Two Dead, 60 Injured In N.C. Tornadoes

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — Two tornadoes that slashed into the Fayetteville area at dusk Monday have left two persons dead, about 60 injured and hundreds of homes wrecked.

One twister churned through a one square-mile area of the city and the other hit about 15 miles away in a rural area of Cumberland and Sampson counties.

Residents of the areas and governmental officials today got their first daylight look at the destruction. It was a picture largely of twisted lumber, mud, scattered bricks and broken glass.

Power lines lay across streets and yards. Electricity was out in 10 per cent of Fayetteville's homes. But officials said power from the city-owned plant should be restored to the livable homes today.

Some houses were in shambles. Roofs and walls were taken off others, leaving their contents exposed to the heavy rains that continued until midnight.

Giant trees fell on houses and cars. The twister had picked up several cars in the parking lot of a Veterans Administration hospital and slammed them down bottomside up.

Trees and limbs blocked streets.

The wind was so strong it drove bits of planks through roofs and awnings. Some splinters stuck up in roofs like giant swords.

Damage was estimated at millions of dollars.

City Manager Guy Smith said local Civil Defense officials would meet today with state Civil Defense representatives to try to make an accurate estimate of damage for use in applying for federal emergency loan funds to help property owners rebuild.

Police Chief L. F. Worrell said at least 100 houses within the city were destroyed and about 200 others were damaged. He said most were in the $20,000 to $25,000 range.

Mrs. L. A. Young, who lives near the veterans' hospital, said she was lying in bed when the twister struck and trees fell on the rear of her house. She ran to a window and looked across a street where she saw a cafe destroyed. Mrs. Young said she became hysterical but her teenaged daughter, the only other member of her family who was home, kept her from running out of the house and possibly being injured.

"It sounded just like a freight train and the house was shaking like an earthqquake," Mrs. Young said. "It was horrible, the worst thing I've ever seen.

The Fayetteville City Council met in emergency session early today and invoked the 1969 federal Omnibus Safe Streets and Crime Control Act to prohibit all except persons with valid reasons from entering the disaster area.

About 60 volunteer soldiers from the 82nd Airborne Division at Ft. Bragg and airmen from Pope Air Force Base were on guard in the city. They were directing traffic and using giant searchlights to guard against looting.

There were scattered reports of looting from some damaged groceries and other businesses.

The military bases are on the opposite side of Fayetteville and were not affected.

The huge Veterans Administration Hospital in Fayetteville reported minor damage but no injuries to patients.

An orphanage at the small community of Falcon, about 10 miles north of the city on Interstate 95, reported injuries to several children. None was believed to be seriously hurt, but the children were taken to a hospital in Dunn, 24 miles from Fayetteville.

The injured were treated at two Fayetteville hospitals, Womack Army hospital at Ft. Bragg and at Dunn and Clinton. Cape Fear Valley Hospital administrator Carl Strayhorn said 18 persons were admitted to his facility.

The two fatalities were reported at Cape Fear Valley. Strayhorn identified them as Mrs. Margaret Davis, age unknown, and her daughter, Mrs. Wilma Ray, about 40. He said Mrs. Ray was dead when she arrived and Mrs. Davis died of injuries while being treated.

They apparently had been in a house that was destroyed by the twisters.

The Tornadoes smashed a middle class residential area near the VA hospital and another section near Fayetteville State University a mile away. Shortly afterward, reports came in of damage near Wade in the northern edge of the county. The tornadoes hit about 5:30 p.m.

A tornado warning had been in effect for North Carolina all day and into the night. Only one other sighting made later Monday night, and that funnel apparently did not hit the ground. It was reported at Rocky Mount, about 75 miles

Area Damage From Stormy Night

By BLANCHE HARDEE

Last night's wind and heavy rain apparently caused little damage in the Greenville area, although damage resulted to an area west of Fountain where a number of farm buildings and houses were destroyed by high winds.

According to the Greenville Utilities Commission weather station, 2.87 inches of rain fell over the Greenville area.

That rain swelled local streams, causing water to rise over several city streets.

According to City Manager Harry Hagerty, most of the local flooding was caused by water spilling from the banks of Greene Mill Run. He reported the water level was back to normal this morning except for the Mill Run area.

Hagerty said this morning he had heard of no wind damage in the Greenville area.

Water rose over Charles Street at the Norfolk - Southern Railroad overpass, over 14th Street just west of the Greene Mill Run bridge and across Deck Street at its intersection with Evans Street.

Water also crossed Dickinson Avenue at the Norfolk - Southern Railroad overpass but had cleared by early morning.

Winds during the night in the Greenville area reached gusts up to and above 60 miles per hour, but apparently caused no major damage.

Spokesmen for Greenville Utilities Commission and Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Co. reported no damage resulted to their facilities in the Greenville area.

Winds in the Fountain area reportedly caused heavy damage — mostly in Edgecombe and Wilson Counties — to a number of houses, barns and utilities lines, early last night.

Four houses, seven pack barns, five tobacco barns and a number of shelters were reported extensively damaged on the Mark Owens farm west of Fountain.

Mrs. Cary Edwards, who lives in one of the houses on the Owens farm, said three of her five children were at home with her uncle during the storm. The children said the winds sounded like a train or loud airplane.

Damage to the Owens property, located in Edgecombe County, was estimated at about $50,000.

In Wilson County, an estimated $10,000 to $15,000 damage resulted to buildings on the S. L. Langley farm. Winds there damaged a shelter, a two - story packhouse and some tobacco barns.

Other houses in the area suffered roof damage.

A number of trees were blown down and utilities and telephone lines were downed in the area.

The high temperature for Monday, according to the utilities weather station, was 74 degrees while the low was 51 degrees. The temperature this morning at eight o'clock was 51 degrees.

WHATS LEFT . . . The foundations of tobacco barns and parts of their roofs lie in the path of the storm of last night. Parts of the roofs are shown wrapped around a tree in the right of the photo. The Edwards home. in the background, suffered heavy damages when the roof of the dwelling was completely blown off except for a small portion over the front bedroom where three children and their uncle took refuge. No One Injured In Derailment

POLKTON, N.C. (AP) — About a dozen cars of a Seaboard Coast Line freight train deailed early today near the Anson County town of Polkton. There were no injuries to the crew.

One of the derailed cars was carrying a load of new automobiles that were heavily damaged.

Work crews from Hamlet were sent to the scene to remove the wreckage and repair the twisted rails. Traffic was expected to be resumed late this afternoon.

The cause of the derailment was not determined immediately.

Two Varieties Not Available

RALEIGH (AP) — Commissioner of Agriculture Jim Graham said today two tobacco varieties on which price support discounts have been lifted will not be available for planting in North Carolina this year.

Graham stated that the two varieties, Coker 316 and Coker 139, are not recorded and are not eligible for legal sale in North Carolina.

Bail Bill 'Flurry'

RALEIGH (AP) — A bill that would deny bail to a person accused of a second felony while out on bail from a first felony prompted a flurry of questions from the House Judiciary 1 Committee today.

Finally, on motion of Rep. Jim Johnson, R-Cabarrus, the measure was shunted off to a subcommittee for "some techniial changes and a looking over."

"Isn't the idea of this punishment before a man has been convicted of anything?" asked Rep. Bobby Rogers, D-Vance, of the measures sponsors, Reps. Peter Foley and Craig Lawing, D-Mecklenburg.

Then Rep. John Ingram, D-Randolph, asked, "Isn't this the thing Sen. (Sam) Ervin has been proposing in the District of Columbia? He has said the way to prevent accaused felons from walking the streets is to give them speedy trials?"

Lawing told the committee he was not particularly concerned because accused felons would — under the bill —be locked up when they were accused of a second felony.

"They ought to be locked up," he said.

Rep. R. C. Sales, D-Columbus, suggested that Lawing and Foley seek a local bill that would apply only to Mecklenburg County.

"It seems to me you are imposing a bad bill statewide just to take care of a local situation," he said.

Israel Drawing Up New Borders For Peace Plan

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Israeli government has created three committees to draw up territorial terms and new borders it would accept in a Middle East peace agreement, informed sources report. But Egypt has told the Big Four again that peace is impossible unless Israel withdraws from all the land it captured in 1967.

Premier Golda Meir's Cabinet declared Sunday that Israel would never return to the boundaries existing before the June 1967 war but said it is willing to negotiate new "secure and agreed" territorial lines.

Mahmoud Riad, Egypt's foreign minister Monday called in Donald C. Bergus, chief U.S. diplomat in Cairo, and the ambassadors of Britain, France and the Soviet Union. A ministry spokesman said he told them the Israeli refusal constitutes "a challenge to the U.N. charter, the Big Four powers and world public opinion."

"Peace can not be established in the area without Israel's total withdrawal from the entire Arab lands occupied in June 1967," Riad declared. He called on the four governments to "face this new Israeli challenge and take up their responsibilities toward peace," the spokesman said.

The sources in Jerusalem said one border mapping committee is headed by a senior army officer, another by key government officials and the third is made up of experts on international law. They were formed last month after Israel returned to indirect peace negotiations with Jordan and Egypt under U.N. envoy Gunnar V. Jarring, the sources said.

Each committee is working on a specific aspect of peacetime borders, they said.

The army group is drawing up the over-all plan using principles devised by Defense Minister Moshe Dayan that include retention of the Gaza Strip in Egypt and the Golan Heights in Syria.

The committee of government ministers is working on a plan to keep Jerusalem united under Israeli rule, including the Arab sector taken from Jordan in the six-day war. Jordan would have sovereignty over Moslem shrines in the city, possibly as leased enclaves.

The third group is studying treaties and armistices.

Bloodmobile At Bethel Thursday

Pitt County's American Red Cross Bloodmobile is making its one and only visit to the northern reaches of the county when it will be in Bethel on Thursday.

Douglas Morgan, chairman of the Bloodmobile, says the unit will be at the Rotary Building in Bethel from 11:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. Thursday.

This visit will be under the auspices of the Bethel Volunteer Fire Department. Hilton Tetterton and J. R. Bunting are co-chairmen. They will be assisted by members of various women's clubs, who will be taking care of refreshments and other arrangements.

"We are hoping the Bethel collection will yield good results," Morgan commented. He noted that an outstanding momentum in blood donations has been established in the past few months and said he was hopeful this trend would continue.

Morgan mentioned a recent report received from the Norfolk headquarters. "For the month of December, Pitt County went more than 200 percent over its quota," Morgan said, adding that that was the month two collections, one at DuPont and another at the Moose Lodge in Greenville, had resulted in an unusually generous public response.

Chemical Plant Blast Kills Two

CHARLESTON (AP)—Two workers were killed today in a pre-dawn explosion at the Verona Chemical Co. plant near Charleston.

Plant Manager Paul Michaels said he would issue a report later on the accident.

He did not identify the men or say whether there were any others injured.

New York City Going To Court Over Welfare

NEW YORK (AP) — Hoping to check burgeoning welfare costs, the city will go to court Wednesday to challenge the constitutionality of federal and state welfare laws.

A City Hall spokesman said the move would be an attempt to force the federal and state governments to stop compelling the city to pay 29 per cent of its welfare costs.

"Basically," Corporation Counsel J. Lee Rankin said Monday, "we are charging discrimination against the city of New York since we are mandated to provide 29 per cent of local welfare funds when they neither ask us to approve programs or give us a chance to approve them."

Mayor John V. Lindsay has long urged a federal takeover of all local welfare costs, which in the coming fiscal year in New York is budgeted at $2.2 billion. It is currently $1.9 billion.

North Vietnam Antiaircraft Bases Hit In Series Of Bombings

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command today announced its heaviest air strikes in North Vietnam in three months, South Vietnam's top fighting general was killed in a helicopter crash, and for the sixth day no progress was reported in the South Vietnamese drive in southern Laos.

Fifty American fighter-bombers raided surface-to-air missile —SAM—sites and other antiaircraft positions in North Vietnam Saturday and Sunday, accompanied by about 20 support aircraft, the command said. It added that no planes were lost. They were the heaviest such raids since Nov. 21.

Other sources said the raiders also attacked supply depots.

A communique said the American planes hit targets near the Laotian border and "below the 19th parallel," or somewhere along a stretch of border that runs for about 190 miles northwest of the demilitarized zone and ends about 160 miles southwest of Hanoi.

The U.S. Command said the "protective reaction" strikes were ordered after "repeated hostile acts and recent SAM firings by antiaircraft positions against U.S. aircraft involved in interdiction of North Vietnamese supplies along the Ho Chi Minh trail in Laos."

A spokesman said he did not know what damage the planes did.

The raids began three days after President Nixon warned that he would place no limitation on the use of American air power in Indochina. There have been 14 previous "protective reaction" strikes against North Vietnamese SAM sites this year, but all were by one or two planes escorting B52 bombers or reconnaissance planes.

All 14 of those raids were made in response to radar indications that the SAM sites were about to fire on U.S. planes, announcements each time said. The U.S. Command made no such claim for the weekend raids, but the attacks did not represent any broadening of the U.S. policy of protective reaction.

Last year the Nixon administration expanded this policy to include attacks against supply buildups inside North Vietnam as well as antiaircraft defenses, and in the raids last Nov. 21 about 250 American planes attacked North Vietnamese SAM sites, antiaircraft artillery, supply trucks and depots south of the 19th parallel.

The general killed was Lt. Gen. Do Cao Tri, commander of the 25,000-man South Vietnamese drive against enemy base camps in eastern Cambodia and a confident, aggressive leader. His death was considered a temporary setback to the Vietnamization program.

The government named Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Minh to succeed Tri as commander of the 3rd Military Region and the operation in Cambodia. Minh is the commander of the capital military district—Saigon and the surrounding area—and will retain this command.

Tri's helicopter caught fire and crashed shortly after he took off from his headquarters at Tay Ninh to visit his troops in Cambodia. Nine men were fatally injured with the 42-year-old general, including a veteran French correspondent for Newsweek magazine, Francois Sully, 42.

It was believed a fuel leak caused the fire.

U.S. Stakes In Laos Grow With Red Counterblows

ARRAIGNED IN DRAFT BOARD BURNING — Vincent Paragalli (left), police chief of Bristol Borough, Pa., leaves Federal Building in Philadelphia with stepsons Emilio Caucci, 17, (center), and Douglas Caucci, 20, after the youths were arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Edward Furia in connection with the Feb. 15 burning of a Bristol draft board. WASHINGTON (AP) — Although the White House is talking down the point so far, violent North Vietnamese counter attacks are transforming the South Vietnamese invasion of southern Laos into a crucial test of President Nixon's strategy of U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam.

Informed officials concede the stakes are becoming higher than they would have been if the Laos operation had paralleled that in Cambodia last spring when the fighting was relatively light.

A major success for South Vietnamese and U.S. forces—the first on the ground and the other in the air—would almost certainly make it possible for President Nixon to speed up the removal of American troops, officials indicate.

A major failure in the strike against the Ho Chi Minh Trail complex, however, would raise serious questions about the next stage of the withdrawal program, scheduled for May, since the whole disengagement process is based on the ability of the South Vietnamese army to defend its country.

State and Defense Department authorities both put out the administration line Monday that, while disappointed over the heavy losses suffered by the South Vietnamese in one engagement, the action is not regarded as a set back in the over-all attack against the North Vietnamese supply lines and base areas.

Spokesmen, who would not be identified nor quoted directly, indicated South Vietnamese combat ability was being tested, but implied nothing was likely to happen to affect the President's withdrawal strategy.

Other officials, however, are by no means so confident. The South Vietnamese ground- force thrust was regarded as a risky action from the beginning, depending on how the North Vietnamese reacted. Counter attacks in the last week have persuaded knowledgeable officials Hanoi decided to react with considerable power.

In the most dramatic action so far, a South Vietnamese Ranger battalion was driven from a hill position, with about 300 of the 450 men in the unit killed or wounded.

Field dispatches said, furthermore, the drive into Laos has been stalled by counter strikes for five straight days.

However, some of the best informed officials here challenged a field dispatch that the North Vietnamese have increased the number of vehicles operating on the Ho Chi Minh Trail from 1,000 to 2,000.

