Scott Urges Voters Be Given Chance To Decide 2nd Term For Governor

By REESE HART
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott urged the North Carolina General Assembly today to allow voters to decide whether a Tar Heel governor can succeed himself and whether 18-year-olds can vote in state elections. Scott also called for an increase in the state's minimum wage from $1.25 to $1.60 an hour, in a state of the state message to a joint session of the House and Senate.

The governor will go before the General Assembly again next Thursday to outline his budget proposals for the next biennium. A record $4.3 billion budget was placed before legislators Wednesday.

Scott, beginning the final two years of his four-year term, said in his 22-page message, "My budget will be a moderate budget, for a moderate state, with moderate financial resources."

He told the legislators he will submit a report in a few weeks calling for "the most comprehensive approach to environmental protection and management in the history of our state."

By being unable to succeed himself, "a governor's ability to lead is seriously diminished" during the second half of his term, Scott said.

"The question is not whether a governor should be allowed to succeed himself," Scott added. "The valid question is whether the people should have the right to decide for themselves if they wish to retain a governor for a second term. 'I believe the people should have that right.'"

He also recommended that a similar constitutional amendment for the office of lieutenant governor be submitted to the people.

Scott said the office of lieutenant governor should be considered a full-time position and a salary be provided in line with that of other members of the Council of State.

The U.S. Supreme Court recently ruled that 18-year-olds can vote in national elections. Scott said it should be made uniform for 18-year-olds to vote in all state and local elections.

The governor also recommended:

—Creation of a State Manpower Council to expand the full range of manpower services in North Carolina.

—A policy be established to "clearly provide free transportation for urban students in order that they may enjoy the same privileges from tax funds as the state has accorded rural students for many years."

—Establishment of a Governor's Advocacy Commission on Children and Youth which would "take as its mandate the security and rights of all children and youth in our state." The agency would be considered the spokesman "for all phases of child development or aspects of the many problems of children."

—Enactment of measures to "speed up our fight against drug abuse in North Carolina."

—Appropriations to employ 100 additional highway patrolmen during the next biennium.

—Reapportionment of the state's congressional and legislative district. He asked that this be done "objectively and fairly to the end that your results will not be subject to a review by the courts."

—Statutory authority be given to a Council of State Goals and Policy. The council would consider all activities in state government that relate to development of the state.

—Establishment of the North Carolina Criminal Justice Academy which would be given statutory responsibilities. The academy would provide specialized and advanced training for law enforcement officers.

Scott said he will present to the lawmakers in a special message later major changes in the reorganization of state government. Voters approved an amendment Nov. 3 authorizing consolidation of more than 300 state agencies into not more than 25 departments.

Concerning human relations, Scott told the legislators he believes the 1970s "will be a new era of human harmony."

"Let us be done with destruction," he added. "Let us be done with violence and threats."

Let us dedicate ourselves to improving the quality of life for all our people."

The governor said the financial affairs of the state "are in good order. Our fiscal position is sound and healthy."

Can't Censor

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court unanimously stripped Post Office officials today of the power to block or detain mail to dealers in "obscene" materials.

The court's opinion, by Justice William J. Brennan Jr., said the authority, dating back to 1890, is a form of censorship forbidden by the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

Agreeing with federal district courts in California and Georgia the high court invalidated two laws.

Under one, dating back to 1890, the Postmaster General could have letters stamped "unlawful" and returned to the senders if an administrative officer decided the intended recipient was obtaining money through the mail for obscene or indecent articles or devices.

Under the second law, enacted in 1960, the Postmaster General had the power to obtain a court order permitting him to detain mail to a dealer the government decided traffics in obscenity.

Quoting Oliver Wendell Holmes, the late justice who was one of the most eloquent civil libertarians in the nation's history, Brennan wrote: "The United States may give up the Post Office when it sees fit, but while it carries it on the use of the mails is almost as much a part of free speech as the right to use our tongues."

Baker Enters Prison

LEWISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Robert G. "Bobby" Baker, who traded on his friendship with former President Lyndon B. Johnson, entered federal prison today to begin serving a sentence for cheating the government.

Handcuffed and escorted by two U.S. marshals, the tightlipped Baker walked through the iron gate of the high-walled Lewisburg Penitentiary to start a 1-3 year term for larceny, income tax evasion, fraud and conspiracy.

"I shall do my duty and I, shall do it with honor," Baker told newsmen shortly before he surrendered to a federal official at the courthouse in this small college community in central Pennsylvania.

After signing the commitment papers, Baker was driven by the marshals the three miles to the penitentiary which houses approximately 1,400 men.

A light freezing rain was falling and the skies were heavily overcast as the hatless Baker, carrying an attache case and wearing a black overcoat over a grey pinstriped suit, walked up to the prison, which he had sought to avoid for nearly four years of legal battle.

"Do you still maintain your innocence?" he was asked. "Sure," he answered softly, shrugging his shoulders.

Laird Stopover In Honolulu

HONOLULU (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird will remain in Honolulu a few more days while he completes his report to the President on his around-the-world trip.

A spokesman at Pacific Command headquarters said Laird also is working on his defense posture statement for Congress.

Retroactive

WASHINGTON (AP) — Liberalized tax writeoffs for businesses will be effective back to Jan. 1 of this year—even though the final regulations have not been placed into effect, the Treasury Department has announced.

A spokesman for the department said Wednesday businessmen could count on the decision despite confusion over the lack of formal regulations.

The regulations will be issued under the Treasury's authority to set reasonable guidelines for depreciation allowances. Announced by President Nixon earlier, the rules will not require congressional action or hearings.

Slots Seized, Smashed

SHELBY, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina State Bureau of Investigation director Charles Dunn helped Shelby County law enforcement officials break up 39 slot machines Tuesday.

The officers said the machines, worth an estimated $25,000, were seized last year in raids at clubs and other establishments.

Dunn said the haul was the largest he is aware of in his three years as SBI chief.

A total of 32 machines were taken from the Shelby American Legion, Amvets, Disabled American Veterans, Elks and Moose clubs. District court records show each club manager was fined $500 and court costs for the illegal gambling devices.

Each machine had some coins inside but the amount has not been counted. Police say they took nickels, dimes or quarters.

Bald Head Island Under Protective Restrictions

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP) — Private developers who have bought semitropical Bald Head Island off Southport over the protests of conservationists say restrictions will be enforced to protect plant, animal and marine life.

The island's natural character will be preserved says William R. Henderson of High Point, president of Carolina Cape Fear Corp., which now owns the island.

He said residential and recreational development is planned in six stages covering 15 to 19 years.

Other points he made in a statement: Access for the foreseeable future will be by water only. The island is about three miles from Southport. The only dredging planned will be for a ferry access and for a yacht basin and marina. This will disturb virtually no marshland, which water birds need.

The island's marsh fringes will be placed in a trust to prevent disturbance by anyone. The beaches and front dunes will be placed in trust for protection and for use by all.

Development will be limited to existing high ground. Only 4,200 acres, less than one-fourth of the 13,000 owned by Carolina Cape Fear, will be developed. Henderson said his corporation plans an environmental security division which will enforce regulations designed to protect the ecology.

Henderson recalled that "for months now, in speeches and statements to the press, I have emphatically stated that Carolina Cape Fear Corp. is dead serious about developing Bald head; that it will be done in a very responsible manner to protect existing marine, plant and animal life." This statement was in reply to what Henderson called "earlier press speculation that his company really did not want to develop Bald Head, but was actually trying to act as a broker by selling it to the state."

Republicans Push Tax Rollback Bills

By MELVIN LANG
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Republican-sponsored bills calling for a rollback of state cigarette and gas taxes lay in the General Assembly's hopper today. Still to come was an expected measure that would chop off a tax on soft drinks.

The bills were among 32 introduced in both houses of the legislature Wednesday as House Speaker Phil Godwin, D-Gates, and Lt. Gov. H. Pat Taylor kept their pledges to make the first week of the new session a lively one.

Taxation and the voting age in state elections held attention on both sides of the statehouse. Legislators got their first public look at Gov. Robert Scott's proposed $4.3 billion budget, a record spending list some $600 million above 1969-71 appropriations.

Backing up campaign promises last fall, Republican minorities presented bills in each house that would repeal the two-cent tax on cigarettes and the two-cent levy on each gallon of gasoline sold in North Carolina.

But Sen. Harry Bagnal, R-Forsyth, delayed introduction of a measure that would cut off the one-cent per bottle tax on soft drinks. He said a more comprehensive bill "that will have bipartisan support" was being prepared.

Scott's proposed budget, which he will explain in detail to the legislature next Thursday, estimated the soft drink tax would produce $37.1 million in state revenue during the next biennium. Revenue from the cigarette tax was projected at $29 million and the gasoline tax at $54 million.

The brief opening-day sessions produced five bills aimed at lowering the voting age to 18 in state and local elections to coincide with the U. S. Supreme Court's action in certifying the 18-year-old for national elections.

Rep. Jim Beatty, D-Mecklenburg, who sponsored a similar bill unsuccessfully two years ago, received help from 26 House members in introducing one of the voting measures Wednesday.

"I feel it will be approved this time," Beatty said.

Other proposals calling for the 18-year-old minimum were introduced by Rep. Jim Houshouser, R-Watauga, the state Republican chairman; Rep. Joy

J. Johnson, D-Robeson; Sen. Phillip J. Kirk, R-Rowan, and Sen. Stewart B. Warren, D-Sampson.

In other areas, Rep. Robert A. Jones, D-Rutherford, and Sen. Hargrove Bowles, D-Guilford, sponsored bills in their houses that would set up a code of ethics requiring each legislator to file personal financial reports annually with the secretary of state.

The bills would require disclosure of any financial interests of $1,000 or more held by a legislator or any member of his family in a corporation subject to state regulation, and the listing of any payment exceeding $1,000 during the previous year.

Home For Aged Swept By Fire

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Fire swept through a four-story senior citizens home early today, killing nine occupants and injuring at least 48 other persons, authorities said.

The blaze began about 2:15 a.m. EST at the Westminster Terrace Presbyterian Home for Senior Citizens, and was discovered by the night nurse, Mrs. Helen Turner.

The building, southeast of Louisville, was evacuated and the uninjured residents were taken to hospitals, a nearby church and neighboring residences.

Seven were pronounced dead at one hospital and two at another. Of the injured, four were listed in critical condition.

Mrs. Turner said she heard a crackling sound, went to investigate and saw smoke pouring out of the chapel area. She alerted the fire department, then went to the home's infirmary and shut the room's doors.

A few minutes later the automatic fire alarm went off. The alarm also closed inside center hall doors, closing of the central stairs and elevators. Many residents left down stairs at each end of the building, which has a capacity of 91 occupants.

Garland Miller, chief of the Buechel Fire Department, said "we had to bring 50 out through the windows. Not one of them panicked," he added.

Jenkins 'Pleased' By Budget For ECU

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
East Carolina University president Dr. Leo W. Jenkins said today he is "very pleased" with treatment the university received from the Advisory Budget Commission in their recommendations for the coming biennium.

That body, in recommendations made public yesterday, suggested ECU receive some $21.00 million for continuation of present programs; $1.93 million for new programs; and $5.813 million for capital improvements.

According to Dr. Jenkins, the university "did not ask for anything that was not greatly needed, but in like manner, we must consider the great demands on this commission from all agencies.

"After a casual perusal of the entire budget, there is every indication that we were treated in a manner comparable to other institutions and as fairly as could be expected at this early period of the legislature," Dr. Jenkins continued.

"We are very happy that we may not develop a truly first rate program in drama and greatly improve our Summer Theater productions with the $1,310,000 appropriation to renovate the entire Wahl-Coates complex.

With the renovation of the present elementary school building to house a drama program, the university president said, "We should have one of the nation's truly great drama programs."

He continued, "I must hasten to add, however, I am deeply disappointed" the Advisory Budget Commission failed to recommend funds for a new art building.

"This art building is a greatly needed facility. Having the largest art program in the state; the only school of art in the state in fact; and the oldest accredited program in North Carolina, we find ourselves in a position now where this excellent program may well be curtailed."

"This is indeed unfortunate," he commented, "and I have every intention to appeal to the commission for reconsideration of this request."

Dr. Jenkins termed the "B" budget, "which makes possible our new program... good as could be expected and in line with other institutions in the state."

When asked about the lack of recommendations for a two-year medical program at ECU, Dr. Jenkins noted,

"The lack of any medical school budget is a completely normal procedure." He emphasized that "the commission did the proper thing in stating that the scope and extent of the School of Medicine at East Carolina University is a matter for decision of the General Assembly."

"This body, in turn, is waiting for a report from the evaluating committee. 'Attempts to portray this otherwise are merely devious and obstructive actions,' he emphasized.

"This decision," he explained, "is similar to the (Continued on page 10)

Young Moderns: Princess Talks Of Looks, Love

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

What happened to the romantic custom of sending flowers to a favorite girl or to one a shy admirer would like to know.

If it is any comfort to girls who dream about such overtures, even princesses don't get long-stemmed roses any more.

"Only in Austria and Germany is that custom still followed," says beautiful Princess Barbara von Liechtenstein, 28, "and then the flowers aren't usually from someone you do not know—more often they are a 'thank you,' a duty hostess dinner thing or something..."

It was agreed that young men do not realize what an impact flowers can make.

The princess was explaining that she didn't expect to get flowers from secret admirers who might see her behind cosmetics counters on her beauty tour of the United States. She is a beauty consultant for Eve of Roma.

For one thing, men are a bit awed by titles and that makes it even more difficult for a princess to meet them.

American girls, Princess von Liechtenstein continued, are ready for romantic gestures such as flower-giving. They are in an age of romantic grooming—as evidenced by their long flowing tresses, healthy, clean skin and sparkling eyes. In America, she said, only older women are making the mistake of overdoing makeup, of wearing heavy false eyelashes and heavy eyeliner for daywear. Younger women wear more casual makeup to go with daytime dress.

When she was growing up, the princess added, she could only be casual in dress and makeup when she was away at schools in Paris, Rome and Vienna.

