

Pentagon Adds Tantalizing Shreds To Story Of Son Tay Raid

Editors' Note

The following look into the dramatic U.S. attempt to rescue American prisoners of war, based on public announcements and private interviews, was written by John Lengel who spent 2 1/2 years as an Associated Press war correspondent in South Vietnam.

By JOHN LENGEL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon Tuesday added only tantalizing shreds of detail to the prison raid at Son Tay, opening fertile areas for speculation, but leaving the chief questions unanswered.

For instance, leaders of the commando force, an Air Force brigadier and an Army colonel, were both stationed at Eglin Air Force Base in Florida.

Was, then, the force raised and rehearsed in the states, or, say, in the Canal Zone, and taken as a unit to a staging area at the last moment for security purposes?

"It was a rather elaborate operation," said Pentagon spokesman Jerry Friedheim. "There was meticulous training and the training occurred at several places."

Why isn't further detail provided? The idea of assaulting a prison camp was disclosed by Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird. While surprise is important isn't there room for detail on such things as the size of the camp and eyewitness accounts from some of the men who took part in a raid that is now history? "There are some pretty severe security problems involving the men who went in and the prisoners," Laird answered. "It would compromise intelligence sources and the safety of those involved."

This much of the picture has been supplied by official accounts and questioning in the last two days:

Army and Air Force volunteers—one report suggests a force of 40—sped in helicopters across the North Vietnamese delta to the compound at the Red River bank town of Son Tay, 20 miles west of Hanoi.

The raid was a complete surprise. It was 2 a.m., with only a quarter moon. A chopper was purposely crashlanded in the compound to make sure the force got inside.

At least 30 missiles were fired at the helicopters. There was some ground fire, too. Somehow a guard tower was destroyed. The volunteers fired their weapons when they had to, perhaps killing some of the compound defenders. One volunteer was nicked by an enemy rifle round.

The force was inside for less than an hour, ripping open cells with chain saws, cutting torches and lock snips, finding crude conditions but no Americans.

Probably the force met at a point outside the compound for helicopter pickup. Since a "large percentage" of the 459 official prisoners of Hanoi were hoped to be rescued a much larger attack force probably was ready. Delicate coordination would have been needed so as to not bunch up helicopters in the danger zone. Evidently it can be supposed the helicopters kept close to the ground to avoid radar detection as long as possible and make anti-aircraft fire less effective.

It is more likely the choppers came from over the mountains, perhaps from bases in Thailand. This would provide more radar security. Navy carriers would provide more initial security but the choppers would be more detectable once they were airborne.

The helicopters, maybe big Air Force Jolly Green Giant rescue choppers, armored and with a long range, could have reached speeds of 100 miles an hour.

These suppositions are supported by the fact an Air Force officer, Brig. Gen. LeRoy J. Manor, was in over-all command.

The makeup of the force, it is likely, was heavily Green Beret. The ground leader, Army Col. Arthur Simons, 52, known as "The Bull," has a dossier full of elite assignments starting with the rangers in World War II and including the Special Forces' SOG—Studies and Observation Group—in Vietnam.

"SOG" was reputed in Vietnam to make regular forays into Laos, Cambodia and North Vietnam sometimes with all American forces, sometimes with Vietnamese Nung and Cambodian mercenaries.

None of this was ever discussed publicly by the military. Sources insist Green Beret attempts have been made before to free U.S. prisoners in North Vietnam. Laird denies it. None of these efforts was ever said, even in rumor, to have been successful.

Pentagon spokesmen have left the door open for more Son Tay's. They seem to want to reserve every option.

They will not even address these questions:

In what way were conditions "crude"? Why were locks on cells jimmied if the cells were empty? Why were empty prison cells locked in the first place? Why was an empty prison camp guarded? Could it be that the prisoners had been moved only several hundred yards away?

Laird Poises Countermeasures

Warns Hanoi—No Reprisal

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird says he will recommend "strong countermeasures" for any

North Vietnamese retaliation against captured U.S. troops following the unsuccessful U.S. commando rescue attempt.

"We are considering other actions" to free the POWs, Laird told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in the first of several administration appearances on Capitol Hill Tuesday and today.

Laird's testimony before the Senate panel, headed by anti-war critic J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., was followed by his scheduled appearance today at the House Foreign Affairs Committee, which also had Secretary of State William P. Rogers set as a witness.

Laird told the Senate committee Tuesday that neither the rescue mission nor last week-end's bombing raids into North Vietnam represent any change in U.S. policy.

Laird said the Nixon administration will retaliate immediately if the North Vietnamese shoot down other unarmed U.S. reconnaissance planes, use the demilitarized zone for infiltration, or shell South Vietnamese cities in violation of what he said was an understanding that accompanied the U.S. decision two years ago to halt bombing of North Vietnam. The North Vietnamese deny this was the understanding.

"I would recommend calling off the cessation of bombing should there be major violations of these understandings," he added.

Greenville 'Virtually Assured' Of Regional Rehabilitation Facility

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Dr. Sheldon Downes, chairman of the subcommittee for the East of the State Advisory Committee on Rehabilitation Facilities, said Greenville is virtually assured of getting a regional rehabilitation center. He and Jack Richardson, assistant administrator of Pitt Memorial Hospital, last week attended a public hearing in Raleigh on preliminary plans for the centers.

Wilson and Southern Pines both put in bids at this meeting for the regional centers for the East and Southeast respectively. However, Greenville and Fayetteville are the North Carolina Division of Vocational Rehabilitation's preliminary choices.

Richardson spoke on the county's plans for a new hospital facility to be begun in the near future and of the medical community. Greenville's quality and variety of physicians' specialties are the finest east of Raleigh, he said.

Dr. Downes, who is coordinator of rehabilitation counseling at East Carolina University, remarked on Greenville's "affiliations."

"Greenville," he said, "is the only town in the East that has all of these facilities to complement a rehabilitation service — a general hospital, a University with rehabilitation education as part of its curricula, a technical institute, and other agencies which offer rehabilitation services including the East Carolina Sheltered Workshop, now expanding its facilities; the Jones Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center; the ECU Development Evaluation Clinic; the Coastal Plains Mental Health Center; and plans for a Correctional Rehabilitation, to be moved from Maury in Greene County to Greenville."

Greenville is named on the Advisory Committee's preliminary report on a statewide system of rehabilitation facilities, Downes said. Other cities named in the report to provide services for the state's estimated 300,000 physically handicapped persons are Asheville, Winston Salem, Charlotte, Chapel Hill, and Fayetteville.

Downes, who has led the fight for having the Eastern center located at Greenville, said a plan for the proposed center here has been worked up and will be sent out to physicians, state and national senators and representatives, hospital trustees, and county commissioners within the next two weeks.

The Vocational Rehabilitation Division's choices will be presented to the State Board of Education and the State Advisory Budget Committee before they go to the General Assembly early next year. The 1969 General Assembly authorized a study calling for such a statewide system of rehabilitation facilities.

Aeroflot 'Bombed'

NEW YORK (AP) — An explosion rocked a midtown Manhattan office building housing the offices of Aeroflot, the Soviet airline, and Intourist, the Soviet tourist agency, about 3:20 a.m. today, police said.

Police roped off the area in front of the three-story building on East 49th Street, just off Fifth Avenue, and said they believed another live explosive device might still be in or near the building.

There were no immediate reports of injuries. Police said the building was unoccupied at the time of the blast.

An anonymous male caller telephoned The Associated Press some 35 minutes after the blast and said the offices had been blown up.

He also said: "Let the world know that while Jews are on trial in Russia the Soviet Union will be on trial. Never again."

Revise Food Stamp Abuse Regulations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has sent to the states new food stamp instructions aimed at clearing up problems of abuse in administering the aid to poor families.

The instructions follow up a charge made in September by Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin that there was "widespread evidence" of careless and sometimes fraudulent administration of the program.

Among problem areas cited by food stamp officials at that time were Chicago, Philadelphia, San Antonio, Tex., and Washington D.C. Abuses ranged from food stamp thefts to certification of ineligible recipients,

Guinea Calling For Aid

DAKAR, Senegal (AP) — Guinea announced today that it was invaded again Tuesday night. President Sekour Toure called on "friendly countries" to send all the help they can as quickly as possible.

Radio Conakry, the West African nation's official radio station, referred to new "enemy incursions."

"Thanks to the vigilance of the people," the station said, "the attempts and evil intentions of the Portuguese imperialistic enemy were thrown back by Guinean patriots, the army and the glorious people of Guinea."

Toure has said the invading troops, which first landed on Guinea's shores early Sunday, are mercenaries hired by Portugal and attacking from Portuguese ships. Portugal has denied any involvement.

