Consider 1st Year Med Students In NCSU

UNC Refuses Seek ECU Transfer Funds

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — The University of North Carolina has turned thumbs down on a suggestion from East Carolina University that it seek more funds to accommodate transfer students from a proposed two-year medical school in Greenville.

Dr. William Friday, president of the consolidated university, said today he informed ECU President Leo Jenkins Feb. 11 that he could not at this time request a supplemental appropriation to handle ECU transfers.

"This is not a matter of turning down anyone," Dr. Friday said in an interview. "It is a matter of exploring an idea."

Friday said "there has been no official or formal request submitted to me. I've had a discussion with Dr. Jenkins and a telephone call from him with reference to his suggestion but no proposal."

In his letter to Jenkins, the UNC president noted that his staff, in response to a request from the State Board of Higher Education, was exploring the possibilities of accelerating its freshman medical school class and of expanding a collaborative arrangement with North Carolina State.

The expansion program includes a study to determine if first-year medstudents could be enrolled on the Ruleigh campus, Friday said.

Friday said the collaborative arrangement with N.C. State has been in operation for several years, with students enrolled in biological science courses on the Raleigh campus going on to Chapel Hill and med school. "There are 14 students at NCS already accepted for med school training this coming year," he said.

"The possibility exists in the future for developing similar collaborative arrangements with other institutions," he said. Friday indicated the possibility of extending the arrangement would include East Carolina.

Friday said the studies toward accelerating the size of the med school class at Chapel Hill and expansion of its arrangement with N.C. State were necessary to comply with a Board of Higher Education request for information on UNC's plans for development.

In Raleigh, board director Cameron P. West said UNC was asked to provide "information from the university regarding their plans to expand the entering class from 120 to 160 and to 200 by various dates. We have not requested specifically for him to initiate any plans."

Friday said he expected to have a report ready for the Board of Higher Education by May 1.

West said the board will meet Friday to act on recommendations from its educational programs committee dealing with East Carolina's proposed medical school.

Jenkins expressed surprise about the arrangement with N.C. State.

"We were a little amazed at this," Jenkins said. "I had never been privileged to be in on any of the discussions. It isn't any of our business, but we're in the same state and I was surprised we did not know of it."

Outlook Improves In Capital Funds For City Schools

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Greenville City Schools now have a total of $29,794.07 in unencumbered capital improvement funds, a slight improvement on the amount available in this category several months ago.

This was revealed in a financial analysis — school facilities fund report presented to the board last night.

Capital funds made available since the 1963 Legislative Act for the North Carolina Public School Facilities Fund and up to date were itemized, showing amounts received from various sources and how the money was spent.

The report shows: 1963 Legislative Act, $484,562.96, all spent; the 1966 Pitt County Bond funds referendum, $2,655,000 plus interest of $136,067.32 for a total of $2,791,067.32, all spent; insurance, sale, and interest from the Old Greenville Junior High School, $414,676.34 of which a balance of $81,481.87 remains; and insurance settlement of the C. M. Eppes school, $73,632.00, none spent to date.

Available funds, before deducting outstanding obligations, total $272,452.11. This is made up of the $81,481.37 balance of the Old Greenville Junior High; the C. M. Eppes balance of $73,632.00; a 1969-70 special budget allocation of $50,000 for Wahl-Coates; and a 1970-71 budget appropriation for the Rose Hich Economics Complex, of $67,338.24.

Outstanding obligations applicable are: Wahl-Coates relocation, $100,000; reserve fund toward second junior high school $73,632 (the C. M. Eppes insurance fund was earmarked at time of receipt for this purpose); the Rose High Home Economics Complex, $67,338.24; and miscellaneous obligations, such as landscaping and fees, $1,687.80, resulting in the $29,794.07 unencumbered capital improvements balance.

The second part of the report enumerated expenditures for facilities built and land acquisitions since 1965. This section of the report also includes fees, furniture, and related expenses incurred, and gives the source or sources applicable to each expenditure. Four sources for funds are cited: the N. C. School Facilities Fund; the Pitt County Bond Fund; the Greenville District Capital Outlay Budget fund; and the Junior High Insurance-Sale fund.

Expenditures for the 1965-70 period, amounts for each project, and source or sources of funds used are:

— 1965 — J. H. Rose Field House, $72,852.59, district budget.

— 1966 — Bond referendum expense, $6,496..81, Pitt County fund; Aycock site, $134,950, district budget.

— 1967 — Sadie Saulter, $477,415.02, N. C. school fund; maintenance building addition, $27,802.08, district budget; South Greenville addition, $127,446.82, Pitt County fund.

— 1968 — Rose High addition (five classroom unit), $46,673.94, district budget; Eastern Elementary site, $72,500, district budget; Lynndale site, $33,000, district budget; and Eppes property acquisition (an addition to previously owned property), $15,002.15, district budget.

— 1969 — E. B. Aycock Junior High, $7,147.94, N. C. School Fund, $1,652,605.29, Pitt County fund, and $145,543.46, junior high insurance-sale fund; Wahl-Coates site, $85,000, Pitt County fund; furniture, equipemtn, attorney, etc., $35,411.76, junior high insurance-sale fund.

— 1970 — Eastern Elementary, $496,164.35, Pitt County fund, and $56,735.90, junior high insurance-sale; Rose High addition and renovation,

Hot And Heavy Action For Helicopter Pilots Flying Support In Laos

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer

KHE SANH, Vietnam (AP) — Maj. Jim Newman and the pilots were sitting around their briefing room—a big metal supply container—talking about Sidonio and his little bird's latest brush with death.

CWO Robert Sidonio, 21, Ridgefield, Conn., had been shot at three times in two days over Laos and was hit twice but his tiny OH1 observation helicopter had made it back both times.

Conversation broke off as the radio crackled. Lt. Martin "Slim" Pickens, Orlando, Fla., was coming in weak, but he seemed to be saying "air burst" and "maybe a chopper blowing up."

Newman jumped for the radio and his pilots for the door. Pickens came on again to report a big CH47 Chinook supply helicopter had exploded in the air, and gave the map coordinates.

Newman raced for his command ship and the Cobra gunship pilots dashed past him, and in what seemed like seconds, Charlie Troop, 2nd Battalion, 17th Air Cavalry of the 101st Airborne Division, was on the way.

There are no Chinooks in the cavalry, so it wasn't one of their own. But that didn't make any difference. Laos, in a week and a few days, has been a nightmare for everyone's helicopters.

Within minutes they were over Laos. Sidonio—skittering in over the treetops in his agile little observation craft—reported an enemy shell burst in the air near him. He thought he wasn't hit but it turned out he was—his ship riddled with holes for the third straight day.

The Cobras turned to attack the North Vietnamese gun positions and fired all of their rockets before they reached the burned spot on the ground that had been the Chinook.

A crash like that—followed by fire—offers little hope of any survivors, but Newman, 36-year-old troop commander

Aftershocks

LOS ANGELES (AP) — More than 1,000 dwellings have been condemned because of earthquake damage and the occupants ordered to other shelter as aftershocks from the big temblor of a week ago further ruffled nerves.

The aftershocks, four of which rumbled through the Los Angeles area Monday, have caused no new damage, authorities said. The latest shocks, from 3.5 to 3.9 magnitude on the Richter scale, were felt mainly in the San Fernando Valley. The quake itself was 6.6 on the scale.

Six emergency Red Cross centers were helping evacuees find shelter after they left their homes or apartments in the valley 10 miles north of downtown Los Angeles.

The Van Norman Dam in the north section of the valley continued to hold. It was badly cracked by the big quake, but the water level was lowered to reduce pressure on the dam.

Fifty city building inspectors surveyed damage Monday from the quake that killed 62 persons, injured more than 1,000 and caused damage estimated as high as $1 billion.

Hugh Gillis, who is in charge of Red Cross shelter operations, said the shelters were "one-stop service centers" where families gather before moving in with friends or receiving money for a week's supply of food and motel or hotel bills.

Police warned residents whose homes have yet to be looked over to watch out for persons posing as building inspectors.

Lt. Calley Is Ruled 'Normal'

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — The judge in the My Lai murder trial of Lt. William Calley said today a psychiatric examination during a month long recess showed that the lieutenant "is normal in every respect."

Judge Reid Kennedy made the statement as the trial resumed after a four-week layoff and during a continuing argument over psychiatric testimony that the defense wants to present.

Calley, 27, a platoon leader in the assault on the Vietnamese village of My Lai nearly three years ago, is charged with engineering the death of 102 unresisting Vietnamese civilians.

When the trial adjourned Jan. 18, Dr. Albert La Verne had said that it was possible the lieutenant's mind was affected by second-hand marijuana fumes. The psychiatrist said it was possible the marijuana smoking of others in the vicinity might have affected Calley, a nonuser.

But today, defense attorney George Latimer said he was dropping that line as a defense.

"As far as we are concerned, we will not pursue this marijuana theory further as it pertains to any witness in this case."

He said he was unable to find any evidence that Calley was in a closed room in the presence of marijuana smokers.

In arguing, out of the hearing of the jury, over whether defense psychiatrists are qualified to testify about Calley's mental condition in a combat zone 10,000 miles and three years distant, prosecutor Aubrey Daniel said the government's mental examination of Calley resulted in a negative finding in all respects.

In the course of the discussion, Kennedy, a colonel in the Army, said:

"Let me ask the defense this. Since you have the report of the sanity board, and since it is fairly apparent from this, Lt. Calley is normal in every respect, does this change your attitude about proceeding with Dr. La Verne?"

Latimer said that medical evidence will show "Lt. Calley's mental processes were impaired by various stresses.

Will Ask Bids On Hangar

The Pitt County-City of Greenville Air Port Authority Monday night agreed to call for bids on a maintenance hanger for the Pitt-Greenville Airport.

The proposed metal building would contain about 4,800 square feet, and would be located Northeast of the present administration building and behind the new National Guard Armory.

In other action the authority indicated their willingness to have the airport used for an air show sponsored by the Boys Club in Greenville, on condition that the Airport Authority be properly protected from any liability. The proposed air show would be held sometime in April or May.

Judson Blount, chairman of the Boys Club committee to organize the air show presented the request to the authority.

Airport manager Jim Darden reported that four Air Force ROTC students completed their flight training last week at the airport. Three more students, Darden said, are expected to complete flight training Wednesday.

Launch Texas Manhunt For Killer Of 3 Deputies

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A widespread alarm was out today for a 33-year-old ex convict accused of fatally shooting three of five kidnaped deputy sheriffs. One of the surviving deputies was wounded.

The deputies, seized while investigating a burglary, were taken to a river bottom where one of their captors opened fire.

Issuing a description of the fugitive, Sheriff Clarence Jones of Dallas County said, "It would be an understatement to say we want him bad."

Charged with murder, he was identified as Rene Adolpho Guzman. Authorities said he had a police record for burglary and assault.

Jones described the triple slaying Monday night as "needless killing" and "an execution."

Four other men were being questioned, but Jones said, "The trigger man is the one we want."

Shot to death in a fusillade of revolver fire in the Trinity River bottoms were Dallas County deputies Dennie Reese, 30, and Sam Infante, 32, and Ellis County Deputy A. J. Robertson, 59, of Waxahachie.

Deputy Wendell Dover, 49, of Ellis County was shot in the chest. His condition was described as fair.

A. D. McCurley, 50, the only one of the kidnaped deputies who escaped death or wounding, said the incident began when Infante, Robertson and Dover went to a West Dallas home to question some men about a burglary.

They telephoned the Dallas County sheriff's office, asking for a blank form to be used in connection with a search for the stolen property.

Reese and McCurley answered the call. They knocked on the door and a voice inside said: "Come in."

McCurley said they entered the house and found the three other officers tied up in chairs with two men holding guns on them. McCurley and Reese also were tied up.

McCurley gave this account of what happened:

A third man entered the room and began to talk in Spanish with the other two. The third man made a negative motion indicating he wanted nothing to do with what was going to happen and left the house.

The five officers were ordered into a squad car by the two remaining men, who put Infante at the wheel.

The two men forced Infante to drive to the Trinity River bottoms. McCurley said Infante, who understood Spanish, realized from the pair's conversation they intended to do the deputies bodily harm.

Once they reached the river bottoms Infante said in English to his fellow officers: "This is it. They're going to kill us now."

Everyone piled out of the car and Reese's bonds came loose.

McCurley said Reese took a swing at one of the gunmen who held two pistols. Reese missed and the gunmen began firing.

Set Five Hearings

RALEIGH (AP) — In a surprise move, the North Carolina association of Educators Monday scheduled open hearings on the condition of state education in Greenville, Raleigh, Greensboro, Charlotte and Asheville.

The decision to schedule the five meetings was made at a special meeting of the organization's Board of Trustees held over the weekend.

Dr. A. C. Dawson, executive secretary of the association, said following the announcement that this action "marks the first time that the Board of Directors has gone into communities to ascertain the state of educational conditions in local schools.

The meetings are seen by the association as a gearing up for legislative activity.

The full membership of the Board of Trustees will attend each of the meetings, which will be held before April 1. No specific dates for the hearings have been set.

Offer To Italy Was Ruled Out In 1943

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Franklin D. Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill overruled a World War II suggestion by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower that Italy be given peace with honor in return for surrender, secret wartime documents have disclosed.

The documents, made public by the State Department Monday, also show:

—Roosevelt was sharply critical of French Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

—The United States suggested Britain cut its tank production and order more American tanks.

—U.S. Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson accused the British of being only lukewarm on the planned D-Day invasion of Europe across the English Channel.

The documents show Eisenhower, then commander in chief of Allied Forces, proposed before the allied landing that Italy be promised a peace with honor should she surrender. He made the proposal in a May 17, 1943, letter to the combined chiefs of staff.

Roosevelt and Churchill disagreed, however, and sent a telegram to Eisenhower saying, "Most certainly we cannot tell the Italians that if they cease hostilities they will have a peace with honor. We cannot get away from unconditional surrender."

The documents also contain a letter from Roosevelt to Churchill written May 8, 1943, saying, "I do not know what to do with de Gaulle. Possibly you would like to make him governor of Madagascar."

Roosevelt's letter also accused de Gaulle, later to become president of France, of stirring up trouble in Algiers.

Another Obscenity Bill Is Offered Legislators

RALEIGH (AP) — Another bill to ban the sale of obscenity to minors was introduced in Senate as the North Carolina General Assembly began its fifth full week of sessions Monday night.

The obscenity bill, sponsored by Sen. Russell Kirby, D-Wilson, and David Flaherty, R-Caldwell, has the backing of the state's magazine and book distributors.

It would make it a misdemeanor to disseminate "explicit sexual material" to persons under 18 or display it for sale "in an area to which young persons have access, unless such material has artistic, literary, historical, scientific, medical, educational or other similar social value for adults."

The bill also contains a detailed definition of what constitutes "explicit sexual material."

