Safety Board Chairman Says — Marshall Team's Jetliner Would Have Made It, If Had Been 10 Feet Higher

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — Federal investigators have found "no evidence of any particular problem" with a jetliner in which all 75 persons aboard, including most of the Marshall University football team, died in a fiery weekend crash.

This was reported Sunday by John D. Reed, chairman of the National Transportation Safety Board. He said there was no evidence so far of mechanical failure in the chartered Southern Airways twin-jet DC9 and no initial indication of pilot error.

Reed pledged to find the cause of the accident, the worst in American sports history. His investigation continues today and could last several months.

Returning to the Marshall team, coaches and followers from an afternoon game with East Carolina University at Greenville, N.C., the plane cut a swath through treetops before crashing into a hillside short of the Tri-State Airport runway Saturday night.

Besides 37 Marshall football players and 8 members of the coaching staff, the dead included several prominent Huntington citizens—three physicians, a newly elected state legislator, a past president of the Marshall alumni association and the university's dean of admissions.

Eight married couples, parents of 24 children, were killed. Coaches and some married players killed in the crash left 85 more children.

Today and Tuesday were declared days of mourning on the Marshall campus and throughout the city. Public offices and schools were closed.

A special FBI disaster team began today the task of identifying the charred remains of the 75 victims, brought to a temporary morgue established in an airport hangar.

"This town is dead," was the way one nurse described the grim silence that engulfed Huntington and the University campus.

Memorial services were held throughout the weekend. At one service, about 400 students and Huntington citizens — some weeping and on their knees — sang an African hymn, "Someone's singing, Lord, kumbaya... Someone's hurting, Lord, kumbaya... Someone's praying, Lord, kumbaya."

About 7,000, including West Virginia Gov. Arch A. Moore Jr., attended a Sunday night memorial service in the Marshall field house.

Calling the football players "beautiful young people," Moore said "These young people were our lives and we had looked to them for a future."

At a makeshift infirmary set up in another campus building, student friends of the crash victims were treated for shock.

The crash occurred about 7:40 p.m., after the DC9 clipped the tops of trees about 75 feet tall on a ridge some 100 feet higher than the airport runway.

"The airplane was shedding parts from the first impact," Reed said. "Ten feet higher and he would have made it. That's all he needed."

He said that 90 seconds before it crashed the plane was on target for a safe landing. He added that the pilot never reported any trouble in conversation with the Tri-State control tower.

Reed speculated that the pilot, descending through cloud cover estimated at 300 feet, might not have seen the ridge, which was not marked by warning lights.

He said it was three seconds from the time when the plane clipped the treetops until it plowed into the hillside, cartwheeled and exploded into flame.

Reed said those three seconds were marked by nothing but buzzing sounds on the plane's cockpit voice recorder, recovered intact Sunday along with instrument panels and a flight recorder.

Witnesses said about 15 bodies were scattered outside the wreckage, but most were inside, buried in piles of burning metal. The bodies inside were recovered Sunday when NTSB and National Guard teams removed the wreckage with bulldozers.

Officials asked relatives of the dead not to come to the temporary hangar morgue while the attempt to identify the bodies, expected to be a drawn-out process, is in progress.

Graydon Hall, president of Southern Airways, declined to speculate on the cause of the accident. He said a company team was investigating the crash independently.

An NTSB hearing is expected to be set for Huntington next month, but the board may not announce its findings until well into 1971.

Investigators said the first replay of the cockpit voice recording showed the last message from the crew reported the plane was over the first instrument landing service marker which sets out the proper approach to the airport.

The Federal Aviation Administration checked the marker beacons Sunday and said they were working properly. This equipment provides only center line guidance to keep a pilot from drifting right or left. It does not assist on altitude.

The ridge along the Big Sandy River rises 100 feet above the distant runway and its oak and poplar trees tower up another 75 feet. An FAA official said landing regulations for Tri-State required the plane to stay at least 400 feet up until it was over the airport threshold.

East Pakistan Toll Approaches 'One Of Worst'

DACCA, East Pakistan (AP) — Officials say 300,000 persons may have died in the cyclone and tidal waves in East Pakistan last Friday, making it one of history's greatest disasters.

Four islands 60 miles south of Dhaka in the Granges River Delta were lashed hardest by the 150-mile-an-hour winds and 20-foot waves from the Bay of Bengal.

Officials said so many were dead or missing that rescue teams were counting survivors, not the dead. Some sources said there appeared to be almost no survivors on at least one of the islands.

The 1961 census listed 1.4 million persons on the four islands Hatia, Ramagati, Charjabbar and Bhola but other sources estimated the population was less than half that when the storm hit.

However, there had been a recent influx of workers for the rice harvest.

The official death count rose to 15,943 Sunday night, but fatality estimates grew hourly from scores of reports. A former assemblyman said local officials indicated 65,000 had perished in Patuakhali district to the west of the four islands. A utility official said thousands of farmers were swept into the sea when a tidal wave roared over the 15-foot dam which had reclaimed the land on which they were living.

The area is a cyclone alley, with storms hitting almost every spring and fall and with huge tolls because of the lack of a warning system or of speedy transport for the masses of farmers and fishermen.

In June 1965, 30,000 perished in a cyclone there, and historians say 300,000 died in a storm and tidal waves in 1737. The greatest disaster recorded in history occurred in China's Honan Province in 1887, when a flood took 900,000 lives.

The head of the Pakistan Red Cross appealed for help to meet "the complete devastation in the offshore islands."

President Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan ordered army units into the area to restore communications and conduct evacuation and relief work. The United Nations, the International Red Cross, the United States and India offered relief aid.

Many islands and coastal districts were still cut off by high water.

One ship that may have gone down in the storm was the 5,500-ton Mahajagmitra, an Indian freighter that was en route from Calcutta to Kuwait with 49 men aboard. A shipping official said her last radio transmission said she was in the Bay of Bengal "in the proximity of a cyclone."

John P. East is a rare breed of college professor: As a teacher of political science, he is also a conservative. And he is troubled over the predominantly liberal political cast of faculties in American colleges and universities. In this series of articles, Professor East examines this dominance of liberalism on campuses, its effects, and the failures of conservatives to stake out a position of their own.

By JOHN P. EAST

AS THE NEW academic year moves forward on our country's campuses, Americans are hoping that the tragic violence of recent years is behind. Whether that hope is fulfilled or not, Americans are now awakened to the need of analyzing and understanding the academic world.

As an associate professor of political science and a member of the academic community, I have been close witness to forces that have been instrumental in campus unrest. One of these has been particularly disturbing, and an understanding of it is pertinent to putting into perspective the whole picture of rebellion against the country's university establishment.

This force is the prevailing "strongly conservative." The figures for the history faculties were approximately the same.

As a minimum, this means that nearly 72 per cent of our political science and history faculties are "liberal-left" in their political views, and only about 9 per cent are willing to accept the "conservative" label. Indeed, one suspects that the 16.2 per cent who answer to the label "middle of the road" are probably "liberal", for the terms are often used interchangeably.

In any case, the liberal-left dominance is clear.

Underscoring this liberal-left dominance is some of the material I receive as a professor of political science. Obviously, the senders, after obtaining lists of college and university faculties from various sources, mail out the material on the valid assumption that the recipients would be of a liberal-left persuasion.

For example, periodically I receive a letter from Robert M. Hutchins, president of the strongly liberal Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, inviting me to join "the Center", and to receive The Center Magazine. An attached brochure informs the reader that tapes of center convocations are available for "regular use in

Marshall U. Disaster Felt By Many On East Carolina Campus

"It was such a large group to be killed," East Carolina University co-captain Steve Davis said yesterday afternoon referring to the crash which killed 75, including the Marshall University football team Saturday night.

Marshall was returning home after losing to East Carolina 17-14 in Ficklen Stadium Saturday afternoon when the fatal crash occurred just two miles short of the runway. The Tri-State Airport, where the crash happened, is not equipped with radar and Federal Aviation Agency investigators believe the plane was coming in too low.

"There is a corresponding person on our team or in our group for everyone who was killed," David added. "It's so easy to identify with them."

Members of the Pirate team had just attended a memorial service held on the ECU campus Sunday afternoon in Wright Auditorium, at which over 1,000 attended.

Those who took part included Dr. Leo Jenkins, president of the university; Jack Patterson, a member of the team; Robert Morgan, chairman of the board of trustees; Mike McGee, head football coach; and Bob Whitley, SGA president.

Music was provided by a vocal group and a string ensemble.

It was the second service members of the football team had attended. They also held a private 2 a.m. service on Sunday morning.

A total of 75 persons were killed in the crash, including athletic director Charles E. Kautz, head football coach Rick Tolley, several assistant coaches, 37 players, and a number of supporters, along with the crew of five. The plane was a Southern Airways DC-9 jet which had a 95-passenger capacity.

East Carolina's team had twice flown with Southern this year, once to Toledo, Ohio, and the other time to Canyon, Texas. The Texas trip had been aboard a 95-passenger jet, but it was not known whether it was the same plane.

The game was the last home appearance of the Pirates this year. They have one more game scheduled, against Davidson on November 28 on the Wildcats' campus. Marshall was to have closed its season this Saturday against Ohio University.

Following the Greenville memorial service, Dr. Jenkins, McGee and co-captains Davis and George Whitley, along with Attorney General Morgan, assistant Coach Jerry McGee and several others flew to Huntington to attend a memorial service there, returning afterwards.

McGee said this morning that the Huntington area and the Marshall Campus is still in a state of complete shock. "It really hits you hard," he said. "We sat behind the survivors of the people on the plane. There were more than 200 there. It was hard to realize that everyone of them had lost a son, a brother, a husband, or a father."

McGee said that the Pirate team held a private meeting following the memorial service in Greenville and dedicated the game ball from the Marshall game to one of the surviving members of the team who did not make the trip because of an injury.

Other memorials are also being planned.

The immediate reaction of the Pirate team members was one of disbelief Saturday night when they learned the news of the crash. "Someone came to my room and told me the plane had crashed," Davis said. "I said, 'you're joking,' but then I saw his face and knew he wasn't."

"From then on," he added, "I couldn't get the feeling of contact with them out of my mind. I keep seeing the face of the player across the line from me."

Another member of the team, Rich Peeler, expressed the same feelings. "I remember the guy across the line from me smiling

Congress Today Begins Post-Election Session

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is reconvening today for its first post-election session in 19 years, short on time but long on politics and problems.

From this morning's senate Democratic caucus on an effort to override President Nixon's veto of a bill limiting broadcast campaign spending to the administration's welfare reform measure, the calendars are crowded with controversial business.

With members aiming for adjournment by Christmas, there is little time for the 91st Congress to put its affairs in order before giving way to the 92nd Congress.

And while Republicans managed a two-seat election gain in their Senate minority, Democrats will enjoy a bonus seat for the duration of the lame-duck session.

When Sen. elect Adlai E. Stevenson III of Illinois is certified the election winner, probably by the end of the week, he will succeed Republican Ralph T. Smith, and the Senate lineup will become 58 Democrats, 42 Republicans.

Stevenson takes over at once because he was elected to the unexpired term of the late Everett M. Dirksen.

When the 92nd Congress convenes Jan. 4, the senate lineup is expected to be 55 democratic votes, 45 Republican.

That prospect itself may make for trouble in the lame-duck session: on some closely contested issues, Republicans might prefer a delay, to take advantage of their gains.

Actually, 10 members of the current Senate and 51 in the House are lame-duck legislators; their service ends with this session. Their presence might be troublesome as well, since they might not go along with the party discipline.

There are seven major appropriations bills awaiting action. They cover the fiscal year that began last July 1; Congress could, by resolution, continue the spending authority of the agencies involved into the new year.

With President Nixon claiming an ideological majority in the new Senate, he might prefer that some spending decisions be put off until next year.

Appropriations for education and housing, which have led to Nixon vetoes, are among those awaiting action.

So is the giant defense money bill.

A bill providing a 10 per cent increase in Social Security benefits is likely to be the platform for a showdown over Nixon's controversial welfare reform program.

