Munition Caches Swept Up By S. Viet Column

SAIGON (AP) — A South Vietnamese armored column drove across the Ho Chi Minh trail in southern Laos today, sweeping up sizable ammunition caches left by hurriedly retreating North Vietnamese.

While the push into Laos met only light ground resistance and harassing shelling attacks, a parallel drive by 20,000 South Vietnamese troops in Cambodia ran into stiff opposition.

North Vietnamese troops launched three heavy attacks on the edge of the rubber plantation town of Snuol, five miles inside Cambodia and about 90 miles north of Saigon. South Vietnamese headquarters said 73 North Vietnamese were killed with the help of U.S. air strikes, while Saigon's losses were 10 killed and 42 wounded.

This raised to 407 the number of North Vietnamese reported killed in the Cambodian phase of the operation in the past week, while South Vietnamese losses now total 45 killed and 203 wounded, a spokesman said.

On the Laotian front 300 miles to the north, a South Vietnamese field commander said he expected his troops during the next 10 days to push along Route 9 as far as they could toward Savannakhet, 125 miles across the Laotian panhandle on the border between Laos and Thailand. He did not say just how far his troops would try to go, however.

The lead South Vietnamese units were reported 12 miles inside Laos, meeting light contact with the enemy as they advanced toward the town of Sepone, 25 miles from the border.

Report Two Deaths In California Earthquake

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A powerful earthquake hit Southern California at 6:01 a.m. today, causing two reported deaths, numerous injuries and cracking buildings and highways.

The jolting temblor was felt over at least 350 miles from Fresno to below the Mexican border but damage was worst in Los Angeles and its heavily populated San Fernando Valley. Center of the shock was reported as 17 miles north of the valley in the rugged San Gabriel Mountains.

Major damage was reported in the two closest towns of Newhall and Saugus, 35 miles northwest of downtown Los Angeles.

The shock came as a series of violent jolts, followed by rocking motion lasting nearly a minute.

Buildings swayed and cracked. Windows shattered. Highways cracked and buckled. One major freeway was closed. Merchandise in stores and household objects on tables and

Firm To Set Up Bottle Depots

NEW YORK (AP) — The Coca-Cola Bottling Co. of New York has announced plans to set up 17 collection depots in the metropolitan area to buy glass bottles and aluminum cans.

The company will pay one-half cent per bottle or can, regardless of brand, and turn them over to be melted down and recycled.

Announcing the plans Monday, company President Charles E.F. Millard said Coca-Cola was "deeply concerned about what is happening to our environment" and hoped to become a "catalyst for change."

The depots at company branches in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut will be open each Saturday starting March 20.

The company will sell the bottles and cans for the same half cent.

Fifth-Graders

Decided Answer

COQUILLE, Ore. (AP) — Teacher James Patridge sent some bones to the University of Oregon to learn that they were from a horse that lived 30 million years ago, but he really didn't need to go beyond his fifth grade class.

Patridge said that before the university report was received, the pupils decided they were bones from a horse of the Ice Age.

The bones were uncovered by a well-digging crew and turned over to Patridge, an amateur paleontologist and archaeologist. The university report said: "The specimen you sent is the upper third molar of a horse. It is apparently a Pleistocene species, Ice Age period."

which killed more than 100.

The Golden State Freeway, major north-south artery, was closed at the west end of the San Fernando Valley due to damage. It was close to the reported center of the quake.

Residents near Van Norman Reservoir near the community of San Fernando were evacuated after reports its dam had suffered damage. "Evacuate the dam is about to overflow," came the cry by bullhorn from a helicopter.

Los Angeles city and county schools were closed until damage could be assessed.

Lunar Eclipse

NEW YORK (AP) — A total eclipse of the moon will be visible tonight, where skies are clear, throughout the continental United States and Canada.

The lunar spectacular will begin at 12:52 a.m. EST when the moon starts to pass through the earth's shadow. The moon will darken as the shadow spreads across the lunar disk with totality lasting from 2:03 a.m. until 3:26 a.m.

By 4:37 a.m. the western edge of the moon will have cleared the shadow.

A lunar eclipse generally can be observed from most places on earth at least once a year.

High school age girls, who have been labeled the neglected segment of society in terms of planned recreation, may now be coming into their own. A new program, "Girl's Night Out", designed for teen-age girls, was reported by Recreation Department Director Boyd Lee to be making an impressive start. Lee made his report last night to Recreation Commission the opening day of the drive.

This included six killed along with four American crewmen when enemy gunners shot down a U.S. helicopter.

Known enemy losses were 14 killed, a spokesman said.

Wilmington Has Another Night Of Firebombings

By MELVIN LANG

Associated Press Writer
WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Stung by six nights of firebombings and gunfire, this port and industrial city entered its second day of emergency restrictions today with an appeal from its mayor for citizens to "forgive the wrong that may have been done."

Two business firms and a private storage shed were burned by firebombs, and random sniper fire wounded one man Monday night as racial violence that killed two men during the weekend continued despite near-freezing temperatures.

"There is more than I expected, but I believe we are bringing the violence under control," Police Chief H. E. Williamson said early today.

False telephone bomb threats continued in the schools. Three were evacuated briefly this morning while officers searched for bombs, but they found none.

Violence erupted last Wednesday in the wake of a school boycott organized by black pupils attending New Hanover County's two high schools. They had asked more black studies, more black athletic and academic personnel, an end to alleged harassment of black pupils by school authorities and police, and a school holiday commemorating the birthday of the late Martin Luther King Jr.

Today Mayor L. M. Cromartie lifted a night-time curfew. He also eased a restriction on the possession of alcoholic beverages or firearms outside private premises.

"We are of the opinion that we can do without a curfew tonight," Cromartie said at a news conference. Unless conditions change extensively there will be no curfew.

Cromartie noted that a curfew could be re-imposed quickly if necessary. National Guard officials said the estimated 500 guardsmen in Wilmington would remain there tonight and make routine street patrols, but would not set up roadblocks.

Williamson said police found "five or six sticks" of dynamite today in a church occupied by officers Monday. He said it appeared they had been stored there before the officers en-

Apollo 14 On Course For Today's Return

By HOWARD BENEDICT

AP Aerospace Writer
SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Man's most scientifically rewarding moon mission neared an end today as the Apollo 14 astronauts hurtled toward a fiery dash through the atmosphere and splashdown in the South Pacific.

They were on such a perfect course Mission Control canceled a final midcourse correction and told them they were on target for a 4:04 p.m. EST touchdown 874 miles south of American Samoa.

"Good," came the reply from the command ship Kitty Hawk. It was one of the few words from astronauts Alan B. Shepard Jr., Edgar D. Mitchell and Stuart A. Roosa as they busied themselves with last-minute stowage and systems checks.

Their silence contrasted with Monday night when the trio held a televised news conference and termed their flight a smashing success.

Mission Control reported that four of its tracking stations were temporarily affected by the Los Angeles earthquake today but that backup systems prevented any loss of communications with the astronauts.

Affected were stations in Hawaii, Guam and two in Australia, Honesuckle and Carnarvon. Telephone circuits were rerouted and all were back in service within five minutes.

Apollo 14 was to slam into the atmosphere 76 miles above the Pacific at 24,596 miles an hour.

It will be Wednesday at the planned touchdown site, eight miles west of the international dateline.

The main recovery ship, the helicopter carrier USS New Orleans, reported the weather outlook in the landing zone was near perfect with some clouds, winds 12 to 18 miles an hour, 3-to 6-foot seas and 80-degree temperature.

Television cameras were ready to relay the landing and recovery.

As the nine-day, 900,000-mile adventure neared an end, Shepard, Mitchell and Roosa held a news conference Monday night in a final telecast from their command ship Kitty Hawk.

Answering questions prepared by newsmen, moonwalkers Shepard and Mitchell described their futile struggle to reach the rim of Cone Crater, talked of giant boulders and the nuisance of lunar dust, and assessed their mission. All three discussed their impressions, both emotionally and as space test pilots.

Shepard and Mitchell said that only the clock defeated their effort to reach the edge of the crater, which rises 400 feet above the surface up a long sloping incline. To reach it they had to pick their way through a boulder field in which huge rocks loomed 10 or 12 feet in height above them.

During the climb the astronauts' heartbeats nearly doubled and they were breathing heavily. Mission Control advised them to rest often.

"I guess we didn't realize we had the problem of fatigue," Shepard said. "I don't know exactly what our heart rates were. Obviously they were higher than the normal sitting range."

They were reluctant to turn back when so directed by Mission Control. But Shepard said that to go on would have cost valuable time and they would not have gathered as many rock and soil samples.

Shepard said, "Collecting rocks from a point not quite near the top of the crater provided a lot more geologically and gave us a better cross section of the rocks in the area and therefore a better chance of getting rocks ejected from Imbrium."

The major goal of the landing in the Fra Maura highlands was to obtain material gouged from deep within the moon when a massive meteoroid carved the Mare Imbrium, or Sea of Rains, 500 miles to the north. These rocks are believed to date back 4.6 billion years to the birth of the moon.

Shepard called the mission both a "resounding success" and a "smashing success" and said, "I think we can intuitively tell from what we've done, what we've seen, that we're bringing back a wealth of information, photographically and geologically."

Marina Plans In Shore Drive Area Discussed

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Preliminary plans for a marina to be located, if land agreements are reached with the city, in the eastern sector of the Shore Drive area were discussed last night with Redevelopment Commissioners who gave the idea their approval.

Plans formulated by Rex Smith of Ayden Sport Shop and Warren Wilkerson of Greenville call for the construction of a 50 by 70-foot building on a tract in the east end of the Town Common to house a boat and motor franchise and also provide facilities for boat launching.

Bob Browning, representing the two prospective developers, pointed out that his clients propose to either lease the land from the city or purchase the tract.

Currently, plans are being made by the Redevelopment Commission to dedicate the land to the city, along with the rest of the Town Common, at which time the city will own the land.

The tract being considered by the developers is in an area bounded by the Tar River, Town Creek, First Street and Side Street and would include a dredged basin for boat launching.

Wilkerson told commissioners that the structure proposed would cost between $1,600 and $1,800 and noted that city requirements would be compiled with in the building specifications.

The possibility was also mentioned as to the feasibility of the city constructing the building and leasing to the developers but that matter would not directly affect the commission.

Board members also noted that the East Carolina University crew uses the area for their activities and it was suggested that an understanding be reached with the university before plans are finalized.

In effect, the commissioners said that they would not object to the plans as long as they were in line with the requirements of the city.

Plans for a facility of this nature have been included in the long range development formats for the Shore Drive area and the city has indicated that a marina might be a proper use for the land.

In other business, executive director A. E. Dubber told commissioners that deputy director T. I. Wagner has come up with an idea that would offer a variation in the rules for acquisition of land and noted that HUD is very interested in the new idea for a possible revision of the urban renewal manual.

Dubber said that Wagner, in dealing with acquisitions in the New Town Project, has worked with the land buying formats for some time and formulated a change that would make acquisition easier and at the same time offer a better deal for the other party.

The commission's attorney, Kenneth Hite informed HUD of the idea and initial response from Atlanta was that the idea seemed feasible and applicable.

Dubber commended Wagner for his insight into the acquisition policies and noted that he, Wagner and real estate officer Kirby Boyd would be going to Atlanta next Tuesday to discuss the idea with HUD officials.

The city and county, Boyd reported, have agreed to the disposition of parcels 12 and 13 in Shore Drive, located on the block bounded by First, Second, Evans and Washington Streets and the northern half of the courthouse block, respectively.

The approval of the sale of parcel 13 to the county has been granted, Boyd said, and the disposition will be handled through the sale of various small parcels in the courthouse block to the county as they are purchased by the commission.

As for parcel 12, it was agreed that the commission would sell the tract commercially on the basis of new appraisals. The commission owns all of the block with the exception of the small cemetery located on Evans Street.

