

Peace Prize Winner Is Pessimistic

By KEVIN M. KELLEGHAN
Associated Press Writer

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The American agronomist awarded the 1970 Nobel Peace Prize says the "green revolution" for which he is being honored can buy only 20 more years for a world faced with overpopulation.

"The unrealistic attitudes of the world toward unreasonable population growth is the biggest problem we face now," Dr. Norman E. Borlaug told a news conference Wednesday night. "We should multiply in relation to the increase in the world's production of food."

The 57-year-old Iowan said, "Governments in developing countries must stimulate agriculture while at the same time balancing industrial growth. If agriculture is given its fair share, there may still be hope in this century."

Borlaug, named for the $80,000 prize Wednesday, has made harvests more bountiful in hungry countries through development of a dwarf wheat strain that gives very high yields. The term "green revolution" refers to the use of improved grains and farming techniques to produce larger crops.

He said that before he introduced his wheat improvement program in Pakistan, a rumor circulated there that his variety would make the women of the country sterile.

"Oh, if that were only true!" said Borlaug. "Then we would really merit the Nobel Peace Prize. The green revolution cannot cure all the ills, but it is a step forward. The problem is simply that too many people are coming on the scene too fast."

Borlaug came to Mexico 26 years ago to work on improved wheat strains with the Mexican Ministry of Agriculture and the Rockefeller Foundation, of which he is a director. He heads a team of scientists from 17 nations experimenting with new types of grains at the Rockefeller Agricultural Institute.

"You can solve the pollution problems, you can reduce the smog by one-fourth," he continued. "But if you don't solve the population explosion, none of the other solutions are going to be very rosy."

Borlaug is the 15th American to win or share the peace prize since it was first given in 1901 by the foundation established by Alfred Nobel, the inventor of dynamite.

Guerrilla Force Crosses Into Jordan From Syria, Advance Backed By Tanks

MOGHAYER, Jordan (AP) — About 1,800 Palestinian guerrillas have crossed into Jordan from Syria and taken up positions near the frontier village of Moghayer, the Jordanian army said today.

Brig. Atta Gasib, who commands Jordanian forces in the north, said the advance was backed by 14 tanks from the Palestine Liberation Army which moved on Torra, a town three miles west of Ramtha. Ramtha is the main border crossing point on the Damascus-Amman highway.

Gasib said the commandos are members of the Syrian backed Saika group and entered Jordan because of pressure put on them after Gen. Hafez Assad, the Syrian defense minister, seized control of the government in Damascus and began cracking down on Saika.

Jordanian officers estimate there are 20,000 Saika guerrillas in Syria who are trying to flee to northern Jordan and southern Lebanon.

There was more fighting in this area of northern Jordan Wednesday and Wednesday night. Two rockets fell on Moghayer, where the Jordanians have set up a headquarters in a battered school to watch guerrilla movements across the valley in Torra, Shajara and two other villages close to the Syrian border.

Residents are jittery because of the repeated clashes and want the guerrillas to leave the area. The army blasted its way into the village last Saturday, driving the guerrillas across the valley to Shajara.

Fighting began in the area Saturday, the day after the government shakeup in Syria was reported. The clashes, usually exchanges of artillery and rocket fire, have continued this week.

The commandos charge that the Jordanian army is trying to cut off their supply routes from Syria and prevent their free movement on the country's roads in violation of the peace agreement guerrilla leader Yasir Arafat and King Hussein signed nine days ago.

Senior members of the international Arab peace mission supervising the agreement went north to Ramtha Wednesday to investigate several shooting incidents in the town. One officer said there was intense movement of Jordanian tanks outside Ramtha.

Gasib said he is convinced the guerrillas have a master plan, backed by the governments in Syria and Iraq, to split north Jordan from the rest of the country to make it the Middle East equivalent of Vietnam or Korea. Arafat has said he wants Amman to be the Hanoi of the Arab world.

Meanwhile, in the Israeli-occupied Gaza Strip an Israeli army patrol shot and killed an Arab woman when she failed to halt for an identity check during the nightly curfew, the Israeli military command said.

Explosives Are Uncovered Canadian Gov't Moved To Ward Off Terror Campaign

MONTREAL (AP) — The Canadian government invoked the emergency War Measures Act last week partly to ward off a pre-election campaign of terrorism that Quebec separatists were believed planning, a federal minister said today.

No significant new developments were reported in the hunt for the terrorists who killed Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte and were still holding British Trade Commissioner James Cross.

But Regional Expansion Minister Jean Marchand said in a radio interview that the kidnapping of Cross and Laporte was only part of the reason for the government's proclamation of the act, which allows security forces to conduct searches without warrants and hold suspects up to 21 days without filing charges.

Marchand said authorities "had good reason to believe" changes in city administration. Journalist Claude Jamin, one of FRAP's candidates, said in an interview that "two or three, maybe three or four" of his party's candidates might be sympathetic to the FLQ, which wants French-speaking Quebec to be independent from the rest of Canada. But he insisted that FRAP "is not an FLQ organization. If it was, I wouldn't be involved in it."

In the search for the kidnapers, police reported they had seized 473 sticks of dynamite and 584 detonators in raids across the province since Oct. 11. They said 240 persons were in custody.

Coroner Laurin Lapointe reported that the weapon used to kill Laporte was a light gold chain for a Roman Catholic religious medal he wore around his neck. Previous reports had said Laporte was shot.

Lapointe said the chain left marks around Laporte's neck except at the back, indicating he had been strangled from behind. The time of death was set at between noon and 11 p.m. Saturday, a week after the labor minister was taken at gunpoint from the lawn of his suburban home.

Cross was kidnaped from his Montreal home Oct. 5.

The only other marks on Laporte's body were superficial wounds on his right hand, left wrist and upper right chest, Lapointe said. He said all were inflicted before death.

Officials in Ottawa said telegrams and letters pouring into the federal capital showed overwhelming support for the government's decision to invoke the War Measures Act. By Tuesday, they said, Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau's office had received 2,180 telegrams, 2,115 supporting proclamation of the act.

A Conservative member of the House of Commons, Robert Thompson, introduced a bill to provide the death penalty for political kidnaping offenses.

'A Swindle'

PARIS (AP) — The Vietnamese Communists scorned President Nixon's peace plan today as a "swindle" and a "plot." U.S. Ambassador David K. E. Bruce accused them of "resorting to threadbare propaganda slogans."

"They show clearly the contrast between our respective approaches to these talks," Bruce said at the Paris peace conference, "and which of the two sides at this table truly desires an early and honorable end to the war."

Bruce said the President's proposal to establish a standstill cease-fire "is designed to stop the killing now." The Communists have rejected this and the other four points of the Nixon program.

Must Be Delivered

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has told Postmaster General Winton M. Blount to go to Hanoi, if that is necessary and possible, to deliver Christmas mail to American prisoners of war in North Vietnam.

In a statement read at the dedication of stamps honoring prisoners of war and disabled veterans, the President said: "I have instructed the Postmaster General to make every effort to see that our prisoners of war receive their mail. And by every effort, I mean, if possible, even going to Hanoi to accomplish that objective."

A post office spokesman said the statement means that Blount himself might undertake a trip to the North Vietnamese capital if no other arrangements for getting Christmas mail to imprisoned GIs is worked out.

Nixon's statement was read at the dedication ceremonies by Blount. When he finished the Postmaster General added: "You can rest assured that that mandate will be carried out."

Passes Inspection

The new National Guard army in Greenville has passed inspection and should be ready for occupancy sometime early next month, Maj. Gen. Ferd L. Davis, Adjutant General of North Carolina, has announced.

The new facility, located on a five-acre site furnished by the City of Greenville, adjacent to the airport on Memorial Drive, cost approximately $239,000, of which $178,000 was furnished by the Federal government and the balance by the State.

The 16,387 square-foot armory for Co. B, 167th Military Police Bn., replaces the armory built around 1938 by the WPA in Greenville and provides ample off-street parking.

The unit, composed of four officers and over 160 enlisted men, is commanded by Capt. Ralph H. Heidenreich of Greenville.

Scott Ignored Rain And Diet

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott ignored the rain and his diet Wednesday as he made an hour-long tour of the 103rd North Carolina State Fair.

The governor spurned an umbrella with the comment, "It never rains at the fair."

The hefty chief executive, dressed in white levis and a white denim jacket, lost no time in sampling the traditional fair food.

Want Lt. Calley As Witness In Mitchell Trial

By ROBERT HEARD
Associated Press Writer

FT. HOOD, Tex. (AP) — Defense lawyers at S.Sgt. David Mitchell's court-martial want his platoon leader at My Lai in 1968, 1st Lt. William L. Calley Jr., to appear as a witness.

An informed source said Wednesday counsel for Mitchell had asked that Calley be subpoenaed.

The defense was scheduled to begin presentation of its case today after a 48-hour recess.

The prosecution surprised the defense by resting its case Tuesday after calling only three witnesses. None testified to seeing Mitchell fire any shots which struck anyone at My Lai.

Calley reportedly is scheduled to make a trip to Vietnam Monday with his lawyers to take depositions from five South Vietnamese witnesses in his own case. A special session in Mitchell's trial may have to be held Saturday to receive Calley's testimony, the source said.

Calley is charged with murder of 102 civilians in the South Vietnamese hamlet on March 16, 1968. His court-martial is set for Nov. 16 at Ft. Benning, Ga.

Mitchell, 30, of St. Francis-ville, La., is charged with assault with intent to commit murder. He could get up to 20 years at hard labor if convicted.

The three prosecution witnesses, Charles Sledge, Dennis I. Conti and Gregory Olsen, said they saw Mitchell at a drainage ditch east of My Lai when approximately 30 unarmed women, children and old men allegedly were gunned down.

Sledge and Conti said they saw Mitchell fire into the ditch after the civilians had been pushed into it. Olsen said he could not swear he saw Mitchell shoot, but that he saw him with his rifle to his shoulder beside the ditch.

Boobytrapped The Clothesline

LONDON (AP) — Elaine Williams and her neighbors got so fed up with having their underwear stolen from their washlines that they have booby trapped some of their scanties.

A pair of panties and a pair of tights were stitched together on the line, and a jam jar was put inside.

"As soon as the thief grabbed them, the jar fell to the ground," Mrs. Williams told the judge Wednesday. "Another neighbor heard the noise, and her husband grabbed him."

Jack Emerson, a 20-year-old salesman, was fined $28.

ALMOST DOUBLED

Departmental Hearing Set For Two Policemen

FARMVILLE — A departmental hearing for two officers who allegedly violated departmental rules by discharging their weapons and failing to report it has been set for Monday night.

