Job Forecast Cites Dwindling Education Demand

By BROOKS JACKSON Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department says young people, especially women, planning on becoming teachers in the 1970s should think instead about jobs in other fields.

world government. It was in 1940 that he wrote a "Declaration of the Federation of the World." Always active in any effort to further the cause of world peace and unity, Dr. Humber represented the Southern Council on International Relations in 1945 at the San Francisco Conference, which formulated the United Nations Charter.

called on his audience to work for peace, telling them it was up to them to get the job done.

Last year, Dr. Humber, as chairman of United Nations Day in North Carolina, toured the state, speaking on the role of the United Nations.

Next to his concern for unity and cooperation among mankind, Dr. Humber was noted for his work on furthering the cause of art, in Greenville and for the State. He was president of the Rachel Maxwell Moore Foundation of Art, the foundation which supports the Greenville Art Center.

Dr. Humber was instrumental in getting the North Carolina Museum of Art established in 1948. After laying the groundwork for action which led North Carolina to be the first state in the nation to appropriate funds for a State Museum of Art, Dr. Humber persuaded trustees of the Kress Foundation to match a $1 million grant from the State.

Dr. and Mrs. Humber have also been consistent donors of valuable works of art to the museum. On a number of occasions, he worked for months to locate and secure a particular item needed by the museum to fill in an area in which the collection was not represented.

Since 1961 Dr. Humber has been chairman of the Board of Trustees of the North Museum of Art. He has also been a member of the Board of Directors of the State Art Society since 1945 and was chairman of the Executive Committee of that society from 1949 to 1961; and chairman of the State Art Commission from 1951 to 1961.

Dr. Humber received the A. B. Degree from Wake Forest College in 1918. This was the beginning of a long list of degrees he was to earn.

Other degrees he held included the American Field Service, University of Paris, 1926, the LL.D. (Honorary) from the University of North Carolina, 1958; and the LL.B. and LL.D.

In education, as in world peace and art, Dr. Humber was a champion of causes to broaden the scope of facilities available to his local citizens. He was instrumental in getting Pitt Technical Institute established.

During the crisis at Rose High School last year, the concern Dr. Humber felt for young people was manifested in the role he played as co-chairman of the Citizens Awareness Committee, which spent long hours in sessions with students, teachers, and parents to resolve the tension. For this cause, Dr. Humber cancelled all other engagements to remain in Greenville.

A lawyer by profession, Dr. Humber was a Democratic state senator for two terms from Pitt

By JOHN VINOCUR Associated Press Writer PARIS (AP) — France turned Armistice Day into a day of mourning for Charles de Gaulle today while preparations went ahead for his simple country funeral and the memorial service in Paris that will bring leaders of some 80 nations to Notre Dame Cathedral Thursday.

President Nixon and Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin headed the host of presidents, premiers and monarchs bound for the French capital to pay funeral tribute to the general whose unshakable faith in France and stubborn will twice rescued his nation from humiliation.

Informed sources said Nixon, after the memorial service Thursday morning at Notre Dame, would go to De Gaulle's home at Colombey les Deux Eglises to represent the American people at the funeral in the afternoon. Although De Gaulle's instructions for his funeral requested that it be stripped of pomp and official ceremony, he wrote: "The men and women of France and of other countries of the world may, if they wish, do my memory the honor of accompanying my body to its last resting place."

Dressed in the uniform of a two-star general and with a rosary given him by Pope Paul VI in his hands, the body of De Gaulle lay today in a closed wooden coffin in the center of a large room on the ground floor of his tightly guarded home in Colombey, in eastern France. It was there he died Monday night of a heart attack.

The tricolor flag of France covered the coffin, a single candle burned in the room, and De Gaulle's widow, Yvonne, stood by the casket, dressed in black, a handkerchief in her left hand. She fought tears as she acknowledged tributes from old friends and veterans of her husband's wartime struggle to free France.

In the churchyard not far away a workman's chisel added "1970" to the marble tombstone that already read "Charles de Gaulle 1890."

In Paris, thousands lined the Champs Elysees to watch President Georges Pompidou ride to the traditional Armistice Day service at the Arc de Triumphant. The mood, under the gray skies typical of a French November, was solemn.

Stores and public buildings are always closed in France on Armistice Day, but today they seemed to be shut as much for De Gaulle, who was wounded and taken captive as a young officer during World War I.

Pompidou and Premier Jacques Chaban-Delmas were going to Colombey today after the Armistice Day ceremony.

Crowds were slowly gathering in the little village of 329 persons, and police reinforcements were rushed to the area to handle the thousands expected.

Only a few were admitted to De Gaulle's home to pay their respects to his widow, his navy captain son and his daughter, the wife of a general.

There were unconfirmed reports from Moscow that Kosygin would also make the pilgrimage to Colombey as a personal gesture to the man who tried to make France a bridge between the East and West blocs.

Date Set For Accepting Bids On Water Pollution Control Plant Addition

Bids will be received by the Utilities Commission on Dec. 8 for construction of an addition to the water pollution control plant.

The addition, estimated to cost $850,000, will double the size of the present plant from four million to eight million gallons daily capacity.

present plant site which is located behind Greenwood Cemetery. Commissioners voted to end action concerning VEPCO power rates and other matters. Director Horne explained that the action was instituted through the Coastal Electric Cities organization. Since then most of the cities have joined EPIC, which is empowered to act for all its members in such matters.

'Must Tolerate' Property Losses

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Supreme Court heard a civil rights attorney argue Tuesday that public officials "must have some tolerance for some destruction of property" in racial disputes.

The contention was put forth by James E. Ferguson II of Charlotte in arguing the case of Preston Eugene Dobbins, convicted of violating curfew and possessing a shotgun during racial disturbances in Asheville last year.

The customer has been paid too much he will be reimbursed. If he has underpaid he will be billed for the difference. Commissioners also approved a plan for retaining the banks as collectors of utilities bills. Under the plan customers would be able to pay their bills at any bank or branch. They could still also pay at City Hall or by mail. Commission officials will negotiate with the banks to work out payment.

Ferguson's statement brought sharp questioning from members of the court and Justice J. Frank Huskins called it "a potential suicide pact for municipal officials."

Dobbins, 23, is appealing his sentence of $25 fine on the curfew violation charge and his sentence of six months in jail, suspended during three years probation, on the shotgun charge.

The commissioners also approved the purchase of a used trencher at a cost of $2,200.

No ruling on the appeal is expected for months.

GMC Accord

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers and General Motors Corp. announced today they had reached tentative agreement on a new labor contract that could lead to the end of an eight-week-old strike against the giant automaker.

"Agreement on all national economic and contract issues has been reached between General Motors and the UAW," the company and the union said in a joint statement.

"The three-year agreement covering all GM plants in the United States is subject to ratification by the UAW's membership in GM plants in the United States."

The two sides said details of the contract would not be released until after a meeting of the union's 350-member GM council later in the day.

Sources close to the negotiations, however, said it included these items.

—A union demand for a return to an unlimited cost-of-living wage escalator under which workers wages ride upward with increases in the Consumer Price Index.

—Retirement at $500 a month for workers with 30 years at age 58 in the first year of the contract, age 56 in the second year and age 55 the third year.

—A compromise wage increase in the first year of the contract somewhere between the union's last demand for an additional 61.5 cents hourly and the company's last offer of a 38-cent boost.

—Four weeks vacation after 20 years service.

28-page booklet called "U.S. Manpower in the 1970s," will be distributed to 100,000 leaders in business, labor and education in the hope of prompting private-sector planning for coming changes. The report, much of it a summary of already published statistics, forecasts a U.S. work force of 100 million by 1980, a 10-year growth of 15 million. It will include bigger shares of blacks, women, young people, white-collar workers, and part-time workers. The number of teen-agers entering the job market will grow much slower than in the 1960s, but the number of black teenage job seekers will jump 43 per cent compared to 9 per cent for whites.

Thursday's Food Festival To Feature Outstanding Speakers

Several outstanding speakers will be present for Thursday's Food Festival which will be held at the American Legion Building.

Scheduled for the program are Diane Fistori, Sandra Rogers, Judy Sikes, Hardy Kellum, Frank Thomas, John Christian, who will give a meat cutting demonstration, and Jim Butler.

The morning, afternoon and night sessions have been divided into three major program topics with various demonstrations and talks scheduled.

"Holiday Snacks Everyday" will be featured during the morning. "Holiday Parade of North Carolina Products" during the afternoon and "Shopping Year Around in a Holiday Mood" at night.

"The idea for the food festival was conceived back in the spring. The object of the festival is to provide consumers with more information on feeding the family and getting the most for one's food dollar," said Miss Addie Gore, home economics extension agent for Pitt County.

The Food Festival is being sponsored by the Home Economics Division of the Coastal Plains Development Association and the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service.

The Coastal Plains Development Association is comprised of a six-county area. Nash, Wilson, Edgecombe, Pitt, Beaufort and Martin. An identical Food Festival will be held in Rocky Mount on Nov. 19. "When the committees of the six counties met various problems were discussed. Three ideas were decided upon — a child's idea about food and nutritious snacks, bringing into focus N. C. products such as turkeys, sea food and peanuts, and money management in buying foods with emphasis on meats and also involving the male consumer," continued Miss Gore.

The morning program will begin at 10 a.m. with "A Child's Ideas About Food" presented by Diane Fistori. Other topics include "Turkey Treats" and

Lady Paperhanger Says Her Job is Good For Figure

By ELIZABETH WHITE
Record Staff Writer
COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Bored with housework and looking for a career?

If so, you could follow in the footsteps of Mrs. Don (Trudy) Collins and clamber up and down a ladder all day. She's a 22-year-old lady paper hanger.

Not only would you get into a field with little female competition, but you'd also improve your figure.

The attractive brown-haired young woman works six days a week as a paper hanger. Each day she dons coveralls and sneakers and heads up the ladder alongside her male co-workers.

"Sure they kid me, but its usually about my being so short. I'm pretty short compared to them. And sometimes I get wrapped up in the paper," she said.

Her career began at the early age of 14 when she helped her father, W.R. Ross, who is a wall-covering contractor, who would let her do some of the work. "He didn't have a son to help him, so I decided I would take his place. I worked on Saturdays and after school, but I never thought at that time that I'd make a career of it.

"The first thing he taught me to do was to paste and cut. Learning to cut straight was hard to do. After I had done that for a long time he said it was time for me to learn to hang it," she said.

Now seven years later she's still enjoying her career, although there are times when she pulls a muscle or falls from the ladder. It's just all in a day's work for her.

Another thing she enjoys about her career is that it gives her a chance to see what other women's ideas are in decorating their homes.

And, she overlooks the comments she often gets when she arrives to start a new job. "They usually say, 'What! A lady paper hanger?' And I tell them I'm just as good as the boys," she said.

Mrs. Collins lives in a trailer while her husband is in the Air Force in Vietnam, and plans to continue her job after he returns in August.

She is happy in her work. "If you like to work with colors and design. It's a good job. And, too, it's good competition for the men."

Happy Ending After 38 Years

LONDON (WNS) — Bill Fletcher, 50, has committed more than 100 crimes and has spent 38 years in prison. During his brief spells of freedom, he felt frightened in the outside world and once asked a judge never to set him free. His life changed when the two-year-old daughter of probation officer Robert Mynett climbed into his lap in the back seat of the car that Mynett was driving. "I felt healed because someone trusted me," said old Bill, who has settled down to his first real job at a South London hostel.

'Girly Show' Got Hubby In Doghouse

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of married men going to a "girly show" where the girl dancers are completely naked and they dance VERY close to the tables? By the way, only men can get into these places. My husband plans to go with some men friends of his soon, and he is really looking forward to it. He doesn't know how furious I am about this. I did tell him I didn't see why a married man would even want to go to such a place, but he kind of laughed it off.

Do you think I am being foolish for feeling as I do? Maybe I should pretend I don't care so I won't be thought a jealous, possessive, nagging wife. What would you do in this case? Tell him he can't go? By the way, my husband is 25 and I am 23 and we've been married for three years.

JEALOUS

DEAR JEALOUS: You have already expressed your surprise [and probably disappointment] that your husband would want to go to such a place, and having done that, there is nothing further for you to do. Don't tell him he "can't" go. [He'll go if he wants to.]

DEAR ABBY: To ease the heart of the lady who kept finding fresh flowers on her husband's grave from an "unknown donor" and was hurt because she had thought him so faithful, please tell her this:

We had a dear old relative whose vision wasn't too good. After her husband died she went almost every day to place fresh flowers on his grave, and since it kept her busy, nobody interfered. One day, I went with her and discovered that she had been putting the flowers on the wrong grave.

I didn't have the heart to tell her, thinking it couldn't possibly make any difference to anyone. So for the rest of her life, that dear little old lady never knew she was going to the wrong spot. It never occurred to any of us that such an error could cause heartache to anyone until I read that letter in your column. So, this lady's husband was probably the wonderful, faithful person she remembers, but somewhere there could be a feeble myopic mourner who is visiting the wrong grave. Hope this helps.

BETTY IN L. A.

DEAR ABBY: Re the widow who wrote that a mysterious person kept putting fresh flowers on her husband's grave, and she was heartsick.

It is possible that in her grief and shock, this widow when making the funeral arrangements signed for an automatic flower service. This means the grave site is perpetually provided with fresh flowers.

This happened to a friend of mine. She was so numb at the time she made her husband's funeral arrangements she signed with a florist for such a service.

When she was sent a bill one month later for "Perpetual flower delivery" she said she had never even heard of such a service—and she certainly didn't recall signing for it.

So tell that poor lady that she may be going thru all this for something she herself agreed to pay for.

JEAN IN LOMPOC

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NO SWINGER" IN MISSOULA, MONTANA: Dancing can be a very intimate business, and I don't think you are even a little bit square for wanting to dance the "slow, cheek-to-cheek" ones only with your own husband.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Americans Remember A Debt

Today the nation is honoring its veterans and it is well to remember that without millions of young men who took up arms for their country many years ago we could be under totalitarian domination today.

Veterans Day grew out of Armistice Day, Nov. 11, when the truce was signed which ended World War I. As we all know, it was not a lasting truce and millions of Americans went to battle in World War II to stop the incredible spread of Nazism, after Adolph Hitler took over Germany.

World Wars I and II were glory days for the military and the young men who entered the armed services had a clear sense of duty and an awareness of their mission to save their country.

Wars since then have been without the fierce sense of patriotism which has swept the country before it entered previous wars. Now we have been bogged down in the Vietnamese war until any mission we ever had there has long since become clouded. Consequently military service is not looked upon by the young with the same feeling of duty and patriotism that has been true in the past.

While this is understandable, we should not forget on this Veterans Day that millions of living Americans went to war to save their country and millions more are serving now because it is a part of citizenship in our nation.

The United States should pledge all its efforts toward an era of peace and reduced spending on arms. This should be done from a position of leadership, however, with all nations agreeing that the arms race must stop. In the meantime, no one should forget that when it was necessary, Americans have fought to preserve their freedoms and the freedoms of others. Veterans of past service and young military men serving today deserve our appreciation.

A Fierce Nationalist Will Leave Influence

Not all the world loved Charles de Gaulle, but there are few who did not respect him.

The autocratic old general died Monday just a few days short of his 80th birthday. He was the last of the great World War II leaders and as France's president until his retirement in 1969 he had been fiercely nationalistic.

We did not always agree with de Gaulle's methods, but there is no doubt that France is a stronger nation today because of his leadership.

One of the giants of the 20th century is gone, however his influence will live on.

A Battle For Nixon's Mind

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — A momentous internal struggle over economic policy is underway inside the Nixon administration with the Treasury furiously resisting efforts — dramatically reinforced by Republican election losses — to accelerate the economy and reduce unemployment immediately.

Until the mid-term election, the push for acceleration was limited to a single high Administration official: Herbert Stein of the President's Council of Economic Advisors. Although his public statements have been ambiguous, Stein has pushed hard in private to take the government's foot off the brake and put it on the accelerator of higher spending and expansion of the money supply.

Stein was badly outvoted. Paul McCracken, council chairman, seemed to take a neutral view, but Secretary David Kennedy and his Treasury colleagues were anything but neutral. They warned that premature acceleration of the economy would sabotage efforts to control inflation. All signs were that President Nixon himself fully backed the Treasury.

