

North Viets Attack Outpost Near Khe Sanh; Still Holding

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops attacked an American position in rocky hills northeast of Khe Sanh and rain and low clouds today prevented U.S. helicopters from flying in reinforcements.

At last report at dusk, the American troops were still holding out after calling in artillery close to their own positions to keep back a North Vietnamese force of 200 or more surrounding the U.S. position.

There was no indication whether the main North Vietnamese force was still surrounding the position or whether it had faded in the face of artillery and air strikes into rocky hillsides and thick jungle undergrowth in terrain broken by many ravines, streams and rapids.

An Army spokesman at Quang Tri said contact had broken off at midnight, but Air Force spokesmen said sporadic contact continued after that. The Air Force spokesmen said bombing missions were flown throughout the day in support of the position.

First reports said more than a half dozen U.S. troops had been wounded.

The position under attack is located near the Rockpile, half a mile southeast of an artillery base named Scotch and 10 miles northeast of the Khe Sanh combat base. The American troops are part of 9,000 U.S. force acting as a blocking force for the South Vietnamese operation in neighboring Laos.

Two earlier attacks on U.S. positions around Scotch killed six Americans and wounded seven.

An Army UH1 helicopter on a supply mission a mile southwest of the Rockpile was shot down and crash-landed, but the crew escaped.

Military sources said the United States has stepped up reconnaissance flights over North Vietnam slightly but no significant enemy supply movement southward has been detected.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Command announced attacks on anti-aircraft missile-SAM-sites inside North Vietnam for the third successive day with unknown results.

Two U.S. Navy fighter-bombers fired four Shrike missiles Tuesday at two North Vietnamese positions 119 miles north of the demilitarized zone after they threatened an unarmed reconnaissance plane, the command said.

Other sources said one additional reconnaissance flight per day is being flown over North Vietnam. While this is a small number, it was pointed out that reconnaissance jets can cover huge areas on one photo-taking run.

The sources said U.S. reconnaissance planes have been flying 25 to 40 missions per day over South and North Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos. But they would not say how many are flying over the north daily.

The additional flight over North Vietnam was added about the time U.S. and South Vietnamese troops started massing in the northwest corner of South Vietnam for the South Vietnamese push into Laos on Feb. 8.

"We just wanted to take a good hard look and see if there was any increase in their logistics effort or whether they were moving any MIGs southward," said one source. "We wanted to make sure our information was more up to date all the time. We wanted to reduce the time between the flights."

"On their logistics, we don't see any big significant change. They haven't moved any MIGs southward. They're still in the Hanoi and Haiphong areas."

The attack on the SAM site near the coastal city of Vinh was the 14th so-called protective reaction strike this year on North Vietnamese missile sites, but only the second occasioned by a threat to a reconnaissance plane. The other 12 have been against sites on the other side of North Vietnam, along the Laotian border, and those sites were attacked to protect B52s bombing the Ho Chi Minh trail.

Ten-Month Employment For Teachers Listed As 'Number One' Need

RALEIGH (AP) — Extending the term of employment of teachers to 10 months was listed today as the number one need of the North Carolina School system.

"This is the most important thing that could happen," Dr. Craig Phillips, state superintendent of public instruction, told the House Education Committee.

"For the first time it would give us additional man-hours to work on the needs of children," Phillips added. He said the change would cost about $61 million during the coming biennium.

Phillips said the increased term of employment plus pay boosts recommended by Gov. Bob Scott and the Advisory Budget Commission would increase teacher pay by 13 per cent the first and 18 per cent the second year of the biennium.

After extension of the term of teacher employment, Phillips listed expansion of the school kindergarten program to cover one-fourth of the state's five-year-olds as the greatest school need.

"This is the number one program priority at this time," Phillips said. He said the program would cost an extra $21 million for the biennium. The budget commission recommended $3.3 million for an expansion of the present experimental kindergarten program in the schools.

Phillips listed expansion of the vocational education program in the schools as the next priority and said another 221 million was needed for this. He said the money is needed to enable the schools to begin the task of giving vocational training to the 80 per cent of children who don't go to college.

Congress Back To Filibuster After Holidays

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress returned to work today after a five-day recess, short on business and long on talk.

For the Senate, the agenda read filibuster, as it has since the 92nd Congress convened.

Neither Senate nor House has any significant legislation ready for action. The House Ways and Means Committee scheduled a hearing today on increasing the national debt ceiling from $395 billion to $435 billion. That may be the first major measure to reach the floor.

The Senate remains snarled in the dispute over efforts to make ending filibusters easier.

Foes of the rules change used the filibuster itself to block a change endorsed by a Senate majority, and as a result there has been marathon talk for nearly three weeks.

The first test of voting strength in the rules battle comes Thursday, with a roll call on a petition to cut off the filibuster led by Southern conservatives.

Nobody, including the 38 sponsors of that petition, expects it to succeed. But Sen. Mike Mansfield, the majority leader and a proponent of the rules change, said there will be continued attempts to limit the debate, and one of them may gain the two-thirds vote necessary to stop the talk.

At issue is a rules change sponsored by 51 senators, under which a three-fifths vote would be sufficient to limit debate.

Sens. James B. Pearson, R-Kan., and Frank Church, D-Idaho, are the chief sponsors of the rules proposal, which got a boost Friday when the White House issued a cautious endorsement of their campaign.

Late session filibusters last year blocked action on Nixon's Social Security, trade and welfare reform proposals in the 91st Congress.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler noted the President has said "it was unfortunate that procedural delays stalled the important legislation before the Congress."

How long the current stall will last is, at the moment, an open question, and one that won't really make much difference until legislation begins to flow from committees onto the Senate floor.

Spirit Of Mardi Gras Growing

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — The festive spirit of Mardi Gras is sweeping this Gulf Port City.

Tuesday night, colorful sea monsters rode through the streets as the Maids of Mirth put on their "Fishy Tales" presentation in the second Mardi Gras parade of the season.

The street marchers take a breather today, then resume Thursday night with the Mystic Strippers parade. From then on parades will snake through the streets daily, culminating in four parades Mardi Gras day.

Pilot Project Approved By Hospital Board

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
The Pitt Memorial Hospital Trustees unanimously approved last night a pilot project of having a physician from outside the medical staff cover the emergency room on weekends.

Hospital Board chairman explained that the physician would serve in place of staff physicians who now provide the service on a rotating basis. He would be responsible for handling routine cases and for calling doctors of the required specialty when needed. Doctors in each specialty, such as pediatrics, ob-gyn, medicine, etc. rotate their nights or call among themselves now and would continue to do so. Fees incurred by the emergency room attending physician would be paid to the hospital, which would pay him a salary. Hospital administrator C. D. Ward said he hopes the program may be put into operation by summer, thus serving the community better.

The North Carolina Medical Care Commission is scheduled to visit here this week to look over the tentative sites chosen for the hospital. It will offer its opinion as to the best site of the four now being considered, Wooten said. A letter of appreciation will be written to Roy Beck of the Pitt County Soil Conservation Service for service rendered in the selection of the four tentative sites. Beck gave his time to offer preliminary soil testing and suggestions concerning the tentative sites.

The Board resolved to have its attorney draft a resolution of respect for Dr. Charles Adams, a former Pitt Memorial chief of staff, who died Sunday.

Approved for minor medical staff privileges was Dr. Howard Satterfield, Jr., who has recently begun a practice in obstetrics and gynecology here. Promoted from minor to major privilege status were Dr. Ira Hardy, in neurosurgery; Dr. William Monroe, in ophthalmology; Dr. Alfred Ferguson, in internal medicine; and Dr. Cecil Rand in internal medicine.

Ward reported that the plan to have a Clinton prison unit do the hospital's laundry is still pending, but should become reality within the next few months. Such a change will take the hospital business away from a local firm, but will save the county thousands of dollars, he said. Most hospitals in this area now have laundry done by prison labor, he noted.

Word has been received that the sale of the hospital bonds has been approved, Wooten said.

The Board members' attention was called to the first copy of "The Torch," an intra-hospital publication published for the first time January 30. The staff includes an editor and associate editor and reporters from every hospital department.

The new hospital project director, Jack Richardson, reported that he and some other hospital employees have visited two hospitals in Ohio recently to study their exceptionally efficient utilization of personnel. He and Dr. Lee West of the pathology department of the hospital plan to visit the Roanoke, Va. hospital soon to view their fine automated lab, Richardson said.

Industry Controls Said 'Bluff'

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — One of 17 AFL-CIO construction union presidents said today he considers President Nixon's hint of wage-price controls for the industry a political bluff—and "we're calling his hole card."

S. Frank Raftery, president of the Painters' Union, said he was speaking his own views, but that he believed most other building trades chiefs shared his opinion.

The President doesn't want to impose wage-price controls, he wants us to do it voluntarily and that just isn't going to happen," Raftery said in an interview.

Nixon called the union leaders into the White House Jan. 18 and gave them 30 days to come up with a voluntary plan to curb rising construction industry costs, hinting at stronger action if they didn't.

Raftery said a Nixon emissary, Prof. John T. Dunlop, had warned the construction union leaders the President could order a wage-price freeze and that this was one of a number of alternatives being considered.

"Let Nixon impose controls if he wants to suffer the political consequences," said Raftery.

Secretary of Labor J. D. Hodgson, due here to visit the labor leaders Friday, was expected to bring further word of White House plans to ease construction industry costs.

"At this point a freeze is not imminent," said AFL-CIO President George Meany, but "in a couple of days or more it could change."

Nixon has broad authority from Congress to impose wage-price controls under a bill Congress enacted last year, but a spokesman for Hodgson has said the government wouldn't use it just on construction.

A plan to ask Congress to enact something specific applying to construction was being considered, the government spokesman said.

Nixon presumably could also impose certain controls by executive order on federal construction projects.

Zoo Authority Says Financial Aid Proffered

RALEIGH (AP) — Pledges totaling $1.5 million have been promised the North Carolina Zoological Authority without the aid of a formal fund-raising drive and even though a site has not been announced for the proposed state zoo.

N. W. Pope, in presenting the authority's request for a $2 million state appropriation, told legislators Tuesday the pledges from private sources were made to cover development costs for the zoo.

Pope told the House-Senate Joint Appropriations Committee state money would be needed to improve the zoo site — grading, paving, utilities. "You can't interest a business man in putting his name on a bronze plaque on a sewer," he said.

The state's spending would be reduced when the authority deeds over 1,000 acres of land to be donated to its as a prerequisite for the site. The land would have a value of at least $1 million, Pope said.

"In essence, we're going to give you $5 million back for the $2 million you put in," Pope told the legislators.

He also predicted the zoo would provide new tax revenue exceeding $500,000 annually in the initial years, plus additional revenue through boosts to the retail business community. The zoo's work force will require 100 fulltime employees and about 120 summer workers, he said, with an annual payroll of about $750,000.

A site selection committee is to announce its choice Saturday. Pope said four areas still were in the running for the zoo — Butler, in Granville County; an area six miles from Pittsboro, in Chatham County; the Concord area of Cabarrus County; and Purgatory Mountain near Asheboro.

Ask Verification

East Carolina University is asking verification that a missing page in the Liaison Committee on Medical Education report on ECU's Medical School development was removed by the committee.

Dr. Wallace R. Woole, dean of the ECU Medical School, has written a letter asking for the verification.

In the letter to Dr. Marjorie Wilson of the Association of American Medical Colleges, Dr. Woole said the missing page had been a "serious problem to us."

"We have answered all queries in this matter by stating the page was removed by the Liaison Committee and it is just a mistake in pagination. I know you have done the same. However, we continue to receive requests from many people about the missing page who are interested in the development of the School of Medicine but who have obviously not seen nor read the news stories concerning this point."

Dr. Woole asked for a letter verifying that the page was removed by the committee and thus was only an error in page numbering. The committee's report jumped from page 17 to page 19 and questions have been raised about the missing page. ECU officials have said the report was released just as they received it.

Sale Of State License Plates Are Up In County

State license sales are up over last year's at the license bureaus in Greenville and Farmville, agents said.

Mrs. Darius White, state license plate agent in Farmville, reported the number of each classification sold this year and last year: 6,800 plates for autos this year, 6,390 last year; 49 motorcycles this year, 22 last year; 1,290 private trucks this year, 1,090 last year; 1,130 farm trucks this year, 970 last year; 980 trailers this year, 804 last year; 148 transfers this year, 82 last year; and 99 plates returned this year, 80 returned last year.

"There was a huge rush Saturday," she said. "Yesterday was busy, too, but not like Saturday."

The Greenville sales as of Monday were running only a little over last year's. This year's and last year's according to each classification were as follows: cars — 17,991 this year, 17,386 last year; motorcycles — 160 this year, 135 last year; private trucks — 2,726 this year, 2727 last year; farm trucks — 1,066 this year, 1,066 last year; trailers — 1,935 this year, 1,724 last year; taxis — 24 this year, 22 last year; transfers — 318 this year, 310 last year; and plates returned — 282 this year, 306 last year.

City tags sold in each Pitt County town are as follows: Greenville — 10,172; Ayden — 1,020; Bethel — 401; Farmville — 1,580; Fountain — 147; Grifton — 525; Grimesland — 153; and Winterville — 418. Falkland reported that their town tags have been ordered and the order confirmed, but the tags have not arrived yet.

