

Homecoming 1970 For East Carolina

East Carolina University will celebrate its annual Homecoming Saturday afternoon in Ficklen Stadium at 2 p.m. when the Pirates play host to the Salukis of Southern Illinois University. Two of the top Pirate performers on the field will be quarterback John Casazza, left, and Carl Gordon, split end, at right. And leading on the fans in their cheers for a Buc victory will be cheerleader Susan Walton, center. The Bucs will be wearing their new purple jerseys for the first time in the game. (Reflector Colorphoto by Tommy Forrest)

Tough War Measures Act Invoked

Canada Rounds Up Separatists

OTTAWA (AP) — Police Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau invoked Canada's tough War Measures Act—never before used in peacetime.

Where To Cut?

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott has accused North Carolina Republicans of having a "do nothing" policy. He said "they seem bent on reversing the progress made in our state in recent years."

Scott called upon the Republicans to say what state services they would reduce to save money.

"It's time for them to tell the people so we can hear their answers," the governor told a Ninth Congressional District Democratic rally Thursday night.

"If the Republicans would stop reading statistical lists backwards," Scott said, "they might learn something about our state government. North Carolina has a high level of services for low costs."

"Just where would the Republicans cut back? They want to save. Would they slow down mental health programs or the special help for retarded children? Or maybe stop single people from receiving a $2,000 exemption on their state taxes? Or would the Republicans tell the Highway Patrol to trim its training in riot control tactics in order to save money?"

"Most of our tax money is going to help our young people. Do the Republicans want to slice the budget for educational programs?"

The governor told the rally that 10,700 Tar Heel textile employees are out of work and more than 100,000 other North Carolinians are unemployed. He said a "severe economic slowdown" has resulted in the nation since President Nixon took office.

Besieged Coeds Readily Give Up Booty To Campus Panty-Raiders

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Groups of East Carolina University male students, encouraged by cheering females, staged "attacks" on womens residence hall fortresses last night and early this morning and came away...

To onlookers, it was hard to tell just who was the victor—the men or the women.

The men students made several little forays before staging a mass assault on the dorms in the area of the Mall—principally Cotten and Jarvis Halls—about 11 p.m.

The attackers milled about outside the dorm, encouraging the women to toss out the filmy undergarments they wished as their prizes. And many female students surrendered the undergarments.

After retreating from a "counter attack" by University officials, including police and

Dean of Men James Mallory, the men returned to their College Hill Drive dorms, but only to regroup and return, this time to strike at the high-rise dorms at the Western tip of the campus near downtown Greenville.

The male student's major success was at Green Dorm—a 10-story residence hall for girls—where panties and bras fluttered from upper-story windows in great numbers.

The young males—as if in a ballet—would run from the cover of darkness and into the glare of lights surrounding the building and jumping to meet their descending booty, pluck the fluttering prizes from the air.

One pair of girls sprung an unsuspecting trap for one attacker.

As a male stooped to retrieve a pair of pink panties tossed to the ground by one girl, another emptied a large waste can full of water on the unsuspecting male male.

At one point, girls in Green Dorm, who had been "surrendering" their undergarments, began demanding retribution by chanting "We want boxers."

And to testify to the good-natured feeling prevailing throughout the series of events, Dean Mallory was seen holding out a female undergarment at arms length and offering it to one of the students.

"Here it is if you want it," the dean said. And one brave soul rushed forward and plucked the prize from the official's hand.

Later, as some of the men gathered again on College Hill Drive, Mallory told them, "You've had your fun, now return to your dorms." He warned, "Anyone going back to the other side of the campus will be subject to disciplinary action."

A "thank you, Dean Mallory" was heard coming from the crowd. Other voices said "come on, let's get back to the dorm," and the group turned toward

Football Injury Is Fatal

Edgar "Trey" Barrett III, the 16-year-old New Hanover High School boy who was injured in his team's game with Rose High School here last Friday night, died last night at 6:30 in Pitt Memorial Hospital.

He had sustained a broken neck while tackling a Rose player and had been paralyzed from the shoulders down since that time.

The family—his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Barrett Jr. of Wilmington and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Ed Barrett Sr. of Atlanta, Ga.—stayed here last night, but were to go to Wilmington this morning.

The body was at the Yopp Funeral Home in Wilmington today, but the funeral and burial will be handled by the Gammage Funeral Home in Cedartown, Ga. The Barretts moved to Wilmington from Cedartown in July, 1969.

Also surviving is a sister, Miss Diane Barrett of Wilmington. Rose High School principal Robert Allgood expressed sympathy saying, "This is very unfortunate. We are all saddened by Trey's death. It has been a great shock to all our students."

Guardsmen Defended 25 Indicted For Kent Violence By Grand Jury

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP) — A special grand jury probing last May's violence at Kent State University indicted 25 persons today while clearing Ohio National Guardsmen from any prosecution for deaths and injuries on the campus.

Identities of those indicted and the nature of the charges were not made public pending notification to the persons charged. A total of 43 offenses were alleged in 30 bills.

The jury's report, released by Common Pleas Judge Edwin Jones, defended Guardsmen who were on campus when four students were shot to death and nine others wounded May 4.

"We do not condone all of the activities of the National Guard on the Kent State University campus on May 4," the jury report said. "We find, however, that those members of the National Guard who were present on the hill adjacent to Taylor Hall (scene of the shooting) on May 4 fired their weapons in the honest and sincere belief and under circumstances which would have logically caused them to believe that they would suffer serious bodily injury had they not done so."

"They are not, therefore, subject to criminal prosecution under the laws of this state for any death or injury resulting therefrom."

The jury report stated that incidents, gatherings and rallies in the town of Kent on May 1 and on the campus May 2 and May 3 "constituted a riot."

It said a gathering on the campus May 4 was in violation of a directive issued by a university official and that the participants failed to disperse on orders.

"These orders," the report said, "caused a violent reaction and the gathering quickly degenerated into a riotous mob."

It noted that circumstances in the city of Kent after the afternoon of May 2 "necessitated the request for assistance of the National Guard."

The report noted that 58 Guardsmen were injured by objects thrown at them on May 4.

"The circumstances present at that time," the report stated, "indicate that 74 men surrounded by several hundred hostile rioters were forced to retreat back up the hill ... under a constant barrage of rocks and other flying objects, accompanied by a constant flow of obscenities and chants such as 'Kill, Kill, Kill ...'"

Rule Stocks 'Not Guilty'

By TOM BAINES
and STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writers

After a one hour and seven minute deliberation yesterday, the 12-member jury panel that heard the Thomas Earl Stocks rape-burglary trial in Pitt County Superior Court returned a verdict of 'not guilty' on both of the capital charges.

Judge Joshua S. James completed his charge to the jury just before 2:45 p.m. and instructed them to retire for deliberation and "return with a verdict of what the truth is."

At 3:52 the jury returned to the courtroom and announced that they had decided on their verdict.

Their 'not guilty' decision concluded the capital case against Stocks, charged in connection with an April 27 incident at Brook Valley in which Mrs. Ann Baker Barry was assaulted.

A Negro, Elmo Barber, was convicted on rape and burglary charges during the August term of Superior Court and sentenced to life imprisonment. His case is under appeal to the North Carolina Supreme Court.

Stocks is being held in Pitt County Jail under $5,000 bond on charges of breaking-entering and larceny in connection with an April 26 incident at Whickard's Store in Grimesland. No date has been set for a hearing on that case.

He is also being held on a charge of violation of probation relating to a six-months sentence given him by Judge Charles Whedbee on Nov. 21, 1968 for assault on a female.

Testimony was concluded in the Stocks trial on Wednesday and defense attorneys Milton Williamson and Clifton W. Everett Jr. and prosecuting attorneys, District Solicitor Luther Hamilton Jr. and John B. Lewis began their arguments before the jury Wednesday afternoon.

During testimony in the trial, which followed the selection of a 12-member jury and two alternates, Judge James had ruled admissible an alleged statement of Stocks to officers in which he admitted his involvement in the Brook Valley incident.

Stocks took the stand in the absence of the jury and told the court that he had no memory of making any statement implicating himself in the alleged crime.

The print examiner identified other latent prints "lifted" by investigators as being finger and palm prints of Mrs. Barry and her husband Steven Barry.

Conover testified that no identification was made with one other palm print found at the home. The unidentified print was compared with Stocks, he said, and was "not identical."

Myron T. Scholberg, a hair and fiber examiner with the FBI told the jury during the trial that he had examined the bed clothes from Mrs. Barry's bed and clothes allegedly used by Stocks and Barber on the night of the incident.

He testified that grey wool fibers "microscopically identical" to samples taken from a pair of grey wool trousers identified as belonging to Stocks, were found on the bed clothing.

The FBI examiner, in noting that there was no transfer of fibers from the bed coverings to the clothes of Stocks or Barber, pointed out that hair and fiber comparison is not an exact science.

Scholberg said that somewhere there may be another sample of cloth with the same wear, same exposure to

"The testimony of the students and Guardsmen is clear that several members of the Guard were knocked to the ground or to their knees by the force of the objects thrown at them. Although some rioters claim that only a few rocks were thrown, the testimony ... has established that 200 bricks were taken from a nearby construction site."

The jury noted that while it agrees "with the principle of law that words alone are never sufficient to justify the use of lethal force, the verbal abuse directed at the Guardsmen by the students during the period in question represented a level of obscenity and vulgarity which we have never before witnessed. The epithets directed at the Guardsmen and members of their families by male and female rioters alike would have been unbelievable had they not been confirmed by the testimony from every quarter and by audio tapes made available to the grand jury."

The jury reported that while Guardsmen who fired weapons acted in self-defense, it "is not an endorsement by us of the manner in which those in command of the National Guard reacted."

"We have concluded," the report added, "that the group of Guardsmen who were ordered to disperse the crowd on the commons were placed in an untenable and dangerous position."

It also criticized the weapons used by Guardsmen as being "not appropriate in quelling campus disorders," and noted National Guard commanding officers agreed.

State Adj. Gen. Sylvester T. Del Corso disclosed last week he has asked the Department of the Army for nearly $500,000 worth of non-lethal weapons and protective gear for Guardsmen.

The jury also disagreed with recent criticism of the guard for being sent into campus disorders with live ammunition.

"Guardsmen should be furnished with weapons that will afford them the necessary protection under the existing conditions," the jury reported.

Sec. Rogers And Gromyko To Talk Issues Tonight

By LEWIS GULICK
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers pursues the Middle East issue with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko tonight following talks with

Egypt's foreign minister indicating how difficult it will be to get peace negotiations started. "At the moment, I cannot say that there is any progress," Cairo's foreign minister, Mahmoud Riad, reported Thursday night after a session in Rogers' hotel suite lasting nearly two hours. The two did agree to meet again during the current round of conferences among foreign leaders attending the U.N. General Assembly's 25th anniversary session.

Riad addresses the General Assembly today, a speech which diplomats are watching closely for clues on Cairo's post-Nasser foreign policy. On Thursday, he successfully sought General Assembly debate on the Arab-Israeli controversy starting Oct. 26, right after the anniversary observance ends. U.S. strategists have been cool to such a debate now, believing that quiet backstage diplomacy rather than public speechmaking is more likely to bring Arab-Israeli negotiations. The Rogers-Gromyko sessions—another is scheduled Monday—will also range over President Nixon's new Vietnam peace offer, Berlin, strategic arms curb talks and other East-West issues. In a general way, these meetings will give U.S. policymakers a high-level sounding as to whether the Kremlin is turning to a hard line.

Backers of Nixon's "era of negotiations" policy have been particularly concerned over what they term blatant Soviet and Egyptian violations of the current Middle East cease-fire by setting up more missiles in the standstill zone along the Suez Canal.

Moscow and Cairo deny violating the U.S.-sponsored cease-fire deal. Israel says it won't return to the peace negotiations unless the missiles are pulled back. And Rogers is seeking enough "rectification" of the alleged violations to get the Middle East opponents into conference.

U.S. officials said Rogers took up the alleged violations with Riad. They gave no indication that he made any headway on this point though they said the discussion was friendly.

Riad, speaking to newsmen afterward, declined to discuss the alleged violations but agreed with the U.S. officials that "this time we didn't come to any specific agreement."

He voiced hope that the U.N. debate will produce new recommendations for carrying out the Security Council's 1967 resolution for peace in the Middle East.

On the 90-day cease-fire, due to expire Nov. 5, Riad said Egypt had accepted it only as a temporary measure to help U.N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring launch the negotiations which broke down shortly after they started.

Riad left the way open for extending the cease-fire, saying "we will be willing to give all the time needed" if a "genuine effort" for peace develops. His government said earlier this week that Egypt would not agree to an extension unless Israel returned to the talks with Jarring.

Rogers' round of appointments for today also including meetings with Secretary-General U Thant, Jarring, the president of Gabon and the Italian foreign minister.

