

Defends Emphasis Given 'Majority'

Scott Avers Budget Meets Needs Of All

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott today defended his proposed $4.3 billion state budget and told the General Assembly it placed primary emphasis on the needs of "all our people" and still provided some salary increases for teachers and other state employees.

Scott told a joint session of the General Assembly in a prepared speech that some basic decisions had to be made at the outset in preparing the budget.

"One such decision was whether our budget should emphasize the well-being of our more than 125,000 dedicated teachers or state employees, or whether our budget should emphasize the continuation and expansion of programs and services to meet the needs of the more than five million men, women and children of North Carolina.

"I chose to place the primary emphasis on all our people, yet providing some increases in salaries for those who serve our citizens," he stated.

"If we had the funds, we would like to accomplish more in services and in salaries for our state employees. We want our teachers to receive the national average salary. It's a worthy goal. Today they average 11.8 per cent below the national average."

Scott's budget calls for a 5 per cent pay increase for teachers and state employees each year of the coming biennium. Spokesman for teachers, who are asking a boost to the national average, have described the proposed increases as "totally inadequate."

Scott said teachers want to be recognized as professional people and for their pay checks to be larger.

"So would other state employees," Scott said. He noted an attorney for the state is paid 18.2 per cent less than the national average, a public health lab technician 10.7 per cent less, a laborer 35 per cent less and a stenographer 12.2 per cent less.

"The per capital income in North Carolina is below the national average," said Scott. "Thus our ability to pay to support higher salaries and the most comprehensive program is less than the national average."

Scott told the lawmakers he strongly believes that for "our federal system to survive local governments must be kept strong, both authoritatively and financially."

"Therefore," he said, "I am recommending more state aid to North Carolina's counties and municipalities than ever before in the history of the state."

This added assistance, he said, totals $60.7 million and would be the equivalent of the money raised by a 7.6 per cent increase in local taxes.

"There are many unmet needs, not included in this budget," Scott said. He listed some of the critical ones as follows:

State matching funds to help support the school lunch program; continuation of the program to assist North Carolina students at Duke and Bowman Gray medical schools; the need to expand benefits for teachers and state employees by purchasing group hospital, medical and major medical insurance; the need of state matching funds in order to receive federal anti-crime funds; the need to expand the state park system and acquire Bald Head Island; the need for more staff to care for patients in our mental institutions; the need to expand the manpower training program and the need to "further strengthen many phases of our educational program."

"If additional funds become available, I hope that you will provide for these and other pressing, unmet needs..." Scott told the legislators.

He said 18 of the 50 states are expecting budget deficits and told the lawmakers to "contrast the plight of these 18 states with North Carolina's healthy economic condition."

The governor noted that his budget calls for $325 million for expanded state services and for building at state institutions. This, he said, is "the largest recommendation ever presented to a North Carolina General Assembly upon its convening."

Scott said his budget calls for a $17 million boost "to meet the increasing costs of caring for our aged, disabled, blind and dependent children with most of the increase going for the rising number of persons eligible for benefits under the aid to families with dependent children program and the increasing costs of medical services for all recipients."

'Budget Disaster' For 25 Counties In Tax Ruling

RALEIGH (AP) — Twenty-five North Carolina counties were faced today with what an attorney termed a budget "disaster" after the State Supreme Court struck down their local option 1 per cent sales tax.

The court said in a 4-3 decision Wednesday the tax was unconstitutional and discriminatory because it was not uniform throughout North Carolina.

State Revenue Commissioner L. L. Clayton said he was notifying the 20,000 merchants in the 25 counties to immediately stop collecting the tax.

"This means disaster for the counties which built their budgets on the basis of having sales tax revenues for this fiscal year," said John Morrissey, general counsel for the North Carolina Association of County Commissioners.

The 25 counties affected by the ruling are Buncombe, Camden, Chowan, Clay, Cumberland, Currituck, Duplin, Durham, Greene, Hertford, Jackson, Jones, Lenoir, Macon, Madison, New Hanover, Onslow, Pamlico, Pasquotank, Perquimans, Richmond, Swain, Tyrrell, Watauga and Wayne.

Veteran State Sen. L. P. McLendon Jr., D-Guilford, said the court ruling "will leave a hole" in the budgets of the counties.

He added the General Assembly will have to "step in and do something to fill the gap."

Morrissey said he did not feel the legislature is in the mood to enact a statewide 1 per cent tax for the counties.

The court ruling came in a suit brought by Hajorca Corp.,

a plumbing fixtures company, against Clayton and Buncombe County.

The state cannot levy a tax in 25 counties and exempt the other 75, the tribunal said in a majority opinion written by Associate Justice Carlisle Higgins.

Under the ruling, Buncombe must return $1,170.14 the Hajorca Corp. has paid in taxes. However, the court did not order the other participating counties to return any money to taxpayers. It was silent on this point.

Feb. 23 Vote Scrapped

Pitt Tax Referendum Dies

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

A North Carolina Supreme Court ruling yesterday — saying the state's local option one-cent sales tax is unconstitutional — poured water on Pitt County's proposed sales tax referendum before county officials could get the fire going for the February 23 vote here.

"Oh yes! It is off," County attorney W. W. Speight said when asked if the Court's ruling would prevent the Pitt referendum from taking place.

The court ruled, by a 4-3 vote, that it is unfair to tax citizens of 25 counties while residents of other counties are exempt. One fourth of the state's 100 counties approved a local one-cent sales tax in 1969 when 99 of the counties voted on whether to add the tax.

The Supreme Court ruling had no effect on the Mecklenburg County one-cent sales tax established under a separate act by the North Carolina General Assembly.

Yesterday's ruling said Buncombe County must return $1,170.14 which the Hajorca Corp. — which filed suit — has paid under the tax. It did not order other participating counties to return any money to taxpayers. "I'm just thankful now that we didn't pass it before," Speight commented.

Other counties which have been receiving funds from the additional one-per-cent tax are operating on budgets based in part on revenues from the tax. With these funds cut off now, at least some of the counties may be hard pressed to meet certain obligations.

For example, officials in Jones County said without the sales tax revenue, that county may be unable to build a new school building to replace one destroyed by fire.

Speight explained that Pitt, if it had approved the tax in 1969, could be receiving about $1 million a year.

"What a problem it would be..." he said, if the county's budget was based on receiving this revenue or if the county "... had to pay it back."

"Just think how lucky we are we didn't pass it before. The attorney added: "We hope we can ... move through the legislature to make the tax statewide. I believe that would be constitutional."

Yesterday's ruling by the court said in part: "A sovereign state, as one of its insurance attributes, has the power of taxation, which must be exercised by its legislative branch. The county is not a sovereign, and hence does not have the inherent power to levy taxes. A county must derive its taxing power from the State Constitution or from the state's legislative enactments..." It added, "... the conclusion (Continued on page 6)

N.Y. Welfare Provided Suite At The Waldorf

NEW YORK (AP) — Three city welfare employees have been suspended on orders from an irate Mayor John V. Lindsay for placing a Brooklyn welfare mother and her four children in two rooms at the posh Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

Lindsay called for a full investigation Wednesday upon learning that the family was in a $70-a-night suite. He said in a statement that the incident "may well have had a malicious intent."

The mother, Cleola Hainsworth, moved to a friend's apartment after one night in the hotel. Mrs. Hainsworth told newsmen she had not wanted to stay in the Waldorf in the first place.

"I told the welfare people that I would rather go to my girl friend's and that my girl friend was willing to put us up in two rooms for $100 a week. They said a flat, 'No,'" she said.

"And now that's what they've done."

Mrs. Hainsworth and her children had been staying at a Brooklyn hotel where the city paid $166 a week for one big room. They had to move when the hotel became filled with out-of-town guests.

Mrs. Hainsworth said she preferred the Brooklyn hotel: "It was very beautiful. We even had a sun porch. But the children liked the Waldorf more. They thought it was filled with movie stars."

A spokesman for the Waldorf-Astoria said the city had booked the rooms for Mrs. Hainsworth and that the hotel knew it was for a welfare family.

"We don't have any reason not to take a person who can pay and is well-behaved," he said. "So far as the hotel is concerned the rooms are paid up until checkout time tomorrow and the family can remain until then."

But when word of the incident leaked out, a city welfare investigator arrived and hastily escorted the family out Wednesday evening.

Reports Growth Of First Federal At 34th Annual Meet

First Federal Savings and Loan Association, at its 34th Annual meeting Wednesday night, reported total assets of $21,557,853.40, an increase of 11 and a half per cent over the previous year.

Judge Dink James, chairman of the board, served as chairman for the annual session and C. B. Tugwell, president, presented an annual report to shareholders.

Tugwell reported a savings balance increase during the year of $1,638,000, representing an increase of nine and a half per cent.

The president told shareholders that a record dividend totaling $905,586.87 was paid during the year to 6,910 account holders.

In general, Tugwell said, 1970 was "very satisfactory year for this institution." He pointed out that last spring the Federal Reserve Board adopted a policy of easier money and as a consequence, savings inflows began to accelerate.

During the latter half of the year, he continued, new savings deposits had increased to a point where there were, for the first time in several years, ample funds to meet demands from the local mortgage market.

Tugwell asserted that if savings flows remain at present levels, "this provides promise of continued improvement in the housing and mortgage markets in 1971."

George Coffman, John F. Minges and Alton Barrett were re-elected to the board of directors for three year terms during the meeting.

At the board meeting following the annual session, Judge James was re-elected chairman of the board and Tugwell was re-elected president.

Other officers who were re-elected included Roscoe L. King, vice president; Robert S. Messner, secretary-treasurer; William Earl Stocks, assistant vice president; and Inda W. Wingate, assistant loan officer.

Tate Jury Still Is Deliberating

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The jury in the Sharon Tate murder trial continues today the deliberations begun by the seven-man, five-woman panel last Friday.

The jurors met Wednesday without making further requests for information from the court. There was no indication whether they were close to reaching a verdict in the seven-month trial.

Out Of Order

Greenville Fire Chief Ray Smith said today that the city's fire alarm system is out of order and anyone needing to report a fire or calling for the rescue squad may dial 752-3116.

Chief Smith said the alarm system was damaged by the ice storm. Lines, he said, were broken in many places, and are in the process of being repaired.

He said repairs to the system hopefully will be completed in the next few days.

Speakers for the three day meeting of the NCPA Press Institute include Stewart Udall, for U.S. Secretary of the Interior, Frank Batten, publisher of the Norfolk newspapers, and Derick Daniels, executive editor of the Detroit Free Press.

Vandals Win

The recreational program at the C. M. Eppes Gymnasium, which has been sponsored jointly by the Recreation Commission and the Boys' Club since early last summer, has been suspended indefinitely because of vandalism causing excessive damage to the boiler room equipment.

The decision to suspend the program, one which has been attended by approximately 4,000 persons each month since it began operating, followed a joint meeting of Boyd Lee, Recreation Director; J. Richard Ullom, Boys' Club Director; Dr. Clet C. Cleetwood, superintendent of the Greenville City Schools; and members of the school board.

Lee noted damage to the boiler is the latest of a series of problems in maintenance and upkeep of the building and equipment since the cooperative program began. Despite efforts to safeguard the building and equipment, Lee observed the building has been subject to persistent vandalism. Also, equipment for recreational activities has been damaged or stolen.

