Arrest 2 For Threats

HIGH POINT, N. C. (AP) - Two more teen-agers were arrested Tuesday night on charges of making false bomb threats, bringing to seven the number of youths arrested on such charges in the last few days.

High Point, and Phillip A. Beddington, 16, of Thomasville. They were accused of making the calls Tuesday morning. Hearings have been held in juvenile court for a 15-year-old boy charged with planting a fake bomb and making a threatening call to Central High School, causing the evacuation of the school, and for a 13-year-old boy and his 15-year-old sister charged with making another call. Probably cause for juvenile court trial was found for all three.

LBJ Saw No Way Out

NEW YORK (AP) - Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson says that seven months after her husband ordered the bombing of North Vietnam he said he saw no way for the United States to get out of the war.

The entry dated March 7, 1965, notes that even then she was "counting the months until March 1968" when her husband could announce that he would not be a candidate for re-election. The excerpts are from her book, "A White House Diary," portions of which are published in the current McCall's magazine.

To Circle The Moon

MOSCOW (AP) - The Soviet government announced today that an unmanned spacecraft, Zond 8, is on its way to circle the moon.

ies circled the moon in August 1969 and returned with pictures of the lunar surface. Zond 8 will "carry out physical research along the flight path and in near-moon space, take pictures of the lunar surface, of the earth and the moon at different distances, check on improved on-board systems, units and constructions of spacecraft," the news service said.

Former Greenville Resident Tells Of Delaware's Savings

Gov. Russell W. Peterson of Delaware, who visited Gov. Bob Scott in Raleigh yesterday, is a former resident of Greenville.

Delaware," he said. North Carolina voters will decide November 3 whether to approve a constitutional amendment that allow the state to make such a conversion. The 1969 General Assembly authorized the creation of a study commission to propose methods of cutting from 317 to no more than 25 the number of independent state boards and commissions in North Carolina. Besides citing the money saved, Peterson related "There's no doubt about it, we have already demonstrated that we can come to decisions promptly without waiting for months for board and commissions to meet." Peterson, 54, is a Republican. He holds a Ph. D. in chemistry.

15,000 Tar Heels At Asheville Rally Rain-Soaked Crowd For Nixon day as they waited for the President to arrive at a rally aimed at bolstering the chances of Republican congressional candidates in the Nov. 3 election. The rain didn't go away, but Nixon came anyway, bringing with him a message that turned the chant into cheers. Striking at themes close to the hearts and minds of his listeners, Nixon reaffirmed his opposition to busing for school integration and his determination to get textile import limits out of this session of Congress.

For 15 minutes, the President stood hatless under a canopy on a hastily built speakers platform in City-County Plaza and addressed the umbrella-dotted crowd. Nixon said he needed more Republicans in North Carolina's house delegation, dominated 7-4 by Democrats, to help him enact his proposals. He covered a wide range of subjects, from crime to poverty, but he drew some of his longest applause when he reiterated his opposition to busing for integration and support for the neighborhood school concept.

Game Time

The homecoming game of Rose High School has been scheduled for Friday, October 30, at 3:00 p.m. Principal Robert Allgood disclosed the time today after making arrangements with the New Bern team which will come here for the occasion.

For other events previously planned for the occasion, Allgood revealed the homecoming parade will be held Thursday, October 29, beginning at 4:00 p.m.

The homecoming dance, previously planned as part of the homecoming festivities, has been cancelled. Commenting on this development, Allgood said "if it's too dangerous for us to play a game at night, it's too dangerous to dance." Instead, he says there will be a home coming assembly at school on Thursday.

HICKORY, N. C. (AP) - An 18-year-old girl was given an eight-month suspended sentence Tuesday after pleading guilty to making a false bomb threat to Hickory High School.

Terrorists Strangled Quebec Labor Minister

MONTREAL (AP) - The terrorist kidnapers of Pierre Laporte strangled the Quebec labor minister with a chain twisted around his neck, the coroner's office reported today. The chain was still around the neck when the body was found early Sunday in a Montreal suburb, Coroner Laurin Lapointe said. First police reports had said Laporte was shot in the head. The body bore three superficial wounds, on the right hand, the left wrist, and the upper right chest, all inflicted before death, the coroner added. Time of death from asphyxiation was given as between noon and 11 p.m. Saturday, a week after Laporte was kidnaped by a cell of the separatist Quebec Liberation front from in front of his home. A brief, two-minute statement the coroner read to reporters said the chain on Laporte's neck had been twisted from behind. In the continuing hunt for the kidnapers of Laporte and James Richard Cross, the British trade commissioner in Montreal, police picked up two men in suburban St. Leonard. Police would give no details except to report that the men were being questioned in the kidnaping of Cross Oct. 5. The arrests came after a man called police three times during the night to discuss the provincial governments offer to give safe conduct to Cuba for the kidnapers if they released Cross.

Drug Samples Up In Smoke

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) - A physician authorized the destruction of thousands of drug samples to prevent them from falling into the hands of drug addicts. Three large cartons of pills, including amphetamines and barbiturates, were burned under supervision of Salt Lake County sheriff's deputies Tuesday.

DST Ending

WASHINGTON (AP) - Most Americans will move their clocks back one hour Sunday and swing to standard time for another six months. The official hour for converting from daylight savings to standard time is 2 a.m. Sunday. Clocks will remain on standard time until the last Sunday of next April, when daylight saving time arrives again.

Killers Burn Car

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP) - Investigators say they have found the car killers apparently used to escape from a burning hilltop mansion where a wealthy eye surgeon, his wife, two young sons and secretary were bound, shot to death and dumped into a swimming pool. The green Oldsmobile station wagon belonging to Virginia Ohta was found Tuesday by the engineer of a Southern Pacific train in a railway tunnel a few miles north of here. The engineer said the car was not there when he went up the narrow, forested canyon at 3 p.m. but was burning in the tunnel when he came back down at 4:45. He used the train to push the car out of the tunnel. No one was seen at the time, Southern Pacific officials said. Mrs. Ohta, 43, her husband, Dr. Victor Ohta, 45, their two sons, Derrick, 12, and Taggart, 11, and a secretary, Dorothy Cadwallader, 38, were found, bound and shot in the back of the head, in the swimming pool at Dr. Ohta's $250,000 hilltop home a few miles east of here Monday night.

Cease-Fire?

SAIGON (AP) - Speculation mounted in Saigon today that the United States and the Saigon government would declare a unilateral cease-fire in South Vietnam before the end of the month. There were several indications that the South Vietnamese government was preparing for a one-sided truce. The Interior Department reported on Oct. 16 to the President's Council on Environmental Quality: "Immediate short term effects of oil pollution ... may seriously damage the marine biological community in the area where the pollution occurs. The effects of a long-term pollution are not clearly understood. In addition to a visible tainting of fishery products," it added, "hydrocarbons could be passed along through the marine food chain from the lower forms of organisms to those harvested for human consumption. The effect of such oil ingestion on human health is not fully

Arthur Clarke Sees Exciting Changes Ahead

By JERRY RAYNOR Reflector Staff Writer "One advantage about aquaculture, or ocean farming," Arthur C. Clarke said, "is that you need not worry about irrigation." Clarke, noted writer of science fiction, non-fiction and inventor of the communications satellite, told his listeners last night at Wright Auditorium of the possibilities for the future - the very near future and particularly the year 2001.

For the average home 30 years from now, Clarke can see "a complete control center, a console for living." He expects this machine to take the place of many separate functions performed in everyday living today. "For example," Clark noted, "you could dial for a months supply of meals, say a package of 100 lbs." This package would be concentrated, like today's astronauts food, and "would only need water and heating for 10 minutes to be ready for a full feast."

The possibilities for food sources in the near future point to the sea as a vital source. "Let's face the fact," Clark said, "meat production is so uneconomical that it will very likely be prohibited by law within the next century. Right now, for every man who eats meat ten people must almost starve. Man cannot continue to waste good farm land for raising meat." Declaring himself a meat lover, he listed as alternatives to

Hospital Bd. Reviews Funding Bond Campaign

By CAROL TYER Reflector Staff Writer Pitt Memorial Hospital Board members were told last night that their contributions or any they could solicit for the funding the Citizens Committee campaign for a new hospital would be needed during the final two weeks before the referendum November 3. The approximate cost of the campaign is expected to be around $18,000. Some $6,000 has already been contributed toward presenting the need for new county hospital facilities to the county voters. Public meetings are now being held in most communities in the county and any groups who wish to have speakers on the issue should contact Bill McDonald of Greenville who is clubs chairman of the campaign.

C. D. Ward, hospital administrator, told the Board of a private duty nurses' registry and praised the initiative of the LPNs and RNs in setting up this service. Persons needing the services of a private duty nurse may now call the Registry, which is listed in Directory Assistance, rather than having the hospital secure such a special nurse. The Board authorized the signature of C. D. Ward on all checks from the hospital account which is being transferred from Wachovia to North Carolina National Bank. It was decided some time ago to rotate the hospital's account among Greenville banks every two years. Dr. John M. Gamble of the Jones Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center was extended courtesy staff privileges at the hospital. Buck Sitterson, business manager of the hospital, reported that the changeover to computer billing has gone very well. He urged trustees who are approached by persons who have questions about the bills they are receiving once a month now to call him at the hospital. "We are ready to answer questions and to clear up any errors that may have resulted from such a massive changeover. At least we can find individual ledgers in a hurry now," he said. The November Board meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m.

