Senate Okays Cambodian And Israeli Arms Money Measure

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed early today a $1.8-billion appropriations bill providing $255 million in assistance for Cambodia and $500 million to help bolster the armed forces of Israel.

That bill was sent to President Nixon amid a burst of midnight speed that also produced an effort to settle the foreign policy dispute stalling the $66.6-billion defense appropriations bill. In a scant 10 minutes, the Senate dealt with two issues that have been among the legislative tangles blocking the path to adjournment of the 91st Congress. Another controversy was unraveled earlier Monday as the Senate dropped welfare reform and trade legislation in an attempt to beat the calendar and salvage a $6.5-billion-a-year increase in Social Security benefits.

The Social Security measure, on which a final vote could come late today, also would provide a $1-billion increase in welfare payments for some 3 million aged, blind and disabled Americans.

But, with the 91st Congress expiring at noon Sunday, little time is left for a House-Senate conference on Social Security.

The supplemental appropriations bill includes more than $1 billion worth of foreign aid for Asia and the Middle East. Its course was prepared before the Christmas recess, when Congress approved legislation authorizing the spending, but forbidding use of ground combat forces or military advisers in Cambodia.

The big defense money bill has been blocked by controversy about restrictions on the use of U.S. forces in Southeast Asia outside of South Vietnam.

In that one, the Senate had prohibited use of ground combat troops in Cambodia, Laos and Thailand. But in conference with the House a waiver was added, declaring the ban would not prevent President Nixon from taking any steps he deemed necessary to promote safe and orderly withdrawal of American forces from South Vietnam, or to win release of U.S. prisoners of war.

A bloc led by Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., opposed that provision.

To get around the dispute, the Senate rejected the compromise defense money measure, forcing a new round of conferences with the House. The new negotiations are expected to produce a bill stripped of the waiver.

The long night's work left the stalemate over a $210-million appropriation for the supersonic transport plane as the major obstacle looming in the path of adjournment.

The $210-million figure for the SST was set by a conference committee after the Senate had cut off funds for the plane and the House approved the full $290 million asked by the Nixon administration.

The Social Security bill authorizes raises of 10 to 56 percent for about 26 million recipients, setting a new $100 minimum monthly individual payment and $150 for couples.

It faces an uncertain future in negotiating sessions with the House, which approved a 5 percent increase.

For more than six hours Monday night, the Senate whittled away at a stack of amendments to the bill, making one major change by raising to $2,400 a year the amount a Social Security recipient can earn without losing any of his benefits. That amendment, proposed by Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., was approved on a 52-9 vote.

By prying Social Security increases loose from the bitterly contested family assistance program and restrictive trade legislation, the Senate managed to clear a route around one obstacle to adjournment.

The House and Senate already have adopted a resolution setting Jan. 21 as the convening date for the new Congress, and White House sources said President Nixon will sign it.

Utilities See Prices Hiked By Suppliers

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector Managing Editor

Greenville Utilities is facing increases in electric and gas rates from its suppliers, which probably will have to be passed on to its customers.

Director Charles Horne said he had received notification from Virginia Electric and Power Co. that it has filed with the Federal Power Commission for a 23.91 percent increase in electrical rates to municipal customers.

In addition N. C. Natural Gas has notified GUCO that it is requesting an increase in rates of 3.498 cents per million cubic feet, effective Jan. 10, 1971. This represents an increase of approximately seven percent.

Horne said he believed the possibility of the gas increase being approved is "fairly good" since N.C. Natural Gas is passing on an increase granted to Transcontinental, which is N.C. Natural's supplier.

Horne also said there has been an increase of 30 to 40 percent in the price of propane gas, which is used to serve bottled gas customers. He estimated that approximately 30 percent of GUCO's gas customers are served with Propane, although a program is now under way to extend gas mains to serve many of these customers.

The Utilities Commission is expected to consider plans for increasing local gas rates so that the increased costs can be covered.

Horne said it was too soon to speculate on what GUCO will be faced with so far as increasing electrical rates. The VEPCO request for the 23.91 percent increase will go through hearings before the FPC and it could be months before a final decision is reached, Horne speculated. However, he indicated that there was no chance that GUCO could absorb either of the increases from its suppliers since GUCO's labor and other costs have also been rising.

In any case, the final decision on increasing local gas and electric rates, following the increases to be granted to the suppliers, rests with the Utilities commissioners.

Scott Proffers His New Higher Education Plan

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott, declaring "I came here to listen," went into a closed-door meeting today to present to the executive committee of the University of North Carolina's Board of Trustees his proposal for restructuring higher education.

"I'm just going to present them with the need for reorganization, the same thing I've been saying before, and ask them for their thinking," Scott said shortly before the session began.

He said he did not intend to ask the trustees for any formal action and did not know whether they would take any.

Present for the session were the 15 members of the executive committee, chancellors of the university's six campuses, and the consolidated university president, Dr. William Friday.

The governor said he expected to take about 1½ hours to present his proposals and that discussion by the trustees would begin then.

There was no indication how long the meeting would continue.

Scott first mentioned the idea about two weeks ago when he met in private with trustees of the state's public universities and members of the state Board of Higher Education.

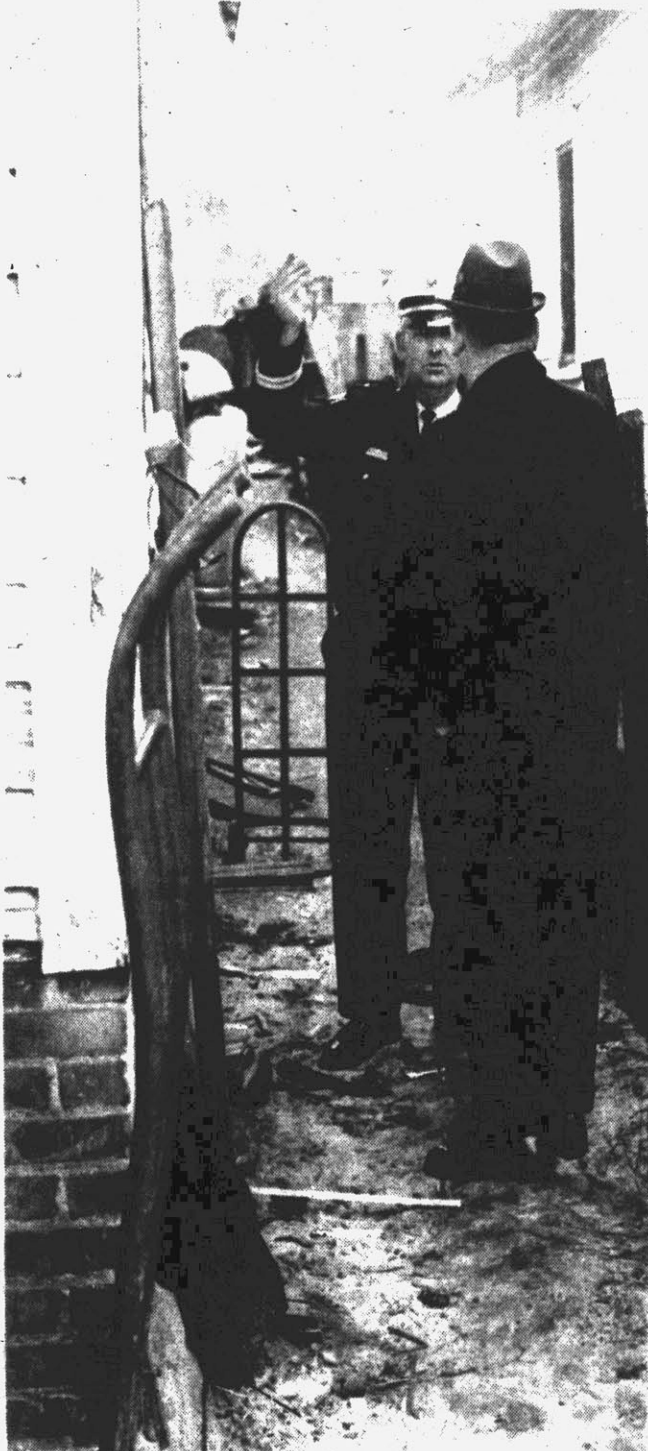

The governor suggested the formation of a single board of trustees or regents to exercise policy control over all institutions now under the UNC Board of Trustees and various regional trustees.

Such a group might also absorb the present Board of Higher Education.

House Speaker Phil Godwin, D-Gates, said recently "too much infighting" in the General Assembly by state-supported colleges and universities "has weakened the total structure of higher education."

He added, "There is too much rivalry among institutions when it comes to getting money from the legislature."

The executive committee of the Board of Higher Education has approved the governor's call for reorganization. In addition, Consolidated UNC President William Friday has endorsed the idea of looking into restructuring.

Morning Shooting

SCENE OF SHOOTING . . . James Rivers, 50, was shot in the head at 1212A Railroad St. about 10:25 a.m. today. Police said a woman, Annie Lawrence of 1212A Railroad St., was taken into custody in connection with the incident. They said Rivers was shot with a .22 caliber pistol in the right eye. The shot, they said, was fired from inside the Railroad Street house, through a window at Rivers who was outside the dwelling. Investigation of the incident was still under way late this morning. Rivers of 608 Tyson St. was admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment. (Reflector Staff Photo)

Disclaim 'Quota' For ECU

RALEIGH (AP) — The deans of North Carolina's three medical schools indicate they may not have room for the 16 to 20 two-year graduates East Carolina University plans to produce each year during its first years of medical school operation.

They say they have made no firm agreement to accept a certain quota of graduates from the proposed two-year medical school at ECU.

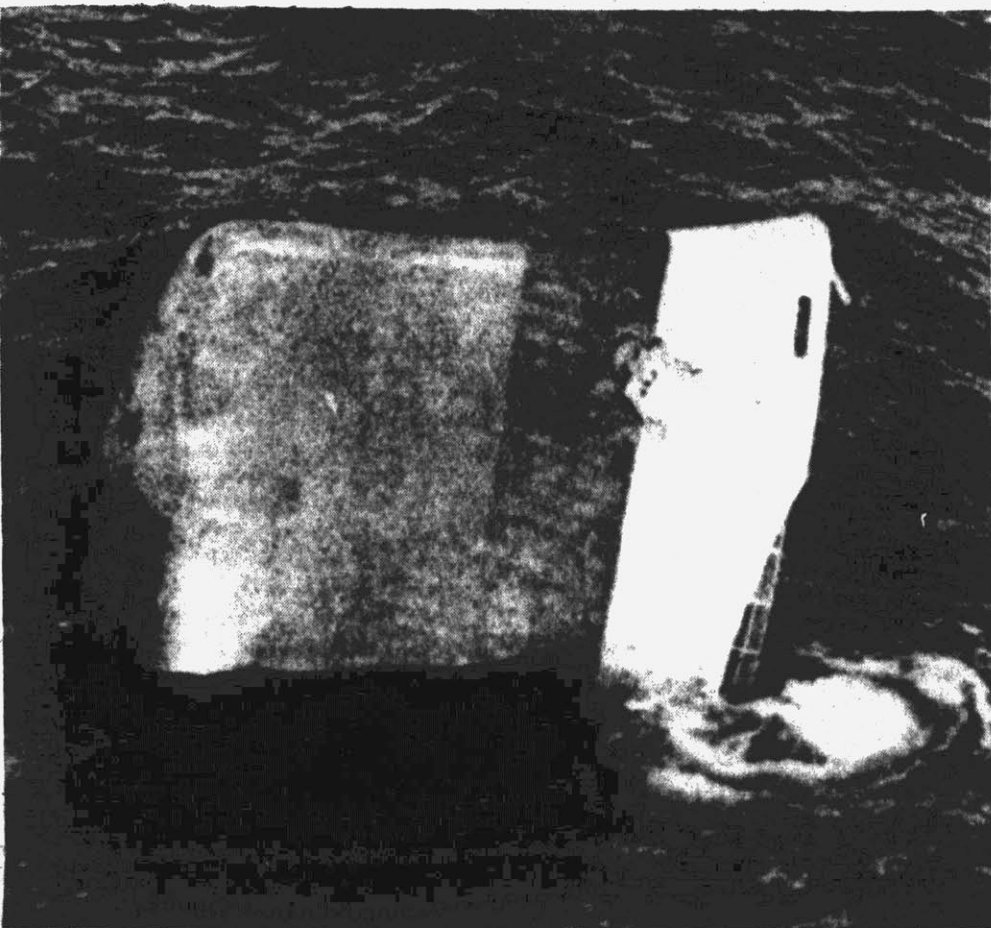

President Leo Jenkins of ECU has said there is an agreement between the University of North Carolina, Bowman Gray and Duke medical schools to accept 16 to 20 ECU medical school graduates each year after the school opens.

