasted the Scott tax increases and predicted certain victory for a Republican governor in 1972.

At a rally for Republican legislative candidates in Harnett County, Gardner charged that Scott traveled across the state in 1968 promising he would not support a tobacco tax and telling the people the gasoline tax was already too high.

"But while he was saying 'no more taxes' he was actually planning the gasoline and tobacco tax and the result is that today we have the heaviest state tax load in my lifetime, more unnecessary taxes than at any time in history and more state employees on the payroll," Gardner said.

"Everybody is cussing Bob Scott, but he's not entitled to all the blame," he added. "Like the President of the United States, the governor can't pass a single law by himself."

"You have to lay the blame on legislators who went to Raleigh and followed his bidding like a bunch of blind sheep," he said.

Gardner urged the group to help remedy the situation by voting for the Republican legislative candidates. He also called for support of Republican Herbert Howell in his fight against incumbent Rep. David Henderson for the Third District congressional seat.

Gardner predicted the GOP would make gains in the legislature this year and that the Republican candidate for governor will win in 1972, no matter who he is.

"We almost made it in 1968 and there's no question about it," Gardner predicted. "The Republican candidate in 1972 will be the next governor."

He cited the fact that Scott won by the smallest margin of any governor in recent North Carolina history.

Police Hunting Purse-Snatcher

Greenville police are continuing their investigation into a purse-snatching incident Saturday afternoon on Tenth Street near the Pitt Street intersection.

According to Chief T. E. Gladson, a purse containing an estimated $50.75 was pulled from the arms of Mrs. Patricia Barber Sawyer of 1208 Chestnut St. about 3:52.

Mrs. Sawyer told detectives she was walking along Tenth Street when a man started following her and said, "Wait miss."

She said she then headed for a nearby store and as she reached the front door of the store the man grabbed her bag.

Mrs. Sawyer, officers reported, fell when her bag was taken and received bruises from the fall. She was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital by the Greenville Rescue Squad for treatment.

Couple Exchanges Vows On Sunday Afternoon

The First Christian Church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Linda Catherine Shoe and Robert L. James Jr. on Sunday at 3:00 p.m.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Paul Shoe and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leroy James, all of Greenville.

The Rev. Dana Hunt officiated at the double ring ceremony. A program of wedding music was presented by Ralph Bowen, organist, and Greg Tripp, cousin of the bride, soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of candlelight satin styled with an empire bodice, scooped neckline and an A-line skirt. A panel of lace appliques and seed pearls extended down the front of the gown. The sleeves of the gown featured lace appliques with seeded pearls ending in rose points. The chapel length train was accented with a satin bow at the waistline.

She wore a silk illusion veil attached to a headpiece of lace petals bordered with seed pearls. She carried a nosegay of white bridal flowers centered with a white orchid tied with matching bridal streamers.

Miss Donna Dudley of Greenville was maid of honor. She wore a chapel length dress of willow green crepe designed with an empire waist and long puffed sleeves. Ivory antique lace accented the mandarin collar, waist and cuffs.

She wore a green velvet rose headpiece with matching veil. She carried a bouquet of mixed fall flowers tied with a gold bow.

Bridesmaids were Kathy McCombes of New Bern, Miss Rose Lewis and Miss Debrah Vick, both of Greenville. They wore gowns and headpieces matching that of the maid of honor and carried bouquets of mixed fall flowers tied with green bows.

For her daughter's wedding,

MRS. ROBERT L. JAMES JR.

Mrs. Shoe wore an antique satin aqua dress and coat ensemble with matching accessories. She wore a white orchid.

The bride groom's mother chose a petal pink dress of silk shantung enhanced with pink rosepoint lace, short sleeves and bandeau neckline. She wore matching accessories and a white orchid.

The father of the bridegroom served as best man. Ushers were David Shoe, brother of the bride, Ronnie James, brother of the bridegroom, both of Greenville, Keith Grady of New Bern, Larry Griffin and Danny Pittman, both of Plymouth.

For a wedding trip, the bride changed into a burnt orange coat and dress ensemble with black accessories. She wore an orchid lifted from her nosegay.

The bride is a graduate of Rose High School and attended Pitt Technical Institute. The bridegroom is a graduate of Plymouth High School and attended East Carolina University.

The couple will reside in Greenville.

Reception

Immediately after the wedding, a reception was held in the church parlor given by the family and friends of the bride couple.

The bride's table was covered with a pale green organdy cloth trimmed with antique lace and centered with an arrangement of flowers.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. Charles Camp, Mrs. Matt Smith of Salisbury, Mrs. Robert Beardsworth, Mrs. Raymond Smith of Jacksonville and Mrs. Robert Allen.

Good-byes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Tyson.

The James-Shoe wedding party was entertained Saturday night at an after-rehearsal party at the home of Mrs. Frank Brown.

Hostesses were Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Matt Smith of Salisbury.

The bride's table was covered with a white cutwork cloth and centered with an arrangement of pink fuji mums and baby's breath flanked by two silver candelabra with pink candles.

Multi- & Two-Tones

Did you know that current shoe trends and current car trends have a surprisingly large amount in common?

Why not? After all, when we aren't walking in our shoes, we're riding in our cars. Both have made great use of the two-tone effect in color design.

What has been true of the car industry, and was once true of shoes is true again in the world of footwear. Styles this season strengthen the emphasis on two-tone and even occasionally multi-colored styles. This increased selection of two-tone styles will reap bountiful benefits for the woman anxious to enhance the variety and the fresh brightness of her footwear wardrobe. The whole thrill of the coming fashions will be enriched with these smart color designs.

She Has Trouble Finding Mr. Right

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am French born, and after nine years in the United States I am puzzled beyond description with American men. I don't understand them. Abby, nine years ago I married an American man, and I cannot go into details here about what life was like with him. I wanted to die. Anyway, I just don't know where I went wrong, and neither does anybody else know. I've been alone for five years with my son, age six. I am now 35 and have given up on ever meeting a nice man, and your advice is the last I am going to seek from anyone.

I am college educated, fluent in three languages and I am a nice woman. I love to wait on a man, love to care for a home. I love children. I love to cook, I love to laugh, and I love people. What is wrong with me, Abby?

How do I get to meet a man? I am going to church, to school [again], even tried Parents Without Partners, and I meet only women who, like me, are lonely. In the last year I had two dates, arranged by respectable friends. In both cases the men tried to rush me into bed. I am not lying to you. Nobody wants a virtuous woman, Abby. If I am wrong, please tell me!

DEAR DISILLUSIONED: You are wrong! Don't let two foul balls put you out of the game. You have a lot to offer. If possible, change your scenery, take a trip, immerse yourself in volunteer activity, and tell your friends you are still looking.

DEAR ABBY: Please help me. I don't know if I am going crazy or not. A year ago I was standing in line at the supermarket and suddenly I felt that I just had to get out of there or I would scream or faint or something. I left my cart and ran out the door. I was so embarrassed. Since that time I haven't been able to go into a supermarket without my husband. I can't go into the bank or into elevators alone either. Now I'm making excuses so I won't have to go to parties or out to dinner.

