Minimum Wage Bill Clears N.C. House, Sent To The Senate

RALEIGH (AP) — The House has passed and sent to the Senate a bill providing for a two-step hike in North Carolina's minimum wage.

The bill, which provides for a raise from $1.25 an hour to $1.45 an hour next July 1 and then to $1.60 on July 1, 1972, passed Tuesday without debate. An estimated 50,000 North Carolinians would be affected by the bill.

Another bill, giving children conceived by artificial insemination the same rights as natural children when the husband and wife agree to the process, also passed the House without debate.

The bill's sponsor, Rep. Hunter Warlick, R-Catawba said he did not know how many children were born in North Carolina through artificial insemination.

In other House activity, opening guns were fired in the biennial battle over capital punishment.

Rep. Henry E. Frye, D-Guilford, joined 16 other House members in sponsoring legislation to change the maximum punishment for first degree murder, rape, first degree burglary and arson from death to life imprisonment.

Frye said chances for passage of the measure were much greater than they were two years ago, when a similar bill failed in the House.

Sen. Hyles Coggins, D-Wake, introduced in the Senate a bill substituting life imprisonment for death as the maximum penalty for persons under 21 years of age at the time they committed a crime. The bill would not be retroactive.

The Senate refused to accept a House-passed bill extending for two years a state law permitting judges to issue limited licenses to drivers convicted for the first time of drunk driving.

The sponsor of the Senate version of the bill, Sen. W. W. Staton, D-Lee, spoke against the House amendments. He said, however, that he felt "some compromise can be worked out."

The bill now goes to a joint conference committee. If an extension of the limited driving provision is not passed, it will expire July 1.

A bill would require that the screens of drive-in movies be located away from the highway or shielded from view. Harris pointed out that a 16-year-old boy with a driving license might get to see from the road what the ticket taker at an "X" rated movie could not permit him to watch from the inside of the theater. Most "X" rated films are limited to those 18 years or older.

In an interview, Harris also pointed out that "this type of movie creates a traffic hazard."

The House Highway Safety Committee approved a bill requiring trucks transporting sand, gravel and other materials to have tarpaulins or suitable coverings.

Penalties for violations under the bill would be fines of not less than $50 and not more than $500 for each offense.

ECU Trustees Ponder Course To Study Medical Education Options

A study of all options available will be made by a committee appointed by East Carolina University's trustees to look into the medical education program at the university during the next two years.

This action, taken by the ECU

Board of Trustees at their Raleigh meeting yesterday, will keep alive efforts to obtain a two year medical school at ECU. The Board of Higher Education had recommended that a one-year medical program be established at the Greenville campus.

A resolution, offered by trustee R. F. McCoy of Laurinburg, who is also a member of the Board of Higher Education calls for appropriate action on the part of ECU President Dr. Leo Jenkins, Director of Health Affairs Dr. Edwin Monroe, and Dean of Medicine Dr. Wallace R. Woolee, "to insure the most productive program possible in medical education is begun at East Carolina University in the 1971-1973 biennium."

The resolution delays approval of a definitive course of action at the present time, "because there is yet no evaluation of such a one-year program available through medical education channels."

"We're going to study all the options, we don't know what the final result will be," Dr. Jenkins said after the meeting.

According to remarks Jenkins made to newsmen, it will take at least six weeks to complete the study. He said when the study is completed, the trustees will be called back to act on the committee's recommendations.

The action decided upon yesterday was based on a statement in the resolution: "the Board of Trustees do not, at the present time, feel sufficient information is available for them to recommend a definitive course of action."

In light of this lack of information, trustees feel they cannot recommend a definitive course to begin a program of medical education at ECU in the 1971-73 biennium, "which would be in the interests of the state and the university."

Acting on the recommendation of the Board of Higher Education, officials at ECU have begun discussions with their counterparts at the University of North Carolina to investigate the

Allocate Million

RALEIGH — The State Highway Commission has allocated $1 million for the construction of Tenth Street (U. S. 264 business) in Greenville, according to an announcement by Area Highway Commissioner Arthur Tripp.

Tripp said the full commission, at his request, made the allocation at its regular March meeting in Raleigh.

The $1 million allocation is in addition to $700,000 which had previously been appropriated and went for preliminary engineering and the acquisition of the necessary right of way. The project, which is 2.4 miles long, runs from Cotanche Street to the vicinity of the U. S. 264 bypass. The street will be widened to four lanes, with a left turn lane and an eight-foot median from Cotanche Street to College Hill Drive, then four lanes with a left turn lane to the end of the project near the bypass.

Originally, the estimated cost of the project was $1.75 million.

Adopt Correctional Services Program

East Carolina University Board of Trustees yesterday approved a four year course of Correctional Services. In making approval of this course, ECU officials were directed to work with Lee Bounds, Director of the North Carolina Division of Corrections.

The course is designed to train people in the duties of prison guards, wardens, as sociology and psychology workers, and in similar fields connected with correctional institutions.

East Carolina University is one of only three educational institutions in the Southeast United States which is ready to go into this field.

The trustees also approved a new program leading to a master's degree in physics. The new program is one to train teachers in physics. The program will not involve any new funding.

Dr. Robert Holt, ECU Vice-president Dean of the University, said that it was a matter of rearranging courses, and that the university could go into the new program without additional funding.

Dorm Visitation Policy Is Left To Dr. Jenkins

East Carolina University president Dr. Leo Jenkins was yesterday authorized by the university's Board of Trustees, subject to the Executive Committee approval, to establish a policy for visitation hours in men's dormitories.

Student Government Association president Robert Whitley, appearing before the board of trustees at their Raleigh meeting yesterday, said he felt putting the question to the Board of Trustees was not realistic, as the board is too far removed from the situation.

"We feel we can work with Dr. Jenkins," Whitley said. "He has proved he can work with us."

Whitley also expressed an opinion that men students at ECU "were more than willing to cooperate in realistic regulations."

The Visitation policy for visitors to the men's dormitories has become a source of growing controversy on the campus.

Official policy now permits coeds to visit men's dormitories on Friday and Saturday only. However, on February 23, the Men's Residence Council passed its own visitation policy which would permit women visitors seven days a week from noon until women's curfew hours.

An attempt to reconcile the two divergent viewpoints resulted in the university's appointing an ad hoc committee to look into the matter. Their recommendation is to extend visitation times to Wednesday and Sunday in addition to the two days now officially permitted.

Whitley accused the ad hoc committee of "lack of objectivity," saying the members were not representative of residents of the men's dormitories. He said very few of the members on the committee even lived in dormitories.

Under questioning by Troy Dodson, Whitley admitted "there have been problems." Dodson noted he was opposed to changing anything at this time,

President Nixon Says Vietnam War Ending

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon said in an interview that the Vietnam war is ending and added, "In fact, I seriously doubt if we will ever have another war. This is probably the very last one," the New York Times reported today.

Times columnist C.L. Sulzberger reported that the President stressed that the United States must maintain its responsibilities in the world, warning against a course that he described as neo-isolationism.

Sulzberger's rare on-the-record interview with Nixon took place Monday in the President's private office in the Executive Office Building across from the White House in Washington.

The Times gave this account: "I'd like to see us not end the Vietnam war foolishly and

Committee OK

RALEIGH (AP) — Legislation authorizing elections on the sale of liquor by the drink in North Carolina's legally wet areas was approved by a House committee today after nearly two hours of debate.

The House Alcoholic Beverage Control Committee beat down attempts to send the bill to a subcommittee and to delay action on it for another week.

council would find out about any student who violated the rules and regulations and kick him out; we'd not want him in the dormitories."

Attorney General Robert Morgan, chairman of the ECU board, noted the issue is a highly emotional one. He stated that liberal visitation policies for private colleges is one thing, and at ECU another, as "the taxpayers are going to have to contribute to it whether they want or not."

Jenkins said the number of days the dorms are open to the opposite sex is not the real issue, but that it is one of enforcement of regulations governing

SELECTIVE STRIKES

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge has ruled railroad unions may apply selective strikes against individual railroads if collective bargaining breaks down.

Part of the answer, he suggested, "is simply that Americans, like all idealists, are very impatient people. They feel that if a good thing is going to happen it should happen instantly."

Other meeting sites include Raleigh, Greenville, Wilmington, Clinton, Charlotte, Winston-Salem, Greensboro, Lenoir and Southern Pines-Pinehurst.

State Lowers Interest Rates

RALEIGH (AP) — Bank interest rates charged on certificates of deposits for state funds was lowered today from 4 1/2 to 4 per cent.

Gov. Bob Scott and the Council of State lowered the interest in line with recent yields on short term U. S. Treasury obligations.

New Rates Are Adopted By Utilities

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector Managing Editor

New electric rate schedules were adopted by the Utilities Commission last night which follow exactly those expected to be approved for Virginia Electric and Power Co.

The rates are expected to take effect here after the official date that the Federal Power Commission grants to Vepeco an increase in its municipal rate schedule. This should be around April 1.

The new rates will reflect the 9.24 percent increase in wholesale rates which is expected to be agreed upon by municipalities served by Vepeco.

Greenville Utilities agreed to this in a resolution passed last night. The wholesale rate increase would be retroactive to July 1, 1970. However, the Utilities Commission will pay this monthly to Vepeco in 12 equal payments from its revenues.

E. Hoover Taft, who was elected chairman of the commission last night, said, "Maybe the public will realize we are making a sincere effort to compete with the private power companies."

Ed Waldrop, outgoing chairman, pointed out that Bethel and other nearby municipalities which do not own their own utilities will be paying exactly the same retail rates to Vepeco as Greenville Utilities customers pay.

An important difference in the new residential schedule, as compared with the old one, is a lower rate for big residential power users during the months from November through June. After the first 600 kilowatt hours per month during that period the cost will drop to 1.2 cents per kwh for the next 900 kwh and to 1 cent per kwh for the excess over 1500 kwh.

For the months from July through October, when electric use is highest, the lowest rate will be 1.8 cents per kwh for the excess above 210 kwh.

As a municipally owned utilities Greenville Utilities rates are not controlled by the State Utilities Commission; however, the Vepeco rates are and, in effect, for the first time Greenville will be following the retail rates set for Vepeco by the State commission.

The new schedule also doubles the minimum monthly charge

'Forums' By GOP

RALEIGH (AP) — The Republican Party of North Carolina has scheduled 10 "Republican Forums" to find out "what people at the grassroots level" have to say about the party and the government. The first of the series is set for March 20 in Asheville.

Sen. Phil Kirk, R-Rowan, who is chairman of the state Federation of Young Republicans, said the meetings will be open to the public.

According to Kirk, the objectives of the project include getting fresh ideas for the Republican legislative delegation, getting ideas for the state GOP platform, acting as a sounding board for the State and national administrations and drawing "fresh ideas on how to attract wider participation in the party from all groups."

The Asheville forum will be held at 2 p.m. at the Humanities Building on the campus of the University of North Carolina at Asheville.

Other meeting sites include Raleigh, Greenville, Wilmington, Clinton, Charlotte, Winston-Salem, Greensboro, Lenoir and Southern Pines-Pinehurst.

State Lowers Interest Rates

RALEIGH (AP) — Bank interest rates charged on certificates of deposits for state funds was lowered today from 4 1/2 to 4 per cent.

Gov. Bob Scott and the Council of State lowered the interest in line with recent yields on short term U. S. Treasury obligations.

for electricity—from $1.50 to $3. Director Charles Horne said this would affect very few customers since almost all homes use the monthly minimum.

New rates were set for outdoor lights: 175 watts, $42 per year; 250 watts, $54 per year and 400 watts, $75 per year. The charges are made in equal monthly payments.

Other schedules apply the Vepeco rates to commercial and industrial customers.

Commissioners also voted to increase the wholesale rates to Ayden and Winterville by 9.24 percent retroactive to last July to pass on the Vepeco increase.

The city of Greenville an internal rate was increased from 1 cent to 1.1 cents per kwh and the Pitt all-electric school rate was increased from 1 cent to 1.1 cents per kwh.

Commissioners heard a letter from Rep. Walter B. Jones informing them that a request for emergency federal funds to cover the cost of ice storm damage had been turned down. Cost of repairs to the system has been estimated at $125,000.

Director Horne reported that he had written to the N.C. Department of Water and Air Resources concerning the plans for construction of a plant which might use dyes in Rocky Mount. He said he asked for assurances that the water quality in the Tar at the local Utilities intake would not be affected.

