Terrorist Grenade Blasts Soda Stand Near Seabee Billet

By GEORGE ESPER Associated Press Writer SAIGON (AP) — A terrorist threw a hand grenade at a soda stand outside a U.S. Navy Seabee billet tonight, killing at least three Vietnamese and wounding about 30 American servicemen and Vietnamese civilians.

marks the 10th anniversary of the formation of the National Front for the Liberation of South Vietnam, the political arm of the Viet Cong. The Viet Cong's military high command has called for stepped up attacks against American and South Vietnamese troops and military installations.

sizeable North Vietnamese force that earlier had been reported in the region had pulled back for the time being, thus accounting for the light contact. Two joint forces of South Vietnamese and Cambodian troops were reported moving from west and east in an attempt to clear the 32 miles of Route 7 west of Kompong Cham to the district town of Skoun.

'Bill Of Rights' Sought For Prisoners In N.C.

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Civil Liberties Union wants a bill of rights for prisoners in North Carolina that would end censorship of inmates' mail, guarantee private cells and allow conjugal visits for married prisoners.

The Civil Liberties Union also called for abolition of the death penalty, repeal of laws disenfranchising felons, a system of hearings prior to parole revocations and some form of relief for civil damages attributed to the state.

—Conjugal visitation rights for married prisoners. —The right to a hearing prior to any discipline by prison or other institutional authorities.

Couple Speaks Vows Saturday

Miss Carrie Bell Carr and Donnie Ray Hudson were united in marriage Saturday at 3:00 p.m. in a double ring ceremony at Peoples Bible Church. The Rev. John T. Woodley officiated. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Carrie Carr of Greenville and the late Mr. Carr. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Hudson of Greenville.

A program of wedding music was presented by organist, Bob Karl, of New Jersey, and soloist, Mrs. Deborah King, of Pink Hill. The songs rendered were "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Lords Prayer".

Given in marriage by her brother, Richard Carr, the bride wore a white formal gown of peau de soie, fashioned with a batteau neckline, empire bodice and long tapered sleeves appliques with re-embroidered alençon lace and was also trimmed with seed pearls. A matching detachable train from the yoke extended into a full chapel length.

Her bouffant veil of silk illusion was arranged from a crown of seed pearls with silk organza loops. She carried a white prayer book enhanced with lace, centered with an orchid with satin streamers.

Miss Delphia Heath of Greenville, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a green velvet dress, floor length, empire waist and belle sleeves with gold trimming. She wore a matching headpiece of green silk illusion shoulder length veil attached to a green velvet bow and carried a nosegay of red and white pompons with red and gold streamers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Sharon Shivers and Miss Faye Everett, both of Winterville. They wore red velvet dresses, styled identical to the maid of honor with red satin ribbon around the waist hanging in streamers in the back. They carried a single white mum with green and gold streamers.

Miss Teresa Whitehurst of Greenville, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a red street length velveteen dress styled identical to the bridesmaids with a matching velvet bow in her hair. She carried a basket of red and white bridal flowers.

Richie Carr, nephew of the bride, served as ring bearer. He carried the ring upon a white satin pillow.

Mr. Hudson attended his son as best man. Ushers were Herbert Powell of Greenville, and James R. Hudson Jr. of Greenville, brother of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Hudson, mother of the bridegroom, wore a red and white knit suit with matching accessories and wore a white mum corsage trimmed in red and gold. Mrs. Carr, mother of the bride, wore a green and white knit suit with matching accessories and wore a white mum corsage with green and gold trim.

The bride is a 1969 graduate of Winterville High School. She attended Pitt Technical Institute for one year and now is employed at Pitt Memorial Hospital.

The bridegroom is a 1969 graduate of Rose High School and is now employed by Joe Pechelles Volkswagen Motors, Greenville.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the bridal couple will reside in Greenville.

The Hudson-Carr wedding party was honored with a cake cutting after the rehearsal in the educational building of the church.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. Virginia Shivers of Winterville and Miss Lindsey Godley Sr. of Greenville.

"HOMEMAKERS HAVEN" Sewing On Fake Fur

Fake fur and deep pile fabrics, designed to look like real or frankly faked, are important in the fashion field. These fabrics are usually of man-made fibers supported on either a knitted or woven backing of acrylic, modacrylic or cotton fiber.

There are certain techniques which should be used working with fake fur that you may not be familiar with.

Fabric Selection and Preparation:

Buy the amount of yardage for "with nap" fabrics. If nap yardage is not given on pattern, buy additional 3/8 to 1/2 yard—more, if a design must be matched.

Check label to see how to care for fabric and to use if fabric needs to be preshrunk. Preshrink, if necessary.

Pattern Selection:

Simple patterns with a minimum of darts and seams in coats, jackets, or accessories, and sleeveless overblouses or weskit are best.

If possible, or until greater skill in cutting and handling is developed, avoid collars and buttonholes.

Laying Pattern and Cutting:

Lay all pattern pieces in one direction so that nap of fabric runs down from shoulder to hem.

If necessary, match any pelt markings or shading.

Eliminate all unnecessary seams, such as center front and back seams. When constructing jackets or coats, cut straight facings in one with garment or from lighter weight matching lining fabric, if facings do not show.

Pin pattern to wrong side of fabric. Cut only one layer at a time. To do less damage to pile, cut with a razor blade from wrong side.

Marking:

To transfer pattern markings to fabric:
Use tailor's tacks or stab a pin through fabric and mark with a soft lead pencil.

Interfacings and Linings:

Use lightweight hair canvas for interfacings coats and jackets.

Use lining material of taffeta and satin for coats and jackets.

Sewing Tips:

Make the following sewing machine adjustments:

—loose tension.

—light pressure on the presser foot.

—use 8-10 stitches per inch.

Stitch seams in direction of the pile whenever possible.

After stitching, use a straight pin or hatpin to pull out the fur caught in seams. This is done from the right side of the fabric.

Reinforce points of strain with seam tape.

Shear pile from seam allowance to reduce bulk.

Do not clip curved seams too deeply.

Cut darts open and press flat. Shear pile as on seams.

For closures, consider frogs, braid loops or covered hooks since buttonholes are hard to make.

Hem with a fairly loose stitch.

Pressing:
Do test sample before pressing garment.

Some fake furs or deep pile fabrics of Verel modacrylic and Dynel modacrylic cannot be steam pressed.

Use only tip of iron to prevent flattening of pile.

Try finger-pressing first.

Place fabric, pile side down, on velvet board, turkish towel or piece of carpet. Use press cloth over backing. Steam lightly.

Evening Wear Provides Dignity

LEEDS ENGLAND (WNS)—Most men hooted when the order went out for local radio announcers to wear evening dress when appearing on the nightly news program. Women did not. Anne Montgomery, 70, wrote to her favorite radio reporter, "My lady friends and I are now wearing evening gowns to listen to you. It is nice to have dignity and decorum back in public life. Sloppy clothes make for sloppy attitudes, which may be the trouble with much of the news these days."

He said 64 of the 92 had achieved or were in the process of reaching their pre-surgery work goals.

Preserve Homemade Cranberry Jelly

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
DEAR CECILY: I wonder whether you can tell me how I can preserve cranberry jelly. When I make it for a meal my family relishes it so much that I would like to put it in sealed jars so we can have it on hand. Because I have never done any preserving I would appreciate your help.—PERPLEXED.

DEAR PERPLEXED: Here they are—all the necessary directions for making six 1/2-pint jars of real homemade cranberry jelly. If you want to double this amount, don't double the recipe! Make the jelly batch by batch for good results.—C.B.

CRANBERRY JELLY
2 packages (each 1 lb) fresh cranberries
4 cups water
4 cups sugar

Prepare jars, see note below. Pick over, rinse and drain cranberries. Measure 8 cups cranberries and turn into a 5-quart saucepot or Dutch oven. Add water. Place over high heat until cranberries begin to pop; reduce heat to moderate; cover and cook 10 minutes. Turn cranberries and liquid through a food mill into a large bowl to puree.

Rinse saucepot cranberries were cooked in and place a fine-mesh strainer over it. Put cranberry puree, one-fourth at a time, through strainer into saucepot, emptying seeds from strainer before adding more puree.

Over medium heat cook puree until it begins to boil. Add sugar. Return mixture to a boil, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Spoon off any seeds that float to the top. Boil uncovered, stirring occasionally, for 10 minutes. Remove from heat; spoon off foam; stir to blend mixture.

Using a cup with a pouring lip as a ladle, pour jelly into hot 1/2-pint wide-mouth jars, filling jars to within 1/4 inch of top. Wipe tops and threads of jars with clean damp cloth. Put on lids; screw on bands evenly and tightly. Invert filled jars for a few seconds then stand upright to cool. Store in cool dry place. Makes six 1/2-pint jars.

PLASTIC BAGS
UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI)—Plastic bags or special bags made of two different wrapping materials are the most practical packaging material for freezing vegetables. Mrs. Ruth J. Buck, extension foods and nutrition specialist at the Pennsylvania State University, says single thickness bags need an outside cover, usually a cardboard box, to give them a uniform shape and prevent them from tearing.

'What Can I Do About Rumor?' COOKING IS FUN!

By Abigail Van Buren

(c. 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: There is a girl in our small town I'll call Mary, who has been telling others that our son is the father of her child. It is quite possible, as he was separated from his wife at the time. However, Mary is the available barfly type, and almost any of the young men around town could be responsible. I don't know why our son had to be singled out for this dubious honor.

Our son has since reconciled with his wife and they moved out of town long before this rumor got started.

However, the 12-year-old sister of Mary told our 11-year-old daughter at school that they were "related" because our son and her sister "had a baby together." Altho we never discussed it with our daughter, she responded that her brother was already married to someone else and Mary must be crazy. Then she ran home from school and cried about it in my arms.

Can we do anything about this? We told our daughter to ignore the other girl and forget the talk.

Mary is raising the baby, and is just as available as ever. There has been no legal action taken against our son. In fact, I doubt that he even knows about the child's existence. I have never met Mary and am not about to. Your advice will be greatly appreciated.

NO NAME OR TOWN, PLEASE

DEAR ABBY: When someone asks me, "Do you mind if I ask you a personal question?" I never know what to say. Any suggestions? SHY

DEAR SHY: Say, "Not at all. Do you mind if I don't answer?"

DEAR ABBY: I am 17 and have this steady boy friend I'll call Buddy. His parents live in a different town so he rents a room in town near his work. I live with my parents. Here is my problem:

I have been helping Buddy out by doing his laundry at home. I also do my family's laundry. Well, my mother gets mad and yells at me every time she sees me doing Buddy's laundry.

Will you please tell me why it bugs my mother because I do Buddy's laundry? The work is not on her. I'm not complaining. Why should she? NO NAME

DEAR NO NAME: Your mother is probably "bugged" by the sight of her 17-year-old unmarried daughter doing "wifely" chores for her boy friend. It's my guess that if she liked Buddy more, she'd complain less.

DEAR ABBY: I am going with a nice young man who used to be a wild, hippie type, but he is reformed now, and if he hadn't told me about his past I wouldn't have known anything about him, except there is one little telltale mark which gives him away. He has a rather ugly hole in one of his ears. He said he used to wear a "pirate's" ear ring in it.

Is there any way this hole can be filled up? It may not be noticeable to others, but it bothers me a lot.

BOTHERED

DEAR BOTHERED: Level with him. A plastic surgeon should be able to repair it so there will be no trace of his ever having had a hole in his ear.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Happy Confusion Due To Marriage

FRANKFURT, West Germany (WNS) — When she married Konrad Metzger a dozen years ago, Erika Fulmeier was warned that in-laws seldom get along together. She made such a point of establishing good relations between both families that now her mother, 60, is engaged to marry her father-in-law, 68. "Both were widowed within a month of each other," Mrs. Metzger explained. "I'm delighted with the new family arrangement even though it means that I'm now the wife of my step-brother."

