

Asks Repeal Of Prisoner Road Work

RALEIGH (AP) — Legislation was introduced in the House Monday night to repeal a law requiring that 2,440 North Carolina prisoners be assigned daily to work on roads.

Rep. Howard Twigg, D-Wake, sponsored the bill which coincides with a recommendation of the penal study committee of the North Carolina Bar Association.

Twigg said 800 prisoners who would otherwise be eligible for the work release program are assigned to road crews because the quota must be met. He said another 500 who would be eligible for school or training are in the same situation.

Twigg noted that if his bill is enacted, prisoners on work release would still be available for highway labor, but because they were being paid, their efficiency would double.

Under his bill, the law would not be repealed until July 1, 1973.

Meanwhile, the House passed and sent to the Senate a resolution calling for a study on the advisability and need for installing electronic voting equipment in the General Assembly.

The resolution, sponsored by Twigg, calls for a six-member legislative committee to make the study and report by May 1. The committee would include three named by House Speaker Phil Godwin and three by Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor, presiding officer of the Senate.

Twigg told the House that 10 to 30 minutes daily could be saved with the use of electronic voting. He said $80,000 already has been appropriated toward purchase of the equipment. The cost, he added, would be from $120,000-$200,000.

In other legislative developments:

Rep. Marvin Johnson, D-Johnston, introduced legislation which would allow North Carolina drivers to get violation points deducted from their records for successfully completing a driver improvement course.

Sen. Stewart Warren, D-Sampson, sent up a bill authorizing an election in Newton Grove on the question of establishing an alcoholic beverage control store there.

The House and Senate passed a resolution honoring the late Roger Kiser, former House member from Scotland County.

Soviet Sources Point To Shift

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government has taken a major policy decision on the Jewish emigration problem here and within the past 10 days has permitted about 150 Jews to leave for Israel, reliable Soviet sources reported today.

The sources emphasized that although an average of 15 Jews have left the Soviet Union daily since the decision, the authorities placed no limit on the number who would be allowed to leave.

If the current emigration pace is maintained, more than 5,000 Jews would be permitted to go to Israel by the end of this year. The sources, however, would not confirm this figure.

'Friendly Kidnappings' Part Of Hazards In Chilean Life

By WILLIAM LONG
Associated Press Writer

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — The kidnapers lured the U.S. priest into a taxicab. Someone threw a blanket over his head, and the cab sped away. "I sort of squirmed a bit," recalls the Rev. Thomas John Alkire, 33. "Then I felt something hard against my ribs, and I wasn't going to make an issue out of it."

Father Alkire, a Carmelite from Chicago, was taken to a small house on the sprawling outskirts of Santiago and held for three days.

The priest was released when church authorities promised not to transfer him from the suburban parish where he has worked for three years.

It was one of Chile's friendly kidnappings that are plotted and executed by people having little in common with guerrilla groups that have kidnaped diplomats and government officials in

The House passed legislation to allow farmers to transport corn and soybeans from farm to market in unlicensed trailers when drawn by properly licensed vehicles. The bill remained on the House calendar for enactment today.

The House passed and sent to the Senate a bill to increase the Medical Care Commission's advisory council from five to seven members.

The House also passed a bill under which 16 and 17 year old drivers with provisional licenses could get suspended driving privileges back in six months if they agreed in writing to certain probationary conditions. At present, young drivers face an automatic 12-month suspension if they are convicted of four moving violations within one year.

Reward Posted

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) — The Veterans of Foreign Wars has posted a $100,000 reward—more if the plan is right—for anyone who can rescue one American prisoner of war from Indochina.

H.R. Rainwater, national VFW commander, said Monday the VFW isn't going to be too fussy how it's done—bribery, commando raids, or just about any other means so long as the POW gets out alive.

"As far as I'm concerned anything goes, because they aren't playing by the rules of the Geneva Convention so why should we," Rainwater, 51, said in an interview.

Says 17 Victims

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A new letter from an unknown killer who calls himself Zodiac says he has run his score of murder victims since 1966 to 17.

The letter, received Monday by the Los Angeles Times, claimed responsibility for the unsolved stabbing death of a coed at Riverside City College 60 miles east of here five years ago.

"This is the Zodiac speaking," it said. "Like I have always said I am crack proof."

The letter was mailed Saturday at Pleasanton, near San Francisco. Previous letters were mailed from there to the San Francisco Chronicle.

San Francisco police, although skeptical of many of the killings claimed by the mystery man, believe he was linked to five slayings in the San Francisco Bay area since July 1968.

A handwriting expert said the letter received by the Times was written by the same person who wrote previous letters signed by Zodiac.

Scott Endorses Prison Improvements And Funds

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott says the North Carolina General Assembly should appropriate funds to provide single cells for prisoners as recommended by a study committee.

Scott said Monday the recommendation is in accord with capital improvement recommendations made to the General Assembly by the Advisory Budget Commission.

The governor told a news conference he endorses the report of a state bar association penal study committee which calls for improved prison facilities and higher pay for prison custodial personnel.

Scott said the recommendations should be carried out "as fully and as speedily as practical and feasible."

The committee said North Carolina is attempting to operate a "modern, 20th century correction system with 19th century buildings and facilities."

It called for a reduction and eventual elimination of the present highway quota system under which about 2,400 prisoners are worked on the roads.

Scott said he will urge that appropriate action be taken to reduce the number of inmates working on the roads. He added he will ask the state personnel department to make a study of pay scales of custodial personnel and make a recommendation.

Commission and Parole Board be combined into a new Department of Social Rehabilitation and Control.

The committee made 23 recommendations, one of which is that the present dormitory or bullpen cells be replaced by single cells or "other more appropriate facilities."

In some prison units, the committee said it found as many as 50 double decker bunks placed only inches apart.

Claim North Korea Trained Guerrillas

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Nine-teen Mexicans trained in guerrilla tactics in North Korea have been arrested and charged with plotting to overthrow the Mexican government, Atty. Gen. Julio Sanchez Vargas announced Monday night.

Sanchez Vargas said the group included three women. Calling themselves the Revolutionary Action Movement, their purpose was to create urban guerrilla groups in the capital and other Mexican cities, he added.

"They received military and political training at different times since 1968 in a military base near Pyongyang sponsored by the government of that country," Sanchez Vargas said.

He said they sought to establish a Marxist-Leninist regime and were trained in the use of all types of weapons, explosives, rural and urban guerrilla tactics. They also received political indoctrination, he said.

Sanchez Vargas said the group included electronics experts and students who had studied at Lumumba University in Moscow under a Mexican-Soviet cultural exchange program.

The 19 were arrested in Mexico City, Pachuca, Jalapa and Acapulco.

They were charged with murder, conspiracy, incitement to rebellion, theft with violence, illegal weapons and forgery of public documents.

Nation's Economy Again Shows Pace Sag

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — After hiding it for two straight months, the nation's economy has again displayed its sagging pace, setting back the Nixon administration's hopes of a quick recovery.

The Federal Reserve Board delivered the bad news to the administration Monday, reporting its key industrial production index fell four-tenths of 1 per cent in January.

The decline followed two consecutive monthly advances in factory output, when the economy rebounded from last fall's General Motors' strike.

But the snapback was not nearly as strong as the administration had hoped, and the February tumble in output showed Nixon has far to go in getting the economy moving again.

The drop disclosed continuing weakness in the economy, reluctance of big business to invest in more production and consumer hesitation to spend savings.

Nixon has pledged a good year for the economy in 1971 and has turned to deficit spending and easier money policies to make it go.

The slackness of the economy also partly explains the rapid decline in interest rates, with corporate demands for loans at a relatively low level with money plentiful.

Last fall, when the auto strike was in full swing, the adthe state allocations granted to operate the program.

Pitt County's current pro rata share of contribution to the program is $2,803.66. The letter from the county school board said the county can now no longer participate in the Greenville program as the county will have its own facilities.

Currently, the trainable program for mentally retarded operates three classes in Greenville. Dr. Cleetwood said the decision the board faces is one of two basic choices: continuing to operate three classes and to admit the pupils from the county who are now in the program; or cutting the number of classes to two. If county pupils are to be accepted in the future, this will involve some type of arrangement to pay or offset about $200 per year per child.

Following discussions, the board members asked for a decision to be made later, possibly at the special meeting next Monday.

Approval was made for the sale of the "Live Project" on Fairfax Street. The project, a house constructed by high school students in the trades and industry courses, is to be offered for sale at an auction to be announced and advertised.

Dr. Cleetwood said complete accounts of costs, including site and materials, have been maintained. These will hopefully, he noted, be repaid from the sale. Board members agreed that profits realized be earmarked for use of the vocational classes, with consideration to be given to re-investing profits in another "live project." Board member Harding Sugg suggested thought be given to keeping the project a cycle one if at all possible.

$10,000 Given For Foundation

Another $10,000 stock certificate for the Rachel Maxwell Moore Foundation has been received from Grover and Jeff Maxwell of Augusta, Georgia.

In announcing receipt of the certificate, which arrived yesterday, Marvin K. Blount, Sr., president of the foundation and finance chairman, noted this follows closely the $10,000 stock certificate received late last week and announced at the annual meeting of the East Carolina Art Society on Friday night.

The stock certificate, which Blount noted also carries several hundred dollars in dividends, is another increment in the challenge grant of $50,000 made by the brothers of the late Mrs. Rachel Maxwell Moore to increase the original foundation fund made by her.

Interest and proceeds from invested funds of the foundation are earmarked solely for the purpose of purchasing works of art for the Greenville Art Center.

Blount is the sole surviving member of the original Foundation Board of three permanent members, the late Dr. Karl Pace and the late Dr. Robert Lee Humber, have been replaced by Charles Howard and Dr. Alfred H. Yongue.

"We are truly grateful to the Maxwell brothers for the grant and for the fine cooperation they are showing in sending checks and stock certificates to quickly fulfill their grant agreement. Now it's up to us to move on with raising the matching funds," Blount commented.

GAO Softens Pentagon Data

WASHINGTON (AP) — The General Accounting office has substantially softened a report which criticized the Pentagon for encouraging inefficiency and high profits by defense contractors, the Washington Post reports.

The new version was written after the first draft was submitted to the Defense Department and five contractor trade associations for review. It contains data supplied by 154 weapons makers who were asked to report on their profits, the Post said Monday.

The revised document does not suppress the material from the first report but mutes its impact by suggesting no serious problem exists, the newspaper said.

Both versions deal with the performance of the defense in-

Dr. Cleetwood and Cox made a joint presentation of auxiliary services of the city school system, including food service, pupil transportation and maintenance.

In food services, it was reported that approximately 3,800 meals are served each day in the nine cafeterias. A total of 73 persons make up the work task force, with a total payroll of about $19,000 per month. Cox noted this is a big increase in costs, saying that with mandatory retirement pay provisions, an additional $2,000 per month was required for that factor alone. Student participation in the food services is about 65 percent, up three or four percent over last year.