It is the hope of the various agencies that arrangements can be worked out in the future to allow continuation of the program under modified conditions. Alternatives are now being studied to ultimately restore the full program.

For the time being, the facility at C. M. Eppes is closed and has been placed off-limits to all persons.

JAMES R. HORNE, JR.

James R. Horne, Jr. of Charlotte, has been selected for the post of executive director of the Pitt County Development Commission, Corey Stokes, chairman, announced this morning. His election was effected at the meeting of the Commission Wednesday evening.

Annual Sessions Bills Presented In Both Houses

RALEIGH (AP) — Democrats and Republicans are asking the North Carolina General Assembly to approve annual legislative sessions.

Rep. Allen Barbee, D-Nash, and Sen. Marshall Rauch, D-Gaston, introduced annual sessions bills in both houses of the legislature Wednesday.

"I think most members of the General Assembly agree we have to do something in the way of annual sessions or continuing committees instead of waiting a year and a half to take care of state business," Barbee said.

The bill introduced by the democratic legislators differs from a Republican bill introduced Tuesday in that the Democratic bill would limit the length of annual session to 90 days.

Barbee led the battle for annual sessions two years ago when the bill passed the house and died in the Senate.

In other action Wednesday, the legislature reviewed bills dealing with auto liability, obscenity, teacher sick leave and American prisoners of war in North Vietnam.

Today the House and Senate were to meet in joint session at 12:30 p.m. to hear Gov. Bob Scott's annual budget message.

Sen. David Flaherty, R-Caldwell, introduced three bills which would abolish the state's compulsory auto liability insurance laws and change the state's rate setting procedures so that insurance companies could set their liability rates competitively.

Sen. Jyles Coggins, D-Wake, introduced a bill to make it unlawful to "intentionally disseminate obscenity in any public place." The bill would make it a felony to disseminate such material to minors, and a misdemeanor in other cases.

A bill to reduce from 21 to 18 the age at which persons are responsible for their contracts and eligible to sue and be sued was introduced by Rep. James C. Johnson Jr. R-Cabarrus.

"I don't think it would be fair to let them vote and not be liable for their contracts," Johnson said. "If we did that, we would be setting up a privilege class."

Rep. Jeter L. Haynes, R-Yadkin sponsored a measure to increase teachers' sick leave from five to nine days, and Republicans in both houses introduced resolutions expressing concern for the treatment of American prisoners of war in North Vietnam.

Mom Needs Lesson In 'Public Speaking'

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1971 by Charles Scribner's Sons, Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I usually agree with you, but not this time. You said, "the old lady must be off her rocker," because she wanted her married son to come to see her alone some time so just the two of them could talk without the daughter in law being present.

Did it ever occur to you that the mother and son might like to visit by themselves? I have three married sons and I rarely have a chance to talk to them alone. Their wives stick to them like glue every minute, and there are some things (strictly family matters) that I don't want to discuss in front of their wives.

Why can't daughters in law realize this and get lost once in a while when they visit their in-laws with their husbands?

PHILADELPHIAN

DEAR PHILADELPHIAN: I fully understand that mothers (and fathers, too) may want to have a private word with their married children, but in the case you mentioned, the mother (in hiding good-by to her son and his wife) loudly said to her son, so that both could hear, "Next time, come alone so we can talk!"

Now that wasn't very nice, was it? The lady had to be unbelievably unkind, incredibly insensitive, or she wasn't playing with a full deck.

DEAR ABBY: I am a single girl of 26 who has been in love with a married man of 60 for eight years. His wife pays no attention to him, but she refuses to give him a divorce. He has told me he would marry me if he were free, but I shouldn't waste any more of my good years on him.

I love him, Abby, and have decided that even if he cannot marry me, I will continue to love him. Now he is telling me to forget him because there is no future in our love. I can't forget him. He has even suggested that I find a younger man. I don't want a younger man. What advice have you for me?

SAO PAULO LOVE

DEAR LOVE: One does not "forget" on command. Neither does one "stop loving" on command. Just make sure it is "love" and not an eight-year habit. When a man tells a woman to find a "younger man" it could mean that he would prefer an older woman.

DEAR ABBY: Are you a man? I can't believe that you're a woman the way you put all that stuff in your column from mistresses and "other women" warning the wife to always be Johnny on the spot whenever her husband decides he wants a little loving.

I have been married for 22 years and have seven kids, and I have never said no to my husband, no matter how I felt, but it doesn't mean a thing.

A wife can be clean and decent and willing, but all men are alike. Just let some good-looking gal come around and show a little interest in him, and he's ready, willing and able.

She's Plumber, Carpenter, The Four-Day Work Week Is Spreading And Versatile Repairwoman

HAYFIELD, Minn. (AP) — tackled a job she couldn't complete. There lives near Hayfield a plumber-carpenter-cement worker and all-around repair expert who, at age 70, is thinking about slipping into retirement. She's a woman, Mrs. Mary Eckland, and she admits with honest pride that she's never Valley, Minn., 12 years ago. "I sanded the whole outside with an electric sander and re-finished it on the outside, re-sealed it and painted it," she recalls. "Inside, I lowered ceilings, and redid all the interior areas."

The dwelling lacked a basement when the Ecklands bought it. They had the excavating done with heavy equipment and the couple finished the job. "I carried the blocks, mixed the cement and leveled them off and then smoothed them off," Mrs. Eckland recalled. "My husband laid them and then I finished them off."

Mrs. Eckland built the kitchen cupboards for the house. She said she got started at the crafts 33 years ago when "a lady asked me to paper for her, and I papered."

Then it was painting. Then it was laying carpet, then paneling, then putting up ceiling tile. Recently she's been doing a major plumbing job at the Arlington home of a sister. She installed a new bathtub, stool and sink, built in all the items and also built a vanity.

Before that she did all the finishing work on a new funeral chapel at Hayfield.

Her husband, 79, is mechanically inclined but Mrs. Eckland says she does all the repair and remodeling work at home.

"I do it alone, every darn bit of it!" she says. She added that her husband tinkers with lawnmowers.

For the work she has done for others, Mrs. Eckland says, she generally has been paid too much. Even so, she says, the biggest reward she has received is praise for a job well done.

She'd like to taper off, doing work only for her sisters, but she says "It's just so darn hard to turn your friends and neighbors down."

By BETTY YARMON
NEW YORK (WNS) — Sooner than you think, you may be working a four-day week — but without losing a day's pay.

That's the considered opinion of Mrs. Riva Poor, a management consultant in Cambridge, Mass., who recently became fascinated by the idea after reading a reference to a company that was working a four-day, 40-hour work schedule.

She decided to look further into the matter, learned that drivers of fuel oil and gasoline delivery trucks at most of the major oil companies had been on a four-day schedule for 30 years, then uncovered three dozen other companies that were giving their employees a three-day weekend.

She has put her findings into a new book titled, "4 Days, 40 Hours," which is creating a stir in management circles and may itself encourage other businesses to try the idea.

Mrs. Poor found that employees in companies that had instituted the 4-40 routine were almost unanimously happy over the change, with men more pleased than women, probably because women spend more of their leisure time doing housework.

Personal Business

It's the long weekend feature, of course, that appeals to most of the workers. They enjoy the extra time it gives them with their families, the opportunity to have a weekday on which they can conduct such personal business as going to the bank or keeping a doctor's appointment, and the time for greater involvement in travel, sports, or just puttering around the house.

They chalk up certain money benefits too. They save on commuting one day a week (this is apart from the saved wear-and-tear by traveling at off hours), moonlighting is easier where looked for and hence more profitable, and women find they can save on babysitter fees and the need for other hired help around the house.

On the other hand, some families have found that more leisure provides greater opportunity to spend money, usually on recreation and weekend trips, in such a way as to put a burden on the family's finances. Some families, spurred by their new leisure, for example, actually have bought expensive vacation homes they could ill afford.

It's not difficult, then, to understand the pleasure workers take in 4-40 since they are getting a three-day weekend without having to suffer a pay cut. But how about management? According to Mrs. Poor, most companies are just as enthusiastic although she did come across a few that went back to a five-day work week when 4-40 didn't work out.

Employer Benefits
The benefits reported by employers include lower production costs, improvement in output, easier recruitment of new employees, better use of capital equipment, and less tardiness and absenteeism. Some have saved on fifth-day expenses such as heat and electricity.

It is interesting that those trying out the 4-40 idea have not been restricted either by geographic location or by type of business. The companies uncovered by Mrs. Poor were quite varied, with 5 to 3,500 employees, and located in just about every section of the country. Among the three dozen were manufacturers, architects, engineers, publishers, data processors, retailers, and companies in fast food.

They show other variations as well. While most restrict the four-day work week to Monday through Thursday, some operate seven days a week but have their employees on four-day shifts, and one Los Angeles tire retailer keeps open Thursday through Sunday, apparently the best days of the week for tire sales.

Where will it all lead us? Mrs. Poor predicts that today's new 4-day, 40-hour schedule simply heralds an even shorter work week. She reminds us that unions already are pushing for a 4-day, 32 hour work week by 1974, and that in time may bring on a three-day work week, and so on.

The long-range trend has always been toward an ever shorter work week, of course. Meanwhile we're getting an increasing taste of things to come through the scrambling of the work hours getting to be known as "4-40."

Dr. Herbert Hadley, Lawrence and Charles Davenport prepared the oysters over outdoor fires in the yard of the club building located on the Tar River.

Approximately 100 people were present for the event. The oysters were served under an enclosed shelter.

The club has been open three months and each weekend entertains its members. Included in the events have been a limbo and dance demonstrations by students of dance at ECU. Guitarists have also been featured.

Real Bargain In Rural Firemen

The $600,000 in fire damages reported for Pitt County by former Fire Marshal Mike Worthington for 1970 is a large future.

However, when it is noted that the more than 500 fires in the county threatened an estimated $2,551,928 in property we see that a good job of protecting property is being done by our rural fire departments.

On a percentage basis we see that of the property exposed to fire, the losses amounted to 19.3 percent, while 80.7 percent was saved.

The significant thing about this report is that only a few years back there would have been no record of the number of fires in the county. There was no county wide fire reporting system and no fire marshal's office.

A few years before that there were large areas of the county where the residents had no place to turn when fire broke out at their homes or buildings. There was no system of volunteer fire departments blanketing the county.

Now there are 17 rural departments throughout Pitt County. Last year they answered a total of 548 calls in protecting the property of individuals and businesses throughout the county. The numbers of calls per department ranged from 61 at Winterville to the ten calls answered by Simpson.

Regardless of the share of calls, however, each of these departments did an outstanding job of protecting the property of their friends and neighbors. The firemen spent many hours training and they are ready and eager to jump out of bed in the middle of the night to answer a fire call.

Pitt County has a bargain in this system of rural departments which now covers the entire county. There is no way to determine how many buildings would have been completely destroyed by fire if the system had not been in existence. Nor can we tell how many other buildings would have caught fire if the firemen had not protected them.

We have come far in rural firefighting in Pitt County. It has required a lot of effort and cooperation on the part of a lot of people.

Bowles Plans An Amendment

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH. — North Carolina legislators early in the past century never thought of laws to protect the woods and streams they crossed on the way to Raleigh.

"Our forefathers probably cursed the environment for the hardships it placed upon them," speculated Senator Hargrove Bowles, Jr., of Guilford. "They had no way to foresee the pollution crisis we are in today."

The result is that the fundamental law, the State Constitution, makes no mention of environmental protection and conservation of natural resources as obligations of government.

