

Cutting Leaf Crop Costs Is Challenge

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

The big challenge for tobacco farmers in the years ahead is to find new ways to cut production costs — in fertilizer, material, equipment, and labor in order to get higher yield with lower production costs.

That was the message brought to Pitt County tobacco growers by S. N. Hawks, Extension Agronomist Specialist (in tobacco) from N. C. State University, Raleigh.

Hawks last night spoke to a gathering of tobacco growers at their annual meeting held in the Pitt County Courthouse. He emphasized the importance of over-all savings from the accumulated effect of small savings in all areas of production costs, rather than an attempt to make drastic changes in one particular phase.

A stern warning was sounded by Hawks on the use of pesticides to control horn worms and other tobacco insects. "Germany especially, but other countries too, are very critical about the insecticides found in our tobacco. We're in for trouble unless we get straightened up now," Hawks stressed that no pesticide should be used unless there were enough insects to truly justify its use. "Even then, be sure the material used is approved for tobacco use, and that only the suggested rate is used."

Four new varieties of tobacco were introduced and described. These are to be available for the coming year. The four are: Coker 411, Georgia 1469, McNair 135 and Speight 41. Hawks compared the four new varieties with several other varieties which are now commonly grown.

New developments in several phases of tobacco production were discussed. One is a material, aqua humas, which is put into transplant water at the time of planting tobacco. It was pointed out that benefits to be gained from use of this material are not yet fully established. "In some locations the use of aqua humas seems to make no difference in yield, in other locations, it seems to work quite good," Hawks commented.

A newly developed fertilizer, a 12-6-6 type, holds great promise. It was noted that 67 pounds of this type fertilizer will do as well as 200 pounds of some of the conventional fertilizer used. Since it is a lower cost fertilizer, Hawks pointed out, it holds great possibilities of creating a substantial savings. "You get the nutrients you need at the lowest cost," he told the farmers.

Another warning was sounded when Hawks told farmers they might be in trouble if they used broiler house manure on tobacco land. "It is not certain whether tobacco wilt is associated with disinfectant or medication used in chicken feed," he explained in advising against use of this type of fertilizer. "Experts are undertaking studies to determine the causes."

The use of liqued fertilizers were said by Hawks to yield less than regular fertilizers, at the same time being more expensive.

Early topping is another step recommended to the farmers as one in getting greater yields and at the same time cutting down on labor time and costs. Hawks noted that tobacco flowers should be broken off when in the button stage, rather than waiting until full flower made the process much more difficult.

In the matter of overall tobacco supplies, Hawks noted the picture is some better, but "large supplies still are on hand."

Stabilization buying this year is estimated to account for about 12 percent of the total production. This is somewhat higher than in previous years. At this time, a total of 823 million pounds of Stabilization tobacco is on hand. "This means that Stabilization is still carrying too much tobacco," Hawks noted.

The necessity of making high yields per acre was highlighted in the presentation of an estimated cost per acre in tobacco production. Based on a yield of 2,100 pounds per acre, and with labor assumed to be contracted rather than furnished from the family labor pool, the following estimates apply: Labor cost, $369.39; materials, $223.98; machinery, $265.00; and selling costs, $46.36; for a total of $904.73 per acre.

Vast increases in yields of tobacco per acre over the last 40 years were shown in a brief talk made by Sam Weeks, Pitt County Agricultural Extension Agent. Weeks said that in 1929, some 53,000 acres of tobacco resulted in an average yield of 628 pounds per acre. By 1946 the acreage had dropped to 41,700 while the yield per acre had reached 1,142 pounds. In 1970, it is estimated that 22,056 acres will average 2,060 pounds per acre.

Arsenal Of Pollution Control Tough Clean Air Bill Forged By House, Senate Conferees

WASHINGTON (AP) — House and Senate conferees have forged a bill to protect the public health from dirty air, charting a campaign that could shut down auto production lines and send willful polluters to jail.

The legislation follows the lines of a Senate bill written principally by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine. It represents an important personal victory for him.

Muskie, tired after two months of negotiations with House members, said Wednesday night the final bill is far tougher than any that has gone before. He said the conference wrote a bill stronger in most respects than either of the two original versions. The measure may still earn barbs from environmentalists complaining it still does not go far enough, Muskie aides commented.

But it does create a new arsenal of federal pollution control measures, and authorizes spending $1 billion over three years to help pay for the fight.

The weapons include granting the government the right to inspect private property for pollution violations, to subpoena records of suspected air polluters and even to require factories to pay for and install pollution monitors.

The measure sets national standards for all potential new sources of air pollution—such as industrial plants—and sets criminal penalties for willful polluters with fines up to $50,000 a day and jail sentences of up to two years.

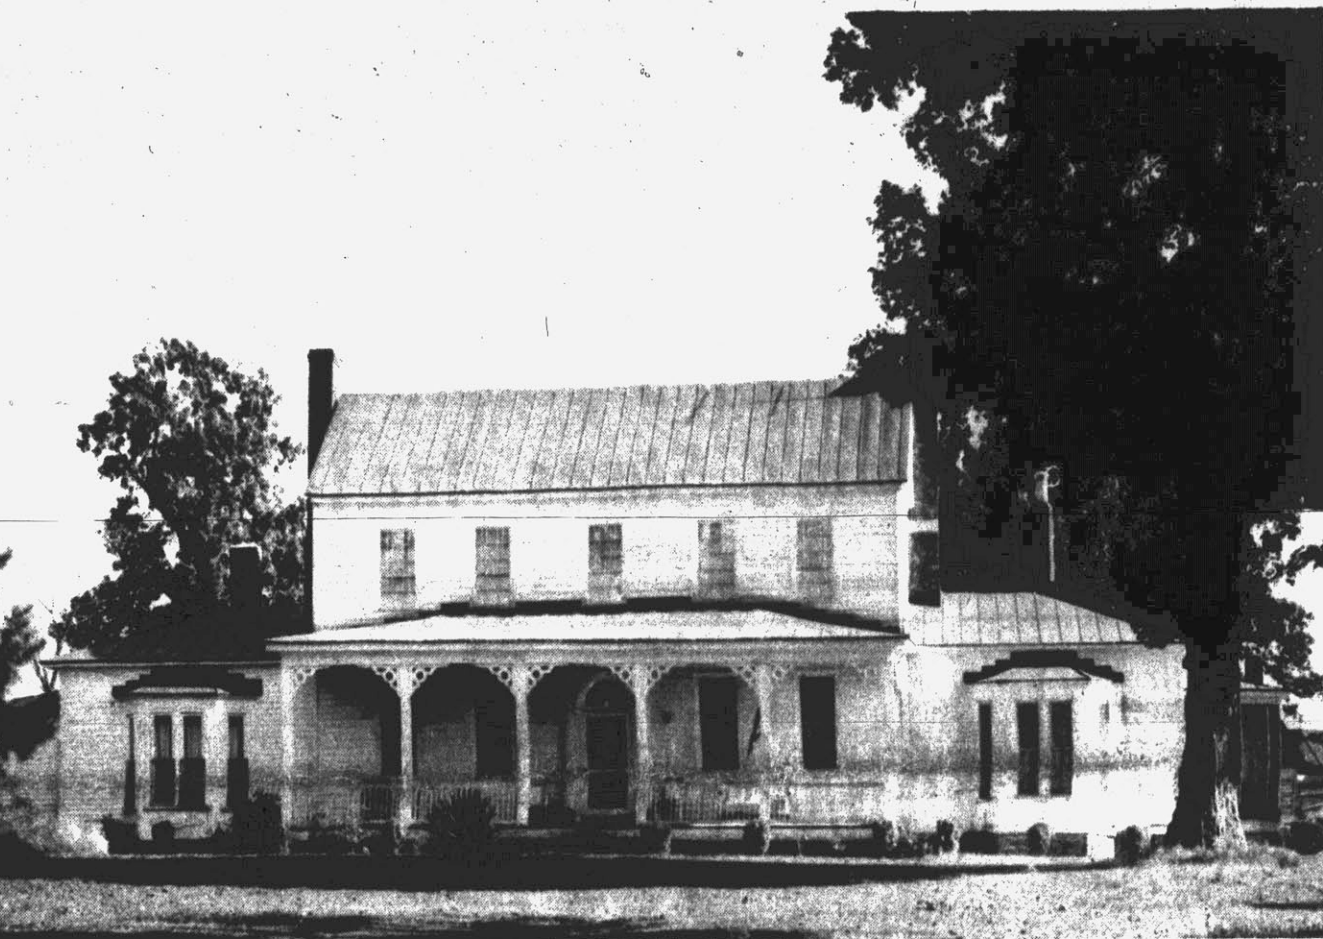

It also would give all citizens and groups the right to sue in federal court to compel all polluters, including the United States government, to cease and desist.

The measure's most controversial provision sets a Jan. 1, 1975 deadline for the nation's exhaust emissions on assembly line cars by 90 percent.

A one-year, once-only deadline extension could be granted by the Environmental Protection Agency upon adequate proof that after an honest, good faith effort, the industry was not able to produce adequate emission control devices.

Further extensions, if any, would have to come from Congress, Muskie said.

Grimes Plantation Is Nominated For Register Of Historic Places

GRIMES PLANTATION — The house and several well preserved outbuildings have been cited as a good example of antebellum plantation in North Carolina.

The Grimes Plantation, located near here in Pitt County, has been nominated for inclusion on the National Register of Historic Places, a list of distinction identifying those properties worthy of preservation for their historic value. The nomination was submitted this week to the Department of the Interior by Dr. H. G. Jones, Director of the State Department of Archives and History and State Liaison Officer for Historic Preservation.

The house and several well preserved outbuildings, including a row of frame slave quarters, have been cited as a good example of an antebellum plantation in North Carolina. It is located on the banks of the Tar River, among large open fields. The nomination of Grimes Plantation was made in connection with the State Department of Archives and History's long-range program of identifying and documenting the authenticity of historic places in North Carolina. Each nomination requires extensive documentary and photographic research to support all claims to historical or architectural importance and must be approved by the State Professional Review Board. If the nomination is approved, which usually takes no more than two months, official announcement will be made through the state's congressional delegation.

Calley Defense Points Finger

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — Lt. William L. Calley's court-martial defense is hammering away at the thesis that responsibility for Mai Lai lay on the line of command—and that the troops took their cue from the company commander, Capt. Ernest Medina.

A defense witness testified Wednesday that Medina spurred on his men at a pre-Mai Lai briefing by saying: "When I come through the next day, I don't want anything living but GIs."

Calley, 27, is charged with murdering 102 Vietnamese civilians.

His lawyers are trying to show that he was only obeying orders that March 16, 1968.

Thomas J. Kinch of North Cape May, N.J., who was a member of Medina's mortar crew, said the captain toured the body-strewn village and finally stopped the killing by telling his platoon leaders: "The party's over, that's enough shooting."

"Did you overhear a body count?" he was asked.

"Yes, that was later in the afternoon, after lunch," Kinch, 24, said. "Somebody called down to Capt. Medina's radio and asked for a body count and Capt. Medina replied 310."

In official reports made a few days after My Lai Medina listed 20 to 28 enemy dead.

The Army today reopens its investigation at Ft. McPherson, Ga., to determine if Medina should be court-martialed. The Army has charged him with the over-all responsibility for the deaths in the village.

Accuse Manson Of 9th Murder

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Charles Manson, on trial in the Sharon Tate slayings, has been accused of a ninth murder in a case in which the victim's body has not been found.

He was among three persons who reliable sources said were indicted for murder Wednesday by the Los Angeles County grand jury in the case of Donald J. "Shorty" Shea, who disappeared while living on an old movie ranch with Manson.

Green To Retire From His Development Post

Dr. C. Sylvester Green advised the Pitt County Development Commission at its meeting Wednesday evening that he would like to effect his retirement as its executive director within the next three months. He came to this position on December 1, 1960, from the vice presidency of William Jewell College, Liberty, Mo.

Dr. Green will continue in the position until his successor is named, and then be available for consultation. The details incident to the termination of his top-ranking position with the Commission, and the beginning of a new administration will be worked out through the leadership of the officers of the Commission.

Chairman Corey Stokes announced that special committee has been appointed, in line with a confidential memorandum from Dr. Green several months ago, to secure his successor. That committee has already interviewed a number of applicants for the position, and expects to have a successor named within a few weeks.

New appointments to the membership of the Commission were recognized by Chairman

Stokes. The Board of County Commissioners at its meeting on December 7 named D. G. Nichols to fill the unexpired term of the late Dr. Robert Lee Humber, and to serve a three-year term ending December 31, 1973. Corey Stokes, Ayden, Norman R. Wooten, Greenville, and R. P. Michaels, Bethel, were named for a successive term ending December 31, 1973.

B. Vernon Cox, new chairman of the County Board will replace J. Vance Perkins as County representative on the Commission. John B. Lewis, Jr., Farmville, will replace Sam D. Bundy, when he assumes office as legislator in January. Other appointments will be announced at the January meeting of the Commission.

Officers elected by the Commission for the year 1971 were Corey Stokes, reelected chairman; Dr. J. W. Pou, vice chairman to succeed the late Dr. Humber; Norman R. Wooten reelected treasurer; and D. R. House, Jr., reelected secretary.