The Senate already has before it a bill introduced by Sen. Jyles Coggins, D-Wake, that would make it a felony to distribute or show obscene books or films to minors. Coggins' bill does not contain explicit definitions of obscenity.

The periodical distributors and theater operators have stated in committee hearings that the lack of definite guidelines and the felony punishment provided in Coggins' bill would make it foolish for them to hire any employees under 18.

In the House, Rep. Jim Johnson, R-Cabarrus, sponsored a bill that would allow truck drivers who operate vehicles more than 25,000 miles per year to accumulate 15 points for traffic violations — instead of the present 10 — before losing their licenses.

Both houses received bill to raise the salaries of clerks of superior courts and magistrates. The bill was recommended by the N.C. Courts Commission and introduced by Sens. Ruffin Bailey, D-Wake, and J. J. Harrington, D-Bertie in the Senate and Rep. Marcus Short, D-Guilford, and others in the House.

The scale for court clerks would range from $7,704 in counties with less than 10,000 people to $21,000 in counties with 350,000 persons or more.

Magistrates would receive a minimum of $1,200 and a maximum of $7,944.

Sens. Julian Allsbrook, D-Halifax, and William Staton, D-Lee, introduced four bills recommended by the Judicial Council. One would increase from six to nine the number of peremptory challenges allowed the prosecution in capital cases. The defense already has 14 peremptory challenges, under which a juror can be excluded without legal cause.

Another bill recommended by the Judicial Council would revise the state's laws on preliminary hearings and would entitle a person charged with a felony to ask for a preliminary hearing in district court if he had not yet been indicted by a Grand Jury.

Sen. Herman Moore, D-Mecklenburg, sponsored a bill that would require a public hearing before changes could be granted in zoning plans. Another bill by Moore would require a three-fourths vote of the city council before a zoning change could be granted when the owners of 20 per cent or more of the surrounding property protested the change.

Later School-Opening Date Urged On School Board

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

The difficulty of attempting to satisfy the needs of parents, teachers, and students in Greenville relative to the best days to open and close schools was made manifest last night at the school board meeting.

At the present time, the school board is studying five plans, numbered Plan I through Plan V. A decision on the school calender for the 1971-72 school year is normally made by the time of the April meeting.

Last night, Mrs. John East, spokesman representing an interested group of citizens in Greenville; accompanied by Mrs. Herbert Haskell and Mrs. Lou Ann Williamson, presented a variation of the board's Plan V.

Mrs. East noted "in prior years, shcool has started as much as 13 days before Labor Day." Her proposal calls for starting school after Labor Day to allow a continuity of school days without a major break early in the school year; for the addition of two days for the Christmas holiday to give a full two week holiday; and the addition of two days at the end of the school year to compensate for the added Christmas holidays.

Such a proposal would, for the 1971-72 school year calendar, result in a date of June 9 as the final day of school.

One of the points offered as an argumemt for a late start schedule was that August days are usually very hot whereas June days are often cooler.

Board member Louis Gaylord, asking for off-the-cuff comments from several interested persons attending the meeting, received mixed reaction. The three high school seniors present voiced the opinion that this would not be popular with the students, who wanted to get out early.

One school father, Wally Powers, commented "I'm personally in favor of not starting school until after Labor Day, and I like to think that any child of mine will go along with my decision as long as he puts his feet under my table."

Other considerations mentioned affecting the choice of an eventual decision of school beginning and closing dates included that of summer jobs; seniors planning to attend summer school; the relationship of dates with those of East Carolina University; and vacation arrangements.

School board members are continuing to study the five proposals as well as the suggestions offered by Mrs. East. They plan to make their dicision by the time of April's board meeting.

Will Host Group From Pope AFB

Twenty-nine Airmen from Pope Air Force Base are scheduled to arrive in Greenville Friday afternoon as the first phase of "Operation Exchange".

"Operation Exchange" is being co-sponsored by the recreation curriculum students at East Carolina University, the university's Angel Flight girls, and the Greenville Jay-c-ettes. It involves simply providing a change-of-pace for the Air Force men who are participating.

The airmen are scheduled to arrive for the weekend of recreation about 4:15 p. m. and will be entertained at a social by the Angel Flight before making a tour of the ECU campus.

Dates have been arranged for the group, and they will have dinner at the Candlewick Inn (the Airmen will be paying).

The Air Force visitors will have Saturday morning free to again tour the campus, sit in on some Saturday classes, or visit other parts of Greenville.

A field day and pig roast will be staged Saturday afternoon and night.

According to Miss Jane Scism, who with Public Recreation Class 127 at the university is coordinating the exchange operation, the field day will consist of recreation activities such as a three-legged sack race, a greasy pig chase, track relays and various other tournaments.

The barbecue and party will be Saturday night, provided by the Recreation Curriculum of the Department of Health and Physical Education.

Sunday the visiting airmen will attend the church of their choice in Greenville, and have lunch before returning to Pope.

The Air Force men will be accompanied by Miss Yvonne Stohlman, director of the Service Club at the Air Force Base.

Miss Scism pointed out that the weekend's activities were dubbed "Operation Exchange" because of a visit 22 recreation majors at ECU made to Fort Bragg and Pope Air Force Base a month ago.

Dr. Ralph Steele, who heads the recreation curriculum, said the visit to the Fort Bragg-Pope complex and the "Operation Exchange" visit gives students practical experience in planning and providing recreation programs and activities for others.

Railroad Financial Crisis Is Discussed

Even as the need for them grows, America's railroads are faced with a crisis centering on their loss of financial ability "to build for the future," according to M. S. Jones, superintendent of the Seaborad Coast Line Railroad, Rocky Mount.

Jones spoke to the Greenville Rotary Club at their meeting here last night.

"Prospects for the railroad industry have never been so great — not its financial position so precarious," Jones said.

He reviewed solutions to the crisis recently recommended by America's Sound Transportation Review Organization (ASTRO) — a study team created by the Association of American Railroads.

"Transportation, in America, is a vast and essential complex," Jones said. "Each part of the complex must carry its own weight — doing that part of the job it can do best. Since transportation is an element in the price of just about everything we buy or use, this kind of efficiency is vital.

"Railroads handle the biggest share of the load — more ton-miles of inter-city freight each year than trucks, barges and airplanes combined."

But, he warned, ASTRO reached the grim conclusion that the federal government must either nationalize the railroads or help them achieve the financial strength to continue operating privately.

Nationalization, he predicted, "could cost as much as $60 billion just to transfer ownership," leaving unmet the industry's need for capital improvements and inviting "almost certain" operating losses.

Revival Services

Revival services are being held at 7:30 p.m. each evening through Sunday at the Calvary Pentecostal Church on Belvoir Highway.

The pastor of the church is T. R. Bradshaw. Guest evangelist is Rev. Woodrow Tew. Special singing will be presented nightly. The public is invited to attend.

Wilmington Bridge Traffic Hampered

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Motorists who use the Brunswick River bridge carrying U.S. 17-74-76 in the Wilmington area are in for some difficulties for the next month or so.

Traffic on the two-lane span is limited to one lane until workmen can shore up the supports on the northern edge. A barge loaded with 10,000 barrels of fuel oil broke loose from a tug early Sunday and smashed four of the eight concrete pilings on one edge of the bridge.

The outgoing lane was closed and traffic is being alternated on the remaining portion. Workmen were to start repairs at dawn today and work during daylight hours, seven days a week until the structure is fixed.

District engineer Lloyd J. Bass of the state Highway Commission said Monday he could not estimate the cost of the repairs.

The barge was being towed upstream when lines holding it to a tug snarled and snapped. No oil was spilled, and the barge was removed shortly after the collision.

State troopers were directing commuters across the bridge Monday to help unsnarl tieups that extended nearly four miles. The shortest detour is a 40-mile drive.

Bass said collisions of this type have happened before in the Wilmington area. For instance, he noted that in April the Trans-Colorado hit the new lift-span over the Cape Fear River just outside of Wilmington and did more damage. But he said traffic was not hampered as much because only one of four lanes of that structure was closed.

Ass'n Planning Survey In Pitt

The Pitt County Association for Retarded Children is now making plans to survey the county to locate all retarded children and adults and their parents or guardians.

The Association will work largely through physicians and public agencies to complete this project.

A legislative committee has been named to make concrete plans for a Pitt County group to lobby in the General Assembly for legislation for the retarded. They are Van Latham, Miss Helen Sermons, Henry Dunn, Dr. Kenneth Quiggins, "Skeet" Creekmore, Mrs. Carolyn Creekmore, and Miss Barbara Lewis.

Newcomers Were Friday Guests

Newcomers to Greenville were guests Friday at a Get Acquainted Tea and Coffee hour given jointly by Mrs. Alton Barrett and Mrs. J. W. H. Roberts. The functions, and activities, of the Art Center were explained to newly arrived residents.

Mrs. W. W. Fore, a vice-president of the East Carolina Art Society, greeted guests. Mrs. S. M. Crisp and Mrs. W. E. Debnam poured tea and coffee.

Peanut Butter Is Saluted

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Here's a salute to peanut butter: It has just passed its 80th birthday. It was in 1890 that an inventive doctor in St. Louis, Mo., ground up peanuts in a home food chopper and added salt; he recommended the new food to some of his patients for use as an easily digested high-protein food.

After that, peanut butter took off! A new industry came into being. By the 1920's families all over the country were buying peanut butter—sometimes in charming pails now sought after by some collectors. These days peanut butter comes in various size jars.

Just to celebrate peanut butter's birthday, a friend of ours developed a Peanut Butter Brownie—so delicious that it is likely to rival America's favorite chocolate brownie.

Every one at our house relished this new cookie and so we think that if you try it, it is likely to become a favorite in your family.

Because peanut butter is so nutritious and economical, and because children usually welcome it, any good recipe that features it is worthwhile including in family meals.

PEANUT BUTTER BROWNIES

2-3rd cup flour, stir to aerate before measuring
½ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ginger
¼ cup—½ stick—butter or margarine
1 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
2 large eggs
1 tablespoon honey
2 teaspoons vanilla

Grease bottom and sides of a square cake pan, 8 by 8 by 2 inches.

On a sheet of wax paper thoroughly stir together the flour, baking powder, salt and ginger.

In a medium mixing bowl beat together the peanut butter and butter. Gradually add brown sugar, beating after each addition until blended.

Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition.

Stir in honey and vanilla, then flour mixture.

Turn into prepared pan, spreading evenly.

Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean —25 to 30 minutes. Cool in pan on wire rack.

With a small metal spatula loosen edges; turn out on a cutting board; turn right side up. If you like, sprinkle top with confectioners' sugar. Cut into small squares.

Wrap in plastic wrap and store in tightly covered tin box.

WOTM Plans Pancake Supper

The Women of the Moose will sponsor a pancake and sausage supper Friday from 5:30 p. m. until 8:30 p. m.

The supper, for all Moose members and their guests, will be held at the Greenville Moose Lodge.

The charge will be $1 for adults and .50 for children under 10.

Tickets may be purchased from any member of the Women of the Moose.

Dinner-Dance Theme Is 'Aquarius'

The 11th sign of the zodiac will be controlling the destinies of couples attending the dinner-dance given by the East Carolina University Women's Club Feb. 26 at the Greenville Golf and Country Colb.

Throughout the club, the decorations of the party will be influenced by Aquarius, the water bearer. On the tables will be univalve and bivalve marine shells containing flowers in hues of orange, yellow and pink illuminated with candles in celestial starlink containers. The bandstand will be encircled by waxy-magnolia arrangements.

Planning the entertainment and decorations are Mrs. Charles Bland, Mrs. John Montague, Mrs. Sam Pennington, Mrs. A. Mason Smith and Mrs. W. James Smith. Assisting are Mrs. Dennis Davis and Mrs. Eugene Huguelet.

A social hour at seven o'clock will precede the dinner-dance featuring the Jay McCracken Trio. Reservations must be made by Feb. 20. Mrs. W. James Smith or Mrs. A. Mason Smith may be contacted for ticket information and reservations.

A Lovelier You

COSMETICS GO TO WASTE

By Mary Sue Miller

There are more ways to squander your precious skin treatments and makeup than letting them sit unused for weeks at a time in a bureau drawer. Although that's perhaps the greatest waste. But how about these?

Applying so much cream, lotion or makeup that you have to rub off the excess with tissue. It's a wastrel practice for more than the obvious reason. Today's skin-care products are most effective when filmed on, owing to their high rate of absorption. Removing overages of makeup only adds to a botched job.

If you scrub on any cream or lotion, or daub with downward strokes, you do greater harm than the product can do good. Your motions go against the grain of your muscles. What price cosmetics, when the hand that applies them harms the facial structure? The proper strokes are upward and outward, firm but gentle.

It's like taking the wrong pill if you use products not exactly suited to your skin in type and color. What's worse is failing to keep abreast of the developments in "pills"—new cosmetics. Unenlightened you could miss the very thing that would solve your stickiest problem.

You may be surprised to learn that cosmetic scientists know what your problem is and keep working on it. For the indifferent, beauty potentials simply go begging.

Tips on Haircuts

The six basic haircuts include:

The "swing cut," which starts with a blunt cut, but the usual straight edge is eliminated by a swinging stroke of the scissors.

The "intra-curl cut" goes into the curl so it is never broken. Each layer blends perfectly with the next, fitting the head closely.

The "back-comb cut" shapes and removes the bulk of the hair, enabling it to be curled more, lie better, and be controlled more easily.

The "taper cut" is used to shaping, thinning, and giving extra bounce and body to fine hair.

The "blunt cut" is a straight across stroke of the scissors on each strand and is used on very thin hair to produce more body.

Finally, the "sculptured cut" follows the natural curl of the hair.

Decency Causes Datelessness

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: When I was a little girl, my mom used to paint pictures of how many boy friends I would have when I grew up. What a fantasy?

I am convinced that the decent girls don't have a chance anymore because of the vast majority of promiscuous girls. Boys don't like to spend money on girls who won't shell out. Mom always used to say [and still does] that a boy respects a girl who doesn't sleep with every fellow in town. That's true—boys respect them, but they don't date them.

I'm the type of girl boys might marry—10 years from now. So what do I do in the meantime? I am getting bitter toward boys because they are dating other girls like mad while I go to the movies with girl friends.

I was talking to my brother about this and he said I was wrong. But I say I am right. I am a living example. Two of my girl friends are really sharp and cute, but they are just like me—dateless. Why? Because they're decent.

EUDORA, KAS.

DEAR EUDORA: Sorry, but I vote with your brother. When a guy wants his way with a girl he will give her a line, but she can depend on her brother to tell her the truth.

DEAR ABBY: I have wondered about this for several years and have finally decided to ask you.

My husband and I were in the Army in Hanau, near Frankfurt, Germany, a few years ago. The Army arranged special programs for the men and their wives. One night they had a "Dear Abby" night, and announced that Dear Abby would be there in person to give a talk and answer questions from the audience. We were anxious to see you in person, so we went.