Now is the time to remedy that lack, in Bowles' view, and he's ready to do so with a Constitutional amendment which he will sponsor in the current General Assembly.

Both on '72 Ballot? If all goes well for Bowles and the amendment, they may go before the voters together.

A change in the Constitution must be approved by the people, and if the amendment wins legislative approval it likely will be submitted in the 1972 general election. That's when the race for next Governor will be decided, and lots of folks think Bowles an apt prospect for the Democratic nomination.

For the time being, the Greensboro businessman is occupied with his third term in the legislature. As for further political plans, he said, "I'll take a look at that when the session is over."

It's settled among political observers that Bowles has serious intentions about the race for governor. His Senate performance will be followed closely for clues to the platform and style he would give to a campaign.

Two After Same Prize A developing drama in the upper chamber is the presence of Bowles and Lieutenant Governor Pat Taylor, the presiding officer. Taylor also is a prospective contender for the Democratic nomination for governor.

As the session goes along, will it find the two sparring for advantage in next spring's party primary, particularly in alliances with legislators influential with back-home voters? Thus far, cordiality prevails.

In making committee assignments, Taylor named Bowles chairman of a new committee on State Policies and Planning. Some interpreted it as a put-down for Bowles, but the Lieutenant Governor insisted it would be a committee handling meaningful legislation.

"I'm perfectly happy with my assignments," Bowles commented.

It's not impossible, of course, that the committee could handle the environmental Constitutional amendment since it deals with state policy.

Bowles has been active rounding up support for the amendment over past months. It has won favor among conservationists and others concerned with protection of the environment, including a high-level state government committee on the subject headed by C & D Director Roy Sowers.

The importance, Bowles explained, is that there be a legal basis for actions taken by state and local governments to combat pollution. At the moment, the absence of a Constitutional mandate throws a cloud over governmental activity in the area.

Public Policy Fixed The amendment would declare conservation and protection of the environment to be a public policy of the state. The General Assembly would be directed to adequately provide for abatement of air, water and noise pollution; for protection of agricultural lands, wetlands, estuarine areas and shorelines; and for the development and regulation of water resources. Further, the legislature would be empowered to acquire and preserve for the people scenic and wilderness areas.

Other Senators who have expressed interest in the amendment will be given the opportunity to join in its sponsorship. Bowles, debonair enough to wear easily the nickname of "Skipper" at 51, came into state government in the administration of former Governor Terry Sanford. He put his business background to work as head of the Con-

Drop In Prime Rates Will Reach Consumers

The latest in a series of reductions in the prime lending rates has brought them down to six percent. This, of course, should mean lower interest rates for the borrowing public.

The prime rate reached a high of 8½ percent at one time. The experts tell us that the slide is due to a growing availability of money.

The drop will be of benefit to the man who needs to borrow money for home ownership or for consumer goods and this is part of the reason that business observers see better times ahead. For the individual, however, it may mean that the time is at hand when he can purchase the home he needs, or other items which require large investments.

Sowers Eyeing No. 2 Spot?

By JOHN KILGO
RALEIGH — Politicians are buzzing with news about Roy Sowers Jr., the director of the State's Department of Conservation and Development.

An eastern legislator, who knows Sowers well, says: "Roy has pulled in his horns and has forgotten about the Governor's race for 1972. He's going to be a candidate for lieutenant governor."

Sowers, of course, has been mentioned prominently as a candidate for Governor in '72. Long-time, close friend of Gov. Bob Scott, Sowers has tested the political atmosphere for several months to determine his chances of winning in a gubernatorial primary, against such horses as Pat Taylor, Skipper Bowles and Robert Morgan.

The 42-year-old Sanford businessman isn't talking much about his political future. "I hope I'm doing a good job with C & D," Sowers said. "I work for Gov. Scott and if I started talking about running for this or that in 1972, I would be doing the Governor and the state a disservice."

We tried to pin down the reports that Sowers has indeed made at least tentative plans to run for the number two spot on the State ticket in 1972.

First, in taking readings on the Governor's race, and having worked in Scott's 1968 campaign, Sowers knows the cost of running for the State's highest office is close to $2 million.

"It's getting completely out of hand when a man has to spend that kind of money to run," Sowers said. "The people might be electing a public relations image rather than a man. Winning is the name of the game, but it's so darned expensive that a poor man like ... well, I won't finish that, something might happen."

"I suspect there will be course, that a man of moderate means such as himself can't run without the help of people who can lay their hands on big sums of money.

Second, Sower—who served six years on the Sanford City Council—knows his name isn't exactly a household word in North Carolina. Some of those men mentioned for Governor—Taylor, Bowles, and Morgan—not only are better known than Sowers, but have a huge headstart in getting ready for a campaign.

Sowers could overcome the identity problem by serving four years as the State's lieutenant governor. Gov. Scott has asked the legislature to make the lieutenant governor's position fulltime, something that Sowers undoubtedly agrees with.

"I suspect that will be plenty of patriots willing to run for Governor by the time 1972 gets here," Sowers says. "Pat (Taylor) and Skipper (Bowles) are the only two men actively running now, but there'll be more in coming months. Bob Morgan has done a tremendous job as attorney general, but I hear his name mentioned more for the U. S. Senate than I do for Governor."

Sowers says his job as director of C&D indicates to him "that North Carolina is way ahead of other Southern states in economic development and the environmental question. Industry knows that we're committed to protecting our environment and the industry

Strength For Today

INFINITY One concept which the human mind cannot grasp is that of infinity.

Take, for example, just one aspect of infinity—endless space. Most people cannot really visualize our earth in its entirety—cannot imagine a sphere twenty-five thousand miles in circumference, of which the farthest horizon they can see represents only a tiny fraction. Still fewer people can visualize the immense oceans of space in which the earth floats, surrounded by other planets and stars. And what is beyond the farthest of them? More space, perhaps. And what beyond that? Our minds simply cannot imagine something without a limiting boundary—and then, what is beyond the boundary? The truth is, as any wise man knows, that the human mind is limited. There are many subjects which we simply cannot fully understand. One of these is God. Some people say that they do not believe in God or in religion because they cannot understand such ideas. What folly! The universe is full of things that not even the wisest philosopher or scientist understands. We do not even understand fully how we come to be alive in it. Should we then refuse to believe that we are here?

We cannot even comprehend infinity of space—how much less, the infinity of God. That is where faith comes in.

'Class Action' Zealots

SAN FRANCISCO — Jack Cade and his brother rebels, dreaming in Henry VI of the power they would seize, prepared a bloody agenda: "The first thing we do, let's kill all the lawyers." Metaphorically speaking, Lewis K. Uhler is thinking along the same lines. Uhler is director of the California State Office of Economic Opportunity. He has just released a voluminous report supporting Gov. Reagan's veto of a $1.8 million federal grant to sustain the OEO program known as California Rural Legal Assistance (CRLA). Uhler has taken a long and jaundiced look at the young legal lions who staff this outfit. He could cheerfully strangle them all. The Uhler report figures to be a big gun on Reagan's side in the governor's high noon shootout with the Nixon administration and the whole liberal establishment. While the story is of primary interest here and now, it has large political implications for 1972; and the controversy tells us something of OEO operations across the nation. The CRLA program was created by the OEO five years ago as part of an effort to make legal services available to poverty-stricken families in rural areas. It has since become the largest such program in the nation, with headquarters here in San Francisco and nine regional offices across the state. The CRLA employs at least 44 attorneys, most of them young and all of them breathing fire.

Other Editors Say Hold Pat Hand

(Rocky Mount Telegram) A story that was little noted last week may prove to be one of the most significant in some time. Talks between Western nations' oil companies and leaders of the producing nations, mostly in the Middle East, broke up in disagreement, and that breakup poses a threat to Western oil supplies.

A communique from the Organization for Petroleum Exporting Countries said the meeting had been fruitless. It claimed the oil companies had refused to negotiate and must "bear the consequences."

Those "consequences" could be of an extremely serious nature for nations of the Western world which heavily depend upon oil from the Middle and Near East.

It is hoped, as was hinted after the meeting, that the whole thing had been a misunderstanding. A spokesman of the Western world oil companies insisted that the group sent to Iran where the talks were held was only a fact-finding mission and had no power to actually negotiate any oil deals.

The mission's aim was to pave the way for negotiations on the oil price question and to find out what Iran and Persian Gulf states wanted. But apparently leaders of the Arab countries thought the mission should negotiate terms. They hinted at "retaliatory" measures. A meeting of Arab leaders tomorrow will decide whether Arabian oil will be cut off the Western markets.

Some observers doubt this will happen, since it is believed such a policy would boomerang. The reason is that the oil producing nations would be unable to find a comparable market elsewhere. Some 85 percent of the non-Communist world's oil supplies come from the 10 member nations in the Organization for Petroleum Exporting Countries.

But it gives one the shudders to think what might happen if these oil producing nations did decide, at some time, to cut off oil to the Western world. They are holding, in the jargon of the gambler, a pat hand, and it's a royal flush to boot.

By ELMER ROESSNER Remember that Cargo Cult on that South Sea island? The natives became convinced that a big ship would come across the ocean filled with everything they could want for years. And to make sure that the cargo would come, the native invited Lyndon B. Johnson to become their ruler.

In the year or so since (Mr. Johnson did not take the job), the Cargo Cult has flourished in America. Almost everybody believes that a huge ship will come sailing in, bringing all the wealth needed for the good things of life. And they are hoping that one Richard Milhous Nixon will become the high priest of this religion and invoke almost supernatural powers to send the great ship in with wealth for all.

The governors of almost every state and the mayors of most large cities are spinning motorized prayer wheels, supplicating the great powers in Washington for money with which to run their states and cities. Otherwise, they pray, they will become bankrupt.

Of Which There Is No End Heads of welfare organizations are mumbling their prayers beseeching Father Nixon and the Saints in Congress to increase their millions to help them support the poor.

Cargo Cult college administrators are praying for more money for their institutions. The minorities and their friends are counting their beads in prayer for more funds for their education, for business loans, for housing, for bigger food stamps.

The prayers of the Wall Street Temple of the Cargo Cult have already been answered. A cargo ship is already on the way with $5 million in money to insure investors in the stock market. So have the prayers of the Penn Central Basilica, which is getting a shipment of $200 million to pull it out of bankruptcy. And more cargoes to come are in its prayers.

And the Chapels in the Sky of the Cargo Cult are sending down prayers for cargoes of money and fare rises that will smooth out their mistakes in buying bigger planes than they can fill profitably. Howard Hughes's Air West, incidentally, will receive a subsidy of $8.8 million a year. His cargo boat came in last week.

At Saint Briny's Church of the Deep they are praying for more subsidies for American flag ships so that they can compete with other American ships registered under foreign flags.

And you, whoever you are, are probably a clandestine member of the Cargo Cult, facing Washington five times a day in supplication of more money for yourself, your business, your children, your city and on and on. Have faith and good lobbyists and you may get it!

Cargo Cultism did not begin in the South Pacific. It began here in the United States, with cargoes for farmers, the oil industry, the unemployed, the lazy, the corporations, the utilities, the aged, the buyers of tax-exempt bonds, hospitals and for almost all the people.

And whence the money with which the priests of government load these cargo ships? Why, from almost all the people, of course.

