Laird Describes Commando Mission

Keeping 'Options Open' On Future Raids To Free Prisoners

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is keeping its options open on the possibility of more commando raids to free American prisoners similar to the daring but fruitless weekend mission just 23 miles from Hanoi, according to Pentagon sources.

In describing the almost fiction-like raid to newsmen Monday, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said the commandos were sent far beyond the North Vietnamese border because of frustrated diplomatic efforts to free captive Americans.

"We shall continue to make every effort to free our prisoners," Laird said during a news conference. "This mission, this daring mission ...," he went on, "does show our dedication to these men and we will do everything that we can in our power to accomplish their early release."

When asked later if this meant more raids, the Pentagon source declined to rule them out, saying officials weren't closing the door on the possibility.

Laird himself had hinted at possible similar tactics in the future during his opening remarks Monday when he told of preparing contingency plans for commando raids in the face of Hanoi's refusal to negotiate the POW issue.

Laird's description of the Saturday raid—made even more dramatic by the presence of the commando leader—caught newsmen by total surprise as he related how specially trained Army and Air Force volunteers flew helicopter through enemy fire in post-midnight darkness to land right in the suspected prisoner of war compound.

"Regrettably the rescue team discovered the camp had recently been vacated," Laird said in solemn tones. "No prisoners were located," but, he went on, "if there had been prisoners in the compound at Son Tay, they would be free men today."

Laird said he ordered the raid with the knowledge and blessing of President Nixon after receiving new information "that some of our men were dying in prisoner of war camps."

The undercover mission was the first mounted to liberate a POW camp in North Vietnam, although, as Laird indicated, helicopters have often flown north of the demilitarized zone to rescue downed American pilots.

In spite of Laird's dour description of the danger facing U.S. prisoners held by Hanoi and his fear for their lives, the commando raid, plus the earlier disclosures of U.S. retaliatory bombing of anti-aircraft sites, set off some of the angriest Senate debate since early summer.

Describing the operation, Laird said the raiders hit the camp at 2 a.m., Hanoi time, about the same time some 250 U.S. war planes were striking missile, anti-aircraft and supply targets in North Vietnam's Southern Panhandle below the 19th parallel.

Navy planes dropped lighting flares off the North Vietnamese coast above the parallel as a diversionary tactic to draw attention from the helicopter-borne commando force.

Although the "protective reaction" air strikes to the south may have helped confuse the North Vietnamese, Laird emphasized they were not intended as a cover for the rescue operation.

The raiders, according to accounts given by Laird and Pentagon sources, apparently went undetected by flying in under enemy radar, and drew fire only when they were over the camp. They were aided by an almost moonless night.

The first helicopter intentionally crash-landed inside the prison compound and the raiders, including some Army Green Berets, destroyed the guard tower. Other helicopters followed. Every building was searched and the locks broken on the detention cells, but no prisoners were found. Enemy resistance was light.

Leading the attack was Army Col. Arthur D. Simons, 52, an infantryman and former Green Beret commander who was introduced by Laird at the news conference along with Air Force Brig. Gen. LeRoy J. Manor, 49, charged with over-all command of the operation.

Both officers, Laird said, arrived in Washington earlier in the day from Saigon and were later taken to the White House and commended personally by the President.

"We caught them completely by surprise," said Simons, adding that his team suffered but one casualty—a man wounded by rifle fire from a Chinese-made AK47. Everyone got out safely, he said.

Hunger Sparks Bedlam

DACCA, East Pakistan (AP) — The instructions were to come forward one by one, receive a relief packet from the U.S. ambassador and shake his hand. The starving Pakistanis couldn't wait.

In the bedlam, two refugees were slashed by rotating helicopter blades, another was hurt in a battle for rice sacks and Ambassador Joseph S. Farland retreated into a helicopter to escape the frantic mob.

Farland headed an American relief party Monday to Char Chubdia, a sandbar island in the Ganges River delta which had been without aid since a cyclone devastated the region on Nov. 13. It is near Maijidi, a mainland town where 30 Americans have set up a base to provide relief for as many as possible of the area's two million survivors. The cyclone and 20-foot waves it fostered killed more than 150,000 persons with the count expected to go much higher.

Farland's four helicopters brought in food and two doctors, Henry Wiley Moseley from a cholera laboratory in Dacca and Army Col. Rex Davis, but there were no Pakistani supervisors to keep the throng in check.

'Doves' Say Escalation Threatened

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American commando raid near Hanoi and the bombing runs over North Vietnam during the weekend have stirred questions about the direction of Nixon war policy in the angriest Senate debate since summer.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, joined by fellow Democrats Edward M. Kennedy and George S. McGovern, carried the dove's fight Monday when he called the weekend actions "a very major escalation of the war that, it seems to me, will entail greatly intensified conflict."

This, suggested the Arkansas Democrat and chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, "would seem to indicate that the actual policy is to escalate the war and to seek a military victory."

Fulbright reacted to the unsuccessful attempt to liberate Americans erroneously thought held in a camp near Hanoi by saying the commando strike was "certainly a very provocative act to mount a physical invasion ..."

Sen. Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., defended both the bombing raids and the commando action in an exchange with Kennedy marked with such heavy sarcasm as to strain normal Senate courtesy. "We have heard so much about the efforts that were being made, new efforts, new initiatives," Kennedy said to Dole. "Is the senator satisfied that this (commando raid) provides a much better way of freeing the prisoners than negotiations?"

"The best way is through negotiations," the Kansas Republican responded. "But negotiations have failed. What do we do in the meantime? Sit back and wait?"

Kennedy then asked "whether the American people ought to be prepared for other strikes such as this? Are we going to have other kinds of surprises similar to this?"

Dole said he didn't know but contended the raid was "successful in demonstrating American concern." He added: "Some of these men have been languishing in prison for five years."

"And they're still there," Kennedy snapped.

Praising the U.S. soldiers who volunteered for the rescue mission, Dole said, "This is the American spirit in the highest tradition. I want to applaud the action. In my opinion it was successful."

"Is this the only way of demonstrating American concern?" Kennedy asked.

"I admire their courage," the Massachusetts Democrat said.

"I just deplore the policy that permitted them to go.

"The quickest way you get the prisoners out is to announce that we're getting out lock, stock and barrel."

Fulbright demanded to know if the rescue mission and the bombing raids were "designed to promote a negotiated settlement of the war."

"Based on the great success we have had so far," Dole replied, "I would only guess it would not be any great impediment."

2 Die In Nitrogen Gas Tank

SHELBY, N.C. (AP) — Two men suffocated in a tank filled with nitrogen at an industrial plant today, one apparently dying in an attempt to save the other.

They were identified by Coroner M. D. Walker of Cleveland County as J. C. Lee, 36, and Dean Guest, 24, both of Shelby.

H. Eugene LeGrand, manager of the Shelby plant of Fiber Industries, Inc., said the two died in a tank used for mixing oils with finishes in the plant's process for producing polyester filament yarn. LeGrand said nitrogen is pumped into the 600-gallon tank to keep it free of impurities.

LeGrand said Lee apparently placed a ladder through an 18-inch opening at the top of the tank and climbed in around 2 a.m. He said Guest discovered Lee lying on the bottom of the tank around 3 a.m., notified plant supervisors and then apparently climbed into the tank to help Lee.

Both men were dead by the time rescuers could get them out of the tank.

LeGrand said neither of the victims had any duties at the plant which required them to be in the tank. He added that the danger of the nitrogen gas is constantly stressed by plant officials.

Walker said it was possible Lee accidentally dropped something into the tank and climbed into retrieve it. He said several articles, such as a notebook, a pen and a pair of safety glasses, were found on the floor of the tank.

Lee was the father of three. Guest's wife is on maternity leave from the plant, expecting her second child.

18 Degrees

Greenville residents have seen some chilly temperatures yesterday, last night and this morning.

This morning at 8 a.m. the temperature stood at 18 degrees, according to the Greenville Utilities Commission weather station.

The high temperature for the 24-hour period ending Monday at 8 a.m. was reported at 58 degrees while the low for that same period was 16 degrees.

The high temperature for Monday, according to the weather station, was 69 degrees and the low was degrees.

The Tar River level was reported as two feet.

State's Population Growth Said Trailing Rest Of The South

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — The Carolina Population Center announced today that preliminary 1970 census figures show that North Carolina is growing at a slower rate than the rest of the South.

The preliminary reports indicate that the total population of the state increased by 406,000 during the decade, an increase of 8.9 per cent.

The census South, which includes 16 states and the District of Columbia, increased in population at a rate of 11.9 per cent during the decade.

The figures were released by Dr. Horace Hamilton, associate director of the center on the University of North Carolina campus.

Hamilton said the 8.9 per cent increase indicates an average annual growth rate of 0.853 per cent, which would result in the population doubling within 81 years.

The 1970 population of the state was reported to be 4,962,000; Hamilton said, but because of an "estimated 3 per cent underenumeration, the population of the state in 1970 must have been at least 5,115,000."

The number of households in the state is increasing faster than the population, and the size of the average household is continuing the long term trend downward.

The number of households in North Carolina increased from 1,303,000 in 1960 to 1,620,000 in 1970, an increase 22.5 per cent. The average household size in the state decreased from 3.44 to 3.06.

The metropolitan population of the state increased from 1,532,000 in 1960 to 1,857,000 in 1970, an increase of 21.2 per cent. The state's metropolitan areas now hold 37.4 per cent of its population.

The state's non-metropolitan population increased only 2.6 per cent during the decade.

About one-half of the state's metropolitan population resides in the central city areas and the other half in the suburban areas.

33 Counties Represented PTI Enrollment Reveals

Pitt Technical Institute trustees Monday night were told that thirty-three of the state's 100 counties are represented in the fall quarter enrollment of first and second year students.

In presenting the report, Pitt Tech President Dr. William Fulford said, "It is significant to note that 16 Pitt County high schools, 106 North Carolina high schools; 13 out of state high schools and one foreign high school are reflected in the enrollment figures."

"This shows that the recruiting effort has not been concentrated in a given locale but has been quite broad and extensive. It is also apparent that the wide range of programs, plus the unique curricula, offered the persons seeking education and training beyond the secondary school level, has played a major role in having such a geographically diversified student body," Fulford noted.

Rose High School graduates with 93 students, Farmville with 33 and Bertie Senior with 31 were the leaders in enrollment.

Trustees approved requesting approval to spend unencumbered Capital Improvement funds estimated at around $25,000 on a priority basis with securing fire extinguishers for the new classroom building, replacing doors in the auto mechanics shop, blinds for the new building and two restrooms on the third floor of the building at the top. Next would be an elevator in the three-story classroom building estimated to cost $17,000 and furniture and pictures for the lobby of the new building.

Policy regulating use of PTI facilities for non-institutional purposes was approved. All requests must be presented in writing to the school's administrative head. Those approved for use of the PTI facilities will reimburse for cost of utilities, custodial care and sign waiver of liability releasing the school from responsibility of accidents.

Fulford said this was modeled along lines of similar schools in the area.

Vice-chairman Vernon White, who presided, appointed a nominating committee to present a slate of officers at the January meeting of the board. Chairman of the committee is Ed Davenport of Farmville; James Brewer of Greenville and Wiley Gaskins of Grifton.

Named to a special committee to prepare a resolution honoring the late Dr. Robert Lee Humber, PTI Board Chairman, were Clifton Everett of Bethel and Dr. William Fulford.

During the months of January, March and May the board meetings will be held on the fourth Friday instead of fourth Monday night.

The meeting ended following a period of silent prayer in honor of Dr. Robert Lee Humber.

Goal: Mandatory Day-Care Center Licensing

RALEIGH (AP) — Mandatory licensing of day care centers for children will be the No. 1 objective of the North Carolina Council for Social Legislation in the 1971 General Assembly.

This was decided Monday by council delegates as they also voted to give high priority to prison reform measures and legislation on behalf of emotionally disturbed children.

The council, composed of 23 statewide civic, church, professional and social organizations, adopts a legislative program prior to each biennial session of the General Assembly.

Seven legislative proposals were submitted to the delegates. The four receiving the fewest votes were designated later by the council's directors as "program II" objectives.

One of these calls for abolishment of capital punishment. Others include stronger laws on environmental pollution, legislation to raise the maximum age for juvenile jurisdiction in district court to 18 and measures to increase public assistance payments.

Mandatory licensing of day care centers received the highest number of votes. The delegates rejected an attempt to put the council on record in favor of assigning the licensing task to the State Board of Social Services.

