Talk Organizing Regional Council Of Governments More Voting Than Expected
Some Of Larger Tar Heel Cities See Big Turnout

 Pitt County Commissioners yesterday afternoon discussed the establishment of a regional council of governments to act as a clearing house for federal grants, and approved a resolution protesting a bill before the U.S. Congress that would by 1974 place the burden of the food stamp program on the states and county governments.

operation, local governmental units would have direct representation. Such councils are being investigated in many areas of the state, County Manager H. R. Gray explained, because economic districts are not responsive to governments in many cases. Laymen are appointed to serve in organizations such as the Mid-East commission, while COGs would be governed by government representatives that would be controlled either directly or indirectly by elected representatives, and thus be more responsive to the needs of the various governmental agencies. Commissioners approved sending a letter to legislators voicing their protest of a bill which would place the financial burden of the food stamp program on the states, through a gradual change-over, by 1974.

At present the federal government bears the full cost of the bonus stamp program, with the exception of the distribution of the stamps. Under the proposal now before Congress, the cost of the bonus stamps would be placed on the various states by 1974. Traditionally in North Carolina the state has passed along one-half the cost of such programs to the counties. A Mental Health Authority was appointed by commissioners yesterday to act for the board in mental health matters. Members of the authority named yesterday include: Dr. Ed Monroe, Dr. C. R. Prewett, Mrs. Myree Hayes, commissioner R. L. Martin and county manager Gray. The authority will be in a position to make applications for federal grants.

RALEIGH (AP)—Voter turnout was running heavier than expected in some of North Carolina's largest cities this morning as Tar Heels went to the polls to choose congressmen, legislators and local officials. Early voters met fog and scattered clouds across much of the state when the polls opened at 6:30 a.m., but by mid-morning skies were reported clear in most places. The early turnout in Charlotte and Raleigh was reported unexpectedly heavy. The voting was also reported heavy in Asheville where a hot sheriff's race drew unusual interest and in Winston-Salem where voters were electing a mayor and other local officials. Moderate turnouts were reported in Durham and Greensboro and a light turnout in Fayetteville and Cumberland County. Election officials had predicted a turnout of about 900,000 in this off-year election. Besides the 10 congressional races and the local contests, voters were deciding on seven proposed constitutional amendments. The polls close at 6:30 p.m. except in the 19 counties with voting machines, which can remain open an extra hour. In the most populous county, Mecklenburg, which uses machines, voters will be able to cast ballots until 7:30 p.m. Gov. Bob Scott planned to vote in his home precinct in Alamance County. He spent Monday night at his farm home at Haw River. The voting climaxed a vigorous campaign by Republicans who hoped to increase their representation in Congress and the General Assembly. Democrats hold a 7-4 edge in the state's 11-member congressional delegation. "We had hoped for one million votes, which would be a record for an off year said Alex Brock, executive secretary of the state Board of Elections. But he added that a check with local election officials indicated the total would not reach that high. "This is one time I'd like to miss my prediction," he said. The only district without a congressional race was the 2nd, where veteran Democrat Rep. L. H. Fountain was unopposed. The Democrats were assured of 30 unopposed seats in the state House of Representatives and 18 in the State Senate. One Republican was unopposed in the House and one in the Senate. Two Negroes were on the ballot for State House seats—Rep. Henry Frye of Guilford County (Greensboro) and James Ross of Mecklenburg, both Democrats. One Negro, Joy J. Johnston a Robeson County Democrat, won election to the House without opposition. The American party offered five candidates for the State House and three for the State Senate. Democrats made their strong-

Renovation Said Under Way For Moyewood Social Service Center

By TOM BAINES
 Reflector Staff Writer
 Architect Cameron Dudley of Dudley & Shoe reported last night to the Housing Authority that, to date, the Social Services Center in Moyewood is approximately 15 per cent complete. Dudley told commissioners that all contractors are now on the job and proceeding with the renovation of the former county school bus garage. The architect pointed out that the demolition work required on the structure is now approximately 99 per cent complete. Original contract timetables called for the renovations to be completed within 180 working days but it has been emphasized that a number of factors could change the final finishing date. Commissioners have authorized the continued use of a housing unit in Moyewood as a temporary center while work continues on the garage and executive director A E Dubber said last night that the unit is being fully utilized with everyday use. The occupancy report, submitted by the director of tenant affairs, Mrs. Sallye C. Streeter showed that in the N.C. 22-1 (Meadowbrook) section, 64 of the units were occupied as of Nov. 1 with residents paying an average monthly rent of $37.33. In N.C. 22-2 (Kerney Park) 165 of the housing units were in occupancy and residents paid an average of $43.13 in monthly rent, Mrs. Streeter reported. Only one unit in N.C. 22-3 (Moyewood) was vacant at the first of the month, the report indicated, with 186 units occupied. Residents of the subdivision paid an average rent of $43.17. All 40 units in the N.C. 22-4 section of Moyewood were occupied, she said, and the monthly rent averaged $44.70. The neighborhood organizations in the various areas are progressing with their projects, Mrs. Streeter added. Other matters on a brief agenda last night included a report on a visit to the Authority on Oct. 7 by J. W. Adams and Robert Hutton, realty specialists from Atlanta. Dubber told commissioners that a workshop will be held in Charlotte on Nov. 12. Board members authorized the attendance of four at the one-day session. The executive director said that the workshop will involve accounting, maintenance, project management, tenant relations and social services discussions among other subjects. He also reported that the last two houses in the original 23-3 section of Moyewood have been sold. Dubber noted that the Authority is still receiving inquiries on the prospects of turnkey housing in the Southside project.

Campaign Clamor Yields To Big Day Of Decision

 WASHINGTON (AP) — The angry clamor of a bitter mid-term election campaign yielded today to the solemnity of decision as Americans cast the ballots that chose a new Congress and shaped their state governments.

Explosives And Building Plans Netted In Raids

NEW YORK (AP) — Six persons, including a 54-year-old Bronx mother and her son, have been arrested in police raids that uncovered a variety of explosive material for making bombs and building plans for 50 structures. Bronx Dist. Atty. Burton B. Roberts said there was reason to believe "that four of the six persons arrested are connected with the Weatherman faction of the Students for a Democratic Society." Announcing the arrests Monday, Roberts said his office had maintained surveillance on two apartments in the Bronx and one in Manhattan since mid-July. He said the investigation by his office began after the bombing of public buildings in the city. None of the six arrested was specifically charged with having committed any bombings. Those seized were Mary Doyle, 54, and her son Timothy, 28; Beth Katz, 26, and Donald Cavellini, 26, all of New York; Cavellini's twin brother, William, of Somerville, Mass.; and Jefferson Bernard, 19, of Syracuse. Roberts said all but Mrs. Doyle and William Cavellini were connected with the Weatherman. All six were charged with criminal possession of explosive materials and conspiracy to commit arson. Roberts said Patrolmen Dennis Johnston and Gilbert Pelaez went to a second-floor apartment Sunday night in response to a call that a man had been seen there with a gun. After the patrolmen arrived, police said, they came across some of the explosive material and 19 books on bomb making at the Cavellini apartment here. Other evidence seized there included a metal master for printing draft cards, 400 counterfeit cards, pipe cutters and the file of architectural plans. At the apartment of Mrs. Katz the raiders discovered a complete machine shop, plus metal pipes, fuses and more instructional material on making bombs. At the Doyles' apartment, the raid yielded a collection of metal pipes, firecrackers, nearly 100 gas masks, forged Navy discharge papers and maps with locations of buildings in Chicago and all Board of Education buildings in the Bronx.

apathy and indecision defied the bitter rhetoric, the hours of televised persuasion, the law-and-order litany of the Republicans, the dire economic assessment hammered by Democrats. And the great enigmas remained as the ballots were marked and folded, the voting levers pulled. Among them: —How will the nation react to a Republican offensive concentrated on the issue of lawlessness and violence—and dramatized at the last minute by the confrontation in San Jose, Calif., between Nixon and antiwar demonstrators? —What of the economy, the Democratic issue? Will the voters look, as Democrats have urged, to their wallets? —What will be the polling place impact of the six-week General Motors strike, which has idled some 400,000 men, most of them in crucial, hotly contested midwestern states? —Where and how will state concerns, local problems, personalities, issues never raised on a national platform, override the broader arguments and shape the outcome? Republican against Democrat, law and order versus inflation and unemployment, the argument raged into election eve in a nationally televised exchange. Republicans chose for their election-eve windup a nationally televised reprise of the Phoenix, Ariz., campaign speech in which Nixon recalled the San Jose incident and declared: "The time has come to draw the line."

Varying Vote

The voting turnout by 11 a.m. this morning seemed to vary throughout the county. Some 457 had voted in Farmville, where there are about 1,600 registered. Around 150 had cast ballots in Grifton and 55 out of about 700 registered voters had turned out in Grimesland. Some 275 had voted in Winterville and 97 in Pactolus. Voting in Greenville as judged by the turnout at three polling places, seemed to vary with the rest of the county. Elm Street Gym reported about 400 had voted and called it a good turnout. The main fire station showed an average vote with 179. The vote at West End Fire Station had been light, with 141 out of about 1,300 having cast ballots by 11 o'clock.

Says Holshouser 'Knows Better'

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott says North Carolina Republican chairman James Holshouser has been a legislator long enough to know the state has "no unused funds lying around." Scott accused Holshouser Monday of making an "irresponsible and misleading" statement on state tax funds. Holshouser had said over the weekend the state has not yet "spent a dime" of the cigarette and soft drink taxes levied by the 1969 General Assembly. The tax money, he said, is "just sitting there in the state treasury as part of that $118 million surplus." Scott called the statement "political in nature." He said Holshouser was referring "to the credit balance which our state must have under our balanced budget act. This balance will go for the construction of new buildings, some of which will likely go to Appalachian State University in his hometown (Boone) as well as other institutions."

Marxist Installed

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Dr. Salvador Allende, a Marxist Socialist, assumed the presidency of Chile today in a ceremony that launched three days of celebrations. He received the silk presidential sash-called the Banda de O'Higgins—from Eduardo Frei, his Christian Democratic predecessor, before 200 congressmen and representatives of 70 foreign governments. Among its first acts, Allende's Popular Unity government named a Socialist, a Communist and a member of the non-Marxist Radical party as governors of the nation's three most important provinces.