Lawmaker Reminds Pitt Has A Lot At Stake

By REF. H. HORTON
ROUNTREE

As the 1971 session of the North Carolina General Assembly convened in Raleigh last Wednesday, January 13, it occurred to me that a report of legislative activities as they relate directly to Pitt County might be beneficial to those I represent. With this in mind, I will make a weekly report to you.

The first three days of the current session have naturally been spent in organizing the House and Senate. Although a near-record number of bills have been introduced, no real work can be done until committee assignments have been made. It is anticipated that committee appointments in both houses will be completed early this week.

Many stories and commentaries in the news media have discussed the issues facing this legislature, and I will not repeat those discussions here. However, Pitt County has a lot at stake in certain of those issues, and I would like to comment on some of those which I think are important.

Money is always important, both how it is to be spent and where it will come from. Funding for the Walter B. Jones Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center, a vocational rehabilitation center, and the medical school and other programs at East Carolina University immediately come to mind as being vital appropriations which are unique to Pitt County, and which will affect a large number of our citizens in one way or another.

However, of equal importance will be the source of the revenues to continue funding these programs. Removal of the crown tax on soft drinks has been mentioned as one of the money issues facing the General Assembly, with the companion problem of finding revenue to replace that tax. There is the possibility that the effort will be

Kilpatrick . . .

The little guy, for whom these benevolent legal services are intended, gets submerged in bureaucratic seas and overwhelmed by ideological ties. The pattern that surfaces in Uhler's report is of an agency not so much concerned with protecting some poor devil in trouble as it is with torpedoing the whole structure of rural community life.

It thus appears that the federally funded CRLA has become virtually of counsel to the United Farmworkers Organizing Committee. The CRLA's lawyers turn up at UFWOC rallies. At the El Centro office, CRLA funds are used to purchase poster board for making ticket placards. And a poor woman who is sued by the UFWOC for daring to oppose Cesar Chavez gets a cold shoulder when she seeks legal help from CRLA.

The young lions of this OEO outfit are incessantly on the prowl for class-action clients. Sometimes, as in Lake County, they sue first and line up the clients later.

Their object seldom is to settle grievances quietly; they would rather make a rude noise in court. Uhler cites a dozen examples of CRLA suits having small purpose apart from fomenting community strife.

These passionate advocates, in brief, are not "people lawyers." They have become "movement lawyers," ideologically bluejeaned and barefooted. Their client is "la causa," whatever la causa happens to be.

Reagan is right, it seems to me, in demanding that this overblown outfit be collapsed, in favor of a less grandiloquent and more effective program of legal aid to the poor. Such a service is genuinely needed, and, in a nation dedicated to equal justice under law, it ought to be provided. But I am ready to believe that OEO has failed to provide it here.

made to increase the tax on cigarettes to replace that lost on bottled drinks. As your representative, I would have to fight any further taxing of our largest farm crop.

As the population shifts in our state, shown by the results of the 1970 census, the center of influence moves more to the Piedmont, economically and politically. Rather than the old east-west struggle for supremacy however, the struggle is really city-country. By 1980, experts predict that North Carolina will no longer be an agricultural state, that more than 50 percent of our people will live in cities.

This urban-rural shift will be reflected in the representation of the North Carolina General Assembly. The problems of the agricultural east, the tobacco farmer, the small towns, the regional universities will be solved (or not solved!) by city folks.

Congressional redistricting and legislative reapportionment therefore, as accomplished by

The guest speaker joined Wachovia in 1960 as an insurance agent in the Winston-Salem office and in 1968 became manager of the Insurance Division of Wachovia Mortgage Loan. Vest became vice president of the agency in 1970. He holds a B.S. degree from East Tennessee and a M. A. degree from George Peabody College for Teachers.

Tonight's winner of the DSA will be submitted as Greenville's nominee in the state-wide competition. Local men who have also won the state award are W. M. (Booger) Scales Jr., Dr. Ed Clement and C. Eugene Prescott.

Charge 3 In Basketball Affray

FARMVILLE — Three teenaged boys have been charged with assault on an officer and trespassing following an affray at a basketball game here Tuesday night.

An argument and some bottle-throwing during the first half of a game between H. B. Sugg and D. H. Conley Schools resulted in the game's being discontinued at halftime, according to County School Supt. Arthur Alford.

Farmville Police Chief Brooks Oakley identified those arrested as Leroy Station, James R. Smith, and Ronnie Sheppard, all of Greenville. He said Smith was in the Pitt County Jail this morning, but Station and Sheppard have been released on $500 bond each.

He emphasized that the incident was not a racial matter, that it appeared that all the participants were black. No gun was taken from Cpl. Sammy Smith, the arresting officer, as has been reported, he said. However, a walkie-talkie radio was lost during this time, he added.

Supt. Alford reported that a meeting held at the county school office last night to discuss the incident was attended by persons from Conley, Sugg, and by county school observers. He said, "We plan to deal within the schools with every person who threw a bottle or participated in any way. However, we hope to emphasize that the participants were few and the trouble was limited. The game was discontinued just as a precaution. Persons from outside of both schools seem to have instigated the incident."

Pitt Tax . . .

seems inescapable that the State of North Carolina and not Buncombe County levied the sales tax and use tax involved in this action. The levy is discriminatory in that it required the plaintiff to pay the tax involved and it exempts his competitor in a county which votes against the tax. Uniformity is required. No provision is made for partial uniformity."

Although the court ordered Buncombe County to refund tax to the Hajoca Corp., a plumbing fixtures company, many of the officials believe other counties would not be required to refund tax—money unless suit was brought by individual merchants. And in such event, the merchants would be required to refund the taxes to their customers.

County manager H. R. Gray, in commenting on the Supreme Court action, said "I'd hate to be in the position of counties that prepared budgets on the estimated revenue . . . from the tax. It's really going to put them in a terrific financial bind situation."

He expressed the hope " . . . that the legislature does do something to assist local government . . . counties and cities as well . . . in their economic plight. The Legislature can do it if they will."

And he said, "It appears to me the Legislature will have to do something to help the counties in this situation . . . and soon . . . find some other new of revenue."

Telephone Co. To Make Extended Service Study

FARMVILLE — A study is to be made by Carolina Telephone to determine if Extended Area Service between Farmville and Greenville, as well as between Farmville and Fountain, would be a reasonable undertaking.

Don Collier, local manager for the company, pointed out that Extended Area Service provides for completing calls between two exchanges without a long distance charge. Historically, the calling rate between two exchanges increases considerably when Extended Area Service is initiated. The cost of providing this service requires an adjustment of local rates to offset the increased investment.

The costs as indicated by the study will be submitted to the North Carolina Utilities Commission for its consideration. If approved, the Commission would grant the company permission to poll the customers involved to determine if they are willing to accept the adjusted local rates required. The studies involve considerably detailed work and require several months to complete.

Collier said that there have been some inquiries from Snow Hill telephone customers for Farmville - Snow Hill Extended Area Service. "However, there has not been sufficient interest from that area to justify a study on this particular group at this time."

A breakfast for men of the local chapter will be held Saturday morning at 8 o'clock in the Flynn Home located at 408 South Pitt Street.

Phillips Expects Busing Money

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP) — North Carolina's top school official said today he is confident the General Assembly will provide funds to transport all city school children now that the State Supreme Court has cleared the issue.

Dr. Craig Phillips, state school superintendent, said "it would create considerable difficulty and hardship" if the legislature failed to appropriate state funds to bus all city children to school.

The Supreme Court ruled Wednesday that state funds could be legally used to bus city children as well as pupils in rural communities.

The question arose last August when a three-judge federal court ruled that equal facilities, including busing, must be made available to all children.

North Carolina has been providing buses since the start of the 1970-71 school year for thousands of pupils living in municipalities.

In the past, however, free transportation was provided only for those children living in areas annexed by cities since February, 1967.

The federal court said in effect that if busing is available for any city school children, it should be provided for all.

Opponents of court-ordered desegregation in some North Carolina school systems had regarded the case as a possible barrier for any integration that would have required cross-town busing.

The State Supreme Court ruling would have no effect on desegregation plans, said Andrew J. Vanore, an assistant state attorney general who represented the state Board of Education before the court.

"Court-ordered desegregation plans would stand—regardless," Vanore said. "No buses only means that students have to find their own way to assigned schools."

Vanore said the case cannot be appealed to federal court since no constitutional issue is involved.

The Supreme Court noted that as a result of the 1969 federal court ruling, "a number of school boards had to decide whether to discontinue the transportation of about 41,000 children living in areas which had been annexed since February, 1967, or to transport approximately $7,000 more."

The court added, "The state board was faced with the problem of allocating the appropriation for the school year 1970-71, which was inadequate to provide this additional transportation."

The Department of Public Instruction extended its busing program to all children by using funds originally set up for rural children. This was authorized by Gov. Bob Scott and the Advisory Budget Commission.

Transportation funds will be exhausted by late March or early April, Phillips said. He added he does not know how much money would be needed to continue the program through the remainder of the school term.

The Supreme Court ruling came on a suit filed by three Forsyth County residents, J. O. Styers, R. C. Pfaff and Robert

G. Schultz. In his State of the State message last week, Gov. Scott asked the legislature to clarify North Carolina's position on busing and decide if it would provide funds necessary to continue the transportation. Phillips has asked for more than $3 million to continue the busing during the 1971-73 biennium.

New Bern's Schools Idle

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP) — All schools in New Bern remained closed for the third straight day today following racial scuffling at the high school.

The city school board will hold a public meeting tonight to discuss a reopening date. About 100 white persons met Wednesday night and drafted a list of demands which they will present to the board.

The board met again with white and black representatives Wednesday.

Scuffling broke out at Senior High last Friday after black pupils celebrated the 42nd birthday of the late civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr.

Last Monday there was a further squabble after white pupils sought to mark Robert E. Lee's birthday.

Other schools in the city were closed as a precaution. The Craven County schools have remained open.

Tar Heels To Defrost

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

North Carolina began to defrost today after record cold.

The extremely cold arctic air mass that dropped southward out of central Canada has moderated considerably. This large high pressure system was centered in Florida at forenoon today. And warmer southwesterly winds prevail over the eastern third of the nation.

It also will be considerably warmer in the state Friday, with a chance of showers in the mountains.

The highs were expected to be in the 50s, this afternoon and 10 degrees warmer Friday.

It also will be windy both days.

Temperatures will continue on the mild side through Sunday. A return to cooler readings is predicted early next week.

ECU Joins In Summer Baseball League

Woody's Ramblin's

By WOODY PEELE

The announcement yesterday of the formation of the College Summer League for this area will be another big boost to baseball.

The idea for the league is another one of those from Dr. Leo Jenkins, president of East Carolina University. Now it is up to the university to see that these plans can be followed through.

First in priority is the completion of the baseball facility at East Carolina University.

The field was complete in 1965, and every year since then, lights for night baseball has been promised. Although there has been no official announcement yet, word is out in Greenville that this will be the year.

It is imperative that it be done this year, if the summer baseball program is to go. East Carolina cannot play during the afternoon in such a program, and Guy Smith Stadium will not be available to them. Therefore they must have their own field.

The plans supposedly have been made to finish the job this year. But there are many people here who have heard the story year after year, "We'll light the field this year." But year after year, there have been no lights installed.

And a lot of people, this writer included, are beginning to feel like Missourians, "Show me!"

The idea for the summer league was Dr. Jenkins'. How ironic it would be if East Carolina would not be able to participate because of the lack of a proper facility.