J. A. Glover of Nashville, president of the North Carolina Association of Directors of Public Welfare, told the council it was "dodging the issue" if it refused to recommend placement of the licensing program.

Mandatory licensing also headed the council's program in 1969. But the House and Senate couldn't agree on whether Social Services or a new agency should handle the licensing. The bill died on the final day of the session.

State Sen. Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles, D-Guilford, addressed the council at a luncheon and urged support for his proposed "environmental bill of rights" amendment to the State Constitution.

Moments later, the council directors voted to endorse the proposal. Under Bowles' amendment, it would be "a public purpose" for the state, any county or municipality to conserve and protect natural resources, the environment and scenic beauty.

Sectarianism Hit in Address

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The world leader of the church ecumenical movement, Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, says the first World War "proved the bankruptcy of a Christianity which is both nationalistic and sectarian."

Dr. Blake, general secretary of the World Council of Churches, spoke in Charlotte Monday to several hundred students and clerks or record keepers of the United Presbyterian Church.

He said he had proposed the Consultation on Church Union as not only a defense of ecumenism but as an attack on sectarianism.

Helicopters Are Sent Pakistan

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — The Army has sent eight HU1 helicopters from Ft. Bragg to aid cyclone-tidal wave victims in East Pakistan.

The aircraft, which normally have a crew of three, were partially dismantled and sent in huge Air Force C141 cargo planes. They were accompanied by 30 soldiers.

The Hueys are the kind used in Vietnam and are capable of ferrying large cargoes of supplies and medicines.

The mercy mission is to aid the survivors of a Nov. 13 storm that killed an estimated 500,000 persons, 150,000 of whom are known dead. Hundreds of thousands are without food and medicine.

Bank Advances To Statewide Status Today

CHARLOTTE (AP) — An eastern North Carolina bank took another step toward statewide status today. The First National Bank of Eastern North Carolina, with headquarters in Jacksonville, opened for business as Bank of North Carolina N.A. (National Association).

And it hopes soon to open an office in Mecklenburg County, just outside the eastern city limits of Charlotte. "You have to have a Charlotte office if you're going to be a statewide bank," the president of the 18-year-old bank, J. Hugh Rich, said in a news conference in Charlotte Monday.

The Bank of North Carolina already has spread to the west, with an office in Hendersonville, and another in Boone. It is one of the fastest-growing banking systems in the state, with 42 offices in 26 cities. Its

If Husband Loses His Job . . .

By DEBORAH OVEDOFF
Philadelphia Bulletin
Staff Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — There you are—four children, a mortgage on the house, car payments and seemingly endless bills.

And then, suddenly, your husband loses his job. In this day of growing unemployment and a continuing tightening of the dollar, the loss of a job is something more than family breadwinners are merely reading about.

Losing a job is one of the toughest blows a man has to take, in the opinion of psychiatrists, psychologists and job counselors.

Dr. Alan H. Cristol, associate professor of psychiatry at Temple University Hospital here calls the loss of a job "a terrible, castrating experience."

"It is very hard on a man's well-being, since in this society a great part of a man's identity derives from his job," he said. "With his job gone, a man's entire equilibrium goes and suddenly the whole family is in a changed situation."

"For a short time anyone can cope with this, but persistent unemployment can lead to devastation in a family."

So what do you do? The experts are equally agreed that the new role of a wife is one that calls for self-discipline, courage and patience.

Dr. Cristol said that the most significant thing a wife can do is to show her husband that he is still loved and respected for himself and not for the job he was doing.

Dr. Zygmunt Piotrowski, director of psychological research at Edward N. Hay in Philadelphia, suggests that the family try and absorb the husband of a sense of guilt, and not make him feel that he is blamed for having lost his job.

"It is important for a wife to say nothing at all that could be interpreted as adverse criticism," said Dr. Piotrowski "there is no need to ask every day if he has found a job. He'll tell her soon enough."

Both Dr. Cristol and Mrs. Robert Speck, assistant counseling supervisor, Pennsylvania State Employment Service, commented on the wish or need of the wife to go to work herself.

"To work herself and leave her husband at home could have a disastrous effect on a man and a woman," said Dr. Cristol. "Most people don't feel that their roles are interchangeable."

Mrs. Speck believes that in a situation where their roles are reversed, the opinion of men and women depends on their entire outlook.

"For a man whose wife is well educated," she said, "one who is a teacher or nurse, say, the change in areas of responsibility would depend on sound understanding in their marriage. In these circumstances it would be quite a normal change for the wife to go out and work."

"It would also depend on how long the family has lived in the United States. For first-generation Americans, it is hard to adjust to a woman working—her place is in the home."

"But successive generations are quite wedded to the idea that women work in the world, and so would find it easier to accept the adjustment to a wife-breadwinner."

"There are also those young people who have both worked for several years after their marriage. Here again, it is not difficult to have a wife working in the sort of state of emergency which a job loss brings."

However, said Mrs. Speck, the very first thing a wife should do is take a long hard look at the family's budget and see where she can pare it.

"Read the newspaper ads with your husband, and say to him in an encouraging manner that you can live on less money," she said. "It might involve financial sacrifices, but a wife should be willing to make them."

Marriages have been known to end as a direct result of the strains of joblessness, says Dr. Mortimer R. Feinberg in an article in "Family Health."

"If the marriage was solid before the crisis," he says, "it will withstand the time of troubles. But often there is no way to be sure until the period of testing arrives and then it is safest to take nothing for granted."

"Life cannot go on normally when a man loses his job. As soon as the first shock wears off, he must get hold of himself and not let go."

"He may need subtle flattery, quiet amusement, or perhaps simply sleep. The measure of his wife's sensitivity will consist precisely of the skill with which she chooses and provides what he does need."

"While all this seems a good deal for the wife to do, she can remind herself ten times a day that troubles are only temporary."

"Then she must remember what he must go through all day, keeping up a good front at all times. The only exception is in the home, in the safety and security of his marriage."

Dr. Feinberg said that as part of her daily role a wife might go to the extent of editing her conversation, weeding out mention of problems that can wait for a solution—or which cannot possibly be solved in the present circumstances.

Ending The Christmas Gift Exchange List

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Can you tell me how to go about putting a stop to exchanging Christmas gifts with people we hardly ever see? I don't mean relatives. I mean out-of-towners who used to be neighbors, and who had children who were friendly with our children (all grown now) and folks we are no longer close to.

Shopping, wrapping and mailing Christmas presents has gotten to be a real chore, and I am not as young as I used to be. I would just as soon get off a lot of people's lists and take them off mine, and if the truth were known, I'm sure they feel the same way about it, but don't know how to get off mine. So how do I get off this merry-go-round, Abby? I would just as soon send Christmas cards to a couple of dozen people who are still on my Christmas gift list. Thanks from . . .
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

DEAR CHICAGO: Around Thanksgiving time write a nice note to those folks you'd like to take off the "gift list" and put on the "card list"—and tell them you are "thankful" for friends with whom you can be perfectly frank. Tell them that this year along with trimming your Christmas tree you are trimming your "gift" list and are sending cards instead. And unless they are dense and insensitive they'll appreciate your sensible and practical attitude and will reciprocate accordingly.

DEAR ABBY: My father chews tobacco and makes it a habit to spit in the kitchen sink where I wash the dishes. I know it's not sanitary and sometimes I fuss at him and tell him so. Then my mother gets mad at me and blesses me out. Is there some help for my problem? ONLY A CHILD

DEAR ONLY: Even tho your father needs to be told, it's extremely difficult for a child to tell him. You don't say how old you are, but if he continues that disgusting habit much longer, save up for a spittoon to wash the dishes in.

DEAR ABBY: I work in an office with several men and women. Whenever a certain man in the office gets near me, my foot starts tapping. This doesn't happen with any of the other men. It is very embarrassing as I was not aware of this until this man asked me why I always tapped my foot whenever he gets near me. Even now, being aware of it, I find myself doing it, unconsciously.

This man is very good looking and has a charming manner, and all the girls in the office light up when they see him coming, but I am the only one who does any tapping. What is the matter with me? TOE TAPPER

DEAR TAPPER: "Toe-tapping" implies "impatience." What are you waiting for?

DEAR ABBY: Please tell Michigan Mother to speak only for herself. I have 14 children. The youngest is seven months and the oldest is 18. If the good Lord sends me more, I will gladly accept them. He never gives us a heavier load than we can carry. MISSISSIPPI MOTHER

DEAR ABBY: I agree with Michigan Mother. Raising children is a thankless job. If my children had asked to be born, knowing what I know today, I would have answered, "NO!" "HAD IT" IN SEATTLE the man is no longer jobless. Dr. Feinberg writes, a couple will remember most vividly how they behaved with each other.

If the situation has been handled with love and understanding, then their confidence in themselves, as well as their respect and dependence on each other, will have deepened.

Slightly crushed bran flakes may be used as a "filler" in meat loaf.

Audrey Hepburn Has Square Jaw Have you looked at Audrey Hepburn lately? Have you noticed that she has a "square jaw"; yet she is still very attractive?

We mention this to prove a point; that a well-accentuated square jaw-shaped face such as Miss Hepburn's can be just as lovely to look at as the perfectly shaped face.

Especially with the proper hairstyle. The hairdo which places emphasis on top will soften the square lines and detract from the too-broad jaw. Curvy bangs, soft full waves, or diagonal parts help achieve this effect. Fullness on the sides helps to round out the shape of your face.

One rule: avoid severe hairstyles. Don't pull hair back at the temples or have it too wide at the lower sides.

Raids Were 'Calculated Risk'

The bombing raids which U. S. warplanes undertook over the week in North Vietnam were a real calculated risk for the administration.

The warplanes flew through tropical storms to strike at antiaircraft bases and perhaps enemy supply depots. The announced reason for the raids was retaliation for North Vietnam guns shooting at American reconnaissance planes.

Originally the secretary of defense claimed that the raids were south of the 19th parallel. However, after reports came from North Vietnam that the raids were within 25 miles of Hanoi, there was no denial by the Pentagon.

Anything that appears to escalate the Vietnam war carries with it the risk of new unrest in the United States. The strike in Cambodia six months ago brought on demonstrations throughout the nation. Since the administration's policy is to Vietnamize the war and to withdraw American military forces the question arises as to why these air strikes were ordered.

It is likely that the administration thinking is that it must demonstrate itself to be a strong force to the North Vietnamese even as our troops are gradually withdrawn from that unhappy land.

It is also likely that both the Cambodian operation and these more recent bombings were designed to destroy enemy buildup of supplies that could prove troublesome to U. S. forces as our troop strength steadily diminishes.

President Nixon knew that the raids could not be carried out without considerable criticism from American doves. Apparently it was believed that the risk of domestic unrest was worth taking to gain whatever benefits the bombings could bring.

RALEIGH — I promised I wasn't going to say a word about it when I quit smoking. I'm not going to, either.

You know how some people are. They kick the habit and then they can't talk about anything else. They make a boring nuisance of themselves.

In every group where there's a person who has recently stopped smoking, sooner or later he will seize the conversation. Either he and I've always been sort of jerky. You should have seen me trying to get a light sometimes.

More Robust Shape
I'll probably look better fat. It was kind of ridiculous, when you think about it, to be still wearing the same size pants I wore in college. I would have been wearing the pants, but Mary Allen couldn't figure how to alter the pegged ankles and soot drape.

The funny thing was finding my tongue. I guess it had been right there under a coat of tars and fuzz all along but I never paid any attention.

Then one day last week I felt something knocking up against my eye teeth. It was a keen, tingly feeling like when your foot has been asleep and begins to revive.

After about five minutes I realized it was my tongue, fresh out of nicotine hypnosis and ready for sensations — like, food flavors.

Actually, I don't think I eat more now that I've quit smoking. Just more often.

It comes out about even as far as money is concerned, too. I don't spend a whole lot more for chewing gum, peanuts, and Life Savers than I did for cigarettes.

It wasn't any big deal for me to decide to quit. I've always said I was the kind that could smoke or not. It just happened that I wanted to keep on smoking for 22 years, that's all.

Quitting Is Easy
In that way I'm like my Daddy. He said he doesn't know why people think it's so hard to quit smoking. He's done it himself about 1,000 times.

My family didn't care whether I smoked or not. They did keep me informed on research. They felt I'd like to know about it. The clipped articles on smoking and lung cancer, heart disease, halitosis, and traffic accidents, and underlined in red the fatality statistics.