State And Area Dignitaries Attend Humber Rites

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Dr. Robert Lee Humber was buried Sunday afternoon in the family plot in Cherry Hill Cemetery under the spreading branches of a huge oak tree. The late November sun broke through the clouds as the two ministers conducting the service paid final tribute to a man who in his lifetime was a living symbol of dedication to his fellow men.

Memorial services were held at 3:30 p.m. in Memorial Baptist Church on Greene Street, where

Dr. Humber had been a member.

Rev. Robert Seymour, minister of Memorial Baptist Church in Chapel Hill and Rev. Norman Bennett, minister of the local church, jointly conducted the service.

In his statement of Thanksgiving for the life and service of Dr. Humber, Seymour quoted the last words ever written by Dr. Humber as part of his tribute to the late humanitarian.

On Tuesday, the day of his death, Dr. Humber had written two paragraphs as part of a preface to a book he had hoped to write. "Our age seeks peace, but it breeds war. It holds human life to be sacred, but it slaughters men by the millions. It promotes generously well being, but it multiplies unscrupulously victims of distress and agony. It enhances the assets of the living, but destroys the heritage of the past. It proclaims justice, but it tolerates iniquities. It pays homage to eternal truths, but it desecrates their integrity with impunity."

"Herein lies our dilemma: the discrepancy between our profession and our practice, the inconsistency between our faith and our works. One authority of preeminent greatness has said that faith without works is dead. It is this chasm between human desire and human performance which commands priority in our action. It transcends every other consideration in our (time)."

Rev. Bennett, in his pastoral prayer of comfort, spoke of Dr. Humber's "wide-ranging humanitarian concerns, his pursuit of world peace and brotherhood among men," and observed that "unnumbered are the persons who have been touched meaningfully by this world citizen."

General Robert Morgan; Congressman Walter B. Jones; Site Treasurers Edwin Gill; East Carolina University president Dr. Leo Jenkins; Greenville Mayor Frank M. Wooten, Jr. and Former Mayor Eugene West; and Dr. Albert Coates, founder of the N.C. Institute of Government, at Chapel Hill.

Representatives from the arts included playwright Paul Green, N.C. Symphony Orchestra conductor Dr. Benjamin Swain; Dr. Justus Bier, Charles Stanford, and Ben Williams, all of the North Carolina Museum of Art; artists Dr. Francis Speight and Joe King; and several members of the Board of Trustees of the North Carolina Museum of Art—Mrs. James Semans, Mrs.

George Paschal, Egbert Davis, Smith Bagley, and Mrs. L. Y. Ballentine.

Other out-of-town persons attending the funeral were Mrs. Dan Moore; Mr. and Mrs. John Kellenberger, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. McDaniel Lewis and William H. Stephenson.

Members of the Citizens Awareness Committee, with whom Dr. Humber worked last year during the crisis at Rose High School attended as a group to pay their final respects — co-chairman John Taylor; Father Hugh Mulholland; Benny Rountree, Mrs. Jack Wilkerson, Mrs. Jean Darden, and Dr. Malene Irons were among others of the committee present at the memorial service.

Eagle Badge To 2 Pitt Scouts

STEVE FUCHS

JACK S. WARREN, Jr.

STOKES — Two Stokes youths were yesterday awarded the coveted Eagle Scout Award in ceremonies held at the Stokes Methodist Church. Eagle Scout is given for outstanding achievement in various phases of the Scouting program.

Steve Fuchs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Fuchs of Stokes, is a three-year member of Scout Troop 491, sponsored by the Stokes Ruritan Club. Steve received the award from Scoutmaster Hubert Leggett. Local scouting official Heber Adams, a Roundtable Commissioner, also took part in the presentation.

The young Eagle recipient currently serves as patrol leader for one of the two patrols in his troop. He has earned 21 merit badges while engaged in scouting, and is a member of the Order of Arrow.

Fuchs is a ninth grade student at North Pitt High School. He has attended Camp Charles for two years.

The second scout receiving the award yesterday was Jack S. Warren, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack S. Warren, Sr.

Presentation of the award was made by his Scoutmaster, Hubert Leggett. Heber Adams and Bob Moseley also took part in the ceremony.

Blood Serum Gonorrhea Test Soon Available

NEW YORK (AP) — A blood serum test that can detect gonorrhea in most women carriers will soon be available in the United States, Surgeon General Jesse L. Steinfeld says.

Steinfeld said Sunday the Public Health Service expects the serologic test to detect 80 per cent of female carriers.

In an address to a meeting of the American Social Health Association — which recently put the 1969 gonorrhea case total at nearly two million — Steinfeld said the disease now ranks first among reportable communicable diseases in the nation.

Of the 164,000 women routinely screened in a variety of clinics last year, he said, one in 10 was found to have the disease.

Syphilis is now the fourth-ranked communicable disease, the surgeon general added.

for four years and has begun preparation on programs to earn the God and Country Award. He is a member of Troop 491 and has earned a total of 22 merit badges in his Scout work.

Warren currently serves as patrol leader of one of the two patrols in Stokes, and has attended Camp Charles and Camp Bonner. The 15 year old Scout is a sophomore at Rose High School and is a member of Stokes Baptist Church.

N.C. Traffic Killed Eight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The North Carolina Highway Patrol says at least eight persons were killed in traffic accidents in the state during the weekend.

These fatalities pushed the Tar Heel state's highway toll for the year to 1,469, compared to 1,576 during the corresponding period of last year.

Troopers said the weekend victims included:

Myron Edward Barger, 47, of Rt. 2, Rockwell; Oscar Ray Johnson, 18, of Rt. 4, Clinton; Faye Pink Palmer, 30, of Rt. 2, Siler City; and Norma, Elwood Clifford, 26, of Rt. 1, Stokesdale.

Also, Fannie Best, 22, of Rt. 3, Seven Springs; Cayton Elliott Ward, 18, of Hendersonville; Goldie Taylor Jr., 26, of Hendersonville, and Timothy Wayne Reid, 25, of Mebane.

The weekend highway death count period extends from 6 p.m. Friday until midnight Sunday.

Find Spectators With Weapons

CHICAGO (AP)—Sheriff's deputies searching spectators to weekend court sessions in the criminal courts building confiscated 200 knives and 20 cans of disabling chemical spray Sunday, police reported.

Since a courtroom shootout recently in which a prisoner was killed, the deputies have been ordered to search everyone entering a courtroom.

Normally about 200 weapons are confiscated each weekday, a sheriff's deputy said, but Sunday's catch was "unusually high" for a weekend.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠A996 ♥AQ104 ♦QJ105 ♣6

The bidding has proceeded:

East South West North

1 ♣ Dble. Pass 1 ♥

What do you bid now?

A.—Two hearts. That's enough.

This appears to be a strong hand, but you must not lose sight of the fact that you forced partner to bid and he may have nothing.

If partner has any definite values, he will bid again after your single raise. If he does, you may then contract for game.

Q. 2—Both sides vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AK763 ♥83 ♦AQ107 ♣84

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♣ Pass 2 ♥ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Two spades. Despite the fact that you may have more than a minimum, no other bid is available. The hand is not strong enough to rebid at the level of three. Such a call requires considerable excess values.

Q. 3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠AKJ10 ♥AQJ754 ♦2 ♣A5

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 ♣ Pass Pass 2 ♣

3 ♣ Pass Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—A mere bid of three hearts is the proper call. Your cue bid of two clubs was an absolute demand for game, and partner is not permitted to pass at this point, regardless of how emaciated a hand he may hold.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠K102 ♥KQJ53 ♦K8 ♣A93

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South

1 ♥ Pass ?

What do you bid?

A.—Your hand is worth 17 points in support of partner's heart bid, which renders it too good for a three heart response, for which the limit is 16 points, but not quite good enough for a jump shift, which requires 19 points. You must, therefore, be content temporarily to improvise a bid, and the recommended call is two clubs.

"Dr. Humber was an advocate of every forward looking improvement in North Carolina," Rev. Seymour said. He called him a citizen concerned with the "enrichment of life and the quality of spirit," and noted that Dr. Humber would likely prefer to be remembered "for his efforts to establish world understanding and peace. He was a tireless crusader for peace, a citizen of the world."

Leaders from North Carolina and the local area were on hand to join in final tribute to Dr. Humber. Former Governor, now president of Duke University Terry Sanford; Attorney

Jobless Youth Rate Is Growing

CHICAGO (AP) — David L. Daniel, Cook County's public aid director, reports that the unemployment rate among youths seeking summer employment soared to 15.7 per cent over 12.8 per cent a year ago.

For Black youths unemployment rose from 24.6 per cent in 1969 to 30.2 per cent in the summer of 1970.

"But," Daniel said, "experience with finding jobs for 16 to 21-year-olds was better in 1970."

He said his agency's youth unit referred 1,065 youngsters for jobs in 1969 and in 1970 1,695. A total of 379 youngsters obtained jobs, compared with 330 in the previous year. Fewer were able to get jobs on their own than in 1969, with 94 being successful compared with 79 in 1970.

She Teaches Kids To Cook

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press food Editor

Aileen Paul says that a main rule in cooking applies whether a cook is 6 or 61. And Aileen should know because she has taught both children and adults to cook.

The youngsters come to classes in her New Jersey home, and they're school children from the first through the seventh grade. The grown-ups attended her "Party Food" adult-education class in a New Jersey high school.

Aileen's rule is "Don't attempt too much." Both small fry and oldsters are likely to get flustered if the cooking schedule is a hectic one.

Co-author of the recently published "Kids Cooking—A First Cookbook For Children" (Doubleday), Aileen learned how to teach children to cook by teaching her own youngsters. She is married to former child movie star Freddie Bartholomew and they have three children. Now her two youngest, Katie and Frederick Bartholomew, Jr., are teen-agers and they act as assistants in Aileen's classes for children.

Aileen says that she has found it practical to teach no more than six children at a time, and even then she divides them up. While three of the youngsters are in the kitchen cooking, the other three are in the dining room, each working on a "cookbook." They use construction paper for covers, do art work and copy the recipes Aileen provides until it's their turn to cook. At the end of the course the children proudly take their cookbooks home.

Writing a cookbook for children needs special care and Aileen Paul Bartholomew has done a great job in working out a cookbook that children can really use. All her recipes start with "Here's What You Need" and go on to "Here's What You Do." The ingredients are listed in the order in which they are used and the directions for "doing" are in proper sequence.

"Kids Cooking" is divided into six parts: breakfast dishes; lunch dishes; dinner dishes; party foods; snacks; and finally a section devoted to regional cooking. Because Aileen has concentrated on dishes children really like, the chances are that any child will relish this practical collection of do-it-yourself recipes.

Here's a recipe for Frosted Peanut Bars adapted from "Kids Cooking." The original recipe is written in a style suitable for children; this adaptation is adult-style. After testing the recipe, we cut the cookies into bars, wrapped them in transparent plastic film and refrigerated them; they stayed on the crisp side for a couple of days.

We liked this crisp texture, but your youngsters may enjoy these bar cookies just as much when, after a few days, they soften.

AILEEN PAUL'S FROSTED PEANUT BUTTER BARS
1 cup unsifted flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ cup granulated sugar
½ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1 cup quick-cooking oatmeal
1-3rd cup peanut butter
½ cup (¼-pound stick) butter or margarine, at room temperature
1 large egg, slightly beaten

Peanut Butter Frosting, see below

Generously grease a baking pan (13 by 9 by 2 inches).

In a large mixing bowl thoroughly stir together the flour and baking soda; stir in sugars and oatmeal. Add peanut butter, butter and egg; with fingers or mixing spoon, mix until crumbly. Press into prepared pan.

Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean—about 25 minutes. Place on wire rack until cold.

Cover top with Peanut Butter Frosting; refrigerate until frosting is set; cut in bars; remove with a small metal spatula.

Hubby's Had His Fling, Time To Sulk

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am in desperate need of some good advice, sound explanations, and if possible, some encouragement.

My husband, age 50 and I, 49, have been married for 26 years. It's been an ideal marriage in all respects. We have been lovers and best friends and have raised a fine family. He has a top job with his company. Everything has been beautiful.