Dr. Cleetwood said that with the approval of the Finance Committee, a separate request for food service funds would be presented for budget considerations. He observed that a separate budget item would give a clearer picture of food service needs.

Commenting that "pupil transportation is the most emotion packed area" of school operations, Dr. Cleetwood said he and the school staff had been very pleased with developments this year. A fleet of 22 buses, plus two buses for the kindergarten, now serve pupils of the city schools. The buses travel 14,650 miles each 20 day monthly period, making 50 trips per day, carrying an average of 1,141 elementary students and 1,420 secondary students.

On the matter of maintenance, the report showed that more facilities, with more landscape and grass to keep up, resulted in additional maintenance. Dr. Cleetwood said new buildings helped out some in keeping maintenance down, and noted maintenance costs had been cut as drastically for the current year.

The board's personnel committee is meeting Wednesday at 7:00 p.m. to consider teacher applications for the coming year. Preliminary screening of applicants has been made, with about 100 applicants remaining to be considered. At the time, there are 11 definite vacancies for the coming year. Several more may develop in the next month or two.

dustly as a whole rather than as individual companies.

The first report, compiled independently by GAO, by analyzing 146 contracts covering $4.6 billion, said average profits based on the manufacturers' equity in the contracts was 56 per cent.

The second version, which uses information supplied by contractors, cites a 21.1 per cent return on investment, the Post said.

The new report, according to the paper, says pretax profit "was significantly lower on defense work than on comparable commercial work" for 74 big firms. It contrasts a reported 4.3 per cent rate on weapons business with a 9.9 per cent rate on non-defense contracts from 1966 through 1969, the Post said.

Output of most home goods and consumer staples declined, along with commercial aircraft and industrial, commercial and defense equipment. Production of farm equipment and steel and construction materials gained, but output of other durable and nondurable materials was down.

The index stood at 164.8 per cent of the 1957-59 base year, 5.6 per cent below the July 1969 peak.

Withdrawal Plan Stirs Up Painful Issue In Israel

By MARCUS ELIASON
Associated Press Writer
JERUSALEM (AP) — Premier Golda Meir's statement that her government would agree to a conditional withdrawal from the West Bank of Jordan River has stirred up one of Israel's most painful issues.

Because of her interview with the Times of London, Mrs. Meir faces a no-confidence motion in parliament and the religious party in her coalition cabinet also is up in arms.

Throughout the country, those for and against withdrawal are readying their placards and oratory for the demonstrations that are sure to come. The mention of retreat from Occupied Jordan has aroused debate far louder than the question of pulling out of Egypt's Sinai Desert. The reasons are political and religious.

First, there are the strategic facts. The West Bank, captured in the 1967 war, puts a sizable distance between Israel's populous coastal strip and the Arab guerrillas in Jordan. Before the war parts of Tel Aviv were only 8 miles from the border.

Menahem Begin, leader of the conservative Gahal party, says withdrawal would lead to the "Saigonization" of Tel Aviv and because once again they would come into range of guerrilla rockets and infiltrators. But Begin is not concerned with military considerations alone.

"To withdraw would be to redefine the historic land of Israel," he told newsmen. "We think this very serious and will fight it with all our power."

Mrs. Meir told the British interviewer that she envisioned withdrawal from the West Bank territory but with the Israelis holding on to a belt of paramilitary settlements along the river to guard against hostile

Arab incursions.

The West Bank—the Biblical Judea and Samaria—has deep religious significance for Judaism. It is the site of Hebron, the burial place of Abraham, father of the Jews.

In the north is Nablus, where Jacob dreamed of angels. And there are many more places where a Jew is commanded to offer prayers to God.

Now populated by 600,000 Arabs, the West Bank lies in the land of Israel that Jewish tradition says God promised the Jews: the prewar state of Israel is only "Western Israel" to Menahem Begin.

One man who has yet to speak out is Defense Minister Moshe Dayan. But many recall a statement he made a few months ago.

Dayan said he took serious account of Israel's historic past, "but I must also consider our historic future. And if this is secured by concession on our past heritage, I would choose to secure our future ..."

Irish Premier Suggests Nationality Real Issue

By EDWARD CODY
Associated Press Writer
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Premier Jack Lynch of the Irish Republic says Northern Ireland's Catholics and Protestants are fighting more over nationality than religion.

Lynch, who ended his first visit to the American South Monday night with an airport news conference, said the Northern Catholics were struggling to gain civil and national rights denied them by the Protestant provincial government.

"They denied civil rights, civil freedom, to the minority," he said.

Lynch departed for Washington and talks today with President Nixon.

He also was to be the President's guest this evening for a White House St. Patrick's Eve celebration, and planned to participate in a parade Wednesday at Philadelphia.

Lynch received an honorary law degree Monday afternoon from Belmont Abbey, a small Roman Catholic college in nearby Belmont, N.C. Earlier, he had addressed the student body and faculty of Wofford College, a Methodist-related school in Spartanburg, S.C.

In speeches and answers to reporters' questions, the gray-haired 53-year-old leader said that reunification of Northern Ireland, a British province, with the Irish Republic was the only final solution to the strife plaguing the six Northern counties.

"We regard the division of Ireland as a historical mistake," he said. "The solution to the problems of my country can be found in reunification."

Lynch said the split between Eire's 26 counties and its Protestant-dominated neighbors to the north grew from English colonialism begun 350 years ago.

The problem and prejudices built up over the years, he said, will take a long time to solve and make impossible any prediction when reunification might be possible.

But Lynch said the fighting in Belfast and some other Northern cities, sometimes depicted as a religious war, did not result from a clash of faiths so much as from a struggle between national identities and economic factions.

Lynch, a balding ex-athlete, said he had been most impressed during his visit to the South by its beautiful homes and hospitality.

"And that's not just a cliché," he added.

The premier was the guest Sunday night of Edward Ward, a Wofford alumnus and former U.S. diplomat who became a friend of his while stationed at Dublin during Lynch's term as Irish minister of education.

Wednesday Concert Set

The Concert Band of the East Carolina University School of Music is to perform in the campus Recital Hall Wednesday, Mar. 17, at 8:15 p.m.

The Concert Band, newly organized in the recent revamping of the instrumental music program at ECU, is conducted by George Knight of the School of Music faculty.

This is the first performance by the Band.

Among the selections to be included in the program are: "Psalm for Band," by Persichetti; "Zueignung," by Richard Strauss; "Overture for Band," by Mendelssohn; and "Fairest of the Fair," by John Philip Sousa.

Works by Jadin, Kechlev, and Bennett will also be performed.

The concert is free and open to interested persons in the local and campus communities.

Former German Official Mugged

NEW YORK (AP) — Franz Josef Strauss, a former West German cabinet minister, has undergone a fairly common New York experience—being mugged.

He told police that two women grabbed him outside a downtown hotel Monday and relieved him of a wallet containing $180 in U.S. money and the equivalent of $55 in German currency.

Police later arrested two women, aged 23 and 27, described as having records as prostitutes.

Delay Plans Over Tunnel

ASHEVILLE (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott says Secretary of Transportation John Volpe has agreed to delay any move toward digging into Beaucatcher Mountain at Asheville to build a new highway.

The Department of Transportation favors twin tunnels to carry U. S. 70 and 74 through the mountain, but the state wants a less expensive open cut. Volpe told Scott Monday he would make up his mind after an ecological survey of the proposals.

The new highway was first proposed as a tunnel. Then in 1966 engineers said two tunnels would be almost impossible to build. In 1968 the state and the federal government agreed on an open cut as the best method of construction.

But two years later the federal government again turned to the tunnel plan because of environmental considerations. The state is anxious for the open cut method because of its cheaper cost and quicker completion.

Astronaut Pays Hometown Visit

ARTESIA, N.M. (AP) — Apollo astronaut Edgar D. Mitchell has paid a visit to the town where he graduated from high school in 1948.

Mitchell spoke to 4,000 persons in the high school stadium and another 4,000 in three assemblies in the high school auditorium Monday. He also cut a ribbon to open a highway the community has named in his honor.

Mills Too Busy To Be Candidate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur Mills says he is too busy being chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee to run for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination.

Commenting on newspaper reports that his name would be entered in the New Hampshire presidential primary, the Arkansas said Monday:

"I have no time to campaign for such a primary and I think it would be unfair to enter someone's name if he were not prepared to campaign."

Stereo Tape Player Is Choice Loot For Thieves

Stereo tape players have become favorite targets for thieves in the Greenville area during the past few months.

From September 1 through March 1, a total of 88 tape players were reported as being stolen from parked cars in Greenville. More than 200 individual tapes were reported taken during the same six-month period. During January alone, 27 players were removed from cars.

In view of the tape player thefts and the larceny of other items from cars — such as the favorite, the ladies hand bag — local police officials have outlined what they feel is good advice for preventing thefts.

Much of their advice will help prevent theft of cars and other trouble with law violators as well as preventing thefts from cars.

The cardinal rules are: never leave valuables where they are visible in your parked car — always take them with you or lock them in the trunk, and always lock the car's ignition and the car doors. Never leave your keys in the car.

Officers also suggest that when leaving your car parked — and locked — set the parking brakes, and if your car is broken into, do not touch anything. Call the police department immediately.

Of special importance to women, Police Officials said, is the rule: Never leave your purse lying on a counter while shopping. And always grasp it firmly while walking in crowds, they suggest.

Basic to the cause of many crimes is an individual's tendency to brag about the amount of money he has.

Instead, officials suggest, don't carry large amounts of money or other valuables and don't discuss financial matters or travel plans in public.

Dark, out-of-the-way places should be avoided at night and persons should avoid walking alone.

And according to police, always lock your car doors when driving alone.

Drop Dance Marathon

SALISBURY, N. C. (AP) — Plans for a campus dance marathon have been shot down in North Carolina.

Some Catawba College students planned a charity fundraising dance marathon this weekend, but school officials were reluctant to run afoul of a 1935 state law against the dancing and "similar endurance contests."

Harold Hughes, 20, of Gettysburg, Pa., a student, said no one has ever tested the law in court and he has no idea why the legislature passed it. He said not only does the law prohibit participation in marathons, but bars their promotion and limits participation to eight hours or less in any 48 hours. He is an official of a campus organization which wanted to sponsor the marathon.

The "students may have gotten the idea from the recent movie about the dance marathons of the 1930, 'They Shoot Horses, Don't They?'"

Anna Roosevelt Prepares To Leave Capital City

By DOROTHY MARKS
WASHINGTON (WNS) — For some folks here it's like the end of an era. The last member of the Franklin Delano Roosevelt family is leaving Washington. Anna Roosevelt Halsted, a trim, attractive, white-haired matron of 65, with more than a hint of father FDR in her speech, is busy packing up for a move to Hudson, N.Y., in the Berkshire foothills. Her husband, Dr. James Halsted, is retiring from his government job to set up a part-time practice there.