They were thoughtful enough to put the clippings where I'd see them at the best time. For example, taped to the bathroom mirror for me to read between morning coughing fits.

It didn't bother me that practically every cause of death among American males between 20 and 60 has been somehow related to smoking. After all, they called cigarettes "coffin nails" when I started smoking.

No, it just got to the place where cigarettes didn't taste like they used to, and I quit.

But you go right ahead with your cigarette. I wouldn't want to spoil your pleasure in smoking for anything. One thing sure, I'm not going to bore my friends by talking about giving up smoking.

Whatever else is happening in the country, Vice President Agnew seems to have de-escalated his war with the news media, at least temporarily.

Speaking to editors in Honolulu, the vice president said he believes his views have been reported fairly, even by newsmen who do not care for him.

"I have marveled at how well you have made this the best informed nation on earth," he told the editors. "I regard America's press as the best and strongest in the world."

It was a respite form the vice president's feud with some portions of the press. Somehow, though, we feel that the peace will not hold.

Agnew Figures In 1972 Plans

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — White House assurance that Vice President Spiro Agnew will definitely be on the 1972 ticket was quietly but positively given last Tuesday to a most important Republican power bloc: the Southern state party chairmen.

That message was conveyed to Republican leaders from most Southern states by White House political aide Harry Dent, and was gleefully received. In fact, if Dent had not conveyed such assurances, the party's Southern wing would have rebelled instantly and noisily, with repercussions reaching to Election Day, 1972. Thus, the Southerners made their position clear to Dent: pressure from liberal Republicans to dump Agnew must be withstood.

Dent's assurance, speaking in President Nixon's behalf, does not rule out some future switch by the President if present conditions change. But it fully satisfied the Southern leaders on this score: Mr. Nixon has confided to his political aides a firm intention not to dump Agnew.

On the contrary, Agnew will get a smoothly-crafted political buildup starting in early 1971. Already being mapped out for the most controversial Vice President since Henry Wallace is a fact-finding and good-will trip abroad next spring. Mr. Nixon intends to put Agnew on the high road, and start selling him as a far-seeing statesman, keeping him out of partisan politics and away from abrasive invective for the time being.

HEROISM AT THE RUSH HOUR

A few months ago a woman rushing for a subway train slipped and fell, and her leg became wedged between the edge of the platform and the car. A hero appeared at that moment, not on a white charger or with any of the dramatic accompaniments of a great rescuer, but in the form of a sensible, middle-aged chap who knew what to do in a time of crisis and how to get people to co-operate.

As if he had thought it all out in advance, he held open the door so the train would not start and told half the people to stay in the car and throw all their weight on the side opposite that on which the woman was pinned. He then used as many people as could get their hands on the side of the car to shove it away from the platform. They were able to move it only a fraction of an inch but this was enough to free the woman.

Here were fifty to a hundred people almost entirely unacquainted with one another who got together heroically in a time of crisis. Here was a prosaic individual who used keen observation and the sense God gave him to perform a rescue worthy of a decoration. Poetry stalks our streets, heroism rubs elbows with us every day, greatness abides in little people.

Keep A Death Penalty?

EUGENE, ORE., — Oregon offers a remarkably good illustration, for those concerned with crime and punishment, of the indecision — the conflict between compassion and condemnation — that marks the whole troublesome question of the death penalty: What do we do with our gas chambers?

The question is before the U. S. Supreme Court now, following argument a week ago in test cases from California and Ohio. Oregon really has nothing to do with the story. I just happen to be out here, riding the after-dinner circuit, and the subject crops up in question periods and casual conversation. Public opinion, I am told, is sharply divided. Oregon first repealed its death penalty law in 1914, then restored the punishment in 1920, then abolished it again in 1964. Now violent crime seems to be on the increase. The State's murder rate remains far below the national average, though it increased by 25 percent in 1969 over 1968, but residents of Oregon read the papers as other men do. They too are outraged by cop killing. There is some murmuring that perhaps the death penalty ought to be revived. The question may come before Oregon's legislature in

Other Editors Say Anti-Smut Weapon

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

The Nixon administration's war on pornography gets a substantial boost with a new postal weapon that goes into effect next Feb. 1. The Postal Service is preparing for participation by millions of Americans in a new anti-obscenity program allowing any person to take his name from a pornography dealer's mailing list, or make sure it doesn't get there in the first place.

This is an opportunity for ordinary citizens who are alarmed by the flood of pornography spreading over the country to do their share in cutting off the practice of using the mails for spreading this filth.

The new provision will argument the existing 1968 Pandering Advertisement Law which allows citizens a means of shutting off mailings from a particular smut peddler.

There are, however, basic differences in the two laws. The older provision left it up to a customer to decide whether an advertisement was "erotically arousing or sexually provocative." Under the new administration, contained in the recent Postal Reorganization Act, the matter in fact must be a sexually oriented advertisement as defined in the law. The statute requires that the mailer's envelope alert addresses that it contains sexually oriented ads.

The new law will permit an individual to ask the Postal Service, for himself and on behalf of his minor children, that he not receive obscene material or advertisements from any source. Once a person's name has been on the list more than 30 days his prohibition becomes effective.

If a mailer sends pornographic ads to a person named on the Postal Service list, the mailer is subject to civil action or criminal prosecution.

Eye Barriers To Foreign Meat

By ELMER ROESSNER

Two bills pending in Congress would make meat from foreign countries prohibitively expensive.

Meat imports are already limited. Quotas limit the their prices, quotas have been established.

The pending legislation is embodied in companion bills introduced by Senator Mike Mansfield and Representative John Melcher, both Montana Democrats.

The bills would require the Secretary of Agriculture to set up an inspection system of "all livestock products imported into the United States including all fresh and frozen or chilled meats after thawing" at the time of entry. Increasing Risks

The bill specifies that the inspection shall be made after thawing.

The words "all livestock products" would apply the inspection to canned foods, too. That would require quite a task, opening every can of corned beef imported from the Argentina for inspection, as well as thawing and presumably later refreezing all frozen meat. If much meat were imported, it might solve the unemployment problem. However, not much would be imported because the bills provide that Customs not only collect prevailing tariffs but also a charge sufficient to defray the cost of such examinations and inspections.

The bills state that the purpose is "to prevent the entry of any disease or distribution of any unwholesome product."

However, Dr. E. M. Foster, a leading microbiologist, has pointed out such inspection would be dangerous.

"More Harm Than Good"
Dr. Foster, who is director of the Food Research Institute of the University of Wisconsin and president of the American Society for Microbiology, said that in his

Still Oppose Control

By JOHN STOWELL

Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, who wants to expand the economy and shrink inflation, has heard some welcome news and unwelcome advice on how to accomplish both.

The Federal Home Loan Bank disclosed plans Monday to pump more than $1 billion into the stumping home-mortgage market to drive down interest rates next year, a decision that fell on gladdened administration ears.

Not so pleasing was the call by the Committee for Economic Development, composed of industrial and financial leaders, for a return to voluntary wage and price guideposts to help curb inflation.

The President and his economic advisers have considered and rejected such an idea as unworkable and worthless.

Nevertheless, guideposts should be developed by the existing National Commission on Productivity or a presidentially appointed board, said the business research organization, and excessive wage settlements or price boosts should be published in advance, where possible.

"It should be clearly understood that what we are advocating are voluntary wage-price policies," said the CED. "We are opposed to mandatory controls, except in the event of a major war."

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board's chairman, Preston Martin, said the first allotment of $85 million to break the high interest chain should be available soon.

The money will be funneled through the board's new quasi-public arm, the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp., to buy up federally guaranteed mortgages, doubling the current amount, and thereby freeing more money to lending home buyers.

The effective interest rate to borrowers must go down, he said, because loans must be made to families with too much income for public housing assistance and too little to get ordinary loans.

A Treasury Department official said today, however, that the administration must move cautiously in 1971 to encourage economic expansion without risking further inflation.

GM Car Price Boosted Again; Average Of $24

By STEPHEN H. WILDSTROM
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — General Motors has announced an average $24 increase in the price of new cars—on the same day its new contract with the United Auto Workers went into effect.

The firm said Monday the increase, which applies immediately, represents an average boost of seven-tenths of 1 percent in the manufacturer's suggested retail prices.

Based on the nearly 4.5 million cars GM sold last year, the increase will cost American consumers $107.6 million a year.

The new increase comes on top of an average $139 price hike announced when GM's new models went on sale in September.

The new model introduction came as a strike by the UAW was in its second week and the latest increase came just as GM was gearing up to resume production.

The first new cars built since Sept. 14 were scheduled to begin rolling off GM lines today.

A GM spokesman noted that when 1971 prices were first announced the firm said the amount of increases was tentative and that the ultimate prices would depend on the outcome of the strike and other economic factors.

GM said the new price increases will be as much as $40 on some models, while some station wagon prices are reduced by $18.

The $2,091 price of the subcompact Vega 300 remains the same.

Increases will not apply to orders placed during the strike based on the old price lists. However, persons who ordered models on which the price has been reduced will receive a refund.

GM's initial price increase was the smallest among the Big Three automakers. At new model introduction time, Ford Motor Co. announced an increase averaging $153 and Chrysler Corp. raised prices an average of $143.

The UAW currently is negotiating new contracts with Ford and Chrysler, with a Dec. 7 strike deadline in effect at Ford. It is not yet known whether the of constitutional standards, the death punishment may be capriciously imposed by a jury, thus depriving a defendant of his life without due process of law. The defendants also are asking the Supreme Court to establish a rule of criminal procedure that would prevent juries from simultaneously finding guilt and fixing punishment.

Manifestly, the high court itself is divided on the basic question. Hours of argument and re-argument have been heard. It is widely speculated that Justice Harry A. Blackmun will provide a decisive fifth vote on a court split 4-4.

Meanwhile, public discussion continues with persuasive arguments on both sides. Oregon's experience supports the belief of penologists that the mere threat of a death sentence provides no deterrent to violent crime. In the few years right after repeal in 1964, the number of murders stayed about the same. There is no reason to suppose that repeal is responsible for the recent increase.

My own feeling is that capital punishment should be retained for such offenses as the killing of police or prison guards, and for the wanton murders committed by professional killers engaged in careers of crime. It costs $3,400 a year to maintain a felon in prison. Why should society bear this burden to keep a vicious enemy alive?

But the question is not an easy question, in law or morals, and if Oregonians are troubled by it, so are Supreme Court justices. They will earn their pay on this one.

Nevertheless, top party leaders were astonished and remain bitter over Evers's refusal to back Arthur Goldberg, Rockefeller's Democratic opponent whose civil rights record had never been questioned.

School Strife In Siler City

SILER CITY, N.C. (AP) — Jordan Matthews High School will remain closed the rest of this week following fights that broke out Monday between white and black students.

Police were called to the school and fighting continued for a few minutes before it could be halted.

Policeman M. L. Perry said three persons were arrested and warrants were being drawn for other arrests. He said three or four pupils sustained minor injuries in the fighting that started in the gymnasium.

Chatham County School Supt. Perry Harrison said classes also were suspended until next Monday at four schools served by the same buses that transport pupils to Jordan Matthews. These schools are Paul Braxton, Henry Siler, Chatham Middle and Silk Hope, all in the Siler City area.

The confrontation broke out while school principal Murray Andrew was speaking to the white pupils. A group of whites had asked for a conference in connection with his decision to change the school's nickname of Blue Phantom. Andrew had decided earlier to take that action—after objections were voiced to the nick name by some black students.

A report said the white pupils were cheering and would not listen to Andrew. He informed them he would discuss the matter in smaller groups later and asked them to return to classes. Some left and others refused to do so.

The fighting broke out, it was reported, after black students pushed their way past three teachers and entered the gym.