The "Dear Abby" who came out on the stage was a slim, dark-haired, tall woman—about 6 feet tall! I never imagined you as being that tall.

She answered questions from the audience and let everyone call her "Abby." She went into great detail about how serious the drug habit was. Then she lit up a cigaret and said, "This is my habit," as if she were proud of herself.

Was that you? Or was that an impostor? DUBIOUS

DEAR DUBIOUS: She was an impostor. I stand 5 feet nothing in my stocking feet, have never smoked, and have never been near Frankfurt.

DEAR ABBY: Something has been bugging me for a long time, and I would like to get it off my chest. [Please don't disclose my name or town if you print this.]

I resent having to kitty in for a Christmas present for the "big boss" every year. He is a rich man who has more than he needs, but every year the secretary of the office manager goes around and hits everybody in this company for a donation so the "big boss" can have a Christmas gift.

I am not cheap, and I don't mind contributing toward a gift if there is a need for it, but chipping in to buy an expensive present for this tycoon just rubs me the wrong way. How do you feel about it? BUGGED

DEAR BUGGED: Same as you. But don't discount the possibility that the boss has nothing to do with it. I do think, however, that "big bosses" who disapprove of such annual gifts should make their thoughts known.

DEAR ABBY: Hooray for "Milwaukee Doctor" who wrote to say that poor posture in teen-age girls could be a bone deformity. If my parents had been more alert when I was younger, I wouldn't be wearing a brace to correct my spine at age 16. It would have been corrected by now.

Life Isn't All 'Glamor' For Private Eye Granny

By BARBARA CRAIG

BOSTON (WNS) — During her career, Louise Pinch estimates she has probably saved more than 100 marriages.

The attractive Mrs. Pinch, a Boston, Mass., grandmother, is not a marriage counselor. She is one of six licensed female private detectives in the United States.

"Most people believe being a private detective is glamorous work," declared Louise, who operates her business from her home. "It isn't. It is a hard day's work. The hours are long, and you can get awful bored sitting in a car all day on a stakeout.

"Still, the work does have its happy moments. There is a great deal of satisfaction in coming up with the evidence that saves a marriage. You feel wonderful inside when you do that. It helps to make up for the sad cases you have handled."

Private eye Pinch used to do "a bit of divorce work."

"A wife will spot some powder on her husband's coat, or some lipstick on his collar," explained Louise. "So she'll hire a private detective to follow her husband, and find out who he is meeting. Sadly, in too many cases, the husband will meet another woman.

Happy Endings

"But some cases do have happy endings. You discover that the lipstick or powder got on the husband's jacket by accident. Or you find out the husband really does go out bowling like he claims. Or that he is indeed out playing a game of poker with the boys.

"And when you go and break the news to the wife; well, it helps to make up for those other times when you've had to hand over an investigative report filled with bad news. You feel just great when you come up with the evidence that keeps a marriage alive."

Mrs. Pinch said she has never handled a case that involved violence.

"All that hard-boiled stuff in books and movies is nonsense," she stated. "I have never had a gun pointed at me in anger. Most of my work is insurance investigations. An insurance company will call me to check out a certain person.

Runaways

"Of course, there are the missing person cases. You're hired to find a runaway. There is a great deal of satisfaction in persuading a young person to return home to her family, instead of remaining with bad companions. I've returned quite a few wanderers to their homes."

In 1949, Louise Pinch had no idea that an unusual future was in store for her. She and her husband, a Coast Guard warrant officer, lived in New London, Conn., with their two children. It was in that year that her husband was killed in an automobile accident, and Louise moved to Boston for a fresh start.

According to Mrs. Pinch, her hobbies helped to get her started as a private investigator.

"I loved mystery stories," she revealed. "I loved reading them. Also I used to make hats. That was my other hobby.

"After I moved to Boston, I was in a store one day looking over the various fancy hats they had on display. The store manager was surprised I knew so much about hats, and offered me a job. That's how I got started in department store work."

In time, Louise built up a reputation as an unofficial investigator because of her ability to spot clerks and customers who were stealing.

License

She became so good at this that in April, 1957, she acquired a Massachusetts private detective license, and started her own agency.

Private eye Pinch operates her business from her home in a quiet Boston residential section. She says working from her home offers many advantages.

"For one thing," she said, "it gives me a chance to do some cooking. I love to cook. My son Bill is due back from Vietnam later this year, and I plan to feed him a steady diet of steaks, roast beef and corned beef and cabbage."

Young Bill, an ex-Marine, is a civilian foreman on a construction team in Asia. He was recently cited by the United States government for erecting a military bridge in four days instead of ten.

Mrs. Pinch's daughter, Louise, is married and has two teenage children, in Buena Park, Calif.

Louise said running the agency from her home also allows her time to "keep up with the gardening, and to get some crocheting done. I once tried crocheting while on a stakeout, but I couldn't concentrate on it, so I crochet only at home now."

An Important Utilities Outlay

Both Greenville and Ayden have agreed to assessments for ElectriCities and this will be among the most important funds that either of these two municipalities can spend.

ElectriCities is made up of municipally owned utilities in the state and the purpose of the assessment is to provide the organization with funds to fight proposed electric rate increases which have been requested by the private power companies.

Virtually all of the municipal utilities purchase all of their power from private sources now. Thus any increase granted to the private companies will have to be passed on to the customers.

The cities have banded together in one organization to carry on a more effective fight before the regulatory groups and that is the reason for the assessment.

Greenville's share for now was set at $6,230, based on a per meter charge. Ayden's was set at $782.

There will be a long fight ahead for ElectriCities concerning the huge increases which have been proposed by the companies. It is reasonable that the organization must be adequately financed to carry out the legal phases. That is the reason for the assessment and that is why we think it is a good investment for the municipalities which own their utilities.

Scott Dimmed Succession Bill

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH — Governor Bob Scott has reduced substantially chances for legislative approval of a Constitutional amendment to allow a North Carolina governor to succeed himself.

Its prospects never were bright.

They dimmed because Scott permitted his personality and political future to cloud the issue. He has avoided a clear statement of intention that the two-term provision he recommended, if adopted in time, would apply to him.

Many legislators share the opinion that the possibility, however vague and indefinite, exerts an unsettling influence on the fate of the proposal. Added to already fixed opposition, it could presage doom for the gubernatorial succession idea.

What is needed, said Representative Samuel Johnson of Wake, is a means to clear the air and decide the issue on its merits.

Delay Effective Date

To do so, he suggested that a future effective date be set which would rule out the next eight years of gubernatorial tenure. "In that way," he said, eyes twinkling, "no one directly involved in the legislative decision would be likely to benefit from it."

He meant that not only would it bar Governor Scott from seeking a second term, but it also would impose such a prohibition on Lieutenant Governor H. P. (Pat) Taylor, Jr., Senator Hargrove (Skipper) Bowles, Jr., of Guilford, and Representative James E. Holshouser, Jr., of Watauga, should one of them be the successful candidate for governor next year.

Taylor and Bowles are prospective contenders for the Democratic nomination. Holshouser is a frequently mentioned possibility on the Republican ticket.

"Keeping options open" is the name of the game the Governor is playing.

He recommended in his legislative message amendments to the Constitution to permit the governor and Lieutenant governor to run to succeed themselves, and to extend the vote in state and local elections to 18-year-olds.

'71 Amdnement Vote Talked

One approved by the legislature (three-fifths majority in both House and Senate) the amendments must be put to a vote of the people. There is talk that the 18-year-old vote amendment should be set for an election this fall so the young folks could participate in the '72 balloting.

If one amendment goes to a vote this fall, why not all? If so, and the two-term gubernatorial change were approved, the way would be open for Scott to be the first to try.

Pointedly, the Governor has done nothing to quell the speculation. The conclusion is that he and his political advisors do, indeed, count this as an option for the future.

As Democrats all, it would be Taylor and Bowles whose fortunes could be affected by circumstances which might project Governor Scott into the '72 race. Initial reaction indicated the prospect caused Taylor most concern.

The Lieutenant Governor said the situation created awkwardness for anyone thinking about the race for governor. There might be those, he said, who play to run but would not do so against Governor Scott. That left the impression he might be such a one.

As for himself, Taylor said clearly he is not interested in a second term as lieutenant governor.

Bowles said he didn't see how his future plans could be affected one way or another. Unsaid but obvious was the implication that running against Scott wouldn't put him off a bit.

Decision Still Ahead

The decision is a ways off for the legislature. Bills haven't been introduced as yet. Senator Stewart Warren of Sampson and Representative Herschel Harkins of Buncombe, chairmen of committees which will pass on proposed amendments, both are deeply involved in local sales tax legislation. As far as they're concerned, Constitutional amendments will have to simmer on the back burner for a while.

Warren promised fair consideration for the two-term amendment but he's opposed to it. "The system we have has worked well and given us good governors," he said.

Public demand would be hard to demonstrate. Recent political history yields no certain prospect for a second term if it had been possible to run again.

Quake Reminds Us Of Our Costly Hurricanes

With a death toll of more than 50, the Los Angeles earthquake proved to be quite a disaster.

Estimates of damage are now running as high as $1 billion and residents of the areas are understandably jittery following this awesome natural occurance.

The clean-up after the earthquake will require some time and the federal government should aid in any way possible.

Earthquakes are not something we commonly experience in our area, but recalling some of the hurricanes and ice storms we have seen, we can symphathize with people who have suffered damaged or been inconvenienced in California.

Chilean Port's Deeper Threat

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Soviet diplomats assigned to Chile's new radical-left government are quietly sounding out the possibility of building new port facilities at Valparaiso for the Chilean fishing fleet, a move regarded here as a prelude to establishing Soviet naval power on South America's Pacific coast.

This ominous design fits into a worldwide pattern of growing Soviet naval power that is outdistancing the U.S. fleet, with bleak political and strategic implicatons for the U.S. around the world.

Just how far secret negotiations in Chile have gone is not known. But the mere fact Moscow is eyeing special port facilities in the South Pacific — 3,800 miles south of the presumably aborted Soviet submarine base in Cieufuegas, Cuba — is cause enough for serious alarm.

The Soviet pattern, particulary in the underdeveloped countries of Asia and Africa, is to get a toehold by offering to build port facilities with higly sophisticated technology for such innocent purposes as servicing commercial fishing vessels.

It works this way: the Russians construct modern dock facilities and diesel repair shops of advanced design and sell the host country — on long-term credit — Soviet-made diesel fishing vessels. In return, Moscow gains immediate political leverage. The next step is to gain naval base rights.

Thus, U.S. Navy experts look to the time not too far ahead when the Soviet navy — tightly interlocked in command and personnel with the Soviet commercial fishing and merchant marine fleets — has the use of a modern new port at Valparaiso. That port would be a base for Soviet naval vessels — including submarines, one of the Soviet fleet's fastest-growing components.

Given the U.S. Navy's mission of keeping tabs on all Soviet navy ships at sea, a Soviet base in Chile would immediately double the tracking demands of the U.S. Navy in the South Pacific and South Atlantic oceans. In its depleted state today, that would stretch the U.S. Navy too thin.

Chile is only one small piece of alarming evidence of Soviet long-range intentions to gain control of the world's seas, Great Britan's role until World War II and America's ever since.

What Navy experts fear will happen in Chile is already happening in such widely scattered regions as India, East Africa, the Eastern Mediterranean, and the island of Sokotra (controlling the approaches to the Red Sea and the Persian Gulf).

In addition, Soviet diplomatic efforts are in full swing to obtain special naval concessions in Singapore, with the goal of eventually controlling the vitally strategic Straits of Malacca. Control of those straits, through which passes all Middle East oil for Japan (90 percent of Japan's consumption), would be used to extract economic concessions from Japan.

This grand strategic design is being fueled in Soviet shipyards by the most intensive shipbuilding program ever undertaken by a nation not at war. Consider, for just on example, the submarine program.

Soviet shipyards are now turning out between 10 and 14 nuclear-powered submarines each year, eight to ten of which are the Yankee class (similar to the U.S. Polaris —the strategic ballistic-missile submarine). Although the U.S. total of 41 Polaris submarines (now being converted to the multi-warhead Poseidon missile) still outnumber the

CRIME PAYS! ...AND WE PAY AND PAY

The Issue Is Freedom

NEW YORK — An answer now has been filed in the suit brought by William F. Buckley, Jr., against AFTRA, and procedurally at least, the issue has been joined. The issue is old, but the context is now. The issue is freedom.

For those who came in late, Mr. Buckley is the most articulate conservative spokesman of our time—columnist, critic, author, editor of National Review, and chief protagonist of the television show "Firing Line." And AFTRA, of course, is the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists, an affiliate of the AFL-CIO.

Mr. Buckley brought his suit against the union last month in the U. S. District Court for the Southern District of New York. His complaint was couched in the kind of lawyers' legalese that must offend his literate soul, but it boiled down to this: Under union shop contracts negotiated by AFTRA within the television industry, every regular performer is compelled to join the union. Mr. Buckley is such a regular performer. Therfore he was compelled to join, and he did join, against his will, on April 1, 1966.

He has maintained his union membership, he says, only "in order to maintain his television and radio career, and under the duress of the Code of Fair Practice and various threats that unless he was a member of AFTRA he would be 'put off the air.'"

The suit is grounded in constitutional issues that distinguish this case from other assaults against compulsory unionism. Here the complaint is that television is a limited, Federally-licensed medium; that Buckley's First Amendment right of free speech cannot be abridged by a union shop requirement; and that he possesses a right so to work, under the Ninth Amendment, which cannot be taken from him.

The union filed its answer a few days ago. This, too, is couched in legalese, but it amounts chiefly to a jurisdictional cop-out. It is AFTRA's position that Mr. Buckley has failed to raise a Federal question; that the Federal Communications Commission has pre-empted the field; that the plaintiff has failed to exhaust his internal union remedies, and in a spread-eagle paragraph:

"Even if there should be a potential Federal question, and even if the doctrine of pre-emption should not preclude the Court from exercising jurisdiction, and even if the plaintiff should not be required to exhaust his internal union remedies, the Court lacks jurisdiction because the plaintiff has not

There Was Lincoln

(Jacksonville Daily News)

We are now separated from the end of Abraham Lincoln's administration by a full generation more than he was separated from the beginning of Washington's.

From 1789 to 1865 was 76 years; from 1865 to the present, 106. The difference, 30 years, is the span usuallly considered to be the average difference between one generation and the next.

The years and decades go by. America approaches the 200th anniversary of its independence. Lincoln recedes ever further into history, yet somehow looms ever larger in history, casting a shadow from the horizon of the past as far as we can see toward the horizon of the future.

There are some who, despairing of the present and fearful of the future, predict that the nation will never celebrate a third centennial. But whatever men may finally record about the outcome of the American experiment in self-rule, one thing cannot be changed or ignored: There was Lincoln.

This man lived. He was not a king, born to rule, not a philosopher, steeped in knowledge; he was not a demigod but a human being, imbued with a profound love and understanding of humanity.