I have a nice home and family, and I keep making excuses so I won't have to go out. The crowds do not bother me, I just have the fear that I will panic again.

Don't tell me it's all in my mind. I KNOW the feeling, and it is very real and terrifying.

Outside of this problem I am a good wife and mother. Have you ever heard of anyone else having this kind of problem? God bless you for any help you can give me.

NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: Many people have had this problem, and it is indeed a very "real" one. Your fear of experiencing the same "panic" is the problem. If you "know" you will panic, you will. Please talk to your doctor. He can recommend help for you. These fears will not disappear. You must face them, understand them and defeat them. You CAN do it. Others have. Good bless.

DEAR ABBY: I am laid off right now but my wife is working. I feel terrible about not being able to bring in my share of the money, but there's nothing I can do about it. [We've been married only a year and have no children.]

Lately, my wife says she likes to "unwind" after work, so she and a coworker [a divorcee] go to a cocktail lounge and accept a drink or two with strange men. She says there is no harm in it as she is being honest with me.

I am not by nature a jealous man, but just the idea that she wants to "unwind" with a few drinks in the company of another man makes me very unhappy. I am sure if the circumstances were reversed she wouldn't want me to buy drinks for strange girls and "unwind" with them. I would appreciate your view on this.

DEAR TROUBLED: Your wife has no business "unwinding" in a cocktail lounge with strange men, whether you're working or laid off. Exchanging her company for a "few drinks" is dangerously close to something I wouldn't want to suggest here. Tell her you appreciate her honesty, but you'd like to have her home evenings.

DEAR ABBY: I am sick and tired of hearing widows complain because they are called "MRS. JANE DOE" instead of the more proper, "MRS. JOHN DOE." I am a widow and I couldn't care less about what people call me, as long as they CALL me. LONESOME IN NEW BEDFORD

Using Ingredients Such As Avocado, Papaya And Apricots, Cosmetics Go Back To Nature

By VIVIAN BROWN

AP Newsfeatures Writer
WILTON, Conn. (AP) — For some earth watchers and others, it may be back-to-nature in cosmetics.

Marshmallow, avocado, papaya, apricots, strawberries and mint are among the ingredients in cosmetics on the shelves of a new kind of beauty shop, Nature's Beauty Spot.

There are few, if any, chemicals in the products, points out pretty blonde, Kathy May, 20, who is a cosmetician.

The pink, orange, yellow and amber concoctions in jars and bottles do not resemble the beets and cherries gloop that grandma whipped up for a bit of color that she hoped would fool grandpa, but they look yummy enough to eat.

At the shop, one may have a honey and almond pack or a makeup with an Indian Elm foundation (Canadian Elm trees) and a wheat germ oil lipstick, while she sips a glass of papaya juice.

Or one may prefer a dryskin treatment with avocado cream and a papaya dew moisturizer.

For dry spots around the mouth, Kathy recommends cucumber cream. Older women may be advised to use fruit essence night creams.

A strawberry and yogurt cleanser is made with real strawberries and has a lot of other great properties in it, Kathy explains.

For teen-agers with acne, she has been recommending herbal masks and these, she is convinced, "draw impurities out of pores and help to dry skin blemishes, if used faithfully." In any event, the masks have become popular with young people.

Lemon milk cleanser and a cucumber astringent are ideal for oily skin types, she points out, and a mint julep mask has a delicious scent.

There is intrigue for the bath in an orange peel bath oil and a banana body lotion made from banana oil "that is very softening for the skin." In addition, there are scented soaps—cinnamon, sage, lilac, bayberry and strawberry.

They also have "organic hair colors," orange blossom and wild honey shampoos and gelatin capsules to harden the nails.

"At first, people buy the cosmetics because it seems to be the new thing to do. But they are reordering and that means they like them," Kathy explains. She worked behind the cosmetics counter of a department store for a year before joining the shop when it opened three months ago.

In her opinion, you can't get the same beauty effects by slathering your face with the raw vegetables, fruits or yogurt. It's the additional ingredients locked into the product that increases the beauty potential.

But Mrs. John Linney, who operates the shop, and the health food store next door to it, says there is at least one new book that tells you how to make your own hairspray, suntan lotion, and how to mash cucumbers for a facial.

For some people, it is health all the way, she says, and it may be one reason she opened the new shop. It accommodates customers at the food store who buy her products—frankfurters without sodium nitrate, fertile eggs (a rooster in the pen), raw, unfiltered, unrefined honey, whole-wheat pizza, and chickens, lamb, beef and turkeys that have been raised on organic feed.

More people are worried about the chemicals in foods and products they use, she says.

It is not unusual for a woman to buy a juicing machine for more than a hundred dollars with 50 pounds of organically-grown carrots, and then visit the cosmetics shop for a jar of marshmallow root and honey cream or apricot kernel oil, and a copy of nutritionist Adele Davis' famous cook book. It is one of a hundred or more books on food, health and beauty available in the shop. In the evening, at a local church auditorium, the customer might attend a lecture on nutrition sponsored by the health foods shop.

Economic Status Plays Role

Statistics on high school graduates who go on to college from Greenville and Pitt County school would seem to provide support for the contention that economic status, not scholastic ability, may be the most influential factor in determining whether a youngster goes to college.

In a recent address before Southern legislators, Gov. Scott asserted that the percentage of high school graduates going on to college from various counties in North Carolina generally follows the curve of per capita income of the various counties.

"In some counties of North Carolina," Gov. Scott said, "more than 40 per cent of the high school graduates go on to a senior college. Generally those are the counties with high per capita income. In some other counties, less than 15 per cent of the high school graduates go on to a senior college. Those counties tend to be the ones with low per capita income."

This may not be altogether true in the contrast between the percentage of graduates from the Greenville schools and those from the Pitt County schools who go on to college. There can be little doubt, however, that scholastic ability alone is not the deciding factor either.

A study by the state Department of Public Instruction shows that 63.8 per cent of the Greenville high school graduates in 1969 went on to college. From the Pitt County high schools for the same year, 30.5 per cent of the graduates went on to college. It is probably significant also, that another 20.7 per cent of the graduates from Pitt high schools that year entered either trade, business or nursing schools.

For the state as a whole, 40.98 per cent of the high school graduates in 1969 entered college, up from 38.47 per cent the year before. Even so, the county-by-county tabulation bears out the governor's statement that there are counties where less than 15 per cent of the high school graduates entered college.

In spite of vast quantities of scholarship money available, in spite of self-help jobs available for students, and in spite of millions of public dollars which pour into colleges and universities, economic status of the individual remains an important factor. "American families in the top 25 per cent income bracket are providing more than half the college students in this country today. Those families in the lowest 25 per cent income bracket are providing only seven per cent of today's college students.

Obviously there are many capable, qualified youngsters who are not in college, not because of lack of academic ability or desire, but simply because of the lack of personal economic resources to make possible a college education.

What Gov. Scott told the Southern legislators applies to Pitt County just as it does to the region as a whole:

"We must find ways of seeing that capable young persons, regardless of their place of residence and their parents' financial status, can get an education that is in line with their abilities and interests. This is absolutely imperative if our Southern States are to increase their per capita income."

