

New Name Is Voted For New School

Members of the Pitt County Board of Education yesterday voted 6-2 by secret ballot to change the name of the new Farmville area high school to Farmville Central.

A delegation of students, teachers, parents and interested citizens met with the board at its February meeting to request the name be changed. The facility, now under construction, was named "Farmville High School" by the board last year.

At that time there was no opposition voiced and the local advisory committee concurred in the naming of the new facility.

The action yesterday was taken after board member Dr. Tom Patterson of Farmville said, "We had a fine presentation at our February meeting from persons interested in changing the name of the new facility. Students, teachers, principals, parents and interested persons from Farmville appeared before the board to voice their views."

"The Farmville Advisory Council met Monday night to discuss the name change," Dr. Patterson continued. "A full discussion was held with area principals, members of the advisory council and advisory council members outside the Farmville area (Falkland and Bell Arthur) were in attendance."

"No conclusion was reached at the meeting and no vote except to state the council feels this is a matter of importance to the Farmville area and the county board of education should bring this to a rapid conclusion," Dr. Patterson explained. "The Farmville council also feels that full consideration should be given to the viewpoints of all citizens in that area and that full publicity for making or not making a change be given."

Carl Toot, vocational director for Pitt County Schools, reported to the board what home economics and agriculture equipment is available for use or resale.

Toot explained a number of electric and gas ranges, refrigerators, washers, dryers, table saws, band saws, welders, jig saw, planers and other items of equipment are available for use either in the four new schools or for disposal.

"We would like the board's permission to keep all the vocational-agricultural equipment to be moved to the new high schools as replacement items or for possible use in the middle schools in a few years," Toot told the board. "We would like to use some of the home economics appliances for a trade-in on new items for the Farmville and Ayden-Grifton Schools."

Toot recommended the utilization of what the board has to meet the needs of the four schools as is and to purchase what else is needed.

Board members agreed to allow Toot to trade in the appliances that cannot be utilized for new ones and then trade them on a rotating yearly basis in order to keep the equipment in good condition. That equipment which cannot be used now will be sold.

Board members discussed the matter of air pollution and its relationship to the board's present heating systems using coal, with a deadline of June 30, 1974 for conversion of the systems.

Arthur Alford, superintendent of Pitt County Schools, told the board he had recently received a letter from the State Department of Water and Air Resources stating the state laws on anti-pollution that the

Alford Explains Reasons Behind Change Of Name

Arthur Alford, superintendent of Pitt County Schools, said this morning that the Board of Education, in changing the name of the new Farmville high school yesterday, in part considered that the name Farmville Central would allow Falkland, Falkland and Bell Arthur students and patrons to identify with the school more readily.

The Pitt education board yesterday changed the name of the facility, still under construction, from Farmville High School to Farmville Central High School.

A delegation of students, teachers and parents appeared at the board's February meeting and requested the name be changed.

The school had been named about a year ago with no opposition to the name at that time. Alford today said the name change was "taken after several months of study by both the local school advisory council and the board of education."

"In reaching their decision," Alford explained, "the board was unanimous in support of their original action in naming the new school Farmville High School for reasons of identity. And for the same reasons, the board retained Farmville in the changed name."

"But at the same time, it was agreed that Central would allow Falkland, Fountain, and Bell Arthur students and patrons to identify with the school more readily," Alford stated.

The superintendent continued, "In the board's study of this question, it was pointed out by students, teachers and patrons of Farmville, that neither of the other three new high schools was given the same name of one of the high schools being consolidated and that every effort had been made to create a new image for all students who would attend the school by changing school colors, mascots."

Alford noted, "Farmville Central High School makes provisions for identifying with the Farmville School District which will contribute approximately 50 percent of the students and for identifying with the other fine communities which the school will serve... as well as for the new image which is most important to students who will be attending this new school."

Two Services

A morning and an evening World Day of Prayer service will be held in Greenville Friday.

The morning service, to be held at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church at 10:30 a.m., will be led by the Rev. John Miller. The evening service at Mount Calvary F.W.B. Church at 8 p.m. will have the Rev. W. A. Washington as its leader. A nursery will be provided during the morning service.

"Friday is a day aside by church women in a quarter of a million U.S. communities to unite in prayer with women in 154 other countries on six continents to affirm faith, hope, and love in facing issues and needs of the present and the future," Mrs. C. L. Lupton said.

1971 will be the 84th year of the celebration of World Day of Prayer. An offering will be taken to aid thousands around the globe, through Intercontinental Mission. Methods used include paying ministers and other personnel, aiding students, printing reading material, and maintaining teaching and other self-help programs.

Five-Laning Project For East Tenth St. Unveiled

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Details of the proposed Tenth Street improvement project in Greenville calling for a five-laning effort from Cotanche to just east of the city limits were released Tuesday by the State Highway Commission.

The much discussed project, one of 34 in the state that bids were called for by the commission, encompasses some 2,378 miles of improvements for heavily traveled Tenth Street.

According to Charles Clark, local office manager for the Highway Commission, the state plans to construct a five-laned thoroughfare with the center lane utilized for left turning.

Clark said that the widened street would probably include a raised pedestrian island in the vicinity of East Carolina University for students and other pedestrian traffic to use at times when crossing the entire width of the street is not possible.

The island will vary in width, the manager said, and would be constructed basically in the area near College Hill Drive and its intersection with Tenth.

Rain

More than 1.76 inches of rainfall has been recorded in the Greenville area since Monday and the rain continued to fall during today.

According to the Greenville Utilities Commission weather station, a total of 1.36 inches of rain fell on the area during the 24-hour period ending this morning at 8 a.m. The rainfall for Tuesday at 8 a.m. was reported at .35 of an inch and Monday's rainfall was .05 of an inch.

The high temperature for the 24-hour period ending this morning at 8 a.m. was 52 degrees while the low for that period was 44. The temperature today at 8 a.m. was 48 degrees.

The high temperature for the 24-hour period ending Tuesday at 8 a.m. was 55 degrees and the low was set at 44 degrees. The temperature Tuesday at 8 a.m. was 48 degrees.

The Tar River level stood at 5.4 feet this morning.

Clark added that most of the right of way acquisitions would be finalized before a bid would be approved for the project work.

The Highway Commission announced that bids on the various state projects would be opened March 23 in Raleigh.

Charles Horne, director of the Greenville Utilities Commission, said this morning that long range plans for the Tenth Street improvements, as far as his department is concerned, are to remove as much of the overhead wiring system as practical and eventually have it all underground.

Horne noted that initially the commission will try to get as much of the line system underground as possible, but he said that it would be impossible to remove all of the overhead lines at one time.

We plan to carry all of the primary lines that cross Tenth Street underground, Horne said. The director added that all secondary lines along the street will be either fed underground or fed from the rear in order to get them off the street as much as possible.

All poles and lines between Fifth and Monroe Streets will be eliminated, he said, and circuits and lines will be run behind the shopping center on the south side of the street and back of the block of stores on the north side.

House Settles On Sales Tax Power For County Boards

RALEIGH (AP) — The House Tuesday turned back five amendments and then gave tentative approval to a bill authorizing county commissioners to impose a one cent local option sales tax.

Final consideration of the tax proposal was scheduled in the House today. Once the House concludes its action, the bill goes back to the Senate for concurrence with amendments.

The bill would permit commissioners to levy the tax, with or without a vote of the people, as a substitute for a levy stricken from the books by the State Supreme Court last January.

Twenty-five of the state's 100 counties had approved the original sales tax in local voting and had implemented the levy before the court ruled it unconstitutional.

In debate Tuesday, the House rejected all efforts to restrict commissioners' authority to levy the new tax and passed the bill on second reading by a vote of 78-37.

The bill, as approved Tuesday, would not bind commissioners to the results of a countywide vote even if a referendum were held.

Rep. Herschel Harkins, D-Buncombe, who handled the bill on the floor, told the House the no-vote taxing authority was "a courtesy to the 25 counties that had the tax."

Third 'No'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate refused for the third time Tuesday, by a vote of 48-36, to invoke cloture and shut off debate on a proposal to reduce to 60 per cent the requirement for stopping a filibuster. A two-thirds vote was needed and proponents fell eight votes short.

Street work may cost some $75,000 to $100,000 and eventually amount to close to half a million dollars.

No target date has been given for construction, the director said, but he indicated work would begin as soon as the highway commission gets their project underway.

City engineer Charles Holliday said that the city had made no definite plans concerning beautification of the street but he noted that plans would be contingent on what the Highway Commission does.

He added that sidewalks would be put in eventually and some additional drainage facilities installed but as far as planting trees or other beautification plans, they would be made after the street work is completed.

Nobody Showed Interest

RALEIGH (AP) — A Raleigh mother says she spent a frustrating 10-month campaign to convince state and federal officials to exterminate cockroaches at a North Carolina institution for the retarded.

Mrs. Lessie Morris was one of about 25 parents who appeared Tuesday before the Senate Mental Health Committee. She said she noticed insects crawling out of her 12-year-old son's clothing during a visit to O'Berry Center in Goldsboro last March.

"Nobody seemed to be interested in the bugs on the children at O'Berry," Mrs. Morris testified. "I called everybody I could think of in the state's mental health program and couldn't get any help."

She said she also contacted the U.S. attorney general's office and U.S. District Judge Frank Dupree. Only after she called State Rep. Howard Twigg, D-Wake, was any action taken to exterminate the insects, Mrs. Morris said.

Sen. Charles Larkins, D-Lenoir, told the parents a subcommittee on mental retardation has been formed to examine the state's programs for the retarded.

Rate Boost By VEPCO Is Pondered

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector Managing Editor

Greenville Utilities Commission is considering a Virginia Electric and Power Co. proposal for a 9.24 percent rate increase to wholesale power purchasers.

The rate increase, which must be approved by the Federal Power Commission would be retroactive to July 1, 1970.

Utilities Director Charles Horne said the increase will be tentatively considered by the commission in a meeting tonight and "some determination will be made if it is acceptable to us."

Horne said the proposal had been recommended by the Power Committee of EPIC and by Electricities, both of which Greenville Utilities is a member. He stated that he would recommend that the increase be accepted.

Horne reminded that Vepco had originally proposed a rate increase of 22.3 percent, plus a fuel clause adjustment which could have sent the rate even higher. He said the fuel clause adjustment was eliminated in the latest proposal; however, since the increase is retroactive to last July 1, the effect would be about a 15 percent increase for the immediate future.

Greenville Utilities purchases its power wholesale from Vepco and then retails to its customers in Greenville and surrounding rural areas. Greenville Utilities also sells power wholesale to Winterville and Ayden.

Any increase granted to Vepco by the FPC would in all probability be passed on to the customers by Greenville Utilities.

Vepco asked the FPC for the rate increase, citing "sharply rising costs". It is one of a series of rate increases which have been requested by power companies serving North Carolina.

T. Justin Moore, Jr., Vepco president, said Tuesday the utility had reached verbal agreement with some Virginia and North Carolina municipalities on the increase. He said the company sells power on a wholesale basis to 21 municipalities, 19 electric cooperatives and one private utility in North Carolina and Virginia.

Horne noted that Greenville Utilities is the largest municipal electric customer that Vepco has. It is the third largest electrical user on the Vepco system.

Hostage Freed By Terrorists

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — Freed by his guerrilla kidnapers after a heart attack, American agronomist Claude L. Fly was in "apparently satisfactory condition" today, his attending physician said.

Fly, 64, and Dr. Jorge Dighiero, a heart specialist the Tupamaro guerrillas kidnaped to treat their captive, were found blindfolded in an abandoned truck outside the hospital Tuesday night. Fly, who had been held captive for nearly seven months, was on a stretcher.

The attending physician said Fly suffered a heart attack eight or nine days ago but a cardiogram taken during the night showed no extraordinary symptoms other than those remaining from that attack.

ABC Laws Said To Need Reform

RALEIGH (AP) — Former State Rep. Edward Snead of Wilmington, chairman of a legislative study committee that spent almost 18 months studying North Carolina's liquor laws, says the system needs a major reform.

In an interview Tuesday he cited as problem areas what he called lack of uniformity in enforcement, the fielding of inadequately trained ABC enforcement agents and inconsistencies that make the law unwieldy.