Asked about this, Dr. Isaac Taylor, UNC Medical School dean, said: "No, we haven't agreed to accept students. We have made no agreement to take any specific number of students in transfer from East Carolina."

Students completing a two-year program at ECU, Taylor said, "would be considered along with applicants from other schools around the country."

Dr. Manson Meads, dean and vice president for medical affairs at Bowman Gray, said, "Bowman Gray has agreed to consider for transfer qualified students from East Carolina to fill spaces available. At our present attrition rate, that would be about three or four places each year."

At Duke, Dr. Fuydam Osterhour, associate director for administration, said, "Our attitude with East Carolina was one of cooperation. We'll receive applications from students in any two-year medical school and give them proper appraisal . . . All things being equal, we'd give the benefit to East Carolina."

BOW ON THE WATER — The bow section of the Panamanian tanker Chryssi sinks into the Atlantic about 270 miles southeast of Bermuda after the ship split in two in heavy seas. (USCG Photo via AP Wirephoto)

Missing Lifeboat And Crewmen Hunted Today

NEW YORK (AP) — A missing lifeboat today carried the hopes for rescue of 21 crewmen unaccounted for in the sinking of the Panamanian tanker Chryssi, which went down 270 miles southwest of Bermuda.

A Coast Guard C130 aircraft from Elizabeth City, N.C., resumed the search for the missing boat and men at daybreak. Search conditions were reported to be excellent with unrestricted visibility.

Seventeen other crewmen including the master were picked up by the Norwegian ship Ross Mount after they were spotted Monday in a lifeboat some 82 miles from the last reported position of the Chryssi.

A Coast Guard spokesman said the Chryssi carried four lifeboats. One lifeboat was destroyed in launching, the second capsized and the third carried the 17 rescued.

The spokesman said it was hoped that the 21 men were aboard the fourth craft, which was unaccounted for.

Meanwhile the Coast Guard said it had indefinitely suspended the search for six men including the master of the Finnish tanker Ragny which broke in two 600 miles southeast of New York.

Thirty-one men on the stern section were rescued by the cutter Escanaba early Monday. The six missing were on the bow section but were reported "feared lost."

The Chryssi crew was ordered to abandon ship at 6:40 p.m. Saturday after the 19,000-ton vessel cracked in two rapidly with no warning, the Coast Guard reported the master as saying.

The Coast Guard said no distress signal had been received from the 644-foot Chryssi, built in 1953 at the Bethlehem Steel Co. yards in Quincy, Mass. The sinking ship was sighted Monday morning by the American freighter Geneva.

The Chryssi had been en route from Venezuela to Salem, Mass.

Basques Swear Take Revenge

BURGOS, Spain (AP) — Basque nationalists swore vengeance today against the military judges who sentenced six Basques to death and nine others to a total of 351 years in prison.

"There will be retaliation," one member of the Basque terrorist organization ETA warned after the court handed down the sentences Monday. He singled out Capt. Antonio Troncoso de Castro, the legal adviser to the court-martial, and another ETA source said of De Castro: "He better have a bodyguard."

Denunciations of the death sentences and appeals for clemency poured into Madrid from around the world, and Basque sympathizers or foes of the Franco regime held demonstrations in cities throughout Europe.

Some led to violence. In San Sebastian, the Basque capital on Spain's northern coast, youths roamed the streets Monday night overturning cars and smashing windows. A bomb exploded in front of the Spanish Consulate in Rome but caused no significant damage.

Snow Reported For Much Of North Carolina

Snow fell over much of North Carolina today. Forecasts called for an accumulation of about two inches in the western Piedmont and the mountains.

The highway patrol said roads were open in the mountains early this morning but as the snowfall continued, roads were expected to get slick. Travelers' warnings were in effect from Hickory west.

Ice closed most of the Blue Ridge Parkway Monday and today.

A total four inches was reported by midmorning at Warrior Gap in Macon County.

Lower Interest On N.C. Funds

RALEIGH (AP) — The Council of State today lowered to 5½ percent the rate of interest which North Carolina banks must pay on state funds deposited with them.

The reduction from the previous 5½ percent was in line with a national trend of decreasing interest rates. The North Carolina rate is based on the yield available on U.S. Treasury obligations.

City And State License Tags Go On Sale, Same Site, January 1

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

City license plates as well as state tags will be sold by Mrs. Anna O. Garris at Home and Auto Supply at 718 Dickinson Avenue here beginning January 1.

The other state tag agent in the county is Mrs. Darius White at White's Auto Supply Store at 109 North Main Street in Farmville.

Auto owners have until February 16 to obtain their 1971 green and white plates.

Home and Auto Supply is open from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturdays.

White's Auto Store's hours are from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and until 6 p.m. on Saturday.

Mrs. Garris said, "To renew a plate you must have a renewal card." The Department of Motor Vehicles has made arrangements with Post Offices in Greenville, Ayden, and Winterville to turn over to Mrs. Garris renewal card that cannot be delivered. Anyone having lived on any of the three routes who has failed to receive an application card may find it at the license office. The Farmville Post Office is turning undeliverable cards over to Mrs. White.

"It will take from ten days to two weeks to get application cards from the Department of Motor Vehicles in Raleigh," Mrs. Garris said. She suggested, "Anyone who has not received an application should come in as early as possible so there will be time to get one out of Raleigh if she does not have it."

Motor vehicle owners who have not received their license application cards by January 1 should notify the Department of Motor Vehicles in Raleigh early, since the procedure of getting one will take at least ten days to two weeks. License plates may not be issued from the title or a previous year's registration card.

Mrs. White and Mrs. Garris asked that all applicants have the name of their auto liability insurance agency and the liability policy number written in on the backs of their application cards.

North Carolina is a mandatory insurance state. In order to keep North Carolina plates, one's insurance coverage must be continuous. If there is so much as one day's lapse, license plates must be turned in. When insurance is again in force, one will be allowed to buy another plate, provided the previous plate was turned in within 15 days of termination of insurance. Failure to do so will mean a 60-day revocation of license plate.

When a vehicle is sold, the license plate must be turned in prior to cancellation of insurance, unless one plans to transfer the plate to another vehicle in his name without interruption in insurance.

When out-of-state vehicles are registered in North Carolina, a North Carolina State Inspection must be done within ten days of the date of registration. Inspection is good for one year and may be made by local state-

'Realistic Deterrence' Said New In Name Only

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird's new strategy of "realistic deterrence" apparently is new in name only. Pentagon officials acknowledge the United States has been moving into this strategy since the Nixon doctrine first was enunciated about 18 months ago.

Its cornerstone is the buildup of the military strength of allied countries so they can bear the brunt of protecting their own security in less than nuclear war situations.

Under this policy U.S. conventional forces will be smaller—probably around 2.4 million men instead of the present 2.9 million—but they will be modernized. And they will be pulled back to the United States to the maximum extent possible.

Implementation of that policy has shown itself in a Nixon administration request for an extra $1 billion in military and economic aid to a number of countries in Asia and the Middle East, in achievement of a commitment by NATO countries to upgrade their forces, and in planned withdrawal of about 325,000 U.S. troops from South Vietnam, Thailand, South Korea, Japan and the Philippines.

At the same time, the United States intends to maintain its strategic and tactical nuclear power at a degree strong enough to deter the Russians or Red Chinese from launching an atomic war.

Laird used the term "realistic deterrence" for the first time at a yearend news conference Monday.

He said in the coming year the administration will present "a new defense strategy of realistic deterrence which will address the nation's long-term national security requirements in the light of the strategic, fiscal, manpower and political realities we will face in the coming years."

Pentagon officials said Laird chose to coin the term because he wanted to turn thinking in the country away from the old ideas of massive nuclear retaliation and flexible response.

At his news conference, Laird put it this way: "I believe that a policy of realistic deterrence places the major emphasis on avoiding war and maintaining peace. This is the kind of strategy that I envision should be and must be developed for the next five-to-ten-year period."

Miss Cindy Hayes Weds In Saturday Ceremony

Miss Cindy Lou Hayes became the bride of Donald Corey Mann on Saturday at 4:00 p.m. in Saint Peter's Catholic Church. Father Maurice Spillane performed the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hayes of Greenville and the late Mrs. Lily Hayes and Mrs. John Gormley of Annandale, Va., and the late Mr. Donald L. Mann Sr.

A program of organ music was presented by Sister Maria Brata.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length candlelight peau de soie gown styled with an empire bodice and long lantern sleeves. Re-embroidered alencon lace encrusted with seed pearls extended from the high neckline down the gown front in a double panel. Matching lace also trimmed the sleeves.

Her formal length mantilla of ivory illusion and matching alencon lace was attached to a tiara headpiece of lace and peau de soie. She carried a bouquet of cymbidium orchids and pink sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Nelda B. Roberts of Columbia, S.C., was matron of honor. She wore a formal length navy blue velvet dress with antique lace bodice and long lantern sleeves with complementing satin and sequin headpiece. She carried a bouquet of red sweetheart roses.

Michael Mann of Annandale, Va., brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

A reception was held at the home of the bride following the ceremony.

Following a wedding trip to Williamsburg, Va., the couple will reside in Greenville.

The bride is a student in the School of Nursing at East Carolina University. The bridegroom attends the ECU graduate school of chemistry and plans to attend the Medical College of Virginia.

On The Young Side

By MARGARET STEVENS

Christmas meant giving to many Rose students, who participated in various projects throughout the holiday season.

Several groups aided the Salvation Army in its drive for funds.

Rainbow Girls ringing the bell were Josie Boyette, Sheri Mosley, Paula Rogers, Mona Rogers, Faye Mathews, Sarah Hagan, Nancy Murray, Wendy Harris, Cindy Squires, and Kathy Gaston.

DeMolays helping were Mike Stephenson, John Calhoun, Harding Sugg, Herb Wilkerson, and Morris Vicors.

Health Careers Club members entertained at the Greenville Convalescent Home last week. Those singing carols, giving gifts, and putting on a skit were Debbie Adams, Josie Boyette, Sally Boyette, Lois Brown, Nancy Brown, Anna Carson, Annie Young Clark, Martha Davenport, Carla Phillips, Ann Smith, Gary Snyder, Sue Trevathan, Karen Tyson, Peggy Weimer, James Jacobson, Jane Ferguson, Deenie Croom, Betsy Gidley, Vickie Thomas, Christine Colcord, and Becky Grier.

The Birodanjles, Rose filk-singing group, sang in front of Harmony House South last Friday night, and in front of North Carolina National Bank on Christmas Eve. Several members entertaining at a book club meeting last week were Cathy Wilson, Susie Hill, Helen Posey, Susan Leggett, Amy Leggett, Paul Carr, Steve Rogers, and Maurice Sheppard.