Gold Fever In Stanly County

By BOB BURCHETTE

NEW LONDON, N.C. — Little old ladies dabble curiously through a handful of dirt, sifting to see what they can find. Men act nonchalant, but douse a pan in a barrel of water and look at the bottom of the shallow pan with expectation.

Youngsters — less inhibitive about what is going on — dig furiously in a pile.

The glint in all eyes is the same. They're looking for gold.

Some find it; some don't. None get rich. All have fun. It's happening at Cotton Patch Gold Mine off Highway 740 near this Stanly County town.

Most come on weekends, combining gold hunting with a stay at the campgrounds near the mine or picnicking in the area.

Co-managers of the mine are Wade (Jabber) Lanier and Glenn Nance, both of Denton in Davidson County. They also are members of the corporation which owns the mine, opened about two years ago.

New Kind of Fun

It's a new twist to attract campers and picnickers, families out for recreation a bit off the beaten track.

Lanier said the company has invested in providing camping and picnic sites, and plans further improvements to the 23-acre location. "It will take a while to get out money back," Lanier said. "Then, too, we haven't been going with this thing too long. We figure that by next spring we'll be doing all right."

Doing all right with a camping and picnicking business is one thing, but making the actual mining operation a commercial success is a nugget of another proportion, Lanier said. "We don't know if the mining operation would be commercially feasible," he said. "We can't be sure, but if we can operate on a low overhead, it can be and we are trying to work this out."

"It takes a lot of money for a mining operation, and we've already spent a lot of money here. We're going to keep trying and see what we can do."

For at least, the thing is for tourists, weekend campers and club, school and church groups prospecting in the area.

"After they pay their fee," Lanier said, "they can look for gold all they want to and they can keep all they find. I even buy some of it back from them if they want to sell it. "I've seen some get pieces of gold as big as a grain of corn, and we found one rock with gold in it that was worth $100."

"A good panner will find $20 worth in a day easily, but others won't find much."

Rock Hound Attraction

Some of the visitors don't bother to look for gold. Their big interest is rocks. There's plenty of variety to attract them.

"People who know about gold and minerals know about North Carolina," Lanier said. "North Carolina is the leading gold state in the Union before the California gold rush — and it definitely will be again if it is handled right."

"The experts say there will be a big strike on the Appalachian Streak — and we're on that. It runs from Georgia to the mountains."

He added, "We've had geologists here several times and they have been impressed with what they've seen. We know we've got two chimneys of gold and 16 veins here. They have estimated that we have two million tons of placer gold — that's gold that has eroded into the area over millions of years. It is in the top soil and the grit beds."

Plans are to strip mine one area and let visitors hunt for gold on the surface where the top soil has been turned over. Now gold seekers either pan in a creek or take dirt from a large pile where it has been removed from the mine and sift it in a gold pan in a half-barrel of water.

The mine is a short distance above the camping and picnic areas. It is a shaft about seven-by-twelve feet straight into the ground, and now is about 35 feet deep. "We will keep going deeper; maybe as much as 150 to 200 feet," Nance said.

The mine must have water pumped out constantly in order to get the gold dirt removed. It is being dug with an air hammer. The dirt is brought to the surface in a large bucket by a windlass.

Plans also are to clean out another mine nearby, which was dug to 60 feet about three years ago before it caved in. Lanier explained that the company needs a good stockpile of dirt for the gold hunters. "That's why we haven't been moving any faster on this. We've been trying to build up the stockpile so they will have some good material when they come looking for gold," he said.

Soviet Gap To Be Uncloseable

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

MOSCOW—The deepening split between the Communist party's entrenched bureaucracy and a new breed of free-thinking technocrats has now reached the proportions of economic crisis here, with no middle ground in sight.

It was this crisis, not any political convulsion caused by possible changes in the Politburo (as has been speculated), that forced party leader Leonid Brezhnev to reverse himself and postpone the next party congress from this fall to next spring. That postponement was forced by inability of the party to agree on precise economic goals for the new five-year plan.

The inability to agree, in turn, was caused by bitter divisions within the party on one hand and between party and technocrats on the other. The divisions were over desperately needed management reforms, decentralization and modern computerized production and marketing technique in the new five-year plan, the Soviet Union's economic bible.

Boiled down, the debate is whether any real economic reform, if energetically pursued by the Kremlin, will not end by giving the technocrats control over the non-military sector of the economy at the cost of a wholly unacceptable loss of power by the party bureaucrats. Party planners will not risk transferring their economic power to the technocrats who program and control the computers, and for obvious reasons: the technocrats would then become a political threat standing between the party and the people.

"That's what happened in Czechoslovakia," one Western expert told us, "and it's not in the cards here."

But the costs are high. If the Kremlin continues the present horse-and-buggy system with its unbelievable economic wastes—vast underemployment, over-stuffed payrolls, no need for consumer demand—the economic gap between the Soviet and the West will soon become unclosable. The management and computer revolution in the West has already left the Soviet economy far behind, and new generations of computer technology are evolving so fast that the Soviets may never catch up.

The most impressive of the few brave voices publicly warning the Soviet government about this is physicist Andrei Sakharov, whose immense contributions to Soviet nuclear technology (including breakthroughs that led to the Soviet H-bomb) have kept him out of serious trouble with the police thus far.

Party-line economists we talked to here dismissed Sakharov with an impatient wave of the hand. ("He's a good scientist, why doesn't he stay in his field?") But in fact, his warnings to the government have been widely and deeply studied (though not, of course, publicly printed). His theme, in a letter to Brezhnev last spring, is that "necessity of a scientific approach to the problem of organization and

Strength For Today

Hope is a great factor in life. In the 13th Chapter of I Corinthians (13:13) Paul declares: "And now abideth faith, hope love (charity); but the greatest of these is love."

There is significance in the fact that he included hope. Most of us would feel that the greatest power in the world is faith, a spiritual power which enables us to give substance to things hoped for. But we go back to hope as the springboard. We have to look up and decide that certain things are worthwhile. They are worth what we have to pay to get them. If we never give up hope we can be sure of getting there — of achieving some form of success, of having some mystery straightened out in our minds, of being lifted out of a mood of discouragement and into a mood of expectation.

Certainly one of the greatest pieces of advice one can ever give or receive is: Never give up hope. All we have to do is to read the lives of great men to know how often they were apparently defeated. They had reached the end of the road. Certainly that was true in the case of Jesus as they nailed him to the cross. This was the end. But of course it was not — it was only the beginning. Crucifixion was followed by resurrection, and resurrection by ascension, and ascension by the giving of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost so that we live today in the spirit and power of Christ.

Never give up hope.

Entertained For A Fee

WASHINGTON—The Washington social season has never been more fraught with cocktail parties, dinner parties, autograph parties and testimonials, all in the name of political fund-raising. People in this town live in fear every time the mail arrives that among the bills and junk letters will be buried an invitation to someone's house for a friendly drink.

This drink can cost the invitee anywhere from $25 to $500 as a political contribution to some poor senator or congressman's campaign.