New Economic Data Has Glow

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — With the off-year election less than three weeks away, the Nixon administration has received new economic data that could be handy in countering campaign charges that the nation is headed for a recession. But Democrats, too, got what could be political ammunition from other major economic indicators announced Thursday.

While the Gross National Product, which measures the market value of the nation's total output in goods and services, climbed at a 6 per cent annual rate during the July-September period, industrial production fell sharply, by 1.7 per cent, during September.

The GNP rise represented moderately good political news for the administration. It indicated perhaps the first stages of recovery from the economic stagnation that began a year ago.

Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, said "It is quite clear that the economy is on the threshold and probably in the early stages of substantial and vigorous expansion."

In talking with newsmen, McCracken said, "I think the evidence is clear that the rate of inflation has decelerated significantly."

But the climb wasn't as high as the administration had hoped. And because of the auto workers' strike, the inflation rate kept going up, to an annual rate of 4.4 per cent for the three-month period compared with 4.3 per cent for the previous quarter.

The Commerce Department said GNP for the third quarter totaled $95.2 billion at a seasonally adjusted annual rate, up $14.1 billion from the second-quarter figure.

The "real" GNP—which measures the nation's output without inflation—rose 1.4 per cent to $92.4 billion. The "real" GNP measures the value of goods and services produced during the three months in terms of 1958 dollars.

The United Auto Workers strike against General Motors held back the GNP again significantly.

A Commerce Department analyst said without the strike the rise would have been 6.7 per cent and the increase in actual output would have been about 2.5 per cent. In addition, he said, the inflation rate would have dropped to 4.2 per cent.

The strike's impact on the September industrial production index was dramatic. It fell to 166 per cent of the 1957-1959 average, the lowest figure in two years.

The Federal Reserve Board said the index was down from the 168.9 per cent registered in August and 4.9 per cent below the peak of July 1969.

The strike accounted for two-thirds of the decline, the board said, with the remainder reflecting decreases in production of consumer goods other than autos, business and defense equipment, and other materials.

Bill Signed Transit Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, who during his recent European trip experienced some of the jet-age traffic snarls that plague American travelers at home, has signed a bill pledging $3.1 billion to help cities develop mass transit systems.

Nixon noted that it took him an hour or two to fly between capital cities but the drive in from the airport "was as great or greater than the time it took to fly hundreds of miles."

The bill he signed Thursday expresses the intention of Congress to provide $10 billion during the next 12 years to improve or build subway and bus systems, thereby lessening commuter auto congestion and air pollution.

The measure earmarks $80 million this fiscal year, with about $1.86 billion to have been spent at the end of five years. The balance of $1.24 billion will be available after that.

Federal grants or loans also will be available to private transit systems. Cities are authorized to enter into contracts at once, with federal aid paying up to two-thirds the cost, to give assurance the full $3.1 billion will be provided.

State Fair Is Opened

RALEIGH (AP) — The 103rd North Carolina State Fair opened a nine-day run today.

Exhibitors will compete for prizes totaling more than $90,000.

The theme of this year's fair is "Salute to Agriculture." The fair will honor farm families who have held their land 100 years or more.

A late model stock car race will be held Saturday on the grandstand track. Harness horse racing is scheduled next Tuesday and Friday.

The Carolina Cougars will open their 1970 Raleigh basketball season Sunday afternoon by playing the Kentucky Colonels in Dorton Arena at the fair.

The entertainment program in the arena begins at 7:30 tonight with the Jimmy Dean Show.

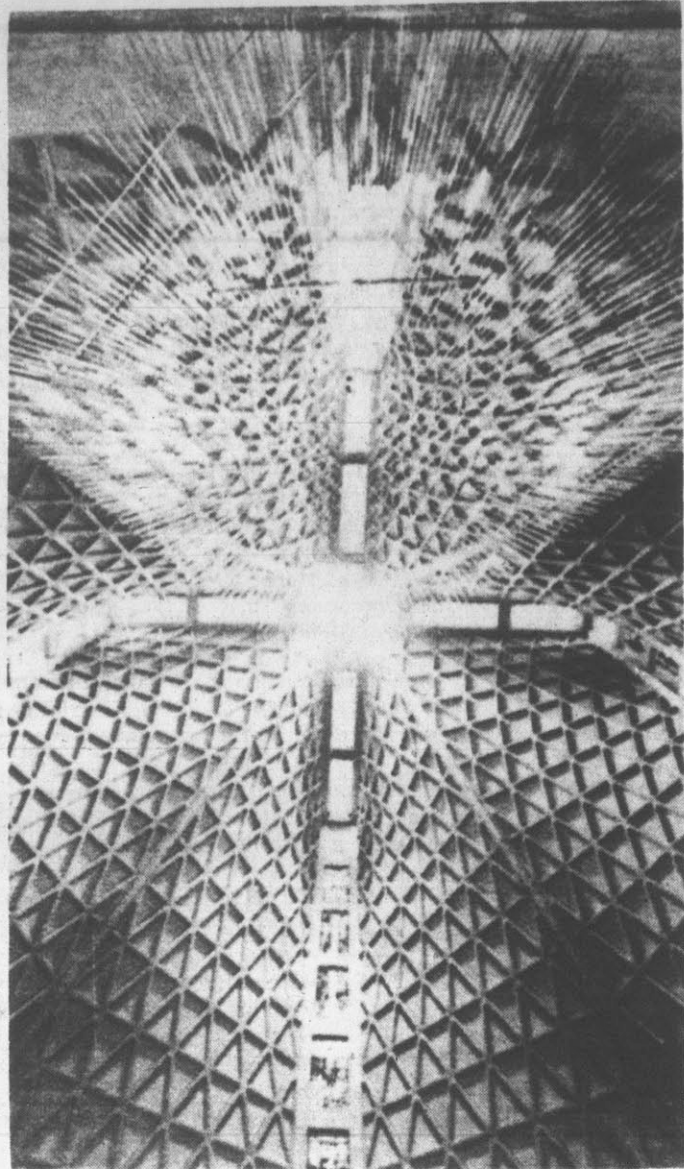

The James E. Strates rides and shows will provide the entertainment on the midway.

Assist Lenore Mrs. Nixon Will

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Lenore Romney, Republican nominee for the U.S. Senate in the Nov. 3 election, has announced that Mrs. Richard M. Nixon will visit the Detroit area Monday.

Mrs. Romney is regarded as the underdog in her race against the incumbent Democrat, Philip A. Hart.

She said Thursday she and Mrs. Nixon would tour the Detroit metropolitan area.

Agnew Says Humphrey Is 'Political Turncoat'

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III
Associated Press Writer
ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew says Hubert H. Humphrey has pulled the "political turncoat act of the year" by "viciously and personally" attacking former President Lyndon B. Johnson. Agnew made his assertion at a political rally Thursday in Jacksonville before coming here at the windup of a four-day campaign swing on behalf of Republican candidates in the Nov. 3 election.

He said he referred to an interview in which the former vice president, now running for the U.S. Senate in Minnesota, was quoted by the New York Times Magazine as saying Johnson was "absolutely paranoid about the war in Vietnam."

Agnew described this as an attack on "a man without whom he would never have been a vice president or a presidential candidate."

Advised of Agnew's remarks, Humphrey commented at St. Paul, Minn.:

"I'm glad to be included among the group of illustrious Americans who have so far been tarred and feathered by his illustrious brush. It was bound to come."

Agnew's Florida appearances wind up one of his most lucrative campaign swings, adding half a million dollars to the Republican party treasury in four days.

The amount amassed in the trip to Texas, Delaware and Florida brought his total for the year to more than $6 million, according to campaign aides.

Agnew planned to play golf today and Saturday at the Bay Hills Country Club outside of Orlando after a morning news conference.

Agnew's appearances in Florida were in behalf of U.S. Rep. William C. Cramer, who is running for the U.S. Senate seat being vacated by retiring Democrat Spessard Holland, and Gov. Claude Kirk, who is running for election to his second four-year term.

Egypt's Voters Confirm Sadat

By FAROUK NASSAR
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Anwar Sadat today was formally proclaimed president of Egypt for the next six years after receiving a 90.4 per cent "yes" vote in the national referendum Thursday, Cairo radio said.

Sadat, 51 and Egypt's acting president since the death of Gamal Abdel Nasser on Sept. 28, got 6,432,587 yes votes to 711,252 nos, Interior Minister Sharawi Gomaia told a broadcast news conference. He said there were 13,814 invalid votes.

Gomaia said 85 per cent of the eligible voters turned out. Sadat's election by an overwhelming majority was assured by an intensive nationwide campaign on his behalf by other leaders and Egypt's controlled press and radio. There was no other candidate, and no opposition to Sadat was heard in public.

Meanwhile, shooting broke out in the heart of Amman early Thursday night as Palestinian guerrillas distributed Fatah, the commando newspaper. One guerrilla was critically wounded, and an unconfirmed report said he died in a hospital.

Eyewitnesses said Jordanian security forces opened fire on a car carrying several commandos. The car caught fire and burned. Its back seat was filled with hundreds of charred copies of the newspaper.

It was the second shooting incident involving the paper. Shooting had broken out in the morning near the plant at which it was printed.

The wounded man was believed to be the driver of the car.

The shooting came less than 48 hours after King Hussein and guerrilla leader Yasir Arafat signed a new agreement. Under the agreement, the commandos are allowed to publish and distribute their newspaper, the most widely read in Amman, with its two-thirds Palestinian population. It was the first daily paper to reappear since the fighting between the army and guerrillas began Sept. 17.

Would Redouble Safety Efforts

WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott wants North Carolina to redouble efforts to halt the upward trend of traffic accidents.

The reduction in traffic deaths during the last two years is not an indication of a successful traffic program, Scott said Thursday in a taped presentation to the Governor's Conference on Highway Safety.

"To judge a highway safety program successful," Scott said, "there must be a clear, definite and consistent reduction in the number of accidents. Unfortunately, the accident trend in North Carolina has been upward not downward in recent years."

More GIs Die Of Non-Hostile Causes

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — American casualties in Vietnam are dropping to the level where nearly as many GIs are dying from accidents, illness or disease as are killed in combat.

In fact, the number has been almost equal over the past two weeks.

For the first time since 1965 when the United States began its rapid buildup of forces in Vietnam, more Americans died in a single week from nonhostile causes than were killed in battle.

That was the week of Sept. 27-Oct. 3 when 41 Americans died from nonhostile causes and 38 were killed in action, a 4½-year low.

Last week's casualty toll, announced Thursday in Saigon, showed 46 GIs killed. It marked the 15th consecutive week that U.S. battlefield deaths were under 90. Nonhostile deaths numbered 37.

While combat deaths have dropped to the lowest level in nearly five years, the weekly number of nonhostile deaths has held fairly steady. In the past 15 weeks, for example, they ranged from a weekly high of 48 to a low of 24.

A Pentagon official said there is always bound to be a number of deaths from accidents, illness or other causes among a large number of people, whether civilian or military. Some 380,000 U.S. Troops are now in Vietnam.

Since the war began, 43,821 Americans have been killed in action. Another 8,659 have died from nonhostile causes. So far this year, 3,793 have been killed in combat while 1,436 died from other causes.

In the Pentagon's grim statistics, nonhostile deaths are listed under 17 categories. The biggest killer is aircraft accidents, followed by such miscellaneous mishaps as falling off a motorcycle or being run over by a car on a Saigon street.

Miracle Needed

RALEIGH (AP) — The director of the North Carolina Bureau of Investigation says only a miracle can halt the drug abuse problem in the state.

The director, Charles Dunn, said Thursday that although the war is continuing the battle against drug abuse in the state is lost for the moment. He added, "I have no optimism. It's going to be a long, hard road ahead."

Dunn spoke at the closing session of the state hospital auxiliary meeting in Raleigh. He said North Carolina has the two necessary prerequisites for the spread of drugs—money and people with problems.

"We are finding these two everywhere—in universities, in urban areas, in rural areas and around military bases—and so are the drugs," Dunn said.

New Officers Of Rainbow Order Hold First Stated Meet

The first stated meeting for the new corps of officers of Greenville Assembly No. 67, Order of the Rainbow for Girls, was held Monday evening.

This was the initial meeting since the recent public installation. At this meeting, it was necessary to elect, appoint and install officers to fill remaining officer vacancies.

The program was opened by Debbie Hartsell, past worthy advisor, who served as installing officer. Other installing officers were: Sandy Tharp, P.W.A., installing chaplain; Karen Harris, P.W.A., installing recorder; Kathy Harris, P.W.A., installing marshal; and Mrs. Jean Tharp, P. M. A., installing musician.

New officers installed included: Josie Boyette, worthy advisor; Paula Rogers, worth associate advisor; Sheri Mosely, charity; Sarah Hagan, hope; Nancy Murray, faith; Cathy Gipson, chaplain; Jan Smith, drill leader; Kathy Gaskins, love; Becky Sue Mohle, religion; Terry Barnes, nature; Gwen Rogers, immortality; Linda Blackwell, fidelity; Wendy Harris, patriotism; Mona Rogers service; Linda Fleming, confidential observer; Gwen Harrison, outer observer; Cynthia Averette, musician; Jo Anna Paul, choir director; and members of the choir, Faye Matthews, Betty Gipson, Letty Gipson, Cindy Squires, and Vickie Westbrook.

