

Two South Viet Bases In Laos Under Sharp Attack City Council OKs Agreement On 10th St. Project

SAIGON (AP) — Two South Vietnamese bases inside Laos were under sharp attack late today in a new upsurge of fighting in the drive to cut the Ho Chi Minh trail field reports said.

Six more American helicopters were shot down or damaged in the action around the bases, but no details were available, the accounts said.

One of the bases was said to be north of Highway 9, the main incursion route and the other to the south. Both are 10 miles inside Laos. A South Vietnamese ranger base six miles inside Laos was overrun last week with heavy casualties.

Officials in Saigon said they had no information on the reports of the new fighting.

The field reports could not say how many of the helicopters were shot down and how many damaged. Three helicopters were shot down Tuesday.

Tuesday's losses raised to 29 the number of U.S. helicopters reported lost on both sides of the border in the 17-day-old drive into Laos. At least 40 Americans have been killed, 15 are missing and 26 wounded in the crashes.

The big U.S. base at Quang Tri in the northern zone came under rocket attack late tonight, Associated Press correspondent William Barton reported.

He said the shelling hit the outer edges of the base and lasted about half an hour, but there were no immediate reports of casualties or damage. Quang Tri is temporary headquarters for the U.S. 24th Corps, the parent unit directing American activities in support of the Laos drive.

Earlier, the U.S. Command said American air strikes have wiped out huge North Vietnamese war stockpiles on the Ho Chi Minh trail, including an estimated 800 tons of ammunition, more than 120 caches of weapons and supplies and 330 vehicles. It also reported four fuel pipelines cut.

The command also reported air attacks on three more missile sites in North Vietnam which it said threatened U.S. B52 bombers attacking the Ho Chi Minh trail.

For the seventh successive day, no forward movement was reported by the 16,000 South Vietnamese ground troops whose forwardmost elements are 16 miles inside Laos, according to their government.

The South Vietnamese military spokesman, Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, retreated today from his statement Tuesday that Saigon's forces had no intention to advance farther. He told his daily briefing for correspondents.

"We would like to clarify what we wanted to say. The purpose of the operation in Laos is not to occupy territory. It is to disrupt the enemy supply lines and to make the enemy supply flow more difficult. Concerning whether the ARVN (Army of the Republic of Vietnam) will make further advances, we have nothing to say on that."

Although hundreds of U.S. planes have been bombing the enemy supply network in Laos every day for months, the U.S. Command's claim of damage caused by its air operations covered only the period from the start of the South Vietnamese ground thrust into Laos on Feb. 8 through this morning. Some observers believed the announcement was made to divert attention from the stalled South Vietnamese ground drive.

A U.S. spokesman said that in addition to the ammunition, caches and vehicles destroyed, American air strikes had killed an estimated 500 North Vietnamese troops and knocked out 115 bunkers, 35 gun positions and 420 structures.

A resolution of agreement between the City of Greenville and the State Highway Commission to widen East Tenth Street for 2.31 miles, beginning at Cotanche Street and continuing to a point 284 feet past the intersection of U.S. 264 and 264 by-pass, was approved Tuesday at a special call meeting of the City Council.

City Manager Harry Hagerty, outlining principal points before the official resolution was read, said the total cost of the project is estimated at $662,500.

In approving the resolution, city councilmen commits the city to pay 20 percent of the total costs, with a provision that the first payment of $13,500 for the city's share become due October 1, 1971 and continue at that rate annually for a ten year period until October 1, 1980. Any adjustment of payments necessary due to difference of actual construction and estimated construction would be payable on the final payment date in 1980.

It will be the responsibility of the Greenville Utilities Commission to move underground cables, gas, water, and sewer lines. Hagerty noted the telephone company was communicating directly with the State Highway Commission in regard to placing telephone lines underground. This decision is still to be determined.

Initially, the State Highway Commissions' recommendation was for a cost-share program of 50 percent commission and 50 percent city. After several rounds of review and negotiations, the 80-20 percent commission-city ratio was established as a recommended base of cost shares. It is this ratio that was approved by the city and will be sent to the State Highway Commission for final acceptance or rejection.

"For all intents and purposes," Hagerty told the councilmen, "this should be accepted by the highway commission without any problems arising."

A question was raised as to whether the estimated total of $662,500 for the project included expected developments of suits which may arise from right of way acquisitions. A telephone call to Raleigh revealed that the estimate was conclusive, and provided for this expected factor in the project.

No date for commencement of the 60 foot four lane was announced. The action yesterday, however, further clears the way for action within the near future.

The planned widened street will have traffic lights and controls provided and maintained by the state.

Voting for the resolution of agreement was unanimous. One councilman, Jerry Sutherland, was unable to attend the call meeting.

In another action, concilmen voted approval for the purchase of three automobiles to be used as police cruisers for the Police Department.

Bids were received from Phelps Chevrolet and Hastings Ford. Phelps was the successful bidder for the two cars, one with a low bid price of $2,936.24; another at $2,736.24. Hastings Ford's low bid was for $2,625.28 on one car. In all three instances, trade in of wrecked cars figured into the bidding. Total low bid for the three cars was $8,297.76.

Payment for the cars was approved by means of $4,500 from the city budget; three insurance checks of $604.91; $1,126.18; and $900.00, and $1,166.67 from the police contingency fund to provide for the total price of the low bids.

An agreement for liability insurance for the city was approved. Hagerty said that only two bids were submitted as companies seem not interested in bidding unless the amount is at least $8,000. The bid approved was one of $5,957, submitted by the Reliance Insurance Company. A lower bid of $5,868 from the Insurance Company of North America was not accepted.

Councilman Percy Cox made a suggestion the city "stay with Reliance." Hagerty, commenting on the Insurance Company of North America, said "they presumably had problems in making adjustments," a reference to difficulties experienced in negotiations with this company over a house damage claim made by Mack Fleming.

In a final action, councilmen approved the appointment of City Clerk William N. Moore as Administrative Manager of Municipal Elections for the elections coming up on May 4.

New Grifton By-Pass Open To Public

GRIFTON — The Grifton bypass portion of a four-lane road construction project reaching from Lenoir County to Greenville has been opened to traffic, according to District Highway Engineer C. W. Snell.

"Although the Grifton bypass project was opened to traffic last week," Snell explained, "the portion of the project from Hanrahan to Ayden is not complete. There still remains some shoulder work and seeding to be completed on that portion of the project."

He estimated that construction on the Hanrahan to Ayden section of the Grifton bypass project would be completed in about three to four weeks.

Construction of the Ayden-Greenville portion of the N. C. 11 four laning project is expected to be completed in about a month, Snell states.

"All of the Ayden to Greenville portion of the N. C. 11 project is still under construction and is not opened to traffic," Snell explained.

"Another month and the entire road should be opened to traffic," he added.

Union Pay Standards Shelved By Nixon In Building Projects

WASHINGTON (AP) — Backing away from a wage-price freeze, President Nixon has shelved union wage standards on federal building projects in hopes of controlling inflation in the massive construction industry.

Top union and management leaders immediately attacked the President's move as an inadequate and ineffective way to moderate the upward spiral of wages and prices in the building industry. By choosing this relatively mild step, Nixon left himself open to charges he isn't willing to go far enough to bring inflation under control.

Declaring an inflation emergency exists in construction, Nixon Tuesday suspended indefinitely the 1931 Davis-Bacon Act requiring payment of prevailing wages on federal building jobs.

The effect is to free contractors from paying workers union wages prescribed by the government on projects involving federal money. Only new government projects are affected by the decision.

"The mere suspension of the Davis-Bacon Act may have some long-range results but it will not help in any way to stop the demands for huge wage increases with 1,368 construction agreements set to expire this year," said William E. Dunn, executive director of the Associated General Contractors of America.

In Miami Beach, AFL-CIO President George Meany said Nixon's move will "have no real effect on halting inflation."

He called it "an open invitation to unscrupulous employers to exploit workers by competitive undermining of fair wages and labor standards."

For more than a week, the administration had let it be known it was seriously considering a freeze on wages, prices and profits in the construction industry, where pay settlements averaged more than 18 per cent last year and costs have soared.

But Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson told reporters, "The President simply didn't want to try to enforce a wage-price freeze or government-imposed controls on a reluctant industry."

Nixon said in a statement the Davis-Bacon suspension was "the most appropriate of the actions which are available to me at this time."

He called on states and other government units with similar prevailing-wage laws to take similar action.

$92,750 Loss Is Estimated

FOUNTAIN — A tornado that hit an area west of Fountain early Monday night caused an estimated $92,750 damage to homes, farm buildings and other facilities in that area.

According to J. H. Rose, director of the Pitt County Civil Defense and Fountain Mayor Carter Smith, damage was done in a three-county area, a few miles west of Fountain.

Estimated damage to the town of Fountain for loss of a portion of its electrical system was $750. Estimated damage to the counties included: Pitt, $12,000; Wilson, $30,000; and Edgecombe, $50,000.

Kivett Resigns Mid-East Post

WASHINGTON — Frank M. Kivett has resigned as executive director of the Mid-East Economic Development Commission, a position he has held since 1968.

Kivett indicated in his letter of resignation to William H. Page, commission chairman, that his departure would be effective when an "orderly transition of affairs" could be finalized.

The director said that he would be accepting a position in Charlotte but the nature of his new employment was not announced.

A successor is expected to be announced on Monday at a call meeting of the commission's executive committee.

Kivett said that the commission has made many accomplishments. Over $10 million in public and private funds have been committed to the area, he pointed out, "but of even greater significance than the funds that have or will come is that the vehicle through which these accomplishments can be later cited, has been created."

Several proposals were offered by Kivett for consideration that could provide "greater service to the citizens of this area and which would make it an even greater place to live."

Kivett proposed that the counties consider the establishment of county police forces in order to provide higher efficiency in law enforcement. He also said that each county should consider the establishment of a full time, professionally staffed, industrial development commission.

The county manager system of government should also be (Continued on page 12)

Local Option Sales Tax Set

RALEIGH (AP) — The Senate was expected to approve and send to the House today legislation authorizing county commissioners in North Carolina to levy a local option 1 per cent sales tax.

The measure was approved 42-3 Tuesday and held over for final Senate action today.

Sen. John J. Burney, D-New Hanover, co-sponsor of the bill, told the Senate, "In the opinion of the best legal minds we can find, this bill would be constitutional."

The State Supreme Court ruled Jan. 18 that the local option 1 per cent sales tax in 25 counties was unconstitutional because it was discriminatory and not uniform across the state.

Burney said the 25 counties and municipalities which shared in the sales tax are still "suffering from shock."

"The earliest they can start collecting the tax again is May 1," he explained.

Under the bill, county commissioners could levy a sales tax with or without a vote of the people.

The Senate Tuesday approved an amendment by Burney that if a county voted out the sales tax, it could not be reimposed by the commissioners within two years after the tax was terminated.

The Senate beat down three amendments, one of which would have removed the authority for the commissioners to levy a tax without a vote of the people. This was offered by Sen. Marshall Rauch, D-Gaston.

Sen. Hector McGeachy, D-Cumberland, offered two amendments, one of which would have required commissioners to give public notice of a hearing before a tax could be imposed.