Adjournment Snarled

WASHINGTON (AP) — Down-to-the-wire drives to meet the constitutional deadlines for adjournment in Congress are nothing new, but no one on Capitol Hill recalls anything to match this year's situation.

"The Senate has gotten itself into the ridiculous posture of having a series of filibusters or threatened filibusters all running simultaneously," Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., declared today.

Six, to be exact, said Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana—foreign aid, defense appropriations, a Social Security-welfare reform conflation, the supersonic transport and a couple of lesser items being held up by one or two senators. Williams proposed a series of agreements to limit debate on the bills and amendments that are preventing adjournment of the Senate.

The House has finished its major tasks and is awaiting to clear up what the Senate sends it.

"Statesmanlike ... fair ... timely ... a must," said half a dozen senators of Williams' proposal. But when Williams moved for approval there was a chorus of objections and the Senate lapsed again into its routine.

Against this backdrop, the White House let it be known Wednesday President Nixon will call Congress into special session if it quits before the Jan. 3 deadline without acting on bills he deems vital.

and reporting requirements relating to civil disturbances and, dissident or subversive activities ..."

Until now little has been known about Navy and Air Force domestic intelligence operations, although the Army's activities in this field—undertaken under similar guidelines—have been the subject of a year-long controversy.

The furor flared again Wednesday when Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., said Army agents had collected information on Sen. Adlai Stevenson III, D-Ill.; former Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner, now a federal judge; and Rep. Abner Mikva, D-Ill.

Ervin, chairman of the Senate subcommittee on constitutional rights and a long-time crusader against invasion of privacy, said military agents also snooped on the activities of state and local officials, political contributors, newspaper reporters, lawyers and church figures.

His information, Ervin said, was supplied by a former Army agent who wrote that his team "was collecting information on every individual and organization in the state of Illinois who espoused discontent with the military involvement in South-east Asia or who openly opposed the Nixon administration's controversial domestic policies ..."

Later, a spokesman said the Army is gravely concerned by the reports and is looking into them. He added that Army policy emphatically prohibits collection of information of the type reportedly gathered in Illinois.

And White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said in response to a question: "It's inconceivable to me that that would take place. We certainly don't condone it."

Another former military intelligence agent said in an AP interview Wednesday night that similar data had been collected by Army agents in other sections of the country.

As an example, he cited information he said was compiled by the Army in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area during April and May of 1968.

This former agent, who would not allow use of his name, said the files, consisting of index cards naming individuals and groups, were being discarded by the Army.

There have been earlier reports that other regional military intelligence centers were building files on civilians.

NBC television, for instance, reported Dec. 1 that agents in Washington had compiled dossiers on many private citizens, including Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark.

Still other reports have indicated that military intelligence agents had mingled among delegates at the 1968 Democratic and Republican conventions.

The documents obtained by the AP do not name individuals on whom Air Force and Navy agents collect data. Rather, they trace the broad guidelines under which the agents operate.

One document, signed by Robert S. Moot, assistant defense secretary, states that "The Air Force has similar investigative and reporting requirements, for which the Office of Special Investigations (OSI) is the focal point."

Air Force And Navy Also Involved In Civilian Intelligence Activity

Christmas Tree Light Originator Is Now Developing New System

CHICAGO (AP) — Christmas tree lights have created a happy glow in the life of Albert V. Sadacca, who invented them 56 years ago.

As a young boy in 1914, Sadacca devised the first string of lights when he was faced with the necessity for moving large stocks of tiny clear bulbs from his father's New York City novelty shop.

"We lived in an apartment near the shop and I was the errand boy," he recalled in his office in the Merchandise Mart here. "I used to deliver little celluloid canaries that sat on a perch in a tiny cage and were illuminated by battery-powered bulbs."

At about that time he read that a number of children had been burned in a big fire caused by candles igniting a Christmas tree, and the idea occurred to him: "Why not Christmas lights that are electric?" His father had a big inventory of bulbs that he was anxious to clear from the shelves and Sadacca wired a set in series.

"The first sets didn't sell very well," continued the darkhaired, mustached Sadacca who is of Spanisancestry. "But the next year we colored the tiny bulbs and they sold better. Electricity was becoming more and more popular in stores and homes. Then we decided to make a series set for use with 110-volt house current using a larger bulb."

The Sadaccas — Albert V. and brothers Henri, Leon and Nessin — then launched into the manufacture of Christmas light outfits, as they were called. In the early 1920s they founded the Noma Electric Co., of which Albert became the first general manager.

Now in his sixties, he is president and chief executive officer of a successor company, Noma-World Wide, Inc., which is still manufacturing what he likes to call "festoons of lights." His son, Albert V. Sadacca II, 26, is executive vice president of the firm. He has already showed the family knack for inventiveness by creating a type of battery operated light to decorate women's formal gowns and elaborate hairdos.

The elder Sadacca also remains innovative in the field. He is now developing a wireless light system and is working on a way to produce Christmas light assemblies by machine instead of the intricate hand assembly now required.

"One of the important things in this business is that the truth of that old adage, there's nothing new under the sun," applies to Christmas lights," commented Sadacca. "We started with little lights and they grew bigger and bigger. Now tininess is coming back. It started in Japan and Italy with the simultaneous development of the tiny elongated bulb.

"They were made for novelties and I decided to create a new light set with them," he continued. "So I made the first 110-volt string of lights using miniature bulbs and brought them to the United States. And the same thing happened as in our first effort. People were not accustomed to them. It was a flop the first year."

But the next year the firm produced 5,000 sets. A few years later, after Sadacca convinced several large retail chains to feature the sets, the idea took off.

"The use of miniature lights may displace the larger lights that have ruled the lighting roost for 35 years," he predicts. "And possibly in a period of a few years they will be out entirely."

Mincemeat Pudding Does Double-Duty

By CECILY BROWNSTONE Associated Press Food Editor These Mincemeat Pudding Cakes do double-duty. They may be served as cupcakes or as a pudding. In the latter case they should be offered with a favorite dessert sauce.

We haven't given directions for decorating the pudding cakes in the recipe, but if you want to do this brush the cakes, just before serving, with warm corn syrup and garnish with red and green glaze cherries, wedges of glaze pineapple and nuts.

Anything made with brandied mincemeat is so good! An easy dessert we have been concocting for years goes like this.

Arrange drained canned cling peach halves in a shallow baking dish; fill the peach cavities with the mincemeat. Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven until hot through—about 10 minutes.

Serve at once with scoops of vanilla ice cream or with sweetened vanilla-flavored whipped cream. This is a great emergency dessert if you keep the mincemeat and the peaches on your pantry-shelf and have the ice cream or whipped cream in your freezer.

Yes, you can freeze the whipped cream in small paper cups.

MINCEMEAT PUDDING CAKES
2 cups sifted flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
½ cup salad not olive oil
2 large eggs, separated
½ cup dry or medium white wine

1 teaspoon cold water
1 jar (1 pound, 12 ounces) brandied mincemeat (about 3 cups)
1 container (8 ounces) diced glaze fruit (1 cup)
1½ cups walnuts, chopped medium-fine

Put a muffin-size foil baking cup in each of 28 muffin-pan cups (1-3 to ½ cup capacity). Into a large mixing bowl sift together the flour, salt and sugar. Make a well in the center and add salad oil, egg yolks and wine. Dissolve baking soda in the cold water and add; beat until smooth.

Add mincemeat, glaze fruit and walnuts. With a spoon, mix well.

In a medium mixing bowl with the clean beater, beat egg whites until stiff; fold into batter. Turn ¼ cup of the mixture into each foil cup in muffin pans.

Bake in a preheated 300-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean—about 1 hour.

Let cool in pans; remove and cool completely but do not remove from foil baking cups. If Mincemeat Pudding Cakes are to be kept for more than a few days before serving, wrap appropriately and store in refrigerator or freezer.

Serve at room temperature or reheated. Can be used as cupcakes or pudding; in the latter case, serve hot with a favorite pudding sauce.

Makes 28.

Mix ground lean cooked beef with mashed potatoes and seasoning; make into patties and fry. If you like, you may flour or crumb the patties before frying.

How Would Husband Solve Problem? COOKING IS FUN!

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband owned a store in New York and we used to spend about five months of the year in Florida. He died in Florida last month, and it was his wish that he be buried in Florida. I notified his employes in New York, and his bookkeeper who had been with him for 13 years, and his manager, who had been with him for 28 years, flew to Florida for his funeral.

Later, when I checked over the books, I found that the manager and bookkeeper had charged their airline tickets to my husband's business! I am terribly angry over this and wonder if I should insist that they reimburse the business.

WIDOW

DEAR WIDOW: Ask yourself, "How would my husband have handled it?" Then, handle it that way.

DEAR ABBY: I have been unable to find the correct type of card to send to friends and relatives to announce the arrival of an adopted baby. Printing services in our city have not been able to help us. My husband feels that we should make it perfectly clear that we have adopted a baby. I don't think that is necessary. I think if we send out announcements with the baby's name and date of birth on it, those who are close to us will know he's adopted, and the others need know nothing more than the arrival of our child.

Please advise.

IN DOUBT IN CONN.

DEAR IN: Your "printing service" needs to update their service. I have seen announcements for the adopted child. ["We have an addition to our family. Mary Ann was born Aug. 25, and came to us on Sept. 26."]

To send an ordinary birth announcement would imply that you had actually given birth to the child, which is perfectly all right, if that is the impression you want to create.

DEAR ABBY: I know lying is wrong. But how about a "little white lie?" There are so many situations where the bald truth is cruel, and a little white lie wouldn't hurt. Example: "How do you like my new hat?" NELLIE

DEAR NELLIE: That type of white lie is, of course, not only harmless—it's kind, and I doubt if the gates of heaven would be closed to you for having told it. However, most white lies often end up as a double feature in technicolor.

DEAR ABBY: A writer asked, "Where did the custom of kissing a lady's hand originate? And why?" You said it originated in France, and probably because a person had to start somewhere.

You were half right. Hand-kissing did originate in France, but there is more to it than that. A gentleman properly kisses the hands of only married women—and on the left hand, because that is where her wedding ring is worn. The significance? To show "respect" for her marriage. FRENCHIE

SPINACH-STUFFED VEAL ROLL
Thrifty recipe for a main dish.
2 cups dried bread cubes
½ cup (1 stick) corn oil margarine

¼ cup chopped onion
1 cup well-drained cooked chopped spinach
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 pound (about) veal breast, boned

Place bread cubes in large bowl. In a Dutch oven melt 2 tablespoons of the margarine; add onion and cook until tender; add to bread cubes; toss well; mix in spinach, salt and pepper. Place veal flat, inside surface up; remove any excess fat. Gently press spinach mixture over meat surface. Roll veal up lengthwise, tucking in ends; tie securely. Melt remaining 6 tablespoons margarine in Dutch oven. Brown veal well on all sides, about 15 minutes, turning carefully so as not to lose stuffing. Reduce heat; slowly add 1 cup water. Simmer, covered, for about 1 hour and 35 minutes or until veal is fork-tender. Add water as necessary to maintain original level. Turn roll occasionally to prevent sticking. Transfer veal to warm platter. Strain drippings and use to make gravy. Untie veal; cut into crosswise slices; serve with gravy. Makes 4 servings.

Great Help For City Facility

A $1,206,810 grant to Greenville Utilities will greatly help in constructing facilities which are needed to stimulate growth here. Greenville qualified for the grant as a growth center in the Mid-East Economic Development District. Greenville Utilities was notified by Sen. Sam Ervin, Sen. Everette Jordan and Rep. Walter Jones that the grant had been approved by the Economic Development Administration. The grant will be used for improvements to the water treatment plant, the sewage disposal plant and extension of water, sewer and gas lines. Previously the city had received a $376,400 Federal Water Quality Administration grant for the waste treatment phase of the work. With the funds the Utilities will be able to extend lines into the Hopkins farm industrial site and carry out other projects which are designed to stimulate growth here and thus create jobs for people throughout the area. For Greenville, the grant means that Greenville Utilities will be able to carry out $2,638,700 in expansion work using only $1,055,490 of its own funds. Years ago Greenville began developing water and sewer facilities north of the river in anticipation of industrial growth there. Greenville Industries purchased the Dail farm and water and sewer outfall were extended to this area. A water storage tank was constructed there. That several major industries have located in the area is testimony enough that having utilities available on the sites is a major step in attracting industry. The EDA grant is made precisely to aid a growth center in attracting industry which will supply the jobs needed for improving the entire area's economy. It is very likely that the utilities work to be done with the grant will aid in bringing new industry here. If it is the kind of industry that pays a fair wage and does not pollute the grant funds will be well spent.

Puzzle Awaits The Assembly

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — The puzzle of automobile liability insurance will challenge members of the 1971 General Assembly. Companies claim they're squeezed by rates too low for times of rising costs and inflation. Motorists complain premiums are high, and company practices such as recommendations. North Carolina has had compulsory auto liability insurance since 1958. Only New York and Massachusetts have a similar law. In Massachusetts, the search for a solution to climbing rates and delays in claims settlement led to the adoption of the "no-fault" plan. Only Puerto Rico previously had experimented with the approach.