Boyd also reported that no bids were received for bid openings on the sale of parcel 5 in Shore Drive. The parcel is located on the northwest corner of Pitt and First Streets.

Shore Drive project manager Bryan McClure asked commissioners for a resolution authorizing the filing of a close-interest and participation of a large number of girls in this age group.

Acquisition of the five acre Hardee property, adjacent to the Eastern Elementary School, is expected to be completed soon. Lee reported all is in readiness except for a few details in clearing title to the land. Last summer a federal grant amounting to $13,500 was approved for purchase of the recreation site. The federal grant was 50 percent of the $27,000 purchase price.

Commission members agreed to look into a suggestion made by member Tom Foreman, for an arrangement to barricade portions of selected streets to provide a bicycle riding ground for youngsters. Foreman suggested this as a Saturday activity. Members feel that success for such a program would depend primarily on cooperation received from parents who would be responsible for proper supervision. It was noted similar programs in the past had failed due to lack of supervision to keep children within the prescribed area.

Lee noted that plans to reopen the recreation activity at Eppes were still in abeyance, with no further action in the foreseeable future.

Reporting to the commission members on the recently completed 23rd annual meeting of Municipality Recreation Directors in Chapel Hill, Lee observed that the relationship of environmental matters and recreation activities was the dominant theme of the meeting. Vandalism, according to Lee, (Continued on page 6)

Packed House Enjoys Veteran Villain Vincent Price

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

It was a star performance, an impressive one, and the packed house audience at Wright Auditorium last night loved it. Vincent Price, veteran villain of many screen roles of a formidable array of villains from the comic to the tragic, spoke of his experiences through the years in portraying a gallery of fascinating fictional characters. "Everybody is something of a villain," Price commented early in his lecture. "I'm really a nice man, but I like being mean." Touching on the history of villains in theater, Price explained the necessity of villainous characters in all exciting literature and theater. "It's a matter of conflict," he observed. "Conflict is the heart of the matter." "Heroes are noble, usually dull, sometimes stupid, and always too pretty," he said, showing that a foil to their nobleness was necessary, thus giving rise to the villain. "Villains seem to last, villains are elegant," Price observed on the durability of a number of prominent actors who have been around, or were in public demand for long periods. He mentioned, in this context, such notables of stage and screen as Edward G. Robinson, Humphrey Bogart, Peter Lorre, Basil Rathbone and Boris Karloff. "All really lovable people," was his summation of this well-known company of make-believe villains.

In sketching his own career as a portrayer of villains, Price recalled his early days in theater and films were ones in which he went "through a period playing noble roles. His big break in establishing himself as a villain came with his appearance in

'Angel Street,' the actor revealed. "This play, which is also known as 'Gaslight,' opened in New York on a Friday night," Price said. "On Sunday Pearl Harbor happened. The result was almost a close-down of the theater," he continued. "Angel Street" proved to be an exception. "I found myself my own star on Broadway."

After "Angel Street" a long list of roles as the villain followed. Price recounted interesting personal experiences in roles based on the plays of Shakespeare; of films adapted from novels of suspense and horrors; and finally, the great series of chillers based on the writings of Edgar Allen Poe.

In each of these roles, Price said he delved into thorough research of the character. "I had to know, what motivates a villain, what conflict within themselves prompted them, or what in real life made them villains?"

Reminiscence Was In Order At Pitt Hospital Reception

Reminiscence was the order of the hour at a 20th anniversary reception in the Pitt Memorial Hospital cafeteria yesterday afternoon.

The honoree was Mrs. Kenneth Dews, the second patient admitted to Pitt Memorial on its opening day 20 years previous. Her infant son was the first, but he is now a student at Chowan College and could not be present.

Attending with her were her husband who has been a member of the Hospital Board since 1965, her mother, Mrs. D. T. McLawhorn, and a daughter, Miss Catherine Dews.

Invited guests were all persons who were either county commissioners, hospital board members, doctors, or hospital employees at the time of the hospital opening.

Two honored guests were retired physicians, Dr. W. M. B. "Billy" Brown and Dr. Walter Potts. Dr. Malene Irons, Dr. Herbert Hadley, and Dr. Stephen Bartlett also attended. Other special guests besides staff members still at work included County Commissioners Vance Perkins and Bruce Strickland; Mrs. Phyllis Martin, director of nursing at the opening; and Mrs. Gene Skinner, a nurse at the opening.

A refreshment table prepared by Mrs. Floyd Russell and Mrs. Lorraine Nobles, hospital dieticians, held dolls representing all the doctors on the staff at the time of opening. Made by Mrs. Clara Christopher, chief housekeeper and Dr. Ann Huizenga, who is now with the State Board of Health, the dolls were grouped according to those active, those who are inactive or no longer on the staff, and those who are deceased.

The anniversary cake was made by Walter A. Dail Sr., hospital maintenance engineer, who was also a 20-year man. Guests enjoyed viewing and discussing a scrapbook of letters and clipping from the time Pitt Memorial was an idea until it became a reality. The scrapbook was compiled by Buck Sitterson, hospital comptroller.

Asks Sterner Penalty For Drunk Driver

RALEIGH (AP) — Tar Heel drivers who register too high a blood alcohol content on the breathalyzer test would have their licenses revoked immediately under a bill introduced in the House Tuesday night.

Rep. James Johnson, R-Cabarrus, who sponsored the bill, said "You hear a lot of talk about highway safety around here. We'll see how serious people are about it."

Johnson's bill would require the Department of Motor Vehicles to revoke for a year the license of any driver who blew more than a .15 on the breathalyzer.

A second bill put in by Johnson would revoke for 90 days the drivers' license of any person who refused to take a breathalyzer test at the request of a law enforcement officer. The present revocation period is 60 days.

Under present law, the Department of Motor Vehicles has no power to revoke the license of a driver charged with drunken driving until he has been found guilty in court.

Johnson's bill would provide for automatic revocation until the person was found innocent in court or until a year's time had elapsed.

"The Department of Motor Vehicles refuses a license now to anyone who fails a visual test, a physical test or a mental test," Johnson said. "This law would merely add another test — a sobriety test."

The .15 alcoholic content used in Johnson's bill is higher than the .10 which North Carolina law now considers the point of intoxication.

Johnson said he used the higher figure because "everyone agrees the person with this much alcoholic content is there (drunk)."

Two other bills dealing with traffic offenses were introduced Monday night.

Sen. William Staton, D-Lee, and F. O'Neil Jones, D-Anson, introduced a measure to continue a law allowing the courts to grant special limited driving permits to persons convicted on a first offense of drunken driving.

The law was passed by the 1969 General Assembly despite strong opposition from the Department of Motor Vehicles. It will expire June 30.

The Cherokee Indians believed the Creation took place in autumn.

Anti-War Group Avers Not Guilty To Plotting

By LEE LINDER
Associated Press Writer

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — "Not guilty," pleaded the Rev. Philip Berrigan, imprisoned anti-war priest, when arraigned on charges he plotted to kidnap President Nixon's foreign affairs adviser, Henry A. Kissinger, and bomb heating tunnels between government buildings in Washington.

"Positively innocent," said the Rev. Joseph Wenderoth, 35, Baltimore, Md., another of the six indicted in the alleged conspiracy.

One by one, each stood in U.S. District Court Monday before Judge R. Dixon Herman, and each separately said, "I plead not guilty."

Inside the guarded ninth floor courtroom, where admission was by a special pass and the 80 seats were filled mostly by newsmen and lawyers, that was about all the defendants said. It was a quick, simple procedure. The judge gave prosecution and defense 60 days to file motions before he fixes a trial date.

Besides Father Berrigan, serving a term in federal prison at Danbury, Conn., for destroying draft records, and Father Wenderoth, the others were:

Dr. Egbal Ahmad, 40, a Pakistani student at the University of Chicago's Adlai Stevenson Institute of International Affairs; Sister Elizabeth McAlister, 31, Upper Montclair, N.J., now on leave as a professor of art history at Marymount College, Tarrytown, N.Y.; The Rev. Neil McLaughlin, 30, Baltimore, and Anthony Scoblick, 30, Baltimore, a former Josephite priest who married an ex-nun.

Outside the courtroom, they said in a joint statement, "We are neither conspirators, nor bombers, nor kidnapers. In principle and in fact we have rejected all acts such as those of which we have been accused."

The statement, also signed by seven other persons named as coconspirators in the indictment but not made defendants, declared the government was carrying on an illegal war and an illegal draft and "it is the officials of the U.S. government who should be on trial."

Arrest Man On Assault Charge

Greenville police yesterday afternoon arrested Russell Whitfield, 34, of 1204 Chestnut St. on charges of rape in connection with an alleged assault on a 70-year-old woman on Van Dyke Street.

According to officials, police were called to 1208B Van Dyke St. about 4:30 p.m. There officers allegedly found Addie C. Avery, 70, being assaulted by Whitfield.

Mrs. Avery, according to investigators, suffered a cut on her head and was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment.

Officers identified the woman as Whitfield's aunt.

Ala. U. Student Body Prexy To Face Hearing

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — The president of the student body at the University of Alabama has been placed under a temporary restraining order by a student court until impeachment proceedings against him have been decided.

Jim Zeigler was charged by the student legislature with authorizing several hundred dollars worth of long distance telephone calls and acting in contradiction with a Student Government Association bill that funds the student loan commission.

The restraining order prohibits Zeigler from making long distance calls or expenditures exceeding $10.

A hearing is planned Wednesday on the impeachment charges, all of which Zeigler denies.

Cite Needs Of Private Schools

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — The presidents of two Presbyterian-related schools say private colleges in North Carolina are in financial peril, and need help from the state.

Dr. Lionel H. Newsom of Johnson C. Smith University and Dr. John E. Smylie of Queens college made their joint appeal Monday night before the men's club of a Presbyterian church in Charlotte. Their schools are in Charlotte.

They agreed with a proposal before the legislature that the state government should help defray the cost of attending private colleges, to help bring the tuition to the same level as that of public colleges.

Would Require Fingerprinting

COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP) — A South Carolina state legislator whose young daughter was slain says he will introduce a bill to require the fingerprinting of every school child and college student in the state.

Representative James Cuttino Junior of Sumter says that if his daughter's fingerprints had been on an abductor's car, they would have been excellent evidence.

Director Of Flight Has 5,000 Hours Of Flying

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Emily Joyce Howell of Denver had her first plane ride at 18, a flight to Gunnison in western Colorado in 1958.

There weren't too many other passengers and Miss Howell began to talk with the stewardess. The friendly stewardess even gave Emily a glimpse of the gadget jammed cockpit.

"That did it," Miss Howell said. "I knew right then and there I'd never be happy until I learned how to fly an airplane."

Now, at age 30, Emily Howell is the newly appointed director of flight training for Clinton Aviation Co. of Denver, and she has more than 5,000 hours of flying time in her log book.

Miss Howell said she was a $38 a week clerk at a department store when she decided she wanted to fly. She used $13 of her salary each week to pay for lessons until she could solo.

Then she got a job as secretary at the Clinton firm "to be near airplanes and continue with my lessons."

At 21 she was a flight instructor, teaching instrument navigation to both airline and private pilots. She now holds a private and a commercial Federal Aviation Agency rating, an FAA certified instrument rating and an airline transport pilot rating plus an FAA chief pilot rating.

Miss Howell says she never noticed any hesitancy or resentment from male students because they were getting flying training from a woman.

"I like people and they seem to know it," she said. "It gives them confidence during those first uneasy hours of training."

Once her students have logged 15 hours of solo flying, she launches them on cross country flight training. "We use a hood which completely blacks out the cockpit," Emily said. "Then I tell them where I want to go and ask them to take me there."

"Sometimes I take them someplace and make sure they don't have the slightest idea

Part-Time Jobs Can Help Beat Inflation

NEW YORK (AP) — The hand that rocks the cradle these days often is apt to be busy counting up the pretty penny raked in from part-time earnings.

