Army Frees MacDonald Of 3-Murder Charges

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — The Army freed Capt. Jeffrey R. MacDonald today of charges that he murdered his wife and two young daughters last February.

Maj. Gen. Edward M. Flanagan, commander of the John F. Kennedy Center for Military Assistance, ruled there was insufficient evidence to justify the three counts of premeditated murder against the 27-year-old Green Beret physician.

Flanagan, who is MacDonald's commanding general based his ruling on a 2,000-word report of a lengthy, secret hearing by Col. Warren V. Rock of Ft. Bragg.

The Army had charged that MacDonald stabbed and beat to death his wife, Colette, 26, and his daughters Kimberly, 6, and Kristin Jean, 2, and then stabbed himself as a cover-up and invented a story.

MacDonald said the killings were done by a hippie-like band of three young men and a girl who intruded in his Ft. Bragg apartment before dawn Feb. 17.

Maj. James Wilson, a spokesman for the Army, said in announcing Flanagan's decision today, "Unless there is new evidence, there is no possibility of further charges against MacDonald."

He added the ruggedly handsome MacDonald has returned to his duties as a specialist in preventive medicine for the Special Forces.

Wilson said the commander of Ft. Bragg, Lt. Gen. John J. Tolson, concurred in Flanagan's decision.

MacDonald, who reiterated that he is innocent, said he was relieved by Flanagan's action. He added he will ask for an immediate discharge from the Army and "I think I will get it."

Rock's report to Flanagan was secret, but one of MacDonald's civilian lawyers, Dennis Eisman of Philadelphia, Pa., said it cited several factors in MacDonald's favor.

Among them, he said, were the prosecution's inability to identify certain fingerprints at the scene of the crime, its inability to identify strands of hair in and near the hand of Mrs. MacDonald as she lay dead on a floor, and its inability to identify a young girl whom Eisman said was seen by a military policeman near the MacDonald apartment shortly after the murders were discovered.

Eisman said the report also suggested further investigation of a young girl who reportedly said in the presence of police that she was under influence of drugs when the murders were committed and could not remember where she was or what she was doing. The girl has been questioned several times by officers.

Wilson said an investigation into the murders will resume, adding, "This is still an open case."

The provost marshal, Col. H. E. Keator, said, "I have no idea" what specific steps will be taken next, and he refused to comment further.

A spokesman for the Federal Bureau of Investigation, which helped in the initial investigation of the deaths, said the FBI would not comment on Flanagan's decision.

The Army announced April 6 it had informed MacDonald that he was being questioned as "a suspect." He was charged May 1. Since then he has lived alone in a bachelor's quarters, accompanied by a guard wherever he went.

While Rock's hearing which started July 6 was secret, Eisman and his law partner, Bernard L. Segal, made public accounts of the proceedings, which lasted seven weeks over a span ending Sept. 11.

Morgan Says Big Issues Unanswered

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
North Carolina Attorney General Robert Morgan said last night that the current Republican administration in Washington is not answering questions that the people of North Carolina want to know.

Speaking here at a campaign rally for First District Congressman Walter B. Jones of Farmville, Morgan told a crowd estimated by rally officials at over 450 that Vice President Spiro Agnew, in Raleigh Monday on a campaign trip for GOP candidates, engaged in a "tongue-twisting" oration of the English language rather than talking about vital issues.

"I had hoped Agnew would talk about law and order" while in Raleigh, the Attorney General said, noting that he (Agnew) failed to discuss the issue to any extent.

Morgan added that the "Nixon administration won the 1968 election on the issue of law and order" and then later asked for a cut in funds needed to help fight crime.

The state executive pointed out that under the Republican administration, the number of unemployed persons had doubled during a single year with now "5.5 per cent of the nations working force unemployed."

In predicting a "complete victory" for Democrats in the Nov. 3 election, Morgan said that "we have the Democrats registered" in North Carolina but they will have to get out and vote. "Just being a Democrat is not enough."

Morgan praised Jones for his part in pushing legislation that paved the way for establishing the Nursing School at East Carolina University. The school, he said, is the first in this section of the state.

The Attorney General noted that Jones co-sponsored with him a bill that secured the establishing of the two-year Medical School at ECU and also pointed out that it was Jones who, in 1967, helped pass legislation that funded several Alcohol Rehabilitation Centers in the state including a center here named in honor of the First District congressman.

"Walter Jones has been an effective advocate of all of Eastern North Carolina," Morgan told the gathering.

Morgan, a Lillington native, served with Jones during the 1965 session of the General Assembly when university status for East Carolina College was being discussed, rally chairman David E. Reid noted.

The Attorney General is a three term chairman of the East Carolina University Board of Trustees.

Jones, who is serving his third term in Congress, is opposed in his efforts for re-election by GOP candidate R. Frank Everett of Robersonville.

Hugh C. Winslow of Greenville, chairman of the Pitt County Democratic Executive Committee, welcomed the rally last night. Dr. Joe Pou introduced Congressman Jones.

Reid read a telegram from ECU president Leo Jenkins, who had a prior commitment, assuring Jones of "his total support" in the Nov. 3 election.

Several men who are seeking election or re-election in the Tuesday election from this area were in attendance last night including Robert D. Rouse of Farmville, unopposed in his race for a Superior Court judgeship in the Third Judicial District, and Luther Hamilton of Morehead City, who is unopposed in his bid for re-election to the District Solicitor's seat.

Also Sen. Vernon White of Winterville, State Representative H. Horton Rountree of Greenville, who are both seeking re-election and House candidate Sam Bundy attended the function held at the Greenville Moose Lodge.

Accept Resignation Of Farmville Police Chief

FARMVILLE — The resignation of Graham Creel as Chief of Police here was accepted by the Farmville Board of Commissioners in a call meeting last night.

Lt. Danny Dilda was appointed acting chief.

No decision was made on whether Bruce Morrison and Mack Boney, the two officers who have been suspended for misconduct, will be discharged or reinstated. The Commissioners said they will not act on the matter until their regular monthly meeting next Tuesday night.

The Commissioners said they plan to invite Lt. Carl Tanner to appear before them to tell about the reporting of the pistol-shooting incident that led to the suspension of Morrison and Boney. He was the ranking officer on duty at the time.

There are now three vacancies on the Farmville Police Force — the chief's position and two patrolmen's (not counting the suspended positions).

Lloyd Englehardt, head of the 16-member Auxilliary Police Force, has handed in his badge. He said, "The Auxilliary Force was formed at the request of Chief Creel and he was chosen to head it also by request of Creel. "I am not saying I won't be glad to work in the same capacity if the Mayor and Commissioners and the new chief wish for me to, but I feel, in the light of what has happened, that I have to step aside now, allowing a chance for someone else to be chosen."

Pitt County's United Fund Serving Many Agencies Of Community

October's United Fund drive, an annual one in which a number of participating agencies have their campaign for funds combined into one central drive, is, like last year's record breaking campaign, steadily gaining momentum.

Based on the modern concept of economics and efficiency gained by merging efforts, the United Fund drive is a principal source of operating money for member agencies in Greenville and Pitt County.

To indicate some of the accomplishments possible through funds collected in this drive, several of the member agencies have furnished information on activities made possible with these funds.

The Salvation Army, for example, in 1969 and for the first six months of 1970, assisted, in a wide range of programs, nearly 10,000 persons.

Dedicated to the service of anyone in need, the Salvation Army in 1969 gave assistance to 6,250 individuals. The tally for 1970 may even be larger, as 3,524 persons have already been helped through the first six months of 1970.

Salvation Army activities run the gamut from filling grocery orders — 76 cases in 1969; to arranging admittance for unwed mothers to homes and hospitals — seven in 1969.

Social welfare cases are handled daily and include food orders, clothing, shelter, help with utilities and rent for needy individuals or family groups. These are daily, constantly recurring activities, made without fanfare and handled directly with the individual or family concerned.

For the 1969 Christmas season, 664 families received assistance. Another 464 families and individuals received food baskets for Christmas. A total of 4,500 toys were distributed, and 500 favors given to institutions.

The Salvation Army youth program, a vital one, resulted in an attendance by 12,037 young folks at 576 events held in 1969. Twelve community center sessions drew 460 in attendance.

Camping trips were arranged and sponsored for 17 young people.

The Pitt County Chapter of the American Red Cross, another local participating agency, was active in a number of community events during the past year.

Its record for the blood program, for example, shows that 1,906 pints of blood from the Red Cross Blood Bank in Norfolk, Virginia were used by patients at Pitt County Memorial Hospital. This, despite the fact only 1,426 pints were collected in the county by the Red Cross volunteers during 16 visits of the bloodmobile.

Other Red Cross programs

included the training of 164 adults in first aid; teaching 237 young people to swim; and conducting life-saving techniques for 202 trainees. Through the year, 350 servicemen and their families were given Red Cross help in times of personal crises.

Through the United Fund, the Red Cross contributed $1,000 to disaster victims of Hurricane Camille on the Gulf Coast last year.

Pitt County's Mental Health Association, dedicated to better care and treatment of the mentally ill and the promotion of good mental and social health, because of United Fund support, was better able to further their program.

The Pitt County chapter is affiliated with both the North Carolina Mental Health Association and the National Association for Mental Health. Many avenues of service to the Community are involved in the association's program.

Last year, a workshop for ministers was conducted which focused on commitment procedure. A two day workshop involving city and county school personnel and other interested individuals was sponsored in association with PTAs. In the city school system 185 children in primary grades and 100 in upper elementary have been identified as needing assistance.

February was designated as "Drug Emphasis" month, opening with "The Concept", an off Broadway play with a cast of former drug addicts. In that month Sunday evenings were devoted to students, with programs on which a panel consisting of a judge, a psychiatrist, a medical doctor and an SBI agent were featured. A workshop at Aycock Junior High was co-sponsored with the school.

A lighter note was Operation Santa Claus which gave the county an opportunity to express its concern with gifts for patients at Cherry Hospital, Caswell Center, at the Sheltered Workshop and Dobbs School for Girls. A musical therapy program is being initiated at Cherry Hospital. Many similar programs were carried out by workers in the Pitt County Mental Health association last year, both the regular staff and volunteer workers.

An organization of younger people — the Girl Scout program, was another which in 1969 benefitted from their share of United Fund money.

Girl Scouts, ranging in age from 7 through 17, take part in activities related to the home, the arts and out-of-doors. Integral parts of their program concern love for God and country, patriotism, concern for

One Was Hoax

MONTREAL (AP) — Two more notes purporting to come from Quebec's political kidnapers turned up Tuesday night. One said the body of British Trade Commissioner James R. Cross could be found near a bridge, and police said it was a hoax. The other contained "the old FLQ bull we've all heard about" and was probably authentic, a police spokesman said.

The fake note said the body of Cross, kidnaped Oct. 5 by the Quebec Liberation Front, or FLQ, was near the St. Rose bridge in Laval, north of Montreal. Police searched the area and found no trace of the 49-year-old Briton.

The other communique, a three-page letter, was accompanied by a passport page bearing the photograph of Paul Rose, one of five men for whom warrants have been issued in the investigation of the kidnaping of Cross and the kidnap-murder of Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte. The last page of the letter also carried one of Rose's fingerprints, the police said.

The letter outlined the FLQ's revolutionary aims but made no mention of Cross, the police said.

ECU Donates Near 400 Units To Bloodmobile

Douglas Morgan, chairman of the Pitt County Bloodmobile, today revealed that 396 units of blood were contributed by 489 ECU students reporting to the bloodmobile on its campus visit Monday and Tuesday at Wright Auditorium.

On Monday, 186 units were given, with 37 rejects. Tuesday, an even larger turn out resulted in 210 units collected, with 56 students rejected. Most of the rejects were due to volunteers having a cold or virus, thus not qualifying them to give at the time.