"No-fault" means just that — who's to blame has nothing to do with the settlement of losses in an accident. Each motorist's losses are paid by his own insurance company. By reducing red tape, making prompt settlements possible, and eliminating fees for lawyers, proponents of the plan argue it could cut back on rates by 45 per cent.

claims settlement are slow and frustrating. State agencies involved in industry regulation and rate-setting sometimes seem at cross purposes. In short, the present situation pleases nobody. Whether the lawmakers can find a solution to please everybody — or anybody — is the question to be answered in the coming session.

For guidance, the legislators will look to a 15-member study commission authorized by the 1969 General Assembly and appointed by Governor Bob Scott.

Months of Study
State Senator Clyde Norton of McDowell is chairman. The commission has devoted months to its task, including public hearings in Raleigh and other cities of the state, examination of statistics and technical data, travel to other states to see how they have approached the problem.

Subcommittees were assigned various facets of the auto liability insurance field. They are now filing their reports with the commission, which will incorporate the findings into recommendations and a final report.

It will be next month, perhaps even after the January 13 convening date, before the report is ready for delivery to Governor Scott and the legislature.

It's impossible to say, of course, what the commission will recommend. It is fairly certain that its proposals, whatever their nature, will not be the only ones on the subject to be introduced. The varied and conflicting interests involved make it a safe bet that numerous bills representing differing points of view will be before the lawmakers.

Experience Elsewhere
Problems involving auto liability insurance are not limited to North Carolina. Practically every state has attempted, in some way, to cope with it. Their experience was studied by the commission, and may be reflected in recom-

Only accidents in which total damages are $2,500 or less come under the "no-fault" plan in Massachusetts and Puerto Rico.

State Insurance Commissioner Edwin Lanier has taken a dim view of the concept basic to the plan — that is, allowing a driver at fault to get off without paying for damages he caused.

Other opponents contend that rather than lowering rates, it would create pressure to push them higher.

Competitive Rate Setting
Another innovation examined by the study commission is the California "open rating system" under which companies set their rates in an open market. The state maintains a strong staff to audit companies, and to act promptly at the least evidence of price-fixing or excessive rates.

In North Carolina, rates are filed with the State Insurance Department on behalf of all companies by a rating bureau. No deviation is allowed between companies for the same limits of coverage as approved by the insurance commissioner. To put the California plan into effect in North Carolina would require a greatly expanded staff for the state insurance department.

Georgia and Florida follow an approach similar to California, but add a provision that companies must file rate changes with the insurance department within 30 days of their effective date. The commissioner can hold that the rates are too high and order an investigation; if his findings support such a ruling, the rates can be rescinded.

Attorney General Robert Morgan has indicated favor for the Georgia plan, short of a specific endorsement.

Actually, auto liability rates in North Carolina rank 39th among the 50 states. Even so, since 1965, the rates have climbed nearly 30 per cent.

Beverly Lake Prefers Court

By JOHN KILGO
RALEIGH — I, Beverly Lake sat in his office here and talked about his two campaigns for Governor, saying: "I would rather be a justice of this court than be Governor."

Justice Lake was appointed to the North Carolina Supreme Court by former Gov. Dan K. Moore in 1965. The appointment was Moore's way of thanking Lake for putting him in the Governor's mansion. After Lake ran third in the Democratic gubernatorial primary in 1964, he threw his support to Moore in his runoff against Richardson Preyer. It was the push Moore needed to get over the top.

The job on the Supreme Court is almost perfect for Lake. He is a student of the law, having taught it for 18 years at Wake Forest. "I enjoy this job very much," Justice Lake says. "Back in 1960, when I was first thinking of running for Governor, a person in the State told me that if I didn't run, I might get a seat on this bench. I told him I'd rather be a Supreme Court justice than Governor, but I was going to run for Governor. A man must feel the job he is doing is worthwhile and important. I certainly feel this job is."

Justice Lake keeps his home in Wake Forest, which he describes as "a delightful small town." He talked about his two campaigns for governor in 1960 and 1964, and his defeats in those years left no visible traces of bitterness.

"I have no regrets about running," Lake said. "I think our campaigns contributed a great deal to North Carolina and made this a better State. It would have been a great honor to have been Governor, and no one likes to lose, but it was never a life or death thing with me. The State was facing some tremendously important problems at that time and I thought our program was sound. I was not bitterly disappointed about losing. In many ways, I was relieved that I didn't get it."

Justice Lake says he was a political rookie when he first ran in 1960, when Terry Sanford defeated him in the Democratic primary. He says he had no money, no political experience, and no organization.

"Before I ran," he said, "our people said they could get $50,000 pledged to the campaign. In that entire campaign our State Campaign Headquarters spent something under $100,000. I believe if we had had another $100,000 in 1960, I would have defeated Sanford. We had no money for billboards and no money for newspaper ads. If I had known what it would cost to run a political campaign in North Carolina, I wouldn't have run."

Lake ran again in 1964 and came in third in the primary behind Preyer and Moore. He says his campaign headquarters spent around $175,000 in 1964 and he adds: "That still wasn't nearly enough money to get our program over to the people of North Carolina."

Justice Lake's position on separate schools and segregation created a storm of controversy in those two gubernatorial campaigns. He says times have changed, new laws are now on the books, and he says: "I think our stand on those matters was correct when we stated them, though some of our views were distorted."

Justice Lake says he is no longer associated with any political organization. He says his seat on the Supreme Court demands that from him, saying: "The court must not only be fair; it must seem fair." He is still a card-carrying member of the Lake's People Association, but he says he stays out of the political battles.

"The people who formed that organization were loyal to the principals upon which we campaigned in 1960 and 1964," Dr. Lake says. "The group was functioning in 1968 and there was some disagreements among the leaders. But I stayed out of it."

In looking back on his short political career, Justice Lake can smile about it.

"I'm very happy that I was able to offer for Governor," he says. "I don't think any serious mistakes were made in either of our campaigns. No one likes to lose at anything but things have worked out well for me. I'm very happy here."

Strength For Today

PROBLEMS
A Common Pleas court in a midwestern city had to pass recently on a battle between long-hairs and straights. A young man who claimed he was neatly groomed was turned out of a restaurant because of his long hair. He sued for twenty-five thousand dollars, claiming embarrassment and humiliation. The proprietor of the restaurant said he was within his right to turn away the long-haired chap. "We don't allow long hair in this restaurant," he said. "We don't allow sandals. We don't want crummy people."

none of our business. In the case of those of us who are up in years it is probably a matter of jealousy for we don't have hair enough to fight over. And what we have around the temples is gray (although we are assured by the local drug store that all that can be changed). There are hungry people in the world. A teacher spoke recently of the children who come to her primary grades weak, wan and ready to burst into tears because they're hungry. It's a day to be thankful for when less than a hundred of our fellow citizens are killed in Vietnam. A pupil is said to have pounded a teacher recently and thrown her out into the hall. We've got problems — whether we have too much hair or too little.

Where The Buck Stops

The late Pancho Villa, if I am not mistaken, once was advised not to take a certain action against the United States while the World Series games were being played. North of the border, he was told, nobody would pay any attention. The same advice ought to be offered to presidents in the Christmas season.

Mr. Nixon delivered himself a few days ago of a superlative response to the October report of his Commission on Campus Unrest. The President said some things that need badly to be said on this whole question of public and private responsibility; but the probabilities are that his letter to former Governor Scranton got lost with the Christmas wrappings.

This was Mr. Nixon at his thoughtful best—reasoned, temperate, balanced. And his statement tells us something, incidentally, of why the President abhors the disorder of a catch as catch can press conference. In the hurly burly of lights and cameras, he never could have stated his position so clearly.

His principal point, boiled down, was simply this—that with the academic community, the authority and responsibility of the federal government must be kept at a distance. The Scranton commission, in the several paragraphs that destroyed much of the value of its whole report, had sought to lay "primary" responsibility upon the President for restoration of order. Mr. Nixon rejected that notion absolutely.

"Responsibility for maintaining a peaceful and open climate for learning in an academic community does not rest with the federal government—it rests squarely with the members of that academic community themselves." Amen: and amen again. Whatever responsibility local government may have on a campus for the protection of life and the preservation of order, the federal government has a much lesser and more distant duty. Mr. Nixon, as President, has some responsibility for the protection of federally-owned property; and if it appears after the fact that a federal crime has been committed, he has some obligation to summon the FBI. That is the end of it.

It is nonsense to imply, as the Scranton Commission did imply, that the President has some amorphous duty to create a moral climate of such sweetness and light that students will not blow up buildings. It is equally to suggest—however the suggestion may be buttered and jellied—that a President ought to fashion his foreign policies in order to soothe the sophomore breast.

"Students comprise four percent of the national population," Mr. Nixon quietly noted. "They have the right to be heard—both collectively and as individuals." (Continued on page 5)

Other Editors Say Support Deserters?

(Richmond Times-Dispatch)
At times the World Council of Churches acts as if it considers the typical Christian a glibble idiot who is willing to march in any parade, no matter where it is going, led by a marshal who keeps shouting hosannas to God.

The latest example of the Council's contempt for the ordinary laymen's power of perception came in a news story from Geneva. At a meeting there early this week, the Council issued an appeal to its member churches for $210,000 over the next three years to help, the story said, "American deserters and draft-dodgers in Canada."

Officials of the Council explained that the funds would go to "help with educational programs, aid centers, hostel, travel, administrative costs and other pastoral ministry."

Under no circumstances, one Council spokesman insisted piously, would the money be used "to induce desertion or evasion on the part of U.S. citizens of draft age."

What fools does the Council take us to be? Of course the creation of a fund to aid deserters and draft-dodgers would "induce" desertion and draft-dodging. Of course more Americans would desert or evade the draft if they knew they could dash off to a pleasant and protected life in Canada. That the Council would embark upon a project certain to encourage contempt for authority, for duty and for patriotism is not the least bit surprising. After all, the Council is noted for its aberrational programs, which include, for example, financial aid to guerrilla fighters in Africa. But one of these days, it is possible to hope, the World Council of Churches will unfurl its banners, strike up its band and march off to one of its reprehensible crusades only to discover, upon looking back, that nobody is following.

You Don't Know You're Poor?

By ELMER ROESSNER

50-hour week. Harry W. Roessner didn't know he was poor. He bought his own house on an 8 per cent mortgage, raised two kids and went to work every morning so well groomed neighbors said he looked "as if he had hopped right out of a bandbox." He raised chickens, vegetables and loganberries in his backyard and we had company for rib-roast dinners about every other Sunday.

Were he alive and the same conditions prevailed today, next year he would be legally poor, yet in love, food, housing and esteem, he was one of the richest men in the world.

Free Lunches For Pupils
On Jan. 1, all over the country, the new school lunch program goes into effect. "Poverty guidelines" will be applied and any child in a family with an income below the "Poverty level" will be served a lunch free or at a reduced price, not over 20 cents, in a school that receives federal lunch cash or commodity assistance. When I was a boy, Dad told me he ate his lunches in saloons. He could get a stein of beer for a nickel and as many free roast beef sandwiches and side dishes of beans as he wanted. For another nickel, he could play a Dewey machine and could win as much as a $2 bottle of bourbon. But I digress.

The guidelines of free lunch today, as laid down by the Department of Agriculture, provide for lunches for school children in families of one earning less than $1,920 a year. This is a puzzling distinction, typical of government. If there is a school child in a family of one, it would have to be the child itself. And few school-age orphans make that much money. Nevertheless, the government decrees that any child without parents making less than that a year is entitled to free school lunches. However, if such a child exists, he or she will be entitled to free lunches if he earns under $2,210 in Hawaii or less than $2,400 in Alaska. Isn't bureaucracy won-

Actor Beats Drums

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — It wasn't an auspicious arrival for Timothy Dalton, who stands on the threshold of international stardom.

The handsome, brooding young English actor had come here to beat a few drums for American International's new production of "Wuthering Heights," based on Emily Bronte's classic novel. Tim plays Heathcliff, the role which won fame for Sir Laurence Olivier 31 years ago.

Haggard after a 29-hour wait at a fogbound British airport, Tim showed annoyance when he came to a luncheon interview at Toots Shor's restaurant only to be told he couldn't be seated because he had no necktie on.

"How stupid!" he exclaimed. "Who cares in a restaurant whether a man seated at the next table is wearing a necktie or not?"

The party then adjourned to Sardi's, where any member of the theatrical profession probably would be welcomed even though he was adorned only with a withered fig leaf. There, under the influence of a plate of roast pork and two lagers of beer, Tim cooled down and told about himself.

"Acting is something I've always felt I wanted to do—it's something within me," he said. "The only other thing I'd want to do is to compose music—music that came from within me, no matter what form it took."

Dalton started his career at 16. Now only 24, he won the crucial role of Heathcliff after several years in repertory theaters, television, and noteworthy appearances in three films, "The Lion in Winter," "Cromwell," and "The Voyeur."

A man with as much storm as sunshine in him, Tim also has more than a streak of the rebel. His moods are chameleon. (Continued on page 5)

Winter has sent a blast of cold weather to this community. Greenville was covered with a blanket of snow and ice today. Sleet began falling at midnight and when the city awoke this morning citizens found a white blanket on the landscape. Ice began melting at noon today and streets were filled with slush that increased danger to traffic.

Members of the Pitt County Post of the American Legion report that they plan to prepare for a membership drive and benefit boxing contest for funds for the Salvation Army.

Greenville tobacconists cleared the floors of local warehouses today and suspended work for the Christmas holidays.

