Unemployment Climbs Back To Six Per Cent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment climbed back up to an annual rate of 6 per cent in March after a two month decline, the Labor Department announced today.

The figures were not accompanied by an official interpretation by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, under the administration's new policy of handling the monthly announcement, but members of Congress called BLS economists for questioning.

There were 5.2 million unemployed men and women in March, the report disclosed. This was 270,000 fewer than in February, but the decline was less than usual for this season. After allowing for the seasonal adjustment, joblessness rose by 150,000 on the annual basis.

Employment was about unchanged at 78.5 million, seasonally adjusted. Except for a temporary rise in January, total employment has stayed virtually level since last May; it is 500,000 below the record high of March a year ago.

The increase in unemployment occurred largely among teen-agers and those in the 20-to 24-year-old age bracket. Many jobless persons were newly entering the labor force but could not find work.

The jobless rate compared with 5.8 per cent in February, and 6.2 per cent in December—a nine-year high.

Last month's decline was described by Secretary of Labor J.D. Hodgson as an "indeed heartening" sign of improvement in the economy, but the assistant BLS commissioner, Harold Goldstein, said the figures showed a mixed picture. It was this discrepancy of interpretation which prompted the administration's decision to discontinue briefings on the monthly report by Goldstein or other BLS officials.

Senate and House members of the Joint Economic Committee called the experts before it today.

N.C. Senate Postpones Final Action On State Presidential Primary

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Senate today postponed final action on a bill to create a presidential preference primary in the state beginning in 1972.

The measure was passed on second reading Thursday. It will be the first order of business next Tuesday.

Opponents of the measure used a tangle of parliamentary maneuvers in an attempt to stall the bill Thursday, but the Senate approved the measure 32-12 on second reading.

Leading the opposition was Sen. John Burney, D-New Hanover, who failed in two attempts to have the bill returned to committees.

There was little debate on the provisions of the bill itself Thursday. The measure would provide for presidential preference primaries during the first week in May every four years starting in 1972.

The state Board of Elections would nominate all nationally recognized candidates of each party as potential participants, and each nominee would have to file a $500 fee to get his name on the ballot. A candidate could also get his name on the ballot by submitting a petition signed by 10,000 voters.

The four candidates who received the highest number of votes — providing each received at least 10 per cent of the votes — would share the party's delegate votes according to the proportion of popular votes each cancidate received.

The delegates would be bound on the first ballot only and on subsequent ballots could vote as they pleased.

Burney attempted to send the bill to the Appropriations committee because he said the printing of ballots for the primary would cost the state money.

Lack Evidence, Dismiss Case Against Students

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

The case against two East Carolina University students, whose suspension pending a hearing before the University Board helped sparked a Tuesday night protest which resulted in the arrest of 33 persons, was dismissed because of lack of evidence yesterday.

The Board, composed four faculty members and four students, dismissed the action because the testimony in affidavits presented as evidence was insufficient, one of the board's faculty members explained.

Susan Sterling, a freshman from Mount Holly, and Robert Louisana, a sophomore from East Hartford, Conn., were suspended Tuesday, for alleged violations of the University visitation policy.

Students, who Wednesday staged a rally supporting changes in the school's policy on visitation and urging a boycott of downtown Greenville merchants in an effort to put pressure on the University's administration, staged another lengthy rally on the Mall yesterday.

Speakers yesterday afternoon said the students are seeking three things from the university's administration: immediate reinstatement of the students suspended as a result of their arrest Tuesday night; defined Student Government Association and Men's Residence Council powers to the end that student affairs governed by the groups will be handled only by the students; and approval of amended visitation rights as recommended by the MRS and SGA.

Those visitation rights, referred to by some as "unlimited visitation" call for visitation in men's dorms from 12 noon until girl's curfew (which varies from 11:30 p. m. until 2 a.m. depending on the day of week and classification of the student), seven days per week.

Under the visitation policy cancelled by the executive committee of the University's

Art Acquisition Policy Adopted

Map Completion Of Fund Drive

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Plans to launch an immediate campaign to complete the local matching funds for the Rachel Maxwell Moore Foundation and a policy for acquisition of art were approved at two separate meetings at the Greenville Art Center Thursday night.

The first meeting, that of the members of the East Carolina Art Society Acquisition Committee, resulted in a two fold plan for the coming year relative to use of the $5,000 in purchase funds recently received from the proceeds of the Rachel Maxwell Moore Foundation.

Members of the Acquisition Committee approved a purchase fund of up to $250 for a work from the Sidewalk Art Show to become a part of the center's permanent collection. The motion carries stipulations that the purchase is subject to approval of the Acquisiton Committee, and that this fund need not be spent in event none of the entries are approved as suitable for the collection. The purchase fund can be used for a work in any media, including sculpture.

In a second motion, the Acquisition Committee approved contacting members of the N.C. Museum of Art in Raleigh to seek professional help in selecting a work or works for purchase for the center's collection. In addition, the committee is authorized to seek professional help from sources other than Raleigh.

Following the meeting of the Acquisition Committee, a meeting of the Board of Directors of the East Carolina Art Society considered plans to take action to complete raising the amount needed to match the challenge grant of Jeff and Grover Maxwell—who recently gave $50,000 as their share in boosting the Rachel Maxwell Moore Foundation funds to $100,000. Part of the local matching funds have already been met—beginning with a $1,000 donation from North Carolina National Bank at the annual dinner meeting of the society held earlier in March.

Marvin K. Blount, Sr., president of the foundation, reported on his individual efforts to raise contributions. Noting that his first attempts have proven to be very fruitful, Blount said "The first seven people I called all agreed to give $1,000 each There are three more I think will make a firm committment for $1,000."

Blount said "I have never had more enthusiastic response in any campaign I've undertaken. As soon as word started getting around, I had one man come to me voluntarily."

The president of the foundation noted he had "quit campaigning 15 years ago, but for this cause, I'm willing to work again."

Blount stressed that a campaign to collect the matching funds for the grant, as well as additional funds to help in the operations of the center, must not be allowed to die in a committee, but must be carried out now.

He said the time has come "to do something we've never done before," to make the Greenville Art Center the focal point of culture in eastern North Carolina. "We are destined for this," he commented, "we have seen the intellectual level of the whole area lifted. We have been benefited by the great university here, and now we are destined to benefit the entire area as the cultural center for all the people."

A motion was approved to appoint a steering committee to head up a kick-off campaign. For this committee, Dr. Donald Tucker, Mrs. David J. Whichard II, Dr. Allan Taylor and Robert Pittman were named. In turn, they will organize a permanent committee, based somewhat on the structure of the United Fund campaign committee.

Dr. Alfred H. Yongue was also named to the steering committee as a representative from the Rachel Maxwell Moore Foundation.

As a kick-off project, a breakfast to which Greenville and area people will be invited was decided on. The date and place of this will be announced within a few days.

It was again emphasized that despite the grant made by the brothers of the late Mrs. Moore and the contributions already received for the local matching funds; the foundation fund is completely separate from operations, maintenance and insurance funds for the center. The foundation funds are restricted solely to purchase of art from interest or dividends derived from the principal of the foundation fund.

For this reason, it was stipulated that in the event an amount more than necessary to match the Maxwell grant is raised in the fund raising campaign, this can go to the general operating fund or be earmarked as a reserve fund to build a new art center.

Currently, all expenses—the paying off of the mortgage on the building; the salary of the director and a cleaning woman; the payment of insurance on the permanent collection and on exhibitions; maintenance and utility costs; printing and postage; and repairs to the building—all come from contributions made annually by the city and the county, plus membership fees, voluntary contributions, and profits derived from commissions on sale of works on exhibit.

In effect, this results in a situation where, as increasing sums of funds become available for the purchase of works of art, funds for essentials such as adequate insurance, for building maintenance, and mortgage payments due are becoming increasingly critical.

Suming up the situation,

Two Legislators Lash Out At Bottlers' Tactics To Remove Tax

RALEIGH (AP) — Two North Carolina legislators have lashed out at the soft drink industry and launched an effort to remove the penny soft drink tax from Kool Aid and similar products.

The two told the Senate and House Thursday that the soft drink industry insisted on including powdered products in the 1969 law, but is now using this part of the levy in an "unfair advertising" campaign against the whole tax.

The statement came from Rep. Perry Martin, D-Northampton, and Sen. Herman Moore, D-Mecklenburg, as they introduced bills to remove the tax from powder base products.

In prepared statements, Martin and Moore said that Gov. Bob Scott is backing their proposal, which would cost the state about $750,000 a year.

Martin said this would not be a significant loss since the tax was estimated to produce $15 million a year but has actually brought in $18 million.

Martin said placing the tax on Kool Aid-like products was a mistake, but that it was done when the soft drink industry raised a "hue and cry" that "if we were to leave these other products untaxed, it would create great competitive disadvantage to the bottling industry."

He said the bottling industry is now attacking the integrity of the 1969 General Assembly by using the tax on Kool Aid as a focus of "its widespread publicity campaign in the newspaper and on radio and television."

In reply, Sam L. Whitehourse, executive director of the N.C. Soft Drink Association, said that by the introduction of its bill, Martin has "admitted that this special tax is discriminatory and unfair." He said the exemption of powder products would exempt products manufactured mainly in other states "while leaving the tax on products manufactured in the Tar Heel state."

In other legislative developments Thursday:

—The Senate Public Health committee approved a bill to liberalize abortion laws in the state when its chairman Sen. Claude Currie, D-Durham, voted for the bill and broke a 5-5 tie. The bill, which has passed the House, will come up for Senate action Tuesday.

—The House Roads committee overwhelmingly approved a Senate bill that would double the amount of money the municipalities receive from the state gasoline tax. The bill, backed by Gov. Scott, is scheduled for House action Tuesday.

—The General Assembly invited Gov. Scott to appear before a joint session at 12:30 p.m. next Thursday to present his environmental proposals.

—The House enacted into law a bill introduced by Sen. John Burney, D-New Hanover, that would allow school officials to prohibit the enrollment of, or remove from the schools, any student who has reached 21 years of age.

—The House passed and sent to the Senate a bill to add rear-view mirrors and exhaust systems to the list of equipment on automobiles that must pass annual inspection.

—Rep. Erwin Patton, D-Macon, and Sens. W. C. Taylor, D-Caswell, and Carl D. Killian, D-Jackson, introduced bills to appropriate $750,000 to help build and renovate local jails.

—Rep. Robert Wynne, D-Wake, introduced a bill setting the maximum work week for men and women without overtime pay at 56 hours. Present law limits women to 48 hours. It would also repeal a provision that requires that seats be provided for female clerks but does not require seats for males in the same jobs.

—Bills by Rep. William Roberson, D-Beaufort, would appropriate $65,000 to set up a food industry section in the Department of Conservation and Development's division of commerce and industry and $250,000 to set up a small business

Home Sewing Grows Popular Says Long-Time Sewing Expert

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Men's suits may be the next popular project of home sewers predicts Lucille Rivers, long-time sewing expert. Women (and men) already are at work on vests, belts, ties. And they now are getting instructions from Miss Rivers on how to make slacks.

"Making neckties is one of the biggest sewing bits right now, particularly among teen-agers who are sewing for boyfriends," she explains. "They also are making belts and all kinds of vests—fake furs, leather, knit—and they want to know how to make slacks."

Since the early forties, Miss Rivers has been a leading enthusiast in home sewing. She has traveled over the world on lecture tours, has written a book on home sewing, and has a twice a day television program that draws more than 20,000 letters a week.

"In Canada, where I was taping shows, the television camera crew was so interested in the tie program and asked so many pertinent questions that I based four additional shows on it," she explains.

Sewing machines are so well calibrated today that just about anyone can sew, she points out, and even 10-year-olds are making pants suits.