Girl Scouts wrapping packages at Eckerd's have been Mickey Jones, Ann Fleming, Linda Fleming, Sarah Hagan, Cynthia Averette, Stephanie Sawyer, Laura Ebbs, Janice Clay, Sally Boyette, Kathy Kirk, Marcia Schiller, Carolyn Mills, Jean Ramey, Sandy Downing, Peggy Weimer, Carole Cameron, Debbie Hartsell, and Lynne Petterson.

Handicap Nothing To Tease About

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have a young son with a slight speech problem about which the other kids tease him unmercifully. These are the same kids who tease other kids who happen to have a funny nose or something else that God put there and is beyond their control.

Now I ask you, who is the one with the problem? Kids can be the cruelest lot in the world. Abby, please print this letter and if just one person will quit teasing handicapped children, it will be worth it.

DEAR MOTHER: I'll print your letter, and with it some advice for mothers of children with "slight speech problems, funny noses and something else that God put there and is beyond their control."

A child may be born with (or develop) a handicap, which may not be "beyond control." There are speech therapists who can help children (and adults) to overcome speech problems. And people with "funny noses" and birth blemishes need not go thru life hating their handicaps and suffering ridicule because of them. Don't assume that all handicaps must be accepted and lived with. We are living in an age of medical miracles! Your family doctor can make helpful recommendations.

DEAR ABBY: I am in a dilemma and need an outside opinion. My husband and I received an invitation to a high society wedding. We have two married daughters, Judy and Rosalie. Judy, who made a much better marriage than her sister, received an invitation to this wedding, but Rosalie did not.

My husband and I would really like to go, but I don't think we should when one of our daughters was slighted in this manner. Judy says that accepting or declining an invitation should have nothing to do with who else was invited and who wasn't, but as a mother, I see it differently. My husband agrees with Judy. I think we should all stay home. What do you think?

DEAR HEART: I agree with Judy, too. In any case, you and your husband may accept or decline only for yourselves. And your married daughter has the same privilege.

DEAR ABBY: The company my husband works for put on a big sales contest, and my husband was one of those who won a 10-day trip to Europe. I could have gone along but he didn't tell me wives could go. When I heard that some of the men were taking their wives, I asked him about it and he said, "Well, what would you have done with the kids?" I told him if he had told me in time I would have been able to make some arrangements.

Abby, if I were a person to be ashamed of, I could see why he wouldn't want to take me, but I am neat and dress nice and some people even think I'm pretty.

When I saw him off on the special plane they had for the trip, there were nearly as many wives as husbands. I was so hurt I wanted to die.

I hope this letter helps other husbands to remember the girl who loves him and takes care of him seven days a week.

DEAR LEFT: So do I.

gave their version of "The Night Before Christmas" while Mrs. Sue Castellow's speech class chanted the lyrics.

Christmas has brought many former Rose students home from school. Seen about town have been Becky Clark, Jane Flanagan, David Wooten, Chuck Gilbert, Alex Weimer, Worth Dunn, Joe McGlohon, and Jackie Minges. Lynne Petterson is also home for the holidays. She is living in Florida this year but will return to Rose next year.

Couple Exchanges Vows In Double Ring Ceremony

Miss Linda Louise Rouse became the bride of Bentley Thomas Rouse on Sunday Dec. 20, at 3:00 p.m. in a ceremony performed at the home of the bride.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Hazel Carson Rouse of Greenville and the late Mr. Jimmie Sutton Rouse. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Roberta Bowne Rouse of Hookerton and Mr. Richard Earle Rouse of Miami, Fla.

The Rev. Troy J. Barrett pastor of the bride, performed the double ring ceremony. A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Vance Arnold.

The bride was given in marriage by her cousin, Jerry Myers Highsmith, of Greensboro. She wore a formal gown of white peau de soie fashioned with six gorges with long tapered sleeves, imported alencon lace yoke and modified A-line skirt with appliques of alencon lace extending from the waistline to the hem.

Her headpiece was a veil of silk illusion with pearl encrusted flowerets. She carried a bouquet of fuji chrysanthemums centered with a white orchid tied with satin and lace ribbon.

Miss Cathy Chapin was maid of honor.

Wayne Manning of Greenville was best man and Jeff Cargile of Greenville was usher.

Immediately following the wedding, the bride's mother entertained at a reception in honor of the bridal couple and attendants.

Mrs. Faust Johnson of Raleigh poured punch and Mrs. Jerry Myers Highsmith of Greensboro served the two-tiered wedding cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Noah Raynor said good-byes and Mrs. Cecil Turner Jr. presided at the guest register.

After the reception, the couple left for a wedding trip to unannounced points.

You Be the Expert!
Professional Hair Spray Tips

You may need assistance in choosing the best hair spray for you. There are differences, so here are our tips:

All hair sprays are basically fast-drying firmers used to hold a finished hairdo in place.

Some are used in setting to hold the curls or waves. The lacquerless ones have an ingredient that relaxes at the touch of dampness. This aids in midday or midevening redoing.

Other sprays add special conditioners, such as lanolin, moisturizers, sunscreens, proteins, and anti-humidifiers.

You should find the spray suited to your hair and your hairdo's needs. When you buy, read the small print so you'll know what you're getting.

Better yet — ask our professionals for the best hair spray for your hair.

N.C. Can Use Those Scholars

Tommy Bello, son of Lou Bello who has refereed basketball in Greenville on occasions, has been awarded a Rhodes Scholarship for study at Oxford University.

The younger Bello is a senior at the University of North Carolina, president of the student body and a Morehead Scholar.

The Rhodes scholarship will provide three years' study at Oxford in one of that university's eight colleges. The scholarship pays $3,120 each year and ends with a special honors degree in the field chosen. The program was established in 1902 by the will of Cecil Rhodes and this year 32 American students from 23 universities across the country were chosen.

We were impressed by young Bello's desire to return to North Carolina after completing the three years at Oxford.

"I think I'll probably return to the states and attend law school," Bello said of his plans following the Oxford studies. "Then I'll probably return to North Carolina to practice."

The years ahead could change this outstanding young man's plans; but we hope that he will find his way back to North Carolina and offer his unusual abilities to building a better state.

We could not help but recall another North Carolinian who also was a Rhodes scholar. Dr. Robert Lee Humber, who died recently, studied at Oxford under the scholarship program. He worked for a time as an international attorney in Paris. Then he returned to North Carolina and his hometown of Greenville and devoted the rest of his life to public service. Culturally North Carolina is far better off today than it would have been if Dr. Humber had never returned home.

Young Bello will have a number of decisions to make in the years ahead concerning further education, a career and the place where he will eventually live.

North Carolina needs the services of people like him, however, and we hope that eventually he, and other bright young men and women of our state, will be brought into public service in North Carolina.

Some Encouragement In Employment Data

It should be slightly encouraging that North Carolina's non-farm employment during November showed an increase.

According to figures released by State Labor Commissioner Frank Crane the total of 1,760,000 was an increase of 2,400 over October. However, it was down by 1,500 from the same month of last year.

The economic problems of the nation over the past few months have had some effect on North Carolina, but not as much as in some other areas of the nation.

Economists now see a pick up in the economy ahead and hopefully North Carolina will share in this.

On Verge Of Big Decision

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The White House is now on the verge of a momentous decision for a vastly expanded revenue-sharing plan, putting President Nixon on a collision course with Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas in the lethal crisis over government financing.

Contrary to leaks oozing from the Treasury, as now conceived the new plan to share Federal tax revenue with states and cities will not be linked to a value-added tax to finance it. And contrary to published claims by the Nixon administration, Mills has not diminished his opposition a bit.

At stake is by far the most important issue to be resolved between White House and Congress during the Nixon administration. The President, in effect, is asking Congress to bail out money-starved cities and states by radically enlarging and revising Federal aid at the expense of a still higher Federal budget deficit.

The new program bears only passing resemblance to the token $500 million in revenue-sharing proposed — and promptly forgotten — by Mr. Nixon in August, 1969. A three-man ad hoc committee — Richard Nathan, assistant director of the Office of Management and Budget, Murray Weidenbaum, assistant secretary of the Treasury, and Richard Cook, White House lobbyist — has been working on a package for weeks. Now, it has been backed up to Presidential aide John Ehrlichman's policy council.

Although not all decisions have been made, the program is now planned in excess of $5 billion for the first year and will give a considerably greater share to the cities. Tentatively, states and cities are now to split 50-50, compared with 70 percent for the states under the old scheme.

Moreover, White House press agents have begun the preliminary bombardment preceding a major Presidential push (in contrast to the past year's total silence on revenue-sharing). The forthcoming 92nd Congress is already being called the "revenue-sharing Congress" by Nixon hucksters, who suggest Mills no longer is adamantly opposed.

Such optimism stems in large part from the recent tete-a-tete Mills had with Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York, leading the Governors' lobby for revenue-sharing. Rockefeller has informed Administration officials that Mills seemed newly amenable to revenue-sharing and even expressed interest in a value-added tax — a tax on transactions somewhat similar to a national sales tax — to finance it.

Either the wily Mills was blowing smoke screens or Rockefeller was not listening carefully. In truth, Mills — along with the top Ways and Means Republican, Rep. John Byrnes of Wisconsin — remains totally opposed to revenue-sharing for two simple reasons: there is no revenue to share and he questions the philosophical soundness of one government spending taxes levied by another. As for a value-added tax, he has opposed that kind of legislation for a generation.

Well aware of these realities, White House aides closest to the situation have no hope of persuading Mills. Rather, they count on angry demands by money-shy

Dissent As To 'Reform'

It is as predictable in these parts, come December's end, as the honk of geese and the bong of New Year's bells. Once again the clamor rises for "congressional reform."

The poor old Ninety-first is not even dead, and already the efficiency experts have their hot eye fixed on the Ninety-second.

Mind you, it is not easy to carve a judicious path through these thickets of disputation. There are times when even the most affectionate friend of the Congress frets and chafes at the magisterial pace of inaction on the Hill. A few of the specific proposals advanced by the reformers surely have merit.

Yet I am minded, if I may, to murmur a few words of dissent to the underlying spirit of congressional reform. The object is to make things more efficient. The vigorous revisionists would speed things up. Their most familiar target is the seniority system, by which the committee member with the longest service automatically becomes the chairman. What about all this?

I venture the thought, for whatever it may be worth, that the "cumbersome" and "antiquated" rules of the House and Senate are in fact indispensable adjuncts of a wise and prudent legislative process. They function as brakes upon the wild beast of untamed democracy.

Our governmental system is filled with such checks and safety valves. Many of them are built into the Constitution: The Senate checks the House, and the House checks the Senate. The presidential veto is a restraint upon them both. At every vital point where the tyranny of a 51 percent might have fateful consequence, the system demands something more than 51 percent—two-thirds to impeach, two-thirds to ratify a treaty, three-fourths of the States to change the Constitution.

Beyond these familiar restraints upon unbridled power, the system has created additional barriers to hasty action. That much maligned rule of the Senate—the filibuster rule—is one such device. If the reformers have their way, the rule would be further weakened. Yet the rule is precious. It is the last barricade of strong men possessed of convictions they cannot compromise. Once the bastion of Southern conservatives, lately the rule has been put to use by Northern liberals. And it is a good rule.

The seniority system also drives my reforming friends to frenzy. Everyone knows the catalogue of evils: The system puts into power a handful of old men, way behind the times; these aging virtuosos often are out of tune with current administrations; and the system denies authority to competent junior members who could run the committees as tight ships. True, all true.

Yet the seniority system is like democracy: It is the worst possible system, except for all other systems ever tried. The alternative to creating chairmen by reason of seniority, is to let them be

A New Year Halo?

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that annoy people who make New Year resolutions:

"How do you feel in your new halo? I didn't think they carried them in your size."

"I give him two weeks, and then he'll be worse than ever."

"What good does it do to give up two bad habits one month if you come up with three more bad habits the next month?"