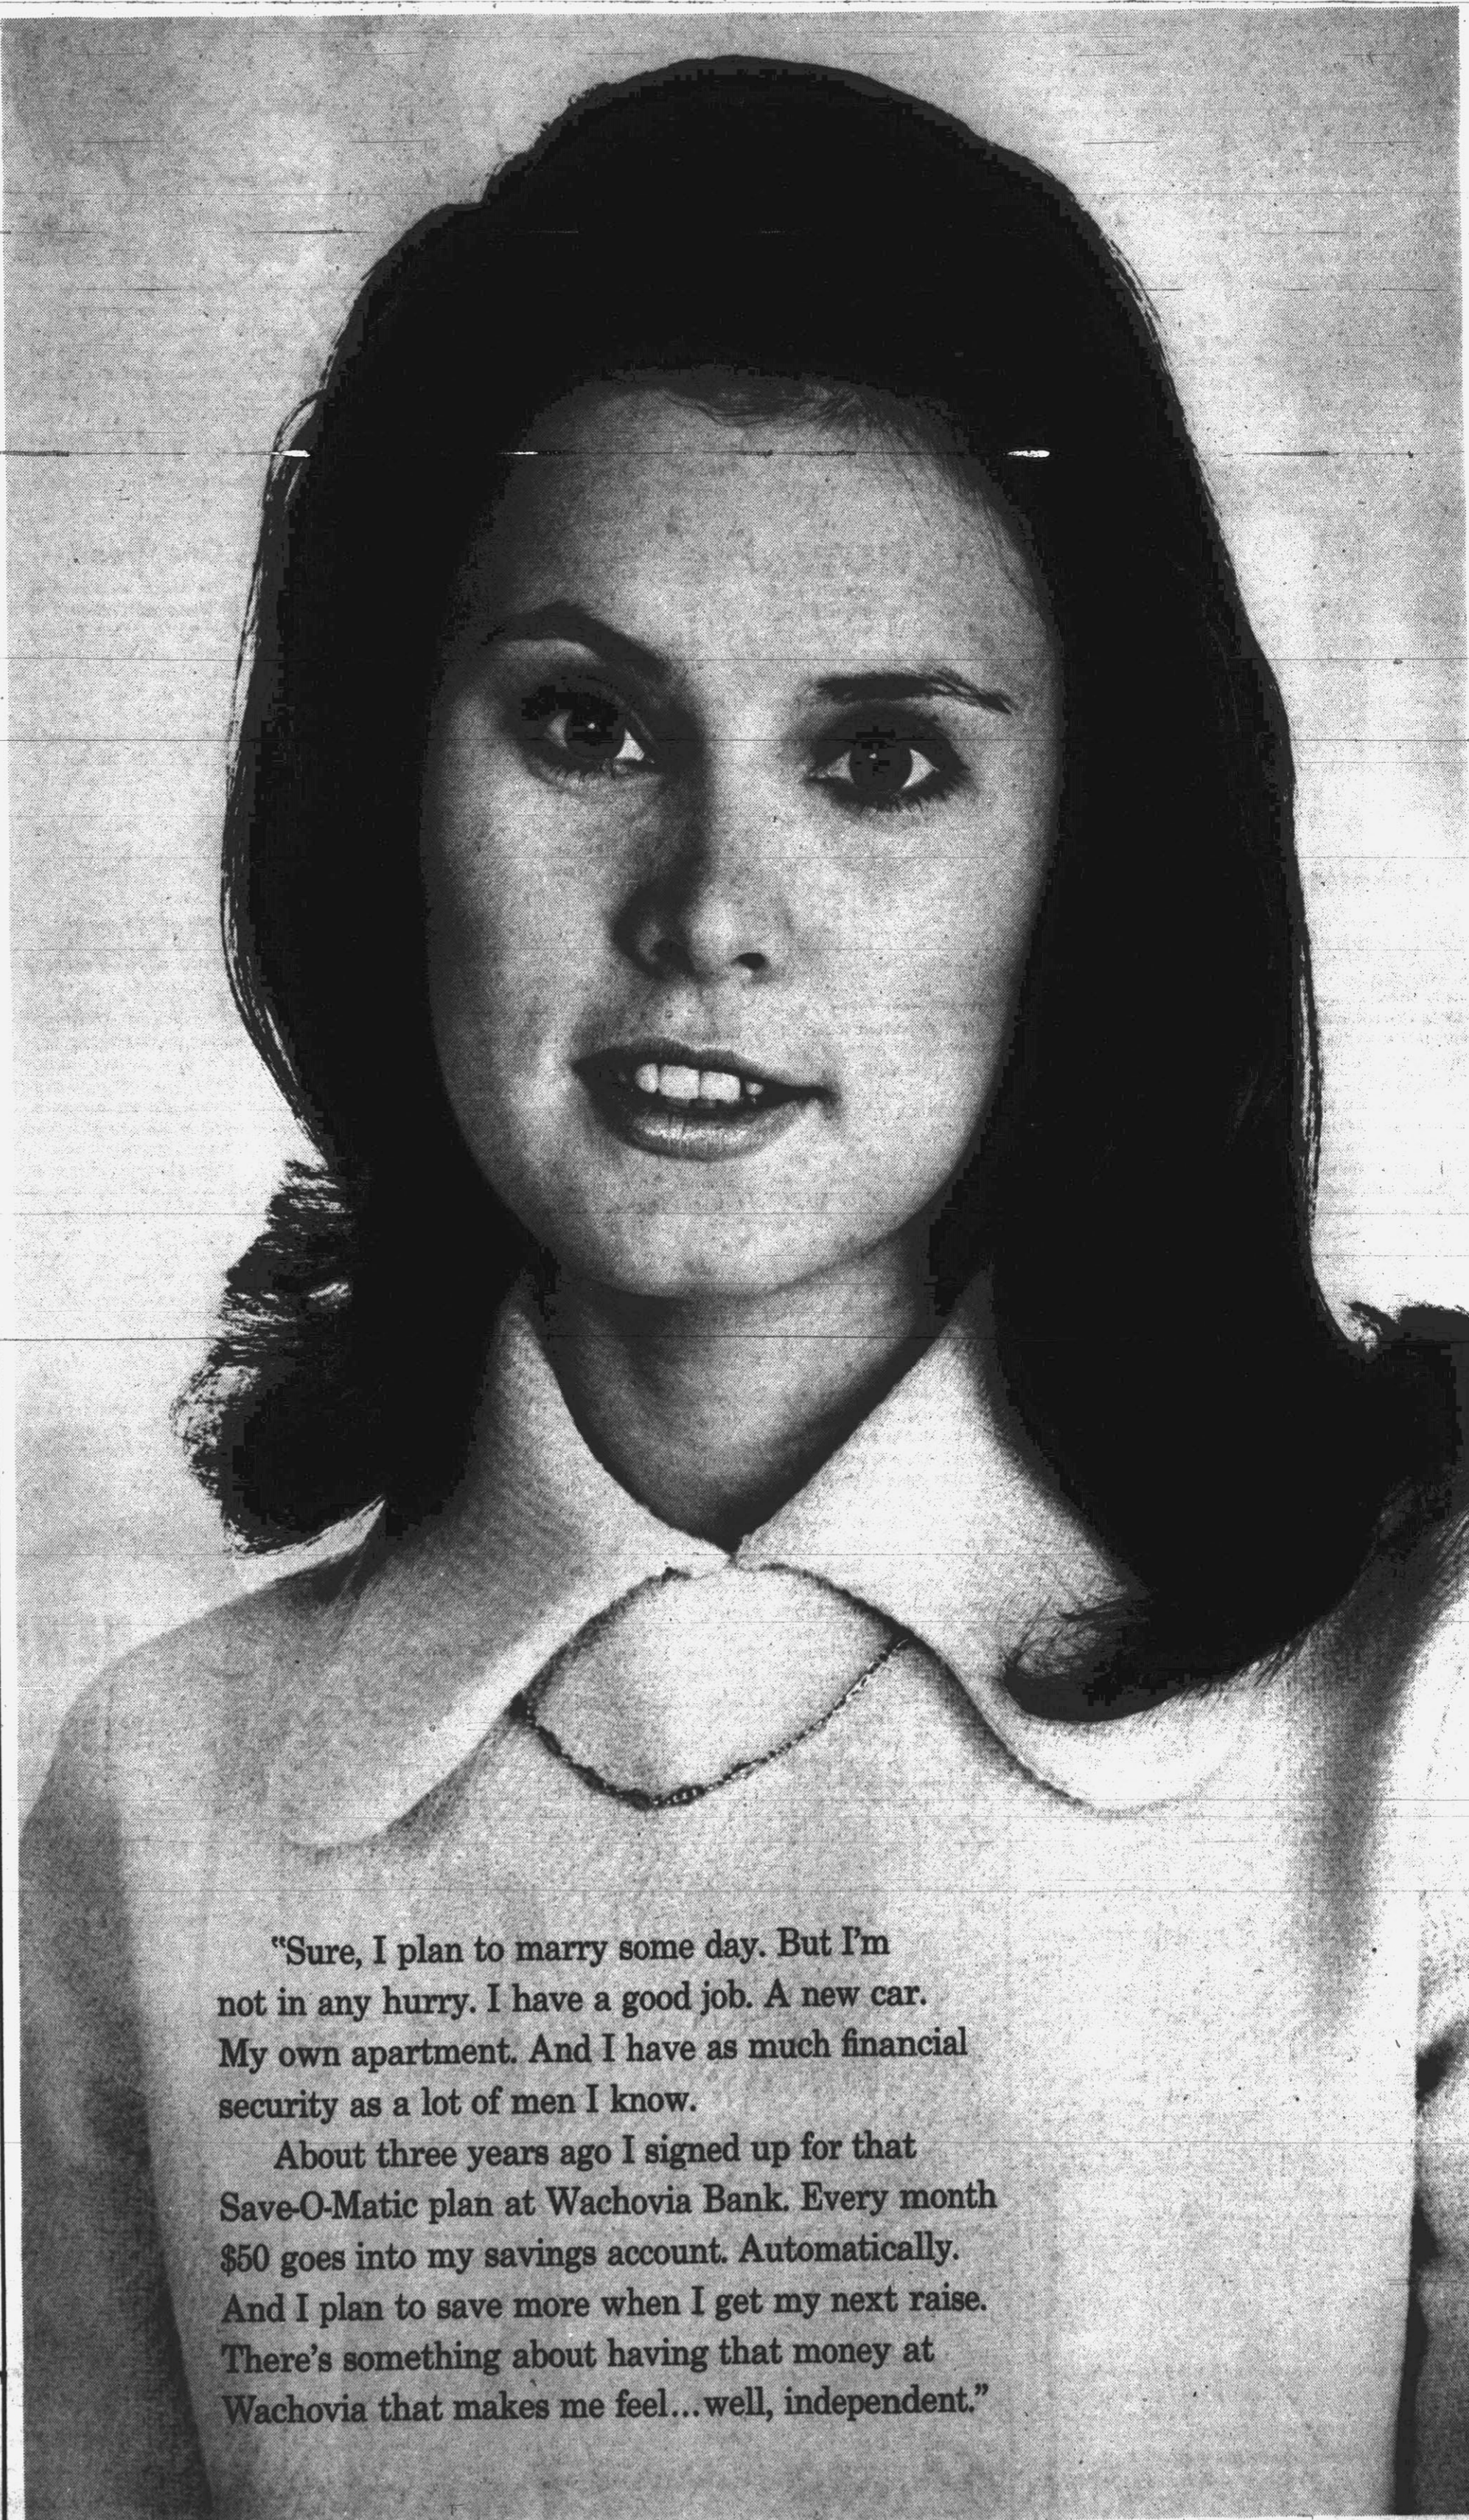

Perry said two of those arrested were charged with bringing firearms onto the school grounds. The other person, a nonstudent, was charged with using profane language.

1966 marked the first full year since 1851 that every state provided for the legal sale of distilled spirits.

Ky Cites Brief Democratic Experience

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — "We began three years ago to begin to learn to live in a democracy," Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam has told a group of anti-war students here.

"Your president recently did not receive a majority but he is still your president." Ky agreed to answer student questions before he and his official party left this restored Colonial capital Monday for a trip to Washington.

There was no antiwar demonstration by students of the College of William and Mary, and Ky said he would answer questions asked by one student as a representative of the others.

His comments on democracy came as Ky fielded questions dealing with communism and the war in South Vietnam.

Ky said his government does not have 100 per cent support of the people, but suggested that such support exists only in Communist countries, where there is only one choice.

"Frankly," he said, "the cause of freedom has the support of the majority. If it did not have, how could we stand for 15 years, how could we have so many volunteers today?"

The students asked Ky why a political rival had been jailed under the country's recently enacted conspiracy law that bans distribution of Communist propaganda.

"The man used the freedom we provide to publicly support the Communist cause," Ky said.

"It is one thing we cannot accept. If he is for communism, we will allow him to go to the other wise."

The fiery, controversial South Vietnamese soldier-politician told the students, "If you are pro-Communist, I have nothing to say to you. It is your right."

