Russia Frees 2 Generals; In Good Shape

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Two U.S. Army generals and a Turkish colonel returned to Turkey from Soviet Armenia today, three weeks after their light plane landed 12 miles across the border and they were interned. The Turkish Foreign Ministry said the men were "healthy and in good shape." Tass, the Soviet news agency, said the generals' U.S. Army pilot also was released and would fly back their six-seat, twin-engine plane as soon as weather permitted. A Foreign Ministry source said Turkish and Soviet generals and civilian officials negotiated at the border town of Kizilcakak for nine hours, presumably working out details of the release. The officers were freed at 7 a.m. and were driven to Kars, 40 miles southwest of the Soviet frontier, to take a Turkish military plane to Ankara. Kizilcakak is halfway between Kars and Leninakan, in Soviet Armenia, where the officers' plane landed and they were held. Maj. Gen. Edward C. D. Scherrer, 57, chief of the U.S. military mission in Turkey; Brig. Gen. Claude M. McQuarrie Jr., 46, head of Scherrer's Army section, and Col. Cevat Denli, a Turkish liaison officer, were inspecting military installations near the Soviet border on Oct. 21 and were on a flight from Erzurum to Kars. The pilot, Army Maj. James P. Russell, 42, told consular officials high winds caused him to miscalculate his course. The U.S. government contended the plane strayed across the border. Tass said the Soviet government decided to release the officers after "a thorough investigation into the circumstances of the violation of the state frontier of the U.S.S.R. and the degree of guilt of the persons who were on board." It said their release was ordered in view of "the results of the investigation and the regret, expressed by the governments of the United States and Turkey, and also taking into consideration appropriate assurances from their side."

French Mourn Gen. DeGaulle; Rites Thursday

By MORRIS ROSENBERG Associated Press Writer PARIS (AP) — Charles de Gaulle is dead in his 80th year. The 6-foot general who led France back from the ashes of World War II defeat and then saved it again from the chaos of 1958, succumbed Monday night to a ruptured aneurism, a circulatory ailment. His death did not become known until today, and France plunged into mourning. Far removed from the military and political battles that immortalized him, De Gaulle died at his country home in Colombey-les-deux-eglises, where the funeral will be held Thursday with a minimum of pomp in keeping with his wish. No official government representative will be present, but at the same time France will have a day of national mourning with simultaneous services in Notre Dame Cathedral and all the national churches. All the church bells in France's magnificent cathedrals and in tiny chapels will peal out their message. A little before 7 p.m. De Gaulle stepped out of his office in his country retreat, put both hands below his waist, and told his wife Yvonne, "Oh, how it hurts." He slipped to the floor, and a servant immediately called the doctor and the Rev. Claude Jaugey, the village priest. Father Jaugey said that when he arrived he was hurried to the second-floor room where he saw De Gaulle stretched out on the floor, fully dressed in a dark suit. Father Jaugey said De Gaulle was not dead, but seemed to be unconscious. "He was suffering terribly," the priest said. An earlier account reaching Paris had said De Gaulle was seated in an armchair waiting for the evening television newscast when he died. The priest said that when he left the De Gaulle home the former president was dead. Father Jaugey was asked to promise to remain silent. The nation's tribute to its longtime leader will be in accordance with his wishes. "I do not wish a national funeral," he said in a document dated 1952. "No president, no ministers, no parliamentary committees, no representatives of government organs. Only the French military service may take part officially. No speech will be pronounced." At Key Biscayne, Fla., the Florida White House announced that President Nixon will fly to Paris Thursday to attend a state memorial service for De Gaulle in the Cathedral of Notre Dame. De Gaulle escaped assassination attempts three times, and for many it was hard to believe that he had died peacefully. Colombey-les-deux-eglises — Colombey of the two churches — is 16 miles east of Paris. President Georges Pompidou will go there Wednesday to pay his personal tribute. The last of the great leaders of the European war in 1939-45 had lived in retirement in the village since he resigned from the presidency in April 1969. He had been writing his memoirs. At his death De Gaulle was just 13 days short of his 80th birthday. He was born in Lille Nov. 22, 1890. The National Assembly halted its morning session on learning of the death. Radio stations began playing solemn music. An obscure army brigadier when France fell in 1940, De Gaulle seized the leadership of those who would not give in to defeat and welded the Free French movement. After leading his forces back to Paris, he headed a provisional government until January 1946, when he took his first walkout from the factional politics which plagued prewar France and revived quickly after the war. He returned to power in June 1958, when the Algerian war threatened to split France apart. Ruthlessly brushing aside his military supporters who wanted to keep Algeria French, he ended the war in North Africa, freed France from her colonial encumbrances, and then founded the Fifth Republic, giving it a strong presidential form of government.

An autocraft who brooked no interference, De Gaulle quit the presidency and retired to his country home when the French electorate failed to support some comparatively minor constitutional changes he demanded. The first volume of his memoirs appeared in France last month. Visitors last month to De Gaulle reported him in fine health, relaxed, an attentive host and mentally vigorous. In June, he and his wife made a motor trip to Spain. "France is widowed," President Pompidou told his people in a radio and television network this afternoon. De Gaulle's son-in-law, Gen. Alain de Boissieu, had telephoned him the news of the death at 5 a.m. "In 1940, De Gaulle saved our honor," the president said. "In 1944, he conducted us to liberation and victory. "In 1958, he saved us from civil war. He gave France its (governing) institutions, its independence, its place in the world ... "Let us realize the duties that gratefulness imposes on us. Let us promise to France not to be unworthy of the lessons which have been given to us, and that in the national soul De Gaulle lives eternally."

The East Carolina University Foundation has awarded grants totaling $40,000 to the University Foundation Academic Committee to fund various enrichment projects. Funds will be distributed immediately in the following manner, according to an announcement by the Academic Committee: Research Council, $18,500; School of Music, $10,000; Television-academic publicity, $5,500; ECU Marine Science Center, Manteo, $6,000. The Academic Committee, chaired by Dr. Robert L. Holt, Vice President and Dean of the University, said in its request that there are many other needs for additional funds, but that these are considered among the most pressing and are to meet emergency situations for this year only. Noting that ECU approaches the challenge to develop doctoral programs "with a sense of mission," the committee said the one area in which the Foundation could be most helpful is research support. "It is essential that the faculty in an institution which offers doctorates engage in more research that results in scholarly publication," it said. "Some of the funds will go for matching or starter grants and for publication of research studies." The Academic Committee is composed of Dr. Robert L. Holt, chairman; Dr. John Howell, dean of the graduate school; Dr. Robert Williams, provost; Dr. James White, special projects; Dr. C. Q. Brown, institutional development; and Clifton Moore, business manager of the University.

Work Said Progressing On Recently Acquired Land For Recreation

By JERRY RAYNOR Reflector Staff Writer Work on the new recreation land on Hooker Road, the Evans property, is progressing at a good pace now, according to Recreation Department director Boyd Lee. Lee reported the status of the newly acquired city recreation land to the members of the Recreation Commission last night at Elm Street Recreation Center. "Sullivan (Maintenance Supervisor Dolton C. Sullivan) and his crew have really done a fine job," Lee commented. "They have cleared out the wooded section of the area the city bought. We are going to begin work laying off a ball field tomorrow." Lee explained that efforts were being concentrated on the area purchased because of requirements to have all irrediness by a certain date. Later the free land portion will be worked on. A recommendation by the members was approved to have Lee write a letter to the Greenville City School Board with reference to the Eppes School property. They want the school board to know they have an interest in part or in all the property, and want to be considered when time comes to make a decision on disposal of the land. City Manager Harry Hagerty mentioned that the area deserves consideration as one best suited to two or three different areas. He pointed out that the portion containing the gymnasium is an ideal one for recreation purposes; that the site adjoining Fifth Street and Nash Streets is a desirable commercial strip; and the area along Memorial Drive required special consideration because of the lowness of the area. Hagerty added that with 17 acres already acquired along Tar River adjacent to Moyewood, and with the new community center in that area, he felt that the possibility of thinking only in terms of a portion of the Eppes property would be a more feasible consideration. Following a discussion of establishing a policy for control of tennis court lights, the commission members reached a decision to let matters stand as they are, but to authorize Lee to have an automatic timing switch installed if he decides this is needed. The report made by Lee indicated that recent efforts and publicity have resulted in most players conscientiously turning off lights when they had finished playing. Lee reported on the State Recreation and Park Convention he, Charles Vincent and Mrs. Linda Burrell had attended recently. He noted that one of the hot issues at the convention was certification of recreation personnel. Efforts are being made to certify all recreation personnel in the state into two categories, professional staff and administrative. Dr. Herbert Hadley introduced the idea of a request to the City Council at a future date to consider changing the structure of the present Recreation Department to Recreation and Parks Commission. Advantages and disadvantages of a change were discussed by commission members and the city manager. Lee disclosed that the new sign on Elm Street Gym represented a considerable savings. An estimate received of costs for making and erecting the sign was $250. Noting that the budget would not permit spending that much, he secured the cooperation of the Industrial Arts class at East Carolina University. With their assistance and by using maintenance personnel, Lee said the cost of the sign amounted to $16.00.