In Addis Ababa, the capital of Ethiopia, the secretary-general of the Organization of African Unity said today that Sudan, Egypt, Nigeria, Libya and Algeria have troops alerted to go to Guinea if needed.

No Opposition To Rezoning Of Three Tracts

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Rezoning of three tracts of land to a new zoning of shopping center (C.S.) was approved at a special call meeting of the City Council last night.

Without opposition expressed by any individual or group, the council only needed time to review the proposed rezonings, to take note of several expressions of approval, and to hear the official ordinance read before taking a vote which was unanimous for approval.

With this action, the way is paved for the developers, Drucker and Fork of Newport News, Virginia, to proceed with plans for a covered shopping center mall on a tract of land totaling approximately 47 acres bounded by U.S. 264 and U.S. 264 by-pass.

David Evans, Sr., represented by attorney Kenneth Hite, was the requestor for the action, which had previously been recommended for approval in action by the Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission and, for the tract outside the present city limits, by the Joint County - City Planning and Zoning Commission.

The two tracts within the city limits were previously zoned as R-9 residential for one tract; and highway commercial for the second. The out-of-city tract was previously RA-20. One small corner adjacent to where the two highways join, a lot 200 by 235 feet, is outside the shopping center development area and remains highway commercial. Brief mention was made of a large parcel of land, fronting Highway 264 (Washington highway) and adjoining the tract rezoned at last night's meeting. It was noted that action on rezoning this property, belonging to Bancroft Moseley, would come up at a future meeting.

Hite observed that last night's rezoning "characterizes a happy solution for the city, the developers, and the citizens." An earlier effort by the developers to have an area similar in size, adjacent to the Eastern Elementary School, and lying on the western side of U.S. 264 by-pass zoned for a shopping center had met stiff resistance from concerned citizens who recommended planners think of another location.

Following approval of the one item on the agenda last night, Dr. Frank Fuller introduced thoughts on planning for parking lots of this and other future developments.

"I hope we'll take into consideration the ugliness of parking lots in developments. Some of the new ones are not in conformity with the stand we took some time back," Dr. Fuller commented. He made reference to prior expressions in which the idea of making the whole of Greenville a kind of park was endorsed by officials.

City Manager Harry Hagerty asked "Is it desirable we design more restrictive specifications into parking lots? We could do this by designing into parking areas islands of greenery with trees and shrubs." (Continued on page 6)

Cost Of Living Up, But Wholesale Prices Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government said in a preliminary report today that wholesale prices dropped this month, a cheering economic note after Tuesday's report of October's biggest jump in living costs in six months.

The Labor Department said wholesale costs of food and a broad range of industrial raw materials declined two-tenths of one per cent in November, only the second monthly decline in more than a year.

The report, subject to change when more details are available, said the decline brought the Wholesale Price Index down to 117.6. This means wholesale buyers paid $117.60 on the average this month for goods worth $100 in the 1957-59 period on which the index is based.

It raised hopes that living costs will later ease off from their sharpest continuing rise in more than 20 years. Tuesday's report had said living costs rose six-tenths of one per cent in October and were back up around the 6-per cent annual rate of climb that has prevailed for nearly two years.

The wholesale report said prices of farm products dropped nine-tenths of one per cent, indicating the possibility of lower grocery prices which had also shown a decline in October.

The report said prices of industrial commodities showed no change this month, the first time there was no increase in 17 months. Industrial prices had jumped sharply last month, eight-tenths of one per cent, largely because of higher prices of new cars and fuels.

The wholesale index stood at 2.5 per cent above a year ago, the smallest year-to-year rise in 15 months, said the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

No-War Constitution Protested By Harakiri

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP) — Yukio Mishima, the flamboyant Japanese novelist who ran an 80-man private army, committed suicide in the ancient samurai tradition today to protest his country's no-war constitution.

After making an impassioned militaristic speech to 2,000 soldiers in a Japanese army camp, he plunged a samurai sword into his abdomen, then one of his young followers cut off his head.

Mishima climbed onto a roof at the Ichigaya military camp in downtown Tokyo and scattered handbills charging corruption and ineffectiveness in his nation's military forces.

"Long live the emperor!" he cried to officers and men in a cluster below. Then he declared: "We will take our life to protest Japan's constitution, which prohibits Japan's rearmament."

After delivering his speech, the 45-year-old author barricaded himself and four followers in the office of Kentoshi Masuda, commanding general of the eastern division of Japan's army.

As the stunned general looked on, Mishima seated himself and began the ancient Japanese harakiri rite.

He drew a long samurai sword, bared his abdomen and drew the sword across it, drawing blood. Then, as the blood flowed, he bowed his head and let Masukazu Morita, his 25-year-old protegee, plunge a shorter sword into his neck. Another aide cut off the writer's head with a third sword.

Morita then plunged a sword into his own abdomen and let one of his comrades decapitate him.

Mishima died in the uniform of his private right-wing army, the Tate no Kai, or Shield. He formed the organization two years ago, and Morita had been with him from the start.

The author and his four companions appeared to have planned their act long in advance. They posed in uniform a month ago for a formal photograph, a Japanese military custom often carried out before an undertaking that could end in death.

Mrs. Rawl Honored By Sunday School Class

Mrs. E. E. Rawl was honored by the Josephine Rawl Sunday School Class of Oakmont Baptist Church on Monday night.

Following a brief devotional and business period, members from other adult classes of the church joined the group in paying tribute to Mrs. Rawl.

As senior active member of Oakmont since it was chartered in 1964, Mrs. Rawl was cited for her faithful and devoted service in organizational, practical and spiritual capacities.

With the presentation of an empty frame, it was announced that arrangements are being completed for her picture to be taken and hung on the walls of the Ladies' Parlor of the church as a permanent reminder of her dedicated service through the years.

Mrs. Howard Dawkins and Mrs. Tom Haigwood were hostess chairmen for the social hour which followed.

A color scheme of yellow, green and white was used for the refreshment table, which was centered with an arrangement of yellow and white mums and two five branch candelabra with lighted tapers.

Mrs. Dee Wood Vinson, president of the Josephine Rawl Sunday School Class, presided. Mrs. Robert L. Holt, teacher, made the remarks and presentation. The Rev. Tommy Payne, minister of Oakmont, took pictures of the occasion.

On Tropical Island Of Palau It's Lasses Who Make Passes

By RUTH YOUNGBLOOD HONOLULU (UPI)—There's no question about who's the boss in Palau.

The sexual freedom and aggressiveness that women have in the tropical island group of Micronesia would warm the heart of the most rabid women's liberationist.

But for all their superiority in matters of the heart, says a Honolulu psychiatrist, neither the women nor the men are happy.

Dr. George F. Schnack, who was in Palau as part of a medical teaching team, said Palauan women gained the upper hand long before Women's Lib emerged in the United States or Betty Friedan wrote "The Feminine Mystique."

"The women aggressively chase the men," he told UPI. "The guys hang back and let the girls make the advances."

Shy Female is Rare

The rare female who is shy and withdrawn is the object of talk and gossip by other women, Schnack said. "They consider her odd."

Aggressiveness starts when the girls are very young, he added. "By the time a girl is eight or ten, you can see that kind of spark in her eyes."

Henry Reddick Gives Program

Henry Reddick, associate agricultural agent for Pitt County, was guest speaker at the meeting of the Home Pride Garden Club held Thursday.

The program was entitled "Insects and Disease for Plants and Trees and How to Recognize." He showed slides of insects and diseases of shrubs. One important factor for healthy shrubs and trees is early detection, he said.

Mrs. Frank Thompson, president, presided during the business session. Mrs. Lymah Daughtrey, project chairman, was asked to purchase bulbs to be planted around the Sunshine Center. The bulbs will be planters by the girls.

Guests for the meeting were Mrs. Henry Reddick and Mrs. Robert Bullock.

Mrs. Frank Thompson was hostess for the meeting assisted by Mrs. Jack Weeden.

If anyone feels guilty about the sexual freedom in Palau, it's the male. "He's much more likely to harbor feelings of immorality about promiscuity than the female," Schnack said.

But the woman's sexual domination plus practically complete sexual freedom have not been a panacea, even in this beautiful, remote and unspoiled cluster of Pacific islands, part of the Carolinas, about 500 miles north of New Guinea.

Underlying Depression "There's an underlying depression," Schnack said, "and the people do not seem to be emotionally mature when they grow up."

He believes the men are actually afraid of the women, and that the women "would like to be close to the men but don't know how."

Schnack said the aggressiveness of the women has been going on for decades and "trying to speculate why is in the realm of fantasy."

"But it may have resulted from the way in which warfare among the tribes provided a role for the men," he said.

Couple Weds In Double Ring Ceremony Sunday

FOUNTAIN — In a double ring ceremony Sunday at 3:00 p.m., Miss Linda Faye Morgan became the bride of Steve Stanley Pipkin in the Aspen Grove Free Will Baptist Church.

