Safeguards In No-Knock Tool

By MARK BROWN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the most formidable tools in the Nixon administration's new law and order package is known as no knock, a police power civil libertarians say is unconstitutional.

In essence, no knock allows a policeman to enter premises without announcing himself when evidence may be destroyed quickly, when he may be endangered by identifying himself or when announcing himself would be a "useless gesture."

In most cases, a policeman would need a court-issued warrant before making a no knock raid; in a few instances he could act on his own initiative and justify it later.

The provision is contained in the District of Columbia crime bill that goes into effect next February and the drug abuse bill passed by Congress earlier this month but not yet signed by President Nixon.

Opponents of no knock contend that even restrained use would violate the Fourth Amendment protections against invasion of privacy and unreasonable search and seizure. The critics also say abuse could lead to repression of blacks and anti-establishment whites.

But the administration, talking through Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, insists the bills contain adequate safeguards against abuse and that no knock is already legal in some 30 states either by statute or court decisions.

Under the District of Columbia law, officers would be required to show probable cause that a crime was being committed to obtain a no knock warrant; they also must show probable cause that announcing their presence would result in destruction of evidence or danger to themselves or a hostage.

A third situation justifying no knock entry under the bills is one in which warning would be useless. One example is the approach to an open door.

No knock proponents say the tool will most frequently be used in narcotics and gambling raids, when evidence might quickly be destroyed.

Congressman's Promise Is Big Stumbling Block

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman F. Edward Hebert says he won't release a word of the secret My Lai testimony given his House subcommittee—even if this results in halting the trials of U.S. soldiers charged in the alleged massacre.

Hebert said he promised the 40 witnesses subpoenaed by his special My Lai subcommittee their testimony would not be released and said Congress' investigating committees cannot be forced by the courts to violate such promises of confidence.

What's more, Hebert said, he had no way to foresee a judge's ruling that would make his subcommittee's secrecy a stumbling block in the current My Lai court-martial of S.Sgt. David Mitchell.

"I'm not stopping these people from talking," he said. "The judge is stopping them from talking. If we could be forced to release that testimony, it would destroy the effectiveness of congressional investigating committees."

Col. George R. Robinson, a military judge at Ft. Hood, Tex., ruled last Thursday that four government witnesses cannot be called against Mitchell unless their testimony to Hebert's subcommittee is released. However, the trial is continuing without those witnesses.

The judge said denial of the prior testimony to the defense could result in a mistrial.

Mitchell is the first soldier to face court-martial in connection with the alleged killing of civilians in the South Vietnamese hamlet of My Lai on March 16 1968. He has pleaded innocent to a charge of assault with intent to commit murder. The prosecution has far more witnesses than the 152 interviewed by Hebert's subcommittee.

Only some of Hebert's 152 witnesses would be court-martial witnesses.

Many testified to Hebert's subcommittee only on the question of whether lower-grade Army and State Department officers tried to cover up the alleged massacre—and the subcommittee issued a stinging report concluding that they did.

Four Injured In Accidents

Four persons were reported injured and an estimated $1,400 property damage caused in two traffic collisions investigated here yesterday.

According to Greenville police, heaviest damage resulted from a two-car collision at the intersection of Watauga and Halifax Avenues about 10:25 p.m. which involved cars driven by Joy Wise Jordan of 502 Watauga Ave. and Myra Joyce Drake, 23, of 114 East Redman Ave.

Officers, who reported Miss Drake and one passenger in her car were injured, set damage at $200 to the Jordan vehicle and $800 to the Drake car.

Miss Drake was charged with careless and reckless driving. Claudia Hill Hart, 21, of Grifton was charged with failing to stop for a stop sign following investigation of an 11:25 a.m. mishap at the intersection of Fourth and Pitt Streets.

Police, who reported Mrs. Hart and a passenger in her car were injured, identified the driver of the second vehicle involved as James Henry Phillips, 28, of Route 3, Greenville.

Damage to the Hart car was set at $400 while no damage resulted to the truck driven by Phillips, officers reported.

Cramp Style Of Image-Makers

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — A crimp is being put in the style of many publicists, public relations men, promoters, advertisers and other image makers by increasingly strict government concern with the facts.

Facts are what these men work with, of course, but suspicion has been aroused in consumer minds and the regulatory world that facts, like statistics, can be made to create illusions.

The Federal Trade Commission, for example, became incensed a year ago by advertisements that claimed tires were safely tested at speeds in excess of 100 miles an hour, which was factually true.

What the ads left unsaid was that the tests were performed under test conditions, not the conditions under which any purchaser would normally drive. And though the tire might not rupture, would it remain attached to the rim?

Pressed to produce the most favorable image for their products, publicists are sometimes forced to stretch their imaginations, which is to say they stretch the definition of truth as well.

It wasn't unknown, and still may not be, for an automotive advertisement to depict a sleek, handsome vehicle with all the extras adorning it, but list in large letters the price of the stripped model, and in tiny letters the details.

Outright lies became common during the 1960s in another area of corporate life. Mergers grew increasingly common, and so did the phrase: "We are not negotiating with any company at the present time."

Almost as commonly, this denial was followed by a statement that ABC Corp. had concluded merger arrangements with XYZ Corp. A lie? Of course, but in the view of the principals, an understandable

Judge Demands Better Security

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A state Supreme Court judge said Monday he was worried by a lack of security in his courtroom and demanded that the Erie County sheriff's office provide better protection.

Justice Frederick M. Marshall said he was angered Monday when a man who had just been sentenced to a long prison term was passed an overcoat by a relative. He said a deputy handed the coat to the prisoner without searching it for a possible weapon.

"I walked with one deputy who had not one minute of training and was not even aware of the rules and regulations for court deputies," Marshall said.

More Teachers Are Approved By Board

A contingent of full and part time professional, para-professional, and part time regular teachers was approved and elected at last night's city school board meeting.

These 20 additional people, Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, superintendent of the Greenville City Schools, explained, are made possible by funds for emergency school assistance which were received after the opening of school this year.

Two professional personnel — Mrs. Helen S. Cleveland, full time elementary guidance counselor; and Dr. Dennis Roberts, testing and counseling services part time were added in the guidance field.

In the teacher-school aides para-professional category, there are five in the elementary level — Ellen W. Amerson, Sarah S. Allen, Phoebe K. Claud, Wilma Jean Piner and Susan F. Martin; two for junior high — Churchill Thomas and Esther McKinney; and five for the senior high school — David Shields, Cynthia G. Gox, David K. Brooks, Bettie J. Petters and Dalton Price.

Five regular teachers on part time basis are: Macon J. Moye, Jr., Sara Payne, Meta M. Downes, Sarah E. Savage, Joanne T. Sklar and Ivan W. Nicholson.

All these are already on the job, and election last night constitutes an official affirmation. Dr. Cleetwood observed this contingent completed the staff hiring for the school year.

Unfinished Job At School Still Waits

Once more, as in many past school board meetings, Superintendent of the City Schools Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood was pressed by board members to get something done about the unpainted concrete block columns on the front of Rose High School.

