

Lower Vote Age Rests With States

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Five states have approved a constitutional amendment lowering the voting age to 18, launching the ratification process aimed at extending the franchise to 11 million Americans before next year's elections. Minnesota and Delaware legislators approved the proposed 26th Amendment Tuesday less than an hour after the House, in a 400-19 vote, completed congressional action. Tennessee, Connecticut and Washington followed quickly.

Thirty-eight state legislatures must ratify the amendment before it becomes a part of the Constitution. The 10 amendments approved in this century have required an average of 15 months for ratification.

The amendment provides no citizen 18 or older may be denied the vote in any election on account of age. The practical effect is to allow persons 20, 19 or 18 to vote in state and local elections.

Congress approved last year a bill reducing the voting age to 18 for all elections. But the Supreme Court held the law could apply only in federal elections, that states have the right to set their own voting qualifications.

The new amendment swept through the Senate two weeks ago by a vote of 94 to 0.

Twenty states have beaten efforts in the past 10 years to lower their voting age to 18. But backers of the 26th Amendment predict last year's Supreme Court decision will result in quick ratification.

Without a uniform lower voting age, the court ruling will require states and local governments to set up dual election machinery: One set of voting machines for persons over 21 and another set for younger voters.

Backers of the 18-year vote predict financially pressed state legislatures will quickly ratify the amendment, rather than face the added election expense.

The amendment will have no effect in Georgia, Kentucky and Alaska; they already allow 18-year-olds to vote. Twenty is the minimum voting age in Hawaii, Maine and Nebraska, while persons 19 and older may vote in Massachusetts, Minnesota and Montana.

Defends Calley Jurors

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — Judge Reid Kennedy sternly lectured Lt. William Calley's defense attorney today, saying he will not order the My Lai murder court-martial jury to speed up its deliberations because "this case is much more complex both factually and legally than any other I ever read about."

The six officers trying Calley for the murder of 102 civilians asked to hear a read back of the testimony of two more witnesses, bringing the number of such requests to 12. The jury was in its eighth day of deliberations.

"If they acquit Lt. Calley there will be accusations of whitewash," the judge told lawyer George Latimer. "If they convict him there will be allegations the other way."

"So they'll be damned if they do and damned if they don't," the judge said.

As he has done before, Latimer strongly protested the reading of testimony, saying again, "It gives the prosecution the opportunity to present their case again before the court-martial members after having completed the presentation of its testimony."

Latimer said Tuesday the six officers on the jury were "winning and dining themselves" in the evening hours when they should be deliberating Calley's life or death fate.

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — The U.S. 7th Infantry Division is being pulled out of Korea and disbanded, the U.S. military in Seoul announced today.

Ranked Tenth

According to statistics released recently by the N. C. Department of Revenue, Greenville ranked tenth among cities in the state in percentage increases in retail sales for 1970.

The figures show that Greenville's retail sales were $104,889,302 in 1970, compared with $99,462,732 for 1969, a percentage increase of 5.5 per cent.

This was the first calendar year in which retail sales exceeded $100,000,000 in Greenville.

Jacksonville ranked fourth with a percentage increase of 8.2 per cent at $105,983,116 in 1970 while Winston was seventh with an increase of 6.4 per cent at $111,293,100.

Other area cities were further down the list including Rocky Mount with a 3.4 per cent increase ($148,367,036 in 1970), Washington with 2.8 ($54,704,536), Goldsboro with 2.6 ($131,640,400), New Bern with 1.6 ($91,186,693), and Wilson with a decrease of 0.7 per cent in 1970 ($101,738,704).

Black Americans

Youth Group Founder's Help To Underprivileged

Copley News Service
Talk to Negro men and women about themselves, their careers, their achievements and you get some encouraging answers.

You also trigger some negative reaction from black people reluctant to discuss even their triumphs in a country whose attitude toward the black race they believe still is suspect.

Those who are talkers usually have something to say. One of these is Charles Earl Lloyd, member of a prominent Los Angeles law firm who came to his adopted home town in 1952. Lloyd arrived in Los Angeles in 1952 with 12 cents in the pocket of his one pair of pants. Still fresh in his mind was the admonition from his father that he never would be more than a dishwasher.

That was pretty much the way Negroes felt about themselves in Indiana, Miss., where Lloyd graduated earlier that same year from a segregated high school. Now, at 36, Lloyd is founder of the Youth Inspirational Foundation of America, an organization dedicated to motivate and inspire the young disadvantaged of the nation, regardless of their color.

Lloyd and his family live in a handsome home in prosperous Hancock Park. But the road from Indiana to Hancock Park was long and sometimes rutted.

As a child Lloyd chopped cotton on a Mississippi farm, named his pet roosters after famous Americans and dreamed of someday becoming a lawyer.

Now that the dream is reality and Lloyd has been described as one of the nation's most able trial lawyers, he says if he had it to do over, he'd be a preacher, like his grandmother wanted.

The rutted road led Charlie Lloyd through the Los Angeles Police Academy when he was 21. He received his bachelor's degree from Los Angeles State College and a law degree from the University of Southern California Law School, all the next time, a preacher.

A Continuing Debate

ON ANTI-SECRECY BILL — Rep. J. P. Huskins, a Statesville, N.C. publisher, talks on the North Carolina House floor on the anti-secrecy bill which the body gave tentative approval today. Rep. Huskins said though he favored the bill he could not go along with provisions which make violation of the act a criminal offense. (AP Wirephoto)

Anti-Secrecy Measure Will Be Re-Studied

RALEIGH (AP) — The House is scheduled to give further consideration today to far-reaching anti-secrecy legislation which it approved tentatively Tuesday.

The bill, a combination of measures sponsored by Rep. J. Ernest Paschall, D-Wilson, and Rep. Carl Stewart, D-Gaston, would require most public agencies to make their meetings public, with some exceptions.

Rep. Jim Johnson, R-Carrboro, said he plans to offer an amendment today which would require public agencies to give the news media at least 24 hours notice of all meetings except emergency sessions.

Johnson said that without his provision a public board could preserve secrecy by holding a meeting without notifying the news media that a session was to be held.

The House approval of the measure Tuesday came after a debate during which some amendments were adopted and others were rejected.

One of those rejected was offered by Johnson and Rep. Jim Holshouser, R-Watauga, the state Republican chairman. It would have deleted the State Paroles Board from a list of state agencies permitted to hold secret sessions.

Johnson indicated the amendment was prompted by recent developments in which a man's parole was changed to permit him to travel outside the state after he made a $500 contribution to the Democratic Party.

Martin Rites Set

Mr. Joseph Roy Martin, 67, died at his home, 212 N. Eastern St. Tuesday morning. Funeral services will be conducted at 3:30 Thursday afternoon at the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by the Rev. Dana Hunt, his pastor, and the Rev. Wilbur A. Ballenger, Jr. Burial will be in Pinewood Memorial Park.

Mr. Martin, son of the late Joseph Thomas and Bessie Cannon Martin, was a native of Edgecombe County, and was reared in Bethel. He had been a resident of Greenville for a number of years. A member of the First Christian Church, he had served as elder, deacon and treasurer. He was an independent insurance adjuster in Greenville for 40 years, a former chairman of the Greenville Utilities Commission, a life member of the Greenville Rotary Club, and during World War II served as a member of the Pitt County Ration Board.

Taylor would neither confirm nor deny this, but did say he would have an announcement

Higher Education Study Group Is Divided

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — A member of the Warren Committee studying a control structure for higher education in North Carolina says "there is a wide divergence of opinion" among the group.

But Rep. J.P. Huskins, D-Iredell, says that the special committee formed early this year has not yet taken any votes and so far "there's been no concrete proposal to vote on."

Huskins says he expects the committee to "come up with some kind of a report," but "I'm not optimistic that we will come up with a unanimous report."

The Statesville publisher said that for the committee's last meeting this past weekend each of the 23 members was asked to submit his own proposal for a governing structure for the state's 15 institutions of higher education.

Huskins said that "running through those proposals was a certain amount of common ground, and, of course wide divergence."

Former State Sen. Lindsay Warren of Goldsboro heads the special committee appointed by Gov. Bob Scott, who said he was weary of the in-fighting among the state-supported institutions for legislative favor and appropriations.

Huskins said there appeared to be "two overall approaches" by the committee, which includes members of each institution's board of trustees.

"One group doesn't want to disturb the consolidated university," said Huskins, "but wants to do something about the regional universities. The other group wants to cover the entire field."

Huskins noted there had been reports that the committee had taken definite stands on various proposals, but that these were incorrect.

ECU Confirms J.A. Lang Accepting A Special Role

John Albert Lang Jr., a veteran government official, has been appointed to a newly created administrative post at East Carolina University.

Dr. Leo Jenkins, ECU president, announced that Lang has accepted an appointment as Vice President for External Affairs and will be concerned with a variety of programs and projects related to overall development of the university.

Lang currently is serving as administrative assistant to the Secretary of the Air Force, a post he has held since 1964. He is a native of Carthage and maintains a home there.

"We are indeed fortunate to secure the services of such an able and distinguished figure as John Lang," Dr. Jenkins said. "Mr. Lang has a truly great record of public service. He has expressed a keen desire to assist in developing projects and programs which we at East Carolina University have in mind. We feel he will be of tremendous help in these efforts."

Dr. Jenkins said that Lang will assume his new duties at ECU in the near future. No date was specified, he added, depending upon when Lang can leave his post at the Pentagon.

ECU business manager Clifton Moore said this morning that as far as he knew, no specific salary figure had been agreed upon but would probably be finalized when Lang arrives at the university to assume his new post.

The chairman of the ECU board of trustees said today he is director, Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) in 1935-38.

He served as North Carolina administrator, National Youth Administration, from 1938-42, and as staff assistant to the Better Health Assn., in North Carolina from 1946-47.

In 1961 he became a special assistant to the Secretary of the Air Force handling manpower, personnel and reserve forces, working in the department for Reserve and ROTC affairs. He became administrative assistant to the Secretary of the Air Force in 1964.

Lang's career in public service began as president of the National Student Government Federation in New York City in 1933-35, and as assistant to the Lang was vice chairman of the N. C. Democratic Convention in 1946.

He was commissioned a major in the Air Force in 1942 and served through 1946, reaching the rank of major general (reserve).

Born in Carthage in 1910, Lang was educated at the University of North Carolina and received his master's degree at UNC in 1930. He did graduate studies at Mercer University and was head of the English Department at Georgia Military Academy from 1931 to 1933.

S. Vietnamese Pursued Up To Their Border

By GEORGE ESPER
SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese drive against the Ho Chi Minh trail in southern Laos ended today with North Vietnamese tanks pursuing the Saigon troops right to their border. U.S. aircraft knocked out six tanks, spokesmen said.

More U.S. units which had supported the 45-day operation were pulled out of the border base of Khe Sanh, which is being closed out during the next three weeks.

Lt. Col. Do Viet, a spokesman for the South Vietnamese Command in Saigon, said the last fire base in Laos had been abandoned and the remaining 2,000 troops had marched through the hills to the border.

Allied spokesmen said U.S. helicopter gunships and fighter-bombers knocked out the six pursuing enemy tanks along a five-mile stretch of Highway 9 west of the Lao Bao border outpost. The U.S. Command said three of the tanks were 15 tonners.

The South Vietnamese Command's chief spokesman, Lt. Col. Tran Van An, said the South Vietnamese forces had accomplished 80 to 90 per cent of their objectives.

Field reports, however, said the operation had fallen far short of expectations and that it was closed out sooner than scheduled because of the battering the South Vietnamese were taking from North Vietnamese forces estimated to outnumber them 2 to 1.

The South Vietnamese claimed that 13,668 North Vietnamese troops were killed, but some U.S. officers in the field said this claim was greatly exaggerated.

By their own accounting, the South Vietnamese suffered heavily, admitting 1,146 troops killed, 245 missing, and 4,235 wounded. This total represents 25 per cent of the 22,000-man invading force and the South Vietnamese command considers 15 per cent casualties a heavy loss.

Half of an armored column of more than 200 tanks and armored personnel carriers was wiped out, field reports said.

U.S. intelligence sources said North Vietnamese forces already have moved back into some segments of the Ho Chi Minh trail cut by the South Vietnamese and were repairing them, including the key transportation hub of Sepone, on Highway 9 25 miles west of the border.

Consumer Protection A Duty, Declares Morgan

Consumer protection on the part of a public advocate dates back more than three centuries but has become more important and necessary today than ever before, says N. C. Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan.

Morgan has established a division of Consumer Protection within his department since becoming the state's chief legal officer in 1969.

"Not only did we have the duty and responsibility to protect the public's interest, but we also had ample legal authority to do so," Morgan said here last night. He said one of the first anti-trust cases in legal history occurred in 1663 when the crown's attorney went to court against the beer barons of London who had conspired to fix prices.

This, Morgan said, constituted "an unlawful conspiracy in restraint of trade" and the case became established in England common law.

"Most of the things we are doing are historic under the Common Law of England," Morgan told an audience of nearly 200 in the auditorium of the Political Science Department at East Carolina University. His lecture on the "Role of Public Advocate" was sponsored by the ECU Political Science Club.

Saying that "the right of free enterprise has never included the right of defraud," Morgan said he had discovered "amazing" instances of fraud on the part of "fly by night" operators. These, he said, include "con artists" purportedly financing indoor toilets and plumbing and installation of aluminum siding under "unconscionable" arrangements. Similar fraud has occurred in "paper" financial arrangements for the building of apartments, motels and rest homes.

He cited misrepresentation and fraudulent advertising as two fertile fields for fraud. "Bait and switch advertising is just indefensible," he said. But it goes on.

Morgan hinted of further investigations and legal actions by his Consumer Protection division in the near future. He attacked monopolies and combines which fix prices, saying that concentration of power constitutes the greatest danger that exists to the free enterprise system.

He also said that his department continues to practice the "adversary" role on the part of the public interest in rate cases and services complaints concerning "protected" but regulated utilities such as electric and power companies.

sort of work. I think there are a good number of people in North Carolina that are financially able to make contributions to political campaigns and whose sole interest is that we have sound, honest government and who would like to feel that they could participate or at least would be consulted in regard to any substantial departure from past policies."