McGeachy also proposed changing one word. Under his amendment, if a county voted for a tax, the commissioners "shall" impose the levy. The bill, says the commissioners may impose the tax if the levy is approved by voters.

Sen. Norman H. Jayner, R-Iredell, proposed a constitutional amendment to give the lieutenant governor a $25,000 pay raise and additional duties.

Pitt Population Is Classified As Half Rural And Half Urban

Pitt County's 1970 population is divided exactly 50 percent urban and 50 percent rural, according to the Bureau of the Census, U.S. Department of Commerce.

Pitt County's official population in the census was 73,900, up 5.7 percent from the 1960 figure of 69,942.

The official population of the state was 5,082,059, up 11.5 percent from the 1960 population count, which was 4,556,155.

The 1970 census counted 48,268 white persons in Pitt County, 55.3 percent of the total; 25,498 Negroes, and 134 persons of other races. In 1960, 56.4 percent of the population was white.

The census showed 5,917 children under 5 years; 18,830 in ages 5 through 17; 43,853 people 18 through 64; and 5,300 who were 65 and older. The population 14 years and over included 31,440 married people, 4,364 who were widowed, 954 divorced, and 18,671 never married.

There were 20,984 households, with 69,434 persons, including 3,029 one-person households. In addition, 4,466 persons were living in group quarters.

The 1970 census counted 22,934 housing units in Pitt County, 10,710 of them occupied by owners, 10,274 occupied by tenants, and 1,950 vacant. These included vacant units for seasonal use. The proportion occupied by owners in 1970 was 46.7 percent, compared with 39.3 percent in 1960.

Among year-round dwelling units there were 17,839 single family houses, 3,477 housing units in multi-unit buildings, and 1,423 mobile homes or trailers. The percentage of occupied units with more than one person per room was 12.3, compared with 20.4 in 1960. Of all the occupied housing units, 16,568 had piped water, toilet, and bath, while 4,416 lacked some or all plumbing.

The median value of owner-occupied houses in Pitt County was $15,100, compared with $9,800 in 1960. The median rent paid by tenants in 1970 was $55 per month, compared with $50 in 1960. Half were over and half below the median figures.

These results are from two 1970 census advance reports for the state: PC(V2), General Population Characteristics, and HC(V1), General Housing Characteristics. The reports, which contain additional 1970 census data for the state and various areas within it, may be purchased at nominal prices from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S.

Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402, or from offices of the U. S. Department of Commerce in major cities.

Further reports giving more extensive statistics on the characteristics of the population and housing will be published in future months as the 1970 census results are tabulated.

Long Island Couple Adopts In Visible Attempt To Stop Bigotry

By PHYLLIS STEWART
Long Island Press Writer
LONG ISLAND CITY, N.Y. (AP) — When Hank and Dorothy Young of Lake Ronkonkoma speak of "the revolution," they are not referring to any underground movement to destroy established institutions, but to a visible attempt by many Long Island families to combat bigotry.

When the Youngs adopted a 3-year-old Korean child two years ago, little did they realize they would be harbingers of radical change. At that time, there was barely a handful of families involved in interracial adoptions. Today, thanks in large part to the efforts of Hank and Dorothy, there are almost 300 couples on Long Island alone who have adopted non-white children.

And for the Youngs, what began as a "nice way to get a sister" for their two natural sons, Robert, 16 and Patrick, 7, has become a way of life about which Dorothy simply says, "It's no good to have high ideals if you do not live up to them."

The Youngs first became aware of the plight of homeless Korean children through the efforts of Faye and Joseph Caperna of Holbrook, themselves the parents of six adopted children, who were attempting to recruit homes in the metropolitan area. The situation so disturbed them that despite the fact that their home had been destroyed by fire, they determined to find a way to swing an adoption.

Christina, now 5, was followed by Laura, 3, a hard-to-place white child who Dorothy said "was supposedly tense and unable to have a one-to-one relationship. What she needed was love." Next came 10-year-old Dorothy, a Korean-American child, who was followed last summer by Benjamin, a sensitive, bright, 6-year-old of black-white parentage.

"It took us longer to decide whether we could cope with a child of black heritage than it did with any of the others," said Dorothy. "We were worried about the reaction of our families, the community and especially the effect it might have on Hank's business (he owns his own butcher shop), but we came to the conclusion it was more important for us to give Benjamin a home."

"The children's different racial backgrounds are a common topic of conversation and we want them to be proud of their heritages. It was important to us that Benjamin be aware of his black-white background before he entered school last fall, so that he would understand any racial slurs that he might be the target of. We want them to know what a bigoted person is and to understand we do not live that way."

Dorothy Young is what one would call a natural mother. Sensitive, perceptive, she is closely attuned to the needs—emotional as well as physical—of her children. She has been married to Hank for 18 of her 37 years.

"My experience with these children has made me more tolerant," she reflected. "I feel compassion towards the person who is prejudiced. They are the ones who are missing out. If we hadn't adopted four children, naturally our standard of living would be higher. Robert would be able to have his own car. But we have all learned these are not the things that are important in life."

"The children have given us a great deal of joy," said Hank, "which is not to say that we haven't had any problems. We felt when adopting Benjamin that we would find out who our fair-weather friends were, and it's sad to say, some of them turned out to be in our own family. But by and large we have found that a child is able to break down prejudice."

In an effort to encourage interracial adoption on Long Island and to convince the traditionally conservative adoption agencies the old guidelines are no longer adequate, the Youngs in conjunction with the Capernas organized the Open Door Society of New York in September 1969.

"We want to see other children get homes," Dorothy said. "Many people simply never think of adopting and they are unaware of the many handicapped and non-white children in need of homes. We have found that once the seed is planted, people will respond to the children's needs. There has been a breakthrough. And if we can place just one child, it is a whole lifetime changed."

State Officials Visit Local ESA Chapters

State President Carolyn B. Smith and Chapter Advisor Priscilla visited local ESA Chapters on Friday and Saturday.

The state officers were welcomed by a committee from Gamma Delta and Alpha Omega on Friday afternoon at the Holiday Inn.

On Saturday morning, Gamma Delta Chapter of ESA honored the guests at a breakfast at the Holiday Inn Restaurant. Carol Stevens, president, welcomed all members and presented the honored guests corsages of jonquils tied with blue ribbon, which is the flower and color of ESA.

Philanthropic and other projects for the community were discussed. Mrs. Smith told the group she would like to see North Carolina chapters contribute more to philanthropic, state and the state scholarship fund increased.

She also said that chapters should award more and bigger scholarships to deserving teachers and more individual participation to the International Disaster Fund.

Epsilon Sigma Alpha is an educational social and philanthropic sorority with 1,500 chapters and is one of the largest organizations in the world of its kind.

Two copies of the manuscript must be typed and double spaced

Eating On The Job Brought Mail Box

COLOGNE, West Germany (WNS) — Rosemarie Mueller, 27, brought a police dog to guard her apartment against thieves while she was at work. But a problem developed: Rosemarie got into trouble with creditors because the dog ate all the mail, including the bills that was slipped under her front door. Solution: three creditors chipped in to buy Fraulein Mueller a mail box.

Salt is usually added after broiling a steak because the salt has a tendency to draw out juice and retard browning.

Jealousy Caused His Bad Mood

COURBEVOIE, France (WNS) — Jacques Foucaut, 39, suspected his fiancée of writing love letters to another man. With fishing line and chewing gum for bait, he fished 193 letters out of the post box but none from his fiancée. Police who found the 193 unopened letters in Foucaut's apartment asked why he had not mailed them. "When you're jealous, you hate everybody and everything," said the Frenchman. "It's all women's fault."

Chile Is Land Of Robust Food, Wine

By TOM HOGE
Associated Press Writer
Chile's recent venture into the realm of Marxism sent a tremor through the Western Hemisphere. But the changeover has had no noticeable effect on the fine wines and robust food long associated with this string bean-shaped country wedged between the Andes and the Pacific Ocean.

Chile does not enjoy the abundance of beef that distinguishes neighboring Argentina, but it has made culinary history on its own with the lowly bean and a dazzling variety of seafood.

When the Spaniards conquered Chile in the 16th century, they had their hands full subduing the Araucanian Indians. Many modern Chileans have Indian blood in their veins and the influence is notable in such dishes as Forotos Granados, a mixture of beans, corn and squash, all favorites of the Indians.

But the dish also contains such distinctly Latin seasonings as garlic and onion. And most Chilean households accompany their meals with a volcanic sauce of chile, garlic and vinegar known as Pebre.

Chile is making its name today as vintner of some of the finest wines available anywhere, and they are being offered at reasonable prices.

Among the better Chilean wines available here are a dry, full-bodied Sauvignon Blanc and a fresh young Riesling in a squat flask that is fine for every day use.

Personal

Mrs. Cora Belle Duncan is a patient in Pitt Memorial Hospital, room 141.

Either wine serves as an excellent accompaniment for Chile's famed seafood dish Fruta de Mar, or Fruit of the Sea. Here's a popular recipe for it.

FRUTA DE MAR
1 cup fresh or frozen corn kernels
2 medium tomatoes, peeled seeded and chopped
2 ounces Riesling
1 ounce Cognac
2 tablespoons olive oil
1 tablespoon chopped coriander
1/4 teaspoon chopped, seeded fresh hot chile
1/2 teaspoon salt
freshly ground pepper to taste
3 small live lobsters, boiled and cut in half

3 pounds shrimp, deveined, boiled, shelled and cooled
Boil one quart water, drop in corn and return to boil, cook uncovered for three minutes, stirring. Drain corn and return to saucepan. Stir in tomatoes, wine, Cognac, olive oil, coriander, chili, salt, pepper and rest at room temperature for 1 hour.
Cook three cups long-grained rice, cool and combine with corn mixture. Heap on platter with seafood arranged around the rice and corn mixture.
Serve with a hollandaise sauce spiced with 1/2 teaspoon chopped, seeded, fresh hot chili per pint. Serve with cold Riesling or Sauvignon.

This Mother Needs Lesson In Nutrition

By Abigail Van Buren

(c. 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: There is a young woman living next door to us who is in the process of divorcing her husband. She has two beautiful sons, ages 3 and 7.

These children have not been fed properly, Abby. Once when I returned from the marketing and was putting away the groceries, the older boy asked if he and his brother could please share a carrot. I gave them each a carrot which they devoured like they were starving to death. Since then I give them a good nutritious meal with milk and fresh fruits and vegetables every day.

I know for a fact that they have gone without lunches before I started to feed them. Their dinners consist of hamburgers from the corner drive-in. Their mother has a good job and could feed them properly, but she doesn't.

My husband and I don't mind feeding the boys but we won't always be living next to them, and the next neighbors may not want to be bothered.

Should I talk to the mother about the boys' nutrition? She is one of those hard, tough women who runs with a motorcycle crowd and may not appreciate my interest.

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: Talk to her anyway. Don't be critical of her, and don't give her any cause to feel guilty and defensive, and she'll not be resentful. You have nothing to lose and you could help those boys a lot by educating their delinquent mother.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a wife who gives her husband a birthday card with a note enclosed saying, "I owe you a present?"