Vandals Hit New Tot Lot

It's new, it's colorful and it's already in trouble. The new totlot on Pitt Street has just been completed by the Greenville Recreation Department maintenance crew. It has also suffered vandalism immediately after being installed. Totlots are playgrounds for the very young, with equipment designed for requirements of the small children who use them. Boyd Lee, director of the Recreation Department, explained to the Recreation Commission last night that the maintenance crew had worked hard to make the area an attractive place. Bright colors are used for the fence — yellow, green and white. Equipment placed inside cost $1,600. "Two days later, someone at night tore down nine of the fence slats, went inside and tied up the swings," Lee noted. "I don't know why anyone would want to do this." Lee told commission members, "I'm afraid if you want to see it while it's still looking good, you'd better hurry before it gets damaged more." He explained that several people in the area have agreed to try to keep a watch for vandals, and would report them if they sighted them. This incident follows a pattern which resulted in damage to recreation equipment at Elm Street Gym, at South Greenville and at other areas in Greenville used for the enjoyment of the people.

Redevelopment Board Officers Are Re-Elected

By TOM BAINES Reflector Staff Writer The current slate of officers for the Greenville Redevelopment Commission were re-elected for another one year term last night at the annual session held in addition to the regular monthly meeting. Billy B. Laughinghouse will serve another term as chairman of the commission along with co-chairman Bancroft Moseley and secretary-treasurer Col. A. E. Dubber. In business on the regular agenda, Shore Drive project manager Bryan McClure reported that bids for the demolition of the National Guard Army were opened on Nov. 2. McClure told commissioners that four bids were submitted, ranging from a low of $4,880 to a high of around $12,000. The low bid, he said, was offered by the Rex Chambley Inc., wrecking firm of Chapel Hill. Demolition of the structure, which is pending the relocation of the local National Guard unit to their new quarters on Memorial Drive, should take about two days, the wrecking firm estimated. Commissioners also approved a contract with City Planning and Architectural Associates of Chapel Hill for site planning and development plans for the Shore Drive's Town Common area. The expense of the $3,000 contract will be footed by the Commission. In addition to development plans, the firm will check credits and other records as called for in the "close out" contract for the Shore Drive project.

All development executions will be coordinated with the Recreation Commission and City Council in regard to the Town Common area. Real estate officer Kirby Boyd reported that only one bid was submitted for parcels 5, 15 and 16 in the Shore Drive Project on Nov. 2. The one bid that was opened on the 2nd, he said, was submitted by the law firm of James, Speight, Watson and Brewer for the development of parcel 15, located on the northeast corner of Second and Evans Streets. The bid totaled $12,190, Boyd said. No bids were received on parcels 5, located on the southwest corner of Pitt and First Streets, and parcel 16, on the northwest corner of Second and Reade Streets. Commissioners voted last night to negotiate a contract with CP&AA for consultant services to run the length of the Central Business District project. The long-term contract will call for consultation and supervision services during the project, expected to require approximately eight years, to include all phases of execution and a final inspection at the completion of work. The firm will provide planning, architectural and engineering services under one contract and should alleviate the need for several contracts with various firms for the needed services. CBD project manager Lawrence Holt said that the updated first and second appraisals are coming in on the project and they should be complete by the end of the month. Inspections are also underway each Wednesday, he added, and work is now being done on securing loans for businesses in the CBD area. The first business relocation in the project has been made, Holt reported, with the move of Taff Office and Equipment Co. on Evans Street. Moving expenses will be paid by the commission, he said. Holt pointed out that all

Begin Work On RFK Gravesite

WASHINGTON (AP) — Work has started on the Arlington National Cemetery gravesite for Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. A 32-foot reflecting pool and an inscribed wall will mark the site, just south of President John F. Kennedy's grave. The Kennedy family will provide $568,000 of the $747,000 cost for the gravesite. The federal government will pay the remainder.

One Virginia Beach, Va. youth was killed and another injured early Saturday when their car, under pursuit by a Clinton Police Department unit, went out of control and struck a house. Sheriff Ralph Tyson said this morning that the two juveniles were suspected of a break-in that occurred Friday night or early Saturday morning at the Griffon Country Club. The Sheriff reported that the youths, who both had Virginia Beach addresses, apparently stole a truck in Virginia and wrecked it near Griffon Friday night. A vehicle belonging to Michael Ernest Gaskins of Rt. 1, Griffon was stolen night prior to the break-in and was involved in the Clinton wreck, Sheriff Tyson said. According to investigating officers, the Country Club break-in was reported at 8:05 a.m. Saturday. Club professional Joe Bullins told officers that approximately $146 in merchandise and $47 in money was missing. Clinton Police, who were alerted that the suspected vehicle was in that area, set up two roadblocks, the Sheriff said, and the youths ran through both barriers before wrecking their car with police in pursuit. A 14 year old juvenile was killed in the crash and the driver of the car, a 15 year old, is in a Clinton Hospital for treatment of injuries suffered in the wreck. The driver has been charged initially with breaking and entering, Sheriff Tyson said, but an additional charge of auto larceny would be made. The Sheriff also noted that the auto larceny that occurred in Virginia would probably bring a charge while the death of the youth's companion bring a manslaughter charge. Part of the merchandise reported stolen at the Country Club was recovered following the accident and approximately $39 was found.

Suspect Capsule Of Heroin Swallowed By Child That Died

DETROIT (AP) — A 5-year-old boy who died of a heroin overdose apparently received the drug in a capsule and not from spiked Halloween candy, police investigators say. Inspector Robert A. Slotke, chief of the homicide bureau, said Monday the boy, Kevin Toston, apparently swallowed the capsule at an uncle's home. Slotke said no warrants were being sought and police did not know how the child obtained the capsule. Initially, police said Kevin got the fatal dose when he ate Halloween trick-or-treat candy which had been sprinkled with the narcotic. Slotke said Monday a medical analysis indicated the amount of the drug in the boy's stomach was the amount normally found in one capsule. Slotke said the investigation disclosed an unidentified person sprinkled heroin on Kevin's Halloween candy later to hide the source of the deadly dose. The police investigation showed that the boy's grandmother had put away all of his Halloween candy before his visit to his uncle's, Slotke said. Previously the boy's mother had said that Kevin went to sleep on the night of Nov. 2 at his uncle's home after eating some candy. When he could not be awakened the next morning, he was hospitalized. The boy never regained consciousness and died Friday. Slotke said the case remains under investigation.

Court To Hear Arguments On Free School Busing

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Supreme Court will hear arguments Wednesday which could decide the fate of free school bus service for thousands of urban children and deeply influence the future of many school desegregation plans. Before the court will be an appeal of an order issued last month by Superior Court Judge James H. Pou Bailey forbidding the spending of state funds for busing urban children. The high court, by a 5-2 vote, delayed the effect of the order so it could decide whether, as Bailey ruled, spending the money is "contrary to the law and declared policy of the State of North Carolina." A ruling in favor of Bailey's decision could mean the end of free bus transportation for an estimated 111,000 children of 114 of the state's 152 school districts. Many of the districts are depending on busing, all of which is financed by the state, to carry out school desegregation plans which satisfy guidelines of federal courts or the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Cutting off the bus service would mean they might have to completely revamp their desegregation plans. Only the busing of urban children is at stake. Rural children are not affected. That situation developed because of a suit which challenged the state's practice of providing bus service for some city children and not for others. In rural areas, the state has been providing bus service for children if the area they live in was annexed since 1957. Children in such areas, if they live more than 1½ miles from school, get free bus service. Children who live in older areas of a city — no matter how far they are from school — don't get the bus service. The system was established by the General Assembly with an eye toward removing a major objective to annexation. People in areas up for annexation were resisting it in some cases because as rural residents, their children were eligible to ride school buses; as city dwellers, their children no longer would be.

Newest Member Of Commission

A retired Army Chief Warrant Officer and proprietor of a business firm in Greenville is the newest member of the Greenville Redevelopment Commission.

Roscoe C. Norfleet, who has lived in Greenville for the past 36 years, is a native of the town of Pine Tops. In past years, Norfleet has been a member of the Recreation Commission and is now serving with the Citizens Advisory Committee.

Norfleet was on active military duty for over ten years—from 1940 to 1945 during World War II and again in the Korean conflict, from 1950 to 1954. With reserve time, he qualified for retirement as a chief warrant officer.

He is married to the former Joyce Norris of Greenville. They have three children—Trina Frances, 15; Roscoe C., Jr., 13; and Michael 10. The Norfleets are members of the Philippi Christian Church, where he is on the Board of Trustees.

Norfleet is a past president of the Progressive Citizens Council, a political organization, is a 32nd degree Mason and a Shriner.

"I feel very happy about the appointment, and will do everything in my power to aid in the success of the program," Norfleet commented about the appointment to the Redevelopment Commission.

Official Will Speak At Joint Meeting

Philip B. Crosby, corporate vice president of International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation (ITT), will be the featured speaker for a joint meeting of the Eastern North Carolina Chapter of the American Society for Quality Control in Raleigh Thursday.

Crosby will be speaking at a meeting of the chapters which begins with a social hour at 6:00 p.m. followed by a dinner at 7:00 p.m. at Balentine's Cafeteria in Raleigh's Cameron Village. Greenville members are expected to be in attendance for this meeting.

At ITT, Crosby is responsible for the quality control for operations in 192 manufacturing facilities in 46 countries.

The annual income of the United Nations Children's Fund is less than the amount spent on world armaments in two hours.

Pitt And Greene Electric Co-Op Meets Thursday

The 33rd annual meeting of the Pitt and Greene Electric Membership Corporation will be held Thursday night at 7:30 p.m. in the Farmville High School auditorium.

Nominations have been made for the three directorships to be filled at this meeting. Those nominated are as follows: For District 3, Sam V. Tugwell of Route 1, Farmville and James E. Manning of Route 2, Walstonburg; for District 4, John Hinnant and Jack Edmondson, both of Maury; and for District 8, Hilton Webb of Route 1, Macclesfield and Glenwood Wooten of Route 1, Fountain.