Setbacks suffered by Republicans last Tuesday, however, have brought scores of party politicians running to Stein's side. They feel that the President badly underestimated the impact of unemployment in the past campaign and are demanding that something — anything — be done right now to prevent a recurrence in the Presidential election year of 1972.

Thus, Mr. Nixon is facing one of the most crucial politico-economic decisions of his Administration with nothing less than his own reelection and the future health of the Republican party at stake. Largely untutored in economics, the President must find the right path through the divided counsel of his own advisors and the understandably panicky demands of party leaders.

Those demands have political validity. Unless he actually believes the ridiculous stream of post-election propaganda pouring out of the White House, Mr. Nixon cannot avoid the conclusion that his party suffered badly and that unemployment was a major contributory factor.

A case in point is Rockford, Ill., a Republican bastion where Democrats scored their best wins ever. One reason: the second highest unemployment rate in Illinois because of job layoffs in Rockford's machine tools industry. Similarly, unemployment contributed to the chilling Republican disappointments in California and Indiana, Democratic near-sweeps in Ohio, and Michigan, and the upset defeat of Rep. George Bush for Senator in Texas.

To these political demands for uncorking the economy, high Treasury officials warn that any action now will be politically pointless. The Presidential election is two years away. Why not stick to the Administration's "game plan" (in Nixon terminology) of achieving full employment by mid-1972 but not before?

The reason for the Treasury's caution could not even be hinted at before the election (and even now is spoken only in hush-hush whispers not directly attributable to Administration officials). They believe that the present relatively high rate of unemployment must be sustained through much of 1971 if inflation is ever to be contained. That's why the Administration's policymakers are so frightened today. They worry that Stein, now backed by panic-stricken politicians, will force a switch in strategy.

Even if Stein and the politicians win, there are limits on what the Administration can do, particularly when it comes to fiscal policy (raising government spending). The Federal budget is now so badly out of control that a really massive increase is scarcely possible.

That leaves monetary policy (increasing the money supply), which is Stein's first choice of weapons. But monetary policy is controlled by the independent Federal Reserve Board, whose chairman — Dr. Arthur Burns — is known to disagree with Stein.

Nevertheless, even Stein's severest critics at the Treasury would acknowledge that if Mr. Nixon gives the green light, there could be significant acceleration of the economy. This is precisely what they are determined to prevent in the turbulent weeks just ahead.

Redistricting Is Godwin Aim

By BRYAN HAISLIP

GATESVILLE, N.C. — Redistricting committees in the 1971 General Assembly broadly representative of the state's geographic interests is the aim of House Speaker Philip R. Godwin.

Fashioning Congressional and state legislative districts on the basis of the 1970 census is one of the major tasks facing the session which convenes January 13, barely two months away.

Redistricting on the one-man, one-vote guidelines of the federal courts has elements of "political mathematics," Godwin said. It's a numbers game with sensitive implications for areas and people.

Godwin himself is a "small county" Representative. He coordinate appointments to the redistricting committees. An objective will be to avoid duplication of representation from one county or general area on the House and Senate committees.

These days, Godwin is putting business and personal affairs in order for the long, intermittent absence from his Gatesville law office and home which will begin with the session. Since it is his sixth consecutive term, it's a procedure he's been through before.

Demands of office fall earlier and heavier on Godwin than the other 169 legislators whose two-year terms began with their election last week. He already is giving attention to advance details for organization of the House for a smooth start.

He has mailed letters to House members elected on November 3, congratulating them and putting them on notice to get ready for work. Questionnaires will be sent later for them to indicate preferences for committee assignments.

School for Lawmakers All legislators, particularly newcomers, will be expected in Chapel Hill on December 10-11 for an orientation conference at the Institute of Government. "I'm hopeful we'll have pretty much full attendance," Godwin said. "It's especially helpful for the new boys, but the old ones will get a lot out of it, too."

At about the same time, a caucus of Democratic House members will be held in Raleigh. It will put the stamps of approval on the formality of Godwin's election as Speaker when the session convenes.

"I'm real enthused about the session," Godwin said. "My aim as Speaker will be to elevate the office of Representative to what it should be. These boys work hard and they deserve recognition, and the tools to do the job."

is one of two House members from the First district. Located in the northeastern corner of the relatively sparsely populated East, it includes the counties of Camden, Chowan, Currituck, Gates, Pasquotank and Perquimans. No other House district embraces so many counties.

"There are going to be problems," Godwin acknowledged, "but I think we can work it out at the regular session without having to call a special session to do the job. We're going to have to be more realistic than we have been in the past."

Coordinating Appointments As House Speaker, Godwin will name committees in the lower body, as Lieutenant Governor H. P. (Pat) Taylor, Jr., will do in the Senate. None of the appointments will be watched more closely than those to the committees to handle redistricting.

Godwin said he will put heads together with Taylor to

THE PROGRAMMER!

Stirred Allies' Anger

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

AP Special Correspondent WASHINGTON (AP) — Charles de Gaulle upset more foreign policy plans of more American presidents than any Allied leader in modern times, even putting an end to French military participation in the Western-European defense system under NATO.

Yet while he infuriated one Washington administration after another De Gaulle commanded respect here for his dedication to the revival of France after World War II and his brilliance in devising and executing diplomatic strategies which Washington considered implacably wrong headed.

Outstanding among his negative achievements from Washington's point of view were his success in blocking Britain's entry into the European Common Market and his divorce of the French military from the NATO defense system.

Though he never renounced the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, as some officials here feared he might, De Gaulle compelled the United States to give up all its NATO bases in France and so angered its allies that they shifted their headquarters for the North Atlantic council from Paris to Brussels.

De Gaulle was an unrelenting critic of United States involvement in the war in Vietnam. Indeed he sometimes spoke of it as a war for which the United States was wholly to blame.

To the distress of U.S. policy makers in the last dozen years, De Gaulle held France aloof from United Nations disarmament negotiations and showed mainly disdain for the limited ban on nuclear weapons testing which this country, Russia and Britain negotiated in 1963. He had determined that France should become an atomic power with its own "force de frappe" — striking force — and saw restraints on nuclear testing as a hindrance to his goal. Communist China, with similar purpose, also scored the test ban treaty.

But U.S. policy makers saw De Gaulle in a much larger historical and political framework. In essence they saw him as the rebuilder of France after its bitter humiliations at the hands of the Germans in World War II. They agreed that probably he was the only man who could have cut away France's remaining colonial territories — Indochina and Algeria while persisting in his efforts to restore French national self respect in a sense of greatness.

The most serious criticism voiced here with De Gaulle was that he was trying to fit post-war France into a revived 19th century Europe. U.S. policy was designed to promote a United States of Europe. De Gaulle preached a "Europe of the Fatherland" stretching from the Atlantic to the Ural mountains which stand at the limits of Europe and Russia. He thus projected a role for French leadership in accommodating Russia as a European power.

De Gaulle was a man of many things to many people. I am an inseparable link in the chain that binds men to God and country; each link welded in the fires of Purity by the Sacred Hands of God Himself. And because I am on the side of God, the Godless would destroy me, but they dare not because I am protected by the mighty land armies of the Nation, the powerful and deadly fleet of the Navy and the screaming eagles of the Air Force, watching and waiting to swoop down and destroy anything that would harm me.

To some, I am yesterday, today and tomorrow; to (Continued on page 5)

Remember 'Old Glory'

Amos F. Hurley, veteran of the Mexican expedition under General Pershing and of World War I, died Aug. 17 at the age of 70. The depth of his feeling for "Old Glory" is expressed in the first tribute he wrote in 1962 when, as a commander, Veterans of World War I, he accepted a flag which had flown over the nation's capitol. "Old Glory Speaks" is reprinted as a salute to Veterans Day.

I am the flag of the United States of America.

I was conceived in the dreams of liberty and in the hopes of freedom. I was designed by the hands of Betsy Ross and her sewing basket was my cradle. Though I was never an orphan, I was adopted by the Continental Congress in 1777 and proclaimed the National Emblem of a Nation newly born on this continent, fighting valiantly for survival and destined to bring to all mankind a new concept of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

I have been many places and have seen many things. I have witnessed every event of American history. I was there when they fired the shot heard around the world. I was there in the late twilight at Fort McHenry and inspired Francis Scott Key to write the immortal "Star Spangled Banner," now our National Anthem.

I say Molly Pitcher take the cannon swab from the hands of her dead husband and help carry on the fight for freedom. I felt the biting cold at Valley Forge, and gave warmth and comfort to General Washington and his tired and hungry Continental army.

I rode with Ethan Allen and the Green Mountain Boys. I saw the signal that started the midnight ride of Paul Revere.

I was flown above the decks of Old Ironsides and from the masts of the Yankee and the China Clippers. I blazed the trail with Daniel Boone and Davy Crockett. I led the settlers coming west and crossed Death Valley in a covered wagon.

I was carried through the Halls of Montezuma to the shores of Tripoli by the United States Marines. Once I fell to the ground at Custer's Last Stand and there were no living hands left to pick me up. I galloped up the slopes of San Juan hill with Teddy Roosevelt and the Rough Riders of the United States Cavalry. I stayed with the boys until it was over, over there, and on the battle fields of the Marne, Chateau-Thierry, St. Michel and the Argonne forest. I saw many of the youths and manhood of our Nation fall and lie still in death. They had given their last full measure of devotion. The war was over for them forever and I kept my lonely vigil over their graves and stayed to watch the poppies grow amid the crosses, row on row, in Flanders Fields.

I was raised by five brave men during the "Hell" of Iwo Jima. I waved farewell to the four immortal chaplains who went down with their ship and to honored glory.

I am many things to many people. I am an inseparable link in the chain that binds men to God and country; each link welded in the fires of Purity by the Sacred Hands of God Himself. And because I am on the side of God, the Godless would destroy me, but they dare not because I am protected by the mighty land armies of the Nation, the powerful and deadly fleet of the Navy and the screaming eagles of the Air Force, watching and waiting to swoop down and destroy anything that would harm me.

Other Editors Say Expansion 'Good'

(The Raleigh Times)

A broadening of North Carolina's motor vehicle inspection program to include mirrors and exhaust systems would be in the interests of highway safety. It stands to reason that a car without workable rear view mirrors cannot be operated safely, since the driver must have good vision to the rear of his car in today's swift traffic. And, a poor exhaust system can leak carbon monoxide fumes into the car, causing drowsiness.

The inspection program has been expanded a little by each legislature since Governor Dan Moore persuaded the 1965 General Assembly to venture back into the inspection field. The political disasters which followed the inspection program two decades ago had made all subsequent legislatures gunshy on this subject, and Governor Moore had to press hard for even a modified program.

Developments since that time have proved the wisdom of the inspections. It is hard, of course, to prove definitely that the program prevented X number of fatal wrecks. But look at the record: During the first eight months of this year 1,832,645 vehicles were inspected. Of these, 251,599 had defective headlights, and 231,767 had other defects. Included in the defects were 68,754 brakes, 77,493 turn signals, 67,174 wipers, 52,294 tires and 13,407 steering mechanisms.

It is frightening to realize that 68,754 cars with bad brakes or 52,294 with bad tires, or 13,407 with defective steering mechanisms were on the highways. It is comforting to know that those defects have been corrected.

Several years ago, the state enacted a law requiring that all motorcyclists wear certain type protective helmets. The success of this law can be measured easily: Since then, deaths in motorcycle wrecks have been cut in half.

Strength For Today

TRIUMPH What shall I do? Where shall I turn? Can there be any hope left?

These are the despairing questions which people often shriek out in hours of startling crisis. And crisis, of course, is something that must occur in everyone's life, and in the case of many people crisis follows crisis to an almost unbearable degree.

There are some things, of course, that cannot be righted. A dear one passes on, yet the basic hope of the Christian is that life never ends and that through the memory and insubtle ways beyond our explanation the dead continue to linger with us. Friends turn away — sometimes because of our fault and other times because of theirs. Ill health comes down upon many like an avalanche. Sometimes we confront the end of a series of tragic circumstances which involved ourselves and our loved ones.

Let us remember in times such as this that life is made for triumph, not for defeat. There is always a way out. It may not be the way we have chosen or the way we think is best — but there is a way, and it is never hopeless and defeat.

Religious faith leads us to the conviction that there are powers above our own on which we can and must rely. We must rely upon these powers in hours of joy, that we be sensibly restrained. We must rely upon them in sad hours, that we be comforted and guided. Let us always remember — life is made for triumph, not for defeat. By Earl L. Douglass.

Books Published For Business

By ELMER ROESSNER Regardless of the slump in platinum prices and the decline in business at the expense-account restaurants, businessmen must still be good customers for books. At least they can read, judging from the large number of new titles on the market. Among them:

"Statistical Abstract of the United States, 1970." This is the Department of Commerce's annual book of government and other statistics on American business, population, finance, production, transportation, farming and other economic facts. With this as a reference, you too can be a pundit. It is 1,042 pages, including index, and is $5.75 from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington 20402.

"How to Survive a Bear Market," by the staff of Barron's, 226 pages, paper, $2.95, by Dow Jones, Princeton, N.J. Experts tell how to duck punches.

"Mutual Funds and Other Institutional Investors: a New Perspective," by Irwin Friend, Marshall Blume and Jean Crockett, 182 pages, $7.95, McGraw-Hill, New York. This Twentieth Century Fund study takes a fresh look at the mutuals and says they have contributed to price swings of smaller, speculative stock issues. Deep dish.

"The Business Environment of the Seventies," by Earl B. Dunckel, William K. Reed and Ian H. Wilson, 129 pages, $15, McGraw-Hill.

Three business environmentalists of General Electric take an expert look-ahead and see sparks but no short-circuits. Good.

"Anatomy of a Merger," by Robert Q. Parsons and John Stanley Baumgartner, 192 pages, $19.95, Prentice-Hall. It tells how to sell a company, how to get best deal, necessary documents, legal problems, the non-technical language with illustrations and examples. Good for any company planning to buy or sell.

"Money and the Corporation," proceedings of a business conference conducted by McGraw-Hill with many top authorities giving their views; 192 pages, $25.

"How You Can Beat Inflation," by David L. Marstein, 226 pages, $7.95, McGraw-Hill. The old formulas in nontechnical language, with a wealth of questions and answers.

"Every Employee a Manager," by M. Scott Myers, 233 pages, $8.95, McGraw-Hill. Get in there and fight; you can make it!

"The Turned-On Executive," by Auren Uris and Marjorie Noppel, 236 pages, $7.95, McGraw-Hill. Get in there and fight; you can make it!

"How to Beat Inflation by Using It," by Donald I. Rogers, 211 pages, $6.95, Arlington House. More on the broad principals of hedging, told in nontechnical language.

"Successful Moonlighting Techniques That Can Make You Rich," by Forrest H. Frantz, Sr., 219 pages. Parket Publishing, West Nyack, N.Y. A little on exploiting hobbies but much more on raising money and pyramiding it, not into a supplement income but into fortunes.

Poitier To Give Sum To School

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Movie actor Sidney Poitier, a trustee of needy Virginia Union University, has agreed to give the school 5 per cent of his net on his next two films.

Announcing this Tuesday, Al-lix B. James, president of predominantly Negro Virginia Union, said it was not known how much money would be involved.

"I plan to look to experience in naming committees. There's something to be said for continuity," Godwin said.

That doesn't mean, he cautioned, that any or all of last sessions' chairmanships will or won't be repeated.

Two Committees
For redistricting, his present thought is to set up two special committees — one to deal with Congressional districts and another to handle General Assembly districts.

John Sanders, Institute of Government director, and Legislative Services Officer Clyde Ball already are assembling research information to aid in the task, Godwin said.

Indications are that districts will have to be balanced within strict limits as to population equality, Godwin said. In a Missouri case, he noted, the courts struck down a variation of 3 per cent above and below the norm. "I don't see how we can preserve county lines and come as close as that," he said.

Planning Publish 'Secret' Novel

LONDON (AP) — The late E. M. Forster, British writer best known for "A Passage to India," was the author of a novel with a homosexual theme which his executor plans to publish.

Forster died in June at the age of 91. His executor, Prof. Emeritus Walter Sprott of the psychology department at Nottingham University, said the novel was written between 1905 and 1913 and that Forster had shown it only to close friends.

"He did not want it published in his lifetime because he thought there would be some stir about it and he did not want to be involved in that," Sprott said.

Old Glory . . .