Admitting that the unfinished job was a thorn in his side, Dr. Cleetwood explained that efforts and more efforts had been made to get this final touch completed.

It has developed that the material facing the concrete block columns is a very special one that only a rare handful of specialists can handle. "I understand the contractors went to Norfolk last week and found another man who can do this kind of work," Dr. Cleetwood remarked. "But we still have no assurance what date the work will be done."

Rose High Principal Robert Alligood added, "This material has not been used in this area before and I've heard its extremely sensitive to variations in climatic conditions."

projects. He wrote he was aware of difficulties encountered "all the way from vandalism suffered during the summer when the scaffolding was pushed over to the 'on again, off again' work of the plaster."

"This is beginning to sound like a broken record," Dr. Cleetwood concluded, "but I would appreciate continued effort on your part."

Dudley Flood To Address PTA

The Rose High School PTA meeting Thursday night will feature as guest speaker Dudley Flood. A former principal in Pitt County, Flood is now Assistant Director of Human Relations with the North Carolina Department of Public Instruction.

His topic will be "A Cooperative Approach to Education". The PTA meeting is scheduled to begin at 8:00 p.m. The public is invited to attend. The meeting will be held in the school cafeteria.

Swedish Apple Pudding Is Favorite Dessert

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
Swedish Apple Pudding is probably the top favorite among all of the Scandinavian desserts. But alas, recipes for this delicious offering are inclined to be disagreeably vague.

Here, for example, is how these recipes usually run: "Layer applesauce, whipped cream and buttered bread crumbs in a pudding dish; finishing with whipped cream and a few grains of nutmeg."

A cook who appreciates exactitude is likely to ask, "What kind of applesauce, homemade or canned? Should the cream be sweetened? What kind of crumbs—fine dry or fresh soft? And how much butter goes on the crumbs? What size dish is it practical to use? Should the pudding be chilled before serving?"

When we complained to a home-economist friend about such sloppy recipes, she offered us one she had worked out to the last detail. This recipe is based on several from Swedish cookbooks, translated by our friend's Swedish neighbor.

When we tried this Swedish Apple Pudding at our house, we found the recipe a delight: easy to follow, delectable result. We also liked the fact that the dessert could be prepared well ahead of serving. As a matter of fact, a portion of the pudding that was leftover still tasted good after an overnight stay in the refrigerator. However, to have the crumbs at their crispest, the pudding should be served the same day it is made.

SWEDISH APPLE PUDDING
12 thin slices white bread
1/2 cup (1/4 lb-stick) butter
6 tablespoons sugar
2 1/2 cups chilled homemade applesauce (see recipe below)
1-3rd cup chopped (medium) fine blanched almonds
1 container (1/2 pint) heavy cream (1 cup)
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
Raspberry jam

Trim crusts from bread; with fingers tear bread into small crumbs; there should be about 5 1/2 cups, not packed down.

In a 10-inch skillet over low heat, melt 1/4 cup of the butter. Add half the crumbs. Sprinkle with 2 tablespoons of the sugar. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly with a fork, until crumbs are browned—about 5 minutes. Turn crumbs out of skillet onto a flat surface to crisp.

In skillet melt remaining 1/4 cup butter; add remaining crumbs and 2 tablespoons of the sugar; brown as before; turn crumbs out of skillet as before. There should now be about 2 1/2 to 3 cups crumbs.

Stir almonds into applesauce. Beat 1/2 cup of the cream until it begins to thicken. Gradually beat in 1 tablespoon of the sugar and 1/4 teaspoon of the vanilla; beat until thick.

Spread 1 cup of the crumbs in the bottom of a 1 1/2-quart souffle dish or similar straight-sided dish that can be brought to the table. Spread with half the applesauce, the with half the whipped cream.

Add another cup of crumbs, remaining applesauce and remaining whipped cream. Spread with remaining crumbs. Chill.

Just before serving, beat remaining 1/2 cup cream until it begins to thicken. Gradually beat in remaining 1 tablespoon sugar, then remaining 1/4 teaspoon vanilla; beat until thick. Place spoonfuls of whipped cream on top of pudding. Add a dab of raspberry jam to each mound.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.
APPLESAUCE
(For Swedish Apple Pudding)
3 pounds cooking apples
1/4 cup water
1/2 cup sugar

Wash apples and quarter without peeling or coring. Cut away blossom ends and any brown spots. Place in a large saucepot. Add water; cover and cook over medium-low heat until apples are soft—about 20 minutes. Stir occasionally so apples don't scorch. Drain off any water in pan.

Spoon apples, one-third at a time, into a food mill placed over a bowl or saucepan. Strain, discarding peel left in mill after each straining. Stir in sugar. If applesauce is very juicy, place in food mill over a bowl and let excess liquid drain off.

Makes about 2 1/2 cups. Use as directed in Swedish Apple Pudding.

Feels Pregnant Women Should Work

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: MARYLOO wrote to you saying pregnant women have no business working in an office. She says they come late to work due to morning sickness, have to leave early for a doctor's appointment, can't reach the high files and can't bend down to get into the low files. Also that sympathetic co-workers do their work for them.

I happen to agree with her. The employe with integrity (man or woman) will give his employe a full day's work for a full day's pay. You, Dear Abby, defended the pregnant working girl, saying, "I'm sure she'd rather be home, but she continues to work because she has to."

Sorry, Abby, but in this day and age, no girl has to get pregnant unless she wants to. And if she is so stupid or careless as to find herself in that condition before she is financially able to quit her job, I have no sympathy for her.

MARRIED, CHILDLESS AND SMART

DEAR ABBY: In your valiant effort to defend the pregnant working girl, you said, "There is only one reason why a pregnant girl would go to an office and that's because she has to, so how about a little compassion sister?"

Well, I must be the exception because I worked right up to the bitter end—not because I "had" to, but because my doctor said it would be "good" for me. He said pregnancy is not an "illness," it is a normal condition, and the woman who sits around and treats herself as an invalid is apt to have all sorts of aches and pains.

I worked well into my ninth month. I gained only 14 pounds and never felt better in my life. One morning while taking dictation I thought someone had suddenly kicked me in the kidney! That was my first labor pain. Four hours later I was the mother of a healthy six pound baby boy.

So, please tell pregnant women that "work" is the best medicine. I recommend it. BARBARA IN MARYLAND

DEAR ABBY: There is another reason why a pregnant woman might stay on the job in an office when she would rather be home. Her boss "needs" her.

My boss kept begging me to stay on "another week" and "another week" until I almost delivered my baby between the reception room and the switchboard. This is no lie. I had nearly 40 witnesses. JULIA IN MISSOULA

DEAR ABBY: I have been in charge of office personnel for almost 30 years, and I have some news for MARYLOO. In every office you will find the "complainers" (men as well as women) who always have a headache, an upset stomach, a backache or a hangover. But when it comes to pregnant women, I have found them to be every bit as efficient during pregnancy as before and after.

MALE PERSONNEL MGR.