"I agree that you've got plenty of willpower, Harry. What you lack, I think, is won't power."

"If you were really serious about two of those resolutions, you'd start right now by throwing that carton of cigarettes out the window and pouring all the liquor in the house down the sink."

HAL BOYLE

"Better take it a bit easy, Mike. If you give up all your bad habits now, what will you have left to give up for Lent?"

"You know what I wish you'd resolve, Horace? I wish you'd resolve to get up enough courage to ask your boss for a merit raise. How long do you think we can live paying this year's prices with last year's income?"

"I know a fellow who gave up all his vices at the same time, and guess what happened? The very next week he just keeled over—kerflop! His system couldn't stand up under the shock."

"One thing about you, Pat—at least you won't have to resolve to get more exercise during 1971. You get all the exercise you need just climbing on and falling off the water wagon."

"I hear you've made up your mind to get more culture this year, Bill. Does this mean you're going to watch the Lawrence Welk program more often?"

"All I asked Esmerelda to resolve was this: that everytime she feels like giving her views on the international situation at a cocktail party during 1971, she'll put a clothespin on each lip until the feeling goes away."

"Ever since I became head of this firm, I've hoped that at least one member of this staff would make a resolution to do more honest work during the coming year—but nothing ever happens."

"Unless you mend your ways, dear, I'll tell you what I've decided to give up in 1971, and I do mean permanently. If you want to see it, just look in the bathroom mirror. It's the thing with red eyes staring back at you."

Other Editors Say South's Growth

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

According to data released by Dr. George H. Brown, director of the Census Bureau, the South is where the action is. Recent information from Dr. Brown and other governmental agencies, indicate the South made more significant economic gains during the decade of the Sixties than any other region of the nation. Indications are that the greater growth rate will continue through the Seventies.

This is heartening for those leaders of the region who had grown concerned over the out-migration of its people to other parts of the United States. From 1960 to 1970 more people moved into the South than moved away, and this is the first time there has been a net in-migration since the 1870s.

And the people moving into the South are helping to raise income and educational levels. They are the trained personnel attracted to the region by new and expanding industries which have marked the South's progress over the past decade or so.

The net in-migration for the South during the decade was 500,000 persons. During the preceding decade the region lost 1.5 million persons through movement to other areas. More than 62.5 million people now live in the South, or nearly one of every three people in the U.S.

Emory Cunningham, publisher of Southern Living magazine, noted recently that the South is becoming a metropolitan region rather rapidly. Six out of 10 Southerners now live in a metropolitan area. Less than 30 years ago the figure was three out of 10.

In the South, economic gains other than income were considerably greater than for other regions. Housing and vehicle registrations showed dramatic increases. Reflection the stepped-up business activity across the South, numerous southern cities showed dramatic population rises. Some of these cities showed population hikes by more than 30 per cent.

But what is so significant about the advancement of the South is the fact that along with the region's surge forward in general economic growth, it remains the nation's primary agricultural region in many respects. For example, Southern farmers market 30 per cent of the nation's livestock and livestock products, and 32 per cent of all farm crops.

Maybe the South was once "poor relations" where the rest of the country was concerned for many years. That isn't true any more.

Housing Shows Signs Of Boom

By ELMER ROESSNER

Seventy-One may be the Year of the Pig in some parts of the world but in the United States it may be the Year of the New Home.

Housing construction is showing signs of increasing.

Housing starts in November, just announced by the Department of Commerce, were at an annual rate 1,692,000. Shipments of mobile homes have been running at annual rates comfortably above 400,000, so in November the total of new dwelling places started or delivered, were at an annual rate well above two million units.

In the six months ended in November, housing starts were 21 per cent higher than in the preceding six months.

This is a remarkable showing in view of the fact that those six months were a rather rocky road for business.

Prospects Ahead Brighter

The prospects for a continuing rise in home construction are good. Witness:

Interest rates have declined slightly and the outlook for further declines is good. High rates have been the chief barrier to home construction. Families have been reluctant to tie themselves for 30 years to mortgages costing from 8 1/2 to 10 1/2 per cent, and sometimes even more.

Savings, the principal source of mortgage money have been running high. Savings during the third quarter of this year were at an annual rate of $52.7 billion, which was just about as much as total personal income in the Depression year of 1933.

Those are indeed amazing figures: People today are socking more than the total of all wages, salaries, dividends, interest, pensions, welfare payments, rental and other proprietors' income during Depression days.

Hoovervilles Again?

The new Congress is expected to be deeply concerned with housing and to provide for cheaper mortgage money and more public housing. With elections coming in 1972, action is likely.

ELMER ROESSNER

The need for housing is tremendous. Unless the rate on new construction is increased we face a re-creation of Hoovervilles of the early 1930s. We are already witnessing the doubling-up of families and the postponement of marriages the depression bred.

Need for replacements has multiplied the need for new housing. Riots have laid large areas flat tens of thousands of units have been condemned for health reasons, thousands more have been flattened for various projects. The need for replacement houses may be as high today as it ever was.

Manpower should be no problem for increased housing construction. Not only are there plenty of home building craftsmen out of work, but the government is insisting on training of minority workers and we have hundreds of thousands of men coming back from Vietnam. Some have skills; others are eager to acquire them.

Strength For Today

IT'S NOT WORTH IT
Gambling is one of the most devastating evils of modern life. Those who do not have the gambling instinct find it hard to understand how some people are driven to excess and ruin because of their love of gambling. Frequently these people are perfectly sound in every other aspect of their lives but when the desire to gamble comes upon them it is compulsive. Gambling leads from one evil to another. People in charge of the gambling world become ruthless in the collection of their debts. You pay or die.

The way to handle any evil is to stay as far away as possible from the temptation to commit this evil. People who want to give up gambling had better stay away from places where gambling is popular and from persons who have been swept into the coils of this weakness.

Tapering off is a delusion. Just a little now and again is a delusion equipped with poisonous fangs.

Again we need to remind ourselves that people who fall victim of the gambling impulse are not necessarily bad people. Some of them are, and when they are bad they are very bad. But many a person becomes a gambler through a good-natured desire to take a chance.

In an academic center stands a group of buildings erected by a scholar who was reputed to be the best tutor (in all subjects) of his generation. He was said to have lost this group of buildings on one throw of dice.

It's not worth it. The person who gives in to the gambling impulse may be ruining everything for himself and his loved ones.

Still 'Studying' MacDonald Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Capt. Jeffrey MacDonald's father-in-law says the former Green Beret doctor would never have been charged with murdering his family had five senior Army officers conducted the investigation properly.

Murder charges were dropped last October on the ground of insufficient evidence after a court-martial at Ft. Bragg, N.C.

When asked about the complaint by the father-in-law, Alfred G. Kassab of Stony Brook, N.Y., the Army said only that its investigating agency "is evaluating the current ... ongoing investigation of the MacDonald case."

to the news media after the first day or two.

In a letter to R. Kenly Webster, deputy Army general counsel, that was distributed to news media, Kassab said in part:

"Those who serve under our flag must have the same protection as all other citizens, namely, that of a just and equitable hearing and the inalienable right to public hearing against a public charge ...

"Had the officers named done their duties properly, and not acted in such a shameful manner, Capt. MacDonald would never have been charged with the crimes, and an effort would have been made to apprehend the real murderers, who are still at large because of the actions and/or inaction of incompetent officers."

Besides Flanagan, Kassab named Maj. Gen. Kenneth J. Hodson, Army judge advocate general; Col. Robert Krivaneck, provost marshal of the 18th Airborne Corps at Ft. Bragg; Col. Daniel Lenon, staff judge advocate for the corps, and Col. Francis B. Kane Jr., commander of the 6th Special Forces Group at Ft. Bragg.

Wiring Senate For Speakers

WASHINGTON (AP) — In odd hours when senators aren't filibustering, workmen are rewiring the Senate chamber to make it easier for members to talk and be heard.

In a break with tradition, installation of what the Senate calls a speech reinforcement system—better known as a public-address system—got under way in October.

But the unforeseen lame-duck session of Congress—with a tangle of Senate filibusters—has delayed installation.

As a result, work on the 26 miles of wiring has been on a catch-as-catch-can basis. Extra workmen have been hired to work at night and at other hours when the Senate has not been in session.

A spokesman for the Capitol architect said the work is better than 90 per cent completed and, "if the good Lord is with us," the $125,000 system will be ready when the 92nd Congress convenes next month.

A break work crews couldn't count on, but one that now seems assured, is that the new Congress will not meet until Jan. 21.

Each senator's desk will be equipped with a microphone and a loudspeaker, but this is being put off until the last, as is installation of a control console in the public gallery.

As a result, there is no sign of the work that has been done. But most of the wiring under the chamber's floor is in place. Each senator's microphone will hang in a cradle on the side of his desk and he can activate it by picking it up just like a telephone. He can hold it while he talks, hang it around his neck or attach it to his lapel.

Loudspeakers will be tucked inconspicuously into shelf space beneath each desk and a senator will be able to control the volume. And, in time, but probably not by the start of the new Congress, loudspeakers are to be installed in the galleries so the public can hear better.

Army officials said the case surrounding the deaths of the captain's wife and two young daughters never "has been closed, and efforts are still under way to find the killer or killers."

The decision to drop the charges was made by Maj. Gen. Eward M. Flanagan, commanding general of the John F. Kennedy Center for Military Assistance at Ft. Bragg.

Flanagan was among the officers named in the complaint by Kassab, who sent letters to congressmen and to Pentagon officials.

MacDonald said that three men and a girl, dressed in hippie-type clothes, slashed and bludgeoned his family and wounded him in their Ft. Bragg apartment last February.

Since his acquittal he has been given an honorable discharge from the Army at his request.

The court-martial was closed

Bargaining On Benefits For Retirees Is Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Organized labor and the federal government are asking the Supreme Court to rule that unions can force management to bargain about benefits for retired employees.

The case affects directly only 190 retired employees in Ohio. But labor lawyers say a lower court decision, if allowed to stand, could touch retirement benefits for millions of workingmen and perhaps lead to disappearance of countless other subjects from labor-management bargaining tables.

Employers have for years been required to negotiate retirement programs for active workers, and many have bargained voluntarily to increase benefits for workers already retired.

Last June 10, however, the U.S. Court of Appeals at Cincinnati overturned a National Labor Relations Board decision and ruled labor could not insist, as a matter of law, that management negotiate benefits for retired workers.

The importance of the case is underlined by the fact friend-of-the-court briefs were filed on management's side by the National Association of Manufacturers and the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, and on the NLRB side by the AFL-CIO, the United Auto Workers, the Steelworkers and Transit Workers.

The case dates back to 1965 when the federal medicare law was enacted and Local 1 of the Allied Chemical Workers of America asked Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. to renegotiate medical benefits for its 190 retired employees.

At the time Pittsburgh Plate, under a 1964 agreement, contributed $2 a month to medical insurance premiums of retired workers.

Rather than bargain with the union, however, the company offered to pick up the $3 monthly medicare costs for any retired workers who would drop out of the company medical insurance plan. Fifteen accepted the offer.

Carswell Opens Private Office

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — G. Harrold Carswell, who was rejected by the U.S. Senate for a Supreme Court appointment and defeated in a bid for election to the Senate, has returned to the private practice of law.

Carswell left private practice in 1953 when President Dwight D. Eisenhower appointed him a U.S. attorney. He rose in the federal judicial system to a judgeship of the U.S. 9th Circuit Court of Appeals, the post he held when nominated to the Supreme Court by President Nixon.

He has opened his own law office in the Tallahassee Bank & Trust Co. building but indicated he would soon join a large law firm here.

Suspects Fire Due Toy Oven

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Deputy Fire Chief J. C. Brown blames a short circuit in the wiring of a toy oven for the fire that did an estimated $5,000 damage to a home Monday.