Surviving her are two daughters, Mrs. Edward Race of Kinston and Mrs. Robert Humbles of Gardner's Crossroads; and six grandchildren.

Wilson To Address Pitt Underwriters

Bill Wilson, program director for the Eastern Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, will be the guest speaker Friday at the December meeting of the Pitt County Association of Life Underwriters.

A Southern Pines native who is currently living in Greenville, Wilson travels through 22 Eastern North Carolina counties from the Virginia line to Morehead City in his job as program director.

One of the concerns of the director deals with greater public education of tuberculosis and respiratory diseases and his travels throughout the counties incorporate that objective.

For the PCALU program on Friday, Wilson will show a film entitled, "The Battle to Breathe." The film relates the actual experiences of middle-aged men with emphysema and their battle to breathe.

Following graduation from high school in 1962, Wilson entered the Air Force, was trained in airborne electronics and later southern Pines and entered Sandhills Community College where he helped to organize the student government association.

After graduating from Sandhills College, Wilson transferred to East Carolina University in 1968 and earned a degree in business administration.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Verna Mae Ward Cogdell of the home; two sons, Ervin D. and Darrell Cogdell of the home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Cogdell of Winterville; six sisters, Mrs. Leona Wilson, Mrs. Cleon Hardison and Mrs. Helen Deloris Bynum, all of Newport News, Va., Mrs. Maggie L. Sight and Profession

Do you know how much eyesight affects your way of life?
 In almost all cases, man must use his eyes to work. His profession is determined by his eyesight.
 The short-sighted (myopic) person is likely to be in a corresponding profession. He may be a scholar, a writer or a creator of minutely detailed objects.
 The long-sighted (hyperopic) person is likely to be the opposite. He may be an outdoorsman or an athlete.
 It's usually possible to tell if a child is short or long-sighted. A more obvious case can be discovered by watching him play. The degree of easy by which he catches a thrown ball is one way to check his vision. Hopefully, you and your children have normal healthy eyes. Make sure they stay that way by caring for them.

Time Running Out On Congress Effort To Write A Trade Bill

By EDMOND Le BRETON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON, (AP) — Time has become the most formidable opponent of the ever-controversial trade bill, with its provisions for quotas on imports of textiles and shoes.

Even the most ardent supporters of the bill, which the affected industries say they need to survive foreign competition—conceded the measure's chances dim with each day as the Jan. 3 constitutional deadline for adjournment nears.

On that date the 91st Congress goes out of existence, and all legislation not finally enacted dies with it. The trade bill still has a long way to go.

But its backers have not stopped fighting, nor devising strategy to break the legislative logjam in the Senate that threatens to bury the bill.
Some recent developments are in their favor. The prospect that Congress will remain in session to the end, has been heightened by warnings from Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield and President Nixon's threat to recall the lawmakers if they adjourn earlier without final action on measures he designated as vital. One is a trade bill with a textile quota provision.

The chance that the Senate will be paralyzed by a quasi-filibuster against funds for the supersonic transport has been reduced.

Leaders have worked out a tentative agreement to interrupt the protracted SST debate for several hours' daily work on other legislation.

But the obstacles to the trade bill remain formidable. The House passed it as a separate measure, but in the Senate it has become part of a conglomerate piece of highly controversial legislation.

It ties together trade, a Social Security increase, welfare reform and a new, costly health insurance program.

The Senate is not likely to act quickly on any of these, and the jockeying has begun as to which will come up for consideration first. There is no assurance that it will be the trade measure.

As a last chance move, some textile supporters are talking of junking the rest of the trade bill and concentrating on a simple textile quota amendment. Both the House and Senate have voted favorably on textile quota proposals.

But the narrowing time span makes all strategy chancy. Whatever the Senate finally approves must go to conference with the House and then to a final vote in both bodies.

The House has a long-standing aversion to quickly accepting new proposals from the Senate, especially in tax-related matters.

A final threat to the textile quota comes from the renewed negotiations with Japan for a voluntary agreement.

If there is a voluntary agreement, they say, much of the steam behind quota legislation will dissipate and there will be strong sentiment to let the trade bill die and start fresh in 1971's more relaxed atmosphere.

CP&L Sets Big Budget

RALEIGH (AP) — Carolina Power and Light Co. has budgeted $248.4 million for construction during 1971.

Some $179.3 million of the construction budget is allocated for power production facilities, $66.9 million for transmission and distribution facilities and $2.2 million for general plant.

The figures were released Wednesday after a CP&L directors meeting in Raleigh.

The directors declared a dividend of 36½ cents per share on common stock, payable Feb. 1 to shareholders of record at the close of business Jan. 1, 1971.

Preferred dividends will be payable April 1 to shareholders of record at the close of business March 17, 1971.

Dividends of $1.25 per share on $5 preferred; $1.05 per share on $4.20 preferred; $1.36 per share on $5.44 preferred; and $2.27½ per share on $9.10 preferred were declared.

Army Investigator Cleared MacDonald

WASHINGTON (AP) — A New York congressman has released an excerpt from an Army investigating officer's report which he says completely clears former Capt. Jeffrey MacDonald of murder charges brought against him at Ft. Bragg, N.C.

The Army dropped the charges on Oct. 28 and the Green Beret physician was given an honorable discharge. He had been charged in the slaying of his wife and two children last Feb. 17 at their Ft. Bragg quarters. MacDonald is from Patchogue, Long Island, N.Y.

Rep. Allard K. Lowenstein, D-N.Y., handed out at a news conference Wednesday copies of what he said were recommendations of Col. Warren V. Rock, who handled the Army's hearing on the charges.

The recommendations urged that the charges be dropped "because the matter set forth in all charges and specifications are not true."

MacDonald claimed from the start that the slayings were carried out in ritual fashion by four hippie-clad invaders and he accused the Army of suppressing a report that clears him, leaving "an unwarranted cloud of suspicion" over his head.

MacDonald appeared with Lowenstein at the news conference. The excerpt the congressman released also recommended that civilian authorities be requested to investigate the alibi of a person whose name was deleted from the handout.

However, MacDonald said the person in question is a female resident of Fayetteville, near Ft. Bragg.

MacDonald reiterated his charges of cover-ups, perjury and bungled investigations by the Army. He said the Justice Department had rebuffed his request for an interview about the case.

Opposed Cut In Cambodia Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Carolina Sens. Sam Ervin and Everett Jordan voted with the majority Wednesday as the Senate defeated, 61-33, an amendment to strike $155 million in assistance for Cambodia from a foreign aid authorization bill.

The amendment was offered by Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska.

Enjoys His Santa Role

BOGER CITY, N. C. (AP) — "I always wanted me a Santa Claus suit," says Horace Ballard, 65-year-old retired grocery store employe.

"I got to talking about it one day, and my wife decided to make me a suit. I went to Charlotte and bought me a beard and would sit at the house and wave at kids as they went by."

That was several years ago. Last year, more than 2,000 children entered his "Christmas Room" to whisper their Christmas wish and receive a piece of candy. More than 700 have done it so far this holiday season.

The Christmas Room is Ballard's front porch, heated and enclosed. It contains a fireplace which, along with the windows, is accented with candles and holly. Christmas carols provide soft background.

Children from miles around file through each evening from 5 to 9 o'clock.

Ballard said he asked one youngster what he wanted for Christmas and the lad replied, "What's the use of telling you. You didn't bring what I wanted last year."

UTILITIES EXPAND

New Zone N.C. High Court Curbs Established Power Of Housing Code By Ayden Bd.

AYDEN.—The Ayden Town Board of Commissioners Monday night held a public hearing and established a new zone, RABMH.

The zoning area will permit the parking of mobile homes in an area that residences will also be constructed.

Board members named Mayor Ross Persinger to participate in the proposed establishment of a Council of Government for a five-county region.

In other business, the board annexed Juanita Ave. extension public housing site into the town limits.

The old fire truck was turned over to the Ayden Fire Department with an agreement that the vehicle will not be sold without mutual consent of the two parties.

The final plans for an addition to the Pines Subdivision was approved and Jan. 11 was set for a public hearing on the rezoning of the property adjacent to the Britt-Farmer Funeral Home from residential to business.

Members also agreed to pay a per capita tax for the firemen's pension fund and approved the increase of fidelity bonds of five town employees from $31,000 to $60,000.

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Supreme Court says the owner of a building must be given a reasonable opportunity to bring it up to health and safety standards before a city can order the building destroyed.

The court made this ruling Wednesday when it reversed a Superior Court decision upholding a ruling by the Greensboro Housing Commission.

The housing commission had upheld an order of the Greensboro building inspector directing W. W. Horton to demolish a house he owns in the city.

The building inspector termed the dwelling unfit for human habitation and said he found that improvement of the property could not be made at a cost of less than 60 per cent of its value.

Santa Meets Gov. Scott

RALEIGH (AP)—A plump Santa Claus showed up at the annual tree-lighting ceremony in the state Capitol Wednesday and told another plump gentleman what to expect for Christmas.

"I have something on order for you," Santa told Gov. Bob Scott, "... a couple of cans of diet drink."

Scott, an off-and-on dieter, responded by plopping his celebrated bulk into the lap of Santa.

The traditional single tree gave way this year to twin Christmas trees in the Rotunda, one on either side of the Canova statue of George Washington.

The sight of Washington sitting between the trees etching on his marble tablet sparked at least one Capitol wit.

Scott's special assistant David Murray said, "I always wondered what George was doing. He's making out his Christmas list."

About 40,000 Loyalists moved to Canada after the American Revolution.

The housing code in Greensboro says that if repairs to bring a building up to standards "cannot be made at a cost of less than 60 per cent of the present value of the building, the order shall require the owner to demolish such building."

The Supreme Court in an opinion written by Associate Justice I. Beverly Lake, said Lake said such power may not be delegated to or exercised by a municipal corporation in North Carolina.

Lake added, "The judgment of the Superior Court is reversed, and the order of the housing commission is vacated without prejudice to the right of the city to amend its ordinance and the right of the housing commission thereupon to take such further action in the matter, consistent with this opinion, as it may deem advisable."

Here is a complete list of the opinions issued by the court Wednesday:

In Re Application of Ellis, Guilford, reversed.

State vs. Walker, Durham, affirmed.

Mansour vs. Rabil, Edgecombe, modified and affirmed.

Williamson vs. McNeill, Randolph, affirmed.

Stubblefield vs. Construction Co., Gaston, affirmed.

Horton vs. Gullede, Guilford, reversed.

State vs. Reams, Durham, no error.

State Keg vs. ABC Board, Wake, reversed.

State vs. Adams, Wake, affirmed.

State vs. McVay and State vs. Simmons, Mecklenburg, no error.

State vs. Hatcher, Guilford, affirmed.

Conover vs. Jolly, Catawba, affirmed.

State vs. Harris, Wake, no error.

"To require its destruction, without giving the owner a reasonable opportunity... to remove the existing threat to the public health, safety and welfare, is arbitrary and unreasonable."

Lake said such power may not be delegated to or exercised by a municipal corporation in North Carolina.

Lake added, "The judgment of the Superior Court is reversed, and the order of the housing commission is vacated without prejudice to the right of the city to amend its ordinance and the right of the housing commission thereupon to take such further action in the matter, consistent with this opinion, as it may deem advisable."

Brownies Host Their Mothers

The members of Brownie Troop 451 entertained their mothers with a Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Mavis Butts Monday afternoon.

Susan Hudson and Virginia Baker welcomed the mothers and Kim Daniels returned thanks. Refreshments were served with Lisa Butts pouring punch.

Each girl presented her mother with decorated sugar ornaments which they had made. Each girl also made a gift for her father. Mrs. Butts and Mrs. Doris Hudson, leaders of the troop, remembered each Brownie with a filled Christmas stocking. Girls in the troop are: Virginia Baker, Susan Boudreaux, Debra Boyd, Cindy Buck, Lisa Butts, Kim Daniels, Pam Evans, Susan Hudson, Sandra Padgett and Doreen Smith.

Humphrey Won't Renounce 'Possibility' In 1972

By WALTER R. MEARS
and
CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writers
WASHINGTON (AP) — For Hubert H. Humphrey, two years of political exile are ending—and, if the odds are long against another presidential nomination, the lure of the White House is still there.

"I am not seeking the presidency," says the man from Minnesota, who hasn't even been sworn in yet to his new Senate seat. "I have not renounced the possibility."

Today, according to Humphrey, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine is the clear Democratic leader, and President Nixon looks like a formidable opponent; "an incumbent president is hard to beat."

"But you don't judge what is going to happen in 1972 by what is happening in 1970," Humphrey said. "Who can tell what's going to happen?"

In fact, Humphrey says, he sees a possibility that President Nixon may not seek a second term, choosing the path of former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

"Of course, this is all conjecture, but I think the President has a sense of history, that if the domestic situation looks truly bad and his political prospects are not good, I have reason to believe he wouldn't run."

Humphrey, who swept to the Democratic presidential nomination two years ago, says while not very probable economic woes could do to Nixon what the Vietnam war did to Johnson—lead him to renounce a re-election bid.

"I think Mr. Nixon is a proud man ... and if he thought that his candidacy would not be honored, if it looked bad, very bad, he might very well say 'Look, I've been president through difficult times. I've served my country, I'll step aside.'"

"That would be a whole new ball game."