Terms of the directors from the other five districts do not expire this year. The Corporation, which has more than 4,700 rural patrons, operates under a system which provides for staggered terms.

Additional nominations may be made by petition or from the floor at the meeting.

By NEIL GILBRIDE
AP Labor Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—A key union official has spurned a White House board's recommendation for the largest wage settlement in railroad history—a 36 per cent pay increase over three years for more than 500,000 workers.

"It's not enough," said C. L. Dennis, president of the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks, after the recommendation was made public Monday. The panel called for boosting the average wage of the workers from the current $3.66-hourly level to $5.00 over the life of the contract.

Dennis, however, said the recommendations of the five-member board, appointed by President Nixon to head off a threatened nationwide rail strike, could serve as the basis for further talks.

"It could be the basis for real hard, gut negotiations," said Dennis, whose union is the largest of the four AFL-CIO organizations in the wage dispute, representing about 75 per cent of all rail workers.

Under the Railway Labor Act, strikes or lockouts are prohibited for 30 days after the board's report. The earliest the unions could strike is 12:01 a.m. Dec. 10.

The other unions involved represent trainmen, track maintenance employees and dining car workers.

The board, headed by private arbitrator Lewis M. Gill of Merion, Pa., recommended a 5 per cent wage hike retroactive to last Jan. 1; another 32 cents or 8.5 per cent retroactive to Nov. 1, 1970, another 4 per cent April 1, 1971, and three additional 5 per cent boosts effective Oct. 1, 1971, April 1, 1972, and Oct. 1, 1972.

The compounded total of 36 per cent compares with the unions' demands of 40 per cent and the railroad industry's last offer totaling 13 per cent.

"They're short on money," said Dennis of the board's recommendations, even though conceding it was the biggest wage offer in rail history.

"In view of runaway inflation, that's the reason why they have to put more on the table," he said.

But the board recommended against union demands for increased vacations, holidays and for cost-of-living pay.

The board also urged negotiations on a number of industry demands for rules that would eventually reduce the work force—usually a very difficult area of discussion.

Dennis said he had a meeting scheduled with chief rail industry negotiator John P. Hiltz for 10 a.m. Thursday to discuss the recommendations.

Couple Speaks Vows Saturday

Miss Appie Faye Nichols became the bride of Marshall Gary Schiller on Saturday at 5:30 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Richard Gammon officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther G. Nichols and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Martin F. Schiller Sr., all of Greenville.

The church was decorated with an arch of jade greenery centered behind the altar. On each side stood a nine-branch candelabra with white mums and a stand of bridal palms.

Food Festival Scheduled For Thursday

A Food Festival, planned with the consumer in mind, will be held here on Thursday, Nov. 12, and in Rocky Mount on Nov. 19.

Included in the event are programs on children's ideas about food, new ways to use North Carolina grown products and suggestions on getting the most from one's meat dollar and food dollar.

The festival is being sponsored by the Home Economics Division of the Coastal Plains Development Association and the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service.

Members on the planning committee from Pitt County include Mrs. Otis Stokes, Mrs. J. T. Dupree and Mrs. J. M. Reaves.

Mrs. Dupree, heading up the festival committee from Pitt, said the Greenville programs will be held at the American Legion Building.

Seven different speakers will be featured at the day-long event. The programs will begin at 10 and 10:45 a.m., 1, 2 and 3 p.m., 7:30, 8 o'clock and 8:30.

COOKING IS FUN!

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
Inventive cooks use refrigerated butterflake rolls for all sorts of appetizers. Now an ingenious cook has made them into Pizza Rounds with a filling of deviled ham, chili sauce and mozzarella cheese. These can be served as a snack with coffee in the afternoon or evening or as an hors d'oeuvre with a before-dinner drink.

DEVILED HAM PIZZA ROUNDS
1 can (4 1/2 ounces) deviled ham
2 tablespoons chili sauce
Grated mozzarella cheese
1/4 teaspoon oregano

1 package (about 8 ounces) refrigerated butterflake rolls
1 teaspoon butter, melted
In a small mixing bowl mix together the deviled ham, chili sauce, 3 tablespoons mozzarella cheese and the oregano.

Separate rolls into 12 pieces. On a cookie sheet, flatten each roll, working outward from center of dough so each is 3 inches in diameter; turn up edges to form narrow rims.

Fill each round with a heaping tablespoon of the ham mixture. Sprinkle with mozzarella cheese. Brush rims with melted butter.

Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until edge or rounds are golden-brown—about 15 minutes. Serve hot.
Makes 12 pizza rounds.

Coat the inside bottom part of your garbage can around the seam with a coating of roofing cement. It should last longer.

Prayer" as the benediction. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal A-line gown of bridal satin. The gowns, designed and made by her mother, featured a high rounded neckline with lace covered empire bodice and lace sleeves. The detachable chapel train was covered, and edged with scalloped lace.

Her chapel length veil of silk illusion fell from a crown of pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses accented with tips of greenery and tied with streamers of satin.

Miss Betty Cochran was maid of honor. Her formal A-line gown of pink crepe featured a rounded neckline and empire waist trimmed with matching satin ribbon. She wore a matching picture hat of illusion and carried a bouquet of pink, white and orchid pom poms tied with satin streamers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Marcia Schiller, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Elaine Nichols, sister of the bride. Their formal gowns were of orchid crepe similar to the honor attendant's. They wore picture hats of matching organza. Each carried bouquets of pink, white and orchid pom poms tied with satin streamers.

The bridegroom chose as his best man, his brother, Michael Schiller of Fayetteville. Ushers were Ray Nichols, brother of the bride, and Floyd Kite Jr., cousin of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Nichols chose a blue wool suit with matching accessories. Mrs. Schiller wore a dress of orange crepe with matching accessories. Both mothers wore white carnation corsages.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. Herman Nobles of Greenville.

Reception
A reception, held in the fellowship hall of the church, was given by Mrs. William H. Waters Sr., Mrs. Floyd Kite Sr. and Mrs. James Humphrey, aunts of the bride.

The bridal table was covered with a white linen cloth and centered with an arrangement of white, orchid and pink pom poms and gladioli with three branch gold candelabra on each side. Mrs. Phil White, cousin of the bride, presided at the guest register.

The bride chose for traveling a coattress of navy and red and wore a corsage lifted from her bridal bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of Rose High School and attended East Carolina University. The bridegroom is in the United States Marines, stationed at Beaufort, S.C., where they will reside.

Coordinator Gives Program On Friday

James R. Hinkley, special projects coordinator with the State Planning Division, Raleigh, was guest speaker at the joint meeting of the Woman's Club and the Greenville Garden Club on Friday afternoon.

Introduced by Mrs. J. Paul Davenport as a native of Pennsylvania and one of N. C. five Outstanding Young Men of 1968, Hinkley stated that he normally is an optimist but his paper which was titled "To Conserve Our National Resources For Our Grandchildren" was not optimistic.

He distributed "Fact Sheets for Environmental Action" and "Life Styles" — to create new life styles which reduce the waste and destruction of the environment. He urged those present to use soaps low in phosphate and to conserve natural resources.

Mrs. Sylvester Green gave the devotional. Mrs. George Clapp, president, presided over the business session. She welcomed visiting garden club members and other guests.

New members of the Woman's Club recognized were Mrs. Myrtle Croom, Mrs. Marvin Riddle, Mrs. Lawrence Pope and Miss Gladys Stokes.

Mrs. Clapp, in reporting on the District 15 meeting held recently in Farmville, presented the silver bowl which was awarded the club for having the largest number in attendance. Eleven from the club attended.

The club also received an honor certificate for reporting, a blue ribbon for the press book and the yearbook.

Highlight of awards presented at the district meeting was the Citizenship Award given for the first time this year by the immediate past State President, Mrs. Frank Bryant.

Each club in the district was asked to submit a nominee for this award. Mrs. J. Vance Perkins, sponsored by the Greenville Woman's Club, won in District 15. She was presented the silver bowl at the meeting on Friday by Mrs. Dink James. She will also compete with winners in other districts at the state convention.

The club voted to buy a TB Bond, to support Operation Santa Claus, to take a membership in the Greenville Art Center and to serve as hostesses for the Francis Speight exhibit at the center Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Preston Cannon, chairman of the Home Life Department, announced a department meeting would be held at the Greenville Nursing Home on Nov. 17 at 2:30. A Thanksgiving program will be presented.

Mrs. Clapp expressed appreciation on behalf of club members for an American flag recently placed in the building by the Junior Woman's Club.

Hostesses from the Greenville Garden Club and the Woman's Club served refreshments prior to the meeting.

Bridge Winners Are Announced

The Faculty Duplicate Club held its regular game Friday evening at the Planters Bank. North-South winners were: Mrs. Robert Barnhill of Tarboro and Mrs. Wiley Corbett, first; Mrs. Irvin Adler, Tarboro, and Lewis Newsome, second; Mrs. Frank Moseley and James Stewart, third.

In the East-West division David Proctor and C. J. Goodman tied for top with Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Rogers of New Bern. The next position was also a tie between Dr. and Mrs. Walter

Teen's Overnight Stays A 'No-No'

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I have a small cottage at the rear of my home which we are renting [at very low rent] to my newly married nephew and his wife. They are both teen-agers. We let them live in it for free for over a month.

The problem is that the second night they were married they invited over another teen-age couple who are not married, and they let them spend the night there.

I told them that I would not object to their having overnight guests providing they were married, but I was not going to stand for their having unmarried kids staying with them all night.

I have children of my own and I do not think it sets a good example for them to see unmarried teens "living" together back there. I realize that if my nephew and his wife approve of that sort of thing, they could invite their friends over and let them do whatever they want—and it wouldn't take all night, but I still think I am right to forbid them to let their unmarried friends stay together all night. Am I wrong?
WILLING TO LISTEN

DEAR WILLING: Not in my book.