"Poor quality and the high cost of ready-to-wear women's clothes caused the home-sewing boom," Miss Rivers says. "Women couldn't find good clothes at prices they could afford, so they made their own clothes. Price is no object when they buy fabric. They'll pay $12 a yard for it because they know there will be a quality look. Knits are the sewing rage right now because with 1½ yards of the 60-inch fabric you can put a good dress in the wardrobe for around $20."

At the moment, Miss Rivers is making a carmel-colored suede suit for the Italian-Danish singer Lon Ritchie. She heard him sing in Paris when she was on a sewing tour. Later, in the United States, when he could not find a record company—he had a 2 million record sale abroad—she formed a company, Ripari D'Oro, to help him. But it isn't because of their business friendship that Lon wears the home-sewn wardrobe, she says. He really likes those clothes.

"If I could stick to it, it would take two days to make the suede suit. You need about 12 skins for a man's suit, and these cost from $3 up. I sketched an English jacket I saw in a store window, and then I found a pattern that is similar. But you've got to make bell-shaped trousers because the skins aren't long enough. It isn't a project for beginner sewers because if the leather stretches at the knee you are in trouble, although I may use a seam at front or back or I would piece the seams if I didn't know what else to do," she advises.

Teen-agers do a lot of suede sewing, she says, using inexpensive skins.

Miss Rivers' television shows have a live quality even though they are taped because she doesn't mind women seeing that she, too, can make a mistake.

Little tips developed through her own trial and error self-taught sewing are passed to viewers. For example:

—A good way to do pocket detailing is patterned on a man's suit detailing—use two strips of material instead of making a bound pocket, a tedious task.

—Instead of using tissue when sewing vinyl, put a couple of drops of machine oil in the foot of the machine. Or you can use cold cream or salad oil.

—Sewing on leather is made easier by using rubber cement to anchor the seams after the seam is sewed. Pull it up and flatten it out again so that it will stick properly. Polyester thread or silk thread is best for sewing on leather, she advises.

The most popular questions from viewers are those concerned with zippers and leather. She provides information on tricky sewing—plaids—which can snag experienced sewers, and she has shown a short-cut to cord-band button holes—you can do 12 in 20 minutes with her method.

KEEPING HIM IN STITCHES — Lucille Rivers gets a kiss from Italian-Danish singer Lon Ritchie who is wearing a fake fur vest she made.

Parties Given Bride-Elect

GRIFTON — Miss Patsy Oglesby, bride-elect, was honored at an informal party Saturday morning at the home of Mrs. Sam Nelson.

Assisting hostesses were Mrs. W. E. Rasberry, Mrs. Joe Quinerly and Mrs. Mark Phillips.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Nelson, who presented them to the guest of honor and her mother, Mrs. John T. Oglesby Jr. Miss Oglesby was presented a white mum corsage and a gift of silver by the hostesses.

The dining room table was covered with a white linen cutwork cloth and centered with a basket filled with spring flowers in shades of yellow, purple and lavender.

Miss Nancy Oglesby, sister of the honoree, assisted in serving. Mrs. J. C. Hooten, grandmother of the bride-elect, was a special guest.

GRIFTON — Miss Oglesby was honored Saturday night by Mrs. Dan Sutton, Mrs. Dalton Williams, Mrs. Harry Malone and Mrs. Jesse Moore.

On arrival, Mrs. Sutton and Mrs. Williams greeted the guests and presented them to the honoree, her mother, Mrs. John T. Oglesby Jr., and her grandmother, Mrs. J. C. Hooten. They were remembered with white mum corsages.

Party games were led by Mrs. Malone.

The refreshment table was covered with a pink net cloth and centered with an arrangement of pink and white flowers flanked by candles in candelabra. Mrs. Hooten poured punch and Mrs. Oglesby served decorated bridal squares.

The gift table was decorated with a bride doll.

To give dacron curtains a new look, rinse them in a solution of 1 cup epsom salts and 1 gallon lukewarm water. This is especially good for ruffles curtains as they won't need ironing after this treatment.

Cool Kid In Time Of Trouble

OLDBURY, England (WNS) — Kate Thompson, 5, woke to discover the house on fire and her parents not at home. She did what her mother had instructed in case of trouble: phone the police. The only complication: she couldn't remember her address. Officers kept the little girl talking for seven minutes until she blurted out her telephone number. That clue was enough to locate her on the Loan Farm Estate. Kate was dressing her three-year-old brother Richard when the emergency squads arrived.

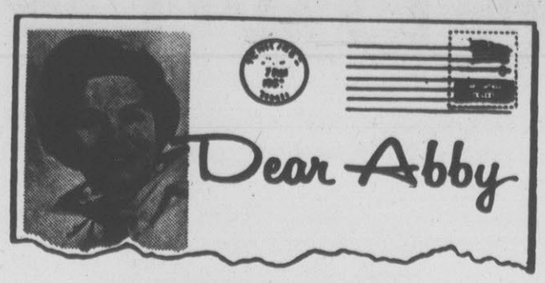
He Wants To Graduate From Marriage



By Abigail Van Buren

[© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: My husband just told me he doesn't love me anymore and wants to split up. I'm not sure why all this came up, but I still love him and don't want to split up. We have no children. He's a graduate student and I helped put him thru school.

He claims there is nobody else. He just wants a divorce. He also says that if we split up he wants to know where I am so he can come over and get his beard trimmed.

What should I do? Hang on to a guy who doesn't want me? Or tell him off and let him go?

TROUBLED IN COLORADO

DEAR TROUBLED: For the moment, don't do anything. A man who demands a divorce but wants his "ex" within shouting distance in case he wants his beard trimmed doesn't sound very mature to me. I'll say this for him, tho. He sure trusts you!

DEAR ABBY: My sister took up karate lessons on my mother's request for her own protection. My problem is that every time one of my friends comes over, my sister practices some of her karate on them, and they go home black and blue.

If I try to tell my sister to leave my friend alone she bounces me around the room and tells me to shut up as she is a year older than me. Can you help me?

LOSING FRIENDS

DEAR LOSING: Tell her she may have a "brown belt" or a "black one", but if she continues to karate your friends or yourself, you'll belt her! And then do it, Chop Chop!

DEAR ABBY: "SAD DAD" who wished he could get his 18-year-old daughter to shave her legs should send her to visit my family in Cuernavaca, near Mexico City. She would be in high style with her hairy legs.

My family is an old Mexican family of pure, unmixed Spanish blood. All the women are proud of their hairy legs, and would no more think of shaving their legs than shaving their heads.

At 17, I joined my brother at the University of Texas. When he noticed the hair on my legs [it looked like fur], he said, "Not here, sister. Shave it off, and keep it off?" I did, and soon learned that nearly all American girls shaved their legs.

When I returned to Cuernavaca, my mother and grandmother were scandalized at my hairless legs. They made me wear heavy woolen stockings until my legs were "furry" and presentable again.

When my fiance came to Cuernavaca just before our wedding and saw my hairy legs, he nearly gagged but said nothing. Of course, I shaved them the first night away from home, and have kept them shaved ever since.

LETTER FROM TEXAS

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for telling the father who was upset over his 18-year-old daughter's refusal to shave her legs to mind his own business.

Several years ago I spent 18 months in Germany with the United States Army, and it changed my outlook considerably. I now feel that unshaven legs and under-arms make a woman highly erotic.

WHITTIER

DEAR WHITTIER: Times have changed since you were there. The well-groomed Fraulcins are now defuzzed. Let's hear it from Italy!

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Gubernatorial Bill Hangs Fire

By YVONNE BASKIN
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott's forces haven't decided when or if they are going to introduce a bill that would allow future governors—or perhaps Scott himself—to succeed themselves in office.

Bills to allow North Carolina's governor and lieutenant governor to serve two successive terms were drawn up almost two months ago, but legislators have been sitting on them waiting for further word from the administration.

Surveys by the Associated Press have shown sentiment running strong against the two-term idea, and even most supporters of the idea say they would oppose it if the bill were drawn to allow Scott and Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor to succeed themselves.

Scott asked the General Assembly to pass a constitutional amendment allowing a governor to succeed himself when he delivered his legislative message to a joint session the week the legislature convened.

Soon afterward, administration sources delivered two bills—one for the governor and one for lieutenant governor—to Rep. Herschel Harkins, D-Buncombe, chairman of the House Constitutional Amendments committee.

"We were told just to hold them awhile," Harkins said. He decided to redraft the bills into one measure, and after the redrafting he left a package of the bills on the desk of Sen. Stewart Warren, D-Sampson, chairman of the Senate Constitution Committee.

Asked about the bills this week, Warren said he didn't know who had left them on his desk and said no one had contacted him about introducing it. Furthermore, he opposes the bill.

"If anyone asks, I would put it in, but I would not support it," Warren said.

About the same time the bills were delivered to Warren, press surveys showed at least half the members of his committee were opposed to them.

Warren said the bill, as drafted, would make two terms legal as soon as the amendment was ratified by the voters of the state. If the 18-year-old vote amendment passes the General Assembly, an election will be held on it in the fall, and any other constitutional amendments passed by this legislature would probably be put on the ballot.

This would make it possible for the measure to be passed in time for Scott to run for a second term.

"I had hoped that the governor would have made a statement and cleared the air about his intentions, but he hasn't," Harkins said.

He said he has not taken a position on the bill yet.

Near Tactical Decision On Pay Raise Demands

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The North Carolina Association of Educators entered the second day of its annual convention today with a decision expected on how tough teachers should get with the state on their demands for a pay raise.

The state's public school teachers are generally agreed that they should be getting a higher salary, but they are not agreed on what to do if their demands are not met.

The 48,000-member NCAE has proposed a 31 per cent pay raise over the next two years to attain the national average. Gov. Bob Scott and the Advisory Budget Commission have proposed a 10 per cent raise.

One of the major issues before the convention, which opened Thursday night, is the matter of sanctions, which could take the form of public notification that teaching conditions in North Carolina are unsatisfactory, serving as a warning to prospective teachers.

A. Craig Phillips, state superintendent of public instruction, addressed the first general session Thursday night and called on North Carolina legislators to make "a dramatic reassessment of their own value judgments" and allocate much more for public education than has been recommended by the Advisory Budget Commission.

"Let it be completely obvious," said Phillips, "that we here assembled are not asking for something for ourselves, not pleading for our economic well-being alone," but for the children.

In other opening session action, the NCAE announced its annual School Bell awards for education reporting. The awards went to six newspapers and three radio and television stations.

Newspaper winners were the Wilmington Star-News (Louise Lamica), Greensboro Record (Richard Benton), Kannapolis Independent, Concord Tribune (Daniel Hoover), Watauga Democrat and This Week of Forest City.

Broadcast winners were WKYK, Burnsville; WSVM, Valdese; and WFMY-TV, Greensboro (Lee Kinard).

Wore A Ribbon

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Flamboya came to Charlotte's main street Thursday, leaving mostly male bystanders agog and grinning.

She had been billed—in handbills pasted in men's rooms throughout the business district — as voluptuous, nude and with measurements to put a stripper to shame.

Many men lined the street during the lunch hour to get an eyeful, recalling a celebrated stroll by a bikini-clad danger last year.

Then Flamboya rolled into view in an open truck. Signs on the vehicle noted her measurements of 80-100-150 and added: "Would you like to give her a squeeze?" She wore only a red ribbon.

"I thought it was going to be a real stripper," one man said, although he remembered it was April Fool's Day. Flamboya was a cow.

Reasonable Views Can Prevail

Recent unrest over dormitory visitation privileges led to a series of incidents which culminated in a rock throwing confrontation on and near the ECU campus Tuesday night.

As a result, the university's executive committee cancelled all visitation privileges pending further action by the full board of trustees of the institution.