East Carolina's baseball team this year (during the regular season) is expected to be the strongest ever. Nearly everyone off last year's Southern Conference championship team is back, and the Bucs are clear favorites to snap that "odd-year" jinx that has plagued them since 1864.

But the jinx may take on new form this year. In the past, the Southern Conference champion has always received an automatic berth into the NCAA Regionals in Gastonia, along with the Atlantic Coast Conference team. The Southeastern Conference never applied for an automatic berth when the regionals were established, but traditionally their champion has always been invited, along with one major independent.

But last year, Clemson Coach Bill Wilhelm, then chairman of the District 3 Baseball Committee, recommended, behind the back of the Southern, that the conference have its automatic berth withdrawn. "The conference isn't good enough on the regional level," was Wilhelm's reasoning.

ECU Coach Earl Smith and Conference Commissioner Lloyd Jordan fought the proposal, but after a year of postponement, the conference has received word that it will no longer be given an automatic invitation. The Southern must compete with all other schools in the south, except for the ACC champion, for the right to enter the playoffs.

As in the past, the Southeastern, champ will be given a bid, whether "automatic" or not, and so will always tough Florida State unless things are greatly altered.

The Bucs must thus have an outstanding season to offset records posted by other schools throughout the district to have a chance. Just winning the title is no longer enough.

Farmville Is Mat Winner

DUDLEY — Farmville High School romped over Southern Wayne yesterday in a wrestling match, 55-3.

The Red Devils took every match but one, losing that one on a 10-7 decision. The other matches all went to Farmville by pins except for two forfeits.

The victory evened Farmville's record at 4-4 for the season. Their next match is Wednesday against Northern Nash on the Knight's mat.

Summary:

- 100: Ronnie Moore (F) pinned Beard, 0:56.
- 107: James Gorham (F) won by forfeit.
- 114: Ricky Bundy (F) pinned Williams, 1:38.
- 121: Charles Rose (F) pinned Carlton, 1:37.
- 128: Jody Joyner (F) pinned Kemp, 2:39.
- 134: Gene Reel (F) pinned Henderson, 1:39.
- 140: Danny Moore (F) pinned

Vernon, 4:33.
147: Bizzell (SW) decisioned Glenn Dwyer, 40-7.
157: Larry Horne (F) won by forfeit.

169: Carlos Moore (F) pinned Wilson, 1:22.
187: Jackie Eason (F) pinned Fox, 2:40.

Unlimited: Roger Eason (F) pinned Kilpatrick, 2:52.

Jacksonville's Ernie Fleming (23) and Furman's Steve Cockrum (12) may be stepping together but they danced to different tunes as sixth ranked Jacksonville won 94-60 Wednesday and

Pro Bowl Game May Have More Emotion

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP)—There are strong indications, including the words of Jim Otto and the vote for team captains on the American Conference All-Star squad, that Sunday's Pro Bowl will have one element the Super Bowl lacked—the deep emotion of the old AFL-NFL rivalry.

"The majority of the players on the American Conference team are from the old AFL," said Otto, an 11-year veteran who goes back to the AFL's beginning. "So from that standpoint, it's almost like AFL versus NFL."

That fact would seem to be underscored by the selection of captains for the game in which 40-man squads from the AFC and NFC will tangle Sunday at 1 p.m. PST in the final contest of pro football's first season under its new two-conference structure.

In the vote for captains Wednesday, the AFC players, with 32 representatives from old AFL teams, selected a quintet of former AFLers as their leaders—Otto; quarterback Daryle Lamonica and cornerback Willie Brown from Oakland, and linebacker Willie Lanier and defensive end Jerry Mays from Kansas City.

Left on the outside were the eight players from the three teams that joined the 10 AL clubs in the AFC this season, including linebacker Mike Curtis, defensive end Bubba Smith and safety Jerry Logan from the Super Bowl champion Baltimore Colts.

But then this game, as Otto sees it, means more to those whose talent was decided in the early years of the AFL than to any newcomers.

"We're all here to play for one purpose—to make the AFC a winner," Otto explained. "But the old AFL player probably will be playing with a pride he wouldn't have if he was a rookie. It's not that we're not happy to have Baltimore, Cleveland and Pittsburgh as part of us."

"It's just that this is the big one for the Willie Browns, the Johnny Robinsons, the Walt Sweeneys—the game we wanted for some time. For those of us who played in the AFL All-Star game this is a long awaited game. I wouldn't think it's the same on the NFC side."

"Every year, after I played in the AFL All-Star game and would go around to banquets, people would ask if the AFL had a Pro Bowl. You hear enough of that kind of thing and you get tired of it."

Mays, however, doesn't feel the AFL-NFL factor as deeply as he thought he would, and he cites the NFL orientation of the Dallas-Baltimore Super Bowl as a major reason.

He said, "The rivalry seems to be fading faster than I thought it would, particularly because there were two NFL teams in the Super Bowl."

Coach John Madden of the Raiders, meanwhile, hears what Otto and Mays has said and offers this perspective:

"These players are all here because they are great and they are great because they have pride in being great... Their own pride is more dominant than the league thing. But I have to say it is still a factor."

The number of outstanding players is unquestioned, including all the offensive statistical leaders in the two conferences—passers John Brodie of San Francisco, NFC, and Lamonica, AFC; rushers Larry Brown, of Washington, NFC, and Floyd Little of Denver, AFC; and receivers Dick Gordon of Chicago,

Louisburg, Carolina, Wilmington Are Others

East Carolina University yesterday became one of four charter members in a newly formed collegiate summer baseball league that could become a national prototype.

The League, the North Carolina Collegiate Baseball League, will also include Louisburg, UNC-Wilmington, and the University of North Carolina.

The organizational meeting of the league was held yesterday in Chapel Hill, with Orville Campbell, representing UNC elected as president of the organization. Other officers included David Daniel of Louisburg as vice-president; Dr. Calvin Doss of UNC-W as secretary, and Dr. James Tucker of East Carolina as treasurer.

League play will begin on June 15, and continue through August 10, after which the two top teams will engage in a best-of-three series for the championship.

The purpose of the new league is to upgrade college baseball programs in the state, to motivate the youth baseball programs in the state, from Little League on up, by providing something to which young players may aspire, and to provide wholesome family type recreation for students and residents of the college communities and the region.

Founders of the league stressed that it is not trying to substitute or compete with other amateur programs but to supplement them.

It was noted that the league has been approved by the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA).

Each school will select an 18-man squad, drawing from eligible players. These must be students at the member school who have eligibility for the 1971 year, or who will have it during 1972. They must either be enrolled in summer school at their respective institution or be furnished employment in the community.

The following year, during the 1972 season, it is hoped that no one who has completed his career may be used, as will be the case this year. "We wanted to be sure to get enough good players this first year," a spokesman said.

The teams will play a 33-game schedule, starting on June 15, and running on Tuesdays, Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays through mid-August. Rained out games will be made up as soon as possible.

The games will include five home and five away games with each team. The final, 11th game, will be played at the home site of the team with the better record at the time.

East Carolina's opening game, on June 15, will be played in Chapel Hill against the Tar Heels.

The Pirates also hope to play their games on their home field at night, except for Sunday, when some games will be in the afternoon. "It will be almost impossible to schedule afternoon games since some of these players will have jobs," ECU Sports Information Director John Montague said. He noted that the university is studying plans for lighting the field.

While the league will operate with four teams this year, it is hoped that additional teams will join next year. These include N.C. State, High Point, Campbell, and Pembroke. Eventually, it is hoped that the league will have two eight team divisions and will involve most of the schools in the state.

It is expected too that the NCAA will be closely watching the results of the league's first year. "There was a lot of talk in Houston last week (during the NCAA meeting) about extending the regular baseball season into the summer," Montague said. "This might show whether it is practical or not."

The four schools involved also feel that the program will help them in their recruiting, since they will be giving college students the chance to complete their college education in three years, by attending summer school, and by playing some 65 baseball games a year.

Pro baseball will probably also be watching for the outcome, since this could be valuable for them too. The professionals have already complained about the high cost of the farm system, and this could be one way that promising players could get a lot of experience without signing pro contracts.

In addition to the 33 regular season games, the league has already been approached by the U.S. Olympic Baseball Committee regarding the possibility of a series of exhibition games with the Pam American Olympic Baseball Team in late June. Other outside competition is also approved.

Pitt Tech In Rally To Win

AHOSKIE — Pitt Tech won its fourth straight game last night, downing Roanoke-Chowan Tech, 100-94. It was the fourth time in a row the Techmen have reached the 100-point mark.

It almost turned out to be a loss, however, and Pitt Tech had trouble all the way, trailing most of the time. Roanoke-Chowan jumped out into a 9-0 lead and held the lead throughout the first half. They led by as much as 12 points during the period, and were in front, 47-40 at the half.

In the second half, it stayed that way during the first 10 minutes of play. Then, midway through, Pitt went to three reserves, Ernest Knight, Earl Arrington and James May, who sparked a comeback and finally helped to tie it a 82-82. Pitt then built up an eight point lead a 98-90, and held on for the win.

Eddie Stokes led Pitt with 38 points, while Angelo Hooker poured in 32.

For Roanoke-Chowan, Wynn had 27, Arther had 25 and Weaver had 21.

Pitt is now 7-1 in the conference and 8-3 overall.

Their next game will be a home contest Monday against King's Business College.

Even Joe Williams Doesn't Know Coke, Exchange Hold City Lead

How do you handle a 7-foot-2 basketball player? Very carefully.

That's what some teams have been doing this year against Artis Gilmore and sixth-ranked Jacksonville — playing a slower, more deliberate style.

Furman was extra careful, too, Wednesday night. But it didn't help.

Gilmore owned the territory around the basket, as usual, and Jacksonville flied away Furman 94-60 to spoil a "homecoming" for former Dolphin Coach Joe Williams.

Williams was the architect of Jacksonville's rags-to-riches story, culminating his efforts with the runner-up spot in last year's NCAA championships.

Penn shrugged off an atrocious 25 per cent shooting average in the first half that left the Quakers trailing 22-19. Bob Morse's 20-foot jumper gave the winners the lead early in the second half and they never lost it.

Temple came within one point at 31-30 and within two, 40-38, with 8:46 remaining. But the Quakers then launched a seven-point burst that nailed it.

Ron Thomas' 28 points powered Louisville past Cincinnati 85-72. The winners hit almost half of their field goal attempts and out-rebounded Cincinnati 63-42.

Drake notched the 20th career victory for Coach Maury John with a 130-73 blitz of Missouri-Kansas City. Five Drake players hit 12 or more points, led by Jeff Haliburton's 25. The Bulldogs shot 57 per cent from the field.

Rich Yankus' 30 points fired Georgia Tech to a 74-64 victory over Clemson; Will Robinson drilled in 27 to pace West Virginia over Penn State 71-62; Eastern Kentucky toppled Virginia Tech 86-79 behind George Bryant's 44 points; Rich Lyons and Bill Phillips each scored 20 to lead St. John's N.Y. over Seton Hall 88-70 and Bob Kissame pitched in 21 as Holy Cross stopped Springfield 74-63.

Elsewhere, it was Navy 59, Gettysburg 42; Air Force 83, Kearney State 73; Lafayette 79, American U. 68; Austin Peay 88, Bellarmine 67; Roanoke 96, Virginia Military 73, Akron 71, Buffalo U. 66 and Houston 130, Las Vegas-Nevada 73.