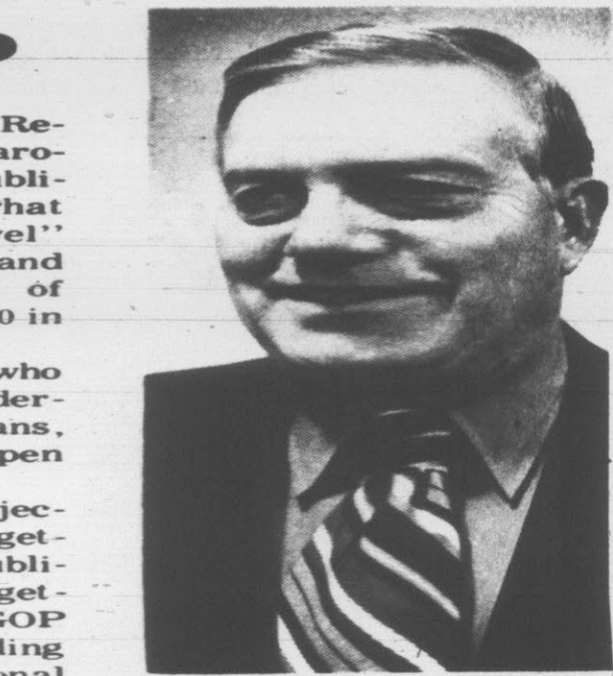

Letters were received from the board and from the Rocky Mount city manager indicating that the wastes would be properly treated.

Billy Weston reported that the annual gas leak survey has been completed and reported leaks are each being checked out.

Taft Is Elected Chairman

E. Hoover Taft was named chairman of the Utilities Commission last night succeeding Ed Waldrop.

Waldrop is going off the commission following completion of two terms. His seat was taken by Dr. Ray Minges who was appointed to a five year term by the City Council this month.

E. HOVER TAFT

Taft, a local attorney, is serving his second term on the commission.

Waldrop expressed his appreciation to the commission members upon relinquishing the post. "I want to say how much I have enjoyed being a member of this fine organization," he said.

Taft was nominated for the chairmanship by Dr. Howard Gradis and he was elected unanimously.

He called for a resolution of appreciation for Waldrop's service and this was approved. The commissioners also elected W. L. Whedbee as vice chairman; Curtis Howell as secretary and Larry Brown as assistant secretary.

Taft is presently serving as chairman of the CBD Advisory Committee. He is president of the board of trustees of Louisburg College, the oldest junior college in the nation.

Eat Her 'Treat' And Say Nothing

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I have a very sweet, elderly aunt of whom I am very fond. She lives alone in the country. About four times a year she invites me to dinner, and I know she goes to a lot of trouble to prepare a nice meal. But she always gives me chicken.

The problem is, Abby, I have chicken at home every weekend as I find it is more economical than meat.

My aunt doesn't know that chicken is no special treat for me because she always says, when serving it, "This will be a nice change for you."

Should I tell her it is not a change for me? I don't want to hurt her feelings.

SICK OF CHICKEN

DEAR SICK: Perhaps your aunt always serves chicken for the same reason you have it every weekend. Don't say anything. Eat the chicken and let her think it's a treat. Four more chicken dinners a year won't hurt you.

DEAR ABBY: Perhaps if our culture didn't make so much of the female bustline, women wouldn't have such a horror of losing it. As an American cancer volunteer, I drive patients to and from hospitals for X-ray treatments.

One woman I used to drive had neglected her problem for five years and was a terminal patient when I took her for a few final treatments. Imagine, putting off having a lump in her breast examined for fear it was malignant and she'd have to have her breast removed! It was, and she did. But it was too late.

I, myself, fell a victim to cancer, and had to have both breasts removed. The day I came home from the hospital, I helped cook dinner; two days later was in the school car pool again, and progressed from there to the full routine and housework and social activity.

The loss is minimal. Sign me, "BETTER THIRTY INCHES IN THE CHEST THAN SIXTY INCHES IN THE GROUND."

H. G. M.: HAMILTON, OHIO

DEAR H. G. M.: I wonder how many women are aware of the simple "self-examination" instructions, which are available at every local American Cancer Society office? They're free for the asking.

DEAR ABBY: Reading about "HURTS" problem, whose husband belittled her only in public, struck a familiar note with me. My father used to do that to my mother. She took it for 25 years, not wanting to create a bigger scene. Finally, fed up, she started giving him some of his own medicine. That surprised everyone, especially Father: Now nothing shuts him up quicker than a sharp come-back from Mother. Goes to show that he really didn't want to get by with it, after all.

HURTS' husband is probably just as fine a man as my father, but because of an inferiority complex he feels the need to bully his wife in the presence of an audience.

Your advice was great, Abby. Tell the old bully off, and he'll eventually back down. And don't worry about the audience. They'll rejoice to see the abused one finally give the browbeater his due.

Cookbook Author Serves French Chocolate Cake To Her Friends

By CECILY BROWNSTONE, Associated Press Food Editor. If simple but elegant menus that a cook can comfortably serve guests come into style, credit Helen McCully for helping create the fashion.

In her latest book, "Cooking with Helen McCully Beside You," published by Random House, she has included dozens of short buy satisfying menus she herself has cooked and served to guests. Each menu has a set of recipes with it as well as a list of the equipment needed and a cooking schedule. Helen firmly believes that in presenting good food, to plan and organize is half the battle and she helps her readers do just that.

It's fun to see Helen at work. With the help of a pass-through between kitchen and dining room in her New York apartment, she puts dinner on the table with complete ease. "Do all your preparation before you start to cook," Helen says and follows her own advice.

Helen's friends find one of her desserts especially alluring. It's a French Chocolate Cake with Chocolate Glaze. Here's the recipe.

HELEN McCULLY'S FRENCH CHOCOLATE CAKE WITH CHOCOLATE GLAZE

1/2 cup (1 stick) butter, softened
1 cup almonds or filberts, skin on
3/4 cup chocolate pieces or 4 squares (1-ounce size) semi-sweet chocolate
2-3rd cup sugar
3 eggs
Grated rind of 1 large orange
1/4 cup very fine bread crumbs
Preheat the oven to 375 degrees (or moderate) for 15 minutes before baking the cake.
Butter the bottom and sides of an 8-inch round cake pan thoroughly, then line the bottom with waxed paper and butter it, too. Set aside.

Grind the almonds as fine as possible in an electric blender and set aside. Melt the chocolate in the top of a double boiler over hot, not boiling, water.

Work or cream the remaining butter with your hands, an electric beater, or in an electric mixer, until very soft and light. Very gradually add the sugar, beating constantly. When all the sugar is in, add the eggs, one at a time, beating hard after each addition. The batter at this point will look curdled, but don't be alarmed. Stir in the melted chocolate, ground nuts, rind and bread crumbs thoroughly with a rubber spatula.

Pour into the prepared pan and place in the preheated oven for 25 minutes. Allow the cake to cool on a rack for about 30 minutes then run the metal spatula around the edge. Turn out onto a cake rack. If cake doesn't drop out easily, give the pan a bang with your hand. Very gently ease off the waxed paper. Cool completely before glazing.

The center of the cake will not seem thoroughly cooked, hence its soft texture and exceptionally delicious flavor.

NOTE: Use firm day-old bread for bread crumbs (1 slice makes 1/4 cup). Break into pieces and grind, crust and all, in the electric blender, or crumble by hand until very fine.

GLAZE
2 squares (1-ounce size) unsweetened chocolate
2 squares (1-ounce size) semi-sweet chocolate, or 1/4 cup chocolate pieces

1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter, softened and cut up
2 teaspoons honey
Toasted slivered almonds or whole filberts

Combine the two chocolates, butter, and honey in the top of a double boiler and melt over hot water. Take off the heat and beat until cold but still "pourable"—in other words, until it begins to thicken.

Place the cake on the rack over a piece of waxed paper and pour the glaze over all. Tip the cake so the glaze runs evenly over the top and down the side. Smooth side, if necessary, with a metal spatula. Garland the rim of the cake with toasted slivered almonds or filberts, placing them fairly close together.

This cake freezes very successfully if wrapped and sealed securely.

GENEVA, Switzerland (WNS) — Irma Woolmer, who works as customer helper and tourist translator in a local department store, has returned to work after marrying and honeymooning with Gunther Will. Now she has asked permission to use her maiden name on the job.

Reason: too many embarrassing incidents after the identity plaque on her desk was changed from "I. Woolmer" to "I. Will."

Fires Plague Young Woman

LONDON (WNS) — Barbara Tennant, 19, woke at four in the morning to find the oil heater in her bedroom on fire. She called the fire department to put it out, then spent the rest of the night with her parents. With her bedroom burned out, she spent the next night with her fiancé's family. There her electric blanket caught fire, and so did her bed. "It was embarrassing," she said later. "The same firemen turned up, put out the blaze and then asked me where I'm going to sleep next."

In London: Fulham Road Is New Shopping Area

By JULIE FLINT
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — Chelsea's Kings Road, now in its second decade as the center of London's freakiest fashions, has never had it so good: business is booming and the bird's girls are better than ever.

But a new, quieter scene is making it in the hinterland, threatening to steal the limelight from Kings Road, just as Kings Road once stole it from Carnaby Street.

The latest area bitten by the boutique bug is Fulham Road, running parallel to Kings Road on the very edge of Chelsea, London's swinging quarter.

The infection spread from the northern end of Fulham a year or so ago, as Annacat and Malabazzar launched their colorful maxi-dresses and richly embroidered exotica.

Suddenly, elegant antique shops and beauty salons began to elbow between small-time grocers and general stores, giving the street a plush air.

Then Piero de Monzi stepped in with the cream of the continent's ready-to-wear, closely followed by Dean Rogers, Laura Ashley and Janet Ibbotson — all catering for the young sophisticate rather than the trendsetter.

Fulham Road, however, is expensive. Dean Rogers' plush python-skin pants fetch $320, while Janet Ibbotson's super-soft suedes and leathers seldom drop below $50.

Older and more cosmopolitan, Fulham Road shoppers have little in common with the granny girls and velvet, patterned men who flock to Kings Road to admire and be admired.

After dark, the Fulham Road crowd packs elegant international restaurants and trendy coffee shops — such as Le Francois and The Great American Disaster, whose hamburgers draw sidewalk crowds, the Pizza Parlor and the Ice Cream, London's first ice cream parlor. But the Fulham Road devotees never, never do their thing up and down the street.

Larry Bradley, owner of an ultra-chic Kings Road dress shop patronized by everyone from Princess Anne to Shirley MacLaine, knows why. Kings Road, he says, has two definite trumps: atmosphere and Ossie.

Ossie Clark, that is, who with partner, Alice Pollock opened the highly successful Quorum in 1969, after the initial sell-out of his whimsical crepe and chiffon creations.

Bradley, proud of being "a fish out of water" among all the patterned people, cheerfully admits Kings Road prices have risen as quality has fallen.

"But," he says confidently, "no matter where the young buy their clothes, they will always come here to show them off."

Noting that Continental designers only recently have lifted several ideas from Kings Road, Bradley hints that a number of French couturiers are itching to get a ready-to-wear foot on the street.

Most men agree Chelsea still is the only place where the young businessman or the dandy can dress elegantly without paying high prices.

And Carnaby Street, the old man of pop fashion? Strictly for out-of-town teeny-boppers and American tourists, say the Kings Road faithful.

Under the garbage and the crude neons, the gill has long worn off the edges of Carnaby Street. The only with-it boutique, Take Six, perches gingerly on the end of the street.

The cramped windows of one shop look remarkably like those of an army surplus store. An open-fronted souvenir shop sells everything from cheap jewelry to loud shirts.

As far as London's swingers are concerned, Carnaby Street has had it.

LONDON SHOPPING SCENES — Once Carnaby Street was the home of London's freakiest fashion show, then the birds (girls) switched their affections to Kings Road in Chelsea. Now, a new and quieter scene is attracting many of the shoppers. Fulham Road, running parallel to Kings Road has become the home of a host of colorful shops whose prices are more expensive than the other two areas. Shown here, are scenes from some of the stores there.

Local Fine Arts Festival Winners Present Program

The winners of the Local Fine Arts Festival of the Greenville Woman's Club presented the program Friday afternoon at the general meeting of the club.

Mrs. George Snyder, chairman of the Fine Arts Department, was in charge of the program. Participating on the program were soloist Susan Walker, a senior at Rose High, Marvin Blow, Rose senior, speaker, and Marcia Hodge, Aycock Junior High student, modeled a five-piece suit. Mrs. Eva Berry Harris, poetry winner, read several selections in closing.