DEAR ABBY: I have a dear friend I'll call Mary, whom I have known for years. Mary's two biggest problems are her health and a husband who has abused her in every way possible.

She has seen many specialists, and they all tell her it's "nerves," about which little can be done. Mary's husband squanders his money on drinking companions and other women, and there have been times when I have had to lend Mary money to feed her family.

Mary calls me and cries every day. She keeps asking, "Should I leave him?" I always give her the same answer, "That's for you to decide." She left him a few months ago, but he talked her into taking him back. Now he treats her worse than ever.

I am ashamed of myself for becoming so unsympathetic, but her phone calls spread a cloud of gloom over my every day. Would it be selfish of me to break off my friendship with Mary entirely? I am very fond of her and need your advice.
SOFT TOUCH

DEAR SOFT TOUCH: By providing your friend with a convenient wailing wall, you could be hurting her more than helping her. Mary needs to tell her troubles to an impartial party who is trained in counseling and who is qualified to guide her. [As a friend, you are disqualified.] Help is as near to Mary as her Mental Health Clinic. If you are "fond" of her, insist that she see them. Until she has professional help, her miserable lot will never change.

I have had a driver's license for 35 years and have an excellent record, but I have never told my right age. [I am five years older than recorded on my license, and also on my car insurance.]
Should I tell the truth now? Or should I let it go? I am scared.
BROOKLINE, MASS.

DEAR BROOKLINE: Tell the truth. Honesty is the best policy in all things. And for insurance, it's absolutely necessary.

DEAR ABBY: Your article about "Twin Beds vs. Double Beds" hit both of us right between the eyes. You are absolutely right!

Altho we are both past the age of "romance," we have a king-sized bed, and it is so nice to cuddle up next to each other and hold hands until we drop off to sleep.

In spite of the fact that I am a snorer, blanket-snatcher and leg flinger, my wife is happy with this arrangement.

Will Scott Ask A Bond Issue?

No doubt many state administrators and university presidents cringed when they read that the governor had mentioned the possibility of a capital improvements bond issue in the next biennium.

It brought to mind a similar bond issue during the Sanford administration, which was designed to provide funds for capital improvements. Unfortunately it went down to defeat and the state institutions were set back at least two years in their development programs.

Gov. Scott said in an interview last week that he does not plan to ask for a tax increase in the upcoming Legislative session. However, he did point out that he might ask the General Assembly to approve a statewide vote on a multimillion dollar bond issue for construction at mental hospitals, universities and other state institutions. Request for construction projects total about $600 million, although the governor said he would not ask for nearly that much.

He made it clear that he was studying ways to meet the request without calling for a bond issue. "I just don't know right now," he said.

It may be that a bond issue will be the only way that there will be any possibility of meeting the capital improvement needs of the state for the coming biennium. However, it will be a fine thing if the capital improvements needs can be met without one. We feel that Tar Heels recognize the needs of their institutions and will support them, but if the bonds were to be defeated our institutions would be set back again in their development for the second time within a decade.

So much now depends on the state's financial situation as the budget for 1971-73 is drawn up. The decisions will have to be made within the next couple of months.

Drop-Out, But Not A Cop-Out

By BRYAN HAISLIP
CHAPEL HILL — Company president at 39. Law school student at 43.

Robert D. (Bob) Darden, Jr., is a corporate drop-out. At the right time he had the insight and guts to go backward in order to move forward.

Drop-out, not cop-out. Darden left the executive suite at the peak of a successful career, without rancor or regret, to follow an earlier dream.

"I always wanted to study

"Their encouragement has been tremendous," he said.

His Sons Applauded
"Man, that's cool," the sons said admiringly when he told them he planned to go back to school.

Law classes were part of courtship days for Darden and his wife, Lynn, a native of Houston, Texas. He was a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology with a degree in industrial management working for Champion Paper Company by day and attending the University of Houston by night. "A complicated schedule," he recalled.

Marriage and children, and three years stateside service with the U.S. Navy during the Korean Conflict shunted aside the study of law. Out of the Navy with a family to support, Darden entered the furniture industry.

"So you see what we are doing now is putting into operation the plans we abandoned in 1953," he explained.

Darden, born in Washington, D.C., and raised in Charlotte and Asheville, chose the Law School here after talking with friends among attorneys and exploring possibilities. His father now lives in Wilmington.

He looked on the financial sacrifice as no big deal. Sure, he gave up a salary in the middle of the five-figure range; the house they bought south of Chapel Hill is smaller than the one in Lenoir; the scale of living is simpler, the entertaining less extensive. Mrs. Darden works for a real estate firm with serious intentions for the field.

Still, the economics are sound, Darden said. It is an investment of capital over the two years required to get the law degree; it will begin to pay dividends when he returns to employment.

A Relaxed Life Style
Immediate benefits are a greater degree of independence and anonymity, easing of pressure, and latitude for personal action.

"We're glad to get out of the glass house existence," said Darden. "If I want to take a position on an issue of controversy I can do it without thinking what it means for the company."

His exit from the corporate hierarchy was personal and no condemnation of the system per se, Darden said. "My decision was right for me. It might not be for anyone else," he said.

"I love the furniture industry. My 20 years in business were good ones. I know the experience will be valuable. At least, I hope that when I'm practicing law, business clients may feel I have a greater understanding of their problems because I've been there."

BRYAN HAISLIP

law," he explained one recent noon after classes in the University of North Carolina Law School here.

"We felt we had reached the point where our economic situation made it possible.

"Then, too, we were finding the rewards of corporate life at that level just did not seem to us to warrant the price."

Darden made the decision while president of Consolidated Furniture Industries of Lenoir, the furniture manufacturing subsidiary of Magnavox Corporation. His business background included the presidency of a Virginia luggage company, and rapid upward movement on the executive ladder in the furniture industry.

What Others Thought

His departure did not surprise close friends. If any thought him foolish, they did not tell him so. Some of his business contemporaries were openly envious. One grapevine report quoted an associate: "Bob just isn't enough of a s.o.b. for a company president."

A tweed sports coat and a pipe that keeps him borrowing matches blends Darden easily into the campus scenery. Fellow students accept him with no acknowledgement of age difference other than an infrequent "Sir" or "Mister."

"I may be the oldest student enrolled in Law School. It's not a statistic I'm anxious to check on," he chuckled.

He almost certainly is the only one with two sons away at Woodberry Forest prep school, one a senior who will enter college next fall, and a nine-year-old daughter at home. He likely is the only one offering for sale a one-quarter interest in a yacht, a symbol of the affluence that accompanied his former position.

Darden speaks of the transition in the first person plural, an indication of the family's close involvement.

City Planner Could Be Of Great Benefit

The city has filled the new position of city planner and this can be of great benefit in preparing for orderly growth here.

Dillon Watson, who has been executive secretary for the Ayden Economic Council was named to the new position.

Greenville has a great number of projects underway now. There has been considerable planning done by the city manager and other city officials, the City Council and the Planning and Zoning Commission.

It has been evident for some time that a full time city planner was needed to coordinate all this work. The move has been made now and the city should benefit.

May Override Nixon's Veto

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Unless the White House can sustain President Nixon's veto of the campaign spending bill in the Senate, the President faces his first open break with the House Republican leadership.

The vetoed bill, establishing strict limits on spending for political radio-TV broadcasting, comes up in the Senate early during the lame-duck session beginning Nov. 16. If two-thirds of the Senate overrides the veto, the bill goes to the House — and an unprecedented confrontation between Mr. Nixon and Rep. Gerald Ford of Michigan, the fastidiously loyal House Republican leader.

Although few of his colleagues are aware of it yet, Ford is on record to override. "I voted for the bill when it passed the House," Ford told constituents in his newsletter of Oct. 19. "I believe it is a fair solution to a difficult problem. I understand the President's position, but I intend to vote to override the veto."

Probably joining Ford will be Rep. William Springer of Illinois, senior Republican on the House Commerce Committee, which handled the bill. Springer is still steaming over the curt dismissal by White House staffers of his arguments against vetoing the bill.

Emboldened by Ford, rank-and-file House Republicans may also oppose the President — especially in light of the past campaign. Many returned to Washington convinced that saturation radio-TV advertising infuriates the public.

To avoid trouble in the House, the White House needs to uphold the veto in the Senate (where Republican leaders support it). But 16 Republican Senators voted for the bill of Sept. 23, and they may not be easy to turn around.

Rocky and Rog

A private telephone call from Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, just reelected with his largest ever plurality, and Republican National Chairman Rogers Morton shortly after the polls closed Tuesday night reached this quick agreement: the base of President Nixon's political advice must be broadened, and quickly.

Morton and Rockefeller agreed that the tight inner circle of Mr. Nixon's White House — dominated by H. R. (Bob) Haldeman — has drastically limited outside political influence. The advice they want to get to Mr. Nixon: deemphasize the South for 1972.

A footnote: If the President specifically asks Morton to stay on as National Chairman, he will say yes. If there is no such request, Morton might quit and devote full time to being a Maryland Congressman.

Barry vs. Scott

Sen. Barry Goldwater has heightened prospects for a Senate Republican bloodbath by privately urging Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas to try unseating Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania as Senate Minority Leader in January. Dole, an aggressively ambitious first-term, (Continued on page 6)

Back To Pornography

The massive report of the U. S. Commission on Obscenity and Pornography continues to draw favorable comment from some of our more liberal journals. It is being cited by defense lawyers in obscenity trials, and its principal conclusion threatens to become absolute dogma in the field.