No one was injured. Seven-year-old Angela Davis was baking a cake in the oven, which she had received as a Christmas gift a year ago.

She turned the oven on in her bedroom and told her mother, Mrs. Lawrence Butler, to tell her when the baking time, 30 minutes, was up. But within a few minutes the mother noticed a fire in the bedroom.

She grabbed Angela and her 4-year-old brother and ran outside.

The union complained the company was guilty of unlawful refusal to bargain, and the NLRB agreed. The appeals court, however, reversed the NLRB, and held that retired workers are not employees as defined by the National Labor Relations Act.

The court is not expected to decide whether to review the case for several weeks.

chosen by secret party caucus or to have them named (in the House) by the Speaker. Either of these alternatives would throw the Congress into unrelenting intra-party warfare. At this level of political fighting, we are talking of heavyweight battles for power—battles that scar and wound and rend a party into factional pieces. So long as seniority prevails, this feudal warfare is avoided.

This point also: Doubtless the rule of seniority does result now and then, in the elevation of dotards or tyrants to a chairman's seat. Everyone could name his own examples. But equally as often, the system works happily: We get a John Stennis at the head of Senate Armed Services, a John McClellan leading Government Operations. With the steady decline of the one-party South, chairmanships increasingly are scattered among liberals, moderates and conservatives across the nation. Experience counts; and a chairman's encyclopedic recollection of what has gone before is no small asset.

The House took several sound and useful steps toward reform a few months ago. If members will stand by these procedural improvements, and give them a fair trial, the Ninety-second Congress will be less secret and more responsible than Congresses of the past. We ought to see how these changes work. Reform is 100 proof whiskey; even the most experienced boozier should sip it with care.

mayors and governors to build overwhelming Congressional support which will force Mills to surrender. If not, they will attempt taking the Ways and Means Committee away from him.

Such pressure from local officials is underway, as in the case of Rep. Hugh Carey, veteran Brooklyn Democrat recently named to Ways and Means. He was quickly reminded by Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson that New York state desperately needed revenue-sharing, and that won't be his last reminder.

A pressure campaign is vital to mask the probable absence of extra revenue for revenue-sharing. Higher income taxes are out of the question with the economy so slack. Key Presidential aides, far from backing a value-added tax, want talk of it ended, fearing it will turn off liberal Democrats. As for consideration of coupling revenue-sharing with a reduction in categorical grants to cities, that would only sacrifice vital support from the mayors. So, Mr. Nixon ends up asking, at least for the first year, additional deficit spending.

Here is the great money crunch for governmental financing that Administration pollyannas have been laughing off and a few Cassandras, notably New York economist Elliot Janeway, have been forecasting. Janeway has long prophesied bankrupt local governments pounding at the gates of Washington, itself wallowing in red ink. Now that it has arrived, the great money crunch points to an epochal collision between Richard M. Nixon and Wilbur D. Mills.

Enters Plea Of Innocent

LOS ANGELES (AP) — One of two merchant seamen accused of hijacking the U.S. ammunition ship Columbia Eagle to Cambodia has pleaded innocent to mutiny and piracy charges.

Alvin L. Glatkowski, 21, of Long Beach, Calif., also pleaded innocent Monday to charges of assault, kidnaping and neglect of duty before U.S. Dist. Court Judge David Williams.

Williams denied a request for a psychiatric examination of Glatkowski, who with Clyde W. McKay Jr., 26, of Escondido, Calif., is accused of hijacking the ship last March 14.

Williams said he would announce Monday a trial date for Glatkowski.

If convicted, he could receive the death penalty. A mental examination of Glatkowski was asked by Asst. U.S. Atty. Michael Heuer, who said the government believed Glatkowski was not competent to aid in his defense.

However, Williams turned down the request after Glatkowski answered a series of questions relating to the charges.

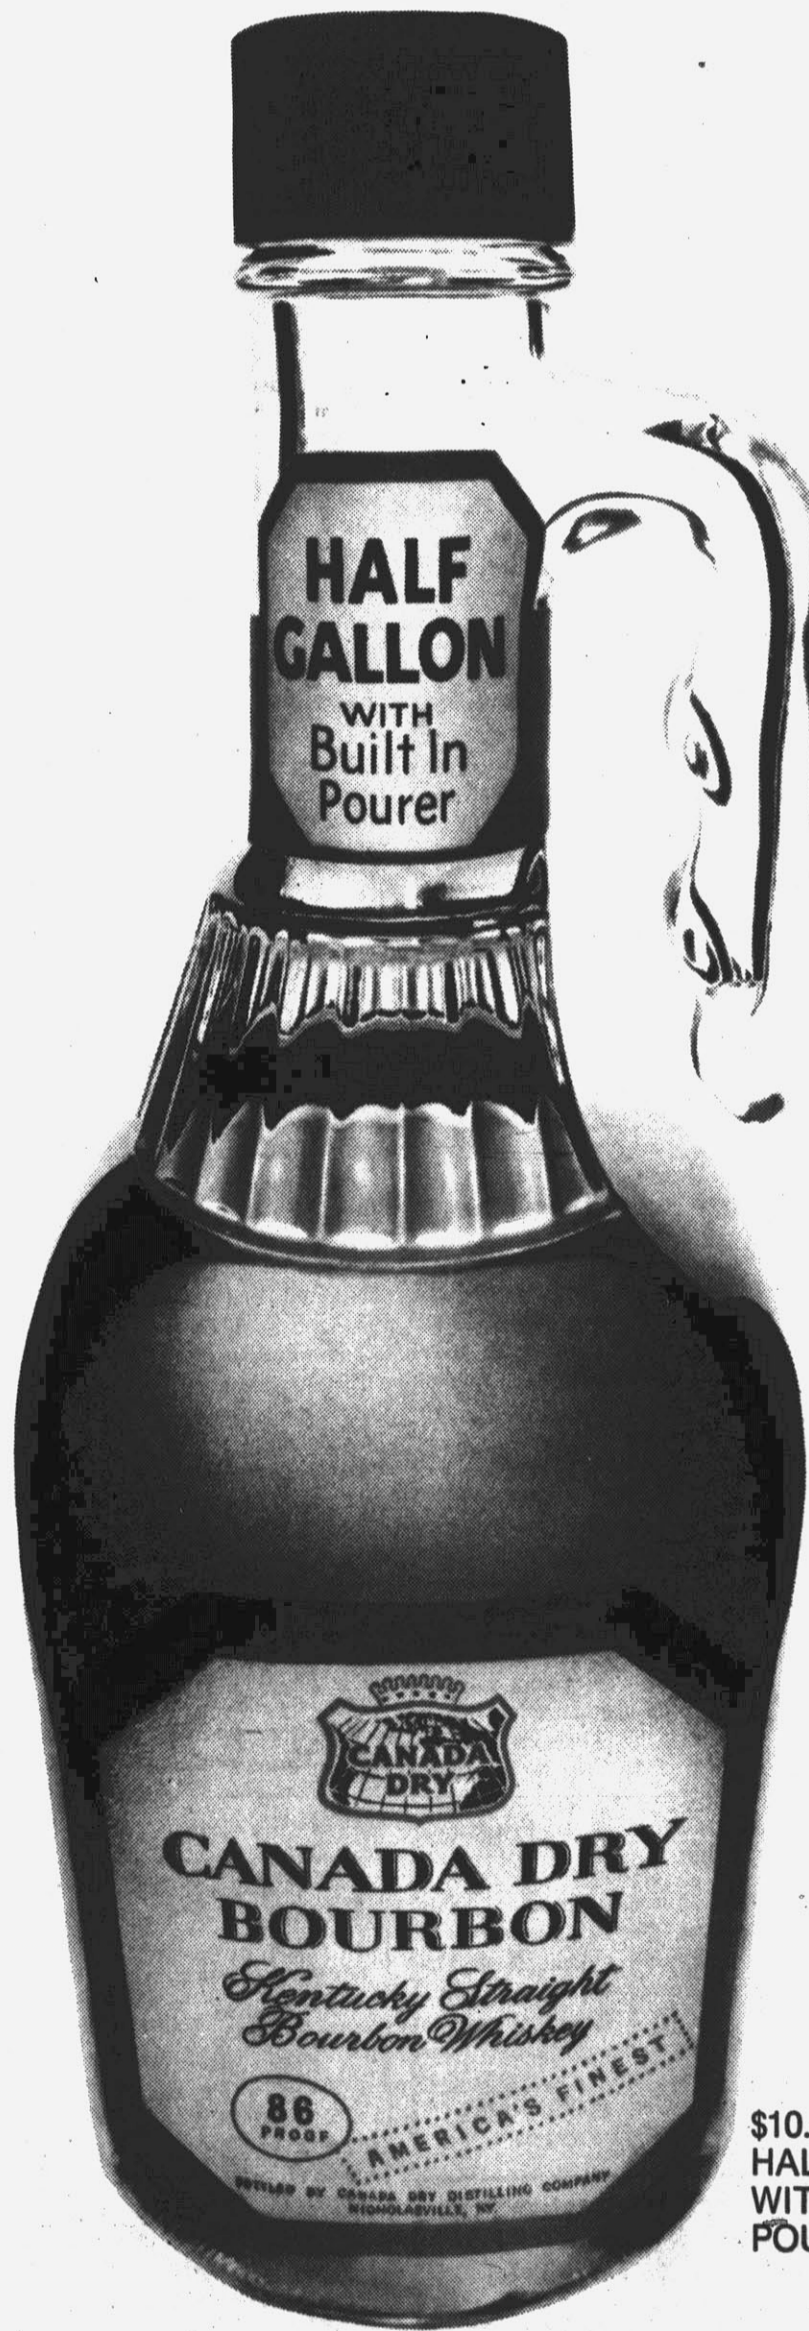

The Columbia Eagle was commandeered en route to Thailand with munitions for U.S. aircraft bases. The ship was released by Cambodia when its new government took over.

Glatkowski and McKay asked for political asylum in Cambodia, saying they opposed the war in Vietnam, but were turned down. McKay's whereabouts is unknown.

Suggs Leads Gray To 38-7 Win Over Blue

By ED SHEARER
Associated Press Sports Writer
MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—
South Carolina Coach Paul Dietzel's most crucial decision for the Blue-Gray football game may have been made last week when he named his own quarterback, Tommy Suggs, as the Gray starter over the more publicized Bill Montgomery of Arkansas.

By the time Montgomery left the bench in the second period, Suggs had built a 14-0 lead with two touchdown passes as the Southerners rolled to a 38-7 victory, greatest rout in the history of the 32-year-old event.

Suggs, who packs 190 pounds on his 5-foot-9 frame, was named the game's outstanding player after rifling scoring shots of four yards to Tulane's Dave Abercrombie and 50 yards to Florida State's Don Pederson.

Suggs hit on 15 of 24 passes for 211 yards while Montgomery connected on only four of 16 for 43 yards.

"Tommy was more familiar with the plan than Montgomery and that is the reason that Bill might not have looked too good," said Dietzel. "If we had been running Arkansas' type offense, then you would have seen the real Bill Montgomery."

Dietzel, who has worked nine all-star games, said, "This is the best team that I have worked with in a game of this type."

A first period injury to the only center on the Blue squad, Tom Beard of Michigan a State, forced a trio of changes in the offensive line. Beard returned to action in the third quarter and the Blues promptly drove 60 yards for a touchdown, a six-yard run by James Harrison of Missouri.

"We got behind and just couldn't put our game plan in effect," said Blue Coach Bobby Bowden of West Virginia.

"We were never in the ball game," Bowden said. "They simply outclassed us."

Clemson's Jack Anderson scored two touchdowns for the South, each on three-yard runs, the last with only one second left in the game. He also booted a 50-yard punt out of bounds on the Blue two only one play before Tulane linebacker Rick Kingrea, a second team All-American, intercepted a pass and returned it seven yards for a touchdown.