From the humblest of beginnings, with the most meager of educations, he rose by his own native ability and by virtue of the democratic system established by the Founding Fathers to the presidency of the United States in the hour of its greatest ordeal, when truly the experiment seemed near its end.

With power no king ever wielded, given him freely by the people, with a wisdom no formal schooling could have taught him, Lincoln led the nation to a new birth of freedom and a new resolve that this government of and by and for the people should not perish from the earth.

There were to be new crises and ordeals after Lincoln, undreamed of by the men of his time. The descendants of the slaves he freed still seek full realization of the equality and the right to pursue happiness promised by the Declaration of Independence.

We live in the midst of crises today, and ordeals undreamed of by us surely lie ahead for our children. But we can also look back on triumphs.

We need not wait for more generations for some historian of the next century or the century after that to pronounce the verdict on the American experiment. That verdict is already in.

There was Lincoln.

Life's Little Quirks

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

The hardest criminals to reform aren't murderers or safe-crackers but "paperhangers"—those who make a career of passing bad checks. Almost as soon as they are released from prison, they often borrow a pen and start writing their way back behind the bars again.

An old-timer is a guy who can remember when the ambition of every railroad man in America seemed to be to own a solid gold ring set with a big red ruby.

Appearances are sometimes deceiving, but not in the case of any woman over 40 who throws away her maxiskirt in favor of wearing the new style "hot pants" in public.

Any smart secretary soon learns that the best way to keep a temperamental boss from raising cane is to sugar him up.

Strength For Today

MAYBE SO INTENDED

Books. Books. Books. Fifty years ago the top price for any book was three dollars. Today we read the advertisements saying that for one hundred and fifty dollars we will receive volumes one and two carefully boxed and made ready as a gift.

Television is a talking book. You must be fearfully behind the times if you don't have one or two friends or relatives who have been around the world at least once. They appear not to believe that the planet Earth is round unless they actually make a trip and get back to the place from which they started. Books are being printed today on every conceivable subject. We all know people who read three or four books a week and seem to have plenty of time to do anything else they want to do.

A book age should be a good age. For the most part this has been true in the past. Today many of the big-selling books deal either with crime or sex. The guys that write them aren't interested in the birds and the bees. They go into details and many of them write under an assumed name.

Life on our planet appears to be a hodge-podge, but of course it always has been. You can take your pick — elation or despair. Maybe the wise course would be a little of each. The world is never as good as some people try to make it, or as bad.

Have you ever seen a thoroughly bad person? Have you ever seen a person who could be counted on to be right ninety-nine per cent of the time?

A hodge-podge. But maybe it was intended to be so.

Depending On The Joe Doakes'

By ELMER ROESSNER

Will Mr. and Mrs. Joe Doakes kindly step up and buy something? Buy lots of something? Something besides stocks?

It is the Doakes, the common people of America, who in the end determine when recessions begin and when recessions end. Several times in the 20 years or so I have been watching business, the Doakes have saved the economy. The economists were saying we were in for decline. But the Doakes, either because they didn't read them, or didn't believe them if they did, went blithely on buying clothes, autos, wedding breakfasts, Picasso reproductions, toothpicks and all the other things that make America great. And the mini-recessions became so short and flat that nobody bothered.

It may be argued that if the Doakes are out of work, and several million are now jobless, that they have not the money to heat up the economy, let alone their own homes.

There Is Hope

But if those who are working will spend a little more and save a little less, it will automatically create more jobs.

ELMER ROESSNER

The Doakes haven't been doing too bad. Retail sales for the past year have regularly topped sales of year-ago weeks. True, much if not all of the rise has been due to higher prices. True, there are a lot more Doakes this year than there were a year ago. But considering strikes, layoffs, plant closings and fears, the Doakes have done an admirable job in spending.

One factor has been the constantly rising prices. The Doakes have figured that almost everything may be cheaper today than it will be tomorrow, and so they bought.

Personal savings have been building up at a rate of around $1 billion a week. The total saved is at an all-time high. The money is there and spending can be increased.

Bull Market Significance

The enormous activity in the stock market is significant. Buying stocks, of course, is not spending; it is simply transferring savings from one form to another and it doesn't create many jobs, as buying an auto does. But it does show the Doakes and their richer relatives have confidence and their savings are not immobilized in bonds and bank accounts.

First National City Bank in its February economic letter says that it is becoming increasingly clear that consumer spending, not business and government spending, plays a key role in economic revival.

It points out that "about 70 per cent of national spending has been largely insensitive to the relatively moderate swing in monetary growth and in economic activity that have characterized the past 25 years."

It concludes: "The potential energy that has been building up in consumer liquid assets and wealth positions is bound to break loose. It is only a question of time."

So get with it, Joe and Maizie!

Annual District Lay Rally Will Be Held In Greenville Wednesday

The annual District Lay Rally of the Greenville District of the United Methodist Church will be held at Jarvis Memorial Church Wednesday.

Supper will be served from 5-7 p.m. with the program following. Judge J. W. H. Roberts of Greenville, district lay leader, will preside. The Rev. L. C. Vereen of Raleigh will direct the congregational singing with special music by the choir of the Bethel United Methodist Church. The choir is directed by Mrs. Delton Perry.

Jim Patrick of Durham, conference lay leader, will bring greetings. The featured speaker is D.r. Harry Denman of Lake Junaluska, who served as director of Methodist General Board of Evangelism over 25 years.

Dr. T. A. Collins, president of Wesleyan College, Rocky Mount, will speak on "Higher Education in the 1970s." Judge Roberts will make a roll call of the 36 charges of the district for the attendance record. Two attendance trophies will be awarded: a trophy for charge membership of 300 or more; and a trophy for charge membership of less than 300.

The Rev. Roy Turnage of Holy Trinity Church, Greenville, will present the trophy for charge memberships under 300 and Frank Steinbeck of St. James will present the second trophy.

F. Leroy Merrit of Ayden will present the Bishop's Award for Excellence to United Methodist Men of Mattamuskeet charge as the outstanding mens' club of the year.

Sub-district lay leaders include: Sam J. Weeks of Greenville for Greenville Sub-district; and O. P. Miller Jr. of Snow Hill for Snow Hill Sub-district.

About 600 men and teenage boys are expected for the event.

Army Doctor Wins Wellcome Prize And Medal For '70

Maj. Michael B. Stroud, M. D., MC, USA, of the Department of Pathology at Brooke General Hospital, Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., has won the Wellcome Medal and Prize for 1970.

The award is sponsored by The Wellcome Trust and was presented in Washington, D. C. to Stroud by Garth H. Quinn, vice president-organization development, Burroughs Wellcome Co. during the annual meeting of the Association of Military Surgeons of the United States.

The prize, consisting of an engraved silver medal, a scroll and an honorarium of $500, is awarded annually to the author of an unpublished essay on a subject related to military medicine.

Stroud's winning essay was entitled "Serum Complement Component C'3 Values in Patients with Various Diseases at a Military Hospital."

The major was born in Kilgore, Tex. in 1939, and received a B. A. degree with honors from the University of Texas in 1961. He was also a member of Phi Beta Kappa, scholastic fraternity.

His medical education was gained at Baylor College of Medicine where he graduated M. D. with honors in 1965. At Baylor he was a member of Alpha Omega Alpha, an honorary scholastic medical fraternity.

After serving his internship at Tripler General Hospital in Honolulu, Hawaii in 1965-66, Stroud served his residency in the Pathology Department of Fitzsimons General Hospital, Denver, Colo. from 1966-1970.

In 1970, he received the Hugh Mahon Residency Lectureship Award.

Evangelist Speaks On Love And Serving

A lay evangelist, conducting a three-day "Greater Greenville United Methodist Preaching Mission," said Monday morning to the Women's Society of Christian Service at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church "to love one another."

Dr. Harry Denman, an executive director of the National Board of Evangelism of the United Methodist Church for 25 years, said "Jesus loved everyone and he showed his love by being a servant."

"We are to be servants. We are to do something. We are to serve," he told the ladies of Jarvis Methodist Church, St. James United Methodist Church and Holy Trinity United Methodist Church who sponsored the morning meeting. In conclusion, Denman asked "Are you willing for Christ to live in your body?"

Denman was introduced at the Women's meeting by Mrs. William F. Grossnickle, vice president of the society of Jarvis Memorial. The meeting opened with a devotion given by Mrs. Thurman R. Jones, chairman of spiritual growth in circle number six.

A business meeting was conducted by Mrs. J. Knott Proctor Jr., president. Mrs. Roy Tripp Jr. reported on visits made to newcomers and announced an upcoming meeting of 10 membership growth circle chairmen on Thursday, March 4, at 2 p.m. at the church; Mrs. Karl Fazer, spiritual growth chairman, said in preparation for Easter, a special 30-minute service will follow the next general meeting of the socieity on Monday, March 1; Mrs. Reynolds May asked for volunteers to attend Orientation Classes for mentally retarded children at Caswell Training Center in Kinston on Tuesday, March 16, and Wednesday, March 17; and Mrs. Proctor announced the World Day of Prayer Service on Friday, March 5, at Jarvis Methodist Church.

exhausted his administrative remedies before the National Labor Relations Board."

And so on. The facts are not seriously in dispute. The union denies that it ever has promulgated or enforced any rule in any way interfering with any member's freedom of speech; but the union does not deny—it rather quotes in full—its own constitutional provision permitting a member to be expelled for any conduct "which in the opinion of the board is prejudicial to the welfare of the association."

This is the naked threat to which Mr. Buckley objects. He finds himself, as he has said, in the position of an indentured servant of the union. Under the union shop contract, he has two choices only: To remain a dues-paying member of AFTRA, subject to the threat of discipline; or to abandon his work on television.

It will be some months, in the nature of things, before the suit comes on for trial. Unless it peters out on technicalities, Buckley v. AFTRA could become a landmark case. It is entirely possible that the Suprme Court, as presently constituted, might strike a great blow for freedom by outlawing compulsory unionism altogether. The regulation of commerce, after all, ought not to vest in any union a right to prevent men from working — especially on publicly owned airways.

I, too, am an unwilling, press-ganged member of AFTRA. In order to maintain my own TV commitments, I too am compelled to pay dues and to submit to the union's discipline; and I resent it to the very marrow of my bones. If Brother Bill will move over, and if procedural rules permit, perhaps the Court will let a co-plaintiff come in.

Needs, Goals Outlined To Pitt NAACP Chapter

Members of the North Carolina Funeral Directors and Morticians Association have once more shown their support of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) by contribution for a life membership.

For the fifth consecutive time within recent years, the association made a $500 contribution to the NCAAP. In acknowledgement of this support, D. D. Garrett, President of the Pitt County Chapter of the NAACP, expressed the gratitude of the NAACP and extended a life membership certificate to members of the contributing association.

Speaking at a Sunday night meeting, Garrett surveyed the past year in Pitt County. Some of the current situations noted by Garrett included: "We have been able to get a full organization, at least on paper; All things have not been rosy; Stewart Sumrell is still with us, Farmville is subsiding from the smoke of the fire arms; Thomas Earl Stocks is walking free while Elmore Barber is in the State Penitentary; there is the lack of harmony in the schools."

Garrett added "things don't have to stay the way they are. Pitt County should be a good county. Pitt County must become aware of the needs of its black and its poor . . . the young and the old."

In reference to employment, Garrett said that six out of ten could not find a job in Pitt County. Pointing to main areas of concern, Garrett listed four items—job improvements for the poor and the black; better houses for the black and poor; more Negroes in the Police and Sheriff Departments; and better school-parent-student-teacher relationship.

"To get these things done," Garrett told those attending, we must vote. Remember voting and the dollar are the only things that our white brothers count as valuable."

In concluding his remarks at the Sunday night meeting, Garrett called on members to contribute to NAACP and to take steps to bring in new members. "We are going to ask each member to bring in at least four new members," Garrett said.

Soviet Yankee class, the Russians are certain to have more by 1975 at the latest.

Soviet shipyards, with far greater potential than anything available to the U.S. Navy, will turn out roughly four times more nuclear submarines of all kinds in the next five years than the United States.

Even more astonishing, the Russians are building four separate designs of submarines at once, each with a different mission. The U.S., by alarming contrast, is restricted to one design at a time. With Polaris production ended, the only nuclear submarine now being built is an attack vessel.

This diversity and volume of Soviet submarie construction is approximated in other categories, including guided - missile cruisers and frigates, both in series production.

Thus, the Soviet game is starkly clear: first, gain footholds in strategic ports such as Valparaiso; then, with its growing network of naval power, expand those footholds into bases to control world shipping lanes. To some U.S. experts, this Soviet game is more dangerous to the U.S. than the strictly military threat of intercontinental missiles.

When you eat in a home in which a dish of toothpicks is prominently placed on the dining room table, you know one thing about the master of the house: he may not be the neighborhood fashionplate—but at least he's not henpecked.

One of the puzzles of life is why, when you call the right number, nobody answers or the line is busy, but when you dial the wrong number there is always somebody there to become annoyed and bang the receiver in your ear.

If all the housewives in America were wealthy enough to buy caviar by the tubful, they'd probably still tell their husbands that all they had for lunch was a tuna fish sandwich.

Refunds For Dissatisfied

RALEIGH (AP) — Eastern North Carolina farmers have complained that a seed corn has been misrepresented as a high-yielding, blight-resistant hybrid.

George Spain, director of the state Agriculture Department's Seed Testing Division, says the company selling the corn, Green Brothers of Fuquay-Varina, has agreed to refund money to any dissatisfied farmer.

The Goldsboro News-Argus quoted growers in Wayne and Duplin counties as saying they had bought the seed corn, G-480 after being told verbally it was a hybrid, but had learned later it was not.

First-generation, hybrid corn, referred to technically as F-1, is in great demand and short supply this year because of the Southern corn blight, which wiped out millions of dollars worth of the crop last year. Farm officials say the blight could be worse this year.

Spain said G-480 seed corn is F-2 instead of F-1.

F-1 corn is both blight resistant and high yielding. F-2 also is blight resistant, but usually yields as little as two-thirds of F-1.

Boy Cleared In Slaying

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — A 16-year-old Canton boy who had been arrested on a charge of participating in the slaying of his sister-in-law in Jacksonville, N.C., last summer has been released.

North Carolina authorities recalled the murder warrant against Larry T. Keim and he was cleared Monday. He had been arrested Friday at Timken High School, where he is a junior. His attorney said new evidence uncovered in Canton and Jacksonville had cleared him.

He, his brother, Harvey, 28; and a Jacksonville man had been charged with murder in the slaying of Harvey's wife, Atsuko Keim, last July 31.

Police in Jacksonville had said Mrs. Keim was killed during a drinking party at the Keim home and her body was hidden in a wooded area by the brothers and the other man.

They said Harvey Keim later reported his wife missing, but admitted last month that she was dead and told them where to find the body.