Acknowledged

A medical school program at East Carolina University has been acknowledged by a new study of national health education needs released last week by the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education. The commission, while making no formal recommendations concerning Greenville, listed ECU among a slate of "existing or developing" medical education schools in the state. The University, boasting strong area legislative backing, is currently formulating plans for a medical school and the Carnegie Commission study indicated that ECU may be available as a training medium for medical personnel by 1980. Reports that were published earlier did not mention ECU as a possible factor in the future medical education structure of the state. The study proposed three new "health education centers" in North Carolina to be located at Wilmington, Charlotte and Asheville. These proposed centers would provide educational and medical services, but would not deal heavily in medical research.

County-Wide 'Rubella Sunday' Is Set Dec. 13

Preliminary plans are being made for a county wide "Rubella Sunday" — December 13. On this day clinics will be set up throughout Pitt County to immunize every child between the ages of one and 12 years against Rubella, commonly called German measles. The danger of German measles lies not with the child's having the disease, which is usually mild, but with women in the first three months of pregnancy being exposed. Shortly after the last major epidemic in 1964, an estimated 20 to 30 thousand infants were born with severe defects as a result of the epidemic. Another epidemic is forecast for 1970-71. Dr. Allen Taylor, president of the Pitt County Medical and Dental Society, which is sponsoring the immunization project, has announced two appointments. Robert A. Henley, vice president and city executive of Planters National Bank, will serve as project coordinator and Danny Jacobson, president and general manager of Radio Station WOOW, will be publicity coordinator. Invitations to attend the first organizational meeting next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in Wright Auditorium at ECU are being mailed to most civic, health, educational, and service groups in the county. Cooperating with the Medical-Dental Society will be the North Carolina Department of Public Health, the Pitt County Department of Public Health, and the United Health Services of North Carolina, Inc. The Rubella vaccine will be available at no cost through the public health departments. The United Health Services, supported through the United Fund, will provide professional assistance in organizing the drive to make everyone aware of the immunization day. Transportation will be provided for those who need it.

Funeral For Cardinal Cushing Scheduled Saturday

Nervous Breakdown, Or 'Near One' For 1 In 5

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Public Health Service has reported evidence suggesting nearly one in five American adults has experienced a nervous breakdown or felt one coming on.

The agency questioned 6,672 adults representing the nation's 111-million population of civilian, noninstitutional persons between 18 and 79. Eighty-eight per cent were white; 10 per cent black.

Nervousness, psychological inertia, insomnia, trembling hands, nightmares, perspiring hands, fainting or blackouts, headache, dizziness or heart palpitations.

In one of its major findings, the report declared: "The over-all per cent reporting having had a nervous breakdown was 4.9 per cent and an additional 12.8 per cent reported having felt an impending nervous breakdown ... without its actual occurrence ... for a combined rate of 17.7 per cent — or almost one out of five with an estimated 20 million adults having experienced such severe psychological distress."

The survey found proportionately more women than men reported nervous breakdowns. Black women had a significantly higher rate than white women.

Women reported breakdown threats almost twice as frequently as did men, and had significantly higher rates for the 12 distress symptoms.

But the report found only two symptoms with significant differences by race for the same sex for both men and women.

"These were nervousness, with white men and women having a rate more than 15 per cent higher than Negroes; and dizziness, wherein Negro men and women had slightly higher rates than whites ..."

The survey found more symptoms of distress among less-educated and lower-income groups. On a geographic basis, Northeastern adults had lower rates, while Southerners had higher rates than average.

Among unexpected findings, the Public Health Service reported lower rates of breakdown among persons who had never married—especially white women—and among working men and women compared with retired men and women housekeepers, respectively.

Farmers and service workers tended to experience more nervous symptoms than did professional, clerical and operating workers.

BOSTON (AP) — Richard Cardinal Cushing will be buried at St. Coletta School at Hanover close to the retarded children he held so dear.

The 75-year-old prelate's body was to be taken down from the archbishop's residence to the Cathedral of the Holy Cross to lie in state until the funeral Saturday.

The cardinal, a longtime friend of the late President John F. Kennedy and his father, the late Joseph P. Kennedy, died at his residence Monday afternoon, less than four weeks after he stepped down as head of the Boston archdiocese on Oct. 7.

News of his death came as a shock not only to the archdiocese's Catholics but to millions of others who remembered the white-haired, gravel-voiced prelate dancing a jig at his annual Thanksgiving parties for the poor, taking nuns to a Red Sox baseball game or wearing construction workers' hard hats at ground breakings for the many new schools and hospitals he built.

His successor, Archbishop Humberto S. Medeiros, said in announcing the cardinal's passing: "He was a truly great soul, a man of universal genius, a priest of selfless dedication, a bishop of towering stature."

The cardinal was a leader in the ecumenical movement—seeking cooperation and unity among Christian churches—and his influence ranged far beyond his archdiocese.

A strong opponent of racial injustice, he said in a pastoral letter: "When a Catholic fails to take a stand against race intolerance he is a slacker in the army of the Church militant."

His wide-ranging interests and varied circle of friends were reflected in tributes pouring into the archbishop's residence.

President Nixon issued a statement at the Western White House at San Clemente, Calif., saying, "His name will always evoke for us a spirit of ecumenism, of human dignity, justice and brotherhood among men and nations."

Mrs. Aristotle Onassis, the former Jacqueline Kennedy, said she loved the cardinal and "will miss him terribly for the rest of my life."

"His life was built on love," the former first lady said, "to heal rather than to divide."

Pitt NAACP Meets Sunday

The Pitt County Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People will hold its monthly meeting at Triumph Baptist Church Sunday at 7:45 p.m.

Items on the agenda include a report from the nominating committee, a membership committee report and election of 15 representatives for the queen contest.

At the Vatican a spokesman said the cardinal's death caused "profound sadness, profound pain." Pope Paul VI prayed for his soul.

Archbishop Luigi Raimondi, the apostolic delegate to Washington, will concelebrate the funeral Mass at the cathedral at 11 a.m. Saturday along with Archbishop Medeiros and the three auxiliary bishops of Boston.

While the cardinal's body lies in state at the cathedral, public Masses will be celebrated Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at noon and at 7 p.m.

Burial will be in a crypt in the Portiuncula Chapel at St. Coletta School. In his more vigorous years, Cardinal Cushing was a frequent visitor of the retarded children there and often romped with them when time permitted.

Cardinal Cushing, son of a Boston blacksmith, headed the nation's second largest archdiocese, numbering 1.8 million Roman Catholics, from 1944 until his retirement. He was elevated to cardinal by Pope John XXIII in 1968.

In 1961 he read the prayer at the inauguration of President Kennedy and less than three years later celebrated the solemn funeral Mass for the assassinated president at St. Matthew's Cathedral in Washington.

The cardinal's health had been failing for years, forcing him to give up a dream of becoming a missionary in South America when he retired.

He marked his 75th birthday Aug. 24.

The death announcement said he was "suffering from the complication of the long-standing malignancy with which he had been afflicted for years."

The future prelate attended Boston College, conducted by the Jesuit order, and prepared for the priesthood at St. John's Seminary.

After ordination in May 1921 he served briefly as a curate in two parishes. Then the late William Cardinal O'Connell, sensing Cushing's ability as a fund raiser—a talent he later raised to an art as an archbishop—appointed him to the diocesan office of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith.

He became auxiliary bishop of Boston in 1939 and five years later was named archbishop—then the world's youngest—at age 49.

TAIPEI TELEVISION
TAIPEI, TAIWAN (UPI) — Every second household in this capital of Nationalist China owns a television set, according to official statistics. As of July, 1970, there were 162,900 television sets in the city of 1.5 million population. The country as a whole has 600,000 video sets.

It's A Woman's World At N. Pitt High School

It's apparently a woman's world at North Pitt High School these days.

Seniors Deanie Harris and Mildred Sneed, elected presidents of the North Pitt Student Government Association Friday were two of the nine girls elected to fill the 10 elective posts.

In all 86 candidates were seeking elections. Thirty-six of them were boys. There were 14 candidates for the office of president from the senior class, and 18 candidates for each of the other offices.

Miss Harris, from Pactolus, and Miss Sneed of Route 5, Greenville, will share duties as head of the SGA for the school year.

The other officers, too, will divide their responsibilities as two students were elected to fill each of the posts of vice-president, secretary, treasurer and reporter.

Junior class members Christie Speir and Debra Andrews were elected vice-presidents while Juniors Alice Hardy and Susan James were elected treasurers.

Diane Ross and Peggy Lynch, both sophomores, were elected to the post of secretary, while Ricky Creech, the only male office holder, and Brenda Payton, were elected reporters.

Miss Andrews, Miss Speir and Miss James are from Bethel, while Miss Ross, Miss Hardy, and Miss Creech are from Route 5.

Will War On Pesticides

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The Tobacco Growers Information Committee will spearhead an educational campaign against pesticide residues in U.S. tobacco sold to West Germany and other foreign markets.

This was decided Monday by the organization's executive committee. Growers will be urged to avoid undesirable residues in order to meet the zero or extremely low tolerances required by overseas purchasers.

Carl T. Hicks of Walstonburg was elected to a 13th term as president of the committee.

Some 130 tobacco industry men from several states attended the annual session.

Robert A. Darr, president of the Federal Land Bank and the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Columbia, S.C., told the group some equitable method for selling tobacco allotments is needed to make mechanized harvesting practical.

Milton E. Harrington of New York City, president and chief executive officer of Liggett & Myers, said that the "enemies of tobacco" are a threat to the whole free enterprise system.

5, Greenville. Lynch is from Route 4, Greenville, and Miss Payton from Route 6, Greenville.

Two candidates, one white and one black, were nominated from each of the home rooms, and students were required to vote for both white and black candidates for each office, or have their ballots voided.

Of the 1065 students enrolled at the school, more than 95 per cent voted in the election, according to principal Walter Latham.

North Pitt opened its doors for the first time to students in September. Its student body is composed of students who formerly attended Stokes-Pactolus, Bethel and Belvoir schools.

Class officers will be elected this week at the new school, and election of SGA legislators will probably be held next week.

Set Laymen's Day Observance

A "Mark Conference" has been planned by the Laymen of York Memorial A. M. E. Zion Church for 8 p.m. November 6.

According to the Laymen Day Observance chairman Leroy Foster, the conference will take the same format as a real conference and be one of information and enjoyment.

Rogers Moore will serve as Bishop and W. M. Meyers will be the associate Bishop. The presiding elders are, Sylvester Wilson, June White, and George F. Garrett.

The program will conclude at 11 a.m. Sunday with Arthur E. Brooks of Washington, D. C. conducting services.

According to Foster the public is invited to attend.