Officers continuing in their stations are: Paulette Hughes, recorder; and Kathy Harris, treasurer.

Following the installation ceremony, Miss Boyette made her acceptance speech. She welcomed all who were present and expressed appreciation to everyone who had been of assistance to her in preparing for the installation, especially Mrs. Pearl Hartsell, the mother advisor. She presented Mrs. Hartsell a corsage.

Past worthy advisor Sandy Tharp was conducted to the altar, where special music, "Over The Rainbow," was played for her, after which she was conducted to the east. Her mother, Mrs. Bryce Tharp, presented her with a past worth advisor's jewel.

Mrs. Hartsell spoke and presented merit bars to those who had earned them. Special music, "America," was played for the newly installed worthy advisor her symbol for her term in office is the American flag.

Following the altar ceremony, Fred Rogers, chairman of the Advisory Board, gave the Benediction, after which the officers had their retiring drill. A reception followed immediately in the dining room of the Masonic Temple where refreshments were served by Parents' Right In Grounding?

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 15-year-old girl and I am being grounded for a whole month for something I don't see anything wrong with.

I was invited to a party at a girl friend's house, and went—with my parents' permission. My boy friend picked me up at 7 o'clock and I told my mother I would be home at 11 o'clock as it was a school night.

When I got into the car there was another couple there, and they suggested driving downtown first, so we did. We noticed there was a movie playing that we all wanted to see, so we went to the movie instead and had a bite afterwards. I got home at exactly 11 o'clock like I said.

My mother was standing in the doorway waiting for me, and boy, was she ever mad! She said she wanted to tell me something so she called my girl friend's house and I wasn't there.

She accused me of lying to her, which I didn't do, as we changed our plans after I got into the car. You be the judge, Abby. Did I do anything bad enough to get grounded for a month?

OKLAHOMA CITY

DEAR OK: That is [and was] up to your mother to decide. You should have telephoned your mother as soon as you changed your plans. The one unpardonable "crime," as parents view it, is changing signals and not letting parents know you weren't where you said you'd be.

DEAR ABBY: Walter is 45 and we have been married for 24 years. Our only child was recently married which leaves us entirely alone again. Well, as soon as our son went on his honeymoon, so did my husband. Right here at home. He is making a wreck of me, Abby. Our marriage never lacked love before, but you would think it did the way he acts now. I have to lock the bathroom door when I take a bath because Walter wants to jump into the tub with me. Believe me, I am not all that irresistible. I am 44 and look my age. What should I do?

WALTER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Lock the bathroom door. And tell Walter to take showers. Cold ones!

DEAR ABBY: You are the only person I can tell my problem to. My daughter has recently married a fine young man who lives in our town. She did "well" by anybody's standards, and is starting out with much more than I have, after 25 years of marriage.

She has always been a good daughter and I considered myself a good mother, but we have never been "pals" in the sense that two girls would be. She has suddenly found a "pal" in her mother in law, who has never had a daughter. They go everywhere together. They even dress alike, and see each other every day—practically all day.

Of course I am glad they get along, but I am very hurt. Perhaps I'm jealous. But how do I calm this aching heart?

HURT MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: The mother in law bit is "new" to your daughter, as is the "daughter" bit to her mother in law. In any case, don't be "hurt" or jealous of a relationship you declined to have with your daughter while she was growing up. She's a big girl now and if she wants to pal around with her mother in law, it's her right.

DEAR ABBY: First let me say that we have been married for 15 years and my husband is no saint. (Neither am I.) But he does something which makes up for an awful lot.

He has never left the supper table without first complimenting me in some way, then he will walk around and give me a kiss and say, "Thanks."

The nicest thing about this little ritual is that our children have picked it up, and I'm certain it will remain with them thruout their lives.

GRATEFUL IN MONTANA

Interest Group

To Meet Monday

All members of the East Carolina University Faculty Women's Club are invited to participate in the bridge interest group.

The group meets each Monday evening from 7:30-10 o'clock in room 212 of the University Union. No advance reservations are necessary and beginning players are welcomed.

On Oct. 19 and Nov. 9, the group will meet in room 204 of the union. Mrs. Diane B. Hankins is acting chairman of the bridge interest group.

Ho-Hum Attitude On Birthday

CIRE, France (WNS)—It rained so hard here on Bastille Day, the 14th of July, that the traditional fireworks could not be shot off. What to do with the fireworks? The mayor and his town council went into session and ordered that they be kept until September. Now they have been shot off on the 102nd birthday of Marie Layet, the town's oldest inhabitant. Mme. Layet was not present for the evening festivities. "I always go to bed with the chickens," she apologized.

Planning Now For New Growth

No one knows how rapidly Greenville will grow in the years ahead; however it is certain that plans for growth must be made if we are provided the facilities needed in future years.

That is what the Utilities Commission has done in an area to the south and east of the present city limits. The engineering firm of Rivers and Associates has prepared a long range study of sewer needs for several miles outside the city limits

Confidence In Young People

By BRYAN HAISLIP
HIGH POINT, N.C.—The saving sanity for a world rolling merrily towards destruction may come from the young.

Capus Waynick has that confidence in the present generation. From the vantage point of experience including assorted careers in politics and public service, his eyes gleam as he looks to the future.

"We'll snap out of some of the things that ails us," he said. "I'm aware of the frustrations and pessimism of the times, and that they are widespread and deep. But we're not going to commit suicide. I am incurably an optimist."

That buoyant attitude accompanied him through half a century as newspaper editor, legislator, state official at levels from highway chairman to adjutant general, political strategist, diplomat, and aide to governors and presidents. It remains today in retirement at Fieldstone, his 18th century farmhouse residence in the outer reaches of High Point.

Still jaunty at 80—a total of years refuted by the firmness of his grip and the sparkle of his wit—Waynick observes the current scene with active interest. He reads, writes a weekly column of comment for the High Point Enterprise which he once served as editor, and spends time on the nine-hole pitch-and-putt golf course which is part of this 25-acre miniature estate.

Champion of Youth

A role for youth is no recent cause for Waynick. He advocated the vote for 18-year-olds in a speech at Duke University as Democratic state chairman in 1948. "It's a cliché but there's truth in it: if a young man is old enough to be drafted to fight for his country, he's old enough to exercise the privilege of the ballot," he said.

His premise is that responsibility can sober unrest. "A lot of these young folks out raising Cain and asking questions can be given something constructive to do," he said. "Responsibility can be a very steady thing, you know."

Waynick was born on a Rockingham County farm, moved to Greensboro at an early age and entered journalism as a newspaperboy. Later he was city editor of the Greensboro Record and worked on other North Carolina newspapers, including the High Point editorship.

He was elected to the House and the Senate in the early '30s, and had a hand in the enactment of the sales tax as a means of saving the state's school system in the Depression.

Governor J.C.B. Ehringhaus made him chairman of the State Highway Commission. "They spend more on right-of-way today than I spent to build roads," he chuckled, "but that's a circumstance of changing times. Our road system shows the work of very skillful planners over the last few years."

Friends tease him that he is the only former highway chairman whose home is on a dirt road.

An Uphill Victory

When W. Kerr Scott—father of the present governor—ran for governor in 1948 he picked Waynick as campaign manager. That led to his assignment as Democratic state chairman with responsibility for guiding the party in the general election that year. President Truman headed the ticket, rebellious Southern leaders put a third party into the field, and many Tar Heel candidates and party members were in dismay.

Waynick stilled the voices of alarm, arranged North Carolina appearances for Truman and Alben Barkley, the Vice Presidential candidate—against the advice of old-line Democrats—and carried the state by a handsome majority.

A grateful Truman named him Ambassador to Nicaragua, later director of the Point Four program of aid to underdeveloped countries, and again an Ambassador, this time to Colombia.

Governor Luther Hodges made him state adjutant general. Career military men, first horrified, later lauded him for his service. Governor Terry Sanford tapped him as an aide on race relations, another assignment in a difficult area.

The compendium of his accomplishments is embarrassing to Waynick. An introducer once went through the entire list in presenting him. Waynick caught a loud aside from the audience: "That fellow hasn't been able to hold a job worth a damn, has he?"

The sociable pursuits of fun and games have never been neglected. He plays bridge and poker, golf and tennis, with the same easy excellence that he gave to diplomacy and affairs of state.

After a talk at Davidson College, an earnest sophomore asked Waynick what he majored in at college.

"Draw poker," he replied with only a hint of a smile.

in these directions.

The study showed that for a time the sewer system can be extended somewhat beyond the present city limits and the sewage can be treated at the present sewage treatment plant. Eventually, however, two additional plant locations will have to be established.

No one knows how long it will be before this entire area is developed and becomes a part of the city and there is no way to tell which portion of the area will develop first.

With such studies as this, however, the Utilities Commission will have some idea of what size lines to install as the area develops and they also know that eventually they will have to provide new treatment plants.

A similar study has already been done north of the river and it has proven helpful in projects that have been carried out there.

City planning must extend beyond the city limits if we are to avoid some of the problems which have hampered our development in the past.

Public Can Only Be Satisfied By Results

President Nixon has pledged "We will win" against the Mafia but only results will convince the American public.

The president signed an anticrime bill and said it would give federal authorities the tools for an all-out war on the Mafia.

If the country expects to bring crime in the streets and dope trafficking under control, certainly it will first have to destroy the major underworld syndicates.

No doubt these new laws are a step in the right direction but a vigorous effort will be required by the government before the president's pledge is carried out.

The Old Guard Is Resentful

By ROWLANDE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WATERTOWN, Mass. — Open wounds inflicted on the Democratic party by the nationwide campaign to purge the party's old-guard Congressmen can be clearly seen in the intense reaction by this Boston suburb's regular Democrats to their new nominee for Congress, Father Robert F. Drinan.

They will never forgive the leftist Jesuit priest for defeating 72-year-old Rep. Philip Philbin in the Sept. 15 Democratic primary. Typically, State Rep. Charles Ohanian, who ran third in the primary, had been telling friends he would vote for the Republican Nov. 3 and urging them to do the same. Last week's decision by Philbin to stage a write-in campaign saved the Ohanians from the stigma of supporting a Republican.

Nor is this hostility likely to subside. If Drinan wins as expected, he will be challenged in the 1972 primary—perhaps by Ohanian. If Drinan wins renomination, there again will be defections in November. This, then, is no ordinary factionalism but constant internal warfare which drains a political party's vitality.

Such warfare is a by-product of the purge campaign conducted across the country under the spiritual guidance of Prof. John Kenneth Galbraith. Although surprisingly successful in defeating incumbents from Oakland to Manhattan's lower East Side, the purgers are widening the dangerous gap between liberal and working man inside the party.

The gap is inherent in Philbin's district, once composed wholly of old factory towns but now including the rich, liberal suburbs of Newton and Lincoln. With the intensity common to the peace movement and with generous financing, Drinan's supporters flooded the polls Sept. 15 while the rundown regular organization didn't get out Philbin's factory workers. The result was a comfortable Drinan win in a 24 percent turnout.

The reformers' intensity, more than ideology, has kept the regulars from accepting the primary's outcome. They feel the Drinan campaign painted Philbin as a senile cretin. Ohanian, a 34-year-old liberal in the state legislature, was appalled to find Drinan aides had probed into his life, personal and public, looking for soft spots. The great game of politics had become total war.

Father Drinan's own unique personality—excitable, puckish, voluble, changeable—contributes to the resentment. State Rep. John McGlennon, his 35-year-old Republican foe, says Drinan told him personally last week with witnesses present: "I'm going to destroy you." The personal animus against Drinan by his foes, Republican and Democratic, is extraordinary.

But beyond personality in this campaign lies ideology. Philbin was fingered originally by Prof. Galbraith because he supported the Vietnam war. The election of Drinan and other left reformers pushes the party's overall stance away from the middle road, presenting an opportunity for Republicans to woo blue-collar voters.

In this district particularly, the Republicans are being propelled to the right. As a liberal Republican, McGlennon had planned to oppose Philbin from his left, picking up Newton and

Strength For Today

THE FUTILITY OF WAR

Yes—futility. To say this is not to advocate pacifism. Because we are the kind of people we are, we can expect wars to continue for some generations to come. But why can't we learn that war never gets us anywhere? We must, of course, keep ourselves armed. Nations that talk in honeyed tones might indeed cut our throats if they got half a chance or if they thought it would get them more power and wealth.

But if history teaches any one lesson it is that wars are never worth what they cost. Ten years after a war is over it is generally discovered that the nation which lost the war came out better in the end than the nation which won the war.

