Dynamite On The Roof

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP) — Five sticks of dynamite were found on the roof of a department store in a Gastonia shopping center this morning.

Police said the dynamite was tied in two bundles, one of three sticks and one of two sticks. Fuses in both bundles had been lit, police said, but went out. Police said they did not know what caused the fuses to stop burning short of the dynamite.

The dynamite was found on the roof of the Woolco Department Store in Gaston Mall about 8:30 a.m. by an employee of the store who had arrived to raise a U.S. flag.

Authorities said the dynamite apparently was thrown onto the store roof sometime during the night.

Ten days ago an explosion ripped a hole in the roof of a department store in a shopping center west of Gastonia during the afternoon when the store was open for business.

See Cabinet Shake-Up

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times reported today that President Nixon plans a major reshuffling of his Cabinet by the time the second half of his term begins in January.

Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel, Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy and Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin are expected to leave, the newspaper said.

According to the report, Kennedy and Hardin are ready to depart amicably in favor of new faces. But it said Hickel, who criticized the administration's attitude toward young people, might not be willing to leave without protest.

Gabriel Hauge, president of Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co., was mentioned as a likely possibility for the Treasury post. The Republican national chairman, Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton of Maryland, was said to be interested in succeeding Hickel.

Revise Tolls For Span

CAPE CHARLES, Va. (AP) — Tolls on the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel have been altered in a move the Bridge-Tunnel Commission says is designed to spur use of the 17.6 miles span across the bay.

The commission said the new tolls for traveling across the mouth of the bay between the Delmarva Peninsula and Virginia Beach would be effective Jan. 1.

The bridge has been in sore financial straits, and defaulting on its Series C bond interest payments.

A plea to the General Assembly last spring brought no special state aid to bail the bridge-tunnel out of trouble. This was coupled with an accident in which a Navy ship rammed the bridge last March, slicing through the span and causing the closing of the bridge for weeks.

The new toll schedule eliminates the 85 cents per passenger charges plus $4 per car, establishing in their places a single toll of $5.25.

Crash Killed 15

SAIGON (AP) — A U.S. Marine helicopter returning to Da Nang with a crippled patrol crashed into a mountain side in the fog Wednesday, killing all 15 Marines aboard.

It was the worst crash in Vietnam since Aug. 26, when a big CH47 Chinook helicopter was shot down southeast of Da Nang and 31 U.S. Army men were killed.

Among the dead in Wednesday's crash was Lt. Col. William Leftwich of Memphis, Tenn., Tennessee's Man of the Year in 1965.

The helicopter, a medium-size CH46, crashed in the Que Son range about 22 miles southwest of Da Nang.

The U.S. Command said the cause of the crash was unknown, but other sources said fog and poor visibility apparently were responsible.

The wreckage was found on the side of the mountain and all of the bodies were recovered today by a Marine ground team landed by helicopters.

The ill-fated CH46 had lifted out a small Marine patrol from the Que Son mountains and was returning to the unit's base in Da Nang when it got lost in the clouds, field reports said. Another helicopter following it could not spot the craft and lost radio contact.

"The patrol in the Que Son mountains got into trouble," said one officer. "One man broke his leg and two more came down with fever. They called back and asked for a helicopter to lift them out."

Leftwich decided to pull out the entire patrol. Informed sources said he had always gone in after his men when there was an emergency, and he was the first aboard the 45-foot-long CH46 that was assigned to lift out the team.

Leftwich was serving his second tour in Vietnam. He was an adviser to South Vietnamese Marines from February 1965 until February 1966. At that time, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, then commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, called him the best adviser in Vietnam.

IRS Broadens Offer Of Help In Filing Returns

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service, a stickler for accuracy, is offering to figure income taxes free for 30 million Americans, 3.6 million of whom fouled up their returns last year.

The IRS said Wednesday a taxpayer could qualify if he earns no more than $20,000 a year, takes the standard 10 per cent deduction rather than itemized deductions, and has income only from salaries, wages, dividends, interest, pensions and annuities.

In another move aimed at easing the pain of separating citizens from taxes the IRS unveiled a revamped standard tax return form—form 1040. This year the instructions on how to fill blanks are in a separate booklet, not on the back of the sheet where last year's aggravated form-fillers were forced to keep peeking.

Taxpayers who qualify for free figuring can simply fill out vital information about themselves, list their income, and send in the return, along with W-2 forms.

The government does the rest. If a taxpayer's withholding doesn't cover the amount owed, he will get a bill. If he's due a refund, that will be sent along.

If the taxpayer catches the government overcharging him, he could demand a refund, along with 6 per cent interest.

But if the government pays a taxpayer too large a refund the IRS could collect the overage, but no interest if the money was paid quickly.

In the past, the IRS offers to figure income tax had been extended to Americans making up to $5,000. It estimated 30 million qualify for free figuring under the new rules, but wouldn't guess how many will take advantage of the offer.

In 1969, it said, errors were discovered on 3.6 million of the 78 million income tax returns filed. "These errors resulted from taxpayers using the wrong table, line, or column to figure his tax," it said.

E. Pakistan Relief Lags

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN
Associated Press Writer
Dacca, East Pakistan (AP) — The delivery of relief supplies to stricken areas of East Pakistan gets a small boost today with air drops from one plane and the arrival of six U.S. helicopters. But the operation is lagging badly because of the absence of Pakistani air force helicopters.

conference Wednesday that many thousands of survivors of the cyclone and tidal waves that struck Friday are still in grave danger because they have not received help. He said there are still "very inaccessible places with which we have not yet had contact."

The Pakistani air force has some helicopters, but most are in West Pakistan and would have to cross hostile India. Three times during the news conference Anisuzzaman refused to answer questions about the failure of the military to provide more aircraft.

Other relief officials said there also had been a delay in the arrival of U.S. helicopters because the Pakistani government tried to specify that its pilots fly them. When the United States refused, the Pakistanis backed down.

Two American helicopters were due today from Nepal. Four others expected tonight will not be ready to fly again before Saturday. Britain also is sending two helicopters.

Otherwise Anisuzzaman's air force consists of a military C130 Hercules freighter which was to start drops today, one military helicopter which had to be grounded for maintenance after 14 hours aloft, one short-takeoff-and-landing plane, and the only seaplane in East Pakistan.

The air is the only feasible avenue for delivery of supplies to many of the stricken areas of the Bay of Bengal coast and the islands at the mouth of the Ganges River because all normal transport facilities were swept away by the winds and waves. Helicopters are particularly needed because many sections are still flooded, and drops from fixed-wing planes probably would miss the dry spots and be lost in the water.

Anisuzzaman said the official death toll now stands at 39,800, with 3,136 missing, but this "may shoot up like anything." The government announced several days ago an official figure of 55,000 dead, and unofficial estimates range from 300,000 to 650,000.

Warns Critics

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania today warned critics of President Nixon's $155-million aid program for Cambodia that opposition could jeopardize $500 million earmarked for Israel.

"If they want aid to Israel," Scott told reporters, "they had better support the whole bill."

And he also contended that "the real issue here is that some people with presidential ambitions have no issue here unless they try to revive Cambodia ... for personal and political reasons."

More To Be Spent On Food

WASHINGTON (AP) — Meat-hungry Americans will spend a record $114.6 billion for food this year the Agriculture Department estimated today.

The eight per cent jump, sharpest in 20 years, can be laid mainly to an estimated 5.5 per cent rise in food prices. But population increases and a rising appetite among consumers for more meat also are factors, the department said.

High meat prices don't dull the appetite, the report indicates. Consumption of beef, which has been setting price records this year, will be 113 pounds per person this year, up 2½ pounds from 1969, the report estimates.

Pork eaters will consume 65.4 pounds, only a fraction of a pound more than in 1969; veal will be down and lamb will hold even. Chicken, benefiting competitively from higher meat prices, is put at 41.7 pounds, up from 39 last year.

The report was the second in a recent series relating consumer food costs to what farmers are paid. Earlier the department said retail prices are expected to continue rising next year but that the farmer's share of the consumer food dollar will not.

Based on disposable income, consumers this year are expected to spend about 16.5 cents of each take-home dollar on food. This would be slightly less than in 1969 and continues a downward trend.

Although cautious, the report said consumers can expect "a large decline" in pork prices if middleman margins are brought in line with recent price cuts farmers have taken in the hog market.

Seek Jury For Bobby Seale

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — The first 25 prospective jurors questioned all have been turned down for duty in the trial of Black Panther party chairman Bobby G. Seale and Ericka Huggins.

Predictions that selection of the jury would be a lengthy process were borne out as the first two days of the trial ended with none accepted.

All of the first 25 were white and most said they did not associate, professionally or privately, with blacks.

A main reason for dismissal was the admission by many of prejudice against the Panthers as a group.

Seale, 34, a founder of the black militant organization, and Mrs. Huggins, 22, have pleaded innocent to a variety of charges stemming from the torture-slaying of Alex Rackley, a Panther from New York City, in May 1969.

Long Session Of SALT Talks

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — Today's session of the strategic arms limitation talks in Helsinki was termed "businesslike as usual with no change in proceeding or attitude."

But it lasted 100 minutes, the longest session since the third round of talks started here Nov. 2.

The next meeting was set for Tuesday.

New Thoroughfare Study Reviewed At Joint Meeting

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

County members of the Joint City-County Planning and Zoning Commission stayed over after the joint meeting last night to hear a report, not scheduled on the agenda, by planners for the Greenville thoroughfare plan.

In this second presentation, William Beddingfield, and Ron Poole, representatives from the Advance Planning Division of the State Highway Department, showed four basic plans which included original ideas plus changes which have been suggested since.

The entire thoroughfare study is being projected to meet requirements for 1995, through a system of downtown streets and perimeter by-passes which are being considered, based on current traffic counts and other factors.

The planners pointed out the proposed by-passes will basically be simpler to plan and put into operation than the portions inside the city limits.

Recommending a series of paired one-way streets — for example, Fourth and Fifth Streets; Pitt and Greene Streets, Poole noted "one-way systems are safer."

One problem area noted involves tying in a railroad underpass or overpass in the vicinity of Elm Street and North Overlook Drive. Beddingfield, commenting that "you have a multitude of problems," informed commission members that specialists of the Advance Planning Commission were working on a single plan which would be compilation of factors from the four plans presented last night.

Consideration of the concept of a mobile home site on Hooker Road, one in which no action was required by the Joint-City Planning and Zoning Commission, led to utter confusion for a few minutes over proper parliamentary procedure. At one point two motions were on the floor for a vote at the same time. City member F. D. Duncan solved the dilemma by withdrawing his motion, acceding to the motion made by county member John Moyer. Moyer's motion, that the joint commission acknowledge receipt of the mobile home site concept and that it probably would meet requirements if and when a preliminary plat was submitted, carried.

Earlier, city members Jerry Sutherland and F. D. Duncan had expressed opposition to the idea of a mobile home park in this area. Sutherland said he based his objection on the ground that the property, while outside the city limits, was within the confines of the city, as the area is one of the islands of county land within the city.

W. B. Duke, one of the spokesmen for Kenneth Whitchard who plans to develop the park, noted that the planners at this stage were seeking recognition of the plan as a study, and were trying to determine if possible objections would arise in the future.

District Scouters See Awards And Recognition

Honor guests at the Pitt District Annual Banquet held at the Moose Lodge in Greenville Tuesday evening were 23 recipients of the Eagle Scout Badge and 15 religious award winners.

Dr. Julian Hofman was the speaker for this annual event. He is a veteran Scouter from Roanoke Rapids. Dr. Hofmann spoke on the upcoming Boy Scout Project, SOAR — Save Our American Resources, the theme for Conservation in 1971.

Frank Saunders, William Watson, and George Evans were elected District Chairman, Vice-Chairman, and District Commissioner, respectively.

Frank Saunders received the Compass Award, the highest award a Scouter can win on the District level. He was selected for his outstanding work in helping boys during 1970.

Receiving the Green Band Award for three or more years of outstanding Scouting service were Mrs. Ginger Baker, Ed Stallings, and George Evans, all of Greenville, and Carey Hammond of Bethel.

The Attendance Award was won by Pack 200 of the Moose Lodge. The Table Decoration Award went to Troop 452, sponsored by the First Free Will Baptist Church of Greenville.

Retiring District Chairman, J. Knott Proctor, Jr., was master of ceremonies for the annual banquet.

A Dissenting View

Liberal Scholars Fail Meet Threat From Extreme Left

Liberal scholars on our campuses fail to meet threats from the extreme left while facing up to challenges from the radical right. Why? A conservative professor of political science at East Carolina University explains in this last part of a series.

By JOHN B. EAST
THE MOST CRUCIAL effect of faculty liberalism on American campuses is upon the students.

Students bear out its effect on young people. As well-known sociologist Seymour Lipset puts it, "Universities clearly do have a liberalizing effect, so that there is a gradual shift to the left." It is hardly surprising that liberal faculties would produce liberal students.

The problem goes beyond that to the radicalism of the student New Left. Here we confront that chronic malady of the liberal in which there are "no enemies to the left." This problem has been stated well by University of Chicago Prof. Theodore Lowi, himself a liberal:

Liberals are famously capable of handling demands that originate from their right. Their defenses are well organized, their responses are facile yet firm, their knowledge of what is negotiable and what is non-negotiable is unmistakably clear. In contrast, liberals are almost completely incapable of handling demands that issue from their left. Complaints from the left confuse the liberal. Complaints from the left automatically weaken him by implication that he is not liberal enough. Demands from the left make him feel illegit. And the liberal feels this way regardless of the actual substantive character of the demands. Facing left, the liberal frankly cannot distinguish a good demand from a bad one, for voices from the left remove his bearings.

When student New Left radicalism erupts on a campus, for the reasons Lowi outlines, the liberal scholars are often put to rout in disarray. If the radicals are identifiable young fascists, the liberal professoriate resolutely meets the threat and subdues it (and rightly so).