About a year and a half ago he became involved (he says not seriously) with his secretary who is married. He seemed surprised that I was hurt. He said he couldn't possibly "love" anyone of her type, that he was just having "fun." It is over now because he became worried about jeopardizing his career.

I have tried to get over it, but I can't, because of his attitude which I cannot understand. He seems extremely preoccupied. He seldom laughs or smiles. He acts indifferently toward me—yet he says he "loves" me. Can you offer any advice or hope?

NO NAME, PLS.

DEAR NO NAME: If he says he loves you, believe him. He is probably sulking for a number of reasons: He could be a little depressed at having to give up his "toy." (The other woman.)

He may be worried that someone in his company might have caught on which means he wasn't as discreet as he should have been. And he probably feels guilty for having hurt you. Now, tell him you love him, too, and he'd better snap out of it.

DEAR ABBY: I can't keep quiet any longer about my problem. I would like you to tell me, Dear Abby, what is the correct amount for a tip?

I am a waitress in Dover, Del. It's not the most exclusive restaurant in Dover, but it is a nice place. I make only 75 cents an hour plus tips, so you can see, I need the tips.

Some people are so cheap about tipping, you wouldn't believe it. I think if people can afford to go out to eat, they can afford to leave a decent tip. What do you consider a decent tip, Abby?

WAITRESS

DEAR WAITRESS: The customary average tip is between 15 and 20 per cent of the bill. But I happen to feel that if the service is better than average, the waitress should be rewarded with a better-than-average tip. And for service below average—same deal.

DEAR ABBY: An item in your column caught my eye. It was from a woman who said she was Italian and her husband was Irish so "naturally" they fought a lot. After one of their fights she packed up and went to her mother's, and her crazy Irish husband put an ad in the local paper saying, "MARIE, PLEASE COME HOME. THE DOG MISSES YOU!" You said you thought it was hilarious. Well, so did I, but that's not why I'm writing.

I happen to be an Irish woman who is married to a humorless Italian man. Every time we have a fight, he packs up and runs to his older sister's. I would like to have an Irish husband with a sense of humor who can enjoy a good old-fashioned Irish fight without putting for a week.

So, tell Marie I will trade her, sight unseen, my spaghetti and meat balls for her ham and cabbage.

"IRISH"

DEAR ABBY: My heart goes out to that widower who feels trapped by a conniving widow.

I, too, am in my sixties, and since losing my husband several years ago, I have met more and more widows, and I can tell you, I have grown more and more disgusted with them each year.

Abby, they can't wait to read the obituaries every day to see whose wife has died so they can get a head start on going after the husband.

Creativity

Where do the designs for our footwear come from? Fashion emanates from everywhere and everything — art, the theater, politics, New York, Paris, the world. It is international and universal — a give-and-take proposition. We take from the Europeans and they take from us. It is a necessary exchange.

This is especially true in the shoe industry. Creativity and originality come from many peoples, places and things.

It is the designer who takes the best of these ideas and interprets them for his own company and his own customers. Of course, all designers, whether they be European or American, have their own original ideas or they would not be designers. They would merely be copyists.

It is this originality that makes our shoes a fashionable creation.

There Is A Kinship In Sadness

East Carolina University and all the Greenville area were plunged into mourning at the deaths of Marshall University football players, the staff and supporters in a plane Saturday night.

There was a feeling of disbelief on the campus and in the city when first reports that the team, which had been playing on the Ficklen Stadium field only a few hours before, was involved in the tragic crash.

At The Daily Reflector office the first report came from a West Virginia newspaper which called to verify that the team had left on a Southern Airways DC-9 jet. A short time later news services teletypes sent out stories which confirmed that the plane which crashed was the one carrying the Marshall team.

Soon athletic officials from East Carolina University, shocked and saddened, gathered in The Daily Reflector news room to issue statements to the calling news organizations. For them it was a grim and helpless time.

On the campus and throughout the city there was a feeling among all our citizens that someone we had known had died in the crash. Even though most of us had never met the people from Huntington, many had seen the team play during the afternoon. And, anyway, they had only shortly before been visitors in our city.

Greenville had been touched by football tragedy previously this year. East Carolina played West Texas State University the week after they played Wichita State, and that very weekend, the Wichita State team went down in a plane crash. In another tragedy a young man from Wilmington died from injuries received in a football game with Rose High, also at Ficklen Stadium.

The crash of the jet plane carrying the Marshall team and supporters brought great sadness to all of us in Greenville. A fine group of young men, who had played their best against the Pirates here, were no more. The students and staff at Marshall and the families involved have all our thoughts and sympathies during this trying time.

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — Democratic leadership in North Carolina is gearing to keep the momentum of election victory and move into a more decisive role in national party affairs.

The practical goal is a voice in the selection of the 1972 Presidential candidate. The glimmering possibility

The first party pow-wow in the wake of the election comes December 3, when the 280-plus members of the State Democratic Executive Committee will meet in Raleigh.

Key Party Matters
On the agenda is consideration of two further recommendations from the study committee on reorganization, plus the formal installation of party officials.

Reorganization calls for three vice chairmen, representing blacks, women and under-30 youth. The outlook is that Mayor Howard Lee of Chapel Hill will be tapped for the first position, and that Mrs. Margaret S. Harper of Southport will repeat in the second. L. D. Hyde of Asheville has aged out as youth vice chairman, and his replacement is undetermined.

Both of the study recommendations to come before the committee deal with '72 politics. One would provide for selection of delegates to the National Convention, assuring more balanced representation for all party elements. The other proposes a presidential preferential primary for North Carolina. The decision on the primary is up to the legislature, and certain to be considered there regardless of what the Democratic executive committee does. However, the committee's stamp would boost chances for favorable legislative action.

Closer National Ties
Rapport with the national party, encouraged by Governor Scott, is a sharp contrast with its stance in 1968. At that time, running for governor, he kept an arm's length attitude.

As '72 approaches, he stands in an enviable position to participate in party events on the national scene. He is chairman of the Democratic caucus of the National scene. He is chairman of the Democratic caucus of the National Governors Conference. Post-election, that means 27 of the 50 governors. He is in excellent position to be elected the next chairman of the National Governors Conference.

He is on good terms with O'Brien as national chairman. He has met with Senator Edward Muskie of Maine, regarded as a front-rank possibility for the Presidential nomination, and is known to have been impressed.

Scott also has made known his willingness to consider a place on the national ticket, should such a possibility emerge.

The feeling in State Democratic headquarters is that something's rolling. They aim to keep it going.

No Question As To Its Inflationary Effects

There can be little doubt that the estimated $2.5 Billion union settlement with General Motors is inflationary.

Sources estimated that the settlement amounts to $1.80 or $1.90 hourly over three years.

It appears from the settlement that the union won most of what it wanted, even though it had been predicted that a settlement on the scale requested by the union would contribute to the nation's inflation spiral.

Be that as it may, the settling of the strike will mean that the huge General Motors will soon be back in production and this should in itself help stabilize the economy. If the strike had lasted much longer it could have had disastrous effects.

Bad Prognosis Seen For Chile

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Six guerrillas arrested in Bolivia for leftist revolutionary activity were quietly put in a plane and sent to Chile last week, more evidence contradicting Pollyanna talk — here and in Latin America — that the new Chilean government may evolve into a peaceful Marxist democracy.

Bolivia's recently installed leftist military junta wanted no part of the three Chilean and three Bolivian revolutionaries. The new Chilean and three Bolivian revolutionaries. The new Chilean regime of President Salvador Allende, first Marxist government ever to gain power through free elections, was more than glad to accept them.

This transaction tends to confirm the worst fears of many Latin American experts here about Marxist Chile's future. Revolutionary activists from all over South America are expected to flow into Chile. Moreover, some serious analysts believe guerrilla training camps soon will spring up in the countryside.

The fact that Dr. Allende publicly disclaims any desire to turn Chile into a continental staging point for revolution is irrelevant. The experts believe that radical elements in the governing Marxist coalition will set up training camps whether Allende likes it or not. Indeed, there is real doubt whether the 62-year-old president can himself control the Chilean future. In that context, high-level debate inside the U.S. government over whether Allende is a committed Democrat is beside the point. Those who know Chile best are sadly confident the country has seen its last free election no matter what Allende believes. When his term expires in six years, they predict, effective political opposition will have vanished.

This melancholy prognosis is intertwined with ironies. No Latin American country had obeyed the social-reform tenets of the Alliance for Progress more than Chile's Christian Democratic regime of 1964-1970. Because of un-Latin fastidiousness about constitutionalism, Chilean anti-Communists did not employ either parliamentary or military weapons to keep Allende from power after finishing first (with a 36 percent vote) in the Sept. 4 election.

The irony extends to Washington. After giving Chile's Christian Democratic regime the highest per capita aid in Latin America, the U.S. is now powerless there. Uncle Sam can only keep his mouth shut and hope, without much conviction.

But the most galvanizing irony of all is the hope by top U.S. policymakers, that the well-organized Communist party, which is to the right of Allende's Socialist party in the ruling coalition, may itself be a moderating influence. Perhaps prodded by Moscow, the Communists

GAMES
How are they coming? Did you see that game yesterday? I'd say it's a toss-up between those two teams.

And so goes the conversation endlessly. But can you imagine anything more wonderful for a nation to be devoted to than the games which appear on TV? In ancient Rome a considerate parent bought tickets for the Coliseum and took his kids to watch gladiators kill one another. In fact, when Rome was finally entered and taken over by an enemy practically nobody left the Coliseum to see what the excitement was about. They were watching something real. Spilled blood and cries of anguish. Once in a while hungry lions were let in, especially on these strange people called Christians who got all the persecution Rome could give them for several centuries.

And now how wonderful it is that our generation gives so much time and enthusiastic support to games, especially those presented on television.

This age in which we live is a mixture of good and bad. The good arises out of many wholesome tastes we have. The evil arises out of persistent war, poverty and hunger among an amazing percentage of our population in an era rich with good things to enjoy. The statement that we advance twelve inches and fall back eleven is a good description of our times. Still, a little progress. Certainly we should expect this in the most sophisticated generation humanity has ever known. By Earl L. Douglass

Uncovering FBI Agents

WASHINGTON — In the past month we have seen 15 FBI agents drop out of the John Jay College of Criminal Justice in New York because a professor made critical remarks about J. Edgar Hoover, the FBI's stalwart leader.

Following this, 11 FBI employees were ordered to drop out of the course on "Violence in America" at American University because the professor there cast aspersions on Mr. Hoover's leadership.

There will probably be more of this as time goes on, and it is conceivable that every university in the country could soon be on J.

Edgar Hoover's black list. What isn't generally known is that there is a conspiracy among university professors to criticize J. Edgar Hoover publicly. This is why they're doing it. It is assumed that the FBI has planted undercover agents in all the major universities in the country. These undercover agents look

Other Editors Say Any Other Name

(Henderson Dispatch)

In some quarters, both State and local, there is agitation for counties to vote an extra one cent sales tax, which would be added to the present statewide three percent excise to make it four cents.

Some counties last year voted the extra penny locally, and some of those which didn't are being urged now to do so. Vance did not have an election on the issue, which was authorized by the 1969 Legislature.

Those who are advocating the extra levy are fearful that it might be much more popular now than a year ago. There is agitation also, or at least discussion, of adding the one percent statewide with the extra revenue produced and collected by the Revenue Department returned to the counties.

It is claimed that the counties are hard pressed for money. Well, who isn't? And if individuals are compelled to get along on what they have why not local governments as well? One can wonder if counties generally vote the extra tax then municipalities will come along soon thereafter for a special sales tax to provide them with more money.

All branches of government appear to be in a squeeze for greater revenue. They could all find a place to spend it if they had it would all come from the pockets of the people, since in the long run there is nowhere else it can be had. After all, whether a sales excise or what have you, a tax is a tax by whatever designation.