Portent Of Relative Harmony?

The naming of former Texas Governor and Democrat John Connally to the Nixon cabinet is somewhat surprising. However, it is not unprecedented for the president to have a member of his cabinet from the opposing party.

Connally will become secretary of the treasury on Feb. 1 succeeding David M. Kennedy who will move on to another government assignment.

Many observers expect a more moderate approach to the nation's problems by Nixon during the next two years. They see less abrasive comments ahead by administration spokesmen. Particularly since the president is working with a Democratic majority in Congress, many expect less emphasis on party lines. The appointment of Connally may be a part of this strategy.

Since polls show that more Americans are less inclined toward party loyalty than ever before, this may turn out to be sound strategy.

An Outstanding Task In Immunization Drive

The Pitt County Medical-Dental Society and a number of cooperating organizations have done an outstanding job in seeing that around 8,000 children were immunized against German measles.

Nine clinics were set up Sunday to carry out the project and nearly 2,000 children were immunized. Previously over 6,000 youngsters have received the immunization at school. This represented about half the children between one and 12 years old in the county.

Many children had already received the immunization from their private physicians, but there are others who still need it.

Parents whose children have not received the shots should take them to the Pitt County Health Department or their private physician.

German measles can result in birth defects if expectant mothers are exposed. The best way to wipe out the disease is to immunize children.

Outdoors Is A Natural Right

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — Everybody ought to have a place to play outdoors.

A natural right easy to exercise in simpler times, that need for outdoor recreation demands foresight and planning in an age of urbanization, population growth, and ravaged environment.

Even North Carolina, "goodliest land under the cope of heaven," must invest time and funds today in order irrespective of age, sex, color, residence or disability, should have ready access to outdoor recreation areas." These should be of high quality, permit wide variety in activities, and be located where both city, suburban and rural dwellers can reach them easily.

Growing population lends urgency to acquisition of adequate acreage. There are now more than 5,000,000 Tar Heels, and another one million will be making the scene by 1985.

Needs Are Growing

"North Carolinians are a younger population than the nation as a whole, with proportionately more people under 20 and fewer over 40," the summary report stated. "Income levels are low by national standards but are rising at a faster rate than the national average. These characteristics are important factors in the steadily increasing need for outdoor recreation opportunities."

Top priority needs identified and incorporated into the plan as criteria for evaluating individual recreation projects are: the cities, the disadvantaged, access to and use of beaches, inland waters and other public areas, and special provision for the handicapped and the military.

By 1980, more than half the state's population will be living in cities, the report said. "This means that open land on the fringes of North Carolina cities must be set aside now for future recreation use," it cautioned.

The cities also are home to many disadvantaged persons who lack means and opportunity for outdoor leisure activity. "In practical terms, priority will be given to such populations in urban areas," the plan stated.

Two-Thirds Federal Share
Federal funds would make up more than two-thirds of the projected action program expenditures of $96,229,000 over the next five years. State participation would amount to $6,748,000, and local dollars would total $22,897,000.

"North Carolina anticipates receiving about $2.8 million yearly from the Land and Water Conservation Fund for the next five years," the report noted. "These funds must be matched by state and local monies and will be used to finance state and local acquisition and development of recreation areas."

All funds are allocated to needs identified in the statewide plan in approximately the following ratios: 40 per cent to state projects, 40 per cent to local projects, and 20 per cent to priority needs identified annually.

BRYAN HAISLIP

for tomorrow's Tar Heels to appreciate what Amadas and Barlow meant by the phrase.

The blueprint is the Statewide Comprehensive Outdoor Recreation Plan. It sets forth a five-year goal of 244,000 acres of recreation land and water to be acquired and developed, with the projected cost of $96 1/4 million shared by federal, state and local governments.

The Department of Administration and the Recreation Division of the Department of Local Affairs adopted the plan and submitted it to the U.S. Bureau of Outdoor Recreation as the basis for funding state projects under various federal programs.

The Research Triangle Institute was consultant in the preparation of the plan. Dr. Michael Rulison, senior economist, and Jean Livermore of the Institute's Office of State Planning and Regional Development co-authored the summary report.

Recreation Planning Vital
"The quality of life in North Carolina depends significantly upon our continuing planning and actions in providing space and facilities to meet the varied recreation needs of our citizens and our visitors from other states," Governor Bob Scott wrote in the introduction to the report.

North Carolina's promotional sobriquet, "Variety Vacationland," justly recognizes the potential for diverse outdoor recreation. In itself, this is justification for a program to preserve and maintain distinctive scenic areas for the enjoyment of Tar Heels of the present and future generations. That is one of the goals of the plan.

Another goal is stated in the report in these words: "All people, both citizens and visitors to the State,

Skids Greased For Diplomat

By ROWLANE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Behind the decision to replace the United Nations Ambassador Charles W. Yost with Rep. George Bush of Texas lies a subtle, undercover anti-Yost intrigue that tarred him, in the words of one top U.S. diplomat, as "insufficiently pro-Israeli" in backstage UN maneuverings.

If President Nixon's earlier, aborted plan to replace Yost with retiring White House aide Daniel Patrick Moynihan had not inadvertently leaked before Yost himself was informed by President Nixon, these maneuvers by critics of the ambassador might never have come to light. Yost and Mr. Nixon would have arranged a quiet, harmonious separation.

But as it happened, the leak made it crystal clear that Yost was being fired. That stimulated a search for the reason why, both at the United Nations and by politicians here.

The undercurrent suspicion of Yost by his zealous pro-Israeli critics was originally based on his experience as a U.S. diplomat assigned to the Arab world. He served as ambassador to both Syria and Morocco.

But beyond that, Yost—while never once departing from Nixon administration policies on the Middle East—made no secret of his growing concern over Arab world hostility aimed at the U.S. because of the increasingly intimate relations between the U.S. and Israel. He spoke forcefully and frequently withing U.S. government of his conviction that President Nixon must keep the heat on Israel to withdraw from Arab lands captured in the 1967 war (an Arab demand that President Nixon ducked on Thursday night).

Moreover, when Henry Kissinger, Mr. Nixon's top foreign policy adviser, called last summer for expelling the Russians from the Middle East, Yost cabled the State Department pointedly that there was only one realistic way to accomplish that—settlement of the dispute.

Further adding to Yost's poor relations with the Nixon administration is the fact that he rarely made an appearance on a public platform. In dramatic contrast to his predecessors, Yost has kept discreetly in the background. But that was precisely the way Mr. Nixon described what he wanted his first UN ambassador to do when he hired Yost two years ago.

The President had originally offered the job to Sargent Shriver, cut from the glamour cloth of many previous UN ambassadors. But when he and Shriver failed to agree on guidelines, he swung a full circle to quiet, unglamorous Yost.

Thus, unlike predecessors Arthur Goldberg, Adlai Stevenson, and Henry Cabot Lodge, Yost was relegated to the back rooms of policy, a vulnerable target for attack by the potent pro-Israeli lobby.

Yet despite the high volume of this criticism, described to us by a highly qualified political source as "brutal," no public attack on Yost of any real substance can be found in the printed record.

The explanation of the furtiveness of this attack on Yost is obvious. To have surfaced it could have tied Mr. Nixon's hands and threatened a pro-Yost backfire.

Then the Arabs themselves would get rid of the Soviets. That did not endear him to Mr. Nixon, Kissinger, or top State Department Middle East operative, Assistant Secretary Joseph Sisco.

Then, when Yost was trying to manipulate an escape for the U.S. from the pitfall of a pro-Arab resolution in the UN General Assembly six weeks ago, he fought against offering a competing U.S. resolution because it would only dramatize the U.S. - Israeli alliance. He was overruled in Washington.

These independent (but unpublic) positions of Yost resulted in a stream of backstabbing (but unpublic) criticism funneled in to top figures in the Nixon administration.

Strength For Today

THAT'S THE WAY IT IS
The word "discipline" comes from a Latin word which means "to learn." We usually think of discipline as some kind of punishment. It is, if the learning process involves hard and painful experience. As a matter of fact, the process of learning anything usually involves effort that can become tiresome or even painful. Hence the usually accepted idea that discipline is something unpleasant.

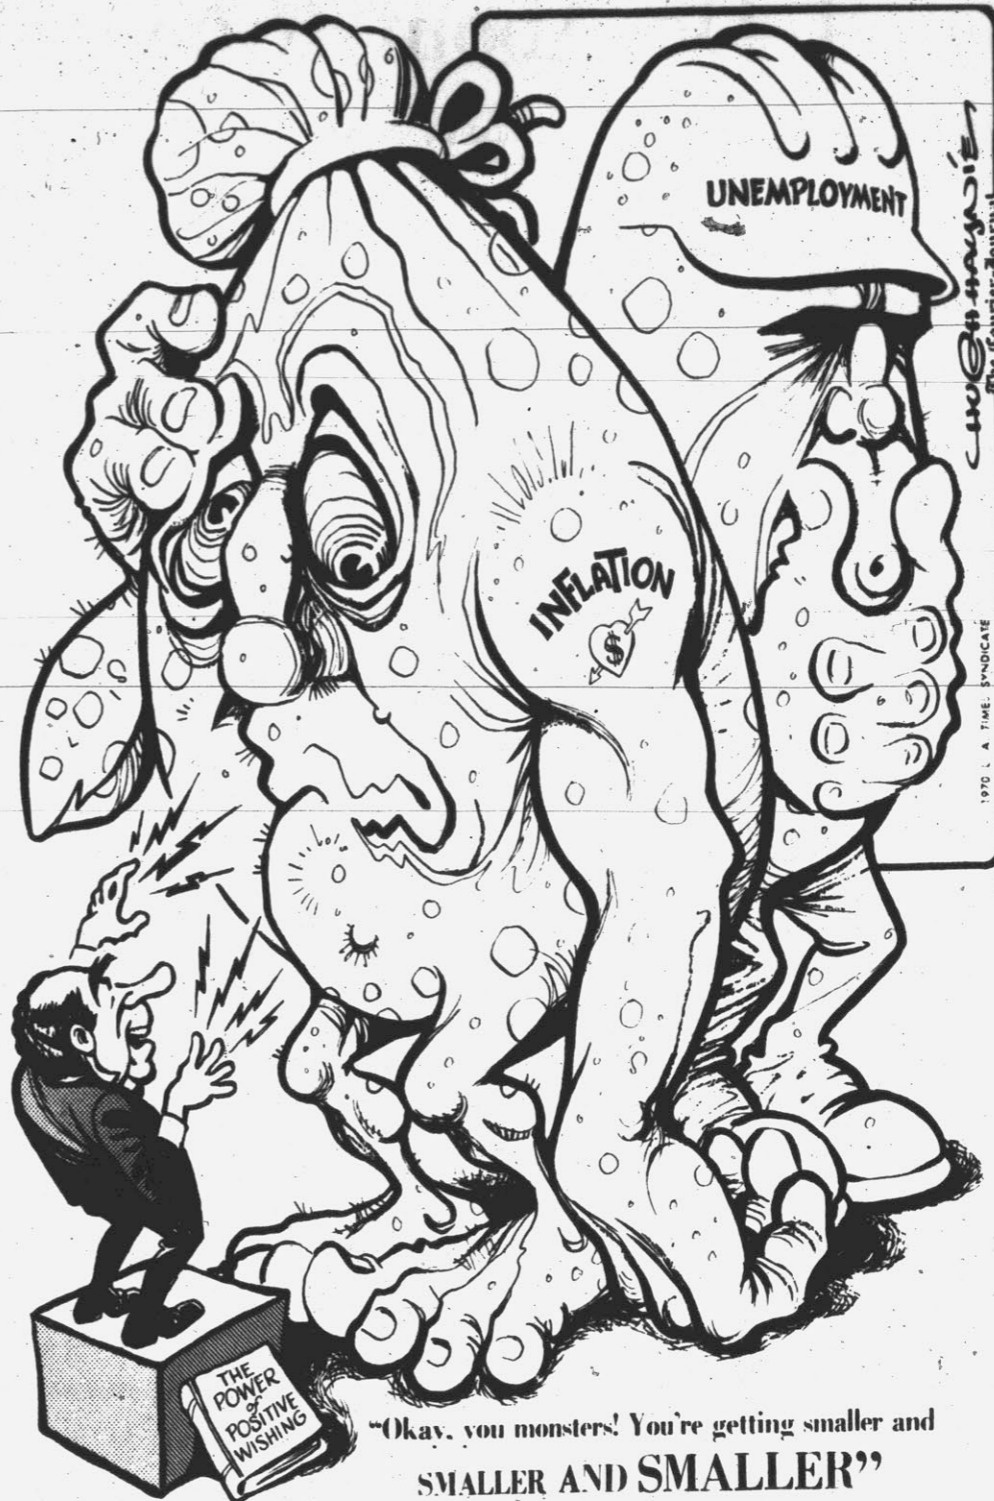

Discipline in the best sense of the term involves obedience, open-mindedness and progress. At fifty we often laugh about the protest we made about certain strictures which at fifteen we had to take, whether we liked them or not.