New ball game or old, Humphrey obviously sees himself in the lineup.

He sits in the office he has kept in Washington for the past two years, and talks of politics, and the Senate, and the role of a titular party leader, and political fund raising, and the polls—and "that place."

The place is the White House, and when Humphrey mentions it, he does so with a wave over his right shoulder. His geography is perfect; the presidential mansion is three rainy blocks away, in just that direction.

At 59, Humphrey casts himself as a sort of political elder statesman, the man who has been the route and can advise others—and possibly, just possibly, run the race against himself.

"I really don't see much possibility of my being involved in presidential politics as a contender. I am not saying that the door is locked shut ... I have no organization. I am not opening up any offices ... I hope to be able to counsel some others

"But let's say that it should come around to January next year, January 1972, and no one seems to be really out in front, there doesn't seem to be any coalescing, well, then, I think we'll all take another look and see where we are.

"I want to be a good senator, that's what I really want to be, and I want to be a good leader in the party. And I think the best role that I play is when I don't have ambitions, when I'm not seeking position or title, and I'm not seeking position or title now..."

"The only one I missed was the top job, you see. So I don't want to spend my time trying to see if I can get another title, or to see if I can get to be a chairman, or to contend for an office in the Senate. I don't think I need to do that ...

Humphrey says what he will do is help shape Democratic policy, help raise Democratic money and promote Democratic unity.

He adds that he already has consulted with some of the obvious 1972 candidates. "I've been trying to, I don't want to say admonish, but to suggest to our Democratic leaders that the only way we can win in 1972, and I think we can win, is some degree of unity in our party ... "I think," the former vice president says, "we'll have to wait, as I said, to see what develops in the next 12 to 14 months, and then everybody take another look ... if one candidate appears ... to be far out in front, then it might be wise to concentrate our resources and talents upon him."

"I think Democrats can be in the headlines all during the coming two years, with leaders out in front, with an administration that's in trouble," he says.

"I really believe that we can occupy the news, so to speak ... "I give a lot of free advice to people who listen, or even if they won't listen, I think that it looks good for the Democrats in 1972, now. But what it will look like a year from now is hard to say."

year from now for Hubert H. Humphrey is hard to say, too. His message to the party is clear: If the challenge of 1972 seems to call for a man who has been there before, who styles himself a tutor of Democrats, Hubert Humphrey is back in government, and very, very available for the assignment.

Judge To Speak At Saturday Meeting

The District Court Judge of the Seventh Judicial District, Judge Allen W. Harrell of Wilson, will be guest speaker Saturday at the

ALLEN W. HARRELL

Greenville chapter monthly meeting of the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship International.

The meeting will be held in the Greenville Masonic Temple located at 1119 South Charles Street Saturday at 7:30 p.m. Judge Harrell will address his audience following a musical program.

The meeting is open to all interested persons. Free parking will be made available in the rear of the building.

The speaker was born on Christmas Eve in 1922 in Bertie County. He is a graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, where he was awarded the BS degree in business administration and later the JD degree in law.

He practiced law with Allsbrook and Benton Law Firm in Roanoke Rapids before opening his own law practice in Wilson. He then became solicitor in the City Court there and was named Judge in 1961. In 1968 he was elected District Court Judge.

Judge Harrell has written a number of articles published in leading magazines. He is the author of the book, "Splinters from My Gavel; Confessions of a District Court Judge," which was published in November by Zondervan; and co-author of the book, "The Opposite Sex; Or, How to be One Flesh Anyhow."

Columbia University New York, was chartered in 1754 as King's College.

Senate Filibuster Over SST Begins With Tempers Flaring

By LAWRENCE L. KNUXTON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate filibuster aimed at ending federal subsidies for the supersonic transport has begun with an unusually bitter flare of tempers between the project's chief opponent and leading defender.

In the debate's opening hours Wednesday Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., asked Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., if his sponsorship of a bill to reduce the possible bad effects of faster-than-sound flights had been only a gesture to win Senate support for SST funding.

Magnuson, whose home state has most to gain from full production of a fleet of American supersonic planes, roared his resentment.

Earlier, laying the groundwork for his attempt to talk the project to death, Proxmire won several admissions from SST supporters.

Sen. Alan Bible, D-Nev., floor manager of the $7-billion transportation appropriations bill containing a reduced SST prototype development budget, said action by a conference committee in reducing SST spending by $80 million eventually might add $150 million to the program's total cost and would be almost certain to cause "several thousand" of the 15,000 SST workers to be laid off soon.

Bible said lesser spending would reduce the SST project mainly to research and development. But it would keep it alive.

The point, Proxmire countered, is that the Senate, worried about the possible adverse impact of an SST fleet on the environment voted to stop the entire program, not just slow it down.

The House approved $290 million to continue SST development. The Senate had earlier eliminated the funds from the transportation bill but $210 million was restored by a conference committee.

The Proxmire debate isn't a real filibuster at this point since arrangements have been made for interruptions to allow some other business to go on.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who said $704 million already spent on SST development would be wasted if the plane were scrapped, said some senators opposed to the project are "latter-day environmentalists."

Neither side has shown the least indication of compromising on the SST issue.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices moved higher in moderate trading today as investors appeared to take encouragement to buy again from a strong undertone to the market.
At 11:30 a.m. the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was ahead 2.95 at 822.02.
Advances led declines by a sizable amount on the issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Some analysts attributed the market's firmness chiefly to the resistance to profit taking it showed during the first three sessions this week.
Some, however, contended that the market was oversold and in need of a downward readjustment.

Trading in Memorex, which lost 18½ points in the past two sessions, was halted pending dissemination of news. Its last trade was 55½, down 4¼.

Vermont Royster To Retire, Come Home

NEW YORK (AP) — Vermont Royster, 56, Raleigh, N.C., native and Pulitzer Prize-winning editor of The Wall Street Journal, will retire next month and move back to North Carolina.

He announced Wednesday that he would retire as editor of the Journal and as senior vice president of its parent Dow Jones & Co. But he will continue to contribute to the daily business-oriented newspaper and remain as director of Dow Jones. He said he was quitting his day-to-day responsibilities for personal reasons. He did not say where in North Carolina he would live.

Royster was graduated from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 1935. He got his start in journalism writing high school sports for the News and Observer of Raleigh nearly 40 years ago. While in Chapel Hill he was campus correspondent for the Durham Morning Herald and was editor of The Daily Tar Heel, student paper.

He joined The Wall Street Journal in 1936 in New York, then was transferred to its Washington Bureau. He became chief of the bureau and assumed direction of national political coverage. He returned to New York as associate editor, spent most of the decade of the 1950s as chief editorial writer, and became editor in 1958.

In 1966-67 he was president of the General Alumni Association of the University of North Carolina. He now is a member of the central selection committee of the Morehead Scholarship program at the university. IN 1959 UNC awarded him an honorary degree of doctor of laws.

Geologist Given Research Grant

The American Chemical Society's Petroleum Research Fund has awarded a large grant to an East Carolina University geologist for a two-year research project.

Dr. Richard L. Mauger of the ECU Department of Geology will administer the grant of $17,280 in his examination of old lake deposits in Colorado, Wyoming and Utah.

With radioactive equipment, Dr. Mauger will measure the age of old deposits of volcanic ash in the Green River Formation and its adjacent basins. His project will also consider fossils and rock layers found in the formation, in determining the age of the lake deposits.

City Counted Four Accidents Yesterday

One person was reported injured and an estimated $2,800 property damage resulted in a series of four traffic mishaps here yesterday afternoon.

Police reported heaviest damage resulted from a 5:13 p.m. collision at the intersection of Dickinson and Line Avenues that involved vehicles driven by William David Manning, 35, of 107 Paris Ave. and Helen Peppers Harrell of 1701 Battle St.

Damage to the Manning car was set at $450 while damage to the Harrell vehicle was placed at $625.

Mrs. Harrell was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety.

Blanche Walters Jones, of 2803 Jefferson Dr. was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 12:48 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Fourth Street and Rotary Avenue.

Investigators reported the Jones car collided with a vehicle operated by Elizabeth Farris

Carroll of Greenville, causing an estimated $375 damage to the Jones car and about $450 damage to the Carroll auto.

Vehicles driven by Leland Littleton Galt Jr., 19, of 111 Rotary Ave. and Robert Richard Thonen, 24, of Alexandria, Va., were reported involved in a 2:03 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Third Street and Woodlawn Avenue.

Officers, who set damage to the Galt car at $500 and estimated damage to the Thonen vehicle at $275, charged Thonen with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety.

Linda Lucas Craft, 21, of Route 1, Ayden was reported injured when her vehicle collided with a truck operated by Willie Lee Daniels, 20, of Grimesland about 12:45 p.m. at the intersection of Seventh and Evans Streets.

Daniels was charged with failing to yield the right of way in the mishap which caused an estimated $85 damage to the Craft car and about $75 damage to the truck driven by Daniels.

Gave Christmas Program Sunday

GRIFFON—"The Christmas Story" was presented Sunday night at the Methodist Church directed by Mrs. Hilda Cox.

Participating in the program were Evelyn Sylvant, Joph House, James Hart, Don Johnson, Sam Mann, Freddy Ellis, Lulia Balde, Vann Tucker, Russell and Jerry Cox.

Steve Cox acted as narrator and group readers were Barbara Raspberry, Nancy Sugg, Pam McLawhorn, Ann Troutman and Olivia Reeves.

Miss Patsy Oglesby was organist with Glenn Tucker and Steve Lewis as ushers.

The combined choir presented background music and Mrs. Callie Cox sang "O Holy Night." Following the program, a social hour was held in the fellowship hall where the children and youth were treated with a visit from Santa Claus and refreshments were served by the WSCS.

Buc Rally Falls Short Against Frankies

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. — The Frankies of St. Francis took advantage of a large number of turnovers by East Carolina University last night, and held off a Buc rally late in the game for a 71-67 victory.

The Bucs scrambled back from as much as 13-points down in the second half, but could come no closer than four points in their attempt to regain the lead they lost in the first three minutes of play.

St. Francis, which is one of the few teams the Bucs play this year which is taller than East Carolina, used its height to keep the Bucs from working the ball inside, where the Pirates usually get their most points.

With center Mike Copeland (7-0) and his brother Gary (6-9) working inside, Pirate bigman Al Faber was shut off for most of the game, and didn't score at all in the first half. Most of the Pirate scoring had to come from outside, on shots by Mike Henrich and Jim Gregory.

The Bucs, oddly enough, outrebounded the Frankies, 36-33, with Jim Fairley leading the Pirates with 12. Mike Copeland had 11 to pace St. Francis.

But the turnovers were the real story of the game. The Bucs played good defensively, but were unable to keep their offensive game going. While no official tally of turnovers was kept, it was estimated that the Bucs lost the ball at least 20 times just due to bad passes. This was largely due to the tight pressing defense put on by the Frankies, especially their guards, Joe Hazinsky and Kevin Porter.

Porter was the real star for the Frankies. It was his ball handling and ball-hawking that gave St. Francis the ball on a number of occasions when the Bucs had the opportunity to gain ground. And his 22 points didn't hurt the St. Francis cause either.

East Carolina gained the lead at the start when Julius Prince got a bucket for a 2-0 lead. The Pirates led again at 4-2 and 6-4, but St. Francis tied it up and moved ahead on two quick baskets by Porter. He drove in for one, then stole the ball on the way back down the court for the other.

From that 8-6 lead, the Frankies moved away, and the Bucs never caught them again.

Fairley got a free throw, but Porter came up with two charity tosses with 16:01 to go to run the lead out to three, 10-7. After a pair of baskets, one by each team, Gary Copeland hit on a jumper, and then got a free throw seconds later to run the lead out to six, 15-9.

The Bucs struggled back and cut the margin to four at 21-17 on a pair of free throws by Prince and Fairley, but a jumper by Gary Copeland, and a bucket from underneath by Mike Copeland stretched the lead to eight, 25-17 with just over 10 minutes left.

The Bucs cut it back to four again, but St. Francis spurted away again to regain the eight point spread, 29-21. Then late in the period, the Bucs cut it to two, as Mike Henrich and Fairley hit jumpers and Prince got a free throw making it 30-28. Mike Copeland hit two, however, and moved the Frankies away again, and a jumper by Porter with 35 seconds left stretched the lead to 10, 40-30. The Bucs got a free throw by Gregory before the half ended to make it 40-31 at the intermission.

St. Francis came up with four more points to tack to the lead early in the second half. Tabaka hit on the fast break, and after Fairley made two free throws, Porter and Allen Spencer, each made good on the fast break to run the lead out to 13, 47-34.

The Bucs then began to long pull back. Faber got his first points of the night, and quickly hit on two more jumpers to cut the lead back to seven. After the Frankies scored a bucket, Price got a free throw and Faber hit from the floor again, making it slammed the door on the Bucs. They did manage to cut away part of the lead the rest of the way, but they could not overcome the 10-point spread in the final two minutes.

While Porter finished with 22, Hazensky had 15 and Mike Copeland had 11 for the Frankies.

East Carolina was led by Gregory with 21, Henrich with 13, while Prince and Fairley each had 11.

The Bucs' close out their pre-holiday season Saturday night in Norfolk, Va., meeting Old Dominion University. The Bucs, now 3-3 overall, are still looking for their first road win of the year.