The Rev. C. H. Overman officiated at the ceremony. A program of wedding music was presented by Janet Smith, organist, and Barry Page, soloist.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morgan of Fountain and Mr. and Mrs.

Robert Pipkin of Wilson. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of peau de soie and alencon lace. The empire bodice, long fitted sleeves and sweetheart neckline were appliqued with lace and re-embroidered with seed pearls. The A-line skirt and full chapel length train were appliqued with matching lace and pearls.

Her tiered veil was attached to a headpiece of pearl scallops and fabric rosebuds. She carried a white lace covered prayer book centered with a white orchid and tied with ribbon streamers.

Mrs. Dickie Hull of Snow Hill, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Ernestine Morgan of Fountain, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Dalton Webb of Chester, Va., sister of the bridegroom.

The honor attendant wore a full length gown of spark gold chiffon over taffeta. The empire bodice featured a sweetheart neckline with full sheer sleeves with fitted band. Matching velvet ribbon circled the waist ending with a flat bow and streamers in the back. Her headpiece was velvet loops and chiffon rosebuds with a short veil.

Junior bridesmaids were Tammy Pipkin of Wilson, sister of the bridegroom, and Ginger Webb of Chester, Va., niece of the bridegroom. Bridesmaids and junior bridesmaids wore moss green gowns fashioned like the honor attendant's and matching headpieces.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were Donnie Sherrod of Elm City and Donnie Evans of Bailey. Junior ushers were Mitchell Webb of Chester, Va., nephew of the bridegroom, and Vincent Morgan of Pinetops, cousin of the bride.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside in Fountain.

The bride is a graduate of South Edgecombe High School and is employed at the North State Garment Co., Farmville, as payroll clerk. The bridegroom is a graduate of Saratoga High School and Wilson Technical Institute. He is employed at L. J. Herring Implement Co., Wilson.

Most Hazardous Weeks Ahead

It should not be overlooked that North Carolina came to the end of the pre-Thanksgiving week-end counting an even 1,500 people dead on its highways since the first of the year.

No one shouted. No official made special mention of the 1,500 traffic deaths this year on the roads of the state.

It was all taken as a matter of course. The 1,500 lives had been snuffed out and there were more to be snuffed out before 1970 comes to an end.

If there is a bright spot for the state in reaching this tragic milestone, it lies in the fact that the highway death toll through the past week-end was down 100 from the same period last year. But that is little consolation indeed for those whose lives have been touched these past 11 months by highway deaths and injuries.

These remaining weeks of 1970 will be among the most hazardous of the entire year for motorists. The Thanksgiving holiday week-end is at hand, and invariably it brings highway tragedy along with the joys of family reunions. Then will come the hectic days before Christmas, heavy traffic in the cities and shopping areas and even heavier traffic on the highways.

All the safe-driving slogans will have little effect on keeping down the traffic toll for the remaining weeks of the year unless individual drivers exercise the kind of extra care called for during these hazardous driving weeks.

Hoax Can't Add Any Pleasure To Heroes

Griffin M. Canine and Smokey M. Griffin should never have been awarded Bronze Star medals by the Army.

The two are dogs and the medals were awarded for heroism in Vietnam.

Upon discovering the hoax the Army revoked the awards and launched an investigation.

Maybe it was all a harmless joke, but it cannot make military men who have received this high award feel very good about the honor. In fact the hoax was uncovered when a recipient of the award wrote to a St. Louis newspaper.

The Army should more carefully review its awards so that such mistakes do not occur.

Little Learned From Disaster

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

NEW YORK — The eerie experience of Paul O'Dwyer following the latest catastrophe of New York Democrats in the Nov. 3 election suggests that liberal reform elements who now control the party have no understanding of their recent disaster.

The defeat was foretold by the suicidal statewide ticket of four Jews and a Negro, all from the New York City area. The insult to white non-Jewish Democrats was obvious to any practical politician — including O'Dwyer, a veteran reform Democrat and perennial office-seeker. So, when the defeat became known, O'Dwyer commented publicly that a ticket so insanely unbalanced was doomed and would have been impossible in the days when the old party bosses ruled.

Since those remarks appeared in print, O'Dwyer has been bombarded privately by recriminations from fellow reformers, upbraiding him for supporting the discredited balanced ticket and nostalgic yearnings for boss rule. Some reformers pass the word that O'Dwyer has forfeited their backing for mayor in 1973.

The fact that the reformers are more concerned about Paul O'Dwyer's apostasy than the roots of the party's humiliation casts a cloud over the Democratic future in New York. In truth, they have learned almost nothing from this latest defeat, contrasting with Democratic victories elsewhere in the country. The weeks following Nov. 3 have been punctuated with hurriedly summoned secret sessions of the reformers but no resolve against future unbalanced tickets.

The danger is that New York's once mighty Democratic party, debilitated by a generation of internal struggles, is becoming a minority party on the statewide level appealing primarily to Jews and blacks. The open primary, which in 1968 replaced the convention system, grants inordinate power to well-informed, highly motivated Jewish voters of the New York metropolitan area who participate in primary elections while other Democrats stay home.

The result: acceleration of Irish and Italian Democrats into Republican arms. "I can't say this publicly," one regular Democratic leader, himself Jewish, told us, "but we are going to experience defeat after defeat as long as the tickets are picked by the Jews of New York City."

The regulars bear much of the blame. Having assembled a long succession of lackluster, losing tickets, the regulars unwittingly brought on the primary system. Since then their enfeebled precinct organizations have not brought out enough voters to balance the city's unbossed Jewish vote.

As a substitute for organization, some politicians now pray for a strongman. They hope Mayor V. Lindsay, still a nominal Republican, will follow his staff's advice and become a Democrat early next year. Besides giving the Democrats city hall patronage, this would insert one authoritative figure in the state's Democratic anarchy.

But Lindsay's appeal is mainly to Jewish and Negro voters who are Democratic bulwarks anyway. Hard-headed analysts believe Lindsay's late endorsement of Democrat Arthur Goldberg for governor actually lost substantial votes inside New York City. Moreover, Lindsay as a Democrat would be aggressively opposed by many Democrats; associates of Rep. Richard Ottinger, opposed by Lindsay for the U.S. Senate, have made clear their iron determination to block the mayor from party leadership.

To non-ideological Democrats, what is needed is not Lindsay but a politician whose appeal transcends the Manhattan reformers. They envision statewide candidates along the lines of Rep. Otis Pike, who consistently amasses big majorities on the conservative eastern tip of Long Island while still voting a creditable liberal record in Congress (83 percent this year).

But the constituency voting in New York Democratic primaries would never elect an Otis Pike — accounting for a rising demand to revise the present primary law. Some regulars want the convention system back but would be delighted with any modification permitting some leadership control of the ticket.

Barring change by the legislature, the prospect is for state Democratic tickets that titillate liberal reformers rather than elect candidates. What makes the Democratic plight increasingly difficult is the new appeal of the state's Republican party to disaffected non-Jewish, non-Negro Democrats — a remarkable development worthy of exploration in a future column.

Strength For Today

WHITHER? There are many who hold that a person has no right to call himself a Christian unless he lives an almost perfect life. If he errs in any particular he is a hypocrite.

Such an appraisal is contrary to both common sense and to the teachings of all the great religions. There never has been but one perfect person in the world, and while we are to aim for perfection, we are not to be discouraged that we do not attain it. The important matter is not how good we are but how much we are growing in goodness. A person of very little virtue who is growing better morally and spiritually is in much sounder condition than is a good person whose life has ceased to improve. Jesus praised the sinners who were ashamed of their evil and wanted to flee it, and he condemned the Pharisees — righteous, upright folk — who were perfectly satisfied to remain as they were.

Someone has said that saints are the sinners who keep on trying. Remember in estimating your own moral soundness that the important matter is not how good you are but how much you are growing in goodness — not where do you stand, but where are you going?

A No-Flush Substitute

WASHINGTON—There was a shoot-out in Phoenix last week which has national implications. The police, taking advantage of a "no knock" law, raided a house where they suspected hippies had narcotics. Unfortunately, at the time of the raid the hippies had moved out and a married couple had moved in. Since the raid took place at 1:30 in the morning, the husband refused to believe the men were police and shot one. He in turn was shot. The police sergeant said after the raid, "It was a misunderstanding. The couple probably felt they were defending their home against some hippies, and the officers thought they were fighting some criminals."

Now, opponents of the "no knock" law have always claimed the big danger of it was that if the police enter someone's home without knocking they could get shot. Since the Constitution permits you to defend your own home, it is possible that more policemen will be shot than narcotics will be found. This will make the cops uptight, and so, to protect themselves, they'll start shooting first, and before you know it there will be blood baths all over the country.

