Critics' Selections

NEW YORK (AP) — "M-A-S-H, the Korean war satire, has been voted best movie of 1970 in the fifth annual poll of The National Society of Film Critics. It is the first American-made picture to win the distinction. Sweden's Ingmar Bergman was chosen the year's best director for his work on "The Passion of Anna," runner-up in the best movie balloting. Bergman won the same honor for "Persona" in 1967 and "Shame" in 1968. The society, whose members are film critics representing 14 magazines and two newspapers, announced the awards Sunday. George C. Scott was selected the year's outstanding actor for his portrayal of the title role in "Patton." Glenda Jackson was named best actress for her characterization of the liberated sister in the dramatization of D. H. Lawrence's novel "Women in Love." In previous years, the society honored the French-made "Z," the Swedish "Shame" and "Persona," and "Blow-Up," produced in England by an Italian.

Deployment Setback

WASHINGTON (AP) — Navy plans to deploy the first multiple warhead Poseidon missiles this month have been set back by problems on the production line — perhaps until spring. "We expect a delay of a few months," the Navy said when asked the status of the advanced submarine-launched long-range missile. Navy sources indicated the first patrols of submarines carrying Poseidon missiles may not start until middle or late spring. Two Polaris missile subs, the Daniel Boone and the James Madison, have been converted to mount the bigger, twice-as-accurate Poseidon. Each sub will be able to hurl 16 Poseidon missiles, and each missile will bear 10 warheads that can be aimed at separate targets.

Claim Revolt Crushed

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — A group of army officers seized the armed forces headquarters in La Paz early today in rebellion against Bolivia's three-month-old leftist military regime. A few hours later President Juan Jose Torres announced the revolt had been crushed. In a broadcast to the nation, Gen. Torres said some leaders of the coup had taken refuge in foreign embassies—chiefly in the embassy of Peru. The leaders were described as mostly young officers. Torres called them right-wingers and reactionary subversives. In the early hours, the rebels announced they were acting to keep Bolivia from being delivered to "another imperialism as dismal as that of North America." They did not identify it. Torres assured the nation that a state of normalcy had been restored and urged workers to report to their jobs as usual. Early in the revolt, Col. Jorge Sanchez, a rebel spokesman, claimed several top loyalist officers at military headquarters had been seized by the rebels, including the army commander, Gen. Luis Reque Teran.

Pay Checks 'Helped'

WASHINGTON (AP) — American wage earners are finding their pay envelopes fattened by federal tax law changes which took effect with the New Year. Single people get some of the largest cuts in federal tax deductions, but almost everybody benefits. It's all part of the Tax Reform Act of 1969 which reduces taxpayers' burdens by $9 billion over several years starting in 1970. This year's portion, however — $3.5 billion nationwide — will have the greatest impact. The cuts in the federal tax bite could be tempered in some areas by increased state and local levies. There's also an increase in Social Security taxes — 4.8 to 5.2 per cent this year — meaning someone with a $7,800 taxable income will pay an additional $31.20 in 1971. But over-all, Americans should have more money to spend in an inflationary economy. Those benefiting the most are the unmarrieds, the rich and those of low income.

Poll Worst Problems

NEW YORK (AP) — Some 57,000 American high school and junior high students rated air and water pollution the nation's top problem in a Scholastic magazine poll. Communism ranked last in eight possible categories. Fifty-seven per cent of the students cited pollution as one of the three most important national issues. The Vietnam war and drug abuse, each named by 51 per cent, followed. Next, in order, were crime, inflation, race relations, hunger and poverty and communism, the latter mentioned by 21 per cent of those polled. About 35,000 junior high and 22,000 high school students took part in the poll, which was conducted in 1,647 schools throughout the country through Scholastic magazine's four student publications. The results were announced Sunday. Assassins, Too MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — The Tupamaros urban guerrillas assassinated a detective today and challenged the government to negotiate the release of kidnapped British Ambassador Geoffrey Jackson. Several Tupamaros opened fire with .45-caliber pistols as detective Jose Leandro Villaiba left a bar, police reported.

AN ICY PROBLEM . . . This car, parked on Johnson Street near the Jarvis Street intersection Saturday morning fared much better—with only broken utilities lines draped over it—than did the car in the background, obscured by fallen tree limbs. Limbs and lines, weighted to the breaking point by a thick layer of ice, dropped on many cars and houses in Pitt County Saturday.

OBSTACLE COURSE . . . This car, moving slowly under a fallen tree limb was typical of cars traveling East Fifth Street Saturday. Travelers along the route had to dodge ice-crusted limbs and wires before workers could clear the street later in the day.

Thaw Eliminates Most Of Area's Ice; Repair Crews Are Still On Job

By CAROL TYER Reflector Staff Writer A Sunday thaw eliminated most of the ice that had coated every tree and twig in this area during Friday night and early Saturday morning, but utilities and road crews had not yet dug themselves out of the mire of repair work created by the ice storm. Greenville Utilities, which provides electric service to much of Pitt County, as well as the city, was still hard at work today. "We think we have most of the major lines repaired," Utilities director, Charles O'H. Horne Jr., said this morning. "However, there are still many branch lines with as many as ten or 12 customers that hopefully will be repaired by dark. We also have numerous individual customers, mostly in Greenville, that are still without electric service. We will get to them today. "Our crews started to work at 1 a.m. Saturday and are still at it. Numbering about 50 men, these crews have had supplementary help from High Point and Rocky Mount since late Saturday afternoon. Then Sunday VEPCO released to us five of their own crews and five contract crews, whose help considerably speeded up our repair efforts. We have tried to give priority to farmers with livestock dependent on electricity and to families with illness. "This storm was not so severe as the ice storm of 1968 because we did not have as many poles down. However, there were almost as many lines down and the cost is going to be tremendous — I won't estimate yet. "Our water and gas lines were not affected and our water and (Continued on page 6)

General Assembly Early Birds Begin Arrive In Raleigh

RALEIGH (AP) — Early bird lawmakers began arriving today for North Carolina's General Assembly, which convenes at noon Wednesday to tackle perhaps more major problems than any legislature in the state's history. Most of the legislators are expected on the scene Tuesday to get acquainted, renew acquaintances and prepare for the opening session. Such issues as congressional redistricting, restructuring higher education, the sale of liquor by the drink, appropriations and taxes are liable to keep the legislature in session until the end of next June. Some other issues certain to arouse prolonged debate include abolition of the death penalty, licensing of day care centers, reorganization of state government, interest rates and to allow 18-year-olds to vote in state and local elections. The 170 legislators—50 senators and 120 House members—will meet briefly in their respective chambers promptly at noon Wednesday. The House will elect Rep. Phil Godwin, D-Gates, as its speaker, and the Senate will choose Sen. Frank Patterson, D-Stanly, as its president pro tem. Both houses will also elect principal clerks, reading clerks and sergeants-at-arms. The lawmakers will get a glimpse of the size of their money problems Wednesday when the governor and Advisory Budget Commission submit a proposed budget. The budget is certain to call for record state spending during the next two years, but it is expected to fall short of what state officials consider are the real needs of their departments. Along with the spending, the legislators will be confronted with efforts to lower taxes. The cigarette, soft drink and gasoline industries have been pushing repeal attempts against the taxes on their products since the last legislature adjourned. The governor has said he will not object if the lawmakers decide to shift taxes from one item to another but that he will oppose any move to reduce state revenues. Pressure against any tax reduction is expected from state agencies and institutions vying for as large a share as possible of the state's budget. "It's going to be a big issue," said Gordon. "It always is." Godwin said he had heard little talk of shifting taxes from one item to another. "I think everybody's saying, 'I don't care what you do, just take the tax off us,'" Gordon added. "If anything, I've heard talk about a statewide sales tax to replace the soft drink tax," he said.

Hoffa Loses Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — James R. Hoffa, once among the nation's most powerful union leaders, faces up to an additional five years in federal prison following Supreme Court rejection today of an appeal from his 1964 pension fraud conviction. The 57-year-old Teamsters Union president, serving an eight-year sentence for jury tampering, lost his third attempt in the court to avert a new jail term. The appeal, signed by five lawyers, said 12 constitutional questions worthy of a court hearing arise from Hoffa's conviction in Chicago on charges of fraudulently obtaining loans from the Teamsters pension fund. But the court, on a 7-0 vote and without comment, turned the appeal down. In the two earlier rounds the justices directed federal courts in Chicago to consider Hoffa's claims that illegal government eavesdropping should invalidate the conviction. The last ruling against the stocky unionist was entered by the U.S. Circuit Court in Chicago Aug. 5. Hoffa entered the federal prison in Lewisburg, Pa., March 7, 1967, to begin serving an eight-year sentence for jury tampering. The U.S. Parole Board rejected his bid for early release in October 1969. The board said it would reconsider his case in March 1971. The five-year pension fraud sentence would begin with completion of the jury tampering sentence.

In Isolation

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Apollo 14 astronauts today began a 21-day period of preflight medical isolation to minimize exposure to disease or illness such as the measles contact which forced a late substitution in the Apollo 13 crew last year. Astronauts Alan B. Shepard Jr., Stuart A. Roosa and Edgar D. Mitchell and their backup crew generally will be restricted to three areas of the Kennedy Space Center. These are the crew living quarters, the training building and the launch pad. They also will make one or two trips to nearby Patrick Air Force Base for practice flying in jet airplanes. Movements from one point to another will be watched carefully so the astronauts do not contact unauthorized personnel. The Apollo 14 launching is scheduled Jan. 31 with Shepard and Mitchell to attempt a landing in the moon's Fra Mauro Highlands to search for ancient lunar soil.

Customs Search Appeal To Be Given Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department had told the court the 2-1 ruling by the U.S. Circuit Court in San Francisco last March would make it more difficult to guard the borders against narcotics imports. The government appeal will be heard later this term, probably in April. The case concerns the search of Sandra Johnson, a 26-year-old Los Angeles dyeing store clerk, at the San Francisco, Calif., customs station in August 1968. A customs inspector of 27 years' experience ordered her and a woman companion also crossing the border from Mexico to be searched by a woman inspector. A bundle of heroin was found in Miss Johnson's underpants. No narcotics were found in the second woman's clothing. Miss Johnson was tried, convicted and sentenced to five years in prison. The appeals court, in setting aside the conviction, said customs inspectors cannot order travelers to submit to "strip searches" unless they have a "real suspicion" that they could support with "objective articulable facts."