"I've been married several times and lived in several cities throughout this country but Washington is the only one I've ever really loved," says FDR's only daughter.

"The two Bouviers in my family will be going with us," she says. No, they are not relatives of the former Jackie Bouvier Kennedy but two handsome Belgian-bred dogs of the kind that used to haul carts over the Flemish countryside.

A Teepee For The Veepees?
The rumor mill is busy again about efforts to get an official residence for the Vice President some easier way than having Congress appropriate money to build one from scratch.

This particular rumor concerns the huge red brick Georgian mansion of the late Agnes Meyer, mother of Washington Post publisher Kay Graham.

Whether Mrs. Graham would consider giving it to Uncle Sam for tax reasons, whether Uncle Sam and-or the Spiro Agnews would go for the idea of this particular house which is in a high-crime area off once-fashionable 16th Street, N.W., or whether some Republican fat cat has volunteered to help underwrite purchase of a House for the Vee is not known.

During the Eisenhower years, publisher Walter Annenberg offered to contribute $250,000 seed money to get an official pad for Vice President Richard Nixon. Congress never got around to approving the idea and Nixon bought his own house in Wesley Heights. When the Democrats took the White House in 1960, Mr. Annenberg put his hand back in his pocket.

The Rabbi Is A Lady
Women's lib in the synagogue yet? The very first woman to be ordained a rabbi in this country is 24-year-old Sally Priesand of the Hebrew Union College, Cincinnati, Ohio. She was in town this week to pick up an award from B'nai B'rith and already she is rocking the boat. She will wear blue robes and not the traditional black ones when she is conducting services. "I'm the first woman so I can wear what I want to," she said happily.

Muriel Humphrey, wife of the former Senate Majority Leader and Vice President, seems relaxed and happy as the wife of the new junior senator from Minnesota, who ranks 91st in the seniority ladder.

"I like being the oldest of the new Senators' wives and the newest of the old," she told President Nixon when he appeared with Humphrey to dedicate the new Woodrow Wilson Scholars Center.

President Nixon and Humphrey were the only two men on the platform who managed to hang on to the genuine and fairly valuable "Vote Woodrow Wilson for Governor — 1910" buttons which Smithsonian Director Dillon Ripley lent to officials for the dedication. The others went back to the shoe box in which they were found at the Woodrow Wilson house here run by the National Trust for Historic Preservation.

Charlotte Reid
Mrs. Ann Armstrong, the new co-chairman of the Republican National Committee, says President Nixon is getting ready to name more women to high government jobs.

Does she know, I wonder, that the President has been quietly trying to interest able, good-looking Rep. Charlotte Reid of Aurora, Ill., in taking the next vacancy that comes up on the Federal Communications Commission?

Mrs. Reid was a vocalist and radio performer before she took over the Congressional seat won by her late husband in 1962. Of the 12 Congresswomen she is probably the most popular with her male colleagues.

In moving downtown, she would get a seven-year appointment but would also have to take a cut in salary from $42,500 to $38,000—not to mention losing the many fringe benefits a member of Congress enjoys.

Neighbors
Minority Leader Hugh Scott and Senator Howard Baker of Tennessee, the man who tried to unseat him as Minority Leader, pull together better as neighbors than they do on Capitol Hill. The two live a block apart in a fashionable Embassy area off Rock Creek Park. They moved swiftly to forestall the building of a large chancery building next to the Embassy of Panama on their street. A 1966 law forbids construction or renovation of chanceries in residential areas but the tiny African nation of Zambia is the latest of several Embassies to ignore the law. Zambia's neighbor, Senator William Fulbright, is still fuming.

What's cooking for a ladies' lunch? Nothing! This menu is a no-cook affair.

Start off by serving hot shrimp soup—heat the ready-prepared frozen variety and add a dollop of sherry.

Go on to Stuffed Pear Salad with Ham Rolls. The pears are the canned Bartlett variety and the stuffing is made with a date-walnut or raisin-carrot mixture. Buy the boiled or baked ham and roll it up.

With the soup and salad serve packaged melba toast. No spread needed. For dessert offer coffee or tea with bakery pellets fours or cookies.

STUFFED PEAR SALADS
WITH HAM ROLLS
1 can (1 pound, 13 ounces) Bartlett pear halves, chilled
Date-walnut or Sunshine Stuffing, see below
Honey Dressing, see below
8 to 10 large thin slices boiled or baked ham
Parsley sprigs
Drain pear halves; reserve ¼ cup of the pear syrup for use in Honey Dressing. (Use remaining syrup in a cold beverage or in a fruit compote.)
Arrange lettuce at one side of each salad or luncheon-size plate. Place 2 pear halves on lettuce on each plate.

Fill pear cavities with Date-walnut or Sunshine Stuffing. Drizzle with Honey Dressing or pass Dressing.

Roll up ham and place 2 rolls on each plate. Garnish ham with parsley sprigs.

Makes 4 to 5 servings.

DATE-WALNUT STUFFING
¼ cup slivered pitted dates
¼ cup finely diced celery
3 tablespoons chopped (medium fine) walnuts
2 to 3 teaspoons Honey Dressing, see below
In a small bowl mix together the dates, celery and walnuts; moisten with the Honey Dressing.

SUNSHINE STUFFING
¼ cup finely grated carrot
¼ cup raisins, rinsed in hot water and chopped
3 tablespoons chopped peanuts
1 tablespoon Honey Dressing, see below
In a small bowl mix together the carrot, raisins and peanuts; moisten with the Honey Dressing.

HONEY DRESSING
¼ cup pear syrup from canned Bartlett pear halves
¼ cup honey
¼ cup lemon juice
¼ cup salad (not olive) oil
¾ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
Into a small bowl turn the pear syrup, honey, lemon juice, salad oil, salt and mustard; beat until blended. Cover and chill; beat again just before using. Store any leftover dressing in the refrigerator. Makes about 1½ cups.

Aleut Grandmother Says Old Times Were Better

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — A tiny Aleut grandmother who remembers when the end of the sea otter hunt was a time for celebration says her people have more money today but the old times were better.

Anfesia Shapnikoff has lived most of her 70 years in the tiny Aleutian Island community of Unalaska, where she saw the sea otter replaced by oil pollution and handsewn mukluks give way to mail order boots.

The widow of a Russian Orthodox clergyman, Mrs. Shapnikoff speaks, reads and writes her native Aleut language, plus English and Russian.

She and Willis Tcheripanoof, 68, from the village of Akutan recently spent several weeks at the University of Alaska teaching students native songs and dances.

"Aleuts have just as much to tell and show as Eskimos," she said. "But people only know about Eskimos, never about Aleuts."

Before the Russians and Americans discovered the Aleutian Islands, rich in fish stocks and sea otter pelts, Aleuts were known as great fishermen and hunters. During World War II, American military installations were established on some Aleutian islands and some villages were destroyed in Japanese bombing raids.

"The Army moved into Unalaska and destroyed our fishing grounds," said Mrs. Shapnikoff. "We have no place any more ... The Army and Navy came and used the land, then the oil companies came in and they pumped their oil right out in the bay. We have to go a far way now to get fish."

Tcheripanoof now works on a fish processing boat owned by a Seattle firm.

"The white men are a help to us in some ways, but a lot of our land around Akutan is being taken," he said.

Today the men in Unalaska work for good salaries, said Mrs. Shapnikoff, but "it's not like in the old days when men had time to spend with their families."

"They had time to learn dancing and to play Aleut games. Everybody works now—no time to do old customs. Too busy making money so Aleut customs are fading away."

Operation Sunshine Program Given At Jay-C-Ette Meet

Mrs. Richard Ullom, director of Operation Sunshine, was the speaker at the Jay-C-Ette meeting Wednesday night. She was assisted by Mrs. Melvin Hoot, who served as the director of the summer session this past year.

Mrs. Ullom and Mrs. Hoot told of some of the worthwhile and rewarding experiences they have had while working with the program.

recognition of volunteer services given and in appreciation shown for the mentally ill through the support of programs of the association.

Guests attending the meeting were Mrs. J. B. Surles, Mrs. Martin Lassiter, Mrs. Terry Cochran, Mrs. Jack Respass, Mrs. William Grantmeyer and Mrs. Steve Springer.

Since the program began it has become a second home for many Greenville girls between the ages of six and 14 years of age. The building which is presently housing the organization is located on the corner of West Third and Pitt Streets. Any young girl in Greenville is welcome to join Operation Sunshine which is financed by different organizations and citizens of this city, they said.

The girls meet on the weekdays after school and on Saturday afternoons for instructions in sewing, cooking, knitting, personal hygiene, music, flower arranging, and tutoring during the winter session. Field trips, movies, story telling, and swimming are also included in the program. Originally planned as only a summer program, Operation Sunshine was so enthusiastically attended that plans were made to keep the center open year round, the continued.

Mrs. Gene Prescott, Jay-C-Ette president, conducted the business meeting.

Mrs. Wallace West was thanked for chairing the annual Valentine's Dance which was held in February.

Recognition was also given to Mrs. Charles Carter, chairman of the March of Dimes Coffee Day. The club voted to donate a check for $125 to this cause, thus making the total receipts from the Coffee Day $500.

Mrs. Allen Adams was also credited for her work done with the sale of tickets for the circus which the Jaycees are sponsoring.

Plans were made to help the Jaycees with the Miss Greenville beauty pageant to be held April 6. Mrs. Wes Messamer will assist with the programs, Mrs. Frank Layne will be chairman of the tea and Mrs. Joe DeLoach will be in charge of hosting for the contestants.

A Certificate of Commendation was presented to Jay-C-Ettes from the Pitt County Mental Health Association in

Five To Go Before Visit

PARIS (WNS) — Marguerite Richert, the former couturiere, celebrated her 105th birthday here by accepting the Silver Medal of the City of Paris at the apartment at 26 Rue Mathis that she has inhabited since 1898. She asked municipal officials to attend the ceremony at her home because "my daughter, only 79, has a bit of flu." During the champagne and chocolate cake she confided that she would like to visit America — "maybe on by 110th birthday."

Unusual Questions Answered
What is the world's longest recorded hair? Despite an average growth rate of one-half inch per month and only two to five years of expected life per hair, an Indian monk named Swami Pandasannadhi reported in 1949 a growth of hair to a full twenty-six feet in length!

How many hairs does an average woman have on her head? The answer is a startling 150,000. And furthermore, no two hairs are the same in intensity or color.

Another interesting fact is that natural blondes have more hairs per head than those of darker shades of hair.

Don't you think, now, that you should trust our professional high-stylists with your thousands of hairs? We'll treat each one with special, loving care.

Daughter Lies To Friends About Life

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.
DEAR ABBY: We moved to a larger city from a small town last summer. Our 16-year-old daughter doesn't make friends easily, so she has been rather lonely and blue.