Mrs. Milam Johnson, president, presided over the meeting and Miss Agnes Fullilove, chaplain, gave the devotional.

That Teacher Surplus Is Here

The predicted teacher surplus has apparently come to North Carolina.

Dr. J. P. Freeman, director of teacher education and certification, told the State Board of Education last week that the states colleges and universities graduated 6,768 new teachers in 1970; however the schools could hire only 4,335.

The report showed the major surplus of teachers was in the secondary school level, rather than in elementary schools. Early childhood programs have made room for more elementary teachers and more are expected to be needed in the expanding kindergarten system.

The surplus is also in the social studies, English and physical education fields, while a shortage still exists in the science and math areas.

After years of having a constant shortage of teachers predictions recently have been that the shortage was coming to an end throughout the nation, so it was expected that an oversupply would develop in North Carolina.

This new situation poses a real problem to our colleges and universities. They must now advise students who are contemplating entering the fields which are overcrowded of their prospects for future employment. Perhaps some of them will want to consider the math and science fields; others may want to change from secondary education to elementary education. It may be desirable for some students, who are not strongly motivated toward teaching, to consider some other field altogether.

College counselors have a real opportunity now to see that only the most outstanding student, with the highest motivation toward teaching, are steered into the fields which are becoming overcrowded. In this way, not only the education students, but our secondary school children can be made to benefit by the surplus which has developed in some areas of teaching.

See Trend To A 'New South'

By BRYAN HAISLIP
 RALEIGH — "The South shall rise again."

Nothing unusual about the slogan, but the source made it surprising. Mayor Howard Lee of Chapel Hill quoted it in the aftermath of the annual Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner to convey the optimism engendered among the 1,300 or so Tar Heel Democrats attending.

Lee laughed himself at the irony in his use of the Confederate shibboleth. He quickly added that he had in mind the "new South" in which blacks and whites share political partnership.

Such a theme sounded again and again in the address by Congressman Hale Boggs, Louisiana Democrat and House majority leader, to the fund-raising dinner last Saturday.

President Nixon's so-called Southern strategy is to set race against race, and create division, Boggs declared, Southern strategy for the

the party." Lee explained.

"72 Outlook Bright Broadened attendance representing all segments of the party for the Jefferson-Jackson dinner gave Chairman Simmons and Governor Bob Scott cause for confidence in looking to '72 and its campaigns.

As leaders, they surveyed a party in sound financial shape, with morale and interest high, and an ample supply of talent for candidates in next year's races.

A gross $60,000 or so was in prospect from the dinner. After expenses, that will leave the treasury in its best condition in several years, Simmons said.

Optimistic talk at last year's dinner was "whistling by the graveyard," Simmons said in retrospect, but the rosy outlook ahead is for real. "We've got the ball and we're going to win in '72. I can just feel it," he said.

Governor Scott urged party faithful to retain and build on the momentum gained. The gratifying attendance for this year's dinner, he predicted, will be increased next year.

"All the candidates will have their supporters here and everybody will try to gauge the applause as each one is presented," Scott said. "I know, I've been that route."

Campaign Role Handed Finch

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
 WASHINGTON — President Nixon, in a surprising move, has put long-time political intimate Robert Finch in charge of top-level planning for his 1972 reelection campaign.

White House counselor Finch has been detached from work on the 1971 Congressional program to develop various 1972 campaign blueprints referred to at the White House as "scenarios."

The intriguing fact about this is that few politicians high in Administration councils are aware Finch is so deeply involved in 1972 planning. The common assumption at the National Committee is that the campaign will be run by Attorney General John Mitchell, his authority coming directly from the President with National Committee Co-Chairman Tom Evans running the party's daily operations.

Mitchell says he has absolutely no desire to run the 1972 campaign but that, if ordered, he would of course comply. That would force him to quit as Attorney General, a job he has grown extremely fond of.

But Finch's new assignment raises a possibility that he, not Mitchell, might end up as 1972 campaign chief.

For now, Finch is concentrating on three major problems: the national convention site (still in the running are San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego, Houston, Dallas, Chicago, and Miami Beach), the possibility of radically shortening the five-day nominating convention, and convention format.

A footnote: Conservatives in the inner Nixon circle are uneasy about even the remote possibility of Finch becoming campaign manager. They regard him as much too liberal and claim he lacks Mitchell's hard-hitting clout with the President.

on the floor. It was bad enough, said Mills, that the leadership — Speaker Carl Albert of Oklahoma and Boggs — were backing the fight mounted by Rep. Wright Patman, the octogenarian populist from Texas, to retain the interest rate ceiling adopted in 1918. For Boggs actually to speak in Patman's behalf, Mills went on, would be intolerable.

That warning from Mills, who was instrumental in Boggs's election as Majority Leader, was decisive. Although Albert and Boggs joined most Democrats in voting against Mills on the interest ceiling question, neither took the floor. With overwhelming Republican backing, Mills beat Patman, 212 to 179.

Administration strategists now hope the fight drove a wedge between the Democratic leadership and Mills, powerful chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, and may bring him closer to Mr. Nixon.

Certainly, Mills might not have beaten back Patman without aggressive help from White House and Treasury operatives. Besides keeping Republican Congressmen in line, they energized business lobbyists to pick up enough Democratic lawmakers to give Mills his victory.

A footnote: John B. Connally, Secretary of the Treasury, vainly lobbied Albert and Boggs on the economic necessity of breaching the ceiling.

Poverty Hoodlums The unstated reason of the Carlucci, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO), cut off funds to the anti-poverty Community Action project in Providence, R.I., is heavy infiltration by criminal elements.

OEO inspectors found that the Federal Hill Neighborhood Corp., receiving $140,000 in Federal money annually, sheltered Mafia figures who used their respectable — anti-poverty associations as a cover.

At the center of this infiltration is Richard D. Callel (alias Antony Roselli), full-time salaried director of the youth drop-in center. Callel, along with Robert Fontane and Louis Martone (part-time youth workers), are leaders of what Providence police call "Abby's Tap Gang." All have police records, replete with violent crimes.

Mills vs. Boggs House Majority Leader Hale Boggs of Louisiana decided against delivering a House speech opposing President Nixon's breaching of the 4 1/2 percent ceiling on longer-term government bonds after a blunt admonition delivered privately on the House floor by Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas.

Hearing that Boggs was planning such a speech, Mills approached him at the Democratic leadership table

Democrats, he insisted, must be the involvement on equal terms of all the South's people—blacks, whites; women, men; young, old.

Movement in that direction was a striking aspect of the 1971 Jefferson-Jackson dinner.

Wider Participation Noted It was apparent in Lee's presence at the triple-decker head table, as one of the state vice chairmen. It showed, too, in the larger-than-ever number of blacks and young people among guests for the $50-per-plate dinner.

"There's no question about it. Interest in the black community has built up much more than in the past," said Lee.

Concrete political gains—his appointment, election victories for blacks—helped boost participation, Lee said. Another reason for strengthened faith in the party process was as simple as "Thank you."

After the '70 general election, Lee recalled, State Chairman Eugene Simmons acknowledged the contribution of black voters to the Democratic victories, and in a public statement expressed appreciation from the top.

"That went a long, long way to make blacks feel they are really playing a role in Too Soon To Know It was too early for anything of the sort this year. Efforts to discern trends for prospective gubernatorial candidates seemed premature. Some close-in observers reported mixed impressions in party ranks, with little evidence that lines have yet begun to form.

The three leading contenders — Lieutenant Governor H. P. (Pat) Taylor, Jr., Attorney General Robert Morgan, and State Senator Hargrove (Skipper) Bowles, Jr. — were highly visible during the weekend activities. All radiated an air of confidence and capability, and all gave warm greetings among the Democrats from every corner of the state.

Many found themselves in the perplexing position of Mr. and Mrs. Bill McFarland of Polk County.

"I have the highest regard for Pat Taylor. I was a classmate of Bob Morgan at Wake Forest. I became associated with Skipper Bowles when I managed the campaign in my county for Terry Sanford for governor," said McFarland.

"How in the world am I going to choose between them?"

"Any one of the three would make an excellent governor," his wife added.

Strength For Today

THE PILGRIMAGE
 One of the greatest writers among English-speaking people was John Bunyan whose book THE PILGRIM'S PROGRESS is regarded by many as one of the masterpieces of the language. "Whither must I fly?" cried the Pilgrim, and the answer given him by Evangelist was: "Do you see yonder wicket gate?" "No," said the Pilgrim. Then said Evangelist, "Do you see yonder shining light?" And the Pilgrim replied, "I think I do." Then said Evangelist, "Keep that light in your eye and go directly thereto; so shalt thou see the gate at which, when thou knockest, it shall be told thee what thou shalt do."

Life is a pilgrimage whether we want it to be so or not. We start at a certain point and it seems to be the intention of the Creator that we go in a certain direction and achieve a certain goal. We are fundamentally spiritual beings. The body that encases our soul will die and molder in the dust. It is the conviction of Christians and Jews alike, and people of other faiths also, that death does not end all. God looked upon his creation in the beginning and declared it good. It seems pretty bad and sour to many of us today, but that may be either that we know too much or too little to pass judgment on such an important matter. Honest, decent, self-respecting and aspiring people of all faiths (and a few of no faith at all) believe that life has eternal significance and that the best thing that can ever happen to any of us is to discover what that significance consists of and put it to work in the living of a better and a happier life.

WHO NEEDS ENEMIES?

Lots Of War Trophies

By ART BUCHWALD
 WASHINGTON — I don't mind the Pentagon lying to me on a large scale such as when they flatly stated a few months ago that they were not keeping any files on civilians.

But it's their little lies that get me down. For example, the other day it was revealed that a rusty piece of oil pipe Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird showed to newspapermen and implied had been captured during the Laos offensive turned out to be over a year old and had nothing to do with the recent Laos incursion.

Secretary Laird was trying to use the pipe to prove the South Vietnamese were making great headway and had managed to cut the North Vietnamese oil supplies in Laos.

When the truth was discovered, the Pentagon naturally protested; they never said it was this year's pipe.

Well, it doesn't take much imagination to realize what some future Pentagon briefings are going to be like. I can just see us all filing into the Pentagon briefing room where Mr. Laird, wearing his usual ebullient smile, welcomes us. Besides the usual maps, a display of weapons and supplies are on the stage.

Mr. Laird says, "Gentlemen, I am happy to report that the South Vietnamese have just captured a large cache of weapons in Laos." He holds up a rifle.

"Is that one of the rifles captured, Mr. Secretary?" a reporter asks.

"Mr. Laird smiles and says, "Pardon me, I didn't understand the question."

"I said, is that rifle one of the weapons captured in Laos?"

"Well, yes and no," Mr. Laird replies. "This rifle actually was found after Custer's last stand at Little Big Horn. But our intelligence indicates the weapons discovered look just like it."

Mr. Laird picked up a frozen chicken. "The ARVN found

Other Editors Say Much In Order

(The Raleigh Times)
 The penny option sales tax measure is a much more palatable document now that it has eliminated the provision that county boards of commissioners could have ignored a vote of the people on adding a penny to the levy.

Until the House showed this maturity — by a very narrow margin and on an amendment by a Republican — county boards of commissioners could have adopted the penny tax even if the voters of the county had rejected it in an election. This would have been a very cavalier way of handling the voters' business, to put the best possible light on it.

As the bill now stands, the commissioners can vote on the additional penny without a vote of the people, if they wish to do so. But, if they do call for an election, they must abide by the verdict of the people in that election.

This is just as it should be. If the commissioners decide to impose the tax without a vote of the people, they are showing enough courage to run whatever political risks are involved. On the other hand, if they wish to pass the buck to the people and call an election, they will have to abide by the verdict of the voters.

This optional sales tax bill is the one being rushed through the legislature to replace the law recently tossed out by the State Supreme Court on constitutional grounds. Twenty-five counties are in financial straits because of the Court's ruling, since their voters had adopted the penny tax, and their budgets were built around that revenue. In these 25 counties, it would seem perfectly in order for the commissioners to re-levy the tax, since their voters have approved it.

However, an election would be much in order in the 75 counties where the voters rejected the matter in November of 1969. In Wake County, for example, the penny tax was rejected by a margin of several thousand votes. The commissioners in such counties would be flying directly against the wishes of the people by levying the penny tax, even if the new law permits them to do so.

12,000 chickens just like this one on Route 9."

"Is that a Laotian chicken?"

"Would you please speak louder?"

"Is that a chicken from Laos?"

Mr. Laird confers with a general and then smiles and says, "No, this chicken comes from Belleau Woods. It was captured at the end of World War I. But we wanted to give you some idea of the success of the ARVN mission. Are there any questions?"