Snead was chairman of the Alcoholic Beverages Study Commission, which was told by the 1969 legislature to come up with suggestions to get the laws in reasonable order. "Our authority was not to write any new laws, but to straighten out the ones we had," he said.

The commission made its report last January, suggesting to the legislature the first rewriting of the liquor laws in 50 years.

Snead was in Raleigh to listen to the Senate ABC Committee discuss the suggestions and was interviewed afterward.

He said ABC enforcement is crippled because of a lack of adequate funds for training agents. He said some agents are reduced to serving as "harassers" and "entrappers."

Some of his other thoughts: "It is ridiculous that you can brown bag seven days a week and 24 hours a day, while beer and wine sales are strictly regulated."

"And there is no sense of having one age for drinking beer—18—and another for drinking wine and hard liquor—21."

Town Manager Ordinance Voted For Farmville

FARMVILLE — A 3 to 2 vote by Town Commissioners here last night enacted an ordinance to create a town manager position for the town.

The ordinance was prompted by the submitting of petitions signed by more than half of the registered voters in Farmville. The Farmville Economic Council distributed the petitions over a period of some 90 days and urged the signing of them by local citizens.

According to the ordinance approved by the Commissioners, the General Statutes give the Board of Commissioners power to appoint such officers as may be necessary to conduct their affairs. "Such a 'Town administrator' will be appointed with regard to merit only and need not be a resident of the town when appointed. He or she will hold office at the pleasure of the Board and will receive compensation determined by the Board.

His duties will be as follows, the ordinance says: to direct supervision of all departments and officers of the town except the town attorney; to attend all Board and Board committee meetings; to recommend measures and policies and make investigations, studies, and reports concerning town affairs to the Board; to provide sound fiscal management for the Board; to prepare and submit an annual budget estimate; to see that all laws and ordinances are enforced; to appoint and remove all department heads according to merit and applicable ordinances and other regulations; and to perform such other duties as may be prescribed under the Town Charter, ordinances, resolutions, or directives of the Commissioners.

Commissioner Robert Lee Smith made the motion, to create the manager's position. It was seconded by Commissioner Bill Garner. Dr. S. H. Aycock voted with them. Opposing were Commissioners W. C. "Lum" Wooten and "Hap" Nichola.

Mayor Will Joyner did not vote, but he expressed his belief that the Board must bow to the wishes of a majority of the voters as was expressed in the petition-signing.

Wooten said he opposed both the concept of a town manager and the enactment of such an ordinance without balloting by the people. The measure has been turned down twice by the voters, once by a large majority in a special election and again by 17 votes during a regular municipal election.

The Commissioners did not indicate when such an administrator will be hired. One problem confronting them is a severe lack of office space.

Rabanne May Be Tapped To Design For Chanel Sheltered Workshop Head Gives Program

By IRIS HARTMAN
PARIS (WNS) — Will Paco Rabanne succeed the late Coco Chanel as designer at the house of Chanel? That is the question that is buzzing from ear to ear in Paris.

Nobody, in the true sense, can replace la grande Mademoiselle. That is admitted. And taking up her scissors is a task no designer in Paris is eager to tackle — none, that is, except Rabanne. What is more fantastic still, is that Paco is being considered for the job, and not for the first time.

Jacques Wertheimer, owner of the house of Chanel including Chanel perfumes, cosmetics and accessories, first showed his admiration for Rabanne's work in 1954. In fact, he then offered the young Spaniard the very job this is in question today.

In 1954, Mlle. Chanel was living in retirement in Switzerland. The Chanel couture salon had been closed for 15 years. Sales of the famous Chanel perfumes were slipping badly. Most French perfumes need the glamor and publicity of a couture operation to keep them prospering, just as a couture house needs perfume money to make up its financial losses.

Hesitated
Wertheimer sent a gentle S.O.S. to Lausanne. Would Chanel consider coming out of retirement to reopen her couture house, which meant designing two collections a year of over 130 styles each. A tall order at the age of 71. Chanel hesitated.

Desperate and in a hurry, Wertheimer started negotiations with young Paco Rabanne. But before the negotiations could materialize, Coco herself materialized, in Paris at 31 rue Cambon, ready for work. Chanel had made up her mind.

Chanel made history for the second time with her refined, ladylike little suite. Paco, having nearly tasted glory, was eager to make a name, quick. He chose the modern way, the fast way, the sensational way. With his clanking clothes and his hardware gear, he did earn a name, but never much money. Today, the support of the great Chanel perfume fortune would be the perfect medicine for Rabanne's financial headaches.

Propitious is the fact that Paco picked this season to present what he calls his first collection of real — non-metallic — clothes. His spring styles are made in cottons, leacril and other synthetic cloths, and some soft leathers, with a few clank suits reserved for the beach. The applause after his two fashion shows at the Theatre du Vieux Colomier was joyous, accompanied by cheers and bravos. This, is a season when applause and enthusiasm were at a minimum at most collections.

Two People
Jacques Wertheimer feels it will take two people, at the very least, to take over the work that Coco Chanel did — one to direct the famous fashion house, and another to design the clothes.

He has already picked his new "directeur general," Christian Legrez, who until now has been head of Chanel Perfumes. But the fall collections must be ready by the last week in July and Wertheimer must make his choice of a designer soon.

Another possibility is Marc Bohan who, rumor insists, is ready for a change. It is a rumor which Bohan naturally denies. But friends say that after ten years at Dior, Marc is "tired of being the lowest paid of the big designers in town." The only hitch is that Marc's current creations are not being well received.

It is a ticklish situation, to say the least. For isn't it true that any designer attempting to fill the place of Coco Chanel will be at first resented by both her faithful clients and the loyal team of assistants who worked with her so closely for so long?

The team of five expert artisans is supremely equipped to carry out a Chanel design in the Chanel manner. The trouble is that Mademoiselle always did all of her own creating — so that nobody in the house is trained to design.

Loner
Christian Dior had a staff of at least three young designers working with him when he died, any one of whom could have been a candidate for the vacancy. Chanel was a loner, and there's the rub.

My own idea is that Mr. Wertheimer should hold off for one year.

For next fall's collection, and then again for the spring of 1972, the Chanel showings should be retrospective tributes to the great lady who founded the house.

A fashion collection composed of reproductions of the 100 best Chanel hits of past years would be appropriate. It would be a treat for Chanelophiles, for Chanel copyists all over the world, and for Chanel's customer-friends. And it would undoubtedly be a safer financial risk than a sudden change of designers.

Other Paris couturiers have been borrowing regularly from the 20's and the 30's, and from some of the ugliest periods in the past of fashion. With Chanel, we have not only her 1954 to 1971 period, but her years from 1913 to 1941 as source material. It's a natural.

In fact, in last fall's line, Mlle. Chanel repeated a little black suit she had designed 33 years ago. The suit was again the fantastic success it had been originally.

Gabrielle Chanel was an artist. An artist who has made a great contribution is entitled to a retrospective show of her life's work. And let's not only see them, but wear them.

Mrs. Charles Gilbert announced the one-day visit of the bloodmobile on March 29 from 11:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. at the Moose Lodge. Members signed for two-hour shifts.

Coffee Shop Chairman Mrs. Ercell Webb announced that uniforms for provisional members are in the coffee shop.

Mrs. John Shannonhouse had answered two calls for social services as Emergency Chairty chairman.

Hospital Activities Chairman Mrs. Dwight Garrett signed members for a workshop on March 15 for Easter hospital tray favors. Mrs. Phil Goodson gave the report of Mrs. Moye Dail, placement chairman, and filled vacancies for the coffee shop.

Lending Chest Chairman Mrs. Ray Minges has loaned three items from the lending chest and assisted a T. B. patient. Mrs. Con Lanier, Mental Health, Mrs. J. W. H. Roberts signed two hostesses for the showings at the Art Center in March and April. Mrs. A. M. Mumford had received one memorial for the Laughinghouse Hospital Fund. Mrs. Leon Moore, chairman of layettes, had received three calls.

Mrs. Moore, as overall chairman of the Charity Ball, thanked all members for their help. She was given a standing vote of thanks for her leadership as chairman.

Mrs. Biggs announced that the date for the spring luncheon of the Service League was May 26.

Call Her 'Stinky' But Never Grandma

By JANET CHUSMIR
MIAMI, Fla. (WNS) — Sitting in the Fontainebleau Hotel's most elegant penthouse, sipping Pepsi from the new 16-ounce can, Academy Award-winning actress Joan Crawford, like any mortal, burps.

Then the cultivated voice-polished by more than 80 films and nearly 45 years of movie-making — flawlessly delivers the lines with eloquent sincerity: "Oops, excuse me. Thank you Pepsi. That was a lovely burp."

Four times during the interview, she burps — dainty, restrained, lady-like little burps. Four times, Pepsi is graciously thanked.

Why not? The girl from the wrong side of the tracks who pushed herself to get to the top is now a member of the board of directors of Pepsi-Cola and Frito-Lay. And pushing Pepsi. Her candor, is winning.

"I can be a bitch. I'll pile up and up and up inside me. But let someone do something to me one time too many and I've had it!"

Bette Davis
She hasn't had it with Bette Davis, Arlene Dahl or Kathy Douglas, however. There never were feuds with them, she says. The studio "tried to make one between me and Miss Davis to promote 'Baby Jane,'" she explains. "I wouldn't let it happen. I didn't open my mouth except for my lines."

As for Dahl, they're friends. And about Douglas, the Supreme Court justice's wife Joan was alleged to have insulted, she says, "We never spoke a word." Another sip from the can. Another burp. Another thank you.

At 62, the pale, freckled face with the enormous, false-lashes-fringed blue eyes, is still remarkable unlined. With Dietrich, Swanson and Garbo, it rates a legendary place in Larry Carr's recent book, "Four Faces."

The wide-shouldered, slim-hipped body draped in print silk is still trim. Discipline is Crawford's key. "I don't want to learn to be a slob. I'm very happy being disciplined." It's "Pushing away the food that tastes best — and no bread, no butter, no potatoes, no desserts."

'Vault'
That same discipline extends to her work. Emotions are kept in her "vault" until the camera grinds.

And since "a clean house make for a clean mind," her home in New York and "little pad" in Hollywood are also kept under perfect control. Each handkerchief, for example, is lined up according to type and color in the drawers.

"I have a bit of Harriet Craig in me," she admits. (She once played the obsessive cleaner in "Craig's Wife.")

"Every woman should have a bit of Harriet in her, but she should discipline the Harriet in her. Craig's wife drove men away. I never kept my house that clean."

Despite that, marriages to Douglas Fairbanks Jr., Franchot Tone and Phillip Terry ended in divorce. And marriages to Clark Gable and a never-named business tycoon never took place.

Then, in 1955 she found happiness as Mrs. Alfred N. Steele, wife of the president of Pepsi.

And lost it, four years later.

when he suddenly died.

Lonely
Is there a man in her life? "Unfortunately, no." Is she lonely? "Very."

That loneliness also comes when she's in a crowd. And she's in a crowd often — "It's my job (for Pepsi)."

But she doesn't dwell on it. She keeps busy. Nor does she dwell on her son, Christopher, 27, one of four children she adopted after many miscarriages.

"He's working around pools — lifeguarding and all that nonsense. He was in New Jersey, last time I heard."

"No, he's not a disappointment. I raised my children for their lives, not mine. We've been estranged for a long time, unfortunately. But when you see something coming for a long time, the impact is not as great."

For Today
"I'm sorry about it. But I have a policy, never look in the past. I live for today and prepare for tomorrow. We waste so much time looking into the past. I wouldn't change a damn thing. I've learned from everything and it I haven't, it's my fault."

Besides, looking back is difficult, as she learned when working with Jane Ardmore on the autobiography, "A Portrait of Joan."

"It's really digging deep — unhappy moments, happy moments. Boy it was tough! I don't think I could ever go to an analyst."

She seems as reluctant to talk about her daughter Christina, an actress.

Was it difficult for Christina, having such a famous mother?

"I don't know. God knows she got enough love and attention. Mothers and daughters always had, since the beginning of time, the tremendous competition because of the father in the house."

But she's very close to the twins, Cathy and Cynthia, both married, both mothers of one child.

"Anyone calls me grandmother, I'll knock their heads together," she says adding the wide-mouthed smile. "They can call me, 'Hey, you,' or 'Stinky,' but not grandmother."