He declared that "unless I felt like I could take 15 years of experience in state government and use it effectively and really be effective as governor, I don't think that I would be willing to make the effort involved in running for governor.

"I think a man ought to tell the people what he realistically expects to do if elected," Taylor said. "Before I make a final decision I would develop some fairly specific ideas in this respect."

CAKE FROM CALIFORNIA Angel food is split and filled and frosted with whipped cream and a delicious candy called Coffee Crisp.

Coffee Crunch Cake Features Cream Icing

By Cecily Brownstone
Associated Press Food Editor

Coffee Crunch Cake is going the rounds. The first recipe for it we ever encountered appeared in a Colorado cookbook.

Now we find another version of this dessert in "Our Best," a collection of about 600 recipes compiled by the Volunteer League of San Fernando Valley, California.

Here's our version of the Coffee Crunch Cake in the "Our Best" cookbook.

COFFEE CRUNCH CAKE
1 package (14 1/2 ounces) angel food cake mix
Coffee Cream Frosting, see recipe

Prepare and bake cake in a 10-inch angel food cake pan according to package directions. Cool completely. Cut into 4 layers.

Stack layers spreading about 1 cup Coffee Cream Frosting and about 1 cup Coffee Crisp between each layer and remaining Coffee Cream Frosting and Coffee Crisp on top of cake.

Chill until ready to serve, but no longer than 2 to 3 hours; if chilled longer Coffee Crisp will begin to melt.

Makes 12 to 16 servings.

COFFEE CREAM FROSTING
2 containers (each 1/2 pint) heavy cream

2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon instant powdered or freeze-dried coffee
2 teaspoons vanilla
Whip cream until slightly thick; gradually beat in sugar; add coffee and vanilla and continue to beat until cream is very stiff. Makes about 4 cups.

COFFEE CRISP
1 tablespoon instant powdered or freeze-dried coffee
1/4 cup hot water
1 1/4 cups sugar
1/2 cup light corn syrup
1 teaspoon baking soda

In a heavy 3-quart saucepan dissolve the coffee in the hot water; stir in the sugar and corn syrup.

Over medium heat bring to a boil, stirring until sugar dissolves. Continue cooking, stirring occasionally to keep from scorching, until temperature reaches 300 degrees on a candy thermometer or until a small amount of mixture dropped into very cold water separates into threads that are hard and brittle. Remove from heat. Add baking soda. Stir until light colored and thick; do not destroy foam.

Pour into an ungreased square cake pan (9 by 9 by 2 inches); do not spread. Cool. Pound candy into small pieces.

Makes about 3/4 pound or 4 cups pieces.
Note: If the Coffee Crisp is made ahead, leave it in large pieces and store in a tightly covered tin box or tightly closed

Shower Given Miss Askew

Miss Boots Askew, bride-elect of April 11, was honored at a kitchen shower Friday night given by Miss Mary Anne Bilbro and Miss Kathy Morton at the home of Miss Morton in Brook Valley.

Upon arrival, the honoree was presented a corsage and gifts from the hostesses.

Mrs. John L. Askew, mother of the honoree, Mrs. Jay Mills, mother of the bridegroom-elect, Mrs. H. C. Haynes, grandmother of the bridegroom-elect, and Mrs. Charity Wooten were special guests.

Good-byes were said by Mrs. W. Z. Morton Jr., Mrs. William T. Bilbro, the hostesses and the honoree.

in the arm the industry needs to orbit it out of the fiscal doldrums—induced when the "midi" failed to make cash registers ring last fall.

A survey of industry sources shows acceptance of hot pants nationwide within several months of their introduction in fashion centers of the world is a phenomenon unique in American fashion history.

Virginia Bencid, of Bobbie Brooks, a giant among sportswear manufacturers (expecting to do $100 million in sales this year), said:

"These things, new items, usually catch on in the big metropolitan areas first on the East and West Coasts—and take a year to reach the hinterlands. Not so with hot pants. We're astounded."

Shipments Late
Among many firms the re-ordering is so frenetic that shipments are running late. Some manufacturers are making the fashion item in any fabric they can get their hands on.

When shipments run late in the industry, it's a sure sign of a runaway success. At Carol Curtis Sportswear, Larry Merzon, sales manager, said shipments on orders placed this week won't be made until April.

"We've shipped thousands already and it's the biggest thing we've ever experienced in business for over 20 years," he said. "We're happy, happy, happy."

Rudi Gerreich, one of the first among American designers to introduce hot pants last November, in a collection for Harmon Knitwear, apparently was right on target.

Soccer Team Needs 'Woman Haters'

NEWCASTLE, England (WNS) — Phyllis Wheat, 47, manages the Knutton soccer team here and reports that it will be the women's fault if her male team does badly on its Easter tour of France. Women Imagined The Worst In Crash Kilt For Wedding BERGERAC, France (WNS) — Andre Chabrefy, 60, got off his bicycle and was wheeling it across the railroad tracks when the train roared by. Three women who heard the crash fainted. Chabrefy, whose bicycle was smashed but who was not hurt himself, offered first aid to the ladies until an ambulance arrived. "Women have too vivid imaginations," he declared.

and they're "doing fantastically." Prices range from $25 to $50, sizes four to 14, and all fabrics.

At Jonathan Logan, another giant in the sportswear field, the report is the same. The most popular price range is $10 to $15.

There's even interest in hot pants at firms catering to fashion tastes of the mature woman—over 25 and in sizes up to a missy 14, which is larger than a petite or junior 14.

One of these, Pantempos, said the version for the mature woman comes with matching skirt that buttons up the front.

EDINBURGH, Scotland

"Harry's the comedian who gets all the laughs, but I'm the beauty who laughs last and gets the comic.

It costs you more to keep one frozen chicken than it does to keep five frozen chickens.

Incredible, but true. Because the less air space there is in your freezer, the less fuel or current it uses and the less you spend. And you don't want to waste a penny now with costs so high. (We know. Our operating expenses went up almost twice as much as our income last year!) So keep your freezer filled. Buy when foods are on sale. Bake extras for freezing when you bake. And check the hints below for other ways to save on the cost of refrigeration.

- 1 The more frost there is on the coils of your refrigerator, the more it costs to run it. Frost acts as unwanted insulation. So defrost before the ice deposit is 1/4" thick and save.
- 2 Keep the cold air where it belongs. Make sure your refrigerator door is airtight by closing it on a piece of paper. If the paper is easily pulled out, you know you're wasting cold air. And money.
- 3 Don't open the door to extra expense. Keep your trips in and out of the refrigerator down to a minimum, and encourage your family to follow suit. Remove as many of the foods you need as you can in one trip instead of repeatedly opening the door.
- 4 When you're away, even for the week end, turn the cold control dial of your refrigerator to its lowest operating point. Since the door will remain closed, food will stay cold.

Unlike most other necessities, your average cost per kilowatt-hour of electricity is actually lower now than it was twenty years ago. But if, like most homeowners, you're using four times as much now, your bill is probably higher. Nobody wants high bills. So Vepco's Home Economists offer these helpful hints. Follow them and save.

With everything costing more these days, electricity is about the only bargain left.

Club Plans Tour To Elizabethan Gardens In April

Members of the Greenville Garden Club have planned a spring tour of the Elizabethan Gardens on Roanoke Island and also the Dunes of Dare.

The tour group will leave Greenville on Tuesday, April 20, and will be returning the same day.

The 20th anniversary of the Elizabethan Gardens will be celebrated on Saturday afternoon, April 17, with a tea and tour of the garden.

All club members are asked to telephone Mrs. Katharine Adams, 752-5295, Mrs. J. Paul Davenport, 752-6929, or Miss Eunice McGee, 752-2397.

Parking for members attending will be available in the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church parking lot located on Greene Street.

Drain canned crushed pineapple and add brown sugar and cider vinegar to taste; turn into a pie plate and dot with butter. Bake in a moderate oven until hot through. Serve as a delicious accompaniment for duck.

Liquid leftover after cooking vegetables may be used for diluting canned soup.

Woman Power Comes To Finland

By KIRSTI SAARI
HELSINKI (UPI) — Woman power has come to Finland, well after it began making itself felt elsewhere in Europe and in the United States.

Activist woman power, that is. Women's liberation began in Finland long ago. They won the vote in 1906. The present government includes three female ministers, and 44 women sit in the 200-member Finnish Parliament. Fifty per cent of the country's university and college students are women, three quarters of Finland's dentists and 25 per cent of its doctors are women.

Gals Have Answers
So there are many who wonder, how much more liberation—or power—does the Finnish woman need?

The female activists have their answers. They cite statistics to show that although women make up half the country's working force, women on the average earn only 60 per cent as much as men for equivalent work; women hold only four per cent of all executive posts, only 6.4 per cent of those presenting doctoral theses are women, and women hold only 2.5 per cent of university chairs.

With these and other arguments, a group of women in Turku have formed what they call the "First Chapter of Women Power in Finland."

The rebellious ladies say all professions are open to women but are women allowed full freedom to work? They point out mothers are forced to stay at home because day care places for children are too few and daily help is so difficult to get.

Many Blame Men
Many women blame men for their situation. A recent study among working women showed that 70 per cent of wives had no help from their husbands in daily housekeeping chores. The study also disclosed that the Finnish male still hates to have his wife go to work.

Said Mrs. Irja Ketonen, Managing Editor of one of the country's largest newspapers: "It still is a man's world but it is the woman's own fault."

In her opinion women do not know their own strength and they do not know how to introduce a common front. Now, they're trying to do something about it. With a "First Chapter" of woman power formed, can a second—and third—be far behind?

Mrs. Billica Is Speaker

Mrs. Harry Billica presented the program at the meeting of the Dig 'N Delve Garden Club held at the home of Mrs. Eric Fearrington.

"Orchids" was the subject of the program. The selection, varieties, care and cross-pollination of orchids were explained and illustrated by some specimens from Mrs. Billica's collection.

Final plans were made for the club's project of landscaping a plot of ground in front of Elm Street gym.

Members were urged to participate in the Greenville Garden Show to be held March 30.

Butts Barred In Boarding House

FLACHAU, Austria (WNS) — "Any lady is welcome except Lady Nicotine," is the slogan of Weinstadt, the first "non-smokers" boarding house in Austria. The non-smokers pension includes a "smokeless" night club for 90 customers. Special rooms are reserved for smokers merely giving up nicotine during their vacations and for those who are trying to break the habit. "So far the sexes are equally represented here," reported the management.

She's A Bigamist—Manhattan Woman What's The Price? Image Is Mrs. Average

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)
DEAR ABBY: My husband and I separated in November of '69 for a year. We are now back together and happier than ever. My problem is that during that year I lived with another man. In fact, I married him. I know that makes me a bigamist. I told my real husband about it and he said he doesn't care as long as we are together and happy now.

My questions: What would the law do to me if they found out? And how can I correct this big mistake?

MASSACHUSETTS MESS

DEAR MESS: Under Massachusetts law, the penalty for bigamy is, state prison for not more than five years; or jail for not more than 2½ years; or a fine of not more than $500. [The choice is the judge's, not the bigamist's.]

In Massachusetts a bigamist need not do anything about a second or bigamous marriage because it is no marriage at all, and is void without a decree of divorce or other legal process. However, there may be advantages to having the bigamous marriage judicially annulled, but it is best to wait six years until the time to prosecute has run out.

I advise you to consult a lawyer. The law is full of exceptions and unique situations and it is dangerous to generalize. Besides, I don't have a license to practice law in the state of Massachusetts. [Or any other state.]

DEAR ABBY: We purposely do not have ashtrays in our home because we don't want people to smoke in our house. Yet some folks will look for an ashtray, and when they don't find any they will smoke anyway and use anything else that is handy. [The saucer of a coffee cup, a candy dish, wastepaper basket, or even put the ashes in their cupped hand!]

Is there any way we can let people know that we do not want smoking in our home?

HATES SMOKE

DEAR HATES: Yes, you could tell 'em!

DEAR ABBY: I have never hit a woman in my life, but I have come mighty close to it a couple of times in the last few months.

My wife uses my razor to shave her legs and she leaves the used blade in the razor. This gets me hopping mad and she knows it, but she does it anyway.

Don't tell me to buy her a razor exactly like mine because I've done that, but she uses mine anyway. I have also given her an electric shaver designed especially for ladies, but it's still in the original box. Any suggestions before I belt her one?

MIKE

DEAR MIKE: Either take your razor to work with you, or lock it up when you leave.

DEAR ABBY: In regards to the mother who wanted some idea of how much to charge her son when he returned from Viet Nam. She should be thankful he's coming back. On the other hand, he might have gotten zapped, and she'd have collected $15,000.

Bridegroom Was Just Too Shy

BRUSSELS, Belgium (WNS) — Jeanne Dumesnil, 27, held her wedding banquet one day before the wedding and warned the guests in advance that her groom would not be present. "Rik doesn't like parties and is too embarrassed to accept marital ribbing," she said. Next day she married Rik Sprigel and set off for honeymoon in Argentina, "where nobody knows us."

trouble of starting the car on cold mornings or shoveling out after a snowstorm, the city resident has to cope with teacher, taxi, bus and garbage strikes and a thick layer of soot on all the furniture that daily defies dust cloths.

On the plus side, the Manhattanite has the cultural benefits of the great city museums—but as she takes her youngsters to see the Picassos and Rembrandts, she wishes instead she could show them a live lightning bug.

The Manhattan matron, despite the problems of city living, may say she wouldn't trade it for the world. She loves the fast-pace of the city, the sense of being where it's at and being the envy of country friends for her "glamorous life."

Health Society Gives 'Fashion' Hints
WUPPERTAL, West Germany (WNS) — Hot pants may help a girl's social circulation, but they will also ruin her health if she hasn't got excellent blood circulation. Such is the report of the local health society which offers these hot pants suggestions to local frauleins:

1. Go for brisk walks instead of sports-car rides.
2. While watching TV, lift both legs into the air and wave each foot in circles.
3. Cut down on potatoes, noodles and fancy cakes.
4. Eat fresh fruits and vegetables at all meals.
5. Watch your hips and thighs as carefully as the men do.
6. Wiggle your toes at least ten times a day, and pretend that you are playing the piano with your feet.
7. Setting-up exercises first thing every morning and before going out on dates with a red-blooded male.