"What are those ration cans over there, sir?"

"Oh, yes, we captured five tons of those two days ago in Cambodia."

"But there is German printing on the labels."

Laird confers with the generals. Then he smiles and says, "I erred. These cans come from the Battle of the Bulge in World War II. But we wanted to give you some idea how sneaky the enemy really can be."

"Mr. Secretary, where did the sandbags come from?"

"These are the types of sandbags the North Viet-

 NEW YORK (AP) — Have you made your spring worrying plans yet?

The more veteran the worrier, the lest likely he is to become bobby trapped by pacynue trifles. He sifts, selects, discards.

Here, for example, are a few throwaway worries one might reject as not worth the wrinkling of a really export brow:

When the price of everything else goes up, why can't the value of a dollar go up, too?

Why do young fellows who seek to duck the draft want to wear boots and jackets that make them look like military men of an earlier era?

How would Elsi Dinsmore or

Is an attack of laryngitis a help or a hindrance to a rock 'n' roll singer?

Are there really 25 big league baseball players and 25 professional basketball players who are worth $100,000 or more a year apiece?

At the rate the automobile population is exploding, should we pave the countryside now or wait until later when it will be more expensive?

Why is it that anyone who cleans up city hall gets so dirty that he winds up needing a cleaning himself?

What will be the first words spoken—and in what language—by the first man to land on planet Mars? Shouldn't a far-sighted government hire a ghost writer right now to write his speech?

What will be done with all the oil for the lamps of China when the Chinese all get electric lights?

40 Years Ago Today

Two distilling plants, a distiller, 40 gallons of whiskey and 1,500 gallons of beer were captured by federal agents on Tranter's Creek, in the lower end of Pitt County, today.

"Citizenship" was the theme of the Rotary program last night and club members heard two speakers discuss the subject in a brilliant and lucid manner. The speakers were Jule Brown, attorney and Rev. W. A. Lillycrop, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

Greenville continued in the grip of cold as the icy breath of winter was whipped by a biting wind out of the north. B. T. Clark, local weather observer, today said the mercury reached the lowest point of the last two days, last night when it reached 32 degrees. The temperature this morning was given at 38 degrees.

Toy Makers Counting On Boom

By ELMER ROESSNER
 The 68th annual American Toy Fair in New York showed that the Toy Manufacturers of America believe that business will be booming again before Christmas.

Last year manufacturers guessed that the boom would continue all year and toys were more elaborate and expensive. But with the business slump, price cutting began unusually early and many manufacturers were hard hit.

The manufacturers have to do a lot of guessing. At the toy fair each year they offer hundreds of new toys, many of them hand-made. Those that get orders from retailers are put into production; those that don't are dropped.

But dealers orders are only indicators, representing about 10 per cent of their year's purchases. So, except for the old standbys, manufacturers' production schedule must be 90 per cent guess.

Current Trends
 And this year the manufacturers showed their optimism by offering many expensive toys. There were many inexpensive items, too. Orders, most said, were good. They always say that.

General Electric emerged this year as a strong contender in the toy field. It brought out a line of electronic toys that are bidding for a big piece of the market. Among them are a radio set that looks like an old locomotive, another that looks and feels like an alligator, large and small musical organs, several toy phonographs with Disney characters featured, and many new educational tapes for showing in mock television sets.

The Sesame Street influence was strong. While the producers are working on an expanded line of Sesame Street toys, other manufacturers are making many more toys that combine play and education.

There was also a marked trend toward safer toys. The Federal Trade Commission's crack-down on unsafe toys last year got the message over. Toys this year are not only safer but safety has been made a selling point.

Household Word
 There was a scattering of Spiro Agnew toys, including a Spiro Agnew jigsaw puzzle, an Agnew American history game, miniature Agnew

Abusive Soldier Killed By Robeson Bus Driver

EAGLE SPRINGS, N.C. (AP) — Authorities report the driver of a long-distance bus shot and killed a soldier who became abusive when he was refused a ride because he had been drinking and came toward the driver with a bayonet Tuesday night.

The soldier was in this Sandhills area of mid-North Carolina with others soldiers from Ft. Bragg getting ready for maneuvers which started today.

His body was taken to the fort by a helicopter which was in the area for the war games.

His identity was not learned immediately.

Hughes has been driving for Queen City Trailways for almost nine years. His bus was bound from Winston-Salem to Fayetteville.

Coroner A. B. Parker and Sheriff C. G. Wimberly gave this account:

The soldier, holding an opened can of beer, flagged down the bus at Eagle Springs, a community 15 miles northwest of Pinehurst, and asked to be taken to the next town.

Hughes told him it was against company rules to take on passengers who had been drinking, and the he would have to get off.

The soldier held a bayonet to the driver's face, cursed and threatened him, and refused to get off. But he finally did so after demanding his dollar back. The driver told him he had not paid any fare.

Before getting off the soldier said, "You have a family, don't you," a remark which the corner said the driver took as a threat.

The soldier left the bus and the driver went toward him, intending to detain him while authorities were summoned.

The soldier turned to face the driver, and Hughes shot him with a .22-caliber automatic pistol.

A military doctor, Capt. Alfred H. Woodward, said the bullet entered the left chest. The soldier's body lay about 20 feet from the bus.

The coroner said that one of the passengers, Mrs. Wanda Duncan of Rt. 9, Salisbury, corroborated the driver's account.

TIME CAPSULE
TOKYO (AP) — A 60-ton time capsule containing 2,900 objects of contemporary Japanese life has been buried in a 50-foot deep hole in Osaka, site of Expo '70. The capsule commemorating the world exposition is to be dug up and reopened in the year 2971.

Boar Rated 'Superior'

Joe Moye Jr. of Farmville recently attained a superior rating on his registered Duroc herd boar, according to an announcement by the United Duroc Swine Registry at Peoria, Ill.

The Registry reported that the title of Certified Meat Sire, on of three main ratings of the breed swine certification program, had been attached to the boar.

The certification program requires that rigid qualifications be met in order to gain recognition as a certified superior strain meat hog, the Registry reported.

A boar must sire five litters that qualify as certified litters. In order for a litter to qualify, two pigs must be slaughtered with each pig meeting the following standards: days to 220 pounds, 180 maximum; minimum length, 29.5 inches; maximum backfat, 1.50 inches and minimum loin eye of 4.50 inches.

The ten pigs slaughtered averaged 204 pounds in slaughter weight.

Gas Company Opens Rate Increase Plea

RALEIGH (AP) — The Public Service Gas Co. says it must raise its rates to customers because the company is having to pay higher rate for gas.

The company began testimony before the North Carolina Utilities Commission Tuesday in behalf of a series of rate hikes it has requested, including a 7.04 per cent increase for residential customers.

Public Service Gas serves 25 counties in the Piedmont and western parts of the state.

Company officials said that the increases were needed chiefly because the firm's main supplier, Transcontinental Pipeline Co., raised its rates one cent per hundred cubic feet last year, and about two cents more Jan. 1.

The president and chairman of the board of Public Service Gas, Branson Zeigler of Gastonia, told the commission that if increases in all rate categories are approved in full, the company will get about $4.6 million in additional revenue each year.

Zeigler said about $1.7 million of that would go to cover the Transcontinental Pipeline rate hikes. About $2.9 million would go to meet increased costs of money, labor, equipment and construction.

Another official said the increases for the firm's 74,000 residential customers would amount to about 97 cents per month, or about $11.61 a year.

For the 694 industrial customers the increase would be about 19 per cent, and for the 9,958 commercial customers it would be about 9.45 per cent, and the minimum bill would be raised from $1.50 to $2.

Only the city of Durham is challenging the rate hike request.

"Did you fly the sandbags all the way back to Washington?"

He confers with the general again.

"No, not exactly. These sandbags were captured at the Battle of Iwo Jima. We thought you might be interested to note how far behind the enemy was in sandbag design. Are there any questions?"

"Is that everything that was captured?"

Mr. Laird smiles. "Except for one small surprise." He presses a buzzer. The large doors of the briefing room open and a Chinese tank rumbles into the room.

"What do you think of that, gentlemen?"

"Where did you get it?"

"We captured it at Inchon during the Korean war. Let this be an answer to those who say Vietnamization isn't working."

The bus driver, John Howard Hughes, 32, of Saint Pauls in Robeson County, N.C., was not charged pending an inquest scheduled for tonight at Carthage, the Moore County seat. He was placed under $5,000 bond, and was taken to the county jail in Carthage, authorities said.

Waiting Period For Cancer Cure

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. surgeon general says there is "a waiting period of unknown and possibly anguishing duration" ahead for mankind before scientists can cure cancer.

Although encouraging leads were found during the past decade, adds Surgeon General Jesse L. Steinfeld, it is expected 3.5 million Americans will die from some form of cancer over the coming 10 years unless rapid progress is made against the disease.

Appearing Tuesday before a Senate subcommittee on health, Steinfeld endorsed a concentrated campaign against cancer but argued against a proposal to set up a National Cancer Authority independent of the current National Institutes of Health.

Steinfeld said it would be a serious scientific and managerial mistake to have a new agency do the job, as proposed by a panel of Senate consultants and backed by health subcommittee Chairman Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

Steinfeld, assistant Secretary of Health Roger O. Egeberg, NIH Director Robert Marston, and National Cancer Institute Director Carl G. Baker urged backing for President Nixon's program to enlarge cancer efforts within NIH through projected spending of more than $322 million next fiscal year.

Opposition to the independent-agency idea also came from Sen. Peter Dominick, R-Colo., who questioned "the assumption that cancer research is adaptable to the same programmatic approach which has been used to solve defined technological problems on a crash basis" such as putting men on the moon.

No Injuries In Two Traffic Accidents

Damages totaling some $485, but no injuries, resulted from two traffic mishaps investigated in the city Tuesday by Greenville police.

A wreck that occurred Monday afternoon near the intersection of Washington and First Streets but reported Tuesday left two cars damaged and charges preferred against one of the drivers involved.

Police said that the wreck involved cars driven by Kenneth Ray Evans of Box 215, Greenville and Daniel Curtis Martin of 508 E. Second Street.

Investigating officers reported that each vehicle received an estimated $150 in damages.

No injuries were reported following the 6:30 p.m. accident. Martin was charged by police with improper overtaking.

Vehicles driven by Walter Shelby Allen of Rt. 2, Griston and Cedric Willis Burroughs of 309 N. Sylvan Drive were involved in a 1:50 p.m. wreck that occurred yesterday at the intersection of Fifth and Tyson Streets.

According to investigating officers, damages were set at $120 to the Burroughs vehicle and $65 to the car driven by Allen. No injuries were reported and police preferred no charges following their investigation.

Grounded Tanker Is Pulled Free

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — A 707-foot tanker carrying 278,000 barrels of oil has been pulled free from a shoal eight miles east of Cape Henry.

The Greek tanker Hyperion ran aground Tuesday and was refloated some three hours later by the Coast Guard cutter Evergreen. Coast Guard officials said there was no damage and no evidence of oil spillage.

The Hyperion was en route to the Humble Oil and Refinery docks in Norfolk when the incident occurred.

Ex-Pakistani Head Stricken

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — Mohammed Ayub Khan, former president of Pakistan, has suffered his second heart attack in less than a year.

Doctors at Rawalpindi, where the 64-year-old field marshal was hospitalized Tuesday, said he was out of danger but needed a complete rest. He also had a heart attack last April.

Ayub Khan took over the government in October 1958 but was compelled to leave office in March 1969 by student demonstrations and economic unrest.

Elliott Quits Tourist Post

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (EP) — Elliott Roosevelt, son of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, has quit as executive director of the Miami Beach Tourist Development Authority, saying he was tired of "political controversy."

A recent auditors' report said he had failed to account for $2,300 in expense advances from the authority. Roosevelt, whose salary was $35,500 a year, paid the amount of the advances back.

Roosevelt, a former mayor of the city, was appointed to the tourist post last year.

City Will Be Cruise Port

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — In addition to being the home of one of the world's greatest battle fleets, this city may soon become a cruise port for seagoing vacationers.

A notice published Tuesday in the Federal Register said an agreement had been reached between Great Britain's Cunard Lines, Ltd., and the Norfolk Port and Industrial Authority for the use of pier space at Norfolk International Terminals.

The notice added that the agreement requires that Cunard place one of its passenger vessels on berth approximately four times a month beginning on or about May 1, 1972. This, in effect, would make Norfolk a cruise port, a lucrative maritime designation it has not enjoyed in modern times.