DEAR ABBY: I am 38, single and have done office work for many years. I sincerely hope your readers won't think MARYLOO's attitude toward pregnant women who work is typical. It's not.

I have worked with many pregnant women and not one of them has ever expected—or asked for any special concessions because of her condition. Also, it has been my observation that all their co-workers (including me) always offered to assist them in every way possible without being asked.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Westerners Love Oriental Eyes

HONOLULU (AP) — The almond eyes of an Oriental beauty may appear more lovely to Westerners than they do in the mirror to those who peer through them.

Plastic surgery to "westernize" eyes has been popular in the Orient for years. The practice is becoming increasingly popular in Hawaii, where a large Japanese population and racial mixtures make the single Oriental eyelid common.

In Honolulu, several of the eye-changing operations are done each week on patients ranging from small children to women in their 40s and 50s. Islanders tend to have their own ideas about how they want their eyes to look.

Physicians attending a recent Pacific surgical conference here, said that while women with single eyelids in the Orient just want to have a fold put in, Hawaii's patients request a rounding of the eyes and their eyelashes made more prominent.

The change from the single eyelid, without the upper fold, to the double eyelid with the fold, makes the eyes look larger and more Caucasian-like.

There are several techniques used by plastic surgeons, most requiring a surgical incision and removal of excess skin.

One procedure used in Japan, however, is done without surgery by tucking in the extra skin and stitching it up.

The cost of the operation ranges from $50 to $400 and usually takes about 30 minutes.

The swelling disappears in about three weeks for younger persons but lasts up to three months for older patients.

Scars often vanish in six months, but in some cases the scar tissue builds up and about one in 50 patients has to have the operation repeated.

Teenagers in Honolulu have invented their own way to create the round-eye look. Many put cellophane tape or glue over their eyelids and leave it on overnight.

The next morning they awake with the desired double eyelid effect, but it only lasts for the day.

Now he has come home to marry her, and the pair will honeymoon in West Germany, his new post. "I could write a book about our unusual romance, and I probably shall," smiled Linda. She has already written 150,000 words in love letters to Dennis, who has saved them all.

Householders Can Offset Pollution

NEW YORK (AP)—It took a lot of little things to make the huge pollution problem this country is facing, but, by the same token, the solution is composed of a lot of little things each person can do to change the situation.

Burn garbage
Let gas and oil engines idle

Lightning Strikes!
Have you stood on end lately? Your hair, that is!

If you are one of those who has trouble with "static electricity" causing your hair to friz and stand on end, don't be alarmed.

First, it can't hurt you, physically, even if you're generating sparks!

Second, there are several solutions worthy of comment. Hair spray, for instance, helps control the electrified hair. Cream rinses after shampoos also help.

Natural-bristle brushes such as genuine tortoise-shell, horn, or wood comb quiet flying hair more than synthetic brushes such as nylon, hard rubber, or steel.

However, the best calmer is in your hands right now—that is, your two hands. By caressing your hair the body heat and moisture of your palms will settle electrified hair.

Untold Value In Coastal Route

The proposed coastal corridor highway linking Norfolk, Va. to Savannah, Ga. would be of untold value to the eastern part of North Carolina.

From I-95 to the Outer Banks the present highways to the north and south are poor for carrying heavy traffic volume.

At the East Coast Highway Conference held at Myrtle Beach Gov. Scott said the link "is of critical importance to the economic development of our Coastal Plains and coastal area."

"The success or failure of a coastal corridor rests to a large extent on the continued interest and support of people such as you at this gathering," the governor told the group.

Dr. Leo Jenkins who presided over the meeting, said, "We must state clearly our need, our anticipated benefits, and inform of the service they can expect."

A resolution approved by the group called on the Secretary of Transportation to authorize the route and provide special funds through the Coastal Plains Regional Commission.

There is no question in our minds that such a highway is badly needed in the eastern section of North Carolina to reach its potential. The highway, as proposed, would be multi-lane and limited access with traffic approaches and exits providing safe entrance to local points along the route.

Since such construction would require a new right-of-way it is logical that Greenville, as the largest city between Norfolk and Wilmington, would be in close proximity to the new highway. Thus for the first time Greenville has a chance to obtain an adequate highway, of interstate standards, leading north and south.

Greenville citizens should be interested in this project and lend all their efforts to bringing it about.

That Periodic Industry Booms

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — A periodic industry which every two years pours several million dollars into the North Carolina economy within the span of a few months is now going full blast.

It's called a political campaign.

Direct beneficiaries include the advertising media of television, radio, press and billboards, printing companies for brochures and posters, novelty houses which supply the paraphernalia to attract voters. Barbecue purveyors generally have an increase in business.

Several thousand are employed, some at the top of billboards, ample supply of literature and material, and a high level of activity for GOP candidates generally are indications that funds are available and are being used.

State Republican Chairman Jim Holshouser agreed that more energy, effort and expense is going into the campaign than ever before in an off-year.

However, he said the contributions - expenditures report to be filed by the party may be somewhat less than usual. For the most part, he explained, party state headquarters has given coordination and assistance while county organizations and the candidates themselves have actually raised and spent the money.

The report to be filed by Democratic state headquarters will list contributions in the neighborhood of $17,000 to $20,000, and expenses near the same level.

Of course, activity at the state level - particularly when there are no statewide races - barely scratches the surface. The burden of the campaign is carried where the candidates are running: in counties and districts for local offices and General Assembly seats; in Congressional Districts for those contests.

Assessing campaign costs on an average basis is an impossibility. There are too many variations between areas of the state, intensity of competition, availability of funds, and the desire of a candidate to win.

For example, a legislative candidate in a rural eastern county with only token opposition would spend only a fraction of what it costs to run in a Piedmont county with concentrated population and keen party competition.

It Costs to Run
Insiders figure the cost of a campaign for the legislature will run from $1,500 or less up to $5,000 or above. In a metropolitan area of the state, it would not be unusual for a candidate to spend $8,000 to $10,000. There is a report of a candidate this time spending $75,000, but that seems almost certainly an exaggeration.

Taking a conservative average of $3,000 per candidate with approximately 122 House and Senate seats contested, gives a total of $732,000.

A campaign for Congress will have a price tag from $10,000 - where the race is minimal - to $200,000. Again, many factors can account for variation.

There are 10 Congressional contests in North Carolina this year. Taking a figure of $100,000 per candidate would give a $2 million total.

Throw in all the races for local offices, district judges, and others, and an overall figure of $3 million for this year's campaign industry becomes very conservative indeed.

'Bounty' Just Might Be Worth Trying Out

Rep. Sam Johnson, D-Wake, has proposed a bounty for drug peddlers.

He says this might be the answer to the controlling of the sale of harmful drugs in the state.

Maybe this is a plan that we ought to look at. Too often, it seems that our law enforcement officers nail the users of drugs but those who sell them go uncaught.

If we really want to make a dent in the drug traffic we must dry up the supply sources.