Governments at all levels are too expensive. Little by little and here and there new ways of spending public funds are being found and the public is told that the sky will fall without it. It is still a good argument that taxpayers are deserving of consideration somewhere along the way, though they attract little attention.

Various methods of getting more revenue from the people are already being discussed among legislators. The Government has said he would not ask for increased taxes, but added that his successor may have to call for higher levies to get more money to spend. At the same time, the Revenue Department reports increased income, and a sizable surplus is building up. It's a fair guess that the Legislature will levy more taxes if the lawmakers can be sure the public will stand for them.

Little Protection From Quotas

By ELMER ROESSNER
A study of voluntary steel quotas by the Cleveland Federal Reserve Bank's Economic Review leads to these deductions:

Voluntary quota systems don't work very well. Markets lost because of a strike can be lost for a long time.

These points are significant in view of current efforts to set quotas on textile imports to avert barriers by law against imports, and the treat of a steel strike next summer.

Until 1959, when a 116-day steel strike increased steel imports into the United States, this country has always been a net exporter of steel. We haven't been since and in 1968 foreign steel makers had 16.7 per cent of the American market.

The cause and effect was obvious. Higher steel wages in the U.S. made foreign steel cheaper even after transoceanic shipping. In addition, foreign producers demanded long-term commitments.

We Take Inventory Licking
Previous to the steel labor negotiations in 1965 and 1968, steel users, fearing a strike, increased their inventories. When labor contracts were settled, users worked off their inventories. This cut American production. But foreign suppliers had long-term orders and they kept pouring in steel while many U.S. steel workers remained idle.

While the Cleveland Federal did not predicting, it is apparent that the same thing can happen in 1971.

The situation led to demands for high tariffs to restrict the inflow of foreign steel. To avert this, the European Coal and Steel Community, consisting of Italy, France, West Germany, Belgium, Luxembourg and Holland, and Japan in December 1968 filed letters with the State Department agreeing to limit steel exports to the United States in 1970 and 1971 to the amount and mix of steel exports to the U.S. in 1968.

Others steel exporters were advised to follow the same pattern.

Total Okay, Mix Nix
The tonnage quotas have been fairly well observed. The ECSC shipped less in 1969 because of high demand in other markets; Japan shipped more because of demand for oil pipe in Alaska which American mills could not meet. The tonnage quotas have been followed so far this year.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

The smaller a midget is, the greater are his problems. Two of the problems that annoy midgets in Manhattan most are bumping their foreheads on subway turnstiles and trying to post a letter in mailboxes placed too high for their reach.

I never met a man who liked apricots who had been a very good athlete in his youth. It has always seemed to me that apricots are more of a food for women than men, as are asparagus and artichokes. A woman enjoys eating artichokes because she can make a ritual of the movement of her hands without really getting much done to improve her character, better her nutrition, or reveal her defects. A man feels that eating an artichoke is simply an investment in time-wasting.

Anything a man does under the impulse of envy alone is bound to make him more miserable when it's all over.

An honest man is one who can go through his life and never steal an umbrella or a ball point pen — or claim credit for first telling a good joke.

An honest man also is one who can brag about getting a bargain at wholesale and later admit publicly he had been skinned and made a fool of.

Never lend money to a guy who offers you a dime cigar before trying to borrow $100 from you.

The greatest killjoy to girl watchers is the first secretary in the office who shows up wearing a suit with pants. Sooner or later all the other girls will imitate her — and then everybody loses.

The best thing ever said about Manhattan's colorful and sign-filled Times Square was G. K. Chesterton's comment about how lovely it would look to someone who couldn't read.

A true philosopher is the office straw boss who advocates longer coffee breaks on the grounds that the hired hands make fewer costly mistakes during them than between them.

Show me a man who always extends a helping hand to others, and I'll show you a guy with a numb arm.

Now that the ladies are beginning to adopt maxiskirts, what male hero will make an attempt to revive spats?

One of the things we can all feel thankful for is that Thanksgiving Day comes before Christmas. If it came a week later, it would be tarred and feathered and ridden out of town on a rail.

By LEROY JAMES

If history is any indication of what the future holds, the dairy industry in 1980 will be fortunate if the demand for milk and milk products is equivalent to last year's market. Unless there is a significant slow-down in the decline in per capita consumption, the demand for milk in 1980 could be five to seven percent below the 1969 level.

For years, too little attention has been devoted to the market-share concept as it relates to the marketing of milk. Between 1950 and 1969, the population in the United States increased 34 percent; per capita consumption of all dairy products declined 26 percent. But as long as milk sales were near or above those of the previous year, per capita trends were frequently considered another statistic. Then the increased in population failed to offset the decline in per capita consumption, and in 1969, milk usage dropped to its lowest level since the late 1940's in this country.

The drop in per capita consumption has not been as sharp for fluid milk as it has for all dairy products. Throughout the 1970's, the industry probably can count on an expanding market for fluid items; however, the composition of the fluid market is changing daily.

In a study of 20 markets for the period 1966, to 1968, the sales of whole milk fell four percent, increasing in only five of the 20 markets. For all U.S. markets, whole milk sales in 1969 were equivalent to the 1961 level.

Low-fat and skim milk sales were in all of the 20 markets in 1968, as compared to 1966.

The shift to these products will continue. Comprising over one-half of today's population, those 25 years of age and under exhibit food preferences favoring low-calorie and low-fat milks. Largely because of the expected growth in low-fat and skim milk sales and the projected rise in population, the 1980 market for fluid milk products should have a demand higher than that of 1969.

In recent years, approximately one-half of the milk marketed by dairymen has been utilized in manufactured milk products. Last year, an estimated 53 percent of the milk marketed was used in manufacturing channels. There is no indication that this trend will change.

This capsule analysis of the market for milk in 1980 should not be interpreted as implying that the future will be bleak for

Buchwald

(Continued from page 4) was trying to show that bad news does not necessarily bring criticism from government. He said that as far as his statistics showed, there hasn't been a year when the FBI did not report a rise in crime in the United States, and each time it did, Mr. Hoover received congratulations from the President.

Two radical students in his class broke into tears and announced they could no longer stay in school. It was a blow to everyone, because one of the undercover agents had just been elected president of the SDS and had been in charge of an antiwar demonstration in Gov. Reagan's office.

Well, these two incidents suddenly made professors all over the country realize that the easiest way to spot an FBI undercover agent was to criticize J. Edgar Hoover.

And so professors are now waging a campaign to make remarks about the head of the FBI.

The FBI knows, of course, what is happening, but they're caught in a bind. If they keep their agents on campus to catch the people responsible for student violence, they will be exposing FBI employees to defamatory remarks about Mr. Hoover.

So far the FBI has left it up to the individual agents to decide whether to stay or leave. But they're proud that in every case so far when someone has sullied J. Edgar Hoover's name, the FBI undercover agent has indignantly dropped out of school.

the dairyman. There will continue to be a good market but not necessarily a growing market. The U.S. Dairy industry is one of the nation's largest businesses. In 1968, dairying ranked second in farm cash receipts.

During the 1970 decade, the growth in population will provide the dairy industry with the greatest marketing asset; namely, a potential market. For many years, however, the industry has been confronted with a decreasing demand for milk. Whether the industry can take full advantage of the potential market will depend upon many factors including consumption patterns, availability of substitutes, quality, price, and aggressive marketing.

In the immediate future, opportunities for increased sales of dairy products will center mainly in the Southeast, Southwest and Western regions. It is in these areas that gains in population and income have been above the average for the United States in recent years.

Tobacco TIPS

By SAM J. WEEKS.

Sixty-five percent of the tobacco soils in this area that have been analyzed for lime requirements in recent years, showed a need for additional lime application. Twenty-five on-the-farm tests have been conducted during the past three years to measure the effect of different rates of lime on yield, value, and price of tobacco. Each field selected for the tests had received a recommendation based on a soil analysis for 1000 to 2000 pounds of dolomitic lime per acre. To study the effects of liming, treatments of no lime, 1000, 2000 and 4000 pounds of lime per acre were applied.

The results of these tests showed that when the soil was properly limed (when needed) it improved the value per acre about $27. This $27 increase in value per acre may appear to be small; however, in view of costs of applying lime, the net return on investment is more than enough to justify its use. The benefits of lime last over a number of years and this fact makes the return on investment more attractive.

Crop rotation is a most desirable tobacco production practice. The wide use of lime will likely give larger improvements in crops grown in rotation than it will with tobacco. A good practice is to lime tobacco fields during the

Certainly, all recent news from Santiago has been bad, including Allende's cabinet. The new foreign minister, Clodomiro Almeyda, is a member of the extreme left wing of the Socialist party—and icy intellectual with an affinity for China's Maoist Communism.

More menacing to Chile's democracy is the appointment of another Peking-oriented Socialist, bearded, young José Toha, as minister of the interior with authority over the carbineros—the national police force. Toha's second-in-command is a tough-looking Communist named Daniel Vergara, renowned for social anti-Americanism.

With Chilean internal security now in these tender hands, Allende has fired the respected Gen. Vicente Huerta as commander of the carbineros and replaced him with a pliable stooge, Huerta, who led police raids on violent revolutionaries, may well be arrested on spurious evidence for the recent assassination of Gen. Rene Schneider, the army chief.

There is no end to dark omens. Cuban intelligence officers (one of them engaged to Allende's daughter) abound in Santiago. All three television networks are under the government's thumb. Attempting to survive, the opposition press is muting its criticism.

Indeed, the opposition is disappearing to the point that a genuinely free election might be impossible even today—not to mention six years hence. Thus, protestations from Santiago that Chile may give the world its first taste of democratic Marxism sound tragically hollow, with menacing echoes for the U.S. future in Latin America.

fall after tobacco has been in the field and another crop will be grown the coming year.

If more than the suggested amount of lime is applied, this may lower the per acre value.

Experience and tests have shown the need to guard against over-liming soils used for tobacco. When too much lime is applied, the soil pH is increased to a high level which is favorable for the development of black shank and black root rot diseases. Never lime soil used for tobacco except on suggestions based on soil tests, and then use only the suggested rate. Excessive rates of lime can lower tobacco yields and quality.

Urges Dropping Tax Deductions

TORONTO (AP) — People would be discouraged from having babies if the baby bonus and tax deductions for dependents were dropped, the head of the zoology department at the University of Toronto told the audience at a pollution debate. Dr. D. A. Chant said the federal government should adopt a "zero population growth" policy for Canada and help set up abortions and free birth-control clinics.

See Increase More Revenues Bar Service For In Benefits To City Govm'ts Women Argued

CHICAGO (AP) — Social security benefits of around $1,000 a month or more are possible if legislation pending in Congress is approved.

Commerce Clearing House, a tax authority service, said there have been many liberalizations in benefits since 1935 when the Social Security Act was first passed. Then the minimum old-age benefit was $10 and the maximum was $85.

Now it is expected that the benefit table will show a maximum primary insurance amount of $660 by 1993, so that the combined benefit of a worker and his spouse would be just under $1,000.

In today's social security, the wage-benefit base is $7,800 and the maximum tax on that base is $374.40, employer or employee share.

Projections indicate the wage-benefit base under the new bill will be in excess of $20,000 by the 1990s and likely will go higher.

The average temperature in California's Death Valley during July is 102 degrees.

CHICAGO (AP) — City governments, along with federal and state taxing bodies, are pulling in more and more money.

Revenues of all city governments totaled $29.7 billion for fiscal 1968-69, an increase of 11.9 per cent of $3.2 billion from the previous year.

City-imposed taxes yielded $12.4 billion, more than one-half of all general revenue of city governments. Property taxes still lead as a city revenue source at $8.3 billion, Commerce Clearing House said.

Other sources include sales and gross receipts taxes, $1.3 billion; selective sales taxes, $871 million, and licenses and miscellaneous taxes, $2 billion.

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Both sides have taken an argument over serving women drinks at the bar to the Court of Appeals, which will rule later this year.

Meantime, a lower court ruling allowing women to do so is in force through an injunction. The state Alcoholic Beverage Control Board is trying to keep the current prohibition on the books.