It may be useful, therefore, to call attention to a devastating critique of the majority report that was filed by two dissenting members of the commission, Father Morton A. Hill a Jesuit priest in New York, and the Rev. Winfrey C. Link, administrator of a Methodist home in Hermitage, Tenn. The full text of the report, together with the dissenting statements, recently was published in paperback form (Bantam, $1.65). No prosecuting attorney should be without a copy.

Twelve of the 18 commission members joined in the principal finding: "Empirical research designed to clarify the question has found no evidence to date that exposure to explicit sexual materials plays a significant role in the causation of delinquent or criminal behavior among youth or adults." It was this conclusion, based upon various research projects, that led the commission to its major recommendation for the repeal of all existing laws proscribing the sale of pornographic materials to adults.

The Hill-Link statement takes dead aim on the majority report as a whole: "What the American people do not know," say the dissenters, "is that the scanty and manipulated evidence contained within this report is wholly inadequate to support the conclusions and sustain the recommendations." And like good theologians, they cite chapter and verse.

For one example, they direct attention to a study undertaken by Martin M. Propper of 476 young male offenders, aged 17 to 21, who were divided into two groups — those having a low exposure to pornography, and those having a high exposure. The figures suggest a clear correlation between the extent of exposure and the level of deviant sexual conduct.

Another study, along the same lines, was undertaken by K. E. Davis and G. N. Braucht. The researchers dealt with a carefully chosen sample of 365 persons, including jail inmates, Mexican-American conservative Protestant students, and Catholic seminarians. They found that "exposure to pornography is the strongest predictor of sexual deviance among the early age of exposure subjects."

"It should be noted," says the Hill-Link statement, "that this research was contracted and financed by the commission, was in the hands of the commission staff for many months, is referred to many times in their report — but not a single mention is made of these negative findings."

A number of studies undertaken at the commission's direction, in the Hill-Link view, were altogether worthless. Some of these were quickies, in which subjects were exposed to pornographic materials for as little as 50 seconds. Sixteen projects were intended to (Continued on page 6)

Other Editors Say Literacy Preferred

(Kinston Free Press)

A majority of the voters in the November 3 General Election in North Carolina rejected a proposal to abolish literacy tests as a prerequisite for voting in this State. With only about 400 precincts yet to be tabulated the total was 209,830 votes to abolish the tests and 266,769 votes to retain them.

The tests had been suspended in some 61 affected counties by a federal court.

A three-judge panel last week ordered North Carolina to cease enforcing the literacy tests through August 6, 1975. The State can and no doubt will appeal this ruling and seek further support for literacy tests in the light of the voters' action. The 1965 Civil Rights Act had previously nullified the practice in 39 N.C. counties.

What the vote results show is that there is a deep-seated feeling among most citizens that some sort of competency test is in order for voters. While it is not racial and is not aimed at any one group of voters the practice has tended to upgrade the standards of the franchise in this State. As long as public education has prevailed in this State there is no reason why any voter should not be able to read and write a portion of the constitution before registering to vote.

The present situation will have to be resolved in the courts no doubt, but the outcome of the vote on the constitutional amendment last Tuesday, is further evidence that North Carolinians give up constitutional prerogatives reluctantly. We hope by the time the legal hassle is over that all voters who register will on their own upgrade their standards to the level of reading and writing the constitution, whether it is required or not.

Long Gone Days

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Memories are the best investments. They do not rise or fall like stock market shares at the whim of a current market. They keep an enduring value, and will be worth as much or more a decade from now as they are today.

But memories are like dollars in one respect. The more you pile them up, the richer you are.

And your memory hoard is pretty extensive if you can look back and remember when —

The best way a man could impress people with his dignity was to wear a stiffly starched white collar.

A successful girl watcher was one who, on a windy day, got a glimpse of the top of a woman's high-buttoned boots.

The age of efficiency began when they got rid of the conductor on streetcars, and the motorman had to start collecting passenger fares.

Housemaids got less for a week's work than they now do for a day's — and they usually courted when spoken to by the master or mistress of the house.

Most county courthouses were so new that the clock in their towers still told the proper time.

The height of revolt on a college campus was a midnight party raid on a sorority house by a bunch of April-intoxicated fraternity men.

Skiing was largely a sport enjoyed by foreigners, and it was done on snow, not water.

About all most lads knew about women was what they could learn by watching the girls' high school basketball team play in middies and bloomers.

Thugs hesitated to snatch the purse of a woman at night for fear of being skewered by an eight-inch steel hatpin.

Husbands hated to go out for an evening because, instead of simply zippering a wife up the back, he had to spend half an hour lacing her into a whalebone corset.

When the doctor made a house call, the small children in the family tried to peek into his little black bag to see if it contained a tiny baby — for that was where babies came from in those days. Only those days.

If you put away only $1 a week in a Christmas Club savings plan, you could go on a real buying splurge at Santa Claus time.

A fellow thought he was downright lucky if he had a job with a firm that give him one full week's vacation a year with pay.

Those were the days — good and bad, sad and glad, but greatly alive — remember?

Strength For Today Slowdown Wilts Credit Cards

GOD'S LOVE FOR US

One of the outstanding preachers of this generation says that when a man declares that he is an atheist he needs to be asked the question: "What kind of a God is it you don't believe in? Maybe I don't believe in Him either." People have a lot of absurd ideas about God. For some He is a judge, ready to pounce down on the sinner and give him what he deserves. For others God is only an idea. Still others declare that He is a spirit without form of any kind Who pervades everything in the growing world and in the inanimate world also.

Others believe that God is a bookkeeper who has jotted down all our sins and follies. The Biblical message is that the universe is presided over by a heavenly Father. There is sternness in the Bible and warning, but most Biblical truths are designed to encourage us to be of good cheer and press forward to the attaining of great moral achievement.

A life lived on negatives is not secure. The Ten "Thou-shalt-not's" must be reinterpreted by the twenty-seven commandments of the Sermon on the Mount. And both the teachings of the Old Testament and the teachings of the New must be consummated with a heart given perfectly of God on the one hand and to our fellowmen on the other.

Love is the basis of our life here on earth. God's love for us, our love for Him, our love for others — this constitutes life at its highest and best.

By Earl L. Douglass

By ELMER ROESSNER
While the credit card business is still growing, so are its troubles.

The dip in the economy has hurt both the travel and entertainment card systems and the banks' credit cards. Travel and entertainment are off. While some of the wealthy still travel as much as ever, middle-income travel has dropped so much that most airlines are losing money, and many businesses have cut travel authorizations. Business entertainment has also been cut sharply, as a glance into almost any swank watering hole will show.

Incomes of several of the travel and entertainment card companies have dropped and there are reports of merger negotiations.

Banks have not been so hard hit, although the drop in employment has affected total volume. This has been somewhat offset by the fact that families strapped for cash have been using their credit cards more.

Collections Slow
However, collection rates are reported to be declining. This may increase the paper profits of card-issuing banks and other organizations because of the substantial interest charges on deferred payments; it will also tend to increase skips and bankruptcies.

While some steps have reduced the losses from stolen cards, they are still high. Steps include photos on cards, loss insurance for both users and card issuers, and faster techniques for alerting firms about stolen cards. These methods, however, all cost money and their effectiveness is limited.

The wholesale mailing of unsolicited credit cards has almost disappeared. The practice not only irritated many prospects but it led to demands for legislation to halt it and it increased losses through thefts of cards.

Enter, Uncle Sam
Credit cards have prompted two actions by the Federal Trade Commission. It issued proposed far-reaching trade regulations on billing practices, the main object of which is to suspend collection efforts until disputes are settled. Many credit granters have been operating on a policy of "pay now and argue later." This has applied to both card and charge-account credit. Comments will be received by the FTC until Jan. 25, 1971.

It has also opened an investigation to determine if credit card issuers are violating anti-trust laws. The probe will center on three allegations: One, that credit card issuers discriminate among retailers; that is, they grant lower rates to large and "show window" stores than they do to small stores. Two, that certain banks require merchants to open accounts with the banks. Three, that some credit card issuers try to prevent retailer users from offering discounts for cash.

Two Fires Reported

Two fires yesterday, both on the Old Creek Road, were reported this morning by Pitt County Fire Marshal Mike Worthington.

The first involved a 12:40 p.m. house fire on the Carr Langley farm. Fire units from Stator House were dispatched to the scene and damage to the structure was reported as minor.

Pitt County Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that two juvenile girls, both of Greenville, have been charged in connection with the fire and will be tried in juvenile court on Nov. 20.

Yesterday afternoon at 4:31, Stator House responded to a burning combine fire in a field located on the D. M. Copeland farm on the Old Creek Road. Worthington said that damage to the large farm machine amounted to about $5,000. Value of the combine was estimate at about $18,000.

Two Tar Heels Die In Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department has announced that two Army men from North Carolina have died in the Southeast Asia war area. One, Sgt. Wendell Taylor of Enfield, was killed in action. The other, Spec. 4 Ronald W. Isehour of Rt. 2, Hickory, was listed as dead not as the result of hostile action.

Evans, Novak

(Continued from page 4) needs little encouragement. A strong backer of Nixon administration policy, he has been anxious to challenge Scott as insufficiently loyal to the President. However, Dole could scarcely win support outside the Goldwater orbit of hardcore conservatives. A more formidable foe for Scott would be Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee, who lost to Scott last year and is undecided about trying again. A footnote: A sure anti-Scott vote vanished when Sen. George Murphy was defeated in California. Before the election, Scott confided to friends he would shed no tears over the defeat of either Murphy or Sen. Paul Fannin of Arizona (who was reelected).