'Dump Agnew' Talk Is Rising

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Behind a facade of circumspect silence in the upper reaches of the Republican party across the nation, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has suffered deep—possibly irreparable—damage resulting from his onslaught against Sen. Charles Goodell of New York. The party's state leaders, facing a general election Nov. 3, will not publicly attack the man selected by President Nixon to carry the Republican campaign flag. But in private, their criticism is devastating. In state after state, they indict the Vice President for disturbing the party's delicately balanced internal harmony.

This apprehension, more than personal regard for Goodell's fate, has caused underground anti-Agnew murmurings in the party. Conservative Republican politicians who disapprove of Goodell's new-found liberalism fear Agnew may have unleashed the dogs of ideological factionalism that have been chained up since Goldwater days. Moreover, they blame Mr. Nixon, who should know better, for having inspired his Vice President.

Thus, Ted Agnew's political stock is at its lowest since his feckless campaigning in 1968, and "dump Agnew" talk is heard for the first time since early 1969. This coincides with reduced Republican optimism about Nov. 3 and a virtual abandonment of hope for gaining control of the Senate. Remarkably, scarcely a month ago, a supremely confident Agnew embarked on his campaign travels, his popularity within the party soaring and hopes high for substantial Republican victories.

Agnew's decline was at his own hand. Even before the Goodell affair, the Vice President was engaging in verbal overkill. Some Nixon political advisers felt then that Agnew was in danger of becoming a semi-comic character because of overblown rhetoric and repetitive attacks on "radical-liberals." With increasing frequency, politicians were grumbling that Agnew was saying the wrong thing in the wrong place. Visiting Arkansas where Republican Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller faces a difficult third-term race, Agnew on Oct. 8-9 concentrated on assaulting a familiar target—Sen. J. William Fulbright—a favorite son to Arkansians whose term does not expire until 1974 anyway. Agnew's Arkansas performance was a political non-sequitur.

As Agnew left Fort Smith, Ark., Rockefeller turned to an aide and snapped: "Now I know why my brother (Gov. Nelson Rockefeller) keeps him out of New York."

The attack on Goodell, culminating in the tasteless description of him as a political Christine Jorgenson, crystallized doubts about Agnew that had been building the past month. To many Republicans, it broke the ideological armistice that has prevailed since Goldwater and anti-Goldwater forces nearly destroyed each other six years ago.

An angry reaction by key Republicans in Ohio is typical. They noted that Ohio's Republican Congressional delegation runs the ideological spectrum from

Strength For Today

THE UNDEVIATING UNIVERSE

One of the most comforting things in the world is the realization that we live in a universe in which the natural laws are constant and undeviating in their operation. Gravitation always pulls objects toward the center of the earth. The planets revolve after a pattern upon which the learned can calculate with assurance and accuracy.

When Prime Minister Churchill was visiting Niagara Falls some years ago, someone asked him how the falls looked as compared with forty years ago when he had seen them for the first time. "Well," replied the Prime Minister with a twinkle in his eye, "the principle remains the same. The water keeps falling over."

About A Friend In Jail

ATLANTA — Most of us in the newspaper game have worked a police beat now and then. Most of us have covered criminal trials. We have learned the painful truth, over the years, that there's no such thing as equal justice under law, but the truth hurts a little more when an old friend finds herself in deep trouble.

Lee Cameron is such a friend. She's in Fulton County Jail under indictment for murder.

That is not her real name, of course; Lee and Cameron are streets in Alexandria. But the story is true and her situation is real; and when you hear talk of bail reform, and public defenders, and logjams in the courts, this is what the talk is about.

I met Lee four or five years ago, when she was working for one of the House committees as a top-level secretary, office manager, and general assistant to the boss. Lee knew everything that was going on within the committee - where the bills were, how the members stood, when hearings would be held. Reporters live by the Lee Camerons of this world.

We fell into the kind of cup-of-coffee friendship, nothing more, that newsmen fall into with gals on their beat. When I was working the House side, Lee would join me for a sandwich down in the Rayburn cafeteria. Ordinarily we talked nothing more serious than politics, but once, in a blue mood, she sat for an hour at the table, folding and creasing a paper straw, talking of her own troubled childhood.

She was born in 1939 in a small town not far from Shreveport. Abandoned by her parents in infancy, she was raised by relatives she came to despise - bleak people, filled with fundamentalist cruelty. Lee heard much of hell and damnation from them before she was five; she had endured a good deal of it by the time she was ten.

High school was an agony of rebellions, punishments, and new rebellions. Finally she was graduated, broke free, and fled to New Orleans. There she picked up her secretarial skills, lived the tough life of a single girl in a big city, had a couple of broken love affairs. Finally she came to Washington. Nothing much in the story so far.

Lee was a loner. She lived alone, out on Connecticut Avenue. She made few friends on the Hill. As time passed, I learned of two or three men in her life, one of them a captain assigned to the Pentagon, but nothing ever came of the relationships. She was a strikingly beautiful woman, tall, brown-eyed, auburn-haired; and restless. Her work was useful

Other Editors Say Not Worth Proving

(The Raleigh Times)

A high school isn't supposed to be an extension of a Marine Corps barracks. Neither is it supposed to be a place where young men can flout reasonable authority with impunity.

A federal court in North Carolina now is being burdened with a case in which four boys were suspended from school because the length of their hair didn't comply with the school dress code. The boys have testified that they wore their hair long because it pleased them that way, and that long hair wasn't a device for flouting the authority of school authorities or parents.

On the other side of the case, the vice principal testified that he disliked long hair on men because his service in the Marine Corps had left him with the feeling that men should have short hair. He said the dress code was adopted after a fight in a school hallway.

It is difficult for someone well past 30 to understand why some young people feel that they must wear long hair. It is difficult not to order them to have it cut and keep it cut. But, isn't this feeling one of prejudice instead of reason, and aren't we supposed to use reason in dealing with people young enough to need our guidance?

A high school shouldn't be run with Marine Corps style discipline, though it would be easy to fine thousands of adults just now who feel that would be the best way. Marine Corps in its training of men to be combat troops. High school discipline ideally should be designed to help fit young men for life in general, not for combat duty.

At this distance, this case seems to be one where both sides seem determined to prove points not worth proving.

Perhaps the federal judge, who undoubtedly has much more serious matters on his mind, can convince them of this point of view.

Canada's Move To See Impact

By ELMER ROESSNER
The establishment of diplomatic relations between Canada and Red China may be the most significant business news of the month. Its effects on American business will be felt long after the General Motors strike is a matter of history.

The most important effect, though not immediate, is likely to be the restoration of United States trade with mainland China. There has long been agitation for such trade. There has been a quiet but active lobby in Washington working for such trade, financed by men and organizations that could profit by it. President Nixon himself has stated that trade with China would be desirable.

This will be long in coming because the price will be high: dropping our support of Nationalist China, which is unthinkable, and supporting China's entrance into the United Nations, which would be possible. Red China would have to be hungry for dollars and food to waive the first condition. It would have to lose belly before it lost face. However, there could be an arrangement. Canada sold wheat to Red China for years before it agreed to establish diplomatic relations.