Says Job Made Near Impossible

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Selective Service Director Cuctis Tarr says passage of a congressional proposal to broaden the grounds for conscientious objection might lead to his resignation.

The proposal would exempt from the draft young men who claim their consciences are against a particular war, such as the Vietnam conflict.

In a taping for a television show made public Monday, Tarr says such exemptions would so complicate his job "that I'll give it up if anybody wants it."

He said the proposal would make it nearly impossible to separate those "who have a problem of conscience from those who have a problem of politics."

Bank Adopts A New Name

First National Bank of Eastern North Carolina, following approval by the Comptroller of the Currency, has changed its corporate title to Bank of North Carolina, N.A., effective immediately, according to J. Hugh Rich, president.

Rich said that "over the past decade the bank's board of directors had... sought to have the bank's name changed so that it would more readily describe the bank's... state-wide service."

He added that "while it was the bank's officials desire to drop the word 'Eastern' while maintaining the rest of the bank's original title, the board of directors investigated and analyzed all name possibilities toward the end of providing a name umbrella to which all geographic areas of North Carolina could relate...."

The Comptroller approved the name change on Nov. 24, Rich announced. The original name had been incorporated since the bank was established in 1952.

A spokesman for the bank, headquartered in Jacksonville, said that a new logo representing the bank's policy of community cooperation, progress and adhering to local individuality is in the planning stage and is expected to be announced soon.

The board voted to establish a new department of consultant services; to create a new position of resident director; to open an office in Eastern North Carolina; and to establish a Department of Development.

Glidwell At Board Meet

William C. Glidwell Jr., vice-president of Wachovia Bank and Trust Company and a member of the Board of Regents of Barium Springs Home for Children, attended a semi-annual meeting of the board Thursday.

The Home is the Child and Family Service Agency of the Presbyterian Church, U.S., Synod of North Carolina. The board is composed of 24 men and women from across the state of North Carolina and is elected at the annual meeting of the Synod.

Glidwell, an elder in the First Presbyterian Church, Greenville, is a member of the Budget and Finance Committee of the Board.

At Thursday's meeting, George M. Ivey Jr., president of the J. B. Ivey chain of department stores, was elected president of the board.

The board voted to establish a new department of consultant services; to create a new position of resident director; to open an office in Eastern North Carolina; and to establish a Department of Development.

One Item

One item is on the agenda for the special meeting of Greenville's City Council tonight at 8:00 p.m. in the city hall.

City Councilmen will take up discussion of rezoning of the David Evans property adjacent to U.S. 264 and U.S. 264 by-pass. The property lies south of U. S. 264 (Washington highway) and east of the by-pass where it joins the Washington highway.

Assert 'Facts' Short Of Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new survey shows that while it may be policy to grant women equal treatment as college teachers and administrators, most of the important jobs go to men, according to the American Association of University Women.

"Opinion or policy does not always equate with fact," the survey of 454 colleges concluded.

Among other things, the survey said:

—While 90 per cent of the schools which answered the survey questions said they don't consciously discriminate, 34 had no female department heads.

—Though 22 per cent of the faculty in the nation's college and universities are women, 9 per cent of the full professors are female.

Pope Plans Dacca Visit

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI will interrupt his flight to Manila Friday for a one-hour visit to East Pakistan to express his sympathy for the victims of the storm disaster 11 days ago, the Vatican announced today.

The announcement said the pontiff would spend an hour in Dacca, the capital of East Pakistan. It is 100 miles north of the Ganges delta area where hundreds of thousands died in the winds and floods and some two million survivors are homeless and desperately in need of food and clothing.

The Pope will arrive in Dacca at 1:15 a.m. local time Friday and take off again at 2:15. To make the stop without disrupting his schedule in Manila, he advanced his departure from Rome Thursday by 2½ hours.

The Pope had told a crowd in St. Peter's Square last Sunday that he wanted to stop in Pakistan if it could be arranged. He appealed to the crowd to pray for victims of "the great disaster in Pakistan."

Greene Central Nips N. Pitt

SNOW HILL — Greene Central's Rams opened their 1970-71 basketball season with a 67-61 victory over the North Pitt Panthers last night.

It was the first basketball game for the Panthers, whose school was formed in September through consolidation of Bethel, Bethel Union, Belvoir - Falkland and Stokes - Pactolus.

The game was tight all the way, and only in the final quarter was it decided.

Greene Central slipped out into a 20-19 lead at the end of the first period, but then built up an eight point spread by the end of the half. In the second frame, the Rams outscored North Pitt, 19-12, and held a 39-31 advantage at the intermission.

In the third period, North Pitt put on a rally and came back to close the gap to two points, outshooting Greene Central, 15-9. That cut the lead to 48-46 with eight minutes to play.

But in the final period, the Rams refused to wilt and dumped in 19 points, while holding the Panthers to just 15, enough to pull out the win.

Al Herrington led the Ram effort with 15 points, while Mike Giles had 14, Ron Bowen had 12, Mitchell Fields had 11 and Lacy Ward had 10.

For North Pitt, Wayne Brown was high with 15, while Mike Burroughs had 13 and William Shivar had 12.

In the junior varsity preliminary game, North Pitt squeaked by Greene Central, 46-45.

North Pitt travels to North Lenoir tonight, while Greene Central plays host to Bertie on Wednesday night.

Robersonville's Girls Again Are Favorites In Martin County

(One of a series)

ROBERSONVILLE — In the last eight years, the Robersonville High School girls basketball team has lost only three Martin County Conference games.

This year, with a new name, it appears that it would be a good bet to pick them to be the Martin County champions again.

The Robersonville team this year, following consolidation, has changed its name to the Golden Eagles, and the girls will no longer be known as the Ramlets. But a winning who was a starter for two years with Scotland Neck. She's the tallest girl on the team at 5-11." More than likely, she'll be at one of the stationary guard slots.

"We are fairly short overall," Briley added. "We are going to have to make up for it with speed and shooting."

Briley lists Kathy Thomas as an excellent outside shooter, "probably the best on the team. We look for her to do right much scoring, mostly from the outside." She will probably take one of the forward slots.

The other will probably go to either Betty James or Ruth Anna Goins. "Both are fairly good shots," Briley said. "Ruth Anna has better height and is effective close to the basket. Betty drives well."

The other guard spot will probably go to either Jane Jenkins or Betty James. "Betty will be in there somewhere, if not at forward, she'll be a guard."

Briley feels his depth is in good shape this year. Peggy James needs only experience, Briley says, to be a good rover. Brenda James also is looking good in backup for the rover spot. "We have nine who could do most of the playing. Any one of them

Ohio State Is Back In Second

By HERSCHEL NISSENON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ohio State replaced Notre Dame as the No. 2 team in The Associated Press college football poll today, diminishing the possibility of the Fighting Irish meeting Texas in a Cotton Bowl battle between the top two teams in the nation.

Texas, which did not play over the weekend, held onto the top spot but Ohio State's 20-9 revenge victory over Michigan vaulted the Buckeyes from fifth to second. They had started the season in first, but had fallen as low as third place.

Nebraska remained in third after a 28-21 triumph over Oklahoma but Notre Dame's 3-0 squeaker over Louisiana State resulted in a drop from second to fourth. LSU inched from seventh to sixth by one point despite the setback.

Arkansas, heading for a Dec. 5 shootout with Texas for the Southwest Conference crown and the right to face Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl, climbed one spot to fifth with a 24-10 decision over Texas Tech, which had been ranked 19th but fell out of the Top Twenty. Tennessee drubbed Kentucky 45-0 and shot from eighth to seventh.

Michigan, which saw its unbeaten dreams tumble in Ohio Stadium, slipped from fifth to eighth. Arizona State, still undefeated following a 33-21 win over New Mexico, remained in ninth place but Mississippi, idle over the weekend, rose from 12th to 10th while the Air Force went from 10th to 12th after a 49-19 blasting by Colorado.

Texas garnered 20 first-place votes and 794 points from a panel of 45 sports writers and broadcasters across the country. Ohio State received 14 votes for No. 1 and 760 points while Nebraska had six first-place votes and 718 points and Notre Dame pulled down three top ballots and 676 points. The other two first-place votes went to Arizona State.

Auburn, which also had the weekend off, jumped from 13th to 11th while Stanford, a 22-14 loser to California, went from 11th to 13th.

Rounding out the Top Twenty were Dartmouth, Toledo, Georgia Tech, Penn State, Northwestern, Colorado and Washington.

The last two replaced San Diego State and Texas Tech in the Top Twenty.

Little League Officers Named

New officers for the Greenville Little Leagues have been elected for the 1971 season, and a new age limitation has been established for the leagues.

M. W. Aldridge and George S. Coffman have been elected Presidents of the North State and Tar Heel Little Leagues, respectively, for this year.

Other North State league officers include Clarence Tugwell, vice-president; D. L. Porter Jr., secretary-treasurer; David J. Middleton, safety officer; and Mrs. David J. Middleton, president of the women's auxiliary.

Dan H. Gordon was appointed to his fifth term as league supervisor.

The leagues also voted to restrict play in the leagues to ages 10, 12 and 12 on regular teams. Nine-year-olds, who have been eligible in the past, will now be restricted to the minor league program, run by the Greenville Recreation Department.

NorthEdgecombe Beats Oak City

TARBORO — Oak City High School's girls remained unbeaten with a 32-22 victory over North Edgecombe last night.

The Oak City boys, however, went down to their second loss, 61-54.

The win left the girls with a perfect 5-0 mark for the year. In the first period of their game, the Oak City girls pushed out into a 6-5 lead, and then pushed through 11 points to eight for North Edgecombe in the second half. That left Oak City in a 17-13 lead at the half.

In the third period, Oak City turned into a runaway, boosting the lead by ten points, outthumping Edgecombe, 14-4. That left the lead at 31-17 as the final period began. In that, Oak City coasted, and was outthumped by North Edgecombe, 5-1, but to no avail.

Kathryn Edmundson led the Oak City scoring with 13 points, while Prudence Gully had 11 to pace North Edgecombe.

In the boys game, Oak City led throughout most of the first half, but couldn't hold onto the lead in the second frame. North Edgecombe managed to slip into a 17-15 lead at the end of the first period, but Oak City came back and outscored them, 17-10, in the second quarter. That gave Oak City a 32-22 lead at halftime.

But it didn't hold up. North Edgecombe came back in the third quarter to outscore Oak City, 16-10, and take the lead again, 43-42. Then, in the final period, they outthumped the visitors, 18-12, to wrap it up.

Charles Davis led North Edgecombe with 26 points, while James Speight had 15 and Ronnie Stokes added 12. For Oak City, Donnie Duggins had 23 and William Raynor had 15.

Oak City opens its conference play Wednesday, playing host to Bear Grass.

Togetherhness In Final Rites

By CRAIG AMMERMAN
Associated Press Writer

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP)—A hot sun beat down on the Marshall University practice field this past August as Rick Tolley paced the sidelines with a reporter, intently watching his eager troops prepare for the upcoming season that held bright hopes.

"We'll be all right," the young head coach said then. He paused for another moment, briefly shouted instructions to a quarterback, and said:

"Our boys have something unusual—it's something a little special. Call it a special kind of spirit."

Today, in Huntington, the last remains of that "special spirit" Tolley and this city were so proud of will be buried in six adjacent graves—six bodies that could not be positively identified.

The six were among 46 Marshall players, coaches and athletic staffers killed in the 75-death jetliner disaster Nov. 14.

They were also part of Tolley's "special spirit"—part of a drive that had seen the 8,500-student university's football team shred a 27-game winless streak and a recruiting scandal with a young team that was promising.

On that hot August day Tolley explained that he was talking about a kind of spirit born out of "close long-time relationships."

"You know we have a lot of boys who've known each other for a long time," he said. "That will be valuable to us as time goes on."

The closeness Tolley spoke of was evident—14 of the Thundering Herd's 22 starters came to Marshall from three places. Three came from Cincinnati's Moeller High School, four were life-long friends from Tuscaloosa, Ala., and seven were graduates of Ferrum Junior College in Virginia.

All started for the Thundering Herd. All were aboard the ill-fated DC9 when it plowed into a muddy West Virginia hillside one mile short of its hilltop airport's destination the night of Nov. 14.

Among the six being buried today in a Huntington cemetery are Tom Brown, Tom Zborill and Dave Griffith Jr., all Ferrum graduates who came to Marshall.