Last week was typical of what is going on here. On Monday I arrived home and my wife said, "The Jessels have invited us for cocktails tomorrow night to meet Sen. Bolt."

"Who wants to meet him?" I said. "I saw him last night at a fund-raising party for Congressman Ax."

"Well, we can't say no. I run into Ginny Jessel at the hairdresser's every week, and she'll think we couldn't afford $50 to come to her party."

The next night as we were getting dressed for the Jessel bash, my wife said, "There's an autograph party for Sen. Finney at the Quagmires tomorrow."

"An autograph party?" "Yes. Sen. Finney is autographing his new book, 'The Sensuous Senator.' If you contribute $100 he'll sign it to you personally."

"One hundred dollars? I wouldn't buy it if it was printed in paperback."

"Well, the Quagmires reminded me that they gave us $100 for the Junior Village Telephone, and so I said we'd come."

A few nights later I was home reading my autographed copy of "The Sensuous Senator" when a telegram arrived. It read, "YOU ARE INVITED TO A TESTIMONIAL DINNER CELEBRATING CONGRESSMAN ALF KLOTZ'S 30TH ANNIVERSARY AS A MEMBER OF THE HOUSE DISTRICT SEWER COMMITTEE. A TABLE HAS BEEN RESERVED IN YOUR NAME. PLEASE MAKE OUT A $150 CHECK IN NAME OF KLOTZ FOR CONGRESS COMMITTEE."

"Now they've gone too far," I said to my wife. "I wouldn't be caught dead at a testimonial for Klotznick."

"You can say that now," my wife said. "But the next time our sewer breaks, Klotznick will block the bill to fix it in his committee."

Discrimination Over Weight?

By ELMER ROESSNER

The next great anti-discrimination drive may be against discrimination because of weight. The cry may be raised, "Fatties of America, unite!"

A few years ago Congress considered legislation prohibiting discrimination against people because of race or religion. A group of Southern Congressmen amended the proposal to include sex hoping that the majority would then vote against the proposal because that would wipe out a vast amount of legislation protecting women in industry.

They miscalculated and the legislation was passed. Similar legislation was voted in many states. Now newspapers must not separate the sexes in help-wanted advertisements, except in special cases, such as ads for men's washroom attendants and burlesque strippers.

As a consequence, women have been applying for jobs as truck drivers and jockeys. In fact, last Tuesday Edith Hinsley won three races in a single day at Canandaigua, N. Y.

Fuels Women's Lib

This nondiscrimination doctrine has added fuel to the Women's Liberation movement with its demands that women be given more jobs as bosses. There are also campaigns against discrimination against epileptics, paraplegics and otherwise handicapped persons.

Now there are signs that the heavyweights are arising. An Eastern Air Lines hostess has already complained to the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination that hostesses are afraid to gain as little as a single pound over their weight when hired because they may be fired. That's discrimination, she charges, because no other Eastern employees are dismissed for weight.

A campaign against discrimination against fat people can spread, and it can gain support from large men as well as plump women.

There is, of course, considerable discrimination against overweighters of both sexes. Some insurance companies refuse to sell life insurance to them, or charge extra premiums. The Army has special diet and exercise courses for overweight men, and you almost never see a fat general.

Pro-Slim Discrimination

A typing service I once knew of would hire only slim and preferably neurotic girls because it found that they turned out more work. Many personnel executives

Living longer: An average lifespan of 96 years may be possible well before the end of this century, some experts predict, on the basis of gerontologic research now under way. They hold out the possibility that this added longevity will enable men to have two careers instead of one.

Mind over matter: How smart you are may determine how much you are affected by psychosomatic illnesses, those in which mental stress result in a physical disability. Such a disability, says Dr. John B. Reckless of the Duke University Medical Center, is likely to be more prolonged in persons of below average intelligence.

Definition: Comedienne Joan Rivers told Jules Podell of the Copacabana Hotel that "a liberated woman is simply one who wants to be treated with gender, loving care."

A matter of degree: Higher education is now getting almost as bureaucratic as the government. U.S. colleges and universities now confer more than 1,600 different types of degrees at the associate, bachelor, master and doctorate levels.

Worth remembering: "One reason why there is so much humor in the world today is that so many people take themselves seriously."

Job Team Helps Ex-Prisoners

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

A new program designed to improve employment opportunities for those with criminal records is now beginning to function in this area.

Funded by the U. S. Department of Justice, "Jobs for Ex-Offenders" is an experimental program—the first of its kind in the nation.

Handled through the Law and Order Division of the North Carolina Department of Local Affairs, the project is being "sold" to business and industry by Palmer-Paulson Associates, Inc., a Chicago-based business consulting firm. The Justice Department stipulated that such an agency be used as it was believed a "business to business" approach would be advantageous.

Jerry Randall, Palmer-Paulson's coordinator for the eastern third of North Carolina, began work August 10. Since that time most of his efforts have been concentrated on familiarizing parole and probation officers with the program's aims and explaining the role they will have once the program is well underway.

"A meaningful job is a key factor in discouraging a return to criminal activities," Randall said.

"In North Carolina more than 60 percent of those individuals who complete their prison sentences eventually are reconvicted for committing further crimes. This high rate of return to criminal habits results in significant expense for taxpayers. In many cases the ex-offender who returns to a life of crime does so because he is unable to obtain suitable employment.

"Increasing the availability of meaningful jobs for probationers, parolees, and other ex-offenders who have the desire to work is essential if this dismal situation is to be corrected."

Randall explained why an ex-offender often makes a good employee:

"Usually a fellow just out of prison has never had a decent job in his life. This is probably one of the main reasons he got into trouble in the first place. The prospect of a good job is often the biggest incentive he has to 'keep straight.'"

"Anyone on probation or on parole is being constantly supervised by his probation or parole officer, so the employer has this added insurance that he will probably do well.

"Then there is the negative, but very real threat of having to go into or back to prison if he does not hold a job."

A job team is now operating in the western part of the state contacting businessmen and industry personnel managers lining up jobs. It will soon move into this part of the state.

The businessmen who consider hiring an ex-offender are promised that they will be sent only qualified, thoroughly screened applicants for the job openings pledged. All applicants will have received pre-employment counseling.

They are also promised that professional manpower consultants will assist interested employers in applying for U. S. Department of Labor manpower training funds specifically available for training ex-offenders.

"The ultimate goal of the 'Jobs for Ex-Offenders' program," Randall said, "is for all probation and parole officers to have at their fingertips a ready list of available jobs when they are trying to help men and women seeking jobs. This will not only save them time and trouble, but will help lessen the stigma ex-offenders feel exist for hiring them."

Invite Students To Attend Open House

Pitt County high school students, especially juniors and seniors, are being invited to attend the annual Open House Program, Saturday, October 10, at North Carolina State University in Raleigh.

The Open House is sponsored by the University's School of Agriculture and Life Sciences and School of Forest Resources.

Open House is held for career-minded high school students, their parents, teachers and career advisors. Also invited are other adults who are interested in finding out more about the statewide activities of N. C. State through its research and extension programs.