Last week she wrote a letter to a girl friend in our home town. She went off to school and asked me to mail it for her. It was addressed, but not sealed. I don't know why, but I read it. Now I wish I hadn't. It was full of awful lies! She told her girl friend that she had a steady boy friend. Abby, she hasn't even had a date. She wrote about going to pot parties and trying L. S. D.—all lies. She is home every night watching TV with us.

I can't let her know I read that letter. She would hate me and never trust me again. Why would a nice girl want her friend back home to think she's tried drugs and is going wild?
SAD MOM

DEAR MOM: Because she's sad, too. She's lonely, bored, friendless and ashamed of her unexciting life. It's not as serious as you think. She's also immature. The "wild" forbidden drug scene seems glamorous to her, and while she's smart enough to stay straight, she'd like her friend to think she's "in" with the wild crowd.

DEAR ABBY: Just before Christmas I lost my mother who had suffered for years with a terminal illness. Shortly after mother died, my father passed away. These last few months have been unbearably depressing for me. But the most difficult thing I had to endure was the cruelty of relatives and friends who regaled me with personal questions concerning my "plans," the size of the estate my parents left, and inquiries such as, "Have you put the house on the market yet?" And, "I don't mean to be nosy, but that summer place is worth a lot of money, isn't it?"

Abby, I never would ask a bereaved person a question that might upset him. Why can't my relatives and friends extend the same consideration to me?
NEW CASTLE

DEAR NEW: Because they are neither as considerate nor as intelligent as you.

DEAR ABBY: I used to have a beard, too, but I don't have one anymore. I was wearing a beard when I met Joyce. We really dug each other. She didn't say she disliked my beard, but she kept telling me how great she thought I'd look without it. I didn't take the hint.

After Joyce lost her chewing gum in my beard a few times, I decided to shave it off. Sincerely yours, DON

CONFIDENTIAL TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: "Mice and moose, ducks and deer, hawks and hamsters mate largely by instinct. Man does not. While some instinctual and reflex behavior is connected with his mating, most of it is learned. Man is not born with the knowledge of how to mate. He must either be taught, or learn slowly thru trial and error. What is learnable is teachable. And that sums up the purpose of this book."

The above is the introduction to a fine, easy-to-understand book, titled "A Doctor Speaks Out on Sexual Expression in Marriage" by Dr. Donald W. Hastings. It is published by Little, Brown & Co. and I recommend it highly for couples who say, "The romance has gone out of our marriage."

Substitute Bill Is Realistic

From two bills offered in the legislature to assure open, public meetings of state and local governing bodies, a House Judiciary I subcommittee has come up with its own measure which merits favorable consideration by the General Assembly.

The subcommittee took portions of each of the measure initially introduced, added some of its own thinking and produced what is now titled "Committee Substitute for H.B. 51."

In substance the measure requires that meetings of public bodies be open to the public. Importantly, however, it makes provision for executive sessions of public bodies when considering certain personnel matters, sales and acquisition of property and other specific matters of business. This common sense approach to business-like handling of public business should be acceptable to the public as well as to those whose responsibility it is to make decision for local and state governments in North Carolina.

While the measure has not attracted public attention like some of the more controversial issues before the legislature, it deserves the support of members of the House and Senate as well as local officials and citizens throughout the state.

It proposes to put into legal language and into the laws of the state a realistic approach to guaranteeing public access to meetings of public bodies and at the same time providing reasonable safeguards that will not impair the business-like handling of governmental affairs by local and state government bodies.

Plans, Work Indicate Thriving Art Society

The East Carolina Art Society seems well on its way toward the $100,000 trust fund for purchase of art objects for the local art museum.

The Maxwell brothers of Augusta, Ga. have pledged $50,000 to the fund which was originally established from the estate of their sister, Mrs. J.H.B. Moore. It was stipulated that an amount must be raised locally to bring the total to $100,000 and a $1,000 contribution was made by North Carolina National Bank at the annual meeting last week.

The art society also has plans for building a new art building, according to President Marvin K. Blount, Sr. Funds for this would come from other sources than the $100,000 trust fund since this is designated for purchase of art works only.

There is a unique interest in art in Greenville and our art society is actively planning for the future.

Nixon Miffed Over Mayors

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK WASHINGTON

President Nixon's stubborn refusal to huddle with big city mayors reflects not only intense dislike for Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York but White House resentment that the mayors have not pulled their weight fighting for revenue-sharing.

Mr. Nixon has been miffed that the mayors failed to aggressively lobby Congress to pass revenue-sharing but did not attack his freeze of urban funds. Accordingly, the President has ignored five written requests from Mayor James Tate of Philadelphia, president of the U. S. Conference of Mayors, to meet with its 17-member legislative action committee.

Besides, there is innate White House suspicion that the committee is dominated by Democrats and that its chairman, Lindsay, might use the White House steps to attack the President. A potential Democratic candidate for President, Lindsay has replaced Charles Goodell as Republican enemy No. 1 at the White House.

Tate first wrote Mr. Nixon Dec. 29, asking that he confer Jan. 21 with the committee on how to convert reluctant Democratic Congressmen to Mr. Nixon's general revenue-sharing. Also scheduled for discussion was the mayors' objection to special revenue-sharing (consolidating separate categories of grants).

With major cities represented on the committee (14 of the 17 are Democrats), the mayors could be a major Presidential ally. Yet, Tate's Dec. 29 letter went unanswered until Jan. 11. Then Hugh Sloan, a young assistant to appointments

Secretary Dwight Chapin, replied that, because of work on the State of the Union, Jan. 21 was impossible and another date would be found.

Silence followed. On Jan. 21, Tate wrote again. No reply. On Feb. 11, Tate wrote a third time. Two weeks later, on Feb. 25, another young Chapin aide, David Parker, replied that they were "working out" a date.

Since then, Tate has written twice more. Finally, last Wednesday he telephoned White House aides—all to no avail.

Cities' Bombshell

Led by Republican Rep. William Scherle of Iowa, Congress is just learning the grim fact that, with present funding levels, President Nixon's special revenue-sharing plan for urban development will substantially cut money for several large cities in the fiscal year starting July 1, 1972.

Scherle discovered that Council Bluffs in his district would drop from $1,500,000 to $714,000 in the second year of special revenue-sharing (if it passes Congress). Council Bluffs is no isolated case.

Secret data hidden in the Housing and Urban Development Department show that Boston, New Haven, Des Moines, Denver, and others will take cuts under the extremely complicated formula folding present urban development money into one package. Contingency funds will make up the difference the first year (beginning July 1, 1971) but not the second.

A footnote: The drop for Des Moines may shock another Iowa Republican Rep. John Kyl, who is on a team of Republican

Strength For Today

MAKE GOOD

The statement is often made that we can do anything we set ourselves to do. Such a statement is in a measure true but not altogether true. Some of us could not paint a picture, or make a million dollars, or knock a home run every time we came to the bat if our life depended on such achievement. But the general statement that we can do anything we set ourselves to do is correct.

The truth of the matter is that we operate considerably under fifty per cent of our capacities most of the time. One person in ten, or twenty, or fifty million, will become President of the United States, but to miss the presidency means to miss a life full of criticism, opposition and heartache.

The good thing about the statement that we can do anything we set ourselves to do is that we have a lot more ability than we ever use. Perhaps we are lazy. Perhaps we put some selfish interest before the possibility of real achievement. Perhaps we have to keep our nose to the grindstone just to get by month by month and pay our bills. Life is not easy. Apparently the Creator did not intend it should be. We are in this world to grow souls, and millions of people never give their souls any thought whatsoever unless they find themselves facing death or poverty.

It would be well for all of us if we set what would appear to be a preposterous advance and make good in at least a part of it.

Dark Horse Is Lighter

This is winter book time for the presidential stakes of 1972. Four months ago, I was offering a real dark horse — Senator Henry M. Jackson of Washington at 100-1 — and getting nothing but incredulous glances. My horse is looking lighter all the time: Put 80-1 on the chalk board instead.

These odds are based partly on the gentleman himself — conformation, track record, the look in his eye; they are based partly on the rest of the Democratic field; and they are based partly on a railbird's hunch. Some other things enter into it too.

Jackson was born May 31, 1912. If he won the nomination, he would be campaigning at age 60. On paper, that's a handicap — only seven Presidents have made it to the White House in their sixties — but Jackson's he-man health belies his age. Late in life, at 49, he married one of the loveliest girls in town; they have two children, a girl of eight and a boy nearly five, and it all adds up to a handsome family portrait. Forget the factor of age.

The junior senator from Washington has served in the Senate for 30 years. He just won reelection in November with a stunning 84 percent of the vote — the largest margin by far in a two-party contest. He is, on the record, a man of experience and a proven winner.

In questions of foreign policy and national security, Jackson ranks high among the hawkish hawks. He is a tough cookie, this one, widely traveled, deeply knowledgeable. When he spoke up a few days ago on Soviet missiles, our town listened. On the 1970 scorecard of Americans for Constitutional Action, Jackson came in with 24. It wasn't much, to be sure, by the ACA's conservative standards, but the same charter showed 11 for Birch Bayh, 10 for Edmund Muskie and Harold Hughes, 5 for George McGovern and Teddy Kennedy, and a glorious goose-egg for Gene McCarthy.

On domestic questions, the senator ranks with the most liberal libs. The AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education gives him a cumulative rating of 98, matching Bayh and McCarthy and just two points behind the perfect scores of Hughes and Kennedy. Organized labor, disenchanted with Nixon and hungry for a winner, would go whoop for Scoop.

It is this dichotomy, forgive the dog-eared expression, that may prove Jackson's greatest strength as the hopefuls come down the home stretch 15 months from now. My guess — this is the hunch part — is that a great many Democrats, especially from the South and West, will be receptive to the gentleman's odd combination of cold steel and warm mush. The party ordinarily is thought of in terms of black militants, bearded youths, mommas on welfare, and Arthur Schlesinger, Jr. The image, I think, is deceptive.

But suppose the image is generally correct. It is not hard to imagine a horse race developing in which all the others bunched up and ran out of wind together. Look at the field: Muskie, McGovern, Bayh, Hughes, Humphrey, Kennedy, McCarthy, Lindsay of New York. There is not a (Continued On Page 5)

Whitney Young Jr. saw himself as part of the black leadership family in America. In a sense, he was the member of the family who "made it" most comfortably, into the circles of power and influence in white America. As executive director of the National Urban League, he moved among mayors and corporation heads and foundation folk. And for having "made it" he had to bear considerable carping from the black leadership family and their youthful followers who mainly stretched in militance to the left of him.

But this was his role — seeking to wrest advantage for blacks in the form of jobs and better positions in the white structure of the cities. As these columns have said before, there is a need for leadership representing the full spectrum of the black consciousness and yearning in America. And Whitney Young Jr., who passed on during a visit to Nigeria Thursday, spoke out for his sector of the spectrum with consistent vigor and distinction.