Soviet's Ambitions Point South

By ENDRE MARTON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A secret part of the 1940 pact signed by the Soviet Union, Nazi Germany, fascist Italy and Japan contained a paragraph saying Russian "territorial aspirations center south of the national territory of the Soviet Union in the direction of the Indian Ocean."

Flames Damage Vacant Dwelling

Greenville firemen reported heavy damage resulted to a two-story wooden dwelling at 511 Ford St. yesterday when a fire erupted there about 8:30 p.m. Investigators reported the blaze started in a shed adjacent to the dwelling. Box 136 at the intersection of Ford Street and Colonial Avenue was turned in for the fire in the vacant house.

No Sleeper Cars For 'Limited'

Vernon Paul, IC district passenger agent in Carbondale, said the sleeping car service will be replaced by coach cars.

viets, it is a good starting point for considering a U.S. policy and money problem that has so far had only back-burner concern.

At stake are people, oil and transportation lanes. In the late 1960s, Russia began its vigorous interest in the area, developing a major naval presence. This string has now run to reports, still unconfirmed, of Soviet bases being established at South Yemen's Socotra Island, Mogadishu in the Somali Republic and trawler facilities at Mauritius.

Peking has a modest entry with a small base at Pemba Is-

Twenty Attend Bible Class

Twenty persons attended the first Bible class held at Moyewood Recreation Center Thursday afternoon.

The class is being sponsored jointly by the Governor's Council on Aging and Social Services Department of the Redevelopment Commission. The Rev. W. L. Jones of Mt. Calvary F.W.B. Church is the instructor.

Following the class, a representative of The Council on Aging, remembered each person with a Thanksgiving favor.

Senior citizens interested in this area class can obtain information by calling Mrs. Peggy Bynum, Social Services aide of the Redevelopment Commission or the Pitt-Greenville Council on Aging.

land, which belongs to Zanzibar, and perhaps port privileges at Dar es Salaam.

There is no indication as to what, if anything, the Nixon administration intends to do, but the Israelis are reported to have done something about their slice of the problem: the Red Sea. A secret pact reportedly has been signed between Israel and Ethiopia, permitting the Israelis to establish bases on the Ethiopian islands of Haleb and fatimah. They guard the Mouth of the Sea which leads to their Port of Elath.

Israel will not comment. U.S. officials say they do not know. The same U.S. answer is given to reports of fresh Soviet naval expansion in the area. "We have heard about them," a State Department spokesman says, but there is no hard evidence.

In the face of all this the visible U.S. military presence adds up to one seaplane tender and two destroyers in the Indian Ocean. This is nowhere near the contention level the United States 6th Fleet maintains with the Soviets in the Mediterranean.

Although U.S. admirals argue for an expanded presence in the Indian Ocean, the only indication they will have their way was a statement attributed to Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird last July:

"Navy patrols of this ocean will begin as soon as the Vietnam situation eases enough to free vessels of the far East 7th Fleet, generally considered far stronger than the Soviet's in that section of the world. The British, once predominant in this power arena, are not expected to play a major role, although the new conservative government of Edward Heath has reversed Labor's policy of militarily abandoning the area known as "east of Suez."

Washington's opinion about the grand Soviet intention is divided. Some say naval "gunboat diplomacy" means nothing in the nuclear age. Others disagree, saying unless the United States acts, the Soviets will gain powerful and potentially dangerous leverage in the area.

Both camps do agree, though, that a primary Moscow objective—short term and possible—is to reopen the Suez Canal, the best sea approach for Soviet influence.

"SEA MONSTER" WASHED ASHORE — Residents of the Mann Hill Beach area of Scituate (Mass.) move in for a closer look at the remains of an undetermined type of sea monster that washed up on the beach Sunday afternoon shortly after high tide. Two fins of the creature are identifiable. Almost 30 feet of the monster washed ashore and observers felt another 10 feet of the thing had been eaten away by sea life. (AP Wirephoto)

Pentagon Plans Beef Up Guard And Reserve Force

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite severe defense spending curbs, top Pentagon officials are reported moving toward a 10 to 15 per cent boost in funds to strengthen and modernize the National Guard and reserve under next year's budget.

An increase of that magnitude could total a quarter of a billion dollars or more, if based on this year's $2.4 billion spending level for the guard and reserve forces.

With the Nixon administration cutting back the regular armed forces at a rapid rate, the nearly one million-man ready reserve of the Army, Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps is to be reduced.

The administration's plan to field a relatively small and compact all-volunteer force by mid-1973 is based in large part on a combat-usable ready reserve, which includes the National Guard.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird told a citizens group last week that, "in the future, we will give priority to calling the reserves and the National Guard when men are needed" in a crisis.

For this reason, the Pentagon is inclined to be relatively liberal in spending on the guard and reserve while cutting deeply in many other areas.

The biggest immediate problem, as senior defense officials see it, is to equip the reserve forces with modern arms, communications gear and other materials. Much of their equipment is now antiquated.

A large portion of the proposed reserve budget increase,

Four Injured In Saturday Wreck

Michael T. Malone, 23, of Geneva, N.Y. was charged with failing to yield the right of way in a 10:15 p.m. Saturday collision here that resulted in four persons being injured.

Police reported the Malone car collided with a vehicle driven by Mrs. Mavis Perry Evans of Route 1, Greenville, at the intersection of Fifth and Tenth Streets.

Damage was placed at $500 to the Evans car and $1,600 to the Malone vehicle. One passenger in the Malone auto was injured while Mrs. Evans and two passengers in her car were reported hurt.

it is understood, would by new equipment rather than relying on hand-me-downs from the regular forces—although the reserve element also will be receiving arms and equipment from regular forces as the Vietnam war winds down.

Part of the reserve budget increase will be devoted to improving training and probably some raise in drill pay.

Previous promises to upgrade the guard and reserve, to enable

Part Of Job To Be Wined, Dined

By JOHN S. LANG
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the interstate Commerce Commission says he sees nothing wrong in being wined and dined by interests his agency regulates.

At the same time, Chairman George Stafford is moving to fire one of his hearing examiners accused of accepting food and entertainment from parties in a proceeding before him.

Stafford feasted for free on rock Cornish game hen, mushrooms in cognac and cherries jubilee last month at the American trucking association convention, where diners were entertained by 20 strolling violinists and comedian Victor Borge.

"I do not expect to pay for food when I attend these functions," says Stafford, who is shown in ICC travel vouchers as spending 33 days at industry gatherings since becoming chairman Jan. 1.

Travel vouchers show other ICC commissioners also attending industry functions: Donald L. Jackson, who was gone 18 days; Dale W. Hardin, 10 days; Rupert L. Murphy, 17 days and John W. Bush, 7 days.

In August, as Stafford moved to fire hearing examiner Bernard J. Hasson Jr. on grounds he violated the ICC's Canons of Conduct, he wrote all agency personnel:

"I, as chairman, wish to impress upon you that Section 14 of the Canons of Conduct prohibit an employe from accepting meals, refreshments, other forms of entertainment from or social association with any person representing a party having an interest in any matter pending before him."

them to respond more quickly in national emergencies, were only partly fulfilled. The Johnson administration's 1965 decision to commit ground troops in Vietnam resulted in a swift drain-off of much of the modern equipment the guard and reserve had managed to collect up to that point.

But there is tangible evidence the new guard-reserve modernization program has started to move forward.

But, in an interview, Stafford said he sees no conflict between his order to ICC employes and his personal acceptance of meals at industry meetings.

Attending industry meetings is part of the commissioners' jobs, adds ICC information chief Edgar B. Hamilton Jr., who notes that the government pays the commissioners' other travel expenses and hotel bills.

"There's no way to pay at banquets," he said. "It's not like the waitress comes around and puts a check by the plate." Consumer groups and members of Congress have frequently criticized the closeness of the ICC and industries which it regulates.

READING, Pa. (AP) — Ray Koehler, a reporter for the Reading Times, says he bears no ill will against the women's club that rejected his application for membership.

The Reading Business and Professional Womens' Club told him his application had not been filled out properly and was rejected on that basis.

Final Selection Of Calley's Jury Expected Today

By KATHRYN JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP)—
Final selection of a jury to try Lt. William L. Calley Jr., charged in the alleged My Lai massacre, was expected to be completed today, clearing the way for the trial to begin Tuesday.

The court-martial of the Miami, Fla., lieutenant, charged with the premeditated murder of 102 unarmed Vietnamese civilians, was to have begun today, but was delayed when only four of 16 officers questioned were accepted by attorneys.

Under military law, a minimum of at least five officers, none below Calley's rank, must serve on the court-martial board which will decide Calley's fate. Two-thirds vote of the board — jury — is necessary to convict.

The military judge, Col. Reid W. Kennedy, called a rare court session Saturday in an effort to complete the jury. But the disqualification of 12 officers during two and a half days' of questioning brought on a day's delay in the beginning of the trial.

The four jurors thus far selected are Col. Lamar A. Welch, 56, of West Palm Beach, Fla., a combat veteran of World War II and an adviser in Vietnam; Col. Clifford H. Ford, 53, of Knoxville, Tenn., World War II and Korean veteran; Lt. Col. Robert A. Duvall, 38, a native of Lockwood, Mo., a Vietnam veteran, and Capt. Ronald J. Salem of Sioux Falls, S.D., a Vietnam combat veteran and adviser.

In convicted, the 27-year-old slender, boyish Calley could face death by hanging or life imprisonment, with the jury voting to decide that question.

Seventy-nine persons have been listed as possible witnesses or as names which may be mentioned in the trial which the Army prosecutor, Capt. Aubrey M. Daniel III, has said may last a month.

Hold Man For Killing

JACKSONVILLE, N. C. (AP)— Marine Pvt. Alonza Watts, 22, of Chester, Pa., was charged Sunday with shooting a Came Lejeune military policeman in the head and shoulder Saturday on a bus crowded with marines, authorities said.

Watts was being held on $25,000 bond in the shooting of Sgt. Nicholas J. Wagner II of Osseo, Minn. Wagner remained in very serious condition at Camp Lejeune Naval Hospital Sunday.

Onslow County Sheriff Tom Marshall reported that the shooting occurred on a shuttle bus between the base and Jacksonville. Wagner, who is white, was riding the bus as an unarmed monitor.

Monitors have been riding the buses since racial disturbances broke out aboard them in August, 1969.

Marshall said witnesses reported that Wagner's assailant, who is black, fired one shot in the bus, then fired the small caliber pistol into Wagner's face. Then gunman got off the bus, which had stopped, and then returned to shoot Wagner a second time. The man fled on foot.

Marshall said Watts was apprehended at a house about 500 yards from where the shooting occurred.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market showed a moderate loss in moderate trading early today.

Price declines grew sharper among some of the more actively traded issues.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials had fallen 3.15 to 756.64 at 11 a.m.

Declines stretched their lead over advances to more than 2 to 1 among issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Some analysts professed to see a drying up of profit taking, which was evident in the market's sharp loss late last week.

Big Board prices included American telephone, off 1/2 to 44 3/4; Pittston, off 1 1/4 to 36 3/4; Burroughs, off 2 to 103; Occidental Petroleum, up 1/2 to 18 3/4; General Motors, up 1/2 to 71; Continental Telephone, off 1 to 22 3/4; and Great Western Financial, off 1 1/2 to 18 3/4.

a lot. I can't get his smile out of my mind."

Mike Kopp said the crash was even more terrible by happening so close to home. "I know all their girl friends and families were waiting at the airport for them. They probably could see the crash and know that it was all over for them."

Kopp added that the Bucs, whom tragedy came close to touching earlier had their own fears just over a month ago. They played West Texas State University the weekend of the Wichita State University plane crash. Wichita had played at West Texas the week before. "We thought about it all the way back from there. We were nervous and tense on the flight."

Co-Captain Whitley, who got the news over television, said the Marshall players were the cleanest he's ever played against. "I keep thinking about that airport up there. (The Bucs flew in there last year during a snowstorm to play Marshall.) I almost slipped on the ice and fell getting off the plane." Whitley said he wasn't going to let his mother know he was going to fly up there for the memorial service last night. "I know she'd be very worried if she knew."