There is no basis for estimating any such increase in truck volume, these sources said.

The North Vietnamese attacks were not unexpected, although the experience in Cambodia last spring suggested the outside possibility Hanoi might again choose to sacrifice some of their Laotian base areas to avoid heavy combat losses.

On the other hand, the threatened bases and trails in Laos are more vital to the North Vietnamese because of their losses in Cambodia. Moreover the whole Vietnamization program is entering a crucial phase and Hanoi knows it.

No high official has been willing to speculate on the record about what the results of the attack would be if it were turned back without achieving its objective of cutting the supply trails and destroying area bases.

Nor has there been discussion of the allied cost should the South Vietnamese task force suffer extremely heavy casualties in the process, which privately authorities concede is always a risk in warfare.

The one point on which U.S. officials are in agreement in public statements and private discussion is that U.S. ground forces will not become involved.

Even on this issue President Nixon could face extremely difficult choices should the fighting go sharply against the South Vietnamese.

Federal Relief Officials Pour Into Stricken Mississippi Area

By MIKE HARMON

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Federal relief officials poured into the Mississippi Delta today where dozens of tornadoes left 82 dead, hundreds injured, and 2,350 homeless.

A "major disaster" designation by President Nixon cleared the way for massive federal assistance to the area, including grants for repairs to public facilities, shipments of mobile homes to house the homeless and low-cost business and home loans.

Gov. John Bell Williams planned a meeting in Jackson today with Gen. George Lincoln, director of the U.S. Office of Emergency Preparedness, to coordinate the relief effort.

Officials said up to 100 tornadoes skipped across seven counties Sunday night, causing an estimated $7.5 million in damages.

The tornadoes took 77 lives in Mississippi and five across the Mississippi River in Delhi, La.

One tornado virtually destroyed Inverness, a community of 1,100 in Sunflower County, 90 miles north of Jackson.

Officials said it was amazing the death toll was not higher.

"I've never seen a storm—a low pressure system—last that long," said Bill Kellum, Leflore County Civil Defense director.

"Usually after 30 minutes the winds will shift to the north and the storm will be over, but this thing just kept on and on and on for four hours."

Red Cross officials said food, medical supplies and clothing were pouring into the area.

About 315 National Guardsmen from Greenville, Senatobia and Greenwood were ordered to duty to help in search and rescue efforts and to provide security.

A curfew from 8 p.m. to dawn was declared in Inverness and Moorhead. Officials were afraid storm victims would collect contaminated food and drugs from wrecked homes and businesses.

Many of the homeless, separated from their families in the wake of the storm, walked stunned through the debris.

"People are so confused," said an Inverness resident. "They don't know where their family members are, they don't know where their neighbors are, they don't even know who is dead."

Suspend 'Routine' Nat'l Alert Tests

NEW YORK (AP) — The Associated Press and United Press International have suspended transmission of routine tests of the national emergency broadcast warning system until safeguards are devised against false alerts.

Last Saturday a false alert went out over the AP and UPI wires to radio and television stations and stood for 18 minutes before the National Emergency Warning Center at Colorado Springs, Colo., corrected the mistake.

The two news services told the Federal Communications Commission Monday they would suspend transmission of the regular Saturday morning test message until a telephone link is provided for verification of alerts.

Scores of stations followed the alert procedure Saturday and went off the air, but others ignored the message which went out because a worker in Colorado used the wrong tape in making the test.

The FCC recently asked AP and UPI for permission to take over the broadcast wires of the two services for tests on a random time schedule. The news services rejected the proposal and said the tests would be confined to Saturday morning.

Says Blizzard Is George's Revenge

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — An Omaha woman had an explanation for a blizzard that crippled southeast Nebraska on Monday.

She said "George just isn't going to stand for this" the congressioal shift in the holiday for George Washington's birthday from Feb. 22—Monday — to Feb. 15.

The woman called the blizzard "George's revenge."

No Alimony For Bess Myerson

NEW YORK (AP) — City Consumer Affairs Commissioner Bess Myerson Grant has lost a bid for $3,500 monthly temporary alimony from her estranged husband, lawyer Arnold W. Grant.

Mrs. Grant, Miss America of 1945, is suing for a separation, and Grant is countersuing for a separation or a divorce. The grounds for the actions have not been revealed.

Pending court disposition of the Grants' marital dispute, state Supreme Court Justice Margaret M. J. Mangan denied Mrs. Grant's alimony petition Monday. Justice Mangan agreed with Grant's contention that Mrs. Grant, whose salary is $35,000 a year, does not need the money.

Ask Resignation Of Police Chief

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — A group of white citizens has asked for the resignation of Police Chief H. W. Williamson because of his handling of recent racial disturbances.

A petition presented to the City Council Monday said that police arrested armed white persons during the disturbances, but did not arrest Negroes.

Sponsors said more than 3,000 names were on the petition, A number of other citizens at the meeting defended Williamson.

Seeks Publicize 'New Campaign'

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy is fasting—taking only water and unsweetened tea—to draw attention to a new campaign to be announced soon by his Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Abernathy, the SCLC president, told a news conference Monday he has fasted since last Thursday and would continue through Friday.

He said details of the campaign, what he called "a spring offensive," will be announced at a news conference in Washington later this week. He had said earlier that SCLC plans another "poor people's march" on the capital.

Abernathy said the campaign will be a "drive against repression in this country." Demands will include welfare reform and more employment for young Negroes.

Bank Acquires Convention Site

AUGUSTA, Ca. (AP) — The Citizens and Southern National Bank of South Carolina has purchased the Augusta Townhouse convention motel here for $650,000.

Dean Booth, Atlanta attorney who represented C&S during the negotiations, said the motel will be "refurnished and operating by March 1 in time for the Masters (golf) Tournament."

The 280-room motel was closed after the Barringer Corp, which operated it filed for bankruptcy protection Jan. 18.

Permit Issued For Commercial Building Project

A building permit for a combination building to house a supermarket and a variety store has been issued for a site at 1102 North Greene Street.

According to Building Inspector J. W. Wilson, the permit has been issued to Sam Price and David Roberson, for a building estimated to cost $90,000 to construct.

Wilson said plans called for the building to face North Greene and that it would cover about three quarters of the block between North Greene and North Pitt. He noted ample parking lot space was included in the plans.

Shakespeare Is Well Down List

LONDON (AP) — D.H. Lawrence, author of such books as "Lady Chatterly's Lover" and "Women in Love," is the favorite writer of university-bound pupils in Britain, says two lecturers.

The 1,000 16-to-18-year-old high school pupils ranked the exploits of Ian Fleming's spy hero James Bond a close second for reading material, said Dr. Geoffrey Yarlott and William Harpin.

Shakespeare, Chaucer and Dickens were poor also-rans.

The findings were published in the magazine Educational Research.

Little Hope For Curbing Filibusters

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate reformers held little hope today for their second try to end the two and a half week filibuster by defenders of the right to filibuster.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said one and possibly two more efforts will be made to gain the two-thirds vote necessary to stop the talkathon and force action on a change in rules.

A Senate majority of 51 Democrats and Republicans, with White House backing, favors a rules change that would fix three-fifths, rather than two-thirds, as the vote required to limit debate.

The first vote to cut off debate last Thursday was 48 to 37, nine short of the required two-thirds.

"I would imagine the vote would be about the same as last time," said Mansfield before today's vote.

But a vote counter for Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, one of the chief sponsors of the filibuster rules change, had said he hoped the vote for cloture would edge upward to at least 53.

The effort now is to grind away at the filibustering forces with successive votes on cloture, a sequence in which promoters of the change hope to steadily gain strength.

"I think we're going to pick up five or six votes, but obviously that's still going to be short" said Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, the Republican whip.

Lecturing On Government

A series of lectures on various aspects of municipal government is being presented at East Carolina University by visiting speakers before classes in municipal government taught by Dr. Kathleen Stokes of the Political Science Department.

Larry Holt of the Greenville Redevelopment Commission began the series of talks February 15 with a discussion of "Urban Renewal and the Local Community." Holt demonstrated the need to end city blight and to revitalize the central business district of Greenville.

Lloyd J. Engelhardt, Executive Director of the Farmville Economic Council, spoke February 17 on "The Council-Manager Plan." He gave a general description of the plan and discussed the possibility of the adoption of the plan by the city of Farmville.

David E. Reid, Jr., Greenville City Attorney, appeared February 19 in a talk on "The Role of the City Attorney in Municipal Government." He discussed the nature of a municipal corporation and demonstrated the need for a city attorney due to the subordinate legal status of cities.

Mrs. J. B. Spilman of Greenville spoke yesterday on the subject, "State-Local Relations."

Miss Phyllis Tripp Weds In Ceremony On Monday

FARMVILLE — Miss Phyllis Tripp became the bride of James Gregory Bumgarner Monday at 7:30 p.m. in a ceremony performed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Stephenson.

The Rev. Wayne King of Pink Hill officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Wayne King, cousin of the bride, was soloist and sang "Seal Us, Holy Spirit" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The ceremony was candlelight and only immediate family members were present.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Letha Tripp of Farmville and Mr. Brownie Tripp of Greenville and Mr. and Mrs. James Gregory Bumgarner of Monroe.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a portrait A-line gown of silk appliqued with daisies and seeded pearls. The gown was accented with lace around the neckline and sleeves.

She wore a chapel length silk illusion veil with a bubble bouffant veil headpiece. She carried a lace - covered prayerbook with a nosegay.

Mrs. Pat Kohler of Kinston, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a leaf green dacron voille dress with a Nehru neckline, empire waist and long bishop sleeves which were accented with white Venise lace. Her headpiece was a Dior bow with matching illusion.

Wiley Tripp of Farmville was best man. Mickey Tripp of Farmville, brother of the bride, was usher.

The bride is a graduate of Farmville High School and attended Pitt Technical Institute. She is employed by Stephenson Cleaners, Farmville.

The bridegroom attended South Meckenburg High School and served in the United States Army in the 82nd Airborne Division. He is employed by McBurnery Stokes and Equipment Co., Inc. of Atlanta, Ga.

Following a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside in Farmville.

Reception

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride.

The bridal couple cut the traditional slice of wedding cake, which was served by Mrs. Joan Hines, aunt of the bride. Punch was poured by Mrs. Nancy Tyson, grandmother of the bride.

MRS. JAMES GREGORY BUMGARNER

The bride's table was covered with a white satin cloth and centered with the wedding cake.

The Bumgarner - Tripp wedding party was honored at a rehearsal dinner on Saturday night at King's Restaurant, Kinston, by relatives of the bride.

PLEASANT LUNCH

Deviled Eggs and Asparagus on Crisp Toast with Cheese Sauce
Apricot Nut Bars Beverage

APRICOT NUT BARS

Tasters who favor apricots especially appreciate these cookies.

1 cup sifted cake flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup (½ of a quarter-pound stick) butter
1 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1 large egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1-3rd cup snipped soft dried apricots
1-3rd cup chopped (medium fine) walnuts

On wax paper sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. In a medium mixing bowl cream butter and sugar; beat in egg and vanilla. Stir in dry ingredients, then apricots and nuts.

Turn into a buttered 8 by 8 by 2 inch cake pan and bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean—about 23 minutes. Cool and cut in bars.

Marriage Counselor Advises Play Games

ZURICH, Switzerland (WNS) — Dr. Louisa Best, the marriage counselor, advised housewives lunching at the Monday Club to play jacks or hop scotch with their husbands for 20 minutes after they come home from work. "Men need childlike relaxation after a tense day at the office," she explained. "If you're too busy cooking dinner to play with your mate, let him blow bubbles."

Queen's Real Wealth Is A Closely Guarded Secret

By GILLIAN FRANKS
Copyright, 1971
Women's News Service

LONDON — All her life, the Queen has been shielded from money, and what it can buy.

She signs no checks — they would be snapped up by collectors — and she is perhaps the only woman in the world who is unable to jungle a few coins in her purse when she goes shopping.

She has little idea of the current prices of household commodities; she has never, of course, pushed a shopping cart around a supermarket, like Princess Margaret and the Duchess of Kent do, and it is no secret that she envies them such excursions.

When the Queen does go to the shops, it is once a month to two of London's largest department stores, arriving at the back door half an hour before they open to the public and walking around with the manager.

The stores' staffs have been given strict instructions to pretend the Queen is not in the shop, and not to disclose to anyone what she decides to buy.

Still Secret

Indeed, secrecy is the key ingredient of the royal finances. Not even the British Parliament knows how much money the Queen has and what she does with it — apart from her $1,140,000 a year allowance from the state.

Prince Philip has said that the Royal Family needs more money — that after 18 years on the same allowance, it is impossible to cut any more corners.

Even that cautious financial authority, "The Economist," has said that the monarchy's needs must be reassessed.

But it added: "Perhaps the ensuing debate would be better informed if the size of the Sovereign's tax-free private fortunes were known."

When the Queen's financial plight was first discussed in Parliament in November 1969, several MPs remarked that if the Royal Family was a "firm" — as King George VI described it — then it was about time the nation saw the balance sheet.

Not Published

In fact that balance sheet is perhaps the closest guarded royal secret. The latest estimate of the Queen's private fortune, made by the Bow Group of radical Conservatives, puts it at $144 million — and this, they say, is an "astonishingly modest estimate."

Royal wills might have given a clue to past tax-free inheritances. But royal wills are never published.

A good idea of the monarch's personal fortune could be gained from details of death duties paid. But monarchs don't pay death duties.

A Buckingham Palace spokesman said he could not "hazard a guess at Her Majesty's private income." The Inland Revenue was equally inscrutable. "Tax paid on private income," said an official, "is a matter for the Queen . . ."

The Queen is not obliged to pay customs duties, but in 1901 Edward VII decided to do so, and other monarchs have continued the practice, although no duty is paid on official gifts given to members of the royal family during tours abroad.

Stocks And Shares

Whether the Queen's private income will come under the scrutiny on the Select Committee, to be set up some time in the life of the present British Parliament to study the royal finances, is a matter of conjecture.

It is known that a considerable amount of the Queen's personal money — several million at least — is invested in stocks and shares and real estate.

This is administered by her advisers — a committee of leading financiers, and representatives of her bankers, Coutts and Co. — who meet at least once a month in a suite of offices overlooking Buckingham Palace.

The Queen herself, while intensely concerned in maintaining the value of royal investments, is not particularly interested in money for its own sake.

Indeed, her lack of experience in handling cash has on several occasions caused her some embarrassment.

No Work

Once, for instance, when she ran a stall in aid of church funds at Balmoral, simple transactions, such as giving change from a pound note for a seven-shilling article, seemed to confuse her, and she had to call on a lady-in-waiting for help.

She never sees a penny of the state allowance — totalling over $1,440,000 a year, with the revenue from the Duchy of Lancaster. All day-to-day transactions are handled by Lord Tryon, Keeper of the Privy Purse.

Where this money — provided by the state — goes, is also a secret to a great extent. Periodic economy campaigns have weeded out a lot of the sinecures which once abounded in the royal household, but there are still thought to be at least 100 jobs which carry salaries, albeit small ones, but no work.

It's a long time, for instance, since the Constable of the Royal Palaces was called upon to earn his yearly fee for "searching the royal bedchamber and during the months from November to March warming the Monarch's bed by lying therein before the monarch retires."

Nor is there much work for the Master of the Bounties, whose one duty is to administer a charity instituted by Queen Victoria under which money was paid to the parents of triplets. The present Queen discontinued the practice in 1957.

More To Spend

"We are not able to give precise details of duties carried out by the Queen's servants, or what they earn," says Buckingham Palace. "This is a domestic matter."

What is known is that the present Queen is by no means the first monarch to have difficulty in making ends meet. The royal budget never balanced in the last few years of her father's reign.

In 1951, for instance, there was a deficit of over $96,000.

This was met partly from the Privy Purse, and partly from the King's private funds.

But in fact previous monarchs had more to spend than the present one does. The Civil List of George VI, not including the Supplementary Provision, was $984,000; George V's was $1,128,000, again not including the Supplementary Provision.

And in those days money was worth far more than it is now.

Investigating the royal revenues can be a strange and often surrealistic business.