Cmdr. In Pacific Visiting Jakarta

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Adm. John S. McCain, U.S. commander in the Pacific, arrived today from Kuala Lumpur for a three-day visit which will include a tour of Indonesian military facilities in West Java.

McCain's schedule also includes a meeting with Gen. Maraden Pangabean, deputy commander of the Indonesian armed forces.

New Peanut Information Is Discussed

Astor Perry was the keynote speaker at the annual peanut production meeting last night at the Pitt County Courthouse.

Perry, extension agronomy specialist from North Carolina State University, presented the latest research information on peanuts. He covered such topics as variety selection and performance; seed beed preparation and plating dates; weed, insect and fungus control; harvesting and curing information.

He stated that the 1970 growing season was the best production year that North Carolina has had in peanuts.

Also attending the meeting was Joe Sugg, executive vice president of the North Carolina Peanut Association.

Sugg commented on his work with the association. He warned all growers who planned on planting Forunner peanuts that although they were high yielding, that North Carolina shellers were not equipped and would not knowingly buy Florunner peanuts due to the size of the nut and their inability to process them.

Jack Warren Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Warren of Stokes, was presented a $25 savings bond for being the young farmer peanut growing champion in the county last year. On one measured acre, the young farmer produced a net weight of 2,760 pounds of peanuts.

The bond was presented to Warren by the Pitt County 4-H Council.

Accuse Militant Of Harassment

NEW YORK (AP) — Rabbi Meier Kahane, head of the militant Jewish Defense League, has been accused of harassing a Soviet official outside the U.N. building.

Earlier this year the league, accusing the Soviet Union of mistreating its Jewish citizens, had staged a number of such incidents, but Kahane had called a one-month moratorium.

"We saw what happened when we called a truce for a month," he said after his arrest Monday on complaint by Vladimir Fedorov. "Everything died." He was ordered to appear in court March 3.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — A cut in the prime interest rate stimulated continued investor interest on Wall Street today as prices climbed higher in very heavy trading.

At 11 a.m. the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks climbed 2.39 to 891.222. The New York Stock Exchange tape was running late off and on during the early part of the session.

Advances led declines on the New York Stock Exchange by more than 2 to 1.

Analysts said the market's impetus came from the news of another cut in the prime rate, the rate which commercial banks charge on loans to their best corporate customers. Two major New York banks cut their prime rate to 5¾ per cent from 6 per cent before trading opened this morning. Several other major banks quickly followed.

The Federal Reserve Board announced Friday a cut in the discount rate to 4¾ per cent from 5 per cent.

City Schools. .

$450,354.05, Pitt County fund, and $21,341.42, junior high fund; Rose High replacements (of final temporary units), $50,000, district budget, and $65,521.93, junior high insurance-sale; demolition-clearance projects, $8,640.00, junior high insurance-sale fund.

The 1965-70 total expenditures for school facilities projects amounted to $4,060,885.51.

Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, Superintendent of Greenville City Schools, pointed out the four million plus figure does not include the annual budget expenditures for such items as the purchase of mobile classroom unit, improvements such as paving, covered walkways, boiler-oilburner conversions, gym floor replacements, lighting-intercom changes and similar expenses. "Taking these into consideration, the expenditures for the period amounts to something near five million," he commented.

Dr. Moses Sheppard, spokesman for the Aycock Junior High P. T. A., presented a request on behalf of the P. T. A., asking the school board to consider taking steps to fully aircondition the recently constructed junior high school.

"This job was attempted by the P.T.A." Dr. Sheppard remarked, "but we were unable to procure the necessary funds on our own. We are requesting you take over on this, and we offer you our funds, $1,718, to use with other funds."

Other representatives appearing on behalf of this project were Mrs. Leroy James, Mrs. Julian Vainwright, Philip Clark and Rev. B. B. Felder. All expressed concern that the school, which was designed for air conditioning, be given a high priority.

In the printed request furnished each board member, points of emphasis included the fact that Aycock was designed for about 1200 pupils and is accommodating about 1700; that for this school air-conditioning is no longer a luxury but a vital necessity; and that the school, if air conditioned, is adequate to support the total Summer School program in the city from kindergarten through grade 12.

One suggestion they offered for the project which would require about $55,000 to complete, would be the use of the necessary amount from the $73,632 fund earmarked for a second junior high. It was noted "since adequate funds for a new junior high school are not available, money which is presently in reserve could be used to improve the present pupil accommodations."

Board member Harding Sugg observed the $73,632 was "not reserve funds, but funds earmarked for a specific purpose."

Sugg remarked "this matter falls under the category of district capital outlay, over and above normal requirements."

School Board Chairman Dr. E. B. Aycock said action would be taken to request funds for air conditioning in the budget preparation coming up in March. He noted it will be 30 to 60 days before the outcome of the request is known.

The P. T. A. group, in offering their collection, was asked to defer contributing the funds until the outcome of the budgeting request is known.

Resignation of three teachers — Mrs. Jo Ann Myers, Mrs. Daphne L. Richardson and Mrs. Vivian Johnson, were accepted, and three replacements approved. The three are: Mrs. Jacquelyn Simpkins, Mrs. Emily Crawford and Mrs. Willa J. Monroe. In addition, an agreement for Mrs. Betty A. Scoopmier to teach half-time, with Miss Marion S. Hardee elected on an interim basis to work with Mrs. Scoopmier, was approved. Mrs. Lola L. Alligood was elected to fill the vacancy of librarian at Rose High.

Dr. Cleetwood reported that the school facilities insurance situation "is now brighter." One company has reinstated its blanket coverage, and full coverage of facilities is being maintained.

Approval was granted the New York Life Insurance Company to participate in the tax sheltered annuities; and in another insurance matter, it was reported by Dr. Cleetwood that litigation over insurance settlement for the old junior high school seems to be shaping up well. He noted the hold up had been over a matter of replacement versus actual values.

Results of the survey of the present staff of teachers indicate that the expected retention rate of teachers is high — with only 11 teachers stating definitely they do not plan to return. Another 18 teachers may or may not remain, contingent on potential moves away from the community. Normally, Dr. Cleetwood observed, the turn-over rate is 15 to 20 percent of the total teachers.

Several matters were presented to the board members for their study between now and the March meeting. These include consideration of:

— a cooperative program with Pitt Technical Institute to assist high school students with hardship cases;

— the possibility of making Driver Education a year round activity on a more firm basis, with 30 hours of classroom work and 12 hours of summer training and or school time training behind the wheel;

— consideration of a request by a student for accelerated graduation; and

— further consideration of adopting the school claendar for 1971-72.

Three Rose High students — Tim Leith, Alec Allen and Ernest Adams, Jr., were on hand at the meeting to present a request for graduation exercises for Friday night, May 28 instead of the scheduled date of Monday, May 31.

After hearing comments from the students and expressions from school board members, a motion was passed to authorize Rose High principal Robert Alligood and Dr. Cleetwood work out details on this matter and to establish a firm date for the graduation exercises.

Permission was given for Memorial Baptist Church to continue a temporary rental arrangement of facilities at Eastern Elementary School for Sunday services until the boiler at the church can be repaired or replaced.

The board recognized Mrs. Ina (George) Ostrow, the new observer form the Greenville-Pitt County Provisional League of Women Voters. Mrs. Ostrow has been designated by the league as their representative to attend school board meetings.

Mrs. Robert Kittrell, speaking of the additional crossing guard now in place at Sadie Saulter School, said she feels it "is a much safer pattern than before. I personally appreciate the city's traffic department considering this request and doing something about it," she commented.

from Fayetteville, N.C., wanted to be sure.

So they escorted Sidonio back to Khe Sanh, rearmed the Cobras and put a platoon of Vietnamese troops—the Black Panthers of the 1st South Vietnamese Division—aboard UH1 Slicks.

These jungle-wise troops are being used to secure downed helicopters and recover the crews, alive or dead. The cavalry has its own platoons for that, but they're not allowed in Laos. So they stay at Khe Sanh, filling sandbags and griping about the Army using crack troops— themselves—for menial chores.

In a few minutes, back over Laos, Charlie Troop's ships dodged between the locations of known .51-caliber and 37mm guns and the Black Panther, or Hac Bao in Vietnamese, went into the crash site by helicopter.

Vietnamese probed the ashes and recovered the remains of five of the six Americans who had been aboard the Chinook.

On the way home, the Cobras spotted an enemy truck loaded with ammunition, destroyed it, and shot up four enemy gun positions.

Not a bad day for Charlie Troop. Not as bad, for instance, as the three days earlier, when four Cobras and four Slicks went down, two Cobras destroyed, two pilots missing and two hospitalized.

That was the day when Newman couldn't find a clearing big enough to land and pick up his wounded gunship pilots, so he went into the jungle instead, clipping the treetops with his rotor blades, while a cable was lowered, then nursing the damaged ship back to Khe Sanh with the wounded men aboard.

The next day Capt. Chuck Vehlow, a 25-year-old West Pointer from Waukesha, Wis., took a .51-caliber slug in his Cobra's rocket pod and they had to call the demoliton squad to disarm his pod.

That day also, CWO Robert Pascoe, Phoenix, Ariz., was flying scout for the Cobras when his OH1 Loach took hits in both radios and went silent. Back at Khe Sanh, Newman scrambled the troop to start a search just as Pascoe swooped onto the Khe Sanh airstrip, skidded to a stop and leaped out with his fire extinguisher.

"I thought I was in flames," he said sheepishly as his colleagues surrounded the helicopter, dropping to their knees to inspect the jagged hole in the main frame. Pascoe had made it, but the chopper was finished and would be shipped back to the States for repairs.

Time Runs Out On '70 Licenses

Greenville police found a number of drivers today who failed to abide by North Carolina's law requiring 1971 license tags to be displayed on cars after Midnight February 15.

Officers, by 8 a.m. today, had charged 14 motorists with failing to display their new state and-or city license plates. The first of the arrests was made at 12:32 a.m. — 32-minutes after the midnight deadline.

Officials emphasized that new tags must be displayed on vehicles in order to comply with the law. Simply having purchased new license plates and having them inside the car is not sufficient.

Prime Rate Is Cut Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Bankers Trust Co. aured today a one-quarter percentage point reduction in its prime lending rate.

Bankers Trust became the first major New York City bank to lower its prime rate after the Federal Reserve Board's approval Friday of a reduction to 4¾ per cent from 5 per cent in the discount rate at 11 of the 12 district reserve banks.

Bankers Trust cut its prime rate—the rate of interest banks charge their biggest and most creditworthy customers—to 5¾ per cent from 6 per cent, effective immediately.

The discount rate is the rate of interest the Federal Reserve System charges its member commercial banks for loans. Only the New York Federal Reserve Bank did not go along with the discount rate reduction.

In announcing the prime rate cut, Bankers Trust said in a statement: "This adjustment of rates reflects current money market conditions and is consistent with our policy to establish a more flexible rate structure."

This was essentially the same reason cited by the Federal Reserve Board in paring the discount rate.

Short-term rates in the money market have been on a downward slide lately, including rates paid on Treasury bills and commercial paper, which are like unsecured IOU's issued by corporations.

Chilean Expects Major Changes

MIAMI (AP) — Chilean Congresswoman Laura Allende, sister of Marxist President Salvador Allende, said Monday economic power in her country will shift from giant corporations to the workers through the new government.

"It is difficult to make these revolutionary changes having to comply at the same time with the constitution and the laws, but it is being done with the backing of the people," Mrs. Allende added.

Allende's sister, in Cuba accompanied by her daughter at the invitation of the Fidel Castro government, was interviewed by Radio Havana.

First Graders Give Cook Book

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Mrs. Richard M. Nixon has received a gift book of recipes set down by first graders at the Martin Luther King School and cordon bleu cooking it ain't.

A sample:

"Bacon—put one piece of bacon in the skillet. Put two little spoons of hot pepper and three spoons of salt on it. It's done when it gets burned up. Take it out when you smell the smoke. Edward."

Mrs. Nixon sent a thank-you letter containing Nixon family photographs.

Of the recipe book, she said, "I will especially cherish the copy you sent me."

Olivier To Play In Guys And Dolls

LONDON (AP) — Sir Laurence Olivier is going to play that high-rolling crapshooter Nathan Detroit in a production of the musical "Guys and Dolls" by the British National Theater opening at the Old Vic next Nov. 24.

The National Theater usually concentrates on dramatic classics.

"Guys and Dolls" was to have been staged last year, but Olivier fell ill. Its British opening will come 21 years after its New York premiere.

Guard Questioned After Abduction At Air Base

By NICK LUDINGTON
Associated Press Writer

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — A Texas airman kidnaped and held 17 hours by suspected leftist extremists was undergoing questioning today by U.S. Air Force investigators while Turkish police hunted the kidnapers.

Sgt. Jimmy Ray Finley, 24, an air policeman from Fort Worth, Tex., walked back to his base Monday night, apparently none the worse for his experience.

The Air Force gave no details of what he reported. But speculation in Ankara was that the kidnaping might have been the work of a group of leftists wanted for two recent bank robberies in the city.

The five-man gang is led by former Istanbul University law student Deniz Gezmis and has been at large since its first successful bank raid Jan. 11.

Officials would say only that Finley's abductors were believed to be leftist extremists, active for the past year in terrorist attacks against American servicemen and their families.

Turkish police said at least three men took part in the kidnaping about 3 a.m. Monday at an American installation on the outskirts of Ankara.

The kidnapers entered the base apparently undetected and forced Finley into a truck while he was on guard duty. A few hours later the pickup truck was found empty and abandoned, its motor still running and with a flat tire 10 miles outside Ankara.

The kidnaping jolted the American community in Turkey.

"It's been building up to this," said a U.S. diplomat of the spreading wave of anti-American violence in Turkey. There have been bomb attacks against U.S. installations and Americans have been roughed up, insulted and threatened.

"We had our fingers crossed kidnaping wouldn't spread to Turkey, but here it is," said a security officer at the U.S. Embassy in Ankara. He said for more than a year special security measures have been taken to protect several thousand American civilians and servicemen in Ankara.

Turkish police have reinforced Turkish troops guarding U.S. installations. Americans are not allowed to carry weapons for guard duty. Turkish police also are stationed at the residence of the U.S. ambassador.

Women Voters Hear Rep. Jones

Congressman Walter B. Jones, appearing last night as guest speaker at a meeting of the Greenville-Pitt County Provisional League of Women Voters, expressed his opinions on a variety of current issues.

The First District Congressman, speaking to approximately 60 persons in the Council Chambers at City Hall, first described a typical day in the life of a congressman, touching on the formalities of steps involved in the passage of legislation and the make-up of congressional committees.

It was during the question-answer period which followed his prepared speech that Congressman Jones was asked about his stand on a number of issues. According to Mrs. Evelyn Boyette, chairman on the Committee of U.S. Congress Studies, Jones told his audience that he:

—Defended the seniority system, for all its faults, as better than the alternatives so far offered;

—Opposes the legilization of marijuana;

—Feels certain Congressional procedures are outmoded and inefficent; that he supports some reform in the method of nomination and electing the President; and that he favors an extended term for members of the House of Representatives.