Non-Political IRS
White House political operatives are fuming that political innocence at the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) cost the Republican party a precious seat in Congress Tuesday.

They blame the IRS for the defeat of Rep. Martin B. McNeally, an upstate New York Republican and former national commander of the American Legion, by John Dow, a left-of-center ex-Congressman who advocates diplomatic recognition of Red China. McNeally seemed a winner until Sept. 15 when the IRS, answering a query, revealed he had not filed income tax returns from 1964 through 1967 and that his case was under investigation.

Republican politicians contend the IRS should have kept quiet until after the election, when McNeally would have resigned his seat, and a special election called to fill the vacancy. The IRS says that Section 6103 (F) of the Internal Revenue code requires it to disclose, when asked, whether a taxpayer has filed a return for a given year.

Henderson Calm; Curfew Rules Eased

HENDERSON, N.C. (AP) — A normal, small town calm returned to Henderson Monday night as curfew restrictions were eased for the first time since racial tension erupted into shooting and firebombings Friday.

ECU Newspaper Funds Removed

The East Carolina University Student Government Association yesterday voted to remove funds for the Fountainhead — the campus newspaper — for the winter and spring quarters.

The SGA action followed a dispute between the Fountainhead staff and the SGA which came to a head last week.

The disagreement is over control of money to the newspaper, which is financed by student activity fees.

SGA president Robert Whitley said the funds would be withheld from the publication until a new Publications Board could be created and a new editor elected and new staff assembled.

Tenants To Talk Issues

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — The National Tenants Organization (NTO) has announced that the push for new housing legislation, and rent strikes, will be discussed at its first national conference in Winston-Salem Nov. 19-22.

Chairman Jesse Gray, who announced the conference Monday, said the NTO will use housing issues to cut across racial lines and "build a poor people's coalition."

The national director, Tony Henry, said conference workshops also will discuss the placement of tenant representatives as public housing commissioners, and the organization of squatters to take over long-vacant buildings for poor families.

The keynote speaker will be State Sen. Julian Bond of Georgia.

Other speakers will include George Wiley, director of the National Welfare Rights Organization, and Howard Fuller, director of Malcolm X University in Greensboro, N.C.

patrolmen and local law enforcement officers continued to patrol the northeastern North Carolina tobacco and textile town of 15,000 population. But travel restrictions on citizens in Henderson and surrounding Vance County were lifted. Sale and transportation of liquor and firearms were still prohibited.

No incidents were reported during Monday night. City officials said a decision would be made by early this afternoon on whether to keep the Guardsmen on duty for a fourth night.

The city, whose population is about evenly divided between whites and Negroes, was calm Saturday and Sunday night under a dawn-to-dusk curfew and heavy patrols.

The trouble started when police used tear gas to break up a crowd of blacks they said had pelted them with stones and bottles after refusing to disperse. The Negroes were protesting the reopening of an elementary school, and the assignment of an all-black student body after the school had been closed as part of the county school integration plan.

Education officials said the school had been reopened to relieve overcrowding elsewhere, and not to circumvent the desegregation plan as some Negroes claimed. The situation had led to hard feelings for almost a month — and the school had been closed again before the eruption of Friday night.

Most of the more than 150 persons arrested for curfew violations during the weekend were among the 240 persons scheduled for trial in District Court in Henderson today.

Included on the docket was Paul Jones and Nelson Royal retain their Atlantic Coast Tag Team Championship against contenders Rip Hawk and Swede Hanson.

"It was a big audience and they really loved it," J. Richard Ullom, commented. Ullom is director of the Greenville Boys' Club, which benefits from profits made from the monthly wrestling matches underwritten by the Greenville Jaycees as a primary project to assist the Boys' Club financially.

Ullom indicated that although he had no official figures to quote, it is his understanding that last week's bout resulted in about $500 to be contributed to the Boys' Club fund. "All of us involved with the Boys' Club operations," Ullom said, "are really very grateful to the wrestling fans who have made this help possible by having a good time seeing their favorite wrestlers in action."

The next bout has been tentatively scheduled for Thursday night, December 3. Ullom says that anyone wanting to arrange for advance tickets can call the Boys' Club, telephone 758-4029, between the hours of 1:00 and 9:00 p.m. daily to make arrangements for advance ringside tickets. Tickets will be on general sale about 10 days prior to the next event.

At the present time, the Boys' Club provides programs and activities for more than 400 young active boys in Greenville, both in sports and in study fields.

Bombs Thrown On Building's Roof
GASTONIA, N. C. (AP) — Police say that two bombs were thrown from the ground onto the roof of the one-story Belks Department Store Monday. The bombs, described as apparently homemade black powder devices, blew holes in the roof but did not injure anyone.

The first explosion damaged the ceiling of the beauty shop. The second did not damage the interior of the store.

The store is in a shopping center. The manager of Belks, Paul Thomas, said he was in the beauty shop when the first bomb exploded, and he thought it was a boiler malfunction. He said that upon the second explosion a few seconds later he closed the store until firemen and policemen could come.

Find Bacteria Eat Oil Slicks

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Convicted it wasn't impossible, scientists at Florida State University set out on a mission to combat oil slicks now say they have developed potent strains of a bacteria that gobble up oil—then quietly dies off.

"We knew that certain types of bacteria have been breaking down oil for millions of years," Prof. Carl Oppenheimer said in an interview Monday.

"So we went out into the environment and looked in likely places where oil had been spilled for a long time and came up with several promising strains."

Oppenheimer said the team found their bacteria in such places as Boston Harbor. "They've been spilling oil there for 100 years, longer than in any other American port"—the Santa Barbara Channel off California and a Pennsylvania refinery.

The team took the bacteria back to Florida State and started working on methods that would make them consume oil faster.

"We developed several strains that are extremely potent," Oppenheimer said. "We gave them a culture medium that stimulated their activities. Actually, what we had to do was fortify and enhance their natural appetites."

The product of two years of research is several strains of bacteria that destroy "bunker C fuel oil, one type of Louisiana crude, and one type of Louisiana crude," Oppenheimer said.

"It may turn out that we must find other bacteria to feed on Kuwait and Venezuelan oils, but I'm sure they will be there if we need them," he said.

Oppenheimer said the bacteria could be mass produced by methods similar to those used to make penicillin, then freeze-dried and stored.

"When they were needed, a helicopter or crop duster plane could take them out and spread them over the slick," he said.

Tests in laboratory tanks show the bacteria break down the oil rapidly and efficiently, Oppenheimer said, then die out when the food supply is gone.

Irish Take Top In Musical Chairs Poll

By HERSHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Notre Dame completed its rise to the top of The Associated Press college football poll today, edging past Texas' defending national champions who in turn ousted Ohio State three weeks ago.

Thanks to a 46-14 rout of Pittsburgh while Texas was having its troubles beating lowly Baylor 21-14, the Fighting Irish pulled down 23 of 46 first-place votes cast by sports writers and broadcasters across the country and 822 points.

Texas received 13 first-place votes and 783 points. Ohio State, Nebraska and Michigan held onto the 3-4-5 spots with 728, 638 and 607 points, respectively. Each received three first-place votes, with the remaining one going to 11th-ranked Arizona State.

Last weekend, Ohio State defeated Wisconsin 24-7, Nebraska clobbered Iowa State 54-29 and Michigan buried Illinois 42-0.

"It's all Joe Theismann's fault," grinned Ara Parseghian when told that Notre Dame was No. 1. Theismann, ND's quarterback, became the school's all-time total offense leader Saturday.

"Seriously," Parseghian continued, "our position on the poll hasn't changed at all. That is, we feel it creates a lot of interest in college football, but it's more important to be No. 1 at the end of the season. In our case, however, I'd consider it a tribute to the great leadership of our co-captains, Jim Kelly and Larry DiNardo, and naturally, to Theismann, who is having a sensational year. He makes us click."

Notre Dame hasn't been No. 1 in the final poll since 1966.

Stanford's Rose Bowl-bound Indians topped Washington 29-22 and held onto sixth place, with Arkansas again in seventh following a 38-14 defeat of Rice.

Auburn smashed Mississippi State 56-0 and climbed from 10th to eighth while fellow Southeastern Conference member Tennessee dropped from eighth to 10th after needing a late field goal to nip South Carolina 20-18.

The only newcomer in the Top Ten was Louisiana State, up from 11th to ninth via a 14-9 squeaker over Alabama. Air Force, which was ninth a week ago, skidded to 13th when Oregon knocked the Falcons from the unbeaten ranks 46-35.

Despite the loss of Archie Manning in the third period, Mississippi downed Houston 24-13 and moved up from 13th to 12th, followed by Air Force, San Diego State, Dartmouth, Toledo, UCLA, Southern California, Oregon and Kansas State.

Last week's Second Ten consisted of LSU, Arizona State, Ole Miss, San Diego State, Toledo UCLA, Houston, Alabama and Syracuse.

Injuries May Hurt Indians

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Injuries to several members of William and Mary's defensive secondary could prove a severe blow to the Indians' admittedly slim chance of winning the Southern Conference football championship.

Bill Monday fractured his hand during practice last week, and both Tom Duffey and Warren Winston incurred knee injuries in William and Mary's 28-15 victory last Saturday over Connecticut.

The Indians, who play just four conference games, are tied for third at 1-1 with Richmond and Furman, both 2-2. The Citadel leads at 3-1, followed by defending champion Davidson at 2-1. Three of the four—The Citadel, Davidson and Richmond—play a full six-game league slate.

To win the league title and a berth in the Tangerine Bowl against Mid American Conference champion Toledo, the Indians must win their two remaining games while both The Citadel and Davidson lose one.