Many Other Consequences
The more immediate consequences of Canada's recognition will be —More American support for Taiwan. At the least, the U. S. must buy from Nationalist China an equivalent of what it has been selling to Canada, even if it means accepting more cheap-labor textiles and the American textile industry roars. It will be imperative that the U. S. support the growth of the Taiwan economy.

—An enormous hole in the trade wall between U. S. and Red China. There is little to prevent American goods from being sold to Canada and then shipped to China. Even some strategic items may slip through, as they have slipped through to Iron Curtain countries through Western nations in Europe.

—A new flow of mainland China goods into the U. S. While the U. S. will continue to bar Chinese products routed through Canada, it will be a barrier easy to surmount. It will be difficult to spot Chinese components in products labeled "made in Canada" and it will be easy to smuggle small objects, such as jade, across the Canadian border.

Other Problems
—A spy danger. It will be

Simple Little Test

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Now is a good time to check up on your mind as well as the condition of your car.

Maybe you've stripped the gears on both without noticing it.

Since half the people you meet seem to be getting balmier and balmier, how about yourself? Are the bats whirring in your own belfrey?

Well, here's an easy way to find out. Simply ask yourself the following questions:

Do you think that at least one of your neighbors' wives has a crush on you and would run away to Fiji with you if you only gave her an invitation?

If someone asked you to sign a petition to give government tax relief to a huge corporation because of its many fine services to the public, would you tell him to go stick his head in a barrel?

When a waiter suggests a specialty that isn't on the menu, do you automatically suspect he's trying to palm off something the chef is stuck with?

How about our teen-agers? Aren't most of them too lippy and too hippie?

What about marriage? If you had it to do over again, wouldn't you wait another five years so you could sow a few more wild oats?

Is it your conviction that most of the women in the women's liberation movement are frustrated old maids who don't like men anyway?

Have you read this year a book so sexy that you wouldn't feel free to leave it lying around where your kids might find it? It was trashy and not worth a man's time, too, wasn't it?

When a bank teller gives you a bill larger than a $10, do you scrutinize it to be sure he isn't trying to give you some counterfeit money he got caught with himself?

Are you overwhelmed by the speed with which things are changing today? Don't you wish some things would stay the way they were?

The mirror tells you that you are getting older but, thank heaven, you don't look like you're simply falling apart the way some of your friends do—true?

Wouldn't the best possible solution for noise pollution be for everyone to keep his own yap shut two hours more every day?

Those are the questions. Now let's see your box score:

If you answered "no" to more than two, you may be in a dangerous state of euphoria. Watch yourself.

If you answered "yes" to each question, you have a perfect score. You have just the right amount of protective paranoia to keep yourself from being made a fool of by the mentally questionable characters you probably are surrounded by.

Symposium For CPA's

Vance B. Taylor, Certified Public Accountant, left Sunday for Chapel Hill to participate in the 31st Annual Accounting and Taxation Symposium.

Adjournment of the symposium is scheduled for 5 o'clock, Wednesday.

The main purpose of the Accounting and Taxation Symposium is to keep the North Carolina Certified Public Accountants abreast of the ever changing complexities of the federal and state tax structures. Tuesday's and Wednesday's sessions have been oriented to the recent 1969 Tax Reform Act which caused a complete upheaval of the corporate and individual procedures and rates of taxation.

Open Meetings On Bonds Scheduled

Open town meetings, countywide, for all citizens of Pitt County have been scheduled by the Citizens' Committee for the new Pitt County Memorial Hospital.

Speakers of the public information committee will be present to give specific information concerning the proposed hospital and the $9,000,000 bond referendum.

"In making a decision of accepting or rejecting a proposed bond issue to finance this project the people of Pitt County are entitled to know something of the financial aspect of the proposition," Dr. I. W. Pou, Citizens' Committee chairman said.

The construction cost of a new modern 330 bed hospital will be $11,000,000. Almost 20 percent, $2,200,000 will be met by federal Hill-Burton funds and the remainder $9,000,000 provided by the bond issue. On property valued at $20,000 the average levy would be less than 10 cents a day. The bond issue will run for 20 years. In January 1971, a favorable vote on an additional one cent sales tax would substantially reduce the tax rate and interest of the hospital bonds according to the Pitt Commissioners. The Citizens' Committee invites all citizens to the scheduled open meetings to ask questions about the project or to express any objections.

At the close of each meeting, "Bonds for Your Life" campaign committee workers in their respective precinct areas will begin making personal visits on prospective voters to give them informational literature.

Public meetings are scheduled as follows: Bethel and Belvoir tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the Bethel Rotary Building with David Speir and C. W. Everette as co-chairmen; Winterville tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at the Town Hall with Robert E. Boyd as chairman; Falkland and Belvoir tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the Falkland Community Building with Woodrow Wooten as chairman; Ayden Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Ayden Court room with Corey Stokes and Clyde Simmons Sr. as co-chairmen; Farmville Friday at 7:30 p.m. at the Town Hall with Mark Owens Jr. as chairman; and Greenville and Grimesland next Tuesday at the Pitt County Courthouse. Times and places for Grifton and Pactolus meetings are pending.

NAACP Board Favors Bonds

The executive board of the Pitt County Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has endorsed a proposed bond issue to construct a new hospital for Pitt County.

The board's action came at the regular monthly meeting of the Pitt NAACP executive committee.

The bond issue will be voted on by Pitt citizens November 3. If approved, some $9 million in bonds will be sold and the funds used to build a completely new facility to replace the present crowded building.

The committee also heard a report from Mrs. Mahalie Shiver, vice-president of the Belvoir-Bethel area on a proposed Pitt County NAACP branch queen contest. Mrs. Shiver said girls have been selected to participate in the contest from all areas and said a meeting will be held October 25 in Bethel to finalize the queen program.

Fifteen girls, representing each of the 15 townships in the county are scheduled to participate in the contest, tentatively scheduled to be held November 8.

The Rev. James Rooks reported to the executive board that "The most clear-cut case of injustice..." that he has seen in Pitt County was brought out in the Thomas Earl Stocks rape-burglary trial heard during the

Says Army Is Told 'No'

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — An attorney for a Green Beret doctor accused of murdering his family says a "reliable source" told him an Army investigator had recommended that all charges be dropped.

The attorney Dennis Eisman, said his sources told him an Army report discloses that many unidentified fingerprints were found in the Ft. Bragg, N.C., apartment where Capt. Jeffrey MacDonald's pregnant wife and two daughters were stabbed and beaten to death last February.

The Army has completed its investigation but an officer who presided at a weeks-long hearing did not announce his recommendations on whether MacDonald, 27, of Patchogue, N.Y., should be prosecuted. Eisman said Monday he did learn that the hearing officer, Col. Warren V. Rock, has urged civilian authorities to investigate the activities of a Fayetteville, N.C., girl.

MacDonald claims intruders, one a girl wearing a floppy hat and blonde wig, killed his family and stabbed him.