No doubt this was upsetting to many students, and particulatrly to those who had properly observed the liberalized dormitory visitation rules.

Probably a book could be written on the events which led up to this confrontation and it is not necessary here for us to pass judgment on either the student action or that of the executive committee.

What we would like to say is that we believe the administration of East Carolina University to be reasonable minded in matters involving student rights. And after years of observing the workings of student government at ECU we have every confidence that the elected leadership of the students includes young men and women who can also be reasonable. Outgoing SGA President Bob Whitley said at a press conference that he would personally do everything in his power to prevent violence.

"I want people to understand that the ECU students do not think that everything they suggest should be done, that their every wish should be given in to, but we do want to be treated like adults," he said.

If this reflects student feeling, then it is possible for student representatives to sit down with the administration and work out a satisfactory solution to the problem.

We feel this should be done.

A great American president once said, "Ask not what your country can do for you; ask what you can do for your country." Perhaps this can now be applied to East Carolina University and we can all make an effort to settle the differences between students and administration over visitation rules so that our total energies can be directed at obtaining the things which will allow East Carolina University to best serve its students and the public.

Sen. Futrell Stood Aside

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH — Something unusual happened in the North Carolina Senate the other day.

A member stood aside on a vote because he felt it involved a personal conflict of interest.

Senator Ashley Futrell of Beaufort acted from conscience and the conviction that legislative conduct should be guided by a code of ethics.

"I feel very strongly that the confidence of citizens in the General Assembly would be greatly strengthened by the adoption of a legislative code of ethics," he said.

Legislation in that direction ought to get careful and favorable consideration during the current session, he added.

As it happens, bills looking in that direction were introduced in Senate and House virtually as soon as the 1971 General Assembly convened. Since the first day of the session they have remained somnolent in the respective Rules committee.

"I haven't heard a word. I assume it hasn't been taken up," said Senator Hargrove Bowles of Guilford, one of the sponsors. Protocol would call for notification of the introducer when the bill was considered.

Public Cynicism Target

Bowles aimed the measure at checking what he feels is a "gradual erosion of belief on the part of the public in the honesty of those of us in the world of government and politics." He would do it through a cards-on-the-table disclosure of financial interests, and creation of a bipartisan ethics committee to hear complaints and weigh reputed instances of conflict of interest violations.

Rep. Robert A. Jones of Rutherford introduced the identical bill in the House.

Futrell and Bowles speak from deep concern on a subject which worries legislators — enough so that the Legislative Research Commission carried out an investigation and report — but the impression is that they express a minority view.

Not many lawmakers are convinced of the need for or practicality of a code. There may be those who feel some unease at the strictures involved in disclosure of interests and adherence to a code. The likelihood of the enactment of meaningful standards to measure conflicts of interest appears dim indeed.

"I see no great need for it," said House Speaker Philip P. Godwin of Gates. "General Assembly members are honorable, and already bound by their oaths of office and the statutes of the state. It is my understanding that those states which have a code find it impossible to really enforce."

Further, he surmised, a scoundrel would subscribe to a code and remain a scoundrel while a man of honor wouldn't need a code at all.

Dad's Precept Heeded

Sen. John Jay Burney, Jr., of New Hanover harked back to paternal instruction. "My daddy said if you were honest, you didn't have to tell it. Folks would know it. I've tried to practice what my daddy said," Burney related. A code, he added, would be a superfluity.

Incidentally, his father was a Superior Court judge.

The Legislative Research Commission recommended against a legislative ethics statute. The electoral process, it suggested, is far more effective in resolving questions on the ethical quality of representation by individual legislators.

Economics Breeds Conflict

Each member's occupation or profession is the background for potential conflicts of interest, Senator Futrell said. "In my opinion, where there is a conflict between public and personal interest, the member should disqualify himself from voting on the bill," he said.

The vote from which he abstained proposed to prohibit liquor advertising in newspapers. Futrell is editor and publisher of the Washington Daily News. He had an economic stake in the decision.

As it turned out, it was overwhelmingly rejected. Still, the principle was operative, Futrell said.

"A code of ethics for the press hangs in my office at home where I see it from my desk," the Senator commented. "Why shouldn't it be the same in my office here?"

Bowles acknowledged a personal debate on what to do in the event a consumer credit bill now in the House makes it to the Senate. "I am on the board of a bank making consumer loans. I am on the board of a chain of retail credit jewelry stores. There could be a conflict of interest," he said candidly. He may stand aside, or vote calling attention to his business involvement.

Still, he said, visibility is the important factor. Filing of financial interests would place a legislator on record, and remove any cloud of suspicion, he said.

At Long Last, Needed Projects Shaping Up

The Highway Commission gave its final approval of the low bid submitted for the E. Tenth Street project and this work should soon get underway.

The 2.3 mile project will convert Tenth Street to a five lane drive, including a center lane for turns.

It is one of several major highway projects which have been announced for the Greenville area. Two others on the U. S. 264 bypass are underway and hopefully others will soon be forthcoming.

It appears that at long last some badly needed road projects are beging carried out in our area.

Revolt Of The Demo Center

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — No matter how the House Democrats vote in caucus on various end-the-war resolutions, the meeting marks a grim nadir for President Nixon in trying to hold the Democratic center behind his Vietnam war policy.

For the first time, Mr. Nixon confronts active opposition not just from the left but from pillars of the House Democratic establishment. The newly elected majority whip, Rep. Thomas O. (Tip) O'Neill of Massachusetts, is the first member of the Democratic leadership to actively oppose the war. O'Neill has been a foe for some time, but the ranks are growing. They now include, for example, Rep. Dan Rostenkowski of Illinois, former caucus chairman.

Moreover, quite apart from trying to pin down the House Democratic majority to a party position demanding a set withdrawal deadline for all U.S. troops, O'Neill, Rostenkowski, and other powerful establishment Democrats — such as Reps. Edward Boland of Massachusetts and Hugh Carey of New York — are now threatening flanking attacks on the President's war policy.

That threat: a major effort to cut the President's defense appropriations bills and other legislation tied to the war to force him "to complete the withdrawal" of all U.S. troops by Dec. 31, 1971.

The threat came in a letter to all House Democrats, signed by O'Neill, Rostenkowski, and Carey (as well as liberal Rep. James Corman of California). Sent on Monday, it raises the specter that the longer total withdrawal is delayed, the more "vulnerable to attack" are troops left behind. Translated, that warns Mr. Nixon that future casualties in Vietnam are on his head.

Worse still, the way that the Democratic leadership has dealt with this threat from its own center has stupefied the Nixon administration. The leadership handling, in a word, has been atrocious, leading to Administration fears that the new Speaker, Carl Albert of Oklahoma, cannot control his party.

For example, Wednesday's caucus, originally set for March 17, was postponed at the last minute when the Democratic leadership belatedly came to understand how much strength was behind the various end-the-war resolutions. This was done without any leadership awareness that the Democratic Policy Council, the newly created national sounding board, would vote unanimously for a Dec. 31, 1971, withdrawal deadline.

The Policy Council's action added powerful ammunition to the House Democrats backing a similar position. Accordingly, the leadership's tactical delay, far from shoring up the position of Albert, Majority Leader Hale Boggs of Louisiana, and other Democrats steadfastly opposed to any end-the-war resolution, played into hands of the newly-dovish center.

If this sudden outbreak of anti-war emotionalism had occured in the Senate, it would scarcely be noticeable. The Senate has long been the hot torch of peach opposition and passed its own end-the-war resolution weeks ago.

But the House has been extremely reluctant to follow suit. For months last year it refused to approve the Cooper-Church resolution, banning U.S. troops from

Strength For Today

BUZZING AROUND

Some years ago a man invented a mechanical bee. It was fitted with an ingenious little device which enabled it to buzz around as if it were alive. When released, it could not be distinguished from a live bee. But if you were to put a drop of honey on the table, the live bee would take the honey and the artificial bee would not. The artificial bee just buzzed around.

Think of that drop of honey as the opportunities given everyone to live a full and satisfying life. There are some people who go after the deep and abiding situations, and there are others who do not. The latter just buzz around. To them life is not a pilgrimage, an adventure or a burden. Life to them is a party. All they do is buzz around. They seek to evade work, to enjoy every possible thrill, and to indulge every appetite. They never get down to the real joys of life which arise, not from indulgence or acquisition or domination, but from living life to its full every day.

Artificial bees and artificial people have no interest in anything else but just in buzzing around. They are not appealed to by the things in life which are real. Superficiality characterized their every act and attitude. They live in an unreal world. They never know life. They just buzz around.

Japanese Plan On SST

WASHINGTON — The Japanese have put in a bid for the SST now that it has been turned down by the U.S. government. A delegation from Tokyo is in the United States at this moment negotiating for the plans and equipment, and I was fortunate to speak to one of the members. His name is Mr. Hakai Samauri and he told me that he thought the Japanese would be able to build two prototypes of the SST by July.

"How much do you think the planes will cost you?" I asked him.

"We estimate that each plane will cost $79.50, but this includes color television at each seat."

"That seems awful low," I said. "The Americans claimed they couldn't build an SST prototype for less than a billion dollars."

Mr. Samauri said, "That is because the Americans are so far behind in miniaturization. We feel we can get everything down to size, which will cut costs immeasurably."

"But how large will your SST be?"

"About the length of this conference table."

"You're going to build a supersonic transport airplane the size of this conference table?"

"Well, it will be streamlined. We won't have corners on it like this table."

"But how many people will an SST of this size hold?"

"I can't give you a figure now, but we also intend to miniaturize the passengers. If we can get them down to size, we could get between 200 and 250 people on board."

"That's amazing," I said. "Why didn't the Americans think of that?"

"Americans have always been taught to think big. We Japanese have always been taught to think small. If you will excuse my impertinence, I believe the American SST manufacturers did not proceed with their plans in a wise way."

"How do you mean?"

"They announced they were building a supersonic transport airplane at the very moment your country was more interested in mass ground transportation. Had Boeing said they were going to build a supersonic train, no one would have questioned it. After they built the fuselage they could then have announced that their tests showed it wouldn't work as a train, but in order to save all the taxpayers' money invested they would add wings and see if it could fly."

"It probably would have worked," I said. "Tell me, Mr. Samauri, will your SST cause ecological problems?"

"We have made studies and we can say that if you had 500 Japanese SSTs flying at one time they would give off as much pollution as 12 pigeons at the Washington Monument."

"I must say," I said, "you people really have this all worked out. How many do you plan to make?"

"Probably only a million in the first year. We don't want to flood the market."

"Wait a minute," I said. "What about the dangers of a sonic boom?"

Mr. Samauri took a brown bag out of his pocket, blew it

To The Editor:

Veterans and citizens of Pitt County, in regards to the trial of Lt. William T. Calley, I wish to ask your support in an effort against injustice.

As a veteran, I fully understand the unfair military ruling against Lt. Calley. We cannot be unconcerned and let this happen to an innocent American fighting for you and me.

A telegram to the President will be of great significance.

Johnny R. Tyson

To the Editor:

Are we going to give up? If we are to get the med school we want, the people, especially here in the east, are going to have to start speaking up.

Here is why we need a med school at Greenville: (1) There is a critical need for practicing physicians in all areas of the state. (2) In the whole state, there is one doctor for every 963 people. In the Piedmont, it is one for every 781, but in the east it is one doctor for every 1,663 citizens. (3) Thirteen of the 20 counties that have less than five doctors are in eastern N. C. (4) There are no medical education facilities east of Raleigh and no medical centers east of Raleigh that can compare with those located west of Raleigh. (5) Medical centers will attract more doctors. The enactment of the medical school bill in 1965 has resulted in 28 doctors locating in Pitt County.