The reason law enforcement officials say they need the "no knock" law is that, if they knock first, the suspects inside the house will flush narcotics evidence down the toilet. Only a strong "no knock" law, they claim, can prevent anyone from dashing to the bathroom.

This sounds reasonable but, as we have seen in Phoenix, it can only lead to a shoot-out, because the people inside the house can never be certain that the people crashing into their home are policemen.

Other Editors Say Battle Shapes Up

(Wilson Times)

Speculation has already begun on the redistricting of the U.S. House seats in 1971. At stake is the political control of the House for the next decade. This is the reason for the fight for the control of the governorships in the Nov. 3 election. And the Republicans lost bargaining power when they lost control of many state legislatures and governorships.

Republicans face the possibility of being gerrymandered out of control of the House of Representatives until 1980. So they are armed with a well stocked campaign chest and computer-backed research to fight such a possibility, Republican national chairman C. B. Morton warned.

The Democrats will rely on help from labor unions and other political allies. Redistricting the 435 House seats prior to the 1972 primary elections will be the most thorough since 1962. Naturally the chief interest will be in the states that will gain or lose representation in the House.

According to election returns Democrats gained seven state legislative houses — both the Senate and the Assembly in California, the Senate in Pennsylvania and the lower houses in Tennessee, Utah, Wisconsin and possibly Washington. The Republicans failed to take any state legislative body away from Democratic control.

In 24 states, Democrats will control both houses of the legislature in 1971, compared with 20 before election. Republicans held both houses in 21 states in 1970 but in January the number will be reduced to 18. Eight states will have divided legislatures or a tie in one house according to unofficial figures.

Democrats will be in complete control of redistricting, control both houses of the legislature and the governorships in 16 states. These states will have control of 144 representatives after the 1972 apportionment according to preliminary projections.

Pity Our Poor Auto Magnates

By ELMER ROESSNER Despite those fat salaries and lush bonuses (shared with the government) and those plush expense accounts, the life of the auto magnate is not a happy one today.

Let's tick off his troubles:

If he's a General Motors-type magnate, he has to get production going again just when so many subordinates are thinking about going off for Christmas shopping or holiday parties. If he is a Ford- or Chrysler-type, he has to make a deal with the Auto Workers. And if he's an American Motors-type, he has to worry about the current deficit.

Whoever he is, he has to solve the pricing problem. He has to increase prices to cover the new union contracts and may have to do it again next fall when steel goes up to cover Steelworkers pay increases. The kernel of the problem: how much can prices be increased before loss of sales sets in?

Uncle Sam and Uncle Nader He has to decide how much further to go along with the government on safety programs. He has to decide whether to go along with ever tougher demands by the Secretary of Transportation John Volpe or with GM and go to the courts to resist demands for call-backs and the addition of more safety devices.

He has got to decide how far and in what direction he will go to meet ever louder public demands for the elimination of pollutants from internal combustion engines.

He has to worry about what Ralph Nader will come up with next and perhaps worry even more about wild rumors about what Nader has discovered about his best-selling model. And when Nader is on vacation, he can always worry about what Jack Anderson is digging up.

And he can worry about what the professors are going to come up with next.

Case In Point

For example, Professor Joe S. Bain of the University of California writes in the December Western Economic Journal that manufacturers must decide between the exhaust manifold afterburner and the muffler-like catalytic types of emissions control. Where Soviet Trails

By JAMES R. PEIPERT Associated Press Writer MOSCOW (AP) — The gray metal box clanked and rattled and danced about the bathroom floor.

It was a Soviet washing machine in a spin-dry cycle that looked like its death throes. And, like most Soviet household appliances, it resembled an offering in a 1934 Sears, Roebuck catalogue compared to the sleek models available to housewives in the West.

Made in a factory named after Vladimir Lych Lenin, the machine is one of the best the Soviets have to offer. And it sells for 140 rubles—$155.40—in Moscow stores—when it's available.

There is a slightly sleeker model called the Siberia which sells for 155 rubles $172.05. It is white instead of gray and has the knobs in different places, but it is essentially the same machine.

The one we have is called a "ZVI"—the initials for zavod—factory—of Vladimir Lych. It sets in the corner of our bathroom and it resembles a small safe, with its timing dial and lever for releasing the water.

It takes about half a day to do a six- to eight-pound load of wash in the ZVI, and after you're through you wonder why you didn't do it by hand in the bathtub.

Most modern washing machines in the West have three basic cycles—wash, rinse and spin dry. They all take place in one chamber and are set in motion by the flick of a switch.

But there is nothing automatic about the Soviet machine, although it's advertised as "semi-automatic," apparently because it has an electric motor. The washing chamber and the spin-dry chamber are separate and there is no connection to any water pipes.

You have to fill the washing chamber with water from a handy faucet, then dump in a load of clothes. But since the washing chamber holds only three pounds of wash at a time—as do the other machines—it takes two or three washings to do a small load.

The agitator is a disc about six inches in diameter that spins rapidly in the bottom of the wash chamber. But the ribs are only about three-quarters of an inch high. So the agitator rumbles around in the bottom of the chamber while the laundry lies

Defending Title As Best Beard-Grower

BELHAVEN — Greenville native Gilbert Smith, now a Belhaven businessman, is once more this year going all out to defend his last year's title as the man with the most pirate like beard.

Belhaven's Blackbeard Benefit Ball, now in its fourth year, has become the major social event of the Thanksgiving season for residents of Belhaven and surrounding areas.

The festive affair is being held this year at 8:00 p.m. Friday night in the new American Legion building on Pamlico Street.

A fund-raising affair for the Belhaven Memorial Museum,

Museum, recipient of proceeds from the Blackbeard Ball, has thousands of items portraying the historic past of the area. It is open seven days weekly from 1:00 to 5:00 p.m. It has become a major tourist attraction of Eastern North Carolina.

In competing for the top beard prize, Smith faces a formidable array of beard growers who have devoted months to cultivating a luxuriant growth of hair and are set to try for the coveted award, which carries not only prestige, but a $50 savings bond.

Tickets and table reservations are still available at a cost of $3 per couple and $1 for table reservations.

Wrong House

CHICAGO (AP) — A team of roofers worked all day on the two-story townhouse of Donald Krohn, laying shingles on a new $600 roof.

Krohn called the roofing firm to learn why he was so fortunate.

"They looked up the order," Krohn said, "and found it was for a house at an address just around the corner."

OUTSTANDING LEADER . . . Mrs. Paul Thompson was named "Outstanding 4-H Club leader for 1970" at the annual Achievement Night held Monday.

Subdistrict Meets Set

BETHEL — United Methodist Churches of the Greenville Sub-district will hold Sunday School meetings at the Bethel Church. The meetings have been scheduled for Sunday, Dec. 6, at 7 p.m. and Monday, Dec. 7, at 7:30 p.m.

A picnic supper will be held Sunday at 6 p.m. with the host church providing the beverage.

The Rev. H. M. McLamb, superintendent of the Greenville district, will conduct the meetings.

"There has been a continuing decline in Sunday School enrollment and attendance since the early 1960's," said the Rev. McLamb. "The Sunday School is basic to everything else and we are seeking to improve the Sunday School enrollment and attendance."

The following churches are in the Greenville 'Sub-district: Ayden, Bethel; Jarvis Memorial; Holy Trinity; St. James; Macedonia; Hobgood;

Took Long Way For Heavy Load

LONDON (AP) — A Conqueror tank from the World War II weighing almost 150,000 pounds was moved from the Imperial War Museum to a storage depot in Essex. Although the usual route is only 11 miles, the transporter had to make a 50-mile detour to find bridges which could accommodate the tank's weight.

William's Chapel; Hamilton; Robersonville; Salem; Parmele; Stokes; Vernon; Bethlehem; Monk; and Wesley. Similar Sunday School meetings have been held in the four other areas of the Greenville district which includes 70 churches in Pitt, Lenoir, Beaufort, Martin, Greene and Hyde Counties.

You have to jostle the clothes around by hand or push them down so they'll catch on the tiny agitator, being careful not to catch your fingers too.

Then comes the rinse cycle, which is the ultimate in simplicity. You take the wet, soapy clothes from the machine, place them under a faucet in a bathtub or sink and rinse them by hand.

It's back to the machine for the spin-dry cycle. The spin-dry chamber is about as big as a large coffee tin and holds about five pieces of underwear. This is the noisiest of the cycles, and the machine shakes and quivers and dances about the floor. It takes five or six of these cycles to do a small load of laundry.

All that's left then is to drain the water from the wash chamber. A rubber hose is provided for this but it goes very slowly if you don't have a floor drain and have to stick the hose in the toilet or bathtub. It's faster to use a big pot and bail it out like a boat.