With women in the work force to stay, and a chronic labor shortage in just about every field, part-time jobs for women have become an established thing.

Usually the part-time workers are wives and mothers who don't have the time or the inclination to get into the work force full-time—but don't want to stay out of it either.

Their goal, more often than not, is the obvious one: money—either for a specific project like a vacation or simply to keep family earnings apace with inflation.

How much can a wife earn in a part-time job? It depends, in part, on how much time she puts in—but beyond that there's a wide variation in hourly pay from one field to another. Here's a breakdown on some of the usual part-time jobs held down by housewives—and what they pay.

Baby-sitter—This is one of the most usual part-time jobs, but one of the lowest paid. The responsible adult earns more than a teen-ager but it's still only about $1.25 an hour.

Care of the elderly—This pays a little more, $1.50 an hour.

Addressing envelopes—About $1.85 hourly.

Home typing—Usually it's term papers and manuscripts, and students and writers traditionally are not rich. The hourly rate is $1.25.

Secretary—The temporary secretarial services that help business and industry fill vacation and seasonal vacancies depend largely on housewives for personnel. A starting secretary earns about $2.50 an hour.

Switchboard operator—The Bell Telephone Company, for instance, maintains a "stable" of ex-operators available for part-time pinch-hitting, and the pay is $3.00.

One of the newest part-time fields for housewives, and one of the highest paid, is home selling—with everything from jewelry, toys, housewares and clothing available via the home party method. Beeline Fashions, a company that sells clothing entirely through fashion show parties, says that stylists who display their newest fashions in parties in private homes can figure on about $25 a night profit from a three-hour party.

Supermarket checker—There's more than one way to bring home the groceries from the neighborhood supermarket. About $2.50 an hour.

Photographer Gets Quick 'Negative'

DEAR ABBY: I see where the fellows of the 8th Security Police Squadron (Combat) want a pinup picture of you, and you agree to favor them with only a "head" shot.

While I was doing free-lance news photography, I had the pleasure of meeting you a couple of years ago, and while you have taken some rather pointed pot shots at bachelors (and I am one), you are a real good looking gal with a cute (but tiny) figure, and with what you have to offer as a photographic subject, the boys of that Police Squadron rate a photo that is a little more inclusive than just a "head" shot.

I'm not suggesting something suitable for Playboy magazine, but a photo in keeping with your image and station in life. I would even volunteer to do one free for nuttin', if it wouldn't antagonize your husband.

JAMES A. BERRIGAN
SCOTIA, N. Y.

DEAR MR. B.: Thanks for your generous offer, but I just asked my husband if you could take my picture, and he gave me a quick negative.

DEAR ABBY: Twenty-two years ago we bought this crib which we placed next to our bed. We had seven children, and each one slept in that crib. The youngest is now seven and the crib has been empty for more than four years, but my husband refuses to let me take it away. Whenever I suggest moving the crib out, he gets real angry and says I can move it out when he's dead and not until. [He hangs a lot of shirts on it that he has worn only once and doesn't want washed yet.]

It's an eyesore and a nuisance. I want to take that crib away but I'm afraid to cross him. Please tell me what to do.
HATFIELD, PA.

DEAR HATFIELD: I am not about to advise a woman who is "afraid to cross" her husband to cross him anyway, and risk having her bridgework rearranged. Unless he agrees to let you replace the crib with a clothes rack, skip it.

DEAR ABBY: A wife signed "Jealous" wondered what to do when her husband announced that he was going to a nude girlie show, and you made the shocking reply that after she had indicated her disapproval and he went anyway, there was nothing she could do.

Really, Abby! Surely you can do better than that. I know, I can. Besides raising holy h— if he gets out of line, I would go on a strike. No cooking, no cleaning, no laundry, no nothing. In other words, I would let him know what a rotten wife I can be if he wants to be a rotten husband.

TRAINED HIM

DEAR TRAINED: And what about the wife who goes on a strike and finds that her husband can hire someone to do all the household services she withholds? The eye for an eye theory doesn't work, here. Two moves apace and you're both blind.

CONFIDENTIAL to the many who wrote to blast me for my refusal to put down the homosexual: The most burdensome problem the homosexual must bear is the stigma placed upon him by an unenlightened and intolerant society. Their sexual bent is as natural and normal for them as ours is for us. They are neither "sick" nor degenerate. They are simply "different." Mine is a plea for compassion and understanding for these misunderstood and mistreated souls. They, too, are God's children.

Think Blank In Knife-Throwing Act

NEWCASTLE-UPON-TYNE, England (WNS) — Carlos Michelli, the knife-thrower in the circus, was in a panic when the girl target in his act walked out just before the performance. Jean Ball, who sells tickets, ended the emergency by offering to try the role herself. "She was the calmest target I ever had," enthused Michelli after the show. The 19-year-old girl said there is nothing to the job. "The trick is not to think at all," she explained. "It's easier than trying to figure out how much change to give the customers."

Whirlybaby Came From Heaven

GRENOBLE, France (WNS) — After Marie Jeanne Beage gave birth to a baby boy in the maternity hospital here, she learned that her farm village of Monastier was snowed in. The Alpine Brigade offered to fly her and her new son home by helicopter. Happily reconciled with her eight youngsters at home, Mne. Beage said, "The young ones are now convinced that babies come out of the sky from heaven."

Thinning For Women And Gourmet For Men

POLLENSA, Spain (WNS) — Maria Miro, who runs a seaside residence for tourists here, announced "thinning" meals for lady guests in order to attract guests during winter's off-season. Ladies soon complained that no men came to the residence. Senora Miro has added "gourmet" menus for the males.

Salt and Pepper, Please

"Pass the salt and pepper, please." You'd have little trouble recognizing this simple request. But if your hairdresser referred to "salt and pepper," are you sure you'd know what was meant?

Well, to clear up the point, if you are a dark brunette, at some point in life a small percentage of unpigmented hairs may appear. As these white hairs increase in number, the color of your hair is termed by the hairdresser as "salt and pepper" hair.

Later, as the percentage of white hair increases even more, the color may be called "steel," the natural progression then goes from silvery to pure platinum white.

GNOCCHI — It's a farina dish from Italian cuisine. Serve it as a main course, with a salad, for lunch; or as an accompaniment to meat or poultry at dinner.

Italians Give Us Gnoochi

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

One of the most famous Italian dishes is called Gnocchi. The word is pronounced "nyok kee" and its English translation is "dumplings."

Italian cuisine has various kinds of Gnocchi but the one we have been concocting lately features economical farina. Cornstarch goes in, too, and helps produce interesting texture. The more lavish additions to the dish are butter and grated Parmesan cheese.

In Italy, Gnocchi is served as a first course, and you might like to follow suit. But at our house it is extremely popular when offered as an accompaniment to meat or poultry. And so handy for the cook because it must be prepared ahead and is easy to reheat.

This recipe makes a lot so it's fine to use when company's coming. You reheat the Gnocchi in two large pans, but they can be put in the oven at one time on two racks; in this case you may want to switch the pans once during the baking.

Or you can put one pan in the oven and while you are serving that portion, heat the next one for "seconds." Our family and friends are so enthusiastic about this Gnocchi that they always want those extra helpings!

GNOCCHI ALLA ROMANO
2 large eggs
¾ cup farina

¼ cup cornstarch
½ teaspoon salt
1 quart milk
½ cup—¾ pound stick—butter
1 cup finely grated Parmesan cheese
Extra butter for topping
Extra grated Parmesan cheese for topping

In a small mixing bowl beat the eggs until thickened and lemon color.

In a 3-quart saucepan stir together the farina, cornstarch and salt; gradually stir in milk.

Stirring constantly, cook over moderately low heat until mixture comes to a boil; boil 3 minutes. Remove from heat.

Stir in butter, then Parmesan and eggs, blending well after each addition.

Butter an oblong glass 3-quart baking dish, 13½ by 8½ by 1½ inches, or similar utensil. Turn hot farina mixture into it, smoothing top.

Blanket War Due To Size

BRUSSELS, Belgium (WNS)

—Because the amorous French snuggle closer in bed than other European couples, the Common Market is in a tangle about the size of blankets. The width of the French "lovers blanket" is 87 inches, but West German husbands and wives sleep so far apart that they prefer beds up to nine feet wide. In 1967, the French government passed a decree that forbids importation of blankets wider than 87 inches. "Unfair competition for blanket exporters," said a Common Market spokesman, and the battle is on.

Chill until firm, about 1 hour; or cover and refrigerate overnight.

Cut into squares, about 2 inch, or small rectangles. Place, about 1 inch apart, on buttered cookie sheets or jelly-roll pans.

Dot each piece with extra butter and sprinkle with extra grated Parmesan.

Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven until thoroughly hot—about 15 minutes. (Gnocchi will spread slightly.) With a wide metal spatula remove to serving dish; serve piping hot. Makes 8 servings.

Grapefruit halves may be baked as well as broiled. To bake sprinkle with brown sugar and dot with butter and put in a 450-degree oven for about 20 minutes.

FIGURAMA SPOT TRIMMERS

By Mary Sue Miller

(This is second in a special series of five columns on reducing by spring fashion time.)

You lose weight by dieting wisely and well. But diet alone gives no guarantee as to where you will lose. To make certain of achieving good proportions you must exercise while dieting. Otherwise, you could end up with normal weight and an abnormal hipline.

For most women the practical workout is "bedroom floor" in type. Such as these Legline Slimmers:

1. Lie on floor, back down; stretch arms out at shoulder level and bend knees until soles rest on floor. Slap legs from side to side against floor, keeping muscles so relaxed that insides of legs slap with each change of direction. Repeat 20 times.

2. Sit erect with legs straight out and together. By sliding heel backward, raise knee 6" and then; by sliding heel downward, slap calf against floor. Alternating legs, repeat 20 times.

Your Diet Menus: Breakfast. Grapefruit; 2 slices broiled bacon; 1 slice protein toast, ½ pat butter; unsweetened coffee or tea. Luncheon. Two-egg omelette; tossed green salad, dieter's French dressing; slice melba toast; tea with lemon. Dinner. Slice broiled liver; small baked potato, ½ pat butter; portion zucchini steamed with oregano; unsweetened pineapple chunks, plain vanilla cookie; demi-tasse. Between. 8 oz. skim milk, morning and night.

Reducing Tip: Remember that spot exercise does more than trim bulges. It also burns up calories at an increased rate so you lose faster.

Tomorrow: How To Diet and Like It.

SPOT REDUCING EXERCISES

Spot reduction—key to a proportioned figure. Exercise is the only way to trim those stubborn bulges. . . . To lose inches exactly where you wish, my new leaflet, SPOT REDUCING EXERCISES, gives easy routines—40 in all—for slimming the upper back, arms, midriff, hips, legs, ankles. . . . Important Role For Rep. Jones

The appointment of Rep. Walter B. Jones as chairman of the House Agriculture Committee Oilseeds and Rice Sub-Committee is worthwhile to North Carolina.

The selection was announced by W. R. Poage, Democrat of Texas, who is chairman of the full committee.

Chairman Poage said, "During Mr. Jones' years of service on the committee, we have had an opportunity to learn of his dedication to agriculture and observe his ability to represent the people of his district.

"We are fortunate to have a man of his background to assume leadership of this sub-committee. The fact that his district is a large producer of soybeans and peanuts will enable him to bring a special interest and knowledge to bear on problems affecting these commodities."

The First District is indeed a large peanut and soybean producer and thus the work of Congressman Jones' sub-committee could be of great importance to us. Generally a sub-committee's recommendations are accepted by the full committee which forwards them to the full House.

"I am pleased that in this position, I will be able to render real service to a segment of agriculture which is important not only to my district and my state but to the entire south," Jones said in accepting the appointment.

The growing of oilseeds is not only important to our area but it can become more of an economic factor as the worldwide demand for these products increases.