However, because this fanaticism is of leftist origins, the liberal professors are frequently put to flight. Liberal dominance of our faculties then not only has the effect of sanctioning New Left radicalism, but ac-

Hepburn's 'Shades' Started It In '37

By SUSAN STAVIS
NEW YORK (WNS) — When Katharine Hepburn strolled down Sunset Boulevard in her sunglasses one sunny day in 1937, she unwittingly started a multi-million-dollar fad that today has a following of more than 100 million Americans.

Statistics show that while the biggest use of sunglasses is concentrated in Southern California and the Southeast, they are popular all over, and — nowadays — all year long. Twenty per cent of the sunglasses sold last year were bought during the winter months.

Surveys show that women are the leading users, many of them having two or more pairs to complement their various ensembles.

Shades, as the youngsters and Panthers call them, dropped in popularity for a while back in the 1940's, after enjoying a vogue with the stars of Hollywood and their imitators.

But now they're back in the limelight as the latest fashion accessory, an up-to-date version of Oriental veil that masked and at the same time enhances women's beauty.

Every man, woman and child in the nation owns at least one pair of sunglasses, according to an industry spokesman, M. Joseph Dunn, president of American Optical Corp.'s Cool-Ray Division. About 24 million people wear prescription sunglasses, he says.

Celebrities, again, were responsible for setting the whole trend. Remember Audrey Hepburn in "Breakfast at Tiffany's," Jean Paul Belmondo in "Breathless," Paul Newman, Steve McQueen, the Beatles, the Rolling Stones and Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis?

Like women's hats, sunglasses now come in all colors and shapes. With them, horizons can look rosy, yellow, tan, gray or green. The variety of shapes is an indication of why many fashion-conscious women own more than one pair of shades: aviator, wrap-around, TV-screen, domino, square, circular, hexagonal and octagonal.

The favorite frame colors, according to various firms, are tortoise shell, black and the gold metals. The favored colors for lenses are neutral, gray and tan. Bigger and bigger frames are the most sought after.

To keep up with changing fashions, sunglass designers visit design centers in Europe. Style decisions are made about a year and a half before a new design is put on the market.

Flavor change: cook strips of green pepper with green peas; top with strips of canned pimiento.

Madame Edmond Lanier Says: 'Greenville Will Be Second Home'

By ROSALIE TROTMAN
Reflector Woman's Editor
"Greenville will be my second home since my son, Jean, was married to the former Judy Webb," said Madame Edmond Lanier of Paris, France.
Madame Lanier is the guest of Judy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Webb for four days. She first visited Judy and Jean in their home in Ithaca, N.Y., where he is finishing his Masters at Cornell. Judy plans to finish her own Masters at UNC at Chapel Hill when the two are in Greenville for Christmas. The young Laniers will move to Paris in March after spending the month of February with Mr. and Mrs. Webb.

Madame Lanier has made six trips to the United States and has cruised to such other places as the Caribbean, Rio De Janeiro, San Helena, the Middle East, Japan, Turkey and Corsica.
A native Parisian, Madame Lanier remarked, "There are several American-French marriages on my side of the family — we feel that America is our second country."
"I was born during World War I and almost every girl was named France — therefore I cannot tell a story about my age," she said.

In commenting on General Charles DeGaulle's death, Madame Lanier replied, "He was a giant of World War II and when he was in the government, I admired his capabilities. He was powerful but he needed more stable relations with other countries."
The Laniers often vacation in Corsica. Last summer Monsieur and Madame Lanier had as their guests, Judy Webb and Jean, their youngest son, also Martine Lebreully, who is engaged to their second son, Francois, who is studying to be a medical doctor and will graduate in December.

Their daughter, Isabell Essig, who was married 10 years ago, her husband, Phillip, and three children, Pierre, Ann and Mary, and their oldest son, Henri, were also guests on Corsica.
Monsieur Lanier is presently occupied with business — he is chairman of the board of the French Line and Air France. Madame Lanier traveled to America this trip by Air France, although she is partial to ships.

During his off-duty time, Monsieur Lanier is busy at the Club France-America promoting good will between France and America — it is devoted to French-American relationship.
Madame Lanier wears elegant clothes which are carefully selected and the length is midi.
"Madame Lanier is a very vivacious and most gracious, lovely person," said Mrs. Webb. "She endeared herself to many people when she was here for the August wedding of Jean and Judy. We were happy that she wanted to visit with us again so that we might get to know her better," Mrs. Webb continued. "The hospitality here is more than I imagined — I stayed with Jim and June Ficklen for Judy and Jean's wedding and I loved them and all they did for me. Now back at the Webbs', I feel at home," added Madame Lanier.

During her visit here, Madame Lanier has been entertained by her friends. On Tuesday night, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Clark Jr. were dinner host and hostess and Wednesday's events included a luncheon given by Mr. and Mrs. John G. Clark Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Ficklen. Mrs. J. Bryan Brown gave a cocktail party with a dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Ficklen Jr. last night.

First In Series Completed By AAUW Monday

The first of three series which the AAUW will study this year was concluded on Monday night by Dr. James J. Knipe.
Dr. Knipe is a professor of economics at East Carolina University. He is also a businessman, writer and teacher.
He analyzed the changes which have taken place on the university campuses in the past five years. He attempted to foresee the solution to the current problems on campuses.
Dr. Knipe credited television, excessive wealth and relaxed moral ethics as having caused the current changes. He was introduced by Dr. Tora Larsen.

A business session was conducted by Mrs. Wellington Gray. Members were reminded to support the Fellowship Fund.
Cookbooks and zip code manuals will be sold with the project money being added to the ECU Scholarship Fund.
Mrs. Daniel Taylor, treasurer reported that $40 was contributed to UNICEF by the AAUW.

The group voted to send $10 to the North Carolina Museum of Art Memorial Fund in honor of the late Dr. Robert Humber.
Mrs. W. A. Pollard, Mrs. Gray and other area chairmen plan to attend the state meeting of AAUW in Salisbury on Feb. 20. All local reports are due at this meeting.

Lector Club Meets Tuesday

On Tuesday, Mrs. Louis Gaylord entertained members of the Lector Book Club at the bazaar-luncheon at the First Christian Church.
After the luncheon, a short business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Howard Waldrop, president.
Mrs. E. C. Wilkerson was a guest for the meeting.

Farsightedness

What is hyperopia? "Hyperopia" is what we call, "farsightedness". This may mean that you see objects poorly at close range. Or it may mean you must hold something farther away in order to see it clearly. It may be caused by one eye being shorter than normal, by a fraction of an inch.

It is estimated that between one quarter and one third of the adults in this country need glasses to correct hyperopia. Because nearsightedness in a child may lead to crossed eyes, it is important to have your children's eyes examined every year. Start at least by the age of three. Crossed eyes often result in the loss of vision of one eye. Experts say that two-thirds of these losses could have been prevented by early examination and treatment.

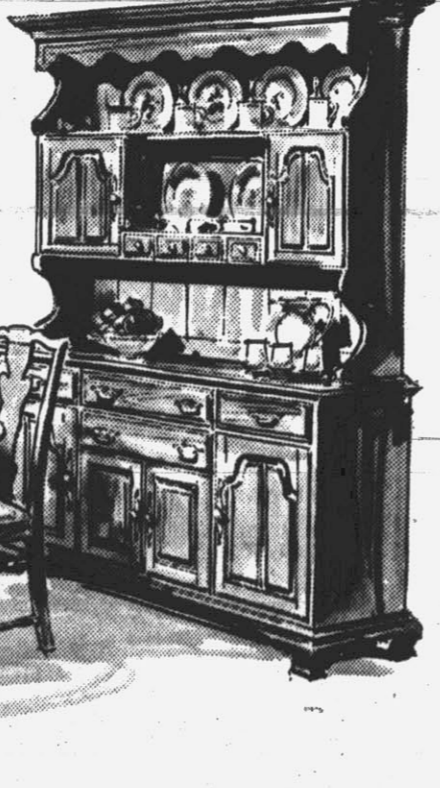

WATCH NEXT WEEK FOR New Ways To Use Our Eyes. Take good care of your eyes. Protect them with daily care and regular check-ups. And when you need glasses, come to RIDGEWAY'S OPTICIANS. Like Many Other Airports

Lack of funds, the president of the Tri-State Airport board said, was responsible for the airport's not having the necessary guidance equipment of which say could have prevented the tragic accident which took the lives of 75 people including the Marshall football team.

The airport at which the plane was attempting to land had neither radar equipment nor a system which warned pilots whose planes dropped below the safe glide path to landings.

In these respects, the Tri-State airport is not unlike literally hundreds of others around the country where chartered planes take off and land frequently. Lack of funds to provide equipment is a problem faced by the governing authority of almost every small airport. The officials do the best they can with funds that are forthcoming from local, state and federal sources, and do without equipment which may be "necessary" but for which funds are not available.

Nevertheless, these small airports are used for flights such as that of the Marshall football team. They are used because of convenience and because of the heavy normal traffic which poses a problem as well as a hazard at larger, better equipped airports.

Goal Keyed To Small Success

By BRYAN HAISLIP
CHAPEL HILL — For those used to failure, small successes can be the start of a new pattern of achievement. That's a major premise of a pre-vocational training program initiated by the North Carolina Manpower Development Corporation and now being tried out in the state's community college system.

George Autry, MDC executive director, described the program as a bridge for the disadvantaged from the poverty culture of defeat and underemployment to the middle class world of a regular job with its responsibilities and rewards. Its potential in solving manpower problems has been hailed by Governor Bob Scott, who encouraged the pilot effort now underway at Lenoir Community College in Kingston. Contingent upon funds from the 1971 General Assembly, it will be further extended through the 34 technical institutes and community colleges which cover the state within commuting distance of 95 per cent of Tar Heel population.

Fashioned through innovation and experimentation at MDC centers in Greensboro, Raleigh and Craven County, the eight-week course instilled basic adult educational level — 43 per cent of Tar Heel adults have attained the 8th grade or less. The second aims to teach how to get along with supervisors and fellow workers, instilling motivation to get and hold a job.

Success Gives Incentive
The adult basic education classes grade levels about 1 1/2 grades," said Autry. "By that that's not important enough, true, but it reinforces the human resources development — the motivational part of the program. Trainees see themselves making progress. They have always failed before. Moving ahead in English, math and reading gives them a needed victory."

MDC, nearing its third birthday, emerged from the efforts of the North Carolina Fund which was a private organization battling poverty before the federal Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) program came on the scene. Its basic approach in tackling manpower problems is the direct involvement of business and industry leaders — those who have the jobs — in programs to benefit the jobless poor.

Luther H. Hodges, Jr., executive vice president of North Carolina National Bank, is chairman of the 27-member board of directors including union, community college, university, State Employment Security Commission, and community action agency officials and top corporate managers in the state. Autry, a 33-year-old Wilmington native with Washington experience as staff counsel for two U.S. Senate subcommittees and legislative assistant for a Senator, heads the permanent staff of 80.

N.C. Is Unique
No other state has a comparable private non-profit corporation with the flexibility, staff and money of MDC engaged in a concerted effort to deal with manpower problems.

The aim, Autry explained, is to identify manpower gaps, devise solutions, and house programs in established institutions or agencies. "Our function is to be a resource to existing agencies, not to be competing or self-perpetuating," he added.

Pre-vocational training is an apt example. Having been developed and tested by MDC, it is now ready for adoption into the community college system.

Autry and the staff are looking for a home for a companion program, designed to give supervisors insight into job problems of minorities and the disadvantaged. "Most supervisors and managers have no experience with poor people in the industrial setting," Autry noted.

Out of the tragedy this week-end have come new demands that steps be taken to better equip smaller airports with necessary radar and guidance devices. Such a step will do nothing to ease the shock and sadness that has resulted from Saturday night's crash, but it could prevent other future accidents.

Another ten feet of altitude, officials say, and the landing would have been routine. It would have been another flight by another team marred only by a three-point loss in a football game.

How does one compare the loss at Huntington with what it would have cost to provide the equipment which local airport officials recognized was needed even before Saturday's tragedy?

Dubious Prospect For 'Lame Duck' Congress

It may be that the post-election session of Congress will accomplish something, but as a lame duck session this is doubtful.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott expects it to be an "unmitigated disaster." He expects political disputes and attempts to load down legislation with pet projects of law makers who will not be coming back next year.

That may be, but there is still important business hanging that Congress failed to handle before the election. If these elected officials are the statesmen they claim to be, then they will put petty differences aside and get down to business.

Perhaps this is too much to expect of a post election Congress, but that is what the public should demand.

Winner, And Still Senator

By JOHN KILGO
BURLINGTON — State Sen. Ralph Scott sat in his tiny office, the walls and floor cluttered with old milk bottles, newspapers, books and plaques, and chuckled devilishly: "I'd sure hate to lose by 13 or 14 votes, but I'm happy as hell to win by that many."

Sen. Ralph Scott will be 67 years old next month. He has a sandpaper voice, penetrating blue eyes, the courage to speak his convictions, and he just happens to be the Uncle of North Carolina Gov. Bob Scott. His bid for reelection to the State Senate from Alamance County was very nearly hijacked by one Hubert G. Lowe, a Republican who serves as Alamance County coroner and makes a living selling automobiles.

When the votes were tabulated on the night of Nov. 3, Scott has 7,588 to Lowe's 7,574. Not exactly a landslide. The Republicans claimed irregularities in the vote but the Alamance County Elections Board investigated their claims and says Scott is still the Senator. The Republicans say they will appeal to the State Board of Elections.

"A lot of things accounted for the close race," Sen. Scott said in an interview. "The Republicans intervened in on me. They put a lot of money into the campaign against me. I hear the Republican national headquarters put $4,000 into this county to whip me."

State Republican Party Chairman Jim Holshouser had predicted before the election that some "big heads in the Democrat Party would roll."

Scott laughs about that now, although election night wasn't exactly a victory blast.

"Yeah," he says, leaning back in his chair, "I was one of those big heads that was supposed to roll. But my head ain't as big as Mr. Holshouser thinks it is. I knew the election was going to be close. They put up billboards and did some things that were never done in a state senate race up here. All my friends kept telling me I had nothing to worry about and in politics, that's a sure sign of trouble."