Ali Wins Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court granted a hearing today to heavyweight fighter Muhammad Ali on his claim that he was entitled to exemption from the draft as a religious conscientious objector. The court action, announced in a brief order, clears the way for Ali's fight in March with Joe Frazier for the heavyweight boxing championship. Ali, also known as Cassius Clay, was convicted 3 1/2 years ago for refusing induction into the Army. He claimed he was entitled to an exemption as a Muslim minister. His conviction carried a five-year sentence, and boxing officials stripped him of the title he had won from Sonny Liston. Had the court turned down Ali's appeal it would have been highly unlikely that the fight with Frazier would have been held. The bout, scheduled for New York City on March 8, will be the richest in history. Team Will Visit Six Zoo Sites RALEIGH (AP) — Prospective 200 sites in North Carolina will be visited by a U.S. Department of Agriculture inspection team the week of Jan. 18. The group will visit the proposed Butler site the afternoon of Monday, Jan. 18; inspect the Chatham County site the following morning; go to Asheboro that afternoon; be at Albemarle the morning of Wednesday, Jan. 20; go to Concord that afternoon and wind up at Statesville Thursday morning.

Denies Rumor Of New Pop Group

LONDON (AP) — John Lennon's agent denies that his client or any of the other disbanded Beatles have plans to form a new pop music group. The rumor came from drummer Rory Blackwell, who said in South Africa Lennon had telephoned him from London and offered him a job in a combo which would include guitarist Eric Clapton.

Pentagon Prepares Way To Begin Volunteer Army

By JIM ADAMS Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Though uncertain that President Nixon's goal of an all-volunteer Army can be achieved, the Pentagon has spelled out plans for a major start this year. Specifics include a $2 billion GI pay and incentive raise, less KP duty, more privacy in the barracks, educational opportunities and enlistment at higher rank for men with special skills. The first-year program for facilitating GI life in an effort to attract enough volunteers to do away with the draft was outlined to the House draft subcommittee in closed session last August but not released until Sunday. Chairman F. Edward Hebert, D-La., called the idea "a bill of goods," saying only the pressure of the draft can draw enough volunteers plus draftees to meet the military's manpower requirements. Even so, Hebert's subcommittee recommended President Nixon's pay raise proposals be considered at the same time Congress renews the draft law beyond its expiration date June 30. But it added that Congress should establish future manpower levels at the same time it extends the draft law. Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird announced last month a goal of achieving an all-volunteer force of 2.5 million men and women by mid-1973 and said it can be met if Congress approves increased pay and benefits. But Asst. Secretary Roger T. Kelley told the House subcommittee last Aug. 4 no timetable could be set because of the uncertainties of drawing enough volunteers — and said a standby draft should be kept for emergencies. Nevertheless, Kelley spelled out major first-year plans for starting the volunteer drive, but said specific recommendations were not ready at the time he testified. The $2 billion incentive package, he said, would include a 20 per cent pay raise effective Jan. 1 for enlisted men with less than two years service, pay raises for junior officers in July and increased housing and subsistence allowances for all personnel. He said the decision to end KP for 2,600 Army men at service schools and 1,915 Marines by contracting the work to civilian firms for $25 million already had been made although the decision could be changed. Ending KP was opposed by several House members including Rep. Alexander Pirnie, R-N.Y., who said next the Army would turn to private policemen to stand guard duty. He urged that the $25 million be used for something else. Kelley also called for use of more civilians and uniformed women to take over some of GI's present duties. Educational benefits would include opportunities for servicemen to earn junior college degrees as well as more ROTC scholarships to bolster the officer corps. The plans also call for more and better family housing and more barracks privacy for single men, he said, as well as enlisting skilled men at higher pay and rank instead of starting all enlistees as buck privates.

One Of Best-Dressed Women Gives Opinion Of Midi Skirt: 'Hates Them'

By ANN HENCKEN
AP Fashion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "I hate the midi skirts. The body should have freedom," says Mrs. Harilaos Theodoropoulos, American wife of the Greek shipowner, and one of the 12 women elected to the International Best-Dressed list of 1970.

She dislocated her hip trying to get out of a taxi cab in a long, straight skirt, and sent the skirt to the dressmaker saying, "cut it off!"

"She wears skirts at the knee with boots, ankle-lengths for evening and midcoats. But she still wears microminis, too."

"I've worn short shorts for two years," she says, adding that designer Halston made her a tweed pair with a long vest over them. Adolfo and Galanos are two other favorite designers. "I love sexy clothes. A lot of the longer lengths aren't sexy. And you have to dress to be comfortable. With all that extra weight on your legs, it is hard to move around," she says.

Mrs. Theodoropoulos is among 66 men and women of 16 nationalities chosen for their good taste and influence on current fashion. They were elected by written ballot sent to some 2,000 people representing fashion, society and theater.

The list was announced by Eleanor Lambert a publicist of fashions who originated the poll in 1940. The votes were counted by a committee of editors of fashion publications.

Other best dressed women of 1970 were: The Begum Aga Khan, British wife of the Moslem spiritual leader; Mme. Ahmed Benhima, wife of the Moroccan Ambassador to the United Nations; Diahann Carroll, American singer; Catherine Deneuve, French actress; Sophia Loren, Italian film star; Mrs. Denise Minnelli, Yugoslav residing in San Francisco; Mme. Georges Pompidou; Mrs. Richard Pistell, New York, former Marquesa Carol de Portago; Mrs. Ronald Reagan, wife of the governor of California; Mrs. Samuel P. Reed, American socialite, daughter of Mrs.

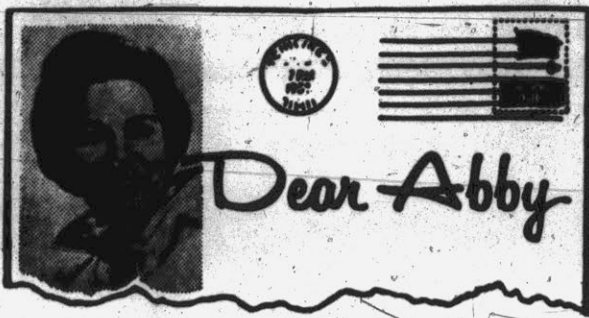

Charles Englehard and Mrs. Charles Revson, wife of the cosmetics magnate.

Five women were given "permanent status" and elected to the Hall of Fame: Mrs. William McCormick Blair Jr., Chicago, wife of the former U.S. ambassador who now heads the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington; Mrs. Alfred Bloomingdale of Los Angeles, wife of the founder of the Diner's Club; Mrs. Wyatt (Loria Vanderbilt) Cooper of New York; Mrs. Kirk Douglas, Hollywood, born in Paris; and Mrs. Patrick Guinness, Lausanne, Switzerland and Paris.

The list of best-dressed men for 1970 includes: J. Frederic Byers III of Pittsburgh and New York; Yul Brynner, actor of Tartar stock now living in Switzerland; Hernando Courtwright, Mexican-born hotelier of Los Angeles; John Gallier, American socialite of New York and London; Angus Ogilvy, British business man married to Princess Alexandra of Kent; Armando Orsini, New York restaurant owner; Giorgio Pavone, Roman public relations executive; Baron Alexis de Rede, Austrian-born Paris financier; Thomas Shevlin, Palm Beach socialite; Bobby Short, nightclub star born in Rockford, Ill.; Lord Snowdon, photographer, husband of Princess Margaret and Sargent Shriver, Washington.

Men to rank above the annual vote on the three year old men's list are: Gianni Agnelli of Turin, Italy, head of Fiat Motors; Cecil Beaton, British artist and photographer; Bill Blass, Indiana-born fashion designer; Pierre Cardin, Venetian-born French fashion designer; Count Rodolfo Crespi, Brazilian-born Italian in public relations; Hubert de Givenchy, French fashion designer; Bernard Lanvin, French head of the couture house; Henry Cabot Lodge, Massachusetts-born statesman; Col. Serge Obolensky, the Russian prince now in American business; Norman Parkinson, British fashion photographer; I.S.V. Patcevitich, Russian-born New York publish-

Granny's Great Gifts Never Correct Fit

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I wish you'd say something about a problem I am sure many share.

Grandma loves to knit and crochet, so she gives her handiwork to members of the family as Christmas gifts. Unfortunately she never asks anyone's size, she just "guesses" and some of her creations are a fright. One grandson received a sweater which was unbelievably short. ["I ran out of thread on this one."] A nephew got a scarf which was no less than six yards long! ["Just keep wrapping it around your neck."]

The colors she uses are atrocious and the styles are from 40 years ago.

We wouldn't hurt Grandma's feelings for the world, so we just graciously accept her gifts, and put them away. But the problem arises when Grandma asks the younger children if they ever wear her presents. What should they say?

BAFFLED

DEAR BAFFLED: "Not yet, Grandma."

DEAR ABBY: As parents of a two-year-old boy, we are somewhat concerned about the following situation. We have a nephew (around 30 years old) who is a homosexual. This isn't just hearsay. He's a fine, talented, very nice person, but he just happens to be a homosexual. Do you think we should ever let him alone with our son? Or would it be dangerous?

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: A homosexual is no more likely to molest a child than a heterosexual (or "normal") person.

DEAR ABBY: My problem concerns my mother-in-law. She kisses her dog on the mouth, and then she kisses my children on their mouths! When I objected, she told me that her doctor said it was perfectly all right to eat out of the dog's dish because a dog's mouth is cleaner than a human's. Was she lying or is that doctor crazy?

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: By some standards, the mouths of healthy dogs are as "clean" as the mouths of healthy humans. However, the practice of kissing children on the mouth should be discouraged whether the kisser has kissed a dog or not.