The other Gray tally was a 23-yard field goal by Jack Simcsak of Virginia Tech.

The rugged Gray defense, led by Kingrea, Rusty Ganas of South Carolina, Dick Biddle of Duke and All-American Dick Bumpas of Arkansas, shut off the vaunted Blue running game except for the scoring drive.

The Blues also had no passing attack, taking a net of minus two yards for the game.

"The South had the best team," said former Missouri Coach Don Faurot, a Blue assistant. "Suggs was a great one.
He moved them down the field
like a magician."

Top-Ranked Teams Roll Along

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
Drake was just beginning to reap the benefit of an eight-game college basketball winning streak when upstart Niagara threw a monkey wrench into the celebration.

The underdog Purple Eagles used a 32-point performance by Marshall Wingate to knock off Drake 87-77 Monday night and capture the Queen City Basketball Tournament at Buffalo, N.Y.

It was the first loss after eight victories for Drake—a winning streak that earned the Bulldogs seventh place on The Associated Press poll of the nation's Top 20 teams.

UCLA remained No. 1 and safe—at least until tonight when the Bruins face apparently over-matched William and Mary in the opening round of the Steel Bowl tournament at Pittsburgh.

Meanwhile, second-ranked South Carolina advanced to the final round of New York's Holiday Festival, thumping Providence 102-86 with John Roche throwing in 35 points and Tom Riker hitting 31.

That set up a championship showdown with Western Kentucky, which advanced to fifth place in this week's poll. The Hilltoppers won their eighth straight, knocking off St. John's N.Y. 86-67 as 7-foot Jim Mc-Daniels poured in 36 points and pulled down 19 rebounds.

In Philadelphia's Quaker City Tournament, sixth-rated Pennsylvania used 27 points from 6-foot-8 Bob Morse to knock off Utah 86-78 and advance to the finals against Temple, which just hung on to top St. Joseph's 60-57 after blowing most of a 13-point lead in the final four minutes.

In other games involving ranked teams, Louisville, rated
No. 17 in this week's poll, shot 57 per cent from the field and walloped Bellarmine 102-76 with Jim Price's 24 points pacing the attack.

St. Bonaventure went to double overtime to knock off Bradley 86-77 in the Gator Bowl tourney at Jacksonville, Fla. The Bonnies, 13th in the ratings, take on Georgia Tech in the finals. Tech whipped Florida 69-58 in the opening game of the tournament.

Niagara's stunner over Drake rated as the top upset of the week.

Jeff Halliburton had scored 13 of his 20 points in the second half, keeping Drake neck and neck with fired-up Niagara. Three points separated the teams who Halliburton fouled out with 10 minutes left to play.

That set off Wingate those steady pulled the Purple Eagles away and gave them the Queen City crown.

South Carolina ran rings around Providence, shooting off to a 10-0 lead at the start and coasting past the Friars in the Holiday Festival at Madison Square Garden. Roche, the Gamecocks' backcourt ace, directed SC's attack and keyed the zone defense that destroyed Providence.

Western Kentucky had similar zone success at St. John's expense in the second game with McDaniels dominating the boards and the scoring.

Penn. down one notch in this week's poll to make room for Western Kentucky's advance to
No. 5, took it out on Utah in the Quaker City. Morse's steady shooting helped the Ivy team open a 20-point bulge and coast in.

John Richardson hit 24 points as Temple held off St. Joseph's, Pa., late rally to take the second game of the Quaker City.

Perhaps the most exciting game of the night was St. Bon-aventure's double overtime struggle against Bradley in the opening round of the Gator Bowl Tourney.

Bradley's 5-foot-4 Frank Sylvester sent the game into overtime in the final minute of regulation time and then missed a chance to win the game in the first extra session when he muffed a foul shot with nine seconds left.

When Bradley was forced to go to substitutes as it lost its regulars on fouls, the Bonnies took control and pulled away in the second overtime. Paul Hoffman led St. Bonaventure with 23 points and Carl Jackson had 22.

In the Big Eight Tourney at Kansas City, Colorado held off Kansas State's last-ditch rally and won 59-56 after Nebraska had whipped Oklahoma State 71-58. Both winners advanced to the semi-finals against Iowa State and Colorado, earlier first round winners.

In the Far West Classic at Portland, Ore., Stanford knocked off Ohio State 78-74 in overtime with Chuck Moore's layup in the final 24 seconds the decisive basket.

In the second game, Oregon
State beat Harvard 91-76.

Here are the top 20 teams with total points based on 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8-etc. basis. First place votes are in parenthesis.

Exchange And Coffman's Win

Coffman's and Book Exchange advanced to the finals of the Greenville Recreation Department's Holiday Basketball Tournament last night. They meet tonight in the finals at 8 p.m. in Elm Street Gym.

Coffman's downed Coca-Cola, 72-56 to gain its win, while the Book Exchange rolled over National Cash Register, 76-33.

In the opener, Coffman's rushed away and doubled the output of Coke in the first half of play. By intermission, Coffman's had built up a 34-17 lead.
In the second half, however,
Coffman's was held in check by Coke which came back and outhit them, 36-19. That left it in a 53-53 deadlock at the end of the regulation timeperiod.

But Coke's string ran out then,
and Coffman's streaked away in the overtime period to chalk up the win. They outscored Coke, 19-3 in the extra period to take the win.

Gene Rackley led Coffman's with 23 points, while Charlie Swanner had 14 and Larry Graham had 13.

Danny Hardee led Coke with 21, while Lindsey Hardee and Buddy Turnage each had 11.

In the second game, Book Exchange rolled out to a big first half lead that NCR could not overcome. By the end of the half, the Exchange had built up an insurmountable 33-7 lead. They continued to move away in the final period, outhitting NCR, 43-26 to wrap it up.

Charles Whitehurst led the Exchange with 21 points while Walter Claybrook had 17 and Johnny Hardison had 15. Jim Foster had 10 to pace NCR.

Rockets Roll, But Lose Coach

By HUBERT MIZELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)— Ex-Marine Frank Lauterbur has quit after 23 straight victories at the University of Toledo and today became head football coach of the Iowa Hawkeyes.

Word of the Big Ten job leaked out Monday and Lauterbur confessed the plans to his players last night before the Rockets thrashed William and Mary 40-12 in the Tangerine Bowl.

The former West Point and Baltimore Colts assistant coach replaced Clive Rush as Toledo's football chief in 1963 and, after a building period, produced an 11-0 season in 1969 and a 12-0 record this year.

Defense became king under Lauterbur as the Rockets rolled to two straight Mid American Conference titles and two consecutive triumphs in the Tangerine Bowl against champions of the Southern Conference.

The W&M Indians finished their year with a 5-7 record, gaining the bowl bid by taking the Southern crown with a 3-1 league showing.

Lauterbur's defense gave up six points to a bit of age-old trickery to fall behind 6-0. The Rockets scored the next 40 points and William and Mary finally got touchdown No. 2 near the finish.

With the lopsided victory, Toledo outscored its dozen victims in 1970 by a combined score of 384-88.

A W&M quick kick shocked the Rockets and when the ball glanced off the foot of Toledo's Gary Hinkson, the Indians recovered at the Rockets 39. The ancient maneuver led to a 10-yard touchdown gallop by Tod Bushnell that gave the heavy underdogs a 6-0 lead.

Sensational junior quarterback Chuck Ealey hit three passes for big gains as the Rockets scored on a 1-yard plunge by 235-pound fullback
Charles Cole to take a 7-6 edge.

Toledo busted it open with marches of 87 and 86 yards in the third period. Tony Harris ran 15 yards to score one touchdown and Joe Schwartz busted up the middle for nine to get another.

Ealey passed to Don Fair for a four-yard TD and scrambled three yards for another in the final quarter.

Lauterbur, who refused to go into the Iowa appointment, replaces Ray Nagel as Hawkeye head coach. Nagel was fired after a 3-6-1 record this year.

BEAMON ON THE COURT
GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (AP)—
Bob Beamon, 1968 Olympic long jump champion, is back at Adelphi College and playing on the basketball team.

Coach Mike Gordon has his tallest team in his five years at Adelphi. He has six players ranging between 6-3 and 6-6 in height. Tallest man is 6-6 Larry Anderson, a junior from Washington, D.C.

The Adelphi Panthers play in the Northeast Collegiate Conference.

Paladins Fall In Own Tourney

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Four more Southern Conference basketball teams join the holiday tournament madness tonight, each hoping it will meet with more success than Furman's Paladins—the first league team in action.

The Paladins were handed an 84-74 licking in the first round of their own Poinsettia Classic
by Mississippi State Monday night and will tangle tonight in the third-place game with Texas A&M, which took a 90-76 drubbing from Arizona in the other opening encounter.

Of the four teams swinging into action tonight, William and Mary's Indians face by far the most formidable task.

The Indians' opening-round opponent in the Steel Bowl at Pittsburgh in the nation's No. 1 team, four-time NCAA champion UCLA. The other game matches Pittsburg rivals Pitt and Duquesne.

Also opening tonight are the Palmetto Classic, with The Citadel's Bulldogs as hosts; the

Doubleheader For ACC Teams

Northwestern and Penn State, a couple of young teams with no seniors in the starting lineups, come to Greensboro tonight to sample basketball in North Carolina and the South.

Northwestern, which has split
in its eight games, meets Duke, 5-4. And then the doubleheader will be completed with Penn State, 2-3, playing North Carolina, 6-2.

The teams will switch for a Wednesday doubleheader matching Duke and Penn State and North Carolina and Northwestern. Penn State snapped a three-game losing streak by beating Boston College 68-63 last week.

North Carolina has lost two of its last three games, to North Carolina State and Utah. Duke has won its last two, beating Dayton and Santa Clara.

Besides Duke and North Carolina, three other Atlantic Coast Conference teams play tonight. Only Virginia, Clemson and South Carolina are idle.
But the second-ranked South Carolina Gamecocks will play 10th ranked Western Kentucky in New York's Madison Square Garden Wednesday night for the championship of the Holiday Festival Tournament.

Maryland is host tonight to Miami of Florida, Wake Forest plays Georgetown in the opening game of the Gold Coast Classic at West Palm Beach, Fla., and North Carolina State is home to Santa Clara.

The other teams in the Gold Coast Classic are Creighton and Jacksonville. South Carolina was the only ACC team to play Monday night, beating Providence 102-86 in the Holiday Festival event though its rebounding star, Tom Owens, was out with the flu. John Roche scored 35 points and Tom Riker 31 for the Gamecocks. Western Kentucky's Hilltoppers qualified to meet South Carolina for the championship by whipping St.
John's 86-67.

Garden May Be Ready For Fight

NEW YORK (AP)— As far as Harry Markson, director of boxing for Madison Square Garden, is concerned, the proposed dream fight between Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier has not yet been made.

But don't go away. The Garden appeared today on the threshold of landing the big fight but Markson remained noncommittal, saying, "It's always been our policy that no contract means no fight."

Apparently the signed contracts are the only thing the Garden lacks in locking up the bout, which could gross as much as $10 million. Markson said that announcements saying the fight was set for March 8 were

"premature" but the Garden is planning a midweek boxing news conference.

"Negotiations are continuing" said Markson. "There are a lot of things to be discussed. The fight is not yet a fait accompli."

Published reports Sunday said the fight was set, with Chartwell, a personnel management corporation in Beverly Hills, Calif., handling the closed-circuit television. When The Associated Press attempted Monday to reach Jerry Perenchio of Chartwell for a comment Monday, it was told he was not available.

"Mr. Perenchio is on his way to the airport for a flight to New York," the AP was told.

STRETCH SEEMS READY
DENVER, Colo. (AP)— The University of Denver played an intrasquad game and Dave
"Stretch" Bustion, a 6-8 transfer from Northeastern, Colo.,
Junior College, scored 32 points.