Too many of us are not letting our legislators know how we feel. Dr. Jenkins needs and deserves our full support in this effort. Let's get behind this worthy cause now.

Buying Upturn Signs Coming

By ELMER ROESSNER

The big upturn in business will not begin in April, although there will be some encouraging signs. The advent of spring weather is both a human and a business stimulant. People start making vacation plans, commit themselves to home-improvement projects, think more seriously of buying a new car and find the weather more pleasant for shopping trips.

Herbert Stein, a member of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, predicted last week that consumers would step up buying of non-automotive merchandise this year. Of course they will. The rise in Social Security payments will provide oldsters with $3.7 billion or more and, for most of them, that's money that has to be spent right away to stay alive.

This will be partially offest by serveral factors: Layoffs resulting from Congress's abandonment of the supersonic transport plane; the rise in sales taxes in many states, and continuing inflation.

The layoffs and inflation are here now. The Social Security raise won't begin until midyear.

Darned Clever, Those Japanese!

Just at the time the United States is cutting intercity passenger train service to almost nothing, Japan this month is starting a vast expansion of its high-speed, smooth-riding passenger train line.

It's due to the amazing success of its Tokaido line, which runs from Tokyo to the Osaka area at speeds of up to 125 miles an hour. The line will be extended south to Okaynama next year and on to Hakata by 1975.

Then it will be extended north to Tokyo to Sapporo on the island of Honshu.

When the Tokaido line opened in 1964, it made 30 round trips daily. Now it makes more than 110.

The extension of the lines will cost an estimated $31.4 billion.

Census to Cause Shifts In Marketing

Advertising and marketing men now face considerable revising of plans to meet the population shifts certified by the 1970 census.

There have been many changes in the populations of the metropolitan areas since 1960. While New York remains the largest metropolitan area, Los Angeles has topped Chicago, moving into second place. Philadelphia, Detroit and the San Francisco-Oakland areas remain fourth, fifth and sixth, while Washington, including the sprawl into Maryland and Virginia, has jumped from tenth to seventh place. Boston is seventh, Pittsburgh, eighth, and St. Louis ninth, each down a place.

The rank of 233 other metropolitan areas are available at Commerce Department field offices.

Another census report will cause some shifting in advertising: the number of one-person households, that is people living alone, has increased since 1960 by 57 per cent and now numbers 11.1 million. This is a new perspective on the market for one-serving portions of food in cans, frozen and baked.

Soft Drinks May Take Lead In U.S. Imbibing

Inside Industry, a newsletter published by Magazines of Industry, predicts that soft drinks may become the more popular quaff in America by the end of the year of "certain in 1972."

Coffee is still number one now, soft drinks second, milk third, beer fourth. Tea is a poor fifth, fruit juices sixth, and distilled spirits, seventh.

Boyle Views Life

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

One of the ways to rebuild your ego when your life is crumbling around you is to carry a hard-boiled egg in your pocket. When you feel real low, you just reach into your pocket and touch it. There is something about the feel of an egg that gives you a sense of safety. Also, of course, there is the practical fact that you can't starve on a day you have an egg. But you must be sure that it is hard-boiled. Otherwise both the egg and your ego may be accidentally smashed.

There is always a curious sense of disappointment in meeting someone whose penmanship is striking but whose

The political pot put on additional steam today with the announcement of John Ivey Smith that he would seek re-election as alderman in the municipal primary.

It is gratifying news coming from the Greenville Country Club regarding the additional nine holes for an eighteen hole golf course. Already considered one of the finest courses in this section of the country, the local links will hold a far greater attraction to out-of-town people with the extra nine holes.

Nixon Action On Calley Surprised Most Observers

By KATHRYN JOHNSON
Associated Press writer

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — On Monday Lt. William L. Calley's future was at stake. Tuesday his life was at stake. Wednesday he was spared. Thursday he faced life in prison. Today he was back in his quarters with limited freedom.

Thus ran the drama of the 27-year-old Calley's life during the past five days.

By order of President Nixon, Calley was taken from armed custody behind the barbed wires of the post stockade Thursday and returned to his bachelor quarters.

Only a day after he was sentenced to life imprisonment for murdering 22 Vietnamese civilians at My Lai, the boyish-looking lieutenant was ordered released by the President pending the completion of a full review of his conviction by an Army court-martial.

The White House directive took most observers by surprise. The President had once said of the massacre at May Lai that "under no circumstances was it justified."

Announcement of the President's intervention was made at San Clemente, Calif., by Ronald L. Ziegler, White House press secretary.

Ziegler said Nixon had telephoned Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, to direct Calley's release.

The presidential order was not a legal step. Ziegler said.

In response to questions, the press secretary said the President was aware of widespread pro-Calley sentiment that has been expressed in thousands of telegrams to Nixon. But Ziegler added that the action "was taken at the President's own initiative."

Under the President's order, Calley was granted the status of an Army officer confined to quarters under "light guard." He can go to the laundry, to a movie, to church; but always—even in his quarters—an armed military guard must remain with him.

Calley cannot leave the post without permission. He cannot talk to newsmen. He will be allowed the visit of friends.

He will not be allowed, however, the privileges of the officer's club or to attend official social functions at the post.

Three hours after the dramatic intervention by Nixon, Calley walked from the stockade to a waiting car. Blinking from the glare of television lights, he was accompanied by his Army defense lawyer, Maj. Kenneth Raby, and military police.

About 75 persons, mostly young people who had waited from afternoon sunlight into a windy night, broke into cheers when he appeared in uniform. He gave a slight smile.

When he arrived at his base quarters, his attractive, red-haired girl friend greeted him at the door. Two armed military policemen patrolled throughout the night in front of the four-room apartment.

Military officials said the delay in Calley's release was necessary to work out details of his confinement to quarters.

The Defense Department in Washington said the young officer would continue to receive full pay until the appeal procedure is completed. In addition to sentencing him to life imprisonment, the court-martial jury ordered that he be dismissed from the service and forfeit all pay and allowances.

Calley had been kept in the red brick stockade under heavy guard since a six-man military jury convicted him Monday on charges of murdering unresisting Vietnamese men, women and children at the Vietnamese hamlet on March 16, 1968. He had been charged with 102 killings.

It had been expected that Calley would be transferred to the disciplinary barracks at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., until the decision of his jury had been reviewed—a process which could take up to five years.

Appeals from the life sentence are automatic in the initial stage of the military court process. Later they may be continued higher in the military and federal court systems.

His trial record alone, according to his civilian lawyer, George Latimore will take six months to prepare before presentation in review.

Drug Stores Asked To Halt Sale Of All Tobacco Products

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The American Pharmaceutical Association has urged the nation's 54,000 drug stores to halt the sale of all tobacco products.

The association's 300-member House of Delegates approved the resolution without dissent on a voice vote Thursday on the final day of the 37,000-member association's annual convention.

A spokesman for the organizations said the action establishes association policy without a general membership vote. The meeting drew 4,000 delegates.

The association said there is a "growing public concern about this public health hazard" of smoking.

The druggists also urged members to become personally involved in "educating young people on the health hazards of smoking." State associations and the organization's student arm also should mount antismoking and health education efforts, the resolution says.

A committee report approved by the House of Delegates notes the pharmacists in 1969 resolved that cigarette sales in pharmacies are "inconsistent with their functions as health institutions."

Last year the pharmacists voted to become active in antismoking education.

Since then "an increasing number of pharmacists have discontinued the sale of cigarettes" with favorable reaction from the public and other health practicioners, the report says.

"In the committee's view, the mass display of cigarettes in pharmacies is a direct contradiction of the role of the pharmacy as a public health facility," the report says.

The committee noted "concern over the growing trend of tobacco companies to compensate pharmacies who provide space for self-service cigarette racks."

Will Urge State Assume Funding

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Board of Social Services will be urged next Thursday to adopt a report recommending that the state take over the administration and funding of all welfare programs.

John R. Jordan of Raleigh, board chairman, said Thursday he will recommend that the board adopt the report and submit it to Gov. Bob Scott and the General Assembly for approval.

Jordan estimated that at present budget levels the change would relieve the counties of expenses totaling $30 million to $35 million per year. State expenditures would increase by this amount.

The report was prepared by a research firm over a period of five months at a cost of $36,000, Jordan said. He added the report recommends that the state be divided into districts for administering the welfare programs.

Jordan said he expects one prototype district to be set up by early next year and the remaining districts to be established in 1973. A district would cover from 15 to 23 counties.

Jordan said additional state costs during the next biennium would be the expense of operating the one prototype district. This, he added, could be as much as $5 million.

"There is no inherent reason why a state-administered program cannot be fully responsive to local needs," the report said.

Welfare programs in North Carolina are funded and administered jointly by the county, state and federal governments. The federal government pays about 70 per cent of the costs, with the state and counties sharing the remaining expenses.

The report said this system is "ill equipped to meet prospective needs in the decade of the 70's. Significant variations exist among counties in both administrative practices and substantive programs."

Jordan said if the General Assembly does not go along with the prototype proposal, he will submit it again to the 1973 legislature.

gargle, I would appreciate a note from him—brief and to the point—telling me about it and whether it had had much impact on his life.

Our prejudices, too, are about as quaint as are our secret ambitions. For example, I have never had any interest in pursuing the further aquaintanceship of any man I've seen asking for a second helping of cauliflower. I figure he's too bland for my taste. Offhand, one might think this senseless prejudice may have cost me many rewarding firendships, but I doubt it. You know, you can go for years without seeing anybody ask for more cauliflower.

A realist is a man who refuses to carry a rabbit's foot for good luck, because he realizes that if the foot was really lucky the rabbit would still be wearing it.

People generally try to give the genteel impression that they take a bath every day. Nine out of 10 probably don't —nor do they need to. The world isn't as dirty as it used to be. Except mentally.

God and the devil are curiously linked. One of the more interesting religious oddities of our times is the fact that no one seemed to question whether God was alive until almost everyone had lost faith in the physical existence of the devil. But do we truly need to find a devil to prove a God?

Cambodia. Only after the American intervention ended did the House agree, and then most reluctantly.

The anti-war animosities now suddenly so pervasive among House Democrats are viewed by Administration backers as less anti-Nixon than as a response to constituent pressures. Rostenkowski is a case in point.

Rostenkowski, a pillar of the Chicago Democratic organization and Mayor Richard J. Daley's lieutenant in Washington, resisted for years appeals from home to take an anti-war stance. His decision to embrace the Dec. 31, 1971, deadline follows a major speech by Daley, running for reelection, which asked Mr. Nixon to switch spending priorities from the war to the cities.

Beyond that, Rostenkowski and other former Nixon war-supporters are alarmed by the decline in the Army's morale. They blame this on Vietnam and see it worsening as fewer and fewer Americans are left there. A national policy setting a specific time for complete withdrawal, in their view, might prevent bad morale from deteriorating into chaos.

Board of Trustees in light of Tuesday's disturbance, women students were allowed visitation privileges in men's dorms on Friday and Saturday from noon until girl's curfew.

Curfew for women students includes: Monday through Thursday nights, 11:30 p.m. for freshmen and 12:30 a.m. for upper classifications; Friday and Saturday nights, 1 a.m. for freshmen and 2 a.m. for others; and Sunday nights, 1 a.m. for everyone.

Some students at yesterday's rally were circulating a petition calling for the resignation of the school's president, Dr. Leo W. Jenkins. About 680 signatures had been placed on the petition by last night, students said; although no firm information could be secured this morning.

The SGA has applied for permits to picket four downtown Greenville businesses beginning Monday in an effort to gain support for the visitation program.

A student field day has been scheduled for the University Mall Saturday, beginning at 12 noon.

According to a hand-out distributed at the rally yesterday, the event is being staged in an effort "to keep everyone together and away from downtown Greenville.

