Councilmen Told City Dump Problems Solid Waste Disposal: A Matter Of Obstacles

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Disposition of solid waste and its relation to local ecology, although not on the City Council agenda, was the subject of interested discussion at last night's meeting.

C. Kenneth Beatty, director of the City Public Works Department, introduced the subject to the councilmen, stressing the need for immediate action to alleviate problems now prevalent at the city dump, officially labeled as the City of Greenville Solid Waste Disposal Area.

"We've got to let the public know that they cannot continue to bring stumps, old tires, scrap lumber and old cars to the city dump to be burned," he commented.

City Manager Harry Hagerty, acknowledging the existence of problems for the City Public Works Department, said "we need a definitive ordinance regulating the dump." Open air burning is not permitted under state laws and regulations.

Some of the seemingly insoluble problems, according to Hagerty, arise from checks and counter-checks imposed by concerned persons and agencies. To illustrate this point, Hagerty cited one case which posed a round-robin of obstacles — this year's oil seepage into the Tar River from a tobacco firm in Greenville.

"The oil could not stay in the river," Hagerty related. "We managed to soak it up in straw, which we then retrieved, only to be reminded we could not burn it. Neither could it be buried, as water would run through the oil soaked straw and return the oil to the river. I was beginning to wonder why oil was ever taken out of the ground in the first place."

Hagerty said he feels reassured that people are concerned with their environment, but stated that at times it does create extensive problems about proper disposal.

After further discussion, it was noted the county has been given until the end of December to come up with an agreement for terms regarding use of the solid waste disposal area. If an agreement is not reached by that time, it may be necessary to close the dump to anyone outside the city limits.

A means of payment for the recently acquired Hi-Ranger Ward LaFrance Fire Truck was approved by the council. The motion offered and accepted will entail a three part arrangement — authorization for the city manager to withdraw $25,000 earmarked in the special capital reserve account; permission for the city manager to expend $21,270 from the capital outlay account in the Fire Department's current fiscal budget; and an authorization for the city manager to negotiate a loan with a local bank in the amount of $40,000.

The loan would be for a maximum period of four years at not less than $10,000 per year, with an interest rate of not more than six percent annually, payable in advance. The loan will not be made until such time as the cash is actually needed. The four year plan is not binding. If possible, repayment can be made in one or two years.

Presidential Primaries Voted By Demo Executive Committee

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Democratic Executive Committee has approved a move designed to give the people a greater voice in selecting presidential nominees by bringing presidential preference primaries to the state.

The 175-member committee approved the proposal overwhelmingly at a session Thursday in which it also:

- Adopted a new process of selecting delegates to the National Democratic Convention.
- Voted to change the time of precinct meetings from Saturday afternoon to Tuesday night.
- Unanimously reelected Eugene Simmons of Tarboro as party chairman.

The primary proposal was recommended to the committee by a Democratic study commission headed by James B. Hunt of Wilson.

Hunt told the committee, "the most important decision we make as a party is the decision as to who will be our nominee for president. We believe all registered Democrats should be given an opportunity to participate in this most-important decision."

Hunt also gave two other reasons for having primaries. He said they would enhance North Carolina's significance by encouraging candidates to campaign here and face regional is-

Under the resolution, the vote of the state's delegation to the National Convention would be bound by the results of the presidential primary. At least on the first roll call vote. The votes for presidential candidates would be apportioned to them on the basis of the proportion of the vote received by them in the primary.

Hunt said his panel decided this would be preferable to either a "winner take all" primary or one which would have no more than "advisory" influence on the state's delegation.

No other Southern state has a binding primary.

Charlotte city councilman Fred D. Alexander wanted to know if the commission had an information on how much such primaries would cost Tar Heel Democrats.

"The cost is extremely high now," Alexander said.

Hunt said he had no information on costs. He expressed the belief that it would be "a substantial cost and most would come from outside the state."

Hunt said about 85 per cent of the 60 members of the study commission favored primaries.

issues, and they would allow to "see the candidates close up" instead of on a television.

No Sun For 60 Days Day Of No-Shivers Enjoyed By Farmville Santa Paraders

MONTREAL (AP) — British envoy James Richard Cross was freed today after spending 60 days in a windowless room watched over around the clock by Quebec separatists armed with submachine guns.

Despite his long ordeal, a doctor's report said Cross was "in excellent" condition, except for the loss of 22 pounds due to the poor quality of food he was fed.

Cuban intermediaries handed Cross over after the Canadian government flew his captors to political asylum in Cuba. Cross was driven to the Jewish General Hospital for a checkup.

In a taped interview on television, Cross declared: "It's almost like being out of hell—perhaps purgatory would be a better expression."

He referred to all the days since his abduction Oct. 5 when he never saw the sun.

"It's a small thing and suddenly you come out of a house and its a bright day like today and you suddenly realize how much a little thing like that, that costs you nothing, means in one's day to day life," he said.

The British trade commissioner in Montreal described his captivity as "a state of suspended animation."

FARMVILLE—For the first time in many a year girls in evening dresses riding atop Christmas parade floats here yesterday did not shiver from the cold.

The Jolly Snowman and the sleigh riders on two of the floats seemed strangely out of place on this balmy afternoon. This a typical parade weather made for a large turnout, however. Louis Williams, director of the local Chamber of Commerce which sponsors the annual event appraised the crowd who viewed the mile-long parade as "by far the largest in several years."

Another first was that the parade was fully racially integrated. Every float and every group was approximately equal in representation of the town's black and white citizens.

The colors of the local National Guard unit and familiar Yule music by the Farmville High School band heralded the 14 floats, the cars, walking groups, and pony riders that were to follow.

The first car carried Mayor W. E. Joyner and Chamber of Commerce president, W. R. Mercer.

Bands from H. B. Sugg School and Greene Central High School in nearby Snow Hill played appropriate tunes.

Other float themes included the Yule chimney, Cinderella, the Christmas candle, the Cross, a Christmas bell, the Queen, the gift cart d'Queen, the Poinsetta, Mary and Her lambs, a greeting card, and Santa.

Of course, Santa Claus who brought up the rear was the star attraction. He was his jovial self despite the weather which was a far cry from what he issued to at the North Pole. If he was warm in his fur-trimmed suit, he did not let the children who adoringly surrounded him know it.

Another 260 Pints Deposited In Pitt's Blood Account Yesterday

For the second straight day Pitt County citizens made a generous response to the county Bloodmobile as 260 units of blood were collected at DuPont's plant near Kinston.

Douglas Morgan, chairman of the Pitt County Bloodmobile, says he is elated over the results, noting that the 260 units yesterday and the 247 units collected Wednesday at the Moose Lodge resulted in a record 507 units given in a two day period.

Each year the Pitt County Bloodmobile has an arrangement to have one collection made at DuPont.

"If all collections could be like these two," Morgan commented, "we'd never have a moment's worry." Morgan added it's a good feeling at the beginning of the Christmas season to have the Pitt County quota up to par, and to be able to begin 1971 without the shadow of a shortage to face.

"The response of Pitt County citizens and the employees of DuPont has been tremendous," Morgan said. "These are the people we really have to thank, the ones who came and gave blood. All of us connected with the Bloodmobile are truly grateful for their concern and generosity."

Members of the Greenville Service League assisted the one day collection at DuPont yesterday.

Seize 6 Ready Fire Bombs

By RICHARD BOUDREAUX

NEW YORK (AP) — Police said they seized six Weatherman radicals today who detectives said were preparing to fire bomb an East Side bank in commemoration of a Chicago police raid a year ago when Black Panther leader Fred Hampton and another Panther were killed.