"Cadel Jeff Wilson and the Air Force ROTC are really to be commended for an outstanding job," Morgan commented. "This hard working group and the Angel Flight went all out to make this the successful drive it was."

Morgan also expressed appreciation for others whom he said "worked diligently to make it an effective drive." These are the volunteer nurses from Greenville, members of the Greenville Service League, and the offices of the Deans of Men and Women. The deans offices, Morgan noted, were instrumental in getting word to the students. Top contributors as groups were the Alpha Zeta Delta Sorority and for fraternities, the Sigma Phi Epsilon.

"I have been told," Morgan commented, "that many of the students give as a memorial gesture to Tate Nabors." Nabors was an ECU student who died following a motorcycle accident.

With the successful two day collection, Morgan commented, "We are now 146 units behind our quota. We were 260 units behind, and hope to close the gap even more in the future drives."

The next collection date is December 2, when the bloodmobile will be sponsored by the Moose Lodge at the Moose Lodge in Greenville.

Repairwoman Must Prove Herself A Good Deed Goes Without Paying

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer
LINDEN, N.J. (AP) — "They get a funny look on their faces when I show up carrying a case of tubes and my tools," admitted Diana Idefonso. "When I walk in that door I have to prove myself or I might as well quit."

But Diana, a 17-year-old television repairwoman has already proved herself—in the Jobs Corps, where she showed such aptitude for electronics her teacher gave her private lessons. And as the first girl to attend Magnavox's Service Training School in East Rutherford, N.J., she came out on examinations higher than most of her male classmates.

"At first their mouths dropped open, to put it mildly, when I walked into the class," recalled the perky teen-ager with short dark hair, big brown eyes and a mature manner. "They accepted it in a very sad way, as if they were saying 'Gee whillikers, they're taking over our jobs too.'"

"But they were quite friendly the second day after I made it clear that if I expect to get anywhere I can't get special treatment. I just want to be treated like a human being."

Now Diana is proving herself further in her job with a television dealer here, making house calls with a fellow worker and repairing televisions, radios and other equipment.

Pointing out that there is a severe shortage of people in TV service, Diana said she would like to see more women enter a field for which she thinks they are especially suited. She feels she is definitely paving the way.

"Women are fussier about small, intricate details and like everything in its place, looking nice and neat. When I solder a component I make sure it's done right—clean the connection, clean the lead, make sure there's a thin covering of solder and make sure the lead is wrapped securely around the connection," she said with professional pride.

"I feel like I've really done something when I've fixed a set. One little old lady really boosted my morale recently. When I walked into her house she gave me a suspicious look, asked why I was there and if I knew what I was doing. After I took the back of the set off and quickly got it to working she was thrilled, glad it was a woman who'd done the job."

She comes on like women's lib when talking about job equality, but that's as far as her sympathy with the movement goes. "I don't feel a thing for it; not a thing. Let women be women, and men, men."

In clothes too she insists on being feminine. "I don't wear slacks to work," continued the 5 foot 4 technician. "That's one of my rules. That skirt and blouse under my lab coat is important to me—I'm still a girl."

Diana devotes much of her spare time to music—composing, playing the piano and singing. A Puerto Rican, she plays with a neighborhood Latin group called La Caliente (The Hot One). She also likes racing and tinkering with cars.

Mini Under Fire In Sub-Sahara Africa

By KENNETH L. WHITING
Associated Press Writer
BLANTYRE, Malawi (AP) — Midi and maxi length skirts may be the fashion rage in sophisticated capitals, but the mini continues to stir controversy in sub-Sahara Africa.

Women in black Africa who favored ultra short skirts have had a hard time for several years asserting the right to keep in style.

Mini skirts and dresses might be gradually passing from the fashion scene, but there are few signs that male dominated countries are easing their vigilance.

Female police clerks in Portuguese Mozambique have been ordered not to wear skirts shorter than three inches below the knee.

Tanzania, Zambia and Uganda have cracked down on miniskirts as offending their national dignity.

Upper Volta's decree that skirts should be no higher than the knee had unfortunate consequences. An Upper Voltan newspaper reports that overzealous young men used the order as an excuse for "outrageous importuning" and "rummaging about" inside suspect skirts.

A few loopholes are left the girls of Upper Volta. Short skirts are acceptable for tennis and other sports. They can also be worn for traditional tribal dancing, but the Minister of Security—which is responsible for the whole business—cautioned that miniskirts are taboo for modern dancing.

In South Africa, lay preacher and anti-miniskirt campaigner Gert Yessel says the Springbok rugby team which toured Britain last year lost because of the "decadent influence" of miniskirted British women.

The South Africans recently defeated the visiting New Zealand All Blacks rugby squad, but Yessel is not changing his tune. He warned South Africans to "stop crowing about the Springboks' victory over the All Blacks" because the demise of South African rugby is imminent. The players are obsessed with sex, he said.

H. H. Kamuzu Banda, the bachelor president of Malawi, says he is shocked by high hemlines.

His central African republic unofficially banned the mini about two years ago. A notice warning female visitors to keep the length of their skirts within the locally observed limits of decency was posted at Chilenka Airport. At least one Englishwoman was asked to leave this former British territory, apparently for insisting on her right to wear minis.

"I feel very strongly about miniskirts or any short dress at all," Banda told a recent gathering of his Malawi Congress Party at Mzuzu. The party faithful promptly called for legislation to outlaw the mini. The audience chuckled, but applauded after Banda explained his position.

"Most women do not realize this. When they have a skirt coming here—when they bend down—they don't realize it. I am deeply offended to see a woman bending ... I mean just that when I say I am offended. When a woman bends ... oh terrible, terrible."

Banda insisted he would rather have the entire civil service break down than have Malawi tolerate miniskirts.

ARISTOCRATIC PLUM

NEW YORK (UPI) — The plum tree has a long and distinguished genealogy, living up to the distinction of its name. Authorities say it is an aristocratic cousin of the almond, apricot, cherry and peach, that it has been grown for over two thousand years in all places on the globe. Plums aren't just plum-colored. The fruit's range of colors includes reds, purple, blue, yellow and green.

DEAR ABBY: Something has been on my mind a whole week. Last Saturday, Karen, my 8-year-old daughter, and I were doing the weekly grocery shopping. I have a large family and we are on a tight budget. While I was trying to figure out how I could work in a watermelon that wasn't on my budget, Karen left my side. Then I saw her helping an elderly lady who seemed to be having trouble standing up. I went to help Karen when I realized the old lady was crippled. She said she felt dizzy and weak, but she thought she could make it home—a block away.

We put her in my car and I drove her to what appeared to be an old convalescent home. We helped her out of the car and rang the bell and someone came to let her in. Then the old lady opened her purse and took out a dollar and handed it to Karen. Karen looked at me for a signal to refuse it or accept it. I thought about the watermelon and nodded "yes," take it.

Now I am sorry. I should have nodded "no," and told Karen to never accept money for doing a good deed. Am I foolish to let this bother me?

DEAR SORRY: No. It's still not too late to tell Karen that you now regret letting her accept the money. Be honest. Tell her you thought about the watermelon. Children respect honesty, but too few parents are big enough to admit to their children that they are less than perfect—and also make mistakes. You know where the lady lives. Perhaps Karen would like to return the dollar.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you so much for a good laugh. I thought for sure my laughing days were over, for tomorrow morning I go into the hospital to have my left breast removed. I have cancer.

What made me laugh? That letter from the cat lover who feared that if she did not outlive her precious cat, it would die of a broken heart, so she wanted to have the cat "gently put to sleep" and buried with her. You replied, "Let nature decide. The cat may miraculously survive the loss and have a ball." You are so right, Abby.

Dear God, what I wouldn't give to have such an "earth-shaking" problem! Not only must I face this thing tomorrow, but I must face it alone. My husband died last year.

Tell your readers, Abby, that they don't know when they are well off. Thank you. God love you. A READER

DEAR READER: And God love you, too. Please let me hear from you when your ordeal is over.

DEAR ABBY: So you think animals will live happy, healthy lives after their masters are gone, do you? Well, that shows you how much you know. Humans can look after themselves. Animals cannot!

I've seen "animal lovers" profess love for their pets and then let them run all over the neighborhood until some speed demon kills them.

I have 22 dogs and at my death every one of these beautiful animals will be put to sleep and buried in the pet cemetery.

They have been protected all their lives and I don't intend to leave them to the mercy of anyone else after I'm gone. I only hope they go before me, but if they don't, I am taking no chances! ANIMAL LOVER, BALTIMORE

DEAR ABBY: About cats: A cat is loyal to the person who feeds him. If a cat is mistreated, he will take off and look for a better home. Not true of dogs. Dogs will take all kinds of abuse and hang around forever.

I once had a pet cat which I raised from a kitten. When I went into the Army I tearfully gave my cat to a friend to keep, and was told not to be surprised if she died of a broken heart in my absence. When I came back, that darned cat acted like she didn't even know me! Broken heart, indeed! A cat's best friend is himself. CAT FANCIER

The drink was followed by lunch, then a visit to the insurance agent. After that came restaurant supper and nightclub dancing at Mr. Brucke's expense. Promptly at midnight, he proposed marriage, and she accepted.

The Versatile Squash

It's fall and what better time to serve squash, not just the yellow crookneck (or "summer") squash, but this is the time of the year that the "winter" varieties are plentiful also. In this class are Hubbard, Acorn, Butternut and Turban squashes.

For adaptability, this vegetable rates a special star for most kinds can be baked, broiled, steamed, sauteed, scalloped, creamed, stewed, stuffed or candied — and some taste best when turned into a pudding or pie filling. Follow your recipe directions for cooking time, but remember, as for any other vegetable, it is only a guide and the total minutes will depend on the variety, quantity, and maturity of the squash.

Some squashes have a delicate flavor and take happily to a touch of chive, green onions, marjoram, basil, Italian seasoning, nutmeg, dill, sour cream, or cheese. Another serving tip: Squash is a good mixer, so for variety team it with tomatoes, celery, peas, corn, or green peppers. Popular flavor companions for the hard-rind type are sausage, bacon, sugar, spice and syrup.

Orange-Honeyed Acorn Squash

Acorn squashes, small	3
Orange juice frozen concentrate	1/4 cup
Honey	1/4 cup
Salt	1 teaspoon
Butter or margarine	2 tablespoons
Nutmeg, if desired.	1/8 teaspoon

Combine orange juice concentrated, honey, and salt. Mix well. Put some of the orange-honey mixture into each squash cavity.

Add 1 teaspoon fat to each squash half. Sprinkle with nutmeg, if desired.

Cover pan tightly with aluminum foil to keep steam in and speed cooking.

Bake 30 minutes. Remove foil and continue baking 30 min. more, or until squash is tender.

Time For Some Common Sense

The holding of two United States generals and a Turkish escort by Soviet authorities is an example of immaturity which sometimes motivates governments.

The three were traveling in a light plane which crossed the Turkish border five days ago. The Beechcraft got lost in turbulent weather while touring bases in Eastern Turkey. It landed safely last Wednesday at Leninakan, just inside Soviet territory.

It was several days before the Russians even granted permission to two U. S. consuls to interview the two U.S. generals and there is no indication as to when the group will be allowed to return to their units.

It is true that these were military men and we can't blame the Russians for investigating to see that a spy mission were not underway. At the same time it doesn't take much investigating to determine that two generals would not be wandering over Russia in a light aircraft to carry out some sort of mission with dark overtones. Planes frequently get lost in bad weather and the pilots are usually glad to set down wherever they can safely do so.

The Soviet Union and the United States are not at war with each other and they do maintain diplomatic relations. It just seems sensible to us that any nation should be sensible enough to recognize a situation where those of another nation were accidentally forced to fly over their territory and they would be freed without undue delay. When world leaders recognize such a simple premise as this, then perhaps we will have taken one small step toward international understanding.