The work that Rep. Jones and his sub-committee do in the time ahead could have a great effect on peanuts and soybeans as a crop for our farmers.

Rather Dismal View Of Power Shortages

It is not very encouraging to read that the acute electric shortage in some areas of Northern United States is but a sign of things to come.

Federal Power Commission officials expect further voltage cutbacks this year and perhaps for the next several years.

So far our area has not had a great deal of difficulty with power reductions. However, our power reserves are too close.

It appears likely that electrical power shortages are something we are going to be reading about for some time to come.

Rank Hysteria Out Of Hanoi

By ROWLANDEVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Hard

evidence of how much the mere threat of serious military action against the Ho Chi Minh Trail has frightened the Communist regime in Hanoi is seen in the hysterical reaction pouring out of the Vietcong's secret headquarters.

Thus, a Feb. 2 radio broadcast by the "foreign minister" of the Vietcong's provisional revolutionary government blasts "U. S. aggressors" for creating "an extremely dangerous situation in Indochina."

To U. S. experts long familiar with Hanoi rhetoric, that translates into an open admission that a military assault in strength against the Ho Chi Minh supply trail (running from North Vietnam south through Laos into northern Cambodia) could be catastrophic to Hanoi.

The reason is obvious. With its once-secure supply system from the Cambodian port of Kompong Som (formerly Sihanoukville) now shut off, closing down the land route over the Ho Chi Minh Trail would confront the Communists with the possible isolation of 40,000 to 45,000 North Vietnamese regulars. Should that happen, the military situation in southern Laos and eastern Cambodia would deteriorate for Hanoi, spoiling its plans for an offensive in South Vietnam any time soon.

As we write this, the news embargo from Saigon is still in effect, obscuring the purpose of the South Vietnamese buildup along the Laotian border near the Ho Chi Minh Trail. But the fierce reaction of Hanoi's puppet government in South Vietnam last week indicates one great purpose has already been achieved: psychologically, a highly credible threat to North Vietnam's vital supply line.

The steady increase of Communist troops in the Laotian panhandle started late last year, with infiltration rates running up to twice those of a year earlier.

Coincident with these steady troop reinforcements from the north, the Communists have had conspicuous military successes throughout the southern Laotian panhandle — their only real military gains the past 12 months. The reason in the paper-tiger quality of the royal Laotian troops that garrison the small towns and villages of southern Laos. When Hanoi's regulars approach, they drop their weapons and vanish.

The right-wing commanders who run these motley, ineffective royal Lao forces have never concealed their longing for help in turning back the highly-organized invaders from the north. Thus, if President Nixon's plan indeed looks toward a series of quick, short thrusts by the South Vietnamese into these regions — destroying supply bases and forcing the Communists to double or triple their security forces along the trail — there will be no recriminations from the royal Lao generals.

For at least three months, top U. S. military men here have regarded the situation in southern Laos as more critical than Cambodia. For years before that, moreover, some U. S. commanders in the field have been pressing for direct action against the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

But always they were overruled by Pentagon civilians — and the politicians — in Washington. Now, however, there is an added factor of extreme urgency: buying time to continue withdrawing U. S. troops from a relatively stable Vietnam.

The President's overall withdrawal plan cannot work unless South Vietnam continues reasonably secure from major Communist attack the next two years. It was that necessity which persuaded Mr. Nixon to take

STOP WORRYING

Can we be sure? About what? Practically everything.

We make an investment. Practically everyone in a position to know about the company involved tells us to buy and make it fast. Within a month the stock has dropped twenty per cent in value. Many people worry about having some devastating disease. Maybe so, maybe not. And even if we do have something that at first seems terrifying, modern surgery and medical treatment do wonders today.

Many people worry about the existence of God. We can be sure that no one is going to see Him with the eyes of the flesh because God is a spirit and they that worship Him must worship Him in spirit and in truth. Yet if there is one thing we ought to be sure about it is the existence of a High Spiritual Power. Did the created world just happen? It is hard for most of us to get away from the conviction that a created world presupposes a Creator.

How about health and prosperity? We are well today and sick tomorrow. We have enough money to get along today but we may be bankrupt tomorrow. And let us never forget that one of God's greatest mercies is the fact that He has not disclosed the future to us. If we knew what was going to take place in the lives of our loved ones and in our lives, we might be in a dither for years before the event happened.

The Lord knew a thing or two when He created the world. Stop worrying.

The Welfare War Begins

SAN JOSE, Calif. — Gov. Ronald Reagan unveiled his $6.7 billion budget on Tuesday of last week, and by Wednesday morning, when I happened to hit town, you could see the haze from a hundred miles out. It wasn't smog. It was political gunsmoke. The welfare war has been joined out here, and my guess is that Reagan will win it.

He won't get everything he has asked for. Both houses of his legislature are controlled by hostile Democrats. College presidents, school superintendents and county supervisors will be gunning for him. The 1.6 million Californians on welfare pack a powerful political clout. By July, when final figures are fixed as Sacramento, some compromises will be made.

Yet Reagan is on the right course. Unless I am wholly mistaken, he has sensed a rising wind of taxpayer rebellion. Mr. Nixon, by contrast, has missed it. The President, to be sure, rightly has described the present mess of public welfare programs as "a consuming outrage," but three weeks on the road persuade me that Mr. Nixon, a man insulated from the storm, has no realistic idea of the hurricane that is brewing.

California's crisis is altogether typical. Ten years ago, the State's budget was $2.6 billion. Now it is $6.7 billion, and the great bulk of that stunning increase has resulted from swelling appropriations for public welfare, medical aid to the indigent, and prodigious outlays for education at every level. The state has some of the highest property taxes in the nation (one of Reagan's "must" programs demands thorough-going tax reform), and the time has come when something has to give.

Reagan's astounding proposal — astounding in this day and age — is simply: Hold the line. Faculty members in the University of California system are aghast. Under the Reagan budget, they would be expected to teach nine hours a week, on the average, instead of eight; their student-teacher ratio would soar from 16.48 to 17.42; and they would get no general raise in pay — only merit increases. New campus construction would have to come out of new student fees.

Reagan's proposals in public welfare go farther. By imposing strict eligibility standards, and by reducing some of the luxurious "free" benefits under the Medi-Cal program, he would force an

But is there a better place in the world to go for a nice restful trip away from the perils of today? Trying to project one's self into the future is no good, because we have no guide ropes there, and anyway the future looms up as perplexing and ominous as the present.

No, only in the past is there safety. It had its perils, too, of course, but we conquered them, or at least survived them. And what we treasure in memory of all our yesterdays are those moments which in reverry now still make us smile or inspire a tear no longer bitter.

Your own army of memories is well-stocked if you can look back and remember when—

Middle-aged people kept in touch with each other with penny post cards, but it cost young lovers two cents to mail their letters first class and keep their secrets from the common eye.

The only legal beverage with a mite of alcohol in it that was generally available to toppers was "near beer," and the stock just was: "Whoever called it that sure was a poor judge of distance."

Japan's Economy Will Be Third

By ELMER ROESSNER

Japan will be the third economic power in the world by the end of the century, Fremont Felix, a British consulting engineer and economic forecaster, predicts in VISION-Europe, a European business magazine.

By his calculations, the United States will be first and the Soviet Union second. China, although among the poorest in the terms of income per person, will overtake Britain by the year 2000 and France by 2020.

India, also individually poor but rapidly industrializing, will have overtaken Canada by the year 2000 and Italy by 2020, according to Felix's projection.

Some countries will make extraordinary advances in the next 30 years, he estimates. Mexico's gross national product will multiply almost 8 times, bringing it near Canada's level; Formosa's will multiply 10 times; Portugal's, Israel's and South Korea's, 14 times; with "notable performances" in Turkey and Brazil.

ELMER ROESSNER

The Losers

Countries with low population growths will drop back, Felix wrote. Australia, he said, which was in 12th place in 1967, will have dropped to 15th by 2000. In the same span, Switzerland is expected to drop from 21st to 28th.

Other countries showing drops will be Sweden, down from 18th to 20th; Luxembourg and Belgium, 19th to 28th; Norway, from 35th to 45th; and Australia, from 29th to 42nd, according to Felix.

Among the communist countries, Felix predicted Romania and Yugoslavia will do best.

On a per-person basis, Japan is expected to do well in production, rising from $1,155 per person in 1967 to $6,540 in 2000, in terms of 1967 dollars. The United States will rank first on this basis, Sweden second, Denmark third and Japan fourth.

Also on this basis, 19 of the 50 countries considered will have a living standard better than that of the United States in 1967. They will include all Western European countries except Spain, Portugal, Austria and Greece; in Eastern Europe, all countries except Romania, and in the rest of the world, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Japan, Israel and Puerto

Significant Hedge

The business forecaster, whose findings, considerably expanded, are about to be published in book form by Harper and Row, London, has one big reservation, conceding that there could be dramatic changes.

The five countries at the bottom of the list, Pakistan, Indonesia, India, China and Nigeria, plus black Africa, contain about half the population of the world, yet rank last in total and per-person production both in 1967 and in 2000.

He concludes: "Can one feel confident that one-half the population of the globe will simply sit around for the next 30 years without making an effort toward higher standards of living for their many millions of people?"

And a global war could, of course, knock forecasts askew.

Preparing Food For Astronaut Crews Said A Major Challenge

SHE FEEDS ASTRONAUTS — Rita M. Rapp demonstrates the packaging of some of the food which winds up on the "dinner table" of spacecraft. (AP Wirephoto)

By BILL STOCKTON
AP Science Writer
SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — When Apollo astronauts don't talk about their food during conversations with Mission Control, that's an ominous sign for Rita Rapp.

"It probably means they're not happy with some of it or it's 'just food' to them," she said in an interview.

Miss Rapp recently was named one of six recipients to the Federal Women's Award for 1971, given to career government employees.

It's her job to see that Apollo crews have tasty, well planned meals during their journeys to the moon. Since 1968 Miss Rapp has been subsystems manager for Apollo food and personal hygiene items at the Manned Spacecraft Center.

"Of course," she admits, "even on earth if you ate two or three meals a day in the best restaurant for 10 or 14 days it would have a tendency to get monotonous."

Miss Rapp, a native of Piqua, Ohio, is a 15-year veteran of the space program. She holds a bachelor of science degree in biology from the University of Dayton and a master's degree in anatomy from St. Louis University.

She worked in early studies of the effects of acceleration on animals and men, helped design spacecraft couches, and participated in design of spaceship medical kits and methods of monitoring the health of the astronauts in space.

Then came the Apollo program and she volunteered to direct development of its food and feeding systems.

"It was a challenge," she said. "At first, I thought once the food was prepared and on board the spacecraft, it would settle into a routine job."

"But I quickly discovered that with each crew you get three new men with three new tastes and new ideas about what they want to eat." In the early Apollo flights, the astronauts had dehydrated food in plastic tubes to which they added water. They squeezed the food into their mouths, like toothpaste from a tube.

"After the first few flights," Miss Rapp said, "they started complaining about the food so I had to regroup."

She had to get away from the tubes, since an astronaut couldn't smell his food.

"Taste is really part smell, anyway," she said.

A new system was designed in which water was added to a package of dehydrated food, just as in the old system. But instead of squeezing the food into his mouth, the astronaut opened the package and ate the food with a spoon.

The complaints decreased.

Club membership includes more than 50 Greenville area youngsters age 16 and under.

Sees Poor Sale Of 'Hot Pants'

CHICAGO (AP) — The head of a firm that tests consumer reactions say "hot pants" will fail to sell well on the American market because the word is "objectionable" to most people.

Louis Cheskin, president of Louis Cheskin Associates, said even persons who like the extremely short shorts will rebel because "the name, 'hot pants' has no psycho-social acceptance."