Vandals Broke Window Panes

Greenville police are continuing their investigation of an act of vandalism at Hardee's Restaurant at 521 Cotanche St. that was reported yesterday.

Investigators said five window panes were broken out at the restaurant during Sunday night. No estimate of damage was given.

Amateur Radio Week Observed

Governor Robert W. Scott proclaimed the week of November 2-8, 1970 as AMATEUR RADIO WEEK IN NORTH CAROLINA in recognition of the amateur or "ham" operators serving their communities and nation while pursuing a satisfying hobby.

The Brightleaf Amateur Radio Club (B. A. R. C.) started their activities to celebrate the occasion by calling a special meeting on Thursday, October 29th in order that Lewis McCoy from the American Radio Relay League in Newington Conn. could attend. McCoy gave a talk on antennas, one of his favorite subjects. The meeting was well attended not only by amateurs in the surrounding area, but by several officials from the Voice of America.

McCoy left Greenville to attend the A. R. R. L. Roanoke Division Convention in Raleigh scheduled for October 31-November 1st. The Roanoke division comprises the states of Virginia, West Virginia and North and South Carolina. This year the convention was sponsored by the Raleigh Amateur Radio Society (R. A. R. S.). Each state was well represented and B. A. R. C. had approximately one third of its membership in attendance with hams from Pine Tops, Farmville and Robersonville as well as Greenville.

To wind up activities the Raleigh A. R. S. is sponsoring a North Carolina QSO Party, November 7-8th, wherein stations all over the U. S. A. and Canada as well as many foreign countries will be talking to stations in North Carolina. Many of the B. A. R. C. members will be participating in this contest which will be a topic at the next regular meeting scheduled for November 10.

Will Hold Program On Human Relations

WINTERVILLE — A Human Relations Program for students of the D. H. Conley School will be held Wednesday at 10 a.m. at Winterville High School.

The program is being held in conjunction with a program planned Sunday at East Carolina University featuring the Honorable Brooks Hayes.

Mrs. Annie M. Brown, counselor in the Winterville schools, is coordinating the program for Wednesday. Its purpose is to promote human relations and community responsibility; to promote peaceful relations, respect and good will between the races; and to ease the transition for the dual school system to a unitary one, Mrs. Brown explained.

Participating in the program will be: the Rev. Horace Thompson, pastor, Winterville Baptist Church; Yvonne Johnson, G. R. Whitfield School; Robinson and Winterville school choruses; the Rev. Tommy Payne, chairman of the Greenville Good Neighbor Council; Leonard Wiggins, consultant for the eastern region of the N. C. Good Neighbor Council; Chicod School Chorus; Mrs. Annie Brown, chairman of the Ayden Good Neighbor Council; Winterville School Principal Bob Carraway; and the Rev. J. N. Gilbert, pastor of the Arthur FWB Church.

Elm City Chief Now Relieved Of His Duties

ELM CITY, N.C. (AP) — Police Chief V. L. Wall has been relieved of his duties by the town board of this Wilson County community following the fatal shooting of a man he said resisted arrest.

Chief Wall told sheriff's deputies he shot Herbert Armstrong, 25, while he and Armstrong were struggling early Sunday. Wall reported Armstrong came at him with a knife while the officer was arresting him for alleged traffic violations.

Wall's suspension is effective until the sheriff's department and the State Bureau of Investigation report on the incident.

After the police chief, who is white, shot Armstrong, a Negro, a crowd of blacks gathered at the police station for several hours Sunday. There was no violence.

No incidents were reported Monday.

Handshaking Marathon By Pat

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Pat Nixon has completed an eight-state campaign tour for Republican candidates by shaking more than 1,200 hands in a two-hour marathon here.

The First Lady appeared for Sen. George Murphy, seeking re-election to his second term, at a reception Monday with Murphy's look-alike son Dennis. The elder Murphy was campaigning elsewhere in the state with Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Asked by newsmen whether the handshaking had taxed her energy, Mrs. Nixon smiled and said: "No, I'm not tired. I do enjoy it."

Mrs. Nixon's campaign swing started two weeks ago in Maryland.

Five Injured In Accidents

Five persons were reported injured in one of two traffic collisions investigated here yesterday by police.

Officers said the injuries were caused when cars driven by Henry Vines Wooten, 64, of 1313 South Greene St. and William Henry Latham, 42, of Route 5, Greenville collided about 5:45 p.m. at the intersection of Ford and Ward Streets.

Wooten and one passenger in his car were injured, while three passengers in the Latham vehicle were reported hurt.

Latham was charged with failing to yield the right of way and leaving the scene of an accident.

Damage was estimated to be $1,500 to the Wooten car and $450 to the Latham vehicle.

Kirby William Loftin, 79, of Route 5, Kinston was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 4:45 p.m. mishap at the intersection of N. C. 11 and U. S. 264 By-pass.

Officers said the Loftin car collided with a vehicle driven by Phillip Conrad Ellis, 23, of Black Creek, causing an estimated $250 damage to the Ellis vehicle and about $180 damage to the Loftin car.

Storm Damage To N.C. Beach

HOLDEN BEACH, N.C. (AP) — Mayor John F. Holden estimates that $150,000 damage was caused to Holden Beach by heavy weekend rains, high tides and strong winds.

The storm undermined three oceanfront cottages, demolished protective bulkheads and barricades, and washed out large sections of sand from lots near Lockwood Folly Inlet.

Mayor Holden said the tides were three to four feet above normal.

Full Length Look For Spring

RESORT SPRING COLLECTION UNVEILED—Fashion designer Donald Brooks, proponent of the controversial midi look, unveiled his resort spring collection in New York last week. The collection featured brilliant colors and prominent display of the midi and full length look. At left is the full length dress in multi-colored organza with tapestry jacket; evening pajama ensemble in two-piece revealing bared midriff, in center; and a day time midi of mixed gingham in pants suit. (AP Wirephoto)

Professor Says Tax Laws Penalize Wives

By MILICENT BROWER
NEW YORK (WNS) — Our current tax laws penalize working wives, according to Columbia University Law Professor George Cooper. "Not only that," says the young Professor, "but the laws induce many wives to stop working." The tax structure, he points out, rewards marriage by permitting joint returns including an exemption for the spouse, which is really "a cash bounty" for getting married. Cooper says that this "bounty" goes up as a man's income increases. "The value of a wife as a tax-reducing chattel in the higher brackets is almost irresistible," Professor Cooper says. He explains:
— A man earning $50,000 a year would save $5,600 on a wife.
— A man earning $25,000 would save $2,300.
— The taxpayer earning $10,000 saves only $377.
Cooper emphasizes that the problem of working wives is that "the primary reward from our current tax provisions goes to those families where one spouse works."

"Married couples combine their income and exemptions on a single return and divide it into equal shares, thus enabling their income to be taxed in lower brackets. If both spouses work and earn similar amounts their income is already split into equal shares and these provisions are meaningless. But if only one spouse works, the provisions provide maximum benefits."
Homemaker Exempt
Further, Cooper says, "a woman doing homemaking in her own home—cooking, cleaning, shopping, child-tending—is tax exempt. But should she plan to do the same work for another family for a cash reward, she is then taxed. Consequently, women who are exempt in their jobs as wives and homemakers are forced to remain at home rather than sacrifice tax-preferred status." Cooper suggests that this situation could be corrected by permitting a working wife to deduct the costs of hiring her replacement at home, which she cannot now do, except in low income families.

Cooper also points out that the social security laws discourage married women from working. "This maximum tax is now $374.40, but a working wife must pay the full tax on her income. Yet, for the most part, the retirement benefits that she is paying for are already paid for by her husband's social security taxes, and the wife does not collect double benefits, although she may receive a partial return in her social security benefits."
"The effect of all this is that the working wife produces very little economic reward for herself and her family, even if she is contributing to society by spending her talents in a productive way, and at the same time providing work for an unskilled worker who replaces her in her home. But she must do this out of love for her work or the Internal Revenue Service."

tribution to the family is $635. If allowed a $3,000 deduction for child-care, carfare, etc., and with joint return eliminated, her contribution would be $1,779.
Cooper calls for the elimination of preferential treatment given to couples filing joint returns because they primarily benefit one class of persons, families where one spouse is employed. "Because of the immense loss of revenue from these favored families, tax rates are fixed proportionately higher, imposing an unnecessary burden on single persons and families where both spouses work."
Cooper also asks for allowable deductions for the working wife for child care, maid service and the additional expenses created while working. At present, deductions for child care are allowed only for women who earn $6,900 a year or less and even they may only deduct $900.
In addition, the social security tax of working wives should be reduced substantially so as to reflect the true benefits she may expect to receive from the social security system.

"Making these tax forms," Professor Cooper believes, "will make a very great difference in the situation of the working wife; in many cases, it will make the difference between a job being a worthwhile activity and it being a losing proposition."
The benefits of these changes in the law would be substantial to the working wife and her family, and he underscores, "it's worth working for."

Typical Cases
Here's how Professor Cooper has it worked out:
— A husband earning $25,000 with a wife who earns $10,000: the wife is taxed $4,470 under present Federal, State, City and Social Security laws. Her net contribution to the family income is $2,280. If she were allowed a deduction of $3,250 a year to cover the money she spends on child-care, maid, carfare, lunches, and clothing, and with the joint return eliminated, she would contribute $5,497.
— A husband earning $10,000 a year with a wife who earns $5,000: taxed under the present laws at $1,365, her net con-

Suburban Beauty Hints

from Clara Garris
Don't Shave the Head!
You've heard the old saying, "Beauty is as beauty does," haven't you? Well, it's a good thing for some of us who have funny-shaped heads that our hairdos can make us look more normal, even more beautiful!
Take the "triangle"-shaped face, for instance. Shave your head, or wear a butch cut, and you'd look like a walking "yield sign." But wear a hair style that adds width at the brow and you are back to normal, again—just as beautiful as you choose to be.
Suppose your facial shape accentuates a broad brow and narrow jaw? This is called the "inverted triangle." Don't wear a butch hairdo on this head, either! Instead, use a hair style with fullness at the jaw area, and fluffy, asymmetrical bangs that cover part of the brow.

Every Abby Has Her Problems

By Abigail Van Buren
(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: You are the only person who can help me because in an indirect way, you are the cause of my problem. I have the same name as you.
To make matters worse, I work for a newspaper and I am bombarded with letters from people who think I am you. Also, whenever I am introduced as "Abby Van Buren," people start pouring out their tales of woe. I have a hard time convincing them that I am not you.
To top it all off, I am constantly bothered by nuts who telephone me in the middle of the night and want to tell me their life history. I have had my telephone number changed twice this year, and even the I now have an unlisted number, they still find me.
I have even considered changing my name, but I will do this only as a last resort. Thanks for any help you can give me.
ABBY VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Until some nice young man comes along and changes your name, I guess you'll just have to be a surrogate Abby. You'll be surprised what you hear.