The country wife has instant mobility in the form of the family car. The Manhattan matron has the subway or bus—and squashed toes, elbows in the ribs and a clanging headache. Taxis are illusive—and expensive.

The country matron envies the Manhattanite her access to the theater, restaurants and nightclubs. But with teen-agers scarce, and professional baby-sitters' rates twice that of the country average, the city wife spends most of her evenings just as the country wife does—in front of the television set.

FAMILY DINNER

Skillet Chicken Hominy Grits
Snap Beans Salad Bowl

Phyll's Cake Pudding
PHYLL'S CAKE PUDDING

It's made from leftover cake.
2 cups milk

2 tablespoons sugar
2 cups coarsely crumbled dry white or yellow cake crumbs

2 large eggs
½ teaspoon vanilla

Butter six 6-ounce custard cups. Into a small saucepan pour milk and sugar and heat until very hot. In a medium mixing bowl beat eggs enough to combine yolks and whites; gradually and vigorously stir in hot milk mixture; add cake crumbs and vanilla and mix well. Ladle into prepared custard cups being careful to distribute solids evenly. Place pans in a roasting pan and fill with enough hot water to come halfway up cups. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until a knife blade comes out clean—40 to 50 minutes. Serve warm with sour cream. Makes 6 servings. (If you have leftover cinnamon buns that are on the dry side, you may crumble them and use as part of the cake crumbs called for.)

AFTER-SCHOOL TREAT
Red Apple Wedges
Molasses Crunch Milk
MOLASSES CRUNCH

Please your youngsters with this easy-to-put-together sweet.
½ cups semi-sweet chocolate pieces

¼ cup light molasses
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon water

½ cups toasted ready-to-eat crisp rice cereal
½ cup raisins

Into a medium saucepan turn the chocolate, molasses, butter and water. Stir constantly over low heat until chocolate and butter are melted. Remove from heat. Add cereal and raisins; mix well. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto wax paper. Refrigerate until set. Makes about 3 dozen.

The Profession Lacks Refinement

MANCHESTER, England (WNS) — After her husband won $365,000 in the football pools in 1961, Vivian Nicholson made headlines by declaring that they would "spend, spend, spend!" Now hubby Keith is dead, and Vivian has given up her nightclub career after a five-week tryout. Mrs. Nicholson, now 34, was paid $120 a week to strip to the waist twice nightly at a local club. "It's not the glamorous life one imagines," she commented. "Performers shout, swear, and tear each other apart. The profession lacks refinement."

Americans spent $42 billion on health care in 1969—up 139 per cent over 10 years earlier.

Hard To Begrudge Their Need

There seemed to be a considerable difference of opinion between Congress and the president on increasing Social Security benefits and the manner of paying for the increases.

President Nixon had recommended a six percent increase with an increase in the income base on which Social Security taxes are paid from $7,800 to $9,000 this year.

Congress, however, adopted a ten percent increase and postponed that tax increase until Jan. 1.

The president signed the measure last week even though it was not exactly what he asked.

Average payments for an individual were increased from $114 a month to $126. For a couple, the increase is from $199 to $219. Maximum payment for a retiring worker went from $193.70 to $213.10.

Side By Side; Poles Apart

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — The legislator and the state official work for the same boss, often side by side but still poles apart.

The citizen lawmaker finds state government in Raleigh complex and baffling, particularly on first acquaintance. It's easy for him to see agency heads as bureaucrats more intent on structure than service.

The career office holder has learned caution while the legislature is in town and making up the budget. He looks upon General Assembly members as politicians without an understanding of the machinery of government and how it works.

"It's two different worlds," agreed Edgar J. (Red) Gurganus who has been on the former side and now is on the latter.

He walks the line between the two, easing the flow of communication to make for a smoother partnership during the 71 General Assembly session.

The red-haired Williamston attorney wears the title of legislative liaison officer for state government. His sub-basement office in the Department of Administration building is the conduit for information from the maze of state government departments and agencies to individual legislators.

Filling A Need
The job is new. The wonder is it hasn't been done before. "I was certainly aware of the need when I was in the State Senate," said Gurganus.

"You don't have time for research when you're in the legislature. If you have a question about some aspect of state government, you're not sure where or who to call. Sometimes response is slow, and when you get an answer it may seem the department has put it in the most favorable light to itself."

Gurganus' role is intermediary. Legislators give him their requests; he routes them properly and sees that the information gets back promptly and in the form the lawmaker wanted.

Liaison doesn't mean lobbyist in his case, Gurganus said. Dr. William Turner, director of administration, made it clear that the position is to serve the legislators without bias or partisanship, he explained. "What I am doing would lose its value if misleading or slanted information were given," he said.

Good Cooperation Noted
Turner notified all state agencies and departments that cooperation would be expected in the new undertaking. It's been 100 percent, Gurganus said. "In fact, I think state officials generally have been glad to have a channel like this to reach the General Assembly," he added. "On several occasions, I've had them ask me to help clear up some simple misunderstandings with individual legislators."

Gurganus sent a memo to every General Assembly member at the start of the session, offering services of the office. Even so, it took time for them to find him. Now, two months along, word-of-mouth has spread and he stays busy.

He consulted a tally sheet and reported that requests from 67 different legislators have been handled. One hour spent recently in the State Legislative Building resulted in five separate queries to be followed up, he said.

Some requests can be handled routinely and rapidly. Others take time and digging. There are those which run into a blank space.

Abortion Question Raised
For example, when the House was considering legislation dealing with abortion, a Representative asked Gurganus how many were performed in North Carolina last year, where and for what reasons.

"I thought it would be simple to check with the State Board of Health which receives reports of births, deaths and other vital statistics," Gurganus said. "To my surprise, I learned there is no law requiring that abortions be reported."

The 1,038 abortions reported in 1969 represented only voluntary reports, the majority from one hospital. After consultation, Gurganus estimated it was 30 to 35 percent of the total.

Life for Gurganus these days runs on the same track it followed when he was in the '63 and '69 sessions of the Second Senate District. He goes home Friday for weekend law practice, gets back to Raleigh in time to begin another week Tuesday morning. He puts up at a Raleigh motel where nearly half of the General Assembly membership is in residence, which means after hours socializing with legislative friends and keeping up with what's going on.

The minimum went from $64 a month to $70.40.

Some experts see the increase as a means of stimulating the economy and certainly it will do this since it will mean $3.6 billion additional for 26 million Americans.

For a few of the recipients the money is not critical, but for the large majority of these recipients, Social Security is the bulk of their income and the increase will be spent as they attempt to off set the decreasing value of their retirement dollar due to inflation.

It would be difficult to begrudge our older citizens this increase in Social Security payments. This is the group which is hardest hit by inflation since they live on fixed incomes. If we cannot control inflation in our nation then we must do something to ease the burden for senior citizens who are steadily seeing their dollars buy less.

Burns vs. The White House

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Another sign of the rapidly widening gap between the White House and Dr. Arthur Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, appeared last week when Sen. Vance Hartke of Indiana allied himself with Burns in introducing a tax incentive bill proposed by the Nixon administration.

Hardly any one noticed when Hartke proposed a bill to reduce businessmen's taxes by 10 percent of investment for plant and equipment (higher than the old 7 percent investment credit) to juice up the economy. What went totally unnoticed was Hartke's statement that Burns "has now openly declared his support" for tax credits.

Indeed, in two private conversations, Hartke won Burns' outright endorsement — stronger than Burns' Senate testimony March 10 that the investment credit should be considered "if the rebound in economic activity" falls short. Moreover, such collaboration between Burns, Mr. Nixon's adviser of 15 years, and Hartke, a particularly harsh Administration critic, symbolizes a major truth in Washington today.

That truth is that Burns with statutory independence running America's central bank, is increasingly unhappy with economic policy at the White House. And in the winter of 1971, that confronts him with the mighty George Shultz, who as chief of the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) is second only to the President in conducting domestic affairs.

Except for mutual abhorrence of mandatory wage-price controls, Burns and Shultz disagree about almost everything — for example, how to control inflation. Shultz has advised the President the Wage and Price Review Board, proposed publicly and privately by Burns, is useless.

The real tension between them today, however, concerns economic recovery. Burns believes the Federal Reserve can go no farther expanding the money supply and that a badly needed confidence-gainer for the economy must now come from the tax system — such as reinstating investment credits. The White House line, set by Shultz, is that there would be no need for tax stimulation if only the Fed pumps out money at high, steady rate. Shultz feels it is not, and puts the blame on Burns.

But this is no mere academic debate between two former economic professors (Columbia's Burns and Chicago's Shultz). Non-academic White House staffers deeply resent Burns' public admissions that recovery simply has not arrived and grumble over the Fed's independence. The distinctive nasal drawl of Burns has become a favorite target for White House mimics.

More insidious is the White House intent, privately admitted by some aides, to make Burns and the Fed the scapegoat if the economy is late recovering. However implausible it is to experienced politicians, some Presidential aides actually think they can convince Mrs. Average Citizen that Arthur Burns, not Richard Nixon, is to blame for her husband's unemployment.

The hostility is reciprocal. Burns has partisans high in the Administration who privately snipe at Shultz, contending he is not fit to debate macro-economics with Burns and that he misunderstands the subtler workings of the Federal Reserve System.

Moreover, Burns cultivates the political pastures far more intensively than his predecessor, William McCleskey Martin. His contacts on Capitol Hill are excellent, as in a recent discussion of the economic doldrums and possible investment credits with Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. They essentially agreed (although Mills will wait before deciding whether to introduce the investment credit bill he has drafted).

For all his Congressional contacts, however, old comrade Burns does not have a fraction of the influence with Mr. Nixon today of newcomer Shultz. The self-possessed, well-organized manager that the President so much admires, Shultz is the only stranger in this Administration whom Mr. Nixon has truly taken into his confidence on domestic affairs. For now and into the foreseeable future, his is the dominant economic voice.

Strength For Today

SPEAKING OF WEALTH
What is wealth? Materially, wealth consists of money, land, acquired skills and increased sales of necessary products.

We can get ourselves into trouble aplenty if we regard wealth only from the material standpoint. Never in world history have there been as many multi-millionaires (and a few billionaires) as we find in the world today. Yet there are people starving even in this prosperous country of ours. There are situations of child neglect that horrify us. Personally we all need more money than we have. Sufficient funds are a rarity. The Father of our Country, George Washington, was a man of wealth, yet when he was notified that he had been elected first President of the United States he had to drive into Alexandria the next day and borrow ten thousand dollars to pay his outstanding bills. In recent years some of the wealthiest men in the United States had to borrow money

(in fact, make such borrowing a continuous policy) in order to pay their income taxes.

The basic elements of wealth are, of course, sound character and the possession of certain skills which result in satisfactory income. No bank in the country would lend money to a known criminal. One of the richest men in the United States today is a famous comedian who also has the gift of knowing where to buy real estate and when.

Even diligent students of the Bible often miss the fact that Jesus was interested in money. The Parables of the Talents (Matthew 25:14-39); "The Rich Fool" (Luke 12:16-21); "The Hidden Treasure" (Matthew 13:44); "The Pearl of Great Price" (Matthew 13:45) — the Master talked a great deal about riches, but he had none himself. He possessed only a seamless gown that the soldiers cast lots for as their Prisoner died on the cross (John 19:23, 24).

A Change In The Times

WASHINGTON — If everybody in the country is becoming schizophrenic, they're entitled to it. Even the banks have gone bananas. Just a few months ago, because of the tight money situation, it was impossible to get a loan from a bank. In order to attract deposits, they were offering everything from hot water bottles to color television sets if people would just leave their savings in for 90 days.

You can imagine my surprise then, when I turned on the radio the other day and heard a commercial for my bank which said that anyone borrowing more than $500 would get a free fondue cooking set.

I couldn't believe it, so I rushed down to the bank to see my friend Stokesbury, who is a vice president.

"Stokesbury," I said, "what is this about you offering a fondue cooking set if someone borrows $500 or more?"

"It's true," Stokesbury said. "If you don't want a fondue cooking set, we'll give you a wooden salad bowl with an ox-boned butter knife."

"But I was here three months ago, pleading with you for a loan of $500 and you threw me out," I said.

"I hope you're not the kind of person who holds a grudge," Stokesbury said. "Here's $500, and to show you there are no hard feelings, I'll loan you another $10,000 at the prime interest rate."

"No dice," I said. "As a matter of fact, I'm thinking of making a deposit."

"Oh, no," cried Stokesbury, "don't make a deposit. Everybody is making deposits. We need people to borrow money, not to save it."

"I don't understand what's happened in just three months to turn you around," I said.

Stokesbury held his head in his hands. "It's fear. People are afraid of being thrown out of work. If Kellerman of Chestnut Street loses his job, everybody else on Chestnut Street suddenly becomes frightened and says, 'Let's put the money in the bank. We could be next.' No one wants to get into debt any more. How can we have a thriving economy if people SAVE, SAVE, SAVE, SAVE?"

"I'm very sympathetic to your problem, Stokesbury," I said, "and I wish I could help (Continued On Page 5)

Other Editors Say Lesson For U.S.

(Jacksonville Daily News)
Last December 28, four men were arrested in a deserted farmhouse near Montreal and charged with the kidnap-murder of Quebec government official Pierre Laporte, who had been abducted by Quebec liberationists on October 10 and found strangled six days later.

Within three months, Paul Rose, the first of the defendants to be brought to trial, was tried by jury, found guilty and sentenced to life imprisonment. The actual trial lasted seven weeks.

In New Haven, during those same three months plus one, a superior court struggled, and finally succeeded the other day, in seating a jury of 12 and two alternates in the trial of Black Panther Bobby Seale. Along with a female codefendant, Seale is charged with aiding and abetting the kidnap-murder of fellow Panther Alex Rackley in May, 1969.

No less than 1,550 prospective jurors were called over the four months and 1,035 actually questioned. Subtracting 14 from 1,035 leaves 1,021 persons who were excused by the court for various reasons or rejected by defense and prosecution attorneys as too biased to render a fair verdict.