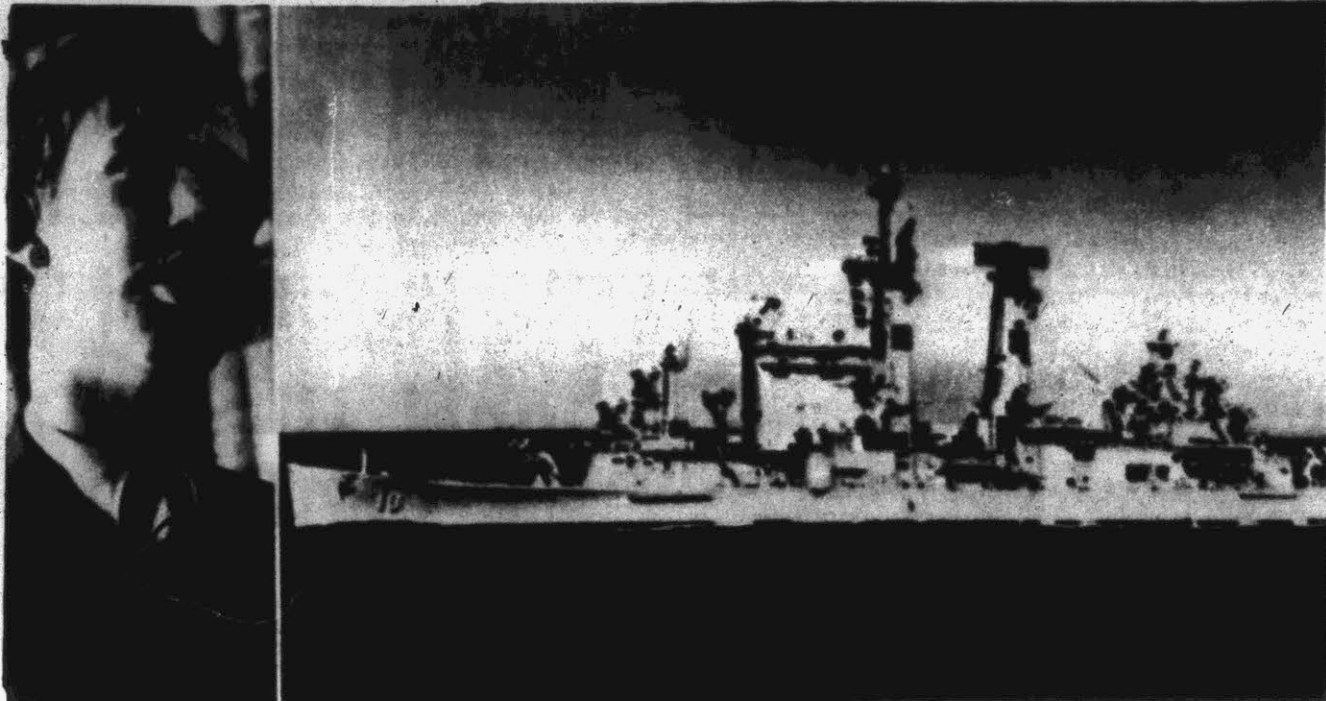

Cheskin says he previously predicted the failure of the midiskirt and the Edsel automobile.

Southeast Feels Grip Of Winter

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

No letup was expected today from the wave of bitter, cold weather that has gripped the Southeast, with early morning temperatures forecast to plunge to zero in parts of Tennessee.

Travelers warnings were issued by the National Weather Service for Monday night in parts of North Carolina and Georgia. In most of the rest of the Southeast cold wave and hard freeze warnings were in effect.

The Georgia Highway Department reported ice on two highways in north Georgia near Dalton and Lookout Mountain and the state patrol issued a hazardous driving warning in north Georgia for most of the night.

In south Georgia heavy rains produced flooding in many streams and rivers, accompanied by heavy thundershowers and damaging winds.

Rain forced a postponement until today of up to two inches of snow in the east portion of North Carolina, originally forecast for Monday night.

Two tornadoes struck South Carolina Monday, with winds up to 30 miles per hour gusting over the state. Hardest hit was the Pee Dee area. There were no reports of damages or injuries.

Cold wave warnings were issued for parts of Tennessee, Alabama and northwest Florida.

At Decatur, Ala., divers plunged into the icy waters of the Tennessee River Monday night in a search for the body of a truck driver whose rig slammed through a bridge guard rail and into the swollen river.

State troopers said it was believed the truck skidded on the pavement made slippery by freezing rain and snow. The truck was recovered with both its cab doors open. The driver's name was not released.

More cold weather was forecast for tonight. The National Weather Service said relief can be expected toward the end of the week.

Will Fight Rapid Transit Funds

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — "I will fight tooth and nail to keep anyone from using money from highway taxes for rapid transit systems," the trucking industry's highest elected official says.

C. James McCormick, board chairman of the American Trucking Association, said the truckers' attitude toward rapid transit is that "people who use it should pay for it."

"Truckers pay more than 35 per cent of all highway taxes for about 16 per cent of the total number of vehicles in this country," he said in an interview. The group opened a convention here Sunday.

Money Remains An Assembly Handicap

RALEIGH (AP) — Money problems remained at the atop of the General Assembly's list of priorities as the session began its fourth full week.

A joint subcommittee of the legislature was scheduled to meet informally today to begin work on legislation dealing with a local option 1 per cent sales tax.

Since the State Supreme Court ruled last month that the optional levy was unconstitutional, several bills have been introduced into the legislature which would provide solutions to the problem. Twenty-five North Carolina counties had approved the tax, but the high court said the tax was not uniform statewide and was therefore unconstitutional.

The Joint Finance Committee hoped to work out proposals to deal with the tax issue.

Rep. Dwight Quinn, D-Cabarrus, who is the co-sponsor of one bill to alleviate the money squeeze, said it is imperative that legislative action be taken as early as possible because of the budget crisis facing the 25 counties. Quinn is chairman of the House Finance Committee. The Joint Appropriations Committee is also to continue hearings on supplemental budget requests by state agencies and departments.

actual reduction in welfare spending. Verne Orr, California's finance director, observes that the State's taxpayers now are providing levels of medical care for the indigent which they cannot possibly afford to provide for themselves. What sense, he asks, does that make? His rhetorical question is likely to draw a rousing "amen" from the voters.

The same antagonism is growing everywhere. In New York City, one out of seven residents is on welfare. Pennsylvania's Gov. Shapp sees bankruptcy ahead for his State; in three years, his welfare rolls have doubled. Chicago and Newark are desperate. One year ago, the number on welfare was estimated nationally at 10.4 million persons. Now the figure is somewhere between 12.2 and 13.5 million. Annual costs exceed $14 billion.

And at this juncture, Mr. Nixon is proposing a vast new Family Assistance Plan that would add 10 to 15 million persons to the rolls at an added cost of at least $5 billion the first year. Mr. Reagan, meanwhile, is proposing cutbacks instead. Who is the wiser politician?

Demographic changes will play a part in the coming battle. Between 1970 and 1980, one-third of the projected population increase will be in the 25-34 age group. These will be young men and women just getting established in the labor force. Even now they see their paychecks bobtailed by mounting social security taxes, while social security benefits seem many years away. They sit down to dinner and see inflation impelling them toward cold cuts, tuna-fish salad and leftover spaghetti. They are generous in their instincts — Americans always are — and they will take care of the truly needy. But generosity has its limits; and those limits are close at hand.

Reagan is talking the language of America's productive people — those who labor, pay taxes, meet their bills, do without, struggle for the good life. And so long as the country numbers more productive than non-productive people, has austerity appeal will keep him politically on the side of the angels.

the immense risk of committing U. S. troops against the Cambodian sanctuaries last spring. Destruction of important parts of that Communist base system blocked a major attack against South Vietnam for the 1971 dry season, lasting into next summer.

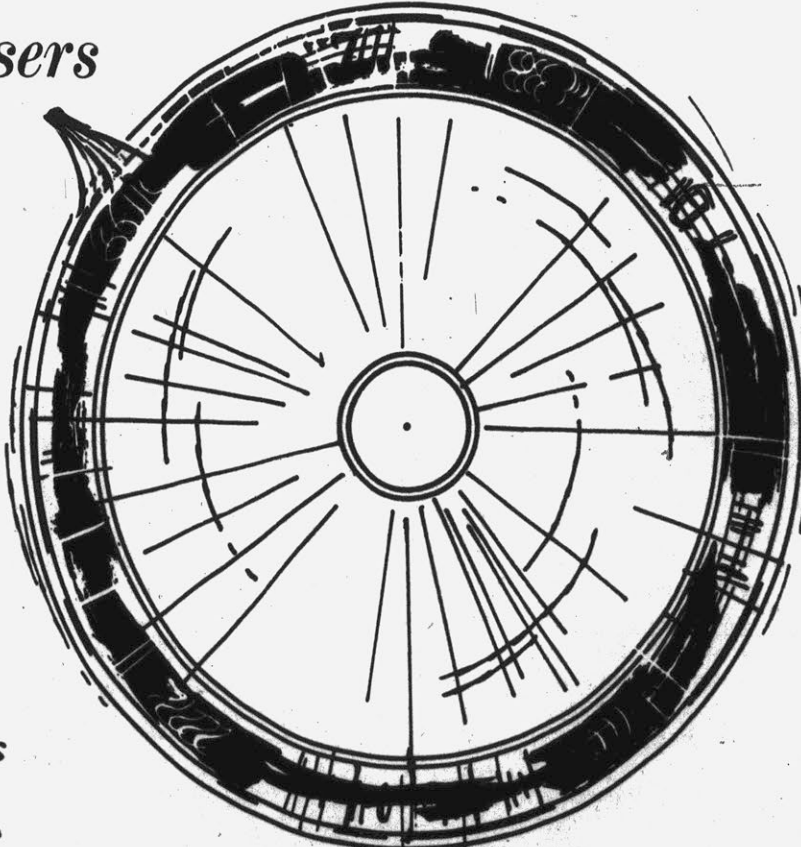

Similarly, disruption of the Ho Chi Minh Trail now would prevent the enemy from reestablishing supply systems along the Vietnamese border during that same period, thus gaining one more year of grace. If successful, that would postpone Hanoi's essential base-and-supply preparations for major military action against South Vietnam until the 1972 dry season and postpone the attack itself until 1973.

This course is fraught with extreme danger for Mr. Nixon — politically at home and militarily in the war zone. But he has made clear many times he will not withdraw from South Vietnam by surrendering outright and leaving South Vietnam ripe for the plucking. His strenuous efforts and risk-taking are designed to buy more time for a withdrawal that history will find honorable. As of today he will accept nothing less.

is as much a problem with most cities as it is in Greenville. Some North Carolina cities are resorting to sophisticated devices—burglar alarms, TV cameras—to protect their facilities. Lee commented that recreation leaders expressed the opinion that more federal grants would be forthcoming in the 70s to assist in the recreation field, tying in with growing widespread interest across the nation in preserving recreational sites and natural resources. Other developments Lee reported as important ones in North Carolina is the growing tendency to merge county-city recreation facilities, and enlargement of sources of funds, including the use of ABC revenues.

Finances Continue Preoccupy Assembly

By H. HORTON ROUNTREE
Representative

As the fifth week of the 1971

General Assembly gets under way, it is apparent that the financial plight of the counties deprived of the one-cent sales tax and the controversy over the East Carolina University Medical School have moved to the forefront of issues facing the legislators.

Two bills involving the one-cent sales tax have been introduced in the General Assembly. One bill proposes that a statewide one-cent sales tax be levied, with all monies being distributed to the 100 counties. The other proposal would provide for a local option one-cent sales tax to be voted on by the people of each county.

Last week a public hearing on these two propositions was held by the joint Senate and House Finance Committee. Pitt County was represented by County Attorney W. W. Speight, County Auditor Reginald Gray and Commissioners Charles Gaskins, Bruce Strickland, and Robert Martin. A resolution had been passed by the commissioners requesting Pitt County's senators and representatives to support the statewide sales tax proposal. Mr. Speight appeared before the committee to present the county's position on the tax.