Congressman Jones was also reported as saying he feels the most effective way for constituents to communicate their views to members of Congress is through personal letter and direct verbal communication.

When asked about the recently publicized rating of the N.C. Legislature as 47th in the nation, he termed the rating "absurd."

Jones said that in his duties he tries to be guided by the majority view in the district he represents.

Coastal Area Meet Set In Washington

A Coastal Area Planning Conference has been scheduled in Washington for Thursday afternoon, according to an announcement by G. Irvin Aldridge, director of the North Carolina Department of Local Affairs.

The conference is sponsored by the Division of Community Planning's coastal area office in Washington for local officials, planning board members, planners and other individuals interested in local, county and regional planning.

According to Aldridge, the two primary topics for the program will be "Planning For and Within the Coastal Regions" and "Development versus Conservation."

Speakers include Edwin G. Long Jr., Corps of Engineers; Peter Batchelor, N.C. State University; Dr. James Bearden, East Carolina University; Wesley Cullipher, Albermarle Area Regional Planning and Development Commission; J. Roy Fogle, Neuse River Regional Planning and Development Council; and Aldridge.

The director of the coastal area office of the Division of Community Planning in Washington, Bob Hinshaw, will preside over the conference.

The meeting is scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. at the Holiday Inn in Washington on Highway 17 north. The program will feature panel discussion by the various speakers, followed by a question and answer period with audience participation.

Drunks Policy

..CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — From now on, drunks will be released as soon as they sober up—in about 10 hours—instead of typically being sentenced to 20 days in the county jail.

The new policy, started Monday on a 30-day experimental basis, is designed to save the police and the courts time and money by reducing the time "revolving door" or habitual drunks spend in jail.

Magistrates have been empowered to try drunks on a 24-houraday basis. Jail personnel will determine if the accused is sober enough to stand trial.

If he pleads guilty he will be released whether or not he can pay the fine and court costs.

Outdoor Movie Curbs Indicated

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — State Sen. Delos Ellsworth says he will introduce a bill to prohibit the showing of X-rated films at outdoor movies.

Ellsworth said he decided the measure was needed after he saw a group of youngsters gathered atop a 50-foot slide to view spicy scenes from the picture showing at a drive-in theater across the street.

Pitt Tech In Playoff Loss

CHOCOWINITY — Beaufort Tech handed Pitt Tecnical Institute a 78-64 defeat last night in a playoff game to determine the Northern Division winner in the East Carolina Community College League.

The two teams had tied during the regular season, and a playoff was needed to determine which team would meet the Southern Division winner, Cape Fear, in the overall championship game Wednesday at Wilson.

Pitt controlled the tempo of the game in the first half, as they gained a slim 30-29 lead at intermission. Pitt went for the good shots, and played a zone defense against the taller Beaufort team.

But in the second half, Beaufort began to crack the Pitt zone, and get the ball inside to its big men. They pulled out to a 14-point lead midway through the period, and Pitt was unable to catch up after that.

Sam Gorham led Beaufort with 28 points, while Wayne Barr had 15, Larry Bishop had 13 and Doug Lodge had 11.

Pitt Tech was led by Angelo Hooker with 19, while James Maye added 16 and Eddie Stokes had 15.

The loss closed out Pitt for the 1970-71 season. They finished with an 11-5 overall record, and were 9-1 during the regular season in the conference.

Williamston Girls In Win

WILLIAMSTON — The Williamston High School girls advanced to the semi-finals of the Albemarle Conference Tournament with a 53-29 romp over Perquimans last night.

The Tigerettes will now face the winner of the Plymouth-Gates game Friday at 7 p.m., also at Williamston. Tonight at 8 p.m., Williamston's boys meet Perquimans in the first round of the boys division.

Williamston rolled up a 14-9 lead in the first period of play, then put the game out of reach in the second quarter. The Tigerettes pushed through another 14 points in the second frame, while limiting Perquimans to just three points. That gave Williamston a 28-12 lead at intermission.

In the third period, Williamston continued to pull away, outscoring Perquimans, 17-6, That ran the lead out to 45-18. Against the reserves, Perquimans managed to outhit the Tigerettes, 11-8, in the final period, but it didn't chance the result.

Joanie Rogerson and Libbie Warren led the Williamston team with 15 each, while Kathy Davenport picked up 10.

Brenda Banks and Deborah Bookins each had 10 for Perquimans.

Fieldcrest Is Industrial Champ

Fieldcrest Mills wrapped up the Industrial Basketball League regular season championship last night with a 44-37 victory over National Cash Register. In the other games, Wachovia beat WNCT, 58-32, while State Highway downed Vermont American, 98-53.

Fieldcrest now posts a 12-1 record with but two games left to play. State Highway and NCR are both 9-4, followed by Wachovia, 7-6, WNCT,2-11, and Vermont American, 0-13.

In the opener, State Highway ran away to a 51-14 lead in the first half. State Highway relaxed its defense in the second half, but still outhit Vermont American, 47-39, to win handily.

Lindsay Hardee led the Highwaymen with 24 points, while Bob Edwards had 22, Phil Page had 17, John Crewford had 14. Clyde Elks had 13 and Preston Mills had 10. McGowan had 18 and James had 12 for Vermont American.

In the second contest, Wachovia struggled through a slow first half for a 26-12 lead. They again outhit WNCT, 32-20, in the second half to wrap up the victory.

Walter Jones led Wachovia with 14 points, while Jim Smith had 12. Glynn Collins had 12 and Gene Hudson had 11 for WNCT.

Then, Fieldcrest took the title in the final game. The champs slipped out into a 24-17 lead in the first half, then protected that by matching NCR during the second half. Both teams threw in 20 points during the run to the wire.

Bill Stokes led Fieldcrest with 19 points, while Louis Williams had 12. Kelly Witherington had 14 and Bill Hall had 10 for NCR.

Davidson Tries For ACC Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Davidson will try for the third time this season to beat an Atlantic Coast Conference basketball team when it takes on Duke at Greensboro tonight.

In two previous efforts, the Southern Conference-leading Wildcats lost to N.C. State by 13 points to Wake Forest by four, and to South Carolina by eight, all at Charlotte. Davidson Coach Terry Holland is hopeful the change of scenery will be beneficial and that the neutral court will help his squad.

Duke is mired well back in the ACC pack with a 12-7 overall record while Davidson is 11-9 in all games. Holland said, "You don't know what to expect from Duke. They are such a good shooting team, you never know when they might really get hot on you."

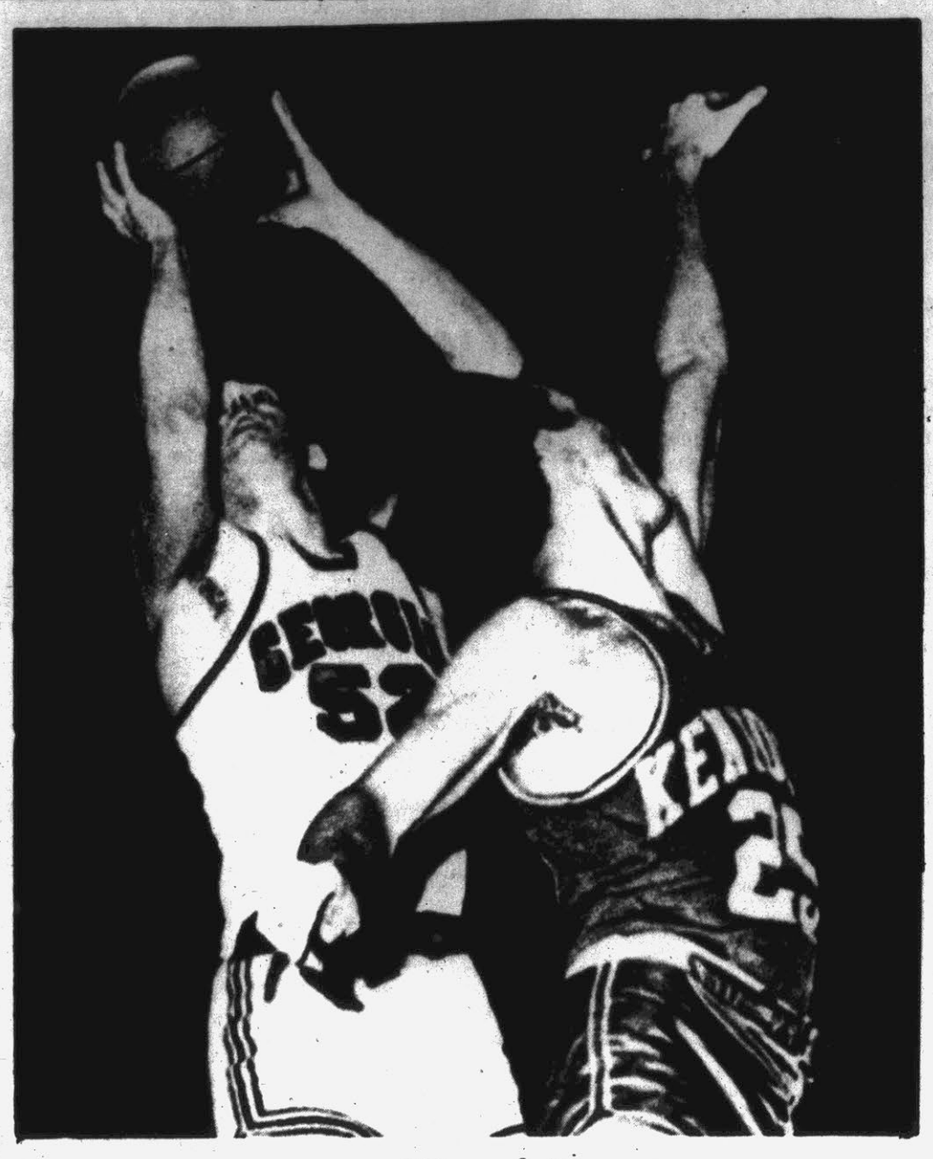
Blue Devil coach Bucky Waters agrees with his team's potential. After watching them beat Maryland by three points Saturday, he said, "We really are an enigma and I have no explanation."

Davidson's fortunes depend on whether all-conference junior Bryan Adrian can play. Against South Carolina last week he came off the bench and sparked a Wildcat rally that almost caught the Gamecocks, but he has been sidelined most of the season with a knee injury.

And Duke is a one-man gang for all practical purposes, too. Randy Denton has paced the team to most of its triumphs and failed to produce in most of its defeats. If he's at his best, Duke can win easily.

In the other games tonight involving ACC teams, seventh-place Wake Forest plays Clemson at Winston-Salem. If Clemson upsets the Deacons, it would be within a half-game of next-to-last place. But Wake Forest has Charlie Davis the conference scoring leader and the other horses to make it a rout.

Only Saturday Jack McCloskey's Deacons embarrassed Virginia by 24 points, the same night Clemson was getting mauled by North Carolina.



Missed It

Kentucky's Larry Steele (25) couldn't steal this rebound from Georgia's Cauthen Westbrook (52) in the first half of their game in Athens, Ga., last night. Kentucky beat Georgia, 107-95 to retain its Southeastern Conference basketball lead. (AP Wirephoto)

Zepp, Brown May Be Spring Trade Material

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Pitcher Bill Zepp wants to be traded and infielder Larry Brown is sure he's going to be traded. Both are among a healthy number of unsigned major leaguers who could give baseball general managers a few headaches over the next few weeks.

Zepp, who was born in Detroit, and still lives there, has a problem because he works for Minnesota. He would prefer, of course, to work for Detroit and has suggested as much to both the Twins and Tigers. So far, however, no deal. And Zepp says unless the Tigers and Twins can get together on one, he won't play baseball this summer.

Some of the other holdouts don't come on quite that strongly but they make no secret of their unhappiness with the contract terms the GMs have been offering.

Brown, Cleveland's veteran infielder, wants $34,000—$5,000 more than the Indians are offering. "I'm sure they'll trade me," said Brown, "after all that has happened. All I can do in the meantime is sit and wait."

The Indians also have major numbers problems with pitchers Sam McDowell and Dennis Higgins, outfielder Vada Pinson and catcher Ray Fosse.

McDowell wants $100,000. "I don't want to talk about it much now," he said, "but it sure looks like I'm going to be late. It's up to the club. I'm very anxious to get to Tucson and get ready but I absolutely won't go until the day I sign."

Higgins, resisting a cut from $30,000 after a 4-6 season, said he was offered $15,000 as a sporting goods representative, "and I'll take it before I'll let the Indians cut my pay."

In Baltimore, Dave McNally and Boog Powell, are among the unsigned. McNally, always a tough bargainer, could be shooting for $100,000 after his third straight 20-victory season. Powell's Most Valuable Player Award could earn him close to that amount too.

National League MVP Johnny Bench has been talking about a $500,000 three-year contract but he isn't the only problem the Reds face. Pete Rose is reportedly asking $250,000 for two years and Tony Perez thinks $110,000 sounds very nice. Bobby Tolan, out indefinitely with a torn achilles tendon, says he wants no part of a provisional contract based on how much he can play in 1971, which the Reds have offered him.

Outfielder Billy Williams and pitcher Fergie Jenkins both have let the Chicago Cubs know they'd like to six figures on their '71 contracts. Jenkins has hired a lawyer to help him with negotiations.

Tony Oliva of the Twins also wants $100,000—about $30,000 more than he earned last year. "I had my best year in 1970," argues Oliva, who turned down Cal Griffith's first offer, "and I think Mr. Griffith should recognize it in my contract."

Boston's Carl Yastrzemski heads a host of unsigned Red Sox players but General Manager Dick O'Connell says "we expect no signing problems." Other Boston players still not signed include Rico Petrocelli, Reggie Smith and Billy Conigliaro.

Yaz says when he signs he'll be baseball's highest paid player. Johnny Bench was unavailable for a comment on that piece of information.

Farmville Holds Off Aycock Rally For Win

SNOW HILL — Farmville High School built up a big first half lead, then held off Charles B. Aycock to advance to the semi-finals of the Eastern Plains Conference tournament last night, 73-65.

Farmville will face the winner of tonight's Northern Nash-Southern Nash game on Thursday at 8:30 p. m. The Farmville girls will go into action on Wednesday at 7 p. m., facing the North Lenoir-Charles B. Aycock winner.

Farmville, led by Robert Tripp in the first half, jumped off to a 20-16 lead in the first period. The Red Devils began to pull away in the second quarter, and dumped in 22 points, while limiting the Falcons to just seven. That built the Farmville lead to 42-23 at the end of the half.

Aycock began to rally in the third period, outscoring Farmville, 19-10. That cut the lead back to 52-42. Farmville allowed little further rally, however, as they let only two more points slip off the lead in the final period as Aycock held a 23-21 advantage.

Tripp, who had 28 in the first half, finished with 35 for the game. Connie Tripp finished with 20, while McCoy Williams had 12.