The selection of the jury took longer than any jury in Connecticut, if not U. S., history. The size of the venire (prospective jurors) may also be a national record. It remains to be seen what kind of record the trial itself sets.

The huge venire was made necessary by the extensive pretrial publicity that surrounded the indictments. Yet that publicity was mute in comparison to the international uproar created by the murder of Laporte in the wake of which civil liberties were suspended throughout Canada and the Quebec Liberation party outlawed.

Comparisons are odious, they say. Try another one. In January 1970, five men and two women were indicted for murder of United Mine Workers official Joseph A. Yablonski. Jury selection has not even begun in these cases.

It isn't black or white men who can't get justice in the United States. It's dead men.

Hazards In Bovine Acceptance

By ELMER ROESSNER

One of the greatest yet often overlooked dangers of inflation is that it eventually becomes accepted. People become conditioned to it.

It becomes a way of life. The ancient Aztecs are supposed to have taken their most beautiful maiden each year and cast her into a vast well. The parents, her suitors, and the people came to accept this sacrificial murder; the girl welcomed it as a great honor. There is grave danger that Americans may at sometime accept continuing inflation as a way of life, like they accept the common cold and rain in Indianapolis.

It may be that we are approaching that point of acceptance. There are certain significant indicators:

Both employers and the public seem willing to accept ever larger wage increases. Increases are laid off in higher prices. In the last few weeks there have been several wage demands for 25 per cent increases over the next two years. Nobody sees any outrage in this, although 20 to 30 per cent without Maizie Doakes screaming in the streets or throwing rocks through butchers' windows. Maizie is accepting more inflation as something to live with, such as old Joe Doakes.

There's a belief that the General Motors strike was a mistake; GM should have given in right away. GM eventually gave the Autoworkers what they wanted; meanwhile it had lost perhaps $40 billion of its own, its suppliers', the public's and the Treasury's money by not surrendering right away.

Government Leads Parade
The government is committing itself to a whirlwind of inflation. The Federal Reserve is pumping billions of dollars into the economy to get the boom rolling again. It is flooding the pipelines of finance with so much money that interest rates on loans have dropped

Seeks Better Image

By ROBERT MUSEL
LONDON (UPI)—A New Yorker who moved to Britain to find "a better political climate" has taken lately to phoning the British Broadcasting Corporation and snarling: "So it's another anti-American night, eh?"

There are Americans who make the same protests from time to time to the networks of other European countries. They are reacting to a wave of criticism of the United States and most of its works sweeping the continent.

The expatriate New Yorker, for one, said it is turning him into—and he used to cringe at the word—a patriot.

Recently Frank Shakespeare, Director of the U.S. Information Service (USIS) left his Washington base for a quick trip to Europe to take a reading on the current state of the American image. He was a thoughtful man when he talked about it in Monaco where he had gone to look over the Monte Carlo television festival. Shakespeare was only gathering information on this trip and not ready to announce any conclusions, but USIS is responsible for presenting the real America to the world and there was little joy in the reports he got from expert non-governmental observers who live respectively in Paris, Rome and London.

One of the few bright glimmers came from the London man who said those Britons taking advantage of the new low-rate tours to the United States were mostly returning enthusiastic about what they had seen. Often they returned home wondering why they had gotten so misleading an impression from their own media.

This advertising of the America most foreigners never see on their own TV or in the news columns of their newspapers is a U.S. travel service project that Shakespeare heartily endorses. That night in Monaco, at a dinner given by Prince Rainier and Princess Grace (who never forgets she was a Kelly of Philadelphia) he heard much criticism by America's admirers of the way the United States was being depicted abroad.

The general theme was that, because so much of the candid American soul-searching in films or on television is misunderstood when it is shown in other countries, it is a pity some of this cannot be kept at home. Shakespeare said there was absolutely no way of preventing the export of such material and no American administration would have it otherwise.

"That would be censorship," he said, "and I wouldn't be part of any government that wanted such censorship."

What Washington would like to see, if it were possible, would be "a good mix on opinions" in place of the heavily one-sided treatment of American affairs in some places.

Shakespeare has a number of ideas jelling. For one thing he thinks there should be more intensive American TV network participation in cultural events such as the Monte Carlo TV festival and this will be encouraged for 1972. For another he is taking soundings on the idea of live television programs from the White House.

Disappearance Of Train Cars To Grand Jury

By LEE LINDER
Associated Press Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The diversion of 277 Penn Central Railroad freight cars and the alleged changing of their identity in an Illinois repair shop goes today before a federal grand jury probing organized crime.

"This is a new phase of our work," said William Spriggs, an attorney for the Federal Task Force on Organized Crime. He and Robert Ozer, another Justice Department lawyer, are directing the investigation.

The cars apparently began disappearing early in 1970 after being switched from the nation's largest railroad to the tracks of the little LaSalle & Bureau County Railroad, 100 miles southwest of Chicago.

U.S. Atty. Louis C. Bechtel, who first disclosed what he called "sketchy and incomplete" details of the railroad car scheme, said four businessmen, whom he did not name, would be the first witnesses before the 23-member panel. The jury also will sift records the FBI seized from the tiny railroad, which only has 15 miles of track, and from Magna Earth Enterprises, Inc., a firm which rents office and shop space from LaSalle.

Magna Earth reportedly repairs and repaints freight cars and leases them.

Joseph Cinotto Jr., general manager of the LaSalle, denied participating in any wrongdoing.

"This is all a terrible mistake," he told newsmen when the story first broke. "I really don't know what happened."

"The whole thing is still being investigated by the FBI," Spriggs said. "The facts have not been sufficiently developed to tell exactly how this scheme operated or was manipulated."

He added he also didn't know how many of the missing cars have been located.

At the present stage he is thinking along the lines of something called "An Evening (or an afternoon) at the White House" in which President Nixon would play host to American artists and to ambassadors. The broadcasts would go out live and would be transmitted overseas by satellite.

"There's a certain pizzaz to doing it live," said Shakespeare, who was a vice president of CBS-TV. He said Nixon had worried at one time about having television cameras in the White House. The success abroad of the "Duke Ellington at the White House" show may have inspired the new idea which is still in the discussion phase.

Another current USIS project that Shakespeare hopes will help set a good will pattern for the future is distribution of the Bell System family theatre TV program, "It Couldn't be Done." "Bell gave USIS the rights to place it around the world after it ran twice on NBC-TV," he said. "There's been very good reaction wherever it's been shown. It explains how obstacles of nature were overcome—the Hoover Dam, the Panama Canal, the tube under the Hudson River. You've got to be careful about what you show and where you show it. Sometimes what is meant to encourage a developing nation will discourage it by showing how far it has to go."

"But the achievements in this program were accomplished within a single lifetime and so they know anything is possible." He said USIS would be happy to be given the international distribution rights to other films of this type.

"But it has to be completely voluntary on their part (the makers)," he said, "otherwise it looks like the long arm of government."

Commissioner Files In Ayden

AYDEN — Harry Mumford has filed for re-election as commissioner from Ward Five in the municipal election here May 3.

The owner of Mumford Market in Ayden, Mumford is a member of the Rotary Club and is a Mason. He is a member of the First Baptist Church here where he serves on the board of deacons.

He is married to the former Lenora Haller of Hopewell, Va., and they have three children.

you out by borrowing money, but my wife says we should put something aside for a rainy day."

"You could be dead by the time it rains," Stokesbury shouted at me. "Listen, suppose I make you a token loan of $200, payable at your convenience, and I throw in a washer and dryer. Would you go for it?"

"I don't know."
"What do you want, my blood?" Stokesbury cried. "I haven't made a loan in a week. Help me!" He was down on his knees. "Please, help me."

"All right," I said. "I'll borrow the $200 but we want the washer, dryer and the fondue cooking set."
"It's yours," said Stokesbury, shoving the $200 in my pocket.

After he helped me load the washer, dryer and fondue set into the car, he grabbed my hand warmly and said, "I'll never forget this."

I turned away so I wouldn't cry.

Chevrolet Impala.

All the reason you could want for buying a big car.

Impala. Big in what it builds in for you. Like a longer, smoother wheelbase that absorbs much of what your body used to. A new double panel roof that absorbs much of the noise your ears used to. More roominess than any other car in its field. A new power ventilation system that keeps on bringing you outside air, even when the car's standing still. You even get standard power disc brakes, up front. Impala. Big in built-ins. Big in trade-in value.

And now, two new reasons for buying something sportier.

Announcing Rally Nova. 60th Anniversary Special No.1.

Chevrolet's been making cars now for 60 years. That's reason to celebrate. And to offer you Rally Nova. Which is a regular Nova we've done up. By adding accent stripes. A black grille. A remote-control sport mirror. Color-keyed carpeting. Bright roof molding. A special suspension. And wider 14 x 6 rally wheels. We offer you a selection of the standard 6 or V8 engine. Or a bigger V8. All run just fine on no-lead, low-lead gasoline, too. Rally Nova. The economy car that puts you first by looking like it costs a lot more than it does.

Announcing Heavy Chevy. 60th Anniversary Special No.2.

It's a Chevelle with a heavy accent on making its presence felt. As evidenced by its special stripes. Special identification on the side. Special domed hood with lock pins. Black grille. And 14 x 6 rally wheels. Some more nice things: It's available with our standard V8, or three bigger engines. Which all move right out on no-lead or low-lead gasoline. Heavy Chevy. Only its price is light.

Unsure Over Voting Bill

RALEIGH (AP) — The sponsor of a bill to lower the voting age in North Carolina to 18 says he's not sure yet whether the General Assembly should enact his bill, ratify a U.S. Constitutional amendment or both.

The proposed federal amendment to lower the voting age to 18 cleared the Congress Tuesday.

Rep. Jim Beatty, D-Mecklenburg, is sponsoring a bill to lower the state's voting age. The bill has been passed unanimously by the House and is now in a Senate committee.

Beatty said he has asked Deputy Atty. Gen. James Bullock to look into appropriate action in light of the Congressional decision.

Beatty's bill would have to be ratified by the voters in a special election in order to take effect before the 1972 elections. The special referendum would cost the state between $200,000 and $300,000.

If the necessary 38 states ratify the federal amendment in time, the special election would be unnecessary. But there is a chance it would not be ratified in time for 1972.

John Sanders, director of the Institute of Government, suggested that Beatty's bill could be amended to specify that if the federal amendment is ratified by Sept. 1, 1971, the special election on the state amendment would be cancelled.

Black Americans

while working full time as a juvenile officer in South Central Los Angeles at night.

So the path was hard in the 10 years to 1962, when Lloyd was appointed a deputy city attorney in the Los Angeles city attorney's office. He served as chief prosecutor of the criminal division, an unprecedented assignment for a Negro. He and his 25 deputy prosecutors won 140 of 145 jury trials.

Lloyd taught law at Van Norman University and in 1964 entered private law practice. He is a sought-after public speaker and likes to talk about his founding YIFA, whose watchword Lloyd says is, "I can."

One of YIFA's chief goals is to reshape the philosophy of the underprivileged by hammering home the message of America's greatness, not its shortcomings, Lloyd explains.

"I want to confront the dissenters on America's campuses," he said. "It isn't right that men such as Rap Brown and Stokely Carmichael attract every important medium to hear them tell how they want to destroy America, while I am speaking to eight sleepy PTA members about what's good in America."

Lloyd has been called an "Uncle Tom" by some of his Negro detractors, but so have many other black leaders. It's often the price for trying to look at the black and white side of the ledger at the same time.

"America is not a perfect country," Lloyd concedes. Then he adds: "Just the best."

In Los Angeles, where Charles Lloyd already has written his name in indelible characters, nobody knows much about Joseph B. Williams.

Nonetheless, some 3,000 miles away in New York City, Williams has etched his mark in firm letters. He still is doing it.

Williams, born in Annapolis, Md., in 1921, has been a merchant mariner, a Navy Seabee during World War II and a practicing attorney in Brooklyn. Then he went back to war in Korea to become the first Navy river pilot and later a Navy legal officer.

Finally it all added up to a Republican political career which found Williams in John Lindsay's corner as general campaign coordinator for Brooklyn and Queens in Lindsay's successful 1965 campaign for mayor of New York.

Joe Williams was appointed to the New York Family Court in 1966. He planned to stay for the full 10-year term. But it was not to be. Last January he was named administrator of New York's Model Cities Program. It is a post with frightening responsibilities and a new challenge every day to wipe out slums and replace them with new low-cost housing.

In the days when he had some time to spare, Joe Williams liked to play baseball. Now, Williams admits wistfully, he has become only a spectator.

Williams says his new job and his post on the bench have at least one common denominator.

"There is so little money for so many important and such badly needed services for the people of New York, he contends. "In both cases, the money is needed to improve the quality of life in the city."

A short, partly bald man with a luxuriant moustache, Joe Williams says that much of what I saw in the Family Court is being put into my work here."

John Edmonds, director of the Model Cities Program for Harlem and East Harlem, says Williams makes a major contribution to solution of urban rehabilitation problems because "he is a guy who is of these communities. He has the people's approach to the problems."

"His law practice was based in the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn and he always lived very close to the community."

Despite his new responsibilities as chief of a giant urban rehabilitation program, Williams still finds time to head the Board of Trustees of the Cornerstone Baptist Church and serve on the Bedford-Stuyvesant Restoration Corp. board of directors, along with membership of official duties in a dozen other civic, cultural or legal organizations.

New College Prexy Named

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Dr. John H. Chandler, an executive of the Danforth Foundation in St. Louis, Mo., has been named the new president of Salem College and Academy.

Chandler is scheduled to take over July 1, succeeding Dale H. Gramley, who has resigned effective June 30 after serving since 1950. His selection by the trustees was announced Tuesday.

Chandler, 42, is vice president of the Danforth Foundation and an ordained Episcopal minister with a Ph. D. degree in literature and theology from the University of Chicago. He has done research in literature at Oxford University and has taught at Dartmouth College, the University of California at Los Angeles and Ohio University.

He is a trustee of Newton College in Massachusetts.

Salem College is for girls, although there are a few men day students. The academy or college preparatory division is for girls only. Both are affiliated with the Moravian Church.