Oil, Gas Needs Outweigh Risk Of Oil Spills

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Interior Department, in offering to lease 593,000 offshore acres for petroleum development, has decided the environmental dangers of oil spills are outweighed by the need for oil and gas. The department says it is relying heavily on tighter regulations and tougher enforcement to prevent spills from drilling and production operations on the 127 tracts of submerged land off the coast of Louisiana. Leases on those tracts are to be sold to the highest bonus-bidders next Dec. 15 in New Orleans, in a sealed-bid auction suspended since Feb. 20, 1969, because of a threat of damaging spills. Despite its precautions, not even the Interior Department claims petroleum development in those waters—some 75 per cent of them more than 100 feet deep—will be completely safe for the environment. The Interior Department reported on Oct. 16 to the President's Council on Environmental Quality: "Immediate short term effects of oil pollution ... may seriously damage the marine biological community in the area where the pollution occurs. The effects of a long-term pollution are not clearly understood. In addition to a visible tainting of fishery products," it added, "hydrocarbons could be passed along through the marine food chain from the lower forms of organisms to those harvested for human consumption. The effect of such oil ingestion on human health is not fully known." But the department also argued its new regulations and enforcement "appear to be sufficiently effective to render serious oil pollution ... only a minor possibility, not such a possibility as should deter needed production of oil and natural gas with a low sulphur content." The report recommended that "leasing and development (in the Gulf of Mexico) should continue if the United States is to avert a major national energy crisis and make progress toward retarding air pollution." Considering the air quality advantages of natural gas and low-sulphur oil, the report said that, "over-all, the environmental impact on the nation is expected to be beneficial."

Office Worker Dresses To Get Attention

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: There is a girl in our office who is pretty, polite and ladylike in her behavior, but she comes to work dressed like a strip teaser. Sheer, see-thru blouses, low necklines, no bra, and the tightest and shortest skirts imaginable. At our annual office picnic she wore a bikini that left absolutely nothing to the imagination.

Meanwhile, back at the office, every man in the place has a tough time keeping his eyes off her. The girl here who knows her best says she's really a "nice" kid who has had a rough life. She was raised by a mother alone as her father ran off when this girl was an infant. Why should a "nice" girl want to make such a bad impression? She's only 18. Or maybe she isn't so "nice" after all? WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Yes, she could be a "nice" girl. Girls whose fathers never paid any attention to them seek in various ways to get attention from every other man they meet. By showing off her body to strange men, this girl is saying, "Hey, fellows, pay some attention to me!" She's trying now to get the male attention she lacked while growing up. And she'll do practically anything to get it.

DEAR ABBY: We have a female toy poodle and I think she is obedient, intelligent, happy and healthy. My wife disagrees. She thinks the dog has "problems" so she wants to take the dog to a "dog psychiatrist" to have it "analyzed." Our next door neighbor swears it has done wonders for her dog.

Have you, or any of your readers ever heard of a "dog psychiatrist?" It sounds like another racket to me. CONFUSED IN LAGUNA HILLS

DEAR CONFUSED: A vet tells me that there are dog trainers who specialize in correcting the behavior of neurotic dogs. (They don't actually "analyze" dogs. They "psycho-animalize" them.)

DEAR ABBY: Your correspondent said, "When good and bad company mix, the bad doesn't become good, the good becomes bad." Perhaps he was going on the theory that one rotten apple spoils the whole barrel. That may be true of apples, but children are something else.

I am an 18-year-old college sophomore, female type. I don't smoke pot, I don't riot, I would never burn an American flag, and I still get choked up when I hear our National anthem. I get mad at things in our world, but I believe in discussion, peaceful changes and prayer. Maybe this sounds dull, but I am happy and this is my thing.

I am "nice"—not because my parents refused to let me play with "bad" kids, but because my parents taught me to be nice. I had some "bad" playmates, but I tried to help them, and they didn't hurt me.

Last of all, I feel that we have a God-given responsibility to help others. God bless patient, understanding parents who try to guide their children without trying to live their children's lives. God bless my parents. A WINNER

DEAR WINNER: Too bad you didn't sign your name. Your parents would be proud of you.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the 50-ish mother resisting her young daughter's attempts to "up-date" her into shorts, reminds me of my own experience a number of years ago when I tried to do the same with my mother.

While still in high school I decided that what my 5 foot, 110-lb. mother really needed was a padded uplift bra. Probably just to quiet me, mom gave in and was fitted for one.

That evening at dinner I asked my father, "How do you like mom's new up-lift bra? He took a good long look and sighed, "Well, I guess it's all right if her chin itches."

Needless to say, Mom never wore it again. They just celebrated their 45th wedding anniversary.

Jay-C-Ettes Hear Talk On Hospital

Dr. Paul Erkman and Jack Richardson, assistant administrator at Pitt Memorial Hospital, presented the program at the meeting of the Jay-C-Ettes last week.

The two speakers talked about the hospital bonds which will be voted on in Greenville on Nov. 3.

Dr. Erkman pointed out the increase in services which the hospital has provided in the past few years. He told of the need for more rooms for patients and also the need for enlarging and expanding the various departments and offices which serve the patients.

Dr. Erkman also pointed out the fact that Pitt Memorial Hospital now performs on the average of 14 surgical procedures each day, that the X-ray department averages 45 examinations each day and that last year 10,342 patients were admitted to the hospital, a 21.5 percent increase over the 8,509 admitted in 1964.

Richardson explained the plans for constructing a new hospital. He informed the club that renovation of the present hospital would be an expensive procedure and would necessitate major shutdowns of existing operation and services because of heavy remodeling.

"Due to the growth of Pitt County in the past decade and indications that this growth is continuing, abandonment of the present facility and building an entirely new hospital in another location is the most practical way to solve the problem," Richardson said.

Upon hearing of the county's immense need for a new hospital, the Jay-C-Ettes voted to sign a resolution supporting the hospital bonds.

Mrs. Gene Prescott, president of the club, reported the Books for Vietnam project is in the process of completion.

Mrs. Donald Brady encouraged the members to continue selling for the annual candy sale. Final plans for the house to house sale were discussed.

Guests for the meeting were Mrs. Lester Brown, Mrs. Steve Springer, Mrs. Paul Erkman, Mrs. Bill Brame, Mrs. Raymond Landon, Mrs. Bill Taylor and Mrs. David Jones.

It Could Happen In The U.S.

What has happened in Canada in recent days comes as a shock to most Americans, but the shock must be tempered with the realization that something similar could happen here.

Terrorists captured a Canadian and a British officer and the Canadian, Pierre Laporte, was murdered.

Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau exercised war-

State Salaries Compare Well

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — Can the capable executive earn more in private employment than in comparable service for the state of North Carolina?

For many years, the answer was an obvious "Yes." Acceptance of a high level position with the state meant a financial sacrifice, with the compensation of recognition and status.

Government expansion, particularly in education and health, brought demands for qualified executives to direct the state's departments and institutions. The income last summer it set off grumbling by underlings and criticism by some legislators. There were murmurs that when the 1971 General Assembly meets there will be a move to put the top salaries under the hand of the legislature.

That would be a serious mistake, in Rankin's view. "Executive compensation is a matter that has to be handled with some delicacy. It is very properly left to the Governor and Advisory Budget Commission," he explained.

Flexible to Negotiate

A degree of flexibility is essential, he noted, to meet promptly specific competitive situations as they arise. For example, a particularly valuable department head may be tempted by offers from another state. An avenue to negotiate, outside the rigidity of direct legislative control, can keep him in North Carolina.

At the same time, Rankin suggested, the list has grown too long. There are now more than 100 salaries which are fixed by the Governor and Advisory Budget Commission, ranging from the president of the University of North Carolina to members of the Cosmetic Arts Board.

"Some of these definitely should be under personnel," Rankin said. The personnel department already has under it positions with pay ranges up to $25,000 and $30,000, he pointed out. "The list to be fixed by the Governor and budget commission should be very select," he added.

Arranged in descending order, the state's top salaries constitute a pecking order of officialdom with higher education at the apex.

The president of the University of North Carolina, at $42,000, heads the list. Close behind, all with salaries of $35,000 and above, are chancellors of the University's campuses at Chapel Hill, Raleigh and Charlotte, the commissioner of mental health and the state health officer, and the director of higher education.

A half-dozen or so rungs down the ladder, with a $35,000 salary fixed by the legislature, is the Governor.

Governor Should Be Tops
"That is unfair," said Rankin. "I do not think the Governor should make less than anyone else in state government. It is the state's number one job with number one responsibilities, and that should be reflected in the salary."

And I feel the Chief Justice should be close behind, as the comparable position in his branch of government."

Currently, the Chief Justice receives $30,000, and other members of the State Supreme Court get $29,000. These salaries, as the Governor's are subject to legislative approval.

time powers and Montreal, one of the most modern cities of the western hemisphere, soon took on the appearance of a city at war, according to news reports.

The United States and Canada have been bound together by a common heritage and this has been reflected in good relations between the neighbors, which includes one of the least guarded borders in the world. Therefore it is understandable that Americans are almost as concerned about Canada's present problems as are the Canadians themselves.

There are lessons for us in what has occurred in Quebec and they can easily be applied to what is happening in this country.

There are people here who feel that their particular causes are above the law and this has at times erupted in bombings and riots in the streets. There is a feeling among some in our country that such actions can be justified, but the truth is that those who go beyond the law to espouse their causes are attempting to destroy the individual liberties which rightfully belong to all of us.