Gray
Once, she let the gray in her hair grow out a bit, and threw away her beige and yellow clothes and began wearing grays.

"I began to think gray. 'Stop that nonsense,' I said. 'And I dyed it back red.'"

It is however, champagne blonde as she talks, covered by one of seven wigs she brought to Miami along with seven gowns she gladly shows. They're not for her short stay. She came from California where she received the Golden Globes Award and was pleased by the newspaper description of her appearance — "the resplendent Joan Crawford."

Looking around the room the night of the award, she didn't recognize famous people she'd once worked with. "They were sloppy-looking, gypsy-looking. I was so glad I'd dressed properly."

"Whatever happened to the beautiful people? Where did they go?"

Quit Complaining— Send Her A Pattern

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Are you on vacation or what? I can't believe you couldn't have thought up a better answer for the person who wrote in saying "Grandma" loves to knit and crochet but she never makes anything to fit anybody and the colors and styles she uses are terrible, so consequently nobody wears any of her hand-knit sweaters, socks, scarves, etc. And Grandma wonders why.

Abby, anybody who can knit and crochet can make things people can wear! All they need is the yarn and the patterns. Obviously Grandma doesn't have either. So instead of complaining about the terrible things she turns out, the relatives should select their own yarn, in the colors they prefer, and also give Grandma a pattern. Print This!

MAD IN MILWAUKEE

DEAR MAD: You forgot the needles. [I'll be glad to return the one you just gave me.] Thanks for writing.

DEAR ABBY: A few months back some new people moved in across the street, so my husband and I went over to visit them and welcome them into the neighborhood.

She offered us a cup of coffee, so we set down at their table and I noticed a roach was crawling around on the table. My husband noticed it same time as I did but neither of us said anything. The lady saw it, too, as I saw her watching it, but I guess she was too embarrassed to do anything about it. What do you do in a case like that? Shouldn't somebody have brushed the roach off? Or killed it maybe? Or do you just sit there and watch it crawl all over the table? If something should have been done, who should have done it?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: The first person to spot the little creature should have "removed" it as inconspicuously as possible.

DEAR ABBY: You must be kidding! That sailor's mother has to open all her son's mail in order to read it and decide what is worth sending on to him. A person would have to be a millionaire to send [airmail yet!] all the junk the average person gets these days in the line of coupons, contests, brochures, advertisements and get-acquainted offers.

ANOTHER MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Who's kidding whom? It doesn't take a genius to distinguish between a personal letter and an offer to join "The Dirty Joke-of-the-month club." The sailor resented his mother's opening his personal mail.

DEAR ABBY: Tell K. M. of Roseburg that the purpose of your column is not to instruct people on what should be done to save our country. Rather it is to help them with their everyday problems.

I agree, pollution and the war are two of the most serious problems we are facing today, but we still must meet our daily challenges. People like K. M. who are so busy worrying about doomsday that they think of nothing else make me tired.

"If all the people who write to Dear Abby would write to their Congressmen instead," she rants, "we could change the world."

Oh, yeah? If every citizen who is against the war in Viet Nam were to crawl to Washington on his hands and knees it wouldn't make one bit of difference.

Gourmet Corner: Dining With Twelve Caesars In New York

By TOM HOGE
Associated Press Writer

Somber portraits of a dozen Caesars gaze down upon the diner as he browses through a scroll-sized menu headed with this greeting from Catullus: "You will dine well at my table."

And well you should, considering that you are consuming food prepared under the watchful eye of Chef Claude Richer, a master of haute cuisine who has been running the kitchen of the Forum of the Twelve Caesars in New York City for the past two years.

The dishes created by Richer and his staff are eye-catching to say the least. The menu leads off with the like of wild boar plate and beef marrow on toast. Then comes a dazzling range of dishes such as Wild Fowl of Samos cooked in sherried tomatoes or Ringnecked Pheasant baked in clay, a specialty of the house.

"I started at the age of 14 in cooking school in my homeland," recalled Richer, a 41-year-old Frenchman from Tours, "and after three years I began my profession."

Since then, Richer has cooked in some of the world's most distinguished kitchens, from the Belgian embassy in Paris, to the Ritz in Lisbon.

The Forum has served food fanciers from all walks of life, including football star Joe Namath, but it caters mainly to leaders of the business and publishing world.

"We have one banker who comes here almost every day when he is in town," said Richer. "We always hold Table 65 for him and his party. And yet he really is not a gourmet. He usually starts off with cottage cheese and onions and goes on to salmon."

Asked what he considered the most difficult dish to prepare, Richer said "souffle."

"I know some chefs say it is easy," he remarked, "but remember, to be perfect, souffle must be made in just the right mixture, cooked at just the right heat and removed from the stove at just the right moment."

Richer's own favorite meal is a cassoulet of duck or goose, but he says veal is the best meat for a creative chef to work with.

"It is the most versatile of meats with its bland taste and there are hundreds of ways you can prepare veal although they don't seem to go in for many of them in this country."

One of Richer's best known recipes is not veal, but a lamb roast he calls "The Emperor's Crown." Here's his recipe for it:

3 half racks of lamb prepared by butcher as a crown

Rosemary
3 lamb bones from rack of lamb

1 medium onion

1 celery stalk

1 carrot

1 Bay leaf

3 cloves

8 oz white wine and 1 pt. beef stock

Have butcher set aside for you lamb bones and meat trimmings after he has fashioned the crown roast. Wrap the end bones in aluminum foil to prevent burning. Sprinkle liberally with Rosemary.

Roast in preheated oven at 375 degrees with the lamb bones for 90 minutes or until done to personal taste. Baste with natural juices. Remove crown. Add meat trimmings from the lamb and add 1/2 onion roughly cut celery stalk and carrot cut up. Add 1 bay leaf and 3 cloves. Cook until vegetables are done. Strain. To liquid, add 8 oz white wine. Reduce to half heat. Add 1 pt. beef stock, salt and pepper to taste, bring to boil and cook three or four minutes.

Serves six guests, and is good with a robust red Burgundy.

Her Book of Advice Will Help A New Volunteer

By VIVIAN BROWN

AP Newfeatures Writer
Many young married women are eager to help worthy causes in their community, but often they find themselves in a dilemma, due to inexperience.

A new book, "Sweet Bitter Charity," written by Ruth Sills, an experienced volunteer fundraiser, irons out many questions a would-be volunteer might have.

Mrs. Sills' many projects include fund-raising for medical research, and she is general chairman of the million dollar Mexican gala for the Waldemar Medical Research Foundation, a group isolating an anti-cancer virus.

In her book, she discusses setting up committees, publicity, methods of raising funds, and high, medium and low income-producing events. One of her most practical chapters, advice to new volunteers, includes the following tips:

—Be patient. Listen and observe at the first meeting, and don't make suggestions until you can find out discreetly whether the ideas have been used.

—You shouldn't become momentarily enthusiastic making a lot of rash promises you are unable to fulfill.

—If you are new to a group, but have belonged to other groups, it is good to refrain from referring "to the efficiency, methods of activities of your other associations," advises Mrs. Sills. And it is not advisable or admirable, she explains, "to carry information, news or gossip from one group to another." This may result in the originality of a plan being ruined. Everything successful is copied, and an idea may be borrowed before you get a chance to use it.

—If you do a good job, be modest, let others praise you.

—Smart suits and dresses that are suitable for a luncheon are acceptable for morning meetings. It is better to dress down when you are a new member of a group.

Among the small income-producing events are the hobby show, Sunday dance, card party, charity thrift shop.

Moderate income-producing events include shipboard dances, day or night at the races, fashion show, antique show, the house tour, benefits theatre, motion picture, concert museum opening, art exhibit art sale.

If an art sale is chosen, you may need to look to friends for the art. Famous people are deluged with requests for so many donations that they may not wish to participate in every exhibit or sale.

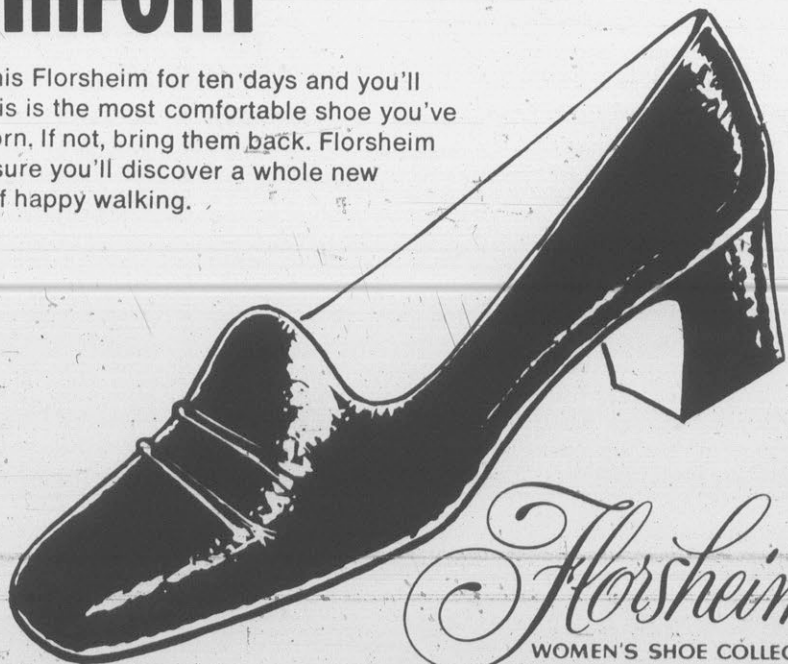

Mrs. Sills has found the high income producers for charity are dinner dances, balls, bazaars, auctions and fashion shows.

Son Needs Card To Visit Mother

ISLEWORTH, England (WNS) — Ronald Saville, 47, was very good about visiting his mother regularly in the old folks home here. Only trouble: he always showed up drunk and shocked the other guests. "Some women even removed their hearing aids whenever he arrived," confided Mrs. Saville. Her solution: Ronald must now visit the police station on his way to the old folks home. "If Sergeant Anthony Stimson approves of Ronald's condition, he gives him a card that permits him to enter the old folks home," explained Mrs. Saville.

A Belated But Proper Action

The city council is moving belatedly, but properly, to correct a deficiency in the election of mayor.

Councilmen last week asked Pitt General Assembly members to introduce a bill which would

Elections Bill Is Shaping Up

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — The State Board of Elections is putting finishing touches on a package of legislation aimed to make the North Carolina voting process uniform, efficient, convenient, and as free as possible from the hazard of fraud.

Chairman J. Brian Scott of Rocky Mount and Executive Secretary Alex Brock have put together a six-point program which will be ready for introduction in the General Assembly.

Board members have given agreement to the general goals to be accomplished, but further discussion will iron out details for specific bills, Brock said. He predicted it

County, where the board's investigation resulted in the seating of Republican Tommy Harrelson of Brunswick as 13th District Representative over incumbent Democrat Arthur Williamson.

In response to GOP inquiries in his county regarding recounts in close races, Senator Scott said recently he would ask the State Board of Elections to consider updating its rules governing election protests. The rules were originally adopted in 1934, Scott noted, and may need revision.

Brock said the board could make such a review on its own motion without the necessity for legislative action.

City Elections Key Item

The most significant legislative proposal is the one affecting municipal elections. At present, there is an acknowledged hodge-podge in the way cities and towns elect their officials and conduct other elections.

Considerable work on a uniform municipal election act has been done by the Local Government Study Commission and Representatives Samuel Johnson of Wake and Herschel Harkins of Buncombe. The Institute of Government and the North Carolina League of Municipalities also have been involved in the study and drafting of legislation.

Brock said the board of elections wants to be sure mechanical aspects are consistent with efficient administration.

Voter sentiment backs up recommendations for a simplified method of applying for the civilian absentee ballot, and for the elimination of polling places electioneering.

Procedure Long, Frustrating
Brock displayed a stack of letters, responses from persons casting absentee ballots in recent elections, striking the theme that the present procedure is lengthy and frustrating.

Prohibiting handing out campaign material at polling places, Brock said, "will serve both the public and the candidates while immeasurably assisting in the accomplishment of a more efficient and unencumbered election process."

The argument that a signature for receipt of a ballot will slow down voting is not confirmed by research, Brock said of another recommendation. "The safeguard of requiring each voter to sign his name upon receipt of ballots is a basic safeguard that should certainly be able to stand on its own merits," he added.