TEACHING TIME

NEW YORK (AP) — Carl Sandburg said, "Time is a great teacher," but Bulova Watch Co. researchers report teaching time is a different matter. According to a recent survey, children are usually 8 or 9 years-old before they can fully comprehend the length of a month.

Several Scholars Have Role In 2-Day Program

The Latin American Symposium, a two day program on the theme "Emerging Perspectives," is being held at East Carolina University on Thursday and Friday, March 25 and 26.

Several scholars noted for their backgrounds and experiences in Latin American affairs will be featured speakers in the two day symposium.

Among these are Dr. Eulalia Lobo, visiting professor of history from the University of South Carolina. Dr. Lobo will speak at 2:00 p. m. Thursday on "Brazil: Vargas and After." A native of Brazil, she is well versed on the political affairs of the largest South American republic.

Also on Thursday, Werner Stenzel, assistant professor of anthropology at East Carolina University, will give a lecture on "Quetzalcoatl," the Aztec god. The opening talk, scheduled for Thursday morning and to be delivered by Raymond E. Crist, Research Professor of Geography at the University of Florida, will deal with "The Latin American Way of Life." The final lecture on Thursday's sessions is to be an 8:00 p. m. lecture — "Sources of Radicalism: Chile and Cuba" to be presented by Henry A. Landsberger, professor of sociology at the University of North Carolina. This will be at 8:00 p. m.

On Friday, Rafael Sarda, of the Organization of American States of Washington, D. C., will give the final in the series of lectures beginning at 10:00 a. m. His subject is "Latin America and its People."

Dr. Robert L. Holt, vice president, East Carolina University, opens the symposium at 10:00 a. m. Thursday with an address of welcome.

Special activities planned in conjunction with the two day Latin America symposium includes a special program on Wednesday night. A music program featuring music with Latin American themes will be presented by ECU's Percussion Ensemble. This will take place at 7:15 p. m. in Wright Auditorium. Following the program of music, a Brazilian film, "Grande Cidade" will be shown at 8:00 p. m., also in Wright. The School of Music and the Movie Committee of the Student Government Association are sponsoring the Wednesday night special program.

All sessions of the symposium are being held in Room SB 102 of the Social Sciences Building.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market decline deepened as trading moved at a moderate pace today.

The 11 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 4.04 to 904.85.

The market, resting after a sharp runup, had slipped lower in the three previous sessions. Declines exceeded advances by about 200 among issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Among big-block transactions were 110,000 shares of Brunswick, up ¼ to 29½, and 86,500 shares of U.S. Plywood, off 1½ to 35.

On a delayed opening, Mattel tumbled 3½ to 45½. The company had reported lower per share earnings for the year ended Jan. 31.

Among Big Board prices were Bausch & Lomb, up 2½ to 76½; Grant warrants, off 1 to 60½; Standard Oil of California, off ½ to 57½; Farberge, up ½ to 19½; Du Pont, off 1 to 141; Owens Illinois, off 1¼ to 60¼, and Merck, off 1 to 99.

Music Student A Soloist With N.J. Orchestra

As the result of a state-wide competition held for artists under 18 last spring, a freshman flute major at East Carolina University, Miss Marianne Reed, will be performing as soloist with the Garden State Philharmonic Orchestra on March 31 in Toms River, New Jersey.

A native of Shrewsbury, New Jersey, Miss Reed will be playing under the direction of Henri Elkann, with the orchestra accompanying her in Cecilia Chaminade's "Concertino". The number is being featured as part of the orchestra's "Spring Tribute to Youth."

At the time Miss Reed won the state-wide competition in New Jersey, she was a pupil of Miss Frances Blaisdell.

Barrus Co. Is Apparent Low Bidder On Work

RALEIGH—Barrus Construction Company of Kinston was the apparent low bidder for the Tenth Street improvements in Greenville calling for a five-lane project from Cotanche Street, easterly to about 400 feet east of the city limits.

The low bid totaled $913,318.60 and final completion date has been set for Nov. 15, 1972.

The project, including 2,378 miles of improvements, will involve five lanes, with the center lane utilized for left turning.

The bids were opened by the North Carolina Highway Commission here Tuesday.

To Fly Flags

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Bob Scott has directed all North Carolina flags to be flown at half mast Friday as a show of concern for U.S. prisoners of war and men missing in action in Vietnam. Scott announced Tuesday he has proclaimed this week a week of concern for prisoners of war. He noted that Friday marks the seventh year since an Army adviser became the first American to be taken prisoner by the North Vietnamese.

Park Theatre Opens Tomorrow

When the new Park Theatre opens for business tomorrow, hardly a trace of the State Theatre which it replaces will remain.

For practical purposes, only the roof and four walls of the former State Theatre still stand. The building has been completely rebuilt, including all new wiring, plumbing, heating and cooling systems.

"Every part of the theater is new except for the outside four walls," W. W. Cunningham, division manager for Stewart and Everett Theatres, Inc., explained.

The new front of the theater is buff brick to marquee level, with aluminum facer from the marquee to the top of the building.

The marquee itself is 26 feet long and equipped for changeable letters.

"The theater was rebuilt with the idea of giving our customers the best in comfort, sound projection, and service," Cunningham said.

One unique feature of the new Park is that tickets are purchased inside at the concession stand rather than from an outside ticket booth. The concession stand is located in the lobby, which is furnished with the latest in concession equipment and has a terrazzo tile floor with restrooms off the lobby. The Park will accommodate 300 persons in rocking chair seats.

According to Cunningham, the screen has been designed to match the proportions of the building—the latest in screen design—and the projection equipment includes the latest in automation.

Draperies cover the walls from floor to ceiling and are "shocking pink" while the seats vary in colors of raspberry, off white, pink and other shades of the pink family. The carpet is matched to the interior color scheme.

With all main-floor seating, the upstairs of the theater is used for projection room, offices, storage areas and advertising space.

Cunningham said Donald Morse will be house manager, while Roy Griffin will continue to serve as overall manager of the Park and Plaza Cinema.

An open house is planned for Thursday from 12:30 p.m. until 5:30 p.m. with the first feature "Wuthering Heights", beginning at the Park at 7 p.m. Refreshments will be served during the open house hours.

Board Names Town Clerk

AYDEN—Mrs. Winifred A. Nelson was named town clerk here by the Ayden Board of Commissioners Friday.

An employee of the town of Ayden for about six years, Mrs. Nelson replaces Don Russell who assumed the position of town manager Friday. Russell was named town manager after Peter Vandenberg submitted his resignation to accept a position with the town of Laurinburg.

Mrs. Nelson is a member of the First Baptist Church of Ayden, where she is director of Woman's Missionary Union and director of Sunday School for the children's department.

A native of Winterville, Mrs. Nelson is married to James E. Nelson and they have two sons, Greg, 15, and Kevin, 12.

The Nelsons reside at 309 Pitt St. here.

FINISHING TOUCHES... Workmen add finishing touches to the new Park Theatre which is scheduled to open Thursday.

Rose Scores Early To Beat Ayden, 9-5

Six Home Tilts For Buc Gridders

East Carolina University will open its 1971 football season with a chance to stop the nation's longest major college winning streak.

The Pirates entertain the University of Toledo the night of September 11 in Ficklen Stadium and the game already is one of the most talked about ever around Greenville.

Toledo owns a 23-game winning streak, has won the Mid-American Conference the last two years and has defeated the Southern Conference champ in the Tangerine Bowl both years. The Rockets return 15 of 22 starters in last December's Tangerine Bowl when they trounced William & Mary.

The contest is one of the highlights of a 10-game schedule which includes a total of six home games. Except for Toledo, all the Ficklen Stadium games will be against Southern Conference foes.

The Pirates, who will be playing their first season under Sonny Randle, host William & Mary on Sept. 18, The Citadel on Oct. 2, Richmond on Oct. 9, Furman on Oct. 30 and Davidson on Nov. 6.

All home games at Ficklen Stadium will begin at 7:30 p. m. except for the Homecoming Game against Davidson which will be an afternoon contest starting at 1:30 p. m.

ECU's four away games this fall will be against Bowling Green at Bowling Green, Ohio, on Sept. 25; against West Virginia at Morgantown, W. Va., on Oct. 16; against North Carolina State at Raleigh on Oct. 23; and against Tampa in Tampa, Fla., on Nov. 13.

The first three road games will be in the afternoon. The Tampa game is set for an 8 p. m. kickoff.

The Pirates compiled a 3-8 record last fall and were 2-2 in the Southern Conference, tied for fourth with Richmond.

This year's schedule includes games against every SC foe except VMI, and all five of the league games will be played at home.

The game against Bowling Green will be the first gridiron meeting ever between the two schools. Tampa and William & Mary both return to the ECU schedule for the first time since 1968. The other seven opponents all were played last fall.

Dropped from last year are East Tennessee State, West Texas State, Southern Illinois and Marshall. East Carolina played 11 games in 1970, but it was decided to play only 10 games this fall unless a "top name" school could be added for the 11th game.

Bucs Host Dartmouth; Lacrosse Opens Year

East Carolina University's baseball team opens a four-day home stand here tomorrow against Dartmouth. Game time at University Field is 3 p. m.

The Pirates will entertain Dartmouth here Friday afternoon at the same time. Saturday and Sunday, the Bucs host Virginia.

Coach Earl Smith's Pirates hope to improve some batting averages as the four-game stand opens, but that could prove difficult. The Indians bring one of the finest pitching staffs in collegiate baseball to town.

Led by fireballing righthander Peter Broberg, the Indians lost only 10 games last season while winning 24. They were 15-0 against New England foes. Along with Broberg, who won six and lost two a year ago, Charlie Jones also returns after going 5-2 last season.

The Indians must replace All-American rightfielder Bruce Saylor, a four-year starter at that position.

Righthander Ron Hastings is the Pirates' leading pitcher through the first four games that saw the Bucs win two and lose two.

Hastings holds a 1-0 record and holds a 1.29 earned run average. Lefthander Hal Baird has struck out 17 in 13 innings and has a 1-1 record and a 4.05 E.R.A.

The Pirates carry a .197 team batting average into the series.

Junior Mike Aldridge is the top hitting regular with four hits in 16 trips for an even .250.

ECU's lacrosse team opens its season here tomorrow afternoon against Ohio Wesleyan at 3 p. m.

John Lovstedt's Pirates finished 4-4 a year ago but hope to improve on that record despite one of the toughest schedules in the school's history.

Co-captains Will Mealey, a sophomore defenseman from Annapolis, Md., and Eric Schandemeier, a senior attacker from Baltimore, Md., lead the Pirates.

Schandemeier was the team's second leading scorer last season with 11 goals and 11 assists for 22 points. Gary McCulloch, who had 20 goals and five assists for 25 points has graduated.

Goalie Jim Franks, who averaged better than 15.6 saves a game, returns also.

The schedule: March 25 Ohio Wesleyan; 27 at Washington & Lee; 30 William and Mary.

April 2 at Duke; 3 Virginia Tech at Williamsburg; 13 at VMI; 17 Maryland; 21 North Carolina; 24 Randolph-Macon; 28 at N.C. State.

Greene Central Drops Devils

SNOW HILL — Greene Central scored early and held off a Farmville rally to take a 6-5 victory over the Red Devils yesterday. It was the first Eastern Plains Conference game for both.

The Rams started the scoring in the first inning, when they brought one run over. Robert Ivey slammed a triple, and trotted home on a fielder's choice by Mike Perry.

In the third, the Rams exploded for five big runs, and that proved the difference. Stevie Williamson walked and Ivey singled. Perry slapped a double to score both runners. Danny Whitley singled and stole second. Donald Taylor got another double, scoring Perry and Whitley. Ron Bowen brought in Taylor with a single.

Farmville shut out Greene Central after that, but it was too late. The Red Devils came up with three runs in the fourth inning to cut the lead in half, 6-3. And then, in the seventh, Chuck Finklea hit a two-run homer, slicing the lead to one, but it wasn't enough.

Ivey led the Ram hitting with two, while Ben Joyner had three and Glenn Dwyer and Ronald Carraway each had two for Farmville.

The win left Greene Central with a 1-0 Eastern Plains record, while they are 1-2 overall.

"Say, Coach, I've got a player you ought to look at," Moon told Randle.

"Fine," Sonny replied, "What's his name?"

AYDEN — Rose High School's Rampants knocked the Ayden Tornadoes silly in the first inning, scoring six runs, then had to fight off the rallying Ayden team in the rest of the game to escape with a 9-5 victory yesterday.

It was the third victory of the year in as many games for the Rampants, while Ayden went down to its first loss in two starts.

Rose used a pair of home runs, including one grand slam, plus several other assorted hits during the game to work up a 6-0 lead right off the bat. But Ayden, held in check for the first two innings, came back with two in the third and two more in the fourth to slice the lead to just 6-4 before Rose pushed away again. Even in the final inning, however, the Tornadoes didn't give up, struggling back to score again.

Larry Hatton started off the action of sending a sharp grounder to short that was errored. Hatton later stole second, but had to wait there as Bill Lee beat out a slow infield roller. Jimmy Paige sent a grounder to first, but the play was made to third to try and get Hatton, unsuccessfully, and it left the bases loaded.

John Conway then stepped in and after fouling off a couple, sent a liner into left field that just cleared the fence before curling foul, giving him a grand slam and Rose a 4-0 lead.

Larry Dixon liked the looks of the homer, and followed it up with one of his own, off the roof of the football pressbox in deep center field. That made it 6-0.

J. C. Daniels tried for a homer off the roof of the field house in far right, but just missed and had to settle for a triple. Robbie Cox followed with a sharp grounder by second, scoring Daniels for the 6-0 lead.

Rose got a man into scoring position in the second as Jimmy Paige singled to center and took second on a passed ball. Donnie Moore came in from the bullpen after that, however, and slammed the door on the Rampants for the next four innings. Only one man reached base on him between the second and sixth innings when Conway walked in the fifth.

Meanwhile, the Tornadoes were going to work. After failing to make a threat in the first two innings, they used some shaky pitching by Kim Harbin in the third to push over two runs. Bobby Delong led off with a walk, and Harbin issued consecutive free trips to first to Ronnie Salmon, Mike Griffin and Moore. The last brought over Delong with the first Ayden run.