Professor Says Couples Should Concentrate On 'Friendship'

By BERNIE MOSS
Salt Lake Tribune Writer
SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Marriage is not the answer—it's the question, the beginning of being together.

And how that question is answered after 15 or 20 years depends on how the couple has formed their relationship, how well their roles have been performed.

If they have worked only on the roles of husband and wife instead of also developing a friendship, there probably isn't anything holding them together after the children are gone, according to Dr. Alan Haynes, assistant professor of sociology at the University of Utah.

"Their reason for being married is gone with the children and the marriage is likely to dissolve in a divorce court. Or, if not with an official separation, at least a physical one indicated by emotions and action," Haynes said.

"As children come along in a marriage the wife becomes more involved with them and the husband becomes more dedicated to his work. Since we're such a youth-oriented society our concentration is centered on the problems of raising children. So much so that the problems of marriage and creating a friendship with the marriage partner often are neglected."

Noting that for a woman, the first major crisis after 15 or 20 years of marriage could be to lose the reason for her role—that of motherhood, Haynes said, "It doesn't bother her husband so much where his interest has been directed toward his career. That crisis occurs for him when he retires. And very seldom do the two crises occur at the same time."

"He usually doesn't appreciate her trying to adjust to a new role and really isn't interested in her problem. Her crisis is on her shoulders entirely."

"One thing becomes apparent to her at this time. That is how much he really doesn't need her as a person because his life is so centered on that career."

"So she goes out looking for fulfillment, something to give her life meaning. There are several ways she can do this. She can hang around her own kids until she drives them crazy, she can become involved in social or charity work, or she can find herself a lover.

"Since we're in a youth-oriented age, women are more and more in competition with kids—notably younger women."

"I personally think this youth-oriented culture is absurd. There is a beauty in growing older. But if you're going to play the game, you have to go by the rules."

"How well a woman can adjust to a new role probably depends on what she is willing to give up—and if nothing is holding that marriage together with the children gone then it just might be him that she gives up."

Dr. Haynes who also is teaching a class in sociology of marriage and the family at Weber State College explained that how competently a woman handles this crisis when it arrives depends on how she has diversified her interests prior to the children's leaving. If she has been able to prepare herself, she is not quite as lost when her role has to change. The same, of

Wants To Help Dad's Problem

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: What does a teen-aged son do when he knows his father is having a back-street affair with his secretary?

I've planned to say so many things, but always end up in a cold sweat and say nothing.

My mom is a fine looking woman. She is pretty, dresses well and can hold her own on any subject, so why did dad turn to a cheap nobody? He sneaks around like a common thief to meet this woman at a motel on Wednesday afternoons [his day off].

Dad used to be such a great guy. Now I can hardly look at him without feeling sick to my stomach. I just have to do something, Abby, but it scares me. I can't go to our rabbi with this rotten mess because he is a friend of the family. My father is a professional man and everybody in town thinks well of him. Please help me. I don't want mom hurt.

BROKEN-HEARTED SON

DEAR SON: Tell your father what you suspect, but don't be surprised if he denies it. And don't be disenchanted either. He may have "problems" you know nothing about. Be patient. At least your father will be alerted to the hazards in his conduct—for your mom's sake if not his.

DEAR ABBY: My inlaws are the world's greatest. Often they take a widow friend along when they go out to dine. This little lady is on a rather tight budget, and after eating, she unobtrusively slips the remainder of her meat into a little plastic bag which she carries in her purse for that purpose.

I can tell this embarrasses my inlaws, altho they have never said anything about it.

With the price of meat nowadays, it's a shame to waste it, but don't you think someone should tell the little lady to ask the waiter for a doggie bag? DAUGHTER IN LAW

DEAR DAUGHTER: You're doggone right. Somebody should ask the waiter for a doggie bag, and it doesn't matter who asks. Most fine restaurants not only provide them, they offer them.

DEAR ABBY: Let me tell you about the divorce in our family. When our son divorced his wife, we continued to love our daughter in law and their four children as we always had.

Our former daughter in law maintains close and loving relations with us because she loves us, too. How can love suddenly stop because there is a divorce?

Now she is remarried and so is our son, and we love the "new" spouses, and they love us.

It takes a lot of patience and understanding when divorce comes, but love remains for those concerned, if there was love there to begin with. Why can't others see it this way?

THE THOMASES

DEAR THOMASES: Because when divorce comes, there is usually a lot of ugly talk on both sides.

DEAR ABBY: Contrary to what others may feel, I, for one, am not outraged when I see a young mother give her child a good sound whack if he misbehaves in the supermarket or anywhere else in public. If the child sets up a bloodcurdling howl, I don't even mind the noise. I secretly applaud that mother. Children who are not disciplined when young grow up to be tomorrow's criminals. OLD TIMER

Observing that marriage is the only significant thing many people get into during their lives, he said most of us won't be remembered very long after we die except in terms of the family we raise and our marriage. "And it's amazing how many of us blow it."

"I don't see how a person can live with anyone until he learns how to live with himself. And the beautiful thing to see is the person who can live with what he is and who he is and thoroughly enjoy it."

Gourmet Corner: An Ancient Recipe For Cooking Pheasant

By TOM HOGE

Associated Press Writer

One of the tastiest game treats I know is the pheasant, that plump, succulent bird that abounds in the fields of North America and has a far more delicate flavor than most of its wild brethren.

As one who grew up in pheasant country I well remember being invited to holiday season dinners with a nimrod neighbor. The meal invariably featured roast pheasant which had been brought down by our host and carefully marinated in advance.

Two of the best-known birds are the English pheasant and the Chinese ring-neck. The English cousin first came from Asia Minor and the ring-neck, of course, from China.

Introduced in North America in the 1880s, the birds have been inter-bred over the years. They have turned the Dakotas into a hunter's paradise and are found in profusion in many other American states.

One of the great recipes for pheasant, however, comes not from England or America, but from Spain of the 16th century. That was known as the golden age of Spanish cookery, and rivalled the best days of France.

This ancient formula, known as Pheasant Flambe, was the centerpiece at a recent banquet of The Moveable Feast, an imaginative new food and wine society that gives 12 dinners and 12 wine tastings a year in both New York and Washington.

Four centuries ago, the Benedictine monks of the Alcantara monastery conceived a method of roasting garnishing and flaming the Spanish pheasant that has lived in the annals of fine cooking. The fire burns into the flesh of the bird and balancing flavors of foie gras, chopped pheasant livers and truffles.

Alice Longworth At 87 Is Still As Unpredictable As A Kitten

By DOROTHY MARKS
WASHINGTON (WNS) — Alice Roosevelt Longworth, who has been a headline in the social pages here through the terms of 13 U. S. Presidents, 87 years old on Feb. 12, a birthday she shares with Abraham Lincoln.

Despite serious surgery which slowed her down for a few months last summer the durable daughter of President Theodore Roosevelt seems at 87 more active than ever.

A look at her social calendar one recent week is a case in point. The week started with the erect and elegant Princess Alice serving as honorary chairman of a charity ball saluting Washington's "Age of Innocence, 1900-1910" and gamely responded when the monkey grinder who was part of the entertainment tried to drape his long-tailed monkey around her neck.

Two nights later the capital's No. 1 "grande dame" appeared at the Press Club's dinner for the new Congress. She went on to the Spanish Embassy Ball for visiting Prince Juan Carlos and Princess Sophia of Spain. Two nights later she joined in the singing to help Soviet Ambassador Dobrynin and his wife harmonize "Que Sera, Sera" at a private dinner party uptown. She confided that there was another dinner she would have liked to attend that week but she had had a slight migraine.

STILL A REBEL
While most people her age tend to dwell in the past, Mrs. Longworth keeps up to date by voluminous reading late into the night, doing a lot of it seated with both legs tucked under her, Buddhist style. She makes a point of talking to the hippies she meets in the Georgetown section of Washington, likes rock 'n roll music, went to see "I Am Curious—Yellow," and for a time had a Che Guevara poster in her sitting room. Also a pillow with the inscription: "If you can't say something good about someone, sit right here by me."

Her three-story Massachusetts Avenue townhouse is next door to the new Embassy Row Hotel which, while under construction, blasted a hole in the wall of her drawing room. The hotel owners made such handsome restitution she agreed to cut the ribbon for the opening. She calls her house "the slum," threatened to leave the hole because it added to the general air of "genteel shabbiness."

A WHITE HOUSE REGULAR
Except for the Franklin Roosevelt years, she has been a much sought after White House guest. The feud between the Roosevelt cousins was bitter with FDR referring to her as "that woman!" and she regaling her friends with imitations of cousin Eleanor's high-pitched voice.

In February 1969, President and Mrs. Nixon went to her home to toast her on her 85th birthday and Julie and Tricia have had tea with her to soak up White House lore. President Lyndon Johnson used to introduce her as "the closest thing we have to royalty in this country."

She was especially close to President John F. Kennedy and the Robert Kennedys. As a girl on a trip to the Orient with her father she jumped into the ship's pool fully clothed—long before Ethel Kennedy was born.

She has been shocking people ever since she refused to go to school, except for a couple of months of private tutoring. She smoked her first cigarette in the White House at a time when ladies didn't smoke period, and certainly not in the White House. As the wife of the Speaker of the House she used to jump over the gate to the family gallery and often refused to see the wives of new Congressmen who came to pay calls on her "because it was a bore."

LIKES HER POKER
She has long since given up smoking and doing Yoga headstands. She still takes brisk walks and likes to entertain by having friends in for high tea, serving a strong brew in glasses and rich chocolate cake. She enjoys an occasional prize fight and relishes the regular poker games she plays with Larry Spivaks, Director of the Mint Mary Brooks, Senator Robert Packwood of Oregon and the Garvin Tankersleys who own the Arabian stud farm where her granddaughter Joanna rides horseback. "She plays a very good game. After all, she used to play with Warren G. Harding," says Mrs. Brooks.

When the press reported her among those flying to New York to attend the Black and White Ball Truman Capote threw a few years back, burglars looted her house. Among pieces taken were jewels she had gotten from heads of State at her White House wedding in 1906, a wedding which by head count is the largest ever held there.

She is supposed to have said, "Cal Coolidge looked as if he were weaned on a pickle," and described the GOP's 1948 Presidential candidate Thomas Dewey as "that little man on the wedding cake." She used to refer to herself as a "withered Twiggy" and talked of the "old crone syndrome." Once or twice a month she turns down offers from would-be biographers. She insists she herself has not updated the memoir "Crowded Hours" she wrote in 1933 after the death of her husband "when I really believed the active years of my life were coming to an end."

Prepare Versatile Slaw With Cooked Dressing

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
So many reasons for serving slaw.

The raw green leaves of cabbage are an excellent source of vitamin C.

Cabbage is ever available and inexpensive.

Slaw is a fine accompaniment to main dishes—meat, poultry, fish and cheese.

And there are so many varieties of slaw that you can serve it week after week and yet have it interesting.

There's the basic cabbage salad made with French dressing. The dressing may be your own refrigerated variety. Or you can make it on the spot by mixing the shredded cabbage with oil, vinegar, salt, pepper, dry mustard and—if you like—a suspicion of sugar.

Then there's the relish type of slaw. For this shredded cabbage is mixed with grated carrot, slivered green pepper and chopped sweet onion or scallion (green onion). The dressing is made with equal parts of vinegar and sugar plus salt; celery seed or mustard seed (or both) may be added.

The mayonnaise type of slaw is popular. Mayonnaise, as is, or doctored with sour cream or sugar and vinegar is used with the shredded cabbage.

Fruit slaw is usually applauded. For this French dressing or a mayonnaise-type dressing is used and pineapple tidbits, seedless grapes, diced red apple or plumped golden raisins are added to the shredded green cabbage.

A fifth variety is an old-time favorite, shredded green cabbage sauced with a savory cooked dressing. And here's one of our favorite recipes for this extra-delicious combination:

CABBAGE SLAW WITH COOKED DRESSING
3 egg yolks
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons sugar

Children Entertained

The Greenville Junior Woman's Club entertained approximately 48 children from the Division of Exceptional Children at Elmhurst School with a Valentine Party Friday afternoon.

Hostesses for the party were Mrs. Douglas Caldwell, Mrs. Gerald Rudolph, Mrs. Brazel Moore, Mrs. Frank Frueler, Mrs. Joe DeLoach and Mrs. Bobby Swinson.

The tables were decorated with the Valentine motif and each child was presented a favor and Valentine.

On Thursday, the club presented a Valentine party at Caswell Center, Kinston.

Mrs. Samuel Cox and Mrs. Frank Frueler served assorted Valentine cupcakes and other refreshments to 65 girls in Austin A Dormitory. Each girl received a Valentine.

A Valentine centerpiece and Valentine napkins were used in decorating.

OLD-FASHIONED SALAD — Green cabbage, finely shredded, is mixed with a cooked dressing and given a garnish of scarlet pimiento.

1½ teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 cup milk
6 cups (or more) finely shredded green cabbage, not packed down
¼ cup distilled white vinegar
Drained canned pimiento for garnish, if desired

In a medium mixing bowl whisk egg yolks enough to break up well; set aside.