Billy McLean had 21 for Aycock, while Robbie Wooten had 18 and Buddy Davis had 10.

Pirate Frosh Face Louisburg

East Carolina's streaking freshman basketball team, receiving "best ever" billing around the tobacco belt, travels to Louisburg this Wednesday night in search of its seventh straight victory.

The Baby Pirates, 10-2 this year, will meet Louisburg Junior College in an 8 p.m. contest. It will be the second meeting of the year between the two teams, ECU having defeated Louisburg 63-60 in Greenville in late January.

Coach Al Ferner's frosh have lost only to Duke and Davidson this year and have a good chance at becoming the most successful Baby Pirates team ever as far as won-lost percentage. Ferner's club needs only to win three of the last four games (against Louisburg, William & Mary, North Carolina and Isothermal) to finish a 13-3 mark and an .813 percentage.

The star of this year's team has been Nicky White of Kinston, who right now is on his way to becoming the top freshman rebounder ever at ECU. In 12 games, the 6-8 pivot man has pulled down loose balls at a rate of 15.7 per game. The Baby Pirate rebounding record is 15.3, set by Jim Gregory in 1967-68.

White also leads his team in scoring with an 18.4 average — not high enough to threaten Gregory's record 25.2 average in 1967-68.

Three other freshmen are scoring in double figures — Ray Peszko of Greenville at 14.7, Nake White of Laurinburg at 13.0, and Fred Lapish of Charlotte at 10.6. Peszko, a 6-7 middle man, also is second to Nicky White in rebounding at 12.9.

They laughed all the way to the bank.

Transferring securities from one bank to another can be a costly business.

But in 1966, Federal Armored Service, Inc. of Michigan found a way to cut the cost of driving.

They bought a Volkswagen Squareback to handle their non-negotiable securities.

And what better car for the job.

While the average armored car gets only 5 mpg, our Squareback gets about 27.

It doesn't waste time or gas hunting for a place to park. Because outside, it's about as small as our bug.

Inside, though, it has just about 50% more carrying space than the biggest domestic sedan. (Over twice as much with its back seat down.)

So it can carry in one trip what takes most other cars at least two.

Of course, in the beginning there were those who laughed at Federal Armored for using a Volkswagen.

But once the savings started to add up, it became Federal Armored's turn.

And he who laughs last, laughs best.

UNC, USC Each Climb Three Spots

By TOM EMORY
Associated Press Sports Writer

It was fun and games time for two of college basketball's big men Monday night and their teams' victories proved it. But for Kansas, it was a nailbiter down to the last 23 seconds.

Jacksonville's 7-foot-2 Artis Gilmore hit 22 points and had 25 rebounds as the Dolphins defeated Florida State 100-75; and 7-foot Jim McDaniels scored 26 points and grabbed 25 rebounds in Western Kentucky's 83-65 victory over East Tennessee.

Perhaps the teams were relaxed since neither has to face the pressure of being in the top five schools in the latest Associated Press poll. Jacksonville retained its No. 6 slot and the Hilltoppers fell from No. 7 to ninth.

Kansas, however, is the No. 5 team and had to scrap to save a 71-68 decision from Oklahoma. The Jayhawks held the fifth spot and added two victories last week but the Sooners put on a tough performance in the first half tying the game 11 times.

The Jayhawks trailed 35-33 at halftime, gained the lead at 52-50, then held on for life, victory and their elevated spot in the poll. With 23 seconds remaining, Pierre Russell hit two foul shots to give the winners a 71-66 advantage.

The top four teams in the poll were idle. UCLA retained its No. 1 position, and Marquette, Southern California and Pennsylvania followed in the identical order as last week. The Bruins pulled 15 of 31 first-place votes with Marquette 14, USC and Kansas, 1 each.

South Carolina and North Carolina each jumped three places to seventh and eighth, respectively, while Duquesne advanced to No. 10 from position 12.

In other action among the Top 20 teams, Kentucky, which dropped from No. 8 to 12th place, defeated Georgia 107-95; Tennessee, up from 14 to 13, was upset by Florida 56-55; Notre Dame's Irish, bounced from ninth place to 14th, walloped Valparaiso 100-75; No. 15 Utah State was stunned by Denver 96-74; and Eastern Kentucky edged No. 17 Murray State 82-81.

Florida State staged a late rally against Jacksonville after trailing 48-37 at the half. The Seminoles closed to within 74-73 before Gilmore hit two field goals and two free throws with five minutes left to play.

It was Gilmore's clutch baskets and rebounds that saved the Dolphins but it was junior guard Harold Fox's 16 points in the first half that gave the winners the 11-point halftime advantage. Fox was leading scorer with 25 points.

McDaniels was Western Kentucky's one-man show against East Tennessee. He was held to just seven points in the first half but came back for his team's first 17 points in the second half.

The Hilltoppers slapped it on early running up a 47-19 halftime score, including holding the Buccaneers without a field goal for nine minutes of the first half.

Other college scores included Louisiana State over Auburn 114-94; Alabama defeating Vanderbilt 75-74; Missour8 topping Iowa State 80-66; Fairleigh Dickinson beating Army 57-42; Louisiana State-New Orleans over Louisiana College 84-74; and Northeast Louisiana upsetting Southwestern Louisiana 100-98.

The Top Twenty teams with first-place votes in parentheses and total points awarded on a 20-18-66-14-12-10-9-8 etc. basis:

1.	UCLA (15)	570
2.	Marquette (14)	560
3.	So. California (1)	494

Richard Sees Records Fall

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — He shows a bit of gray around the temples and a few more pounds around the middle—but when Maurice Richard really wants to make you feel old, he reminds you that he's a grandfather.

Grandpa Rocket, hockey's first superstar, is a Montreal oil company executive now and looks as comfortable in a gray flannel suit as he did in the red, white and blue uniform that he wore with the Montreal Canadiens for 18 years.

Richard was hockey's all-time goal scoring champ with 544 regular-season scores when he retired in 1960. Since then, Detroit's Gordie Howe and Bobby Hull of Chicago have both passed him. Howe has 782 now and Hull, who scored two goals Sunday night to pass the Rocket, has 546.

"It makes me feel funny seeing them pass the record," said Richard. "But I don't really feel bad about it. You know, it's not the record anymore."

Richard accumulated his total in 978 games and he always pointed out that Howe needed 1,132 games to pass it. Hull took 937 games—a fact that apparently impressed Richard.

"I think he can reach Howe's total before he's through," the Rocket said. "The way they're scoring today, Hull can do it."

Richard resists the urge to put down modern hockey compared to the game that he played in the 1940s and 50s. "But I'll tell you one thing. There could never be a 100-point scorer 15 or 20 years ago. We only played 50 or 60 games a season. Now it's up to 78 games and there are more chances to score more points. It's easier today."

Phil Esposito recently passed the 100-point plateau for the second time in his career and is threatening his own single-season mark of 126 points. He is one of the players Richard believes could eventually pass the 544 mark.

"Jean Beliveau has 500 now and if he plays a couple of more years, he could do it. Esposito too, I think. But I don't see anybody else around who might pass it," the Rocket said.

"The game is a lot faster today," Richard continued. "With the curved blade, everybody's shooting the puck from all over the ice. There's not as much good passing and fewer plays being made. I miss that."

Richard, 49, takes his hockey on weekends now, playing for fun with the Montreal Oldtimers, a group of ex-Canadiens who perform in charity games. But he's never lost his thirst for scoring.

"We played in the Montreal Forum against the Detroit Oldtimers a couple of weeks ago," said richard. "I wanted to score and you could see the fans wanted me to score. I started on a rush and ... you know, the Detroit players knew too ... the defense moved out of the way and the goalie moved out of the way. And you know what? I missed the net."

Maurice Richard, like the rest of us, is getting older.

Slaughter Is New Duke Coach

DURHAM, N. C. (AP) — After ten years of involuntary retirement, major league veteran Enos Slaughter is returning to baseball.

Slaughter, a Roxboro, N.C. native, was named Monday to be head baseball coach of Duke University. The announcement was made at a news conference Monday by Duke Athletic Director Eddie Cameron.

"Duke University is very proud to have a man of his caliber join us," Cameron said.

Slaughter played 22 seasons as a major league outfielder for the St. Louis Cardinals and New York Yankees before retiring in 1959. After his active career, he put in one season as a player-coach with Houston and managed the Raleigh Carolina League entry in 1961. Slaughter tried to stay in baseball, but met little success.

"I wanted to stay in baseball," he said. "I even went to a couple winter meetings at my own expense, but couldn't get anything."

Slaughter was named to succeed former pitcher Tom Butters, who will now serve as director of Duke's Athletic Fund. Prior to Monday's announcement, Butters held both jobs.

"It grew," said Cameron of the fund raising. "It grew to the point where we feel it needs a full-time man."

The Blue Devil nine opens against arch-rival North Carolina March 10 and Slaughter plants to hold its first practice session with the team Tuesday.

When asked about his hopes for the future, he answered, "I'd like to win that first one."

The Blue Devis had a 17-16 season last year, the school's first winning season since 1963.

Southern Race Resumes Tonight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The jockeying for seeded positions in next month's Southern Conference championship basketball tournament resumes tonight with a pair of top echelon teams taking on the league's two tail-enders.

William and Mary's second-place Indians visit Virginia Military Institute's last-place Keydets and The Citadel's third-place Bulldogs entertain Richmond's sixth-place Spiders.

The Indians are 5-2, the Bulldogs 5-3 in the battle for the No. 2 spot behind Davidson's three-time champion Wildcats, who are 6-1 and are not likely to be bumped out of a first-round tournament bye.

Richmond, on the other hand, has won just twice in nine league starts and the Keydets only once — a 73-63 victory last Monday over the Spiders that ended a 24-game losing streak.

Should the Keydets win tonight and Richmond lose, VMI could climb to a tie with the Spiders. Such an outcome of the two games would mean a trade in places, too, between William and Mary and The Citadel. It's more likely, however, the Indians and Bulldogs will win and stay as they are.

The Citadel was pushed in beating Richmond 67-64 on the Spiders' home court earlier in the season, while William and Mary routed the Keydets 75-49 in their earlier meeting on the Indians' home floor.

Also on tap tonight are a pair of nonleague contests with Davidson, 11-9 over-all, meeting Duke of the Atlantic Coast Conferece at Greensboro, N.C., and Furmans Paladins, 11-9, at Tennessee-Chattanooga.

All league teams were idle Monday night.

Coke Ties For City Loop Lead

Coca-Cola pulled back into a tie for first place by beating Book Exchange, 90-66, last night. Big Value Discount of Farmville rolled to a 75-40 win over Hallow's Distributing, and Coffman's took a forfeit win over College View.

Coke and the Exchange are tied for the lead with 10-3 records, while Coffman's is one game back at 9-4. Farmville is 6-7, followed by Hallow's, 3-10, and College View, 0-13. Two games remain in the season.

In the opener, Big Value pushed out into a 37-23 lead in the first half of play. They came back to outhit Hallow's, 38-17 in the second half, to wrap up the win.

Everett Cameron led Farmville with 22, while Roland Parker had 14 and Charles Purvis had 10. Billy Clark had 13 for Hallow's.

In the other game, Coke slowly built up a lead in the first half and held a 44-37 advantage at the end of the half. Then, in the second half, Coke pulled away, outhitting the Exchange, 46-29, to win going away.

Jim Modlin led Coke with 24 points, while John Lynn had 19, John Turner had 18, Doyle Daughtry had 12 and Glen Warren had 10. Charles Whitehurst and Greg Holmes each had 16, while Gary Cross had 15 and Dickie Allen had 14 for Book Exchange.

He Likes His Sumo Wrestling

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Cal Martin, hoping to become one of his sport's highest paid athletes, trains hard by eating great mounds of spaghetti and lots of pizza each day.

"Most of the others I train with drink beer by the gallon, said the 21-year-old Martin. "I don't like beer so I drink Hawaiian punch.

At 5-feet-10 inches tall and 275 pounds, sporting long, long hair, Cal Martin is ideally built ofr his sport, in which he's making great strides. His long hair is almost a necessity, too.

What sport requires such physical dimensions, such training methods, such a hair style?

Sumo wrestling, of course, and cal Martin is Japan's only Caucasian participating in the 2,000-year-old activity.

"I guess you could say it's sort of like playing football in the nude," says Martin, a former high school football player who put on 70 pounds with his starchy diet in order to become a sumo wrestler.

"In Japan, a sumo wrestler is almost a god. He's bigger there than Johnny Unitas or Brooks Robinson are here," he said.

He first came into contact with the sport while with his father, who was on a business trip in Japan. "I found I was pretty good at it, an instructor persuaded me to join his stable of wrestlers and I've been at it ever since.

"In sumo, anything goes but a punch." Martin explained.

"The only part of the body that can touch the floor is the soles of your feet. The object is to knock the other guy off balance and to the floor. The bout ends when any part of the body except the foot touches the floor.

Martin got $10 for his first sumo tournament two years ago but $600 for his most recent one. He hopes to make $1,000 a tourney - plus television endorsement fees - in the near future.

Along with all the eating, Martin and the other sumo wrestlers train hard. Workouts begin at 5:30 a.m. and go for six hours straight.

Then there are strength drills and a sumo version of "king of the hill" with the winning werstler taking on a challenger.

His football background has given Martin experience the others don't get and Martin's forearm shivers—a sumo technique—have caused lesser sumo wrestlers broken jaws and limbs and loosened teeth.

"I haven't learned a lot of the moves yet. but my shiver is doing okay." he says.

Anyone for Pizza and spaghetti?

Pitt Opens Wednesday

The Pitt County Basketball Tournament will open play Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the North Pitt High School gym. Two games are planned for each night, Wednesday through Friday. The winners will advance to district play.

In the girls division, both the two class A and the two Class 2-A teams will play together to determine the district representative. Wednesday at 7 p.m., Ayden will meet Grifton.

North Pitt will take on Conley at 7 on Thursday. The winners meet for the overall title on Friday, also at 7.

In the boys division of the tournament, H. B. Sugg, the top seeded team, will face fourth place South Ayden at 8:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Thursday, the number two team, Ayden, meets number three Grifton, also at 8:30 p.m. The two survivors will collide for the overall title on Friday at 8:30.

The girls winner will represent the county in the District One girls tournament, to be held in March. The boys winner will advance to the Class A District One tournament, to be held next week.

Remarks Rubbed Him Wrong Way

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Mike Curtis, middle linebacker of the Baltimore Colts, indicated Monday night critical remarks made about his team's Super Bowl victory last month rubbed him the wrong way.

The Colts "didn't crush or run over people" as they won the American Football Conference title and then the big prize, Curtis said, "but we were consistent.

"We beat teams when we had to beat them."

Curtis spoke at the annual awards banquet of the Kansas City Chiefs' Committee of 101, which honored him as AFC defensive player of the year.