Word passed quickly between the team members, who began to gather in the dorm, to talk quietly about the game.

"I never quite had an experience like one I had in the game," center Mark Pohren said. "Usually there's not much conversation in the game between the teams. But as I went up to the line, the guy opposite me told me we'd gotten all the yards we were going to get, because we'd run out of trick plays. But I told him he hadn't seen this one yet. Normally, you just don't talk you just play."

One member of the team summed it up this way. "You never think much about the little things that happen in a game until something like this happens.

"Now, we'll never forget."

Snow In The Mountains

North Carolina's mountains got another thin layer of snow this morning on top of Sunday's coat of white.

Up to one inch of snow for a 24-hour period was reported this morning at the higher elevations.

Roads were slick, bringing much of the mountain traffic to a crawl.

In the state's lowlands there wasn't any snow but plenty of cold weather—all the way to the coast.

And the cold spell came on like gangbusters. Earlier in the day Sunday it was up to 70 at Elizabeth City along the coast, as well as at New Bern and Wilmington. Early this morning it was down to near 40, a drop of almost 30 degrees in about 12 hours.

The vice president flew in from Paris Sunday night, landing at a remote Kennedy airport terminal under heavy security. On the other side of the terminal, a small group of antiwar demonstrators marched in pouring rain.

Hatless and wearing a brown leather jacket, Ky told waiting newsmen his visit was "in behalf of the people of Vietnam to express our gratitude to the American people."

is offered a free subscription to the magazine. The editors of this liberal publication clearly know "where the ducks are."

The very liberal Committee on Political Education of the AFL-CIO, more commonly known as COPE, sent out a letter to all members of the American Political Science Association. Signed by COPE's national director, the letter stated:

"It occurs to me that you might be interested in informing your students of organized labor's role in politics, particularly those students majoring in political science. If you would be interested in having a COPE representative address one or several of your classes, may I suggest that you write to me."

COPE, knowing the liberal bent of the academic mind, openly seeks access to the classroom.

One of my favorites is the form letter sent out in the 1968 presidential election campaign to the academic community by liberals Barbara Tuchman and Henry Steele Commager on behalf of the liberal National Committee for an Effective Congress. In the letter to me, I was urged to send my contribution "today" because "...such senators as Fulbright, Church, Morse, McGovern and Nelson could go down before racists, isolationists (sic), cops and bombs zealots or, at best standpat nonentities."

I was warned that unless contributions were made, I could expect to see "arch-conservatives," "drum-beating war candidates," and "extreme right-wing organizations" gain a "stranglehold on all important legislation." The letter was tailor-made for the liberal mind that dominates academe.

As a member of the American Political Science Association, I received a letter in 1968 from the Deputy Chairman for Research and Publications of the Democrat National Committee. This

Continuing Unrest In Post-Coup Syria

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syria's new ruler, Gen. Hafez Assad, tightened the army's grip on his nation's politics today and tried to form a new government as some of his supporters clashed with supporters of the ousted regime.

Weekend demonstrations were reported in Damascus, the Syrian capital, after Assad, the defense minister, overthrew President Nureddin Atassi and a government dominated by Gen. Salah Jadid on Friday. All are members of the Baath Socialist party, but Assad is considered more of a moderate.

University students clashed in the streets of Damascus. An unconfirmed report said one man was killed and 35 were injured when Assad's security guards charged into the crowds, hitting with batons.

There were signs that Assad would curb the Al Saika guerrilla movement and that there would be nothing in the future like the disastrous tank invasion of Jordan by the Syrians to support the Palestine guerrillas when they were battling the Jordanian army recently.

Unconfirmed reports said Assad had released several politicians arrested during the coup, but that Jadid and Atassi were still held. But Assad was reported negotiating with Atasi, trying to persuade him to head a new government which Assad would run.

In Egypt, Premier Mahmoud Fawzi resigned, and President Anwar Sadat asked him to form a new cabinet. Minister of Information Mohamed Fayek said Fawzi, 70, and the other ministers will remain in office until the new cabinet is formed.

The cabinet had been appointed after the death of President Gamal Abdel Nasser Sept. 28. Sadat, Nasser's successor, appointed Fawzi premier Oct. 20.

Again a liberal organization explicitly asks liberal academe to give it access to the classroom.

More recently I received a letter from Lawrence F. O'Brien, national chairman of the Democratic party, urging me to contribute money, and, in O'Brien's words, to "...become a card-carrying member of the Democratic party." This request was all the more amusing because I was an official delegate to the Republican National Convention in 1968.

It can be assumed O'Brien wrote me on the usual assumption that I, as a university professor of political science, must be a liberal Democrat. It so happened I was that rare exception.

I have only brushed the surface in illustrating the types of material I receive as a professor of political science. Similar types are not received from conservative sources. It is a liberal market and the advertisers know it.

Woody's Ramblin's

By WOODY PEELE

You sit at a typewriter, trying to find the right words. The words that are there in your mind but have trouble filtering down to your fingertips.

Around you lies the litter of a frantic evening. One which started out joyfully following a victory on the football field.

And one which ended in sorrow on a mountainside over 300 miles away from your desk.

For two and a half hours Saturday afternoon you watched the beauty and intimacy of a football game. It wasn't a battle between two of the top teams in the country, but you couldn't have told the players on the field that. To them, the game, just this one game, was the most important thing in their lives on this particular day.

They wanted to win...succeed...at what they were doing.

There is no closer intimacy than the struggle between enemies. Not enemies locked in mortal combat, but those who pit muscle against muscle for the joy of it as football players do.

They are bruised, cut and scraped. They sweat and smell. There is pain and there is agony in injury. But above it all there is the pride of doing something well, the joy of winning.

For East Carolina there was the joy of winning. For Marshall, there was only the pride in doing its best.

That joy of East Carolina's players lasted for a few short hours, until they learned of the tragedy that had brought the mortal end to those with whom they had been so close, against whom they had fought so hard.

Football is a game that teaches that things which are most highly prized must be fought for the hardest. It teaches comradeship and closeness, both with your teammates and those you play against.

And in the mind of each one who was connected with the game, on the field, in the stands, in the press box, listening to the game or reading about it, there is a void which cannot be erased.

The words of John Donne, 17th century English poet, best describe it in these words from "Devotions."

"No man is an island, entire of itself.

"Any man's death diminishes me, because I am involved in mankind;

"And therefore never send to know for whom the bell tolls;

"It tolls for thee."

And as East Carolina Coach Mike McGee said at a memorial service yesterday, his voice choked with emotion. "In football, there is pain, agony and pride. For Marshall the pain and agony is gone forever.

"Their pride goes on forever."

Find Little Similarity In Tragedies

By JAMES R. POLK
Associated Press Writer
HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — Despite the grim coincidence of two football teams ripped apart in the fiery wreckage of airliners, federal investigators said today they see little or no similarity between the Wichita State and Marshall University disasters.

"We see none," said John H. Reed, chairman of the National Transportation Safety Board, who drew a distinct line between the sleek jet chartered by Marshall that bore 75 persons to death here Saturday and the aging, overweight prop plane rented by Wichita State which smashed into the Rockies six weeks ago, killing 32 persons.

Yet one common thread was woven into both crashes: each involved a plane flown into a hillside by a pilot who was not routinely familiar with the terrain.

The twin-engine DC-9 jet from Southern Airways was trying to land in rain and fog Saturday night when it cut a splintered swath through the tops of trees on a high ridge rising near the airport runway and nosedived to the ground.

Although the charter pilot was one of Southern's senior captains, no one could say whether he had ever tried to touch down before at Huntington, a small, one-runway airport that is not on Southern's regular routes. The airport lacked the more sophisticated landing aids of larger fields.

Killed in the crash were 38 members of the Marshall football squad, its coaching staff and athletic director, the plane crew and a group of prominent Huntington citizens flying back with the team from a 17-14 loss to East Carolina.

The tragedy came even as a federal investigation continued into the Oct. 2 crackup of the Wichita State football plane. Officials say the Wichita State pilot flew into a deadend canyon at the foot of the continental Divide and was unable to escape. The Wichita State disaster sparked a full federal inquiry into aircraft charters after investigators found the 20-year-old overweight plane was being flown by pilots from a firm that lacked a sufficient license to operate it.

FAA administrator John Shafer called the arrangements for that flight, involving separate leasing of plane and hiring of crew, a facade to get around FAA rules governing charter flights.

The FAA sent letters to schools across the country warning them to be careful in their charter arrangements and to deal with reputable operators.

Marshall was dealing with such an operator—Southern, a scheduled airline authorized to conduct charter flights and subject to stringent operating and maintenance requirements.

It was Southern's first flight for Marshall, which had taken buses to its other out-of-town games this season.

Sixteen days before the Marshall plane crash, a twin-engine Army plane trying to land through a low ceiling smashed into an embankment on the opposite side of the Tri-State Airport, killing a major general and two other officers.

The airport is not equipped with radar for landing approaches or with any sophisticated glide slope electronic beams to warn a pilot when he is coming in too low. "Our problem is money," said an airport board member. "We've always wanted something, but we couldn't get the support."

Investigators also said there were no red warning lights on the fatal ridge. But the FAA said the ridge tip was far enough below the normal landing angle that lights were not required.

The DC-9 had flown earlier in the day from New Orleans to Alexandria, La., to Springfield, Mo., to Louisville, Ky., and to Atlanta. At Atlanta, the pilot, Frank H. Abbott, 46, took over the craft for the ferry flight to Greenville, N.C.

TEAM — This is the 1970 Marshall University football team. Most of the players were victims of a plane crash Saturday night near Kenova, W. Va. The DC 9 went down two miles west of the Tri-State Airport. University spokesmen said 37 players and the coaching staff were aboard. (AP Wirephoto)

Plunkett Rates High In Heisman Trophy Voting

by FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor
There is only one question regarding Jim Plunkett, the brilliant student-athlete who is leading Stanford's football fortunes out of the doldrums into a possible Rose Bowl appearance on New Year's Day.

Will he gather enough votes from the Midwest, South and East to be named the 1970 Heisman Award winner? He looks like a cinch on the Coast.

The Midwest voting fraternity probably will be split between Joe Theismann of non-conference Notre Dame and Rex Kern of Ohio State, the likely Big 10 champion. Theismann has been fabulous ever since taking over for Terry Hanratty in the last three games of 1968.

In the East, Theismann figures to draw good support mainly because he comes from South River, N.J.

In the South, practically everybody has had Mississippi's Archie Manning on the tip of their typewriting tongue since August. Manning has drawn the most preseason publicity (pardon, raves). He was hampered by a groin injury early in the season.

The East has no truly outstanding candidate and not since 1963 has an Easterner copped the coveted trophy named for John W. Heisman, for the former Downtown Athletic Club athletic director. Navy's Roger Staubach won it in '63 when the Middies had a 9-1 record before losing 28-6 to Texas in the Cotton Bowl.

Ballots are in the mail having been checked by Rusy Riska, the Downtown's athletic director, and Eddie Pitcher. About 1,375 ballots have been sent to sports editors, sports writers, TV and radio men active on college football. About 900 ballots are returned. The Heisman memorial trophy committee, whose chairman is Albert E. Gurge, plans to meet regarding a new voting format. Probably no more than 500 ballots will be mailed out next year with the division being equal between five sections—East, Far West, Southwest, South and Midwest.

The Citadel's Title Hopes Dealt Blow By Furman

by MARSHALL JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

The Citadel's Bulldogs, who just two short weeks ago appeared to have the Southern Conference football championship by the tail, suddenly have become odd man out among the four teams still in contention. Furman's surprising Paladins knocked the Bulldogs out of the league lead with a 28-21 victory Saturday night and elevated

William and Mary's Indians into first place as a result of their 29-28 comeback triumph over Davidson's defending champion Wildcats. And preseason favorite Richmond remained very much in the picture, too, with a regionally televised 48-17 rout of Virginia Military Institute's Keydets that could have been a lot worse. William and Mary is at Richmond and Davidson at The Citadel in a pair of league games Saturday that could settle the issue. A decision could be delayed until East Carolina's Pirates — 17-14 non-league victors Saturday over ill-fated Marshall go to Davidson for a Nov. 28 season windup.