In a 1½-quart heavy saucepan over low heat, melt the butter. Stir in the flour; remove from heat. Add the sugar, salt and mustard; slowly stir in the milk, keeping smooth.

Over moderately low heat, stirring constantly, cook until thickened and bubbly.

Remove from heat and, spoon by spoon, whisk about ½ cup of the hot mixture into the egg yolks; return yolk mixture to saucepan, whisking constantly as you do so.

Cook, stirring constantly, without boiling, for a minute or two to cook yolks. Remove from heat; slowly stir in vinegar.

Cover and chill. Add dressing to cabbage and mix well. Add extra salt, if desired, to taste. Serve at once or cover and refrigerate for several hours or overnight.

If used, garnish with pimiento strips before serving.

Makes about 8 servings.

NOTE:

For this slaw, knife-shred only the green part of the cabbage; do not shred any of the heavy-ribbed white portion next to the core.

The heavy-ribbed portion may be used for another meal by shredding it coarsely, discarding the core, and pan-cooking it in a large covered skillet with a few tablespoons each of water and butter just until tender-crisp.

Flaws In Underspensing Bonus

When it comes to legislative matters which need more than a second glance, should be included the proposed measure which would provide handsome bonuses for department heads who underspend their budgets by as much as 10 per cent.

Reasoning (if it can be called that) behind the measure rumored to be in the making, is that great waste in state government could be eliminated by offering this incentive to those who head various departments and agencies.

But if such a law were enacted, which department head would come up with the required 10 per cent savings next year in order to qualify for the bonus?

Those who did would immediately be accused of having squandered the state's funds in previous years, and probably would be looking for a new job before the bonus check could be written.

Those who really are wasteful with state funds and spent the full amount of their budgets would be provided new grounds for boasting that they put the state's interests ahead of their personal interests, and thus may perpetuate themselves in positions to continue wasting state funds.

While the proposal may sound good at first glance, there is no way the people of the state could win.

A far better approach for those who are genuinely interested in more efficient state government is the implementation of sweeping reorganization legislation that Gov. Scott will soon propose to the legislature. It is sound, meaningful, offers real opportunities for streamlining state operations, stretching tax dollars and eliminating waste.

J.C. Penney Didn't Believe In 'Luck'

One of the nation's great merchants has been lost in the death of James Cash Penney, founder of J. C. Penney stores.

Penney died last week at the age of 95. He left behind an empire of retail merchandising, which was founded with the opening of a tiny dry goods store in Kemmerer, Wyo. on April 4, 1904. The store was called the Golden Rule and that seemed to be Penney's philosophy as he built his business interests over the years.

Penney used to tell that his father's favorite saying was, "No man can make a million dollars and stay honest."

"I wish he had lived to see me acquire my first million," Penney said later in life.

"I don't believe in luck," Penney said last year. "But if you put a 'P' in front of it, that's different."

Pluck was a Penney trait.

Spiro Stays In Steady Esteem

By ROWLAND EVENS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Although Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's stock has been slipping badly within upper reaches of the Nixon administration, private soundings by pollster Oliver Quayle show him maintaining a remarkably steady—but low—level of public esteem in sharp contrast to President Nixon's decline.

Indeed, previously unpublished Quayle surveys for statewide candidates across the country reveal a public attitude toward Agnew that greatly differs from assumptions of the President's closest political advisers. It shows, first, that Agnew has never been as popular as they thought; and second, that he therefore hasn't fallen back as much as they feared.

Extremely important these days is the fishy eye now being cast in his direction by politicians close to M. Nixon. Whereas a few months ago they viewed Agnew as an unquestioned asset certain to be on the 1972 ticket, some Presidential intimates are now having second thoughts and regard him as only a 50-50 shot for the ticket. The Quayle findings put the question in new perspective.

A compilation of his interviews with 10,425 people in 23 states for the year ending Feb. 1, 1971, shows that only 51 percent approve Agnew's performance as Vice President—dangerously low for an incumbent. But Agnew's rating was identical 51 percent in Quayle's polling for the 12-month period ending March 1, 1970. In short, despite all the public controversy about him, Agnew has remained at precisely that level.

In contrast, Quayle's year-long averages show Mr. Nixon's impressive 58 percent rating on March 1, 1970, slipping to 57 percent on Aug. 1 and falling to 53 percent for the year ending Nov. 1. Since then, the President has levelled off at 53 percent.

Beneath the surface impression of steadiness for the Vice President, however, Quayle's data reveals one Agnew decline. The percentage of voters who consider his job performance "poor" has increased from 18 in the year ending March 1, 1970, to 23 in the year ending Feb. 1, 1971. That nearly one-in-four "poor" rating is unusually high for an official with an overall favorable rating of 51 percent.

By comparison, President Nixon gets a "poor" grade from only 15 percent. On the other hand, the Vice President is rated "excellent" by 17 percent compared with only 12 percent for the President.

That tends to confirm the view of many Nixon strategists that voters polarize around Agnew, either very plus or very minus. Therein lies the White House problem concerning Agnew and 1972.

JUSTIFIABLE PRIDE
WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA is one of the most interesting books one ever encounters. It contains the names of the allegedly distinguished people in the United States, with a few world characters thrown in for good measure.

But there's another book that many people know nothing about. It is entitled WHO WAS WHO IN AMERICA. It is even more interesting to read WHO WAS than WHO IS. If you are already listed in WHO'S WHO you may look upon yourself and your career with justifiable pride. If after you pass away you are listed in WHO WAS WHO, that may be even a greater honor. Your descendants will have something to be proud of and to point out to their friends with real satisfaction.

But you won't make either WHO'S WHO or WHO WAS WHO by seeking after the honor. If you merit a listing you will be tapped on the shoulder and asked for biographical details. One man column. Presidents are usually modest in the listing of their achievements. But if you are a who's who, rejoice, and if perchance you might make WHO WAS WHO your descendants will point to your write-up with pride.

There is nothing wrong about pride if you have had a career worthy of pride. If you can go still further and be remembered by future generations, that's better still.

Get-Acquainted Time

WASHINGTON — A week ago Sunday New York City had a blackout which caused all nine television stations in the area to go out for several hours. This created tremendous crises in families all over the New York area and proved that TV plays a much greater role in people's lives than anyone can imagine.

For example, when the TV went off in the Bufkins' house in Forest Hills, Long Island, panic set in. First Bufkins thought it was his set in the living room, so he rushed into his bedroom and turned on that set. Nothing.

Other Editors Say Manipulating?

(Kinston Free Press)

Recent information that certain cases in district court are moved up to assure a hearing before a particular judge, as well as "prayers for judgment" that tend to reduce the possible penalties that should come to traffic violators if the courts followed the strict letter of the law, especially for repeat offenders, is most disturbing to all who value the right to equal justice before the law for all defendants.

Judge Lester Pate may not be the only jurist who has allegedly resorted to a practice that tends to favor certain defendants over others. Any who do this should be censured and reprimanded by the N. C. Courts System.

What is being overlooked is that justice that favors one person over another, or even tends to reduce the penalties assured by the law, is not justice at all. It is a mockery of the system of jurisprudence which has been a hallmark of American democracy for nearly 200 years.

This type of tampering with the justice the District Courts are created to provide further stresses the need for the reform now being sought in the General Assembly on the way jurists are named.

A bill that will assure election of able persons by a special committee which would screen the ablest prospects available for the posts is in the legislative hopper.

Appointments would be made by the Governor and each person then would run for additional four-year terms on the basis of his record on the bench.

This would eliminate the possibility that persons might be named who would be the least bit inclined to place favoritism or political considerations ahead of even-handed justice for all defendants.

It would assure that cases on docket would be called in order of their listings and not when certain judges happened to be sitting for hearings.

It would remind the rank and file of citizens they too have a responsibility for keeping tab on the service of their jurists and to act accordingly when they come District, and over the State for that matter, know it is wrong to call cases in which they may have a personal interest, or to arbitrarily reduce sentences through prayers for judgment to save driving permits and other courtesies extended to North Carolina motorists.

It is a practice that should be stopped and never allowed to rear its ugly head again in this or any district!

Tons Of Cheese In The World

By ELMER ROESSNER
The Western world is enjoying a cheese boom. World cheese production rose from 6,824 million pounds in 1960 to 16,144 million pounds in 1969, according to the Foreign Agriculture Service. The rise probably continued through 1970.

One of the reasons is the Common Market. Common market nations, in efforts to make more sales of dairy products among fellow members and to discourage other members from gaining their currency, subsidized dairy production. This resulted in huge surpluses of butter and milk.

But cheese is a concentrated and less perishable product, so both dairymen and cheese makers increased their production of cheese. Cheese-makers increased their promotions both at home and abroad, and the promotions were generally successful because cheese provides relatively cheap proteins plus some fat and considerable flavor. The phone rang and Mrs. Bufkins heard her sister in Manhattan tell her that there was a blackout.

She hung up and said to her husband, "It isn't your set. Something's happened to the top of the Empire State Building."

Bufkins stopped and said, "Who are you?"

"I'm your wife, Edith."

"Oh," Bufkins said. "Then I suppose those kids in there are mine."

"That's right," Mrs. Bufkins said. "If you ever got out of that armchair in front of the TV set, you'd know who we were."

"Boy, they've really grown," Bufkins said, looking at his son and daughter. "How old are they now?"

"Thirteen and 14," Mrs. Bufkins replied.

"I'll be darned. Hi kids."

"Who's he?" Bufkins' son Henry asked.

"It's your father," Mrs. Bufkins said.

"I'm pleased to meetcha," Bufkins' daughter Mary said shyly.

There was an embarrassed silence all around.

"Look," said Bufkins finally. "I know I haven't been much of a father, but now that the TV's out I'd like to make it up to you."

"How?" asked Henry.

"Well, let's just talk," Bufkins said. "That's the best way to get to know each other."

"What do you want to talk about?" Mary asked.

Fact Of Political Life Helps 'Folks Back Home'

EDITOR'S NOTE: Congressmen who head appropriations subcommittees are in a position to help the folks back home get a fatter share of federal funds. This study by a member of the AP Special Assignment Team illustrates how that fact of political life has aided one congressional district.

By KEN HARTNETT
Associated Press Writer
SMITHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Rep. Joe L. Evins, a country boy who grew up to control pursestrings holding more than $20 billion in federal funds, hasn't forgotten where he comes from. Neither has the U.S. government.

An Associated Press study shows federal dollars are flowing into Evins' middle Tennessee district at a rate that would nearly double the government's non-defense outlays if applied to the nation as a whole.

Evins' case illustrates an accepted fact of political life: Chairmen of appropriations subcommittees are in a better position than most congressmen to help the folks back home.

As a Democrat with 24 years seniority, Evins last year headed two appropriations subcommittees handling funds for 37 federal agencies and offices. And, records show, non-defense government outlays in his district in fiscal 1969 totaled $527 million. By comparison, average non-defense outlays per congressional district that year were $313 million.

"Joe really takes care of his district," said Cookeville, Tenn., City Atty. Wes Flatt Jr., who managed Evins' campaign last fall when he was re-elected with 83 per cent of the vote. "I don't know where we would be without him."

Of his constituents, Evins said: "They are a great people and they deserve all the help and assistance that's going to them."

Evins' hometown of Smithville, population 2,997, belongs with surrounding DeKalb County to the list of 150 locales in the country designated as Model Cities—an entire to special consideration when federal funds are being awarded.

Cookeville, 30 miles away and also in Evins' district, is another Model City. Its population is 14,270.

The Model City designations were made by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, one of the agencies whose appropriations are handled by an Evins' subcommittee. Another such agency, the Atomic Energy Commission, sends $300 million annually into Evins' district, which includes the AEC's massive Oak Ridge facilities.

"I've worked hard," said Evins in an interview, "and by time and effort I have come into a position where there's opportunity for service I haven't been provincial in my work. I'm not provincial. I've worked for programs for New York and the West and all over the nation."

Evins pointed out that in his tenure as HUD appropriations chairman "HUD has never been cut back in any of its major programs."

He cited his work in helping obtain congressional approval of President Johnson's rent-supplement program.

"He gives the impression of being just a little old country boy," said a former congressional liaison man. "But he's a bright guy and he's extremely interested in trying to fund things for a constituency a helluva lot different from Smithville, Tenn."

But Evins remains extremely interested as well in Smithville, Cookeville, Crossville, Jellico, Oneida, Tullahoma and the other cities sprinkled throughout his 21-county district.

Evins was in on the early discussions which led to formulation of the Model Cities program.

"Secretary (Robert) Weaver came by to see me and ... ask ... advice on a proposed demonstration cities program," Evins recalled.

"I told him, '... you wouldn't their wives chinchilla, let 'em wear squirrel."

"What took you so long, Joe? Did you have to stop off at the bank to make another deposit?"

"Why in the world do you have to call in another master plumber for consultation? My problem is just a broken pipe — not a ruptured appendix."

"You can forget about that flooded basement I phoned you about a week or so ago, Joe. I decided it would be cheaper in the long run just to turn it into an indoor swimming pool."

"I hear your daughter is getting married, Joe. Where are you having the reception — at the Waldorf, or aboard your yacht?"

"It seems to me that lately you've spent so much time with a putter in your hands that get far in Congress if you submitted a program for four or five cities."

"But if you broaden your base and include medium size, cities and small cities as well as the large ones, you would have a broad base of support in Congress."