DEAR ABBY: I want to cry when I read letters from women who complain that they are always "tired," and think their husbands are too demanding when it comes to sex.

I had a husband who loved me dearly, and altho I loved him, too, I am sorry to say that I wasn't as loving and cooperative as I might have been. I was somewhat "frigid." I wasn't a "bad" wife, but I was "tired" most of the time, and must have been a great disappointment to my dear and patient husband all those years.

After my husband died, I had a thoro physical checkup and found out that I was terribly anemic and had a long list of other physical deficiencies. No wonder I was always tired! I am now taking medication to correct my condition, and as I told my doctor, if I had done this 20 years ago, I would have made my husband much happier.

Abby, please tell these chronically tired women to seek medical help at once, so they will never have the regrets I now have. Don't use my hometown, as someone might recognize this weeping widow. Sign me . . .

"TOO LATE"

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69768, Los Angeles, Cal. 90068. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Influential Dress Designer 'Coco' Chanel Died Yesterday

By LUCIE NOEL
Fashion Writer

PARIS (AP)—Fashion leaders on both sides of the Atlantic paid tribute today to Gabrielle "Coco" Chanel, the most influential dress designer of the 20th Century, who died Sunday night at her suite in the Ritz. She was 87.

Chanel "changed fashion more than any other designer," said Norman Norell, the dean of American designers. "She's the one who made women comfortable... There may be other designers who made more beautiful clothes, but she had the most influence."

"One of the great designers of the century, who never sacrificed herself to the tendency of making fashion ridiculous," said Marc Bohan of Dior.

A chambermaid at her hotel found Chanel ill Sunday night, and she died shortly after. Officials of her fashion house said death apparently was due to a heart attack.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete today.

The House of Chanel announced that showing of her new spring and summer collection will begin on schedule Jan. 26. She had been working on it Saturday and had approved 85 models.

Chanel's death also will not delay the opening in Cleveland tonight of "Coco," the musical based on her life in which Katharine Hepburn scored a smash hit last season. Producer Frederick Brisson, an old friend, said Chanel told him several weeks ago "if and when anything happened to her, the show was to go on as usual. That's the way it will be."

Brisson said the performance tonight would be dedicated to Chanel.

Chanel's revolutions in fashion brought haute couture in reach of the working girl after World War I.

"There are too many men in this business," she said, "and they don't know how to make wearable clothes for women. When fashion descends to the street it's a revolution, but when it comes up from the street it's a catastrophe."

FRENCH DESIGNER DIES — Gabrielle 'Coco' Chanel, queen of the French high fashion industry for years, died in Paris, Sunday night. (AP Wirephoto)

She rescued women from the corsets and long-skirted frills of the Edwardian and World War I eras and in 1916 introduced expensive jersey cloth to high fashion. Tweed suits with jersey blouses, bell-bottomed trousers, trenchcoats and pea jackets, turtleneck sweaters and the collared and cuffed little black dress were Coco innovations. She introduced the sailor hat, and when she impulsively bobbed her hair one night another fashion sensation was born. She made costume jewelry respectable.

The box jacket and simple skirt of the Chanel suit probably has been copied more often and in more price ranges than any other garment designed by a couturier.

Millions who didn't know Chanel for her fashion designs knew her for the perfume she introduced in 1922 and named after her lucky number. Chanel No. 5 became the most famous perfume in the world and the foundation of her fortune. It outsells all other perfumes in 140 countries.

Chanel guarded religiously her actual birth date, because "a woman has the age she deserves." But it was generally accepted that she was born on Aug. 19, 1883, near Issouire in the Auvergne, a mountainous region of south-central France. Her mother died of tuberculosis when Gabrielle was 6, and her father deserted her and her three sisters.

He had nicknamed her Coco—"little pet"—and it stuck with the girl who was to become the epitome of women's liberation, while enjoying womanhood and feeling that every other woman should enjoy it.

Reared by two tyrannical aunts who raised horses for the French army, Gabrielle Bonheur Chanel—the middle name means "Happiness"—learned to sew and ride with equal expertise.

She opened her first shop in 1913 in Deauville, then moved to 31 Rue Cambon the next year, the address destined to be fashion's mecca for decades to come.

She engaged in flirtations, always avoiding matrimony, and she became an immensely wealthy woman in her own right after the perfume hit the market in 1922. During the 1930s her fortune was estimated at $15 million and she became known as a businesswoman with few equals. She loved to make money almost as much as she loved her independence.

Interrupted by World War II, Coco's career took a downturn and she refrained from designing for 15 years, living off royalties from her other interests.

Her return to couture in 1954 was snubbed by the fashion critics, but her acceptance by the public grew steadily, and by the 1960s she was as influential as ever.

What's in a Look?

The British Empire was at its zenith during the Edwardian era. The clothes worn in that day reflected the great splendor and affluence of the Empire. The clothing then was made of the finest woolsens, cottons and silks, and cut in the most elegant styles.

Today's Edwardian inspired styles give us the best of the earlier time but are modified by American tailors to fit our needs.

Very distinctive boots created for both men and women complement the Edwardian look. There are slip on boots or strap-fastened boots, both designed for comfort and style. They are created in almost every color and type of leather imaginable.

If you're a member of the "mod" set, you'll find that the Edwardian "boot look" is just the thing for you.

Same Old Arguments By Critics

As could be expected, a round of editorial criticism has begun in some newspapers of the state concerning East Carolina's developing medical school.

The editorial opposition in some of the larger newspapers was predictable because it is time for the State Legislature to meet again and, of course, further appropriations for the two year medical program will be under consideration.

The same tired old arguments of two and four years ago are being reheated, presumably in hopes that all which has been done toward developing the program at ECU will be thrown down the drain, and North Carolina can return to the road toward disaster in medical care for its citizens.

The arguments have long since been answered and the answers have been accepted by the people of the state. The old one about lack of population in Greenville went down since plans call for using hospitals in a number of surrounding cities over an area which embraces hundreds of thousands of people. There is no question that these hospitals are modern since new buildings have been or are being constructed in Nash County, Wilson, Lenoir, Craven, and Wayne. There are also modern hospitals in Washington and Tarboro. Finally the people of Pitt County have recently approved $9 million in bonds, which with promised state funds will build an $11 million facility here. This was done partially in anticipation of the beginning of medical training here.

Temporary facilities for the two year program will be provided in ECU's splendid new Life Sciences building, which in itself was designed to provide support for the medical program.

East Carolina has been building its medical school programs for years with the full support of the Legislature. Two years ago the Legislature further implemented the program by voting funds to begin establishing the school. The faculty nucleus has been gathered in the meantime and the actual training of students should not be far off.

Of course, the old argument has been raised of where the two year students will take their final two years of training, and it has had to be shown again that there are openings in North Carolina and in other southeastern schools to place these students.

The reckless ones in this debate are those who would ask the people of North Carolina to throw away the years of building and planning that have gone on at East Carolina University to prepare for its two year medical program. It is those who would ask North Carolinians to suffer through more years of physician shortages, on the slim hope that ECU critics might come up with some plan to provide more doctors.

The North Carolina Legislature has twice voted authorization to East Carolina to proceed with the two year medical school. Gov. Scott has been asked at virtually every press conference about the program and he has expressed the belief that it is needed, although his approving answers seldom seemed to be printed.

It is an insult to the people of North Carolina, to their representatives in the Legislature and to the governor, himself, to raise tired old arguments which have been answered time and time again over the past several years. North Carolinians have proven themselves to be aware of their needs and they have met them in a responsible manner. The opponents should cease criticizing the people of our state, who know what they want and approved of it. If the critics cannot support the medical school at ECU then at least they should turn their attention to some other worthwhile project which will help the state.

Eure Will Set A Nat'l Record

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — Distinctive Thad Eure adds another distinction to his record next Wednesday.

The Secretary of State will convene the North Carolina House of Representatives for the 20th biennial time. That's a national record.

When Eure raps for order in the House chamber at noon, Lieutenant-Governor H. P. (Pat) Taylor, Jr., will do the same across the way in the Senate. Rolls will be called, oaths of office administered to Representatives and Senators, and the 1971 General Assembly will be in session.

The House will move promptly to the selection of a Speaker as its presiding officer. Eure will ask for nominations. The name of Representative Philip R. Godwin of Gates County will be offered.

Godwin's assured ample votes as the choice of the Democratic majority. Eure will declare him elected, give him congratulations, and the gavel, then step aside, his chores completed.

Long practice will enable Eure to carry off convening of the House with aplomb and punctiliousness. He did it first for the 1933 session, and he has repeated it every two years without a break since.

Two Twin Bills
He's pitched a couple of doubleheaders along the way. For the 1957 and 1963 sessions, the state being without a Lieutenant-Governor, Eure convened the upper body, too. "I did the Senate first because it had a shorter roll call, only 50 members compared to 120 in the House," he said.

The first couple of times, Eure convened the House in the role of Principal Clerk. The law was changed, giving the duty to the Secretary of State, about the time he assumed that office so that he continued without a break.

Legislative associations for Eure go back to the 1925 and 1927 sessions when his father represented Gates, the small eastern county which is home for the '71 Speaker.

Tazewell Eure, a farmer, sent his son to the University of North Carolina to earn a law degree. Thad settled across the Chowan River, in the next county but only nine miles from his daddy's smokehouse.

"As a young lawyer practicing in a rural county, I couldn't have survived any other way," he said wisely.

When the father dropped out of the state legislature, the son came in as Hertford County Representative for the 1929 session. He became House Principal Clerk for the 1931 General Assembly.

Changes Time Wrought
What are the differences the intervening years have made for the Tar Heel legislators?

Eure ticked off some of them — the place, the pay, the problems: the commodious Legislative Building contrasted to cramped chambers in the Capitol; $240 for a full session compared to $250 per month, plus expenses and subsistence; the needs of a state with a 1920 population of 2,559,123 and a 1970 count of 5,082,059.

A paramount difference is accessibility. The Tar Heel lawmaker 40 years ago was in a goldfish bowl, compared to the insulation his counterparts have today.