James Taylor, a local barber, according to a newspaper report Tuesday told the executive committee of the Pitt County NAACP Branch Monday night that Farmville policemen had been discharging firearms in the Negro community and using their flashlights in an annoying fashion.

Police chief Graham Creel explained that two patrolmen have been charged with a violation of department regulations (not a criminal offense) for allegedly discharging their weapons in the early morning hours of October 13 and failing to report it.

Officers Bruce Morrison and Mack Boney were on duty at that time. Both have denied their weapons were fired.

A hearing for the two on the departmental charge, before members of the town Board of Commissioners, was set for tonight but has been postponed until Monday night. Creel said the postponement was made because one of the members of the town board is out of town.

Morrison and Boney have retained attorney Mark Owens Jr. to represent them at the hearing.

According to Chief Creel, a report of shots being fired from the police car "with the blue light on top" around 1:30 a.m. October 13 was received immediately after the alleged incident occurred. Lt. Carl Tanner, the ranking officer on duty at that time, called the Chief at home to report the incident. Numerous other people in the South George Street area have also said they heard shots at this time, although they did not know where they came from.

Mrs. Margaret Suggs of 910 South George Street said she saw the car at the time the shots were fired.

According to a written rule of the Farmville Police Department, "Whenever a member of the Farmville Police Department discharges his firearm either accidentally or in the performance of police duty, he shall verbally notify the on-duty supervisor (ranking officer on duty at the time) that his gun has been discharged. Also, after this verbal report is made, the officer who has discharged the firearm shall write a written report (Shoot Report) about the incident on an internal complaint report directing this report to the Chief of Police. The ranking officer shall advise the Chief of Police of the incident as soon as possible after it occurs."

Creel's only comment about policemen allegedly using their flashlights in an annoying fashion was, "We have no rules about the use of flashlights. Night duty policemen use them constantly for many different reasons."

"I am not objecting to what James Taylor said...but I think the full story should be told," Creel said yesterday while

Home And Country Should Be Kept Up 50th Anniversary Will Be Observed

By Abigail Van Buren

(c. 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I can't believe millions of people are going to sit still and let you call them dullards because their only interests are their children, homes and jobs. Many young couples are on small budgets and they don't have the time to get involved in civic and political things as you suggested. Instead they are planting lawns, refinishing furniture, and trying to make ends meet.

They are just as proud of their accomplishments as the man who changes a zoning law or a woman who campaigns for low-cost housing. Don't knock the little guy, O. K.?

BELITTLED IN BARSTOW

DEAR BELITTLED: In a democracy, the "little guy" is more important than the "big guy" because the little guys comprise the majority, which rules. The people [mostly little guys] vote their candidates into office, and in many communities they vote for tax reforms, bond issues, and other vital matters concerning their communities.

The most important thing a man [or woman] can do for his family is to study the issues and the candidates and to make intelligent use of his voting privilege. What does it profit a man to have his furniture refinished if somebody is building a bomb in his basement? Edmund Burke said, "All that is necessary for evil to succeed is that good men do nothing."

DEAR ABBY: I am so mad at you I could crown you for giving all that valuable space to those dirty housekeepers. One would think you had to be a dirty housekeeper in order to be a Good Samaritan!

One woman bragged that she keeps open house for run-aways, alcoholics, hippies and drug addicts. Big deal!

I know a little 98-lb. woman whose house is so clean you could eat off her floor. She even bakes her own bread! She has one child of her own and recently adopted an orphaned infant and a 14-year-old girl whose own mother didn't want her. Come clean, Abby, whose side are you on anyway?

NOT MAD ANYMORE

DEAR NOT: There is "clean" dirt and "dirty" dirt, and I am offended by "dirty" dirt. But if one's home is in less than apple pie order because her time is spent in charity, I would not criticize her.

DEAR ABBY: Please print this. It may help some other stupid kid who can't wait to leave home:

My sister and I had a good home but we thought our parents were too strict. My sister ran away at 18 and married a guy who turned out to be a bum just like we figured he would.

I left home when I turned 18 because I wanted to be free to come and go as I pleased. It was fun for about six months, then I started to get lonesome and things got really tough, but I didn't have the nerve to ask my folks to let me come home because I hadn't kept in touch with them to let them know I was safe. The longer I stayed away, the more ashamed I got, so I just sort of faded out of the picture for two years.

Then I heard my mother was sick, so I went home. She had had a nervous breakdown about a year after I left, and she will never get out of the sick home she's in. She doesn't know me or any of the family anymore. Now I'll never be able to tell her I love her and I'm sorry for what I did. My father has aged 20 years and he stays drunk all the time.

I have nothing now. No home, no sister, no parents. What a mess I've made out of my life and I'm only 20. Those friends I left home to be with don't mean a thing to me now. I hate them all. But most of all, I hate myself. Sign me . . . SAD CASE FROM OHIO

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Harrington Is Club Speaker

Eddie Harrington was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Dig'n Delve Garden Club Thursday at the home of Mrs. Robert Messner. Mrs. Paul Scott was co-hostess.

Harrington spoke on "Garden Fountains and Pools." He listed the advantages and disadvantages of garden pools in general as well as the different kinds of pools.

He discussed the drainage and pollution problems and stressed the fact that pools, although very beautiful, require a considerable amount of maintenance to keep them lovely.

After the program, Mrs. Herbert Paschal, president, conducted a short business session.

The group held a discussion on a project for the club this year.

Plans were made to attend a meeting on "Table Decorations" to be held in Rocky Mount. Mrs. Amy B. Lau of Winter Haven, Fla., presented the program.

Mrs. Barney Barrett was a guest.

IN DOWNTOWN GREENVILLE. OPEN NIGHTS TIL 9 P. M.

The Advantages Trees Offer

One thing noticeable about Greenville is the large number of trees within the city and also in the rural areas surrounding us.

We couldn't help but be impressed, sitting high in Ficklen Stadium at a recent football game, that trees could be seen in every direction.

Trees and other greenery not only beautify the city, but also manufacture oxygen which is so essential to life.

There are, of course, some disadvantages to trees in a city. The roots grow through sewer lines and wreck sidewalks; limbs fall on power lines during storms. However, almost everyone will agree that trees are a great asset in any city.

Now we find that a tree serves in many purposes in

Apple Center Of The State

By BRYAN HANSLIP
HENDERSONVILLE — "Best apples grow highest." I believe it. Teetering on a ladder propped against blue October sky, I reached greedily for a Golden Delicious on the top - most twig.

The basket hooked on my arm tilted. Its load rained through the leaves. Mary Allen yelped as an apple bounced off her head. I swayed back to safety, the prize in hand.

The first bite was crunchy with morning cold, wine-sweet with a season of mountain sun and rain. Not since Eden did an apple have such a taste of delicious diversity.

J.H. Stepp, Jr. smiled. A man likes to see his product appreciated, even if he doesn't sample it himself. "Fresh apples bother my digestion," he explained. He eats applesauce.

Stepp is one of the growers making Henderson County the apple center of North Carolina. This year's harvest, now nearing completion, will send several million bushels from the county to the nation's markets.

"It's been a good year," said Stepp. "Most every grower has had a heavy crop of good fruit. 'Quality has been the best in years.'"

The federal-state crop reporting service has estimated the North Carolina apple production at 226 million pounds — which converts to approximately 5 1/2 million bushels — up 11 per cent over last year. Henderson County accounts for roughly 50 per cent of Tar Heel apple production.

Prices started good when commercial harvest began in mid-August, but moved downward as apples in volume came to market. Now they are near a break - even point with production costs. Efforts to persuade the federal government to purchase apples as a surplus commodity for distribution, including the recommendation of State Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham, have been unsuccessful.

Apples Everywhere

Red, yellow, large, small, sweet, tart — we saw apples by the millions on our mountain weekend trip with Mason and Pat Thomas of Chapel Hill. Roadside stands displayed full baskets, loaded trucks were parked along the highway, packing houses had bins piled high.

Orchards we passed looked like a Christmas forest, each tree sagging tent-shaped from boughs ornamented with heavy clusters of gleaming fruit.

"I want to pick apples from a tree," said Mary Allen.

We met Stepp behind a roll-top desk marked by years and use in the general store at Dana founded by his father, next door to the packing house operated by his brother, Leon Stepp.

Growers bring apples to the packing house in wooden bins holding 18 to 20 bushels each. The bins are fork-lifted from the truck and moved into a washer which floats the fruit free without bruising.

Equipment sends the apples through a washing and waxing operation, and down chutes where they are graded for size, defects and color. After inspection and weighing, they are packed in boxes or bagged just as you find them in the supermarket.

If the fruit averages well for size and quality, 2,500 to 3,000 bushels can be handled in a day's operation.

Large and Small Growers
Stepp grows apples on about 150 acres, some of it owned and some of it leased. That places him in the middle range of Henderson County growers. There are many small growers who have 15 to 20 acres in orchards; probably half the growers have 50 or more acres; a few produce apples on as much as 500 acres.

"I believe it's changing back to more of a family operation," said Stepp. "A family that can handle most of its own labor can do all right with 15 to 20 acres. Labor and expense can make it tough to make money on a large operation."

The Stepp family has been in the apple business since the 30s. Some of the trees in his orchards are 40 years old. Development of new strains to meet consumer preference makes it necessary for a grower to bring along new trees. It takes about eight years for an apple tree to produce enough to pay its way.

Over the past couple of years, Stepp has experimented with the "pick your own" trade. Without advertising, he opened his orchard for families to harvest the apples they buy at $2 a bushel picked from the tree, and $1 picked from the ground.

this age of noise pollution. The Soil Conservation Service said that 100 feet of forest reduces noise about eight decibels. This is quite meaningful when one considers that sound unbearable to humans begins at 120 to 130 decibels.

Here are the decibels given off in common modern situations: jet aircraft, 140; express train, 100; car honk, 110; chain saw, 100; dog bark, 92; busy inter-city highway, 72-78; normal speech, 48.

Thus the Soil Conservation Service plays an important part in urban growth planning and it has information about land use planning available.

As our city grows it is inevitable that some trees will go. It would be good planning to see that groves of trees are preserved wherever possible and that new trees are planted in the proper areas when trees are chopped down to make way for highways and development. We think civilization and nature can be compatible but the planning for this will have to be done by the humans.

Safety Campaign Can Prove Real Economy

It is somewhat encouraging that safety on the job has paid off to the point where Insurance Commissioner Edwin Lanier is calling a hearing on a request for an average 4.8 percent reduction in workman's compensation rates.

The new rate was proposed because of a favorable loss experience during the past year.

Strong safety campaigns can mean real savings to those who pay premiums. The same thing can be true of auto insurance rates, if a real effort is made to reduce the appalling traffic toll. Fewer traffic accidents would mean lower rates for those insured.