"He took the suggestion and came back with a recommendation for 75 cities...."

The Model Cities program cleared Congress in 1966, and was one reason why, in fiscal 1969, $9,866,491 was pumped into DeKalb County—or more than $850 per man, woman and child.

Now bulldozers, fueled with federal dollars, are refashioning the face of Smithville and the county.

A new court house (they say in Smithville that Evins personally approved the federal-style you've forgotten how to use a wrench."

Just north of town, a new air strip awaits the passing of winter for the final blacktopping. Throughout the county, sewer and water lines are being planned and built. Curbs and gutters are adding an urban look to business districts.

An ambitious road building plan is on the drawing board. New schools, community centers, health centers, public housing units are under construction. There is new industry and new hope for a population where barely half the families earn more than $3,000 a year in cash income.

The region needs development, Evins said. It needs jobs to stem chronic out migration to the industrial centers of the North.

There is evidence that the federal dollars—may be having some effect.

In DeKalb County, for example, where population had fallen from 15,000 in 1940 to 10,774 in 1960, the tide is slowly turning the other way. The county is now growing by 1 per cent a year.

Larry J. Puckett, a young dentist who returned to Smithville with his skills after medical school, can vouch for other improvements.

"The people are beginning to progress real well. They never had anything and now they have a little But nothing happened until Joe got into position to do what the others would do if they could get into position."

"Oh, are you still working in a department store? If I had known that, I would have told you you could quit last year. You should have mentioned it," Bufkins said.

There was more dead silence.

Finally Henry said, "Hey, you want to hear me play the guitar?"

"I'll be darned. You know how to play the guitar? Say, didn't I have a daughter who played the guitar?"

"That was Susie," Mrs. Bufkins said.

"Where is she?"

"She got married a year ago, just about the time you were watching the World Series."

"How about that?" Bufkins said very pleased. "You know, I hope they don't fix the antenna for another couple hours. There's nothing like a blackout for a man to really get to know his family."

draft the reform, this paving the way for greater acceptability in Congress and the country.

President Nixon used just such an approach when he named a commission on governmental reorganization, headed by industrialist Roy Ash, to pave the way for his sweeping reorganization program.

For several weeks, Presidential aides have been dropping hints that Mr. Nixon's "new American revolution" will move on to tax reform next year. However, they fear that, if drafted in normal fashion at the Treasury, an election-year tax package would die in the House Ways and Means Committee.

But if an ash-type commission, working under Presidential guidelines, put its prestige behind the reform, it might stand a better chance. Even if it did not, its backing by a prestigious commission might enhance Mr. Nixon's chance of taking another reform issue to the country in his reelection campaign.

A footnote: Any tax reform would surely propose a value-added tax—a tax on business transactions similar to a national sales tax—in exchange for lowered personal and corporate income tax rates. Congressional Democrats, including Ways and Means Chairman Wilbur Mills, would attack this as a Republican scheme to shift the tax burden from big corporations to little taxpayers.

Agnew Said Willing To Split If No Asset In 1972

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew is described as being quite willing to go "phffft" should he or President Nixon decide he would be a drag on the 1972 Republican ticket.

Ever since the 1970 off-year elections, Washington has been awash with rumors that Agnew might be dumped by Nixon or might try to change his image in a bid for broader acceptance as a natural choice for renomination next year.

It seems most unlikely at this point that Agnew will make any serious effort to soften his public image, although some may get the impression he has done so because 1971 is a non-election year in which Nixon is seeking bipartisan support for his legislative programs.

The fact that Agnew remains Agnew was evidenced just last week in the daily letters column of the New York Times. There, at the top of an inside page, was a vice presidential report, partly marinated in acid, to an earlier commentary published in that newspaper by television commentator Eric Sevareid.

Agnew's role in 1972 does remain in question, but one top aide has no misgivings. He stated:

"If the vice president ever thought he would be a liability to the ticket in 1972, or if the President thought so, he would go phffft—no question about it."

This man expressed the view that Agnew, unlike most other vice presidents, "has no driving ambition" to eventually become No. 1.

In saying this, the Agnew aide echoed remarks by Bryce N. Harlow, a top Nixon aide recently returned to the lush fields of corporate lobbying. Both Harlow, assigned by the White House as Agnew's chief of staff in the 1970 campaign, and the Agnew assistant expressed personal opinions that the vice president is most likely to be renominated next year.

According to their widely held theory, Agnew's survival chances are enhanced because Nixon himself surmounted "dumping" efforts in 1952 and 1956, when he was Dwight D. Eisenhower's running mate.

The argument hinges on the basis that Nixon, having traveled a vice presidential path remarkably akin to Agnew's, would be most reluctant to supplant his own vice president.

But some Republicans of time-tested loyalty aren't so certain about the vice president's political survival.

A principal leader of the administration cause in the Senate, for example, is saying privately that he expects Agnew to be replaced by either Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York or Michigan's newly installed governor, William Milliken.

Whatever Agnew's fate next year, 1971 does spell a difference.

Last year, he addressed 15 "Lincoln Day" GOP fund-raising dinners; this year he has one guaranteed appearance, at Richmond, Va., and lists another, scheduled for March, as probable.

"We're not on the fund-raising route right now," said Vic Gold, a survivor of the 1964 Goldwater campaign recently retained as Agnew's press secretary.

The cutback in speeches presumably reflects White House influence. Loyal vice presidents take their marching orders from the commander-in-chief—as Agnew did last week when he raised the administration's banner in earthquake-stricken Southern California.

It has been widely assumed these past two years that the Nixon-Agnew team was marching in harness; no quarrels, not even minor disagreements.

The fact is that Agnew has important philosophical differences with Nixon. The vice president, for example, has not become a convert, at least totally, to Nixon's newly embraced Keynesian economics as reflected in the "full employment budget."

If it were a question of civil rights, it is possible Agnew would take a place to the left of Nixon. The vice president's associates tend to rank him as most liberal on civil rights matters.

Agnew, presumably, will feel sad about missing the 1971 GOP fund-raisers, what he jokingly calls "My Irish routine—the gathering of the green."

But Nixon has assigned to him a higher task, according to the President's political priorities.

Agnew is stumping the country selling revenue sharing, welfare reform, governmental reorganization and the administration's health-care package to governors, mayors, county officials and the public at large.

This might seem a large order, granting that Agnew will be talking mainly to bipartisan audiences, since it follows the 1970 election campaign in which the vice president's reputation for controversy was vastly enhanced.

By all accounts, no overt move has been made to soften the Agnew rhetoric. Aides say that, apart from texts dealing with foreign policy, no Agnew speeches are cleared in advance with the White House.

Although Agnew has been putting a damper on unkind words about the Democrats whose votes Nixon needs for his programs, the vice president remains on course in criticizing the news media. Singing the praises of revenue sharing to county officials in Atlanta Jan. 27, Agnew noted a Washington Post editorial raising questions about the Nixon proposals. Said Agnew:

"If anything would restore my confidence in its validity, that is it."

One Observer Believes Hospital Patient Cost Crisis Sure To Improve

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The national average cost of maintaining a hospital patient for one day rose from $9.50 in 1946 to more than $81 last year, is expected to reach $93 this year and to top $105 in 1972 and $110 in 1973.

Those are averages. Costs in excess of $100 a day already are reported in some hospitals, pricing medical care beyond the reach of millions. And some of the factors responsible for past increases seem to defy correction.

Making the picture more grim, there is not only a shortage of doctors but a maldistribution as well, and the same may be said of medical care. Some facilities and services are duplicated while others are unavailable.

Moreover, diabolical ingredients in the present formula for medical services seem to frustrate the efforts of cost cutters. Unlike industry, for example, hospitals very infrequently obtain lower costs by employing new machinery. The machine might improve health, but it generally will require the services of new, highly trained personnel.

Another example: Health insurance plans often encourage unnecessary hospital stays by specifying that work paid for must be done while the individual is a bed patient rather than an outpatient.

And consider how wasteful it is that the entire emphasis is on illness rather than health, on correction rather than prevention, on remedies for ailments that might have been avoided through recipes for health.

So bleak is the picture that one is impelled to believe that the future can only be brighter. Perhaps so. At least one man who believes the corner has been turned is Dr. Edwin Crosby, head of the American Hospital Association.

"I'm an optimist," said Crosby as he described "Ameriplan," a proposal by the association for restructuring the "delivery" and financing of health services, mainly through establishment of health care corporations.

Such units would take responsibility for the health of individuals living in specified areas, providing them with five essentials: health maintenance, primary care, specialty care, restorative care and custodial care.

Although the functions of such corporations are still related in broad terms they would, in general, be able to control duplication of services in an area, route patients to correct facilities, coordinate purchasing, and install cost-cutting incentives.

Work would be contracted out to doctors and institutions with an eye not only for the best care but the greatest efficiency. The patient's needs and the area's facilities would be coordinated.

No such corporations now exist, and in fact a federal law would be required before they ever became a reality. As envisioned, medical schools, hospitals, insurance companies or others involved in medical care would develop the corporations, with financing coming as before from fees, insurance programs and government aid.

Finall Paid For Kosygin's Lunch

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — It took more than three years, but a Niagara Falls restaurant owner has been paid for a meal eaten in 1967 by Russian Premier Aleksei Kosygin.

The State Department recently paid the bill. It seems Kosygin and state department officials ate lunch at John's Flaming Hearth Restaurant and, thinking arrangements had been handled, walked out without paying.

Color Film Series 'Civilization' To Be Shown At ECU

The critically acclaimed color film series, "Civilization", produced by the British Broadcasting Company under the directorship of Sir Kenneth Clark, will be shown in Greenville over a seven weekend period beginning this Friday and ending in early April.

Dr. Francis Speight, faculty member of the School of Art, and coordinator of arrangements for the series, has announced that the first two parts of the 13 part film would be shown at the auditorium of the School of Nursing on campus. The first showing of these two parts will be at 8:00 p.m. Friday, February 19, with the second one at 3:00 p.m. Sunday, February 21.

"The Frozen World", covering the thousand year period between the fall of Rome and the Rise of the great Gothic culture, constitutes part 1 of the series. The second part, "The Great Thaw," reveals the awakening of Europe in the Gothic area, with the magnificent cathedral at Chartres, France marking the flowering of this period.

Dr. Speight observed that for the first weekend, two showings have been established. If audience response justifies the demand, future showings will be expanded to include a third, a Saturday showing.

For succeeding weekends, subjects of other parts of the series are: "Romance and Reality," "Man - The Measure of All Things," "The Hero As Artist," "Protest and Communication," "Grandeur and Obedience," "The Pursuit of Happiness," "The Smile of Reason," "The Worship of Nature," "The Falacies of Hope," and the final part, "Heroic Materialism."

The showing in Greenville is sponsored by the North Carolina State Art Society, with East Carolina University cooperating in arrangements for showing the film on campus.

Viewing of the film is free of charge. As the auditorium at the School of Nursing is comparatively small, interested persons will be admitted on a first come, first served basis.

Declines led advances on the New York Stock Exchange by more than 2 to 1.

Analysts noted that the profit taking was heaviest in the blue-

U.S. Economy Sluggishly Inches Ahead

By BILL NEIKIRK Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economy inched ahead sluggishly last month, still not responding to President Nixon's ambitious expansion policies, a new government report shows. Industrial production, one of the first significant economic indicators reported this year, advanced by seven-tenths of 1 percent in January, the Federal Reserve Board said Tuesday. At any other time, the gain might have been significant. But, the board said, factory output is still catching up from the knockout blow of last fall's General Motors' strike. Excluding the unseasonably high 18 per cent increase in auto production, output of the nation's factories showed continuing slack, with declines in production of television sets and other appliances, industrial, commercial and defense equipment and commercial aircraft. A spokesman for Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers

He was a former Fire Chief of the City of Greenville, having served for 40 years. He held offices in the State Firemen's Association; serving as Vice President in 1947 and President in 1948.

He was one of the chief organizers of the State Rescue Squads; he was often spoken of by younger members as "the grand-daddy" of Rescue Squads.

He was an active member of the Bath Christian Church and at the time of his death was serving on the Church Board. He held life memberships in the National Fire Chiefs Association, the State and Local Firemen's Association, and the State and Local Rescue Squads. He had made his home in Bayview since 1963.

Surviving are his wife, the former Katie Lee Farmer; a son, William Lee Gardner of near Ayden; three grandchildren; and two sisters, Mrs. G. C. Vick and Miss Sara Gardner, both of Wilson.

Anyone desiring to make a contribution in his memory in lieu of flowers may make a contribution to the Bath Christian Church, the Heart or Cancer fund in your community.

Receives PhD From Ohio State

Ernest Clare Marshall, assistant professor in the East Carolina University Department of Philosophy, has received the PhD degree from Ohio State University.

A member of the ECU faculty since 1964, Dr. Marshall holds degrees from Athens College (Ala.) and the University of Mississippi.

He has done additional study at the University of Texas.

Dean Attending Annual Session

Dr. Miriam B. Moore, dean of the East Carolina University School of Home Economics, is in Chicago this week for the annual conference of the National Council of Administrators of Home Economics (NCAHE).

The theme of the meeting, "Administration in Higher Education: A Search for New Perspectives," is being studied through a program of speeches and panel and group discussions.