Then you get on the phone to see about a laundry service you heard is available to diplomats and foreign correspondents.

GILBERT SMITH sponsored by the Belhaven Community Chamber of Commerce, it has become a full scale community project with prizes, decorations, refreshments and services furnished by civic organizations, businesses and individuals.

Rezoning . . . Most Plan For Holiday

 "I think it would be wise for promoters and planners to include such things in their plans," councilman Jerry Sutherland remarked.
 In reply to whether it might be constitutional to include such requirements, City Attorney David Reid remarked "If it can be shown there's a relationship between public health and safety, it should be acceptable, but there's a danger if such requirements are purely esthetic."
 Hite called the councilmen's attention to the fact that the planner designed Raleigh's North Hill Shopping Center, and from all indications he has, the one here will incorporate the same basic concept.
 The city and county school offices, in conjunction with school holidays beginning tomorrow and lasting through Sunday, will be closed for the four day period.
 All city offices, the post office, Social Security Office, Selective Service Office, offices in the courthouse, agricultural and other federal offices will observe tomorrow as a holiday and will not reopen for business as usual on Friday morning.
 The County Fire Department office will be closed for the day, but Fire Control stations will be manned around the clock.
 In general, merchants will close for Thanksgiving, with the exception of some service stations and restaurants, and possibly a few stores.

Seek Grant For Treatment Plant

WINTERVILLE — The Town of Winterville has made application for a $24,000 grant for use in construction of a waste pre-treatment plant for the Winterville Machine Works.
 The application was made to the North Carolina Department of Water and Air Resources and will help finance the project, expected to cost $60,000.
 Town Clerk Elwood Nobles said the need for the pre-treatment facility "is readily apparent when considering the toxicity of the waste products." He explained that hexavalent chromium is discharged by the machine works, a substance which is highly toxic.
 "There is an urgent need for an adequate facility in order to eliminate a serious public health hazard," Nobles explained.

Plan Turkey Shoots Here

The Greenville Jaycees have announced plans to sponsor Jaycee Turkey Shoots on three occasions during the Thanksgiving holiday weekend.
 Shoots will be held on Wednesday evening, Thursday afternoon, and all day Saturday on the 264 By-pass at the former site of Big Boy Mobile Homes.
 According to project co-chairmen Tony Smith and Tommy Anthony, the turkey shoot conducted Saturday was successful and produced 23 winners.
 Each winner, the co-chairmen noted, is awarded a turkey and each participant is eligible for the grand prize, a 12-gauge automatic shotgun, to be awarded at Christmas. They said that each participant may bring his own gun and Jaycees will provide other necessary equipment. Additional guns will be available if needed.
 Proceeds from the turkey shoot will go the Jaycee Project Fund to be used on future projects aimed at community improvement.
 in investigations of possible "fraudulent and deceptive" practices such as advertising and sales techniques.
 He said that if the present trend continues, he is afraid "that the free enterprise system could be destroyed." Morgan said such deceptive practices could lead to a more regulated society if steps are not taken to keep the market free of deception.
 Morgan noted that merchants possibly offer the biggest threat through false advertising but added that during investigations

Adopted New Zoning Plan

WINTERVILLE — An old zoning ordinance, in effect since April 1953, was repealed and a new ordinance was adopted at a special meeting of the Board of Aldermen here Monday night.
 The newly adopted ordinance provides for zoning within the municipal limits and establishes a joint town-county board for zoning within one mile of the town limits.
 The new ordinance, according to town clerk Elwood Nobles, was adopted in an effort to promote orderly growth and development of the town.
 The ordinance will also aid in promoting safety and the general welfare of the citizens through lessening congestion on streets and roads, providing adequate light and air, securing safety from fire and related dangers.
 The zoning ordinance change was made with the aid of the Winterville Planning Board with technical assistance from the North Carolina Department of Local Affairs' Division of Community Planning.
 efforts are concentrated to avoid injuring the innocent merchants.
 The "bait and switch" approach which involves advertising the product and then informing the buying public that the product has been sold out is most prevalent.
 Morgan said that investigations in many cases involving these techniques has shown that the advertised articles often were not available at any time at the considerably reduced rates or in large quantities.

Greene Central May Challenge For Eastern Plains Title Again

THE RAMS
By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(One of A Series)

SNOW HILL — The defending champions in the Eastern Plains Conference, Greene Central's Rams, would like to make it two in a row this year, the last for the Eastern Plains.

Next year, the Eastern Plains is scheduled to dissolve, with teams moving in several directions, but most of them will go into the new Eastern Carolina Conference, including Greene Central.

Back this year is probably the tallest player in the conference in 6-7 Ron Bowen, the Ram center. He is one of three starters Coach Jim Fulghum has back this year.

Joining him in returning to the court are 6-2 forward Al Herrington and 5-10 guard Mike Giles. All three are expected to hold onto their starting duties.

"We have three others back this year who have good experience, and we expect them to see a lot of action," Fulghum said. They include Allen Jones a 6-2 forward who was the seventh man on the team last year; Johnny Gibbs, a 5-9 guard, and Billy Dixon, 6-2. Dixon is expected to be the backup center, while both Jones and Gibbs are fighting for a starting berth. Newcomers include the leading scorer and rebounder for the junior varsity, Lacy Ward, a 6-2 forward. "He's looked good," Fulghum said, "and is a good bet to be a starter." Mitchell Fields, a 5-7 guard is battling with Gibbs for the other starting position.

Joining them are also newcomers Billy Williamson, a 6-3 forward, Ray Evans, a 6-0 guard, Darrell Mills, a 5-9 guard, David Harrell, a 5-10 guard, and Ronald Davis, a 5-11 forward. "Despite Bowen's size, we're not as tall as we were last year," Fulghum said. "We are not as tall as we were at guard last year, when we had a 6-3 boy there. Overall, however, it's still good."

Fulghum expects shooting to be one of the strong points for the Rams. "We look to Bowen and Herrington to be our leaders here," he said. Bowen averaged about 14 points per game last year, while Herrington, who became a starter late in the season, averaged about seven per contest.

Rebounding, with Bowen, should also be another strong point. "We should be able to handle most teams on the boards," Fulghum said. "But we are going to have to play a more disciplined offense this year. We are not going to be able to overpower anyone." The Rams will still use the fast break when they get a chance, but most of the time, their method of play will be more deliberate.

"We've put a lot of time on defense so far," the coach said. "We hope this will be strong, too."

Looking at the conference race, Fulghum sees several teams that could be battling for the title. "North Lenoir has picked up some good help through consolidation, and they could be the best in the league. Northern Nash and Farmville and Southern Nash all have most of their players back and should be better. I guess the race should be pretty balanced."

The Rams were 21-4 last year, winning the regular season title, but losing out in the conference tournament. They then went to the finals of the district tournament.

"We feel we'll be in there again this year, depending on how we get started and on our staying healthy. We have four tough games to open up with, North Pitt and Bertie, both of whom should be real strong. But we look forward to being in there when the race gets underway," he added.

Ayden Falls To East Duplin

BEULAVILLE — East Duplin High School took a pair of victories from Ayden's Tornados last night in the opening basketball game of the year. The Ayden girls fell, 30-25, while the boys took a 40-34 defeat.

In the girls game, Ayden inched into an 8-7 lead in the first period, and then both teams pushed through five points in the second half to hold to the one point Ayden lead, 13-12.

In the third period, however, East Duplin took control, outscoring Ayden, 8-3. That put the hosts into a 20-16 lead. East Duplin then held off Ayden, 10-9, in the final period for the win. Jo Batchelor led the East Duplin scoring with 13 points, while Lyn Langston had nine for Ayden.

In the boys game, East Duplin slipped out into 10-8 lead but it stayed close in the second half as Ayden outthrew their hosts, 10-9, to trail 19-18 at the half.

In the third period, Ayden pushed out into the lead, outscoring East Duplin, 9-6, for a 27-25 lead. But the Tornados couldn't hold onto the lead, as East Duplin came back with 15 points to seven for Ayden in the final period, to take the lead and the win.

Ken Cleaton led Ayden with 11 points, while Pat Finnegan had 10. Daniel Geiger led East Duplin with 14 points.

Conley Rolls To 74-63 Victory Over Farmville In Opening Game

By BILLY EVANS
Reflector Sports Writer
WINTERVILLE — The D. H. Conley Vikings and the Farmville Red Devils clashed last night in the season opener for each team. The teams split a pair of games with the Farmville girls winning in an overtime 36-28. The Conley boys got revenge however by sweeping past the Red Devils 74-63.

The girls game was close the whole way with neither team having more than a four point lead. The Conley girls led most of the way and were holding down a narrow two point margin going into the last period.