Worry Clinic That Positive View Prevails

Pearl's shrewd query shows the remarkable difference between dynamic versus static religions. Jesus was thus an extroverted Preacher who urged his followers to go into the world, instead of hiding away from it. But he didn't urge food merely for the stomach, for that is the Russian doctrine. Soul hungerers also are vital, though Communism ignores them!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M.D.

CASE P-523: Pearl D., aged 18 is a college freshman.

"Dr. Crane" she began, "didn't Confucius and Buddha live many centuries before Christ?"

"So how do you explain the remarkable rise of Christianity in contrast to those other religions?"

"For hasn't Christianity been responsible for most of the hospitals, colleges, YMCA, Boy Scouts and other humanitarian causes, even including the Red Cross?"

Confucius was born in 551 B.C. and Buddha was born 12 years ahead of Confucius.

Confucius also uttered the Golden Rule, but in the negative, for he said:

"That which you would not have others do unto you, do not to others."

It raised scarcely a ripple in mankind's social relations.

Then Jesus came along over 500 years later and gave us the Golden Rule in its positive phrasing, as:

"Do unto others what you'd have others do unto you."

And that has truly spark-plugged a tremendous, dynamic change on the face of this earth.

Most of our hospitals have thus been founded by church groups. Same goes for our colleges.

In fact, there are usually 50 colleges in the average state but except for 3 or 4 state schools, the rest were founded by churches.

Most of the active workers in the Scouts, the United Fund, Cancer drives, plus the Red Cross, are also members of Christian churches.

For Christ was an extroverted

Preacher who championed a dynamic, positive approach to human relation.

Thus Jesus told us to go into all nations and preach, teach, heal the sick, feed the hungry, give drink to the thirsty, visit the widows and orphans and those in prison.

Even some of the early Christian monks got the wrong notion and licked themselves into monasteries to avoid contamination with this sinful world.

Yet that was the very opposite of what Christ urged.

Missionary activities were thus the bedrock of flourishing Christian denominations.

For when churches even of the Christian faith, grew opulent and bloated with property, heired in the wills of devout laymen, then those churches became too preoccupied with their securities and investments to think about human welfare.

In many countries there are million dollar churches but the people still live in poverty, filth and disease.

Even in America, many multi-million dollar church edifices are in the cities, but poorly attended on Sunday. Why?

Yet the Salvation Army and neighborhood YMCA's may actually be following more accurately Christ's advice about healing the sick and feeding the hungry.

Sometimes that "feeding" involves spiritual solace for the soul rather than gastric calories.

Some modern case workers are deluded into thinking that

First-Borns To Baker Univ.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Susan Dees and Albert Leake were married in Detroit during the depression days of 1937 so the Rev. George Olmstead offered to forgo his fee for the marriage. Instead, he asked the couple to promise they would send their first child to Baker University in Baldwin, Kan. Just what his reasons for choosing Baker are no longer known, but the couple sent their daughter Susan Ann to the small, church-affiliated college.

Susan Ann Leake was married to Bruce Gilbert of Angola, Ind., in Kansas City Sunday, and they also promised the minister they would send their first

India Has Most Of TB Cases

NEW DELHI (AP) — India has 8 million persons, or 1.5 per cent of its population, suffering from tuberculosis—more than any other country, according to Health Minister B.S. Murthy. He said the number might be even higher, because mild cases often are not reported.

Opening lead: Ten of ♥
An alert defensive maneuver by East in today's hand, brought about declarer's defeat in a most unusual manner.

North opened the bidding with one club and East made a preemptive jump overall of two hearts. South lacked the requirements to make a free bid at the two level in a higher ranking suit, but his partner was sufficiently well heeled to reopen the proceedings with a takeout double. South now came to life by jumping to three spades to show that he was bidding not merely because his partner had forced him to take some action. North had enough in reserve to carry on to game.

West opened the ten of hearts and East cashed the first two tricks with the queen and king. A brief examination of the dummy revealed that there was virtually no hope of winning any further tricks in the side suits. East's void in spades did suggest, however, that West's trump holding might prove useful. In an effort to attack declarer's trump suit for his partner, East continued with a third round of hearts, even tho this presented South with a ruff and discard.

Declarer trumped in his hand to preserve North's spade holding, and West discarded a club. The king of spades was led on which West played the ace and East showed out. The club return was taken in the dummy and South ruffed himself in with a club.

A small spade was led next and when West played low, North's nine was successfully finessed. The jack of spades was cashed, and all that remained for declarer was to get back to his hand so that he might draw West's last trump. When he attempted to trump in another club, West overruffed with the ten of spades to score the setting trick.

East's play of a third heart permitted his partner to discard a club early in the hand. Had East shifted to another suit, West would have been obliged to follow suit as the declarer ruffed himself in with clubs, and the ten of spades would have succumbed tamely to South's drawing of trumps.

Veteran Diplomat Questions Bonn Future Course

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) - Former Undersecretary of State George W. Ball says he fears West Germany's new liberal policy toward the Soviet Union might lead to "diplomatic adventures" between the two nations, thus imperiling the Western Alliance.

Ball, who is in touch with foreign policy leaders in and out of the Nixon administration, expressed general confidence in Chancellor Willy Brandt, but questioned Bonn's future course when Brandt is no longer in power.

In spite of overall support of Brandt's ability, Ball criticized the West German leader for failing to get "serious concessions" from Moscow in recent negotiations on a nonaggression treaty. He also called for a slowdown in Brandt's whole drive to work out other agreements with Moscow.

Ball, undersecretary of state in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations and a long-time champion of Western European union and alliance with the United States, made clear in an Associated Press interview he is worried about a potential West Germany swing away from the Atlantic alliance toward Moscow.

The Nixon administration publicly approves Brandt's policy. But Ball spelled out reservations and fears held privately by some influential government men.

These officials insist they are not implacably opposed to Brandt's policy but want it carried out very cautiously without giving the Soviet Union undue advantage.

Brandt has pinned final ratification of the nonaggression pact—the foundation piece of his new policy—to a Soviet-Western agreement Berlin.

There appear to be some fears in Washington that Brandt may find it difficult to hold to his price for ratification in his eagerness to accomplish his Russian policy.

Here are questions and answers from the Bell interview:

Q. Are you an opponent of Chancellor Brandt's efforts to conclude a nonaggression treaty with Russia?

A. I do not oppose Chancellor Brandt's wish to conclude treaties with the Soviet Union or with Poland that may ease the lot of the peoples concerned.

Although the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia in 1968 showed how illusory is a nonaggression pact with the Soviet Union, my concerns relate to the speed with which he has proceeded and the failure to insist on serious concessions from the Soviet Union.

The critical test will be whether the chancellor's government withholds final ratification until something significant is achieved in the four-power (U.S., Soviet, British, French) talks on Berlin.

Q. Do you think the U.S. support for Brandt's policy toward Russia is contrary to U.S. interests in Europe?

A. Our government's attitude toward the treaty is not so much one of support as one of benign noninterference. My impression is that the government received support at the December NATO meeting from Britain and France for its effort to slow down the momentum of the Soviet timetable which envisages a European security conference as the obvious next step after the Bonn-Moscow agreement.

America feels under restraint in expressing its cautionary reservations. Since it cannot offer the realistic prospect of reunification it feels diffident about appearing to oppose a normalization of relations based on recognition of the status quo that might ease or give hope of easing the lot of the German people.

Q. Do you object to Brandt's line of action because you believe he may be entrapped by the Russians?

A. America has confidence in him. I do not think he will be entrapped by the Russians.

At the same time it is only prudent to make sure that the signing of treaties with little substantive content does not create the impression that the situation between East and West has been materially improved.

Q. How do you assess Germany's role in Europe?

A. Germany's best chance to play a constructive role in Europe is most likely to occur if Great Britain joins the European Common Market. Britain as a counterweight to increasing German power within the European community should produce a balance of forces that should assure the community's stability and effectiveness.

Q. Suppose Britain does not enter the Common Market?

A. Then there is danger that

Germany's increasingly dominant position based on her superior strength and population will lead France to a more defensive and inward looking role, thus returning Europe to the unstable fragmentation that has proved so catastrophic in the past.

Q. May the attractions of trade be one reason why Brandt is anxious to develop new channels of exchange with the Eastern European Communist countries?

A. The possibilities of vastly expanded trade with the East seem to me frequently exaggerated. Outside of certain raw materials the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe produce very little Germany wants to buy.

Q. What effect is Germany's course likely to have on American interests in Europe?

A. If Germany's ties with the West were to weaken we would be well on our way toward the Balkanization of Western Europe. This would mean the elimination of American influence on the continent and would tempt the Soviet Union to try to undermine one Western European state after the other.

Hebert Vows Carry On Tough Course Set By Mendel Rivers

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - Continuing the United States should have bombed its way to a Vietnam victory when it had the chance, Rep. F. Edward Hebert has vowed to keep the House Armed Services Committee on the tough pro-military course set by its late chairman, L. Mendel Rivers.

The Louisiana Democrat, in line to succeed Rivers, who died Monday, also said the draft will not be ended, military spending must be increased with a modern Navy getting top priority, and he accused the military's critics of "ignorance and emotionalism."

President Nixon's plan to turn the war over to South Vietnam is the only course that can be pursued now, Hebert told newsmen.

But, he said, if his and Rivers' advice had been followed, the war would have ended in U.S. victory five years ago.

"We'd have bombed North Vietnam—we'd have destroyed anything of value to the enemy," Hebert said. "Haiphong harbor would have been the first thing hit. What makes the military-industrial complex in North Vietnam so sacrosanct?"

He said Nixon "inherited a sorry and unholy mess" and "he's pursuing the only policy he can: get out with honor."

"It's a military no-win policy," Hebert said, "but that's what was handed to him."

At the same time, the prospective House chairman said, "I'm not going to be policeman for the world," and suggested U.S. commitments abroad should be reassessed.

"The draft will not end," Hebert said flatly, and he added Nixon's proposed volunteer Army will not work because "you don't have the volunteers."

The House committee's first business next year, he said, will be to approve a bill extending the draft beyond its June 30 expiration.

Nixon has urged the extension be the beginning of a draft phase-out and transition to a volunteer military.

Hebert indicated he will oppose the President's request for congressional authority to stop college draft deferments, saying Nixon already has authority to do that by simply proclaiming it is in the national interest.

Hebert said he will press the $4-billion to $5-billion Navy modernization program Rivers wanted, he favors at this point full Safeguard antimissile system expansion, and that military funds must be increased.

Claims Tate Slayers Are Still Unfound

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) - The defense says Charles Manson and three women codefendants are innocent of the Sharon Tate murders and the real killers are still at large.

Paul Fitzgerald, head of the four-attorney defense team, also told the jury Monday that the state's star witness, Linda Kasabian, lied under oath in order to save her own life.

In the first day of his often dramatic summation, Fitzgerald gave the jurors their first look at the defense side of the case.

The four defense attorneys had presented no witnesses or evidence, and Fitzgerald was the first to state in court that persons still unknown might have killed the blonde actress and six others in two slaying sprees in August 1969.

He cited a piece of prosecution evidence—a pair of eyeglasses found at the Tate mansion which have not been connected to an owner.

"Those glasses were introduced into the residence by the person or persons actually responsible for the deaths," said Fitzgerald.

Mrs. Kasabian was the state's only asserted eyewitness to any of the killings. Fitzgerald said she may have made up the whole tale to win immunity from prosecution.

"If you could save your life by making up a story, wouldn't you?" asked the attorney.

Mrs. Kasabian, 21, mother of two, testified that she went with members of Manson's hippie-style "family" on a murder mission to Miss Tate's home, where five persons were slaughtered, and one the following night to kill Mr. and Mrs. Leno LaBianca, wealthy food store proprietors. She was indicted with Manson and the other women on murder-conspiracy charges but went free after she testified.

