Disruptive Students Escorted Off Campus

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer
An attempt by about 50 black students to disrupt activities at Rose High School this morning failed when the group was escorted off the senior high campus. Later 32 of the group were taken into police custody when they failed to disperse on a site along 14th Street on an East Carolina University dormitory parking lot. Eight or nine of these are juveniles.

suspended. School staff members, consulting the list, notified those who were on the list that they must leave the school. Shortly after nine o'clock, the group assembled in the bus loading area. They talked briefly with Assistant Principal Clarence Gray and teacher-counselor David Barnhill. They were quiet and orderly in their assembly in this area.

Chief of Police Tommy Gladson several times requested the students to get on the bus which had been provided to take them home. After a few minutes, when students failed either to get on the bus or to leave the campus on foot, law enforcement personnel from the city police department and the Pitt County sheriff's office arrived and escorted the students to 14th Street. The exit was an orderly one, with law enforcement personnel walking behind the group of black students.

Gray said that grievance committees, human relations groups and other channels were available to any student or group of students who felt they had grievances. "These students need to be listened to," he commented, "and we will continue to make efforts to find out what disturbs them." He indicated however, that they must learn to do these things in the right way and to realize they cannot create disturbances.

Points To A Small Group

Ernest Adams, Jr., president of Rose High School's Student Government Association, blames disruptions at the school on a small group of students.

The statement followed a ten o'clock meeting of the SGA this morning — a meeting scheduled previous to the disturbances this morning.

"We are anxious for the public to know that it is just a small group of kids who really don't know what they are doing. Most of the students here want everybody to know they don't at all approve of what this small group is doing."

Adams added that "the big majority of our students are working to support the efforts of Mr. Alligood and all the staff members who are trying to make this a good school."

Adams noted that after the problems created by actions of some students yesterday and again this morning, that many students had talked to him, hoping that the viewpoint of the majority of students could be made known to the public.

Assassin Alert In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — A report of two men, one with an automatic rifle, driving within a mile of a hotel where President Nixon spent the night prompted suburban police to alert federal authorities today about a possible assassination plot.

Illinois State Police issued an all-point bulletin for the men who officers said were wanted for questioning about their presence in the area.

The President arrived at O'Hare International Airport Wednesday night and was staying in a motel not far from the airport in northwest Chicago, before resuming his campaign for Republican candidates in next week's election.

State police said they received information on the two men from police in Arlington Heights, a northwestern suburb.

The FBI in Chicago said it had been informed and was investigating.

L. Joseph, Ostermann of Arlington Heights said the informant reported the two men were traveling in a late-model black-over-blue car and one was believed carrying an automatic rifle.

He said the men were described as white males, about 25, and reportedly were sighted in Schiller Park, a western suburb, about a mile from the hotel where the President spent the night.

Ostermann said the information was provided by the Arlington Heights police detective bureau, which obtained it from "a reliable informant."

The informant, who was not identified, told detectives the driver of the car was brown-haired and bearded and that the passenger had dark blond hair and wore large sunglasses.

Rezoning Request For New Shopping Area Is OK'd By Commission

By JERRY RAYNOR

A request, made by David A. Evnas, for property located on U.S. 264 by-pass to be rezoned Shopping Center, was recommended for approval by Greenville's Planning and Zoning Commission last night and will now go to the City Council for a public hearing.

Jenkins Opens Hospital Drive

"Do we, the voters of Pitt County vote yes on November 3 and provide an adequate hospital for our citizens, our friends, our loved ones, or do we vote no and place them and ourselves in jeopardy?" Dr. Leo Jenkins asked those attending the Greenville kickoff meeting for the hospital bond issue campaign at the courthouse here last night.

He continued, "in my opinion, this question will be one of the most important votes cast in our county during the past and present decades.

"We must begin a new hospital. Many people ask, 'Why? Cannot our present hospital serve our needs a few more years?' The answer is obvious to all who have been in that increasingly crowded, depressing place within the past four years.

"Suppose the bond issue is voted down. What happens then? Only one of two things can happen. One is that the county could get out of the hospital business by turning it over to a private corporation. This was considered several months ago and rejected. I understand, by the county authorities because none of the several interested corporations would guarantee admission to all patients who need hospital care. And no guarantees would exist to hold room rates and other fees to a reasonable level. Don't forget, private corporations are in business to make a profit in order to pay dividends to their stockholders.

"The second alternative is that the present hospital will serve as best it can. How many people can you put into the halls? It wouldn't be long until patients would have to be turned away. I, for one, have no desire to take a giant step backward and carry any of my family to Durham or Chapel Hill. And they have waiting lists, too, you know.

"If the bond issue fails, some of our doctors are going to pull up and leave, not because of resentment, but because they are just as frustrated as their patients over the waiting for

Commissioner Clarence Tugwell made a motion that the commission "unequivocally recommends to the City Council, without a public hearing by Planning and Zoning, the rezoning of two parcels of land to shopping center zoning."

Evans sought rezoning only of a portion of the Harrington property in his request, but the commissioners were of the opinion that since shopping center zoning is more restrictive than highway commercial already approved for part of the area, it would be beneficial to both planners and the city to make the entire area into one zone, the more restrictive shopping center one.

Kenneth Hite, attorney who assisted Evans in presentation of facts for the commissioners, said consideration of this tract of land as a possible site to construct a mall-type shopping area followed "a suggestion this honorable body made. We are pleased with your recommendation."

An earlier public hearing of a site in the Golden Place-Cedar Lane vicinity for a mall shopping center had failed to elicit a favorable response from residents in the area.

Hite and Evans mentioned that the principals concerned have acquired options covering property which they have an

Withdrawal Timetable Negotiable

By STEPHENS BROENING
Associated Press Writer
PARIS (AP) — The United States today flatly rejected the North Vietnamese-Viet Cong demand for the removal of the top three men in the Saigon government. But it said the Communists' other basic demand at the Paris peace talks—the unconditional withdrawal of all American troops by next June 30—is negotiable.

posals offers a reasonable basis for negotiating our differences on this issue.

"You also ask whether we will agree to your demand that changes be made in the government," he said. "There should be no mistake about our answer to this question. As the President said on Oct. 7, this is a patently unreasonable demand and is totally unacceptable."

Bruce also said South Vietnam "has offered to discuss with you unconditionally all aspects of a political settlement." This is something the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have refused to do.

Earlier in the meeting, South Vietnamese Ambassador Pham Dang Lam rejected both the two basic Communist demands as "unacceptable" preconditions for serious talks. He said the North Vietnamese-Viet Cong insistence on acceptance of these two points was proof that "your main concern is a total victory and not a negotiated peace."

"You may not like the answers," Ambassador David K. E. Bruce told the Communists at the 90th weekly session of the talks, "but I wish to leave you in no doubt that these are serious responses designed to lead to real discussion of the issues involved in a settlement."

"We are ready to negotiate an agreed timetable for complete withdrawals as part of an overall settlement," Bruce said, "... but a timetable for U.S. troop withdrawals cannot be established in isolation. Our pro-

Sea Lions Die

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Dead sea lions washing up on California beaches contained the highest concentrations of DDT ever recorded in sea life, scientists say. But they think the animals died of something else.

"We are still checking," Dr. John Phillips of the Hopkins Marine Station at Pacific Grove, said Wednesday. "It could be due to many things."

Whatever it is, the affliction has caused at least 60 deaths in six weeks.

Dr. Richard Hubbard of the Marine Mammal Study Center in Fremont, said most of the victims have been young, maturing "teen-age type" sea lions, suggesting some infection to which their parents have developed an immunity.

Phillips said pesticide counts in blubber examined in autopsies ran as high as 3,900 parts per million. He added that the highest level ever measured before in sea life was 1,029 parts per million in a starry rock fish in Southern California's Santa Monica Bay, recently listed as having the highest pesticide contamination of any coastal waters in the country.

"This is pretty wild," he said. "We never expected anything of this magnitude, but we are not attributing the epizootic to DDT." An epizootic is the animal life equivalent of an epidemic.

Airports Failed Anti-Hijack Test

LONDON (AP) — A newsman reported today that he flew 2,000 miles across Africa and Europe and passed through four international airports with a hand grenade in his briefcase.

He was questioned or searched at Lagos, Kano, Rome and London, but the weapon went undetected.

Richard Shears of the London Daily Sketch said he brought the British Mills bomb from Nigeria. Its fuse and explosive charge had been removed.

"I brought it to test the anti-hijack measures which are now mandatory at almost every international airport," Shears wrote. "And I must report that although the checks are there and they take quite a long time, they are neither efficient nor effective."

He said that at Lagos his bags were searched, but no one asked about his briefcase. At Kano, his typewriter was partly dismantled and an official asked what was in the briefcase. "Only some newspapers," he replied—and was allowed through.

At the Rome airport he walked around for more than an hour "swinging the briefcase ostentatiously." He dropped it behind the wheels of a DC8 jetliner, and an engineer picked it up for him.

"A policeman kicked it out of the way while I stood at the bar because I had left it in the middle of the walkway," he reported.

Shears said that when he left his plane at London, his pockets were turned out and his camera minutely examined.

"When I was released I said: 'If you had looked in there, you would have found a hand grenade.'"

"In return I got a cold stare and a murmur about people being comedians."

N.Y. Times Co. Is Acquiring Varied Cowles Properties

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times Co. is acquiring a group of newspaper, magazine, television and book company properties—among them the seven million-circulation Family Circle magazine—from Cowles Communications Inc.

Gainesville Sun and the Ocala Star-Banner; Cambridge Book Co., which specializes in educational reading material, and the Modern Medicine group of professional magazines in the medical and dental fields.

In return, Cowles will receive 2.6 million shares of Times class A common stock, currently worth more than $50 million, an announcement from the Times president, Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, said Wednesday.

Cowles Communications will continue to own and operate Look magazine; Venture magazine; Cowles Book Co.; television stations WESH in Daytona Beach-Orlando, Fla., and KRNT, Des Moines, Iowa; radio stations WREC in Memphis and KRNT in Des Moines; Xograph, the three-dimensional printing process; and other operations.

Proposes Govm't Aid Farmers Switch From Tobacco

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Congress should encourage tobacco farmers to switch to other crops and get out of the tobacco-growing business, former Surgeon General Luther Terry said Wednesday.

It is paradoxical, Dr. Terry said, that the federal government is encouraging people to stop smoking for their health while at the same time spending $73 million a year to subsidize tobacco growers and to promote the sale of American cigarettes abroad.

Terry, now chairman of the National Interagency Council on Smoking and vice president for medical affairs of the University of Pennsylvania, was surgeon general in 1964 when his advisory committee issued a report relating cigarette smoking to ill health.

He told a press conference that he is sympathetic to the problems of tobacco farmers and that Congress should assist them financially in making a transition from one type of farming to another.

He noted that the tobacco industry is diversifying, but pointed out that this is easier than switching from one crop to another.

American cigarettes are sold abroad under congressional authorization to dispose of crop surpluses, and Terry said the cigarette packages sold in export do not carry the warning printed on packages sold domestically.

Terry discussed with newsmen a lecture on cigarette smoking he gives today at a session of the American Public Health Association's annual meeting.

He said that while it is encouraging that the number of adult cigarette smokers has declined 3 per cent a year over the past three years, there has been a "temporary setback" among teenagers.

A recent Public Health Service study indicates that smoking among teen-agers rose 3 to 5 per cent over the 1968 level, he said.

Another study is planned, he said, and if this trend is found to be continuing ways will have to be found to convince youths that smoking is dangerous to their health.

The lower tar and nicotine content in cigarettes in recent years represents some progress, Terry said, but added that "the degree of protection and security afforded by higher quality tobacco and filters is not very reassuring."

Miss Christine Mumford Weds Sunday Afternoon

AYDEN — The marriage of Miss Christine Mumford and Edward Malcolm Beaman Jr. was solemnized Sunday afternoon at three thirty o'clock in the First Baptist Church here.

The Rev. Gilbert Mister officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Mumford. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Beaman Sr. of Greenville.

A program of wedding music was presented by Miss Virginia Belle Cooper of Ayden, organist, and Miss Susan McDonald of Orangeburg, S. C., soloist.

The couple knelt for their vows on a gold and white prie dieu amid a setting of bridal palms and floor candelabra holding lighted cathedral tapers. Standing baskets of white mums and gladioli were placed on each side of the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown designed along skimmer lines fashioned with a sabrina neckline, calla point sleeves and appliques of lace with pearl motifs featured on the front of the gown. The detachable chapel train was edged with rosepoint lace.

Her veil of imported silk illusion fell from a headpiece of peau de soie flowers. She carried a traditional bouquet of French mums and daisy chrysanthemums accented with tips of greenery and tied with streamers of satin and tulle.

Miss Louise Mumford, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Her formal gown of gold bonded crepe featured a scoop neckline and long full sleeves. The empire waist and sleeves were trimmed with moss green velvet ribbon and daisies. She wore a bow of gold bonded crepe in her hair. She carried a nosegay of yellow and bronze mums tied with streamers of moss green and yellow satin ribbon and tulle.

Bridesmaids were Miss Peggy Sumrell of Oxford, Miss Frankie Pierce, Miss Janie McLawhorn of Ayden, Miss Sandra Grant of Charlotte, and Miss Vandie Beaman, sister of the bridegroom.

Their formal gowns were of moss green bonded crepe made similar to the honor attendant. They wore bows of moss green bonded crepe in their hair. They carried nosegays of white and yellow mums tied with moss green ribbon.

Edward Malcolm Beaman Sr. was his son's best man. Ushers were Mike Smith of Richmond, Va., Johnny Dickinson of Farmville, cousin of the bridegroom, Ronald Vincent, Kenny Beaman and Jeff Beaman of Greenville, brothers of the bridegroom.

After a wedding trip, the couple will be at home in Portsmouth, Va., where the bridegroom is employed by the Horace Mann Insurance Agency.

The bride is a graduate of Ayden High School and attended Wake Forest University. The bridegroom is a graduate of Rose High School and attended East Carolina University.

Reception Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church.

The serving table was covered with a floor length cloth of white satin and lace with bows of yellow and green satin at the corners.