"My life had to be different. My parents were strict and always reminded me that people would look more at me than at other people. It is true. In the United States, I am asked incredible questions, such as how it feels to be a princess. I always answer that I am so used to it that I don't think about it."

In some ways, princess rituals are good, she explains. You develop habits that last through life. Removing makeup at night is done as routinely as brushing one's teeth. In her opinion, clean skin is the basis for a good makeup.

In her new job, she is doing what comes naturally, she says. The delicate shadowing of her own blue eyes was achieved after many, many hours of practice.

"This is what I am going to tell girls: You cannot smear makeup on your face and expect to look pretty. One must experiment, sitting before a mirror with the cosmetics and makeup remover. They should put on faces until they get the look that flatters them. Makeup should never glare. It should be subtle. Girls may not know this if they make up their faces only for special occasions.

"Foundation creams, lipstick, eye shadows may be used to improve shortcomings of features as well as to enhance good features. And this should be the aim in grooming. For example, hair styles can do a lot toward giving the face a good frame.

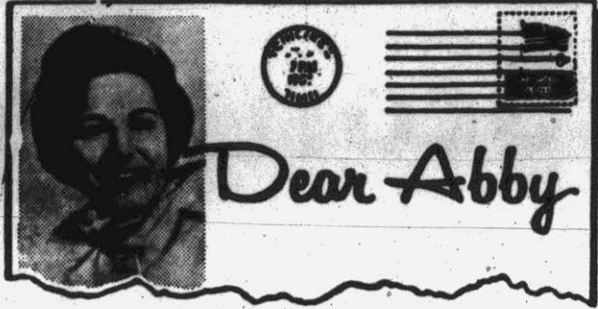

"My head is sort of flat in the back, so I wear this hairdo slightly teased on top and at the back to give my head a more rounded look."

She draws the hair straight back slightly puffed all the way to the nape of her neck. At the interview, she was dressed casually in an elegant beige pant suit. In Liechtenstein, one can dress more casually than was possible before.

The country is a romantic one, and girls have an opportunity to be coquettish for a long time. Men marry later in Liechtenstein than they do in the United States—when they have finished their studies and have established themselves. The princess, who is unmarried, thinks it is sad to marry young and to miss the fun of the early years "and to have a lot of problems before you are mature enough to cope."

She is a world traveler that gives her the opportunity of enjoying her pet hobby, photography. She has photographed Tanganyika and Kenya and has taken a great many pictures at Aspen, Colorado, where she enjoys skiing because "it is such a breathtaking place."

Advice Offered To People Who Wear Contact Lenses

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I wear contact lenses. I recently stayed overnight at a girl friend's house, and her little niece watched, fascinated, as I put in my contact lenses. The child had never seen anything like that before, so I very carefully explained that contact lenses were "little eyeglasses" made especially for me, and that no one should ever put anything into his eye which was not made especially for that purpose.

I made sure the child understood me because I once heard of a little child who had watched her mother put contact lenses into her eyes often. The child found a small piece of broken glass, and wanting to "imitate" her mother, she stuck the broken glass into her eye, and subsequently the child became blind in one eye.

You may think this is worth passing on, Abby. LINDA

DEAR LINDA: Indeed I do. Thank you for writing.

DEAR ABBY: To get right down to brass tacks, I don't trust my husband. We work different hours and I think he is fooling around with another woman.

Is there some way I can get our home telephone hooked up to another telephone somewhere else so I could listen in on his telephone conversations? I would be willing to rent a motel room temporarily and have an extension telephone from our home installed there. The suspicion is driving me out of my mind. If I knew once and for all that he had another woman I could take it, but the uncertainty is killing me. How can I get proof? LOSING MY MIND

DEAR ABBY: What you suggest is illegal, and no telephone company would assist you with your plan. Since you are willing to accept the fact that your husband has someone else, if indeed he has, I suggest you ask him.

DEAR ABBY: My son, who was in college, had an affair with this girl and she became pregnant. He married her to give the child a name and he had to quit college to support the child.

She continued in college, got her degree and is now teaching in the same college. They divorced shortly after the baby came.

Now my son can't finish college because of having to support the child.

This is what hurts: His ex-wife lets the child (now five years old) come to visit me and this child tells me that his mother sleeps with her boy friends. My son has found that this is true.

Should he go before the school board where she teaches and tell them the life she's living?

I promised my dead wife I would educate our son. Please help me to make the right decision. WORRIED FATHER

DEAR FATHER: Educate your son if you are able. Giving the mother of your grandchild a black eye, or causing her to lose her job, if that is what you would hope to accomplish, wouldn't help your son any.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "CONCERNED FRIEND": Don't tip off the new girl friend. If he is as big a heel as you say he is, let her find out for herself. She will regard your "wising her up" as an exercise in sour grapes. Besides, one girl's banquet can be another girl's crumbs.

Martha Misses Pot And Pans

By ISABELLE HALL

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Unlike many women who yearn to get out of the kitchen Martha Mitchell is itching to put her apron on and start banging the pots and pans again.

"I love to cook," she said in an interview before flying to Key Biscayne, Fla., for the holidays. "I can't wait till we get to Florida and I can get in the kitchen. 'BW' I used to cook all the time."

"BW" is her half-sarcastic reference to life "before Washington" as the wife of a successful Wall Street bond lawyer. Now, there is little time for cooking with Attorney General John N. Mitchell and his wife in demand for as many as three or four parties an evening.

Mrs. Mitchell, a vivacious blonde of 33, has gained a prominence in Washington that many politicians would envy. She wouldn't exactly chuck it all for her kitchen, but she does miss it.

Cook Reigns Supreme

Her cook, Ruth Howard, now reigns among the spice jar motif wallpaper, wood cabinets and copper double oven, five-burner stove and copper-toned refrigerator in the Mitchells' luxury Watergate apartment suite overlooking the Potomac.

"I'll tell you the kind of cook I am," Mrs. Mitchell said. "I have loads of cookbooks but if I decide I want to make something, I get them all down and read all the recipes. Then I put them all back on the shelf and do it my own way."

"I like to cook unusual dishes and I've always been the kind who tries out everything on company first," she said with a laugh. "So far it's always worked out."

Some of her favorite recipes—many handed down from an old family cook in Arkansas named Hortense—are garlic grits, graham cracker ice cream and Hortense peppermint Bavarian.

Southern Upbringing

The sweet potato-banana casserole and spoon bread reflect her southern upbringing in Pine Bluff, Ark. The shrimp sukuyaki and cream puff pyramid betray a more sophisticated taste cultivated here and in New York, but one of her fondest girlhood memories is of Sunday night "tamale pie suppers" for young people in her home town.

A selection of her favorite recipes is on file at the Justice Department, and copies are mailed on request to any wife who wants to serve her husband the same cheese and live tidbits that John Mitchell munches with his before-dinner scotch.

"The first thing that happens when you come to Washington is a request for recipes," Mrs. Mitchell said. "They don't want to know your name, rank or serial number—just your recipes."

They used to write the Justice Department asking what Bobby Kennedy ate for breakfast. "Then someone wrote for Nick Katzenbach's favorite musical selection," a secretary said of Kennedy's successor.

Martha's Favorite Here are some of Martha Mitchell's favorites:

Garlic grits: 2 cups grits; ½ cup milk; 2 rolls garlic cheese; salt and pepper; 1½ qts. water; ¼ lb. butter; 4 beaten eggs.

Cook grits in water until done; add milk, butter, cheese, eggs, salt and pepper to taste. Pour into buttered casserole; sprinkle with parmesan cheese and paprika. Bake 300 degrees 30 minutes.

Hortense peppermint Bavarian: 50 marshmallows; ¼ cups milk; 1 tbl. peppermint flavoring; 2 envelopes gelatin; 1 pint whipping cream; ½ cup cold water. Color pink or green. Melt marshmallows in milk. Add gelatin soaked in ½ cup cold water. Cool and add whipped cream. Serve with chocolate sauce.

Chicken in sherry: 8 chicken breasts; ¼ cup butter; 1 small jar mushrooms; 1 bunch green onions; 1 bouillon cube dissolved in ¼ cup water; 2 tbs. flour; 1 tsp. tomato paste; 1 cup chicken stock; ¾ cup sherry; salt and pepper to taste.

Brown chicken breasts in hot butter, remove from pan. Brown mushrooms and onions. Stir in dissolved beef bouillon cube and remove pan from heat. Stir in flour. Add tomato paste, stock and sherry. Return to heat and stir while heating to boiling point. Add salt and pepper. Add chicken, cover and simmer 30 minutes or until tender.

Foods Hail From Ancient Alsace

By TOM HOGE
Associated Press Writer
A French province I visited all too briefly some years ago was Alsace, an ancient story-book land of cobbled streets where a couple of dollars puts you up at a friendly inn with a real feather bed.

The province also boasts some fine restaurants where for a reasonable sum you can buy a delectable meal and wash it down with one of the fine Alsatian wines. And the wines of Alsace are truly beautiful, from the smooth white Rieslings and Traminers to the Sylvaners and Gewurztraminers.

Alsace and neighboring Lorraine have often come under German domination over the years. This is reflected in their hearty German cooking, particularly in Alsace whose chefs perform feats of magic with sausages and sauerkraut.

The flatlands of Lorraine rise gently into the high farmlands of Alsace whose soil is considered by many to be the most fertile in all of France.

It is true dairy country with its crusty breads, its croissants covered with coarse sugar and its creamy munster cheese.

A good way to visit Alsace is to fly to Strasbourg and then drive by rented car down to Colmar. South from Strasbourg off the Route Nationale onto the winding Route des Vins and you are journeying back into the 14th century.

In the crisp days of autumn when the grape harvest is in full swing, university students, and wine lovers often work their way through the lush Alsatian vineyards helping the crew picking the grapes.

Wine is the principal preoccupation of alsace, but a close rival is the famed pate de foi gras made from the livers of the plump geese raised in the region. Next in importance is the sleek pig and the province has become famous for its fragrant hams. Both the porkers and the beef cattle which graze on the fertile slopes of the Vosges Mountains contribute to the dazzling variety of Alsatian sausages.

Visit a charcuterie or processed-meat shop in most any Alsatian village and you'll see a rich display of pork, beef, veal and garlic sausages, homemade pates and cooked meats strung in neat rows from the ceiling and along the walls.

The French custom of stuffing vegetables in order to combine several flavors is popular in Alsace where the cooks stuff red cabbage with a puree of chestnuts and simmer the combination in red wine laced with the rich, creamy local butter.

My favorite Alsatian dish is one the natives have been perfecting for five centuries. It is a mouth-watering mixture of sauerkraut simmered in Gewurztraminer and cooked with four varieties of pork. The name is Choucroute Garni, and I learned it from Jean Pierre Stoehr, an Alsatian chef in New York.

CHOUCROUTE GARNI
1½ lbs sauerkraut
4 oz lard
¼ lb onion, finely sliced
1 clove minced garlic
8 oz Gewurztraminer
Salt and pepper to taste
¾ lb lean smoked loin of pork uncooked
Pinch thyme
1 bay leaf
2 cloves
½ oz juniper berries
¼ lb frankfurters
¼ lb knockwurst
½ lb boiled ham
1 lb peeled potatoes
Mash sauerkraut in warm water and strain. Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Use a large casserole with cover which can be placed in oven. Smother onion slightly in lard 10 minutes, add garlic 3 minutes.

Add wine, sauerkraut, salt and pepper and mix well. Add loin of pork and spices wrapped in cheese cloth. Add water up to 2 inches below level of sauerkraut.

Bring to boil, cover and place in oven for about two hours, until meat is cooked. Fifteen minutes before, add frankfurter, knockwurst and ham. Cook potatoes separately.

Serve on platter with kraut heaped in center and fringed by potatoes and meat both sliced, adding some on top of kraut. Serves 4. Good with a chilled bottle of Gewurztraminer.

Currently the mood in fashion favors soft ties, in woven or printed wool.

The tie, or more classically, the necktie, has had earth flung on its coffin time and time again by fashion pundits. It's always just about to disappear in favor of ergonomically designed shirt collars, but instead changes to mesh with the mood and requirements of the fashion times.

have dominated fashion for many years, the printed and woven wool ties are now enjoying a fashion supremacy. This mainly because men's fashion generally is assuming a new sort, draped ambience, both in cut and choice of fabric.

Scotland is just one of the homes of woven wool tie cloths. Traditional Scottish tartans are beginning to be popular on the tie fashion front again too—a spin-off from the ethnic feeling which abounds in menswear generally.

The tie originated with that greatest of English dandies, Beau Brummel, who drove Regency England mad by the pristine perfection of such creations as the "Trone d'amour" or, more sportily, the "Belcher Neckerchief" for watching prize fights and the like.

In those days ties were cravats—long thin strips of fine muslin which could be knotted according to the wearer's fancy or ability. They created very easily, and if a mistake was made while tying, had to be discarded in favor of a fresh one.

Currently, the style story majors on surface interest, allied to particularly deep, rather than naturalistic colorings. There are whole spectrums of wool tie cloths in rich navy, rust and green, with tiny points of light colors interwoven, to complement suit and coat color stories.

This softer mood in fashion doesn't rule out the printed tie, but it's got to be soft. The misty melange effect, plus all-important texture and soft bulk, can be achieved by printed wool.

With soft surfaced cloths in style for men, printed silk is an uneasy accessory. When pure wool tie cloth in woven effects is teamed with a textured jacket, and with a printed shirt in the new, minimal prints, an interplay of visual effects takes place. It is this interplay of surface textures which will be a major story for next year—tied up with soft, textured pure wool ties.

Nagging Club Is Organized

ANTWERP, Belgium (WNS) - Housewives here have organized a Nagging Club to help their husbands advance to business and political fame. "Men are basically lazy and content with small success," explained club secretary Olga Breckmann. "Women see grand futures for the men they love and admire." Nagging lessons given by experts stress that women must push their husbands up, not down.

Price Of Fame—Now In Demand

ST. IVES, England (WNS) - Patrick Lane, a telephone operator, began filling up spare time at the switchboard by writing romantic stories. Now that teen magazines are publishing them, feminine readers call him at the Huntingdon Exchange to ask for dates, photos and autographs. "At first, I was pleased, but now something must be done to quiet the girls," said Lane. "My employers are complaining, and I can't find time to write."