ART EXHIBITED John Wesley High Jr., senior in the East Carolina University School of Art, is currently showing examples of his work in the Baptist Student Union on Tenth Street.

said the production index for January "is a good figure. It doesn't set the world on fire, but it's a good steady figure."

He said the most encouraging signs are the auto production snapback and a stepup in steel output, reflecting industry stockpiling in anticipation of a strike later this year.

"Hopefully, these will spread into other areas," he said.

The administration is looking for a dramatic jump in output in March and April to realize its prediction of an upturn in the economy.

After pursuing tight fiscal and monetary policies in fighting inflation last year, Nixon has ordered heavier federal spending, combined with easier money policies from the Federal Reserve, to expand the economy this year.

His primary goal now is to tackle unemployment, currently at 6 per cent. Nixon has predicted a 9 per cent leap in economic activity this year as measured by the Gross National Product.

Plan Tour Of Publishing House

The Directors of Christian Education of the Washington District are planning a sight-seeing tour of the AME Zion Publishing House in Charlotte and Livingstone College, Salisbury, on June 11.

The bus will leave York Memorial AME Zion Church at 6 a.m. and return to Greenville at 8 p.m. on that date.

The fare, including one meal at Livingstone College, will be $15.25 round trip.

The deadline for receiving money is May 28 and the first 46 persons sending in their money will be guaranteed a seat on the bus.

The money may be sent to D. D. Garrett, 606 Albemarle Ave., Greenville, N.C., 27834.

Rev. E. V. O'Bryant is presiding elder of the Washington District.

Married Pupil Is Fighting Ban

DAYTON, Ore. (AP) — An 18-year-old Dayton High School student with a wife and child has filed suit in U.S. District Court in Portland, challenging a school regulation that bars married students from participating in varsity sports.

Lonnie Arthur Clevenger claims the rule violates his rights under the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments, and asks the court to enjoin school officials from enforcing it. The suit was filed Tuesday.

As a varsity basketball player at another high school, Clevenger averaged 20 points a game.

He says several colleges have expressed interest in his game, but that the school regulation is barring him from competing for an athletic scholarship.

The expansionary fiscal policy calls for back-to-back deficits totaling more than $30 billion this fiscal year and next. The administration is asking Congress to approve a near-record increase of about $40 billion in the national debt limit to make the heavier spending possible.

The January industrial production index indicated the administration has a long way to go before reaching the superfast pace Nixon has laid out for 1971.

The index climbed to 165.1 per cent of the 1957-59 average, 2 per cent below the level prior to the auto strike and still 5.4 per cent under the peak reached in July 1969, when the economy was in high gear.

The Federal Reserve System supplied evidence Tuesday it is ready to assist the President in his goal of expansion.

The system's Open Market Committee, managers of the government's $60-billion-plus portfolio of securities, said it will encourage money growth exceeding 5 per cent in the weeks ahead.

The exact figure was not disclosed. The committee said analysis by its staff indicates the money supply and bank credit will show "somewhat faster growth" in the first quarter of the year. Money stock grew by 5 per cent and bank credit by 9 per cent in the last three months of 1970.

Nixon's economic advisers say a 6 per cent growth in the money supply will be needed to reach the administration's goal of an $88-billion increase in output of goods and services in 1971.

Center's Director Ruritan Speaker

WINTERVILLE — Raymond Cox, program director of the Vocational Rehabilitation and Correctional Center at Maury, was the guest speaker at the Winterville Ruritan Club meeting Tuesday night.

Cox, a Winterville resident, presented a series of slides illustrating the policies and services of the state agency. He explained that the Department of Correction and Rehabilitation operates the sheltered workshops and alcoholic rehabilitation centers across the state.

The department also operates programs for prison inmates such as the one at Maury. According to Cox, the purpose of the correctional rehabilitation program is to try to provide prisoners who are nearing the end of their terms with better training and attitudes for their return to their respective communities.

President Tom Mann and Lloyd Worthington, club delegates to the Ruritan National Convention held in Memphis, Tenn., recently, provided local members with highlights of the event. It was pointed out that Ruritan Clubs are active in 30 states and the organization now ranks sixth in size among the nation's civic clubs.

President Mann presented a pen to the club's retiring president Russell Little.

Rayford Kennedy was welcomed as a new member.

James Cobb, chairman of the youth committee, reported the club will continue to sponsor the Girls Scouts and will expand its work with other youth programs in the Winterville Community.

Want Out

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Lloyd's of London, which issued a $10 million insurance policy to the Penn Central Transportation Co. to protect its officers from liability for improper conduct in office, is seeking to rescind the policy, saying it was issued on the basis of misleading statements.

A suit filed Tuesday in U.S. District Court here by Lloyd's and 16 underwriting companies claimed statements by Penn Central officials falsely denied knowledge of acts, errors or omissions that might afford grounds for future claims.

Lloyd's proposed to return the $305,660 in premiums paid for the insurance.

Existence of the policy was disclosed by the Associated Press in a Jan. 25 story.

Public Support Of Forestry Needs Said Key

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Public support is vital if the South's wood supply is to continue to grow during the next 30 years, a paper company executive said in Atlanta Tuesday.

E. E. Ellis Jr., vice president of International Paper Co. and general manager of the firm's Southern Kraft Division, said there must be full public understanding of the activities of the forest industry. Ellis told the opening session of the Southern Forest Institute that prospects for an adequate supply of wood for both industrial and consumer needs is bright, but added that if public cooperation is not sought "we will jeopardize the future growth and the prosperity of the forest products industry..." He also said such failure would place "to a great degree" an economic limitation on the South.

Mortgage Rates Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration today lowered the maximum allowable interest rate on government-backed mortgages to 7 per cent in a further move to bolster the reviving housing market.

The cut is the third in the past three months and brings the mortgage interest rate back down to 1968 levels. It peaked at 8½ per cent last year on mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration and Veterans Administration. An additional one-half of one per cent insurance fee is tacked on to FHA mortgages.

"Prospective home buyers will be able to make plans based on a reduced cost of mortgage money, and this should provide new impetus to the already buoyant homebuilding outlook," Housing Secretary George Romney said.

He noted the new interest ceiling "may be just a little ahead of current conditions in the corporate bond markets."

"But with the mortgage lending institutions becoming increasingly flush with funds, it will not be long before the new ceiling is fully validated."

The secretary estimated that monthly payments on a typical FHA-insured home will be $20-$25 less under the 7 per cent rate than under the 8½ per cent one prevailing last year.

The rate is effective today. But Romney urged lenders to rewrite existing mortgage commitments to reflect the new, lower rate.

Police Count 2 Accidents

An estimated $1,025 in damages resulted from two accidents that were investigated in the city yesterday by the Greenville Police Department.

Police reported that heaviest damage resulted from a wreck that occurred Tuesday morning at 9:30 at the intersection of First and Greene Streets.

Involved were cars driven by Lillie Adams Cox of 511 E. Gum Road and Edna T. Waldrop of 502 W. Fourth Street. Damage was estimated at $600 to the Cox vehicle and $250 to the Waldrop car.

Investigators said that no injuries were reported. Both drivers were charged with failing to yield right of way following investigation.

A mishap that occurred at 12:12 a.m. Tuesday morning caused an estimated $175 damage to the two cars involved and charges preferred on one of the drivers.

According to police reports, the wreck, which took place on E. Tenth Street near the Charles Street intersection, involved cars driven by Anne Miller of Milford, Del. and Patricia Ann Godfrey of Rt. 4, Zebulon.

Damage was estimated at $100 to the Miller car and $75 to the Godfrey vehicle. Patricia Godfrey was charged with following too closely by investigation officers.

No injuries were reported by police.

Plane Landed On City's Street

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A pilot landed his light plane on a New Orleans street Tuesday after his engine quit at 2,500 feet, apparently because he was out of gas.

"I saw a street with no traffic and decided to put it down there," said S.W. Kelly, 51, of Attalla, Ala.

The plane rolled about 300 feet along Leon C. Simon Drive after touching down. The only damage was a dent in the left wing from clipping a street sign.

He was flying the single-engine plane here on a business trip from Gadsden, Ala.

Bears Hold Off Rose For 71-60 Win

Vanceboro Is Craven Champ

VANCEBORO — The Vanceboro Red Raiders defeated Jasper in a pair of games last night and captured the Craven County Conference title. Vanceboro's girls downed Jasper, 37-10, while the boys took a 62-51 victory.

The win moves the Raiders into the District II, Class A tournament next week at North Duplin High School. Vanceboro will play the Tri-County third place team at 7 p. m. on Wednesday.

In the girls game, Vanceboro pulled out into a 9-0 lead in the first period of play. The Raiderettes came back with nine more in the second quarter, while Jasper finally broke the ice with a pair of points. That made it 18-2 at the half.

Vanceboro again outscored Jasper, 6-4, in the third period, to hold a 24-6 lead. They wrapped it up with a 13-4 edge in the final period.

Sharon Nelson led Vanceboro with 14 points.

In the boys game, Vanceboro rolled up an 11-point lead in the first period with a 21-10 advantage. Jasper came back in the second quarter to oust the Raiders, 16-14. That left Vanceboro ahead 35-26 at halftime.

Jasper again outthit Vanceboro, 14-10, in the third period, cutting the lead back to 45-40. Vanceboro cranked up again in the final quarter however, and rolled up a 17-11 advantage in the period to gain the win.

Roland Hooks led Vanceboro with 39 points, while Cornelius Dawson had 11 and Greg Keyes had 10. Felix Collins had 12 and Teddy Bryant had 10 for Jasper.

Greene Central Gains Semifinals

SNOW HILL — Greene Central moved into the semi-finals of the Eastern Plains Conference Tournament last night with a 79-62 romp over Hobbs.

The Rams, however, will have their work cut out for them, facing regular season champ North Lenoir. That game will be tonight at 8:30 p.m. In the opening game, the Farmville girls will face North Lenoir for the right to move into the finals, starting at 7 p.m.

Thursday, Northern Nash and Southern Wayne's girls meet at 7 p.m., while the Northern Nash boys and Farmville meet at 8:30.

Greene Central shot away at the start of the first period of play and built up a 22-8 lead. The Rams repeated their performance in the second quarter, and Hobbs could improve on its scoring by only two points, getting 10. That left the Rams in a 44-18 lead at halftime.

Hobbs began to come to life in the third period, taking a cue from Greene Central, and scoring 22 points. The Rams added 17, and held a 61-40 lead as the final period again opened. Hobbs again outthit Greene Central, 22-18, but to no avail, in the final period.

Mike Giles led the Rams with 22 points, while Al Herrington had 19, Ron Bowen had 10, and Lacy Ward had 15.

For Hobbs, Wiggins had 18, while Dwight Darden had 16, and John DeVone had 13.

Bowen led the Ram board play with 23 rebounds.

Williamston Takes Victory

WILLIAMSTON — The Williamston Tigers advanced to the semifinals of the Albemarle Conference Basketball Tournament with an 87-70 victory over Perquimans last night.

Williamston is now scheduled to meet the winner of the Plymouth-Northampton game Friday at 8:30 p.m. The Williamston girls, who also won their first round game, played Monday, will meet Gates County Friday at 7.

Williamston pushed out into an 18-10 lead in the first period of play, and both teams warmed up in the second quarter. In that frame, the Tigers tossed in 25 points, while Perquimans hit 19, but the Tiger lead climbed by six. That made it 43-29 at the half.

The Tigers continued to pull away in the third period, building up their biggest lead of the evening. They outshot Perquimans, 23-14, and upped the advantage to 66-43 as the final quarter opened. Perquimans finally outscored Williamston, 27-21, but it barely dented the Tiger lead.

Laurence Jackson led Williamston with 17 points, while Albert Barnes had 15, Raymond Andrews had 13, Dwight Ange had 12 and Rufus Speller had 10.

Finnard Tillett led Perquimans with 15, while Sam Moore had 13.

Immanuel Gets Share Of First

Immanuel Baptist slipped by Presbyterian, 59-53, last night and pulled into a tie for first place in the Church Basketball League. Black Jack downed Piney Grove, 73-49, and Oakmont beat St. James, 64-40 in the other games.

Immanuel and Presbyterian now post 9-3 records in the league, while Black Jack is third with a 7-5 mark. They are followed by Oakmont, 6-6, Piney Grove, 5-7, and St. James, 0-12. The latter two have been eliminated from the title race.

In the opener, Black Jack rolled out to a 34-21 lead in the first half of play. They came back to outscore Piney Grove, 39-28, in the final half to wrap it up.

Steve Peele and Ephrigm

Smith led Black Jack with 21 each, while Tai Adams had 13 and Randy Dixon had 10. Jimmy Mills had 18 to pace Piney Grove.

In the big game, Presbyterian appeared ready to roll along, as it built up a 32-29 lead in the first half. But Immanuel came roaring back in the second half, outscoring the leader, 30-21, to deadlock first place.

Mack Roebuck led Immanuel with 21 points, while Dick Evans had 15 and George Williams had 10. Presbyterian was led by Frank Freuler with 24, while Brazel Moore had 11.