A silver candelabra with a floral arrangement of yellow and white snapdragons and gold pom poms centered the table.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill McLawhorn received the guests. Mrs. A. M. Mumford, aunt of the bride, served the wedding cake after the bride and bridegroom cut the first slice. Mrs. Larry Davis poured punch and Mrs. Gwendolyn Haller, grandmother of the bride, attended at the register.

The Beaman-Mumford wedding party was honored at a wedding breakfast Sunday morning at the home of Dr. and Mrs. A. M. Mumford of Greenville.

The bridal party was entertained at an after-rehearsal party by the bridesmaids at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill McLawhorn.

A Founders' Day celebration in New Bern was shared by several members of the Pilot Club of Greenville, Inc. and Mrs. Blanche Jones gave the invocation at the dinner-program meeting of the club held Monday night.

The celebration was commemorating the 49th anniversary of Pilot International. Mrs. Frances Keever, president-elect of Kannapolis, gave the main address.

The business meeting for this month was held in the board room of the North Carolina Bank Building. A report from the Eastern Area Workshop included those in attendance were as follows: Mrs. Janice Buck; Mrs. Winona Daniel; Mrs. Ouida Deber; Mrs. Sue Howell; Miss Mildred Mallard, president; Miss Elizabeth Quinerly; Mrs. Sue Smith; Mrs. Janie Gold Starling; and Mrs. Frances White.

The club voted to make a contribution to the Boys Club. A letter of appreciation was read from the Trainable Three Class of E. B. Aycock School thanking the club for a donation and for a wagon. The wagon was given for one student who is unable to walk and it can be used also for "play time" by the other children.

The members are "lending a helping hand" to the Eastern Tuberculosis and Respiratory Diseases Association in the work involved in getting envelopes ready for mailing.

Plans for this year include sponsoring a cancer clinic, Safety Town for pre-schoolers and the organization of a lending closet.

Spiro Wasn't So Well Briefed

Vice President Agnew may know something about the "little nuisance taxes" Maryland had while he was governor, but obviously he knows little about the tax revenue structure in North Carolina.

During his appearance in Raleigh this week, he declared that a Republican legislature in this state could get rid of the "nuisance taxes on cigarettes, soft drinks and gasoline."

North Carolina's taxes on these three items, while they may be irritating to many taxpayers, cannot in any sense be termed "nuisance taxes" which do more in the way of irritating taxpayers than in producing revenues for state operations.

The state's gasoline tax—including the two cents added by the 1969 legislature—generates several hundred million dollars each biennium for highway construction and maintenance as well as for municipal street improvement programs.

The gasoline tax may be a nuisance to some people, but it would take a major revision in the state's tax structure to make up for the revenue that would be lost if, as in Agnew's words, this "little nuisance tax" were removed altogether from gasoline.

The state taxes on soft drinks and cigarettes enacted last year are new to North Carolina, but they are old hat in the tax structures of many other states. North Carolina became the last state to place a tax on cigarettes when the legislation was enacted last year.

"Nuisance taxes" they may be in North Carolina, but similar tax levies make up a major part of the structure in states where there has been Republican control of legislatures off and on for many years. If a Republican controlled legislature in North Carolina would assure an end to such taxes, as the vice president asserted in his speech, why haven't such taxes disappeared from other states where there are Republican controlled legislatures?

Vice President Agnew's comments on North Carolina's tax structure and its legislature—like many other of the vice president's pronouncements—may sound logical at first, but they fail to stand the test of close examination.

Really Helped County Blood Donors At ECU

East Carolina University came through splendidly in the Bloodmobile visit of Monday and Tuesday.

The Bloodmobile collected 396 units from 489 persons who volunteer to donate on those two days. Chairman Doug Morgan reported that 186 units were collected Monday and 210 Tuesday.

The Bloodmobile had been 260 units behind on collections this year, but after the outstanding turnout at ECU the gap has been narrowed to 146 units.

East Carolina students have consistently supported the Bloodmobile here and this is very much to their credit.

Pulse-Taking North Carolina

By JOHN KILGO

(First of Three Parts) North Carolinians are concerned about their future and like the rest of the nation, they are a people divided.

Generally, they think taxes are too high, crime is too prevalent, and government has become too far removed from them.

I have just returned from a 2,400-mile trip across North Carolina that took me to 72 of the State's 100 counties and gave me an opportunity to talk with nearly 300 people.

The purpose of the trip was to feel the pulse of the average Tar Heel, to see what he was thinking about his State and Nation. I interviewed bankers, elderly store owners, college students, straights and hippies, policemen, whites and blacks.

Horace Lindsey is a 20-year-old Negro, a high school graduate who lives in Wadesboro.

"I don't approve of any kind of violence," Lindsey said. "I don't like to see nobody hurt. But the blacks had to make people listen. Everybody just laughs at the demonstrations...I don't know. It'll be a hundred years before whites and blacks learn to live together."

Clifton Chadwick, 62, white, works with building materials in Jacksonville in Onslow County. He, too, is disturbed, because he feels things are coming unglued for the working man.

"Now it looks like everything is done for the minorities and the rich," Chadwick says. "I'm supposed to keep my mouth shut until it's time to pay taxes and then the government calls my name. Nobody gives a damn about the working man anymore."

The Tar Heel Mood, 1970. The whites and the blacks, the young and the old...they all seem to think government isn't paying them enough attention, isn't responsive enough to their needs.

Johnny Ellison, 32, is a Negro from Hamlet who works at the Winn-Dixie store in Rockingham. He says: "Maybe the country would get along pretty fair if (Vice President) Agnew would keep his mouth shut."

Terry Wilkerson, 29, white, father of three children, owner of Wilkerson's Shoe Store in Lumberton. He says: "Agnew is outspoken. He reminds me of Truman and he's saying things that need saying."

North Carolinians are worried. They're worried about school desegregation. Robert Hoppe, 28, manager of a Shell service station on Main Street in Forrest City: "I just don't like the way they're going about integrating these schools. I don't believe in it."

The most - talked - about one thing I found on my trip was the State's two - cents - a - gallon gasoline tax, passed by the 1969 General Assembly. Most of the people don't like it and they have strong feelings about it.

The picture I've painted up to now might seem dark and maybe it should, but there is a ray of sunshine behind all of this. While I found North Carolinians disturbed and divided, I found that in most part they are not bitter. They seem to be willing to listen to the other man's side and make this complex society work.

I interviewed students on campuses at Wingate College, East Carolina University, N.C. State, and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Almost to the person they echoed the sentiments of 19-year-old Ginger Doughton, a UNC at Chapel Hill sophomore from Raleigh. Said Miss Doughton:

"Stories about the generation gap are exaggerated. We can still talk to adults and are willing to listen and exchange views. And we do love this country."

The Tar Heel Mood, 1970: Division among the State's people, concerned about crime and taxes and race, and worried about government seemingly getting bigger and farther away. But underneath all of this, North Carolinians appear optimistic and hopeful about the future.

I travelled from Asheville in the West, through the Piedmont, the Sandhills, Wilmington, Greenville, Burlington and Kannapolis. In Part Two of this series, the people put it in their own words.

With luck and a last-minute push, the amendments will carry — but public indifference is massive, and the story provides some useful instruction.

The States of this federal union are engaged in a struggle for substantive survival. I emphasize that word "substantive." The States will survive in form, of course, so long as the U.S. Constitution endures, but form and substance are two different things. If federalism is to have real meaning, the States must make some real contribution toward the governmental process. Otherwise the form is dumbshow.

Over the past 10 or 15 years, recognizing the peril, a number of States have sought to cast off the fetters of horse-and-buggy constitutions. It has proved a discouraging labor. Sometimes, as in Maryland, the proponents of constitutional reform have lost touch with political reality; they have tried too much, and lost the whole bundle. But even modest efforts at reform frequently have failed at the polls.

Apathy is one enemy. Rightly or wrongly, an impression is fixed that Washington is the one place where the action is. State capitals seem not very exciting, or not very important, and state governments are seen as merely small fry, permitted to play pig-tail in the big boys' softball game. Nobody gives a particular hurrah about the ability of State governments effectively to govern.

But that is not strictly true. In Virginia, as in other States, the movement toward constitutional reform has encountered opposition from the plot boys — the darkly distrustful apostles of doom who perceive a horrid risk of change. Squinting and scowling, crouched in fearful array, they peer from the narrow windows of their political prisons, and see nothing but conspiracy outside.

Four Virginia governors have had a hand in recommending the pending revision; but governors are not to be trusted. The major reforms twice passed the State legislature unanimously, but legislators are not to be trusted either. An impressive array of public and private organizations, ranging from the court clerks to the AFL-CIO, have endorsed the proposals, but all of them — all of them — are "co-plotters."

Begging Tricks In N. Y.

By JEFFREY D. ALDERMAN Associated Press Writer NEW YORK (AP) — For the panhandlers of New York City, the days of "Can you spare a dime for a cup of coffee?" are long gone.

As in any modern American business, panhandling has come up with a new bag of gimmicks to increase productivity.

A man, wearing a neat business suit and carrying a slick valise, comes up to you in the Port Authority bus terminal near Times Square.

"Hey buddy," he says. "Help me out, huh? Lost my wallet somewhere and haven't got enough change to get home to New Jersey. Need 40 cents."

He is difficult to resist. But despite his well-groomed, commuter look, the man is probably a panhandler.

Another man, observed recently on a Manhattan street corner, has come up with a more elaborate and probably more profitable version of the same game. He held a fist-full of cash and stopped passersby saying: "Do me a favor, pal? My car got towed away and I don't have enough cash to get it out of the police garage. All I need is four more bucks and I'll have the $75 for the fine and the towing fee."

Clever, huh? So clever, in fact, that this panhandler and other industrious beggars may take in as much as $200 or more a week by simply asking for spare change.

Panhandlers tend to congregate in areas where they will meet unsuspecting, less hardened out-of-towners. The bus and railroad stations are favorite spots, as are the major tourist attractions.

Music is often used to lure nickels and dimes from people. A man who stations himself daily near St. Patrick's Cathedral plays the violin while people drop change into a hat on the sidewalk. Another fellow plays a trumpet daily near a major department store. He has a dish for change and a sign saying, "Trying to get better."

Passengers getting off buses at the Port Authority often have their bags grabbed by persons who say they'll take them to the nearest taxi stand. Once at the taxi stand, they demand a dollar for their services. Official porters charge 35 cents and no tipping is permitted.

Begging is against the law. In New York it is illegal for persons to loiter for the purpose of begging or soliciting. The maximum penalty is $250. Few beggars, however, are ever arrested. Most citizens don't bother turning in complaints.

Opinions In Brief

"Considering that George Washington started the U. S. government with nine executive agencies, employing a total of 1,000 federal workers, this gives you some idea of the developments since that time." —Bonduel (Wisc.) Times.

"We read that Ralph Nader says the reconstituted tobacco in some cigars, cigarettes and cigarillos contain glass fibers, rock wool, diatomaceous earth and maybe asbestos. So, whaddaya want, Ralph? Good grammar or good taste?" —Roanoke (Va.) Times the pet shop," she said. "My doctor says it's exactly the same thing, for $1.79."

Other Nations Act To Protect Foods America's concern over DDT, mercury and other deleterious chemicals in food it shared by other nations. The Foreign Agriculture Service reports that Poland has introduced a law requiring supervision of foodstuffs from raw to finished product; Britain has tightened the use of antibiotics in animal food; Canada has restricted the sale of pesticides containing mercury and the use of cyclamates to sweeten foods; and Sweden has forbidden the import of hormone-treated beef and cut the allowable amount of rapeseed oil, which affects heart tissues, in margarine.

The September Consumer Price index shows that medical costs are 167.6 per cent of the 1957-59 average. That's for people, not dogs. Here is another interesting factor:

An M. D. prescribed a 2 per cent cortisone salve for a skin affliction suffered by Schnickelfritz's master. It cost $6 for a tiny tube. A girl at a pet shop volunteered the fact that she too was using a 2 per cent cortisone salve. "I get the pet kind here at

Other Editors Say 'Southern Accent'

(The Wilson Times)

It was a political rally, the biggest you will attend, but take out the few political darts aimed at the radical liberals in the Democratic party and there wasn't anything you could object to except possibly the differences of opinions. In fact from the applause and cheering there was general agreement with what Vice President Agnew said in Raleigh last night.

Vice President Agnew has a comfortable stage presence. He has an easy manner, speaks well, there are no gesturing or rabble rousing elements present and he knows where to inject the famous Spiro humor.

He was particularly generous in his treatment of Galifianakis whom he hopes to unseat. Both are Greeks and he referred to this.

His jobs were at the radical - liberals in the Democratic party. The crowd liked his references to Manhattan and Georgetown.

As to this definition of Southern strategy, the majority of Democrats wish fervently it could be carried out as defined last night by the vice president — equal treatment of the South with the rest of the nation.

His defense of the President's appointees to the Supreme Court and his avowed goal of appointing a Southern constructionist has been heard many times but it always pleases the South, especially the point that the ones turned down by the Senate were good enough to be federal judges.

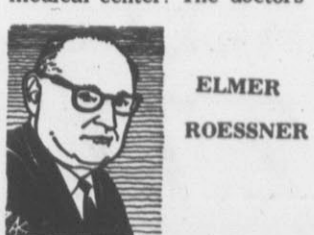

As to busing to achieve racial balance, which the President opposes, this has been said many times and applauded and this will continue to bring applause. But there is little chance now unless the Supreme Court decision goes in that direction.

You could go on and on quoting the vice president and his clever quips, but when it comes down to the meat of his address, what he said pleased the large audience as shown by the often and prolonged applause. The speech was written with a "Southern accent."

And it was not a rally to bring on a controversy, for the sake of controversy, but for political discussion. And the crowd was well behaved, with only the typical political signs, banners and fanfare.

By ELMER ROESSNER Fritz suddenly became partially paralyzed. He could not control the muscles of his legs.

His girl friend took him to a medical center. The doctors held a consultation and examined him and took an X ray of his back, which showed some calcium deposits.