Dr. Wilton To Be Club Speaker

Dr. Louise Wilton of East Carolina University will present the program at Friday's meeting of the Greenville Garden Club.

Her program topic will be "How to Conserve Wildflowers in Eastern North Carolina."

The meeting will begin at 3 p.m. and will be held at the home of Mrs. C. M. Respass.

In these first days of the new year, let us take time to be thankful for all of the many things which we have. Many of us may feel that there are many things which we need to make our life satisfactory; however, most of us are rich in ways we ourselves do not even realize. The following story came across my desk recently and it made me realize how rich I am; I hope it will do the same for you.

ARE YOU RICH?

They huddled inside the storm door - two children in ragged out - grown coats.
"Any old papers, Lady?"
I was busy. I wanted to say no - until I looked down at their feet. Thin little sandals sopped with snow and slush.
"Come in and I'll make you a cup of hot cocoa," I said. There was no conversation. Their soggy sandals left marks upon the hearthstone.
Cocoa and toast with jam to fortify against the chill outside. I went back to the kitchen and started again on my household chores.

The silence in the front room struck through to me. I looked in.
The girl held her empty cup in her hands, looking at it. The boy asked in a flat voice: "Lady... are you rich?"
"Am I rich? Mercy no!" I looked at my shabby slippers.
The girl put her cup back in its saucer - carefully.
"Your cups match your saucers," she said. Her voice was old, with a hunger that was not of the stomach.

They left then, holding their bundles of papers against the wind. They hadn't said thank you. They didn't need to. They had said more than that. Plain blue pottery cups and saucers. But they matched.

I tested the potatoes and stirred the gravy. Potatoes and brown gravy... a roof over our heads, my husband with a steady job... these things matched, too.

I moved the chairs back from the fire and tidied the living room. The muddy prints of small sandals were still wet on my hearth. I let them be. I want them in case I ever forget how rich I am.

Good Work In View Of Damage

Greenville Utilities personnel are to be commended for the outstanding job they did in restoring electric service to customers whose lines were disrupted by the week-end ice storm.

Certainly there were many customers without electric service for several hours. There were some without service for two or more days. But considering the extent of the damage, the disruption caused by the ice storm, and the adverse conditions under which the repair crews had to work, a commendable job has been accomplished.

Far too often under such circumstances an individual customer loses sight of the problems faced by the repair crews and other Utilities personnel. The customer can only see that the electricity on which he has become so dependent is not available. Too often he fails to understand that the thousands of tree limbs that have broken distribution lines have to be located and the lines repaired. In some instances service can be restored to relatively large areas with the repair of a main transmission line. In most instances, however, this ice storm required the restoration of service on almost a house-to-house basis where the ice storm caused damage.

It was inconvenient for those who were without electric service during the week-end, but the inconvenience would have been much greater had it not been for the good organization of repair crews and the diligent manner in which they carried out their work on an around-the clock basis.

Ben Fountain Keeps Pledge

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — "We can't let 'em down."

Determination squared his jaw as Dr. Ben Fountain spoke. One week in office, he contemplated the tasks ahead as director of the state department of community colleges.

"North Carolina has held out the promise to its five million citizens that anyone — young or old, rich or poor, successful or stumblers — can have educational opportunity within driving distance through the community college system with offerings of basic adult education, two years of college equivalent work, occupational and trade training, and special interest courses.

"We've given them a glimmer. We've raised hopes and expectations. It would be tragic for the state to fail to deliver on its promise."

Seven years since its establishment in 1963, the 54 institutions of the community college system last year enrolled 293,602 persons for one or more courses. That enrollment represented a gain of nearly 22 per cent over 1969.

An Auspicious Start
Dr. Fountain came to office upon the retirement of Dr. I. E. Ready, who directed the program through its founding years. The new director gave warm tribute to his predecessor, and reported that Dr. Ready's service will continue to be available to the system in a consultant's capacity beginning next month.

"We've made a great beginning," Dr. Fountain said. "Now, in the next decade, we must fulfill the promise."

Keeping the promise comes down to the not-so-simple matter of money. There must be resources for construction of facilities, for libraries and equipment, for personnel and operation.

Where the state's share of the money comes from is the General Assembly, now in session within two blocks of Dr. Fountain's office. He's apt to make the trip frequently over the next six months.

Old-timers among the Representatives and Senators will remember his father, the late Ben E. Fountain, Sr., who represented Edgecombe County in the House, 1943-55. The family legacy of political activity and legislative service also includes an uncle, the late R. T. Fountain who was both House Speaker and Lieutenant - Governor (1929-33).

Dr. Fountain said he will be available to legislators "for information and consultation." He wouldn't describe it as lobbying.

Construction Money Needed

Critically important to community colleges is state construction money to match funds from local and federal sources, the new director said. None was forthcoming in 1969, and development of many institutions was stymied as a result.

"Many are housed in abandoned school buildings. One is in an old motel. There are temporary quarters and inadequate," Dr. Fountain explained.

The Advisory Budget Commission turned down a request for $27½ million for state aid to community college construction in the 1971-73 biennium. That amount, if granted, would have attracted local and federal matching to total in the neighborhood of $73 million.

Equipment also is essential, particularly to technical training, Dr. Fountain said. "It's ridiculous to say you are teaching electronics in the '70s on equipment of the '60s," he said. "The same is true for welding, automotive mechanics, and many other courses. If the training is going to be any good to the students, it must utilize current hardware."

Dr. Fountain is realistic about the money squeeze. "The General Assembly only has so many dollars to spend, I realize," he said. "And there is understandably keen competition for the dollars among many worthy causes."

He's Seen Benefits
His commitment to seek the dollars needed for community colleges is based on close range observation of what the institutions do and mean. As president of Lenoir Community College at Kinston, he saw men and women trained for jobs they couldn't have hoped for before. He saw the children of parents who never went to high school — successfully prepare themselves for college.

Somebody Else Caused A Boost In Gas Rates

In no way can the Utilities Commission action increasing gas rate be considered good news.

Yet it is necessary to recognize that virtually all of the increase is due to increases which have been instituted up and down the line by suppliers of gas to the local Utilities.

Thus, the increases will mean no additional profit to the city-owned utilities; however a failure to pass on the higher costs would have meant a gas department operating in the red.

We are not among those who entirely understand why gas, which comes out of the ground in Texas, should suddenly become more expensive. Nevertheless the control of this higher costs lies elsewhere than Greenville. Perhaps it was poor planning of our natural resource use on a national level. We do not know.

Assembly As A Launch Pad

By JOHN KILGO
RALEIGH — The 1971 North Carolina General Assembly faces more problems than it has in a decade — and in the backrooms away from the legislative halls, there will be plenty of horse-trading going on.

In addition to the controversial issues that will come before lawmakers, at least two men in the Senate will be building their launch pad for a trip that they hope will put them in the Governor's mansion.

First, consider some of the items that might be bait for a political trade. There is the thorny matter of redistricting the legislature and the State's congressional districts. No matter what happens, a lot of people are going to be mad, and to soothe damaged egos some table scraps will be dropped along the way.

In this legislature, East Carolina University President Leo Jenkins and friends are going to make an all-out effort to land a two-year medical school for ECU. Also, legislators from Mecklenburg and Guilford are going to pull out the heavy artillery to pass local option liquor-by-the-drink bills.

It almost goes without saying that some horse-trading will take place on those two matters, because it's doubtful that either side can reach their goals without the help of the other.

If you think that particular speculation is an uneven swap for the Piedmont, then you don't know how badly the leaders in Charlotte and Greensboro want open bars. Greensboro, for one thing, has a newly-renovated 15,000-seat Coliseum and to reap the potential of that costly venture, the city needs open bars.

Charlotte, meanwhile, is about to start construction on a downtown civic center. Two new skyscraper office buildings are underway in the Queen City's downtown, plans have been announced for a giant hotel and a downtown fashion mart. Charlotte can hear the cash registers jingling from convention after convention, but not without liquor-by-the-drink.

As the legislature moves into its first hours, look for these things to happen:

Rep. Jim Beatty will immediately introduce a bill that would give 18-year-olds the right to vote in local and state elections. It appears Beatty's bill will have the support of Gov. Scott this time and chances of it passing appear excellent. Whether it would be confirmed by the voters is another question.

A lot of legislators came here this week pledged to cut the two-cents-a-gallon gasoline tax by a penny. But Gov. Scott, without question, is ready for all-out war on this issue. Each legislator will be given a list of street improvements that are underway or are planned for his district, which, it will be pointed out, wouldn't be possible without the gasoline tax.

Futhermore, Gov. Scott apparently has won the leadership of the House and Senate on this gas tax controversy. House Speaker Phil Godwin says: "When the legislators see the overall picture of the highway program, I believe the gas tax will remain as is." And Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor, who presides over the Senate, says: "In reality, I can't think of a fairer tax. The people who use the roads the most, pay the most tax."

On the soft-drink tax, Gov. Scott is taking the position that the $15 million a year that tax brings in is needed by the State. As long as the legislature comes up with

Strength For Today

THE PRECIOUS GIFT

What is life? No one knows with any degree of certainty, but we look with amazement at the rapidity with which it can appear to snuff out like a feeble flame in a windstorm.

But life is to be revered first of all because it is God's gift. We cannot create life. The apparent Source of all Life is that One to whom we have to give an account of the way we use life.

We may fritter life away. If we have any significant powers we may use them to beat down others either because they stand in our way or because we like the experience of dominating others.

But this thing called life — the gift of God — is a thing so precious that we should handle it with reverence. God has given us life. We did not create it nor did the parents that begat us create it. It is purely and simply a divine gift. As such it is to be cherished. If a friend handed us a gift and we scorned the gift or did anything to damage or disregard it, we would be guilty of bad manners and bad morals. People who commit suicide are to be pitied. They have tried to destroy a precious gift from God Himself. The people who have no object in life except to cast themselves into passing pleasures or gain a position over others that will do nothing but to feed vanity — these are playing with life, and if they want to have any happiness they had better cut out that sort of thing and think something about others and about the Being Who gave us life as a precious gift.

How It All Got Started

WASHINGTON — There are some people who believe that there was a Machiavellian plan behind the Army's intelligence operation to keep tabs on American civilians, including governors, congressmen and senators. Anyone who thinks that just doesn't know how the Army works. This is what really happened:

About four years ago a very GI Army sergeant walked into a squad room of the 1st Regimental Intelligence Platoon, made up of 30 draftees at Fort Holabird in Baltimore, and found four of them in a crap game.

"If that's all you guys have to do," he said angrily, "we'll find ways to keep you busy." "What should we do Sarge?" one of the draftees said.

"Go out and follow somebody. It will be a good exercise for you. I don't want to see anyone in these barracks before 6 o'clock in the evening."

The four draftees left the barracks and went to downtown Baltimore; each chose someone to follow. One followed a go-go dancer who had just got off work; another followed an attractive lady with a shopping bag; a third followed a high school student who was going to a Baltimore Oriole baseball game, and the fourth followed a well-dressed middle-aged man who was sneaking in to see a dirty movie.

The next day the four draftees handed in their reports to the sergeant, who wasn't quite sure what to do with them. So he started a file titled "civilian intelligence."

When the four told their buddies how much fun they had, the rest of the platoon went out the next day, and they started following people.

ART BUCHWALD

They handed in their reports, and pretty soon the sergeant discovered he didn't have the manpower to read and process them.

He took his dilemma to his captain, who immediately realized the consequences of what had been started. If his men stopped following civilians, he would have a problem explaining why they started doing it in the first place. But if they continued their work, it would look as if it had all been part of a plan which had been conceived by his unit. He not only authorized continued surveillance of Baltimore citizens, but ordered it to be stepped up.

Pretty soon everyone at Fort Holabird was out following someone in the Baltimore area, and the reports were piling up by the thousands.

The captain's commanding officer, a colonel (not wanting to rock the boat), asked for 2,000 more men and a computer complex to process all the reports.

The request was made to the Pentagon. This was the first time Washington was

Other Editors Say Optimistic Nixon

(Henderson Dispatch)
President Nixon says he is not alarmed over what the polls show with respect to his conduct of public affairs and their bearing on his political future. Well, optimism and confidence go a long way toward achieving the goal of success, and it could be his good fortune again next year as it was back in 1968.

All through the eight long years Nixon was vice-president under Eisenhower he had his eyes fixed upon the White House. In 1960 he tried for the coveted prize and then failed by only a couple hundred thousand votes of some eighty-odd million cast. Still he did not give up. He began then for another try, which came in 1968 and which swept him into office.

Nixon is one of a few men in the nation's history who has served in House and Senate and been vice-president and at long last President. That's an example of the reward that comes through persistence.

Already the President is running for reelection in 1972. Those who may bet against him could be sorry. If the election were held now, he would probably win. There are millions of Americans who are of like opinion to that of Editor John S. Knight of the Knight Newspapers. Knight was reminded of his criticisms of Nixon on occasion and of his policies, and asked whether, in the light of these comments, he would still vote for Nixon. "Yes, I would," was his reply. And he is not alone in that conviction.

Nixon has made his mistakes as all Presidents do and as every one else does. But where is the man who inherited the evils Nixon has had to deal with who could have done a better job? What two years may hold no one knows. Nixon could achieve greater popularity, or his star could decline. But as of now, he would in all probability be reelected, and it may well be that way in November next year.

Recession Bringing Benefits

By ELMER ROESSNER
A few beneficial things have come out of the current recession:

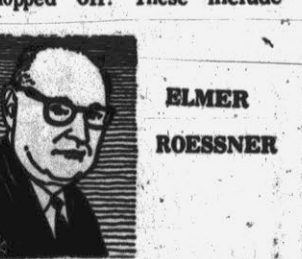

A number of obsolete and inefficient plants have been shut down. Eventually, new modern plants will replace them when demand becomes strong again and this will require spending and employment for new plants and equipment, including engineering, tool making and other skills, and new staffs to operate the plants.

Thousands of superannuated employees, fossils in executive suites, relatives and fumbler have been severed from businesses as insupportable luxuries. This will make for more efficiency and in many cases permit promotions of young men.