Life is a learning process that begins in childhood and should never end until the doctor puts away his stethoscope and declares that it has ended. If we are really getting the most out of life we should be learning every day at seventy and just as avidly, but a little more slowly, at eighty. We should get well into our minds that when we cease growing and cease learning we are in the obituary column whether we know it or not.

What a tiresome and dreary thing life becomes if we just let it slide without effort or direction. We happen to live in a country (glory be!) where people who do not work are regarded as parasites. In other parts of the world aristocrats live lives of idleness. In fact, idleness is considered a mark of aristocracy.

Not so among us. And again we say, "Glory be!"

They Were VC Cows

WASHINGTON — I have no intention of passing judgment on Lt. Calley before his court-martial is concluded. But when I read that one of his defense attorneys said that Calley had been ordered to kill "everything" in My Lai including livestock and "every living thing" I became intrigued. So I sought out a friend of mine at the Pentagon, and said: "Look, shy would anyone be ordered to kill livestock?" "Those were Viet Cong cows," my friend said defensively. "We knew for fact that the cows at My Lai had given milk to Viet Cong soldiers. Those cows can't claim they didn't know what they were doing." "But maybe they had no choice," I protested. "Two weeks before we went into My Lai, we sent helicopters with loudspeakers over the area, warning everyone to get out. Those cows heard us, and they refused to leave. Therefore, we concluded that the cows were sympathetic to the Communist cause."

"What about the chickens and the pigs?" "The same thing goes for them. Our intelligence revealed that the chickens had been laying eggs for the Viet Cong for years. They were red hens."

"What about the pigs?" "The pigs were worse than the chickens. When we went into the village, we found warm pork still cooking in the pots in some of the huts."

"The only way Charlie could have got that pork was from My Lai pigs. When our men realized where the pork was coming from, they went berserk and decided to shoot every pig in sight."

"But the ducks. Why were they ordered to kill the ducks? They weren't even from My Lai."

"In a war, innocent livestock have to be killed. You can't say to men going into battle, 'Kill the cows, kill the chickens, kill the pigs, but don't shoot at the ducks.'"

"It seems like such a waste of food."

Other Editors Say Soviet Diplomacy

(The Shelby Star)

THE CURRENT international situation between the United States and the Soviet Union seems to make waste of the argument that all the Soviets want is to make the United States want is to make the United States lay down its arms. That's been the militant viewpoint of moderates and conservatives on such matters for years. If it is correct, then why is the Soviet Union continuing to thrust and jab, just when it seems likely that detente will work at such things as arms limitations?

Just about every time detente, that skittish largesse of international relations, seems to be coming about, the Soviets jab at the Western Hemisphere with a possible submarine base in Cuba and a visit of a Soviet submarine.

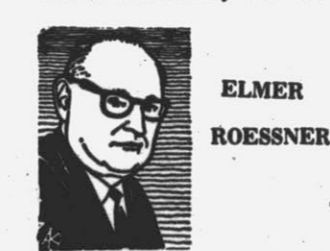

Or the Soviets back the East Germans in clogging the Autobahn. Or the Soviets rattle sabers over Indochina and provide material assistance. Or the Soviets do something that creates what they themselves call "mutual distrust." Plugged into the formula that the Soviet Union is trying to take over the United States by the rear door of diplomacy and treaty, the computer breaks down and rejects the idea as doubtful and unworkable.

It seems to us that if the Soviet Union really had diplomatic victory in mind, it would downplay its bellicosity and use sugar to woo us into a disastrous lull. But the world theater, on which the Soviets and Americans are playing the central roles at center stage, isn't showing that play this time. The loose ends are not being tied up, and they flap in the breeze of doubt and confusion. It is noteworthy that when the Soviet-U.S. relationship began to pull together in face of the Soviet Union's antipathy. Now, the NATO nations, other than the United States, have pledged millions of additional dollars for their defense.

THE QUESTION is why, in the face of all this, the Soviet Union continues to abrogate the very means by which many thought it could defeat the United States, at the diplomatic tables of talk. It may well be that diplomacy isn't working that well for the Soviet Union.

By ELMER ROESSNER

The litany of the evils of inflation is long, and the beads have often been counted in this column. Inflation steals away the true value of savings, insurance, fixed incomes; it increases prices, it shoots up taxes, it burdens the poor, squeezes those on Social Security.

But one evil is often overlooked: it creates enormous labor unrest. It was largely responsible for the General Motors strike, the railroad strike, the postal strike, the New York City taxi strike and hundreds of other strikes.

While some of these strikes, including the railroad and postal strike, were illegal, they were not caused by communist, leftist or anti-government agitation, as perhaps some of the collegiate unrest was, but by the fact that the strikers were getting a smaller share of the nation's goods and services after prices had been inflated far above their wages.

The Strikers' Side

In fact, the strikers have potent arguments on their side. As prices have kept on rising, their families have had fewer comforts, fewer luxuries. Luxuries? They are part of life in America today. Not only are yesterday's luxuries today's necessities, but the nation's prosperity has been sustained by the appetite and capabilities of producing luxuries. Color television, college education, vacations in Hawaii and thousands of other better things in life create millions of jobs and millions of dollars in dividends, too.

The massive, inflation-caused strikes hit everybody. The GM strike hit the corporation perhaps $2 billion hard. But it also hit the Widow Jones who depends on GM dividends for survival and Poppa and Mama Brown who run a corner grocery store in Los Angeles.

Everybody Pays

Even though you may never buy a GM auto, it hit you some way. Somewhere somebody, pinched by the strike, didn't buy the thing you sell or make, or some service you give, or reduced your income or raised a price you pay. (A possible exception may be the New York taxi strike. Since the strike, the air pollution has dropped considerably, traffic jams have been largely eliminated and chances of getting killed crossing a street have been reduced.)

A man whose wages buy a little less each month is certain to demand more pay. If he doesn't get it, he is certain to strike, even if the law says he must not. If the children next door get more than a man's children to eat, wear and play with, he may

Cuba Ended Christmas

MIAMI (UPI)—Christmas in Cuba will probably be a working day this year, like any other Friday.

While no reference has been made to the holiday in Cuban radio broadcasts monitored here, observers of the Cuban scene point out that Premier Fidel Castro virtually abolished Christmas last year.

At that time, the island was struggling to bring in a record sugar harvest of vital importance to the Cuban economy. Castro announced that the holidays would be celebrated in midsummer, after the harvest was over.

He kept his word, and Cubans had a holiday season centered on the July 26 anniversary of Castro's movement.

Churches will probably be open for those who wish to attend Christmas mass, as in the past. But they will have to do so before or after putting a day's work.

Vandalism Said Sharply Down

The surge of vandalism which recently plagued Recreation Department property has taken a sharp decline, according to a statement made by Recreation Director Boyd Lee at Monday's monthly Recreation Commission meeting.

Stating it is his belief that public awareness and watchfulness on the part of concerned citizens has been the primary factor in the remarkable drop of vandalism, Lee expressed his appreciation to all who have been deeply concerned about this problem.

"It has almost stopped until this past weekend," Lee reported. He related one incident over the weekend where someone knocked down a door to the Elm Street Recreation Center and took lights from the nativity scene. "This is the first act of vandalism that has occurred on Recreation property since the seriousness of this activity had been brought to the attention of the public," he commented.

Stating that no other property had been stolen by whoever broke into the Recreation Center, Lee said he feels hopeful

"You could sum it up that way. When we go into a village, we assume everything on legs is working for Hanoi. Sure you make mistakes. But it's still better to err than to let a chicken get away and come to haunt you on another day."

'The Messiah' To Be Offered Thursday Night

The great favorite among all major Christmas works of music, Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah", will be heard this year in Greenville in a concert at Wright Auditorium Thursday night at 8:15 p.m.

"The Messiah" is being sung as the annual Christmas offering of the Greenville Community Chorus, under the overall direction of Dr. Paul Aliapoulos, assistant dean of the School of Music of East Carolina University.

Solists to be featured are: Dr. Charles Moore, tenor; Dr. Clyde Hiss, bass; Ben Ramsaur, bass; Mrs. Dana Joyner, soprano; Miss Amy Thornburg, contralto; Miss Jackie Rouse, soprano; and Miss Cynthia Mendenhall, contralto.

Greenville's Community Chorus is a project which was first begun in 1969 under the joint sponsorship of the Office of Continuing Education and several church choirs of the city. Dr. Aliapoulos agreed to accept the leadership of the group, which presented "The Messiah" in December 1969. A second concert by the Greenville Community Chorus was also presented in the spring of 1970.

Upon organization, the group elected Tom Patterson as president, with Charles Dickens, vice-president, and Mrs. Ann Byrd, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Norman Wilkerson is publicity chairman.

During 1970 the group has received support from the community in the form of financial aid from several business firms. The Greenville Jaycees has also supported the group, and will furnish ushers for the concert this year.

Singers and orchestral members supporting the singers are drawn from the university and townspeople, making the Greenville Chorus one which represents talents from both sources.

There is no admission charge. However, a free will offering will be taken to the door so that anyone desiring may contribute to defray additional expenses.

Raleigh-Durham Airport Halted

RALEIGH (AP) — A bomb threat caused evacuation of the terminal building and a halt to all air traffic into the Raleigh-Durham Airport for an hour Tuesday night.

A hour-long search of the terminal produced no bomb, and the airport was reopened at 10:30 p. m.

Airport Manager Henry Boyd declared a state of emergency early in the evening after a bomb threat call was received by the Piedmont Airlines ticket booth about 4:40 p. m.

"The voice sounded like a child with a masculine voice advising him in the background," Boyd said.

Shortly afterward seven Wake County sheriff's deputies and several agents of the State and Federal Bureaus of Investigation were at the terminal.

All airlines at the terminal immediately searched their areas after being notified of the threat.

At 9:30 p. m. Boyd announced over the loudspeaker in the terminal: "We have an urgent and serious bomb threat and must clear this building at once."

About 75 persons hurriedly left the building.

The last plane to land before the airport was closed was an Eastern Airlines flight from Atlanta. Among the passengers was Jim Gardner, unsuccessful Republican gubernatorial candidate in 1968. Gardner and the other passengers were taken off the plane at a far end of the runway and moved into a parking lot outside the terminal until the building was reopened.