The standings now have William and Mary at 2-1; The Citadel, Richmond and Furman all at 3-2; and Davidson at 2-2. Furman, having finished its league season, is out of the running.

The winner came with 4:18 left after a Furman punt touched Bulldog safety Jeff Varnadoe on the leg and was recovered by the Paladins' Peyton Barton at the Bulldogs' 20.

Bill Geiger's 20-yard field goal with 14 seconds left won it for William and Mary, which had trailed Davidson from the opening period, Down by 28-19, the Indians drove 68 yards for

UNC-Duke Clash Will Decide ACC Football Championship

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tight races are old hat in Atlantic Coast Conference football wars, and 1970 is no exception. With one game left on all eight teams' schedule, the championship will be settled by whoever wins the Duke-North Carolina game at Chapel Hill Saturday. If the Blue Devils triumph, they'll be No. 1. But if the Tar Heels come through with a win, Wake Forest will be tops.

Duke and Wake Forest are tied with 6-1 marks now, but the Deacons are through with conference games.

The Blue Devils and Deacs kept hopes alive by winning Saturday. Duke with a 42-38 thriller over South Carolina and Wake Forest with a 16-13 cliffhanger over N. C. State. In other ACC games, North Carolina battered Clemson, 42-7, and Virginia mauled Colgate, 54-12.

Maryland was idle. Games this week include South Carolina at Clemson, N. C. State at Tulane, Virginia at Maryland and Wake Forest at Houston. Maryland is the only team with a later game—barring a bowl bid for someone—with a home contest against West Virginia Nov. 28.

Wake Forest's triumph over the Wolfpack was more or less expected, since the Deacs only the week before knocked off Duke and earlier beat North Carolina. But N. C. State Coach Earle Edwards wasn't conceding anything.

He told his players after a 10-yard run-pass option play put Wake Forest ahead for keeps with just under three minutes to play: "You played well and are getting better. It wouldn't have taken much to change it (the outcome) around."

Wake Forest's final TD came on an end run by quarterback Larry Russell that ended with him lateraling to Ken Garrett for the final yards. Coach Cal Stoll could hardly contain himself as he said: "This changes our entire football program. We can no longer be regarded as a loser. We proved that today."

Duke Coach Tom Harp was another happy man as his team scored five touchdowns in the second half to wipe out a 17-7 deficit. The winning score came on a two-yard plunge by Art Bosetti with two minutes to play. It was his third sixpointer.

Harp said, "Tonight's game was the greatest effort I've ever seen since I started coaching 20 years ago. Our boys just kept coming back. It was just fantastic."

If Duke can keep its momentum and whip the Tar Heels, it will win its seventh ACC title. Wake Forest has never been the champion.

Last year Duke whipped the Tar Heels on a trick play in which the winning touchdown was scored on a long run by end Wes Chesson. He had stooped as if tying his shoe while the rest of the team—except the center—huddled, then caught the bomb for a 17-13 triumph.

Don McCauley wasn't his current self in that encounter, and he means trouble for all defenses Saturday he scored three times against the Tigers, rushed for 184 yards and broke a handful of school and league records along the way.

Coach Bill Dooley said, "Over-all, that was our best game of the year." Of dashing Don, he said, "He is plain and simply a great football player." Running and passing are crucial but season-ending games between neighbor rivals such as Duke-North Carolina and South Carolina-Clemson often turn on intangibles. Emotion, incentive and attitude can mean the difference.

Will Duke, for instance, be uptight with its championship in the balance and lose to a relaxed North Carolina squad?

Six more days and the answer will be known.

Calm On Eve Of Big Bout

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Nonchalance was the word from the fighter and the attitude of their camps today concerning the Joe Frazier-Bob Foster heavyweight championship fight Wednesday night.

Foster, who will be trying to become the first light heavyweight king ever to win the heavyweight title, took his first day off in six weeks Sunday and then joined in a bull session with newsmen at fight press headquarters Sunday night.

Frazier went to hear some gospel singing and then went back to his quarters to listen, to some rock music and let his manager, Yank Durham, do the talking—as usual.

"I'm not worried about this," Foster said of the scheduled 15-round bout at Cobo Mall. "It's just another fight."

Find Prison Frightening

RALEIGH (AP) — Six Jaycees who spent last Friday night in Central Prison to find out what it was like admitted when they came out Saturday that they were scared.

"I came out with an overwhelming feeling that there are real people in there," said James Chandler of Selma. "People just like us, the same hopes, the same feelings. That's hard to believe until you get on the inside."

Chandler and the other Jaycees held a news conference at the state Department of Corrections headquarters after their release Saturday.

The others were State Rep. Bob Wynne of Raleigh, Louis Sasser of Wilmington, Bruce Massey of Wendell, Poe Cox of Garner, and Cary Hill of Tulsa, Okla., U. S. Jaycee consultant for prison reform.

Before they went in Friday night, Wynne said the Jaycees hoped it would enable them "to

There's one simple solution. If William and Mary beats Richmond, the Indians will win the championship and a Dec. 28 berth in the Tangerine Bowl against unbeaten and untied Toledo, the Mid American Conference champion. Should Richmond and The Citadel win, they'll finish in a tie and the Spiders will go to the bowl because they won the regular season meeting between the two teams. Should Davidson win it last two games, the Wildcats would go again because they beat Richmond.

The Citadel's only chance is a William and Mary-Richmond tie. Steve Crislip scored a pair of touchdowns in the final period as Furman rallied from a 21-14 deficit to add The Citadel to its list of victims that includes Richmond and Davidson. It was the third time the Paladins who inexplicably lost to VMI and East Carolina — had come from better enlighten the Jaycees and the public to the needs for prison reform.

"I felt isolated and lonely, even though I was spending the time with a cellmate," said Wynne after his release. "It made me realize how fortunate we all are to have our freedom."

The Jaycees said they found out the prisoners couldn't believe anyone on the outside was interested in them. "The inmate I was with couldn't believe the outside wanted to help," said Sasser.

TOOK WOR'D CUP
BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Australians Bruce Devlin and David Graham took the World Cup golf championship home to Australia today, but left behind the individual scoring title in Argentina, much to the delight of the Argentines. Roberto de Vincenzo staged a late charge for the honors, overcoming a two-stroke disadvantage.

Yarborough Wins At Rockingham

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (AP) — Cale Yarborough drove his red and white Mercury to victory in Sunday's twice-postponed American 500 at North Carolina Speedway Sunday, and soared past the $100,000 mark in winnings for the third time in the last five years.

Bobby Isaac finished a poor seventh, but earned enough points to clinch the NASCAR Grand National Driving title, worth a bonus of $100,000 this year.

Despite his team's crushing defeat, VMI's Don Cupit also set a record — his 11th field goal of the season. The barefooted kicker booted a 29-yarder in the third period with the Keydets trailing 33-0.

Charlie Richards hit on all seven passes he threw for the Spiders, including touchdown plays of 47 and 40 yards too Jim Livesay and 53 yards to Jerry Haynes. He accumulated 173 yards passing and ran for 31.

The Spiders' No. 1 offensive unit scored four of the first five times it had the ball in the first 20 minutes, then was used on just three series in the second half.

VMI's Gary Shope threw a pair of touchdown passes against the Spiders' reserve

This new car is the best reason not to buy a Volkswagen Beetle.

In a year when every car maker seems to be giving you one reason or another not to buy a Volkswagen Beetle, it might be a good idea to listen to the best reason: Volkswagen's Super Beetle. It has almost twice the luggage space as the Beetle of yesteryear. It has a longer-lasting, more powerful engine. It has a new suspension system for a smoother ride. It has a flow-through ventilation system to bring in fresh air when the windows are closed. The interior is, to be honest, much nicer. The floor is fully carpeted. In all, it has 89 things you could never find on a Beetle. So of all the claims you'll hear this year by car makers that their cars are "better than a Beetle," there's only one car maker with 25 years experience in small cars to back it up. Volkswagen.

Mrs. Sasha Morgenthaler, the doll maker, of Zurich, Switzerland.

Sasha never makes a doll which smiles—it's not natural for anyone to smile all the time.

Love goes into the creation of these dolls, that is why they have the look of real little people.

Sasha Dolls

The dolls of Sasha Morgenthaler are perhaps the most beautiful in the world. And because each doll is made with love, each has its own personality, the individuality of a real person—whether it is owned by a child and becomes, more than a toy, a friend; or whether it is exhibited as a work of art in a major museum, as many of them are.

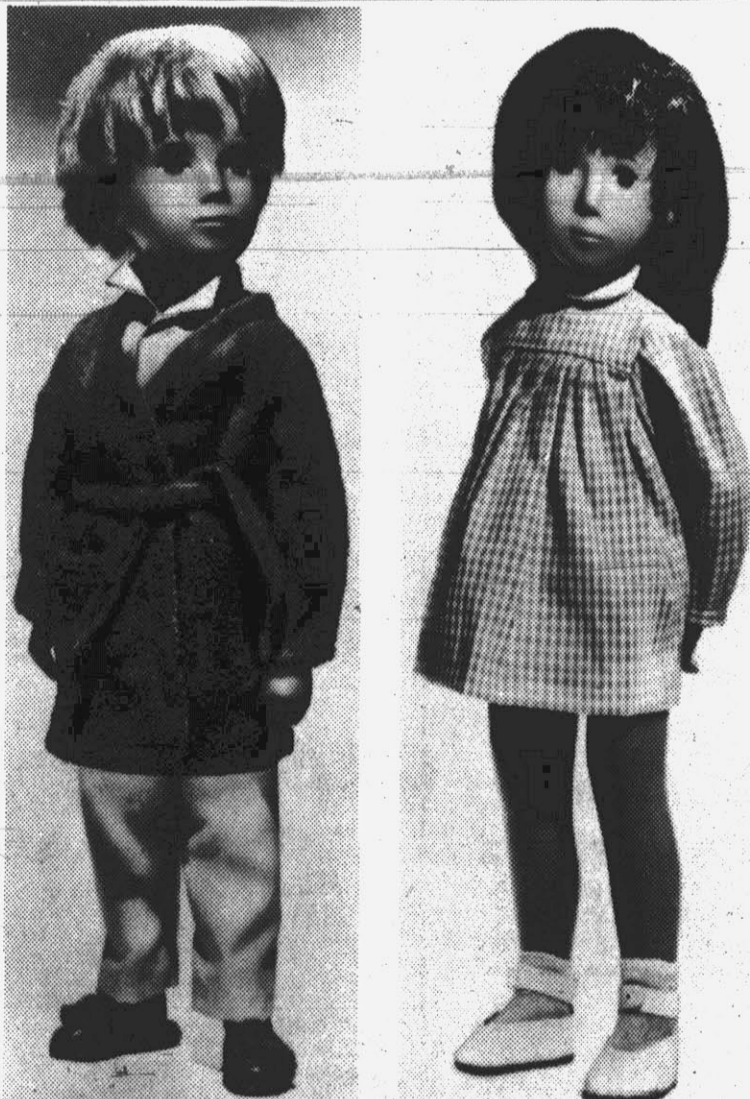

Mrs. Morgenthaler, the famous Swiss doll maker, is now a grandmother well into her seventies. An artist and sculptress, she first made dolls for her own children and grandchildren; and seeing the sufferings of children during World War II gave an extra dimension of tenderness and sympathy to her creative doll making.

Originally Mrs. Morgenthaler created and designed only one-of-a-kind, hand made dolls, often custom made, some sold in a handcraft shop in Zurich where she lives, others for exhibition and display. Recently she has allowed a line of Sasha dolls to be manufactured to her specifications by an English toy firm and to be sold in toy shops in several countries. In the U.S. they are marketed by Creative Playthings.

This Week's PICTURE SHOW—AP Newsfeatures.

The charm of a Sasha doll is evident down to the last exquisite detail. This hand made doll is an original work of art.