The six, whose activities had been closely watched by detectives since September, were seized outside the First National City Bank on Madison Avenue at East 91st Street.

Detectives said they had followed the weathermen as they rode in taxicabs to the bank and prepared to light fuses on large milk bottles containing gasoline.

As two detectives watched from an unmarked car, four others, posing as drunks in tattered clothing, moved in and seized four young persons holding the homemade explosives and two others serving as lookouts, the police said.

One of the weathermen told detectives the attempt was the "first of a series of bombings to celebrate the murder of Fred Hampton." He said a New York City target was chosen "because President Nixon is coming here."

The President is due in New York to speak at a meeting of the National Association of Manufacturers tonight.

Detectives said the six weathermen were all in their 20s.

One of the six seized in the 3:15 a.m. incident was identified by detectives as Robin Palmer. The others were not at once identified.

Gigantic Undertaking Mapped

The sea level canal which has been proposed by a presidential commission would be a gigantic undertaking.

The commission proposed the canal after six years of study and they offered a controversial proposal to build the $2.88 billion waterway across Central America within a few miles of the Panama Canal. Some $22 million was spent by the Atlantic Pacific Inter-Oceanic Canal Study Commission before the conclusion was finally reached.

The commission expects the present Panama

Canal to reach its maximum capacity by the end of the century. It said a new wider canal is needed for defense purposes and to "avoid intolerable constraints on world shipping." Construction of the new waterway is expected to take 14 years.

Of course, in a project of this magnitude major questions are already being raised. One involves the growing nationalism in Panama, with which we would have to negotiate a treaty for control of the new canal and its defense. Rep. Daniel Flood of Pennsylvania said the canal could mean an "invasion of the Atlantic or the Pacific by sea snakes, which are as deadly as the cobra." Whether or not this is correct the ecology matter is one that must be looked at in constructing a sea level canal.

We also have to consider that projected costs of government projects almost always run well ahead of original estimates and there is no reason to doubt that this will happen in this case.

We also have to weigh the possibility that the super ships now sailing the water will soon be run by crews of only a few men, as their operations are fully automated. This would make the time factor of sailing from the Atlantic to the Pacific of little importance.

The proposals presented by the commission need to be thoroughly debated before any definite steps are taken. We trust this will take place in Congress.

State Needs A Pesticide Law

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — North Carolina needs a pesticide use law as the legal foundation for dealing with health, safety and environmental hazards.

Statutes presently on the books relating to pesticides are primarily economic in nature. That is, the intent is to assure that the customer gets what the label on the product says he is paying for.

What he uses the poison on and the manner of application are pretty much up to him. There is no machinery to assure that proper precautions are taken in the use of the pesticides.

voice to those state officials charged with responsibility for safeguarding public health and the environment.

The 1969 General Assembly called for the study of agriculture and other pesticides, with findings and recommendations to be made to the '71 session.

Specific Bans Avoided

In its preliminary report, the Legislative Research Commission noted that it is proposing significant new controls affecting pesticide dealers and applicators as well as authority for the pesticide control agency to restrict the use of pesticides and to regulate disposal of unused pesticides and contaminated containers.

"We do not propose an absolute legislative ban on any pesticide, believing this to be a subject beyond our technical competence," the report said.

The approach of control rather than prohibition was supported by Dr. Dan Okun, head of the Department of Environmental Sciences and Engineering at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

"Administratively, it would be simple to ban the persistent pesticides," he said at a subcommittee hearing, "but this would deny us their use when such use can be justified, and thereby result in a greater economic burden on society. An investment in regulation and control, which costs more in administration than a simple ban, would permit a selective use of such pesticides where appropriate with a minimum of associated hazards and a maximum benefit to the population."

Broad Regulatory Power
The Pesticides Board would have authority to place on a restricted list those pesticides which it found to present particular hazards.

In reaching its decision, it would look to an 11-member Advisory Committee for technical advice and guidance.

Regulations would be adopted to rigidly control the sale and use of pesticides on the restricted list. For example, DDT might be designated for use only on those crops or for those purposes (Gypsy Moth control) for which no suitable alternative is available. A permit system for purchases of restricted pesticides might be instituted as an enforcement measure.

Licensing would be required for dealers handling restricted pesticides and for applicators and consultants. Responsibility for administration and enforcement would put 10 full-time inspectors in the field and add an enforcement supervisory and clerical help. Costs are estimated at about $200,000 per year.

Leaf-Burning Ban Is Proper Initial Step

Citizens should keep in mind the state law which prohibits the burning of leaves. There has been a big increase in the number of leaf bags sitting alongside the curb to be picked up by trash collectors, but there may still be people who burn the leaves.

No matter how pleasant the memories of burning leaves in the fall, the smoke generated in this fashion is still a pollutant of the air. If individual citizens abide by this law then they have the right to demand that industrial air pollution and auto pollution be curbed. All of these things must be done before the air is cleaned up. For the individual citizens, however, ending the burning of leaves and trash is a step in the right direction.

Nixon Pushing NATO Allies

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Confounding neo-isolationist Senators who want massive U.S. troop reductions in Europe, President Nixon instead is now pressuring U.S. allies to enlarge their own NATO strength in return for no reduction at all in the American contingent.

Behind this Nixon European doctrine for the 1970s, adopted formally by the National Security Council late last month, is a shift in American strategy expressed privately by a top Administration official this way: "We must convince the Europeans that NATO may have to fight a full-scale conventional (non-nuclear) war."

So sharp a turn in the evolution of U.S. policy in Europe reflects one sinister fact of life: the basic change in the nuclear power balance between the U.S. and the Soviet Union.

In 1949, when NATO was born, U.S. strategy was to use NATO as a trip-wire, with massive nuclear retaliation as the real deterrent to Soviet action in western Europe. That gave way a decade later to the Kennedy flexible-response doctrine—NATO conventional forces backed by battlefield tactical nuclear weapons.

Now, the new doctrine projects the possibility of full-scale non-nuclear conventional war in Europe as the obvious end product of the new Soviet nuclear equality. That is, the U.S. nuclear deterrent is no longer credible.

This is what Mr. Nixon's agents—Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird and Secretary of State William P. Rogers—will try to sell NATO this week at Brussels, and there are signs they may be successful.

Secret studies of the conventional-force balance between NATO and the Soviet-dominated Warsaw Pact already show a dangerously growing imbalance. According to one confidential study, the Communists now have a concentration of military power exceeding "anything the world has previously seen."

Part of this imbalance comes from gradual reduction of U.S. troops assigned to Europe, now at the lowest levels since 1957 for Army, Air, and Navy. This means that combat support for a meaningful non-nuclear strategy, in the phrase of U.S. officials, has been "hollowed out."

If this "hollowing-out" process is now followed by severe, unilateral U.S. withdrawals of conventional forces (as neo-isolationist Senators demand), NATO becomes a paper tiger. That would leave no other recourse than to use tactical nuclear weapons at the instant an attack comes from the east. That is precisely what Mr. Nixon wants to avoid.

But declining U.S. strength in NATO (partially caused by Vietnam's insatiable demands) has been matched by failure of European NATO members to keep up their own strength.

More than insufficient European troops assigned to NATO is at issue here. There are grave shortages of supplies and equipment, lack of backup manpower, too

JUST THIRTY MINUTES — and this was only one of his many inventions. As he lay in his death coma he suddenly opened his eyes, smiled and said "It's so beautiful."

Think of what we are — people living in a three-dimensional universe and probably knowing about one-tenth-millionth of what there is to know. We do not know what this thing called life is and how easily it appears to slip from us. We look up at the starry heavens and say: "Wouldn't I like to know what's going on up there!" We probably would not understand it if it were spelled out for us. A great scientist said recently that because we know so little it is impossible for us to appreciate the majesty of creation.