Both the United States and Canada are vast countries with many internal differences. These differences must be settled by legal means. Terrorism is fascism, no matter whether it comes from the right or the left. If terrorists insist on kidnappings and bombings, then a Democratic society must protect itself through stern means. This is what has happened in Canada, to everyone's regret. It could happen to the United States, although we sincerely hope not.

Let's Make Our UF Pledges At Early Date

The Pitt County United Fund has reported that collections and pledges amounted to $12,655 at the weekend.

Chairman Joseph O. Clark said this represents approximately 10 percent of the total goal of $126,387. This is about equal to the pace of last year's campaign and it is to be hoped that collections and pledges will accelerate so that the drive can be completed as quickly as possible.

Giving to the United Fund supports a large number of agencies. Each of us should make our pledge as soon as possible.

Florida Sees Test Of Styles

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

GAINESVILLE, Fla.—State Sen. Lawton Chiles stood on a blazing hot corner in the center of this university town holding up a large placard that contained the single word "THANKS"—thanks to the voters for his upset win in the Senate Democratic primary.

With an average of close to 100 cars a minute driving through the intersection the late-afternoon rush hour, Chiles exhibited an extraordinary recognition factor—at least two of every four cars, many loaded with commuters, honked horns, waved, and made the familiar "V" sign.

What was extraordinary about this recognition factor is that youthful Democrat Chiles, who jumped from anonymity to fame by walking 1,000 miles down the middle of Florida during his primary campaign, spent considerably less than $50,000 on TV and radio commercials during the first and run-off primaries.

His face and voice, in short, have had remarkably sparse exposure among Florida's 2,700,000 voters. But more than making up for this lack of conventional media display and image-making is Chiles' unconventional low-key, person-to-person campaign style—a radically different new politics that exploits growing voter cynicism over the slick and expensive politics of media advertising.

Chiles' non-media campaign was neither a product of poverty (he's actually well-heeled). He devised it out of his political perception, sharpened by 12 years in the state legislature, that voters have become not only frustrated but hotly resentful over slick politics, slick politicians, and slick political nostrums.

A slick politician himself, Chiles decided his only chance in the primary election was to talk directly to voters, listen to their grievances, and play the loner: no major campaign contributors, no statewide campaign staff, no media experts, no Madison Avenue. It worked, bringing him home in the Sept. 29 run-off primary by nearly two-to-one over the heavily favored former Gov. Farris Bryant.

Now running against aggressive Rep. Bill Cramer, an authentic law-and-order Republican, Chiles has immunized himself from that fatal political disease of Southern moderate Democrats—the tie-in to Washington, to big money from Big Labor and to celebrity Democrats. He has said no to every offer of help from prominent, out-of-state Democrats.

Moreover, Chiles lacks an identifiable record on the national issues being lavishly used by the Republicans to paint Democratic state candidates as soft on law and order, student riots, pornography, and drugs.

Strength For Today

TRUTH INCARNATE

Henry M. Stanley was sent to Africa to find Livingstone who had been lost for several years in its trackless jungle. Stanley was not a Christian when he went to Africa, but after he met Livingstone and lived with him for some months, he bore this testimony: "Here is a man who is manifestly sustained as well as guided from heaven. The Holy Spirit dwells in him. God speaks through him. The heroism, the nobility, the pure and stainless enthusiasm at the root of his life come, beyond question, from Christ. There must, therefore, be a Christ; and it is worth-while to have such a Helper and Redeemer as this Christ undoubtedly is, and as He here reveals Himself in this wonderful disciple."

WASHINGTON — In this confusing election year, the only people who seem to know their own minds are those who keep telling the pollsters they don't know for whom they are going to vote.

Real Villains Are The Killers

By ELMER ROESSNER
Non-returnable glass bottles are a damned nuisance.

But they aren't ruining the ecology.

And the fact that they are attracting so much concern is a real danger in that they divert attention from the real hazards threatening life in these United States.

The real danger is in the killers. The poisons that are being emitted into the air are shortening everybody's lives. The carbon monoxide, lead, the sulphur compounds, the smoke particles and other pollutants are killers.

Two score persons were killed when poisonous air blanketed Donors, Pa., and made headlines around the world. But every time air pollution rises in our big cities, the death rate of the elderly rises and nobody pays much attention.

Polluted water is a killer. There are dead spots in the ocean where cities have dumped sewage continually. Fish in many lakes and rivers are dying off because of pollutants and those that don't die carry mercury and other chemical poisons, disease germs and filth into the stomachs of humans. And drinking water is so contaminated that the amount of chlorine added to make it safe also makes it sickening.

Our poisoned fields, spread with insecticides and herbicides, grow poisoned vegetables and meat. And no one knows how many people poisoned water and contaminated food have killed; probably many more than the Vietnam War, possibly more Americans than World War II.

And nonreturnable bottles?

"I see."

"The 'unsure' are mostly composed of hard hats, blue-collar workers and Avon ladies. While they're working, this group seems to know exactly whom they are for. It's when they get laid off because of a recession that they get confused."

"And the 'no opinion'?"

"The people who express 'no opinion' are those who don't want to be identified with those who are 'undecided' or 'unsure.'"

"I see."

"In the past, the 'undecided' and the 'unsures' and those with 'no opinion' always split their votes. But this year because of the low quality of the campaigns and lack of issues, all three groups might vote together, and this could have a tremendous effect on the nation."

Who Returns Champagne Bottles?

They are not poisonous, they do not sustain bacteria, they do not injure water, air or soil. They can be thrown into the sea and ground to sand by the waves. Shards of sand-etched blue bromo-quinine bottles, tossed overboard from ocean liners, used to be collected on Fire Island and made into jewelry. Non-returnable beer bottles used to be collected and shipped to Latin America where they became return-

Try A Second Career

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Most men, said Henry David Thoreau, live lives of "quiet desperation."

Much of this feeling stems from the fact that they got into a type of work for which they were not suited. Their jobs do not challenge them or interest them, and they limp through lives half-throttled by boredom. One way of escape, of course, is to moonlight—and thereby have two careers. Here are a few moonlighting jobs that ought to restore almost any man's pleasure in living, whether he's merely looking for more money or for greater variety:

Wardrobe mister for a Broadway musical show.

Baggage carrier for Gina Lollobrigida.

Water boy for a flea circus.

Quality control engineer in a brassiere factory.

Bodyguard for Raquel Welch.

Stand-in for Santa Claus from New Year's Day until Thanksgiving.

Social secretary for Frankenstein's monster.

Doorkeeper in an Arabian harem.

Night watchman in a bourbon distillery.

Dicto ditto in a scotch ditto.

Dicto ditto in a rye ditto.

Dicto ditto in a gin ditto.

Dicto ditto in a vodka ditto.

Head groom in the White House stables.

Athletic coach for the man in the moon.

Winekeeper for the man in the moon.

English teacher for Casey Stengel.

Best man at Frank Sinatra's weddings.

Chief old money burner for the U.S. Mint.

Barber for Yul Brynner.

Tolltaker at the Pearly Gates.

Coal salesman at the other place.

Stuck in a rut? It's probably all your own fault. There are plenty of interesting jobs available—if a fellow only uses his imagination.

PACKING TEXTBOOKS FOR VIETNAM... Mrs. Higdon was chairman of the project. Mrs. Gene Prescott (left) and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Higdon.

Collect Textbooks For Vietnam Children's Use

Some 9,000 textbooks which would have been discarded by the Greenville and Pitt County School systems have been collected by the local Jay-C-Ette and Jaycee chapters for use by Vietnamese children.

The project began when the Marine Corps Public Relations Service asked Jaycee and Jay-C-Ette chapters throughout the state for textbooks for schools in Vietnam. It was noted that some 195 schools have been built in Vietnam and that, not only servicemen, but other American volunteers and professional people are teaching Vietnamese children how to read and write and also the history of western civilization. The Marine Corps spokesman emphasized the need to educate these people and explained that the war in Vietnam was being won more through education and good will of the people than with guns and ammunitions. Many servicemen, seeing this need, are writing home asking relatives and friends to send books and other teaching materials for this cause, he said.

The Jaycees and Jay-C-Ettes from throughout North Carolina agreed to try to acquire from the state obsolete books that are usually destroyed at the end of the school year. The North Carolina State Department of Public Instruction cooperated with the service organizations and authorized the release of these books.

Mrs. Jim Higdon, chairman of the Greenville project, and Dave Gordon, Jaycee coordinator, arranged for local Jaycees and Jay-C-Ettes to pack the books in some 265 boxes provided by Union Carbide. The books were then stored by Maxwell Brother Furniture Store until this week when Bostic Sugg Furniture Store furnished a truck to take them to Raleigh. The Marine Corps will airlift the books from Cherry Point to South Vietnam.

Girl Scouts To Hold Car Wash

Girl Scout Troop No. 460 will sponsor a car wash Saturday from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. at Cecil's Texaco Station, corner of 14th and Charles Streets.

The cost will be $1.25 per car, which will include cleaning the inside and outside.

Proceeds from the event will help finance the trip to Washington, D. C.; the scouts will take in the spring.

Evans, Novak

(during which Chile claims to have had personal chats with at least 45,000 voters).

But mocking Chile's long march as a cheap campaign gimmick could boomerang. At a Chamber of Commerce dinner here last week, loaded with establishment pillars, we discovered a surprisingly warm sentiment toward Chile and a skepticism bordering on contempt toward conventional politics.

Consequently, with Cramer waging a strictly orthodox campaign based on heavy use of TV commercials and the importation of stars like Agnew, Atty. Gen. and Martha Mitchell, Secretary of Transportation John Volpe, and others (President Nixon is due later), the campaign here is a battle between the old and the new.