Taylor Runs At Full Throttle

By JOHN KILGO
WADESBORO — North Carolina Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor — who is running for Governor with the throttle all the way out — is one man who believes the Tar Heel chief executive has plenty of influence over the Legislature, without the power of veto.

Taylor was interviewed in his law office here and he admitted to being dog-tired from jumping from one end of the State to the other. That's what happens to a man when he decides he'd like to be Governor. Pat Taylor has made that decision, even though he isn't ready to admit it publicly.

Gov. Bob Scott said in a recent interview that his office needs the power of veto, because in the Governor's opinion, the powers of the Executive and Legislative branches of North Carolina's government are all out of whack, in favor of the General Assembly.

Lt. Gov. Taylor views it another way.

"To be honest," he says, "I've never seen such reason the Governor needed a veto in North Carolina the way we've been operating. In 15 years in the General Assembly, I haven't seen a half-dozen things of major significance that the Governor wanted that he didn't get, or that he opposed that passed."

Taylor contends that circumstances — and maybe tradition — give the Governor of North Carolina "a great deal of influence over the Legislature."

"The law doesn't give it to him," Taylor says. "He's just got it. I guess it's the prestige of the office, the Governor's appointive powers and generally speaking, the Governor is a popular fellow who is a friend of many people in the Legislature who would like to help him. I think most people in the General Assembly have respect for the fact that the Governor was elected in a State-wide race, that gives him prestige and influence and rightly so."

When Gov. Scott campaigned in 1968, one of his platforms was to make the Lt. Governor's office a full-time job. Nothing much has happened to change the mercurial duties of the Lt. Governor.

"The Governor and I talked after the election," Taylor says, "and I told him I'd be willing to serve full-time or go on like the office has been run in the past. I'd say that Gov. Scott has upgraded the Lt. Governor's office in terms of responsibilities, but there hasn't been a change in the legal structure of the office. Nobody has exactly figured out yet what the Lt. Governor would do if it were a full-time job. I've found that it's a full-time job with no statutory responsibilities."

Taylor has made the office full-time by choice and design and he admits: "If I didn't think there was a possibility that I might run for political office again in the future, I could turn down some of these engagements."

It's too early to forecast just who will be Taylor's opposition in the '72 Democratic gubernatorial primary. Hargrove (Skipper) Bowles of Greensboro seems certain to run. And in the background, lurking out of the shadows like a Jolly Green Giant, is North Carolina Attorney General Robert Morgan, who is swinging the-hottest political bat in the State right now.

"Politics doesn't have the glamour to it now that it once did," Taylor says. "Unless I felt like I was really gonna be able to contribute something... unless I thought I could be a really good Governor, I wouldn't be as interested in it just for the title and just for the ceremonial aspects of the job. If I were to run for Governor, I would make as one of my platforms that I simply would not spend all my time

Another Leaf From the Anarchists' Handbook

By JAMES KILPATRICK

A Few Heretical Notes

ATLANTA — It is not often that you encounter an authentic heretic these days, but I offer you one this afternoon: Dr. Max E. Brunk, professor of marketing at Cornell. He turned up here in Atlanta for a speech to the National Broiler Council, and cheerfully talked himself into the outer darkness.

A heretic, by definition, is one who willfully and persistently advocates doctrines that are contrary to those of his church; and the church in this instance is that marvelous new religion known as consumerism: Ralph Nader, high priest; Virginia Knauer, chairman of the ladies' sodality.

Consumerism holds as an article of faith that customers are fallen sinners, doomed to perpetual ignorance, inefficiency, and frustration; and like all first-class religions, to pursue the metaphor another line or two, consumerism relies upon revelation, holy writ, and divine command — for example, the Truth in Packaging Act. The object is to save the customer's soul.

From all this hocus-pocus, Dr. Brunk dissents. He defines consumerism as "a movement of activists who champion issues which appear to be beneficial; they only look that way. And the first thing to understand about consumerism, says heretical friend, is that "it is not a movement of consumers themselves."

Precisely. The same observation, perforce, may be made of pornography and women's lib. The moral crusaders who would ban a "Laddy Chatterly's Lover" are themselves immune to temptation. Their lofty purpose is to protect the moral well-being of others. And the Aimee Semple McPhersons who preach the abolition of protective labor laws seem rarely to have consulted with real-life waitresses and salesgirls. By the same token, consumerism proceeds on the assumption that Bishop Nader, Mrs. Knauer and Senator Tydings know better than we do what is best for us; and we are the sheep of their pasture.

It is hard to escape from the analogy of religion. As abstract propositions, the tenets of consumerism are admirable; so were the precepts Paul gave the Corinthians. But as Dr. Brunk says, the trouble comes with the interpretations that professional consumerists put upon them. Few persons would argue with the proposition that consumers should have proper legal redress for their wrongs; but when that proposition is translated into Senator Tydings' class-action bill, we encounter the kind of interpretation that makes heretics of marketing professors.

"I reject the contention," says Dr. Brunk, "that the consumer is ignorant, stupid or uninformed merely because her actions are not consistent with either my

Other Editors Say Revolt In Canada

(Henderson Dispatch)

Kidnaping of two government officials in Canada and slaying of one of them is virtually the equivalent of revolution. The government lost no time in intensifying the hunt for the kidnap-slayers. A number of arrests have been made but at last reports there was no certainty that the slayers were included.

Quebec's trade minister Pierre Laporte was killed and his body was found Sunday. The other victim was James R. Cross, British trade commissioner, who at last reports was still alive.

Canada's Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau pledged that the law will find "these vicious men" and bring them to justice. It is imperative that he do so, for his country faces revolution, at least in the Province of Quebec, and which could spread.

The outbreak is attributed to what is known as the Quebec Liberation Front, a group which is agitating for separation of Quebec as a free and independent nation. Nothing could be more silly than that for the French-speaking populace. Quebec is a thousand times better off as a part of the Dominion than it would be as a separate government. Back of that is the claim by the agitators that the French-speaking province is in large measure ignored by the other provinces and the provinces and the government. This, too, despite the fact that the present prime minister is from Quebec himself. The argument doesn't make sense, but that concerns the revolutionary element not at all. It is difficult to understand what the kidnapers think they have to gain in the tactics they are following. The sooner and the more completely the gang is rounded up the safer the Canadian government and the Dominion as a whole will be.

What should concern Americans is that this very thing could happen in the United States, where criminals are handled with gloves on, not off, and where there are elements just as vicious as these Quebec Liberation gangsters. There are hints that high officials here may be given security guards for their safety.

THE NECESSITY OF ROOTS

One day a heavy wind storm swept across an orchard, wrenching a great limb from the parent stock and throwing it over by the roadside. The conclusion naturally would have been that the leaves would wither and the trunk die in a few days or weeks.

But to the amazement of everyone who passed that way, the apples on the branch that had been thrown out by the roadside ripened each day with the apples that hung on the parent stock which was rooted deep down in the subsoil. When harvest arrived, the torn branch bore just as luscious apples as did the parent branch. But when the next spring came around there were no buds on the torn branch while on the parent branch rooted deep down into the subsoil there was the promise of abundant fruit.

This is a parable on the necessity of roots and soil. There are quite a few people who profess no religion at all, who are separated from the church as the torn branch was separated from the parent trunk. And for a while such people bear fruit which cannot be distinguished from the fruit of those who put great confidence in the things of God. But the times come after the winter of sorrow, or persecution, or strife has passed, that those who are of the branch lying by the roadside wither and bear no fruit, while those whose lives stem from the trunk of God's eternal love blossom again with the hope of new triumphs and eternal life.

Cities, pressed for additional funds for salaries and other rising costs, are increasingly charging for their services.

The Tax Foundation, Inc., reports that in 1940, cities obtained 4 per cent of their revenue from service charges and 16 per cent of much higher budgets in 1968. The total take that year was $2.4 billion and has probably gone up since then.

Why The Boost

It points out that cities increased their spending by more than 55 per cent between 1962 and 1968, while revenue from their own sources increased only 45 per cent. The difference was largely made up by federal grants, now averaging 30 percent of municipal budgets.

To supplement the federal largesse and local property and sales taxes, cities have turned to levying fees for refuse collection, sewerage, water supply, parking and building inspection.

New York, which has about one million people on relief roles, has a sewer system largely paid for by local assessments. Now it is charging the sewer who paid for the sewer a monthly fee for using it.

The Tax Foundation's study of fees found that cities with under 500,000 population rely on them more than the larger ones. Cities under 50,000 got 20 per cent of their revenue from fees; cities of one million or more got only 12 per cent.

An Old Play
Charging fees has been an old custom in America. Time was when almost every town had its speed trap and motorists were hauled before local justices for slight infractions and forced to pay costs as well as fines. The costs usually went to the

Christmas Seals Need Helpers

The big job of stuffing 100,000 letters with Christmas seals to go into the mails is well underway this year—but still has far to go, according to program director William (Bill) Watson.

Watson said that Miss Ruth Peterson, executive director of the Eastern Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, which is the agency handling the familiar Christmas seals used to raise funds from the public, still needs volunteer workers—both individuals and groups.

One local group, members of the Baptist Student Union of East Carolina University, was cited as an example of a well-coordinated, hard-working volunteer group which has contributed effectively to "stuffing the seals" into envelopes.

Watson credits this group, in a three hour period, with placing seals in about 15,000 envelopes. "When a group works together for this long a period, it is possible to get a lot done."

Watson commented. Some 20 volunteers joined Rev. Randy Mishoe, director of the Baptist Student Union in their volunteer stint.

Altogether, at this date, about 40,000 of the 100,000 envelopes have had the sheets of Christmas seals placed in them by individual and group volunteers.

Greenville and local groups participating have included:

The Martin and Beaufort County Health Departments; St. James United Methodist Youth Group; VFW Auxiliary; the Marie Hanna Circle; Greenville Service League; the ECU Presbyterian Youth Group (the Den); the Gamma Delta Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority; Tri Sigma Sorority; and Webelee Pack Nr. 30.

60,000 envelopes still to be made up can call 752-5093 or report directly to the association's office at 112 South Pitt Street, across the street from the new post office.

"We are open day and night now," Watson said, "so volunteers who might want to help but could not do so during the day can come in for an hour or two in the evening."

Arrest 4 Youths For Larceny At Local Grocery

Four local youths have been arrested on charges of larceny in connection with an incident Monday night at Valentines Grocery on Taylor Street.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that deputies arrested Zeno Smith, 16, Melvin Clemons, 17, Peter Harper Jr., 17, and David Leon Taylor, 17, all of Greenville, on Tuesday and charged them with the larceny of $34 from the grocery.