Smaller counties need assistance in the purchase of voting machines, in the interest of more efficient elections, Brock said. While no appropriation will be sought, he added, the board will ask for creation of a fund for matching purposes to be available when money can be obtained.

provide for a run-off election for mayor in the event that no candidate in the field received a clear majority.

When the original council-manager form of government was established here five councilmen were elected from a field of candidates. They, in turn, elected a mayor from their ranks.

Later this was changed so that the mayor was elected directly by the people; however, no provision was made at that time for a second primary in the event that no candidate received a clear majority.

While this has not proven too troublesome, so far, it is not difficult to envision a situation where a large number of candidates might run for mayor and each receive only a small percentage of the votes. In such a situation we could elect a mayor with perhaps 15 percent or less of the total votes.

This would not be possible under the plan which the council is now proposing.

If several candidates seek election and none receives a majority of the votes then the two candidates receiving the highest number of votes would participate in a run-off two weeks after the regular election.

In this way one candidate or the other would receive a majority of the votes.

The council expects the legislation to be enacted in time to apply to this year's municipal election. It is a logical step and certainly this measure should be enacted.

Accreditation Denotes Hospital Well Served

Pitt Memorial Hospital has been accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals for the next two years.

This is encouraging to a county which already has an overcrowded hospital, but is now at work on planning for an entirely new facility to replace the old one.

With the crowded conditions at Pitt Memorial it is a credit to the board, medical staff, administration and all employees that standards have been maintained which merit accreditation.

Hopefully by the time the next accreditation visit comes the new hospital facilities will be nearing completion.

Planning Now For Sabotage

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The Federal government has launched a secret crash program to prevent sabotage of the vulnerable underground network of steam tunnels that supply heat to the complex of government buildings in downtown Washington — including the White House — in time for the scheduled anti-war rally in May.

As a result, top officials are confident that the steam-tunnel system will soon be invulnerable to any sabotage operations.

The scheme of disrupting the Federal government through its heating system has long been a cherished dream of revolutionary groups (and, according to evidence in their indictment, figures in the Berrigan brothers conspiracy case). What has made this plotting a matter of urgency is serious talk about it by the extreme leftists planning the May 1 demonstration here.

The vulnerability of the 7.5-mile-long tunnel system stems from two heating plants that fire the system from each end, one downtown and the other on the edge of the fashionable Georgetown residential neighborhood. If the two plants are blown up, service to all the main government buildings (except the Capitol, which has its own system) will halt.

To prevent this, the government has secretly contracted with private firms for an electronic alarm system located in the manholes dropping down into the tunnels. Any intrusion will be flashed on a master panel viewed by security men. With weekend work and double shifts, the alarm system will be ready in time for the spring demonstrations.

Candor on Laos
Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird has quickly clamped a lid on White House, State Department, and Pentagon officials portraying the Laos operation in other than starkly realistic terms.

Laird and his chief public relations man, Assistant Secretary of Defense Daniel Z. Henkin, took affront at last week's stories attributed to government sources — including White House press secretary Ron Ziegler — indicating enemy resistance in Laos is light and the South Vietnamese are doing just dandy.

Laird and Henkin, backed by Presidential foreign policy adviser Henry Kissinger, want tight control over this type of roseate news reports. Their reasoning goes like this: if the operation in the end does succeed, President Nixon will get full credit. If it does not succeed, his credibility will be badly damaged if the failure follows glowing, uniformed statements by his own officials about how well the operation was going.

Result: backgrounders, if any, will be sharply limited to Kissinger and, very infrequently, Laird himself. Enemy successes in Laos will be squarely admitted, not played down.

Strength For Today

THE FAMILY

The family. How that word has often been degraded. Sinister forces of destruction within our own country link themselves into bands which they designate as their family and go out to perpetrate cruel and criminal acts. There are many who believe that if we can just write the word "family" across any plans we have for ourselves and others the world will be on its way toward unprecedented betterment.

All this constitutes loose thinking. The family is wonderful. When we think of God as Father the concept becomes even more wonderful. When we live both in small groups and large as members of a family we may be coming pretty close to what religious leaders have meant when they used the word "heaven."

So let us not degrade this wonderful word "family." If criminals use the word to give a semblance of decency to their crimes, let us toss them out into space as far as we can and warn them not to come back.

War is a terrible thing — usually an unnecessary thing — and productive of few of the ends it seems to be seeking after. Progress is ahead, not back. We shall find happiness if we seek to serve our fellowmen and for a change forget about ourselves and our personal interests.

CD And The TV Alert

WASHINGTON — The recent fiasco at NORAD, when the wrong tape was inserted in a computer, warning the country that there was a national emergency and all TV and radio stations should go off the air, boggles the imagination.

The message containing code words "hatefulness, hatefulness" was only supposed to be used for a real nuclear attack. The fact that the message was ignored by most TV and radio stations shows how serious the credibility gap is in this country between the people and its government.

Civil Defense and military leaders are now investigating the foul-up and trying to find new fail-safe methods of alerting the public to a nuclear missile attack.

My friend Wafferman was explaining at dinner the other night what had happened at NORAD, when his 17-year-old son, Joel, raised some disturbing questions.

"Why would they want to turn off all the television programs and radio shows in case of a nuclear attack?"

"Because," Wafferman

said, "it would give President Nixon an opportunity to go on the air and calm the people."

"I don't want to hear President Nixon just before I die," Joe said adamantly. "You're not going to die," Wafferman said. "The reason for the alert is to allow everyone to prepare himself for a nuclear attack."

"I read somewhere that we will only have a half-hour before we get zonked."

"That's about right," Wafferman replied.

"Well, what are we supposed to do in that half-hour?"

"I don't know," Wafferman said, getting slightly irritated. "That's what President Nixon is supposed to tell us when all the TV stations go off the air."

"Maybe we're supposed to fill our bathtubs with water?" Joel said.

"I don't like you being sarcastic about nuclear war. It's very unpatriotic."

"Or maybe he'll tell us to run outside and put plastic over our heads."

"It's typical of your generation," Wafferman said, trying not to lose his temper, "that even when there is a nuclear attack you have no faith in the President of the United States."

"I do have faith in the President. He'll probably describe it as the greatest nuclear attack in the history of mankind. But if I have a half-hour to live I'd rather watch I Love Lucy."

"Now let me tell you something. This civilian warning system has been worked out by the best brains in this country," Wafferman said. "Millions and millions

Seasonal Hopes For Business

By ELMER ROESSNER

While March may not be the turning point of the recession, prospects for business are considerably better for February.

Here are some beams on the bright side:

Employment is likely to increase as weather improves. Although the process of closing down obsolete and unprofitable plants is not ended, it will diminish considerably.

Retail inventories appear to have been considerably reduced in February, many not without losses, leaving many retailers in better open-to-buy positions.

Easter buying will give the apparel business a shot in the arm. However, the confused fashion picture will continue to be a drag. Many in the industry long for the good old days when fashion trends went in one direction, instead of twenty as at present.

Cost of Living Puzzle
With increased supplies of food, the cost of living will seem to go down. However, costs of other things will probably offset this factor and the consumer price index will rise again, though perhaps at a lower rate than in any month last year.

Auto sales will probably continue at the February rate. The demand delayed by the General Motors strike has not yet been made up, and the promise of spring weather will further stimulate new car sales.

Stockpiling in fear of a steel strike in August will intensify. It is already high, with some mills declining some orders.

Spring weather generally will have a psychological effect on the economy. Consumers are eager for a change and the eagerness in itself may help loosen purse latches.

On The Other Hand
However, there are still some debilitating influences:

Milder weather is demonstration weather. There may be more disturbances in our two biggest ghettos: the slums of large cities and the campuses.

The necessity to save money to pay federal taxes by April 15 will retard some consumer spending.

State tax rise will further dampen spending. The Tax Foundation reports that in 35 of the 49 states with legislative sessions this year, there are already proposals for tax increases of $6.5 billion. That's the largest proposed increase in American history.

There is always the possibility of business-wrecking strikes. While no major tie-ups are on the horizon at present, there is always the danger of flare-ups. Building trade unions may balk at efforts to curb wage demands, for instance.

No matter what anybody says, there will be more inflation, which triggers most strikes, keeps family budgets out of balance, and further impoverishes persons on fixed incomes.

Japan Airlines Getting Into Hotel Business

Japan Airlines is getting into the hotel business. A subsidiary, Japan Airlines Development Co., and Shuri Kanko Hotel Co. are building a 12-story luxury hotel at Naha City, Okinawa, to be completed about the time the United States returns the island to Japan.

Water Desalting Process Cuts Costs 25 Per Cent

A new water desalting process of Aqua-Chem, Milwaukee, is claimed to cut costs 25 per cent under other methods. It is an improvement of the company's flash evaporation system and uses a spray-film system. It may extend desalting plants to many water-short parts of the world.

A local boy has just returned from participating in the second week-long session of "A Presidential Classroom for Young Americans."

Selected from this experience was Louis W. Cherry, a senior at Fork Union Military Academy in Fork Union, Va.

"Presidential Classroom," which held its first programs last year, is designed to give bright high school seniors the opportunity to see first-hand the operation of their government. The students receive academic instruction in the three branches of the federal government, and attend seminars and talks with Congressman, city officials, government department heads, ambassadors, and national news media representatives. In the afternoons, they visit national landmarks and historic sites in the capital area.

Nixon can be on one of the channels, and the other stations can continue their regular programming. Then people will at least have a choice of what they can watch in the last 30 minutes of their lives."

Joel started to laugh. "What's so funny?" Wafferman asked.

"I'd like to be around, just to see the TV ratings the next day."

Democratic Rep. William Moorhead of Pennsylvania and Republican Rep. John Erlenborn of Illinois.

Holifield has never forgiven Moorhead for his expose of vast cost-overruns in Lockheed's contract to build the big C-5 transport plane for the Air Force. That investigation was conducted by the Military Operations Subcommittee, headed by Holifield himself with Moorhead as third-ranking member. Holifield, closely connected to Lockheed's California operations, did a long slow burn as Moorhead kept turning up material deeply injurious to the company and the Air Force.

Nor has Holifield forgotten that Erlenborn, as a member of the Reorganization Subcommittee, personally defeated Holifield's effort to kill President Nixon's reorganization of the Budget Bureau into the new Office of Management and Budget.

In revenge, Holifield moved to splice those two subcommittees together into a single group, with himself as chairman. He won on a tie committee vote — 18 to 18. Moorhead, in line to be chairman of the Military Subcommittee, now drops to fourth-ranking Democratic member. Erlenborn, formerly senior Republican on the Reorganization Subcommittee, drops to second spot under Republican Rep. Frank Horton of New York.

That neat trick solved another Holifield problem. Under the Democrats' new committee rules, no member can be chairman of more than one legislative subcommittee, forcing Holifield to choose either Military Operations or Reorganization. By shuffling the two subcommittees into one, Holifield keeps tight control over both reorganization and military investigation.

Kurdistan, The Land Of Installment Plan Misery

By WARREN L. NELSON
United Press International
After nine years of fighting in a forgotten war, a quarter of the people of Iraq—the Kurds—face "misery on the installment plan," according to their leaders.

Almost a year ago, the Kurds and the Baghdad government reached a peace agreement under which Kurdistan, in the remote mountains of Northern Iraq, was to enjoy limited autonomy under the Iraqi flag.

But little has come of the agreement yet, according to Emir Kamuran Aali Bedir-Khan and Shaffiq Qazzaz, who represent the Kurdish Democratic party (KDP) abroad.

U.S. sources in Washington versed in the Kurdish problem basically agree. They say the Iraqi government's record in fulfilling the agreement has been "spotty." However, they do not see a renewal of the bloody war which lasted from 1961 until the March, 1970, settlement. One State Department source said, "Mullah Mustafa Barzani (president of the KDP and undisputed leader of Iraqi Kurds) does not want to press the issue at this time."

War is Too Costly
The war was just too costly. About 500 villages were wiped off the map of Kurdistan, crops and animals were destroyed in the Iraqi bombing raids and a decade of education was lost since few schools could be operated.

Bedir-Khan came to the United States to seek aid to put the Kurds back on their feet.