The 'New World' Has A Very Old History

America may have been the New World to Europeans when they began exploring our continent but to some people it had been their land many centuries before.

A scientist reports that new archaeological findings show man migrated to North America 30,000 to 50,000 years earlier than previously supposed.

Dr. Louis S. B. Leakey said, "We are satisfied that we have uncovered a new chapter in the history of man in America."

So we are older than we thought, but even though our heritage goes back further than we previously believed it is doubtful that we are any wiser.

GM Strike vs. GOP Efforts

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
KOKOMO, Ind. — When Sen. Vance Hartke went into the rain arm-in-arm with president Leonard Woodcock of the United Auto Workers (UAW) to shake hands with General Motors pickets here Wednesday, he was seeking benefits from a new—and still unmeasurable—factor that could profoundly affect election results throughout the industrial Midwest.

The nationwide GM strike might well save the public career of Hartke, a liberal Democrat running even with conservative Republican Rep. Richard Roudebush. Having idled 35,000 workers at eight Indiana plants, the strike coincides with accelerating job layoffs all over the state. Thus, the hard times Hartke has been counting on to save him from retribution at the hands of conservative Hoosiers may have arrived just barely in time.

Indeed, the GM strike could be the grim reaper of Midwestern Republican hopes. In the east central Indiana district represented in Congress by rigidly conservative Republican David Dennis, the strike may push 28-year-old Democrat Philip Sharp to victory. In Ohio, it may foil the Senate drive of Rep. Robert Taft, Jr. It could even defeat the progressive Republican governor of Michigan, William Milliken.

This intrusion of bread-and-butter politics is not called for by the Midwest Republican scenario for 1970. In fact, Roudebush is sticking with the script, ignoring economics and castigating Hartke with the sins of liberalism, permissiveness, and dovishness.

While Hartke was embracing GM pickets, Roudebush was courting the blue-collar vote in the heavily Democratic Calumet region

(Hammond-Gary-East Chicago) in a different way. Accusing Hartke "of a permissive attitude on law and order," he added: "I have no permissiveness in my soul in this regard."

Until recently, Roudebush was successfully infiltrating working men—including GM workers. An impressive minority of UAW members were unhappy over Hartke's anti-war stance and outraged over his support of gun controls.

Now, this anti-Hartke sentiment is declining, thanks to the strike and an unbelievable blunder by Roudebush. UAW officials are distributing the transcript of an Oct. 2 television appearance in which Roudebush blurted out that "some of the demands of the workers...seem excessive to me without question." Says the local UAW president at GM's Fisher Body plant in Marion: "That really tore up Roudebush with our guys."

Consequently, UAW international representatives pushing hard for Hartke are getting less back talk. When Woodcock repeatedly described Hartke as "a proven friend of the UAW" during Wednesday's tour of central Indiana, the impact was incomparably greater than it would have been in pre-strike days.

But the GM strike's impact goes well beyond the strikers themselves. The longer it drags on, the more middle-sized towns with GM plants—such as Anderson, Kokomo, Marion, Muncie — will deteriorate economically.

This dovetails with economic trouble elsewhere. Some 7,200 workers at the Whirlpool Corp. plant in Evansville went on strike Oct. 17. Even in abundantly prosperous Fort Wayne, the unemployment rate is inching up with some 600 (out of (Continued on page 6)

When Martha Is Calling

WASHINGTON — All Washington is talking about Martha Mitchell. It isn't a question of what she is going to say, as there are no surprises in that any more.

The big question that everyone is wondering about is "From where is she going to make her next telephone call?" As everyone knows, Mrs. Mitchell is always calling the press at some unearthly hour in the night, but she doesn't want her husband John to hear what she's saying.

A month ago, it was revealed she was making her calls from the bathroom. Last week, when she called a UPI reporter, she said she was speaking from the balcony of her Watergate apartment.

No one knows where Martha Mitchell's next call is coming from.

Perhaps I can speculate. "Hello, is this the United Press? This is Martha Mitchell...I'm calling from my shoe closet and I have to speak fast because my heels are killing me...I just thought you'd like to know what I think of that turncoat, John Lindsay. I think he should be hung by his fingernails...Yes, and that goes for Charles Goodell...Ouch! I just sat on a shoe tree... Yes, and they should both be crucified and be thrown out of the Republican Party...Listen, I have to go now...a hat box just fell on me and I think I woke up John. Toodle-oo.

Three days later:

In a whisper, "Hello...Life magazine, this is Martha Mitchell...I'd like to blast Sen. Gore...Can you put me in touch with someone who would be interested?...Thank you...Hello,hello. This is Martha...no, I can't speak louder. I'm calling from under the bed...John doesn't know I had an extension put in under here...He tore out the one I had in the bathroom...It's a tight squeeze under here...I just want to say that Sen. Gore is despicable and I hope the voters of Tennessee see that he never comes back to Washington...Wait a minute, I think I heard John turn over...It's all right now...Gore is a terrible man and..."

A week later:

"Hello operator, get me the Arkansas Gazette...This is Martha Mitchell...No, I'm speaking as loud as I can...We're having a party here and I'm talking from the chandelier...That's right...the chandelier...Of course it's safe...The telephone company would not have put a line in up here if it weren't...I would like to talk to you about that rat William Fulbright...What have you people done about him lately? How can you allow that ghastly man to stay in the Senate? He makes me sick...Oh-oh, the chandelier is starting to swing...Oh dear, it's rocking...I better call you back...! Owwwwwww!

A week later:

"Hello, give me Mike Wallace at CBS...Mike, this is Martha...What do you mean you're getting an echo?...Oh, I know why...I'm speaking in the dumb-waiter at the Watergate...Well it's not very funny, Mike...It's uncomfortable as hell. But John found all my other extensions and I have to call from Somewhere...Mike what I called about is I thought you might want to do a program blasting the Supreme Court...Wait a minute, Mike...Someone on the third floor is ringing for the dumb-waiter..."

"Oh Mike, Mike, I'm stuck...I can't get out...I'm going down...Oh dear, I'm not certain the extension cord is long enough...Mike, listen, if we get cut off, I think you should do an expose of that (Continued on page 6)

Ordeal Of The Okra

By JEFFREY D. ALDERMAN
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "If you're looking to save on your vegetable outlays," the food salesman told James Joseph O'Connell, "buy some okra—I can give it to you half price."

James Joseph mullied over the offer. He had just been appointed financial secretary of his fraternity and had promised to tighten the budget.

"I'll take 500 pounds," he told the man.

The man took out a small yellow pad, moistened a stubby lead pencil and wrote down the order, smiling vaguely. "You'll get the delivery tomorrow," he said handing O'Connell a receipt.

O'Connell was relaxing the next day in the livingroom when a friend named Harry burst excitedly into the room and shouted: "Somebody just dumped two tons of a strange-looking plant growth near the kitchen door and now he wants seventy-five bucks from us — I suspect you, O'Connell."

James Joseph sighed unconcernedly. "Oh," he said off-handedly, "that must be our okra."

O'Connell walked casually out of the livingroom, then ran through the kitchen and looked out the back window. On the ground were maybe 50 big plastic bags, filled with little, oblong green things.

O'Connell paid the man and began loading the okra into the kitchen vegetable bins. He got about half the load in before the bins were overflowing. He put the rest behind the bar in the cellar and raced to find the kitchen cookbook.

The book told him that okra was cultivated widely throughout the world. Its pods were the only edible part and were used for such things as stews, soups and something called gumbo. The book said that occasionally, and only occasionally, okra was served as a side dish.

"Hey, O'Connell, what's all that green stuff in the vegetable bins?" asked the cook entering the kitchen.

"Okra," O'Connell replied.

"But what are we going to do with...?"

"Don't ask," O'Connell said, cutting off the cook and pointing to the spot he was reading in the cookbook.

The house sat down for dinner that night to spaghetti, meatballs and a side order of okra. For breakfast the next morning, the house had bacon, eggs and okra. For lunch, chicken gumbo soup, hot dogs and okra. That night the cook came up with something call okra a la king.

Meals that followed included chop suey okra, steak with okra sauce, noodles okra, welsh okra, chipped okra on toast and pizza with mushrooms, pepperoni and okra.

But the cook's offerings of cherries okra and okra a la mode were not well received, and O'Connell's purchasing decision eventually became the subject of much criticism among the house members, who nicknamed him "Okronnell."

So James Joseph came up with an idea for getting rid of the by now detested vegetable.

"Let's have an okra party," he suggested enthusiastically to the membership.

The party was scheduled for the following Saturday and the whole campus was invited. Guests were given okra as party favors at the door. Okra hung from the ceiling as decorations. To eat there were okra dips and (Continued on page 6)

Fulltime Role Now Recognized

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH — What will the winners win in next week's election for state legislative seats?

The prestige of winning, of course, and the status of Senator or Representative before their name.

The duty of serving in the 1971 General Assembly, the obligation to listen to their constituents, and the responsibility to address themselves to the problems of the state.

And an annual salary of $2,400 plus $600 expenses, of efforts to rescind or trim down the legislative reimbursement program in the '71 session.

Even though nearly twice what it was before, legislative pay obviously is not a living wage. The $3,000-plus it will provide annually will cushion the economic shock of time spent away from a business or profession, but the lawmaker still will find it necessary to earn his income in other pursuits.

Citizen Lawmakers "That is deliberate," said Ball. "The aim is for citizen legislators, not full-time professionals. Men and women from all walks of life, working and living in the community, can reflect grassroots attitudes in the legislative process."

"What is essential is a base which will allow citizens in all economic strata to serve if they can get elected.

The alternative is legislative pay so low that it rules out the young who are not yet financially established, and the poor who cannot afford absence from their job. Worse, it raises the possibility of pressures for subsidizing legislators by special interests.

North Carolina is moving with the trend in going from the daily compensation basis to an annual salary, Ball noted. Twenty years ago, half the states used the daily basis. Now, only 13 or 14 still do so.

Pay Range Wide Among the 50 states, the range in legislative compensation is all the way from New Hampshire which has a flat $100 per year, to California which provides a $19,200 annual salary and other benefits adding to an annual package of about $25,000.

That puts California state legislators in the full-time professional class. North Carolina ranks 27th, at mid-point numerically, but relatively lower down the list taking into account standing in other economic and social ratings.

In the South, Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi, Texas, Alabama and Georgia all pay more than North Carolina. South Carolina, Maryland, Tennessee, Virginia and Arkansas pay less.

Actually, the 1971 crop of Tar Heel legislators will get less than full salary. The 1969 act made the effective date the first day of the 1971 session — next January 13. Since legislators assume office immediately upon election, those who win next week will miss pay for November and December.

weekly travel at eight cents per mile to Raleigh and daily subsistence of $25 during the session. Plus the opportunity to share in a pension plan, contingent upon sufficient legislative service.

They will be the first salaried legislators for North Carolina. Unlike their predecessors, whose compensation was limited to legislative days, their pay will continue after the session ends.

After-Session Compensation "It recognizes that a member of the General Assembly keeps on being a legislator after adjournment," said State Legislative Officer Clyde Ball. "When he goes home, he is contacted by citizens in the community, consulted by state officials and others—in short, he continues to spend time related to the job."

For a session year, the salary scale will be roughly equivalent to the daily compensation method. That was $15 for each day of the session. The 169 days of the 1969 legislature added to a total of $2,535.

The boost will be in the second year of the term, when the legislature normally does not meet. That payless period of the past now will bring in $2,400 plus $600 expenses (which do not have to be itemized) for the legislators.

The legislative salary and the pension plan were approved in the last days of the 1969 General Assembly. Expectedly, it set off political repercussions—on the ground that lawmakers were giving themselves substantial raises while holding increases for state employees and other purposes to a less generous level—which have echoed in some legislative races.