The Sheriff reported that the store owner told deputies someone took the money from her cash drawer around 12 p.m. after gaining entrance through the front door.

Bond has been set at $100 each, Sheriff Tyson said, with a hearing scheduled for Nov. 2 in District Court.

(Continued from page 4) beliefs or the beliefs of any professional consumerist. In my opinion, consumers with dollars in their pockets are not by any stretch of the imagination weak. To the contrary, they are the most merciless, meanest, toughest market disciplinarians I know."

Businessmen, says Dr. Brunk, generally understand this. They know that if they fail to produce values, they will soon be out of business. What is a value in the marketplace? In a free society, consumers themselves make the judgments: The Mustang was, the Edsel wasn't. The miniskirt was, the sack dress wasn't.

Values are subjective. They cannot always be sold in standard sizes. Neither can they be defined in wholly rational terms. Most consumerists give lip service, at least, to the proposition that buyers should have a wide choice. The cry is that this must be an "informed choice." Therefore, it is urged, let us have laws requiring that all food prices be clearly stated in units by the ounce or by the pound. But where unit pricing has been tried, real-life consumers have shown themselves largely indifferent to the benevolent protection accorded them. They do not propose to be sheep.

Certainly there are areas in which government validly must act — against fraud, against contamination, against clear danger to the public health or public safety. Beyond these limited areas, Dr. Brunk contends, government generally should leave buyers and sellers alone. They are entirely capable of working out their own salvation, free of commandments hurled down from Capitol Hill.

U.S. Strategy Reverting To Massive Retaliation

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is turning toward a defense strategy grounded chiefly in massive nuclear retaliation, although the United States no longer enjoys the clear atomic superiority it held over the Soviet Union a decade ago.

Despite severe pressure to slash military spending, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird has given every indication this nation intends to keep its strategic nuclear striking power—and thus its deterrent—undiminished.

Worried over spectacular Russian missile growth during the past five years, Laird has said repeatedly the United States may be forced to buy a costly new sea-based missile system or an advanced bomber if the strategic arms limitation talks should fail.

To help pay for maintaining a strong nuclear shield and for modern military equipment of many kinds, the Pentagon is cutting uniformed manpower drastically.

While the conventional force slashes tend to point up the nation's reliance on its nuclear power for security, the United States is in no sense returning to the "brinkmanship" diplomacy attributed to the Eisenhower administration.

Quite the contrary. The Nixon administration is emphasizing negotiation—not confrontation—and its conventional force reduction goes hand in hand with a pullback from overseas miliitary involvements.

But some, including Army officials, believe the virtual nuclear parity now existing between the United States and Russia makes the non-nuclear military forces even more important than before.

"Since the Soviets now have less fear of nuclear retaliation, we can expect them to test our will at lower levels of conflict," says Secretary of the Army Stanley Resor.

There is reason to believe the number of Americans in service may be reduced to about 2.4 million by mid-1972. This would be about 600,000 below the present level, 1.1 million under the Vietnam war peak in 1968, and slightly below the 1960 level.

Under present plans the Army will be trimmed to 23 2-3 divisions by next June, six divisions below the high point in Vietnam and two 2-3 divisions smaller than just before the Vietnam war. In 1960, the Army had 14 divisions.

The Navy, following a series of fleet cutbacks, is entered for a force of about 614 ships averaging 16.4 years in age. By comparison, the Navy in 1960 had 812 ships averaging 12.3 years in age.

The Navy faces a further loss in aircraft carriers. Current plans call for 14 attack carriers, compared to 16 at the height of the Vietnam war, and studies under way could lower the carrier strength to 12 vessels. Meanwhile, the fleet has only four antisubmarine warfare carriers left to deal with a growing Soviet underwater threat.

In 1960, the Navy had 14 attack carriers and 9 devoted to antisubmarine warfare missions.

The Air Force is better off in tactical fighter squadrons, with 84 such units today compared with 61 ten years ago. But the conventional force cutback is almost certain to drain away tactical fighter strength.

In airlift, the Air Force has 51 squadrons of transports to haul troops and their equipment, 16 squadrons fewer than 10 years ago.

The quality of airlift has improved, with faster and longer-range aircraft introduced in the past 10 years. All services have better weapons today.

However, sea lift—which would haul about 90 per cent of army and marine gear overseas, is in worse shape because of fewer and older ships, along with deterioration of the U.S. Merchant Marine.

The Marine Corps is returning to its pre-Vietnam level of three divisions and three supporting air wings, the same as existed in 1960.

A decade ago, critics claimed the Eisenhower administration had starved conventional forces and left the United States with little choice between nuclear holocaust and retreat or surrender in the face of Communist challenges around the world.

Congress responded by boosting the size of the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines to about 2.8 million men in 1962.

But now the Nixon administration is moving to end the U.S. role as "policeman for the world," to move back from overseas deployments and to shift to friendly countries the chief responsibility for furnishing ground force manpower in their own defense.

But Secretary of the Army

Resor, aware that the Russians have not slackened their conventional force organization nor reduced their troop structure, warned recently: "There is a limit to the amount the Army can safely be cut in personnel."

Operation Santa Campaign Begun

Pitt County's 1970 Operation Santa Claus campaign was opened yesterday morning with a coffee hour for the 16 community co-chairmen at the First Presbyterian Church here.

Mrs. John Condon of Grifton, this year's overall chairman, told the group the citizens of the county must be challenged to remember the patients in Cherry Hospital and those at Caswell Center with Christmas gifts.

This project has been held every pre-Christmas season since 1961 in this county. Now it is a nationwide effort for numerous institutions for the retarded and the emotionally ill.

Mrs. Condon told the group that the population of Cherry Hospital fluctuates, but approximately 2,100 persons are in residence at the state hospital located at Goldsboro. There are about 1,200 retarded persons living at Caswell Center in Kinston, she said.

"Through your participation in and promotion of Operation Santa Claus in your community, these individuals can enjoy the spirit of Christmas as we do," she said. "The endeavor may be old, but let's make the gifts new ones and take them to collection points unwrapped."

Area chairmen and collection points in the various communities are as follows: Ayden — Mrs. Bob Johnson and Mrs. J. J. Carraway, Edwards Pharmacy; Bell Arthur — Mrs. Raymond Webb, Webb Supply Company; Bethel — Mrs. Walter Latham, Bethel Pharmacy; Chicod — Mrs. Naomi Edwards, Gardner & Travis Store; Falkland — Miss Beatrice Moore, R. R. Stokes Store; Farmville — Mrs. George Allen, F. M. Davis Heirs Office; Fountain — Mrs. Hardy Johnson at her home; Grifton — Mrs. L. A. Butler, City Barber Shop; Greenville — Mrs. David Evans Jr., Pitt County Mental Health Office in the Tetterton Building at 414 Washington Street; Grimesland — Mrs. Willie Mae Hawkins, G. R. Whitfield School; Mount Pleasant — Mrs. Herbert Randolph, Mount Pleasant Church; Pactolus — Mrs. Hilton Vernelson, C. J. Satterthwaite Store; Stokes — Mrs. Raymond Fuchs, Stokes - Pactolus Grammar School; and Winterville — Mrs. Linwood Hooks and Mrs. Pedro Boyd, the Town Hall.

Mrs. N. LeConte, executive director of the Pitt County Mental Health Association, said anyone wishing to have gifts picked up may call 752-7448.

Gift ideas include toys, toilet and other personal items for adults and children, clothing of all sizes, and forward use — games, musical instruments, accessories like ashtrays and artificial flowers, and appliances like ice cream freezers, popcorn poppers, and fans.

More than $2,900 property damage was reported in a series of three collisions investigated here yesterday by Greenville police.

Officers said heaviest damage resulted from a 10 a.m. collision on Hooker Road, near the May Street intersection which involved cars driven by Robert Lee Braxton, 29, of 500 Church St., and Bettie Dickens Mitchell of 1218 Clark St.

Damage to the Braxton car was set at $900 while damage to the Mitchell auto was set at $500.

Two passengers in the Braxton vehicle were reported injured. Police charged Mrs. Mitchell with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety.

Terry Thomas Ferguson, 21, of Route 1, Morehead City was

Will Speak Small New Church At Revival Having Difficulties

The Rev. James Lupton, minister of the Winterville Free Will Baptist Church, will conduct revival services at the Arthur Christian Church, beginning Sunday night. Services will begin each night at 7:30 and special singing will be presented nightly. E. Linwood Kilpatrick is minister of the church.

A newly located church here, the Nazarene Temple FWB Church, is finding it hard to make ends meet in their new church home on Eighth Street.

According to the Rev. Lillian Harris, pastor of the church, the Nazarene Temple group purchased the old Immanuel Baptist Church building at 219 W. Eighth Street in April. Already the heating system in the building has broken down and with cold weather near, a new system is badly needed if services are to be held in the building, she explained. One local dealer estimated the cost of replacing the heating system at $2,300 (plus labor), so the Rev. Harris feels the church will need about $3,000.

The church has 40 members, with only six adults among those on the membership.

"We are having trouble getting the money needed to replace the heating system...with such a small membership," the Rev. Harris stated.

Rev. Harris said the church is presently working on a project called the Twelve Tribes, in order to raise some money. The project, to be held during the month of November, will involve ministers from other churches preaching at Nazarene, with their congregations, in an effort to raise the needed money.

But, the Rev. Harris explained, the program is not expected to reach the amount necessary to finance the replacement.

"Contributions will be greatly appreciated...in any amount," the minister said. They can be sent to the Rev. Harris at 711 McDowell St.

Cat-Lovers Had Second Thoughts

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A female calico cat, "Wino" took up residence in a shuttered old building on Market Street in downtown San Francisco. His pitiful yowling attracted the sympathy of business people who began shoving food under the door—tuna, sardines, cream, water.

All the while the SPCA people were trying to rescue Wino, who now figured he had it pretty good.

"It's so well fed it won't leave," said SPCA agent Ray Minton at the time. Finally, they caught the cat, which was put up for auction because it seemed everybody wanted it for a pet.

But at the appointed hour for auction, nobody showed up.

Reports Entire Hospital Staff Endorses Building

Dr. Allen Taylor, president of the Pitt County Medical - Dental Society, said the entire hospital staff endorses the building of a new hospital facility for the county.

"We cannot stress enough the importance of a new hospital to keep abreast of the urgent medical needs of this county," he said.

"Since the taxpayers of Pitt County voted for and built the first then - modern hospital in Eastern North Carolina in 1951, this county has seen the greatest progress in the quality of medical care of any county in the state. In 1970, we have medical services that Pitt County citizens formerly had to travel more than a hundred miles to receive — and this was usually at great inconvenience and sometimes at increased medical risk because of the loss of time in beginning treatment.