Under the peace settlement, Baghdad was to aid in reconstruction. But little help has been given, the Kurds say, although the Iraqi government was able to find $1 billion from 1961 to 1970 to support its armed forces trying to suppress the Kurds.

State Department specialists say that in watching the Baghdad newspapers they note various sums periodically earmarked for water pumps, electric generators, housing and clinics in "the northern provinces." (The Iraqi government cannot bring itself to speak of "Kurdistan.")

Plight is Tragic
Qazzaz said the plight of the Kurds is not as dramatic as that of survivors of the recent Peruvian earthquake or the tidal wave that struck East Pakistan, but it is just as tragic.

"The magnitude is just as great only it is spread out over

WILLIAMSTON — A federal grant of $14,482 from the Law and Order Committee of the Mid East Economic Development Commission was announced at the March meeting of the Williamston Town Board on Monday.

Mrs. Nan Boykin, town administrator assistant, reported a longer period of time," he said. "It is misery on the installment plan."

Like the Armenians, the Kurds are a Middle Eastern nationality without a nation, despite the fact they have been settled in their present lands since about 2400 B.C.

In addition to the 2 million Kurds in Iraq, there are 6 million in Turkey, 3.5 million in Iran, 800,000 in Syria and 100,000 in the Soviet Union.

The Kurds are mostly Moslem but have their own language and are culturally distinct from the Arabs, Turks and Iranians among whom they live.

that Martin County will need to match the funds in the amount of $9,654. The federal money is Martin County's portion of a grant of $104,000 for Region Q, which comprises five counties of eastern North Carolina. Town commissioners have been working several months on plans for participating in this pilot program to establish a youth club that would be designed to furnish recreation and social activities, particularly slanted to boys in the 10 to 16 age group who have been involved in juvenile infractions of the law.

Mrs. Boykin said that the program would be open to all such youth in the county, and that the location would likely be in the Williamston area as the requirements call for supervision by police officers. Williamston is the only town in the county at the time, according to Mrs. Boykin, with the personnel capable of handling a program of this nature. About 25 members from the Williamston Rotary Club were on hand to endorse the program, and a formal resolution of support was read. The commissioners also passed a resolution to seek extension of the current two year planning program through the Department of Local Affairs. The current contract expires June 26. If a renewal is approved at a later meeting, the new contract would call for $15,510 — $9,400 in federal grants and $6,110 from local funds.

Town Clerk J. B. Godwin reported the town commissioners approved an ordinance rezoning a piece of property in West End from its present residential - office status to highway commercial, for the purpose of permitting a requestor to establish a trailer sales site on the property.

The commissioners took action to approve two recommendations made by the Cemetery Committee. Prices for cemetery lots were raised to $300 from the previous price of $125; and costs of opening a grave site was increased from $25 to $50.

Two resolutions on the coming elections were passed. The first deals with the primaries, and establishes April 12 for the primary election date for a mayor and five town commissioners. Registration period will be from March 26 through April 2, with the books open each day from 9:00 to 5:00 p.m. except for Saturday, March 27, when they will be open from 9:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. Challenge day is set for April 3, from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.

For the regular elections of a mayor and five commissioners on May 4, the resolution named the Scout Hut on Smithwick Street as the election site. Voting hours will be from 6:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Registration for the general election begins April 16 and continues through April 23, excluding Sunday, April 18. The books will remain open daily from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. at the city hall except on Saturday, April 17, when they will be open from nine to nine. Challenge day has been set for Saturday, April 24, from 9:00 a.m. until 3:00 p.m.

Postal Rate System Devised In 1830's, By Briton

CHICAGO (UPI)—With higher postage rates going into effect, it might be some consolation to know it's costing your creditors more to send those bills. And if it hadn't been for Sir Rowland Hill, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica, you might even be paying the postage on them.

In 1835 Hill tried to figure out where England's surplus of revenue was coming from. In studying the tax situation, he noted that reducing taxes sometimes reduced the income from them. But reducing the tax on coffee by one-half had produced a net increase of income by one-half.

He also determined that postal revenues were falling despite increased rates.

Hill's investigation revealed that since most letters were mailed with postage to be collected on delivery, a lot of folks refused to accept them. Then they had to be returned, and were often unclaimed or refused by the people who originally sent them.

Non Revenue Producing

That hardly made for a revenue-producing enterprise for the government. In addition to the records that had to be made at every step of the two-way trip, a letter made two journeys for no postage.

But Hill's big discovery was that the cost of transport per letter was often less for a long journey than for a short one. More mail went on long trips than on short local journeys.

It was obvious to Hill that the time had come for a radical change.

In 1837 he issued a pamphlet for private circulation. In it he proposed that letters be carried any distance within Great Britain and Ireland at a fixed rate. Postage was to be prepaid. He further suggested that wrappers and envelopes bearing a stamp denoting prepayment be sold at all post offices.

And for people who wished to use their personal stationary, he proposed "a bit of paper just large enough to bear the stamp" (the imprint of the post office hand stamp), "and covered at the back with a glutinous wash, which might, by applying a little moisture, attach to the back of the letter."

Parliament investigated, and the postmaster general reported that of all the wild and visionary schemes he had ever heard or read of, Hill's were the most extraordinary.

Public Agrees

Well, the public didn't think so when, two years later, a second edition of the pamphlet was issued at large. They agreed with Hill loud and strong.

The treasury bent to the will of the people and asked Hill to work out the details. His four basic proposals were accepted, including the device which came to be known as the postage stamp.

The first adhesive stamp in the United States was issued in 1842 by a semi-official carrier delivery service in New York City. The use of stamps spread to other cities. In 1847 the U.S. government issued stamps of 5- and 10-cent value, but it wasn't until 1856 that prepayment of postage became obligatory.

Hill's methods for modern postal service were adopted throughout the world. From then on, governments were assured of revenue whether or not people wanted their mail.

Record Pay For Fire Fighters

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Forest firefighters in the Southwest earned record wages during 1970, according to Regional Forester William D. Hurst.

He said the 1,800 members of organized crews—including about 1,000 Indians—earned $1.9 million.

lackluster behavior was the fact that only one group, building materials, moved decisively. They were higher. All other groups were mixed.

Farmville To Acquire First Policewoman

By CAROL TYER

Reflector Staff Writer
FARMVILLE — Farmville Commissioners agreed last night to hire the town's first policewoman.

The application of Mrs. Geneva Owens Childers was approved. Chief Brooks Oakley said a woman is needed to deal with female offenders — searching, etc. She will do clerical work and radio dispatching during the day shift five days a week and will be on call on weekends and at night when her help is needed with female prisoners.

Another police application accepted was that of Alvin King, a local man.

Fire Chief H. P. Norman asked permission for his department to charge a nominal fee for burning down buildings during practice sessions. The Board reserved action pending study by the town attorney as to whether the department "can legally offer such a service, even for practice, out of town. It approved the idea of making a small charge that would be used for the local department or for the rural fire fund indicating it would take action when the legalities are cleared up.

Town registrars were directed to revise the town's voting

Tar Heel GI Is Killed In Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — A North Carolina soldier was among seven U.S. servicemen killed in the war in Southeast Asia, the Defense Department announced Tuesday. He was identified as S. Sgt. Richard L. Sarvis, husband of Mrs. Wanda M. Sarvis of 920 Buchanan Blvd., Durham.

The Defense Department said another North Carolina soldier, Pfc. Howard K. Wilhite Jr., died not as a result of hostile action. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard K. Wilhite of 420 Olympia Drive, Greensboro.

Says Too Many Tobacco Markets

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A North Carolina tobacco grower and former state senator says the number of flue-cured tobacco auction markets should be reduced and all markets should open at the same time.

Leroy Simmons of Albertson made the statement Tuesday at the first meeting of an 11-member subcommittee of the Flue-Cured Tobacco Marketing Committee.

"Let's be men enough to face the facts," Simmons said. "We've got too many markets to sell tobacco."

There are 94 flue-cured markets — five in Florida, 23 in Georgia, 11 in South Carolina, 45 in North Carolina and 10 in Virginia.

The markets are divided into five belts or groups of markets, and all the markets in a particular belt usually open on the same date.

"Let's do away with belt lines in North Carolina," Simmons urged. "Let's assign each systems would have to be converted to a cleaner burning type.

Associate Superintendent Tom Craft said the county is presently operating 45 boilers that are coal fired.

Converting the boilers to oil-fired system plus the tanks, according to state bids, will cost Pitt County Schools about $115,050. That price does not include the labor costs.

Alford said although the deadline is June 30, 1974, the board must begin to prepare for the conversion in next year's budget and the two budgets after that.

Alford said his staff will collect information on the various types of conversions, cost, etc., for possible use in the schools.

Board members yesterday agreed to have the Trainable School Program, with most of the students coming from the county area," Alford said. "I feel it is time for the county to go solo."

There is a possibility of six or eight classes for trainable students for the county next year. The classes will be held at various schools throughout the county.

Board members agreed to send letters of appreciation to the Pitt County Sheriff Department and local police departments in the county for their cooperation at the various sports activities and for providing supervision at the various games.

A number of new personnel for teaching positions were approved and the hiring of a coordinator or supervisor of special education was approved.

The policy adopted by the board earlier concerning the requirement that athletes and cheerleaders be transported to and from games on activity buses was amended.

Board members agreed to release the students from riding the buses only if one parent appeared before the coach to ask the student be released plus a note from the parent relieving the school of responsibility.

books, removing the names of persons who are deceased, moved out of town, or doubly listed. They will convert to a loose-leaf file card system. The old books should be carried to the election headquarters, the Commissioners said, in case anyone whose name is not carried forward should appear in order to vote.

An ordinance prohibiting parking for 200 feet north and south of Anderson Avenue on South Main Street was conditionally approved. The reason for such prohibition would be to allow room for the State Highway Commission to provide a turn lane into Anderson Avenue. It was made conditional in order to check on whether the no parking ordinance would interfere with the parking needs of Mount Moriah Holiness Church located fairly near the intersection. If so, the Board agreed to check with the High-

Sentence Hijacker

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 10-year prison term has been ordered for one of two men accused of hijacking the U.S. munitions ship Columbia Eagle to Cambodia last year.

Judge Manuel Real imposed the sentence in U.S. District Court Tuesday on Alvin Leonard Glatkowski, 21, a seaman from nearby Long Beach, shortly after Glatkowski pleaded guilty to mutiny and assault on the high seas.

His trial had been scheduled to begin later in the month.

The government alleged that Glatkowski and Clyde William McKay, 26, Escondido, Calif., both crew members, seized the Columbia Eagle by force March 14, 1970, apparently as a peace gesture, and ordered it to Cambodia.

The vessel was bound for Thailand.

Both men asked for asylum in Cambodia. Glatkowski later surrendered to the U.S. Embassy there. McKay is still believed to be in Cambodia.

For Emergencies

Greenville Fire Chief Ray Smith today said persons reporting fires within the city by telephone or individuals requesting emergency rescue service should dial 752-3116.

Explaining that 752-3116 is the department's emergency telephone, Chief Smith said that number should be called only to report a fire or rescue emergency.

The Fire Department, the chief explained, has two other telephones to be used for information type calls (persons wishing to know street locations, etc.) and social calls.

The department's non-emergency telephone numbers are 752-2554 and 752-3941.

Chief Smith explained that over the past few months, more and more persons have been calling the department's emergency telephone for non-emergency type calls. Such use, the chief said, causes the telephone to be tied up unnecessarily and may prevent someone needing to report a fire or emergency rescue situation from reaching the department immediately.

not been decided. The last alternative could not be done any time in the near future, board members indicated.

Water and Light Department director, J. A. "Bud" Wooten was given approval for hiring Stackhouse Electric Contractors of Goldsboro to install three voltage regulators at the main plant. The cost will be approximately $1,200.

The town attorney was directed to study and streamline ordinances concerning condemnation procedures. Johnny Matthews was appointed assistant building inspector.

Pirates Face Richmond In S.C. Opener

Jim Gregory

Al Faber

Gregory Named To All-Southern; Faber Second Team Choice

By MARSHALL JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

RICHMOND, Va., (AP) — Two seniors who battled it out all season for the league scoring championship and three members of an unusually fine crop of sophomores were named today to the 1971 All-Southern Conference basketball team.