Sen. Edw. Kennedy Says Name Should Be Dropped From Polls

By WALTER R. MEARS and CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writers
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says he has suggested unsuccessfully that his name be dropped from the public opinion polls listing 1972 Democratic presidential prospects, because he isn't interested.

But there is evidence the 38-year-old Massachusetts senator is not at all unhappy that his name is still there—and doing quite well.

For Kennedy clearly has no intention of overdoing his renunciation of national ambitions in 1972.

The reasoning, according to sources familiar with Kennedy's thinking, is this: if he puts himself too far out of the running, the party may pay less attention to what he says about national issues in the next two years.

And he has said in an interview he hopes to help shape the Democratic issues of 1972.

Kennedy says his position is unchanged: he is committed to serve the full six years of the Senate term he won Nov. 3.

But nothing in politics is certain, and no disclaimer of candidacy is irrevocable.

The early political planning of Democrats seeking the nomination leaves room for Kennedy as a possible rival one day.

That day almost certainly could not come until the 1972 convention is in session.

In the interim, the Kennedy game plan seems to involve doing many of the things candidates do, while staying out of the presidential primaries and sticking to his stance as a non-candidate.

The last of the Kennedy brothers plummeted from his early front runner position to that of noncandidate July 18, 1968, when his car went off a bridge on Chappaquiddick Island, killing Mary Jo Kopechne.

In the aftermath, Kennedy said he was considering resigning his Senate seat, then announced he would stay, seek re-election, and serve the full term.

With Kennedy an early dropout, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine quickly soared into the nomination lead. Kennedy now says the Muskie margin may be insurmountable.

But Muskie's closest rival in the public opinion polls remains Kennedy.

A recent poll shows Muskie the favorite of 33 per cent of the rank and file Democrats, with Kennedy ranked two points behind.

Another survey indicates Muskie has the support of 49 per cent of Democrats, Kennedy 45 per cent. When that poll was broadened to include all voters, Muskie's margin rocketed to 54 per cent, against Kennedy's 36.

Kennedy said he was gratified at the support evidenced for him.

"I've made some overtures to have my name off the Gallup and Harris polls," Kennedy said. "A year ago I indicated it would be helpful if they would focus on those interested in 1972."

Interested or disinterested, his name is still there.

And while disclaiming candidacy, Kennedy says he will seek "to help crystallize and focus issues of importance" in the 1972 campaign.

"I hope to be active in this endeavor," Kennedy says, and to have an impact on "the development of what our party should stand for in the 1972 election."

That role is certain to keep Kennedy's name high on the speculation list, no matter what he says about his intentions.

Kennedy said he considers Nixon formidable but beatable in 1972.

The Massachusetts senator said he does not expect to endorse any candidate at the national convention.

Kennedy also says he will make some out-of-town speeches in the months ahead. But "I don't expect to do much of it."

In fact, Kennedy adds, with the ample corps of senators seeking the nomination likely to be on the road, the Senate may be a better forum for him anyhow.

"Perhaps as these fellows move around the country you can be more effective in developing the issues here on the floor," Kennedy says.

He is seeking re-election as the Senate Democratic whip. The threatened challenge of Sen. Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia for the leadership post has led Kennedy to spend more time on routine chores on the Senate floor than ever before.

Also in prospect: An active Kennedy role in Democratic party fund raising.

The national committee assumed the $900,000 debt left by the presidential campaign of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, and Edward Kennedy said he therefore has a special obligation to help in fund raising efforts.

That means travel, speeches, contacts—in short, all the things that candidates do.

On election night, some Democratic victors who had never even met Kennedy got telephone calls of congratulation from him.

That, too, is the kind of thing candidates do.

One thing they don't do is disperse their pools of potential campaign talent; Kennedy says he has.

Of course, reassembling the Kennedy political cadre wouldn't take long.

When Kennedy arrived on the Senate floor one day last week, somebody had scratched the words "Mr. President" on the finish of his front-row desk.

"I don't know who could have put that there," Kennedy said.

Can Attest To Cost Of Bridges

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The state of Kentucky can attest to the cost of building bridges.

It paid $256,519 for construction of a railroad trestle over Interstate 75 near Georgetown.

But, within four years the railroad abandoned its once-a-day freight train and the state then paid another $25,000 to have the bridge removed in the interest of highway safety.

Etiquette In Yule Cards

NEW YORK (UPI)—Christmas cards provide some of the happiest moments of the holiday season. When preparing your Yuletide greetings, don't forget Christmas card etiquette.

The National Association of Greeting Card Publishers offers these tips on the right way to handle the project:

—On cards to close friends and relatives, signatures should be as gaily informal as possible. Only when they are addressed to formal acquaintances or business friends should your full name be used.

—The husband's name always comes first and also, when children's are added, father's name always comes first. A widow or a married woman uses her husband's first name. A divorced woman would use her own first name.

—In sending a card to someone in mourning, be sure to obtain special title greetings with messages of sympathy created for just this purpose.

—Have your return address, with zip code, on the flap of each card envelope. And remember, Christmas seals belong on the reverse side of the envelope, according to the Post Office Department. That's to avoid conflicting with the postage stamp on the face of the envelope.

Program To Be On Radio

The performance of Ernest Bloch's "Sacred Service" by the combined choruses and the East Carolina Symphony Orchestra, given last Sunday afternoon at Wright Auditorium on campus, is to be rebroadcast to the public.

The first scheduled rebroadcast is Wednesday night over WITN-FM at 7:00 p.m. It will also be heard locally on WNCT-FM Thursday at 8:00 p.m.

The performance was under the direction of Robert Hause, conductor of the symphony orchestra. Dr. Paul Aliapoulos sang the major role of the cantor. Other soloists were June F. Laine and Donna Stephenson.

The radio production of the program was taped by ECU Radio Service Division under the direction of James L. Rees. Radio rebroadcasts are expected to be made over a number of stations in North Carolina and Virginia.

Nuclear Boom At Oak Ridge

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (UPI) — The Oak Ridge National Laboratory reports a booming business in its enrichment services program under the Atomic Energy Commission.

Since the enrichment program started at the Oak Ridge Gaseous Diffusion Plant, about 3 million pounds of nuclear fuel has been processed for customers throughout the free world.

YOUNG GROUP WELLINGTON (AP) — Maoris represent only one-twelfth of the New Zealand population, but one in every eighth schoolchildren is a Maori.

Half the Maori population is under 15 years against one-third for the total population. There are now four times as many of these indigenous people in the top classes of secondary schools as there were 10 years ago.

Joint Assembly Slated Friday

A combined assembly, recognition program and memorial program has been announced by Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, Superintendent of Greenville City Schools, for Friday afternoon beginning at 2:15 p.m.

Dr. Cleetwood said the Christmas assembly has been planned to incorporate the three phases into one occasion. He noted that he and Rose High principal Robert Alligood had discussed the joint plans and that this occasion seemed an appropriate one for including the varied activities.

The full membership of the original Citizens Awareness Committee has been invited to attend the assembly which will be called to order at 2:15. Guests are asked to be present by 2:00 p.m. It is expected the full program will be concluded by 3:15 p.m.

In asking the original members of the Citizens Awareness Committee to attend, Dr. Cleetwood said the purpose is to recognize the group for their past service in working with the school.

A memorial tribute is planned to honor the late Dr. Robert Lee Humber. Dr. Humber served with the Citizens Awareness Committee as co-chairman with John Taylor. Dr. Cleetwood commented that the tribute being planned will be a fitting one to honor Dr. Humber for his faithful and able service to the community.

In the traditional manner of Christmas assemblies, Christmas music will be furnished by the choirs, glee clubs and band of Rose High. Induction of members into the "Quill and Scroll" club is also planned for the assembly schedule.

Following the Christmas assembly, students will begin their Christmas holiday vacation.

Direct Jet To St. Louis Set

RALEIGH (AP) — Eastern Airlines will begin a direct jet service between Raleigh-Durham and St. Louis on Jan. 21.

J. W. Goddwin, manager of passenger and cargo sales for Eastern in Raleigh, announced Tuesday that the new flight will leave Raleigh-Durham at 7:55 a.m. EST daily and arrive in St. Louis at 9:30 a.m. CST. The return flight will leave St. Louis at 7:10 p.m. CST and arrive in Raleigh-Durham at 10:25 p.m. EST.

A byproduct of the new flight will be a new 32-minute service to Charlotte every morning at 7:55 a.m.

Rhode Island was the only New England colony in which complete freedom of religion was established by law.

Choir Will Sing Cantata Sunday

On Sunday, at 7:30 p.m. the Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist Church Chancel Choir will present their annual Christmas cantata, entitled "Love Came Down At Christmas."

Marvin C. Buck Jr. will be directing the choir with Tommy Manning of Ayden at the piano and Mrs. Marvin Buck Jr. at the organ; Earl Deal will serve as narrator.

Soloists for the cantata will be Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Stocks, Bryant Hines, and Marvin Buck. The pastor, Rev. Willis Wilson, extends an invitation to the public to attend.

"We need about $150,000 more to Wake East Carolina University's plan for a planetarium a reality," Reynolds May, director of the East Carolina University Foundation, said Tuesday.

"I think we'll have the entire $300,000 that the facility will cost before the end of 1971," he added.

A gift of $100,000 from the American Credit Corporation Foundation for such a project was announced on Eclipse Day, March 7. Sen. Herman Moore, the spokesman for American Credit said the gift would have to be supplemented by other gifts amounting to $200,000. This $100,000 donation is, according to Dr. Leo Jenkins, "the largest gift ever received in the history of this great institution." There was no stipulation as to when the money should be used.

May said about $50,000 beyond the initial donation has been raised. "And I think we have some good prospects for additional donations during the early part of next year," he said.

According to Dr. Floyd Mattheis, chairman of the ECU Science Education Department, who has headed up the project, a 10,000-square-foot complex is planned. The main auditorium will seat some 120 adults and the dome will be 40 feet in diameter.

A rendering of the proposed building drawn up by local architects, Dudley and Shoe, was shown at the time of the announcement. The building itself is expected to cost $190,000 and equipment would cost another $110,000.

No site has been selected, Dr. Mattheis said.

The facility will be used for instruction in astronomy and space sciences for college and junior and senior high school students. Pre-service and in-service courses for teachers at all levels may also be taught there.

ANTI-NOISE

TORONTO (UPI) — The Ontario Department of Transport is looking for ways of cutting down the noise of motor vehicles.

Dr. Ernest Matromatteo, director of the department's environmental health services branch, said traffic was the main cause of excessive noise in metropolitan Toronto, and the public was not aware enough of the dangers of noise pollution.

Lt. Gov. Taylor Wants Job Defined More Clearly

By EDWARD CODY
Associated Press Writer
WADESBORO, N.C. (AP) —
"Hello!"
He shouted into the receiver
the way partially deaf old men used to when wall telephones first arrived down on the farm.
"Yes, sir. How are you?"
The volume dropped. "What can I do for you?"
The answer would determine whether the speaker would be Lt. Gov. H. Pat Taylor Jr. of

North Carolina or Pat Taylor, smalltown lawyer of Wadesboro.
Taylor plays both roles with the same folksy assurance, salting his speech with down-home
"Ah declares" and "ain'ts" but guiding the conversation with a lawbook precision right at home in his sleek office.
But, after two years in the state's second-highest office, Taylor has become convinced the ambivalence is robbing his post of its effectiveness. In an effort to define the job more clearly, he will work for legislation in the 1971 General Assembly to make it fulltime with a substantial salary.