In the first quarter the girls played close ball throughout the period with Conley coming out with a close 10-9 lead. The second quarter saw the Conley ladies increase their lead by three points and they went into the dressing rooms at half-time enjoying a 17 to 13 edge.

The Farmville girls were able to chop the lead down by one point in the third period with the Conley team still leading by the score 24-21. Farmville came on the court with fire in their eyes in fourth period to fight to a 28-28 tie with Conley to send the game into an overtime. With 1:05 remaining in the game Patricia Hamilton hit a charity shot to make the score 28-26 Conley's favor. The two points lead seemed as if it were going to stand up but with only 19 seconds left in the game Farmville scored to send the game into an overtime.

The fired up Farmville team carried its momentum from the final frame into the overtime to score eight points while holding Conley scoreless. The game ended with the Farmville team winning 36-28.

The leading scorers for Farmville were Jean Johnson with 14 and Vicky Groham scoring 11. Madge Davis led Conley with 12.

The boys contest was close all the way. Both teams showed strength under the boards and an explosive offensive attack. In the first period the Conley team jumped off to an early lead and at the end of the quarter they were leading 15-12.

Farmville came right back in the second quarter to out score the Vikings 18 to 13 to give the Red Devils an 30-28 halftime advantage. The Conley team fought back in the third period to tie the score at 50 all. The score was close in the opening moments of the final period but Conley turned the coals on and scorched the nets for 24 points while their sticky man to man defense held the Red Devils to only 13 points. The quarter ended with the Conley Vikings leading 74-63.

Bobby Cox led the Conley attack by throwing in 25 points, 12 of these coming in the final period of play. David Pugh followed close behind with 21 while Jerry Cox scored 10. The leading scorers for Farmville were Lonnie Daniels and Robert Tripp each with a total of 18 for the night.

Aurora Edges By Bear Grass

BEAR GRASS — Aurora took a pair of basketball victories from Bear Grass last night, snatching one right out of the hands of the Bears. The Aurora girls did that, winning 23-22, with a field goal late in the game. The Aurora boys won, 47-42.

In the girls game, Aurora took a 3-1 lead in the first period, but Bear Grass warmed up after that and outthrew Aurora, 9-3, in the second period. That gave the Lady Bears a 10-6 lead at half-time.

In the third period, Aurora rallied, outscoring Bear Grass, 11-7, to tie it at 17-17 at the end of the period. Bear Grass went back into the lead in the final period and held a 22-21 lead with a minute to play, but a basket by Mary Cutler, the only field goal of the period for Aurora gave the visitors the win.

Miss Cutler led the Aurora scoring with 14 points.

In the boys game, the two teams played to a 10-10 deadlock in the first period. Bear Grass then edged out into a 20-19 lead at half-time by outscoring Aurora, 10-9 in the second frame. In the third period, however,

Aurora took command, outthrewing Bear Grass, 18-9, for a 37-29 lead. They held off a 13-10 Bear Grass rally in the final period for the win.

Sugg Rolls To 90-72 Victory

FARMVILLE — H. B. Sugg High School opened its season with a 90-72 victory over Conetoe High School last night.

Sugg moved away from its guests in the early minutes of the second half, and was never in trouble in the dash to the wire.

The first half, however, was tight all the way. Sugg moved out into a 24-20 lead in the period, but Conetoe put on a second period rally. In that, Conetoe outscored the Lions, 26-21, and pushed into a 46-45 halftime advantage.

Dennis Chosen NASCAR Rookie

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Bill Dennis of Richmond, Va., has been selected NASCAR's grand national rookie of the year following the most spirited competition for that award in years.

Dennis, 34, was a close selection over Joe Frasson of Golden Valley, Minn., and Jim Vandiver of Charlotte, N. C.

For being selected rookie of the year, Dennis will receive a new passenger automobile from the Air Lift Co. of Lansing, Mich. This marks the third consecutive year that Air Lift has presented a car to NASCAR's top rookie driver. Dennis, who is married and the father of three children, entered grand national competition in the Richmond 500 last March following a successful career in late model sportsman racing. Through the year he campaigned a 350 cubic inch 1969 Chevelle and late in the season drove a 1968 Mercury.

The 5-foot-10 driver started 25 grand national events and finished the season 25th in the point standings. He finished in the top 10 on five occasions.

Great-Sounding Phonograph.

Where is it?

KLH designed the Model Eleven-W stereo phonograph to produce a maximum of music with a minimum of visible equipment. You will have to look hard to spot the Model Eleven-W in a room. Its control center is just a bit bigger than the records it plays, and the speakers are the size of shoeboxes.

But you don't have to search for the sound. It's as big as all indoors—the kind of sound produced only by massive and expensive audio systems.

The secret of the Model Eleven-W is a quality of engineering that no one ever thought of lavishing on something so small and unpretentious. KLH designed unique miniature speakers that can move more air (for really deep bass) than far larger console speakers, plus complementary electronic circuitry that provides exactly the proportion of power the speakers need at different frequencies.

As for what you can see, there is a custom built Garrard record changer with a Pickering magnetic cartridge and diamond stylus. And the cabinetry, what little there is of it, is of genuine walnut veneers, not plastic or the kind of wood that might as well be plastic. Come in and search out the KLH® Model Eleven-W. You will find its sound out of all proportion to its size and cost.

McCauley, Chesson Pace All-ACC Team

RALEIGH (AP) — Halfback Don McCauley of North Carolina and end Wes Chesson of Duke, who ripped the record book this season, lead the All-Atlantic Coast Conference football team chosen Wednesday by the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association.

McCauley and Chesson were named on each of the 83 ballots cast by association members.

Quarterback Leo Hart of Duke, who also broke several records, missed unanimous selection by only two votes.

Wake Forest, the surprise winner of the ACC championship in a season it was picked for last place, earned six of the 23 spots on the team. Duke, which tied North Carolina for second place, got five.

Joining McCauley and Hart in the backfield are two seasons' quarterback Larry Russell and fullback Larry Hopkins. The voters expressed a clear desire to name two quarterbacks to insure a place for Russell, whose skilled operation of the triple-option and his running ability were major factors in the championship.

McCauley set an NCAA single season rushing record of 1,720 yards as he averaged 5.3 yards for each of 324 carries. He scored 19 touchdowns.

Hart, who made the team for the third time, completed 58.4 per cent of his passes for 2,236 yards. Hopking averaged 89.5

yards running per game, and Russell had a 59-yard average, a high figure for a quarterback. Chesson caught 74 passes for 1,060 yards. Jim Mitchell of South Carolina, the other end, averaged 20.5 yards on each of his 41 receptions.

The offensive line is made up of tackles Paul Hoolahan of

South Carolina safetymen, Dick Harris, and Dick Biddle, Duke linebacker, led the voting for the defensive unit. Harris, who leads the nation in kickoff returns, got 79 votes. Biddle was named on 76 ballots.

Jack Whitley, N.C. State Safety, made the team for the third straight year. Also in the secondary are Rich Searl of Duke, a repeater from last season, and Don Kelley of Clemson. Kelley had just one vote more than Bob Davies of South Carolina.

The defensive front four is made up of Guy Roberts of Maryland, Bruce Mills of Duke, Win Headley of Wake Forest, and Flip Ray of North Carolina.

Tracy Lounsbury of Wake Forest was chosen kicker, edging out Billy Dupre of South Carolina.

Jim Plunkett Takes Heisman Trophy Home

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Plunkett came to town for a television appearance and left with the Heisman Trophy.

Next in line for the Stanford quarterback, college football's all-time total offense and passing leader, is a New Year's Day date with Ohio State in the Rose Bowl and, following that, a business session with whichever pro team drafts him.

"I don't have an agent," Plunkett said, "but I guess I'll have to get one. I haven't put any kind of price tag on myself, but I hope the Heisman Trophy helps."

The 6-foot-3, 204-pounder from San Jose, Calif., said he'd prefer to play with the home town San Francisco 49ers "but it doesn't look too hopeful" since the 49ers don't figure to get a top draft pick.

Actually, Plunkett was in New York for an ABC-TV filming of an All-America team to be shown Saturday night. When he heard that he had won the Heisman, he headed from the ABC studios in midtown to the Downtown Athletic Club on the lower tip of Manhattan.

The Downtown A.C. awards the Heisman Trophy annually to "the outstanding college football player" in the country. Plunkett won with 510 first-place votes and 2,229 points to 242 and 1,410 for Notre-Dame's quarterback, Joe Theismann.

"I was really caught by surprise," Plunkett said, showing the bewilderment of suddenly having to face an unexpected battery of newsmen, microphones and lights. "I didn't think the winner would be announced until Dec. 3." That's the date of the annual Heisman awards dinner at which Plunkett will formally receive the trophy.