"Games, contests and general fun will be emphasized..." and refreshments will be provided by the WRC (Women's Residence Council).

N.C. Textile Giant Charles Cannon Dies

KANNAPOLIS, N. C. (AP) — Charles A. Cannon, who headed the giant textile firm that gave life to this town, died today at the age of 78.

Cannon suffered a stroke as he worked in his mill office Thursday afternoon. He was rushed to Cabarrus County Hospital and died just before 9 a.m. today of what doctors said was a massive cerebral hemorrhage.

He had headed Cannon Mills Co. for some 50 years, taking over from his father in his twenties after heading some Cannon subsidiaries as management training.

Cannon Mills Co. operates textile plants in North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia. It makes a variety of textile products, including hosiery and upholstery material. But the firm is best known for its terry cloth towels and its sheets, both nationally advertised and known.

The company employs some 22,000 persons in its mills scattered across the three southern states. Cannon had served as president for most of his career. But he resigned the presidency several years ago, continuing as chairman of the board.

Resolution Honors Dr. Jas. H. Stewart

Dr. James H. Stewart, a Professor of Economics at East Carolina University, until his death on March 22, was honored in a resolution of tribute adopted at the meeting of the East Carolina Art Society last night.

The resolution noted that "For years Dr. Stewart devoted a substantial part of his resources and energy to furthering the cause of art in Greenville." It was stated he did this "both through active support to art in the most tangible of all expressions, that of purchasing the works of artists; and to the community at large, through the outstanding support he gave in acquiring art for Greenville citizens of today and the future."

Dr. Stewart, who was a member of the Board of Directors of the East Carolina Art Society at the time of his death, was the originator of the idea of purchasing a painting by Dr. Francis Speight to give to the Greenville Art Center.

"To insure the success of this project," the resolution states, "he made the first substantial contribution." The late professor was also a contributor to other projects at the Art Center.

Dr. Stewart was a resident of Greenville for the past 20 years. He had taught continually since 1936, with the exception of military service during World War II. He was a teacher at Elon College and Washington and Lee University before coming to ECU in 1951.

In adopting the resolution, the board members asked that appreciation for his "personal concern for the enrichment of every citizen in Greenville," be made a matter of record and that the resolution of tribute be conveyed to a niece and nephew, his closest surviving relatives. Dr. Stewart was a native of Carlisle, Kentucky.

New Traffic Light Set Up

A traffic light, designed to control the flow of traffic into the Krogers and Pitt Plaza shopping areas, was placed in operation yesterday.

Officials of the State Highway Commission said the light was placed in service about 11:30 a.m. yesterday at the intersection of U.S. 264 and Arlington Boulevard (which has yet to be opened).

The light, officials said, currently features a protected lift-turn phase for west bound traffic on U.S. 264, which will allow through traffic heading west to continue.

The light will aid vehicles coming out of the Pitt Plaza and Kroger complex to make a safer exit as well as allowing west bound traffic to enter with more safety.

When Arlington Boulevard is opened to Evans Street, the light will also provide for a safer exit from the Kings and Winn-Dixie shopping area.

The maximum time for cars turning left (depending on the number turning) provided by the protected signal is 60 seconds.

South Viets Retake Firebase

By ROBERT TUCKMAN
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese troops have reoccupied embattled Firebase No. 6 near the Laotian frontier, the Saigon command announced today. Military sources said the two days of savage fighting took a high toll in South Vietnamese casualties.

These sources said more than half of the 350 South Vietnamese defenders were killed or wounded when an estimated 2,000 North Vietnamese stormed the base Wednesday and drove the two Saigon companies out.

Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, spokesman for the South Vietnamese command in Saigon, announced that South Vietnamese reinforcements reoccupied the artillery base Thursday afternoon. Apparently the North Vietnamese had pulled out; Hien said the reinforcements made no contact with enemy troops in moving back into the base.

Hien said the Saigon troops on their return found the bodies of 280 North Vietnamese in and around the base, which is in the jungled central highlands six miles east of the border. He reported 20 South Vietnamese killed and 25 wounded, but field reports indicated 200 or more South Vietnamese were killed, wounded or missing.

There was no word on the small group of U.S. advisers stationed at the base. Communist broadcasts claimed some U.S. advisers and South Vietnamese troops were taken prisoner.

The South Vietnamese had heavy American air support, including strikes by B52 bombers, fighter-bombers and helicopter gunships. At least two U.S. helicopters were shot down and destroyed.

The attack on Firebase No. 6 was the strongest of a series of assaults this week apparently made in retaliation for the South Vietnamese invasion of Laos.

Elsewhere in South Vietnam, the U.S. and South Vietnamese commands reported only scattered skirmishes.

At Khe Sanh, in the northwest corner of the country near the Laotian frontier, U.S. troops continued dismantling the big base that was used as a staging area for the campaign in Laos.

Several small units of U.S. troops remain at Khe Sanh but are expected to pull out soon.

In Cambodia, Communist forces launched a heavy ground attack against Cambodian troops at the village of Rolous, 48 miles northeast of Phnom Penh.

The Cambodian command in Phnom Penh said government troops counterattacked but added that no details of the fighting were available.

The command said that in earlier fighting at Rolous Wednesday, government troops killed 22 Communist soldiers and took casualties of five killed and 13 wounded.

Smithfield OKs March

By MELVIN LANG
Associated Press Writer

SMITHFIELD, N. C. (AP) — The Smithfield City Council met in special council today and approved a parade permit for about 150 black protestors on a trek from Wilmington to Raleigh.

The marchers then started their parade through the downtown area. Afterward they were to drive on to Raleigh where they hoped to present requests to state officials.

The group spent the night south of Smithfield after being told they could not march through the town without a parade permit. Leaders of the march filed a request for a permit and the marchers retired to a Negro church overnight.

Activity in downtown Smithfield appeared normal as the blacks marched. The only unusual signs were small groups of policemen clustered at intervals along the main street.

Policemen also accompanied the marchers.

Open Way To Teen-Agers On Some Draft Boards

By JOHN LENGEL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The prospect of younger draft board members, including teen-agers, is emerging in Congress at a time when it's increasingly difficult in a few areas to get anyone to serve.

The White House and Selective Service see it this way: Boards will be more representative and responsive, and draft history shows members of whatever stripe most often do conscientious, creditable jobs.

The age provision in a draft bill passed by the House Thursday gets at the question of old men sending young men off to war. The House bill calls for lowering the maximum age for board members from 75 to 65 and the minimum from 30 to 18. Length of service would be limited to 15 years, compared to the present 25-year restriction.

With passage of the bill, could an 18-year-old consider his own case?

"I want to see them as young as we can appoint them," sayd Draft Director Curtis Tarr, 46, "but I do not think a man should be in the position of judging his own case."

Just what kind of younger person may get on the board will be decided by the White House and Tarr. He sees several possibilities, such as sole survivors, women, and perhaps a young man who is 1A, but whose maximum exposure in the lottery has passed.

Regardless of their age, draft board members have tough decisions to make and service today is no lark.

"What used to be an honorable duty, one for the pillar of the community, is now in some locations one a lot of people don't like .... There is harassment in terms of nasty telephone calls, hate letters. There are greater work loads. There is a limit too to what one does with volunteerism," says one of Tarr's chief aides, Kenneth Coffey.

Though draft boards legally need meet once a month, they met at least once a week in some areas. A typical member goes to a meeting after supper, drags home in the wee hours and his volunteerism amounts to 30 to 35 hours a month. He'll have nothing to show at the end except a certificate of appreciation.

The chief work of a board of classifying the young man and the stickiest part concerns conscientious objectors. CO applications are running 9,000 a month with one in three being approved.

North Pitt Captures First Place In Kickoff To Pitt County Championships

The North Pitt Panthers captured first place in the North Pitt Invitational, held yesterday at East Carolina University's track.

The meet was billed as a forerunner for a Pitt County Track and Field Championship, which will hopefully be organized for next year's season. Such a meet would involve the four county schools, North Pitt, Conley, Ayden-Grifton and Farmville, along with Greenville's Rose High School.

North Pitt captured a total of 93 points in the meet to outdistance Ayden-Grifton, which finished with 70. Farmville was third with 58 points, while South Edgecombe had four, and Conley got one. Conley officially did not participate in the meet due to a misunderstanding about the site of the meet.

Overall, North Pitt took first place in seven events, AG won in three and Farmville took five. AG's greater depth, however, enabled it to surpass Farmville's overall total.

North Pitt winners were Mike Burroughs in the high jump, Curtis Adams in the Long jump, 100-yard dash, and the 220-yard dash; Dallas Little in the mile run, and Cleo Brown in the 440-yard dash. The 880 relay team of Peter Little, Larry Pippin, Adams and Lester Mooring also took a first.

Farmville's winners were Robert Tripp in the high hurdles and low hurdles, David Smith in the 880-yard run, John Dickinson in the 2-mile run, and the mile relay team of Tripp, Smith, Danny Moore and Grant Bullock.

The Ayden-Grifton winners were Mike Tripp in the shot and discus and Ken Cleaton in the pole vault.

North Pitt gained the lead in the meet after the first event and held onto it for the entire meet.

Varoom! There Goes The Gov.

ATLANTA (AP) — If you should see Georgia's Gov. Jimmy Carter wheeling a race car down one of Atlanta's freeways, be advised that he has been licensed to do so.

The sandy-haired, slightly built chief executive of Georgia entertained stock car racing's ace drivers at a reception and dinner at the governor's mansion Thursday night and picked up some free driving advice from the likes of A.J. Foyt, Richard Petty, Cale Yarborough and Pete Hamilton.

He also was made an honorary official of NASCAR, the sport's largest sanctioning body, and equipped:

"I am now permitted to drive a car faster than an acquaintance of mine who rides a bicycle backwards."

Carter was referring to his predecessor, Lester Maddox, who gained a measure of fame from his antics with bicycles.

The governor, who maintains that auto racing is his favorite sport, told the 28 drivers who attended the reception:

"Having you here is the greatest honor that I have had since I entered politics. You have been heroes to my family for years, and I have watched you in action at Daytona, Sebring and Atlanta. I have great respect for your courage and sportsmanship."

Foyt will start Sunday's $106,000 Atlanta 500 from the pole position.

Foyt, driving a Mercury owned by the Wood Brothersof Stuart, Va., was clocked at 155.152 miles per hour Thursday to win his third straight pole position in NASCAR Grand National racing this year.

Greene Central Nips Knights

SNOW HILL — Greene Central rallied in the fourth to tie Northern Nash, then pushed over a run in the ninth inning to break the deadlock and take a 6-5 victory yesterday.

It was the third straight Eastern Plains Conference win for the Rams, who have yet to lose in the conference. They are 3-2 overall.

Greene Central scored first, picking up two runs in the first. Robert Ivey singled and Mike Perry got a hit. Danny Whitley, Donald Taylor and Ron Bowen each walked in turn, forcing in Ivey and Perry for a 2-0 lead.

In the second, however, Northern Nash came up with three runs. Ennis reached on an error and Weaver advanced him with a single. Jones singled in Ennis, and Davis walked to lead the bases. Weaver and Jones then scored on back-to-back ground-outs.

The Knights added a run each in the third and fourth for a 5-2 lead.

But in the bottom of the fourth, the Rams came up with three to tie it up. Stevie Williamson walked, as did Johnny Johnson. Ivey slapped a double, scoring Williamson, and Johnson scored on Perry's groundout. Whitley then singled to drive in Ivey with the tieing run.

It stayed that way until the ninth inning, Johnson reached on a fielder's choice, and Ivey finished the game with a run-scoring triple to give Greene Central the victory.

Ivey finished the day with three hits, while Bob Scott had a pair.