Inexperience And Height Problems For Jamesville

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(One of a series)

JAMESVILLE — A lack of experience is the biggest problem the Jamesville Red Devils must overcome to be a threat in the Martin County Conference race this year.

"We have two starters back from last year," Coach George Hall said, "But aside from one other letterman, that's it."

The two returning starters are 6-6 center Larry Modlin, only a sophomore, and 5-10 guard Phil Blount.

Joining them is one other letterman, 5-8 guard Kenny Holiday, who has worked up to a starting job this year.

Handling the forward spots this season are 6-0 Tommy Mizelle and 5-11 Robert James.

"Except for Modlin, we really don't have a great deal of height, and this has hurt us rebounding. We haven't been able to control the boards," Hall said.

"But inexperience is hurting us too," he added. "And we can't go to the bench and find experience."

One of the biggest assets the team has is its speed and quickness. "We are going to use this to press more on defense," Hall said. "We haven't been able to use it in a fast break situation, however, mainly because we aren't getting the rebounds. So you can see it is not a major part of our offense."

Hall started his team off in a man-to-man defensive pattern, but because of the height problem, things didn't work too well. And since then, they've switched to a zone, and will use more pressing types of defenses, both half and full-court.

"I think our shooting ability is above average," Hall said. "Blount is good from about anywhere, and usually he's guarded pretty well. Mizelle has also been hitting well."

Another shooter who is coming around is Bill Moore, whom Hall currently lists as the number six man on the unit. And Macon Boston, a 6-1, 175-pounder, is another to whom Hall looks. "Neither have any experience, however," Hall said, "So they've got to learn it."

Fouling usually isn't a big problem for the Red Devils, although there have been one or two times when they've had to go to the bench for this reason.

Last season, the Red Devils had an outstanding year, losing only five contests and advancing to the district tournament before losing. This year, however, it might be a different story. Currently, Jamesville is 3-8. "We've had our ups and downs," Hall said. "We've lost several close ones. But I feel like we will start putting it together soon, and if our rebounding comes around, we could challenge for the championship."

Hall lists Robersonville as the team to beat, but feels both Oak City and his club could dethrone the Golden Eagles. "We just need to overcome our inexperience," Hall said.

Gamecocks Sock It To Terrapins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A fight broke out in the Maryland at South Carolina basketball game Wednesday night. Referee Gene Conely called the game with 4:52 remaining and declared the South Carolina Gamecocks, second-ranked nationally, the winner, 96-70.

It was the first loss this season for the Maryland Terrapins, who have won four, and their coach, Lefty Driesell, got a punch in the jaw.

Driesell, 6-3 and 210 pounds, accused John Ribcock, 6-8, 230-pound South Carolina forward, of slugging him when "all I was trying to do was to get him off of people. That's the first time in my life I've ever been hit by a player."

Newsmen said the melee started when Rick Aydtlett of South Carolina and a Maryland player exchanged blows under the South Carolina basket after a rebounding jam.

The fight seemed at an end when suddenly it broke out again near the Maryland bench. After a minute or two the referee called the game.

"Even if one of our boys did start it," Driesell said, South Carolina's players "should be able to take a little. I don't think it should be tolerated in college basketball."

South Carolina coach Frank McGuire said, "It was like a bomb explosion. Some spark set it off. And then, who knows what happened after that. I can't put the blame on anyone. It was a heated game and an unfortunate thing."

It was the only game of the night for Atlantic Coast Conference teams, and undefeated South Carolina's fourth victory. There also is only one game tonight, Virginia hosting William and Mary.

Tom Owens scored 28 points for South Carolina. Maryland played without its top scorer, Jim O'Brian, who is ill. But Howard White filled in capably, scoring 38 points.

Chocowinity Downs Oak City

CHOCOWINITY — Chocowinity High School stopped the 10-game winning streak of the Oak City girls Tuesday night, 35-30. The boys also downed Oak City, 72-58.

In the girls contest, Chocowinity rolled out into a 10-6 lead in the first period, then held off an Oak City rally in the second period. The Trojanettes outthit Chocowinity, 11-10, but still trailed, 20-17 at halftime.

In the third period, Chocowinity tacked two more points to its lead, 7-5, and led by 27-22 as the final frame got underway. Both teams scored eight points in the final period to give Chocowinity the win.

Sue Smith led Chocowinity with 16 points, while Cheryl Ross had 10 for Oak City.

In the boys contest, Chocowinity gained a slim 16-13 lead in the first period, but then pulled away from the Trojans, 19-11, in the second period. That left the hosts in 35-24 lead at halftime.

Oak City tried to rally in the third frame, cutting the lead by two-16-14, but still trailed, 49-40.

Chocowinity then outthit Oak City, 23-18, in the final period for the win.

Larry Page led Chocowinity with 23 points, while Ken Reddick had 13, Kenny Hines and Jay Smaw each had 12 and John Smith had 11.

Oak City was led by Donnie Duggins and William Raynor, each with 16.

Field Doesn't Curb Injuries

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan State University, playing all of its 10-game football schedule on supposedly safer artificial turf, this year suffered more player injuries than ever before.

But while the team doctor believes a synthetic field allows players to run faster and hit harder, he doesn't blame that. Instead, says Dr. Lawrence Jarrett, the culprit is the modern equipment that's worn these days.

Out of 26 injuries for the MSU Spartans this year, 13 sidelined their victims for the rest of the season, Jarrett said. Some 19 "important players" missed "considerable portions" of the Spartans' 4-6 season this fall, said Fred Stabley, sports information director.

Last year, when MSU first began playing and practicing on the tough, asphalt-based playing surface, season-long injuries sidelined about a dozen players — more than twice the norm over all the years stretching back to 1896 when football started in East Lansing.

Safety was a widely stressed rationale for the various types of synthetic carpet that have been promoted. MSU had one installed during the summer of 1969 at a cost of $250,000.

Major manufacturers bought lavish advertisements in mass-circulated sporting magazines and athletic trade publications to tout the contribution of their fields to avoiding injuries.

Wearing short, molded-rubber cleats long used by European soccer teams, players supposedly would face less risk to knees and ankles than they had with longer, nylon and metal cleats on grass and mud.

But 10 knee injuries and four sprained ankles led the list of categories that cost the Spartans top players on football Saturdays this year, Jarrett said.

Jarrett, white-haired and bluntly outspoken, won't knock the field, but says it does help speed up the collisions.

Driesell, With Bruised Lip, Demands Research Of South Carolina Fighting

By TED MEIER
Associated-Press Sports Writer

The Maryland Terrapins not only got walloped by the South Carolina Gamecocks, their coach got socked, too.

Lefty Driesell, the Terps' coach, was punched by John Ribock, a South Carolina player, as he tried to break up a fight among players of both teams that erupted near the Maryland bench Wednesday night.

The melee caused referee Gene Conley to call off the college basketball game at Columbia, S.C. with 4:52 left to play. At the time the nationally second-ranked Gamecocks were far ahead at 96-70 and that went into the books as the final score.

"John Ribock hit me," said Driesell who suffered a bruised cheek and lip. "All I was trying to do was to get him off people."

Ribock was not available for comment.

Richard Aydtlett of South Carolina and Jay Flowers of Maryland first came to blows under the Gamecock basket. The officials broke that up, but the fighting erupted again near the Maryland bench among players from both teams.

"It was like a bomb explosion," said Frank McGuire, South Carolina coach. "Some spark set it off and then who really knows what happened after that?"

"I shook hands with Driesell," McGuire continued. "But he was very mad."

"I would like for somebody to research how many times this South Carolina team has been involved in fights over the last two seasons," Driesell said. "There is no excuse for a team that has this much basketball talent fighting when they have a 30-point lead. I don't think it should be tolerated."

Howard White scored 38 points for Maryland while Tom Owens led South Carolina with 28.

The Gamecocks were the only team in the Associated Press Top Twenty to see action.

Navy beat Georgetown 76-69 in two overtimes, Fordham whipped Columbia 83-67, Brown upended Yale 79-66, Louisiana State defeated Tulane 94-79 and Brigham Young trampled Denver 100-72.

Jack Conrad's basket broke a 63-63 tie in the second extra period and put Navy ahead for good as the Middies snapped a four-game losing streak.

St. Francis, Pa. humbled East Carolina 71-67, Wichita State routed Nevada, Reno, 97-69, Toledo tripped San Francisco State 71-54 and Miami of Ohio downed Ball State 70-53 in other games.

Much $$ For Bout

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Heavyweight champion Joe Frazier's manager says Frazier and his next opponent, Muhammad Ali, will get $3 million each for their as yet unscheduled bout.

Yancy (Yank) Durham said Wednesday he has received several offers for the fight, including ones from Madison Square Garden, the Houston Astrodome and from closed circuit television.

"I have an agreement with Ali and his people that both boys will get the same amount of money when they fight. Between us," Durham said, "there's no question that we're gonna fight."

"The only question," he continued, "is where and for whom. When we get what we want, we'll settle on the date."

Uniform Similarity Causes NBA Protest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If Atlanta's Walt Hazzard were to give Alex Hannum the shirt off his back, the harried San Diego coach probably would take it. All Hazzard gave the Rockets Wednesday night, however, was the works.

Hannum protested the Hawks' 128-117 National Basketball Association victory because they, like the visiting Rockets, wore dark shirts. He contended the similarity was a factor in San Diego's 19 turnovers. It was the first time this season an opponent had committed more turnovers than the Hawks.

"Atlanta was not wearing white uniforms, which the home team is supposed to do," Hannum explained. "After we threw the ball away a half-dozen times, I protested because both teams were wearing dark uniforms. It was particularly bad because of the lighting, which I won't call bad but I will label peculiar. Their uniforms had a definite bearing on the game."

Hazzard scored 10 points over a three-minute stretch early in the fourth quarter to break open a tight game. He finished with 31 points and 11 assists, while Pete Maravich scored 27 and Bill Bridges 20, with a like number of rebounds. San Diego got 31 points from Stu Lantz and 30 from Elvin Hayes.

Elsewhere in the NBA, New York trounced Cleveland 108-84, Los Angeles whipped Cincinnati 118-102, and San Francisco defeated Seattle 108-91.

In the ABA, it was Kentucky 125, Indiana 110 and Utah 145, Memphis 101.

New York, held to a 50-50 half-time tie, outscored Cleveland 30-16 in the third period and sent the atrocious Cavaliers to their sixth consecutive defeat and 33rd in 35 games. Walt Frazier paced the Knicks with 22 points and John Johnson had 21 for the losers.

Wilt Chamberlain, who scored 35 points, pulled down 18 rebounds and had six assists, helped Los Angeles to a 21-point lead in the third period and an easy triumph over Cincinnati.

Jerry West added 25 points that left him 17 shy of the 20,000 mark for his career. Tom Van Arsdale was high for the Royals with 26.

Jeff Mullins and Jerry Lucas provided the fourth-period scoring impetus in San Francisco's conquest of Seattle. Mullins collected eight of his 23 points and Lucas six of his game-high 29 in the Warriors' last-quarter spurt.

Lenny Wilkens topped the SuperSonics with 28.

Randle Promises To Erase Doubts

RALEIGH (AP) — Sonny Randle, East Carolina's new football coach, says he proved he could make it in pro football and he'll soon prove he can make it as a coach.

The former all-pro pass receiver with the St. Louis Cardinals said Wednesday, "A lot of people doubted I could make it in pro football. But I think I proved myself in pro ball."

"Now, some people doubt my ability to coach," he said. "Well, it's not going to be very long before I erase those doubts."

Randle's comments came in a talk before the Raleigh Sports Club Wednesday.

"He said that although he has just one year's coaching experience, he had no reservations about taking the job. ECU announced the hiring of Randle Tuesday."

He said that anyone who comes to see the Pirates play next season will see "as exciting a team as will be put on the field in this part of the country."

"I've always heard you have to establish your running game," he added. "We'll throw to establish our running game."

N=F Unless F=L On Rainy Sunday

NEW YORK (AP) — Dates and starting times for the National Football League division playoffs on Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 26-27, were announced Wednesday night by Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

The December 26 schedule: At Baltimore—American Conference Eastern Division champion Baltimore vs. AFC Central Division champion, Cincinnati or Cleveland, or vs. Kansas City if it is the AFC's fourth qualifier for the playoffs.

At New York, Dallas or St. Louis—National Conference Eastern Division champion, New York, Dallas or St. Louis, vs. NFC Western Division champion, San Francisco or Los Angeles, or vs. Detroit if it is the NFC's fourth qualifier for the playoffs.

The Baltimore game will start at 12 noon, EST, if New York is NFC Eastern Division champion or at 1 p.m., EST, if Dallas or St. Louis win the NFC East. If New York wins, the game in New York will be at 3 p.m. It will begin at 4 p.m. if at Dallas or St. Louis.

The Dec. 27 schedule: At Minnesota, 1 p.m. EST—NFC Central Division champion Minnesota, vs. NFC's fourth qualifier, or vs. Western Division champion, San Francisco or Los Angeles, if Detroit is the NFC's fourth qualifier.

New Appeal On Derby

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A decision on what thoroughbred won the 1968 Kentucky Derby purse appears headed to Kentucky's highest court today, following a decision by the State Racing Commission to appeal a lower court's ruling to award the money to Dancer's Image.