Start Paying The Bills

WASHINGTON — Everyone has his own theory as to why the economy is in such trouble. In spite of all the gobbledygook the Administration is putting out, the real reason the economy has gone to pot is that nobody is paying his bills.

My father, who is president, vice president, treasurer and sole full-time employee of the Aetna Curtain Company, in New York City, called men in Washington to tell me what was going on in the business world.

"If that President of yours really wants to get the economy moving again," he said, "you can tell him to get people to start paying their

Other Editors Say Little Dissent

(Wilson Times)
President Nixon is right in wanting men in his cabinet and various agencies who support him. The power is in the White House, that is where policy is made. And he must have the confidence of these top executives. This is the background of the dismissal of Walter J. Hickel as Secretary of the Interior.

You recall he was the last man of the Nixon cabinet to be approved and only after the President went to work for him. Then the "leaked" letter — after the Cambodia invasion — in which Hickel urged greater sympathy on the part of the administration for the concerns of the young people. This is only one example for Mr. Hickel became a symbol in the party of disloyal public dissent.

The President is right in expecting the essential elements of mutual confidence to exist between the President and members of the Cabinet. And the President was plainly shown that this essential element did not exist.

You may expect other changes in the cabinet. They will be changes not dismissals. Secretary of the Treasury Kennedy may leave and so may Romney. Both men will be returning to private life and business and if the changes occur here it will be the natural course of events. Both men have had the honor of serving in the Cabinet, a great honor, both can make more money in their own enterprises than they can in government and the salaries are high here. So such changes are natural in the middle of an administration.

The President is wise to recognize the need for "team play." The election is not far way and mutual confidence between the President members of the Cabinet and their aides is absolutely necessary for success. This is true of any organization.

From all that Hickel said and did the President could not continue to have him on his staff and hold the respect of the other members of his Cabinet and the public generally. Policies in the future will emphasize cooperation team play and loyalty to the President, and when there are disagreements it will be "courteous" dissent from presidential policies.

Airline Troubles Will Spread

By ELMER ROESSNER
Almost all of the domestic airlines are in trouble. In 1971, trouble will spread to foreign airlines.

The domestic troubles are caused by the introduction of the giant 747 planes, large wage increases and a decline with piggy banks know. Wages have soared. With heavy debt obligations, no airline can afford a strike, even if it can't afford pay increases.

Passenger Revenue Off
The airlines ordered new 747s in expectation that passenger traffic would continue its rate of increase, to service many new routes granted by the Civil Aeronautics Board, and to keep up with competition. But traffic, instead of filling those 350-plus seats, has fallen off. Businesses that have been hit by economic sluggishness have slashed expense account spending. And many corporations have insisted that all flights except those of top executives be made tourist instead of first class.

Incidentally, many corporations have grounded their private planes and many pilots have gone back to farming, or selling real estate full time. Airlines would like to cut flights. But one won't do it unless competitors do. Airlines would like to get together and, instead of six half-empty planes leaving New York for Chicago at once, whack up traffic, allotting airline A certain hours, airline B certain other hours, and so on. But the CAB says no. The CAB is afraid that if that is permitted, the airlines will bet together on other matters in violation of anti-trust laws. And the CAB may be right.

Fare Increases
The CAB has granted some fare increases but that and higher taxes have only reduced the number of passengers.

Much of these problems will be repeated among the foreign airlines begin to get volume delivery of 747s. However, the problems may not be so critical. Foreign wage scales are lower than American. Many of the foreign lines have government subsidies. And foreign airlines, being outside the U.S. anti-trust laws, can get together and whack up routes. Their legal cartel, the International Air Transport Association, can divide departures and arrivals to keep flights within profitable levels.

See No End To Strife

AL OBOUDIYA, Lebanon (UPI)—"I don't think there will ever be peace here," the vegetable buyer said, referring to growing violence that for once has nothing to do with the Arab-Israeli conflict.

He sat beneath a chinaberry tree and glumly regarded a set of deserted mud shacks along the macadam road.

"Neither the peasants nor the landlords are going to give in," he added. "It has gone too far for that."

Nearby a mixed platoon of soldiers and police lounged around a fortified police station and three armored cars. Barefoot children played in an adjacent yard.

It was peaceful in the village, but the vegetable buyer and his friends were nervous. Only a week before Al Oboudiya, a northeastern farm community huddled against the Syrian border, had been ripped by a classical peasants revolt and a truck was not in sight.

They'll Be Back
"All the peasants have run across the border, but they will be back and there will be more fighting," the vegetable buyer said.

The crisis started simply enough. A landlord sold his land to a farmer and the new owner ordered the peasant on it to leave. The peasant replied by shooting up the new man's tractor and the police intervened.

Enraged by the victim, 40 other peasants jumped into the dispute. A full battle ensued.

"They threw a grenade against the police station, wounded one man and damaged an armored car," the vegetable buyer said. "The shooting lasted for 13 hours before they ran into Syria."

He blamed the uprising on a combination of poor crops, money lenders and uncompromising landlords.

In Recurrent Bind
In the village, he said the average peasant's crop produced an income of about 1,000 Lebanese pounds ($320) annually. Of this, 50 per cent is eaten up by the cost of seed and insecticides generally purchased on borrowed money.

When the crops slumped this year, it caught the peasants in a recurrent bind. Paying their debts would leave them without money to feed their families and

Educators Confer Here

Public school superintendents and other administrative officials from 25 eastern North Carolina counties attended a Cooperative Staff Development Conference at East Carolina University last week.

The conference, sponsored by the ECU Division of Continuing Education, had as its objectives "to discuss the problems and needs of staff development training on the local school level and to give the University a better insight of how to best serve the schools and teachers."

Featured on the conference program were panel discussions by ECU faculty members from the School of Education and other departments and by several officials from the state Department of Public Instruction.

Dr. Ralph Brimley, chairman of administration and supervision in the ECU School of Education, moderated the discussions.

Area school officials attending the conference were C. W. Moyer and Genevieve Taylor from Greene County; and Charles Ross, William J. Edwards Jr. and Bob Sigmon, from Pitt.

Represented At National Meet

East Carolina University's School of Music was represented at the forty-sixth annual meeting of the National Association of Schools of Music (NASM) by Dr. Thomas W. Miller, Dean of the School of Music.

The general sessions this year were held at the Fairmont-Roosevelt Hotel, New Orleans, La., Nov. 23-25.

"They tried to throw us off the land we have farmed for many years," one peasant said. "It is ours and I will not give it up. I will fight until I die."

His remark could be prophetic. Police in the area said they have received reports of weapons filtering across the border. The bitterness, fanned by Lebanon's Communist press, is growing.

"The problem is not just in Al Oboudiya. It is all over the area," one officer said. "The landlords are some of the richest men in Lebanon and the peasants are some of the poorest. There is going to be more trouble."

And my father said, "One of those people wouldn't be named Robert Cantor, would he?"

"No," said Plotnik. "Why do you ask?"

My father replied, "It was just a hunch."

(Continued from page 4) short draft periods, inadequate training for reservists, and obsolete equipment. Therefore, as a condition for continuing U.S. troops at their present level, Mr. Nixon is insisting on a rapid correction of these deficiencies. He wants a logistical base to support NATO in a long, conventional war.

In addition, the U.S. hopes to trim its own spending on NATO (now slightly under one-third of the total) by turning over costly construction and other housekeeping chores to European members. Pentagon planners also promise to cut some expensive frills, such as fancy U.S. rest-and-recreation havens.