Coca-Cola held off Hallow's Distributors, 68-66, last night to remain tied with Book Exchange in the City Basketball League. The Exchange rolled to a 94-57 victory over College View, while Coffman's beat Big Value Discount of Farmville, 64-51.

Book Exchange and Coke are tied for first with 5-1 records, while Coffman's is third with a 4-2 mark. They are followed by Hallow's and Farmville, both 2-4, while College View had an 0-6 mark.

In the opener, Coffman's edged out into a 27-24 lead in the first half of play. In the second half, they outbit Big Value, 37-27 to take the victory.

Charles Swanner led Coffman's with 16, while Bruce Tucker had 14 and Gene Rackley had 11. Everett Cameron led Farmville with 22 points.

Coke built up a 30-22 lead in the first half of play, then had to hold off a rally by Hallow's to win it. Hallow outscored Coke, 44-38, in the second half, but couldn't pull it out.

John Turner led Coke with 24, while Jim Modlin had 23 and Doyle-Daughtry had 12. For Hallow's, Ted Whitley had 23, Charles Vincent had 20 and David Hahn had 12.

Dick Drago pitched in 35 games in 1970 for the Kansas City Royals, 34 as a starter, but did not make any appearances against either Boston or Cleveland.

In the final game, Book Exchange rolled up a 48-30 lead in the first half and coasted the win. They outbit College View, 46-37 in the final period to win easily.

Greg Holmes poured in 41 points for the Exchange, while Dickie Allen had 23 and John Hardison had 19. Roger Morre had 21, while Phil Ross and Leamond Earp each had 12 for College View.

Leaders Win In Industrial

The top ranked teams all came away with victories in the Industrial Basketball League last night. State Highway dumped WNCT, 78-47, Fieldcrest rolled over Wachovia, 70-39, and National Cash Register beat Vermont American, 61-37.

State Highway and Fieldcrest remained tied for the top with 5-1 records, with NCR right behind at 4-2. Wachovia is now 3-3, while WNCT is 1-5, and Vermont American is 0-6.

State Highway jumped into an early lead and worked up a 34-24 halftime advantage. Then, in the second half, they pulled away, outscoring WNCT, 44-23, to win handily.

Phil Page had 22 points to lead State Highway, while Preston Mills had 18, Lindsay Hardee had 16 and Smith Worthington had 15. Jim Sermons paced WNCT with 28, while Ike Arnold had 13.

In the second game, Fieldcrest doubled Wachovia's production in the first half, 36-18, and had little trouble after that. They outbit the Bankers, 34-21, to win going away.

Louis Williams led Fieldcrest with 28, while Bill Stokes had 15, Walter Claybrook had 12 and Tony Dail had 10. For Wachovia, Jimmy Smith had 19.

Winding up the evening, NCR built up a 10-point spread in the first half of play, 27-17. They continued to pull away in the second half, outbitting Vermont American, 33-20.

Bill Hall led NCR with 28 points, while Allen Witherington had 15. For Vermont American, McGowan had 17 points.

Haywood Rolls In Leading Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Spencer Haywood's battle in the federal courts continues at a standstill ... but he's certainly not standing still on a basketball court.

While the legal hassle continued over his jump from the American Basketball Association to the National Basketball Association, Haywood fired in 23 points and grabbed 18 rebounds to lead Seattle over Atlanta 112-108 in the NBA Wednesday night.

Haywood was playing only hours after the U.S. Court of Appeals sat in San Francisco and the court took his case under advisement. Haywood, the former University of Detroit star, quit a $1.9 million contract with Denver of the ABA earlier this year, sparking the legal arguments.

Atlanta became the 11th straight opponent to protest a Seattle game because of the appearance of Haywood, who is not recognized by the NBA as an official player.

Elsewhere in the NBA Wednesday night, Milwaukee whipped Baltimore 120-116; Buffalo ripped Portland 126-106; Chicago tripped New York 109-103; Boston tamed San Diego 142-112 and Cincinnati defeated Phoenix 126-114.

In the ABA, it was New York

Floridians 106; Carolina 104 and Memphis 120, Denver 103.

Haywood went the full 48 minutes for the first time in the NBA as he sparked an early Seattle lead. Then reserve Barry Clemens and player-coach Lennie Wilkens combined for 21 last-quarter points to stop Atlanta's comeback try.

Lew Alcindor scored 39 points and grabbed 20 rebounds to lead Milwaukee over Baltimore, the 10th straight victory for the Bucks. Alcindor scored four of his points to give Milwaukee a 116-112 lead with 1½ minutes to play, then blocked Wes Unsel's layup attempt with under a minute left.

Buffalo scored the game's first goal and never lost the lead, hitting 18 straight free throws at the start, to beat fellow expansionist Portland.

Chicago wasted most of a 21-point lead, and held off a flurry by New York's Willis Reed and Walt Frazier. Chicago's Jerry Sloan scored 24 points, including three vital field goals in the last half, and had 24 rebounds.

John Havlicek led a blitz of 11 straight points as Boston broke open a close game with San Diego early in the third period and Tom Van Arsdale and Norm Van Lier combined for 66 points for Cincinnati.

Cougars Rally To Get Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Nets, Memphis Pros and Carolina Cougars came back for seconds Wednesday night—second halves, that is—and sent the Floridians, Denver Rockets and Virginia Squires away hungry.

Second-half bursts carried the Nets to a 113-106 victory over the Floridians, the Pros to a 120-103 triumph over the Rockets and the Cougars to a 114-104 win over the Squires in American Basketball Association action.

In the National Basketball Association, it was Milwaukee 120, Baltimore 116; Chicago 109, the New York Knicks 103; Boston 142, San Diego 112; Seattle 112, Atlanta 108; Buffalo 126, Portland 106 and Cincinnati 126, Phoenix 114.

The Nets led the Floridians only 50-47 at the half but pulled away to a 95-90 lead with 6½ minutes left as Rick Barry scored 32 points and Bill Melchioni 25. Mack Calvin had 27 and Larry Jones 25 for the losers.

Memphis outscored Denver 23-

6 after the intermission for an insurmountable 70-49 spread. Steve Jones paced the Pros with 29 points while Larry Cannon had 26 for the Rockets.

Carolina ripped off nine straight points at the start of the fourth quarter and rolled past Virginia. Joe Caldwell was high for the Cougars with 26 points and Charlie Scott netted 24 for the Squires, although he was blanked in the final period.

Blocking Rule Gets A Change

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — The NCAA Football Rules Committee made its first change in offensive blocking in 30 years Wednesday, and chairman John Waldorf warned, "If this doesn't stop the injuries, we'll expand the rule to perhaps banning all below-waist blocking."

The new blocking change prevents what is termed "crack-back" blocking toward the line of scrimmage below the waist in an area within five yards of the present permitted clipping zone.

The permissive clipping area is four yards on each side of the center and three yards on each side of the line of scrimmage.

Although concerned about the rising number of knee injuries, the college football rules makers held their fire on putting in a stiffer measure.

Other rule changes among the 19 passed concerned punts into the end zone and possible shortening of games through mutual consent of the officials and team captains.

Under the new rule a punt that hits in the end zone without touching a player on the receiving team will be returned to the 20-yard line.

There were instances this season where punts hit the end zone and spun back on the field of play.

Under a new rule the referee, with the consent of the two team captains, can shorten the game such as in a runaway score.

Two rules passed involved the shortening of the length of the games. Time outs were trimmed from four to three each half per team. Also, the clock will be stopped after a penalty only until the ball is ready for play.

Other rule changes included:

—When two opposing players catch the ball at the same time, each receiver must have at least one foot in bounds for the simultaneous catch to be ruled. The offensive team gets the ball.

—Position of the ball on the bounce after a fumble or lateral pass will be determined by whether or not the player who recovers has at least one foot in bounds at the time of recovery.

—It is a foul to "spear"—driving one's helmet into any opponent's body. The previous rule made it a foul only when a player speared the man carrying the ball.

—All fouls made behind the line of scrimmage by the defense will result in penalties being walked off from the line of scrimmage, not from the point of the foul.

Laver In 4th Win

NEW YORK (AP) — Rod Laver, with four victories in 14 days, shoots for No. 5 tonight against Arthur Ashe in the Tennis Champions Classic at Madison Square Garden.

"The pressure mounts with each match," says the rocket-slammng Laver, who has whipped Ken Rosewall, Roy Emerson, John Newcombe and Tony Roche thus far in the $210,000 multi-city tournament.

Rosewall takes on Tom Okker in the opener of a doubleheader with Laver meeting Ashe in the nightcap.

Stokes In Win

STOKES — Stokes Junior High School defeated Falkland, 44-40, yesterday, for its first victory in five starts.

Johnny Williams led Stokes with 15 points, while Ricky Harris had 11.

The seating capacity of Philadelphia Veterans Stadium, the Phillies new home, will be the largest in the National League. The figure is 56,371.

Slender Killed

CERVINIA, Italy (AP) — Luis Lopez Solanes, brakeman of Spain's No. 1 bobsled was killed today when his bob went off the track during trials for the World Bobsled Championships in this Italian Alpine resort.

The Spaniard, who competed in a team with driver Eugenio Baturone, suffered fatal internal wounds in hitting a tree after the bob flew off the Blue Lake track for 50 meters.

A spokesman for the Aosta Hospital where Lopez Solanes was taken, said the 27-year-old resident of Huesca died on the ambulance while being rushed from Cervinia to Aosta.

Two Silent Sentinels Mark Old N.C. Battleground

By DON BOLDEN
Burlington Times News Writer
Written for The AP
BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Two granite monuments stand as silent sentinels over a quiet, serene area of Alamance County, reminders of a day 200 years ago when the earth was scorched by gunpowder and discolored with blood.

The sounds there today are of wind whistling through the pines and the voices of school children as they walk over the area now known as the Alamance Battleground.

It is a peaceful place today, and one of beauty, visited by several thousand people each year as a state historic site.

But 200 years ago on this ground North Carolinians took a stand and offered their lives for their rights as citizens in the War of Regulation.

On May 16, 1771, the Regulators met the forces of royal Gov. William Tryon in the Battle of Alamance, climaxing an expedition by Tryon to suppress the uprising.

The battle's 200th anniversary is to be commemorated this year. Tryon led a force of militiamen west from New Bern by way of Hillsborough. On the morning of May 16, the two forces stood eye to eye on the plain southwest of Alamance Creek.

He gave the Regulators an hour to lay down their arms, then he gave the order to fire. A two-hour battle followed, leaving the Regulators broken and scattered. Nine were killed in the Regulator force, and many were wounded. The militia lost nine dead and 61 wounded.

In the aftermath, 12 of the Regulators were tried and convicted of treason. Six later were pardoned, but the others were hanged at Hillsborough.

Tryon later offered clemency to all who would lay down their arms and submit to authority. Within six weeks, 6,409 were listed on the role of those who submitted.

The War of Regulation was ended. The people had risen in protest against unjust government,

Computer's Faster Food

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI)—The impact of the computer has been felt in many areas and now computerization has come to the fast-food business.

A small computerized information system is being tested by two national fast-food chains as a means of computerizing records of sales, cash, inventory, tax and other information needed for business analysis.

The system, developed by Honeywell Inc., also provides customer service at the same time. It uses a mini-computer with an electronic keyboard acting as a super cash register by computed totals, sales tax and the customer's change.