(Continued from page 4) others I am a glorious child, to some a grand old man or a most gracious lady. I have several names. I am called the "Red, White and Blue," "The Star Spangled Banner," "The Stars and Stripes," but I am most commonly known by a nickname given me by an old sea captain who called me "Old Glory."

I have not changed much in may one hundred and eighty five years. I still have my original thirteen stripes, but as each state came into the union a new star was proudly added to the constellation of my blue field. It started with thirteen stars, now there are fifty.

Many more things I would like to tell you but we haven't time, but I do want to see you again. I am easy to find. I am everywhere. I am in the homes of the poor, in the mansions of the rich, in Independence Hall with the Declaration of Independence and the Liberty Bell, I am in the White House with the President, I am in all the Churches, Cathedrals and Synagogues, in the Council of the Boy and Girl Scouts of America, in all the schools where they pledge allegiance to me.

I draped the caskets of our Nation's heroes borne to their last resting place, the caskets of Presidents, generals, admirals, humble privates and the unknown soldier. Wherever free men gather, whenever there is justice, equality, faith, hope, charity, truth or brotherly love, there too, am I.

A short while ago I was flown over the Nation's Capitol, gazing proudly across the land of the free and waving to the homes of the brave; then I was lowered and given by a grateful nation to a great Congressman, who brought me across the Continent to the shores of the Pacific and presented me to a group of Veterans of World War I at Patriotic Hall in the City of the Angels to become their official flag and, with fitting ceremonies, was carried by tired old hands and posted in a place of honor near the Holy Bible. There I shall remain until (like the old soldier) I'll just fade away and be retired by time alone and may history NEVER write MY obituary for I am the Stars and Stripes FOREVER.

YOUTH IN GOVERNMENT DAY . . . was marked Tuesday at the City Council Chambers in City Hall. Students from Aycock Junior High and Rose Senior High acted as mayor, city councilmen and other city officials as City Manager Harry Hagerty (standing) explained the functions of each official.

Student Group Visits City Hall For Briefing In Municipal Govm't

Students from Aycock Junior High and Rose Senior High yesterday morning celebrated Youth and Government Day as part of the week-long observances of Youth Appreciation Week.

City Manager Harry Hagerty was host to the young people during their city hall visit beginning at ten o'clock Tuesday. Hagerty made a presentation of the mechanics of city government, explaining the make up of various departments and how each worked with the other.

Twelve students represented Rose High School. This group was headed by Ernest Adams, Jr., president of Rose Student Government Association.

The group from Aycock Junior High consisted of eight students—four candidates for the student body president and four candidates for vice president. Miss Faye Creegan, faculty member from Aycock Junior High, accompanied the junior high students.

Planners for the week-long activities, Jack Weeden, chairman of the Boys' Work Committee of the Greenville Optimist Club, and publicity director Bill Kehoe, ECU faculty member also attended the city hall program.

To make the program realistic for the students, Hagerty had them form a city government. With one student acting as mayor, the student mayor one by one had his councilmen and other officials elected. As each took their place at the table in the City Council Chambers, Hagerty explained the particular duties and responsibilities involved for each position.

Weeden and Kehoe indicated they felt the students derived a great deal of knowledge and satisfaction from the couple of hours spent at city hall.

Prison Sentence For Bank Robber

ASHEVILLE (AP) — A man who was arrested the same day an Asheville bank was robbed of $9,844 pleaded guilty to bank larceny Tuesday and was sentenced to 10 years in prison.

Robert M. Driggers, 34, of Asheville, will receive credit for the time he has spent in jail since the Aug. 26 holdup of the branch of Northwestern Bank. He was sentenced by U.S. Dist. Judge Wilson Warlick, who permitted the plea to the lesser crime because a toy pistol was used in the theft.

"The Feeding Of Children"

Young children often have some very definite ideas about the foods they like or dislike. What can a mother do? Well, she might try understanding some of the reasons why the child behaves as he does and then take action; if action is needed.

Tar Heel mothers, grandmothers and future mothers, who wish to understand more about the food habits of young children will have their chance at a special consumer class taught by Diane Fistori, extension food specialist, North Carolina State University.

Miss Fistori's presentation is part of the Food Festival program sponsored in Greenville, Thursday, November 12 and Rocky Mount, November 19, by the Home Economics Division of the Coastal Plains Development Association. Mrs. Ruland Davenport of Greenville is president of this six county Home Economics Division. Mrs. Otis Stokes of Ayden and Mrs. J. T. Dupree of Greenville represent Pitt County on The Foods Committee and Mrs. J. M. Reaves of Ayden is on the Publicity Committee.

Miss Fistori, a native of Worcester, Mass., holds her bachelor's degree from Framingham College in Massachusetts. She completed a dietetic internship at a Veteran's Administration Hospital in New York and her masters degree in Public Health Nutrition at UNC-Chapel Hill. Miss Fistori's presentation will be at 10 a.m., kicking off a full day of consumer-oriented programs.

Sandra Rogers, home economist, VEPCO, will offer ideas for "Holiday and Everyday Snacks," at 10:45 a.m.

The Greenville Food Festival program will be held at the American Legion Building. The Rocky Mount session at Tarrytown Mall. It is free and open to the public.

Flatly Denies She Is Amelia Earhart

NEW YORK (AP) — "I am not Amelia Earhart," Mrs. Guy Bolam declared flatly before a crowded news conference.

She dismissed as "utter nonsense" Tuesday the suggestion in a new book, "Amelia Earhart Lives," that she is the famous aviatrix lost over the Pacific during a 1937 round the world flight.

Two former Air Force officers claim in the book that Miss Earhart was on a secret mission to photograph Japanese military installations on the island of Truk for the U. S. government.

Authors Lt. Col. Joe Klaas

and Maj. Joseph Gervais said the Japanese shot her down, captured her and held her prisoner until after World War II when she reappeared as "Mrs. Bolam" to conceal her espionage role.

Mrs. Bolam, who now lives in a senior citizens development in Jamesburg, N. J., told newsmen she had known Miss Earhart as a fellow flyer in the 1930s.

She said she had met Gervais at a party for old time flyers on Long Island in 1965 and "had a casual conversation. Later I learned that he apparently became obsessed with the idea that I closely resembled and actually might be Amelia Earhart."

She said she had denied this to Gervais both by telephone and by letter but had declined to meet with him "because to me he appeared more interested in fantasy than in fact."

Farm Union Laws Urged

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Agriculture's number one problem today is unionization of farm workers, the national vice president of the American Farm Bureau Federation said Tuesday.

David Sloan of Marion, S.C., spoke at the 52nd annual meeting of the Kansas Farm Bureau.

Sloan called for a national labor relations act for agriculture similar to that in effect in the private segment of American industry.

Such a law for agriculture is necessary to halt the tactics such as secondary boycotts, which Sloan said, were employed in the unionization of farm workers in California in recent years.

He believes the act is "a must if you are to continue as a free agriculture—to own and operate your farm. It will be a struggle to get such action taken by Congress—but we can and must get it done and we can if we all get together and build a better and stronger Farm Bureau," he said.

No Definition Of 'Nuisance' Was Included

BALTIMORE (AP) — A City Council member, Catherine Duffy, has introduced a bill to control the "nuisances" committed by dogs and other animals.

The text of the measure introduced Monday night reads:

"No persons, having the duty and ability to prevent, shall knowingly permit any dog or other animal to commit any nuisance upon any sidewalk in the City of Baltimore, or upon the floors or stairways of any building or place frequented by the public or used in common by the tenants, or upon the outside walls or stairways of any building abutting on a public street or park."

Persons found guilty would be liable for a $10 fine. The term "nuisance" is undefined in the bill.

Nobody Knows Why Rochester Terror Target

By DON WATERS
Associated Press Writer
ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — In the first hours of Columbus Day, five closely timed dynamite bombs exploded at a Federal building and a county building, a pair of black churches and a union official's home.

Rochester was a prosperous and, until the bombs, peaceful city of 290,000. Why the violence?

Fifteen days later, terrorists struck again. Dynamite bombs exploded at two synagogues.

Another synagogue and another bombing three days after election day. This time a fuse-type device exploded shortly after 1 a.m., blowing two holes in the rear of Temple Beth Am in suburban Henrietta.

The private home that was the bombers' target is occupied by Richard T. Clark, business agent for four Rochester locals of the Operating Engineers Union, and his family.

Some people see in the bombings, especially of the churches and synagogues, as the work of neo-Nazi rightists. Others, mindful of leftist extremists implicated in bombings of governmental buildings elsewhere in the nation, feel a radical element may be trying to bring revolution to Rochester.

City and law enforcement officials say they are not sure which end of the political spectrum can be blamed for the attacks.

Above all, there is the general puzzlement over why Rochester was chosen to be hit.

Most residents view Rochester as a stable, orderly community that has one of the lowest unemployment rates and best-paid work forces in the nation.

In recent months, however, several thousand workers at two General Motors Corp. plants have been idled by the nationwide strike against the carmaker and a clothing plant laid off 400 workers.

Additionally there has been over recent years an influx of minority groups, especially Negroes and Puerto Ricans, into the city, with an attendant exodus of whites into the suburbs.

There are now an estimated 50,000 blacks and more than 15,000 Spanish-speaking residents in the city, most concentrated in the deteriorating North Side. Rochester's present population of 290,000 is a decline from 332,000 in 1950.

Worth D. Holder, executive vice president of the Rochester Chamber of Commerce, boasts Rochester is a highly technical, industrial community, which has responded to minority problems by creating on-the-job training programs at more than 100 industrial plants, setting up 68 minority-owned businesses, and recruiting nonwhites.

"If they (the bombers) are trying to protest lack of opportunity, they hit the wrong place," he said.

Bernard R. Gifford, 27-year-old president of FIGHT, a black community-action group, is among those who theorize that the bombings were the work of right-wing terrorists.

Unlike most public officials and other residents, Gifford says he detects a "fairly strong far-right" movement in Rochester.

"You find a lot of racist literature here, like the kind you'd find in Mississippi—Jews are plotting to take over the world, there's a conspiracy between them and blacks and so forth," he said.

Rochester's racial riot in 1964 was one of the first to hit America's large and medium-sized cities. Since then, racial trouble has been scattered and relatively minor.

At the 10 colleges and universities in Rochester and surrounding Monroe County, anti-war demonstrations have been generally low key except for the temporary seizure of some campus buildings.

Out of a work force of 350,000 in the metropolitan area, organized labor claims 55,000 members. The Eastman Kodak Co., the area's largest firm with 46,000 employes, is nonunion. Rochester Gas & Electric Corp. is the largest privately owned utility east of the Mississippi not to be unionized.

Alex Gaby, editor of the weekly Labor News of Rochester, says trouble on the union front has been minimal. Some $200 million in major construction was tied up throughout the summer by a building-trades strike, but the walkout was peaceful.

As to who might be responsible for the bombings, Gaby said: "I've heard left-wingers would be crazy to do this, since they would be blamed for it anyway. I can't see any Communist plot in this thing. It looks like the work of right-wing kooks, especially because of the black churches, the synagogues and the union man's house."

Mayor Stephen May says the city's sense of security and well-being can be traced in part to its good economic climate.

Rochester has a Jewish population of 25,000 and Rabbi Henry Hoschander of Beth Shalom Synagogue on the city's residential southeastern edge said there has been no significant friction or anti-Semitism.

In the first two bombings incidents, the dynamite blasts occurred within minutes of each other at widely separated locations, leading authorities to believe that a "conspiratorial cell" of some type was involved.

"In the old days if a synagogue got bombed, we'd look for Fascists or extreme rightists, but now the anti-Zionist movement is strong among the New Left," said Dist. Atty. Jack B. Lazarus.

America's Effort To Dispose Of Trash Is Lagging

By BILL STOCKTON
AP Science Writer
HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Perched on a hill overlooking Houston's Southside, a $5-million garbage incinerator sits idle, fires dead—a symbol of America's lagging battle to remove her trash.

Hailed at its opening in 1967 as a cure for Houston's solid waste crisis, the incinerator was to consume 800 tons of refuse daily—a large part of the city's garbage.

But just five months after opening, it shut down for repairs to air pollution control equipment. The incinerator has operated intermittently since, closing again last June for $250,000 in repairs that won't be completed until next year.

The incinerator troubles, recent shutdown of a privately owned garbage processing facility and demonstrations last summer by residents who didn't want sanitary landfills operated near their homes have given Houston's city fathers a massive garbage headache.

But the city's solid waste problems aren't unique. In fact they are typical of problems plaguing hundreds of municipalities, large and small, around the country.

Houston's problems reflect a growing garbage crisis facing America, a crisis that has its roots in the lifestyle of an affluent society that seemingly knows no bounds to technological growth, and consequently, rubbish.

Ecologists warn that growing mounds of refuse have the potential for greater harm to the environment than air and water pollution.

Statistics compiled by the President's Council on Environmental Quality and the Bureau of Solid Waste Management in (BSWM) in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare paint a grim picture. They show that in 1969:

—The country's residential, commercial and institutional refuse totaled 250 million tons. Of this, 190 million tons were collected and disposed of in some manner. But 60 million tons remained uncollected, blighting the nation's highways, streets and recreational areas and presenting serious health hazards in countless open dumps.

—American manufacturers produced 110 million tons of solid waste, disposing of much of it themselves. But some of the disposal methods have been targets of criticism.

—The mineral industry generated 1.7 billion tons of refuse from mining, milling and mineral processing disposing of most of it in slag heaps, tailings piles or dumping it into waterways.

—Agriculture generated 2.2 billion tons of animal and slaughterhouse waste, crop residues, vineyard and orchard trimmings and greenhouse wastes.

—Most of the 43 billion metal and glass beverage containers manufactured were discarded after use.

—Of an estimated 7 million automobiles retired, more than 1 million were simply abandoned beside country roads, in city streets or on vacant lots.

The President's council told Congress:

"Solid waste etches a trail of visible blight that leaves few corners of the country unspotted. America's well-known penchant for convenience has come face to face with major environmental problems."

Population growth, per capita increases in garbage and changeless refuse collection and disposal methods are the villains.

In 1920, the garbageman hauled away 2.75 pounds of refuse a day for each urban dweller. Now he collects five pounds a day and can expect eight pounds by 1980.

Use of disposable containers has put more paper, plastics, glass and metals into refuse, the President's council said, but collection and disposal methods haven't kept pace with the change.

At the turn of the century, workers dumped refuse from street containers into horse-drawn carts. Today, in most operations, the only change is replacement of the horse with a truck. Workmen still lift and dump trash cans.

And, refuse collectors are among society's least esteemed workers. Usually the lowest paid on a municipal work force, they are plagued with high accident, sickness, absenteeism and turnover rates.

From New York to Atlanta to Memphis to Albuquerque, refuse collectors' strikes became city administrators' nightmares.

Disposal problems are just as acute.

The BSWM estimates 94 per cent of all land disposal methods are unsatisfactory in terms of health, efficiency or protection of natural resources. And, the bureau estimates, 75 per cent of all municipal incinerators either add to air pollution or don't reduce refuse volume sufficiently.

In a BSWM-sponsored study, a National Academies of Science and Engineering committee concluded:

"Historically, solid waste management has been characterized by minimum attention, minimum funding and minimum application of technology.

"Much of the problem of solid waste management derives from the continued reluctance of those concerned to come to grips with it and apply existing technology, systems and organizational know-how to its solution—and above all, to pay for these services."

The problem, says Houston Mayor Louie Welch is people.

"The attitude of the public in general about garbage is out of sight, out of mind," he said. "The average householder thinks his problem is solved when his garbage can is empty."

The most unfortunate aspect of the solid waste problem, agree scientists, economists and engineers, is the waste of natural resources that garbage disposal, by whatever method, represents. Reusable materials must be retrieved, they warn, if the country is to avoid eventually running out of several resources already in short supply.

"... solid waste material represents a national resource and will in time be a major one," said the National Academies of Science and Engineering study. "Return of fractions of solid wastes to economical reuse must in the long run become common practice and must be a national objective."

The U.S. Bureau of Mines estimates that if all the nation's refuse were incinerated, the metal and glass in the ashes would be worth at least 650 million a year. Recycling raw refuse would yield considerably more.

Some recycling is under way. American Paper Institute officials estimate that the 11 million tons of paper recycled last year saved 200 million trees. But the reused paper represented only 20 per cent of the nation's paper consumption.