They kept Fritz overnight for examination and gave him two injections. They also clipped some toenails that were bothering him.

In the morning they sent him home, prescribing rest, and giving him pills for 10 days. A refill for the prescription at a drug store cost $4.50.

During the next four weeks, Fritz's girl friend called the doctors and reported he was improving. They advised her to continue the treatment and to bring him back in two weeks.

She did and there was another consultation and examination. Because of the improvement, the doctors suspended the daily pill dosage and gave Fritz antibiotic pills for a mouth infection. They said he was well on the way to recovery.

Unstaggering Bill The costs of the first visit, including Xray and pills, was $20. The cost of the second was $5. Those were the only charges, except for the prescription refill and phone calls. You see, Fritz is a dog, my

Strength For Today

IT HAS ALWAYS BEEN SO A mother was holding forth on the matter of religious training in the home.

"Children are not mature enough to get anything out of religious training. The best thing is to wait until they have a little bit of maturity. I do not try to educate my children in matters of religious faith. I am waiting until they are old enough to understand what I am talking about."

"The trouble with that procedure," said one of her listeners, "is that if you do not teach the child, you can be sure the devil is going to teach him." Children are not inert beings that lie about lazily and let events come and go. Every parent needs to realize that children begin learning some years before any definite program of education begins. The baby reaching for an object and grinning when it closes its hand upon it has started to be educated. There are ways in which it may be said that the education of children is almost ended before they come to teen-age. Their companions have been educating them. They have been educated by movies and television. The teenager usually believes that his (or her) parents are hopelessly stupid and behind the times. Just wait till they grow up and they'll show their parents how wrong they are about almost everything. Of course, the ones who get through teenage without corruption or perhaps arrest are just plain lucky. The teenager who believes you are stupid will be laughing about his mistakes and praising your name by the time he (or she) reaches fifty.

GOP 2-Party Goal Now Fact

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH — They liked Spiro.

Upwards of 10,000 Tar Heels — some 7,000 inside Reynolds Coliseum and another 3,000 or so outside — turned out for Vice President Agnew's appearance at a Republican campaign rally here Monday night.

They gave him a cheering, whistling ovation, waved placards proclaiming "Spiro's our Hero" and "God Bless Spiro", and interrupted with applause and laughter 60 times during his half-hour address.

As a GOP Rally in an off-year election, it was phenomenal. Following hard on the heels of President Nixon's visit to Asheville last week, it underscored confidence that two-party politics for this state is no longer an elusive goal but an accomplished fact.

GOP State Chairman Jim Holshouser presided for the rally with obvious relish for its portents for the party. He noted again with pride that North Carolina is the only state without a race for Senator or Governor in which the President and Vice President have campaigned. He reiterated the prediction that important GOP gains are in store when voters go to the polls next Tuesday.

Candidates Spotlighted The men from whose ranks GOP leaders expect victors in the general election shared the platform with Agnew and Holshouser. Six candidates challenging incumbent Democratic Congressman — Frank Everett in the First District, Herbert Howell in the Third, Jack Hawke in the Fourth, Pete Barham in the Sixth, Fred Webber in the Seventh, and Luke Atkinson in the 11th — each had his moments before the audience in the reflected glow of proximity to the Vice President.

Three of four incumbent Republican Congressmen, all involved in contests of greater or lesser intensity, also were present — Wilmer Mizell of the Fifth District, Earl Ruth of the Eighth, and James Brodyhill of the 10th. Absent was the dean of the GOP contingent in Congress, Charles R. J. Jonas of the Ninth.

Those attending the rally greeted the candidates with due enthusiasm, but Agnew was the man they came to see and hear. He gave them an address tailored to their expectations, moderate in tone, magnanimous to Democrats inclined to switch rather than fight, and delivered with a firm and fatherly manner.

They appreciated his solicitous attitude towards the South. "...our 'southern strategy'...means just one thing: it means playing fair with the South." "...the President personally, I personally, this Administration in its entirety salute the South and its people of both races — and that comes from my heart."

They responded warmly to his assurances on economic issues — inflation and textile import quotas. "...the rate of inflation is on its way down...we are definitely winning the inflation fight, and our political critics know it." "...tough problems remain (on textile imports). But you can bank on this: we will keep our word to the great textile industry of the Southland."

The Sensitive Issues But what the crowd really liked was what the Vice President had to say about schools and racial integration, and on the subject of law and order.

"And there's another reason the South stands with Richard Nixon. He's had enough of mollicoddling the criminals in the street and the anarchists on the campus. Many months ago he offered Congress the toughest anti-crime laws in the history of this country — and only by holding their feet to the fire these last few weeks have we gotten some passed."

Those statements brought the most prolonged applause of the evening. It was a clear reading that frustrations over school integration and problems of crime are the matters of deepest concern to voters this election season.

Whether they will decide that ballots for Republican candidates can help find solutions remains to be seen.

As a campaign event, the Agnew rally was a success. It undoubtedly assisted the GOP Congressional hopefuls as an inspiration for their campaign workers, and as an identification with Agnew as a political figure who draws an affirmative response from a broad section of the public.

Spur for Democrats

On the other side, it also spurred Democrats. Any tendency by the majority party to take results for granted has been erased. In that sense, the Vice President may have done an unintentional favor for the opposition.

Senator Sam J. Ervin, Jr., took on the role of the Democratic answer to Agnew. He spoke at a downtown Raleigh rally at midday before the evening GOP affair. Governor Bob Scott and other top state officials joined Ervin before a Fayetteville Street crowd of several hundred for the event which primarily boosted the candidacy of fourth District Congressman Nick Galifianakis.

Kilpatrick . . .

(Continued from page 4) difficulty, perhaps, is that the plot boys have a nugget of sound principle in their tubs of worthless pailings. The principle is that power ought to be delegated sparingly, subject to effective restraint. What they fear in the Virginia revisions — such fears are universal — is that any new delegations of power are likely to be abused.

Every student of Patrick Henry subscribes to the principle. But responsible government depends upon other principles also. If the States are to serve their own people, the States and localities must have room to turn around in. Subject to effective control, through specific constitutional limitations and popular referendums, governments must be able to govern.

The Virginia revisions are elaborately safeguarded by such provisions. The additional debt that might be authorized could not be incurred without the people's approval. Regional governments could not be imposed without the consent of the people in each participating town or county. Yet the plot boys are not persuaded: People can be seduced, they fear; people can be deceived and duped. People ought not to be trusted. It is all a vile subterfuge, concocted by invisible forces out to confiscate firearms and to impose sex education on little children. So vote "no."

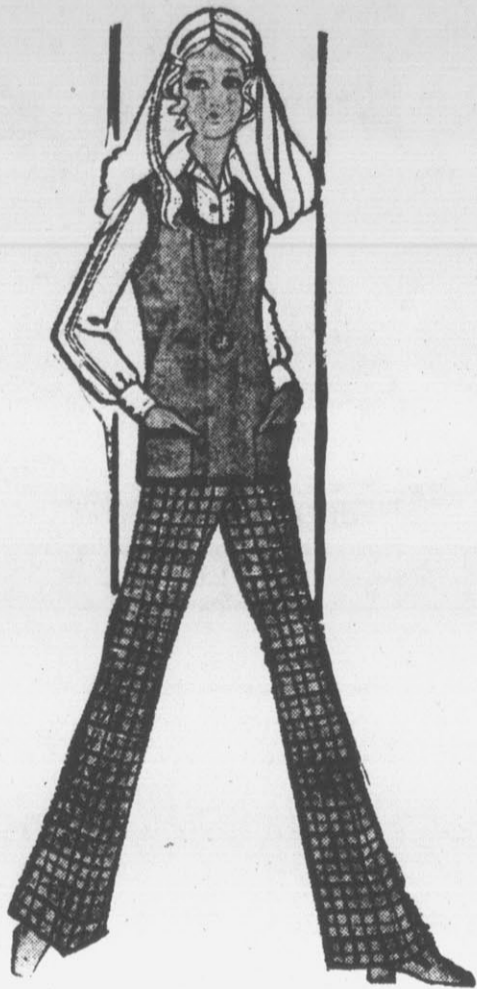

At least 40 States have constitutional questions coming up on Tuesday. Arkansas and Idaho, like Virginia, are proposing major revision. Seventeen States are seeking to modernize their legislative machinery. Alabama, Iowa, Maryland and Montana are proposing conventions.

I venture no blanket endorsement, for some of the propositions may in fact be ill-advised, but the proposals are part of the struggle of the States to survive. These questions merit fair examination, out in the sunlight, free of morbid suspicion and base accusation. If we abdicate to the little fears of little men, leaving the States inert and lifeless, federalism must lose whatever meaning it still retains.

Carnation Co. Agrees Drop Claim

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carnation Co. has promised federal officials it will no longer advertise its "Instant Breakfast" as equal in nutrition to eggs, bacon, toast and orange juice.

Carnation, charged by the Federal Trade Commission with false advertising, made the promise formal in a consent order provisionally accepted today by the FTC.

Final action on the order, containing terms drawn up by FTC staff members, must wait 30 days for public comment.

The complaint that accompanied the order challenged claims made in Carnation's newspaper, magazine, radio and television advertising.

The FTC said the advertisements falsely implied that Carnation Instant Breakfast had as much nutritional benefit as a breakfast of two fresh eggs, two slices of bacon, two slices of buttered toast and an orange or glass of orange juice.

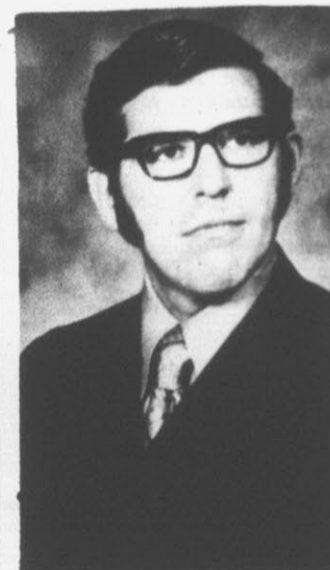

The advertisements, the complaint said, suggested regular use of Instant Breakfast was a good nutritional practice when, in fact, "for good nutrition persons should eat a variety of foods."

Acceptance of the order by Carnation does not constitute an admission of guilt to the charges; rather, it means the company will make no further use of the claims specified in the complaint.

Prepare Big Hallowe'en

A working force of Moose members will descend on their big auditorium Friday evening to transform it into a Halloween partyland.

The annual Moose Halloween carnival begins Saturday at 7:00 p.m. and lasts to 9:30. It is open to all Moose children and their invited guests.

Fourteen booths will be erected for games and other attractions. A costume contest, clowns, prizes and free refreshments and awards are all planned for the affair.

Sam Brooks, chairman of this year's carnival, reports 450 guests were counted at the 1969 party, "and after that we gave up".

The turnout Saturday night is expected to be as large.

Civilization Closing In, Animals Are Fading Away

By BILL WINTER
Associated Press Writer
MISSOULA, Mont. (AP) — Civilization is closing in, even in the high mountain meadows and rushing streams, and the animals are fading away.

The grizzly bear and timber wolf are among the threatened species in the lofty Rocky Mountain ranges of western Montana and in surrounding states of the 29,096,827-acre northern region of the U.S. Forest Service.

This week the Forest Service made public a list of endangered and rare species, saying it is time to begin saving these animals, for there is not much time left.

Included on the list of endangered species, those which face immediate danger of extinction are the timber wolf, the whooping crane and the Montana westslope cutthroat trout.

Listed as rare are the grizzly bear, Arctic graying, spotted bat and prairie falcon.

Howard Foulger is chief of the division of range and wildlife for the northern region, which includes Montana, North Dakota, western South Dakota, northern Idaho and eastern Washington. He says:

"Interest in the preservation of wildlife has increased remarkably in the past few years, but people keep crowding in. The animals may soon have no place to go."

The northern region is lightly populated. Montana, the nation's fourth largest state in land area, has a population of only 694,000, or about 4 persons per square mile.

The state was long rich in wildlife, and monuments mark spots where Indian tribes once herded buffalo to the edge of high cliffs, then stampeded them to their deaths.

Now the reminders of the Wild West, the "buffalo drops," have been replaced by modern-day killers such as guns and chemicals.

Foulger said the region is too big for maintaining exact counts of species. He said a species is determined to be in danger when sightings are infrequent or few are felled by hunters.

Finding a proper balance between the needs of man and those of wildlife is a perplexing one.

Cattlemen regard the timber wolf as the No. 1 threat to livestock in some Northern Region areas, and fight him with poison.

Conservationists, on the other hand, see the wolf as a valuable species, a wild, rugged animal, an important part of the natural environment which deserves preservation.

The grizzly bear, huge, amazingly swift and sometimes vicious, is a fabled symbol of the rugged mountainous country of the West, but man's intrusions into the grizzly's domain have brought tragedy and outcries against the animal.

Park officials have found a partial solution by airlifting the grizzlies to remote areas where meetings with humans are unlikely.

The Forest Service has taken a number of steps to alleviate extinction of certain game.

These include monitoring of streams to assure healthy water for fish, curbing poaching, including that of the endangered peregrine falcon; and cooperation with the Audubon Society in counting and protecting such endangered species as the whooping crane, Tule white-fronted goose and Eskimo curlew. The Forest Service is controlling poisoned bait programs for predators in some parts of the Northern Region, avoiding chemical use in areas where timber wolves and other endangered species might roam.

Opening lead: Ten of ♣

Altho South was well on his way to scoring a profit when he found two kings favorably located, West was not to be caught napping and with one brilliant thrust, he managed to upset the former's four spade contract.

West opened the ten of hearts which was permitted to hold the first trick as East signaled with the six. A heart continuation enabled East to cash out book in the suit. West discarded the six of clubs on the third round and East shifted to the nine of clubs.

Prospects were not very bright for the declarer who was confronted with finessing situations in every suit. The favorable location of the king of clubs, however, was not essential to South's campaign for the dummy's diamond suit offered a potential discard. Declarer accordingly played the ace of clubs and proceeded to test the lie in the other two suits.