Every phase of almost every business has been re-examined and countless frills and luxuries have been lopped-off, ranging from such things as press agents who got executives' wives' names in society pages to fresh flowers daily in the lobby.

Hundred, perhaps thousands of product lines and products that have not been successful have been lopped off. These include many accommodation items, which were carried at no profit simply to please a few old customers, to products that somehow, some day might achieve profitable sales volumes.

Simplification has spread. Instead of stocking 35 kinds of stationery, some companies have cut requirements to 15 or 20. Vast numbers of reports which have only gone into archives have been eliminated. Unnecessary records have been jettisoned.

Searches have been conducted for hidden assets that can be turned into profits, including such things as unused real estate, unexploited patents, unused storage space that can be sold or rented, etc. Often old records, models, etc. that "are nice to have" have been given to museums or libraries where they are still accessible, saving maintenance, space and insurance and possibly leading to tax deductions.

At Huge Price
Service costs have been re-examined. Sometimes savings have been effected by having a process carried out by some service firm, such as a mailing service, cleaning service, etc.; sometimes a savings have been effected by taking over a service formerly let out.

A Dull Day At Office

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Over the last 27 years as a columnist I have interviewed more than 1,500 people. Most were celebrities, some were unspeakable bores, and others were simple men and women with life stories so touching they'd make a stone burst into tears.

During this period many readers have written in suggesting that, since I had put so many others on the spot, that I do the same thing to myself. For a columnist to interview himself seems to me an exercise in vainglory.

But, since it is a dull day down at the depot and my barber tells me he doesn't have any haircuts planned that are worth watching, let us bow to the public will.

So here goes:
Q. What would you be if you weren't a columnist?
A. Probably unemployed.

Q. Does it take any special equipment to be a columnist?
A. Not particularly, except an interest centered on people rather than on events. People themselves are the main event. Since a columnist spends a great part of his time in a swivel chair staring at the ceiling waiting for ideas, it is wise for him to buy suits with two pairs of pants.

Q. Will Rogers said he never met a man he didn't like. Is that true of you?
A. No indeed! I think every human being has a story worth telling, but that doesn't mean he is worth liking. I feel sorry for everyone alive, because life scares us all, but I like only about three out of four people I meet. The other one I try to understand.

Q. You often ask people to say what life is to them in one word. What is your word?

40 Years Ago Today

By GWYN COGHILL
Jan. 14, 1931

A snowstorm sweeps over portions of the south today. Snow is reported falling at Charlotte, Greensboro, Hickory, Wilson and in other parts of the southland. The weather man predicts snow for the coast tonight with temperatures dropping. Light snow fell as far south as Atlanta where the mercury dropped to 22 degrees at 7 o'clock.

A blanced program of farming as a means of relieving the serious situation existing among the farmers of North Carolina was given by B. Troy Ferguson, district farm demonstration agent, last night at a gathering of prominent land owners and business men at the court house. The meeting was the first of a series being held throughout North Carolina this week with a view of awakening the farmers to the necessity of producing more of the things which they consume at home.

And in the State Senate you'll have an interesting by-play. Lt. Gov. Taylor and Sen. Skipper Bowles of Guilford have oiled their campaign machinery and are ready to run for Governor. Their paths will cross many times between now and June...and they won't be in the business of trying to make the other look good. Such is the world of politics and it's in full bloom in North Carolina.

Steel Co. Is Defiant

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP) — The Bethlehem Steel Co. says it will go ahead with plans to boost prices of steel used in construction work and shipbuilding despite an indication from President Nixon that he might raise quotas on imported steel if the increases are implemented.

A statement released Wednesday also said the Nixon administration knew of the proposed increases in advance. The company said the administration gave no indication it "would react as strongly as it did."

The rate changes on four major types of steel, announced Monday, amount to boosts of 11 to 13 per cent. They are to take effect March 1. Bethlehem is the nation's second largest steel producer. The items involved account for one-sixth of the industry's total output.

The company said Stewart S. Cort, Bethlehem chairman, met prior to the hike announcement with Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

Cort advised McCracken of the pending announcement and nothing in the conversation suggested the administration would react as it did, the statement said.

"The decision to increase prices was a business judgment," it continued, "and Bethlehem has no plans to rescind."

At the Western White House, Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren confirmed that McCracken and Cort met Monday, and that Cort informed McCracken of the company's intention to announce higher prices.

Nixon's press secretary, Ronald Ziegler, said Tuesday Nixon was "deeply concerned" by Bethlehem's action.

So far only a small producer, Lukens Steel Co. of Coatesville, Pa., has followed Bethlehem's rate change. The Lukens decision was made before the White House comment.

The nation's largest producer, U.S. Steel has said it was studying the matter.

Scrap Of Paper Can Upset Skier

NEW YORK (UPI)—On today's highspeed ski slopes a 200-pound slalom expert can be thrown for a loss by an object as small as a discarded candy wrapper.

This warning comes from Keep America Beautiful, Inc., the national anti-litter organization, which lists carelessly discarded chewing-gum wrappers, empty cigarette packs, matchbook covers and even facial tissues as "potential boobytraps" frequently encountered by skiers on precipitous downhill runs.

California was the 31st state to enter the Union.

Long Hair Is 'Routine'

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Attorneys for four youths expelled from Waynesville, N.C., High School for the length of their hair say, "Long hair is nowadays, more than short hair, the routine."

The attorneys appealed to the U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals Wednesday. The cover of the 25-page brief they submitted carried a color photograph of the boys. Their views, as stated in the brief, ranged from "I feel I have a right to my own personal expression" to "I like the fashion."

The brief also said: "This nation is going through an obvious orgy of fads of dress. And it is bound to offend even hardened sensibilities...to force all high school students to conform to the norms of the local football team and the Marines when Joe Namath, the anti-hero, is only recently the cynosure of all eyes."

The appeal was from a ruling of U.S. District Court Judge Woodrow W. Jones. He had ruled that the regulation on hair length had a "real and reasonable connection" with the successful operation of the high school.

"At 'schuss' speeds, a scrap of paper lying in the snow can derail even the most experienced skier," cautions Allen H. Seed Jr., executive vice president of KAB.

What's more, he says, litter buried in the wintry snow reappears as ugly blight when the snow melts in the springtime.

London Police Hunt Extremists

By RODNEY PINDER
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — Police captured four men trying to break into the House of Commons today while Scotland Yard continued its hunt for extremists who bombed the home of Employment Minister Robert Carr. Aided by tracker dogs, 30 policemen searched Westminster Palace, the home of Parliament, after the arrests. They found glass-cutting equipment. A custodian first spotted two men at the foot of Big Ben, the landmark timepiece that booms the hours above Parliament. He grappled with the pair while a third man dived through a window into a storeroom. A House of Commons police officer joined the struggle. Police found the third man, dazed, in the storeroom and later arrested a fourth man on the other side of the Thames after he made off in a car.

The police threw a cordon around Parliament Square while police launches sped along the banks of the Thames. There was no indication of any connection between the attempt to break into the House of Commons and the Carr bombing.

There was a rumor the four men were Welsh nationalist but this could not be confirmed. A militant organization calling itself "The Angry Brigade" was at the top of Scotland Yard's list of those wanted for the Carr bombing Tuesday night. A London newspaper got crudely printed letter saying: "Carr got it tonight ... were (sic) getting closer." It was signed by The Angry Brigade.

Carr's home was blasted by two powerful time bombs, but he and his family were not hurt, and police spokesmen today said they now believe the bombs were intended to cause damage and were not an attempt on Carr's life. "There were lots of easier ways open for anyone wanting to kill Mr. Carr," said Chief Supt. Roy Habershon. The Angry Brigade claimed responsibility last month for an explosion at Carr's ministry. The ministry and its chief were targets because he is piloting the government's bill to outlaw wildcat strikes through the House of Commons.

New Revenue-Sharing Effort Is Being Prepared

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Financially pinched states are mounting a new effort to cut a slice of the federal pie for themselves.

The New Jersey Legislature started the ball rolling last month by adopting a resolution calling for a convention to amend the U.S. Constitution to require the federal government to share its tax money with the states.

"The effort is being made in almost all state legislatures," said Early Mackey, an official of the National Legislative Conference, which is pushing the proposal. He predicted 10 to 20 state legislatures would quickly approve the resolution. Congress would be forced to convene a convention if two-thirds (34) of the state legislatures ask for one. The convention could only write an amendment, which would have to be ratified by the states.

Congress could choose between two forms of ratification: by two-thirds of the states in separate conventions or in three-fourths (38) of the state legislatures. The last effort to call a constitutional convention was organized by the late Sen. Everett Dirksen, R-Ill., in an attempt to overrule the Supreme Court's "one man, one vote" rulings that forced reapportionment of legislative bodies. Dirksen's attempt fell short, but just barely.

No such convention has been held since the Constitution was written in 1787 at Philadelphia. Mackey said the states' drive for a revenue-sharing amendment might prod Congress to enact a tax-sharing plan through legislation.

The President has indicated an ambitious revenue-sharing plan will be the main theme of his State of the Union address to the 92nd Congress Jan. 22. Although details of the new plan have been kept under wraps, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew was reported to have said Wednesday it would provide state and local governments with new money beyond existing grant-in-aid programs.

Last year the administration's $500-million startup revenue-sharing plan failed to get a hearing in Congress. Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, says he will hold hearings on the measure late this year. But Mills says he's even more opposed to revenue sharing now because of a growing federal deficit he thinks will be aggravated by Nixon's $2.7-billion tax windfall handed businessmen this week.

Series Of Traffic Mishaps Reported

Heaviest damage resulted from a 3:30 p.m. collision at the intersection of Kirkland Drive and U.S. 264, police reported, and involved cars driven by Robert Bayzle, 19, of 302 D Scott Dorm and Naomi Ruth Teel, 1518

B Fleming St. Officers, who charged Mrs. Teel with failing to yield the right of way, set damage to the cars at $400 each. No charges were reported in a 9:50 a.m. mishap on N.C. 11 a half-mile south of the Airport Road intersection. Officers said vehicles driven by John Henry Jackson, 59, of Route 5, Greenville and James Daniels Wooten, 19, of 406 Elks St. collided, causing an estimated $300 damage to the Jackson car and about $10 damage to the truck driven by Wooten.

Cars operated by Laurie Wood Tatem, 20, of 1403 East Wright Rd. and Barbara Manning Pollard, of Route 6, Greenville collided about 2 p.m. at the intersection of Second and Greene Streets. Officers, who set damage to the Tatem car at $120 and placed damage to the Pollard vehicle at $75, made no charges. William Alexander Dunn of 1806 Myrtle Ave. was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 4:15 p.m. mishap. Officers reported the Dunn car collided with a car driven by Vernon Allen Morris, 27, of Route 4, Greenville at the intersection of Memorial Drive and Fifth Street. Damage was estimated at $50 to the Morris car and $100 to the Dunn vehicle.

Cars driven by Nancy Yvonne Braxton, 19, of Route 6, Greenville and Harry Moore Brown, 65, of 627 Dickinson Ave. were reported involved in a 4:38 p.m. collision at the intersection of Second and Washington Streets. Investigators, who charged Brown with failing to yield the right of way, estimated damage at $100 to the Braxton vehicle and $50 to the Brown car. No injuries were reported in the series of collisions.

Conditional Guilty Plea

BEND, Ore. (AP) — William Samuel Knight, 28, pleaded guilty to first-degree murder in Circuit Court on the condition he be remarried to his ex-wife, Ronda, 25, and that the couple be allowed a three-hour conjugal visit in prison each week. The couple was married in District Court Wednesday.

Knight begins serving a life sentence in the Oregon State Penitentiary in Salem today for the slaying of a Bend tavern owner. He had pleaded innocent, but changed his plea at the start of his trial Tuesday after defense and prosecution agreed to the visitation arrangement. Knight will be eligible for parole in 10 years. Private visiting privileges for married inmates and their wives were part of a liberalized conduct code begun at the penitentiary in 1968. Requests for such visits are reviewed individually. They are not guaranteed, as in Knight's case.

Conduct Survey In Pitt County

Two interviewers for the Survey Research Center of the University of Michigan are now conducting the Center's annual survey of consumers in Pitt County. The interviewers are Mrs. Virginia Lansche and Mrs. Clara Moye Shackell. In this survey, they will ask consumers to express their views about business and economic conditions at present and encourage them to say what they think about possible future trends. Families will be asked about their finances. All information obtained is confidential. Data collected is analyzed and used to evaluate U.S. economic trends. Pitt County has been a survey area for some 19 years.

Investigations, who charged Brown with failing to yield the right of way, estimated damage at $100 to the Braxton vehicle and $50 to the Brown car. No injuries were reported in the series of collisions.

Television and Eye Health

One of the questions most often asked about good eye care concerns television. How should one light the television-viewing area? And how far from the TV set should the viewer be?

(There should be a comfortable amount of light in the room. It should be placed above or behind the viewers. None of its should shine directly on the screen. As always, the light should not be too harsh.)

The TV viewers should sit from six to ten feet from the set. But use the reliable trial and error system to find the distance best suited to each individual. If the viewer feels the need to sit too close then glasses may be required.

Use the technique of looking away from the set occasionally to relieve eye fatigue.

East-West Confrontation Taking Shape In Africa

By JOHN PLATTER
NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI)—The East-West cold war for influence in emerging black Africa was fought on a muted basis through the 1960s and into 1970. But all portents now are that the gloves will be coming off for the rest of the '70s.

For example, low-key diplomacy last June kept the "Midnight Sun" episode from developing into a possible "Pueblo" crisis. The "Midnight Sun," an American-registered vessel allegedly crammed with intelligence gear, was spotted "loitering" off Somalia and ordered into the Texas-sized nation's capital of Mogadishu by a coast guard patrol. Her crew spent seven lonely weeks in captivity.

The State Department in Washington rejected the Somali espionage charges but said nothing publicly and when the crew was released and headed south for friendlier Kenyan waters, Washington refrained from lodging a formal protest.

American restraint was in tune with unspoken cold war rules demanding muted styles in deference to African postulations of non-alignment.