Sen. Scott says the Republicans felt they could embarrass his nephew, Robert the Governor, if they could unseat Uncle Ralph in Alamance.

"I was linked with all the taxes," Sen. Scott says. "The Republicans were for all the programs . . . roads, higher pay for teachers . . . but were against all the taxes. The Republicans have been irresponsible here lately. In the last Legislature, they voted for what was good for the Republican Party rather than what was good for the people. It was a close race but I won. That's what counts."

Sen. Scott has many of the ways of his late brother, former Tar Heel Gov. Kerr Scott. When it comes time to fight, he'll stick out his jaw and stick in there with the heavy hitters.

He has his brother's feel of politics, as well as his love for it. Ask him about retiring from public office and he smiles at you and quotes Will Rogers: "A few politicians die. None retire."

"Politics is only one thing to me," Sen. Scott said. "It's a chance to help people with their problems. A lady called me here not long back and said her husband just didn't like being in prison. She said he ought to be home taking care of his family, but if I couldn't arrange that, the least I could do was have him sent to a prison that suited him. I told her, Lady, they ain't running no Holiday Inn down there. But I went ahead and looked into the case to see what I could do."

Barring a switch in those 14 votes, which isn't likely, Ralph Scott will be going back to the State Senate, where he serves as chairman of the Finance Committee. "It looks to me like Holshouser and Robert (the Governor) has a little sparring match over me," Sen. Scott says, "and Robert won."

That brought another chuckle. The Scott family of Haw River, N. C., doesn't take kindly to losing.

Strength For Today

THE FREEDOM OF CHOICE A BLESSING?

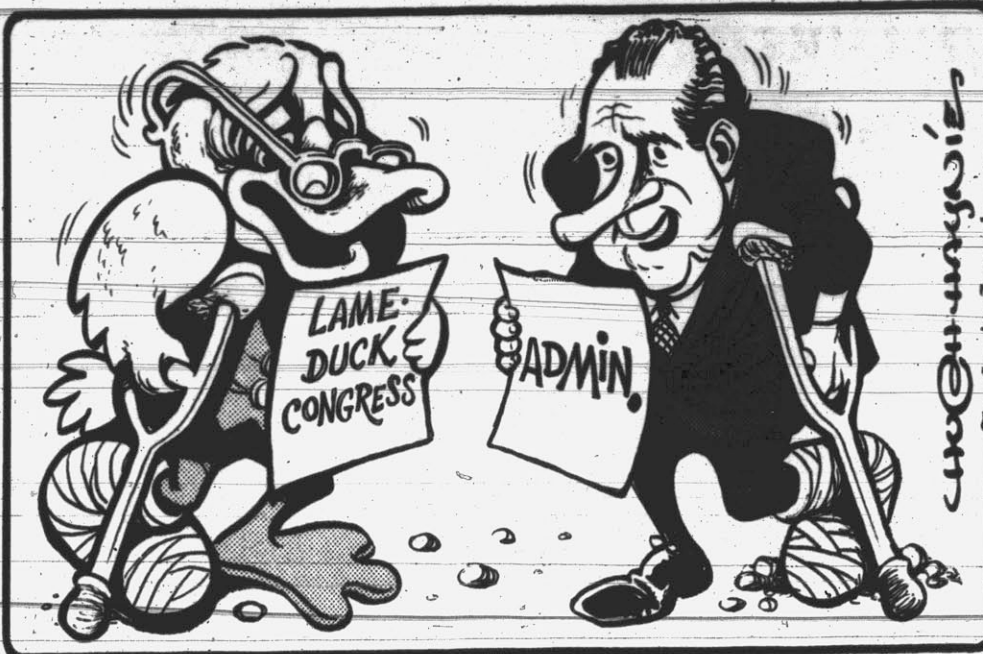

For some reason known only to Himself, God has given us free will. He commands us to do certain things, but we do not have to obey. He gives us wise counsel, but we do not have to follow his advice. He marks out pathways in which we may walk and gives us light that we may see, but we can walk in pathways of our own choosing if we so desire and turn our backs on the light.

Yes, we can do all these things, but we cannot do them with impunity. We can disobey God if we want to, but in the end we shall have to pay for this disobedience. We can buck the universe as much as we like, but in the end the universe proves a pretty substantial thing for us to beat our heads against. It is when we start to exercise our free will and turn a deaf ear to God's commands that trouble begins. That is the meaning of the Garden of Eden story. The pair in the garden had everything a newly created world could furnish, including free will. By the wrong use of free will they destroyed every advantage which had been theirs and made necessary their expulsion into a world infested with briars and alive with the spirit of evil.

Freedom of will is one of life's greatest privileges, if we use it properly. But it can blow us and our happiness into fragments if we misuse it.

Ignore World Realities

The United Nations has redoubled its security arrangements. The glass menagerie down by the East River now is patrolled by scores of guards and fenced off by lumber barricades. If their purpose is to keep honesty out and hypocrisy within, they are doing an excellent job.

Pity the poor UN! She is dead at 25 — dead or so nearly dead as not to matter, done in by the vapors, the victim of her own internal bleeding. The sanctions on Rhodesia, the credentials of South Africa, the reality that is Red China—in the gross folly of its approach to these matters, the UN trudges on to the beat of muffled drums.

The fault at bottom is a fault of excess — an excess of morality, an excess of illusion. These are luxuries no league of nations can afford. Morality is as out of place in such a body as innocence in a house of ill fame. Moralists should transact their business at some other store. And illusions are fine for making magic on a stage, but they are fatal handicaps in dealing with men who would saw real worlds in half.

As to Rhodesia, the hypocritical dumbshow goes on. This past November 11 marked the fifth anniversary of Rhodesia's actual, de facto, independence from Great Britain. In observance thereof, twelve members of the Security Council solemnly voted on November 10 in support of a resolution reaffirming the continued sovereignty of the Queen.

That was not exactly the thrust of the resolution, to be sure, but that was the illusion on which it was based. Behind the illusion was this moral proposition, that in denying one man, one vote, to her black citizens, Rhodesia has acted immorally. The proposition is supported by a gaggle of eye-rolling Afro-Asian nations whose every domestic political act puts the lie to their piety.

Even the United States of America, to our shame, sings along in this lugubrious chorus. And in our own case, the hypocrisy is especially contemptible. Our own U.S.A. came into existence, just as Rhodesia did, by breaking away as a colony of Britain. Our own record as to blacks was worse by far than Rhodesia's: We sanctioned human slavery in the supreme law of our land. Who is the United States, considering the plight of the American Indian, to gaze upon sinful Rhodesia and say, "We are holier than thou"?

The United Nations was created 25 years ago on the specific understanding that it would not intervene in the domestic affairs of member nations. This was the in-

Other Editors Say A Reminder

(Jacksonville Daily News)

The voters have been wooed, and the ballots have been counted. Now the successful candidates for voter representation can get down to the real business at hand . . . representing the people.

We have a few suggestions on directions into which this representation can be channeled, and number one is an all - our legislative fight against drug abuse.

This is closely followed by alcohol abuses, particularly in the cases of the drunken drivers. Today let's look at the drug situation.

For opens we urge our legislators to do something about creating an agency, or agencies, which can quickly assess the various narcotics, or suspected narcotics, which are confiscated by law enforcement officers.

It is a common, and reasonable complaint, among law enforcement officers that there is entirely too much delay in ascertaining the narcotic qualities of these legal confiscations.

Consequently prosecution is hampered and in many instances lesser pleas are accepted in order to just dispose of these cases. Drug abuse is getting entirely too close to our homes, and it will get even closer if something is not done to unsmarl delays in assessing and evaluation of evidence procured by law enforcement officers.

This drug abuse has already extended to area school campuses, with one arrest having been made on the campus. Also one school teacher has been arrested on narcotics charges. Neither the guilt, nor any degree of guilt has yet been determined through the courts.

However, we feel that our legislators can expedite the work of law enforcement officers by the provision of the tools needed. We feel that the added tax placed on soft drinks by the last Assembly could well be used in the war on drug abuse.

Why not use this money to establish adequate agencies for backing up the officers and expediting the work of our courts. It's later than we think!

Unemployment Trend Will Cost

A big question facing America today is: Can we have full employment without inflation?

It's an important question because unemployment threatens to be with us for some time. Even with the settlement of the General Motors strike and even with a renewal of the boom next year, there will be continuing unemployment.

In the past, there has always been a lag between recovery and a decline in unemployment. But, as the First National Bank of Boston points out in its November New England Letter, there are two special factors that will extend this lag. These are: "an unusually large number of people in their early twenties as a result of the postwar baby boom" and "discharged GIs looking for work," as the size of the armed forces is reduced.

More Unemployment In '71
The bank concludes that, while a strong recovery trend is indicated in the first half of 1971, the rapidly increasing civilian labor force will produce a steady rise in the rate of unemployment in the last three quarters of the year.

The unemployment rate as calculated by the Department of Labor was 5.6 per cent in September, and there is reason to believe that the actual unemployment was greater than the figures indicated. One reason is the fact that strikers are not counted as unemployed. The bank predicts that unemployment "would rise steadily and exceed 6.5 per cent late next year." This, it adds, "would be unacceptable to the administration and necessitate a policy change."

One change, it continues, would be the application of "more stimulative measures: rapid increases in the money supply and a larger deficit in the full employment budget than now planned. This stimulus would probably increase real growth in output and stop the rise in unemployment rates next year, but it would also increase the danger of a renewed burst of inflation."

Understatement
The last remark appears to be a gentle understatement. If those steps were taken, they would be purely inflationary. And while they would increase employment, they would reduce the value of

N.C. Bishop Given Duties In Virginia

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP) — Bishop William R. Cannon, head of the North Carolina Annual Conference of the United Methodist Church, has been chosen for added duties as acting bishop of the church in Virginia.

Bishop Cannon will continue to live in Raleigh. He will continue as bishop of the Raleigh area, which is the N.C. conference, and take on the work of Bishop Paul M. Herrick of the Virginia Conference. He will do so until Herrick's term expires in July 1972. Herrick's request for early retirement because of his health was granted by the Southeastern College of Bishops at a meeting in Atlanta Oct. 19.

Herrick and his wife plan to move to Dayton, Ohio, where he served for 10 years as bishop of that area in the former Evangelical United Brethren Church. That church merged with the Methodist Church in 1968 to form the United Methodist Church.

The announcement of Bishop Cannon's added assignment was made Wednesday night in Portland, Ore., by Bishop Kenneth Goodson of Birmingham, Ala., president of the Southeast Jurisdiction of the College of Bishops. Bishop Goodson was in Portland attending the church's national convention.

Cannon, 54, was dean of the Candler School of Theology at Emory University in Atlanta for 15 years until his appointment as bishop of Raleigh in 1968.

He is a graduate of the University of Georgia and the Yale Divinity School. He is a native of Chattanooga, Tenn.

Bishop Cannon is chairman of the board of trustees of the Protestant Radio and Television Center. From 1948 to 1960 he was a member of the Commission on Ritual and Worship of the Methodist Church.

celebrates its growth by often being innately incapable of moving against it.

It is not surprising that we have a minority of student radicals today on our campuses. In view of the politics of academe, it is amazing we do not have more of them and that they have not surfaced sooner.

Liberal dominance of the faculties means a shutting out of conservative thought and ideas. Students are likely to know of liberals Arthur Schlesinger Jr. and John Kenneth Galbraith, and they are almost certain to know of such assorted radicals and revolutionaries as Che Guevara, Fidel Castro, Ho Chi Minh, Malcolm X, Jerry Rubin, Jean Paul Sartre, Eldridge Cleaver, Abbie Hoffman and Herbert Marcuse. Their teachers have prepared them well.

On the other hand, ask them about Russell Kirk, Eric Voegelin, James Burnham, Richard Weaver, Frank Meyer, Willmoore Kendall, Leo Strauss, Thomas Molnar, Henry Hazlitt, Will Herberg, Robert Strausz-Hupe, Stefan Possony, Ernest van den Haag, Gerhart Niemeyer, Jeffrey Hart, George W. Carey, or any other figure of comparable stature affiliated with contemporary conservative thought, and it is likely they will never have heard of them.

At best, they may know of William F. Buckley Jr. (who doesn't?), but the image they will have of him is usually unfavorable. Why this ignorance and distortion? The liberal faculties have ignored these individuals, and when they do refer to them, it will be disparagingly.

Even such distinguished liberal figures as Prof. Sidney Hook of New York University and John Roche of Brandeis University are today pariahs in liberal-left academia, for both have been explicit, no-nonsense critics of New Left radicalism and international communism.

Liberal dominance of the academe means the textbooks reflect that fact, for the textbook publishers know their market. Neil McCaffery, head of the Conservative Book Club of Arlington House, was asked, "Does Arlington House ever intend to invade the textbook field?" He answered:

"Not in the foreseeable future . . . It's a tight field, very hard and costly to break into. Even more important, the educationist hierarchy would not be sympathetic to a conservative publisher."

In fact, the advertising brochures promoting books for classroom use with which political science teachers are enticed today often go far beyond the liberal pale. The "in" books of the moment are by such radical figures as Jerry Rubin and Herbert Marcuse.

Rubin, member of the Chicago Seven and self-styled leader of the Yippies, recently wrote a book entitled "Do It!" The book is the expected conglomerate of radical-revolutionary rhetoric and posturing. On page one the well-known and established publisher advises, "Read this book stoned!"

Marcuse, professor of philosophy at the University of California at San Diego and guru of New Left intellectuals, is publishing heavily these days for the academic market. Although garbed in academic jargon and free of obscenities, his message is the same as Rubin's. Marcuse's publisher writes that it "is proud to have published" Marcuse's works.

Although the publishers know the faculty liberal will not approve of much of what

Rubin and Marcuse propose, they do know it will titillate him. In brief, there is a market for political pornography on our liberal campuses today, and the publishers are taking full advantage of it.