Dale Manning hit back to short, and the play to the plate got Salmon sliding in. Mike Tripp followed with a grounder to second, but this time, the play to the plate was too late, as Griffin slid safely across with the second run. Harbin settled down and fanned the next two to escape without further damage.

But in the fourth, Ayden struck again. With one out, and Tom Craft on with a single, Ronnie Eason grounded to short, getting Craft. Griffin then followed with a homer over the left field wall, scoring Eason ahead of him. That cut the lead to 6-4.

Harbin shut out Ayden the next two innings, however, and it wasn't until the seventh that the Tornadoes threatened again.

Rose, in the meantime, padded its lead. In the sixth, Jimmy Sugg walked and stole second. With two outs, Bill Lee reached on an error, and Sugg came around to score on the play, making it 7-4.

Then, in the top of the seventh, Rose scored two more to put it on ice. Dixon walked and Daniels slapped a double into center. Cox followed with a single to center, scoring Dixon and sending Daniels to third. Hatton finished up the scoring with a deep fly to center than allowed Daniels to score after the catch.

Daniels and Cox led the Rose hitting with two each. The two teams will tangle again on Friday in Guy Smith Stadium in Greenville at 4 p. m.

Receivers Have It Rough Early

It's been a rough spring so far for pass receivers at East Carolina University.

As Coach Sonny Randle's Pirates entered the second full week of spring football drills, no fewer than four members of the receiving corps were sidelined by injuries.

"Gary Wann, our junior college transfer quarterback from California, is responsible for three of the injuries," said Randle, who obviously wasn't blaming Wann, only kidding him.

"Gary throws the ball so hard and some of our young receivers just weren't used to catching him. Three men suffered hand injuries — torn ligaments, broken fingers, that sort of thing — when they were catching Gary Wann's passes."

The three, all sophomores, are Clark Davis of Wilson, Mike Myrick of Goldsboro and Stan Euse of Chesapeake, Va.

The fourth hobbled receiver is returning split end starter Carl Gordon, a senior from Jacksonville, Fla. The 6-5 Gordon, who was the No. 2 receiver for the Pirates last fall, has been slow coming around after an off-season knee operation. Gordon injured the knee in the North Carolina State game last October.

"We're very concerned about Carl," said Randle. "Somedays he runs and other days he can't run. And he's had no contact work. We need him very badly, but right now we're making our plans to go without him. He's that big of a questionmark. If he can't play, it will really hurt us because Carl can be a great receiver."

So far the brightest part of the pass catching picture has been the work of junior college transfer Tom Counter, from Virginia Beach, Va., in spring drills.

"Tom is starting to come around real well," said Randle. "He's catching the ball well and we think he'll be a good one for us."

Randle said he has been pleased with the way quarterback Jack Patterson and runningback Rusty Scales have made the switch to the defensive secondary, where ECU must have help since it lost three of four starters there. For a while Randle had considered moving the versatile Pete Woolley to the defensive backfield instead of Scales.

Golf Meet Is Planned

PINETOPS — Entries are now being accepted for the second annual Maccarpine Ladies Invitational Golf Tournament, to be held on May 6 at the Maccarpine Country Club at Pinetops.

The field for the tournament is limited to the first 120 entries.

Sandy Barnhill, reigning North Carolina Women's Amateur Champion, is the defending champion in the tournament. Clubs from Greenville, Washington, New Bern, Havelock, Wilson, Kingston, Tryon, Jacksonville, Oxford, Rocky Mount and other Eastern North Carolina areas participated in the first event.

Interested women may contact pro William A. Lytton for further information.

Rose Named As Frosh Coach

George Rose, who played six seasons in the National Football League with the Vikings, Saints and 49'ers, was named today as head freshman football coach at East Carolina University.

ECU Head Coach Sonny Randle, a teammate of Rose with the San Francisco 49'ers in 1968, announced the hiring of Rose and said he would assume his duties at the university on June 1.

Rose, who graduated from Auburn in 1964, was forced to retire from the NFL after the 1969 season due to a knee injury. He spent the past year as head football coach at Glen Academy, a prep school in his hometown of Brunswick, Ga.

"I became very fond of George in the two years I was at San Francisco," said Randle. "George impressed me as more than just a football player. He was a devoted student of the game, had a great way with kids and was just a fine all-around individual."

"We are extremely fortunate to have a man of George Rose's calibre to be our head freshman coach this year at East Carolina," continued Randle. "I know he will do an excellent job working with our incoming freshmen."

The twenty-nine year-old Rose started as a running back for Auburn in the early 1960's and the Minnesota Vikings selected him third in the 1964 pro player draft. He played in the 1964 College All-Star Game.

He became a defensive back with the Vikings and intercepted six passes, running one back for a touchdown his first season (1964). He finished second only to the Chicago Bears' Gale Sayers in "Rookie of the Year" balloting that season.

Rose, who is married and the father of a young daughter, was selected by the New Orleans Saints in the 1967 NFL expansion draft and started for them that season. In the summer of 1968 he was traded to the 49'ers for Monty Stickles but a knee injury in an exhibition game caused him to miss the entire season and he never regained his earlier form in 1969, causing his retirement.

The hiring of Rose completes the Pirates' 1971 football staff. Randle now has eight assistants — offensive coordinator Vito Ragazzo, offensive backfield coach Henry Trevathan, offensive line coach Dick Kupec, defensive coordinator Carl Reese, defensive line coach Al Ferguson, linebackers coach and chief scout, Paul Weathersbee, defensive secondary coach George Whitley and Rose.

Weathersbee and Whitley technically are graduate assistants, but both will work strictly with the varsity.

ABA Grabs As NBA Says Nix

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The National Basketball Association was reaffirming its decision to keep its hands off collegians. Two blocks away the American Basketball Association was grabbing the highest scoring one, Mississippi sophomore Johnny Neumann.

The rival leagues held separate all-day meetings Tuesday in the wake of Monday's decision by U.S. Dist. Court Judge Warren Ferguson in Los Angeles which struck down the NBA's rule forbidding the signing of players whose college classes have not been graduated.

NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy said after Tuesday's meeting: "We discussed at some length any possible changes in the 1971 college draft procedures and it was determined there would be no changes. Undergraduates can not be drafted." But the ABA, which precipitated the current upheaval two years ago by signing Spencer Haywood after his sophomore year at the University of Detroit, kept it going with the nabbing of Neumann who signed with the Memphis Pros for what the Memphis Commercial Appeal said in a copyrighted story was a "five-year no-cut contract in excess of $2 million."

Neumann said the fact that his father, Robert suffered a major heart attack last month and might never return to work was influential in his decision to turn pro.

"He knew this was my dream and I'm sure this is really part of his dream too—for me to play pro ball," said the 6-foot-6½ guard who averaged 40.1 points per game for the Ole Miss Rebels.

ABA Commissioner Jack Dolph, who announced the signing—and would say nothing of any other matters discussed by the younger league—said Neumann was not signed as a "hardship case."

Randle Adds Another Player

Five or six years ago, when Sonny Randle was still a member of the St. Louis football Cardinals, he and other players used to watch a small 12 or 13-year old do some great things with a football.

At the Card training camp at Lake Forrest, Ill., the son of Card treasurer Charlie Shea would come out to watch the pros work, and to play a little himself. "We used to marvel at his ability," Randle said. "The only thing was he was so small."

Recently, Randle, now the head football coach at East Carolina University ran into a Tidewater, Va.-area coach, Tracy Moon of Kempsville High School in Virginia Beach.

"Say, Coach, I've got a player you ought to look at," Moon told Randle.

"Fine," Sonny replied, "What's his name?"

Moon told him the youth's name was Mike Shea. "Is that the Mike Shea who's father is treasurer of the Cardinals?" Sonny asked.

"Yep," Moon replied. "Why, I remember him several years ago at the Card camp. He was just a little fellow then."

But Randle checked anyway and found that Shea had grown up into a fine 6-1, 190-pounder. And he was still doing great things with a football. During his career at Kempsville, his versatility had been put to the greatest tests. He'd played at quarterback, running back, flanker linebacker and defensive halfback, doing all well.

Last night, She signed a grant-in-aid with Randle to attend East Carolina. He is the sixth Tidewater player signed by Randle and the 28th overall this year.

Question Mark Hurlers Prove There's No Questions This Year

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
Spring training is that time of year when the pitchers are supposed to be ahead of the hitters, but last year Steve Carlton, Luis Tiant, Tommy John and Tom Griffin weren't ahead of anybody.

Such wasn't the case Tuesday as all four question-mark hurlers turned in impressive exhibition outings.

Carlton, a 20-game winner in 1969, slipped to 10-19 a year ago. Tuesday he worked seven strong innings, yielding only two runs, as the St. Louis Cardinals trimmed the Cincinnati Reds 5-2 with Jose Cardenal collecting two doubles and two singles.

Tiant, once a star with Cleveland, turned in a deceptive 1970 record of 7-3 with Minnesota, but the Twins got him scads of runs and he was beset by injuries much of the year. His contribution Tuesday was four innings, one run, four hits, two walks and four strikeouts in the Twins' 8-3 romp over the Atlanta Braves.

John, counted to be head of the Chicago White Sox' 1-2 pitching punch, finished with a 12-17 record. He stifled the New York Yankees on one run through seven innings Tuesday and the White Sox pushed across a run in the eighth to win 4-3. Tom Egan, who also homered, swatted his third double of the game and tallied the winning run on Tom McCraw's single.

Griffin, an impressive 1969 rookie, spent part of last season nursing his sore arm in the minors after compiling a 3-13 record and sky-high 5.76 earned run average with Houston. Tuesday, the Astros battered the Los Angeles Dodgers 8-3 and Griffin went six innings, allowing three hits and three runs, two of them unearned.

But Tuesday's pitching hero was Shoji Murata of Japan's Lotte Orions. He pitched a complete game six-hitter and fanned 13 in a 9-4 triumph over the Cleveland Indians. It was the 22-year-old right-hander's second route-going effort, the first coming against California.

The Angeles didn't have to face Murata this time but had their troubles with the San Diego Padres, who scored twice in the ninth and held off California 5-4. Tommy Dean, who drove in his first run of the spring earlier in the game, brought home the tie-breaker with a single.

Some other strong pitching was turned in by Detroit's Joe Coleman, who stopped Kansas City 6-1 with seven good innings and received home run support from Norm Cash, Willie Horton, Aurelio Rodriguez and Dalton Jones.

Jerry Janeski, recently traded to Washington, blanked Montreal for five innings and the Senators won 4-3. Joe Foy drove in three runs with a homer and double and Frank Howard also homered.

Ray Newman, Joe Decker and Juan Pizarro teamed up for a six-hitter as the Chicago Cubs whipped San Francisco 8-0.

But Baltimore's Jim Palmer was pounded for six runs in six innings in a 7-4 loss to Pittsburgh. Al Oliver, Bob Robertson, Richie Hebner and Richie Zisk homered for the Pirates.

And Oakland's Chuck Dobson was raked for six runs in five frames as the Milwaukee Brewers made off with a 9-3 victory.

Finally, the New York Mets scored an unearned run in the 11th inning on a walk, throwing error and Tim Foli's sacrifice fly and nipped the Boston Red Sox 5-4.

Saratoga Hurler Has No-Hitter Over North Pitt's Panthers

By BILLY EVANS
Reflector Sports Writer

BETHEL — The Saratoga Cougars rolled past hapless North Pitt Tuesday afternoon, 12-1, as Tom Hayes threw a no-hitter against the Panthers. The lone North Pitt run came in the fourth inning when the Cougar defense sagged and allowed the run on an error.

Saratoga wasted little time in jumping on the North Pitt pitcher, scoring two runs in the top of the first. Pipkin started the inning off by drawing a walk. He was followed by Speight who drilled a double into right field. Jimmy DeRatt then scored both of the runners on a single.

Saratoga was held scoreless in the second inning but scored another run in the third to make their lead 3-0. Speight hit his second double of the afternoon into right field. DeRatt then drilled a ground ball to short, but the throw to first was late. Speight was called out at home when he tried to score on the play. Taylor finished up the action in the third for Saratoga when he hit a double into center field to score DeRatt.

In the fourth inning Saratoga added two more runs to their total. Hayes flied out to right field to begin the inning, Rogers walked bringing up Terry Little who promptly smacked a home run over the left fielder's head giving Saratoga a 5-0 lead.

North Pitt got their only run in the bottom of the fourth inning when Hayes lost his touch and walked the first three men to face him. Hayes struck out Briley but Abeyounis hit a sharp ground ball to short where it was errored allowing Little to score. Hayes settled down and struck the next two batters out.

Saratoga was unable to score in the fifth but in the sixth they scored two more runs. Webb and Hayes both singled to start the inning off. Rogers walked to load the bases and then on two straight infield errors the Cougars scored Webb and Hayes.

Saratoga put the game out of reach in the seventh by scoring seven runs to make the final score 12-1. Joe Webb doubled and he was followed by Hayes and Rogers who both singled. The single by Rogers scored Webb leaving two men on base. Little reached first on an error loading the bases. Pipkin slapped hard ground ball down the third base line which was bobbed allowing Hayes to score. DeRatt flied out to deep left and the runner on third scored on the play. Langston finished up the Cougar scoring when he smacked a double into center scoring Little and Pipkin.

Bucs Go To Nationals

Four East Carolina University wrestlers leave today for Auburn, Ala., to compete in the NCAA National Finals. It is the first time a Buc has gone to the tournament.

Competing will be Dan Monroe in the 125-pound class, Mike Spohn at 142, Bill Hill at 177 and Tim Gay at 190.

The tournament begins Thursday and continues through Saturday.

The four Pirates, along with two others competed in the First Colonies Wrestling Tournament held at Newport News, Va., over the past weekend, winning three championships.

Monroe, Spohn and Hill each won their classes, while Gay finished third. Robert Vroom was fourth at 118, while Roger Lundy took third in the 142-pound class.

The Buc wrestlers worked as unattached competitors during the meet, but they compiled more points, unofficially, than any other school's entries.

Wooden Is No Friend Of The Astrodome

By DENNE FREEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — John Wooden and the Astrodome are old acquaintances. That's acquaintances, mind you, not friends.