In so doing, he will raise questions that could produce significant change in the way Tar Heels elect their top executives and in what the executives do during their four years in office.
The lieutenant governor's job

has changed in the last decade,
Taylor said in an interview, making the officeholder more prominent politically and putting him closer to the governor-ship.
"It hasn't been changed in the statute books, but it has changed in the mind of the people of North Carolina in what they expect," he said.
According to Taylor, they expect too much.
The lieutenant governor presides over the Senate when it is in session for about seven months every two years, serves ex officio as a member of the state Board of Education and assumes the governor's post if he dies in office.
Under an amendment approved by the voters this fall, he also will undertake undefined assignments from the governor and General Assembly.
"You take these responsibilities and you've pretty well spelled out what the law says I should do," Taylor said.
But the informal duties have accumulated into a rugged schedule where the prospect of campaigning for governor weds duties as the state's second-highest ranking spokesman to make of Taylor virtually a full-time politician.
Into his office flow letters asking political favors: A young man wants to be a highway patrolman. A corporation head believes state tax laws unfairly penalize his company. A boy wants to be a legislative page, and a girl wants to be a pagette. And one young man needs eight good seats to the Peach Bowl football game.
Into his office flow letters
asking for an appearance when
Gov. Bob Scott cannot be there.
("They ask him to go, and when he turns them down the next person they ask is the lieutenant governor.")
Into his office flow letters
asking for a speech: The Rotary Club in Durham needs inspiration — as does the Moore County Democratic rally, the Raleigh urban legislators conference, the New Bern plant dedication.
Turning down the requests would be as simple as dictating an excuse to his state-provided secretary. But representing the state is part of the job. And Taylor concedes he is seriously weighing the race for governor in 1972, when the appearances could become a political savings account.
So the 46-year-old country town lawyer became a man in a hurry, fulfilling a two-page speaking schedule in two months and rolling over the road to Raleigh.
"You add it all up and it's terribly difficult for me to practice law and do this, too," he said.
The practice of law also assumes an added dimension
when the lieutenant governor — and maybe the next governor
— argues before a state court.
"I can sense it," Taylor said.
"While it really doesn't make any difference, a lot of people
— lawyers, litigants and others — think it's strange that the lieutenant governor would be here handling an automobile accident case.
"So why not drop the practice for four years? The answer is as mundane as the grocery bill. The lieutenant governor's salary is $5,000 a year, plus $4-000 a year in expenses and a daily legislative allowance when the assembly is in session.
Raising the salary to the $20-000 range and formalizing the post's fulltime status will be the most immediate goal of the legislation Taylor said he will promote in January.
"I think the governor will join me in this," he said.
The governor's expected support falls in line with Scott's frequent remarks that too much of his time is taken up cutting ribbons, shaking hands and proclaiming special-cause weeks.
"I have observed the governors of North Carolina," Taylor agreed. "They hardly have time to govern. If the president of a major corporation had to attend the ceremonies and functions a governor does, the corporation would be bankrupt
by Christmas."
As a fulltime assistant to the governor, his lieutenant could relieve him of some ceremony and also accept top assignments to guarantee that policy is carried out or to investigate proposed new policy.
"There are many things that need some looking at carefully and closely in order that the governor might formulate policy," Taylor said. "If I were governor today, I could think of a dozen things I would like to put the lieutenant governor to doing."

Pressed for examples, Taylor said he as lieutenant governor would like to work to get the state Board of Health to pay more attention to alcoholics, to win higher pay for teachers and to put school buildings to year-round use.
But changing the role of lieutenant governor, from standby and possible heir apparent to chief assistant, raises the prospect of drastic changes in the relationship between him and the governor.
Taylor said he would ask the legislature, when it considers the proposed legislation making the lieutenant governorship full-time, to weigh also the possibility of electing the governor and lieutenant governor on a single ticket — as are the president and vice president.
He emphasized, however,
that the bill he plans to promote would cover his successor in office, not himself. "Otherwise, they'll accuse me of trying to make myself a job so I can go politicking."
Taylor acknowledged he hasn't completely thought through the consequences of making a team of the governor and his lieutenant governor.
But several possibilities emerged from informal dis-ussion in his law office.

—The death of a governor in office could not open the door to a politically undefined leader. If the lieutenant governor ran with his governor, they would debate the same general program and take similar stands.
—The natural tendency of power holders to build up a staff to help them exercise the power might prompt the lieutenant governor to recruit assistants and ask for a niche in the budget.
"When that happens, I will be the first one down in Raleigh to fight it," Taylor joked. "But it won't do any good."
—The gubernatorial candidate would tend to handpick his partner candidate, as the presidential candidate now chooses his running mate at national party conventions.

The results of this power appear to be an increase in party influence for the governor, Taylor said, but the one-term limit on North Carolina governors would diminish that power.
The alternative to ticket candidacy, he said, would be to make the lieutenant governor a fulltime officer but keep him independent. That raises the spectre of a Republican governor and Democratic lieutenant governor, or of leaders of two factions in the same party taking office with clashing ambitions.

A Sale with a Reason . . . and Not Just an Excuse . . .

IT'S A BITTER PILL TO SWALLOW! But Here's the Low-Down. It nearly breaks our hearts to see our stocks of Quality Merchandise GO ON SALE at the ridiculously low prices you see advertised here! . . . But there's not much we can do about it for we have a serious inventory problem. WE'RE OVERSTOCKED with far too much merchandise for a store our size. We're NOT having financial difficulties—NOT TRYING TO RAISE cash—NOR are we in distress. We simply must dump Surplus Stocks at any cost to adjust our inventory. We have altogether too much of everything with a serious overstocked condition that is not healthy for any business. We're an aggressive firm, maintaining an enviable reputation and selling only the top brand name lines. But—like all well-rated firms there comes a time when mistakes occur and adjustments are in order. That's why profit is not the object of this sale. DUMPING STOCKS—REDUCING INVENTORY and stimulating business is OUR ONLY REASON for this sudden and drastic move. We consider it good business to take our losses now—swallow our pride and admit our mistakes. Nothing wrong in that—is there? That's why we have ripped, cut and slashed prices in every department—why you can save 20%, 30%—yes, even 50%. So—come shed a tear with us while we bury our mistakes and take our losses.

WELCOME HOME

This Christmas, some of the happiest families will be those who have a serviceman back home with them from Vietnam. At a time of year when families traditionally gather together in peace and good will, there's a really heartfelt welcome for the ones who come home from the farthest distance, safe from very real danger.

This year has seen the greatest movement home of men since the United States became involved in Vietnam. Following President Nixon's announcement last year that 150,000 men would be brought home, 50,000 were out by October 1970. Plans are for a further 40,000 to have been withdrawn by the end of the year, and the remaining 60,000 by May 1, 1971.

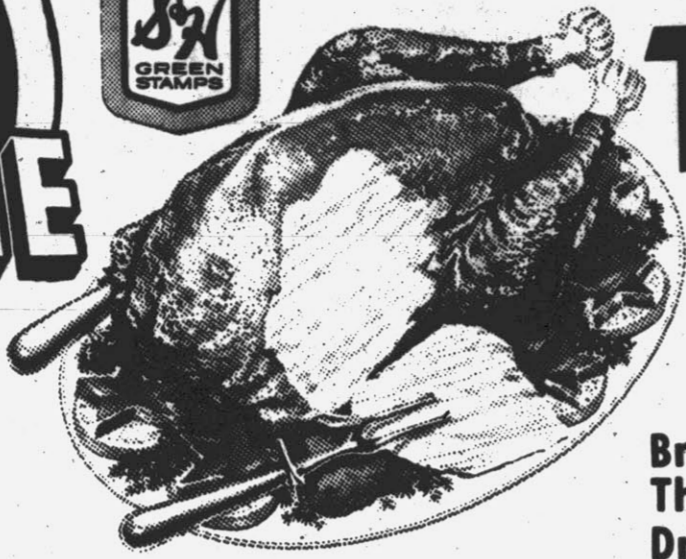

The pictures on this page show some of the warmth and joy of the welcome home, which culminates in the celebration of Christmas—together, once more.

Busy Social Week For The Jenkins

This week has been a busy one in the social calendar of Dr. and Mrs. Leo Jenkins. They have entertained several groups of carolers and hosted receptions and dinners for ECU students. On Tuesday night, the Jenkinses had the ECU football team to dinner. The players, the coaches and their wives, and other guests were served a fried chicken meal. Assisting the hostess were Mrs. Robert Holt, Mrs. Clifton Moore, Mrs. Douglas Jones, Mrs. Sonny Randle, Mrs. Carl Reese, and the Jenkinses' daughters, Patty, Suzanne and Sallie.

The Jenkins home was decorated with festive greenery and other ornaments of the holiday season. On Monday night, Dr. and Mrs. Jenkins held a reception for the 150 ECU students from Alamance County. Punch and party accompaniments were served. A reception for Forsyth County students is scheduled for Wednesday night. About 250 guests are expected to attend.

in proceeds for the club resulted from this match, the most successful one to date. Ullom praised members of the Boys' Club, saying that some of the boys put in extremely long hours of work to help out at the matches. W. B. Glenn, a board member and president of Carolina Tobacco Leaf Company, was thanked for the contribution his employees and company made to the Boys' Club. In a drive for contributions from the company's employees for which the company matched each contribution, a total of $600 was raised for the Boys' Club fund. Ullom presented a brief resume of current and recent activities other than normal club programs. This report included progress in the tutoring program, the nomination of Alfonso Hunter for the January

State Theatre To Close Jan. 4 For Renovations

The theatre will be closed for a period of approximately two months. The theatre will be reopened under a new name, the Park Theatre. The new facility will be automated with new projection equipment, new screen, and will be re-seated with rocking chairs on a continental floor plan. The auditorium will be completely draped from ceiling to floor in fabric designed for acoustical as well as esthetic purposes, according to the theatre manager. The auditorium will be enlarged due to the elimination of the state area and the extension of the new concrete auditorium floor to the rear wall of the building.

The new theatre will contain approximately 300 rocking chairs, widely spaced, in order to provide maximum comfort. The automated equipment to be installed in the projection booth will be the first of its kind in any theatre in North Carolina. The front of the building will have a new face with brick, glass and metal. A changeable letter marquee will be installed. "When all anticipated work is completed in the new Park Theatre, it will be one of the most modern and comfortable theatres in eastern North Carolina," stated Griffin.

Wilson Rolls To 71-56 Win Over Rose

North Pitt High School Panthers

Members of the North Pitt High School basketball team are: first row, left to right, Daniel Highsmith, Tony Coggins, Ronnie Briley, Frank Brown, Donnie

Everett, Mike Burroughs, J. W. Wooten; second row, Russ Andrews, Wayne Brown, William Shiver, Ted Abeyounis, Larry Roberson, and Peter Little.

With Plenty Of Experience, North Pitt Needs Only To Jell

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(One of a series)

BETHEL — It's an all-new experience for the North Pitt Panthers.

For the newly consolidated school, this is the first year playing together for teams that used to be rivals, but the rivalry of the past is dying quickly and the Panthers are fusing into what coach Jim Abrams hopes will be a good team by year's end.

Experience is no problem. There are seven members of the team who were starters on their own teams last season. They include Ronnie Briley, Wayne and Frank Brown, William Shiver, J. W. Wooten, Mike Burroughs and Donnie Everett. So this gives Abrams a lot to choose from. Right now, he's using Briley (5-11) and either Russ Andrews (5-8) or Burroughs (5-7) at the guards, while the forwards are 6-6 Shiver and 5-11 Frank Brown. Wayne Brown, at 6-3, is the center.

"We have pretty good height," Abrams said, "but there are no giants. We're not that strong on the boards either. We have to learn rebounding. We've looked good in streaks, however, and I think we'll come along."

The speed of the Panthers is only average, the coach feels. "Our big boys are actually faster than our guards. So we don't expect to use the fast break much. We're not that strong off the boards yet anyway."