A profound effect of faculty liberalism has been, in the words of Russell Kirk, the growth of "Behemoth University" in America. With liberal faith in mass education, the emphasis in higher education has often been on size rather than quality, with the resulting impersonality and IBM syndrome of the modern campus. This has been a contributing factor to student radicalism, for it fosters rootlessness and alienation.

There is reason to believe conservative guidance would have stressed quality over quantity, the personal over the impersonal; it would have kept research and teaching in proper balance, and because of this emphasis it is doubtful that anomie and alienation would have blossomed so extensively on the modern campus.

Finally, where liberal educational theory has been preoccupied with the "now" and the relevant, the conservative would more likely have stressed the long view philosophically and historically, and he would have encouraged appreciation of "the permanent things." It is doubtful he would have politicized the campus for his own point of view.

But, alas, conservative influence on the campus has not been sufficiently pronounced in recent decades, and the liberal-left has presided over the rise of "Behemoth University."

dispensable rule. But in the matter of South Africa, that indispensable rule would be dispensed with. Apartheid is an official policy of the government of South Africa; but apartheid is immoral; therefore, let the credentials of that government's delegation be put to challenge.

This is the logic of lunatic asylums. Rhodesia is. South Africa is. Israel is. East Germany is. Cuba under Castro is. Red China is. And so, for that matter, Formosa is, and the 14 million Chinese who have fashioned a viable state on Taiwan now constitute a political entity that is.

In the light of these realities, what is gained for the UN by sweet homilies on morality? The late Shelby Little, a wise critic of foreign affairs, once wrote that the United Nations ought never to be confused with a gentlemen's club, in which applicants are judged by their social graces. It was bad manners for Mr. Khrushchev to pound upon the table with his shoe — bad manners, but honest statecraft.

Well, a flicker of sanity may be observed as to China. In another two or three years, if the patient manages to survive that long, the UN will do what should have been done long ago: It will give the Security Council seat to Red China, and acknowledge the reality of Formosa with a seat in the Assembly.

Meanwhile, the folly remains of the UN's approach to Rhodesia, and to South Africa. To which one says only, and again, and again: Rhodesia is. South Africa is. Rhodesia is. South Africa is. South Africa is...

jobs in industry, the Management Awareness Program helps supervisors understand new workers from the poverty culture.

This year, about a dozen companies and agencies have put 340 supervisors through the program.

Half a million people without jobs or employed below their trainable capacity make up the dimensions of North Carolina's manpower problem.

Unsolved, it will continue to pull down the state's rank in per capita income, impede efforts for growth of the total economy, and waste human resources of ability and energy. By the same token, as manpower gaps are identified and bridged, the state will move just that much further along in economic development.

Some May Share Feelings Of Guilt

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I help run a very high class nursing home and there is something which puzzles me.

Why is it when a person has spent months and even years in our nursing home, and he dies here, the family doesn't want it mentioned in the obituary that their relative died in a nursing home?

Do you think it is because they are ashamed that their loved one didn't pass away at home under their family's care?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Some people still suffer some guilt feelings about putting a family member in a nursing home, especially if the nursing home is not regarded as first class. These feelings are quite unnecessary in most cases, of course. The nursing home is becoming more and more a commonplace institution in our society.

DEAR ABBY: I am a happily married woman with a devoted husband and four, beautiful, school-age children. Money, we have little, but we have been blessed. After struggling with this problem for years I have decided to write to you. Maybe one of your readers can help me.

Nothing will wake me up in the morning. I've tried everything I have ever heard of: Sleeping with the alarm clock next to my ear. Sleeping with the alarm clock clear across the room. Setting two alarm clocks on opposite sides of the room. I have even set one alarm clock in the dishpan.

Before I go to sleep I keep telling myself over and over that I must get up in the morning. The rest of my family is as sleepyheaded as I am, and if I don't wake everybody else up, we all oversleep. I hear the alarm, turn it off, and go back to sleep again. Can you help me?

SLEEPYHEAD

DEAR SLEEPYHEAD: First try getting to bed earlier. And earlier and earlier. Then set two alarm clocks on opposite sides of the room, and after you have shut them off, immediately bathe your face and hands [all the way up to your elbows!] in cold water. Another suggestion. Don't let your husband and children depend on you to get them up. Insist that they get themselves up. After they have suffered the consequences of being late for work and school a few times, they'll cure themselves.

DEAR ABBY: Last Sunday, my husband and I drove over to visit his widowed mother.

As we were leaving, my mother-in-law says to my husband, "Next time, come alone so we can talk." [And she didn't whisper it, either.]

Abby, I always knew that my mother-in-law wasn't the smartest person in the world, but wouldn't you think she would have more brains than to say this in front of me?

On the way home I told my husband that from now on he can visit his mother alone all the time, and then they can "talk" as much as they want to.

Abby, I have bent over backwards to be a good daughter-in-law. Do you blame me for being burned up?

BURNED UP

DEAR BURNED: No. I suspect the poor dear isn't playing with a full deck.

DEAR ABBY: Tell "Young Mother" there is no "right" time to tell her adopted child that he is adopted. The time is now!

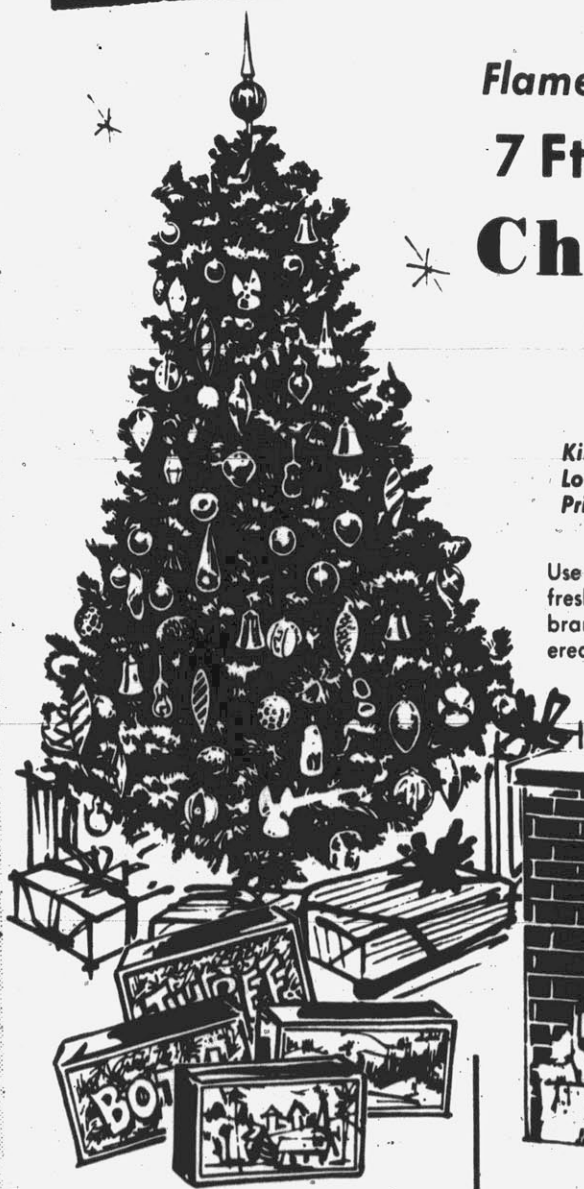

My wife and I have an adopted son, row three and one-half, and he knows he is adopted and he will tell the world he is. And so will we. God knows we love him, and he knows we love him, and we don't care who knows he's adopted. We are proud of it.

We have three other children, born to us, and they know we love them, too. No more because they are our "natural children"—and no less. That's what it's all about. L-O-V-E.

Sincerely,
BILL M., CINCINNATI

Quota-Setting Foreign Trade Bill Still 'Alive'

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A quota-setting foreign trade bill that backers say would protect threatened U.S. industries has narrowly survived a House parliamentary battle.

With the parliamentary struggle over, the bill drastically modifying the 35-year-old U.S. policy of freer trade was set for expected passage today.

Opponents hoping to strike the quotas and other provisions they say would "kick off a real trade war" at first Wednesday won a rare 204-189 rejection of the House leadership's take-it-or-leave-it rule against amending the bill on the floor.

But then Ways and Means Committee Chairman Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., threatened to pull the bill off the floor if it were opened up for rewriting and the House reversed itself to accept the no-amendment rule, 203 to 186.

Critics called the import-curbing quotas on foreign textiles, shoes and apparel a dangerous break with world free trade and a move to U.S. economic isolationism.

But Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Wis., said both Japan and the European Common Market, which have hinted at retaliation if quotas are imposed against them, "would have far more to lose in a trade war because they rely on world trade to a much greater degree than the United States."

Mills told the House that American-made shirts and printed fabrics would be driven off the market within five years by cheaper imports if the textile quotas are not imposed. Foreign-made shoes also threaten the U.S. industry, he said.

Discounting an estimate that the quotas would cost consumers $3.7 billion a year in higher prices by 1975, Mills said consumers are workers but those in the textile and shoe industries would not remain workers without the quotas.

Mills also defended the bill's perpetuation of oil quotas, which opponents say adds $5 billion to $7 billion a year to the price of oil.

A less restrictive tariff system, Mills said, would automatically drive up oil prices.

He said a new formula in the bill would impose semiautomatic quotas on other foreign products when "they are coming in with such speed and velocity" as to threaten competing U.S. industries. But even then, he said, the President could refuse to impose the quotas if he declared they are "not in the national interest."

Rep. Richard Bolling, D-Mo., said "this bill is headed in the wrong direction at the wrong time for the wrong reasons. 'This is a move toward economic isolationism. And it's a dangerous step for this lame duck Congress to even consider it.'"

Workers At GMC Plant Called Back

DETROIT (AP) — Workers at one strikebound General Motors plant were due to report to their jobs today for the first time in nine weeks, but the United Auto Workers international vetoed a back-to-work move at a second plant.

GM gave callback notices to the 3,000 hourly rated employees at a Fisher Body Division plant at Kalamazoo, Mich., and to 2,500 at a Fisher Body plant in Grand Blanc, Mich.

But the union ordered workers at the Grand Blanc plant, near Flint, not to report to work until Monday, when a tentative national contract currently being voted on is expected to go into effect.

It could not be learned why the union gave apparently contradictory orders. Union locals at both plants have approved both the national contract and plant level agreements.

Don Ellis, UAW regional director for the Flint area, said "orders came down from the international" that no one was to report for work until the national contract is ratified.

Spokesmen for the local at Kalamazoo said Wednesday they had received no such orders.

General Motors said it would welcome any workers who wished to return to either plant.

The pace of ratification of the national contract accelerated Wednesday as 27 locals voted approval, bringing the number of units which have ratified to 53 of 155.

The first rejection of the pact by a bargaining unit, however, was also recorded Wednesday when members of the Technical Center engineering staff in Warren, Mich., voted 44 to 27 not to ratify.

With news of the callback Wednesday, hopes rose that GM might be able to get back into full production by its target date of Dec. 1.

Of the 155 GM bargaining units 50 are without local settlements, which supplement the national contract.

Farm Bureau Plans Push For Cigarette Tax Repeal

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Farm Bureau intends to make a strong effort to get the 1971 General Assembly to repeal the state's two-cent-a-pack tax on cigarettes.

This was decided Wednesday as the Farm Bureau delegates ended a three-day convention.

They beat down efforts to soften the organization's opposition to the tax enacted by the 1969 legislature. This came when a compromise resolution was offered by Bailey Williamson of Knightdale in Wake County calling for the Farm Bureau to "oppose any increase" in the cigarette tax.

"Hoping to repeal this tax," Williamson said, "is like looking down the mouth of a dead horse."

Francis Hardy of Lenoir County urged that efforts be made to repeal the tax. He said, "Unless we speak up, they (legislators) will take the one-cent tax off soft drinks and put it on tobacco. Let's work to get this (cigarette) tax repealed or put a similar tax on everything."

The convention rejected a proposal endorsing the sale of flue-cured tobacco allotments within the county.

Leroy Simmons of Albemarle told the delegates he was strongly opposed to the proposal because it would lead to a statewide or possibly nationwide selling of such allotments to non-growers and even to big corporations.

JOBS GROWING

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Despite a freeze on unessential job hirings ordered last year by Gov. Louis B. Nunn, the state payroll has been growing by 2 per cent. Personnel officials attributed the rise to new federal programs which require Kentuckians to staff.

Also defeated was a substitute proposal that sale of allotments be permitted, but only to other tobacco growers within the county.

The convention also voted down a proposal by Henry E. Ferrell of Knightdale that the Farm Bureau tobacco committee study the feasibility of dropping acreage limitations on flue-cured production and present the findings to next year's convention.

Since 1965, production controls have been based both on acreage allotments and poundage marketing quotas.

The delegates rejected a resolution that transfer of tobacco poundage quota be permitted all during the year. At present, lease and transfer agreements must be filed with the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service by April 1 each year. In other action, the convention:

—Approved a resolution favoring sale of burley tobacco allotments, with the proviso that the grower be permitted to sell one-half of the acreage to other producers in the county and the other half to the government for removal from production.

—Approved a motion that federal legislation be amended so that the price support level on tobacco will be based on the parity index for the previous year.

—Called for "any necessary steps" to be taken to bring about "an honest booking system" among auction warehouses and called on growers to stop selling tobacco with warehouses that refuse to "book" or reserve sales space in advance.

Special Youth Rally Part Of Activities

A special youth rally will be part of the Lay Witness Mission at St. James United Methodist Church this weekend, it has been announced.

A group of some 20 youths of junior high school through college age, will be among the more than 50 witnesses coming to Greenville for the three-day mission. The Rev. Christian White, pastor of St. James, emphasized that the youth rally, as well as the adult sessions are for all citizens of Greenville, not just St. James members.

The Youth sessions will get underway Friday at 6:30 p.m. with a covered dish supper at the church, followed at 7:30 p.m. by a service of worship and sharing.

Saturday, 10 a.m. coffee hours will be held in various homes throughout the parish, with noon luncheons to follow at the church.

A 7:30 p.m. service will also be held Saturday night.