Almost 35 per cent of the world's aluminum, which has a high value and is easily reclaimed, is now recycled, industry officials say.

The Reynolds Metals Co., a major manufacturer of aluminum beer and soft drink cans, has opened several redemption centers that pay 10 cents a pound for aluminum cans. But although the Los Angeles, Calif., center is averaging 1.5 million cans a month, it is collecting only two per cent of all the aluminum cans sold in the area.

Officials say they doubt the return will ever exceed 10 per cent.

Discarded glass containers hold great promise.

"We have concluded that there are more potential uses for waste container glass than there is glass available from refuse now or in the predictable future," Richard Cheney, a Glass Manufacturers Institute official, said.

Experts say emphasis must be placed on efficient collection and disposal methods that creatively recycle reusable refuse and efficiently dispose of that which has no further value.

President Nixon told Congress in August:

"We can no longer afford the indiscriminate waste of our natural resources; neither should we accept as inevitable the mounting costs of waste removal.

"We must move increasingly toward closed systems that recycle what now are considered wastes back into useful and productive purposes."

Waste Issue In Far North

NEW YORK (UPI) —Problems of wastewater disposal reach to the North Slope of Alaska, where exploitation of the rich oilfields is under way. In an area where temperatures may dip to minus 65, and alternate thawing and freezing of the tundra have made conventional wastewater treatment ineffective, work camps must provide their men with showers, toilets and laundry facilities for their basic needs.

Working with state and federal regulatory agencies, Met-Pro Water Treatment Corp. of Lansdale, Pa. has designed, built and shipped two skid-mounted wastewater treatment systems, each with a daily capacity of 24,000 gallons. These physical-chemical systems utilize chemical coagulation, clarification and filtering to produce safe effluent.

N.C. Tourist Industry Expected To Set Record

By REESE HART
RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina's tourist industry is expected to take in a record $800 million this year, an increase of $48 million over 1969.

"Some states had their worst summer season, but ours was the best," said Bill Hensley, director of the state's Travel and Promotion Division.

Record attendances were reported by all three of North Carolina's outdoor dramas, Hensley said today in an interview.

"The Lost Colony" at Manteo attracted 76,341 persons for 62 performances, compared with 58,332 for 54 performances in 1969.

"Unto These Hills" at Cherokee reported an increase from 134,705 to 140,366.

"Horn in the West" at Boone had total attendance of 31,300, up 74 over 1969. It attracted a record 5,177 during the last week.

"Tourism is our fastest growing industry, ranking behind textiles and tobacco," Hensley said. "It is increasing about 9 per cent a year. The average retail business, in contrast, increases 5 to 7 per cent. By 1979 tourism is expected to bring in $1.5 billion annually."

He added, "We've got something for everybody in North Carolina. We have the seashore in the east, the mountains in the west and many attractions in the Piedmont. We have eight ski resorts and they take in about $1 million a week from mid-December to March. Their popularity is steadily increasing."

Hensley said the 1971 General Assembly will be asked to approve an increase of $115,000 each year of the next biennium in the state's advertising budget to publicize North Carolina in magazines, newspapers and on television and radio. The current budget is about $350,000 a year.

He said one good barometer of the tourism business is travel on the Blue Ridge Parkway and to Great Smoky Mountains National Park.

The parkway attendance for June, July and August totaled 6,074,046, an increase of 513,000 over the same period last year. The Great Smoky Mountains National Park attracted 3,676,400, up 161,800 over 1969. End PMs Adv. Nov. 10 Moved Nov 9

Rare Instrument Player Is Dead

CAIRO (UPI) —Mohamed Abdu Saleh, 64, the world's most renowned "kanoun" player died recently.

A kanoun is an Arabic musical instrument used to accompany belly dancers and performers of other traditional dances. Players rest the small instrument in their laps and pluck it like a harp.

Davy Crockett's Pocket Picked

CAMDEN, N.J. (UPI) —Frontiersman Davy Crockett, then a congressman from Kentucky, stopped at the Ferry Hotel here in 1834 while en route from Washington to Boston and shot a silver dollar at 40 feet with his rifle for the benefit of townspeople who had given him a banquet. While he did so, someone picked his pocket of $160.

Armada Of U.S. Planes Roam Over Cambodia, Laos

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — An armada of American warplanes roamed over Cambodia and Laos today in efforts to prevent a renewal of heavy North Vietnamese attacks against the Cambodian government's northern front.

Although the provincial capital of Kompong Cham was attacked for the third successive day, the North Vietnamese generally eased their heavy pressure to the west of the city. Kompong Cham, the country's third-largest city, is on Route 7 and 47 miles northeast of Phnom Penh.

Between 300 and 400 U.S. fighter-bombers and big B52 bombers attacked North Vietnamese supply routes from north of Kompong Cham to Vietnam's demilitarized zone.

The air offensive, covering a 300-mile stretch of land and water, was aimed at cutting off

North Vietnamese reinforcements and supplies moving southward on the Ho Chi Minh trail and the Sekong River in Laos, ten along the Mekong River into Cambodia.

American strategists hope the attacks on supply routes will prevent any lengthy offensive by North Vietnamese troops in Cambodia and South Vietnam.

Informal sources said the B52s have flown about 1,000 raids against the Ho Chi Minh supply network in the past month at a cost of $30 million in one of the biggest aerial campaigns of the Indochina war.

Informal sources said the intensive strikes at key points in Laos have set the enemy's major resupply effort this year back by several weeks. But they said it is impossible to stem the movements of small groups of North Vietnamese reinforcements who are believed carrying many more war materials.

In Cambodia, government ground troops attempted to restore their defenses along a 32-mile stretch of Highway 7 between Kompong Cham and the district town of Skoun to the west.

A Cambodian spokesman said government troops re-entered the town of Troeung with no resistance and later withdrew, leaving it undefended. Up to two regiments of North Vietnamese troops were reported a few miles north of Highway 7, still in position to renew their attacks, but the highway was reported open to armed military convoys after the repair of a small bridge blown out by the North Vietnamese.

Highway 6, the only land link between Phnom Penh and the northern front, remained closed because of a second bridge destroyed by the North Vietnamese.

In Saigon, the South Vietnamese command announced it had pulled 6,000 troops out of Cambodia after ending a 16-day operation near the town of Snuol, on the eastern side of the Mekong River along Highway 7 about 60 miles east of Kompong Cham.

A spokesman said more than 200 North Vietnamese were killed. South Vietnamese casualties were listed as about 25 killed and 160 wounded. The spokesman said the withdrawal reduced South Vietnamese strength in Cambodia to 12,000 troops.

Another operation involving a Cambodian and South Vietnamese task force of 7,000 men neared an end 20 miles southwest of Phnom Penh. Spokesmen said the operation, launched Sunday, had resulted in no significant contact with the enemy.

Murder, Kidnaping, Conspiracy Indictments Now Facing Angela

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — Black militant Angela Davis has been indicted on murder, kidnaping and conspiracy charges stemming from a courthouse shootout here Aug. 7 which was fatal to four persons.

In an eight-page indictment Tuesday, the Marin County grand jury charged the 26-year-old former UCLA philosophy teacher began plotting as early as last Feb. 16, the day three black prisoners at Soledad Prison, nearly 100 miles south of here, were indicted on charges of killing a white guard.

The state alleges the courthouse incident was part of a plot to take hostages and force the release of these three prisoners. Miss Davis was not accused of being at the scene of the shootout, but California law holds accessories to such crimes equally guilty with participants.

Miss Davis is in a New York jail fighting extradition to California on a Municipal Court warrant charging murder. She was on the FBI's 10 Most Wanted List until her arrest Oct. 13 on a federal warrant for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution.

Earlier Tuesday, Miss Davis issued a statement saying "there is no evidence whatsoever" for what she called "the framed up charge" against her. "Hundreds upon hundreds of American revolutionaries have been confronted with a fate no different from mine," said the self-avowed Communist.

The new charges levied in the indictment said she plotted the seizure of hostages with Jonathan Jackson of Los Angeles, 17-year-old brother of George Jackson, one of the three accused in the guard's killing at Soledad Prison.

The three, who have become known to black militants as the Soledad Brothers, were transferred to San Quentin from Soledad last July 9. A national campaign has been started to raise funds for their defense.

The indictment charged Miss

Davis gave young Jackson two guns she had purchased earlier and which were used in the shootout here in which the youth, two convicts and Judge Harold Haley, 65, were killed.

It said that Miss Davis and Jonathan Jackson attended a rally in Los Angeles June 19 and there advocated openly "release from lawful custody" of the Soledad Brothers.

Thereafter, the indictment adds, they purchased a third gun in Los Angeles, and two days before the shootout bought a fourth gun in San Francisco.

Convalescent Veterans Are Hosted In Goldsboro

By YVONNE BASKIN
Associated Press Writer
GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Vietnam veterans Roger Meadows and Garry Augustine had never seen hush puppies until they came to Goldsboro Tuesday night.

Sends Telegram Of Condolence

RALEIGH (AP) — A telegram of condolences on the death of French leader Charles DeGaulle was sent Tuesday by Gov. Bob Scott to French President Georges Pompidou.

ceived along with the hush puppies' and other Southern dishes was great. "I'd never been in the South before," Meadows said. "The people are so friendly."

Because both young men live under boring circumstances, the warm reception was especially welcomed.

Army Spec. 4 Augustine, 19, from Cleveland, Ohio, has been in Walter Reed Army Hospital at Washington, D.C., since May, when he stepped on a booby trap in Vietnam. He was bedridden for the first four months and will wear a brace on his left leg for the rest of his life.

The men were among 15 Vietnam veterans, several of them amputees, who were honored by the citizens of Goldsboro and Wayne County at a "pig picking" dinner of pork barbecue and hush puppies Tuesday night.

(Hush puppies are bits of deep-fried cornbread. They were so named, according to tradition, because they were fed to hungry dogs to keep them from yipping.)

The veterans were to sit on the reviewing stand during a Veterans Day parade today and be honored at a luncheon.

The visitors, mostly city folks and northerners, were greeted with boisterous camaraderie, country music and outspoken patriotism.

Some 50 city and county officials and other citizens joined the veterans for dinner at a lodge on a creek near the town of 30,000. The group listened to a male quartet sing "Dixie" and "Onward Christian Soldiers," and a band played "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" between country and western tunes.

"We think the world of you and what you've done," Mayor Tommie Gibson told the veter-

The Motor Vehicles Department is again accepting applications for personalized license plates, according to a notice received by Mrs. Anna Garris, Greenville license agent this morning.

The cutoff date is now December 15. Anyone wanting to apply for personalized license tags may get an application form from Mrs. Garris at Home and Auto Supply, 718 Dickinson Avenue here.

rans as he presented them with framed certificates making them honorary citizens of Goldsboro.

Eugene Price, editor of the Goldsboro News-Argus, told the group, "We're not real fancy about it, but we're sincere."

What was being said about the war and patriotism didn't seem as important to the guests as the fact that someone cared enough to take them out of the hospital routine for a few days.

"The worse thing about being in the hospital is the boredom," said Sgt. 1. C. Michael Stahl, a highly decorated Green Beret who lost much of the use of his left hand in a grenade explosion.

The 25-year-old veteran, who hopes to return to sky-diving as a career, spends 30 minutes a day in therapy. Most of the rest of his time is spent watching television, reading or sleeping. Meadows, who joined the Air Force after high school, said he didn't like college students, and nothing made him madder in Vietnam than to "open up the

Car Collision Here Yesterday

Robert Frances McLawhorn, 62 of Bethel was charged with failing to yield the right of way following investigation of a 4:20 p.m. collision on Greene Street, 75 feet South of the Church Street intersection yesterday.

Officers reported the McLawhorn car collided with a vehicle driven by Johnnie Bernice Little, 51 of New Bern. Damage was estimated at $500 to the Little car and $800 to the McLawhorn vehicle.

No injuries were reported.

Stars and Stripes and see riots on the front page."

Augustine said he was against the war, but he agreed with Stahl about the citizens of Goldsboro. He wore a peace symbol on his helmet in Vietnam, and wore love beads around his neck at the dinner. He plans to enter Kent State University next fall to study criminology and become a juvenile probation officer.

"I'm not bitter. I'm lucky to be alive," Augustine said. "You could go crazy in that hospital. These people are great to take their own time to treat us like this."

Last winter citizens of Goldsboro, which is near Seymour Johnson Air Force Base in eastern North Carolina, chipped in to fly huge vats of barbecue and hush puppies to serve hundreds of wounded soldiers at Walter Reed hospital.

Once In A Blue Moon

RALEIGH (AP) — It was, said North Carolina Insurance Commissioner Edwin Lanier, a "once in a blue moon" occasion.

Someone in the insurance industry actually was asking for a reduction in insurance premiums.

It happened Tuesday at a public hearing as the Compensation and Inspection Bureau of North Carolina requested that rates for workmen's compensation insurance in the state be reduced an average of 5.6 per cent.

Lanier, who usually wrestles with requests for increases, commented: "This is the first rate reduction I've had in a blue moon."

Ghetto People Claim Basic Service Needed

By MICHAEL J. SNIFFEN
Associated Press Writer

Better police protection is the most frequent demand of ghetto residents seeking improved city services around the nation.

Complaints that ghettos are shortchanged in the basic services amply supplied to white neighborhoods are long standing but they have reached a new level in 17 cities recently surveyed by Associated Press member newspapers.

In cities that distribute services evenly over a geographical area and in cities that recently shifted more service to areas where the most people live, the residents of ghettos are saying their services still are not equal to their needs. They want enough additional service to make their streets as safe and clean as those in white neighborhoods.

The survey shows that demands for distribution of services according to need now overshadow lingering complaints of outright racial discrimination and have widened the many misunderstandings between city hall and the ghetto.

By far the most prevalent complaint was one of insufficient, slow or misdirected police protection.

But the list of inadequacies also included fire protection; street cleaning, repair and lighting; trash collection; sidewalk repair; public transit; recreation facilities; building code enforcement; water facilities and traffic control.

In these areas, cities foot nearly all the bill, with little of the federal aid that has been so largely poured into housing, education and employment.

So where cities have found solutions, they have not found the money to extend them beyond pilot programs to all their discontented citizens.

Here are some of the recent developments:

—Since July, blacks and Puerto Ricans in two neighborhoods of New York City have set garbage afire in the streets to protest poor collections. In another area, a street was barricaded with trash cans.

—In San Francisco last month, residents of an integrated, isolated public housing project seized a city bus to dramatize their unmet demand for public transit.

—Police in Flint, Mich., put special walking and scooter patrols in a model cities neighborhood, using federal funds, and cut crime by 23 per cent in the first month of operation.

—The black vice president of St. Louis' board of aldermen is in his seventh year of trying to get a street repaved.

—Oklahoma City budgeted money—$100,000—for the first time this year for the removal of abandoned buildings.

—The city administration in Atlanta has opened little city halls so residents can air their grievances without a potentially costly, fear-ridden and frustrating trip downtown.

In virtually every city, officials maintained that their services were evenly distributed if not weighted in favor of poorer neighborhoods where the problems are concentrated, but no city was without complaints.

Most cities maintain that geographic areas are equally treated, some claim each person receives equal facilities, but few claim the total need is met.

But it is in police protection that the greatest misunderstandings and conflicts arise.

Eugene H. Tennis, community relations director for Rochester, N.Y., might have been speaking for every official and police chief queried about the problem: "We have more policemen per square block in the inner city than elsewhere in the city." That's where the crime is, says William J. O'Rourke, public safety commissioner for Wilmington, Del.

Where police are concerned, complaints of racial discrimination are still heard.

Howard H. Brown, director of Community Action for Greater Wilmington, Inc., and Fred Tucker, a Flint city councilman both say:

"They are policing us rather than protecting us."

Atlanta's Negro vice mayor, Maynard Jackson, sees problems of both discrimination and faulty distribution of services.

"One factor probably is that there is a degree of racism involved which may or may not be conscious," he says. "Many cities think that when a neighborhood becomes predominantly black it is time to cut services because psychologically the city thinks black people are more accustomed to poorer services and unclean surroundings."

New York's Sanitation Department has tried to meet the problems of distribution by making six garbage pickups a week in densely populated Harlem and among the expensive high-rise apartments on the upper East Side, while cutting collections to two a week in neighborhoods of one and two-family homes. But still there is trash on the streets of Harlem and relatively little on the upper East Side.