Trying desperately to catch up, Cramer has several aces yet to play, all conventional politics. He will hit Chile for backing legalized abortion, for supporting public school busing, and for masquerading as a poor boy.

Chiles is rejecting strong appeals from his aides that he, too, move into a last-minute conventional media to sustain his momentum. Changing styles now, he thinks, could cost him the election and anyway, the voters are disenchanted with the old politics this year.

Two Singers In Concert Friday

Two native North Carolina singers are appearing jointly in a concert Friday night highlighting a day's session of the N. C. Chapter Conference of the National Association of Teachers of Singing.

The concert, to be held at 8:15 p.m. in the Recital Hall of the School of Music, is open to the public, and no admission is charged. Admission, however, is on first come first served basis.

Jane Murray-Dillard, mezzo-soprano, and Marilyn Burris, soprano, will present a program of selections from Haydn, Handel, Rossini, Massenet, Verdi, Ward and others.

Dr. Charles Bath, ECU faculty member will accompany Mrs. Dillard. David Pinnix is accompanying Mrs. Burris.

For Mrs. Murray-Dillard, the recital will be something of another homecoming. A native of Roxboro, Greenville was home for Mrs. Dillard for several years. It was at ECU she received the B. S. degree in 1960. In 1963 she earned the M. A. here. From 1962 to 1964 she was an instructor of voice in the School of Music.

Mrs. Burris, whose home town in North Carolina is Albemarle, received the B. A. degree in voice from Meredith College, and the Master's degree from the Manhattan School of Music.

In 1959 she won the South Carolina Young Artist Award and in 1964 was first runner-up in the Metropolitan Opera Regional Auditions. Other awards have included being chosen as "National Singer of the Year" in 1967 at the annual competition of the National Association of Teachers of Singing. During 1968-69 she was tour soloist with the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra.

Clothing Bank Drive Monday

The Greenville Moose Lodge opens its annual Clothing Bank Drive next Monday evening.

As in past years, Moose teams assisted by Boy Scouts will comb the residential areas for useable articles of clothing that can be redistributed to needy families in the county. Children's clothing is in special demand.

"With the start of cool weather, families are taking out their warm clothing" says lodge Governor Ralph Heidenrich "and putting away summer wear. They're going to find many items that no longer fit, items they just don't want to wear this season, items that might have some small flaws that can be corrected and still useable.

"We can get them cleaned and minor repairs made. We can get them to the families who need warm clothes during the cold months ahead."

The Moose teams will begin circulating at 6:00 p.m. Monday, and quit at 9:00. Households having clothing to contribute are asked to leave their porch lights on as a signal to collectors.

Lodge Secretary E. M. Baldree says if the collectors miss a house, residents may telephone the Moose Lodge office and arrangements will be made for someone to pick up the clothing.

HELMETS OR ELSE

Ingathering On Thursday

The churchwomen of St. Paul's Episcopal Church will gather Thursday at 10 a.m. to present their fall ingathering of the United Thank Offering.

The churchwomen gather twice a year for this special service. This practice has grown to such an extent that the general convention now going on in Houston, Tex., has received over $4 million for the church.

The churchwomen of the Diocese of East Carolina gave in excess of $37,000. This offering has long been used by the Episcopal Church to fund new work throughout the world.

Marketing Cards To Be Returned

Producers of flue-cured tobacco were reminded today by Stacy J. Evans, county executive director for Pitt County Agricultural and Conservation Service, that their tobacco marketing cards should be returned to the County ASCS Office as soon as all their sales are completed.

"Sometimes a man just forgets he still has the card tucked in his wallet or put away with his business papers. But it's important to him to remember to get it to the County ASCS Office—unless it's turned in, he could lose out on his marketing quota for next year," said Evans.

Evans also said flue-cured tobacco growers who have not yet turned in their cards should take another look at the back of the card—where the remaining quota for the farm is entered after each sale—and check carefully for any mistakes. "If he finds an error, the grower should go immediately to the County ASCS Office to get the record straightened out," Evans said.

The reverse side of the marketing card for flue-cured tobacco shows two figures at the top of the card. The first is the 10 percent 'leeway' a grower has in marketing his quota of tobacco. It is 10 percent of his effective farm quota, in pounds.

Under the 10 percent figure on the back of the marketing card is another figure—the total pounds of tobacco he can sell during the marketing season without penalty being assessed. This figure is the sum of his effective farm quota plus 10 percent.

As his crop is sold, marketing recorders at the market record on the card the 'declining balance' of tobacco the farmer can market without penalty.

Evans said the grower should check his marketing card and sale bills carefully each time they are given back to him after a sale to be sure the pounds sold have been subtracted correctly from the previous balance. Evans also reminded growers that once their remaining balance is less than the top figure on the card—the 10 percent figure—that means they have begun to sell out of the next year's quota. If at this point they sell more than the 10 percent figure, penalties will be imposed for exceeding their effective marketing quota.

Confusion Meter Used

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Portable, electronic confusion meter has been developed at the University of Arizona.

During the course of a lecture, the professor pauses and asks if any of the class is confused. Avoiding an embarrassing show of hands, students who don't understand press the button on their transmitter.

If the dial on which their transmitters register show more than 50 per cent confused, the professor knows he should go back over the subject matter.

Michael R. Pomeroy, an electrical engineering student, developed the system with Dr. Stuart Hoening, a professor of electric engineering.

Pomeroy said some schools already have fixed systems in classrooms for the same purpose, but his is portable, can be used wherever desired and can accommodate up to 200 students.

Lobbyists Use Hidden Sources To Help Candidates

By JAMES R. POLK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Lobbyists and special-interest groups are using hidden fundraising committees in the nation's capital to feed campaign money to favorite congressmen running for re-election.

Democratic Whip Hale Boggs of Louisiana, top candidate to step up to House majority leader in January, is among those getting the fund-raising favors from lobbyists.

At least 28 congressmen benefit from hidden "D.C. committees" set up in the District of Columbia, a haven that allows the legislators to keep both the contributions and the spending a secret.

However, an Associated Press investigation found:

—A sugar lobbyist helped set up the "D.C. Friends of Hale Boggs." The sugar business has long been sweetened by government farm subsidies and trade quotas.

—After a routine fund-raising affair for the "D.C. Friends of Graham Purcell," a farm milk group plowed in an extra contribution of $3,500 for the Texas Democrat. Purcell is a top-ranking member of the House Agriculture Committee and heads its subcommittee on livestock and grains.

—A political arm of the Seafarers union shipped $3,000 to the "D.C. Committee for Garmatz."

Rep. Edward A. Garmatz, D-Md., who is unopposed for re-election, is chairman of the House Merchant Marine Committee, which handles the subsidy program for seamen's wages.

—The cable TV industry's political wing made a $1,000 donation to the "Committee for Effective Government." This was traced as a D.C. fund-raising group for Rep. Torbett H. Macdonald, D-Mass., chairman of the House communications subcommittee which writes legislation on cable TV.

The contributions were uncovered in House reports that political groups, such as those for labor unions and industry groups, must file itemizing all donations.

But the "D.C. committees" set up for the congressmen are able to keep their total income a secret because the District of Columbia—in contrast to many of their home states—has no laws requiring a public report on campaign receipts and spending.

The Boggs, Purcell and Garmatz committees all refused to say how much money they raised.

A Capitol Hill lobbyist, Irvin Hoff, who helped set up the group for Boggs, said, "It's a legal and convenient way to raise money from people around town. A 'D.C. committee' has gotten to be a standard performance."

Hoff is a lobbyist for the U.S. Cane Sugar Refiners' Association.

He is a longtime friend and also a neighbor of Boggs, whose home state of Louisiana grows three-fourths of all cane sugar in the continental United States.

Fund-raising affairs, usually dressed up in more formal trappings as a cocktail party, reception or dinner, are mainstays of the D.C. committees.

Among the most successful ones this season, according to the spending reports filed by the political groups with the House, have been the affairs for Garmatz, Rep. Joseph E. Karth, D-Minn., Rep. John M. Murphy, D-N.Y., and Rep. Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio.

Labor groups, such as the carpenters, construction trades, boiler-makers, and railway clerks, helped fatten these ticket sales. Savings association interests also gave a boost to Murphy.

The hidden committees have surfaced in greater numbers for the Democrats than for GOP congressmen because labor unions file more reports with the House than do industries whose executives often make individual donations.

At least 28 congressmen were linked in the records with committees that included "D.C." in their titles.

The House contributions on record, plus those traced earlier to D.C. committees for senators, pushed the total hidden funds known to be going to candidates to the brink of $500,000. The actual amount could be many times that high.

The loophole on public disclosure of Washington fund-raising groups is expected to remain unchanged simply because the same congressmen who benefit from the money committees write the law for the nation's capital.

Joseph Price An Early N.C. Education Leader

By H. G. JONES
N.C. Dept. Archives & History
Written for The AP
RALEIGH (AP) — Joseph Charles Price, an early Negro leader in the field of education and founder of Livingstone College in Salisbury, was born in Elizabeth City Feb. 10, 1854. His mother was Emily Pailin, a freeborn woman, and his father was Charles Dozier, a slave who was separated from Emily Pailin and sent to Baltimore, Md. His mother afterward married David Price whose name Joseph took.

Montgomery, Ala.

Shortly after his graduation, Price married his childhood sweetheart, Jennie Smallwood, whom he had known in New Bern, and five children were born to them.