HURT IN LOUISVILLE

DEAR HURT: It's better than being forgotten.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my sister. Brenda is 12 and I am 14. Our job is doing supper dishes every night. We have a system. I clear off the table and wash, and Brenda wipes and sweeps up. And we both put away. Doesn't that sound fair to you? Well, Brenda always gripes that her job is harder than my job, and she picks a fight, then my mother hears us fighting in the kitchen so she comes in and chases us both out and ends up doing everything herself. Brenda goes out and watches television and I don't even want to be in the same room with her so I go to my bedroom. How can I teach Brenda a lesson?

JILL

DEAR JILL: Since the argument is always over whose job is harder—and you think they're equal, offer to switch jobs with Brenda. And if she still complains, tell her to keep her voice down. Kids have been using this dodge to get out of helping their mothers for years because they know mother would rather do it herself than referee a fight.

DEAR ABBY: Is it ever possible to forgive and forget?

TRYING HARD

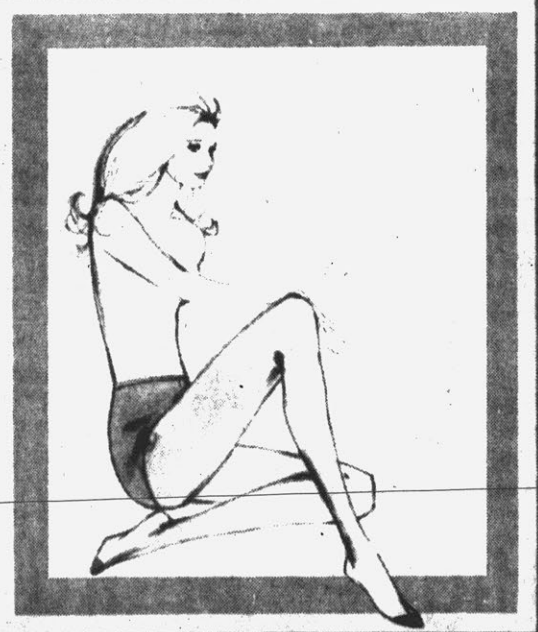

DEAR TRYING: Yes. But don't dwell on what it is you're "forgiving,"—or you'll never forget.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Solution Appears 'Too Simple'

The Congressional redistricting bill that has come out of the Senate Congressional Redistricting Committee seems an almost too simple solution to a difficult problem.

The bill would realign only 10 counties and it keeps all 11 incumbent congressmen in their present districts.

The bill has brought statements of support from both Democrats and Republicans. Its population deviation would be only 1.01 percent which most observers feel would meet the approval of the federal courts.

The ten counties which would be shifted under the

Reform Talked By Legislators

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — How much legislature does North Carolina need? How much can it afford?

Basic questions such as these must be considered before overhauling the General Assembly machine, essentially an 18th century model housed in a 20th century building.

"Structure serves to achieve goals," said Lieutenant Governor H. P. (Pat) Taylor, Jr. "You must set the goals before you can fix the pattern for the structure."

In other words, legislative reform must be preceded by decision on the legislative function.

However uncertain Tar Heels may be about the latter, there is a growing sense of urgency about the former.

There always has been some restive chafing under the strictures of the system. Since the '71 session, convened, it has approached crescendo proportions.

Many Revision Proposals

Suggestions have been raised (either informally or in bills introduced) for changes which would: (1) make the legislature meet each year, rather than every other year; (2) give leadership continuity by allowing the House Speaker to succeed himself; (3) establish similar continuity for committees, in chairmen and membership; (4) provide research aid and other staff assistance to lawmakers, both during and between sessions; (5) place the job of legislator on a full-time, professional basis with compensation to match.

What this urge to tinker with the machinery is symptomatic of, said Lieutenant Governor Taylor, is the frustration and feeling of inadequacy to which legislators are liable.

"As a legislator, am I supposed to know all that goes on in the various departments of state government? Or am I to take the word of the officials concerned and appropriate money on that basis?" he asked.

Historically, the practice has been for the General Assembly to stay out of the actual operation of government and concern itself with policy and political questions. Expansion of state services has brought mounting pressure from taxpayers to determine that funds are wisely spent, that programs actually produce results, and that bureaucracy be kept in check by legislative surveillance.

Change Costs Money

Such a role for the legislature — and it already is evolving — carries a price tag. The taxpayers buying the package ought to be certain it is what they want and are willing to pay for, said Taylor.

"I sign the bills here. I know what it costs. The taxpayers of the state are paying $15,000 to $20,000 a day for the General Assembly to stay in session. You don't spend public funds like that without every effort to assure efficiency," he said.

The figure Taylor mentioned is only the beginning. It doesn't include the annual salaries and expense allowances for solons, which continue in the year when the legislature is not in session. Neither does it take in operation of the Legislative Services office, another year-round activity.

The budget for the 1970-71 fiscal year for the General Assembly totals approximately $24 million and budget officials expect the cost of the session to run beyond that.

To put that in perspective, the cost for a session was less than one-half million 20 years ago, and the 1941 session three decades past cost less than $200,000.

Every one of the discussed changes in the legislative structure would involve additional expenditures of a greater or lesser amount.

With that in mind, Taylor said, a natural question is whether North Carolina needs 170 legislators to attend to its business. For example, California with four times the population has only 120.

Study Group At Work

He said all alternatives should be studied by the Legislative Citizens' Advisory Commission, a 30-member group set up by the 1969 General Assembly and directed to report to the 1973 session. Its chairman is Gordon Hanes of Winston-Salem, an industrialist who has served as a State Senator.

To proceed at this session to revise legislative structure would pre-empt the work of the commission, Taylor said. It would be wiser, he suggested, to wait until it has had the opportunity to present its findings and recommendations.

"Once a change is made, it tends to get perpetuated," he observed. "I would hope we would wait until we have analyzed the whole structure before changing any parts of it."

plan include: Carteret from the third district to the first; Bladen from the seventh to 34th; Greene from the second to the first; Caswell from the sixth to the second; Orange from the fourth to the second; Lee from the eighth to the third; Yadin and Davie from the fifth and Avery from the tenth to the eleventh.

The bill seems the easiest way of re-aligning the Congressional districts without upsetting the districts by pitting two incumbents against each other. There had been the threat of some Republican congressmen seeking state wide offices if their districts were greatly changed to their disadvantage.

Some Republicans have already said the plan will have GOP support.

Sen. David Flaherty, R-Caldwell, predicted the plan would be approved. Rep. Jim Johnson, R-Cabarrus, said, "I like the bill. We should go ahead and pass it and get it behind us. I see no need in hassling over it. It won't hurt the Democrats and it won't hurt the Republicans."

Sen. Thomas Strickland, D-Wayne, said the bill "looks good to me. It seems to be about as fair as you are going to get without getting incumbents to bump into each other. It doesn't do violence to the districts and keeps traditional interests together."

It may be that some sentiment will arise for shifting one county or another before the bill is finally approved. However, it looks to us as if the Senate committee has worked out a good solution to a complex problem. The less time that is spent on haggling over this issue the better off the Legislature will be.

Raises A Question As To Safeguard Safety

A teletype operator's error in picking up the wrong tape which flashed a national alert Saturday is human enough; however, it again shows us that the chance of error is there in any system that man can devise.

The mistake caused a national flurry, but other than that no harm was done. One wonders, however, what the situation would be if something of this nature were to happen in the system that orders an atomic attack.

No doubt there are many safeguards built into the system, but a few weeks ago we would have been told that such a thing could not happen in the national emergency alert system.

YRS Stuck To Conservatism

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — The Young Republican National Federation (YRNF) last week put party regularity above an appeal to radical youth and bounced its potential bridge to the New Left — Rep. Paul N. (Pete) McCloskey of California — off the program of its annual leadership training school.

McCloskey's sin was a Feb. 13 speech at Stanford University attacking President Nixon's military operation into Laos and talking about Presidential impeachment. After considerable internal debate, the Young Republican leaders decided this was going too far in their quest for a more moderate image.

Actually, the YRNF had trouble lining up moderates for the week-long school at the Marriott Twin Bridges Motor Hotel here. Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York had a previous engagement. Secretary George Romney of Housing and Urban Development first accepted but then bowed out. That left mainly blue conservatives, such as Sens. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina and James Buckley of New York — except for McCloskey.

McCloskey, a handsome 43-year-old decorated Maine veteran and Republican dove who won national fame by defeating Shirley Temple for Congress, agreed to head a panel on the youth vote Friday. But Pat Breheny, an assistant to Rep. William Scherle of Iowa serving as public relations man for the school, spotted McCloskey's Stanford speech on the news ticker.

According to that ticker account, McCloskey told the students Mr. Nixon might change his Indochina policy "if we start a national dialogue to discuss his impeachment." Breheny argued that this disqualified McCloskey from appearing before the YRs. When organizers of the training school responded it was too late to change, Breheny threatened to quit — fully supported by his conservative boss, Scherle.

In truth, the Stanford transcript shows McCloskey did not actually advocate impeachment but, however imprudently, listed it as one recourse for anti-war youth to follow. He never got a chance to explain to the YRs.

Defending Agnew's Golf

WASHINGTON — When Vice President Spiro Agnew criticized the news media a few years ago for playing up bad news instead of good news, he knew what he was talking about.

A perfect example of the way the press and TV media showed total irresponsibility took place at the Bob Hope Golf Classic a week ago Saturday when the Vice President drove two golf balls into the crowd in succession, bopping three fans in the process.

NBC television, covering the golf classic, trained its cameras on this ignominious event and later put it on its news shows.

The eastern establishment press lords, particularly the Washington Post and the New York Times, published front page photos of the Vice President's anguished look after his second drive.

The implication given by both television and the newspapers was that Vice President Agnew was not a very good golf player.

Now it's interesting to note that the NBC-TV cameras reported that incident rather than show all the balls that Agnew drove that did not hit anybody.

A small elite band of men in New York decided among themselves that Agnew hitting a spectator was news, when everyone knows that Agnew not hitting a spectator with a golf ball is news.

The impression the average person got from watching the golf classic on TV was that the Vice President was a very dangerous man with a driver.

The self-opinionated commentators not only discussed the drives that Vice President Agnew had just made, but also reminded viewers that this was not the first time he had bopped someone with a golf ball. They cited the incident with Doug Sanders, the golf pro whom Agnew had managed to hit in the head a few years back.

Now it is a known fact that on the same Saturday, 897,562 people played golf somewhere in the United States. Not one of them hit a spectator with a golf ball. Did the networks show these people playing golf? Did the newspaper stories concentrate on all the duffers in America that were playing safe and sane golf that day? (Continued on page 8)

Other Editors Say $70-A-Day Welfare

(Chattanooga News-Free Press)

New York Mayor John V. Lindsay indicated surprise and anger when it was revealed that a mother and her four children had been put up at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York City at taxpayers' expense as part of the welfare program.

"I'm deeply angered and outraged over this incident," Mayor Lindsay said, after finding the welfare recipients had a $70-a-day room paid for by the taxpayers.

There is no reason he should be surprised. It's been going on in New York for a long time. The only thing new is that the welfare hotel guests just got put up in a big-name hotel that attracted attention this time, and at a higher-than-usual rate.

The News-Free Press, certainly not the first to editorialize on the New York situation, commented a month ago about taxpayers' being forced to subsidize welfare hotel payments running up to $1,200 a month in New York.

At that time, it was noted that New York families were living in some 40 hotels, that conditions were not only costly but bad for the children involved and that many hotel operators had had such destructive results they were trying to avoid something the taxpayers obviously were unable to avoid.