Strength For Today

PRESSON How old are you? No offense intended—but curiosity about the mood in which you live and move and have your being.

Briefly stated, the object of religion should be to keep us climbing. Whether we are fifteen or fifty or a hundred years old the thing that can give us life's greatest happiness is aspiration to push on to something higher.

Never in human history have so many people stood before unlimited opportunities for advancement. To be living in the Twentieth Century and amid opportunities that science, religion and other factors of advancement give us is the greatest privilege that humanity has known in all its history.

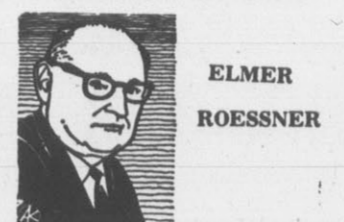

Wars? Yes, and we are silly to be lunging at one another's throats when the world is bristling as it is today with opportunity. Defensive wars have to be fought occasionally, but offensive wars are a sin against God and humanity. Three, three hundred, three thousand cheers for brave forebears who have secured freedom for us on the battlefield and in legislative halls. But a million cheers—and more if you say so—for the people who in honest business transactions and in experimental work in laboratories are pushing us on to something better and better. St. Paul in his Epistle to the Philippians makes this wonderful statement: "Forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus" (Philippians 3:13-14). ## Two Steps Before Devaluation

By ELMER ROESSNER

There have been rumors abroad that the United States may devalue the dollar. Two readers have written me and the fellow at the cigar counter downstairs has asked, "Will the United States devalue the dollar?" No. At least, not now. Before the dollar is devalued, if it ever will be, there will be at least two other steps. First, if inflation keeps cantering the way it has (it isn't galloping yet) there will be a wage, price and consumer credit freeze.

There has been a lot of talk about a freeze. Big corporation chiefs have urged a wage freeze as the only means of halting inflation. George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, has called for a price freeze, agreeing that a wage freeze would be a necessary kettle drum accompaniment. Credit Freeze Vital

No one has called for a consumer credit freeze, yet without that a wage and price freeze would be ineffective. If there were no severe limitation on consumer credit, inflation would keep trotting along. Of wage, price and credit freezes a consumer credit freeze alone might do more to brake inflation than the other two actions. And if wage, price and credit freezes did not arrest inflation, the next step would not be devaluation but the issuance of a "new dollar."

That's about what France did when the franc — once worth a quarter when the quarter was worth 25 cents — became almost worthless. The one-franc and two-franc aluminum coins became known as "peepee money." They would buy nothing by themselves; their only use was as tips for washroom attendants.

Coming, The "New Dollar" France then brought out the new franc which, with a bit of devaluation, was again worth a quarter. Mais alors! it has since dropped in purchasing power.

That's what the U.S. would probably do: bring out a new dollar, worth five or ten times what the current dollar is worth and with about the purchasing power of the silver cartwheel our daddies knew.

This would involve no inflation. If the new dollar was worth 10 times the old dollar, your bank would strike out a zero from your balance; the electric company would move the decimal point one digit to the left.

It would have nothing to do with inflation or deflation. It would simply give the dollar more respectability. Wages would be cut to one-tenth what they were, but the dollar would look a lot bigger and would buy, perhaps, ten times as much as the old dollar would.

Then if inflation kept cantering along—and there is nothing to indicate that it will ever slow to a walk—the new dollar would eventually decline in buying power. And it is only then that the U.S. will seriously consider devaluation.

okra petit fours. To drink there was a concoction called hot buttered okra. The fraternity even staged a playlette called "The Night of the Okra."

By the end of the night, the okra was gone.

About a week later, that food salesman stopped by the house. "What do you need?" he asked James Joseph.

"I can tell you what I don't need," said James Joseph bitterly, "okra."

"Couldn't get it if you wanted it," said the man, "There's been a big run on the stuff. Seems some house threw a party with the stuff a while back and it was such a success that every fraternity on campus wants okra. "Can't keep up with the orders."

awful William Douglas...Now someone on the sixth floor is ringing for the dumbwaiter...I don't know how I'm going to get back to my apartment...Mike, call my cook on the other line and ask her to ring for the dumbwaiter so I can get back to my own apartment. But tell her, for heaven's sakes, not to tell John where I am."

Evans, Novak

8,000 workers laid off at International Harvester. With this background, Hartke's overriding theme has been to pin all responsibility on the Republicans.

Neither candidate has captured the heart of Indiana. Though a frenetically aggressive campaigner trimmed down to unaccustomed leanness, Vance Hartke—intense and voluble—never has been a popular figure. Though a likeable, self-styled "country boy," Dick Roudebush—overweight and rumpled—conducts a curiously slow-paced campaign (terribly disconcerting to party leaders). As mutual mud-slinging escalates in typical Hoosier fashion, the Indiana voter seems to be getting sick of them both.

Germans Like Car Telephones

BONN (UPI) —About 10,000 West Germans have installed telephones in their cars, and the post office expects the number of subscribers to quadruple in the next couple of years.

Government ministers, industrial managers, bankers, lawyers, brokers and entertainment stars are the main subscribers. These are the people who find the 7,000 marks ($1,890) installation cost and fixed monthly charge of 65 marks ($17.50) more than made up by savings in time.

Graduates At FBI Academy

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Capt. Walter M. Thomas of the Kingston, N. C. police department and a former member of the police department in Greenville, N. C. graduated in ceremonies this morning from the FBI National Academy here.

Kong, Malaysia, the Philippines, Thailand and Switzerland — this being the first time in the history of the academy that a representative from Switzerland has been in attendance.

CAPT. WALTER M. THOMAS

Thomas was one of 100 outstanding officers to receive their National Academy diplomas from Assistant Attorney General Johnnie M. Walters after hearing addresses by the Honorable Edward M. Curran, Chief Judge, U. S. District Court for the District of Columbia and John T. Moran, Deputy Chief of Police, Las Vegas, Nevada, president of the graduating class.

Today's graduating law enforcement officers were members of the 86th session of the FBI National Academy and swelled the list of academy alumni to more than 5,800 some 28 per cent of whom occupy top executive positions in their law enforcement agencies.

Plan Police For Schools

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Richmond schools officials, concerned over increased disturbances in classrooms, are quietly laying the ground work for a public school security police force.

Show, Dance For Moose

A Country and Western Show and dance, featuring the Ernie Bivins entertainers with Tokyo Matsu and Beverly Taylor, is being offered Greenville Moose Lodge members Thursday night.

Roy N. Puckett, an assistant superintendent in the 50,000-student school system, confirmed Tuesday that plans for a security force are being outlined for consideration of the school board.

The Bivins entourage is a regular fixture on the WWVA Jamboree, Wheeling, W. Va.

Board members have expressed increasing concern over trouble in city schools in which dropouts have sometimes dropped in to classrooms and there have been reports of woundings, fights and shakedowns.

Beverly Taylor has been a back-up on singer on more records than she can remember and has recorded on her own with American Artists Records of Nashville and Dot Records of Hollywood.

The suggestion for a security force will be studied by a school board already jittery from rumors of trouble arising from court ordered desegregation plan that now has thousands of youngsters being bused to and from schools.

Tokyo Matsu has appeared with the Grand Ol' Opry Show and the Porter Waggoner Show.

Board members have publicly maintained that trouble in schools has been minor this year though panic caused by reports of knifings at one school caused virtual desertion of classes for several days last month.

Bivins is long-time entertainer, composer and recording artist whose popularity is attested by regular demand.

First Aid Talk Given Brownies

The show and dance will be held in the main auditorium of the Moose Home, between 8:00 p.m. and 12:00 p.m.

A first aid program, presented by Mrs. Lois McLawhorn, featured the weekly meeting of Brownie Troop 451 Monday afternoon.

Mrs. McLawhorn, a registered nurse, showed the Brownies proper procedures for handling situations of bleeding, breathing and poisoning. The girls practiced mouth-to-mouth resuscitation using "Resuc-Air", an inflatable model, as their patient.

Girls in the troop are: Virginia Baker, Susan Boudreaux, Debra Boyd, Cindy Buck, Lisa Butts, Kim Daniels, Pam Evans, Susan Hudson, Sondra Padgett and Doreen Smith. Mrs. Mavis Butts and Mrs. Doris Hudson are troop leaders.

Garden Club Heard Expert

"Elementary Soil and Soil Improvement" was the topic presented by William L. Meyer at the meeting of the Home Pride Garden Club held last week.

Meyer is a member of the Department of Soil Science, North Carolina State University.

Fertility, acidity, and how soil holds nutrients are chemical characteristics, while texture and structure are physical characteristics, he said. He instructed the members in correct soil sample procedures.

Mrs. Frank Thompson, president, presided at the business meeting. Mrs. Jack Weeden was appointed to make arrangements for the Christmas party.

Mrs. Thomas Harwell, Mrs. H. E. Lowry, Mrs. Robert Bullock, Mrs. Harlan L. Piersol and Mrs. Jim Ward were guests.

Mrs. Roger Hesdorffer was hostess for the meeting with Mrs. Robert Dominick as co-hostess.

Hold Last UNC-G Progress House Sees Fire Damage

Tomorrow the final of two Concerto Auditions this month at East Carolina University's School of Music are taking place at 3:00 p.m. in the Music Recital Hall. These auditions are open to the public without charge.

Preliminaries were held last Thursday. In that round, 10 music students — voice, instrumentalist and piano, were selected to participate in tomorrow's finals.

These are: Voice — Charlene DeShaw, senior of Wayne, N. J.; Linda Green, graduate student from Ogdon, Illinois; and Donna Stephenson, junior from Benson, Piano — Janet Forbes, junior, Springfield, Va.; Juan Hall, a senior from Fayetteville; Joan Howard, junior, Salisbury, Md.; Michael Parker, piano, a Virginia Beach, Va. junior; and Vicky Slaymaker, a graduate student from Wichita, Kans. Two instrumentalists — Brenda Dugger, oboe, a senior from Charlotte; and Marcia Eubanks, clarinet, an Atlanta, Ga., junior.

In the preliminary auditions, girls far outpaced boys in placing, with girls accounting for eight of the ten selected to take part in tomorrow's finals.

"Good things are happening on the UNC-G campus," Miss Judy Wolfe, assistant to the dean of students at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, told those attending the Pitt County Alumni meeting Tuesday.

She mentioned a refrigeration rental program yielding about fellow men, and conservation. A day camp for Greenville Girl Scouts provided a week of outdoor living with hikes, cookouts, nature crafts and ceremonies. Junior troops went on weekend encampments; Cadette troops joined in a council for a weekend at Cape Hatteras; Senior troops participated in the council wide senior camping events; and Brownies had cookouts and outdoor fun days.

In February there was a special International program; and March featured a tea for parents and church attendance.

Among community service activities which involved the Girl Scouts of the area were projects for Caswell Center, hospitals and nursing homes.

$10,000 a year for a scholarship program, a special services project providing counseling and tutoring for disadvantaged students, and the accreditation of a four-year school of nursing before the graduation of the first class. She also talked of her work with the 48 international students on campus.

Mrs. Henry Johnston and Mrs. Cameron Dudley, co-chairmen of the Annual Alumni Giving reported some $737.50 collected this fall, with some areas not reported.

New officers installed were Miss Susan Jordan, president; Mrs. David Evans Jr., vice president; and Mrs. Al Ward, secretary and treasurer.

Special guests were Mrs. Bill Swindell, mother of a student, and Miss Brenda Meadows, assistant director of UNC-G Alumni.

A frame house belonging to George Sutton on the Stantonsburg Road, one mile east of Joyner's Cross Road, was damaged extensively by fire early this morning.