The other geographic locations that molded the homogeneous spirit Tolley spoke so highly of that hot August day—Cincinnati and Tuscaloosa—buried their dead Saturday.

From Tuscaloosa had come Larry Sanders, a sterling defensive cornerback, fleet halfback Joe Hood, defensive tackle Robert Van Horn and end and defensive tackle Fred Wilson. They had come together to Marshall Saturday they were buried side by side in Tuscaloosa.

In Cincinnati, a concelebrated Mass of the Resurrection was held Saturday for Moeller High School graduates Mark Andrews, Jack Repasy and Bob Harris.

Harris, for the last three games Marshall's starting quarterback, Repasy, an excellent receiver, and Andrews, an offensive tackle, were buried in adjacent graves.

After today, the "special spirit" Tolley talked about so optimistically on a sunny day in August will be buried side by side in Tuscaloosa, Cincinnati and Huntington—a small symbol of the togetherhness that was the Thundering Herd's.

ECU Seniors In Final Contest

A dozen East Carolina University senior football players will close out their college careers this Saturday afternoon when the Pirates meet Davidson in Davidson, N. C.

The number would be 14 except for a broken collarbone and Uncle Sam.

Gerald Wrenn, a cornerback from Danville, Va., broke his collarbone in the Richmond game five weeks ago, shelving him for the rest of the season.

Uncle Sam got into the act when flanker Dwight Flanagan was called to active duty with the U. S. Army Reserve. The Edenton senior played his final game for the Purple and Gold two weeks ago against ill-fated Marshall. He was to report to Fort Campbell, Ky., for basic training Wednesday — three days before the Davidson game.

"I thought about trying to get a weekend-pass so I could play against Davidson," said Flanagan. "But since that will be my first weekend in the Army, I don't think Uncle Sam would go for my idea."

Those 12 seniors who will be on the Richardson Field gridiron Saturday include co-captains George Whitley and Steve Davis. Whitley, a cornerback from Huntersville, has been a starter for three years. Davis is an offensive guard from Smithfield.

The others who will be playing their final college football game are:

Defensive ends Wes Rothrock

from Enfield, Mike McGuirk from Arlington, Va., and Jim Gudger from Commerce, Tex.; defensive backs Tom Pulley from Durham and Mike Mills from Statesville; linebacker Butch Britton from Chincoteague, Va.; defensive tackle Tim Tyler from Alexandria, Va.; flanker Dick Corrada from Richmond, Va.; and placekickers Tony Guzzo from Norfolk, Va., and Earl Clary from Emporia, Va.

Whitley, Pulley, Mills, Rothrock and McGuirk are all listed as starters on defense for the Davidson game. Tyler probably would be were it not for an injury he suffered against West Virginia. The injury kept him out of the Marshall game.

Corrada is the lone senior listed to start on offense this Saturday. The chunky redhead, who still has the baseball season to look forward to, already holds nearly every ECU record — single game, season and career — for pass receptions. He has caught 44 this fall for 469 yards (both records) and has career marks of 77 catches for 879 yards. The 77 catches is a career record, but he needs 145 more yards to break Dave Bumgarner's career yardage record, but he needs 145 more yards to break Dave Bumgarner's career yardage record of 1,023. Corrada's single game highs of 14 catches and 169 yards against Southern Illinois this year are both school records.

John K. Meares of A-31 Glendale Dr., Greenville, is the winner of this season's final Daily Reflector Football Contest.

Meares correctly picked the winners in 26 of the 32 games in the contest for this week.

Second place went to Mert Sutton, who had 25 right. Four other entrants also had 25 right, but were further away in the tie-breaker. Sutton guessed that 80 points would be the most points scored in any one game. The actual total was 92, scored in North Carolina's 59-34 victory over Duke.

The other four were further off the point total.

Eagles Pull Off Upset Of Giants

Cale Yarborough To Switch To USAC Tour

Jim Gregory Returns To Pirate Cage Drills

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Billy Walik, whose performance was singled out by both coaches as a major factor in the Philadelphia Eagles' 23-20 National Football League upset over the New York Giants, compared his job with that of a sprinter in track.

Walik, a 180-pound rookie, returns kicks for the Eagles. He carries four for 146 yards on Monday night's NFL weekly television presentation. He raced 57 yards with a second period New York kickoff to set up a subsequent field goal, and 45 yards with a third quarter return that started the Eagles toward their winning fourth period touchdown.

"It's like being a sprinter in indoor track meets," Walik said of his specialty. "In track you wait around a lot until it's time to run and then you let fly for 50 or 60 yards and hope you timed it right. In returning kickoffs, you look for the hole and try to hit it before it closes."

Coach Alex Webster of the Giants said Walik's flying feet signaled the end of his team's six-game winning streak and it helped drop New York into a second place tie with the Dallas Cowboys in the NFL's National Conference Eastern Division. The Giants and Cowboys are each 6-4, now 1½ games behind the leading St. Louis Cardinals 7-2-1.

"What hurt us most was Walik's kickoff returns which gave them great field position," Webster said in the quiet of the Giants' dressing room. The New York coach also credited the Eagles' ability to control the ball in the final period with a big part in Philadelphia's victory.

The Eagles tallied their winning touchdown on a 1-yard keeper play by quarterback Norm Snead 52 seconds into the final period. They killed 9:26 on the clock after getting the ball with 10:16 remaining. New York finally got it with 50 seconds left, but could get only to midfield.

Eagles' coach Jerry Williams said Walik's returns and the ability of the Eagles' defense to contain Giants halfback Ron Johnson were the key factors for his team, which has won two and tied one in the last three games after losing the first seven. Johnson, the NFL's third leading ground gainer before last weekend's games, managed only 35 yards on 16 carries.

New York scored in the first period for a 3-0 lead on Pete Gogolak's 29-yard field goal.

The Eagles recovered a fourth down bad pass from center at the New York 1, and scored on Snead's keeper run in the second quarter to lead 6-3.

New York took advantage of a fumble recovery to go back in front on a two-yard burst by Johnson and a 29-yard Gogolak field goal made it 13-6 with 42 seconds left in the half.

Walik then returned the kickoff 57 yards leading to Mark Moseley's 29 yard field goal on the last play of the half.

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
ATLANTA (AP) — Cale Yarborough, who won almost half a million dollars as one of the South's top stock car drivers, confirmed today he is switching to the U. S. Auto Club's championship circuit for 1971.

Yarborough, 31, said at a news conference here that he will join the veteran Lloyd Ruby of Wichita Falls, Tex., in a team owned by Gene White, an Atlanta tire distributor.

"I'll be going for the national driving title," said the broad-shouldered, 5-10 blond from Timmonsville, S. C. "I plan to run the entire 12-race championship series, including the three 500-mile races on the circuit."

USAC has reduced its big car series to a dozen events for 1971. The three big ones will be at Indianapolis May 29, Pocono, Pa., July 3 and Ontario, Calif., Sept. 6. Together, the 12 races will pay close to $3 million in prize money.

Yarborough, a contender in NASCAR's Grand National stock cars since 1960, said his championship schedule will not allow time for any stock car competition.

"I hate to miss Daytona and the other big races here in the South," he said, but added: "I could not have driven for Ford anyway because they're dropping all forms of racing."

A Ford team driver for four years, Yarborough said his stock car owners, the Wood Brothers of Stuart, Va., were in agreement with his decision to switch circuits.

Yarborough won 14 major races on the NASCAR Grand National trail and $449,959 in prize money after getting his first ride in the Southern 500 at Darlington, S. C., when he was 17.

His record showed three major wins and $115,875 in winnings during the season just closed. Ironically, his victory list included the last big event on the schedule—the American 500 only two weeks ago at Rockingham, N. C.

White, in announcing Yarborough's addition to his team, said, "Our racing organization has grown to such proportions in the past few years that we felt now was the time to add another first-line driver."

"We think Cale has proven over the years he can win under pressure and has that great combination of natural driving ability and desire—two attributes that all of the great Indy champions have had."

Ruby, now 44, has been White's driver for three years, and always has been a threat at Indianapolis. Ruby, White said, will be valuable in helping Yarborough in his switch to the more exotic championship cars.

Yarborough, however, is not without knowledge of the single-seater, open-cockpit machines. He ran Indy twice—in 1968 and 1969—and plans to get more experience before the season opens by running tire tests in the White cars.

There was good news around Minges Coliseum this week.

Jim Gregory, 6-7 star of the East Carolina basketball team, was back on the court practicing for the first time in almost four weeks.

A badly sprained right ankle, injured during a workout back on October 29, is now almost healed. Gregory had the cast removed Monday and that afternoon went through a limited practice session.

"The first few days will consist of numerous, but limited workouts for Jim," said Pirates Head Coach Tom Quinn. "This is a crucial period for an injury such as the one Jim suffered. But at least the cast is off."

With Gregory back in the lineup—or at least headed in that direction—the Pirates are an entirely different team from the one that managed a ragged 82-68 victory over the ECU Frosh last Thursday night.

Gregory averaged 16.5 points and 10.4 rebounds per game last year in helping Quinn's Bucs to a second-place finish in the Southern Conference, one notch below Davidson. Again this winter he will team with Jim Fairley, another 6-7 man, who averaged 16.7 points and 12.1

rebounds last season. This gives the Pirates what Quinn calls "two of the best five players in the conference."

Fairley is the No. 1 returning rebounder in the league and Gregory ranks No. 3 in this very important category. Also, they will have with them this year 6-10 soph Al Faber, who averaged 18.4 points and 13.3 points for the Baby Pirates last year.

On the outside Quinn plans right now to alternate three players at two positions. The three are senior Mike Henrich (No. 7 man last year), junior Julius Prince and soph Dave "The Eel" McNeill. Prince is a great defensive player and Henrich is an experienced floor leader. McNeill rates the best shooter of the three and is one of the most exciting players to watch that ECU has ever had.

Backing up the three big men inside will be 6-5 Terry Davis, a tremendous leaper, 6-5 Dave Franklin, a very solid performer, and 6-5 Arnie Ruegg, probably the strongest man on the team. Greg Crouse, a 6-2 veteran, gives strong support outside.

Davis was the sensation of the Varsity-Frosh game. The lithe junior transfer from Louisville Junior College hit on 8 of 13 shots from the floor and 4 of 7 from the line for 20 points, tops for the game. And Davis played only 20 minutes in the contest. He also grabbed seven rebounds in that time.

Faber scored 19 points and 15 rebounds, but he played the entire 40 minutes.

The Pirates open their 1970-71 season on Friday night, December 4th, against George Washington in Minges Coliseum. Game time will be 8 p.m.

State Titles On The Line

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Seven championship playoff football games this weekend end the North Carolina high school season.

Two state titles will be settled in games at Raleigh and Wilson. In the Raleigh clash, Charlotte Olympic plays Raleigh Broughton at 1 p.m. Saturday for the 4-A title, the classification of the state's largest schools. The 1-A crown for the smallest schools will be settled at Wilson between Robbinsville and Saratoga at 8 p.m. Friday.

The other games, all at 8 p.m. Friday, are for regional crowns. In 3-A competition, Fayetteville Seventy-First plays Northern Durham at Durham for the East title and Pisgah plays at Reidsville for the West championship.

Arizona State Gets Bowl Bid

ATLANTA (AP) — Ninth-ranked Arizona State University, winner of 15 consecutive games, has accepted an invitation to play in the Peach Bowl here Dec. 30.

No opponent has officially been named, although the Peach Bowl has extended a strings attached invitation to Georgia. The condition is that Georgia defeat Georgia Tech when the archrivals end their regular season at Athens Saturday.

Should Georgia, 5-4, lose to Tech, Peach Bowl officials are hopeful of landing North Carolina, 8-3, as the host team. The invitation was extended to the Sun Devils Sunday, but Peach Bowl officials remained silent because the acceptance had to go through proper channels on the Arizona campus.

Crislip In Score Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Unless somebody runs wild in Saturday's season-ending game which has East Carolina's Pirates at Davidson to meet the Wildcats, it appears Furman's Steve Crislip will wind up scoring more points than any other Southern Conference football player for 1970.

Crislip forged into the scoring lead last Saturday night when he tallied twice on runs of 27 and 15 yards in the Paladins' 38-17 victory at Mississippi College to run his season's total to 62 points on 10 touchdowns and a two-point conversion.

That gave him a two-point lead over Bob Duncan of the Citadel, also a two-time scorer in the Bulldogs' 44-9 rout of Davidson that clinched second place in the league standings. Duncan wound up with 60 points on 10 touchdowns but played in two games less than Crislip.