The good taste of Old Crow begins with men who love to work with their hands.

Before we'll mill a kernel of grain to make Old Crow, experts like Jerry Simpson test samples by hand for appearance and color. It's the only way we know to make a good-tasting Bourbon.

Making Bourbon which tastes good, bottle after bottle, made Old Crow famous. Back in 1835, our people figured out the formula that took Bourbon-making out of the hit-or-miss category. Later, they handmade the first sour mash Bourbon. We still use our hands in making Old Crow.

After work, most of our men keep on using their hands. Jerry Simpson calls on the same craftsmanship maintaining the quality of our country Bourbon as he does upholstering this chair.

Over the years, craftsmanship like this has made Old Crow America's best-tasting Bourbon.

Long Shot Saves Warriors From Losing Four Straight To Bucks

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

A lucky long shot by Joe Ellis in the last second kept the Milwaukee Bucks from making a four-game sweep of the San Francisco Warriors in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

Ellis let fly with a 40-footer that turned an apparent 104-103 defeat into a 106-104 victory for the Warriors Thursday night and kept them alive in the Western Conference semifinals.

The basket from near the center of the floor put the Warriors ahead 105-104. A technical foul then was called on the Bucks for taking an extra time out and Jeff Mullins sank the free throw for the final point.

The New York Knicks eliminated Atlanta 111-107, Philadelphia shaded Baltimore 104-103 and Los Angeles routed Chicago 115-89 in the other playoff games Thursday.

Just three seconds before Ellis' dramatic shot, Oscar Robertson's short jumper had put the Bucks ahead in the game at Oakland, Calif.

Lew Alcindor of the Bucks and Jerry Lucas of the Warriors each scored 32 points to share the game's high scoring honors. The series now moves to Madison, Wis. for a Sunday afternoon game in which the Bucks, leading the best-of-7 series, 3-1, can wrap it up.

The Knicks took the first step toward their second straight NBA title by wiping out a nine-point deficit in the final quarter to beat Atlanta in New York.

The victory gave the Knicks the series, 4-1, and put them in the Eastern Conference final against either Philadelphia or Baltimore.

Archie Clark's free throw in the last minute was the winning point as the 76ers survived Baltimore's closing rally in Baltimore. The 76ers now hope to even the series at 3-3 by beating the Bullets in Philadelphia Saturday afternoon.

The Lakers, back home in Los Angeles, drubbed the Bulls behind Gail Goodrich's 33 points. The Lakers now lead the series 3-2 and can win it by beating the Bulls in Chicago Sunday afternoon.

Rookie Pete Maravich, who scored 31 points, paced Atlanta to its nine point lead before the Knicks rallied. Two free throws by Willis Reed put the Knicks ahead for good after Dave Stallworth had tied the score. Dave DeBusschere, with 29 points, led the New Yorkers.

Defense also was the key in the Lakers' rout of the Bulls.

Clark, who scored 31 points for the 76ers, made his winning free throw with 50 seconds left. That put Philadelphia ahead 104-101 which Earl Monroe of the Bullets cut to one with two free throws.

Billy Cunningham was high for the 76ers with 32 points. Monroe topped Baltimore with 26.

Texas beat Denver 115-109 to gain the last berth in the American Basketball Association playoffs which start with four games tonight.

New York is at Virginia, Floridians at Kentucky, Memphis at Indiana and Texas at Utah.

Trevino Still Looking Back

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Lee Trevino held an eight stroke lead over Gary Player going into today's second round in the $190,000 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament—but was far from confident.

"Eight strokes?" he sniffed. "Man, that's nothing with that little man. I'd feel a lot better about it if it was the last round and I had eight strokes on him.

"But right now, with him, that's nothing. He can make it up in one day."

Trevino fired a four-under-par 67 in Thursday's first round for a share of the top spot with veteran Miller Barber and New Zealand left-hander Bob Charles.

Player, the doughty little South African who is the defending champion in this tournament and who has won the last two tour events, struggled in with a fat 75, four over par.

"That's golf," the obviously disappointed Player said. "You have some good rounds and you have some bad ones. No one ever played the game who didn't have some bad rounds.

"I just had a bad putting day. But I can't blame anything. The conditions are the same for everyone. It's just my own fault."

Player drove one out of bounds and took a triple bogey seven. He once found the water and had to drop out. And he three-putted four times.

Trevino, Barber and Charles held a one-stroke lead over a group of five tied at 68. They were Australian Bruce Crampton, former Masters champion Art Wall, tour sophomore Jack Lewis, Pete Brown and Dave Eichelberger.

National amateur champ Lanny Wadkins topped a big bunch at 69 and U.S. Open King Tony Jacklin of England had a 70 in spite of a double bogey on his final hole.

Masters champ Billy Casper, just back from an extended vacation, matched Player's 75. Both must improve to make the 36-hole cut for the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday.

Trevino cut three strokes off par on his last four holes but, in characteristic fashion pointed to a 25-foot par-saving putt on his fourth hole as the key.

"I was one over at that time and thought if I bogeyed that one I'd miss the cut. I'd just brought my wife to this tournament. It cost $160 round-trip. If I miss the cut I've got to send her home tomorrow and I've just blown $160.

But he made the putt, turned one under, then closed in a rush. He sliced a three wood out of the trees to within eight feet of the flag on a par five, made the putt for an eagle three then knocked in a 15 foot birdie putt on the final hole.

Barber, second only to Arnold Palmer on the money-winning list, had two-putt birdies on two par fives and rolled in putts of 12 and 15 feet for birds on two other holes.

Charles closed with a string of four consecutive birdies starting on the 14th a par five that he two-putted.

Issell Is Top Scorer

NEW YORK (AP) — Super rookie Dan Issel of Kentucky, with a torrid stretch run, won the American Basketball Association's scoring title this season with a 29.88 average.

Issel used two 51-point efforts at the end of the season to nose out fast-closing Rick Barry of New York, who also had a 51-point night the final week and finished with a 29.39 average.

Issel scored 2,480 points to 1,734 for Barry. Pittsburgh's John Brisker was third with 2,315 points for a 29.30 mark.

Mel Daniels of Indiana won the rebounding title, also in the season's final days. He took top honors with a 17.99 average, but Denver's Julius Keye grabbed 131 rebounds in his last seven games to draw within half a rebound of Daniels in the final standings.

Zelmo Beaty of Utah took the two-point field goal honors with a .555 average; Carolina's George Lehmann finished in three-point field goal shooting with a .403 percentage.

Pirates Open Southern Quest In Doubleheader Against VMI

East Carolina University's baseball team opens up its Southern Conference schedule Sunday in Lexington, Va., against VMI.

The Pirates, last season's conference champions, have been having their problems this season and are currently riding a four-game losing streak. Coach Earl Smith's Bucs stand 2-5 on the season. ECU's baseball team has not had a losing season in 36 years.

Because of the drought, Smith will probably change his starting lineup around at Lexington. His regulars through the first seven games have been Ralph Lamm at third, either Mike Bradshaw or Dick Corrada at short, either Corrada or Bryan McNeely at second and either Troy Eason or Gus Roberson at first.

Stan Sneeden has been handling the catching duties along with freshman Rich McMahon while Larry Walters has been in left, Matt Walker in center and Mike Aldridge in right.

Sunday's game will be the Pirates first since losing a doubleheader to Virginia last Sunday. Smith will probably go with either Ron Hastings or Hal Baird on the mound. Both pitchers were losers against the Cavaliers here last weekend.

In other action on Saturday, ECU's tennis team will be out for their second straight win, hosting Appalachian State. The Pirates won their last outing against East Stroudsburg after losing two straight to Ohio and Ohio State.

Coach Bill Carson takes his track team to Columbia, S. C., for the State-Record Relays, an annual event featuring some of the top collegiate track stars in the South. The Pirates have won two of their three meets this season.

ECU's lacrosse team meets Virginia Tech at Williamsburg, Va., Saturday afternoon. The Pirates have won one of their two matches prior to a match this afternoon with Duke, also in Williamsburg.

ECU's golf team, runner-up to Furman in last season's Southern Conference Tournament, finishes play Saturday in the three-day Furman Invitational. The event is sponsored by Furman University.

Bucs Work Saturday

Over 200 high school football coaches will invade East Carolina University athletic facilities Saturday to take part in a clinic and to observe a full-scale scrimmage by the football team.

Buc Coach Sonny Randle said that the coaches would be attending the clinic for all over North Carolina and Virginia. The clinic will run from 8 a.m. to 12:20 p.m.

"We'll have a full-dress scrimmage, starting at 2 p.m., which will be open to the public as well as to the coaches attending the clinic," Randle said. "We invite everyone out to watch."

Randle said that this year's clinic is expected to be the "biggest and best ever" held at the university.

He also noted that Pat Fisher, a member of the Washington Redskins, will be in the Pirate camp today and Saturday, working with the defensive backs.

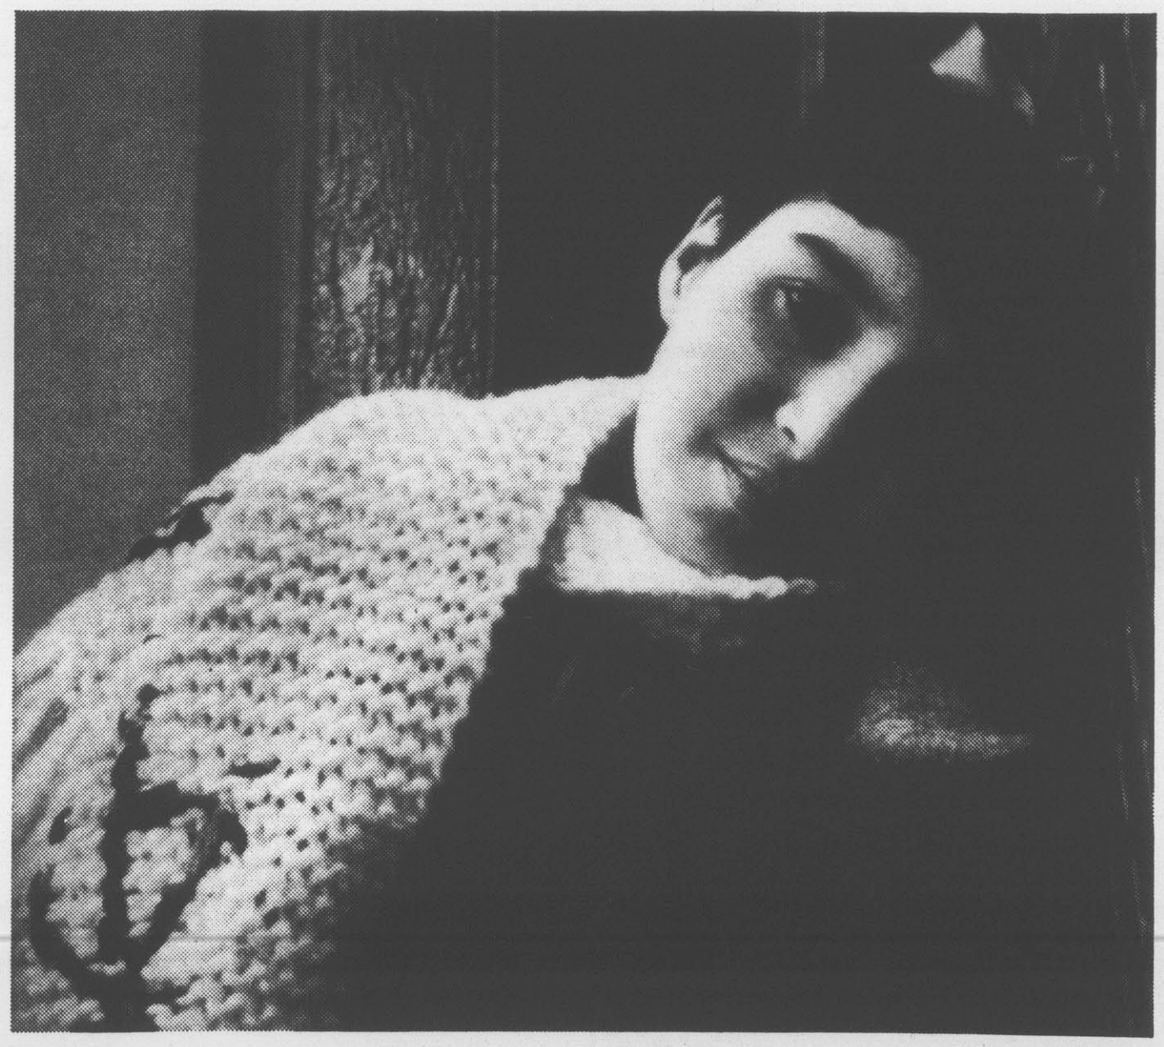
Beneath this soft and warm exterior, there lies a heart of plastic.