His work, of course, is unfinished. Though he helped find thousands of jobs for blacks, though he recently got a federal grant of $28 million to sustain the league's rehabilitation programs, the problems of blacks in urban America are worsening. He had for several years promoted the idea of a domestic Marshall Plan to provide full employment, first-rate education, and so forth for the city-dwelling black. But it was hard to get a hearing, let alone any momentum going. The economic downturn has hurt black workers twice as hard as white. The city schools money crisis, which in many cities means largely a black schools crisis, frustrates any educational breakthrough.

These challenges to the blacks' lot, however, are shared by all the black leaders of that diverse spectrum. And they are shared by whites. Mr. Young would have added. Or black leaders in America, none made the fullness of the sharing clearer than Whitney Young.

The Plan To Stabilize Dollar

By ELMER ROESSNER

Wunderbar von Garfinkel, friend, confidante and alter ego, parachuted into town last night and, after finding me in a cocktail lounge shortly before midnight, unveiled his cosmic plan to stabilize the American dollar.

"It's very simple," he said, sipping a dram of cactus flower nectar. "You just don't stabilize it."

Even after the eleventh hour, that doesn't make sense. I uttered a penetrating, "Huh?"

"You just," he said, "relate everything to the purchasing power of the buck."

"Huh?"

How To Stabilize

"The government spends millions of dollars a year

figuring out the consumer price index. Some people call it the cost-of-living index. For many people, it is.

"The way to end all the trouble with the American dollar is to tie it to the index."

ELMER ROESSNER

Let's pass a law — or a miracle — to provide that every time the index goes up a point, that wages and everything else goes up at exactly the same rate. Social Security benefits would go exactly the same percentage, other pensions go up exactly the same, and annuities, welfare benefits, bank deposits, insurance policies and government bonds go up exactly at the same rate.

"Double hm-m," I said. "And what would happen if the consumer price index should go down?"

"Where have you been, son?" he asked. "The consumer price index isn't ever going down."

Lots Less Strife

"Meanwhile, with Wunderbar plan, there will never be any need for strikes, sit-ins, demonstrations and so on. Working men and women can raise their heads once more and never have to lie about being sick in job actions. They will never again have to lose more wages in strikes than they gain in settlements."

"We will save millions of dollars now wasted every year on strikes and rich and poor alike will keep on getting the same amount of food and clothing and other goods, no matter how much prices rise."

"In fact, prices will rise a

Calley Case In Hands Of 6 Army Career Officers

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — Six battle-torn Army career officers begin today to assess the guilt or innocence of Lt. William L. Calley Jr., accused of the murder of My Lai civilians. It is the third anniversary of the Saturday morning assault on the South China Sea hamlet, an event described by a congressional committee as "a tragedy of major proportions." Calley, then 24, and leader of an understrength platoon that had been in Vietnam less than four months, could be sentenced to death if convicted of any of four murder specifications against him. The government charges that civilians he shot or ordered executed totaled not less than 102.

"It's tragic that I would have to stand here and argue here before you the number of people," said Capt. Aubrey Daniel, the Army prosecutor, who is only two years Calley's senior.

With a staccato delivery that seemed out of place with his soft Southern drawl, Daniel recounted the testimony of major witnesses among the nearly 100 in the four-months old trial. He quit for the night Monday with a taxed throat, 2½ hours into his summation.

Daniel was to finish today, covering Calley's claim that he was obeying superior orders. Then it would be the defense's turn. The trial judge said the jury would have the case by nightfall.

The jury will have the choice of four verdicts: first degree murder with a life or death sentence; second degree murder with a maximum of life in prison; voluntary manslaughter with a maximum of 10 years on each count; and acquittal on all four specifications.

Describing the shooting of a child, one of two single murders asserted in the charges, Daniel said:

"Without hesitation: Without hesitation, gentlemen, he looked down his weapon and fired."

"Do you think he missed? Do you think he wanted to miss? He didn't hesitate. He raised the weapon up and squeezed that trigger and that baby was at the end of that rifle barrel."

In his two days on the witness stand Calley admitted that he was at a drainage ditch east of the village where the government charges he killed at least 70. Calley said six to eight of fewer than 18 bullets that he fired that day were expended at the ditch.

A dozen witnesses variously estimated the number of bodies in the ditch from 30 to 100.

"There were perhaps 75-100 people in that ditch," Daniel said.

"Twelve members of the accused's platoon have placed the accused at the irrigation ditch. Do you think the accused could get on the witness stand and deny that he was at the irrigation ditch?"

Registration Plate Required For Bikes

Bicycle owners were reminded today by Police officials that bicycles being operated within the Greenville city limits are required to have a current registration plate issued by the Police Department.

The City Code makes it a misdemeanor for anyone to operate a bicycle within the city without having a current registration plate displayed, just as auto garaged within the city must have city license plates. Registration of bicycles is lagging far behind last year's totals.

So far this year 382 bicycles have been registered. Last year, a total of 1,366 bicycles were registered as compared with 1,300 in 1969.

The 50-cents registration fee is designed to defray the costs of the registration program.

Officers said bicycle registration is an important tool in combatting bicycle larceny and makes possible the return of lost or stolen bicycles to their proper owners.

Stolen bicycles recovered by police, and bicycles found abandoned, many times can not be returned to their rightful owners if the bicycle has not been licensed.

Vehicles not returned to their owners are sold at auction each December, with the proceeds from the sale going to the school fund.

Student's Art Being Exhibited

Elizabeth Snow Harper, senior in the East Carolina University School of Art, is currently showing examples of her work in the Baptist Student Union on Tenth Street.

Miss Harper's exhibition is mostly comprised of oil paintings, done in the naturalistic style, with a selection of prints. Subjects of her work include a variety of figures and landscapes.

The show, which runs through March 20, is a requirement for the bachelor's degree in art education.

Join Appeal On Federal Ruling

GREENSBORO (AP) — Guilford County has joined Jones County in an appeal of a state court decision ordering Jones to appropriate money for a federal welfare program.

Jones County failed to put up its share of the Work Incentive (WIN) program when selected as one of 10 counties to participate in the experimental project by the North Carolina Department of Social Services. It contended that since only a few counties were chosen, the program was discriminatory. It also says other programs cover much of the same ground.

A Superior Court judge ruled against Jones County, and it appealed. Another county, Forsyth, had joined with Guilford and Jones in the suit.

Writers Club Meets Tonight

The Greenville Writers Club meets tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Betty Casey, 204 Lewis Street. For tonight's meeting, it is hoped to feature reading of scenes from plays written by local writers.

The club, one without dues or formal requirements, is open to anyone interested in writing in any form with the exception of poetry. Poetry is not included because of the existence of a poetry forum which meets twice monthly at ECU.

Fellow Beatles Threaten Suit

LONDON (AP) — Paul McCartney is being threatened with a lawsuit by his fellow Beatles because he claims his American wife Linda is coauthor of his hit single, "Another Day," currently topping the British hit parade.

He said his wife is entitled to half the profits. Under a music publishing arrangement the money normally would be divided with John Lennon, George Harrison and Ringo Starr.

Jack Gill, chairman of the Beatles' Northern Songs publishing firm, told newsmen:

"We will require Mrs. McCartney to prove she is capable of composing such music. We find it extremely strange that a person who never wrote music before her marriage should have helped write 'Another Day'."

dime's worth of difference among them. Who said that?

George Wallace of Alabama, that's who. Speculation is growing that the feisty governor will not run in '72 after all. If so, 9 million votes go up for grabs. According to Kevin Phillips' theory of the emerging Republican majority, the bulk of these would go to Nixon, but the staunchly anti-Communist Jackson would have considerable appeal to an orphaned Wallaceite wanting to come back to his Democratic home.

Well, it's a long time off. Muskie of Maine remains the favorite. McGovern is coming on. It could well be Humphrey again. But don't scratch Henry Jackson off your list. UCLA Gets Final Nod As Top Team

By DAN BERGER
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — For the third time in the past five years, UCLA has been named college basketball's top team on The Associated Press poll even though 16 ballots failed to name the mighty, once-beaten Bruins.

UCLA, winner of six of the last seven NCAA titles, used a 73-62 thrashing of previously third-ranked Southern Cal last Saturday to pad their final margin over Marquette to 39 points.

UCLA Coach John Wooden, winner of 502 games as a Bruin in 23 seasons, said he was pleased with the ranking but reminded that in college basketball, the national collegiate title permits crowning of the on-the-court champion.

The Bruins, 25-1, received 28 of the 44 first place votes cast by sports writers and broadcasters for 616 points.

Second was unbeaten Marquette with 10 first place votes and 577 points. Marquette ran its season winning skein to 27 games with a 62-47 rout of Miami of Ohio last Saturday to stay ahead of the only other unbeaten team, Penn, also 27-0.

Penn polled four No. 1 votes and 469 points for third.

Fourth and fifth, respectively, were Kansas, 25-1, and Southern California, 24-2, each with one first place vote.

Rounding out the top 10 were South Carolina, Western Kentucky, Kentucky, Fordham and Ohio State. Fordham moved up a notch to ninth and Ohio State's Buckeyes, No. 12 a week ago, stepped into the coveted top 10.

Jacksonville, an upset loser by 74-72 to Western Kentucky last week which dropped the Dolphins out of the NCAA tournament, also dropped them out of the top 10, from No. 9 to No. 11.

Notre Dame, the only team to beat the No. 1 rated Bruins this year, was No. 12. The Irish record of 20-7 was achieved through one of the toughest schedules in college basketball. North Carolina was 13th followed by Houston, Duquesne, Long Beach State, Tennessee, Villanova, Drake and Brigham Young. The latter team is UCLA's next foe Thursday in the Far West Regional tourney at Salt Lake City. Long Beach's 49ers also in that western tourney, meet the winner of the Bruin-Cougar game if they can beat University of Pacific.

Squires Add To New Furor

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The growing controversy over the four-year college eligibility rule flared again Monday when the Virginia Squires of the American Basketball Association joined the list of teams ignoring it.

The Squires went ahead and drafted three players with college eligibility remaining despite a warning from Commissioner Jack Dolph as the ABA concluded its draft that started with three secret rounds Jan. 22-23.

"It was a calculated risk," Virginia owner Early Foreman, a lawyer, said from Washington, D.C. "The future will tell if we were right or wrong. We'll try to convince everyone in the league that we were proper."

In selecting junior Tom Riker of South Carolina and sophomores Barry Parkhill of Virginia and Jim Chones of Marquette, Virginia thus became the third team to ignore league rules on the eligibility rule.

Denver of the ABA, which signed Spencer Haywood of Detroit University two years ago as a financial hardship case after his sophomore college season, defied Dolph and the ABA bylaws last year by signing Ralph Simpson of Michigan State. Denver called him another hardship case, signing him after his sophomore season, and then getting the courts to back them up.