But foreign diplomats and military sources stationed around East and Central Africa now say the continent soon will be the scene of sharpened, not blurred, cold war confrontations.

Systems Crystallize
 During a decade of independence, African nations themselves have begun to crystallize their political systems into recognizable "alignments" despite the denials.

After a 10-year Russian buildup and gradual British withdrawal, the Russians are moving fast toward gaining a dominant posture in the Indian Ocean. And after a period of comparative inactivity coinciding with the cultural revolution at home, Communist China has re-entered the field better versed in the continent's ways.

Discernible new patterns in African political systems recently were summed up by a diplomat in Dar es Salaam, with as much truth as cynicism, when he said: "Since their independence in the early 1960s most African nations now are either non-aligned on the side of the East, or non-aligned on the side of the West."

Observers cite a series of continuing developments, possibly unimportant in isolation but cumulatively significant, which they say testify to a gathering Communist momentum in the East Indian Ocean region from the Arabian Gulf to Southern Africa.

The developments:
 —When Britain relinquished control of Aden (now the Southern Yemen People's Republic) in December, 1967, she also handed over jurisdiction for the islands of Socotra, just off the Somali mainland. In August, 1970, a detachment of Soviet marines landed there and established supply depots. The islands command the southern approaches to the Red Sea and with Soviet facilities at Aden provide her with an unrivaled posture, vital if the Suez Canal were re-opened to navigation. Permission for the occupation of Socotra came in exchange for Soviet military aid to South Yemen.

Facilities Granted
 —In 1970, Britain's former island colony of Mauritius granted docking and supply facilities to Soviet fishing fleets in the Southern Indian Ocean. Together with similar rights in the Andaman Islands, east of Ceylon, this gave the Soviets a triangle of strategic backup support bases completed by their new facilities in Socotra and Aden.

—With Tanzania's apparent approval, the Chinese will test their new ICBMs (intercontinental ballistic missiles) by firing them from the Tibetan Plateau into East African waters, possibly explaining Soviet haste in occupying Socotra to monitor—at least partially—China's nuclear progress.

Two areas—Northeast Africa and Southern Africa—emerge as the likeliest future flashpoints involving major powers.

Developments affecting Northeast Africa:
 —In Somalia, the Russians have equipped and trained the army and air force since a 1963 military agreement signed in Moscow. About 200 Russian advisers and more than a dozen MIG 17s have been supplied to the air force.

—In the Sudan, a 1968 defense agreement also signed in Moscow has made the nation's forces, like the neighboring United Arab Republic's since the June, 1967, Middle East War, largely dependent on Soviet equipment and training.

China Enters Proposals
 —In both the Sudan and Somalia, China has entered competitive aid proposals in the past year and last August Sudanese President Gaafa el Nimeiry came away from a visit to Peking with a $34.8 million loan offer.

—Christian Ethiopia, with a 40,000-man army (big by African standards) trained and equipped by the United States, is wedged between Somalia and the Sudan, both Moslem states controlled by the military after 1969 coups armed by Communist friends. Emperor Haile Selassie, 74, is fighting two Moslem-backed insurgent movements, one in the Southern Ogaden Desert supported from across the border in Somalia, and the other in the northern province of Eritrea, aided by sympathetic elements from neighboring Sudan.

—The Russians have established an air force base for the Ugandans, southwest of Ethiopia, in the northern Ugandan town of Gulu, currently manned by about 100 Russian advisers. President Milton Obote of Uganda lately has taken a sharp left turn by abruptly nationalizing—most foreign commercial businesses.

—Ethiopia's only secure border is to the immediate south with Kenya, ruled by another aging statesman, President Jomo Kenyatta, 76, with Selassie the only East and Central African leader who consistently resists Communist overtures.

Developments affecting Southern Africa:
 —The islands of Zanzibar just 25 miles offshore from Dar es Salaam represent communism's biggest single success in Africa. After a 1964 coup overthrowing the Arab sultan, the Chinese, Russians and East Germans moved in with assistance and advisers while the islands' 32-man revolutionary council severed traditional ties with Western nations. But now, most of the Russians and East Germans have departed, leaving the field to an estimated 1,500 Chinese experts actively engaged in the Departments of Defense, Agriculture and Health and freely distributing and preaching Maoist propaganda.

Spectacular Aid Project
 —The neighboring mainland is the scene of China's most spectacular overseas aid project, the 1,060-mile railroad from Dar es Salaam to the Zambian copperbelt. The cost: $408 million. Work officially began last October, giving the Chinese and their expected 30,000-man work force a five-year period of activity and possible influence in Central Africa.

—Guerrilla bases in Southern Tanzania, also manned by Chinese advisers, are staging points for a continuous stream of forays into Mozambique to the south. Most of Southeast Tanzania is a restricted area. Overflying is banned.

—Further guerrilla camps in Southern Zambia are operating into Rhodesia. Their activities are expanding in preparation for the black-white confrontation.

—Implied suggestions Zambia would "shop around" for an air defense system prompted Britain to agree to supply a SAM (surface to air) missile network to quiet fears of attack.

—Western support for South Africa and reluctance to get involved in black freedom movements have played into Communist hands, say diplomatic observers. These observers note that in retrospect the United States, British and World Bank refusal to build the Tan-Zam Railroad may have been a "tactical blunder." It gave the Chinese an entree and role in an area where they confidently expect racial turmoil.

The battleground is there and the position moves are being made at an increasingly bold and swift pace. Black Africans, at least, are not taking the maneuvering lightly. The anti-Communist statesmen are worried, some more so by Red China than Soviet Russia.

ALL PORTENTS NOW are that Newsmag indicates how African the gloves will be coming off in the nations have begun to crystallize their 1970s in the East-West cold war for political opinions in to recognizable influence in emerging Black Africa. "alignments". (UPI Telephoto)

Public Libraries Avoid Current Boom In Smut

By SUSAN STEVENS
CHICAGO (UPI)—Pornography in books and periodicals may be popular in some quarters, but not in the nation's public libraries.

"People are too embarrassed or afraid to ask for it," said Mrs. Judith Krug, director of the American Library Association's Office for Intellectual Freedom.

"There's no demand at all," she said in an interview. "Libraries just don't buy it."

Social Mores
 Readers of pornography "probably should be able to get this kind of material in the library," Mrs. Krug contended. But social mores keep pornography seekers from asking for it at libraries even though they feel free to do so at stores.

Although libraries "just don't run into the problem of what is termed 'hard core pornography,'" Mrs. Krug said those that stock underground newspapers and magazines have received complaints about them.

"They do use words that many individuals in this country believe should not be banded about," she said.

Some have pictures found objectionable by readers — readers who also disagree with underground politics, said her assistant, James Harvey.

Complainers tend to pick on pornography as a reason the magazines and newspapers should be banned, Harvey said, "but then they admit their real complaint is that the periodicals are anti-establishment."

All View Points
 Libraries in three recent cases have held to the belief they should choose materials for information about all points of view without regard to possible objections to the social, political or religious opinions of the authors.

In Tulsa, Okla., and Groton, Conn., libraries received complaints but continued to operate as they had before. In Minneapolis, Minn., a library restricted 22 underground papers to reading by adults only.

In Groton, two town counselors asked the town board to cut off library funds if the local library did not remove papers considered obscene and pornographic.

"The underground newspapers were backed by most of the people at the meeting even though the mayor argued against them and the library," Harvey said.

"Apparently it is a very necessary point of view in the town," Mrs. Krug added.

Libraries have to operate, as Mrs. Krug sees it, for people who can "think, pick and choose among all points available."

Rapid Miracles From Enzymes
NEW YORK (AP) — Enzymes carry out chemical miracles in the body, and their action is so fast it has never been adequately understood. Now a rapid technique has been developed that can detect small changes in enzyme molecules as they act.

The enzymes that contain certain metal atoms are made to act on substances that are fluorescent. This permits scientists to follow extremely rapid energy transfer and changes in enzyme structure.

The method was devised by biochemist Bert L. Vallee and co-workers at Harvard Medical School.

Elastic Glass To Be Stronger

NEW YORK (UPI)—One reason that glass bottles are strong is that glass is elastic.

You can prove it, the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute points out, by inserting a small glass tube through the cork of a bottle that has been filled with colored water. When you squeeze the bottle in your hand you'll have proof that its sides are being bent inward, because the colored water will be forced up the tube.

Elasticity is one of the many physical properties of glass containers that contribute to their strength and serviceability, the Institute observes, adding that continued research will make the glass in tomorrow's bottles even stronger.

Good intentions never saved a penny.

It takes a commitment to save money. To your family, to the future. And maybe to your country. Good intentions just aren't enough.

That's why the Payroll Savings Plan works so well. It's a way of saying "I'm committed."

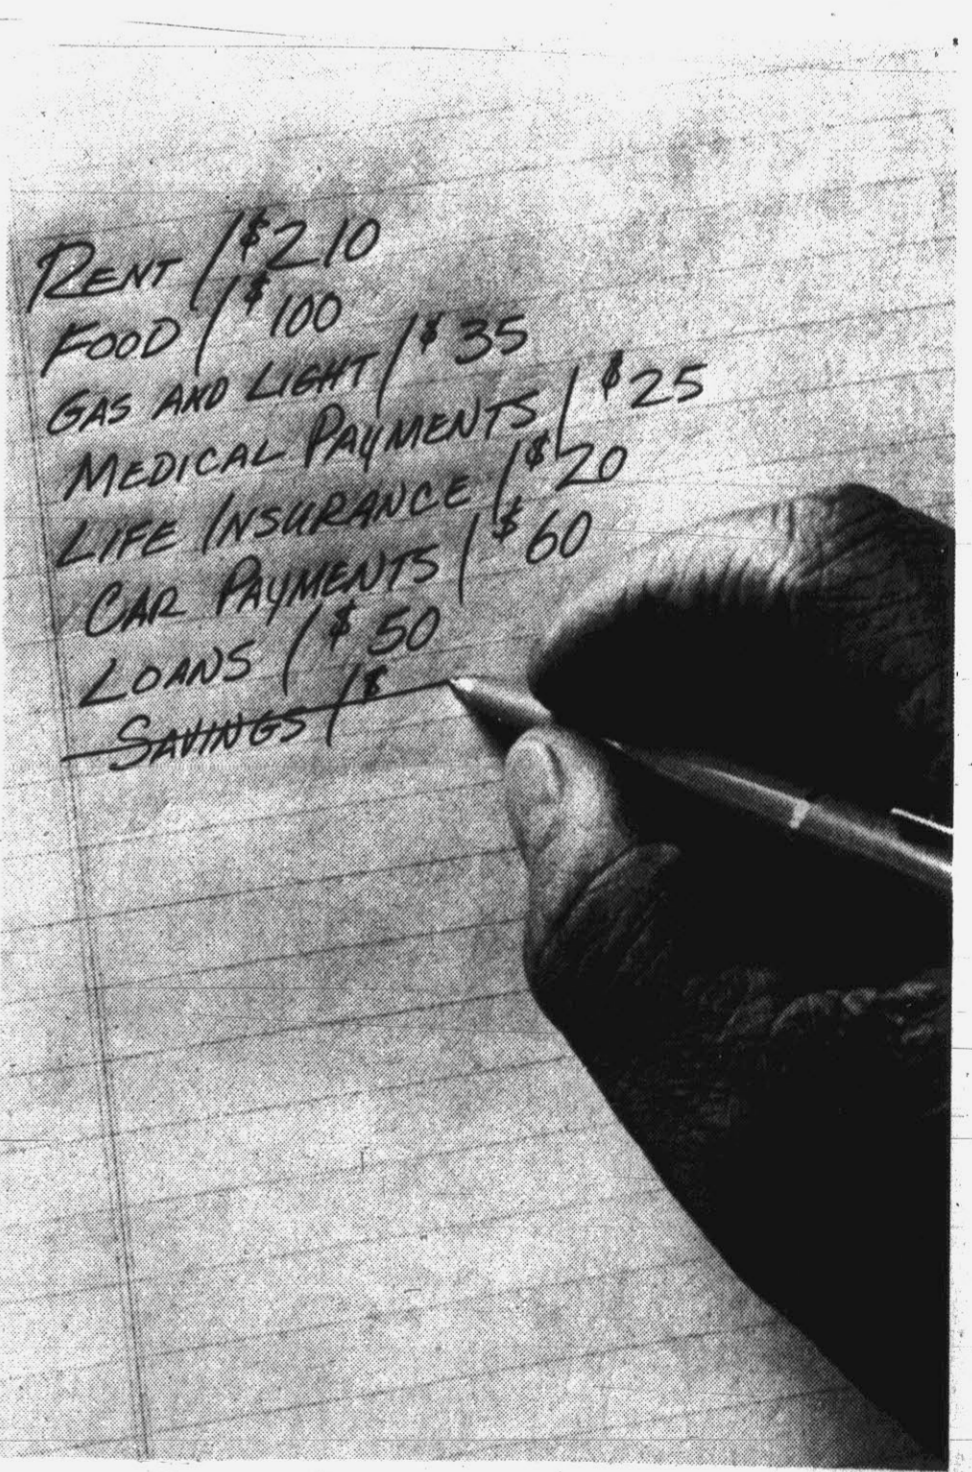

And it's almost effortless. All you do is sign up once, where you work. Then the amount you specify is automatically set aside from your check each payday and put into U.S. Savings Bonds. You have automatic saving power.

After all, it's hard to spend money you don't touch.

Oh, you'll touch it someday. For that house, or dream vacation, or for your kids' college education.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U. S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity of 5 years 10 months (4% the first year). That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970 . . . with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

So think it over. The Payroll Savings Plan. It's a small effort, but it's a big commitment. For you and your country.

Two Boys Are Found Hanged
HOUSTON (AP) — Two boys with their hands tied, hanging by the neck from opposite ends of a rope over a tree limb, were found dead in a suburban back yard Wednesday night.
 They were Travis Donald Stuckey, 12, and James Roland Miles, 11.
 Police said a nylon rope with a noose in each end had been thrown over a limb seven feet from the ground in the Stuckey boy's yard.
 Police Lt. Charles Holt said there were no objects around from which the boys could have jumped.
 It appeared to be an accident, he said, but added, "We just don't know. We haven't been able to round up a single witness."