"There was only one door to the House and Senate chambers in the Capitol," Eure reminded. "A constituent, or anyone else, who wanted to see a member of the legislature had only to wait outside that door to catch them either going in or coming out."

"If a legislator knew someone he didn't want to see was waiting outside he couldn't do a thing in the world about it — unless he wanted to jump out a window."

Connally Makes Heavy Impact

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

DALLAS — The rosy prediction that John B. Connally's appointment as Secretary of the Treasury will give Texas's 26 electoral votes to President Nixon in 1972 is a myth that can be understood only in the light of two sub rosa moves here, one Democratic and one Republican, shortly before he was named to the Nixon Cabinet.

The Democratic move: important figures in this state's tory Democratic establishment contacted Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine with suggestions intended to pin down Texas for him. Conceding the state to President Nixon only short months ago, these Democrats informed Muskie that Texas can be his if he softens his anti-oil, anti-gas rhetoric. The Republican move: a key party operative, instrumental in holding Texas for Mr. Nixon at Miami Beach, delivered ill tidings to the President's political managers in Washington. His message: Mr. Nixon has slipped terribly in Texas already and may slip deep enough to lose the state in 1972.

In sum, at the very moment of Connally's nomination, leaders of both parties here agreed that Nixon stock had taken such a drastic turn that any White House hope for John Connally to deliver the state to Mr. Nixon all by himself is simplistic political reasoning at its worst.

What ails Mr. Nixon in Texas was graphically disclosed in Washington by the Texas Republican leader shortly after the Nov. 3 election. His report: the President's staff is too political, his Cabinet is not political enough, his political leadership is divided, and his handling of the economy is inept.

That bleak appraisal is underlined by the disillusionment of 1968 Nixon supporters here. Although big oil seems inextricably wedded to the Republicans, Mr. Nixon's attempt to roll back crude oil prices is deeply resented by well-heeled Texas businessmen generally as evidence of bad faith. Influential Dallas bankers, all for Mr. Nixon in 1968, now talk of him as "too political." Republican regulars privately blame the visit here of the President and Vice President Agnew and their omnipresence over national television for the stunning defeat of Rep. George Bush for the Senate.

That is why Texas Democrats, who last summer were forecasting a generation of Republican Presidential victories here, have suddenly come to see Muskie as marketable in Texas. Their secret proposal that he soften his criticism of the oil-gas industry reflects this new optimism.

That adds up to a problem which Connally by himself, fully conceding his political prowess during three terms as Governor of Texas, cannot come close to solving. Indeed, as though to buttress the myth, the White House itself tends to overemphasize Connally's role in carrying Texas for Hubert Humphrey in 1968. Connally barnstormed the state for Humphrey only after Mr. Nixon had begun to slip (and even then did not contribute perhaps his most formidable talent: raising vast sums of money).

But with all this it is by no means certain that he will

Strength For Today

ENOUGH? OR TOO MUCH?

Is there too much excitement in the world today? Perhaps. Yet in another way we might say that there is not enough excitement.

We seem to be passing through a time when there is excitement all about us. Politicians, of course, keep the world excited, for if they did not there would be very little accomplished in the field of government. Parties are good. The idea that politicians are a lot of crooked manipulators is entirely wrong. There are a few like that, of course, in both parties, but on the whole politicians are men giving their attention to the policies under which the government is to operate. Counting out the very small percentage of politicians who are crooked, the great majority are definitely hard at work trying to run the country as they think it ought to be run. Of course there is excitement. They shake their fists at each other and declare that their opponents are bringing the country to the verge of ruin. Most of this is hot air, but amid the excitement public welfare is discussed. We hear it over radio and TV. We read about it in the newspapers. Excitement? Yes, and on the whole that excitement is beneficial to the country.

And it is beneficial to us as individuals. Life is something to be lived, not crawled through lazily. It can be overdone, and frequently is overdone, but on the whole excitement is good and certainly is to be preferred over lethargy.

Predictions For 1971

WASHINGTON — This is the time of year when those of us in the Crystal Ball business must reveal what our vibrations tell us will happen in 1971.

The science of predicting is so exact that last year I was only wrong on one prediction out of 155. The prediction I erred on was that J. Edgar Hoover would retire and take the FBI with him.

I have had some strong vibrations for 1971 and here they are:

Jackie Kennedy will come into a windfall of money and will no longer have to make her own clothes.

The Marlboro man will give up smoking, and go back to chewing tobacco.

Three hundred and thirty-five thousand Spiro Agnew watches will be recalled because of a faculty main-spring.

"Khrushchev's Memoirs" will be bought for a film, but in order to guarantee a box office, the producers will add 32 orgy scenes at the Kremlin showing Stalin as a dirty old man.

Former President Lyndon Baines Johnson's book will be published and will reveal that the person responsible for all his wrong decisions was Jack Valenti.

Tricia Nixon will be married, but Sen. Edmund Muskie will not be invited to the wedding.

The John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts will open in September, and at President Nixon's

Other Editors Say Save Green Berets

(Shelby Star)
THE DEMISE of the Green Berets as an active fighting force in South Vietnam marks the end of an era. Not only have the most effective American fighters in Vietnam been removed from combat in deference to Vietnamization, it is entirely possible that the beginning of the end of the Green Berets has begun. Already, appropriations are being reduced for the elite fighting force, and the regular Army generals are left with egg in their beer as a result.

The Green Beret influence, however, cannot soon be forgotten. No matter how hard some regular Army forces would like to forget, there can be no disregard of the Green Beret effectiveness in South Vietnam. From Robin Moore's book to the "Ballad of the Green Berets" to John Wayne's movie, their heroics and their intensity will forever be a brilliant part of the military service. And this doesn't mean we are writing the Green Berets' obituary, even though the handwriting seems to be on the wall.

At one time in South Vietnam, prisoners were telling stories of being frightened to surrender by the mere appearance of the Green Berets. The Berets were the central force which held the outer boundaries of South Vietnam when all looked lost. From its base camps, the Berets were the most-hated enemy of the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese. They carried on clandestine operations over borders, and they recruited mercenaries who turned into some of South Vietnam's best fighters. Hailed by President Kennedy and based at Fort Bragg, the Green Berets were controversial but effective.

THERE WAS some considerable disagreement about the Green Berets from the first, because regular Army folks were more than a little jealous. Still, few can deny — even in the midst of horror stories about Green Beret tactics on the battlefield and in training — that the Special Forces unit did its job. Any move to kill the Green Berets will be virtually like the mountain being made to come to Mohammed. The Green Berets will not die a quiet and peaceful death, as indeed they should not. Not only are they highly trained and highly motivated, they get their jobs done. And we could use some more of that.

Learn It All By Mail

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

If you want to avoid becoming a delinquent, learn to like yourself. Psychologists have found that a lack of self-esteem, a feeling of being bad and worthless, often lead an individual to rebel against the rules of society and become delinquent.

There is no reason for blind worship of the efficiency of machines: It has been figured that it would take 100 clerks working for 100 years to make a mistake as monumental as a single computer can make in a thousandth of a second.

Half of America's industrial employes work under conditions so noisy they risk damaged hearing, the Stanford Research Institute estimates. But all attempts to make a hush-hush world don't succeed. Example: an attempt to market a quieter vacuum cleaner failed because housewives felt that lack of noise indicated lack of power.

Keep living: A child born in the United States today can look forward to living 70½ years—a record level. In 1900 an infant had an average life expectancy of 48 years. Many people may ask whether life is worth living, but most of them hang on to it as long as possible—if only in the hope that it will get better.

Signs of the time: On the desk of Jules Podell, Copacabana owner: "The reason there are so many alibis for failure is because success doesn't need any."

Maternal Pachyderm: Female elephants are good mothers and don't believe in spoiling the child by sparing the rod. When her baby—which weighs 200 pounds at birth—gets too mischievous, the mother elephant uproots a bush or plucks a tree branch and whacks it across the back sternly—just as human mothers used to do.

Worth remembering: "The best way to get a woman's undivided attention is to tell her something that is none of her business."

Those good old days: In 1902 all U.S. government taxes—federal, state and local—came to only $17 per person.

Mr. Little and Mr. Big: Who were the lightest and heaviest U.S. presidents? The lightest at 100 pounds was James Madison, who was only 5 feet 4. The heaviest was 6-foot William Howard Taft who, at 340 pounds, weighed nearly 3½ times as much as Madison.

Problem Child Of 1971: Steel

By ELMER ROESSNER

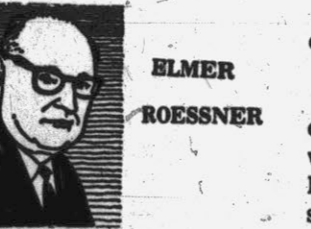

Steel will be the problem child of American industry this year and whatever happens will be bad for industry generally and probably delay recovery from the current recession.

I. W. Abel, president of the United Steelworkers of America, has been declaring loudly and often that the union will demand "just and fair wage increases" when the union's contract comes up for renegotiation before Aug. 1, when the present contract expires. So far, the size of the demand has not been disclosed, but it is likely to be somewhat higher than the United Auto Workers won.

The implied threat to strike has caused predictions of huge stockpiling by steel users. So far, little has been stockpiled. Building up of reserve supplies probably won't start until April, when steel shipments will be easier to handle in better weather. Furthermore, there will still be time to accumulate the metal.

Costs Of Hoarding
Another cause for delay is the cost of accumulations. Stockpiles tie up storage space and money, and require spending for guarding, extra trucking and other incidentals. However, costs of stockpiling will be offset in small or large measure by savings on steel prices, which are certain to go up after the new wage agreement.

Industry Week magazine estimates stockpiling will result in shipment of 65 million net tons in the first seven months of the year. This will protect steel users, but at the same time it will enable the union and workers to build up savings for a long strike.

Consequences of a strike can be fearsome.

What Can Happen
It can stagger the entire economy, perhaps even worse than the General Motors strike did last year since it would involve more men, more companies.