In the final game, Oakmont built up a 28-22 lead in the first half, then rushed away from St. James in the second. Oakmont outscored the Methodists, 36-18,

Oglethorpe Puts Ball On Ice In 7-4 Loss

By BRUCE LOWITT

Associated Press Sports Writer

"If I did this in Nashville, they'd run me outa town," Ed Martin grinned.

The fact that his Tennessee State basketball team beat Oglethorpe Tuesday night wasn't enough to raise any eyebrows. The Tigers, ranked sixth in The Associated Press College Division poll have won all but one of 14 games this season.

But 7-4?

"I kept reading in the papers where Tommy Norwood was encouraging people to come out and watch us play," Martin said of the Oglethorpe coach. "Then he wouldn't let us."

It was believed to be the lowest scoring collegiate game in modern history, the result of Oglethorpe's deliberate deep-freeze.

It was an attempt to prevent a repeat of the laughter earlier this year when the Tigers demolished Oglethorpe 82-43—and Norwood was amazed that he nearly pulled it off.

"I was flabbergasted," he said. "They didn't come out to get us."

In Tuesday night's more conventional games, Ohio State, rated No. 20 in the major college poll, rallied to beat Wisconsin 79-71, Texas Tech ran away from Texas 70-55, Purdue nipped Illinois 73-70, Indiana routed Michigan State 90-76, Duke coasted by Davidson 64-55 and Georgetown edged Boston College 67-66.

Tennessee State "raced" to a 2-0 lead in the opening seconds on Lloyd Neal's basket, then sat back while Oglethorpe played slowdown for nearly 16 minutes before a bad pass gave the Tigers the ball which Ron Dorsey converted into a 4-0 halftime lead.

"Talk about cold—this was a deep, deep freeze," the Tennessee State coach said. "I'll tell you, there was a lot of ice out there ... but when we got those four points, I knew the pressure was on them. So we just sat back and waited."

The Atlanta school took the second-half tip-off and held the ball for nearly 17 minutes before Terry Shell's field goal out the Tigers' lead in half. But three Tennessee State free throws in the closing minutes wrapped it up while Oglethorpe managed only a basket by Larry Walker.

"This is the first time I've been involved in a game like this," Martin said—but Norwood is no stranger to such goings on. He played for Oglethorpe when the team beat Jacksonville 30-14—after going in the dressing room at halftime with a scoreless tie.

Indiana used a zone press on defense to break Michigan State's slowdown offense and George McGinnis' 37 points to run away from the Spartans.

Davidson led Duke 36-35 early in the second half before the Blue Devils hit nine consecutive points to give Coach Bucky Waters his 100th career victory.

Boston College held a slim lead before Mike Laughna, the game's top scorer with 25 points, hit a free throw to put Georgetown on top at 69-59. The Hoyas clinched the victory with free throws by Ed McNamara and Dick Weber in the final 14 seconds.

Garrett batted .254 with 12 homers and 45 runs batted in last season. The Mets don't expect him to be available before August 1 this year.

While the Mets' third base situation became their first problem of the training season, other clubs are busy signing some pretty competent infielders to new contracts.

Boston got Rico Petrocelli's signature on a two-year pact worth $70,000 per year. Petrocelli showed up in camp Tuesday along with the early Red Sox arrivals to start working at third base, a new position for him. Rico is shifting over to make room for newly-acquired Luis Aparicio.

Shortstop Jim Fregosi agreed to terms with the California Angels, autographing a $75,000 contract.

"It is the best contract to which I have signed a player since I have been with the Angels," said Dick Walsh, the club's vice president and general manager for the last two years.

NEW BERN — The New Bern Bears held off a late Rose challenge in the final minute of play and gained a 71-60 victory over the Rampants last night.

The loss doomed the Rampants to last place in the Division II standings, despite the outcome of Friday's final regular season game against Goldsboro. Rose could have moved into fifth place with a victory over the Bears, the only conference team they have beaten this year.

Rose had fallen behind in the third period of play by as much as 10 points, and were down by as much as 14 late in the final period, but put on a rally that cut the lead to four points with 1:13 left.

But New Bern came up with three quick baskets to run the lead back out to 10, and that put the game out of reach for Rose.

Throughout the first half of play, it had been tight, with Rose holding the lead much of the way. They grabbed the opening lead on a shot by Carlton Daniels off the tap. New Bern got a free throw by Ken Taylor and came back with a driving shot by Allen Spruill to take a 3-2 edge. A free throw by Taylor added it to 4-2, but Rose cut it back with a free throw by Jimmy Hagans.

Hagans then hit on a jumper at the baseline to put Rose back on top, 5-4, and they built up a three-point lead on two free throws by Lonnie Payton.

New Bern came back to tie it at 7-7 again at 9-9 before grabbing an 11-10 lead on a fast break basket by Chuck Lindsey. Rose regained the lead on a rebounding shot by Payton, but a shot by Taylor with seven seconds left gave the Bears a 13-12 lead at the end of the period.

New Bern pushed out by three in the early minutes of the period, but Rose came back to take a 17-16 lead when Hagans drove in for a score. The Bears tied it on a shot by Spruill at 19-19, and two free throws by him moved the Bears ahead for good at 21-19 with 5:01 left in the half.

Glenn Russell hit a jumper to push the lead to four, but Rose twice cut it back to two. Finally, however, a pair of free throws by Erless Dove ran it to four and Lindsey hit a jumper to give the Bears a six-point edge, 29-23. Rose held on, however, and trailed 31-25 at the half.

In the third period, the Bears began to pull away. After swapping shots with the Rampants for the first minutes of play, Taylor hit to run the lead out to eight, and a free throw by him made it nine at 40-31. Rose clipped it back to five at 42-37, but the Bears pulled away again, and a jumper by Spruill with one second left gave the New Bern five a 50-40 lead at the end of the period.

Taylor and Spruill hit to open the last period and that ran the lead out to 14, 54-40, before Rose got going again. But in the final five minutes, the Rampants started the rally.

Allen Whichard hit on a rebound, and Payton and Daniels hit from the line to cut the lead to 10. Payton's baseline jumper sliced it to eight before New Bern hit again.

Payton hit two more to cut it to six at 60-54 with 2:19 left, and after the two teams hit, Robert Kear, who had one of his poorer nights from the field, connected to cut it to four at 62-58 with 1:13 left to go.

Spruill connected on a jumper with 58 seconds left, and Russell stole the ball on the throw in for another easy layup. The Bears again forced a turnover at midcourt and scored again as Spruill hit with 37 seconds left, running the lead back to 10, 68-58, and that killed the Rampants.

New Bern got another basket to run it out to 12 before it finally ended.

Spruill led the Bears attack with 21 points, while Russell had 14, Taylor had 12, and Dove and Lindsey each had 11.

Payton paced Rose with 20, while Kear finished with 10.

The Rampants Cubs, however, continued to roll along, picking up their 13th victory against six defeats with a 72-64 win.

Rose pushed out into the lead after the opening minutes of play and held an 18-9 lead at the end of the first quarter. The lead went to as much as 11, but Rose couldn't break it open as New Bern rallied to oust them, 18-16, and cut the lead to 34-27 at the half.

In the third period, Rose pulled away again, moving out into as much as 15-point lead, before leading 55-41 at the buzzer. New Bern put on a rally in the final frame, outscoring Rose, 23-17, but they could come no closer than six points.

James Wooten paced the victory with 31 points, while J. C. Daniels was right behind with 26.

Robert Weatherspoon led New Bern with 22, while Ronnie Gray had 13.

The Rampants return home Friday night to close out the regular season against Goldsboro.

Deacons Hot In 74-57 Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The two Atlantic Coast Conference teams in the top 10 nationally, seventh-ranked South Carolina and eighth-ranked North Carolina, play league opponents tonight.

South Carolina, which has won 14 games and lost four this season, but is only 5-4 in the tough conference, is home to North Carolina State in a game which will be televised. It will be the first meeting this season for the teams. The N.C. State Wolfpack is 4-4 in the league and 11-8 in all games.

And North Carolina, leading the ACC on an 8-1 record and 16-3 over-all, is at Maryland, 4-6 and 12-7. The teams played at North Carolina on Jan. 30 and the Tar Heels won 105-79.

The Wake Forest Deacons tied Maryland for sixth place by hitting 60 per cent of their field goal attempts and defeating Clemson 74-57 Tuesday night.

The Deacons faltered momentarily in the home game at Winston-Salem, but never lost their poise as the last-place Tigers pulled within three points at 51-48 midway in the second half. But then Charlie Davis, the league's top scorer, went to work and made 16 of his 31 points in the final 10 minutes.

Clemson hit 44.4 per cent from the field and was led by Dickie Foster with 17 points.

Wake Forest is tied with Maryland at 4-6 in ACC play. Clemson is 2-9.

In the night's other game involving an ACC club, the Duke Blue Devils outscored Davidson by 10 points in a five-minute spurge early in the second half and defeated Davidson 64-55 in the Greensboro Coliseum. It was the fourth time this season that Davidson, the Southern Conference leader, had played an ACC club and the fourth time it had lost.

Bryan Adrian, Davidson's leading scorer, did not play because of a recurring knee injury. Joe Sutter led Davidson with 19 points. Randy Denton paced Duke with 17 points and Richard O'Connor added 13 for the Blue Devils.

The victory was the 100th in Duke Coach Bucky Waters' career. His team is 13-7 for the season.

Drives Great, Putts Horrible

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) — Driving a golf ball on the moon would be very exhilarating but putting would drive you crazy, the former administrator of the national Aeronautics and Space Administration says.

"There would be a lot of seven and eight-putt greens and no green to putt on," Dr. Thomas Paine added. "It would be almost impossible to sink a putt on the moon. It would be like putting underwater."

Dr. Paine described possible golf on the moon after receiving a trophy from the Metropolitan Golf Writers Association in the name of astronaut Capt. Alan B. Shepard Jr., the first man to hit a golf ball on the lunar surface. Shepard, in quarantine, was unable to accept the award in person.

The hastily conceived award was called the "Mulligan Trophy," named for the practice common to duffers taking a second shot off the tee after muffing the first.

Shepard, using a six-iron head attached to one of his craft's instruments, took two swings on the moon and commented afterwards:

"It goes miles and miles." Dr. Paine, who oversaw all manned flights to the moon prior to leaving NASA last year for a vice presidency with General Electric, said Shepard did not exaggerate too much.

"You can figure that the ball will travel six times as far as it would on Earth because the gravity is one-sixth that of the gravity on this planet," the aeronautics expert explained. "The ball would fly straight and far and it would be impossible to slice or hook because there is no resistance.

"Also, the surface of the moon is like small beads. The ball, once it has landed, would hit and bounce for many more yards, so one can get a great deal of distance."

This, however, would be all the fun that a golfer could derive from an excursion to the moon, Paine said.

"When you start to putt, the ball would do all sorts of crazy things and likely would skid and go right past the hole. It would take a lot of shots to sink it," he added.

Phil Strubing, president of the U.S. Golf Association, announced at the dinner he was immediately suspending Shepard from amateur golf.

"Shepard said he was given three golf balls by his club pro back in Houston," Strubing said. "That's a violation of the rules. That makes him a professional."

And the Royal and Ancient Club of St. Andrews, Scotland, militant guardian of the sport, said Shepard should be penalized for not replacing his divot. "This is a violation of ethics," the R and A insisted.

But it was Bob Hope, the comedian, golfer and golf promoter, who summed up the meaning of Shepard's feat to the average Earthbound duffer.

"I always wondered what was wrong with my golf," Hope said. "Now I know—it's gravity!"

Trevino Grabs Favorite Spot

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Lee Trevino, who seems to have an affinity for the Tucson National Golf Club, ranks as the man to beat in the $110,000 Tucson Open Golf Tournament.

The flamboyant Trevino, who topped the 1970 money-winning list and won the Vardon Trophy for the best stroke average, always is high among the contenders, and has a little something extra going for him here.

The happy-go-lucky Mexican-American has won this event the last two years and is favored to make it three in a row.

"I don't know," Trevino said. "Maybe it's just my part of the country. We're pretty near the border, you know."

Trevino faces a surprisingly strong field in the 72-hole event that begins Thursday on the 7,305-yard par 72 Tucson National Course, a relatively flat, wide-open layout hacked out of the desert. Sponsors were, at one time, extremely concerned about the class of the 144-man field, with many of the top names in the game taking off to rest and practice for next week's PGA National Championship in Florida.

But half of the 16 men who won over $100,000 last year are in the field along with the two hottest players on the tour this year, Tom Shaw and Miller Barber.

The personable Shaw is the leading money winner for the year with more than $70,000 in six weeks and is the only two-time champion, taking the Bing Crosby and the Hawaiian Open.

Barber, the record-setting winner at Phoenix, has been in the top ten in four of his last six starts, including a second at Hawaii.

The $100,000 winners from last year, in addition to Trevino, are Frank Beard, Homero Brancas, Bruce Crampton, Larry Hinson, Dick Lotz, Los Angeles Open champion Bob Lunn, and Bob Murphy, who lost to Trevino in a playoff here last year.

Also on hand are seniors champ Julius Boros, San Diego Open winner George Archer and always-dangerous Gene Littler.

The major absentees include Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Masters champ Billy Casper, U.S. Open king Tony Jacklin, PGA title holder Dave Stockton, and South African Gary Player. Player won't start his American swing until next week. Jacklin is at home in England. The others are just taking time off.