"We are now entering a new era of total medical care for everyone which will be revolutionary, even as compared to the fine progress of the past 20 years," he predicted.

"Our current hospital facilities are completely inadequate to meet this situation. All the other counties comparable to Pitt in Eastern Carolina have recently completed or are now building new hospital facilities which will make our hospital even more out - of - date. We cannot expect a much - needed corps of new doctors to choose Greenville and Pitt County when other neighboring counties will offer finer, more modern hospital facilities.

The key to medical progress is attracting superior medical personnel — physicians, nurses, and technologists. We feel we have reached a 'saturation point' at Pitt Memorial — the number of new doctors choosing Pitt County has leveled off and during the same time some physicians have left for other areas."

Talking about his personal field of radiology, Dr. Taylor said, "The current x-ray facilities at Pitt Memorial are barely able to meet the present demands. It is impossible to install additional equipment and to acquire new space to serve the needs of the ill, the injured, and the hospitalized patients requiring this service." He continued on his general topic, "The outcome of the November 3 vote will determine whether Pitt County will return to its former place on the bottom rung or continue to climb higher up the ladder of medical care. The prospects for improved and broadened medical care for Pitt County are unlimited—provided the public continues the fine support of the county hospital it has shown in past referendums."

Addresses Meeting On Hospital Bonds

BETHEL — The kick off for the new Pitt County Memorial Hospital bond referendum for the Bethel - Belvoir area was held Tuesday night at the town hall here.

Captains with their volunteer workers were told the hospital story by the campaign general chairman, J.W. "Joe" Pou. Dr. Pou told of the urgent need for a new hospital and related stories of surrounding counties and the progressiveness they had shown.

Pou advised that plans were already being made to turn the present hospital over to the county for offices thus saving the taxpayer $2,500,000, as otherwise the county would have to build a new building with taxpayers money.

He also made reference to the fact that the commissioners had obligated themselves to bring up the optional county one cent sales tax January 1971. If this is voted upon favorably there would be a great reduction in the bonds and interest, he said.

Delton Perry, Dave Speir and Joe Pou discussed the private room concept whereby the total number of initial beds (330) can all be used. Now it is usual to have people in the halls waiting for rooms and others waiting for rooms for surgery while there are beds vacant. This is due to the fact that in multiple bed rooms the other beds cannot be filled if one of the patients is in isolation with a contagious disease, or naturally if male patients are waiting and a female patient has a semi-private room the other bed remains vacant.

The campaign workers received literature.

Note At Slaying Scene Was 'Declaration Of War'

By JACK SCHREIBMAN
Associated Press Writer
SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP) — A bizarre declaration of war note left at a home where five persons were slain threatens death to anyone who "misuses the natural environment."

The typewritten note, signed with the names of the four knights on fortune-telling tarot cards, said future killings would be carried out by the "People of the Free Universe."

Disclosing the note Wednesday two days after the slaying of wealthy eye surgeon Dr. Victor M. Ohta and four others, Undersheriff Paul W. Tara urged the community—100 miles south of San Francisco—to remain calm.

"We have to keep our cool. We are fighting a war and we might as well face it," Tara said.

The undersheriff said the nature of the killings and the note indicated the five were slain by cultists.

The note was found under the windshield wiper of Ohta's red Rolls Royce after the bodies of Ohta, his wife, two sons and secretary were discovered in a swimming pool at the family's $250,000 hilltop home Monday night, Tara said.

Until the note was made public, police had said they knew no motive for the slayings. They were trying to find two young men and a girl reported seen near another of the Ohtas' cars—a station wagon—before it was found abandoned on a railroad track.

"Today World War III will begin as brought to you by the People of the Free Universe. From this day forward anyone and-or company who misuses the natural environment or destroys same will suffer the penalty of death by the People of the Free Universe."

"I and my comrades from this day forth will fight until death or freedom, against anything or anyone who does not support natural life on this planet, materialism must die or mankind will."

The note was signed:

ABC Permit In Ayden Revoked

AYDEN — The North Carolina State Alcoholic Control Board revoked the ABC permit issued to Milton F. Adams for Adams' Service Station at 555 North Lee St., Ayden at their October 19 meeting in Raleigh.

The board's action came after Adams was charged with "...possessing methamphetamine stimulant tablets and-or drugs in his retail licensed premises on July 2, 1970 at 10:05 a.m. in violation of the North Carolina Dangerous Drugs Acts and therefore he is not a suitable person to hold a State retail beer permit."

"Knight of Wands
"Knight of Cups
"Knight of Pentacles
"Knight of Swords."
The pentacle is a five-sided figure associated with witchcraft as a magical or talisman device, in fiction often used to summon up the devil.

The Knights are the four suits of the 78-card tarot deck, used to tell one's fortune depending on which direction the large cards fall.

Tara said the note was withheld initially so as not to alarm citizens.

"The note itself is in the hands of some of the most competent analysts in the state," he said.

He added: "We recognize the shock this senseless act has brought to our citizenry. We trust that the sober judgment of our residents will prevail over any emotional reaction."

Besides Dr. Ohta, those slain were his wife, Virginia, 43, sons Derrick, 12, and Taggart, 11, and secretary, Dorothy Cadwalader, 38.

Each of the victims was shot once in the back of the head, and Ohta also was shot in the back. All were dumped into the swimming pool of the mansion night, Tara said.

Believe 3 Farm Fires Were Set

BOONVILLE, N. C. (AP) — Yadkin County authorities believe fires on three farms were deliberately set.

The blazes occurred on farms within a mile of each other Monday and Tuesday. They destroyed nine buildings, including three unoccupied buildings that had been used during the summer by migrant farm workers.

Sheriff Charles Speer said a broken fuel line found at a tobacco barn had generated his suspicions that the fires were set.

Adjustments Bd. Meets Tonight

The Greenville Board of Adjustments will meet at 8:00 p.m. tomorrow night to hear two items. The first is a public hearing on request for special use permit and variance by Bell-Roberson Oil Corporation to replace present storage tanks and add additional tanks at its place of business. The firm is located at 1410 South Washington Street. The property is zoned R-6 residential and downtown commercial fringe.

The second item, also a public hearing, concerns a request for variance by Robert Oldham from the setback requirements of Ordinance No. 322 in order to construct an accessory building on his lot at 1113 Forbes Street. The property is zoned downtown commercial fringe.

outside the city. The house was set afire.

Firemen, looking for water to fight the blaze, discovered the bound, fully clothed bodies in the pool.

Discovery of Mrs. Ohta's stolen 1968 green Oldsmobile station wagon, smashed by a switch engine in a tunnel near Felton Tuesday evening, was the first announced solid clue in the case.

Scores of law enforcement officers fanned out through the surrounding redwood forest to look for suspects.

The vehicle was empty when struck by the engine, but the motor was still warm, and an attempt had been made to burn the car. Two sets of footprints led from the vehicle.

The tunnel is north of Santa Cruz, about seven miles from the killings and in an area abounding with hippie-type communes.

The road and tracks below run alongside a redwood gorge of the Santa Cruz Mountains. The sheriff's administrative assistant, Lou Keller, said whoever drove the car on the tracks "just had to have local knowledge."

He added, "I travel that road every day and I didn't know the tunnel was there."

Keller said the area's "indigent transient" population was being questioned, but other possibilities were not being ruled out.

The two youths and girl were being sought because a woman real estate agent reported earlier Tuesday spotting the station wagon parked off the road in some brush near Felton. The three were reported seen nearby, where campfire ashes were found.

A friend of the Ohtas said Mrs. Ohta told her two months ago that her husband had to chase six "hippie-types" off the porch.

Dr. Ohta was known to have provided free medical care to was no official speculation on some hippie-types, but there any relationship.

Interracial Board Backing Bond Issue

The Hospital Bonds Referendum was the primary subject of discussions at the monthly meeting of the Pitt County Interracial Committee held last night.

Ed Waldrop, chairman of the Board of Trustees for Pitt County Hospital, presided over the bonds session and answered questions from the audience.

Issues such as the location of the hospital; reasons for a new building rather than enlargement of the old; hospital costs; and tax increases were raised during the discussion.

Waldrop explained that passage of the Hospital Bond Referendum will not exhaust the borrowing power of the county. Thus, even with the passage of this bond issue, there will be opportunities for other projects on which voters could decide.

The Pitt County Interracial Committee voted unanimously to support the hospital bond issue.

The committee also voted to promote Human Relations Week in Pitt County from November 2 to 8. Members of the committee have been invited to an "invitation only" dinner to be held Saturday, November 7. The dinner will be followed by a talk and discussion session led by high school students. This is an effort to have young people explain their own feelings about school issues. On Sunday, a public meeting in Wright Auditorium will feature Brooks Hayes, chairman of the State Good Neighbor Council, as guest speaker.

The final issue discussed last night dealt with the recent Stocks and Barber court verdicts. The committee voted to join other civic and human relations groups in a public statement dealing with the concern caused by these verdicts.

commenting on the news story. Taylor, contacted this morning, said he did not make the initial report of the incident at the NAACP meeting. He said the only comments he made were relating what he had heard on the Farmville radio station that day.

"I didn't know anything about the incident," he said, "not even who was involved. And I haven't heard anything about flashlights yet and certainly did not say anything about the same."

Weekend Crackdown

RALEIGH (AP) — The Highway Patrol will begin cracking down on traffic violators in an effort to prevent another slaughter like the one which killed 25 persons last weekend in North Carolina.

Motor Vehicles Commissioner Joe Garrett said a study of the deaths indicated that excessive speed was a "known contributing factor in at least 13 fatal crashes."

And he said that on the basis of experience, it is probable that driving under the influence of alcohol also helped account for at least half the deaths.

Garrett said that two weeks ago the highway death toll for the year was running about 100 behind last year. As of Tuesday, the year's deaths stood at 1,346, compared to 1,416 last year at the time — only 70 fewer.

Garrett said that the final three months of each year are traditionally the most dangerous. He warned that when daylight savings time ends Sunday, the volume of traffic after sunset will rise sharply.

Rose Seeks Third Straight At Enloe

Rose High School's Rampants close out their non-conference football slate Friday night as they travel to Raleigh to meet Enloe High School's Eagles.

And the Rampants will be seeking their third straight victory after dropping their opening five games. Enloe comes into the game with a 3-4 record, having dropped Durham's Hillside High last weekend, 24-0.

Rose has won its last two outings, dropping New Hanover, 14-7, and topping Kinston, 20-8, with a second half rally.

In other Division II games last week, Goldsboro handed Rocky Mount its first conference loss, 26-15, and Wilson remained unbeaten and tied with the Cougars with a 34-0 romp over New Bern.