A small diamond was led and when West followed with the four, the ten was played from dummy. A spade was returned and when East played the six, South put in the jack from his hand. With both the diamond and spade kings located to declarer's advantage, there appeared to be little more to the hand than repeating the finesses and the eight of diamonds was led.

West has been doing some thinking of his own and realizing that South would routinely mop up the remaining tricks if left to his own devices, he decided that the time had come to interrupt the smooth flow of the play. He put up the king of diamonds, forcing the declarer to play dummy's ace. The spade finesse was repeated and on the next round, South's ace picked up East's king. The queen of diamonds was cashed—however, declarer was blocked out of the North hand and he was obliged to concede a club trick at the end.

If West plays a small diamond when the suit is led for the second time, dummy's jack will hold the trick and after trumps are picked up, the ace of diamonds provides a late entry for North to give declarer a club sluff. Observe that South cannot profitably lead the queen from his hand instead of small diamond, for West can duck and thereby prevent declarer from getting to the dummy a second time to repeat the spade finesse.

Educators At Seminar

A one-day seminar for public school superintendents was conducted by the East Carolina University School of Education in cooperation with the ECU Division of Continuing Education.

The seminar, conducted at the Greenville Golf and Country Club Tuesday, Oct. 8, featured roundtable discussions directed by Dr. Ralph F. W. Brimley and Dr. Ed Carter, professors in the ECU School of Education.

Discussions dealt with aspects of school personnel — job descriptions, selections and employment, staff morale and differential standing.

Thirty-one North Carolina School superintendents attended the seminar.

Names of the superintendents and their counties include:
GREENE COUNTY — George S. Taylor.
MARTIN COUNTY — J. Comer Griffin, R. E. Rogers and Raymond Robertson, Jr.
PITT COUNTY — John Taylor, Jr. and Ott Alford.

Drop Medina As Parade Marshal

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — Army Capt. Ernest L. Medina, a defendant in the alleged My Lai massacre, won't be riding as honorary grand marshal in a Veterans Day parade here next month after all, says the parade chairman.

Paul Balch said Wednesday the invitation which he had personally extended to Medina was withdrawn because of numerous phone calls threatening protests Nov. 8.

Medina, commander of the company which made a sweep through My Lai in March 1968, is stationed at Ft. McPherson, Ga. awaiting trial.

Nixon Keeps Options Open On Agnew Role In 1972

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — President Nixon, carrying his cross-country Republican campaign to the Pacific Coast today, is keeping open his option on whether to back Vice President Spiro T. Agnew as his 1972 running mate.

Before flying to Illinois Wednesday night, Nixon was asked in Texas about a published report that Agnew might be dumped from the GOP ticket in 1972 in favor of Rep. George Bush, provided Bush wins a hotly contested Senate race in the Lone Star State.

"I'll cover that as I get along in the campaign," Nixon replied.

While his response seemed noncommittal, and he never has publicly committed himself to

WATER BOOSTER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Unfortunately, those who must watch calories have a limited choice of thirst quenching liquids, says nutritionist Jean Mayer. He suggests tomato juice, diluted lemon or lime juice, iced (light) tea with lemon —not sugar —and, of course, water, which is calorie-free.

backing Agnew for renomination, the chief executive added a few words certain to encourage his vice president: "I must say that he is one of the great campaigners of all ... I think he is doing a wonderful job."

It was understood that Agnew placed a concerned telephone call to the White House after reading the report that he might be sidetracked.

The story, published in the Dallas Times Herald, was distributed by the Washington Post-Los Angeles Times news service and was written by David Broder.

Jim Allison, deputy chairman of the Republican National Committee, said, "I wish they'd run that story next week ... It doesn't help."

Allison apparently theorized that Texans might interpret the published account as an administration "plant" to win their votes—and react against it.

PROFITABLE AFTERMATH

TOKYO (UPI) — Japanese curio dealers are buying up leaflets dropped over Japan by U.S. bombing planes in 1945 urging Japan to surrender. Dealers are paying 3,000 yen ($8.33) each for surrender leaflets.

Harry Dent, one of Nixon's chief political lieutenants, said of the Bush-for-vice-president story, "There's nothing to it."

Ronald L. Ziegler, Nixon's press secretary, said today "There has been absolutely no

-POPULATION WARNING

CAIRO (UPI) —Kamal Stino, a member of Egypt's ruling Arab Socialist Union, has warned that Egypt's population will reach 70 million by the year 2000 unless more effective birth control measures are taken. The current population is 33 million.

discussion by the President and his principal aides about the 1972 vice-presidential nomination—or even whether he will himself be a candidate for re-election."

Nixon scheduled for today what he jokingly termed "a rather light day."

"I have two meetings in Illinois, one in Omaha, Neb., one in Rochester, Minn., then in San Jose, Calif., and then in San Clemente, Calif.," he said.

The President's immediate mission in Illinois was to boost Ralph Tyler Smith for an elected term in the Senate. Republican Smith, according to Illinois polls, is the distinct underdog in his contest with Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson III.

Smith was appointed to the Senate vacancy left by the death of Everett M. Dirksen; to serve until the general election.

Young Man Has Eye For Elders

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am an 18-year-old boy and I love to go out with married women from 20 to 30 years old. I have come awfully close to getting caught by their husbands. I don't know what is wrong with me. I take such terrible chances.

Single girls do not turn me on at all. I even talked to a doctor about this once and he told me I was seeking "motherly love," but I can tell you like I told him, it is not true. I worry about myself. What can you do for a love crazy guy like me?

TAKING CHANCES

DEAR TAKING: Apparently you like to live dangerously. Maybe you want to get caught and get that beating you think you deserve. I can advise you to steer clear of married women, but you already know that. Professional counseling at a mental health clinic could straighten you out before it's too late.

DEAR ABBY: After a 3-year separation I just became divorced. I have five children and live on welfare. My ex-husband drives a Cadillac and vacationed in Ireland last year—enough said.

Now that my divorce is final, all I hear is, "Why don't you dress up and sit on the front porch? You'll never get a husband if you don't fix yourself up, wear your dresses shorter and do something with your hair."

Am I such an oddity because I am not husband hunting?
NOT LOOKING

DEAR NOT: Yes. But I don't blame you for being gun-shy. You might get another dud like your ex-husband.

DEAR ABBY: I had oral surgery recently, and my doctor gave me a prescription for some pain medicine. I had it filled at a local pharmacy. I took it every three hours, but it had no effect.

The next morning the pharmacist called and told me to return the medicine as he had given me the wrong one. It seems two prescriptions were filled at the same time with identical last names. I had not noticed the wrong first name on the bottle until his call. I was told that my prescription was given to a young girl. She vomited from my pills. I didn't feel any ill effects from her medicine because it was for an infection.

Someone suggested we sue the pharmacy, but I don't think we should because the medicine did me no harm.

Maybe if you printed my letter it would make pharmacists a little more careful in the future. It would also warn people to read the name on the prescription before taking the medicine.

Others may not be as lucky as I was. MRS. R. M.

DEAR MRS. R. M.: Thank you for sharing your experience. It could save a lawsuit. And more important, a life.

DEAR ABBY: You had something in your column which caught my eye. I quote, "CONFIDENTIAL TO 50 YEARS OLD TODAY—AND DEPRESSED: Cheer up. Fifty is the 'old age' of youth, but it is also the 'youth of old age.' You have a lot of living to do." To that, I say "bravo"! But the real key to the good life after 50 is what you did in the 30 years before 50.

"GIVE THE UNITED WAY"

'I Don't Trust Anyone Any More'—MacDonald

By RICHARD DAW
Associated Press Writer
FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP) —
Green Beret Capt. Jeffrey Mac-Donald, freed by the Army of charges he murdered his wife and two children, says the experience "changed my whole outlook. I don't trust anyone any more."

"I used to work hard helping people," the 27-year-old physician said Wednesday as he paced around the quarters to which he had been confined under guard for almost seven months.

"Well, I don't feel that way any more. It's bad enough to lose my family. But then to be charged with murdering them and have to go through a hearing and spend 20 grand for lawyers ... well, it just changed my whole outlook on life."

MacDonald's comments came only hours after he had been informed that the Army had dismissed three counts of premedi-

Singer Died Of Injected Heroin

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Janis
Joplin, internationally acclaimed rock blues singer, died accidentally from an injection of unusually powerful heroin,
the coroner says.

Coroner Thomas Noguchi said
Wednesday a psychological study indicated the 27-year-old Texas-born superstar wasn't trying to commit suicide when she died in her Hollywood apartment Oct. 4.

The singer was moody and had been drinking liquor heavily and shooting heroin several days before her death, Noguchi said.

tated murder against him in the bizarre slayings of his wife,
Colette, 26, and his daughters,
Kimberly, 6, and Kristen, 2.

The Army said a five-week
hearing had produced insufficient evidence to bring Mac-Donald to trial at a general court-martial.

"I don't hate the Army," Mac-Donald said. "I'm proud of my Green Beret. But I've been through a bad scene and the best thing for me and for the Army is for me to get out. I'm applying for an immediate discharge and I'm sure I'll get it."

MacDonald said he plans to practice medicine as a general practitioner until next July—although he hasn't yet decided where—and then take up residency at Yale or Columbia to complete his studies as an orthopedic surgeon. He is from Patchogue, N.Y.

The dropping of the charges
quarters without an escorting officer for the first time since April 6. It also meant the removal of an armed guard from in front of the two-room apartment assigned to him in a building for bachelor officers.

The MacDonald slayings occurred last Feb. 17—eight months after MacDonald entered the Army—in the family's
Ft. Bragg home.

Military policemen who arrived about 3:30 a.m. in response to MacDonald's telephoned plea for help found Mrs.

MacDonald and the children dead from stab wounds and bludgeoning, MacDonald wounded, and the house in disarray.

The word "pig" was scrawled in blood on the headboard of the MacDonalds' bed.

MacDonald told police he had been sleeping on the living room couch when he was awakened by a scream from his wife, and that he was immediately attacked by three men and left unconscious.

He said he also saw a blonde girl wearing a floppy hat and boots and carrying a candle or a flashlight and murmuring,

"Acid is groovy; kill the pigs."
Acid is a slang term for the hal-lucinatory drug LSD.

The Army first contended MacDonald killed his wife and children in a rage over bed-wetting by his youngest daughter, and then stabbed himself and made up the story of the intruders.

Pate
Mrs. Nannie K. Pate, 80, widow of William K. Pate, died in Laurel, Miss., last night after several weeks of illness.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

A Craven County native, Mrs. Pate had spent most of her life there, but had made her home in Laurel, Miss. for the past several years. Her husband died in 1944.

Surviving her are a daughter, Mrs. Joe Bishop with whom she lived; and two sons, Laurie C. Pate of Vanceboro and Earl E. Pate of Farmville.

Wells
Mr. Charlie Wells died at the Greenville Nursing and Convalescent Home this morning. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Williams
AYDEN —Mr. John Lewis Williams, 85, of E. Third Street, Ayden, died at his home Sunday morning after a lingering illness. Funeral services will be held Sunday at 2 p.m. at Zion Chapel F.W.B. Church with the pastor, the Rev. S. Jones officiating. Burial will follow in the Ayden Cemetery.

He was born and reared in Pitt County. He was a member of Zion Chapel Church for 65 years and was employed as a barber for 60 years. He was also a member of Clearfield Lodge of the Knight of Pythius and the Roberson Union Christian Aid Society.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Virginia Mayo of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Miss Lynnon Williams of the home; two sons, Lewis S. Williams of Philadelphia, Pa., and James Williams of Washington, D. C.; four grandchildren; two nieces; six nephews.

The body will be taken from Flanagan and Parker Funeral Home to Zion Chapel F.W.B. Church Saturday at 4 p.m.

Brewer - Marshall request alone.

The final plat of Osceola Subdivision was recommended for approval. This plat covers section 2 for development along 14th Street and Englewood Drive. The preliminary plat for the two section development was approved nine or ten years ago. This last phase will involve approximately 20 houses.

Mention of recreation area requirements disclosed that Peppermint Park was part of the subdivision.

A joint city - county planning and zoning meeting will also be required in the case of a request made by Simon Moye for the second rezoning of a portion of property recently rezoned. Attorney Hite, spokesman for Moye, said that Moye had a misunderstanding about what he had originally requested in zoning. Moye wants to place a trailer park in the wooded area behind a commercial zone on his property fronting N.C. 11.

The property is across the road from Pitt Technical Institute and a drive in theatre. Hite observed that Moye, hoping to have approval for a 200 foot deep highway commercial area, expressed the belief that Moye would be willing to consider a standard 400 foot highway commercial with the area behind to be placed again into an RA-20 zoning.

Rezoning . . .

interest in for prospective development.

Opposition developed early to a study plan for a mobile home park site on Hooker Road north of U.S. 264 by-pass. Kenneth Whichard and W.B. Duke revealed initial plans for locating a mobile home park at this site — which is now outside city limits.

Spokesmen opposed to the idea of placing a mobile home park in the area registered objections on the grounds such a development would not result in a good, long range overall plan for the city and that a mobile home park would be detrimental to residential property values of homes already in the general area.

Among spokesmen expressing these viewpoints were Donald Sexauer, Arthur Rudolph and Ennis Chestang.

This agenda item was a study plan which Duke said "is being submitted to find out if it conforms, and if not, what must be done to have it conform."

It was explained that the only role the commissioners have at this point was simply to state whether the study meets the requirements applicable to mobile homes.

Because the area is one of several county islands within the city limits, any proposal must go before a joint city - county Board. City Manager Harry Hagerty explained to both those submitting the study plans and those in opposition that several procedures would be entailed, including a public hearing to be advertised, prior to any definitive action.

A request by James Brewer for annexation to the city of two small tracts of land resulted in a recommendation to the City Council that consideration be given to annexation of a larger area which would include the two tracts for Brewer and Marshall Concrete Products and General Construction Company, Inc. The tracts in question are ones planned to be used eventually by the company to relocate its operations which are now on North Greene Street north of the river. The two tracts are partially contiguous to the present city limits in Meadowbrook, and run generally along Eason's Branch, Highway 30 and the old skating rink. The commission included a recommendation that if adjacent property owners were not interested in annexation, that the council then go ahead on the

Indict Frazier For Multiple Murders

By DOUG WILLIS
Associated Press Writer
SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP) — The Santa Cruz County grand jury has indicted John Linley Frazier on a charge of murdering five people in a luxurious mansion less than a half-mile from the dilapidated cowshed where he lived.