Others receiving awards were quarterback John Brodie of the San Francisco 49ers, selected by sportswriters and broadcasters as the NFC offensive player of the year; tackle Alan Page of the Minnesota Vikings, NFC defensive player of the year; quarterback George Blanda of the Oakland Raiders, AFC offensive player of the year; linebacker Chuck Howley of the Dallas Cowboys, most valuable player of the Super Bowl; Coach Dick Nolan of the 49ers, NFC coach of the year and Paul Brown of the Cincinnati Bengals, top vote-getter among AFC coaches.

Blanda, Brown and Howley did not attend the dinner.

They Like To Ride This Bench

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A guy who plays hard likes to relax afterwards," says Toby Kimball, a reserve forward of the San Diego Rockets.

The National Basketball League squad can do that now—on chairs that cost $28.50 each. They are individual contour chairs, portable and with cushioned theater-type pads for the weary bottom.

Les Land, manager of the International Sports Arena, talked with the San Diego players before replacing the conventional slab bench with the chairs.

A few of the comments about other NBA benches San Diego players find on road trips:

—Philadelphia, "Too low."

—Boston, "too close to the stands."

—Chicago, "too cold."

—Los Angeles, "too small."

After Land installed the new seats, a spokesman for the Rockets commented lavishly about the improvement:

"It's got dependability, width, strength, size and youth. Everything you'd demand of a bench. We've got one of the moxt expensive benches in pro basketbal."

One of the reserves said for once he doesn't mind being sidelined.

Daniels Sets Rebound Mark

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mel Daniels rebounded to a record but the Indiana Pacers came up short because of some last-minute bombing by John Beasley.

Beasley hit two three-point goals in the closing minutes as the Texas Chaparrals edged the Pacers 119-118 Monday night despite Daniels' 34 points and 22 rebounds which made him the first American Basketball Association player to hit the 5,000 mark in career rebounds.

In the only other ABA game, the New York Nets topped the Utah Stars 98-89. The Pittsburgh at Floridians game was postponed.

There was no action in the National Basketball Association.

Beasley's second three-pointer, with 1:16 left, concluded the scoring and gave Texas its victory. Beasley finished with 29 points, one less than teammate Wayne Hightower.

Bill Paultz scored 25 points as the Nets snapped Utah's home-court winning string at 12 games. Glen Combs led Utah with 24.

New York's Rick Barry twisted his right knee early in the second half, but the injury was not believed to be serious.

Christ Was A Psychologist

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M.D.

Mary's comment coincides with the results of a poll of college students in Michigan. They preferred Chapter 18 in my textbook (which covers religious and church psychology) to other chapters on Advertising, Music, Public Speaking, Marriage, Personality Improvement, Sex Differences, etc.

Case P-527: Mary Cooper is a distant cousin of mine who spent 46 years as a Mazarene missionary in Portuguese East Africa.

Now she has been returned to America, ostensibly retired!

But she constantly addresses church audiences with a fascinating illustrated talk.

Mrs. Crane and I attended one of them recently and we learned that the Nazarenes use my college textbook in Africa.

"I am much interested, too," Mary added, "in your saying Jesus is the world's greatest psychologist."

So here are a few items to show that Christ was not only a consummate Applied Psychologist, but that he pioneered many things we have thought were 20th Century innovations!

(1) Jesus started the first church picnic when he fed the 5,000 with the lad's loaves and fishes.

(2) He also pioneered the Easter sunrise breakfast when, after his resurrection, he called the fishermen to shore and fed them a broiled fish which he had prepared, plus bread!

(3) He used advertising strategy when he dispatched his 70 Disciples ahead of Him, two by two, to recruit the crowds.

They became advance press agents or public relations men.

(4) He sent them out, two by two instead of one by one, for he knew the natural timidity of beginning salesmen

But when coupled with a teammate, even our United Fund and church finance committee members act much bolder.

(5) He described the use of alcohol as a medical disinfectant when he told of the Good Samaritan's washing out the injured man's wounds with wine (15 percent ethyl alcohol).

(6) He experimented with Socialized Medicine when he healed 10 lepers, only one of whom even said "Thank you!" And none ever offered him even a sandwich as repayment.

(7) He was a champion of "Horse Sense." When criticized for eating with the publicans without the ceremonious washing of hands, he tartly told his critics it isn't what goes in a man's mouth that is so much a pollution as what comes out thereof!

(8) He didn't believe in slavish serfdom to ritual. When his Apostles were accused of violating the Sabbath by rubbing out wheat grains between their palms, he warned:

"The Sabbath was made for man; not man for the Sabbath!"

(9) He not only preached abence of racism by use of the most hated race (Samaritan) for the hero of the famous brotherhood story.

But he practiced his abhorrence of racism by his fraternizing with the Samaritan woman at the well.

And it was a Samaritan, alone of the 10 healed lepers, who returned to say, "Thank you."

(10) Jesus was not a pacifist, for he urged his Apostles to take up swords for self-defense.

Then he even gave a Beatitude lauding policemen and soldiers when he stated:

"Blessed are the peacemakers!"

For our brave uniformed men who stand out boldly against lawless elements, keep our city streets and world communications free and open!

(11) Jesus was a smiling preacher, for children flocked around him.

(12) He was also a superb anecdotal (parable) public speaker.

Send for my booklet "How to Stimulate Bible Reading," enclosing a long stamped,rreturn envelope, plus 20 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets)

The bidding:

North	East	South	West

2 ♡	Pass	Pass	Dble.
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♠

The errors committed by East and West in defending against the part score contract today are not subject to severe criticism. Their lapses were subtle in nature and the consequences not easy to foresee. East's performance in the bidding however cannot be dismissed so lightly.

West's double of two hearts is a repeated request for a takeout, and East's pass makes him subject to charges of extreme cowardice. If he feared to risk a three club call, he might at least have bid two no trump which would present partner with an opportunity to rescue himself into any long suit which he happens to hold.

West opened the king of spades against South's two heart contract and continued with the ace and another spade, for no shift seemed very appealing to him. A small heart was led from dummy next and when East followed with the four, declarer put up the queen which held the trick.

South led a small diamond, West put up the ace and continued with the queen. This apparently normal play, however, paved the way for a shrewd gambit by declarer that completely disorganized the defense. North was in with the king of diamonds and the ten was continued. When East followed with a small diamond, South did not ruff. Instead, he discarded the three of clubs.

West was obliged to win the trick and he had no safe means of exit. If he led a club, it would be right into declarer's ace-queen, and if he played either a spade or a diamond it would provide his opponent with a ruff and sluff.

Had East put up the ace of hearts when that suit was led from dummy at trick four, he could have shifted to a club and eliminated any chance for an end play. West also had a chance to frustrate the declarer. When a small diamond is led from the closed hand, suppose that West puts in the jack to force out North's king. Now if the deuce of diamonds is played from dummy, East will be able to hold the trick for his partner can get under the seven with the five. If North leads the ten of diamonds on the other hand, West is in but can exit with his small diamond, for East's nine can either hold the trick or force declarer to ruff.

Scout Earns Eagle Badge

KYLE EDWARDS

In ceremonies held recently at Salem United Methodist Church in Simpson, Kyle Edwards was presented the coveted Eagle Scout Award.

Opening and closing ceremonies were handled by Boy Scout Troop 200 of Grimesland with Robert L. Wilson, advisor of Explorer Post 200 of Grimesland, presenting the award.

Kyle, a ninth grade student at D. H. Conley High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Edwards Jr. of Simpson.

Active in cub and boy scouting for the past five years, the Eagle Scout is currently a member of Explorer Post 200 where he serves as post treasurer.

Kyle is also serving as den chief of Cub Pack 369 and is a member of the Order of the Arrow, the honor scout camping organization.

Sen. Jordan Awake, Alert After Monday's Surgery

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Doctors attending U.S. Sen. B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., said Monday night that the senator was "wide awake, alert and resting very well" following surgery for removal of a malignant tumor from his colon.

Jordan was operated on Monday from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Monday at the Duke University Medical Center. The senator, who is 74, entered Duke Hospital Thursday for what was termed a complete physical examination in preparation for a 1972 reelection bid.

Doctors removed a portion of the second half of the large intestine. Following the operation, the surgeons said they found nothing to indicate that the malignancy had spread.

The length of Jordan's stay at the hospital, officials there said, depends upon the speed of his recuperation. Normal postoperative hospitalization for such operations is two to three weeks. However, the officials were reluctant to speculate on how long it would be before Jordan could return to normal activity.

News of Jordan's illness has already raised speculation in North Carolina political circles as to whether the senator will recover soon enough to carry out his reelection campaign pledge.

Jordan was appointed to the Senate in 1958 by Gov. Luther Hodges, following the death of Senator W. Kerr Scott. W. Kerr Scott was the father of the present governor of North Carolina, Bob Scott.

Following brief service in World War I, Jordan became active in politics and the textile industry during the 1930s. His influence in politics and industry grew through the 1940s and in 1949 he was appointed chairman of the North Carolina Democratic Party. He held that post until 1954. From 1954 to 1958 he was a Democratic National Committeeman from North Carolina.

For most of his Senate career, Jordan has been associated with southerners and conservatives, but his voting record has become more liberal in recent years. He surprised many North Carolinians by supporting the Cooper-Church amendment, which was aimed at limiting U.S. participation in Cambodia, and by casting a crucial vote against the Byrd amendment, a decisive test vote which preceded Cooper-Church.

SEN. EVERETT JORDAN

Jordan is presently chairman of the powerful Senate Rules Committee and the second-ranking Democrat on the Agriculture Committee. His specialities are farm legislation and water resource development in North Carolina. He was a major legislative architect behind development.

Jordan was a frequent supporter of the Johnson Administration in areas of education, agriculture and tax programs.

Other surgery, including operations to remove his appendix, gall bladder and prostate, failed to slow his political pace.

Jordan attended Rutherford College and Trinity College, now Duke University. He is presently a member of the Duke Board of Trustees. He is married to the former Catherine McLean of Gastonia, N.C. They have three children.

SAIGON (AP) — A U.S. Air Force colonel with 28 years service who commanded an airlift squadron was found guilty today of seven marijuana charges. He was sentenced to three years' imprisonment and a fine of $15,000 by a general court-martial of seven colonels and a brigadier general.

Col. Gerald V. Kehrli was acquitted on one count, that he asked a sergeant to obtain marijuana for him last Sept. 15. He was convicted of asking the same sergeant and other enlisted men in his squadron to procure marijuana for him on other dates, of smoking and possessing marijuana and of giving it to men in his unit.

By not dismissing him from the Air Force, the court left Kehrli eligible for pension upon retirement. His length of service makes him eligible to retire now.

The verdict and sentence are subject to automatic review by Gen. Lucius D. Clay Jr., commander of the 7th Air Force, and the Court of Military Review in Washington. Clay ordered the court-martial, and Kehrli's lawyer indicated he would ask the general to delay imprisonment while the review is pending.

The highest-ranking officer court-martialed in Vietnam, Kehrli, 46, was commander of the squadron at the time of the offenses. He could have received 35 years in prison and been dismissed from the service with loss of pay and allowances.

Kehrli showed no emotion as the verdict and later the sentence was read to him in the trial room at Tan Son Nhut air base.

Although he did not testify during the trial, Kehrli took the stand after the verdict was read and asked the board to consider his record in setting his penalty.

Reading calmly and steadily from notes, Kehrli reviewed his school life in Portland, Ore., and his military career.

His family now lives at Willmar, Minn.

During the five-day trial, five sergeants and an airman who served under Kehrli testified that they had smoked marijuana with him in his quarters or in a staff car en route to a Saigon restaurant.

COL. GERALD KEHRLI

An Army intelligence officer, 1st Lt. Peter C. Jackson, 27, of Chicago, told the court that Kehrli once told him he thought marijuana was a "good thing" because it helped him close the generation gap with his men. "Smoking grass won't hurt you, but cigarettes will," Jackson said the heavy-set colonel told him.

The defense presented four colonels and two other Air Force officers as character witnesses. Said one of them: "We had the most go-go squadron in the Air Force, and it was guys like Col. Kehrli that gave you that go-go spirit."

Powell Warns Race Problem Will Grow

LONDON (AP) — Enoch Powell, right-wing member of Parliament, demanded Monday night a program to keep Britain white, using the strongest language he has employed on the race question since his "rivers of blood speech" nearly three years ago.

"The explosive which will blow us asunder is there and the fuse is burning, but the fuse is shorter than had been supposed," Powell warned in a speech prepared for a young Conservative meeting in Carshalton, a suburb southeast of London.

Powell charged that Britain's nonwhite population has grown far faster than official figures show. By the middle of the next decade, he predicted, the population of London and Britain's other great cities will be up to 40 per cent nonwhite and national life will be disrupted by racial tensions, unless action is taken now.

The 1970 census showed four U.S. central cities have more than 50 per cent black population: Washington, D.C., Atlanta, Ga., Newark, N.J. and Gary, Ind.

"There is a nightmarish quality about our predicament which numbs the mind," Powell declared. "In all our history our nation has never known greater danger."

Powell demanded that nonwhite immigration from the Commonwealth cease immediately and that those immigrants already here should be offered free passage home to Africa, Asia, the Caribbean or whatever country of origin.

Otherwise, he warned, during the life of the rising generation "the harvest will be reaped from the dragon's teeth that have been sown and are being sown still."

Powell often has urged an end to Commonwealth immigration, coupled with a repatriation program for nonwhite immigrants already here. But he has studiously avoided such language since his first and most famous speech on the subject in April 1968.

"As I look ahead," he said then, "I am filled with foreboding. Like the Roman, I seem to see the River Tiber foaming with much blood."

Before becoming prime minister, Edward Heath fired Powell from the Conservative party leadership because of that speech. But Powell's outspoken remarks on the race question made him popular among white voters in areas with large immigrant populations.

Noted Oriental Rug Authority To Speak

The world's foremost authority of Turkoman rugs and collector and student of Oriental rugs for 47 years, H. McCoy Jones of Washington, D.C., will be a featured participant in the third Tryon Palace Symposium on the 18th Century Decorative Arts.

The Symposium will be held in New Bern March 7-9.

H. McCOY JONES

Sponsored by the Division of Continuing Education of East Carolina University in cooperation with the Tryon Palace Restoration and the N.C. Department of Archives and History, the Symposium is designed to increase knowledge and understanding of life in 18th century North Carolina through a study of the decorative arts of the period.

Jones will discuss "Oriental Rugs and Carpets" on Monday, March 8, and will conduct an oriental rug workshop on Tuesday, March 9. Tryon Palace contains many examples of oriental rugs.

Jones began collecting Oriental rugs in Constantinople, Turkey, in 1922 and has continued to add to his collection ever since. He spent many years studying them and is considered to be one of the most knowledgable people in the world on Turkoman rugs.

Enrollment in the symposium will be limited. For advance registration and further information, contact the Division of Continuing Education, East Carolina University, P. O. Box 2727, Greenville, N.C. 27834.