In a unanimous vote Wednesday, the five commissioners agreed to take the case to the Court of Appeals as soon as the Franklin Circuit Court decision is made final.

Circuit Judge Henry Meigs, in a ruling last Friday, said there was insufficient evidence to disqualify Peter Fuller's colt from participation in the purse of the 1968 Derby.

Meigs' ruling overruled the commission's decision last year which held that Calumet Farm's Forward Pass should receive the $122,600 first prize but that Dancer's Image was the winner of the race.

Fuller, a wealthy Boston auto car dealer, began his legal battle after that decision.

Meigs said in his ruling that tests run on Dancer's Image by the commission chemist, Kenneth Smith, were "inadequate and contradictory."

Smith had tested the colt after the race and reported later that Dancer's Image showed traces of phenylbutazone, a forbidden medication, in his urinalysis.

If the appellate court upholds the lower court decision, state Racing Commissioner George Egger indicated the matter would not be appealed further.

"I think it is a state matter," Egger said, after announcing the commission's decision.

McCovey Tops NL's Sluggers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Willie McCovey's .612 slugging average was tops in the 1970 National League season, official statistics released today showed.

The San Francisco first baseman gained 303 total bases in 495 at-bats for the title, mainly because of his 39 home runs, 39 doubles and 2 triples.

The slugging average is computed by dividing the total bases a player gains on hits into the number of times he has been at bat.

McCovey's batting average was only .289.

Finishing behind McCovey in slugging were Tony Perez of Cincinnati at .589 and Johnny Bench of Cincinnati at .587.

Miscellaneous statistics, helpful in midwinter trivia contests, show that McCovey also drew the most walks, 137, and the most intentional walks, 40.

His Giant teammate Bobby Bonds led the league for the third straight year in the number of times struck by a pitch, 26.

Bonds also struck out the most times, 189, a major league record. But he also grounded into the fewest double plays, six, in a tie with swift Willie Davis of Los Angeles.

Cleon Jones of New York grounded into the most double plays, 26.

Ali Says He'll Quit

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Former heavyweight boxing champ Muhammad Ali says he's getting out of the boxing business as soon as he polishes off Joe Frazier.

"Yea, I believe I'm gettin' on out," he said Wednesday. "I'm sure I am. This will be the climax of my whole career."

Ali, also known as Cassius Clay, said he thinks the big fight of his life will be the Frazier fight, Feb. 23, 1971, in the Houston Astrodome.

"The contracts haven't been signed yet, but I think that's where it will be," he said.

The talkative boxer says he expects to make "about a million dollars after taxes" for the fight. It is expected to draw a $7 million to $10 million gate.

Case For God: Reason, Wonder, Witnesses

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Modern man, schooled, skilled and purportedly "come to age" to manage his own destiny, often has doubts about God.

To an extent, this has always been so. "Truly," said the prophet Isaiah, "Thou art a God who hidest thyself."

But today, in the enveloping sweep of technocracy and surging physical sciences that enormously magnify the mind and powers of man himself, the veil around man hangs heavier.

It's harder to notice much else, now that "moon dust" turns out to be only dust and chemicals replace prayer to increase crops and cure illness. Is there still room or reason left for god?

That, as many thinkers see it, has become the underlying religious challenge of the age. "The reality of God has now become the central theological problem," says Methodist theologian Shubert M. Ogden.

In the Christmas season, marking an event regarded by Christians as God's fullest manifestation among men, the issue persists behind the bright tinsel and festivities.

"Consciously and unconsciously, openly and under camouflage, mankind today is moved by the question of God as never before," says Roman Catholic scholar William H. Van de Pol.

It is as if the divine had been "crowded out" of everyday experience, he says, by man's overwhelming technical accomplishments in deducing, defining and dealing with reality, subtly discounting any of its other aspects.

In such an atmosphere, absorbed in precision systems, data analysis and the achievements of human intellect in mastering nature's secrets, men almost automatically tend to make their estimate of God in those terms.

By that predominating standard, is there any evidence of God?

It is available in abundance. And its "factual and intellectual basis is just as broad and advert as the factual and intellectual basis" of scientific concepts, says noted nuclear physicist and Episcopal priest William G. Pollard.

Some of it also is highly abstruse, as foggy to the ordinary believer as Einstein's relativity equations, which also are based on reasoned probabilities and faith, as is all scientific advance.

Nevertheless, a vast and varied store of logic has accumulated behind the thesis of God.

Although seeking to ascertain the divine through human knowledge has been shunned by many religious scholars in recent times, on the ground that it tends to reduce God erroneously to man's own capabilities, others lately have insisted that the approach, while only partial, is essential in the modern climate of life.

However bad "some arid intellectualism" has been in pursuing religious truth, "anti-intellectualism is worse, since it provides no antidote to either superstition or wish-thinking," says Quaker philosopher Elton Trueblood.

Scores of so-called "proofs"—a relative term in any field—have been advanced.

Most of the commonly known arguments find their evidence in four categories, namely: ontological—based on modes of being, cosmological—based on the cosmos, moral—concerning ethical sensibility and teleological—dealing with purpose.

Here is a tightly capsuled sketch of the simpler lines of reasoning:

ONTOLOGICAL: Unlike other life, man alone realizes the limits of his being, and by the very fact that he does so, transcends it in awareness of potential infinity, which is thus in him yet also beyond him.

This is an immediately experienced, existential pointer to God.

It leaves man with a latent, yet always present anxiety about his end of being, not just about dying, but about having to die, to be no more. He can know of this threatened "nonbeing" only by looking at it from a perspective surpassing it, from a viewpoint of possible infinity.

Because of the uneasy conflict between man's limited "being" and the demand within him for unlimited "being," he is estranged from his own situation, belonging in elemental awareness to an infinite "ground of being"—God.

The late great theologian Paul Tillich notes that if man's biological actuality matched his conscious awareness, he would never even ask about God, nor would he be able to receive divine revelation. But as it is, his awareness transcends his present status.

COSMOLOGICAL: Based strictly on reasoning, the validity of these deductions has rarely been challenged, but they have been disregarded by many lately because they seem to portray God as chiefly in the remote past, in a mechanistic way, rather than as continuously involved in life.

Voluminously elaborated through the centuries, they were most notably systematized by the 13th century thinker Thomas Aquinas in his famous "five ways" of demonstrating God's existence. He himself conceded they don't show divine character, only the fact of God's existence. Briefly, they are:

—Since everything conceivable was caused by something else before it, if this chain of cause and effect could be traced back to its beginning, there must have been a first "uncaused cause"—God.

—Similarly, since every movement or change requires a prior movement or change requires a prior movement to produce it, there must have been an origin to the process, the first "prime mover"—God.

—The intricate, orderly design of the universe, with its amazing interacting balance of forces, rhythms and regularities, from atom to star, indicate some infinitely intelligent planner—God. All sciences are utterly dependent on this steady pattern, drawing everything they know from it.

—The partial degrees of natural perfection suggest there must be Perfection; the good suggest there must be the best—God.

—Since all things in nature conceivably could either be or not be, as is the case in their springing up and dying away, this contingent quality could not apply to everything, because it would mean everything once may have been nothing. This could not be true, however, since things do exist and something is necessary to bring anything out of nothing, thus making necessary something that always has been—God.

MORAL: Deep within man lies a curiosity about "moral law" or sense of "oughtness," a voice of conscience that in some cases may demand that he sacrifice his own self-interest, safety or even survival for its sake.

It is unexplained by any biological or psychological urges, such as those for power or pleasure, since it may contradict them. It can be compromised or rejected, and often is, but it remains fastened within, pricking, goading, even when resisted secretly, unknown to anyone else.

Its application varies among different cultures, but they all are found to display it, and the very comparison of approaches to it presupposes its universal reality.

In an immediate sense, it can be attributed to teaching or conditioning of parents or ancestors, but at some point, they had to get it from somewhere, and the source must have transcended man since its noblest manifestations may defy all natural ties, reputation, family, social well-being and instincts of self-preservation.

It is what the 18th century philosopher Immanuel Kant called the "categorical imperative" to strive for the highest good, the "summum bonum" of God.

TELEOLOGICAL: Like an arrow shot willfully at a target, the world, in all its natural and human phenomena of change, displays a basic purposefulness, as if instilled with an unseen goal and struggling toward it.

This argument is strengthened by the theory of evolution in its concept of life as always evolving toward higher forms, taking on new qualities to fill some need, adapting, groping, often failing, but always pushing upward.

The noted paleontologist and Catholic scholar, Pierre Teilhard de Chardin, saw all matter as permeated with spiritual energy, evoking through biogenesis ever greater perceptivity, moving toward an appointed

"Omega Point"—God.

The insight parallels the newest scientific concept of a dynamic, rather than static, universe of the indestructible convertibility of matter and energy and continuous, interconnected development.

Also, the new theologies of "hope" and "process" see all reality as process, subject to error and human evil, yet always open to newness and novelty, with God in its depth rather than its heights. He also is viewed as not just past Creator, but as ahead of man, drawing him forward in hope and promise toward a new future.

Many interpretations of these and other factors have been offered as evidence of God in man's ability to observe and reason. But sheer logic seldom persuades at the profoundest levels of experience, where many finds his strongest motivations and convictions.

'Waste' Product Has Found Use As Fast Freezer

CHICAGO (UPI)—Liquid nitrogen, which has a temperature of minus 320 degrees F., is being used to prefreeze meats and other foods and, paradoxically, help "thaw" the resistance of shoppers to these products, reports one of its producers.

As a result, sales of the gas, once an unwanted waste product obtained during the distillation of oxygen from the atmosphere, are zooming say the National Cylinder Gas Division of Chemetron Corporation.

"The reason consumers are buying more products frozen with nitrogen is that it freezes foods so fast that it prevents the formation of large ice crystals that can rupture cell walls and make products such as strawberries mushy. Meats and other products frozen with it retain their color, texture and taste," says Carl F. Fritch Jr., Chemetron's expert on nitrogen freezing.

OPEN 24 HOURS

LIMA (UPI)—Peruvian pharmacies, on a rotating basis, are required to stay open 24 hours. Newspapers publish lists of the pharmacies which will be open all night.

Horse With Delicate Walk Has Ancient Lineage

By EARL COPELAND
SAN JUAN (UPI) —The paso fino (fine walk) horse is a true king of the breed and indigenous to Puerto Rico. His walk is so smooth that on a good one you can carry a full glass of water without spilling.

The great distinction of the paso fino is his gait—for aside from the usual walk and canter he has a sort of four-beat singlefoot which is as smooth as anything in motion can be.

But delicacy of walk is not the only thing that makes the paso fino outstanding. As a direct descendant of the horses brought to Puerto Rico more than four centuries ago by the Spanish Conquistadores, natural selection has produced a strong breed capable of withstanding heat and hard labor.

When San Juan was much younger, the celebration for patron saints' days were lively affairs. Horse racing became an important part of some celebrations with wealthy owners running their mounts around and around the walled until the horses gave out. Many of the riders, according to contemporary accounts, remained in the saddle for as long as eighteen hours.

Only Original Sports
Luis Romero Cuevas, sportswriter for the newspaper El Mundo, said in a story that the paso fino horse sports are generally recognized by local historians as the only sports to have originated in Puerto Rico.

There has been renewed interest in these sports in the last 26 years with the National Association of Sport of Paso Fino Horses of Puerto Rico, headed by Dr. Luis F. Passalacqua, leading the way.

The association opened a training school in Guayanabo to provide free classes daily to those interested in learning to ride the paso fino.

The first horses brought to the New World from Spain arrived in Puerto Rico in 1509. Most of that first group were Andalusian and Arabian horses, brought from Northern Africa.

These horses reproduced so well on the fertile plains near Coamo, P.R., that in 1519 Fernando Pizarro sent his brother Francisco, conqueror of Peru, 30 descendants of those that first came to the island.

Breed Deteriorates
For the first century and a half of colonization, the breed deteriorated. The thick tropical growth covering the island, the lack of roads, heavy rains and improper feed all contributed to the decline of the horse.

Toward the mid-17th century, the horse began to come into its own. Training for competitions, races, and horses shows brought out the best in the breed.

By the middle of the 19th century, many plantation owners began selecting and training horses for use with carriages as well as for riding.

The bidding:
South West North East
1 NT Pass 3 NT Pass
Pass Pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♣ Concern for the safety of his three no trump contract paid off a handsome dividend to one declarer in a recent team of four match, when he took maximum measures to protect himself.

The bidding was the same at both tables, and in each case West opened the jack of spades into declarer's queen. One South led the seven of diamonds at trick two to North's queen to put thru the queen of clubs for a finesse. West was in with the king.

The spade suit could now be established by leading the king to dislodge South's ace, however the sequence of plays had uncovered some interesting information concerning declarer's holding.

When the jack of diamonds held, it indicated that South had both the ace and king. He was marked with the ace, queen of spades and if he had the ace of clubs as well—as was suggested from the manner in which he had played that suit—then 10 tricks were there for the taking. What was most significant, however, was that West could assign 17 points to South in these three suits, leaving nothing in the fourth suit—hearts. So reasoning, West shifted to a heart thru dummy's king-jack. East proceeded to cash five tricks in that suit to send the declarer down to defeat.

At the other table, South was more concerned about protecting his Achilles heel from attack. He did not mind letting East in where a heart shift would assure him of retaining a stopper in that suit. He felt that every effort must be extended to keep West out of the lead.