The indictment was returned Wednesday night after Dist. Atty. Peter Chang Jr. questioned 22 witnesses for three hours behind closed doors.

Frazier, 24, is accused of shooting the victims in the head Oct. 19 and dumping their bodies into the swimming pool at Dr. Victor Ohta's $250,000 hilltop home overlooking the Pacific.

Within minutes of receiving the indictment, Judge Charles F. Franich of Santa Cruz County Superior Court clamped down on publicity surrounding the case.

He issued a four-page order prohibiting statements to news media about evidence, motives or speculation on the slayings.

Judge Franich said the news blackout, applied to attorneys, investigators and witnesses, was necessary to insure a fair trial.

Frazier, a high school dropout and former auto mechanic who became separated from his wife six months ago, was arrested last Friday as he slept in the shed in a rugged ravine strewn with wrecked automobiles and other litter.

Victims of the mass slaying were Dr. Ohta, 45-year-old eye surgeon, his wife, Virginia, 43, sons Derrick, 12, and Taggart, 11, and his secretary, Dorothy Cadwallader, 38.

Frazier and his wife, Dorothy, were on hand earlier Wednesday for his scheduled arraignment on murder charges in Municipal Court. The arraignment was postponed pending the outcome of grand jury action.

The defendant smiled several times at his wife, who sat quietly in the rear of the courtroom, and as the session ended he said, "It's all right, baby."

More talented and promising high school students have accepted invitations to attend Scholarship Weekend at East Carolina University Nov. 7-9.

At latest count at least 125 high school seniors, most of them National Merit scholarship semifinalists, had accepted invitations. Acceptances were from students in approximately 30 high schools in North Carolina and Virginia.

Represents ECU At Annual Meet

Dr. Thomas Chambliss, associate professor of Education and director of student teaching at East Carolina University, is attending the annual meeting of the Southeastern Region Association of Teacher Educators (SERATE) in Louisville, Ky., Oct. 29-31.

Chambliss is attending the meeting as the delegate for the N.C. Association for Student Teaching, which he serves as vice president.

Leary Planning To Return In Disguise

CAIRO (AP) — Dr. Timothy Leary, fugitive from a California prison, said today he will enter the United States in disguise within the next few days to attend a Black Panther meeting in New Haven Conn.

Leary spoke to newsmen shortly before boarding an Air Algerie plane for Algeria after being refused entrance into Egypt. He was expelled from Lebanon earlier this week.

"I will be in the United States by the third of November," he said. I will enter the United States disguised to attend a big demonstration in New Haven in support of Bobby Seale and Ericka Huggins."

Seale, national chairman of the Black Panther party, and Mrs. Huggins are being held without bond awaiting trial in New Haven in the slaying of Alex Rackley, another Panther. Seale is charged with murder and Mrs. Huggins is charged with kidnaping resulting in death and with aiding and abetting in murder.

A Panther rally is scheduled for Nov. 3 in New Haven in support of Seale and Mrs. Huggins.

Leary declared he would elude American officials in entering the United States just as he eluded them in his recent escape from prison at San Luis Obispo, Calif., where he was serving a sentence on a narcotics charge.

"There will be many surprises that day and the American government, which was surprised to see me escape, will be more surprised this time about who will be there (in New Haven)."

Leary was traveling with an American passport made out in the name of William McNellis. He showed it to reporters and said the Black Panther provided him with it.

On the Sidelines

Head Football Coach - East Carolina University

The backbone of any major college football program is its recruiting. That's when you really win football games—when you sign the best graduating high school seniors around. A good job of recruiting in 1970, for example, probably will mean a good won-loss record in 1972 or 73.

There's been a lot said and written about recruiting—pro and con. Let me say that, while there may be a few coaches who violate the rules in their overzealous attempts to get a blue-chip player, most of the men I've met in college football are basically very honest, hard-working individuals. Sometimes a coach may break a rule without realizing it, but only a handful break the rules flagrantly and they don't last long.

College football recruiting is a very competitive business. But competition to be the best is the American way of life. You reach for the top—and in college football that means reaching out to recruit the best players available.

Recruiting must always be a mutual agreement. If the young man is not really interested in a certain school, then that school should not be interested in him, because it will never work out. Unhappy students do not make good football players.

Today college football recruiting is a year-round business. People have asked me "How do you recruit a player?" "Well, here is the step-by-step way we handle recruiting here at East Carolina University.

(1) The first step is to find out who the good prospects are, get their names. Basically, there are four sources. By far the most successful is the questionnaire we send to some 500 high school coaches, mostly in North Carolina and Virginia, but including coaches at some schools from Connecticut to Florida. The coach fills out this questionnaire—naming any players on his team he feels are college prospects—and returns it to the ECU football office. Coach Jerry McGee, who coordinates our recruiting, files all of these responses along with tips from alumni and friends, names gleaned from the sports pages of some 30 newspapers, and personal letters from boys themselves who write us expressing an interest in playing football for ECU.

(2) After we get the names, we wait until the boy is a senior in high school, then send him a player questionnaire. This questionnaire seeks such information as whether or not the prospect is interested in ECU, his size, his speed, his position, his family background and his grades and academic interests. As for size and speed, we don't have any arbitrary cutoffs, but naturally the bigger a player is the slower he can be and vice-versa. The key question is how interested is the prospect in coming to East Carolina.

(3) Next comes the high school coach's evaluation. When we have narrowed our list of names down to those that are interested in ECU, we send another questionnaire to his coach. We are seeking such information as to whether he is a responsible young man and how loyal is he to his team, is he willing to sacrifice, does he work hard in practice, etc.

(4) The fourth step is very important. It involves the prospect's high school academic record, specifically his class standing, college board scores and what high school courses he has taken. For this information we usually contact the high school principal or the young man's academic counselor. Before a young man can play for us he must (a) meet all the ECU admissions requirements and (b) he must "predict" a 1.6 college grade average, an NCAA requirement. The 1.6 translates to a C-minus grade average. What the NCAA is trying to do is judge from the young man's high school class standing and college board scores whether or not he will be able to do passing C-minus work in college. The higher the college board scores, the lower the class standing can be, and vice-versa. If a prospect can not meet both the University and the NCAA requirements, we would be wasting both his time and ours trying to recruit him.

(5) Next comes personal contact and visitation with the prospect. First, we contact him and tell him about East Carolina University's outstanding academic opportunities, about the new football era here and the challenges it offers for the future. Later, we invite the prospect to spend a weekend on the campus in Greenville, where he will meet with professors in his major field of interest, mingle with the student body and, most important, talk to our players about the school, the football program and the coaches he would be playing under. Finally, a member of my coaching staff will visit the young man and his parents at their home, discussing all facets of ECU life and our football program.

(6) This home visitation is followed by continued telephone and mail contacts with the prospect. We keep him posted on what's going on here at ECU and he asks us any questions that may have come to mind.

(7) During this time it is helpful if people who are mutually interested in our program and this young man's football future visit with the prospect, answering questions that the prospect may have hesitated to ask the coaches, etc. These people are most often ECU alumni or friends of the school who live in the young man's hometown.

(8) Finally comes the signing—the mutual agreement between the young man and East Carolina University. This signing becomes binding by NCAA rules when the prospect signs a National Letter of Intent in early May of his senior year. That, in simple language, is how a player is recruited. Of course, it's not that simple. A young man deciding where and how he will spend the next four years of his life is never a cut-and-dried matter.

If you boil it all down to two simple questions, it goes like this: Coach: "Can this prospect start for East Carolina University's football team as a sophomore, maintain a certain degree of academic excellence and be a responsible member of the student body?"

Prospect: "Will I be happy at ECU academically, athletically, and socially?"

If both parties are sure in their minds that the answer is "yes" then they have a common goal—which is what recruiting must always lead to.

Rose High School's Rampants close out their 1970 home football schedule Friday afternoon with the annual Homecoming game.

The contest will be held at 3 p.m. in Ficklen Stadium, with Rose meeting the New Bern Bears.

Rose comes into the meeting with a 1-2 Division II record, and a 2-6 mark overall. New Bern brings in an 0-3 conference mark, and is 1-7 overall.

The lone New Bern victory came in the opening game of the season, when it nipped Wilmington Hoggard, 12-7. Since then, it has lost to West Cartaret, 14-12, Rocky Mount, 33-0, Washington, 36-0, Goldsboro, 42-12, Jacksonville, 42-6, Wilson 34-0, and New Hanover, 40-8.

In the seven games to date, New Bern has scored just 50 points, while giving up 245. Rose, at the same time has allowed 173 points, and scored 96.

But the biggest problem the Rampants have had this year is not in their ability to score points, but in making mistakes that allow their opponents to score.

For instance, last week against Raleigh's Enloe. Rose gave up the first Eagle touchdown on a punt return. The second came when the center snap on a punt went over the kicker's head, and was downed at the one. Enloe scored on the next play.

Penalties, interceptions and other mistakes helped Enloe along the rest of the way, and were heavy contributors to all six Raleigh touchdowns. In none of the drives did Raleigh have to do all the work themselves.

"The punt return and the bad snap really hurt us," Coach Bud Phillips said. "We got down to start with, and it is hard to come back. Offensively we didn't do too bad a job. We moved the ball well, but the interceptions kept us from keeping the drives alive." Rose had four passes intercepted in the game.

Rose did come through the game in good physical shape. "We've had several to miss practice due to colds and the flu but most are healthy. Reggie Perkins, who missed last week's game, is back now, but Al Hunter has been working out light due to an injury," Phillips said.

Some work was put on the kicking game this week, in an effort to cure the punt-snap ills. "I really don't understand it," Phillips said of the two snaps that soared over Bob Forbes' head during the past two games, resulting in a safety and a touchdown. "We had some problems in the opening game, but since then, we haven't had any bad snaps. We just aren't sure what's causing the problem."

Rose also had some problems in keeping their players on the field for the Enloe game. Three, including two starters, were ejected from the game by officials, along with one Enloe player. "When we lose people like this," Phillips said, "It's hard to replace them and keep up the same standard."

So despite New Bern's record, the Bears can't be considered pushovers. "In looking at the films we've seen, they look pretty good," Phillips said. "They are getting beat, but they have good size and don't look bad."

Their attack seems to be pretty well balanced, but reports say that their fullback Gary Downs is their biggest weapon. Downs is a 6-0, 205-pound fullback who is the leading rusher for New Bern.

"They ran real well against New Bern. They use the full-house T with a split end. They like to use cross-backs and the sweep, along with options and the booties." These are run by quarterback Gene Austin.

New Bern rely on its running game, and goes to the air only when necessary, reports say.

Phillips said he didn't feel that the time of the game, late afternoon, would have any great effect on the game's play. "The last time we played in the afternoon was during the Thanksgiving weekend of 1961, in the Eastern Regionals. We won then; I hope we can win now."

The probable starting lineup for the Rampants on offense has Ronald and Donald Taylor at ends, Tim Leith and Jay Hagans at tackles, George Harris and Carl Lupton at guards, Tommy Diggs at center, Bob Barrett at quarterback, Johnny Smith and All Hunter at halfbacks, and Bubba Rawl at full back.