There is no doubt that the Queen's finances could be greatly improved if tradition allowed her to charge a realistic rent for some of the imposing houses she owns.

For instance, the Duke of Argyll holds Dunoon Castle in exchange for one red rose a year . . . Blenheim Palace costs the Duke of Marlborough a silk flag . . . and Statfield Saye is rented to the Duke of Wellington in return for a yearly fleur-de-lys . . .

These may look very nice in the Guard Chamber at Windsor. But they don't do much to bolster up the sagging royal finances. . . .

No Harsh Bleachers, Today

Science has evolved a long way in the hair - coloring field. Subtle, natural hues with little margin for error have been developed through millions of dollars of research. Today, harsh, damaging, and painful bleachers are a part of the past.

About two decades ago, the average salon offered a choice of just three basic colors to daring women. Today, believe it or not, there are enough shades for a girl to change her hair every day of the year!

Ever wonder what your best hair color is? Here's a tip: Try a hair color one or two shades lighter than the natural color of your hair. This is flattering to people of all ages.

Maybe A Bluff And Maybe Not

The president's hint of wage and price controls may be a political bluff as one union officials calls it. However, it may also be an idea that will gain momentum, not because anyone truly wants it but because it may become absolutely necessary to keep the country's economy from disintegrating in the inflationary spiral.

S. Frank Raftery, president of the Painters' Union, said that he feels the president is using the hint to cause unions to voluntarily impose their own controls "and that just isn't going to happen."

Union leaders were called to the White House last month and given 30 days to come up with a voluntary plan for curbing rising construction industry costs.

Raftery said a White House emissary warned the construction union leaders that the president could order a wage - price freeze and this was among the alternatives being considered. The president has broad powers granted by Congress to impose wage - price controls.

Certainly some of the wage settlements granted to construction unions have been far beyond any guide lines for acceptable inflation in this country. It is not possible to cover all of the costs increases through increased productivity; thus the higher labor costs are going to show up as more inflation.

Free bargaining between labor and industry is accepted as one of the cornerstones of free enterprise. We would be hopeful that the process can be continued without government interference. However, the nation has tried tight money policies to slow down inflation and there is little evidence that the policy has worked, even though money supplies have now been loosened and interest rates are coming down.

If an unacceptable inflation rate continues, the government may have no choice but to turn to wage and price controls and it would be regrettable if it becomes necessary to take this step.

State Lags In Its Protection

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH — The largest employer in North Carolina provides no medical and disability insurance benefits for its employees.

The employer is the state itself. Although 38 other states pay all or the major share of the cost of health protection coverage for employees, North Carolina does not do so.

Legislation to remedy the lack will be introduced in the General Assembly within the next few days. It will follow recommendations of the Teachers' and State Employees' Benefits Study Commission, created by the 1969 legislature, and it will carry a price tag of nearly $19 million.

What that will buy, said Executive Director Emmett W. Burden of the North Carolina State Employees Association, is an enlightened employer philosophy for the state, a boost in morale for state workers, and a better competitive position in hiring and holding qualified personnel.

Within Our Means

"It is a realistic package and one which the state can well afford," said Burden.

Representative Claude Debruhl of Buncombe and William K. Mauney, Jr., of Cleveland served on the study commission. They are expected to have a role in behalf of implementing its recommendations.

At the present time a hodge-podge prevails in the area of health insurance for state workers, said Burden. There are group policies in force in various agencies and departments, but each differs in its provisions and in every case the premium cost falls wholly on the employees.

It is possible, Burden noted, for a worker to lose benefits in a transfer from one department to another within state government. Uniformity under one plan for all state employees, including school teachers and personnel in higher education, would give improved protection at less cost, he said.

Customary Fringe Benefit

The study commission found that hospital-medical surance is a fringe benefit common in both private and public employment. In North Carolina, its report said, an estimated 80 per cent of all private employers with ten or more on the payroll pick up all or nearly all the cost of such insurance.

Sixty per cent of the state's 61 cities of more than 5,000 population pay the entire cost of hospital-medical insurance for employees; another 29 per cent or 17 cities pay a substantial part of the insurance premium. Nine Tar Heel counties pay the entire premium, and 20 others pay a part.

The prevalence of the practice means the state is at a disadvantage in competing for qualified personnel, Burden said.

When he went before the Joint Appropriations Committee recently to present the case for money to fund the program, Burden reminded the legislators that General Electric has announced plans for a facility to employ some 700 in the Raleigh area.

"That means another raid on the ranks of state personnel," he warned. "The state just isn't in the same ballpark with these new industries which come in and begin looking around for experienced and skilled workers."

Time To Negotiate

Putting together an insurance program for state employees would take time and negotiations. The proposed legislation would allow one year for the process.

It would create a new division of employee benefits (perhaps located within the retirement system) effective next July 1. This would be the vehicle for developing specifications and giving supervision.

Funding for an actual program would not be provided until the following fiscal year.

The projected benefits would apply to all 120,000 full-time state employees, those in general government, in the public school system, and in higher education. Part-time workers would have the option of coverage at their cost. Protection for dependents would be available, again with the premium paid by the employees.

The money request for health-medical insurance is based on $10 per month for each employee, a total annual amount of $14,400,000. For disability insurance, the cost is figured at $3 per month for each employee, a total of $4,500,000.

Combined, it is an amount roughly equivalent to a 2 per cent pay hike for state employees.

It Just Might Become An 'Interesting Navy'

The New Navy may indeed make the draft obsolete, if what is going on at Miramar Naval Air Station catches on.

Meal time there has featured a rock band, seven go-go girls, fashion models and roast beef, Waldorf salad and pizza.

Morale lifting efforts began at the base with a "dial-a-gripe" service about a year ago. There have also been luncheons which feature soul foods.

It is getting to be an interesting Navy.

That Mideast Noose Awaits

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Quietly, inexorably, President Nixon is slipping the noose of an Israeli-Egyptian settlement over the neck of Prime Minister Golda Meir of Israel and her badly divided government.

That noose is bargaining pressure in the form of U.S. economic and military aid for Israel. In a courageous move to compel Israeli withdrawal from Egypt's Sinai Peninsula, President Nixon is willing to withhold economic credits and weapons from the Meir government. Indeed, her government is so worried about pressure from Washington that it suspects the Nixon administration itself was responsible for the latest peace initiative from United Nations envoy Gunnar Jarring ten days ago.

In fact, however, Jarring's initiative was hatched by Jarring himself—not in the Nixon White House. Still secret, its objective is to extract Egyptian recognition of the legal existence of Israel and the security of its border in return for Israeli withdrawal from the entire Sinai.

President Anwar Sadat of Egypt replied to Jarring Feb. 16. That communication is confidential, but Sadat's reply was generally "affirmative." That puts the ball in Mrs. Meir's court in Jerusalem, where her coalition government is split over what to do. But eventually, key Presidential advisers believe, her reply must also be affirmative.

If it is, the first real possibility of a settlement may at long last begin taking tangible form. If not, Israel must then accept an extremely harsh fact: Mr. Nixon gradually tightening the peace noose.

Moreover, recent secret U.S.-Soviet conversations at a high level have developed no friction over peace talks. That may reflect a Soviet decision, for now at least, to stop pressuring Cairo to oppose an Egyptian-Israeli settlement. That might not be entirely a matter of the Kremlin's choice. U.S. diplomats believe the Soviet Union lacks power to dictate Cairo's political decisions to the point of blocking any Mideast settlement.

Thus, the President waits today for a go-ahead from Jarring's secret proposals. If it does not arrive and he becomes convinced that the Israelis are stalling, there will be no action here on Israel's request for another $300-500 million in U.S. credits to shore up her perilous economic situation.

Deliveries of high-quality military equipment, including supersonic F-4 Phantoms, could also be stopped any time Mr. Nixon wants. With the newly enhanced possibility of a settlement generally acceptable to Cairo and regarded by Mr. Nixon as in Israel's interests, the President is prepared to take major political risks to prevent sabotage of Jarring's plan—either by American politicians or in Israel.

At home, Mr. Nixon's problem is not yet serious. Leading Democratic Presidential prospects, including Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine, have specifically informed the Administration they approve what he has done so far.

The conspicuous holdout is Sen. Henry M. (Scoop) Jackson of Washington, whose hard-line policy against the Egyptian-Soviet alliance is attracting wide political support from the American-Jewish community in his shadow Presidential campaign. Last week Jackson publicly criticized the Nixon administration for not using the open-ended arms fund that he guided through Congress last year specifically for Israel.

Strength For Today

YES, TODAY

We often continue to put off until tomorrow things which need desperately to be done today. For instance, when we see a fat man walking down the street, his abdomen protruding until he cannot look down and see his shoes, you know that he is failing to do—or perhaps putting off—something which needs desperately to be done. When the rich pastry is passed and someone reminds him of his waitline, he smiles pleasantly and says, "The waistline — tomorrow."

When the old rascal John Falstaff was dying, he cried out, "God, God!", and Mistress Quickly assured him that it was not yet time to think about such things. So whether we are John Falstaff or John Doe, we go through life putting off a lot of things which ought to be done right now — the writing of our wills, reconciliation with our enemies, making our peace with God, remembering the waistline and doing something about it. These things, we feel, can all wait. There will be plenty of time to attend to such matters later.

So we say, and some may be so foolish as to believe what they say. But death and retribution and hypertension have a way of quickly catching up with us.

Are you putting off doing something about the waistline — or anything else which needs your attention today?

MORE JACK! MORE JACK!

By JAMES KILPATRICK

Nixon Then, And Today

These are hard times for the president of the United States. The economy flaps like a wild spinnaker; he cannot get the thing tied down. He is running in a sea of cross-currents and contradictions, bailing with one arm and steering with the other. It is not the best moment, perhaps, to ask our skipper to reflect on the principles of navigation.

Yet a series of worrisome developments is causing increasing concern among Mr. Nixon's friends and supporters on the political right. We are not ready to abandon ship: Where do we swim to? But it would be pleasantly reassuring, all the same, to know where in the hell we are going.

Treasury Secretary Connally was up on the Hill last week, asking for a walloping $40 billion increase in the legal limit on the national debt. The increase will have to be granted.

No such massive increase would be required if it were not for the massive deficits in prospect. Mr. Nixon's budget message predicts a deficit for the current fiscal year of $18 billion, and a deficit for the next fiscal year of $11.6 billion, but the figures are written on sand. It is probable that the deficits — and the debt — will be much greater.

"What we need," said Mr. Nixon not so awfully long ago, "is an intelligently balanced economy." And he went on to complain — this was in New York on July 6, 1968 — that "we have not yet taken the first step toward such balance — toward regaining control over Federal deficit spending and the ever-increasing Federal debt."

This was one of the major themes of the Nixon campaign. He belabored Lyndon Johnson for failing "to cut deficit spending which is the cause of our present inflation." Budget deficits, he said, "lie at the heart of our troubles." For his own part, he renounced any "massive stepup" in Federal spending programs. "This is a prescription for further inflation," said Mr. Nixon. "I believe it is also a prescription for economic disaster."

Well, we cheered our skipper then. He was a philosopher of the free enterprise system. "There is nothing the matter with the engine of free enterprise," he said, "that cannot be corrected by placing a prudent and sober engineer at the throttle." In a major radio address on Oct. 23, 1968, he assailed the notion that wage and price controls could be limited to a few areas. "In order to control wages and prices," he said, "it would be necessary to embark on a road from which it is very hard to escape without major damage to the freedom of all."

This was sound conservative doctrine. Mr. Nixon warmed our hearts in a related field, when he took a "dim view" of any welfare plan that might be predicted

Other Editors Say Campaign Spending

(Greensboro Daily News)

The general public has the idea that campaign spending in North Carolina legislative contests is strictly minor league.

It's hard to prove that idea wrong because the state has no realistic campaign expenses reporting requirement.

Nevertheless, it seems likely that some candidates for the legislature spend more in the primary and general elections than they would draw in salary and expense allowances if elected to a two-year term. That applies particularly to urban Piedmont counties where the two-party system is strong.

The law supposed to regulate legislative campaign expense reporting is vague and lacks uniformity. Some candidates are required to send their reports to the Secretary of State; others to the clerk of court in their county, depending on whether the candidate is from a single county or multi-county district.

It is encouraging to learn that a subcommittee of the House Committee on Election Laws is attempting to do something to improve campaign expense reporting.

News reports indicate the subcommittee hopes at least to make filing uniform by requiring all candidates to submit their reports directly to the Secretary of State.

Perhaps the surest way to inject truth in campaign expense reporting would be to adopt the plan the Minnesota legislature is now considering.

Under that plan, every candidate for state office would be obliged to buy scrip from the Secretary of State and use only that scrip in payment of all campaign expenses.

The persons and businesses receiving the scrip would redeem it at face value at the Secretary of State's office.

But the Minnesota plan hasn't been tried yet and it may carry a built-in problem — it might tempt counterfeiters. Scrip is usually easier to duplicate than U.S. Treasury bills. (Guilford County had a minor problem with counterfeiters back in 1934 after its second issue of $100,000 in scrip.)

What the North Carolina General Assembly can do to help put truth in campaign spending is to amend the law to require that each candidate for the legislature and all his "campaign committees" (usually disguised money raising operations) report directly to the Secretary of State.

That would give the voters a much clearer picture of campaign spending than they are getting under the present arrangement.

Sixty Years Young

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — If you fool around with life long enough, some surprising things can happen to you. For example you can become 60 years old.

This happened to me promptly at noon Sunday while I was lying abed pondering whether man's long journey from colic to arthritis is necessary or even worthwhile.

Frankly, I was surprised that my 60th birthday, which I have long anticipated with more misgivings than gratitude, made such a small stir.

I had thought there would be a tremendous cosmic boom or the sudden arching of a rainbow over my birthplace to celebrate the occasion. At the least, surely, there would be the running up of flags, a mutter of musketry and the booming of cannon, a few public speeches and the sounding of huzzahs from a grateful citizenry.

None of these things happened. No department store even held a special sale of men's sox to mark the event.

Somewhat crestfallen, I sat up in bed and told Lady Dottie, my cat:

"Today I stand on a vast hinge of time—I am 60 years old."

Lady Dothie took the news unblinkingly.

"You don't understand, cat," I continued. "Nothing this bad has happened to mankind since I turned 40. The glad days are behind, only sad days lie ahead. I look at the horizon around me and find it rimmed in black, as if it were a letter from the Universal Funeral Director."

Lady Dottie wiped away a crocodile tear with one paw, then ran out to the refrigerator and waited to be fed.

I phoned a couple of friends, expecting them to be overwhelmed by my access to antiquity.

"You've at last got through the underbrush of this world,"

40 Years Ago Today

By GWYN COGHILL
Feb. 23, 1931

Three it takes to make a crowd, but one may make a town. The United States Census Bureau stated today that the two towns in the United States with exactly one inhabitant each are Bourne, Oregon and Arundel-on-the-Bay in Maryland. There are also towns of two and three inhabitants and no less than fifteen towns in the United States tally less than ten apiece.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Parker and son Richard, Jr., of Kinston, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Parker of Greenville.

John T. Thorne, of Farmville, was a Greenville visitor today.

Mr. and Mrs. Swanson Graves and sons, of Washington, were in Greenville yesterday.

The sale of auto license tags has moved along so slowly that Mayor Lanier has been forced to instruct police to keep a keen lookout for those without tags and bring them to court.

Trying To Escape Regulation

By ELMER ROESSNER

Quietly, a powerful, well-organized campaign has been launched to escape much federal regulation and to return to the old days when large corporations did pretty much as they pleased. "Deregulation" is becoming a frequently heard word in Washington.

The immediate objective of the campaign is to release railroads, airlines and other transportation services from most controls, letting competition set rates and quality of services. Other targets are likely to be the Federal Trade Commission, the Maritime Commission and other regulatory bodies. So far, there have been no proposals to turn over much of the regulatory work to the Attorney General.

Curiously, these proposals, while emanating from big business, have drawn some support from liberals. Liberals have long been critical of the Interstate Commerce and the Maritime Commissions, often accused of being fuddy-duddy boddies of the interests they are charged with regulating.