DEAR ABBY: I feel very guilty and indebted because I have no strong feelings toward an 18-year-old boy who says he is in love with me. He is always so kind and gentle and he spends all his hard-earned money on me. He is always looking out for my safety and well-being.
I really enjoy his company and am grateful for his gifts, but I am unable to return his affection.
I would like to date others, but I feel so guilty because I know he has no other girl. I hate to hurt him. Can you advise me what to do?
FEELING GUILTY

DEAR FEELING GUILTY: A little of that guilt is probably earned. Don't accept his gifts, and you will not feel so indebted to him. Date others, and insist that he do, too. By trying not to hurt him now you could be building him up for a more serious "hurt" later on.

DEAR ABBY: I have a thought which I hope you will find worthy of passing on to your readers.
I wish parents of married children would quit competing with the other set of parents for their children's company on holidays such as Thanksgiving and Christmas. Altho our policy was to alternate between his parents and mine, no matter who asked us first, my parents would sulk for months after we spent the holidays with my in-laws.
Both sets of parents are gone now, but those holidays which could have held such pleasant memories cause my heart to ache a little.
SAD MEMORIES

DEAR SAD: Yes, it is worth passing on—especially with the holiday season approaching. Thanks for writing.
DEAR ABBY: Perhaps your reader, "HATES WASTE," would be interested in knowing that the "silly rule of etiquette" that one should always leave "something" on his plate was begun as an act of charity.
During the Middle Ages, the affluent always left some food on their dinner plates for a good reason. A huge bowl was passed to each diner, who wiped his plate clean with a hunk of bread which he also deposited in the bowl. The bowl was then taken out into the streets to feed the poor.
If the diner "forgot" to leave something on his plate, he was fined! (The fine would be used to feed the needy.)
Today leaving food on one's plate is wasteful, but it originated as a charitable custom.

English Women Are Tired Moms Kilt Is Traded For Trousers

LONDON (WNS) — Dr. G. W. Lynch of Queen Elizabeth College blames working mothers for the fact that two out of three English children don't get enough to eat and one in ten is suffering from malnutrition. "Many women are too tired to prepare a healthy evening meal, and men are little help," said the doctor. His suggested remedy: better meals at school to make up for poor feeding at home.

EDINBURGH, Scotland (WNS) — Ruth Adams of Miami, Florida, was embarrassed to be turned away at a local restaurant because she was wearing trousers. Duncan Reid, the Scotsman who was her dinner host, solved the problem in a jiffy. He offered her his kilt, wiggled into her trousers, and all was well.

Bad Times For Girl Watchers

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — Signs of the season say a rough winter's ahead for girl watchers.

BRYAN HAISLIP

As falling leaves signal advancing autumn, the Raleigh scene shows more and more women in pants in more and more places. First at parties and football games. Then in shopping centers and on downtown streets. Now in offices of state government and business.

The message becomes clear: the solution for the fashion quandy over skirt lengths is the pants suit. Which means street corner oglers will be lucky to catch a flash of ankle, even on a windy day, rather than the expansive view afforded by the mini dress.

Men may think it represents going from one extreme to the other. The girls look on it as a compromise.

"The mini is old. I don't like the mini. Pants suits are smart and comfortable, and you don't worry about a hem," reasoned one young lady. "I'm not about to buy a dress this fall."

An Affair of State
The style trend took on significance recently with reports that some daring secretaries and file clerks in state departments were coming to work in pants.

No cause for confrontation, said State Personnel Director Claude Caldwell. There is no policy on what state employees wear to work, he said.

turned up a consensus: pants are great for sports or at home, but a dress is more appropriate for meeting the public.

"I like pants suits but I don't wear them to the office," said Barbara Etheridge, one of Secretary of State Thad Eure's pretty singles. "I wouldn't feel right."

Allowing pants at work could get out of hand, she said. "You know, slacks with shirttails out. Sloppy."

Speaking for the Feminine Mrs. Jewell Adcock of the State Highway Department's public relations office said she didn't think pants on women create a good image.

"I enjoy wearing a dress and being a woman," she added. As for skirt lengths, she said she's leaving hers where they are — a few inches above knee or "modified mini." Then she hedged. "At least until I'm the only woman on the street in a short skirt. We have to have some conformity, don't we?"

Emmett Burden, executive director of the State Employees Association, said the issue of women wearing pants to work hasn't come to his attention officially. An agency head asked his opinion informally.

"I can see that pants should be allowed for girls in filing and records where they have to get on ladders and reach high shelves. It can be tough climbing a ladder in those short skirts," he said.

"In front offices dealing with the public, I think a dress is more appropriate. I prefer for my own secretary to wear a nice, neat dress."

Modesty aside, pants suits are the season's salvation for women's wear merchandisers suffering as a result of hemline uncertainty.

Board Chairman Charles F. Myers, Jr., of Burlington Industries, Inc., took note of the economic impact of styles recently in reporting a decline in earnings.

The Economic View
"Confusion over fashion trends, particularly in the women's wear field, has contributed to hesitation of both consumers and retailers," he said.

Women aren't hesitating for pants. "Pants suits are selling like crazy," said Bill Ruth, merchandise division head for Raleigh's major downtown store. Better dress lines are slow.

A pants suit isn't the same as slacks. It's an outfit of pants with a long vest or tunic in the same or contrasting material.

Smart girls are salvaging last season's wardrobe by buying the right pair of pants to wear under a mini dress — instant pants suit.

An informant pointed out the pants suit can conceal liabilities just as the mini revealed assets.

In Santa Barbara, Calif. a young man entered a police station holding a grenade in his hand.

A police sergeant drew his pistol and two officers rushed the man. Finally the man was able to explain that he had brought the grenade and decided to bring it to the police station to determine if it were disarmed.

These are amusing stories and they have happy endings, but unfortunately they show something that is happening in our society which isn't good. Too often recently the bomb reports have turned out to be real and buildings have been damaged and even lives lost.

It is obvious that authorities are going to have to be doubly careful when dealing with suspicious objects and they will have to take phoned-in bomb threats seriously. This means more security in public places and a further erosion of individual liberties because all of us will have to submit to the security measures.

Terrorists who set bombs might talk about power to the people, but what they are doing is taking us further away from the freedoms that have been so important to the people of our land.

We Keep Hoping For Arms Race Solution

International relations become tremendously complicated but there is hope in a Russian diplomat statement that the Soviet Union still means to do business with the United States on nuclear arms curbs.

Strategic Arms Limitation Talks opened in Helsinki Monday and it is to everyone's advantage that some progress be made. Limiting arms cannot wait on settlement of the Middle East or Southeast Asia problems. To do so would mean that arms limitation would never be agreed upon.

Failure of these talks could mean a new nuclear arms race that could break these two super powers.

A Bright New Star For GOP

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
SAN ANGELO, Tex. — At a street corner rally in this west Texas town last Tuesday night, beginning the final week of his campaign for the U.S. Senate, Rep. George Bush demonstrated what marks him off from typical law-and-order conservative Republicans.

Once the rally ended, a college student approached Bush with a familiar complaint: the "establishment" — especially, President Nixon and Vice President Agnew — is driving youth to embrace the violence of the Weathermen.

For that, Bush must be grateful to last spring's Democratic primary when Bentsen, representing the state's tory Democrats, defeated liberal Sen. Ralph Yarborough. Had Yarborough won, Bush would have had to hammer against his errant liberalism, looking very much like all the other law-and-order Republicans.

But not quite. Bush's political advisers long ago agreed his unsuccessful 1964 campaign for the Senate concentrated too much on denigrating Yarborough as a liberal. Even if Yarborough had won the 1970 nomination, Bush would have attempted a more positive campaign.

With Bentsen, there is no such problem. Bentsen, an aristocratic south Texas millionaire, has scarcely tried attracting the liberal-labor-minority group coalition by moving left of Bush. Nor has Bentsen weakened the increasingly tight alliance between Texas business and the Republican party. Add to this Republican organizational superiority, and Bush seems the winner Tuesday.

Bush's polls give him victory through 3-to-2 margins in Dallas and Houston while rural conservative Democrats, who backed George Wallace in Carolina, concentrate on rural segregationist voters.

This fine distinction carries deep significance for Bush's national future. Although Bush was terribly worried about possible adverse impact among Texas conservatives after last week's published reports that he might supplant Agnew as Vice President in 1972, the fact remains he will be the South's foremost prospect for the national ticket — if not in 1972, then later — providing he defeats Bentsen. A major reason is that his image, particularly in this campaign, is not the abrasive hard-line conservative.

For that, Bush must be grateful to last spring's Democratic primary when Bentsen, representing the state's tory Democrats, defeated liberal Sen. Ralph Yarborough. Had Yarborough won, Bush would have had to hammer against his errant liberalism, looking very much like all the other law-and-order Republicans.

Strength For Today

RIISING TO NEW HEIGHTS
We are told that when the hawk is attacked by crows or kingbirds he does not make a counterattack but begins to soar in ever-widening circles until he gets above his assailants.

This is suggestive of the way to handle temptation when we confront it. We can meet it head-on if we care to, and sometimes there are situations when this is the only thing to do. But the wisest way to handle any besetting sin is to rise to such heights that the temptation cannot follow. If one has to fight intemperance, for instance he is very unwise if he continues to go about with intemperate people. The wisest procedure for him would be to seek out friends who have nothing to do with liquor. The same thing holds true in all the tempting situations of life. As long as we stay where temptation is rife, we shall probably find ourselves subjected to greater pressure than we can withstand. The thing to do is to follow the technique employed by the hawk who defeats his assailants by rising to heights to which they cannot ascend.

End Of Campaign Trail

OMAHA — Campaign '70 ends for me here in Heartland America, with a brass band thumping and a big crowd cheering, and the President of the United States moving as confidently about the stage of the Ak-Sar-Ben Coliseum as any linebacker on a football field.

In a few minutes, when things quiet down, Mr. Nixon will be doing what comes naturally: He will be raising an arm with Senator Hruska, the noblest Roman of them all; he will be asking support for a couple of House candidates who need it — Charles Thone of Lincoln and John McColister of Omaha; and he will be boosting the stock of that great Republican Governor, Norbert "Nobby" Tiemann.