Everything settled by war

By Earl L. Douglass

By ART BUCHWALD 'Rhetoric Commission'

WASHINGTON — The Commission on Obscenity and Pornography has just released its controversial report on the effects of pornography on the American people, particularly children. While this commission was getting all the publicity, another commission was studying the effects of political rhetoric and invective on Americans.

The conclusions of this latter commission may have a much more lasting impact on the country.

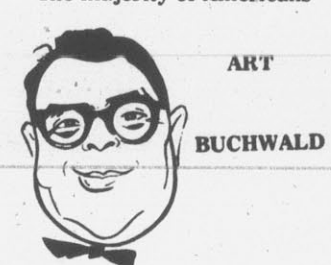

The Commission on Political Rhetoric and Invective studied speeches by many candidates, but made the most use of those given by Vice President Spiro Agnew. In a footnote on the first page, the commission said it was not picking on Mr. Agnew, but since most people had been exposed to Agnew's rhetoric, it was easier to study reactions to his words than a politician running for a minor office.

Here are some of the findings of the study:

Most people were not permanently affected by exposure to one of the Vice President's speeches, though many are titillated by him. Only a small minority admitted to having any lascivious thoughts after reading one.

The majority of Americans interviewed said they believed that adult people should be allowed to hear Agnew's speeches if they wished to. But many of those interviewed said they didn't believe the speeches should be made available to children.

The commission revealed that, surprisingly, those interested in what Agnew has to say are not just people looking for cheap thrills. Many came from fine middle-class homes and are considered by their neighbors to be pillars of the community.

There is a double standard in this country toward Agnew's talks. Many people who criticize Agnew publicly commit political invective in their own bedrooms when the shades are drawn.

The commission hired participants for a laboratory

Youth Can't Wait

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — One of the things adults can't understand about children is why they are in such a hurry to grow up.

To a child growing up is the all-important goal in life. If you ask him why he is so impatient to achieve this aim, he is likely to reply:

"Because nobody can tell a grown-up what to do. He can stay up late if he wants to, and doesn't have to eat everything that everybody tells him he has to. He can do anything he wants to all the time."

It is only after the child has been grown up a while that it dawns on him that he has merely gone from a small prison to a larger one, and that his expected greater freedom is a fraud. Then he wonders, too late, why he was so desperate to become an adult.

He looks back with earning on the days before, and these are a few of the things he misses from his vanished childhood:

Asking a little girl friend if she'd like to play house. "You be the door, Marie, and I'll slam you. Ha, ha, ha!"

Fighting, leaden-eyed, a failing fight to stay up on Christmas Eve and watch Santa Claus slide down the chimney.

Making ice cream out of snow and frozen cream on a wintry day.

Skinny dipping in the old swimming hole, and holding your breath under water when the afternoon train went by.

Satisfying a sudden afternoon hunger with a piece of bread covered with layers of butter, mustard and sugar.

Falling in love with a disdainful red-haired girl in kindergarten, a puppy romance destined to leave an everlasting scar.

Gaining some insight into the eternal mystery of life by watching a tadpole change into a frog.

Getting your first tooth knocked out by a classmate in the first grade—a major step in the education of a pacifist.

Agreeing with a stronger and older brother on how to share the joint present of a new sled—he to have it all winter, you to have it all summer.

Crying out with the agony of a stubbed barefoot toe, but inwardly feeling pleased at the glory you'd get from wearing a bandage.

Thinking that when you finally did grow up you would never punish your kids and would always understand them and how they felt about things.

Yuletide Mail To Be Heavier

By ELMER ROESSNER
The Joe Doakes's Christmas mail will be heavier than ever this year. Gifts from relatives and cards from friends may be fewer because some of them are out of work. The big surge will be in direct mail solicitations and in catalogs.

Trade authorities estimate that 19 billion pieces of direct mail and 100 million catalogues will be poured into the mail this year, the largest part in the Christmas season. That's a 10 per cent increase over 1969.

There are two principal reasons: the increased availability of specific mailing lists and the computer.

Everybody seems to be selling or renting mailing lists: the list houses, credit card issuers, state government and the United States government itself.

And the computer has enabled list users to be more selective, increasing opportunities for profit. Out of a million names, a computer can spew out those who live in high-income zip code areas, those in various income groups, those who own cars or guns, those who are college students, those in the Geritol age and so on.

Invasion Of Privacy?

Most issuers of credit cards, banks, travel and entertainment companies, oil and gas companies, use their own mailing lists to sell goods and services. Why not make the larger profit instead of renting the list for a few pennies a name?

This has created an almost new industry, consisting of companies that put banks and other list owners into merchandising. They approach list owners with proposals that the owner offer an item or series of items to their cardholders. The promoters do everything: prepare the offer, pay the postage, fill the orders and split the profits with the list holders.

Other list owners sell or rent lists to mail-order merchants.

Most states and many cities rent lists. Curtiss Lamont, champion of left and lost causes, once sued to prevent the state of New York from selling lists of persons who had registered autos, alleging invasion of privacy. He lost.

Uncle Sam Shares Gravy

Many federal agencies sell lists. The Internal Revenue Service not only sold names of registered gun owners to a sporting goods store but also to the Firearms Lobby of America.

One gun collector screamed that the sale of such lists was a guide for criminals intent on stealing guns. His Congressman, Frank Horton, R-N.Y., protested to the I.R.S. and introduced a bill taking government agencies out of the list-selling business. Eighty other Congressmen signed in support of the bill and Senator Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., wrote President Nixon asking him to order government agencies to stop selling mailing lists. He hasn't.

Some agencies insist that the Freedom of Information Act requires them to sell lists on demand.

Catalogs and direct mail are carried by the post office at far cheaper rates than it costs Joe Doakes to send a letter to his mother. If direct mail sellers were required to pay something close to first-class rates, the government could afford to improve the mail service and possibly have enough left over to raise postal workers' pay.

Chairman Of Wellcome Foundation Will Speak

Sir Michael Perrin, C.B.E., F.R.I.C., chairman of The Wellcome Foundation Ltd., will be principal speaker at ceremonies here dedicating the new production facilities of Burroughs Wellcome Co. on October 30.

The Wellcome Foundation Ltd., London, England, is the parent organization of the pharmaceutical firm which relocated this past summer from Westchester, N.Y. to Greenville.

The company announced last week that it had completed transfer of operations to its new plant just north of the city on Route 13. The ceremonies will take place on the premises, and will be attended by invited guests, employees and their families.

Sir Michael, a leader of the British scientific community, is chairman of the Council of the Royal Veterinary College and a member of the Council of the School of Pharmacy (both institutions are schools of the University of London.) He was chairman of the Board of Governors of St. Bartholomew's Hospital (London) and president of its Medical College, 1960 to 1969. For research work in atomic energy he was awarded the Order of the British Empire in 1946, and the Commander of the British Empire in 1952.

Governor Robert W. Scott will lead the state's representation at the ceremony and will officially welcome the company to North Carolina. Former Governor Luther H. Hodges, chairman of the Research Triangle Foun-

Wool Competition Scheduled Oct. 24

The annual "Make It Yourself With Wool Competition", is scheduled for Oct. 24 at North Carolina Wesleyan College, Rocky Mount.

The program will begin at 9:30 a.m. in Garber Chapel and a Fashion Show will be held at 2 p.m. Three Junior and three Senior District winners will be selected during the event.

Mrs. J. F. Wilson Jr. of Tarboro, District No. 3 director, states the event is an educational program which helps girls from the ages of 10-21 to learn the art of tailoring fabrics. The girls are judged on their pattern selection and how the pattern and fabric relate to the girls' figures and the accessories they choose.

The only rules for entering the contest are that you must be within the age limit and that the fabric used must be 100 percent wool loomed in America. Entry forms must be in by Friday.

Mrs. Ted Bissette of Spring Hope, former Miss Betty Lane Evans of Greenville, the 1959 Miss North Carolina, will be narrator at the afternoon fashion show.

Judges for the competition are: Mrs. Betty Elliott of Raleigh; Mrs. Phyllis Wooten, Greenville; Mrs. B. S. Bridges, Goldsboro; Mrs. Vivian Morris, Williamston; Miss Linda Bridges, Windsor; Rudolph Williams, Roanoke Rapids.

Communion Service To Be Held Sunday

A Corporate Communion for men and boys of St. Paul's Episcopal Church will be held Sunday at 7:30 a.m. A breakfast, prepared by the men of the parish, will follow Communion.

This Corporate Communion is a monthly affair, affording the opportunity for the men and boys to come together on an informal basis to discuss some of the basic concerns facing them in Greenville.

The Rector, the Rev. Lawrence P. Houston, and the Chaplain, the Rev. William J. Hadden, will officiate at the service. Howard T. Waldrop heads a team of men to prepare the breakfast.

Between the Family Service at 9:30 and the Holy Communion at 11:15 on Sunday morning, the Christian Education Committee for adults will hold a coffee hour in the Parish Hall for members attending both services.

This provides the opportunity for members attending different services to come together informally for coffee and conversation and to see a display of the actions taken so far at the General Convention of the Episcopal Church meeting in Houston, Tex.

This convention, meeting every three years, is the highest legislative body of the Episcopal Church. Mrs. Carl Wade, president of the Churchwomen of the Diocese of East Carolina, is attending the convention.

experiment. It put couples in rooms and showed TV films of Agnew speeches. In almost all cases the couples denied the speeches had excited them. And while some admitted to becoming highly agitated by hearing words they had never heard before, most respondents, claimed they had forgotten what he had said in an hour.

"We found," the report continued, "that Agnew's bite is worse than his bark. The permissiveness of his political rhetoric, while condoned by this commission, does not merit any censoring at this time. There is no evidence that anyone has committed a crime after listening to one of the Vice President's speeches. Indeed, the opposite has proved true. Those thinking of committing a crime have lost interest after hearing him talk.

"Therefore, Agnew is a safety valve for those who harbor antisocial fantasies."

The commission refused to judge the taste of Agnew's speeches because it had nothing to measure them against.

"It would be wrong for this commission to say what is good taste or bad taste, in politics particularly, since the public's appetite seems to be changing all the time. Things a Vice President of the United States wouldn't or couldn't say two years ago now seem to be acceptable to large segments of the population."

"Those who claim that Agnew is polluting the air with his rhetoric may find it morally acceptable a few years from now."

The commission's report was not unanimous. A minority report, written by the law firm of O'Brien, Bayh, Kennedy, Muskie & Goodell, denounced the report as a declaration of Lincoln suburbanites. Now, with Drinan nominated, he reluctantly must aim at factory workers in Fitchburg and Leominster.

The switch became clear in McGlennon's radio commercials which began this week. "In his book, he (Drinan) says we should throw away our guns and missiles and tell our enemies we just won't fight," says one commercial. In another, the announcer reads this Drinan quote from the Worcester Gazette: "If the law is unjust, not only may we but we must disobey the law." Says McGlennon: "Some American kids think a cop is a pig. That makes me sick... a guy who'll die to uphold the Carts wait in sunny Bordeaux vineyards to be loaded with grapes at harvest time. Upper right, the last one rolls quietly home, empty, at the end of the golden day.

THE VINTAGE

The vintage in Bordeaux, France, is a time of high excitement and hard work. Students from many countries come to toil in the sun beside the gypsies who arrive each year for the grape harvest, joining the people of Bordeaux whose lives have been bound up in the vineyards for generations. There are student travelers from America, too, who often make the harvesting of French wines part of their holiday, perhaps at the end of a roving summer abroad.

Many vineyards have special dormitories for students, while the hardy just camp out. It's a tradition that during the harvest all the workers are given hearty lunches and dinners on the property, with the wives and daughters of the chateau owners as volunteer cooks. There are festivals and banquets before the harvest, to celebrate the coming vintage. But, finally, there is the work. And one of the many things students learn from the grape harvest is that in Bordeaux—France's largest wine district—wine is serious business.