Airline, Railroad Problems

Deregulation has received considerable impetus from the current problems of the airlines and railroads. It is being proposed that if these carriers are freed of much regulation they could solve their own problems.

In the case of the airlines, it has been suggested that if the lines were allowed to fix their own rates and frequencies of service, competition would stop current losses and still give the public the benefit of lowest practical prices.

It has also been suggested that airlines be allowed to get together to arrange schedules. This could prevent two planes leaving at the same time for the same destination, each half full. However, it would sanction contacts that could lead now-prohibited deals.

The Civil Aeronautics Board approved such a discussion among United, American and TWA last year but the Attorney General objected and the CAB withdrew approval.

Administration Helps

So far, the Nixon Administration has not taken an official position on deregulation, but it has helped it along.

Charles D. Baker, assistant director of the Department of Transportation, told Congress that the DOT favored freedom to fix air fares and discuss capacity problems.

And Mr. Nixon made public a report by the Advisory Council on Executive Organization, a largely big-business group, in which five regulatory agencies would be reorganized under three independent chiefs. Mr. Nixon did not endorse the changes, but he called for "vigorous public discussion" of them.

They call for merging the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Federal Maritime Commission and the CAB into a single agency under one czar; the creation of another agency taking over the work of the Federal Power Commission and some of the Securities and Exchange Commission's duties under a single administrator; a Federal Trade Practices Agency to take over the FTC's work under a single boss; and a 15-judge "Administrative Court of the United States" to which agency dicisions could be appealed.

Twister Wrecks One Of Prettiest Neighborhoods

By YVONNE BASKIN
Associated Press Writer

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A man in his pajamas stood on the sidewalk early today watching Air Force security police set up floodlights along his street littered by tornado debris.

Shaking his head, Carl White remarked: "This used to be one of the prettiest neighborhoods in town because of the trees."

But at about 5:30 p.m. Monday a tornado ripped through White's neighborhood near the Veterans Administration Hospital, snapping off giant pine trees like they were toothpicks.

Two of the trees fell across White's roof, breaking through into a second-floor bedroom of his two-story brick home.

White said he, his wife and his mother were in the house when the twister hit. They were not injured.

"I didn't hear any sound of wind," he said. "I just heard a window break."

A mile or so away, in another heavily damaged residential neighborhood near Fayetteville State University, David Brown and his family were among the few persons on their block who chose to spend the night in their damaged homes.

The roof of the Browns' one-story brick and frame home was crushed by falling trees, and the interior was damaged by rain.

Brown said no one in his family was home when the tornado hit.

Only three houses away, two persons were killed when their home was destroyed. They were Mrs. Margaret Davis, age not learned immediately, and her daughter, Mrs. Wilma Ray, about 40. Only the foundation of the women's house remained. The fence, furniture, and even the rubble were blown away.

Beside the two dead, at least 60 persons were injured, and Mayor Pro Tem Harry Shaw estimated damage in the millions of dollars.

Soldiers from Ft. Bragg and Pope Air Force Base patrolled the damaged areas and set up floodlights to discourage looters.

Power crews worked to try to repair electric lines ripped by the tornado.

Red Cross workers toured the area during the night, making plans to feed persons whose homes were without electricity. Most of them had found shelter with friends and relatives. "I don't think we can see the devastation until the morning," said Mrs. Jewel Houston, one of the Red Cross workers. "The worst part will be the next few days of cleaning up and getting power restored."

upon a guaranteed annual income. Such a plan, he said, would be doubly wrong: "First, it would not end poverty; and second, while it might be a substitute for welfare, it would have a detrimental effect on the productive capacity of the American people."

Where are we, Cap'n? The administration's Family Assistance Plan, no matter how it is sliced and buttered, is a form of guaranteed annual income. Federal spending is up. Inflation continues. And we are offered, as a "responsible fiscal policy," a budget predicated upon real deficits and make-believe revenues.

The dismal thought is beginning to take hold that Mr. Nixon has jettisoned his charts and compass of 1968 — tossed them over the rail — and now is steering by the seat of his pants. Last year he would not jawbone; this year he will. The limited price and wage controls that once were anathema now are widely foreseen. Mr. Nixon has us hanging on the rails.

said one. "Now you've got a clear view of the main jungle."

"At 60, I hope you'll start acting your age," said the other. "You've been looking it for at least 10 years."

The rest of the day went like this:

I took a three-mile hike and fed nuts to four squirrels.

I went to visit a sick friend. When I complained about being 60 years old, she said:

"H-m-m-m, that's odd. For a week I've had a premonition of death, but all the time I thought it was mine."

Returning home I was surprised by a fine chicken dinner cooked by my daughter Tracy Ann, 17, and her friend down the hall, Susan Stumpf, also 17. Then another surprise: the girls had baked a huge three-color angel food birthday cake, and Susan's father popped with a couple of bottles of champagne.

So I called my 83-year-old mother, who lives in Kansas City.

"Congratulations, son," she said. "It's snowing here now just as it did 60 years ago when you were born. My, what a mess!"

But Jackson has few allies in the Administration. The consensus there is that the way to contain Soviet influence in Egypt is to end the conflict, not further antagonize the Egyptians by pouring more arms into Israel.

Once the conflict ends, large amounts of U.S. economic aid for Egypt will start reducing Cairo's dependence on Moscow and Soviet political influence should decline.

In addition to this grand strategy, Presidential advisors are highly suspicious of Israel's plan to colonize Greater Jerusalem with Jewish immigrants, expanding the city of Jerusalem deep into Israeli-occupied Jordanian territory. These moves have both reinforced the President's suspicions about Israel's long-range intentions and tightened his determination to muscle Israel's acceptance of Jarring's secret proposals.

Privacy Fight Interest Spreading

By LEE BYRD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Sam J. Ervin opened the doors of his constitutional rights subcommittee today in hopes of finally pushing a computer-armed bureaucracy way from man's private affairs.

A longtime foe of dossiers, snoopers and now data banks, the North Carolina Democrat has often been lonely in his fight. But recent events, he believes, have heightened public interest.

In the House, Rep. Edward I. Koch and a bipartisan band of some 20 congressmen, spurred by burgeoning allegations of Army spying on civilians, are backing legislation Ervin has advocated for years.

Koch, a New York Democrat, was an early boarder to Ervin's witness list, principally to urge citizens be given the right to know what the government knows about them.

"Today," Koch said in advance of his testimony, "the average citizen has no recourse. The reputations of countless numbers of decent citizens are threatened or destroyed by malicious and false information."

He would require all federal agencies to notify persons of any personal files kept on them and, moreover, give them a chance to review and challenge what they find.

Ervin has some other proposals to add to that, such as establishing a new agency with the sole purpose of watching for unconstitutional practices in other ones.

Another idea is to order the destruction of all files not directly necessary to an agency's operation or the national security.

On that score, Ervin makes it clear he isn't impressed by last week's Pentagon claim that a new civilian review board will safeguard against further snooping abuses. He just doesn't think the military should be spying on civilians. Period.

Aside from lining up many former military agents and Defense Department officials to discuss that matter, Ervin aims to explore a wide range of computer information techniques used both in and out of government:

—The Transportation Department's computer file containing the names and records of all persons who have ever had a driver's license suspended or revoked—about 2.6 million. Secretary John Volpe is scheduled to testify next month.

—A teletype-fed data bank reportedly under way at the Justice Department by which the names and records of persons charged anywhere with drug offenses could be distributed nationally. Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell will comment on this and other Justice programs.

—The proliferating use, as noted by Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Elliot Richardson, of Social Security and drivers' license numbers, whether by government or such private organizations as credit clearing houses.

A former state supreme court justice recognized by his colleagues as the Senate's top authority on the Constitution, Ervin says that most government practices, however abusive, are born of good intent. But stupidity, overreaction and the mania for up-to-date technology, he maintains, are a mix for evil.

Sex Education Said Key Point

RALEIGH (AP) — A social psychologist told a Senate committee today that sex education is a key point in dealing with pornography in North Carolina.

Ralph Speas, acting coordinator of sociology at Bennett College in Greensboro, said funds should be provided for sex education "to help eradicate the falsehoods that keep us hung up on pornography."

Speas appeared before the Senate Judiciary II Committee which is considering two bills dealing with obscenity. No action was taken on the measures.

One bill by Sen. Jyles Coggins, D-Wake, would make it a felony to disseminate obscene material to minors. It would be a disdemeanor to disseminate such material to adults.

Another bill, sponsored by Sen. Russell Kirby, D-Wilson, is less restrictive and would make it a misdemeanor to disseminate pornography to minors.

Speas told the committee age is not the primary criteria in dealing with the obscenity problem "because children of varying ages have the capability to understand."

He said, "Anything is obscene that is considered obscene by the individual."

Speas said the man and woman with a closed mind on pornography "are dangerous." He added, "I think a lot of that is going on in this attempted legislation. I don't think they should be allowed to impose their will on the majority."

He told the committee, "Consenting adults should be allowed to read and look at what they wish."

Bird May Not Be Extinct

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — The Ivory Bill woodpecker might not be extinct after all.

The bird was believed to have died out about 40 years ago. But now a South Carolina legislator said an expedition into a swampy area near Columbia discovered one. Rep. Alex Sanders says he and experts in the bird field went into the Santee Swamp Sunday, played a 30-year-old recording of the Ivory Bill's cry, and heard an identical call in reply.

Sanders said the group did not see the bird, but the recorded answering call is definitely from an Ivory Bill.

The Democrat is sponsoring legislation to save the swamp from logging.

Baptists Report Membership Up

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The Southern Baptist Convention has reported that its church membership increased to 11,600,000 during 1970, an increase of 1.2 per cent.

But the convention reported a decline for the sixth straight year in enrollment in Sunday school, church training and laymen's and women's organizations.

The report was made to the convention's national executive committee, which Wednesday will adopt a proposed 1972 budget.

In other statistics, the convention said the number of its churches increased by 25 from the 1969 figure and the number of baptisms were 638 more than the 1969 total.

Suggest Advice Will Preserve Tobacco Market

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — U.S. tobacco growers can maintain an $85 million market in West Germany by following the advice to the Tobacco Growers' Information Committee, says Commissioner of Agriculture Doyle Conner.

Standards set by this committee will allow U.S. growers to meet new restrictions on pesticide residues on tobacco set by a new West German law.

"West Germany is our No. 2 customer in Western Europe for U.S. grown tobacco and tobacco products," said Conner. "Extreme caution should be exercised by all growers in meeting the standards that have been set."

West Germany has limited residues to 0.1 parts per million of DDT and TDE, effective January 1, 1973, on all tobacco imports.

Conservationist Ranks Said Thin

NEW YORK (AP) — Prince Philip says "the conservation-minded population is a very small portion of the world's populations. The remainder couldn't care less."

The husband of Queen Elizabeth II said another difficulty in the fight against pollution is that "you can't preach industrial development for 20 years and then suddenly turn around and say, 'Now hold on, be careful what you're doing.'"

Philip spoke in an interview for the magazine Sports Afield.

BURY ST. EDMUNDS, England (AP) — The miniskirt is providing new furniture for the Suffolk municipal offices here. So many typists have been claiming compensation for runs in tights that the council has decided to replace some rough-edged old desks.

Tax Refund Work Done

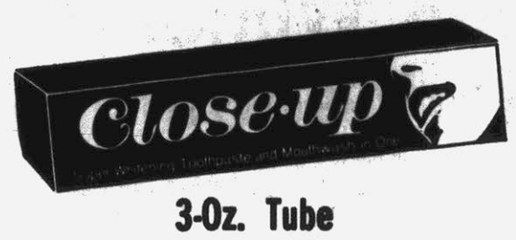

RALEIGH (AP) — The legislature completed action Monday night on a bill authorizing immediate distribution of some $4.1 million to 25 counties who had levied one cent local sales tax later ruled illegal.

Debate was scheduled in the Senate today on a new proposal setting up machinery for counties to replace the sales tax ruled unconstitutional last month by the State Supreme Court.

Action on the distribution bill was completed Monday night when the Senate routinely concurred with a House amendment to the original bill sponsored by Sen. John Burney, D-New Hanover. The amendment allowed vending machine operators to be included in the bill's provisions for repayment.

The commissioner of revenue would retain an estimated $2.5 million from the collections in early January to pay claims filed against the state.

Heath Drafts Tighter Immigration Law

HUMAN RELATIONS WORKSHOP . . . at Rose High School is a ten weeks course being held each Monday from 4:00 to 7:00 p.m. Andy Vanoy, extreme upper right, speaks to teachers and administrators at one of the sessions.

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Edward Heath's Conservative government has drafted an immigration bill removing the advantages citizens of other Commonwealth countries have had.

Its terms, disclosed today by authoritative sources, are sure to dismay the governments of several nonwhite Commonwealth states.

They equally are bound to be assailed by maverick Conservative Enoch Powell, who wants Britain to finance a massive program of repatriation for most of the country's million or so nonwhites.

A summary of the bill that will be presented to Parliament this week defines its aim as establishment of "a single system of immigration control applicable to everyone coming from overseas who is not exempt from control by reason of his connections" with the United Kingdom.

In practical terms this means Commonwealth citizens will be treated like all other foreigners. It also means Commonwealth citizens of Asia, Africa and the Caribbean will be affected most. They easily outnumbered the many citizens of the old white Commonwealth who qualify automatically for British citizenship by ancestry.

The bill provides for state-aided repatriation of immigrants wishing to leave but no forced repatriation; for deportation of immigrants failing to fulfill conditions of entry or whose departure could be judged "conducive to the public good;" and that immigrants must satisfy character and English-language qualifications and wait five years before being accepted as full British citizens.

Home Secretary Reginald Maudling evidently has sought to balance these stiffer conditions by enshrining the rights and status of immigrants who achieve citizenship. Regardless of their origins, after being accepted as citizens they will be entitled to full and equal status.

The flow of nonwhite immigrants into Britain has been building up for years as a big political issue. Heath's Conservatives picked up much electoral support last year with promises of a more restrictive policy than Harold Wilson's Laborites would offer.

But Heath now is under pressure from Powell, who has forecast racial conflict on a tragic scale unless the nonwhites are eased or squeezed out.

Human Relations Workshop In Full Swing; Many Participate

The Human Relations Workshop being conducted for teachers and Administrators of the Greenville City Schools is in full force, with the fourth of ten consecutive sessions completed on Monday.

Bob L. Sigmon, Director of Secondary Education for the city schools, in charge of the workshop, reports the program has received wide support from city teachers and administrators, with 44 of them taking part in the full 30 hour course which is held each Monday from 4:00 to 7:00 p.m.

The program is being given under the auspices of Dr. Robert Strother, an assistant superintendent in the North Carolina Department of Public Instruction and head of the Human Relations Division of the department.

At Monday's session, Andy Vanoy, an assistant to the Attorney General of North Carolina, led the workshop. Other state officials who have participated or will participate during the ten week period include Dudley Flood and Dr. Eugene Causby, both assistants to Dr. Strother. Flood was a Pitt County school principal before receiving an appointment last year with the Human Relations Division.

During each session, the speaker dwells on one particular topic for the first hour. In the second hour, participants break up into small discussion groups, then reconvene in the third hour with the speaker for an hour of question and answers.

Sigmon listed some of the topics which are under discussion during the workshop sessions. These include community involvement; student involvement; discipline; effective P.T.A. planning; student activity in regard to curricula and co-curricula activities; and legal aspects of teaching.

The entire workshop is designed to acquaint a large segment of the city school staff with new developments and ideas in the field of total human relations.

School Sets Open House

Open house will be held at the new D. H. Conley High School Sunday afternoon from two until five o'clock.

School Principal J. R. Carraway said tours will be conducted by members of the Student Involvement Committee. Teachers and counselors will be on hand to answer any questions and to greet visitors.

Refreshments will be served in the Student Commons area.

The school, which opened for students on Jan. 5, serves the Winterville, Chicod and Grimesland attendance areas. The student body numbers 952.

Assistant principals are Melvin Rountree and Jimmy Dunn.

The school is located on county road 1711 in the Hollywood Community, just off N.C. 43.