It can cost steel more of its dwindling foreign market. It can cause foreign producers to ignore voluntary quotas and gain more markets here. Both the industry and union are talking up a peaceful settlement, although Abel has declared the union will seek "not just another wage increase but a very, very substantial wage increase." Steelworkers, you know have the same problems with inflation that you have.

But even if there is a peaceful settlement without a strike, the higher wages will mean steel price increases, again threatening our export market and increasing demand for foreign steel. Furthermore, the huge stockpiles will reduce new domestic orders, causing layoffs at the steel mills.

And strike or no strike, steel prices will go up, eventually raising the price of automobiles, construction, appliances and just about everything else. As the steel industry used to say, "Nothing is made without steel."

Laird Says North Viet Threat Rises In Cambodia

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said today that the Communist command's armed threat "has increased in Laos, remains the same in Cambodia and is lower than ever before in Vietnam." Laird said U.S. forces will meet or exceed every one of President's Nixon's troop withdrawal deadlines. But he added that the pullouts would be based on "progress in Paris, progress in Vietnamization and the size of the enemy threat."

Commenting on U.S. troop morale after a four-day visit to Vietnam, Laird told a final news conference that a problem exists in the ranks.

"Our commanders are well aware of the problems involved in a war that is winding down," he said, "But I believe this winding down is a good problem for our commanders to have."

Asked whether U.S. soldiers in Vietnam are displaying reluctance to expose themselves to the dangers of combat in a war that is winding down, Laird said:

"I've had an opportunity to talk to many young men in Vietnam. I've found this attitude expressed by a few but I believe it is a minority position."

"I feel the best way for us to proceed and to go forward in Vietnamization is to see that they are on the alert and are careful, but at the same time ready to pursue and destroy the enemy where necessary."

He said the United States has made a genuine effort to cut its casualties, "and the President and I won't be satisfied until this figure is down to zero."

Laird said his talks and field tours had "reinforced the conviction" that Vietnamization of the war is ahead of schedule.

He gave no new withdrawal figures, saying Nixon would announce the next target in April.

From Saigon, Laird flew to Honolulu for meetings with Adm. John S. McCain Jr., commander in chief of U.S. forces in the Pacific.

American and South Vietnamese operations in Cambodia have given the South Vietnamese forces confidence, insured the success of the Vietnamization program and substantially reduced American casualties, Laird said.

He said Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, the chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, will go to Phnom Penh Tuesday to study the situation there.

He said he held talks of "major significance" with President Nguyen Van Thieu on a "wide range of matters" today. Among the things discussed, he said, were the effectiveness of South Vietnam's regular army and its militia forces and "economic adjustments which will have to be made as the U.S. presence is reduced."

Meanwhile, South Vietnamese military headquarters reported heavy fighting 58 miles north-west of Saigon, in Tay Ninh province bordering Cambodia.

The headquarters also announced a new 2,000-man offensive into eastern Cambodia about 85 miles west of Saigon along Highway 1, the Saigon-Phnom Penh highway.

The fighting less than 10 miles north of Tay Ninh city indicated that fresh North Vietnamese troops have crossed from Cambodia into South Vietnam. South Vietnamese paratroopers said they were up against an enemy battalion, normally 200 to 400 troops.

South Vietnamese headquarters said it had increased its forces inside Cambodia to 10,500 troops with the launching of the new operation west of Saigon.

The U.S. Command announced the first B52 raids inside Cambodia in a week. Waves of the eight-jet Stratofortresses hammered North Vietnamese supply routes in northeastern means certain that Connally will actively support Mr. Nixon in 1972, as Republicans here generally expect. That would pit him against his closest political allies — Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, Sen. elect Lloyd Bentsen, National Committeeman (and national Democratic treasurer) Robert Strauss, ex-White House aide George Christian — almost certain to vigorously oppose Mr. Nixon.

Cambodia. The Cambodian government claimed its troops repulsed three attacks by North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces without suffering any casualties, including one assault by an estimated 200 men. Unofficial sources said, however, that five Cambodians were killed in one of the attacks.

Yet, there is one chance of John Connally going into Texas to do battle on Richard Nixon's behalf: if the Democrats nominate Sen. Edward M. Kennedy or a similarly unpalatable liberal for President. But in that case, Barnes, Bentsen, et al., would more or less sit out the losing campaign, and Connally's participation would become academic.

Although the Texas Democratic establishment has begun to talk about Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington for President, it would be overjoyed by a Muskie-Jackson ticket. To fight for that sort of ticket, Barnes is even now laying plans to control — with Bentsen's collaboration — the Texas delegation to the 1972 national convention. Connally, struggling with the nation's economic conundrum at the Treasury, will be far removed from that battle.

Handy Escape Route
Today, chambers in the State House have a dozen doors through which Senators and Representatives can disappear upon adjournment and private offices where they can hole up to evade unwanted visitors.

The old days had an after-hours intimacy now missing, Eure said. First the Yarrow House and later the Sir Walter Hotel were gathering places where a quorum could be raised any evening. Fully as much legislative business went on there as at the Capitol. "Nowadays members are scattered all over the city," Eure said. "You will never again have the sort of closeness that existed back then."

Unchanged with the years, in his view, is the activity of lobbyists and those engaged in seeking to influence legislative action. "The manner of operation is different," he acknowledged, "but lobbying was just as prevalent then as now."

Saw Several Fires Here

Greenville firemen responded to more than a half-dozen calls yesterday and, although most of them were relatively minor, heavy damage resulted from three of them.

Fire officers reported a 12:30 p.m. fire at 1601 Beaumont Dr. caused heavy damage to a bathroom. The fire was believed caused by an electric heater igniting a towel or curtains in the room.

A faulty chimney was believed responsible for a 1:20 p.m. fire which caused heavy damage to a 141 East Longmeadow Rd. home, while officers said a flooded heater is believed to have caused a fire which caused extensive damage to a house trailer at 1000 Park Drive about 11:05 p.m.

In addition to a number of minor calls Saturday, an 8:30 p.m. fire at 316 Rutledge Rd. caused heavy damage.

Fire officers said wiring in the home may have been faulty and caused the blaze.

Fire units, when called to the 316 Rutledge Rd. fire were at 312 Rutledge Rd. in response to another call.

MILKY WAY'S "NEIGHBORS" — Bright cores of two massive but previously undetected galaxies shine dimly through veil of obscuring interstellar dust in this new photograph made at Mt. Palomar, Calif. observatory. They're called "Maffei 1" and "Maffei 2", for Paolo Maffei, Italian astronomer who reported them two years ago as strange "objects". Astronomers believe the entire galaxies, if seen clearly, would extend across the picture and probably overlap each other. Other objects seen, including those with halos, are ordinary stars in the Milky Way. (AP Wirephoto) sewer and gas crews were extremely helpful in supplementing the efforts of our electric crews. I'm proud of the work our men have done," Horne said.

Despite heavy damage to telephone facilities, emergency calls were kept moving during the after the ice storm.

Don Collier, Greenville Carolina Telephone manager, said, "Local and long distance operators were called back for additional duty and all emergency calls were completed in record time. All local, outside and inside plant personnel were on duty Saturday and Sunday and four additional crews were directed into the area to assist in the telephone service restoration plan.

"Some 850 telephones were knocked out of service temporarily, but 40 percent have been repaired already. All telephones should be back in service within the next five days," he said.

"However, it will take considerably longer to restore various long distance circuits affected by the storm. The extensive repair work will also delay completion of new service installations."

"The miles of telephone lines put under ground in this area since the 1968 ice storm has accounted for sustained service to many areas affected by that storm and should lessen repair costs to the company," he said.

Greenville street department director, Ken Beatty, said all available city workmen, except garbage men, are hard at work clearing the city streets.

Joe Mills of Pitt County Roads maintenance reported that most, if not all, roadways in the county are cleared of tree limbs and other debris. "Now we're going back and police up the road shoulders," he said.

Precipitation during the ice storm was .52 of an inch (from 8 p.m. Friday to 8 a.m. Saturday.) Some .23 of an inch has fallen since then. The Tar River was up to 6.7 feet, the highest level in some time. Temperatures ranged from 30 to 38 degrees during the past 24 hours. More temperatures in the same range are predicted.

Davidson Back On Top In Southern Conf. Standings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Davidson is back on top in the standings, an apparently healthy Bryan Adrian is back playing with the Wildcats — and that combination can't be anything but bad news for six other Southern Conference basketball teams.

The Wildcats didn't lift a finger in their own behalf Saturday night in regaining the league lead they'd lost when Furman's Paladins ended their 35-game conference winning streak last Tuesday night. The Citadel's Bulldogs took care of the job for them with a 90-80 regionally televised victory over Furman that left the Bulldogs, the Paladins and East Carolina's Pirates tied at 2-1 behind Davidson's 3-1 league mark. A 71-63 victory over Virginia Military Institute's winless Keydets lifted East Carolina into the three-way deadlock, and William and Mary's Indians took a solid grip on fifth place at 3-2 with a 72-69 squeeze past Richmond that left the Spiders tied with VMI for the bottom at 0-3.

Davidson, meanwhile, handed West Virginia's former league members a 66-57 licking and one of the major factors was Adrian who led the Wildcats in scoring as a sophomore last season, but had been sidelined all this year following knee surgery.

Adrian entered the game late in the first half and scored a basket that cut the Wildcats' deficit to 27-24 at intermission. Then he scored 15 more points in the second half as Davidson shot 59 per cent from the floor. Eric Minkin grabbed 14 rebounds and John Pecorak and Sheve Kirley 10 each as Davidson took a 50-38 edge off the boards, and Kirley had 12 points as the Wildcats pulled away.

Five players, led by Ben Ledbetter with 32 points, scored in double figures as The Citadel broke away from a 25-25 tie midway the first half and never was headed by Furman. The Bulldogs hit 26 of 28 free throw tries. Russ Hunt's 23 points topped five twin-figure performances by the Paladins.

A pair of free throws by Tim Gundlach gave VMI a 63-62 lead over East Carolina with 2:41 left, but the Pirates scored the game's last nine points to hand the Keydets their 105th defeat.