In New Orleans, John E. Cassreino Sr., director of the Sanitation Department, said the fault lies with the ghetto dweller.

He said garbage is collected three days a week in all sections of the city and each resident is allowed to dispose of two 30-gallon cans of garbage plus three tied boxes or bundles of trash, not exceeding 75 lbs., per collection.

The problem, as Cassreino sees it, is that in ghetto areas many residents fail to follow the rules.

Opening lead: King of ♠
A delicate series of maneuvers by South, the declarer at four spades, enabled him to overcome a roadblock created by nature as well as a stout defense waged by the opposition.

West opened the king of hearts which declarer ruffed. South observed that if he crossruffed hearts and clubs, he could never come to more than nine tricks—eight spades and the ace of diamonds. The only chance to make his contract was to bring in the dummy's diamond suit.

The ace of diamonds was cashed followed by the jack, on which East was put in with the king as the suit divided evenly. The diamond suit was now ready to run as soon as declarer unblocked the ten from his hand.

In an effort to attack dummy's side entry in the trump suit, East switched to the queen of clubs. South covered with the king and West played the ace. Declarer observed that if he ruffed in dummy, North would no longer have enough spades to pull trumps and access to the diamond suit would therefore be eliminated.

West was permitted to hold the trick with the club ace as North discarded a heart. West had no effective return. He actually chose to continue his partner's line of defense by continuing with the jack of clubs which was ruffed with the nine of spades.

With the ten of clubs now established in South's hand, the latter had his 10th trick. He ruffed himself in with a heart, cashed the high club and proceeded to trump two more clubs in dummy with the jack and king of spades, returning to his hand each time by ruffing hearts. He made all of his trumps separately as well as one trick in each of the minor suits.

If West had shifted back to hearts when he was in with the ace of clubs, the final result would have been the same. South ruffed in his hand, draws two rounds of trump with the ace and jack and then returns to the ten of diamonds in order to clear up the block in that suit. East may ruff with the eight of spades if he chooses, however that is the third and final trick for the defense on the deal. North retains the king of spades as an entry to run the diamonds.

Admiral Seeks Navy Shake-Up

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr., youngest man to become chief of naval operations, is shaking up the Navy with a stream of decrees changing traditional ways of naval life.

Since taking over July 1, Zumwalt, 49, has peppered commanding officers with dozens of directives whose objective can be summed up in this sentence from one such message: "No other problem concerns me as deeply as reversing the downward trend of Navy retention rates and I am committing myself to improving the quality of Navy life in all respects and restoring the fun and zest of going to sea."

Included are such unorthodox ideas as appointing official spokesmen to present complaints of Navy wives and encouraging shiphandling competition among junior officers—even if it means scrapes and dents.

Zumwalt's plans coincide with the Nixon administration's goal of a totally volunteer armed force.

The four-star admiral's associates say there's been some grumbling from Navy captains and commanders.

But they claim general acceptance, perhaps because Zumwalt is going to bases around the country to explain his thinking and to listen to grips.

Many of Zumwalt's orders authorize improved promotion opportunities, broadened leave privileges and relaxed restrictions on such practices as enlisted men wearing civilian clothes when off duty at shore bases.

Zumwalt has acted to improve Navy exchanges and commissaries, establishing customer relations boards that include representatives of minorities and enlisted family men.

He has encouraged special ceremonies to mark a sailor's re-enlistment and has tried to ease the work burden of some of his men by reducing paper shuffling.

He urged his commanders to improve the comfort of quarters assigned to bachelor officers and enlisted men, including the installation of beer vending machines.

For commissioned officers, Zumwalt directed that, at least once a week, commanding officers "invite selected groups of young ladies without escorts to visit the mess."

British Firms May Build New Plants In N.C.

LONDON (AP) — A North Carolina industry-hunting delegation reported Tuesday that 30 British firms have said they may build plants in the state.

Robert E. Leak, director of the North Carolina Industrial Development Corp., said the first stop on a European tour by the 15 Tar Heels was a success.

Helping Hong Kong Welfare

HONG KONG (UPI) — The United States will donate about $176,000 to Hong Kong welfare agencies during 1970 under the U.S. Government's Far East refugee program.

The funds are to help provide social services to refugees from Communist China and are channeled to several local voluntary agencies under an annual contract.

He said, "We are stressing the advantages of low construction and wage costs. We are also pointing out that if the United States government does erect a tariff wall against European goods, one way to deal with this is to get behind the wall by building factories in North Carolina."

The next stop for the 15-man group are West Germany, Austria, Switzerland, France and The Netherlands.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market gave up much of the sharp advance it made on announcement today of settlement to the national issues of the General Motors strike.

Trading slackened after a fast early pace, prompted by the settlement announcement, which saw 5.5 million shares change hands in the first hour of trading.

At noon the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 3.70 to 781.08. Shortly after the GM announcement, the Dow vaulted ahead nearly 8½ points.

Advances led declines by nearly 5 to 1, and the gains ran throughout the list.

Some brokers said investors who had been anticipating the settlement now were trying to decide what effect the strike would have on the fourth quarter, and how it would cut into earnings.

Brokers also said some investors were considering what terms of the settlement would mean for the forthcoming steel negotiations.

Among the large blocks crossing the Big Board ticker were 81,000 shares of Melville Shoe at 36, down ¼.

Break-Ins Charged 2

Two boys have been charged with breaking, entering and larceny in connection with two incidents at Elmhurst School.

James Ronnie Lawrence, 16, of 1212A Railroad St. and a 15-year-old youth have been charged in connection with break-ins at the school on October 31 and November 7, Chief T. E. Gladson reported.

The youths allegedly took one tape recorder and player from the school on October 31.

They allegedly entered the school through an unlocked window on November 7, and removed two tape players and a record player, as well as some tapes.

The tape units and record player have been recovered, the chief explained.

Gladson noted that investigation into an incident at Rose High School, where thieves entered an unlocked window and removed a $450 tape recorder and player and a $90 amplifier from a locked cabinet in the band room, is still under investigation.

That incident, he said, occurred over the past weekend.

Tobacco Yield Up

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Production of flue-cured tobacco in North Carolina is running 10.6 per cent ahead of last year, the state Crop Reporting Service said today.

The service said, based on reports from producers and warehousemen Nov. 1, production is forecast at 769,225,000 pounds.

That's up 1 per cent from the October estimate and 10.6 per cent above the 695,665,000 pounds produced last year.

Average yield per acre for all flue-cured types combined is 2,011 pounds, up 173 pounds from the 1,838 produced in 1969.

The service said the outlook for the Middle and Old Belts' type 11 tobacco is for a yield of 1,850 pounds per acre from 145,000 acres for a production of 268,250,000 pounds.

Production of the Eastern Belt's type 12 tobacco is expected to be 2,125 pounds per acre on 188,000 acres for a total of 399,500,000 pounds.

The Border Belt's type 13 yield is expected to average 2,050 pounds per acre on 49,500 acres for a total of 101,475,000 pounds.

Production of burley tobacco is estimated at 19,125,000 pounds, compared to 20,303,000 last year. This year's burley yield is estimated at 2,550 pounds per acre, 20 pounds below last year's record figure.

UNC Pharmacy Students Here

A group of pharmacy students from the School of Pharmacy of the University of North Carolina will be at Rose High all day today.

Principal Robert Allgood noted that the students of Rose High will be given an opportunity to talk to the pharmacy students individually during the day.

This group of visiting students will be talking about drugs, and will be counseling the high school students on the dangers and problems of drug usage.

Attendance for students is not mandatory, but each student wishing to talk will be given an opportunity.

Petition For 'Re-Elections'

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Staff members of the East Carolina University student newspaper The Fountainhead, have started a petition called for the re-election of the student legislature and executive positions of the Student Government Association.

The staffs action came last night following several days of dialogue between newspaper staff members and SGA representatives over control of funds allocated by the SGA for newspaper operations.

Readmit Most To Enter Pleas On 5 Murders

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP) — John Linley Frazier, accused of the Ohta family mass murder last month, is scheduled to enter formal pleas Thursday to five counts of murder.

Frazier, 24, pleaded innocent in Municipal Court Oct. 23, the day of his arrest, to murder charges filed by Dist. Atty. Peter Chang. Frazier's attorney asked for a delay in Superior Court pleading two weeks ago after the Santa Cruz County grand jury indicted Frazier for the murders.

Most of the students suspended from Rose High School a couple of weeks ago following a walkout by 54 students have now been readmitted following hearing with the students and their parents or guardians.

Rose High principal Robert Allgood yesterday revealed that three students who were on a ten day suspension will be readmitted tomorrow. He stated a few others will be admitted as soon as a determination is made based on their individual cases.

Ayden Board Sets Dec. 14 For Public Hearing On Annexation

AYDEN — The Ayden Town Board of Commissioners Monday night set Dec. 14 as the date for a public hearing to discuss annexation of some property into the town limits and to discuss the establishment of a new RA-8-MH district.

The Ayden Housing Authority requested that 10.7 acres of land located north of Secondary Road 1122 be brought into the town limits.

The Ayden Planning Board

recommended the board establish a new district called RA-8-MH to allow owners to either build homes or place trailers on their lots.

The two matters will be discussed at the public hearing. The Town of Ayden agreed to increase its pledge to the Ayden Economic Council from $5,000 to $7,000 pending the official money needed being received from other businesses to keep the council in operation.

Board members approved the final plat of Unity Park Subdivision.

The public housing subdivision is located adjacent to Snow Hill and Planter Streets and is owned by the Ayden Housing Authority.

The board declared a 1961 Chevrolet dump truck, a Ferguson tractor and one motor grader as surplus property to be sold to the highest bidder. The date for the sale will be announced later.

Mrs. Odell McLawhorn and Jack Raines were recommended as members of the Ayden Planning Board. The recommendation will be sent to the Pitt County Board of Commissioners for appointment.

Board members referred a request to the Ayden Planning Board for rezoning a parcel of land on W. Second Street from residential to business.

Court will be held in Ayden on the second and fourth Thursdays of each month beginning Dec. 1. Full day sessions will be held.

The court is presently meeting each Thursday afternoon for half - day sessions.

The new library located on W. Second Street will be open to the public on Monday. The formal dedication of the new facility will be held later.

Board members purchased an ad in the Ayden High School annual.

Obituaries

Clarke
Mr. Sylvester Clarke died at West Virginia State College, Saturday.

Funeral services will be held on the West Virginia State College Campus Thursday at 4 p.m. and on the campus of A and T State University in Greensboro at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Mr. Clarke, for several years, was head of the dramatics department at A and T University before becoming head of the English Department at West Virginia State.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Earlene Clarke of 100 Salem St., Greensboro; a daughter, Glencia Clarke of Washington, D.C.; and two aunts, Mrs. Maggie Brown and Mrs. Gertrude Latham both of Greenville.

The Unwanted

DURHAM (AP) — "The mid really must be dead," declared Mrs. Doris Sorrell, owner of a Durham dress shop.

During a break in her shop, pantsuits, coats and raincoats were cleared from the racks by thieves. But all mid dresses and gaúcho pants on the same racks were not touched.

A number of maternity dresses were taken, leading Mrs. Sorrell to observe that a "style-conscious pregnant woman" might have been involved in the theft.

Daniels
GRIMESLAND — Warren Daniels of Grimesland, Route 2, died at his home Wednesday morning.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Humber Dies

County, in 1959 and 1961. He was admitted to the North Carolina bar in 1920. In his early years he was a tutor in the Department of Government, History and Economics at Harvard University. From 1930 to 1940 he lived in Paris, France, where he was a lawyer and business executive.

In October 1929 Dr. Humber, married Lucie Berthier, a native Parisian. They have two sons, Navy Commander Marcel B. Humber, now serving in Vietnam as the U. S. representative to the War College of Vietnam in Saigon. Another son, John L. Humber, is currently working on his doctorate at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

With the coming of World War II, Dr. and Mrs. Humber and their sons returned to Greenville in 1940.

A Baptist, Dr. Humber was active in church work, and was a member of the Board of Deacons of the Memorial Baptist Church. He was at one time a Sunday School teacher.

Dr. Humber's work for peace among man was recognized by two major awards in 1948. In that year he was awarded the World Government News Medal for the most outstanding service by an individual to World Federation; and the American War Dads Prize for the greatest single contribution toward World Peace.

In World War I, Dr. Humber was commissioned a second lieutenant. He was on active

Rites Set For Claude Teague

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — Funeral services will be held Thursday for Claude Edward Teague, 82, for whom Teague Hall on the University of North Carolina campus is named.

Teague died Tuesday at a Chapel Hill hospital after a brief illness. He had retired in 1957 after serving in various capacities with the Consolidated University system, including that of business manager of UNC at Greensboro and of UNC at Chapel Hill.

The services will be at 2 p.m. at the University Presbyterian Church in Chapel Hill, with burial in the Old Chapel Hill Cemetery.

duty with the Field Artillery of the U. S. Army.

The long list of memberships on boards, commissions, and councils on which Dr. Humber served includes many prominent agencies in North Carolina and many across the U.S. in the fields of art, music, history and education.

In addition to his immediate family, Dr. Humber is survived by a brother, Dr. John Humber, a medical doctor; and one sister, Mrs. Lindley D. Smith. Both are residents of San Francisco, California.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete. The family asks that flowers not be sent. Anyone wishing to may instead send a donation to the North Carolina Museum of Art Foundation, Raleigh, N.C. 27601, in memory of Dr. Humber.

Kroger Extends a 'Thank You'

JOHN M. LOCKHART

Kroger Is Big N.C. Customer

The Kroger Company is known primarily in North Carolina as one of the state's leading merchants. What is less well known is the fact that the Company is one of North Carolina's leading customers, actually buying more in the state each year than its total sales!

Last year, Kroger purchases of North Carolina products and services totaled more than $30,389,000.

Approximately $25,498,000 of this amount was spent for products to be sold in the company's stores (such as the new Kroger Family Center in Greenville), both in North Carolina and in other states.

Meats and canned vegetables, such as beans, corn and green beans, are among the many products grown or packed in North Carolina and shipped to Kroger stores throughout the midwest and south.

Stores such as the Kroger Family Center are multi-million dollar businesses which require the services of many other businesses within a state.

For example, most Kroger stores are owned by local landlords. The company paid rent of more than $900,000 in North Carolina last year.

Kroger employees in North Carolina last year received more than $1,157,757 in wages, most of which was returned to the local community.

For other goods and services — ranging from heat, light and power, to newspaper, radio and television advertising — Kroger spend $1,600,000 in North Carolina last year.

It would take the world's largest bascart to wheel away the items on Kroger's annual North Carolina "shopping list" for products to be sold in its stores. Included are such items as:

$5,177,186 — for dairy products and eggs.

$7,303,000 — for canned and packaged foods.

$1,010,000 — for fresh fruits and vegetables.

$4,329,000 — for meats and poultry.

$7,627,000 — for products other than food which are sold in Kroger stores.

Shoppers in Greenville have given such a warm welcome to the new Kroger Family Center store here that they're getting a surprise bonus from the Company.

John M. Lockhart, President of Kroger Family Centers, announced today that "Thank You Days" will begin on Wednesday, November 11, and continue through Saturday evening, November 14.

Hundreds of free items will be given away. There will be a prize drawing for free groceries, bicycles, radio sets, and other appliances. "The enthusiastic acceptance of the new Kroger Family Center here is further evidence that the concept of one-stop shopping featuring food, drugs, and general merchandise under one roof is the shopper's preference in the 1970's," Mr. Lockhart said.

Seven additional Kroger

Family Centers are scheduled to open in 1971. They are located in North Carolina, Illinois, Texas, Indiana, and Georgia. This will bring the total number of Family Centers to 46. The Company also operates five larger discount stores under the Thriftown and Value Village names.

"Kroger Family Centers are designed to meet all of the family's everyday shopping needs," Mr. Lockhart noted, adding that "they are designed for families who shop together."

People Invited Enter Drawings

Mr. Larry Winebarger, Manager of the new Kroger Family Center in Greenville, invites all residents of Greenville to enter the prize drawing to be conducted Saturday, November 14. Assisting will be John Williams, manager of the Food Department.

Mr. Winebarger points out that it is not necessary to be present at the time of the drawing to win. Just clip the coupon appearing within this newspaper section and drop in drawing boxes located throughout the store. Coupons will be made available within the store, as well.