While attending the A.M.E. Ecumenical Conference in England in 1881, Price was approached by Bishop James W. Hood who proposed that he undertake a speaking tour in England in the interest of raising funds to establish a Negro college back home. Through his efforts nearly $10,000 was collected for Zion Wesley Institute which was chartered in Concord in 1879 and opened its doors the following year.

in 1884 that "Livingstone College stands for the world today as the most remarkable evidence of self-help among Negroes of this country."

Indicative of Dr. Price's national recognition is the fact that in February of 1888, President Grover Cleveland offered him the position of "Minister-Resident and Consul General of the United States at Liberia." To the offer, Dr. Price replied: "I thank you for the honor you do me to offer me the Post of Minister to Liberia but I think I can do more good for my people here in Salisbury."

At the age of nine, Joseph's mother took him to New Bern, where in 1863 he was enrolled in a school for the first time. He attended St. Andrew's Chapel but was later changed to St. Cyprian Episcopal School.

However, when Price returned from England, the location of the school was re-established in Salisbury and he was chosen to be its president. The school opened on its present site early in October, 1882, and was unofficially named Livingstone College at that time in honor of David Livingstone, the English missionary and explorer of Africa. A charter from the 1885 legislature made the name change official.

Early in 1893, Dr. Price's health began to fail rapidly. He was a victim of Bright's disease. The best medical aid was sought, but in vain. After August of 1893, his pace was forcibly slowed. He died Oct. 25, 1893, at the age of 39 and was buried on the campus of the school he founded.

In 1871, though his own formal education was far from completed, Price was named principal of the Negro school in Wilson, and he held that position until 1873 when he came to Raleigh to enter Shaw University. His intention had been to become a lawyer, but he changed his mind while in Raleigh and decided to prepare for the ministry in the A.M.E. Zion Church, and entered Lincoln University in the freshman class of 1875. He was graduated as valedictorian of his class in 1879, after completing the normally three-year long theological seminary program by 1881.

The school originally stood on 40 acres, had three teachers, three students and a matron. It was a beginning, however, and Price is quoted as having said

THE ONLY THING YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT REAL-ESTATE IS 752-6140 (Our Phone Number)

Before his graduation, however, he had already been ordained as an elder and had gone as a delegate to the general conference of his church in

Mosque Saved From Freeway

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa (AP) — Local Muslims persuaded city engineers to redraft a new freeway development plan in order to save a mosque. The Muslims campaigned to save the holy place when they learned it would have to make way for the freeway.

After they appealed to the United Nations for help, the city engineers' department came up with a $107,000 plan to lower the minaret of the mosque by 15 feet. If the plan is finally approved, the mosque will nestle under a ramp of the freeway.

Live, at farm prices 12 cents per pound. Hens-market conditions unchanged. Supply barely adequate on heavies and adequate on lighter weights. Demand fair to good.

NEW YORK (AP) — Speculation about news reports suggesting a possible cease-fire in Vietnam before month's end drove stock market prices sharply higher in slow trading this morning.

At 11 a.m. the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks leaped 5.68 points to 764.51.

Advances led declines on the New York Stock Exchange by more than 2 to 1.

Shortly after the market opened the White House denied the published report that the U.S. and South Vietnamese governments would declare a unilateral cease-fire in South Vietnam this month. It said it had no plans beyond the peace initiative already put forth.

Analysts suggested the slow turnover suggested a certain amount of investor skepticism about the report. They also noted the market was currently in an oversold condition and any encouraging news could have sparked a rally.

land meat production that of sea ranching. "Already, studies are being made for whale ranching. Whales will be bred and herded," he declared. "Can you imagine a 50 ton sea cow which gives half a ton of milk a day? It is an interesting economic proposition."

Touching on his original paper which led to the invention of the now much used communications satellite, Clarke said, "My proposals were put into effect much more rapidly than I dared imagine. If I had known, I would have of course patented the wretched thing."

The present day cities are one mark of 20th century civilization that Clark says is on its way out. "In the year 2001 we will still have vast cities, but like the dinosaurs they are on their way out." Citing the many new light materials created for construction, such as the geodesic domes of Buckminster Fuller, he declared them to be "the most efficient structures ever designed. These can be so light, that hot air accumulating can make them float."

In this vein of thought, Clarke suggested that in the future, entire cities might go south for

Urge Adopt Land Plan

WINTERVILLE — The Winterville Planning and Zoning Board meet Monday night and recommended that the town board accept a land development plan presented by planners for the North Carolina Department of Local Affairs.

The plan includes subdivision regulations, zoning recommendations, and provides for the administration, enforcement and amendment of the ordinance and creates a Board of Adjustment.

Farmville, Greene Central To Meet In Important Loop Game

Farmville and Greene Central tangle Friday night in a game that is very important to both of them if they are to have an outside chance to catch streaking Northern Nash in the Eastern Plains race.

Northern Nash currently leads the conference with a 5-0 record and only a near miracle would enable another club to catch them. Farmville is the only team left with a clear shot at the title, while North Lenoir, Greene Central and Southern Wayne could at best only tie.

In last week's competition, Farmville slipped past North Lenoir by a 6-0 score, while

Eastern Plains

Greene Central was falling to non-conference foe, South Lenoir, 30-14. Hobpton downed Union in another outside the conference game, 40-12, while Northern Nash rolled past Southern Nash, 40-0. Southern Wayne nipped Charles B. Aycock, 13-12, in the other game in the league.

"We made too many mistakes," Greene Central's Stewart Smith said of his team's loss. "We gave the ball up four times on fumbles, twice on interceptions, and several other times when penalties hurt us. You can't do this and expect to win."

Smith said the Rams didn't play badly in the first half, but that they had all their troubles after intermission. "It was our poorest game of the year," he said. "But maybe we got rid of our problems and won't have them the rest of the way."

Injuries have caused some problems, however. Quarterback Lonnie Carraway is expected to miss the game and Bob Scott, an offensive and defensive tackle, is out for the rest of the season. "Johnny Johnson will handle the quarterbacking duties. He has experience and we feel he can do the job for us."

Smith is optimistic about the meeting with Farmville. "We're going in below full strength, but it's a traditional rivalry for us, and it is a home game, so this will help us to get up for it."

"We know we are going to have to stop the Tripp boys (Connie and Robert). This will be our biggest problem. We look for them to do a lot of passing against us."

Farmville's Gene Brewer was pleased by his team's defensive showing against North Lenoir. "We won," he said. "I guess that's the important thing."

"I thought we did a good job defensively. They had a lot of breaks, and we had some too. We made good on one of ours, but we kept them from making good at all."

Brewer reported that the team came through the game in good shape and will be at full strength for the Greene Central match. "We're going to need them, too," he added.

"They have a well-balanced team. They have no one-back you can key on and no end you have to keep the ball away from. They pass enough to keep your defense honest, and this Carraway boy is a good passer."

Brewer expects a real fine game from both teams. "It will depend on whether we can stop them, and whether we will be able to score ourselves. We know they have a good team despite some of their scores. Anybody who can rally against Southern Wayne like they did is good."

Besides the Farmville-Greene Central game, Aycock is at Hobpton, Southern Nash at Zebulon, Northern Nash at Plymouth and Southern Wayne at North Lenoir.

The current Eastern Plains Conference standings:

Conf.	Overall
Northern Nash	5 0 0
Farmville	4 1 0
Southern Wayne	3 1 1
Greene Central	2 1 1
North Lenoir	2 2 0

Robersonville Seeks To Spoil Saratoga's Bid For Championship

Saratoga Central can just about get rid of the last of their opposition this weekend when they face the Robersonville Rams.

But Robersonville's Noland Respass feels his team can still win it all, and isn't going to play dead for the Tobacco Belt leaders.

The game, set for Friday in Robersonville, is the key to the conference championship. By winning, Saratoga can clinch the title.

But if Robersonville managed to pull off the upset of the front-runners, it will put the Rams into position to move ahead and take the title.

Elsewhere, Grifton's Bulldogs will be seeking to get back on the winning side against Belhaven, and Vanceboro plays host to Chocowinity.

Saratoga got a big boost last week with a 29-22 victory over Vanceboro, previously unbeaten in loop play. Meanwhile, Elm City downed Franklinton, 25-8, Aurora beat Chocowinity, 42-22, Belhaven nipped Bath 6-0, Mattamuskeet ripped Pantego, 28-6, and Robersonville rolled by Grifton, 34-0.

"We probably played our best game of the season," Robersonville's Noland Respass said. "We put everything together for a fine game. The offense did an excellent job, and our defense had its fourth straight fine game." Respass noted that the Ram defense has allowed only one touchdown in the past four games.

"We are in the best shape physically since the opening of the season. Ed Warren, a halfback and linebacker, is back after missing four weeks, and we have really missed him. This will be a boost to us."

The key to the Saratoga success story is Jimmy De Ratt, according to Respass. "They respond to his presence in the game. When he's not in there, they don't look as good. They are small, quick and aggressive. They forced Vanceboro into mistakes and ran up a big lead on them.

"We believe we can score, but we hope we can hold them within limits. If we get this one, it'll put a lot of pressure on both of us. We'll have to win them all to take it. It should be a fine game, and I just hope that the tradition of the home team winning in this rivalry holds true." Saratoga has won each of the games between the two schools at Saratoga, while the Rams have won those played in Robersonville.

Grifton's Claude Kennedy was unhappy, to say the least, about his team's performance against the Rams. "We showed up, but that's about it. We have three or four key players out, and this cost us."

"I thought we did a good job on them for the first half, but after that we couldn't hold up. We had to go to passing and this hurt us. We also tried a fourth down gamble and failed, and that helped to set up another score for them."