The Pitt County Open House committee is handling local arrangements for those who plan to attend the 1970 Open House October 10. Any person who is interested in going is asked to call the Agricultural Extension Office at 758-1196. Limited free transportation will be available for students on a first-come-first-serve basis if the Extension Office or the high school guidance counselor is notified by October 6.

Special exhibits will be open to the public beginning at 11:30 a.m. Reynolds Coliseum. They will show the many phases of agriculture, life sciences, and forestry available to students at N. C. State. Faculty members and students will be on hand to discuss career opportunities, curriculums, admission requirements and campus life activities.

The exhibits will remain open until 3 p.m. Time will also be provided for visitors to tour various departments of the two schools. A Dutch Lunch will be provided by the State Poultry Science Club.

The day's program will end with the State vs. East Carolina football game Saturday night at 7:30 p.m. in Carter Stadium. Tickets for the game will be available at a reduced price for Open House visitors.

administration of the economy...requires complete information, impartial thinking, and freedom to create."

Instead, the party's bureaucracy rigidly restricts free exchange of information, making petty functionaries out of middle-level economic administrators and sapping initiative.

Unwilling to risk political stresses that would follow true decentralization and modern production and marketing systems, the Kremlin instead is turning to profit-hungry Western technocrats for a miracle that simply can't be performed within the present Communist system.

At the recent International Chemical Fair here, for example, 185 West German firms sent specialists to hunt easy bargains in the sale of technology. Economic planners are also hoping, despite collapse of the Henry Ford truck deal, to master new technological developments with help from such U.S. giants as IBM.

But at best, this reaching out for Western technology would only paper over the cracks. To bring Russia into what Sakharov calls the "second industrial revolution" requires revolutionary restructuring of the entire industrial system, a revolution that the Communist party here is not about to risk today. Without it, the technological gap may soon be uncloseable.

to Klotznick's testimonial.

For two days after that we didn't get any invitations to go out, and I was starting to worry that we had been crossed off everybody's list.

But on the third evening, when I came home from the office, my wife said, "Guess what?"

"I'm not going to any more cocktail parties, autograph parties or testimonial dinners this year, and that is final," I yelled.

"You don't have to go to any," she said nervously.

"Great."

"Sally Fowler called and asked if we could come to a brunch on Sunday for Forest, who is running against Sen. Boots Kimberly. I told her how you hated to go out on Sundays, so she asked if we could hold it here."

"You wouldn't," I said.

"Well, now that we owe the Jessels and the Quagmires, it will be an easy way to get even."

WORLD'S CHAMPION PEANUT GROWER SAYS:
"MY LILLISTON ENABLES ME TO PICK OVER 30,000 POUNDS OF PEANUTS A DAY"

E. W. Evans, Como, N. C., produced history's highest recorded acre-yield of 6,059 pounds of peanuts in 1969.

Here's what he says about the machine that helped him do it:

"I like my Lilliston 1500 Peanut Combine better than any machine I've ever seen. It's a high capacity combine which enables me to pick an average of over 30,000 pounds of peanuts a day. My Lilliston is a clean-picking combine, too, and gets all the nuts off the vines—even in tough conditions. And it's the most trouble-free machine I've ever used."

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—The so-called "childhood diseases" are a myth, says the Texas State Health Department.

Health officials warn that adults can catch diseases such as mumps and measles and are sometimes sicker. However, most people have had them by adulthood and thereby have developed immunity.

Only 2 Southern Conf. Teams Took Outside Wins

By MARSHALL JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

Four Southern Conference football teams return to the friendly confines of the family circle this coming Saturday, and it's somewhat ironic that the only two winners against outside opposition this past weekend will be the underdogs.

The Citadel's Bulldogs, one of three teams tied for the league lead at 1-0, visit William and Mary Saturday afternoon in the Indians' conference debut. Richmond's Spiders, 0-1, who tied Davidson for the top spot last season, have a Saturday night date at Furman, also 0-1.

It was William and Mary, a 33-29 winner over Ohio Wesleyan, and Furman with a 42-34 triumph over Carson-Newman who provided the only triumphs for the conference last weekend in seven games against non-league foes. But The Citadel and Richmond will be the favorites this week.

The Citadel was a 24-7 victim of Arkansas State, the nation's top-ranked small college team, and Richmond's Spiders took a 43-21 licking at Southern Mississippi.

Other losers as the league's record against outside foes fell to 4-16 were Virginia Military Institute's Keydets, routed 56-3 at Boston College; Davidson's Wildcats, beaten at home by Trinity 20-9; and East Carolina's Pirates, who absorbed a 42-30 defeat at West Texas State.

Two of them take to the road this Saturday against Atlantic Coast Conference opponents, VMI at Virginia in the afternoon and East Carolina at N. C. State at night. Davidson is an afternoon host to Bucknell.

Fullback Phil Mosser set a conference single-game record by gaining 257 yards in 31 carries and scored twice in the William and Mary victory, but the clinging touchdown was a 69-yard run by halfback Todd Bushnell, who gained 172 yards as the Indians rolled up 453 yards on the ground.

But the Indians gave up 490 yards in total offense — three less than they gained themselves — by playing what coach Lou Holtz called the "worst defense I've ever seen."

Furman ran up 450 yards on the ground with halfback Pat Carroll gaining more than 200 yards, including touchdown runs of 61 and 42 yards. Halfback Steve Crisp also scored twice and John De Leo threw two TD passes. The Paladins now are 2-2 — the only league team at the break-even mark.

Despite losing for the fourth time in a row, East Carolina — limited to one safety in three previous games — got on the scoreboard in a big way and was within a touchdown twice in the last two periods. Fullback Billy Wallace scored three of the Pirates' touchdowns.

VMI, down by only 7-3 after Don Cupit's 22-yard field goal in the first quarter, gave up 637 yards in total offense to Boston College and got inside the Eagles' 30 only two other times. Keydet coach Vito Ragazzo put it quite simply: "We were completely outplayed."

Sophomore linebacker Mike Sikes' 30-yard runback of an intercepted pass gave Davidson a 7-0 lead, but the wildcats — despite Mark Thompson's 204 yards passing — couldn't hold off Trinity's punishing ground attack.

Brian Baima on a 52-yard pass play, then scored from three yards out to pull The Citadel to within 10-7 at Arkansas State in the third quarter, but the Indians — led by tailback Calvin Harrell with 252 yards in 43 carries — scored twice in the last 15 minutes.

All-Southern quarterback Charlie Richards, scoring one touchdown and hitting Jerry Haynes on a 51-yard pass play for another as he completed 12 of 23 aeriels for 243 yards before he was shaken up, kept Richmond in the game until Southern Mississippi scored twice in the third quarter.

"Offensively, we played well enough to win," said Richmond coach Frank Jones. "But we didn't contain them defensively (Southern Mississippi gained 481 yards to 325 for the Spiders)."

But of real concern to Jones is the fact that "we're really beat up, and we don't have the boys to put in there."

The solution?

"We'll just have to suck up our guts and go."

Twins Lose One More Time To Oriole Power

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer
BALTIMORE (AP) — The Minnesota Twins, shackled by smooth-throwing Dave McNally and shaken once again by his free-swinging Baltimore mates in the second game of the American League championship playoffs, found themselves in a familiar cul-de-sac today.