In New York, it was reported that the city paid one-fourth of the cost with the state and federal governments paying three-fourths. That means you had a part in footing the $70-a-day bill of the family at the Waldorf.

Mayor Lindsay's outrage over this case is new but the situation is old, since before going to the Waldorf, this family had been staying at the Manhattan Beach Hotel in Brooklyn, at the somewhat lower but still substantial "welfare" cost of $23 a day.

Welfare officials alibied that they were unable to find other accommodations for the family that had been moved around for three months before the Brooklyn apartment in which it lived had deteriorated.

The welfare mother said the welfare department wanted to put her in the Red Hook section of Brooklyn but that she was holding out for a place in the $170-a-month Atlantic Towers in Brooklyn. Isn't that great?

The taxpayers meanwhile are being taken, and officials pretend surprise over a disgusting situation that has long prevailed but has received too little public attention.

Says It Won't Work

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Compulsory arbitration is from time to time advocated as an alternative to strikes, but no less than the head of the American Arbitration Association believes such suggestions are unworkable.

"Anybody who tries to sell the notion is selling snakeoil," says Donald Straus, president of AAA, a nonprofit organization that seeks to develop voluntary arbitration as a peaceful, effective technique for settling disputes.

"Compulsory arbitration hasn't worked in other countries and I don't think it will here," Straus adds. There is, he feels, "no absolute safety to the public against strikes." But voluntary arbitration at least offers an alternative.

To be fully effective, he and others in AAA feel, arbitration must be voluntarily entered and its decisions freely accepted. Introduce compulsion and one side becomes a loser, which violates the spirit of the procedure.

The voluntary kind is getting renewed attention as a means of breaking deadlocks in negotiations. By prior agreement, parties would submit their differences to an impartial arbitrator if it became clear they could not agree.

The parties cannot be forced into arbitration, they must arrive at the decision themselves. Usually when each side feels it has more to lose than to gain by a strike, it becomes more amenable to the idea.

However, one side generally is more powerful and wishes to avoid arbitration. And the weaker side cannot submit differences to the arbitrator without the agreement of its adversary.

Seldom is a balance of power found, and so the arbitration industry is, as Straus puts it, "a (Continued on page 8)

Text Of Gov. Scott's Remarks To Higher Board

I wish to comment on events in higher education that have occurred in the past several weeks.

Last December I asked representatives from the Boards of Trustees of each of our state supported institutions of higher learning, including the School of the Arts, to meet with me at the Executive Mansion to discuss what might be done to improve the structure of governance of the higher education system in North Carolina. Every institution was represented at that meeting, including members of this board.

I outlined to these trustees some of the problems prevalent in our system today — problems which I feel will get worse unless something is done to improve the situation.

It was felt by those present — and this was a very informal meeting — that the matter should be explored Mr. Victor Bryant of this board suggested that a committee be formed to look into the matter and report back.

Subsequently, after discussing the matter with leaders in higher education in this state, including the University President, I named a committee with trustee representatives from each state supported university. Five trustees from this board, headed by Mr. Bryant, serve on this committee.

The Board of Higher Education is represented and so is the School of the Arts. No administrators or paid educators serve on the committee — only trustees.

The committee, with the Honorable Lindsay Warren, Jr. of Goldsboro serving as Chairman, is now at work diligently seeking an answer to this growing problem. I have asked the committee to develop recommendations that I can present to this session of the General Assembly.

Now the reason for this effort is simply that a halt must be called to the infighting, the maneuvering, the overlapping, the duplication that is all too prevalent in higher education in our state today.

This University has been a part of this. I tried to make that clear last week.

But so have other institutions of higher learning in our state — some more than others, depending on how aggressive the administrators and trustees have been.

In the midst of all this, the Board of Higher Education has been trying, with only limited success because of limited authority, to bring about some semblance of coordination. But its been kind of like one referee in a ring with 16 fighters all going at the same time.

Now it is expected that the various administrators should be vigorous in promoting their institutions. We want them to advance their respective campuses, but not at the expense of the overall program of higher education in North Carolina nor to the detriment of other campuses.

Let me digress just a moment to say that some editorial writers, who assume infinite wisdom on unlimited subjects with limited understanding, say I am to share the blame for much of the confusion in higher education today since I was Lieutenant Governor and the president of the Senate from 1964-68. I won't argue the point except to say they give the office of Lieutenant Governor credit for having much more power than I realized it had after the Senate Committees are appointed.

Furthermore, some writers who to my knowledge have never attended one meeting of either this board of the Board of Higher Education, but who seem to have all the answers, still bemoan the fact that the General Assembly granted my request that the Governor be made chairman of the Board of Higher Education.

Ladies and Gentlemen, other than the appropriations for higher education, that was the best move the legislature made for higher education in the last session. Had this not occurred and thus enabled me to attend the Board of Higher Education meetings, there would have been no way for me, as Governor, to understand the intricacies of higher education in North Carolina. There would have been no way for me to have a competent overview of the total educational picture. There would have been no way for me to see what a mess we are in.

It took me two years to begin to see the picture

—two years of listening to arguments

—two years of listening to the quarrelling

—two years of refereeing personalities

—two years of watching institutions apply for more and more programs without dropping any that were outmoded and unproductive.

And I am tired of it.

Tired of the wasted efforts, the endless jockeying, the constant feuding.

The time has come — indeed it has long since been with us — to stop all this.

It is time to bring order into our higher education system — and I'm talking about the total system not just the University system which is a part of the total whether some people believe it or not.

It is time for each institution to examine how it can best fit in and contribute to the total system rather than how it can claw its way up one more rung of the prestige ladder.

It is time for each institution to be more concerned with quality of offerings rather than quantity.

It is time for each institution to cease appealing directly to the General Assembly for funds, for program authority, for name changes.

It is time for the General Assembly to disregard those that do attempt this approach.

It is time for the General Assembly to establish a uniform governing system for higher education with budgetary and program authority. I am hopeful the Warren Committee will come up with a plan for the General Assembly to adopt.

There are those who say that competition among institutions is healthy. This is true in athletics, but not in (Continued on page 5) scheduled appearance. McCloskey was telephoned by YR leaders and told that his panel had been cancelled. There was no mention whatever of Stanford, Laos, or impeachment. However, the YRNF next rounded up Rep. Louis Frey of Florida, a conservative but, ironically, McCloskey's close friend, to head the same youth vote panel which had not been cancelled after all. Frey was not even told he was replacing McCloskey.

A footnote: Just last summer, McCloskey was bounced at the last minute from a youth forum at Irvine, Calif., sponsored by the White House. The avowed reason was the sudden discovery that McCloskey was up for reelection and, therefore, should not appear. However, McCloskey suspects otherwise.

Ramsey's Man

The sudden unveiling of former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark as New York's would-be favorite son for President by Manhattan businessman Eugene Lang was no help at all in attracting the support of left reformist elements in the party upon whom Clark must rely for support.

Lang is one of the old-style liberals devoted to Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey and is in bad graces with reform elements who backed Robert Kennedy and Eugene Mc-Carthy. For example, Lang was a key backer of Frank O'Connor, despised by the reformers, in his 1966 campaign for Governor of New York.

What makes this so puzzling is that Clark's only fragile hope for substantial Presidential support is beating out Mayor John V. Lindsay as champion of the New York left. Instead, he has let himself be adopted by Lang — clear evidence of Clark's political inexperience.

A footnote: Although Lang implied that Clark turned down an invitation to attend a meeting of prospective candidates in Washington, the facts are otherwise. Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien did not view Clark as prospective enough to invite him. This snub led directly to Lang's favorite-son announcement.

program offerings and budget requests. Unlike business competition, competition in higher education can lead, and has lead in our state, to a serious waste of our state's resources.

Let us have a coordinated harmonious higher education program in North Carolina. Let the private institutions like Campbell, Duke, Davidson, Livingstone, and others provide the competition for the state supported institutions.

I am very desirous that the Warren Committee, supported by thoughtful action of the General Assembly, will provide the answer to this complex problem.

I call upon all our institutions and agencies to join together in a new spirit of cooperation. Let us forget those things which are past, except for the lessons we can learn from them.

Let us put aside old feuds and personality clashes.

Let us respond to the challenge before us with a determination that the total program of higher education in North Carolina will be enhanced.

We can do this. We must.

There is the leadership. Able men like President Friday, Board of Higher Education Director Cameron West, East Carolina University President Leo Jenkins, Alex Pow, Albert Whiting, Herb Wey, Louis Dowdy, the chancellors of the University and others. Our success in solving our problems will depend greatly upon them.

Because of that fact, I am confident we will succeed.

In closing, let me say this: I don't want anyone to attempt to read too much into my remarks last week.

This University is a great University and I am proud of it, both as Governor, as a graduate of it, and as a recipient of one of its honorary degrees. I yield to no one, including editorial writers who really don't have any way of knowing, my enthusiastic support for the University.

Because of this, when I think something is wrong I will say so, as I did last week and again today. I'm not going to withhold criticism just because it's not deemed proper or nice to criticize the University. But I will continue to praise the University as I have so often done and will support its efforts when I believe those efforts are in the best interests of the total program for our state and our people.

Finally, in case anyone may be contemplating sending in an application for President Friday's job, they can forget it as far as I am concerned. I'm sure that all of you feel as I do — that Bill Friday ranks among the foremost university administrators in America today. We're fortunate to have him and for my part, we want to keep him.

Italian Pipeline Being Planned

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A pipeline that would service the rapidly increasing industrialization of the island of Sicily and the industrial areas of Southern Italy is being planned.

The first phase in a feasibility study for the natural gas pipeline from North Africa across the Mediterranean Sea and Sicily to the Italian mainland has been completed.

The study was sponsored by Italian firms, the Algerian government and the Bank of Sicily and performed by the San Francisco-based Bechtel, Inc., an engineering, construction and management services firm.

Southern California's Los Angeles Basin holds nearly a hundred cities, says National Geographic.

Tip Of A Legal Iceberg Coming Into Full View

By CHARLOTTE MOULTON
WASHINGTON (UPI) —Two years ago this April, then Chief Justice Earl Warren discerned the tip of a legal iceberg which is now coming into full view.

In a case ruling against state laws requiring a year's residency for welfare applicants, Warren found himself in a minority, cautioning that the Supreme Court was opening the door to a much broader series of challenges.

His prediction is being borne out in the present session of the court now presided over by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger.

Eight cases brought to the High Court directly challenge state-imposed waiting periods before a resident is permitted to vote. Similar lawsuits have cropped up in six other voting jurisdictions, including the District of Columbia.

Compelling Interest

If history repeats itself, these state laws are headed for oblivion under what has become known as the "compelling interest" test.

In the welfare residency case, the states had argued that the rule encouraged newcomers to get a job quickly, that it simplified budgeting and reduced the likelihood that cheaters might draw benefits from more than one state.

But the court decided 6 to 3 that a state may not under the constitution's guarantee of "equal protection of the laws" distinguish between old and new residents.

Speaking for the majority, Justice William J. Brennan Jr., said the constitution requires that "citizens be free to travel throughout the length and breadth of our land uninhibited by statutes, rules and regulations which unreasonably burden or restrict this movement."