Injuries are a big problem for the Bulldogs. "Jim Herring is a doubtful starter for us, and Doug Edwards is out for the year."

Belhaven comes into the game this weekend with Grifton with a similar record, 2-5. "They run the shotgun offense and they'll either throw or run out of it."

Vanceboro Coach Roy Lupton was very disappointed in his team's loss to Saratoga. "We played a give-away game," he said. "We turned the ball over to them three times in the second period inside our 30, twice on fumbles and once on an interception." And Saratoga took advantage of this to score each time. It was enough for the win.

"I feel like we still have a chance at the title. We've got to win all of our games, and somebody has got to beat them. I think we have a better team, but we didn't prove it."

Lupton said his players came through the game in good condition, but they Saratoga suffered a number of injuries in the game, including De Ratt. "I don't know whether they'll miss this week's game," he said.

Vanceboro takes on Chocowinity this weekend. "They have had some problems," Lupton said. "They have a team small in in numbers, and were beaten badly by Aurora last week. I think Chocowinity has a better team than that score shows. But it does make it hard for us to prepare for them, not knowing who they have."

Besides the Saratoga - Robersonville, Chocowinity - Vanceboro and Belhaven - Grifton games, Elm City is at Bath, Columbia at Aurora and Manteo at Mattamuskeet.

The current Tobacco Belt Conference standings:

Conf.	Overall
Saratoga	7 0 7 1
Robersonville	5 1 5 2
Vanceboro	4 1 5 2
Aurora	4 3 4 3

Wake No Easy Game For Heels

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
MYTH—North Carolina has a guy named Goliath playing under an alias on its football team.

FACT—It's really Don McCauley, and he can be stopped.

MYTH—Wake Forest is the ACC punching bag this season.

FACT—Wake Forest has won its last three games and doesn't intend to give anything away.

MYTH—It's a foregone conclusion that the Tar Heels are going to obliterate the Demon Deacons this Saturday.

FACT—If you're looking for a sure thing, pal, you'd better try second-guessing something else.

There are several reasons that the mythmakers may be wrong. And their names are Larry Hopkins, Larry Russell, Gary Johnson and Ken Garrett.

Now, as any football observer knows, it only takes a couple of big plays for the underdog to trounce the upperdog.

The Demon Deacons have come up with some big plays this season, and there's no reason to believe that they can't make the combination against North Carolina.

Quarterback Larry Russell scampered 62 yards on a run last Saturday against Clemson.

Halfback Gary Johnson made a 72-yard punt return against nationally ranked Nebraska.

Halfback Ken Garrett made a 36-yard kickoff return against powerful Florida State.

But it isn't just the big play that makes Wake Forest a contender this Saturday. The Deacs have a balanced running attack with four regulars in the backfield gaining better than at least 3.4 yards per carry.

Larry Hopkins, who gained 230 yards against Clemson, is averaging 6.9, Johnson is going a clip of 5.5 yards per carry, Garrett at 4.1 and Russell at 3.4.

In the air, Wake Forest is no slouch. It completed 11 passes for 138 yards in its 36-12 loss to Nebraska. And by the way, Missouri, nationally ranked earlier this year, scored only seven points against Nebraska last Saturday.

Danny Murtaugh Gets Nod As National's Manager Of The Year

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Danny Murtaugh was named today The Associated Press' National League Manager of 1970, a year in which his low-key leadership and uncanny juggling of a patchwork pitching staff guided Pittsburgh to the NL East title.

It was the third Manager of the Year Award for the Pennsylvania Irishman who has never managed any big league club except Pittsburgh. He won in 1958, his first full season as manager, and in the Pirates' world championship year of 1960.

Murtaugh retired at the end of the 1964 season because of ill health but remained with the Pirates to scout and work with the farm clubs until he became manager again in a surprise move this year.

"Naturally I have to be very well pleased," Murtaugh said of his latest honor from his home in the Philadelphia suburb of Woodlyn, Pa. "I would have to say it's a great surprise. I thought there were a lot of others who did tremendous jobs with their clubs.

"The players had everything to do with the club's success," Murtaugh added. "They battled back through all the difficulties they had had. They seemed to think they had to keep going."

Some of the difficulties the Pirates had were caused by injuries, especially to the pitching staff. At various times four starters were out for about a month a piece.

But Murtaugh went into his bullpen and pulled out Bruce Dal Canton and Luke Walker for big victories as starters. He also seemed to know just when to yank a pitcher especially when the Pirates beat the New York Mets six of seven games on the final two weekends of the season.

The 53-year-old Murtaugh, who succeeded Larry Shephard as boss Buc this year, got to the major leagues with the Philadelphia Phillies in 1941. He stayed with the Phillies until he sent into the service in 1944.

Upon his return from the service he played for Philadelphia, the old Boston Braves and a couple of minor league teams before going to the Pirates in 1948 for one of his best seasons. He hit .290, drove in a career high 71 runs and led NL second basemen in putouts, assists and double plays.

His last year as a player in the majors was with Pittsburgh in 1951. He then managed at New Orleans and Charleston before succeeding Bobby Bragan as Pittsburgh manager in August of 1957.

Carroll Holds Scoring Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
In the words of coach Bob King, "Pat Carroll was hobbled and played more than he should have" against Davidson last Saturday, but the time he played was just enough to keep the Furman fullback ahead in the Southern Conference football scoring race.

Carroll scored one of the four Paladin touchdowns in Furman's 31-24 victory over the Wildcats and ran his season's total to 40 points on six touchdowns and a pair of two-point conversions.

Ten points behind with five touchdowns is East Carolina fullback Billy Wallace, who scored both the Pirates' six-pointers in a 14-12 loss to undefeated Southern Illinois.

There's a three-way tie with four touchdowns and 24 points each among running back Steve Crisp of Furman, flanker Rick Lyon of Davidson and fullback Phil Mosser of William and Mary.

A pair of kicking specialists, Jim Leber of The Citadel and Don Cupit of Virginia Military, are tied for sixth with 22 points each. Leber has kicked 10 extra points and four field goals, Cupit four extra points and six field goals.

Five players have 18 points apiece — Bob Duncan and Jon Hall of The Citadel, Mike Mikolayunas of Davidson, Jerry Mauro of Richmond and Todd Bushnell of William and Mary. All have scored three touchdowns.

Richmond scout Ray Tait passed along the news to the Spiders Tuesday that they'll face a strong running and passing attack when East Carolina and Richmond square off Saturday in the Tobacco Bowl.

Tait said the Spider defensive backs will have their hands full trying to stop the passing combination of John Casazza to Dick Corrada.

Furman's practice was limited to a short workout because of day-long rain. After the 35-minute practice, coach Bob King and the Paladins reviewed tactics they hope will stop Chattanooga's tailback Calvin Florence and fullback Robert Smith when the teams meet at Greenville, S.C., Saturday night.

Rain also forced The Citadel's Bulldogs indoors, where coach Red Parker had his players study play assignments and execution in an armory at the military college.

World Knows Brooks Is Here

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The world finally has discovered what the Baltimore Orioles have known for 12 years—that Brooks Robinson is one for the money.

"Brooks is truly a money ball player," Orioles front office boss Harry Dalton said Tuesday as Robinson, hero of Baltimore's World Series triumph over Cincinnati last week, picked up his first reward—a 1971 Dodge Charger presented by Sport Magazine to the outstanding player in the Series.

"He has always risen to the occasions for us," Dalton said. "But now, probably for the first time, the entire country is aware of what an outstanding ballplayer he is."

Robinson dazzled millions of television viewers across the nation with a spectacular hitting and fielding show to lead the Orioles past the Reds in five games—and put himself in line for a $100,000 salary next season.

"Yes, I'm going to ask for it," said the 33-year-old third baseman, who peppered Cincinnati pitching for nine hits, including a pair of home runs, and repeatedly shut off the Big Red Machine with his magic glove.

Then, with typical modesty, he paid tribute to his teammates for their Series blitz—one year after they had fallen to the New York Mets in baseball's October classic.

"It really wasn't a one-man show," Robinson said. "It took 24 other guys. Coming back to win this year meant a lot to all of us."

Of his acrobatics in the field, he explained: "I felt before the Series started that guys like Johnny Bench, Tony Perez and Lee May were going to pull the ball no matter who was pitching, and I was going to get some ground balls.

"But I don't remember any time in my career when I made three plays in three days like I did against them. I guess I was just in the right spot at the right time. Two or three inches either way and everything could have been different."

Robinson, a golden glove for the past 10 years and one of the game's most respected clutch hitters, is the first third baseman to capture the Series MVP award since its inception 16 years ago.

Fullerton Has Success Story

By DAN BERGER
Associated Press Sports Writer
FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — There he was, a football coach with an 11-game schedule including a contest against mighty Grambling and no team.

Dick Coury didn't accept the job as Fullerton State College football coach without some idea of where his team would come from, though, and today Court's Titans are 4-0-1 and the surprise team among California's colleges.

"I had been hired as a coach with the Pittsburgh Steelers and I was in Pittsburgh for about three months when Fullerton called me. They didn't have a team but they wanted one. They asked me if I wanted the job," Coury recalls.

That was a year ago. After accepting the post, he hired a few assistants and went out to tell the world where Fullerton was. But before he knew it, he was overrun by candidates to play football—good ones.

Coury was a successful coach for 13 seasons at Mater Dei High School in Orange County, ringing up 90 victories and only 10 defeats and winning four southern division high school tities. His name meant football to residents of the county.