Mike Worthington, Pitt County Fire Marshal, revealed an alarm was received at 1:27 a.m. by the Farmville Fire Department. At 1:40 a.m., the Bell Arthur Fire Department was called to assist. Four units fought the blaze, which Worthington stated apparently started in a bedroom, but the origin of the fire is not known.

The family was away at the time. Estimate of the value of damage is not known, but is said to be extensive. Worthington noted "one portion of the house was completely gutted, and the rest of the house received heavy smoke and water damage."

Greene Central Holds Title Key

Farmville High School eliminated Greene Central's Rams from any chance at the Eastern Plains Conference title last weekend with their 18-14 victory. And now Greene Central can help determine whether the Red Devils have a shot left at the title.

One way or the other, the Red Devils may know their fate this weekend.

Farmville plays host to tough Southern Wayne, while Greene Central travels to Northern Nash. Both are key games in the last gasps of the conference race.

Northern Nash, the current leader, can wrap it up with a victory over Farmville. The Red Devils would still have a chance for a tie, but that would be little consolation. The Knights, having beaten Farmville, would gain the post season playoff berth automatically.

For Farmville to win, the Red Devils must beat Southern Wayne while Northern Nash loses to both Greene Central and Hobpton.

Besides the Farmville win over Greene Central last week, Hobpton surprised Charles B. Aycock, 6-0, Southern Nash beat Zebulon, 8-6, for its first win of the year; Northern Nash rolled over Plymouth, 36-0, and Southern Wayne easily beat North Lenoir, 33-0, in the only other conference game.

"We took them right down to the wire," Greene Central's Stewart Smith said of Friday's loss to the Red Devils. "Considering that we don't have many people (16) to play, I thought we did an outstanding job."

"In fact, I thought we had it won. We had a fourth and a foot-and-a-half to go for a touchdown and I thought we made it. It looks good on the films, but the officials said no," Smith added.

The Rams come into the Northern Nash game in fairly good shape, although quarterback Lonnie Carraway, who played with an injury against Farmville, is still hobbling.

"This is a big one for us," Smith said. "They beat us 71-0 last year, and the players remember that. They are up for this one, and losing to Farmville hasn't upset us that much."

Smith said Nash will outman the Rams easily. "They have a lot of 200-pounders and they'll keep constant pressure on our 150-pounders. They have a good quarterback and their fullback, Orlando Cooper, is one of the best around. But we are going to give it everything we can to pull off the upset."

Farmville's Gene Brewer said he guessed his team was lucky to pull out the win. "They had a first and goal at the three and we stopped them less than a foot away. We were lucky, real, real lucky."

The game cost the Red Devils a few people, however. Eddie Pate will definitely miss the game this week with Southern Wayne, and Jimmy Langley is questionable. The Farmville coach hopes to have Columbus Davis back for the game, however, after missing last week's.

"This is another big one. Actually, every game since Aycock has been a big one for us," Brewer said.

"They have a whole stable full of horses," he said of the Saints. "They have four good backs who can run the 100 in :10.5 or less. This Boyzelle Johnson is a real fine fullback, who is supposed to be the class of the conference. He has better speed and agility than Cooper (of Northern Nash), but he's not the power runner Cooper is. Johnson gets outside, and it's all over."

Besides these two key games, others include North Duplin at Hobpton, North Lenoir at Southern Nash, while Aycock has finished its schedule.

The current Conference standings:

	Conf.			Overall
Northern Nash	5	0	0	7	1	0
Farmville	5	1	0	6	2	0
Southern Wayne	4	1	1	5	2	1
Greene Central	2	2	1	3	4	1
N. Lenoir	2	3	0	4	3	0
Hobpton	2	4	0	4	4	0
C.B. Aycock	2	5	0	3	6	0
Southern Nash	0	6	0	1	7	0

Pirates Set To Open Cage Year

A January 19th game with defending Southern Conference champion Davidson highlights a 14-game basketball schedule East Carolina University will play this winter in Minges Coliseum.

It will be the first time Davidson has ever paid a regular season visit to Eastern North Carolina.

All the Pirates' home games will start at 8 p.m. this season. In addition Coach Tom Quinn's cagers will play 10 road games, including a January 23rd TV against William & Mary in Williamsburg, Va., and a February 22nd contest against Jacksonville, the No. 2 team in the nation last season.

Season tickets for the 14 home games are now on sale for $27 each at the Minges Coliseum ticket office. The opening game is only six weeks away — a December 4th home date against strong George Washington.

The Pirates began practice on October 15th and had 14 players on hand.

Coach Quinn expects to have the strongest front line in the conference with 6-7 Jim Gregory, 6-10 Al Faber and 6-7 Jim Fairley. Last year Fairley and Gregory averaged 16.7 and 16.5 points per game respectively. More important, Fairley is the top returning rebounder in the league, averaging 12.2 last year, while Gregory is the No. 3 returning rebounder in the SC, averaging 10.5 last winter.

Faber, a soph, averaged 18.4 points and 13.3 rebounds for the freshman team last year and was named to the All-State Frosh Team.

The other two positions — one wing-guard and one point guard in Quinn's 1-4 offense — are up for grabs with five players under serious consideration. They are returning starter Julius Prince (6-2), lettermen Mike Henrich (6-0) and Lyn Green (6-4), and sophomores Dave McNeil (6-4) and Dave Franklin (6-5).

Baby Bucs Seeking Win Over The Citadel

East Carolina University's freshman football team, hoping to regenerate the spark in its offensive machine, travels to Charleston, S.C. Friday to meet The Citadel Bulldogs.

Kickoff time is 3 p.m. The Baby Pirates will be looking for their first victory of the season after three defeats.

The ECU Frosh started with a strong passing attack, but problems on defense — as shown by a 64-26 opening loss to North Carolina State. Since then the defense has steadily improved, but the offense has lost some of its spark.

Following the loss to N. C. State, the Baby Pirates fell to William & Mary 30-14 and to Staunton Military Academy 12-7.

Quarterback Carl Summerell, a 6-2, 179-pounder from Virginia Beach, Va., has been the big offensive gun to date for Coach

Henry Trevathan's Frosh. He has completed 42 of 83 passes for 579 yards and four touchdowns. However, he has been plagued by 10 interceptions. This can be partly traced to inexperience in that Summerell never played quarterback until his senior year in high school.

The favorite pass targets have been Mike Myrick with 14 catches for 277 yards and one TD, Clark Davis with 11 grabs for 155 yards and two touchdowns, and Stan Eure with seven receptions for 107 yards and one score. Myrick is from Goldsboro, N. C., Davis from Wilson, N. C., and Eure from Chesapeake, Va.

Heading the running game will be tailback Ron Hunt with 34 carries for 183 yards and one touchdown, and fullback Mike Richardson with 26 hauls for 81 yards and one TD. Another fullback, Kenny Moore, started off well with 18 carries for 40 yards, but has been sidelined with an injury recently.

Last year the ECU Frosh beat The Citadel Bulldogs 23-20 in a game played at Greenville. Friday's contest will be the next-to-last of the season for the Baby Pirates. They will close out the 1970 campaign with a Nov. 13 trip to Richmond and a clash with the Baby Spiders.

Robersonville Must Avoid Looking Ahead

The biggest danger in the Tobacco Belt Conference this week is that two teams involved in games this week will be looking ahead to their meeting next week. And too far a look ahead could spell disaster for either of them.

Robersonville came up with a 34-0 blasting of injury-riddled Saratoga last Friday, while Vanceboro kept its hopes alive with a 52-0 thrashing of Chocowinity. In the other games, Bath picked up its first loop with an 18-12 edging of Elm City, while Grifton and Belhaven tied, 6-6, and Aurora downed Columbia, 16-8, and Mattamuskeet fell to Manteo, 52-26, in non-conference action.

Saratoga continues to lead the league, but is only a half-game ahead of Robersonville, and one ahead of Vanceboro.

This week, Robersonville takes on Mattamuskeet, while Vanceboro travels to Elm City. Grifton is host to Chocowinity, Aurora is at Belhaven, and Saratoga finishes its schedule by hosting Bath.

"We played as we have been playing," Grifton Coach Claude Kennedy said of his team's tie with Belhaven. "We were terrible. The only time we looked good at all was during our scoring drive."

This week, the Bulldogs continue to have some problems. They have lost a player to the books, and Jim Herring is a questionable starter. Mike Tyndal and Mike Coles are both healthy for a change and this is a boost for Grifton. "Both of them ran well, in fact, all our backs ran well," Kennedy said. "They just didn't get good blocking."

Kennedy also singled out the play of Kenny Arnold, a sophomore guard, for his defensive play. "He had 10 unassisted tackles," Kennedy said. "He's not real quick, but he is strong and did a real good job."

Kennedy fears that Chocowinity will be fired up after its passing at the hands of Vanceboro. "I don't know too much about them, but I do know they've had some problems. We think they don't have many players, but we really don't know what to expect."

Robersonville's Noland Respass was quite happy over his team's win over Saratoga.

"Some of the sweetness was taken out of the game when Jimmy DeRatt (Saratoga's top player) didn't play," he said. "But I believe we could have beaten anyone on our schedule the way we played Friday. It was the best game of the year. We moved the ball well, and our defense was outstanding. It was a real fine game."

The Rams have done well on defense. They have allowed only one touchdown in their last five games.

"In fairness, I have to say that Saratoga was pretty well beaten up coming into the game, but I still think we could have beaten them," Respass added.

The Rams play Mattamuskeet this week, and the biggest problem there is not getting their eyes too far ahead. Next week, in the final regular season game of the year, Robersonville meets Vanceboro. A victory there would give the Rams the title, regardless of the outcome of the Bath-Saratoga game.

"They played fairly well against Manteo, scoring 26 points on them," Respass said of Mattamuskeet. "It'll be their Homecoming, and I'm sure they'll be up for the game. We just have to protect ourselves from looking ahead."

At the other end of the conference, Roy Lupton of Vanceboro still feels his team has a chance at the title. "We'd really have to back into it, but there's always that possibility," he said.

For Vanceboro to win, Saratoga would have to lose or tie Bath this week, and Vanceboro would have to down Robersonville in the final game of the year.

"They (Chocowinity) weren't ready for our game," Lupton said, "and we took our frustrations over the Saratoga loss out on them. If Bath can help us, I feel like we can go the rest of the way. I still think we have a better team than Saratoga."

This week, against Elm City, Lupton isn't worried about looking ahead. "They got beat by Bath, but they have been tough at times. We remember them as a hard-hitting team last year, and they haven't changed much in that respect. I don't think we'll be looking ahead. We can't worry about Robersonville until we've beaten Elm City."

The current Tobacco Belt Conference standings:

	Conf.			Overall
	W	L	T	W	L	T
Saratoga	7	1	0	7	2	0
Robersonville	6	1	0	6	2	0

Pirate Runners Fall To Heels

The University of North Carolina downed the Pirates of East Carolina University yesterday in a cross-country meet, 24-32.

The loss left the Bucs with a 6-3 record for the season.

Larry Widgeon and Tony Waldrop of North Carolina ran off and left the pack and finished in a dead heat at the end. Their time of 26 minutes, 24 seconds established a new course record.

Third place went to Ed Hereford of East Carolina, who finished in 27:25. Grady of Carolina was fourth in 27:39, with Rusty Carraway of East Carolina fifth in 27:55.

Grathwohl of Carolina was sixth in 27:56, and the remaining four members of the top ten were all from East Carolina. They were Neil Ross, 27:58; Joe Day, 28:18; Dennis Smith, 28:20 and Gary Allen, 28:26.

ECU Coach Bill Carson said that the meet was the "greatest team race every run at East Carolina from the standpoint of both teams."

The next East Carolina outing will be the state meet to be held at N.C. State University in Raleigh next Monday.