Redistricting Bill OK'd By State Senate

RALEIGH (AP) — A congressional redistricting bill leaving intact all incumbents' home counties sailed through the Senate Monday night and was sent to the House where routine passage has been predicted.

The bill, which provides for a population deviation averaging 1.01 per cent has drawn bipartisan expressions of approval in the House.

House Speaker Phil Godwin said he had heard little objection to the measure and added: "I think we'll move on the bill."

In the Senate, passage came with only one dissenting voice — that of Sen. Hargrove Bowles, D-Guilford, who urged a delay to be certain the bill would withstand a court test.

The bill, developed as a substitute by Sen. George Wood's Congressional Redistricting Committee, shifts 10 counties into new districts while producing a population range from 454,275 for the smallest district to 471,777 for the largest.

Bowles noted this would provide a deviation of minus 1.67 per cent to plus 2.1 per cent from the average district population of 462,005.

"Most of us like this committee substitute because it doesn't rock the boat," Bowles said.

But, he added, "Our Supreme Court of the United State has said every legislative district must be nearly equal as possible to every other district in the state. If another plan with a smaller deviation came along this body would be guilty of bad faith if we did not approve it."

Bowles said he knew of several such plans, including one — "this monster ... this horrible example" — that was described as an example of what "the courts might do. "I want this legislature to redistrict North Carolina. I don't want the courts to do it."

Sen. Julian R. Allsbrook, D-Halifax, spoke against a delay, and said, "unless I change my mind, I'm not going to break down county lines."

"I'm willing to take my stand," Allsbrook said. "If the courts can come up with a better plan, I challenge them to do it."

Counties that would be shifted under the bill include: Carteret from the 3rd to 1st District; Bladen from 7th to 3rd; Greene from 2nd to 1st; Caswell from 6th to 2nd; Orange from 4th to 2nd; Lee from 8th to 3rd; Yadkin and Davie from 5th to 8th; Wilkes from 9th to 5th; and Avery from 10th to 11th.

Late Winter Storm In Northeastern Interior

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A late-winter storm that staggered sections of the midcontinent with 15-foot snowdrifts aimed an icy and snow-laden punch at the Northeastern interior today.

Seventeen persons were dead as a result of the storm in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska.

Thousands remained snowbound in northern and northwestern Oklahoma, where a snow cover of 2 feet and more in some areas was haped into 12- and 15-foot drifts.

Thunderstorms erupting in the warm sector of sprawling storm system spawned tornadoes late Monday which hit communities in Indiana, Ohio, Georgia, Florida and North and South Carolina.

Two persons were killed in a pair of twisters that dipped into the Fayetteville, N.C., area. Some 60 were injured and heavy property damage was reported.

Seven persons were injured by two tornadoes that churned through the east side of Columbus, Ohio. No serious injuries were reported in the other twisters.

In the aftermath of Sunday night's tornadoes in the Mississippi Delta, President Nixon declared the region a major disaster area, paving the way for massive federal recovery aid. The death toll stood at 82 in Mississippi and Louisiana, with more than 2,300 persons homeless and damage estimated at $7.5 million.

Meanwhile, the National Weather Service issued heavy-snow warnings for northern New York and northern New England.

Freezing rain spread up the Ohio Valley to New England, and icing curtailed highway and airline traffic for varying periods, over a wide area of the central Midwest.

Flash-flood warnings were out for parts of western Pennsylvania and southwestern New York due to rain and melting snow from earlier storms.

Fair skies prevailed through most of the Far West, marred only by light snow inland over the mountains.

northeast of Fayetteville.

Fayetteville Mayor Pro Tem Harry Shaw, who toured the destruction late Monday night with city officials, said the loss was in the millions of dollars.

The director of the city's public works commission, Ray Meunch, said downed lines would keep 10,000 residents without electricity in about 10 per cent of the city's homes during the night. Telephone lines were also down and calls into the city were delayed.

The VA Hospital was on emergency circuits for 1½ hours during the height of the storm and its aftermath. A patient there who was to undergo emergency surgery was transferred to Womack Army Hospital, where electricity was steady.

Steve Thompson, city editor of the Fayetteville Observer, drove through a two to threeblock area near the VA Hospital and said "telephone poles were broken off halfway up and were hanging over one block."

He reported two service stations, a small grocery, an ice cream drive-in, a dry cleaning business and many homes damaged in that area.

At the VA Hospital itself, damage included broken windows, air conditioners blown from windows, a chimney half down, and a water tower knocked to the ground. Cars in the hospital parking lot were damaged by falling trees.

The destruction in the county was surveyed by Sheriff W. G. Clark, who visited Falcon and several farming communities nearby. He reported a new gymnasium at the children's home leveled, six persons hurt in one family at Beard when their home was destroyed, and several persons at Wade injured when their trailers were blown over.

In Sampson County just a mile or so away the communities of Plainview and Lees Chapel had some injured who were taken to Clinton.

Fayetteville, the Cumberland County seat, is in mid-southern North Carolina a few miles from South Carolina. It has a population of 60,000. There are 225,000 people in Cumberland County, including military personnel.

Told To Leave None Alive, Says Calley

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — Lt. William L. Calley Jr. said today that his company was ordered to go into My Lai with a high speed assault and not to let anyone behind them because two other American companies had been disorganized that way by the enemy.

The briefing, Calley said, was given by company commander Capt. Ernest L. Medina the evening before.

Medina "showed the troops where we would be coming in and explained to them that we were going to start at My Lai 4 and we would have to neutralize My Lai 4 completely and not let anyone get behind us.

"Then we would move into My Lai 5 and neutralize it and make sure there was no one left alive in My Lai 5 and so on, until we got into the Pinkville area."

Calley is testifying in his trial on charges of killing or ordering killed 102 civilians in My Lai 4, one of a number of hamlets surrounding the village that was the main objective—My Lai 1.

Calley's recital of that briefing, given calmly and without any display of nervousness, was much milder than that given by other defense witnesses.

Others had quoted the captain as saying variously to kill every living thing, to kill everything that breathes, to leave no one alive, not even animals and livestock.

"Did he make any comments about the civilians as to what they might be?" asked chief defense counsel George Latimer.

"Well, the only remark he made as to civilians, about civilians," Calley said, "was that the psych (psychological) war had prepped the area and the area had been completely covered by psych war operations. That all civilians had left the area, there were no civilians in the area. And anyone there would be considered enemies."

Q. In that conversation, do you have any recollection as to whether he mentioned any classifications of civilians as such?

A. No, sir. He just said the civilians had left the area, sir.

Calley had been on the stand for one hour when his attorney asked for a recess. The questioning was just beginning to touch on the entry of troops into My Lai 4 on that Saturday morning, March 16, 1968.

Calley said there was a second briefing attended only by platoon leaders at which more detailed instructions were given.

Q. Did anyone at the company briefing ask whether women and children should be killed?

A. I believe somebody asked if that meant women and children.

Q. Did Capt. Medina respond to the question?

A. Yes sir.

Q. What did he say?

A. "He said that meant everything.

The area, Calley said, had been declared a free fire zone, which meant that anything was fair game.

Calley was asked what his impression was of the type battle it could expect from the enemy units that were believed in the area— including the feared 48th Viet Cong Battalion.

"My impression was that we were going in there to do sustained battle with the enemy, that we would keep contact with the enemy as long as we could and try to roll him up."

The operation, Calley said, was the largest he'd ever been on except a year later when he went into the same area on an operation he called "Russell Beach."

In his first 93 minutes on the stand Monday, Calley recounted the agony of seeing his men fall prey to a ghostly enemy in the weeks before the My Lai operation.

Dies Of Bite By Rattlesnake

FORT PAYNE, Ala. (AP) — A 64-year-old woman has died from a rattlesnake bite apparently inflicted during a religious ceremony, a DeKalb County Hospital spokesman says.

She was identified as Miss Earsline Meadows of Pumpkin Center.

A Fort Payne physician, who asked not to be identified, said Monday the woman came to him about 13 hours after having been bitten by a snake at a religious ceremony. He said he administered massive doses of antivenom.

The doctor said the woman told him she guessed she didn't have enough faith.

By the year 2000 an estimated 80 per cent of the U.S. population will live in large urban areas.

Singer Is Sued For $500,000

CINCINNATI (AP) — A Cincinnati woman has filed a $500,000 breach of promise suit against singer James Brown, contending he promised to marry her, then wed another woman in October 1970.

Lavetta Clay, 23, alleged in the suit filed in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court Monday that Brown's conduct with her was "ruthless, abrupt, humiliating, wanton, willful and malicious."

She asked for $250,000 in compensatory damages and $250,000 in punitive damages.

FBI Boss Said 'Vicious Racist'

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)— Alfred Baker Lewis, national treasurer of the NAACP says FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover refuses justice to blacks with the knowledge of President Nixon.

Lewis, of Greenwich, Conn., described Hoover as a "vicious racist" Monday.

"Law and order without justice is oppression," said Lewis. "Under J. Edgar Hoover, the poor and the blacks cannot expect justice."

Lewis addressed a meeting of the Louisiana NAACP Executive Committee.

Nixon Policies More Popular

TEL AVIV (AP) — President Nixon's popularity among Israelis is increasing as a result of recent U.S. policy toward Israel, according to a public opinion poll released Monday.

A sampling of 1,200 Jews throughout the country showed 56.4 per cent satisfied with Nixon's policy. The figure was 55.9 at the end of last summer.

A similar poll a year ago indicated only 15.6 per cent thought American policy was good for the country. That poll followed Secretary of State William P. Rogers' announcement that minor frontier adjustments only should be allowed in any Middle East peace settlement.

Dolphins Demolish Pirates By 127-69

JACKSONVILLE — It was the final home game for the Jacksonville Dolphins last night, and they decided to put on a show for the home town fans.

Unfortunately, the East Carolina University Pirates turned out to be the rubber ball that the Dolphins tossed around, and by the time the show was over, Jacksonville had run off another lopsided score, 127-69.

It was the worst defeat suffered by the Pirates in the number of points allowed, and it missed by only two points being the worst loss in margin. The 127-point total surpassed that of 113 scored by St. Francis in 1968. And the 58 point margin missed Davidson's 1964 60-point win by just two (105-45).

The dominating factor in the game, of course, was All-American Artis Gilmore, the 7-2 giant that put Jacksonville into the national spotlight last year as a junior. He did himself well in his final appearance at home. He scored 25 points, pulled down 28 rebounds, and was credited with blocking at least 13 shots by the Bucs.

He got plenty of assistance from his other teammates, however. Pembrook Burroughs, his 7-0 running mate, dropped in 27 points and got 12 rebounds. Other scoring included Harry Fox with 25, Ernie Fleming with 20, Vaughn Wedeking with 14 and Chip Dublin with 12.

Overall, the Dolphins hit on 56.0 per cent of their shots, while the Pirates made good on just 37.0 per cent.

The Dolphins also had a 65-46 advantage in rebounding, as the Bucs, badly beaten in height had trouble getting near the boards.

And Gilmore, finishing things off in the final seconds, got a chance to go to the line for a two-shot foul. He hit the first, then slammed the second againt the board, got the rebound, and stuffed it through, giving his fans a treat. It, naturally, brought the disallowal of the basket and a technical foul, but it was all in fun—at least for the Dolphins.

The Pirates never held a lead in the game and went nearly five minutes without a basket. A jumper by Al Faber broke the ice for them with about 15:15 left in the game. The Bucs had picked up three free throws prior to that, but they trailed, 11-5 after Faber's shot.

Fox hit a jumper to put Jacksonville on the board, but Mike Henrich got a free throw for the Bucs to cut it to 2-1.

Gilmore came back with a layup, however, and Fox followed with a free-thow to run it out to 5-1. The Bucs got two free throws, but Fleming came up with two for the Dolphins and Wedeking and Fleming both tossed in baskets to run the lead out to 11-3 before Faber hit the first Buc basket.

East Carolina cut it back to four at 11-7, but the Dolphins moved away again. Wedeking hit from the corner to up the lead to 10 after Burrows and Fleming both got layups, making it 17-7.

The two teams swapped baskets for the next few minutes, but Jacksonville finally began to move away again when Burroughs hit a jumper to make it 26-15. Wedeking followed with a fast break basket and Gilmore tossed in a pair of free throws with 7:40 left to run the lead out to 15, 30-15.

After swapping baskets with the Bucs, Fox hit two quick baskets to up the lead to 19, 36-17.

Then, during the remaining munutes of the half, Jacksonville outscored the Pirates, 16-9, to run their halftime lead out to 52-26.

The two came out at the start of the second half and tossed in bucket-for-bucket as the score climbed to 65-40. Then, Jacksonville hit a streak, and ran in 16 straight points before the Bucs could hit again.

Fox started it with a free throw, then came back with a jumper. Burroughs and Wedeking each got baskets before Fox returned to the act. Gilmore annd Fox added free throws and Wedeking got a three-point play. Burroughs dropped in a rebounding shot to close out the string, making it 81-40, a 41-point bulge for the Dolphins.

From there on out, they steadily pulled away, going out by as much as the final margin, 58 points.

East Carolina's scoring was led by Al Faber, who had 22, while Jim Gregory had 13 and Dave McNeill had 10.

The Bucs return home to meet the Citadel Saturday night in a key Southern Conference game. At stake is third place, and the possibility of a second-place finish. East Carolina and The Citadel are tied for third with 6-4 records, while William & Mary is second at 6-3. The Indians host Richmond at Williamsburg. It would take a Richmond victory to allow either ECU or The Citadel to take second. If William & Mary wins, the winner of the ECU-Citadel game would take third, with the loser finishing fourth. It is the final home game of the year and the last regular season contest for the Pirates.

Baby Bucs Fall To Tar Babies

CHAPEL HILL — Midway through the first half of play, the University of North Carolina's Tar Babies took command and pulled out to take a 92-75 victory over the Baby Bucs of East Carolina University last night.

The first half was tight most of the way, although the Tar Babies pulled way in the closing seconds to open up an eight-point spread. East Carolina held the early lead in the game, but never by more than two or three points.

Carolina finally tied it up and went into the lead on a three-point play by Bobby Jones with 7:40 left, making it 31-29. That put the Tar Babies on top for good. It remained close until near the end, when Carolina went from a 35-32 edge to a 42-34 halftime advantage.

In the second half, it remained fairly close for most of the way, with the Baby Bucs trailing only by five points, 55-50, midway through the period. But from there, Carolina began to pull away, working up the final 17-point lead.

A key factor for the Tar Babies was their 58.5 shooting percentage from the floor. The Baby Bucs hit on 48.5 per cent of their shots.The two were almost even in rebounding, with the Tar Babies holding a 35-34 advantage. Jones led the UNC board play with 13, while John O'Donnell had 11. Nicky White had 11 to pace East Carolina.

White also led the Baby Buc scoring with 19, while Ray Pexzko had 17, Nake White had 12 and Barry Pasko had 10.

O'Donnell led Carolina with 29, while Jones had 24, Darrell Elston, Ray Hite and Bill Crouch each had 12.

The Baby Bucs close out their season Saturday night at home against Isothermal as a preliminary to the ECU-Citadel varsity game.

East Carolina — Lapish 8, Peszko 17, Ni. White 19, Na. White 12, Pasko 10, Steinberg 6, Close 3, Viquiera.
North Carolina — O'Donnell 29, Elston 12, Jones 24, Gianiny 1, Hite 12, Mayfield 2, Crouch 12.

Teams Slowly Are Rebuilding

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Hanging out the off-season college football wash:

The NCAA has given ABC-TV permission to televise an additional college football game nationally this fall. The game has not been selected yet, but it will be on Thanksgiving Day.

This gives ABC a Turkey Day doubleheader, but the powers-that-be haven't decided whether to make it an afternoon twin bill, day-night or what.

Last year's Thanksgiving card was a sparse one and that figures to hold true again. The network probably will ask someone to move a game.

The fall schedule now shows 12 national games and 24 regionals. There also is a possibility the NCAA will agree to a second wild card regional weekend, which means ABC would have until midseason or so to pick the four games to be TVed. ABC's current slate has one national and one regional wild card weekend.