Warren, who generally sided with the rights of the individual, voted in favor of the states, declaring:

"The court's decision reveals only the top of the iceberg. Lurking beneath are the multitude of situations in which states have imposed residence requirements, including eligibility to vote, to engage in certain professions or occupations or attend a state-supported university."

Many Cases

The court is now faced with one of the "situations" Warren foresaw. The voting cases come from Tennessee, Arizona, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Indiana, Virginia, Vermont and Alabama. In all but the Arizona case, special three-judge federal courts have struck down the residency requirement under the "compelling interest" test relied on in the welfare decision.

Other lawsuits have arisen in Arkansas, California, Ohio, Washington and Wisconsin.

Joining Brennan in his majority ruling in 1969 were Justices William O. Douglas, Potter Stewart, Byron R. White and Thurgood Marshall, along with former Justice Abe Fortas. Since all but Fortas are still on the bench, they have the majority strength to strike down voting residency requirements if they view the situations as parallel.

Justice John M. Harlan, in a separate dissent in the welfare case, traced what he saw as the history of the "compelling interest" doctrine:

The two-pronged principle operates when individuals have been 1) separated into classifications and 2) deprived of a right. A governing body may do both these things without violating the constitution but it must show a "compelling interest" in the result.

Equal Protection

The traditional rule of, say, 30 years ago, was that a law does not deny "equal protection" if it has a common sense relation to something the government has a right to do.

But as far back as 1944, the court began questioning classifying people arbitrarily, especially on racial grounds. Although the court affirmed the conviction of a Japanese who had violated a World War II order excluding Japanese from the West Coast, the opinion cautioned: "All legal restrictions which curtail the civil rights of a single racial group are immediately suspect."

In 1966, the court, on the ground that the state of one's pocketbook can't be the basis for classification, struck down Virginia's $1.50 poll tax requirement for voting.

Citing its "one man, one vote" decision, the 1966 opinion said the same is true whether "he has $1.50 in his pocket or nothing at all."

The other branch of the "compelling interest" principle is that the classification affects a fundamental right.

Civil Rights

This idea was foreshadowed in 1942 when the court held subject to "strict scrutiny" an Oklahoma law providing for compulsory sterilization of habitual criminals, because the law affected "one of the basic civil rights."

This same viewpoint in a voting context was highlighted in the 1964 decision which required state legislative districts to be of equal population. The opinion said "any alleged infringement of the right of citizens to vote must be carefully and meticulously scrutinized."

In 1965, the right to vote was again the yardstick when the court ruled that Texas could not deny the vote to a bona fide resident because he was a member of the armed forces.

A law passed by Congress to eliminate state residency requirements applicable only to voting for president and vice president was upheld earlier this term as part of the 18-year-old vote case, which dealt with the powers of Congress as against those of the states.

The answer is obviously NO! They chose instead to report on Agnew's golf game. Why? Because it was bad news. The fact that no one else that Saturday had hit anyone with a golf ball was good news, and therefore in the eyes of these self-styled editors it was not news.

These editors, who talk only to each other and watch the same golf matches on television, decided the Agnew story was more important.

How can the American people get an objective view of golf when all they see on their news programs and in their papers is the violence committed on the course by the Vice President?

What about the children who were watching that day? Did anyone point out to them that for every spectator Vice President Agnew hit there were 100,000 that had never been struck by one of his golf balls?

Nothing could better dramatize the point Spiro Agnew tried to make a few years ago about the irresponsibility of the media which choose to show only those parts of the Vice President's golf game that are hopeless.

It behooves the networks to give the Vice President a full hour on a driving range that every ball he hits doesn't necessarily go into the crowd.

Police Given Beard Rights

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The town board of suburban Evans says its 16 policemen and eight part-timers may let their whiskers bloom after Feb. 1—if they wish and provided the beards are kept neat.

Patrolman David Burke, also president of the JayCees, said that many of the policemen want to enter a beard-growing contest as part of the town's upcoming sesquicentennial celebration.

fashion industry." It has had periods of popularity, such as following World War II, and has enjoyed some usage in certain industries.

Now, many people feel, the consequences of strikes are becoming so damaging to both sides, and to the public, that the atmosphere for arbitration may be improving.

Even George Meany, AFL-CIO president, concedes, "We are getting to the point where a strike doesn't make sense in many situations." Strikes, he said, sometimes don't settle a thing but voluntary arbitration, he suggested, might.

And so the AAA is studying the possibilities, aided by representatives of labor and management.

Straus already reports some progress but avoids overt enthusiasm.

Voluntary arbitration is being used with some success in dealing with teacher and government employee issues, but Straus says he knows of no instance where it is being used in private enterprise.

He believes that relatively few companies would be unwilling to arbitrate. But with unions exerting power effectively, there might be more reluctance on their part.

Factors are at work that might change that situation. Unions are questioning the benefits of strikes. The administration is distressed. And the public may have swallowed all the frustration it can.

PRIVATE MATTER

SHREWSBURY, England (AP) — A Shropshire county councilor said that women should be able to keep their ages from policemen without fear of a fine.

"It is an unnecessary encroachment into private lives," Councilor Norman Griffith commented when investigating the case of a woman fined for withholding her age.

School Counselors Tell Of Work Among Young

The E. B. Aycock Junior High School PTA Tuesday night was given some insight into the role of the school's two guidance counselors, and was advised by school psychologist Dr. Dennis Roberts that a larger staff was needed for the student body of 1600-plus.

In his comments on the adolescent "child," Dr. Roberts described over-use of the term "underachievement", citing factors which at any given time could result in such judgments.

He noted, too that the majority of schools cannot accomodate all the needs of individual students.

Mrs. Frances Gwynn told her listeners that whether children were referred to counselors by their teachers, or approached counselors on their own, that it denoted a problem the child simply didn't know how to handle and needed outside help.

The problems, she said, could stem from home life, school life, or tensions of social living.

Counseling and testing programs, for groups as well as individuals, were termed primary work of the guidance team.

Ray Williams said group guidance on the dangers of alcohol and drugs was a part of the Aycock program. He said the adolescent's reasons for experimenting in those fields were different from those of adults; and again, he noted, these can sometimes be traced to the influences of their home life.

The incidence of smoking among junior high school age children was commented upon as especially discouraging because, as Williams said, it made "breaking the habit" even more difficult.

Police List 2 Collisions

Two collisions at Cotanche Street intersections yesterday resulted in more than $900 property damage and injured one person.

Investigators reported David Henry Whitley, 18, of Kinston was injured when the motorcycle he was riding collided with a car at the intersection of Fifth and Cotanche Streets about 10:15 a.m.

Police charged the driver of the car involved, Lillian F. Heath of Farmville, with failing to yield the right of way.

Damage to the motor cycle was set at $25. Whitley was treated for his injuries at Pitt Memorial Hospital and released.

An estimated $400 damage resulted to each of two cars involved in a 5 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Ninth and Cotanche Streets.

Drivers involved were identified as Mae Davenport Hardy

Council Asks Public Views

The State Advisory Council on Vocational Education met for its regular quarterly meeting Tuesday at the North Carolina State University Faculty Club in Raleigh.

Dr. William E. Fulford, president of Pitt Technical Institute, and Henry Oglesby, sales manager of Cox Trailers, of 207 Crestline Ave. and Carroll Bundy Dunn, 22, of 1210 Cotanche St.

Mrs. Hardy was charged with failing to stop for a stop sign following investigation of the mishap.

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Wednesday, February 24, 1971—9

Grifton, are both members of the council.

The council invited members of the general public to express their views concerning vocational education in the State. Either oral or written statements were presented to the council.

The 37-member council, appointed by Gov. Robert Scott, is charged with evaluating vocational education programs, services, and activities in the State, advising the State Board of Education on the development of the State Plan for Vocational Education, advising the State Board on policy matters arising in the administration of the State Plan, and preparing and submitting to the National Advisory Council an annual evaluation report.

The hyena can run up to 40 miles an hour.

ADJUSTMENTS Bd. Meetings Slated

Both the Greenville and the Greenville-Pitt County Board of Adjustments are meeting Thursday night at 7:30 p. m.

The Greenville board will conduct a public hearing on a request for variance and special use permit by Amos J. Evans to utilize a garage located at 1901 East Tenth Street as an apartment. The property is owned by Ray M. Spears and is zoned R-9 commercial.

The joint city-county board is conducting a public hearing concerning a special use permit by Greenville Golf City. The petitioners want to use as a golf course property located on the north side of Washington Highway approximately 600 feet from the proposed extension on U. S. 264 by-pass across Tar River.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — The North Carolina hen market today is steady. Supply is barely adequate to short on heavy types and ample on light types. Demand fair to good. Heavy hens at farm 12 to 14 cents—mostly 14. FOB plant and light type too few to report.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices chalked up moderate gains in active trading today amid an unsettling international situation. The 11 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose

5.07 to 875.07. Trading activity delayed the New York Stock Exchange tape for one minute. Advances led declines on the New York Stock Exchange by almost 3 to 1. Analysts said the market's ability to resist recent profit taking attempts was encouraging. But they noted the Indochina situation was depressing market advances. Rocky Mount Eliminates Rose, 72-59

Hair-Raising Experience

The Gryphons captured the victory, however, 72-59, to eliminate the Rampants from competition. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

ROCKY MOUNT — Rocky Mount's Gryphons shook off a stubborn Rose High School team in the fourth period and gained a 72-59 victory over the Rampants last night in the first round of the District II Tournament.

The loss knocked the Rampants out of the tournament field and ended their season for them. Rose had hung right behind Rocky Mount throughout most of the game, coming back from as much as nine points down in the first half, and from as much as 10 down in the second to within easy striking distance. But they never could put through the basket that would tie the score, and in the closing minutes, Rocky Mount pulled away to take the 13-point victory after leading by as much as 17.

Rocky Mount now advances in the District II tournament, facing number two seeded Goldsboro on Thursday.

The foul line actually meant the difference in the game, as both teams tossed in 48 points from the field. But Rocky Mount went to the line 34 times, making 24 of them, while Rose hit on only 11 of 20 attempts. Of 19 fouls against the Rampants, 12 were two-shot chances; Rose had only three two-shot opportunities of their 13 trips to the line.

In the early minutes of the game, the Gryphons' outside shooting was also a big factor as the Rose zone kept them from the basket. They continued to stay hot in spurts throughout the game, hitting when they needed it to hold off the Rampants.

Rocky Mount took the opening lead on a shot by Lewis Hardy, but Rose tied it up on Jimmy Hagans' jumper. Allan Whichard then put through a basket to give Rose its only lead, 4-2.

Hardy tied it up with another jumper and then Roscoe Batts put the Gryphons back on top with a shot with 4:19 left, making it 6-4. Pete Thompson hit on a jumper, then came back with a three-point play. Mike Lewis hit on a jumper to run the Rocky Mount lead out to nine at 13-4 with 2:01 left.

But Rose came struggling back and trailed only 16-10 at the end of the period.

Sylvester Tyson opened the period with a Rose bucket, and Robert Kear hit at the line to cut the lead to three. Rocky Mount pulled away again, however, going out by weight as Hardy hit two free throws and Lewis made two baskets, 22-14.