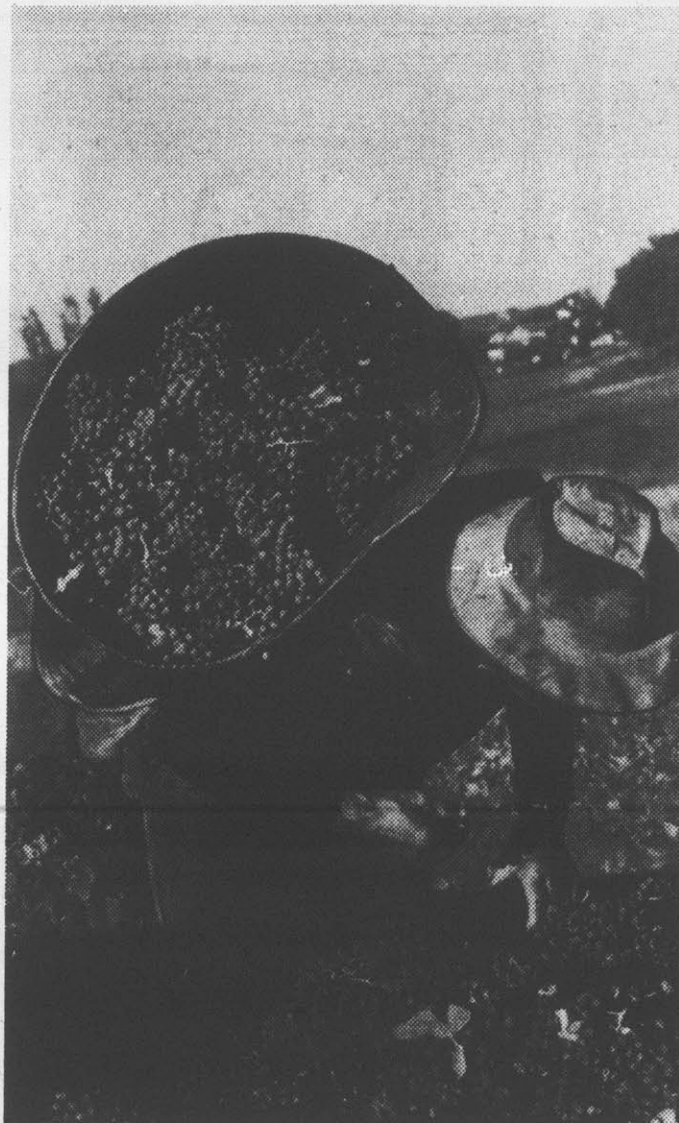

Picking grapes in Bordeaux: a time of warmth, gaiety and hard work.

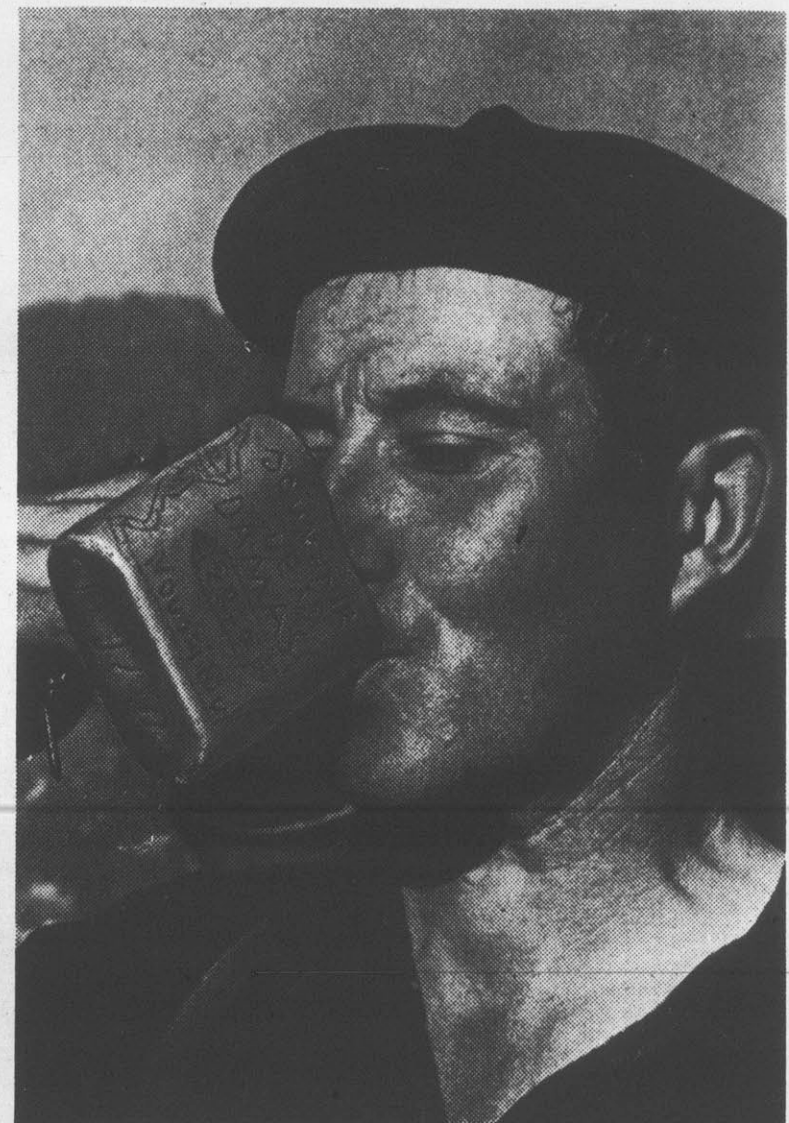

Judy Dorsan of San Francisco and Eloise Loyal of Grenoble, France, represent international student teamwork at the grape harvest.

These two Bordeaux ladies have been helping with the harvest for over 50 years.

The work calls for a strong back...

... the reward is the good wine.

This Week's PICTURE SHOW—AP Newsfeatures.

CATTY BEHAVIOR — The lady puppy on the left no doubt wanted her picture to be taken first, but the little lady on the right tried some upstaging which seems to have worked. Both are waiting for adoption in the Methuen (Mass.) Animal Farm. They are six to seven weeks old, and of undetermined lineage.

More Species Face Extinction

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interior Department said today three more types of animals, eight more species of birds and 11 more kinds of fish now face extinction in the United States.

The department's list of endangered species now stands at a record 101, including 14 types of mammals, 50 birds, seven reptiles and amphibians, and 30 species of fish.

A spokesman said the 22 species added to the endangered list today are threatened mainly by pollution, especially from pesticides, or by destruction of their natural habitat. The adverse influences, he said, are "principally man-made."

Pesticides were hampering the reproductive capability, he said, of the brown pelican and the Arctic peregrine falcon.

"The pelican," he said, "may well be biologically extinct right now. We've still got adults and they have a long life span, but we're not getting any young."

The department said it was also preparing a list of species believed on the verge of vanishing, not just from the United States, but from the entire world.

Here is the list of species added to the U.S. "endangered" list:

—Mammals: Hawaiian hoary bat; Morro Bay kangaroo rat; salt marsh harvest mouse.
—Birds: brown pelican; Arctic peregrine falcon; California clapper rail; large Kauai thrush; Molokai thrush; Hawaii akepa; Maui akepa; and Oahu creeper. The last five of these bird species are found in Hawaii.
—Fish: Lahontan cutthroat trout; Mohave chub; Pahrana-gat bonytail; Woundfin; Kendall Warm Springs dace; Tecopa pupfish; Pecos gambusia; unarmored threespine stickleback; fountain darter; watercress darter.

Bludgeoning Charged Boy

DUXBURY, Mass. (AP) — A 16-year-old boy was held without bail today charged with the bludgeoning death of his grandmother, Mrs. Cid Ricketts Sumner, author of the "Tammy" books.

The body of the 79-year-old authoress was found in her home Thursday by police. A hammer, believed to be the death weapon, also was found.

The suspect, John R. Cutler, pleaded innocent in Plymouth District Court to a charge of being a delinquent by reason of murder, authorities said.

Police said the youth walked into the police station early Thursday and gave information that led to the discovery of Mrs. Sumner's body.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Cutler. His father is the editor of the local newspaper, the Duxbury Clipper, and author of several books, including "Cardinal Cushing of Boston." Mrs. Cutler is the victim's daughter.

Mrs. Sumner was the author of three books which were made into movies: "Tammy Out of Time," "Tammy Tell Me True," and "Quality," which was renamed "Pinkie," in the film version.

She was the widow of James B. Sumner, the Nobel Prize winner in chemistry in 1946.

Besides her novels, Mrs. Sumner published a number of poems and short stories.

Poor Pay Among Many Ministers' Complaints

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The

spreading exodus from the ministry often is blamed on complex modern sociological and psychological factors, but a main cause may be a simple, common gripe among working men—poor pay.

Police Again Bomb Target

bomb shattered a side door of a police storefront center and injured two patrolmen Thursday night.

Officers Kenneth Fleming and Charles Robinson suffered multiple lacerations. They were admitted to Menorah Hospital where their conditions were reported as good.

Police said the type of explosive used in the bombing had not been determined. They said the device apparently was placed or thrown at the doorway.

There appeared to be no link between the bombing and any radical group, some of which have claimed credit for recent bombings in California, Washington State, New York and Massachusetts.

Fleming and Robinson, both participants in Pinpoint, a walking patrol experiment funded by Model Cities, were believed alone in the building. Both are white, but police said hostility toward them in the densely populated, predominantly Negro neighborhood had been minimal.

About two hours after the blast, police took three men into custody for questioning. Officers said they matched the description of three men reportedly seen in the area carrying a package before the explosion.

Singers To Give Program Series

BELL ARTHUR — The

Spiritual Singers of Greenville will render a week of religious programs at Antioch Holiness Church here beginning Monday at 7:30 p.m.

The public is invited to attend these services, which continue through Friday, the church pastor, Elder James Lewis, said.

At least that is indicated by two recent Protestant studies on morale among American pastors and on why many are quitting their profession.

Such departures have stepped up sharply lately among both Protestants and Roman Catholics, and while researchers have cited various reasons for the trend, it has become most pronounced in a time of inflationary squeeze on paychecks.

Moreover, the two new studies, in the United Methodist and Episcopal churches, both found that a key source of clergy-men's dissatisfaction was their low salaries, putting a strain on their families and their sense of effectiveness.

Various other frequently mentioned causes also were cited, such as uncertainty among clergymen over their roles in a changing society, their seemingly waning influence, conflicts with church authorities and lack of encouragement from people and church colleagues.

However, the United Methodist survey, conducted by the Rev. Dr. Robert L. Wilson, found that most ministers, in discussing their discontents, stressed financial problems and felt they were badly underpaid.

Dr. Wilson, research director of the national division of the United Methodist Board of Missions, surmises that money problems may be only the surface symptom of what pastors sense as his declining status and doubts over his role.

"New York pays its garbage men more than some churches pay their pastors," said one Southern ex-minister.

A similar study in the Episcopal Church found that 47 per cent of its clergymen have "seriously considered" leaving the clergy, while some already have done so—and that a major reason for it was money.

Church To Hold Homecoming

Homecoming services will be held at St. Paul Pentecostal Holiness Church on Sunday. The Rev. Joe L. Russell Jr., a former pastor of the church, will deliver the sermon during the 11 a.m. worship hour.

Lunch will be served following the morning worship service.

There will be a song service at 2 p.m. The public and friends of the church are invited to attend.

Group To Sing During Services

The Gospel Echoes from Lexington will be singing Sunday during the morning and evening services at the Calvary Baptist Church.

The church is located on N.C. 11 and U.S. 13 by-pass.

The public is invited to attend.

Ordered To Hire 6 Truck Drivers

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Central Motor Lines has been ordered to hire six qualified black truck drivers as a result of a suit filed by the Justice Department charging it with racial bias in employment and promotion.

The order was issued Thursday by U. S. Dist. Judge James B. McMillan as "temporary relief" pending trial. Teamsters Union locals in Charlotte, Greensboro-Winston-Salem and Chicago also are named defendants.

Pirates Host Salukis At Homecoming

Homecoming For The Bucs

Will Mitchell, left, and Jim Gudger will be two of the East Carolina Pirates who will be on the field in action during Saturday afternoon's Homecoming game with Southern Illinois. The Bucs are still looking for their first victory. The Salukis, ranked ninth among small colleges, are unbeaten. Mitchell, a 5-11, 175-pound junior, is a starter in the defensive secondary. Gudger, a 6-1, 225-pound senior, has seen action at the middle guard position on defense. Game time is 2 p.m.

There'll be a change in store for East Carolina University football fans Saturday at 2 p.m. in Ficklen Stadium.

That's when the Pirates entertain Southern Illinois University in the annual Homecoming affair.

And for the game, the Bucs will be dressing out in their new purple uniform for the first time this year. That, combined with the fact that it is the first daylight game of the year, is hoped to be part of the magic that may turn the Buc record around and bring them their first victory.

But Coach Mike McGee admits that it will take more than sunshine and a new color. It'll take a fine team effort to stop the unbeaten Salukis.

Southern comes into the game with a 3-0 record. They have beaten Louisville, 31-28, Youngstown, 45-20, and Lamar Tech, 32-16. They were to have played Wichita State last Saturday, but the game was called off after the Shockers' fatal plane crash two weeks ago. Lamar Tech, it might be noted, is the only team to have beaten West Texas State, a team that beat the Bucs, 42-30 two weeks ago.

East Carolina, meanwhile, comes in with an 0-5 mark, having dropped a 23-6 decision to N. C. State last weekend, in a game that was closer than the score would indicate. State's final touchdown came in the last 30 seconds when they intercepted a desperation Pirate scoring attempt.

"I was extremely pleased with our defensive play last week," McGee said. "We had a great deal of gang-tackling and we played good team defense. If we were blocked, we were blocked in position and our pursuit was not broken down."

While there were some mistakes by the Pirate defense, McGee said the overall attack was pleasing.