Gunfire Stopped

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — The guns fell silent in Jordan today following five days of fighting between King Hussein's army and Palestinian guerrillas. Army and guerrilla teams began collecting weapons to demilitarize the capital.
 The shooting stopped at midnight in accordance with a cease-fire agreement reached Wednesday under the auspices of the foreign Arab commission trying to bring peace to Jordan.
 Egyptian Gen. Ahmad Abdul Hamid Hilmi, head of the commission, toured Amman and said he was satisfied that the city was returning to normal. Only schools remained closed.
 A government spokesman said 60 persons were killed or wounded during the recent fighting, the worst outbreak since the 11-day civil war last September. A guerrillas spokesman said 32 Palestinians were killed and 117 wounded.
 The agreement requires that arms be collected from militia groups in Amman and stored at depots guarded by troops from both sides. It also defines which guerrilla bases will be immune from attacks by the army.
 King Hussein, in London for a physical checkup and rest, left a nursing home and planned to return to Jordan in several days, a spokesman there said.

Blount Selected
WASHINGTON (AP) — Postmaster General Winton M. Blount has been selected to head up the new U.S. Postal Service when the independent agency takes over operation of the Post Office Department this year.
 Blount was to lose his cabinet status July 1 but was selected Wednesday as head of the new postal service by the nine-member board of governors. He also will be chairman of the board.
 Blount's appointment is effective immediately.
 Under postal reform legislation adopted last year, the old Post Office Department will be abolished and replaced by the U.S. Postal Service, a semi-autonomous corporate-like agency which eventually is intended to pay its own way.
 The legislation gave the board of governors up to Aug. 12 to complete the transition. The board Wednesday set July 1 as the formal date for transition.
 The board also adopted a resolution allowing the postal service to establish postal rates and classification, thus paving the way for an expected one-third increase in postage rates by this spring.

Jenkins Family Received Threat
 East Carolina University president Dr. Leo W. Jenkins and his family spent last night away from home following a threatening telephone call shortly after 6 p.m.
 Greenville police and University security officers were notified of the bomb threat call about 6:18 p.m. by Dr. Jenkins.
 This morning, the ECU president said a man called his wife.
 He continued, "We spent the night away on the advice of the Greenville Police Department and our own security officers."
 He added that law enforcement officials are "taking every step to apprehend this person."

Old Dominion Rallies To Beat Pirates

Robersonville Whips Edenton

ROBERSONVILLE — The Robersonville Golden Eagles rebounded from a pair of losses Tuesday night to sweep an evening of games from Edenton High School last night. The boys rolled to a 61-33 win, while the girls picked up a 41-29 victory. In the girls game, the Eaglettes, who had their 11-game winning streak stopped by North Pitt on Thursday, rebounded for their 12th win. By the end of the first period, Robersonville had worked up a 14-3 lead. Edenton rallied in the second quarter, outitting Robersonville, 10-5, but the Eaglettes still led, 19-13 at the half.

In the third and fourth periods, the two teams posted the same scores, with Robersonville coming out on top in each, 11-8. The Eaglettes held a 30-21 lead as the final period opened.

Jenny James led Robersonville with 19 points, while Kay Coburn had 14. Jo Wheeler had 16 points to pace Edenton.

In the boys game, Robersonville rolled out to a 16-9 lead in the first period. They extended this in the second frame by outitting the Aces, 19-5, to run away with a 35-14 halftime lead.

Both teams pushed through 10 points in the third-quarter of play, as the score climbed to 45-24. Then, Robersonville out-scored Edenton, 16-9 in the final quarter to wrap it up.

Larry Wiggins and Jimmy Daniels led Robersonville with 13 each, while James Crandall had 10. Blount Sheppard had 10 to pace Edenton.

Robersonville goes to Bear Grass on Friday, January 22, for its next game.

Leaders Fall In Twin Upsets

Fieldcrest and National Cash Register picked up upset victories last night in the Industrial League, knocking off previously unbeaten State Highway and Wachovia Bank.

Fieldcrest beat State Highway, 58-33, while NCR took Wachovia, 50-47. In the other game, WNCT won its first, 68-35, against winless Vermont American.

The resulting shuffle left State Highway, Wachovia and Fieldcrest tied for first with 3-1 records, while NCR is 2-2. WNCT is now 1-3 with Vermont American falling off to 0-4.

In the opener, Fieldcrest shot away to a 26-10 lead in the first half to establish itself as ready for the upset. They completed it by outitting State Highway, 32-23, in the final half.

Louis Williams led Fieldcrest with 20 points, while Walter Claybrook had 16 and Bill Stokes had 11. For the Highwaymen, one broke double figures.

WNCT shot away to a big lead in the first half, outitting Vermont American, 33-20. They really unloaded in the second half, pouring in 35 points to just 15 for Vermont American.

Glen Hudson paced the winners with 19 points, while Ikie Arnold added 16. Ronnie Foster had 16 for Vermont American.

In the other upset, NCR inched out into a 29-20 lead in the first half of play, they had to hold off Wachovia to pull off the upset. Wachovia outit them, 27-21, but it wasn't quite enough to pull off the comeback.

Bill Hall led NCR with 15, while Kelly Witherington had 14. For Wachovia, Walter Jones had 13 and Jerry Smith had 12.

Landry Image Not What Seems

By DENNE H. FREEMAN

Associated Press Sports Writer FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Ask most professional football fans for their opinion of Dallas Cowboy Coach Tom Landry and the most frequent description would be that he's an emotionless human-computer.

At times Landry keeps this false theory aloft.

Like when he's asked about the big Dallas turnaround Landry answers: "Well, the players started playing relaxed."

Asked if this came from the head coach, he said "I never relax."

At 46 Landry is the dean of the National Football League coaches with 11 years' service as the only headmaster the Cowboys have ever known.

He is indeed a football genius. Landry invented the 4-3 defensive alignment as an assistant coach for the New York Giants. And when he came to Dallas as coach in 1960, Landry began work with castoffs and suffered through an 0-11-1 season.

Dallas now has a 77-69-6 record in the Landry years, including five consecutive playoff trips and now a Super Bowl game with Baltimore.

Landry's physical appearance itself is stoic.

But cold Landry is not. He can be quick with a quip and has a good sense of humor. This has been the toughest and yet most fruitful year for Landry, who took what he admits was a gamble and turned Dallas from a finesse team into

North Pitt Rolls By Conley Vikings, 74-49

By WOODY PEELE

North Pitt High School rolled to a 74-49 victory over D. H. Conley's Vikings last night in the first meeting between the two schools. The game was played as a preliminary to the East Carolina University-Old Dominion University basketball game at Minges Coliseum on the ECU campus.

It was really no contest from the start, as North Pitt pushed through the first 12 points of the game and never was in trouble after that.

William Shiver, North Pitt's ace, didn't start the game because of disciplinary reasons, but you wouldn't have known it as Wayne and Frank Brown took up the slack effectively. Shiver got into the action late in the first half and played most of the second half, but finished with one of his poorer performances, getting only eight points.

Wayne Brown did an outstanding job both in scoring and on the boards, as he canned 24 points. Frank followed with 18 points, while Russ Andrews added 10 for the Panthers.

Frank Brown hit the first two baskets in the opening minute of play and Andrews followed with another. Wayne Brown scored on a drive and Andrews hit another jumper. Donnie Everett scored on a rebound with 4:51 left in the first period to give North Pitt its 12-0 lead.

Conley finally broke the scoring ice on a shot from the corner by Bennie Thompson with 4:36 left. Late in the period, David Pugh hit, cutting the lead from 10 to eight, at 18-10, but North Pitt hit again, and led, 20-10 at the end of the period.

In the second frame, Conley scored on a steal by William Roundtree, and then, a tap-in by Dwight Hawkins cut the lead to 22-16 with 5:36 to go, but that was as close as the Vikings came.

With Wayne Brown leading the way, the Panthers clawed their way into an 20-point lead by the time the quarter ended. Wayne and Frank both hit, running the lead back to 10, at 26-16, and then after the two teams swapped points again, two buckets by Wayne ran it out to 14. A steal by Daniel Highsmith and a jumper

Old Dominion University put on a still-press in the second half last night and gained control of the game to rally and down East Carolina University, 90-82.

The Pirates had held a 47-41 lead at intermission, and were up by as much as 10 early in the game and nine late in the half. But the contest was turned completely around in the second half, as the press and poor shooting by the Bucs did the trick.

East Carolina shot only a poor 33.3 per cent from the floor in the second half, while Old Dominion was burning them in at a 56.7 per cent pace. Despite the fact that the Bucs controlled the boards, the difference was too much. East Carolina took nine more shots from the field than the Monarchs in the half, but to no avail.

Then, late in the game, when Old Dominion had gained the lead, they used the fine ball handling to Dave Twardzik to keep the ball away from the Pirates and work in for scores that built the lead up to as much as 10 points.

For a while, however, it looked like the Bucs were going to run the Monarchs out of the gym and gain revenge for an earlier setback, 71-66, at Old Dominion's hands. Jim Gregory hit after a minute of play for the first score of the game, but two free throws by OD's Terry Foster tied it up. The Bucs then streaked out to a 10-point lead, getting ten straight before the Monarchs could hit again.

Dave Franklin, who started the game in place of Jim Fairley, hit to return the lead to the Bucs. Fairley had been benched, according to Coach Tom Quinn, for disciplinary reasons. He did not elaborate.

Al Faber hit at the line and Gregory threw in a rebound. Franklin hit one free throw and Julius Prince got two more, and Franklin followed with a baseline jumper for a 12-2 lead with 16:05 to go in the half.

But Old Dominion began a comeback with Skip Noble leading the way with six big baskets. Noble hit first and Steve Cox hit another to cut it to six. After the Bucs got one, baskets by Noble and Randy Coulling cut the lead to four at 14-10.

East Carolina went back out by eight on baskets by Franklin and Gregory, but the Monarchs outit the Bucs, 10-0 in the next two minutes to drive into the lead. Noble hit two in a row, and then Cox and Coulling each made two free throws, tying it at 18-18. Noble canned a turnaround jumper with 12:03 to go, putting the Monarchs into the lead, 20-18.

Mike Henrich tied it up with a jumper and Faber hit on a jumper to put the Bucs back out 22-20. Noble got one more to tie it again, but Henrich hit two straight, and Prince got two more free throws, followed by a basket by Greg Crouse to run the lead out to eight, 30-22 with 8:35 left in the half.

The Bucs edged out by as much as nine in the remaining minutes, leading 34-25 the first time, and 47-38 the last. Old Dominion got a three-point play with two seconds left, however, to cut the margin to 47-41 at the half.

Then, in the second half, Old Dominion turned to a full-court press and it began to tell on the Bucs, along with their colder shooting. In the first 10 minutes of the half, Old Dominion outit the Bucs, 18-11 to take the lead. Coulling hit a free throw and Noble added another to cut it to four. Fairley, who entered the game early in the second half, got a basket, but a driving layup to Twardzik, followed by two free throws by him cut the lead to two. Another by Foster cut it to one, and the two teams swapped baskets until the score reached 53-52. Then, a free throw by Twardzik tied it at 53-all, and a jumper by Cox with 13:39 to go put Old Dominion ahead. Gregory hit a free throw to cut it to one, but Twardzik's basket pushed it back to three. Gregory then got a three point play to tie it at 57-57, and a free throw by Prince put East Carolina ahead again, 58-57. Cox got two free throws to return the lead to the Monarchs, but Franklin hit on the fast break to put East Carolina back out, 60-59, but it was for the last time.

Cox hit a shot with 9:39 to go, and Old Dominion held a 61-60 lead and they never lost it after that. Foster followed with a shot from underneath 14 seconds later, and the Bucs never tied it again.

Slowly, Old Dominion began to pull away after that, working for the good shots, mostly driving layups, as they upped the lead to as much as 10 points in the closing seconds.

The loss was the sixth in 11 starts for the Bucs, and their second this year on their home court, where losses are usually few and far between.

Gregory paced the Pirates with 23 points, while Faber had 14, and Prince and Henrich had 10 each and Franklin, in his first starting role, had 15.

Twardzik had 25 to pace Old Dominion, while Noble had 21, Coulling had 17, Cox had 15 and Foster had 10.

East Carolina's rebounding was led by Gregory with 13, while Faber had 12 and Franklin and Prince each pulled in nine. Cox had 11 for Old Dominion. The Bucs held a 53-40 edge on the boards.

The Pirates, 2-1 in Southern Conference play, travel to Greenville, S. C. on Saturday to meet the tough Furman Paladins in a loop game. They return home Tuesday against Davidson.

Pitt Tech, Despite Lack Of Height, Feels Can Take Title

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(One of a series)

Pitt Technical Institute sits surprisingly atop the Northern Division standings of the Eastern Carolina Community College Conference today.

Well, actually, they are in a tie with Beaufort, the only team that has managed to take a win from them in the loop. But this in itself is surprising.

Coach Bob Turner, who is sending the program at Pitt Tech into its second year, has only one starter back from that first year team, forward Angelo Hooker.

"The rest of the players are all first year men," Turner said. "But despite our lack of experience, at this stage it has been no problem. We're playing real well together and have come along and are in good shape."

Joining Hooker, 5-11, on the court are center Johnny Barber, 6-3; forward Eddie Stokes, 6-3, and guard Les Saunders, 6-0.

The other guard position is still unsettled with Jerry Johnson, 5-11, and Earl Arrington, 5-8, battling for it.

Turner feels his top reserves are Ernest Knight, 6-4, and James Maye, 5-9.

"We are shorter than about everyone we play," Turner said. "But we play tall. We have height in Knight and in Ronald Lee, 6-5, but neither of them are starters."

The Techmen haven't been beaten off the boards often, despite their lack of height. "Only Wayne has outbounded us," Turner said. Stokes is the leading rebounder, but gets good help from Barber and Hooker, according to Turner.

But at the same time, Pitt Tech hasn't been able to become a running team. "We clear the boards all right, but our height doesn't allow us to spring the ball free like we need to for the fast break," Turner said. So Pitt sticks with set patterns, usually running off a double post.