"It's when she's got a gun up to her head, when she sees that her life is hanging in the balance, that she decides she has to say something, folks," Fitzgerald said.

"Her testimony might be worth something if she reported it when it might have done some good ... But I submit to you that she didn't report it because it didn't happen the way she said it happened."

The attorney said a shoe heelprint was found on a bloody walk at the Tate mansion but Mrs. Kasabian testified that all defendants with her at the scene were barefoot.

No flesh or hair was found under victims' fingernails, indicating, Fitzgerald said, that they didn't fight the assailants.

"An inference could be drawn that one or more victims knew the killer or killers," he said.

Fitzgerald urged the panel to have "the courage to acquit."

"We're playing for big stakes here," he told them. "Lives hang in the balance. If you're going to convict someone, you've got to be absolutely sure. Don't trust the testimony of a liar."

Says Congress Holds The Key

WASHINGTON (AP) - Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird says Congress—not the Pentagon—will be responsible if the proposed Nixon administration goal of a zero draft and all-volunteer Army is not reached before 1974.

Laird predicted Monday draft calls will drop next year but declined to estimate how much they would fall below this year's 163,500. He said there could be no draft at all in mid-1973—but only if Congress approves boosts in pay and benefits.

Congress turned down a 20 per cent pay raise for lower-grade military men this year, but Laird said increased pay and benefits will be included in next year's budget.

He said a volunteer Army of 2 million to 2.4 million could be reached in mid-1973 "if we can meet the timetable in Congress—incomes in pay, housing and education" to compete with private industry for the manpower.

Moose Add 14 Members

In their last enrollment ceremony of 1970, the Greenville Moose Lodge added fourteen new members to the roll.

Holders of the second degree in the fraternity were also reminded of a dinner-dance tonight for members of the Legion of the Moose, and candidates, beginning at 7:30.

Secretary E. M. Baldree confirmed that all tickets for the New Year's Eve dance have been distributed. The annual affair is one of the largest such gatherings in Eastern North Carolina.

Members inducted into the Moose last night were: William K. Barnes, George Bateman, Sr., Wayne Dixon,

Thomas J. Doyle, Eugene W. Huguette, Grant D. Jarman, John T. Kelly, Albert J. Lalik, Sam McLawhorn, Charles B. Moore Jr.,

Thomas G. O'Neal, Roy A. Peaden Jr., and Wilbur Eugene Smith. Donald E. Davis served as Class Representative.

Rare Duty For Earl Warren

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) - Retired Chief Justice Earl Warren interrupted his annual duck hunting trip to perform a rare official duty in the city where he served nearly 11 years as governor.

"This is a nostalgic experience for me," Warren said Monday as he administered the oath of office to William M. Bennett, a member of the state Board of Equalization.

Congress also must approve Nixon's proposal to begin phasing out the draft when it expires next June 30th, but Laird did not mention this. The proposal has attracted little congressional support so far.

Laird also said: "So-called spying on civilians had been conducted by military agents under the previous administration, but will not be conducted under the Nixon administration. He said such observation in connection with civil disturbances could be more properly performed by the Justice Department."

"The Pentagon plans to improve land and sea forces for a conventional deterrent in addition to the present nuclear deterrent."

"The number of Soviet ships in Cuban waters has not increased significantly, although there has been a lot of 'harbor hopping.'"

"Russia is slowing down its buildup of SS9 intercontinental ballistic missiles."

"North Vietnamese troop arrivals in Southeast Asia will be higher during the first three months of this year than in the same period last year. However, North Vietnamese troop arrivals in South Vietnam alone will be lower. Many of the soldiers are going into Laos."

Muskie Taking Lengthy Tour

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, says he will leave Sunday for visits to West Germany, Israel and Egypt.

The senator, a leading contender for his party's 1972 presidential nomination, announced Monday he planned to "talk with government leaders and individual citizens to broaden my knowledge and perspective on the interests and objectives of the three countries in relation to the United States, each other and other nations."

Eaton Praises Chilean Marxist

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) - Cyrus Eaton, 87-year-old Ohio industrialist, says Salvador Allende, Chile's new Marxist president, wants to have good relations with the United States "and all the countries of the world."

Eaton talked with newsmen Monday after an interview with Allende lasting about an hour.

"I think he is a forceful man," Eaton said. "I think he is a straightforward man." He counseled the U.S. government not to take an aggressive attitude toward the Allende regime.

Vote Board Cites Party Gains In '70

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Republican party showed a voter registration increase of 17,159 during the past six months and Democrats gained 26,106.

This was shown in figures released Monday by Alex Brock, executive secretary of the state Board of elections.

The Republican gain in the six-month period from June 3 to Dec. 15 compares with an increase of 8,966 for the preceding six months. It brings the total Republican registration to 426,159.

As of Dec. 15, the Democratic registration stood at 1,464,055. The previous six months had seen a gain of 22,517 in the Democratic registration. Registrants in the Independent and "no party" designations increased from 45,712 to 48,528 during the June-December period. This was more than four times the 626 voters added during the preceding six months.

The American party gained 20 registrants, bringing its total to 6,440.

White registration increased 42,159, compared with 26,037 in the preceding six months. The white voter total was 1,639,704 as of Dec. 15.

A total of 3,550 additional black voters brought the state total to 294,800. During the preceding six months black registration had increased 5,585.

Stretching Helps Lungs

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Norbert Sternal, a 58-year-old retired engineer, is undergoing body-stretching therapy that already has added 2 1/2 inches to his body and increased his lung capacity.

Sternal, of White Bear Lake, a St. Paul suburb, is spending the holidays in the hospital flat on his back.

Dr. Robert Winter, an orthopedic surgeon, said Sternal is one of only a half dozen persons with lung problems who have benefited by the body-stretching procedure in Minnesota.

"He's the oldest we've tried. Frankly, I didn't think it would work with him, because of his age, but so far it has," Dr. Winter said.

The stretching process and related surgery has increased Sternal's lung capacity from only 9 per cent to 29 per cent. Sternal's problem results from an attack of polio in childhood that left his rib cage rigid and his spine deformed.

Sternal doesn't like being on his back, wearing a confining body brace much of the time, but if all goes well, he should be home soon after the first of the year. He hopes to be able to sit up and eventually to get out of bed.

"Oh, to get on my feet again. What a luxury that is going to be," he said.

One Injured In Auto Collision

Cars driven by Edith H. Bradley, of University Townhouse Apts. and Clara Whitehurst Williams, 800 Forrest Hill Circle were reported involved in an 8:05 a.m. collision at the intersection of Second and Evans Streets here yesterday.

Police, who reported Mrs. Bradley was injured in the mishap, placed damage to the cars at $300 to the Bradley auto and $200 to the Williams car.

Mrs. Bradley was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety.

WINTER DRIVING

NEW YORK (AP) — Safe winter driving requires additional space between you and the car ahead—at least double the normal distance, according to Kennametal Inc., a manufacturer of tire studs.

A rule-of-thumb distance is one car length for every 10 miles per hour on clear, dry pavement. Make it at least two car lengths for every 10 miles per hour on wet pavement and three lengths on snow and ice.

Crossed Border

TEL AVIV (AP) — The Israeli military command reported another squad of Palestine guerrillas crossed the Lebanese border into Israel Monday night despite a heavy Israeli raid into southern Lebanon the night before.

The command said the Arabs opened fire on an Israeli patrol with bazookas and small arms near the settlement of Misgav Am, but the Israelis killed one of the guerrillas and the rest fled back into Lebanon. No Israeli casualties were reported.

Israeli commandos raided a guerrilla base in Lebanon early Monday in retaliation for an increasing number of guerrilla attacks. A Lebanese spokesman said 12 guerrillas and two Lebanese civilians were killed, and Lebanon protested to the United Nations. The Israelis reported one of their troops was killed and five were wounded.

Palestinian gunners in Jordan also fired a number of 130mm rockets at the Galilee town of Beit Shean Monday night.

Licenses . . .

North Carolina Motor Vehicles Laws —General Statutes 20-67 requires that the Department of Motor Vehicles be notified in writing within ten days of any change of address.

Anyone in doubt about the transferring, buying, or selling of a vehicle at any time during the year may call Mrs. Garris at 758-1193 or Mrs. White at 753-3170.

Persons applying for city tags must have their registration cards, also. The cost is $1 for any kind of vehicle.

Costs of state tags depend upon the type of vehicle one is buying for. They are as follows: cars—$13 plus $1 for driver education; buses—$17 plus $1 for driver education; motorcycles—$6; trailers—$4; taxis—$75. Costs for trucks and wreckers depend upon the load weight.

The letter was written by a Peace Corps worker for the boy. (AP Wirephoto)

Investigate Sunday Morning Break-In

The Pitt County Sheriff's Department is investigating a Sunday morning break-in at the Gardner - Travis Store near Chicod that left an estimated $2,500 to $3,000 in merchandise missing.

According to Sheriff Ralph Tyson, the incident occurred sometime after 1 a.m. Sunday morning check by deputies and was reported around 7 a.m.

Contributed To Memorial

The students and personnel of the Pitt County Schools have contributed $300 to the "Thundering Herd" Memorial Fund, it was announced Monday by Arthur Alford, superintendent of Pitt County Schools.

"We are sorry that contributions were not greater, but we do hope that in some way these efforts, along with the work of others, will prove to soften somewhat the great sorrow known to the families of those lost," Alford stated in a letter to Glenn Croshaw of the Student Government Association at East Carolina University.

The memorial fund was established following a plane crash that took the lives of some 75 persons from Marshall University.

Students and personnel from South Ayden High School, Farmville High School, W. H. Robinson School, Falkland Primary, G. R. Whitfield School, Belvoir Grammar, Stokes-Pactolus Grammar, Sam Bundy School, Falkland Grammar, Stokes Elementary, Ayden High School, Ayden Elementary and North Fountain along with the Pitt County board of Education staff contributed to the fund.

Begin Inquiry Obituaries 'Sweepstakes' Into Crash Of Airline Jet Under Attack

CHARLOTTE AMALIE, V.I. (AP) — Federal investigators began an inquiry today into the crash of a Trans Caribbean Airlines jet in which a New Jersey man and his son were believed killed.

Nineteen persons were hospitalized after the crash Monday of the Boeing 727 as it was landing on the Virgin Island of St. Thomas. The other 32 persons aboard were treated for minor injuries and released.

The Knud-Hansen Hospital said two unidentified bodies were brought to its morgue, and one apparently was a child's.

With the beginning of 1971 only four days away, it was the first fatal crash of a scheduled U.S. airline passenger flight in 1970, the National Transportation Safety Board reported. A total of 142 persons were killed in U.S. airline crashes earlier in the year, but they were on cargo, charter or ferry flights. The last previous fatal crash of a scheduled passenger flight occurred in November 1969 when a Mohawk Airlines plane hit a mountain near Glen Falls, N.Y., killing 14 persons.

The Trans Caribbean flight had originated in New York City and stopped in San Juan en route to the Virgin Islands, east of Puerto Rico. Aboard were 46 passengers and seven crew members.

The plane "landed all right," said a witness, Juliet Parham of Queens, N.Y., "but suddenly something bounced away from the plane. It looked like a wheel. Then the plane bumped along the runway and seemed to be trying to take off again when it suddenly went to the right and up the hill. Then it exploded."

The passengers slid down the two evacuation slides through a curtain of smoke and flame. Firemen brought the flames under control more than an hour later.

The airport was closed for about three hours.

CHALLENGE GRANTS

RALEIGH (AP) — Challenge grants totaling $23,500 have been authorized for historic preservation and restoration projects in North Carolina during 1971 by the Smith Richardson Foundation.

John Snow, Queen Victoria's doctor, discovered that contaminated water spread cholera.