What makes the European climate for Mr. Nixon's policy shift particularly favorable is the political situation in West German. Chancellor Willy Brandt is under heavy pressure to counter-balance his dramatic policies of conciliating the East with corresponding gestures to the West and, consequently, will go far toward meeting U.S. conditions for no U.S. troop withdrawals.

That is the political basis of Mr. Nixon's hope to strengthen NATO's conventional war base. Considering Soviet nuclear advances, anything less could be suicidal.

Award Goes To Jos. Steelman

GREENSBORO — Dr. Joseph F. Steelman, professor of history at East Carolina University, was today named the 1970 winner of the Robert D. W. Connor Award for an article published in the North Carolina Historical Review.

The article was judged by a board of award to be "most worthy of recognition."

The award was sponsored by the Historical Society of North Carolina and was presented by Dr. Lawrence Brewster during the seventieth annual meeting of the North Carolina Literary and Historical Association.

The award is presented annually during North Carolina's "Culture Week" as a memorial to the late Robert D. W. Connor — a past president and secretary-treasurer of the association — for the purpose of stimulating interest in the publication of articles of high quality in the field of North Carolina history. The winner is selected by a board of award consisting of three persons.

The winning article by Dr. Steelman, who has won the Connor Award on two previous occasions, was entitled "Republican Party Strategists and the Issue of Fusion with Populists in North Carolina, 1893-1894."

Plan Christmas Concert Sunday

The Collegium Musicum, East Carolina University's music group specializing in music written before 1750, will present its annual concert of Christmas at 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

The concert, which is open to the public without charge, will be in the Choral Room (Room 105) of the School of Music Building.

For their Christmas program this year the instrumentalists and singers will join in presenting a concert of music appropriate to the season from England, Spain and central Europe.

Selections cover a time span from the 13th to the early 17th centuries. The instrumental ensemble will feature dance pieces which were used as part of Christmas festivities in a nobleman's castle, such as a rollicking Estampia from medieval England and a set of Flemish dances from the 16th century.

Recorders, krumphorns, viols and ranketts are some of the instruments used by the Collegium Musicum to recreate authentic music of the period. For the first time the group will have a complete quartet of krumphorns and viols, having recently acquired several new instruments.

Singers of the group will present a variety of songs, ranging from an example of early English polyphony sung by two sopranos, to a lively set of 16th century Spanish carols.

There will also be several familiar English carols, in their original versions—the Coventry Carol, the Wassail Song and God Rest You Merry Gentlemen.

The entire ensemble, singers and instrumentalists, will join in two double-choir settings of the

The Worry Clinic Allow Animals To Take Lead

Barry's case shows the typical psychology of animals. Coach your children on the rules outlined below. For many kiddies will rush up to a strange dog or horse and excite the animal unduly. Let animal's take the lead in making friends! And if a child is bitten by a dog, keep the canine penned up for 14 days. If the dog is then still alive, your child doesn't need rabies shots!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE P-504: Barry is a squirrel monkey.

At Christmas, in 1964, the express office telephoned to say they had a monkey, addressed to Dr. George W. Crane.

The weather that day was 14 below zero, so Frank Kromm, head of the Hopkins Syndicate, sent a messenger to pick up the monkey.

We were having a Christmas Party at the Home Office down in Indiana, so Mrs. Crane and I were there.

She is always deft at handling animals, so she put a rope around Barry's waist, but he was terrified at the excitement and bit Mrs. Crane on the forearm.

In fact, he hung there, by his teeth, while her arm was extended.

And Barry was a gift from Publisher Wilton E. Hall, of South Carolina.

He named him Barry in honor of Barry Goldwater.

But we had already shipped a similar squirrel monkey to Wilton Hall, so it was a joke that backfired on both of us.

The girls at the newspaper syndicate office like Barry, so they had a cage made for him, which he still occupies.

But nobody could touch him! For he seemed unwilling to become friends with anybody.

Even Mrs. Crane couldn't bribe him with grapes or other favorite monkey food.

After 8 months, nobody had been able to stroke his back or pet him.

Then at noon one day in August, the girls assembled in losing some of his food.

Horses, too, will shy away if children approach them hastily. And they rear up if they see a sudden quick movement.

Fish, too, will dart away when you slap at a mosquito or otherwise make a quick movement.

So make your movements gradual when around strange animals!

And bide your time, for horses, cows, cats, dogs and even fish grow curious and will approach if you don't rush them too fast.

If a child is bitten by a dog, lock up the dog for 2 weeks to see if it has rabies, for it will die in 14 days if it is so infected.

That will still give you time for rabies shots if they are needed.

Panel Asks Coordinated Attack Against Cancer

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A panel of scientists and prominent laymen today called for an independent government agency to coordinate the nation's attack on cancer, a disease they say will strike one of every four Americans unless checked.

The agency would coordinate research, assist clinics, disburse grants, and provide for a central information bank. The cost: up to $1 billion annually within five years.

The panel, in a report prepared for the Senate Committee on Labor and Public Welfare, said the National Cancer Institute is not equal to the task of bringing cancer to heel.

The institute, a division of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, is principal coordinator of the government's efforts against cancer. It received $182 million in federal funds in 1969. The American Cancer Society, a nongovernment group, spends $24 million a year for research and some smaller voluntary agencies spend another $5 million.

A coordinated national effort will hasten eventual victory over cancer, which claimed 329,000 lives last year, the committee said. But the experts stopped short of setting a deadline.

The report is the work of a 26-man committee, set up by congressional resolution three years ago.

Panelists included a Nobel prize winner, presidents of the American Cancer Society and the American Public Health Association, and several prominent businessmen and executives.

The committee said the United States in 1969 spent $410 per person on national defense, $19 per person on the space program, and 89 cents per person on cancer research.

It said cancer currently costs this nation $15 billion a year—$3 billion to $5 billion in direct care and treatment and the rest in lost earning power and productivity.

It estimated the proposed national program would cost $400 million in the coming fiscal year—about double the present level of federal expenditures for cancer research. The eventual cost would be between $800 million and $1 billion by 1976.

The committee said polls taken in recent years show cancer the No. 1 health concern of the American people with 62 per cent of the public hearing it more than any other disease.

Is cost of eye accidents to industry small?

No! Just in terms of dollars, the cost of eye accidents in industry runs well over $200,000,000 per year. This is a lot of money! The amount seems even bigger when you consider that ninety per cent of the accidents could have been prevented.

How? First, by education. People should be made aware of what situations are potentially dangerous to the eyes. These situations should be avoided whenever possible. When it is not possible, protective coverings should be worn. This is the second point: wear safety goggles or glasses whenever you are working in a situation dangerous to your eyes.

These rules apply in the home, too. Do-it-yourselfers often expose their eyes to damage without thinking.

Pitt Tech In Second Victory

BELVOIR — Pitt Technical Institute picked up its second straight victory of the season last night with a 67-54 win over Nash Technical Institute.

Pitt had to fight off a second half rally by Nash, after the locals had built up a 17-point lead in the first half of play.

Both teams appeared to have trouble finding the mark in the first 10 minutes of play with neither able to generate much during the first part of the game. Then, late in the quarter, Pitt Tech got hot, and behind the scoring of Eddie Stokes, pulled away to build up a 40-23 lead at the end of the half.

In the second half, the Pitt margin held for most of the way, but with about five minutes left, Nash's really carried them to within 10 points, and Pitt was forced to change its tactics. They slowed the game down for the rest of the way, and built back up to the final 13-point margin. In the last period, however, Nash outhit Pitt, 31-27.

Stokes led the Pitt scoring with 25 points, while Leslie Saunders and Angelo Hooker each had 11. Johnson led Nash with 20 points, while Earl had 16 and Hunter had 10.