Then Haywood, whose class won't graduate until June, jumped Denver and Seattle of the rival National Basketball Association signed him in January in defiance of NBA rules. A federal court judge in Los Angeles last week ruled that Haywood could finish the season with Seattle, a ruling that played a big part in Virginia's decision to risk three draft picks.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Carolina Cougars chose players in all but one of the 19 rounds of the American Basketball Association draft Monday.

They are, in order of selection: Elmore Smith, Kentucky State; Rich Yunkus, Georgia Tech; Ted McClain, Tennessee State; (fourth round choice traded to Pittsburgh) Luke Adams, Lamar Tech;

Ron Rippetoe, David Lioscomb; Ed Kemp, Adams State; Ken Davis, Georgetown; Dave Wohl, Penn; Kendall Mayfield, Tuskegee; John Ribock, South Carolina;

Greg Love, Ohio University; Bob Wenzel, Rutgers; Ron Dorsey, Tennessee State; Hank Commodore, Northwestern Oklahoma; Frank Lorthridge, Pan American;

Dan Fife, Michigan; Cliff Harris, Hardin Simmons; and Steve Bilksy, Penn.

NEW YORK (AP) — Here are the Carolinas college basketball players drafted Monday by the American Basketball Association, by round:

First — Randy Denton, Duke, by Memphis.

Second — Charlie Davis, Wake Forest, New York.

Third — John Roche, South Carolina, Kentucky.

Fourth — Mike Gale, Elizabeth City State, Kentucky; Tom Riker, South Carolina, Virginia; Lee Dedmon, North Carolina, Utah.

10th — Larry Saunders, Duke, Virginia; Gil McGregor, Wake Forest, Indiana.

11th — John Ribock, South Carolina, Carolina.

13th — Rick Katherman, Duke, Indiana.

Killebrew Has Record Chance

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Hank Aaron gets Harmon Killebrew's vote as the best bet to outlast the calendar in pursuit of Babe Ruth's lifetime home run record.

Nobody will be surprised, however, if Killebrew makes a strong run at the 714 barrier, too—except, perhaps, the Minnesota Mauler himself.

"I think Aaron has the best chance to break the record," said Killebrew, who began tuning up for his 18th major league season with three home runs and a string of seven consecutive hits in the first week of exhibition play. "Aaron plays a good hitter's park and a lot of warm weather at Atlanta."

The Twins' barrel-chested third baseman is 11th on the all-time homer list with 487. But he conceivably could finish the year as high as No. 4, behind Ruth, San Francisco's Willie Mays, 628 and Atlanta's Aaron, 592. Gehrig's 493 total will be the first jump.

Spring Football Drills Open

Veteran quarterback John Casazza fires the ball to a racing end under the watchful eye of East Carolina University's new head football coach Sonny Randle yesterday afternoon. The Pirates opened their spring drills at the campus yesterday and will continue through April 24, when the annual Purple-Gold game will be held. Some 80 candidates turned up for the drills. A total of 20 workdays will be held between now and the spring game. (Reflector Photo)

Baseball Commissioner Thinking Of New Alignment For Loops

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Baseball is feeling expansive. American League President Joe Cronin revealed that the majors are studying a plan to split the American and National leagues into three four-team divisions—but he added: "It has a long way to go and it won't come up soon."

Walter O'Malley, who dragged baseball into one form of expansion by moving his Dodgers from Brooklyn to Los Angeles in 1957, came up with the six-division concept, a virtual carbon copy of the National Football League alignment.

The idea is to prevent a loss of interest by cutting down on the chance of runaway teams and hopefully, to remedy some of the money problems facing a few teams.

Instead of the present single playoff in each league, there would be two, involving the three division winners and the team with the best runner-up record. In more conventional activity, the fielders literally kicked in with help with the opposition batters couldn't provide the punch for spring training triumphs.

Joe Foy cracked a home run for Washington—but also committed two of the Senators' five errors that gave Kansas City an 8-2 victory. Lou Piniella homered for the Royals.

Chicago and San Francisco combined for seven miscues that resulted in eight unearned runs in their 10-inning game. Willie Mays of the Giants and Chicago's Hal Breeden hit homers but it was Paul Popovich's bases-loaded, two-out single that gave the Cubs the 8-7 decision.

Joe Torre of St. Louis slammed two round-trippers to back up Steve Carlton's six shutout innings on the mound as the Cardinals nipped Detroit 4-3.

Rich Morales and Carlos May hit solo jobs for the Chicago White Sox in their 5-3 victory over the New York Yankees, the New York Mets ripped Minnesota 6-1 behind homers by Al

Weis and Ed Kranepool and Houston's Bob Watson and Doug Rader cracked homers to counter a three-run blast by Cincinnati's Darrell Chaney as the Astros outlasted the Reds 9-8.

In other action, Deron Johnson and Larry Hise of Philadelphia cracked homers but the Tokyo Giants' 12-hit outburst and a 12-strikeout performance by their pitcher, Caz Takahasi, gave them an 8-4 romp over the Phillies.

Jim Spencer's homer, Chico Ruiz' RBI double and Rober Repoz' sacrifice fly powered the California Angels past Cleveland 3-2 and San Diego lost a 5-4 battle to Milwaukee and lost pitcher Dick Kelly and infielder Enzo Hernandez with pulled hamstrings for at least a week.

The Orioles smothered Boston 5-1 and Montreal topped Atlanta 5-3 as the Expos survived a single and five consecutive walks that gave the Braves all their runs in the eighth.

Brewers Face A Tough Year

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Milwaukee's Brewers, the team which brought big league baseball back to Wisconsin, face a tough challenge again this year with Tommy Haper the big gun in their attack.

After Dave Bristol took over as the club's manager in 1970, the Brewers tied for fourth in the American League's West Division as Harper enjoyed his best year in the majors.

The 30-year-old handyman from Oakland, batted .296, hit 31 homers and drove in 82 runs. He stole 38 bases and belted 35 doubles.

The Brewers did acquire outfielder Bill Voss and the veteran slugger Andy Kosco during the winter, Voss from California and Kosco from Los Angeles. The latter can play first base as well as the outfield, giving utility strength.

"We got center fielder Dave May last June and I think he'll be even better this year," Bristol said. "If he and Mike Hegan hit more average this year, it will really help us."

Bristol expects a better defense, mainly because players took over positions permanently last year and have gained experience. Harper, who can play the outfield, switched from second base to third. Ted Kubiak handles second with Hegan at first and Roberto Pena at shortstop.

Danny Walton, off to a fine start in 1970 before suffering knee injuries, could provide more power hitting.

Bristol must decide on his outfield, keeping seven men, from a big group including May, Walton, Voss, Kosco, Ted Savage, Bernie Smith, Al Yates, Russ Snyder and Floyd Wicker.

He also seeks to develop a five-pitcher starting rotation with Marty Pattin, Lew Krausse, Skip Lockwood, Bill Parsons and John Morris, the latter the only southpaw in the group.

Phil Roof did most of the catching in 1970 with Ellie Rodriguez joining him in the backstop department this season.

No Action At ECU

The East Carolina University Faculty Athletic Committee took no action yesterday at a noon meeting which revolved about the basketball situation at the university.

"The situation is still wide open," Committee Chairman Dr. Doug Jones said. "We have reached no decision on the program." Tom Quinn, who has served as basketball coach for the past five years, is reportedly in danger of having his contract not renewed by the university.

Jones said that he expected the committee to have a "strong statement," in his words, Saturday morning, following a 9:30 a.m. meeting.

Pirates Host Ithaca Nine

East Carolina University's defending Southern Conference baseball champions open a two-game series with Ithaca College here Wednesday. Game time at University Field is 3 p.m.

The Pirates opened their season 10 days ago with a 7-2 loss to N. C. State, but rebounded the following day with a 6-5 win, splitting the series.

Coach Earl Smith plans to start righthander Ron Hastings on the mound against Ithaca. The senior from Connelly Springs, was the nation's leading pitcher last season with a remarkable 0.56 earned run average.

But, in his first appearance against the Wolfpack, he was charged with two earned runs in five innings of work for a 3.60 E.R.A. He has no record.

Smith plans to go with junior

Gus Roberson at first, senior Bryan McNeely at second, senior Dick Corrada at short, junior Ralph Lamm at third and junior Stan Sneed behind the plate.

Smith looks to improve the hitting in the series with the Bombers. The Pirates were not impressive at the plate in their first two games. As team ECU collected only nine hits in 61 at bats for a .148 average.

Corrada is the team's leading hitter through the first two games with two hits in seven trips, including a double for a .286 average while Aldridge is batting .250 with two hits in eight tries, including a triple.

The Pirates will play Ithaca Thursday afternoon at 3 p.m., winding up the series.

Carolina, Duke Head For NIT

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The stars will come out for the National Invitation Tournament with college basketball Rainbows from the West and thunder in the East.

The 34th tourney at Madison Square Garden, starting this Saturday, features a clash from star performers along with a nationally-favored field from Hawaii's Rainbows to the powerhouse clubs of the south and southeast.

North Carolina and Duke, two of the Atlantic Coast Conference's better teams, were added to the field Monday along with Purdue of the Big Ten, and Louisville, the Missouri Valley Conference runner-up.

They are part of a 16-team field chosen as "the best teams available," according to Ken Norton of the NIT selection committee.

In a study of contrasts, Hawaii is the first contender from outside the continental United States, and St. John's, the only New York entry, is making its 20th appearance. The redmen have won this tourney a record four times.

The final selections Monday pointed to an apparent NIT move to polish its national image.

"We're not just trying to sell tickets," said Norton, "We took the teams we thought were the best caliber."

In getting Purdue and Michigan, the NIT came up with Big Ten entries for the first time, and added Dayton for a strong Midwest representation. The selection committee considered but by-passed Rutgers, from nearby New Brunswick, N.J., even though one member admitted it might mean 5,000 tickets sold at the Garden.

There is also a scarcity of New York-area teams as the NIT goes national. Last year, there were three from the New York area and the year before, four.

Massachusetts and North

Carolina on Saturday kick off the week-long affair, which culminates with the finals March 27.

Louisville plays Providence and Dayton tackles Duke in the second and third games of Saturday's triple header, and Tennessee meets St. John's and Georgia Tech plays LaSalle in a night-time twin bill.

Rose Opens 1971 Season

Rose High School opens its 1971 baseball season this afternoon at 4 p.m. in Guy Smith Stadium.

The Rampants, who were co-champions of the Division II Eastern 4-A Conference last year, will be meeting non-conference foe Farmville in the opener.

The Rampants also play D. H. Conley on Friday, also at Guy Smith. That game also gets underway at 4 p.m.