Offensively, the Bucs had three basic problems. "They are a big, strong team, and we were not able to move their tackles, and their middle guard, George Smith, who gave us fits all night long. We lost a little of our discipline in our passing attack, both in running the patterns and in throwing, but in credit to State, they caused some of this. We also had poor punt coverage." One ECU punt was returned for a touchdown.

The Bucs also suffered seven turnovers, three by interceptions and the other four by fumbles. "We were in horrible field position most of the night, and this didn't allow us to open up. We wanted to pass against their seven-man running defense, and run against the four-man pass defense, but our position seldom allowed us to do this," McGee said.

The Bucs were also bothered by injury last week, with George Whitley, one of the top Pirates, both offensively and defensively, seeing only very limited action. Both Billy Wallace and Rusty Scales, who did most of the rushing, were playing with injuries.

The situation is still somewhat up in the air, although with different people this week. "We have two or three who are not ready as of Thursday afternoon. We anticipate that they'll be ready, but we don't know for sure," the coach said.

This week's opponent is another big, strong team. "They have a fine program there, with over 100 scholarships. They have had three great recruiting years, and this is showing on this team."

McGee said that while Southern has run the ball twice as many times as it has passed, they still are a team based on a passing attack. "They had two good outside receivers, including 6-7 Lionel Antoine. Their receivers work to get open, and they do a good job." Antoine has six receptions for 70 yards, while split end David Reid has nine for 135 yards and two touchdowns.

"They also have a great punt return man in Scooter Wilson," McGee said. Wilson has run back nine punts for 166 yards. His four kickoff returns have netted 200 yards, 50 per carry.

In the backfield, key personnel include quarterback Brad Panoast, who has hit on 31 of 60 passes for 405 yards and three scores. Fullback Sherman Blade has picked up 152 yards in 32 lugs, while halfback Eric King had made 149 yards in 39 carries. "Both of their running backs are fine players," McGee said.

"While they may not be a passing team in entirety, they have a great deal of confidence in their aerial attack," the coach said. "It'll be another great test for our secondary."

Defensively, Southern Illinois has been tough on the ground, allowing but 194 yards in three games. Through the air, however, they have been somewhat weaker, allowing 858 yards.

Southern will almost certainly want to spoil the East Carolina Homecoming. It was the Bucs who set them down last year at their Homecoming. Another factor will also be that two former Southern assistants are now on the Pirate staff, Jerry McGee and Carl Reese.

"The big incentive will be their record," Mike McGee said. "They have a chance to go unbeaten this year. This should be incentive enough."

The probably offensive starting lineup for the Bucs has Bill Croisette and Pete Wooley at ends, John Hollingsworth and Paul Haug at tackles, Mike Kopp and Steve Davis at guards, Mark Pohlen at center, John Casazza or Jack Patterson at quarterback, Billy Wallace at fullback, George Whitley or Rusty Scales at tailback and Dick Corrada at flanker.

On the defense, the Bucs will have Wes Rothrock and Ted Salmon at ends, Rich Peeler and Chuck Zadnik or Grover Truslow at tackles, Ralph Betesh at middle guard, Don Mollenhauer and Monty Kiernan at linebackers, and Will Mitchell, Tom Threlkeld, Mike Mills and Tom Pulley in the secondary.

Williamston, Gates County Meet In Important Albemarle Contest

Williamston's Tigers get another stern test this weekend in their quest to catch Ahsokie in the Albemarle Conference. A victory for the Tigers would pull them within a half-game of the leaders.

But to pick up on the Indians, who travel out of the conference to meet 1-A power Ayden, Williamston will have to overcome a strong Gates County team.

Last week, Williamston increased its loop record to 2-0 with a 28-12 win over Perquimans. Gates downed Plymouth, 26-24, while Edenton beat Northampton, 34-6. Ahsokie had an open date.

"We are still the best defense against ourselves," Williamston Coach Dinky Mills said. "We stop ourselves with penalties and mistakes."

Mills said the Tigers looked good in spurts against Perquimans, but that they were not consistent. "We were impressive when we clicked," he said. "Our passing was the best I have seen it. Jimmy Ralford did a real good job at quarterback this week."

Mills also singled out Walter Whitfield, Laurence Lilly and Kent Lewis for their play on the defensive side of the line.

The game cost Williamston the use of one of their starting halfbacks, Raymond Andrews.

"He'll definitely be out of action, although we may be able to use him to punt for us. Otherwise, he'll miss this week and maybe next week, too."

The coach said that Gates will provide a tough competitor for the Tigers. "They lost only to Ahsokie, 8-6, and have beaten both Edenton and Plymouth, both by two points," Mills said.

"They have been able to score right much so far this year," he added. Only Ahsokie has been able to keep them below three touchdowns. "They have a real good offense. Their quarterback Umphlette does a good job throwing the ball, and their slotback, Porter, has made a lot of yardage on the reserve. They have a real balance between their passing and running."

Mills said Gates had been impressive to him. "They execute well, and make few mistakes. They capitalize well on the other team's mistakes, too."

And Gates doesn't give up. Against both Plymouth and Edenton, they rallied from as much as two touchdowns down to claim the wins. "It's going to be a real tough game," Mills added.

Elsewhere in the league, Plymouth is at Northampton, Edenton is at Perquimans and Ahsokie travels to Ayden in the lone non-conference game.

With all of the upsets last week, it is amazing that this column managed to squeak through with a 13-7 week. Hopefully, this week will be a little more true to form.

One game that was missed last week didn't make us unhappy, however, when Rose snapped its losing string against New Hanover.

This week, the Rampants play the Kinston Vikings, a team that has scored only one touchdown this year and hasn't won yet. But like New Hanover, the Rampants could find themselves the upset victim if they don't take the Vikings seriously.

It promises to be a very good game, however, and we'll give Rose the nod to take this one.

Greene Central travels down to South Lenoir. The host team has lost its last three in a row and appears to be having some problems. The Rams, meanwhile, are still coming on strong. We'll go with Greene Central to take it.

Ahoskie is a visitor for the Ayden Tornadoes. Ayden managed to slip past Farmville in the final minute of play last week, but they face a tougher test this week. We're not going to make a habit of it, but we'll have to stick with the higher ranked team. Ahoskie should win.

Williamston and Gates County clash in an important Albemarle Conference game. Gates has been tough, losing only to Ahoskie. Williamston needs to win to stay in the race. We'll pick the Tigers in a very tight game.

Robersonville travels to Grifton in a key Tobacco Belt Conference game. Grifton is hurt by injuries, but the Rams lack the "killer instinct." We'll still stay with Robersonville.

Farmville hosts North Lenoir in an Eastern Plains game. The Red Devils have lost their last two, but should be able to bounce back for this one. It could be a very important game.

Finally, Vanceboro plays host to Saratoga in a real important Tobacco Belt game. Both come in without a loop loss and the winner might be the one to go all the way. It's quite a toss-up, but we'll pick Vanceboro to take this one.

East Carolina's Pirates play host to Southern Illinois in their Homecoming game Saturday. The Bucs spoiled Homecoming for Southern last year, and the Salukis will probably want to do the same for the Bucs. Also, they'd like to win because assistant coach Jerry McGee was on their staff last year.

It should be a fine game, but we'll have to go with Southern Illinois to win.

In other Southern Conference contests, the choice goes to The Citadel to down Bucknell; Davidson to beat Furman, Florida to down Richmond, and William & Mary to stop VMI.

In the Atlantic Coast Conference, it'll be Wake Forest over Clemson, Duke over N.C. State, South Carolina over Maryland, North Carolina over Tulane, and Army over Virginia.

In a few others, it'll be Memphis State over Florida State, Vanderbilt over Georgia, and Houston over Oregon State.

Season's record: 75 right, 27 wrong, 73.5 per cent.

Rocky Mount Beats Aycok

ROCKY MOUNT — Rocky Mount's Wilson Junior High School rolled to a 20-0 victory over the Aycok Blues yesterday.

Rocky Mount got all the scoring it needed in the first period of play, scoring once. The touchdown came on 54-yard pass from Larry Knight to Milton Parker. Dilly Bullock ran over the two-point conversion for an 8-0 lead.

In the second period, Rocky Mount upped the lead to 14-0, as Bullock cracked over from the one for the score:

The final touchdown came in the last period of play, as Parker caught a 32-yard pass from Knight for the score.

N. Pitt Falls To S. Wayne

ROBERSONVILLE — Southern Wayne High School's junior varsity took a 20-8 victory over North Pitt High School last night in Robersonville.

The Vikings managed to score their first touchdown in the game, the third in the school's history.

Southern Wayne, a last minute substitution for originally scheduled Greene Central, pushed over two touchdowns in the first period of play to gain all it needed. The final Baby Saint score came in the last period after a Panther fumble deep in their own territory.

The lone North Pitt score came in the second period. Russ Andrews fired a 55-yard pass to Cleo Brown for the score. Donnie Mozingo then ran over the two-point conversion, cutting the lead at the time to 14-8.

North Pitt was unable to score again, however, and lost its third straight game.

Brooks, Birds Celebrate Win

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer
BALTIMORE (AP) — All the clouds have rolled by for the Baltimore Orioles, basking in a shower of champagne after they turned a rainy payday into a World Series bonanza.

The Orioles battered the Cincinnati Reds 9-3 Thursday at rain-drenched Memorial Stadium to complete a five-game blitz of baseball's 67th summit battle, pocket winners' shares of $15,000-plus per player and rid themselves of the stigma of last year's Series setback at the hands of the upstart New York Mets.

"It's payday, and we had to come out to pick up our checks," Orioles Manager Earl Weaver said before the American League champions rode a 15-hit barrage and the left arm of Mike Cuellar to the Series clinching triumph over a power-laden but pitching-thin Cincinnati club.

Baltimore's fourth victory in five games closed out the best-of-seven series and gave the Orioles whopping bonuses in addition to their regular, twice-monthly pay envelopes. Moreover, it indicated their claim to major league supremacy after a year of attrition.

"The money is a great reward but the personal satisfaction of being the best ball club means more," said Brooks Robinson, who led the Orioles to their initial series conquest five years ago against Los Angeles and started their final charge Thursday with a two-run homer.

"This makes up for everything," said Brooks Robinson, whose clutch hitting and sensational defensive play earned him landslide acclaim as the most valuable player in the series. "Nothing can replace winning for the first time (1966), but there's more satisfaction bouncing back to do it again."

The Orioles, beaten in five games by the Mets last October, rebounded with 108 regular season wins—the last 11 in succession—then swept the AL pennant playoffs in three games and won three more from the Reds before Lee May's three run eighth inning homer snapped the 17-game streak Wednesday.

That victory kept Cincinnati alive, but the Orioles applied the death blow Thursday as Cuellar shackled the Reds on six hits.

"This year, we had a little added incentive," said Paul Blair, whose nine hits matched Brooks Robinson's record-tying total for a five-game series. "We worked harder to make things go our way."

"The Mets did everything they had to do to win last year — just like we did in this Series. But I don't think we played up to our capability against them."

Cuellar, a 24-game winner during the season but an early knockout victim in the second Series game, was at his best Thursday after a shaky start. He yielded three runs on four hits in the first inning, then checked the Reds on two harmless singles the rest of the way.

"A typical Cuellar game," said Harry Dalton, the Orioles' front office boss. "He has first inning troubles, then zip, zip, zip."

Heavy morning rains preceded the Reds' opening salvo—and a deluge of Baltimore hits followed it.

Frank Robinson, 0-for-9 in the first two games at Cincinnati last weekend, closed the gap in bottom of the first with his second homer of the Series.

The Orioles scored two runs in the second to take the lead and added two more in the third, another in the fifth on Merv Rettenmund's homer and a final pair in the eighth.

Blair and Dave Johnson led the assault against six Cincinnati pitchers with three hits apiece.

"We had deep respect for the Reds but I think we caught them short on pitching," said Brooks Robinson who received a new car as the Series MVP following his 9-for-21, two-homer binge.

"Sure, we used 18 pitchers in the Series," said Red Manager Sparky Anderson. "But I've got to do what the scoreboard shows. They just kept hitting us. Give Baltimore batters the credit."

The Orioles banged out 50 hits in the five games. Their 10 home runs set a record for a five-game set.

"Baltimore just came out hungry and whipped us," Anderson said. "I think they went out to prove something this year, and they did. They had to live all year with the fact that the Mets beat them."

"I know how Earl must feel. He's on Cloud Nine. He had to eat crow last year. Now I'm eating crow."

"This is just a superb ball club, an outstanding ball club," Weaver said as his players reveled in a champagne-splashing, shaving cream-squirting victory party—and caravans of horn-toting cars began clogging the downtown streets in a wild celebration of the Orioles' second world championship.

Upstart Paladins Take Bead On Davidson Team

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Furman's Paladins, who have won three of four starts since a 13-0 loss in their opening game at Virginia Military Institute, draw a bead Saturday on Davidson's defending Southern Conference football champions and coach Bob King has to look at the optimistic side.