Richard D. O'Leary, assistant general manager of the Norfolk Port and Industrial Authority, said homeporting a cruise ship in Norfolk would be between $3 and $4 million annually in direct benefits to the port.

OPEN HOUSE
An open house P.T.A. meeting will be held Thursday night at 7:30 p.m. at Eastern Elementary School. All parents are urged to attend and to visit with teachers of their children. Refreshments are being planned.

Vestiges Of Segregation Continue In Our Schools

By TOM WELLS
Associated Press Writer

The South's public schools were to be fully desegregated by this school year under rulings of the Supreme Court and a promise by President Nixon.

But after months of legal battles the separation of black and white pupils still continues in some North Carolina school systems.

Administrators and school boards in many systems are trying hard to make integration work, but even in some of the most conscientiously administered systems, vestiges of segregation can be found.

An in-depth study of schools in the eastern section of the state tends to confirm what six religious and civil rights groups told the Nixon administration late last year. They said the South still had plenty of all-black public schools, some all-white ones, many all-white private schools, classroom segregation and all-black facilities.

While these conditions exist in the North Carolina area studied, it is obvious that in many cases they exist for reasons outside the control of school boards and administrators.

As in other sections of the country, housing patterns often result in children of one race being clustered around a school. Inside the schools, grouping of pupils according to scholastic ability, a practice used long before the advent of desegregation, often causes segregated classes. And, an exodus of white pupils to private schools has left many public schools all black or nearly all black.

In all of North Carolina, private schools are cropping up in increasing numbers. Thirty-two of them still have not met lenient state standards this year. Children attending the unapproved schools do so in violation of state attendance laws, but no parents have been punished or warned.

Many of the practices of segregation are not unknown to the U. S. Department of Justice and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Eastern North Carolina traditionally has been, like much of the South, race-proud, heavily black and endowed with legions of poor, Negro tenant farmers.

The northeast portion of the state is the most heavily black, with many counties having more Negroes than whites. Gently rolling hills are alive in the summer with crops of tobacco, peanuts and cotton.

One of the counties is Northampton, lying hard on the Virginia line in the north. The county is 70 per cent black and the school board is all-white.

A Northampton high school near Gumberry, a crossroads community consisting of a service station and a few houses, was formerly all-black but should have about 40 whites, according to a federal judge's desegregation order.

Gumberry High has 458 blacks and two whites. An all-white private school is a few miles away.

Just down the road in the same county is the town of Rich Square. An estimated 200 to 300 whites attend a private school in that district. The public high school has 625 pupils, and only 80 are black. But that is considered by the school's black principal to be a major achievement.

The superintendent of Northampton County schools, Roy F. Lowry, was asked if there were any all black schools. He replied "My lawyer says for you to get that information from someone else. If the folks in Washington read that they would come down and make us start busing and all the rest of the whites would go to private schools, too. I'd be in hot water by Monday morning if that got out."

In nearby Warren County, South Warren elementary school has 382 Negro pupils. Fewer than a dozen pupils there are white.

The formerly High School in Warrenton is bearing the brunt of a plan ordered drawn by a federal judge. Although the school is about 70 per cent black, classroom segregation has developed through scholastic grouping. There are predominantly white classes, although blacks outnumber whites more than three to one, and there are several all-black classes.

The elected school board in the 65-per-cent black county is all white, the high school's principal is white, and 21 of the 32 teachers are white. Few of the many farming class blacks are registered to vote.

In Rocky Mount, all of Englewood Elementary School's 568 pupils are white, and all of Baskerville Elementary's 610 pupils are black. Pope Elementary has 516 blacks and three whites. The racial make-up of all three reflects housing patterns and a school board preference for neighborhood schools.

Other schools in Rocky Mount are more fully desegregated, some up to 50-50. The city system has 3,600 white pupils and 3,400 black pupils.

Rocky Mount is one of many cities that represents another problem that has come with desegregation—the reduction of teaching jobs held by Negroes.

In 1967 there were 135 black teachers and administrators. Now there are only 115. The white teacher figure has remained about the same, with 212 in 1967 and 213 now.

The reduction in the total number of teachers results from private white school attendance cutting the number of whites in public schools. The number of pupils in the Rocky Mount public school system has dropped from 7,589 in 1965 to 7,043 this school year. There are three new private schools in the area.

The Internal Revenue Service has given all private white schools tax free status if they pledge not to discriminate in their admission policies.

But this has done nothing to desegregate the private white schools for two reasons. Most blacks can't afford the cost (up to $500 a year) and those that can afford it are reluctant to send their children there.

In some cases, Negroes feel that the all-white school boards have gone overboard to help the private white schools get started.

In Warren County the school board leases a 20-year-old brick school building to a private white school for $150 a month, a figure that some blacks say is less than the house payments of some of the white families who send their children there. The school has 325 white pupils.

In Pitt County, which is desegregating under a federal judge's order, three schools—H. B. Sugg at Farmville, South Ayden and North Fountain, still are all black.

Segregation at those schools is to end upon completion of construction of new schools in the county. Supt. Arthur F. Alford, asked if the new schools would be completed next school year, replied, "Let's just say they'll be ready when they're completed."

All-black classes within desegregated schools are common.

Some blacks and whites ask how this can all go unnoticed by the federal government. In some cases, the federal government is fully aware of what is and what isn't being done.

But civil rights attorneys in general agree that the Nixon administration has turned down the heat once applied to districts practicing segregation, either totally or in classrooms or faculty assignments.

Julius L. Chambers, a Negro NAACP attorney in Charlotte who through the Charlotte busing case now before the U.S. Supreme Court has become recognized as one of the South's leading civil rights attorneys, said there is little that complainants can do.

About two years ago the Justice Department announced that it would no longer initiate desegregation suits, and that individuals would have to start those actions. This has meant blacks themselves have had to put up the time and money, which they often can't afford, to fight segregation, Chambers said.

Other cases, he said, have been pointed out to the Justice Department without effect.

More Opportunities Outside Of School Drawing Black Teachers

By TOM WELLS
Associated Press Writer

Negro teachers in North Carolina often complain that all-white school boards are reducing the number of blacks teaching in desegregated public schools, but many black teachers leave the schools voluntarily.

One big reason is money. Many Negroes who graduate from North Carolina colleges and universities with teaching majors are getting out of the field or taking jobs in other states where the pay is higher.

At mostly black North Carolina A&T University in Greensboro, for example, most of last spring's 175 teaching graduates took jobs outside the state, according to Mrs. Dorothy Jones in the university's placement department.

This year New York recruiters are offering up to $8,400 a year for a teacher with no experience. The base salary for an inexperienced teacher in North Carolina is $6,050 for the nine-month year.

About 85 per cent of the A&T teacher graduates are from North Carolina. Mrs. Jones said creating a drain on the state's best-educated young black people.

Mrs. Jones said some students finishing the teaching curriculum are snapped up by government, industry, banks, insurance companies and other firms that can't find a sufficient supply of blacks in business schools.

It is generally agreed in North Carolina teaching circles that Negro college graduates, until a few years ago, were limited mostly to teaching with only a few going into medicine or law.

Now it is different; black graduates with teaching degrees are finding themselves in demand in other fields.

Companies relying heavily on government contracts, for instance, are recruiting more blacks because the federal government requires that a certain percentage of their employees be Negro. And banks and other businesses are trying to avoid charges of prejudice.

In one school system alone — Rocky Mount—one black teacher was hired recently by a bank, one by the C of Commerce and another by an anti-poverty agency, according to Schools Superintendent Ben F. Currin.

The chance of that happening 10 years ago wasn't very likely, he noted. Currin says the number of black teachers in his system is decreasing, but that white applicants are outnumbering black ones by almost 8-1.

Other school superintendents report the same situation. And Negro teaching colleges report that the number of teaching graduates has fallen in the last few years.

North Carolina A&T had 179

teacher graduates in 1968 and expects only 159 this year. Fayetteville State University has no exact figures on the number of past teaching graduates, but Placement Director Milton Yarboro says the figure is decreasing annually.

He also reports heavy recruitment of teachers by other states.

During one recruitment day this month there were 21 recruiters from out of state and only five from North Carolina school systems.

Opening lead: Jack of ♠. Because of his desire to obtain an early discard, South was compelled to uncover a piecemeal method for drawing trump in his six club contract. Also the sluff was somewhat late in coming, declarer's technique was essential to success.

Also the slam hinges on a successful finesse in the trump suit, we consider it to be a reasonable undertaking. North and South were confronted by duplication in the spade suit. If, for example,

North has the king of clubs instead of the king of spades, six clubs would be a virtual laydown.

Had West opened a spade—the unbid suit—there would be no story to tell for, with the club king offside, declarer must go down to defeat. However, West elected to lead the jack of diamonds from his sequence, and South had his opportunity.

The king of diamonds won the first trick and the ace of clubs was played. Inasmuch as the opposition had not taken their ace of spades, South was reluctant to bank everything on the club finesse. A diamond was led to the queen and declarer attempted to cash the ace next in order to dispose of his lone spade; however, East ruffed with the seven of clubs. South overruffed and crossed over to the heart ten in order to trump out West's remaining diamond.

A heart to the jack put North in again to play the seven of diamonds which was now established as the master card in that suit. South was finally able to dispose of his losing spade as West ruffed with the only outstanding trump—the king. Declarer claimed the balance with good hearts and clubs.

Music Bldg. Given Name

East Carolina University's new School of Music Building has been named the Fletcher Building, in honor of A. J. Fletcher, owner of Raleigh's WRAL-TV television station.

The 83 year old Fletcher was described by ECU Board of Trustee member W. W. Taylor as "a man who brought music to this state before music was a household word, and before we knew what a symphony was."

A native of Ashe County, Fletcher is founder of the National Opera Company. He graduated from Wake Forest Law School, later becoming a prominent attorney in North Carolina. He is well known as a businessman, philanthropist and a patron of arts and music.

In 1931 Fletcher established Montlawn Memorial Park in Raleigh. He also founded the Dixie Life Insurance Company, predecessor to Southern Life Insurance Company, and was founder of WRAL radio.

The one and a quarter million building bearing his name was completed in 1966.

A second meeting between the two schools to further pursue this possibility is planned for March 12. This meeting is scheduled in Greenville.

Youth Killed By Grenade Ayden Board Prepares Electric System Study

GARDEN CITY, Ga. (AP) — Police guarded a house here today as a demolition team from nearby Ft. Stewart moved in to remove more than a score of helicopter gunship grenades after several exploded Tuesday night, killing a 17-year-old youth.

Police said they have been informed that friends of the youth also have some of the dangerous weapons in their possession, and efforts are being made to round them up.

An explosion killed Robert Lamb, but it was not known what set the grenades off, or how many blew up.

Lamb's body was found in the middle of a carport adjacent to his house. The boy's parents were not at home at the time.

A four-block area was sealed off after the explosion, but some of the residents were permitted to return to their homes later in the night. However, the barricades were still up early today.

Al St. Lawrence, assistant police chief in Chatham County, said investigators were still trying to determine how Lamb acquired the grenades.

A spokesman at Ft. Stewart identified them as 40mm grenades used in helicopters in Vietnam. Hunter Air Field at Savannah is a part of the Ft. Stewart training complex and is used to train helicopter pilots.

"I understand that there are between 20 and 30 grenades at the Lamb boy's house," St. Lawrence said. "We don't know how he got them."

He said that it is a felony to possess such weapons.

The first explosion occurred about 8 p.m., and when police arrived they found a smoldering satchel containing about 15 grenades on the fender of a nearby automobile.

Automobiles parked in the neighborhood were damaged by shrapnel.

AYDEN — The Ayden Town Board of Commissioners Monday night agreed to retain Louis M. Dibble, consulting engineer of Washington, to conduct a study of the Ayden electrical distribution system.

L. E. Wooten and Co. was employed to make a preliminary study of the town's present sewer system. The study will determine the most feasible method of water treatment and whether or not the present system can be improved.

Board members accepted a position from Kenneth Branch requesting the annexation of a parcel of property located on the east side of College Street known as the Strawberry Subdivision. A

Now there's a new, small Pontiac with a small-car price for small-car lovers.

Wouldn't you know it would be fun to drive, stingy on gas, quick to service and built to last.

Of course you would. We wouldn't build a small car unless we figured it would give you more of what you want a small car for.

Take that low price. Ventura II is a small car, so it has a low, small-car price. But it's what you get for that small price that makes Ventura II worth a close look.

Ventura II is fun to drive. It should be, it's from the Wide-Track people. Which means you get a smooth, comfortable, Wide-Track ride.