The seniors are Tom Jasper of William and Mary and Jim Gregory of East Carolina. The three first-year varsity performers who earned all-star honors are Joe Sutter of regular season front-runner Davidson, Russ Hunt of Furman and Mike Anastasio of Richmond.

Only Ben Ledbetter of The Citadel challenged the top five in balloting by the seven league coaches, the news services and Southern Conference Sports Writers Association, but he finished well behind Anastasio for the fifth spot on the team.

There are no repeaters from last year, when the first team consisted of three seniors, a junior and a sophomore.

The junior was Mike Tallent of George Washington, which withdrew from the conference at the end of the last school year. The sophomore was Davidson's Brian Adrian, who led the league in scoring, but who underwent knee surgery before the season began and saw action in only half a dozen games.

This year's team, if its members performed up to their potential, would average about 84 points per game and 44 to 45 rebounds.

Jasper eventually won the scoring title for the regular season with 472 points in 25 games for an 18.9-point average to 420 points in 23 games and an 18.3 average for Gregory.

The East Carolina senior, however, is the top rebounder, averaging approximately 12 per game to 10 for Hunt and nine for Jasper.

Hunt was third in the scoring race with 384 points in 23 games for a 16.9 average, while Sutter had 372 points in 24 games for a 15.5 mark and Anastasio averaged 14.7 on 368 points in 25 encounters.

It's a tall team, averaging better than 6-foot-5, with Hunt at 6-foot-8 and Sutter and Gregory both at 6-foot-7.

Joining Ledbetter on the second team are Steve Dodge of William and Mary, Al Faber of East Carolina, Jan Essenberg of Virginia Military and Eric Minkin of Davidson. Faber also is a sophomore, the fourth on the first two units.

The East Carolina University Pirates open their quest for their first Southern Conference Basketball title Thursday night against a team they beat twice during the regular season.

And Coach Tom Quinn is confident his Pirates can do it again.

"I'd just as soon play them as anyone else," Quinn said. "They and VMI are the only teams in the conference we've beaten twice, so I see no reason to be upset about playing them."

"They do have good talent, and they do play well in the tournament, but this is the only cause for alarm," he added.

Quinn discounts last year's trip to the tournament, when the Bucs were seeded second and were upset by seventh-ranked Richmond in the first round by two points.

"That was a year ago, and I don't think it has any connection with this year's program," he said.

The two teams will clash in the final game of three to be played Thursday night in Charlotte's Coliseum. The first game, at 5 p.m., will pit second-seeded William & Mary against last place VMI. The Citadel and Furman battle at 7 p.m., with the Buc-Spider affair scheduled to start at 9 p.m. Davidson, the regular season champion, has been awarded a bye for the first round. The Wildcats will play the Furman-Citadel winner Friday at 9 p.m.

Should the Pirates defeat Richmond, they would meet the William & Mary-VMI survivor at 7 p.m. on Friday. The finals are set for 8 p.m. Saturday night.

Quinn feels that the tournament is a wide open affair, with anyone able to knock the defending Wildcats off the throne. "Everybody feels this way, but of course, they still all point for Davidson," he said.

"We are the youngest team in the tournament. We'll be starting just two seniors and three sophomores. And two of those sophomores have been starting only recently."

He referred to Dave Franklin, who took over for Jim Fairley, who had knee surgery midway through the year, and to Dave McNeill. McNeill stepped into the starting lineup two weeks ago when Julius Prince came down with a flu virus that has knocked him out of the rest of the season.

The Bucs also lost another player, Lynn Green, prior to the start of the season. A technicality kept him from returning this year for a final season.

Despite all the injuries and illness, Quinn feels that the Bucs are in great condition. "We've never been in better shape for a tournament," he said. "We've been through out exams, and even playing The Citadel Saturday in the middle of them didn't seem to hurt us."

Quinn was also happy that the first game for the Bucs will be the late one. "This is the main game, we feel. I'd rather play then that at 5 when no one is in there."

"I think we're going to do all right in the tourney," he said. "I'm pleased with the outside shooting we showed against The Citadel. We bombed them from way out. This takes the pressure off one or two of our inside men. Both Franklin and McNeill hit well from the outside. McNeill (who didn't play much until about mid-season) is getting into the condition he needs to play a full game. He's been getting awfully tired until recently."

Quinn also notes the fact that the Bucs are getting thin in reserves. "But I feel that this helps to take some of the pressure off us. The reserves have been working the starters hard, and it's paying off in both getting better."

Last year, after the Bucs lost in the opener, there was talk of over confidence, and looking ahead. "This won't happen this year," Quinn said. "There is no reason for it."

Following the William & Mary loss that eventually meant the loss of the second spot for the Bucs, Quinn held a meeting with his players. "We decided that we wanted to set no objectives for the rest of the year. We just wanted to play them one at a time, and play each of them the best we could. Usually we managed to do that. I believe we proved that we could do this. Since then, we've been 7-3, and one of those was a three-point loss."

Looking at the rest of the field, Quinn feels that William & Mary should have no trouble with VMI. "We beat them (VMI) at home without either (Jim) Gregory or Fairley," he said. As far as the Furman-Citadel game is concerned, Quinn feels that this is a toss-up. "It should be a real good game," he said. "A lot depends on how well (Lou) Meckstroth is."

Meckstroth, while playing against East Carolina in limited action Saturday, has been down with a virus for several days. "The Bucs will be led into the tournament by Gregory, who holds an 18.3 average. Al Faber is next with a 13.5 mark, with Davie Franklin at 10.7. Henrich and McNeill are neither hitting in double figures, but each is capable of doing so. Since becoming a starter, Franklin has averaged 16.4 per game, while McNeill has hit at a 13.0 clip in the last three games since taking over for Prince."

The Pirates also have good rebounding in Faber and Gregory, who stand 1-2 in the conference. Faber is getting 12.0 per game, while Gregory is putting down 11.8.

Richmond, meanwhile, is paced by sophomore guard Mike Anastasio, who is averaging 14.7 per game. Jim Hewitt has a 12.4 average, followed by Stan Ryfinski at 10.9.

The Spiders post a 5-20 record, and have only one road victory.

Bucs Swim For Another Title

An unprecedented sixth straight Southern Conference swimming title — that's what the East Carolina University swimmers and divers will be going after this weekend (March 4-5-6) in Williamsburg, Va.

Coach Ray Scharf is confident his team will rack up No. 6, although he expects a very stiff challenge from William & Mary, the host school. The Indians have finished second to ECU the last two years.

"We're stronger than last year — when we won 11 of the 17 events," said Scharf. "We have the defending champion, or champions in the case of relays, back in nine of the 11 events we won."

"Our times are better this year and our depth is much improved," continued Scharf. "However, we know William & Mary is stronger than last year, too. Actually, the championships will probably develop into a real good dual meet between us and William & Mary, with VMI and Davidson playing the spoilers."

The Pirates have two triple winners of 1970 returning in junior freestyler Jim Griffin and sophomore individual medley man Wayne Norris. This accounts for six of the nine events in which the Bucs will be defending their titles.

Griffin, from Norfolk, Va., captured the 500 freestyle in 4:57.2 (he's done a tune-up 4:58.3 this year), the 200 free in 1:48.1 (he's done 1:47.0 this season), and the 100 free in 48:23 (he's clocked 47.3 this winter).

Norris, a Fayetteville product, won the 200 IM last year in 2:05.9 (already he's done 2:01.8 this season), the 200 butterfly in 2:03.6 (this year his best is 2:02.8), and the 400 IM in 4:36.0 (a 4:43.0 in practice only this winter).

Other ECU defending champs are junior Gary Frederick in the 1650 freestyle (he clocked 18:12.8 last year and this event is swum only in the SC meet); the 800 freestyle relay team of Griffin, Norris, Frederick and John Manning (the latter replaces Paul Trevisan); and the 400 freestyle relay of Griffin, Norris, Paul Trevisan and Ted Rehm (the latter replaces Gary Frederick). The 800 free relay turned in a 7:31.5 clocking to win a year ago and already has his 7:28.0 this winter, while the 400 free relay has bettered its time from 3:17.1 to 3:14.7.

Scharf feels he will have strong entries in the other eight events also. Best ECU times in these events this year are: 50 free - Trevisan (22.0); 100 back - Greg Hinchman (58.8); 100 breast - Larry Allman (1:02.9); 200 - back Hinchman (2:09.2); 200 breast - Allman (2:25); 100 butterfly - Mark Wilson (54.8) and Henry Morrow (54.9); 400 medley relay - Hinchman, Allman, Morrow and Trevisan (3:47.8); and one-meter diving - Doug Emerson and Jack Morrow.

The Pirates take a 6-6 record in dual meets into the SC Championships.

Panthers To Play Tonight

WINSTON-SALEM — The North Pitt Panthers open their quest for the 2-A State High School Basketball Championship tonight at 7 p.m. in Reynolds High School gymnasium. The Panthers will be meeting the Fred T. Foard High School Tigers in the first game of the evening. The other Wednesday night game, and two on Thursday will decide the four semifinalists who will play to the title and consolation championship. Those games will be played Friday and Saturday night.

Jerry West Again Hit By Injury

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Injury-jinxed Jerry West has been struck down again and it could mean big trouble for the Los Angeles Lakers.

West, whose brilliant National Basketball Association career has been dotted with a long string of disabling injuries, suffered torn right knee ligaments Tuesday night in LA's 131-118 victory over Buffalo.

Elsewhere, New York took Baltimore 109-95, San Diego topped Philadelphia 111-103, Detroit whipped Portland 128-122 and Atlanta downed Seattle 128-116.

In the only ABA game played, Texas edged New York 130-127. West was lunging for a loose ball late in the first half when he got tangled up with Buffalo's Bob Kauffman and Em Bryant. Kauffman fell across West's leg after colliding with Bryant.

The Laker superstar was examined by Stephen Joyce, the Buffalo club physician, who diagnosed the torn ligaments. West returned to Los Angeles today for examination by Dr. Robert Kerlan, the Lakers' team physician, whose previous celebrated knee cases have included LA stars Wilt Chamberlain and Elgin Baylor.

Gail Goodrich led the Lakers with 30 points while Don May led all scorers, with 40, matching a Buffalo club record.

Willis Reed led New York with 21 points—15 of them, in the second half—as the Knicks whipped Baltimore. It was the fourth straight victory for the Atlantic Division leaders, who picked up a full game on Philadelphia.

San Diego got 27 points from little Calvin Murphy—18 of them in the fourth quarter—to whip the 76ers. Murphy hit seven-of-nine field goal attempts and four free throws, in his torrid fourth quarter.

Rookie Bob Lanier poured in a pro career high of 38 points and Dave Bing's hot hand produced 34 more as Detroit whipped Portland. Rookie Geoff Petrie had 41 for the Trailblazers.

Dave Bing of the Pistons suffered a small fracture of his left cheekbone. Detroit team officials said that he will be able to play against Milwaukee Friday but will wear a face mask to protect the injury.

Lou Hudson scored 18 of his 34 points in the second period as Atlanta built a 68-51 halftime lead over Seattle. Hudson connected on 12 field goal attempts in a row in the second and third quarters. Pete Maravich contributed 30 points to the Hawks' attack, 14 in the final stanza.

Dick Snyder topped the SuperSonics with 22 points.

Ex-teammate Lavern Tart sunk the New York Nets, pulling Texas to its ABA victory with a late flurry of four straight baskets. The Nets led 120-118 when Tart got hot and Texas never trailed after his four buckets gave the Chaps a 126-121 lead.

Tart finished with 24 points, seven less than teammate Don Freeman. Bill Paultz led the Nets with 27 points.

Tourneys Begin Tapping Choices

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The NCAA and NIT are the folks issuing the college basketball invitations these days but Texas Christian, Ohio State, St. John's, Rutgers and Duke decided to do some bidding of their own Tuesday night while Southern Methodist's Gene Phillips won his hand in Texas.

After the NCAA picked its 10 at-large teams for its postseason extravaganza and the NIT named three, TCU won its way into the former with a 76-63 fight-married victory over Texas A&M that clinched the Southwest Conference title for the Horned Frogs.

Ohio State, the Big Ten leader, moved closer to nailing down a berth by trimming Minnesota 84-70. NIT hopefuls St. John's and Rutgers posted 89-74 and 92-68 triumphs over Holy Cross and Lafayette, respectively, while Duke, which wouldn't mind a trip to New York if it doesn't win the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament, turned back Clemson 70-60.