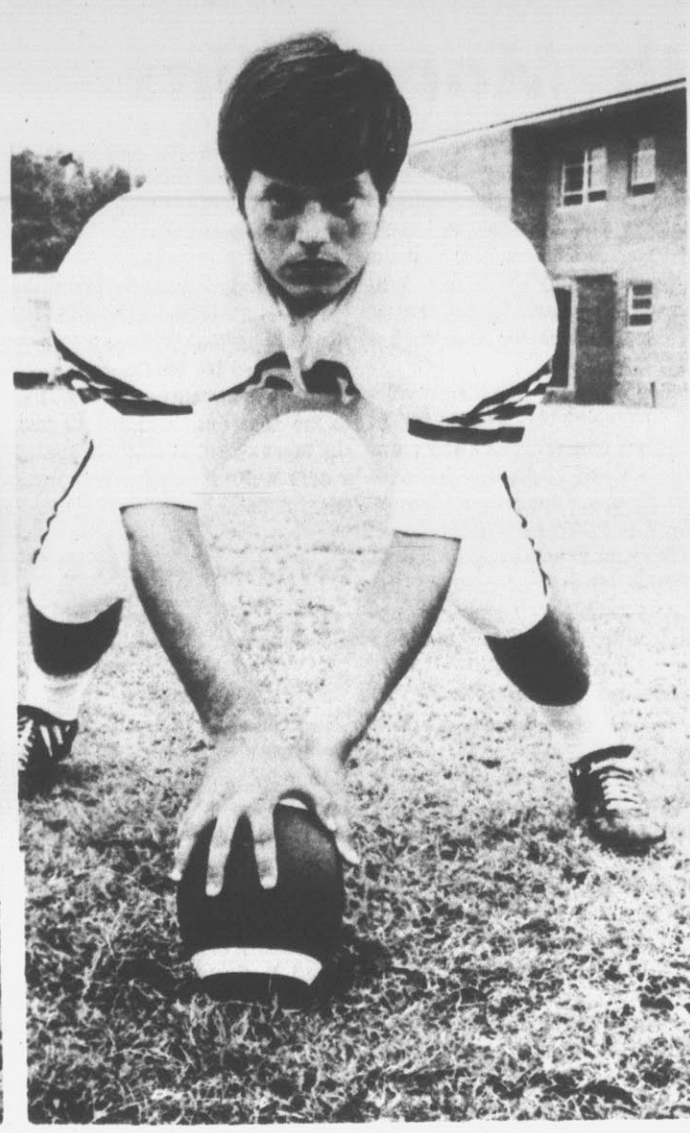

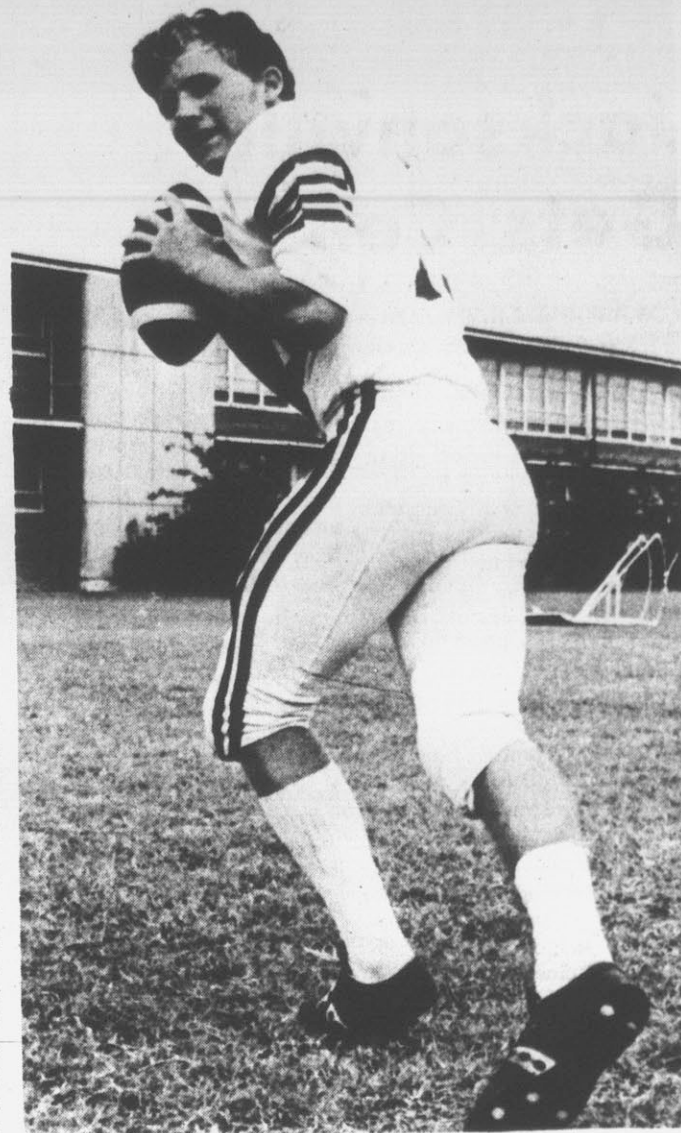

Defensively, the Rampants will have Todd Pair and Harold Lloyd at ends, Willie Barnhill and Harris at tackles, Hagans and Leith at guards, David Bullock and Gary Woods at linebackers, Kim Harbin and Calvin Moore at halfbacks, and Hunter at safety.

Besides the Rose - Enloe and New Bern - New Hanover outcomes last week, the Division II teams came up with three wins and one more loss. Goldsboro downed highly regarded E. E. Smith, 27-18, Rocky Mount tumbled Durham, 31-14, and Wilson rolled over Hillside, 25-0. Kinston missed its first win over unbeaten Jacksonville, 16-14.

This week's battles are all within the Division, with the big game the meeting of Goldsboro and Fike in Wilson. Rocky Mount is at Kinston in the other game.

Rampants At Homecoming

Bob Barrett, left, and Tommy Diggs are two members of the Rose High School Rampant team that will take on New Bern School at 3 p.m. Friday in Ficklen Stadium. The annual Rose Homecoming will be observed at the game, the final home appearance of the Rampants. Barrett, a 150-pound junior, is the starting quarterback for the Rampants. He is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Troy J. Barrett. Diggs, a 180-pound senior, is a starter at center. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Diggs. (Reflector Photos)

Blue Wins In Aycock Tilt

The Aycock Junior High School Blue and Green teams wound up the 1970 season yesterday with the Blue taking a 13-0 victory over the Green.

It was the only win of the year for the Blue, while the Green remained winless.

The Blues went into the lead in the second period on a 16-yard scoring pass from Dickie Johnson to Mike Wallace. That made it 6-0 at the half.

Then, in the final period,

NEW YORK—Tony Gagliardo, 199½, Deer Park, N.Y., knocked out Stanford Harris, 235, Kingston, Jamaica, 3.

Wallace scored the second touchdown on an end-around, going 16 yards again. Paul Story kicked the extra point for the final 13-0 margin.

The Blue had one other scoring threat, which died with a fumble at the 10. The Green offered one threat, fumbling the ball away at the 18.

Hart Regains Offensive Lead; Runners Gaining On McCauley 'Never Again,' Somebody Has To Break String

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Leo Hart, the pass-slinging Duke quarterback, regained first place in the Atlantic Coast Conference offensive standings with a 318-yard performance against Clemson Saturday.

Hart passed for 287 of that total in the Blue Devils' 21-0 victory, which sent them to the top of the conference standings with a 4-0 record. Hart had fallen behind Tommy Suggs of South Carolina for the previous two weeks, but the league's total offense champion in the past two years now has a comfortable lead of more than 200 yards.

Suggs managed only 26 yards as the Gamecocks dropped a nonconference game to Florida State.

The ACC passing honors are solely Hart's domain. But Don McCauley of the University of North Carolina has challengers for his rushing lead. The pile-driving halfback picked up 125 yards in the Tar Heels' loss to Wake Forest, while Larry Hopkins of the victorious Deacons moved closer with a 115-yard performance.

North Carolina retained its edge in team offense but Duke moved closer in the weekly statistics from the ACC Service Bureau.

South Carolina is tops in pass offense, pass defense and scoring.

Mosser To Be Champ

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP)—There's almost a full month left in the Southern Conference football season, but William and Mary's Phil Mosser already is virtually sure of the rushing championship.

The hard-driving W&M back is averaging 118.7 rushing yards per game to a mere 67.9 for his nearest rival, Pat Carroll of Furman. And Mosser has almost twice as many total yards as Carroll—831 to 475.

Mark Thompson of Davidson still leads in total offense and passing, but isn't so sure of the individual titles as he once seemed to be. The big splurge by Richmond's Charlie Richards in UR's win over East Carolina last week left Thompson averaging 198 yards per game in total offense to Richards' 172 and 16.6 pass completions a game to Richards' 13.6.

Other departmental leaders in the statistics announced today by the conference news bureau also were unchanged from last week.

Davidson's Mike Mikolayunas leads in pass catching with 37 receptions and an average of 7.4 per game and W&M's Dave Cripe is setting the pace in punting, averaging 39.2 yards on each of 46 punts.

The Tar Heels are ahead in rushing defense, while N. C. State has yielded the fewest points.

The Wolfpack has given up only 12.7 points a game in seven contests, including last Saturday's 6-0 triumph over Maryland.

"We bent a bit against Maryland, with their running game effective," says Coach Earle Edwards. "But to our offense's credit, they didn't score. And it took a shutout to win as we continue to set a non-TD record for us."

State, with a 1-2-1 ACC record, has scored only one touchdown in four ACC games, against South Carolina in a 7-7 tie. And it looks like Saturday's game with Kentucky won't improve that department.

"Kentucky will be awfully tough to run against," says State scout Jack Stanton. "They use a split-4 defense and are strong and effective defensively, especially against the rush. Offensively, they use a lot of formations and will cause us problems with their multitude of sets."

Other ACC teams also venture out of conference Saturday, with Georgia Tech invading Duke, South Carolina traveling to Georgia and Wake Forest moving across the mountains to Tennessee.

In the conference, Clemson plays Maryland at College Park and North Carolina is host to Virginia at Chapel Hill.

Neither game can have much of an effect on the league standings. Duke's first-place status isn't threatened by Tech, and Wake Forest, the nearest contender threatening the Blue Devils, won't be back in the league until Nov. 7.

That's when the Demon Deacons travel to Durham for the game with Duke that could decide the conference winner.

Knicks, Pistons Roll On With More Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The momentum is already building for Saturday night's collision of National Basketball Association giants—the defending champion New York Knicks and Detroit's fired-up Pistons.

The two teams continued to tear up the rest of the NBA Wednesday night, the Knicks stomping Boston 126-89 for their seventh victory in nine games and the Pistons whipping Baltimore to remain undefeated through nine games.

In other NBA action, Cincinnati walloped Seattle 131-118, Chicago tripped Phoenix 118-105, San Diego overwhelmed Cleveland 110-99 and Philadelphia turned back San Francisco 111-108.

In the night's only two American Basketball Association games, Kentucky nipped Carolina 104-102 and Indiana downed Memphis 113-99.

"I haven't played a good game yet—not what I'm capable of," Detroit rookie sensation Bob Lanier said after Detroit opened a three-game lead over idle Milwaukee in the Midwest Division.

Seattle, playing without injured center Bob Rule, dropped its fourth in a row as Cincinnati put together a balanced attack led by guards Norm Van Lier with 23 and Nate Archibald with 21. Don Smith of the Sonics topped all scorers with 25.

Phoenix' 11 second-period turnovers contributed to Chicago's 55-35 halftime edge. Bob Love topped the Bulls with 28 points and Connie Hawkins had 26 for the Suns.

Elvin Hayes was San Diego's big gun, pouring in 40 points to hand winless Cleveland its eighth successive loss. It was also a dismal home debut for the 6,114 Cavaliers fans.

Philadelphia came from behind in the last quarter and outscored San Francisco 23-13 for the 76ers' eighth straight victory over the Warriors in the last three seasons.

Billy Cunningham, who topped Philadelphia in scoring, collected 10 of his 27 points in the final period. With San Francisco ahead 101-98, Cunningham connected for three field goals in the next four minutes to put the 76ers ahead to stay 107-103.

Jeff Mullins led the Warriors with 32 points.

Crash Takes 31st Victim

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—The crash of a Wichita State University football plane has claimed its 31st victim.

John Taylor, 21, a Wichita State football player from Sherman, Tex., died at the Army's burn center here late Wednesday.

He was flown to San Antonio Oct. 9 in critical condition with burns over 82 per cent of his body.

Thirteen other Wichita State players and 17 officials and fans also died. There were 40 persons aboard the craft, which crashed into the side of a mountain near Silver Plume, Colo., Oct. 2.

Taylor, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Royce Taylor, was described as the most injured survivor of the crash when he arrived at Brooke Army Medical Center from Denver, Colo.

Nats Work On Flood Contract

By BRUCE LOWITT

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Washington Senators owner Bob Short resumed contract negotiations today with renegade outfielder Curt Flood while speculation arose that Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn might announce a signing at a news conference.

"I'm sure we'll get this thing ironed out," Short said Wednesday night, referring to his attempts to add the controversial star to the roster of his American League club.

Flood is still engaged in a suit to overturn baseball's reserve clause, which binds a player to one club for life unless he is sold, traded or released.

He instituted the antitrust suit—backed by the Major League Players Association—when St. Louis traded him to Philadelphia. He refused to join the Phillies and sat out the 1970 season. A federal judge ruled against Flood in the suit's first phase and an appeal is pending. Short acquired the right to deal with Flood by trading a player to the Phils and agreeing to send them another if he can land the 32-year-old star. Short already has one controversial star on his team—bad-boy pitcher Denny McLain, acquired in a trade with Detroit.

Kuhn's news conference was called to announce the details of the dividing up of World Series money—but rumors circulated that the commissioner would use the occasion to announce Flood's signing.

But a spokesman at Kuhn's office said he would be "very, very surprised if the commissioner makes any sort of announcement," stating that task would be up to Short.

He added that any contract, which Short and Kuhn have insisted would have nothing to do with Flood's suit and would not influence the case against baseball, would have to be approved by Kuhn.

Barring a tie, somebody's losing streak has to come to an end Saturday when Davidson's Wildcats invade Virginia Military Institute for a Southern Conference football game that's crucial to Davidson's title hopes.

VMI opened its season with a 13-0 conference victory over Furman, but since has lost six in a row. Davidson started its campaign with a 14-5 conference upset over Richmond but now has lost four straight—the first time the Wildcats have lost that many in a row since 1964.

Of particular concern to Davidson coach Dave Fagg was a breakdown in the Wildcats' passing attack in a 35-13 defeat at Wofford last Saturday night.

Quarterback Mark Thompson hit only 11 of 26 aeriels for 96 yards—Davidson's lowest total in the air in six years.

If the passing was disappointing, however, Fagg was pleased with the running of sophomore Bill Bracken, 98 yards, and junior Johnny Ribet, 89.

"This is an area that has caused us some concern," said Fagg. "We may have to go to them more in the future. I know we will if people cover Mike Mikolayunas and Rick Lyon the way Wofford did."

Davidson, 1-1 in the conference, still has hopes of winning its second consecutive league title. VMI, 1-2, is all but out of it.

Two other games are scheduled Saturday afternoon with The Citadel's front-running Bulldogs, 3-0, entertaining Richmond's Spiders, 1-2, and Furman's runner-up Paladins, 2-1, at home against East Carolina, 0-2. William and Mary has a nonleague date at home against Virginia Tech.

In practice activity Wednesday, East Carolina received some more bad news when it was learned that linebacker Dave Glosson has a cervical disc problem and won't play anymore this season.

Furman, East Carolina's opponent Saturday, went through a rugged 2½ hour workout Wednesday.

Furman coaches had plenty of praise for linebacker Chuck Cross' work in defending against the pass.

The University of Richmond Spiders worked on their ground game Wednesday in preparation for Saturday's match with The Citadel at Charleston, S.C.

Field Trial Saturday

The East Carolina Retriever Club will hold a retriever field trial Saturday at Lake Matamuskeet, starting at 8 a.m.

The trial is the first American Kennel Club sanctioned retriever field trial ever held in North Carolina, according to officers of the club.

The one-day meet is expected to draw some 50 dogs from at least five states. "Some of these dogs are in competition for national honors," a spokesman said.

The dogs will be put through a series of water and land tests of progressive difficulty during the event. Three classes, puppy, derby and open, will be held.

The East Carolina Retriever Club has about 20 members in Greenville.

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Officials of the University of Tulsa, hit with a three-year football probation along with Kansas State by the National Collegiate Athletic Assn., contend "this sort of things will never happen again."