D.J. Captures Best In Show

NEW YORK (AP) — The next time Dr. Milton E. Prickett brings his pet dog to a veterinary science class at the University of Kentucky, his students probably will gape in awe.

"Yes," said Dr. Prickett today, "I bring D.J. to class once in a while with me."

Dr. Prickett, a 40-year-old assistant professor of veterinary science at the university, was referring to Ch. Chino's Adamant James, an English springer spaniel, who captured dogdom's most important championship—best-in-show at the Westminster Kennel Club event in Madison Square Garden Tuesday night.

"I call him D.J.," said Dr. Prickett, whose wife also is a veterinarian. "He sleeps under my desk and I received him as a present from my wife and three children two years ago."

Clint Harris handled D.J. in the show, just as he has through most of the dog's career.

"I was a little nervous," said Harris. "He fell on the mat during the sporting group judging and I was fearful that his knee would tighten up."

Problem Is Allergy

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Casper figures he may have a good chance to win his first PGA golf title next week if he can avoid the sneezes.

"I hope I have built up some resistance to my allergies in the last two or three years," Casper said Tuesday night after receiving the Gold Tee from the Metropolitan Golf Writers as PGA 1970 Player of the Year.

"I intend to give it a try." Casper, who along with Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus has made more than $1 million playing golf, has been bothered throughout his career by unusual allergies.

One of them is an allergy to the kind of pesticides used to treat Southern golf courses. For years, he has avoided the Florida section of the pro tour.

He played in the $200,000 National Airlines in Miami, Fla., a couple of years ago. He broke out in a rash. His arms began to swell. His eyes became blood shot. He had to withdraw.

Now he has entered the PGA Championship, starting Feb. 25 over the PGA Championship Course in Palm Beach Gardens, Fla. He is expected to expose himself to the same kind of pesticides.

Casper predicted that one of the experienced players, such as Palmer, Nicklaus and PGA defending champion Dave Stockton, should have the best chance over the Florida course.

Stockton, also honored at the awards dinner, also named Palmer, Nicklaus and Casper as the men to beat. He said he personally was getting ready for the Masters in April.

Also honored were: Tony Jacklin, U.S. Open champion; Lee Trevino, Vardon Trophy winner; Nicklaus, British Open champion; Lanny Watkins, U.S. amateur champion; Shirley Englehorn, Women's LPGA champion; and Donna Caponi, U.S. Women's Open winner.

But it didn't and the judge of the final, O.C. Harriman of Pebble Beach, Calif., required only 13 minutes to make up his mind. There is no second place in the final judging. The pooch wins it all or nothing.

"The English springer spaniel is a nearly perfect dog," said Harriman. "I'd love to take him home with me. He is a wonderful dog in every way. It was a lovely class."

D.J. was not exactly an outsider considering the fact that he took three bests on the recent Florida circuit and beat out more than 3,000 rivals in the Philadelphia Kennel Club Show two months ago.

Yet many of the experts thought that the favorite's role would go to the Norwegian elkhound Ch. Vin Melca's Vagabond, owned and handled by Patricia V. Craige of Monterey, Calif., the hound winner.

Vagabond was the top winning dog in the country last year and going into the 95th edition of Westminster, had shown no signs of slipping. Harriman gave him some attention, but he couldn't take his eyes off D.J.

The others in the final were: Ch. Pavo de la Steingasse, a standard poodle owned by Margaret S. Smith of Dallas, the working group victor.

Ch. O'Connell Kerry Oaks, a Kerry blue sent in by Florence Coe of Atherton, Calif., the terrier winner.

Ch. Duke's Lil Red Baron O'kala, a Pomeranian entered by Mrs. Joyce Graves of Cypress, Tex., who triumphed in the top group.

Federal Court Benches Haywood

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The National Basketball Association has a federal court go-ahead to penalize the Seattle SuperSonics if they play Spencer Haywood again, and a Sonics attorney said the big forward won't play in Seattle tonight against Portland.

Just when Haywood will be able to get back on the court is uncertain. Also uncertain is what penalties, if any, the NBA would impose if the Sonics play him without court protection against league sanctions.

Mel Monheimer, an attorney for the Super Sonics, said in Seattle Tuesday night following a 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruling here:

"We are not going to let Haywood suit up. In fact, he won't even be on the playing court Wednesday night."

Haywood, a 6-foot-9 former Olympic star who broke a six-year contract with the Denver Rockets of the American Basketball Association to sign with Seattle Dec. 28, has played 23 NBA games.

He has averaged 19.6 points and 12 rebounds a game, but says the controversy over his contract has hurt his game and kept him from adjusting to the new league.

Louisiana Teams Battle For 1st

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Southwestern Louisiana closed in on front-running Louisiana State of New Orleans in The Associated Press College Division basketball poll—but not enough to shiver their timbers. The Privateers, 20-0, who led the pack by a solid 57 points a week ago, garnered seven of the 12 first-place votes Tuesday in the nationwide balloting by sports writers and sportscasters and amassed 214 points for a comfortable 41-point bulge over the second-place Bulldogs.

Southwestern Louisiana picked up two first-place nominations and, while Kentucky State received none, it still managed to garner 147 points and retain third place. Each team is 17-2.

Fairmont State of West Virginia, with two top-spot votes, moved into fourth with 131 points, trading places with Louisiana Tech. And Tennessee State took sixth, vaulting over Ashland.

No. 8 Assumption and No. 9 Eau Claire State held their positions but Moorehead, Minn., moved up three places to 10th.

Filing out the top 20 were Kentucky Wesleyan, down one spot; Puget Sound, also down one and Howard Payne, up one notch.

Stephen F. Austin—which received the only other first-place vote—moved up a step to 14th, Indiana State slipped from 11th to 15th, and Oral Roberts moved into 16th, switching berths with North Carolina A&T.

Breaking into the select circle were No. 18 Iowa Wesleyan, No. 19 Sam Houston State and No. 20 St. Mary's, Texas. They displaced Guilford, Old Dominion and Parsons.

Final Period Was Too Much

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The new Buffalo Braves battled the powerful Milwaukee Bucks almost on even terms for three quarters. But the rules call for four periods and that was one too many for the Braves.

The Braves trailed only 96-93 after three quarters of their National Basketball Association game Tuesday night, but they lost 135-103 as they scored only 10 points in the final period and were outscored 21-2 by the Bucks in the closing minutes.

Low Alcindor led Milwaukee with 38 points, four more than Buffalo's Donnie May.

In other NBA action Los Angeles beat the New York Knicks 130-115, Cincinnati topped Portland 109-102, Chicago bombed Atlanta 118-102, Detroit drubbed Baltimore 110-95 and Phoenix edged Boston 119-116 in a day game.

Denver outlasted Memphis 125-120 in the only American Basketball Association game.

The Lakers, behind at the half 57-54, went on a 21-4 spree at the end of the third period and broke loose on a 21-6 blitz early in the last period, to beat the Knicks. Jerry West led the attack with 31 points, hitting seven baskets in a row in the third period.

Willis Reed, returning to the line-up after a two-game layoff because of his knee trouble, paced the Knicks with 23 points.

Dave DeBusschere of the Knicks scored the 10,000th point of his NBA career on a short jumper with eight minutes left. The game was stopped and Elgin Baylor of the Lakers presented him with the ball.

Cincinnati snapped a seven-game losing streak and broke Portland's five-game winning string. Tom Van Arsdale topped the Royals with 29 points while Geoff Petrie was high for the Trail Blazers with 31.

Chicago spurred to a 40-30 lead with Jerry Sloan and Bob Love combining for 11 of 13 points and went on to rip Atlanta. Sloan finished with 32 points and Love with 19. Lou Hudson hit for 23 and Walt Bellamy 22 for Atlanta.

Dave Bing scored 18 points in each half and led Detroit past Baltimore, which got 25 points from Wes Unseld and 22 from Earl Monroe.

Phoenix beat Boston on the hot final-quarter shooting of Connie Hawkins. The Hawk threw in 17 of his 27 points in that period. John Havlicek led Boston with 39.

Denver made 37 of 38 free throws for a team record as the Rockets downed Memphis in the ABA. Byron Beck, Larry Cannon and Larry Brown each converted four shots twice in the last minute to keep the Rockets on top.

Cannon led Denver with 34 points. Jimmy Jones topped Memphis with 35.

Kickback Conspiracy Charged In Pension Bankruptcy

By DICK BARNES
WASHINGTON (AP) — The promoter who masterminded loans of millions of Barbers Union pension dollars, some to enterprises controlled by him and a financially plagued DuPont heir, has been indicted along with the union's president on charges of kickback conspiracy.

The pension fund involved in the complex case has ties to one of the biggest personal bankruptcy act cases ever filed, to two other financial scandals and to jailed tax evader Bobby Baker.

And the nearly 60,000 barbers who are members of the pension plan face forecasts that they likely will get little or none of the retirement income they were promised. Both government and private studies say the fund will go broke as presently constituted.

The 36-count indictment was returned Tuesday by a federal grand jury in Chicago and announced by the Justice Department in Washington. It named: —Thomas A. Shaheen Jr., 38, the pension fund's onetime investment consultant who now lives in London, England.

—Joseph De Paola, Indianapolis, president of the Journeymen Barbers, Hairdressers, Cosmetologists and Proprietors International Union of America and chairman of its pension fund.

—Max Block Jr., a New York Attorney who worked with Shaheen.

—Columbia Financial Corp. of Chevy Chase, Md., controlled by Shaheen and Block.

The indictment charged all four with conspiring to get kickbacks, fees and commissions from a California land development firm in connection with a loan from the pension fund. It further charged Shaheen, Block and Columbia with conspiring to pay off De Paola in connection with fund loans and charged De Paola with soliciting and receiving $29,000 in fees, kickbacks and commissions.

Shaheen also was charged with getting from the California firm $112,597 in fees and commissions, $25,000 in negotiable notes, two consultant agreements worth $144,000 and 100 acres of land in order to influence his actions as the fund's adviser.

The fund, which once totaled $21 million, made nearly $12 million in mortgage loans during the period Shaheen advised it. Some $7 million of these became delinquent. The fund listed $16 million in assets in its most recent report to the Labor Department.

The breadth of the fund's problems first came to public light last July in a series of Associated Press articles on pension plans.

The Barbers' fund went into business in 1966 and began with conservative investments administered by a bank. Shaheen came onto the scene about a year later and, as its adviser, steered fund money into mortgage loans, some of them to Winthrop Lawrence Corp. or its subsidiaries.

Winthrop Lawrence, named as a co-conspirator in the case, at the time was half-owned by Columbia Financial Corp. and half-owned by Lamont du Pont Copeland Jr., son of the board chairman of the giant DuPont Corp.

Copeland Jr. filed last year for reorganization of his financial affairs under the bankruptcy act, listing debts of about $60 million and assets of less than half that total. Soon after, Winthrop Lawrence also filed for reorganization.

Justice Department sources said that based on assurances from Shaheen's attorney, F. Lee Bailey, that Shaheen would be on hand for trial, no formal extradition proceedings were presently planned.

The two other financial scandals linked to Barbers fund loans involve insurance companies—Prudence Mutual Casualty Co. of Chicago and Community National Life Insurance Co. of Tulsa, Okla. Both firms failed under circumstances that brought investigations.

In mid-1970, fulfilling a commitment made previously, the fund made a $200,000 second mortgage loan to a motel project under the direction of Bobby Baker, onetime protege of Lyndon B. Johnson. Baker recently began a jail term for fraud and tax evasion.

Pending in Indianapolis is a civil case brought by several members of the Barbers union, who sued the union to prevent payment of pension fund benefits which were to begin Feb. 1.

A state of Wisconsin examination of the fund filed in connection with the Indianapolis case declared the fund will go broke within 15 years.

It found member contributions were too low and payouts would be too high for the fund to last. Under the basic plan, barbers who pay $5 a month into the fund get $25 monthly checks on retirement.

A private actuary's report included in a Labor Department file on the fund had previously concluded it was actuarially unsound as presently set up. To survive, both reports said, the fund would have to either cut benefits or raise contributions.

Chief Of Juvenile Correction Still Tries Kindness

By REESE HART
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina's commissioner of juvenile correction said today that in the past 15 years he has been called everything by juvenile inmates, "including s.o.b., but I still treat them with kindness."
"We try to condition our people to take abuse," Blaine M. Madison said in an interview.
"I would be the first to admit we have our share of weaknesses and problems and welcome an investigation of the juvenile correction system."
Gov. Bob Scott called on the N.C. Penal Study Committee Friday to conduct a full investigation of the system after hearing charges of brutality.

"We think an investigation is an excellent idea and will focus attention on our weaknesses and unmet needs," Madison said.
Russell Ross, 18, of Winston-Salem charged during a panel discussion at Chapel Hill last week that he was beaten bloody with a board while he was an inmate at Cameron Morrison Training School near Hoffman in 1967-68.
"There is no provision for corporal punishment in our system," said Madison. "I can't say it never happens. But we try our best to prevent such things. I have confidence in my staff. I don't believe you will find a higher level of kindness than in our staff."