But Carlton Daniels and Kear both hit for Rose, and another bucket by Kear cut it to two, 22-10 with 3:27 left. Rose never could tie it up, however, as Rocky Mount continued to put in the pressure baskets, and held a 27-24 lead as the half ended.

In the third period, Rocky Mount pulled away again, going out by 10 points late in the period. That came when Lewis hit two straight to run the lead to 42-32 with 1:42 left to play.

Rose countered with a three-point play by Robert Carraway, however, cutting lead to seven. John Lloyd then hit on a rebound and was fouled, and his free throw cut the lead to four at the end of the period, 42-38.

Rocky Mount hit first as the final period opened, but Rose came back with a basket by Daniels and another by Carraway to cut it to two again. But that was to be it.

Rocky Mount then began to slowly pull away. From a 51-48 lead, they shot away to a 57-48 lead before Rose could hit again. Lewis hit and Cleveland Howard added a bucket, and Hardy finished off with a pair of free throws.

Rose hit again, but Rocky Mount again ran off seven straight to put them ahead, 64-50 before the Rampants could hit again, and by then it was too late. Rocky Mount used the foul line effectively from there on out, getting 14 of their 30 points in the period from the stripe to wrap it up.

Lewis finished the game with 21 points, while Hardy had 19, Howard had 14, and Thompson, 11.

For the Rampants, Kear had 16 and Daniels had 10.

Greene Central In Tourney Win

WHEAT SWAMP — Greene Central's Rams upset Pioneer Conference champ Seventy-First High School last night in the District Two, 3-A Tournament, 70-65.

The Rams pushed out into a 19-12 lead in the first period of play and never trailed after that, despite a last half rally by Seventy-First. In the second quarter, the Rams outthrew their opponent, 17-10, and built the lead up to 36-22 at intermission.

Seventy-First began to come to life in the third period, dumping in 20 points, while Greene Central managed 15. That cut the lead to 51-42 with one period to go. In that Seventy-First-again outscored Greene Central, 23-10, but it wasn't enough as the Rams held them off in the final stages.

Mike Giles led Greene Central with 24 points, while Ron Bowen and Lacey Ward each had 15 and Al Herrington had 10. Seventy-

First was led by Milton Clarke with 20 and Marshall Lovitt with 14.

Tonight, Northern Nash and Massey Hill meet at 7 p.m., followed by Farmville and Cape Fear. Greene Central will meet the Northern Nash-Massey Hill winner at 8:30 p.m. Thursday, while North Lenoir takes on the Farmville-Cape Fear winner at 7 p.m. The finals will be Friday at 8 p.m.

North Pitt Defeats Edenton To Advance

AHOSKIE — North Pitt High School vaulted into the semifinals of the District One, Class 2-A Tournament last night with a 72-49 romp over Edenton.

The Panthers were never in trouble after the opening minutes as they rolled to the easy victory. North Pitt put through 20 points in the first period, while the Edenton five could scramble for only 12. In the second quarter, the Panthers continued to claw their way through the Edenton defense, dumping in 17 more. Their own defense tightened, and the Aces found their way to only eight points in the frame. That left North Pitt in firm command, 37-20 at half-time.

In the third period, the Panthers put on the killing blow, dumping in 24 points while limiting Edenton to a mere seven points. That ran the North Pitt lead out to 61-27. Edenton managed a slight rally in the final period, outthrusting the Panthers, 22-11, but it was only a dent in the big lead.

Wayne Brown led the Panther victory with 20 points, while William Shiver had 18 and Frank Brown had 12. Edenton was led by Payton with 11 and Riddick with 10.

In the other tournament game, Ahoskie defeated Plymouth to advance into the semifinals. Tonight, D. H. Conley meets Northampton at 7 p.m., followed by Williamston and Gates at 8:30 p.m. Thursday, North Pitt will meet the Williamston-Gates survivor, while Ahoskie takes on the Conley-Northampton winner at 8:30. The finals will be Friday.

Immanuel Is Church Champ

Immanuel Baptist wrapped up first place in the Church Basketball League last night with a 63-47 victory over St. James. In the other games, Piney Grove upset Presbyterian, 63-60, and Black Jack downed Oakmont, 70-55.

Immanuel now stands 11-3 with one game left to play. Presbyterian and Black Jack are tied for second at 9-5, followed by Oakmont, 7-7, Piney Grove, 6-8, and St. James, 0-14.

In the opener, Immanuel pushed out into a 31-17 lead over St. James in the first half. They just coasted through the second half of the game, outthrusting the Methodists, 32-20, to take the win.

Dick Evans led Immanuel with 20, while Mack Roebuck had 13 and George Williams had 12. Mike Mayberry had 19 to lead St. James.

Presbyterian moved out into a 34-28 lead in the first half of its game, but couldn't hold onto it. Piney Grove came back and outshot the Presbyterians, 35-26, to take the victory and kill the chances of Presbyterian.

Jimmy Mills led Piney Grove with 24, while Tommy Meeks had 12 and Buddy Allen had 11. Brazel Moore had 23, Frank Freular had 18 and Lawton Nesbit had 10 for Presbyterian.

Oakmont also grabbed a first half lead, but was unable to hold it. They took a 36-32 lead at the half, but Black Jack came back to outscore them, 38-19, and thus take the win.

Tal Adams led Black Jack with 19, while Philip Smith had 15, Ephraim Smith had 12 and Billy Elks had 10. Archie Moseley and Sonny Randle each had 14 and Don Parrot had 12 for Oakmont.

Bears To Move Out

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Bears will remain the Chicago Bears even though they'll be playing all their home games at Northwestern University's Dyche Stadium in suburban Evanston the next five years.

The announcement was made Tuesday that the Bears had signed a five-year lease for use of the stadium, abandoning their Wrigley Field home of the last half century.

The move is subject to formal approval of the Big Ten which already had lifted its policy against professionals using campus facilities.

Through the use of temporary stands, the Bears in recent years had boosted Wrigley Field seating capacity by 36,667 to some 47,000. At Dyche Stadium they will have a capacity of more than 55,000.

Asked if the team would change its name, President George Halas, son of owner George S. Halas, said "No chance. We're known worldwide as the Chicago Bears and will remain the Chicago Bears. After all, this is only a stop-gap thing."

In saying "stop-gap" Halas was referring to the Bear hopes of Chicago building a new sports complex which would then house the team. In fact, the Bears can break their lease with Northwestern in the event such a complex is built in Chicago within five years.

Gamecocks Host Deacs In Final Home Contest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two basketball stars whose uniforms will be retired at the end of this season, John Roche, uniform No. 11 of South Carolina, and Charlie Davis, No. 12, of Wake Forest, play against each other tonight.

The Atlantic Coast Conference game will be the last home game for All-America Roche and his teammates Tom Owens and John Ribock.

South Carolina will play ACC road games at North Carolina State Saturday night and at Wake Forest March 6. After that its the league championship tournament beginning March 11 in the Greensboro, N. C. Coliseum.

South Carolina is 7-4 in the league and 17-4 in all games.

Wake Forest is 5-5 and 14-7. The Deacons have won three league games in a row, over Virginia, Clemson and North Carolina State.

And Davis says, "I think we are back where we were before the exam break. If we play the way we have been playing, I think we can win it all."

The Deacons play at Clemson on Friday night.

In the only game for conference teams Tuesday night, Clemson won a home game over Maryland, 51-45 in overtime. Not more than six points separated the teams through the deliberate contest. The regulation time ended 44-44.

Maryland remains in seventh place on a 4-8 league record and is 13-9 over-all. Clemson is last at 3-9 and 9-14.

Besides Wake Forest at South Carolina there is one other game tonight, Duke at North Carolina State.

N. C. State beat Virginia 97-77 Monday night and ran its record to 5-6 in the league and 12-10 in all games. It will be the first game this week for Duke, which is 6-5 and 14-7.

WILLIAMSTON — The H. B. Sugg Lions were downed last night in the District I playoffs, 92-73. Robersonville emerged victorious in the second game of the night by edging out the Aurora Trojans 61-55.

Columbia could do no wrong in the first quarter and jumped into an early lead by outscoring the Sugg Lions 24-14. Columbia kept a substantial lead through out most of the game and were threatened only in the fourth period when they fought off a Sugg rally and went on to win the contest.

Columbia increased its lead by two points in the second quarter by hitting 18 points while Sugg threw in 16. Columbia went into the dressing rooms leading at halftime, 42-30.

Sugg hit the first two points of the third quarter but Columbia came back with two field goals to lengthen the lead to 14 at 46-32.

The two teams played evenly until there was only three minutes remaining in the period. Columbia scored six points while Sugg was held scoreless but Sugg came charging back to nullify the baskets by scoring three consecutive field goals. Columbia ended the scoring for the period on a shot by Midgett from the side. Columbia held a 61-52 advantage over the Lions going into the third quarter. Columbia looked as though they were going to run away with the game in the opening minutes of the last period by scoring 11 points while Sugg was held to only one point in a free throw. Sugg then began to cut the lead by scoring 14 points while their sticky defense allowed Columbia only four points. With four minutes remaining in the game Sugg was down by only nine at 76-67. Columbia stopped the rally cold and started to pull away again. Columbia scored 16 points while Sugg could manage only four points to take the win.

The leading scorers for Columbia were Neal Tenner with 25, while Dwight Tenner hit 19, Alvin Midgett finished with 18, Derick Bowser and Quincy Spruill each hit 12. Roger Forbes led Sugg with 30 followed by Steve Joyner with 18 and Jeffrey German with 11.

Robersonville took advantage of cold shooting by Aurora in the first quarter to gain an early lead. Robersonville outscored the Trojans 16-9.

Robersonville hit the first four points of the second quarter to push their lead to 11 at 20-9. The two teams evenly for the remainder of the period with Robersonville leading at halftime, 34-22.

Robersonville increased its lead by four in the third quarter by outscoring the Trojans 12-8. Robersonville opened the quarter by hitting two free throws to give the Eagles a 14 point lead. Aurora came back with two field goals to draw within 10 at 26-36. Robersonville then took command and scored 10 points while holding Aurora to only four. The score at the end of the third period stood at 46-30.

Aurora came alive in the last quarter by scoring 10 points while Robersonville hit only four to draw within 10 of the Eagles at 40-50. Aurora gradually cut the Robersonville lead down but time ran out giving Robersonville the win.

The leading scorers for Robersonville were Iziah Sheppard with 20, James Crandall with 12 and Waverly Purvis with 17. Len Hooder led Aurora with 21, Franklin Tatum hit 17 followed by Kelvin Clark with 13.

Tonight, Oak City meets Knapp at 7 p. m., while Ayden takes on Muttamuskeet at 8:30. Robersonville and Columbia meet in the first semi-final game Thursday at 7 p. m., with tonight's winners meeting at 8:30. The finals will be Friday at 8 p. m., with the winner advancing to next week's state tournament.

Jasper Regains Scoring Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

That seesaw battle between Tom Jasper of William and Mary and Jim Gregory of East Carolina for the Southern Conference basketball scoring championship has tipped back in Jasper's favor for the time being.

Including games of Monday night — all league teams took Tuesday off—Jasper had 447 points in 24 encounters for an 18.6-point average to 403 points in 22 scraps for an 18.3-point mark for Gregory.

The lead has changed hands between the two several times in the past few weeks after Jasper had been the front-runner most of the season.