After winning the spade opening, declarer put down the ace of clubs and caught West's king. He routinely cashed 11 tricks—five clubs, four diamonds and two spades—and netted an 860 point swing for his side [660 for the vulnerable game plus the 200 point set recorded by his teammates].

Worry Clinic

Coddled Child Can Be Hostile

Lola was an adopted child who felt hostile because her parents hadn't informed her of that fact. Afterwards, she used psychological "blackmail" to gain extra favors. For she learned to play one parent against the other to gain additional concessions. You divorced parents must also be on guard against such childish "blackmail."

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D.; M.D.

CASE P-514: Lola B., aged 14, is a runaway teenager.

"Dr. Crane," she later told me after police had located her in Ft. Lauderdale, Florida, "my mother doesn't understand me. 'And Daddy refuses to let me have dates during the week.'"

What Lola omitted was the fact her parents had adopted her when she was a few weeks old. They failed to inform her of that fact until some of her cousins "let the cat out of the bag."

Crushed by this shocking revelation, she then confronted her parents, who awkwardly admitted the truth.

So Lola, like many adopted youngsters, developed a veiled hostility to her Daddy and Mother.

But the foster child complex doesn't explain the 500,000 other runaway teen-agers every year in the U.S.A.

"Hostility" is an underlying cause, for many coddled kiddies lack a sense of creative accomplishment.

And they may play one parent against the other to gain an increase in their spending money.

This is also true of the children of divorced parents, for such youngsters soon learn that they can deftly force each parent to "buy" their love.

Thus, the divorced parents may secretly bribe the child's favor with special concessions, such as letting the child stay up far beyond the standard curfew hour for watching TV.

And you foster parents often are afraid to hold your adopted child to the rigid rules of the game lest you lose her love.

"Dr. Crane," many a foster parent has admitted, "I fear I will lose her love. 'For she is an adopted child and may thus be more easily alienated if I punish her or make her do her chores!'"

Parents, never submit to such psychological "blackmail." Instead, resolutely realize that your main job as a parent is to rear a self-reliant, well-adjusted youngster.

This means that punishment is an integral part of child rearing! Children don't lose their love for you because you punish them for their evident misdeeds! Get that straight!

Instead, many children resent their parents because the latter are "too easy" on the youngsters and chronically give the children their own ways.

My youngest son, Dr. David G. Crane, headed the Mental Health Clinic at Bloomington, Indiana.

Three high school girls were brought to him who had wanted to drive along to Ft. Lauderdale during the Easter holiday trek of college youth to Florida.

Two of the girls were sisters whose parents had flatly refused to let them go.

The girls grumbled but felt no permanent hostility. The other girl shed tears because she said her parents didn't love her. Why? Because they told her to do as she pleased!

She felt they should have vetoed her idea if they had really cared about her! So send for my "Behavior Tests for Teen-Agers," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20c.

Outstanding Pair Honored

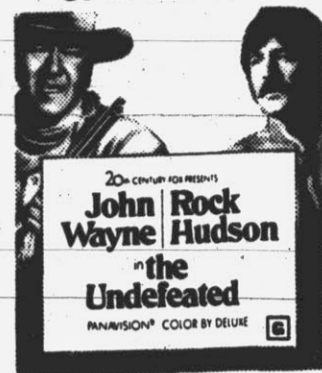

Two East Carolina University students from the Piedmont have been awarded plaques and $150 scholarship awards as the most outstanding student workers of the year in the ECU Student Supply Store.

The two are Nancy Elizabeth Fritts, a sophomore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Terry Fritts of 128 Ward Curry Rd., Lexington, and Randolph Carlton Jones, a senior, son of Willard C. Jones, 3226 Woodlea Drive, Greensboro.

They were presented their plaques and awards at an annual Christmas Party for Student Supply Store personnel. Dr. Leo Jenkins, ECU president, congratulated them and made brief remarks. Clifton Moore, Therefore, the restrictions pertaining to the interstate movement of swine and swine products from or through quarantined areas as contained in 9 CFR Part 76, as amended, will not apply to the excluded areas. However, the restrictions pertaining to the interstate movement from nonquarantined areas contained in said Part 76 will apply to the areas excluded from quarantine.

The amendment of the regulations will be published in the Federal Register. Detailed information concerning the amendment may also be obtained from Dr. W. W. Harkins, Animal Quarantine Charge, Post Office Box 2656, 320 Agricultural Building, Raleigh, North Carolina 27603.

Done at Washington, D. C., this 29th day of November, 1970.

LEGAL NOTICE
State of North Carolina
Board of Water and Air Resources
York County, North Carolina
NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, pursuant to Article 21, of Chapter 143, General Statutes of North Carolina, as amended, that a public hearing will be held by the Water and Air Quality Control Committee of the North Carolina Board of Water and Air Resources for the purpose of considering the upgrading of all classifications assigned to all streams having segments heretofore assigned Class "E". The hearing will be held in the Auditorium, First Floor, State Board of Health Laboratory Division Building, 214 West Jones Street, Raleigh, North Carolina, beginning at 10:00 a.m., EST, Thursday, January 7, 1971.

The waters to be considered for classification during the hearing include certain streams in the following River Basins:

1. Cape Fear River Basin — Craven, Durham, Granville, Pitt, and Wake Counties
2. Catawba River Basin — Mecklenburg County
3. French Broad River Basin — Buncombe, Haywood, Henderson, and Transylvania Counties
4. Little Tennessee River Basin — Jackson County
5. Neuse River Basin — Craven, Durham, Granville, Pitt, and Wake Counties
6. Pasquotank River Basin — Pasquotank County
7. Roanoke River Basin — Caswell, Martin, Person, and Washington Counties
8. Tar-Pamlico River Basin — Edgecombe, Franklin, Halifax, Nash, and Wilson Counties
9. Yadkin-Pee Dee River Basin — Cabarrus, Iredell, Stanly, and Union Counties

All persons interested in this matter are invited to attend. Persons desiring to be heard should give notice thereof in writing to the Board on or before the date of the hearing. It is requested that, insofar as possible, any person desiring of offering lengthy comments on the proposed classification be prepared at the public hearing to offer a written statement for inclusion in the record of proceedings. The names of the streams proposed to be classified and copies of the proposed classifications are available in the office of the Water Quality Division, Department of Health and Air Resources, P. O. Box 27048, Raleigh, North Carolina 27611, and may be obtained upon request.

E. C. Hubbard,
Assistant Director
Board of Water and Air Resources

City To Auction Fifty Bicycles

Fifty bicycles and one tricycle are scheduled to be sold at auction at 10 a.m. Friday at the Greenville Police Department. The two and three-wheeled vehicles are ones that have been recovered by local law enforcement officers during the past year and not claimed by their owners.

Many of them are bicycles that have been stolen and recovered by police and their true owners unknown. Others are bicycles lost or "left somewhere" by their young riders who have not claimed their vehicles.

According to Police Chief T. E. Gladson, many of the vehicles could have been returned to their owners if they had been registered—as required by city ordinance—with the local department.

Bicycle registration plates are issued each year by the police department and aid officers in returning lost and stolen bicycles.

According to the chief, more bicycles have been reclaimed through the department's licensing program this year than ever before. Yet more remain to be sold this year than in the past.

Persons who have lost bicycles during the past year may view the bicycles and have them returned upon proof of ownership prior to Friday's sale, the chief explained.

Gardner Corp. Said Expanding

ROCKY MOUNT, N.C. (AP) — James Gardner of Rocky Mount, unsuccessful Republican candidate for governor of North Carolina in 1968, says the Carolando Corp. which he heads is acquiring the Horne's Motor Inn system and Horne's restaurants.

Gardner made the announcement Wednesday but did not announce financial details of the transaction.

The corporation now operates two quick-service restaurant chains and is planning a development at Orlando, Fla.

The bicycle sale will be conducted in the alley beside the Police Department beginning at 10 a.m. Friday.

WATCHDOG COMMITTEE
FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — A state watchdog committee on government spending reports that three-fourths of its 117 recommendations assigned to be adopted by affected agencies although the committee has no power to compel compliance.

Higher Education A Major Issue To Rep. Godwin

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina House Speaker Phil Godwin, D-Gates, says the structure of higher education in the state "is at a low ebb."

Godwin said Wednesday in an interview that he feels the problem of higher education will be one of the major issues facing the 1971 General Assembly. Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor, presiding officer of the Senate, voiced a similar prediction.

"There is too much rivalry among institutions when it comes to getting money from the legislature," Godwin said.

Godwin said the infighting for funds and favors among the state-supported colleges and universities "has weakened the total structure of higher education."

"What we need is some board or group, somebody that would give fair and unbiased recommendations to the appropriations committee as to what each institution actually needs," he added.

Gov. Bob Scott acknowledged at a news conference Tuesday that he has suggested the "need for a different organization" of higher education.

Scott made the suggestion at a private meeting at the Executive Mansion Sunday of about 40 trustees of colleges and universities and members of the state Board of Higher Education.

Scott is reported to have told the trustees: "We could create a new structure from the best of the Consolidated University (of North Carolina) and the Board of Higher Education. I don't mean something new above them, a super board. I am talking about starting all over, scrambling a new batch of eggs. Do away with the Board of Higher Education and the Consolidated University and create something new. This is the board the General Assembly should look to instead of regional pressures."

Dr. Cameron West, director of the Board of Higher Education, said, "I think it would be premature for me to comment now" on the meeting or Scott's proposals.

President William Friday of the Consolidated University of North Carolina said, "I don't know of anyone who's in administration of state-supported higher education (in North Carolina) who doesn't feel we need a hard, serious look at our structure."

East Carolina University president Leo Jenkins declined to comment on the matter.

Lt. Gov. Taylor and Godwin both said they felt Scott had taken the only means possible for restructuring higher education when he put the burden on the trustees of the public institutions.

"Everything is at loose ends," Godwin said. "The legislature will want to do something, but they have to look to the advice of someone else."

"If the trustees can come up with a recommendation, I think the legislature will welcome it," Godwin said.

Taylor said, "It's going to be very difficult to get a consensus plan affecting all the institutions of higher learning. But I doubt very seriously if the legislature could do it (restructure) without some general agreement."

"There are too many diverse points of view which reflect the thinking of geographical or alumni ties," Taylor said.

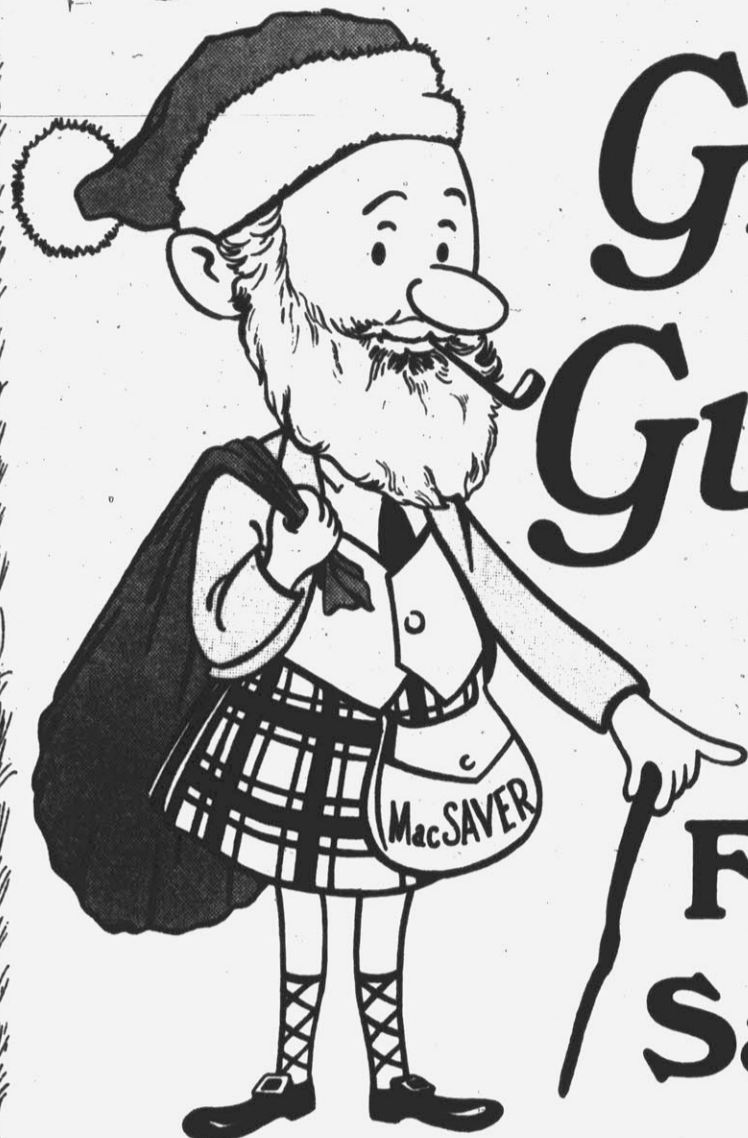

Both men said they would give more thought than they had planned to before the House committees on Higher education when the session convenes Jan. 13.

Godwin said whoever he picks to chair the House committee "is not going to be going to try to get someone who's open-minded about the whole issue — not someone who's a member of an alumni association."