The long awaited report by the Council on Medical Education of the American Medical Association on the East Carolina University Medical School was delivered to Governor Scott last Thursday. Action by the Board of Higher Education will be the next step.

Some state newspapers have interpreted the report as unfavorable in front page "editorials." However, the report, as I read it, is good; and we shall pursue this great need for our area of the state.

The report clearly states that bined figure for the 1970-71 fiscal year to $501.3 million, an increase of 10.97 per cent over the same period a year earlier. Revenue officials in 1969 estimated the tax collections this year would run 11.19 per cent higher than the 1969-70 figures.

January's revenues showed a smaller increase than December's, which was an increase of 7.01 per cent over December, 1969. Both months are down considerably from November, which saw a 15.59 per cent increase from November 1969.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Howard Baker Jr., R-Tenn., says he did not intend to abolish the Appalachian Regional Commission with the federal revenue sharing plan he proposed.

The White House has announced plans to end the federally financed and coordinated commission June 30, 1972, saying it would only duplicate regionally the proposed revenue sharing plan.

"This is one thing on which I disagree with administration officials," Baker said Monday. "I am cosponsoring a bill to continue the Appalachian Commission for four years."

The bill which would extend the life of the commission received the official backing Monday of 13 Appalachian governors.

the proposed medical school cannot be "accredited" until the examining board is assured that the school will have adequate funding (from the legislature). On the other hand, the position of some people is that the legislature should not fund the medical school until it is accredited. Thus we have arrived at an impasse. "Which comes first, the chicken or the egg?"

The 1969 General Assembly created a special study commission to rewrite the state's ABC Act. The resolution creating the commission stated its purpose as follows: "... that such laws shall be more cohesive, better understandable and less ambiguous, to the end that the enforcement authorities and the general public will be more able to understand, enforce, and abide by such laws." The problem was a complicated one since the state's ABC laws had not been updated since 1933, and there were many contradictory statutes on the books.

The resulting bill is 140 pages long, and the product of ten months' work. Senator Norris Reed of Craven County and I, as members of the nine-member study commission, introduced the bill in our respective houses of the Legislature last week. This bill has absolutely nothing to do with liquor-by-the-drink legislation which is also pending. It covers only existing laws relative to sale, consumption, and transportation of alcoholic beverages.

During public hearings before the study commission, the chief enforcement officer of the State ABC Board and the North Carolina County ABC Board Association requested certain changes in the time of sale, days of sale, and amounts to be sold. Those who requested these changes testified that the changes would make it easier for the public to abide by the law and the law officers to enforce the law more efficiently. In the final analysis, the General Assembly will decide the action to be taken.

ECU Relationship With Chapel Hill Is Discussed

CHAPEL HILL — "Seriously, if I only knew what I read in the newspapers about the rivalry of our institutions," Dr. Leo W. Jenkins told members of the University of North Carolina Faculty Club at a luncheon today, "I would marvel that I speak civilly—to say nothing of speaking in friendship—to your president and chancellor, or that you would have considered inviting me to speak to you today unless it was to draw me into your lair and to set upon me with clubs when I let down my guard."

The East Carolina University President's remarks were made to the UNC Faculty Club on competition in higher education. "I have long ago developed immunity to multiple barbs and discourtesies from the press," Dr. Jenkins noted. He charged that "...with the puckish intervention of the public press, a distorted picture of higher education, and particularly the relationships of such universities as yours and mine, is being foisted on the general public."

He continued, "Critics have said competition in higher education is not because it is at the taxpayers' expense. But I say competition in education is necessary to protect the taxpayer."

"What is the real relationship between Chapel Hill and Greenville," the ECU president questioned.

Saying "what does the community of scholars in Greenville think of the community of scholars in Chapel Hill" Dr. Jenkins emphasized, "they think you constitute one of the few first-rate universities in the United States...and know that you honor this tradition and advance it in your work...and take delight in the number of your top-rated faculties and departments."

"They may send their children here and they want them to get a good education and a degree from a prestigious school. But most of all, the community of scholars in Greenville are dedicated to taking education to those who want it and need it, and they admire you for doing the same work so well."

He added that "We want you to offer the range of programs needed by the people of this state..."

Questioning "What do we think of your requests for more money," Dr. Jenkins commented, "since we want you to have a broad range of programs and take pride in your...ratings, it follows that we want you to have what you need to set a standard of excellence for this state—even this nation."

"Mind you," he emphasized, "I am not saying you should get all the money!"

"You have achieved excellence in past years without getting all the money. You did it by making good use of your resources. You have achieved excellence while East Carolina University has improved itself in a dramatic fashion with money received. We also had to make good use of the money allotted to us."

"We want you to get enough to continue and expand your excellence, but I should hope," Dr. Jenkins said, "that we would both expect to account to the taxpayers for a wise use of funds."

"Finally, in this competition does Greenville hope to surpass Chapel Hill? Of course not," the ECU head noted.

Asking "What do we mean when we speak of competition in higher education," Dr. Jenkins answered "we mean a civilized effort to offer better programs in Greenville."

"Why? For many reasons. ECU, he said, "is one of North Carolina's universities, and we take pride in increasing educational opportunities for our citizens. Some of you send your children to school at Greenville, and we want them to get a good education and a degree from a school with a fine reputation."

"But most of all, he emphasized, "we are dedicated to taking education to those who Dubler reported that two workshops are scheduled in Charlotte and in Southern Pines this month and requested that authorization be given for two staff members to attend the sessions. Commissioners authorized attendance at both of the Carolinas Council workshops.

As was expected, Dubler gave the commission his advance notice of retirement and told board members that he would probably remain until around the first of November while a successor is being considered.

The executive director submitted his notice last Monday night at the meeting of the Housing Authority and similar action was expected last night. He is retiring for health reasons, he noted.

EAL Accused Of Creating Airport Hazard

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Delta Air Lines has accused a competitor — Eastern Air Lines — with creating the emergency scheduling problems at Atlanta Airport of which Eastern has complained.

Delta made the charge Monday in a brief before the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Eastern had asked the CAB to give it permission to negotiate with other airlines serving Atlanta in an effort to reduce flights at peak periods.

There were more than 80 flights operating at the airport in one hour, Eastern said. Delta replied: "The fault for any recent increase in congestion of the airport lies directly with Eastern Air Lines, particularly during the 7:25 p.m. to 7:40 p.m. period about which Eastern complained. Eastern's own schedules violated its suggested formula more than any carrier serving the airport."

New Hotel For Norfolk Planned

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — An $11 to $12 million hotel, the first built in downtown Norfolk since 1959, is planned next to the city's cultural and convention center now under construction.

The Vector Co. of Knoxville, Tenn., was chosen Monday to build the 14-story, 410-room facility under a negotiated agreement with the Norfolk Redevelopment and Housing Authority. The agreement specifies construction must start within eight months and be completed in 18 to 24 months.

The authority, which owns urban renewal land south of the center, agreed to sell the hotel site for $150,000.

Jim Gregory celebrated his selection as Southern Conference Athlete of the Week by going himself one better as he led East Carolina to a 103-81 rout of Southern Mississippi last night.

Gregory had tied his career single game high of 32 last week in one of the three games that brought him selection of Athlete of the Week. Last night, he cracked that personal mark, pouring in 36 points.

Dave Franklin, who broke into the starting lineup after Jim Fairley was injured, also had a career high, ripping the nets for 31.

The Pirates had a relatively easy time with the Southerners, who offered only one threat in the second half. It was the fifth straight win for the Bucs, who are now 11-9 for the year.

The win also closed out a home stand for the Bucs, who have four games left for the year. They go on the road Saturday to meet The Citadel in Charleston in another key Southern Conference game. They return home on the 20th against William & Mary, go to Jacksonville on the 22nd, and close out the regular season at home on the 27th against The Citadel.

Gregory and Franklin, in leading the win, were devastating in both their scoring and board play. Gregory, who hit nine of 10 shots in the first half, finished with 15 of 24 from the floor and six of nine from the line for his 36 point total. He had 19 rebounds.

Franklin connected on 12 of 18 from the field and on seven of 11 free throws for his 31. He had 12 rebounds.

Big Al Faber also had a fine night, connecting for 20 points, including a perfect 10-for-10 night at the stripe. He had 14 rebounds.

Southern Mississippi put the ball into the air more often than any team the Pirates have seen this year, taking a total of 101 shots from the floor. They hit on only 35 of them, however, but the real difference was at the line.

The Bucs, in a zone most of the way, didn't commit fouls, getting only 10 called against them, while Southern Mississippi had 24 on them. That meant a difference of 22 trips to the line for the Bucs, who hit on 27 of 37, one of their better shooting nights. The Southerners made only 11 of 15.

Southern Miss led only briefly at the start, grabbing a 2-1 lead. Gregory hit on a free throw after four seconds, but Rick Ragland put the Southerners on top with a shot from the corner after 20 seconds. Tom Vachinich upped it to 3-1 with a rebound, but the Bucs came back and took the lead on a shot from underneath by Gregory and two free throws by Faber, 5-4.

Southern tied it at 5-5, 7-7, 9-9 and 13-13 before the Bucs began to pull away. Dave McNeill hit at the line to make it 14-13 and Faber and McNeill and Gregory each followed with baskets to run the lead out to 20-13 before Southern could score again. They cut it back to three on two baskets, but East Carolina pulled away again, and slowly began to move out as Gregory and Franklin continued to pour in the points. With 5:00 to go, McNeill hit to push the Bucs into a 16-point lead, 43-27, but Southern put on another rally, and cut it back to 10 with a pair of free throws and two field goals. But the Bucs spurted again in the closing two minutes to run back out by 17 just before the end, but a basket at the horn by Wilbert Jordan cut it to 56-41 at intermission.

The Bucs cooled off from their hot 64.7 field goal percentage in the early minutes of the first half, going one-for-12 in the first eight minutes. In the meanwhile, Southern put on its final rally and cut the lead from 15 back to three. Only three free throws in the first five minutes kept the Bucs ahead, and they had to get six more at the line before finally cracking the ice with a baseline jumper by Faber with 11:10 to go.

Southern used a balanced attack to cut away the lead, drawing it to 61-58 before the Bucs moved it out again. But when the Pirates did get going, they went away quick. From the three-point edge, East Carolina moved away and after five minutes had built up a nine-point lead again, getting only two field goals in the interval. But in the next four minutes they warmed again and shot away to a 18-point edge at 85-67 with 6:41 left in the game.

After that, it was just a question of the margin, as the Bucs moved out by as much as 26 points just before the end.

For the Southerners, Rich Corsetto had 16 points, while Tom Yachinich and John Byrne each had 14, Rich Ragland had 12 and Wilbert Jordan had 11.

The Bucs now get back into Southern Conference action Saturday in their important game with The Citadel.

Baby Bucs Win In Overtime

East Carolina University's freshmen had to go into overtime to escape with a 101-93 victory over Mount Olive Junior College last night. The game was a preliminary to the East Carolina-Southern Mississippi game.

East Carolina, up by six in the early minutes of the second half, had to battle off the strong Trojans the entire second half, and had to pull off a come back of their own after trailing by five.

They looked like they had it wrapped up, however, when they pulled out to a six-point lead with 2:20 left, but Mount Olive fought back again and tied it up with 38 seconds left to force the overtime.

After Mount Olive took the opening lead on a free throw, Mike White put the Baby Bucs ahead with a fast break basket and they held to the lead and built up as much as a nine-point lead with 8:37 left in the half at 28-19. Mount Olive chipped away at the lead, however, and finally tied it up at 38-38 again. East Carolina and the Trojans matched baskets the rest of the way, with the Bucs holding a 50-48 lead at the half.