He estimated that only 5 to 6 per cent of the 1,900 juvenile inmates are "aggressive trouble-makers."
"Most of them resent authority and take it out on us," he added.
"We don't get the class valedictorians or salutatorians," Madison declared. "We get the uneducated, the unwanted, the unloved, but we try to treat everyone as somebody and not a nobody. All the children in our training schools have multiple problems. They have failed in homes, public schools, courts and on probation. Many have failed in foster homes. We try to give them a sequence of successes to compensate for these failures."

Madison, who has been commissioner of juvenile correction since 1956, said three employees were dismissed during the last several years for mistreatment of inmates.
"This is something we will not tolerate," he said.
North Carolina has seven training schools and one youth evaluation center.
"We don't get many juveniles under 12 years of age," Madison said. "They can be sent to us by the courts up to the age of 18."
He said the discipline for minor behavior includes extra and unpleasant work assignments; walking tours; temporary separation from other inmates, and payment for damaged or destroyed property.

"The most effective thing we do is to restrict their privileges."
AEC Contracts Really Enriched
OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (UPI)—The Atomic Energy Commission says contracts for uranium enrichment services have reached about $2.3 billion in value since 1969.
Some of the contracts extend over a 30-year period during which uranium materials owned by power firms and others will be periodically enriched as a fuel source.

to watch movies and television, take part in off campus trips, etc.," Madison explained.
"When all other means of control have been exhausted," he added, "a student may be placed in a segregation room on the recommendation of the committee on discipline, the training school director, or his authorized representative."
Madison said there have been occasions when school officials have had to use handcuffs temporarily on the most aggressive inmates.
He cited an instance where an inmate jumped up on the table during lunch and began cursing the officials.
Madison said North Carolina "should have a single state agency charged with the responsibility of providing comprehensive services for misbehavior-prone and delinquent youth. Among the components of such a comprehensive program would be probation services to the family and youth division of the district courts at the local level; and detention services on a regional basis to serve all the district courts in the state."

At 72, Builds Plane, Flies It Mini Robot Will Follow Fish
PARIS, Tex. (AP) — Bill Williams is 72, but he still builds airplanes and flies them.
His latest product is a 1941 Taylor Craft powered by its original engine.
The plane was a wreck victim and Williams had to restore the entire left wing. But the frame and engine were usable.
STIRLING, Scotland (AP) — Scottish scientists are developing a robot mini-submarine trained to follow fish.
Its task will be to search out fish previously fitted with sonar devices so that their feeding and migratory habits can be studied.

The bidding:
South West North East
2 NT Pass 6 NT Pass
Pass Pass

Opening lead: Nine of ♠
Thirty points was a small price for declarer to pay for additional security as South in today's hand discovered to his satisfaction when he was able to place his opponent in a position from which there was no escape.

When South opened the bidding with two no trump, North was able to determine that at least 34 points were held—adequate for a small slam. Inasmuch as South could have a maximum of 24, North did not consider going further and he proceeded directly to six no trump.

West opened the nine of hearts which declarer won in his hand with the ten. South saw that, with an even break in diamonds, he had 12 top tricks. However, in order to better his chances in the event that the adverse diamonds did not respond favorably, he decided to go after the spade suit first in an effort to build up tricks there.

Accordingly he led a low spade from his hand and permitted West's jack to hold the trick. This gives declarer the opportunity to test both the spade and diamond suits successively, in an attempt to bring his winners to 12.

West returned another heart to declarer's king. The ace and queen of diamonds were cashed and West showed out on the second round. A spade was led next to the king, but West again failed to follow. With both suits breaking badly, South's remaining hope was that some pressure could be brought to bear on East who had the burden of protecting both the spades and the diamonds.

A club was led to the ace and the ace of hearts was cashed on which North threw a diamond. Next came the ace of clubs and a low club on which dummy's jack was successfully finessed as East showed out, discarding a diamond. When the king of clubs was cashed, East was unable to find a safe discard. If he threw another diamond, it would establish the dummy's ten. If he discarded a spade, on the other hand, declarer could take the balance of the tricks with his spades.

Worry Clinic Reading Needs Stimulation

Adela Rogers St. Johns is a superb "Applied" Psychologist. Parents, be sure to heed her shrewd advice about reading. For she says children would rather be read to than to watch TV. But by 2nd grade, you mothers can try the "swap" method outlined below!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

Case P-574: Adela Rogers St. Johns, aged 76, is unique. She could be called the feminine 20th century Shakespeare!

An Applied Psychologist with superb insight into human nature, she rates tops. She's a prolific novelist and pioneer newspaper reporter.

"Women," she says, "once had great power for good. Then they decided they wanted to be like men."

But another of her most profound observations is this: "Mothers don't read to their children anymore."

"So they don't have a common vocabulary."

"I have yet to find a child who wouldn't rather be read to than to watch TV."

Since reading is the real "motor" of the entire educational machine, we need to encourage kiddies to look with favor on books, newspapers and magazines.

Remember, too, that it is even better to urge the youngsters to read aloud to daddy and mother and vice versa!

And to stimulate your early grammar schoolers to do this, offer them a choice, such as:

"Would you rather read your storybook aloud to Mamma or wash the dishes while Mamma reads to you?"

In modern families it is also efficient to have a "chore jar" or a cardboard box in which you place numerous slips of paper with a single household task written on each.

Then, let the members of the family, while blindfolded, draw out a slip to find what chore they are to perform.

This strategy avoids a lot of resentment by the child toward its parents, for it then blames Lady Luck for giving it a disliked chore.

Washing or drying the dishes generally comes under the heading of unpopular jobs.

So that's where Mamma or Daddy can offer to "swap" the dishwashing task if Junior reads aloud some exciting story from his school or library book.

When he encounters a strange word, let him try to pronounce it phonetically.

If he accents it on the wrong syllable, calmly correct him but be sure you do it "calmly," instead of yelling irritably at him.

Fathers, note well!

When a child is too young to utter printed words, you parents can read many of the inspiring tales to enrich its imagination, including Bible stories.

But a youngster profits more from "do-it-yourself" reading, so as soon as it gets up to the 2nd and 3rd grades, try that "swap" idea.

And by the time youngsters reach Junior High (7th grade) you should also encourage them to develop the "newspaper habit."

Remember, this newspaper is the latest textbook on current events, ranging from the weather forecast and politics to sports and comics.

Alas, most of the comics leave kiddies disinterested, even though child characters are depicted therein.

For the plots and even the humor are usually above the comprehension of early grammar schoolers!

Yet that comic page should always serve as the home laboratory to supplement the school teacher's stress on reading!

Send for my booklet "How to Raise Your Child's School Marks," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets)

Bars School Ground Races

The use of city school grounds as racing tracks for vehicles, particularly mini-bikes, is becoming something of a problem for the schools, according to Superintendent Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood.

Reporting on this matter to the school board, Dr. Cleetwood indicated it had become necessary to reaffirm that school grounds are not to be used for this purpose, nor for short cuts to other places.

He noted this practice is creating several problems, notably that of danger to other people and damage to landscaping around the schools.

Harding Sugg said he could see it "as a real danger to children, especially with outdoor sports and other activities that take place around the schools."

Six Months, And Still No Phone

DUBLIN (AP) — Infuriated by six months wait for a telephone, a local carpet factory manager advertised for a flock of carrier pigeons to help him carry on his business—"particu-

The Department of Posts and telegrams apologized for the delay and promised him a phone, within a month.

Corruption In The PX Operations Investigated

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators were called today to testify about charges a syndicate of American businessmen used kickbacks and lavish gifts to corrupt U.S. officials and capture a share of the millions spent by GIs in service clubs.

Exploiting the U.S. troop buildup in South Vietnam, interlocking groups of Americans established a near-monopoly in slot-machine sales and influenced purchase of whisky, beer, cigarettes and other goods, investigators contend.

The allegations are being investigated in hearings opening today before the Senate's permanent investigations subcommittee, headed by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn.

As senators prepared to open the hearings, the Air Force announced it will court-martial two majors and 12 sergeants on charges they mishandled funds belonging to Air Force clubs in Thailand.

Over the weekend, the Army announced it was removing more than 1,700 slot machines from its clubs in Vietnam on the grounds their presence was not practical in a war zone.

Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., a subcommittee member, said the hearings will include testimony that efforts were made in Vietnam to artificially influence demand statistics for certain beers and liquors being offered for sale to the PX system.

He said slot machines appear to be the root of corruption in all the subcommittee's investigations of funds generated solely by soldiers' spending.

The hearings are a sequel to others in which the subcommittee traced black-market currency transactions through a large New York City bank to banks in the shiekdom of Dubai, a reputed gold-smuggling center in the Middle East.

Earlier hearings saw several senior Army sergeants invoke the 5th Amendment to avoid answering senators' questions about their activities.

The questions then concerned alleged thefts from slot machines, acceptance of kickbacks from businessmen dealing with service clubs in Germany and South Vietnam and the sergeants' creation of a sales firm, allegedly to sell products to clubs they ran.

1,100 Americans In Jail Abroad

By VERN HAUGLAND

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says 1,100 Americans are in jail abroad, more than 700 of them on drug charges, and there is little that can be done for them.

When a U.S. citizen is picked up by police in a foreign country, the consul visits him in jail, helps him obtain a lawyer and communicate with his family, may attend the trial and tries to insure fair treatment, said Barbara M. Watson, administrator of the Bureau of Security and Consular Affairs.

"This does not mean fair treatment by American due-process standards, but rather by a somewhat vague standard of accepted international practice," she told the International Aviation Club Tuesday.

"Many Americans seem to believe that because they are Americans they should be immune from arrest when they violate a foreign law, particularly when there is no similar law in this country," Miss Watson said.

"They are often surprised to learn that very likely they will not be entitled to a trial by jury, or to confront witnesses against them or to exercise various other rights that are basic under our legal system.

"The American who runs afoul of the law while abroad may well find himself detained for many months without bail while his case is being investigated and before formal charges are lodged.

"On the other hand, once the investigation is completed he may well find that his trial is much too speedy for his taste.

"He may have only a few days to prepare his defense. His trial will rarely last more than one day, and any appeal he takes will probably be decided within the week."

Miss Watson said Americans generally receive equal or better treatment in foreign courts than the nationals of that country or other aliens.

Often they receive lighter sentences and better jail accommodations, she said.

In Turkey, however, possession of a pipeful of hashish can bring a minimum of three years imprisonment, she said. Other countries also have started cracking down hard on drug offenses.

"We have tried in many ways to warn Americans going abroad that, rather than a narcotic nirvana, several years in an ancient and crowded prison may await them," she said.

Anti-War Show At Ft. Bragg Planned

NEW YORK (AP) — A group of actors and entertainers led by Jane Fonda has announced plans to stage an antiwar show at 20 military bases across the country, including Ft. Bragg, N.C.

Miss Fonda, in announcing the plans Tuesday, said a script of the show has been sent to the commanding officer at Ft. Bragg, where the group hopes to appear March 13-14.

The actress said if the Army refuses to allow the show at the base, it will be presented on the same dates at the Haymarket Square Coffee House in Fayetteville, N.C.

A spokesman for the coffee house, who declined to be identified, expressed belief that the Army would not allow the show to be staged at Ft. Bragg. The spokesman said civilian antiwar activists from across the state would be invited to the show.

Miss Fonda said the cast would include such stars as Elliot Gould and comedian Dick Gregory. She said the show would display a "different view of the war" from that offered by Bob Hope's USO shows.

Miss Fonda described Hope as a "superhawk" with a "corner on the market of entertainers speaking to soldiers."

She added, "The majority of soldiers are opposed to the war. We want to make them aware that there are people on the outside who know and understand what they are doing."

She said the show "is not an inflammatory, far-left show." She also said the Army will be asked to help meet expenses, although the entertainers expect no fee for performing.

To Sue For $1 Million

MIAMI (AP) — The preacher father of a youth slain in the Dade County jail on the day he was scheduled to be released plans to sue the county for $1 million, says the Miami News.

Legal notice of the action was given by attorney Edward Cowart on behalf of the Rev. Calvin Cook, father of 17-year-old Cloyce Bradley Cook, the newspaper reported Tuesday.

The son, a runaway from his Piedmont, S. C., home, was being held on a car theft charge when he was strangled Jan. 26 in an overcrowded cell he shared with 18 other prisoners.

A cellmate, Johnnie Lee Jones, 19, has been charged with first degree murder. Charges against another were dropped.

The Rev. Mr. Cook, minister of the Church of God in Piedmont, had come to Miami after being informed by court officials that his son would be released in his custody at a hearing scheduled for later on the day the youth was killed.

The owner of the car which the youngster was charged with stealing had agreed not to press charges.

Billy Graham Is Invited

RALEIGH (AP) — The General Assembly Tuesday passed companion resolutions inviting evangelist Billy Graham to address a joint session of the legislature Thursday at 11 a.m.

Graham, who has been at his Montreat, N.C., home since undergoing minor surgery over the weekend, is scheduled to be in Raleigh to attend the governor's prayer breakfast at the Sir Walter Hotel at 8 a.m. Thursday.

In Monday night action, a bill introduced into the state Senate by Sen. Charles Deane, D-Richmond, would require the Highway Commission to remove all signs giving notice of right-of-way boundaries from North Carolina highways and prohibit the department from erecting any more such signs. Deane said his bill had the support of Highway Commissioner Launch Faircloth.