So far, it's only a valve. Eight-year-old Janet Hernandez has one.

It may not be long before a whole working heart will be made out of plastic.

Men in plastics research at Union Carbide are working on the almost impossible job of designing plastics compatible with the body.

Their most crucial job is making an ultra-thin polypropylene fabric for lining the inside of the heart. A fabric coated with parylene that will allow human tissue to grow into and around it to keep blood from clotting.

A plastic heart isn't the only part of the body we're working on. Maybe someday there will be a little plastic in all of us.

Right now, we've got you surrounded by our plastics. We were in plastics before most people knew the word. We make more plastics than anyone else. We haven't scratched the surface yet.

Why is a great big company like Union Carbide so concerned about a little bit of plastic for the body?

Because.

Beneath our corporate exterior, there beats a heart.

Reds, Pirates Are National Picks

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Pennant potential once again spreads from coast to coast in the National League this spring, but the balance of power still rests somewhere along the Ohio River between Cincinnati and Pittsburgh.

The Reds and Pirates, loaded with long-ball punch, are this corner's picks to beat off a flock of challengers in their division races and then slug it out in an October rematch of the 1970 pennant playoffs.

Cincinnati, a runaway winner in the West last year, scored a three-game knockout over Pittsburgh's East Division shamps in those playoffs, but fell apart against Baltimore in the World Series.

Los Angeles, bolstered by slugger Richie Allen, should give the Reds a run for the money in the West this time around. And Pittsburgh, the choice to repeat in another East dogfight, figures to push them to the five-game limit in the championship series.

But look for the Big Red Machine to overcome a rash of pre-season injuries and grind its way to the top again behind the run-producing wallop of Johnny Bench & Co.

This is how the windup looks from here:

East—1, Pittsburgh. 2, New York. 3, St. Louis. 4, Chicago. 5, Montreal. 6, Philadelphia. West—1, Cincinnati. 2, Los Angeles. 3, San Francisco. 4, Houston. 5, Atlanta, 6. San Diego.

Bench, the league's Most Valuable Player a year ago, when he paced the majors in home runs, 45, and runs batted in, 148, is the returning ringleader of the Cincinnati fence-busting gang.

His cronies include Tony Perez, Lee May, Pete Rose and Bernie Carbo, who combined for 110 more homers as the Reds rolled to 102 victories and a 14½-game margin over the second-place Dodgers in the West.

The 1971 Machine doubtless will miss center fielder Bob Tolan, out indefinitely after undergoing surgery to repair a torn Achilles tendon. A knee injury has sidelined May temporarily and Manager Sparky Anderson could run into pitching difficulties if 20-game winner Jim Merritt and young Wayne Simpson, 14-3 as a rookie, don't bounce back from arm ailments.

Pittsburgh, led by big hitters Willie Stargell, Roberto Clemente, Manny Sanguillen, Bob Robertson and Al Oliver, also had to overcome sore arms last year. But the Pirates added pitching depth through winter trades for fireballer Bob Johnson and Nelson Briles.

The Mets can't match Pittsburgh's offensive might, but their young arms—Tom Seaver, Jerry Koosman, Gary Gentry, Nolan Ryan—give them the finest pitching in the league, when it is healthy. Seaver, who won 18 games last year but tired during the stretch run, is the key man.

Cy Young Award winner Bog Gibson is St. Louis' mound ace. But the 23-game winner will need more pitching help from Steve Carlton, Jerry Reuss and Mike Torrez if the Cardinals, bouyed by trades that gave them Matty Alou and Ted Sizemore, are to rise up as serious contenders.

Age could catch up with the Cubs, who finished second a year ago with Billy Williams, Ron Santo and Jim Hickman, all over 30, leading the way. But pitching stars Ferguson Jenkins, Ken Holtzman and Bill Hands are young and strong enough to keep Leo Durocher's club close again.

The Expos are pinning their hopes for improvement on the right arm of Carl Morton, the league's 1970 Rookie of the Year, and veteran swingers Rusty Staub, Ron Fairly, Bob Bailey and Ron Hunt.

Philadelphia's pitching prospects appear bleak, but rookie outfielders Roger Freed and Joe Lis could supply some added punch.

The Dodgers beefed up their offense for the West Division race by obtaining Allen, the controversial strongman who crashed 34 homers last year, from St. Louis. Bill Singer heads a formidable pitching staff. Willie Davis and Wes Parker spark the attack.

Pitching ace Juan Marichal, coming off a sub-par season, and venerable Willie Mays, who will be 40 next month, are key figures for the Giants, who figure to get solid run-production from Willie McCovey, Bobby Bonds and Ken Henderson.

The Astros have a budding superstar in center fielder Cesar Cedeno, an outstanding pitcher in Larry Dierker and enough supporting talent to become a genuine threat.

Atlanta, however, could slide appreciably without NL batting champ Rico Carty, who will miss considerable action while recuperating from knee surgery.

Clarence Gaston and Nate Colbert are San Diego's big guns and Tom Phoebus, acquired from Baltimore, could be a pitching plus. But the Padres are a long way from putting it together.

Cage Leagues Again Reported Near Merger

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — Pro basketball's two warring leagues, the American and National Basketball Associations, have agreed in principle to a merger, the Roanoke Times said today.

"The owners of the two leagues agreed to the merger last week in New York," Sports Editor Bill Brill wrote, quoting a "reliable source."

"There are a lot of details to be worked out," the paper said, "but the merger is definitely coming."

Carl Scheer, president of the Carolina Cougars of the ABA and a former executive with the NBA, admitted Thursday that the two leagues were "closer than ever before" to a merger.

Scheer said, "There is a tiredness on both sides on going on with this terrible battle. Pro basketball has a bright future for the '70s, and we need to rid ourselves of the low gutter approach we find ourselves in now."

When the merger is officially announced, the Times said, it is likely that the two leagues will operate as separate entities for two or three years but with a common draft, such as pro football did when its two leagues finally merged.

"If and when the merger comes," said Scheer, "there either could be a complete integration of both leagues with a realignment, or the two leagues could operate separately.

"I think it would work best if they operated separately for a while, letting the ABA clubs build themselves in strength just as the American Football League did.

"It has become obvious to the NBA owners," Scheer said, "that the ABA is here to stay and that costs in both leagues have accelerated beyond any hope of saving your skin financially."

Contracts to college stars have risen to new heights this year. Artis Gilmore, Jacksonville's 7-2 All-American, signed with the Kentucky Colonels of the ABA for a reported $2.7 million.

The Times said the Gilmore contract figure was "pretty close." the long term contract with the Colonels was "all in cash," the Times said.

Scheer said one of the reasons why the merger has not been consumated "is that the owners didn't know each other. There has been very little interplay between the two leagues. but now both sides are determined to find out about each other."

Asked if the ABA, as expected, will continue to raid the NBA for players, Scheer said, "If it happens, I think it actually might help speed things up. It should further convince the NBA owners of the need for the merger."

Title Bout Set Tonite

LOS ANGELES (AP) — World bantamweight champion Chucho Castillo and Ruben Olivares, the young man he dethroned as kingpin of the 118-pounders, renew their bitter feud tonight in a 15-round title fight.

Favoritism has flipped from one camp to the other the past week. They'll probably rate about even when they climb through the ropes at the Forum in suburban Inglewood.

It marks the third time in less than a year these two fighters from Mexico City have met. Both encounters were scorchers. Olivares, now 24, successfully defended the title here April 18, 1970, by unanimous decision.

It was Castillo, 26, winning the title in this same Forum last Oct. The referee stopped the match in the 14th round because of a deep laceration over Olivares' left eye—a cut that originated from an accidental butt in the first round.

The trend toward Castillo stems mainly from Olivares' history of eye cuts. Castillo is a slashing puncher.

Olivares assured his supporters he would take care of such trouble" this time and promised he would knock Castillo out inside 10 rounds.

The voluble Ruben, however, in 29 rounds has been unable to deck Castillo while Chucho owns the only knockdown in the series—once in the first fight..

REALLY AN ALL STAR

DETROIT (UPI) — Gordie Howe of the Detroit Red Wings has been selected to play in 22 National Hockey League All-Star games during his 25-season active playing career. Howe's longevity and All-Star selection both are NHL records.

TWO REASONS
WHY THE SPECIAL
SOFT DRINK TAX IS UNFAIR AND
SHOULD BE REPEALED.

Those who can afford it least have to pay the most: Housewives who buy soft drinks for their families, children, working men and women — those who consume the most soft drinks — are singled out to pay more than their fair share of the tax burden every week, every day.

2.

The special soft drink tax is really a special food tax. In addition to the regular three or four per cent sales tax, housewives now pay a special tax on more than 100 different food items under provisions of the so-called special soft drink tax. This special tax is costing consumers throughout North Carolina about $18 million per year.

ONE WAY YOU CAN DO SOMETHING ABOUT IT.

If you resent having to pay more than your fair share of taxes just because you and your family enjoy soft drinks, please write to your legislator and urge him to repeal this unfair tax. The soft drink industry has pledged to remove the exact amount of the tax when the tax is repealed. That means you'll pay less for many food items for your family. So write to your legislator. Send your letter to your senator or representative, N.C. State Legislative Building, Raleigh, North Carolina 27602.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♡	1 NT
Pass	2 NT	Pass	3 NT
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Three of ♡

Whenever the combined assets do not leave the declarer much margin for error, he must exercise great care in the management of his resources. South, the declarer at three no trump in today's hand, displayed foresight as well as a deft touch to earn his triumph.

West had no very attractive lead of his own, so he decided to open the three of hearts despite the fact that he held only a singleton in his partner's suit. South made a very shrewd play at trick one from the dummy, when he covered with the eight instead of putting up an honor. If the jack of hearts is played, East can eliminate any subsequent entry to dummy in this suit by refusing to cover with the king.

East played the nine of hearts and declarer won the trick with the queen in his hand. At trick two he made his next unusual play, the ten of clubs. When West played low, the ten was permitted to ride for a finesse. It held the trick and South followed up by cashing the queen of clubs. A heart was led to dummy's ten to drive out the king and establish the jack of hearts as an entry to run the dummy's good clubs. In all, declarer scored five club tricks, three hearts and two aces to make four no trump.

It should be observed that declarer's first round finesse against the jack of clubs was merely a safety play to assure the success of his contract. If the finesse loses to the jack in East's hand, South wins the return in his own hand if either a spade or a diamond is led. He next plays the queen of clubs and overtakes in dummy to run the rest of the suit. The heart finesse may now be taken to give the declarer three heart tricks which along with four clubs and two aces add up to the required nine.