The NCAA's powerful executive council slapped the three-year probations on the Golden Hurricanes and Kansas State Wednesday because of recruiting rules violations and giving improper financial aid to prospective athletes.

K-State and Tulsa will be on probation until Jan. 1, 1973, barring their football teams from post-season bowl games through that date.

The NCAA ruling confirmed investigations by the Big Eight and Missouri Valley conferences into recruiting irregularities.

Tulsa Athletic Director Glenn Dobbs said that he could "assure everyone that this sort of thing will never happen again at the University of Tulsa."

Tulsa officials said they "don't like what has happened, but we accept the NCAA penalty."

There was no comment from Kansas State officials after NCAA announced the probation Wednesday.

The NCAA's committee on rules infractions also reviewed athletic practices at Marshall University in Huntington, W. Va. and LaSalle College in Philadelphia and restored them to full membership. Marshall was on a one-year probation for football recruiting rules violations in basketball recruiting.

Jacksonville Gets Censure

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—The NCAA council says a well-paying job put Artis Gilmore in Jacksonville. Gilmore then helped put the Jacksonville University Dolphins in the NCAA basketball finals.

Now the National Collegiate Athletic Association has put JU on their censored list.

The action came Wednesday when the NCAA council said it was of the opinion that Gilmore's $75-a-day job as a playground instructor for a Jacksonville antipertovity agency was "an influencing factor" in his enrollment at JU.

The NCAA's censure did not knock the Dolphins out of future tournament play.

Dr. Robert Spiro, JU president, said the school "would accept the judgment of the council" even though "we believe very firmly we have not violated any NCAA regulation."

Gilmore was recruited from Gardner Webb Junior College in North Carolina last year by Joe Williams, then coach at Jacksonville and now coach at Furman University in Greenville, S.C.

Williams said in Greenville, "I don't feel we did anything that was a violation of the NCAA rules. We checked the best available authority and were told the job which Gilmore filled met the NCAA requirements.

"It is regrettable that Jacksonville has been reprimanded in connection with Artis' job. But when you are with an institution that is a member of the NCAA, you have to abide by what the NCAA council decides.

"In my position now (as Furman's coach) I feel any further discussion, of the situation should come from the NCAA or Jacksonville."

Cougars Drop Sixth

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Jim Ligon blocked a 25-foot desperation shot by the Carolina Cougars Wednesday night to preserve a 104-102 American Basketball Association victory for his Kentucky Colonels. The Cougars have lost all six of their games this season.

Ligon also scored six points on three layups in the closing minutes to lead the Colonels to the victory. He got 16 for the evening.

High scorer for the game was Bob Verga of the Cougars with 28 points.

Delaware's Gov. Well Remembers Life In Greenville

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
Gov. Russell Peterson of Delaware has pleasant memories of when his family lived in Greenville—like the time he and his wife, Lillian, won the square dance contest at the Tobacco Festival in the area.

GOV. RUSSELL PETERSON

There are also saddening thoughts of the year and a half they lived here—like knowing that they have a child buried here. A son was born here but died two days later on Christmas Day, 1952.
Peterson and his family moved here on December 4,

1952. From then until May 31, 1953 he was technical superintendent at the then-new Dupont plant near Kinston. On June 1 he was named assistant plant manager and held this position until he went to the Dupont headquarters in Wilmington, Del. in June, 1954.

Previous to bringing his family here, he had made numerous trips to this area since he headed the committee in charge of designing the Kinston plant. A "first" in his life was the time he picked cotton in the field where the Kinston plant is located. The plant was already staked out at the time, but that year's crop had not been harvested, he said.

The Peterson children are Glenn, 31; Peter John nicknamed "Pete," 28; Kristin Peterson Havill, 23; and Elin, 14. Of course, the youngest daughter had not been born when the family lived here at 500 East Eleventh Street. There are also three grandchildren now.

While they were here, Peterson was active in the Kiwanis Club, and as a Boy Scout leader, he was leadership training chairman of the East Carolina Council.

Although he liked fishing and golf, perhaps his favorite recreation was square dancing. He was one of the organizers of a statewide folk dance festival here and worked with the local Recreation Department in planning for community square dancing.

Peterson was elected Governor of Delaware in November, 1968 and was inaugurated in January, 1969. This is his first elective office. According to his press secretary, Jerry Sapienza, in the nearly 22 months he has served, the Delaware state government has been completely reorganized.

It was Gov. Peterson who asked industries having holdings in the state to donate the services of management personnel at no cost to the taxpayers. These management experts made a several months' study and came up with over 500 recommendations to make the state government more efficient and less costly to the citizens of the state. Most of these suggestions were contingent upon reorganization, Sapienza said.

EGYPTIAN PRODUCTION
CAIRO (UPI)—National production during the current fiscal year should reach 2.5 billion pounds ($6.2 billion), a 4 per cent increase over last year, the government announced.

The reorganization took place August 5 of this year. The state government was reduced from 140 separate agencies to ten cabinet-level departments. Some $7 million has been saved and decisions are arrived at much more quickly without having to wait months for boards and commissions to meet, the Governor said.

He visited in North Carolina October 20 to promote the idea in the state. North Carolinians will vote November 3 and approve or disapprove a constitutional amendment to effect a similar reorganization on a state level.

Sapienza said Gov. Peterson, a 54-year-old Republican, was responsible for the enactment of a "debtor's prison" law that may become a model for the nation. He said Gov. Peterson contended that for any man to be imprisoned simply because he cannot pay a fine is having, in effect, a debtor's prison. The new Delaware law makes it unlawful to give a man a prison sentence in lieu of a fine. He must either be allowed to pay the fine on installments or a job for the state must be arranged for him so he can "work out" the amount he owes. Two advantages of this practice are not giving the man a prison record which might make it difficult for him to get a good job later and not costing the state welfare money to support his dependents.

Peterson is making a fine reputation for himself as a protector of the environment, according to Sapienza. He has attracted national attention with his personal persuasion of young people to keep well-known "Whiskey Beach" on the Delaware coast relatively litter-free. He also has declared a moratorium on development of the Delaware coastline until a master plan can be worked up for its sensible development in line with environmental protectionist aims. Gov. William T. Kayhill of New Jersey has joined him in a moratorium for his state coastal development and similar master plan studies.

Club Endorses Pitt Hospital Bond Vote

FARMVILLE — The Farmville Lions Club adopted Tuesday night a resolution supporting the proposed $9,000,000 hospital bond referendum and urged individual members to attend the Farmville kickoff at the courthouse at 7:30 tonight and to support the bond referendum at the polls November 3.

The speaker at the meeting was Ed Waldrop, a member of the hospital board of trustees, who was introduced by William Dudley. Dudley expressed the concern of the group over the overcrowded conditions of the hospital and the urgent need for expansion and extension of services plus greater operating efficiency.

In answer to questions from Lion members, Waldrop stated that the new hospital would be a real bargain for the citizens of Pitt County. Renovation of the existing hospital is impractical — costs for remodeling are prohibitive and the site is too small for today's needs. It would cost nearly as much to rehabilitate the present hospital as it would to build a new one.

The new hospital would cost approximately $11 million and the Medical Care Commission of North Carolina will assist in the amount of $2 million towards the total cost. The county would still have the old hospital on the existing 30 acres of land that could be used for other county purposes thereby realizing a savings to the tax payer.

State Agency Is Applying Grant To 'Soul City'

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina's planning office says the state Department of Administration is using a $156,000 federal grant to help with plans for Soul City, a private experiment in black capitalism to be built in Warren County.

The officer, Ronald Scott confirmed Wednesday that the planning funds were approved Aug. 17 by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. The money is part of a $245,000 grant for planning in a five-county area that includes Warren, Vance, Franklin, Granville and Person counties of eastern North Carolina.

"If the state is going to have a new community, we mean to help do the planning," Scott said. "It would be disruptive, it would have a terrible impact if planning did not precede building."

One Beatle Is Not Concerned

NEW YORK (AP) — George Harrison of the Beatles says Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's criticism of rock music lyrics, including some used by the British group, is of no interest to him.

"I don't know the man. I don't care what he thinks," Harrison told newsmen at Kennedy Airport Wednesday.

Harrison, accompanied by his wife, Patti, flew from London on a business trip.

who once was national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, announced plans to build Soul City near Warrenton almost two years ago.

The manager of the Soul City Division of McKissick Enterprises, Inc., Gordon R. Carey, said in a telephone interview from Soul City that the corporation has purchased a 1,811-acre farm in rural Warren County for $390,000.

Carey said three families are living at the site year-round, and that McKissick lived there during the summer. When the new town is built, it is expected to have 18,000 residents.

Carey said construction of many facilities is planned to begin full-scale in 1972.

He said he does not expect the town to be all-black.

"We hope poor people, black people, white people, all people who haven't had a chance in life, will come to Soul City," he said.

Scott said the Department of Administration's study would be coordinated with representatives of a regional commission now being formed in the five-county area. He said the study involves all facilities as water, streets, schools, recreation, fire departments, sewage and other utilities.

Scott predicted the planning would require about two years.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A 22-year-old sergeant accused of murder at My Lai has charged Gen. Creighton W. Abrams with violating the military code of justice by allowing civilians to be beaten and tortured at a South Vietnamese village in 1968.

Sgt. Esequiel Torres of Brownsville, Tex., also asserted Wednesday that Abrams, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, concealed a felony committed by his troops in his presence at the Vietnamese village of Chanh Luu.

The charges against the four-star general were filed by former U.S. Rep. Charles L. Weltner of Atlanta, Torres' chief civilian attorney, in a petition forwarded to Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor.

It was the second time in recent weeks that Torres has charged a ranking Army official with violating the military code in connection with action in Vietnam.

The first petition accused Gen. William C. Westmoreland, Army chief of staff, of being guilty of any atrocities that might have occurred at My Lai, contending that a commander is responsible for the actions of his troops even though he may not be aware of them.

Resor dismissed those charges on grounds that Westmoreland had no knowledge of the My Lai incident and was not present when the raid occurred on March 16, 1968.

Abrams' headquarters in Saigon had no comment on the charges against him.

Weltner said the charges were based on an Associated Press story, written from Chanh Luu by Peter Arnett, which appeared in newspapers of Aug. 12, 1968. The 600-word story, which describes what it calls "one of the many allied raids on one of the

Army To Disband Unit

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced today that a 150-man engineer company commanded by Capt. William K. Oliver of Princeton, N.J., will be disbanded soon.

B Company, 4th Engineer Battalion, 4th Infantry Division has been in Vietnam since 1966 constructing roads and bridges.

The deactivation is part of the phase reduction of U.S. troop strength in South Vietnam. The company's senior non-commissioned officer is platoon Sgt. Alfred Williams of Fuquay Springs, N.C.

most stubborn Viet Cong villages in Vietnam," in its first four paragraphs gave this description of activity in the village on Aug. 11, 1968:

"The people of Chanh Luu village squatted on their heels in the market place, watching impassively.

"The thud of fists on flesh in the rear room of one stucco house indicated that a battlefield interrogation was in progress. An armed guard pushed an old man, his hair matted with mud, into the main village square. His daughter followed, tied to a rope behind him.

"Rows of bound men and women crouched in an open storehouse. Some were muddled. A few looked clean, wet and pale. They had been through the 'water treatment,' a favorite form of interrogation in Vietnam. Water is poured on a prisoner's face to make him talk.

"Weapons and grenades were added to a growing pile in the center of the market place. Senior allied generals strode around, including the U.S. commander in Vietnam, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams ..."

Weltner said that if Resor dismisses the charges against Abrams "it'll be up to him to explain how a four-star general is immune to such a charge when the private and corporals are not."

Wants Women To Be Women

CHICAGO (AP) — President Nixon told a group of women who greeted him on his arrival that, in the controversy about the women's liberation movement, "I want a woman to be a woman."

The subject came up as the women, attending a Junior League conference on the environment, asked Nixon Wednesday night to visit them at a breakfast this morning. They noted they represented several thousand women all over the country.

"Woman's lib?" the smiling President asked. When one replied "No" he quickly said, "That's right, I want a woman to be a woman."

RAIDING BABOONS

GRAAFF REINET, South Africa (AP) — Crop-raiding baboons, long regarded by local farmers as vermin to be shot on sight, are now being drugged with dart guns and captured alive instead. The baboons are then sent to hospitals for medical research.

GMC Posts Heavy Losses For Quarter Bond Drive Project

By A. F. MAHAN
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp., hit by a strike and sharply declining sales, has posted its first quarterly loss in 24 years.

GM reported Wednesday a $77 million loss for the July-September period of this year, compared with a profit of $230 million for the same three-month span of 1969.

The last previous quarterly loss reported by GM was $36.1 million in the first quarter of 1946, when the corporation was shut down more than 2½ months by a United Auto Workers strike. That strike began in 1945 and ran 119 days to March 19, 1946.

The current UAW strike in support of new contract demands now is in its 45th day, but it did not erupt until 15 days before the end of the third quarter, and shipments from factory lots continued to approximately Oct. 1.

Third-quarter GM sales were $3.5 billion, against $5 billion in the same three months the previous year, and for the three quarters $15.7 billion, compared with $17.7 billion.

GM's loss dropped its earnings for this year's first nine months to $744 million, compared with $1.2 billion for the January-September span of 1969.

Reporting earlier this month, Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. showed third-quarter profits of $73.9 million and $1.1 million, respectively.

Ford's profits for the first nine months totaled $365 million, down from $402 million. Chrysler had a loss of $20.2 million, having failed to overcome a first-quarter loss of $29.4 million in the two subsequent quarters.

Chairman James M. Roche and President Edward N. Cole of GM said in a joint statement that the beginning of the UAW strike contributed to the quarter's poor sales showing.

"The decline in sales," they said, "was due to the vehicle production lost in the United States and Canada because of the strike called by the United Automobile Workers and a longer shutdown in the U.S. and Canada for model changeover because of the extensive change in certain regular-size models."

A spokesman said shutdowns for model changeovers lasted approximately a week longer this year than last.

The Greenville Jaycees remind area residents that "something interesting and important to all citizens of Pitt County will be happening on Nov. 3."