The drawing will be conducted Saturday, November 14, at 5:30 p.m., and coupons will be accepted up to that time to give everyone a chance to participate.

Among the fabulous prizes awarded will be radios, two bicycles, ten free bags of groceries, and dozens of other prizes. A complete listing of prizes appears within this section.

KROGER

If you occasionally shed a tear for the "good old days," dry your eyes, Mrs. Shopper. You never had it so good!

It has been 87 years since the first tiny Kroger grocery store was opened on Cincinnati's riverfront in 1883. And, says Larry Winebarger, manager of the Greenville Kroger Family Center, retailing has changed fantastically since that time — and all for the better.

The immaculate cleanliness and careful quality control procedures followed by modern supermarkets, food processors and other manufacturers were virtually unknown "way back then."

Few foods were packaged. Butter, lard, flour, sugar, macaroni, and dried fruits sat out in the open, unrefrigerated and unprotected. They were scooped or cut to order from large tubs or bins, weighed and wrapped.

Barrels of molasses, kerosene, and pickles, as well as the traditional cracker barrel, also had to be laddled or weighed out as they were ordered.

And if the cat kept by every grocery store owner to cope with the mice attracted by the open food wasn't snoozing by the pot belly stove, she might be found in the cracker barrel! Of course, no grocer dared forget the wooden box filled with sawdust for expectorating tobacco chewers.

When B. H. Kroger, who founded the Kroger Co. with a total investment of $722 (a modest sum even in 1883), began inspecting and tasting and testing the foods he bought, other grocers thought he was crazy. The salesmen or "drummers" labeled him a "crank," which in this instance he considered the highest of compliments.

Mr. Kroger was merely putting into practice a lesson he learned on his first door-to-door sales job for a coffee company. The company became careless about quality — and young Barney found doors of formerly loyal customers closed in his face. He vowed then and there that when (with Barney, it was never if) he had his own business, he would give shoppers the same quality he himself would want to buy.

"In 1970, such a decision seems obvious. But consider its setting in 1883," says Mr. Winebarger.

Hot dogs were invented that year by a St. Louis peddler named Feuchtwanger. Hotel menus might include such entrees as Black Bear Ham, Buffalo Tongue, Saddle of Antelope, or Stuffed Coon.

And wage earners of 1883 reported that, with prices rising, they were finding it difficult to make ends meet. Some things never change!

Sanitation was, on the whole, ignored. Public drinking cups attached to the wall with a chain were accepted by all but the most fastidious. "Stretching" of food products with cheaper ingredients was common. Coffee, for example, might contain breadcrumbs, burnt sugar, ground peas, beans or corn.

In an era when such practices were taken for granted, B. H. Kroger's pledge of "guaranteed quality" was one of the reasons his business succeeded while others failed.

Today the foods we buy are pampered and protected from farm to store. Kroger itself maintains the Kroger Food Foundation to act as watchdog over the company's products. This careful surveillance covers everything from the raw ingredients to the finished product — and samples are even taken from store shelves for re-checking and comparison tests with other leading brands.

Stores of 1883 carried only a few hundred items, compared to more than 7,000 today in the Kroger Family Center's supermarket alone. Quality of even the best food products was inferior to today's foods, scientifically planned for generations to produce the best values, both in flavor and size.

One of the most vivid results of this scientific breeding can be seen in poultry. In Barney Kroger's day, turkeys were scrawny and tough, and rarely were eaten except at Thanksgiving or Christmas. Even 20 years ago, turkeys were bony and contained considerably less meat proportionally than today's plump — breasted, tender birds.

It's the same story with chickens, now considered a staple, low-cost dish, prized by busy cooks because of their ease of preparation. But Great-great-grandmother had more than one reason for only serving chicken on Sunday or special occasions. Instead of a neatly cleaned and prepackaged chicken, ready for the frying pan, she had to catch the flapping, squawking bird, chop its head off, pluck the feathers, and eviscerate it before it was even ready to cut into frying-pan pieces. And then it was usually pretty much on the tough side.

Fresh fruits and vegetables were raised in the home garden during the summer months — but anything that couldn't be stored in the "root cellar" wasn't available during the winter.

Now shoppers can buy fresh strawberries in January, and take for granted such year-round delicacies as fresh-squeezed orange juice or six different varieties of lettuce.

And, Mr. Winebarger adds, homemakers buy freedom from routine kitchen chores with their food purchases today. There is less waste, less need for trimming or sorting.

Needless to say, in a world that didn't even have refrigeration, the ultimate convenience of an entire prepared dinner, frozen until ready to heat and serve, would have produced hoots of derision at such an impossible idea.

Even beef has improved. When old-time cooks, back on the farm, cut steaks thin, breaded them and fried them in a liberal quantity of grease, they weren't deliberately overlooking the delights of an inch-thick, medium-rare tenderloin. The meat of those days just wasn't as tender as today, and long, moist heat cookery was essential.

Somewhere along the line, someone discovered that beef aged for a few weeks became naturally tender. But it wasn't until 1939 that the Kroger Tenderloin process was perfected, allowing beef to become naturally tender in a matter of hours, while it was still fresh.

And despite all the improvements in foods, today's shopper buys food for her family with a smaller percentage of income than any other country in the world, or at any time in history (less than 18 per cent in 1967).

And what's best, her family is eating more and better food than ever before!

Typical Kroger store back around turn of century

This was a world without central heating, electricity (the electric light had just been invented), kitchen appliances or any other of the many conveniences we take for granted today. The first adding machines and cash registers were just reaching the market. And there were few telephones. In Washington, for example, the U. S. State Department listed only two telephones.

The Brooklyn Bridge was completed in 1883, the U. S. Navy consisted mostly of wooden ships, and the center of population in the U. S. was eight miles from Cincinnati. The first trolley car did not make its appearance until 1884. Vehicles were horse-drawn and politically-appointed street cleaners were so numerous they often swung elections in favor of the party in power!

Manufactured ice didn't appear until the 1890's, which meant that most families lived on salted and pickled meats in the summer — except for an occasional chicken. At harvest time, a whole lamb might be killed to provide a hearty dinner for the hard-working threshers. But in many areas, people said that during the summer they ate "salt pork for breakfast, salt pork for dinner and salt pork for supper."

Some of the meat shops did their own butchering, and hung the huge sides of beef right out in front, next to the sales counter. At the holiday season, butchers would reassemble the steer, hide and all, and decorate it with garlands and tinsel!

Miniskirts Boost Hosiery

When one of the Kroger Family Center executives came to Greenville to make arrangements for opening of the company's mammoth new store here, one of the first questions he received came from a charming and attractive local resident:

"I just want to know one thing," she said. "Will you carry Ugly Ducklings?"

The item she referred to appears on the supermarket shopping list of a few million women, but don't expect to see them served for Sunday dinner with orange sauce.

To your wife and daughter, they're a new kind of hosiery with a "memory" that makes them fit everybody.

And businessmen might take special interest in them because they typify the reasons behind the biggest boom in the hosiery industry since the introduction of nylon.

Last year's record 103,800,000 dozen pairs represents a whopping 185 percent increase over 1962 — all the more spectacular because it followed a decade of sales dormancy.

Two major trends helped to revitalize U.S. hosiery sales:

—Miniskirts. They're the hosiery industry's best friend. Women now are buying an average of 24 pairs of stockings a year. And minis also helped capture an ever-growing share of the market for pantihose (stockings which go all the way to the waist). A relative newcomer to the hosiery field, pantihose accounted for 20 percent of 1968 hosiery purchases. They'll be up to almost a third this year. And the industry believes that more than half the women in the U. S. will be wearing pantihose by 1972.

(An interesting development . . . So many women have discovered the comfort of pantihose that sales are expected to continue to spurt despite the rumored advent of the midi.)

—Supermarkets are the second big trend. Hosiery sales in supermarkets were so low in 1965 that they weren't even considered in national totals. Last year, for the first time, more women bought their stockings in supermarkets than in major department stores. Stockings are among the non-food items which now account for at least 20 percent of the weekly "food" bill. And now supermarkets are moving into the forefront as innovators rather than "me-too's" in hosiery fashions.

Those Jubilee Products' Ugly Ducklings your wife bought, in between the soap flakes and the cabbage, tell the story:

—They're a new kind of stocking which solves fitting problems which have been plaguing the industry for years.

—They're pantihose, and they come in fashion colors. Gone are the days when the shopper had a choice akin to Henry Ford's black cars — one color, dubbed "super-market beige."

—And the new stockings were introduced at Kroger stores, rather than in the more traditional fashion outlets.

For years, the hosiery industry has pursued the elusive stocking which could be carried in one size to fit all women. Old-fashioned so-called "one-size" hose actually could be worn by only about 80 percent of women and few of those had what they considered an "ideal" fit.

Pantihose caused further complications. The industry began receiving complaints from women who were very small ("they wrinkle") or extra tall ("I can't bend"). And to add to the misery, they found that the biggest fitting problem (no pun intended) with pantihose was the stenographer's spread derriere.

Perhaps because Ugly Ducklings concentrated on the final result rather than the initial impression, they succeed where others failed.

"Funny-looking" is the kindest way to describe the appearance of Ugly Ducklings as they come from the package. "They look like they're made for a wrinkled midget," was the quizzical reaction of one 5'11" girl who had never before been able to wear "one-size" pantihose and had difficulty being fitted at any price.

But she had a perfect fit, as did her 5' tall girlfriend, and other test subjects in assorted sizes who reported previous fitting difficulties.

There are two secrets: First, Ugly Ducklings are "unboarded." Traditional hosiery is stretched to a certain size over board forms and then heat-treated to retain that size. In the process, however, they lose stretchability. Unboarded hosiery retains more stretching power and is, in a sense, shaped by the legs of the individual wearer.

But something more was needed, and that's where the second secret came into the picture. It's new yarn called "Downyloft" which is fantastically flexible yet "remembers" its original shape and returns to that when laundered. Perfectly balanced temperature controls during manufacture help to retain this capability.

Shelves stocked with oven-fresh bakery goods

Kroger Has Own Bakers

Greenville families will benefit from a major program announced last May by the Kroger Co., designed to help fight malnutrition and provide more nutritious products for the consumer's food dollar.

The program helps consumers in four ways:

—All white flour used in Kroger's ten regional bakeries serving 1500 supermarkets is now enriched with riboflavin (Vitamin B-2), thiamin (Vitamin B-1), niacin and iron in accordance with the standards of identity established by the U. S. Food and Drug Administration.

Kroger, which produces in excess of 300,000,000 pounds of baked goods a year, is the ninth largest baker in the United States. The new program means that the company's enrichment program will be broadened to include some 230 additional food items baked by Kroger which were not previously enriched. Kroger was the first food retailer and baker in the United States to take this step, which was recommended by several panels of the White House Conference on Food, Nutrition and Health.

—In addition, outside food manufacturers who pack Kroger private brand products are also using enriched flour in Kroger products. This group includes such items as cake mixes and refrigerated biscuits, which are among several dozen products using white flour which are packed for Kroger by other food manufacturers.

—Low-cost, nutritionally-balanced recipes and menus are being featured in newspaper food advertising to help educate consumers concerning better diets for their families.

—Research into the development of entirely new food products which are high in nutrition has been instituted.

Kroger's broadened enrichment program now includes such items as snack crackers, sweet rolls, cakes, doughnuts . . . and even ice cream cones. The move recognizes the changing eating patterns of the 1970's and brings the benefits of enrichment to the broadest possible group of consumers. Previously, only white bread and roll items had been enriched.

In making the announcement, B. D. Reusser, vice president of the company's baked foods division, said:

"This major step to improve the nutritional intake of all consumers has been under consideration for some time. The final decision came after evaluation of mounting evidence of persistent malnutrition in the United States at every economic level."

Nutritional studies have indicated a steadily-dropping percentage of Americans who are consuming proper diets.

For example, the U. S. Department of Agriculture conducted nutritional surveys in 1955 and again 10 years later. By 1965, only 50 per cent of Americans were consuming diets which provided as much as two-thirds of the recommended daily allowance of nutrients — a drop of 10 per cent. Evidence is that this problem is growing each year.

The White House Conference in Washington last December identified problem areas and made recommendations on how to alleviate them.

The food and nutrition experts from throughout the country who gathered for the Conference reported that:

—Malnutrition in the U. S. is not confined to low-income groups, but extends to the affluent as well.

—Private industry should take immediate steps to provide foods with a higher nutritional content for consumers.

—Food companies should begin by improving the nutritional qualities of those foods which people enjoy and are accustomed to eating.

—Changing eating patterns of the American public should also be recognized. Snacks and sweet goods are forming a large part of the cereal portion of the diet of many consumers, particularly young people and the poor.

Kroger's experience bears out the Conference conclusions in this area. Mr. Reusser said. Eighty-five per cent of the newly-enriched bakery items fall into the snack and sweet goods category.

Mr. Reusser pointed out that Kroger has produced enriched white bread and rolls since 1941, when current standards of enrichment were formulated.

At that time, white bread was chosen as the vehicle for enrichment because it is a basic food, and was considered probably the most universally consumed food throughout the country.

The use of enriched flour and bread has been credited with virtual elimination of such deficiency diseases as pellagra, which was prevalent in the United States as late as the 1930's.

The recipe and menu program, which will be made available throughout Kroger's 23-state area, has been planned to emphasize meals that are well-balanced and nutritional and make them more attractive to homemakers.

Fashions Geared To Individual

It's "do your own thing" so far as fashion is concerned this year, say the fashion experts from Kroger Family Center Stores.

And for those women who have taken the mini to their hearts and don't want to give it up, it's up to each one to decide what length dress looks best on her.

The same goes for those who have always worn their skirts and dresses knee-length or longer. Just about any length can be fashionable, so long as it is becoming to the wearer and is properly accessorized.

(Some patterns are even being printed in four lengths to suit every taste.)

A popular look in Fall, 1970, is the pantsuit, which is being worn almost any place that dresses used to travel. Fashionable women across the country are wearing pantsuits, in everything from tubbable polyester knits to warm woolsens to glamorous formal fabrics.

Among the complete line of sportswear for every member of the family which is carried at the Kroger Family Center are such popular and comfortable cover-ups as the ponchos in every color of the rainbow which top printed, striped, plaid or plain slacks.

Colors? Take your pick. Especially new this year, though, are the warm earth colors — green, gold, rich reds, and soft brown tones.

Kroger Tenderay Brand BEEF CHART

Prepared by Educational Dept. The Kroger Co., 1014 Vine Street Cincinnati, Ohio 45201

Tenderay Brand Steak Marks Over 30-Year-Old Discovery

More than thirty years ago, a group of scientists bit into an inch-thick beef steak and nodded with smiles of approval.

This wasn't just an ordinary steak. It was the very first Tenderay Brand Steak. The discovery had taken several years of scientific study and experimentation by the Kroger Food Foundation, Westinghouse Electric Corp., and the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research . . . as well as some 175,000 pounds of beef!

Once Kroger had found the secret of fresh beef that is naturally tender, the company set up a pilot plant and began blind-testing Tenderay Beef in its stores — right next to ordinary beef. Customer response was immediate and enthusiastic, and homemakers kept coming back to ask meat cutters for "another steak like that last one you sold me."

As soon as Kroger was sure that Tenderay was exactly the kind of beef shoppers had always wanted to be able to buy, the new beef made its "official" bow throughout the company. And it created a sensation.

A noted scientist said Tenderay was the "most important contribution to the meat industry since mechanical refrigeration." Customers knew only that this beef was fresh, juicy, and dependably tender, and it was better than any other beef they could buy.

What is Tenderay Brand Beef, and how can we claim with confidence that it will be "tender ten times out of ten"?

The basic principle is the same as old-fashioned slow aging, which before Tenderay was the only way of producing tender beef naturally. But the old-fashioned method was expensive and it did cause beef to lose fresh flavor and juices.

Here's how Tenderay Beef becomes naturally tender and eatin' - good in a few hours while it is still fresh.

Large cuts of Tenderay Beef are hung in long rows in rooms where special ultra-violet sterilamps purify the air and protect the meat, while temperature and humidity are raised and carefully controlled to bring the beef to desired tenderness 12 times faster than the old-fashioned method.