Three of Tuesday's NCAA selections were victorious at night. Ninth-ranked Jacksonville belted Miami of Florida 94-75, No. 11 Duquesne shelled Detroit 93-73 and 17th-rated Long Beach State downed Centenary 66-50.

The other NCAA at-large bids went to Marquette, Fordham, Houston, Notre Dame, Utah State, Villanova and New Mexico State. The NIT then tapped Dayton, St. Bonaventure and Tennessee.

And deep in the heart of Texas, SMU's Phillips poured in 51 points, wiping out the SWC mark of 50 held by the late Jim Krebs of SMU and Dub Malaise of Texas Tech. As the 6-foot-4 senior set his record by sinking two free throws with six seconds left at Texas' Gregory Gym, scattered pieces of paper floated to the floor and public address announcer Wally Pryor scolded: "I don't know who threw that, but I think that's one of the worst displays of sportsmanship I have ever seen. I think we should give Phillips a round of applause."

He got it. The Longhorns, however, got the victory 96-88. TCU's Eugene "Goo" Kennedy scored only eight points against A&M but pulled down 19 rebounds for a one-season SWC record of 239. The old mark of 235 was set by Doug Boyd, also of TCU. Simpson Degrate paced the winners with 29 points.

Degrade and A&M's Wayne Howard started the fracas and Kennedy and Steve Niles also exchanged punches. TCU Coach Johnny Swaim went to the mike after the fight and asked the crowd to stop throwing objects on the floor. No players were ejected.

The Horned Frogs will face Notre Dame in a first-round game at Houston on March 13.

Seven-foot Luke Witte's 26 points and 20 rebounds helped Ohio State top Minnesota. The Buckeyes have an 11-1 conference mark with two games left while Indiana and Michigan both are 8-2 with four games remaining.

A balanced attack featured the St. John's triumph over Holy Cross with Mel Davis canning 20 points, Bill Phillips 16 and Billy Schaeffer and Mike Keilty 15 apiece. The winners are 16-8 with two games to go while the Crusaders finished at 18-8 and are still hoping for an NIT call.

Little John McFadden, normally a playmaker and reluctant shooter, scored a career high 21 points as Rutgers walked Lafayette. Steve Kaplan led the Scarlet Knights with 22 and Gene Armstead had 20 while Lafayette's Tracy Tripucka scored 30.

Duke pulled away from a 32-all halftime tie with Clemson and hiked its record to 17-7 behind Randy Denton's 23 points. It was the seventh straight triumph for the Blue Devils.

Jacksonville, which meets Western Kentucky in its NCAA-opener, closed its regular season with a 22-3 slate by routing Miami as Harold Fox poured in 26 points, Artis Gilmore 21 and Ernie Fleming 20.

Barry Nelson scored 25 points and Mickey Davis 24 as Duquesne crushed Detroit, although the Dukes led by only two with 11½ minutes left. George Trapp led Long Beach past Centenary with 17 points.

Elsewhere, Cincinnati completed its 18th straight winning season by trouncing Buffalo 86-59, Ruben Vance scored 29 points for a Kent State season standard of 509 as the Golden Flashes nipped Penn State 86-85 in overtime and Wake Forest's Charlie Davis sank key free throws in the final minute in a 72-66 win over Maryland...on Charlie Davis Night.

Drake held off North Texas State 65-60 to clinch at least a tie for second in the Missouri Valley Conference. The Bulldogs also are an NIT possibility.

Other scores: Nebraska 87, Kansas State 71; Ohio U. 100, Western Michigan 70; Texas Tech 99, Rice 87; Baylor 111, Arkansas 110 in overtime.

Foster KO's Carroll In 4

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP) — "There ain't but one light heavyweight champion," said Bob Foster after stopping Hal "TNT" Carroll in the fourth of their scheduled 15-round 175-pound title bout Tuesday night.

Foster disposed of Carroll at 2:32 of the fourth round, setting up the 30-year-old challenger from Syracuse, N.Y., with a left hook and then spreading him on the canvas with a blistering right.

It was the fifth successful defense by the 38-year-old Foster of the title he won in 1968 from Dick Tiger. The victory was the 42nd in 47 fights for the Washington, D.C., fighter and his 36th knockout.

Foster's one-champ declaration was his answer to the World Boxing Association, which recently withdrew its championship recognition of him for failing to meet a worthy challenger within a reasonable period of time. Foster last defended against Mark Tessman on June 27, 1970.

The WBA recognizes Vicente Rondon of Venezuela as the light heavyweight champion by virtue of his sixth-round kayo of Jimmy Dupree of Jersey City, N.J., last Saturday night in Caracas.

Foster said he wants to defend the 175-pound title twice more and then take another shot at the heavyweight championship. He tried for the big title last November, only to be knocked out in the second round by champion Joe Frazier.

Who does he want as light heavyweight challenger?

"Rondon," he said without hesitation. "And I'll fight him in Venezuela. I'm the man in the light heavyweight division. I don't even have to train to beat some of these guys."

Foster's manager, Lou Viscusi, was asked if he would try to settle the dispute with the WBA. "What WBA?" retorted Viscusi with a straight face.

"If the WBA has a pretender who wants to challenge Foster, we're ready with two weeks notice," Viscusi said.

Foster earned $13,856 as a crowd of 4,029 turned out at the 4,500-seat Catholic Youth Center for Scranton's first title bout in 45 years.

Carroll picked up $6,928 and 30 stitches over his left eye for his trouble. It was only his third loss in 33 bouts and the first time he had ever been knocked down. He claimed the nasty cut was caused by a butt. Foster said it came from a left hook.

Strongest Field Set For Doral Open Golf

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer

MIAMI (AP) — Probably the strongest field of the year has been assembled for the $150,000 Doral-Eastern Open Golf Tournament, but, as usual, Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player figure to dominate things.

The absence of Billy Casper and Lee Trevino focuses attention even more sharply on the Big Three in this 72-hole test that begins Thursday on the demanding Blue Monster course at the Doral Country Club, a watery, 7,028 yard, par 72 layout.

Casper, the Masters champion who finished second to Nicklaus in last week's PGA championship, and 1970 leading money winner Trevino simply are taking some time off.

But they're about the only major names missing from the field that usually is one of the toughest of the year.

It's so strong, in fact, that 56 of last year's top 60 money winners showed up; there are 78 former tournament champions and the field had to be expanded from the usual 144 to 156 to accommodate all the exempt players and allow for eight spots for the qualifiers.

Nicklaus, who won his 11th major championship in the PGA, Palmer and Player still rank as the men to beat, though Nicklaus pointed out:

"It's very difficult to win two in a row, to keep your game and your mental attitude at a peak for two consecutive weeks."

The 41-year-old Palmer, grimly determined to retain his role as the game's premier performer, was disappointed in his showing last week when he finished in a tie for 18th.

"But I'm determined to keep on trying," he said. "I know I can still win. I'm working very hard on my game."

He won the Bob Hope Classic, was second in the Bing Crosby open and hasn't finished lower than 19th in six starts this season, a heavy schedule for him.

Player, a South African, tied for fourth last week after making a major bid for the championship. It was an unusually strong showing for his first start in this country this year and stamped him as a major threat for the $30,000 first prize here.

Also on hand are such standouts as defending champion

Mike Hill; Tom Shaw, winner of two events this season; Miller Barber, the record-setting winner at Phoenix and No. 2 on the money list, and 1971 tournament winners George Archer and Bob Lunn.

Carolina Out To Sew It Up

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

North Carolina can win the regular season basketball title in the Atlantic Coast Conference by beating North Carolina State in a home game tonight.

The Tar Heels have not lost at home this season. They are 10-2 in the league and 19-4 in all games. The N.C. State Wolfpack is 5-8 and 12-12.

The game, which will be regionally televised, is the only one involving ACC teams tonight.

The regular season titlist will be top seeded in the conference tournament which starts next Thursday in the Greensboro, N.C., Coliseum.

Last Saturday, North Carolina got a 27-point performance from Dennis Wuyceick and edged Virginia 75-74. And N.C. State, while getting 25 points from Ed Leftwich, lost 82-69 to South Carolina.

In Tuesday night's two games, Wake Forest defeated Maryland 72-66, and Duke defeated Clemson 70-60.

It was Charlie Davis Night at Wake Forest, and his No. 12 jersey was retired. He scored

Hold-Out List Shrinks Further

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

As usual, the hitters were ahead of the pitchers as spring training workouts picked up steam. And Ron Taylor was beside himself.

The holdout list shrank a bit Tuesday as Cincinnati first baseman Lee May, pitcher Jim Merritt and outfielder-pinch hitter Jimmy Stewart signed contracts. No terms were disclosed.

San Diego's Gerry Nyman pitched two perfect innings in the Padres' scoreless intrasquad game—but he was the exception.

Tom Shopay's two-run triple and Don Buford's two-run single highlighted Baltimore's game, Jim Mason and Lou Klimchok homered and Klimchok added two singles in Washington's workout, Amos Otis had two homers and Fred Patek had one in Pittsburgh's slugfest, Milwaukee's John Felske blasted one and Boston got round-trippers from Don Pavletich, Billy Conigliaro, Jarvis Tatum and Carlton Fisk. All were intrasquad games.

So was the New York Mets' activity, in which rookie infielder Tim Lincecum's homer off Taylor ignited a rally that led the Yogi Berra past the Joe Pignatano 3-2. But Taylor also pitched for the Berras—and so was the winning pitcher as well as the loser.

In New York City, Mayor John V. Lindsay announced a bill was being introduced in the state legislature to enable the city to purchase Yankee Stadium and keep the Yankees and the Giants football team in New York.

"In the sports world, Yankee Stadium is hallowed ground," Lindsay said. "It is the stadium in which baseball grew to maturity...from Babe Ruth to Joe DiMaggio to Mickey Mantle."

He said the legislation would permit the city to buy "the house that Ruth built" for about $24 million from its present owners, Rice University and The Knights of Columbus.

The string has lifted the Blue Devils from seventh place in the ACC to third on an 8-5 record. Last-place Clemson is 3-11.

Dave Thomas had a game-high 24 points for Clemson and Randy Denton was high for Duke with 23.

Trainer Grover (Buddy) Delp set a Monmouth Park record last summer by saddling 27 winners, one more than the record set last year by Budd Lepman.

NAIA Berths Set Tonight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NAIA Districts 29 and 6 basketball champions will be determined tonight. And first round eliminations will be staged in District 26.

At stake are places in the 32-team national event opening next Monday at Kansas City, Mo.

The District 6 finals at Greenville, S. C., sends Western Carolina against North Carolina-Asheville.

Elizabeth City State meets Atlantic Christian at Wilson, N. C., for the District 29 title.

Western Carolina downed Newberry, 69-68, and North Carolina-Asheville defeated South Carolina State, 99-90, in Tuesday night's District 6 eliminations.

Elizabeth City State and Atlantic Christian won their way to the District 29 finals with Monday night victories over Pembroke State and Lynchburg, respectively.

In tonight's District 26 eliminations at Winston-Salem, Carolinas Conference champion Elon meets North Carolina A&T and Gardner-Webb meets Guilford. The winners will play Thursday night for the title.

Elon, Gardner-Webb, N. C. A&T and Guilford all received votes in this week's Associated Press small college basketball poll but failed to make the top 20.

Cold Of Winter Killed 3,000 Men At Valley Forge

By LARRY THORSON and RONALD B. KENNEDY
VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP) — Gray winter skies hang over Valley Forge like a leaden canopy.

Tendrils of ice dangle from the dogwood and oak trees. A bitter wind rakes the open parade grounds and the puny fortifications reconstructed to give the visitor an idea of what it was like 193 years ago when George Washington and his 11,000 men encamped here.

Only a few dozen people visit each cold day, compared to the thousands who tour the state park in the summer.

Yet there is much to be said for touring Valley Forge in the winter. How else can a person really know what America's revolutionary soldiers endured? How else can a person understand why 3,000 men died around those hills where no battle was fought?

The winter visitor stands in one spot for two minutes to read the inscription on a monument, and he feels the frozen ground drain the warmth from his snugly booted feet.