Meanwhile, the Thone girls are standing on chairs for a better look, showing some nice legs beneath their red and white polka-dotted skirts; in the back of the hall, the University of Nebraska's Omaha band is belting John Philip Sousa; and in a crowd of nine thousand, no one is yelling four-letter words. The President is tired — there are lines in his face that were not there two years ago — but he is having the time of his life.

More vigorously than any President since FDR, Richard Nixon has injected his own power and prestige into a mid-term campaign. A vast deal of nonsense has been written about the risk he is taking. The National Observer recently headlined the view that "Nixon Invites a Beating." The Observer's correspondent found him "courting political disaster": If mid-term precedents hold, "he will take a shellacking."

Well, it could happen. One analysis has shown that in seven mid-term elections this century, in which a depressed economy and high unemployment were significant issues, the party in power has suffered an average loss of 51 seats in the House. Other analyses indicate that the party holding the White House can expect an average mid-term loss in the House of 35. On such a statistical record, the Republicans could in fact take an awful shellacking and write it down as par for the course.

Nothing like that is going to happen. Unless I wholly misread the political tides, we are nowhere near a flood stage. These are uncertain times — times of unease, times of frustration, times of anger and, paradoxically, times of boredom. Old political alliances, especially in the South, are dissolving. A new generation, indifferent to party allegiance, slowly is seeping into the mainstream. But across the country, fewer than half the eligible adults will bother to vote this fall.

Why the indifference? History, they say, is only biography, and the biographers' pens are scratching dry. Except for Spiro Agnew, no actor strides the stage who stirs a visceral (Continued on page 5)

While North Carolina's industrial growth figures have shown some decline during the third quarter, there is a note of optimism sparked by Bill Hensley on the long-range expansion of tourism in the Tar Heel state.

In fact, Hensley, who is the state's director of Travel and Promotion, predicts that the travel-tourism industry can double its annual value to North Carolina in the next decade and move ahead of textiles as the major industry in the Tar Heel state.

Such growth would, of course, hinge upon attainment of the specific tools needed for this highly specialized industry — things like airports, convention sites and roads. If these requirements are met, Hensley thinks the travel industry could be doubled, and that would be a hefty increase for the state economy in view of the fact that travel-tourism services were valued at $752 million.

Doubling the present travel business would, in his view, place it as the most valuable contributor to the state's economy, for it would then, at the decade, be somewhere around $1.5 billion.

As for industry in general, the figures for the quarter are similarly reflected in other southeastern states where declines were noted. Robert E. Leak, administrator for the North Carolina industrial promotion unit, reported last Wednesday a reduction of some 30 per cent in the value of new and expanded industry acquired in North Carolina during the first nine months of this year, as compared with the same period last year.

But Leak said new industrial prospects continue to hold up well, though decision are being delayed as planners attempt to get a feel of the situation before they move.

Leak points out that if his agency could get two or three of the big industries with whom he has been working to come in before the year is over, the situation would be turned around. The downturn was the first to be recorded during a long period of industrial expansion which has kept the state's tax base growing steadily. Part of the slowdown could be in what Leak describes as North Carolina's tendency in recent years to become "more selective" in the type of industry it has invited into the state.

One Man Fights New Feminism

New York City's Commission on Human Rights is investigating a complaint that the discotheque Cheetah discriminates against men. Someone—a man—has filed a complaint alleging he was discriminated against on a Tuesday when the girls are admitted free. He had to pay the regular fee of $3.

discrimination, the commission is empowered to order it to cease and desist.

This is a male counterattack on the commission's ruling that McSorley's saloon which after half a century as a male sanctuary was ordered to admit women. A few women have made token visits there, but not many. The sawdust on the floor sticks to their shoes.

There has been only one other similar complaint in New York. An unescorted woman was denied service in a cocktail lounge and complained. However, the management said that it was an employee's error. In fact, at the present time most cocktail lounges will admit anyone except minors as long as they bring money.

Gotham have one out. They can always refuse to serve anyone by saying they think the person is drunk. It is difficult and embarrassing for either a man or woman to prove he or she is sober, especially in the New York air. And if a person protests loudly, that can be interpreted as further evidence that they are inebriated.

If the Cheetah case results in a formal ruling, it can serve as a precedent to prohibition of ladies' days at ball parks and other sporting events. And signs in taverns all over the country reading "No Women Served at Bar" would have to come down.

Meanwhile, two women drivers have been barred from the Outboard World Championship motor boat races at Lake Havasu City, Ariz., Nov. 28-29. Melinda McCune of Denver and Dorothy Cooley of Bridgeton, Mo., have had their applications returned to them on the grounds that today's high speeds make the race too dangerous for women.

The speed with which race officials rushed mimeographed releases to the press suggests that barring is a publicity maneuver.

However, the equal rights movement is spreading. Prince Charming might find himself in considerable trouble today by not opening his glass slipper contest to men.

EAGLE BADGES . . . were presented to John Allen Tucker (L) and J. Knott Proctor III (R) during ceremonies Sunday at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church. John Streb, (C) assistant scoutmaster, took part in the ceremonies.

Eagle Badges Are Awarded 2 Scouts

Two Greenville scouts were honored Sunday morning during services at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church when they were presented Eagle Scout badges.

Receiving the coveted scouting badges from the Rev. Troy J. Barrett were J. Knott Proctor III, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Knott Proctor Jr., and John Allen Tucker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Tucker.

The parents of both scouts participated in the Court of Honor during the presentation ceremonies along with Troop 30 assistant scoutmaster John Streb.

Scouts Proctor and Tucker are active members of Troop 30, sponsored by Jarvis Memorial. Proctor's father is currently serving as chairman of the Pitt District committee of the East Carolina Council of Boy Scouts

(Continued from page 4) 1968, seem headed for Bentsen. This urban constituency, though fiercely conservative, responds to Bush's style as the rural red-neck vote would not.

In fact, Bush asked President Nixon to visit Longview in east Texas to bolster his poor standing in that region, a 1968 Wallaceite hotbed. Mr. Nixon, predictably, drew cheers there exhorting school busing and campus disorders.

But at Longview, Bush delivered no impassioned law-and-order-haranguer to the Wallaceites and stuck instead to his usual pitch—a most exotic one for a Texas conservative. "The way to turn the kids off," Bush tells his audiences, "is to tell them you have to do it just the way it's always been done. You shouldn't write off an entire generation . . . I want to be the guy who stands for change."

That won't make Bush's Senate voting record much different from Bentsen's. But it does open horizons for George Bush which now seem unlimited.

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Keeneland Hall, one of the dormitories at the University of Kentucky, prohibits all pets except goldfish.

One ingenious coed showed up recently with a dog, explaining it was named "Goldfish."

'Chicago' Here Saturday

Chicago, a group of seven from Chicago, are heading south to Greenville and will be on hand with their own particular brand of music on Saturday night at Minges Coliseum.

Calling themselves a

"creative community" the septette strives to present what they term as music that derives from the excitement of their city — Chicago. Their style incorporates a turbulent blend of jazz, blues, rock, symphonics and perhaps half dozen other labels. The Chicago has a policy of no star billing for any individual in the all male group. They insist that each musician must develop their musical ability individually as well as a unit. This group has been together for several years, and have developed a discipline which they claim has kept them in demand, including adherence to a strict schedule for rehearsals, and discussion sessions relating to their performance and material.

In past years this group has appeared at just about every major campus in the U. S. and has also been on foreign tours. They were the first American group of this type to perform in London's Royal Albert Hall without supporting acts.

Critics habitually point to their discipline and their jazz-oriented arrangements, with virtuosity of instrumental usage as the mainstay of their continued appeal to the public.

This tight-knit group of seven young music-makers, who accent the group rather than the individual to the extent that individual names do not appear on their publicity releases, will begin their concert at 8:15 in Minges Coliseum Saturday night.

Tickets are available at the Central Ticket Office. Telephone there is 758-6278.

THE CHICAGO . . . seven young male musicians, will be on hand to furnish modern entertainment Saturday night at 8:15 p.m. in Minges Coliseum.

Poodle Buried False Teeth

SCUNTHORPE, England (AP) — It took Linda Biomeley, 18, four hours to find her false teeth. Her husband, Colin, and three relatives stripped beds, moved furniture and turned up newly laid turf in the yard before the teeth were dug up near a rose bush where Suki, Linda's pet poodle, had buried them.

of America.

J. B. Kittrell, grandfather of young Proctor, has been a supporter and participant in scouting for years while both of the scout's grandmothers, Mrs. Kittrell and Mrs. J. Knott Proctor Sr., were instrumental in initiating the Girl Scouting program in Greenville.

Cadets Complete Study Period

FORK UNION, Va. Cadet John B. Winn and Cadet Capt. Louis W. Cherry, both of Greenville, N. C., have recently completed the first eight week period of study on the campus of Fork Union Military Academy, here.

Fork Union's unique One Subject Plan, enables a cadet to concentrate his efforts on one subject for the period of eight weeks. At the end of the eight weeks, an examination is given and the cadets begin on another subject.

Cadet Winn, the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Winn, has just completed English V. He is a post graduate at the academy.

Cherry has just completed Trigonometry and Advanced Algebra. A senior at the academy, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy T. Cherry.

Kilpatrick . . .

(Continued from page 4) reaction. Mr. Nixon, up there waving his arms, is neither villainous Richard nor heroic Harry. The Democrats, bereft of their great players, have produced no Antony to succeed their Texas Caesar. Mr. Nixon this afternoon is lauding Roman Hruska; Mr. Humphrey, two years back, was embracing Lester Maddox. This is the stuff of Wednesday matinees. It does not spur the pounding heart.

What has prompted Mr. Nixon to these labors? The reasons are self-evident. He has everything to gain, and nothing whatever to lose. If Republican losses in the House can be held to 10 or 12; if a few close races can be salvaged in the Senate; most of all, if a few Statehouses and State legislatures can be retained for the vital task of fixing new congressional districts, all the exertion will have been worthwhile. Yes, he's tired, but he has been tired before.

So the President stands in Heartland America, arms high, beaming against a bright blue stage, and the smile is not painted on. He loves it — the crowds, the band, the bunting, the cheers that break like friendly surf. It may be cold tonight in Moscow, Paris, and Hanoi. The purchasing power of the dollar may be dropping like the thermometers outside. But here in the Omaha Coliseum, affection falls like sunshine on his upturned face. This crowd is a warm puppy, and for a President at mid-term, that is what happiness is.