Phil Mosser of William and Mary, who set a conference season record for rushing, scored once as the Indians wrapped up the league championship with a 34-33 decision over Richmond and stands third in scoring with 54 points on nine touchdowns.

Pat Carroll of Furman, who had been the leader the past few weeks, failed to score Saturday night and is fourth with 52 points on eight touchdowns and a pair of two-point conversions.

Tied for fifth was eight touchdowns and 48 points each are Jerry Mauro of Richmond, who scored twice in the Spiders' defeat by William and Mary, and Billy Wallace of East Carolina, who was idle last weekend but has one more shot at the title against Davidson on Saturday.

Kicking specialist Jim Leber of The Citadel is seventh with 45 points on 30 extra points and five field goals.

There's a three-way tie for eighth at 42 points among Bill Bracken of Davidson and Jerry Haynes of Richmond, each with seven touchdowns, and Virginia Military kicker Don Cupit, who booted nine extra points and a conference season record of 11 field goals. Bracken has one game left.

NOTICE TO TELEPHONE CUSTOMERS

For the first time since 1953 we are planning increases in the rates for many out-of-state calls.

AT&T has filed a new schedule of rates with the Federal Communications Commission which increases charges for customer-dialed interstate calls during weekday business hours and for all operator-assisted interstate calls.

All rates for calls you dial yourself without operator assistance in the evenings, at night, on weekends or on holidays will remain unchanged or be reduced.

The new rates are filed to become effective on January 19, 1971.

Here are the specific provisions of the new rates for out-of-state calls:

- Rates for station-to-station calls you dial yourself without operator assistance from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, will be increased—up to 10 cents for the first three minutes.
- Rates for all operator-assisted calls (including person-to-person, credit-card, collect, and coin telephone calls) will be increased in amounts ranging from 5 cents to 30 cents for the first three minutes.
- Where rates for the first three minutes of a call are increased, the rates for each additional minute will be increased in a range of one cent to five cents.
- Rates for station-to-station calls you dial yourself without operator assistance during evenings, nights, or weekends will remain the same—or, in a few cases, actually be reduced. For example, the rate for calls dialed coast-to-coast from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. Saturday, or 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, will still be 70 cents for the first three minutes.

This will be the first general increase in interstate Long Distance rates in 17 years. During that period, in spite of continuing inflation, interstate Long Distance rates have been reduced repeatedly. Even with the increase, the level of these rates will still be about 14 percent below the 1953 level. Yet in those 17 intervening years, the cost of living has gone up 47 percent.

The new rates recognize the higher labor and equipment costs associated with operator-assisted calls, and are designed to increase total revenues from interstate service by about six percent.

We have filed for the increase so that we can assure adequate earnings to attract investors in a money market which, like everything else, has felt the impact of inflation. This ability to attract new capital is essential if we are to continue to provide high-quality telecommunications service and meet the growing demands for communications services in this country.

The Worry Clinic Insurance Still Is Best Policy

Opal admits that she was not properly appreciative when the salesman asked to see her husband. But now she shivers with fright at the thought she might have caused her husband to postpone the deal. So I urged her and the thousands of wives in the same boat, to send a grateful "League of the Golden Pen" letter to such salesmen!

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph. D., M.D.

CASE 0-589: Opal Q., aged 29, has been married 8 years.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "we were ideally happy and had 3 adorable kiddies.

"Their daddy was crazy about

"He had taken out an all-purpose insurance policy that paid off the balance of the mortgage on our suburban home.

"It even provided for all the funeral expenses, too!

"And I am now drawing an insurance check of $500 on the first of every month.

"This will continue for 15 more years, too.

"So I don't need to worry about moving to some little apartment or trying to hire a baby-sitter so I can get a job to help support 3 kiddies.

"Dr. Crane, I never thought much about the need for insurance till this blow struck me.

"In fact, I may have avoided the insurance salesman who first called to see my husband.

"For I figured we were young and would celebrate our Golden Wedding together.

"But I have met several other young widows with children, and some of them are destitute.

"So I realize that the life insurance salesman are really the major benefactors of wives, especially if the latter have children.

"Why, we could not have saved enough money in 25 years to have paid off our mortgage and given me a $500 check every month!

You readers have heard the old saying about a "guardian angel" that hovers at your shoulder.

Well, literally, the insurance salesmen of America have made that "guardian angel" an established fact.

Over the years, millions of widows and surviving children have rejoiced over the thoughtfulness of the husband who protected his family as Opal's bridegroom did.

Insurance, too, indicates a stable, intelligent type of husband, so it is often the leverage that gets a man a good job.

Thoughtless husbands of the hippie or juvenile outlook, don't make such plans to safeguard their wife or future youngsters.

Insurance also gives a poor man an immediate $10,000 or so, that is on tap the moment he should suffer a fatal accident.

And it also provides liberal retirement income, in addition to your Social Security check, so be grateful to insurance salesmen!

Send for my "Budget Booklet," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20c.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

West gave considerable thought to his opening lead. From the bidding, it appeared that South was well fortified in hearts, and that West's best hope therefore was to locate his partner's suit. West chose to select clubs for his attack and he opened the deuce of that suit. But for East's lack of coopera-

Growing Taste For Potatoes

MONTREAL (AP) — Anti-inflationary measures have not dampened the potato chip industry. The Canadian consumption of chips now stands at 4.07 pounds per person, says the Canadian Potato Chip Association, and it is growing. Last year a total of 393.3 million pounds of potatoes, an increase of 34 million pounds over 1968, were fried into crinkly chips.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (UPI) — The use of mobile communications for two-way contact has increased 200 per cent during the past 10 years, according to a survey by the Conrac Corp., a microphone manufacturer. The survey showed more than 4 million microphones being used in vehicles, especially those operated by police and fire departments, ambulance services and taxicab companies.

Moose Lodge Wraps Up Three-Day Celebration

WITH BIRTHDAY CAKE — J.D. Smith, the man who "planted the seed" 20 years ago for a Greenville Moose Lodge, is flanked by Governor Ralph

Greenville Moose wrapped up a three-day celebration of their 20th anniversary last night with a dinner for the membership. The observance began Saturday with a dinner dance for candidates to be enrolled, their sponsors, charter members, past governors, past senior regents of the Women of the Moose, and a number of officers from the State Moose Ass'n. J. B. Smith, who came to Greenville to "plant the seed" for a Moose lodge in the city, was on hand to express pride in the fruits of his work 20 years ago. The organizing of the lodge and its early struggles were described by charter member Leon Smith, who told of contributions by individual members who shaped the future. A class of 46 new members was enrolled at a Sunday morning candlelight breakfast ceremonial. Candidates enrolled into the

By JOHN RODERICK Associated Press Writer
TOKYO (AP) — A Filipino congressman proposed the other day that Communist China be admitted into the United Nations if it would agree to settle the Indochina war. The idea had no chance of acceptance but it reflected a widespread belief among many Asians that Peking, and not Hanoi, is responsible for keeping the Vietnam conflict boiling. Though it has engaged in no major Asian war since its massive incursion into Korea in 1950, the People's Republic seems to prefer to be hated rather than loved by its Pacific neighbors. Hardly a day passes without a bitter public attack on the government leaders of Japan, South Korea, the Philippines, Malaysia, Singapore, Burma, Thailand, Indonesia, Cambodia, Laos or South Vietnam. The only non-Communist nations of which it approves in the area are Pakistan and Ceylon. Thus it is little wonder that the United States and Nationalist China get a hearing when they accused the Red Chinese of failing to qualify as a peace-loving nation under the U.N. charter. Yet even in these neighbor countries there have been some stirrings of change in the long-held attitude toward Peking. Singapore's prime minister, Lee Kuan Yew, says that in spite of its insulting language he believes Red China has a right to representation in the United Nations. Malaysia, now that Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman no longer calls the turn, leans toward Red Chinese acceptance. Even in Japan, which for years has joined the fight to block Peking, a call for a more realistic policy in keeping with the international trend has been heard within the ranks of Prime Minister Eisaku Sato's party. For many Asian nations, as for others, the question now is not so much shutting Red China out as keeping Chiang Kai-shek's Republic of China on Formosa in.

The question of Chinese mainland sovereignty has been dodged by the non-Communist powers for nearly 20 years. It is apparent that the Communist government is in effective control of China's 740 million people while Chiang rules only the 14 million of the nation's 30th province—Formosa. Not even Chiang disputes this but he insists that Peking rules by force rather than consent. And he claims to be the legitimate government of all Chinese. After voting in 1950 that Nationalist China was the lawful occupant of the United Nations seat, the non-Communist powers had to face a graver and more important question two years later. This was: with whom would the defeated Japanese sign a peace treaty, Peking or Taipei? Unable to resolve this, the San Francisco delegates invited neither government to the peace conference, left it up to Japan to sign a separate treaty with the government of its choice. Unwilling to antagonize its conqueror and new ally, the United States, the conservative Japanese government did as expected and signed with Chiang. In doing so Japan gave up all claims to sovereignty over Formosa, which it had occupied for half a century prior to the 1945 defeat. But because it did not cede the island officially either to Peking or Taipei, some nations argue that Formosa's own status also is in doubt. The question of "two Chinas" remained unresolved by the United Nations vote last Friday. Though there is a tendency within the U.N. to accommodate both Chinas in its membership, neither is willing to accept this solution. In fact, on the eve of the voting, Peking once more made it plain that it would not sit in the same chamber with what it calls "the moribund political corpse" of Taiwan.

Six-Year-Old Mistaken For A Deer; Parents Hope And Pray

By LYNNE OLSON Associated Press Writer
SALMON, Idaho (AP) — Six-year-old Karyn Prestwich entered first grade this year, and school immediately assumed prime importance for her. She hurried home every afternoon to spell new words for her mother, Mrs. Donald Prestwich, and to read her first-grade primer. And the slender, blue-eyed blonde couldn't wait to go to school next morning. On Nov. 5, Karyn, clad in a red jumper and brown coat, was waiting as usual for her school bus at the side of a highway near her home in North Fork, a rural town in east-central Idaho. One hour later, she was battling for her life in a hospital in nearby Salmon, with a bullet wound in her abdomen. Lemhi County Sheriff Bill Baker said the child was shot when she was mistaken for a deer. She was rushed to the hospital by Roy Wells, 52, Tarrance, Calif., who was later charged with assault with a deadly weapon. "The man didn't mean to shoot me," Karyn told the doctor who first treated her. "He thought I was a deer." She was later transferred to the University of Utah Medical Center in Salt Lake City, where she remains in critical condition. Her kidneys were seriously damaged and a kidney machine is keeping her alive. "She's really fighting to make it," says Mrs. Andy Hagel, Karyn's grandmother. "The doctors think she may have come around the corner." Wells visited Karyn several times a day while she was in the hospital at Salmon, and he calls her parents often in Salt Lake City. The residents of several small towns surrounding North Fork have mounted fund-raising campaigns to help defray skyrocketing hospital expenses for the girl, whose father is a U.S. Forest Service employe. So far, $1,500 has been deposited in the Karyn Prestwich fund at a local bank. An anonymous donor has sent an additional $2,000 to the Prestwich family, which also includes 3-year-old Kerry and one-year-old Jenny. Salmon radio station KSRA broadcasts hourly appeals for money for Karyn. Karyn's parents maintain a constant vigil by their daughter's bedside. They hope and pray.

Greenville Art Center. Cook and Speight were fellow-students at Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts in Philadelphia; and both are married to artists. Dr. Speight gave a guided tour of his paintings, pointing out humorous incidents relating to the individual paintings.

Quiet Ky Visit To White House

By JIM LUTHER Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — South Vietnamese Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky's quiet arrival for today's White House meeting with President Nixon came in sharp contrast to the shouted protests that resulted in the cancellation of an earlier trip to Washington. Following the White House breakfast session, Ky's schedule had him seeing Henry Kissinger, top White House adviser on national security matters, followed by a rare session with newsmen. Although several antiwar groups announced plans to demonstrate against Ky's appearance at the National Press Club, advance criticism fell far short of the uproar of the aborted earlier visit.