A small printer also keeps tabs on what the customers are eating and after a quick read-out in the home office of the food chain, officials know instantly the re-order needs of the individual shop.

$763,800 Grant For Sea Study

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)—The University of California has received a sea grant institution award of $763,800 from the National Science Foundation for education, training, research and public advisory service in the utilization of the oceans.

As one of two sea grant institutions in California, the university has mapped a far-ranging program to be carried out, including exploring the possibility of harnessing the vast heat of large power plants, now generally considered a pollutant, to create artificial upwelling of deep nutrient-rich waters of the ocean.

Coeds Learning Self-Defense

URBANA, Ill. (AP) — Sixty coeds at the University of Illinois are learning how to turn off aggressive males with a kick, jab, twist of the wrist or icy stare.

George Patrick, an experienced wrestling coach and teacher, has teamed with Mrs. Janet Pirnat, a physical education instructor, to teach the coeds the art of self defense.

They agree that helping coeds become experts who could demolish a 200-pound male is not their real purpose.

especially in the area of taxation. Col. Edmund Fanning was one of those officials against whom protest was directed. He was a symbol of the corruption that existed in the form of extortion, high rents, excessive taxes and other fraudulent practices. Some people complained that officials, in order to satisfy taxes, took beds, bed clothes, an only horse, an only cow, even, in some cases, a wife's petticoat. The Regulators tried petitions and other peaceful means to satisfy their demands, but to no avail.

Disorders occurred, topped by incidents at Hillsborough court in 1770, when Fanning was dragged through the streets. Tryon pushed through the legislature the Johnston Riot Act, which gave him power to put down by force any Regulator uprising. Reaction was bitter, and the Regulators began to group for action. Seeing this, Tryon ordered the expedition to the west.

In the years since the battle, interest has been retained in the historical value of the event. The first monument stood alone for many years until a second was moved to the battlefield from Guilford Court-house.

After efforts by area citizens, the state recognized the area as a state historical site, and soon a museum was established where many artifacts from the battlefield are displayed.

Visitors see a program depicting the actions surrounding the battle, and on the field itself stands a large map depicting the location of various forces during the battle. In recent years, an old house, the Allen House, was moved from nearby Snow Camp to the battlefield. It was built during the period of the war of Regulation and is now restored to its original condition. There is even a garden beside the house with cultivated crops.

This May the battlefield's quiet will be broken as the 200th anniversary of the battle is commemorated. A week of events will be sponsored by the Alamance County Historical Association prior to the actual anniversary date. A production entitled "First For Freedom" will be presented in Burlington's Memorial Stadium five nights during the event. Residents of the area will make up the cast of several hundred. The pageant will depict the events leading to the battle itself. Plans have been under way for almost a year. Professionals have been engaged to produce the pageant and the events that will fill the week.

The Battle of Alamance has been called by some as the first battle of the American Revolution. Historically speaking, it was insurrection against local government, not the British.

But it was one of the early instances in which colonial Americans stood their ground and let it be known they wanted fair treatment from their government.

Intelligence And Growth Stunted By Malnutrition

Second of four articles

By PAUL CORCORAN
Copley News Service

In a downtown Houston restaurant, busy waiters were serving lunch and drinks to businessmen who thought little of spending $4 to $7 each for a meal.

Two miles and a world away, a recently arrived widow from Mississippi with eight children, and a granddaughter were crammed into a gray clapboard cottage. They could budget, with luck, about 50 to 75 cents a day for each member of the household. The cottage rent was $51 a month, an extravagance even in these times of inflation.

It's the same in hundreds of cities — and rural areas — throughout America. People are going hungry in this land of abundance. The stinking slums of Lahore, Pakistan, have their counterparts in wealthy America.

An 88-member Texas nutrition survey team has made detailed field studies that provide shocking proof that poverty and hunger are just around the corner from the best of neighborhoods in that oil-rich state.

The survey, final results of which will be announced later this year, was particularly valuable because it cut across a wide section of the population.

There were 8,098 individuals studied in three categories — the rural Negro, the Mexican-American (especially in the blighted farm area of the Rio Grande Valley) — and what codirector Dr. William J. McGanity called the "urban mix" consisting of all ethnic groups in such cities as Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth and San Antonio.

McGanity, professor and chairman of the department of obstetrics and gynecology at the University of Texas in Galveston, outlined some of his findings in an interview.

The Texas study encompassed a group of indigents in the lower one-fourth income level of the state's population, in all sectors of Texas. It extended from the Louisiana state line in the east to El Paso in the west, from the lower Rio Grande Valley in the south to Wichita Falls in the north.

McGanity, whose codirector on the survey was Dr. Fratis L. Duff of the Texas State Health Department, said his staff had expected to find a large percentage of persons suffering from anemia. But "the degree of growth retardation was greater than we had expected," he said.

McGanity said there is medical evidence that a person without a proper diet — without proper protein intake — will never reach his potential level of intelligence. This view is shared by Dr. Willard P. VanderLaan, head of the division of endocrinology at the Scripps Clinic and Research Foundation of La Jolla, Calif.

Dr. Robert E. Shank, chairman of the Committee on Maternal Nutrition of the Food and Nutrition Board of the National Research Council, in a special report in "Nutrition Today," put emphasis on a "new approach to the dietary management of pregnancy." He said good nutrition can be a matter of life or death for mother and child.

A poor diet in the final three months of pregnancy, according to this view, can contribute to growth retardation of the child.

McGanity has reservations about this theory, but several doctors interviewed stressed the importance of diet on the young child.

Money alone cannot solve the problems of hunger and malnutrition — nutritional education is needed — but money helps. For example, in the first phase of the Texas study in 1968, it was found that a family of four indigents had 77 cents per person for food.

"You cannot afford to buy vegetables and fruit, which are good sources of vitamins A and C, with that kind of budget," McGanity said.

Expressing the view that there must be a reassessment of priorities to give more attention to hunger and nutritional education, he cited several examples of what the survey team discovered in interviews:

— Obesity. Half of the women examined and one-third of the men were overweight, mostly because they ate foods high in carbohydrates with little protein value.

— Rickets. A vitamin D deficiency causing bowed legs and swollen wrists in children. This condition can be corrected if adequate medical treatment is available.

— Goiter. This condition, caused by the absence of iodine, is visible in the enlargement of the thyroid gland. At its worst, it can lead to growth hormone retardation.

— Dental defects. With the exception of areas in which fluoride was present in the drinking water, decayed and missing teeth and gum problems were noted. About 80 per cent of those examined had some kind of trouble. A color film of the survey showed two girls who had lost all their teeth and had plates when they were in high school. Each of those examined had an average of 15 decayed or missing teeth.

— Age range. "By far the worst (nutritionally) — and this seems to relate to all society — are teen-agers between the ages of 13 to 16." McGanity noted that it appeared a person suffering from one dietary insufficiency survived without his daily health being impaired.

But when he had two or more insufficiencies, his health and energy were impaired.

The Texas survey, while it produced some interesting conclusions, is no answer to national hunger needs. There is too much variance in conditions among the urban and rural poor, the administration of aid programs and other facets of the hunger problem.

What is needed is a "national umbrella policy" that is flexible and can provide the dietary lift the nation so badly needs, said McGanity.

Next: Poverty, the living death.

THIS CHILD HAS NO REAL HOPE for normal life because of growth retardation that is the result of malnutrition. The girl has a faraway look common among children who lack food and proper diet.

Marijuana Crop Was Staked Out

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — For 18 hours sheriff's deputies staked out the home of a woman who had reported finding marijuana on her property near Asheville. They said that two youths came to her home and were arrested when they claimed the marijuana Tuesday. Sheriff Tom Morrissey of Buncombe County said the marijuana was worth at least $5,000. He identified the youths as Dorin Richard Miller, 19, of Augusta, Ga., and Lee Taggart Brandreth, 17, of Decatur, Ga., and said they were charged with possession.

Admission Paid At Discretion

CHICAGO (AP) — An admission to The Art Institute of Chicago now is at the discretion of the visitor who pays whatever he thinks enough.

Charles C. Cunningham, director of the Art Institute, said the discretionary admissions plan anticipates "that adults will pay $1 and students, children and senior citizens 50 cents. But the amount is left to the discretion of the visitor."

The plan is on a trial basis. Key personnel in museums, servicemen and members in the press will be admitted free. Adult, college and school groups will also be admitted free.

However, during major exhibitions admission to the institute's galleries reverts to the entrance fee of $1.50. Cunningham said this is due to the "very high costs of assembling such exhibitions."

Finn Is Candidate To Become U Thant's Successor

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — A 47-year-old Finn is the first man to enter the field to succeed U Thant as secretary-general of the United Nations.

Ambassador Max Jakobson, a historian and former newsman, has headed Finland's U.N. delegation since April 1965. He entered his country's foreign service 12 years before as press attache in Washington. Thant announced Monday that he would retire when his term ends in December after his announcement, the U.N. delegates from the other Nordic countries—Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Iceland—met with Jakobson and endorsed his candidacy, a Nordic diplomat said.

The Finnish Foreign Ministry said on Wednesday that it was consulting other governments and was gratified to note that Jakobson was "widely recognized as a person who ... fulfills the requirements made on the secretary-general."

The endorsement of both the United States and the Soviet Union is crucial to any candidate for secretary-general, but neither U.S. nor Soviet spokesmen would comment on Jakobson's prospects.

"It is too early to comment on questions of succession at this time," said a spokesman for the U.S. mission. "We, of course, have a high regard for ambassador Jakobson personally and for the role which Finland is playing in the United Nations." "No comment," said Soviet Ambassador Jacob A. Malik. "Another Soviet source pointed out that Thant 'is still secretary-general.' Asked if the Russians think Thant should stay on, he replied: 'Well, let's think about it.'"

Many U.N. diplomats expressed belief that the U.S. and Soviet governments could persuade Thant to stay for another two to five years if they convinced him they could not agree on a successor.

Others mentioned as prospective candidates include Ambassador H.S. Amerasinghe of Ceylon, who said last month he would not mind being considered if the big powers and U.N. members generally wanted him; ex-Presidents Eduardo Frei of Chile and Alberto Lleras Camargo of Colombia; U.N. Ambassadors Joao Augusto de Araujo Castro of Brazil, Kurt Waldheim of Austria and Alfonso Garcia-Robles of Mexico; Prince Sadruddin Khan, the U.N. high commissioner for refugees; Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew of Singapore; Chief

S. O. Adebayo of Nigeria, executive director of the U.N. Institute for Training and Research, and Robert Gardiner of Ghana, executive secretary of the U.N. Economic Commission for Africa.

The secretary-general is nominated by the Security Council and elected by the General Assembly. Any of the five permanent members of the council—the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and Nationalist China—can block a candidate with its veto.

Ranks Of $1 Million Stars Cut To One

EDITOR'S NOTE—A couple of years ago a dozen or so superstars of the movies could earn upwards of a $1 million for a picture. Today perhaps, only one such money earner exists. In the following, Bob Thomas veteran Hollywood reporter, explores the reasons why.

By BOB THOMAS

Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A survey of the new film economics indicates the end of the era of the superstar—the movie personality whose importance could attract salaries up to $1 million per picture.

Ballerina Will Appear On Tour

NEW YORK (AP)—American Ballet Theater will tour 14 American cities from Feb. 1 through April 3. The cities are San Antonio, Austin, Houston, Dallas, Denver, Los Angeles, San Diego, San Francisco, Vancouver, Portland, Seattle, Chicago, Urbana, Ill., and Kansas City.