Jan Essenburg had 17 points for the Keydets, who coach Mike Shuler said "did everything I asked except shoot." Sophomore Al Faber had 20 for the Pirates, and Coach Tom Quinn said "I don't know what to do" about their habit of having to come from behind — unless it's to warm up longer.

William and Mary, with Steve Dodge scoring 27 points and Tom Jasper adding 21 and 12 rebounds, took the lead for good with 5:21 left in the first half against Richmond, now 1-11 after losing its last 10. Richmond missed several chances when trailing by two points with 25 seconds left.

"I don't think we would have been dead if we'd lost," said Indian coach Warren Mitchell, "but it helps keep us in there." All conference teams are idle tonight.

Buc Swimmers Splashed Past West Liberty

East Carolina University wound up a weekend of dual meets Sunday afternoon as the Buc swimmers rolled to an 84-28 victory over West Liberty State.

The visitors, rated one of the better small college teams in the country, was hampered by illness as it wound up a swing through the South, and several of their top swimmers were unable to compete.

The Bucs captured first place in every event but three as they won handily.

Friday, the Pirates will meet Florida State, and then take on South Florida on Saturday as they make their own road trip to the south. A meet scheduled for Wednesday with South Carolina in Columbia was cancelled by the Gamecocks.

An Eight-Way Tie Possible?

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
By the time Atlantic Coast Conference teams get through battering each other in regular season play, there could be an eight-way tie for first place seeding in the March tournament.

Saturday's games were an indication of the topsy-turvy way the season is going and a measure of the almost casual way national rankings are taken around the league.

Maryland shocked second-ranked South Carolina, 31-30 in overtime; Wake Forest rolled over N.C. State, 83-76; and only Virginia and North Carolina triumphed more or less as expected. The Cavaliers smashed Clemson, 66-56; and the Tar Heels mauled Duke, 79-74.

The Gamecocks' loss — their second this week in the conference — dropped the preseason favorites to third place in the league. North Carolina became the only unbeaten team with a 3-0 record, followed by Virginia at 2-1.

Maryland, N.C. State, Wake Forest, Duke and Clemson trail in that order.

This week all eight teams play at least once and the standings could easily take another shuffle. Among the games are South Carolina at Virginia and Clemson at Maryland tonight, N.C. State at Duke in a regionally televised game Wednesday and North Carolina at Wake Forest in another regionally televised game Saturday afternoon.

The Tar Heels' trek to Winston-Salem will be their first for a conference game away from the friendly noise at Chapel Hill, where Virginia, South Carolina and Duke have fallen to the 19th-ranked squad of Dean Smith.

But Smith will have his players ready. He said following the Duke win: "I was very much concerned after the emotional victory over South Carolina. But we played well in spots."

Wake Forest's Jack McCloskey won his 20th collegiate game against the Wolfpack at Raleigh and said, "State did a good job but we were patient enough to wait for the good shot."

Big 10 Day In Cameraman, Beat Billy Casper In Sudden-Death

By HUBERT MIZELL
TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — It was Big Ten day in the American Bowl, far from the Midwest's snowy terrain.

Ohio State's Leo Hayden ran for two touchdowns, gained 75 yards rushing and was named most valuable player.

Michigan's Paul Staroba caught six passes, two for touchdowns, to gain 66 yards.

Michigan quarterback Don Moorehead hit eight of 12 passes for 69 yards and one score. All that Big Ten Conference muscle Sunday led the North to a 39-2 triumph over the out-classed South in the college all-star production.

Although the live crowd was only 12,000 in fog-shrouded Tampa Stadium, the sponsoring Lions International proclaimed the venture a financial success and said it will be back in 1972.

Reason for the success was a $50,000 fee from an independent television network.

The South, favorites of the tiny crowd, never got rolling and when the favored Yanks scored 20 points in a three-minute span midway through the first half it became a lopsided affair.

Morehead broke up a boring first quarter by driving the North 51 yards for a score. Hayden banged across from the three, and it was 7-0 with 23 seconds left in the period.

Clifton Hardy, another Michigan ace, started the South misfortunes by intercepting a pass by Arizona State's Joe Spagnola. He returned it 22 yards to the Rebel three and Hayden crashed over on the next play for a 14-0 lead.

South running back Sam Scarber of New Mexico coughed up the ball on the Rebs' next try, with Rhodes Scholar Willie Bogan of Dartmouth recovering at the South 15. Boston College passer Frank Harris hit Staroba on a 15-yard bullet and it was then 20-0.

"It became academic after that and the South's only glory came when Richard Harrington of Houston trapped North running back Paul Dwyer of Georgetown for a safety in the third quarter.

American Skate Squad Out Front

WINNIPEG (AP) — U.S. competitors won the Canada-U.S. Speedskating Championship on the weekend for the fourth consecutive time, rolling up a total of 294½ points to Canada's 65½.

The American squad held a 144-36 lead over the Canadians at the end of competition Saturday and stretched their margin of victory Sunday. Canada last won the annual match in 1966. There was none held in 1968.

WINTER GOLF COURSE
OLD WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — Gene McMasters, recently added to head pro Ben Roman's golf staff at the Old Westbury Golf and Country Club, is in charge of a winter golf program at the plush Long Island course. A former head pro who has been on the PGA tour, McMasters part of a special course which includes motion pictures and rules discussions.

$22,000 first prize in the Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open golf tournament, the first stop on the 63-event pro tour this year.

Casper said the click of a camera on the final regulation hole Sunday "ruined my tempo on my driving. I didn't hit the ball solid once after that."

"I necked it on the 15th the first playoff hole, hooked it on the 16th, sliced it on the 17th and pushed it on the 18th."

He saved par on all of them, however, but Lunn won it with a birdie on the 18th, hitting a wedge to within 18 inches of the flag.

It was the fifth victory for the burly, soft-spoken 25-year-old from Sacramento, Calif. He has been on the tour only a little more than three years and has won over 300,000.

"I'm just so happy I could cry and I might," the balding, 220-pounder said. "To play against a man like Billy Casper, and in a field this good, well, I'm just very, very pleased and honored."

Each had a final round 67 for 274, 10 under par on the Rancho Bark golf club course. Art Wall, a 47-year-old former Masters champion who hasn't won since 1966, had a share of the lead until he three-putted the final hole, missing the second from three feet.

He had a 28 for 275 and was alone in third.

A group of four, including third-round leader Bobby Greenwood, followed at 277. The others were Phil Rodgers, Don January and Gibby Gilbert. Greenwood had a 73, Rodgers a 68, January 69 and Gilbert 70.

Arnold Palmer never was in contention and finished with a 71 for 282, well back. U.S. open champ Tony Jacklin had a 72 for 284.

Back To Tractor For Ray Elder

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — It's back to the 20 mile an hour tractor today for farmer-driver Ray Elder even though he's considerably richer from winning the ninth Motor Trend Riverside 500-mile race for grand national stock cars.

Elder, 28, hails from Caruthers, Calif., a tiny farming community where he and other family members grow alfalfa cotton and black-eyed peas — and build fast race cars.

Elder beat a host of Southern challengers, five of whom finished second through sixth.

Elder sped through 191 laps at an average speed of 100.89 miles an hour to take his first victory in such a major race. His winnings were $19,165, all of which "goes back to the bank," he quipped.

Second in Sunday's grueling five-hour contest on the twisting 2.62-mile asphalt track was Bob Allison of Hueytown, Ala., who, like Elder, was driving a 1970 Dodge.

Allison, who gave Elder strong competition all the way to the end, earned $9,225 for the effort. Third was Benny Parsons of Elerbe, N.C., in a 1969 Ford, who earned $6,340 for his work. He was followed by David Pearson of Spartanburg, S.C., who was driving a 1971 Dodge entered by Bobby Isaac of Catawba, N.C.

Pearson took over driving chores in Isaac's car after more than half the race had been run.

Pearson's 1970 Ford had blown its engine on the 25th lap.

Pole-sitter Richard Petty of Randleman, N.C., dropped out of the race on the 107th lap, his engine suffering similar to Pearson's. Petty had held the lead most of the time after Pearson was sidelined.

The most exciting part of Sunday's contest came in the final laps when it became a contest of pit stop efficiency. Elder held the lead most of the time, changing positions with Allison briefly, but won when Allison had to make a pit stop for fuel.

Allison was only a few seconds ahead of Elder — a lead he had taken while Elder also stopped for gas — when he ducked into the pits for a quick refill. Elder then took the lead and kept it, finishing only seconds ahead of Allison.

Death Marred Argentina Race

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The tragic death of Italian racing driver Ignazio Guinti marred Sunday's 600-mile Argentina auto race Sunday.

The race was won by a Porsche 917 driven by Jo Stiffert of Switzerland and Britain's Derek Bell. But Guinti's death overshadowed the race.

The Italian driver was fatally injured when his Ferrari smashed into the Jean-Pierre Beltoise's Matra on the 38th lap of the 164-lap race. Beltoise's car had run out of gas and Guinti crashed into it rounding a blind curve on the 3.66-mile Municipal Autodrome track. Guinti was leading the race at the time.

Farm Scene

By LEROY JAMES

As things look now, hybrid seed corn is going to be scarce next spring.

Seed companies have told the USDA that only 22 percent of the supply will be resistant to the Race T of Southern leaf blight that swept across the South last year.

Of the remaining 78 percent, 40 percent will be susceptible to the new blight and 38 percent will be blends of resistant and susceptible, which the companies say are "partially resistant."

Blends have confused many corn growers. Some resent the fact that they will have no choice but to plant part of their acreage to blends. They fear the industry may be using blends as a means of asking farmers to pay extra for seed that could prove no better than seed which is completely susceptible.

Some seed companies say that the blends make the best of a bad situation—that they wish they were able to offer all resistant seed as they hope to do in 1972. What many farmers don't know is that the reason for offering blends is not just for their resistance, but for the pollen shed by the resistant corn in the blend. The fact is, many farmers have been growing such blends for several years.