In the second half, East Carolina shot ahead again, 54-48 on two quick baskets, but Mount Olive came back again and took the lead this time on a driving layup by Buddy Sasser at 58-57. East Carolina regained it on Barry Pasko's basket at 61-60, but lost it right back.

Mount Olive then moved out by as much as five-points. That came on a three-point play by Mike Cherry when the Bucs had only four players on the court. Mike White had been called for his fifth foul underneath his own basket on a charging foul. There was, at the time, some question over whether a tap on the shot had been good, and before the Bucs got their sub in, the officials allowed the free throw by Mount Olive to take place. It missed and Cherry put in the rebound and was fouled to give him an extra shot.

The Bucs, after the fifth man returned, fought back and regained the lead at 78-77 on Steve Close's shot from the corner. They held to it the rest of the way, building up an 87-81 lead with 2:20 left, but the Trojans got three baskets in the final minute to tie it up at 87-81 and force the overtime.

In that, Ray Peszko hit the opening basket and East Carolina and Mount Olive swapped baskets until Nicky White hit on a pair of free throws to put the Bucs into a 96-94 lead and they never lost it, building up to the final eight-point bulge.

White finished the game with 30 points, while Peszko had 24, Close had 16 and Pasko had 14.

Cherry was high for Mount Olive with 32, while Cal Wade had 22, Charlie Hegarty had 16 and Walt Frye had 12.

Pitt Tech In Final Victory

TARBORO — Pitt Technical Institute pulled away in the second half to take a 68-53 victory over Nash Tech last night. It was the final regular season game for the Techmen.

They finished the year with a 9-1 conference record, and are assured of no worse than a tie for the Northern Division title with Beaufort. They are 11-4 overall.

The two teams both got off to a slow start in the game, and the lead switched hands a number of times with neither team getting over two points ahead. Pitt held a 25-24 lead at the half.

In the second half, Pitt changed from a zone to a man-to-man defense, and they began to pull away as their defense did the trick for them. They worked up a 12-point lead, then moved back into the zone for the rest of the game to take the win. Eddie Stokes led Pitt with 23 points, while Angelo Hooker had 21. For Nash, W. H. Johnson had 21, Walter Hunter had 12 and Ronnie Baker had 10. Pitt will now await the outcome of Beaufort's final conference game Saturday night. If a tie does remain after that, the two will probably play it off Monday night. The winner then goes into the overall conference finals on Wednesday at Atlantic Christian College in Wilson.

Gilmore Does His Usual Thing

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
It was just another night for Jacksonville giant Artis Gilmore while, for Mississippi's hot-shot Johnny Neumann, it was one of those nights.

Gilmore did everything on the court but referee Monday night's game as the sixth-ranked Dolphins bombed New Orleans Loyola 111-93 for their 10th straight victory and a 15-2 record. The 7-foot-2 star scored 24 points, hauled in 28 rebounds and blocked 11 shots.

Neumann scored 22 for the Rebels, a respectable total for just about anyone else—but his poorest performance of the season. He went into the game with a 41.3 average but Tennessee's box-and-one defense enabled the 14th-ranked Volunteers to come away with an 80-74 triumph.

In other major collegiate action Kansas ripped Colorado 91-67, Dayton stunned Western Kentucky 63-60, Kentucky wall-pounded Mississippi State 102-83, Notre Dame belted Butler 93-81, Utah State trounced Tulane 103-81 and North Carolina squeezed by North Carolina State 65-63.

The Vols' defense, devised by Coach Ray Mears, limited Neumann to 19 shots. The sophomore star hit 11 of them. The score was knotted 39-38 at the half but Tennessee hit the first nine points of the second half and, with Neumann in foul trouble, held off the Rebels.

"Artis had a super game," Jacksonville Coach Tom Wasdin exulted. "He proved who the king is."

Loyola Coach Bob Luksta agreed. "Credit Gilmore for having learned a lot of basketball since we played him last year" when the Dolphins won 96-75. "He moves around better, his defense is better, his offense is better and his technique of blocking shots is much improved. He has to be the No. 1 college player."

Mark Williams came off the bench to pump in a career-high 22 points for the fifth-ranked Jayhawks, who were unable to keep high-scoring Colorado ace Cliff Meely from taking game honors with 25. Dave Robisch topped Kansas with 24.

Dayton's George Jackson starred at both ends of the court as the Flyers tripped seventh-ranked Western Kentucky. The 6-foot-7 center limited the Hill-toppers' 7-foot star Jim McDaniels to 19 points—two of them in the second half.

He also led Dayton with 16, including seven as the Flyers broke away from a 55-55 tie in the closing minutes.

VMI Ends Long String As Spiders Bite Dust

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
All season long Virginia Military Institute's Keydets have been losing one basketball game after another, and all season long Coach Mike Schuler has kept insisting that "we're not that bad."

The drought ended Monday night when VMI, the only winless major college team in the country, upended Richmond's Spiders 73-63 in a Southern Conference game for their first victory in 20 starts this year and their first in 25 games since last February.

"It certainly did feel good to win," Schuler said afterward, "but I honestly felt and have felt all along that VMI was a better team than 0-19. I think tonight they just decided they were going out and play ball—and they did. They played exceptionally well."

Four other conference teams played outside the league and split even.

East Carolina's Pirates

whacked Southern Mississippi 103-81 and Furman's Paladins whipped Wofford 83-62, but William and Mary's Indians were routed by Virginia Tech 91-63 and The Citadel's Bulldogs were 81-70 losers at Tennessee-Chattanooga.

Things looked just the same when VMI fell behind 25-20 late in the first half, but the Keydets ripped off an 18-5 tear that gave them a 38-30 lead at intermission and Schuler said at that point "there was no doubt in my mind we would win."

Richmond came back to tie it at 44-44 only 3½ minutes deep into the second half, but the Keydets quickly rebuilt a seven-point lead, then pushed it to nine. The Spiders crept back to a 64-62 deficit with 4 minutes left, but the Keydets outscored them 9-1 from there on out.

Jim Sefick had 25 points and Lee Seibert 23 for VMI, both career high marks. Seibert, who came into the game averaging 3.3 points per contest, also hauled down 14 rebounds as the Keydets took a whopping 59-30 margin on the boards. VMI shot 44 per cent to 35 per cent for the Spiders, who fell to 3-16 with Mike Anastasio their top scorer with 18 points.

East Carolina shot 64.7 per cent from the floor in building a 56-41 halftime lead over Southern Mississippi. Two Pirates scored career highs, Jim Gregory with 36 points and sophomore Dave Franklin with 31.

Sophomore Russ Hunt had 27 points and Jerry Martin added 18 as Furman also had a hot first half, shooting 57 per cent for a 45-25 bulge over Wofford at intermission.

The Citadel led Chattanooga 40-34 at halftime but fell behind early in the second half and never caught up. Tom Losh had 27 points for the winners, Lou Meckstroth 15 for The Citadel.

All conference teams are idle tonight.

North Carolina Nips State In Final Minute

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

North Carolina has reinforced its lead in Atlantic Coast Conference basketball after a shaky victory, over North Carolina State that wasn't decided until the last minute.

The Tar Heels eked out a 65-63 victory Monday night on the Wolfpack's home court in Raleigh. It took a couple of foul shots by Lee Dedmon in the final 29 seconds to clinch the victory.

Dedmon got his chance after North Carolina State's Joe Dunning missed a one-on-one shot and a Tar Heel snagged the rebound.

As the Tar Heels moved the ball in for a score, Dedmon was fouled twice—and each time he made one of two shots. Clemson played host to Rollins Monday night in the only other action. The Tigers slapped down the visitors, 77-52.

The Tigers had built a 37-point lead over Rollins with 3:23 left in the game. By that time starters were sitting on the bench wondering why things couldn't be this easy in their ACC games.

The victory gave the Tigers a 7-11 over-all record. They have a 2-6 ACC ledger and are in the cellar.

North Carolina's victory gave the Tar Heels a 14-3 over-all record, 7-1 in the conference. Virginia at 5-3 is in second place.

All ACC teams rest tonight. But the action resumes Wednesday, with Wake Forest at Duke, Maryland at Virginia and South Carolina meeting Davidson at Charlotte.

Virginia's test pits the Cavaliers against a 4-4 ACC team. Maryland, 12-5 over-all, ranks fifth in the conference. But its strong over-all record gives an indication it could surprise the Cavaliers—who themselves are the big surprise on a 13-4 mark in all games.

Duke is 3-5 in the league and Wake Forest is 2-4.

UCLA Slips In As Poll Leader

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer

By the margin of a four-point victory on the court and a four-point victory in the voting, UCLA is once again holding down the No. 1 spot in The Associated Press college basketball poll.

The Bruins, defending national champions, clawed their way back to the top by virtue of a 64-60 victory over Southern California, their previously unbeaten crosstown neighbors, last Saturday night.

That victory convinced an AP board of sports writers and broadcasters from across the country that UCLA had earned its way back to the top. But, it must be said, The AP board wasn't overly convinced.

Marquette, which had taken over the No. 1 spot after UCLA was upset by Notre Dame two weeks ago, ran its all-winning streak to 18 games last week and outpolled UCLA in first place votes in The AP poll, 22-17. But the Bruins' over-all vote-getting strength totaled 746 points, four more than Marquette.

A first-place vote in The AP poll is worth 20 points, second place 18, third place 16, etc. Thus it was possible for UCLA, while trailing in first place votes, to overtake Marquette in the total points. The margin was four points—the same edge the Bruins held over USC on the court.

USC's loss to UCLA hurt not only Marquette's standing in the poll, but the Trojans' as well. Southern Cal fell one notch from second to third, totaling 597 points—30 more than Pennsylvania, which remained fourth.

Two Forfeits In Industrial

Fieldcrest Mills had to battle to hold its two-game lead in the Industrial Basketball League last night, while the two second-place teams just sat back and relaxed. Fieldcrest beat Wachovia, 57-47 in the only game played. State Highway took a forfeit win over WNCT, while Vermont American forfeited to National Cash Register.

Fieldcrest is now 10-1, while State Highway and NCR are both 8-3. Wachovia is 6-5, WNCT, 2-9, and Vermont American, 0-11. The latter three are out of the race for the title.

Fieldcrest slipped out into a four-point lead in the first half of play, outscoring Wachovia, 25-21. They pulled away in the second half, pushing in 35, while Wachovia got 26.

Bill Stocks had 19 points to lead Fieldcrest, while Lewis Williams had 15. For Wachovia, Walter Jones had 16, and Jerry Sparrow and Jimmy Smith each had 10.

Prior to last night's games, Lewis Williams of Fieldcrest led the league in scoring with a 23.4 margin. He is well ahead of second place Walter Claybrook, also of Fieldcrest who has an 18.0 average.

They are followed by Kelly Witherington, NCR, 16.7; Billy Stocks, Fieldcrest, 16.5; Phil Page, State Highway, and Walter Jones, Wachovia both 13.4; Bill Hall, NCR, 12.6; Smith Worthington, State Highway, 12.4; Jerry Smith, Wachovia, 12.1; and Ronnie Foster, Vermont American and Ikey Arnold, WNCT, 10.6 each.

Worry Clinic Second-Raters Use Vulgarity

Rev. Schenck shocked his companion in the hay field one summer day. For he told the latter "Don't put me ahead of God." Read this case to understand what was meant. And by all means send for the booklet below to help give your children a set of precise verbal instruments for their mental tool kit.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

Case P-566: Rev. Arthur Schenck is a retired clergyman. But he occupies pulpits almost every Sunday as a guest minister when other pastors are ill or on vacation.

"When I was younger," he said, "I volunteered to help one of my parishioners put up hay. Several neighbors were also on hand to assist."

"One of them was very profane. He could hardly utter a couple of sentences without using the Lord's name in vain."

"But when he was introduced to me and found out that I was a preacher, he apologized and said he'd omit his profanity."

"It rather shocked him when I told him not to put me ahead of God!"