Nothing is added to the beef. It has to be good to begin with. Only U. S. Choice Grade Beef is used for the Tenderay Beef sold in Greenville Division Kroger stores. Tenderness and flavor must be "built in" by careful breeding and feeding so that it is waiting to be brought to perfection by this quick-aging.

Thanks to Tenderay, Kroger was the first company that dared to advertise "guaranteed tender" fresh beef. And today Kroger's policy is still "satisfaction or your money back."

Testing Assures Tenderness

Kroger customers enjoy more than five million pounds of mouth-watering Tenderay beef every week, so Kroger has to make sure the beef it sells is just as good as the ads claim. Making sure is one of the more pleasant duties of Ralph C. Lakamp, director of the Kroger Food Foundation.

Regular samples of Tenderay steaks are sent to the laboratory where they are broiled and sampled by a test panel in comparison with non-Tenderay steaks.

Steak-samplers must judge the "tenderness value" of the steaks on a scale ranging from "2" or "very tough" to "10" or "very tender." Tenderay steaks, of course, must rate at the top of the tenderness scale or they won't receive the Kroger Tenderay seal of approval.

Tenderay is Kroger's pride and joy and, the company feels, one of its most famous secrets of success — a secret Kroger likes to share with all its customers!

Pocketbooks Benefit
Another Kroger exclusive that benefits customers' pocketbooks is the company's long-time policy of trimming away excess fat and waste to provide more meat for the money.

The Kroger Meat Cutting Method guarantees that customers will not pay steak prices for extra bone and fat.

And if you can't find exactly the kind or cut of beef you want in the gleaming counter of conveniently-prepackaged meats, just press the button to call a Kroger meat expert who will be happy to prepare the extra-thick lamb chops or steak you want.

Super Steaks

If steak's your dish, don't your chef's hat and sneak in the kind of flavor touch that will make people ask why your steaks taste better than anyone else's.

Half the answer will be Tenderay and the rest may be a sauce — not so secret.

A long-time favorite steak go-with is a rich mushroom sauce. Just brown mushrooms, fresh or canned, in butter or margarine. Add chopped onions if you like; serve over steak.

Perrys Honored In Martin Celebration

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
WILLIAMSTON — "Happiness is a Baseball Game." That's what Gaylord Perry told over 1,000 people gathered in the Williamston High School Gymnasium last night. They were there to honor Gaylord and his brother Jim, both Martin County natives, who set baseball history this past year. It was Perry Brothers Day in Williamston, and the celebration included a motorcade through downtown Williamston, a reception at the Roanoke Country Club, and the 1,000-plus seat dinner at the gym. On hand were friends and fans of the Perrys from throughout eastern North Carolina, and some from other parts of the country. Special guests included former New York Yankee second baseman Bobby Richardson, American League umpire Jim Odom, San Francisco Giant manager Charlie Fox, and Giant catcher Dick Dietz. The brothers were presented with a number of trophies and plaques in honor of their both winning 20 games during the past season, the only time a brother combination succeeded in performing that feat. The Deans, in their heyday, never won 20 together in the same season, although they did post 49 wins in one year between them. Jim and Gaylord came close to that this year, winning 47 between them.

Jim, who won 24, was honored last week by being named the American League's Cy Young Award winner. The award is the highest honor a pitcher can receive. Gaylord, with 23 victories, was runner-up for the National League Award.

Telegrams were read from a number of baseball and non-baseball personalities, including North Carolina Senators Sam Ervin and Everett Jordan, Congressmen L. H. Fountain and David Henderson, California Governor Ronald Reagan, Twins manager Bill Rigney, Twins owner Calvin Griffin, and Richard M. Nixon, president of the United States.

Walter Jones, First District Congressman, said that he was proud to be the only Congressman in the history of the country to have as native sons a brother combination with 20 wins each.

Jim, left, and Gaylord Perry look over a pair of silver services presented to them at the climax of the Perry Brothers Day Celebration in Williamston last night. Martin County and Williamston honored its two baseball pitching native sons for their achievements in the sport. The two are the first brother combination to win 20 games each in a single season in the major leagues. Jim is a hurler for the Minnesota Twins, while Gaylord tosses for the San Francisco Giants.

Phil Houser, a Twins scout based in Charlotte, officially represented the Griffin family. "I've got all the praise and everything for Jim except his 1971 contract," he said.

Dick Dietz, Giant catcher, teased Gaylord without it being a spitball thrower. "How can you honor Gaylord without it being wet or slippery," he said of the weather. "Gay was our whole story in 1970. He stepped in when Juan Marichal got sick and did a great job. You should be proud of him, the Giants certainly are."

The featured speaker for the evening was Bobby Richardson, former Yankee great now baseball coach at the University of South Carolina, and the personal representative of Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

"We live in a sport oriented society," he said. "You read sports in the newspapers, you see them on television and hear them on the radio. Sports are everywhere."

Boog Powell Snaps Baltimore Jinx, Named AL's Most Valuable

By HUBERT MIZELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
MIAMI (AP) — John Wesley "Boog" Powell is awesome evidence the Baltimore Orioles can win something besides the World Series.

The baseball world was beginning to wonder. Earl Weaver was edged by the Yankees' Ralph Houk for manager of the year. Minnesota Twins pitcher Jim Perry captured the Cy Young Award over the mound triumvirate of Dave McNally, Mike Cuellar and Jim Palmer.

Then came Boog. Powell, a blond behemoth at first base, Tuesday was named Most Valuable Player in the American League. The Orioles at last had a hero who made it.

Powell lounged beside the pool of his expansive Miami home after learning he was the MVP. Boog's midsection exploded over a pair of Bermuda shorts. He washed down the news with a can of beer. "I'm prouder and more excited than I ever thought I could be," he said. "It's the biggest thing that ever happened to me."

Powell is 29, a middle of the roader age-wise on the powerful Big Bird Machine between the elders such as Frank and Brooks Robinson and the exciting kids like Jim Palmer and Mark Belanger. He hit .297 with 35 homers and 114 runs batted in.

"We're not an old club and the young players look fantastic," he said, sounding more like a team owner than a first baseman. "You don't ever like to call your team a dynasty, but if any team ever looked like a dynasty, we do."

Powell's house is 20 miles south of the Orioles' spring training headquarters at Miami Stadium. He's about 150 miles up the Overseas Highway from Key West, where the name Boog Powell was once as acknowledged for football as baseball. "Boog" has been his nickname since his childhood in Lakeland, Fla. It was coined by his dad, who claimed young John was a mischievous little booger.

"I was a 225-pound high school tackle and 6-foot-2," he recalled. "I signed a football scholarship at the University of Florida, but backed out when the Orioles offered me a $25,000 bonus."

Baltimore's bid in 1959 was healthy, but nothing when compared to the multitude of six-figure bonuses being passed out in a talent bidding war.

"They were giving $100,000 here, $100,000 there in those days. I wanted my 100, too, but was happy to get the 25."

After his rookie season at Appleton, Wis., Powell's life was changed. Baltimore skipper Paul Richards converted him from an outfielder with less than-antelope speed to a big, mobile first baseman.

Now, a decade later, he's the first man fulltime at his position to become MVP since Jimmy Foxx in 1938.

Powell won't say what he'll ask the Orioles in the way of 1971 salary, but it's a safe bet the request will top $100,000. Despite his affluence, plaudits and zest "for winning the Triple Crown and everything else in sight," Boog lives a surprisingly simple life.

His home is minutes from Biscayne Bay, where Boog goes mackerel fishing in his 18-foot boat. If the catch is large enough, maybe it'll feed his lovely wife, Jan, 4-year-old Jennifer or 7-year-old John Wesley Jr., who is called "J.W."

There's a Broadway Joe's restaurant down U.S. 1 a piece, but nowhere in sight is a short-order stand named Boog's Burgers or the like. "I'm holding onto my money," he says. "I've seen too many athletes go busted in those businesses, especially restaurant chains. I'm not hooked up with anything."

Powell has grown three inches higher and 35 pounds wider since high school. "It gets tougher every year to take off the weight in spring training. I'm going to make a strong effort to watch it this winter, banquets or no banquets."

Powell had little trouble with any pitchers in 1970, but said over the years "it's been the crafty, smart pitchers that give me fits. Minnesota's Jim Kaat buffaloes me. And I'm darn glad Whitey Ford retired. He fussed me half crazy."

Fast-batters like Sam McDowell don't worry him as much. "Sudden Sam throws three speeds—hard, harder and hardest. You know anything from that lad's hand ain't gonna be soft stuff."

Boog smiles when he brags about wearing out Denny McLain when the controversial righthander won 31 games in 1968, but quickly adds, "you don't own any pitcher. You just learn them over the years and what to expect in certain situations. It's nothing you can put your finger on."

If there is any improvement in Powell since the mid 1960s, it's consistency. "I'm fooled less and have patience against people like Kaat. I always swing firmly, but I'm not always trying to hit a home run."

Powell said he got his hitting philosophy from former infielder Woodie Held who said, "Swing hard in case you hit it."

North Carolina's Don McCauley is practically the best rusher in ACC history. He is already the best ground-gainer in one ACC season and against Clemson Saturday McCauley will be shooting for one more yard to tie the career record set by Frank Quayle of Virginia. The Cavalier great's career total was 2,695.

McCauley, a senior halfback already has a school record for most points scored in a season, 78, and could send the rushing mark of Charlie Justice into second place in UNC annals with 121 more yards in two games. In Justice's day, UNC was in the Southern Conference.

Duke's passing combination of quarterback Leo Hart and end Wes Chesson have shared a list of records in their career and could capture some more. Hart owns school and conference marks for passing and will become the fifth leading passer in NCAA history. Chesson owns school and conference pass-catching marks.

Duke's sophomore back Steve Jones also has a chance to enter the Blue Devil book if he gains 56 yards or more in the last two games. Then he will possess the school standard now held by Wray Carlton.

Clemson quarterback Tommy Kendrick takes new Tiger records into the game with the Tar Heels at Clemson. His 45 attempted passes last week in a losing cause at Florida State and his 2,636 career passing yardage put the junior's name at the top of the two lists.

The other games in the nest-to-last weekend of the ACC season send N. C. State to Wake Forest, co-leader in the league with Duke, and Colgate to Virginia in a nonconference match. Maryland has an open date.

Jack Ellis led South Edgemore High School swept a pair of games from Jamesville's Red Devils here last night. The girls took a 38-28 victory, while the boys won, 68-60.

South Edgemore inched away from Jamesville in the first period to build up a 20-15 lead. Jamesville stuck close to them in the second frame, and out hit South Edgemore, 18-15, to cut the lead to 35-33 at the half.

Neither team was able to gain any advantage in the third period, as both poured in 15 points. That ran the South Edgemore lead out to 50-48 at the start of the final period.

But Jamesville was never able to push ahead, and South Edgemore outthit the Red Devils, 18-12, to take the victory.

Phil Blount led all scores with 29 for Jamesville. Larry Modlin had 17 and Tommy Mizelle had 10.

The Jamesville boys are now 1-2 on the year, while the girls are now 2-1. Jamesville hosts Jasper on Friday.

Jamesville's Red Devils here last night. The girls took a 38-28 victory, while the boys won, 68-60.

Boog Powell is awesome evidence the Baltimore Orioles can win something besides the World Series.

The baseball world was beginning to wonder. Earl Weaver was edged by the Yankees' Ralph Houk for manager of the year.

Minnesota Twins pitcher Jim Perry captured the Cy Young Award over the mound triumvirate of Dave McNally, Mike Cuellar and Jim Palmer.

Then came Boog. Powell, a blond behemoth at first base, Tuesday was named Most Valuable Player in the American League. The Orioles at last had a hero who made it.

Powell lounged beside the pool of his expansive Miami home after learning he was the MVP. Boog's midsection exploded over a pair of Bermuda shorts. He washed down the news with a can of beer. "I'm prouder and more excited than I ever thought I could be," he said. "It's the biggest thing that ever happened to me."

Powell is 29, a middle of the roader age-wise on the powerful Big Bird Machine between the elders such as Frank and Brooks Robinson and the exciting kids like Jim Palmer and Mark Belanger.

He hit .297 with 35 homers and 114 runs batted in. "We're not an old club and the young players look fantastic," he said, sounding more like a team owner than a first baseman. "You don't ever like to call your team a dynasty, but if any team ever looked like a dynasty, we do."

Rockets Survive Late Fla. Rally

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Larry Cannon and Don Sidle, a pair of ex-Floridians got a measure of revenge against former teammates and a well-needed victory for the slow-starting Denver Rockets. The Rockets won 119-116 but had a 112-95 lead with 4:27 left in the American Basketball Association game in Miami Beach Tuesday night with Sidle pumping in 29 points and Julius Keye pouring in 33 for the Floridians put on a late drive.

With 13 seconds left, the Floridians got to within one point at 117-116 when Cannon got into the act.

The former LaSalle College ace was fouled with three seconds remaining and converted two free throws to ice the victory. He also hit with a pair of foul shots with 33 seconds left and finished with 19 points. The Rockets are now 3-10.

In the only other ABA action, Pittsburgh topped Memphis 112-106 and Utah bombed Texas 146-127.

In the National Basketball Association, Atlanta trimmed Philadelphia 109-104, Chicago routed Los Angeles 118-96, Seattle nipped New York 93-91, San Francisco ripped Cleveland 109-74 and Cincinnati rolled over Portland 138-121.

Mike Lewis tossed in 22 points in Pittsburgh's victory. The Condors never trailed and led by 20 points before Memphis, behind Steve Jones' 28 points cut into the margin at the end.

Willie Wise poured in 47 points in Utah's rout, the 146 points establishing a Stars' club record. Zelmo Beaty and Austin Robbins added 22 points apiece for the winners. Bob Bedell had 27 for Texas. The Stars previous scoring mark was 143 points in 1969.

Leroy Kelley, formerly of Purdue, captains the Cleveland Browns offensive unit.

Lexington, Va. (AP) — A deficit is expected in Virginia Military Institute's athletic program and the future of VMI football coach Vito Ragazzo is uncertain.

The Richmond Times-Dispatch reported today that Ragazzo said Tuesday he had no plans to resign, although Ragazzo, now in the second year of a three-year contract, has been rumored to be on the way out.

Ragazzo himself said "My wife called me at work Monday and she wanted to know why I hadn't told her I've resigned. She said it was on the radio, and you know, I've received letters from parents of players saying they're sorry to see me go."

"Well, I'm getting damned tired of this. Everyone seems to think if I resign it will settle all the problems... But it won't." Athletic Director Tom Joynes

Top Teams Are Picked To Win

By HERSCHEL NISSENON
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — It's showdown time in the Big Eight and look-ahead time in the Big Ten.

Fourth-ranked Nebraska, one-half game ahead of Kansas State in the Big Eight, entertains the Wildcats in Lincoln, Ohio State and Michigan, tied for the Big Ten lead and ranked third and fifth, respectively, must avoid letdowns before their shootout one week hence.

The Buckeyes travel to Purdue this weekend while Michigan is at home against Iowa.

Kansas State at Nebraska—Wildcats are on probation from postseason play but that can't stop them from winning the championship. The Cornhuskers, however, can. Nebraska.

Ohio State at Purdue—The last time the Buckeyes came to Lafayette, Purdue was ranked No. 1, but Ohio State replaced the Boilermakers with a 13-0 victory and went on to become 1968 national champions. Woody Hayes' eleven hasn't put it all together yet, despite seven straight triumphs, and if they're looking ahead to Michigan, look out. But ... Ohio State.

Iowa at Michigan—Hawkeyes show signs of coming around after some early staggers, but this may be the knockout blow. Michigan.

Stanford at Air Force—This is a game to make defensive backfield coaches weep. Stanford, third in passing offense behind Jim Plunkett, and Air Force, fifth in passing with Bob Parker. Coach John Ralston says his Rose Bowl-bound Indians have two immediate goals—as high a national ranking as possible and the Heisman Trophy for Plunkett. Believe it or not, defense may tell the story and the edge there belongs to ... Stanford.

Georgia Tech at Notre Dame—Irish are No. 1 in the polls. Last year they had some trouble with Tech in Atlanta, but this time they should ramble over the Ramblin' Wreck. Notre Dame.

Georgia at Auburn—Gilbert of Georgia and Sullivan of Auburn play musical footballs. Auburn.

UCLA at Washington—Dennis Dummit and Sonny Sixkiller duel at a distance of 100 yards with pointed footballs. UCLA.