Because of this, the Panthers will be more or less a pattern team, working for the shot. "We are going to try to establish our inside game. I feel like we are a little above average in our shooting, especially inside. Our weakest shooters are our guards. This is what has hurt us so far." North Pitt went into last night's game with a 2-4 overall mark.

On defense, Abrams feels that the team will do better in the man-to-man patterns rather than the zone. "Our defense has come a long way. We're not fouling as much now, but we still don't quite understand what we want to do. In man-to-man, the defense is never any better than the weakest player. We are capable of playing a zone, but I think we'll do better in man-to-man," Abrams said.

On the bench, Abrams said he thought he would be okay, but they haven't jelled as yet. "We're still not working together as we should, but this should come as we work together."

He lists David Highsmith, 6-2, Donnie Everett, 6-0, and J. W. Wooten, 5-11, as his top reserves. "All three have started some time in their career."

"The problem," Abrams said, "is not experience, it's learning to work together as a new team. We have to learn what each other can do and work together."

The coach feels that the Panthers will have a good year before it is over. "We don't play many schools beyond 2- and 1-A from here on out. We have North Lenoir and South Lenoir, but that's about it."

In tournament play this year, North Pitt and Folley will be allowed to play as a 2-A team this season only. Next year, they will be 3-A. They'll play in a district tournament with members of the Albemarle Conference. "We'll find out how we'll do there when we play Williamston in January," Abrams said.

"We couldn't compete in 3-A this year. We're not ready for that play, both mentally and physically. We are making mistakes now that we won't make later in the year, however, and I think we have as good a chance in the district tournament as anyone."

North Lenoir Defeats Rams

WHEAT SWAMP — North Lenoir High School rolled to a 47-36 victory over Greene Central's Rams last night.

The Rams managed to take a 12-10 lead as the buzzer sounded to end the first period, but North Lenoir came rushing back in the second period. They outscored Greene Central, 16-9, and came up with a 26-21 lead at intermission.

In the third period, both teams pushed eight points through the nets, but it still left North Lenoir ahead, 34-29. In the final period,

North Lenoir again outscored Greene Central, 13-7, and walked away with the win.

Willie King led North Lenoir with 14 points, while Sam Sheppard had 10.

For Greene Central, Al Herrington had 14 points and Ron Bowen had 10.

North Lenoir also captured the junior varsity game, 50-34.

Wilson's Fike High School used sharp foul line shooting to pull away from Rose High School in the second half last night and roll to a 71-56 victory over the Rampants.

It was the first loss of the year for the Rose quintet, and spoiled their 1970-71 Division II cage debut.

Wilson went to the line 20 times in the second half, making good on 12 of those, and that helped to make the difference. In the game, Wilson made only one more field goal than the Rampants, but hit on 13 more free throws.

Rose was unable to crack the tough Titan zone defense and had to take the outside shot. They were not hot from there, and that brought about their downfall. Wilson was able to control the boards most of the way, and that kept the Rampants from getting many second chances.

It was nip and tuck throughout most of the first half, although Wilson had the lead most of the way. Rose led but twice, and never by more than points.

Larry Barnes hit from underneath the nets almost at the tap on a quick look-in pass from Dennis Wilkerson off the tip to put Wilson out. They followed with two free throws by Willie Phillips and a jumper by Wilkerson to go out to a 6-0 lead before Clarence Snuggs put Rose on the board with a free throw.

Robert Kear hit on a rebound to cut the lead to third and a drive by Jimmy Hagans sliced it to one, 6-5.

Wilson hit back to a three-point edge, but a jumper by Hagans and another by Carlton Daniels pushed Rose into a 9-8 lead with 49 seconds left in the first period.

Wilson took it back as Barnes connected, but a three-point play by Allen Whichard put Rose into a 12-10 lead with 19 seconds left. Charles Moody hit with seven seconds remaining, however, and it was deadlocked at 12-12 at the break.

Wilson went back out on a jumper by Barnes as the second quarter opened. Rose tied it as Daniels hit again, but Wilson regained the lead on another Barnes bucket at 16-14. Wilkerson followed with a driving layup, and the lead went out to four. A minute later, Moody made good on a three-point play and ran the lead out to seven. He stole the ball before it reached mid court and put that in for a nine-point edge, 25-16 with 3:35 left in the half.

Rose came back, however, and closely cut away the lead. Two free throws by Kear cut it to five and Lonnie Payton hit on a rebound for two. Kear hit again, and the Rampants had cut it to 28-27 with 1:19 showing. Wilson went back out by four again on free throws, but a basket by Kear and another by Tommy Williams tied it up at 31-31 with 16 seconds left and it stayed there at the half.

Wilson came back out hot, however, and proceeded to whip out the Rampants. Robert Wilson hit on a pair of free throws to make it 33-31, and the Rampants never caught up again. Barnes hit on two field goals, and Isaac Evans hit on a turnaround jumper to run the lead out to six. Wilkerson hit on the fast break, and a minute later, Willie Phillips drove in to run the lead out to 40, 45-35 with 2:27 left in the period.

Rose cut it back to seven at 48-41, but trailed, 50-41 by the end of the frame.

Throughout the final period, Rose failed to make headway, and Wilson slowly pulled away. They built up as much as a 16-point edge just before the end. Barnes led Wilson with 24 points, while Wilkerson had 17. For Rose, Kear had 20 and Payton had 13.

In the junior varsity preliminary, Rose held off a late Wilson challenge for a 72-67 victory.

After the lead changed hands several times early in the first period, Wilson shot out to an eight-point lead with 39 seconds to go, 14-6. But Rose fought back and cut the lead to four by the end of the period, 15-11.

In the second frame, they erased the rest of the deficit and went into a 17-15 lead on a fast break basket by George Price. Rose then moved out by its own eight-point buge, but Wilson came back and cut it to four, then, trailed, 32-27 at halftime.

In the third period, Rose threatened to turn it into a runaway, running out to a 13-point edge at 44-31. But Wilson rallied behind its free throw shooting and cut the lead back to four points, 44-40 before Rose pulled out again for a 50-44 lead at the end of the period.

Early in the final frame, Rose built up a 16-point spread, 62-46, but failed to hold it. Wilson scrambled back, using the scoring of Ronald Barnes and cut the lead to as little as three

South Ayden Gets 1st Win

AYDEN — The South Ayden Eagles snapped their winless streak last night by taking a 71-63 victory over Carver of Pinetops.

It was the first win in five starts for the Eagles. South Ayden slipped out into a 14-12 lead in the first period, but Carver came up with a rally in the second period. They outscored South Ayden, 21-15, and moved out into a 33-29 lead at the half.

In the third period, South Ayden trailing by one, 47-46, as the final period opened. The Eagles then pushed through 25 points while holding Carver to 16 in the final period to take their initial win.

Samuel Holton led South Ayden with 17 points, while John Ormond and Joe Burney each had 16. Ben Mabrey added 12. James Johnson led Carver with 20, while Bill Lancaster had 18 and Bobby Jenkins had 17.

Ormond led the way on the boards with 29 big rebounds. South Ayden slipped to a 69-67 victory over Carver in the junior varsity contest.

Futbol Americano Goes Big Time

By CHARLES GREEN
MEXICO CITY (AP) — Don't laugh. It might not be as famous as the Rose Bowl but the stadium is there waiting with 118,000 seats and the promoters know what happened last Saturday.

The occasion will be the annual Aztec Bowl this Saturday at Mexico City's Aztec Stadium between the Mexican University All Stars and Mesabi State Junior College of Minnesota. Kick-off time is 5 p.m., EST.

That Mexico still has a bowl game—and that it is being played in such a huge stadium for the first time—indicates just how big a jump futbol Americano has taken in this country in the past four years.

Mexicans, the book says, are crazy about soccer football. This was where the World Cup of soccer was held last June, where cheering, screaming, hysterical fans jammed Aztec stadium of the game between Italy and Brazil which determined the king of world soccer.

That game on June 21 was the last time Aztec Stadium has been full. Until this past Saturday.

On that day the University of Mexico met Polytechnic University to determine the Mexican champions. The house was full—people fought outside to get standing room only tickets.

And the game was American football.

The attendance, of course, caught the eye of several Mexican newspapers and led one columnist to again attack the organizers of soccer football in Mexico. He pointed out that an important First Division soccer game was being played on the same day at the Olympic Stadium and less than 30,000 people showed up.

This proves, he said, that what Mexicans like is a spectacle—a sport with action, a port where there is drama. And, he said, the kind of soccer being played in Mexico's First Division now has neither.

American football has been played here in organized leagues for more than 20 years but it has not been until the past four years that it has attained a widespread popularity. This is due, in large measure, to a Mexican television executive and an American advertising man who both love U.S. football.

They arranged to bring into Mexico City, live coverage of a few games of the Dallas Cowboys in 1967. Advertising response and audience interest were so high that they expanded their plans and that first season Mexicans got to see a total of 22 pro games, including the playoffs and the Super Bowl.

High Scorers Boost Output

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
Johnny Neumann of Mississippi has stamped himself as a likely contender for the 1971 college basketball individual scoring championship along with Austin Carr of Notre Dame and Artis Gilmore of Jacksonville.

Neumann, a 6-foot-6 sophomore, scored 57 points, the highest individual single game performance of the young season, in leading the Rebels to a 109-100 victory over Southern Mississippi Tuesday night.

Carr, a 6-3 senior, tossed in 54 points in a losing cause as the Irish fell before Indiana 106-103. Gilmore, a 7-2 giant, didn't play, but his 50 points against Biscayne on Dec. 1 ranked as the highest one game output until Neumann and Carr broke loose.

Neumann got his 57 points on 20 field goals and 17-of-18 free throws. Carr threw in 21 field goals and 12-of-14 free throws for his 54.

A turnout of 11,343 at South Bend watched the nationally seventh-ranked Irish fall before the 13th-ranked Hoosiers led by the combined 58-point production of Joby Wright and George McGinnis.

McGinnis and Wright, both 6-7, scored 29 points each as the Hoosiers, down by 10 points at halftime, 53-43, rallied to go ahead by nine points, then survived a closing Notre Dame surge.

North Carolina, No. 20 and the only other team in The Associated Press Top Twenty to see action, snapped Virginia's six-game winning streak, 80-75. Dennis Wuycik led the Tar Heels with 30 points.

Ed Ratleff scored 33 points to lead Long Beach State over Chicago Loyola 84-81 in overtime and Tom Window's layup in the closing seconds gave Kent State a 64-62 triumph over Purdue.

Craig Love's 12-foot jumper with six seconds left accounted for Ohio University's 81-80 victory over Wisconsin. Russell Lee's 39 points led Marshall over Morehead 73-70.

Carolina Slips By Strong Cavs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Surprising Virginia, winner of six straight basketball games, has been beaten but not disgraced by 20th-ranked North Carolina.

The Cavaliers even had visions of winning the Atlantic Coast Conference game when they led by five points with four minutes and 20 seconds left to play Tuesday night at Chapel Hill. But the Tar Heels scored 10 straight points and won 80-75.

The rally included a three-point play by Dennis Wuycik, who led all scorers with 30 points and also had a game-high 11 rebounds. North Carolina is undefeated in four games.

Forward Bill Gerry scored 24 points for Virginia.

In the other game of the night involving an ACC team, Duke defeated independent Virginia Tech 104-75.

Randy Denton scored 27 points and Jeff Dawson 21 for the winning home club. Allan Bristow hit 27 points for Virginia Tech.

Duke is now 3-2 and Virginia Tech is 2-3.

Another undefeated team, Maryland, may fall at second-ranked South Carolina, tonight's only game involving ACC teams.

Maryland's leading scorer, Jim O'Brien, has been hospitalized for observation of an internal disorder and is not scheduled to play.

The 6-foot-7 sophomore guard has been averaging 22.8 points for the Terps, who have jumped off to four victories. He will be replaced by Bob Bodell, 6-4 sophomore.