"For if he thought it was O.K. to swear in front of the Almighty, but not in front of me, then he was elevating me above God!"

Verbal Pollution

In this age when stress is being placed on purifying the air, as well as our rivers and lakes, we should likewise remember the value of pure language.

Profanity is pollution of our communication mediums, both spoken and written! Yet many authors and playwrights nowadays inject excessive profanity or vulgarity into their works as a lazy means of producing shocked laughter.

They mistakenly think the crowd's nervous titillation means the play's dialogue is funny! Not so!

And I use the word "lazy" to describe such writers, for it takes much more talent and time to create plots with wholesome humor that will evoke true laughter!

Second-raters stud their scripts with filthy language! "Dr. Crane," a cultured chemical engineer recently commented, "I just got back from Times Square and Broadway in New York City."

"I hadn't been there for several years. What a change! The street abounds with filthy degenerates."

"Pornographic shops confront you on all sides."

"Movies are vulgar documentaries of lewd sex in Sweden and Denmark."

"My partner and I, plus a few others, also stood out from the crowd because we were dressed neatly and had haircuts!"

"The human pollution even exceeds that of the air and water!"

No wonder Mayor Lindsay has a tough time!

But parents and all those who aspire to be cultured, should help cooperate with our faithful public school teachers.

The latter inveigh against vulgar speech, including excessive slang and certainly profanity.

Words are actually the tools of the mind so they should be precise and appropriate.

A teen-age girl who fails to think through to the conclusion of her ideas, will thus throw in Opening lead: King of ♣.

Declarer's approach suffered from the lack of a delicate touch in today's hand, and the defenders were quick to follow the line of attack he so clearly indicated to them.

West opened the king of clubs against South's four heart contract. The ace was played from dummy as declarer hastened to dispose of a losing diamond from his hand. The ten of hearts was led and permitted to ride for a finesse. West won the trick with the king and, since South had apparently revealed his weak spot by his discard at trick one, West promptly shifted to the queen of diamonds. This was covered by the king and ace, and East continued the suit until declarer ruffed in on the third round. The defense now had their book—two diamond tricks and one heart—and, when the spade finesse failed subsequently, the contract was defeated by one trick.

South failed to give himself the best psychological advantage by his play to the initial trick. He should have discarded a small spade from his hand instead of the diamond. Since a discard is usually made from weakness in a suit, and West did actually hasten to shift to a diamond when he regained the lead, declarer at little extra cost would have been better advised to steer his opponent down the wrong path.

Suppose that South discards a spade at trick one. Now when West is in, if he returns a spade into declarer's ace-jack, South will eventually be able to take a diamond discard on the dummy's king of spades. That way he will lose only two diamonds and one heart.

West should actually exit with a club when he is in, since there is no pressing need for any shift, but the psychological lure of declarer's discard is often irresistible and South might just as well have availed himself of the opportunity.

slang as a lazy stop-gap, as:

"It was a swell show. The food was swell. The music was swell. I had a swell time."

That word "swell" is an inexact term to help her avoid the mental effort of using the precise terms, "entertaining," "delicious," "romantic" and "delightful," respectively.

Words, like a carpenter's tools, must be adapted to the specific task involved.

A carpenter doesn't use a crude hatchet for exact work nor for all his jobs, since that would be like the coed's lax use of "swell."

Words are thus the precision instruments of your mental tool box! Keep them sharp and use them in proper places!

Would Bolster Water Rights Of N.C. Cities

By YVONNE BASKIN
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — The rights of North Carolina cities which must bring in their water supplies from distant reservoirs would be strengthened under a bill now before the General Assembly.

Sen. Gordon Allen, D-Person, and five other legislators introduced in the Senate Monday night a bill to clarify the law regarding the right to usage of water as it is transferred from its place of storage to the point of usage.

North Carolina law is now based on French "riparian" law which gives landowners the right to use water flowing by or through their property and to have it "undiminished in quantity or quality."

Allen said the need for his bill first came to light with the recent construction of federal multipurpose reservoirs, such as the Kerr Scott Reservoir.

The city of Winston-Salem is already paying for water released into the Yadkin River from that reservoir. The city of Raleigh wants to transport water from the proposed Falls of the Neuse Reservoir via the Neuse River.

The main purpose of the legislation, Allen said, is to assure that whoever pays for storing the water for the purpose of downstream use has a legally protected right to withdraw it from the transporting stream. Landowners further downstream could not claim their water was diminished by the withdrawal.

Also, the bill would prevent "freeloaders" who did not contribute to the cost of the water storage from poaching on the increased stream flow destined for use by the city downstream which paid for it.

This would keep other municipalities along the way from draining off the increased stream flow or farmers and landowners from withdrawing it for irrigation or diverting it into pools or lakes.

The bill spells out the definitions and details of withdrawal rights as well as formulas for calculating the average flow in any given stream.

The measure was developed by the Legislative Research Commission's committee on water and air resources. Allen was chairman of the committee.

The Department of Water and Air Resources supports the bill. The agency would administer the law and could seek civil court action for injunctive or other relief when the rights of a legal recipient of impounded water were violated.

Allen said the bill is the first in a series of bills that "hopefully will provide abundant water for all the people of North Carolina."

Food Prices To Continue To Rise

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Food costs rose as fast as wages last year, catching up for the first time in 12 years, the Agriculture Department says.

Take-home pay and food costs jumped 5.5 per cent each in 1970, with 16.7 cents of each dollar going to food bills. It was the same cost-per-dollar as in 1969, a point reached in gradual declines since a peak of 20.9 cents in 1958.

This year, the report said, total food costs will continue to rise but at a much slower rate, perhaps only 2 to 3 per cent.

In fact, the report said, food bought at retail stores in 1971 may average only 1 to 2 per cent higher, compared with a 5 per cent supermarket boost last year.

But prices in restaurants will continue rising at a faster clip. Last year they went up 7.5 per cent, an increase the report said might be shaved a bit in 1971.

Retail store prices for pork, eggs, poultry, potatoes and some vegetables are expected to drop, while higher prices are forecast for fish, dairy products, cereals, sugar and processed vegetables.

In all, the nation's food bill could total between $118 billion and $121 billion in 1971, compared with $114.3 billion last year, a $9-billion gain from 1969.

Although the USDA report indicated hopes food prices may not gain as much this year, the department's batting average in this category is not without blemish.

A year ago, in a similar report, the department predicted all food prices in 1970 would gain 3.5 to 4 per cent. But the forecast had to be revised several times before the year ended with the 5.5 per cent increase.

Officials said lower prices for farm products are chief reasons for the current outlook on a slower gain in 1971. Economists have indicated net farm income will be down this year from $15.8 billion in 1970.

ABA Backs Right To Snoop On Crime, Subversion

By F. RICHARD CICCONE
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The American Bar Association has endorsed the federal government's claim that it has the right to use electronic listening devices secretly in investigations into organized crime and foreign subversion.

The 297 members of the ABA's policy-making House of Delegates voted Monday approval of standards which opponents complained resembled too closely the wiretap regulations in the Omnibus Crime Act of 1968.

The ABA action established guidelines on the secret electronic listening devices which advocates said they hoped would be followed by 38 states which have no wiretap statutes.

The delegates voted down three proposed amendments that would have limited approval for use of electronic surveillance.

Supporters of the amendments said the delegates were endorsing action of a kind which the U.S. Supreme Court has held unconstitutional in the past.

Jerome J. Shestack, a Philadelphia lawyer opposed to all government wiretapping, said, "The ABA standards have never been used to endorse an act of legislation and should not be so used now."

He also said the delegates were wrong in ending the ABA's six-year study of electronic surveillance while deferring action on controversial stop-and-frisk and search-and-seizure laws.

Prior to the vote Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst praised wiretapping as an effective weapon against gamblers and narcotics dealers.

Kleindienst said that since passage of the Omnibus Crime Act, which empowers the government to tap phones for specified crimes with prior approval by a federal court, federal agents have obtained 253 court orders for eavesdropping in 163 gambling investigations, 58 cases of narcotics violations and 21 extortion cases.

William J. Jameson of Billings, Mont., a retired federal judge and chief advocate of the standards, told the delegates: "We need these standards to guide state legislators."

Judge Jack G. Day of Cleveland, a leader of the fight for limiting amendments, said, "We entrust not to clergymen, doctors or lawyers, but to police, the right to determine when they will get into our lives."

Only one of the three proposed amendments came close to acceptance. It said that complete tapes of wiretapped conversations should be turned over to the wiretap subject. It was defeated 127 to 104 in a standing vote. The delegates approved the recommendation of the Committee on Standards for Administration of Criminal Justice that the subject be told only that his conversation was tapped.

On two voice votes, the delegates approved wiretapping without a court order for 48 hours in "emergency" situations, and the use as evidence of material gathered while protecting "national security" from foreign subversion without prior court approval.

The ABA did not discuss the Justice Department's contention that it can wiretap without court approval in matters of domestic security, a claim ruled unconstitutional recently by two federal judges. The Justice Department is appealing to the Supreme Court.

In other actions:

—The Standing Committee on the Federal Judiciary praised President Nixon for his prompt nomination of 92 federal judges in the last year and noted that he is the only president who has not nominated to the federal courts a person judged not qualified by an association screening committee.

—A by-law committee recommended that a permanent delegate be named to the House of Delegates from the predominantly Negro National Bar Association. The only black lawyer ever in the House was Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall, who had a seat when he was U.S. solicitor general by virtue of that office. The ABA will vote on the recommendation in the summer.

—The delegates adopted a series of standards on courtroom conduct by lawyers and condemned "bad manners or other rudeness" in a trial.

—The Section on Individual Rights and Responsibilities criticized the Nixon administration for extending for only six months the California Rural Legal Assistance Program which had been vetoed by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

—The House approved creating an institute to train trial lawyers in courtroom skills. Seminars for 100 lawyers will be conducted at the University of Colorado in the summer. The $230,000 project is similar to the Institute for Court Management recently established in Denver.

Three Injured In 3 Traffic Accidents

Three persons were reported injured and property damage estimated at $1,290 in three collisions investigated here by police yesterday.

Heaviest damage resulted from a 12:10 p.m. collision on Dickinson Avenue at the Grande Avenue intersection and involved a car driven by Jerry Saunders Raynor, 44, of 2106 Pendleton Dr. and a truck operated by Eddie Warren Chance, 20 of Route 2, Robersonville.

Investigators, who reported no charges, set damage to the Raynor car at $400 and estimated damage to the truck at $200.

Raynor was reported injured in the mishap.

Ada Evans Lloyd of 1208 Davenport St. was charged with driving left of center following investigation of a 5:06 p.m. collision at the intersection of Sixth Street and Bancroft Avenue.

Police, who reported a passenger in the Lloyd vehicle was injured, identified the driver of the second car involved as Robert Luther Harrell, 56, of 1608 West Fourth St.

Damage was placed at $190 to the Lloyd auto and $225 to the Harrell vehicle.

Pauline Killette Cox of Route 2, Greenville was reported injured when a car she was driving collided with a vehicle driven by Ann Harrell Edwards of 2900 Jefferson Dr. about 6:10 p.m. on Charles Street, 100 feet North of the Sanford Drive intersection.

Officers, who charged Mrs. Edwards with failing to reduce her speed enough to avoid an accident estimated damage to the Cox car at $75 while setting damage to the Edwards vehicle at $200.

LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM
RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Good Neighbor Council will consider its legislative program at its quarterly meeting Thursday.

Wars in modern times have averaged four years in length.

"People think farming's one thing and business is another. They forget we come up with a product we have to sell, just like anybody else. The difference is; we have to look out for weather and worms and blight, besides. And only get one paycheck a year.

That's why I keep a good chunk in my savings at Wachovia Bank. I've got over $5,000 in Wachovia, right now. Just in case too much rain or too little rain or a late frost damages this year's crop. And this year's paycheck. I figure saving's just good business. Especially in mine."