Supreme Court, Foster Stand Between Ali-Frazier Title Bout

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
ATLANTA (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court and Bob Foster stood today as the two major blocks to a heavyweight title fight between Muhammad Ali and champion Joe Frazier, a fight that easily could be the richest in history and one of the best.

Figures like $10 million were being bantered about Tuesday, the day after Ali returned to the ring after a 3½-year exile and stopped Jerry Quarry in three rounds by splitting his left eyebrow.

Madison Square Garden in New York wants the Ali-Frazier fight for February and Houston interests also are trying for it.

But first there is the appeal of Ali's conviction in 1967 of refusing induction into the Army. Should the Supreme Court refuse to hear the appeal, Ali faces a prison sentence of five years. There is no indication of when this litigation will end.

It is certain that a Frazier-Ali fight would be one of the biggest draws in boxing history.

"There is no limit to what an Ali-Frazier title fight would gross," said Michael Maltz, president of Sports Action, Inc., which copromoted the Ali-Quarry fight. "It could make $10 million—certainly more than any fight in history. We would run out of satellites."

NCAA Changing Grant Rules?

By JERRY ESTILL
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Council of the NCAA voted Tuesday to sponsor legislation at the group's convention in January to waive eligibility rules in extreme hardship cases.

without an amendment approved by the full membership of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, although it was sympathetic to the Wichita State case.

The legislation to be proposed would stipulate that large numbers of a team would have to be disabled before the eligibility waiver would occur.

There is also an outside chance that Ali might fight rugged Oscar Bonavena in December for Miami promoter Chris Dandee.

"I could box you and we'd sell out," Ali quipped to a newsman Tuesday as a means of underscoring his gate appeal which in the nation's current social and political climate seems greater than ever.

Monday night's fight was shown on closed circuit television to 206 locations, with 900,000 seats, in the United States and Canada. It also was beamed to South America, Europe, Australia, Asia and the Soviet Union.

No receipts are available but Ali's percentage was expected to be about $1 million and Quarry's about $500,000.

The decision stemmed from the airplane crash which killed several members of the Wichita State football team earlier this year.

The 18-member council said it could not change the rules

In the Wichita State case, rules allow a freshman to participate in varsity football, but NCAA regulations would block these freshmen from participating in any post-season activity in their senior year.

But first things first. Georgia Tech holds the same 5-2 record as Duke, and both teams have a victory over Clemson. Tech also downed South Carolina, 23-20, in their season opener.

Duke's Coach Tom Harp says the teams balance out to a perfect match.

Richardson To Speak

WILLIAMSTON, N.C. — Former New York Yankee All-Star second baseman Bobby Richardson will be the featured speaker at the testimonial dinner honoring Jim and Gaylord Perry on November 10, according to an announcement made today by the committee in charge of arrangements.

Richardson, now baseball coach at the University of South Carolina, will travel to Williamston for the "Perry Brothers' Day" event as the personal representative of Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Tickets for the dinner are now on sale at the Chamber of Commerce office in Williamston; from any director of the Williamston Sports Club; at WITN-TV in Washington, and at the office of W. M. Scales in Greenville. Due to the limited seating capacity all those who desire to attend this event honoring the Perry brothers are urged to secure their tickets now. Tickets are priced at $2.50 each.

As for Quarry, who is only 25, he called the cut, which required 11 stitches, "a set of circumstances. It was luck. I wasn't beat by a better fighter. If I could have gone another round, I could have got back in the fight and won."

Duke Basks On Top; But Tough Games Coming Up On Schedule

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Duke University is basking in the glow of an unbeaten Atlantic Coast Conference record — But watch out.

Harp. "Both Leo and Dick Bidle (a Duke linebacker) have proved outstanding leaders as captains."

yards and an average of 4.2 yards per carry.

Jones has scored six touchdowns from scrimmage and two more on aeriels.

The Blue Devils have their toughest games coming up. To begin with, they take on Georgia Tech Saturday at Durham. Then it's back in the conference for games with Wake Forest, South Carolina and North Carolina.

Working on the other end of Hart's passes is Wes Chesson, a senior from Edenton, N.C., who is one of the leading receivers in the nation.

But the secret behind the glory boys is really no secret at all. It's a hard-blocking line. Duke's is manned by tight end Bill Baker, tackles Willie Clayton and Ed Newman, guards Bob Fitch and Fred Rojas and center Dale Grimes.

Wake Forest is Duke's chief rival for the ACC title at this stage of the race. And North Carolina and South Carolina, though both have been shamed in upsets, still are among the toughest clubs in the conference.

He has grabbed 46 passes for 528 yards this season. He tied a school record of 13 catches against Clemson last week.

Another strong factor in the Duke offensive punch is running back Steve Jones. The sophomore scrambler has carried the ball 153 times for 642

Coach Harp's proud of his team and its unblemished ACC record. But he also knows the last part of their schedule is the rocky part.

"Our next four games will be the big ones," he said. "We have to forget the past and start the season over. We have been very fortunate due to the lack of injuries."

Wake Forest gets a respite from the ACC race Saturday, meeting nonconference Tennessee at Memphis. And after the Duke contest, the Deacons finish the season with North Carolina State and nonleague Houston.

South Carolina also worries about Georgians Saturday, taking on the University of Georgia in the Peach State. The game will be televised.

Score Leaders Meet In ECU-Furman Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
East Carolina lost and Furman won last Saturday, but the Pirates' Billy Wallace closed in on the Paladins' Pat Carroll in the Southern Conference football scoring race.

game, and the nine he's kicked so far this season is just one short of the league mark of 10 set by Jim Gahagan of The Citadel in 1966.

South Carolina also worries about Georgians Saturday, taking on the University of Georgia in the Peach State. The game will be televised.

While Carroll was going scoreless as the Paladins edged University of Tennessee 8 Chattanooga 18-16, Wallace was scoring a touchdown in East Carolina's 38-12 Tobacco Festival defeat at Richmond.

Richmond flanker Jerry Haynes, who grabbed three touchdown passes against East Carolina, and The Citadel kicking specialist Jim Leber are tied for fourth with 30 points each. Haynes has five touchdowns, Leber has 18 extra point kicks and four field goals.

Meanwhile, there was more bad news from East Carolina when it learned split end Tim Dameron will be lost for the rest of the season.

That left Carroll with 40 points on six touchdowns and a pair of two-point conversions, to 36 points on six touchdowns for Wallace.

Seven players have 24 points each—Bob Duncan and Jon Hall of The Citadel, Rick Lyon of Davidson, Steve Crisp of Furman, Jerry Mauro and Keith Clark of Richmond and Phil Mosser of William and Mary.

Dameron suffered a shoulder separation in the Richmond game Saturday and will undergo surgery Friday.

Virginia Military Institute kicking specialist Don Cupit, who booted three field goals in the first period in a 56-9 Keydett rout at The Citadel took over the No. 3 spot with 31 points.

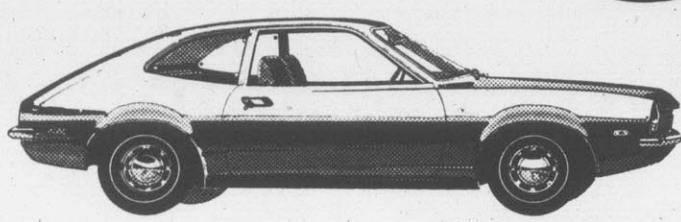

Clark is a kicker with 12 extra points and four field goals.

In Tuesday's practice activity, the University of Richmond worked on its pass rush and offense in preparation for Saturday's conference game with The Citadel in Charleston, S.C.

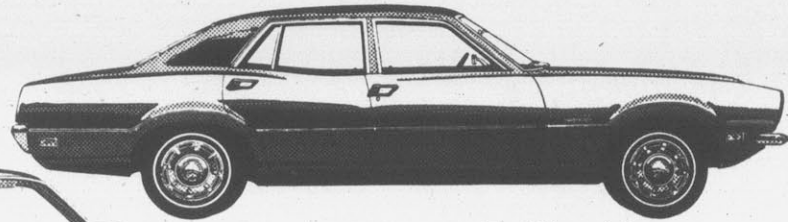

Furman emphasized fundamentals in a two-hour contact session Tuesday.

Coach Bob King stressed blocking drills for the offensive line and tackling for the defensive line as well as all phases of the passing and running game.

Second Soviet Plane Hijacking May Harden Stance

By NICK LUDINGTON
Associated Press Writer
ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Turkish authorities today questioned two Soviet students seeking asylum after the second successful hijacking of a Soviet plane in two weeks. There was speculation that the hijacking would harden the Soviet government's attitude toward two U.S. generals whose plane crossed into Soviet Armenia last week.

Nikolai Ginlov, 20, and Vitaly Pozdeyir, 25, "put a bag over the pilot's head, trussed him up and landed the plane at Sinop themselves" Tuesday, the semi-official Turkish news agency Anatolia reported.

"They said let's go, and we came," pilot Alexei Menshikov, 50, said.

The Turkish government sent state security police and an interpreter to Sinop, on Turkey's Black Sea coast, to investigate. Anatolia said the pair had been planning their escape from the Soviet Union for two years.

The plane, a small two-engine craft of the government-owned Soviet airline Aeroflot, was on a domestic flight from Kerch to Krasnodar, north of the Black Sea, when Ginlov and Pozdeyir took it over. One other passenger was aboard, Yuri Derbinov, 35.

The first hijacking of a Soviet plane to Turkey was carried out Oct. 15 by two Lithuanians, Pranas Stasio Brazinskas and his son Algedas. They diverted an Aeroflot airliner to Trabzon, 200 miles east of Sinop, after killing a stewardess and wounding three crew members.

The father and son also have asked for political asylum, while the Soviet government has demanded their return to face criminal action. The Turkish minister of justice is studying the case, and there have been indications that the government will let the Turkish courts decide whether the pair is entitled to refuge under a provision of the Turkish criminal code which

Students Plan Area Collection

"Treats For the Needy" will be conducted by students of the Greenville Seventh-Day Adventist Elementary School Thursday night.

The students will be collecting food and clothing in the area from 6:30-8 p.m. which will be distributed to needy families in the community.

Persons interested in making donations, who are not contacted, are asked to call 758-1708 or 758-5717, for pickup service.

says foreigners accused of crimes abroad that were politically motivated cannot be sent back for trial.

The Soviet ambassador to Turkey hinted Tuesday that the Russians might use a Turkish colonel now being held in the Soviet Union in bargaining for the two Lithuanians. The colonel, Cevat Deneli, was aboard the small American military Beechcraft that the U.S. government says lost its way and landed in Soviet Armenia last week while taking two American generals on an inspection flight in Turkey.

"Right now in Turkey there are two murderers and in Russia a Turkish colonel," Ambassador Vassily Grubyakov said in Ankara. "Both from the point of view of friendly relations between the two countries and according to international customs, they must be returned."

"The two matters should be considered separately," he said. "However, the two questions have similar aspects. The connection is that both Turkey and Russia have asked for the return of their citizens."

Grubyakov did not mention the three Americans aboard the plane: Maj. Gen. Edward C. D. Scherrer, chief of the U.S. military mission in Turkey; his assistant, Brig. Gen. Claude M. McQuarrie Jr., and their pilot, Maj. James P. Russell. But Pravda today repeated earlier charges by the Soviet government that the generals' flight, like that of U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers 10 years ago, was directed against the security of the Soviet Union.

The article did not say when the Americans might be released, but there was no threat to put them on trial as Powers was.

Ailments Given Rough Treatment

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Cambodians have found a use for bronze one-cent coins left over from French colonial rule, which ended 17 years ago. The coins are used to scar arms and chests as a "treatment" for ills ranging from the common cold to more serious ailments.

The two diplomats were allowed to talk with the captives for several hours in the presence of Soviet officials. They took along some razor blades and "a few creature comforts," including a bottle of whisky.