What makes it so tough for Coach Lou Holtz's Indians is the fact the two remaining opponents rank No. 1 and No. 2 in the conference in passing—Davidson and Richmond.

Two conference games are scheduled Saturday afternoon—William and Mary at Davidson and Virginia Military at Richmond, the latter to be televised regionally. The Citadel invades Furman for a Saturday night clash. Only East Carolina plays outside, the Pirates playing host to Marshall.

For the first time this season, The Citadel's performers were pads in a Monday practice as they spent 20 minutes covering individual mistakes in last Saturday's 29-28 defeat by Chattanooga.

Furman went through a 1½-hour workout in preparation for its meeting with the Bulldogs and heard a scouting report on The Citadel's offense.

Just about every phase of the game was covered during Richmond's practice as the Spiders returned to hard work after less intensive drills last week due to an open date last Saturday.

Linebacker Lonnie Kiernan, defensive tackle Tim Tyler and defensive end Terry Johnson were listed as doubtful for Saturday's game at East Carolina because of injuries received in a 28-14 defeat by West Virginia.

Razzle-Dazzle Helps Baltimore

By BOB GREENE
Associated Press Sports Writer
MILWAUKEE (AP) — Two new wrinkles set the tone as the Baltimore Colts continued their charge toward a playoff berth Monday night by downing the Green Bay Packers, 13-10, in a nationally televised National Football League game.

One of those "new wrinkles" was unveiled on the very first play of the game when running back Sam Havrilak, a former Bucknell quarterback, took the ball on an apparent reverse and threw to wide receiver Roy Jefferson.

"It was one of those high school plays," Baltimore Coach Don McCafferty said. "We have been using reverses all season, but that's the first time we have thrown off of it."

Then there was Jerry Hill's 15-yard scamper around right end for the Colts' only touchdown of the game. Quarterback John Unitas faked to Havrilak on a plunge through the center of the line, then pitched out to Hill, who turned the left end with nothing but a host of Baltimore jerseys out in front of him.

"That was a great call by John," McCafferty said. "That's the first time we used it this year. You have to come up with new wrinkles now and then to keep everybody honest."

Although the score was close, the game wasn't. Green Bay took an early 3-0 lead, then watched Baltimore explode to a 13-3 advantage before the Packers scored their final points with less than two minutes remaining in the game.

Havrilak's pass on the first play, which was good for 54 yards, was the only real long gainer of the day as intermittent rain forced both teams to play more conservatively than they wanted to.

Although the drive started by the long play fizzled when Jim O'Brien missed a 30-yard field goal attempt, it did set the tone of the entire game.

Baltimore was in scoring position again only moments after the missed three-pointer when safety Rick Volk picked off the first of four Don Horn passes the Baltimore defense intercepted. The Colts apparently scored on a field goal, but Baltimore passed up the points when a holding penalty against Green Bay gave the visitors a first down on the Packer four-yard line.

The decision appeared to have backfired, however, when Bob Jeter stepped in front of a receiver in the end zone to pick off a Unitas aerial and returned it to the Green Bay 16.

Dale Livingston capped a 71-yard Packer drive with a 20-yard field goal, boosting Green Bay to a 3-0 lead.

After Livingston missed a 39-yard attempt, Unitas took the Colts on an 80-yard drive that ended with Hill's 15-yard sweep around left end.

O'Brien then booted three-pointers from 42 and 29 yards before Green Bay finished the scoring when Jim Grabowski plunged one yard for the final touchdown.

It was the first TD the Baltimore defense has allowed in 13 quarters of play. The Colts' theft of four Green Bay passes raised their total of interceptions to 17 in their last four games.

The victory raised Baltimore's record to 7-1 in its bid for the American Conference's Eastern Division title. Green Bay, a member of the National Conference's Central Division, is now 4-4.

Something To Cheer About

Mike Mills, East Carolina University defensive cornerback, has given ECU cheerleader Beverly Dameron something to cheer about. Mills was named today as the Southern Conference Defensive Player of the Week for his work in the West Virginia game Saturday. Mills made nine primary and 11 assisted tackles, and broke up three passes in the game. He is the third Buc so honored this year. (Reflector Photo)

Mike Mills Is Top Defender

West Virginia, one of the nation's leading teams in rushing, couldn't make it on the ground against East Carolina University, Saturday, and defensive back Mike Mills was one of the chief reasons.

For his play in Saturday's game, Mills has been named the Southern Conference's Defensive Player of the Week.

The Mountaineers took a 28-14 victory over the Bucs in a game closer than the score would indicate. They got all four of their touchdowns through the air, but none came over Mills.

The 183-pound senior from Statesville, was credited with nine primary tackles and 11 assists. He also broke up three passes. Overall, West Virginia was able to make only 92 yards on the ground, and Mills was listed as one of the chief reasons for this. Mills also was a key figure in last week's victory over Furman by East Carolina. He broke up the pass in the end zone that turned the ball over to the Bucs and presented the Paladins from scoring.

"Mike made a kind of dramatic comeback this year," ECU Coach Mike McGee said. "He suffered a knee injury prior to our first game and was in a cast for three weeks. When he got hurt, he was destined to be our starting cornerback."

Mills sat on the bench most of the first six or seven weeks of the season, however, as his knee continued to be slow in healing. "He's been back two weeks, now, and has done a very good job. Although West Virginia did a lot of passing, none of it was in his area," McGee said.

"Of course, he was most impressive in his tackling. He is giving good direction and leadership to our secondary."

Mills is the third Pirate to be named Defensive Player of the Week. George Whitley received the honor for the East Tennessee State game, and Rich Peeler received the award for the West Texas State contest.

"We had a real fine effort from all the team," McGee said.

Rose, Others To Form New 4-A Conference

WILMINGTON — In a dramatic and sudden move yesterday, the Eastern 4-A Conference disbanded while meeting in Wilmington Sunday and Monday.

The move came amid disagreements on the realignments of the three divisions in the conference, set up two years ago by the first expansion of the league which saw Greenville's Rose High School come into the loop.

Boley Farley, athletic director at Rose High School, said the disagreement came about when members of the Division I and III schools tried to get the Division II members, which includes Greenville, to merge with Division III.

Farley said he and the representatives of Wilson and Rocky Mount voted against the proposal, while all of the other members of the conference voted for it. The others insisted that the three join in for a unanimous vote, but they refused.

At the same time, Farley reported, Northern Nash and Elizabeth City Northeastern high schools were also admitted into the conference, both being 4-A size. Tarboro and Washington High schools, presently members of the Northeastern 3-A also requested admission, although they are not yet of 4-A size.

According to Farley the debate as to realignment between the Division II and III schools continued on throughout Sunday evening and into Monday's second meeting with no solution near. "The Division I schools, who had their group set up didn't seem to care what happened in the other divisions. But we just didn't want to be involved in so much traveling, and wanted to stay within our own area."

Finally, the six members of the current Division II, Wilson, Rocky Mount, Goldsboro, Kingston, New Bern and Rose, held a meeting and decided to leave the conference, and form a new 4-A group.

They then proposed to the full meeting that the conference be disbanded, and the Division I schools surprisingly joined in the vote, agreeing to disband.

Farley said the six Division II schools, along with Northern Nash, Elizabeth City, Tarboro and Washington are scheduled to meet Thursday in Goldsboro to lay the groundwork for the formation of a new 4-A conference, which would begin operation with next fall's football season.

"It was decided by the six schools that this was the only thing we could do," Farley said. "The rest seemed intent on getting us into an alignment we didn't want. We are sorry it came to this, but they could not agree to compromise or bow, so we made the decision."

There was no immediate comment from North Carolina High School Athletic Association Executive Secretary Simon Terrell on how this might affect the state 4-A playoffs next year. Presumably, however, instead of three divisions within the Eastern Conference, each division would act as a separate conference, thus maintaining the proper number of teams for a playoff to a state title within three - post - season games.

Bucs Runners Finish Second

LÉXINGTON, Va. — William & Mary's Indians once again reign as the Southern Conference cross-country champions, but East Carolina's Pirates made a terrific comeback in the meet to take second place.

The Bucs, who had finished sixth in the North Carolina State Cross-Country meet, came back for the second place finish, and were leading the strong Indian team through the first 2½ miles of the race.

The Indians picked up only 23

Elks correctly picked the winners in 25 of the 32 games given in last week's ads.

Second place went to Maxine Mills of Rt. 3, Box 197B, Greenville, who also had 35 right. She was further off the point total however with a guess of 78. Elks had a guess of 80, and the actual total was 87, scored in Lafayette's 53-34 victory over Davidson.

Two other people also correctly picked 25 winners, but were further off the point total.

The ninth of the 10 weekly contests appears on the following two pages.

Amelia Earhart Alive? Investigators Think So

NEW YORK (AP) — Two former Air Force officers said today a 10-year investigation strongly indicates that Amelia Earhart, who disappeared with her plane over the Pacific in 1937, is alive and living in the United States.

Lt. Col. Joe Klaas and Maj. Joseph Gervais said in a news release they believe a woman calling herself Mrs. Guy Bolam, and claiming to have flown with Miss Earhart, actually is the famed aviatrix herself. They based their belief largely on physical resemblance and Mrs. Bolam's secrecy about her past. They said their research indicates that Miss Earhart and her navigator, Fred Noonan, were intercepted near Hull Island in the Phoenix group on July 2, 1937, by planes from a Japanese carrier, and that she held captive in the Imperial Palace in Tokyo throughout World War II.

Klaas said he believes that Emperor Hirohito bartered Miss Earhart's life and "the secrets she knew, which could be embarrassing to the U.S. government," for his own freedom from trial as a war criminal.