After 40, The Male Reflects

Tad's sexual revolution has started. But his wife should be glad he warned her. For that means he still would prefer to have an "affair" with her instead of with the paramour. For a lot of husbands say nothing but develop their outside romancing on the sly. Wives, you can prevent Tad's tragedy!

By GEORGE CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

Case Q-501: Tad B., aged 46, is now a problem to his wife.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "Tad has always been a devoted husband and father, at least until the past year.

"But last night he told me he is going to have his fling!"

"He claims I am too fat and uncooperative.

"So he is going to start enjoying life before it is too late!

"He says if I don't like it, I can lump it.

"Oh, Dr. Crane, what is wrong with Tad? Is he losing his mind?"

Tad's Revolt

No; Tad is just a victim of the "Ponce de Leon Complex."

That strikes many staid husbands when they pass the age of 40 and begin to indulge in self-analysis.

For then they grow panicky at the thought they may be "over the hill" in their erotic ability.

"Dr. Crane," they will confess, "I used to be quite ardent with my wife, though she was always rather indifferent to sex.

"But she was a very attractive young woman when we first married, so I didn't mind her rather frigid outlook, for I had enough extra erotic desire to offset her diffidence.

"Besides, my job preoccupied much of my thinking, plus the normal domestic worries about paying off the mortgage and seeing the children through the usual childhood diseases.

"However, when I passed the age of 40, I had become pretty well established in my business.

"And we had paid off the

4 4 NT Pass 6 6

Opening lead: King of ♠

North's four no trump overall after West's opening four spade bid, is the equivalent of a super takeout double — and requests partner to respond in his longest suit. Observe that his holding contains 18 gilt-edged high card points and is worth 23 points in support of any response South might make.

South's hand possessed considerable merit, inasmuch as he was being forced to bid at the five level on — perhaps little or nothing. Since he had a good suit as well as outside controls, he proceeded to six hearts. Altho East and West had a good save at six spades — they lose two clubs and one diamond for a 500 point sacrifice — the adverse vulnerability acted as a deterrent to any further action on their part.

West opened the king of spades against six hearts, and when the dummy was spread, South observed that he was the somewhat unique recipient of an immediate ruff and discard. He pondered how best to take advantage of the situation and eventually decided to trump in dummy as he sluffed a diamond from his hand.

The adverse trumps were drawn in two rounds and the ace of diamonds was cashed. Declarer returned to his hand with a heart and led another diamond. When West showed out, the king of diamonds was played, and South shifted his attention to clubs. The try of clubs was led, East followed with the five and declarer played the eight.

West was in with the ten of clubs and, since it was obviously not profitable to lead spades again, he tried exiting with a club. South won the trick with the jack, cashed the king and crossed over to the North hand in trumps to play the ace of clubs on which he discarded his remaining diamond to fulfill the slam.

Observe that if the diamonds had divided three-two, declarer would have been in position to discard a club from his hand on North's fourth diamond. His choice of a diamond discard at trick one in preference to a club permitted him greater leeway in the management of the club suit. Note, for example, when that suit was led from dummy declarer was able to end play West by taking a very cheap finesse into the latter's hand. Incidentally it would have availed East naught to put up the nine of clubs, for South would merely cover with the jack and, when West is in, he must perform surrender a trick on the return.

Tears come from the lacrimal gland.

Wives, Wake Up

Wives, when a man like Tad serves you an ultimatum, be grateful, not hateful!

For that means he is still basically in love with you!

Many husbands never alert you to the problem but merely start playing around on the sly with their paramour.

A husband who thus argues with you and tells you of his revolt, is subconsciously hoping you will still pick up your romantic cues and revive his ardor.

For most husbands still prefer and "affair" with their own wives if the latter will make such possible.

Tree-Planting An 'Investment'

Planting trees is a long-term investment in conservation. Trees help reduced flooding and erosion, and they help stabilize and improve water supplies; and, in time, they add to the farmer's income.

Demand for wood and wood products to supply our growing

mounting demands for the other multiple use resources of our woodlands."

Some of these resources include water, special forest products, recreation, forage, wildlife, and natural beauty. More and more, landowners and land managers have adopted the objective of multiple use resource management and continuous production in the management and use of forest lands, Evans said.

Under the Rural Environmental Assistance

Program, the public shares with farmers the cost of planting trees and other soil, water, woodland, and wildlife conservation measures. From 1936 through 1970 the Rural Environmental Assistance Program was known as the ACP.

Since ACP began in 1936, farmers in North Carolina have planted more than 278,193 acres of trees under the program. Throughout the Nation, farmers have planted more than five million acres of trees with ACP cost-share assistance. By sharing the cost of these practices, both the farmer and other taxpayers contribute to improving and conserving the Nation's vital natural resources.

More information about forestry practices approved for REAP assistance is available at county ASCS offices.

N.C. Assembly Faces Hot Week

By SAM D. BUNDY
State Representative

Things keep moving at a fast pace and it can be truly said that the grind has really started. The number of bills introduced in the House now total 440 with about 100 bills having been passed. Some bills have been given an unfavorable report by the committee to which they were assigned and many other bills are now under consideration by a committee or committees. By the time you read this the local-option sales tax will have become law, and boards of county commissioners can levy a one cent sales tax or put it to the vote of the people.

One bill recently passed in the House has to do with school interruptions and disruptions. I am glad to report that I had a good part in the passage of this legislation. The bill allows teachers to be paid up to fifteen days for days lost by disruption, interruption, or by act of God. The original bill called for 10 days; however, in the Education Committee hearing I was able to get this raised to 15 days and it received approval by both the Committee and the House of Representatives. Among the many bills introduced some are to increase the soft drink tax and tobacco tax while others would do away with both of them. With the condition of the funds available, the consensus now is that there will be no tax increases and no tax decreases.

The week of March 15-19 will be a hot one in both the House and Senate. The Senate will be debating and voting on the abortion bill, which passed the House by a 60-54 vote. The House will be debating and voting on the whiskey by the drink bill. I will be on the side against whiskey by the drink due to the following reasons:

- (1) I think we should retain the policy of state control.
- (2) The profit from the sale of whiskey by the drink will not go to the state, which is a radical departure from our policy of over thirty years.

(3) It will not affect the average man, but only those who can patronize the so-called better restaurants.

(4) I am afraid it will eventually lead to open bars, and

(5) My conversations with and communications from people in Pitt County indicate an overwhelming evidence that they do not want it.

On of the main social events this week as a banquet in the Dorton Arena sponsored by the Industries of Agriculture. Governor Scott and Commissioner of Agriculture Jim Graham made short talks. I had the pleasure of sitting next to my good friend, Ercell Webb and engaging in very pleasant conversation. Another social event of the week as the reception given by the National Broadcasting Association, which was held in the Velvet Cloak. This was one of the best receptions of the year and I had the good fortune to talk with my good friend, Carl Venters, Jr. of Farmville and Thomas Snowden of Greenville.

It was good to see six women from Pitt County attending the Legislative Day of the Business and Professional Women's Club of North Carolina. A reception was held in the Archives Building and there were around 300 women greeting and talking to the members of the Legislature. These women later visited the regular session of the House of Representatives and were recognized by Speaker Philip Godwin.

Congressman Is Feeling SST Lobby Pressures

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Charles J. Carney of Youngstown, Ohio, is feeling the heat of a heavy lobbying campaign. It's almost as if he were being asked to choose between the city's bustling steel mills and foundries and her Mill Creek Park and Beaver Creek.

He's one of 100 or so members apparently holding the votes that will determine whether the House approves continued federal financing of the giant supersonic-transport plane.

Youngstown area industries, unions and chambers of commerce which might have a stake in SST production are flooding the Democratic congressman with telegrams and letters, asking a vote for the plane. And citizens more concerned with the environment are pleading for a "no" vote.

He voted against the SST at one point last year. But, with the crucial House vote coming Thursday, Carney still is undecided which way to go.

"I'm going to go by how my district feels on this one," he says.

His staff says Carney's mail is split about evenly but mail to most congressmen apparently is running heavily against the 1,800-mile-an-hour plane for which the Nixon administration is asking a total of $290 million this fiscal year.

A spot check indicates the lobbying job on Carney is typical of the effort being made on uncommitted members from districts standing to gain from an SST contract.

John O'Shea, who is running the $350,000 advertising drive for the SST, says efforts are concentrated on something like

Chenery To Give Lecture Tonight

Peter J. Chenery director of North Carolina Board of Science and Technology, will present a lecture at East Carolina University tonight at 7:30 in the Biology Auditorium. His subject will be the Board of Science and Technology and its programs.

Dr. Chenery is an expert in the fields of research administration, industrial utilization of new technology, and instrumentation and control. He is a graduate of Harvard University and has been associated with MIT and the Wright Machine Company of the Sperry Rand Corporation.

The lecture is sponsored by the Sigma Xi Club of the ECU Biology Department.

100 members.

O'Shea said the pro-SST drummers are primarily regular lobbyists for such major SST contractors as Boeing, General Electric and North American Aircraft and for labor, including the AFL-CIO and the International Association of Machinists.

In some cases, he said, contractor-labor teams from such companies as Pneumatic Tool of Cleveland, Ohio, which makes landing gears have come to Washington lobby members.

Opposition lobbyists, easily outnumber the proponents but are loosely organized.

They are college students, representatives of local conservation organizations and vacationing constituents—sometimes representing such lobby groups as the Coalition Against the SST, Friends of the Earth and the Sierra Club.

Sometimes they speak only for themselves.

No Clues In Gun Slaying

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Police say they have no clues or motive in the slaying of a 17-year-old Negro youth, who was felled by a shotgun blast when he answered the door of an apartment Saturday night.

Police Chief H. E. Williamson said Clifton Eugene Wright, a student at New Hanover High School, was killed at the apartment of Mollie Hicks, who served as an advisor to boycotting students at New Hanover and Hogard High Schools last month.

"We haven't been able to come up with anything on the identity of the killer," said Williamson.

Two witnesses in the downstairs area of the apartment said they were with Wright when they heard a knock on the door, the police chief stated.

Wright asked, "Who is it?" When there was no answer he opened the door and a shot was fired. Williamson said the two witnesses reported they did not see who fired the shot.

The police chief added there were reports that the youth was shot by a white person, but investigation had not confirmed this.

Two persons were killed during rioting in Wilmington early in February when National Guard troops were called out by Gov. Bob Scott.

The high schools in Wilmington have been scenes of student boycotts and racial unrest in recent weeks.

Dr. Herley Will Address Meeting

Dr. Patricia Herley will be speaker for tonight's meeting of the ECU Women's Club. Beginning at eight o'clock, the meeting will be held in room 201 of the Student Union.

The speaker will give a slide talk on "Color Schemes From Fabrics." A variety of fabrics and accessories will be shown to illustrate her talk.

A frequent speaker in Eastern North Carolina, Dr. Herley is chairman of the Housing and Management Department in the School of Home Economics at ECU. She was educated at Florida State University and UNC-G.