The witnesses will be in charge of Sunday School lessons, and both the 8:45 and 11 a.m. worship services of the church on Sunday.

Rev. White said that members of the team are coming to Greenville from as far away as Pennsylvania, "Traveling at their own expense for the purpose of sharing out of their own experiences and transforming power of Jesus Christ in their lives."

Dawkins Named Director Of Sheltered Workshop

Howard G. Dawkins has been named director of the Eastern Carolina Sheltered Workshop and Vocational Rehabilitation Center, it was announced by Joseph O. Clark, president of the board of directors of the center.

In making the announcement, Clark said, "We are happy to have a man of such outstanding background to fill this position. We feel very fortunate in securing Dawkins to fill this important place of leadership in our community."

"There are many plans and we feel he will give us the leadership in developing the Center to the potential it has for serving the mentally and physical handicapped and the emotionally disturbed," Clark stated.

"With the cooperation of the various agencies of our community, it is our plan to develop a training program, evaluation, and extended workshop that will help individuals obtain their highest potential," Clark explained.

Dawkins served as Eastern Regional Alcoholism Program Coordinator for the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center, Greenville, before accepting his new position at the workshop.

He has also served as adult counselor with the Foryth Technical Institute and has held several pastorates. He was active in the organization of six new churches and two missions and a new parsonage in Kinston. He also helped renovate church property and purchased additional property in Concord, as well as obtaining a new parsonage there.

Dawkins was a trustee of Wake Forest University for four years and was vice-chairman of the executive committee. He was also a trustee at Campbell College for four years and was

GOD SQUAD

MONTREAL (AP) — Six chaplains at Sir George Williams University have been nicknamed the God Squad and are attracting more student interest than ever before. Anglican chaplain Rev. John Wright says the name may be partly responsible for their new success, explaining that "it's certainly dispelled the old image of the aged chaplain handing out religious advice."

chairman of the executive committee. He served two terms on the Southern Baptist Hospital Board, was moderator of the Neuse Association for seven years and served two terms as a member of the Council for Christian Education of North Carolina Baptists.

His community activities include campaign chairman and president of the United Fund, director of the Council of Boy Scouts for 12 years, Rotary Club member, member of the Salvation Army Board for 10 years and past-president of the North Carolina Ministers Alumni of Wake Forest. He was also director of the Lenoir School of Nursing for 12 years and was president of Cabarrus County Ministerial Association. Dawkins received the B.A. degree from Wake Forest University in 1938 and the Master of Theology of Southern Theological Seminary in 1942.

He worked one-and-one-half years on the Ph.D. of Southern Seminary in the field of archeology and sociology. He interned in clinical research and counseling at the School of Pastoral Care, North Carolina Baptist Hospital and Bowman-Gray and was a resident in clinical education and counseling there.

He is married to the former Carmen Morgan Dawkins, a teacher at Rose High School, and they have three children.

"With the outstanding people that make up the Advisory Board and Board of Directors, I join in their enthusiasm to help reach the physically handicapped, mentally retarded, socially maladjusted and those in need of vocational training," Dawkins said.

He continued, "Realizing that there are many helping agencies that will make our work a reality, we hope to cooperate with the school system, vocational rehabilitation, Pitt Technical Institute, East Carolina University, the Developmental Evaluation Clinic, the ascholism rehabilitation program, the mental retardation association, the mental health association and other local, state and federal agencies.

"We at the Center see ourselves as an important cog in the resocialization of those with a handicap in our community. It will be our plans to develop a program of training and evaluation that will be meaningful to our clients," Dawkins explained.

Housefly Is Deadly Foe

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Of all the insects in the world, musca domestica is probably man's greatest enemy.

You know him as the housefly — but maybe you don't know just how serious a health threat he really is, cautions the California Medical Association. Flies may spread dysentery, summer or infant diarrhea, typhoid fever, tuberculosis and trachoma.

The housefly seems especially equipped for his role as a disease carrier. He does his harmful work in two ways:

The fly's six feet have bristles and sticky pads and his proboscis (nose) is hairy, so that germs are readily collected and passed on when the fly lands on a person, his food or surroundings.

The fly also deposits infected material he has eaten through his wastes — flyspecks.

It's an obvious conclusion, therefore, that you're living with danger if you give a housefly a home.

Keeping your house clean and sanitary, carefully wrapping garbage and never leaving food uncovered will help prevent fly-breeding.

The modern state of Italy dates from March 17, 1861, when Victor Emmanuel II was proclaimed king.

Sleuths Played Hour For Laughs

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — NBC's "Music Hall" seems to have struck a rich vein. Last week, it gathered together a lot of impressionists. This week it pulled together some famous TV sleuths and permitted them to make some fun of their peers. It opened with Don Adams, late of "Get Smart," using an approximate simulation of Humphrey Bogart's voice to parody "The Maltese Falcon." Raymond Burr of "Ironside" played the villainous Sydney Greenstreet role. David Janssen, once of "Richard Diamond," came along as "Dragnet's" Sgt. Joe Friday with a lot of Jack Webb's staccato dialogue that led to the punch line and black out. Adams was involved in a too-long sketch, with much yelling, purporting to show the private life of Eliot Ness, chief of the "Untouchables." Burr, who rarely has a chance to do comedy, clowned in a funny hat as radio's "Mr. Keen, Tracer of Lost Persons." Giddiest moments in the program came in a taped sketch designed to be a take-off on an Agatha Christie whodunit. Everything went wrong. The suspects were assembled in the living room, then someone tripped entering a room and the cast broke up. Then a corpse started taking off his gloves. The performers blew their lines, lost their cues and collapsed in laughter. Using the out-take instead of the subsequent, smooth-running enactment was a treat. "The Governor and J. J." will be one of CBS's midseason cancellations, with "To Rome, With Love" moving into its Wednesday night half hour after New Year's. This leaves a Tuesday night half hour for "All in the Family," an American adaptation of a British comedy hit. While the ratings of the Dan Dailey-Julie Sommars series never were more than borderline, the series seems to have suffered more from its competition—ABC's "Room 222" and NBC's "Men from Shiloh"—than its own shortcomings. It is pleasant and rather innocent fun. The most recent episode was rather typical. The governor, running for re-election, received a $100,000 campaign contribution by check. The show concentrated on tracking down the donor who turned out to be a notorious lady who ran, among other things, a gambling joint. It appears, too, that Tim Conway was wise to broadcast his Christmas show in September—he mentioned at the time he wanted to be sure to get one on the air. His variety hour disappears before the holidays, leaving a Sunday night hour to be filled with reruns of Jackie Gleason's "Honeymooners" musicals of other seasons.

A Daughter For Roger Miller

LOS ANGELES AP — Roger Miller, composer and singer whose song "King of the Road" elevated him to prominence, has a potential new fan: a daughter. The baby, as yet unnamed, was born Monday to the entertainer's wife, Leah, 27, at Good Samaritan Hospital.

Every time your pulse beats, three new babies are born into the world.

Governor Wants More Expansion Of The SBI

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott says the North Carolina Bureau of Investigation must be expanded and improved "until it offers to local law enforcement the best in every aspect of criminal investigative assistance."

Scott said this Wednesday as he spoke at a ceremony dedicating new administrative and laboratory facilities for the SBI.

The offices are in a two-story, 29-room converted residence and the laboratory facilities are in a single story building formerly occupied by the U.S. Internal Revenue Service.

Scott said his administration had doubled the SBI's budget and as a result, "The lot of the criminal has been made more difficult."

Austrian To 1970 County Fires Be Lecturer Reach Total Of 503

Dr. Peter Niesner, diplomat and an expert on the history, politics and literature of Austria, will lecture this evening at East Carolina University, 7:30 p.m. Room 129 Education Psych. Bldg. In addition to his visit and lecture appearance at ECU, Dr. Niesner will speak at North Carolina Wesleyan College, Rocky Mount, and at the Enfield Academy, Whitakers, on Friday. On Friday evening he will address members of the Halifax County Historical Assn., at a formal dinner in Weldon. Arrangements for his visit to Eastern North Carolina were made by Dr. Ralph Hardee Rives, associate professor of English at East Carolina University. Rives is president of the Halifax County Historical Assn. Since 1967, Dr. Niesner has been assigned to the Austrian embassy, Washington, D. C., as a specialist in international law and previously was assigned to the Austrian mission to the United Nations. Here, a Greek inventor who lived about 170 A.D., made a steam engine.

Three county fires this week — one yesterday involving a store in Ayden and two house fires early Tuesday morning, bring the total county fires to 503 to date, according to Fire Marshal Mike Worthington. Yesterday, at 1:47 p.m. an alarm was received by the Ayden Fire Department for a blaze at the Ayden Value Store. Worthington stated the alarm followed by half an hour the regular Wednesday afternoon closing of the store. When discovered, he noted, the front store windows blew out from heat and pressure. Three fire trucks reported to the scene and brought the fire under control. Worthington reported little structural damage, with most of the damage to merchandise. Damage has been estimated at $25,000. The total value of the building and merchandise was said to be in the vicinity of $60,000. Bob's TV and Appliance Center, next door to the Ayden Value Store, suffered minor smoke damage. At 1:38 Tuesday morning, an alarm was turned in for a house fire on the Spillman Farm on Stantonsburg Road. The house is located across from WNCT radio station site. Worthington stated the fire appears to have started around a heater in a front room. The occupants had just moved in the day before. Red Oak Fire Department responded, and was assisted by Bell Arthur, Falkland and Winterville Fire Departments. Damage was reported extensive for two rooms, with other rooms said to have received smoke and water damage. Loss and damage is estimated at about $3,000. A second Tuesday morning fire occurred at 3:30 a.m. Tuesday when a house (owner or occupant not yet reported in), was reported on fire. Ayden Fire Department responded, and Winterville assisted. Worthington said the estimated damage was about $3,000, with most damage occurring in the kitchen and den of the house. Joseph Black, a Scottish chemist, discovered, carbon dioxide.

Magicians To Appear Here

The Fabulous Magicians, a nationally known comedy basketball team featuring the dribbling wizardry of Marques Haynes, will perform at Minges Coliseum on Thursday night, December 10.

The Magicians will tangle with the New York Rens in an 8 p.m. encounter which will mark a return to the Tar Heel State by former Carolinas Conference great Dwight Durante.

In addition to the basketball contest, there will be a special halftime show featuring the acrobatic team of Flip and Tip James.

Advance tickets, now on sale at Minges Coliseum and Stehbeck's (downtown and Pitt Plaza), are priced at $2 for adults and $1.50 for students and children. Tickets at the door will be $3 for adults and $2 for students and children.

The Magicians have won 5,960 games and lost only 20 since their founding by Marques Haynes in 1953, but the final score traditionally takes a backseat to comedy.

The great appeal of the Magicians lies in their ability to combine basketball skill with the funniest of routines.

"Too much joy and too much fun has been taken out of sport," Haynes says. "Our game lets people smile again. When the Magicians leave, they leave a happier place."

For more than two decades, the ageless Haynes has amazed opponents and audiences around the world with his dribbling techniques.

Among his cohorts is Dwight Durante, who averaged 29 points a game in each of four seasons at Catawba College in Salisbury. Durante, a 5-9 guard who completed his collegiate career in 1969, signed with the Magicians in October shortly after completing his tour of duty with the U. S. Army.

The "Clown Prince" of the Magicians is Eugene (Sugarfoot) Johnson, a 6-4, 220-pounder who boasts a variety of unorthodox moves and shoots from almost anywhere on the court. Paul Plowden, a 6-8 center formerly with the Oakland Oaks, is the team's key rebounder and has his own special comic routine of dunking two balls at the same time.

On The Way Out

Bob Foster, left, starts down after heavyweight champion Joe Frazier landed a left hook to knock out the contender. The knockout came 49

seconds into the second round of the World Championship fight in Detroit's Cobo Hall Wednesday night. (AP Wirephoto)

Strong Finish May Be Silver Lining For Year

There may be a silver lining to East Carolina's cloudy football season.

If the Pirates can knock off defending Southern Conference champion Davidson in their final game of the season on November 28th, it will give the Mike McGee men a 3-8 season record. More important, all three of those victories would have come in the last four games.

The Pirates returned to the practice field Tuesday for the first time since their 17-14 victory over Marshall here last Saturday. The players' shock over the Marshall plane crash tragedy had begun to wear off, but the sadness was still there.

"This game and the tragedy that followed will be in our minds forever," said Pirate co-captain Steve Davis, who flew to

Several Sophs May Be Starters

There is an old football adage which says something about not judging a freshman team by its win-loss record.

East Carolina Head Coach Mike McGee certainly is not judging his 1970 frosh squad by its record. The Baby Pirates suffered through an 0-5 season, but McGee and his assistants throw the record book at the window. What they are interested in is the development of future varsity material. In this department, the 1970 Baby Pirates rate fairly high.

"I think we have seven or eight freshmen who have a good shot at starting for our varsity as sophomores," said McGee before the season began. And he's standing by this prediction.

The Baby Pirates closed out their campaign with a 7-0 loss to the Richmond frosh last Friday in Richmond. Before that had come losses to N.C. State, William & Mary, Staunton Military and The Citadel.

"We wanted to win, of course," said assistant Henry Trevathan, who coached the frosh. "Every team wants to win. It's just that in freshman ball winning is not the No. 1 objective. Training players for the future—that's the real purpose of freshman football. Helping these young men make the difficult transition from high school football to college football."

Some of the real bright spots on the Baby Pirates squad this fall were quarterback Carl Summerell, runningbacks Kenny More and Ron Hunt, tight end Clark Davis, offensive guard Dan Killebrew, defensive back Rusty Markland, defensive tackle Joe Tkach and defensive end Les Walker.

However, these are not the only players rated as possible starters next year. The coaches won't have a good line on who the top seven or eight soph candidates are until they mix with the varsity holdovers next spring.

Summerell does have exciting potential as a double-threat quarterback. He can run and pass, but must overcome an interception problem.