Martin Bd. Re-Zoning Hearing Held Endorses Coastal Road By Winterville Aldermen

WILLIAMSTON — Martin County Commissioners yesterday passed a resolution approving the idea of the coastal highway corridor covering highway U.S. 17 from Norfolk to Savannah.

A second resolution dealt with an application of funds for recreation purposes. This applies to the Maratock Park, now under construction on the Roanoke River near the river bridge. Through the state office, an application is being made for $18,250 in federal funds. Matching local funds for the federal funds will be provided by the county in unison with contributions from commercial establishments, groups and individuals.

Board members heard the pros and cons about the rezoning, but took no action on the matter.

Louis Singleton represented the Dails while Sam Worthington represented Fred Weathington.

New Fire Dept. Asks For Help

SNOW HILL — Representatives of the newly organized Arba Rural Fire Department appeared before the Greene County Board of Commission Monday seeking assistance for their operation.

The fire department began organizing some months ago but were not ready for operation at the beginning of the fiscal year.

Board members adopted a resolution in support of the proposed Coastal Corridor Highway, an interstate highway through North Carolina and South Carolina from Norfolk, Va., to Savannah, Ga.

The department now ready for operation, was granted 3/4 of the assistance that the commissioners provide annually for the rural fire departments.

A delegation appeared before the board in an effort to get a community development center for the county. The group, coming from the East Greene School area, indicated interest in applying to federal Housing and Urban Development authorities for grant funds. The purpose for bringing the matter before the commissioners, the group explained, was to receive matching funds from the county of the federal grants were approved.

Representatives from the Clerk of Superior Court's office and the Greene County Social Services Department, appeared before the board to express the need for detention facilities for juveniles that require attention in juvenile court cases. An investigation will be made to see what can be done to provide facilities.

The group was advised the county would have to get a ruling

Board members heard a report from Charles Woodall of the Smart and Woodall architectural firm, on the planning for the fire escape and jail renovations for the Greene County Court House.

Calvin Henderson appeared before the board seeking the establishment of a Human Relations Board for the town. The matter was taken under advisement.

NEW YORK (AP) — The years went by but the scenario remained the same. The hoofers, crooners and comedians performed frantically for the audience's approval, then basked in the applause that brought them one step nearer to the elusive world of "show biz."

Registration will begin at 9 a.m. Wednesday. The Rev. Hubert Burress, conference clerk, will officially open the conference at 10 a.m. The introductory sermon will be delivered by the Rev. L. B. Manning, pastor of the Grimsley Church near Snow Hill. The Rev. C. L. Patrick, pastor of the Free Will Church near Walstonburg is alternate.

On Thursday, the morning worship will be conducted by the ordaining council of the conference. During the business sessions the various enterprises of the denomination, the committees of the conferences and the various boards will give their reports.

The body will be at the Norcott and Company Funeral Home Chapel in Ayden from 5 p.m. Wednesday until it is carried to the church Thursday at noon. The family visitation at the chapel will be from 8 to 10 p.m. Wednesday.

On Thursday, the morning worship will be conducted by the ordaining council of the conference. During the business sessions the various enterprises of the denomination, the committees of the conferences and the various boards will give their reports.

Some winners who went on to professional success included comedian Jack Carter, 1941; singers Pat Boone, 1953, and Teresa Brewer, 1938. A fat 12-year-old soprano named Mar a Kalogeropoulos made the winners circle in 1935. She went on to greater operatic fame as Maria Callas.

Over the years, more than 25,000 acts were presented—barber-shop quartets, dancers, standup comics and specialty acts. They often had unpronounceable names and came from memorable places.

Irish Move Into Second On Poll; Manteo Wraps Up Post-Season Ohio State Third; Toledo 15th Berth; Ayden Hosting Knapp

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Six, five, four, three, two ... Notre Dame is moving up.

One, two, three ... Ohio State is moving out.

But there's still room at the top for the Texas Longhorns, who remained No. 1 for the second week in the Associated Press' college football poll Monday.

Notre Dame's crack Irish troops have marched about a place a week since September, supplanting Ohio State as the No. 2 team. The Buckeyes, who were the front-runners until bumped by Texas two weeks ago, retreated to third.

The Fighting Irish's tall story doesn't impress Coach Ara Parseghian, who insists it's a long, long time from September to November.

"(The poll) has no effect on us now," he said. "We're more interested in the polls in late November (at the end of the regular season).

Notre Dame won its sixth in a row last Saturday by staggering helpless Navy 56-7, and Parseghian was accused in some quarters of running up the score. But Navy Coach Rick Forzano wouldn't buy it.

"It could have been much worse," said Forzano, "I talked to Ara after the game and told him I realized they could have put the ball in the air more, and that I appreciate that they didn't. He didn't run the score up. He was as fair as fair can be."

Sports writers and broadcasters around the country handed 20 first place votes to Texas for a total of 701 points, a fingertip 17-point lead over Notre Dame's 684. Ohio State had 617 in the too-close-for-comfort race.

Texas shut down quarterback

Chuck Hixson's Magnificent Flying Machine in beating Southern Methodist 42-15 over the weekend and Ohio State slapped Northwestern 24-10.

Nebraska, Michigan and Stanford stayed 4-5-6 with impressive weekend victories, Arkansas and Tennessee each moved up a spot to seventh and eighth, Air Force slumped from seventh to ninth and Auburn rounded out the top ten.

The Top Twenty teams, with first-place votes in parentheses and total points. Points tabulated on basis of 20-18-16-14-12-10-8 etc.:

1. Texas (20) 701

2. Notre Dame (12) 684
3. Ohio State (5) 617
4. Nebraska 506
5. Michigan (2) 476
6. Stanford (1) 418
7. Arkansas 315
8. Tennessee 282
9. Air Force 279
10. Auburn 241
11. Louisiana State 232
12. Arizona State 160
13. Mississippi 120
14. San Diego State 67
15. Toledo 26
16. UCLA 21
17. Dartmouth 13
18. Houston 11
19. Alabama 10
20. Syracuse 9

Ayden's Tornados, who go into their last game with a 7-1-1 record, will not be going to the post-season playoffs this year.

Their last hopes fell through over the weekend, when Manteo rolled to a 24-0 victory over Knapp to sew up representation of the Tidewater Conference.

Ayden, by beating Knapp this weekend and having Columbia upset Manteo could tie for the title, but since Manteo downed Ayden in their meeting this year, the Indians would still get the playoff bid.

Ayden, while missing out on the crown, rolled to its seventh win of the year Friday night, beating tough Pamlico County, 34-28.

Elsewhere, Camden downed Columbia, 14-6, in the battle for the conference basement. It was the first loop win for Camden.

"Pamlico had one of the strongest offenses we've faced this year," Ayden's Nelson Gravatt said. "But they had no defense, and this is what saved us."

Gravatt said that Pamlico was able to run right over the Tornados, something no one else has been able to do. "We thought we had a good line, but they went right through us," Gravatt said. "They controlled the ball most of the way, and we had to score 20 points in the last period to beat them. We got good performances from Ken Cleaton, Mike Griffin and Bobby DeLong in the game."

This week, the Tornados play host to Knapp's Knights in the last game of the year. "We look for them to give us a tough game," the coach said. "They have a strong running game, and their fullback, Chapman, is a real workhorse for them. He plays linebacker on defense also."

Gravatt felt that if either team was to suffer a letdown because of missing out on the conference crown, it would be Knapp. "We've got a lot going for us in this one. It's our last home game, and the last game of the year. And it's also the last game we'll have as Ayden High School. This means a lot to our players, and emotions are up pretty high. We want to win this one very badly."

While Ayden hosts Knapp,

Manteo will be at Columbia and Camden will visit Albemarle Conference member Gates County.

The current Tidewater standings:

	Conf.		Overall
Manteo	3	0	7	1
Ayden	2	1	7	1
Knapp	2	1	7	1
Camden	1	3	3	6
Columbia	0	3	2	7

Bradshaw Vows He'll Be There

By D. BYRON YAKE
Associated Press Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A frustrated Terry Bradshaw vows he won't play second fiddle to Terry Hanratty after this season.

The golden haired Pittsburgh Steeler rookie quarterback has not been the cure-all quarterback he was billed to be and now he admits he's pressing.

Pittsburgh defeated the Cincinnati Bengals 21-10 Monday night, but it was Hanratty, coming off the bench, who bailed out the Steelers in the fourth quarter. He threw a touchdown pass and led them to another score.

"I'll never sit on the bench behind a second-year man," Bradshaw said. "It's obvious Coach (Chuck) Noll will have to make a decision at the end of the year. He's given me all the chance in the world but I haven't done anything. And if I'm going to be on the bench, I want to play behind a veteran so I can learn."

"I really don't mind if I don't start. But Terry's young and I'm young. If the coach says he's No. 1, fine, then ship me out. I just wouldn't be happy playing behind him."

Bradshaw started the nationally televised game but Hanratty took over midway in the third quarter with the Steelers behind 10-7.

For the night, Bradshaw, pro football's No. 1 draft choice, completed only four of 12 passes for 40 yards. Hanratty was seven for 11 and 128 yards.

"He looked unsettled," said Noll of Bradshaw.

"It's getting to me now" said Bradshaw. "I'm really unhappy with myself. I just have to go and search myself. I need to sit on the bench. I definitely think Terry deserves to start."

The thought of later attending a seminary also continued on Bradshaw's mind.

"I feel called to do that kind of work. I also feel called to play football. I've always thought if I could make it big in this game, then it would help attract people to the other."

Meanwhile, Hanratty was keeping silent.

"Each to his own," he replied when asked about Bradshaw's remarks.

The victory was admittedly sweet for Hanratty but even as he savored the taste of success he would not comment on possibly starting.

"Every quarterback wants to start," he said. "But I'll leave the decision up to the coach."

Hanratty unleashed a 72-yard touchdown bomb in the fourth quarter to tight end Dennis Hughes on a play which called for him to pass to receiver Dave Smith. But Smith was covered.

Safety Kenny Graham had an arm on Hughes, but when he caught the ball at the 25 Hughes got away.

Hanratty then led the Steelers 75 yards in nine plays for another touchdown in the fourth quarter. Warren Bankston scored from the one.

Neither the Bengals nor the Steelers sparked in the first half. The Bengals scored on a one-yard pass in the second quarter from Virgil Carter to Eric Crabtree after Crabtree had caught a 29-yard pass, taking the ball to the one.

But the Steelers took the kickoff and drove for the tying score.