In 1966, he took a job as defensive secondary coach at Southern California and during recruiting trips for USC's John McKay, saw the potential in junior colleges in the state.

"If we could keep California's junior college football players in California when they went to four-year schools, we'd like to have great teams. I'd like to tap the junior colleges like Don Coryell has done at San Diego State," Coury says.

Defense is Coury's forte. For the first four games in their maiden year, the Titans allowed just one touchdown. There was a 31-0 victory over Cal Poly, Pomona, a 17-7 victory over Southern Utah, a 19-0 victory over Los Angeles State and a 0-0 tie with defense-minded Cal Lutheran.

Last Saturday, the defense leaked. San Fernando Valley State rolled to a quick 19-0 lead midway through the second quarter. The Titans rose up and came back.

Quarterback Mike Ernst, a 6-foot-1, 196-pounder, brought Fullerton a 33-25 victory.

Wichita Returns This Saturday

By LEW FERGUSON
Associated Press Writer
WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—"Some of these young men are going to grow up in a hurry Saturday night," said Bob Seaman Wichita State University's new head football coach.

His Wheatshockers are just three weeks removed from the tragic airplane crash in Colorado which removed the 22 starting offensive and defensive regulars from the WSU varsity. And they play the University of Arkansas Saturday.

The Shockers, who voted 76-1 to play the final six games on their 1970 schedule, open their "second season" at Little Rock against a team considered Texas' top threat to another South-west Conference championship.

"It's a football game and we've got to get ready as best we can for it," said Seaman, 38-year-old chief assistant to the late Ben Wilson, Wichita State's head coach who was killed in the Oct. 2 crash in the Rockies. The tragic crash took the lives of 13 WSU gridders and injured nine more seriously enough that none will play again this season.

Seaman and the remainder of Wilson's staff have gone about preparing the woefully young remnants of the Wheatshockers squad for a six-game schedule which includes the University of Cincinnati and four Missouri Valley Conference games in addition to Arkansas.

They've done it as unemotionally and as surgically as possible — blending the best freshmen players in with the surviving varsity squadmen. The Missouri Valley gave its blessing to Wichita's use of freshmen the remainder of this season.

"The psychological part will take care of itself," Seaman said of his players. "These young men will come to play. playing football is absolutely the best therapy that could have happened to them."

Significant Changes In Constitution Proffered

AP News Special
By YVONNE BASKIN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Tar Heels will have a chance to make significant changes in North Carolina's century-old Constitution Nov. 3, even though some really controversial proposals didn't make it to the ballot.

The 1969 General Assembly considered 28 proposed amendments, rejecting almost all that dealt with burning issues. Still, the seven that won approval to go to the voters would give the document its first thorough revision since it was written in 1968.

The Constitution was put together by order of the U.S. military commander at Charleston, S. C., while the former Confederate state was a defeated province.

North Carolina's is the only Reconstruction constitution which has not undergone at least one entire rewriting.

Among the 21 touchy proposals rejected by the legislature were measures calling for veto power for the governor, allowing the governor to serve two consecutive terms, four-year terms for state senators, lowering the voting age to 18 and a mandatory retirement age for judges.

Following are the seven proposals which received a three-fifths majority of both houses and will be presented to the voters in the upcoming general election:

—A general editorial revision of the entire Constitution to delete archaic language and bring provisions into line with decisions by both the North Carolina and the United States Supreme Courts.

—An amendment to require the General Assembly to reduce the number of state administrative departments to 25 and to authorize the governor to reorganize these departments subject to legislative approval.

—A proposal to permit three-fifths of the members of the General Assembly to convene the legislature in special session.

—A revision of the portions of the present Constitution concerning state and local finance.

—An amendment authorizing the General Assembly to fix personal exemptions for income tax purposes.

—A proposal to distribute evenly among the 15 state-supported institutions of higher learning the benefits of escheats, which in the property acquired by the state when the owner dies without heirs or lawful claimants.

—An amendment to abolish the literacy requirement for voting.

Four of the proposed amendments were recommended by Plan Halloween Party At Church

Children are invited to don their Halloween costumes and enjoy a Halloween Carnival in the fellowship hall of St. James United Methodist Church Saturday from 5 to 9:30 p.m.

The event is sponsored by the Youth Fellowship. A snack supper of hot dogs, soft drinks, and other food prepared by the ladies of the church may be bought for modest prices throughout the evening. Proceeds from attractions like a wishing well, a spook house, a kissing booth, a pie throwing booth, and a cake walk which boasts homemade cakes will be used for youth service project for the coming year.

the North Carolina State Constitution Study Commission, a body formed by Gov. Dan Moore in 1968. The commission was headed by former Chief Justice Emery B. Denny of the state Supreme Court.

The local government finance amendment was drawn up by the Local Government Study Commission, headed by Rep. Sam Johnson, D-Wake, and endorsed by the Constitution Study Commission.

The two other amendments were proposed independently by legislators. Sen. Herman Moore, D-Mecklenburg, sponsors the amendment on special sessions. Rep. Henry Frye, D-Guilford, the first Negro member of the General Assembly since Reconstruction, sponsored the proposal for elimination of the literacy test.

Six of the amendments have an effective date of July 1, 1971.

The finance amendment would take effect July 1, 1973, a delay to give the legislature time to pass enacting laws.

With less than two weeks left until the election, no major opposition to the amendments have been organized. The only call for defeat of the whole package was voiced by Walter Green of Burlington, head of the American party in North Carolina. He said the proposals would not be "in the best interest of the people of North Carolina."

Gov. Bob Scott has given a general endorsement to all the amendments and strong support for one in particular, state government reorganization.

Some opposition has been voiced to the reorganization amendment on the chance that its sweeping overhaul could include the state's colleges and universities. Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan issued an opinion in January saying that institutions of higher education could be included under the wording of the amendment.

On the basis of this, Rep. Ike

HIGHWAYS CUT TRAVELING TIME

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The interstate highway system is shrinking distances between cities by reducing travel time for auto trips. The U.S. Transportation Department says a 2,830-mile journey from New York to Los Angeles which took 79 hours of travel in 1956 can now be made in 62 hours.

Andrews, D-Chatham, a strong supporter of reorganization, has announced he will oppose the amendment. Several higher education officials have also said they would like to see the amendment deferred until the next General Assembly can clarify whether it intended to include universities in the measure.

Industry Discounts Enzyme Complaint

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A Connecticut woman spent two days in the hospital with skin eruptions she said were caused by enzyme detergents.

One woman complained that her daughter's month-long absence from school—blamed on reactions to enzyme detergents—kept the girl from being class valedictorian.

Railroad Needs Desalinization

KANZAWA, Japan (UPI)—The Japan National Railways uses a specially designed diesel rail car to wash encrusted salt off power lines and insulators on electric train lines along the coast of the Sea of Japan.

Winds blowing from the sea deposit salt on the power lines. Trains formerly had to stop while the power was shut off so the lines could be scraped clean by hand. Under the new system, power lines are washed clean by high pressure water hoses from the diesel car while the power remains on.

A New Jersey mother complained that she and her son could barely breathe at times because of their reactions to enzyme detergents.

Enzymes are the chemicals which help remove organic stains from clothing. Since enzyme detergents and presoaks were introduced three years ago, they've captured an estimated 75 per cent of the laundry product market.

They've also brought hundreds of complaints of allergic reactions to the manufacturers, government officials and independent consumer advocates. These complaints have aller-gists and the government concerned enough to seek two independent studies.

Suggestion Is Awarded $400

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The first cash award for a suggestion sent to the Army Sounding Board for the Individual Soldier has been won by Sgt. Gerald L. Ullom, assigned to the Army ROTC Instructor Group at St. Bonaventure University, Olean, N.Y.

Ullom who was in combat in Vietnam, will receive $400 for his suggestion to reinforce a canvas carrier used to transport the Claymore mine. The Picatinny Arsenal in New Jersey agreed with Ullom's observation that the modification he recommended would greatly increase the life of the mine.

Soap and detergent industry officials discount the complaints and say they have yet to find a single proven instance of an allergic reaction traced directly to enzyme detergents.

The Federal Trade Commission, however, said it has received "somewhat in excess of 200" complaints, and the Food and Drug Administration said it has gotten 121.

Industry spokesmen said doctors and scientists check out every complaint which seems medically verifiable. But interviews with five persons who complained to the soap companies turned up only one—a New Jersey mother—who was contacted by a doctor retained by the firm.

The mother said the doctor told her by phone to let him know if she had any more problems with the product. "But I never used it again," she said.

But the Connecticut woman who blamed her hospitalization on enzymes said: "My doctors are quite certain that it was caused by the enzymes in the detergent."

With the individual complaints have come scientific studies.

Six months after British researchers reported respiratory problems among factory workers who came in contact with enzymes, skin specialists at December's annual meeting of the American Academy of Dermatology reported on skin eruptions caused by the wearing of clothes washed in enzymes.

Sweden recently banned enzymes in detergents manufactured by the national cooperative.

However, the Soap and Detergent Association in this country points to industry tests of 1,500 persons in which not a single subject was more sensitive to detergents with enzymes than to detergents without them.

Modern Problem For Old Cave

STANTON, Mo. (UPI)—Bob Hudson, director of Meramec Caverns, the 100 million-year-old cave here, was asked: "What's the toughest part of your business?"

"How to spend $150,000 a year to modernize the cave and still have it look 100 million years old," Hudson replied.