Rose grabbed a quick 6-0 lead in the Kinston game, then fell behind, 8-6, on a safety and a quick touchdown in the second half. "After we got behind, we came back and played real well," Rose Coach Bud Phillips said.

"Kinston has several right good players. One of their ends, Pat Bell, is one of the best I've seen this year," he added.

"We weren't thinking well in the first half. We had several plays when boys just simply forgot they were supposed to be on the field and this hurt us. I think we were trying to do it the easy way."

Phillips felt that Rose, like some former Rose opponents, felt that with a winless team, things couldn't be too hard. The Rampants were also still in a state of semi-shock caused by the death of Trey Barrett, a New Hanover player injured in their game.

The Rampants also were bothered by bad snaps from center in their kicking game, one of which resulted in the safety. "We plan to work on this right much before Friday night," Phillips said.

While injuries are not expected to cause any problems in preparation for the game, colds and other illnesses may. Several players have been missing workouts this week because of sickness.

"We started coming on in the Rocky Mount game. We played good against them and against New Hanover. We did a good job in the second half against Kinston. We didn't have good practices all last week, but they have been better this week. If we could get this one, we'd really have some momentum," Phillips said.

Enloe is expected to present quite a defensive problem for the Rampants. While they have lost to Reid-Ross, Broughton, Goldsboro and Sanford, they have downed Ligon, Cary and Hillside, and will be out to even their record against Rose.

Facing the Eagle attack is Julius Branch, a speedy halfback. "He is real good. He has both size and speed and runs the ball real well," the coach said. Branch showed this against Hillside, carrying 25 times for 152 yards, and catching three passes for 78. He scored twice, while Mike Wilkerson picked up the other two scores.

George Thompson, the Enloe coach, describes Branch as the "Finest halfback in this part of the country."

Phillips feels that Rose will have to stop him to hold the Enloe offense in check. "Their quarterback, Steve Buchanan, also does a real good job throwing the ball," he said. Last week, he connected on five of 11 for 136 yards and three touchdowns.

"They run the slot-T most of the time, and like to run the option sweep. They throw usually out into the flats to one of the halfbacks, and overall have a pretty balanced attack," Phillips said.

"They are a big team, and compare in size with Raleigh's Sanderson. Their backs have real good speed, and defensively, they have been real tough against the running game," Phillips added.

The probable offensive starting lineup for Rose has Ronald and Donald Taylor at ends, Tim Leith and Jay Hagans at tackles, Carl Lupton and George Harris at guards, Tommy Diggs at center, Bob Barrett at quarterback, Johnny Smith and Al Hunter at halfbacks, and Bubba Rawl at fullback.

Defensively, Rose will have Todd Pair and John Conway at ends, Willie Barnhill and George Harris at tackles, Hagans and Leith at tackles, Gary Woods and David Bullock at linebackers, Kim Harbin and Mike Harris at halfbacks, and Hunter at safety.

Head Football Coach - East Carolina University

On October 3rd George Whitley, our tailback, injured his ankle sometime during the second half of the West Texas State game. The injury was diagnosed as a severe sprain, the type of injury that normally keeps a player completely sidelined for two or three weeks.

Yet on October 10th, just one week later, George Whitley was able to play against North Carolina State. Although he was only at 85 or 90 per cent effectivity, the very fact that he was able to run on that ankle at all is a tribute to three people—George Whitley, Rod Compton, our athletic trainer here at East Carolina University, and Dr. James Bowman, our orthopedic consultant.

take it off until we got back to Ohio. And, surprisingly, these players were coming back to play again sooner than players who suffered the same type injury at home and had the cold treatment for only 30 minutes, then went to heat treatments in the whirlpool."

"I'd heard a lot about cryokinetic therapy," continues Compton. "They were using it more and more up in Michigan, but it didn't really dawn on me how effective continued cold treatment could be until I saw some first-hand results, even if it was by accident."

The case history of George Whitley's sprained ankle goes something like this:

Rampants Face Enloe

Rose High School's Rampants close out their non-conference slate Friday night, traveling to Raleigh to meet the Enloe Eagles. Two members of the starting lineup for the Rampants will be Johnny Smith, left, and David Bullock, Smith, a 188-pound senior, is the son of Mrs. Nina Smith. He is the leading rusher on the team at halfback. Bullock, a 153-pound senior, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan A. Bullock. He is a starting defensive linebacker. (Reflector Photos)

Many of us are familiar with the determination of athletes like George Whitley. However, the role that trainers and doctors play in a major college athletic program has become increasingly important.

A big plus for our football program here at ECU this year has been the introduction of cryokinetic therapy in the treatment of sprains such as George Whitley suffered. Cryokinetic therapy means cold treatment, as opposed to heat treatment.

This is Compton's first year at ECU. When he came here from Bowling Green University he told me that he liked to use cold treatment more than most trainers. I was completely in favor of it since this is the growing trend in athletics today.

Cold treatment got its start about 17 years ago when a trainer named Spike Dixon began using it at the University of Indiana. However, it was not widely accepted primarily because most doctors didn't believe in it. They opposed it because it was felt continued cold treatment shut off the flow of blood. Putting ice on a sprain, they said, was OK as first aid—to keep the swelling down. However, they believed heat was best for continued therapy.

Oct. 3—George complained of ankle pain after game and we gave him first aid cold treatment at 10:45 p.m.

Oct. 4—George woke up at 3 a.m. with great pain in ankle and was given an ice massage; went back to sleep. Later that day, ice bags were kept on ankle during the entire flight back to Greenville from Texas.

Oct. 5—Dr. Bowman eliminated fracture by x-ray. Since there was no break, this meant we were dealing strictly with a soft tissue injury. The ice pack went on and George began crutch-walking to give the ankle necessary exercise.

Oct. 6-7-8—George was having four cold treatments a day, plus continuing his crutch-walking exercise. On the 8th he did some zig-zag running for the first time. This is only five days after the injury. Normally it's two weeks before an athlete can run after a severe ankle sprain.

Oct. 9—Dr. Bowman evaluated the ankle that night and gave George the OK to play against State the next night.

Oct. 10—With heavy taping, George played against State. He was at about 85 or 90 per cent effectiveness. He couldn't turn to the right sharply, but otherwise the ankle didn't bother him too much and he did not have a re-injury.

Oct. 12-13-14-15-16—George was having contrast treatments, that is the hot whirlpool treatments followed by an ice pack or ice slush bath. Ankle keeps getting stronger.

Oct. 17—Complained of re-injury in warm-ups before Southern Illinois game. But it wasn't bad and George was able to play some. Said ankle felt fine in second half.

With heat treatments only, it is very doubtful George could have played in either the State or Southern Illinois games. And his ankle would be much weaker now because of the inactivity. With cryokinetic therapy, George has played in both games and should be 100 per cent this weekend.

As I said, the job these trainers and doctors are doing today is unbelievable. My hat is off to them, the unsung men behind the football scene.

Leading Offenses To Meet In Top ACC Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Atlantic Coast Conference's two most ground-gobbling football teams, Wake Forest and North Carolina, are rumbling toward an angry collision Saturday. The jolt is likely to knock conference statistics askew and land one team in the ACC's second place.

North Carolina is first in rushing and Wake Forest second.

The Tar Heels have run off 1,620 yards, an average of 270 yards a game. Right behind are the Demon Deacons with 1,377 yards, or 229.5 a game. Statistics released today by the ACC Service Bureau put Duke in third place with 181.

But Wake Forest and North Carolina are fighting more than a statistical battle. Each is 2-1 in league competition. Saturday's winner will earn a solid claim to the second-place spot behind Duke's Blue Devils, who have a 3-0 mark going into their contest with Clemson.

Moreover, the game comes as Wake Forest is desperately trying to continue a winning streak. The Demon Deacons have taken the last three games after dropping the season's first three.

On the other hand, North Carolina will be trying to shake loser's lapse which has cost the Tar Heels their last two games, against South Carolina, then Tulane. Previously, they had four straight wins to brag about.

North Carolina leads the ACC in four of six major statistical categories: rushing, rushing defense, total offense and total defense.

But it's South Carolina that looks good in the passing department, leading both offensively and defensively. The Gamecocks also lead in scoring defense and scoring.

It's easy to see why the Tar Heels lead in rushing defense. Only two of six opponents have been able to get more than 100 yards rushing. Kentucky managed 143 yards in the season opener and South Carolina gained 127 in its 35-21 triumph.

But the other four clubs have hovered below 94.

South Carolina is averaging 218.3 yards passing. At the same time, the Gamecocks are holding their opponents to 89 yards a game. What's more, they have picked off 16 interceptions.

South Carolina, which was defeated by Maryland last week, 21-15, entertains Florida State. The Gamecocks have three non-league contests in a row before finishing their season against Duke and Clemson.

If the Duke Blue Devils want to retain their spotless ACC mark, they'll have to bury precedent. Duke has only won once at Clemson, in 1962.

Maryland welcomes North Carolina State at the Oyster Bowl. State has yet to win a conference game.

Successful Terriers Are After Sixteenth Straight Grid Victory

SPARTANBURG (AP) — The streaking Wofford College football Terriers go after big game in quest of their 16th straight victory when they meet Davidson of the Southern Conference here Saturday night.

Wofford, an independent, has tacked six straight victories onto nine last year to tie the school record of 15 set in 1948-49.

The Terriers are 10th in the nation in this week's Associated Press small college football poll.

Coach Jim Brakefield's team hasn't been beaten since losing to Lenoir Rhyne and Chattanooga in its first two games last fall. The record is the best at the Methodist-affiliated college since 1948-49 when Wofford gained national attention under Coach Phil Dickens.

In 1948 Wofford scored only four touchdowns in its first five games — but didn't lose one. The Terriers opened with a record five straight ties. After a 6-6 stalemate with Hampden-Sydney, they went 0-0 with Northwestern State of Louisiana State. Then followed three 7-7 ties in a row — against Catawba, Furman and Davidson.

The team finished the 1948 season with four victories to go unbeaten. The 1949 club won 11 in a row, then lost to Florida State 19-6 in the Cigar Bowl game at Tampa.

The closest game in the current string of 15 was against Davidson last season, when Wofford sneaked out a 28-27 victory.

Now the Terriers run up against a Davidson team that opened with a surprising victory over Richmond, only to lose its next three games. One of the losses was to Furman, a team Wofford has beaten 28-13. Quarterback Mark Thompson of Davidson is the No. 4 passer in the country, averaging 18 completions for four games and netting 877 yards.

Davidson Coach Dave Fagg says Wofford "runs the triple option as well as anybody. Their quarterback, Harold Chandler, is well suited for the offense they run. And they have a couple of quick backs in Bobby Jordan and Clifford Boyd. Wofford will be the best offensive team we have faced this year."