McNally tossed a six-hitter and the streaking Orioles scored seven runs in one inning for the second time in as many days to rout the Twins 11-3 Sunday for a 2-0 lead in the best-of-5 series.

The Twins, victims of a three-game Oriole sweep in last year's confrontation of AL division champs, needed three straight victories at Baltimore, beginning today, to avert another quick fadeout.

"From where I stand right now," said Minnesota Manager Bill Rigney with a shrug, "I'll settle for one in a row."

The second game, a one-run struggle going into the ninth inning, deteriorated into a copy of Baltimore's 10-6 slam in Saturday's series opener when Boog Powell's two-run opposite-field double and a three-run homer by Dave Johnson helped assure the East Division champs' 13th consecutive victory.

"Give them an inch—something they get for nothing—and they find a way to score in bunches," said the dispirited Rigney, who, in his first shot at a World Series berth, now faces the same fate his predecessor, Billy Martin, suffered a year ago.

The Orioles, who won their last 11 regular season games, hoped to apply the crusher today behind 20-game winner Jim Palmer, who finished the Twins last year with an 11-2 triumph. Rookie Bert Blyleven hoped to keep the Twins alive.

The Twins did all their scoring on successive fourth-inning pitches by McNally, a 24-game winner who beat them 1-0 in the 12-inning middle game of last year's sweep.

After a walk to Leo Cardenas, Harmon Killebrew hit a 3-2 delivery into the left field bleachers and Tony Oliva slammed the next pitch into the left center seats.

"I try to forget those things," said McNally, who also singled to drive in the Orioles' fourth and deciding run in the fourth inning and doubled to launch the seven-run ninth.

The homers by Killebrew and Oliva trimmed Baltimore's lead to 4-3 and it stayed that way until the ninth, thanks to a perfect throw by Orioles' left fielder Merv Rettenmund in the fifth that nailed Minnesota pitcher Stan Williams at the plate on Cardenas' single.

Gambling football has helped North Carolina come to the midpoint of the season undefeated for the first time in 20 years.

The Tar Heels defeated Vanderbilt 10-7 Saturday night and their points were scored in the final quarter after they had elected to run in fourth-down situations. One gamble led to a touchdown and the other to a field goal.

North Carolina, ranked 19th nationally, is 4-0, the first time since 1949 it has opened the season with four victories. Other Atlantic Coast Conference teams didn't fare so well.

Duke help top-ranked Ohio State to a 6-3 advantage at the end of the half. But the Buckeyes then opened up, scoring 21 points in the third quarter on their way to a 34-10 victory. Three Ohio State backs each gained more than 100 yards rushing. And Duke quarterback Leo Hart, the leading major college passer going into the game, was held to a below-average 11 completions. A goal-line fumble and two overthrown passes by Hart also hurt the Blue Devils.

The Wake Forest defensive team was in Glory Land, swarming over Virginia for five pass interceptions and three fumble recoveries. This enabled the Demon Deacons to win 27-7, with quarterback Larry Russell scoring on runs of one and 30 yards, and throwing a five-yard touchdown pass to sophomore half back Ken Garrett.

Russell's girlfriend, Martha Jean Hill, 21, of Newburyport, Mass., who had watched him play, was killed in a wreck in Virginia while driving back to Winston-Salem, home of Wake Forest. She was a sophomore at Beaver College in Glenside, Pa. Russell, who had returned to Winston-Salem with the team, left by plane for Newburyport, which is also his hometown.

"We reached the height of futility today; we are guilty of stopping ourselves," coach Earle Edwards said of North Carolina State's 14-7 loss to Florida. A total of nine pass interceptions marred the game.

After five incomplete passes, quarterback Dennis Britt finally connected with George Botsko for a 14-yarder which gave N.C. State its touchdown in the final period.

The Clemson Tigers lost their grip and Georgia Tech scored 21 points in the final 15 minutes and 56 seconds to win 28-7. Brent Cunningham, a 5-foot-7 running demon who weighs only 160 pounds clashed Clemson's defenses for a record 217 yards in 16 carries. Included was a 69-yard touchdown run in which he squirmed away from five tacklers. Bobby Dodd, a former Tech coach and now athletic director, said it was the greatest exhibition of running he had ever seen on Tech's Grant Field in Atlanta.

After Tommy Suggs was hurt, replacement Jackie Young directed South Carolina flawlessly. The Gamecocks defeated Virginia Tech 24-7. Young's passing and signal calling helped Carolina score 17 points in the third quarter.

Miami of Florida defeated Maryland 18-11 Friday night.

Games next Saturday are Clemson home to Auburn, Duke at West Virginia, Maryland at Syracuse, South Carolina at North Carolina, North Carolina Soate home to East Carolina in a night game, Virginia home to VMI, and Wake Forest home to Virginia Tech.

Curtis Turner Dies In Crash

DUBOIS, Pa. (AP) — State police said former stock car driver Curtis M. Turner of Roanoke, Va., and another man were killed Sunday when their twin-engine plane crashed into the side of a hillside in nearby Bell Township.

Turner, 45, and Clarence R. King, 51, also of Roanoke, were pronounced dead at the scene by Clearfield County Coroner Robert Young. Police said the ace-commander 500-piloted by Turner crashed shortly after taking off from Dubois-Jefferson Airport en route to Roanoke.

King was a golf professional at the Blue Hills golf course in Roanoke.

Turner was one of auto racing's most prominent and colorful stars.

He was often called the "Babe Ruth of stock car racing" for his many victories in the early 1950s when auto racing was growing to major league status in the South.

Turner was approximately 365 races in his 20-year driving career.

Among Turner's victories were triumphs at Darlington, S. C., and Rockingham, N.C., in addition to winning the famous Pikes Peak mountain climb in 1962.

Turner, a lumberman and experienced pilot who had homes in Roanoke, Va., and Charlotte, N. C., was one of the original founders of the Charlotte motor Speedway.

He was later suspended from racing by National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing Nascar President Bill France when Turner tried to unionize drivers in order to obtain a union loan to complete the Charlotte facility.

Turner was voted Nascar's most popular driver in 1957. He drove his first race at Mount Airy, N.C., in 1946 and his racing career has carried him to almost every major race in the country.

He also has competed in races in Mexico and Nassau.

King was the pro at Blue Hills for 13 years after assuming the position in May of 1957. He competed as an amateur for several years before taking the Blue Hills offer.

He won the Fairacre Invitational at Hot Springs in 1954.

'Bridesmaid' Isaac At Last Is 'Bride'

NORTH WILKESBORO, N.C. (AP) — Bobby Isaac had been often a bridesmaid but never a bride at the North Wilkesboro Speedway.

For four straight races, he had won the pole position. But never had he managed to convert the advantage into a money-winning victory.

The jinx ended Sunday, however. Isaac walked off with the 10th annual Wilkes 400 NASCAR Grand National Stock car race after spurring ahead of Richard Petty's Plymouth in a stretch duel.