Moore is a hard runner and good blocker who will be utilized somewhere. Hunt and Markland are fleet backs who will see action somewhere because of their speed.

Tkach and Walker, both big and strong, were the best of a strong group of defenders. Opponents averaged only 239.2 yards per game in total offense against the Baby Pirates this fall.

Davis has a good combination of size and speed. He could see future duty as a defensive back. And his punting ability (36.0 average this fall) bears watching.

Killebrew's only handicap is his size (5-10). He's a tenacious blocker.

When asked if he considered the Foster fight a tune-up for Ali, also known as Cassius Clay, Foster said:

"I was ready for Foster as I would have been for Ma-Ma (a reference to Ali)."

"I'm not talking about any fights for about three weeks," said Frazier's manager, Yank Durham, who then mentioned New York, Houston and Philadelphia as possible sites for a Frazier-Ali fight which could be in February.

"We will get together and talk," said Durham who added, "He might want more money than I want and then there wouldn't be any fight."

Frazier Knocks Out Foster In Two Rounds

By ED SCHUYLER JR. Associated Press Sports Writer DETROIT (AP) — Joe Frazier is a deadly puncher like such great heavyweights as Jack Dempsey, Joe Louis and Rocky Marciano but until he beats Muhammad Ali he will be a pretender rather than a king to boxing fans.

Frazier put his skills on display Wednesday night and was impressive as he knocked out light heavyweight champion Bob Foster in two rounds in his first title defense since he knocked out Jimmy Ellis last February.

But lacking was the daily increase in tension and the howling mob that usually makes attendance at a heavyweight championship fight a memorable experience.

Never did the fight excite the sporting public as did a fight like Marciano-Jersey Joe Walcott or Ali's return to the ring against Jerry Quarry.

And a crowd of only 6,300—second to the Ali-Sonny Liston fight in Lewiston, Maine in 1965 as the smallest heavyweight title turnout in modern history—showed up at $2,500-seat Cobo Arena for the feature half of the closed-circuit television doubleheader. Unbeaten heavyweight George Foreman stopped Boone Kirkman in two rounds in the opener in New York's Madison Square Garden.

But the Frazier victory cleared another block to a fight that has surpassed the boundaries of the sports world in catching the fancy of people—a fight with Ali.

When asked if he considered the Foster fight a tune-up for Ali, also known as Cassius Clay, Foster said:

"I was ready for Foster as I would have been for Ma-Ma (a reference to Ali)."

"I'm not talking about any fights for about three weeks," said Frazier's manager, Yank Durham, who then mentioned New York, Houston and Philadelphia as possible sites for a Frazier-Ali fight which could be in February.

"We will get together and talk," said Durham who added, "He might want more money than I want and then there wouldn't be any fight."

"I want Joe Frazier," Ali shouted after watching the bout on closed circuit television in Atlanta where he defeated Quarry last month in his first fight since he was stripped of his heavyweight title for refusing induction into the Army.

"Clay's not gonna take the pressure that Joe's gonna put on him," said Foster.

Promoters feel that people want so much to see whether Ali can take Frazier's pressure or whether Frazier really is what his title says that a fight between the two would be the most lucrative in history—grossing up to $10 million.

The next block to the dream fight is Oscar Bonavena, the brawling Argentine who will fight Ali Dec. 7 in Madison Square Garden.

There also is the five-year prison sentence that went with Ali's conviction, a conviction which still is being appealed.

The U.S. Supreme Court has been asked by the Justice Department to act on the appeal within the next 90 days.

Frazier's demolition job on Foster kept him from being the first light heavyweight champion to win the heavyweight crown. Seven previous light heavy champs tried unsuccessfully nine times for boxing's big prize.

It was three deadly hooks that smashed Foster senseless at 49 seconds of the second round.

"I slipped a jab and hit him with a left hook for the first knock down," said Frazier.

"The second time I doubled up with the left hook to the body and to the head."

Foster got up at the count of nine after the first knockdown and it was obvious he was in deep trouble.

When Foster went down for the second time, referee Tom Brisco could have counted far past 10. In fact, Foster was still unsteady when his handlers helped him from the ring.

Frazier said he did get stung by a right hand, Foster's power punch, in the first round. "But I always get stung in the first or second round and then I go to work."

When Frazier did go to work, Foster's superior height and reach did him no good.

The 26-year-old Frazier packed 209 pounds on his 5-foot-11¼-inch frame as he scored his 23rd knockout in his unbeaten pro career of 26 fights.

For the 6-3½ Foster, who weighed 188, the heaviest of his career, it was his fifth loss in 46 fights and the fourth to a heavyweight.

Foster, 31, who said before the fight he would not defend his light heavyweight title again, said afterward:

"I've got to defend the light heavyweight title soon."

DETROIT (AP) — A brutal fighting machine with compassion—that's Joe Frazier.

But the heavyweight boxing champion of the world doesn't let his soft heart interfere with his hard punch. The only things that interfered with his punch in their heavyweight championship fight Wednesday night were Bob Foster's body and head.

It took Frazier just 49 seconds of the second round to knock out the light heavyweight king before 6,300 persons in Cobo Arena, plus a closed-circuit television hookup in the United States and 27 foreign countries.

Frazier sent his lanky challenger to the canvas twice with vicious left hooks to the body and head. The first time Foster took a nine count but Frazier moved in quickly to finish it when Foster wobbled to his feet.

"I don't think the referee (Tom Brisco) should have let Bob come out that second time, Frazier said, his brown eyes looking compassionately at newsmen gathered in an interview room afterwards.

"He was down for eight or nine and when he got up he was tilting toward the referee," added the chunky fighter. "When the referee said come on out, I had to or I'd be less than a champion. My job was to fight."

Foster said he didn't hear either the first or second count. He also said he didn't even know he was down a second time. After the second knock-down he lay on the canvas on his back for about five minutes.

"I didn't realize I was in trouble until he caught me with a good left hook," said Foster, still clad in his blue velvet boxing trunks and blue robe.

Frazier insisted the bout was no "tuneup" for a clash with Cassius Clay.

"I get my tuneups in the gym and when I get in the ring I want to get it over with."

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Bernie Parrish, former defensive back with the Cleveland Browns, was to resume his testimony today before a special federal grand jury probing for possible antitrust violations in operations of the National Football League.

Parrish, who is director of Teamsters Union health and Medical program in St. Louis, was called before the jury Wednesday afternoon following testimony by Ross Fichtner, another former Browns defensive back.

"The jury recessed for the day after questioning Parrish for an hour and 45 minutes and instructed him to return at 10 a.m. today.

Parrish, 34, told newsmen he could not comment on questions put to him by the jury until he had completed his testimony.

"I was puzzled when I received the subpoena because I didn't know what it was all about, but now that I am here and have given some testimony, I'm glad to be of any help I can to the investigation," he said.

Fichtner, now a manufacturer's representative in Meadville, Pa., said some of the questions the jury asked him dealt with player-management relations and relations among players in the NFL.

He said the question of blackballing players came up, "but I wasn't able to give them much information."

Newsmen were unable to pin down as to whether he thought he had been blackballed.

"I think I got a raw deal but whether or not you call it blackballing I don't know," he said. Parrish was with the Browns from 1959 until after the first game of the 1966 season, when he asked for his release. He finished the season with the Houston Oilers and then retired from football.

He declined to say why he asked for his release from the Browns. While with the club he helped organize the NFL Players' Association.

Fichtner, 32, said the Browns did not renew his contract after the 1967 season following a squabble over a celebrity golf tournament in which he had charge of inviting players. He was with the New Orleans Saints in 1968, but saw limited action, and was dropped before the 1969 season began.

The jury reportedly is looking for possible violations of the Sherman Act in the restraint of players' services and restraint of trade in the merger of the National and American Football Leagues. Such violations could bring criminal indictments.

Fichtner said the golf tournament incident "came at an inopportune time when there was a lot of publicity about race relations."

Teammate John Wooten, an offensive guard, also was dropped after he charged that Fichtner had not invited Negro players to participate in the celebrity tournament. He went with the Washington Redskins as a free agent after no other NFL club claimed him, but now is out of football.

Fichtner told newsmen he was accused of bigotry as a result of the golf tournament squabble but was vindicated.

He said the jury asked him about several players, including former teammate Walter Beach, who has claimed he was blackballed, but said Beach's name was not mentioned specifically with any complaint.

Beach, a student at Yale Law School, also is expected to appear before the grand jury.

Tom Fears, who was Fichtner's coach at New Orleans, was one of the first witnesses before the grand jury. He was fired by the Saints about two weeks ago. Representatives of the Browns' front office and coaching staff also have testified.

The investigation is being conducted under strict secrecy by the Cleveland office of the U.S. Justice Department's Antitrust Division. Carl Steinhouse, district director of the division, has declined to say how many witnesses were subpoenaed, but said the probe will take at least a month. The 23-member jury was impaneled Monday.

Southern Title Is On The Line

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The muddled picture of the Southern Conference football title race should clear up considerably this weekend as all SC teams but Davidson and East Carolina wind up regular season play.

The four teams that have a shot at the title and the right to represent the conference in the Tangerine Bowl in Orlando, Fla. are William and Mary with a 2-1 conference mark, The Citadel (3-2), Richmond (3-2) and Davidson (2-2). Furman has a 3-2 mark but is out of the race since it has played all its conference games.

This weekend The Citadel hosts Davidson and Richmond is at home against William and Mary. These games should decide the championship. Elsewhere, East Carolina is idle, Furman plays Mississippi College and Virginia Military Institute plays Virginia Tech.

If William and Mary beats Richmond, it's all over, and the Indians will own a 3-1 mark, the title and a trip to play unbeaten, untied Toledo, the Mid American Conference champion, Dec. 28 in the Tangerine Bowl.

If Richmond beats the Indians and The Citadel knocks off Davidson, Richmond would share the title with The Citadel, but get to go to the bowl game because the Spiders beat the Bulldogs in their meeting earlier in the season.

If Davidson's Wildcats beat The Citadel, and then the following week beat East Carolina, the Wildcats will make the crown and the trip to Florida.

The Citadel has the slimmest chance of all — needing a win over Davidson and for the Richmond-William and Mary game to end in a tie.

The Spiders were busy Wednesday preparing for the William and Mary game, trying to make sure they have the offensive and defensive fitness to take the Indians.

Defensive backs Ray Easterling, Wayne Tosh and Bobby Duch worked hard on pass defense. Easterling has intercepted five aeriels this season, running one back 60 yards for a touchdown. Tosh and Duch each have snatched two passes from opposing quarterbacks.

Miller, Hart Are Good Friends

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Quarterbacks Leo Hart of Duke and Paul Miller of North Carolina, who meet Saturday, lived not too far from each other and were acquainted even before they went to college.

Miller is from Ayden, N. C., and Hart is from Kinston, 17 miles away. Four years ago, Miller was a left-hander on the American Legion baseball team in his hometown. And the top right-hander at Kinston was Hart. The two got to be friends.

"Leo is as nice a guy as you'd ever hope to meet," says Miller. "He hasn't changed a bit since I first met him."

The two friends are now separated by another short piece of road, the Chapel Hill-Durham Boulevard. That's the road Hart and the Duke team will take Saturday to Kenan Stadium at the University of North Carolina.

Hart will be playing his last college football game. If Duke wins, it will mean a 7-4 season, 6-1 in the league, and the ACC championship. "Yes, I think this is the biggest game I've ever played in," says Hart. "There sure seems to be a lot riding on it. But even so, just playing Carolina is about the biggest thing." Hart is the top passer in the history of the ACC and his teammate, Wes Chesson, is the top receiver this season.

Hart says it may not be too easy to pass against the Tar Heels. "I know Carolina has had a lot of trouble with their secondary," he says, "but now they're beginning to drop back a linebacker more and their coverage is a lot better. The kind of defense they use is strong against a run, but it puts a lot of pressure on the three defensive backs. They always get a good rush, though, so it isn't easy to pass on them."

There's a moment in Miller's dormitory room at Chapel Hill, a white canvas brace he wore for many months after undergoing a back operation at the end of last season. The back is fine now, but he has since had an ankle trouble. He turned his ankle in the North Carolina State game, the second of the season on Sept. 19, and had to miss three weeks of play. X-rays finally showed a fracture but that was quite a while ago, and Miller will hopefully be at his season's peak for the game against Duke.

As sophomore last year, the injured Miller got in for only two plays against Duke. Both times were to give Ricky Lannier a breather after a long run.

"The coaches told me to make a simple handoff to Don McCauley and get out of the way," he says.

Miller, looking forward to his first real chance against the Blue Devils, says, "Everybody is so psyched up. The coaches don't have to say anything to us."

North Carolina is 7-3 in all games and 4-2 in the league.

Strong Finish

though losing (28-14) performance against strong West Virginia, followed by the win over Marshall indicate that improvement has definitely been made.

"Even though we have a lot of injuries, we are playing our best ball of the season now," said McGee, who is happy to see his first-year program bear fruit. "Our quarterback, John Casazza, has come a long way since the beginning of the season. Our running game is steadily improving now that Les Strayhorn is healthy enough to take the pressure off Billy Wallace. And our blocking is much better."

Strayhorn rushed for 142 yards (a season high for a Pirate) against Marshall, while Wallace ran for 132 yards — the fourth time he's been over the 100 mark this season. In all, the Pirates gained 290 yards on the ground (high for the year) and gave further evidence that the ECU attack is one of the most balanced in the conference.

As for the defense, it has led the conference practically all season. If it can stop high-scoring Davidson on the 28th, the 1970 season will end on a high note.

SYMPATHY TELEGRAMS — Marshall University students pause between classes to read the hundreds of telegrams posted at Old Math. Among the telegrams expressing sym-

Educated By Welfare Recipients To The Parents Offer Their Proposals

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott says children in North Carolina are educated to a large extent in the home "by the attitudes and values of their parents."

Scott told a Governor's Conference on Adult Education Tuesday that many parents "are not providing the type of environment in which their children can grow intellectually, aesthetically and emotionally."