The two officers expounded their theory in connection with Klaas' book, "Amelia Earhart Lives: A Trip Through Intrigue to Find America's First Lady of Mystery." The book is published by the McGraw-Hill Book Co.

Gervais, a former bomber and transport pilot and accident investigator for the Air Force, said he first met "Mrs. Bolam" at a Long Island meeting of the Early Fliers of America in 1965, and had located her at various times in various places, including Bedford, N.Y.; Newark, N.J.; Princeton, N.J., and Raleigh, N.C.

A McGraw-Hill spokesman said Mrs. Bolam has given an address at Jamesburg, N.J., and the two officers have written to her inviting her to appear at a Los Angeles meeting Nov. 18, when more details of their findings will be disclosed.

He said she looks very much the way he thinks Miss Earhart would look at the age of 72. He said she denied that she is Miss Earhart and "steadfastly refused to answer questions about her background, birth, schooling or her career in aviation."

Wake To Vote On Bonds, Tax

RALEIGH (AP) — Wake County voters will decide Jan. 26 whether to approve a $10 million school bond issue and levy a one-cent local sales tax.

The Wake County Board of Commissioners set the referendum Monday.

Both the proposed sales tax and a previous school bond issue for $29 million were defeated in elections during the past year.

Crawled In To Slow Bleeding

ELON COLLEGE, N.C. (AP) — Police Chief Henry Hilliard crawled through the broken windshield of a truck Monday and held a cut in the driver's neck to keep it from bleeding so freely.

The driver, Henry Boone of Whitsett, was taken to a hospital in Burlington.

He had been pinned in the cab of his dump truck for half an hour after his vehicle collided with a Southern Railway freight train at a college at Elon College.

Baptists Are Told Five Schools Renewal Will 'Win' Are Closed

GREENSBORO (AP) — North Carolina Baptists were told today that although the church faces "division, dissension and disunity," renewal will triumph.

The church is not "on its deathbed" nor is it "a sinking ship about to lose its identity in humanitarianism, social service programs and political crusades," said the Rev. A. Douglas Aldrich of Gastonia.

"The church is wherever a group of persons have responded to God's call in Christ and are seeking to live their total life under the Lordship of Christ in the world," he said.

Aldrich made the comments in an address for the annual North Carolina State Baptist Convention.

The convention president, the Rev. John E. Lawrence of Raleigh, had told the gathering's opening session Monday night that the modern church "is too much turned in upon itself."

He said the church is "too much preoccupied with building its own image, and too much concerned with maintaining itself." Lawrence said he agreed with the contention that "it is a sin for churchmen to become so absorbed in maintaining the status quo that we refuse to become involved in eradicating the ugly sores which are crippling mankind and justify ourselves in our feelings by saying we are too busy."

Lawrence said most churches are divided along liberal and conservative lines.

"Very often," he said, "this division leads to name calling, labeling and unbrotherly conduct which is foreign to the spirit of Christ our Lord."

What is needed, Lawrence said, is "aggressive love."

WARRENTON, N.C. (AP) — Five schools in Warrenton have been closed indefinitely after 100 black pupils marched to the office of the county school board and presented demands.

The leaders of Monday's march were pupils at Graham High School, one of those closed. Demands included election of Student Council officers within two weeks by a majority of the pupils at Graham, black speakers, and a black assistant principal.

The demands are similar to those presented to school officials at Henderson, 12 miles away in northeastern North Carolina. National Guardsmen are on standby at Henderson after a weekend of racial tension and violence.

Parathion Approved By Agriculture Bd.

RALEIGH (AP) — Parathion, a controversial pesticide blamed for several deaths, will continue to be legal for use in North Carolina under a ruling of the state Board of Agriculture Monday.

The board approved the pesticide's continued use after hearing a report from Dr. William Cobb, state chemist, who made a study.

Cobb said parathion "is a useful pesticide when used according to directions with all precautions."

He said that of five deaths blamed on parathion, investigations showed that the pesticide was involved in three cases.

Of these three deaths, he said, only two were caused by negligence and one resulted from the rupture of a hose on applicator equipment which was not followed by a check with a doctor.

He said 15 illnesses were investigated and eight "were judged either not to be the result of parathion or highly questionable."

"Failure to use proper safety equipment during handling, failure to observe a waiting period after spray application, improper storage of pesticides and inadequate disposal of containers were very evident in the investigations," Cobb said.

He said the General Assembly, which opens its 1971 sesion in January, will be asked to consider laws for pesticide control which would include parathion.

Dr. F. E. Guthrie of North Carolina State University's department of entomology said last summer's deaths and illnesses blamed on parathion were no different from any other year.

"We have had one to three deaths every year since we have used it," he said. "This is very tragic and we are sorry about this. But we are not doing as bad with pesticides as they are with automobiles."

List Coed Among 'Outstanding'

SPARTANBURG, S. C. — Miss Carroll Andresen of Greenville, N.C., has been named in this year's national listing of America's most outstanding university and college students.

Miss Andresen's name is included in the 1970-71 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges, a listing of the campus leaders from more than 1,000 of the nation's institutions of higher learning.

Miss Andresen, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. K. Andresen of E. 10th St., Greenville, N.C. is one of 15 seniors at Converse College named for the honor.

The Worry Clinic Layman Holds Purse Strings

Dr. Pierce could properly be termed the clerical Paul Revere of 1970. So beware of the communistic invasion of our churches. And also avoid the attempt to merge into a major, monopolistic church. That's often a subterfuge, as I learned back in 1933 when the University of Chicago tried to gobble up

Northwestern University. By GORGE W. CRANE, Ph. D., M.D. CASE O-542: Dr. Robert B. Pierce is the famous pastor of the world's tallest church, the Chicago Temple. He also held the outstanding Methodist pulpits in both Indianapolis and then Detroit, before reaching the Chicago Loop church.

He is a dedicated exponent of business efficiency in government, as well as patriotism, plus respect for law and order. "Dr. Crane," he told me earlier this year, "I urged the Bishop and our Garrett Biblical Institute to reprimand the four Methodist ministers in Evanston who lent their churches to the S.D.S. rioters. "For these rioters smashed store windows and automobiles down here in Chicago and broke the neck of one of our city officials. "But my advice was totally disregarded, and these four clergymen were actually praised for their aid to

The bidding:

Opening lead: Ace of ♣
The reader may well be surprised to learn that West won a trick with the six of hearts in today's hand, however South's deliberate underplay in the trump suit thrust the lead on his opponent at a time when West had no safe exit—and the donated trick came back with interest. Holding seven winners in his hand with neither side vulnerable, East opened the bidding with four clubs. South overcalled with four hearts and altho a cheap sacrifice was available at five clubs, West chose to defend on the deal.

West opened the ace of clubs. However, despite the vigorous encouragement signaled by his partner, he was unable to continue the suit and shifted to a diamond. Declarer won the trick in his hand with the ace and cashed the ace of hearts on which East discarded a club. A diamond was led to the king and the three of hearts was led. South deliberately played the deuce from his hand—permitting his opponent to win a very cheap trick with the six of hearts. West could not lead a diamond without giving the declarer a ruff and discard, so he cashed the ace of spades and continued with the nine. South won in his hand with the king and led over to the queen. When the suit divided evenly, he was able to discard his last club on North's five of spades. His losses consisted of one spade, one heart and one club. If West exits with a diamond when he is in with the six of hearts, South can ruff in dummy and discard a spade from his hand. A spade is led to the king and West is in again with the ace. The nine of spades is returned and declarer puts up North's queen and then ruffs a spade to establish dummy's long card for the necessary club sluff.

Kingsbury To Regional Post

Owen Kingsbury, research glassblower at East Carolina University, has been appointed sectional director of the Southeastern Section of the American Scientific Glassblowers Society for the second term. Kingsbury, who also serves the organization as secretary-treasurer, received the appointment at the Society's annual meeting held in Raleigh in early October. As a result of the appointment, Kingsbury represented the Southeastern Section in the sectional meeting held Oct. 22-24 in Detroit, Mich.

criminals. Imagine!

"So I think it behooves church laymen to pay more attention to where their generous contributions are going nowadays." Maybe we should look upon Dr. Pierce as a clerical Paul Revere, 1970 style! For most of our churches have been infiltrated with young clerics who belong to the "Renewal" group. They often abet street rioting, property damage, and the furnishing of funds and church facilities to dirty, unkempt lawbreakers. In fact, the Illinois conference actually offered $2,000 to help bail out one of these 7 culprits whom Judge Hoffman sentenced! And the best way to stop their unAmerican activities is via their pocketbook. Dr. Pierce gave me a card with the following pertinent advice: "The power of appointment may lie with the few, but the power of the pocketbook is still in the pew!" So donate to the Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, the YMCA, etc., instead of to such misguided churches. For you don't hear of street riots or window smashing and campus sit-ins by Scouts, or Camp Fire Girls or YMCA members, do you? In this Illinois conference, these sissy "Renewal" clerics even urged seminaries on how to help young men evade the military draft! And don't think this deterioration of churches is limited just to Chicago!

I have hundreds of letters from Catholic as well as many major Protestant denominations, attesting to the same perversion of religion by these liberal young clerics. In fact, at a seminary in Texas, some students admitted they were there deliberately to evade the draft! They aren't motivated by a sincere devotion to evangelism, as was St. Paul or the deep dedication of our missionaries of a generation ago. If you thus have a street rioting type of pastor, cut off his water! Which means, withhold your church contributions for his pay checks. For such men are definitely not like St. Paul, who preached without any salary! St. Paul was a hard working tentmaker and thus a church layman, volunteering his services FREE on Sunday. And with church memberships