Lt. Gen. John J. Tolson, the commander at Ft. Bragg, will make the final decision on whether the Green Beret physician should be court-martialed on three murder charges.

Worst Outbreak Of Diphtheria

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The diphtheria epidemic has become the worst in San Antonio since 1935.

A boy, 10, was confirmed Monday as the 127th case of the year and 18th this month.

The city also recorded 127 cases in 1935 with 23 deaths. Two children have died in the current outbreak, worst in the nation since 1956 when 141 cases were counted in Detroit.

The worst epidemic on record here came in 1914, when 344 persons contracted the throat infection, which can damage the heart and nervous system.

Wellington Gray and Miss Elizabeth Copeland, flags of different nations, used to accentuate the UN theme, were furnished by Sheppard Memorial Library. The dinner was served by Mrs. J. Vance Perkins and other members of the Woman's Club.

New members were introduced by Mrs. Wellington Gray, president of the Woman's Club.

Last night's dinner meeting was a benefit affair, a traditional one held yearly, with proceeds going to the United Nations Children Fund (UNICEF).

Agent Defused Dynamite Cache

NEW YORK (AP) — A prosecutor says that an undercover policeman defused a Black Panther dynamite cache by secretly substituting a filling of oatmeal and clay for the explosive powder.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Joseph Phillips told the jury Monday in the trial of 13 Black Panthers accused of conspiring to bomb and murder that the ersatz explosive was later found at the sites of three attempted bombings.

"If real dynamite had been used instead of simulated, a number of police officers would have been killed," Phillips told the panel of 11 men and one woman during his opening statement.

Woody Hayes Not Interested In Playing Notre Dame; Toledo 20th

by KEN APPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
That old bowl magic's got Ara Parseghian in its spell.
"The bowl games might very well decide the national champion again this year," says Parseghian, who obviously puts his Notre Dame team in the picture with Ohio State and Texas.
And why not? Notre Dame is No. 3 again this week behind front-running Ohio State and No. 2 Texas in The Associated Press' college football poll.
Parseghian wouldn't mind clearing up some of the poll business earlier by playing Ohio State in regular season—but the Buckeyes won't have any part of it.

"We've tried to add Ohio State to our schedule," Parseghian told The Associated Press Monday night. "But they've refused."
Coach Woody Hayes of the Buckeyes reached by telephone later, admitted: "I have not been interested in adding Notre Dame to the schedule."
Ohio State continued to lead the rankings with 668 points from a panel of sports writers and broadcasters throughout the country. Texas had 630 points and Notre Dame 585.
Rounding out the Top Ten were Nebraska; Michigan; Auburn; Air Force; Stanford; Arkansas and Southern California. Parseghian obviously wants that No. 1 ranking. He believes in Poll Power. "The polls are great, they give you the relative strength of the teams around the country," he says, putting down those who say polls are not the true measure of a team's worth.

"We all recognize that on any given Saturday anything can happen. No. 1 can lose to No. 19—it's part of the game. But it doesn't mean polls are not accurate."
The Top Twenty teams, with first-place votes in parentheses, and total points. Points tabulated on basis of 20-18-16-14-12-10-9 etc.:

Furman Sub Is Top S.C. Player

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP)—Furman coach Bob King thought it was "unbelievable" his Paladins came back Saturday to beat Davidson 31-24 in a Southern Conference football game with both his fullbacks injured.
But Steve Crislip, a 5-foot-11, 175-pound junior from Augusta, Ga., stepped into the breach and for his efforts was named today as the conference's offensive player of the week.
Crislip scored the winning touchdown with 2:48 left on a 26-yard pass from quarterback John DeLeo. Before that he had carried 17 times for 115 yards, including a 51-yard run that set up another Furman score. In addition, he was used by the Paladins to return kickoffs.

Runner-up was William and Mary fullback Phil Mosser, who gained 156 yards in a 24-10 victory over Virginia Military Institute to run his total in six games to 739 yards—a school record for one season. He scored one of the Indians' touchdowns on a 44-yard run.
Wally Ake and Mary linebacker William Ake was named the conference's defensive player of the week with Furman linebacker Chuck Cross the runner-up.

Hamilton Wants Some Quick $$

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Pete Hamilton, the 28-year-old bachelor stock car driver faced with an 18-month hitch in the Army, says he hopes he wins Sunday's National 500 at Rockingham, N.C., because "I hear the pay isn't too good in the Army."
And the $18,000 first-prize money would tide him over for a few months in barracks life if the Army makes good its attempt to put him on active duty for failing to attend the required number of Army reserve drills.
Hamilton has been sifting through his correspondence, hoping to come up with papers that he says will solve his problem with the Army.
He says there are some "mitigating circumstances" behind the papers that were served him Saturday at the Martinsville, Va., speedway. The papers, he says, would help him to be in an active Army unit by no later than Monday, Oct. 26.

If the Army does get Hamilton, his pay will drop considerably. He has won $129,661 so far this year.
Hamilton's Plymouth running mate, Richard Petty, says Hamilton hasn't given up hope that the Army won't snap him up.
"This came as quite a surprise to Pete," said Petty. "Maybe a better word is shock. And he believes that there has been a mistake made. I don't know what I can do to help him. But we're going to try."
"Until Monday comes, no one is giving up hope."
Hamilton, who has captured three super speedway races, wants to go out with a winning bang if the National 500 this Sunday "is my last race for a while. I want to make it a winning one."
"We're Monday to try," Petty said. "Hamilton will be a top contender, too."

In the Grand National Manufacturers Championship, Dodge held the lead with 282 points compared to 272 for Plymouth and 178 for Ford.

Ayden Plays Host To Louisburg; Title Chances Appear Slimmer

Hopes of a Tidewater Conference championship grew dimmer for the Ayden Tornados this weekend, as Manteo, the only team to beat them, picked up its second victory in the loop.
The teams play only four games, and at best, Manteo could only lose two. And one of their games is with a team they have already beaten 20-0, while the other is with Knapp.
The Tornados thus must hope for a three-way tie by having Knapp beat Manteo, and then beating Knapp themselves in the final game of the season.

During this past weekend, Manteo smashed Camden, 56-6, while Knapp remained unbeaten with a 28-8 win over Columbia.
Ayden, meanwhile, playing outside the conference, struggled from behind to tie tough Ahoskie, 12-12, in the last two seconds of the game.
"We keep the fans coming back," Ayden Coach Nelson Gravatt said of the stunning climax to the game. It was the second straight time the Tornados had pulled defeat from the fire in the last minute of play. They earlier nipped Farmville, 20-16, with a touchdown with 40 seconds to play.

"A hoskie has a real fine ball club," Gravatt said. "They were hampered by a lot of penalties. We played a fine game in the second half, but we were fortunate to tie them."
The coach pointed out that many say the mark of a good team is their ability to come through in the clutch, and that Ayden is doing this.
"Everybody came through the game okay. They were the best hitting team we've played this year—a well-disciplined team. The fact that we were in good shape made us hang in there."
Gravatt singled out Jackie Eason for special praise in the game. "It was the second straight week that he has caught a pass that helped us to win. He caught a long one that set up our tying touchdown with 30 seconds to go."