Isaac's 1970 Dodge got the winning flag by only six car lengths. But that was enough to pull down $5,825 in first prize money. His average speed was 90.162 miles per hour in the 250-mile race.

In third place was Donnie Allison in a 1970 Ford. Allison was more than a lap behind the winner and second-place Petty. His brother Bobby cruised in seconds later for a fourth-place finish in his 1970 Dodge.

The average speed was considerably below the track record because of four caution flags which slowed the cars during a total of 33 laps. The flags were a boon to Isaac, however.

He was nearly a lap behind Petty with 50 laps remaining when the third flag came out. While it flew, Isaac closed the gap and restarted just behind the leader.

When the final caution flag came out, Isaac dropped into his pit for new tires. By the time the green flag was aloft, Isaac had fresh, track-hugging tires on his mount and was able to roar past Petty for his eleventh victory of the season.

World Champion Golf Trio Touring In Europe

MADRID (AP) — The U.S. women's golf trio that won the World Team Championship by a single stroke from France in as dramatic a finish as any tournament director could imagine broke up Sunday for a separate European tour before returning home.

Martha Wilkinson, of Whittier, Calif., who withstood the tremendous pressure of an unexpected finish to pick up four strokes Saturday in the last threesome involving the leaders, and Cynthia Hill of St. Petersburg, Fla., planned to visit Barcelona, Italy, Germany, France and Britain.

Then they will stop off in Boston to visit Mrs. Henri Prunard, the nonplaying captain of the American team.

Jane Bastenchary of Whittier, Calif., will tour the continent plus England, Scotland and Ireland with her parents before returning to Arizona State University at Tucson as an instructor.

The final round of the tournament started as anti-climax and steadily built up more excitement than a movie scenario.

France started the day leading by two strokes. The three leaders—France, the United States and Canada—were placed in the same threesome so that head to head play developed.

Mrs. Claudine Cros Rubin of France finished in 76, while Miss Bastenchary took a 77, putting France three strokes ahead. Then Miss Hill came in with a 78, and Brigitte Varangot of France with a 79.

Only the two best scores of the day counted, so it was quickly assumed—correctly—that these scores would not count.

That put it up to the final players, Miss Wilkinson and Mrs. Catherine LaCoste de Prado, the daughter of oldtime French tennis ace Rene LaCoste. Both made the turn one over par with 38s.

There seemed little hope that Miss Wilkinson could pick up three strokes to throw the tournament into a playoff, or four strokes to win, in the last nine.

But Mrs. De Prado missed a 30-inch putt at the 10th, then she was short with her approach at the 12th. She missed a three-foot putt at the 15th, and she three-putted the 18th green from 25 feet. These were all bogeys, and left France four strokes behind.

Miss Wilkinson dropped a 15-foot putt at the 12th for a birdie, but gave the stroke back at the 13th when she three-putted from 50 feet.

The suspense went right up to the 18th green, where Miss Wilkinson was before the green about 30 feet from the cup. She chipped up to two feet.

Then Mrs. De Prado made one final desperate effort. Her 25-foot putt barely slid by about two inches from the hole.

Miss Wilkinson completely mastered her nerves and dropped the putt for a 74. Mrs. De Prado had to settle for a 78.

That gave the United States a 72-hole team score of 598 and France 599. South Africa was third with 606 and Canada fourth with 610. Sally Little, 19-year-old Uouth African who could easily have been elected beauty queen of the tournament, had the low individual score with 299.

Sanudo Wins The Azalea Open

By REESE HART
Associated Press Writer
WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP) — Cesar Sanudo made it plain this weekend that he isn't an unknown golfer anymore.

He took care of that by winning the 160,000 Azalea Open Golf Tournament Sunday when third-round leader Bobby Mitchell faltered with bogies on the last three holes.

"They were calling me an unknown, but I'm not an unknown now," said the happy 26-year-old from San Diego, Calif. He put together rounds of 66, 68, 68 and 67 for 269, 15 under par.

Mitchell 27, of Danville, Va., had a four - stroke lead going into the final round. Sanudo narrowed the gap until Mitchell eagled the par-five 15 to hold a two - stroke edge. But Mitchell three - putted the next three holes to finish with a 72 for 270.

He missed a five - foot putt on the 18th that would have sent the tournament into a playoff.

It was Sanudo's first victory in 20 months on the tour and earned him $12,000. Mitchell received $6,840.

John Schlee won third place with a final - round, nine-under-par 62 to break the Cape Fear Country Club course competitive record. He finished at 271.

ROCHE IS OUT

LONDON (AP) — Australian pro Tony Roche will miss the remaining tennis Grand Prix tournaments this year because of a recurring shoulder injury, a tournament official said Sunday night.

Bob Stanton and Hugh Royer tied for fourth place with 272. Mason Rudolph and Rolf Deming were next at 273, followed by Al Balding and Howell Fraser at 274.

Defending champion Dale Douglass was at 275 with Ted Hayes, Wilf Homeniuk, Joe Campbell and Labron Harris.

Bunny Hines, president of the sponsoring Wilmington Athletic Association said the future of the tournament remains in doubt because of poor attendance and lack of big - name entries. Despite good weather, attendance was way below that of past years, Hines said. He declined to give an estimate on the four-day turnout.

The purse was boosted this year from $35,000 to $60,000 and the tournament was switched from spring to fall. Hines said the PGA has made no commitment on dates for 1971.

"Unless the PGA can guarantee us that we will receive at least two of the top players of the present year, it will make it difficult for us to hold future tournaments," he said.

Dan Gurney Is Retired

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Dan Gurney will design and build race cars, direct racing activities and wrote a book on the motor sport, yet he says he will never drive competitively again.

The handsome 39-year-old who has won more European Grand Prix races than any other American and has placed second twice and third once in the past three years at the Indianapolis 500, called it quits Sunday.

After placing fifth in the Mission Bell 200, Gurney told newsmen he was stepping down "because I always wanted to retire in one piece."

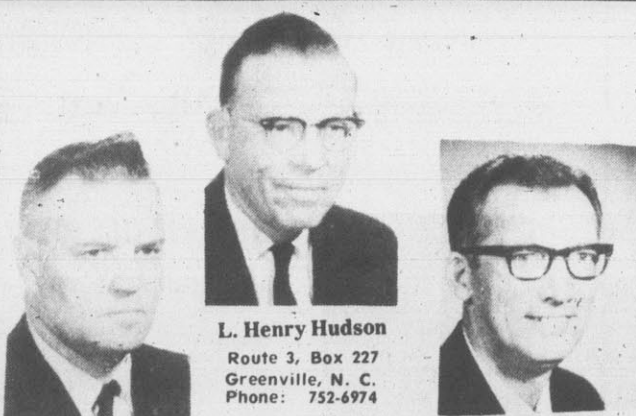

Originally, he had planned to retire after the Rex Mays 300 at this Riverside International Raceway in December, but stepped up his calendar when that race was canceled during the past week.

Internationally, he is known as a premier driver and a so gained acclaim through the design of his Eagle racers which placed first, second and fourth in the 1968 Indianapolis race. Cars using his Gurney-Eagle cylinder heads won at LeMans, France in 1968 and 1969 and cars using his cylinder heads hold two national drag racing records.