That is not the only trouble for Maryland, Sparky Still, the team's No. 2 scorer and leading rebounder, still has recurring ankle problems. The 6-7 junior center may be spelled by sophomore Darrell Brown, who is an inch shorter.

Davidson Wins Second Contest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Regardless of the preseason forecasts on the Southern Conference basketball race, Davidson's three-time champion Wildcats just keep on winning and winning.

The Wildcats, who were picked by many observers to lose their grip on the conference this season, took over the league lead Tuesday night with a 67-54 victory over Richmond's Spiders. Davidson now stands 2-0 in league play to The Citadel's 1-0 record.

It was the 34th consecutive triumph by the Wildcats over a conference opponent and their 56th in succession on their home court, where they haven't lost since February 1962.

Although the scrappy Spiders kept it close for quite a while, they never led after Davidson went in front at 19-17 with a little less than eight minutes left in the first half. And Richmond didn't help its own cause with 25 turnovers to just 15 for the Wildcats.

Sophomore Joe Sutter scored 24 points and senior Steve Kirley added 12 as Davidson ran its over-all record to 3-0.

The Spiders, who were making their their conference debut, fell to 1-5 over-all as three sophomores led the scoring — Mike Anastasio with 13 points and Roger Hatcher and Ray Amann with 11 each.

It was the only game scheduled Tuesday night for conference teams, and just one encounter is on tap tonight. East Carolina's Pirates, 3-2 over-all, go to St. Francis, Pa., for a nonleague tussle.

Kunstler-Buckley Debate Failed Convince Either

By EDMUND PINTO
Associated Press Writer
ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — It was a debate on the American judicial system, but it meandered through history, from Jesus to Socrates, and to a stop-over at the American Revolution before it reached today.

"Jesus declared," said William Kunstler, "I come not with peace but a sword. I come to set father against son and mother against daughter" and those same words, were he to say them over this microphone and have one penny worth of damage to follow would subject him to indictment under the federal anti-riot statute used in Chicago."

"If Mr. Kunstler is saying," said William Buckley, "if you can't persuade existing mechanisms of justice to attend to my serious grievances then I will take power in my own hands, then this is an invitation to authority to put him in jail ..."

Kunstler, defense attorney for the Chicago Seven, cited for contempt for his fiery antics in the court, and William Buckley, the articulate conservative spokesman and columnist, crossed verbal swords in a recent debate at the University of Rochester.

It ended as it had begun, with both separated by a philosophical gulf wider than the span of history they used to emphasize their arguments.

Kunstler, again relying on Jesus, "He said, 'think not I have come to destroy the law but to fulfill it.'—And I would like to take the thought that Jesus was expressing, that his idea was not merely to destroy a system, but to make the system do what it was meant to do and was not doing."

"I have not yet reached the state that I would say the system has to be destroyed ... The question is ... can the American judicial system create any aspect of justice for all its citizens. The answer is no. It has not and perhaps it cannot." Kunstler said equal justice before the law is one of the most profound myths of American life and he charged that justice is blind to the nation's many problems.

"It isn't that the whole system is at fault," Kunstler said. "I would guess that any white, middle class person with sufficient bankroll can probably get an approximation of justice."

"But all you have to do is change the character of the defendant. Make him or her a Black Panther or Weatherman, and a whole new pattern emerges. That's what we saw in Chicago," where he said government had determined to convict men who represented a cross-section of the American left.

America is seeing, said Kunstler, "the beginning of the use of the court system as an instrument of political oppression."

He proposed changes for the court system, including permitting a defendant the right to disqualify judges, the use of young people as volunteer jurors and giving a defendant access to all the assets of the state he needs to prepare a defense.

Taking up the call for reform, Buckley said the first reform he would make would be to disbar Kunstler. "We have to disbar him or repeal the code of ethics for lawyers in this state," he said.

"Mr. Kunstler is not prepared to take the total abrogation of lawlessness which is required."

In his opening statement, Buckley claimed the judicial process in the country was moving towards a standstill.

"This would please Mr. Kunstler enormously," he said, "because his definition of justice is acquittal of everybody who believes in the same politics he believes in."

Buckley argued that recent Supreme Court decisions had made it difficult for the judicial system to operate as it should.

"What has happened during the past 10 to 15 years is that there has been a systematic elaboration of rights which a series of jurists—the majority of the Supreme Court—have found to reside latently in the language of the Bill of Rights.

"Nine years ago they discovered the principle ... in which it is held that the evidence that points to the guilt of a particular defendant cannot be used in a trial if it is seized without a search warrant."

"Or we have ... a conviction overturned because a particular defendant did not have access to a lawyer at the moment when he desired access to a lawyer."

The Supreme Court also ruled, Buckley commented, "that somebody held for questioning may not waive his rights to refuse to answer questions or to have the advice of a lawyer unless he waived that right intelligently."

"It is generally conceded that no lawyer worth his salt would permit anybody being questioned to say anything if there is any possibility of his guilt," he said.

Kunstler replied to Buckley's Supreme Court allegations by saying the rights Buckley claimed were discovered only lately have been there all along.

"This was the right I thought the colonials were pretty much upset about. One of their main contentions was that British troops were breaking into homes in Boston, so they wrote the Fourth Amendment that said ... no search and seizure without a warrant," he said.

Kunstler used other historical analogies to argue his case that the American judicial system is not unique in allowing itself to be used for political purposes.

Socrates: His crime was "essentially very similar to that which the Chicago defendants faced—he was poisoning the minds of the Athenian youth.

Two centuries and 200 years later Abbie Hoffman was accused of poisoning the minds of demonstrators ... and causing them to run berserk through the streets of Chicago.

Anne Boleyn: "Henry VIII needed a conviction for adultery in order to accomplish a political and emotional and erotic end, and he got it from his lawyers and judges."

The Third Reich: "Without attempting an exact analogy, because I don't think it's present yet, the Third Reich utilized its tribunals in much the same fashion we utilize ours in certain cases."

And so, Kunstler said, the Chicago defendants were in court not because of crime, but because of politics.

The American political and judicial systems are "one in the same at certain times ... The end result of a system that uses its courts for political ends is a system which loses its essential freedom ... and in its place comes something which is often too horrible to contemplate."

In defense of American courts, Buckley said that if the country is facing rebellious, rather than isolated acts, "then what happens is that you trigger counter-revolutionary powers. The point about revolutions is that you must be awfully sure to win a revolution, because revolutionaries who don't win are strung up. They shouldn't be strung up but they are."

"The answer to this rhetoric, whereby people strut around with revolutionary posturings and yet expecting the courts and policemen and all institutions of society to protect their rights, indeed assert their rights, is the grand paradox.

"The kind of revolutionists that I read about and lionize are the kind ... that don't ask any rights for themselves. They are at war with the society and they acknowledge they are at war, and whoever has the power is going to win that war."

Kunstler said his concern with the American judicial process is the "systematic injustice ... whether the jury system in the deep south, sanctification of lynch law by courts or a Judge Julius Hoffman in Chicago."

Thus, he said, changes must be made in the system ... Violence, he said, is the last resort until all other reasonable means have been tried.

"Things happen only because the system is afraid and worried about a restless population. Thus his eminence in the White House only consented to come to a Lincoln Memorial ... at 4:30 a.m. after Cambodia and Kent State because he was scared and because he was frightened ... you were going to burn the universities of America and start a revolution."

"Something is terribly wrong ... some values terribly misplaced when you watch your brothers and sisters ... given criminal records for smoking an absolutely harmless weed that brings nothing but joy to many people."

"There is something wrong in this society that everybody is judged by whether he has a dollar in the bank or not. And I think something ... must be said. That if there isn't change ... then let's scrap the whole thing and start all over again."

For Buckley, the solution to problems in American society and the judicial system is to persuade people to come along with me or else I'm going to abide by the decisions that are arrived at by due process.

"I might protest them. I might say the people are stupid, arrogant or dumb, but I am saying that the people have made certain decisions—and I would rather the people made them."

"Are we going to change it by each one of us assuming total revolutionary dominion over any institution one has intercourse with," he said, "or are we going to agree that the wisdom of the ages suggests that such progress that is truly made is made with the consent of the people, is made, with the consent even of the rights of the dissenters, which rights I am here to confirm."

Bird-Scaring Is Valley's Custom

By DAVID STUART-FOX
MAMASA, Sulawesi, Indonesia (UPI) — It is the time of ripening rice and sparrows. A storm is blowing up, moving down the valley between the great hills surrounding Mamasa in the mountains of South Sulawesi.

With the wind blowing, the valley gives off a whirling, a droning, a humming, like the warning of a busy hive. All the weird sounds are part of the ingenious sparrow scaring networks set out in the rice paddies.

These systems creep out from the innumerable little guard shacks that dot the yellow paddies. The shacks are the homes from dawn to dusk of the bird-scarers. Rattan cables lead out to a score of little bamboo devices.

The bird-scarer pulls on the rope, several ropes very often, and the devices scattered over the fields sound their clacks, bangs and claps. The ropes control sounders 100 yards away and more, so one watcher can scare a good-sized area.

One of these devices, called rembasan in the Mamasa area, consists of one horizontal bamboo pole banging against another fixed into the ground. They are tied together so that a pull sets the free pole swinging and banging. Another device consists of a bamboo pole split at one end. When the watcher lets loose the taut cable, the two split sections clap together.

Several other devices are worked by the wind. There are the whirling galunteba, little bamboo windmills that whirl with a ferocious drone.

Then there is the payo-payo, much like pieces of glass hanging from the eaves of verandahs to tinkle in the breeze. But the payo-payo has a much sharper sound suitable for birdscaring. It is made of short lengths of a thick grass, arranged in a schematic human shape.

At the bottom and on both sides of the payo-payo are groups of sounders that click among themselves or clack against the body.

And just to make sure, there are pieces of colored plastic fluttering from poles and an assortment of scarecrows.

There are even butts of palm fronds, but only a very timid sparrow would be scared by a palm frond.

Archeologists Dig 12 Years

TOENDER, Denmark (UPI) —Archaeological finds are still being made at a 12-year-old digging site, uncovering a Germanic township dating from 400 to 500 A.D.

Over the last 12 years, diggers have found 50 to 60 long houses, 150 cinder mines for extracting iron, about 25 mine houses which served as workers' huts, and 32 wooden wells.

More than 94 per cent of the U.S. population lives in areas where sale of distilled spirits is legal.

Big Season For Litter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Santa Claus is not a litterbug but the estimated 400 million pounds of wrapping paper, boxes, ribbons and tags adorning the gifts he delivers are potential litter, reports Keep America Beautiful.

When added to the near 50 million trees and countless wreaths and other decorations this litter potential is greater than at any other time of the year, KAB said.

Allen H. Seed Jr., executive vice president of KAB, said most people properly dispose of their Christmas glitter, but there are enough careless ones to add clutter to the otherwise decorative season.

He said litterbugs over the Christmas weekend will dump enough litter on streets, highways and countryside to fill Santa's bag 3 million times.

The most youthful population of any state—median age 24.3—lives in Hawaii.

Worry Clinic The Lazy Alibi For Runaways

Lola is one of 500,000 teen-age runaways every year in the U.S.A. She claims it is due to the "generation gap," but that's a lazy alibi! Runaways are intentionally taught to do so by failure to apply the simple parent-child psychology outlined below. Happy family life is a "game" and there are definite rules for playing that game!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M.D.

CASE P-513: Lola B., aged 14, ran away from home.

Police located her on the beach at Ft. Lauderdale, Florida.

"Dr. Crane," her Guidance Director at high school explained, "Lola comes from a 2-year family in a suburban neighborhood where the houses sell for $50,000 and upward."

"Her father is a successful business executive.