Actually, these are blends of the same hybrid which contains kernels from plants grown by two different methods—detasseling and the male-sterile technique. Kernels grown by detasseling contain normal cytoplasm (N) and resist the blight. Kernels grown with the male-sterile method contain Texas male-sterile cytoplasm (T) and are susceptible. Most seed companies are going to mix N and T kernels together to get blends with the "partial resistance" that we mentioned earlier.

This really means that if you have blight next year—and it will be surprising if it isn't as bad in 1971 as it was in 1970—the N plants will resist the blight, the T plants won't. If half the kernels in the blend you plant are T and half are N, you could have one blighted plant next to each healthy one.

If you are wondering why mix the N and T kernels, the main reason most companies will mix is to get pollution. Much of their T seed is unrestored and will produce plants that are unable to shed pollen. If you planted this T seed by itself, you would get a field of cobs without kernels.

To understand this, you have to know how hybrid seed corn has been produced during recent years.

Most seed companies have been using the male-sterile method in which the corn breeder makes the tassel on the female parent incapable of producing pollen. This eliminates the need to go through the field and remove the tassel by hand.

With most hybrids in the past, the corn breeder has incorporated a so-called restorer gene into the male parent which would restore the tassel's fertility in the next generation. With this restorer, the hybrid seed produced by the male-sterile female parent, which is what you plant, produces tassels with viable pollen that forms kernels.

But it is difficult to get this restorer gene into some hybrids. So the seed companies grew some seed of the identical hybrid with the old detasseling method. Then they mixed this seed, which they knew would produce pollen, with that grown on male-sterile plants which wouldn't. Because one corn plant produces enough pollen to fertilize itself and several others, one detasseled plant to every two, three or even four male-sterile plants gave them enough pollen in the field.

This mixing idea, which the companies call blending, worked so well that they began to use it as a substitute for that unpredictable restorer gene. It became a practical short-cut because in most seasons the blended seed yielded as well as or better than restored seed.

Then last summer, the new blight struck. Nearly all companies had used Texas male-sterile cytoplasm to put male sterility into their female plants, and for some unexplainable reason, this made them susceptible to the blight. Farmers quickly noticed the proportion of blighted to healthy plants. It was usually one blighted plant to each healthy one, or two blighted to one healthy. This made many farmers aware of blending for the first time.

Even if fertility had been restored, this would not have made formerly T-cytoplasm seed blight resistant again. F2 seed, that's second generation seed selected from farmers' fields, are expected to yield from 25 percent to 35 percent less and will be highly susceptible to it if it contains male-sterile T-cytoplasm on the female side.

For the industry to have offered a blend of sterile T and F2 seed would have created problems. For instance, state and Federal seed acts would probably have had to be changed, and maybe there wasn't time to get that done.

It is unfair to blame the companies for not having more resistant seed. The new Race T is a mutation that seemingly came from out of nowhere, and you can't breed resistance to a disease that you don't know exists.

Whether blends will prove to have been a good idea, or a poor one, depends on the blight.

Your best choice after N? If the disease is light or absent, T hybrids should give good yields. They performed extremely well in no-blight areas and some did reasonably well in the blighted areas.

Blends should have a yield advantage if blight is severe and if the proportion of N is 50 percent or more. However, the T plants in the blend could die prematurely and lodge or drop their ears if the fall is wet.

As of now, 1971 does not shape up as a bumper year for corn. Probably nothing the seed companies can do, or could have done, will change that outlook.

A.—Pass and fast. If there were a game in this hand, partner would have been able to keep the bidding open on the first round. He is merely making a competitive effort to stop the opponents from stealing a part score and he should not be punished for his enterprise.

Set Hearings On 3 Rivers

RALEIGH (AP)—Public hearings will be held at Boone and Columbus, N. C., this week on whether portions of three western North Carolina rivers should be protected in their natural states.

The hearings were called as part of a study to decide when Tar Heel rivers should be included in the natural, scenic or recreational waterways program of the Department of the Interior if North Carolina chooses to participate in the program.

The program makes federal funds available for planning and acquisition of land along the rivers chosen for protection.

The hearing on the New and Linville River stretches will be held at Boone Thursday. The proposed area on the New River extends from its headwaters near Boone to the Appalachian Power Co. Reservoir. The Linville area extends from the falls to the lower boundary of the U. S. Forest Service property.

The proposed areas on the Green River are from Lake Summit to Lake Adger and from below Lake Adger to the Clinchfield Reservoir.

Tobacco TIPS

By S. J. WEEKS

One of the elements found in mixed tobacco fertilizer is chlorine. Small quantities of chlorine tend to increase tobacco yields to a moderate extent. However, excessive quantities of chlorine tend to injure plant roots and produce a dingy, dull, grey tobacco with a soggy characteristic and an undesirable odor and poor burn quality. Excessive chlorine also increases the tendency of the tobacco plant to take up ammonium nitrogen.

It has been recommended for several years not to apply more than 30 pounds of chlorine per acre for the production of best quality tobacco. When more than 30 pounds of chlorine per acre is used, it may have no effect, or it may have an adverse effect, producing poor quality tobacco, depending largely upon the season.

When large quantities of chlorine are applied without early wet period to leach part of it down, excessive amounts may be absorbed by the plant and seriously affect the quality of tobacco.

In addition to the chlorine applied in mixed tobacco fertilizer, soil fumigants used for nematode control also contribute chlorine. Most of the soil fumigants used supply about 20 pounds of available chlorine when applied in the row.

In the test conducted by Dr. C. B. McCants in 1964, tobacco receiving 60 pounds of chlorine per acre averaged five per cent less per pound than tobacco receiving 30 pounds. Tobacco receiving 120 pounds of chlorine dropped 18 per cent in price.

Tobacco's Overseas Market Endangered

RALEIGH (AP)—The president of the Tobacco Growers' Information Committee says "immediate action must be taken if we are to save" the $700 million overseas world market for U.S. tobacco growers.

Carl T. Hicks of Walstonburg said in a prepared statement Sunday pesticide residues on U.S. tobacco are becoming a serious threat to the overseas market.

"Time is short," he added, "for the U.S. tobacco growers to meet a deadline for an extremely small tolerance of pesticide residues on tobacco sold to West Germany, our No. 2 customer."

The West German restriction, which goes into effect Jan. 1, 1973, would ban all tobacco containing more than one-tenth part per million of DDT and TDE.

"This tolerance," Hicks said, "places the responsibility on the shoulders of the U.S. tobacco grower. I personally have faith the U.S. grower will accept and live up to this responsibility."

Hicks noted that about 80 per cent of the total U.S. tobacco sold abroad represented flue-cured tobacco grown in North Carolina, South Carolina, Vir-

Worry Clinic Instant Travel With Thoughts

Lita is puzzled by our mode of transportation to Heaven. Even at the terrific speed of light (186,000 miles per second) it might take a million years to get there if the latter were a series of inhabited planets in a distant galaxy. But there is a faster means of travel than light!

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Case P-542: Lita W., aged 20, is a thoughtful college senior. "Dr. Crane," she began, "I just finished a course in Astronomy. "And I learned that many stars are so far away, it would take over 1,000 years for a ray of light to reach them, even at the terrific speed of 186,000 miles per second. "So how could we ever get to Heaven, if Heaven were a planet or series of planets in a distant galaxy?"

SNAIL SPEED. Light and electricity move at the phenomenal rate of about 186,000 miles PER SECOND.

Please note that light thus travels over 11 MILLION miles per minute, so it requires a little over 8 minutes for such a beam to reach us from our sun.

Yet there is one thing that far exceeds the speed of light. In fact, it makes such a rate a mere snail's pace!

For our imagination permits us to visit our sun in a split second! In fact, in an instant of time and via imagination we can be on a distant star that is 1,000 light years away from this Earth! Maybe, after death we are thus able to ride our own thought waves!

The simplest animal on Earth is the one-cell amoeba. It projects a bit of its own protoplasm in the direction it wishes to travel.

Then it flows along its own pseudopod (false foot), as that is called.

Up till about the year 1900 A.D. our bodies were limited to a walking speed of about 3 miles per hour. Race horses took jockeys at about 40 m.p.h. Trains and automobiles then brought us up to 100 m.p.h. and our modern airplanes now carry passengers at almost 700 m.p.h.

Our special military jets can exceed 2,000 m.p.h. and our astronauts approach 25,000 m.p.h.

Then the telegraph and telephone, plus TV, suddenly let us project our words, voices and now our gestures, color and personality, at the speed of electricity and light (186,000 miles per second).

The next great break-through in speed will be at our Graduation Ceremony from this Earth's Classroom in God's Cosmic School System!

Jesus apparently was also restricted to our usual human speed of 3 m.p.h. until Calvary.

But after death, he was immediately freed for instantaneous travel everywhere.

"Wherever two or three are gathered together in my name, there will I be in the midst of them," he promised.

And that may include other inhabited planets besides this one!

Even after his Resurrection on this Earth, he could project himself from Emmaus to the Upper Room in Jerusalem in a split second of time and then reincarnate himself.

And to prove that he wasn't an apparition (or even comparable to a modern TV picture), he asked for food.

His Apostles gave him "a fish and an honeycomb and he did eat in their sight; then they knew him" so the Bible tells us.

Positive thinkers of goodwill who have confessed Christ here on Earth, have been promised instant occupancy of those "many mansions (rooms) in my Father's House," where Jesus said he would then acknowledge them before God.

"Thought projection" thus must be our mode of travel to Heaven!

Vacation Homes Pose A Problem

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — A University of North Carolina research team says "the potential for a number of serious public problems" exists because of vacation homes being built on relatively few, largely rural reservoirs.

The research, sponsored by the Water Resources Institute of the University, is considering multipurpose reservoirs and urban development throughout the Southeastern United States. Five lakes in North Carolina have been surveyed: Carolina Power Lake, Lake Gaston, Zigger Rock Lake, Kerr Lake and Lake Norman.

The researchers say land-owners' inexperience in developing property is largely the cause of the environmental deterioration. They say miles of lakeshore string development with low investment cottages and trailers, inadequate sanitary facilities, crowding poor water access facilities, little attention to aesthetics, too many docks and floats, haphazard placement of dwellings, and low quality commercial establishments are potential hazards.