The handling's quick. There's a nifty 111-inch wheelbase for easy parking. And both the 250-cu.-in. six and available 307-cu.-in. V-8 respond beautifully in city traffic or on the expressway.

Ventura II is stingy with your gas money. Both the standard six-cylinder engine and the V-8 you can order run beautifully on regular gas or the new low-lead and no-lead fuels. The carburetor on the six is an economical one-barrel, and the transmission for both six and V-8 is a practical 3-speed manual.

Ventura II is quick to service. If you're a do-it-yourselfer, you'll like fiddling around with the new Ventura II.

New twist-lock lamp sockets let you make changes in seconds.

The engine is uncomplicated, and there is plenty of engine-compartment space especially with the six.

If you ever need to have somebody else work on your car—well, you'll like Ventura II, too. Both the standard six and available V-8 are tough, time-tested designs. Same goes for transmissions. The standard 3-speed manual and the available 2-speed automatic. Turbo Hydra-matic or floor-mounted 3-speed are all rugged, dependable units.

Ventura II is built to last. There's nothing lightweight about this car. It's welded—not bolted—at hundreds of strategic points to help keep it tight and quiet.

The body is heavy-gauge steel. And it has double paneling in the deck lid, hood and doors. You could probably sum it up best with three little words. Body by Fisher.

So, come on. If you're a small-car lover, stop by your Pontiac dealer's today. Tell him you want to see the new Ventura II. It's the small car that gives you more of what you want a small car for.

Don't forget to buckle up for safety.

Three Nationally Ranked Cage Teams Add Zest To Tourney

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP) — Three nationally ranked basketball teams are in the Atlantic Coast Conference championship tournament which begins Thursday in the Greensboro Coliseum.

They are South Carolina, No. 6, which has a 20-4 over-all record this season; North Carolina, No. 13 and 20-5, and Duke, No. 19 and 18-7.

They also dominate the tournament seedings. North Carolina's Tar Heels, who won the regular season title on an 11-3 league record, are top seeded to win the tournament and move on to the NCAA eliminations. The Tar Heels open the tournament Thursday afternoon by playing Clemson, the No. 8 team on a 3-11 league record.

The first-round pairings are No. 1 vs. No. 8, No. 2 vs. No. 7 and so on. North Carolina State and Maryland tied for sixth but the State Wolfpack got that seeding because it beat the Maryland Terrapins twice this season.

In the second game Thursday afternoon, second-seeded South Carolina, 10-4 in the conference, plays Maryland, 5-9.

In the first game of the Thursday night doubleheader Duke, No. 3, plays N. C. State. The Duke Blue Devils are primed for the tournament, having won eight in a row and 15 of their last 18 games.

They finished their regular season with a 92-83 victory over North Carolina to complete a 9-5 league record. Coach Bucky Waters proved a prophet when he said, "We should make the top 20. Our kids are playing great."

Duke's Dick DeVenio, whose passing and ballhandling helped overcome the Tar Heel's pressing defense, was named the ACC Player of the Week for his work in the game. He had 11 assists, nine in the first half. Complementing the ball-control of DeVenio, smallest member of the team at 5 feet, 10 inches, is the scoring and rebounding of Randy Denton, another senior, who is 6 feet, 10 inches. Denton is averaging more than 20 points and 12 rebounds.

In Thursday night's second game, No. 4 Wake Forest, 7-7 in the league, meets Virginia, No. 5 at 6-8.

No team seeded lower than fourth has ever won the ACC tournament.

Maryland Coach Lefty Driesell says that if his team makes it to the finals of the tournament it might get a bid to the National Invitational Tournament.

He noted that his team has beaten South Carolina and Duke this season and, "if we play up to our maximum capability we can beat them again."

However, Maryland has lost eight of its last 11 games and is only 5-9 in the conference. Its all-game mark is 14-11.

In the opening semifinals game Friday night the North Carolina-Clemson winner will play the Wake Forest-Virginia winner.

The second semifinals game will match the South Carolina-Maryland winner against the Duke-N. C. State winner.

The championship game will be Saturday night.

LSU-New Orleans At Top Of The Cage Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — LSU-New Orleans, in only its second season of basketball, finished at the top of the heap today in The Associated Press' final College Division Poll.

The high-powered Privateers, who rode their 95.3 per game scoring average to a 24-1 record, saw their lead dwindle rapidly in the closing weeks of balloting but still managed to nose out hard-charging Kentucky State.

LSU-New Orleans picked up four of the well-spread 17 first-place votes by the nationwide panel of sports writers and sports broadcasters and amassed 273 points, just 13 more than the runner-up Thororeds. Kentucky State, the defending NAIA champion, finished the season at 22-2 to garner 4½ first-place bids—one voter split first place between the Thororeds and No. 3 Tennessee State—for 260 points.

The Tigers, 24-2, wound up with 2½ first-place nods for 246 points to climb out of last week's third-place tie with Fairmont, W. Va., State, 29-1. The Falcons picked up a pair of first-place votes and 218 points.

Assumption retained the No. 5 post with its 23-1 record, three first-place votes and 204 points.

The remaining vote for the top berth was snared by 11th-place Stephen F. Austin, the first-place finisher a year ago.

Rounding out the top 10 were Southwestern Louisiana, jumping over Ashland into sixth, Eau Claire, which grabbed sole possession of eighth place by dropping Louisiana Tech into ninth, and Puget Sound, up one notch into 10th.

Following the Lumberjacks in the second 10 were Moorhead State, Kentucky Wesleyan, Oral Roberts, Howard Payne, Northeast Louisiana, Alabama State, Wooster, Norfolk State and, in a tie for 20th, Indiana, Pa., State and Roanoke.

Alabama State, Wooster and Norfolk State made it into the top 20 in the final balloting. Tumbling out of the select circle were Sam Houston State and Central Washington.

Final standings in The Associated Press Top Twenty College Division basketball poll, with first-place votes in parentheses, second records through games of Saturday, March 6, and total points on a basis of 20 for first place and 18-16-14-12-10-9-8 etc. through 15 places:

Future Contender Says Frazier-Clay Display 'Pitiful'

By MIKE RECHT — Associated Press Sports Writer — "Pitiful" was the way the Joe Frazier-Muhammad Ali Fight was described by the man many experts think soon will be fighting for the world heavyweight title. "It sure wasn't the fight of any century," said George Foreman, the former Olympic champion who could be next in line for a title shot if there is no rematch between Frazier and Ali.

"The skill displayed was as little as any I've ever seen in a fight."

By the 22-year-old Olympic hero circled the ring in 1968 in Tokyo City carrying a small American flag after winning his gold medal was particularly critical of the antics of the two fighters. "It was sort of pitiful to see world champions clowning in the ring. They had people all over the world praying for them and they're out there clowning."

Foreman also was irritated by the highly publicized social significance. Ali claiming he represented most of the black people while Frazier stood for the white establishment.

"It was promoted more as an entertainment than a boxing show," Foreman said. "I have no ambition to become a politician. I just fight to earn a living, to win. There's none of that fighting for the Black man or the White man. I just want to represent myself properly in my profession."

Big Point In Final Second

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Fairmont State of West Virginia, the No. 2 seed, had would-be goat Ed Lemon to thank for putting it into today's second round of the NAIA basketball tournament.

Lemon dumped in a layup with one second remaining Tuesday night to give Fairmont a 79-78 victory over Texas Southern.

Two other seeded teams weren't so fortunate and fell by the wayside. Northern State of South Dakota whipped 13th-seeded Illinois Wesleyan 88-76, and Great Falls of Montana surprised 15th-seeded Augusta, Ga., 75-71.

Otherwise, the seeded teams advanced without much difficulty. Sixteenth-seeded Central Washington State downed Doane, Neb., 98-73; ninth-seeded Grambling of Louisiana defeated Mansfield State of Pennsylvania 88-78; Eastern Michigan, seeded sixth, routed Ohio Dominican 119-81.

Seventh-seeded North Carolina A&T eliminated Drury of Missouri 70-53, and 10th-seeded Jackson, State, Miss. tripped Northwestern of Iowa 96-91.

The Big Bite

NEW YORK (AP) — It takes a Philadelphia lawyer to compute the tax man's take of the $5 million purse that Joe Frazier and Muhammad Ali collected for The Fight.

But a New York tax law expert, ticking off a lot of "ifs," roughly figured that Joe Frazier and Muhammad Ali netted slightly more than 25 per cent—or $1.29 million—of their combined checks. Each got $2.5 million.

And while Ali lost the heavyweight title fight, he wound up with a smaller tax bit.

Ali will keep $736,476, close to the $800,000 figure he estimated earlier. Uncle Sam, New York State and New York City share the rest.

Frazier's corporate structure complicates the computation of his cut, which was figured at about $556,151.

Farmville Girls In Semi-Finals

DEEP RUN — Farmville's girls dumped Union High School, 32-19, here Tuesday night to advance to the semi-finals of the District 2 basketball tournament.

The Lady Red Devils used a 16-point third period to overcome a first half tie.

In a low-scoring first quarter, Farmville inched out to a 4-1 lead. But Union bounced back to outscore the favored Farmville lassies by 7-4 in the second period.

Then Farmville poured it on, mounting a 24-11 lead by the end of the third quarter. Jean Johnson fired in 11 to lead the winners, who earned the right to meet South Lenoir in tonight's semi-final contest.

Game time for the Farmville-South Lenoir game is 7 p. m. The winner of that one will advance to Thursday's finals.

Farmville claims an 11-6 season record.

Union — Byrd 7, Wells 2, Carter 2, Moore 3, Williamson 1, Moore 1, Jones 3, Kerr, Tarr, Ewell, C. Jones, Reynor, Butler, Herring.

Farmville — Allen 5, Johnson 11, Joyner, Anderson, Flake 6, Gorham, Davis, Ellis, Mewborn, Fields, Webb, O'Brien, Griffin, Monk, Anderson.

South Lenoir — Johnson 17, 38-19.

Farmville 44, 16-41.

Lady Rams Top Pantego Rivals

EDENTON — Robersonville waited until the second quarter to score any points.

And when they did, the Lady Rams went on to conquer Pantego, 41-33, in Tuesday's opening round of the District One girls' tourney.

After a brief layoff following regular season play, both teams found rough sledding. Pantego managed five points while shutting out Robersonville in that first period.

But Robersonville retaliated by piling up 16 in the second period to take a 16-13 halftime edge.

Pantego man tied the score in the third period. But the Lady Rams relied on another big spurt to eliminate Pantego from the tournament.

The semi-final games tonight feature North Pitt against Chocowinity at 7 p. m. and Robersonville-Manteo at 8:30.

Then the winners of those games meet in Thursday's finals.

Pantego — (Carol) Cutler 15, Sue Baynor 5, T. Peartree 3, Bunch 1, Johnson 9, Starrenberry, Carraven.

Robersonville — Kay Coburn 16, James 7, Thomas 9, B. James 3, Jenkins 1, Oakley, Goins 5, P. James.

Pantego 58, 10-33.

Robersonville 44, 16-13.

Another Career Urged

FRAZIER'S NEW CAREER? — Manager Yancey "Yank" Durham hopes that his protegee Joe Frazier will concentrate on music and making records and retiring from the ring following his defeat of Muhammad Ali in their

Monday night title fight. Frazier, above, sings during a recent New York City recording date. The song was appropriately titled "Knockout Drop". (AP Wirephoto)

White Sox Shuffled For Bounce-Back Drive

By DICK COUCH — Associated Press Sports Writer — SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — After tangling with an exploding mortar shell, courageous Carlos May should find nothing frightening about a first baseman's glove when the Chicago White Sox launch operation bounce-back next month.

May, who lost most of his right thumb in a military training mishap two years ago but bounced back to bat a solid .285 for the American League tailenders last season, is shifting from the outfield to first base as part of Manager Chuck Tanner's massive 1971 realignment.

May and slugger Bill Melton, who'll return to third base after a 1970 outfield stint, loom as the key men in a shuffle that could find newcomers at five other positions as the Sox seek to move up from last year's last place finish in the AL West.

Mike Andres and Luis Alvarado, acquired from Boston in the Luis Aparicio trade, are likely starters at second base and shortstop. Rick Reichardt, Jay Johnstone and Pat Kelly, obtained in deals with Washington, California and Kansas City, could crack the regular outfield.

A sixth trade acquisition, right-hander Tom Bradley, likely will land a spot in the pitching rotation alongside veterans Joel Horlen and Tommy John, and 21-year-old Bart Johnson.