Marshall University is still looking for a head coach—Rick Tolley and his entire squad were killed in a plane crash—but acting head coach Red Dawson is beating the recruiting trails. He's signed 21 prospects to letters of intent and they come from West Virginia, South Carolina, Ohio, Virginia and Alabama.

Wichita State, the other crash victim, has realigned its staff under head coach Bob Seaman. The Shockers lured Dick Moseley, an assistant at Eastern Michigan, to be defensive coordinator. Holdover Chuck Ramsey takes over as offensive coordinator.

Nebraska's football team is unbeaten in its last 19 games.

Arizona will play an 11th football game in 1971. The Wildcats have added San Diego State for a Nov. 20 game to be played in San Diego's new 54,000-seat stadium.

Pair Ties For Championship

Coca-Cola failed to wrap up first place in the City Basketball League last night because of the lack of enough players. Coke suffered a forfeit to Big Value Discount, while co-leader Book Exchange was falling to Coffman's, 89-67. Hallow's Distributing downed College View, 91-42, in the other game.

The losses left Coke and the Exchange tied for the title with 11-4 records. Coffman's is third with a 10-5 mark, followed by Farmville's Big Value Discount, 8-7, Hallow's, 4-11 and College View, 0-15.

Coke, however, gets top seeding in the tournament, having beaten the Exchange in two of their three meetings. Coke and Exchange both get byes in the first round of the tournament which starts Wednesday. Coffman's plays College View, while Hallow's meets Farmville in the first round games.

Hallow's ran away to a 51-16 lead over College View in the opener. They came back with a 40-26 advantage in the second half to win easily.

David Hahn led Hallow's with 33 points, while Billy Clark had 27 and George Rhems had 10. Leonard Earp had 10 and Roger Moore had 14 for College View.

In the other game, the Exchange inched out into a 45-40 lead in the first half of its game, shooting for undisputed possession of first place after the Coke loss. But Coffman's had other ideas, and pumped in 49 points in the second half, while holding the Exchange to just 22.

Bill Taylor led Coffman's with 23, while Gene Rackley had 18, Charles Swanner had 16, Larry Graham had 14, and Joe Gaddis had 11. For the Exchange, Greg Holmes had 17, Gary Cross had 16, John Hardison had 14, and Dickie Allen had 13.

Gamecocks, Tar Heels, Wolfpack All Get Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Stalls have beaten the University of South Carolina basketball team this season, but Houston Coach Guy Lewis tried something different — a special defense on star John Roche — and wound up an 88-71 loser.

Houston used a one-three zone defense, with the fifth man, guard Poo Welch, guarding Roche man to man. Roche didn't reach his scoring average — he was held to only 14 — but other Gamecocks took over the scoring.

Roche was held to only two points in the first half, on free throws. But Rich Aydlett hit six of nine shots from the floor and 6-foot-11 Tom Owens swept 15 rebounds to stake South Carolina to a 42-30 halftime lead.

Owens wound up with 26 rebounds and was South Carolina's top scorer with 19 points. All starters for the Gamecocks scored in double figures. Larry Brown came off the bench to spark the Houston Cougars with 19 points.

Seventh-ranked South Carolina now is 17-4 and Houston is 18-5.

Another Atlantic Coast Conference team, eighth-ranked North Carolina, also was in an intersectional game at home and won, 70-61 over Florida State.

And in an ACC game, North Carolina State took a 97-77 victory at home over Virginia.

There is one game tonight, Maryland at Clemson. Maryland is 4-7 in the league and 13-8 in all games. Clemson is 2-9 and 8-14.

North Carolina fell behind by nine points midway in the first half as Ron King of FSU. Hit 15 points in that half on his way to a game-high 21 points. But North Carolina's tough zone defense and revived rebounding enabled the Tar Heels to come from behind. They trailed 35-34 at the half, but Bill Chamberlain scored the first two field goals of the second half to put them ahead to stay.

Lee Dedmon and Dennis Wuycik were leading scorers for the Tar Heels with 15 points apiece.

North Carolina is 18-4 in all games and 9-2 in the conference.

North Carolina State trailed Virginia 30-21 with nine minutes to go in the first half. But then the Wolfpack outscored the Cavaliers 19-3 as Bill Benson hit four outside shots and a layup and Dan Wells scored nine points.

Benson was high scorer with 22 points. Barry Parkhill had 18 for Virginia.

N. C. State is 5-6 in the conference and 12-10 in all games. Virginia is 6-6 and 14-7.

Golfers Set For PGA Battle

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special correspondent

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The PGA championship is No. 4 among golf's big four major tournaments, but it's trying harder.

A new date and a new site — the palm-bejeweled East Course of the PGA National Golf Club, home of the natonal headquarters—are intended to improve the image of the stepchild title event that for a quarter of a century has been struggling for proper recognition.

"This is a start—but it will take time," Jack Nicklaus said today. "The PGA hit a slump for a period when it was playing inferior courses.

"Naturally, it lost stature and I think most golfers rated it No. 4 in prestige so far as a victory was concerned. But now the PGA is playing on tough courses.

"In my opinion, it has the toughest field of the four big tournaments."

Included in the big four are the Masters, U.S. Open, British Open and PGA. Three men who have won all four will be in the list of 147 pros who will tee up the ball here Thursday for the four-day 72-hole 53rd PGA championship.

They are Gene Sarazen, who played in the event 50 years ago; Gary Player, the precise little South African, and Nicklaus, who needs only a victory this week to complete a second sweep of the four big events.

"The PGA is the toughest because of the qualification system," Nicklaus said. "The U.S. Open weeds out a lot of potential winners through its local and regional qualifying tests, the British Open draws only a small, hard group of the best U.S. pros, but it's improving, while the Masters, as a restricted invitation, has the weakest field of all."

Nicklaus' appraisal was seconded quickly by other top pros lounging in the locker room of the PGA clubhouse.

"I think the PGA definitely is the toughest," said Tony Jacklin of Britain, the U.S. Open titleholder. "Yet, I'm sure most golfers consider the U.S. and the British Opens and the Masters as having more prestige."

"That's true," agreed Player, "but the field here is by far the best we run against all year."

Dave Stockton, the defending champion, was a dissenter.

"I think most pro golfers on the tour would prefer to win the PGA," Stockton said. "They get an automatic qualification for every tour tournament for 10 years. The Masters doesn't qualify you for anything.

"But for me, now that I've already won the PGA, I'm gunning for the Masters."

The PGA, which automatically qualifies the top 70 money-winners, has suddenly become a prime event for two other of the nation's top shotmakers—Arnold Palmer and Bill Casper. They've never won it. There's not a pro who doesn't want to win the championship of his peers.

Palmer has won two British Opens, four Masters and the U.S. Open. Casper, pro golfer of the year for the last two years, has two U.S. Opens and the Masters.

The doughty Sarazen, who won the first of his three PGA titles in 1922, said the PGA should establish the PGA National Golf Club here as the permanent site of the event.

"It would be like another Masters," Sarazen said, "People would plan months in advance to be here. It would become a tournament that would be second to none."

Thurmond Leads Way

BUFFALO (AP) — Nate Thurmond and Jerry Lucas split 56 points and combined for 45 rebounds Monday night to lead the San Francisco Warriors to a 109-91 National Basketball Association victory over the Buffalo Braves.

"Thurmond was just tremendous," said Braves Coach Dolph Schayes. "Every time we got within six or eight points he was there to block a shot or get a key rebound."

San Francisco took an early lead and Buffalo was unable to close the margin. By halftime, the Warriors led 52-40.

The Warriors played without star guard Jeff Mullins, out with a sprained left ankle. Player-coach Al Attles said Mullins would be out for another three or four more days.

Buffalo's Don May was the game's high-scorer with 36 points.

There were no other games scheduled in the NBA.

In the American Basketball Association, Indiana whipped Memphis 102-99.

Industrial In Season's Finale

There were no surprises as the Industrial League closed out its 1971 regular season last night. Champ Fieldcrest downed Vermont American, 83-36, National Cash Register beat WNCT, 44-30, and Wachovia beat State Highway, 49-43, in what could be called a mild upset.

Fieldcrest finished the year with a 14-1 record, while NCR gained second with an 11-4 mark. State Highway was 9-6, Wachovia, 8-7, WNCT, 2-13, and Vermont American, 1-14.

The league's tournament starts Wednesday. Wachovia meets WNCT in the 7 p.m. game, with State Highway and Vermont American meeting at 8:15. Fieldcrest and NCR received first round byes.

In the opener, Fieldcrest show away to a 49-21 lead over Vermont American in the first half. They finished things off with a 33-15 advantage in the second half.

Louis Williams led Fieldcrest with 33 points, while Bill Stokes had 18, Walter Claybrook had 14 and Tony Dail had 10. McGowan had 18 for Vermont American.

In the second game, WNCT inched out into a 19-18 lead in the first half. But NCR came roaring back to outhit them 26-11, and that did the trick for the second-place finisher.

Kelly Witherington led NCR with 20, while Allan Worthington had 12. Ikey Arnold led WNCT with 12, with Roy Shelby adding 11.

In the final game, Wachovia built up a 26-19 lead in the first half. State Highway came back to outhit them, 25-23, but it wasn't enough.

Bill Baggette led Wachovia with 14, while Walter Jones had 12. Lindsay Hardee and Clyde Elks each had 13 for State Highway.

Rupp's Wildcats Post 850th Win

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jacksonville was a veritable blizzard against East Carolina and Kentucky blew Alabama off the court—but that was nothing compared to the snow job the Big Eight got.

The sixth-ranked Dolphins rolled to their 15th consecutive victory and added lustre to their role as the nation's highest scoring collegiate team Monday night, rolling over the Pirates 127-69.

And Kentucky's 10th-rated Wildcats, breezing towards their fourth straight Southeastern Conference crown, boosted their record to 19-4 with a 101-74 romp against Alabama. The victory was Kentucky's 850th under Coach Adolph Rupp.

But the weatherman outplayed everyone in the Midwest as a massive snowstorm forced a one-day postponement of Monday night's Big Eight schedule—Kansas State at fifth-ranked Kansas, Oklahoma at Nebraska and Oklahoma State at Missouri.

Five of the teams spent Monday doing nothing—but Oklahoma State's Cowboys carried things to an extreme. They spent Sunday night and part of Monday in a snowbound bus on the Kansas Turnpike near Wichita.

In other major games, South Carolina held off Houston 88-81, Western Kentucky squeezed by Eastern Kentucky 94-93 in overtime, North Carolina rallied to overtake Florida State 70-61 and Virginia Tech upset Ohio University 86-80.

Jacksonville's victory may have been a costly one. Greg Nelson, a 6-foot-6 senior, crashed to the floor midway in the first half, suffering possible torn ligaments in his left ankle.

By the end of the half the Dolphins had cruised to a 52-26 lead and 7-foot Pembrook Burrows, who alternates with Nelson at the high post, was on his way to a game-high 27 points. Al Faber topped ECU with 22.

Artis Gilmore and Harold Fox chipped in 25 apiece for Jacksonville and Gilmore brought the hometown crowd to its feet, illegally dunking the ball in the final minute, then breaking his usually stoic expression into a wide grin as the technical foul was called.

Tom Parker was Kentucky's top man with 21 points in the ragged game. "We didn't have much finesse," said Joe Hall, subbing for Coach Rupp, recuperating after being hospitalized with a foot infection.

"I didn't think there was much doubt we would beat them but there was some question as to how we would go about it," Hall said. "We wound up just wrestlin' with 'em." There were 60 turnovers and 40 fouls.

Houston threw a special defense against John Roche and held the South Carolina star to 14 points—but 6-11 Tom Owens took up the slack by hitting 19 points and Rick Aydlett and Tom Riker added 16 apiece in the balanced attack that gave the seventh-ranked Gamecocks a solid 32-30 halftime lead.

Jim McDaniels ran away with Western Kentucky scoring honors, slamming in 41 points, but it took a 20-foot jump shot—his only field goal of the night—by reserve guard Danny Johnson with six seconds left that lifted the ninth-ranked Hilltoppers over their cross-state rivals.

North Carolina's No. 13 Tar Heels trailed Florida State by as many as nine points in the first half, cut the gap to a point at the intermission, then took control in the second session. Scoring honors went to FSU's Ron King, who hit 15 of his 21 points in the opening half.

Virginia Tech held a 10-point lead just before the end of the first half but Ohio rallied to tie the game 56-56 with 12:15 to play. Then the Gobblers, led by Charlie Lipscomb's 27 points, reeled off eight consecutive points to tame the Bobcats.

In the night's slowdown contests, Denver University and Regis crawled to a 23-23 tie after regulation play before DU's Pioneers grabbed a 38-27 triumph and Southwestern Louisiana crept past Northwestern Louisiana 25-21.

In other highlighted games, Tulane shook off early scoring miseries to whip Tampa 93-82, Bowling Green hit 14 of its first 21 shots to pound Chicago Loyola 92-78 behind Rich Walker's 29 points, and Morehead rode Jim Day's 25 points to a 70-55 victory over Middle Tennessee.

East Tennessee State placed five players in double figures to rout Austin Peay 72-54, North Carolina State outscored Virginia 19-3 late in the first half en route to a 97-77 victory, Air Force held off Western Colorado State 75-73, Earl Findley scored 18 of his 24 points in the second half as Florida smacked Ole Miss 85-68 and Murray overtook Tennessee Tech 72-69 despite Wayne Pack's 28 points.

UCLA Holds On To 1st; Carolina Falls To 13th

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

UCLA retained its precarious perch as the nation's No. 1 college basketball power today as the 1970-71 season headed into the homestretch with the top seven positions unchanged in the weekly Associated Press poll.

The Bruins, once-beaten defending national champions, held a 24-point lead over undefeated Marquette in the latest ballot of sports writers and broadcasters, drawing 24 first-place votes to 13 for the streaking Warriors.

Southern California, which matches UCLA's 20-1 season mark and will meet the Bruins in a climactic March 13 showdown, was No. 3 again in the voting.

Once-beaten Kansas received the other first place ballot but remained fifth in the rankings behind Pennsylvania, the only other major team with a perfect season record. Jacksonville and South Carolina held the No. 6 and 7 spots while Duquesne moved up from 10th to eighth, Western Kentucky remained ninth and Kentucky advanced from No. 12 to No. 10.

Marquette, 21-0 this season, puts a carryover streak of 33 victories on the line at New York Thursday night against Fordham, 20-1, which upended Notre Dame last week and soared from 18th to 11th in the ratings.

Michigan's Big Ten leaders jumped from 16th to 12th while North Carolina, beaten by South Carolina on Saturday, slipped from eighth to 13th and La Salle from 11th to 14th.

Louisville climbed four notches to No. 15. Utah State, Tennessee, Ohio State, Notre Dame and Long Beach State completed the Top Twenty.

The Irish, who have lost seven of 22 starts, tumbled from the No. 14 spot a week ago, totaling only 16 points in today's balloting. Long Beach State was the lone newcomer, replacing Murray State, which surrendered the No. 17 spot following two setbacks.

UCLA and Southern Cal each beat Oregon and Oregon State last weekend. Marquette extended its win string by thumping Air Force; Penn, 22-0, downed two Ivy League rivals and Kansas, 20-1, beat a pair of Big Eight Conference foes.

Jacksonville, 20-2, South Carolina, 16-4, and Western Kentucky, 18-4, also won twice each while Duquesne, 19-2, extended its winning streak to 15 with three victories.

The Top Twenty teams, with first place votes in parentheses and total points on a 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8 etc. basis:

1.	UCLA (24)	712
2.	Marquette (13)	688

Sam's Nephew In Tucson Win

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — J.C. Snead, a 29-year-old nephew of the great Sam Snead, has his first title, a little bit of a problem and some small bad feelings about the way he won.

Snead—the J.C. stands for Jesse Carlyle—became eligible for the prestige-laden PGA national championship when he won the weather-plagued $110,000 Tucson Open golf tournament in a 36-hole windup Monday.

And that's the problem. The PGA starts Thursday in southern Florida, a three-day drive.