This week, the Tornados play outside the conference again, playing host to Louisburg.
"They have not had a real successful year," Gravatt said. "They lost only 13-6 to a strong Edenton team, but their record has been a losing one."
Gravatt said the chief threat of Louisburg is a passing attack led by their 6-3 quarterback. "He throws the ball well and we look for them to come out passing against us."
Elsewhere in the conference, Mattamuskeet visits Manteo, and Columbia goes to Aurora in non-conference games, while Camden is at Knapp in the lone loop contest.
The current Tidewater standings:

| | CONF. | Overall. |
|----------|-------|----------|
| | w l | w l t |
| Manteo | 2 0 | 5 1 1 |
| Knapp | 1 0 | 6 0 1 |
| Ayden | 2 1 | 5 1 1 |
| Camden | 0 2 | 2 5 0 |
| Columbia | 0 2 | 2 5 0 |

The Citadel Is Prender's Pick

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
As a more or less impartial observer, Bucknell coach Fred Prender says he'd have to go with the Citadel's front-running Bulldogs over Davidson's defending champion Wildcats if the Southern Conference football race came down to the two teams.
"It has to be that way," says Prender, whose team edged Davidson 21-20 but was beaten by The Citadel 42-28 last Saturday night.
"We beat Davidson and The Citadel beat us," he says. "but to pin it down, I would say The Citadel is much stronger offensively."
It was a departure from The Citadel's normal offense that did in the Bisons. Coach Red Parker of The Citadel had said before the game he planned to go to the air with the long gainer, and it was three passes in the second quarter that gave the Bulldogs a comfortable lead.
"But some of the luster was taken off that by our poor execution at times," Parker added. "We've got to find a way to stop this bad ball handling, particularly on the pitchout plays."
Parker expects junior tailback Bob Duncan, held out of the game with an injury, to be back for this Saturday's conference scrap with Virginia Military Institute. Sophomore Jon Hall, who replaced Duncan against Bucknell, scored twice in the second half on long runs.

Sophomore Tommy Rhodes was named Monday to replace linebacker Charlie Baker, expected to miss the VMI game with an ankle injury. But VMI has problems, too, with defensive end Dick Valentine out with a sprained knee. Safety Jim Ingram may be back, however, after sitting out a week.
Three East Carolina players—split end Carl Gordon, offensive tackle Paul Haug and defensive end Ted Salmon—were listed as doubtful for the Pirates' Tobacco Bowl game against Richmond because of injuries.
Flanker Dick Corrada, offensive guard Mike Kopp and safety Tom Pulley were praised for their work against Southern Illinois, while Richmond coaches had kind words for the work of linebacker Chuck Hall for his play in the Spiders' 20-0 defeat at Florida.
Offensive back Mike Johnson, who missed the Davidson game, was back at practice Monday at Furman as the Paladins began preparations for Saturday's game with Chattanooga.

Funny Animals In The ACC Zoo

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Come, take a walk through the Atlantic Coast Conference football zoo.
"What is that critter that looks like a deflated, defeathered eagle? That's the South Carolina Gamecock. It seems it came out on the short end of a Turtle-Chicken version of the tortoise and the hare story last Saturday when Maryland's Terrapins upended South Carolina, 21-15."
What are those moans' and groans?
Several key South Carolina players were injured in the headknocking session with the Terrapins, said Gamecock coach Paul Dietzel. Linebacker Al Usher has a fractured bone in one of his hands; reserve quarterback Jackie Young has a bruised shoulder; and offensive tackle Dave DeCamilla is nursing an ankle injury.
And that isn't good for a team that must take on dangerous Florida State Saturday night.
Next, we find a Demon with his eyes shut tightly. He's been sitting like that since the Wake Forest Demon Deacons' shellacking of the Clemson Tigers, 36-20, last Saturday. What he's doing is wishing for a victory next Saturday over North Carolina.
Impossible? Stranger things have happened in Atlantic Coast Conference football.
Ask the Gamecock we just passed.
North Carolina's scout was tossing a little ACC spooko dust around the Demon Deacons. Football spooko dust is that combination of half truths and half deceptions to make the other side overconfident.
Wake Forest has "a very sound football team," said the Tar Heel scout, Moyer Smith.
The Demon Deacons' last opponent, the Clemson Tiger, is still trying to unknot its tail after last Saturday's ambush. The Tigers went through another day of fundamentals Monday. That means, how to do things that win ball games. The Tigers haven't won a game in four straight now, and have an excellent opportunity to lose No. 5 next Saturday. Clemson plays Duke.

And what's that thing doing there, you say? That's the Blue Devil strut, the result of a 3-0 Duke record in ACC action and the conference lead.
Coach Tom Harp says his Devils played "just well enough to win" over North Carolina State, 22-6, last Saturday, and he isn't doing any unnecessary crowing.
Harp reminded reporters at a press conference that he has never won at Clemson's Death Valley.

Prothro Feels Rule Is Harsh

By DAN BERGER
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP)—UCLA Football Coach Tommy Prothro doesn't like the way the college pass interference rule is being interpreted this year. As he sees it, "It's nearly impossible to play pass defense any more."
Prothro's team won a thriller from California 24-21 Saturday and two fourth-quarter key pass interference calls against the Golden Bears allowed Prothro's Bruins the life they needed. UCLA quarterback Dennis Dummit scored the go-ahead touchdown with four seconds to play. "The game is out of control," Prothro said jokingly Monday, referring to his team's last four games, all won in the final seconds—and only two of them by the Bruins. Then he turned serious.
"The way I understand the pass interference rule, when the ball was in the air, everyman had a right to go for it. But the new interpretation says that if the defensive man bumps the offensive man in the act of trying to intercept, that's interference. It's getting so it's nearly impossible to play pass defense any more."
The NCAA Rulebook says: "Contact by any opponent which interferes with an eligible receiver—defensive players included—beyond the neutral zone is pass interference. However, players are not guilty of interference when making a simultaneous and bona fide effort to reach the ball."

The rule protects the defender from being charged with interference while trying for the ball but the NCAA rules committee issued a new interpretation this year. It calls for an interference penalty if the defender "plays through" or bumps the receiver, even if he is going for the ball.
Prothro said: "I've heard of a defensive man leaping up and intercepting the ball cleanly but when he landed back on the ground, he bumped the receiver and that is now ruled interference."
"It also means you can't hold up a receiver at the line of scrimmage with a brush block because that would be interference. I guess I'm like all old-timers: I'd like it the way it was when I was growing up."
Jim Stangeland, coach at Long Beach State, agreed with Prothro.
Craig Fertig, Southern California assistant coach and USC's all-time leading passing leader, said, "Yes, the defense is at a disadvantage."