Chandler has completed 52 passes in six games for 698 yards and five touchdowns. Boyd has run for 550 yards and nine touchdowns in 108 carries. Jordan has run 82 times for 443 yards and six scores.

Brakefield says of Davidson, "You could say they took us lightly last year. I don't think they will be taking Wofford lightly this year, though."

Trials Start For American

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
ROCKINGHAM, N. C. (AP)—Time trials begin today to set a 40-car field for Sunday's American 500 stock car race, a demanding test that could determine three NASCAR Grand National championships.

The first 15 cars in the starting order were to be decided during the afternoon. Thirty-three drivers were expected to try for them in qualifying runs.

Among them was Bobby Allison of Hueytown, Ala., who holds the qualifying record for the North Carolina Motor Speedway, a one-mile oval that drivers say is one of the trickiest on the circuit.

Allison won the pole position for the spring race here in a winged Dodge at 20.329 seconds, or 139,048 miles per hour, a world's record because Allison's mark would stand.

The $90,000 race, next to last distance event of the season, will pay $18,000 for first place. The substantial purse will have a bearing on NASCAR's top money crown. The race also is an important one in the Grand National driver championship competition.

Also at stake is the championship of makes.

Richard Petty, the Plymouth ace who is the only driver to have won more than one race at Rockingham, currently is the top money winner with $133,774. His teammate, 28-year-old Pete Hamilton, has banked $129,661 but is slated to begin an 18-month hitch in the Army next Monday.

Allison, has earned $123,310, and Bobby Isaac $117,390. Victory for either of the Didge pilots could carry them to the top if Petty and Hamilton should falter.

Isaac, Allison and Ford's James Hylton are locked in the closest battle in NASCAR history for the driver championship, worth a bonus of $75,000. Isaac has an 81-point lead over Allison, with Hylton trailing Allison by 49 points.

First place will be worth 150 points, with a drop of three points per finishing position.

Dodge has a 10-point lead in the manufacturers' standings, with 282 points to 272 for Plymouth. Plymouth, however, has 20 triumphs, 17 of them by Petty, to 16 for Dodge. Ford trails badly with six wins.

Fifteen more spots in the lineup will be decided Friday, and the remaining 10 on Saturday.

Bradshaw Gets Second Fine

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A remorseful Terry Bradshaw says he feels he "let the team down" by not showing up for a crucial Steeler practice session Tuesday. Coach Chuck Noll apparently felt the same so he fined

Bradshaw "a substantial sum."

It was the second fine in less than a week for the star rookie quarterback.

Bradshaw who has permission to visit his Louisiana home after road games, telephoned Noll Monday night and told him he was having trouble getting a flight out of Shreveport.

"He said something about being fogged in or something but that's no excuse for missing practice," Noll said.

Bradshaw's absence deprived the Steelers of a full practice session in preparation for their game Sunday with the Oakland Raiders.

"I feel as if I let the team down," said Bradshaw after practicing with the team Wednesday. "I won't be making any more such side trips after games. They're not worth it."

"But I would like to make it known that I made an honest effort to get to Pittsburgh on Tuesday in time for the practice," he added.

Regardless, there's a team rule that any player missing a practice session would automatically be fined.

National Runs, American Passes

NEW YORK (AP)—If the National Football League individual statistics are giving a true picture, the National Conference has the better long-distance runners and the American Conference has the better long-distance passers.

Statistics released today show three AFC ground gainers—MacArthur Lane of St. Louis, Larry Brown of Washington and Calvin Hill of Dallas—with more than 400 yards gained rushing. Not one AFC back can make that claim.

At the same time, the statistics show three AFC passers—Daryle Lamonica of Oakland, Bob Griese of Miami and Dennis Shaw of Buffalo—gaining more than eight yards a completion. Only one AFC passer can make that claim, John Brodie of San Francisco.

Lane leads the AFC rushers with 494 yards for a 6.1 average to 433 yards and a 5.2 average for Brown, last week's leader. Hill is right behind Brown with 427 yards and a 4.2 average.

The AFC leader is Hewitt Dixon of Oakland, who pulled into first place with the AFC's top performance of the season by gaining 164 yards in 18 attempts against Washington. That gave him a total of 369 and a 5.4 average.

The runner-up is last week's leader, Floyd Little of Denver, with 353 yards and a 3.8 average. Leroy Kelly of Cleveland is third with 334 yards and a 3.6 average.

Lamonica ranks No. 1 in the AFC, completing 56.9 per cent of his passes for 1,282 yards, 11 touchdowns and an average gain of 8.01. Griese is second with a 53.8 completion percentage, 899 yards, seven touchdowns and an 8.48 mark for average yards gained.

One of the two big surprises is Shaw, the Bills' rookie quarterback, who has the best average gain of 10.22 yards. He has completed 62.5 per cent of his passes for 1,063 yards and four touchdowns.

The other surprise is Joe Namath, the injured New York Jets' quarterback who raised his yardage total to 1,259 against Baltimore but still dropped out of the top 10.

Brodie is the lone AFC passer with more than 1,000 yards gained. The veteran 49ers' quarterback has completed 61.5 per cent of his passes for 1,094 yards, eight touchdowns and an average gain of 8.10.

The No. 1 pass receiver is Baltimore's Ed Hinton with 27. Following him in the AFC are Warren Wells of Oakland with 23 and Marlin Briscoe of Buffalo with 22. Gene Washington, Brodie's favorite target at San Francisco, tops the NFC with 26, followed by Dick Gordon of Chicago and Ron Johnson of the New York Giants, each with 25.

Fred Cox of Minnesota's Vikings is the leading scorer with 51 points in the NFC, followed by rookie David Ray of Los Angeles, with 49.

Pete Well-Paid Bench-Warmer

ATLANTA (AP) — What's this ... a $2 million benchwarmer?

It may sound unusual, but that's exactly how Pistol Pete Maravich, the Atlanta Braves' prize rookie, started his National Basketball Association career.

And, according to Coach Richie Guerin, it may remain that way for a time.

"I'm going to put the best players on the court," Guerin says.

Maravich, the former college sharpshooter from Louisiana State University, says learning to come off the bench is perhaps the biggest adjustment he's having to make in professional basketball.

"This is a position I've never been in before," he says, adding quickly, "but all I want to do is to help win a championship. That's the only thing I've never accomplished in basketball."

The boyish Maravich, who reportedly signed with the Hawks for $2 million, was the nation's No. 1 college scorer with 3,667 points over a three-year span. He averaged 44.2 points per game while at Louisiana State, but the Tigers never managed to win the Southeastern Conference basketball crown.

Maravich's professional debut came last weekend as the Hawks dropped a 107-98 decision to the Milwaukee Bucks the season opener for 1 teams.

He entered the game in second quarter, wound up giving 22 minutes of game time but appeared erratic as he ished with only seven points three of 13 shots from the floor — three rebounds and four assists.

In Atlanta's second game Wednesday night against San Francisco Warriors, Maravich played 19 minutes, hit 12 of 12 field goal attempts ended the game with 20 points.

Guerin says he will continue using Maravich as an altern for veterans Lou Hudson and Walt Hazzard.

Corrada Among Top Receivers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Southern Conference has four players who are well up in the individual game statistics for major colleges this season.

Mark Thompson, the deadly passing quarterback for the Davidson Wildcats, is in the select company of Washington's Sonny Sixkiller and Mississippi's Archie Manning in the number of passes completed in a single game. All three completed 30 aerials in a single performance. Thompson's coming against Bucknell earlier this month.

In that same Bucknell game Rick Lyon latched onto enough of Thompson's bullets to gain 248 yards—tops for any major college receiver in the nation.

East Carolina's Dick Corrada shares the honors for the most receptions in a single game. He speared 14 against Southern Illinois last Saturday. Steve Harkney of Georgia Tech also caught 14 against South Carolina last month.

Jeff Varnadoe of The Citadel is all alone in the category of running back interceptions. He had a field day Oct. 10 against William and Mary when he ran back intercepted passes for a total of 154 yards.

That same feat gave The Citadel the team honors for the same category—with all the return yardage being chalked up by Varnadoe.

Rain forced VMI's Keydets to share the field house with the basketball team as coach Vito Raggazzo made the best of the situation Wednesday.

In the limited space available, the defense and offense took turns watching game movies and practicing against the freshmen in preparation for Saturday's game with The Citadel.

Richmond worked on its timing as the Spiders prepared for the Tobacco Bowl encounter with East Carolina Saturday, in which the Spiders are rated a two-point favorite.

Coach Red Parker put his Bulldogs through a long, rugged session as The Citadel prepared for the VMI game. Offensively, quarterbacks John Rossa and Terry Widell directed the team through the entire game plan, including the veer offense and the passing attack.

Furman will go after its fourth straight win Saturday when the Paladins go against Chattanooga Saturday night, and they went through a two-hour drill Wednesday.

The defensive secondary worked on ways to halt Chattanooga's passing threat, while the offensive unit reviewed game plans.

Verbage Flies At Physicals

ATLANTA (AP) — "I'm the best, that's all, I'm the champ," said Mohammad Ali.

"Until I hit you on the chin," said Jerry Quarry.

"I've beaten them all — Liston, Patterson," said Ali.

"You're fighting me now, baby," said Quarry.

"All I want to say is ... I'll see you fight night. When you beat me, you'll be the greatest fighter in the world," said Ali.

"That's what I'm trying to say," said Quarry.

"Bring a slab," said Ali.

"You'll need it."

That was the way it went Wednesday as Ali, former world heavyweight champion formerly known as Cassius Clay, and Quarry, current No. 1 contender in the heavyweight division, underwent simultaneous physical examinations for the 15-round meeting Monday night.

Two Negro doctors administered the physical, prompting Ali to shout, "Soul doctors for a change."

"You'll need more help than that," said Quarry.

Ali, undefeated champion who was stripped of his title because of a conviction on charges of refusing to report for the draft, weighed 210 for his physical exam.

He expects to be 208 for the fight, his first in three and a half years. He weighed 212 in March, 1967, when he knocked out Zora Foley in his last ring appearance.

Quarry, a 26-year-old body puncher, weighed 198 Wednesday. Quarry has 37 victories, four losses and four draws in his professional career. He has scored 23 knockouts.