The win left Pitt Tech with a 2-0 divisional record in the Community College League. Pitt plays host to Wayne Tech in a non-divisional game on Monday night.

Cuozzo To Miss Chicago Contest

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — Minnesota Vikings' Coach Bud Grant says it takes more than a quarterback to win a football game, and the outcome of Saturday's Minnesota-Chicago Bears' National Football Conference clash will not rest solely on the shoulders of Bob Lee.

The Vikings said Thursday that quarterback Gary Cuozzo's sprained right ankle would keep him from starting against Chicago, and Lee, the only remaining regular Viking quarterback, planned to call signals.

Rookie quarterback Bill Caplan was to be activated from the taxi squad for the nationally televised game (CBS, 1:15 p.m., EST).

If the Vikings do win, they will clinch a spot in the NFC playoffs Dec. 26-27 with their third straight Central Division title.

Grant played down the role of the quarterback in Saturday's game.

"Lee isn't going to win the game or lose it," Grant said. "The rest of the team will. Lee has been preparing all year for this and we expect him to do well."

"But I want to emphasize one point. Quarterbacks don't win the ball game."

The Bears face the same disadvantage that they had when they lost to Minnesota 24-0 earlier in the season. They are the only team which has had to face the Vikings, 9-2, immediately after a Minnesota loss.

The Vikings will be attempting to improve on last Sunday's performance when they were downed 20-10 by the New York Jets.

The Detroit Lions are two games back in the Central Division behind Minnesota, and also are in the running for the playoffs. If the Lions, 7-4, lose to St. Louis, 8-2-1, Sunday, the Vikings would clinch a playoff spot.

Also Sunday, Oakland, is at New York; Denver takes on Kansas City; Cincinnati invades San Diego; Washington is at Dallas; Buffalo meets the New York Giants; New Orleans plays at Los Angeles; Boston is at Miami; Atlanta travels to San Francisco; Philadelphia is at Baltimore, and Green Bay invades Pittsburgh.

In Monday night's nationally televised game, Cleveland meets Houston in the Astrodome.

Rose Grapplers Have Several With Championship Potential

(One of a series)

Rose High School's grapplers return four standout wrestlers this year, all of whom are of championship caliber, Coach Bud Phillips feels.

The Rampants turned in an 8-3 dual meet record last year, but managed to play only one man into the finals of the Eastern 4-A Conference meet. That was George Harris, who finished second in his class in the Division II meet. Harris had a 7-4 mark last year.

David Bullock, who was 12-1, and Glenn Nichols, who had a 10-0 record, were unable to wrestle in the divisional meet because of injuries, and both are expected to join Harris as championship material this year.

N. Pitt Girls Win

ROCKY MOUNT — North Pitt High Schools girls rolled along last night with a 45-31 victory over Northern Nash. It was the third straight victory for the Pant-HERS so far this year.

North Pitt inched out into an 8-6 lead in the first period. In the second frame, however, the Pant-HERS went to work and rolled up a 10-4 margin. That pushed the score out to 18-10 at halftime.

In the third period, North Pitt continued to roll, outshooting Northern Nash, 12-6, for a 30-16 lead as the final frame got underway. Both teams pushed through 15 points in the period to set the final score.

Susan James led North Pitt with 17 points, while Debbie Purvis had 11. S. Moore had 15 to pace Northern Nash.

Another top prospect is Sidney Hardee, who also could come away with a title. These four are expected to form the backbone of the Rampant wrestling team for this winter.

"We have some problems in the lower weight classes. We have no experience in most of the light classes, and we are having some weight problems too."

Phillips would like to have two experienced wrestlers in the middle classes in Ken Perkins and Curtis Garris. "We are trying to get Garris in at 132 and Perkins at 138, but we don't know whether they're going to fit in with these, or have to go higher."

The Rampants also have another wrestler whose status is unsure for this season. If he is able to compete, it would be a help to the team, and he could be a potential titlist.

Phillips picks New Bern and Kinston to be the best bets at the title overall. "New Bern won last year, and I guess they should be favored again this year. Goldsboro lost their best men and could be rebuilding. Kinston is also ahead of the rest of the league."

Running down the weight classes, Phillips listed his top candidates.

In the 98-pound class, Carl Faser and Steve Bostic are the two top men, but neither has any experience.

At 105 is Nichols, with Dill

Forbes backing him up. "Nichols is a definite threat for the title this year," Phillips said.

In the 112 pound class, Phillips hopes to put David Smith, if he can get down to the weight limit. "He has a little experience, otherwise our backup men are completely green."

Paul Carr and Angelo Daniels make up the best in the 119 pound class. Both have some experience, and Phillips feels that whichever ones doesn't make it at 119 will move up to the next class, 126.

Besides the heavier of Daniels or Carr, Phillips has Marvin Carr as backup, but he lacks experience.

Garris is the leading candidate at 132. He has experience, but hasn't reached his weight yet, and has been slow in coming into shape.

Perkins will bring experience to the 138 pound class. "He should do a real good job for us," the coach said. Bob Barrett and Jim Birchard, both without experience, will be the 145-pound grapplers.

At 155 is Bullock, who brings experience, and is a definite threat to win the divisional title here.

There is no experience in the 167 pound class, except for Steve Roland, who hasn't reached his weight yet. Others include Dale Williams, Mitchell Williams and Victor Diaz.

Harris will occupy the 185 class, with John Calhoun backing him up, along with Roland.

Hardee is the top man in the unlimited class, and is backed up by Willie Barnhill, Tim Leith and Ernest Adams.

We have definite title threats in Nichols, Harris, Hardee and Bullock," Phillips said. "But with the inexperience the rest of the way, a title is still a ways off."

Rose Wrestlers Edge By Wilson

WILSON — Rose — High School's wrestlers took the final two matches to pull out a 31-23 victory over Wilson's Fike High School yesterday.

The match had been nip and tuck all the way, with the two schools alternating victories. Wilson had led once, after the 126-pound match, but Rose came back to tie it again, and never let Wilson lead again.

It was tied at 5-5, 10-10, 15-15, 18-18, and 23-23 before Rose got the final two wins that wrapped it up.

Four of the Rose wins came on pins, while two were decisions and one was a forfeit.

Summary:
98: Anthony Brown (W) pinned Carl Faser, 3:30.
105: Glenn Nichols (R) pinned Mike Whitley, 4:53.

South Carolina Rips Auburn In Opener

By KEN APPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
The names were Roche and Owens and they were the sophomore super stars of South Carolina's dazzling future. This was two seasons ago.

But a funny thing happened last year when the Gamecocks were supposed to wind up on top of the college basketball heap—they didn't. And everyone pointed to next year, which is now.

Are you listening, UCLA? Tom Owens and John Roche are back for another shot, and Thursday night helped the second-ranked Gamecocks open their season with an 86-69 walloping of Auburn.

Top-rated UCLA, defending national champion, opens its season tonight against Baylor. Monstrous Artis Gilmore helped fourth-ranked Jacksonville squash St. Peter's of New Jersey 152-106; seventh-ranked Southern Cal toppled Utah 90-81; No. 9 Western Kentucky hammered Old Dominion 96-82 and No. 17 Houston crushed Northwestern Louisiana State 81-68 in games involving the top twenty teams in The Associated Press Poll Thursday night.

Coach Frank McGuire had recruited off the sidewalks of New York and the Gamecocks were a front-page item with a sophomore-studded team that proved itself under pressure conditions in the 1968-69 season.

The Gamecocks won the Quaker City Tournament in Philadelphia, handing LaSalle its only loss of the season, then lost in the semifinals of the Atlantic Coast Conference. But the word was: Watch this team.