"If parents are to accept their ultimate responsibility as the primary teachers of their children," Scott said, they must understand child and adolescent psychology.

And, he added, "They must also know enough about literature, history and politics to give their children an understanding of our heritage and a love of learning."

The governor said all individuals must be encouraged to continue their education and "opportunities for them to do so must be provided at convenient times and locations."

Continuing education, he said, does more than train persons for jobs.

It also provides opportunities for family development, and for personal and cultural development, and for greater understanding of social and civic problems."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Welfare recipients got a chance to tell Congress their ideas on new welfare reform proposals and launched into a personal attack on several senators, as well as President Nixon and his dogs.

One woman claimed Wednesday President Nixon spends $2,700 yearly to feed and house his three dogs while the administration proposes $1,100 less as subsistence income for a family of four.

Minn., was marked by frequent bursts of applause, shows of clenched fists and shouts of "Right on!"

Democratic Sens. Abraham A. Ribicoff of Connecticut, James O. Eastland of Mississippi and Russell B. Long of Louisiana all came under attack after a University of Pennsylvania professor of welfare law said the administration's plan included a work incentive feature that would provide a pool of labor for "sweatshops"—laundries and toy manufacturers.

The professor, Edward V. Sparer, also said the bill would reduce the income of families on welfare.

Long was criticized for allegedly complaining he had difficulty getting a shirt cleaned.

Ribicoff was attacked for suggesting to Mayor John V. Lindsay that New York use welfare recipients to clean up the city's streets.

"I want to know who thought up $1,600 a year when Tricky Dick's dogs cost $2,700 a year," Roxanne Jones of Philadelphia asked a special Senate hearing on the administration's welfare reform package.

The White House said that the cost of feeding Nixon's dogs is absorbed in the President's personal budget.

Conservationists See Disaster For Sierras With Ski Resort

By JERRY HENRY
MINERAL KING, Calif. (UPI)—A remote mountain valley described as "potentially the finest winter recreational area in North America" may be about to realize that potential.

But to a group of conservationists, the result will be an environmental disaster.

For five years one of the most intense conservation battles in the nation had raged over whether Walt Disney Productions should be allowed to build a $55 million ski resort in the majestic Mineral King Valley, nestled high in the Sierra Nevada range.

The brook-threaded valley, surrounded by snow-capped granite peaks, is located about halfway between California's two major population centers, Los Angeles and San Francisco. Besides serving Californians, the project would be expected to draw skiers and other winter sports enthusiasts from throughout the nation.

"Virtually all experts agree, including the Sierra Club before it decided to oppose us, that Mineral King in the winter time is equal to six Squaw Valleys in potential recreation," says Disney spokesman Jim Stewart, adding that "in the summertime the facilities would provide an ideal base to enjoy the wonders of the national forest."

But then last month, 14 months later, the Ninth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ordered the injunction lifted saying the "nation's natural resources are not the property of any particular group."

The court also held that the government, which granted Disney the right to develop the area, acted properly "in determining to make available a vast area of incomparable natural beauty to most people rather than to have it remain inaccessible except to a rugged few."

The atmosphere of new towns has been repeatedly criticized as cold. And now a research group is trying to pin down the precise reasons for the lack of prospective residents.

They want the area incorporated into Sequoia National Park which surrounds Mineral King on three sides.

The Disney firm and the U.S. Forest Service say the development is badly needed to serve an ever-burgeoning winter recreation-minded public.

"We are fully committed to stopping this project and getting the area into Sequoia National Park where it belongs," said the club's executive director, Michael McCloskey. "We regard this as a temporary setback—no more than that. We feel it will be reversed by the Supreme Court."

This September the developers won their biggest round in the continuing struggle and it may prove to be a knockout punch for the conservationists, although the Sierra Club is not to be counted out just yet.

The first round of the legal fight went to the Sierra Club which sought and was granted, in June 1969, a federal preliminary injunction prohibiting the government from issuing necessary permits for construction on the U.S. Forest Service land. The club contended, among other things, that the project would violate federal regulations limiting federal recreation leases to 80 acres.

Extensive Project
If ever it is completed, the Disney resort would offer—as projected—the most extensive winter sports potential in the far west.

Another witness said the nation was confused if Eastland can be paid $220,000 a year not to plant crops while welfare recipients can't make ends meet with government funds.

Mrs. Johnny Tillmon, executive director of the WWRO attacked Congress as she argued for defeat of the administration proposal.

Robinson, chairman of the Trade Union Congress Industrial Welfare Committee, told a conference that in 1969 a total of 322,000 people were injured in factory accidents in Britain.

Union Wants 'Procedure'

RALEIGH (AP) — A union official says recognized procedures should be established for North Carolina cities to bargain with employers' unions.

P. R. Latta, an official of the State AFL-CIO, said Wednesday the cities have a problem because of the present prohibition on such bargaining. He spoke at a meeting of the Governor's Committee on Employer-Employee Relations.

"Seven city officials appeared before the committee last week and told how they handled labor disputes.

"They do have a problem," Latta said, "each one of them was bargaining whether they admit it or not. Each city establishes some form of communications between themselves and employees."

"If they're going to do this," he added, "Then I think we should establish it on an orderly basis—something which insures that you have responsible, bonded parties in the bargaining."

City officials have said they would prefer to keep in the law a prohibition on bargaining with labor unions.

It was purchased through the Emily Crane Chadbourne fund.

Should Expect Serious Injuries

LONDON (AP) — Every one of Britain's 15 million manual workers can expect to be seriously injured at least twice during his working life, according to safety expert Sydney Robinson.

Robinson, chairman of the Trade Union Congress Industrial Welfare Committee, told a conference that in 1969 a total of 322,000 people were injured in factory accidents in Britain.

Cars Collided At Intersection

Greenville (AP) — A car was charged with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident following intersection of a 10-10 p.m. collision here yesterday at the intersection of Dickinson Avenue and Memorial Drive.

Police said the Goodrich car collided with a car operated by Mrs. Thomas Walston, 27, of 2000 S. Greenville.

Damage was estimated at $275 for the Walston car and about $400 for the Goodrich vehicle.

Plane Killed in Wreck

WHITE LAKE, N.C. (AP) — A light plane crashed near the southeastern North Carolina community Wednesday, killing the pilot. He was attached to a training squadron at Shaw Air Force Base near Columbia, S.C.

The pilot was identified as Maj. Robert P. Ebbings Jr. of Portsmouth, Ark., an Air National Guardsman.

The plane was an RF101, a fighter aircraft. A policeman at White Lake, which is near White Lake, said the plane crashed White Lake about three times and then started falling, exploding near the ground.

Pitt UF Goal Again Topped By Fieldcrest Mills

SUCCESS—Luby Skinner, left, plant manager of Karastan Spinning and Karastan Worsted of Fieldcrest Mills, talks with UF Industrial Division chairman Gerald Crane.

Fieldcrest Mills, for the fifth successive year, has topped its assigned goal in the annual Pitt County United Fund campaign to raise money for the consolidated fund which supports a variety of charitable and service organizations.

With the 1970 drive completed at the firm on Monday, results show that $7,500 has been contributed by Fieldcrest employees, an increase of 33 percent over their contribution last year.

Luby Skinner, plant manager of Karastan Spinning and Karastan Worsted plants of Fieldcrest, noted that part of the increase is attributable to the increase number of employees, but said that the success of the project rested more on the fact that "95 percent of our employees contributed a day's pay or better to the United Fund."

Skinner also pointed out that "90 percent of our employees contribute to the United Fund on a continuous basis from year to year."

The plants manager remarked: "I am very appreciative of the generous contribution Fieldcrest employees made to make this our fifth consecutive year where we have had as good as 95 percent or higher participation."

Gerald Crane, chairman of the Industrial Division of the United Fund drive, the division which works with Fieldcrest in the annual campaign, commented: "The Pitt County United Fund thanks the Fieldcrest employees for this very generous contribution to a worthy cause."

"What makes it even more gratifying is that this is typical of their contributions year by year."

Steel Union Unveils Contract Demands

PITTSBURGH (AP) — United Steelworkers President I. W. Abel has taken the wraps off major 1971 contract demands and left little doubt his 1.2 million-member union would strike if necessary to back them up.

Although a "substantial wage increase" will be a major issue in the bargaining, Abel said, priority goes to a cost-of-living escalator.

"We waived this in 1969, and as a result the membership has suffered ever since," he said.

Abel spoke Wednesday at a news conference where a 14-page list of union demands was unveiled.

Cost-of-living wage escalators usually provide for automatic wage hikes if government surveys indicate price increases.

Other demands disclosed by Abel include cutting the five-day, eight-hour work week to four days and improved pension-health benefits.

The major demands were hammered out during a two-day session of the wage policy committee, made up of 163 elected local union representatives.

Asked the mood of the steelworkers, Abel said: "The attitude and frame of mind of our wage policy committee these last two days indicate they would strike to gain the equity they feel they have lost these past three years.

"There is no question in my mind that my men will strike ... if necessary."

"However," he added, "we hope to avoid a strike."

Overguidance 'Almost Sinful'

TORONTO (AP) — The parent who dominates a young child's time by teaching him specific skills is "almost sinful," a physiologist told a seminar on pre-school children at the Ontario College of Education.

Dr. Robert Goode, a physical education lecturer at the college and the University of Toronto's physiology department, advised parents to expose pre-schoolers to all skills, not to concentrate on a few.

Will Be Grouped By Geography

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Geography, rather than type or severity of illness, will determine how patients are grouped in Kentucky's psychiatric hospitals during the coming year.

Each of the four institutions will be divided into four geographic units with 200 patients in every unit, making it easier for area volunteers and relatives to visit.

But Abel said the union will not push to eliminate its present no-strike agreement with the industry while noting there was considerable pressure in some union quarters to have it stricken from the 1971 contract.

The clause stipulates complaints must be submitted and settled through grievance channels.

The last strike in the basic steel industry was a 116-day shutdown in 1959.

Abel declined to disclose just how much money the union would ask for in its bargaining with the can, aluminum, nonferrous and basic steel industries.

The union's first contract deadline is Feb. 15, for 40,000

British Traffic Getting Worse

LONDON (AP) — Congestion on the roads is spreading more rapidly in Britain than in any other country in the world, says the latest report of the British Road Federation.

The group estimates that in 1969 each of Britain's near 15 million vehicles had just 3.5 yards of major highway to itself.

FOREST FIRES

OTTAWA (UPI) —The Canadian Forestry Service estimates that 1,896 forest fires swept about 895,000 acres of woodland in Canada in June, compared with 1,549 fires that damaged 1,153,000 acres in June, 1969, and a 10-year June average of 1,338 fires and 925,000 acres.

DR. B. R. TUCKER

Dr. Ben R. Tucker of Williamston will be guest speaker Friday night at the Greenville Chapter meeting of the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship International.

The meeting will be held in the Masonic Temple located at 1119 South Charles Street. Dr. Tucker will give his testimony for God following a musical program at 7:30 p.m. The meeting is open to all interested persons. Free parking will be made available in the rear of the building.

The speaker was born in Pactolus in Pitt County. He is a graduate of Lincoln in Indianapolis, Indiana, where he was graduated from the School of Chiropractic.

His wife, Hannah, and their two daughters make their home in Williamston, where Dr. Tucker has been practicing for the past 13 years. They are members of the First United Methodist Church there.

Night-Driving More Dangerous

NEW YORK (AP) — Night travel by automobile is three times more dangerous than day travel in spite of the reduced traffic flow, the Street and Highway Safety Lighting Bureau warns.

Citing figures from the National Safety Council showing a fatality rate of 6.3 per 100,000,000 vehicle miles after dark compared to 2.3 during daylight, the Bureau urged:

Use care driving at night. Follow well-lighted roads as often as possible during the dark winter nights ahead.

Aswan Dam Causing Some Side Effects Along Nile

By RAYMOND M. WILKINSON
CAIRO (UPI)—The Aswan High Dam, heralded as the best medicine for Egypt's economic ills, is causing some serious side effects along the Nile. The dam, 16 times higher than the greatest pyramid of ancient Egypt and the first man-made barrier to fully control and harness the water of the Nile, was started in 1960 and completed this year at a cost of nearly $1 billion.

The world's largest rockfill dam brought Egypt time to establish an industrial base from which it hopes to raise the standard of living of a population which is growing much faster than can be absorbed by an agriculturally oriented country.

But even in the time it took to construct the barrier the population explosion wiped out the benefits the dam had on the land.

The dam will add 1.2 million acres of land to the overall farming area available and convert a further 700,000 acres to year-round irrigation. But a population increase of 2.5 per cent annually means that in contrast to 1960 when there was roughly one-third acre of cultivated land for every Egyptian, today there is only a quarter acre per person.

Dam is Cornerstone
 The dam, 600 miles south of Cairo, remains the cornerstone of the small industrial base which Cairo has established, largely with Russian help.

From 12 turbines housed in a by-pass channel hewn from a granite plateau, 10 billion kilowatt hours of electricity can be produced for the nation's homes and industries.

Twenty per cent of its electrical output will run an aluminum plant producing 100,000 tons a year. A further 20 per cent for a phosphate plant at Aswan producing 320,000 tons a year and 11 per cent for a huge iron and steel complex near Cairo.

The lake created behind the dam—Lake Nasser—312 miles long and an average 7.7 miles wide—is expected to irrevocably land under cultivation in the Sudan and provide an important fishing industry for persons resettled along its shores. But the dam, which required 40 million cubic meters of material and a work force of 35,000 to build, has produced headaches almost as large as its potentials, according to some experts. Minerals are Trapped Though Egyptian officials insist the problems are minimal, neutral experts said a major problem is that minerals which once flowed down the Nile are now being trapped upstream behind the dam at the rate of 100 million tons of silt a year. Below the dam this has produced a huge scouring effect along the Nile floor where river currents wash away the sandy bottom no longer protected by layers of heavy silt. If this process were left unchecked, it eventually would cause the collapse of the four barriers built below the dam.