"I just don't know what to do," said Snead, a one-time professional baseball player who had just won $22,000 and his first pro golf championship with a final-round 66 for 273. "I don't know whether to play there, try to get there or not. I've got my car with me, my wife with me, all my possessions. I just don't know."

But the big, hard-hitting guy was mostly concerned about his bogey-bogey finish.

"I always wondered what I would do if I were in that situation," he said. "And I found out. Leading by two with two holes to play. It wasn't as bad as I thought but it was bad. It's a bad way to finish. I feel kinda bad about that.

"I won and that's wonderful. I'm awful happy. But I don't like the way I finished."

Snead, who didn't take up golf until he was 25 when he gave up a career as an outfielder in the Washington Senators chain, led or shared the lead all the way, was tied with veteran Dale Douglass at the end of 36 holes and again after 54.

The latter was Monday morning, when they finished the third round of the tournament that had one round rained out and another canceled by a snowstorm.

Snead picked up one stroke going out in the afternoon, reeling off three consecutive birdies starting on the second hole, lipped out an eagle putt and settled for a bird on the sixth and put an iron within three feet on the next.

He turned in 31—and was just one stroke in front on the equally determined Douglass. The rest of the field had drifted back.

Douglass, a former Ryder Cup player who was in the twosome in front of Snead, wedged to four feet and made the putt on the 11th hole to gain a tie. So they were all even as Snead went to the 15th, a 580-yard par five.

He holed out a 60-yard chip shot for an eagle three and a two-stroke margin.

"I don't know what I was thinking," he said later. "I just saw Dale up there in front of me making birdies and I kept knocking them stiff and making birdies, too. I didn't know how many under par I was or he was until I got to the 17th."

Both bogeyed the 17th from traps. Douglass managed a par four on the tough final hole and Snead was short in two. He held a two-stroke lead at that point and needed to get down in three to win. He chipped short and two-putted from 20 feet, sinking a two-footer in the growing darkness for the victory.

Douglass had a final-round 67 for 274. It was five strokes back to the next group, George Archer, Al Mengert and Hale Irwin, tied at 279. Frank Beard, DeWitt Weaver and Jacky Cupit had 280s.

Lee Trevino, who had won the last two Tucson Opens, never really got it going and finished nine strokes back with a 282 total.

Alley's Hand Broken By Pitching Machine

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

All hands were on deck for the Pittsburgh Pirates until Gene Alley crossed swords with a one-armed rogue ... and became baseball's first major spring training casualty.

Alley, whose contract signing Sunday brought the Pirates to full strength, suffered a broken left hand during Monday's initial fullscale workout when he tried to ward off a high-and-tight delivery from a pitching machine.

The veteran shortstop said a gust of wind apparently caught the ball "and it took off. I ducked back and threw my hand up, and the ball hit me." The hand will be in a cast for about a month, team Doctor Joseph Finegold estimated.

Houston Manager Harry Walker and Kansas City pitcher Tom Burgmeier also were early accident victims. Walker was struck on the big toe of his left foot by a line drive and Burgmeier suffered a split lip when hit by a thrown ball.

Rookie pitchers Jim Rittwage and Ed Farmer of Cleveland were sidelined with a pulled thigh muscle and strained Achilles tendon, respectively. Rittwage was the last American League pitcher to beat Baltimore before the Orioles closed out last season with a 16-game win string.

And Cincinnati skipper Sparky Anderson spent his 37th birthday in bed with an ear infection and strep throat. "I've never had anything so painful in my life as that ear," he said, forgetting temporarily the headache caused by the continued resistance of 15 unsigned Reds, including Johnny Bench, Pete Rose, Tony Perez and Lee May, to the club's salary offers.

Willie Mays, still negotiating his contract, and Jim Ray Hart, recuperating from shoulder surgery, were the lone absentees as the San Francisco Giants went through their paces.

Juan Marichal, beset by ailments last season, threw for five minutes and reported: "The ball felt light. I am optimistic."

Curt Flood was among Monday's arriving celebrities at the far-flung camps. The controversial outfielder reported to the Washington Senators, huffed and puffed through a lengthy workout and then proclaimed: "The one personal goal I have is to kick the hell out of the Cardinals in the World Series."

Flood, an 11-year St. Louis fixture until the Cards dealt him to Philadelphia in 1969, refused to report to the Phillies, sat out last season while challenging the reserve clause in a federal court suit and finally consented to return as a $110,000 Washington chattel.

Although the Senators finished last in the AL East in 1970, losing their final 14 starts, at least one Cardinal was prepared to accept his ex-teammate's World Series challenge.

"If I can win 20 again and have the club win, that's what it's all about," said St. Louis pitching ace Bob Gibson, who checked into camp and scaled a svelte 188 pounds after his first drill.

The New York Yankees signed catcher Thurman Munson, the AL's 1970 Rookie of the Year, as their batterymen went to work for the first time.

Other signees included outfielder Rick Reichardt by the Chicago White Sox, second baseman Julian Javier by St. Louis, infielder Ken Boswell by the New York Mets, pitcher Phil Niekro and outfielder Ralph Garr by Atlanta, pitcher Sparky Lyle and outfielder Billy Conigliaro by Boston and second baseman Dick Green, who had previously announced his retirement, by Oakland.

Mark Belanger joined early-Bird regulars Paul Blair and Merv Rettenmund in the Baltimore camp but said he has no plans to follow Blair's lead in a switch-hitting experiment.

Davidson Is Champ Again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's no longer a question of who's up front or behind but who'll be where in the middle when the seven Southern Conference basketball teams get together for their championship tournament March 4-6 in Charlotte, N.C.

Richmond's Spiders and Virginia Military Institute's Keydets have been doomed to the No. 6 and No. 7 spots since last week, and Davidson's threetime defending champion Wildcats clinched the top spot and a tourney bye with an 85-50 romp Monday night over The Citadel's Bulldogs.

The defeat dropped The Citadel back to 6-4 and a tie for third place with East Carolina's Pirates behind William and Mary, which stands 6-3.

Furman at 5-5 and its league schedule completed will be No. 5, but the three other spots will be up for grabs Saturday night when The Citadel plays at East Carolina and William and Mary entertains Richmond.

The only other league game has Davidson, now 8-1, playing host to VMI, 1-10, Wednesday night with no effect on their positions.

Davidson, shooting 48.4 per cent from the floor, never trailed The Citadel as the Wildcats won their 58th consecutive game in their home gym. The last team to beat them there was VMI back in February 1962.

Joe Sutter had 21 points and 10 rebounds, Steve Kirley 20 points and Eric Minkin 13 points and 11 rebounds in the Davidson triumph. The Bulldogs didn't have a player in double figures.

East Carolina, meanwhile, became the fourth conference team this season to fall to sixth-ranked Jacksonville. The Pirates were handed a 127-69 drubbing in the Dolphins' final home appearance.

Pembrook Burrows had 27 points and Artis Gilmore and Harold Fox 25 each for the Dolphins, and Gilmore pulled down 28 rebounds and blocked 13 shots. Al Faber was top scorer for the Pirates with 22 points.

All conference teams are idle tonight.

Roche Gets ACC Weekly Honor

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — All-America John Roche, who accounted for nearly half the points in South Carolina's victories over North Carolina State and North Carolina last week, is the Atlantic Coast Conference's basketball Player of the Week.

Roche was picked by a committee of the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association for the third time this season and the fifth time over the past two years. He scored 73 points in the two contests as the Gamecocks downed N.C. State 79-63 and North Carolina 72-66. He had 41 points against State and 32 against the Tar Heels.

In the two contests he connected on 21 of 43 field goal attempts and made good on 31 of 38 free throws. He hit 17 of 22 free throw against the Wolfpack and 14 of 16 against North Carolina. With eight minutes remaining in the game against the Tar Heels, Roche began to control the ball and North Carolina was unable to get it from him without committing a foul. He missed two one-and-one chances late in the contest, but it was still his ball-handling magic that kept the Gamecocks in command.

Roche ranks as the No. 2 scorer in the ACC with a 23.3 average. He has scored 202 points, including a record 56 against Furman, in his last six games for 33.7 average.

"Some players can't be played one on one, and Roche is one of them," his coach, Frank McGuire says. "He has the ability to dominate and control a game. I've coached a lot of great players, but I don't know one as great as he is."

Earlier, Jim O'Brien of Maryland was chosen ACC Sophomore of the Week. His two free throws with 49 seconds remaining gave the Terps a 56-55 victory over Seton Hall Saturday. It was the second time the 6-foot-7 backcourt performer had won the honor. He is Maryland's leading scorer with a 17.8 average.

VMI Star Gets Honor

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — The Southern Conference basketball Player of the Week for the past seven days is one who's had little chance to cheer.

He's Jan Essenberg, one of the few bright spots of a Virginia Military Institute team that's won just once in 24 starts.

But Essenberg had two spectacular games last week in which he almost single handedly kept the Keydets within striking distance of opponents who eventually beat VMI.

Essenberg, fifth in the league scoring race with a 16-point average, hit 18 of 41 floor shots and 13 of 16 free throws for 49 points in the two games and had 19 rebounds and two assists. the 6-foot-4 senior from Warsaw, Ind., is the first VMI cager to win the award since 1968.

A Strong Name Is Preferable

Paul's feud with his wife is not trivial! For it can result in belligerent children who become anti-social and serious behavior problems throughout their entire grammar school years. So spend more time on the christening of your kiddies. Use the "middle name" strategy below.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

Case P-580: Paul J., aged 24, is arguing with his wife.

"Dr. Crane," Paul began, "we have a new baby boy, just 24 hours old.

"And we are delighted with him.

"But we now argue as to his name. For I'd like to have him called Paul, Jr.

"My wife, however prefers the name Percy.

"So how can I convince her that Percy is not a rugged American name for a boy?"

Beware of Names

Young parents (and especially you wives) must look far into the future when you christen your babies.

What you mothers may think sounds pretty as a boy's name, may cause him to become a juvenile delinquent a few years later.

For "pretty" names are often regarded by boys as "sissy."

Percy is a good name and highly regarded in England. But here in America it often causes teasing and ridicule by such a child's classmates.

If you fond mammas insist on foisting such an unpopular boy's name on your son, you may find that he becomes a chronic fighter in school as he tries to prove to his pals that he is not a sissy.

And this resulting antisocial attitude may carry over to the "establishment," including police officers as well as law and order.

Such boys may thus seek nicknames like "Butch" or "Spike" or ever prefer "Fatso" to the sissy monickers their mothers gave them.

So select strong names that carry a traditional "aura" of merit, bravery, religious devotion, etc.

To help make it easy to trace their genealogy, it is often wise to employ middle names that carry along the maiden names of the mother and grandmothers.

In the case of our 5 Crane children, we named the first-born George Washington Crane IV, since we had carried that patriotic name for 3 previous generations.

Our second son we christened Philip Miller Crane, for Philip is a strong Biblical name and ever its abbreviation of "Phil" is musical.

The "Miller" was the maiden name of my wife.

Judy came 3rd, so we used Judith Anne for her.

Then came Daniel Bever Crane.

Daniel is a strong Biblical name, which is also attractive in its abbreviated form of Dan or Danny.

The "Bever" was my mother's maiden name.

David Goodrich Crane arrived last.

Again, we employed a strong, dramatic Bible name, plus the "Goodrich," which was the maiden name of my wife's mother.

Thus, among our 3 later sons, we have combined the family surnames of their mother and both grandmothers, thereby revealing their 3 generation genealogy.

Some young mothers try to concoct silly names that have no roots in the past so they do not inspire children to emulate the great deeds of ancient heroes and heroines.

That is a mistake, for kiddies like to look up to illustrious predecessors.

"Daddy," our firstborn said when he was in kindergarten, "I'm never going to tell a lie because George Washington never did!"

This shows the valuable traditional virtues that you can help inculcate in your modern kiddies by giving them strong Biblical and historical names.

Opening lead: Jack of ♣

While it is very important, even to the expert, to have at his quick command the proper handling of various card combinations, nevertheless there are certain situations which must be improvised during the actual combat. In today's hand, South, the declarer at four hearts, had the opportunity to work out one such problem, but unfortunately failed to rise to the occasion.

West opened the jack of clubs and East won with the ace to return the suit, which declarer took with the king. South drew trumps in two rounds with the king and ace and then he led the king of spades. West won with the ace and returned a small spade. Declarer, mindful of his opponent's overcall in spades, decided to play West for the jack of spades and, in order to provide a parking place for one of his diamonds, he inserted the ten from dummy. East, of course, won with the jack and the diamond return settled declarer's hash.

I must admit that the declarer was the victim of a little hard luck but, on the other hand, he contributed to his own downfall. It must be agreed that it is not unreasonable to assume that West held the jack of spades, but a more effective method of playing the hand was available to the declarer.

After extracting trumps, he should merely lead the three of spades from his hand. West will be forced to duck to prevent the establishment of two spade tricks for declarer. So South goes up with the queen of spades from dummy and returns a spade to force out the ace. True, it is a matter of mere chance that the jack of spades drops on this trick but, even if that card had not appeared, West would be in without any safe method of getting out. He finds himself in an old fashioned end play. He has the doubtful choice of leading a third round of spades, which will establish dummy's ten, or else he must lead a diamond, which takes the curse out of that suit for declarer.

Student Club Still Functions; Serving

A C. M. Eppes originated high school club, "Les Charmant - Elle", founded in 1967, continues to operate at J. H. Rose High School as one in which high school girls participate in projects to help charities and needy families.

Miss Brenda Bell, currently president of "Les Charment - Elle", reporting on some of the recent activities undertaken by 14 members, noted that the most significant project was a talent show and dance in which members made their debut in entertaining.

Proceeds from this affair went to a needy family. Other activities have included a Valentine Holiday project, in which packages of fruit and candies were distributed to patients on the pediatrics floor at Pitt Memorial Hospital.

The Valentine project, according to Miss Bell, was the first of a monthly series of projects to be sponsored by the group in the coming months.

Vice president of the club is Miss Manzer Saad; Miss Pearl Best is secretary; and Miss Annette Barnes is treasurer. Mrs. Naomi C. Dunn is club advisor. Other members of the club are: Betty Battle, Angela Barnes, Efireda Smith, Peggy Jones, Cynthia Ebron, Carla Worthington, Elizabeth Jones, Marie Wilson, Shelia Teel, and Phyllis Johnson.

Producer Will Narrate Film

Ralph Franklin's one and one half-hour travel film "Hawaii", is being personally narrated by the producer when it shows tonight at 8:00 p.m. in Wright Auditorium on East Carolina University campus.

The film features scenes, customs, and history of the major eight islands of America's fiftieth state.

Public admission price for the film is $1.00. Tickets may be purchased from the Central Ticket Office or at the door prior to beginning of showing time.

Bethel Native Leade Revival

Elder E. E. Dixon, a Bethel native now living in Kansas City, Mo., will lead a "World Outreach for Christ" revival at Wells Chapel Church of God in Christ here from today through Sunday.

Dixon is a dynamic preacher and an accomplished singer and musician, according to Bishop Wyoming Wells, pastor of Wells Chapel Church, located at the corner of Fifth and Hudson Streets here. He will be accompanied by Johnny A. Wooten at the console and Wednesday night the Crusaders will render music for the service. Soul singing and testifying will precede each service.

The Wells Chapel membership invites the entire Greenville community to attend these services from noon to 1 p.m. each day and each night at 7:30 p.m.

The oldest Chamber of Commerce in the United States was formed in 1768 by the state of New York.

Alternative Service Plan For Conscientious Objectors Seen

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the House Armed Services Committee proposed today conscientious-objector status be given young men willing to demonstrate their incerity with three years of nonmilitary service.

Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., disclosed his "somewhat radical suggestion" in a prepared statement opening House hearings on the draft.

Heading the witness list were Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, Roger T. Kelley, assistant secretary of manpower, and Selective Service Director Curtis W. Tarr.

Meanwhile, the Defense Department asked Selective Service to draft 2,100 doctors and dentists this year. The callup is necessary, the Pentagon said, because too few medical-school graduates have volunteered.

Beginning July 1, 1,531 medical doctors, 77 osteopaths and 536 dentists will be drafted into the Army, Navy and Air Force for two years' active duty.