Last Saturday night's 329 upset over Richmond, which propelled the Paladins back into contention in the conference race, "is a big one in so many ways," says King. "It could have a great effect on the remainder of our season, especially our conference games."

But, adds King, "the Richmond game is behind us so we have got to look to Davidson. Our kids have been doing a tremendous job in the past two games and we hope it will continue for Davidson."

The Paladins, preseason choices of the league's coaches to finish in the conference basement, have the only winning over-all record in the league at 3-2. They are 1-1 in conference play. Davidson, 1-0 in the league with a 14-9 upset over Richmond, is 1-2 against all opposition.

There's also a lot at stake for the Wildcats, for a victory would move them into a tie with The Citadel at 2-0 atop the league standings.

It could be a three-way affair, for VMI—1-0 in the conference and 1-4 over-all—has a Saturday afternoon conference date at home against William and Mary's Indians, 9-1 and 1-4.

Coach Vito Ragazzo says he thinks VMI "found out a lot about ourselves" in a 49-10 rout last Saturday at Virginia "and realize that we must have a win against William and Mary to gain the momentum to win in the Southern Conference."

The Keydets will be without the services of two defensive backs, Paul Fraim and Jim Ingram, but William and Mary is in even worse shape with starting quarterback Bubba Hooker and fullback-quarterback Wes Meter on the injured list. Erratic sophomore Ivan Stovall will start for the Indians.

VMI's big job will be stopping the running of Phil Mosser, who leads the conference with 583 yards in 90 carries, and Todd Bushnell, who ranks fifth with 285 yards in 52 carries.

The three other league teams take on outside foes.

East Carolina's Pirates, 0-5, are hosts to unbeaten Southern Illinois and Richmond's Spiders, 1-4, are at Florida in afternoon games. The Citadel, 2-3, is host to Bucknell in a night game.

The Pirates hope to exploit all-sophomore Southern Illinois secondary with the passing of quarterback John Casazza, who has hit on 54 of 134 attempts for 675 yards. Billy Wallace leads the Pirates in rushing with 328 yards in 72 carries.

Richmond's problem is finding running backs with its two top ground gainers, Buddy Woodie and Jerry Mauro, injured. Backup quarterback Ken Nichols may be used at fullback to help fill the gaps.

Bob Duncan, The Citadel's top runner, may be held out of the Bucknell game to allow a nagging injury time to heal. Bucknell defeated Davidson last Saturday 21-20, so the inevitable comparison will be made after it's seen how the Bulldogs fare.

Ayden JV's Stop Conley

AYDEN — The Ayden Junior Varsity handed D. H. Conley High School its first defeat yesterday with an 8-6 win.

Conley, a newly consolidated school, still to be occupied, had beaten North Pitt and Farmville's JV in earlier outings.

Conley's lone score came in the first period on a 70-yard punt return by Calvin Clemons. The try for the two-point conversion failed however, and it meant the game.

Milton Brown took a 35-yard pass from Melvin Stewart for the tying Ayden touchdown. J. T. Hines then ran over the conversion giving the Baby Tornadoes the win.

Conley had three other threats inside the 20-yard line, but fumbles and the Ayden defense stalled them each time.

Hines was cited for his outstanding play, picking up 101 yards for Ayden. Ayden's top defenders included Ernest Dixon, Ronnie Dixon, Terry Harper, Ronnie Salmon and Lyman Blount.

First Downs 6 Conley Ayden JV
Rushing Yardage 111 95
Passing Yardage 27 108
Passes 3-11-1 7-13-0
Punts 3-31-0 6-29
Fumbles lost 4 0
Yards penalized 63 75

Scoring: Clemons, 70 punt return (run failed); A. Brown, 35 pass from Stewart (Hines run).

Smoke Is One Enemy In N.C. Clean Air Campaign

By YVONNE BASKIN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP)—Don't set a match to those piles of leaves you rake up in your yard this fall. It's against the law.

Open burning of trash, whether in a municipal dump or in your backyard, has been outlawed along with the emission of black clouds from industrial smokestacks in North Carolina's first concentrated program to preserve the quality of the state's air.

The state's new air quality standards went into effect July 1, and air pollution control officials figure it will take at least three years and billions of dollars to bring every industry, municipality and institution into compliance.

Unlike the state's efforts against water pollution, which began 17 years ago, North Carolina did not have an agency with the authority to make and enforce air quality standards until 1967 when the Department of Water and Air Resources was formed.

A major part of the work of the department's air pollution Control Division to date has been to determine just what the quality of North Carolina's air is and where the sources of pollution are.

"We do not now have a relatively significant air pollution problem — our problem is to keep it that way," said William Knight, chief of the Air Pollution Control Division.

"But how do you define clean air? We need long-range data for all seasons in specific places — a permanent network of air monitoring stations to determine the mean annual concentrations of various pollutants in the air of a given place," Knight said.

Knight's division recently completed a set of "emissions inventories" for each county, listing the volume of various pollutants emitted into the air of each county every year by various sources—transportation, stationary fuel combustion, refuse disposal, industrial processes and evaporative losses.

The inventories show, for example, that in the eastern county of Tyrrell, with a population of only 3,800 and little industry, the open burning of trash and automobile emissions account for about 90 per cent of all pollutants put into the county's air each year.

Automobiles contribute 2,781,144 pounds of the 3,051,587 pounds of carbon monoxide, hydrocarbons, particulate matter, nitrogen oxides and sulfur oxides released into the county's air annually. The open burning of trash contributes another 193,883 pounds of pollutants.

Another 21,265 pounds of sulfur oxides come from residential, commercial and institutional heating.

The results are somewhat different in the highly populated and heavily industrialized Charlotte Metropolitan Area, which includes nine North Carolina and three South Carolina counties. An emissions inventory for this federally designated air quality control region was drawn up by the National Air Pollution Control Administration.

The two major sources of pollution in the region are motor vehicles and the five electric generating plants in the area.

The steam electric plants contribute 86 per cent of the 197,500 tons of sulfur oxides emitted each year; 67 per cent of the 366,300 tons of particulates; and 62 per cent of the 144,400 tons of nitrogen oxides.

Motor vehicles contribute 93 per cent of the 531,300 tons of carbon monoxide; 70 per cent of the 91,700 tons of hydrocarbons; and 23 per cent of the nitrogen oxides.

Gaston County, with 114 textile products plants and two power plants, contributes half of the sulfur oxides and a third of the particulates and nitrogen oxides in the region.

Mecklenburg County, with a population of 337,800 and the largest number of automobiles, contributes more than a third of the carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons in the region.

The other counties in the region are Cabarrus, Catawba, Cleveland, Iredell, Lincoln, Rowan and Union in North Carolina, and Chester, Lancaster and York in South Carolina.

State officials say the pollution from the power plants and open burning, as well as other industrial and municipal pollution, can be brought under control by the regulations put in force July 1.

The standards forbid the emission of dark smoke and any open burning, except for recognized agricultural practices and certain right-of-way clearing. They also control particulate and sulfur dioxide concentrations.

When the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare develops standards for the control of other specific pollutants, besides sulfur dioxide and particulates, the Board of Water and Air Resources will develop regulations for their control.

The enforcement of these standards as they take effect will require a continuing increase in staff and funds for the Air Pollution Control Division.

Taxpayers will probably also have to foot the bills for industrial pollution control equipment in the form of higher consumer prices.

Also, some 300 municipalities in the state have been told to find some alternative to burning their trash in open dumps. Incinerators start at $50,000, and the cost of sanitary landfills depends on the cost of land. State officials say the new regulations will mean bond issues in many communities.

But there is one great source of air pollution not covered by current state regulations which will cost citizens money to control in the next few years—automobiles.

Knight estimates that even if industrial process emissions are brought under control, 85 per cent of the air pollution would remain—most of it from automobiles.

The federal government has preempted the regulation of emission control devices on cars by requiring manufacturers to install them. But the states have been left to control upkeep of the antipollution equipment by car owners.

A properly tuned vehicle without any sort of emission control equipment emits, 2,310 pounds of pollutants per 1,000 miles. Present federal standards for emission devices are designed to reduce that figure to 140 by 1980.

The Department of Water and Air Resources plans to ask the 1971 General Assembly to put emission control equipment under the automobile inspection program.

But this is only a start. Routine inspections could determine whether the equipment was still on the car and whether it worked at all, but highly specialized equipment is needed to test its effectiveness in screening various pollutants.

Knight said his department eventually wants the authority to require that each motorist take his car in once a year for a test of the efficiency of its pollution screening equipment.

The equipment for such testing is now too expensive to be feasible, but Knight said the probability is good that within the next four to five years some one will develop "a little, black box" to do the job.

"For now we must settle for the inspection," Knight said. "Now people wouldn't settle for the inconvenience of the testing.

But they're going to have to eventually if the air is to be cleaned up."

Police Ask For Support

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland's Fraternal Order of Police asked for a showing of community support in a full-page advertisement in today's Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Terming it "A calm, rational statement to the people of Cleveland before all hell breaks loose," the FOP asked citizens to clip out a ballot voicing police support and to send it to the FOP.

The ballot reads, "I agree that something must be done about the senseless attacks upon policemen right now. I am in full support of Cleveland Police-men." The ballot includes space for a person's name and address.

The advertisement recalled recent killings of policemen in Cleveland and across the country and said, "And now, one of the radical 'hate elements' has announced publicly that their goal for 1971 is to murder twice as many policemen as in 1970."

It asked if "deep down, people really give a damn" and said the FOP asked "citizens like you to let your own voices be heard on our behalf."

It said completed ballots would be shown to "...the right people — state and local administrations, court officials, and others — that we are not alone in our desire to put a stop to the murdering of policemen."

Appeals Prison Sentence For Bank Robbery

CHARLOTTE (AP) — A Lumberton man has appealed the 15-year prison sentence he received Thursday after being found guilty of robbing the American Bank and Trust Co. of Ansonville of $3,766.

McKeithan Jones, 33, was sentenced by U. S. Dist. Judge Wilson Warlick after a jury found him guilty. After the appeal notice, bail was set at $25,000.

Two men wearing stocking marks robbed the bank last June 25, but only Jones was charged.

Government lawyers put in evidence several items bearing Jones' fingerprints and palm prints. The attorneys said the prints directly connected Jones with the holdup.

Two witnesses said they saw Jones and another man in a car watching the bank before the robbery.

A recent RCA development in TV servicing. Chassis consists of a main circuit board and three "satellite" plug-in boards carrying the video I.F., sound I.F., and video output circuits. If service is needed, a satellite board is simply removed and another plugged in, reducing service time to a matter of minutes.

Some people want the best and won't settle for less.

The ARGOSY Trans Vista Model EP-506 18" diagonal picture

For such people RCA proudly presents The Argosy: the most advanced, most reliable, most compact 18" (diag.) RCA portable color ever built.

- All-solid-state chassis design.
- Ultra-slim cabinet—20% slimmer than previous 18" (diag.) models.
- Compact picture tube with the sharpest color picture you'll find.
- Eleven lock-in AccuCircuit modules for fast, easy service.
- Five solid integrated circuits—the most advanced type of circuitry used in TV today.
- Super-powerful Trans Vista 100 chassis with 22,000-volts for picture power.
- RCA's Automatic Fine Tuning (A.F.T.) for locked-in picture fidelity.

These are just a few of the features that make RCA's Argosy the latest word in portable color television.

A NOTE TO OUR CUSTOMERS:

Please don't confuse price with value. This premium product commands a premium price. But if you're willing to pay a little more to get a whole lot more, The Argosy could prove to be the greatest entertainment bargain your ever invested in. Come in for a demonstration and let us show you why.

Georgia Lawmen Raided Hippies

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — State officers, acting under executive order of Gov. Lester Maddox, swept through this city's hippie district early today and later said they plan to stay "as long as necessary to enforce state narcotic laws."

The surprise raids, which got under way late Thursday, involved approximately 35 undercover agents of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation and a backup force of about the same number of state troopers.

Seven persons were arrested, including two whom officers said had to be subdued. They were not immediately identified.

The state force, under the personal direction of GBI commander Maj. Barney Ragsdale, was specifically instructed to crack down on narcotics abuse, prostitution and caches of illegal weapons and explosives.

Six separate buildings or dwellings were searched in the initial series of raids.

Ragsdale said the raids were conducted without the knowledge of Atlanta Police Chief Herbert Jenkins or city officials. A police superintendent, contacted shortly before the raids began, said the department knew "absolutely nothing — except that we've had a few reports that state officers are congregating near the hippie area."

Ironically, the superintendent said one of the reports came from The Great Speckled Bird, an underground newspaper published in the hippie community.

Neither Jenkins nor Mayor Sam Massell was immediately available for comment.

Ragsdale said specifically that the force was directed by Gov. Lester Maddox through executive order "to enforce the state narcotics laws and to keep from embarrassing the Atlanta Police Department by bringing in our own backup" of state officers.

He declined to elaborate on the possible embarrassment of police, but added, "We're not going to embarrass them by calling on them...if we have trouble."