The team speed is also not very good, the coach feels. "We're rather slow," he said.

Defense has been one point that has bothered Turner. "We try to go with a 1-2-2 zone if we are playing a big team, and man-to-man if they're more our size. I'd prefer the man-to-man, but even then, we are still weak. Offense is what is doing the job for us."

Pitt has been scoring a lot, an average of over 80 points per game, but the defense has been giving up almost as much.

"We look to Stokes, Hooker and Saunders to be our big guns," Turner said. Stokes is leading the team with about a 25-point average, while Hooker is around 15 and Saunders, 13.

"I feel real good about our chances in the division," Turner said. "It's between us and Beaufort, and we've already played each other and split. Most likely we'll end up in a tie and have to play it off." The winner goes into a one-game playoff with the Southern Division champ for the overall title.

"We should win the rest of our conference games," Turner said. "I'd like to see our defense improve some however. Then we might be able to really go."

Currently, Pitt Tech holds a 5-3 overall mark and is 4-1 in the conference, prior to last night's game with Edgecombe.

Pitt Defeats Edgecombe Five

TARBORO — Pitt Technical Institute captured its fifth Northern Division Community College conference victory last night with a 108-93 win over Edgecombe Technical Institute.

Pitt Tech, now 5-1 in the loop, streaked away in the opening minutes of play and worked up as much as a 12-point lead. Late in the half, they went to their bench, and with the subs in, Edgecombe managed to fight back and cut the halftime margin down to just one, 46-45.

But in the second half, the regulars returned to the floor, and shot-down Edgecombe's hopes for any upset. They rushed out to a 20-point lead in the first part of the half, and held that lead midway through the period.

After that, the reserves returned for Pitt Tech, and Edgecombe was able to cut it back to the 15-point final margin.

Eddie Stokes led Pitt Tech with 31 points, while James Maye had 18, Angelo Hooker put in 16, and Leslie Saunders got 13. Edgecombe was paced by J. Cherry with 36, while Pitt had 23, Knight had 16 and Cherry had 12.

Pitt Tech plays host to Wilson on Monday.

Track Star Chi Cheng Selected As Female Athlete Of The Year

By KAROL STONGER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "Twinkle, twinkle little star" was one of the few English phrases Chi Cheng could say when she came to this country seven years ago. Twinkle she does—except when she gets her dander up before a race. A star she is—so much so that the 26-year-old Taiwan sprinter who cracked four world track records in 1970 far outdistanced nine other competitors to become The Associated Press Female Athlete of the Year.

Miss Chi, who recently was married to her American coach, Vincent Reel, drew 572 votes in a poll of AP sports writers and sports broadcasters, nearly 400 more than Debbie Meyer, the record-smashing teen-age swim star who was the 1969 winner. Behind Miss Meyer, who tallied 176 votes, was Margaret Court of Australia who scored a grand slam in tennis by winning the U.S. Open, Australian Open and Wimbledon, with 154; and professional golfers Kathy Whitworth, 87, and Sandra Haynie, 40.

Others receiving votes were Diane Crump, Martha Wilkinson, Billy Jean King, Yoshimi Mishigawa and Doris Brown.

Miss Chi, the first non-American to win the honor since swimming ace Dawn Fraser of Australia won it in 1962, earned the title in style.

At the Portland, Ore., Rose Festival in June she shattered the outdoor 100-yard world record with a 10 seconds flat clocking and the 220 with a time of 22.7.

In July in Munich, site of the 1972 Olympics, she smashed the 200-meter sprint with a time of 22.4 then went on to Vienna where six days later she wrapped up her fourth world mark, an 11-second flat clocking for the 100 meters.

In addition she holds 11 Asian records and six American marks, the latest in June when she clipped the 440 to 52.5.

The third of seven children of a grocer in Hsin-Chu, a city of 564,000 near Taipei, started her career when she entered high school—first as a high jumper, then as a sprinter.

"I'm really a sprinter," she would say later. "That's what I do best."

It was at the Rome Olympics in 1960—where she finished last in the hurdles—that Reel, assigned by the State Department to coach the Indian team, first saw her.

They met again two years later when Reel, head track-coach at Claremont-Mudd College in California, again was on government assignment, this time as coach of Nationalist China's track team.

So impressed was he with the long, lithe runner that he wrote her government saying she could be better trained in the United States.

Her country agreed to the move and financed her schooling at Cal Poly Pomona where she is majoring in physical education.

It was then that her professional and personal relationship with Reel, 30 years her senior, began to blossom.

"Chi looks like a delicate flower," Reel once said, "but she's as hard as a fortune cookie."

It's her tough side that makes her run. She has to be angry to compete—so angry that she works herself into a real rage before each run. In fact, she and Reel, whom she still addresses as "Coach" play a game called "making Chi mad."

When she's mad, she wins. In 1969, despite a shoulder separation and various leg injuries, Chi lost only one race of 71—to Olympic silver medalist Barbara Ferrell.

In the past two years she has been defeated only two other times—the last coming in December at the Asian games when she collapsed with a painful leg injury while leading the 400-meter.

Both Miss Chi and her husband are now in Claremont where she is continuing her education and recovering from her leg injuries. When informed of the AP honor, the 5-foot-7½, 135-pound dark-haired beauty expressed surprise even though she called 1970 her best year yet in track. "But I hope it's not the best in my life," she added.

She plans to start training again in February when "the muscles in my legs are completely healed" and hopes to compete again by the end of April. Her biggest goal, though is the 1972 Olympics. When you spread yourself on three or four, you may end up with nothing because everyone running in the Olympics is so good."

Coke Grabs Top In City League

Coca-Cola stood along at the top of the City Basketball League standings last night after taking an 80-67 victory over previously unbeaten Coffman's. In the other games, Big Value Discount of Farmville won its first, downing winless College View, 101-46, while Book Exchange rolled to an 83-46 win over Hallow's Distributing.

Coke now is the long unbeaten in the league with a 4-0 record. Coffman's and the Book Exchange are both 3-1, while Hallow's and Farmville are both 1-3, and College View is 0-4.

During the first half of play, Coke and Coffman's played it basket-for-basket as the two worked up a 38-38 deadlock at halftime. But in the second half, Coke began to pull away, eventually outthit Coffman's, 42-29, to win going away.

Jim Modlin led Coke with 32 points, while John Turner had 18 and Wayne Hardee had 10. For Coffman's, Gene Rackley and Bruce Tucker each had 17, and Joe Gaddis had 14.

In the second game, Big Value got just about all it needed in the first half, as it raced to a 44-17 lead by intermission. In the second half, they kept it up, outthitting College View, 57-29.

Ed Evans led Big Value with 20, while Tom Wainwright had 16, Dixon Sauls 15, Everette Cameron had 13, Charles Purvis had 12, and John Briley had 11. Leonard Earp led College View with 18 and Rudy Peeden added 10.

In the night's final game, Book Exchange pushed out into a 38-21 lead in the first half. They then outthit Hallow's, 47-25, down to the wire to pull into a tie for second place.

John Hardison led the Exchange with 24, while Dickie Allen had 16, Greg Holmes had 15 and Charles Whitehurst had 11. Tony Whitehurst had 19 to pace Hallow's.

Wolfpack Nips Duke; Cavs Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The home court has turned out to be a jinx rather than an advantage in the Duke and North Carolina State basketball series.

The N.C. Wolfpack hit on all seven attempts from the free throw line in the last two minutes to defeat Duke 93-89 at Dume, in Durham, N.C., Wednesday night.

Last year, Duke won at State, 77-76, and State won at Duke, 71-69.

The Wolfpack has played three conference games this year, and lost the one at home, to Wake Forest, while winning the two away, at Maryland and Duke.

This was the first conference game of the season at home for the Duke Blue Devils, who now have a 1-4 conference mark.

Duke and N.C. State will play at State in Raleigh on Feb. 24.

In Wednesday night's only other game involving Atlantic Coast Conference teams, home team Virginia staved off a Wake Forest rush to beat the Deacons 86-81.

Clemson is at North Carolina in tonight's only game.

N. C. State led Duke 43-35 at halftime. State had five players in double figures, with Ed Leftwich and Rick Holdt scoring 18 apiece and Al Heartley 16. The Blue Devils, with four men in double figures, were led by Rich Katherman, who had 21, and Jeff Dawson, who had 20.

A Wake Forest rally closed its disadvantage to only 84-81 with eight seconds left. But Cavalier forward Billy Gerry took a long pass for a layup at the buzzer.

Wake Forest now has an 8-5 overall mark, and the five loss-

Freddie In Crash

FORSYTH, Ga. (AP) — A head-on collision on an interstate highway has killed one man and injured race driver Fred Lorenzen and his father.

Killed in the wreck early Wednesday was Dexter Whitmore Hill, 32, of Atlanta.

The Georgia State Patrol said Hill was driving the wrong way on Interstate 75 at the time of the accident shortly after 1 a.m.

Lorenzen, of Elmhurst, Ill., who was driving the other car, was treated for numerous cuts and bruises but was not hospitalized. He said he was treated for about four hours, and has 100 stitches on his face and other parts of his body.

Fred Lorenzen Sr., suffered a fractured hip and cuts about the face.

A spokesman at a Macon, Ga., hospital, said the elder Lorenzen probably will be hospitalized for about two months.

Paul Lowinwirth, 16, national juvenile 500 meters kayak champion, won two firsts, two seconds and two thirds in the nationals, juvenile class, at Hanover, N.H. last summer.

Nobody Will Listen To Engineer's Idea For Rockets

By BILL EAST
Winston-Salem
Sentinel Writer
For Associated Press
WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — W. C. Lowe, a mechanical and development engineer here, has an idea that he believes might save the U. S. government billions of dollars annually and give the nation continued superiority in rocket capacity.

He says he has solved the age-old problem of launching an elongated projectile from a smooth bore gun without inducing tumbling action. But he said having a difficult — if not an impossible time getting anyone in authority to listen to him. "It's exasperating," he said Wednesday. Lowe's idea is highly technical. It has to do with the way rockets are fired or launched. Lowe can take a pencil and paper and explain the smooth-bore type of launch, even to a layman, but that's as far as he can get. He has a sheaf of correspondence from some of the most knowledgeable people in the rocket field in the country, but they merely say politely, "No, thanks."

found that lack of stability of the missile at gun muzzle when launched from a smooth-bore tube was the factor that retarded development of this method of operation. Lowe said that sometime after 1957, the U. S. government, in a joint operation with the Canadian government, funded $40 million for research to discover a satisfactory method of launching missiles from a smooth-bore gun. The project was carried out at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., and at Duke University, N.C. He said that a news release from the Defense Department in 1963 indicated success in the idea and "a fantastic reduction in the cost of long-range missiles. Their method was to use mechanical aids to stabilize missiles as they were separated from the smooth-bore gun."

invited to Aberdeen Proving Ground in 1965 to explain his ideas. There, he said, he was shown a film of the type of smooth-bore launch gun he was advocating. But he declined at that time — since he did not have a recent security clearance — to become involved in a discussion of the principles involved in the operation. He turned instead to see if the rocket industry would have use for his idea in its research and development. Firms building rockets declined to become involved in discussions with Lowe, primarily he said, because the idea is not patented and they fear legal complications. Lowe is not interested in patenting it until he secures help from either the government or from private industry to develop it. Lowe said he has received clearance from the Army to offer his idea to private industry, and that he seeks no personal gain from it. But right now, no one will listen to him.

Speaker Of House Can't Talk Politics In Britain

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
LONDON (UPI)—There's a job going in Britain worth more than $20,000 a year. And someone is going to have to be dragged by force to take it. The job is that of speaker of the House of Commons. It's worth 8,500 pounds ($20,400) a year — 4,000 pounds ($9,600) of it tax free. With it goes a palatial rent-free apartment in the House of Parliament Building overlooking the River Thames, with three dining rooms, several drawing rooms, a library and enough bedrooms to sleep a squad of foot soldiers. The man who takes the job can hold it for life or until he decides to quit. When he does so, he is certain to be rewarded with a peerage.

he is expected to put up a token show of resistance. Two other members of Parliament taken him by each arm and drag him to the speaker's chair. First Commoner in Land By tradition, the speaker of the House of Commons is the first commoner in the land. His rights, privileges and authority are without rival. He remains in office for the duration of the Parliament in which he was elected and usually is re-elected almost automatically until he dies or resigns, regardless of government shifts.

Once he accepts the job of speaker, he ceases to be a party man. His symbol of authority is the great mace, which is carried before him when he enters or leaves the house. In addition to presiding over debates, and ruling on procedure, his duties include reading addresses from the sovereign to the House of Commons and delivering addresses from the commons to the sovereign. After all, he is the official guardian of the rights and privileges of the House of Commons.

He became interested in rockets in the 1950s as the United States got into the business. "I maintained a curiosity as to why rockets were not launched from guns to take advantage of the vast improvement in efficiency that would be accomplished by operating the reaction motor only at high velocity," he said. "In 1957-60 during the period of many failures in the U. S. satellite program, I investigated the problem of launching missiles from guns, I

Claims Growth Of 'Satanism'

But there is one big drawback. From the moment he accepts the position, he is condemned to have no political opinions. As the speaker, he is the one man in Parliament who normally cannot speak. The House of Commons elects a new speaker Jan. 12 to replace Dr. Horace King, 69, who announced his resignation just before the Christmas recess. By tradition the majority party in the House of Commons provides the speaker. So King's successor will be a member of the governing Conservative party. The Conservative government and leaders of the Labor party opposition agreed some weeks ago on Selwyn Lloyd, 66, who was foreign secretary from 1955-60 and chancellor of the exchequer from 1960-62 and who held many other jobs in Conservative party governments. When the speaker is elected, Escape into Power "What I am saying is that Satanism is a social phenomenon, understandable in a social reference. It's an escape into power by the powerless and the small—people who feel a need for a big brother. "God is becoming distant. It is hard to relate to God. Satan is a more immediate symbol ... Satan represents the earthy, carnal, materialistic delights." Lyons said of the 20,000 Satanists in the United States, most living in urban areas, nearly half belong to an organization headed by Anton Lavey of San Francisco. The rest belong to small cults, with usually not more than 30 members. The black mass—the antithesis of the Roman Catholic mass and followed by sexual orgy—is not practiced in the United States today, Lyons said. "It is still being done in France, Spain and Italy," he said, "but here it is passe. The rituals performed by our young people are not anti-Christian. They seem to feel that if it doesn't work forward, why should it work backwards." Lyons says there are levels of seriousness within the Satanic movement—ranging from those with true religious fervor to those playing games. Some sex-oriented cults, he says, are "simply looking for an excuse, any excuse, for an orgy."