The new talent is part of an all-out housecleaning endeavor that included the appointment of Roland Hemond, former California superscout, as director of player personnel and the replacement of general manager Ed Short by Stu Holcomb.

Another significant change brings Johnny Sain to the Sox as pitching coach. "He makes our pitching staff 20 per cent better just by being here," says Tanner. "He's the best, on one of the best, in the business."

Sain inherits a staff which managed just 56 victories and compiled a 4.54 earned run average, worst in the majors. Horlen was 6-16, John 12-17 and Johnson 4-7.

Tanner, however, has the Sox thinking offensively at their training camp, with emphasis on aggressiveness at the plate and on the basepaths.

"After the first month of the season — might now know the pitching or batting averages," he says, "but I'll know who took us out of double plays, moved the runners along and took the extra base—all those things that don't show in the Sox scores."

Melton, who belted 36 home runs, a club record, and had 96 RBIs last season, and catchers Ed Herrmann, .283 with 19 homers, and Duane Josephson, .316, should continue to supply much of the punch, along with the 22-year-old May.

Other holdovers include outfielders Walt Williams and Lee Maye, first baseman-outfielder Tom McCraw and infielders Bobby Knoop and Rich Morales.

Knuckleballer Wilbur Wood, 9-13 with 21 saves in 77 relief appearances, is another standby—who might get additional work this year as a spot starter.

Won Crown With 44-40

Presbyterian eked by Immanuel Tuesday night to claim the Church League championship, 44-40.

After the winners had mounted a 25-20 first half lead, they had to scramble to protect it. Immanuel cut Presbyterian's lead by one, but couldn't overcome the halftime advantage.

Brazel Moore poured in 16 points to lead the victory. Frank Freulon added 10.

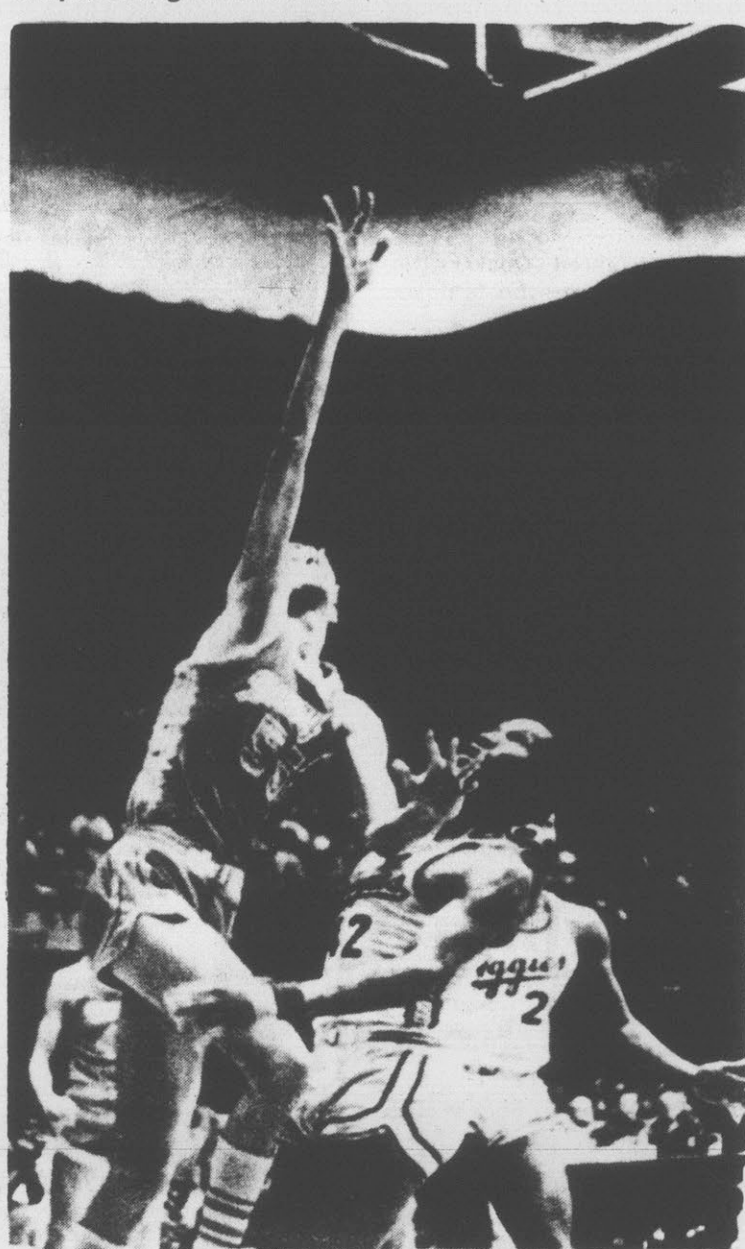

Make Roebuck led Immanuel with 12, while Dick Evans got 10.

Immanuel had advanced to the finals by beating Oakmont Thursday. Presbyterian had toppled Blackjack.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Sam McDowell, Cleveland Indians' left-hander, was arrested early Sunday on a charge of driving while intoxicated, police said. McDowell was released on $165 bond.

Associated Press Sports Writer
Ah, the flowers that bloom in the spring. Willie Mays ... Frank Robinson ... Harmon Killebrew ... Al Kaline.

The four creaky old codgers took some of the exhibition baseball play away from the phenoms Tuesday and probably sent a hopeful rookie or two packing for the next bus to the bushes.

Mays, less than two months away from the age where life begins, belted a single, double and triple and drove in four runs to lead the San Francisco Giants to a 7-3 victory over San Diego.

Robinson, 35 years young, walloped his first spring homer, a two-run shot, as the Baltimore Orioles edged Montreal 5-4.

Killebrew, who'll be 35 before the All-Star break, cracked his second homer of the exhibition season in Minnesota's 6-1 triumph over Kansas City and Jim Perry, a mere youth of 34, hurled three scoreless innings.

Kaline, 36, hit a bases-loaded sacrifice fly in the bottom of the ninth inning that gave the Detroit Tigers an 8-7 win over winless Cincinnati, despite two solo homers by the Reds' Lee May.

The old folks didn't have a lock on the heroics, though. Tim Lincecum, bidding to become a first-ever fixture in the New York Mets' decade-long permanent floating third base game, drove in two runs with a pair of singles in a 3-0 verdict over Pittsburgh. Gary Gentry, Danny Frisella, Ron Taylor and Rich Folkers held the Pirates to two hits, both off Frisella.

Oakland's Dwain Anderson, top candidate for the vacant second base job, hammered a home run and two doubles as the A's outslugged the Chicago Cubs 11-5.

Joe Hague, who came of age last year with St. Louis, continued his hot spring hitting with a single and two doubles in the Cards' 9-5 victory over the Boston Red Sox, whose loose play made one wonder about Carl Yastrzemski's prediction that they could have a super defense.

Los Angeles' Bill Singer returned to action for the first time since suffering a broken finger last August and pitched three innings of one-hit ball in a 5-4 win over the New York Yankees. The Yanks' 'B' team downed Washington 6-3.

The Chicago White Sox scored four runs in the first inning and went on to beat Philadelphia 7-2 while the Houston Astros rallied for five in the ninth and nipped Atlanta 7-6.

A three-run homer by Ted Savage lifted the Milwaukee Brewers over Cleveland 6-5 and the California Angels pushed across two runs in the ninth to edge Japan's Lotte Orions 2-1.

Off the field, the Oakland A's learned they probably will have to do without pitcher Blue Moon Odom for several months. The right-hander is recovering from arm surgery and has been told to throw at less than half speed until April 15 and only 50 per cent for several weeks after that.

Another Oakland pitcher, Chuck Dobson, said his comments were "ballooned completely out of proportion" recently when he was quoted as saying he had taken pep pills, or "greenies."

Dobson said he wanted to make it clear he was against the use of drugs and said he took the pills before pitching last season when he was weakened by the flu.

Shortstop Don Kessinger will miss the Cubs' next five exhibitions with a slight bone chip on the middle finger of his right hand and right-hander Mel Stottlemyre of the Yankees has been told to take it easy for a week with his annual shoulder miseries.

Baseball's Big Bats
STARS OF TODAY — The big bats of modern baseball are Carl Yastrzemski, Boston Red Sox, and Johnny Bench of the Cincinnati Reds. Yastrzemski hit 40 home runs last year. Bench slammed 45 homers. Here they meet before an exhibition game. (AP Wirephoto)

Claims Penn 'Best Team'

By D. BYRON YAKE
Associated Press Sports Writer
PITTSBURGH (AP) — Duquesne Coach Red Manning says undefeated Penn is "the best team I've seen this year." That includes top ranked UCLA.

"Well," said Manning, backing off a bit, "I think Penn has better guard than UCLA. I guess it would be difficult to rank them 1-2."

The Dukes, face the Ivy League champions Saturday night at Morgantown, W.Va., in the first round of the Eastern Regionals of the NCAA tournament.

The undefeated Quakers do have a big team—the first six players average 6-foot-5—but Manning expects Penn Coach Dick Harter to go with as much speed as possible against the mammoth Dukes who average 6-foot-7.

However, guard Steve Bisky, the Quakers' third-leading scorer, was injured against Columbia and it is not certain if he will be ready Saturday night.

Manning seems to fear the small fast-breaking team more than a big deliberate team such as Penn. But he says aggressiveness around the basket will probably decide the winner of the Penn-Duquesne game.

"When his barbarous pile is raised between six and seven feet, they slit the remainder of their logs to the thickness of two or three inches, and by laying them over the whole in a sloping direction, form the roof."

Redistricting Game Played With Maps And Figures

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — They're playing an interesting game in the North Carolina General Assembly.

population figures. The name of the game is Political Power. The results of the play will decide representation in the next General Assembly for the next two years, possibly for a decade.

Offer Outboard Motor Course

Pitt Technical Institute has scheduled a 30-hour course in outboard motor maintenance and servicing.

The course, beginning Thursday night, will be taught on Tuesday and Thursday nights from 7 p.m. until 10 p.m. in Lab 124, new building.

The total cost of the course is $3.

The game is being played at meetings of the subcommittees of the House Committee on Legislative Districts.

The subcommittee was urged at a recent meeting to do its work slowly and carefully.

"This is the last session of the General Assembly for many years to come that the East is going to have a lot to say about the way the state operates and the way she's taxed and how those taxes are spent," Rep.

James C. Green, D-Bladen, told the subcommittee.

"I consider this (redistricting) the most important thing I have to do in this General Assembly," Green added.

Green urged the subcommittee to do its job carefully because it could mean a loss to the East of two or three more

PTI Will Offer Tailoring Class

A course in tailoring will begin tonight at 7 o'clock at Pitt Technical Institute in room 24-26.

The course will be 33 hours and tuition will be $3.30. The class will meet each Wednesday night from 7 p.m. until 10 p.m.

legislative seats than it's going to lose anyway.

Green recalled that 52 eastern counties had 64 representatives before the U.S. Supreme Court handed down its "one man, one vote" edict. That has dropped to 53 "and that's going to drop to 50" if the committee does its job carefully.

The Bladen lawmaker pointed out that the legislative realignment figures out to 42,350 persons per representative. He said the East could lose two or three additional representatives if legislative districts are set up with populations that vary too much from that figure.

Asked if he would favor breaking county lines to avoid big population variations, Green said: "That gets real sticky. Rather than accept some of the districts I've seen proposed, I'd cross county lines. I think that would be fairer."

"I kind of see it as the beginning of the end," Green said of the possibility that counties will be divided to set up legislative districts with the smallest possible population variance.

Rep. Sam Johnson, D-Wake, told the subcommittee at a recent meeting he expects a breaking down of county lines will come during the current decade.

Johnson apparently was referring to a case now under appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court of an Indiana redistricting case. In that case, a federal court ruled that legislative districts must have an equal number of representatives.

If the Supreme Court upholds the lower court in the Indiana case, all legislative districts in North Carolina would have to have the same number of representatives.

This would require the breaking of a county into districts for a county such as Mecklenburg which will be entitled to eight representatives under the redistricting plan the western subcommittee is drafting.

Because of this possibility, the Senate Legislative Districts Committee is waiting for the Supreme Court decision before beginning the realigning of state Senate seats.

"I think you are definitely going to see an urban-oriented legislature from now on and certainly in the foreseeable future," Green added. "The in-

Hotel-Motel Course Planned

Pitt Technical Institute will begin a 66-hour course in Hotel-Motel Management at 7 p.m. tonight.

dications are that the 1980 census will reflect a sharper trend of migration from rural to urban areas."

"I think the poor economic prospects of the farmer today and the poor economic standing of agriculture-related business has resulted in the migration of many of our farm people to urban areas," he said.