Hebert offered the conscientious-objector proposal as an answer to the burden he said was placed on draft boards by a Supreme Court decision that all sincere objectors to war are eligible for CO status.

"It is manifestly impossible to determine 'sincerity' with any precision," Hebert said. "The only true test of 'sincerity' is performance."

He recommended conscientious objectors be required to serve at least three years with government, public or private institutions—he gave no examples—that have trouble finding qualified men for essential work.

If a CO failed to perform his assignment satisfactorily, Hebert said, the law should make him available for immediate military duty.

The minimum three-year service compares to two years of active military duty. But Hebert said there would not be a penalty because conscientious objectors would not have the total six-year active and reserve obligation of men in military service.

The chairman said Congress should consider an even higher starting pay than the 50 per cent proposed by President Nixon in his plan to have a volunteer Army by 1973.

Hebert contended the Nixon administration "has now come around" to his position that the draft must be extended for a while. He said the President's proposal is to attract enough volunteers to make drafting unnecessary.

"In our present situation," Hebert said, "I think the only way to get an all-volunteer Army is to draft it."

Contending again President Nixon already has authority to halt student deferments, Hebert said he will ask his committee to make that fact "crystal clear" in a draft law extension.

Hurt Bicyclist Traffic Mishap

Pam Thurman, 19, of Pennington, N.J., an East Carolina University co-ed, was injured yesterday when the bicycle she was riding collided with a car at the intersection of Fifth Street and the West gate to the ECU campus.

Investigators, who charged Miss Thurman with operating left of center, identified the driver of the car involved as Imogene Craft, 21 of Route 1, Richlands.

Damage to the Craft car was set at $50 while damage to the bicycle was estimated at $40.

Suspect Outsiders Spurred Disruption

CHARLOTTE (AP) — A top education official says persons from outside the city may have been behind recent racial disorders at Charlotte high schools.

The official, William E. Poe, chairman of Charlotte - Mecklenburg County Board of Education, did not name the outsiders.

He and the superintendent of schools, William C. Self, said over educational television Monday night that plans have been made to combat the disturbances.

Self said incidents Monday at Myers Park and West Mecklenburg high schools were "serious" and the schools will be closed today to everyone but faculty members and seniors. The seniors met only 12:30 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. There were no classes for sophomores and juniors.

Faculty members arrived at their normal times and met immediately with principals.

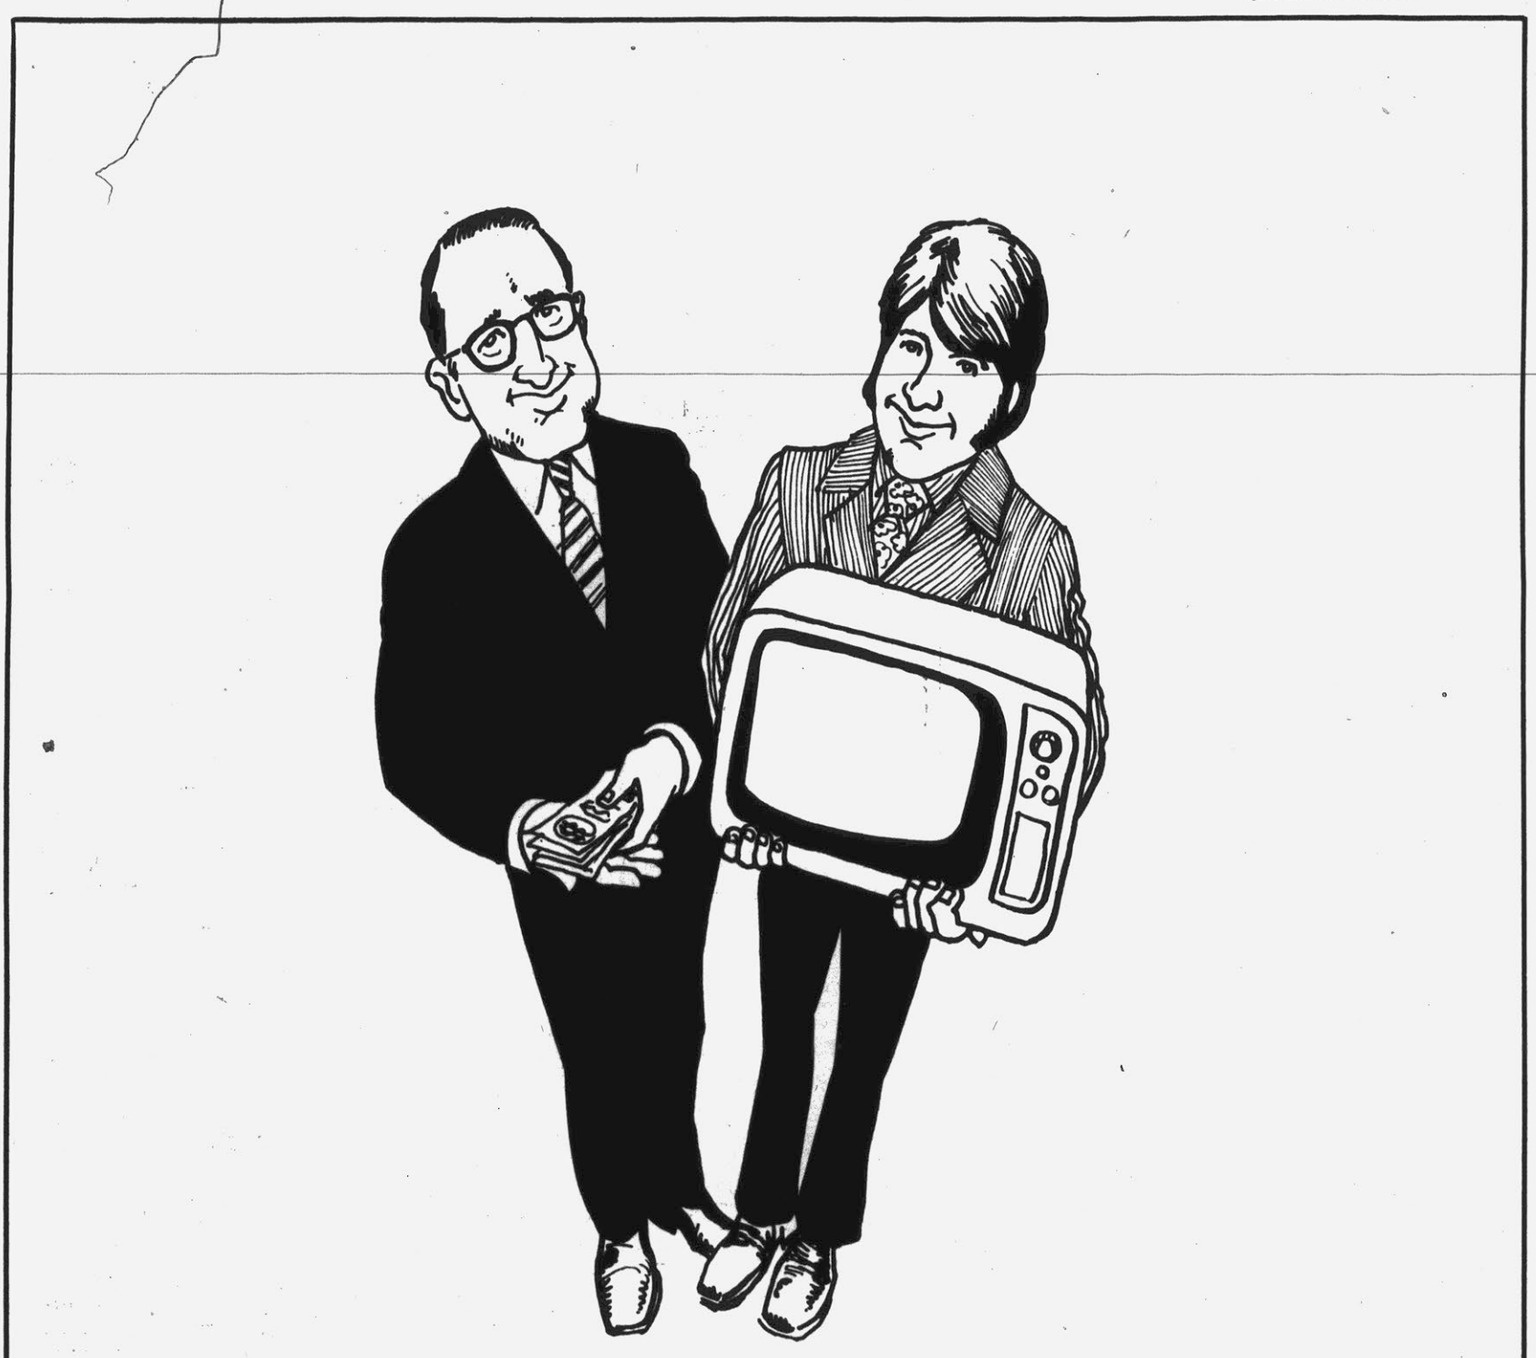

There will be meetings for parents tonight at the two schools.

"We will not tolerate disruption of our schools," Poe said on television. "Firmness will be the order of the day."

He said the disturbances were not caused by any particular grievances. He and Self blamed the trouble on a small minority of students.

The disruptions Monday were the first at Myers Park and West Charlotte. School officials reported a normal day at three other high schools and a junior high where there were racial disturbances last week.

Three pupils at West Mecklenbug and one at Myers Park were injured in fights. A black pupil at West Mckelenburg was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct.

May Decide On GraduationDate By March 1

High School principal Robert Alligood and Superintendent of City Schools Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood have set a target date of March 1 as the latest date they will make an announcement establishing the firm graduation date for seniors this year.

At the most recent school board meeting, a delegation of Rose High seniors asked the School Board to consider moving the date, now set for May 31, a Monday night, back to Friday night, May 28.

School board members at that time authorized Alligood and Dr. Cleetwood to work out arrangements they felt would be in the best interests of the seniors, other students, and other persons who would be affected by such a decision.

Map Campaign For End Of Sickle Cell Anemia

By G. C. THELEN Jr.
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration will, in a sense, pit science against love as part of its $6 million campaign to combat sickle cell anemia, the painful and crippling childhood disease that afflicts only blacks.

It plans a genetic counseling program in a pilot effort to identify prospective marriage partners with the disease trait and alert them to the danger facing their offspring, according to Dr. Ian Mitchell, an administration health aide.

"People sitting on a time bomb would like to know it," said Mitchell, who will direct the sickle cell campaign, scheduled to begin later this year in a number of cities.

"This doesn't mean, however, that we will tell people they shouldn't marry," he continued in an interview. "We will give them information so they can make a rational decision."

Sickle cell anemia is a hereditary ailment found only in Negroes. Some eight to 10 per cent of the black population carries the disease trait in their genes and can be so identified by tests.

While these carriers do not suffer from the anemia, they can impart it to their children if they marry another carrier. Statistically, of four children from such a union, one would have the disease, two would have the trait but no disease, and one would have neither.

Approximately one in 500 black babies is born suffering from the disease. Most die of the blood disorder before adulthood after numerous bouts with jaundice, abdominal pain, joint disorders, progressive weakness and infection.

The symptoms are caused by abnormal red blood cells that become elongated, something like matchsticks or a sickle blade, and form logjams in capillaries of the blood system. Tissue death results at the jam points.

"It is a sad and shameful fact that the causes of this disease have been largely neglected throughout our history," President Nixon said last week in announcing a $6 million request for concentrated research on the anemia as part of his special health message to Congress.

"We cannot rewrite this record of neglect, but we can reverse it," he said.

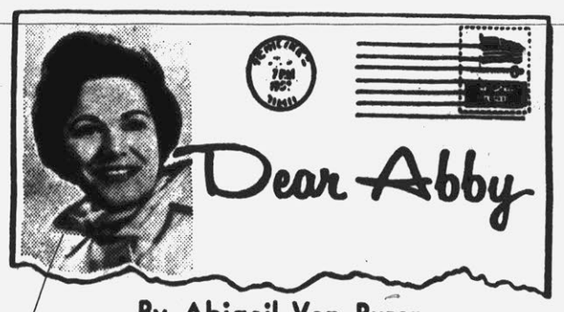

Mitchell said plans for the counseling centers are not complete. He would not say where they will be located or how much they will cost.

Black federal health officials and black advisory councils will have a major voice in designing the pre-marriage counseling service, Mitchell said.

What about the possibility some blacks will view the effort as an attempt by whites to limit Negro births—a form of cultural genocide?

"If I wanted to do this, which I don't, I wouldn't choose sickle cell," Mitchell replied. "The population involved is not sizable.

"Furthermore, we are not in a position to say people shouldn't marry," he said. "If I were a black person, I would feel the service a great kindness."

DEAR ABBY: I am a secretary for a generous man and I really like my job. Sometimes Mr. L asks me to work evenings, which I don't mind since I get paid extra for it.

During the day he never makes one wrong move toward me, but lately when I work nights he has been acting different. For instance, he let me know that as soon as everyone else goes home, he always moves his car so nobody will know we are here. Also no matter what I say, he twists it to give it a sexy or suggestive meaning. Mr. L is married and I'm not, but I do have a boy friend. Even if I didn't have one, I wouldn't be interested in Mr. L because he is bald, fat and old [about 50].

Last night, while I was working late, he turned on the stereo and asked me if I wanted to dance. I told him no. Then he said that I didn't have to worry about his wife walking in on us because she lives in the suburbs and doesn't drive.

I don't want to find another job but I could use a few suggestions on keeping my boss at arm's length. MINNIE

DEAR MINNIE: Tell him you like your job and don't mind working late, but your boy friend doesn't live in the suburbs, he's an ex-marine, and he does drive!

DEAR ABBY: When my wife and I were married several years ago we agreed on the number of children we should have. Since that time, the population crisis has come into full view and I want to do my part in this as well as other areas of conservation and ecology. Yet my wife constantly nags me for not "keeping my promise."

Naturally I would love any additional little ones that came along, but as long as I have the choice beforehand, I would prefer no more.

I don't want to jeopardize an otherwise fine marriage, but at the same time I don't want to feel like a schnook for adding to the world's population problem. What is the best solution for peace in the family and within myself?

BEWILDERED

DEAR BEWILDERED: Your letter sounds like a "plant" from one of the many adoption agencies who are trying to find homes for the thousands of homeless children thruout the world. The solution to your problem is obvious. Do yourself, your wife and the world a favor, and adopt!

DEAR ABBY: I read your column faithfully, but I've never seen anything in it resembling my problem. Abby, how would you like to wake up about five nights a week with a blood-curdling yell about six inches from your ear?

Well, I tell you, it's no joke. My husband has nightmares all the time and it is getting me down.

It's now to the point where I am afraid the neighbors will think he is being tortured or something.

He's a good man, Abby, and I don't want to jeopardize our close relationship by suggesting that we sleep in separate bedrooms, but I don't know how much longer I can take being awakened like this. Any suggestions? SLEEPLESS

DEAR SLEEPLESS: Tell your husband to see his doctor and find out what's new in slumber inducement. A mild relaxant before bedtime could help both of you.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "TOO SENSITIVE": Don't take it personally. When you are asked, "How come a nice girl like you isn't married," it is intended as a compliment not a put down.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Telerama Is Set Mar. 6

NEW BERN — The Jaycees' second annual March of Dimes Telerama is slated to take place March 6 and 7 at WCTI-TV, Channel 12 studios.

Featured in this year's Telerama will be Mary Ann Mobley, former Miss America and television star, her husband Gary Collins, Loonis McGlohon, Miss North Carolina of 1970 Connie Lerner and Billy Lee. The Telerama will also highlight many local talents including rock groups, gospel singers, choirs, country western groups, folk singers and dance acts.

Telephone pledge centers will be set up throughout the area. Helping with these centers will be the Washington, Morehead City, Beaufort, Kinston, Jacksonville, Greenville and Havelock Jaycees and Jay-C-Ettes.

ANCIENT FIND

CANTERBURY, England (AP) — Remains of massive Roman defenses have been discovered by an archeological team in this Kent capital. Most interesting, says expert Frank Jennings, is part of the original city wall standing 12 feet high.