South Carolina was picked No. 1 in the AP's preseason poll last year and lived up to its rave notices most of the year. The

Ashford Bows Out As Umpire

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Baseball, regally attired in a plush Hollywood setting on the final night of its winter meetings, will be somewhat poorer next spring without Emmett Ashford calling 'em as he sees 'em.

The bouncy, 56-year-old umpire, first black man ever to call balls and strikes in the major leagues, bowed out Thursday after five turbulent seasons.

His retirement announcement came several hours before Cincinnati's Johnny Bench, St. Louis' Bob Gibson and San Francisco's Willie Mays received top honors at baseball's inaugural national awards banquet in a swank Beverly Hills hotel.

Bench, the major league slugging king last season, was named player of the year. Gibson, a 23-game winner for the Cardinals, captured 1970 pitching laurels. Mays, the Giants' 39-year-old superstar, was selected as the player who best typifies the game on and off the field.

Other award winners included third baseman Brooks Robinson of Baltimore's world champions, named defensive player of the year, Pittsburgh's Danny Murtaugh, named manager of the year and Orioles' front office chief Harry Dalton, cited as executive of the year.

Ashford, who reached the normal retirement age for American League umpires a year ago, announced he was stepping out "with a great deal of reluctance" after 20 years on the job—the first 15 of them in the minors.

AL President Joe Cronin, who brought Ashford up from the Pacific Coast League in 1966, denied that pressure had been put on the ebullient showman to retire. Commissioner Bowie Kuhn hinted that he would offer Ashford a job in his office.

Ashford, who worked the World Series for the first time this year, insisted he merely wanted to "depart on top." "Trying to top the exceptionally good year and the thrilling events of the 1970 World Series would be superfluous and anticlimactic," he said. "I had a fantastic year. Nobody even questioned my ancestry."

"He wasn't pushed out," Cronin said. "Last year he was over 55 but we invited him back. "He certainly has been a credit to baseball and contributed greatly to it. I'm indebted to him."

Ashford, a stocky 5-foot-7 Californian, said he was deeply grateful to Cronin for giving him his big chance. "You can't give him enough credit," he said. "In every league I worked in, the president has been on the spot and I've had to get him off—by working."

Ashford did his job with a flourish, and his antics behind the plate and on the bases delighted the fans. "I've toned down on that stuff the last two years," he said. "I think I was taking a little away from the players."

He said he was disappointed at first that there were no other black umpires in the majors. "The thing was a long time coming," he said, "but it took the covered wagons a while to cross the plains."

"Now I'm very happy, because we have about half a dozen black umpires on the way up."

Ashford will receive a pension of only $1,600 per-year for his five-year stint in the big leagues. He intends to stay active, hopefully within baseball. Trading was at a standstill Thursday as club officials wound up an informal joint meeting and then broke up for league sessions. The meetings were to wind up today after another joint session.

In the lone player deal of the day, the New York Yankees sent outfielder Bill Robinson from their Syracuse club in the International League to the Chicago White Sox' Tucson, PCL, farm in exchange for pitcher Barry Moore.

heavily favored Gamecocks won the ACC regular season race, but lost to North Carolina State when Roche got hurt in the final. Owens scored 28 points and got 16 rebounds and Roche put in 17 points and added five assists. Tom Riker added 23 points and 16 rebounds to the Gamecocks' cause.

Gilmore pulled down 34 rebounds, a regular-season record in New York's Madison Square Garden, and scored 28 points in the Jacksonville success. Sharpshooting Harold Fox scored 29 and had 11 assists for the powerhouse Dolphins, who boast two seven-footers in Gilmore and Pembroke Burrows.

Paul Westphal relentlessly crashed through on driving lay-ups and jumpers for 10 of his 17 points in the second half for Southern Cal. Western Kentucky hammered out a 54-38 halftime lead with a steel-trap defense, then held off Old Dominion's gallant second-half comeback. The Hilltoppers, paced by Jim Rose's 20 points and 19 by 7-foot Jim McDaniel, held Old Dominion star Dave Twardzik scoreless. Twardzik was the team's leading scorer last season.

Poo Welch scored 23 points, leading Houston's opening-season victory over outmanned Northwestern Louisiana State. Jeff Hickman and Dwight Davis added 19 and 14, respectively, for Cougars. Marvin Willett's 21 points led the Demons.

The Jacksonville-St. Peter's match was the second game of a Garden doubleheader. St. Joseph's of Philadelphia manhandled Manhattan with a well-oiled defense and beat the Jaspers 71-67 in the opener.

Elsewhere, Dartmouth topped Stetson 79-71; Duquesne trimmed Baltimore 92-69; New York University nipped Fairleigh Dickinson 53-51; Holy Cross walloped St. Michaels, Vt., 138-68 and Providence beat Brown 91-63.

Also, Clemson clouted Furman 67-54; The Citadel walloped Wofford 88-82; Oklahoma beat Miami, Ohio, 66-56; Missouri stopped Idaho 80-60; Purdue ripped Valparaiso 80-61; Pan American tripped Texas A&I 88-68; Arizona State took San Diego State 117-79 and Colorado State stopped Fullerton, Calif., State 98-74.

Virginia won the Virginia Big Five Tournament at Hampton, Va., whipping Richmond 68-59. William & Mary took third place, downing Richmond 97-84.

Texas, Arkansas Set For Battle

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Orange and Cotton Bowl officials are standing by with bids in hand. The pollsters are waiting anxiously for ballots. President Nixon might even be poised by his telephone. It's Texas and Arkansas again.

For the third time in three years, the Longhorns and the Razorbacks meet for the Southwestern Conference title and the honor of being the host team in the Cotton Bowl, and for the second straight year, the game comes on the final weekend of the college football regular season.

Texas has won both those games, 39-29 in 1968 and 15-14 in last year's thriller, when President Nixon visited the Texas dressing room after the game with congratulations. Since then, the President has telephoned his congratulations.

The second victory also kept the Longhorns No. 1 in the country, an honor they protected with a victory over Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl. Texas, with a 29-game winning streak, the nation's longest, is ranked No. 1 again entering this game, with Arkansas, 9-1, not far back at No. 4.

Arkansas went to the Sugar Bowl after losing to Texas last year, but this time the loser might get shut out, a fact both coaches knew when they let television re-schedule the game to the last weekend of the season.

The loser might have a shot at the Orange Bowl, but Louisiana State, No. 8, has that wrapped up if the Tigers can get by 18th-ranked Mississippi in their drag out battle Saturday night in Baton Rouge, La.

LSU rules a solid favorite with Ole Miss quarterback Archie Manning still questionable as attempts still are being made to find some type of protective device for his broken arm. Manning has not played since he suffered the injury Nov. 7.

The Texas-Arkansas affair will be televised nationally in the afternoon from Austin, Tex., with the LSU-Mississippi game televised to 85 per cent of the country that night.

Two other teams in the Top Ten also will be in action with No. 5 Tennessee playing host to UCLA in the other day game and unbeaten No. 9 Arizona State traveling to rival Arizona at night. Both are heavy favorites.

In two other night games, Houston plays at Miami, Fla., and North Texas State is at Tulsa. Both Texas and Arkansas have their fingers crossed on the availability of their star running backs. Fullback Steve Worster of the Longhorns, the key man in their wishbone-T offense, suffered a hip pointer against Texas A&M Thanksgiving Day and has been slow recovering.

Arkansas' Bill Burnett suffered a shoulder separation against Texas A&M earlier and underwent surgery, which was expected to end the college career of the leading scorer in conference history. But Burnett was working out this week in pads, and was listed as doubtful.