Plunkett led Stanford to an 8-3 regular season record and the championship of the Pacific-8 Conference. En route, he completed 191 of 358 passes for 2,715 yards and 18 touchdowns. His career totals were 530 of 962 for 7,544 yards and 52 touchdowns. He accumulated 7,887 yards in total offense.

The losses to Air Force and California in the final two games were disappointing to Plunkett but he "kind of likes the role of underdog against Ohio State. I don't know what went wrong. I guess we had a mental letdown or something after getting into the Rose Bowl. I know those two games didn't help my Heisman chances at all."

Rounding out the top 10 in the voting by 1,059 electors across the country were Archie Manning, Mississippi quarterback; Steve Worster, Texas fullback; Rex Kern, Ohio State quarterback; Pat Sullivan, Auburn quarterback; Jack Tatum, Ohio State corner back; Ernie Jennings, Air Force flanker; Don McCauley, North Carolina halfback, and Lynn Dickey, Kansas State quarterback.

Yank Catcher Is Top Rookie

By DICK COUCH Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — The first month of Thurman Munson's rookie year with the New York Yankees was a bad April Fool's joke that easily could have unsettled a crusty veteran.

But Munson is a young man who doesn't discourage easily, and his self-confidence—despite a nightmarish base-hit famine at the outset of the 1970 season—eventually paid off handsomely for the Yankees.

Wednesday, the 23-year-old catcher, who rebounded from a 1-for-30 getaway at the plate to bat a club-high .302, was named the American League Rookie of the Year.

"I never gave up hope," Munson said from his Canton, Ohio, home after becoming the first AL catcher to capture the rookie prize. "I just kept thinking about snapping out of that slump, helping the ball club and having a respectable year."

After the nine-game false start, which included an 0-for-24 string, Munson hit at a .322 clip the rest of the way as the Yanks, fifth in the six-team East Division the previous year, climbed to a second-place finish.

Munson, given the No. 1 catching job by Manager Ralph Houk last spring although he had played less than 100 minor league games, drove in 53 runs and hit six homers in 132 games for the Yankees. He also led major league catchers with 80 assists, throwing out 40 of 69 would-be base stealers.

Munson, sixth Yankee to win the AL rookie prize since it was originated in 1949, received all but one of the 24 votes cast by a committee of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

Cleveland outfielder Roy Foster, who belted 23 homers, drove in 60 runs and batted .268, got the other vote.

The award puts Munson in line for a substantial pay hike next season, but he is more interested in helping the young Yankees end Baltimore's two-year AL reign.

"As long as we do as good as we think we will next year, the raises will come," he said. "Everyone knows what a young ball club we have, but they really don't realize how good we can be."

Bath Rolls By Grifton, 56-39

GRIFTON — The Grifton boys fell to Bath, 56-39, in their opening game of the season, but the Grifton girls gave signs of being strong again, rolling to a 43-30 victory.

Both Grifton and Bath got off to a very cold start with Bath scoring five points and the Bulldogs getting only three.

Bath warmed up to its task after that, however, but the Bulldogs continued to be cold. In the second period, Bath outthit Grifton, 15-6, and ran up a 20-9 lead at the half.

In the third period, Grifton continued to improve, but still lost ground, as Bath again outthit the Dogs, 15-10. That left Bath in control, 35-19. Grifton got rolling in the final period, scoring 20 points, but Bath had also improved, dumping in 21 to maintain its lead and take the victory.

Jerry Waters led Bath with 21 points, while Johnny Boyd had 14 and Wayne Tankard had 10. For Grifton, Gary Kelley had 13 and Billy Edwards had 10.

In the girls game, it was just the opposite, with the Grifton girls in command all the way. They jumped off to a 13-5 lead in the first period of play and were never in danger after that. Bath outthit them, 10-9, in the second frame, but still trailed, 22-15 at the half.

In the third frame, Grifton ran through 12 points, while Bath got seven, and the Bulldog lead climbed to 34-22. Grifton outscored Bath, 9-8, in the final period to wrap it up.

Sue Carter led Grifton with 16 points, while Laura Kilpatrick and JoAnne Dawson each had 10 points. Carlene Boyd led Bath with 19, and Joan Leggett added 10.

Grifton plays host to Belhaven tonight.

Corvettes Are Atlanta Picks

By BLOYS BRITT AP Auto Racing Writer GAINESVILLE, Ga. (AP) — A pair of red and white Corvettes showed up at Road Atlanta today, bringing with them an unbeaten record unequalled in recent sports car racing history.

The 600-horsepower, 200-mile per hour machines will be manned in this weekend's American Road Race of Champions by Jerry Thompson, 33, of Clawson, Mich., and Tony DeLorenzo, 26, of Troy, Mich., two college-trained engineers whose fascination with speed is absolute.

"I've had a kick for fast cars since I was 13," says Thompson. "I guess I'll continue to race forever, or until I no longer need the stimulation of competition."

DeLorenzo adds, "Someone can crank up a powerful engine a block away and I automatically head for it, day or night. I'm hooked for life."

The two have been co-drivers of the Corvettes, owned by the Owens-Corning Fiberglass Corp., for three years. In the last 18 months, they have rolled up an impressive string of 23 consecutive triumphs in Class A production competition.

They, of course, are odds-on favorites to win their class in one of 16 races Saturday and Sunday to determine 22 national title-holders in the Sports Car Club of America's annual runoffs.

global races the team entered this year. DeLorenzo won the other three.

In addition to Thompson and DeLorenzo, the Owens-Corning team brought along a third entry, a Camaro to be driven in the A-Sedan class by Don Yenko, a 38-year-old two-time national champ from Canonsburg, Pa. He is among several favorites in his class.

ACS Honors Local Student

Rose High School student, Christopher Indorf was honored at the November meeting of the American Chemical Society's Eastern North Carolina section for his top score on a nationwide ACS examination.

He and two Jacksonville students, Stan Worth and Bruce Babski Jr., were each presented a $50 U.S. Savings Bond. They were three of 30 students from 14 counties chose by their teachers to take the exam because of their outstanding accomplishments in chemistry.

Indorf placed first in the eastern region and ranked in the 99th percentile nationally. A senior at Rose, he participated last summer in a National Science Foundation Program at UNC at Chapel Hill and is now carrying out a research program on water pollution. He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Hans H. Indorf.

Worry Clinic Don't Coddle With Dollars

Clay's problem confronts millions of American parents. So scrapbook this case. Don't become so sentimental that you let a "Prodigal Son" (or daughter) talk you out of cash handouts. And you working wives better take heed! Run the house on your husband's income! Or you may be divorced by the age of 40.

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph. D., M. D.

CASE 0-592: Clay G., aged 46, is worried.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "my the same neighboring youngsters. Beware, for frequent moving increases the likelihood of school dropouts by your children! You parents are also permitted to give each child $3,000 per year as a gift, free from inheritance taxes.

In Clay's case, their home and stocks were jointly owned. So he could offer his son $3,000 and his wife could do likewise, thus making $6,000 for a down payment on a home.

But don't offer liquid cash to your children to subsidize their household budgets. For they will then use your cash gifts to boost their standard of living and thus grow accustomed to an abnormal living scale.

Then, if they must ever fall back upon their own salary, the young couple may grow caustic and feud, or "bite the hand that fed them" via chewing out their parents.

Wives, if you work during your first year or so of marriage, don't apply your earning to the upkeep of the home!

Stash them away in insurance or savings or capital investments.

Otherwise, your husband and you will get so adjusted to such a higher standard of living that you can't get along on his salary alone.

So he will suggest that you defer having babies, year after year, till you may be nearly 40. Then he may turn on you and demand a divorce, saying he wants to marry a young woman who can give him offspring!

In many cases, too, it is wise for parents to make a trust fund, whereby the surviving mate can enjoy the income of your wealth during her remaining lifetime, after which it goes to your children.

This avoids a double inheritance tax!

For if you will your money to your wife, she then must pay tax thereon.

And when she passes away, her estate is taxed again before it gets to the children.

Nixon Schedules Conference

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has scheduled his first news conference in more than four months for Dec. 10.

By that time, White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said, Nixon will have made what is expected to be a major speech on the economy and the lame duck session in Congress will be almost over.

The last time Nixon faced the press corps was July 30. Ziegler said the Dec. 10 conference probably would be televised.

Pitt-Greene PCA Told Loan Volume Increased

Approximately 164 farmer-stockholders from all areas of Pitt and Greene Counties assembled in the Greene County Courthouse at Snow Hill Thursday, to attend a Stockholders Meeting of the Pitt-Greene Production Credit Association.