If South makes the routine play of cashing the high club honors, he is obliged to concede a trick to West's jack to establish dummy's long card in clubs. West can shift to a spade and declarer must hold off the ace for two rounds to break the communications in that suit. A diamond shift by East at this point will establish the setting tricks for the defense before declarer has dislodged the king of hearts.

On a lonely hill a man died slowly, nailed to a cross.

His crime — goodness.

He walked the hills of Judea and the shores of Gallilee, healing and comforting, loving everyone He met. Confidently, simply, He spoke of the Kingdom of Heaven, and crowds hurried to hear His vital words.

To some, His clear, sure talk of the Kingdom and the Way and of Himself the Son of God seemed a threat. And so He suffered on a cross, while a faithful few huddled in its shade and wept at the sacrifice.

Today, the shadow of that cross circles the globe, as people gather in churches around the world to remember that first Good Friday and give thanks for Jesus, the gift of a loving Father. His life and death and resurrection point the way for every man find joy in the reality of God's love.

Governor Asks Calley Clemency

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina Gov. Bob Scott says "the only way to resolve the dilemma" of Army Lt. William Calley's case is for President Nixon to grant him executive clemency and withdraw U.S. troops from Vietnam.

Scott said this Thursday in a telegram to President Nixon. The telegram was sent before Nixon ordered Calley released from the stockade pending a review of his conviction for the murder of at least 22 Vietnamese men, women and children at My Lai three years ago.

Calley was sentenced to life imprisonment Wednesday. The case is now on appeal, and Gov. Scott said "it may be years before a final disposition is made through the military and civilian channels."

"This nation," Scott said in the telegram, "sent Lt. Calley to Vietnam to fight, just as we sent other young men to fight. Fighting means killing. When we are fighting an enemy whose method is to kill to create terror, and when we cannot tell enemy from friend, there will be My Lais."

Scott said the United States became involved in Vietnam in 1956 "because we made a commitment to our Southeast Asian allies. I feel we have honored that commitment tenfold. I feel that now it is time for the United States to leave Vietnam."

In his lengthy telegram, the North Carolina governor said, "The Vietnam conflict has done more to tear the moral fiber of our nation than any event in our history. We send our young men into a foreign land to fight an enemy that cannot be distinguished from the people they are supposed to defend. We place them in life and death situations week after week and month after month in a land where the next trail may be boobytrapped to take another American life."

In saying it is time for the U.S. troops to pull out of Vietnam, Scott said: "we will leave with the lives of 45,000 of our finest young men as part of the awesome price. Part of the price too will be the economic scars our nation will bear for many years to come."

The governor said there is nothing good about war "unless we are fighting for our nation's survival. We are not."

"Our fighting men," he added, "did not create this war. They are being required to fight on the enemy's terms.

"We expect them to conduct themselves in a disciplined manner, but we have thrown them into a holocaust without telling them the rules of survival. They have to find out while fighting for their lives."

"We must face the fact," Scott said, "that killing and dying are part of war."

Natural Gas Hearing Set

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Utilities Commission plans to hold a hearing in May to obtain more data on a shortage of natural gas.

The commission concluded in an order Thursday that natural gas companies serving the state don't have the capability to adequately serve the public and are unable to get contracts sufficient for future requirements.

The companies are Piedmont Natural Gas, Public Service Co. of North Carolina, North Carolina Natural Gas, United States Gas Co. and North Carolina Gas Service. They receive their bulk gas from Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Co. and are directly affected by its ability to supply natural gas to them.

The commission said that because of the shortage incurred by Transcontinental, it needs more information to insure that the gas firms' customers receive service on a non-discriminatory basis.

It also said the five gas firms should expand their engineering studies and consider the "feasibility and economics of joint projects."

Behind Bill To Ensure Privacy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., is among 52 senators who introduced a bill Thursday to protect government employes against invasion of privacy by federal agencies.

Ervin said, "Probably no other group of citizens has been so subject to governmental monitoring, investigation and evaluation of their private lives. The Tar Heel is chairman of the Senate constitutional rights subcommittee and has been holding hearings on intelligence surveillance this winter.

Offer Fine Food And Wines Study

AMHERST, Mass. (UPI)— The University of Massachusetts' Division of Continuing Education offers a course "Fine Foods and Wines" where wine and more wine is served to students. Instructions are to "taste, drink and make note of your reactions."

"This is a fun course," says Dr. Donald Lindberg, head of the university's Department of Restaurant and Hotel Administration. "We'll have enough technical palaver to assuage the guilt feelings. If it turns out well, write it off as a business expense. If not, put it down as medical expense."

'Bathtub Collection' To Begin Saturday

A "bathtup collection" will be conducted in Greenville and Farmville on behalf of the Easter Seal Society by members of Lamda Chi Alpha Fraternity and Alpha Xi Delta Sorority Saturday.

The groups will carry a tub through downtown Greenville and Pitt Plaza and also through downtown Farmville. Easter lilies will be given to those who contribute, Pitt County Easter Seal Society chairman, Dr. James Butler and other community leaders will kick off the carrying of the tub from Greenville to Raleigh Saturday morning at 9 a.m.

The primary emphasis of the Society is to provide a health care program and services to the handicapped. In addition to other rehabilitation services, Easter Seal dollars support a statewide camping program for Camp Easter-in-the-Pines near South Pines.

April Talent Show Auditions Planned

Auditions have been announced for an April 19 talent show to be held at 8:15 p.m. in Wright Auditorium on East Carolina University, with cash prizes of $50, $25, and $15 going to the top three acts.

Garner Keel, chairman of Public Relations for Phi Mu Alpha professional music fraternity, gave details on the planned show which the fraternity is sponsoring for the purpose of raising money for a scholarship fund.

Two auditions have been scheduled at this time—one at 1:00 p.m. Saturday, April 3, and a second at 7:30 p.m. Monday, April 5. Both of these are being held in the School of Music building, with directions for the room to report to be posted on a sign at the entrance of the building.

Audition fees are being charged for those entering the talent show contest. Keel lists these as: $3.00 for any act of one to three people; $4.00 for an act consisting of four to six people; and $5.00 for any act of seven or more people.

Keel noted that the talent contest is open to just about all categories of entertainment—singing; instrumental playing; dancing; comic acts; dramatic monologues or skits; or other types of entertainment contestants may have to offer. There is no minimum or maximum age.

Also, in event interested persons or groups cannot attend auditions on the two dates listed, Keel said it would be possible to make other arrangements, provided the contestant called the School of Music and made arrangements for some other date.

Judging of auditions will be by music students and faculty members. For the judging of the April 19 talent show, faculty members will be judges.

Tickets for the April 19 talent show are now available at the School of Music—$1.00 for adults, and 75 cents for children through high school age.

All proceeds derived, both from auditions and sale of tickets, will be applied to the Phi Mu Alpha Scholarship Fund, which is used to help deserving students.

Garbage Cans No Booby-Trap

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)— Three bent garbage cans and a cardboard box caused a minor panic in a residential neighborhood at 7 p.m. until police took care of the situation.

The garbage cans were in the middle of the street with the box tied to them. Fearing a bomb booby-trap, residents called police, who cautiously approached the cans and opened the box. Inside was $6 and a note saying it was to pay for the damage a motorist had caused to the cans.

ARE TEACHERS SELFISH?

PEOPLE ARE SURPRISED TO FIND THAT:

I. Teachers are state employees.

II. Teachers are not paid during Christmas Holidays, Thanksgiving Holidays or Easter Holidays.
(city and county employees and other state employees have from 7 to 10 paid holidays per year)

III. Teachers are not paid during the summer vacation.
(city and county employees and other state employees have from 12 to 15 days paid vacation per year)

IV. Teachers are allowed 5 days sick leave per year.
(city and county employees and other state employees are allowed from 7 to 12 days sick leave per year)

V. Teachers are paid for 185 work days per year.
(180 of these days the students are in school. 5 days are designated for preparations and evaluation)

VI. Teachers have to renew their certification every 5 years. (this means going back to school on the teacher's time and at his expense)

This information is offered in order to clarify some apparent misunderstanding on the part of the general public concerning the fringe benefits of public school teachers.

Lost Use Of His Legs, He Learns To Fly

By DELL ARTHUR
Aberdeen Daily World

HOUQIAM, Wash. (AP) — After John Williamson lost the use of his legs he had difficulty getting to his favorite fishing lakes. He solved the problem by becoming a pilot certified for land and water landings.

"I always wanted to be an airplane pilot," said Williamson, 53, owner of Williamson Logging Co. He enrolled in a flying school with his eyes set on a commercial pilots license but had to change his plans when a logging accident severed his spinal cord.

When he was released from the hospital, Williamson said, "I figured my flying days were over." He went to work establishing his logging company and tried to ignore his urge to pilot a plane.

Then he visited his nephew Jack Duffy of Anglemount, B.C., and the two of them took Duffy's plane to scout timber.

"Jack would let me handle the controls when he were in the air," Williamson said. "One day I figured, 'heck', why can't some sort of rig be attached to the rudders of this thing? So when I got home I started making some inquiries."

Williamson found there were only seven paraplegics in the nation certified to fly at that time.

After some searching, he had a Piper Cherokee modified so he could operate the rudder controls by hand instead of with his feet and had the design approved by the Federal Aviation Administration. The Cherokee didn't use foot brakes but was operated with a handle.

He won FAA certification as a pilot and then began flying over some of the lakes he had fished in before his accident.

"About the only way you can get into some of those places is by airplane," he said. "I started wondering why I couldn't get water certification."

This time he had an amphibious plane modified so he could fly it with his hands and get in and out of the plane on water.

"Since the plane had hydraulic brakes we could make a device which could activate either the left brake, the right one or both merely by pushing a small lever."

"The tragedy is there are a lot of people like me who have a handicap but feel they can't ever do anything like flying," said Williamson.

Reject Only Bid Offered

A bid for grading, draining, and seeding of the football and track field at the new Ayden-Grifton High School was rejected Wednesday by the Pitt County Board of Education.

Arthur Alford, superintendent of the Pitt County Schools, said the bid was rejected because it was the only one received for the project. The bid, submitted by Barrus Construction Company, was not opened.

Alford said the project will be readvertised and bids will be opened on April 8 at 2 p.m. in the Pitt County Board of Education's meeting room.

The project also includes the preparation of the track itself, Alford said, which involves a special composition track as recommended by the architects.

Severe Critic Now Consultant

CHICAGO (AP) — One of Chicago's most severe theater critics now is a consultant on a theater staff.

Claudie Cassidy, former critic for a Chicago newspaper, will assist John Reich, producing director of Goodman Theater, in reading and evaluating more than 150 new plays that are submitted annually for possible production.

Plays selected for production will make up next season's program, Reich said.

Goodman Theater trains students in theatrical arts as a department of the Art Institute of Chicago.

None Opposed Extended Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — No North Carolina congressmen were among the 99 who opposed a two-year extension of the Selective Service Act Thursday. Democrats Nick Galifianakis and Roy Taylor were not recorded as voting on the bill, which passed, 293-99.

Vernam® Selective Herbicide lets your soybeans grow free

Your soybeans grow free from many grasses and weeds. Free from the growth stress that weeds cause. Free to develop strong, vigorous roots that reach down and make maximum use of soil nutrients and moisture. Free from extra cultivations, possible root damage and free of weed growth...makes your soybean combining operation easier at harvest time.

This season, use dependable, economical Vernam to get your crop off to a good start. Vernam is the only soybean herbicide recommended for nutgrass or nutsedge. It stops the tough weeds, including crabgrass, foxtails, coffeeweed, pigweeds, lambsquarters and others. Vernam liquid or granules are easy to handle and apply as you make your seedbed. Used at recommended rates, Vernam controls weeds without leaving harmful residues in the soil. Free yourself from work and worry...come by now for your supply of Vernam.