Gregor and Sasha are factory made, sold in toy shops, but each always has hand painted eyes.

In Africa, Sasha saw a child walking with a sleeping baby on her back, and it inspired her to create this doll.

The Worry Clinic Everybody Has Secret Terror

Greg is timid because he thinks he is the only "chicken" among his associates. But everybody has some phobia or secret terror. So grammar school teachers can render a superb contribution to our Mental Health programs by scheduling an annual "Fear Party," as described below:

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph. D., M. D.
CASE 0-582: Greg T., aged 20, soon will graduate from college. "But, Dr. Crane," he protested miserably, "I am afraid of everything!" "My self-confidence is zero! I've always worried myself sick before final exams, though I have made a 'B' average thus far." "But I just wish all fears could be abolished from the human race!" "Then I might become confident enough to get a job and even think about dating girls." Actually, fear is one of the greatest prods to human accomplishment. So be grateful that you have fears!

Then a little boy may raise his hand and offer his dread of ghosts or lightning. Since it has now become "fashionable" to ventilate their secret terrors, everybody in the class may finally acknowledge some formerly repressed dread. This is superb group psychiatry and relaxes the kiddies tremendously. "For they now realize that everybody has some phobia or terror." Thus, their previous belief that they alone were the only "chicken" in the class is demolished, so they feel more confident. And they often can offer practical suggestions during this "Fear Party" as to how they helped overcome their own specific dread. Many neurotic kiddies, often headed for visits to a child psychiatrist, may now become calmer and less likely to be bullies or problem youngsters. Send for my booklet "How to Control Our Emotions," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20c. (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Teacher Helping Deaf Children

By JOHN PHILIP SOUSA, Associated Press Writer
TIJUANA, Mexico (AP)—The 37 children laugh, cry and make as much noise as any other kids but there's a difference—they're all deaf. A petite, blue-eyed, brown-haired young American, Janet Thompson, is filling their silent world with knowledge and joy. She runs a school, the Center of Auditive Oral Rehabilitation, in a pink cinder block building filled with the sounds of children and the spicy smells of Mexican food.

Explains Miss Thompson: "Many cannot afford lunch, so we make it a class project and everyone eats." The pretty 28-year-old teacher founded the school five years ago. She makes use of the noon-time meal as a lesson in grammar, spelling, math, pronunciation and responsibility. "I put the lesson on the blackboard each day," she says. "Lula will bring a half kilo of tortillas and Rogelio the lemonade." By reading the lesson the pupils learn how words are put together to form sentences. They learn that so many items brought by so many children equal so much food for lunch. Some of the youngsters suffer from sight and speech problems as well as deafness. Most are from poverty families but are of average intelligence. A few have above-average IQs. Miss Thompson discovered the plight of the deaf children while working with a Roman Catholic Church group in this border city after she was graduated from the University of Seattle with a degree in education. She decided they must have a school of their own. so did the Lutheran Church of Members of the Club Amistad Our Saviour, down the street at the University of California from President Nixon's Western at Los Angeles chipped in and White House in San Clemente.

But learn how to capitalize on them successfully. It was fear of starvation that made Adam and Eve develop agriculture and cattle raising. It was fear of rain and cold weather that caused us to build warm houses. Fear of illegal intruders led to the invention of locks and keys. So fear is the beneficial goad that has spurred us onward to our present high level of civilization. And we should even encourage certain fears in our youth, such as dread of the damage to the brain by use of LSD and other drugs. And we need far more fear of insanity, heart attacks, sterility and many other medical ailments that result from the venereal disease of syphilis and gonorrhea. For a recent printed report said 2,000,000 venereal disease cases are spreading infection rampantly throughout our teenage population, partly because they haven't been taught a wholesome terror of sexual infections! Greg is unfortunately like many children in grammar school who think they are the only folks with secret phobias. So it is well for school teachers in the early grades to schedule a "Fear Party" each year. Let the teacher announce such an event in advance, to whet the curiosity of the pupils. Then she can start this "talk clinic" by casually mentioning how terrified she was at their age, because of her dread of bugs or lightning or whatever was her own pet phobia. To hear their teacher confess to having been the slave of a childhood fear, will be very heartening to the class. Then the teacher may ask if anybody else in the class has been afraid of bugs or lightning or snakes, etc. Usually, a little girl will timidly put up her hand and then make her public confession about some phobia. Another little girl will usually follow.

Last Chance For Chorus

Tonight is the final opportunity singers in Greenville will have to join the Greenville Community Chorus group now in rehearsal for the annual Christmas program under Dr. Paul Aliopoulos.

The chorus, composed of townspeople and university people, will again this year present Handel's "Messiah" as a joint event open to the public. Interested singers are asked to contact Mrs. Norman Wilkerson at 756-2768 for information on rehearsals being held tonight. Rehearsals have already been underway for some time and are continuing on each Monday night.

The program, originally scheduled for December 20, has been changed to Thursday, December 17. It will be held at Wright Auditorium at 8:15 p.m. This year an orchestra composed of members from the university and from Greenville will support the singers in this traditional Christmas music.

The event is to be open to the public and no charge is to be made for attendance.

Mafia Of Sicily Waging A Bloody And Brutal War

By CHARLES W. BELL
PALERMO, Sicily (UPI)—Sicilians have a saying: "The only thing that really works in Palermo is the Mafia." Rarely has the axiom seemed truer. The industry of violence, and the men who serve it, seem bolder, more powerful and more immune today than at any time since World War II. Bold because no place seems safe from the Mafia. Powerful because no government can break it. Immune because not even its victims will denounce it. "Mafia" means many things to many people, but on this triangle-shaped island it means a way of life that touches the lives and pocketbooks of most Sicilians. Now, amid whispers of Mafia complicity in high places, the "honored society" is waging a brutal and bloody war over the money "il boom" brought to Sicily. Economic Miracle The economic miracle which slowly—very slowly—moved to the island whetted the appetites of the Mafia as much as it did the profit-minded businessmen who came. The war is spectacular at times. Four men dressed in doctors gowns and gauze face masks pushed into a Palermo hospital recently and pumped five machine-gun bullets into a man who escaped death earlier in a knife attack. Police said he was executed in a war over control of a hillside town. A band of men dressed in police uniforms entered a Palermo construction company and murdered four men in a battle police said was sparked by a feud over Mafia building contracts. Each time Sicily shuddered—and kept its mouth shut. Only 47 per cent of the island's population of 4.8 million would admit even knowing what the Mafia was when asked in a public opinion poll a few years ago. Fascist Dictator Benito Mussolini failed to crush it. Post-war governments announced every few months a new and "final" campaign to clean up Sicily.

But the Mafia survives and flourishes, nourished by discipline, cohesion and a philosophy that demands—and accepts—

Fruit Gardens Plan Explained

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A project that may lead to a tropical fruit gardens next to power plants in temperate climates has been launched by a state agency and a power company. The experiment in climate control was announced jointly by the state Environmental Conservation Department and Niagara Mohawk Power Co., who will split the $25,000 estimated cost.

The project director, Satyendra P. Mathur said an air-supported, balloon-like structure will be built at Niagara Mohawk's Albany steam-electric plant on the Hudson River. Heat from water in the plant will be transferred to the structure where instruments will gather data to determine if the heat can be used for such things as growing tomatoes or bananas, Mathur said.

SOLUTIONS EMPHASIZED FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The Legislative Research Commission says its new study of Kentucky elementary and secondary education will emphasize solutions through innovation rather than more finances.

death-for-failure-or-treachery. From the days when American military commanders enlisted Mafia help in conquering Sicily during World War II to present day charges that the Mafia has friends in city hall and parliament in Rome, crime has paid higher dividends than many Italian industrial companies. Difficult to Escape It is difficult, if not impossible, for Sicilians to escape the power-of-the-Mafia-since, according to government reports, it controls fruit, vegetable and fish markets, much of the building industry, drugs traffic, some trade unions and some politicians and policemen. Nobody knows how many Mafiosi there are. One clue to membership came in a 1967 government report stating that 7,646 suspected Mafia members were questioned in the Palermo region-in-six-years-alone. Few persons have denounced Mafia members by name. Most of them are dead, executed for breaking the code of omerta, the willful sheet of silence Sicilians drop protectively over the underworld. If the modern day Mafia organization and leadership is clouded by secrecy, its history is confused by controversy over its origins. Some claim the Mafia is several-centuries-old, a society formed to rid Sicily of foreign exploiters and rulers. Many believe the Mafia began less than two centuries ago, a criminal coalition of prominent men who simply took the law into their own hands. Most experts list Sicilians as the overlords of organized crime in the United States. But the exact nature of any ties between Sicily and U.S. gangsters remains another mystery.

GRIEF-STRIKEN women weep hysterically at the spot in the hills near Palermo where a relative was slain by the "lupera" shotgun, a traditional Mafia weapon. (UPI Telephoto)

'The Green Hornet' Lost Out To Television; Faded Out Into Sunset

By KENNETH R. CLARK
DENVER (UPI)—The Green Hornet knew he was finished. For years—the frantic theme, "flight of the bumblebee," following him like a ghostly familiar—he had roared through the streets in his mighty "black beauty," zapping the forces of evil for the weekly benefit of a whole generation of vicarious adventures.

But a new force was in the land. It was called television, and under its baleful glare the golden days of radio were retreating into the sunset of nostalgia.

The Green Hornet would have to find a new line of work, so, with characteristic aplomb, he mothballed the juggernaut, bade his faithful oriental manservant, Kato, farewell, traded his mask for an attache case and joined the new order.

Now a News Director Today the Green Hornet of yesteryear directs news operations for KOA-TV in Denver. He is A. Donovan Faust and if he misses the good old days of desperate deed at all, it is still with the conviction that the public never had it so good as now.

"Radio doesn't have the primary role as an entertainment medium now, but it does have a far greater service role," he said. "The role is immediacy and it's a lot better than it was in the so-called golden days. Radio is a personal thing now. People no longer sit and listen to it. They take it in fragments and they carry it with them." At the same time, Faust said there was no way in which anyone would get show business back into radio.

"The economics are against it," he said. "When radio was prime, networks could afford to put together the costs to make entertainment feasible to an advertiser. But radio now is highly fractionalized and you can't muster the ratings. What chance would you have now if you put the old Lux Radio Theater up against Rowan and Martin on television?"

Belongs to the Past "Some years ago, an effort was made to bring the Hornet back and put it on television," he said. "I must say I was one of several who predicted its failure. The Green Hornet was a different time and a different place. People were less sophisticated and it soon became evident you cannot visually recreate for people what they once saw only in the mind's eye.

"Chuck Livingston, the man who directed the old Hornet series, was a perfectionist," he recalled. "The audience then had no visual reference as it does today, so sound was everything. If the script called for the Hornet to be running, then I had to jog while I read my lines. If the Hornet was in a fight, I held the script in one hand, punching and slugging with the other. It was a fascinating thing to watch there in the studio, with people running about under a suspended mike as if they were mad.

"A sound effects man, first with his props and later with his records, was like an organist at a keyboard," Faust said. "Hence, a radio station became medically pure on the subject. Sound was protected like a crown jewel. In television, people constantly are walking in and out, crews are rolling cameras over cables and nobody cares."

Announce Auditioned Faust—one of four to play the Green Hornet in its many years of popularity—landed the role when the original crusader, Al Hodge, left the show to join the Navy. Faust was just a staff announcer for station WXYZ in Detroit—where the Hornet, the Lone Ranger and a host of other heroes were born—when auditions were announced.

"I had noticed the timbre of my voice closely matched Al's," Faust said, "so I check out several transcriptions of the program and listened to them over and over until I had it down pat."

The extra effort paid off and the young announcer—who went right on announcing when he wasn't fighting dire villainy—found himself matched with Rollie Parker who had taken over the role of Kato a few years earlier from Raymond Toyo, the only real Japanese who ever played it.

"It was a very vicious thing," he said of his swash-buckling crime-fighter role. "Whatever the frustrations of the week, when you walked into the studio with that script in your hand, you knew you were going to prevail."