The embassy made its sixth request to the Soviet Foreign Ministry Tuesday that the plane and its occupants be released, contending once again that the violation of Soviet air space was "clearly accidental" and due to bad weather. It also asked that the consuls be allowed a second visit; the Russians said this "cannot be granted immediately."

An embassy spokesman said he was "not pessimistic" about the men. "There is no reason to think they won't be released," he added.

PILOT WATCH

NEW YORK (AP) — Pilots have special timepieces. It is very likely that the captain of your plane will be wearing a pilot's watch which, the Watchmakers of Switzerland explain, has movable rims that calculate air speed, fuel consumption, altitude, distance and arrival time. None with hijacking alarms yet.

Expansion Of Modern Rural Housing Seen Nearer

The supply of modern housing in rural North Carolina may be expanded through a new cooperative effort with private industry announced this week by James T. Johnson, state director for the Farmers Home Administration, rural credit service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Johnson noted that now "builders, developers and others in the home building and financing fields can work directly with prospective borrowers to 'package' applications for rural housing loans."

The director said that participation in the program will be limited to those who can provide necessary information about the home, assure delivery at specified prices, and work directly with the applicant family.

The packager will assemble information on the applicant and the home he wants to buy, build or improve, Johnson said. They will then submit the data on forms supplied through the local FHA offices, situated in 71 towns in the state.

When the information about the building and applicant is complete, the loan can be approved and funds made available by the Farmers Home Administration.

Johnson pointed out that families residing in communities of 5,500 population and under are eligible to apply for FHA loans. In addition, they must be unable to obtain adequate credit from private sources. Approved borrowers receive direct financing through FHA.

Briefing sessions for interested builders and developers are being held throughout the state to explain the new program in detail, Johnson said.

"The first step for a prospective packager is to meet with the FHA county supervisor to obtain detailed information about eligibility requirements for a loan and the type and cost of homes the agency can appropriately finance," he added.

Johnson said that in general, families must lack decent, safe, and sanitary housing, must be unable to obtain credit from other sources and must have sufficient income to repay the loan, pay taxes and insurance, maintain the house and meet other living expenses. Family income may not exceed limits established by FHA.

The state director said that loans may be made to farm owners, nonfarm tract owners, rural residents or nonrural residents with low to moderate incomes who work in a rural area.

Young Lawyers Seek Challenge

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Jack Weiss is 23, a 1968 Yale graduate, and an editor of the 1970 Harvard Law Review. Like many of his colleagues, he finds no appeal in a traditional law practice—trusts, and wills and the like. And he doesn't see "many viable alternatives" throughout the country.

"It's undeniable that many young lawyers like myself are chafing at the bit. The two main alternatives to private practice—public interest law firms and legal services for the poor—raise problems for the new lawyer," he said in an interview.

Public interest law involves litigation on major public issues, often in the form of test cases on such areas as individual rights, pollution and similar concerns.

Weiss said there aren't enough such public interest slots available to the people across the country who want to fill them and he feels legal service work doesn't present enough of an analytical challenge.

As a result, he said, many students are entering traditional private law firms, the highest percentage since at least 1962.

There is a romanticism to the notion of fleeing private practice to do legal work among the poor but there is much doubt that this is the most effective way to use our skills to promote social change. This is why there is no mass flight of young lawyers into storefront law," he said.

Only five of the 381 members of the Harvard Law School class of 1970 entered the legal services practice. Fifty-seven percent of the same class joined private law firms, the highest percentage since at least 1962.

Weiss, who got a taste of traditional practice in a Washington, D.C. law firm last summer, said he hopes to go into public interest law in New Orleans where he grew up and where his family lives.

"I think people who live in an area should be the ones who work to improve conditions there," he said.

"There are a lot of young lawyers floating around who are ionized. One day we'll get together and we'll have something new on our hands. No one knows what it will be but I, for one, am looking forward to it," he said.

Born Without Ears, Child Is Given Plastics

ELENA'S NEW LOOK — Elena Arroyo, born seven years ago without ears, shows her new ones. (AP Wirephoto)

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Elena Arroyo is happy—very happy—because at last she has ears that stick out like any other 7-year-old girl's.

Elena was born without ears in a remote Otomi Indian village 200 miles northeast of Mexico City.

There weren't even any openings where her ears should have been.

"Several tribesmen told her parents that they should kill her," says Miss Vola Griste, a missionary of the Wycliffe Bible Translators who has spent 27 years among the Otomis.

"But her mother had been converted to Christianity, and she told them she couldn't do that, that the Lord gave her to them for some purpose. Right then and there, I pledged to help that little girl."

When Elena was old enough last year, Miss Griste took her to Oklahoma City, where an ear surgeon had offered his services.

"When the doctor finished he told me he didn't think he had done her any good," recalls Miss Griste. He was wrong. After a postoperative period, Elena could hear. Miss Griste considers it a miracle.

Elena began to learn to talk, but Otomi girls wear their hair long, pulled back off the ears, and if Elena couldn't do that she wouldn't have much of a future.

Executives of Realistic Industries, an Oakland firm that makes cosmetic restorations, heard about Elena and offered to help.

Money for the trip was raised through the efforts of James Santos, a United Auto Workers member employed at Realistic. A few weeks ago Elena was brought here to be measured for artificial ears.

This week she came back, a sober little girl with her black hair combed straight down, hiding ears that weren't there.

She walked out radiant, her hair pushed back behind her new ears in proper Otomi style. "She was all giggly," said Miss Griste. "Kept looking at the mirrors around her and taking her hair, a strand at a time, placing it behind her ears."

The plastic ears are attached with a special adhesive.

Elena will stay with Miss Griste until she can be taken back to her home in Mexico.

Hospital Need Put To PTA Members

The P.T.A. of the W. H. Robinson School in Winterville Monday night heard the Pitt County Memorial Hospital Bond story.

C. Henderson introduced "Joe" Pou, general campaign chairman, and Jack Richardson, assistant hospital administrator, as speaker. Afterwards there was an open discussion.

The group heard that if there is no room at the hospital when they or one of their loved ones is ill or in an accident they will have to go to another county hospital. In this event they must have a doctor on the other hospital's staff admit them. This would be an additional cost whereas in Greenville all the doctors are on the hospital staff.

The new hospital will keep medical and hospital costs down with efficiency and labor saving methods. There will be efficiency out of manpower in the new hospital whereas now there are 17-22 patients moved every day.

The private room concept was explained whereby there would be different types of private rooms to fit all insurance classifications. The rate of a private room will cost no more than the average price of a room in the present hospital, according to Richardson.

Although the site has not been selected Pou said the 12 sites now being considered are no more than 1-5 minutes from the present site.

Richardson said that staffing of an enlarged hospital will create job opportunities for all.

Sir Walter's Execution Just 352 Years Ago

By H. G. JONES

RALEIGH (AP) — Sir Walter Raleigh—the soldier, navigator, explorer, historian, author, and poet for whom our capital city is named—was executed under the charge of treason to the British Crown during this week 352 years ago.

Raleigh was born between 1552 and 1554, though very few accounts of events in his life before 1568 have been documented. It was during that year that he is said to have entered Oriel College, Oxford, where he remained three years and left without a degree.

Throughout his life Raleigh wrote poetry, much of it unsigned, which is said not only to have lacked "the ornateness and cool detachment" common to most Elizabethan poetry, but to have been "strongly personalized, emotional, and often somber."

Far from being strictly a man of letters, Raleigh engaged in swashbuckling adventures in the finest tradition of his day and eventually outfitted five expeditions in attempting to establish the English in the New World.

It is said that he never hesitated to hurl himself into rough-and-tumble encounters and once cut a tavern brawler down to size and shut his mouth by tying together his beard and mustache.

When Queen Elizabeth, with whom he had held great favor, died on March 24, 1603, and King James I took the throne, a series of unpleasant events began for Sir Walter Raleigh. He was accused of involvement in one of two treason plots that occurred with James's accession. Though Raleigh denied any knowledge of either plot, he was found guilty by association with those who did conspire against the king's life. The criminal procedure of that age was far removed from today's practice, and the accused was considered guilty until proven innocent.

His jury is reported to have known well the verdict that the Crown wanted in Raleigh's case and also to have been aware that in at least one similar instance a jury had been severely punished for rendering a verdict of "not guilty." The decision to condemn Raleigh to the inhuman sentence reserved especially for those convicted of high treason took only 15 minutes. It read in part, "You shall be hanged and cut down alive, and your body shall be opened . . . Your head (is) to be stricken off your body, and your body shall be divided into four quarters to be disposed of at the king's pleasure. And may God have mercy upon your soul."

Because of various interventions the death sentence was not carried out, but Raleigh was imprisoned for almost 13 years. He finally was released on March 19, 1616—at the age of about 64—in response to his pleas that he be commissioned to conduct a voyage to Guiana in search of gold for the financially ailing king.

The expedition took practically all of Raleigh's remaining financial resources and became a nightmare of misfortune fed by sickness, death ("Corpses were thrown overboard daily from all vessels"), battles with the Spanish, and finally mutiny. To make matters worse, no gold was found.

On Raleigh's return to England, James was newly determined to do away with him permanently. Though several new charges resulting from the ill-fated voyage to Guiana were considered, it was finally decided that he be executed under the original treason conviction of 1603. The one concession to Raleigh was that he be beheaded rather than hanged, drawn, and quartered as originally sentenced. James signed the death warrant on Oct. 28, 1618, and ordered the execution to take place the next day.

Raleigh was shocked at the immediacy of his execution hour, but it is said to have tapped a vein of ironical humor in him. On his last night he was visited by an old friend, who, in response to Raleigh's inquiry, indicated that he would be present for the "event" the next morning. Raleigh reportedly told him, "I don't know what you may do for a place. For my part, I am sure of one." End Adv. PMs Wed. Oct. 28, moved Oct. 24.

Cornel Wilde Tries Ecology Film Story

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Can ecology sell tickets at the box office?

Cornel Wilde thinks so. MGM hopes so. The film company backed him to the tune of $1.3 million to produce and direct "No Blade of Grass," which tells a horror tale of the 1970s; what happens when pollution takes over.

This is Wilde's seventh film as a producer-director, the first in which he does not appear. He starred himself in the previous ones "Storm Fear," "The Naked Prey," "Beach Red."

"For this picture I didn't want to use easily recognizable faces," he explained. "I wanted to have a documentary flavor, a feeling that this world tragedy could be happening."

And it can happen here, Wilde is convinced. The basis of his tale:

It is in England, four or five years from now. World famine has been caused by pollution: a virus mutation has wiped out all grass and grain. China has bombed half of its population so that the other half might have a chance of survival. Human life has virtually ended in South America.

London is being closed down; it can no longer support life. Citizens flee to the countryside, where roving bands maraud, seeking food.

Fantastic? Unbelievable? "I don't think so," insists Wilde. "Look at the fungus that destroyed so much of our corn crop this summer. Look at Pensacola Bay, where millions of fish died from lack of oxygen. Look at Lake Erie, which is totally dead. How do you bring a dead lake back to life?"

"Look at . . ."

Wilde is well-stocked with examples of rampant pollution. "I started getting interested in ecology when I read Rachel Carson's 'Silent Spring,'" he said. "At that time I, like nearly everyone else, thought that she had overdramatized her theme. No one then could imagine that our environment could undergo such severe damage."

"But look today. DDT is banned, and all thinking citizens are concerned by what is happening to the environment everywhere."

Danes Approve CommonMarket

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — Denmark has the backing of its people in its application, along with Britain, Ireland, Norway, for membership in Europe's Common Market.

A survey shows 68 per cent of the population approves the application, although 49 per cent think there should be a national referendum on the matter.