Election of officers for 1971-72 will precede the program.

Pre-Registering Set March 29

PACTOLUS — Pre-school registration for the Pactolus School district will be held Monday, March 29, at 7:30 p. m. in the school library.

All boys and girls who will be six years old on or before midnight Oct. 16, 1971, are eligible to enroll. Parents should contact the school office for the necessary registration forms to be completed and returned to the school by March 29.

Parents are also asked to bring a copy of their child's birth certificate to the pre-school registration in order to verify the birthdate.

Bank Finds Shortage Of $6 Million

CHICAGO (AP) — The Cosmopolitan National Bank says it has a shortage of more than $6 million and the FBI is questioning a customer and a bank bookkeeper.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. said that if a $6-million embezzlement is confirmed, it would be the largest in the history of U.S. banking.

Bank President Donald D. Magers said Monday the loss was uncovered Feb. 25 when the customer "confessed to an officer of the bank" and implicated the employee. The bookkeeper, who had been with the bank 24 years, was fired.

The FBI said no arrests were expected before Thursday.

Magers said the shortage apparently built up when the customer was permitted to write checks—sometimes as high as $900,000—on a corporate account which did not contain enough money to meet them. The checks were handled only by the one bookkeeper, he said. The loss occurred over a period of at least a year.

Neither the customer nor the bookkeeper was identified.

Although the exact amount of the loss will not be known until an audit is completed, Magers said it was between $6 million and $7 million.

He said the bank is "very liquid and in good shape" and although it was a substantial loss "we are in a position to take care of it."

Leonard M. Lavezzorio, the bank's board chairman. Cosmopolitan National had earnings of $835,000 before taxes in 1970 and has assets of about $60 million.

Sees Black College Role

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — The academic dean of a Negro college says he believes such schools have an important role in the future just as they have "been instrumental in producing most of the blacks who are in leadership roles today."

Dr. Roy A. Woods of Norfolk State College in Virginia made the statement Monday at the opening of the 45th annual convention of administrators of predominantly black colleges. He is president of the organization, the National Association of College Deans, Registrars and Admissions Officers.

The theme of the three-day meeting is: "The Emerging Role of the Black College."

Woods said the black college has this problem:

Whether to "strive for the mainstream American college identity, or modify its program to cope with problems of those students who are not financially able enough, or motivated enough, or ready for the mainstream institutions." He did not answer directly, but said Negro colleges had produced most of the black leaders and have an "ever-expanding role" in the future.

BUSY LOCKS
SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (UPI) — The 304-day, 1970-71 shipping season through the Soo Locks was the longest ever for the connecting link between Lake Superior and the lower Great Lakes. The U.S. Steel Corp. ore carrier Philip R. Clarke was the last ship through the locks on Jan. 30.

Medium, whites: 38½-39.
Small, whites: 30-31.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — The North Carolina hog market today is mostly steady. Tops of 16.75-17.50 Whiteville; 16.50-17.00 Rocky Mount; 16.00-17.00 Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Newton Grove, Albemarle, Lumberton; 16.50-16.75 Wilson; 15.75-16.75 Tarboro; 16.00-16.50 Siler City, Denton; 15.75-16.25 Bethel; 17.00 Salisbury; 16.50 Greensboro.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — Available supplies on light types were short of a generally good buying interest today on the North Carolina hen market. Heavy types remain ample with a fair demand. Heavies at farm 12 cents per pound. FOB plants 14 cents. A few higher based on previous commitments. Light type: no sales reported.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices skyrocketed Tuesday in very active trading, buoyed by news of another prime rate cut. The 11 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks soared 6.37 to 914.57.

Big Board volume was a 7.01 million shares at the same time Monday. Because of the large number of transactions the New York Stock Exchange tape was running two minutes late.

Advances led declines by almost 3 to 1 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Big Board prices included Chase Manhattan, up 1½ at 53¾; Northwest Airlines, up 1½ at 32¾; Kennecott up 1½ at 39½; American Telephone & Telegraph, up ¾ at 48½ and Chrysler, up ¾ at 29½.

School Bd. . . .

The resignations of two teachers—Mrs. Gayle Daniels and Mrs. Susan Bejaoui, were accepted. Two replacement teachers, Mrs. Wilma Askew and Richard A. Wilkerson, were approved.

A position paper by State Superintendent of Instruction Dr. Craig Phillips on a ten-month term for teachers was briefly discussed and will be considered at later meetings. Such a plan would provide for additional non-teaching time for teachers to prepare for school opening and to clear up end of school work. It would also spread the pupil school year over a longer span of dates, but without increasing the number of school days from the current 180 days.

Other matters discussed by the board included the driver education program, changes in inclusion of certain subjects, and board policies relative to medical examinations, a cooperative program with Pitt Technical Institute, and accelerated graduation.

As state regulations do not require medical examinations for school pupils, literature of the Greenville City Schools in the future will, instead of being worded to require an exam, recommend this be done, but not make it a specific requirement.

Harding Sugg recommended that any cooperative program with Pitt Tech spell out definitive purposes of any particular program. This matter is to be further considered at the next regular meeting.

The board approved accelerated graduation for one student, Mitchell Cobb, after noting the student had in fact been attending the school system for a total of 12 years. Permission was also granted for the transfer of two students from the city to the county school system.

Orientation programs for new students are being set up for the near future, and plans for this program are to be announced within the next two weeks.

Brunswick Board Voices Interest

SOUTHPORT, N.C. (AP) — The Brunswick County Commissioners sought information Monday about an oil firm that has taken options for a plant site on the Cape Fear River near Wilmington.

After receiving indications that the oil firm apparently planned to locate a refinery on the site, the commissioners adopted a resolution favoring industrial expansion "in keeping with environmental safeguards."

Rep. Thomas Harrelson, R-Brunswick, told the commissioners he was worried about possible pollution from such an industry and particularly concerned about the possible effect on the county's beaches.

Australia is sometimes called the largest island in the world.

NEW PRESIDENT . . . of Pitt County Democratic Women, Mrs. Guilford Lewis (right), gets a pointer from State Representative Mrs. John Chase of Wayne County (center). At left is Mrs. Joseph Steelman; outgoing president, Jack Spain, administrative assistant to U. S. Senator Sam J. Ervin, Jr. listens in.

Pitt Demo Women Told Responsibility Involved

"Women live in a period of the greatest transition in history and if we want the opportunities, then we must accept the responsibilities," Mrs. John B. Chase told a meeting of the Pitt County Democratic meeting Friday night.

Mrs. Chase, N.C. Representative to the State Legislature from Wayne County, addressed the annual dinner meeting of the Democratic meeting, which was also attended by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Spain. Spain is the administrative assistant to U.S. Senator J. Sam Ervin, Jr.

First addressing her remarks to politics and the Democratic Party in North Carolina, Mrs. Chase also discussed the status of women under law. She noted that "both sexes are equal as far as capabilities are concerned." In her talk, the lady representative touched on the bills now pending before the N. C. General Assembly—licensing of day care centers; capital punishment bill; the abortion bill; and the redistricting bill.

A member of the Appropriations Committee, Mrs. Chase expressed pride in North Carolina's fiscal solvency. She said she favors extending suffrage to 18 years olds, "because they are just as well qualified to vote as many of those who vote now and better qualified than some."

In election of officers for 1971-72, Mrs. Guilford Lewis became the new president of the Democratic Women of Pitt County. Other officers elected are: Mrs. W. F. Tyson, first vice-president; Mrs. Arthur Tripp, second vice-president; Mrs. Horton Rountree, recording secretary; Miss Janice Hardison, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Brooks Beddingfield, treasurer.

Grifton Jaycees Do Repair Work On Tennis Court

GRIFTON — Members of the Grifton Jaycees made a number of repairs on the Grifton town park tennis court during the weekend.

Jaycees participating in the work included: Andy Scott, Gene Haywood, Dwight Myers, and Bobby Avery.

Included in the work done during the weekend was the replacement of broken and rusted wire around the courts, the removal of weeds and briars, and rebuilding a wood-framed opening on one side of the court.

The manpower was furnished by the Jaycees while the materials were provided by the Grifton Recreation Fund.

Other work sessions will be scheduled for in the weeks ahead.

Chicod School Lunch Menu

Lunchroom menus for the remainder of the week at Chicod School have been announced as follows:

Wednesday — barbecue, cole slaw, succotash, cornbread, cookie;

Thursday — beef stew with onions and potatoes, candied yams, green beans, rolls;

Friday — sloppy Joe, stewed corn, steamed rice, grapefruit sections.

Congress Seeks To Get Around Its Own Rules

By EDMOND LEBRETON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress sought ways around its own rules today to speed enactment of an income boost for 26 million Social Security beneficiaries—and also to make sure the government's bills are paid on time.

Legislation approved Monday by Senate-House conferees consists of two bills spliced together.

One provides an across the board 10 per cent increase in Social Security benefits, retroactive to Jan. 1.

The other increases the national debt ceiling from $395 billion to $430 billion.

With the debt now approaching the present ceiling, Treasury sources say the nation's bill-payers may be in trouble before the week is out unless their borrowing authority is increased.

But House action has been hung up on rules providing that compromise legislation may not be acted on until three days after the conferees' report is printed. This would put off action until Friday.

Another provision rules out legislation containing nongermane amendments by the Senate, unless the House has given special permission.

The Social Security raise, grafted on to a House-passed bill lifting the debt ceiling, is a nongermane amendment, even though House leaders agreed to the procedure in the interest of speed.

Handlers of the bill said they were not certain how they will proceed.

One possibility would be to apply to the Rules Committee for special handling procedure. Another, and risky, method would be to seek unanimous consent of the House for immediate consideration.

The bill is considered certain to pass whenever it does come up.

Safety Program For Brownies

Bicycle safety was discussed with Brownie Scout Troop 586 Monday afternoon by Lt. Paul Jewett of the Greenville Police Department.

He explained and demonstrated bike safety rules and gave each of the girls a questionnaire, which was later thoroughly discussed. The police officer also stressed that each girl should become a "crime watcher."

Troop 586 members are Margaret Con, Jill Cargile, Sarah Cooley, Susan Gilbert, Sharon Harris, Suzanne Hix, Sheri Howell, Cheryl Jones, Beth Powers, Rita Savage, Lorri Wagner, Sherri Warren, Barbara Hinsley, Stephanie Rogers, Lauri Daughtry, and Dawn Phillips. Leaders are Mrs. Curtis Howell and Mrs. Jim Hix.

A convenient, get-things-done-in-a-hurry Home Improvement Loan. For additions, remodeling or repairs—inside your home or out.

So if you've been toying around with a few home improvement ideas, tell a Planter's man what you've got in mind. He'll help you get your plans in the works right away with a PNB Home Improvement Loan.

And you can tinker to your heart's content.