Determined Wife Stops Bulldozer

BIRKENHEAD, England (AP) — Furious Terence Round swept a four-ton bulldozer towards his in-laws' house, determined to flatten his relatives as well as his wife. Along the way he smashed two offices. But before he could add the house to his list, he was confronted by his even more determined wife. "It's the most courageous thing I've seen in my life," he said of his wife after collecting a two-year jail term in a Cheshire court.

He figured "any movement which has grown from nothing to 20,000 members in five years has to have some significance." Seem Dangerous He considers some Satanists "very dangerous men"—so dangerous, in fact, that he doesn't name names in his book, which traces devil cults from their beginnings in 6th-Century Persia. "I didn't want to corner anyone," he explained in an interview. He compiled a list of names and facts, however, in case anything happened to him after the book was published. "Most Satanists aren't any wierder than some other contemporary groups," he said. "They hold down jobs and they are normal in every respect until you try to talk to them about their religion." "We live in restless and violent times," Lyons said. "Historically, Satanism always emerges in transition periods. The devil is the symbol of change.

Job Outlook Is Depressing For Many With Ph.D

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The uncertainty of the job market has a new meaning for Ph.D's these days: Prospects Highly Depressing.

In almost every field, jobs are scarce for the hundreds who have studied four to eight years for a doctorate, once an all but certain ticket to academic or professional success. And educators say the forecast for the next decade looks bleak.

"Jobs are tight now and going to remain tight," said Robert L. Farrell, planning officer at the Smithsonian Institution and co-author of an article on the economics and financing of American higher education.

Colleges and universities, citing increasing financial burdens and cutbacks in federal funds for scientific research, are dropping research projects and cutting the curricula.

Nancy Clancy, who has charge of the American Historical Association's professional register, said she has 245 jobs listed by 175 schools, compared to last year's 403 jobs by 197 schools, a number then considered low.

However, not all areas of history feel the pinch. While there are too many historian specializing in Modern Europe and the United States, said Mrs. Clancy, there are jobs available in African and Asian history.

According to U.S. Office of Education statistics, the number of Ph.D's awarded annually has tripled in the last 10 years—from 9,829 during the 1959-60 school year to 29,300 in 1969-70.

The Cooperative College Registry in Washington, a placement service for college teachers, reports the number of Ph.D candidates is up 25 per cent over last year and the number of job vacancies is down 25 per cent.

As of the first week in January, the Registry had 3,742 Ph.D registrants for 399 vacancies. These figures include people who have jobs and are looking for better ones, as well as those who are entering the job market for the first time.

Educators report it is most difficult to get jobs in English, history, philosophy, political and religious studies.

"The fields easiest to fill are in math, sociology, anthropology and psychology," said Mrs. Ruth A. Armstrong, head of the office of teacher placement at Yale Graduate School.

Demand for Ph.D's also exceeds the supply in astronomy, earth sciences, some areas of biology and some medical sciences, but these are relatively small fields.

Mrs. Armstrong said Yale had dropped geographic preferences from its registration cards for job applicants. "One interesting consequence of all this," she said, "is that people who have wanted to stay on the east or west coasts will find they have to go to the Midwest to find work. This is good in a sociological way. It's spreading the talent, attitudes and customs across the country."

Another effect is that many Ph.D's will take jobs at junior and community colleges instead of the more prestigious four-year institutions.

The profusion of Ph.D's was forecast almost six years ago by Dr. Allan M. Carter, chancellor of New York University, in an article written for the American Statistical Association.

"No one believed it then,"

Carter said. "I wish they had listened."

"Now I'm worried about their personal discouragement. When most of them started working for their degrees six and seven years ago, the job market was much different. Now a much larger proportion of them will be taking jobs as a stop-gap, hoping something better will come along. Very frequently, it doesn't."

In a recent paper on scientific trends for 1970-85, Dr. Carter said, "We have created a graduate education and research establishment in American universities that is about 30 to 50 per cent larger than we shall effectively use in the 1970's and early 1980's, and the growth process continues in many sectors. The readjustment to the real demands of the next 15 years is bound to be painful."

Spring Wedding For Rockefeller

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Winthrop Paul Rockefeller, son of former Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, and his fiancée, Miss Deborah Sage, have tentatively set their wedding for late spring or early summer.

The couple who announced their engagement Sunday, told a news conference Wednesday they wanted a small family wedding, "but just my family alone could amount to 500 people," Rockefeller said with a chuckle.

Rockefeller said the wedding would take place in Arkansas, Connecticut or Williamsburg, Va. He said he would continue his education and the couple will live at the Rockefeller farm near Morrilton, Ark.

Suspend Store's ABC Permit

The State ABC Board has suspended a permit issued to Jonah Reese for Reese's Grocery, 410 West 14th St. for 30 days, effective January 25.

The suspension was ordered at the board's January 11 meeting in Raleigh.

The action was taken, the State board reported because "the permittee, through his employee, did permit and allow beer to be removed from the retail licensed premises during illegal hours on Sunday, July 5, at 11:02 a.m."

WINTER RAPIDS

Tough, maneuverable kayaks now make possible a type of sport—winter rapids shooting—which calls for the same kind of daring as mountain climbing, sailing the high seas or soaring in a sailplane. These boats take the paddler out into swift mountain torrents for an exciting contest with nature, a confrontation with new challenges.

The photographs on this Picture Show page were made on a winter outing undertaken by the Canoeing Club of Chur, in the Swiss Alps. The participants, a well-knit team, had carefully planned this voyage along the raging stream through an enchanted realm of rock and ice.

The rapids shooters of Chur carry on their daredevil hobby by themselves without any audience. And they continue their runs all through winter—when the untamed rivers seem to be at their wildest and when all else is frozen and still above the thunder of the water.

Hint Vote Violations

WHITEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — Testimony has indicated election violations in the South Lees Precinct, the smallest of Columbus County's 26 voting districts. A handwriting expert had told a public hearing that the signatures of the Republican and Democratic election judges were forged but that of Mrs. Alma Ward, the registrar in the precinct, was genuine. The hearing was called by the state Board of Elections. It is looking into charges of voting irregularities in the Nov. 3 race between incumbent Democrat Rep. Arthur Williamson of Columbus County and Republican Thomas Harrelson of Brunswick County. The official count left them tied with 5,452 votes each in the race for the State House from the 13th District. Because Mrs. Ward would not testify without an attorney Wednesday, another session was set for today. There was testimony Wednesday, second day of the hearing, that 200 county ballots were issued to Mrs. Ward but only 168 were returned to the elections board.

WINTER DRIVING
NEW YORK (AP) — Safe winter driving requires additional space between you and the car ahead—at least double the normal distance, according to Kennametal Inc., a manufacturer of tire studs. A rule-of-thumb distance is one car length for every 10 miles per hour on clear, dry pavement. Make it at least two car lengths for every 10 miles per hour on wet pavement and three lengths on snow and ice.

Opening lead: Five of ♠
A partnership misunderstanding turned out to be a blessing in disguise when South attained a top score on today's hand—taken from a recent tournament. South was all prepared to open the bidding with three no trump when East unexpectedly put in a one heart bid ahead of him. Several of the players who held the South hand overcalled with three no trump anyway, however they met with a very unsatisfactory fate when East turned up with two club stoppers. The result was usually a two trick defeat. At the table where the bidding proceeded as depicted in the diagram, South was suspicious that his opponent was trying to draw a red herring across his trail. He decided to make a takeout double in order to secure some information. When North dutifully responded with two diamonds, however, South was still not satisfied. He now cue bid the opponent's suit in order to force another call from his partner. North felt he had done his duty, however, and he passed two hearts. West opened the five of hearts and, after South recovered from the shock of having been left in his "cue bid," he proceeded nevertheless to win the first 10 tricks. East's jack of hearts forced out the ace, and declarer cashed the top two clubs and led a third round. When West discarded, South ruffed with dummy's six of hearts. A successful diamond finesse followed and declarer played the ace, dropping East's king. Inasmuch as every suit was responding so favorably, declarer decided to cash his spades next. When both honors survived the test, South followed up by ruffing a fourth round of clubs, as East helplessly followed suit. With nine tricks in, declarer now led a diamond from dummy and East was unable to prevent his opponent from scoring with the ten of hearts. The defense found themselves restricted to a mere three trump tricks on the deal.

Will Propose Extra Beer-Selling Time

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina drinkers would have an extra hour and a half for that last beer under a proposal prepared for introduction in the legislature. In a special report presented to Gov. Bob Scott Wednesday, the Alcoholic Beverage Study Commission recommended that the cutoff time on beer and wine sales be extended from 11:45 p. m. to 1 a. m. and the time for on-premise consumption be extended from midnight to 1:30 a. m. Edward C. Sneed of Wilmington, chairman of the nine-member commission, told Scott, "We have tried to follow the task set out before us, which was to straighten out existing laws, not write new ones." Sneed claimed the report contains "nothing controversial" and said it should be ready for introduction to the 1971 General Assembly today. He urged Scott to get the bill introduced "before people start tampering with the old laws."

Worry Clinic End The Cause Of Alcoholism

Norman's case can be aided greatly by the splendid work of "A.A." But his wife can do even more good if she will restore Norman's sex ego to par. For "A.A." is comparable to insulin in treating diabetes. Insulin never cures diabetes but merely is a day-to-day palliative. Abnormal sex fears or desires are the basic cause of alcoholism! drunkards who now become helpful chaperones of current addicts. But its members admit they never are able to "cure" the alcoholic, so the victims are always in danger of falling off the water wagon if they even taste another sip of liquor. "A.A." thus compares with insulin, which is also not a cure of diabetes but merely a daily means of keeping the diabetic in good health with a normal blood sugar level of the blood. Actually, the best way to cure alcoholism is to remove the cause! And the cause of drunkenness is varied, usually consisting of:
"Dr. Crane," his grieving wife began, "what can I do to help my husband break the liquor habit."
"He has joined Alcoholics Anonymous, which did him a lot of good, but he fell off the water wagon again."
"So I am urging him to get active again in A.A. but what else can I do to help him?"

(1) Flight from pain, either physical or psychological. Before ether and chloroform were discovered, we medicated surgical patients drink whiskey to dull the pain of our scalpels. Nowadays, alcoholics are more likely to be fleeing from psychological pain, such as humiliation in the boudoir, or financial inability to support a family, or prolonged anxiety due to dread of cancer, the military draft and possible death in battle. Alcoholism is thus likened to the fire escape from a burning building, except the alcoholic has an inner "burning" from shame, fear or failure. It is obviously unwise to tear down the fire escape in trying to quench a flaming hotel building, isn't it? For victims of such a conflagration may then leap out of the windows to their doom. Whiskey can thus be made so nauseating to the drunkard that he shuns it, for he knows he will vomit because of our medical drugs. But he may then flee from the inner "burning" via LSD or Marijuana or barbiturates or even insanity and suicide. Chronic alcoholism is very likely based on sexual fears, as of premature impotence or sterility (especially in the case of women). So a wife like Norman's can banish his inner torment and restore his sexual assurance, thereby making him immune to alcohol. Remember, neither lower animals nor man will flee from pleasure! Flight, either physical or via drugs and whiskey, usually indicates a painful social situation!

(2) A second reason for chronic alcoholism is to anesthetize conscience. Alcoholics Anonymous is a splendid fraternity of former

Deny Role In Bizarre Plot

POSTS BOND — Eqbal Ahmad, 40, described as a student of revolutionary warfare, leaves the federal building in Chicago Wednesday after posting $60,000 bond. Ahmad is one of six persons indicted in connection with an alleged plot to kidnap presidential advisor Henry Kissinger and blow up heating systems of federal buildings. Classified as a permanent alien, Ahmad is a fellow of the Adlai Stevenson Institute for International Affairs at the University of Chicago. (AP Wirephoto)

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Rev. Philip Berrigan, the imprisoned antiwar priest, and four others have denied they were part of an alleged bomb-kidnap plot, scoring the charges as a government attempt to discredit the antiwar movement.

Berrigan, 47, and five others were indicted Tuesday by a federal grand jury in Harrisburg, Pa., on charges of plotting to kidnap presidential aide Henry Kissinger and to blow up heat tunnels in government buildings.

The grand jury met on the case again Wednesday and Asst. U.S. Atty. Guy Goodwin said one reason for continuing the probe was the possibility that some of those being questioned might become defendants.

Two of the defendants were released on bail after spending a night in jail and three others were held in lieu of $50,000 bond apiece.

Berrigan remained at the federal prison in Danbury, Conn., where he is serving a six-year sentence for destroying draft records in Maryland.

His brother, the Rev. Daniel Berrigan, 49, who is serving a three-year sentence at Danbury on similar charges, was one of seven persons named as co-conspirators in the case but not for

Area Students On Dean's List
LOUISBURG — Two area students have been named to the Dean's List at Louisburg College.

The Dean's List at Louisburg is divided into two categories: Honor Roll, for students who have an average of 3.5 to 4.0 (B plus to A); and Honorable Mention, for students whose average is 3.0 to 3.49 (B).

Local students, both of the Honorable Mention list, are: William Russell Smith, freshman, son of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Smith of 2309 Deal Place, Greenville; and Ella Ann Edwards, freshman, daughter of Mrs. Kathryn Lewis of Pae-tolus.

INDICTED — Robert Carson, a top assistant to Sen. Hiram Fong, R-Hawaii, was indicted Wednesday by a federal grand jury along with two other men on charges of conspiring to attempt to fix a federal probe into alleged securities violations in Manhattan. (AP Wirephoto)