The research is being conducted under Prof. Shirley F.

Hong Kong Tax Frauds Failed

HONG KONG (UPI) — The Inland Revenue Department recovered 7.1 million Hong Kong dollars ($1.18 million) in income tax and penalties for understated income tax in the past three-and-a-half fiscal years.

Financial Secretary Sir John Weiss. It has determined that because of rising income and increased leisure time, vacation homes are rapidly becoming commonplace. Most are within easy driving distance of urban areas, and two-thirds are on only 15 of 105 reservoirs studied.

One of the researchers says many landowners are amateurs with little previous experience in development or building. Therefore, these persons are inclined to cut corners and expenses in changing their property to residential sites.

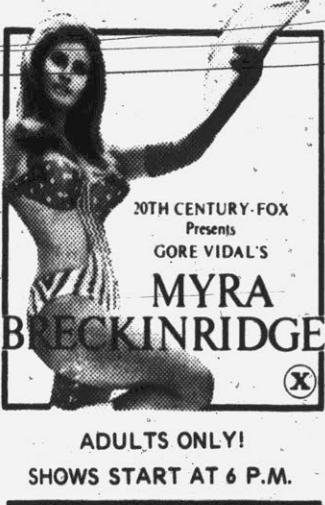

Planning by public agencies or government is considered a possible remedy, but the researchers say rural communities are reluctant to take that step.

Cowperthwaite said in the first seven months of fiscal 1970 and in fiscal 1967, 1968 and 1969, the department discovered that 36.9 million Hong Kong dollars ($6.15 million) in incomes were understated in income tax returns.

See A 2nd Chance For Self-Rule

By GREGG HERRINGTON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — One hundred years after the right of self-government was taken away from the capital of the world's pre-eminent democracy, the city is geared up to take a giant step toward a second chance.

District of Columbia residents go to the polls Tuesday to select candidates for nonvoting delegate to the House of Representatives.

While the eventual winner will give the District a voteless voice in the House, Congress will still control the city's purse-strings and the President will still appoint the mayor and the city council. But home-rule advocates say this is an important step in reversing the century-old arrangement.

Running in a race that has no local precedent in modern times, the three leading candidates for the all-important Democratic primary appear timid about straying far from each other on the major issues—crime, freeways, schools and home rule. The Republican nomination will fall to John A. Neivius, a former city councilman who describes himself as a Rockefeller-Kennedy type. He is the only Republican and the only white man on the ballot. All seven Democrats are black, as is about 70 per cent of the city's population.

Barring a runoff, the Democratic winner Tuesday will be the clear favorite to win the Capitol Hill job in the March general election, although several expected independent candidates in that contest could disturb that probability. Unless a single candidate gets 40 per cent of the vote, a runoff will be required.

The job includes a $42,500 annual salary, a suite of Capitol offices and staff, the right to speak on the House floor and offer bills and amendments—but no vote.

Through most of the 19th Century Washington had several types of government with varying degrees of self-rule. But in 1871 Congress put through a total reorganization calling for the entire top level of the city's government to be presidentially appointed—except for a nonvoting delegate.

Curiously it was in the four years after this reorganization that the corruption developed which some later opponents of home-rule pointed to as justification for keeping Washington's government in the hands of the federal government.

By 1875, Congress had enough and, after financially bailing out the city, moved to abolish the delegate position, and again reorganized Washington's government, putting most of the city's affairs directly in the hands of the House and Senate. A century later, the feeling throughout Washington is the city can't lose with the election of any of the front-runners. The Washington Post has editorialized "Almost any outcome will do credit to the community."

Club Break-In Attempt Charge

A 16-year-old, James Rogers Payton of 912 Douglas Ave. was charged by police late Saturday night with attempted breaking and entering in connection with an incident at the Boys Club on Skinner St.

Police, responding to a call at 10:05 p.m., reported seeing Payton running from the club building. He was taken into custody about a block from the Skinner Street building.

Investigators said a window in the building had been broken out and a crowbar was found beneath the window.

Investigation of the incident is continuing.

TV Begins Its 'Second Season'

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Television's "second season" arrived over the weekend with a flurry of new programs and specials. All this combined for diversity and spice which has sometimes been lacking in recent weeks.

"The Super Comedy Bowl" on CBS Sunday was an affectionate, kidding tribute to professional football that enlisted a spectacular cast of stars—John Wayne, Jack Lemmon, Charlton Heston, Lucille Ball, Carol Burnett and Flip Wilson were just the top-drawer names. There was also a squad of the nation's football heroes including Joe Namath and O. J. Simpson. Everybody was busy being funny.

The result was a crowded, uneven hour pulled up by a few deft sketches including one about the home life of a football hero and a very funny male fashion show of the latest in football uniforms. It was the kind of show that was most enjoyed by the hard-core football fans.

NBC's top correspondents were on hand for its annual year-end news review and look into the future. The conversation, steered by John Chancellor, was free-wheeling and enlivened by expressions of opinion—a meaty 90 minutes that covered the globe.

The educational stations, heartened by public enthusiasm for its "Forsythe Saga" series last season, have imported a new British series. "The First Churchill," a 12-part history of the first Duke of Marlborough, ancestor of Britain's war-time prime minister.

The first episode, seen Sunday, introduced viewers to the 17th Century court of Charles II and its intrigue. It was a handsome period piece with colorful sets and costume and surprisingly frank dialogue. Moving between scenes of battle, court and bedroom scenes, it launched the romance of Capt. John Churchill, then a French mercenary, and Sarah Jennings, a lady-in-waiting to a duchess. The series seems to be a little specialized to have the appeal to American audiences of the Gaiusworthy characters.

Also on Sunday night was a rewarding hour with the Vefaquez, Goya and El Greco paintings in Spain's famed Prado museum. The photography was great and Aline Saarinen's narration was precise and intelligent but after exposure to Kenneth Clark's lively observations in "Civilisation," it sounded a bit like excerpts recited from a guide book.

"The New Andy Griffith Show" had its CBS premiere Friday night. Andy has finally made it back to a small town and both he and the audience are bound to be more comfortable. With wife (Lee Meriwether), two children and a sister-in-law, he arrived in a small Southern town to become mayor pro tem. He immediately got involved with three old friends visiting from Mayberry, his old home town—Don Knotts, George Lindsey and Paul Hartman. Griffith, once again, is playing the strong, central good guy while the comedians operate around him. It was pleasant, low-key entertainment with a little moral for the whole family.

Wrestling Will Resume

At 8:00 p.m. Thursday in the ECU Memorial Gym, the first of the monthly series for 1971 of wrestling matches sponsored by the Greenville Jaycees for the benefit of Greenville Boys' Club will take place.

The opener is the appearance of Dr. X against Bob Burrell. Other single events will feature U.S. Negro champion Luther Lindsay who will take on Joe Turner.

In the main event, the duo of Argentine (Vittorio) Apollo and Johnny Weaver will face the Missouri Mauler and Brute Bernard.

Tickets for the January event will be available at the door or advance tickets can be arranged by calling the Boys' Club at 758-4029.

As in wrestling matches held for the past three months, proceeds gained from this match will go the operator of the Boys' Club.

PILOT WHALES PERISH — A school of 29 pilot whales found perishing on a San Clemente Island beach, 90 miles west of San Diego, is inspected by Eddie Asper, a photographer for Marineland of the Pacific oceanarium. Officials said pilot whales, if towed back to sea, will again return to shore in a mysterious proclivity for stranding themselves in schools and dying. Thus, no attempt is being made to save them. (AP Wirephoto)

Women Voters Will Two Wrecks Gather On Tuesday Here Sunday

"What responsible study and action can help our community?"

This will be the discussion topic at a general meeting of the Pitt County Provisional League of Women Voters Tuesday at St. Paul's Episcopal Church here.

At this meeting, the involvement of the League in the community for the next two years will be considered. The local League president, Mrs. Philip Clark, said, "The League of Women Voters is truly a grass roots organization and it is essential for each member to contribute her recommendations and suggestions, because out of these ideas the future program will be determined. At the annual meeting in April, there will be a formal adoption of the issues by the League membership. It is important that all members be present at this meeting.

The League of Woman Voters is a non-partisan organization open to all women citizens of voting age to encourage the informed and active participation of all citizens in government and politics. The League of the U.S. has some 150,000 members in more than 1,250 local Leagues in all 50 states, the District of Columbia, and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico. There are 16 Leagues in North Carolina.

An estimated $1,400 property damage was caused and one person injured in two mishaps investigated by Greenville police Sunday.

Investigators reported heaviest damage resulted from a 6:57 p.m. mishap on Memorial Drive three-tenths of a mile North of the Third Street intersection involving cars driven by Booker Talifer Lloyd, 59, of Williamston and Albert Clinton Hill Jr., 48, of 621 Ford St.

Police, who placed damage to the Lloyd car at $600 and estimated damage to the Hill vehicle at $650 charged Hill with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident.

Cars driven by Robert Jackson Hursey Jr., 30, of 304 Meade St. and Susan Quinn Hufford, 17, of 1200 Drexel Lane were involved in a 12:45 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Fifth and Elm Streets.

Investigators, who reported a

Fire Took Lives Of 3 Children

DURHAM (AP) — A fire in a brick split level home near Durham Sunday killed three children. A third child and the parents escaped.

Firemen said Mr. and Mrs.

James E. Hardin and their son Jimmy, about 15, got out of the burning house early Sunday. But David, 12, Margaret Elizabeth, 10, and Carol, 7, were killed.

The cause of the fire was still being investigated Sunday night. The only part of the house still standing was a double garage and recreation room.

PROTEST BY BALLOONS — A portion of 3,000 balloons rise from a group of some 10,000 villagers at Wing, England, Sunday, during a massive protest of a proposal to locate a new airport at the village, some 45 miles northwest of London. Each balloon carried a postcard inviting the finder to sign a protest against the proposal and send the card to the agency in charge of site location for the proposed airport. (AP Wirephoto)