Environmental Concern Deals Heavy Blow To SST

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — More concerned with the environment than appeals to technological progress, the Senate has dealt a stunning and perhaps fatal setback to the supersonic transport, the plane President Nixon wants as the flagship of the nation's global jet fleet.

Backers of the SST project, trying to rally from the shock of Thursday's 52-41 vote to kill $290 million in federal SST subsidy money, said they would try to salvage at least part of the program in a House-Senate conference.

The victors, savoring the taste of their 11-vote triumph, say there is little chance the Senate or even the House would now approve a conference report containing any of the $290 million appropriation originally earmarked to continue work on two SST prototypes.

It was a personal victory for Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who in two previous tries could muster no more than 23 votes to stop the project he has called an environmental monster, an economic ship of fools, and a flying white elephant.

And it was a personal defeat for the President who had mustered his personal influence and the weight of the executive branch to save a program he called essential to the future of the American aviation industry.

The loss was particularly bitter for two powerful Democratic senators—Warren G. Magnuson and Henry M. Jackson—whose home state of Washington is the headquarters of the economically depressed Boeing aircraft company, prime SST contractor.

The vote drew 18 Republicans and a number of Southern conservatives into the anti-SST camp and most observers found only one basic explanation:

An overriding concern with protecting the environment in an atmosphere in which the SST had become, rightly or wrongly, a symbol of unplanned progress and misplaced national priorities.

The debate that preceded the vote was a catalogue of potential environmental, economic and political criticism.

Scientific fears were aired that the SST's sonic booms would cause avalanches and kill sea birds; that its exhaust in the upper atmosphere would change global weather and cause chemical reactions that could increase the cases of skin cancer on earth; and that its noise at airports would equal 50 subsonic jets, so loud all homes in a 15-mile radius would have to be soundproofed.

Critics such as Proxmire called the government's contract with Boeing and the General Electric Corp., a "sweetheart arrangement" sure to drain billions in tax dollars into the biggest and most costly boondoggle in national history.

On every point, the SST's backers could hardly find new phrases to express their disagreement.

Jackson told the Senate: "I have seen absolutely no evidence that SST operations will adversely affect our environment." And Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., declared: "It is quite clear that unless the SST is built our hold on the world aircraft market is doomed."

Magnuson said defeat of the SST funds probably ends the opportunity to create up to 200,000 new jobs. He said the vote may mean the Soviet Union and the French-British team building European versions of the SST probably will dominate the future high-speed air market.

A representative of General Electric, which had been chosen to design and build the world's largest jet engines for SST use, said hope is still alive the House will stick with its earlier approval of the SST and that the conference will ignore the Senate vote.

But Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., like Proxmire a longtime SST foe, said he will call for a record vote to instruct House conferees to go along with the Senate's action. He said the measure almost certainly will be approved.

Proxmire gave much credit for the victory to the highly organized lobbying efforts of a coalition of environmental and conservation groups.

And he added: "On top of everything else, I see this vote as a sign of the concern—amounting almost to anger—in the Senate over President Nixon's veto of the appropriations bill that provided vitally needed money for better housing, health care and education."

The SST when first proposed in the administration of the late President John F. Kennedy was to cost no more than $750 million to see the development program through the production of two prototypes.

Proxmire said the latest request for $290 million would have boosted federal funds for the 300-passenger, 1,800-mile an hour craft past the $1 billion level and warned that the end of federal spending probably wasn't in sight.

Whatever the reasons for defeat, there were powerful forces working to assure the SST survived its Senate test.

The Federal Aviation Administration, the SST office in the Department of Transportation, the Surgeon General's Office, the White House and representatives of Boeing all supplied the technical data and support to bolster arguments of SST backers.

Wednesday, the day before the final vote, Magnuson ushered through the Senate a separate bill designed to soothe the fears of undecided and wavering senators.

The bill, passed 77 to 0, would ban over the 50 states all flights capable of producing sonic booms; order SST takeoff and landing noise reduced, and direct the Transportation Department to report fully on all aspects of the development program—including environmental impact—before full commercial production would be authorized.

Some senators said the fact Magnuson found it necessary to make such concessions was reason enough to stop the program altogether, at least pending a full environmental check-out.

Proxmire said he has indications the British may stop further work on their Concorde version of the SST which they are building with the French.

He said the French, too, may call it quits on the SST, indicating much of the impetus behind that nation's interest in the plane came from the nationalist fervor of the late President Charles de Gaulle.

In Seattle, meanwhile, civic representatives said cancellation of SST contracts would only delay the city's recovery from a depressed state revolving around the Boeing Co., which, they say, overextended itself financially in production of the 747 jumbo jet.

A negative SST decision, they said, would only add a few more thousand unemployed workers to rolls that now total about 98,000 statewide.

Opening lead: Four of ♠ South, the declarer at four spades, did not obtain maximum mileage from the dummy's assets in today's hand.

West opened the four of clubs and South covered East's ten with the king. The nine of diamonds was led, overtaken by North's ten and taken by East with the ace. He shifted to the jack of hearts. Declarer played the king and ace of hearts and continued with the three. West covered with the ten and North ruffed with the queen of spades. East overruffed with the ace and exited with a spade.

Declarer cashed his high trumps, however when East showed out on the second lead, West was revealed to have a trick in the ten of spades. Inasmuch as there was no way to reach dummy, South could not avoid losing a trick to the queen of hearts as well, and he was obliged to concede defeat.

As it turned out, declarer could have made his contract if he had ruffed the third heart with the six of spades. East overruffs with the eight and then cashes the ace, however his forced return either of a diamond or a club puts North in to give South enough heart discards to eliminate his loser in that suit.

We are not recommending this as the proper line of play, however. A better procedure by South after he wins the opening lead is perhaps to cash the ace and king of hearts and then lead his singleton diamond. If East has the ace of diamonds, he cannot prevent the dummy from obtaining the lead, no matter which suit he returns.

His best course is to lead back the eight of diamonds which permits South to discard a heart. On another high diamond from dummy, East trumps with the eight of spades and declarer overruffs with the nine. A heart is led and trumped with the queen of spades. East overruffs with the ace and returns a club which permits South to dispose of his remaining heart. A spade is led to declarer's jack, followed by the king. West's ten of spades will take the third and final trick for the defense, but South makes his contract.

Will Talk If West Berlin Terms Met

By CARL HARTMAN
Associated Press Writer

BRUSSELS (AP) — The foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization agreed today at their annual winter meeting to join the Communist powers in a European security conference only after the Soviet Union joins the West in an agreement easing restrictions on West Berlin.

The 15 foreign ministers stressed the importance of unhindered access to Berlin, 110 miles inside Communist East Germany.

They also want improvements in the situation within the city, divided by the wall the Communists built in 1961, and they want acceptance of the ties between West Berlin and West Germany.

They said as soon as satisfactory Berlin arrangements have been made, they would be ready to start multilateral contacts to see whether it would be possible to hold a conference or a series of conferences on security in Europe.

The Communist governments have been pressing for such a conference, with some support in the West, but many Western leaders are resisting.

After agreeing on the substance of their final statement, the ministers took the unusual step of going into a restricted session.

Will Upgrade Economics

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of President Nixon's top farm economists is doing some ham-boning—not jawboning—on behalf of hard-pressed farmers by charging retail stores have not passed along cuts in hog prices to consumers who buy chops, roasts and sausage.

Don Paarberg, director of economics for the Agriculture Department, says middlemen actually increased their price margins between what farmers get and consumers pay while hog prices took some of the sharpest tumbles on record.

"This perverse pricing policy results from the laggard manner in which the food trade adjusts its selling prices," Paarberg told newsmen Wednesday.