Sophomore Russ Hunt of Furman remains in third place, but just about out of contention, with 371 points in 22 games for a 16.9 average. A Furman teammate, Lisco Thomas, is fourth with 251 points in 15 games and a 16.7 average which he's upped in the last few games.

Another William and Mary player, Steve Dodge, is fifth with 387 points in 24 games for 16.1 and Jan Essenberg of Virginia Military Institute is sixth with a 16-point average on 383 points in 24 games—only one a victory.

The only other league player averaging better than 15 points is sophomore Joe Sutter of Davidson at 15.2. Two more sophomores, Mike Anastasio of Richmond and Al Faber of East Carolina, are next in line at 14.7 and 13.8. Ben Ledbetter of The Citadel is 10th with a 13.5 average.

Tonight's only activity has VMI, 1-10 in the conference, at Davidson, which with its 8-1 record already has clinched first place and a first-round bye in next week's championship tournament.

Davidson will be shooting for its 59th consecutive home court victory. Somewhat ironically, it was VMI which last defeated the Wildcats on their home floor back in February 1962.

It would be a monumental upset if the Keydets did it again tonight.

Carolinas Opens Tournament Play

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) —

The Carolinas Conference championship basketball tournament opens tonight with Elon, regular-season titlist and top-seeded on an 11-2 league record, meeting Pfeiffer, No. 8 at 3-11.

Pfeiffer is riding a three-game winning streak, but Elon has won two of the three games between the teams this season.

The opening night's doubleheader will be completed with fourth-seeded Catawba, 8-6 in the conference, playing Newberry, No. 5 on a 4-8 mark. Bill Bailey of Catawba is the league's leading scorer with an average of just over 26 points. He also leads in rebounding, averaging 17 a game.

The opening round will be completed with another doubleheader Thursday night. In the first game Guilford, the defending champion and seeded No. 2 on a 10-3 league mark, meets Atlantic Christian, No. 7 at 3-9. Then Lenoir Rhyne, No. 3 and 10-4, meets High Point, No. 6, 4-9.

The semifinals will be Friday night and the championship game Saturday at 8 p.m.

David Lee of Pfeiffer, who plays in tonight's opening game, has been named conference Player of the Week.

The 6-6 freshman from Macon, Ga., scored 90 points and had 36 rebounds in four games last week. Pfeiffer won three of the games, including two in the conference.

Lee is the first player to win the honor twice this season. Runners-up this week were Bill Bailey of Catawba, Jerry Crocker of Guilford and Dan William of Lenoir Rhyne.

CIAA Field Is Set For Tourney

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Virginia State has won the final place in the CIAA basketball tournament which begins Thursday in the Greensboro, N.C. Coliseum.

The Trojans did so by defeating the Virginia Union Panthers 88-82 at Petersburg, Va., Tuesday night. The teams had tied for fourth place in the northern division and were forced to play off for the tournament spot.

The eight-team tournament begins with afternoon and evening doubleheaders Thursday.

In the afternoon, Howard will play Shaw and Virginia State will play Elizabeth City.

In the evening, North Carolina A&T will meet Maryland Eastern Shore and unbeaten Norfolk State will play North Carolina Central.

The Norfolk State Spartans won all 16 league games and took the regular season title in the Northern Division.

In the Southern Division, Elizabeth City and North Carolina A&T had identical 12-4 records, but Elizabeth City won on a toss of a coin.

Norfolk State, North Carolina A&T and Shaw University placed two players each on the All-CIAA team announced in Greensboro Tuesday. But leading the vote-getting in the poll conducted by the coaches was senior guard-forward Mike Gale of Elizabeth City State, who is averaging 23 points and 19 rebounds a game.

Norfolk State placed forward Rudy Peel and freshman Leroy Jones, a 6-8 center.

A&T players named were forward Elmer Austin and guard William Harris.

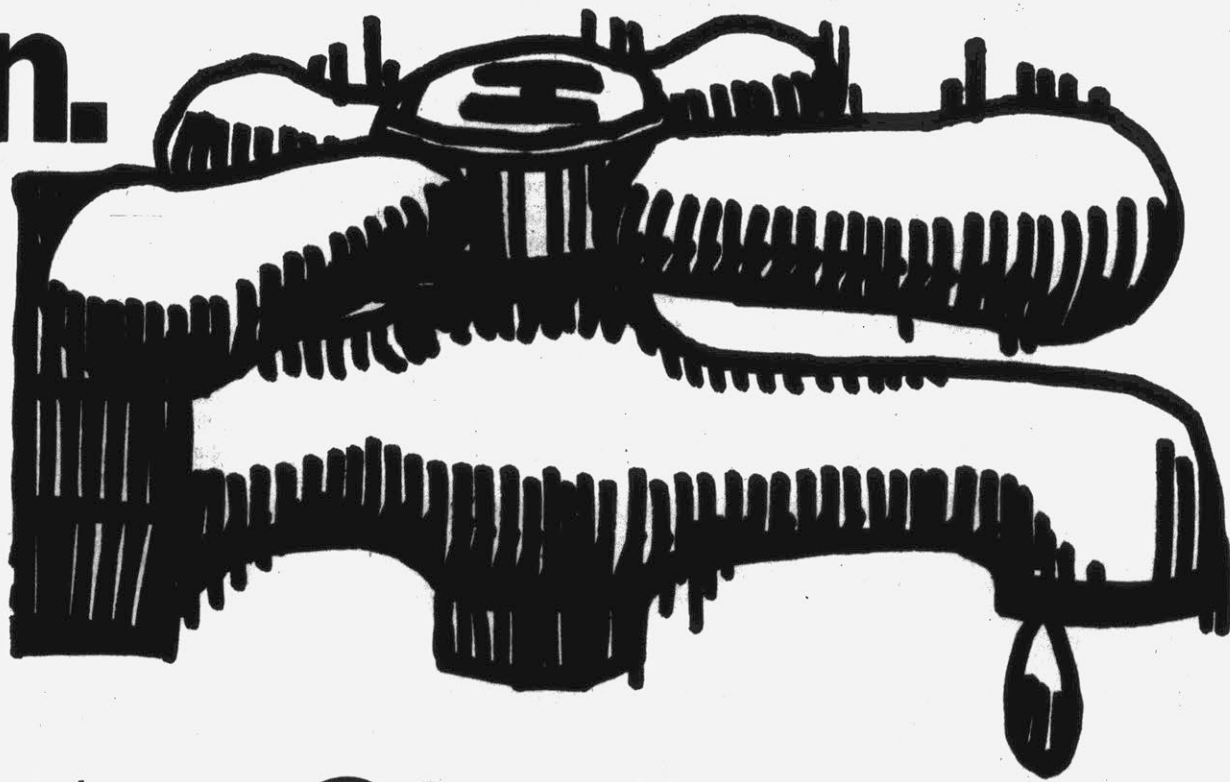

Chosen from Shaw were guards Kelly Ulley and Ray Haskins.

Other members of the team are Robert Butts of Johnson C. Smith, Redden Leggett of North Carolina Central, Mike Sneed of Fayetteville State, Curtis Pritchett of St. Augustine's and Sandy Smith of Winston-Salem State.

Harry "Chocker" Edmonds, who rebuilt N.C. Central into a winner in his first year as a head coach, was named Coach of the Year in the CIAA. His eagles take a 10-6 conference record into the tournament. Edmonds coached championship football and basketball teams at the now-defunct Merrick Moore High School in Durham, N.C.

A hot water faucet leaking one drop a second wastes 192 gallons a month down the drain.

Budgeting is hard these days, with your cost of living 5.6% higher than last year. (We know. Our coal costs alone rose 43% over the same period!) And whether the energy that heats your water is flameless electricity, gas or oil, it costs money. So repair leaky hot water faucets immediately, and save yourself a soaking. And check these four other water heater money-saving hints.

1 The shorter the distance the water has to travel from the tank, the less energy you have to pay for. So locate your water heater as close as possible to the point of greatest use: kitchen, laundry or bath.

3 Try to wash a full load each time you use your washing machine or dishwasher. This will save money on these appliances as well as on your water heater.

2 Don't waste money getting the water hotter than you need it. For most homes 140°-150° is sufficient, or, if you have an automatic dishwasher, 160°. If the thermostat setting on your water heater is higher than that, reduce it and save.

4 Whenever it's feasible, use cold or warm water instead of hot to launder clothes in your automatic washer.

Even though your average cost per kilowatt-hour of electricity is 27% lower than it was in 1950, you're probably using four times as much, making that bill higher too. To help, Vepco's Home Economists offer these simple hints. Follow them and you'll save money.

Vepco

With everything costing more these days, electricity is about the only bargain left.

Jayhawks Provide Storm Of Their Own

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It took a blizzard to stop Kansas—but not for long.
The fifth-ranked Jayhawks, forced to postpone their Monday night game against Kansas State when a massive snowstorm enveloped the Midwest, traded their boots for sneakers Tuesday night and buried the Wildcats 61-48.
It was their 15th straight triumph—the longest streak since their national championship season of 1952—and lifted their record to 21-1, the best in more than 25 years.

In other major action, Indiana University stunned 12th-rated Michigan 88-79, Weber State squeezed out a 63-62 upset over 16th-ranked Utah State, No. 18 Ohio State took to the foul line to turn back Iowa 80-71, 19th-ranked Notre Dame waltzed all over New York University 106-68, Villanova squeezed by Providence 76-75, Oklahoma, also delayed a night, whipped Nebraska 65-56 and Houston Baptist snapped Louisiana State New Orleans' 27-game winning skein, sinking the Privateers 84-75.

Oklahoma State's Cowboys, who spent part of Monday shivering in a bus snowbound on the Kansas Turnpike near Wichita, returned to civilization but their game against Missouri, originally set for Monday night, was pushed back a second time to tonight.
Kansas State held on gamely against their high-powered rivals, trailing by just two points at intermission and leading 39-38 midway in the second half.
Then, despite the loss on fouls of their star, Dave Robisch, the Jayhawks put together a blistering fast break that melted the Wildcats. Bud Stallworth of Kansas led all scorers with 23 points.

Sophomores George McGinnis and Steve Downing combined for 61 points and 32 rebounds as Indiana built up a 46-39 halftime lead, then opened it to as many as 13 points in the second half against the Wolverines. Henry Wilmore had 26 for Michigan.
Another soph, Brady Small, hit four big foul shots in the final 30 seconds for Weber State, which had to rally from seven points back to down the Aggies.
Ohio State, vaulting over Michigan to the top of the Big Ten, equalled Iowa with 30 field goals but connected on 20 of 24 free throws while Iowa hit 11 of 15. The 18th-ranked Buckeyes'

15th victory in 20 games was led by Alan Hornyak's 23 points but honors went to Iowa's Kevin Kunnert with 28.
NYU stayed even until Notre Dame turned a 9-9 tie into an 18-9 lead and, eventually, into a 51-33 halftime margin. The 19th-ranked Irish continued to pour it on after the break with Austin Carr rolling to a game-high 45 points.
Villanova raced to a 23-10 edge but Providence clawed within one at the half, then the lead seesawed the rest of the way before Clarence Smith's layup with four seconds to go won it for Villanova.
Oklahoma held Nebraska scoring ace Marv Stewart to nine points—12 under his average—and the Sooners, paced by Bobby Jack's 23 points, broke away midway in the second half by holding the Cornhuskers scoreless for more than four minutes.