"The vast majority of our high school graduates in the last 20 years have been leaving Eastern North Carolina because the tobacco economy is not strong enough to support them."

From three to four inches of clear lake ice is needed to safely support a person.

J.C. Penney's Code Poses A Query Today

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—Listening to James Cash Penney attribute his success to observance of the golden rule was, you thought, little more than listening to an old man romanticize about his past.

birthday, and he sat there 18 floors up in the Penney Building, headquarters for 1,700 stores bearing his name, just as comfortably as he might have sat upon a shipment of yardgoods in his first store in Kemmerer, Wyo., in 1902.

"I don't think it was the golden rule," he said. "I know it was the golden rule. I can't believe it was anything else." It sounded anachronistic.

Old men, you thought, don't merely tend to idealize; they do it almost invariably.

After numerous interviews, for example, you could easily become convinced that no self-made man ever was just poor; he was terribly poor, as he saw it. Good stores aren't made of the ascent from middle-class affluence to great wealth.

But one wonders about J.C. Penney, who died Feb. 12 in his 96th year. He certainly did rise up from almost nothing. And he certainly did apply the golden rule as he saw it.

But did his success come from observance of the golden rule, as he insisted, or were there many other reasons?

The question is pertinent today, as always, when hotshots in new enterprises produce fabulous, glamorous success stories for months or years. Ask yourself: Could J.C. Penney's "Original Body of Doctrine" win today?

Here it is:

"To serve the public, as nearly as we can, it is complete satisfaction.

"To offer the best possible dollar's worth of quality and value.

"To strive constantly for a high level of intelligent and helpful service.

"To charge a fair profit for what we offer—and not all the traffic will bear.

"To apply this test to everything we do: Does it square with what is just and right?"

This is the way to make money? Well, it does have its problems, as Penney related in describing the failure of his first venture, a butcher shop. The story comes from his book, "View From the Ninth Decade."

He had just taken over the business when his meatcutter offered some well meant advice. "You want to look after the chef at the hotel," the meatcutter said.

"Look after him?" asked Penney. "What do you mean? How? Why?"

"You're supposed to give him a bottle of bourbon once a week. He's mad that you haven't done it yet."

"Why should he expect whiskey from me?"

"For giving you the hotel's trade. He told me today if you don't start getting a bottle over to him, big! no more orders."

Penney bought the bottle and gave it to the chef rather than risk losing the hotel's trade. But then his conscience harassed him.

"Father would simply point out that what I was doing was compromising principle. I worried my decision backward and forward in my mind. I hated to lose business, and the hotel order was profitable."

Penney then corrected his error, telling the chef he would discontinue the bribe. And true to his word, the chef cut off the business and Penney's shop was forced to close.

One moral of course, is that Penney never would have started his multibillion-dollar chain if he hadn't been true to principle, and so in that sense goodness won out.

JCP carried it further. He believed always, he said, that when he adhered to precepts and attitudes taught him in his youth—when he stayed with the golden rule—"things went well; when I became neglectful, I got into trouble."

"Could it work today?" Penney was asked in the interview. "Absolutely," he said. "It is working today. Business now is conducted on a much higher ethical plane than when I started out."

Safety Glazing Rules In Eleven

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Eleven states across the nation have provided increased consumer safety by adopting safety glazing legislation or upgrading glazing sections of their building codes, according to PPG Industries, producer of architectural glass.

The new requirements stipulate that only safety glazing material, such as tempered glass, can be installed in storm and patio doors, tub and shower enclosures and fixed glazed panels that might be mistaken for doors.

HOLDING SALE

The Meadowbrook Pentecostal Ladies Auxiliary will have a chicken salad sale at the church on Saturday, March 13. The sale will begin at 2 p.m. and the price of the chicken salad is $1.00 per pound.

Will Publish In Two Languages

TORONTO (AP)—The magazine published by the Consumers' Assn. of Canada every two months will now be published in two editions, one English and one French.

In the past, the publication came out in one edition written in both languages. Jean M. Jones, national CAC president, said the decision to publish separate magazines is part of the association's expansion in French speaking communities in Canada.

Worry Clinic Emotions Can Be Turned On

Larry was a typical case of "old bachelor" jitters. The one girl who rated "Very Superior" on the "Sweetheart Tests" mentioned below, didn't make his pulse slow. Though she was pretty and curvaceous he felt toward her much as he would toward a sister. So he wondered if love could be developed.

Case P-592: Larry J., aged 26, has the typical "old bachelor" jitters.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I have dated a lot of girls.

"But most of them don't fulfill your prescription for a good wife.

"On your 'Test for Sweethearts,' I have always rated each one with great care.

"But only one of them thus far has attained a score of 'Very Superior.'

"Unfortunately, that one doesn't give me palpitations of the heart or zoom my blood pressure like some of the others.

"Oh, she is good looking, cultured, fond of children and a lot of fun on a date.

"But I regard her more like a sister than as a sweetheart, so I don't even feel like kissing her.

"Yet I know she'd make me the best wife and be the best mother for my children.

"So what should I do? Can love be developed by conscious effort?

"For I'd like to marry her but I lack that emotional element."

Director Is Suspended

RALEIGH (AP) — The director of driver education and accident records for the North Carolina Department of Motor Vehicles has been suspended from his job for being convicted of reckless driving.

Motor Vehicles Commissioner Joe Garrett said Tuesday that Waters was suspended after he was cited Feb. 23 following a traffic accident near Durham. Garrett said he had delayed a decision on Waters' reinstatement to study the court records.

Waters, 57, was arrested after his car left the state-owned road and crashed into a stone wall. He was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, and records show he blew a reading of .17 on a breathalyzer test.

Under state law a persons who gets a breathalyzer reading of .10 or higher is presumed to be under the influence.

Court records show Waters appeared before Judge E. Lawson Moore in Durham District Court March 2 and was allowed to plead guilty to a lesser charge of careless and reckless driving. He was fined $50 and court costs.

As director of driver education, Waters was in charge of instruction programs for school bus drivers, instructors who teach driver education in high schools and the driver improvement clinics for motorists convicted of traffic violations.

That's especially true if the kiss is prolonged for 10 seconds! For emotional currents, just like electrical currents, follow precise scientific laws.

So I urged Larry to force himself to act more romantic with that special girl who rated "Very Superior" on the "Sweetheart Tests."

"You may react to her like a sister at the start," I admitted, "but take her to an outdoor movie.

"Then park in a romantic setting and deliberately place your arm around her.

"Even though you feel foolish at the outset, kiss her and prolong that kiss. Then notice the strange current that will result!"

Perhaps I should let him tell the results in his own words, so watch for tomorrow's column.

Meanwhile, send for those "Tests for Sweethearts," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

NEA Survey Indicates Tight Era For Schools

By WILLIAM J. WAUGH

44 Streams Upgraded

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Board of Water and Air Resources has upgraded the classifications of 44 streams in the state, a move that will force many municipalities and industries to improve their sewage treatment facilities.

The new classifications were released Tuesday for 207 miles of waterways that formerly carried an "E" classification. That meant they were to be maintained at a purity level suitable only for waste disposal, and the dumping of raw pollutants into these waterways was legal.

The Department of the Interior called for the elimination of that classification more than two years ago.

The new classifications become effective April 1, but a spokesman for the board said that municipalities and industries would be given ample time to improve their treatment facilities to meet the new standards.

The highest designation available — A-2, suitable for drinking — was assigned to segments of the Rocky River and its tributaries in the Yadkin-Pee Dee River Basin, and to the French Broad River and its tributaries and segments of the Pigeon River.

Other river basins affected by the reclassifications include the Cape Fear, Catawba, Little Tennessee, Neuse, Pasquotank, Roanoke and Tar-Pamlico.

Four tons of oxygen per year are produced by one acre of growing forest.

Plant Strike In 10th Day

GREENSBORO (AP) — The strike at the F. Lorillard Inc. cigarette plant entered its 10th day today with prospects that federal mediators may soon seek to bring management and the Tobacco Workers International Union together for renewed talks.

D. Yates Hefner, of the Federal Mediation Conciliation Service office in Charlotte, said Tuesday, "We haven't set a date for a conference yet, but we plan to be in touch with the parties in the next few days."

Production workers went on strike March 1 after a breakdown in contract negotiations on Feb. 26. At issue is a company proposal for compulsory and binding arbitration.

Union officials have said that agreement on other provisions of a new contract would be unlikely until settlement of the arbitration matter.

The 2,500 striking workers became eligible this week for the union's strike benefits.

Peanut Support Level Announced

A minimum national average support level of $267 per ton for 1971-crop peanuts has been announced by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, according to Stacy J. Evans, county executive director for the Pitt County ASC Committee.

The figure represents 75 percent of the peanut parity price for February, 1971. The support level for 1970-crop peanuts was $255 per ton.

Today's announcement is in accordance with "forward pricing" provisions of governing legislation providing for such determination in advance of the planting season. The Agricultural Act of 1949 provides for peanut price support at between 75 and 90 percent of parity depending on the percentage which the total supply of peanuts is in relation to the normal supply at the beginning of the marketing year.

"This national average support price will not be decreased, but may be adjusted upward at the beginning of the marketing year Aug. 1, 1971, if at that time a combination of the parity price and the supply percentage results in a higher legal minimum support price," Evans explained.

A later announcement will list the support level of 1971-crop peanuts by type and area, as well as premiums and discounts for various types of kernels, foreign material, and other factors.

"Support will be available through loans and purchases," Evans said. "Loans to approved grower associations cooperating in making support available to farmers will mature on demand by the Commodity Credit Corporation."

"A producer must comply with his 1971-crop peanut acreage allotment to be eligible for price support," he added.

Sewage Killed A Million Fish

ROANOKE, Va. (AP)—As many as a million fish have been killed in Smith Mountain Lake during the last five years, says a staff member of the State Water Control Board, and most of the deaths were caused indirectly by treated sewage flowing into the lake.

Robert Jennings, director of technical services for the board, told members of the Roanoke Bar Association Tuesday that the sewage, though treated, contains high levels of nitrogen and phosphorous which increase the amount of algae in the lake.

Even if all the pollution in the lake ceased immediately, he said, it would take two years for the lake to "get squared away."

Racial Tensions At San Quentin

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)—Five inmate stabbings within 24 hours have brought the first general lockup at San Quentin State Prison in two years as authorities sought to check mounting racial tension.

None of the stabbings was fatal.

Warden Louis Nelson ordered the general lockup after the fifth stabbing Tuesday afternoon. He said it "appeared to us we had a racial situation growing."

The 3,250 convicts are confined to their cells except for marches to meals and trips to the hospital. Exercise periods, work details, school classes and vocational training have been canceled.

The lockup will continue, Nelson said, "until we can be assured the men can return to normal routines without fear for their safety."

The last general lockup at San Quentin, in spring 1969, also was caused by attacks of inmates on one another amid racial tensions.

Associate Warden James Park said the initial stabbing was "a personal thing" which "young hotheads took it upon themselves to expand."

Park said inmate leaders were unable to "cool the situation" involving blacks, whites and Mexican-Americans.

Wayne D. Early, 24, a black, was knifed in the shoulder three times as he was returning to his cell for nightly lockup Monday Park said a Mexican-American was held in that stabbing.

Two white inmates, Frank Tubach, 28, and Douglas R. Spencer, 26, received minor stab wounds Tuesday morning.

Most seriously hurt was the fourth victim, Arthur Golia, 27, who was knifed in the stomach and back shortly after noon Tuesday. His condition was reported satisfactory after surgery for a pierced kidney.

Golia is white.

Three black inmates were held, Park said, in the stabbing of Robert Sconyers, 34, white, less than two hours after Golia was attacked. Sconyers was wounded in the chest and arm. His condition was listed as good.

The racial makeup of the prison is 47 per cent Caucasian, 34 per cent Negro, 16 per cent Mexican-American and 3 per cent of other racial origins.

Free is an unusually low price.

That's what it costs to try your first pound of new six-stick Whipped Parkay.

Kraft will refund you the price of a pound of new six-stick Whipped Parkay just to prove that it's the pound that spreads like a pound and a half.

Because you get six sticks instead of four, each pound spreads half again as far.

And it spreads extra smooth because it's whipped extra light and fluffy.

New six-stick Whipped Parkay Margarine has the same good taste as Kraft's famous four-stick Parkay. The only difference is it's the pound that spreads like a pound and a half.

Try new six-stick Whipped Parkay. It's Kraft at its best.

It's the pound that spreads like a pound and a half.