Running back Dick Hoak heaved a wobbly underthrow pass from the 27 yard line on an option play and Hughes grabbed it at the five and scampered with the score.

Cleveland Near Losing Record

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Knicks were in the midst of their record 18-game winning streak at this time a year ago in the National Basketball Association.

Now the Cleveland Cavaliers are in the midst of setting a league record in reverse.

The Cavaliers, who have yet to win, were trounced by the Philadelphia 76ers Monday night 141-87. It was Cleveland's 11th straight defeat.

That leaves the Cavaliers only four games shy of the NBA's longest losing winning streak at the start of a season, 15 by Denver back in Oct.-Dec. 1949.

And if, perchance, Cleveland lost 18 straight that would erase the current longest losing streak of 17, set by San Francisco in 1965 and equalled by San Diego in 1968.

Philadelphia's whopping 54-point margin over Cleveland was the most for the 76ers since a 46-point spread over San Francisco in 1948. The 76ers led by as much as 59 Monday night.

Archie Clark led the balanced 76er attack against the expansion team with 21 points. Jim Washington added 10 for the winners. John Johnson was high for Cleveland with 20.

Bucs Sixth In State

RALEIGH (AP)—Tony Waldrop, a University of North Carolina freshman, won the 22nd annual North Carolina state cross country championship Monday.

Waldrop ran the five-mile course in 25:11 to edge freshman Bob Wheeler of Duke. Mike Graves of Duke was third and Gareth Hayes of North Carolina State was fourth. In cross country, where low score wins, Duke won the team-title for the third straight year with 34 points and UNC was second with 78. N.C. State had 96, Western Carolina 126, Appalachian State 139, East Carolina 142, Pembroke State 175, High Point 252, Wake Forest 263, Campbell 314, Guilford 343 and Davidson 354.

Mikolayunas Is Southern Star

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP)—

Playing both flanker and fullback, Mike Mikolayunas of Davidson flashed the form last Saturday that placed him 17th in the nation last year in pass receiving.

For his role in leading the Wildcats to their second Southern Conference football victory, a 55-21 rout of Virginia Military Institute, Mikolayunas today was named league offensive player of the week.

Mikolayunas caught nine passes for 152 yards in the 40 minutes he played, including a 50-yard scoring play from quarterback Thompson. He carried the ball twice for six yards and his blocking was directly responsible for setting up two other touchdowns.

The 6-foot-1, 195-pound native of Baltimore, Md., has 46 pass receptions in the Wildcats' six games and was second in the nation last week.

"I don't think you will find a receiver in the country with better hands and balance," said Davidson coach Dave Fagg.

The runner-up was fullback Jerry Mauro of Richmond, who ran for 189 yards in 24 carries and one touchdown in the Spiders' 31-14 victory over conference leader The Citadel.

Richmond tackle John Barelli, who had 11 unassisted tackles and five assists in the triumph over the Bulldogs, was named defensive player of the week.

Duke, Wake Set For Big Battle

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Atlantic Coast Conference football coaches are likely to be intent tonight on two kinds of films—election returns and films of successful plays. To the coaches, celebration or dejection will come four days after candidates cheer or cry.

At Duke University, the Blue Devils are seeking a way to stop the ACC championship express run by Wake Forest. Coming off a 24-26 heartbreaking loss to Georgia Tech, the Blue Devils must be prepped for contests against the second, third and fourth ranking teams in the league.

Sporting a 4-0 conference mark, Duke is aware of what it must do Saturday. Coach Tom Harp said Monday, "No one will win the conference championship for us; we will have to do it ourselves, starting with Wake Forest."

The Deacs' approach is to drill behind closed gate. Wake Forest Coach Cal Stoll said, "We have some thing we need to go over, and we just don't want any visitors." Wake's four-game win streak was snapped by Tennessee Saturday, 41-7.

If Duke wins the clash at Durham, its ACC mark will be 5-0 while Wake Forest could tie for the lead with a victory. Then each team would have 4-1 slates.

Only one other ACC game is scheduled this week: Virginia at N. C. State.

The Virginia Cavaliers will be spoiling for victory after being knocked down by North Carolina last week, 30-15. Coach George Blackburn moaned Monday about his team's six turnovers, and said that cost them the game.

The Wolfpack, meanwhile, tried to patch up its leaky defense and sputtering offense. State has won only one game and has a tie, both in the conference, in eight outings. Saturday Kentucky had a field day against the Wolfpack, winning 27-2.

In nonconference play, Clemson is at Florida State Saturday night, Penn State goes to Maryland, Virginia Military visits North Carolina and Tennessee is at South Carolina.

The eighth-ranked Vols' visit to Columbia means trouble for coach Paul Dietzel. He said Monday three of his starting players are still sidelined by injuries and two others will play but are hampered for this week's practices.

Browder Is Pick Winner

Skip Browder of 213-A Stancill Dr., Greenville, captured first prize in last week's Daily Reflector Football Contest.

Browder correctly picked the winners in 27 of the 32 games in the weekly contest.

Second place went to Ruth Daughtry of Rt. 2, Box 331-B, Newton Grove. She also picked 27 right, but was further off the point total tie breaker.

Browder had picked 71 points, while Mrs. Daughtry had 65. A total of 86 points were scored in Georgia's 52-34 victory over South Carolina.

This week's contest appears on the following two pages.

S.C. Teams Go Out Of League

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

This is a week in which most Southern Conference football coaches will spend more time allowing injuries to heal than in concentrating on a big victory in their Saturday games.

It isn't that any of them want to lose, but six of the seven conference teams play nonleague opponents Saturday and the weekend—Richmond—has the weekend off.

The primary concern for The Citadel's Bulldogs, Davidson's defending champion Wildcats and William and Mary's Indians—as well as the Spiders of Richmond—is getting ready for the stretch run in which one of them will win the conference championship.

Thirteen starters missed practice Monday at The Citadel as the league-leading Bulldogs began drives for Saturday's game at Chattanooga, and coach Red Parker undoubtedly will hold out any doubtful performers if it means costing his team a shot at the conference title.

Davidson, on the other hand, welcomed back linebacker Robert Norris, sidelined most of the season with a knee injury. Coach Dave Fagg said Norris will start in Saturday's home game against Lafayette. But the Wildcats will play without injured defensive end Jim Buchanan.

Their four-game victory streak snapped in a 7-0 loss Saturday to East Carolina. Furman's Paladins began drills for Saturday night's game at Guilford with the emphasis on defense.

After giving up 111 points in defeats the last two weeks to The Citadel and Davidson, VMI worked on defense in preparation for Saturday's scrap at North Carolina of the Atlantic Coast Conference. William and Mary plays at home Saturday against Connecticut.

East Carolina, having finally snapped its 10-game losing streak, is host Saturday to a somewhat deflated West Virginia team which lost last week to Penn State.

Noting the Mountaineers play his Pirates between Pen State and Syracuse, East Carolina coach Mike McGee said the Mountaineers "has better not be looking ahead to Syracuse because we're going to be ready for them."

The Pirates open their season in Minges Coliseum on Friday, December 4, against former Southern Conference member George Washington.

Gregory Out For 3 Weeks

East Carolina University's basketball co-captain Jim Gregory will miss practice for approximately three weeks, it was learned yesterday.

Gregory, a 6-7 senior, suffered an ankle injury last week during practice, and it was decided yesterday to put him in a cast until it has healed. The cast will remain on until late this month.

Coach Tom Quinn said that this would allow Gregory only about a week to return to shape prior to the opening of the 1970-71 season.

The Bucs also announced that Commissioner Lloyd Jordan of the Southern Conference had changed his ruling on the

Ahoskie Nips Williamston

WILLIAMSTON — A holding penalty on a 60-yard punt return, and a late score combined to give Ahoskie a 15-13 victory over Williamston in the Albemarle Conference football race Monday night.

The win wrapped up the conference title for Ahoskie, as they sailed through the year without a loop loss.

Williamston pushed into the lead in the game on the first play from scrimmage. Jimmy Raiford tossed a 63-yard bomb to Mike Williams to put the Tigers on the scoreboard before the Indians realized what had happened. Vann Andrews added the extra point for a 7-0 lead.

With 1:18 left in the first half, Ahoskie pushed its way onto the scoreboard. Reacy Eley plunged over from the one and Calvin Eley ran over the two-point conversion to give the Indians an 8-7 lead.

But Williamston came right back to regain the lead with 57 seconds left in the half. Eugene Hicks did the honors, going 56 yards for the scoring play. The try for a two-point conversion failed, however, leaving Williamston in a 13-8 lead at halftime.

In the second half, Williamston got what it thought was the clincher when Donald Lee returned a punt 60 yards for another score. But a holding penalty nullified the play, and it eventually cost the Tigers the game.

Ahoskie, which controlled the ball during the second half, pushed over the winning score in the late stages of the final period. Jerome Newsome went in from seven yards out for the score, then he kicked the extra point.

Williamston meets Plymouth in the last game of the year Friday night.

McGee Is Speaker

East Carolina University Head Football Coach Mike McGee will be the featured speaker at the annual Rose High School Touchdown Club Football Banquet, it has been announced.

The banquet will be held at Rose High School on Monday, November 16, at 6:30 p.m.

The annual banquet honors members of the varsity and junior varsity football teams at Rose, and various trophies are presented to outstanding varsity players.

Tickets for the event are available from any member of the football team, at Hodges Hardware, and at the Highlander Laundry Center.

N.C. Milk Prices Seen Rising: Cent Per Quart

RALEIGH (AP) — The retail price of milk in North Carolina is expected to go up one cent per quart next month.

The Milk Commission authorized an increase of 3 per cent Monday in the minimum price dairy farmers receive for milk used in bottling. As a result, the price of Class I milk will increase 28 cents per hundred pounds, from $7.40 to $7.68, effective Dec. 4. This will lead to a penny per quart increase in the retail price.

Milk for schools and institutions will be exempt from the increase for the length of the present contracts, but not beyond next June 30, the commission said.

Mrs. F. A. Needham of Graham, a producer, offered the motion, which carried by a 5-1 vote.

J. Everett Flora of Charlotte, a distributor, had offered a substitute motion to lower the producer raise to 25 cents per hundred pounds and extend the cutoff date for institutional contracts under the old price to Oct. 31, 1971.

Flora's firm, Sealtest, has a portion of the milk contract for the Charlotte schools. He said the Charlotte contract does not expire until next Oct. 31. His motion died for lack of a second.

Two producer organizations, Dairymen, Inc., and United Dairies, both with offices in Greensboro, had requested an increase in September.