In addition to the election of a director and other routine business, the stockholders heard an address by Henry Simons, Jr. Simons is Executive Director of the Farm Credit Bank Services, Farm Credit Banks of Columbia, which consist of the Federal Land Bank, Federal Intermediate Credit Bank, and the Bank for Cooperatives, located in Columbia, South Carolina, serving the states of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

In his address Simons was optimistic about the future of agriculture in the southeast. He expressed confidence that eastern North Carolina has a good potential growth in continuing its agricultural production in tobacco and livestock. He pointed out that the industrial growth in the Piedmont part of the state will create additional markets for agricultural commodities produced in eastern North Carolina. He stated that in North Carolina a number of agricultural commodities are imported from other states such as apples and these provided areas of opportunity and expansion for North Carolina farmers.

The stockholders unanimously elected Alton Gardner to serve a three-year term to succeed himself on the Board of Directors. In addition, they reviewed financial reports from the Manager and other officials.

In his report to the stockholders, General Manager F. L. Little, Jr. stated that the loan volume for 1970 had increased from 5.5 million in 1969 to 8.5 million in 1970.

This was the 37th annual meeting of the stockholders of this organization, which serves the credit needs of a majority of farmers in Pitt and Greene Counties.

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Is there any way a married couple can get rid of a three-week-old baby girl legally. We have a six-year-old daughter and we wanted a baby boy so bad we prayed for one. I even used the alkaline-acidity method which was supposed to insure us positively of getting a boy, but I had a girl instead. All during my pregnancy I watched my diet and did all the things the doctor told me to do so I would have a healthy son, and when I had this baby girl I felt so betrayed and cheated.

I hate her. I do her laundry, and feed her, and keep her clean because she didn't ask to be born and that is the least I can do for her, but I will never love her.

I guess she knows she's not wanted. She screams every minute. If I am lucky, she may scream so hard she will choke herself to death.

I considered doing away with myself, but my six-year-old needs me. I also considered doing away with this baby, but I don't want to go to jail. My husband blames me for getting pregnant, but I was so sure I would have a boy. Don't tell me that I will learn to love this baby. The only way I will love her is if she is gone.

I am 27 and my husband is 35. He deserves some kind of sex life, but I just can't accommodate him knowing I might have another girl. Does this make any sense to you at all. Please tell me what to do.

UNHAPPY IN SOUTH CAROLINA

DEAR UNHAPPY: Since your husband shares your feelings about the baby, together you should go to your doctor and tell him exactly what you have told me.

He will help you place your baby in a home where it will be loved and wanted. I urge you not to wait another day. And please write to me again and let me know the outcome.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is 15 years old and she wants to quit school and get married. She is a good student and has another three years to go before she graduates, but she insists she doesn't need a high school diploma. The fellow is a nice enough kid, but he's not 21 yet and he is going to be out of the country for a year.

I also try to point out to my daughter the number of teen-age marriages that break up, but she says that won't happen to them.

I wish that girl of mine would stay in school. I never got a high school diploma and it has held me back all my life. When I try to tell her this, it goes in one ear and out the other.

Maybe you can explain it better to her than I can. Please try. Thanking you, I remain,

HER FATHER

DEAR FATHER: You've explained it very well, but if you want me to second the motion, I say, "Heaven can wait. Graduate!"

DEAR ABBY: Concerning the gentleman who didn't tip the strolling musicians in a restaurant, may I add a few words to "No Patsy," who defended the man's not tipping. When I go out with a man for the first time, I can't help but notice what kind of a tipper he is. I store this information with the rest of my impressions of the man.

This one clue to the man's generosity [or lack of it] doesn't necessarily keep me from enjoying the man or becoming further involved with him, but I will say this: In dating well over 100 men since my divorce, I have observed that every man who has been cheap about tipping has expected more from others (especially his women) than he has been willing to give of himself.

"ME" IN CAMDEN, N. J.

Ministerial Ass'n Has Union Service Tonight

The Union Service of Thanksgiving, sponsored by the Greenville Ministerial Association, will be held tonight at 8:00 o'clock at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church.

The preacher will be the Rev. C. Norman Bennett Jr., pastor of Memorial Baptist Church, Greenville, since September of this year.

The Rev. Mr. Bennett has served pastorates in Norfolk and Altavista, Va., and Oxford. He is a graduate of Hargrave Military Academy, University of Richmond, and Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary, from which he holds both the Bachelor and Master's Degree in Divinity. He is married to the former Betty Lu Scarse of Danville, Va., and they have two daughters and a son.

The presiding clergyman of the Thanksgiving service will be the Rev. Charles Muholland, pastor of St. Gabriel's Catholic Church and president of the Greenville Ministerial Association.

Other local clergymen taking part in the service are: the Rev. B. B. Felder, pastor of Sycamore Hill Baptist Church and treasurer of the Ministerial Association; the Rev. William B. Moore, pastor of the Cornerstone Missionary Baptist Church; the Rev. M. Dana Hunt, minister of the First Christian Church; the Rev. R. Graham Nahouse, pastor of Our Redeemer Lutheran Church; and the Rev. Troy Barrett, pastor of the host Church, Jarvis Memorial United Methodist.

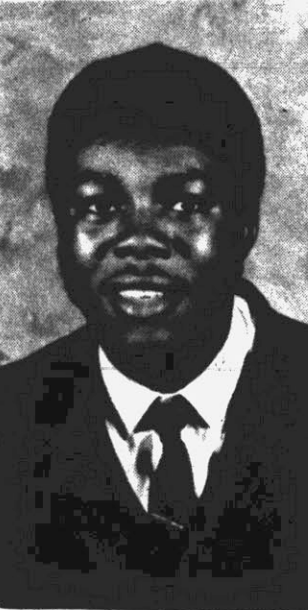

The combined choirs of St. James and Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Churches will present Thanksgiving music and a combined youth choir of all the participating churches will also sing.

Public Invited Hear Report Of Commission

Governor Bob Scott is inviting North Carolinians to hear the recommendations and findings of the North Carolina Study Commission for Emotionally Disturbed Children on Tuesday, December 8.

This presentation of the Commission's report, entitled "Who Speaks for Children?", will be held in Raleigh at Memorial Auditorium at 10 a.m. Persons wishing to register for the meeting, which is open to the public, should write to the Governor's Office, Box 5746, Raleigh.

The Study Commission was established by the 1969 General Assembly to study the situation of the emotionally disturbed child and the mental health needs of all children. Establishment of the Commission was the major recommendation of the Forum on the Emotionally Disturbed Child in North Carolina, held in March 1969.

Williamston Parade Plans Shaping Up

WILLIAMSTON - Another colorful Christmas parade is shaping up for Williamston this year. Parker Peel, once more filling the role of parade marshal, says that plans are fairly firm with a few minor exceptions for a large, varied affair.

Cain's Clownheads, which were a hit with the children last year, will be a big item this year, with about 50 of them being used. These are large papiermache heads which can be worn by young folks walking in the parade route.

Ten commercial floats, each depicting some Christmas theme, are planned. Floats will also be sponsored by WITN-TV, the Williamston Ministerial Association, and Jefferson Mills. This year's Miss Martin County, Miss Delbrah Wilson, and five homecoming queens from Martin County high schools will be participants. Others forming part of the parade will be members of Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Brownies and Cubs.

Peel revealed that four bands have already agreed to participate - those from Williamston, Robersonville, Plymouth and Bertie. There is a possibility that an additional band will be included, as well as a marching troupe.

One of the big attractions will be the appearance of horses from the Lions Club horse show and 4-H horses. Antique cars, and old fire trucks and rescue equipment will be shown. The latter are provided by the Williamston Fire Department.

As in past years, the parade route will begin in front of Church Street Elementary School, move to Main Street, traverse the length of Main and return to the school by the same route.

Spectators are welcome to be on hand to watch the Williamston parade which begins at 4:00 p.m. on December 2.

Are Antique Antennas robbing you of good TV Color?

Not If You Have An ALLIANCE TENNA-ROTOR . . . AND ANTENNA By Antenna Designs, Inc.

Horse-and-buggy antenna systems for black and white were OK in their day, but their day is gone. In this age of space technology and sophisticated TV, the results of cheap out-dated antenna systems range from merely passable to completely inadequate.

Your precisely engineered set is only part of the balanced reception system you need for good color. The other part is your antenna system—a directional color antenna specified for your area, and a rotator to lock-in to a direct signal. These are as essential to good color as your set . . . and yet the cost is small by comparison.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO PUT UP WITH IMPERFECT COLOR TV ANY LONGER!

Now you can get the new Alliance U-100 Tenna-Rotor . . . and the model 3020 antenna by Antenna Designs, Inc. plus normal installation at a reduced price for a limited time from any of the qualified TV Technicians listed in this advertisement. Clip the coupon at right and present it to any of the participating TV firms for this special offer!

Regular Value $125.00
 Coupon Worth 20.00