Seven Tar Heel Students Lose Financial Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seven students at three North Carolina institutions were among 434 at 86 schools throughout the country who have lost federal financial aid because they engaged in campus disorders, the Office of Education said Thursday.

The office listed these in North Carolina: Nash Technical Institute, four students; Roanoke - Chowan Technical Institute, two; and University of North Carolina at Asheville, one.

A government report covering the period since June, 1969, showed that most penalized students attended small colleges.

Federal law requires colleges and universities to cut off federal aid to students convicted of taking part in campus disorders.

Leading the list of aid cutoffs were Florida Keys Junior College, with 39, and Arkansas A&M College, 38.

Final Report Said Ready

Robert Little, chairman of the Chicod Watershed steering committee, announced at the group's meeting this week that the final report for creation of Pitt County Drainage District No. 9 is ready.

Attorney Frank M. Wooten Jr. and the Board of Viewers have worked diligently during the past year on the report, Little stated.

J. L. Blackmon, drainage engineer of Four Oaks, Eugene James of Belvoir and Ralph Hardee of Ayden have been appointed to the Board of Viewers by H. L. Lewis, clerk of Superior Court.

Other members of the Chicod Creek Watershed steering committee are Leslie Elks, Ben D. Forrest, Grover Hodges, Nabe Mills, Robert D. Stokes and Larry K. Tucker. Tucker will serve as contracting officer.

The Soil Conservation Service represents the U. S. Department of Agriculture in assisting on the watershed project.

Local sponsors are the Pitt County Soil and Water Conservation District, Pitt County, and Beaufort Soil and Water Conservation District.

Gus Hall Giving His Winnings

NEW YORK (AP) — Gus Hall, general secretary of the Communist party in the United States, says he will donate $500 he won in a New York state lottery to the Daily World, the party newspaper.

Dorothy Robinson, administrative director of the paper, said when informed of the gift Thursday:

"He certainly gave it to a good cause. Too bad Gus didn't win the million-dollar drawing."

A million dollars was the lottery's first prize.

Justices Advised Not To Alter

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has advised the Supreme Court not to alter the states' death penalty procedures.

The Justice Department said in a brief late Thursday the Constitution requires neither standards to guide jurors nor separation of the sentencing process from the bulk of the trial.

These two changes are being urged upon the court in two test cases that could upset more than 550 death sentences.

The standards argument is that jurors now have unconstitutional, arbitrary authority to choose between a death sentence and a lesser penalty in capital cases, meaning pure chance often determines whether a convicted man is to live or die.

The separation argument is that defendants should be able to decline to take the witness stand during trial but should be able, if convicted, to offer evidence against a possible death penalty.

Both procedures, if adopted, could actually increase the chances of a death sentence, said Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold and Philip A. Lacombe, a special assistant to Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, in the brief requested by the court last June. They said the nation is committed to trial by jury and to the assumption that jurors act fairly, rationally and intelligently and reflect the conscience of the community.

"Neither this court nor any other has heretofore expressed anything but approval for the wisdom and fairness of entrusting flexible sentencing discretion to the trial juries in capital cases," they said.

As for adopting two-stage trials, as six states have done, the government lawyers said defendants always are under tactical pressures, such as whether or not to take the stand.

"The practical necessity of making difficult choices in defending a criminal charge, including a capital charge, does not establish that the procedures which occasion the election impermissibly burden the rights involved," the brief said.

The cases before the court, to be heard later this term, are appeals by James E. Crampton, a Toledo man convicted of slaying his wife, and Dennis McGautha, a Los Angeles man convicted of killing a store owner.

The Justice Department lawyers said jurors are reluctant to impose death sentences. This could change, they said, if states were to enumerate by law the factors jurors were to consider as reasons for a death sentence. Similarly, the government brief said, opening trials to special penalty evidence often produces details that work against the defendant instead of for him.

Seed Corn To Have A Label

RALEIGH (AP) — Seed corn sold in North Carolina for next year's crop will have to be labeled to indicate its degree of susceptibility to Southern leaf blight, a fungus disease.

North Carolina is the first state to require such labeling. The Board of Agriculture adopted the regulation Thursday.

Southern leaf blight caused serious losses in corn fields throughout the nation this year. Drought also was a factor in reducing yields in North Carolina and some other states.

Seeds not carrying this factor, described as "normal," will be labeled as having a certain percentage of "N." Hybrids with normal cytoplasm are believed resistant to the blight.

Blends of the two will be labeled "B" and the applicable percentages included.

Kidnap Plot Only Rumors

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell says the FBI has heard rumors of plots to kidnap United States government officials but no alert has been issued.

Mitchell, through an aide, responded to a statement by Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, Thursday that the White House had warned "Republican congressional leaders of possible political abductions.

Mitchell said Saxbe might have been thinking of a GOP briefing last month at which FBI director J. Edgar Hoover mentioned several activities purportedly planned by revolutionaries, including kidnapping plots.

The attorney general said, however, that the Justice Department and the FBI are not guarding members of Congress or the Cabinet.

Neither agency has disclosed which government officials would be likely kidnap victims.

The bidding:
North East South West

Opening lead: Deuce of ♥
An apparently innocuous discard by East provided South, the declarer at six no trump, with a beacon light that guided him successfully home.

West opened the deuce of hearts, the three was played from dummy and East covered with the six, and South won the trick with the king. A heart was continued to lodge East's ace and the latter exited with a heart.

South discarded two small clubs on the third and fourth hearts and East chose to give up a spade. Declarer could count three tricks each in spades, hearts and diamonds which meant that the remaining three must come from the club suit.

It was necessary for South to assume that East had the club king, for if the club finesse fails, the defense has the setting trick in. The three of clubs was led from dummy, East played the deuce and South put in the queen, which held the trick. This brought declarer's total to 11.

South was now confronted with a choice of plays in the club suit. If, for example, he decides that East started with the king and one club, the correct procedure is to lay down the ace dropping the king and then cross over to North's jack for the 12th trick. If South plays East for three clubs, then he must lead the jack from dummy in an attempt to smother the ten.

Before reaching a decision, declarer attempted to obtain a count. Three rounds of spades were cashed and on the last spade East threw a diamond. The diamonds were led next, ending up in dummy, and both opponents followed to each round.

South was now certain of his opponent's distribution. East started with three spades, three hearts and four diamonds, therefore, he must have three clubs. The jack of clubs was accordingly put thru, East covered with the king and declarer played the ace. When West's ten dropped, South's nine became established for the fulfilling trick.

If East had discarded a diamond on the fourth heart instead of a spade, South would not have been able to obtain an exact count—and his play of the club suit would have become a pure guess. Observe that if both opponents follow to three rounds of spades, declarer cannot determine who has the 13th card in that suit.

Based on conditions as of Oct. 1, North Carolina corn production was estimated at 68.7 million bushels, a drop of almost 10 million bushels since August.

The new regulation prohibits the sale of corn seed in 1971 which is not labeled as to the identity of cytoplasm, breeding material. Susceptibility to leaf blight is believed carried in a type of cytoplasm known as "Texas male sterile."

The regulation, effective immediately, is for one year. Corn seed offered for sale must be labeled to indicate whether its cytoplasm carries the Texas male sterile factor. Such seed will be labeled "T" and the ap-

Local Men In 1970 Edition

Two Greenville men have been selected for inclusion in the 1970 edition of Outstanding Young Men of America.

They are William H. Taft Jr., a local furniture dealer and Marvin K. Blount Jr., an attorney and special judge of Superior Court.

The book is an annual awards volume sponsored by certain men's civic and service organizations. According to Doug Blankenship, past U.S. Jaycee president, who is serving as chairman of the Board of Advisory Editors, the purpose of publishing the book is "to recognize and honor the young men in our country who are working toward excellence in their careers and community service." The 1970 edition will be published in December.

Also included in the volume is the Rev. Thomas E. Loftis of Fayetteville, a former associate pastor of Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church here.

Consider Bonus For Combat Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — In an attempt to get more men to volunteer for dangerous infantry, armor and artillery jobs, the Army may nearly double the pay of men in those activities.

Special bonuses for combat jobs were described Wednesday as "supertop priority" as the military gears up for a change from draftee enrollments to a volunteer system.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — North Carolina egg markets steady Thursday, supplies fully adequate, demand slow to fair. Prices paid producers and handlers for consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets:

Grade A large whites: 41½ to 42; medium, whites: 33 to 34; small whites: 29.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — North Carolina hog markets today were mostly steady. Tops of 18.50-19.00 at Rocky Mount; 18.00-18.75 at Kenly; 17.50-18.50 at Bethel; 17.50-18.75 at Tarboro; 18.00-18.25 at Wilson; 17.50-18.00 at Siler City and Denton; 18.75 at Salisbury and 18.00 at Greensboro.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina poultry market was a half-cent higher today. Supply barely adequate to short. Demand good, weights mostly desirable. Live at farm price, 12 cents per pound. Hens, offerings of all weights about in balance with fair to good demands.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices, with little in the news background to bolster them, turned mixed today in slow trading.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 0.69 to 767.18 at 11 a.m., an hour after the opening of trade.

Advances and declines ran about even among the issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Some brokers said the market seemed to have lost the internal thrust that helped it gain in Wednesday's and Thursday's sessions.

Imperial Plant Operation Cut

The Imperial Tobacco Group Limited, American Leaf Organization announced today that threshing operations at the Greenville plant are to be terminated indefinitely.

The Greenville plant will be used for handling of leaf orders, green prizing, repairing hoghead material and storage.

E. T. Allen, Jr., personnel supervisor, said the change will mean considerable reduction in employment at the Greenville plant. A number of permanent employees, not needed to carry on the operations at Greenville, have been given the option of transferring to Wilson; however some will elect not to make the change, he said.

"Imperial deeply regrets having to make this move, but because of the ever increasing cost of U.S.A. tobacco delivered to the U.K. and Ireland every effort must be made to keep costs as low as possible in order to be more competitive with tobaccos from other parts of the world," Allen stated.

Series Of Traffic Accidents In City

Heavy property damage and personal injury resulted from a series of accidents investigated Wednesday by the Greenville Police Department.

Three persons were injured in a 5:15 p.m. wreck that occurred on Charles Street just north of its intersection with the U. S. 284 Bypass.

According to police reports, cars driven by Shelton D. Whitehurst of 219 Leon Drive, Nancy Jean Phillips of Umstead Dorm, ECU, and Roy H. Cannon of 1121 Evans Street were involved.

All three drivers were taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital following the accident, reports said, and Cannon was charged with operating his vehicle left of the center line of traffic.

Damage was estimated at $900 to the Whitehurst car, at $400 to the car driven by Miss Phillips, and $500 to Cannon's vehicle.

Approximately $2,400 in damages but no personal injury resulted from a wreck Wednesday at 8:45 at the Charles Street-Tenth Street intersection.

Involved were cars driven by Werner Stenzel of 206 N. Summitt Street and Kenneth Neil Moore of Rt. 1, Harrells.

Damage was estimated at $1,200 to each car and Moore was charged with failing to stop for a red traffic light.

Herbert Joyner Staton of Rt. 3, Greenville was charged with failure to see his intended movement could be made safely following investigation of a 11:40 p.m. wreck on N. Green Street near Dudley Street.

The collision involved cars driven by Staton and Margaret Louise Brown of 414 W. Tenth Street. Damage was estimated at $425 to the Staton car and $170 to the Brown vehicle.

No injuries were reported by investigating officers.

their rooms on the hill.

University officials said the men and women were relatively orderly during the raiding period.

The only damage reported involved several screens removed from dormitory windows by women students, and a windshield in an ECU police car was broken.

Officers arrested Alan Leonardi, 18, of Pitman, N. J. on charges of damaging state property following that incident.

Investigators said the windshield was broken by a rock allegedly tossed by Leonardi. The student was placed in Pitt County jail under a $300 bond.

This morning, Mallory said "We can't condone any type of mob action and disciplinary action will be taken against those people who failed to disperse when told to do so, and those students who had their ID cards lifted by college police, city police or sheriff's department deputies."

"I want to stress that no doors were broken-in, no boys went into the dormitories, and there was no vandalism," Mallory said.

ECU president Dr. Leo Jenkins said, "For the most part, and from all we could observe, the students were involved in good clean fun. We must recognize, however, that this is an institution of law."

tonight with Fayetteville Ross was canceled, as was Wilmington's Hargard High's game with Fayetteville Sanford. New Hanover's junior high game scheduled for last night was not played either.

Alligood said the school will send flowers. Varying amounts of money had been collected this week by several local school groups to give to the family. SGA president Ernest Adams Jr. said the SGA had voted $100. The football team had collected approximately $100 and the Pep Club had raised some $300 in contributions. The journalism class is preparing a "Barrett" fund.

Plans were not concrete this morning as to what will be done with these funds now.

The New Hanover School is making up a "Trey Barrett" fund, also. Its football game