Increases ranging from 20 to 30 per cent per hundred pounds had been suggested at a public hearing Oct. 13.

Dairymen had testified they needed the increase to withstand "extreme financial pressures" due to inflation.

Charles D. Volvard, manager of the North Carolina Milk Producers Federation, told the commission 30 per cent of the state's dairies are losing money. Another 30 per cent, he added, are earning less than $6,000 a year.

Wrestlers On Friday's Card

The second month of championship wrestling is coming to Greenville when a card of well known names appear Friday at 8:15 p.m. in Memorial Gym on 10th Street.

Sponsored by the Greenville Jaycees for the benefit of the Greenville Boys' Club, the full card will feature as a main event the Atlantic Coast Tag Team Championship with new champions Paul Jones and Nelson Royal, putting their titles on the line against the rugged team of Rip Hawk and Swede Hanson. Hawk and Hanson were here for the last matches. The bout will determine championship belts.

Hawk and Hanson, who held the championship at one time, are out to try winning it again. Jones and Royal, will be competing with the former champions for the best of three falls with an hour time limit.

The semifinal bout is another tag team tussle with Al Torres and Tommy Seigler pitted against the team of Art Nelson and Kurt Stroheim.

Luther Lindsay, the U.S. Negro Champion, appears on the card in a singles match against Bulldog Lee Henning, a veteran of the wrestling world.

In the opening bout, Pancho Valdez clashes with Alex Medina.

Advance ringside tickets at $2.50 each are now on sale from members of the Jaycees, at the Boys' Club on Skinner Street in west Greenville, and from members of the Boy's Club Board of Directors.

Proceeds of this and all other matches to be held monthly at the Memorial Gym go to the Boys' Club of Greenville to support the work being carried on for over 400 young boys who are regular users of the club.

Debut For Ensembles

A new instrumental group in the East Carolina University School of Music will make its debut on campus Thursday night at 8:15 p.m.

The 50-member Symphonic Wind Ensemble, under the baton of Herbert Carter, will present a concert of works by Gossec, Hovhannes, Sullivan, Vaughan Williams, Benson, Copland and Sousa.

This is the first public performance of the Ensemble, which was recently formed to be the School of Music's touring and recording band.

The Symphonic Wind Ensemble is a very select group, whose members mostly advanced upperclassmen among ECU student instrumentalists, were chosen on the basis of auditions.

Many of the members also play in the brass and woodwind sections of the ECU Symphony Orchestra.

Linda Pescatore, of Greenville, playing first horn, is a member of the ensemble.

County-Wide CD Meeting

A county-wide Civil Defense meeting for governing officials of Pitt County and its municipalities will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the district court room of the Pitt-County Court House.

Col. David W. Spivey, Area A coordinator for Civil Defense, will be the featured speaker.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN
(c 1970: by The Chicago Tribune)
East-West vulnerable.
North deals.

NORTH
♠ A 5 4 3	♥ Q 9 7 5	♦ 6	♣ A K 5 2
WEST
♠ Void	♥ K Q 10 8 7	♦ A K 10 8 6 4	♣ J 3 2
EAST
♠ A 10 8	♥ Void	♦ J 5 4 2	♣ Q J 8 3
SOUTH
♠ J 9 8 7	♥ J	♦ A K 9 8 7	♣ 9 7 4

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1♣	Pass	1♦	1♥
Pass	Pass	1♠	Pass
3♠	Pass	4♠	Pass
Pass	Dble.	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♠ East had visions of a tidy profit when he doubled South's four spade contract. His hopes faded after the declarer stripped out the side suits and then caught East's trump holding in the jaws of a pincer between his own hand and the dummy.

West opened the king of hearts and when declarer followed with the jack, West shifted to the queen of clubs. The king was played from dummy. The ace and king of diamonds were cashed on which dummy discarded a club, and then a small diamond was ruffed with the three of spades. South trumped a heart with the deuce of spades and then led a fourth round of diamonds.

When West showed out, declarer ruffed with North's four of trumps. The ace of clubs was cashed out.

South had scored seven tricks and all hands were down to five cards with the lead in dummy:

NORTH
♠ A 5	♥ Q 9	♦ Void	♣ 5
WEST
♠ Void	♥ K Q 10 8 7	♦ Void	♣ J 8
EAST
♠ A 10 8	♥ Void	♦ Void	♣ Void
SOUTH
♠ J 9 8	♥ J	♦ Void	♣ 9

The nine of hearts was played and East was faced with a choice of evils. If he ruffed with the queen of spades, declarer can discard a club and win the trump return with his nine of spades. The ace is cashed for a ninth trick and on the lead of a heart, East is unable to prevent his opponent from scoring a 10th with the jack of trumps.

East chose to ruff the nine of hearts with the seven of spades and South overruffed with the nine. The nine of diamonds was led and trumped with the ace of spades as East helplessly underruffed with the eight. The queen of hearts was played and East ruffed with the queen as South discarded the nine of clubs. East cashed the king next, however declarer took the last trick with his jack.

Mary Livingstone Bows To 'Comeback' Appeals

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The wry, faintly sardonic tones of Mary Livingstone once again will be heard on television next month, but it took a major campaign to get her back.

She's making an appearance on television for the first time in 14 years Nov. 16 on the Jack Benny 20th TV Anniversary Special over NBC. Mary Livingstone is Mrs. Benny, as most people know. But not all.

"I still have people come up to me in Las Vegas and other places and ask me, 'Are you really married to Jack?'" she remarks. "All during those years on radio and during the few years I appeared on television with Jack, we never played husband and wife. I was always the girl who hung around and made wisecracks."

She has been Mrs. Benny for 40 years and at first a willing, later a reluctant member of his stock company. Here's how she tells it:

"Jack started me in show business when I was only 17. At that time I was fearless. I sang a different song every week and I did everything in his show."

"Later, when we went into radio, I began thinking about how many people were listening—millions upon millions! It began to get to me. I became terrified about entertaining. For the last two years of the radio show, I taped my part of the script at home. I couldn't face the audience.

Mary did some performing in the early Benny television shows.

"Then one morning I woke up and I said to Jack, 'I'm not going to do it any more,'" she recalled. "He said, 'You're not going to do what any more?' I said, 'I'm not going to be on the show any more.'"

No amount of persuasion could change her mind.

"I'm naturally quite shy," she said, "and I never missed it for a minute. I found plenty to keep me busy. I have my daughter and my grandchildren. I do some charity work. I prepare all the menus for our meals. And I do a great deal of traveling with Jack. Unless he's just doing a one-night show, I go along with him.

"I like our life. Jack is a very easy man to live with. People think he's nervous about his work. He isn't. He's a perfectionist, that's all. He simply wants every show to be his best."

For his 20th anniversary, Jack wanted to assemble all his old gang, and that included Mary. But she was adamant in declining to leave her comfortable retirement. Jack argued to no avail.

"Then, a couple of months ago, I was scheduled to accompany Jack to Israel, but he wouldn't let me go because of the trouble over there," she said. "While he was gone, his producer, Irving Fein said, 'Why don't you come down to the studio and do your telephone routine and get it over with?'"

"If I had waited, I probably wouldn't have done it. But on the spur of the moment I went over to NBC and did my lines."

It won't become a habit. "I'd much rather be Mrs. Jack Benny than Mary Livingstone," she commented.

The Worry Clinic 'Prospecting' For A Romance

Jill offers some fascinating data about romance on the Airlines. Smart girls also indulge in shrewd "romantic prospecting."

But if your own attempts have proved futile, then consider the SMF, for it has solved the marriage problem for thousands, though it can make no guarantees, since women greatly outnumber men.

They had met while aloft.

"But 80 percent got married to boys from back home.

"Maybe our positions as hostesses raised our charm in the eyes of the home town boys, do you think?"

"Married girls are now permitted to work on the Airlines, for TWA has 700 married hostesses out of its total of 4,300."

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.

CASE 0-540: Jill J., aged 24, is an Airline hostess.

"Dr. Crane," she began, after she sat down beside me during our takeoff, "I always thought it would be so romantic to have this job."

Smart girls should always indulge in what I call "romantic prospecting."

Analyze the places where you are most likely to meet eligible men who fulfill your requirements for husbands.

There is a large excess of women versus men in the Eastern states, and Washington, D.C., is one of the worst places to find a husband.

"Then we begin to find that it takes a 'man' to make life 'romantic' and that's where we must be on guard.

"For a lot of attractive men invite us on dates.

"But when we begin to grow fond of them, we find that they are already married!

"They just remove their wedding rings when they date us' hostesses to make us think they are eligible.

"And they seem to believe we should be content to serve as paramours and pay for our dates by permitting them unfair sexual liberties.

"Dr. Crane, earlier this year a survey was made by TWA to find where its hostesses got their husbands.

"Well, 8 percent married members of the TWA flight crews.

"And 12 percent obtained husbands from the passengers

Conversely, many of the western states, such as Wyoming, show a much larger number of men than women.

And a lot of smart girls go to colleges that are slanted mainly to male students, such as law, engineering and dental colleges.

For then they will be outnumbered 10 to one or better.

But if you are tied down in a small community as a teacher or nurse or secretary, and find most of the eligibles in your age bracket are already married, then you still have a major hope.

For we have a splendid Scientific Marriage Foundation that uses the computer machine to help match compatible men and women on 10 basic counts.

It is interfaith and non-profit, being purely an educational foundation, with Dr. Peale, Rabbi Silver, Monsignor Ward and 25 other illustrious Americans on the Board.

Thus far, we have had only 11 known divorces in its 14 years of existence, out of some 10,000 happily married folks.

And it has put hundreds of kiddies, who had previously lost a daddy or mother, back into a normal 2-parent family again, so they literally bubble over with their new joy.

This SMF doesn't take the romance out of courtship, for it merely serves as a scientific "blind dating" aid, with every applicant personally interviewed by one of our 3,000 volunteer Clergymen Counselors.

Send for the Scientific Marriage Foundation "Questionnaire," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20c.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

YOU'VE GOT FIVE MINUTES TO ASK ME THE QUESTION, MRS. JULIET JONES CANTRELL.

WHAT QUESTION?

DID MY FATHER REALLY MURDER MR. ENDERS? NOBODY CAN SPEND MORE THAN HALF AN HOUR IN MY PRESENCE WITHOUT TRYING TO FIND OUT THE ANSWER TO THAT ONE!

I'M NOT REALLY INTERESTED, MISS TESSELLON.

GIVE YOURSELF TIME — YOU WILL BE. I PROMISE IT.