"... there are 2,898 men in camp unfit for duty because they are barefooted and otherwise naked," says a letter written by Washington, commander in chief on Dec. 23, 1777.

The visitor inspects a few of the soldiers' huts, faithful replicas of the 900 log and clay shelters Washington ordered his men to build. A dozen men jammed into each of the 14-by-16 foot huts.

The temperature fell to six degrees above zero Dec. 30, 1777, according to records kept in Philadelphia, some 20 miles away.

"... Numbers (of soldiers) are obliged because of lack of blankets to sit up all night by fires instead of taking comfortable rest," Washington's letter of Dec. 23, 1777.

No battle ever was fought in Valley Forge. The British had dealt the Continental Army two severe blows and then occupied Philadelphia, at that time the capital. The Redcoats stayed snug in the city, thinking the winter weather would wipe out the colonials.

"... For some days past there has been little less than a famine in the camp. A part of the army has been a week without any kind of flesh, and the rest three or four days. ... Strong symptoms of discontent have appeared in particular instances, and nothing but the most active efforts everywhere can long avert such a catastrophe (mutiny)." Washington's letter of Feb. 16, 1778.

The British were almost right. Three thousand men died of exposure and malnutrition. Their graves remain unmarked. Washington probably ordered this to keep morale from dropping precipitously and to keep the British from knowing how weak his force was becoming.

How did Washington keep his ragged, starving, demoralized army from rebelling or just packing up and going home? What was done to turn this pitiful crew into the disciplined force that marched forth from the valley in June, 1778, and defeated the British at Monmouth in New Jersey?

Iron discipline dissuaded many disgruntled soldiers, although some did desert. The Continental Congress began to supply money for supplies and hardship pay. There were windfalls like the capture of an entire shipload of cloth for British officers' uniforms.

But sheer determination, more than anything else, saved the American Revolution. Washington's steadfastness shows clearly in a portrait painted by Charles Wilson Peale during the six-month encampment. Maj. Gen. Friedrich Wilhelm Baron von Steuben, the German who turned the green soldiers into fighting men, stands immortalized in a statue in the park—his jut-jawed, hawk-nosed face determined.

That determination sprang from the desire of men to be free in their own homeland—a desire epitomized by the equestrian statue of Gen. Anthony Wayne. His horse faces the British in Philadelphia, but he is looking over his shoulder toward his nearby birthplace.

Corn Blight Is Seen Big Cause Of Yield Loss

PONTIAC, ILL. (AP) — Corn crop surveys show that the 1970 yield in Livingston County was down 34 bushels to the acre from 1969.

According to 100 farmers representing 30 townships the average yield was 84.5 bushels per acre during a year when Southern Corn Leaf Blight ran rampant in the corn belt.

Paul Wilson, extension adviser, said most farmers reported a yield of 119.5 bushels of corn per acre in 1969.

The questionnaires revealed 53 farmers reported they thought the blight was the major factor in the loss of yield; 20 thought blight caused only half of the loss yield. However, the other 27 thought blight was not the most important reason for yield loss in 1970.

A few indicated wet weather and other factors were responsible for the 50 per cent loss in 1970.

NEW TOMATO
EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—Michigan State University agriculturists have developed a new tomato variety, the Droplet, that has potential as a substitute for cherry tomatoes. Droplet got its name because the fruit looks like drops of water.

Another New Tangle In Calley's Complicated Trial

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL

Associated Press Writer

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) —

The trial of My Lai Lt. William Calley Jr., already complicated by issues far greater than that of an ordinary murder trial, has a new tangle today: a battle within the military.

The conflict, interesting enough to intrigue any courtroom buff, may be resolved in the rebuttal phase of Calley's court-martial which resumes today after a three-day recess.

On one side, representing the Ft. Benning contingent, is the 29-year-old prosecutor, Aubrey Daniel, a captain who will return to civilian life when his duty tour ends next month.

On the other is the 3rd Army with headquarters at Ft. McPherson, Ga., 117 miles to the north and the duty station of Capt. Ernest Medina.

Testifying on charges that he killed 102 civilians at My Lai three years ago, Calley admitted he and his troops shot men, women and children, but said it was on the direct orders of his company commander, Medina.

Daniel wants Medina to come in and testify. Medina, according to his lawyer, wants to come. But someone higher up doesn't want that and an order has gone to Daniel not to call the captain.

Medina is charged with overall responsibility for what happened in the South China sea village and specifically — his lawyer says — with the murder of 175 people. An order to court-martial the captain, Medina's lawyers believe, is imminent.

"Your petitioner (Medina) is ready, willing and able to testify on behalf of the Army in direct refutation of Lt. Calley's testimony," Medina's lawyer, F. Lee Bailey, said in a petition to the U.S. Court of Military Appeals. The petition asks that high military officials "be prohibited from interfering with the administration of justice particularly as it pertains to your petitioner's available testimony in the Calley court-martial."

The key words are "on behalf of the Army."

Presumably the "refutation" would be that Medina never intended for the execution of civilians when he briefed Calley and the rest of his Charlie Company the night before the attack on My Lai — that Calley misinterpreted the order or went beyond it.

If prosecutor Daniel — representing the Army — calls Medina he would be accepting the credibility of the captain; i.e. that what Medina says is true.

Any prosecution of Medina later by the 3rd Army at Ft. MacPherson would be a declaration that it believes that Medina is responsible for all those deaths.

Therein lies the conflict. The Army cannot say on one hand — Daniel's — that Medina never intended the killing of civilians, then prosecute him on the other for those very killings.

The petition makes mention of that point:

"There exists a special reason," it says, "which substantiates respondent Daniel's belief in the petitioner's credibility and his desire to utilize the available testimony of petitioner in rebuttal."

The special reason was not spelled out, but in that paragraph the key is Daniel's belief in Medina's credibility.

Daniel has refused comment on the order to him not to summon Medina. The petition says the order came from Col. Robert M. Lathrop, the top legal officer at Ft. Benning.

A court source says such conflicts generally are solved by higher headquarters. By going to the Court of Military Appeals, Medina's lawyers hope obviously to short-circuit the chain of command.

To make doubly sure, Medina's petition names as respondents the Secretary of the Army, Stanley R. Resor, Maj. Gen. Kenneth J. Hodson, who is the Army's judge advocate general and Lt. Gen. Albert O. Connor, commanding general of the 3rd Army.

Nowhere in the petition do Medina's lawyers say how they got the information about Lathrop's order to Daniel but the most likely source is Daniel.

The blond, young Virginian, who has lost 18 pounds trying to get Calley convicted of premeditated murder, is not connected with possible trial for Medina.

Presumably Daniel could disobey his orders and call Medina by subpoena if necessary. But such is not normally done in the Army. An order routinely would be sufficient to bring the captain to the windowless courtroom at Ft. Benning, but the order would have to be issued by the 3rd Army.

The Court of Military Appeals may resolve the issue. But there may be one final possibility.

The six-officer jury has the right to request witnesses. It may want to hear from Medina himself exactly what he said in that briefing the night before the devastation of My Lai.

In that case Medina would be called and be available for cross-examination by both sides. And the out-of-court drama would become moot.

Worry Clinic Sniff Out An Early Disease?

Hal's case is very stimulating to physicians and psychologists. Do you think Hal's change in blood chemistry altered his scent (spoor) to the point where his former canine friend now snarled at him? Pioneer medics often "sniffed" as they entered the sick room and thus made their diagnosis!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M.D.

Case P-586: Hal T., aged 21, was a brilliant college senior. He frequently visited the home of his uncle, who had a beagle. Hal and this dog were bosom buddies, for they romped and played together whenever Hal entered the house.

In fact, the beagle could detect Hal's arrival before Hal even buzzed the doorbell.

The dog would thus bark in eager delight, and then climb all over Hal as soon as Hal sat down on the davenport.

But during his senior college year, Hal didn't get to visit his uncle at Christmas, so it wasn't till Easter that he finally buzzed the bell.

Alas, the beagle now growled and treated Hal as a total stranger.

It would bristle in dislike whenever Hal tried to pat it on the head.

Gone was their old camaraderie, much to Hal's chagrin.

Neither Hal nor his uncle could explain the sudden change in the beagle's attitude.

But a month later, Hal had grown so listless and lacking in energy, that the college physician sent him to the hospital for tests.

And Hal was found to be a victim of leukemia, from which he died before his commencement in June.

"Dr. Crane," Hal's uncle thoughtfully asked me, "you know that beagles have a remarkably keen sense of smell."

"And our beagle would certainly not have forgotten Hal's personal scent or body odor in the 6 months Hal was gone."

"So do you suppose Hal's undiagnosed leukemia could have altered his characteristic spoor to the point that our pet dog didn't recognize him?"

"For in leukemia, Dr. Crane, isn't the chemistry of the blood altered greatly?"

Yes, that is certainly true. So that keen-scented beagle might have been fooled by the change in Hal's scent or spoor.

You are aware that bloodhounds can pick one man out of 10,000 merely by the faint "B.O." that lingers on the ground where that man has walked.

Besides, canines don't lose their memories for smell in such a short interval as 6 months.

So why would that pet beagle turn on his former boon companion and playmate?

How would you readers diagnose this case?

Several biochemists have expressed interest in this possibility that dogs could thus be employed to ferret out incipient ailments among human beings.

Suppose some bloodhounds were specifically taught to sniff out the odor that comes from diabetes.

By contrast, other canines might be trained to detect cancer versus tuberculosis, etc.

Then, suppose these dogs were set loose in a crowd of possibly 1,000 men and women.

Could the dogs point out the early diabetics, who thus far didn't even know their blood sugar level was abnormally high?

And would the other canines sniff out the early cancer victims or persons who had various incipient ailments that hadn't yet produced severe symptoms that would drive such patients to consult a physician?

At present, our modern medical and psychological use of the sense of smell is slight.

But pioneer doctors often "sniffed" the sickroom and made their diagnosis by the odor therein.

See my own case of "milk sick," as described tomorrow! (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Miguel de Cervantes' "Don Quixote" has been more widely translated than any other book except the Bible.

'Civilisation' Showings Set

An additional showing is being scheduled for the third of the BBC color film series "Civilisation." Dr. Francis Speight, coordinator for the Greenville showings of the 13 hour Sir Kenneth Clark film, reports that showings this week end will take place Friday at 8:00 p.m., Sunday at 3:15 p.m., and again on Monday at 8:00 p.m.

The Monday showing, Dr. Speight notes, is to permit students from ECU who have been following the series to have an opportunity to view Parts 5 and 6 being shown this weekend during the quarter break period.

In this third showing, Part 5, the first hour will cover the subject "The Hero as Artist, which deals with one of the most exciting eras in the history of art — the Renaissance years in Italy. Michelangelo, Raphael, Bramante and Pope Julius are the stars of this brilliant period.

Part 6 is "Protest and Communication," and reveals developments as the Gutenberg printing press comes into its own. The great figures in this concluding hour of the third showing are Erasmus, Sir Thomas More, Durer, Holbein, Martin Luther and Shakespeare.

Admission to this and all other showings in this series is open to the public and free of charge. Each showing is in the auditorium of the School of Nursing Building on ECU campus.

GardenProgram Heard Thursday

"Planting A Perennial Garden" was the program topic for the meeting of the Home Pride Garden Club held Thursday at the home of Mrs. Joseph Clark.

Mrs. Roger Hendorfer gave the program. She said there are four basic things to remember in designing a perennial garden; beauty; ease of maintenance; cost; and plan.

Mrs. Frank Thompson, president, presided at the business meeting. Mrs. Charles Carter and Mrs. Robert Browning were welcomed as guests.

Mrs. Lyman Daughtrey was co-hostess for the meeting.

Suit Is Asking $2.13 Million

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Eighteen persons filed suit for $2.13 million damages Tuesday against Charlotte city police and Mecklenburg County sheriff's offices. The broad range of charges against the 51 defendants include allegations of false arrest, harassment, intimidation and brutality.

The Omnibus suit was filed in U.S. District Court by a civil rights lawyer, George S. Daly Jr.

Two of the plaintiffs, Lloyd Dancy of Golf Hill in Rowan County and Jerry R. Hooper of Charlotte, charge they were beaten and injured by police after a gambling raid in Charlotte last October. They ask $150,000 each. Mecklenburg County Patrolman Ronnie E. McGraw was shot to death in the raid.