Asked if he might drive on a part-time basis, Gurney replied, "No," and explained, "Part-time racing can be very dangerous and you can't be satisfied with your efforts on a part-time basis."

Fighter Planes Are For Sale

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — For $4,500 to $7,000 you can buy and fly a full-sized imitation of the Japanese fighter planes that attacked Pearl Harbor. A movie company, 20th Century-Fox Film Corp., is selling 32 of them, left over from its Pearl Harbor epic, "Tora! Tora! Tora!" Seven have been sold. Another plane was lost in filming when it crashed into a cane field on Oahu, Hawaii. Who's buying them? "You'd be surprised," says Frank E. Brown, head of the studio's property department. "We sold a couple to airline pilots who wanted to own them for kicks. Three we sent to the Cleveland Air Show were flown there by a professor at Long Beach College, a Los Angeles doctor and a test pilot who volunteered for the job."

Although all look like World War II vintage planes, in reality the Zeke fighters and Kate torpedo planes are American-made AT6s and the Val bombers are BT13s. They were purchased by the studio about four years ago

Viet War Slows But Military Solution No Nearer

EDITOR'S NOTE — American casualties are down. Gradually, the GIs are coming home. But has the basic military outlook changed in Vietnam? The question is weighed in this article by a reporter who has been covering the war five years.

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Both American and South Vietnamese officials point to strides on the battlefield and in the fields of pacification and Vietnamization.

Yet, putting aside the possibilities of international political developments, no one is ready to say that the Vietnam war is nearer a military solution than it ever was.

This is in the face of the fact that the war seems to be grinding down. For the most part it has shrunk from the big battles and the big offensives and counteroffensives of two years ago to small skirmishes. But guerrilla terrorist attacks, kidnappings, assassinations and sapper assaults serve as a grim reminder of the military situation. In the Saigon region, terror is on the rise.

North Vietnamese infiltration has tapered off by perhaps as much as 50 per cent, but it continues. And lurking along the borders of Cambodia, Laos and the demilitarized zone are North Vietnamese divisions, still as big a threat as ever to South Vietnam.

Allied officials claim that 92.8 per cent of South Vietnam's 18 million residents are living in relative security under the Saigon government's military shield.

But Viet Cong or North Vietnamese forces are still able to launch rocket, mortar or ground assaults on towns or villages.

Most of the villages the Saigon government claims as under its control still have a functioning underground Viet Cong shadow government.

The only outlook for the United States at this point appears to be gradual disengagement.

American forces, once committed to costly large-scale operations in remote hills and jungles, are now in a small-unit war that could go on indefinitely. But they are disengaging just the same.

American battlefield deaths are at a nearly five-year low. During the first eight months of this year, 3,502 Americans were killed in action, about half the number for the same period in 1969 and roughly one-fourth the total for that 1968 period.

"It's a small-unit war, no question about it," says Lt. Gen. Michael S. Davison, commander of the 3rd military region encompassing Saigon and 11 surrounding provinces. A third of all remaining American combat troops are concentrated in this area.

Since the big battle of Hamburger Hill more than a year ago American ground troops have launched no assault against a major North Vietnamese stronghold in South Vietnam where the risk of casualties was great.

The Cambodian offensive last spring was an extraordinary American operation, a one-time shot with a two-month time limit.

Gas Field Said To Be Largest

MIDLAND, Ky. (AP) — The natural gas field under this small crossroads community in west central Kentucky is reputed to be the largest field east of the Mississippi and the most important in the nation.

Estimates say about one-half of the gas has been pumped out of the 11-mile field that averages 1.3 miles wide, leaving room for gas storage.

The field was discovered in 1962.

it to destroy as many North Vietnamese base camps and staging areas as possible. Vietnamization gained impetus from the operation and positioned thousands of American troops for withdrawal from Vietnam. After the Cambodian drive, the U.S. military command withdrew more than two divisions of its troops from the Cambodian border zone into the interior of South Vietnam and replaced them with Vietnamese forces.

Since Hamburger Hill, American forces have abandoned four artillery bases that came under North Vietnamese siege, rather than risk sustained heavy casualties that could trigger another controversy. In the Hamburger Hill period some members of Congress questioned American tactics of taking casualties for what they termed worthless pieces of land.

U.S. forces today are operating for the most part in platoons and squads from 12 to 35 men. Many of these are reconnaissance patrols which back off when they spot an enemy force and call in helicopter gunships, artillery and bombers.

Davison says the South Vietnamese army is more on the offensive in military region 3, an area of 10,000 square miles. It shares 231 miles of border with Cambodia and has 137 miles of coastline.

South Vietnamese forces now handle almost all search and destroy operations. South Vietnamese headquarters has been reporting that its forces conduct more than 50 operations of battalion size or larger every 24 hours, although field reports indicate that some of these are defensive in nature while others include only elements of a battalion.

Lt. Gen. Do Cao Tri, Saigon's commander in the 3rd region, has turned three divisions into a half dozen task forces, each with an armored cavalry regiment. He generally keeps two or three task forces inside Cambodia blocking infiltration corridors and supply routes.

Tri's counterpart, Davison, is beginning to posture his remaining two-plus American combat divisions for further withdrawals planned by President Nixon. Will Saigon's forces be overextended after the remaining Americans pull out?

"You have an evolving situation and it evolves on both sides," says Davison. "That is to say you have an evolving situation on the enemy side of the ledger."

"One would hope that as we continue these operations within military region 3 we will continue to erode the combat effectiveness of the enemy, continue to gather up his supplies and increasingly weaken him so that over a period of time he's going to be weaker, say six months from now, than he is today."

"On the government side of the ledger, at the same time, you've got a slow but nevertheless an increasing effectiveness of the People's Self-Defense Force and of the territorial forces (militiamen or home guard units), and to a lesser extent of the national police. You have the continuing progress of pacification."

"When you look to the future, unless there is some dramatic change in what the enemy currently seems to be doing or capable of doing, I don't think that when the time comes for some of these major (American) units to leave we're going to find the Vietnamese overextended."

It is acknowledged the enemy still is capable of launching large-scale attacks in the northern quarter of South Vietnam. He also may make a move in the southern half of the country once the dry season begins.

The best available estimates put 240,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops in South Vietnam and in border areas of Cambodia and Laos. For example, three North Vietnamese divisions now in Cambodia are listed on the enemy order of battle for South Vietnam.

Infiltration from North Vietnam was reckoned at 5,000 to 7,000 men a month during the first seven months of this year, compared to an average of about 10,000 during 1969.

Analysts expect to know more about the Cambodian operation around the end of the year.

"As of now," said one source, "as a result of the Cambodian incursions, the withdrawal of 150,000 U.S. troops is fully acceptable. The enemy has been denied the border areas and this plus the earlier loss of the port of Sihanoukville is forcing them to look for alternatives."

This man expects an enemy drive in the next four months, quite likely tied to U.S. elections.

"If it happens," he said, "the best bet is that it will be a siege against a border camp in the central highlands. This is what the enemy host likely is capable of."