Warren Is Pick Champ
Dennis E. Warren of Rt. 2, Robersonville, captured first place in last week's Daily Reflector Football Poll.
Warren correctly picked the winners in 27 of the 32 games listed in the contest.
Second place went to Donald Buck of 1702 Sulgrave Road in Greenville. He was only one behind Warren with 26 correct. Eight other entrants also picked 26 correctly, but Buck hit the point total-right on the nose with a guess of 70. Both The Citadel-Bucknell (42-28) and Pacific-Santa Clara (47-23) produced this total.

Opening lead: Four of ♠ West inadvertently collaborated with the declarer's design in today's hand by playing East in a vise from which the latter could not extricate himself, and South was able to salvage his three trump contract.

West opened the four of hearts. Declarer won the trick with the jack and led back a club. West followed with the six. North played the nine and East ducked. Observe that if East wins the first club, it becomes routine for declarer to drive out the ace the next time and subsequently enter the North hand with the ace of hearts to take four club tricks.

South reentered his hand with the queen of spades to lead another club. West played the seven and North the ten. East was in with the queen and returned a heart. South put up the king and inasmuch as he was out of clubs, profitable development of that suit was no longer practical and he switched his attention to spades.

North discarded a club. East could not give up a spade without establishing two tricks for South in that suit, so he parted with the jack of diamonds. Declarer correctly guessed to play the deuce from dummy and East's king fell to the ace. North's queen of diamonds took the fulfilling trick.

West could have broken the sequence if he had refrained from cashing the last heart. A diamond shift at this point establishes the setting trick for East.

Had South guessed the distribution in the red suits, he can always fulfill his contract by cashing out his spade honors and throwing East in instead of West. After East wins two spade tricks, he must lead away from the king of diamonds, allowing declarer to score the fulfilling tricks in that suit.

Computer Helps Diagnose Illness

By JOHN FITZGERALD
MELBOURNE (AP) — Two scientists have shown that a computer can learn to diagnose illnesses.

In a test, the computer diagnosed more cases correctly than eight doctors.

The scientists are Vance X. Gledhill and Dr. John D. Matthews who work with the Swiss Karger Memorial Foundation annual prize for medical research.

Full details of the research at Melbourne's Walter and Eliza Hall Institute have not been disclosed but it could be a step towards the increased use of computers in hospitals and surgeries.

Gledhill and Matthews have shown that a computer can make diagnoses from patients' answers to a questionnaire—with the remarkable feature of learning as it goes.

In a trial at the Royal Melbourne Hospital, a group of eight doctors and a computer were asked to make diagnoses from questionnaire responses of 45 patients who had one or more of 15 diseases.

The doctors made the correct diagnosis in 42 per cent of the cases; the computer scored 65 per cent.

This is not the first application of computer diagnosis. One is used at the Southern General Hospital, Glasgow, Scotland, to aid diagnosis in suspected stomach ulcer cases.

The machine is programmed to ask the patient a series of questions, each one determined by the preceding answer.

Movie 'Re-Make' For Macbeth

LONDON (AP) — Shakespeare's "Macbeth" is scheduled for another movie remake, this time with some of its characters performing in the nude.

Kenneth Tynan, British drama critic and author, is teaming with Playboy magazine's Hugh Hefner in the production. The London Sunday Telegraph said motion picture director Roman Polanski is in London to handle the casting.

The newspaper said that in the film the three witches will appear in the raw and Lady Macbeth will wear little or no clothing during her sleepwalking scene.

Tynan is best known in the United States for creating the nude review "Oh! Calcutta," which has been playing off-Broadway for two years.

Talk Moving Nat'l Office
By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Caught in a financial crunch, the Episcopal Church is considering moving its national offices out of its 11-story headquarters building in New York City.

Bishops here at the denomination's governor convention have relayed the question to the 3.4-million-member Church's executive council with further studies ordered before it makes a decision.

The present headquarters at 815 Second Ave., Manhattan, cost close to $6 million and is now considered worth more than $10 million. Bishop I. B. Noland of New Orleans suggested leasing it rather than selling it.

Bishop Crowley said the question involved factors of economy, accessibility, communications facilities, ecumenical contacts and the problem of relocating some 200 headquarters staff members.

The bishops, in a decision reversing their past stand, Tuesday approved the ordaining of women as deacons, considered the entrance into holy orders and normally a first step toward the priesthood.

Urge Insure Health Of Every Child

By LEIF ERICKSON
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —

The executive board of an organization representing almost two-thirds of the nation's 18,000 pediatricians has endorsed a study, calling for every American child to be included in a national health insurance program.

Dr. Carl C. Fisher of Philadelphia, who headed the two-year study for the American Academy of Pediatrics, announced the board's action Monday. Under present insurance programs, he said, "child health care is far too expensive for millions of families."

The 11,500-member academy, holding its annual convention here, also received a preliminary report Monday from its committee on insurance plans. It said "every infant, child and youth in the nation must be insured" to provide the greatest base and to protect low-income families.

The committee suggested "total or partial payment of health insurance by the government for those who cannot afford premiums," as determined by a national health insurance board. The board would supervise the plan through the insurance commissioners of each state.

The committee said a national insurance system would sharply increase care demand and probably increase costs.

It proposed that the system be established on a phased basis to avert overtaxing available medical manpower and facilities.

WOULD CONTINUE CAREER — Capt. Susan R. Struck, 26, Louisville, Ky., wants to remain on active duty in spite of the fact she could become the first Air Force officer on active duty to give birth. A three-member administrative board at McCord Air Force Base has recommended that the nurse be honorably discharged. Capt. Struck is a Vietnam veteran.

College Hunting New President

MISENHEIMER, N. C. (AP) — Pfeiffer College is shopping for a new president.

Dr. Jack J. Early, the president since July, 1969, announced Monday that he is resigning, effective Feb. 1. He will become executive director for educational affairs for the American Bankers Association.

Kilpatrick . . .

(Continued from page 4) and interesting, yet the spasms of despondency grew worse. And the day came when I dropped by her office to find her gone. She had moved South; no one seemed to know exactly where.

A year or so later, through the grapevine, I learned of a suicide attempt. Another year or so passed. Then a few days ago, just before I had to come to Atlanta for a speaking engagement, the word drifted to Washington that Lee was here, in jail.

When I talked with her, a sad story came tumbling out. She had been filling in for the manager of the apartment house where she lived. A quarrelsome tenant complained of linen service. The woman went berserk, attacked Lee. They struggled. She cried for help. A nearby tenant heard her but "did not want to get involved." Lee had carried a small pistol in her purse since her days in Washington—many government girls do. She seized the gun, "hoping it would scare her assailant. But the woman lunged, and the pistol fired. The first charge was voluntary manslaughter; but the grand jury said murder.

No trial date has been fixed. It may be weeks; it may be months. Lee is broke, and as usual, friendless. She has no resources for bond, for skilled defense attorneys, for psychiatric experts to testify in court, for the kind of private investigators who might turn up helpful evidence of her assailant's violent temper. A wealthy defendant could obtain all these advantages. With no funds, no job, no home, and only the counsel of an overworked public defender, she fates—who knows what? This is the way justice works, and I am enough of a realist to doubt that anything much can be done about it; but it ought to work better.