SUCCESS STORY

PLACERVILLE, Calif. (UPI) — Working as a wheelwright in a blacksmith shop here at the turn of the century, John Studebaker accumulated enough capital to establish an automobile factory in South Bend, Ind.

Pollution Spurs A Frustrating 'War'

By BRIAN SULLIVAN
AP Science Writer

Since the early 1900s, air pollution over the North Atlantic Ocean has doubled. It has at least doubled over the Indian Ocean.

In the eastern United States, air pollution may be so widespread as to damage plant life in rural areas far from the urban sources of pollution.

From 1955 to 1969, samples of marine phytoplankton from Monterey Bay, Calif., showed DDT residues had tripled.

Millions—literally millions—of menhaden die in fish kills in Florida and Pennsylvania... woodcocks may be so loaded with DDT as to be unsafe for eating... the official list of endangered species lengthens.

On and on. Despite beginning efforts by government and industry—prodded by environmentalists—the daily accounting of the small details of what is happening to man's environment is often grim.

And the good and the bad intermingle: The use of DDT to control the gypsy moth was discontinued in mid-1960. Now the gypsy moth threatens hardwood timberland in the Allegheny, Appalachian and Ozark mountains. Government scientists try a synthetic sex attractant to detect and control the despoiler.

For all the frustration in the face of sometimes overwhelming problems, the fight to save the environment goes on.

Several years ago traces of lead were found in samples of antarctic ice. Traces of DDT were found in penguins. This fall, the National Science Foundation is sending scientists to sample the relatively pure antarctic atmosphere for whatever traces of lead, copper, iron, aluminum and other metals there may be and compare the levels with those found elsewhere in the world, to see how such pollutants may be transported about the globe.

The Brown Pelican of Louisiana and Southern California has nearly been exterminated because of failure to reproduce. The failure is due to thinning of eggshells caused by the accumulation of chlorinated hydrocarbons such as DDT. Other specials were found to suffer from the same problem this year. Now, scientists from the University of California at Berkeley hope to gather information about the distribution patterns of such hydrocarbons by studying the reproduction of a wide-ranging sea bird, Wilson's Petrel.

The Petrel, ranging from polar to polar region, may serve as a monitor of this kind of pollution.

The finding about air pollution came from scientists at the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Agency—NOAA or "Noah"—after studying new data and comparing it to findings from ocean voyages in the early part of the century.

William E. Cobb, a NOAA meteorologist at Boulder, Colo., said the study found clean air over the South Pacific, emphasizing man's affect on the atmosphere elsewhere.

"We know we are changing the atmosphere," Cobb said. "We must know how and at what rate we are changing it."

So far, he said, nature has been able to take care of her own atmospheric pollution, such as the spewing into the atmosphere of cataclysmic amounts of material from the eruption of the volcano Krakatoa.

"It is essential," Cobb said, "That we keep a close watch on her attempts to handle man's continuous pollution since nature's reaction could be something drastic. Even another ice age is possible."

References to ice ages are often criticized in the continuing debate over the consequences of environmental damage. Critics say there is too little known about the chances of an ice age, then decay, although not in reference to Cobb, what they term excessive emotionalism.

However, "A little hysteria required" is the title of an editorial in a recent issue of Chemical & Engineering News, a publication of the American Chemical Society. In it, Managing Editor Melvin J. Josephs writes:

"If real and steady progress is to be made in improving the quality of the environment, then, perhaps, continuous and steady, albeit modest, inputs of alarm, panic and hysteria are required of interested citizens. Otherwise progress comes haltingly, if at all..."

"Only when the complaints of the citizenry have become strident, when some measured alarm, panic and hysteria come on the environmental scene, has any real action toward general pollution abatement taken place. The rational, systematic, scientific approach seems to work better with a healthy dollop of emotion added."

The unusual also plays a part in the environmental story:

—A University of Rochester team of scientists has begun a study of Irondequoit Bay, a bay of Lake Ontario. Among the other pollution problems, the team found a "vastly higher" salt concentration than expected. The probable cause: Salt entering the bay in runoff from the area's city streets, where salt is used heavily for snow and ice control during the winter and which motorists long complained rusted their automobiles.

—The Minnesota Conservation Department and Bemidji State College have agreed to make a two-year study of the effects of snowmobiles on the ecology of northern Minnesota. With 114,646 snowmobiles registered as of last July, the teams want to find out if they affect wildlife population, plant life, deer activity. "Most wildlife is under stress during the winter, which massive snowmobile invasion may greatly aggravate," a spokesman said.

Angela Staging Hunger Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — Black revolutionary Angela Davis is on a hunger strike at the jail where she is being held for extradition to California, one of her lawyers says.

Margaret Burnham, the attorney, said Miss Davis refused to eat after being isolated from other prisoners in the Women's House of Detention.

"She is only asking for equal treatment, the same treatment given the other women," Miss Burnham told newsmen Monday.

The Worry Clinic The Mind Can Affect Body

Melvin wonders how adopting a baby will often cause a formerly sterile wife to become pregnant. This illustrates the subconscious interaction between the mind and the body. Send for the booklet below, for it also offers simple chemical measures by which to combat sterility in otherwise normal couples.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE O-567: Melvin K., aged 31, is an accountant.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I read your column because you not only dissect human problems scientifically. "But you also prescribe specific, moral antidotes. And mix a lot of common sense that we laymen can understand. "So why do many wives, who have been childless for several years, then adopt a child and maybe within another year, they get pregnant?"

How can the presence of that adopted baby change their physiology?"

This illustrates the body-mind interaction! For a change in your mental outlook can alter the action of the endocrine glands! For example, some wives with an abnormal desire to have a baby, may actually inhibit their menstrual cycles for months on purely a mental basis. They may even show an enlarged abdomen, as if they are 6 or 8 months pregnant. We call this an example of pseudocyesis (false pregnancy). You readers are also well aware of the fact that worry and apprehension may predispose you to peptic ulcer. For chronic tension causes more gastric juice to be secreted in the stomach. Worry can likewise raise your blood pressure alarmingly. And caused angina pectoris! In an early Case Record, I mentioned the Army Colonel in Tennessee who consulted me during World War II, for though his blood pressure was 135-85 when taken by a civilian doctor, the Army medic clocked it at 219. "Dr. Crane," he said, "I have always had a phobia of Army doctors so I could feel myself getting tense and jittery as soon as the Army medic put the cuff on my arm to take my blood pressure. "He then urged me to wait 10 days and come back again, for he wisely figured I had a 'complex' of some sort. "During that 10-day wait, I consulted a couple of civilian medics, who got my top readings at 134 and 136, so that 135 must have been about right. "But when I returned to the Army doctor, he found it to be 222."

Please note that this was an elevation of almost 90 points! And due solely to his mental attitude! There are two distinct nervous systems in the human body. One involves brain and spinal cord, so it deals with thinking and our responses to the external world. The other nervous system is the "autonomic," which controls our automatic actions, such as breathing, heart rate, blood pressure, sweating, etc. But those two "ignition systems," as it were, though normally independent, still are connected with nerves at each vertebra. That is why it is mechanically possible for our thoughts to influence our internal glands and thus produce peptic ulcers, angina pectoris, spastic colitis and even frustrate a wife's becoming preg-if she frets and worries abnormally about her childlessness. When she forgets her basic anxiety as she then responds to the cooing of her adopted infant, her physiology seems to get back to normal in many cases, after which she may get pregnant. Send for my medical booklet "Facts About Pregnancy," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents. It also explains simple chemical methods by which to increase a wife's likelihood of pregnancy. (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

West opened the three of diamonds. East put up the ace and returned the four. South put up the queen and West was in with the king. The latter realized that he could safely exit with the jack of diamonds, forcing dummy to ruff, but he decided instead to put the declarer to an immediate guess in the club suit—and he shifted to the nine of clubs. He reasoned as follows: If clubs were left untouched and it developed that declarer required additional tricks late in the play, he might fall back on a club finesse. At trick three, however, the declarer might well be reluctant to commit himself in the suit. South put up the ace of clubs from dummy, led a heart to the king, cashed the ace and ruffed his remaining diamond with the eight of hearts. The ace of spades was played and a small spade led, declarer finessing the jack. When the ten dropped from West's hand, South would have welcomed another entry to dummy to repeat the spade finesse. Declarer exited with a trump. East was in and he returned a diamond. South ruffed, crshed the last heart and the king of spades, however East took the setting trick with the queen of spades. In the absence of West's early club shift, declarer would have retained the ace of clubs as a late entry to repeat the spade finesse. South was in position to save the game at the end if he had merely retained the ace of spades in dummy. It is suggested that he lead the three of spades first and put in the jack from his hand. When the finesse succeeds, a spade is returned to North's ace and with the fall of the ten, declarer is able to finesse the nine on the return.

Six Winners In ECU Auditions

Six young musicians from East Carolina University's School of Music were winners in the 1970 North Carolina Music Teachers Association auditions held Saturday at ECU, this year's host for the annual state meet.

Donna Stephenson, a junior-voice student from Benson was winner in the voice category. As a sophomore, Miss Stephenson appeared as soloists in several public ECU concerts. An alternate winner in voice was Linda Green, graduate student from Ogden, Illinois. Mrs. Gladly White is teacher for both the young singers.

Senior student Mary Louise Spain, whose home town is Hempstead, N.Y. was named winner in the piano division. Honorable mention went to Sylvia Tunnell, a junior from Elizabeth City. Both pianists are

ECU String Trio Giving Free Concert

Another first of the 1970-71 season is taking place tomorrow night when East Carolina University's String Trio presents a concert of two major works at the School of Music's Recital Hall at 8:15 p.m. This is a free concert, open to the public.

Paul Topper, violinist, Rodney Schmidt, violist, and Peter Dundon, cellist, all faculty-artist members of the School of Music, will play the "Diver-timento in E-flat," by Mozart and Ernst von Dohnanyi's "Serenade, Opus 10."

The Mozart work, composed in 1788 after the completion of his last symphonies, is from his most mature period. In addition to the usual sequence of fast-slow-menet-fast movements typical of most classical chamber music, the divertimento form is distinguished by the insertion of two additional movements after the menut, both incorporating unusual musical ideas.

Dohnanyi's "Serenade", composed about 1909, is in five movements. It owes much of its charm and brilliance to 19th century Slavic music where the violin is a favorite folk-music instrument. The work opens with a march movement, followed by an impassioned Romanza, a fast moving Scherzo and ends with variations and final rondo.

This is Dundon's first appearance with the trio. Topper and Schmidt have been heard in previous seasons of concerts at ECU and in children's concerts at Sheppard Memorial Library. Admission to tomorrow night's concert is on a first-come first-seated basis.

students of Dr. Robert Carter. Allen Harris, a graduate student from Lynbrook, N.Y. received an honorable mention for organ. He is a student of Dr. Robert Irwin.

The final category for which ECU students received recognition was in composition. In this field, Eric Benson, a North Carolinian from Reidsville, was state winner. His teacher is composer - in residence Gregory Kostek.

Police List 2 Collisions

More than $1,000 in damages was reported by police in two traffic collisions investigated here yesterday.

Cars driven by Janet Marie Boyd, 20, of Raleigh and Timothy Craig Breslin, 24, of Annandale, Va., collided about 5:25 p.m. at the intersection of Fourth and Harding Streets and resulted in an estimated $500 damage to the Boyd auto and about $100 damage to the Breslin car.

Police charged Breslin with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety.

Jennie Lee Baird, 18, of South Mills was charged with following too closely after officers investigated a 3:15 p.m. collision at the intersection of Evans and Eighth Streets.

Investigators reported the Baird car collided with a vehicle operated by Grace Wilson Bullock of 109 B West 13th St.

Damage was set at $125 to the Bullock car and $300 to the Baird auto.

No injuries were reported in the mishaps.