Ky, his wife and small official party arrived at nearby Andrews Air Force Base, Md., Monday after a weekend in Williamsburg, Va. Because the Washington visit is a private one, no U.S. officials were on hand to greet the Ky party. Madame Ky was presented roses by Madame Bui Diem, wife of the Vietnamese ambassador. Ky arrived in the capital about the time Defense Department officials were disclosing U.S. forces had raided an abandoned prisoner-of-war camp near Hanoi in North Vietnam. An aide to Ky said the vice president was taken by surprise by the disclosure. Ky had accepted an invitation from the Rev. Carl McIntire to attend a "march for victory" rally here last Oct. 3. However, he canceled the visit after several congressmen and antiwar leaders protested. McIntire, a New Jersey evangelist, accused the Nixon administration of "high-level international blackmail" in pressuring Ky to cancel out. Ky has spent much of the past week touring U.S. military bases. He will be the guest of Secretary of State William P. Rogers at a State Department luncheon Wednesday, will spend Thanksgiving Day at the Vietnam Embassy and will entertain a group of American generals Friday. Ky will depart for the West coast en route to Saigon Dec. 1, the day after a formal State Department dinner arranged by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew in Ky's honor.

Two Wrecks Yesterday

Two wrecks, both resulting in property damage but no injuries to occupants, were investigated here Monday by police. A 7:53 a.m. mishap on Dickinson Avenue near its intersection with Columbia Avenue resulted in an estimated $550 damage to the two vehicles involved. According to police reports, the wreck involved cars driven by Jasper Lee Davenport of Rt. 1, Greenville and Wayne Ray Winslow of 309 Arlington Drive. Police estimated damages to the Davenport car at $350 and $200 to the car driven by Winslow. Davenport was charged with failing to see a safe movement could be made to avoid an accident. An accident that occurred at 2:34 p.m. yesterday at the intersection of W. Fifth St. and Bancroft Avenue resulted in an estimated $150 in damages. Investigating officers reported $100 damage to a car driven by James Parker of 408 Moore Street and $50 in damages to a vehicle driven by Noah C. Rice of 1100 Charles Street. Parker, according to accident files, was charged by officers with failing to yield right of way following the early afternoon mishap.

Brandt Visiting Italy's Premier

ROME (AP) — Chancellor Willy Brandt of West Germany has arrived for three days of talks with Premier Emilio Colombo. The talks are expected to center on diplomatic contacts by their two nations with the Communist regimes of Eastern Europe. Brandt, who flew into Rome Monday, has been scheduled to make the visit in July, but postponed it because of an Italian political crisis.

Penn Central 'The Music Factory' Needs Cash Plans Open Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Penn Central Railroad has told the Senate Commerce Committee it needs $175 million to $250 million by next March or it will be out of money. Willard Wirtz, speaking on behalf of the line's four trustees, said Monday "there is a reasonable prospect" of achieving profitable operation within three to five years. But to reach that goal, $175 million to $250 million is needed in the next four months and the figure may need to be doubled over 36 months. "The alternative," he said, "is some form of nationalization of the railroad—which we reject as a counsel of needless despair." In addition to the money, there must be self-help measures, "a labor force willing to accept changes," a growth in the economy and reform in government transportation policy, the trustees stated. The Penn Central Transportation Co. has been operating under bankruptcy reorganization proceedings since June 21. The four court-appointed trustees now feel the company "should be taken out ... of every business not significantly connected with running the railroad, except where there are clear cash earnings advantages." A sale of most nonrailroad holdings was announced by the trustees.

Agnew Concludes Hawaii Vacation

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has arrived in Los Angeles from Hawaii to confer today with the editorial board of the Los Angeles Times and spend Thanksgiving in Palm Springs. Agnew and his family flew into Los Angeles International Airport Monday night aboard Air Force 2. The vice president wound up a five-day vacation in Honolulu where he addressed the closing session of the Associated Press Managing Editors convention Friday. It was his only public engagement while in Hawaii. Agnew and his family plan to spend five days in Palm Springs.

Postal Holiday

The Greenville Post Office and East Carolina University Station will be closed on Thanksgiving Day. Officer-in-Charge H. Lloyd Mills reminds, however, that though there will be no window service or rural and city deliveries, that lock box service will be provided, and special delivery mail will be delivered within the city. A city-wide collection will be made from all street/letter boxes beginning at 5:00 p.m. All outgoing mail will receive the usual dispatch.

Allowance For POW Families

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill which provides payment of $30 a month for families of U.S. servicemen missing or held as prisoners in Vietnam has received final congressional action and is ready for President Nixon's signature. The Senate approved the allowance Monday along with two other bills intended to reduce the financial burden resulting from the separation of a serviceman and his family. The bills restore quarters allowances to families living with relatives and families occupying government housing. The United States is the world's leading coal producer.

Despite Mixed Election Results, Chotiner Stays

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite the mixed results of the 1970 elections, the man who called many of the political signals for the White House says there's been no suggestion of any changes in his team.
Murray Chotiner, the durable presidential sidekick who shares leadership of the political tactics squad, said in an interview no one has uttered a word to him that would indicate any alteration of his setup.

Another well-informed Nixon aide agreed, saying he hasn't picked up so much as a hint that the Chotiner operation might be changed.
This is perhaps the more remarkable in view of burgeoning rumors, many circulated with semi-official encouragement, that a major reshuffling of the Cabinet and the White House staff is in the immediate offing.

If a change does develop, some suspect Chotiner might move to the GOP National Committee staff to help plan for Nixon's expected 1972 re-election bid with committee chairman Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton moving to another post - perhaps secretary of interior.

Like Nixon, Chotiner publicly views the outcome of the Nov. 3 balloting in a cheerful light, citing GOP Senate gains in Connecticut, Maryland, Ohio and Tennessee.

Losses in Illinois and California are minimized as having been anticipated by the Republican high command.
Democrats, of course, point to their continuing control of the Senate, a gain of nine House seats and a major pickup in governorships as a victory demonstrating Nixon can be beaten two years hence.

Chotiner is particularly disturbed by talk that the 1970 outcome cast doubt on Nixon's political sagacity.
The President, he said, has a remarkable feel for political realities. Just the day before the election, said Chotiner, Nixon predicted Republicans would gain two, perhaps three, Senate seats and lose 10 seats in the House.

Until Chotiner became a special counsel to Nixon last January 13, the unchallenged boss of White House political operations was 40-year-old Harry S. Dent, former aide to South Carolina Sen. Strom Thurmond.
Dent is said to have been "sort of shook" by Chotiner's arrival. The 60-year-old Chotiner, sometimes looked upon as a political Rasputin, clearly enjoyed longer and stronger personal ties with the President, having been closely associated with Nixon campaigns since 1946.
Chotiner insists he and Dent never have been rivals.
"I don't think ideologically we have differed on any major point of discussion," he said.

They have not always agreed, however, on strategy and tactics.
But the work done for the off-year elections did nothing to dispel the notion that old pro Chotiner had supplanted Dent as political operative No. 1.
Chotiner acted during the campaign as political liaison man with GOP candidates and leaders in 31 states. Dent claimed the other 19—the Southern and border states, plus Colorado, Nevada, South Dakota, and New Jersey.
Making light of the numerical disparity Chotiner says Dent had the additional and demanding tasks of working with the national committee and the Senate and House Republican Campaign committees.
Besides, as if to point out his officially unobtrusive position, Chotiner has a rather small, windowless office carved out of a reception hall in the East wing of the White House. Dent's neighboring office has windows and handsome wood paneling, symbols of bureaucratic status in Washington.
Exactly what does a political technician do around the White House?
"Chores," says Chotiner. Could he give some examples?

Named To Offices Of Croatan Lodge

Two Greenville boy scouts were elected to offices at the annual Fall Fellowship of the Croatan Lodge of the Order of the Arrow held Nov. 20-22 at Camp Bonner on Blounts Creek.
Steve Worsley was elected lodge chief for the 1971 year and will represent the lodge at the Area-Six-A Congress to be held in Raleigh Dec. 19. He will be installed as chief at the annual lodge banquet in Kinston on Jan. 2.

Roger Billica was elected Area-Six-A chief for 1972 and will serve as vice chief for 1971. His installation will take place in April of next year at the area conference in Mount Airy.

The Order of the Arrow is a brotherhood of honor scout campers. It is a service organization whose major project is camping promotion. The Croatan Lodge covers the same 22 counties as does the East Carolina Council of Boy Scouts.

Both local scouts hold the Eagle rank and have served as officers of their respective local boy scout troops. Billica is a member of Troop 205 and Worsley is associated with Troop 340.

During the closing meeting of the Fellowship on Sunday, the Vigil Honor, the highest award given at the lodge level, was presented to four scouts and four adult scouters.

Among the honorees were: Steve Worsley, Greenville; Ray Higdon, Kinston, Dennis Abell, Morehead; Arthur King, Wilson; Jan Smith and Jack Hodge, Tarboro; and Ron Barbour, Newport.

Art Building Architect Named

RALEIGH (AP) — A New York architect, Edward Durrell Stone, in association with a Raleigh firm, will serve as architect for the projected North Carolina Museum of Art building.

Thomas White of Kinston, chairman of the N.C. Art Museum Building Commission, said Sunday night the commission unanimously accepted the report of a subcommittee which recommended the appointment of Stone and his Raleigh associates, Holloway-Reeves.

It has not been decided where the building will be located. The 1969 General Assembly appropriated $3 million to be used toward construction of a new museum.

Monthly Meet For Pitt Underwriters

The Pitt County Association of Life Underwriters held their monthly meeting Friday at the Greenville Golf and Country Club with 21 members and four guests present.

Douglas Wilson, who is with the Trust Department of Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. here, spoke to underwriters at the 12:15 luncheon meeting, presided over by association president Bill Smith.

Smith announced that enrollment figures of the Life Underwriter Training Council's 1970-71 school year are expected to go over 20,000 with classes being conducted in all states and Puerto Rico.

Classes are organized by local chapters of the national association and are moderated by field men nominated by their association leaders and approved by LUTC headquarters, he told the group.

Smith, who is local LUTC chairman for the Pitt County association, said that two life classes are in operation at Pitt Technical Institute. Instructors for the course are Leon Smith and Bob Lawhead.

Ken Barns, chairman of the project committee, appointed Lawhead chairman of the defensive driving project and Stuart Buchanan head of medic alert.

Smith reported that the goal for the 1971 membership drive in the local association has been set at 100 members.

Senior Girl Scouts And Leaders Meet

Greenville Senior Girl Scouts and leaders were among participants in the Annual Meeting of the Girl Scout Council of Coastal North Carolina held late last week at Seymour Johnson Air Force Base in Goldsboro.

Miss Ann Fleming of Greenville was one of three girls making a report on the recent conference of 1,000 Adults Who Care, which was held in Atlanta by Region III of the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A.

Selectees who had attended special events by councils throughout the country used slides, pictures, displays and reports in telling about these councils. Among those reporting were Miss Fleming, who reported on Sacajawea Pow Wow in Iowa; Miss Mickey Jones, reporting on the Mountain Magic Council in Tennessee; and Miss Sally Boyette, reporting for Discovery Council in Pennsylvania.

Mrs. J. F. Davenport, Jr. of Greenville was one of several who received a statuette in recognition of membership and service to Girl Scouting in the Coastal Carolina Council.

In the election of officers for the council, Mrs. W. M. Reading was elected as one of the members at large for the Board of Directors.

Mrs. James J. Smith of Greenville gave a report as camp chairman on the reports on council plans and activities.

Throw Rocks In Protest

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Rock-throwing demonstrators broke 49 windows at Stanford University Monday night in a protest of the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam last weekend.

No arrests or injuries were reported.

About 200 persons on the 11,000-student campus attended a peaceful, one-hour rally at which speakers denounced the Indochina war in general and the bombing in particular.

As it was ending about 9 p.m., someone shouted "Off pig!" and "Trash Aero-Astro!"

A crowd, which witnesses said included former students and junior high school pupils as well as university students, then marched to the Aero-Astro Sciences building.

Witnesses said 49 windows were broken in the building and five others.

The demonstrators then dispersed. Witnesses said about 100 were in the rock-throwing crowd with some 30 following.

Campus police arrived after the damage was done, according to witnesses.

Student Shot In Gastonia School

GASTONIA (AP) — A 10th grade pupil at Hunter Huss High School, 17-year-old Jerry Patterson, was shot in the leg Monday while he was changing classes.

The principal, Bartley E. Robbins, said other pupils told him a girl had tried to talk to Patterson and then shot him. He said she was 15-years old and had attended the school last year, but had dropped out.

She was turned over to juvenile authorities.