"The Astrodome isn't the best place in the world to play a single basketball game," the UCLA coach said Tuesday, "but it's probably the best place for a tournament."

Wooden brought his Bruins into Houston today for a run at an unprecedented fifth consecutive NCAA basketball championship.

And Wooden remembers how it was when the Bruins' 47-game winning streak was snapped by Houston 71-69 in the Astrodome before 55,000 fans in 1968.

"The playing floor (in the Astrodome) was out in the open and the background made depth perception difficult," Wooden said. "No one shot well before the game and the television lights overhead made it extra bright. Every player shot below their season average except for Elvin Hayes of Houston. He had a great game."

Wooden is taking some comfort in the fact that NCAA officials are installing 7,000 seats on the floor around the basketball court to give it "more atmosphere" for Thursday night's semi-finals and Saturday afternoon's finals.

Western Kentucky and Villanova collide Thursday night at 6:30 p.m. CST with UCLA and Kansas scheduled at 8:40 p.m. CST. Some 35,000 fans and a national television audience (NBC) will view the action Thursday and Saturday.

Under Wooden's guidance, UCLA has won 26 straight NCAA tournament games and the Bruins have captured the national title six of the last seven years.

Wooden said he was particularly impressed with Villanova after watching the Wildcats last Saturday on television against Pennsylvania.

Wooden also said the size and quickness of Kansas impressed him.

"They will be difficult to beat," he said.

All four teams scheduled evening workouts today in the Astrodome.

Kansas and UCLA bring 27-1 records into the playoff with Villanova 26-6 and Western Kentucky 23-5.

Bonnies Go Up Against Hawaii

NEW YORK (AP) — It'll be St. Bonaventure's Brown Indians against Hawaii's unbrowned undergrads and the Engineers of Georgia Tech trying to claw Michigan's Wolverines in tonight's quarter-finals wrap-up in the National Invitational Tournament.

The winners will be back on the court against each other in the second half of Thursday night's semifinals. North Carolina and Duke, a pair of Atlantic Coast Conference clubs and victors in Monday night's quarter-finals, start off Thursday night's semis.

Hawaii, with "hot pants" basketball shorts and hula girl cheerleaders, still managed to keep the attention of the Madison Square Garden fans on the game Monday night as they rallied from 14 points down to squeeze by Oklahoma 88-87 in double overtime.

The Bonnies had an easier time of it in their opening-round game, a 94-79 smothering of Purdue.

Hawaii Coach Red Rocha admitted he has no idea how his Rainbows will stand up against the Bonnies. "We're quick," he said, "but they're quicker."

The star-gazers in the stands will be drawn to the Michigan game being directed by sophomore Henry Wilmore and Rich Yunkus commanding the Tech attack.

Wilmore, a 6-foot-4 guard, appeared below form despite a 22-point output in the Wolverines' opening-round triumph over Syracuse. Yunkus, 6-9½, canned 27 to pace the Engineers over LaSalle.

Singleton May Be Mets' Hope

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — If 6-foot-4 Ken Singleton is ready to become one of Gil Hodges' everyday people, the New York Mets might have the pivotman for another National League pennant drive.

Singleton, a 23-year-old switch-hitter who played half of last season with New York after batting .388 in the minors, is a key figure in the Mets' bid to supplement strong pitching with added offensive punch.

But he'll have to deliver, from both sides of the plate, to earn a regular job.

The 1970 Mets led the league in pitching, despite the late-season skid of fatigued Tom Seaver, and were No. 2 in defense. But their batting average of .249 ranked ninth among the 12 teams as they crawled home six lengths behind Pittsburgh's division champs.

Right field, which Hodges split between Singleton, .263, Ron Swoboda, .233, and Art Shamsky, .295, was one of the trouble spots, and it remains one this spring.

Singleton, who had slammed 17 home runs in 64 games with the Mets' Tidewater farm club, connected five times in 69 major league contests. He batted only .234 from the left side.

Third base also is up for grabs between veteran Bob Aspromonte and rookie Tim Foli. Aspromonte, acquired in a trade with Atlanta after the Mets unloaded Joe Foy and Los Wayne Garrett to the military, batted .213 for the Braves. Foli hit .261 for Tidewater.

Donn Clendenon belted 22 homers, drove in 97 runs and batted .288 last season, but the 35-year-old first baseman could need more rest this year. Shamsky and Ed Kranepool are the likely shock troops.

Ken Boswell, .254, and Bud Harrelson, .342, give the Mets a solid second base-shortstop combination. Boswell set a record of 85 consecutive games without an error for his position last year and Harrelson matched the shortstop mark of 54 straight errorless games.

Tommie Agee, .286, 24 homers, 31 stolen bases, and Cleon Jones, .277, 10 homers, are offensive standouts in center and left field respectively. Jerry Grote, .255, will handle most of the catching.

Seaver, 25-7 and the 'NL Cy Young Award winner in 1969, slipped to 18-12 last year, winning only two of his last 12 starts. But he paced the league with a 2.81 earned run average, led in strikeouts with 283 and fanned 19 San Diego batters in one game to tie Steve Carlton's major league record.

The brilliant 26-year-old right-hander should get more help this season from Jerry Koonsman, 12-7, and Gary Gentry, 9-9, who were hampered by injuries. Jim McAndrew, 10-14, and Nolan Ryan, 7-11.

Dean Chance, picked up from Cleveland during the 1970 stretch run, and Ray Sadecki, 8-4, also are back.

Hodges is looking for more consistency from his relief corps—Tug McGraw, 4-6, Ron Taylor, 5-4, and Danny Frisella, 8-3. McGraw had a poor start and Taylor was ineffective late in the season.

Despite their difficulties, the Mets were in the thick of the race until they lost six of seven games against Pittsburgh in the final two weeks—five of them by one run.

Healthy pitching and a few more runs could put them back on top this year.

Super Bowl In New Orleans

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Super Bowl has been awarded to New Orleans—a compromise choice apparently forced upon National Football League owners by a strange series of unrelenting factors, including the tactics of a Miami attorney and the strength of the Dallas Cowboys.

In what may have been the toughest decision in their six years of selecting Super Bowl sites, the NFL owners Tuesday selected New Orleans to host pro football's premier spectacle on Jan. 16, 1972, following a long afternoon session requiring 14 ballots.

What ultimately paid off for New Orleans was the inability of either Miami, a three-time host, or Dallas, bidding for the game for the first time, to surmount the strikes against them and gather enough votes to win on any of the first 13 ballots.

Miami couldn't get the required minimum of 20 votes from the 26 owners for two reasons—the sentiment among the owners for shifting the game between American and National Conference cities and a Miami attorney.

The attorney in question is one Ellis Rubin, who this past January filed three lawsuits to have the local television blackout of the Super Bowl lifted so that Miami area fans could see the game from the Orange Bowl.

"No one's going to admit it publicly," said one club official. "But there were a lot of owners who wanted to get away from Rubin." Dallas, meanwhile, qualified as an NFC city but was handicapped by two other factors—Texas Stadium, the proposed site of the game, seats only 65,000 compared to the 80,000 in New Orleans' Tulane Stadium, and the Cowboys are a possible Super Bowl participant.

"I'm not saying it was a major factor, and it isn't to me, but the competitive thing may have kept Dallas from getting it more than any other city," said Commissioner Pete Rozelle. "If I were a club owner, I'd probably hate to play against a home team getting local support. Some clubs might have felt that would give them a competitive edge."

San Francisco Mayor Says Bribe Charge Is A Fake

By JAMES C. LAGIER
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Mayor Joseph Alioto of San Francisco says a federal grand jury indictment charging him with conspiring to bribe a Washington State official is politically motivated and "a 14-karat fake."

"I have every confidence we're going to be vindicated in court because there won't be any star chamber proceedings in court. There will be a judicial proceeding," Alioto told placard-waving supporters Tuesday night.

Alioto and three former Washington State officials were indicted Tuesday in Seattle in an alleged bribe conspiracy involving $2.3 million in legal fees.

Charged with Alioto were former Washington State Atty. Gen. John J. O'Connell; former Asst. Atty. Gen. George K. Faler, and John G. McCutcheon, a former prosecuting attorney in Pierce County, Wash.

"It's just a 14-karat fake. This is a shared fee for shared work and if this can constitute a bribe or an attempted bribe or using the mail to bribe, then every Republican who has taken a referral fee in the Senate — and almost all of them have — ought to be indicted too."

Alioto has been mayor since Jan. 8, 1968. He nominated Hubert H. Humphrey for president at the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

The indictment involves the handling by Alioto between 1962 and 1967 of overcharge claims by 15 municipal districts and public utilities districts in the State of Washington against major electrical equipment manufacturers.

Alioto originally had been hired to represent the districts on a contingency fee with a 1 million limit, but his fee was raised to 15 per cent of the total final settlements after he negotiated $16.2 million in refunds.

The indictment said that in return for removal of the fee ceiling, Alioto agreed to pay

O'Connell and Faler 50 per cent of all the fees he received in excess of $1 million.

Alioto eventually collected $2.3 million and has admitted paying O'Connell $530,000 and Faler $272,000.

Alioto, Faler and O'Connell are accused in the indictment of using the mail to promote the bribery of a public official, a violation of the federal anti-racketeering law. They are also charged with fraudulent use of the mail. The indictment says McCutcheon concealed the alleged conspiracy.

Alioto declared there was no conflict of interest. Under Washington law, he said, Faler and O'Connell were free to accept private practice.

Police, who identified the driver of the car involved in the mishap as Isabell Keech Anderson of 2814 Jefferson Dr. listed damage to the car at $50 and set damage to the bicycle at $75.

Police, who identified the driver of the car involved in the mishap as Isabell Keech Anderson of 2814 Jefferson Dr. listed damage to the car at $50 and set damage to the bicycle at $75.

No charges were made by police. Hause was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment of his injuries.

RALEIGH (AP) — A bill that would clamp a 1:30 a.m. time limit on brown-bagging in North Carolina has won the approval of a Senate committee.

The Alcoholic Beverage Control committee approved the bill Tuesday. The measure is a much-amended version of a bill drawn by a special study commission created by the 1969 General Assembly.

rely no time limit. The bill would, however, extend the limiting hours for the consumption of beer and wine from midnight to 1:30 a.m. (2:30 a.m. under Daylight Savings Time).

The committee knocked out proposals by the study commission that ABC store hours be extended from 9 to 11:45 p.m. and that ABC stores be allowed to open on election days.

Old Vehicle Is In Modern Sport

NEW YORK (AP) — One of man's oldest vehicles for transportation actually gave rise to one of his newest sports. Tobogganing, developed in Canada around 1880, traces its history back at least 15,000 years to Neolithic man, who fashioned the popular coasting toy from wooden strips and animal skins, and used it for hauling supplies.

Fire Marshal Warns High Fire Risk In Rural Pitt

There's great potential danger just now in Pitt County's rural areas because of relatively dry conditions, high winds and spring farm burning. Forest fires for two days have plagued fire fighting personnel, destroyed valuable timberland, and endangered wildlife.

Bobby Joyner, Pitt County Fire Marshal and Pitt County Forest Ranger Ben Hardison are asking farmers and other citizens in Pitt County not to set any brush fires until rain falls in the county again. Joyner stresses that present conditions are very conducive to destructive fires, and that particular care must be exercised.

At 11 o'clock today, the third major woods fire since Monday was burning in the county. Joyner reported that ten acres had already burned on a farm in the Ham's Cross Road Community, and efforts were being made to bring the blaze under control. One fire plow had been brought in, and the spotter plane was circling the area.

To date this week, four forest fires, two of them major ones, have taken their toll in the county's forests.

Both were spotted about the same time, around 10:00 a.m. Monday. One, which burned about 80 acres of woodland, was on the Robert Joyner farm between Farmville and Fountain. Three fire plows and the spotter plane were employed in fighting this fire. The other, on the Moore farm on Stantonsburg Road, burned a tract of woods covering around 75 acres. Three plows were used in fighting this fire.

Joyner noted that "crews fighting the fire on the Moore farm thought it was under control and reported to help on the fire on the Robert Joyner farm, but were later called back as the Moore farm fire had flared up again."

Since Monday, a fire spotter plane has been in use in Pitt County. This, Joyner observes, "is a tremendous help in early spotting of woods fires." He noted the plane is in constant service today, flying to spot any new fires which may break out.

The two larger fires were not brought under complete control until Tuesday morning. Joyner says crews spent all night Monday fighting the fires.

Two smaller forest fires were reported Tuesday. One was on Highway 903, which burned a plot of about three acres of wooded land. The second involved about four acres of land, and was located off N.C. Highway 11. This fire at one time threatened some buildings, and Ayden Fire Department was called to assist in protecting the buildings. Both these fires were spotted and reported by the spotter plane.

In other fires reported, Joyner said that Grimesland Fire Department Tuesday morning extinguished a fire in an empty packhouse on the Elmer Hodges farm with only minor damage to the building. Joyner stated "this fire was caused by children playing with matches."

On Tuesday night at 9:47, Farmville Fire Department fought a blaze in Ronald Warrick's trailer home in the Contentnea Creek Trailer Park. Joyner reported damage estimated at $6,000, which he noted was very heavy damage to the mobile unit.

"This has started out as a bad week for fires, and we are asking everyone to keep in mind that the heavy gusty winds and dry conditions make for real danger," Joyner remarked.

New Judge Named For Angela Davis

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A former prosecutor and one-time lobbyist for law enforcement agencies is the new presiding judge in the case of black militant Angela Davis and Ruchell Magee, accused in a courthouse escape try where four men died.

"I will try to do a workmanlike and fair job," Superior Court Judge Alan A. Lindsay of Oakland said Tuesday after his appointment by California Supreme Court Chief Justice Donald Wright. Lindsay, a wavy-haired man of 54, was appointed to the Alameda County Superior Court bench by Gov. Ronald Reagan in 1969. He has handled mostly juvenile cases since then.

For two years previously he was a Municipal Court judge. He has been an executive assistant in the criminal division of the U.S. Justice Department, a deputy district attorney in Oakland and a lobbyist in the California state capital for associations of district attorneys and peace officers.