"On that day," bond issue project chairman Jim Foster reminded, "the bond issue for the building of a new hospital will be presented to the public for approval."

Welding Soc. Will Meet

The October meeting of the Northeastern Carolina Section of the American Welding Society will be held tonight at the Barbecue Lodge on Highway 70 west of Kinston.

The program, scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. with a social hour and followed by dinner at 7:30, will include an address on the subject, "Engineered and Fabricated Stainless Steel Wires and Electrodes."

Guest speaker for the occasion will be Peter Hansen, district manager for the Stoodly Co. of Charlotte. Hansen has been associated with the firm since July of 1969.

The guest speaker was employed by Harnischfeger Corp. from 1962 until 1969 as a technical writer, sales correspondent, instructor and sales engineer.

From January of 1969 until June of that year, Hansen was with the Chemtron Corp. as sales engineer.

Members and associates of the society are invited to attend the session, as are others interested in the science and art of welding.

for approval."

The Jaycee chairman pointed out that recently the local chapter was presented with a proposal that they support in "name and effort" the hospital bond issue.

Foster added that "this challenge was accepted by the Jaycees and now much work lies ahead for the members" in preparation for the Tuesday referendum.

Working with both Foster and Jaycee board member Mike Bell, the Jaycees plan a program of support participation. Foster noted that one of the projects planned is a motor caravan.

"Several people traveling in cars will visit the most populated areas of Pitt County," the chairman said. With the aid of loud speakers the Jaycees will be "encouraging the citizens of Pitt County to vote 'yes' on Nov. 3," he added.

Foster said that the Greenville Jaycees are planning additional methods of support of the hospital bond campaign.

Should Tell Any Changes

Farmers participating in programs administered by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service should report to the County ASCS office any sale, purchase, lease or rental of farmland, according to Stacy Evans, Pitt County executive director for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

"I strongly urge those who have added to or reduced the size of their farms to get the information to the county office as soon as possible," Evans said.

He pointed out that when the size of a farm is changed, the ASCS records must be changed, including recalculation of farm allotments and bases. "We call it farm reconstitution," he said, "and if the reconstitutions have been made and approved by the county committee before sign-up time, it saves time and effort for everyone."

Most of the changes in the county are the result of operator changes. Anyone who is renting or leasing an entire farm should visit the ASCS office in order for the farm records and mailing list to be corrected, Evans said.

Evangelist For Revival Services

The Rev. W. R. Wallace of Mt. Olive will be the guest evangelist for revival services at St. Rest Holiness Church, Winterville, Nov. 2-6.

Services will begin each night at 7:30. Music will be presented nightly by the following choirs: Monday, Bell Arthur Choir; Tuesday, Corey's Chapel Junior Choir; Wednesday, Zion Hall Choir; Thursday, Waterside Choir; Friday, St. Paul Disciple Church Choir.

The Rev. W. C. Elliott is pastor.

Slavery was abolished in the British Empire in 1833.

The Light Monitor

When you come into a dark room out of the bright sunlight, you experience momentary "blindness."

This is because the eye wasn't "set" for bright light. The pupil is the "light monitor" of the eyes, and must adjust to light and dark by expanding or contracting like the opening in a camera.

When you're out in the bright sunshine or in a brightly-lighted room, the pupils of your eyes are small, and admit less light to the nerve centers of your eyes.

In darkness, the pupil must expand to allow all the light possible to enter the eye and enable you to see.

For an illustration of how quickly your pupil adjusts, stand in front of a mirror.

Place your hands over your eyes and do not admit any light to them for a few seconds. Remove your hands quickly and look at your eyes. You will see your pupils quickly contract.

Set Jubilee Reunion Plan

Robert Aaron Tyson, president of the Tyson-May reunion, announces that the Jubilee, 1920-1970, Family Reunion will take place this year in the historic Tyson's Church between Farmville and Arthur.

The reunion was first organized in 1920 by Grigg Thomas Tyson, his grandfather.

The old Tyson's Church will have an open house for friends and family each afternoon from 2-5 o'clock Nov. 26-28. On Sunday, Nov. 29, the annual reunion will be held.

Following the 50th anniversary gathering, friends and family are invited to a spread luncheon in the Major Benjamin May Chapter House, Farmville.

QUICK-DRY CEMENT

CAIRO (UPI) — A professor at Cairo's Ein Shams University claims he has discovered a quick-dry type of cement.

Professor Raouf Shaker said the cement, used to build airport runways, air raid shelters and missile bases, could be in use a half hour after it was cast.

VOTE YES NOV. 3

We can think of no project, more worthy, than a new hospital to upgrade the level of health care and make a better community.

Will you join hands with the prominent, professional and business leaders and clubs and associations of our county and register assistance to this great cause by casting a vote on November 3 for a new hospital?

We the undersigned understand the urgent needs of the hospital and endorse the Bond referendum.

Lady Bird Says LBJ Doesn't Want To Be Involved

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson says her husband has no intention of injecting himself into national politics and won't be "harnessed and bridled into anything demanding a schedule."

"He is concerned for a few personal friends he believes in," but that's the extent of his interest in the current election campaign, Mrs. Johnson said in an interview.

If asked his main occupation nowadays, Mrs. Johnson said, the ex-president is likely to reply: "I am trying to keep my grass green and keep my cattle fat."

"Vastly relieved" that her 783-page book, "A White House Diary," is now published, the former first lady said: "At the head of my docket now is learning to play golf."

Johnson needs a steady partner for the sport which he took up again this summer at Lady Bird Johnson Municipal Park near Fredericksburg, Tex.

His own book is progressing well Mrs. Johnson said. But she doesn't expect it to be out until sometime next year because the publishers "probably would give me a play for a number of months."

Asked if Johnson might speak out in reply to President Nixon or Vice President Spiro T. Agnew in the campaign, Mrs. Johnson said: "He doesn't want to inject himself into it. Except for being a very concerned citizen and voting for the people in our own area and being quite earnest about trying to improve our own area, I do not foresee any activity."

Johnson did a little campaigning in his home state for Lloyd Bentsen, the Democrat running for the Senate in Texas against Republican Rep. George Bush.

While here promoting her book, Mrs. Johnson went to Maryland campaign parties "for two good friends of mine for whom I have high hopes." Her candidates are congressional hopeful Tom Boggs, son of long-time Johnson friend Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., and a newcomer to politics running for the Maryland House of Delegates, Ruffin Maddox whose wife, Marcia, was on Mrs. Johnson's White House staff.

Asked to assess the effectiveness of campaigning by a first lady, veteran campaigner Lady Bird said:

"I think she naturally can be helpful speaking for her husband. She's the next thing to him. He can't be everywhere and since people do want to understand the man who is their leader, I think they have a feeling of being closer to him and understanding him and knowing more about him when they meet his wife."

"And I'm sure some of that must rub off on other candidates too."

Mrs. Johnson emphatically declared there were no regrets at all over her husband's decision not to run in 1968. "We gave it all we had," and she feels "satisfied enough" about those presidential years.

Mrs. Johnson said "I don't think there's a chance" a president can become isolated and surrounded by yes-men as has been suggested by former Johnson press secretary George Reedy.

"Nobody has such a barrage of information flung at him. And quite truly it is not all plaudits and friendly and hurrahs. It's on the three faces of television (the three networks) and all that stack of papers lying on his bed that come in with his tea every morning.

"How can he fail to listen? He has his mail. A wise person, after all, then there are senators from most anybody, would feel it necessary to be attuned to that both parties and loud voices proclaiming their views. No, I don't think there's a chance."

Seek Dialogue With Students

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — In an effort to establish a dialogue with college students on U.S. foreign policy, the State Department sent letters to the nation's 1,648 accredited colleges and universities soliciting invitations for campus visits.

In the five weeks that have passed the department has received 272 replies, all from relatively small schools.

"I'm told that's a good batting average, but percentagewise, it's not too high," said Assistant Secretary of State Michael Collins, head of the campus liaison program.

"All the responses we've received have been enthusiastic and there hasn't been one negative one," he said in an interview.

Collins, a former astronaut who joined the State Department 10 months ago, said the campus project was initiated by Secretary of State William P. Rogers. "When I was hired, he told me to get with youth."

The program is one of several such Nixon administration projects. The Justice Department has been sending representatives to campuses since September. Earlier that month, eight young White House staffers visited 27 campuses across the country.

Collins said he hopes to mobilize 30 to 40 State Department officers to visit about 600 campus within the next year.

In replying to the department, a few campus leaders expressed doubt the visits would accomplish anything tangible. But most said they would welcome State Department officials.

"The students aren't excited at this point," said William Boudreau, 36, staff assistant to Collins.

"Their reaction is toned down. Their reception is polite and friendly but the mood is generally antiestablishment. There's a sense of discouragement."

"We hope to stimulate interest in the government and get students to realize all is not lost. They're not very hopeful."

The Worry Clinic Subsidizes His Mail Service

Ted's shrewd questions will be of interest to all of you who have a business outlook. Many people have no idea about business costs. In fact, I have asked clergymen at their conventions to estimate the average cost of a one-page dictated letter, and they guess it at 25c to 30c. Compare below!

an advertising expert. "Dr. Crane," he began, "we ordered your booklet on 'Modern Advertising Strategy' and I used the test therein for a luncheon club.

"But we handle a huge amount of direct mail advertising. How can you possibly mail booklets to your readers at the minimal charge of 20c.

"While the printing costs thereof are not that high, you can't possibly meet the labor and handling charges.

"So who subsidizes your mail service?" Newspapers are really America's greatest educational agency.

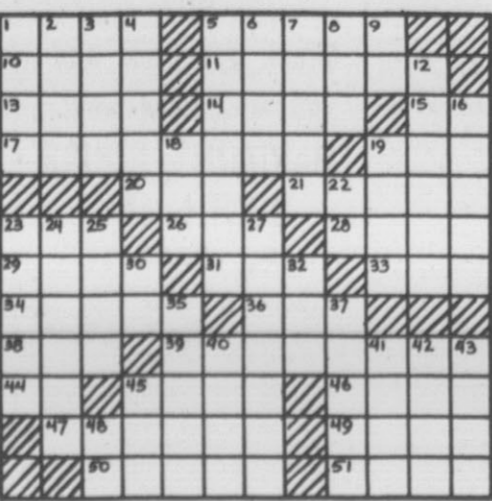

They serve as vast "Universities in Print." For they take people at the age of 18, when most of them quit school, and inform, entertain and advise them throughout those 52 adult years of their life till they die at the average longevity figure of 70 years.

Ted is experienced in handling mail so if you also have a business outlook, then listen to my reply to Ted's questions:

Private and State Universities not only don't break even but usually go in the red every year. So your "University in Print" also goes in the red on this

Usual Costumes To Be Again Favorites

By CAROLYN A. BOWERS
NEW YORK (UPI) — Traditional Halloween costumes will still make the trick or treat scene this year. Leading department stores across the country report that the usual gamut of witches, cowboys and Indians, devils and ghosts still are top favorites.

Other perennial outfits include doctors and nurses, scarecrows, skeletons, pirates and clown. Animal favorites such as lions, tigers and leopards make the list, too, as do space suits—a fad a few years back that has since become classic.

Although most retailers reported that "monsters are still big," W.S. Hicks, a national buyer for F.W. Woolworth Co. feels that the popularity of the "more lovable" characters is increasing.

"The Saturday morning cartoon characters on television seem to be what a lot of the kids want now," Hicks said. Many stores reported that they were featuring such characters as Mickey Mouse, Hot Wheels, Superman, Batman, and, of course, Caspar the Ghost, who has been around for years.

F.A.O. Schwarz, a leading New York toy store, said along with the traditional outfits and cartoon favorites, it also is offering gypsy, peasant and

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Thursday, October 29, 1970—25

Spanish senorita outfits for Panther and robot costumes and will be heavily advertised.

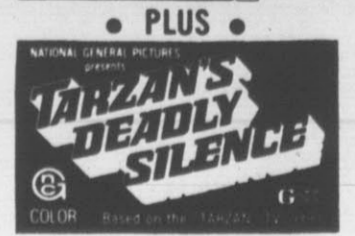

Costumes at Woolworth stores ranged from $1.75 to $2.99, with most masks retailing under $1.

However, all costumes don't come out of stores. The do-it-yourselfers who raid the attic for old clothes and cosmetics make Halloween complete.

educational "fringe benefit," namely the psychiatric counseling service via the booklets and letter - service attached to this "Worry Clinic."

Dartnell Corporation, a famous cost analysis firm in Chicago, makes an annual analysis of the "average" letter cost for firms whose executives dictate letters that are then transcribed by a secretary and mailed to customers, clients, patients, etc.

And the average cost for a one-page, single-spaced letter last year amounted to $3.04, not the mere 20c you send for booklets to this newspaper!

Obviously, most of your letters don't require such a personal, dictated reply, for about 95 percent of your requests ask for specific booklets.

But even the booklet service costs 28c per inquiry!

And I receive no royalties whatsoever on the booklets and no remuneration for the 2 days per week I must devote to those 5 percent of letters that require personal handling.

Thus, the only way this mail service is maintained is because I also donate all speaking fees for 30 days of lectures each year.

Like Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, I contribute my lecture fees to keep my "pet" educational project afloat.

As a former college professor, as well as lifelong Sunday School teacher, I am deeply concerned with the moral erosion in America, as shown by the zooming divorce rates, delinquency figures, school dropouts, etc.

So via my speaking fees I make up the 8-cents per letter loss on every piece of mail that comes to me via the newspapers all over the U.S.A.

For this mail service is an ally of every local Mental Health Association, yet doesn't even cost the taxpayers a cent!

We keep the mail service at the 20-cent figure, for those two thin dimes don't zoom the weight of your letter beyond the 6 cent stamp.

And 20c doesn't prohibit many grammar schoolers from also writing for various psychological "Rating Scales."

So when you order booklets, you are not adding a red cent to the profits of your local newspaper nor to me, for this is an eleemosynary educational service. It is the labor charges of opening, sorting, stuffing and sealing your return envelopes that really run up the major cost per inquiry.