"Her mother belongs to the Women's Club.

"They are active members of the Country Club.

"Yet Lola says she doesn't get along with her mother. And she complains that her father doesn't understand her.

"They veto many of the things she wants and opposed some of her friends.

"Lola says she ran away because of the 'generation gap' so how can we combat such tragedies?"

An estimated 500,000 teenagers run away every year right here in luxurious America!

Girls are in the majority among these 500,000.

That "generation gap" is a merely convenient excuse to cover up some of these basic causes:

(1) Lack of normal family camaraderie.

Such parents and children don't have enough cooperative experiences, both of a recreational as well as workaday sort.

The youngsters are "farmed out" to maids and summer camps, Youth Directors of the Scouts, YMCA, and similar good organizations, but there is too little all-family vacationing, visits to ball games, family picnics, etc.

(2) Children aren't taught that "chores" are part of the parent-child game.

So such youngsters dabble at life, maybe baking a cake for show-off purposes, but failing to wash the pots and pans afterwards!

Such children enjoy too many luxuries, with little comprehension of the cost thereof in many hours of toil, sweat and even tears.

Runaways have figuratively grown up, expecting to lick the frosting off the cake without paying for the ingredients thereof.

(3) The "Compliment Club"

North was obliged to give his partner a preference at the six level with a void in both of South's suits.

South's holding qualifies as a game in hand according to anyone's method and the proper bid is two hearts.

North responded with two spades and South showed his club suit next. North reciprocated by bidding three diamonds.

When South rebid clubs at the four level, North countered with four diamonds. The obvious misfit now revealed should perhaps have slowed down the tempo, but South was determined to reach a slam and he proceeded without further ado to six clubs. North had no true preference for either of his partner's suits and he passed, the not without misgivings.

West was fully aware that South was extremely short in spades and diamonds. Fearing that his trick might get away from him if not taken while the opportunity presented itself, West attempted to cash the ace of diamonds. This proved to be a most unfortunate choice.

South ruffed in his hand and proceeded to draw trump in four rounds, discarding spades and diamonds from dummy. West followed to the first three clubs, but then he was obliged to make a sluff. He selected the seven of spades.

Declarer tested the hearts next by cashing the ace and king. When East's queen fell on the second round, South realized that he had a chance to endplay West provided he could determine the latter's exact distribution. A spade was led to the ace on which West followed with the jack. Next came the king of diamonds on which South discarded a heart and West played the eight of diamonds. Declarer now decided to come off dummy with a diamond, ruffing with his last trump. When West followed suit, the stage was set.

South was down to the ♠J-6 of hearts, while West held the 10-7-4. Declarer exited with the six, putting West on lead; however, the latter was now obliged to surrender the last two tricks to his opponent. South's only loser on the deal was the seven of hearts.

Buffalo Herds Raising Havoc

BIG DELTA, Alaska (UPI)—Buffalo herds are raising havoc with farmers near Delta Junction, 50 miles south of Fairbanks.

Buffalo transplanted in this area several years ago have been raising a new barley farm developed by Jim Harding and Ed Merdes of Fairbanks.

This is Alaska's first truly large farm and is being watched carefully for its influence on the future Alaskan agriculture.

But Harding and Merdes say if the buffalo are not stopped the enterprise will not be worth the effort.

Sees Solution To Traffic Jams

NEW YORK (AP)—Elevated pedestrian walkways and grade-separated, one-way street systems will eliminate traffic jams in the cities of the future, according to J. Edward Martin, partner in the architectural and planning firm of A. C. Martin and Associates.

Purpose of the elevated walkways is to separate people from cars. The one-way, grade-separated streets system, serving four-to six-block superblock areas, will keep traffic moving 100 percent of the time.

Black Grads Are Raising Questions

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI)— What is the alert black college graduate looking for in an employer these days?

First, he usually wants to know how many blacks a company already employs. Second, he wants to know if blacks are promoted once they are hired.

When a recruiter shows up on campus and students ask how many blacks are employed in his company and he says he doesn't know or is vague, they are wary.

They assume the company lacks concern for its existing black employees and would be equally indifferent to them.

Information from Workshop
This information was gleaned at a workshop here attended by placement directors from eight black colleges, with a total enrollment of 25,000 students. The sponsor was an insurance company, Aetna Life & Casualty.

Some of the placement directors said blacks have a hard time being promoted to middle and upper management levels.

Black students, the directors said, need to identify with someone in a company who is black and has a job. "But, there just aren't enough blacks in company positions students can identify with," says Reagin Brown of Hampton Institute.

Prospective graduates are also interested in the impressions of alumni who are employed by a company. George Watts of Norfolk State College said, "Having alumni tell graduating seniors about a company is often the best form of recruiting."

Each Campus Different
Sam Hall of Howard University said, "There is no substitute for a student being able to identify with someone he knows at a company."

The directors also said each black campus is different and the makeup of the student bodies varies.

Tuna Mercury-Poisoning Said Not Health Hazard

By G. C. THELEN Jr.
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration says Americans can keep on eating canned tuna although excess mercury has been found in more than one of every five cans sampled.

Should housewives continue to buy all the canned tuna they want and feed it to their families?

"Absolutely," said FDA Commissioner Charles C. Edwards. "This is not a health hazard."

Edwards' advice to consumers came as he disclosed government test results showing 23 per cent of canned tuna tested so far contained poisonous mercury higher than the FDA limit of 0.5 parts per million. The most found was 1.12, or twice the government limit.

Industry is now recalling 921,600 cans with excess mercury after a check of 139 tuna lots.

FDA officials believe virtually every major tuna brand will be involved in recalls as soon as sampling is expanded during the next 30 days to include all 30,000 lots packed in 1970 for American consumption.

Edwards said the 0.5 guideline is extremely cautious and "offers a substantial margin for safety."

"I want to re-emphasize the point that given present levels of tuna consumption in this country, the relatively low levels of excess mercury content found to date, and the fact that even this excess is being removed, we are confident that the American consumer is now and will remain safe from risks of mercury poisoning," he said.

Dr. Albert C. Colby Jr., deputy director of the FDA's bureau of foods, said a person would have to eat two cans of tainted tuna a day for a year before he would be poisoned.

Mercury taken into the body can cause blindness, insanity or death.

Japan is the only country where mercury poisoning from fish consumption has been reported. The Japanese eat more fish than Americans and the mercury level causing harm was 10 to 80 times the U.S. limit.

Edwards said.

The tuna findings are the first major confirmed ones involving mercury contamination of ocean fish. High mercury levels have been reported previously in fresh water fish exposed to industrial mercury discharges.

The source of the ocean mercury is unknown. But government scientists say it is probably natural deposits of the metal on the ocean floor that work their way into the aquatic food chain.

Edwards said the tuna industry will monitor all future packs for excess mercury. Any imported tuna containing more than the 0.5 limit will be seized, he said.

No Injuries Result In Three Accidents

Property damage but no injuries resulted from three traffic mishaps investigated Monday by the Greenville Police Department.

The heaviest damage occurred from a 5:02 p.m. accident near the intersection of 14th Street and Washington Street involving a car driven by Margaret Doughtie Mobley of Rt. 3, Greenville and a street sweeper owned by the city.

According to investigators, the collision resulted an estimated $600 in damages to the automobile and no damages to the sweeper, driven by Carl Bass of Rt. 3, Greenville.

Police, who reported no injuries as a result of the wreck, preferred no charges following investigation.

A wreck at 8 a.m. at the Green-Dudley Street intersection resulted in an estimated $250 in total damages and the driver of one of the vehicles involved charged with a traffic violation.

Police reported that the collision involved cars driven by Norman Allen Jones of 307 Church Street and Lovella Spell Howard of Rt. 1, Bethel. Damage was estimated at $200 to the Jones car and $50 to the Howard vehicle.

No injuries were reported and officers charged Lovella Howard with making an improper turn.

A 9:55 a.m. wreck on Dickinson Avenue near the N. Greene Street intersection left both drivers charged with violations and damages to the vehicles involved.

Officers said that the accident involved cars driven by Linda Ann Stox of 504 Colonial Avenue, Ayrden, and Evelyn Mills Gurkins of 2107 Montclair Drive, Greenville.

Damages were set at $200 to the Stox car and $10 to the Gurkins vehicle. Linda Stox was charged with improper overtaking by failing to reduce her speed and Evelyn Gurkins received a citation for failing to keep a proper lookout while backing. No injuries were reported.

DURABLE TREE

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI) — A navel orange tree planted here in 1870 and which started the Southern California navel orange industry still stands at the corner of Magnolia and Arlington.

BACKYARD WASHED AWAY— Mrs. Douglass points to large boulders which were piled along bank of a Los Angeles flood-control channel which runs only 30 feet from the Douglasses' breakfast room. A steady, thunderlic roar of leaping water ran down that channel recently, eating away at the Douglass backyard. The boulders were piled up to help prevent further loss of soil. (AP Wirephoto)

First Wright Flight Only 67 Years Ago This Week

By H. G. JONES, Director
N. C. Dept. of Archives and History
Written For the AP
RALEIGH (AP) — With jet travel commonplace and the development of the "supersonic transport" hinging only on determination of its desirability, it is easy to forget that man's first powered flight in a heavier-than-air vehicle occurred only 67 years ago this week.
And, of course, it happened in North Carolina.

The Wright brothers — Wilbur and Orville — of Dayton, Ohio, were in the business of manufacturing, selling, and repairing bicycles when their long-shared interest in mechanical devices led them to experiment in heavier-than-air flight.
They were inspired by the gliding experiments in Germany of Otto Lilienthal who was considered "the father of gliding" and was the first to explain scientifically why curved surfaces in a flying machine are superior to flat surfaces.

After conducting experiments in 1899 with their first "model," a small, unmanned glider, they turned their attention to building a controllable craft large enough to carry a pilot.
Their search for a place with fairly strong and constant winds in which to test it led the brothers in 1900 to Kitty Hawk, N.C.
Experiments on the Outer Banks during that year caused them to doubt that existing tables of air pressure on curved surfaces were correct. Back in Ohio, further experimentation in wing design and tests of models in their homemade wind tunnel marked a turning point in man's effort to fly.

They compiled new tables of figures from which the world's first successful airplane was to be built.
Having glided more than 600 feet over the shifting sands of Kill Devil Hills in 1902, the

Wright brothers were confident they could then build an operating powered machine. In September of the following year they returned to North Carolina with "The Flyer," a craft similar to earlier gliders, but with a wingspan of more than 40 feet, a 12-horsepower engine weighing 200 pounds, and the first two "predictable performance" propellers ever built.
Following several delays, the first attempt at powered flight was made Dec. 14, 1903. Wilbur

Wright won the toss of a coin for the "first whack" at piloting their historic machine, but didn't succeed in the flight. As the plane gained speed on its wooden monorail, he turned it upward too suddenly and stalled the engine. Several parts were broken, and two days were required for their repair.
On the morning of Dec. 17, 1903, Orville Wright took his turn at the controls and aimed the craft down a 60-foot wooden track, directly into a 27-mile-an-hour wind. The feeble engine — by today's standards — had pulled the plane 40 feet down the track when it lifted about 10 feet above the ground, remained airborne for 12 seconds, and then landed 120 feet from the takeoff point. Brief as it was and without any crowd to approve in the desolation of the North Carolina Outer Banks, a spectacular event without precedent had occurred.

Later that day the brothers alternated in making three more flights, each longer than the previous. The longest was only 852 feet and lasted 59 seconds. Following the fourth flight, a gust of wind struck

"The Flyer," rolled it over, and damaged it badly. The original plane, which never flew again, is on display in the National Air Museum of the Smithsonian Institution.
A visitor center features full-scale models of the 1902 glider and the 1903 flying machine.