Lindsay replaces Judge John H. McMurray, 62, who disqualified himself last Wednesday after Magee accused him of prejudice.

Miss Davis' lawyers are seeking her release on bail and have moved to dismiss the charges which grew out of a shootout last Aug. 7 during an escape attempt at the Marin County Civic Center. Magee seeks to have the case transferred to federal court.

The shootout took four lives, including that of Judge Harold Haley. All Marin County judges disqualified themselves.

U.S. Teachers Attracted By Australia Lure

By WILLIAM J. WAUGH
AP Education Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—At the rate of 1,000 inquiries a week, American teachers are inundating Australian educators with responses to an advertising campaign inviting them to leave the United States to "teach in the happy country down under."

It is the second year that the Australian state of New South Wales has come to America market looking for math and science teachers, the Australian embassy said.

Last year 300 teachers were hired from the 14,000 persons who inquired, said Bill Robinson, a New South Wales recruitment officer. He said this year's hiring goal is 1,000 teachers.

Australian states are responsible for their own education systems, Lionel Mead, Australian immigration attache, said, and at the present time are unable to supply enough teachers "as more people are going on to secondary school."

The states of Victoria and Tasmania already have been in America recruiting small numbers of math and science instructors, he said, and the states of South Australia, Queensland and Western Australia "May come in later" looking for teachers.

New South Wales has established an office at the Hotel McAlpin in New York City and is advertising in professional magazines and other media to reach potential teachers in all 50 states and Canada, recruiter Robinson said.

New South Wales describes salaries as "comparable to other professional salaries." A federal government pamphlet states that a teacher with a bachelor's degree would get $3,677 the first year and $5,412 after 10 years under present scales.

Robinson said his state is primarily looking for young teachers. He said he had been "surprised at the number of American couples applying. They represent about 20 per cent of the total."

Raleigh Now State HQ For Outreach

Raleigh has become the site of the headquarters for the staff of Nicky Cruz Outreach, a youth-concentrated counseling group which until recently had its headquarters in Fresno, California.

The purpose of the group is to show young people the real truth about the hang-ups they have.

Evangelist Nicky Cruz is founder and presently director of the group. At one time, Nicky was the leader of a hoodlum gang, the Mau-Maus, in New York City. Transformed by a heart-to-heart encounter with Jesus Christ, he has since traveled the country, speaking to youths about the loneliness and emptiness in their lives. He also speaks on how that gap can be filled.

Since its founding, the organization has established live-in centers in Fresno,

Mrs. Peel Named Representative

Mrs. Alfred Peel of Greenville has been named an area representative for the Simmons College Science Center program.

Mrs. Peel, the former Shirley Booth, lives at 1714 Knollwood Dr. and is a graduate of Simmons College, Boston, Mass.

The $7 million Science Center, now under construction on the Simmons campus in Boston's Back Bay section, will house the departments of biology, chemistry, physics, psychology and mathematics. It will offer multi-level training in the contemporary sciences to the more than 2,000 women, undergraduate and graduate students, who attend the college.

California; Columbus, Ohio; and San Juan, Puerto Rico. Three other centers are presently being organized, one of which is for Raleigh.

Several members of Nicky Cruz Outreach will be visiting in Greenville on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, March 26, 27 and 28. Young people in Greenville are invited to hear John Aparicio, Check Ferreira, Lon Custer, Donna Custer, Charles Segura, Bill Tait and Kirk Weyant, who will be on the program Friday and Saturday evening at 7:30 p.m. at Grace Church Auditorium. The entire community is invited to hear them Sunday at Grace Church, where they will make appearances at 9:45 a.m., 11:00 a.m., and at 7:00 p.m.

Four of these young people on the program have been involved in drug addiction, and know the problems they are presenting the answers to. Their deep concern is to see youth with a real purpose to live. They term themselves "rebels with a cause."

Free Lecture To Be In French

A lecture in French, entitled "Les conceptions de Rousseau sur le bonheur" will be given by Miss Grace Ellenberg in Room D307 of the Social Studies Building on Thursday, March 25, at 7:30 p.m.

The lecture is being sponsored by the French Club of East Carolina University. The lecturer, Miss Ellenberg, is an assistant Professor in the Department of Romance Languages of ECU.

The lecture is free, and the public is invited to attend.

MAY SUPPORT THEORY — Recently excavated stone figure proves that Mediterranean peoples lived in Mexico as long ago as 700 A.D., according to Prof. Alexander von Wuthenau of the University of the Americas in Mexico City. Von Wuthenau said the stone figure wears an earring with a Star of David in its center. The Mexican stone supports the theory of Brandeis University Prof. Cyrus H. Gordon that Mediterranean people discovered America 1,000 years before Columbus. (AP Wirephoto)

Humor Lives Inside Soviet

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A recent dispatch received by the State Department shows that despite economic difficulties at home the Russians still haven't lost their sense of humor. Soviet scientists, according to a joke now current in Moscow, succeeded in resuscitating the great Soviet leader, Lenin. Lenin, who died in 1924, turned to the current Kremlin leaders and announced he would go back to work. The first thing he wanted, he said, was to read all the issues of Pravda, the Communist Party newspaper, since his death. These were brought to his office in the Kremlin, and Lenin enscathed himself. After several days, the Kremlin leaders began to worry when Lenin failed to reappear. They broke into his office to find it empty, except for thousands of copies of Pravda. On Lenin's desk they found the following note: "Comrades, you have done it all wrong! I am going back to Geneva to organize the revolution all over again."

Case Q-509: Wilma Z., aged 28, is president of her University Women's Club.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "although your daily column covers all sorts of family and social problems, do you know how my husband describes you?"

When I shook my head, she continued:

"He says all you ever write about is 'sin, sex and sea water' so I felt that would make an intriguing title for your address before our group.

"Several of our older members have had dramatic improvement from arthritis by drinking ocean water.

"So, if you can't cover all three topics in an hour, please start with sea water."

Sea Water
Modern medicine has produced many miracles of healing.

But there is always the tendency to look far off for some thereby almost totally eliminating simple goiter.

We also prescribe iron tonics to raise your hemoglobin to normal and thus combat anemia.

Recently, dental suregons have shown that fluorine seems to reduce dental decay almost 65 per cent.

And we know that calcium is vital for bones, etc.

But we have ignored most of the others among the 44 water-soluble ocean chemicals.

Yet God Almighty surely must have intended that they help preserve our health or why would he have them in our blood?

If they were useless, then they would be deadheads, adding more work for our faithful human heart, which pumps them at an average rate of 72 beats per minute.

Many medical conditions are called "deficiency ailments," apparently caused by a lack of some water-soluble chemical.

But all such chemicals are in the sea, though many are almost completely leached from our soil and thus are missing from fruits, vegetables and even the meat of animals that graze on such chemically deficient grasses.

Arthritis, eczema, epilepsy, psoriasis, as well as cancer, are among the many ailments classified as due to possible chemical deficiency.

Hundreds of you arthritics have reported remarkable results from taking a little sea water daily in tomato juice or milk, etc.

If you are not on a low salt diet, due to heart trouble, then send for my booklet "The Ocean's 44 Trace Chemicals," enclosing a plus stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

Opening lead: King of ♣
South gave a very neat account of himself in today's hand to land a four spade contract that appeared destined to fail.

West opened the king of clubs, and when it held the trick, he continued with the queen. Had East overtaken with his ace and continued the suit to give his partner a ruff, there would have been no way for the declarer to make the hand. However, failure to make this play cannot be charged against East as an error, for from his standpoint if West held the third club—then overtaking with the ace could establish the dummy's jack for a discard.

When the queen of clubs held at trick two, West shifted to the ten of diamonds. Declarer wisely refrained from putting in North's jack for a free finesse. It did not appear to him that West was not likely to lead from a holding that included the queen, so he played the four of diamonds from dummy and won the trick with his own ace.

South led a heart to North's ace and then proceeded to run all of his trumps in order to see if any pressure could be applied against his opponents. East was required to make five discards. He felt obliged to guard his diamond queen as well as to retain the ace of clubs—so he threw two clubs, one diamond and the ten and king of hearts. A club lead now put East in, and he was forced to surrender the last two tricks to North's king-jack of diamonds.

Terminal To Be Reopened

A North Carolina trucking firm that formerly operated a terminal in Greenville has announced plans to reopen the facility here on March 29.

Vallon L. Burris, president of Helms Motor Express Inc. of Albemarle, announced that Helms will reopen the Greenville terminal located at 110 Wilson St.

Burris said that George M. Creech of Greenville, who served as manager of the local terminal until it closed several years ago, has been rehired as manager.

The president, who recently purchased Helms, added that in an effort to insure fast and dependable service for Helms customers, new and modern equipment has been purchased by the trucking line and several terminals are being reopened.

Award-Winning Band Will Play Friday Night

The award winning Rose High School Dance Band will furnish the music for a fund raising dance to help finance band activities on Friday night at the Moose Lodge.

The dance, sponsored by the band booster club, will serve as a means of raising funds for the activities of the entire Rose High band, according to dance band director Tom Smith.

Hours for the affair have been set for 9-12 p.m. Tickets are available in advance at Rose High.

The Dance Band, which won first place in the Cary Band Day competition several months ago, will travel to Winston-Salem on April 17 to participate in a tri-state stage band clinic.

The "sea water" theme, as advocated by many biochemists, is based on simple "horse sense."

For example, our blood is essentially water and it thus contains small traces of all the 44 trace chemicals of the soil that are water-soluble.

But many of these chemicals have washed back to the oceans since plowing has turned over the soil to meet the torrents of rainfall and melting snows.

As a result, a chemical analysis of river water in the U.S.A. showed an absence of 20 of those 44 trace chemicals that originally were in the soil when the continents first rose up out of the sea.

Until recently, medicines disregarded ocean water, thinking that such small traces of chemicals surely couldn't be valuable.

Plan Meeting For All Farm Bureau Members

The Pitt County Farm Bureau board of directors last night agreed to have a called meeting for the entire Pitt County Farm Bureau membership on May 25.

Private Rhythm In Each Person

NEW YORK (AP) — The husband who leaves in the morning a growling grouch, only to return in the evening all smiles and good cheer, may be following his own particular "circadian rhythm"—the human cycle of sleeping, waking and activity which repeats itself roughly every 24 hours.

Researchers at Bulova Watch Co. have found that humans each have their own rhythm, and never are the same, say, at 10 a.m. as at 4 p.m. In fact, most of our physiological "rates" such as metabolism, heart beat and blood pressure are different at various times during the day and affect our psychological outlook as well.

J. C. Galloway, a member of the N.C. Farm Bureau board, said, "there are many areas where Farm Bureau as a general farm organization can build a more effective and aggressive voice for those it represents."

The members of the N.C. Board of Directors decided that the state organization needs to expand in the following areas: public relations; applied research for marketing and legislation; commodities activities; contract bargaining and marketing; expansion of present market programs; development of new markets; ecology; women's activities; youth activities; and county office opportunities.

Ecology specialists and chemical specialists are needed to represent farmers when decisions are reached in these areas, Galloway explained.

At the meeting on May 25, the Farm Bureau membership of Pitt County will decide if Pitt will move forward with the state organization.

President Burney Baker appointed the following safety committee: Wilbur L. Worthington, Mrs. Ruel Dilda and Mrs. David Smith.

Baker announced that Doug Gurkin of the Black Jack Community had been elected vice chairman of the State Young Farmers Committee of the N.C. Farm Bureau Federation.

After the regular meeting was adjourned, the various commodity committees met to discuss resolutions covering the different field crops.

Re-Election Bid By 2 In Grifton

GRIFTON — David E. Bosley has filed for re-election as mayor for the town of Grifton and Alton E. Clements has filed for re-election to the board of commissioners in the May 4 municipal election here.

Bosley, a West Virginia native, is employed in the "Dacron" research lab at DuPont. He is married to the former Ann Wheeler of West Medford, Mass., and they have four children.

He received his undergraduate degree in science from West Virginia University and his Ph.D. degree in physical chemistry from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He has been employed by DuPont since 1954 except for two years duty with the U.S. Army.

The Bosleys moved to Grifton in 1958.

Bosley was a member of the town board for three years prior to his election as mayor in 1969.

Clements, seeking his second term on the board of commissioners, is an employee of DuPont and is fire chief of the Grifton Fire Department.

Richard Wilson (1713-82) was the forerunner of English landscape painting.

TWO REASONS WHY THE SPECIAL SOFT DRINK TAX IS UNFAIR AND SHOULD BE REPEALED.

Those who can afford it least have to pay the most: Housewives who buy soft drinks for their families, children, working men and women — those who consume the most soft drinks — are singled out to pay more than their fair share of the tax burden every week, every day.

2.

The special soft drink tax is really a special food tax. In addition to the regular three or four per cent sales tax, housewives now pay a special tax on more than 100 different food items under provisions of the so-called special soft drink tax. This special tax is costing consumers throughout North Carolina about $18 million per year.

ONE WAY YOU CAN DO SOMETHING ABOUT IT.

If you resent having to pay more than your fair share of taxes just because you and your family enjoy soft drinks, please write to your legislator and urge him to repeal this unfair tax. The soft drink industry has pledged to remove the exact amount of the tax when the tax is repealed. That means you'll pay less for many food items for your family. So write to your legislator. Send your letter to your senator or representative, N.C. State Legislative Building, Raleigh, North Carolina 27602.

lets you grow free

Your tobacco grows free from most grasses, broadleaf weeds and nutgrass. Free from their competition for fertilizer and soil moisture. Free from repeated cultivations and cultivator damage to young roots. Free yourself to do other important farm jobs that need your attention.

This year, use economical, dependable Tillam on both flue-cured and burley tobacco acreage. Stop the toughest grasses and broadleaf weeds... yellow and purple nutgrass, crabgrass, lambsquarters, wild oats, barnyardgrass, pigweeds, Florida pusley, goosegrass and others that keep your tobacco yields down and production costs up. Tillam 6-E liquid is easy to handle and apply. Mix it into the soil before setting or place it below the soil surface with covered sweeps. No need to wait for rain to push it down to the weed seed zone. Free yourself from unnecessary work and worry... see us now for your supply of Tillam.