Houston Baptist controlled the backboards against LSU-New Orleans and, after grabbing a quick 11-3 lead, settled back to stay comfortably ahead 44-33 at the half.
In other action, Eugene Kennedy, Jim Ferguson and Simpson Degrate teamed for 70 points as Texas whipped Baylor 94-84, Willie Allen's career-high 38 points, including the decisive foul shot if the final minute, lifted Miami, Fla., over Marshal 89-88 and St. Francis rode Keven Porter's 36 points to an 80-70 win against the University of Detroit.
Clemson held Maryland to a single point in overtime and Dave Thomas hit a basket to put the Tigers ahead to stay in their 51-45 victory, and Eric Hill and Ollie Shannon hit 23 points apiece for Minnesota, which used some late foul shots to put away Northwestern 81-79.

The Baltimore Orioles led American League teams in road attendance the last two years.

ECU Med School 'Sparks' Surprised Lot Of People

By H. HORTON ROUNTREE
Representative

The events of the last week with regard to East Carolina University's bid for a two-year medical school raised the eyebrows of many people.

Those who were familiar with the progress that E.C.U. has made during the past six years, the recommendations of the Council on Medical Education of the American Medical Association, and the statutory procedures required by the Board of Higher Education had to bite their tongues while certain newspapers and editorial writers lambasted efforts to start the medical school. Dr. Leo Jenkins and the many supporters of the medical school should be congratulated for "keeping their cool" while the opponents were running hot. It is my humble opinion that the opponents were given enough time to hang themselves, and they did.

In the spirit of cooperation, Dr. Jenkins asked President William Friday of the Consolidated University what sums of money would be required to expand the third and fourth year potential of the U.N.C. Medical School. President Friday, in a letter to Dr. Jenkins, replied that the University has no plans to expand the third and fourth year classes (to absorb students from an E.C.U. two-year medical school). He stated also that the Consolidated University was planning a one-year class in medicine at N. C. State University, and that the future needs of the University would have first priority.

This obviously came as a surprise to most people, including Governor Robert Scott, who is chairman of the Board of Trustees of the University of North Carolina, and also chairman of the N. C. Board of Higher Education.

When Governor Scott read this letter, he blew his top. At a meeting of the Board of Higher Education he lambasted the University's efforts to thwart E.C.U.'s desire to establish a medical school to serve the needs of the people.

For six years, 1965 to 1971,

East Carolina University, with the support of the N. C. General Assembly as representatives of the people, had worked hard to prepare itself to fulfill a desire to meet the great need for medical personnel in Eastern North Carolina, and indeed the whole state. For the University to come up with this idea on the spur-of-the-moment in February, 1971, and close the door on any cooperative effort between the two schools appeared to the Governor to be comic, ridiculous and uncalled for. It took a lot of courage for the Governor to make his statements.

The recommendations of the Board of Higher Education, which had objectively studied the needs of all of the state in depth, are not exactly what East Carolina University had hoped for. The Board recommended that a one-year program be established during the 1971-1973 biennium, with provisions incorporated into the law that the University of North Carolina MUST cooperate with E.C.U. in accepting students for the second and third years at the University. A similar plan is in operation in the State of Indiana, and has worked well. This plan can be carried out with a minimum appropriation of funds (and financing the medical program has been a major concern). Also, this program could possibly be started in the fall of 1971, as accreditation could be easily obtained.

The second part of this recommendation provides that medical students spend their fourth year, the year of clinical training, in hospitals throughout the state, but principally of interest to this section, the hospitals in Greenville, Goldsboro, and Wilson were specifically named. This would provide a means of removing these budding physicians from the "ivory tower" environment of the University Medical Center, and bringing them into the field where they can see and meet the needs of the people as they really exist. I feel that this plan has merit, and it could result in a better distribution of physicians to the far eastern and western parts of this state more quickly.

As I said, this may not be all that proponents of an East

Sorority Gift

An infant hearing screener has been presented to the Speech and Hearing Clinic at East Carolina University by members of Zeta Lambda chapter of Delta Zeta sorority.

Carolina University medical school wanted. However, the Governor expressed a desire for East Carolina to plan for a four-year school in the future, and this could be a "foot in the door."

As the Governor said, "We must crawl before we can walk."

Square Dancing

Square dancing for adults will be held Thursday night at St. James United Methodist Church from 8-10 o'clock.

Interested persons are asked to wear casual, comfortable clothes.

The class is open to the public at no charge. A nursery will be provided during the event.

RUINED CATHEDRAL — The ruins of a cathedral first built in 1545 in Antigua, Guatemala. Efforts are under way to restore the city's old buildings.

Ancient Capital Being Restored

By JOHN PLATERO
Associated Press Writer
ANTIGUA, Guatemala (AP)

— The remnants of this ancient capital when Spain ruled much of the world gradually are being restored in all the beauty and splendor of days gone by.

Founded in Panchoy Valley March 16, 1543, only a few miles from where the former capital had been destroyed by a flood two years earlier, this third capital of Spain's central American provinces became a rich and cultured center.

By 1700, with a population of 70,000, it was the third largest city in the Americas, ranking with Mexico City and Lima, Peru, as centers for Spanish culture in the Western Hemisphere.

Don Pedro de Alvarado, a lieutenant in Herman Cortez' army in Mexico, defeated the Indian tribes in 1524-25 and conquered Guatemala for Spain. Three years later he was named governor and captain general of the Kingdom of Guatemala by King Charles V.

Pedro de Alvarado brought with him many religious orders that later established missions in the country. In this city, there were 32 churches, 15 hermitages, 10 chapels and numerous convents. Church altars were heavily embellished with gold leaf, inserts of mother-of-pearl and artistic paintings. Sculpture was the most important of the arts with solid silver images everywhere.

The city had 6,000 homes, 60 streets, 7 colleges, 5 hospitals, 1 orphan asylum and other smaller institutions.

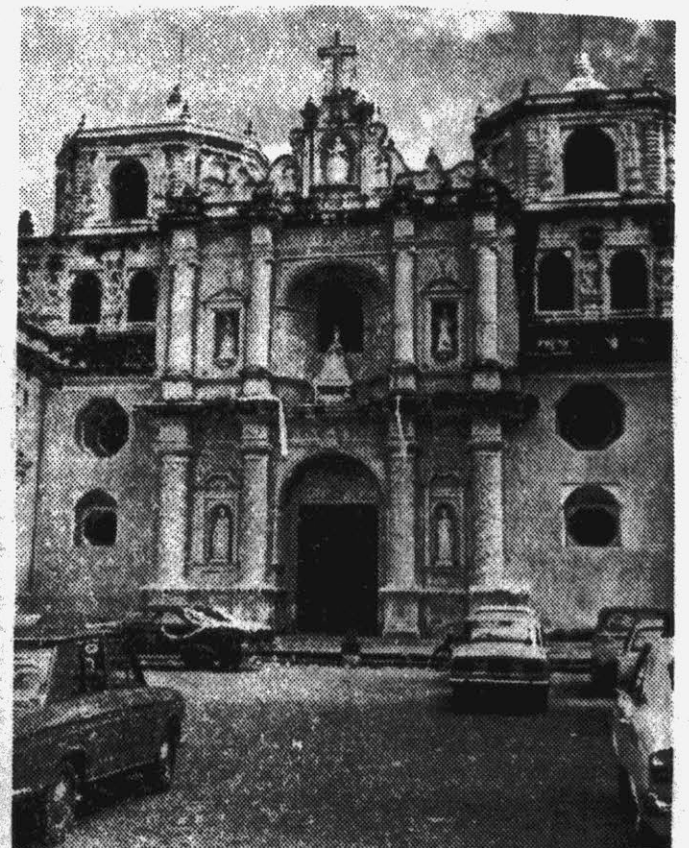

To the north, east and west, Antigua is surrounded by low mountains while to the south the Volcano of Water (Volcan de Agua) looms nearby. Two active volcanoes, Fuego and Acatenango, are to the southeast.

In January, 1773, earth tremors were felt and these continued until July. Thunderstorms, lightning, volcanic shakings and rumblings rocked the city July 26 of that year. Many people began to leave and Indians refused to enter the city with food needed for those who remained behind.

On July 29, violent shocks drove people into the streets looking for an exit from the city. Ten minutes later rains and a flood of water poured from Volcan de Agua and washed away almost all that had survived the quakes. Within two minutes the city was in ruins, thousands were killed and most of the roofs of the churches and buildings had collapsed.

It was then the government headquarters moved to Guatemala City which remains today the country's capital.

Restoration has been under way for years, but because of lack of funds it has progressed slowly. Some of the ancient homes have been restored, churches are being reconstructed in their original design and beauty, and most of the streets still are cobblestoned as they were centuries ago.

OLD CHURCH — The La Merced Church in Antigua, Guatemala, has been partially restored in the drive to bring the old city back to its ancient splendor.

Tax Relief ForAgedls Pondered

RALEIGH (AP) — A bill to provide relief from property taxes to indigent persons over 60 was sent to a subcommittee Tuesday after spokesmen for cities counties said they needed to know the effect it would have on finances of the local government units.

Sen. John Burney, D-New Hanover, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, named Sen. Marshall Rauch, D-Gaston, chairman of the subcommittee. Other members are: Sens. Stewart Warren, D-Sampson, Norman Joyner, R-Iredell, Bill Staton, D-Lee, and Ralph Scott, D-Alamance, sponsor of the measure.

The bill, which bore signatures of 36 of the 50 senators when it was introduced, would exempt from property taxes the first $5,000 of the appraised value of the homes of persons over 60 whose disposable income is less than $3,500 a year.

"No one knows what the total impact of this bill would be," objected Leigh Wilson, executive director of the North Carolina League of Municipalities. He suggested that a study be made by a commission which will study other taxation matters during the next two years.

N. N. Fleming III of Haw River, a member of the Alamance County Board of Commissioners, said the measure would help about 700 property owners in his county and would up the tax rate between 5 and 7 tenths of a cent.

Fleming told of an Alamance woman 71 years old whose income is $2,000 a year and supports an invalid daughter. He said the woman's city and county property taxes would be reduced from $154.10 to $63.46 under the measure.

Gunman Robbed Charlotte Bank

CHARLOTTE (AP) — A nervous masked gunman about 21 years old got $3,300 Tuesday in North Carolina's sixth bank robbery of the year.

It was the second time in 13 months that the suburban DeRita branch of the Piedmont Bank & Trust Co. had been held up. Three men carrying sawed-off shotguns got "more than $5,000 on Jan. 24, 1970. No arrests have been made in that theft.

The latest bandit drove away in a car later found to have been stolen Feb. 5 in Columbia, S.C. It was found abandoned on I-85 not far from the bank. It contained clothes matching the description of the bandit's. This led county police to the belief that he changed clothes in the car before being picked up by an associate.

Advocates Equal Liability Right

TORONTO, Ont. (AP) — The law should be changed to make wives equally liable with husbands for the payment of alimony, a Canadian authority on family law said recently.

Prof. Julien D. Payne of the University of Western Ontario said the law, which always has regarded men as primarily responsible for paying support, should be brought in line with "legal and economic emancipation of married women."