Chilean People 'Civilized' In The Best Sense

By WILLIAM F. NICHOLSON
Associated Press Writer
SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — About a dozen persons were enjoying lunch and conversation in the wood-paneled dining room of an exclusive Santiago men's club. At the long bar, an officer in the carabineros, Chile's national police force, chatted amiably with a bearded, leftist lawyer.

Suddenly, a bell behind the bar began clanging.

The men bolted out of the room. They ran down three flights of stairs to a first-floor garage and jumped onto a shiny green fire engine. With a flash of revolving green lights and the growl of a siren, the men of Company 5 of the Santiago Volunteer Fire Department were off to answer an alarm.

City fire departments in Chile are made up of volunteers. It is traditional for upper-class, young men to join a fire company much as the rich, young men of the United States used to join fashionable National Guard regiments.

The custom is just one facet of the people of this country of high mountains, bleak deserts, dramatic seacoasts and lush central valleys.

Nearly every guidebook to Chile uses the word "civilized" to describe the people. Some Chileans find that inadequate.

"They believe they are the most sophisticated, most intellectual and most intelligent group of people in the world," says one foreign critic. "I think they would prefer to have Chile located somewhere between France and Italy. Then they would have more influence than they do."

This capital and its 2.9 million residents support a dozen live theaters, two symphony orchestras, a ballet company and three universities. Visitors can purchase the latest French magazines or a pair of Gucci shoes. Excellent Chilean wines and seafood dishes can be enjoyed in many fine restaurants.

Despite virulent anti-American propaganda in the left-wing press, Chileans are invariably polite and friendly to U.S. visitors.

The carabineros are liked and respected. These well-trained policemen keep order, direct traffic and even deliver babies in rural areas.

One of the more colorful sights in Santiago is the changing of the guard by white-gloved, jack-booted carabineros at the Casa de Moneda, where the presidential offices are located.

Precisely at 10 a.m. two platoons of carabineros and a 125-piece band strut about the plaza facing the imposing gray building. A performance lasting almost an hour includes much heel-clicking, sword-waving and oom-pah-pah music, a throwback to days before World War II when the Chilean army and the carabineros had German military advisers.

The changing of the guard is about the only thing that happens on time in Chile. It is almost impossible to be late for anything. When a Chilean says he will meet you at 2 p.m., he really means that he will show up before 3 p.m., maybe. The only people in restaurants before 10 p.m. are waiters and tourists.

Chileans like to stay up late. The downtown district at midnight is filled with people sauntering along the narrow, tiled sidewalks. Some of them are families with little children.

Unlike their Argentine neighbors who live under a prudish military regime, the men publicly revel in the female form.

Cheesecake tabloids and magazines are plastered all over corner news stands. Newspapers carry a daily ration of bare bosom photographs. Burlesque clubs offer explicit skin shows for about $2 a drink.

Chilean women are considered by Chilean men to be the most beautiful in the world. They may not be wrong. The chic, Chilean females can be blonde-haired and blue-eyed or have slim, well-formed legs of a Lido dancer.

"We have three W's here in Chile," boasts a Chilean man. "Excellent wine, weather and women. And the women keep getting better."

Chileans largely are peaceful and law-abiding. The last military coup was in 1932. Chilean drivers obey traffic lights, unusual for Latin America.

On occasions people will twist the rules if not exactly break them.

Because Chile does not produce enough beef for domestic consumption and the government does not want to expend foreign exchange reserves by importing it, beef can be brought only on the first 12 days of each month. Seafood, poultry, lamb and pork are not rationed.

Those who still crave beef know where to go.

"We operate like this, unseasoned," explains a waiter. "You order the fish selection and I bring you the fish, but underneath the piece of fish, what do you find? A steak."

Somehow, it reminds a visitor of the '40s when meat was rationed in the United States, and not every American put his patriotism ahead of his stomach.

Wigs Added To Police Gear

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Campus policemen at the University of Florida have added two long-haired wigs to their supply of police gear.

The Florida Alligator, the school newspaper, reported the university police force has also ordered a $1,500 film camera to be used "in the event of demonstrations."

The wigs, according to William Elmore, vice president for business affairs, will not be used on campus but were purchased for a special drug unit.

FLEXIBLE NIGHT CLUB

NEW YORK (UPI) — The secret of running a successful night club is to be flexible, says Jules Podell, whose Copacabana is observing its 30th anniversary.

"You must book acts with the times and keep up with the tastes of the public," says Podell, noting that he is signing acts now that he wouldn't have booked a year or two ago.

Sisters Helped A Neighborhood

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Commissioner of Recreation for Philadelphia, said the sisters, through their volunteer work this summer, saved the city from $1 million to $1.5 million.

"And these sisters were a joy to work with," he added. "It is really something when someone can earn her way into the hearts of those in the ghettos. It was great to see the way the kids would run to meet them."

The Sisters Committee, directed by Sister Regina of Jesus, is a branch of the Cardinal's Commission on Human Relations. Sister Regina was searching for a way that the sisters could help the ghetto children when she heard city recreation officials were looking for supervisors.

Open Week Of Revival

A Homecoming Harvest service Sunday will initiate a week of revival meetings at Webb's Chapel Baptist Church on Route 1, Macclesfield.

On this day the church will emphasize its nearing goal of construction of a new church building.

The guest minister at the 11 a.m. Sunday worship service and the 7:30 p.m. services each night through Saturday will be the Rev. James W. Herron, pastor of Five Points Missionary Baptist Church in Wilson. A South Carolina native, he was educated at the College of Charleston and Southeastern Baptist Seminary in Wake Forest. He now has a daily devotional ministry on radio and the morning worship service of his church is broadcast weekly.

Special music will be provided each night next week by the Webb's Chapel Adult Choir. Nursery service will be available.

Firewomen Win The Hose Fight

BRENTWOOD, England (UPI)—The 42 women members of Brentwood's volunteer fire brigade won their fight for a "sex appeal" allowance of two pounds ($4.80) to buy black stockings to go with their uniforms.

"The regulation ones were too small, uncomfortable and looked terrible," said one lady firefighter, "and we like to look as attractive and appealing as possible, even on the job."

The Worry Clinic Early Formula Applies Today

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE 0-560: Ronald J., aged 32, is a clergyman. "Dr. Crane," he began, "we'd like to have you address our city Ministerial Meeting. "Several of us worked hard to put through the motion to have you invited. "For we find that many clergymen are very irate at your criticisms of their pulpit oratory.

"But it is usually the preachers who are poor speakers that dislike you. "The topnotch pulpitiereers root for you 100 percent. But they are hardly 25 percent of our membership." Jesus attracted crowds of laymen because he used the "Case Method" and illustrated his abstract points with parables (stories). He must also have had a booming voice. For he could hold an audience of 10,000 people outdoors, without any modern microphone! And he kept eye-contact with his audiences, like the modern star salesman and superb platform orators. For he spotted little Zacchaeus up a sycamore tree at the back of his congregation and called to him. He also used stage materials to attract the attention of the crowd, as when he asked whose image was on the coin. He also picked up a child and set him in his lap to furnish a visible answer to questions about heaven, for Jesus stated: "The kingdom of heaven is as a little child." Jesus also used the famous 2-horned dilemma to escape being arrested and killed, either by the Roman centurions or the Sanhedrin's spies.

For when the spies asked, "Master, whence cometh thy powers?" they thought to entrap him on one or the other horns of that dilemma. For it meant death if he claimed to be the Son of God.

And he would have lost his audience if he had admitted to being just an ordinary mortal man.

In that dilemma, he thrust a 2-horned dilemma at his foes by saying:

"I'll ask you a question first. If you answer mine, then I'll answer yours, so whence came the power of John the Baptist?"

Soon they realized they dared not say John was an ordinary human being, for the crowd would have lynched them, since John was regarded as a prophet of Jehovah, like Isaiah, reincarnate.

On the contrary, they couldn't admit that John was a prophet, for Jesus would then say, "Why did you turn him over to Herod to be beheaded?"

In this impasse, they lamely retorted, "Master, we cannot tell."

To which Jesus tartly replied,

"Neither tell I you."

Note Christ's first word, namely, "Neither," for it indicates the failure of his foes to deliver on their oral contract with Jesus.

Christ also enjoyed dinner parties. He started the first church picnic when he fed the 5,000 with the lad's loaves and fishes.

Jesus even launched the Easter sunrise breakfast idea, for after his Resurrection, he called his Apostles to shore, where they found a fire of coals with a fish broiling thereon.

Jesus fed them fish and bread, which is the only time he served as the host and cooked their food!

If you 75 percent of the clergy who still put congregations to sleep with your stodgy essay sermons, focussed on 2,000 years ago, would adopt Christ's forensic formula, you'd soon have standing room only at church!

Send for my booklet "Public Platform Strategy," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

The bidding: King of ♣ East 1♥ West 2♦ Pass 2♥ Pass 3♥ Pass 4♥ Pass Pass

Opening lead: King of ♣ North did not have quite enough for a jump raise over South's one heart opening, inasmuch as he held only 9 high card points and he was too strong for a single raise, he made a forcing take-out to two diamonds. He raised partner on the next round and South carried on to game in hearts. West opened the king of clubs and East signaled encouragingly with the ten.

Claims Opponent Bit Off Nose

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A soccer player is suing an opponent for $50,000, contending he bit off his nose at an amateur soccer game. Julie Marchesan's suit says Hagar Printzian grabbed him in a bear hug and chomped last Nov. 30, 1969. Although the nose was retrieved by teammates and restored by a plastic surgeon, "it doesn't look right," Marchesan's lawyer said.