The Worry Clinic Anger Can Be Deadly Factor

Fred's devoted wife may have unintentionally killed her husband. For thousands of men crumple fenders en route to work when they have failed to kiss their wives goodbye! That morning kiss is often superb insurance against death on the automobile highways! For 90 percent of auto accidents are due to the "nut" at the steering wheel!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.
CASE O-562: Fred G., aged 26, should shock married women. "Dr. Crane," his wife tearfully explained, "Fred got up late yesterday morning. "And he started blaming me, saying it was all my fault because I should have called him 15 minutes earlier. "But, Dr. Crane, I was feeding the baby and didn't notice it was so late. "Besides, he had an alarm clock so I figured he had set it. "Anyway, he was irate because he didn't have time for his bacon and eggs. "He gulped down a cup of coffee and rushed out, slamming the door. "He didn't even say goodbye, let alone kiss me. "On the way to work, he was in such a hurry that he tried to pass 3 slower cars all at once and lost control.

"His car smashed into a tree and Fred was killed instantly. "Oh, Dr. Crane, could his death be due to the fact he overslept those 15 minutes and thus was emotionally upset?" Yes; we find that when a husband leaves the house angry, he is likely to "take it out" on the car. Thus, far more fenders are crumpled and auto deaths occur. Even if you wives are 100 percent innocent of the quarrel, PLEASE keep your pretty mouths closed and meekly accept your husband's buck-passing, at least in the morning! Then "chew out" your husbands at night, if you still wish to justify your actions. But don't send him away angry, un-kissed and with a slammed door to advertise his emotional ire. Fred was trying to make up time, so he thought he could save a minute by passing those 3 cars up ahead. But to save that one minute he lost probably 50 years of his future lifespan! So he left his devoted wife a tearful widow. And his new baby without a father!

We should all try to cultivate the habit of widening our mental horizons when we get angry. Instead of focussing on the immediate irritating factor, just imagine that we have a fatal cancer and thus are allotted but 3 months more to live! You'll be surprised at how emotional "mountains" then become dwarfed to "molehills." Our Airlines recognize the fact that when men are angry, even their marginal vision is reduced. "Blinded with rage" is thus not an exaggeration. So the Airlines prefer not only a married pilot in preference to a bachelor. But they also ask the married applicant, "Do you sleep in twin beds or a double bed?" If a pilot uses a twin bed, he is not as safe a prospect as the one who sleeps beside his wife in a double bed. Why? Because quarrels are more readily quarrels when man and wife can touch each other and make up their quarrels. Twin beds prolong quarrels and may send the pilots off to work in an angry mood. So send for my medical booklet "Sex Problems in Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents. (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.) About 10 per cent of the world's population is left-handed.

Opening lead: Six of ♠ North's jump raise to three hearts over his partner's one heart response was a distinct overbid since his holding is barely worth 16 points in support. Also a mere raise to two hearts is a slight understatement. North may have an opportunity to take strong action subsequently if the bidding develops favorably.

West opened the six of spades. East put up the jack and South won the trick with the king. Two rounds of trumps were drawn ending up in dummy as both opponents followed.

South was solid everywhere but in diamonds and it appeared to him that he must play that suit so as to restrict his loss to one trick. The jack of diamonds was led from dummy. East covered with the king and declarer played the ace.

The North hand was re-entrenched with the king of clubs and another diamond was led. It did not matter which card South played however, for West sat behind the ten-eight with the queen-trick and he took the next two tricks.

South would have made the slam if East held the nine of diamonds instead of West, for when that suit is led the second time, declarer's eight forces out the queen and establishes the ten for a trick.

South's attention was actually concentrated on the wrong suit. He had better odds available in clubs where only one of two cards needs to be rightly placed. If West has either the queen or jack of clubs, success is assured.

After trumps are drawn, it is suggested that declarer lead a small club from his hand and finesse dummy's nine. East wins with the jack, but when South regains the lead, the club finesse is repeated by putting in North's ten. The eight and ten of diamonds are discarded on the ace-king of clubs, and declarer loses only the one club trick.

Boom In Housing Could Have Already Started

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Judging by a sharp rise in the number of housing permits being issued, the long forecast boom in residential construction may already have begun.

Early this year the rate at which permits were issued dropped to only 90 per cent of the annual rates of more than a decade earlier. By August, this rate had rebounded all the way to 112 per cent of the 1957-1959 average, still low but rising vigorously.

The number of units on which work already has begun also is rising, and although still near or below 1.5 million a year, a reliable study just issued projects a rise to a 1.7 million annual rate

Gives Husbands Another Excuse

LONDON (UPI)—A British doctor has provided husbands with another excuse for not mowing the lawn.

Dr. Brian Burne says those noisy power mowers can not only damage the gardener's hearing but also leave him irritable, bad-tempered and headachy.

in 1971. This study, by the F.W. Doge firm, bases its estimate on a growing availability of mortgage money, plus a huge backlog of demand that has built up over the past few years of tight money and high interest rates. The turnaround was bound to come. Many thousands of young couples-products of the marriage boom that followed World War II-have moved into the housing market.

At the same time, a considerable amount of housing was deteriorating. Estimates by the National Association of Home Builders indicate that one-half of one per cent of existing housing is demolished each year.

Combine just these two factors with a deep recession in housing construction, the result primarily of a diversion of capital to areas of the economy where higher rates could be earned, and you realize how critical is the shortage.

Another way of measuring the demand is the startling increase in sales of mobile homes. In just one year, from 1968 to 1969, this industry expanded from sales of 318,000 units to nearly 413,000.

There was a clearly understandable reason for this. Mobile homes are inexpensive. With housing prices rising through the roof, they represented the only affordable housing for many

Corn Producers Study Pipeline

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The South African Maize (corn) Producer's Institute in studying the idea of using a pipeline to transport corn from inland growing areas to seaports. Die Landman, the institute's official organ, said the corn might be packed in airtight plastic containers and moved to ports in a pipe using water as the propellant.

Moreover, such homes could be purchased without many of the financial blocks encountered in obtaining conventional home mortgages. Banks were much more favorably inclined to grant short-term loans at high interest rates on mobile homes than long-term mortgages and low rates for conventional homes.

In short, the demand for housing is there, as can be demonstrated in many ways. And now that the construction industry is beginning to attack the problem, many people are inclined to think the worst will be over in a decade.

Gifted Students Unemployment To Visit Campus Claims Edge Up

More than 100 gifted students from high schools in North Carolina and neighboring states have accepted invitations to participate in East Carolina University's "Scholarship Weekend" Nov. 7-9. More acceptances are expected.

At latest count, 107 high school seniors - all of them National Merit semifinalists - had accepted invitations extended by ECU through high school principals and ECU alumni in their respective communities.

These young men and women will come to the Greenville campus for a program which includes meetings with faculty members, visits to classes, demonstrations and exhibits of science facilities, the computer center, language laboratory and fine arts studios. They will be guests at a banquet, given tours of the campus, attend pop and jazz concerts and the ECU-West Virginia football game.

From the group invited to attend a limited number will be chosen to return later to be interviewed for ECU academic scholarships presently valued at $1,000 a year for four years of study.

Area students attending include:

Ann Wilkes Fleming, Rose High School; Leo P. Franke, Winterville High School; Christopher Indorf, Rose High School; Marcia K. James, Rose High School; Katherine E. Petrie, Rose High School; Stephen C. Worsley, Rose High School.

Harpy eagles devour their prey completely, and will eat a porcupine, quills and all.

Figures recently released by the North Carolina State Employment Security Commission in Raleigh show an increase in claims-taking activity throughout the state. Major areas of unemployment were in the textile and hosiery industries in the Piedmont section of the state.

The Greenville area also increased over the preceding weeks in claims activity, according to Lloyd Nooe - manager of the local ESC office.

This increase locally is due to the tobacco seasonal influence. Several night lines have been laid off in the tobacco factories. Some of these workers were absorbed in day time operations on a seniority basis, but many found themselves out of work, Nooe explained.

Nooe, reported that all activity seems to be increasing. For instance, there were 507 new applications during the month of September. The majority of the applicants seeking work did not seek unemployment insurance. One hundred and forty-seven persons were placed on jobs. These jobs varied from professional, clerical, sales, hospital to factory, domestic and labor, utilizing unskilled and inexperienced workers as well as skilled and experienced workers.

Forthcoming plans of the local office include employer visitations and the National Hire a Veteran Week the first week in November. During this week special emphasis will be placed on hiring the veteran.

There are many veterans listed with the Greenville Employment Security Commission, some from World War II in addition to the Viet Nam conflict, Nooe explained. These men are capable men who are skilled in many areas. However, their skills, education, and age varies greatly. Any employer seeking further information on these veterans should contact Kendrick Taylor, Veterans Employment Representative, at the local office.

Services In Young Hands

The youth of Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church will be in charge of the morning worship services Sunday at 9 a.m. and 11 a.m.

Julia Oliver, president of the Jarvis Memorial Senior High Youth Fellowship, will preside at both services.

Bob Forbes will fill the pulpit at 9 a.m. and Chap Tucker at 11 a.m. A feature of the worship conducted by the youth will be the Christian testimonies of four members of the church's Senior High UMYF: Kari Faser, Steve Rogers, Carolyn Mills and Paul Carr.

The youth choir will provide music consisting of songs and spirituals. Music will be presented by the "Birodanjles."

Ushers for the service will also be from the Senior High UMYF. The Rev. Troy Barrett is pastor of Jarvis Memorial.

Plato and Glasses

Did you know that Plato and his contemporaries hindered the development of glasses?

The ancient Greeks contributed much to the world of knowledge in many areas, but actually detracted from the development of knowledge concerning lenses.

As most people know, the ancient Greeks had little use for experimentation. They devoted their time to philosophizing. They even theorized about the nature of light itself. They neglected, however, to study about the refraction of light and its possible adaptation to lenses.

Euclid was one of the few who ventured into the field of optics. Unfortunately, he was hampered by Plato's theory that vision emanates from the eye instead of to it.

Notable progress wasn't made until about 50 A.D. when Cleomedes made some discoveries and observations about light refractions, like the apparent bending of a stick when it's partially submerged in water.

WATCH NEXT WEEK FOR (The Light Monitor)

Take good care of your eyes. Protect them with daily care and regular check-ups. And when you need glasses, come to RIDGEWAY'S OPTICIANS. We offer you a complete eyeglass service, and you'll find us most courteous and accommodating. See us first, RIDGEWAY'S OPTICIANS.

Foul weather friend.

Building, inspecting and maintaining power lines is a man-sized task even on the fairest day.

But when the weather gets rough, the Vepco lineman's task gets rougher. And we've had some pretty weird weather lately: violent storms, devastating floods, blustering winds, lightning-struck trees that downed lines and disrupted service.

And when the weather goes on the rampage, the linemen go on the job. Anytime. Day or night. He climbs poles, repairs torn lines, works out in the elements until the lights go on again.

It's exhausting work. Hard. Hazardous. But it's vital work and the lineman does it with pride and satisfaction. That's his job: helping Vepco help people.