Syracuse at West Virginia—Ben Schwartzwalder is a West Virginia grad, so this one will be emotional. Orange is rolling toward a bowl bid and hurts people. West Virginia is already hurting. Syracuse.

Princeton at Yale—Last season, a late Yale field goal cost Princeton an outright Ivy League title. No such worry this year. Yale.

Oklahoma at Kansas—Upset special of the week as Sooners look ahead to Nebraska. Kansas.

Carroll Regains Loop Scoring Lead With 52

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Pat Carroll of Furman lost his lead in the Southern Conference football scoring race last Saturday — but only for a few hours.

While Carroll was waiting to play a night game at Guilford, he was passed by the league's two top runners, Phil Mosser of William and Mary and Bob Duncan of The Citadel, as well as by Billy Wallace of East Carolina.

Mosser scored three times in the Indians' 28-15 victory over Connecticut, Duncan twice in the Bulldogs' 29-28 defeat at Chattanooga, Wallace once in the Pirates' 28-14 setback by West Virginia—and all three wound up at the end of the afternoon with seven touchdowns and 42 points.

A few hours later, however, Carroll scored a pair of touchdowns in Furman's 49-28 triumph over Guilford and regained the lead with 52 points on eight touchdowns and a pair of two-point conversions.

Deadlocked for fifth place with six touchdowns and 36 points each are Davidson flanker Mike Mikolayunas and Furman running back Steve Crislip, each of whom scored twice Saturday.

Next in line are three kicking specialists—Don Cupit of Virginia Military Institute with 35 points, Jim Leber of The Citadel with 34 and Keith Clark of Richmond with 31.

Three players are tied for 10th with 30 points each—running backs Jerry Mauro and Bill Bracken of Davidson and flanker Jerry Haynes of Richmond.

Rain had its way Tuesday, forcing several conference teams indoors.

The Citadel went through a short workout in a slight drizzle in Charleston, S.C., putting the emphasis on kicking and special situations as the Bulldogs prepared for Saturday's conference game with Furman.

Furman's defensive unit spent much of its time Tuesday working on ways to halt The Citadel's veer attack. Halfback Steve Crislip, who led the team in last week's 49-28 win over Guilford, was a standout at the Furman practice.

Heavy rain forced the Richmond Spiders indoors, with the squad boning up by watching game films. Coach Frank Jones said the team was in good physical shape for Saturday's televised encounter with Virginia Military Institute.

VMI also got caught by the rain and coach Vito Ragazzo had to move the Keydets indoors. Ragazzo said of the Richmond game Saturday, "The players know they have to face a team that has shown a great deal of improvement since the start of the season ... It would be nice to redeem ourselves with the victory in the conference and on television."

Hudson Leads Hawks Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The stumbling Atlanta Hawks have found the winning formula, at least temporarily. Just listen to the coach.

The Hawks, who captured only their third victory in 11 National Basketball Association starts, whipped the Philadelphia 76ers 109-104 Tuesday night behind the hot-shooting Lou Hudson.

Trailing 100-96 with a little over three minutes remaining to play, Atlanta's coach, Richie Guerin called a time out and apparently told the Hawks to feed Hudson, who had been virtually ignored earlier in the quarter.

After the time out, Hudson quickly responded with seven points as the Hawks blitzed Philadelphia 13-4 for the victory. Hudson finished with 32 points while Hal Greer topped the 76ers with 25.

In other NBA action, Chicago routed Los Angeles 118-96, San Francisco sent Cleveland to its 15th consecutive loss 109-74, Seattle edged New York 93-91 and Cincinnati blasted Portland 138-121.

In American Basketball Association play, Denver topped the Floridians 119-116, Pittsburgh whipped Memphis 112-106 and Utah bombed Texas 146-127.

Jerry Sloan and Bob Love combined for 22 third quarter points to help the Bulls pull away from Los Angeles. Sloan finished with 32 points while Love connected for 25. Jerry West and Gail Goodrich had 22 apiece for the Lakers.

Cleveland's hapless expansion club tied the NBA record, set in 1949 by Denver, in dropping their 15th consecutive game at the beginning of a season. The Cavaliers are two games shy of tying the mark for most successive losses in a row of 17 set by San Francisco in 1964 and San Diego in 1968.

The Warriors led all the way with Fritz Williams leading the winning attack with 22 points.

Dick Snyder's jumper with 17 seconds remaining gave Seattle its squeaker over the Knicks.

The New Yorkers called time out but with 10 seconds remaining Willis Reed was charged with an offensive foul and Seattle took over and ran out the clock. Reed topped New York with 32 points while Snyder had 25 for the SuperSonics.

Cincinnati reeled off 16 straight points at the start of the final period after leading 98-94 after three periods. Tom Van Arsdale led the Royals with 28 points. Jim Barnett had 23 for Portland.

Heisman Only Thing To Win

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — The Heisman Trophy is the only thing Stanford quarterback Jim Plunkett hasn't won this year.

He's helped his Indians win a Rose Bowl berth, he's already set national college career marks for passing and total offense and this week he was selected as The Associated Press national back of the week.

The 6-foot-3 quarterback won the weekly honor by passing for four touchdowns and twice pulling Stanford from behind for a 29-22 victory over Washington Saturday. He also passed for a two-point conversion.

The result clinched the Pacific-8 championship for Stanford and sends the Indians into the Rose Bowl against the Big Ten's best, probably Ohio State.

Plunkett, Coach John Ralston and the team all took it rather calmly. There was no dressing room hilarity.

Plunkett said, "We first felt we could go to the Rose Bowl the day we reported for practice — Aug. 22."

Coach Tommy Prothro, whose UCLA team lost to Stanford 9-7 but held Plunkett without a touchdown for the only time this year, said he thought Plunkett had "his best passing game of the year" against Washington.

Prothro, who watched the game on television, added that Stanford "can beat anybody on a given day."

San Jose State coach Dewey King, also a television viewer, said, "I don't see how they can deny Plunkett the Heisman now."

Coach Ralston said, "He completed 22 passes in 36 attempts for 268 yards and four touchdowns.

"Twice he led us from behind when it appeared we were in trouble. What more can I say about him?"

Ralston added, "We've got a couple of other games before we go to Pasadena and we still have two objectives left: We want to finish as high in the national rankings as we can and we want to do something about getting that Heisman Trophy for Jim."

Pressed as to whether his 23-year-old thrower had any faults, Ralston said, "Sometimes he'll come off the field after an interception almost in a state of shock.

"I've told him when you put the ball in the air you're bound to have an interception once in awhile."

He had two against Washington, but no damage was done.

Plunkett said he thought the Rose Bowl was more important, explaining, "You can set out to go to a bowl but you can't set out to win the trophy."

Lou Piniella, Kansas City outfielder from Tampa, hit 279 in his first 145 American League games. Last season in 144 games he batted .301.

Off-Track Bets Hurt Gambling

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) — If you bet $2 on a longshot in a horse race, asks Jimmy the Greek, what would you rather get back — $32 or perhaps $100?

"Of course you'll take the $100," said Jimmy "The Greek" Snyder, well-known Las Vegas odds-maker. "That's why New York's off-track betting is bound to succeed. It will be a real knockdown blow to organized gambling."

The suave Nevada price maker, whose line on athletic contests and political races has become a national institution, came to New York Tuesday at the invitation of Howard Samuels, president of the New York City Off-Track Betting Corp.

The city is preparing to set up legal horse parlors around the city and move into competition with bookies, who allegedly pocket millions from illegal gambling operations. The first betting windows are scheduled to open Jan. 11.

The city hopes—after a year or so—to start replacing between $100 million and $400 million a year to be used for such things as education and welfare.

Jimmy the Greek, dapper in striped shirt and blue suit, joined Samuels in a news conference at the corporation headquarters at which the aims and the problems of the off-track betting project were explored.

The wizard of odds said the project is certain to be a success because the bettor will prefer to make his wager at a legal city parlor than on the sly through a bookmaker.

"It's an education problem," Snyder said. "When people realize they can walk in and make a bet, they will start doing it. Furthermore, they will get interested in horse racing."

"Contrary to what some of the tracks believe, I think track attendance will grow even bigger. After all, it was exposure like this that made pro football and pro basketball the big attractions they are."

Jimmy the Greek said that under the off-track system, the people and the bookies will make the odds, since the bets will go into parimutuel pools.

"The bookies have a limit of 16-1 on the odds they'll pay," he added. "With so many people playing the horses, there will be tremendous overlays, and some horses will pay 50-1 up to maybe 100-1."

"The bookies won't pay that. But the city parlors and the tracks will." Most local bookies say the limit is 30-1, not 16-1.

Snyder suggested also that the city ultimately get into taking bets on football, baseball and basketball games. It's reported that three of every four dollars bet in sports are on events other than horse racing.

Mystery Hangs Over Grand Jury Subpoenas

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
A shroud of mystery hangs today over a wave of Federal Grand Jury subpoenas which have been served on more than half of the National Football League's 26 teams.

NFL officials in New York say they have not been informed of any pending federal legal action. But at least 15 NFL clubs were served with summonses by a Federal Grand Jury in Cleveland to appear with their records beginning Nov. 17. And at least nine other clubs said they had not been subpoenaed as of today.

Carl Steinhouse, head of the Justice Department's anti-trust division in Cleveland, refused to comment on the matter and referred all inquiries to Justice Department headquarters in Washington.

A spokesman for the department in the nation's capital said:

Cincinnati Bengals, Buffalo Bills, St. Louis Cardinals, Atlanta Falcons and Los Angeles Rams.

At least nine clubs—the New York Giants and New York Jets, Philadelphia Eagles, Oakland Raiders, San Diego Chargers, Miami Dolphins, Kansas City Chiefs, Green Bay Packers and Houston Oilers—said no subpoenas had been delivered to them.

There was no word on whether the Boston Patriots or Washington Redskins had been served.

Some of the clubs had specific individuals subpoenaed and others did not. Separate papers were served in Cleveland to Art Modell, president and treasurer of the Browns, Harold Sauerbrei, general manager of the team, head coach Blanton Collier, defensive coach Howard Brinker, and offensive coach Nick Skorich. They were asked to appear Nov. 17.

Jim Finks, general manager of the Vikings, said a U.S. marshal delivered a subpoena instructing the Minnesota club to be represented before the Federal Grand Jury Dec. 7. Finks said he had been ordered to bring "various documents along the lines of contracts, waivers and options."

"I have no idea what it's for," said Finks. "We have been in contact with our league counsel and they are as much in the dark as we are."

Asked if other Viking officials had been ordered to appear before the Grand Jury, Finks said: "As far as I know, I'm it."

Subpoenas served to the Buffalo, Dallas, Baltimore and San Francisco clubs did not specify which club officials should appear.

The clubs which were not subpoenaed Tuesday seemed every bit as puzzled by the action as the teams that received the summonses.

Sports Briefs

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Tom McMillen scored 27 points and grabbed 29 rebounds in helping the University of Maryland frosh basketball team beat the varsity 111-107 Tuesday night.

DETROIT (AP) — Elliott Maddox, who lasted his first year in Detroit before a post-season trade sent him to Washington, Wednesday was named the Tigers' Rookie of the Year.

Selection of the 25-year-old infielder-outfielder was made in balloting by active members of the Detroit Sports Broadcasters Association.

OSAKA, Japan (AP) — Martin Mulligan, a Rome-based Australian, defeated Japan's Jun Kuki 6-2, 6-3, 7-5 and captured the men's singles title in the Japan National Tennis Championships today.

The women's singles title went to Japan's Wimbledon junior champion, Kazuko Sawamatsu, who humbled Kathy Harter of seal Beach, Calif., 6-3, 7-5.

Women Want To Be Needed

Tad lost his wife because he didn't understand female psychology. For women are not basically very sexual. They are primarily maternal rather than erotic. So they gain ego inflation by giving instead of receiving. They are thrilled at feeling needed! So lean upon your wife more for advice, suggestions and favors!

a business executive. "Dr. Crane," he moaned, "we have been married for 6 years and I thought my wife was quite happy." "But last week I found a 'Dear John' letter on the table when I got home from the office." "She had run away with a shiftless salesman who talks a good line but could never support her as I have done." "But he would pour out his troubles to her and ask her-advice about everything he did. "Dr. Crane, I gave her a beautiful home and her own swanky car, plus a liberal monthly allowance check. "Yet she runs off and leaves me!" "How do you explain such illogical conduct?" "Hippies are also coddled youngsters whose parents have made all the sacrifices for them. Which deflates the ego of such recipients!" You have heard the old adage about "biting the hand that feeds you." The "biter" is usually a person whose ego has been chronically punctured by always "receiving" instead of "giving." Tad tried to surround his wife with luxuries and regarded her as a prize possession. She was thus a "kept" wife. But everybody at birth is tattooed with this invisible brand: "I WANT TO FEEL IMPORTANT."

Publish Article By Pitt Native

An article by a Greenville native, Mrs. Binnie Tate of Los Angeles, Calif., was published in the Oct. 15 issue of Library Journal, a national publication for persons in the field of library science. Mrs. Tate is the former Binnie Streeter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will Streeter of 402 Tyson St. She graduated from Eppes High School in 1950 and from N.C. Central University at Durham in 1954. She received her master of arts degree in library science from Albany State College in Albany, N.Y.

She moved to Los Angeles nine years ago and is employed by the Los Angeles Public Library. Mrs. Tate's three-page article deals with the authenticity of the image of blacks presented in children's books, and cites specific passages in a number of works to make her points. She contends that in many stories, racism is not explicit but fraught with negative connotations for any young child. According to Mrs. Tate, "White authors have permeated the field of black literature with books born of guilt and wish fulfillment. Good intentions are not enough, for inbred racism couple with 'out house' attitudes continue to negate and denigrate the black image and experience."

'A Great Trip'

JOLIET, Ill. (AP) — "Life—it's a great trip. Try it before it's too late," an 18-year-old youth wrote in a letter before he died during the weekend.

Coroner Willard Blood of Will County said the youth, Percy Patrick Pilon of Joliet, died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

In a letter released Monday by Blood at the request of Pilon's family, the youth urged others to "say no" if offered drugs.

"Drugs played a big part in ruining the last year of my life," the letter said. The dead youth said he had used many drugs, including LSD and amphetamines. The letter condemned drug pushers.

"Please, if you need help, get it," Pilon's note urged other drug users.

Prisoners Put Into Production

HONG KONG (UPI) — Prisoners in Hong Kong produced goods valued at 4 million Hong Kong dollars ($667,000 USU) in fiscal 1969. The prisoners, who are paid moderate wages, work at tailoring, shoemaking, laundering, rattanwork, metalwork, carpentry, painting, decorating, maintenance and minor construction.

U.S. Keeps 126 Bases In Japan

TOKYO (UPI) —The United States maintains 126 military bases, occupying about 76,500 acres, in Japan, the Japanese Self Defense Agency reports. This is a reduction in U.S.-occupied land of 16 per cent in the past two years the agency said, but pointed out that American base land totals about one-sixth the area of Tokyo and is 90 times bigger than the site of the 1970 world exposition in Osaka.

Public Notices

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA BOARD OF WATER AND AIR RESOURCES RALEIGH, NORTH CAROLINA LEGAL NOTICE
NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, pursuant to Article 21 of Chapter 143, General Statutes of North Carolina, as amended, that a public hearing will be held by the Water and Air Quality Committee of the North Carolina Board of Water and Air Resources concerning regulations and emission control standards proposed for adoption by the Board for the purpose of controlling air pollution in the State. The hearing is scheduled to be held on December 9, 1970, in the Governor's Conference Room, Administration Building, 116 West Jones Street, Raleigh, North Carolina, beginning at 10:00 a.m. (E.S.T.).

The regulations and emission control standards to be considered include registration of sources, sampling to determine compliance and the emission of odoriferous substances, suspended particulate matter, and sulfur dioxide. All persons interested in the proposed regulations and emission control standards are invited to attend the hearing and take part in the discussion. Persons desiring to be heard should notify the Board in writing on or before the date of the hearing. Written statements concerning the proposed action may be presented at the hearing or filed with the Board within thirty (30) days following the conclusion of the hearing. Copies of the proposed regulations and standards and additional information relative to the proposed action may be obtained upon request from the Air Quality Division, Department of Water and Air Resources, P.O. Box 27046, Raleigh, North Carolina 27611.