Natalia Makarova, the Russian ballerina who defected in September, is a member of the company on a one-year contract and will be appearing on the tour.

Only one superstar appears to have survived the severe cutback in actor's salaries: John Wayne.

Just a couple of years ago, Wayne was one of a group of stellar performers who were considered so potent at the box office that producers would pay them the equivalent of $1 million for a film—sometimes less initial money, but with 10 per cent of the gross receipts.

Club members included Julie Andrews, Barbara Streisand, Lee Marvin, Clint Eastwood, Jack Lemmon, Steve McQueen, Paul Newman, Burt Lancaster, Kirk Douglas, Shirley MacLaine, Richard Burton, Elizabeth Taylor, Elvis Presley, Sidney Poitier.

Look what's happening now. Julie Andrews hasn't made a movie in two years. She was

Church Deacons Plan Observance

The 64th Anniversary of the deacons of Philippi Church of Christ will be observed Sunday at 3 p.m.

Bishop Wyoming Wells, pastor of Wells Chapel Church of God in Christ, will preach the anniversary sermon. He will be accompanied by his choir and congregation.

Some 13 churches have invited to participate, according to the pastor, Dr. J. F. McLaurin. The general public is also invited to this special event, he said. The church is located at the corner of 13th and Green Streets.

reported to do "She Loves Me" for MGM and "I Do! I Do!" for the Mirisch Co. but both projects were canceled because of high costs.

Elizabeth Taylor, after five successive flops at $1 million apiece, was inactive for two years. She now is making a film in London, taking a large percentage of the future income rather than a salary.

Husband Richard Burton is also making a London movie at no salary. "After this one, I'll go back to my million-dollar salary," he remarked. Not likely.

Elvis Presley, one of the first superstars to make $1 million per film, hasn't made a movie in two years, except for a documentary of his singing tours.

Shirley MacLaine has signed to make a television series in England for the ABC network.

Some of the other superstars have been inactive. Others have prepared projects through their own companies:

McQueen, Douglas, Newman, Lemmon.

Newman, Miss Streisand and Poitier have formed their own company, First Artists, although no films have yet been produced by the firm.

Ted Ashley, production chief of Warner Bros. said recently that the million-dollar salary has vanished in "99 per cent of the cases."

"But, he added, "there are rare people like John Wayne who receive money like that... and are worth it in terms of real money they bring in at the box office."

CELEBRATION SITE

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—Community leaders are planning a convention center for the American Revolution bicentennial celebration.

The center would emphasize the international setting of Niagara Falls, located near the Canadian border.

"Right now it's fashionable to blame the stars for the poor financial condition of the film business," observes a top Hollywood agent. "That's ridiculous. The stars didn't black-mail the studios to pay them a million dollars. They were in a seller's market—why not get as much as they can? Their earning power doesn't last very long."

Some studio heads now will not consider star names for roles. They argue that some of the biggest recent hits have been without big star names: "The Graduate," "Easy Rider," "M-A-S-H," "Midnight Cowboy."

"I don't want any leading actors over 35," says one production boss. "The young audience can't identify with anyone older."

Like all movie trends, this, too, probably will pass.

A new pattern is developing for employment of stars. They are asked to work at little or no salary, taking instead a share of hopeful profits.

Mental Health Ass'n To Hold Annual Session

A regional officer of the National Association for Mental Health will speak at the Annual Meeting of the Pitt County Mental Health Association Thursday, January 28, at 7 p.m. at the Greenville Woman's Club Building.

The Rev. Orion Neely Hutchinson Jr. will speak after dinner on "New Horizons for Concerned Citizens." Paid reservations for the dinner meeting must be made in advance through the Pitt County MHA, P. P. Bon 167. The fee is $3 per person.

The Rev. Hutchinson is vice president of the Southeastern Region of the National Association for Mental Health and serves on the Board of Directors of the National Health Council and on the Advisory Council on Childhood Mental Illness for the National Association. A past president of the N. C. Mental Health Association, he is a consultant for the State Medical Society Committee on Medicine and Religion and a director of the N. C. Mental Health Research Foundation, Inc.

He holds an A. B. degree from Davidson College, a B. D. from Duke University Divinity School, and has done post-graduate work at Harvard University, Emory University, and Duke. He is now pastor of the First United Methodist Church of Brevard and is a lecturer in Church and Society at Brevard College.

REV. O.N. HUTCHINSON JR.

Officers of the local Mental Health Association to be installed at this meeting are David E. Reid of Greenville, president; Walter B. Jones Jr. of Farmville, vice president; Mrs. Thomas Craft of Ayden, secretary; and Leland Moore of Greenville, treasurer.

Newly elected Board members are Jack A. Farrior, and Vance B. Taylor, both of Farmville; Mrs. C. G. Garrenton, Mrs. Robert Joseph Whitehurst, and Mrs. Jack C. Wynne III, all of Bethel; Mrs. Bill McLawhorn of Ayden; David Barnhill and Jack W. Richardson, both of Greenville; and Sam E. Nelson of Grifton.

Dr. Malene Irons is out-going president of the Association.

ADD PROTECTION

CLIFTON, N.J. (UPI)—The nation's utility company meter readers have found a way to protect themselves from a daily hazard, the family watchdog.

The meter readers are using their meter binders to ward off that nip in the pants, reports the American Loose Leaf Division of Dictaphone Corporation. For that reason, the firm says, its meter binders are finished with a hard bakelite enamel.

Soaring Costs

Outpaced Stork

AUCKLAND (AP)—Home building costs outpace the stork in New Zealand.

A young Auckland couple decided to build a house that would cost $7,840 plus the cost of the land. They could raise all but $1,053.

New Zealand pays a child allowance of $1.68 a week and young parents can draw a lump sum against this of $1,053 if they want to put the money toward building a home.

The young Auckland couple had no children but decided to qualify.

Within a year the wife, just out of hospital with her baby, told the building firm the good news.

But the builder had news for her, too. Because of increased costs the price of the house had risen $1,004.

Only twins could have met the situation.

Worry Clinic Let Lady Luck Share The Ire

Barbara will quit griping if her mother will enlist the aid of "Lady Luck." For Barbara will then shift her ire from her parents and siblings, since she will realize Lady Luck was against her. This clever ruse reduces a lot of parent-child friction. Note our "Oh, Heck" game for dish washers!

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Case P-552: Barbara T., aged 12, grumbles about her chores.

"Dr. Crane," her mother sighed, "Barbara has a brother who is 13 and another who is 10."

"Although I try to assign their chores on an impartial basis, they chronically quarrel and each one claims he gets more work than either of the others."

"So they gripe and grumble. Dr. Crane, how can I eliminate this constant dissention?"

LADY LUCK
One method is to shift their griping to Lady Luck!

For example, at our house when the grown children and grandchildren are home, we usually have a lot of dishes to wash.

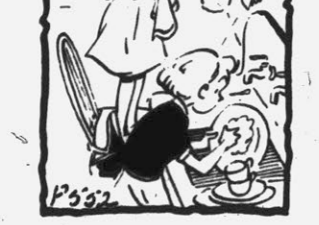

Nobody relishes this hated chore.

So we play a card game called "Oh, Heck," with the loser destined to wash all those dishes (plus the pots and pans).

The 2nd lowest scorer must dry the dishes.

And the 3rd lowest carries out the garbage.

Mrs. Crane will often start to stack the plates or even wash the glasses before we begin the game.

"Mom," our sons will exclaim, "stop that! For you are killing some of our incentive to win."

The loser in this allotment of family chores, thus can't blame his mother or father. For they didn't control the outcome of the "Oh, Heck" game.

So it is Lady Luck who gets the brunt of the loser's ire.

As a variation, you can place the names of various chores on separate slips of cardboard and then drop them into a cookie jar.

With eyes shut, each child can then reach inside the jar and pull out his special chore.

Again, this method diverts the child's hostility from his parents or his siblings, for he figures that Lady Luck has the grudge against him when he selects a hated chore.

Sometimes it is wise to distinguish between the "free" work of the child versus special tasks that deserve pay.

For your parents should NEVER resort to the un-American plan of giving your offspring a free cash allowance every week!

That method cultivates in them the habit of expecting something for nothing.

It likewise encourages the Prodigal Son attitude about wealth.

For when they receive free cash, they slip into the attitude, "Easy come, easy go."

Besides, the world makes no allowances for anybody!

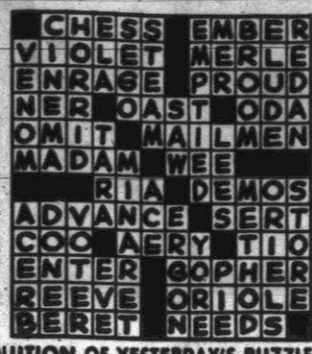

It pays off on the basis of merit and hard work, so tutor your children in this proper

The bidding: East North West North Pass 1NT Pass 2♣ Pass 2♥ Pass 3NT Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Three of ♠ By deliberately surrendering a trick, West was able to capitalize on the road block which nature had created for South, the declarer in today's hand, and the latter was obliged to pay off to the brilliancy of his opponent.

South had all the requirements for his opening one no trump bid and after North's efforts to uncover a major suit fit by employing the two club convention did not prove fruitful, the latter proceeded directly to three no trump—an 11 trick contract not appearing attractive.

West opened his fourth best spade which was ducked in dummy and, when East played the jack, it held the trick. The latter continued with the queen, and at trick two West was called on to make the key play of the entire deal.

psychological outlook even when they are toddlers!

Instead of the "allowance" plan, pay them on a piecework basis for tasks they accomplish.

But see that plenty of "pay" jobs are available, since then there is ceiling unlimited regarding their income.

"Allowance" children often gripe that other playmates get a bigger allowance and then grow irate at you parents.

This "dole" psychology can be obliterated by making them work for their spending money.

So send for my booklet "20 Ways to Earn Spending Money," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

JUKES JILTED
ROME (UPI)—Juke boxes are losing favor in Italy, according to an industry survey. Only 7 per cent of Italy's 24,000 juke boxes brought earnings of more than $800 each in 1969, compared with 13 per cent in 1968. The number of juke boxes losing money after taxes and royalties rose from 34 to 40 per cent.

Paper Sells For One Cent

PALO ALTO, Calif. (UPI)—The first newspaper sold in the United States for a penny was the New York Sun, founded in 1833.

Now, in this age of inflation, there's another one. It's called the Pennypaper.

It really sells for one cent and its sole purpose is to provide an outlet for several talented writers, most of them present or past Stanford University students.

The "editor and publisher," although he doesn't claim that title, is William Pitt Root, a Stegner Writing Fellow in 1969 at Stanford's Creative Writing Center.

In the first issue, Root had this comment about things costing a penny:

"That a Pure American Product costing 20 cents to make can be sold at the audacious price of one cent, without the walls anywhere tumbling down, is an event that heartens us and we hope will hearten you."

FRIENDLY VISIT
WARSAW (UPI) — Polish communist leader Edward Gierek and Premier Piotr Jaroszewicz went to Czechoslovakia Saturday for a "friendly visit," the Polish news agency PAP said. Gierek and Jaroszewicz, installed in their posts in a top-level shakeup after mid-December riots over increased food prices, have paid similar visits to the Soviet Union and East Germany.