Paarberg said he had urged the National Association of Food Chains to take the lead in reducing retail pork prices and promoting pork more to help consumers as well as farmers.

But, Paarberg said, this proposal was rejected by the trade.

A spokesman for the association acknowledged the farm-retail price spread had widened during the year but said store prices slackened recently.

Paarberg, asked if his statements were part of Nixon's "inflation alert" strategy, said the White House had not been informed in advance of his action.

'Zorba' Proved A Rousing Show

"Zorba", the musical on stage yesterday afternoon and last night at Wright Auditorium, is rousing good entertainment in song and dance, a modern play rooted in the heritage of ancient Greece.

It is boisterous, earthy, and registers as an authentic picture of the rough gaiety that gives Greeks a release from poverty and ignorance in their harsh but gloriously sunny land.

Veteran trooper Vivian Blaine turns in a solid performance as the aging French lady still seeking the one man in her life. Miss Blaine makes the "No Boom Boom" number a fine blend of tongue-in-cheek modesty and middle-age willingness to strike new sparks.

Michael Kermoyan is a natural Zorba, a man proud and confident in his own strength and virility, a self-made philosopher who explains away any need to worry about anything except the existing moment. Thom Koussoukos as Nikos consistently maintains a determination to be himself despite his grudging admiration of Zorba the hero.

Wilma Vaccaro, the ill-fated young widow is a haunting, though insubstantially realized character. Miss Vaccaro's voice is surely one of the finest on stage today — lush and warm, yet gentle and pure.

Greek dancing is a vigorous, masculine native traditional art. Choreographers Ron Field and George Martin wisely retained a goodly portion of the native elements in the dances, with happy results. John Kander's music and Fred Ebb's lyrics further capture the full flavor of Mediterranean and Oriental civilizations that mark the culture of modern Greece.

"Life Is", the opening number, a joyous paean of song and dance, establishes the emphasis on singing and dancing which are the salvation of "Zorba" as a play. The finest love music is the beautifully phrased trio, "Why Can't I Speak?" sung by the widow, the chorus leader and Nikos. The Mine Celebration dance, a rowdy, all-male variation of a Can-Can, is first-rate.

The use of a chorus, harking back to the very cradle of Greek theater, is an effective theatrical device in this play, adding a stark note of visual beauty and an extra dimension to the dramatic undertones.

It is the attempt to marry swashbuckling entertainment with vagabond philosophy that leaves a feeling of uneasiness. Perhaps Joseph Stein, who wrote the book for the play, had two different stories confronting him in Kazantzakis' novel, "Zorba The Greek," and was reluctant to prune severely enough in the philosophical approach.

"Zorba" pays unabashed homage to the male. The freedom of the male to love, to reject, and finally to be his own free agent is exemplified in Zorba's final number, "I Am Free."

Both the leading ladies are conveniently disposed of when their existence begins to pose a problem to the freedom of the two principal male characters. Alone of all the women, only the sensuous belly dancer is cast as a creature of real blood and flesh. Advocates of Women's Liberation Groups might do well to stay away from "Zorba". It will undoubtedly infuriate rather than entertain them.

VIRTUOSO
You wouldn't believe your ears if your baby were suddenly to play a Beethoven sonata.
But, of course, no one expects a baby to do more than "play at" a piano. It takes years of study and preparation and a "bushel" of talent to become an accomplished pianist. In fact, to become any kind of success in this life takes hard work and experience. If this boy is to make his mark in the world — whether as a pianist, engineer, doctor or lawyer — he must be trained and guided.
The challenges that confront him in later years will not only be concerned with his occupation but will also involve his spiritual growth. In a world growing ever more complex, basic precepts of religion and faith will have to be cultivated. Through the Church give your child and yourself the opportunity to acquire faith for the future.

An application has been filed by the First-Citizens Bank & Trust Company with the State Banking Commission for permission to open a full-service facility in Snow Hill.

According to First-Citizens president Lewis R. Holding the application was submitted to the Commission on November 24 and is expected to be heard during the Commission's regularly scheduled January, 1971 meeting.

Property for the proposed First-Citizens Bank office has been optioned from Jerry D. Greene on North Greene Street in Snow Hill. First-Citizens has operated an office in Hookerton, also in Greene County, for several years.

$91,730 originally proposed by the manufacturer. If a bank loan is made, the equipment will serve as mortgage collateral. Hagerty said the city attorney had checked out this possibility, and that it met legal requirements.

Other old business items acted on last night included an approval for Huey Harrison to place a mobile home on his property on West Gum Road. The ordinance was waived which does not permit placing a mobile home in highway commercial areas, which is the current zoning for the Harrison property. No objectors appeared at the public hearing to protest Baptist Minister of Washington and the Rev. Willis Wilson, pastor of the Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist Church. Burial will be in Pinewood Memorial Park.

Mrs. Wilson, a native of Greene County, had lived at Bell's Fork, near Greenville, for the past 13 years.

Surviving are her husband, Woodrow Wilson; five sons, Raymond E. Wilson of Tarboro, William C. and Charles E. Wilson, both of Greenville, Kenneth and Woody B. Wilson, both of Tarboro; three daughters, Mrs. Robert Harris of Tarboro, Mrs. Dennis Bell of Greenville, and Miss Nancy Wilson of the home; 10 grandchildren; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Berry Edwards of Ayden; a brother, Carl Creech of Goldsboro; and five sisters, Mrs. Claude Moore of Walstonburg, Mrs. Frank Spruill of Windsor, Mrs. Alice Finley of Radcliff, Ky., Mrs. Melvin Moore of Farmville, and Mrs. Jimmy Bright of Ayden.

this action. Councilmen approved, with member Johnnie Edwards abstaining, a public hearing request for annexation by Ed Tipton of a lot in Greenfield Terrace Subdivision. The adoption for the annexation is based on the recommendation made by the Planning and Zoning Commission that annexation be subject to Tipton's providing an appropriate access to the property.

Hagerty explained that in 1963, Rivers and Associates revised the particular lot into the city. Consequently, Tipton has believed for the past seven years the land was already within the city limits, and has been paying city taxes on the lot for that period of time.

City Engineer C. A. Holliday maintained that the road leading to that particular lot is not dedicated, and is not shown on the city map.

Public hearings in January were set for two rezoning requests — that of Simon Moye property located on N. C. 11 for rezoning from highway commercial to RA-20; and a request by Mrs. Nell S. Moseley for property on the Washington highway to be rezoned from RA-20 to highway commercial.

Low bids for two 1971 trucks, both two-ton trucks for the Public Works Department were accepted by the Council. The low bid, for $6,871.40 is contingent on delivery being guaranteed within 30 days.

Another low bid, for a car for the Fire Inspector, was approved. This bid, for an automatic transmission car, was bid in at $2,275.00.

Approval was given for the city to purchase two cemetery lots from Lloyd E. Manning and his wife, now living in Grifton. The Mannings purchased the lots in September 1968 at a cost of $70.

Transfer of a privilege license was approved for Anderson Gulf Station to Bennie's Tenth Street Amoco. The transfer involves only a change of name, with the operator remaining the same.

A public hearing was set for January's meeting in the case of a mobile home permit requested by Floyd Nichols of 301 Church Street.

The report by the Council Committee on the East Carolina University Advisory Board was not given. Miss Martha Dewitt, one of the student advisory members, stated: "As a result of exams and last minute activities, the board members have not had a chance to meet. Because of these circumstances, there is nothing to report."

Dr. Ralph F. W. Brimley was reappointed to the Greenville Foundation, for a full seven year term. Dr. Brimley is currently serving an unexpired term.