To slow down the river and reduce the "scouring" effect, Egypt is planning to build seven more barriers, in effect making the Nile a series of lakes from the high dam to the sea. Along the Mediterranean the lack of silt has caused a serious erosion problem. Areas of the Nile Delta, no longer receiving silt have been inundated by sea water, leaving harmful salt deposits. Marine erosion previously had been checked by silt. Government Begins Study

 The government, with the help of the United Nations, has begun a study of building a series of dikes in the sea to protect the land.

Though Egypt hopes to build a large fishing industry on Lake Nasser, the dam has harmed the already established sardine industry at the mouth of the delta. The new lake worries Egyptian doctors who fear its waters will help spread malaria and schistosomiasis, a parasite which gets into the blood stream, causing exhaustion. Even with the strictest precautions, experts believe at least a million persons not now affected by the disease to be exposed to it. The World Health Organization has established a schistosomiasis control project to study methods of controlling the disease.

Action Taken By ABC Board On Permit Holders

The North Carolina Alcoholic Control Board took action against two area permit holders at its meeting in Raleigh November 16.

The State ABC board suspended a permit issued to Buck Manning for Manning Esso Station on U.S. 64 East at Robertsonville.

That permit was suspended for 30 days because: "Permittee's employee, Bill S. Ayers, was in an intoxicated condition and in charge of the premises at 10:35 p.m. on July 25, 1970, in violation of Board of Alcoholic Control regulations...and permittee, through his employee failed to give the retail licensed premises proper supervision on or about July 25..."

The state board also heard a violation charged against Zeb Bernice Smith Memorial Drive Texaco, 2807 Memorial Drive, and issued a written reprimand.

Competing For NAACP Queen

Contestants competing for the "Miss Pitt County NAACP" title were confirmed by the executive committee of the Pitt County Branch of the National Association of Colored People at the group's meeting Monday.

The contestants include Miss Dennice Henderson and Miss Elaine Mills from Region 1; Miss Reanee Ivey from Region 2; Miss Janice Quinerly from Region 3; Mrs. Lenora Johnson, Miss Patricia Edwards and Miss Patricia Hardy, from Region 4; Miss Bernadine Jordan and Miss Barbara Carney from Region 5; and Misses Yvonne Hansley and Cheryl Tetterton from Region 6.

According to Pitt NAACP president D. D. Garrett, the queen contest will run until December 13. The Queen contestant reporting the highest collection for the Legal Defense Fund will be crowned "Miss Pitt County."

Electronic 'Eyes' For The Blind Remains A Goal

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
NEW YORK (UPI)—People frequently ask M. Robert Barnett why American technology, capable of putting man on the moon and getting him back home, can't figure a way to get him across the street.

Barnett and one million other blind persons in the United States most often get across the street by holding onto the arm of a sighted person, or by maneuvering a white cane or by following a guide dog.

The science fiction hope in this era of super technology often holds that someday there will be a television camera attached to electrodes implanted in the skull that will enable a blind person to see something besides darkness or shadows.

No Sight Machine
"There is no such machine on the horizon I could put on my head and see the way I used to," Barnett said. He is executive director of the American Foundation for the Blind and a grandfather.

Blind since the age of 16, he is one of the childhood accident statistics. A buckshot pellet severed his optic nerves one night in Jacksonville, Fla. Barnett said he was in an orchard snatching oranges.

Barnett is one great example of how a properly rehabilitated blind person can be put on the trail to a fairly normal life. One of the nation's foremost authorities on blindness, he travels the globe to keep up with his speaking and conference engagements. He once was a newspaper reporter.

Barnett said the idea behind the distinctive white cane is that it gives the blind person the right of way cross a street. It's a special signal to motorists, cautioning them to stop.

Many Helping Devices
Through Braille, talking books (recordings of printed material), and many helpful devices invented especially for them, the blind today have the greatest collection of assistive devices to help rehabilitate them.

As a result, blind children, for example, now are more often steered into regular schools instead of schools for the blind only. And older Americans (over half the blind are over 65) most often are encouraged to undergo rehabilitation and spend their remaining years in a home environment instead of an institution.

Barnett said blind persons now are employed in every major job field. Professional occupations include college professor, computer programmer, lawyer, mathematician, musician, psychologist, rehabilitation worker, social worker, teacher, writer.

Technical occupations range from automatic transmission rebuilders and auto mechanic to small engine rebuilders and radio engineers.

Blind Engineers
There also are blind radio and television repairmen, piano technicians, meter repairmen, electronic engineers, chemical engineers.

There are blind persons holding down jobs as court reporters, medical transcriptionists, switchboard operators, typists, receptionists, stenographers, salesmen of everything from real estate to insurance and newspapers.

A special problem is the elderly person, usually a mom or dad who loses sight.

"Son or daughter's first thought is to put them in an institution," Barnett said. "They use it as an excuse to get rid of their elderly parents."

Hopeless Feeling
"The kids feel hopeless and wonder how mom or dad will get along. But they can be taught to help themselves. Such kids ought to look into rehabilitation and quit writing letters looking for places in homes for the elderly blind."

"They aren't easy to find and few are approved."

Nat Kahn is the new information specialist at the foundation. Kahn is in his early 50's, started losing his sight in 1966. His rehabilitation included learning the touch system of typing.

A veteran managing editor of Variety, the show business weekly, and onetime assistant managing editor of the Washington Post, Kahn also in the past did publicity for Jackie Gleason.

Diabetes Statistic
His hunt and peck, two-finger typing didn't work once he lost his sight. He is a statistic in the diabetes column of causes of blindness. Other columns for older adults are headed glaucoma, senile cataracts and vascular diseases, including high blood pressure.

The disease which blinded Kahn puts him in the statistics as among the 14.3 per cent new cases of blindness annually. Such blindness, Barnett said, principally is the result of retinopathy—diseases of the retina.

The tiny blood vessels in the retina, something like the film in your eye's camera, may break and cause little hemorrhages on or in the retina.

Retinopathy may happen in one eye or both. The causes of the disease are unknown.

Medical science has established that the severity of the diabetes and the amount of insulin required to control the diabetes have been ruled out as causes. Nor does retinopathy occur in all diabetes cases.

Early Treatment
Fourteen and a half per cent of the new cases of blindness are due to glaucoma, a condition in which the pressure of the fluid inside the eye is too high. If glaucoma is diagnosed early and treatment followed, progress of the disease can be halted. Any loss of vision, however, cannot be restored.

Plan A Service Of Thanksgiving

A special service on Thanksgiving Day has been announced by the Christian Science Church, located at Fourth at Meade Street.

Open to people of all faiths, the service will be held on Thursday, Nov. 26, at 10:30 a.m.

Time will be provided for a period of prayer and for the individual expression of gratitude by members of the congregation.

The First Reader, Miss Elizabeth, and Mrs. Luella Stancill, the Second Reader, will conduct the service. The public is invited to attend.

COMPOSER'S VISIT

BARDSTOWN, Ky. (AP) — Composer Stephen Collins Foster is believed to have visited Bardstown in 1852 and published his immortal "My Old Kentucky Home" based on that visit a year later.

Completes 2-Year Radiology Course

Mrs. Emma Jo Boone this week completed the two-year Radiological Technology course at Pitt Memorial Hospital and was awarded a certificate by C. D. Ward, hospital administrator.

Now employed at Pitt Memorial as a graduate radiological technologist, she took her National Registry examination November 7. Success on this exam makes one a registered radiological technologist.

A Durham native, Mrs. Boone graduated from Durham High School and attended Stratford College in Danville, Va. for two years.

The Radiological Technological Technology (x-ray) course at Pitt Memorial is approved by the American College of Radiology, the American Medical Association, and the American Society of Radiologic Technologists. Dr. Allen Taylor is director of the program and Miss Sandra Harrison, chief technologist, and Mrs. Judy Riverbark, assistant chief technologist, are supervisors.

Four persons are now in their first year of the course. They are Steve Jones of Rocky Mount, Karen Bagley of Plymouth, Lorena Jolly of Roseboro, and Marlene Williams of Vanceboro.

Applications for the next class of four students will be reviewed and accepted January 1, 1971 and they will begin being trained September 15, 1971. Inquiries concerning the course should be made to Miss Sandra Harrison, Department of Radiology, Pitt Memorial Hospital. Applicants are required to be high school graduates.

'Birth Certificate' Of 2 Carolinas Still Preserved

By H. G. Jones, Director N.C. Dept. of Archives and History

Written for the AP RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — One of the most important documents in North Carolina history, the Carolina Charter of 1663, has been in custody of the state Department of Archives and History for twenty-three years. Though kept under heavy security, it is on display for the benefit of visitors to the North Carolina Museum of History in Raleigh.

lasted for 66 years. In 1729 all of the proprietors but one surrendered — with due financial compensation — their claims to Carolina and the territory became a royal colony.

In spite of extensive research, the history of the charter between 1729 — when it became invalid and probably was disposed of as being of no value — and 1947, when it was offered for sale by an antiquarian bookseller in England, has not been traced fully.

When the existence of the charter became known, considerable interest was generated immediately among professional historians and other interested citizens not only in North Carolina but in other parts of the country as well. Actions were begun immediately by the state Department of Archives and History to document the authenticity of the charter and to raise the necessary funds to purchase it.

The legislature was not in session at the time, so an immediate allocation of state funds was not possible.

With the aid of several individuals who gave time, knowledge, and money, the tasks of documenting and financing were accomplished, and North Carolina because the seventh — and probably the last — state to acquire its original charter.

Has Cemetery In The Middle

LEMONT, ILL. (AP) — Argonne National Laboratory surrounds a 121-year-old cemetery that it can't touch.

St. Patrick's Church in Lemont was permitted to keep and maintain its cemetery when Argonne acquired the 3,500 acres with the cemetery in the middle.

"These are the only two acres the government doesn't have anything to say about," said Pollard "Polly" Hanrahan, sexton at the church and caretaker of the cemetery.

The tiny plot could be called a bit o' Erin since tombstones have names that read like a Dublin telephone directory: Mulligan, Casey, Flamingan, Mooney, Fitzgerald, Kearney.

Before the transaction was completed when Great Britain devalued the pound sterling in relation to the dollar. As a result, the purchase was made for slightly more than $6,000.

FORGETFUL FIANCE

DERBY, England (AP) — After all the arrangements had been made for the marriage of Len Taylor and Sandra Dabbs, Taylor forgot to turn up for the ceremony. Guests searched the Derbyshire town in vain before police telephoned to say that Sandra's fiancé was in hospital with a bruised head—and he had lost his memory after a fall.

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph. D., M.D.

CASE 0-585: Arthur M., aged 14, was a member of a Sunday School class I taught many years ago.

But his upper front teeth were very uneven and protruding. "Buck teeth" was the laymen's diagnosis.

So Arthur became sensitive about his facial appearance, as is true of many youngsters with minor blemishes.

To hide his upper front teeth, he cultivated the habit of keeping a stiff upper lip.

It remained almost entirely immobile when he talked.

And this teen-age habit has persisted all his life, thus hampering his speaking voice.

For the lips are vital in the correct pronunciation of language.

That is especially true of the English tongue.

Oriental, however, resort to far more "throaty" or guttural speech.

When you listen to them chatter away with their own people, you catch chiefly a series of vowel sounds.

We Americans tend to clip off our vowels more distinctively via the consonants.

The French and Germans, however, resort to nasal sounds far more than we do.

But all American children should be taught to use their upper lip, as well as the lower, in conversation.

For this makes their words more understandable not only over the telephone and radio, but especially to lipreaders.

Remember, all of us rely somewhat on lipreading, even if we have normal hearing.

For when we are seated behind a post or some other obstruction in a large auditorium, we say we can't hear the speaker as well.

What we really mean is that lipreading has been cut off, so we are then forced to rely solely on our ears.

Actually, the eyes help the ears in our ability to absorb spoken words.

The situation is much like that of our so-called taste of foods.

For the nose is vital to the flavor of many foods, though we don't fully realize that fact till we have a bad cold.

For example, if we plug our nostrils with cotton and blindfold you, then you can't even distinguish between sliced onion and sliced apple!

And you confuse powdered cinnamon with flour!

So teach your children to speak loudly and clearly, meaning, clip off the vowels with consonants, like "t" or "k" or cheeks slightly and pursing your lips, as if in a kiss. Try it and see how easily you imitate the British method of conversation.

The five major vowels are "a-e-i-o-u" but variations permit a wider range of throaty sounds, as in "ah-aw-oo."

And the long vowels, like "u" in "useful" differ from their short-utterance, as the "u" in "butter."

Some consonants, too, are called "breath" sounds, as "p," "f" and "k."

Others that resemble them on the lips, involve the vocal cords, as "m," "v" and "g." Contrast "f" with "v" and notice this difference.

So teach your kiddies to play with their voices and look at themselves in a mirror as they make various sounds.

Meanwhile, send for my booklet "Psychology and Medicine of the Face and Social Inferiority Complex," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20c.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Opening lead: Four of ♠
A clever false card by an alert defender induced South, the declarer at three no trump, to dig his own grave.

West opened the four of spades and declarer won the trick in his hand with the king. He had seven top winners—three spades, two hearts and two clubs. South decided that the diamond suit offered the best prospect for developing the additional tricks he required. He accordingly led the nine of diamonds from his hand and played the five from dummy.

East had been doing some thinking on his own and he resolved to paint a false picture for the declarer in the hope that the latter might be induced to proceed incautiously. Instead of playing the jack of diamonds, East won the trick with the king. He then exited with a spade, placing the lead in dummy.

South was delighted with the apparent success of his diamond play and in order to repeat the finesse against the jack, he hastened to reenter his hand with the king of clubs to put the seven of diamonds thru. This time East produced the jack and promptly returned the queen of clubs to dislodge declarer's ace. When East got in with the ace of diamonds, he cashed the jack and nine of clubs to send his opponent down to defeat.

If East had won the first diamond trick with the jack, declarer would have had no reason to open up another suit, and by continuing to play diamonds from the dummy, he would have had time to establish the suit before the defense could develop the setting trick.
